City, County To Merge Jail Operations Sunday

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Sheriff C.H. "Choc" Blanchard says Lubbock's city and county jail operations will be consolidated Sunday at 7 a.m. — despite county commissioners' refusal to grant additional employees to handle the merger.

"Right now, with the exception of a lack of personnel, we expect a smooth transition," Blanchard said today.

"I still feel we're going to need more book-in officers. But for the time being at least, we'll just have to make do as best we can with our present staff," he said.

The merger will take place on the morning of New Year's Day, Blanchard said.

At 7 a.m., the Lubbock Police Department will close the municipal jail to all but illegal aliens and book city-arrested prisoners directly into the county lockup.

City and county officials say the consolidation will save taxpayers money, allow the police department to put more officers on the street and promote greater efficiency in the incarceration of inmates.

Also, Blanchard said the merger will be a "lesson on how law enforcement agencies can work together." That lesson, he said, may be applied to other areas, such as serving warrants and investigating crimes.

The merger will involve some additional work for the Lubbock County Jail staff, Blanchard said.

"As far as detention goes, I don't see any problems. We have enough room and enough guards to accommodate the city's prisoners," he said.

"But we are going to be short in the intake-release area. We'll be doing a certain amount of work, involving records, mug pictures and criminal histories, that the city police have been doing themselves," Blanchard said.

Though the numbers fluctuate widely, the county jail is accustomed to booking in 12 to 15 prisoners a day, he said. He said each book-in requires 30 to 45 minutes of an intake officer's time.

Due to the planned merger, Blanchard said, the county jail will be required to book in, keep records on and ultimately check out about 10 additional city-arrested prisoners a day.

"This will just about double our intake — and our book-in workload," he said. For that reason and new state requirements on inmate records, Blanchard asked the commissioners court for five more book-in officers — so there can be two on duty at all times — and an extra secretary and court coordinator.

Commissioners on Dec. 12 tabled that request pending further study. They felt Blanchard's present staff is adequate.

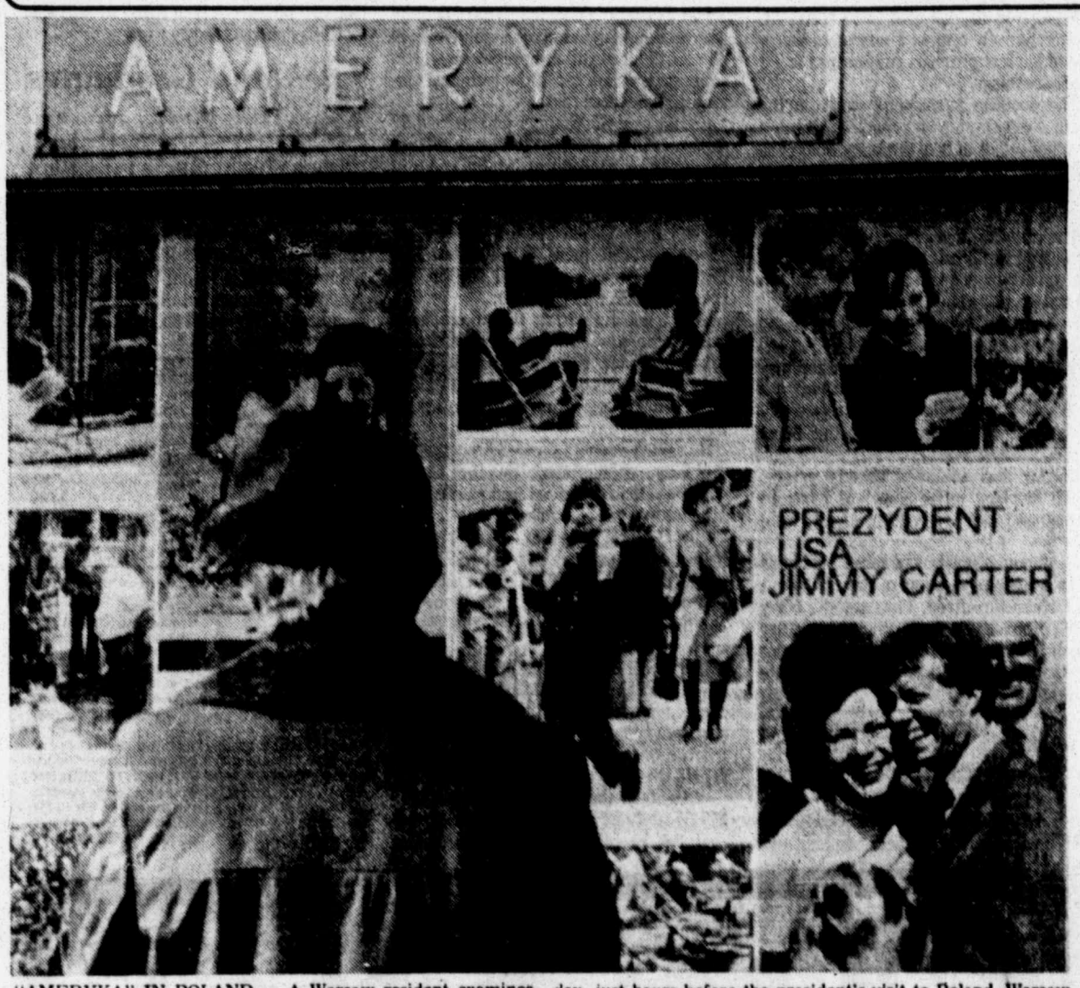

Also, some commissioners noted they have yet to give official approval to the jail merger. They said they might reconsider the proposed consolidation if Blanchard insists on hiring more employees.

Such remarks shook sheriff's department and police officials, who had been working for months on the merger. However, Blanchard has assured them he plans to go ahead with the jail consolidation.

Blanchard said he hopes commissioners will officially endorse the merger at their meeting Friday. He said he still wants the requested employees, but that will not be a prerequisite for consolidation.

In conjunction with the jail merger, all arrests made by city police for Class C misdemeanors involving violations of state law will be processed through the county's justices of the peace courts, rather than municipal court.

In 1976, these cases generated $90,000 in fines — money that the county, instead of the city, will get next year.

Carter Starts Jaunt After Bomb Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter embarked today on a nine-day, six-nation journey, saying he intends to use the trip to promote peace and the cause of human rights.

No changes in the president's schedule were announced despite the bombing of the U.S. cultural center in Tehran, Iran, one of the president's stops on the tour. A man who identified himself as an Islamic Marxist told The Associated Press the blast was the first of several that would be triggered to protest Carter's visit.

"We will be reaffirming our dedication to peace and our support of justice and human rights," the president said in brief remarks delivered on the South Lawn of the White House before flying to Poland.

He said the world would see a "different America" which is "at peace with other nations and also at peace with itself."

After a short helicopter flight, Carter left Andrews Air Force Base aboard a presidential jetliner at 6:57 a.m. CST for Poland, more than eight hours away.

Meanwhile, in Tehran, the bomb explosion at the U.S. cultural center injured a doorman and causing heavy damage to parts of the building.

A telephone caller said the bomb was the first of several promised by Marxists to protest Carter's visit Saturday and his planned meeting with the Shah of Iran. The shah will honor him in a New Year's state dinner.

On Sunday, Carter confers in the Iranian capital with Jordan's King Hussein and is expected to discuss a possible role for Jordan in current Middle East peace negotiations.

During a broadcast interview Wednesday night, Carter said "energy will be the tie that will bind us together on this trip," because at every stop "what our nation does about energy will be a prime question."

Describing the unfinished business of an energy policy as "that cloud" which will determine "the leadership qualities of our nation," Carter said he hoped his trip somehow would help spur Congress and the American people to action.

Carter cited energy as a thread running through his itinerary when an interviewer suggested his travels to Poland, Iran, India, Saudi Arabia, France and Belgium lack a theme.

Rejecting this notion, Carter described the trip, postponed once because of the energy debate and subsequently scaled down in scope, as carefully planned.

Talking specifically about Poland, Carter said that although it has a Communist government and close ties with the Soviet Union, it also maintains friendly relations with the United States and engages in considerable trade with the West.

Agreement Near On Key Witness

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and South Korea are expected to announce an agreement tonight to return businessman Tongsun Park from Seoul to testify against congressmen who may have accepted bribes from agents of the Korean government, sources in both countries said today.

A Justice Department source said under the agreement a team of three federal prosecutors would fly to Seoul next week to interview Park, alleged central figure of a plot to influence U.S. foreign policy by lavishing congressmen with money, gifts and favors.

Park would then return to Washington to testify at the trials of former Rep. Richard Hanna, D-Calif., also indicted in the alleged conspiracy, and any other congressmen he implicates by testifying under an extensive grant of immunity from prosecution.

A foreign ministry source in Seoul said a joint announcement on the settlement would be made by officials of both countries in Seoul Friday and simultaneously in Washington tonight.

Officials said, however, some minor details were still unresolved and it was possible the announcement could be delayed.

William Hundley, Park's attorney, said there still is a snag in negotiations between the Justice Department and his client, but he would not say what it was.

He said he talked with Justice Department officials and with Park by telephone today and "we're working very hard to close it quickly."

He said Park was satisfied with a Justice Department promise of immunity from prosecution and for dismissal of the 36-count indictment against him.

Hundley also said he was "prepared to live with" the probability Park will be subpoenaed to appear before the House Ethics Committee upon his return.

Assistant Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti said in an interview today final accord has not been reached in either of two sets of negotiations — between the U.S. and Korean governments, and between the Justice Department and Park, represented by Washington attorney William Hundley.

"I think we're very, very close to an agreement," Civiletti said. "There are bits and pieces in both agreements which are still unresolved."

Miners Back Farm Strike

A-J News Services

Striking United Mine Workers today announced support for the national farmers' strike, after about 400 angry farmers met behind closed doors at Amarillo Wednesday night to outline plans aimed at protesting imported agricultural products.

UMW President Arnold Miller, in a statement issued in Washington, said mine workers "feel a special bond with the farmers of America.

"We are both on strike," Miller said, "for basically the same goals: a decent living, economic security and dignity on the job. For both our groups, moreover, this has been a less than festive holiday season — one marred by sacrifices and by deep concern for our future."

The farmers meeting at Amarillo outlined plans aimed at protesting imported agricultural products during the strike, spokesman Mike McCathern said today at the state strike office at Hereford.

