22 Killed In Plane Tragedy

Big Airliner Crashes In Rugged Mountain Area in California

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., April 7. (AP) — Twenty-two persons died when a Southwest Airways plane crashed in the rugged Santa Ynez Mountains near here Friday night.

Ground rescue parties which reached the scene today said there were no survivors.

Air Force Capt. John Aidem, in charge of rescue operations, said the bodies were scattered over a wide area in Rubio Canyon, just west of a 4,000 - foot mountain peak. The plane, a DC-3, was demolished.

Bulldozers started hacking a road through the dense growth to bring the bodies here for identification.

Most of the passengers were servicemen, four of them colonels. None was listed from Texas.

The twin-engine DC-3 took off Friday night from Santa Maria Airport at 8:16 p. m., PST. Two minutes later it made routine radio contact. That was the last word. The plane was scheduled to land at Santa Barbara at 8:39 pm.

FOG SLOWS SEARCH

Fog hampered early morning search efforts. Pilot Tony Machado of Santa Maria, who sighted the wreck, reported that "no survivors" could be seen from 100 feet altitude.

It was located high up in Refugio Pass, about halfway between Santa Maria and Santa Barbara, near 4,292 foot high Santa Ynez peak. Fresh skid marks were visible near the plane and it was still smoking when searchers spotted it.

Ground crews were dispatched to the site, about one mile from the nearest road.

At dawn today, an armada of search planes took off to fan over the primitive mountain canyons and the nearby Pacific Coast seaways.

RESCUERS READY

Paramedics from Air-Sea Rescue Squadrons based at March Air Force Base were in the search planes, ready to parachute with medical aid should there be any sign of life around the wreckage.

A San Diego Coast Guard Captain, D. B. MacDiarmid, reported that the ship apparently "pulled up into a stall and pancaked flat down on the slope."

MacDiarmid, in a PBY search plane, said the airliner had crashed at about the 2,500 level of Refugio Pass, about 600 feet below the crest of a ridge.

MacDiarmid said wreckage of the plane was scattered for 100 yards and that fire from the burned and wrecked craft had fired brush along a 50 yard strip.

HIT AND STOPPED

"It just looked as if the plane hit the ground and stopped," he said.

Ground crews used bulldozers to cut a roadway through the primitive canyon.

The crash site is about 105 miles north of Los Angeles.

Norton Clapp, a Seattle shipping executive, was the first of the relatives to arrive at search headquarters here. He told reporters how his wife and her daughter by a previous marriage boarded the plane because of an orchid.

She had been notified only Friday that her orchid had won the sweepstakes prize in the Annual Santa Barbara Orchid Show. She was en route to the show.

Also aboard was John Burgan, 38, California newspaperman and novelist. He was assistant editor of the Ventura Star - Free Press and had written several books and magazine fiction.

Prayers Too Late

LOS ANGELES, April 7. (AP) —"I have asked you to pray many times for other people. Now I ask that you pray for my son. . ."

With those words, the Rev. Paul Myers, "First Mate Bob" of a popular religious radio program, Haven of Rest, went on the air today for his daily broadcast.

But soon after, word came that Pvt. Richard Myers, 19, was one of 22 killed in the crash of an airliner near Santa Barbara.

Pup Guards Young Master's Grave

Brownie, a mongrel pup, maintains a daily vigil at a family burial plot where his four-year-old former master, David Lamar Siegrist, is buried at the East Petersburg, Pa., cemetery. The boy was one of four killed in an auto-train crash. Brownie has remained at the grave since the funeral two weeks ago.

Wiley Demands Showdown On Fate Of Crime Probe

WASHINGTON, April 7. (AP)—Senator Wiley (R-Wis) demanded today "an early showdown" on the question of keeping the Senate's crime investigation alive.

At the same time Wiley, a member of the crime - hunting committee, said it was "utterly fantastic" that three reputed Capone mob leaders haven't been questioned by the group.

They are Charles and Rocco Fischetti and Murray L. (The Camel) Humphreys. All three surrendered earlier this week to Senate Sergeant at Arms Joseph C. Duke.

Wiley and Senator Tobey (R-NH), another member of the committee, have drafted a resolution to extend the nationwide probe until Jan. 15. The committee headed by Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn), is due to expire at the end of this month.

Wiley said in a statement that an early showdown on their resolution is imperative. If a decision is put off until the last days of April, he said, the probe might be killed off by "parliamentary delaying tactics."

"There are whole areas of interstate crime which have not even been touched" by the committee's investigation, said Wiley. He mentioned "dope sales to youngsters," organized prostitution, and waterfront crimes.

The Fischetti brothers recently were listed by the committee as among the four top leaders of Chicago's Capone gang which it has called one of the nation's two major crime syndicates. The probers described Humphreys as a major figure in the gang.

Wiley said it was "utterly fantastic that three notorious individuals should have been secretly brought in and simply released under small bond by independent action of the Senate sergeant at arms, without the crime committee even attempting to question them."

ONE MISSING

"It seems to me," he added, "that we are treating lightest of all the very individuals whom we should be treating toughest of all—namely those wise guys who for months and months have flouted the Senate by evasion of subpoena and warrant."

The Fischetti brothers and Humphreys were among 17 missing witnesses for whom the Senate issued arrest warrants. All but one of the 17 now have been rounded up.

Senate's Foes Of RFC Given Aid of Hoover

WASHINGTON, April 7. (AP) — Senate foes of the RFC got support today from former President Hoover in their drive to abolish it.

It was under Mr. Hoover's Administration in 1932 that Congress created the big lending agency.

The RFC now is under fire of a Senate Banking Subcommittee which has accused it of becoming subservient to a political influence clique which reached into the White House.

Senator Byrd (D-Va), a leader of the anti-RFC move, made public a letter from Mr. Hoover declaring the agency should be put out of business.

The former president headed the Hoover Commission, which in a two year study of government operations, found the RFC a hot potato issue.

Mr. Hoover wrote that while the commission did not recommend liquidation of the RFC, a "Task Force" (Subcommittee) which studied the agency's affairs did recommend its abolition.

And, his letter added:

"I favored the abolition and do yet."

Hoover's letter quoted from the commission's report that "direct lending by the government to persons and enterprises opens up dangerous possibilities of waste and favoritism to individuals of enterprises. It invites political and private pressure, or even corruption."

"Emergencies may arise in depression, war, national defense or disaster which must be met this way (direct government loans such as RFC makes), the report said. "But direct lending should be absolutely avoided except for emergencies."

Act to Freeze Farm Parity To Be Fought

WASHINGTON, April 7. (AP) — Senator Maybank (D-SC) declared tonight he will fight and administration move to freeze farm parity as a method of curbing food prices.

He made the statement under circumstances which appeared to herald a farm bloc drive in Congress to prevent any tampering with the parity program.

Maybank said farmers' income has shrunk $5,000,000,000 since 1948, and added:

"There has been an outrageous campaign waged to deceive and fool the people of the United States, to have them believe that parity prices are largely responsible for inflation."

Government stabilization officials reportedly are considering such a parity freeze move as Maybank opposed. It would require Congressional approval.

Maybank is chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, which handles wage - price control legislation. The committee plans to start hearings soon on extension of the present law, which expires June 30.

Maybank also heads the Senate-House "Watchdog" Committee on Defense Mobilization. In that capacity, he announced he is arranging for a meeting next week of farm organization leaders to discuss the situation.

He said he also is inviting Secretary of Agriculture Brannan and the Senior Democrats and Republicans on the Senate and House Agriculture Committees.

Parity is a formula designed to give farmers a fair return in relation to the price of industrial items they buy.

CEILINGS PROHIBITED

The present law prohibits price control on farm commodities before they reach the parity level. Some are above that level, others are not.

There have been some contentions in the administration that food prices cannot be effectively controlled so long as the parity restriction remains in the law.

Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson told Maybank's "Watchdog" Committee this week that the stabilization agencies have been working on a plan that would alter the parity method. He declined to elaborate.

One version is that the plan would freeze parity at the Jan. 15 level, instead of letting it chase industrial prices. That would open the way for earlier control of certain farm commodities than otherwise would be possible.

Hard, Short Rain Here Friday Said Not Enough To Do Good

The elements gave promise Friday afternoon of turning loose a drouth - breaking rain — but the promise was only partly kept by precipitation here, said by Mrs. D. P. Strayhorn, weather observer, to be .20 of an inch.

The violent rain clouds which approached from the southwest was preceeded by a dust storm that gave the mid afternoon a twilight look.

Estimates of the actual amount of rainfall here varried. Oscar Fowler, county agent, said that his gauge registered .45 of an inch. Other estimates ranged downward from that to .20 inches.

GREET RAIN

Ranchers and farmers of the area greeted the rainfall, although it was light, with out stretched arms. It is not enough to raise a crop on, but it might help bring up early spring plantings, and it will put life in grass lands.

A comical incident in connection with the rain was that it resulted in a false fire alarm from Southeast Snyder, members of the Snyder fire department said.

FINE MIST

Rain running down a room hit the gutter and lapped over. The strong west wind hit the overlapping water, and made a fine spray of it. A neighbor saw the spray and thought it was smoke coming from the house—so both fire trucks a number of volunteer firemen, and spectators rushed to the scene in the midst of the down pour.

The rain was pretty general over this area. It extended from West of Snyder and Colorado City east to Cisco and Albany with different towns of the area reporting varying amounts of rainfall.

Farmers here said that the rain would help their grasses, but that it was not nearly enough as is needed for cotton planting. They said that from two to three inches would be needed before cotton would come up and thrive.

Snyder home owners who had been watering their lawns could relax and enjoy themselves, because most thought Friday's rain would be a big help. Cars were sticking temporarily on streets that have been excavated for paving, and children had the first opportunity to wade in gutters in months.

Atendants at the Santa Fe railway station said their thermometer, read at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon and 3 o'clock Saturday morning, showed 54 degrees both times.

Cloudy skies presisted through Saturday but no more rainfall was in sight.

Grand Jury Is Still Meeting

The grand jury, which had been in session Monday through Friday, recessed until 9 o'clock tomorrow to continue their investigations of crime in Scurry County.

Murder, felony thefts, burglaries, assault to murder, and other crimes have been probed by the grand jury, with continuous stream of witnesses appearing before it during the past week.

Bob Davie, district attorney; Elden Mahon, district attorney of the 32nd that formely had jurisdiction here, and Keith L. Merrick, county attorney, have been assisting the grand jury in its work.

Big Red Counter Drive Hurls Americans Back

McGrath Hurls Challenge On Court Inquiry

TYLER, April 7. (AP) Attorney General McGrath said today Congress should not shake an investigative stick at the Federal Courts.

He took direct issue with Senator Bricker (R-Ohio), who recently criticized court handling of some cases involving alleged Communists. Bricker said Congress should broaden its current investigations to include some Federal Judges.

In a speech to the Smith County Bar Association McGrath indicated clearly that he sees no need for such an inquiry and said he does not think Congress has power to make it.

The banquet here observed a unique situation in Texas judiciary history. One hundred years ago, the Texas Supreme Court and the Federal Court for the 'District of Texas" were in session at the same time here and in the same building. It never happened again.

TOP JUDGES ATTEND

Attending tonight's celebration were approximately 700 judges and lawyers from Texas. The gathering included almost all the Federal Judges in Texas, the Texas Supreme Court members and former members of the court. Also present were some of the most noted attorneys of the state.

In an interview preceding the banquet, McGrath was asked if the Supreme Court decisions giving control of the tidelands to the Federal Government would be used as a wedge to secure nationalization of industry.

He replied, "I would certainly hope that our country would never come to that."

Asked whether the United States intended to press for control of any oher coastal areas, the attorney general said there was no need unless resources were developed of vital intrest to national defense.

DANIEL PRAISED

But he said, "Every state is on notice that the resources of submerged coastal lands belongs to the United States Government."

Asked wheher he felt any concern over being on the same program with Texas Attorney General Price Daniel (who was to introduce him tonight and who leads the fight for state control of the tidelands), McGrath replied:

"No. I highly admire and respect Price Daniel and I think he's doing a commendable job as Attorney General of Texas. He's handling the job the same way I would if I were Attorney General of Texas."

He assured reporters that the Federal Government had no intentions of extending its claim to resources inside the mark of high tide.

