MISSOURI WET FORCES WIN ELECTION

KLAN BEATEN AS KANSAS BALLOT ON NOMINATIONS

OKLAHOMA, HOWEVER, IS STRONG BEHIND KLAN BACKED ASPIRANT

(By the Associated Press) KANSAS CITY, Aug. 5.—Victory for the wets in Missouri and an apparent crushing defeat of Ku Klux Klan supporters in Kansas, appeared today as the outstanding results of Tuesday's primaries elections in six states.

In Oklahoma where the Klan was considered an open issue in one major contest, the order's reputed candidate led while the wet faction claimed the edge in Montana. With congressional nominations holding interest in two southern states, West Virginia returns indicated the renomination of the state's six representatives to congress, four of whom are republicans and one a democrat.

Incumbents Renominated Renomination of three republican senators was conceded when they amassed commanding pluralities with returns nearly complete. Senator Geo. Williams of Missouri routed his avowed dry opponents by large margins for the long and short terms nominations.

Former Congressman Harry B. Hawes, St. Louis democrat, and a wet, increased his lead in late returns to oppose Senator Williams in November. Late Oklahoma returns widened the gap in the democratic senatorial race in which J. C. (Jack) Walton, deposed governor, trailed Congressman Elmer Thomas by more than 11,000 votes.

Republican and democratic incumbents, with one exception, seemed assured of renomination in the Kansas congressional districts. Congressman Hays H. White, republican, was leading C. A. P. Falconer by only a few votes.

Four democratic and two republican Oklahoma congressmen were either unopposed or had large leads for renomination. In the third district Congressman Tinscher, Clifford R. Hope, republican, led the field by an apparently safe margin.

His program since that time has been along almost every phase of his work—addressing the Rotary Club in regard to his work; classes in swimming and life-saving for men in the afternoon, and classes in swimming for girls at six yesterday evening. Today, tests and examinations are being given for both Junior and Senior Red Cross Life-Saving Certificates.

Trio Of New York Youths Pass Here After Long Walk

Sunburned and tanned by exposure to all sorts of climate, somewhat dusty and begrimed, but in good spirits nevertheless, three boys, each about 15 years of age, spent the night here, and resumed their journey north and west this morning.

The boys are Frank Marin, Harry Handelman, and Murray Fogel, all of New York City, who are making a walking tour of the United States, from New York south and east to Brownsville, as the most southern point in Texas, and north and west into Nevada, and Idaho, and back east into New York.

Having left New York exactly a month ago, they have taken ample time to stop and visit points of interest along their route, and asking for rides on the highway. "We always stick to the highway," said Marin, "and we have found the people in the South very responsive to requests for 'lifts' than in the North. We are making a vacation trip of the states, just to see it all."

A week was spent by the trippers in Memphis, Tenn., before heading further south; and two days were taken off in Brownsville, where they tried picking cotton. Marin, the spokesman for the trio, stated that it was somewhat distasteful, however, and that they pushed on to San Antonio, where they visited the Alamo for two days in succession.

"We camp out at night, and buy provisions in the towns," he stated, "and in six weeks more we expect to be back at home after having completed a round-trip of the eastern, southern, western and northern states."

ATTORNEYS FILE NEW APPEAL AND WILL BATTLE ON

HOUSTON JUDGE DECLINES HIS APPEAL FOR WRIT OF HABEUS CORPUS

HOUSTON, Aug. 5. (AP)—District Judge Charles Ash today refused the application of Charles Ponzi of Boston, for a writ of Habeas Corpus. Ponzi was ordered turned over to the Massachusetts authorities.

Ponzi's attorneys, however, gave immediate notice of appeal to the court of criminal appeals which is to meet in Austin next October.

He May Stay in Houston The effect of the appeal, if prosecuted, will keep Ponzi in Houston until the higher court renders a decision. In the face of the application, Massachusetts authorities are powerless to move him from the state.

It was Ponzi's second attempt to avoid extradition to Massachusetts where he is under sentence of from 7 to 9 years as a "common and notorious thief" in connection with operation of his postal coupon reply scheme.

This fiscal struggle came to nothing when Governor William Ferguson, early this week ordered him extradited. Means while Ponzi has sued for a writ of habeas corpus, alleging among other things that his conviction in effect violated a treaty with the Italian Government and that he was illegally restrained of his liberty.

Crosbyton To Have New Phone Building

(Special To The Journal) CROSBYTON, Texas, Aug. 5.—E. H. Hendricks, telephone man here recently purchased a site 50x140 feet on corner of the square and has today broken the ground for brick structure. The building will be two stories and, according to Mr. Hendricks, every effort will be made to make the building one that any city would be proud of.

Faith in the great plains country is substantially shown by Hendricks who with two other associates have invested hundreds of thousands of dollars in telephone systems and toll lines. They have recently formed a $1,500,000 corporation that has telephone exchanges and toll lines reaching from Altus, Okla., to Clovis, New Mexico. He spent $15,000 on a residence here and states that he will likely put up an apartment house in the near future.

Denison Herald Is Destroyed by Fire

DENISON, Aug. 5. (AP)—Efforts to learn the cause of a fire which destroyed the plant of the Denison Herald, afternoon newspaper, here last night were unsuccessful today. The blaze which caused $50,000 damage and put the newspaper plant out of commission, followed an explosion in the rear of the newspaper press room on the ground floor. The theory that it was caused by accumulated gas has been advanced.

The Herald was preparing to occupy new quarters October 15, and had expected the arrival of new machinery this month. Undaunted by the loss, the Herald management today announced that they would not miss a single issue of the paper. Temporarily the Herald is being published in the plant of the Sherman Democrat, about 10 miles from Denison.

Kiwanians To Frolic At Municipal Park Tonight With Watermelons As Principal Feature; Ladies Honored

"Talk about your real watermelon—juicy and ice-cold—boy we ain't got nothin' else but!" That was the word given the Journal today by Garland Woodward, president of the Lubbock Kiwanis club, which should be cheering to at least two hundred Lubbock people tonight when the members of the Kiwanis club, with their ladies and invited guests, will hold sway at the Municipal park in their regular annual "ladies' night" program.

The program will last exactly one hour and twenty minutes. Judge Woodward said, and will get under way promptly at seven o'clock. An hour and twenty minutes should be long enough for even Hay Davidson to fill up with watermelon, the president said.

Kiwanian Hill Presides Kiwanian Allan Hill has been appointed master of ceremonies and Mayor Dick L. Parrish will be the biggest speaker of the evening, with his interpretation of "The Monroe Doctrine." To prove that the Kiwanians held no grudge against the Rotarians as the result of a recent baseball game at Merrill park, two members of the Rotary club will be the only other speakers of the evening. Dr. Paul W. Egan, will give a highly instructive lecture on "The Rotations of the Negro to the Watermelon," and Rev. Walter P. Jennings, sky-pilot deluxe, will talk about his best friends but has promised not to tell all he knows about them.

Kiwanians must come on time, President Woodward said, and be prepared to ante up a dollar for the evening's entertainment. Guests will be admitted upon invitation and the payment of an extra two-bits by their Kiwanian host, he said.

Conditions Are Scored "We further point to the significance of the patronage bestowed upon these military despois by the continuance of such recognition," the statement continues, "and particularly, by the discriminating favoritism shown to Calles by the continuance of the embargo, which makes the Calles ascendancy possible."

"We call upon the president and the state department to put an end to this ignominious contempt which has been shown by Calles for Americans' appeal, and to resolutely demand protection for American citizens and that they be treated with the same consideration and respect which is shown to me in this country."