"We will be concentrating on the importation of raw agricultural goods, and we will be concentrating on getting our message to our congressmen, the president and the secretary of agriculture," McCathern said.

"Our main concern at this time will be sugar, live cattle and red meat," he said.

McCathern said it was uncertain what steps the protesting farmers would take against imports of the raw products. But he said the third phase of the farmstrike would start about Kan. 1.

"We delegated different areas (committees) to take care of the strike actions that will be implemented, and they will tell us later what actually will happen," he said.

Striking farmers are demanding the federal government give them 100 percent parity. They believe parity prices would enable them to break even as production costs rise and agriculture prices decline.

McCathern said the strike action planned during the socalled Phase 3 will be planned nationally through selected strike offices designated as main coordinators.

Spokesmen for American Agriculture, the Colorado-based group inititating the strike, have said the next phase would be more militant than the pickets set up during the first two weeks of the strike. But McCathern said militancy does not necessarily mean unlawful acts.

"The meaning (in the dictionary) that most applies to us is aggressively active, and yes, we will be militant," he said.

Western States Battle Floods

A-J News Services

Heavy rains brought mudslides and flash flooding to California and Nevada today, as drought-weary officials said they hoped for more precipitation — but in the form of snow.

West Texans would settle for anything wet, or even slightly damp, but weathermen took all mention of precipitation out of the forecast for the South Plains during the next few days.

Rains that began Sunday over California totaled almost 3.8 inches at Los Angeles' Civic Center Wednesday night, bringing the season precipitation total to about twice last year's 3.6 inch mark.

The rain brought mudslides to Santa Barbara's Sycamore Canyon, closed mountain roads and brought traffic to a standstill on the flooded Santa Ana Freeway south of Los Angeles. At least four deaths were blamed on the storm.

The rains spread east, leaving one foot of water on Las Vegas streets and shutting down Reno's airport for several hours. On Mt. Charleston, outside Las Vegas, the National Weather Service counted 10 inches of new snow.

But officials were less than enthusiastic about the rains, despite the parched year California has endured. Joel Schwartz of the Los Angeles Metropolitan Water District explained that the warm rains are slowly eating away at the snowpack in Northern California.

The snowpack is supposed to melt slowly during the spring and summer months. Now, most of the rain is being absorbed into the dry ground and little of it runs off into reservoirs.

"We'd like to see a lot more snow, spawned by storms in the Gulf of Alaska, which have a high moisture content," Schwartz said.

He might get his wish. The National Weather Service said just such a cold, snow-bearing storm from Alaska was moving toward California from Oregon and was expected to replace the present storm system by Friday.

After that, the skies were expected to clear up in time for Monday's Rose Bowl.

The Plains, Midwest and Mississippi Valley warmed up somewhat from early week chills, but temperatures hovered in the 20s early today in northern Florida. Frost was expected over the remainder of the state, but officials were predicting little effect on the citrus crop.

In the Southwest, fog lingered over much of Texas today, after scattered showers teased the arid South Plains with a minuscule taste of moisture during the night.

However, skies had cleared before the

Cher Gets Separation

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — The on-again, off-again marriage of singer Cher Bono and musician Gregg Allman is off again with the granting of a legal separation to Mrs. Allman.

ALLMAN

Under a Superior Court ruling handed down Tuesday, the 31-year-old singer retained custody of the couple's 16-month-old son, Elijah Blue. She also has custody of Chastity, her daughter by singer Sonny Bono.

Allman, leader of the Allman Brothers band, and Mrs. Allman were married June 30, 1975, in Las Vegas. Five days later, Cher filed for divorce, but that petition was dropped after a reconciliation.

Since then, Allman filed for divorce once and Cher filed for a separation once, but in both cases there were reconciliations.

Amy Carter Skiing

CRESTED BUTTE, Colo. (AP) — While her parents take a nine-day, six-nation tour, Amy Carter is in Colorado for a skiing vacation. It will be her first time on the slopes.

Amy, 10, arrived Wednesday at the ski resort here owned by former Army Secretary Howard "Bo" Callaway. President and Rosalynn Carter's trip began today with a visit to Poland.

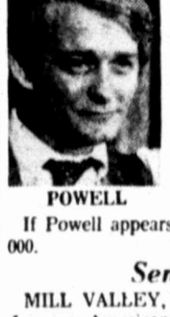

Crested Butte is 8,880 feet above sea level in the south-central Colorado Rockies. Altitude adjustment often is difficult for new arrivals and a spokesman said Amy probably would spend today just getting adjusted.

She is scheduled to take a ski lesson and go ice skating on Friday.

She will be skiing on a beginner's slope called Peachtree with instructor Mike Wells, an expert in teaching children how to ski.

Network Lures Powell

NEW YORK (AP) — White House press secretary Jody Powell has been offered a chance to host NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live" show, the New York Daily News says.

POWELL

In its Thursday's editions, the News said that Lorne Michaels, producer of te show, went to Washington to extend the invitation to Powell. So far, the News quoted Michaels as saying, Powell is "thinking it over," and has not responded to the invitation.

Ron Nessen, press aide to former President Gerald Ford, hosted the show on April 17, 1976.

If Powell appears, the News said, he would receive $3,000.

Senator Plans Trip

MILL VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, a Japanese-American, will travel to Japan next week to push trade between California and the Orient.

Hayakawa, a Republican, announced the trip to reporters Wednesday between courses of an informal lunch with Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. at the senator's home.

He said he and Brown, a Democrat, "both are interested in the prosperity and well-being of the state of California."

Brown spent three days in Japan last spring, and Hayakawa said he hoped to get some pointers from the governor.

Hayakawa said he plans to leave for Japan on Jan. 4 and will meet with Japan's prime minister, foreign minister and finance minister.

Bathtub Hazardous

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — Bertha Johnson is reluctant to take a bath after a bad experience on Christmas Eve.

The 84-year-old woman, who is afflicted with Parkinson's disease and arthritis, found that she lacked the strength to stand up and get out of the bathtub. So she spent that night and Christmas Day in the water.

"We got an old-fashioned tub," she explained.

"It's pretty deep. It was good for my husband, because he was six feet tall, but I just didn't have the strength to get out. I tried every way in the world to get out."

To keep warm, she kept filling the tub with warm water and covering her shoulders and feet with towels.

In the aftermath of her ordeal, a Wisconsin firm offered to give Mrs. Johnson a bathtub lift to help her in and out of the tub. But Mrs. Johnson is saying thanks, but no thanks.

She said she would "like to accept it, but I don't think I'd get back in that bathtub for a fortune."

Brzezinski, Cardinal To Meet

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Presidential adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, who was born in Warsaw, will meet with Cardinal Stefan Wyszynski during President Carter's visit to Poland.

Wyszynski, 76, heads the Roman Catholic Church in Poland. He met recently with Communist Party leader Edward Gierek. Gierek also saw Pope Paul VI in Italy, and the meetings generally were regarded as an attempt by Gierek to seek church support in the face of national economic problems.

Picks Wrong Victim

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The pickpocket could hardly have picked a worse target.

The Lighter Side Of Today's News

Jimmy Jackson, a 6-foot-6, 350-pound champion wrestler from Oklahoma State University, was walking through O'Hare Airport in Chicago when he was jostled by a man. Jackson said he felt his comb fall from his hip pocket and noticed his wallet was missing.

The match that followed wasn't much of a contest. The two-time collegiate heavyweight wrestling champion said he chased the pickpocket 25 yards, tackled him and applied a powerful pinning hold.

Airport security guards arrived, handcuffed Jackson and the other man, and took them to a detention room for questioning.

After hearing Jackson's story, the guards searched the other man and found Jackson's wallet in his pocket, Jackson said.

The man was taken into custody and Jackson continued on his journey to the Sunshine Open wrestling tournament in Gainesville, Fla.

Carter Cuts Money For Warship

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Money to build a prototype of an air-cushion warship capable of skimming the ocean at more than 90 miles per hour — described as the Navy's only new form of shipbuilding technology — has been cut by President Carter, Pentagon sources report.

Carter's budget proposal to Congress will leave out all $90 million earmarked for 1979 construction of a 240-foot prototype, sources said Wednesday.

An administration source described the cuts as a "slowing process until the Navy gets its house in order." The Navy has been plagued with cost overruns.

The choice of what type of vessel to build the future fleet around remains hotly debated but unresolved.

Deletion of the funds was seen as another blow to the Navy, which has had its proposed shipbuilding program cut from more than $6 billion to about $4 billion.

Funds for aircraft also were trimmed. Carter himself removed one of two proposed nuclear-powered submarines and a nuclear cruiser.

The decision to suspend work on the surface-effects ship was made in addition to other major cuts in the Navy budget as the White House pared Pentagon budget requests to $126 billion for the year starting Oct. 1, 1978, sources said.

The Navy wanted to begin building the prototype in 1979. It will have completed design work and spent about $350 million on the vessel by late 1978, officials said.

Last year Defense Secretary Harold Brown wanted to scrap the vessel but later relented and told aides Navy Secretary W. Graham Claytor convinced him the SES was worthwhile as "the only really new shipbuilding technology the Navy has."

Claytor has said the speedy vessels could leapfrog miles ahead of fleets to detect and destroy waiting enemy submarines.

Pentagon officials say some problems with two small versions of the craft built so far can be solved. They say the Navy must prepare its fleet for the 21st century when improved detection and weapons will make convention ships vulnerable during war.

Transition Fund Use Questioned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Funds for a Christmas party, Thanksgiving food for the press and unauthorized salary advances with money from the $3 million Gerald Ford-Jimmy Carter transition fund demonstrate the need to clarify a new federal law, congressional investigators say.

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, sponsor of taxpayer financing of the transition, said the $3 million fund generally was spent correctly and errors were to be expected with a new law.

False travel authorizations and improper salary advances were used by some of President Carter's transition workers to get around snags in the law, said the report by the General Accounting Office, an investigative arm of Congress.

The report listed some technical violations of law and said the law needs to be changed.

When Congress decided to have taxpayers rather than campaign contributors pay for the transition of presidents, it left some gaps which led to the technical violations, the report said.

Brooks said the findings will be used by Congress in its efforts "to clarify the administrative procedures to be used in handling these funds." Brooks released the GAO report Wednesday.