In his speech, without calling Bricker by name, McGrath asserted:

"Only very recently, a powerful voice has urged the Congressional investigation of judges who have released Communists and alleged Communists on bail pending judicial review of their convictions of various offenses.

"CONTRARY TO JUSTICE"

"This suggestion is to me completely contrary to basic concepts of American justice. Under our system, the questions of when bail should be granted and what constitutes reasonable bail are judi-

Snyder Rents Hit Toboggan

A slash in Snyder rents, averaging about 25 per cent, has been made in the last four months by two of the largest rental property real estate men in the city.

L. A. McLanahan and Johnny Cruse reported that luxury rental property, private houses and big apartments, have taken the biggest reduction.

McLanahan said a six - room house which rented for $125 in December now is renting for $90, and an apartment which brought $100 at the end of the year is now renting for $75.

Cruse Realty Co. has cut rents on private homes from $150 to $100 a month, and at the Westward Ho Courts and cottages, 2800 Avenue D, rent on furnished apartments with bills paid has dropped from $105 to $60. Other private homes handled by Cruse have dropped from $125 to $75.

The Waymar Apartments, handled by Cruse, have dropped from $125 to $110 a month, furnished, and from $100 a month to $85 on unfurnished units.

"In handling property I travel from Montana to Miami," Cruse stated, "and I can truthfully say that Snyder rents now seem to be in line with other cities."

PRIVATE OWNERS

Neither dealer knew how rental property handled by private owners has declined, but both ventured the opinion that it was declining to the same level as the property they handle.

"I assume the garage apartments in private homes also are coming down," McLananhan said, "because three months ago an apartment I had for $80 a month stood empty but was filled immediately as soon as the rent was reduced to $65."

A check in the classified department of the Daily News revealed that apartments now are being rented as low as $40 a month, and that there are many below $60, the lowest rental any apartment was advertised for.

Rift Widened As MacArthur 'Crisis' Grows

WASHINGTON, April 7. (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur, straining at the United Nations leash in Korea, stirred up a growing controversy in the nation's Capital today.

On one side, there were demands to "take the wraps off" MacArthur and give him more power to carry the war to the Chinese Communists. On the other, there was a charge that the general has become too big for his boots and may soon become a liability.

The controversy flared in and out of Congress against the background of an expected new Chinese Red offensive and the possibility — only hinted at — that the Russians might take a direct hand in the conflict.

Speculation about this possibility stemmed from last Wednesday's statement by House Speaker Rayburn (D-Texas) that Communist forces massing in Manchuria included non - Chinese troops. Rayburn said there is a "terrible danger" of World War III.

TAFT URGES ACTION

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told a newsman today that Chinese Nationalists should be given American arms to invade the Chinese mainland and "take the pressure off our boys fighting in Korea."

MacArthur, himself indicated he favored this course in a letter read to the House by Republican Floor Leader Martin of Massachusetts Friday.

On the other side of the fence, Senator Kerr (D - Okla.) lit into "MacArthur the Magnificent," as he called the general, and charged in a blistering statement that "his one - man act is wearing the patience of the rest of the team mighty thin."

From Tokyo, MacArthur added fuel to the flames by saying the release of 120,000 South Korean troops from the United Nations force involved "political decisions beyond my authority."

RESERVES DENIED

Senator Ferguson (R - Mich) called this to the attention of Secretary of State Acheson. Ferguson wrote the secretary that all told, a military reserve of 500,000 South Koreans is denied to MacArthur, and said further:

"I simply do not think it sits well with the American public to think that we are incurring more and more casualties in Korea, and calling up more and more men for military service, when employable manpower from the very country we are fighting for is not being used.

The State Department, like military leaders and the White House, declined comment.

President Truman met with Secretary of Defense Marshall and Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. An announcement later said they discussed "the world situation." No details were given.

State Maintenance Would Save Taxpayers $66,000 Per Year

Thousands of dollars paid by Scurry County taxpayers will be saved annually by accepting the state's offer to maintain more than 80 miles of county roads, free of charge, M. R. Estes, county surveyor, said yesterday.

Estes, also a licensed architect and engineer, estimated the cost of maintaining the roads if the county rejects the state's offer would amount to more than $66,000 a year in addition to approximately the same amount of the roads not included in the offer.

NO ACTION

The county so far has taken no definite action regarding the state highway department's offer which included not only free maintenance of 80.2 miles of proposed county roads but also free engineering. The question is due to be acted upon in tomorrow's meeting of the commissioners court, according to Edgar Taylor, county judge. The 80.2 miles are part of a 157-mile county road project recently approved in a bond issue election here.

Coleman Hasie, of the Lubbock engineering firm of Hasie & Green, which holds a contract with the county for engineering the roads for which the county will pay the engineering cost, told the court last Monday he thought the construction would cost at least $16,000 per mile.

"After the roads are three or four years old, they will need resurfacing with a seal coat," Estes said, "and this expensive process will have to be repeated about every three years as long as the roads are used.

The cost of seal coating an eight-mile strip of road was estimated at $20,000. The road project is to cover 157 miles which would make the total maintenance cost $392,500 each three years or $130,833 every year from the time the roads are completed. The maintenance costs on the 80.2 miles would run $66,000 annually on the years ahead basis of this estimate.

COST TO COUNTY

The county's only cost of accepting the offer, Judge Taylor said, is the forfeiture of one allotment from the state to build eight miles of farm road in 1952 and 1953. By the time the roads are completed, the county will be back on the allotment program to receive eight miles of construction from the state every two years until about 116 miles of farm roads shall have been built at state expense in the county.

Such an eight-mile road would cost the state something like $140,400, provided the state paid for everything, including $8,000 engineering fees, $6,400 for fencing, and $17,000 a mile for construction.

But the cost to the county of engineering 80 miles of roads plus the cost of only the first seal coat job would amount to $276,800, and the road would still be left to the county for maintenance in the years ahead.

Two Incumbents Are Returned To School Board In Election

Snyder citizens yesterday reelected J. B. Turner and E. H. Williamson to the school board.

Turner received 32 votes, Williamson 26, and their only opponent, Collie Fish, received eight votes. The terms of Turner and Williamson were the only ones expiring this year on the Snyder board of seven men.

On the school board of the county-at-large, the only members whose terms were expiring, Dave Hess and Perry Echols, were reelected. They had no opponents.

Results of the elections at Ira, Hermleigh, and Fluvanna were not available here last night.

All - Out Battle Raging As U.S. Troops Yield

First Major Opposition Allies Have Met In Several Days Drive

TOKYO, Sunday, April 8. (AP) — The Chinese Reds suddenly turned and fought advancing Americans north of the 38th parallel on the Korean Central Front today after two days of retreat.

AP Correspondent William C. Barnard reported from that front that the Reds used artillery, mortars and machine guns to hurl back an attacking American platoon from a ridge overlooking the Pukhan River north of Chunchon.

The correspondent said 17 units of one American Division were engaged in that area.

It was the first major opposition the Allies had met since Wednesday when they drove across the 38th parallel, old political boundary of North and South Korea.

RETREAT TWO DAYS

For the past two days the Chinese had unexpectedly broken off almost all contact and retreated steadily in a broad area four to eight miles inside North Korea.

This was still the case in the west, latest dispatches reporting that only Allied patrols were able to keep up with the retiring enemy.

Whether the sudden stiffening in the center marked a general ending of the Red fallback was not apparent.

However, it was believed the U. S. Eighth Army forces had still some distance to go before striking the main Chinese line. This line was believed to be along the railroad between Chorwon and Kumhwa, 20 miles inside North Korea.

HEAVY BLOW DUE

There have been many predictions that north of that line the Chinese were massing fresh forces for a spring offensive that would be their heaviest effort yet in Korea. The aggressive Eighth Army drive is aimed at throwing this anticipated Red offensive out of gear before-hand.

Coupled with this aim, American B-29s Saturday heavily bombed the Yalu River bridges from Manchuria into Korea and 250 British Marines made a Commando raid near Songjin, Red east coast port 120 miles south of Manchuria.

The British, covered by American carrier planes and naval guns, demolished a section of the mainline coastal railway eight miles south of Songjin.

The B-29 bombers were protected by 30 F-86 Sabre jet fibhters while 50 F-84 Thunderjets fought a swirling series of dogfights with 40 Russian-made MIG jet planes that attempted to intervene.

RED PLANES HIT

The Sabres did not get into the battle, but the Thunderjet pilots estimated they damaged two MIGs before the Reds fled back to Manchuria, where Allied planes are forbidden to pursue. No American planes were hit.

Earlier Saturday two unarmed F-80 jet photo planes escaped when they were jumped by 18 MIGs over Northwest Korea.

Higher School Total Indicated By Census

Although tabulation of the school census taken recently has not been completed, indications so far are that the schools in Snyder will have considerably larger enrollments next term, according to Elmer Taylor, business manager of the school system.

Latest enrollment total is 3,148. Included in the census were all children who were to be at least six years old on or before Sept. 1 and who would not be 18 on or before Sept. 1. "This, however, will be more persons than will be in school," he said, adding that some will not attend school although of school age.

Kent Wildcat Drilling Ahead After Testing

Kewanee Oil & Gas Co. No. 1-E Wil Connell, wildcat in Southwest Kent County, flowed oil in three hours on a six-hour and eight-minute drillstem test at 7,218-240 feet.

Gas surfaced in seven and one-half minutes on the test. Oil flowed at the rate of 33 barrels during the first hour, with 13.75 barrels in the second hour, 19.25 barrels in the third hour, and 11 barrels in the fourth hour.

Gravity of the oil was 39.5 degrees. Flowing pressure was 150-2,325 pounds. Shut-in pressure was 2,850 pounds.

Recovery included 13.10 feet of salty sulphur water.

Operator is now drilling ahead.

The No. 1-E Connell is three-quarters of a mile south and one mile west of the nearest completed oil well in the East Polar-Pennsylvanian field and 16 miles southwest of Clairemont in section 3, block 5, H&GN survey.

Crockett Venture Will Test Pennsylvanian

Cities Service Oil Co. is preparing to plug back to the Pennsylvanian and test the section at 6,191-6,192 feet on its No. 1-E J. W. Owens, wildcat in Central-West Crockett County.

The project indicated a new gas and distillate discovery on a drillstem test from 6,191 to 6,192 feet.

It drilled to 6,733 feet in Ellenburger dolomite and recovered 6,500 feet of salt water on a drillstem test at 6,672-6,773 feet.

Top of the Ellenburger is 6,625 feet. Minus datum is 3,854 feet.

Location is 1,685.36 feet from north and 2,312.24 feet from east lines of section 14, block GG. It is two miles south and slightly east of Cities Service No. 1-B Owens, which discovered Wolfcamp pay in the Clara County field in May, 1947.

B. F. Renfro, 2509 Avenue Y, was taken to the hospital and back to his home again Friday for X-rays by a Dennis Funeral Home ambulance. Renfro had injured his hip in a fall at home Thursday.

No Oil Shows On Borden Site

Hunt No. 1 Gray, wildcat about 11 miles southeast of Gail, is drilling below 7,750 feet in shale and lime after a drillstem test in the Pennsylvanian at 7,710-733 feet.

With tool open one hour, gas surfaced in 52 minutes. Mud came to the top in 58 minutes. Recovery was 7,733 feet of salty sulphur water, with no shows of oil or gas made.

Open flowing bottom hole pressure was 625-1,375 pounds. Shut-in pressure after 15 minutes was 3,250 pounds.

This wildcat is slated to drill to 9,000 feet to test the Ellenburger.

Location is in the southeast corner of section 224, block 97, H&TC survey. It is three and three-quarter miles northwest of the Canning Wolfcamp field.

Show of Oil From South Ector Wildcat

A lime section, probably Wolfcamp, has developed 40-gravity oil and show of gas in Union Oil Co. of California No. 5 H. S. Foster, wildcat in Southeast Ector County.

Operator took a two and one-half-hour drillstem test from 9,730 to 9,752 feet. Gas was at the surface in 72 minutes. Recovery was 330 feet of free oil.

Following the drillstem test, a core was cut from 9,752 to 9,782 feet. Recovery was 2 feet of lime with fine porosity and good fluorescence, 10.4 feet of black shale, 14.2 feet of lime with a trace of porosity and fluorescence, and .6 feet was shale.

