OIL TARIFF BLOC WINS NEW SENATE RECRUITS

Grand Jury Indicts Deputy Constables In Alleged Liquor Bribery

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, in an interview at Palm Beach, Fla., says that the stock market crash was due to inflation and not to the political party in power and says that business is steadily improving and by April 1 will be in very satisfactory condition.

Wheat prices continue to recover from the hysterical wave of selling that ended when the federal farm labor board used its emergency funds to purchase large amounts of May and March wheat.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon writes the house banking committee that in his opinion branch banking is sounder than chain or group banking, "but that even branch banking should be limited to definite economic areas."

More than 2,000 people sign application for a home industries association here pledging support to home owned industries and mercantile establishments.

These are items picked from the day's news. There may be others of equal significance but these are the ones that for the moment seem the most important.

Raskob showed himself to be more of a business man than a politician when he admitted that the party in power was not responsible for the stock market crash. We suspect that he is a lot bigger man than many politicians are willing to admit. His prediction that business will be very satisfactory by April 1 is cheering.

Farmers and a lot of other folks are watching with a great deal of interest the effect on a sagging market of the purchase of wheat by the federal farm board. The federal farm board and its emergency fund is a device of the federal government to give aid to the farmers. If it works in the present instance there will be more confidence that it will work in the future.

Whether national banks shall be permitted to establish branches is a question that is pressing for consideration. There are advantages and drawbacks to this kind of banking. In some states where branch banking is permitted for state banks, national banks have found themselves at a disadvantage. Secretary Mellon is voicing no new thought when he says that such banking should be limited to definite economic areas.

The success of the home industries association campaign will depend somewhat on the fairness and the sobriety with which the campaign is carried on. American business has long been developing in the direction of larger units. A reversal of the tendency may be due. If it is many eggs must be unscrambled. There will be need for sober thought and cautious action.

C. O. Moser, vice president and secretary of the American Cotton Cooperative association, is to speak at the courthouse in Wichita Falls tonight on the plan of the association for handling cotton. Mr. Moser is a prominent business man of Dallas. He is one of the best informed men in the country on the cooperative plan of cotton marketing. Now that the government is lending its aid to such marketing plans it is of even greater interest. Farmers, business men and everybody are invited to attend the meeting. It is scheduled to open at 7:30.

O. K. Barnes, agricultural commissioner and publicity man for the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, leaves today for Mitchell, Neb., where he will be connected with the U. S. agricultural station. The Wichita Falls organization loses a faithful worker in his going. He came to Wichita Falls three years ago with training

DEFENSE AND STATE READY FOR HEARING

Wilson and Ellis Make Bond After Justice Drops Complaints

A joint indictment charging Dan Ellis and C. P. (Blackie) Wilson, deputy constables, with accepting a bribe was returned by the 30th district grand jury Wednesday afternoon at the end of a one-day special session called for an investigation of the charges. The one indictment was the only return by the grand jury before its dismissal for the term by Judge W. W. Cook.

Trial Opens Today

Both officers immediately made new $1,500 bonds for their appearance in the trial set for 9 o'clock Thursday morning in the 30th district court. A technical rearrest after the indictment was made necessary by the dismissal Wednesday morning of the original complaints filed before O. L. Gibbs, justice of the peace. Judge Gibbs marked the case off the docket after a preliminary hearing, first set for Tuesday afternoon, failed to develop, the state taking its investigations to the grand jury instead. The dismissal relieved the signers of the original $1,500 bonds of responsibility, but had no bearing on the grand jury investigations, it was explained.

Both the state and the defense declared Wednesday afternoon that they would be ready to go into the trial Thursday morning. R. E. Taylor, counsel for the officers, said there would be no preliminary motions or delays, declaring that he was eager to get into the evidence. About 15 defense witnesses have been summoned, he said. The state called 25 witnesses in the inquiry Wednesday. Trial of the case is expected to require about two days.

Charges Denied

Ellis and Wilson are charged with taking a $95 bribe from J. J. Crow after they are alleged to have found 24 gallons of whisky in his automobile here last Thursday afternoon. Crow told officials he first listed the numbers of the bills with which he paid the alleged bribe. Neither the money nor the whisky has been found.

The officers have made complete denials of the charges, claiming to have been the victims of a bootlegging gang seeking revenge.

The immediate trial was set at the demand of the defense attorney, who asked that Thursday be set aside for the hearing as soon as the grand jury was recalled for Wednesday.

Accused Slayer Recovers From Wounds at Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Texas, Feb. 26. (AP)—A murder complaint formally charging him with murder already having been filed in Lea county, New Mexico, I. J. Killion, 40, Borger, Texas, and Hobbs, N. M., hotel operator, was recovering from knife wounds in a hospital here today.

Killion was charged with the fatal shooting of Bennett Miller, 40, retired Lea county cattleman, on a street in Hobbs Friday night.

Weak from the effects of an operation performed Saturday and the subsequent loss of blood sustained in a 140-mile journey here for medical attention, Killion declined to discuss the affair.

Venue of Lufkin Assault Case Changed

LUFKIN, Texas, Feb. 26. (UP)—The trial of Bob Lester, charged with criminally attacking a mother of three children, was transferred to Livingston, Polk county, after the defense had asked for a change of venue.

The venue motion was granted after witnesses had testified that they believed Lester would not be given a fair trial in Angelina county. Charlton White was sentenced to 25 years for the same alleged attack and Doc Brown awaits trial. Testimony in the case was started Tuesday.

$358,000 Drainage Program Planned

BOND ISSUE TO SUPPLY MOST URGENT NEEDS

Water Improvement District Directors Adopt Course of Action

SHORT TIME NOTES

Dollar Per Acre Tax on Irrigable Land to Care for Expenditure

A program of drainage improvement in Wichita County Water Improvement district No. 2 providing for an expenditure of approximately $358,000 within a 10-year period was unanimously approved Wednesday at a meeting of the board of directors of the district held in the office of J. D. Overby in the Harvey-Snider building.

The program calls for a bond issue of $150,000 to provide immediate funds, and for the expenditure of $320,000 on the project in the first five years of the program. The plan also calls for an annual direct tax of $1 per acre over a period of 10 years during which time the bonds will be retired at the rate of $30,000 annually during the last five years of the period. The district contains 48,000 acres of irrigable land and the assessment will be based on that area.

$240,000 for Drainage

According to figures released by G. A. Remington, general manager of the irrigation districts, the cost of drainage work needed immediately will be approximately $240,000. The remainder of the fund will be expended in extensions, improvements and maintenance of the system, he said.

The problem of drainage has reached the point of becoming a necessity, Mr. Remington said, because of damage from seepage and poor drainage. In order to assure future productivity of the lands the immediate launching of the drainage program will be necessary, he declared.

Date Not Set

Date for the election has not been set by directors of the district, however, and a number of meetings will be held over the district to inform landowners of the proposal.

According to the table presented at the board meeting Wednesday, the total received from the irrigation users, in the event the bond issue is carried, will be $43,000 annually, or a total of $430,000 for the 10 years disregarding the possibility of delinquents. Of this amount, $72,000 would go for interest payments on the bond issue, $150,000 to retire bonds, and $208,000 for the annual building and maintenance program.

The table also showed a total of $34,000 to be spent annually for the first five ears on the program, in addition to the $150,000 derived from the sale of bonds. A yearly interest payment of $9,000 would be

The court did not set the date for case submission.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 26. (AP)—Seventeen lives were reported lost when the sloop Pretoria was swamped in heavy seas off Abaco island, Bahamas, on Feb. 17, according to passengers arriving here today from Nassau.

Three persons of the crew of 20 succeeded in reaching the island after the vessel sank, passengers reported.

Leslie Albury, chief engineer of the Isle of June, which returned from Nassau today, said he believed all of those who went down with the Pretoria were negroes. He said the Pretoria was a sponge boat, 35 feet long.

The craft was trying to make Staniard creek on Abaco island to take refuge from high winds at the time it was swamped, passengers said.

The boat was owned by H. P. Treco but no other details were available, passengers reported.

The quota limit on Mexico would not go into effect immediately. The revised measure carries a provision that 11,021 native born Mexicans be allowed to come in during the fiscal year 1931 and 6,961 in 1932.

FIRE DESTROYS PRODUCE HOUSE

Officials Seek Cause of $2,000 Blaze

The R. L. Ward Produce company building at Tenth street and Ohio avenue was destroyed by fire which started shortly before midnight Wednesday. The loss was estimated by Fire Chief J. L. McClure at not more than $2,000.

Police and fire department officials immediately started an investigation of probable causes of the blaze. Officials said the building had been entered by forcing open the rear door. They found evidence of gasoline having been spread in the interior of the building, the officers said.

J. R. McDonald, a night watchman for the George Hodgins Detective agency, said he had smelled gasoline and oil near the building several minutes before the fire was discovered. Jack Kennedy, an engineer on a passing locomotive, was said to have seen the flames leap up from a large portion of the building at once.

Chief McClure was assisted in his investigation by Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney. The gasoline tank of a truck in the produce company's garage had been emptied and a siphon was found protruding from the tank on another truck, the officials reported.

Four fire companies and the chemical truck company fought the blaze for almost an hour. Fire Chief McClure in estimating the loss expressed the belief that part of the produce stock was damaged before the fire broke out.

Mr. Anglin said the investigation will be continued Thursday, when he plans to question a number of witnesses.

WHEAT STORM TO BLOW OVER, HYDE ASSERTS

Secretary of Agriculture Declines to Discuss Senate's Move

PRICES GO UPWARD

Resolution Mentions Closing Exchanges for Time Being

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. (AP)—Standing firm on its wheat policy despite widespread protests from independent dealers, the farm board looked back on a slightly improved market tonight while the senate awaited determination of whether speculation on the exchanges was responsible for depressed prices.

A resolution adopted at the instigation of Senator Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, asked Secretary Hyde to report to the senate recommendations as he saw fit in the present emergency "even to the extent of temporarily closing the exchanges."

Speculation Planned

The resolution, while only asking for an opinion on whether the exchanges should be closed, said it "was alleged that the price of cotton and wheat is now being greatly depressed by harmful speculation that has beaten the price of cotton and wheat down below the cost of production."

After a conference with President Hoover, Secretary Hyde characterized the general wheat situation as "serious" but said he felt it was a storm that could be weathered. He declined to discuss the senate resolution until the request embodied in it reached him in a formal communication.

Dealing in Futures

The secretary gave the first confirmation to reports that the wheat stabilization corporation had been active on the futures market. He expressed the opinion that the upward movement in prices today was

CHICAGO, Feb. 26. (UP)—Winter stalked through the Midwest tonight to trample down the last vestige of a premature spring which had turned country roads into bogs and started wild flowers to blooming. HOUSTON, Feb. 26. (UP)—The $1,000,000 libel suit brought by R. B. Lee Estes ruled today.

Hijacking Follows Car Theft

A bandit who had apparently given considerable study to the timing of his activities executed two crimes within a period of 10 minutes Wednesday night and escaped before police had time to catch up on their first report.

About 8 o'clock Wednesday night, George Ward, 904 Austin street, drove up to a house at 1205 Seventh street and left his car parked while he went inside for a few minutes. When he returned, the machine was gone. He obtained a ride to police headquarters to report the theft.

Three minutes before he arrived at headquarters, the attendant at the Orient filling station at Harrison and Avenue E called police to report a bandit had driven into his station to get gasoline and had held him up, escaping with $4. He gave the number of the bandit's car.

When Mr. Ward reached the station to report the theft of his car, it was found his license numbers and those of the bandit's car were identical. Police at once notified officers in all surrounding towns and began a search of the city.

HUNT QUITS COUNCIL RACE

Alderman's Action Leaves Vacancy on Ballot

J. W. Hunt, member of the board of aldermen and recently announced as a candidate for re-election to the council, Wednesday announced his withdrawal from the race.

The removal of Mr. Hunt's name from the ticket left the position open without a candidate Wednesday. J. N. Prothro has announced his candidacy for the seat of Alderman J. H. Patton on the council, the only other seat open for this biennial election.

Three Petitions Taken Out

Indication that the race would result in a contest was given Wednesday when J. H. Crouch obtained three petition forms from the office of the city clerk. Mr. Crouch did not announce the names of the persons for whom he was obtaining the petitions and would not reveal the names to The Record News Wednesday afternoon. In the event a candidate is announced for each of the three offices in the election, it was pointed out there will be competition in the race for mayor and for Alderman Patton's seat on the council, Mr. Hunt's withdrawal having eliminated the possibility of competition for his place unless two candidates announce.

Walter Nelson Jr., was the only announced candidate for mayor Wednesday, and until the three petitions were obtained indications pointed to an uneventful election.

Mr. Hunt issued the following statement concerning his withdrawal:

Statement Issued

"A few days ago the announcement was made by my friends that I would become a candidate for re-election to the council. Since that time I have given the matter serious consideration and I have decided with their consent to withdraw my name from the ticket. I am sure that a man can be secured to make the race who can best serve the city in that capacity. I feel that my business and my family need my undivided attention."

TOM CONNALLY EXPECTED TO SUPPORT DUTY

Texas Senator Believed Ready to Announce His Stand Today

BROOKHART 'JOINS'

Fiery Iowan Takes Side of Independents; Party Lines Broken

Special to The Record News.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The prospect that Senator Tom Connally of Texas will join his colleague, Senator Morris Sheppard, in support of the proposed tariff on crude oil, and gasoline, when that measure is submitted to the senate Friday seemed probable today. He had not definitely committed himself to the proposal but stated he expected to have an important announcement to make on this subject Thursday.

In private conversation Senator Connally pointed out that Texas is a great oil producing state and this might prove a controlling factor. It is known that for a time Senator Connally was the object of a drive by those favoring this proposed tariff but in the last few days the pressure on him has been considerably lessened. Those closest to him are convinced under these circumstances there will be more chances of winning his vote than if the drive had been continued.

Party Lines Broken

In any event it now appears that all party and quasi-political lines of the United States senate will be obliterated when that body takes up the proposed tariff Friday. The announcement today by Senator Smith Brookhart, Iowa, most fiery of the western Republican Progressive bloc, that he intends to vote for the duty broke into the last of the senate groups.

Brookhart's determination caught many by surprise. Only a few days ago, Senator George Norris, Nebraska, who, with Senator William Borah, Idaho, has assumed leadership of the some dozen or so Republicans in revolt against the old

AUSTIN, Feb. 26.—Tom E. Cranfill, president of the Independent Oil Men and Royalty Owners association announced here tonight over 300 oil men and land owners will meet here Thursday morning to join in an appeal to Governor Moody to submit pipe line law changes for protection of the independents.