The Carter transition team was allotted $2 million and spent $1.7 million. The Ford transition team got $1 million and spent $635,000, said the GAO.

"It is not surprising that there have been some problems, as these are government funds being handled in large part by persons not previously familiar with federal government procedures," Brooks said.

He said the report showed "most of the problems encountered by the Carter transition team involved using a checking account in a private bank."

The General Services Administration furnished the money for deposit in the bank, but the transition team spent it without review by the GSA until long after the transition was over, the report said.

The report listed these "problems:"

—When the payroll system proved slow, some Carter workers were paid cash advances through false travel authorizations totaling $18,000, which was repaid when paychecks came through.

—Eighteen Carter employees got $10,850 in salary advances in violation of federal law prohibiting payment of salary before it is earned. The money was repaid.

—Money from the Secret Service and reporters for their share of chartered flights with Carter went into the transition checking account instead of the U.S. Treasury, where it belonged.

—Part-time Carter workers got $87,000 from which no tax deduction was made.

—A "transition Christmas party" got $1,516, a Thanksgiving dinner for the press cost $480 and an auto repair bill, from a worker who said the car was damaged on transition business, came to $392, all from Carter transition funds.

—Neither Ford nor Carter transition funds were charged for use of military aircraft in that period. The GAO suggested the transition law be changed so no money could be spent without advance approval from the GSA. It recommended charging the transition fund for the use of military aircraft, which came to $133,000 by Carter and $98,000 by Ford.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW® by Whipple and Borth

Gerald Ford, 64, Not Ready To Finish Political Career

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jerry Ford was reflecting on retirement the other night, and saying he likes it a lot.

Sometimes.

The skiing at Vail is super, 72 inches of snow beckoning Ford and his family for the holidays.

And President Carter will be spending his New Year's at work, on an overseas mission, all business. There's not much snow in Riyadh; mostly sand.

Sometimes, Ford said, he wonders who really won.

Carter did.

And off the platform, Ford sounds a bit more wistful about it. Vail may be more fun than Tehran or New Delhi, but Ford, at 64, is not ready to call it a career.

Not that he's necessarily going to run again; the odds would appear to be heavily against it. But he doesn't say no, just maybe. And whatever happens, he obviously intends to have a lot to say about who does run for the Republican Party in 1980.

"I want a good candidate, and at this stage, I am not going to pass judgment on who is and who isn't." But Ford certainly sounds as though he figures he'd be in the right category if he decided to have another go.

Whatever the glories of retirement, on a presidential, congressional and military pension and other benefits that add up to at least $102,000 a year, Ford still looks back at what might have been.

He looks at the breaks that could have made him president by election instead of former president-by-appointment.

"If the election had been a week later ...," he said. "We got some good economic statistics within a week or 10 days after the election."

Then there was his pardon of Richard M. Nixon, his gaffe over Soviet forces in Poland, the damage done by charges of financial impropriety, proven wrong but not until they had loomed over the campaign for two difficult weeks.

And in the end it was so close, so close that it's hard to tell which of a dozen things might have turned the outcome the other way.

Actually, the post-election economic reports weren't all that good. Unemployment was up one-tenth of a point, to 7.9 percent. The wholesale price index went up .6 percent. Consumer prices rose .3 percent, the smallest increase in seven months.

There is an echo of Hubert H. Humphrey, who tried so often and lost so narrowly in 1968, in Ford's look back at the final days of the 1976 campaign.

It is not the analysis of an elder statesman content to retire for good.

Ford said he has logged 200,000 miles, to 23 states, since he left the White House. He ticks off his Republican fundraising missions, says there will be more. "I intend to keep it up, helping candidates particularly in any way I can, without being a candidate myself."

Without being a candidate in 1978, that is. The real campaign comes two years later, when Carter will be up for re-election.

"I'm certainly not going to make any decision until 1979," said Ford.

Ford is trim, tanned, relaxed and apparently ready to take on Carter economics, energy and other policies in the off-year campaign.

He's at odds with his party's conservatives on the Panama Canal treaty, and as far as he is concerned, if a would-be candidate wants to build a 1980 platform on opposition to that pact, it will be futile.

"If the Republican Party is a one-issue party, such as on the Panama Canal, then the Republican nomination won't be worth anything in 1980," he said.

Analysis

So he'll be a campaigner if not a candidate, and a speaker, if never a spellbinder. Proposing a $70 billion tax cut over the next four years, he managed to give a speech that made his best friends drowsy. It was like a Ford administration reunion last week, but there were nodding heads around the hotel ballroom by the time his lecture was done.

"I must tell you that being a former president is a most enjoyable experience," Ford said. "As a matter of fact, I can honestly say that I recommend it to President Carter at the earliest possible date."

By 1980, it may be time for sports more political than skiing. "I'll be too old to ski then," said Ford. "But not too old to be president."

Cambodia Reports Improved Industry

TOKYO (AP) — In less than three years, Cambodia has attained "delightful results" in rehabilitating its war-damaged industry, China's Hsinhua news agency reported.

Hsinhua said Monday that the Cambodian Communist Party adopted a policy of taking agriculture as the foundation to promote industrial development and swiftly began rebuilding the industry with young workers, it said. The workers collected and used shrapnel, plane wreckage, broken tanks, cars, guns and rifles.

Physical Culturist Calls Jogging Waste Of Time

By BERT ROSENTHAL

NEW YORK (AP) — Jogging, a craze that has swept the nation during the past few years, is a waste of time.

Instead of jogging, run, advises Mike Spino. Be a free-spirited runner.

The 33-year-old Spino is a physical culturist, who not only practices what he preaches, but teaches it. Spino is the director of the Esalen Sports Center, whose major branch is in Big Sur, Calif.

"The main thing wrong with jogging is the pace," explains Spino, who attended Syracuse University on a track scholarship from 1962-66 and set school records — at the time — of 4:09 for the mile and 9:12 for two miles, and in recent years, has run in a handful of marathons.

The deep-thinking, fast-talking Spino says that by definition, jogging is running a mile in more than 7 1/2 minutes.

"To do your body any good," he says, "it is necessary to run both slower and faster than that — and vary the rhythm."

Since running increases the flow of oxygen in the bloodstream and to the brain, "it takes more than a jog to do it," says Spino.

"When you jog," he continues, "your body is using up oxygen at the same rate that your lungs can supply it. This is called 'aerobic' exercise. It's good because it tones the heart, lungs and blood vessels."

Meanwhile, "anaerobic" exercise puts stress on the body, increasing its ability to use oxygen, because the body is operating at an oxygen deficit.

"The extra stress forces the body to release energy that had been stored in the muscle tissue," explains Spino, also the author of two books: "Beyond Jogging," and "Running Home: The Body-Mind Family Fitness Book."

Therefore, Spino suggests running — any kind of running, even in place — as a start to conditioning. "But to maintain a good level of health," he maintains, "aerobic exercising, three or four times a week, is required."

Spino suggests other exercises — bike riding, running in the surf and jumping rope — as supplements to running.

And he says it is necessary to meditate twice a day for five minutes each time to enhance the physical-fitness program. Spino says those "mental techniques help people get into awareness, concentration and imagination."

"The joining of the spirit and the mind with the body in mutually supportive roles is a new frontier," he adds. "With an understanding and integration of these dimensions, the extraordinary potential for growth inherent in the athletic experience will emerge."

Mind-boggling?

"Not really," says Spino. "Just good sense and bodily lifting."

The athletically inclined Spino, also a former high school basketball player in Lyndhurst, N.J., teaches his program at Princess hotels throughout the world, including Monte Carlo, Acapulco and the Bahamas. In it, he tries to stress the importance of the integration of mind, body, emotion and spirit in athletic activity.

In the 14th century, returning Crusaders brought trained cheetahs to Europe, where the animals were used in hunting and kept as palace pets.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Political Freedom Upheld

IT SHOULDN'T take the U.S. Supreme Court more than a matter of minutes to rule in favor of a Tennessee minister who claims he is unconstitutionally barred from holding public office.

At issue is a Tennessee law which says that "no minister of the Gospel or priest of any denomination whatsoever shall be eligible to a seat in either House of the Legislature."

The Rev. Paul A. McDaniel of Chattanooga says that's carrying the doctrine of separation of church and state a bit too far.

The Supreme Court is almost certain to agree.

A BLACK BAPTIST minister, McDaniel was elected to a state constitutional convention and is serving under a temporary stay order granted in July by Supreme Court Associate Justice Potter Stewart.

"I'm a firm believer in the separation of church and state," McDaniel says, "but I don't see where a clergyman serving in public office is the same thing."

He is right, of course. Carried to its logical conclusion, the idea that a clergyman can be barred from public office by virtue of his position in the church would have to be extended certainly to laymen serving on official church boards and perhaps even to anyone who belongs to a church.

The fact that McDaniel has a reputation as a civil rights activist has no bearing on the validity of his claim to the right to participate in public affairs.

THERE IS ANOTHER side, of course. Mrs. Selma Cash Paty, defeated by McDaniel for the constitutional convention post, believes that "organized religion should stay out of state and federal government."

"Ministers are not eligible for the draft," she says. "Now they want to make the laws."

The Tennessee state Supreme Court agreed with her, saying "political campaigns by ministers would naturally tend to pit religious versus non-religious."

Poppycock. The U.S. Constitution guarantees a separation of the institutions of church and state; that doesn't mean that individuals can't be active in both. In fact, the Constitution guarantees the "free exercise" of religion.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Kenneth May

Share The Children

"WE SUPPORT a revised range of comprehensive and universally accessible public services to support and strengthen—not to replace—families in the rearing of their children."

So says the Carnegie Council on Children in a book calling for a redistribution of income in America to correct "the failings of our society."

Hou would the Council go about "strengthening families" by giving society, through government, more responsibility for children's upbringing?

"In all family services," the Carnegie Quarterly explains, "parents should be included in policy making, monitoring and running the day-to-day programs."

"THROUGH COMMUNITY boards and consumer councils, they (parents) should be invested with real authority to plan services and set priorities," it adds.

What the Council is saying, then, is that having failed as breadwinners and in their personal responsibilities to their children, parents should "call the shots" on how public services will be doled out to them.

It says that the $40 billion to $50 billion annual cost, above what's already being spent on welfare and income transfer programs, should come "from taxpayers in the upper 25 to 30 per cent of the current income distribution."