McPherson Case Is Aired by Grand Jury

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 5. (AP)—The views of both the Los Angeles county grand jury and District Attorney Asa Keyes in the Timee Semple McPherson disappearance mystery were due for an airing when the payment of an extra two-bits by their Kiwanian host, he said.

Foreman Wm. H. Carter announced that the grand jury had reduced its findings to writing and that an open letter would be transmitted to the prosecutor today. Keyes has drafted a statement covering the entire case which he is expected to release today.

New Findings Made By Historical Club

(Special To The Journal) CANYON, Aug. 5.—J. Evetts Haley, field representative of the Panhandle Plains Historical society, together with Dr. C. A. Pierle of the Chemistry department of the West Texas State Teachers college, and a citizen of Miami, recently began excavations in a group of Indian graves, not far from Miami. The preliminary excavation by Haley and Pierle yielded an Indian skeleton, implement ornaments, etc. The work will be continued as fast as possible until the field has been thoroughly explored.

It is expected that the work which the society has begun will throw further light upon the mode of life of early settlers of a transition culture believed by Dr. Warren K. Morehead of the University of Pennsylvania to have existed in the Panhandle. Dr. Morehead was sent with an expedition by the university in 1921 to make explorations along the Canadian river regions.

Gasoline Explosion Is Fatal At Laredo

LAREDO, Texas, Aug. 5. (AP)—His body burned almost to a crisp as a result of an explosion caused by unloading a car of cased gasoline by the light of a lantern, Lazaro Ohvarez, 18, died at a hospital here last night.

The boy was assisting in unloading the car at Realitos near here, and as he was holding the lantern near the car door a case of the gasoline accidentally rolled out upon him and the lighted lantern caused an explosion which enveloped his body in flames.

Efforts to extinguish the flames by rolling him upon the ground and throwing loose sand upon him were futile, he was brought to Laredo by ambulance but died without regaining consciousness.

K. OF C. APPEALS TO U. S. TO HALT RELIGIOUS FUSS

RUSSIAN SOVIET CHARGED AS BEING MAIN FACTOR IN MEXICAN TROUBLE

(By the Associated Press) PHILADELPHIA, August 5.—The Knights of Columbus in annual convention today adopted a statement protesting against the policy of President Calles in the religious situation in Mexico.

The statement called the attention of the American government to "re-mind it that the representative of Calles have insulted and degraded and expelled American citizens, men and women, under circumstances that are abhorrent to our conception of constitutional government."

"We warn our fellow American citizens," the statement said, "that they cannot endure at their very door step with impunity, the Russianting of Mexico."

U. S. is Brought In After stating that religious and civil liberties have been denied in Mexico, the statement points out that the liberty and the pursuit of happiness are associated in the American declaration of independence and constitution had been created in Mexico "under American auspices, sustained by American executive authority which, in the first place, while refusing to recognize Trotsky, have by executive order, accepted Calles and Obregon, who are the enthusiastic supporters of the Bolshevik concept of government."

Conditions Are Scored "We further point to the significance of the patronage bestowed upon these military despois by the continuance of such recognition," the statement continues, "and particularly, by the discriminating favoritism shown to Calles by the continuance of the embargo, which makes the Calles ascendancy possible."

"We call upon the president and the state department to put an end to this ignominious contempt which has been shown by Calles for Americans' appeal, and to resolutely demand protection for American citizens and that they be treated with the same consideration and respect which is shown to me in this country."

A. F. of L. Brought In The statement calls upon the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated organizations to co-operate in safeguarding not only American rights "but the hard won victories on labor itself to protect it from servile submission to despotic autocrats."

"We hereby authorize our supreme board of directors to assess our membership to the extent of one million dollars for a campaign of education in safeguarding Soviet Russia shall be eliminated from the philosophy of America."

SAFETY! TODAY VS. YESTERDAY

Said Mother to Dad, "I hate to pick up a paper any more. All you read is accidents. Most of them are automobile accidents, but it seems that everything that can happen does happen. Look at this, a tank of acid blew up in a factory yesterday and killed a dozen people! Here's a railroad wreck, 29 killed and 50 in the hospital. A dance pavilion caved in on a pier and that sent some more to their graves. I never know what minute the telephone is going to ring to tell me that one of the children has been hurt. I do wish we lived in the safe and sane old days when neither work nor play was so dangerous."

Said Dad to Mother, "I see in today's paper that some young whipper-snapper of a doctor has discovered an anesthetic that is away ahead of anything they have found yet. It is applied locally and can be used on folks who have a weak heart and can't take the other kind. Oh, yes, I forgot to tell you, John Smith said their boy would have died but with the anesthetic he is now getting along. It was discovered just in time. He's only the second or third person in town to have it—he's getting well now. And while we're on the subject, mother, I'm going to remind you that if we had lived in the safe and sane old days, as you call them, our Bobby would have been dead of so-called peritonitis. As it is, he's as strong and well as Samson now, because it was called appendicitis and treated as such. No, you're all wrong, Mother. This may not be the safest age, but to my way of thinking it's the safest. Your children will live longer in spite of automobiles."

"But I won't," came back Mother. "I'll die of worry or nervous prostration."

"Oh, go on," laughed Dad. "That's the next thing they'll invent—nervous relaxer for worrying mothers."

But Mother had gone.

WOMAN'S
BY ALLENE SUMNER

PARIS, Aug. 5.—I have just returned from the races—the most famous races in the world. But I did not see a horse—not a single horse.

It was the world-famous Grand Prix classic at Longchamps, the yearly race which attracts horse lovers the world over.

I repeat, I did not see a single horse. But, oh, habemus we French say, what clothes I did see!

Most people, anyway, go to the races to see clothes—and not horses. It seems that here in Paris the race track at Longchamps is only an excuse for wearing all the clothes and diamonds and aligrettes that they wear.

When presented at court in England or at a White House reception at home, it seems strangely like the French who refuse butter with bread, but serve it as an appetizer with pickled snails and crawfish, to choose a dusty race track waltzer to wear costumes which would grace a ballroom.

My gentle readers may be interested in my own costume for Longchamps before I launch into a description of that which draped the Queen of Spain.

I wore some brown oxford coat with a rich layer of bois de rose and beige dust. My tweed coat had a plaque of green grass spots and may had had a coy dip where Pansy Heering had accidentally sat on it at lunch.

To be really truthful I did not assemble this chic costume for the races, but for a picnic in the Bois de Boulogne.

We had just eaten the last sardine when the people began to go by. We thought it was a five and started following—by taxi. As I have said, one can ride 43 miles for a nickel, so we made no inquiries about cost, but merely indicated that we would, you would follow the people.

And so we came to Longchamps. The reason we knew we were at Longchamps was because the taxi man held up his hands ten times and looked fierce, which meant that we had to pay 100 francs or he would call the gendarmes.

To add insult to injury he took us to the bad postal gate and we had to walk back to the main entrance of gendarmes and mannequins, where we left our lunch basket, behind the hind legs of the horse of the leader of the King and Queen of Spain and the President and Premier of France.

So that's how I came to Longchamps in my own special costume. Now I will say a word or so about some others.

CRUCIAL SERIES OPENS WITH WIN FOR MR. SPEAKER

TIGERS AND WASHINGTON BATTLE TO SPLIT IN 21 INNINGS

(By the Associated Press) Yankee scalps have been taken in the Indians' desperate stand against their most powerful American League foe.

George Uble, big right handed chief of the Cleveland mound staff, wielded the tomahawk in yesterday's conquest of the New York team, 4 to 2 and today his warriors are only nine game away from the American League leaders.