They ask a law to require pipe lines to accept "ratiably" oil offered by independents, Mr. Cranfill said, and installation of the credit balance system that will allow the owner to control the date of sale.

C. O. Moser to Tell of Crisis Facing Cotton Farmer in Address Tonight

Announcement of "The Critical Condition of the Cotton Industry" as the subject of C. O. Moser's address at the courthouse here Thursday night at 7:45 o'clock indicates that the Dallas speaker will endeavor to contribute material guidance to this community with reference to its handling of that industry.

Mr. Moser, vice president and secretary of the American Cotton Cooperative association, is to appear in Wichita Falls at the request of the agricultural committee of the chamber of commerce. Recognition of need for drastic changes in the customary program of cotton production and marketing prompted the decision to invite an authority on cotton to speak to local citizens. The Dallas executive is said to be considered by the federal farm board as the foremost expert in the various phases of the cotton industry.

It has been predicted that in his address Thursday night Mr. Moser may be able to furnish material information as to the federal farm board's probable steps in behalf of the cotton growers. Agricultural leaders here expect the speaker to urge gradily reduced acreage for cotton beginning this spring.

Mr. Moser, a graduate of Texas A. & M. college is well known to many Wichita Falls residents. He will be introduced Thursday night by Robert Hall, secretary of the

Hess Tyler's Murder Trial to Reach Hands of Jurors Late Thursday

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Feb. 26.—The defense in the trial of Hess Tyler, charged with the murder of Bryan Nall at the Farmers' Union store at Eli on the night of Jan. 30, closed its case late today without presenting direct testimony.

The court's charge will be presented to the jury Thursday morning and arguments are expected to be completed in time for the jury to begin its deliberations before night.

Uncle Testifies

The outstanding witness for the state today was W. C. Cline, uncle of the defendant. He said he knew nothing about the shooting until after he had reported his automobile stolen and was asked by officers to identify the car allegedly used by Nall's slayer. He said he identified the machine as his own. The prosecution sought to show Cline had told a different story to the grand jury shortly after the killing.

Lloyd Lewis, first person to arrive at the Eli store after the shooting, was the first witness. He told of hearing a shot and calls for help

CONNALLY MAY BACK OIL DUTY

Senator Brookhart Joins Independents

guard, stated that he would oppose the amendment providing for a duty of $1 a barrel on crude oil, and expressed his opinion that the bloc would follow suit. Borah remained non-committal, but Brookhart deserted the ranks today.

Demos Divided

Likewise the Democrats of the senate are split wide open. There is some question concerning the vote of the regular members of the Republican party despite the fact that their floor leader, Senator James Watson, Indiana, has announced his intention to support the amendment. A large number of them have refused to take any definite position on the matter, and indications point to a divided vote even there.

As it now stands, it is apparent that the final vote on the oil duty will be of the most non-partisan nature. It looms as the widest division of votes without regard for geographical location, party affiliations or sectional interest of any taken during the present revision of the tariff law.

Result Uncertain

Though a victory for the independent oil men in their fight for the tariff should result, and leaders here who have been working hard for the past few weeks now profess confidence, there will be many votes cast against the amendment. The final lineup of the "ayes" and "nays" will reveal peculiar things.

Among the New England Republicans, most of them members of the old guard, there is almost certain to be a division. Democrats from the same section of the country are expected to vote against the amendment. From the strong Democratic South, the proponents will draw several votes, including that of Senator Morris Sheppard, Texas, minority whip, announced several days ago. In the central portion of the country, Senator Watson, Brookhart, Goff, of West Virginia, and others will cast Republican votes for the duty, with a few G. O. P. stalwarts siding with the opposition.

The two Montana Democrats, Senators Walsh and Wheeler have flatly come out against the proposal, while their Republican neighbors, Jones, Washington, and McNary and Stiewir of Oregon are expected to vote with the independents.

In the Southwest, the oil producing country, the two Oklahoma senators, Pine, Republican and Thomas, Democrat, are leading the fight for the duty, they expect to gain at least one if not two votes from New Mexico, California, Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas.

Brookhart, in announcing his decision to vote for the oil tariff explained that by such a duty he sees a means of breaking into the monopolistic tendencies of the major oil companies of the country and is willing to vote at any time for legislation with this result in view.

REPRESENTS REED

WICHITA, Kan., Feb. 26. (AP)—A. L. Derby, president of the Derby Oil company, left Wichita for Washington tonight to represent Gov. Clyde M. Reed in an effort of Mid-Continent operators to obtain an oil tariff. Governor Reed will not be able to go to the capital because of a special session of the state legislature.

SENATE TO HOLD NIGHT SESSIONS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. (US)—Night sessions beginning tomorrow night until the tariff bill is passed were determined upon today by senate leaders after an effort to limit debate and failed.

With continuous night sessions, Republican Leader Watson estimated that the measure can be passed by March 12 and sent to conference with the house.

Bombing Suspected In Steel Plant Collapse

DETROIT, Feb. 26. (UP)—Police searched ruins of the Federal Steel Corporation plant here tonight on the theory the collapse of 18,000 tons of piled steel plates which wrecked the building, was caused by bombs.

Seventy-five workers were laid off a week ago and rumors of discontent have been heard, plant officials admitted.

One man, Sam Lewandowski, was caught in the avalanche of steel and slightly injured. Twenty others raced to safety.

Chicago Police Rout Meeting of Unemployed

CHICAGO, Feb. 26. (AP)—A mass meeting of unemployed held in a West Madison street building today was attended by police who sequestered 135 men and women in the hall, permitted the leaders to deliver addresses and distribute Communistic literature and then arrested the entire group as the meeting broke up. The plan of the unemployed to attempt again to march to the city hall was frustrated by the authorities. A similar demonstration at the city hall last week was broken up.

The Wichita County Medical association pledges itself to do everything possible in the way of immunization and isolation of contagious cases. Most of us can remember when little attention was paid to such diseases as measles, chicken pox and whooping cough, at least, in the matter of quarantine. Most of us, too, can remember when cases of smallpox or diphtheria in the community spread terror. Smallpox is no longer much of a menace because of the immunization of a large percentage of the population against it through vaccination. Diphtheria is no longer the terror it once was because when taken early it can be stopped with serums. But it has been learned that measles often have serious after effects and that there is considerable danger from whooping cough. Chicken pox, to say the least, is disagreeable.

Probably because the public still holds the old ideas about these diseases and parents are negligent keeping children who have them away from others, measles and whooping cough are now a greater danger to children than diphtheria or smallpox. Talker, of course, does not mean to say that whooping cough or measles are as dangerous as diphtheria or smallpox, but the child is more likely to be infected with the first two diseases and on the whole they do more injury.

Increased Veterans' Compensation Urged

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. (AP)—The 1924 world war veterans act would be radically amended and $100,000,000 more would be devoted every year to veterans' compensation under the Johnson bill approved today by the house veterans committee.

The measure combines recommendations of the American Legion disabled American veterans, veterans of foreign wars, and the veterans bureau. It would deny the comptroller general power to reverse a decision of the director of the veterans bureau.

Monument to Eielson Proposed in Congress

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. (AP)—Erection of a monument at the grave of Carl Ben Eielson, the aviator, in Hatton, N. D., was proposed in a resolution by Senator Frazier, Republican, North Dakota.

Eielson's body is now en route from Siberia where his plane crashed several months ago. Hatton is the home of his father. Senator Frazier would authorize $2,500 for the secretary of war to erect the monument.

Two Death Sentences Affirmed by Court

AUSTIN, Feb. 26. (UP)—Upholding a portion of the state anti-mask law, affirming two death sentences, one life sentence and a 25 and 20-year sentence, the court of criminal appeals handed down 42 decisions today.

The death penalties affirmed were against Lee Davis, Brazoria county, who was convicted of killing Sidney Simms, a retrieve prison farm guard, while serving a 99 year sentence there, and Jordon Scott, convicted of murder in McLennan county.

The anti-mask law was upheld when the court affirmed the 25-year sentence of Bert Dellinger, Dallas county, who was convicted of whipping a Mexican while partly disguised. The court ruled valid the section of the law regarding assault while masked.

Liquor War Blamed For Fatal Shooting

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26. (US)—Quietness along the local "liquor front" was broken early today with the shooting to death of Robert Leslie, 32, and the probable fatal wounding of James Murphy, 46.

Murphy has steadfastly refused to amplify his statement to detectives that while "talking business" on a street corner with a man they met by appointment several strangers appeared and opened fire with revolvers.

Astute sleuths hold to the theory the shooting was an outgrowth of trouble between liquor gangs.

In 1899 only 5.4 gallons of gasoline were derived from a 42-gallon barrel of crude oil run through American refineries. Today 18.8 gallons of gasoline are obtained.

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Local people, many of whom you know, are highly endorsing Tanlac. For example, Mrs. Ellen White says: "For years I suffered from indigestion. I got no relief from anything until I took Tanlac. After my fourth bottle, I feel like a new person and have a fine appetite."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation, or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you. Accept no substitute.

WHEAT STORM TO BLOW OVER

Hyde Holds Conference With Hoover

the result of the farmers national grain corporation buying 300 carloads of wheat and the stabilization corporation buying around 3,000,000 bushels in the open market. The first, he said, bought actual grain and only from cooperatives, whereas the stabilization corporation dealt "largely in May futures."

Hyde's confirmation broke the farm board's long silence on futures trading. It was said that unofficially that the purchase of May futures was "probably double the figure quoted from Chicago." Reports which Chairman Legge could not confirm Tuesday, said it was the general belief that the stabilization corporation had purchased above 5,000,000 bushels on the futures market.

It was made evident today that secrecy which has been maintained was meant to facilitate unhampered operations, the results of which apparently were considered to be very satisfactory to the board.

No Change Planned

It was declared at the board that no change was contemplated in its order of Feb. 24, directing the grain corporation, which acts as purchasing agent for the stabilization corporation, to pay preferred prices to farmer cooperatives only. The preferential, however, was expected to apply to wheat started en route to the corporation prior to the order.

Advances to cooperatives have averaged from 10 to 12 cents above the current market price, which is the basis on which the corporation buys wheat from non-members.

Numerous telegrams from independent operators reached the board today protesting against the discrimination and declaring that their business would be ruined unless the board modified its policy. It was indicated that answers were to the effect that there had been no secret about the board's intention to protect cooperatives in the matter of prices and that the door was still open to independents who wanted to come into the national wheat set up.

Cotton Action Urged

Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, after conferring with Chairman Legge urged the farm board to make plans for a cotton stabilization corporation to handle the 1930 crop along lines similar to those applied to wheat.

"The market for cotton for the 1930 crop can only be stabilized by aggressive and well supported action of the farm board through stabilization corporations during the cotton marketing season," he said in a statement.

"There is no doubt in my mind that manipulations and artificial transactions in cotton exchanges have recently had a most depressing effect upon the cotton market. I strongly favor legislation by congress to correct these evils."

Why Fat

WHEN SO MANY FIND IT EASY TO REDUCE

All can see everywhere that countless people have found the right way to fight fat. Slender figures now prevail. Excess fat has largely disappeared. Mark the people you know who in late years have gained new youth and beauty, new health and vigor, by combating fat.

One great reason lies in the discovery that most fat people have an under-active gland. Its failure to control nutrition permits too much food to form fat. Modern physicians, in treating obesity, combat that cause.

Their method is the basis of Marmola prescription tablets. Each box contains the formula, also the reasons for the good results. People have used Marmola for 22 years—millions of boxes of it. And the results have come without abnormal exercise or diet.

Why retain your excess fat when so many have ended theirs? Go try their method—try it now. Get Marmola, read the book in the box. Take four tablets daily, as directed, and watch the changes that occur. Do this in justice to yourself, to please your family and friends. You will be delighted.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 a box. Any druggist who is out will gladly order for you.

TAFT AGAIN IN CRITICAL SHAPE

Stricken Statesman Loses Steadily

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. (AP)—The general condition of William Howard Taft which has caused worry to those close to him, was said by his physicians tonight to be unchanged.

After a consultation of more than an hour in the sick room, Dr. Francis R. Hagner and Dr. Thomas A. Clayton said the former chief justice's pulse was strong. The afflicted man remained in serious condition, however. The doctors' bulletin at 6:55 p. m., said:

"The former chief justice has had a restful day. His general condition remains the same."

PATIENT GRADUALLY GROWING WEAKER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. (AP)—Constant loss of strength by William Howard Taft has led to uncertainty as to how much longer he can withstand the great strain imposed on his blood circulation.

"The former chief justice is not so well as yesterday," the attending physicians reported today through the White House.

"He is gradually growing weaker," the bulletin continued. "He suffers no pain but his condition is worse than at any time."

For several days now the 73-year-old man has been unable to leave his bed, although for a time the doctors had allowed him to spend intervals sitting up. He is yet able to take nourishment but in smaller quantities than last week.

No estimate of the extent of the estate is made in the will as filed with Miss Hall. Both daughters are named beneficiaries in insurance policies and the remainder of the estate is divided equally between them.

Gray Says He Changed Muscle Shoals Message

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. (AP)—Chester H. Gray, of the Aremican farm bureau federation, testified before the senate lobby committee today that upon his solicitation, President Coolidge changed the Muscle Shoals paragraph in his 1927 message to congress.

The farm federation's Washington representative added that he did not know how much influence his suggestion had upon the president, but a letter he wrote said some of the Muscle Shoals paragraph was a result of a long distance conversation with Everett Sanders, secretary to the president. The federation has been opposing government operation of the power and nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals and has advocated the proposal of the American Cyanamid company to lease the project.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26. (UP)—A proposed march on the city hall by unemployed was halted by police reserves tonight when they drove 250 communists from the plaza by use of tear bombs and night sticks.

Modern Medicine turns away from "DOSING"

Back in the old "horse and buggy" days, it was the custom to give large doses of internal medicines for almost every human ailment.

Then a North Carolina pharmacist originated Vicks VapoRub, the better method of treating colds externally. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Mothers of young children especially appreciate Vicks, because it checks colds without the risk of upsetting delicate stomachs. Just rubbed on, it acts through the skin like a plaster; and, at the same time, it gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages.

To keep step with the ever-growing demand for this modern method of treating colds, the figures in the famous Vick slogan have again been changed. There are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly."

'GODLESS CITY' MOVE OPENED

Russian Atheist Society Sponsors Contest

(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service Inc)

MOSCOW, Feb. 26.—The Russian Athiest society has announced a "Godless city" competition to stimulate the closing of churches and synagogues in whole cities at one stroke.

Kolomna, Podolsk and Vologda are the first cities on the "honor roll," Universal Service learned today.