This redistribution of wealth, central planning and communal control over shared programs has a name foreign to what has made America what it is—and the Carnegie Council makes no bones about it.

"Free enterprise in medical practice," it says, for example, "will not provide adequate distribution of health care, equal treatment for the poor, or the availability of preventive services to whole populations."

"OUR EARLIER theme of the American focus on individuals has re-emerged as astounding neglect of environmental health and education as methods for promoting health and as an extraordinary resistance to public health care and national health insurance," it continues.

It also proposes using the welfare of children as the justification for a whole range of further government interference in and control over every segment of society and the economy.

According to the Carnegie Quarterly: "In a still-to-be-defined and critically important area, the Council explores the legal recourse children should have against the insults to the body and mind of the side effects of technology: environmental pollutions, food adulterations, contamination from parents' work places and the like..."

COUNCIL MEMBERS concluded "that they could not, as a responsible group, avoid looking at the social context in which all families and children live."

They add that "the system will continue to produce victims faster than we can salvage them until we move toward changing those deeper forces that are causing the damage."

The first thing that needs to be done to correct "the system," the Carnegie Council believes, is "to promote more equality in the economic standing of American families."

Says the Council, headed by pyschologist Kenneth Keniston, author of "Young Radicals" and "Youth and Dissent," in its new book:

"We believe that with conscious and sustained effort it would be possible, over the next decade, to combine a full employment strategy with a system of income supports so as to yield almost all American families with children a minimum of at least half the current median (income) in any given year."

THIS IS A plug for the principles embodied in the Humphrey-Hawkins full employment and balanced growth bill, which would extend federal control over every aspect of the American economy if fully implemented.

What will become of the recommendations by the Carnegie Council on Children remains to be seen.

It would be naive, however, to expect that its proposals will be put away somewhere to gather dust.

More likely, wrapped in the aura of professionalism, its rationale for "protecting our children" will become a handy reference book for tax reforms, welfare reforms, new social programs, full-employment bills and make-work jobs programs that President Carter brings before Congress.

Holmes Alexander:

Will It Be One-Term Carter?

WASHINGTON—They laughed in derision and delight a few weeks back when it seemed that Jimmy Carter was going to be a one-term President, but the merriment has subsided.

There could be more than one reason for this change in public reaction and we should not stint any one of them.

First, though not of top importance when you consider the fickleness of any mob, is the President's showing at the polls.

If he drops a couple of points he's a bum. If the rate of his decline slows (even though his stand remains lowly), his goose hangs high.

Most political persons, both those in the arena and those in the bleachers, until recently found it quite acceptable for Carter to rate with the one-termers—Adams, father and son, Van Buren, Polk, Taft, Ford.

Carter looked like a pushover until Congress signed off for 1977 and gave us a clear view of the President's first year.

IT WAS ONE THING to catterwail so long as he couldn't get his program across—reduction in paperwork, Social Security financing, welfare reform and the like.

So long as the action was one of stalemate, it was a simple matter for California Gov. Jerry Brown to convince visiting reporters that he could do it better than Jimmy and had proved himself a better vote-getter in the primaries.

Same way among Republicans who were cocksure in November that Carter could be had. Sen. Howard Baker was puffed up in self-importance like a Thanksgiving turkey.

And the surest proof of Baker's Presidential finger-lickin' appetite was his doubletalk on the Panama Canal issue. He was using the Big Ditch as a Big Issue.

Ronald Reagan is of an age, born in 1911, when conceivably the Republicans still would draft him to run against an open White House seat.

But it would be another matter to send this popular idol against a tricky, entrenched executive (born 1924).

Gov. Reagan's chances stood high only so long as President Carter's sunk low.

BUT CHANGES IN the appraisal of Carter's record began to register as soon as Congressional coattails flapped from view.

To start with Energy, the fact that Carter undertook this crusade stands highly to his credit.

While the focus of public attention on the House-Senate squabble of how to tax the fuel sources as oil and gas (eventual compromise was always assured), the Carter administration quietly created an Energy Department by consolidating 11 fragments of other Federal agencies.

Secretary of designate Schlesinger went straight to work improving our energy status in coal, home insulation, solar energy, while the yakking went on.

Carter's Welfare Reform looked like a worsening mess. But before the House of Representatives adjourned, it had agreed (at least had voted) that the President had brought a semblance of imperfect order out of hopeless chaos.

For these reasons, among dozens of other examples of good management and amid peaceful influences abroad of which all Americans should be proud, the supposedly One-Term Jimmy has somewhat faded into an elderly incumbent.

Amputation Needed...Not A Manicure!

Sylvia Porter:

Credit Can Be Lost By (Yawn) Apathy

BETWEEN THIS past June 1 and Oct. 1, over 300 million notices informing women of their rights to have jointly-used accounts listed in their own names were sent out by banks, department stores, oil companies and other creditors.

The mailing was required by law.

Yet, a spot survey by Commercial Credit Corp. disclosed an overall response rate of a puny 9 per cent on average.

It's all too true.

Millions of you—women—are still vague or ignorant about your legal rights regarding credit in your own names.

While the federal Equal Credit Opportunity Act of '75 has been widely publicized, discrimination in the granting of credit to women continues on an alarmingly extensive scale.

YET, IT YOU ARE a woman, single or married, certain rights guaranteed to you by this law could one day be life-saving.

Either through the death of your husband or divorce, some 85 per cent of you who are now married will at some point in your lives be single once again!

When and as this change in your lives occurs, if you have never had a credit card, checking or savings account in your own name, your financial survival in a society so credit-oriented as ours will be a struggle or worse—a disaster.

The credit history your husband built up will die with him. You will have none, once widowed.

And without credit history, your chances of obtaining credit on your own are at best minimal.

Under the law, the following are specifically prohibited:

(1) REFUSING YOU, a married woman, a separate account, even though you would qualify if you were single.

(2) Demanding financial information about your spouse, when you, the applicant, are creditworthy individually.

(3) Refusing you credit because of a change in your marital status.

(4) Refusing you, a married woman, credit because of the credit rating of your spouse, unless the application is for a joint account.

(5) Refusing to consider alimony and child-support payments as bona fide income.

(6) ASKING YOU, an applicant, about your birth control practices or child-bearing plans.

(7) Refusing to consider your income (as a wife) when you and your husband apply for credit jointly.

(8) Refusing to consider regular part-time employment or retirement benefits as income.

(9) Refusing to recognize a married person's legal name.

(10) Terminating, revising or requiring re-application of a credit transaction because of retirement, or a change in the borrower's marital status.

(11) Requiring your spouse, or anyone else, to co-sign for an unsecured loan, if you are creditworthy.

(12) Refusing to extend or continue credit because your age makes you ineligible for credit insurance.

THE EQUAL CREDIT Opportunity law represented a vital breakthrough for us, America's women.

But of what worth is this law in protecting your rights as a woman and human being if you do not know your rights or if you do not exercise them?

Can you, for instance, answer the following?

* A woman must prove that discrimination by a credit institution was intentional. (Answer: No.)

* Lending institutions are compelled by law to reveal grounds on which credit is denied to you. (Answer: Yes, this information is not confidential.)

* DISCRIMINATION involving laws of less than $100 does not amount to enough to justify a law suit under federal law. (Answer: No, any amount justifies action by you, under these conditions.)

* Any application that asks your marital status for credit purposes must state that an answer by you is optional. (Answer: Yes, this information may not be demanded orally or in writing.)

* If you're earning an income that would qualify you for a loan but your husband is presently unemployed, you can still be turned down for a loan because of your spouse's plight. (Answer: No.)

It is imperative that you, a woman as well as a man, know what your credit reports say about you, married or not. It is essential that you take the trouble to correct inaccurate or false information in your file. Don't risk your financial survival because of ignorance or apathy.

JOHN D. LOFTON:

No One Speaks For The Unborn

WASHINGTON—More interested in procedure than in protecting the lives of the unborn (he has co-sponsored none of the numerous human life amendments to the Constitution), House GOP Leader John Rhodes, R-Ariz., has called on the Democratic leadership to confront the abortion question directly so that it will not again tie up unrelated legislation.

In a statement deploring the fact that the abortion issue has stymied the passage of the 1978 Labor-HEW appropriation bill, and has held hostage the paychecks of the employes of these agencies, Rhodes says:

"The House Judiciary Committee has before it at least 15 resolutions proposing constitutional amendments relating to abortion and the right to life. Not one day of hearings has been held so far this year. It is time that the chairman of this committee exercise his authority and schedule hearings on these resolutions so that expert testimony may be taken in a calm and dispassionate environment.

"IF NECESSARY, the speaker should exercise his leadership role and persuade the chairman to schedule hearings, so that the committee can formulate and vote out a resolution which the full House can consider on its merits, unencumbered by such other concerns as the effect the measure may have on the paychecks of federal employes."

Well, I think Rep. Rhodes' idea is a good one. But it has about as much chance as the proverbial snowball in hell.

So, what's the problem? Well, the biggest fly in the ointment is Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., the pro-abortion chairman of the Judiciary Committee's subcommittee on civil and constitutional rights.

Despite the fact that his subcommittee held seven days of hearings last year, heard about 30 witnesses and produced more than 1,000 pages of testimony (including statements for the record), Edwards continues to bottle up nearly 20 pro-life constitutional amendments. He held no hearings this year.

IN AN INTERVIEW, Edwards explained to me why he is behaving the way he is. He says that the members of his subcommittee overwhelmingly oppose bringing any human life amendments to a vote and besides, if this were done, "all you would cause in the country is a lot of divisiveness and hard feelings."

But isn't this going on now, I ask? "No," says Edwards, "there's a strong argument going on, but nothing like what you'd have if you had a constitutional amendment—mercy."

But the congressman knows differently, or he should, from first-hand experience.

He has had a pro-life political opponent seeking his job, he has received thousands of anti-abortion letters, and for a year-and-a-half he had his office picketed by right-to-lifers.

When I ask Edwards if he didn't feel an obligation to bring the abortion issue to a vote, since so many millions of young people are interested in it, he says: "No, the votes aren't there for that."

But why not force a vote and kill the issue to demonstrate how weak the pro-life forces are? Because the issue wouldn't be killed, he says; the legislation would just be reintroduced.

