TWO OKLAHOMA BOYS DROWN IN EARTHEN TANK

Murray Bows To Federal Court Power As Toll Bridge Barriers Go Down

TRAFFIC MOVES AGAIN ACROSS DURANT SPAN

'If They're Fool Enough to Pay, Let 'em' Says Governor

INQUIRY LAUNCHED

Use of Injunction to Halt Free Use to Be Investigated

DURANT, Okla., July 26. (AP)—Directing national guardsmen under his personal command to allow traffic to pass over the Red river toll bridge south of here, Gov. William H. Murray said late today the span might be used as long as a parallel free bridge is kept open to travel.

Guardsmen, however, remained in a narrow martial law zone before the toll bridge and the free structure bore all the Oklahoma-Texas traffic at that point.

Governor Murray hurried to the Oklahoma approach of the bridge last night after announcing he would "hold the fort" with national guardsmen against any efforts to enforce an injunction issued yesterday at Muskogee by Federal Judge Colin C. Neblett.

Barricades Removed

The injunction directed that those responsible cease interference with traffic over the bridge. In ordering removal of a barricade at the approach to the bridge, the governor said the toll structure would be left open as long as a parallel free structure, thrown open yesterday, was not closed to traffic.

Guardsmen Remain

Guardsmen, however, will remain at the martial law zone before the toll bridge until the controversy is ended, Governor Murray said.

McKeown, who will represent Governor Murray at a hearing on the Muskogee injunction Aug. 4, said one section of the order to enjoin dissemination of information to divert traffic from the toll bridge was in conflict with constitutional guarantee of free speech.

Governor Murray contended the court order, which did not name him, was complied with when he relieved Adj. Gen. Charles F. Barrett, one of the defendants, at the head of the little national guard contingent here and when he relieved all highway department employes named in the order.

Judge Neblett, said the governor, couldn't cite him for contempt. His order relieving A. R. Losh, state highway engineer, directed Losh and his employes to "obey the orders of the court and abstain from allacts complained of by the restraining order."

Murray Receives Thanks

If any contempt action was imminent tonight, both Clark Wasson, United States marshal and District Attorney Rampendahl at Muskogee said they knew nothing of it. The district attorney said a citation, if one is made, would necessarily come from Judge Neblett.

The governor's day at the bridge was spent largely in receiving thanks of citizens' delegations for his action toward opening the bridge. Two of the delegations—one from Denison and one from Gainesville, Texas, asked him to be a candidate for president on a state's right ticket.

While the guardsmen ate chicken and dumplings today, their cotton-clad commander-in-chief consumed fat bacon and cabbage.

Murray said that in leaving militiamen at the bridge he does not anticipate any need of employing physical force but he is confident armed deputy marshals would have been placed on duty by the toll bridge interests had the guardsmen not been first on the ground.

The soldiers, he said, would stay until the bridge matter is out of litigation. Opening of the free bridge, he said, might have been a temporary move to draw them away.

Another angle to the controversy was added today when Representative Tom McKeown, of Ada, Okla.,

CLEOPATRA'S NEEDLES

Was the name given two Egyptian obelisks, presented by the khedive of Egypt in 1877 to Great Britain and the United States. One stands on the London embankment, while its companion was placed in New York's Central park in 1880. The New York obelisk is 69 feet high and 7½ feet thick at the base, resting on four bronze sections. Though it stood undamaged by the dry Egyptian climate for three thousand years, the moist, salty air of New York has damaged its hetroglyphic covered sides. Years ago efforts were made to restore the surface, but now the figures have been practically destroyed. U. S. Steel Wage Cut Is Feared

By EARL L. SHAUB

WASHINGTON, July 26. (US)—Deep concern was felt in administration circles here today over persistent rumors that should United States Steel cut its dividend at Thursday's meeting of the directors this action will be followed by a cut in wages.

A wage slash by this big corporation would be keenly disappointing to President Hoover and his cabinet members who have contended that present wage scales are essential to the return of prosperity.

A reduction by U. S. Steel would be considered a precedent and would undoubtedly be followed by other members of the industry and allied industries and would be felt by millions of workers.

Soon after the depression started the president received a pledge from many industrial leaders that they would not reduce the pay of their employes. Labor leaders promised there would be no strikes so long as industry kept that pledge.

Fears of the administration are not only that reduced wages will curtail buying power by consumers and prolong the depression but that it will be followed by serious labor troubles.

The administration, however, is clinging to one ray of hope. That is the recent declaration of James A. Farrell, president of the steel corporation, who said that wages must stay up. He has supported the president's policy from the first.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said he would be surprised if the steel corporation reduced pay. He added: "Mr. Farrell and others have taken a determined stand for maintenance of wages. We have taken them at their word."

REPORT RAPS PENAL SYSTEM

Commission Deplores U. S. Penitentiaries

WASHINGTON, July 26. (AP)—The American penal system was adjudged a flat failure today by the Wickersham commission.

Reporting directly to President Hoover, the commission scored the use of brutal disciplinary measures and asserted conditions in many of the 3,000 institutions of the system were "almost incredible."

It told of men who, for offenses as slight as talking or laughing were shackled to doors for 12 hours a day, tied down under a stream of cold water, whipped, placed in straight jackets, confined in wire cages so small they could not move, or kept in complete darkness for days on end on a ration of four ounces of bread every 24 hours.

"The prison has failed as a disciplinary institution," the report said. "The riots, the fire, the use of cruel and brutal measures of punishment, the persistent recurrence of murder within the prison, presence of narcotics, the frequent atmosphere of hate and bitterness, are sufficient evidence.

"The prison has failed as an educational institution. No one claims

SCIENTISTS ON ARCTIC-BOUND GRAF ZEPPELIN

Great German Ship Takes Off From Leningrad With 46 Aboard

THRONG SEES START

Savants to Make Study of Uncharted Polar Territory

LENINGRAD, U. S. S. R., July 26. (US)—Bearing 12 Russian, German, and American scientists on a voyage of scientific observation beyond the arctic circle, the Graf Zeppelin left Commandansky airdrome here at 11:30 a. m. (3:30 a. m. central standard time) today.

Including the crew of 30 and four other passengers, the Graf is making its northern debut with 46 persons aboard.

Night of Feasting

The voyagers clamored aboard at Dr. Hugo Eckener's order following a night of feasting as guests of the Russian air officials here. The Graf's veteran commander gave the command to start after a seven-hour delay due to unfavorable weather in the northlands.

A crowd almost as large as the 100,000 who greeted the Graf's arrival from Berlin yesterday was on hand to cheer its departure. The passengers and crew went aboard clad in lighter arctic apparel to which they need only add a few layers as the Zeppelin flies farther North.

The Zeppelin was fueled and gassed for an eight-day voyage, but Dr. Eckener said he expected to be back in Leningrad by Friday or Saturday. Whether he can keep to his schedule, of course, depends largely on the weather.

Snowstorm Reported

Reports from the Hooker Island meteorological station that a heavy storm was raging over Franz Josef land at first made Dr. Eckener somewhat hesitant about starting. Later more favorable reports influenced him to give the command "up ship." He expected to sight Franz Josef land tomorrow before noon.

The Americans aboard are Lincold C. Ellsworth, veteran explorer, and Lieut. Com. Edward H. Smith, of the United States ice patrol.

From Leningrad the Zeppelin headed almost due north toward Archangel. From this northern outpost it will put out to sea heading for Novaya Zemlya land and Franz Josef land, between which Professor Rodolfe Samoilvich, scientific leader of the expedition, expects to sight as yet uncharted lands.

The return voyage will be made via Cape Chelyuskin and the northern Siberia coast to Archangel, thus drawing a loop around a great part of the world's unexplored territory.

Seven Business Houses At Kilgore Burned

KILGORE, Texas, July 26. (AP)—Seven business establishments of Kilgore's original business district were destroyed by fire early today. Damage was estimated at $50,000.

The fire was said to have been started by defective wiring in a theater. Spreading rapidly, it razed a barber shop, a cafe, a grocery store, a confectionery, a dance hall and a drug store.

In addition, the stock of a nearby clothing store was damaged by water and a large amount of the clothing in another establishment was carted away by thieves during the excitement.

Oil Well Fire Fighters Ordered to New Task

KILGORE, Texas, July 26. (AP)—Oklahoma miners who dug a tunnel at the Bell and Graddy well here which aided fire fighters in quelling the fire were under orders today to begin such an excavation at the burning Vitek well near Overton.

B. F. Delong, in charge of the fire fighters, indicated no other attempt to smother out the fire with chemicals would be made.

Princess Ileana Weds Austrian Business Man Amid Royal Splendor

By MAX PERLMANN

(Copyright, 1931, Universal Service, Inc.)

SINAIA, Rumania, July 26.—Ileana, Rumania's lovely princess, today became the bride of Archduke Anton of Hapsburg-Toscana in a setting as traditionally royal as her wooing was untraditional.

For when, surrounded by Balkan royalty and 300 noble guests and with all the mediaeval splendor of the Rumanian court, Ileana plighted her lasting love to Anton, she took for husband an Austrian nobleman who has made his own fortune in business.

As the last words that made them man and wife were spoken, Anton turned to his bride. Speaking softly in fervent English that only those in close attendance could overhear, she said:

"Darling."

They first met in Spain a year ago when the archduke, an expert airplane pilot, undertook to teach the princess how to fly.

A dual civil and religious ceremony united the 22-year-old daughter of Queen Marie and the 32-year-old nobleman.

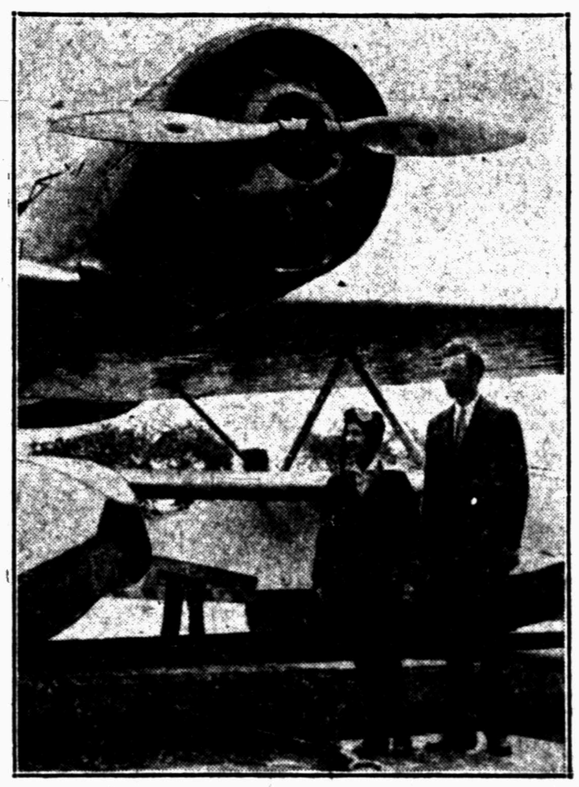

Tonight they are en route to Queen Marie's castle at Bran in Rumanian Transylvania where they will spend a week alone before travelling to London and Germany on their honeymoon.

The colorful ceremony began at 10 a. m. when the bride and bridegroom were united by the minister of justice. Only 10 members of both families attended the civil ceremony, from which the young couple drove in a four-horse carriage to Peleach palace, the royal summer castle, for the religious service.

Lindberghs and Ship Ready for Hop

Lindberghs Poised for Takeoff On Perilous Jaunt to Japan

Famous Fliers to Start Today or Tuesday on Hazardous Hop Over Canadian Wilderness

By HERMAN GIESKE

NEW YORK, July 26. (US)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh will fly away from Flushing bay tomorrow or Tuesday, unless the colonel changes his plans, on one of the most perilous of all the great American aviator's adventures.

On their forthcoming 7,100-mile jaunt to Japan, all the colonel's luck and skill will be pitted against the terrors of the Canadian wilderness—where for thousands of miles the terrain is so rugged and forested it would be impossible to set down a land plane in case of an emergency.

Pontoons Ready

It is for that reason the colonel's famous black and scarlet plane has been specially fitted with 22-foot metal pontoons. His intention is, in case of mechanical difficulties, to glide down from the sky onto one of the innumerable lakes that dot the eastern edge of Alaska.

Few, save lonely trappers, gold prospectors, missionaries, and intrepid Canadian mail fliers have ventured over the little-known country.

But the colonel's plane is swift, he is skillful, and Mrs. Lindbergh is just as brave, if not as skillful as he, and for that reason, the nation expects their great mechanical bird will make the trip with the precision of a fast express on smooth rails.