After the core was pulled, operator started making more hole with a drill bit.

No. 5 Foster is 1,320 feet from north and west lines of the northeast quarter of section 7, block 43, T-3-S, T&P survey. That puts it five and one-half miles southwest of Odessa.

Salt Water Recovered From Stonewall Well

U. S. Smelting, Mining & Refining Co. No. 1 J. B. Patterson, Northwest Stonewall County wildcat, is preparing to plug and abandon at total depth of 5,245 feet in the Palo Pinto lime.

Operator took a drillstem test at 5,330-325 feet. Tool was open one hour, and 45 minutes. Recovery was 460 feet of muddy salt water with no shows of oil or gas.

Top of the Palo Pinto was at 5,300 feet on a minus datum of 3,425 feet.

Drillsite was nine miles northwest of Peacock in section 440, block D, H&TC survey.

New Court Recorder Here

Oscar E. Clark, formerly of Plainview, was recently appointed official reporter for the 132nd district court by Judge Ben F. Thorpe. Possible Harvest Crisis Is Discussed at Agents' Meeting

Throwing gloom on the agricultural labor picture for this year is the fact that the bracero agreement between the United States and Mexico expires July 1, and may not be renewed, county agents and home demonstration agents were told at a district No. 7 meeting in Abilene last week.

"We are going to do the best we can with the available help but we anticipate a huge cotton crop in Scurry County", O. M. Fowler, county agent, said.

ALTERNATIVES

"Should the picker situation become acute, then the farmers will have to resort to the stripper method, gathering hulls and cotton at the same time," said Fowler.

The Abilene meeting Thursday and Friday was featured by special talks on practically all phases of agriculture, by W. I. Mitchell, San Angelo, district agent in charge of the county agents section, and Miss Thelma Casey, district home demonstration agent in charge of the farm women division, and others. Joint meetings also were held throughout the two-day session.

Among the speakers on the program were Fred Elliott, state cotton specialist, who spoke on varieties, insect control, balanced farm program, ginning, marketing, labor saving equipment; B. G. Hancock, assistant horticulturist, who stressed important functions regarding gardening; F. E. Lichte, gin specialist, spoke on many points of the ginning industry; A. C. Gunter, extention entomoglist, who told of work being done to control insects.

Fred Walker addressed the group on range management, including the grass and range contests on a district and state basis; he also cited methods of mesquite control; J. M. Landrum, expert on grasshopper control; E. Q. Miller, extension agronomist, told of the adapted varieties of oats and grain sorghum and wheat for the rolling plains.

A representative of the government from the pink boll worm division, said this pest was only found in Mitchell County in this area last season, but was soon put under control.

Lee Coffee of the extension service told of the development of hybrid corn in this district, and Jack Sloan spoke on visual aide, recommending slides and pictures for the educational program; Dale Weddington, executive assistant, spoke on plans for insurance for the extension employees; Carlton H. Power, of the national cotton council, also addressed the meeting.

It was announced that the annual district encampment for boys will be held June 7-8 at Buffalo Gap.

Fowler said he plans to hold a number of group meetings this spring, and much of the information gathered at the Abilene district meeting will be imparted to the farmers of this county. Miss Sparks will hold similar gatherings, she said.

About 75 persons were in attendance at the two-day conference.

Dawson Wells Drilling Ahead

James H. Snowden No. 1-35 Carrie S. Dean, Dawson County prospector 10 miles northwest of Lamesa, recovered only 226 feet of drilling mud on a drillstem test at 6,632-725 feet.

Operator is now drilling ahead below 6,725 feet in the Spraberry.

Snowden No. 1-43 Dean is also drilling in the Spraberry below 6,749 feet.

It ran a drillstem test at 6,643-733 feet. With tool open one and one-half hours, a weak blow of air surfaced in 45 minutes. Recovery was 90 feet of drilling mud with no shows of oil or gas.

The No. 1-43 Dean is northeast of Lamesa and in section 43, block 1, J. Potevant survey.

Small Refineries Will Play Important Role in Emergency

By MAX B. SKELTON

SAN ANTONIO, April 7. (AP) — Small refineries are to have an important part in supplying petroleum products during the national emergency.

A Petroleum Administration for Defense official this week said these refineries possess the "flexibility" the industry needs for emergency operations.

Reid Brazell, PAD refining division director, said the small plants figure prominently in plans for meeting aviation gasoline, jet fuel and domestic oil and industrial fuel requirements.

He said the number of products made in the small refinery is comparatively small with [illegible] product yield changes normally causing little disruption.

The Alma, Mich., refiner spoke here before the annual convention of the Western Petroleum Refiners Association, whose membership predominantly consists of operators of refineries with small daily capacities.

"When an emergency occurs, the small refiner can almost instantly change his [illegible] to products needed and thereby give to the country's refining program the flexibility which is required," Brazell said.

400 REFINERIES

The nation has less than 400 oil refineries. Their daily crude oil processing capacities range from 500 to 250,000 barrels.

Over half have capacities of only barrels or less a day. Another 85 to 100 can process from 10,000 to 50,000 barrels daily.

Late 1950 statistics placed over half the nation's refining capacity in 31 plants, with individual capacities ranging from 50,000 to 250,000. These plants had total facilities of handling 3,519,000 barrels a day, compared to the nation's over-all capacity of from 6,700,000 to 6,900,000.

Brazell said the abilities of small refiners to reduce construction costs complicated and expesive plant installation will aid greatly in averting a shortage of aviation gasoline.

COSTS ADJUSTED

Some operators, he said, have removed, without loss of processing efficiency, the "gold plating" from normally expensive projects, thus adjusting costs to fit the pocketbook of the smaller refiner.

"We in PAD view the small refiner as the one hope for causing the cost of alkylation units (vital to production of high octane aviation gasoline) to be reduced sufficiently to permit economical peacetime operation," he said.

The jet fuel situation, Brazell said, still is being complicated by pending military specification changes. A jet fuel established two years ago involves a mixture of gasoline, kerosene and light burner oil.

TIME REQUIRED

"Normal gasoline, kerosene and light burner oil blends will no longer meet requirements," he said.

Specification changes normally require six months or more, but Brazell expressed hope products meeting the new jet requirement will be in production within a matter of weeks.

"As jet fuel demands increase, the small refiner can play an increasingly important part in supplying military requirements," he said.

Some Shows In Kent Test

Kewanee Oil & Gas Co. No. 1 Oliver, Northwest Kent County wildcat, has completed a drillstem test at 6,605-636 feet.

With tool open two hours, a fair blow of air was present throughout the test. Recovery was 120 feet of slightly oil cut mud. Samples had good odor, and appeared to have solution cavities. Porosity was estimated at 10 per cent. No gas or water was present.

Flowing pressure on the test was zero. Bottom hole pressure was 1,100 pounds.

Location of the No. 1 Oliver is 660 feet from south and east lines of the southwest quarter of section 11, block 1, H&GN survey and 12 miles northwest of Clairemont.

Try to Complete Crane Well From San Andres

Placid Oil Co., Callery & Hunt, Inc., and Byrd-Frost, Inc., are running casing for completion attempt in the San Andres, which showed sweet gas and yielded heavily oil and gas cut mud on a drillstem test in their No.1 A. E. Culbertson estate, Southeast Crane County wildcat.

The drillstem test was taken from 3,110 feet to 3,315 feet. Tool was open three hours. Sweet gas came to the surface in one hour and 25 minutes.

It had shows free gas and heavily gas cut mud on a drillstem test at 2,050-2,155 feet.

Location is 660 feet from southwest and southeast lines of section 16, block 6, H&TC survey.

That makes it four miles southwest of the Eppenauer-San Andres field and 15 miles south of the town of Crane.

One mile east of the two-well Tankersley - Strawn field of Southeast Irion County, Frank and George Frankel and Shell Oil Co. have completed their No. 1 J. I. Rawls as a discovery and producer from the Wolfcamp of the lower Permian.

The new oiler was finaled for a 24-hour potential of 135 barrels of oil flowing through a 10-64-inch tubing choke.

Production is coming through perforations in casing opposite the Wolfcamp at 5,464-94 feet. These perforations were treated with 300 gallons of acid. Flowing tubing pressure was from 400 to 425 pounds.

Gas-oil ratio was 325-1.

No. 1 Rawls is at the center of the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 9, GC&SF survey and 10 miles south of Mertzon.

The well flowed 24 hours through a 12-64-inch choke to make an initial production of 84.32 barrels of oil. Gravity of the petroleum was not reported.

Gas-oil ratio was 154-1. No water was present.

Top of pay is 3,000 feet and total depth is 3,113 feet. Seven-inch oil string is cemented at 3,078 feet.

The pay section was acidized with 2,000 gallons.

Location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 82, block 11, H&GN survey and three miles southwest of Girvin and four miles east of Oswego.

Kewanee Stakes Well

Kewanee Oil & Gas Co. has staked location for the No. 5-D Wil Connell in the East Polar - Pennsylvanian field of Kent County. It is to be 15 miles southwest of Clairemont and 660 feet from south and east lines of the northeast quarter of section 3, block 4, H&GN survey. Operations are to begin upon receipt of application approval.

Polar-Pennsylvanian Completion Reported

In the East Polar - Pennsylvanian field, Kewanee Oil & Gas Co. has completed the No. 3-D Wil Connell.

The well made 49.74 barrels of 39.2 gravity oil and 70.48 per cent water on a 24-hour pumping test. Gas-oil ratio was too small to measure. Top of the pay is at 7,250 pounds, with production from perforations at 7,247-253 feet.

Drillsite is in the northwest quarter of section 3, block 4, H&GN survey.

Graduation Styles Forecast

For the social events planned during graduation time, your sweet girl graduate could look outstanding in one of these fresh, young frocks, which she can make herself. Modern patterns and a few simple sewing lessons will give her all the professional tricks. At left is a simple style in crisp embroidered organdie which will see duty for months to come as a summer dance frock. The same with the creamy lace gown at right, both typical of teen age dresses to be made at home.

Armour's Chief Hopes He Erred On 'Black Mart'

CHICAGO, April 7. (AP) — Frederick W. Specht, president of Armour and Co., hopes he was wrong in taking the stand that meat price controls will not work. He hopes his prediction of a black market—made at a stockholders' meeting here Feb. 16 — won't come true.

"Our whole organization is doing its level best to make this price control system work," Specht said in an interview. "We hope for the good of the country that we were wrong in taking the stand that artificial meat price controls will not work."

The president of the nation's second largest packer, who started working for Armour at $12 a week, said he realized government officials had an extremely difficult task in trying to control inflation. He said he was in sympathy with this effort.

CAPITAL PROBLEM

"In our company," Specht said, "our most pressing problem is to maintain our working capital at adequate levels. Today we have a working capital of $168 million, which is almost double the $90 million we had ten years ago.

"But we're like the fellow who has $100 in the bank and finds he could buy more with his money when he had only $50 ten years ago. We can't buy as much with our $168 million as we could with 90 million ten years ago."

In order to build up a working capital, Specht said, the company has been retaining earnings instead of making dividend disbursements to its stockholders. It has not paid a common dividend since 1948.

What distresses Specht in the price control situation is that he may not have enough animals to slaughter. To make money, meat packers must sell meat, and to sell meat they must first slaughter livestock.

FEWER CATTLE

Recalling the last time ceilings were tried, Specht commented:

"There were weeks in 1946 when Armour in all its plants was able to slaughter only 3,000 to 7,000 head of cattle. Under normal circumstances we would have slaughtered 36,000 to 43,000 head."

Why was that?

According to Specht, it was because fewer cattle than usual were for sale in the regular livestock markets. He blamed this on black marketeers, who, he said, "were buying directly from producers in the country."

Even so, Specht said, quite a large number of animals did come to livestock markets.

"Armour buyers and buyers for other reputable packers went out day after day and bid on those animals," Specht said, "but they never could bid high enough. There were other buyers, newcomers to the stockyards, who consistently bid more than we could under OPA regulations.

BLACK MARKET SEEN

"These newcomers represented black marketeers. They got the livestock and our plants were idle."

The Office of Price Stabilization has taken steps to prevent a repetition of this situation. It has ruled new slaughterers can't start in business unless they can show they are badly needed by the public. All slaughterers are limited to the proportionate share of animals they killed in 1950.