Edwards admits to me that the hearings he held last year were "excellent and interesting," declaring:

"My goodness, this subject has been debated for thousands of years as to when quickening starts and all. It's a fascinating subject. I learned a lot about the subject and gained a keen appreciation of the positions of both sides."

I ASK: BUT OF WHAT value were these hearings—what was their purpose if you refuse to take a vote? Isn't the idea of hearings to eventually vote on the issue being examined?

There is a long pause. Edwards says sometimes the purpose of hearings is to ultimately take a vote, and sometimes this is not the purpose. He reasserts the lack of support within his subcommittee for an anti-abortion constitutional amendment.

Well, maybe Edwards is leveling with me. But I doubt it. A very well-informed source close to the Judiciary Committee explains Edwards' action on the abortion question—or rather his lack of action—to me this way:

"Edwards is a secret hero to many, many members of Congress who fear, greatly fear an up-or-down, on-the-record vote on abortion. Sure, he's held hearings. But this was to appear reasonable on the subject, to take the heat out of the pro-life movement. There's no way Edwards will ever force a vote on this issue.

"Most of all, Edwards is a hero to the head of the Judiciary Committee, Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., a Catholic, whose committee would then be in the spotlight if Edwards' subcommittee okayed a pro-life law."

Regardless of how one feels about the subject, because of the widespread interest in it, the pro-life measures seeking to outlaw abortion deserve to be acted on by the Whole House. If anything creates divisiveness and hard feelings, it's having these resolutions bottled up by one man.

Trends Indicate Increase In Mergers

By LeROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — The effort of Carter Hawley Hale stores to take over Chicago's prestigious Marshall Field department store underlines a big revival in mergers and takeover attempts this year.

The merger business had been dull for five years. Falling stock prices made deals for stock difficult and inflation took the flavor out of cash mergers.

More importantly, many conglomerates found the companies they had acquired so lightheartedly in the 1960s were no longer making money and had become a drain on earnings.

So there were many spinoffs. Often the businesses were sold back to their original owners for considerably less in real terms than the conglomerates had paid for them.

Tougher readings of the antitrust laws by government agencies and the courts also put a big damper on acquisitions.

But midway into this year the tide turned, according to W.T. Grimm & Co., a Chicago manegement consulting firm that has kept track of merger trends for years.

Grimm's figures for all of 1977 are not in yet but by early autumn the company was able to forecast that this year probably would produce the first net increase in consolidations since 1972.

This was the case even though business purchases for the first nine months of the year actually were down 6 percent from a year earlier. But the third quarter saw a 22 percent rise to 616 from 506 a year earlier. In the first quarter of this year acquisitions were down 20 percent from a year ago.

The purpose of mergers and acquisitions was rather different this year from the goals of the 1960s. No longer was expansion for its own sake the obvious aim, nor were many companies interested in picking up firms with tax losses that could be applied against their earnings.

On the contrary, solid strengthening of the buying firm's corporate structure and improvement of its marketing position were the purposes of 1977 mergers.

The depressed stock prices that had made mergers difficult for the past five years now became an inducement for cash purchases as many companies looked like bargains at today's stock market levels.

Two Killed In Shootout During Eviction Attempt

GRIEVES — An unidentified Fulton County, Ga. marshal, in foreground, grieved for a fellow officer who was killed while trying to evict Black Muslims from an apartment in Atlanta Wednesday. Another officer in the background tried to comfort him as the ordeal ended. (AP Laserphoto)

ATLANTA (AP) — A special police unit was on standby when marshals went to a house to evict Black Muslim tenants, but before the SWAT team arrived on the scene two men were dead in a gun duel, police say.

The hour-long battle erupted Wednesday when deputy marshals tried to evict Lee Anderson, whose Muslim name was Mahamin Jashua, and Nicky Gore, whose religious name was Mujahid Muhammad, from a two-story brick house. A police spokesman said he did not know if the house was a place of worship for the Muslims.

It was not clear why the eviction notice had been served.

Killed were Anderson, 42, and city Marshal David Larry Folds, 25, who was shot in the chest as he stepped from his car when the shootout erupted.

A second deputy, J.W. Broadwell, was in fair condition at Grady Memorial Hospital after surgery for a bullet wound in the stomach.

Gore was charged with murder and aggravated assault after he surrendered, police said.

Police Maj. W.W. Holley said an eight-member SWAT team was placed on alert, but did not participate in the initial approach to the house because the eviction was "a civil matter."

Chief Marshal Sanford Jones said he and two deputies drove by the house Tuesday and saw men armed with guns upstairs.

Officials said Broadwell and another deputy, Aubrey Lockridge, had gone to the house three weeks ago to serve an eviction notice. Chief Deputy Roy Worthington said an unidentified occupant had told the deputies then: "You're not taking me out of here. Somebody's going to end up dead."

When Broadwell and Lockridge went to the door on Wednesday, Anderson, who was unarmed, answered, authorities said. The two deputies told him he was being evicted, pulled open the door and grabbed him, Jones said.

A second man stuck his hand out the door and began firing a .357 magnum pistol, Jones said.

Broadwell and Lockridge pulled their .38-caliber pistols and began firing. Anderson was hit and slumped dead in a sitting position on the porch, authorities said.

Deputy Marshal Luke Davis ran to Folds, who was hit as the shootout unfolded, and cradled him in his lap.

"I kept saying, 'Hold on! You're going to be all right,'" Davis recounted. "His last words to me were, 'I'm hurting, Luke. I'm hurting.'"

Residents of the predominantly black area rushed to the scene but quickly retreated from the gunfire.

Police fired tear gas into the house, touching off a blaze in the structure, and SWAT members ran to the rear of the red building.

Moments later, Gore — clad in olive drab pants and a green shirt — waved a white flag out the window and surrendered.

Anderson had been charged with murder following a 1973 shootout in downtown Atlanta between Muslims and police in which an Atlanta officer and a Muslim were killed. But murder charges were dropped and he was later aqcuitted of assault charges in the same case.

Travel By Barge Called Unique Tour Experience

By TED J. SIMON
A-J Travel Editor

"It's a super way to travel," said Tom Maniscalco, group travel consultant with Global Travel Service in Lubbock.

Maniscalco was describing barge transportation via canals available in Great Britain and many other parts of Europe for tourists. Although the canals were built some time ago for industrial use, many travelers are discovering the waterways are a unique way to see a country and its people.

"Once you get out and away from the city, you go down into the countryside," explained the travel consultant. "Most of the canals go where there aren't any roads. You see a totally different part of the country you would normally only see at a distance. You wave at the people along the way, and you get off once in awhile and walk along beside the barge." Most barges on the small canals maintain a walking speed.

The word "barge" can be a misnomer, especially in this instance. The barges designed for tourist accommodations are quite comfortable and frequently luxurious. The crafts are really small hotels and may remind some travelers of the railroad accommodations enjoyed by J. P. Morgan. For instance some of the boats operated by Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Rees-Jones out of Norbury, England, feature pastel-colored wash basins, polished brass works, velvet upholstery, single and twin cabins, bath or shower facilities, lounge, small but efficient library, and all of the boats are carpeted and heated for out of season cruises.

Usually barges travel in pairs; one boat with a motor will pull another boat; the barge without a motor is called the butty. From time to time, when the canal is wide enough, the barges will travel alongside each other.

Most of the vacation barges are family operations like the Steam Cruising Company, Ltd. of the Rees-Jones family.

"They get to know the people up and down the canals," noted Maniscalco, "because they've been doing it for years. Sometimes they stop to have tea and introduce the passengers to people along the way."

He continued, "It's a great way to get to know the country and the basic working class of Europe you usually wouldn't know about any other way. First of all, the people that run the barges are the working class, and they take you to the pubs they would normally favor for lunch."

Most barge travelers find the trip adventurous while enjoying the security of the barge and the friendship of the people on the barge that give you the feeling of being a member of their family.

"It takes a particular kind of tourist to take a trip like this," said the Lubbock travel consultant. He explained, "The pace is rather slow, especially for Americans that have the horrible habit of going over to Europe for 14 days and seeing 12 countries. But, if the canal pace is slow, the opportunity to absorb the country is worth it. The barge operators have been traveling the canals for so long, they can give a view and history and understanding of the countryside and cities you couldn't get otherwise."

Sometimes the canal craft will tie up where vegetables are unloaded for the city markets. Tourists find themselves talking with people they met earlier in the day, mingling with people that work on the docks, and having lunch in a pub few tourists ever have the opportunity to visit.

Maniscalco added, "One of the nicest things about barge transportaition is that you always have a nice place to spend the night. You don't have to worry about your lodgings not being ready. Your lodging takes you to where you want to go. It's your home away from home."

Dinner time on a barge in Great Britain is typically English and may be steak and kidney pie or roast beef with several vegetables and a selection of cheeses. One breakfast for Maniscalco consisted of bacon and eggs, fried tomatoes, corn flakes, toast and juice. Lunch time in England will usually be at a nice pub or sandwiches for a picnic along the way.

"We went through some locks that took a lot of time because they were hand operated," remembered Maniscalco. "It's a good time to get off of the boat and have lunch on the side of a hill."

He noted, "The locks are going to vary tremendously, depending on where they are and when they were made. The people let you help them with the locks if you want to. That's kind of nice, because the manual labor breaks the routine of being a passenger all of the time."

Visitors to Great Britain who get off the beaten track will find the transportation system to be one of the best in the world. Trains and buses seem to go everywhere, enabling a person to start and end a canal trip to fit any itinerary.

For the traveler who wants to see a bit of pastoral England, floating along the canals is the perfect mode of transportation. A poem from a Steam Cruising Company pamphlet is an irresistible invitation:

Come, see England's lush green meadows,
Gaze her wide expanse of hills,
Travel, tranquil, placid waters,
Watch the rushes ride the rills.
Come, relax, enjoy the quietness,
Far from urban rush and tear,
Live aboard our boat 'Tsarina',
Breathe the fresh, cool, English air.

Tom Maniscalco concluded, "Traveling on the canals for a day or longer is a great way to top off a vacation to Europe." The Global Travel Service consultant welcomes inquiries regarding the unique concept of touring by canal barge.

TEA TIME — Mrs. Mary Jo English of Lubbock poses beside the hotel-barge she traveled on for a week while exploring the rural areas of England.