Route Mapped

Their route is:

New York or Washington to Ottawa, 336 miles; to Moose Factory, Canada, 461 miles; to Churchill on Hudson bay, 751.5 miles; to Baker lake, 377 miles, to Aklavik, near the Alaskan border, 1,115 miles; to Point Barrow, Alaska, 536 miles; to Nome, 523.5 miles; to Karaginsk,

OIL INQUIRIES NEARING CLOSE

Lawmakers Due to Start Legislating

AUSTIN, July 26. (AP)—Texas lawmakers, busy with the problem of oil conservation, expect to stop investigating and begin legislating during the coming week.

The session must end by the night of Aug. 12. That gives the legislators only two weeks and a half in which to prescribe a cure for the sick petroleum industry.

So far all the time has been spent in searching investigations. The house inquiry must be concluded tomorrow, unless members of that body vote to extend the time. About 20 witnesses remain on the list, but many house members have promised a determined fight against any extension.

Nazro Called

The senate questioning can continue through Wednesday and its members may extend the inquiry by majority vote. Underwood Nazro of Houston, executive of the Gulf company was expected to be one of the witnesses tomorrow or Tuesday.

Advocates of additional conservation laws occupied the witness stand most of last week. They included Gov. Ross S. Sterling, who reconvened the legislature July 14, W. S. Farish, president of the Humble company, R. C. Holmes, president of the Texas company and officials of the central proration committee.

Holmes' Recommendation

Holmes recommended enactment of a law giving a commission power to prohibit production above reasonable market demand. He believed his position was strengthened by the federal court decision Friday night holding the present method of proration illegal.

Under existing statutes, the railroad commission has power to prevent physical waste only. The court held that it was endeavoring to stop economic waste and that physical conservation was merely a subterfuge. Jacob Wolters, attorney for the Texas company, said the only way to relieve the industry was for the legislature to give a commission power to prevent economic waste.

Lawmakers differed on the effect of the federal court decision but it was certain to have a bearing on legislation. Attorneys for the railroad commission planned to appeal to the United States supreme court if a new law should not be enacted.

Under cross questioning, Farish yesterday told of a $900,000 loan made by the Humble company to Sterling in January, 1930. Farish said Sterling owned land, a part of the Moss Dome field in Chambers county and the loan was really advanced oil payments in return for Sterling agreeing to let the Humble shut down the field for one year.

EXPLOSION ON YACHT BURNS STAGE STARS

Harry Richman and Two Follies Beauties Hurt In Blast

PAIR RESCUES GIRL

Newspaper Columnist and Boat Captain Also Are Injured

NEW YORK, July 26. (US)—Harry Richman, one of the principals in Ziegfeld's "Follies" and two "Follies'" beauties were burned today one of the girls severely, when a gasoline explosion wrecked Richman's 36-foot cruiser at Greenport, L. I.

One of the show girls was Helen Walsh. She was dragged from the blazing cabin by Richman and Mark Hellinger, newspaper columnist, and thrown into the water. Richman then plunged in after her and saved her.

Three Men Hurt

The other show girl was Virginia Biddle who was burned about the legs. Also burned were Hellinger, Robert Levy, Richman's chauffeur, and Capt. Sam White, who had been engaged to take the party on a fishing trip.

The beautiful Gladys Glad, Hellinger's wife and one of the stars of the "Follies" escaped injury.

Just as the boat was to start, an explosion ripped out one side of the cruiser and blew off the roof of the cabin. It was followed by a sheet of flame.

Both Captain White and Miss Walsh were thrown into the air. They landed on the boat, which had caught fire.

Girl Rescued

Hellinger and Richman dragged Miss Walsh from beneath the cabin top. Her clothing had caught fire. Richman threw her into the water and leaped in after her. Hellinger assisted his wife and Miss Biddle to the pier.

The cruiser sank but arrangements were made to raise it as money, jewelry, and other personal belongings of the party were on board. The boat itself was said to cost more than $15,000.

'Marking Devices' Waste Millions, Says Report

WASHINGTON, July 26. (US)—The commerce department, after an intensive survey, today announced that nearly a million dollars a year is now being wasted by unscientific distribution of policeman's badges, automobile tags, rubber stamps, time clocks, and numbering machines.

A conference of the leaders in the marking devices field, which includes the items mentioned, will be called shortly in Chicago, Buffalo and Seattle, to study methods of reducing distribution costs.

Restocking of Streams To Yield Fish Supply

WASHINGTON, July 26. (US)—Increased facilities for restocking streams and woods promise to soon yield a continuous yearly crop of fish and game in the national forest reserves, comparable to the repetition of crops on a field, Chief Forest R. Y. Stuart stated today.

The total natural production of fish and wild life is inadequate to meet the ever-increasing demands for outdoor recreation, Stuart said.

What Will President Do Next?

By FRASER EDWARDS

WASHINGTON, July 25. (US)—President Hoover's double-headed international projects—the moratorium and disarmament—having failed to achieve the proportions of a twin master-stroke, Washington was wondering today as to his next move.

While there is considerable mystery attached to Secretary Stimson's visit to Berlin, Washington politicians and observers are unable to envision any chef d'ouvre resulting from his conferences with German officialdom. It may be that Stimson is really taking his deferred vacation as the president so cordially suggested.

The secretary of state, of course, will have a splendid opportunity to make some felicitious speeches to the Germans and thus become a sort of super-ambassador of good will. But, it is doubtful whether he will be able to offer Germany anything more substantial, say $100,000,000 of credit when her notes fall due at the end of the 90-day extension.

Secretary Mellon, however, scores a success on his moratorium mission to England and France. Since that seems to entitle him to a "real vacation," he no doubt will take it in his own way.

France has effectively dashed the president's high hopes of any agreement on disarmament at the Geneva conference in February of next year in her memorandum to the League of Nations, after Stimson started the ball down the field. Mussolini obligingly took the pass,

CHURCH RIOTS RACK STATE

Assassin of Vera Cruz Governor Held in Jail

JALAPA, State of Vera Cruz, Mexico, July 26. (AP)—A young man who attempted to assassinate Gov. Adalberto Tejeda was in a hospital today and many mob leaders were in jail after a night of rioting in this state capital in which four of the principal churches were damaged by fire.

In the city of Vera Cruz, two priests, Father Dario Acosta, 22, and Father Alberto Landa, 23, were killed in a raid on the Asuncion church while imparting religious instruction to a congregation of children last evening.

Immediately after he had been wounded by a shot in one ear, Governor Tejada declared from a balcony of the government palace here "despite this campaign of terrorism, I will carry out my plan."

The governor had warned that unless the Catholic church complied with the new state religious law limiting the number of priests in the state of Vera Cruz, he would take measures to enforce it.

15-Minute Battle

Eye witnesses to the attempted assassination of the governor yesterday said his assailant was shot down after a pistol fight which lasted 15 minutes, in which the governor and his assailant shot at each

Bishop Boaz Lays Cornerstone of First Methodist Education Building

Several hundred persons gathered at the new educational building of the First Methodist church Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock when the new cornerstone was laid and set with Bishop H. A. Boaz, D. D., of Dallas conducting the ceremony.

The names of the chairman of the building committee, J. T. Harrell; J. R. Ogle, secretary, and 14 other members of the committee with that of Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor; W. B. Hamilton, secretary; Ray C. Arnhold, architect and the Reed Construction company, builders, were all inscribed on the stone which was set in the corner of the building on Eleventh and Travis, facing Travis. Dr. C. A. Spragins, presiding elder of the district, and Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor of the church assisted Bishop Boaz.

Following the setting of this stone, the copper box deposited in the old stone in 1910 was replaced in that stone which had been set in the northwest corner of the building. Two adidtions were made to the contents of the copper box replacing of which awoke tender memories for many present. These two additions were a clipping about the service from page two of the Wichita Daily Times, July 26, 1931 and a letter signed by the bishop, presiding elder, pastor, Sunday school superintendent and chairman of the building committee which explained the reconveying of the contents of the former cornerstone, gave thanks for the church and prayed for future spiritual successes.

Bishop H. A. Boaz, D. D., preached the regular morning sermon following the impressive cornerstone services and Dr. E. V. Cole, editor of the Texas Christian Advocate, headquarters at Dallas, preached at the evening service

The bodies will be taken to Ringgold Monday. Joint funeral services will be held from the Methodist church. Rev. W. W. Carlton, present pastor, and Rev. M. C. Scott, Alvord former pastor, will officiate.

MURRAY BOWS TO U. S. ORDER

Toll Bridge at Durant Thrown Open

told the state executive that he would seek a congressional investigation of the use of federal injunctions to prevent use of free bridges over the Red river. McKeown described some provisions of Judge Neblett's order as "preposterous."

Takes Command

The governor, vociferous in his opposition to the injunction issued yesterday by Federal Judge Colin C. Neblett at Muskogee, came to his martial law zone last night, carrying an ancient horse pistol, and prepared to take command of his troops in the Red river bridge war.

Governor Murray previously ordered martial law in a narrow strip of land at the Oklahoma approach to the interstate bridge. He said he so acted to nullify the kind of court injunction obtained yesterday by the toll bridge owners.

Garbed in a cotton suit, the mustached commander-in-chief of the Oklahoma troops paraded today at the head of his army of 30 guardsmen. The parade was witnessed by visitors at the Red river "front" and recorded by a movie photographer.

Bridge Opened

A free bridge paralleling the toll structure was opened yesterday after a federal court injunction was dismissed in Texas. This was the main objective of the Oklahoma governor's bridge war. He originally ordered the opening of the free bridge despite the Texas injunction. The barricading of the toll bridge was inaugurated simultaneously with the opening of the free structure.

Gov. Ross Sterling of Texas, disapproving of the Oklahoma action, called out Texas rangers who rebarricaded the Texas approach and kept guard until the Texas injunction was dismissed yesterday.

After his conferences today Murray explained:

"The free bridge is open now. If folks are fool enough to want to pay 75 cents to cross here, let 'em do it."

Defies Order

After his arrival of the bridge, the governor declared Judge Neblett could not cite him for contempt for failure to allow the opening of the toll bridge. The judge declared he would so act if Murray refused to obey the court order.

With his arrival Murray ordered Bert McCaleb, highway division engineer and all other highway employes named in the injunction to leave the "front."

"How can they cite me for violating an injunction they did not serve on me?" he asked.

Crowd Gathers

He added that all provisions of the restraining order had been complied with, and that Adjutant General Charles F. Barrett had been relieved as active head of the guard because he was named in the order.

A holiday atmosphere pervaded the military zone today. Hundreds of persons from Texas and Oklahoma gathered at the scene of the picturesque Oklahoma governor's latest bid for fame.

The entire countryside is enthusiastic over announced plans for a gigantic celebration of the free bridge opening at some unannounced date in the near future.

Committees from Denison and Durant met at work today mapping plans for the "party," in which Governor Murray declared he would take a leading role.

(AP)—Horatio Nelson Atkinson III, 17-year-old son of former County Judge and Mrs. Norman Atkinson, was dead, and Henry Freeman, 18, also of Houston, was in a critical condition in a Brenham hospital tonight as a result of an early morning accident on the Brenham-Hempstead highway.

Atkinson was killed instantly when the car he was driving sideswiped a truck and trailer laden with more than four tons of iron east of Brenham.

Freeman was showered with glass and probably sustained concussion of the brain as well as serious internal injuries.

Two Mangum Boys Work at Taxidermy in Vacation Time

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., July 26.—David Northcutt and Bert Bratton Jr., 14-year-old Mangum boys spend their spare time in an interesting, gainful and educational hobby—taxidermy. Their "shop," located in the rear garden of the Northcutt home, presents the onlooker a miniature museum. About 50 animals and birds of various species and size greet the visitor with a striking pseudo-liveness. Among the collection are pigeons, canaries, a goat, moles and owls.

The boys have sold enough of their specimens since they started their experiment in March to pay for their correspondence lessons in the taxidermist's art.

other from behind pillars at the entrance to the government palace.

The governor's assailant, in a serious condition in the hospital, refused to divulge his name.

After the attack on the governor, a mob formed and, obtaining gasoline, at automobile filling stations, advanced against the churches.

Buildings Fired

Pouring gasoline on the walls, they set fire to the buildings.

The catchedral and the churches of Calvario, Beaterio and San Jose were damaged before fire was extinguished by police and troops. Several persons were injured when a wall of the San Jose church collapsed.

Police broke up the mob and made many arrests. The city was reported quiet today.