The athiest society's members are launching a special drive in Russia ancient holy cities, Vladimer, Yaroslavl, Novgorod, Kostroma and Perislavl, where two thirds of the voters have signed petitions closing 21 churches.

Clergymen Jailed

Twenty-two monks and priests of the 500-year-old Cherementzky monastry near Leningrad have been jailed, it was learned today. The charges against the monks involved young girls who had come to them for confession, it is alleged. The monastry itself has been closed.

Agitation has also been started among workers for "clearing out Czaristic rubbish" from Moscow's red Kremlin, including melting the famous Kremlin chimes. These include the 200-ton, 400-year-old "king of all world bells," mounted on a pedestal. Hundreds of cannon in this ancient world monument are also slated for the furnace.

The Vologda Soviet has voted to buy 300 tractors with the funds received from the sale of the melted bells.

Many Churches Closed

Strings of churches are being closed daily throughout the country. The peasants of 12 villages consolidated into a collective farm in the Moscow district voted to close three churches and destroy all roadside chapels. All ikons in the villages of Prutkaya and Yusupovo have been cast into bonfires.

A group of Protestant farmers were refused admission into another collective farm because they admitted their intentions to spread the gospel. There is no report, however, they were persecuted.

Six members of a German-Russian family named Schultz were brought to trial today in Moscow charged with occultism, fraud and anti-social crimes.

Fruit Guards Accused Of Aiding Bootleggers

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 26. (AP)—Charges by Chairman W. R. Wood that Mediterranean fruit fly quarantine guards were aiding bootleggers by placing cars of whisky under government seal have been brought to the attention of a special house appropriations subcommittee investigating expenditure of federal funds in the eradication of the fly.

Chairman Wood said his charges would be given consideration during hearings in progress here.

Dr. Wilmon Newell, state plant commissioner, said in reply to questions by Representative Louis Crampton, Republican, Michigan, that he had heard rumors of such action on the part of national guardsmen employed as quarantine guards, but he was unable to establish any definite guilt.

Hannah Denies Charge In Melvin Horst Case

WOOSTER, Ohio, Feb. 26. (AP)—Charles Hannah today entered a plea of not guilty to child stealing charges in connection with the disappearance 14 months ago of Melvin Horst, 4, from his home in Orrville.

The arrangement was held before Probate Judge U. S. Saunders behind closed doors as a precaution against any demonstration. Hannah has admitted in a confession that he killed the child, but the body never has been found.

Earl Conold, alleged by Hannah to have buried the body, was not arraigned with Hannah. He also is charged with child stealing.

Bridge Players Have Superiority Complex

NEW YORK, Feb. 26. (INS)—Bridge players are usually suffering from an inferiority complex and find the game an easy way to satisfy their striving for superiority, according to Dr. Alfred Adler, noted Viennese psychologist.

Speaking at Columbia university, Dr. Adler said a bridge player who wins always wears a smile of superiority, a smile that hides a feeling of inferiority. He also declared most suicides suffered from superiority complex, demanding that they be masters of their fates.

RIO JANEIRO, Feb. 26. (AP)—The Brazilian inspector general of banks, Senor Ramalho Ortigao, has ordered a fine of nearly $3,000,000 imposed upon the National City bank, American financial institution, for alleged fraudulent exchange transactions in its Sao Paulo branch during recent months. Woman Enters Court to Uphold Right To Swear, Smoke and Wear Pants

PARIS, Feb. 26. (UP)—Madame Violette Morris went into court today to uphold the right of women to wear pants, to swear if they want to, and of course to smoke.

She is suing the French Federation of Feminine Sports for 100,000 francs because they refused her a license as an amateur racer, on the ground of her unfeminine ideas of dress and conduct.

Mme. Morris appeared in the third chamber for the start of her suit wearing men's clothes, as usual and smoking endlessly. She is an amateur racer, athlete and hockey player. Her oldest friends never remember her wearing skirts.

Last year, when the federation refused her license, it sent her a stiff note, stressing three reasons why her license was refused:

"1.—The style of dress you affect when you come into the offices of the federation, despite repeated warnings.

"2.—Your activities to obtain favors from newspaper reporters.

"3.—Your language and your way of acting, which has been severely criticized in circles where your presence has been tolerated."

Mme. Morris doesn't deny that she likes strong language. As the grand daughter of a general, she was raised in army barracks. She smokes a pipe.

When the trial opened, she seemed friendly with newspapermen and her language was certainly far from time. She appeared unrepentant. She made light of her troubles.

King Ben Finally Declared Dead

BENTON HARBOR, Feb. 26. (AP)—"King" Benjamin Purnell, who died three years ago according to state records, was pronounced dead today by H. T. Dewhirst, successor to Benjamin, temporary manager of the Israelite House of David.

The "king" who taught there would be everlasting life for the Israelites, and whose body has been held in state since his death awaiting resurrection, is gone forever, Dewhirst sadly admitted. With his demise an accepted fact, the lure of immortality has been effaced from the teachings of the colony.

Despite the loss of the tent which was credited with bringing more members to the cult than any other single thing, and in the face of internal dissension which has torn the membership and property in two, the organization will attempt to carry on—divided in business affairs, but together in adherence to the fundamentals of the Israelite faith.

47 Years' Practice Taught Dr. Caldwell

Many things about Men and Women

DR. CALDWELL loved people. He studied the habits of his patients and tried to improve their ways of living. His observations over a long period of time convinced him many people were ruining their health by a careless choice of laxatives. Then he determined to write a prescription which would get at the cause of constipation and correct it quickly and safely.

How successful his efforts were is best shown by the fact that the prescription he wrote back in 1885 has become the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness, and lack of appetite, or energy showed him that the bowels of men, women or children were sluggish. It proved successful in the most obstinate cases. So men liked it. Old folks liked it because it never gripes. Children liked its pleasant taste. And everybody is pleased with the gentle way it accomplishes its purpose.

By 1888, the demand for this laxative was so great that the doctor permitted it to be bottled and sold by druggstores. Today you can obtain Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from any drugstore in the world.

Library and Home for Poor Specified

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 26. (UP)—A home for the "friendless" and a library for the poor will be the memorial by which Oklahoma will remember the first state commissioner of charities and corrections, Kate Barnard.

The will of the 58-year-old woman who died Sunday from a heart attack, was filed in probate court today. The typewritten will was covered with shorthand figures and pencil marks, indicating Miss Barnard was rewriting the will. Contest was expected to be made on these grounds.

Her property here was left to the Little Sisters of the Poor with provision that the order build a home for the poor and friendless to be used without cost within two years. It specified that the home be known as the "Barnard Home for the Friendless" and that at least $10,000 be spent for the building.

In honor of her assistant while she was state assistant, Miss Barnard ordered her library of 2,000 volumes installed in the home and be known as the "Hobart Huson Library."

John Trainor, Meldon, Mich., her uncle, was given $4,000, while her farm was awarded Frank P. Krohlow, Atwood, Kan., a half brother. The will was dated Feb. 22, 1927.

In a preamble to the instrument, Miss Barnard wrote:

"I give my soul to God. I bequeath the example of my public life to the youth of the world, praying they may emulate me in dedicating their own lives to securing justice for the poor of their generation as I did mine."

Moderation!

THE FRIEND that prolongs your youth

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence

Men who would keep that trim, proper form, women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that lithe, youthful figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Music Department Gives Pretty Spring Luncheon

In a typical spring setting, members of the music department of the Woman's Forum entertained with a pretty luncheon and business meeting at the clubhouse at 12 o'clock Wednesday. The long table was centered with a bowl of pink roses and sprigs of plum blossoms and Boston fern were scattered daintily about between the places.

Mrs. J. I. Harvey, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Lester Jones, sang "The Blue Danube Waltz" and a negro spiritual number.

Mrs. Fred C. Barron, chairman of the department, presided over a business meeting in which the nominating committee, headed by Mrs. F. R. Collard, reported the following slate of officers who were elected: Mrs. W. E. Young, chairman; Mrs. Fred C. Barron, vice chairman; Mrs. J. L. Jackson Jr., secretary, and Mrs. C. R. Daniel, treasurer.

Mrs. C. P. Burton explained the duties of the newly appointed officer, the general departmental chairman, the position held by Mrs. P. P. Langford, who in turn said a few words about her work. It was voted to consolidate with the art and drama departments in one to be called the fine arts department.

Those in attendance were Mesdames F. C. Barron, Ben G. Oneal, C. P. Burton, Hubert Harrison, W. E. Young, H. W. Olds, R. G. Scheurer, J. D. Proctor, Flora Greenwood, C. R. Daniel, Kenneth Bebb, J. L. Jackson Jr., R. E. Shepherd, P. P. Langford, F. R. Collard, E. A. Bebb, A. G. Holmes, Loran Taylor, Frank Shackleford, J. I. Harvey, Lester Jones, H. J. Streif and C. W. Boller.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We have heard that Mrs. O. B. Gorsline will talk at the Garden club breakfast Thursday morning on the successful rooting of pussy-willows.

◇ ◇ ◇

We believe that announcement will bring quite a group of lovers of spring to the breakfast. For since we saw some weeks ago at Mrs. W. M. Priddy's house, our first specimen of a rooted pussy-willow branch, we have learned about these fledglings of spring.

◇ ◇ ◇

One planted at the Presbyterian church by Mrs. C. E. McCutchen has grown into a tree, standing almost 14 feet high.

◇ ◇ ◇

What they do under Texas skies may be seen at other places. Mrs. Gorsline has a tree of the pastel beauties. And just Wednesday morning, we wandered into Mrs. J. E. Hall's rear yard to look at the one that has grown to almost the height of her house.

◇ ◇ ◇

No florist's collection of spring blossoms is complete without a spray or two among more brilliant colors. And if one could describe the color of the pussy-willow bud, what a genius for words he would have.

◇ ◇ ◇

First a bare brown stalk with little pouting buds of the same color. Then, a bud of silvery fur with touches of mauve and yellow. And when that fur darkens and opens, yellow stamens making a crown of gold at the bottom of the bud. But why waste words. Root one for yourself and see it follow the breath of spring. Mrs. R. H. Delaney has promised us shoots from the abundance she has, and we will venture to work with miracles.

◇ ◇ ◇

It has seemed for so long a time as if "something wonderful" were about to happen; a haze of rosy green on distant trees; the gleam of golden bells; the scarlet of japonica; peach trees budding and a south breeze blowing.

◇ ◇ ◇

That "something wonderful" happened without waiting for March, the pussywillows burst from their Cinderella buds. When spirea bushes blossomed in bridal whiteness. Some one told us Wednesday of a peach tree in full pink blossom on Burnett street.

◇ ◇ ◇

A Little weeping willow tree on Eleventh street is drooping long graceful green branches.

◇ ◇ ◇

Plum blossoms are filling the air with fragrance and plums being sacrificed, because people love the odorous branches.

◇ ◇ ◇

A hothouse window has an English home built as a back ground with a blooming window box at the attic window. The bulbs that "take the winds of March with beauty" are planted in its yard and there too, a bush of pussywillow blows.

◇ ◇ ◇

It is enough to live in spring when one may feel the revelation of nature's youth and beauty.

Woman Is Young As Long as She Can Change Mind

"A Woman Is Young as Long as She Can Change Her Mind in Two Seconds, and as Long as She Lets Other People Run Their Own Affairs in Their Own Way, and Remembers a Few Silly Things She Did When She Was a Girl," Says Dorothy Dix.

Women spend annually millions of dollars and eons of time and inestimable amounts of effort and energy trying to keep young. Of course, they know that in the end age is bound to overtake them, but they are determined to put off the evil day as long as human endeavor can accomplish it. For this they are to be praised, for certainly it is a noble and altruistic thing to keep ourselves as easy upon the eyes of our fellow-creatures as we can.

But I often think that the women who suffer the torments of starvation, of being parboiled and scalped and beaten to a pulp and skinned alive in order to attempt to remain perpetual flappers take the wrong method in pursuit of their ideal. For youth is a matter of the spirit far more than it is of the flesh, and it is our souls that give away our age, not our waistlines nor our complexions.

The thing that ages a woman quicker than anything else, for instance, is dullness. A pretty, silly woman is old the minute she loses her good looks. Not all the arts of the beauty shop can keep her looking young after the shine of youth has gone out of her eyes. A stupid woman, after her girlhood is past, always looks 20 years older than a clever one. In the countries in which women have little or no education they are hideous, withered crones by the time they are 30.

Even in our country the women who lead drab, monotonous lives age much faster than their sisters whose lives are filled with change and interest. It is the alert, bright, wideawake women who are on their tiptoes all the time who keep young and fresh-looking. That is why business women, no matter how hard they have to work, keep their youth longer than the women who are married to rich men who have nothing to do but to sit on a silk cushion and sew up a seam and feed upon strawberries, sugar and cream, like the heroine of the fairy tale.

So the woman who wants to keep young can find no surer way of doing so than by reading and studying and keeping up with everything that is going on in this interesting old world of ours and by having some vital interest that will keep her always pepped up and full of enthusiasm. Exercising her brains will do more to keep her young than exercising her body.

Another thing that ages women in spitfulness. Envy and jealousy will trace lines on a face that no massage can rub out. We never even think of a woman who says mean, hateful things and whose tongue stabs like a two-handed sword as being young. We always think of her as being old. An old cat, no matter what her real age. It is the wrinkles in her soul that focuses our attention.

And, on the other hand, the woman who is sweet and kind and gentle, the woman who has always something to say to us, the woman who believes the best of everybody and who rejoices in everybody's good fortune and sorrows with them in their misfortunes, may have celebrated as many birthdays as the Witch of Endor, but we never think of her as being old. We always think of her as young because she has kept the generous heart of youth.

There is no lotion that will do so much toward keeping a woman's face smooth and free from crow's feet as just thinking kind thoughts and doing kind deeds.

Self-pity in another first aid to age. Notice how the muscles around the mouth sag down as soon as a woman begins to feel that she is a poor, persecuted martyr, who has to keep house and take care of her children instead of spending her time playing bridge and gadding the streets. Observe how dull her eyes grow after she has shed a few barrels of tears because her hard-worked husband doesn't pay her compliments and bring her orchids as he did when he was courting her. See how her shoulders sag down under the load of trials and tribulations that she gathers together in her little kit bag and makes the most of.

Why the woman who bemoans her fate because she has to bear the ordinary burdens of life is a decrepit old woman in reality no matter how young she is, because she has lost the hope and the courage of youth. She is done for. Sunk. All she is fit for is the grave, but the woman is still young, even if she is 70, as long as she can snap her fingers in the face of bad luck and laugh at it and has the grit to shut her teeth on her troubles and keep them to herself. Courage and laughter can do more to lift a woman's face and make it look young than all the plastic surgeons in the world.