While this first of the critical games was going on, Washington and Detroit looked in two of the most heated baseball games of the year. The Tigers captured the first game in 10 innings 5 to 4, and the Senators the second in 11 frames, 11 to 7. Joe Harris of Washington hit two homers during the day, his second settling the issue by scoring three runs in the final inning of the second conflict.

White Sox Win

Bill Barrett inserted a very impressive base cleaning circuit blow in the seventh to give the White Sox a 7 to 3 margin over Boston. Todt of Boston also had a homer, Ted Lyons held the Red Sox to six hits.

Ernie Nevers, product of Stanford University and renowned as a carrier of footballs, allowed the Athletics scattered hits and the St. Louis Browns won, 3 to 1. Ken Williams aided him with a round trip smash. Cincinnati, runner-up in the National, rested while Pittsburgh divided a double bill with Boston, the Pirates new holding a lead of one full game. Bob Smith held the Pirates to six blows in the opening tussle and shut them out, 14 to 0, with his mates hitting safely 19 times. Pittsburgh made five errors, two by Carey, two by Wright and one by Traynor. The Braves again hit hard in the second affair but Lee Meadows, aided by the excellent batting of Wright and Cuyler, beat them, 5 to 2.

Bill Sherdel Wins

The score at Brooklyn was: Sherdel 8, Brooklyn 4. Left handed Bill of the Cardinals, always an undesirable at Sports Field, permitted eight hits but drove out a home run, triple and double. He scored two runs and batted in three enough to win the game.

Four games featured the Chicago Cubs' 12 inning victory over Philadelphia, 7 to 5. Wightstone and Williams doing the honors for the Phillies while Heathcote and Hartnett responded for Chicago.

DIAMOND DISPUTES ECIDED

By BILLY EVANS

How is it possible for a pitcher to be taken out of the box and then returned to his position as pitcher?

If a manager, for some reason desires to substitute a pitcher against a certain batsman and then revert to his original pitching selection, he may do so by simply shifting the pitcher to some other position while the substitute pitcher is performing.

In other words, a player may play in more than one position, in fact as many positions as desired, provided he does not leave the game.

Philosophic Note (or something): A tomato eventually turns to catsup but a heel is always a heel.

Another famous sport celebrity has followed the lead of Jack Dempsey. The king of things pugilistic, you'll recall, married Estelle Taylor, a movie queen a little more than a year ago. Now comes the engagement of Charley Paddock, world's "fastest human," and Bebe Daniels, also of the films.

Paddock turned actor a short time with Miss Daniels as his leading lady. A friendship grew between the two which quickly ripened into love. The announcement of their engagement followed.

NEW BLEACHERS FOR BUFFALOES' PLAYING FIELD

(Special To The Journal) CANYON, Texas, Aug. 5.—New bleachers which will seat 1300 people are being erected at the Buffalo athletic park in this city. With the seating capacity already in use, the park will take care of a large part of the people who will attend Buffalo games during the coming year.

Coach S. D. Burton, of the athletic regulations committee of the West Texas State Teachers college has announced that there will be a uniform charge of $1.00 per game during the coming football season with the exception of the games with Simmons university and Texas Tech. for which a charge of $1.50 will be made.

The game with Simmons university will be the occasion of the annual home-coming, and will be attended by hundreds of ex-students who will come for the game and the fete which always follows it.

QUATTLEBAUM HAS EASY TIME BEATING THE VISITORS, 10-2

With Quattlebaum doing the post-side hurling and Jackson and Anderson having perfect days at bat, the Lubbock Hubbers jumped on the offerings of Mr. Francis, Post City bombardier, and grabbed the opening of a three game series at Merrill park yesterday afternoon by a count of 10 to 4.

The Hubbers presented a slightly different line up, Gib Jackson favoring in the shortfield in place of Hamilton, who caught, and Snipe Connelly holding down first base while Quattlebaum assayed the mound duties. Two hurlers, Frank Hudspeth and Rufus Hale, played in the outer gardens in place of Messrs. Jackson and Connelly.

LANGFORD'S BAT BEATS TATOO ON BEAUMONT FENCE

Elton 'Sam' Langford, former Lubbock baseball player, who joined the Fort Worth Panthers at Beaumont and took his place in the Cat right garden against the Exporters yesterday, celebrated his return to his native Texas soil by bombarding the Beaumont hurler for three hits in five trips to the platter. One of Langford's wallopings was of the two ply variety.

Jakie Atz, Panther manager, has Langford awaiting in third hole and the big fellow seemed to like his new uniform. That Sam will get plenty of basehits in the Texas league, none of the followers of the game will doubt. Hal Deviney was on the hill for Beaumont when Langford started his murderous attack on Lone Star loop hurlers.

The NUT CRACKER by Joe Williams

There Are Enough Comedies On Broadway Now Without Staging Championship Bout In Gotham By JOE WILLIAMS. When you hear it said these days a man is only worth his weight in gold you can be pretty sure he's little more than a preliminary fighter.

Maybe one reason New York doesn't want the Dempsey-Tunney fight is that there are too many comedies on Broadway now.

Charlie Paddock didn't lose much time in proposing to Bebe Daniels. Still he never loses much time doing anything, come to think of it.

Mr. O'Goofy has just lifted his chin from a synthetic julep to observe that it was time this fellow Paddock quit running around and settled down.

Rube Ruth was fined $25 for speeding the other day in New York. But you'll notice he wasn't speeding in the direction of a new home run record.

Helen Willis writes that a youthful beginning is everything in tennis. As it concerns the alleged milder sex she may be right. But in regard to us fine upstanding male tipeds she is as wrong as a false bottom peck?

No man has a chance to be a success in tennis unless he can wear white flannels with a princely grace and is capable of looking thoroughly clownish with a Turkish towel wrapped around his head.

We see by the papers that a Pan-American chess tournament is being played. We have no idea what a Pan-American tournament of any kind is but we suspect it is made up of a bunch of European statesmen who have been told they can't borrow any more money in this country.

We are positively ashamed of Mr. Valentino talking about fighting in Chicago. Doesn't he know there are enough actors in the fight racket already?

While Mr. Valentino appears to be perfectly furious, it would not be surprising if some diplomat persuaded him to kiss and make up.

Old Tom Burgess has tried to swim the English channel 25 times. The poor fish!

Unusual Situation in Majors Not in the last 20 years has there been an earlier one to win a major league pennant than the present season.

With the two leagues nearing the 100-mark in games played, a glance at the percentage column of the American and National Leagues reveal a most unusual situation.

Only one of the 16 clubs, the New York Yankees, boasts a mark of better than .600. I cannot recall a similar state of affairs during my 21 years connection with the American League.

The National League race is a thriller with six clubs having a chance and promises to continue that way until the very end of the season.

In the American League, the Yankees are coasting along with a comfortable lead, made possible by two winning streaks of eight and sixteen games. The next five clubs are stumbling over each other for the possession of second place.

Recently Manager McGraw of the New York Giants made the statement that there wasn't a great team in either league and that any club capable of playing good baseball could win.

It seems that Manager McGraw said a mouthful.

This year the Boston Red Sox have been little more than a dormouse for the New York Americans. The Sox have been easy for the Yankees already the two clubs have played 17 games and of that number New York has recorded 14 victories, an average in excess of the 800 mark.

In a sense, the margin that the Yanks now enjoy as a lead over the rest of the field, has been due to the unusual success the New York club has had at the expense of Boston.

Revival of Drop Curve In the old days, the drop curve was used by quite a few of the leading pitchers. With the advent of the freak deliveries it practically dropped out of sight.

Because the drop curve was difficult to control and hard on the arm, was given as the reason for pitchers passing up its use.