CHILEAN PRESIDENT RESIGNS IN TURMOIL

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 26. (US)—Capitulating to the demands of an anti-government junta, President Carlos Ibanez resigned his office at 1 p. m. today, following the most turbulent scenes the capital has witnessed since the beginning of the three-day's rioting.

Infuriated at the president's early obstinance in the face of repeated demands that he resign the virtual dictatorship he assumed in 1927, a mob seized and lynched five of the carbineers loyal to Ibanez. Many other casualties were reported.

The president's resignation is expected to clear the political atmosphere, made tense by 72 hours of continuous rioting in the capital and other important cities.

While Ibanez, for the past four years virtual Chilean dictator, left the capital for an unknown destination, it was unofficially reported that Ex-President Allessandri, who was deported by Ibanez, will head a new provisional government.

Santiago's populace greeted announcement of Ibanez's resignation with frenzied manifestations of joy. Crowds paraded the streets. No disorders were reported.

With the retiremen of Ibanez is expected the fall of the latest Chilean cabinet under Premier Carlos Froedden, since whose appointment on Friday the clashes of students and other groups of civilians with army forces loyal to Ibanez have resulted in more than 60 deaths.

With the demand that "Ibanez must go," the movement throughout the country and particularly in Santiago, for a general strike grew to such proportions today that the government was practically forced to give way to the populace.

Judges of the supreme court unanimously signed a demand during the night calling upon Ibanez to rescind orders permitting his loyal troops to fire upon citizens. More than 2,000 students of the University of Chile, who started anti-Ibanez agitation, and who remained barricaded on university grounds against attacks of troops for two days, were joined in their movement by almost the entire civil population.

Dallas Girl Sets New Record for Altitude

DALLAS, July 26. (AP)—Although her feat lacked official verification because she did not carry a sealed barograph in her plane, Miss Jene Larene, official of the Dallas Aviation school, bettered the official women's altitude record when she climbed to an altitude of 19,400 feet here today.

The official record is 18,926 feet and was established by Ruth Nichols.

Miss Larene sought the high altitudes as a test of the plane which she plans to use in the national air tour in August.

Miss Larene said she could have gone much higher but a sticking tank gauge led her to believe she was out of gas.

Stimson Continues Berlin Finance Parley

BERLIN, July 26. (US)—The intensive conversations on Germany's financial crisis, its political and economic effects, which were begun in London last Monday, were continued today in Berlin between U. S. Secretary of State Stimson and the German government, it was officially declared this evening.

Details of the conversations were not revealed, but it was regarded as significant that British Foreign Secretary Henderson left London for Berlin this morning, ostensibly to return the Chequers visit of Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius, of Germany.

REPORT RAPS PENAL SYSTEM

that the men who are released are better equipped to accept an honest role in the world than they were before commitment.

"The prison has failed as a business enterprise. With few exceptions our prison system is a costly and dependent institution. We spend on the average $350 each year for the maintenance of each individual prisoner in our penal institutions."

The commission asserted it was convinced "a new type of penal institutions must be developed." It outlined a plan of its own, under which only a few prisoners would be kept in heavily barred and guarded buildings.

Prisoners would receive wages. Those with contagious diseases, the insane and drug addicts would be segregated. Education would be stressed and wardens would be men who could be classed as "the president of a great educational institution."

The parole system would be developed "as the best means yet devised for releasing prisoners from confinement." No man would be sent to prison until it was "definitely determined that he was not a fit subject for probation.

Nevertheless, the commission criticized the present parole system as so undermanned, overworked and ill equipped that it had produced small results. In 18 states, it said, contact was made with paroles by correspondence alone, making it "easy to beat the game."

The commission devoted much of its report, which, with the addition of a report by an advisory committee of 24 experts, totaled 343 pages, to a denunciation of present prison conditions.

Three Jailed for Highway Ruction

Two women and a man were in the city jail here late Sunday night after engaging in an affray on the Henrietta road near the city limits.

Police were called to the scene by the report of residents of the section that "a woman is being killed."

One of the women alleged that the other two occupants of the car in which they were riding took turns beating her with an automobile crank. When taken to the police station she was bruised and scarred, without shoes and with clothes nearly torn from her body.

Officers Herbert Peters, Harry King and Bob Miller said that the man had hold of the woman's throat when they arrived on the scene. All three were booked for disturbing the peace. An additional charge of assault was placed against the man.

A crowd of people, estimated at 200, was drawn to the scene by the woman's screams.

Pneumonia Threatens Aged Survivors of Fire

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 26. (AP)—A fight began today to prevent pneumonia from taking the lives of many of those rescued from fire that destroyed the home for the aged of the Little Sisters of the Poor here Friday night and early Saturday.

The number of lives lost in the blaze meanwhile mounted to 39 over the week-end.

Fear that shock and exposure would exact their price was expressed even as the 250 victims were being borne into hospitals as the fire still raged. Today doctors and nurses toiled over more than 150 old and infirm men and women remaining to help them rebuild their waning strength to offset the ravages of disease.

Combatants Leave Police Station Arm-in-Arm

"What's one fight and $20 between friends," was the attitude taken by two youths charged with affray at the police station late Sunday night after the two had engaged in a fistic encounter in the alley of the 700 block on Travis street.

The two left the police station arm-in-arm, and laughing and joking about the fight. One of the youths put up $10 bond for each. They are roommates, according to the account given police.

but France intercepted it in a most disconcerting fashion.

The moratorium and the London conference being admittedly only stop-gap measures at best and the disarmament discussion having fizzled out before it was well started, it is obvious that Mr. Hoover must start at scratch again.

It is reported that the president has delegated Former Senator Henry Allen of Kansas, to go to England, study the dole system and write a series of articles for a syndicate to expose the economic fallacies and evils that have resulted from it. This, of course, is his first step in opposition to direct governmental relief appropriations which are sure to be demanded in the new congress, especially in view of the president's efforts in behalf of Europe.

Girl Murder Probers Fail to Uncover Clue

WHITE RIVER APACHE REServation, Ariz., July 26. (AP)—Officers investigating the death of Henrietta Schmerler, 23-year-old Columbia university ahthropology student, stood nonplussed today before the taciturnity of seven Indians under arrest.

Accepting their imprisonment stoically, the Indians were steadfastly silent as to themselves and refused also to comment on the detention of W. R. Warner, white man, arrested when his name was found in a letter written by Miss Schmerler and when an Indian deaf mute declared in the sign language he saw Warner placing the girl, dead or unconscious, in his automobile near Fort Apache.

Warner, held in the reservation guard house, denied he saw the girl July 18, the day she disappeared.

Four Killed as Car Plunges Into River

NEW YORK, July 26. (AP)—Two girls and two young men were killed today when a taxicab in which they were riding with four other persons careened past a warning light and plunged into the East river.

The dead were identified as Helen Bext, 16; Mary Snihur, 19; Thomas Gormely, 19, and Lewis Gurias, 20. From the position of their bodies when the car finally was hoisted out of the water five hours after the accident, it appeared they had waged a terrific struggle to escape from the machine.

Pair Held and Stolen Goods Recovered After Electra Burglaries

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, July 26.—Eight burglaries in Electra Saturday night and a series of recent housebreakings were believed solved Sunday with the arrest of two men and the recovery of a quantity of stolen goods hidden in the suspects' car.

The two men are in the Electra jail and will be taken to Wichita Falls for the filing of charges after a preliminary investigation Monday morning. A part of the goods has already been identified. The remainder is being held at the city hall and officials have requested victims of prowlers to view the recovered property for identification as soon as possible.

Eight homes in scattered sections of Electra were entered Saturday night. Clothing and jewelry, particularly watches, were stolen. Assistant Chief of Police Roy Hart and Jim Gordon from the constable's department, investigating the cases, arrested the men as they drove toward Iowa Park Sunday afternoon. The car was loaded with miscellaneous bits of clothing, suitcases and watches. Officers said the pair had been camping near Holliday.

The epidemic of burglaries and the recovery of the goods created a stir through the town Sunday and the city hall was crowded all afternoon. Eldon Scott identified clothing as his own; Floyd Neff claimed a watch stolen July 15; R. L. Hancock identified a watch; J. W. Hastings a bill fold; Melbin Hardy and T. H. Young, clothing.

Other clothing, a portable Victrola, a suitcase filled with working clothes, and other articles remain unidentified.

Hansen, 2007 Taylor, also was going south on Monroe. According to Tom Poe and Ed McDonald, city detectives who investigated, one of the cars started to turn at the intersection, causing all three machines to collide.

Dr. Massie was thrown against the steering wheel of his car, resulting in an injury to a rib.

ace, before a temporary altar flanked by huge torches, and attended by scores of bejewelled women and noblemen in court uniforms glittering with decorations, Ileana and Anton were again wedded—this time by Bishop Cisar of the Rumanian Catholic church.

King Carol, resplendant in his uniform of a general in the Rumanian alpinieri, led his sister to the altar. Anton's father, the Archduke Leopold Salvator, followed with dowager Queen Marie on his arm.

Then came Crown Prince Michael, Ileana's nephew, proud and manly in his uniform of the Rumanian flying cadets, Queen Marie wore white silk and a white straw hat. Queen Marie, of Jugoslavia, Ileana's sister, wore light blue, while ex-Queen Elisabeth of Greece, the oldest of dowager Queen Marie's three daughters, wore pink crepe de chine.

All the royal women were in tears as Ileana and Anton met before the altar—Ileana's dark beauty made all the more startling by the white crepe de chine gown she was wearing. Her 40-foot silver veil made a perfect oval of her face. On her head rested a gold coronet that gave her a regal appearance.

Bishop Cisar said mass, afterward exhorting Ileana not to forget her country when she goes abroad. The bride and bridegroom then exchanged rings and the bishop gave them his benediction.

Somewhat of a sensation was created among the gathered nobility when Ileana in repeating the formula in which she vowed loyalty and faith said: "I shall remain faithful to the church," not mentioning which church. An adherent of the Greek Orthodox church by birth, Ileana was yesterday baptised a Catholic in accordance with her husband's wishes. Anton pledged his faith as a Catholic.

Siberia, 1,067 miles; to Petropavlovsk, 454 miles; to Nemuro, Japan, 897 miles; to Tokyo, 613 miles.

Their only all water jump will be no great distance, compared with colonel's New York-to-Paris hop. They will fly over the Bering Sea between Nome and Karaginsk, but will be out of sight of land only momentarily. But as they approach the Kuril islands, a chain linking Kamchatka with Japan, they will be in what is called the "Cradle of Blizzards," where storms and fog abound.

Takes Precautions

Colonel Lindbergh, with his usual prudence, has prepared for disaster should it overtake him, while the presence of 300 gallons of gasoline in the metal pontoons would be highly dangerous in any "crash" descent on land, a pilot at a high altitude could probably glide to water. Even if the plane should be wrecked, the colonel will have with him a collapsible rubber boat into which he and Anne could scramble should the huge Lockheed prove unmanageable on top of the water.

The "NR-211" as the Lindbergh plane is numbered, will have radio for both sending and receiving. The receiver has a range of 20 to 1,050 meters, and the colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh will send on a range of 22.6 to 900 meters. They will also carry an emergency radio set with a radius of 500 miles. This could be used if they were forced down in a wilderness.

Last minute adjustments of the colonel's plane has now been completed at College Point, where the pontoons were installed.

No admission will be charged, it was said, and the public is invited. The Rev. Mr. Brooks will duplicate the program Tuesday night at the Grace Methodist church, and Wednesday night at the First Baptist church.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Summer Food

The children lose their appetites in hot weather. They no longer beg for a second piece of meat and they push their food about their plates instead of devouring it with a relish as they usually do. The heat slows their hunger. Yet they need food. It is time to change the menu.

Give them but little meat. Once a day is enough, if they want it at all. Some of it they should have, I believe. But give them attractive vegetables in plenty. It seems that there are people who do not know how to cook vegetables for children, or grownups, yet. They cover them with water and boil the life out of them. They cook away all color and flavor and leave the drab remains to be dished on the table. Nobody wants to eat drab vegetables. Life is sad enough without serving gray peas and blue potatoes. Peas must be emerald green and potatoes snowy balls, all fluffy on the outside. Or they can be heaps of snow piled in brown shells, seasoned with butter and salt and flecked and speckled with dark green parsley.

The carrots and peas, beans and cabbage, must be cooked in a thick pot with only enough water to save them from frizzling up. A quick fire to the boiling point, and then a slow fire. Read about it in the new cookbooks. Cookbooks are highly interesting reading especially when you have a family of youngsters who are asking for something to eat and telling you that they don't like it.