THE RIVER AVON — Shakespeare's river, not long ago, was vital to the growing economy of the middle English counties. Today the quiet shores and calm waters provide a pleasant interlude for many tourists.

Book Lists Waterways

Floating Through Europe, Inc., has announced the publication of its 1978 64-page color catalog. Books can be obtained by sending $1.00 to: Floating Through Europe, Inc., 501 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10022.

The catalog offers all types of waterway travel in England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, Holland, Sweden, France, Germany and Russia. Interested travelers can choose from the following types of boats:

Hotel Barges -Intimate floating hotels accommodating from 6-18 people, offering personal attention, first-class cuisine, comfortable-to-luxurious accommodations, bicycles for freedom and exercise and courtesy mini-buses for guided shoreside excursions. FTE owns and operates luxury hotel barges in England (on the Thames, in Shakespeare Country, and in Wales), and one in Holland. In addition, they act as agents for two hotel barges in France (in Burgundy and in southern France).

Self-Drive Boats -Recommended for families with children, groups of friends or anyone at all with a desire to see "the waterways with a minimum of fuss and a maximum of pleasure." They offer total freedom, are remarkably affordable, and require little or no boating experience. FTE offers a fleet of 2000 self-drive boats — the largest selection in the world — located throughout England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, France and Holland.

Steamers -Luxurious ships with first-class hotel service and accommodations, and a tradition of culinary excellence. FTE offers steamer trips on the Rhine, Moselle and Volga rivers, and on Sweden's Gota Canal.

In addition, the 1978 catalog offers the largest selection of waterway maps and publications in the world, and several all-inclusive 10-30 day package holidays.

City Woman Takes Trip On Canal

When Lubbock resident Mrs. Mary Jo English found London, England, too crowded she happened upon a perfect opportunity to get away from the city's hustle and bustle.

"I was on a three week tour overseas and met a lady that had a reservation to take a canal trip," recalled Mrs. English. "I had never heard of such a trip, but it sounded interesting so I joined her."

She enthused, "We saw some beautiful country, lots of greenery, flowers, trees, rolling hills, and farm houses with thatched roofs. It was just like you would expect England to appear.

"If the weather is nice you can ride on top of the boats, also there are foot paths along the way and we enjoyed getting out and walking along the countryside," recalled the Lubbock woman.

At night the barges usually stopped near little villages and the barge skipper Rees-Jones and his wife would accompany the travelers to a pub where the Americans discovered the establishments to be more like community meeting places.

Sometimes the travelers were taken to homes where Mr. and Mrs. Rees-Jones had friends. The Americans were always welcomed and felt right at home.

"The local people were so friendly and interesting," noted the Lubbockite, "and the barge operators were very accommodating."

Mrs. English looked at a picture in a scrapbook of "her" barge going through some locks and explained how the boats went from one level to another level.

NARROW QUARTERS — The barges operated by Steve and Sue Rees-Jones are 70 feet long and 7 feet wide to enable the crafts to negotiate many of the canals in England. The rooms are narrow but quite comfortable.

Two Killed In Shootout During Eviction Attempt

ATLANTA (AP) — A special police unit was on standby when marshals went to a house to evict Black Muslim tenants, but before the SWAT team arrived on the scene two men were dead in a gun duel, police say.

The hour-long battle erupted Wednesday when deputy marshals tried to evict Lee Anderson, whose Muslim name was Mahamin Jashua, and Nicky Gore, whose religious name was Mujahid Muhammad, from a two-story brick house. A police spokesman said he did not know if the house was a place of worship for the Muslims.

It was not clear why the eviction notice had been served.

Killed were Anderson, 42, and city Marshal David Larry Folds, 25, who was shot in the chest as he stepped from his car when the shootout erupted.

A second deputy, J.W. Broadwell, was in fair condition at Grady Memorial Hospital after surgery for a bullet wound in the stomach.

Court Sentences Church Burner

THOMSON, Ga. (AP) — Saying his hands were tied by the law, a Superior Court judge on Wednesday sentenced a juvenile to no more than two years in a detention home for burning four rural black churches the weekend before Christmas.

"The human mind can hardly grasp" the burning of a church, Toombs Circuit Judge Robert L. Stevens said after sending a 16-year-old Lincoln County youth to the Department of Human Resources.

A second juvenile, from Richmond County, was turned over to authorities there for sentencing.

The third person apprehended and charged with starting the fires, Roy Keith Palmer, 17, of Lincoln County, is free on $40,000 bond, after being bound over to grand juries in Lincoln and Wilkes counties on arson charges.

The three were apprehended after four churches, all with small congregations of blacks, were burned the night of Dec. 18. Several other fires, in haystacks and a large highway trash container, were set that night.

Norwegian Police Seek Moonshine 'Factories'

By PAUL TREUTHARDT

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Moonshining has become a sort of national industry in Norway, where imported Scotch whisky costs $20 a bottle and there are only 26 liquor stores in the capital.

Not that anyone has a still himself. But everyone seems to have a friend who does have a still.

"Because of the high prices, the public doesn't seem to consider moonshining illegal," said Inspector Knut Riise, head of Oslo's three-man anti-moonshine squad. "We get very few tips — perhaps a neighbor in an apartment building objects to the smell and the noise of running water, or a wife has had a quarrel.

"We concentrate on the 'factories' and on picking up people selling home brew downtown," said Riise. His officers go out two or three times a week and usually make arrests.

"Sunday morning is a good time," he added. "The state monopoly liquor stores shut at 1 p.m. Saturday and people are getting thirsty."

Follow-up raids usually show only "10 to 50 bottles and a small still," Riise said. Penalties are fines ranging from the equivalent of $40 to $800.

"We take into account a person's income," said Riise. "Some of them are old-age pensioners trying to make a little extra, and we are lenient with them, but we'll hit a young worker."

The law comes down harder on operators of moonshine factories. A 58-year-old man who ran a plant in central Oslo making thousands of gallons of hooch got 60 days in jail and was fined the equivalent of $2000 in Norwegian kroner. Shortly after he did his time, he was picked up again with some 2,000 gallons of mash ready for brewing. The court didn't believe his claim that he had switched to wine-making, which is legal, and put him back in jail for another 120 days with double the fine.

Before World War II, Riise said, "the police took a sterner attitude to moonshining. Now our priorities have changed." He compared his three-man unit, which also handles a wide range of smuggling cases, from TV sets to illegal currency exports, to the capital's 50-man narcotics division.

In 1972 it became illegal to buy a still without a permit, which no private citizens could obtain, but the last manufacturer was closed only in 1974, after he had sold 1,700 stills with detailed instruction brochures.

The state monopoly shops sell up to 60 percent pure alcohol, which is used to make drinks marginally cheaper than regular bottles, mixed with widely sold "whiskey" or "vodka" flavoring. Besides imported scotch, the stores also sell bourbon whiskey, Irish whiskey and locally bottled scotch.

It's no secret that sales of the flavoring are out of proportion to that of the pure alcohol, but it seems to be strictly for home use.

Riise said no pretence is made in the sales of home brew, which usually is pure alcohol. "I've never heard of it being passed off in old branded bottles as the real thing," he said.

"Norwegian moonshiners are honest."

Proxmire Unhappy With Explanation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., says he's unhappy with the Pentagon's explanation of why it needs cruise missiles launched from the sea and the ground, as well as the air.

Proxmire said, "The Pentagon cannot expect to win support for costly new programs by stonewalling congressional requests for information explaining their need."

Today is Thursday, Dec. 29, the 363rd day of 1977 with two to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The moring stars are Mercury, Venus, Saturn and Mars.

The evening star is Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the dign of Capricorn.

Andrew Johnson, 17th president of the United States, was born Dec. 29, 1806. This is acteess Mary Tyler Moore's 40th birthday.

On this day in history.

In 1848, gas lights were installed at the White House for the first time.

In 1851, the first Young Men's Christian Association chapter opened in Boston.

In 1972, an L-1011 jumbo jetliner crashed near Miami, Fla., killing 99 persons. Seventy-seven others survived.

In 1975, 11 were killed and 75 hurt when a bomb exploded at LaGuardia Airport in New York City.

A thought for the day:

Irish poet, wit and dramatist Oscar Wilde said, "There is only one thing in the world worse than being talked about, and that is not being talked about."

Tuna Industry Men Leave On Foreign Boats

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Foreign tuna fleets are skimming the cream of talent from the American tuna industry with many captains leaving on foreign boats for better money and to escape strict U.S. regulations, industry spokesmen say.

Tuna boats from around the world put into port here for repairs. There are six foreign seiners in San Diego now preparing for the coming fishing season, and all have American skippers, according to Edward Silva, executive vice president of the American Tunaboat Association.

"A tuna boat is only as good as the people running it," said August Felando, association general manager, "and they're taking some of the best men in our fleet."

Michael Zolzzi, assistant general manager of the tuna boat group, said attractive offers from foreign boat owners and stiff U.S. regulations covering the fishing industry combine to drive American captains to foreign fleets.

"I think they are receiving very lucrative offers from foreign investors who realize they're investing a lot of money in a big vessel," Zolzzi said in a telephone interview. "But unless the right person is guiding it, it's worthless.

"You could say that if you and I had a foreign boat, we would want an American running it," he said.

Airline Hopes To Offer Egypt, Israel Tours

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A charter airline and a travel agency encouraged by peace negotiations are hoping to offer the first combined tours to Egypt and Israel.

In a statement Tuesday, Trans International Airlines spokesman Arthur Behrstock said: "The timing will depend on the progress of peace talks," which he said included discussion of expanding travel and tourism.

Behrstock said tourism ministers of Egypt and Israel have approved the joint tour in principle, but government officials in Tel Aviv and Cairo denied that any agreement exists.

The joint tour would be an expansion of newly approved one-week group tours to Cairo scheduled to begin March 7, said TIA, the world's largest charter airline.

The Egyptian tour is priced at $599 from the East Coast and about $100 more from the Midwest. No West Coast flights are scheduled, but they may be added later at an additional $100 charge, TIA added.

The plan is for a total of year-round, weekly flights to Cairo from American cities including New York, Boston, Miami, Philadelphia, Washington, Detroit, St. Louis and Minneapolis. An estimated 13,000 persons could take the tour, TIA officials said.