And, finally, the thing that makes a woman old is for her to get hardening of the ideas. When a woman gets to the place where she is perfectly sure that her own opinions and points of view are the only correct ones and that everybody else should be compelled to adopt them and to conform to them, she is old. It is a sure sign of age when a woman thinks the young people are all going to the devil and when she tells her daughter-in-law how she should raise her children and when she starts reforming things. But a woman is young as long as she can change her mind in two seconds and as long as she lets other people run their own affairs in their own way and remembers a few of the silly things she did when she was a girl.

Judged by these facts of age, how old are you, Ann?

—DOROTHY DIX.

Junior Travel Hostess To Travel Club Wednesday

"Who's Who in Texas" featured the Texas day program and tea given by members of the Junior Travel club at the Woman's Forum clubhouse Wednesday honoring the personnel of the Travel club. Texas flags and spring flowers featured in the decorations.

Mrs. Grover C. Johnson, president of the Junior Travel, opened the meeting and introduced Mrs. O. W. Wilson, who had charge of the program. Members of the Travel club answered the roll call with Texas legends and those of the junior club with Texas verse.

Mrs. Wilson, in her talk on "Who's Who in Texas," discussed her favorite Texas artist, Frank Reaugh; in talking of her favorite Texas writer, Dorothy Scarborough, she delineated the author's characters by acting the important parts in "Can't Get a Redbird," one of her latest books. Grace Noll Crowell was beautifully toasted and Miss Bonnie MacLeary was the favorite Texas sculptress noted.

Following Mrs. Wilson's talk, Mrs. Will McKemie of the Travel club, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. C. Myers, sang a cowboy spiritual, "You'll Be Rounded Up in Glory By and By."

Mrs. Wilson concluded the program by passing to each member an interesting souvenir booklet which bore on the red cover, in blue and white letters, "Who's Who In" followed by a silhouette of Texas. In the books, which were tied together with red, white and blue ribbon, were 18 questions pertaining to who is who in the state, which were answered by the members of the two clubs.

Mrs. W. H. Caldwell and Mrs. Wayne Somerville assisted Mrs. Wilson in the arrangement of the lovely tea table where Mesdames E. T. Duff, president of the Travel club, and Mrs. Grover C. Johnson, president of the hostess club, poured tea. The appointments of the table were beautiful with the Italian cutwork cloth, the great basket of pastel shaded spring flowers and the Texas flags.

A delicious plate was served to Mesdames Ben G. Oneal, W. W. Fraser, C. H. Clark, E. T. Duff, Arch Dawson, Will McKemie, T. A. Hicks, O. T. Ailes, Downing, W. H. Caldwell, E. A. Deaton, Grover C. Affiliated Clubs To Assist Forum In Ticket Sales

With plans progressing rapidly, it is believed that the style show to be given at the Memorial auditorium on the afternoon and evening of March 7, will be the most successful event of its kind ever given in Wichita Falls. All the 19 affiliated clubs of the forum will help sell tickets. Each one, it is stated, has pledged to sell at least 50 and some clubs will dispose of more. Mrs. T. T. T. Reese, the chairman of affiliated clubs has handled this cooperation and all clubs are showing enthusiasm.

At a committee meeting held Tuesday it was announced that Miss Marguerite Fisher will direct the style show and have charge of the theme of story and song that will run through the entire program.

Merchants are arranging for mannequins and an interesting groups of maids and matrons will be in the style parade.

Pampa Prisoner Escapes Amarillo Jail, Leading Trio to Freedom

AMARILLO, Texas, Feb. 26. (AP)—Duplicating a feat he performed in breaking jail at Pampa, Johnnie Bowman, 26, facing 99 years in the penitentiary for murder in Gray county, early today led the way to freedom from the Potter county jail here for himself and three other prisoners, one of whom was under a 51-year prison sentence.

The prisoners escaped through an attic window and down a rope made from blankets after Bowman unlocked their cell door with a key improvised from spoons. Five other inmates, including one federal prisoner, refused to leave.

Bowman recently was brought here from Pampa for safe keeping.

Taley, alias Argoyle Gayton, the second man under heavy sentence, was convicted yesterday for the daylight robbery of a suburban store and sentenced to 30 years imprisonment. He was reported to have escaped twice from the penitentiary at Huntsville, where he was serving 21 years for robbery at McCamey.

The other prisoners were awaiting trial on charges of burglary. The break was not discovered for several hours.

WETS DEPLORE PROHI RESULTS

Dry Cause Pictured as Miserable Failure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. (AP)—Citizens testifying today before the house judiciary committee condemned prohibition as a miserable failure and was an affront to the American people which is engendering widespread resentment.

One of the most outspoken was W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad and Republican national committeeman for Pennsylvania. A statement from Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university in New York, who was unable to appear in person, also was presented.

Rev. John A. Ryan, a widely-known sociologist and member of the Catholic university faculty here, declared prohibition had seared "everything that it touches." The theologian said President Hoover, Attorney General Mitchell and members of the law enforcement commisison had gone to an unwarranted extreme in seeking to present the prohibition question to the people as a moral issue.

W. W. Montgomery Jr., a Philadelphia lawyer, said his city's courts were "clogged with liquor cases, to the serious and alarming interference with the administration of justice generally."

Raymond Pitcairn, of Philadelphia, identified with the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, described the 18th amendment as a "rotten failure"—saying "the president and cabinet know it, Mr. Hughes knowns it, congress knows it and unhappily the young people know it best of all; but the prohibitionists do not know it."

Today was the fifth day of hearings within the past three weeks, all of which time has been taken up so far by advocates of the repeal of the 18th amendment. After the committee had heard opponents of prohibition, who are expected to complete their say tomorrow, the drys will be given an equal chance to argue on prohibition.

Pierre E. Du Pont of Wilmington, Del., is scheduled to appear tomorrow against the dry laws.

Jeremiah J. Wadsworth testified today on behalf of his father, former Senator James W. Wadsworth Jr., of New York. The tall youth, whose father is out of the country, said "the attempt to enforce total abstinence in the United States has set up a serious friction between the government and the people."

There are 60 daily and 486 weekly newspapers in Kansas. The total number of publications is 625.

THREE IMPORTANT FACTORS ENTER INTO THE COST OF YOUR AUTOMOBILE

1. How much it costs to make the car
2. How much extra you pay the dealer
3. How much it costs for operation and up-keep

THE PURCHASE of an automobile involves a considerable amount of money and it should be carefully considered from all angles before a final decision is made.

The value of the car to you depends on the value built into it at the factory, how much extra you pay the dealer for distribution, selling, financing and accessories and what it will cost to operate and maintain the car after purchase. Each of these factors, as it relates to the Ford car, is frankly explained below.

Economy in production

THE FORD CAR is made economically because of the efficiency of Ford production methods. The money saved through this efficiency is put back into the car in improved quality of material and in greater care and accuracy in manufacturing. The constant effort is to eliminate waste and find ways to make each part better and better without increasing cost—frequently at lowered cost.

Because of Ford economies in large production and because the Ford organization operates on a low-profit margin, the price you pay for the car is much less than it would be under any other conditions. Yet it brings you many unusual features of construction and performance.

At least $75 extra value is represented alone by the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, the Rustless Steel, the four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, and the five steel-spoke wheels. The unusually large number of ball and roller bearings and the extensive use of fine steel forgings instead of castings or stampings are additional features that reflect the high quality built into every part of the car. Throughout, it is a value far above the price you pay.

Low dealer charges

THE SAME PRINCIPLES of efficiency and economy that characterize the manufacture of the Ford car are applied also to distribution. Obviously it would do the public little good to save in production if these savings were sacrificed later in excessive costs of selling, financing and accessories.

The Ford dealer, therefore, operates on the same low-profit margin as the Ford Motor Company, his discount or commission being the lowest of any automobile dealer. He does a good business because he makes a small profit on many sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales.

NOTE THESE LOW PRICES

Phaeton .	$440	Tudor Sedan	$500
Coupe . .	$500	Sport Coupe	$530
Two-window Fordor Sedan . .			$600
Three-window Fordor Sedan . .			$625
Cabriolet .	$645	Town Sedan	$670

(All prices f. o. b. Detroit)

Low charges for time payments through the Universal Credit Company

Low up-keep costs

IT IS IMPORTANT to remember that the cost of your automobile is not the first cost only, but the total cost after months and years of service. Here again there is a decided saving when you buy a Ford.

The cost of operation and up-keep is lower because of simplicity of design, the high quality of material, and the reduction of friction and wear through unusual accuracy in manufacturing and assembling. The reliability and longer life of the car contribute to its low depreciation per year of use.

The intelligent, painstaking service rendered by Ford dealers is under close factory supervision and is a factor in the low up-keep cost of the Ford. All labor is billed at a flat rate and replacement parts are always available at low prices through Ford dealers in every section of the United States.

In two, three or five years, depending on how much you drive, the saving in operating and maintaining a new Ford will amount to even more than the saving on the first cost of the car.

GOLD BUCKETS AND TIN PAILS

YOU DON'T count, because you can't be counted on. You're intelligent but untrustworthy—well-posted, but not a hitching post; and we don't tie to people who won't stay put.

No one denies your capacity, but it's dangerous to utilize it. The dimensions of a cistern are unimportant if it won't hold water. We would rather use men of smaller measure but greater stability.

The world doesn't lack for ideas, so much as it needs competent executors for the ideas already in hand.

We can't trust you. You continually promise fitness for big undertakings and as constantly wreck our confidence and your chances by some piece of crass carelessness that offsets your valuable performances.

You're sharp but brittle; you break without warning and we can't afford to employ such tools for important work.

There's a weak strain in your nature. We can always build with short, sound timber, but it's perilous to impose weight on faulty material, however excellent the grain and finish.

You're a long ladder with treacherous rungs. You can reach far, but folk who hope to get anywhere with you are liable to tumble.

Inaccuracy is intolerable—an entire calculation is upset by one wrong figure.

You seem unable to realize the importance of dependability. An irregular watch is worthless. So is an unregulated man.

When you stick to your base you play a beautiful game, but your eye is so frequently off the ball that we fear to throw to you in a crisis.

YOU'RE AN "almost" man—the bane of every organization—the biggest bother employers contend with. You experience no difficulty in finding work. You create a splendid initial impression. Few minds are more agile and resourceful, but you don't complete.

Your very competence offers the greatest discouragement to those most anxious to help you. You know better. There's nothing wrong with you, except don't-give-a-damnness for detail.

If you hadn't been trained—if you weren't so far advanced—if you were a slow but sure plugger—a painstaking plodder—we'd keep on with you. It would pay. Some wits ripen slowly, but yours aren't of that type.

You keep reminding us of the big things we also know you could do. But we can't help estimating the cost of the little things you haven't done.

A steel chain with one lead link has no strength. Who gives a rap how good the rest of the tire is, if it has a soft spot? You never travel far, because of your flaws.

You won't succeed until you change your trying habits for the habit of trying.

We agree that the men who give you orders aren't half so qualified for their positions. But hares are always puzzled how the tortoises beat them to the tape; it's because they hold their stride—maintain a regular pace and keep on until they finish.

A certain caliph once discarded a gold bucket for a tin pail.

"Master," protested the bucket, "why do you employ such an ordinary vessel, while I am here?"

"Because," answered the caliph, "it does not leak."

The universal law of self preservation will cause anyone to violate man's laws, under certain circumstances. By limiting the wealth of the wealthy, we will automatically limit the poverty of the poor and the crime of the criminal.

Clips Are Modish

Rhinestone and baguette clips have many and diverse uses as jeweled adornments. These are adjusted at a becoming angle on hats, worn at the neck or at the wrist of the street dress, at the front or back of the evening decolletage, and are even clipped on the top of the envelope purse.

It is said that a day's fog costs London nearly a million pounds. The chamber of commerce ought to take steps against it.

Consider the hen. If it only could learn what bricklayers get for laying a row of bricks!

New World Efficiency

THE GREATEST ADVANTAGE which America possesses over the old world is the fact that America has no peasants. This is the conclusion of Bertrand Russell, eminent British philosopher, voiced in an article in a recent issue of The Outlook following an extended trip through the United States.

"The peasant everywhere," says Mr. Russell, "is cruel, avaricious, conservative and inefficient."

It is gratifying, of course, to know we are so well off. Mr. Russell, however, goes on to enlarge upon this theme. His remarks are worth listening to. Here is an extract:

"I have seen orange groves in Sicily and orange groves in California; the contrast represents a period of about 2,000 years.

"Orange groves in Sicily are remote from trains and ships; the trees are old and gnarled and beautiful; the methods are those of classical antiquity. The men are ignorant and semi-savage, mongrel descendants of Roman slaves and Arab invaders; what they lack in intelligence towards trees they make up for by cruelty to animals."

So much for Sicily; and California? Here is what Mr. Russell has to say:

"In a California orange grove the Garden of the Hesperides seems very remote. The trees are all exactly alike, carefully tended and at the right distance apart. The oranges, it is true, are not all exactly of the same size, but careful machinery sorts them so that automatically all those in one box are exactly similar. They travel along with suitable things being done to them by suitable machines at suitable points until they enter a suitable refrigerator car in which they travel to a suitable market. The machine stamps the word 'Sunkist' upon them, but otherwise there is nothing to suggest that nature had any part in their production."

This is an interesting contrast.

The old world has its beauty—an instinctive beauty, one might say, expressing itself in a thousand little details, cradling all life in greater or lesser degree. The new world lacks that beauty—but it has efficiency, which might, also, almost be called instinctive.

Some of us miss that old world beauty. The tremendous number of Americans who go to Europe every year bears witness to that. But we cannot help ourselves, and there is no use crying about it.

By striving for utility we have at least, as Mr. Russell points out, escaped from some of the unpleasant things that go with that old world beauty. We have set ourselves free, to a certain extent, from the old tyranny of nature. We have made it possible for the race to shape its own future with its own hands.

To be sure, this often makes for ugliness. But the ugliness need not be everlasting. As long as we remember that we are on the way toward something new and fine, all will be well with us.

Silent Currents

EXAMPLES of concrete, definite accomplishment by organized church forces toward improving living conditions for certain social classes are refreshing when found. They indicate at least partial working out of the theory that religion should teach a better manner of living here and now. Such examples also stand as bulwarks beneath a surface structure which often seems to rock with the winds of much disputation.