This is ice cream time. Ice cream is a fine food for children in warm weather. Give them plenty of it. But of course, it is best when made at home. Better yet when they can learn to make it for themselves. The sherbets are fine. The most heat-worn child will brighten up at sight of a dish of orange sherbet, or lemon ice, or whatever fruit is pressed into service that day. An ice restores the most wilted child in a jiffy.

Let the children eat out of doors as much as possible. Sandwiches and milk eaten under the maple tree taste like Christmas and Fourth of July and birthday all in one. The simplest food takes on flavor when it is eaten under the sky. It might seem like a lot of trouble but if the service is once organized, each child doing his share, it is easier than getting a meal indoors and serving it to fretful children.

In the picnic lunch we can have all sorts of things; sandwiches of whole wheat bread filled with whatever tasty thing is on hand. Dates and cream cheese—cream cheese is a faithful stand by. Nuts, peanut butter, green things—cress, spinach, lettuce, cabbage, flavored to taste, are fine. Sweet fillings—jams and jelly and marmalade and raisins and currants and honey. Meats—chicken and lamb and ham and tongue and odds and ends of meat left over. Eggs and tomatoes and peppers—anything that can be eaten can go into the sandwiches.

A change in the menu, a change in the routine sharpens the heat-dulled appetites.

Prizes For Work In Many Fields Offered Clubwomen

With about 90,000,000 of the people in the United States able to read, according to the General Federation Clubwoman, it would be difficult to suggest the number of clubwomen who have read of and taken interest in the prize offers for work open to women.

In Texas alone, there has been offered a prize of $500 for the best painting of a Texas subject; an offer made to perpetuate the beauty of Texas flowers and scenes by artists who recognize the atmosphere of the state. Several artists of Wichita Falls will take part in the contest.

The district federations and the state federations offer many prizes in music, art, drama, in home work and in standard club books. These offers are made to inculcate in Texas clubwomen a love always for bigger and better things and to uplift ideals a little more each year.

A patriotic contest opened April 1, 1931, which will run until Feb. 22, 1932. The contest is open to any one residing in the United States, who wishes to manifest admiration and loyal regard to George Washington through the medium of poetry. Poems are to be sent to Mrs. Charles Cyrus Marshall, 2239 Tiebout avenue, New York, N. Y.

Mrs. Marshall is president of the National Life Conservation society of New York City and this offer is made as a bi-centennial national poetry contest. A first prize of $50 is offered and there will be five other prizes of $10 each. All poems must be original, only one may be entered by one writer, none will be returned and none must exceed 20 lines—which is enough.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

It was merely a phrase used in a story but it struck me that it was the one thing every worker in the world is looking for now—"a light at the end of the road." You know how promising a light is after you have been lost in the dark.

Those wheat farmers who have lost from drouth, then from overproduction, may be willing enough to plant food crops for themselves and their families. Stock sounds good until the price of stock is quoted. But men who have been reared on a farm are natural born fighters; quitters cannot farm. But what they want is a gleam ahead promising they will get back to normal days and that they may count for their children those blessings they once counted.

So many little lights are needed. I talked the other day to a woman who worked as hard as her husband worked, but to keep their positions, they had to work apart. "I know John works now harder than he ever did," she said. "And I do too. But the one thing crucifying us both is not having a home together. We have to be apart to keep the children in school and fit them for life. And John is so tired," she said, "he doesn't even write to me."

"Well," I said, "you know he is well." "Yes," she answered, "but when evening comes, it would be like a light in the house if I could just have a word or line from him."

One would hardly call it a light at the end of the road, but this is a help in financial difficulties that the Nebraska farmers have just adopted. Grasshoppers came along and ate their crops. In turn they killed the grasshoppers and shipped their bodies in preservatives to fishermen in Michigan. They get 20 cents a pound for the bait which lightens things a little bit.

Then a news flash tells of one strangely human thing that has just happened. A woman in London was convicted of criminal libel and her blind husband said that she was the only ray of sunshine left in his life. Her sentence was suspended.

There's a very old fashioned song that would be ridiculous in 1931, "The Face That's Waiting at the Window." Sentiment, while it is the same thing it was years ago, is not guaged the same way and there may even be homes where the man of the house looks for a face at the window. We think however that's out of style. Mother is apt to be cooking dinner or out at bridge or golf. But she's the light.

One never knows what the light is that keeps another's heart going. One never knows of what ideals and dreams another is capable. To give them up is sadder than giving up human lives. It is much better for the body to be buried than the ideal that is "the light at the end of a road."

ALTUS CUTS CITY BUDGET

$161,977.40 Asked for Operation Next Year

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., July 26.—An appropriation of $161,977.40 which is $56,674.07 less than the $218,651.47 approved last year, is requested for operation of the several departments of the city of Altus for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932.

This estimate was approved this week by the city council and will be filed with the Jackson county excise board for consideration at the meeting of the board soon.

Although substantial cuts were made in all departments of the city the largest lump cut was in the appropriation for the operation of the light and water department. This department was cut from $140,650 last year to $106,086.40 for this year, making a difference of $34,563.60.

Salary Cuts

Actual expenditure necessary for the operation of the water and light department was figured in this estimate. No appropriation was made for new construction, Mayor L. A. Pelley said. Salary cuts will further reduce the expenditure of this department.

It is required by law that 10 per cent of the total estimate be added to take care of possible non-collection of taxes, Mayor Pelley said. With the added 10 per cent the estimate will be $178,175.14.

Collections Short

When warrants have been written to the extent of 80 per cent of the appropriation for the city the law requires that no more warrants be issued until collections in excess of 80 per cent have been collected. While the estimate last year was fixed at $218,651.47, only $194,000 was actually spent because sufficient collections were not made.

Appropriations were made with the idea of carrying on the government of the city with the number of employes now employed for the next year without impairing the service of the different departments, the mayor instructed.

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., July 26.—Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret James, 91, who died Friday morning at the home of her son, J. R. James of South Tenth street, were held at 9 a. m. Saturday at the First Presbyterian church. Rev. H. W. Stigler, pastor of the First Baptist church, conducted the services assisted by Rev. Joe Bishop, pastor of the Nazarene church. The pallbearers were J. T. James, a grandson, and Paul Collins, a grandson, both of Fort Worth, Texas; W. E. Culwell, a grandson living here; Max Leebrick, Sam Houston, and Albert Smith. Death was due to senility. Burial was made in the city cemetery.

James of San Barnido, Texas; Andrew James of Houston, Texas; H. A. James of California, and Tom James of Oklahoma City. Tom James was the only child at a distance who was able to attend the funeral.

Mrs. James was born in Missouri, later moving to Hunt county, Texas, and still later moving to Comanche county, Texas, while it was still a frontier town. She was accustomed to relate many incidents that occurred during the civil war. She once recalled the Indians coming into her yard and stealing her horses. For 17 years Mrs. James has made her home with her two children in Frederick during which time she has made many friends.

Oklahoma Girl Finds Radio Success After Start as $15 Crooner

Pretty 21-year-old Lee Wiley, who came east three years ago from Tulsa, Okla., seeking radio success, is getting along.

NEW YORK, July 26. (AP)—Radio once more has opened its portals to beauty—this time from Oklahoma.

She's pretty 21-year-old Lee Wiley, contralto crooner, whose rich, southern voice permeates the ether waves during the Leo Reisman orchestra period as an exclusive artist.

Born to cultured and musical parents at Tulsa, where she received careful training by her mother, singer and teacher, Miss Wiley naturally became a popular soprano.

First Job at KMOX

Later during her undergradute days at Oklahoma university she divided her time between her books and putting in appearances before the microphone. Her persistent effort to get somewhere with her singing soon brought her a job in the studios.

It was at station KMOX where she received her first salaried radio job, being paid $15 a week for crooning her ballads.

She came East about three years ago to study voice and music, and although her training fitted her admirably for the classics, she decided to become a popular crooning songstress rather than follow in the operatic footsteps of Ponselle and Pons.

A movie career was cut short by a long illness. She was doubling vocally for Esther Ralston and Josephine Dunne, screen stars, when she was offered a handsome movie contract, but had to pass it up when she became ill.

Claims Kin to Rogers

The contralto crooner has Indian blood in her veins, and claims distant kinship to Will Rogers.

She is fond of outdoor activities, particularly riding. She is an accomplished horse woman, having ridden since she was 3 years old.

Texans Abroad Chagrined to Know State Rangers Have Become Effete

They're Embarrassed When Asked Why Sterling Dispatched Whole Troop to Fight "War of Red River"

By FRASER EDWARDS
Universal Service

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Native Texans exiled in Washington and other places far from the noble Lone Star state are somewhat embarrassed by the indication that the Texas Rangers have become effete, if not effeminate. Otherwise, they ask, why should Gov. Ross Sterling of Texas, send an entire troop of rangers into the "battle of the bridges" along the Red river.

Time was when Texas governors sent a single ranger to quell riots, uprisings and revolutions. So it is little wonder that Texans hang their heads in shame when they compare the present performance with the exploits of Cap'n Bill McDonald, who had the reputation of being so brave that he "would charge hell with one bucket of water."

One Riot, One Ranger

They recall the time when Gov. Charlie Culberson sent Cap'n Bill to Dallas to stop the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight back in 1896. When Cap'n Bill swung off the train all by himself, he was told there would be a riot if he tried to stop the fight and was asked where the rest of the rangers were. To which the mild-mannered Bill replied:

"There ain't but one riot, is there?"

Cap'n Bill, who gained national fame as the bodyguard of Woodrow Wilson in the 1912 campaign, walked with another ranger into the army post at Brownsville and took prisoner 20 negro troopers of the 25th infantry after the riots there in 1906. He overrode all army authority with an automatic shotgun loaded with buckshot.

When "Fire-Alarm Joe" Foraker of Ohio protested the dismissal of the trooper with honor by President Roosevelt and expressed a desire to meet Cap'n Bill, during a senate debate, Senator Culberson said:

"Captain McDonald has never declined an invitation to 'meet' anybody in all his life and he is too old to change his habits now."

Cap'n Bill once killed four Mexican bandits who attempted to ambush him. Then he returned to Brownsville and went to morning and evening services next Sunday. His philosophy of the success of the rangers in "getting their man" was:

"No man in the wrong can stand up against a man in the right who just keeps a-comin'."

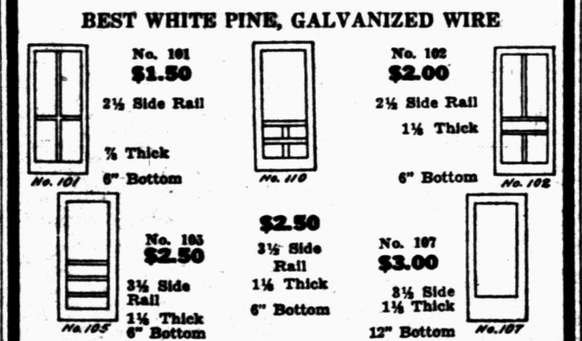

Still, the Texans hereabouts are relieved to know that the rangers haven't entirely forgotten how to use their shooting-irons. When "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, governor of Oklahoma, who is a Texan himself, remarked that "all the rangers can do is cuss and shoot craps," the boys showed the Oklahoma guardsmen how to split a deck of cards with a pistol fired upside down and to light matches at 50 paces.

While Texans still like to talk about Cap'n Bill, Captain Hays, who has a Texas county named after him, Captain McNeily and Sergeant Sullivan, who apologized once because he had only killed three men in his life, there are still some rangers of the old school. One of these is Adjt. Gen. Bill Sterling, a former ranger captain.

On a recent visit to Washington, a restaurant waiter brought him a steak too rare. Bill roared:

"Take that steak back and cook it. I've seen steers hurt worse than that and get well."

CHILLICOTHE MARKETS CROP

Big Wheat Harvest Cleaned Up During Week

Special to The Record News.

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, July 26.—Practically all of the best wheat yield of the Chillicothe area for several years has been marketed this week, according to statements made by local dealers. The yield is said to be about 140,000 bushels for this area, most all of the grain testing 61 pounds and better. Some wheat has tested as high as 64 pounds. The Kell elevator has stored most of its wheat, but the Red elevator will ship out about 75 carloads for the season, according to Luther Rutledge, owner.

Much of the wheat is being marketed at the Moore Flour mill in exchange for flour. This mill is receiving wheat from distant sections and running night and day. For the entire county the wheat yield is estimated at about 380,000 bushels. There have been 96 carloads shipped from Goodnight, and it is expected that point will exceed other parts in gross tonnage. Some of the wheat in this section was damaged to some extent by smut, but precautions have been taken in way of doctoring seed wheat for the 1932 crop and most of this disease will be eliminated. However the smut was such as not to be serious in this section.