This year there has been a revival of the drop curve in the majors. Flint Rhem of the St. Louis Cardinals has used it with great success. He won 10 straight with it.

I never saw a pitcher with a better drop curve than Walter Beall of the New York Yankees. Inability to get it over, however, has handicapped his efficiency.

Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox also resorts to it, although there isn't the sharp drop to his curve ball that goes with the deliveries of Beall and Rhem.

Walter Hagen, Leader Of America's Professional Golfers, Tells His Story Through Associated Press

The Associated Press herewith presents another series of articles illuminating national sports and their chief figures. It is a interview with Walter Hagen, leading professional golfer of the world, written by Alan J. Gould, sports editor. The interview is copyrighted by the Associated Press.

"Relax," Says Hagen (By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—"The duffers in golf who are struggling to 'break 100' can make a long stride toward their goal if they will follow the advice of no less an authority than Walter Hagen, and 'relax.'"

The American professional champion declares "relaxation" is the one thing that every golfer should learn, yet, "how many of them, knowing full well the advantage of loose, supple muscles, tighten up and become as stiff as a poker as they are about to hit the ball."

"This ruins more shots than any other one thing I can mention," says the premier professional.

He Strikes Keynote In thus passing on, through the Associated Press, what he regards as the most helpful of all hints he can give to the inexperienced, Hagen also strikes a key note in the remarkable score of his own career.

No champion in the game takes it any easier than Hagen, who learned this lesson some years ago in a disastrous attempt to keep pace with the irrefragable Veteran, Jack Hutchinson.

"Another good lesson I learned early," Hagen went on, "was at Garden City, in the P. G. A. tournament which I was beaten by Jerry Travers, one of the best amateurs that ever held a golf club. I was two up on him at the ninth and Jerry seemed to be playing ragged golf. His tee shots were uncertain and he was struggling to keep up. I figured I had the match won but Jerry suddenly came to life and beat me out.

"Don't Count Chickens" "It is a bad idea to figure a match won until it is over. The last putt may be the deciding factor."

Aided by these factors over a span of a dozen years in major tournament competition, Hagen has established himself as the greatest "pinch hitter" in the game, one of the most colorful and spectacular players that golf has ever known. He has won more "open" titles, shattered more records and staged more flourishing finishes for victories in that period than any other competitor. "Hagen's finish" on the links has become as famous to the sports world of today as was Garrison's in horse racing years ago.

Neither the widest rushes of the galleries nor the most rattling of situations apparently ever ruffle the even tempo of Hagen's shot-making or detract his attention from the main purpose in hand—playing the game.

He has a record of never having been beaten in a playoff for an important title and many of his greatest triumphs have found him calm and concentrating, oblivious to the nerve-racking elements in situations which have caused many another star to "blow up."

At the same time, the man who annually makes more than a president's salary for taking part in championships and exhibition matches regards golf more as a pleasure than a business, a fact which his friends believe is largely responsible for his unprecedented success. Hagen leaves all business arrangements to his manager or his associates in various enterprises, while he directs his own interest to the game, getting the full benefit of the sport and in it, as well as the competitive thrill.

World's Greatest Outfielder

Some baseball statisticians have expressed the opinion that twice as many ball games are lost through throwing the ball to the wrong base than on muffed fly balls.

I am inclined to agree with such a statement.

Throwing the ball to the proper base is one of the strongest fundamentals of good outfielding. It classes the player either as one who thinks or merely gets rid of the ball by throwing it in the general direction of the infield.

Scores of ball games are lost every year because some outfielder makes a foolish throw to the plate, there being no chance to get his man and thereupon permits a runner who should have been held to first to advance to second.

When a runner reaches second he can usually score on most any kind of hit. If held to first, as a rule, it takes a couple of base hits to drive him around.

Here is a choice bit of advice to all ambitious outfielders. It deals with the proper throwing of the ball with the winning or tying run on the bases.

To illustrate my point we will assume it is the first half of the ninth inning and the score is 4-5 in favor of the home team, two out and there is a runner on second, the tying run.

Proper baseball calls for the runner to get a big lead so as to be in a position to score if the batsman hits safely. In a majority of cases the runner on second can easily score on a safe hit.

The outfielder should remember this, and if he feels there is no chance for a play at the plate, should get the ball into second in order to hold the batsman to first. Foolish throwing of the ball to the plate would permit the batsman, the winning run, to reach second, where he would be in a position to score on a hit.

VINDICATION—ROT

Sooner or later the American public is going to get sick of this "vindication" rot in public office. When the public is fully awakened along this line and a candidate offers himself on a "vindication" platform, he's going to be beaten before the voters ever get to the polls.

Texas has had a taste, and a bitter one, of this "vindication" form of candidacy and just recently the rank and file of citizens of this great state, voiced in no uncertain terms, their feelings in regard to "vindication."

When voting time rolls around in Chicago most "vindication" rot may be expected. A bunch of those public officials, who have been running around with wop gangsters and bootleggers, are going to come back to the decent citizens of Illinois and ask for "vindication" with the same old background of "I've been terribly wronged."

What Texas needs—and what other parts of the United States needs worse—is not officials elected on "vindication" platforms but officials whose records both public and private, are unchallenged and spotless.

IT'S A SHAME

There's another shortage of money to meet the payroll of the Lubbock baseball club and once again those interested in seeing Lubbock have the kind of a ball team the city deserves, are being forced to make pleas to the general public for contributions.

It seems a shame that a city the size of Lubbock cannot, or at least will not, support a good baseball team without all of this hullabaloo every month, when there are South Plains towns not half as large as Lubbock which can and do support baseball teams without any trouble whatsoever.

HOWLING

Whenever, in any city, there are two business firms pitted against each other, and in the heat of competition one slips gradually behind—it's the slipping firm that tries to put up some kind of defense.

Whenever the service of a business falls by the wayside and that of another organization slowly but surely establishes itself as superior, remember it is the losing organization which grasps at straws to vainly endeavor to pull itself back into the good graces of its former constituents.

IN NEW YORK SEE-SAWING UP and DOWN BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—There's a little row of commonplace brick buildings in Manhattan where the lights burn brightly until dawn.

Keen eyes peer from the windows most intently in the hours between midnight and 3 o'clock. The banging of a police patrol siren in the street outside is the signal for a general flurry. Figures scurry down the stairs; street level doors open and darting shapes zig-zag into the darkness.

The patrol stops and police bring out a hysterical woman. Almost immediately the bevy of midnight harpies are upon her, chattering like magpies; each trying to catch the ear of the unfortunate one.

"Want a lawyer to represent you?" "Need some bail money?" Cards are thrust into the prisoner's hand. Hasty verbal deals are made as she stumbles up the prison stairs.

These are the "runners" for the lawyers and bond agents whose places of business circle the Jefferson Square prison. Figures scurry in the women's prison. Most of the practice is secured in the early hours of the morning. Fear-stricken women make easy prey. They clutch at the first straw.

Broadway supplies only a small fraction of this sordid early morning parade. Unless actual murder is committed, Broadway seeks to put the silence on its disturbances. Arrests are not good for the reputation of a cafe, particularly in these days of easy padlocks.

In one of the very popular night clubs, where the potpourri ranges from highest to lowest in society, brawls among bibulous ones can be witnessed almost any night.

From apartment "kettling parties" come many of the victims. Too much gin and too much jealousy mix badly—and a frightened girl comes limply from a patrol, hysterically crying: "Oh, why did I do it? I love him!"

All about the night harpies chattering their cry of "Want a lawyer, lady" and "Want some bail money."