Members of one religious organization now are inquiring feverishly to learn whether Aimee Semple McPherson will or will not marry Homer Rodeheaver, Billy Sunday's "arch-angel trombonist," following her acceptance of a diamond ring from her fellow soul-saver. In many others controversies continue apace relative to the wording of creeds and preachments. But underneath these suface eddies is a strong current which endeavors to support faith with works.

About 10 years ago the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America set itself resolutely to the task of bringing the light of full publicity to the conditions under which steel workers performed their duties. Following a prolonged campaign, the steel industry witnessed the first capitulation when Judge Gary's United States Steel corporation reduced its day in the plants from 12 to eight hours.

Following that victory, the same organization of churchmen has turned its attention to other plants in which a large percentage of the country's steel workers are still spending from 10 to 12 hours daily in the terrific heat before the blast furnaces. A more aggressive and extensive campaign than that which preceded the cessation by the late Judge Gary is being organized to "relieve a race still living with hardly any leisure save sleep, spending lives in a dark servitude scarcely more desirable than actual slavery."

Eddies and seeming backwaters move on the surface of streams whose currents below move steadily on their courses.

Upsetting an Old Maxim

STRAIGHT attention to business and a conscientious exclusion from the mind of all trivial matters are supposed to be the main keys to success in this modern world. But every so often something happens to make you wonder.

Consider the case of the late Alexander P. Moore, former ambassador to Spain and Peru.

Mr. Moore was eminently useful as an ambassador. He served his country well, and helped make Spain forget the unpleasantness of 1928. He succeeded in his diplomatic career very admirably.

Yet Mr. Moore was a playboy; and it was precisely this quality that made him such a good ambassador. He liked fun, liked good times, liked to play around; and those likes of his endeared him to the king of Spain and the Spanish court and gave him a value, as a diplomat, that a more serious, businesslike man would not have had.

"LOVEJOY" : By : Beatrice Burton

CHAPTER XLVII

After three or four minutes of waiting she heard Steve's voice saying hello. It came faintly to her across the hundreds of miles that lay between them.

"Hello, Steve," she answered him, looking over her shoulder at Tom as she spoke.

He had not moved. He was sitting staring down at his hands that were spread out on the cloth in front of him.

"How are you dear?" Steve asked in her ear.

"All right."

"How did you find the baby? Better?"

"No. He's just as sick as he can be. He doesn't know me, Steve. He just sleeps all the time—"

"I can't hear you, darling!" he interrupted her. "Are you close to the telephone?—Listen to me, Lovejoy. I've found a place here in Minden for you and the baby. As soon as he's better—"

Lovejoy never heard the end of that sentence. She felt Tom's hand on her arm for an instant. Then he took the telephone out of her hands and put the receiver on its hook with a crash.

"That bird can talk to you all he wants to," he said roughly, "but he can't talk to you about my kid. See?—Tommy still belongs to me, and don't you forget it!"

It was on the tip of Lovejoy's tongue to tell him that Tommy wouldn't belong to him much longer—that as soon as she could she was going to take him out West to the house that Steve had rented for her in Minden.

But I mustn't say a word! she reminded herself.

The thing to do was to slip away quietly with the baby as soon as he was better.

She mustn't even say a word about her plans to Aunt Em.

But some morning, later on, when the baby was better, she would bundle him up and make her escape with him. She would be on a train and miles away before Aunt Em could let Tom know what she had done.

The telephone bell began to ring again.

"Don't touch the thing," Tom said shortly.

He walked over to the sideboard. He opened a drawer and took from it the big silence-cloth that Aunt Em used on the dining room table when she set it. He rolled the telephone up in it so that its shrill ringing was nothing more than a tiny thread of muffled sound.

Lovejoy heard him mutter something about the sound of it waking up the baby. She heard him swear softly to himself.

"I wish it would wake him up," she said, "He just lies there hour after hour almost as if he were dead—"

"Yes, and he's been doing it for days, remember!" Tom answered her, nodding his head solemnly at her from his side of the table. Fear and torment were written in his eyes and in every drawn line of his face.

He stood up and walked soundlessly into the little hall that ran between the dining room and the two bedrooms.

In a second he came back.

"Come here!" he said. "Something's happened to the baby. He's breathing—He's breathing too fast. A lot faster than he was a while ago—You come in and take a look—"

He was breathing, himself, as if he had been running.

And he had vanished into the dimly-lighted bedroom once more before Lovejoy was half way around the table.

She needed only one look at young Tommy to see that something was dreadfully wrong with him.

His closed eyes were sunk in deep shadowy circle and his breath came in jerks that shook his little body. It sounded as if he had a toy whistle down in his chest.

"Oh, Tom, what's happened to him?" Lovejoy wailed, her eyes wide with terror. "Tom, what will we do?—Tom—the baby—"

She crumpled up on the floor beside the little bed.

It was Tom who dashed out of the room and telephoned for Dr. Arnott.

Then she heard him open the front door of the flat and run up the stairs. There came a quick patter of feet on the floor above, the sharp closing of a door. A moment afterward Tom and Norrie Shane came back to the baby's room together.

"Get Lovejoy out of the room and you stay out, too." Norrie's voice was crisp and commanding. "And call up to see if the doctor is on his way."

Lovejoy got up from the floor herself and went out of the room. She was like a dazed and frightened child as she let Tom lead her down the hall and into the living room.

"You'd better lie down, Lovejoy," he said to her, "You're all in."

He stood with his back to the room, watching out of the window for Dr. Arnott. Lovejoy lay looking at him.

"God!" he said once, and in that one short word was all the impressiveness and the pleading of a prayer

The doctor came with a pair of trousers and an overcoat pulled on over his pajama suit. He was the old-fashioned kind of doctor who knows when he is needed and gets there.

He shut himself into the baby's room with Norrie.

It must have been a half hour later that Aunt Em woke up.

She came into the room where Lovejoy and Tom were sitting, her face wrinkled and rosy with sleep, her body looking twice its normal size in a gray flannel kimono.

"Baby worse?" she asked, and when she heard that he was she started for the sick room just as fast as she could go.

"No, you can't go in there!" It was Tom who stopped her. "The doctor's there with Norrie, and they're doing everything that they can for young Tommy. The best thing we can do is to stay out—all of us."

He was standing in front of the empty fireplace, fingering a small pink object that lay on the mantel shelf.

After a while, when Aunt Em went out into the kitchen to make a pot of her eternal tea, he showed that little pink object to Lovejoy.

It was the candle that had stood on Tommy's birthday cake.

"Just think—ten days ago that little kid was fine and husky," he said. "Aunt Em baked him a birthday cake and covered it with pink frosting. He ate some of it—just a small piece—and he loved it. He'd have eaten the whole thing with the candle thrown in, if we'd let him have it."

He dropped the candle into the pocket of his shirt.

"That was the last good feed he had," he went on. "He was taken sick the morning afterward. Aunt Em says babies often are sick in hot weather like this."

Lovejoy turned her wet eyes up to him.

"Don't any of you realise that it must have been the cake that made the baby sick?" she asked. "Think of giving a tiny year-old baby cake with pink frosting on it!—Oh, if I'd only been here—"

She buried her face in the pillows of the old couch.

"Can't you see that that's what is killing me?" she sobbed. "If I hadn't left my baby this wouldn't have happened!—I might have known that Aunt Em with her old-fashioned notions about raising babies, would feed him all sorts of things to make him sick—If Tommy dies it's my fault! I should have been here on the job!"

Tom did not try to comfort her.

"You certainly never should have left him," he said bluntly. "If you got tired of me—why, that was your own business. But you should have stood by the baby. At least, until he was old enough to take care of himself. . . . And another thing, if Oglebay loves you the way he says he does he'd have wanted you to have your baby with you."

"He does," said Lovejoy. "He's taken a house in Minden for us. He's going to hire a nurse for Tommy. He wants me to have Tommy when I'm married to him."

ATHLETE'S FOOT

Millions Have It

Starts Between Toes—The Skin Cracks—Itches and Blisters

Nowadays you hear a lot about Athlete's Foot—a contagious disease contracted in dressing and bathrooms of gymnasiums, clubs and hotels and sometimes in your own home.

It is a bad disease to have—causes no end of itching misery and worry. Bath mats and shower floors in which the germ called Tinea Trichophyton lurks, breeds and multiplies are largely responsible.

Catch it at the start—before it spreads from the toes to soles and the sides of the feet and brings greater distress and itching.

Half of our adult population has become infected at some time according to a bulletin of the U. S. Public Health Service.

Look between your toes and under them tonight—are they cracked or blistered? Do they itch?

If you find any signs of dread Athlete's Foot get a bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any drug store at once—after bathing the feet apply this powerfully soothing and penetrating oil liberally—not only between and under toes but to the entire foot—the itching ceases.

It is of the greatest importance to you that you stop the spread of the disease at once. Every live pharmacist dispenses Moone's Emerald Oil.—Adv.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

News From the Naval Huddle

The five-power naval conference is in its sixth week, with all progress suffering from low visibility and with the bored delegates wondering if it will be necessary to burn down the meeting hall to get out of the huddle.

PHILLIPS

Results of the parley to date are:

1.—A new high for ambiguous oratory.

2.—Proof that mutual distrust is off about 10 points since the peace conference.

3.—A realization by Secretary Stimson that he might as well have remained in Washington and sent his parrot to London.

4.—A verdict unofficially arrived at by the American stenographers that London hotels are terrible, and an ultimatum to all whom it may concern that if the conference doesn't end pretty soon they will leave it flat and go back to a country where no boy friends wear monocles, goatees, side-whiskers or silk capes.

5.—Strong indications that France thinks she is still at war and practically surrounded.

6.—The development that while the five loud speaking powers are discussing ways and means of reducing navies, Old Doctor Germany is speeding plans for oversized battleships and for super-submarines, which will make the ones used by other powers look like nursery toys.

The parley has dragged along so far now that even the radio stations are losing interest and a delegate can no longer attract the attention of the news photographers unless he is mentioned in a divorce action or something.

The best any nation can hope is that its delegates will get home with a copy of the minutes before the next war breaks out.

Fears are being expressed that if the conference lasts much longer it may even start the next war.

The huddle has now become about as colorful and exciting as a convention of mathematicians. There is grave danger that at any moment now the people may demand that the various countries keep their warships and sink the delegates.

Every morning some country loses more warships in a debate than it ever lost in a naval engagement.

And every afternoon it gets more vessels back than it ever captured in time of war.

It is the old navy game.

One of the developments the other day was that even if an agreement is reached on naval strength, America will have to spend millions building enough new warships to attain its quota. That's disarmament with a deadly backspin.

The big test of sincerity came with the proposal of America to outlaw the submarine. Japan, Italy and France set up the kind of howl you would expect if they received news somebody had shot an old friend.

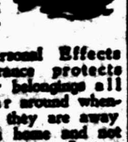

France actually led the fight to preserve the underseas boat. Well, maybe she's right. It was the submarine in the last war that brought the world to her side.

AFFAIR DENIED BY GILLESPIE

Relationship 'Formal,' Says Balm Defendant

NEW YORK, Feb. 26. (INS)—The relationship of George J. Gillespie with Mrs. Frances W. Brandon was merely "formal."

Gillespie, a city executive, thus described it from the witness stand today in the $500,000 breach of promise action which Mrs. Brandon, an assistant corporation counsel, has brought against him.

Not only did he never promise to marry Mrs. Brandon, the 60-year-old defendant testified, but he became tired of having her continually asking him to take her out to lunch.

"Our relationship was exceedingly formal," said Gillespie. "And when she accused me in 1924 of not loving my wife, I lost the feeling of friendship and respect I held for Mrs. Brandon."

Gillespie testified that the "red triangles" which Mrs. Brandon recorded in her diaries following alleged episodes didn't mean a thing to him.

Gillespie said that he first met Mrs. Brandon during the election campaign of 1921 when she borrowed some mortgage money through his office for a client. She is a lawyer.

He visited Mrs. Brandon's home during the campaign and once attended a party there, Gillespie testified. He also once accompanied her on a business trip to Long Island, he said.

Referring to the time when Mrs. Brandon came into his office and told him he did not love his wife, the witness said:

"I told her I had never been so hurt before. I put on my hat and coat, walked to the subway station and left her there."

Mexico Expects Gangster Invasion

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 26. (AP)—Danger of an invasion of Mexico by gansters obliged to leave Chicago because of the campaign against them there is reflected in special dispatches to the local papers.

The papers suggest that a strict watch be kept along the border to keep these criminals from moving to Mexico, pointing out that their coming probably would mean a crime wave such as Mexico never has experienced.

A dispatch to Excelsior from Los Angeles says there has been an influx of Chicago gansters there, but that the Los Angeles police have made conditions unsuitable for them and that many of them are heading toward the lower California border, attracted by the possibilities of thriving business in the resort towns.

Mexico has never had an organized crime wave to deal with, the papers say; at least the Mexican police never have had to cope with such able criminals as those who now threaten to invade the country.

Confession Made In Poison Murder

OLIN, Iowa, Feb. 26. (UP)—A confession that he purchased strychnine and gave it to Mrs. Edward Miner to be used in getting rid of her husband was made today by Albert Hartwig, according to County Attorney Clifford Paul.

Miner died in convulsions late yesterday after eating lunch. Hartwig and Mrs. Miner were arrested on murder warrants today after an investigation of Miner's death had been requested by his son, Cecil.

Simultaneously with Hartwig's alleged confession came a denial from Mrs. Miner that she had asked Hartwig to get the poison for her, and a statement that her husband committed suicide.

'Hole in the Wall' Saloon Reopened

EL PASO, Texas, Feb. 26. (UP)—The "Hole in the Wall," most notorious of border saloons, was operating under protest again today.

The saloon, internationally known because of killings, shootings, gambling and vice, was reopened this week by permission of Mexican authorities.

The "Hole in the Wall" is situated just across the imaginary boundary line that separates El Paso from Juarez, Mexico. It has been a haven for thirsty Americans.

Mayor R. E. Thompson of El Paso filed formal protest with Mexican authorities against the reopening and it is understood that Mexican custom agents have been ordered to "shoot to kill" if necessary to keep Americans from crossing the line and patronizing the "Hole."

Abilene Housewife Endorses Orgatone

"I Haven't Been Well for Three Years and Couldn't Eat, Even Milk Caused Indigestion," Said Mrs. Campbell

"For over three years I have suffered with a severe case of chronic stomach trouble, and indigestion and never felt like doing anything," said Mrs. Lizzie Campbell, residing at 626 Willow, Abilene, Texas, while talking with the Orgatone man.

"A friend recommended Orgatone to me and I've taken three bottles and feel like a different person.