While this is a move to halt the black market, Specht said it still did not get at the problem of backyard slaughtering in the country.

"All you need is a tree, a rope and a knife," he said.

Kingsley's 'Darkness at Noon' Wins Circle Prize of the Year

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK, April 7. (AP)—This week must have been a triumphant one for Playwright Sndney Kingsley. His "Darkness at Noon," a Broadway hit, was announced the winner of the New York Drama Critics' Circle Prize of the Year.

This is the season when many prizes are being awarded in the theater. Although naturally most attention will be centered upon which play receives the Pulitzer Prize on May 7.

Originally, people in theater circles paid attention only to the Pulitzer Prize, but now they are highly conscious of the box office values of other awards.

SELDOM AGREE

How much the Drama Critics Circle Prize is worth is a question that only Drama Critics can answer. Only three times have the working critics agreed with the Pulitzer awards since the Circle was organized in 1935. The Pulitzer Awards have been coming through since 1917.

Prize giving this season started a fortnight ago when the American Theater Wing gave the Antoinette Perry Awards to that hupchabupcha musical with a lot of busty dames called "Guys and Dolls", and Tennessee Williams' sultry, subtle drama, "The Rose Tattoo."

"The Rose Tatto" is trouping off with four ribbons.

For Kingsley, the critics' prize for "Darkness at Noon" is another in a long list of achievements since he was a beginner actor in the theater.

FIRST PLAY WINS

When he came out of Cornell University in 1928 he was an actor playing around in a push - around But he wanted to write plays. His first one was called "Men in White" and it won the Pulitzer Prize in 1934.

When he did "Dead End" in 1935, Kingsley wrote a clinical report account of metropolitan slums. He did it with such an impact that President Roosevelt's slum clearance project for the nation quoted from it.

"Ten Million Ghosts" and "The World We Make," the last a dramatization of Millen Brand's novel, "The Outward Room," came before "The Patriots," which dealt with ten years in the life of Thomas Jefferson and restated a new belief in and support of Democracy. "The Patriots" won the Drama Critics Award in 1943.

Boom-Period Building Permits In City Near $7 Million Mark

Since the boom hit — from Jan. 1, 1949, until April 1, 1951— two years and three months, 1,444 building permits have been issued by the city engineering departmnt for constructions costing a total of $6,978,482.

That is an added wealth approximately equal to the assessed value of the entire county prior to the boom.

TREND UP AGAIN

Permits issued for 1951 have shown a decrease from comparable periods during the two previous years, but they seem to be on an increase again now, W. J. Ramsey, city superintendent, said.

For the 27-month period an average of $258,462 in permits was issued each month. If it had all been in new houses costing $8,615.40 each, there would have been one started each of the 810 days of the period.

But it included constructions of all types. There were more houses built than anything else, but business buildings have accounted for a big part of the construction costs.

Two new church buildings, a new telephone building, the new Diamond M Foundation building, and many, many other business buildings were included.

Eckersall Put Down as Mite 'Without Fear'

(Fourth of a Series)
By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO, April 7. (AP) — Walter H. Eckersall, chosen Thursday as the All-Time, All-America quarterback, was a fearless mite of 145 pounds who accomplished dazzling feats when football was so rough President Teddy Roosevelt said it must be made safer.

Eckersall was accorded the honor on the All-Time College Football Team chosen by The Associated Press in a national poll of newspaper and radio sports editors to screen candidates for the National Football Hall of Fame at New Brunswick, N. J.

Thrice picked All-America while starring from 1903 through 1906 at the University of Chicago, Eckersall was a daring, elusive runner, a spectacular drop-kicker, punter, tackler and field lader.

Those were the days when deaths and croppling injuries resulting from passed play by big, ponderous brutes had football on the ropes and its leaders had to rule out mass formations and hurdling.

Eckersall died at 46 on March 24, 1930, a victim of heart attack.

During his collegiate career, Eckersall held nearly every punting and drop-kicking record. He performed the astounding feat of kicking five field goals in two separate games. His punts always sailed 60 yards or better.

The tiny, flitting Old Maroon holds the distinction of being a pioneer in the forward passing game. In 1905 when forward passing just was coming into football, Eckersall, although never throwing a pass before, connected on a heave to the late Wally Steffen for a 75-yard gain and Chicago's first touchdown against Illinois.

Texan Named For Football Hall of Fame

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., April 7. (AP) — The nation's football experts had to span half a century to pair the greatest tandem of guards in the history of the sport and provide them with a pivot man.

Choosing an All-Time All-America for Hall of Fame consideration, sports writers and broadcasters in an Associated Press poll named W. W. (Pudge) Heffelfinger, the old indestructible of Yale, and Robert Suffridge, the modern slasher from Tennessee, to the guard position.

In between this steller pair, they placed Adolph (Germany) Schulz, gargantuan center on the Michigan machines developed by Fielding H. Yost in 1905-1908.

LIVES IN TEXAS

Heffelfinger, giant stalwart of the Eli forward walls from 1888 through 1891, was a product of the days of the long-haired players with nose guards, laced canvas jackets and moleskin pants.

He prided himself on the fact he could still play a robust game of football at 65. At 83, he lives an active life at his home in Blessing, Tex.

Suffridge was the human butcher-knife who sliced out the path for ball-carriers for Bob Neyland's great touchdown machine of 1938-39-40.

Schulz played five years of varsity football, making All-America his next-to last season in 1907.

HALL OF FAME

The poll to choose the All-Time All-America was conducted by the AP to get first nominations for the National Hall of Fame, a $5,000,000 shrine planned at Rutgers University.

Players chosen for the first three teams will be considered for a permanent place in the Hall of Fame by the Hall of Fame Honors Court. More than 100 sports editors participated in the poll and the final ballot represented thousands of opinions since many newspapers conducted subordinate polls among their subscribers to determine their choice.

Heffelfinger received the heaviest vote, getting 559 points on the basis of 10 for a first team vote, five for second and two for third. Suffridge received 253 points to beat out Tennessee's Herman Hickman and Southern California's Harry Smith, who got 124 and 178, respectively, to make the second team.

KI ALDRICH PLACES

Third team guards were Clarence (Biggie) Munn, who played his last year at Minnesota in 1931, and Truxton Hare, the old Pennsylvania All-America four years running in 1897 through 1900.

At Center Schultz collected 223 points to beat out Mel Hein, the Washington State star of the late '20s, who got 188, and Ki Aldrich of Texas Christian ('39), who drew 102.

Snyder was second in the mile relay, Hamlin first, Roby third, and Roscoe fourth.

Men on Snyder's second place mile relay team were: Hicks, Pitner, Gary, and Hagenheizer.

Yesterday's rain almost undid a full day's work in preparing the track for the meet, Coach Speedy Moffett said. He and other coaches and high schol students worked until 11 o'clock Friday night, and from 5 till 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning redoing their job.

Hogan Slated Pro Golf Boss

RIDGEWOOD, N. J., April 7. (AP) —Battling Ben Hogan was proposed Friday as a commissioner of professional golf.

He got the nod from former National PGA President George Jacobus of the Ridgewood Country Club.

The idea of a gold commissioner was suggested earlier in the week by Masters Champion Jimmy Demaret at Augusta, Ga.

Jacobus, in telegrams to Demaret, Hogan and other leading pros, said he was suggesting Hogan "as the logical man for the job."

Hogan himself said he thought "a good business man could do the job." He added that "something's got to be done and mighty quick" to settle some of the bitter controversies which have cropped up in the sport recently.

Tank Invades Merritt Farm As Guardsmen Prepare For Camp

Private Dick Sealey with the Snyder National Guard unit is shown as he maintained radio contact with the training tank in last Sunday's training outing south of Snyder. Other men were trained in scouting and patroling during the afternoon. — (Lee Watson photographs).

Enlisted men in the National Guard unit here last Sunday afternoon got a taste of what they will experience this summer in their annual encampment.

An outing which lasted from 1 b'clock Sunday afternoon until almost dark was participated in by all the enlisted men of the unit under the command of First Sergeant Acalee Kincaid.

The outing was held on the Joe Merritt farm about three miles south of Snyder on the Colorado City highway.

Members of the unit's communication squad remained in contact with the tank from their radio-equipped jeeps while the tank maneuvered over the area, up hill, down hill, across creeks, and over sizable trees that would have posed a formidable obstacle to anything lighter and less sturdy.

While tank crews maneuvered around the field, scouting and patrol squads worked out compass problems.

More training of a similar nature is planned for the local warriors before their summer encampment. Between now and July 1, the unit is to have six week-end bivouacs, and six week ends of training in the armory, in preparation for the summer encampment at Camp Polk, La., July 1-15.

Members of the unit are already planning their vacations so that they will be free at that time.

Some employers who usually give only two weeks vacation periods are giving three weeks to members of the guard unit so that their employees will have a week in which to relax after the encampment before returning to their jobs.

American GI Always Rated For Wisecrack

BY TOM STONE

Somewhere in Korea, April 7. (AP)—10,000 miles away from home fighting for something he doesn't understand against an enemy he hates—but he always manages to come up with a wisecrack or a smile.

Take the time a young recruit quipped:

"That enemy machine gun fire last night didn't make me nervous—I just smoked a pack of cigarettes real quick and went back to sleep."

Or the time somebody tried to pull a fast one on the switchboard operator at a frontline command post.

"Quick," he said excitedly, "give me the underwater mess kit repair regiment."

The cool headed kid at the switchboard replied in a voice serious "Which do you want, sir the 71st or the 72nd?"

THE K. P. RIBBON

Then there was the time the commanding general of the division came out to the regiment to present several silver stars, some bronze stars and other medals.

A Tennessee corporal watching the presentations said with a grin:

"Next thing you know they'll be giving out a K. P. ribbon with an oatmeal cluster."

An army dentist with a sense of humor just as sharp as his waxed mustache observed: "Yes Sir, the North Koreans are Communists all right—they are the commonest in the world."

On a bulletin board in the operations tent of a division air section was a notice painted at the bottom of the flight schedule

"All flights to Seattle, Denver, Lawton, Mobile and Boston Temporarily suspended."

IT'S TENTATIVE

Or you'll ask a GI where he is from:

"Able Company, First Battalion."

"No, No. Where are you from in the states?"

"Oh, I'm from Chicago."

"What's the street address?"

"Well, I don't exactly live in Chicago. I live in Bloomville, 30 miles away."

"What's your street address in Bloomville?"

"Well, I don't exactly live in Bloomville. I live just outside of town. Rural route one."

Or you might pick a GI and ask how long he's been in Korea.

"Nobody'll tell me," he'll say, sadly surpressing a smile.

Firm's Opening Success Here

Paul Keaton literally "packed 'em in' yesterday afternoon and last night at the formal opening celebration of his Snyder Truck & Tractor Company's new building on East Highway.

"One of the best shows I've ever seen in Snyder," Keaton said. The response of the crowd varified this.

The Chicago troupe put on two shows here yesterday. The afternoon show was performed before an audience of over 500 persons. The night show brought out about 1,000.

"I've got all the chairs I could get hands on," Keaton said, "and it doesn't look like it is enough." He had 500 chairs in the big shop in the rear of the building.

Well-wishers from all over Scurry and from several surrounding counties dropped in during the day to extend congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Brown, 2609 Avenue G, have received word from their son, Sgt. Harvey Brown Jr., that he is now an instructor in marine electronics in San Francisco, where he was sent after a recent visit here with his wife.

But 'Charming' Forger Faces Seven-Year Term

DALLAS, April 7. (AP) — Leonard Karl Grumbach, a forger his victims remembered as "good looking and charming" faces a seven year prison tern.

The 35-year-old Louisiana State University graduate pleaded guilty Friday.

Grumback, a three - time former convict, told police he would forge the names of legitimate businessmen on phony checks, deposits the checks in a bank, then withdraw some of the money out of the bogus account to "meet a payroll."

Automobile Part Supply Good Here; Less Trim On New Cars

A check of automobile parts houses here showed that reports of increased sales of parts over much of the country had not become true here yet.

Snyder's oldest automobile parts dealership reports that their business has not shown any increase due to the increasing scarcity of new cars over the nation.

"That is probably true here because there is a greater per cenage of new cars here than in most towns of the country," H. B. Dennis, owner and manager of the D & D Auto Supply Co., 2407 Avenue S, said.