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTER

COMING CONGRESSIONAL ELECTIONS WILL DECIDE FATE OF MR. COOLIDGE

By CHARLES P. STEWART WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Whether or not President Coolidge is a candidate for renomination in 1928 depends on the coming congressional elections.

If the administration is vindicated at the polls next November—that is, if a majority of the Coolidge kind of republicans are elected to the next senate and lower house—he can be renominated by wanting to be, and nobody doubts that he will.

If the democrats and insurgent republicans—a strong wave of insurgency in his own party will be worse for him than some democratic gains—get even the senate, to say nothing of the house, away from him, it will be a pretty convincing sign that the country has turned him down.

May Not Try. In that event it will be doubtful if he can be renominated, no matter how hard he tries, and the probabilities are he will say he prefers not to be a candidate again.

Political Washington assumes that President Coolidge, if eliminated himself, will try to throw the nomination to Secretary of Commerce Hoover. Hoover will hardly be much more satisfactory to republican insurgency than Coolidge is.

Still, a retiring president, even though he retires against his will, is in a position to be very helpful in his choice of a successor. In such a situation in 1928, Hoover's chances will depend on how strong republican progressivism is then.

If the progressive group in the party makes a formidable showing in the fall, Senator William E. Borah's presidential prospects will immediately improve. Without regarding Borah as a particularly safe bet yet, Washington's impression is that he may develop into one in short notice almost any time.

Lowden Strong. As a farmer's candidate, Frank O. Lowden is spoken of here as the likely selection. Should the corn belt prove, in November, to be in a frame of mind which absolutely demands placation, it is believed here that Lowden will be quite a likely choice.

Vice President Daves and Senator James E. Watson of Indiana are receptive farm candidates, too, but Daves' chances are not considered as good as Lowden's and Watson's are not deemed nearly as good.

Reports are coming from New York that ex-Secretary of State Hughes would like to have the presidential lightning strike him again. Washington politicians can see no especial reason why he should be nominated again but have hardly had time, since rumors of his candidacy began reaching here, to size up his prospects.

Senator Wadsworth, also of New York, evidently thinks well of himself as a candidate. At present nobody speaks of him as more than an extremely remote possibility, but a brilliant victory in the upper house of re-election to the year may bring him more to the front. Beaten, as he may be, he will sink entirely out of sight at once.

Nick Doubtful. Speaker Longworth is not considered very seriously, despite his endorsement by ex-Presidential Private Secretary Sloop. At the same time, it is recognized that he has in his wife a political manager of the very highest order.

Assistant Secretary of War McNider has a considerable following for 1928 and occasionally one hears his name mentioned in connection with 1928.

Six months ago 1928 republican presidential list was of President Coolidge almost exclusively. A good many candidates are under discussion today.

"Well," she says, "that last one was the seventh." And it made me so mad that I just got up and walked off to work without any breakfast.

Helpful Health Hints By DR. HUGH S. CUMMING

HEAT AND CONTAGION Now that the warm months are up-duce within us an exceptional craving for water and other drinks. It is well to recall the fact that there may be danger in satisfying this healthy thirst, unless care is exercised in doing so.

It is probably no exaggeration to say that every day there are in the United States an average of a million persons who suffer, or are recovering from some communicable disease of some kind.

Many Diseases. Among the most prevalent and the most damaging of these ailments are the so-called "respirator diseases" and also we should place here the ordinary contagious diseases, practically all of which are conveyed by the secretions of the nose and mouth, and consequently by the common drinking cup.

Included in these groups (respiratory and contagious diseases) are tuberculosis, scarlet fever, measles, whooping cough, cerebro-spinal meningitis, infantile paralysis, smallpox, chickenpox, mumps, German measles, septic sore throat, and last but not least, the common cold.

Highly Contagious. Some of these diseases may be conveyed in some other way, but certainly all of them may be conveyed by the secretions of the nose and mouth. They may be spread through articles that are carried to the mouth, such as glasses, cups, spoons, towels, handkerchiefs and pencils if such articles are used in common with other persons.

If one drinks from a glass that reaches him unsterilized from the previous use by a person whose mouth or lips contain the germs of any of the diseases conveyed by the secretions of the nose and mouth, he exposes himself to the danger of contracting them.

National Laws. In order to minimize the dangers of these diseases, and to prevent their being carried from one state to another, the secretary of the Public Health Service in the year 1921, forbade the use of common drinking cups on trains, steamers and other public carriers engaged in interstate commerce.

The majority of the states themselves have also enacted sanitary measures forbidding the use of the common drinking cup. In addition, many cities and towns have supplemented state laws and regulations with local ordinances which forbid the use of unsterilized drinking vessels at soda fountains, in hotel restaurants, theatres and other public places.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

A BUTTERFLY WITH A DARK PAST In length, and then begin a different mode of life, featured by heartless ingratitude toward their best friends, but by a commendable change of heart toward their fellow caterpillars.

When feeding on thyme blossoms these caterpillars are enthusiastic cannibals. If by unhappy chance two meet each other one promptly eats the other. But after the third moult they are no longer cannibals, and several will live happily together.

The ants are friends of theirs because toward the end of the body on the back the caterpillars have a honey gland that secretes a liquid of which ants are extremely fond. In order to secure this honey, the ants constantly attend the caterpillars and so far as possible protect them from all harm.

After the third moult the caterpillars lose all interest in thyme, and crawl down off the plants. They go into the nests of ants, into the homes of their protectors, where they comfortably take up quarters and fatten 'em up by eating the protectors' babies.

You would think the ants might protest against the eating of their young by these feeble little caterpillars. They could easily kill them if they wished to. But instead, if you disturb an ant's nest, the ants will carry the ferocious little caterpillars off to safety before they do their young.

With Our Contemporaries

STRANGE It has long seemed strange to us that Childrens does not boast a choral club. There are a great many excellent voices in Childrens and a highly musical asset could be developed with great pleasure to the singers. Most singers like to sing. And the more they sing, the better they sing—usually. At any rate, there are enough of the desirable kind of voices here to form a splendid choral club.—Childrens Post.

THE BEARDED LADIES Somebody is eternally taking the joy out of life. An agent opposed to bobbed hair has come forward in Chicago with the prediction that grandmothers of tomorrow may be stroking long, gray beards; because it has been found that the bobbing of woman's locks tends to encourage hirsute growth on the face.

We can imagine nothing more terrible than for the beautiful and bobbed girls and matrons of today—and they were never more beautiful—to have to suffer even a stubby, shaggy growth on their chins, to say nothing of long, gray beards, as it our guess that this prediction about the grandmothers of tomorrow is all bosh.

Sounds like propaganda for a tucking comb factory or a hairnet trust! It will be so accepted by those that have bobbed and found comfort in getting rid of tresses that proved not only unwieldy but quite heavy.—Temple Telegram.

BUFFALO Up at Buffalo, N. Y., and vicinity the death list from drinking bootleg whiskey composed in part of wood alcohol has reached forty-four in the last few days. Several arrests have been made and a nation-wide hunt is on for three alleged higher-ups who know, according to statements of authorities, that the beverage contained poison. It is to be hoped the Buffalo, now that it has an incentive, will clean up the bootleggers. Any one who shows such a small amount of common sense as to drink anything peddled by a bootlegger is taking long chances on a short stop on this earth and those who drink the stuff and die deserve little sympathy, but the men who make and sell such stuff deserve less. At least they should get a death sentence.—Quannah Tribune-Chief.

SCHOOL BONDS San Angelo's school improvement program may proceed at once now that the bonds have received the approval of the Attorney General's office. Delay was occasioned by the caution that bond attorneys took in inspecting them and in forwarding them to the Attorney General of Texas. The delay, hampering a school expansion program that is urgently needed here, came as the result of the doubt cast in buyers' minds relative to district bond bonds in Texas and the subsequent pronouncement of a representative of the Governor relative to validation. Texas' credit was then placed in a bad light, and San Angelo among others had to suffer.