"I suffered a great deal from indigestion every time I ate anything, food would sour on my stomach, and gas would bloat me up until I would be miserable for hours afterward. I didn't have any appetite because I just couldn't eat what I did want. Everything I ate would cause me a lot of pain, because it would not digest, but would sour and come right up. Even sweet milk had a bad effect on my stomach. I was very nervous and couldn't rest or sleep at all. I never had any energy or pep at all and never felt like doing anything.

"But since taking Orgatone I eat anything and everything I want. I eat things that I never could eat before, and I do not have any pains or bad effects afterwards at all. I'm not nervous and sleep and rest fine every night. I feel better than I have in a long time. I can do my housework now, without feeling all tired and worn out. Orgatone has certainly been a benefit to me, for I'm not bothered any more in any way."

History of Massage

Massage is a form of treatment that has been used in some form in every country in the world by scientist and savage alike. Even in the far off parts of the world like the Sandwich island, if you wish for a massage you have only to ask for a "lomi lomi." If you are among the Maoris of New Zealand you ask for a "romi romi," and if you are on Tonga island you must mention the magic words, "toogi toogi."

Some say that the word "massage" comes from the Arabian word, "mas'd," meaning to press, while others say that it is derived from a French word, "masser" to shampoo, and others that it comes from the Greek word, "massein," to knead.

Massage is possibly the oldest method of treatment in existence. Over 3,000 years ago there was a book written in Chinese, called "The Kong Fu," dealing with massage. The subject is dealt with in the sacred Sanskrit writings and it is well known that the ancient Persians, Venetians, Japanese and Laplanders all made use of this healing art.

The Egyptians first annointed the body with precious oils and then rubbed it in. Massage was famous in the baths of both Greece and Imperial Rome. Plutarch relates that every day Julius Caesar had his body pinched all over to relieve his neuralgia. Pliny, a well known Roman naturalist, employed a masseur to treat his asthma. Roman physicians used a sort of gentle whipping with twigs for the purpose of stimulating the skin and aiding the circulation. This treatment is still used by the Finns and Laplanders. Socrates refers to the beneficial olive oil rub. Hypocrates, the father of medicine, and Galen, two names luminous in medical history, recommended massage. Hypocrates says, "Much rubbing causes the parts to waste; moderate rubbing makes them grow." Massage was used to revive the gladiators of Rome and the warriors of Greece. Massage was also given to the personal attending slaves of Rome to make them rounder and more filled out and therefore easier on the eyes around the Roman households. The Turks and Russians both used massage. Among the Swedish it has become a by-word, for the name "Swedish" massage stands for perfection in the art.

Massage has today become a well developed art, but it is well to remember that the value of the treatment depends upon the knowledge at the skilled finger prints of the masseur. One man may be able to bring about seemingly miraculous cures with the art of massage alone, and is able to do more good for the patient in a few minutes' treatment than another could do in an hour.

Almost every doctor who uses some form of massage in treatment has developed his own technique. For example, in my own office I have developed a technique for manipulation in cases of adhesions, especially in cases of internal adhesions of the abdomen. The success following this method of treatment is phenomenal. In many cases even severe adhesions can be relieved by skilfully stretching the adhering tissues with the fingers in just the right, scientific way to stretch and break them.

Massage also is of special benefit in cases of paralysis or where a patient must lie in bed for several months as sometimes occurs in severe accidents or diseases. During the period of inactivity the muscles lose their power from not being used, and massage keeps them nourished and finally re-awakens the muscular motivity.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Emphysema

Question—A. S. asks: "Will you have the kindness to let me know what is done against emphysema of the lungs? In my case the seat of the disease is the right bronchia. While I do not have any secretion in summer, two weeks ago black spit began to emanate from the location. Is there any hope of getting rid of the troublesome condition? What diet would you suggest, considering the cold season? Is constipation the cause of the described state?"

Answer—This trouble is due to the presence of air in the alveolar tissue of the lungs. I see no reason why you cannot get rid of this trouble which is apparently chronic in your case, only now appearing in acute form. A fasting and diet regime should have a good effect in making the proper tissue changes to restore the lungs to normal. As you suggest, constipation may be an important causative factor and this should be overcome as in every case with any bodily disorder. A special dieting schedule will be sent you if you will write again sending your full name on a large stamped envelope.

Red Arms

Question—A. M. S. writes: "I am asking advice for a friend. Her trouble is her arms and hands which are a scarlet red at all times and on account of them it is impossible for her to keep a position. She seems to be in perfect health."

Answer—Such troubles are due to a combination of general toxicosis combined with poor circulation to the parts affected. A proper fasting and diet treatment will help if it is combined with vibration or treatment to the upper vertebrae of the spine from which the nerves issue, going to the arms and hands.

Florida Bolters May Participate in Primary

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Feb. 26. (AP)—Attorney General Fred H. Davis has expressed the opinion that Democratic "bolters" in the 1928 presidential election may participate in the coming party primary both as voters and candidates under a technical interpretation of the Florida laws.

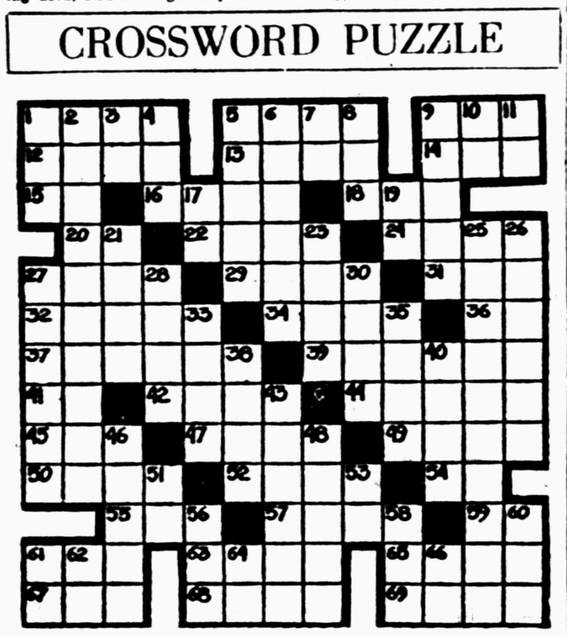

His opinion hinged upon the voter or candidate taking the position that the Republican party was not a legal "political party" in Florida in 1928 as defined by the state laws. Democratic candidates are required to take an oath that they did not support the nominees of another party in the last general election and voters may be required to take the same oath if challenged.

Pacifists Blamed for Anti-Reserve Movement

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 26. (UP)—Professional pacifists from the East were charged by Gov. Harry G. Leslie of Indiana today as being behind the movement "to wreck the reserve officers training corps."

Leslie charged that Frederick Libby headed the movement, which he said sought to wage its battle through campus publications.

MYTH THAT SCHMELING IS HURT WILTS ON EVE OF MIAMI FIGHT

RUMOR PROVES TO BE UNTRUE

Sharkey-Scott Bout May Flop Financially

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 26.—With the ballyhoo going full blast, efforts that appeared little short of desperate were put forth today to turn what has looked like a certain financial flop into a profitable success before Jack Sharkey and Phil Scott step into the ring for their 15-round heavyweight elimination match tomorrow night.

The climax in the belated "build-up" was reached by issuance of a somewhat sensational yarn that Max Schmeling, the German clouter, had injured his thumb or his ankle, thereby jeopardizing his ring future, also the contemplated championship "final" this June at New York and increasing the "significance" of the Sharkey-Scott outcome to a point whether the winner might claim the world's title.

A. P. to the Rescue

This elaborate reasoning sounded all very well until an Associated Press dispatch from Berlin disclosed that Schmeling was in perfect health, good fighting condition and enjoying himself at the winter sports. This news reached the center of fight preparations with a dull, reverberating thud, just as the respective managers of Scott and Sharkey were preparing elaborate statements to claim the championship for tomorrow's winner.

The handling of the spurious bad news about the German was marked by mystery and some bungling. The first statement, saying Schmeling had broken his thumb three weeks ago, was issued on the authority of Frank J. Bruen, general manager of Madison Square garden, but later in the day he denied knowledge of the reputed cablegram from Germany. At about the same time, however, the Miami Daily News from a "trustworthy source," reported it had been advised Schmeling had suffered an ankle injury and would never fight again.

The news informant was unidentified but said he personally had seen Schmeling on crutches in Berlin several weeks ago.

Another Bubble Pops

The Schmeling story, therefore, shared the same explosive fate as the bubble of Jimmy Johnston's row with Referee Lou Magnolia and the Miami boxing commission over ring regulations, a controversy marked by Johnston's empty threat to withdraw Scott from the match.

It stripped the second battle of the palms of the last vestiges of the glamour which marked the fistic festival last winter and put the show purely on a commercial basis, assuming the proportions of a "racket" in the character of subterfuges used to help put it over.

Miami was crowded with visitors today, for the season here is at its height, but there was still no definite answer as to whether they would flock out to the arena tomorrow night for the international heavyweight carnival in sufficient numbers to make the venture pay. General Manager Bruen repeated his prediction that the "gate" would exceed $300,000, thereby representing a profit of $75,000 to $100,000.

The best available information based on knowledge of advance sales up to today, was that not many more than 25,000 fans would contribute a "gate" of around $200,000. This would mean a chance for the New York promoters to break even.

Notables Will Attend

Notable array of talent and fame, wealth and fashion, will fill the choice ringside seats, no matter how much vacant space there is otherwise in the arena, which was built to accommodate 52,000 customers. Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tunney and Mr. and Mrs. Babe Ruth, will be among the many conspicuous figures of sport, along with Harry Payne Whitney, Caleb Bragg, Carl Fisher and Larry Waterbury, Walter Camp and his wife, the former Ruth Elder; William K. Vanderbilt, Joseph E. Widener, Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, John Golden, George F. Getz, Mrs. Tex Rickard, John Ringling, Governor Emerson of Illinois, and George Ade also are among the ticket holders.

There were no developments today calculated to change the prospect of a decisive victory for Sharkey. The American remained a five to one favorite, with little or no wagering reported at this prohibitive figure. Most of the experts predicted a knockout inside of four rounds. Lively speculation continued over the 10-round semi-final between Victorio Campolo and Johnny Risko, with the Argentine raised a favorite at two to one, but many supporting the Clevelander.

Boxers Rest

The American entries were popular choices in the two other 10 rounders. Sending Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia against Pierre Charles of Belgium, and Jimmy Maloney of Boston against Moise Bouzillon of France. The Loughran-Charles bout is scheduled after the main event, which is expected to begin at about 10 p. m.

All combatants on the card spent today quietly. Sharkey and Scott, both, pronounced in excellent condition, exercised for about 15 minutes to keep limbered up. Each voiced confidence in brief statements, Sharkey saying he expected to "end the fight as quickly as possible," while Scott declared he "felt able to cope with Sharkey's best." Sharkey is expected to weigh around 198 and Scott about 203 on the official scales early tomorrow afternoon.

There will be no ringside broadcast. The weather prospects are for partly cloudy skies, but no rain.

SUBSTITUTES FOR BOXER

NEW YORK, Feb. 26. (UP)—Harold Mays, New Jersey heavyweight, has been substituted for Salvatore Ruggirello as an opponent for Marty Gallagher of Washington, in a 10-round semi-final at Madison Square garden, Friday. The Italian heavyweight was forced to withdraw because of illness.

Cubs Lose Game, 24 to 12, Despite Last Minute Rally

By MERLE GRUVER
Record News Correspondent

OLNEY, Texas, Feb. 26.—The fast Estelline basket ball quintet, champions of district 3 and defending bi-district champions, successfully met a terrific last minute rally of the Olney Cubs, district 4 champions, here tonight to win a well-earned 24 to 12 victory in the first of a series of contests to determine this year's bi-district representative at the state tournament at Austin next month.

Cubs Start Scoring

The Cubs, who won the district 4 championship at Wichita Falls last Saturday, started the scoring after both teams had been at a deadlock for the first four minutes of the game, and at the end of the first quarter led 3 to 1. The Estelline five then perked up, and the half found them in the lead by one point, 4 to 3. Inferno broke loose in the last half, with Estelline piling up 14 points by the end of the third quarter, while the Cubs managed to corral only six. In the final stanza Estelline swept onward, unnerved by Olney's smashing rally in the last four minutes which netted six points to bring their final score to a dozen.

F. Curtis, with five buckets from the dirt and two charitably awarded, led his mates in garnering scores for the winners, while Wright, Olney center, was high point man for his side with three scores from the floor and one from the four line.

Second Game Friday

The teams meet in a second game Friday night at Estelline. If another game is necessary to decide the bi-district champions it will be played at Estelline Saturday night.

All Waco Cubs Need Is Reliable Combination Around Keystone Sack

(Editor's note: This is the sixth of a series of articles on 1930 prospects of Texas league clubs.)

By JINX TUCKER
Waco News-Tribune Sports Editor

WACO, Texas, Feb. 26.—When the Waco Cubs take the field March 3 to begin training for the 1930 baseball grind, Manager Derrill Pratt likely will find his greatest trouble in the selection of a combination around the keystone sack.

Wayne Windle, the star shortstop and perennial holdout of the Cubs, will be missed. We have no doubt of that. Joe Mellano, the second baseman of last year, will not be so difficult to replace, but it is necessary that Waco have a better second baseman than was the erratic Mellano. There were times when Mellano flashed brilliant but he was weak on double plays, and very unreliable in the pinches.

With the training season just the matter of a few days away, it is plain to perceive that Pratt's big task is going to be in finding a shortstop capable of filling Windle's shoes, and a second baseman better than any Waco had last year.

The candidates for the keystone sack are not formidable. They are Izey Bandrimer, and Lennie Shires. Len is a younger brother of Art. He may be a ball player some day, but surely he is not ready now for class A baseball. Bandrimer, on the other hand, is a veteran who apparently has seen his best days on the diamond. He was with the Galveston team of the Texas league back in 1924. Waco picked him up as a free agent after he had failed with Chattanooga.

Things look a little brighter at the shortstop position. Tony Piet finished the 1929 season at that place and he looked like a million dollars. In fact, he looked so brilliant that he was purchased by Cleveland. Waco had Piet farmed out of the Cotton States most of last year, so it hardly is reasonable to suppose that he will hop from class D to the majors and deliver immediately. Waco has hopes of getting Piet for another season.

If Waco lands Piet he may be converted into a second baseman. Manager Pratt believes that Molesworth will deliver at the shortstop position. Molesworth was purchased from Moline of the Three-Eye league. He starred in the circuit last year. Schoolfield, a product of the Carolina league, also was purchased, and then there is Boken, the star from Midland who set the West Texas league afire last summer. All are shortstops.