The proposal calls for tour groups to fly from Cairo to Tel Aviv for an additional one-week stay in Israel at an additional cost of about $100, said Andrew Doctor of Arthur Frommer Charters Inc. in New York, which is handling bookings for the Egyptian tours.

HEW Details Rights Of Disabled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government is preparing to tell millions of handicapped people "Your disability doesn't count" when it comes to schooling, jobs and health care.

The message will be distributed in English, Spanish and Braille pamphlets explaining that new laws and regulations offer to the handicapped civil rights guarantees similar to those previously extended to minorities and women.

Intended recipients among an estimated 28 million physically and mentally handicapped adults and 8 million handicapped children are deaf and blind persons, victims of cancer and heart disease, the mentally ill and retarded, alcoholics, drug addicts and people with a host of other disabilities.

"If you are otherwise qualified — for a job, college, welfare or other activity or service — your disability doesn't count," reads a pamphlet called "Your Rights As A Disabled Person" being prepared by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"Federal law is on your side," it notes. "Your rights are protected ... if your employer, school, college, hospital or other service provider receives federal assistance. That means federal money, services or property."

It also tells parents of physically or mentally disabled children they "have the right to demand that your federally assisted local public school system provide a free education appropriate to your child's needs."

HEW early next year will distribute 1 million copies of the pamphlet.

It also is preparing pamphlets for schools and colleges and for social service agencies, hospitals and other health care facilities to explain two laws — one barring discrimination against handicapped persons and the other assuring a free public education for all handicapped children.

Firm Applies For Casino In New Jersey

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Resorts International wants to open a casino in Atlantic City by March, but a top state law enforcement official says it could take nine months to investigate the firm's application for a New Jersey gambling license.

Resorts filed the first application for such a license with the New Jersey Casino Control Comission recently by dropping off 10 boxes of forms and a non-refundable, $100,000 check as the required down payment to fund the investigation.

"We could be ready to open as early as March," said James Crosby, chairman of the board of Resorts.

But Robert Martinez, director of the Division of Gaming Enforcement, said the estimate seems low based on studies of the Las Vegas gambling industry.

"By Nevada standards, applications of this type usually take between six and nine months," Martinez said.

Martinez said a team of a dozen accountants and lawyers would get to work on the application once it is received from the casino commission.

State casino law requires extensive personal histories, financial statements and tax records of an interested company's officers and top level employees.

"Although the application is very comprehensive, there is nothing we haven't answered," Crosby said.

Casino Control Commission Chairman Joseph Lordi said the application would be referred to Martinez once it is determined all forms have been filled out.

Resorts hopes to open the first gambling casino in New Jersey early next year in the former Chalfonte-Haddon Hall hotel near the Atlantic City boardwalk.

The commission first released the application forms last week, but Joel Sterns, lawyer for Resorts, said the company has been compiling the information for the last three months from draft information approved by the state.

Crosby smiled when asked if detailed information, including family background data, was overly extensive.

"We had trouble remembering some of the relatives," he said.

Crosby said when he was chairman of the board of an aerospace firm supplying rocket equipment for the United States moon landings he received top security clearance after filling out a form of only six pages.

Casino games authorized by the state are blackjack, roulette, baccarat, craps, slot machines and big six wheels.

"We'll have all the games we're allowed," Crosby said.

Resorts has 512 rooms that meet state size requirements for a casino hotel with plans for a 60,000-square-foot casino floor area.

Crosby said the Resorts casino operation should supply about 2,000 jobs, including about 500 jobs for dealers and croupiers.

Carter Hedges On Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, trying to balance a pair of promises, concedes that he can't guarantee a balanced federal budget by 1981 without jeopardizing his planned $25 billion election-year tax cut.

"If there was an absolutely rigid fixation on a balanced budget, then there would be no chance for tax cuts," Carter said Wednesday night in a year-end interview.

"But I think when you take into consideration that we have a $25 billion tax reduction for the people next year with about $6 billion tax reductions this year, that is $31 billion, (and) that is a major benefit to the people.

"I just can't give a firm commitment on how we will balance tax cuts versus a balanced budget by 1981," the president said.

His statements seemed to hedge his campaign promise to balance the budget during his first term. As recently as last week, during his Christmas vacation at home in Plains, Ga., he was asked whether the balanced budget was still a goal and not just a dream.

"Absolutely," Carter declared.

In the television interview, the president was asked whether he still thought that balancing the budget by 1981 was a realistic goal, given claims on the budget such as his promise of a tax cut. This time, Carter replied, "Obviously, I can not guarantee that. We have obviously known that to balance the budget would be difficult.

"It depends upon how fast business invests, how many people are at work, which cuts down obviously on expenditure for unemployment compensation, welfare payments — and there has to be some tradeoff," Carter said. " ... It would take about a 10 percent annual increase in real terms in business investment with the present projections of economic need.

"We want to cut the unemployment rate down considerably and, of course, we want to deal with the problems of the cities ... We also contemplate in the 1979 fiscal budget emphasizing anew our interest in solving the higher unemployment rate among black young people ... We want to meet the legitimate needs of our people and at the same time not let inflation get out of hand."

Meeting those needs costs tax money, Carter acknowledged. But, apparently replying to former President Gerald R. Ford's contention that people would about break even between tax increases and the proposed tax cut, Carter said, "I think the benefits to be derived from our tax cuts in 1978 and 1979 will exceed any tax burden that may have been added."

Carter came to the interview in the Red Room of the White House after dumping Arthur F. Burns as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board and naming G. William Miller, chairman of Textron Inc., a New England conglomerate, as his choice for a replacement. The president settled into a chair and said he was packed for his tour beginning today of Europe, Asia and the Near East.

"I almost haven't had enough time to get ready — with the hiring and firing of people today," he said smiling. Then he grew serious. "Dr. Burns really was a gracious man," Carter added. "He took it very well. Even when I told him, he said, 'That's good.' "

Carter praised Burns and said he hopes the chairman will stay on the board. He said he replaced Burns as chairman because he had served two terms and "I thought it was time for some new leadership" as well as "some change in emphasis."

The questioning began with Carter's journey. "Energy," the president said, "will be the tie that will bind us together on this trip." Wherever his journey leads, Carter said, "what our nation does with energy will be a prime question." Until Congress takes action, he said, "that cloud will hang over the determination and leadership qualities of our country."

He said he hoped his foreign mission "will demonstrate to the American people and to the Congress the necessity for rapid action" on energy. Carter said he had "private signs ... divulged to me by conferees" that a compromise can be struck on energy. "I don't think there is any doubt that they will pass this legislation early in the (next) session," the president said.

Carter also said he would introduce a national health insurance program in the next session. Congress "can't pass it this year," he said, "but it will be introduced."

In the coming year, he predicted, the United States and the Soviet Union will reach a strategic arms limitation agreement. Carter also predicted approval by the Senate.

With progress in that area as well as on a comprehensive nuclear test ban and superpower restraint in the Indian Ocean, the president said, "my guess is that President Brezhnev would be likely to want to come here to visit."

Carter predicted Senate approval of the Panama Canal treaty by April and said senators should not amend it because that would require Panama to have another referendum on the pact. "I don't think it would be fair," the president said.

Instead, he said, the Senate could express its understanding of what the treaty specifies about U.S. rights to defend the waterway after Panama gains control of it in the year 2000.

In a final prediction, Carter said progress in curbing unemployment this year will be exceeded next year. "I believe we can get it below" 4.5 percent, the president said.

Unemployment has been averaging about 7 percent.

Turning to the Middle East, Carter said some Arab leaders have told him they would not object to a peace settlement that included a U.S. guarantee of Israel's security.

He said he would prefer a minimal U.S. role in post-settlement peacekeeping, but added that he would consider guarantees "very, very favorably" if it meant preventing a breakdown in talks.

Business Leaders Laud New Chairman Of FRB

WASHINGTON (AP) — Business leaders are praising the appointment of G. William Miller to head the Federal Reserve Board despite their strong support for the man he will succeed, Arthur F. Burns.

Miller, 52, chairman of Textron Inc. of Providence, R.I., and a director of the Boston Federal Reserve Bank, is to take Burns' place when he steps down as chairman Jan. 31.

With the election of a Democratic president, Burns' chances of reappointment appeared dim early this year because of his conservative money policies that antagonized labor leaders.

However, businessmen liked the stability represented by Burns' anti-inflation policies and urged President Carter to reappoint him to maintain business confidence. An optimistic business community is likely to make long-range investments, creating new jobs, they argued.

Carter, faced with this dilemma, said he contacted dozens of businessmen before choosing Miller as the nation's chief money manager.

"They expressed overwhelming confidence and approbation of Bill Miller to be chairman," Carter told reporters Wednesday.

Many businessmen expressed surprise, but supported the choice.

"This is surely one of the finest appointments President Carter has made," said Heath Larry, president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

The chairman of the Bank of America, A.W. Clausen, said he thought the selection was "super."

Irving S. Shapiro, chairman of the Du Pont Co. and chairman of the Business Roundtable, said Burns will be missed. "But given the president's decision not to reappoint Mr. Burns ... we applaud the selection of Bill Miller. He has been an outstanding business leader and has the confidence of the business community."

AFL-CIO President George Meany said Carter "has made a sound decision. Mr. Miller is capable and well qualified and should obviously have the confidence of the business community.

"In replacing Dr. Arthur Burns as chairman, the president is clearly moving away from the discredited policies that created the last recession and prevented a speedy recovery," Meany said.

Technically, Carter is nominating Miller to a 14-year term as one of seven board members, replacing David Lilly, whose term expires Jan. 31. If Miller is confirmed by the Senate, Carter will appoint him to a four-year term as chairman.

Burns, who was present when Carter announced the appointment, said he has not decided whether to stay on the board. Carter "has chosen wisely and well" in selecting Miller, Burns said.

Carter, in a session Wednesday night with network television correspondents, said he hopes Burns will remain a member.

Carter said he named Miller chairman because "it was time for us to have some new leadership", and that his move was "certainly no reflection" on Burns, whom he called "so wise."

Burns prided himself as an inflation-fighter in leading the Federal Reserve in its money policies. The agency, independent of the president, can set the size of the nation's money supply, directly affecting Americans in the interest rates and the prices they pay.

The chairman was clearly on the side of keeping interest rates up to control inflation. White House officials, led by economic adviser Charles Schultze, believed he was putting the brakes on the economy and preventing the creation of new jobs.