SUNSET, Texas, July 26.—Guffry McDaniel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don McDaniel, has been ill for two weeks and his condition indicates that he may be compelled to remain in bed for several more days. He has slow fever.

A revival has been in progress for several days at Denver, seven miles north of Sunset. The preaching is being done by Rev. Mrs. Viola Daniels of Duncan, Okla. Large crowds are attending the services.

Mrs. John Smith has been seriously ill for several days but is slowly improving. She is afflicted with heart and stomach ailments.

Rev. C. D. Droomgole of Waurika, Okla., is conducting a revival at the Lake Valley Baptist church, five miles east of Sunset.

Crops of all kinds here are making fine progress as a result of the good rain which fell here a week ago. A new growth of grass is getting a good start in stock pastures.

About 70 professions of religion were reported as results of a two-week camp meeting recently closed, at Brushy Baptist church, three miles north of Fruitland.

Immediately after the recent overflow of water in the creek valleys here, Dee Chesser, a truck farmer in Denton creek valley, north of Sunset, gathered and sold 2,200 pounds of green tomatoes, at one cent a pound. The overflow ruined Mr. Chesser's prospect for a fine crop of tomatoes and melons. It ruined the crop prospects of all of the truck farmers who cultivated crops in the creek valleys in this section. All such as tomato and melon vines that were covered by muddy water are dying.

A revival has been in progress for the past several days at the Sunset M. E. church, South. The preaching is being done by Rev. C. B. Garret of Jacksboro.

Wisconsin made one-fourth of the Italian cheese manufactured in the United States last year. Production totaled 1,500,000 pounds.

A Gloomy Outlook

THE latest forecast of the practical nature of television, when it is really ready for general consumption, casts rather a gloomy and disturbing atmosphere over the entire prospect.

It is a picture of trade labels, of coffee cans, cereal boxes and window cards being forced upon our innocent eyes in the midst of our eagerness to enjoy some attractive song and dance act. The picture is drawn by Orrin E. Dunlap Jr., radio editor of the New York Times, in his new book, "Radio in Advertising."

Dunlap goes into quite a detailed explanation of how this will be done.

"A new model automobile revolving on a turntable before a televisor," he suggests. "A silver polish . . . visually demonstrated in a more effective way than mere words can describe it."

Then he goes into instructive detail.

"Hold the tarnished silver knife," he says, "in front of the electric eyes. Then use the magic polish and let the housewives of the nation see at a glance how bright and new the old piece of cutlery looks after the magic remedy has been applied."

There must have been a snicker on Dunlap's face when he wrote this, but what many idealists fear is that the advertisers are going to take him seriously. He goes on:

"Television is likely to bring a revival of advertising characters, and to give those who have been confined to cartoons greater scope and renewed life."

So, if the advertisers take the hint, those inevitable scenes of pathos in our musical comedies will become, in television, such affairs as that of the father of our country smacking his lips over a cup of coffee, or a bonneted Dutch woman chasing a speck of dirt, or a young man turning his head away from his dancing companion.

Can there be anything more pathetic than this, to offset a rollicking comedy?

The Military Camps

ACTIVITIES at the summer military training camps in various parts of the country serve to emphasize the clever way in which army leaders have been able to combine business with pleasure, so to speak, in the matter of preparedness.

Being in the army is not always looked upon as fun. Infantry drill under a hot summer sun is no cinch; and the other concomitants of a buck private's life range all the way from arduous early-morning setting-up exercises to the hated "K. P." detail.

But thousands of young Americans are spending their vacations at military camps this summer, and they are having a perfectly swell time.

Somehow the war department has been able to fix things so that a fortnight of military training takes on all the aspects of a good time. It was a highly ingenious move. The nation gets something in the way of preparedness, thousands of young men get some wholesome training and recreation, and everybody is happy.

Less Howling, More Work

WHEN Dr. C. W. Gwinn, of the faculty of Davis and Elkins college, told a W. T. C. U. gathering in West Virginia recently that "we need less howling on both sides of the prohibition question and more constructive work in building up the morale of the rising generation so that they will not want booze in any of its forms," he expressed a thought with which many Americans will undoubtedly agree.

Of howling, from all sides of the point at issue, we have surely had plenty in the last few years. As Dr. Gwinn says, we might be doing better to concentrate on constructive educational work among young people. Dr. Gwinn asserts that most of the current stories about increased drinking among college students are pure bunkum; and if they do have foundation in fact it may be at least partially because the older generation has been howling so lustily and so ineffectively.

Those Cherry Pies

THE western part of the lower peninsula of Michigan, a region of magnificent orchards, holds a cherry festival every summer. This year's festival, just held, found the whole district putting cherry pie on its menu every day as the "official dessert." The organizers of the festival had so decreed.

Ordinarily, it would probably be an impossible task to make all the people in any given locality eat the same dessert every day, even for a short period. But when cherry pie is the dish—cherry pie, made of fresh Michigan cherries, prepared as the housewives of that region know how to prepare it—well, a decree like that ought to enforce itself.

The cherry pies that appear along the east shore of Lake Michigan about this time of year are masterpieces. Michigan hasn't made half enough noise about them.

Quotations Worth Noting

He took it in the reg'lar guy manner.

On September 4 Leo Reisman and the Central Park Casino will melt . . . His very popular pianist, Eddy Duchin, will be starred in his place, with a 12-piece crew . . . Intimates of the late James P. Donahue wonder if that backgammon-welching yarn you ran in Portrait was for Donahue . . . I told them I didn't know . . . They pointed out that Donahue died from an accidental overdose of sleeping medicine, which he took quite regularly, his nerves being N. G. . . . It appears that his story and another are similar, and the friends feel that you are confused . . . The other tale happened in a Park Avenue club, very exclusive, at which a backgammon player lost a million, but the debt was settled for $30,000 . . . Donahue never played backgammon for more than $25 a game . . . The friends feel, too, that you would make a hit with Donahue's pals by so asserting . . . He didn't want to die, and was not a poor sport, but a good loser, etc . . . I'm sure you'd want to say so—just to keep the record unblemished.

Talk about burning a person up . . . Bert Lahr is going mad on the coast because his surefire hit, "Flying High," in which he will also be screened, is being re-arranged! . . . Charlotte Greenwood, also in the flicker, will be played up heavier than Bert, because her husband, Martin Broones, who played piano for her in vaudeville, has been selected to re-write it! . . . Leave it to Hollywood to "improve" something that enjoyed smash success on Broadway. Can't you just hear Lahr giving out that gungungung!—when he heard the news? . . . Jimmy Walker phoned. Said to tell you he didn't walk out on Broun's show to be a smarty or anything like that, but he can understand why you so suspected . . . He had to leave that early, he explained, because at 10 p. m. he had a date to help inaugurate that television hookup! . . . He talks very cute.

Tallulah Bankhead is on her way to Hope Williams' ranch . . . Katherine Curtiss, the former International golfer, and Waldo Murphy, a realtor, were secretly married the other day; these are both good Monday items, wot? . . . Marlene Deitrich's husband just gave her a diamond ring containing 42 carats . . . That ought to give her Kleig eyes . . . Louise Gwynn, who is 19 (whose picture you saw in the papers and admired so the other day), with the Mayor and her friend Louise Brooks (not the actress), is a kin of the Stotesburys if you please . . . Howzat for a long-winded sentence? . . . A very sweet person, by the way . . . Saw her at the fight and it was her very first fight! . . . And what do you think she said when Sharkey and Walker squared off? . . . She said: "Oooh, look at that lovely moon!" . . . I didn't see any moon—all I kept seeing was Mickey—that darling Mickey—whose gameness was much more romantic . . . The Argonaut and J. Malin are no more.

King Features wants to know what liner Miss Joyce is taking . . . Understand she applied secretly for a pilot's license . . . Goodness! Hasn't she been flying high enough? . . . The Los Angeles Herald played up the Ziegfeld Zoo col'm plus a layout across the page of all the girls in the show who came from Calif. . . . I will call Holzman for names and towns of the "Scandals" girls, and shall I call Charlie Bochert for the Earl Carroll crew? . . . Marjorie Smith, who wrote "No Bed of Roses," is doing another, called "God Have Mercy on Me," for Macaulay . . . In London, they tell me, the waits is more popular than ever . . . In London it would be . . . And the girls there are wearing derby hats! . . . With long-curled feathers! . . . The smarties here are wearing 'em, too.

The literary book club racket is suffering a great deal these days . . . Making no money and are desperate . . . Clubs no longer contract for a book on a royalty basis; they buy outright and split with the author on a 60-40 term.

. . . Ran into the Dudley Field Malones (Edna Johnson) . . . She's so pretty . . . Says she's anxious to see you privately—as she wants to find out a certain thing . . . Here's a definition for you according to Spinoza . . . God, he writes, Is. And we are his Isnesses. God is a noun, isnesses is an adjective, isnesses is a modification of is, God is and we are His isnesses!" . . . Sounds like a lotta monkey business to me! . . . Don't you ever notice when a girl has a new hat or anything?

Saw Paul Block, Joseph M. Schenck and Mr. Ziegfeld in their ice cream suits yesterday . . . Those Palm Beach suits reminded me of Will Roger's crack: "I'd like to see a man they fit!" . . .—R. C.

EXPLANATION OF SATURDAY'S CARTOON

JOE VOSMIK—Vosmik, left fielder for the Cleveland Indians, is regarded as the most sensational young player to break into the major leagues since Ty Cobb. Making his debut in April, 1931, in 22 times at bat he connected for 14 hits, including five doubles, two triples and a homer, for six runs, making an average of .636 in the first five days of play. And he's still batting around .350.

THE SCHOOLHOUSE WINDOWS THAT ARE NEVER OPENED—The public school in Calipatria, Calif., is the lowest in the world, being situated 185 feet below sea level, in the Imperial valley of Southern California. The windows of the building have been built solid, ventilation being taken care of by a special system which dries and warms the air in winter and cools and moistens the air in the spring and early summer.

Tomorrow: "The man who paints with his tongue."

"MARY FAITH"
by Beatrice Burton

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

Mary Faith, young and comely orphan, is secretary to Mark Nesbit, wealthy, young business man. She informs Mark that she is leaving her position to marry Kimberly Farrell, handsome, young lawyer, to whom she has been engaged for some time. Invited to Kim's house for dinner, Mary Faith is greeted coldly by his mother. Later, Kim startles Mary Faith by breaking his engagement and asking for the ring. The next morning, Mary Faith informs her co-workers that she is not to be married. She asks them to take back their presents.

CHAPTER VII

Jean fairly snatched the packages from her. Then she seized the bride's roses by their long stems and shook the water from them.

"Oh, but I'd just like to tell Kim Farrell what I think of him!" she said, bristling all over. "It's too bad you haven't a father or a brother or sombeody to go round and give him the best sock on the nose he ever had, Mary Faith. That's what he needs. . . . To do a thing like this to you!"

She dropped the roses into the waste basket and picked up the waste basket.

"Buck up, Mary Faith. Don't take it this way!" she went on. "Plenty of mothers have sons, you know. A girl's a fool to break her heart over one man when the world's so full of men. . . . You'll find somebody else pretty soon and in six months you'll have forgotten you ever knew Kim Farrell. I know. I've been engaged twice—and I wouldn't shed a tear over the best man alive!"

When she had gone, taking the waste basket of roses and the engagement presents with her, Mary Faith ran downstairs to the rest room where she cried bitterly as she washed the scent of gardenia sachet from her hands.

All day long as she went back and forth in the office she could feel the curious eyes of Jean and Miss Saxe and Miss Kelly upon her. She knew that they were all wondering just what had happened between herself and Kim.

And Miss Gilday, who operated the switchboard, had put through telephone calls from Kim to her every day for almost four years . . . Miss Gilday must be wondering what had happened, too.

At half past three Mr. Nesbit left the building to go to a bank directors' meeting. He did not get back to the office until 6 o'clock.

"I'm sorry to keep you like this," he said, putting his head in at the door of Mary Faith's small room. "Do you mind staying a little late? I'd like to get my desk cleared tonight."

"I'll be glad to stay," said Mary Faith, and she meant it.

His words were like a reprieve to her. All day she had been dreading the evening meal in the River street house with the Brock girls watching her with their X-ray eyes. A boarding house was so public. You couldn't keep even your sorrow and your humiliation to yourself if you happened to live in one.

It was half past seven by the time she had finished the last of Mr. Nesbit's letters and had locked her desk for the night. She was getting into her raincoat when he opened the door of her room once more.