George Gottlieber, who hit .280 in the class A Western league last year, and who is a splendid fielder probably will replace Felix Vigare at the hot corner. Waco got Gottlieber in a trade for Vigare, the former being dissatisfied at Wichita, Kan., where he played last year. Right now, however, he is a holdout.

The Cubs are well fortified at first base. Wally Stuvengen will be back, and he does not have a superior in the circuit as an all-around first baseman.

While the infield seems shot full of holes, Pratt has more outfielders than he can successfully handle. It is thought that Gene Rye will be in left field, Frankie Zoellers in center and Joe Munson, home run king and batting leader of the West Texas league, probably will be Waco's utility outfielder. Right now Zoellers is a holdout. He was with Atlanta last year, and was recognized as the best leadoff man in the Southern association.

There are other gardeners, including Bob Sanguinet and Frank Roscoe, both holdovers, and both holdouts. There is Robin, a star from the Carolina league, Spears, S. M. U. star of two years ago, and last year a brilliant light in the Three-Eye league, is being groomed for the center field berth provided Zoellers fails to report.

Five members of the Cub pitching staff of last year will be back. They are two southpaws, Lefty Stein and Hank Thormahlen; Thurman, the brilliant relief pitcher; Bill Harris, the hard luck king of the league; and Russell Branceau an up and coming youngster who ought to be ready this year.

Becker and House, two 20-game winners in the Western association last year have been purchased and are expected to round out the staff. A number of youngsters will be given trials.

George Bischoff, catcher with the Dallas team last year, is expected to be Waco's leading maskman. Bill Warwick, who finished last season with the Cubs, has announced he will not play baseball this year. Jack Heath, a holdover, will battle with Berry, last year with Wichita, for the other catcher's berth.

Manager Pratt believes his pitching staff as it stands will do. He believes his outfield will be just about the best in the league. He feels that his catching will be better than Waco has had since its venture in class A and that if he can get the proper combination at second and short he will have a team in the thick of the fight all the way.

SHELL SEEN AS BIGGEST PERIL

Dutch Group Biggest Importer of Oil

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 26.—While the oil men who are fighting for an oil tariff in the name of the Independent Petroleum Association of America are flaying all of the major importers, they are centering their attack upon the Royal Duth Shell.

Newest piece of tariff literature was prepared by the educational committee of the Tulsa tariff organization, headed by James H. Gardner, president of Gardner Petroleum corporation, and a former member of the U. S. geological survey. It deals with Venezuela.

Imports Increase

Imports from Venezuela have steadily increased since 1927, the years that domestic United States production has been restricted through conservation measures.

PRICE AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. (AP)—Belief that the Royal Dutch Shell and the Standard oil interests had an agreement with a view to controlling gasoline prices in this country was expressed in the house today by Representative McKeown, Democrat, Oklahoma, in urging a tariff on crude oil.

Imports from Venezuela in 1927 amounted to 21,559,823 barrels of crude, while refined oils, including fuel oil, totalled 4,066,791 barrels, or a total that year of 25,627,614 barrels. In 1928 the crude imports from that foreign state were 46,976,706 barrels, and refined oils amounted to 5,318,368 barrels, or a total of 52,295,074 barrels, and in 1929 the crude imports totalled 50,653,788 barrels, and refined oils amounted to 25,830,537 barrels, or a total of 76,484,325 barrels.

Venezuela's crude production of 62,806,083 barrels in 1927 was increased in 1928 to 105,522,773 barrels and to 136,999,000 barrels in 1929.

As of January, 1930 Venezuela's daily production was 382,775 barrels, with 159,950 barrels shut in, and the Dutch Shell producing 188,550 barrels a day and other American companies 194,225 barrels.

Largest Refinery

The Dutch Shell takes most of its oil to Curacao, an island of the Dutch West Indies group, and the oil is refined at its 175,000 barrels a day plant, which also has Dubbs cracking units. It is thus the world's largest oil refinery. The Curacao refinery is owned by a subsidiary, called the Curacao Petroleum company.

The Shell also has a 15,000 barrels a day refinery on the island of Aruba, another Dutch West Indies isle, and the Lago Oil and Transport company, which is a subsidiary of Standard Oil company of Indiana, has a 110,000 barrel refinery there.

The three refineries are able to process the Venezuelan crude and recover nearly 50,000,000 barrels of gasoline per year. Much of this gasoline is imported free of duty into the United States in competition with the domestic refineries. The surplus goes to Europe.

"A tariff will not decrease exports," said Mr. Gardner, "for oil can be brought in by bond for re-export. A tariff will shut off the sales and to freeze imports selling into the domestic market of this country and thus lower the value of home products, without giving the consumer the benefit of the depreciated wholesale price."

Unlimited Output

Mid-Continent geologists continue to predict an unlimited future for Venezuela and South America. Ten new pools are ready for immediate development in Venezuela. The La Rosa pool is developed two and one-half by 10 miles with a proven content of 1,600,000,000 barrels. The length of the anti-cline on which it is located is 30 miles with tremendous extensions being proven up. Southward and eastward large concessions cover parts of the state to be developed later.

Colombia has a big proven area being held back for the future. The entire South American hemisphere will produce more oil than the United States so there is no chance of the production being reduced or exhausted.

Governmental figures furnished the tariff organization shows that imports of crude oil in 1927 totalled 58,382,632 barrels, refined oils 13,281,188 barrels, or 71,663,820 barrels; in 1928 the crude imports amounted to 79,766,672 barrels, refined oil 11,800,202, or a total of 91,566,874 barrels, and in 1929 the crude imports were 78,932,572 barrels, with refined oils up to 29,632,365 barrels, or 108,[illegible] barrels in all.

Crude exports in 1927 were 15,343,[illegible] barrels; 18,961,362 barrels in 1928 and 26,394,249 barrels in 1929, while refined oil exports totalled 115,398,[illegible] barrels in 1927; 126,186,841 barrels in 1928, and 127,155,904 barrels in 1929.

Kentucky Solons Talk 'Chain Tax'

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 26. (AP)—The Kentucky senate today found much amusement over a "chain store tax bill" sent to that body after passage in the house. The bill levies a tax on the gross annual sales of retail stores.

The senate first adopted a resolution inviting W. K. Henderson of Shreveport, La., operator of radio station KWKH, to address the legislature March 3. Mr. Henderson has conducted a vigorous campaign against chain stores over the radio.

A resolution then was introduced to invite Clarence Saunders, Memphis chain store operator, to address the senate on the same day, and to charge $1 admission, the money to be divided among members of the legislature to be used to "square things with their wives." The chair referred the second motion to the committee on intoxicating liquors.

$300 Per Month Held Too Much for Child, 6

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26. (UP)—Three hundred dollars a month is too much for the support of a 6-year-old child even if he is the son of a movie actor, Superior Judge Walter Guerin decided today in ordering Grant Withers to pay $25 a week for the support of his boy.

The court action was brought by Mrs. Inez Withers, whose marriage to the actor was annulled in a suit brought by his mother.

Mrs. Withers asked $300 a month for the support of her child. She testified she sent the child to a school for boys and was paying her mother $25 a week to care for him. The court decided the amount was too much and would "spoil the boy."

Tailors Show New Golf Pants

'Anti-Plus Fours' Displayed In New York

By SAM LOVE

NEW YORK, Feb. 26. (UP)—After ten years of trying to figure out something a man could wear on a golf course and feel sporty in, and at the same time something which would not be plus fours, the 500 tailors composing the New York Custom Cutters club cried "Eureka!" today.

The new invention was given to the world at their annual style show. It has not even been named, but there it was and the tailors have great faith in it, partly because they have never liked plus fours anyhow and partly because it is a very gentlemanly-appearing garment.

Advantages Told

Before the anti-plus fours were unveiled it was explained they have a number of advantages over the knickerbockers which now deface the expensive landscape of the better country clubs, and also advantages over the Australian shorts, which one faction of tailors hoped would put plus fours out of business a couple of years ago.

The main disadvantage of the shorts was nobody would wear them except a few egotists thick-skinned enough to endure the jibes of the locker rooms, and a secondary disadvantage was the masculine knee, exposed by the shorts, turned out only in rare instances to be something to go home and dream about.

The whole campaign to popularize shorts, therefore, collapsed almost unnoticed. What was worse, the number of plus fours increased. These plus fours invariably sagged at the seat and sagged at the knee and also offered an irresistible temptation to a good many golfers to affix tassels to the calves of their legs.

Tassels Pain Tailors

These tassels caused tailors more pain than the public has ever suspected.

"We—that is, many of us, you know—always advised firmly against the tassels," one of the custom cutters told The United Press. "But often it was no use. When a gentleman had his heart set on tassels with his plus fours, the best thing to do was just to give in gracefully, or you might be deprived of his trade. I never understood it, but there was no getting around a man that wanted tassels."

One of the good points about the anti-plus fours is no suitable place exists for exposing tassels. The new garment, launched with such high hopes, is really but a very loose pair of pants cut off just below the knee. There it merely comes to an end—no tucks or machinery. And no place to tack on tassels, unless a man wants to look like a Hungarian peasant on his way to a subscription mazurka.

Aside from driving the plus fours into limbo, the tailors have set themselves only one other major task. That is to persuade their customers to wear green business suits; two such suits, one of a subdued forest green and another of a shade that would arouse envy in a bull frog attracted gaping admiration and much discussion at the style show.

EGG RECEIPTS HEAVY HERE

Memphis Furnishes Bulk of Poultry Sales

Constantly increasing production of eggs, and the necessity of marketing at least a portion of the supply, is the only activity which is able now to take farmers and truck growers away from their fields, according to local poultry and produce dealers.

Such chickens as are coming to local buyers, it was said, come from outlying communities. Memphis, and its surrounding territory, is supplying a large part of the poultry now being packed at the Armour creameries plant. Four carloads of dressed poultry have left that house so far this week, including 71 barrels of dressed turkeys, and a large portion of it originated near Memphis.

Eggs continued to come in from all sections of this country in large numbers. The price remained Wednesday evening, however, at $6 per case.

Full advantage has been taken during the past two weeks of the unusual opportunity to prepare soil for planting, and to get seed in the ground. Continued fair weather and warm sunshine following six weeks of heavy winter with much snow has afforded needed opportunity for catching up with work necessarily postponed for last month. Large areas have been planted in the past few days with vegetables in great variety. Produce dealers estimated that it will be from 45 to 60 days before home grown supplies will be on the market.

Numerous owners of small flocks of poultry are watching eagerly over settings of prized eggs which are due to hatch early in March. Members of the local poultry association have predicted the largest number of chickens ever raised here, for the 1930 production.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 26. (AP)—(USDA)—Curtailed cattle receipts around the 11-market circuit failed to offset the depressing influence of a slow demand for dressed beef today. A few points reported strength on fat light yearlings. There was a fair shipping demand for finished matured steers at steady prices. Inbetween grades of steers were especially difficult to move with a decline of 25c at several centers. Choice heavy steers in Chicago $14.75, Kansas City and Omaha, $13.75 was paid for well conditioned heavy steers, stocker and feeder classes. A 185 head string of 577 pound white faced Texas stockers at Kansas City cleared at $12.90. Receipts 28,600; were 6,000 short of a week ago and 6,500 less than the corresponding day last year.

Moderate activity developed on the lighter weights of hogs and strong to 25c higher rates but at some centers strong weight butchers did not share the advance. The top of $11.35 was paid at St. Louis. Total offerings were around 84,100 against 111,645 last Wednesday and 96,210 a year ago.

The sheep supply approximated 56,200, an increase of 4,500 over a week ago and 8,000 heavier than a year ago. Fat lambs sagged to new low price levels for the season. Most markets reported losses of 25c or more. Aged stock ruled steady to weak. The bulk choice lambs 92 pounds down in Chicago brought $10.25@10.50, with a few decks of choice light weights at $10.65@11.35.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 26. (AP)—Cotton was less active today. Further advances of 10 to 12 points were followed by reactions under realizing or liquidation. May contracts, after selling up to 15.40, or 45 points above the low level of yesterday morning and 12 points net higher, reacted to 15.25 but steadied again closing at 15.33. The general market closed steady at net advances of 1 to 6 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 5 to 10 points in response to relatively firm Liverpool cables. There was also some buying on the opening advance in the wheat market. The upturn met considerable realizing and prices on the more active positions reacted to about yesterday's closing quotations during the early trading.

The dip brought in covering and some trade buying and the market firmed up again around noon. March advanced to 15.11, July to 15.62 and October to 15.85, or about 11 to 12 points net higher, the buying, however, was much less active than yesterday.

Prices eased again in late trading. March sold off to 14.99, July to 15.46 and October to 15.69 or back to yesterday's closing quotations in the case of March and 3 to 4 points net lower on the later months. There was a renewal of covering at this decline, and closing prices were 5 to 10 points up from the lowest.

Trading in the old contract will continue until the end of next January. Exports 6,139, making 5,380,940 so far this season. Port receipts 11,063. U. S. port stocks 2,189,560.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26. (AP)—A firmer technical position coupled with a report that the federal farm board through the cooperative association was buying wheat in Chicago, steadied cotton today and caused prices to close at a slight net gain for the day. May contracts after easing from 15.18 to 15.05, rallied and closed at 15.13, or 3 points net higher. The general market closed steady at net gains of 3 to 5 points.

Liverpool cables were higher than expected. The market here opened at advances of 7 to 10 points and May gained a point after the start. Prices weakened under selling induced by a bearish weekly weather and crop summary which reported good progress in farm work. July broke to 15.29, or 12 to 13 points under the opening highs.

Near noon the market steadied under good trade buying and the farm loan report. Prices recovered most of the loss but during the afternoon there was very little trading and some of the recovery was lost. March closed at 14.88 and July 15.37, or 3 to 5 points net higher.

CHICAGO COTTON

CHICAGO, Feb. 26. (AP)—Cotton on the board of trade opened 5 to 10 points advance and then sagged about 1 dozen points in early trading, and rallied before noon. Afternoon business was quiet. The close was steady unchanged to 13 points net higher. Cables were 6 to 8 American points better than due, causing American exchanges to open at moderate advances.

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 26. (AP)—Cotton goods were in light demand in the unfinished cloth division. Wash fabrics are moving moderately. Bleached cottons have been revised in price with sales light. It is expected that American Woolen company lines of fancies and overcoats will be opened for the fall season next week. Silk is weak and irregular and silk goods are only moderately active. Burlaps were quiet.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Feb. 26. (AP)—Private cable reports from South America indicate fairly active market there on crossbred wools. England and the continent are reported to be buying freely. America is not getting much wool because most bids are lower than cable quotations, and concessions of even a fraction of a cent a pound are not favorable.