What it cost San Angelo will be in evidence this fall when crowded conditions of the school last year are emphasized by additional pupils brought here by the influx of new people.—San Angelo Standard.

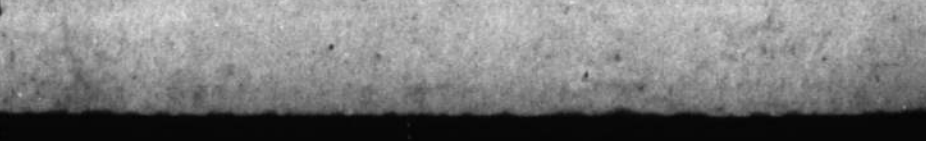

It promises to be an eventful year—Borah and Reed plan to take the court to the country and Wheeler and Andrews plan to take the country to court.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Little Joe FELLOW IS UP IN THE AIR WHEN HE HASN'T A FOOT TO STAND ON

THE VANITY CASE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

In Harbor Gardens, Long Island, in an elaborate bungalow, lived PERRY HEATH and his wife Myra. At the time the story opens the Heaths were entertaining as house guests:

LAWRENCE INMAN, a distant relative of Myra's and, aside from Perry, the only heir to her considerable fortune; and

Myra Heath was beautiful but cold and sarcastic. She did not love Perry. She never used cosmetics and hated of colors amounted almost to a passion. She collected rare old bottles and her latest was a whisky bottle which aroused her artistic husband to scorn.

Perry was a candidate for presidency of the Country Club. The other leading candidate was a man named SAM ANDERSON.

Myra, becoming provoked at the growing intimacy between Bunny and Perry, announces that she has made her will favoring Inman and cutting her husband off. She quarrels later with Perry and alludes mysteriously to his "secret."

That night Heath, stealing down stairs, discovers Inman in his wife's arms and orders him out of the house by morning.

The next morning Myra Heath's body is found in the studio. A candle is burning at her head and feet, she is made up with cosmetics and dressed in gay colors.

HERRICK, the butler, after calling the doctor, steals some money from a drawer near the body and then finds, at Myra's feet, a card marked, "The Work of Perry Heath."

She has been killed by a blow with her cherished whisky bottle. When the coroner comes, Inman and Bunny are strangely nervous when made to answer questions. Meanwhile, at the Country Club the murder is the topic of conversation among SAM ANDERSON, AL CUNNINGHAM and others. MRS. PRENTISS, tending her nephew, TODHUNTER BUCK, goes over to the Heaths and invites Bunny to stay at her house next door. Bunny breaks out crying and Buck, at sight of her beauty is his slave.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER X

Teddy felt decidedly out of it. The girl had not looked at him after the aunt's presentation of him, and he resented it. To be sure she was nearly frantic with fear and anxiety, but she might at least recognize his existence.

Nor was Bunny totally oblivious of this eager and would be helpful knight.

But she was so distracted with her woe. She was still suffering from the grief and shock of the whole affair, and she was distraught at the continued absence of Perry Heath.

Mrs. Prentiss was determined to see Myra's body, and having said a temporary goodbye to Bunny, she approached the guardian of the studio door just as Wallace Forbes, on the same errand bent, arrived there.

His cajolery and her claim as a sort of guardian of Miss Moore, won them an entrance, and the pair closed the door behind them and stood almost transfixed at the scene before them.

The blinds were drawn and the lights shaded, but Myra's face shone forth in a startling unearthly beauty.

She looked so alive; her careless relaxed position, seemingly that of a moment's abandonment to rest. "You knew her?" Forbes asked of Mrs. Prentiss, who was also gazing, as if spellbound at the strange, beautiful countenance.

"Yes, but I never saw her look like this! She never used cosmetics and she never wore gay colors."

"No, that's the inexplicable thing. Who fixed her up like that, and why? Was it done before she was killed—or after?"

"Oh horrors, Mr. Forbes, before, of course! Nobody, even a ghoul, could paint the face of a woman he had murdered!"

"It would seem so. But why would Mrs. Heath paint up like that, or allow any one else to do it?"

"Oh, that isn't unanswerable. She might have consented to try it for once—on a dare, maybe."

"Yes, that's true. But then, granting she did so, and that she donned the scarf and the beads in the same spirit of experiment, who came in and killed her?"

"You don't think the card means that it was her husband's deed, then?"

Mrs. Prentiss was always straight-forward of speech, and she asked the question bluntly.

But Forbes only replied by saying, "Do you?"

"I don't know. I know Perry Heath, and he always seemed to me a good-natured, easy-going man, but you can't tell what those quiet chaps will do on a sudden wild impulse. You a detective?"

"No, not a real one, but I'm interested in the subject, and especially so in this case, because of its own strange and especially so in this case because I know the people implicated."

"Well, then I'll tell you something, and you can advise me whether to tell it to the police or not."

"No, you listen. Last night, I couldn't sleep and pretty much all night I was up and around my room, and I looked over here a lot. And I saw strange goings and comings in this part of the Heaths house."

"What sort of goings and comings?"

"Not exactly the people, but the lights, they kept snapping on and off. First, there were full lights here. Then, about half-past eleven, they all went out—the lights, I mean—down stairs, and two or three bedrooms were lighted up. Then, about midnight, I saw a small faint light in this room—the studio of Mr. Heath's. And not more than ten or fifteen minutes after that, the full light flashed on in this same room. Well, sir, after a time those lights went off and there remained only two small sparks—those candles, there, that are now burnt out. I saw the two sparks low down, through the window, but I couldn't make out what they were. I never thought of candles on the floor!"

"Of course not. This story is very important, Mrs. Prentiss. Of course, you must tell it to the police; but go on and tell me the rest. Hurry it along, we may be interrupted at any minute now."

"Well, then, those little lights kept on burning—I realize now they were the candles—and later still, say, 'long about half-past one, the big light snapped on again."

"Then some one was here after the candles had been placed on the floor?"

"Yes, half an hour after."

"Go on."

"Go on."

"Yes, I'm not through yet. Then the big light went off and the two sparks showed again. And after another short interval on snaps the big light again."

"You amaze me, Mrs. Prentiss! Then people were in and out after the murder—"

"Well, we don't quite know that—but they were in and out after those candles were set burning. Then, if you please, the big light goes off and the candles show again. And that was well after two o'clock, I watched them a while and then I went back to bed and I fell asleep. That's all I know about it."

"And it's a lot. Of course, we can't explain the various lights—until we know more of the movements of the Heaths during the night. Perhaps the candles were lighted early, before Mrs. Heath was attacked at all."

"Maybe, but they were surely not put on the floor until after she was dead. Why would they be? They are an evidently meant as funeral candles. Why place them on the floor, at her head and feet, before she was dead?"

"You are right. When you saw the sparks, and didn't know they were candle flames, were they, do you think, where they are now?"

"Yes, exactly. They were right in line with my vision as I looked from my window."

"The police detective may experiment with other candles and see if you can verify their position."

"He may, if he chooses, but I know now those candles were right there where they are now, ever since one o'clock, or thereabouts, last night."

Levelland Ready For Big Party And Urges Lubbock Citizens To Enter In To Spirit Of Occasion; C. Of C. Busy

Levelland, sister city of Lubbock, has extended a cordial invitation to Lubbock citizens to attend their big celebration Friday and Saturday of this week and a big crowd is expected to go from here to the celebration according to Garland Woodward, member of the public relations committee of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce who stated Thursday morning that it is essential that Lubbock turn out strong to celebrate with Levelland in order that the good spirit of cooperation and friendship that exists between the two cities may be strengthened.