"It's raining," he said. "I'm going to drive you home."

"I don't mind the rain, Mr. Nesbit. I often take walks when it's raining. I like to slosh through puddles."

"I'm going to drive you home."

When she went downstairs a few minutes later he was standing in the front doorway, waiting for her. Outside the gray closed car that he drove stood at the curbstone.

They got into it. Mary Faith leaned back against the cushions, her eyes on the wet glitter of the streets as they rolled along. The pavements were black and gold, and the lighted shop windows were like giant-size magic lanterns throwing their colors out into the darkness.

"It's raining," he said, "I'm going to drive you home."

A few days before she had lingered before them on her way home from work, enchanted by the lovely things that were on display in them. Enchanted by the snow white electric ice boxes, by the carved and polished furniture, by the Oriental rugs and the bowls and boxes of Chinese brass.

Now she turned her eyes away from them. The very sight of them had a certain power to make her heart ache. . . . She was back at the typewriter and the filing cabinet for good.

"It's almost 8 o'clock and you haven't had any dinner," Mr. Nesbit suddenly remembered when they were halfway to River street. "We'll go somewhere and get some."

Mary Faith shook her head quickly. "No, thanks," she answered. "Mrs. Puckett always has Agnes put some dinner away for me when I'm late. And I'm tired. I'd rather go straight home if you don't mind."

The dining-room windows were dark when they drove up before Mrs. Puckett's. Mary Faith let herself quietly into the house, hoping that she would meet no one on her way upstairs. But as she closed the front door Mrs. Pckett called out to her from the parlor.

"Mary Faith!—Didn't I just see you drive up in a gray closed car?"

Mary Faith knew that she had seen her. Whenever an automobile stopped before the house Mrs. Puckett hurried to the front windows. She had the ears of a fox and eyes in the back of her head.

"Yes." Mary Faith came down the hall and stood between the ruby velvet curtains that hung in the doorway of the parlor. "That was Mr. Nesbit's car. He brought me home tonight, Mrs. Puckett."

He never had driven her home before, and Mrs. Puckett knew it. Her eyebrows shot up under the fringe of her pompadour.

"Oh—ho!" she said. "So that's it! So that's why we aren't getting married in two weeks! So that's why we've change our plans! We have a new beau!"

Miss Allie Brock raised her eyes from the game of solitaire that she was playing on the marble-topped table.

"It looks to me like a case of 'off with the old love and on with the new,'" she remarked archly. "That's the way things look to me, Mrs. Puckett."

If that was the way things looked to them it was a blessing, said Mary Faith to herself. And in her heart she thanked Mr. Nesbit for driving her home.

"Good night, everybody," she said and escaped from them before they could ask her any more questions.

Her room was unbearable to her that night, filled as it was with things that reminded her of Kim. The books they had read together. The pink-sprigged dishes and the etching that she had bought long ago. The scrapbook of recipes and household hints. His picture in a leather frame on her desk. His picture.

She picked it up and stood looking at it for a minute or two. Then she opened the drawer of the desk and laid it, face downward under some old letters.

And for a moment she stood there, pressing her hands against

Good Flavors Aid Digestion

At one time not many years ago it was considered almost sinful to prepare food appetizingly. This was one of the many puritanical ideas which originated in Europe during the middle ages and which have so long interfered with progress along lines of health and beauty. Scientific experiments have entirely disproven such theories, and we now know that it is important to serve food that is tastefully prepared and pleasing to the eye.

Prof. Pawlow, the great Russian scientist, demonstrated that, when food was introduced into a dog's stomach without the dog first catching sight of or smelling the food, there was not a sufficient supply of gastric juice and the food was not properly digested. On the other hand, if the dog simply smelled or saw the food without actually swallowing it, the gastric juices flowed in abundance, and, when the food was then introduced, it was digested perfectly. Such scientific experiments are undoubtedly interesting but just plain common sense should tell us that when food is not enjoyed it is not properly digested. A tantalizing food odor will often be of far more value than any amount of dyspepsia tablets one could consume.

On the other hand the dish which is badly prepared, spoiled, or obnoxious to the sight may slow down the digestion for hours and cause the food to remain like a lump of lead in the stomach. Some people are so sensitive to these psychic suggestions that a whole meal may be spoiled for them by simply finding a fly in the soup or a cockroach in the sandwich.

Every cook should be a food artist, knowing how to bring out the finest and more delicate flavors and odors. A cook should also be able to prepare and arrange the food so that it looks wholesome, attractive, and pure. If cooking were everywhere made a science and an art, there is no doubt in my mind but that doctors' bills would be greatly reduced.

It is interesting to note that the investigations of science have shown the sense of taste to be somewhat limited. We are really only able to taste sweetness, sourness, saltiness and bitterness; all of the other countless variations of flavor come from our sense of smell. If you were deprived of your ability to distinguish odors, you would be unable by the flavor alone to determine whether you were eating an onion or an apple. Whenever we chew or swallow food a small amount of air from the mouth is exhaled through the nose allowing the odors to come in contact with the sensitive olfactory nerve endings so that we distinguish the odor at the same time that we distinguish the flavor and the two are conveyed simultaneously to the brain. The next time you pick out a cantaloupe, smell it, and you will find that the odor is a much more reliable guide to the flavor of the cantaloupe than its appearance. The same is true with innumerable other foods. Without the ability to smell, a cantaloupe would taste like sweetened water.

It is well for every housekeeper to bear in mind that, when food is prepared for health, it must not only consist of the right food, properly combined, but it must also be appetizingly prepared.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Lost Nerve Power

Question—H. E. N. writes: "I have been very lame for a long time. One limb lacks the power of the normal one, and I am compelled to use a cane to walk. A specialist told me it was due to a lesion or breaking down of the nerve in that part and that there was nothing to be done for it. What is your advice?"

Answer—If the nerves supplying the leg have been completely destroyed it is unlikely that you could expect a pronounced improvement only in so far as other nerves might be trained to supply the functions of the destroyed ones. Very careful training of the muscles is necessary to accomplish this. If a careful adherence to proper fasting and dieting produces any improvement in the functioning of your limb you may feel encouraged enough to continue the regimen, repeating the fast at intervals of about a month apart. Sinusoidal electrical treatments and massage may also prove helpful. A good osteopathic or chiropractor doctor should be able to give you the correct treatments.

No Residue in Dehydration Water

Question—K. G. writes: "I have just learned that a lettuce dehydrating plant is going to be built near me. Would like to know if the water from the lettuce (which will be thrown away) would contain elements which would make it beneficial to drink?"

Answer—The water which would be evaporated from lettuce in a dehydration plant would be no different from the ordinary distilled water.

After Reducing

Question—Mrs. W. asks: "Having reduced several pounds, how can I firm up a skin which remains loose and flabby?"

Answer—The skin does not shrink or reduce as rapidly as the fat under it, but this condition can be corrected in the course of time if you will continue to take daily exercises and cold showers.

SPUDS WIN FIRST, 11-7; SPORTS TAKE SECOND IN NINTH, 5-4

UMP'S EDICT FAVORS FOE

Infield Fly Decision Hurts Spuds in Second

By FRED THOMPSON

"In my judgment," said Umpire Colfer, "it was not an infield fly."

Umpire Colfer then and there virtually awarded Shreveport the second game of yesterday's double-header, after the Spudders had won the first, 11 to 7.

It was in the fifth inning of the second game. The bases were loaded with none out, and Hillin came to the mound to relieve Vincent. The first batter, Winegarner, hit to Scharein, who forced a runner at the plate. The bases were still loaded when Wade hit a fly which Scharein muffed just behind short.

It was a typical infield fly on which the batter should have been out, according to the rules, but Umpire Colfer ruled otherwise, and a runner scored with the fourth Shreveport tally.

Run Meant Something

The Spuds then were behind, but they rallied in the sixth, scoring two runs to tie the count. The battle went into extra innings after neither side scored in the seventh and finally in the ninth, Whelan's single and Radcliff's double gave Shreveport the game, 5 to 4.

If Umpire Colfer's judgment had been otherwise in the fifth inning, Hillin, who did a great relief job, would not have allowed the fourth Shreveport run to cross, for he struck out Laveque for the third out after Wade was adjudged safe on the infield fly. The Spudders' two runs in the sixth would have won the game.

The first game was a slugging carnival. The Spuds bounced Lee by scoring seven runs in the third, and the Sports knocked Pressnell out when they scored five runs in the sixth. Florrid went great when he relieved Pressnell, pitching shutout ball for two frames before a let-up in the ninth permitted two runs. Moulton and Moore followed Lee on the mound for the Sports.

In the second game, Vincent was rocky from the start, and the above-mentioned puddle of hot water in the fifth brought the call for Hillin. Erickson, star portsider of the Sports, was in turn bounced by the Spuds in the sixth and Miller finished.

Today will be an off-day, Monday's game having been played as part of the Sunday double-bill. A crowd of over 1,000 attended the Sunday bill, and whooped it up considerably at the spectacle before them.

Skipper Jake Atz of the Sports was run out of the park in the seventh inning of the nightcap, after an argument over whether Hillin's three-two ball to Radcliff was a strike or not.

Slow Start

To open the first game, Wight singled to center. Geygan sacrificed him to second, pitcher to second, who covered first. Whelan walked. Radcliff forced Whelan at second, Scharein unassisted. Wight taking third. Solters grounded out, third to first. In the home half, Garms singled through the box. Allday popped to Geygan. Stanton swung out. So did Gerken.

In the second, Winegarner flied to center. Wade grounded out, short to first. Rowland skied to center. In the last half, Hungling doubled against the left field fence. Fuss walked. Scharein bunted to the box and Hungling was forced at third, pitcher to third, Fuss taking second. Euller walked, loading the bases. Pressnell singled through the box, scoring Fuss and Scharein, Euller taking third. Garms hit into a double play, second to first.

Gets Warmer

Lee singled through short to start the third. Wight popped to second. Geygan skied to left. Whelan fouled out to third. In the last half, Allday flied to center. Stanton doubled down the left field foul line and continued to third when Solters threw badly from left. Gerken doubled to right, scoring Stanton. Gerken was safe stealing third when Winegarner dropped the catcher's throw. Hungling walked. So did Fuss, loading the bases. Scharein tripled to right center, scoring Gerken, Hungling and Fuss. Moulton relieved Lee. Euller singled to left center, scoring Scharein. Pressnell sacrificed, pitcher to first, Euller taking second. Garms hit a home run over the left field wall, scoring Euller and himself. Allday popped to third, retiring the side.

In the fourth, Radcliff singled through the box. Solters forced Radcliff, pitcher to short. Winegarner popped to short. Wade fouled out to the catcher. In the home half, Stanton flied to right. Winegarner made a great leap to pull down Gerken's hot line drive over third. It was a marvelous play. Hungling walked. Fuss popped to second.

In the fifth, Rowland grounded out, short to first. Moulton flied to center. Wight flied to left. In the last half, Scharein popped to short. Euller grounded out, third to first. Pressnell skied to center.

Geygan Doubles

Geygan opened the sixth with a double down the left field foul line. Whelan grounded out, third to first, Geygan holding second. Radcliff grounded out, first to pitcher, who covered first, Geygan taking third. Solters hit a home run over the left field fence, scoring Geygan and himself. Winegarner singled to left. Wade beat out an infield hit to short, Winegarner taking second. Rowland doubled to right, Winegarner scoring and Wade taking third. Miller went in to run for Rowland and Laveque batted for Moulton. Laveque singled to center, scoring Wade and Miller. Florrid relieved Pressnell. Wight forced Laveque at second, third to second, retiring the side.

Moore went to the mound, and Laveque behind the bat as the last of the sixth came up. Garms popped to first. Allday doubled to left but was out stretching it, left to short to third. Wade made a great catch of Stanton's fly against the center field fence.

Hungling Hits Homer

In the seventh, Geygan grounded out, pitcher to first. Whelan skied to center and Radcliff grounded out to first, unassisted. In the last half, Gerken walked. In the fifth, Whelan walked. Radcliff singled to right, Whelan taking second. Solters singled to left, loading the bases. Hillin replaced Vincent. Winegarner grounded to Scharein, who tossed Whelan out at the plate. Radcliff took third and Solters second on the play. Wade hit a pop fly which Scharein muffed behind short, but for some unaccountable reason Umpire Colfer ruled it was no infield fly and the batter was not out. Consequently, Radcliff scored from third. Solters was forced at third, however, Euller finally making the putout. Laveque struck out. In the home half, with two down, Hillin walked. Garms doubled to center and the alert Hillin scored from first. Allday grounded out, second to first.