"I believe that a bigger percentage of new cars are being driven here than in any other part of the country," Dennis said, "because people here have a bigger average income than people of other towns.

"So far business for the first what it was for the same period in 1950, but it is ahead of the business for the first three months of 1949 and years before the boom," Dennis said.

Other automobile parts dealers verified Dennis's story.

Used parts dealers had much the same story to tell, but they said that they had a constant demand for parts for older model cars.

OLD MODELS

Raymond L. Jones, a partner in the Snyder Wrecking Co., and in the Texas Wrecking Co., in Abilene said, "We have been able to sell parts from old model cars here as fast as we could get them, but parts for later model cars just don't seem to move.

"However, if the new car shortage becomes serious the demand for parts for later model cars will increase."

Some parts for late model cars are becoming scarce, because of strikes and steel shortages, but most parts are still available, dealers said.

LESS TRIM

One noticable result of the tightening metal siutation is that most commercial vehicles—trucks and pickups—delivered to dealers here now do not have chrome grills and trim. Painted grills and trim items are being substituted for chrome.

That shortage of chrome parts has not shown up on new cars being delivered, however. New car dealers say that present shipments of new cars, when they get them, still have chrome on all the parts originally designed to use chrome.

Weight of some automobile body parts have been reduced to use less metal. The grills on new Buicks for example are not made of bumper steel as they were in 1950. In the new Buick design, the grill advance of 1950 was discarded for the old style used up until that time.

Bob Dupree of the Bob Dupree Nash Co. said that sale of their Rambler Nash, the small one, would be pushed because he and the Nash company feels that the public will increasingly demand a car that gives greater gasoline mileage, and wears out fewer parts and tires.

Other car companies are featuring smaller cars, too. Both Buick and Oldsmobile have put out 1951 models that are smaller and use less metal than their 1950 counterparts. The Oldsmobile "88" has been slightly reduced in overall length, and the same thing is true of the Buick "Special."

PUBLIC FEELING

Those reductions in size and amount of metal are partly due to a public feeling that cars were becoming bigger than necessary, dealers here said.

A reduction in size of a car usually results in an increase in maneuverability of the car, dealers said. And the same reduction in size results in an increased gasoline mileage, which will be important if the nation should be faced with a gasoline shortage.

The quality of parts used in cars has not decreased, dealers said, and automobile manufacturers will produce fewer cars rather than reduce the quality of the parts used in building them.

Tire Restrictions Are Being Felt By Local Tire Dealers

The National Production Authority's 25 per cent cut in the delivery of tires and tubes for new car manufacturers and an order that retail inventories be limited to a 30-day supply has been felt here, tire dealers say.

Stanley Noah, part owner and manager of the Bill Ragsdale Tire Co., on Avenue S one block north of the square, said that they probably have a 60-day supply on hand now, but that their orders for the past month had only been about 40 per cent filled.

"From 85 to 90 per cent of our business is wholesale, and I don't know if the 30-day inventory order applies to us or not, but I do know that we are not getting all the tires we order," Noah said.

"The tire and tube situation here is tighter now than it has been anytime since the war," Noah said.

"We can't operate on a 30-day inventory, because we can't even get enough tires to stay that far ahead of the current demand if things don't loosen up soon," Noah said.

MORE RECAPS

Tread and tire repair and recapping business just about doubled last month over what it had been most of the previous months.

"It looks like the recapping business will be even bigger this month than it was last," he added.

"A big shortage of truck tires is the most serious handicap in the tire business now," he said.

"Last month we received only about $3,000 worth of truck tires, and our average business each month before had been from $10,000 to $15,000," he said.

Other tire dealers in Snyder said that their tire shipments were behind time, and short.

Some dealers said that they were still receiving straggling shipments of white widewall tires even though the government ordered that no more white sidewall tires be produced after March 15. They believe the white sidewall tires coming in now are the last they will get, and are tires that were manufactured before the government cessation order went into effect.

NO HOARDING

"I don't believe there will ever be another run on tire dealers by people wishing to horde tires," Noah said.

"Most tire buyers now just do not have the surplus cash to purchase more tires than they need for the present," he said.

Manufacturers have increased the price of tires so that people are not inclined to hoard them, he said.

A new set of tires now costs from $80 to $100. Each tire for the average car costs from about $23 up retail, he said.

Close on the heels of the government's reduction orders came the order of most automobile manufacturers to reduce the number of tires supplied with each new car from five to four.

That means that new cars manufactured after the government orders went into effect will have no spare when delivered to the dealer, he said.

There has been no indication that the manufacturing of the new style low-pressure tire be stopped, but if rubber and other materials used in tires becomes scarce enough, manufacture will probably go back to the older high-pressure tires, tire dealers think. The low-pressure tires are bigger and require more materials, they said.

Teacher Group Passes Grade School Texts

The textbook committee of the Snyder school system has completed its selection of textbooks to be used here for the next six school years, the administration office announced yesterday.

Books were selected for subjects and grades in which present contracts were expiring, these being arithmetic books for the third through eighth grades, spellers for the second through eighth grades, and basal readers for the first three grades.

SAME READERS

The committee agreed to renew the present contract on the readers, a series of seven books for the three grades, three to be used in the first grade, two in the second, and two in the third. These are the Curriculum Foundation Series published by Scott, Foresman & Co.

A series of arithmetic texts, each entitled "Making Sure of Arithmetic," will be used in place of the present texts called "Arithmetic We Use," published by the John C. Winston Co. The new books, like the present texts, are written on different levels for the different grades. They are published by Silver Burdett Co., of Dallas.

"My Word Book" by Lyons & Carnahan Co., Dallas, was chosen for the speller text, with the same title being given each book, although on graded levels. The present text is "Spelling Goals."

The books will be ordered from the state school board in a few days, the officials said, and will probably arrive some time in August.

They were selected from a large number of books recommended by the state board in a multiple choice manner. The committee members circulated sample books among the teachers in those subjects, asking each teacher to rate each book listed according to preference. The committee then graded the books, choosing the ones with the highest ratings.

Prices of the books range from 72 cents for the smallest reader to $1.26 each for the arithmetics. All spellers are 66 cents each.

EARLY PRIMERS

"We Come and Go" is a pre-primer reader for use by beginning first grade pupils. "Fun With Dick and Jane" is an 81-cent first grade book to be used in the latter part of the first semester, and "Our New Friends" is considered the first basic reader of the first grade. Its price is 90 cents.

"Freinds and Neighbors" is used in the first semester of the second grade; and "More Friends and Neighbors" is used in the second semester. "Streets and Roads" and "More Streets and Roads" are the third grade texts. They are priced to the schools at $1.11 each.

The school system pays for the books under the Gilmer-Aiken Act system, whereby each school is allowed a per capita apportionment.

No change in high school books was made because no contracts were expiring on high school texts. All books are used on six-year contracts.

The textbook committee is composed of the school superintendent M. E. Stanfield, and seven teachers. They are Mrs. Golda Thorpe, first grade; Miss Vallie Eoff, second grade; Mrs. Christine Hass, third grade; Mrs. Lida Rhodes, fourth grade; Mrs. Max Popnoe, fifth grade; Miss Polly Harpole, sixth grade; and Miss Margaret Miller, seventh and eighth grades.

Notice To Fire Insurance Policy Holders

EFFECTIVE APRIL 1st, 1951 . . . The State Board of Insurance Commissioners has ruled that the $50.00 (Farm) $100.00 (CITY) deductible clause applicable to wind ,tornado and hail shall be made optional at the election of the policy holder.

EXAMPLE

$1,000.00 insurance policy on a building or structure written for one year.
Initial waiving charge $15.00
Additional waiving charge ..... $ 1.50
Total waiving charge—1 year $16.50
If the policy is a three year policy the additional premium would be $41.25: and if it is a five year policy the additional premium would be $66.00.

The deductible applicable to farm and ranch buildings is $50.00. This is also optional at an increase amounting to approximately one half of the charge as shown in the above example.

The purpose of this notice is to inform the insurance buying public of this charge.

The above waiver increases the rate by appproximately 50 per cent. In view of the excessive rate charged to have this deductible clause removed from the policies, we cannot recommend it to the present or future fire insurance policy holders.

ALL FIRE INSURANCE POLICIES ON BUILDING STRUCTURES COVERING WINDSTORM, TORNADO AND HAIL WILL BE RENEWED WITH THE DEDUCTIBLE CLAUSE UNLESS YOU NOTIFY YOUR INSURANCE AGENT TO THE CONTRARY.

The ADVENTURER

Human life is an endless chain of adventures, from the first timid steps of early infancy to the feeble shuffle of tottering old age. Human progress has followed the trail of the adventurer as man has explored new frontiers and pushed on in his conquest of the world.

Adventures in the realm of mind and spirit are as fascinating and fully as important as those on land and sea. They open up new fields of thought and new realms of spiritual experience. Thus man's inner life expands and is developed along with his body.

In all his adventures, man should have God as his guide and counsellor. Innumerable dangers lurk along the paths of life and pitfalls are on every hand. God is a light and shield to those who trust Him. He gives strength to the weary and faith to the discouraged.

Like the little boy in the picture, we walk in dangerous places. Let us go forth in the strength and courage of God.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

If Words Were a Penny Each, Senate Spent a Real Fortune

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, April 7. (AP) — If words were a penny each, the Senate spent a fortune in the debate about troops for Europe. It ended this week.

Now another one is starting, but milder, with everyone joining in: Who won, the President or his critics in the Senate?

The answer is of minor importance, for in the long run the real question will be: Did the country win? We may not know 'til we get in a jam.

If you lost interest in the long-winded argument, here's an explanation of the main points up to date.

RIGHT QUESTIONED

Late in 1950 President Truman said he intended to send troops to Europe to help build an international army with our partners in the Atlantic Pact.

Did he have the constitutional right to commit American troops to such an international without getting Congress' approval? He said he did.

Former President Hoover touched off the debate on this whole Troops-for-Europe business in December.

He argued against American troops for Europe at this time at all. In fact, he said he didn't think another American soldier or dollar should be sent to Europe until it had built a sure defense of its own.

BUILDUP FAVORED

Mr. Hoover certainly didn't win. The Senate voted for putting at least six American divisions into the international army.

But two Republican senators who picked up the Hoover ball and carried it further than he did — Taft of Ohio and Wherry of Nebraska — won, if not a whole point, at least a part of a point.

They said the President had no constitutional right to send the troops without first getting approval of Congress. The big Senate debate began. It went on, all told, for three months.

The senators, obviously unsure of themselves and what they were doing, weasel - worded and admitted they couldn't be sure of the meaning of a resolution which they had plenty of time to put in writing.

TWO MAIN POINTS

They finally cleared it up — to their collective satisfaction, although few if any individuals were fully satisfied. They voted a resolution which said two main things:

1. It was all right for Mr. Truman to put six divisions in Europe.

2. But before sending more, he should get the approval of Congress.

But what does No. 2 mean? From the talk that's going around, the answer seems to depend on the side you're on.

Actually, that Senate decision—called a resolution — simply expressed the opinion of the Senate, its opinion of what Mr. Truman should do.

It is not a law. Since it isn't, Mr. Truman can ignore it if the time comes when he wants to send more troops to Europe. Whether he will or not is something he'll decide for himself.

To prepare Thousand Island Dressing to serve with hearts of lettuce, mix a cup of mayonnaise with three-quarters cup of chili sauce, a little finely grated onion, a quarter cup of sweet pickle relish, and a sieved hard-cooked egg. Chopped pimiento-stuffed olives may also be added to this delicious dressing.

cial questions: The decisions were made after full presentation of all relevent facts, and having been made in accordance with American judicial standards, should not subject the judiciary to unseemly investigation.

"The complete independence of our judiciary is one of the prime characteristics distinguishing our form of government from the governments of less fortunate lands."

McGrath pointed out that the constitution provides for impeachment procedure by Congress against individual judges.

AIDES CITED

The attorney general's defense of the Federal Courts followed by just 24 hours the action of the U. S. Appeals Court in Washington in citing Secretary of Commerce Sawyer and a number of McGrath's top aides in the Justice Department for contempt. The citations resulted from long and bitterly-fought litigation between the government and the Collar interests over ownership of controlling stock in the American Presidents Steamship Line.