Last year when Levelland celebrated thousands of people thronged the streets and prairies of Levelland to see a new city in the process of building. The iron road from Lubbock west had just reached Levelland and was starting on the journey to El Paso. Buildings were in the process of erection. Farmers were busy breaking out thousands of acres of land and a new city was being built.

This year when the South Plains joins with Levelland in celebrating they will view a real live little city of a thousand people with twenty brick buildings which has grown from two frame structures in the past two years.

Friday is the big day of celebration while Saturday will be taken up with an automobile tour over Hockley county. The big crowds from Lubbock are expected to attend Friday and a large number will return Saturday. It is expected.

Fifty heaves will be barbecued and served with accessories to the visitors. Friday. Horse racing, the greased pigs, the greased pole and other sports and fun will be witnessed by the crowds. A dance will be staged on a big platform with a good orchestra Thursday evening and again Friday evening.

The visitors who are interested in rich agricultural land at a very reasonable price will be shown over Hockley County in automobiles Saturday, viewing land producing 50 bushels of corn per acre, three quarters of a bale of cotton per acre, a ton and a half of feed crops per acre and many acres of land awaiting the plow.

Taxes are low in the county without a dollar of bonded indebtedness and hundreds of good citizens are locating in Levelland and Hockley County each week.

Everyone who can go to Levelland to help make Lubbock's delegation as large as possible should attend the celebration of Friday at least, Garland Woodward stated Thursday morning.

INSULL HELPED SMITH, CHARGED

That's Belief of Candidate Who Tells His Story To Senate Probers

(By Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 5.—Frank L. Smith, republican senatorial nominee in Illinois, said today before the senate campaign funds committee that during the recent primary campaign he "understood" that Samuel Insull, Chicago public utilities magnate, had contributed funds to his candidacy.

"It was common talk in the campaign," Smith told chairman Reed. "In fact became an issue in the campaign and charges were made by opponents."

"Did you deny it?" Reed asked. "In a speech at Springfield during the campaign, I said that if one who had paid $25,000 in reduced rates to the public wanted to contribute to my campaign I saw no reason why he should not do so."

The chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, which controls rates on public utilities in the state, said he had no definite information from Allen F. Moore, his campaign manager, that Insull had actually contributed to his campaign fund.

The testimony is that the utilities executive gave $125,000 directly and spent $22,925.19 for propaganda against the world court which benefited Smith's candidacy.

Europe Continues As Best Customer Of United States
WASHINGTON, Aug. 5. (AP)—Europe continued as America's best customer during the fiscal year ended June 30, it was shown today in commerce department figures on the foreign trade of the twelve months.

Asia replaced Europe as the chief seller to the United States, due in a measure to the rubber trade.

Figures previously made public showed the United States had a favorable balance of trade for the year of $246,500,000, as against a favorable balance for the previous year of $1,600,000,000, the falling off being due largely to decreased prices of grain and cotton.

The exports to Europe for the fiscal year were $2,232,690,248, against $2,659,112,330 the previous year. Imports from Asia jumped from $1,274,892,928 to $1,170,519,682.

For the month of June this year American exports increased approximately $15,400,000 over June of last year, while imports increased approximately $12,000,000.

Russians Riot Over Change In Religion
MOSCOW, Aug. 5. (AP)—Special dispatches to the Pravda report serious disorders in Odessa arising from the transfer of several churches from the old orthodox church to the New Living, or Red, church.

Six priests of the older organization who were celebrating mass in the Alexiev church, in a suburb of Odessa, were attacked by angry crowds. The dispatches say women spat in the priests' faces, while friends of the priests rushed to their defense.

The disorders, according to the dispatches, are the culmination of a series of violent struggles which began in June between supporters of the late Patriarch Tikon and the adherents of the Living Church for possession of Odessa's places of worship. Many cases growing out of the affair are now being tried in the courts.

AMERICANS TELL TALE OF MEXICO
LAREDO, TEXAS, Aug. 5. (AP)—Forty-four persons arrived here this morning on the National Lines railway's train from Mexico. Most of them were Americans, including a number of women, the majority being from the Tampico oil district. The exodus of Americans from the Tampico section continues daily and while there has been no great rush there is a daily average of about twenty-five.

Two Americans arriving here today from Mexico City announced that an ominous calm pervaded the city and while there have been no disturbances since last Saturday they were apprehensive of the conditions. They state that the economic boycott is assuming greater proportions hourly in the Mexican capital and that many places of business will soon close their doors if the present condition of depression continues. Some merchants refuse to buy or sell goods, others are selling only the actual necessities of living to their patrons.

The Catholics, the new arrivals state, are maintaining an attitude of watchful waiting and are hopeful of soon bringing the government to terms of arbitration on the religious question. The many pleasure resorts of Mexico City are following the effect of the economic boycott and many are operating their institutions at a loss daily, they claim.

FARMERS STILL LAGGING BEHIND
They Have Slightly More Cash But Are At Disadvantage Compared With Others

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—While there was a moderate improvement in income from farm production for the year season 1925-26 the department of agriculture said today that farmers as a class were still at a financial disadvantage to industrial workers.

"If a conservative interest return is allowed on investment, the average farm family earned $648 for labor and management, or $24 more than in the preceding year," the department said. "Although this is considered above the average earnings during the severe years of depression, it is still nearly 30 percent below the earnings of 1919-20."

Factory Folks Better Off
Factory wage earners for the May three years have earned approximately the same that they did in 1919-20 and have been able to buy about 17 percent more than they could in 1919-20, while the farmer with his income has been able to buy about 29 percent less.

Gross income from agriculture was estimated at $12,415,000,000 compared with $12,992,000,000 for 1924-25. The total was made up of $9,891,000,000 computed as cash income from sales, and $2,524,000,000, the value of food and fuel consumed on farms.

9,000 Kansas Voters Are Barred At Polls

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 5. (AP)—More than 9,000 Kansas City Kansas voters were disenfranchised in the Kansas primary when Harry M. Swartz, election commissioner, caused their names to be stricken from the lists under an old election law which requires voters to register if they do not vote in a general election.

The action raised in a storm of protests and the bringing of a mandamus suit by one voter, Harleigh Benson, a lawyer, to compel the commissioner to certify his name. Benson proved he had been one of the first to vote in his precinct and was entitled to vote. The commissioner gave him a certificate enabling him to do so, but was scored by Judge W. H. McCambie before whom the action was brought.

Season's "Find"

WARREN COEN This 14-year old boy is being heralded as the tennis "find" of the season. Though he's only been swinging a racket a comparatively short time, he has impressed various critics that have seen him in action. Warren recently got into the headlines by playing two sets with Champion Bill Tilden, incidentally making a splendid showing. He lives in Kansas City.

Cotton Markets

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 5. (P)—The cotton market opened easy today despite the fact that cables were better than due. First trades showed losses of 2 to 3 points and the market eased off further after the start until they were six to seven points below yesterday's close. The initial drop was attributed to the good weather. Later prices rallied on short taking profits and October advanced to 17.17 and December to 17.04.

The market improved during the morning now the prospects for further good weather in the belt. The advance being attributed to covering by shorts ahead of the government report. October traded up to 17.25c, December to 17.15c and January to 17.10c. Near mid-session the market was steady and at the high points.