In the sixth, Erickson fanned. Wight bunted out, pitcher to first. Geygan flied to left. In the last half, Stanton singled through the box. Gerken walked, Stanton taking second. Extra Innings Start

In the eighth, Wade beat out an infield hit to short and was sacrificed to second by Laveque. Miller beat out an infield hit to first, Wade taking third. Wight hit to short, and Wade was out at the plate, short to catcher, Miller taking second on the play. Geygan tipped Hillin's glove with a bounder through the box, but Scharein scooped it up and threw the runner out, retiring the side.

In the last half, Stanton walked. Gerken bunted down the first base line, and all hands were safe on the baseman's low throw to second. It was no error, however. Bradbury bunted to the box and Stanton was forced at third, pitcher to third, Gerken taking second. Fuss lined to the pitcher, who threw Gerken out at third. Scharein forced Fuss at second, short to second.

In the ninth, Whelan singled to left. Radcliff doubled to center, scoring Whelan. Solters popped to Scharein. Winegarner flied to center. Wade grounded out, short to first.

Last Effort Fails

In the last half, Euller lined out to right. Hungling batted for Hillin, and singled to left. Garms grounded toward second. Geygan ran to touch Hungling before doubling Garms at first but Hungling slid under him, and Geygan's throw to first was too slow to get Garms. Whelan, however, pegged to second to nail Hungling. Allday popped to short in shallow left center, and the game was over.

French Netters Retain Davis Cup

ROLAND GARROS STADIUM, Paris, July 26. (US)—The big musketeers of France's tennis old guard tottered off a muddy battlefield this afternoon, winners of the Davis cup, emblem of international tennis supremacy for the fifth successive year.

As in previous years, it was too much Cochet. As he has turned back American challengers when the match was a deciding one, so did Henri today repel the British onslaught, taking the fifth and deciding match from Fred J. Perry after his compatriot, Jean Borotra, had fallen before H. W. "Bunny" Austin, the British ace.

Darkness Halts Thrilling Play-Off Game

BEAUMONT, July 26. (AP)—Darkness halted the Exporters and Buffaloes here today after they had battled through 15 thrilling innings to a 4 to 4 deadlock in the second of a five-game series that will decide the first half champions of the league. A two-run rally in the 15th climaxed by Joyner White's theft of home gave the Bakermen a draw after the Houston visitors apparently had put the game away with a pair of runs in their half of this round.

Great Mound Duel

It was another great duel between opposing moundsmen, Tex Carleton and Dizzy Dean teaming up for the Buffs while John Whitlow Wyatt and Buck Marrow shared the pitching burden for the shippers. Tex went well until the eighth and Dean, who won yesterday's game, came in with two men on and none out. Dizzy walked two men to force across a run and then a double play helped him out of trouble. From then on, the great Dane was steady until the hectic 15th.

The Buffs got away to a run in the fourth when Selph was hit by a pitched ball after one was away. Selph stole second and the Peel skide to White. Medwick was walked intentionally and the Sturdy hit an easy roller to Taylor who threw to Holley to force Medwick at second. But Holley muffed the ball and Selph scored. Hock and Smith singled after two were out in the fifth but in the sixth with one away Medwick slammed a homer over the left center fence to put the Bisons out in front 2 to 0.

Shippers Tie It

It was in the seventh that the Exporters got busy. White walked and raced to third on Schuble's double to left. Boroja sent a high fly to Medwick and White scored. Hughes popped out and Fritz grounded out. Then came the big eighth when Carleton was chased. Holley started off by working Tex for a walk and then Wise doubled into the right field crowd for two bases under the ground rules, Holley taking third. Out came Tex and in came Dean. Easterling batted for Wyatt and walked, filling the bases. Hamlin ran for Easterling. Then Goldstein batted for Taylor and drew a walk, forcing Holley over the plate with the tying run. White grounded to Selph who nabbed Wise at the plate. Schuble hit a high fly to Medwick in center and Hamlin was caught at the plate by a beautiful peg from the Buff center fielder. A near riot followed and it was several minutes before order was restored, the Exporters claiming Hamlin was not tagged at the plate.

Marrow came in to pitch and twirled superbly until the 15th when an error by Schuble paved the way for two Buff runs. Both sides had numerous chances to score in the extra innings because of walks and hits but when a blow was really needed it wasn't there. With two away in the 15th Selph doubled to left. Peel's easy grounder went through Schuble's legs and Selph scored. Peel stole second and after Medwick was passed Sturdy singled to right to score Peel. Carey grounded out.

White Steals Home

Lorbeer batted for Marrow and walked after Wise had grounded out. Urban whiffed and then White storlled. Schuble zipped a one baser to center and Lorbeer scored, White taking second. White and Schuble executed a double steal and when Schuble slid under Selph and dumped him at second White pilfered home with the tying run. Boroja fouled out to Sturdy and Umpire Ballafant called the game on account of darkness.

Carleton and Dean each whiffed six while Wyatt fanned seven and Marrow two.

Luke Hamlin will twirl for Beaumont tomorrow night in Houston and will oppose George Washington Payne for the Buffs.

The series will be carried out as originally planned. The fourth game will be played in Houston Aug. 12 and if a fifth game is necessary it will be played here Aug. 13.

YANKS AND CHISOX SPLIT

NEW YORK, July 26. (AP)—The Yankees broke even with the Chicago White Sox in a double-header today, winning the second game, 22 to 5, after Chicago had taken the first, 5 to 4 in a ninth-inning rally.

The Sox made only five hits off Henry Johnson in the first game, but the Pale Hose made each one count to gain their first victory over the Yankees this season. In the second game, the Yanks took advantage of the wildness of the Chicago pitchers to run up their big score in four innings on only 17 hits. Scores:

ST. LOUIS, July 26. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals and the Boston Braves split even in a double-header here today, the visitors taking the opener, 3 to 2, in 11 innings, and the Red Birds the nightcap, 5 to 4.

Fine pitching by Fred Frankhouse and Sylvester Johnson featured the first game, neither allowing a run to cross the plate until the 11th. Both, however, weakened then, and Boston put across its three runs, after which the Cardinals launched an attack that caused Frankhouse's retirement. With no one out, Lefty Ed Brandt came in to save the game for the Braves.

In the nightcap, Paul Derringer scored his 12th victory of the season for the Cardinals, having slightly the better of Bruce Cunningham. Both pitchers went the distance.

REDS AND ROBINS DIVIDE

CINCINNATI, July 26. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds and Brooklyn Robins divided shutout honors in a double-header here today, the Reds, winning the first, 4 to 0, and dropping the second, 5 to 0. The first game was all Larry Benton, who though he allowed the Robins 10 hits to seven hits for his mates, was tight in the pinches. Fast fielding and three double plays also assisted him greatly. In the nightcap Dazzy Vance took the show, holding the Reds to three harmless hits, striking out seven batters, and driving in two runs.

CUBS 2, PHILLIES 1

CHICAGO, July 26. (AP)—Jim Elliott, who had just replaced Dudley on the mound for Philadelphia, let loose a wild pitch in the ninth inning this afternoon that permitted Teachout to score the winning run for the Cubs. The score was 2 to 1, with Malone getting the best of Dudley in a pitching battle. Charlie Grimm was the Cub hero. He opened the ninth inning with a triple to deep center, the only extra base hit the Bruins got. Teachout ran for Grimm. Hartnett was purposely passed, but when Elliott came in to pitch to Malone, he threw away the game. Score.

STAR, GROCERS GO 25 INNINGS

Darkness Halts Play-Off of 3-3 Tie

Steve "Iron Man" Franklin, ace of the Sullivans Grocery nine, and Lefty Marvin Robertson, famous Star Transfer southpaw, covered themselves in glory Sunday afternoon at Katy park when they battled 25 innings to a 3 to 3 deadlock. Both men pitched shutout ball from the seventh inning to the 25th, a string of 18 innings of scoreless baseball. Brilliant fielding on both sides saved both pitchers. Darkness stopped hostilities.

This game sets a modern City league record. It was as well the longest game ever played in Wichita Falls. The longest amateur game remembered was played on July 4, 1916, when Jess Petty, later of major league fame won a 16-inning 1 to 0 shutout here. Score:

BAILEY-MOLINES WIN TWO GAMES

For the second Sunday in succession, Clyde "Red" Nichols turned in a double victory for the Bailey-Moline Hardware company team Sunday afternoon when he tamed the wild hitting Boosters, 5-2, 8-0, in both ends of a double-header on Jalonic street diamond. Nichols allowed the Boosters only 11 hits, four of which went to Pete Calhoun, the Grey Eagle of the Boosters outer gardens. Nichols struck out 14 men, eight in the first game and six in the second. The double victory puts Bailey-Moline back up in the race and gives their chances a great boost for the first half play-off which starts Saturday at Katy park.

Pee Wee Hinds, Pete Hefner and Cy Hills led the attack for Bailey-Moline in the second game with three hits each, while Nichols was allowing the entire Booster team a like number. Scores, first game:

Englishman Turns Buddhist Monk

George Hutchesson, 24, a well-to-do Englishman, who created a sensation in the foreign colony at Bangkok, Siam, when he voluntarily entered a Buddhist monastery, is shown here, with shaved head and clad in gold and white robe, kneeling before sacred relics at the beautiful temple of Wat Rajapradith, where his ordination took place. Hutchesson, who has been given the Buddhist name Phra Akkappa Sanno, may retire from the priesthood at any time after four months. Like other priests in Siam, he must beg for his one meal each day.

STORE ROBBED IN ESTELLINE

Merchandise Recovered Near Station

Special to The Record News.

ESTELLINE, Texas, July 26.—The Greene Dry Goods company of this city was robbed last night of between $500 and $1,000 in goods. Men's suits, ladies' silk dresses, silk hose, Stetson hats, and other merchandise were taken. The cash register was not bothered.

The robbers entered through the back door, breaking the panel with bars. The clothing was later found on the railroad right-of-way near the depot.

Hall county officers are working on clues. They were notified by the nightwatchman who discovered the broken door and missing goods on his regular rounds early this morning. Suspicious characters were searched. No arrests were made during the night.

DANIEL TALKS ON MARTYRS

Stoning of Stephen Basis of Kay Bible Lesson

Numerous citations of martyrdom prominently recorded in history featured the address given by Roy J. Daniel before members of the Kay Bible class of the First Methodist church Sunday morning.

The stoning of Stephen, recorded to have been the first martyr to the cause of Christianity after the crucifixion of Christ, was the basis of the lesson discussed by Mr. Daniel, and was treated in the closing portion of his address Sunday. The speaker emphasized the fact that while Stephen was being pelted to death with stones, he emulated Christ in the prayer that his persecutors be absolved of guilt.

Mr. Daniel's address in part follows:

"Martyr: 'One who willingly suffers death or grievous harm or loss on behalf of any belief or principle or cause.'—New Centuary Dictionary.

"General Howe with British troops near the beginning of the revolutionary war was attacking the city of New York. Washington needed information concerning Howe's plans. Capt. Nathan Hale volunteered to enter the British lines and find out their plans. He dressed as a Dutch school teacher, went to the British camp as though he were a resident of Long Island, and took notes on all that he saw. He had gained valuable information for Washington, and was on the point of taking a boat for New York, when someone recognized him and took him prisoner. Of course he was a spy and could make no excuse. He was hanged by the British. His last words were, 'I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country.' Nathan Hale was a martyr to the cause of American freedom and liberty.

Siege of Orleans

"One time about 500 years ago the French city of Orleans was being besieged by the English. It looked like the stronghold would fall. A young French country maiden began to have dreams and she believed that she was visited by angels who told her to relieve the siege of Orleans. Those in authority laughed at her at first and thought she was mad. But she persisted and opportunity was given her to make good her promise to relieve the city. She put on a man's suit of steel, took a sword in her hand, and mounted a war horse. She rode out in front of the French army and so inspired the weary soldiers that they took renewed courage, charged the fortifications of the enemy and saved the city. She then assured the coronation of Prince Charles at Rheims and tried to take a place in the background. But the Burgundians were her enemies, and they surrendered her to the English. The English hated her with all their might and they charged her with being a witch. In her trial for witchcraft she was found guilty and sentenced to be burned at the stake at Rouen. Before being tied to the stake she was subjected to much prolonged torture in an effort to wring from her a confession that she was bewitched but her courage held out to the last, and she died saying prayers to her God. Years afterward she was made a saint by the Catholic church. And in England today are to be seen many statues of her—some on horseback. Joan of Arc was a martyr to the cause: 'France for the French.'