McGrath made no reference to this circumstance.

However, he told his audience that in these times "the complete independence of the entire Federal Bench should not be endangered or curtailed, and it would be foolhardy to bring such independence into question in the eyes of the world.

McGrath outlined the nation's efforts against Communistic influences.

"DOOMED TO FAILURE"

"As a conspiracy directed by a foreign power, it (Communism) is doomed to failure. So long as we are alert to its true meaning and means of achieving its subversive ends, I do not think we need have any real concern with the possibility of the success of Communism in this country.

"I am concerned, however," McGrath said, "with the effect upon our Democratic way of life of our efforts in successfully halting the march of Communism."

McGrath said the nation needs to be concerned about those who smear all opposition sentiment with the label of Communism.

Fine Fabrics--Maybe Last For Years--Are Offered In Superlative Spring Styles

BY FRANCES BIOW
(Member of the News Staff)

The best suit that you can buy is your best buy this spring.

Seldom has the importance of long - range wardrobe planning been so evident as it is this year, when it is generally agreed that quality and variety of clothing are at a peak that may not be reached again for many years.

Though shortages and restriction loom on the horizon, this spring's collection of suits, dresses, and topcoats represent the best that American fabric manufacturers and fashion designers can offer—and their best is superlative.

By next year, the experts predict, fine fabrics may be scarce and styles may be restricted by government order, as during the last war. But right now the selection is almost limitless, styles are at their wearable best and fabrics are handsomer than ever before.

Biggest news in the spring lineup is the ensemble, or costume suit, consisting of dress and jacket, suit and removable cape, suit and weskit, dress and cape and, soon. Some suits have matching stoles, other have jackets lined in fabric to match the blouse, still others have matching or harmonizing top coats.

Top color choice for spring, is, as usual, navy, with gray a close runner up.

Suits are softly tailored, in lightweight fabrics, with chiffon-weight tweeds, worsteds and flannels high in favor.

Prices are high, but so is quality. You'll probably get very little change from a $100 bill if you buy an "investment" suit this spring —but if you choose your suit wisely it should prove the backbone of your wardrobe for years to come.

Parents of Snyder Man Observe Their Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Lieb, parents of Alfred S. Lieb, 810 Twenty-seventh Street, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last Sunday in their home at Lorenzo, Tex.

From Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lieb and their two children, Charles and Bob, attended the celebration. Other children of the H. R. Lieb family attending with their entire families were W. G. Lieb of Sweetwater, Mrs. Ralph Smith of Abilene, D. B. Lieb, Portales, N.M.; and Mrs. M. W. Jackson, Myre, Tex.

Mrs. Lieb's brother, L. C. Breland, and his family attended from Anson, and Mrs. Alfred Lieb's mother, Mrs. R. L. Haynie, of Stamford, attended.

Twelve other out-of-town guests from neighboring communities also attended.

Wednesday Bridge Groups Holds Meeting

Mrs. Lester Schraub was hostess last week to the Wednesday Bridge Club in her home at the Texas-New Mexico Pipe Line camp.

Mrs. Schraub served refreshments of cake, coffee, and cokes before the bridge play began.

Members present were Mrs. Harold Parsons, Mrs. A. A. Phillips, Mrs. E. L. McAfee, Mrs. Jimmie Wilkins, Mrs. C. R. Crim, and Mrs. J. D. Sheridan. One guest for the afternon was Mrs. Homer R. Hurst.

Mrs. Snyder Shows Little Resistance to Meat Prices

Certain luxuries of living may be going by the board these days because of inflated prices, but meat is apparently not one of them in Snyder.

Retail meat markets in certain sections of the nation have reported marked consumer resistance to fresh meats because of the extremely high prices. However, out of five markets checked here only two reported a substantial reduction in recent sales.

One of the markets which reported a decrease in sales estimated that the dollar volume had dropped about $200 from what sould be average for this season. However, the sale of chicken, cured meats and fish took up part of the loss. Cheaper cuts of meat, liver, brains and sweetbreads are also selling more rapidly.

The other market which reported a decline in sales in recent weeks reported that wholsale prices were slightly lower on latest deliveries, which could help recoup their losses.

All the markets which handle cured meats, fish and chicken reported that sales of those products has shown increase.

Probably as important as the decreases in the sales of the two markets were general increases in sales reported by three of the markets. The increase is slight, and probably seasonable, the market men pointed out.

"It may be that this is after March 15 (income tax deadline) and car tag time," said one butcher, "Anyhow, the customers are buying more."

Week-end purchases in the meat departments are heaviest. More housewives buy steak and roasts at that time while stocking up for guests or family dinners.

One of the market men summed up the attitude of most of the others when he expressed the opinion that people here don't consider meat a luxury by any means. Some customers will pass it by because of the price, he added, but most of his customers have little to say about the price.

A second market man said he received some complaints about the prices, but added, philosophically, "Some people always complain, no matter what the price."

Golf and Cards Entertainment At Ladies Day

A peculiar combination of flying dust mingled with fast - falling raindrops failed to break up ladies day at the Country Club Friday afternoon.

Some women still tarried at 6 o'clock for the good fellowship and that last round of bridge.

The greens, in top shape, were well frequented by mid morning. Mrs. R. S. Yorgesen, chairman of the golf committee, having gathered together an enthusiastic group of players to enjoy the perfect clearness of the forenoon.

A spring luncheon with a fried chicken course was served in the dining room at noontime to golfers and other women joining the group.

Bridge games began after the meal, some playing canasta.

All women club members who are golfers, or are interested in learning the game are cordially invited to participate in the next ladies day, urged Mrs. Yorgesen, who foresees an active golf season this spring on the new greens.

The next ladies day will be April 20.

TALK OF THE TOWN

By FRANCES BIOW

Alice Davis, whose earthy Texas phrasing has made "Bayou Boats" racy reading, is pictured above. The author lays some claim to Snyder as a hometown. Her grandfather was Charles Meyers, early settler here.

"Bayou Boats", a newcomer to Texas bookshelves, was written by Alice Davis, whose forebears settled Snyder in the early days. The author, who in private life is the wife of an air force officer and the mother of two, has set down in forthright language the trials, errors, jokes, and everyday life of the men and women who built ships in a typical shipyard, supposedly located near Houston, during World War II.

Her letters accompanying an autographed copy of "Bayou Boats", reads, in part:

"Just in case you want to make "home-folks" of me, my grandfather was Charlie Meyers and he and J. V. Riley, Will Scrivner, Mr. Bookout, and Red Buck Pruitt built the first school house in old North Snyder and named it the Bookout School. This was back in 1898 after my grandparents had homesteaded their section of land. (Needless to add, someone else now owns the old home place and there are oil wells all over it.)

"My parents are Walton and Annie Davis of Jayton, and they raised all us kids, 12 in all, and 7 of us went thru Texas Tech which in itself is quite a record. (I worked my way thru Draughon's at Abilene.) There was one other mother from East Texas at the graduation exercises last May who got top honors for putting eight kids thru Tech, but my mama got honorable mention.

"There is supposed to be a spread in the Houston Post soon about me and the kiddies around the house. I have noticed how Snyder is building up quite a name for itself in the cultural world now that it has such a name in the money world and thought your readers should enjoy reading about one hometown girl learning how to put her "ain'ts and them" down on paper."

"Bayou Boats" continues for almost 200 pages in the same breezy vein, rambling spiritedly in and out of Miss Davis' experiences as a secretary in the ship yard. She loses one boy - friend, sends another off to war never to return, but finds the right one in Johnny, the Flier. The office intracacies of a married Romeo, the troubles in launching the big finished boats into the narrow Houston channel, and the lusty jokes and legends which flew from typewriter to typewriter when there was a full ....this is all to be found in her first book.

* * *

Dedicated to "All men and all women who build fighting ships for our fighting men," the tale should interest anyone who ever worked in a big defense plant in the last war. The style is easy to follow and is described by a critic as being "tall, lean, humorous, and folksy", just like a Texas native.

Mr. and Mrs. ERNEST H. RICE of the Burdell Oil Co., are in Dallas this week end where they are guests of Mr. and Mrs. John R. McLean. The McLeans (he is a son of the famous "Hope Diamond" —Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean) gave a large party last night at the Brook Hollow Country Club. Mrs. Rice, who is interested in art, plans to stay over perhaps tomorrow visiting a modern art gal in downtown Dallas.

MRS. C. EARL FISH, 2901 Avenue W, thinks one of the icest moments of spring in Snyder (when it finally arrives!) is the appearance of a plucky little redbird which has endeared herself to the whole neighborhood in that area... this is her fifth spring to appear. She is a very constructive citizen, as last year she neatly nested and produced some wee warblers.... Where she goes, mysteriously and suddenly, when the Panhandle breezes grow cold, no one knows but always she returns to sing in Mrs. Fish's back yard....

* * *

BOB ENFIELD, busy with papers in Edith McKanna's oil offices, looked up to say he feels years older and positively paternal....after spending the week end in Fort Worth "jiggling my sister's babies on my knees. It's very wearing, being an uncle!".....

MISS LOUISE METZ, and I fell heir to a wonderful spring lunch today....a young matron friend put us first on a long list of career gals she is going to feed at noontime now and then, "as they're all ruining their stomachs with awful, quick - grabbed sandwiches".....

* * *

We daresay only one in ten will fancy this, but one of the best cooks we know believes the tastiest spring salad imaginable is an old German favorite. Take extra-cold, tangy sour cream and add to it cut-up salad vegetables-cukes spring onions, radishes, green pepper chunks, celery maybe. With salt and pepper this is munchy. Some add a box of cottage cheese. This makes it even more elegant, we think.

* * *

FOR BACHELOR GIRLS ONLY, PLEASE: The how-to-catch-a-husband specialists have, I think, overlooked a rather simple, elemental device: outdoor activity.

As a student of the subject of baiting and setting mantraps, I find this whole subject has been ignored. Personally, I think it is infinitely more effective than many of the complicated, involved techniques rather uniformly recommended.

For instance, had you ever thought of starting to re-stain or otherwise treat the roof of your house? All you have to do is set up an extension ladder in the front, set some pots and brushes around. Before you set foot to ladder there will be at least six neighborhood males strolling across your yard. They give advice, discuss, and obviously wait a request for help.

There are few things more attractive to a man—of any age—than a chance to climb around a roof for a few hours. Another sure-fire attraction is a piece of broken machinery. Run a power mower around a lawn for a few hours (If you have neither, borrow both from a married girl friend) and you will draw nothing more enthusiastic than friendly waves from passers-by. But! Let the mower suddenly quit and male neighbors for blocks around will start out for the house. Some come carrying their own wrenches, screwdrivers and oil cans.

Cement-mixing is another good gimmick and apt to be slightly less expensive and complicated than machinery-breaking or roof climbing. The attraction of men to cement defies all reason, but they flock to such a scene like humming birds to beebalm. They'll hang around, too, until the cement job is finished, happy as larks if they have a chance to do some of the mixing and smoothing work with a trowel or a hoe.

This system of attracting males, however, is unpredictable and hard to figure in advance. For instance, they'll come a-running if you plan to remove a tree with a block and tackle. But if you set to work with saw or axe, the eye of a male passer-by is as hard to catch as a waiter's. You can draw a crowd with a non-functioning car with a leaking radiator or dirty points, but you can work in blessed solitude over a flat tire that needs changing.

Washing a car will get you nowhere. But try getting stuck in the mud, snow, or on the edge of a precipice, and you'll acquire a legion of male helping hands. Pruning branches from the top of a tall tree will bring a big audience, each man eager to help and climb. But working on the same branches with sawbuck and bucksaw will clear the premises.

Of course, large numbers of the helping hands acquired by any of these methods belong to husbands —men who dropped their own appointed and dull chores to participate in the fun. But, eventually if the trap-baiter persists, one will strike pay dirt. Sometimes strangers wander in to offer a hand, and sometimes they are eligible. Even married men sometimes bring along friends or guests who are bachelors. A friend of mine met her future husband in the middle of a lake when her outboard motor quit on her. Even mechanics were unable to reassemble the motor, but she figured the loss well worth the result.

The marriage of Miss Janie Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Martin, Sr., of our city, to Mr. Joe Graham, also of Snyder, took place at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, April 6, at the home of the bride's parents.