Best Market in Three Weeks Sees Leading Stocks in Good Demand

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Feb. 26. (US)—Improvement in grain and the easier money conditions brought increasing demand today for leading stocks that influenced the best market experienced in any session for the last three weeks. Short covering started the upward swing. Its effect was enhanced by new buying attracted by the outstanding strength of Steel Common and other standard leaders. Steel gained 3⅞, Can advanced 5, Radio 2¾, General Electric 2⅝, Westinghouse 8⅞, Fox 1¾, Standard of New Jersey 1½, Foreign Power 1, Columbia Gas 2½, United Fruit 3, Eastman Kodak 6½, and Vulcan Detinning 11. Oils and Rails were somewhat quieter than Industrials but held firm. Turnover increased to near the 3,000,000-share level. While the call rate was held at 4½ per cent throughout some loans were made outside of official channels at 4 per cent.

Very little change is expected to be shown in the brokers' loans figures in report tomorrow. General expectation is that recent liquidation will result in some decline being shown but if so it will be very small. With the public showing little interest in dealings, however, the loan report is not important. However, there is expectation that the rediscount rate may be lowered again. Inquiry indicates that this is aroused by conversations in Washington where there is feeling that something must be done to influence improvement in public buying psychology to check the declining tendency of commodity prices and help retail trade. A further reduction in the rediscount rate would not be of sufficient importance to have much effect, however, as commercial demands for funds are so small as to make the rediscount rate level comparatively unimportant.

It seems that professionals in the South who have been most instrumental in depressing prices are not bearish on the entire list. It is learned that they have a long position in at least one stock, viz. Spiegel, May Stern. They also were reputed to be interested in the group work in Mengel. Profit taking in Packard followed further reports of the success of the army's test of its Diesel airplane motor. Inside buying in Continental can was reported again also. Strength of Fox was not surprising when it was realized that the disputing groups are doing everything possible to get control vote for the stockholders meeting of next Wednesday.

There are special developments planned for Diamond match that account for some of the quiet buying recently. Capital readjustment to take care of part of the large earnings is whispered about. Long pull demand of good character has been reported for Texas Gulf. Further group activitiy in Real Silk was mentioned in connection with forecasts that earnings will show substantial gain for the current half year period. Lambert was another mentioned as being favored by important investment trust interests. Earnings this year are expected to run close to $12 a share. Coca Cola January business, according to those working the stock, resulted in profit of close to $1,000,000.

There was further tipping of the utility and power stocks but it met an obstacle in the form of local public service developments. As stated here a few days ago the current excitement over the public service commission and its reputed doings will prevent any such consolidation as that of Consolidated Gas and Brooklyn Union as well as making other utility interests think twice before trying to put across deals. The next development in local utilities is expected to be offered for repurchase of ovens by Koppers Coke from Brooklyn Union This would have to be approved by the public service commission. Electric Power & Light was widely tipped today, it being emphasized that the company would be the vehicle for expansion of Electric bond group activities in the natural gas field.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Feb. 26. (AP)—Wheat trade today on the cash grain market was at a standstill with the exception of sales to the agent of the Grain Stabilization corporation, which continued to pay $1.31 for No. 1 hard and $1.19 for No. 2 basis delivered gulf ports. Today was to be the last day for such buying of wheat except that shipped through a grain cooperative by a member thereof.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered freight paid to Texas common points:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 91@93c; No. 2 white or yellow 93½@94½c.

Oats—No. 2 red oats 55@56c; No. 3 white delivered Texas group one points 53½@54½c.

Barley—No. 3 barley, nominal, 68@69c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per hundred pounds $1.57@1.58; No. 2 kaffir $1.39@1.40.

Cane Seed—Bulk country run red top per hundred pounds $3.00@3.20, same of Kansas origin delivered group one points $3.40@3.50.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 26. (AP)—Grain trading recovered comparative poise today. Recent wild downward plunges in values with rushes of heavy stop-loss selling gave place to a general upward movement of wheat in particular. This movement was helped by the fact that among brokers the national wheat stabilization corporation's big purchases of future delivery contracts in Chicago yesterday was construed as virtual admission that grain exchanges are the market place of the world, and that major operations in grain must be conducted upon the exchanges.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were firm, ranging from ⅛c lower to 2c higher compared with yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅛@1⅛c down, oats ⅛@⅜c off and provisions 12@22c up.

Supplementing the effect of an evident return of greater general confidence today in grain values was a widespread assumption that the federal farm board allies will give the wheat market concrete aid in emergencies.

There were also reports current that the future delivery operations of the wheat stabilization corporation have been more extensive than was at first supposed, and have resulted in the corporation acquiring ownership of 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 bushels of terminal elevator grain. Sharp upturns in Liverpool wheat quotations today contributed further stimulus to friends of higher prices here.

Aside from the bearish effect of spread trading, corn market developments were favorable to holders. An outstanding feature was that advices at hand told about bad conditions of roads limiting the movement of the corn crop. Oats followed wheat rather than corn.

MARIONETTES THRILL KIDS

2,300 See 'Uncle Wiggly at Circus'

Approximately 2,300 children representing every school in Wichita Falls and surrounding counties created a noisy bedlam at the Memorial auditorium Wednesday afternoon in anticipation of Jean Gros' Marionette performance of "Uncle Wiggly at the Circus," then settled suddenly into comparatively quiet attention as the miniature animal figures, in quaint costumes, began the vigorous enactment of the story.

Holiday for Students

Part-holidays allowed pupils in local schools, and holiday trips to Wichita Falls for many delegations from other communities, gave the occasion an atmosphere of hilarious freedom in which the vast throng of youngsters indulged jubilantly. A small scattering of adults, consisting principally of school teachers and mothers in charge of large and small flocks, respectively, was carried on the crest of youthfulness which besieged the auditorium beginning about 2 p. m. Wednesday.

Characters in the matinee performance were introduced by Mr. Gros just before the curtain. Dialogue typical of that made familiar to children by the Howard R. Garis animal stories was perfectly synchronized with action on the little stage which ranged from buck-and-wing dancing to heavily dramatic postures. The entertainment was notable for the attractiveness of stage and costumes, for the interesting delivery of spoken lines, and remarkable manipulation of the puppets. The entire personnel of the animal kingdom, real and imaginary, was introduced into the matinee showing of "Uncle Wiggly." The pleasing soprano of Mrs. Gros gave pleasing solos to the always agreeable nurse maid.

Use of the marionette-phone, which presents loud speakers at both ends of the marionette stage, proved an effective innovation with the Gros performance. Atmospheric musical numbers form the equivalent of an overture, and supplement the action on the stage during the course of the entertainment.

An attendance which approximately half filled the auditorium greeted the presentation of "Huck Finn and Tom Sawyer" at the evening performance. Constructed for older children, and for adults who remain sufficiently young to revel in Mark Twain's tale of boyhood along the Mississippi, the seven-act dramatization of "Huckleberry" provided pleasing entertainment for the mixed audience.

Two Shows Given

Huck and Tom at the circus, under the watchful eye of Aunt Polly, constituted the closing scene of the drama. With a portly ring master announcing the feature acts in characteristic barker-style, Sandow the strong man, Jocko, the monkey boy, a juggler, magician and clown team appeared in turn with standard circus performances. A variety of dances, and numbers by a trio of male voices on negro melodies, featured a scene, "behind Jim's cabin."

Aesops fables were interpreted in the "illuminated ballet" which preceded the main performance of the evening. Ornately formed and decorated figures, apparently made of celluloid, were brightly illuminated from within, presenting a delicately beautiful spectacle while animating the famous moralizing stories, including "The Wolf and the Kid," and "The Ants and the Grasshopper."

The Gros French Marionettes were presented in Wichita Falls by Mrs. H. C. Cheshire. A contest among the schools of the city resulted in a victory for Alamo school whose pupils sold $173 worth of tickets. They will receive 15 per cent of their gross sales, plus a bonus of $10, it was announced, for the school funds. Children of the day nursery were guests of the management at the matinee performance, having been brought to the auditorium by members of the Kiwanis club.

Disparager of Flag Gets Jail Sentence

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 26. (US)—Six months in jail was prescribed by Police Judge C. J. Steiger today as "the proper medicine" for an American citizen who refused to salute the flag.

Herbert Keister, 23, arrested as a vagrant while listening to a radical street orator, told the judge in answer to questions that he doesn't think much of the United States and wouldn't salute the flag hanging in the courtroom.

The sentence, which Keister will appeal, followed.

Santa Claus Needs Relief For Postmaster

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. (AP)—Something should be done for Santa Claus, and particularly for the Santa postman. That was the purport of a bill introduced by Representative Rowbottom, Republican, in whose district the tiny town of Santa Claus, Ind., lies.

Rowbottom said that children write to Santa Claus all the year around, and their letters flood James Martin, fourth class postmaster at Santa Claus, Ind., to such an extent that he has to be a first class postmaster to keep up.

So Rowbottom wants congress, by law, to raise his pay.

VACANT HOUSE BURNS

Loss estimated at $500 was caused by fire which destroyed a vacant house at 1311½ Fourth street about 2 o'clock Wednesday morning, according to reports at central fire station. The alarm was turned in by passersby and the fire extinguished within 20 minutes after firemen arrived, the flames having practically destroyed the dwelling before the blaze was seen.

◇ ◇ ◇

Aside from the great war from 1914 to 1918, modern history has contained probably no era which drew the fascinated and apprehensive—attention of the entire world as did that of Queen Victoria in England. Britain's rapid expansion colonially was fostered energetically by the stubborn sovereign, and her reign brought out the two greatest British leaders of the century, Gladstone and Disraeli. The latter, compelled first to overcome the inherent prejudice against a Jew, rose to heights of unquestioned supremacy through shrewd diplomacy. Upon his obtaining for England the highly prized Suez canel and for Victoria the title of "Empress of India," she honored Disraeli with her presence at a reception the first time in history that an English sovereign had attended a reception given by a premier.

◇ ◇ ◇

Arliss is generally credited with being the foremost actor in America. Following an ambitious beginning in England, he accepted an engagement in 1901 to play in America—presumably for a few months. More than 20 years elapsed before he again set foot on an English stage. America claimed and possessed his genius, and finally created especially for him the play "Disraeli." Aside from picturing the alluring historical drama which filled Victoria's reign, the play utilizes a strong element of romance which figured heavily in the private life of Lord Beaconsfield and his coterie of friends. Arliss will be supported by his wife, Florence Arliss, Joan Bennett, David Torrence and Doris Lloyd as Mrs. Travers, the diplomatic "soubrette." Reproductions of sessions of the English parliament will be among the most effective atmospheric elements.

Wichitan Urges Caution in Handling Of Gasoline to Prevent Explosions

By J. M. WILLIAMS
Williams-Dwyer Agency

A discussion of gasoline and its hazards is particularly appropriate at this season. Many a motorist has come to grief because he ignored certain precautions that simply cannot be ignored with safety.

Because gasoline has come to be an almost indispensable factor in our daily existence, it is all the more important that we observe certain rules for handling it. Not only gasoline, but gasoline vapor, is highly explosive. At ordinary temperature air will hold from 5 to 28 per cent of gasoline vapor and the limits of explosibility are between 1.5 per cent and 6 per cent of gasoline vapor. One gallon of "gas" can, under perfect conditions, render 2,100 cubic feet of air explosive.

Gasoline vapor is especially dangerous in that it may travel a considerable distance from the gasoline and there be ignited, the flash traveling back to the container and causing a roaring fire in a few seconds. The vapor is three times as heavy as air, and hence is found in largest proportions near the floor. Here are just a few precautions:

Handle no more than the smallest amount needed.

Do not allow open lights, flames, or machines or belts that might produce sparks, in a room where gasoline is used.

Place all electric switches and fuses outside the room.

Post danger signs.

When the tank of your auto is being filled, make sure that nobody is standing nearby smoking.

Gasoline is one of many so-called causes of our annual fire loss, and therefore is one of the many arguments for full insurance protection. Of course it is not in itself a cause; it is only destructive when combined with human carelessness. It is well to bear in mind that a gasoline fire cannot be extinguished with water; in fact, water merely spreads the burning liquid. But if the amount of oil is small, a large quantity of water may do something because of its cooling effect. Sand and carbon tetrachloride are especially useful for putting out gasoline fires. Small fires can sometimes be extinguished with a blanket.

Cloudy Weather Halts Air Search

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26. (UP)—Cloudy weather made it necessary to temporarily halt the search for a Western Air Express plane missing with three men aboard late today after officials of the line had become convinced of the general area in which the plane disappeared.

Reports from ranchers led to the belief the plane was last seen Sunday at 3 p. m., in the region north of the San Gabriel mountains and about 75 miles northeast of Los Angeles.

Those aboard were James E. Dolee, pilot; Albert W. Beiber, co-pilot, and John W. Slaton, steward. They took off from Kingman, Ariz., at 11:45 a. m., Sunday to "ferry" an empty passenger ship to Los Angeles.

No planes were sent out of Kingman to participate in the search today, so confident were officials of the line the plane was in the San Gabriel mountain district.

The hunt will be resumed tomorrow and will take in the territory from the north slope of the San Gabriel mountains into the Mojave desert.

FOUR COLLEGE GIRLS SOUGHT

Disappearance of Co-Eds Causes Alarm

MERRIMACK, Mass., Feb. 26. (UP)—Police were informed today that four girls, the eldest 18 years of age, have disappeared from Whittier school, a private academy. William Russell, superintendent of the school, made the report with a request authorities join in the search. The girls disappeared last night.

Those missing were: Ethel Kennard, 18, of Dover, N. H.; Helen Holbrook, 17, of Needham; Edith Spurr, 15, of Reading, and Adeline Shepard, 17, of Lowell.

The girls disappeared from the school shortly after supper last night. The fact their clothes and baggage were intact in their rooms led authorties to believe they had not planned to go away.

Two of the missing girls, it was learned, were to have taken part in a school play last night, and their failure to appear at an early rehearsal caused school officials to become alarmed.

It was learned from classmates the two girls who were to have been in the play had been seen walking with the other two girls earlier in the day.

With the exception of Miss Spurr, the girls were coatless when last seen at the school, schoolmates told investigators.

A canvass of railroad stations failed to throw any light on their whereabouts.

Chief James P. Donahue, of this town, said he was without a single clue.

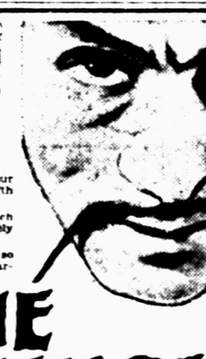

Operatives of two national detective agencies augmented local police in the investigation tonight. One of the agencies, it was learned, was called in by the parents of one of the missing girls.