"In 1821 there came to Texas a great man at the head of a group of American colonists. Texas was not yet Anglo-Saxon, and this man went to Mexico City seeking help and relief for the colonists but his efforts were rewarded with confinement in a Mexican prison.

"On his return from prison he advocated separation from Mexico, and independence for Texas came at San Jacinto. He then sought the presidency of Texas but he was defeated for that honor by the victor of San Jacinto. But there was no bitterness in his heart because he loved Texas and her people more than himself. Houston asked that man to become secretary of state of the new republic. Although not well, that man would not refuse, and he undertook the task of doing for Texas what Jefferson had done for Washington. While laboring in a shabby office without a fire during a bad spell of winter weather that man took pneumonia from which he died. Stephen F. Austin at the age of 43 died a martyr—the father of Texas died a martyr to public service in Texas.

"David Livingstone was a martyr to the cause of carrying light to the heart of darkest Africa. He first went to Africa as a medical missionary—missionary to South Africa. But later he became an explorer and traced the Zambesi river to the Indian ocean. He started out to set at rest the question of the sources of the Nile, and for 10 years he explored the lake regions of Africa. For a period of three years the outer world received no communication from Livingstone and fears regarding his safety were set at rest only after Henry M. Stanley, an American newspaper correspondent, found him on Lake Tanganyika and failed to persuade him to return to civilization. After Stanley's departure Livingstone went to explore the southern end of Lake Tanganyika. But one more year of hardship completely exhausted the great Scotchman, and he died near one of the lakes he discovered. His body lies buried in Westminister Abbey minus his heart that was removed and buried in Central Africa by natives who loved and served him so long.

Civil War

"At the close of the American civil struggle or war between the states a great American said: 'Let us bind up the nation's wounds. Let us care for him who has borne the brunt of the fighting. Let us care for his widow and orphans.' It was his intention to treat the southern states as if they had never left the union at all. His plan for reconstruction of the South was simple and fair to the southern people. Southern blood flowed in his veins, and his big heart went out to the southerners in their defeat, and he wanted to help and planned to help in every way possible the reconstruction of the South. He opposed the radical policy of congress and fought it from its first and unholy conception by Sumner, Stevens and other extreme radicals. The terrible period of reconstruction struck the southern people with as much destructive force as war and defeat themselves. Carpet bag rule established by the negro vote and supported by bayonets of federal soldiers came nearer ruining the South than the terrible conflict. One night this American attended a theater in Washington, D. C. A great actor, a Southerner, crazed by brooding over the South's defeat, killed him by shooting him with a pistol. If Lincoln had lived he would have been able to control congress and the terrible congressional plan of reconstruction would never have been forced upon the helpless Southland. Abraham Lincoln died a martyr—a martyr to the cause of American union.

"Stephen was the first Christian martyr. He had been selected as one of the first seven deacons in the early Christian church at Jerusalem. While holding that office Stephen got into an argument with the leaders of the synagogue. He won the argument but made bitter enemies of the synagogue crowd. So they framed Stephen. They bribed some perjurers to go before the council and accuse Stephen of blasphemy against God and Moses. Taken before the council Stephen defended himself in a remarkable speech where he gave a resume of the history of the Hebrew race from the days of Father Abraham down till the days of Christ and their own. His reference to Christ in his speech so angered the council that they charged upon him, laid hands upon him, handled him roughly and ordered his death by stoning. They exceeded their authority to order his death but they did so anyway believing they could get away with it, and perhaps the Roman rulers would overlook it or pay no attention to it. They took him outside the city and began to stone him. As the stones began to pelter him he looked up into Heaven and saw Jesus standing at the right hand of God. A smile came upon his face. He knelt down and prayed a short prayer of two parts. The first part was 'Lord, receive my spirit.' The second part was a prayer not to lay the sin of his death upon his killers. One of the synagogue members there was Saul who held the garments of the stoners as they threw the stones at Stephen. Saul was an accomplice. But the brave manner of Stephen's death made a lasting impression on Saul, and it was the beginning of his change into a follower of the Christ Stephen died for rather than renounce.

"Stephen was a brave man but it took a brave man to be a martyr in those early days of the Christian church. But for every martyr who gave his life many thousands came to follow Christ. From the lives of martyrs we receive courage and inspiration, and may we determine to be willing to offer our lives for sacrifice and service to the Lord of Lords and the King of Kings. That Lord of Lords said, 'He who loses his life for My sake shall find it again and shall live forever.' He said, 'Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life'."

her heart as if she were trying to deaden the intolerable pain in it.

Once during the night she woke up.

In the darkness everything came rushing back to her—all the unhappiness of the past 24 hours.

For one black moment she knew she was sick of herself, of her life, of everything. . . . Then the merciful weariness of utter exhaustion came over her again and she slept until morning.

September was blown away on a gale that stripped most of the branches in Haltnorth park and tore loose one of the green shutters outside Mary Faith's bedroom windows.

Halloween came, and there were little pasteboard Jack-o'-lanterns on the tables in Mrs. Puckett's dining room.

Thanksgiving day brought the first snow and filled the house with the rich odor of sage dressing and roast turkey.

The year before Mary Faith had gone to the Thanksgiving day football game with Kim, chrysanthemums on her coat and windblown roses in her cheeks.

This year she went to church, alone.

The words of the beautiful service for Thanksgiving kept coming back into her mind all that long lonely holiday: "He healeth those that are broken in heart. He giveth medicine to heal their sickness."

They seemed to have been written jut for her. For time, the medicine that heals those that are "broken in heart," was healing her. Her first anguish over losing Kim had settled down now to a dull and steady ache.

Once again she could pick up a book or magazine without seeing Kim's face swim across every page. She could hear the shrill ringing of the office telephone without telling herself that it might be Kim, wanting to talk to her. Sometimes after work she went to the moving pictures with Jean Bartlett and found herself actually enjoying them.

Slowly, slowly, she was learning how to live her life without Kim.

'Truth' Subject of Science Sermon

The subject of the lesson-sermon was "Truth" in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

Zechariah 8:3 furnished the golden text. "Thus saith the Lord; I am returned unto Zion, and will dwell in the midst of Jerusalem: and Jerusalem shall be called a city of truth; and the mountain of the Lord of hosts the holy mountain."

These passages from the Bible (Deuteronomy 32:3,4) were included in the service: "Ascribe ye greatness unto our God. He is the rock, His work is perfect: for all His ways are judgment: a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is He."

The following citation from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, was also read (p. 286):

"We must not seek the immutable and immortal through the finite, mutable and mortal, and so depend upon belief instead of demonstration, for this is fatal to a knowledge of Science. The understanding of truth gives full faith in truth, and spiritual understanding is better than all burnt offerings."

Persecution Never Pays Expected Returns, Martin Tells Bible Class

"Persecution never pays the persecutor expected returns, but, like the South Sea islander's boomerang, returns to smite the hand from which it is thrown," said Judge P. A. Martin before members of the Men's Bible class of the Floral Heights Methodist church Sunday morning.

Judge Martin based his discussion upon the stoning of the martyr, Stephen, whose blood he called "the seed of the church." Every effort that has ever been put forth to stamp out a belief by persecution of its adherents, the speaker said, "has only added fuel to the flame, and has prospered what it was intended to destroy."

Many a foolish "ism" and "scism" in the Christian church has been accelerated, Judge Martin said, by persecution of pulpit and press, when the thing would die a natural death "if left alone and unnoticed."

The text of his address follows:

"That the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church' is proven by the lesson of today. Among the seven laymen who were chosen to attend to the temporal affairs of the early church there were two men of outstanding ability; Stephen and Philip. Philip preached in Samaria, taking the gospel, with telling affect to the Samaritans. Meeting an illustrious Ethiopian on the road, he preached to him, converted him, baptized him and sent him back to Ethiopia where he founded a church which, as I understand history, existed there in the 13th century and, in a certain form, exists there today.

Persecution of Church

"Stephen, filled with the Holy Ghost, possessed of an irresistible personality and with a knowledge of the Hebrew Scriptures which no man could match, preached to the Jewish Sanhedrin, one of the most remarkable sermons in all the Bible and in all the history of the church. With full knowledge that they picked the ending of his life and with a profound willingness to surrender it for the cause which he represented, this great layman, this first Christian martyr, denounced them to their faces, after showing them their fallacy of their position. They then, with one accord, stopped the mockery of a trial, ran upon him, and stoned him to death. He died praying God that this sin be not laid to them. It must have been a strange and awful scene, even in that day of horrors. An angry mob, armed with stones and each man trying to get in a fatal blow. The victim sinking to his knees under a hundred blows and praying for his persecutors to the last breath. Some of them, in order to free their arms for throwing the stones had cast their garments aside at the feet of a young Pharisee who stood by, 'consenting unto his death' but only guarding their clothing a thoughtful, resolute young man with the zeal of a fiery purpose shining in his eyes; a dangerous man, because he was an earnest man, a purposeful man. His name was Saul. Perhaps, as he caught the words of the dying Christian or saw the smile of Stephen, as he said 'Behold I see the heavens opened and the Son of Man standing at the right hand of God,' he said to himself the question: 'What wonderful power sustains him thus?' Perhaps these things set up a train of thought that led to his conversion on the Damascus road and gave to the world Paul, the great Apostle to the gentiles. Certain it is that the vision of the dying Stephen was with Paul to his own dying day.

"Immediately following the death of Stephen there was general persecution of the church and it produced its legitimate fruit. It scattered the disciples into other lands where they strewed far and wide the seeds of the gospel of Christ and hundreds became thousands. This has always been and always will be the result of persecution. Many a false doctrine even has been fed upon the fires of persecution until it grew dangerous. The surest way to make a cause popular is to treat its exponents unjustly. It was persecution that fed the flames of the reformation. It drove the huguenots and the Pilgrim fathers, the Quakers under Penn, the Baptists under Roger Williams and even the Catholics under Lord Baltimore to the shores of America where their children founded a republic, free from religious restraints, where men could worship God according to the dictates of their own consciences.

"The Jews thought they would stamp out a heresy when they stoned Stephen. The Roman Catholic church expected like results from the Inquisition and from the horrors of St. Bartholomew; the Church of England thought to silence John Knox, tried to silence Wesley, tried to stamp out Catholicism by law, but every effort that has ever been put forth along the line has only added fuel to the flame of doctrine and prospered what it was meant to destroy. Mankind is built that way.

"Over in Russia, we are told, the Soviet government is actively persecuting the church in an effort to abolish God. They are making it dangerous for men and women to pray or preach. For a time they may seem to succeed; but mark my words, just as soon as the Russian proletarias are educated, the church of God will again be the leading influence in Russian thought and the gauge of conduct there, both public and private. And they are being educated I am told.

Persecutors Persecuted

"Among the strange lessons of history there are none more significant than the persecution of this very race that killed Jesus of Nazareth and the disciple Stephen. No race of men have been so generally and so incessantly and vigorously persecuted as the Jews. The Romans, the Greeks, the French, the Turks, the Russians, the English have all cast stones of one sort or another at the Sons of Abraham. In America they have undergone some milder forms of persecutions by the 'know-nothings' and kindred political and social organizations. They have been deported by thousands from unfriendly countries and have fled from others. Having no particular racial land of their own, they have tried to become and in a large measure have become world citizens. But throughout all this history, dating from the destruction of Jerusalem by Titus in the first century, the Jew has maintained his racial integrity and has been the leader in commerce and in financial affairs in every country he has entered with the possible exception of China; (I have been told that even a Jew cannot compete with a Chinaman in trade, but I do not vouch for the truth of the statement.) He has been a tower of strength in times of war and a loyal citizen in times of peace. He is seldom seen in the prisoners dock or in the divorce court or in the bread line and in spite of all persecution, everywhere he has gone he has prospered. Persecution never pays. Like the boomerang of the South Sea Islander it returns to smite the hand that threw it in the first instance.

"Even the milder form of persecution we sometimes see in this free country never succeeds. I have seen attempted boycotts, lockouts and organized opposition to certain sects, races and classes of men time and again but have never known of one that proved to be an unqualified success; such efforts, however popular they may be at the outset, soon perish and fall with their own weight and usually result in strengthening the very thing they are designed to destroy.

"The growth of many a foolish 'ism and scism' in the Christian church has been accelerated by persecution of the pulpit and the press when the thing would die a natural death if let alone and unnoticed.

"We should all be thankful that the day seems near when all men everywhere are willing to give to all others the same rights they claim for themselves in matters of both church and state, permitting them to worship their own household Gods in their own way and follow the dictates of their own consciences without hindrance upon the part of others. Persecution never pays the persecutor."