The house was beautifully decorated with ferns and spring flowers. Preceding the ceremony the bride's sister, Miss Rhoda, wearing a beautiful gown of gold and rose changeable silk taffeta, sang "At Dawning." The bridal chorus from Lohengrin was played by Mrs. Walla Fish as the bridal party marched to the flower banked altar from the center of which was suspended an enormus white wedding bell, while soft strains of "Humoresque" were heard throughout the service.

The bride was lovely in an apricot chiffon trimmed in gold lace over a slip of the same color. The bride's bouquet was made up of pink rose buds, sweetpeas, freesias and lace fern. The maid of honor, Miss Willie Fern Curry, wore a handsome gown of harvest chiffon over a coral slip.

J. Collie Fish acted as best man to the groom.

Rev. H. J. Manley, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, read the impressive ring ceremony. The family and intimate friends joined in celebrating the nuptials.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Graham left the city for San Angelo, Christoval and Eastland on their honeymoon. Following the wedding tour, Mr. and Mrs. Graham will be at home in Snyder.

Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, April 7. (AP) —How does America look through the eyes of a nine-year-old Italian boy? It's a wonderland of slot machines, television and Gene Kelly.

The boy is Guido Martufi, a round lad with a dark, expressive face. He arrived from Italy a few days ago with his father, Amerigo Martufi.

Amerigo, so named because he was nearly born in Brooklyn, is barber for the movie crowd in Rome. Because of his connections, he has been able to get movie jobs for his sons, Guido and Roberto.

Guido landed a good role in the recent "Teresa" and has been brought to Hollywood for a part in "Westward the Women." He speaks no English, so his interpreter is Johnny Indrisano, noted for teaching such stars as Ingrid Bergman and John Garfield how to box in films.

LOVES SLOT MACHINES

The onetime fighter told me that Guido's chief passion since arriving in the U. S. is slot machines.

"When he got off the plane, he saw a cigarette machine and asked what it was," Indrisano related. "I showed him how it worked and he was fascinated. Now he wants to put money in every one he finds, just to see what comes out.

"I took him up to see a television set in a store in Hollywood and he was amazed. When I turned on a baseball game, he started looking around the store to see where the players were.

AVID MOVIE FAN

Guido is an avid movie fan and was thrilled by his studio tour. But he had one disappointment "Where is Gene Kelly?" He is wild about Kelly and will put on a half-pint version of the actor's duelling scene in "The Three Musketeers," Guido's favorite picture.

What does he like about Kelly? The translation is roughly "He's so simple, so plain, so down-to-earth."

Guido is much interested in American gadgets and is in constant wonder over such things as refrigerators, gas furnaces and typewriters. While we were talking, he doodled with a typewriter. He proudly displayed his work "Gjn Kellj."

By now I hope he has caught up with Mr. Kelly. If so, he must be thoroughly convinced that the U. S. is a fabulous place.

Mr. and Mrs. John Francis Rodgers, 220 Twenty-ninth Street, are the parents of a son, James Charles, born Friday morning in Snyder Hospital. He weighed six pounds, three ounces at birth.

Ask Mildred

Now it is spring house-cleaning time. I dread most that rug shampooing job. Can you suggest an efficient method to do it at home? Mrs. R.L.D.

Shampooing your carpet or rugs at home will accomplish a great saving on the cleaning bills. Here is a method recommended by "Better Homes & Gardens" as most successful. First, thoroughly vacuum the rug. Pour a cup of hot water and a quarter of a cup of soap flakes into a bowl.

Beat with a rotary beater until the bowl is a mound of suds. With a stiff brush dip into the suds and scrub a 10-inch square of the rug. Rinse with a clean cloth wrung out almost dry in clear water. Rub in straight strokes, going with the pile. Repeat with another clean cloth. Follow the same procedure over the entire surface. If the suds lie down, beat them up again. When excess moisture is gone, run the vacuum over the rug to bring up the pile.

• • •

Help! My husband's socks invariably become thin at the heels while the rest of the sock is perfectly good. Will you suggest a fabric for reinforcing them? Mrs. A. B.

Use the tops of your old nylon stockings. Then darn over the thin patch and the reinforcing never shows. Yet, the sock wears twice as long . . . . . .

• • •

I am a recent bride and we love pancakes, especially for Sunday breakfast. Every time so far they have turned out either too crisp or absolutely soggy. Is there a fool proof recipe I could use? Those on the mix boxes won't work for me! Mrs. C.C.L.

For Guaranteed - Delicious Sunday morning pancakes: Four whole eggs broken into a mixing bowl and three - quarters teaspoon salt added, a pinch of sugar, then beat them vigorously with an rotary egg beater. Next sift in about one-half cup of all-purpose flour and continue beating until smooth. Slowly, whole milk is added, just enough to thin the batter to heavy-cream consistency (about one-fourth cup). Two tablespoons of melted butter are stirred in and cakes are ready to bake.

Baking is done one cake at a time in an eight-inch heavy iron frying pan. In goes one tablespoon butter, the heat high so the butter comes to a quick sizzle and turns golden brown. At this moment pour in about three tablespoons of batter, tilting the pan to and fro so it spreads quickly over the pan bottom, for this cake is going to be paper thin, the fine mark of distinction between a good and a mediocre pancake!

After a minute, you may lift the edge and peek. When golden brown flip it over. The cakes are served directly from pan to plate, soft, never crisp. Yum!

Mitchell County Farm Family Prosper Under Federal Plan

By W. T. MARSHALL
District 7 Farm Agent

In traveling through various sections of Extension District 7, it is our good fortune quite often to come in contact with outstanding farm families, whose opportunity of becoming farm owners can be traced back to the government sponsored tenant farm purchase program. One of these outstanding farm families is located in the Payne Community of Mitchell County.

Ed Roach, Sr., moved from Titus County to Mitchell County with his family in 1905.

At that time Mr. Roach was seven years old.

"We came here in a box car with all our belongings," Roach says.

For the next 35 years he worked on the U. D. Wulfjen farm and ranch. Mr. Roach had long dreamed of owning his own farm, but working for wages was a slow process, and his dream began to materialize, when in 1943, he was selected by the tenant purchase program committee to buy a farm. Through their help Mr. Roach was able to purchase a 317-acre farm in the Payne Community.

Mr. and Mrs. Roach now have two boys and one girl. One of the boys, Edward, Jr., is a graduate of Tarleton State College. Bill, the other boy, is a graduate of Sul Ross, and the girl, Wanda, is in her second year at Tarleton State College, majoring in home economics. Wanda's plans are some day to teach home economics or to become a home demonstration agent.

• • •

In conferring with Mr. Roach, it was divulged that the farm is now paid for. They have a car and a pick-up and all of the needed farm equipment to conduct a successful diversified farm. Mr. Roach stated that determination and co-operation with others are, in his opinion, the keys to success. Mr. Roach stated that Bill, who earned part of his money through 4-H Club work as a boy, now has a range management degree from Sul Ross College at Alpine. Bill is in charge of all soil building work on the farm, every acre of which is terraced.

Edward, Jr., better known as "Little Ed," is in charge of the dairy. Some time ago Little Ed was selected by the county agricultural Agent and the committee of the local dairy association to attend an artificial breeding course conducted at A&M College. Little Ed is now serving as technician for the Mitchell County Artificial Breeding Ass. The responsibility of operating the 50-cow dairy, now maintained by the Roaches, is the responsibility of Little Ed. In addition to this, they are constructing a 200-ton trench silo and Edward still finds time to visit with his friends in the dairy business and help them with some of their problems.

Joe Cowan, Mitchell County agent, says he makes a top assistant county agent— of course, working without pay.

• • •

One of the things that has yielded a good profit to the Roach family, and it has been copied by many dairymen in Mitchell and adjoining counties, was the water heating system developed by Little Ed on his father's dairy farm. This heating system keeps the water in a large circular water trough from freezing during cold days in the winter. It takes about one gallon of kerosene oil to operate it for 24 hours, and the increased flow of milk has paid for the cost of the equipment many times over.

Wanda, the daughter, when not in college, carries on the household duties and relieves her mother, Mrs. Roach, whose hobby is poultry raising. Mrs. Roach has a 30 by 60 tile laying house, where she keeps some 220 laying hens. Mrs. Roach's department of this diversified farm netted her over $1,000 last year.

When Mr. Roach was asked about his part, he replied that he had quite a line of chores. In addition he had planted 100 acres of cotton and 215 acres of grain sorghum that will be used in producing milk. The gross from the dairy section last year was around $12,000. It promises to become greater due to the fact that Little Ed made a trip up North to the dairy sections and purchased some top replacements for his cow herd. A poor producer on the Roach farm soon finds a way to the market and is replaced by an animal of a known production record. The Roaches study their rations and feed needs and plant their crops and balance their feed rations, with the idea of consuming a maximum amount of home grown feed or food.

• • •

Mr. Roach is a member of the Farm Bureau and uses the advice of the county agent and the vocational teachers freely in the management of his farm, and it is our prediction that with the amount of hard work, study and tenacity being applied by all members of the Roach family, that the 317 acres in the original farm will be increased before many more years.

Long Extender To Tex-Harvey Field Finaled

El Capitan Oil Co. No. 1 Mrs. W. A. Hutchison, one and three-quarters miles south of the closest production in the Tex-Harvey field of Central - East Midland County, has been completed as a producer.

Operator reported a daily potential of 129.72 barrels of 37-gravity oil.

The 24-hour flow was gauged through a 24-64-inch choke. Gas-oil ratio was 746-1. Production is from open hole at 7,072-7,110 feet.

The oiler is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 36, block 37, T-3-S, T&P survey.

That makes it two miles west of production in the south extension of the field on the Glasscock County side of the two county field, and two and one-quarter miles north and slightly west of Fred M. Allison and Associates No. 2 Judkins-Walton, recently completed as a long extender to the Tex-Harvey field.

Crane Wildcat Staked

J. C. Maxwell of Fort Worth has staked location for a 3,000-foot San Andres wildcat two miles north of the recently opened Eppenauer-San Andres pool of Southeast Crane County.

Location of No. 1 A. R. Eppenauer is 440 feet from north and 2,200 feet from east lines of section 1, block 6, H&GN survey.

Rotary tools will be used to drill, beginning immediately.

Phone Wires Regrouped For Better Service

Have you seen the men suspended from a telephone cable under a bright colored beach umbrella?

There are two crews of them—telephone linemen getting ready for Snyder's change to dial system.

RECONCENTRATION

For the next six weeks, these linemen will be working on telephone cables outside the central office, regrouping facilities installed last year.

Stanley Hill, wire chief here who will bear much of the responsibility for a smooth transition on that long-looked-for day when the system switches from manual operation to dial system, explains the present work on the cables this way:

"When we put in a big cable out of the central office last spring, some of our forecasts on the demand in various parts of the city were wrong. The work we are now doing will enable us to give better service with the present system of wires. In some parts of the city we have facilities which are not in use, while in others, the demand for telephones is greater than the facilities we have.

"The regrouping will make the unused facilities available for use where they are needed.

"We expect this work will relieve present shortage of lines, and will greatly facilitate our operation in the dial system.

"It is possible that some numbers will have to be changed, but very little inconvenience to subscribers is expected."

Meanwhile, in the central office, further expansion and improvement is going forward.

LONG DISTANCE

Plans are being made for installing four more long distance positions, not because they are urgently needed now, but because telephone executive forsee their need later this year.

No predictions are made by Marshall Kemp of Sweetwater, area manager for the telephone company, about when Snyder will go on the dial system. Telephone officials are quick to point out, however, that they are just as eager as the public to hear the dial tone on their Snyder phones.

Hike in School Apportionment Is Predicted

More money will be placed in the Snyder school system's bank depository during the next school year if the prediction of Dr. J. W. Edgar, state commissioner of education, proves correct.

The per capita apportionment available to schools for the payment of teachers' salaries will probably be increased for the fiscal year beginning next fall, according to Edgar.

Since the present term began, the apportionment has already been increased from $49.50 per student to $57, eliminating the necesity of many schools drawing from the Gilmer-Aiken foundation fund because of shortages.

The Snyder system has not had to draw from this fund, according to M. E. Stanfield, superintendent, who explained that another increase would not be of particular advantage to the system here but would help indirectly by its advantage to the state school system in general.