After advancing 22 to 25 points above the early lows and 15 to 18 points above the previous close owing to continued short covering, the market in the early afternoon turned easier owing to noon reports of good and warm weather in the belt. October trading down to 17.12, December to 16.95c and January to 16.95c. At the beginning of the final hour the market was steady. Exports for the day totalled 5,115 bales.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, Aug. 5. (P)—Cotton futures opened barely steady; October 17.22; December 17.12; January 17.17; March 17.37; May 17.51.

LIVERPOOL SPOTS

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 5. (P)—Cotton spot better demand and improved business; prices easier. American strict good middling 16.85; good middling 16.55; strict middling 16.30; middling 9.50; strict low middling 9.10; low middling 8.15; strict good ordinary 7.20; good ordinary 6.45; sales 19,000 bales, 5,400 American. Receipts 12,000 American 4,200.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 5. (P)—The cotton market opened barely steady today at a decline of 5 to 6 points with active months selling 7 to 9 points net lower, after the call under a renewal of liquidation, local and southern selling, promoted by a favorable view of the early weather news and relatively easy Liverpool cables. December sold off to 17.12 and March to 17.23, but there was some trade buying to fix prices as well as covering at the decline and prices rallied to about last night's closing figures by the end of the first half hour.

Rallies from the decline extended to 17.34 for December and 17.45c for March with active months generally showing net advances of about 3 to 6 points during the middle of the morning. There was a renewal of commission house selling on this bulge but the trade buying to fix prices continued while there was further covering and the market was steadied within four or five points of the best at midday.

December sold up to 17.34c, on the mid-day advance, or about 14 points net higher, but selling then became a little more active and the price eased off to 17.20c. The market was within a point or two of this figure at 2 o'clock, with the active months about net unchanged to 2 points lower.

STOCKS AND MONEY

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 5. (P)—Speculators for the advance struggled for control of the price movement at the opening of today's stock market, distributing buying orders over a broad list. The sentimental effect of an initial gain of more than 1 point in U. S. Steel common was offset by an opening decline of one point in General Motors, initial gains of a point or more also were recorded by General Electric, Radio corporation, and Allied Chemical.

The market broadened as trading progressed with new leaders brought forward in an apparent effort to increase public interest. General Motors quickly rallied four points from its opening price and Dupont recovered most of its initial six points drop before the end of the first half hour. Coppers were in brisk demand in response to a stiffening of Red Metal prices. Anaconda and Cerro de Pasco mounting to new high levels for the year. The continued ease of money rates, record breaking freight traffic for this season of the year and President Coolidge's references to business prosperity all helped to create bullish enthusiasm. Bulls were slow in joining the forward movement. An overnight drop of nearly 15 points in Spanish pesetas featured the early foreign exchange market, which displayed a heavy tone.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Aug. 5. (P)—Favorable weather in Canada and lower quotation at Liverpool led to early lower prices today in the wheat market here. erican life, and the ideals of liberty of conscience and democratic freedom may extend to our afflicted fellow human beings beyond the Rio Grande. "To this end," the statement concluded, "we pledge the support and co-operation of eight hundred thousand men who love God, who respect lawful authority, and who, in the discharge of their duty, fear not the force of evil, either on earth or from hell."

Rights Are Guarded

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5. (AP)—A reiteration that every precaution was being taken to safeguard the treaty rights of American nationals in Mexico was the only state department comment today on the statement of the Knights of Columbus relating to the Mexican situation.

Pessimism Pronounced

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 5.—Pessimism regarding the government and the Catholics was more pronounced today. Business depression, born of the economic boycott declared by Catholics in protest against the government religious regulations, is gripping portions of the republic and causing apprehension in other parts, including the capital.

Peace feelers have proved futile and there is a lessening of hope even among the numerous volunteers who have been making efforts to pave the way for an understanding.

Disturbances Greater

Newspaper dispatches from outlying points give belated reports of greater disturbances than have been recorded thus far. In a serious clash at Guadalajara one of the strongest Catholic centers in the country, six persons are reported to be dead and fourteen wounded. At Torreon, the newspapers report one is dead and eight are wounded, one person was killed at Cuernavaca and at Irapuato, a woman believed to have been a protestant, is said to have been beheaded by a crowd frantically excited over the suspension of Catholic services.

Capital Little Hurt

Apparently the capital is feeling the situation much less than some other parts of the republic, but many business men are filled with foreboding that a sharp pinch and business slow down are due here soon unless a settlement is reached. Small numbers of worshippers are seen in the Catholic churches which has been the case every day since the withdrawal of the priests. The Cathedral continues closed pending completion of the inventory of its treasures for the government.

Priest is Punished

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 5. (AP)—Father Dimas Anguiano, the Catholic priest of Alvarado, state of Vera Cruz, who accepted President Calles' government's religious regulations, has been excommunicated and suspended from priesthood. Bishop Guizar Y Valencia of Vera Cruz, who at present is in Mexico City has issued a manifesto to this effect.

Dispatches from Vera Cruz say that Father Anguiano asserts that he did not intend to rebel against the church; that he merely desired to point out his belief that the Holy See had been misinformed regarding the religious situation, because the government's regulations did not attack the church.

City Commission In Session On Thursday

The City commission met in special session at two o'clock this afternoon, on call of Mayor Pink L. Parrish.

Several items were to be brought up for discussion; among them a number of ordinances of the city, the ordinance for the right of the city to charge for the hauling of garbage to the incinerator, at the option of the city; a poll-tax ordinance for the city residents; and an ordinance whereby the water rates of city water might be raised, the rate to be set at the second reading of the proposed ordinance.

Mellon Calls Today On Italy's Premier

ROME, Aug. 5. (AP)—The American secretary of the treasury, Andrew Mellon, had an appointment today to be received by Premier Mussolini. The meeting, at the premier's office in the Chief Palace at 5 p. m., was said to be entirely personal.

Smith Says Railways Assured For W. Texas

FORT WORTH, Aug. 5. (AP)—Lona Smith, member of the Texas railroad commission, believes that certificates of necessity and convenience will be granted not only to the Texas Panhandle and Gulf railway, running from Fort Worth to Tucuman, New Mexico, but to three other lines as well.

Application of the Texas Panhandle and Gulf is before the I. C. C. at Washington at this time, as well as petitions by the Santa Fe, Fort Worth and Denver, and Quanah, Acme and Pacific.

"The bumper grain crop has brought it forcibly to the attention of the commission that West Texas needs greater rail facilities and I think this will be one of the deciding factors in its decision."

Confessed Murderer Wants To Be Hanged

SEATTLE, Wash., August 5. (AP)—Thomas Johnson, confessed murderer of fourteen persons, insists on being hanged and resisted efforts today to take him back to Minnesota because that state "hadn't" capital punishment. He said he preferred to go to Iowa, where they would execute him. Among the murders to which Johnson has confessed is that of Leonard Erdahl of Minneapolis on December 19 last. Detectives from that city are here to get Johnson, who is in jail.

DR. F. B. MALONE, LOCAL PHYSICIAN, left this morning for New York City, where he will study for three months eye, ear and nose surgery.

Woodrow Revival Highly Successful

Reports from the Methodist revival meeting under way at the Woodrow community indicate that a very successful meeting is being held. Wednesday night, more than two hundred people were present; and five members were received into the church.

The meeting is being conducted by Rev. C. A. Norcross, of the Lubbock circuit, and Rev. Hicks, of the O'Donnell circuit.

Beggs, Okla., Bank Is Robbed At Noon

BEGGS, Okla., Aug. 5. (AP)—The Farmers National bank of Beggs was robbed of $5,000 by four unknown bandits shortly after noon today. The bandits wore khaki uniforms and apparently from 21 to 25 years of age. Louis Steigleder, cashier, and two federal bank officers who were in the bank at the time were locked in the vault.