The apprtionment is sent to the bank depository of each school system in payments usually amounting to about $5 per student. These payments are spread out through the year so that at the end of the fiscal year, the schools will have received amounts totaling the per capita apportionment multiplied by the number of students.

Full Membership Of Health Board to Meet

The first regular meeting of the new board of health of the city-county health unit is slated to meet at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night at the courthouse.

Dr. James Kreimeyer of Abilene, acting director, said he would be in attendance, as well as J. E. Craven, Jr., newly appointed sanitarian for the unit.

This will be the initial meeting of the board with a full membership named. The board members are Dr. H. P. Redwine, Dr. Harry W. Ward, Mrs. Garrett Harrell, Mrs. Wraymond Sims, and Mrs. V. A. Knight. The board is scheduled to select a chairman at the meeting.

British Told They Must Go On Walking Economic Tight-Rope

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The British government has informed its people that the nation must go on walking the economic tight-rope so long as the country is compelled to continue its defensive rearmament program.

The annual official economic survey presents a grim picture of much further austerity to a people who already have had a bitter decade of it. Experts figure it will take four or five years more to finish the rearmament program, even if war is averted.

This burden is imposed on a people who have no fat left on their bones. It would be a tough program on any country, even if there were fat.

REDS BLAMED

Blame for this critical position is laid squarely on the menace of Russian armies. That charge, by the way, must be taken as a backhanded admission that the Bolshevist "cold war" is succeeding in its aim of causing economic difficulties among the Democracies. Britain isn't by any means the only one hard hit by the necessity of arming against implied or actual Red threats.

An important aspect of this position in Britain is that all political parties are united on carrying out the rearmament program. The program isn't apolitical issue at all, despite the ceaseless efforts of the Conservatives to cause the downfall of the Socialist Government.

The British standard of living has become very low. This isn't a new development, as I see it, but one which really began back in World War One and has grown worse with passing time.

-HEALTH GOOD

Despite the tough conditions the health of the populations seems good. Experts wonder, however, whether the physical stamina would be the same in event of war.

In any case, rearmament is going on. Some nine per cent of the national income was spent on national defense in 1950, and the authorities figure this may be increased to 12 per cent in 1951.

It's a stiff rate of insurance the Democracies are paying for security against Bolshevism.

Wholesale Petroleum Dealers To Get Relief

WASHINGTON, April 7. (AP) — Wholesale petroleum dealers are able Friday to apply for price relief from the Jan. 26 freeze order.

The Office of Price Stabilization issued a new order Thursday allow them to make price adjustments when the wholesalers feel they are necessary. The OPS later must approve such adjustments.

Price levels remain frozen at the highest charged to each class of customers between Dec. 19 and Jan. 25, however. Applications for relief must be filed through district or regional offices.

Thailand Queen Gives Birth to a Daughter

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, April 7. (AP) — Queen Sirikrit of Thailand gave birth to a daughter in a Lausanne clinic.

The queen married the youthful monarch of Thailand, King Phumiphon (Rama IX) in Bangkok last spring. They returned to Lausanne, where the king is continuing his studies.

Radio Change Urged

WASHINGTON, April 7. (AP) — James R. Curtis, president of radio KFRO at Longview, Texas, urged Friday the adoption of proposals to simplify license renewal procedures. He appeared before the House Commerce Committee studying changes in the Federal Communication Law.

Texas History Written in Brands

7F

BY JOHN M. HENDRIX

The 7F brand originated in Tom Green County. It was acquired by R. H. Harris and F. L. Harris in 1888 from John Fitzpatrick. Since that time it has been run by Ralph H. Harris. Between 1913 and 1917, there were about 20,000 cattle on the ranch of 600 sections of land At present there are about 5,000 Hereford cattle wearing the brand on 86,000 acres in Coke, Frio, Uvalde, and Kinney Counties.

The Harrises have long been recognized as pioneer cattlemen in the San Angelo country, and the interests of them and their families in the section are varied.

Don't Overeat But Don't Go Hungry Either

Are you one of those overweight gals who are trying to fight the "battle of the bulges" on a starvation diet? If you are, you probably have found the going a little rough. It just doesn't make sense to go on a starvation diet, take off weight and then quickly put it back on again when the diet period is over. For it is obvious that one cannot continue a rigid diet over a protracted period.

Other than the hunger and health angle, a starvation diet is apt to make one look haggard and "flabby". "What can I do then?" you ask. "How can I take off ugly fat otherwise?" Nearly four million bottles of a preparation called Barcentrate have been sold in Texas in the past eight years.

When you buy Barcentrate, you buy a preparation for taking off weight. You do not follow a starvation diet, nor buy vitamins to fortify you against weakness from lack of food. You need never know a hungry moment while reducing with Barcentrate. It contains no harmful drugs, but does contain ingredients to make you feel better.

Barcentrate does this: First, cuts down your appetite. Barcentrate takes care of your DESIRE. Second, dehydrates and eliminates, so that water is eliminated— almost like melting fat. At the same time, you feel better, more pepsy, more alive, but never starved or hungry.

Barcentrate is a home recipe. Just get four ounces of Barcentrate from your druggist. Four into a pint bottle and add 12 ounces of canned grapefruit juice. Then just take two tablespoonsful twice a day. The makers agree to refund your money if the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves —if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles.

Sanitarian Begins Work Here

Moral Lift, Physical Help Is Salvation Army's Dual Attack

Tuesday the drive for funds to continue the work of the Salvation Army begins here.

The success of the drive will determine to a great extent the amount of welfare work done in Snyder for the next year, C. E. McGaw, drive chairman, said yesterday.

TYPES OF AID

"Although the Salvation Army is an international organization, its community activities are always stressed," McGaw said. "In Snyder last year the Salvation Army handled 312 cases, and this included 987 individuals. Assistance included medicine, clothing, food, lodging, hospital care, ambulance service, care to unwed mothers, and transportation, he said.

"The importance of this type of work to a town the size of Snyder, which has so little welfare activity, cannot be overestimated," McGaw said.

"A motto of the Army is 'Meeting need at the point of need,'" he said, "and the Army does this better than any welfare organization I am acquainted with. It cuts out red tape and gets to the source of trouble."

Describing the organization of the Salvation Army, McGaw said that Texas is a unit of the Army by itself. All money donated in the state stays in the state.

Of the money collected in Snyder one-third will remain in an account here to be used by the local committee as it is needed. The remaining two-thirds is sent to state headquarters in Dallas.

When local funds play out requests are sent to the Dallas office and more money is sent here as it is needed. Last year the amount sent to Snyder was considerably more than the money collected in last year's drive, McGaw said.

FIGHT EXPENSES

"Low expenses make the Army a desirable charity to donate to," McGaw said. "By this is meant that the dollars donated can do work. Out of $1,300,000 spent by the Salvation Army in the state last year, less than 10 per cent went to personnel expense," he said. "This is an amazing example in itself, and illustrates the unselfishness of the workers."

"To illustrate this point," he said, "the major in charge of the state headquarters in Dallas draws a salary of $35 per week."

McGaw explained that many persons do not like to give to large organized charities, because they feel that they are supporting derelicts who could be supporting themselves. This is not the case with the Salvation Army, MrGaw said, because the Army has personnel trained to handle these persons. In the bigger cities the Army hires needy persons and gives them work in salvage drives and other similar work, he said.

"Another thing might be added along that same line, and that is that no actual money is ever given in any case. Only services and goods are ever extended," he said.

DROP TAMBOURINE

"Many persons say they have already given to the Salvation Army when actually they haven't, through no fault of their own," McGaw said. "Some local organizations from other towns use the tambourine, which the Salvation Army made famous, in soliciting donations. These organizations even use uniforms similar to the Salvation Army's. The Army does not use tambourines any more in towns where there are service units, and there is a unit here," he said.

"From a moral standpoint the Army is also doing wonderful work," McGaw said. "They not only feed, cloth and clean persons who are down and out, but they try to instruct him in the ways of God. Many converts are made in the Army. The Sarvation Army is just as presevering in its role of moral up-lift as it is in the role of extending physical aid to those in need," he said.

In addition to the local work done by the Army there are summer camps for underprivilaged children, homes and hospitals supported by the Army, McGaw said.

Even in Korea the Salvation Army has canteens right on the front lines, and behind the lines it maintains clean quarter for the boys to relax and take a bath in, he said.

"There can be no worthier cause to give to," McGaw concluded.

Escapees Are Brought Back

Dewell Turner, 28, and Fred Paul Moore, 30, who with three others escaped from the county jail March 27, and were later apprehended at Memphis, were returned to Snyder Friday night by Lloyd Merritt, sheriff.

"It took us three days to get to Tennessee but only one day to get back to Snyder," was the only comment made by prisoners when they were booked into the jail by Sheriff Merritt.

A G.M.C. truck stolen here the night the five escaped, was recovered in Oklahoma City Friday. The truck, owned by E. L. Farmer Trucking Co. was found abandoned there, officials of the company told the sheriff's office yesterday morning. Members of the sheriff's department said it was their belief that some of the prisoners used this vehicle during their escape.

No trace of the other three prisoners, Virgil Muse, Charles Gardner, 18, and Horace Edward Lyday, 21, has been found by local authorities.

Turner is charged with robbery of the Western Union office here, and Moore faces a forgery charge.

CWA Bargaining Agent

Rattlesnake Warning Is Issued After Hunt

Rabbit hunters, scouters, and picnicers should be on the constant lookout for rattlesnakes, Phil Burns warns after a snake hunt Friday afternoon.

Burns and Roud Fowler, government trapper for this area, went on a snake hunt on the Collins ranch in Southwest Fisher Couty Friday.

"We found rattlers as far as one-quarter of a mile from their dens of hybernation," Bruns said. The hunters killed 10 rattlers.

Texas florist shops report sales totalling more than 19 million dollars a year, according to the Census Bureau.

Case Filed Two Years Ago Now Comes to Trial

The first jury term of the civil docket in the 132nd district court is slated to get under way at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, with Judge Ben F. Thorpe, presiding.

A petit jury of 37 men has been summoned for service for the term which is scheduled to run through April and May, with 48 jury cases confronting the court.

Among the cases called tomorrow are Arthur Townsend vs. the Midwest Electric Co., for damages; C. E. Lancaster and John Kale, and Kale and Lancaster vs. Lewis Wheat, and Wheat and Sons, for compenstion; and Raymond Fowler vs. Texas Employers' Insurance Co., compensation.

A majority of the cases are suits against the Texas Employers Insurance Co., with 26 out of the entire docket setting against the company for compensation.

In order to prevent lost motion during the term, Judge Thorpe said he was going to call all cases for the week on each Monday, as case may be heard and completed that same day, and then call another case up for trial.

There are about 650 cases pending the 132nd district court, with more than a dozen being filed each day.

The first case called tomorrow was filed more than two years ago.

3 Councilmen Are Installed

Three new councilmen signed the oath of office last night at their first meeting as members of the city council. They are Claud Lloyd, Jack Contella, and R. B. Sears.

In his formal address of welcome to the new members, Forest G. Sears, mayor, said:

"I've been on the council a long time and I know it's a hard job the people have thrown off on you men. We used to meet once a month for about 30 minutes, but not anymore. Now we have to meet frequently for long sessions.

"Anything you want to know about the city's affairs, feel perfectly free to inquire. Our books and records always are open to the public.

"The city's finances are low. We have had the population without the valuations from the oil boom. A serious mistake, and one I was party to, was made when the council reduced the tax rate from $1.50 to $1 last year.

"I am personally very well pleased with the police department. I think we have as good a department as any city this size in Texas.

No important decisions were made at the meeting, which was given over to a general discussion of city affairs and to a tour of the police department by the new councilmen.

A total of 384 owners shared in the purse distribution the first 34 days of the Hialeah racetrack meeting this season.

Two Postal Note Sale Stopped

The sale of postal notes, begun in 1945, has been discontinued, according to H. D. Moreland, postmaster.

"Postal notes were never popular in Scurry County," Moreland said. "Their sales were far below those of money orders. Only about $2,000 in postal notes were sold last year, with thousands of dollars of money orders issued."

Moreland pointed out that the cost of a $10 postal note, which was the maximum issue, was only eight cents as compared to 15 cents for a money order of similar denomination, yet more people bought the latter.

The abolition of the note was a recommendation of the Hoover Economy program.