Miller, asked whether he would fight unemployment or inflation, said, "We need to work on both at once. We can tackle both simultaneously."

He added, "I hope I will assume a leadership role in continuing the policies (of the Federal Reserve Board)."

Miller is also chairman of the Conference Board, a leading business organization, and chairman of the National Alliance of Businessmen.

A native of Sapulpa, Okla., Miller practiced law in New York before working up the ranks at Textron, a conglomerate employing 65,000 people. He was elected president in 1960 and chairman in 1974.

Miller is walking into a $57,500 job as chairman of the Fed, leaving a job that paid him $382,000 in 1976.

Sadat Critical Of U.S. Stand

By The Associated Press

A bomb blast killed two men in an Israeli coastal town today, Israeli Radio reported, and radical Palestinians claimed responsibility, calling it part of a "chain reaction" against Prime Minister Menahem Begin's peace plan.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said, meanwhile, he was "disappointed" with President Carter's newly stated support of the Israeli position in peace talks, and said Carter's statement may slow progress toward a Middle East settlement.

Carter and the Begin proposals fared poorly elsewhere in the Arab world as well.

Jordan rejected the Begin plan as a scheme for "rewarding aggression," and the Palestine Liberation Organization rebuked Carter for his comments on a Palestinian state in a television interview Wednesday night.

Carter said in the interview that it was not in the interest of permanent peace for a "radical" state to be created in the Middle East.

Carter reaffirmed his support for a Palestinian "homeland or entity" tied to surrounding countries, not an independent state.

Carter also said Begin's insistence on a continued Israeli military presence on the West Bank of the Jordan River was "a reasonable negotiating position."

Sadat told ABC News in Cairo today Carter's remarks would "for sure" make negotiations "difficult for me." Because of Carter's statements, he said, a settlement "may be delayed for some time ... but I think that quoting 1978 as a year of decision is not an exaggeration."

In Beirut, a PLO spokesman, Mahmoud Labady, said there can be no Mideast peace without a PLO-governed independent Palestinian state.

"It's a long step backward," Labady said. "If President Carter is serious about his championship of human rights, then a real test for this seriousness is the legitimate rights of the Palestinians to independent nationhood and statehood."

In Israel, the government radio said two men were killed and two wounded when a bomb exploded near a market in Netanya, 18 miles north of Tel Aviv.

Palestinian guerrillas of the Marxist Popular Democratic Front in Beirut claimed responsibility for the blast and said 10 Israelis had been killed or wounded.

"The explosion, triggered by our commandos inside Israel, was the first link in our chain reaction to Begin's so-called peace plan," the group said in a statement.

The plan Begin outlined publicly for the first time Wednesday would provide for civil "autonomy" for the Palestinians of the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, but with a continued Israeli military presence in those territories.

In Amman, the Jordanian government issued a statement after a cabinet meeting saying it "completely rejects ... such a settlement calling for the surrender of Arab territories to Israel, thus rewarding aggression and putting an end to Palestinian and Arab rights."

Israel and Egypt have been hopeful that Jordan would join their peace talks in Cairo.

The Beirut newspaper As Safir said Iraq has offered to join the PLO, Syria and other hardline Arab foes of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's peace initiative in a military confrontation pact against Israel.

The paper said Iraqi President Ahmed Hassan al Bakr made the offer in letters sent Wednesday to Arafat and Syrian President Hafez Assad.

The paper did not spell out terms of the Iraqi offer, but quoted unnamed Arab diplomatic sources as saying the Soviet Union — another opponent of the Sadat drive — promised stepped up arms supplies if the new pact was concluded.

Hardline Arabs say the Israeli-Egyptian dialogue threatens Arab unity and could yield a separate peace between Israel and Egypt.

The latest developments came after Begin and Sadat detailed tough bargaining positions, indicating difficult Mideast negotiations ahead.

Sadat, who rejected the Begin plan at their Ismailia summit last weekend, restated his opposition Wednesday to key Israeli proposals and underlined Arab demands for self-determination for the Palestinians and the return of East Jerusalem to Arab sovereignty.

Galveston Blast Toll Incomplete

GALVESTON (AP) — Flood lights combined with a cold, misting rain early today to cast shadows into gaping holes in a huge grain storage tower as men below dug through the rubble for more bodies.

Rescue workers say at least 15 persons died in the blast at the Farmer's Export Co. grain elevator Tuesday night. The explosion, heard by some persons 70 miles away, injured at least 22 others.

Capt. E.E. Burke of the Galveston County sheriff's office said late Wednesday at least three persons were believed to be still missing.

Rescue operations were hampered by a fire that kept reappearing atop the burned-out tower. It was still smoldering early today, but firemen said the rain and high humidity all but nullified the threat of a second explosion in the elevator or the 40 grain silos nearby.

Burke said searchers believe the missing persons have been located beneath a demolished freight car that was parked on a railroad siding. The car was directly in the path of the blast and was still buried beneath tons of rubble late Wednesday night.

By late Wednesday, the county morgue had reached capacity and some of the bodies were moved to John Sealy Hospital.

Galveston Fire Marshal A.D. Carroll said he hopes to determine today what caused the explosion.

"It was definitely accidental," said Carroll, adding that two possibile causes are being considered. He said a spark from a nearby switch engine may have ignited the highly volatile grain dust, or a switch in the top of the stricken elevator might have short-circuited.

A crew of 32 and eight federal grain inspectors were believed to be working at the elevator when the blast occurred. Company officials refused to estimate damage costs at the $26 million facility.

The area surrounding the elevator resembled a bombed-out battlefield. Sheets of ripped metal were strewn for hundreds of yards. A diesel engine leaking fuel lay in a huge hole.

The Yugoslavian ship, Sutjeska, which was loading wheat when the elevator blew up, and another vessel at an adjacent pier were moved away from the wharves after debris rained down on their decks. The Sutjeska sustained minor damage when it was moved before a loading hose could be disconnected. Forty-five feet of railing were ripped from the deck.

Farmer's Export Co. brought in construction crews, bulldozers and cranes that were utilized throughout the day in cleanup operations, which are expected to last for several days.

Weary searchers, many of whom had been at their grim task for 26 hours by Wednesday afternoon, kept one eye out for falling debris from the 13-story structure as they dug under and around twisted steel beams and car-sized chunks of concrete.

The north end of this island resort town remained off limits to everyone except construction crews and authorities. Most of those not working huddled together against the rain at a temporary command post two blocks from the elevator.

Dazed survivors told of a huge "ball of fire," a "flash from a gas stove" when the grain tower erupted "like a volcano." Most were just glad to be alive.

Audrey James' husband, Waldren, was not so lucky. He died in the blast.

Hundreds Flee In Louisiana After Train-Truck Collision

GOLDONNA, La. (UPI) — Firefighters today finished extinguishing the flames on a chemical-laden freight train that crashed into a log truck and exploded, killing two people and destroying one-third of this tiny community.

A Natchitoches Parish civil defense spokesman said the 800 people evacuated from a 10-mile area near the blast would not be allowed to return to their homes until the wreckage and remaining railroad cars had been removed.

"We have to clear the tank cars and the chemicals before people can return to their homes," the spokesman said. "It looks like it will be this afternoon at the earliest ..."

The log truck and the train collided Wednesday at a crossing in the center of Goldonna, a logging community of about 350 persons. Eight people were injured in the explosion and subsequent fire, among them the driver of the log truck, Charles E. Jones, 40, of Dodson, La.

"I don't know exactly what happened," Jones said. "It happened so fast. I approached the track, saw the train coming, tried to stop, and my truck just wouldn't stop."

Jones said he tried to accelerate the truck past the train, but "it just wouldn't go any faster."

The two dead men were B.D. Russell of Shreveport, La., the train engineer, and Albert Harris Jr. of Alexandria, La., the brakeman.

The explosion hurled logs from the truck 200 yards from the site of the crash and the fires from the burning railroad cars were visible 15 miles away. State police said eight houses and one store in the hamlet were destroyed by the fire.

"There is a three-quarters of a mile-to a mile-radius of total destruction — just completely burned out," said KNOE-TV reporter Susan Allain, who flew over the scene. "I never saw such devastation. It was like a bomb hit."

Ed Hall, another reporter who flew over the scene, said logs were strewn about 200 yards by the impact. He said smoke was rising 1,500 feet into the air.

"Two areas, they were just engulfed in flames," said Hall. "There was burning debris in the areas of the houses — where they had been. At least eight houses, one store, two (train) engines and 18 cars — including several tank cars — burned. They burned to the ground."

The 78-car train, en route from Alexandria, La., to Minden, La., was carrying liquified petroleum gas, chlorine gas and caustic soda along with other commodities, according to Kansas City Southern Railroad officials.

State police said about 20 of the train's freight cars were derailed by the crash, and one of three cars carrying liquified petroleum gas exploded.

The fires started by the explosions burned for more than 10 hours.

Downpours Soak West

work day began for many area residents. And forecasts of possible area rain — like the fog that disappeared in mid-air — no longer were included in the South Plains outlook.

The rainfall recorded Wednesday, though scant, was the month's first measurable precipitation, increasing Lubbock's rainfall total so far this year by only .01 of an inch. But the mild breezes and misty skies Wednesday night created a weather picture drastically different from the month's mostly dry, windy conditions.

Scattered rain continued early today in some parts of the state — from the Panhandle to the coast — and sleet and snow hit briefly in the Panhandle, but melted while falling.

Rainfall across the state was expected to diminish today, with thunderstorms possible in East Texas.

Texas temperatures mostly landed in the 30-and 40-degree range, except in far South Texas where thermometers ranged into the 60s.

Lubbock vicinity forecasts call for partly cloudy skies today and Friday. Maximum temperatures should reach the upper 50s this afternoon, according to the National Weather Service. Tonight's bottom temperatures are expected to drop to the upper 20s.

Winds probably will maintain a west-southwesterly direction at 10-15 mph today and 5-10 mph tonight.

Partly cloudy skies remained part of the Saturday-through-Monday weather outlook. Upper temperatures Saturday and Sunday should be in the 50s and 60s, but cooler temperatures — in the 40s and 50s — are expected Monday.

Monday temperatures are set for the 40-50-degree range. Sunday low readings should drop to the 20s and 30s.

Afternoon temperatures today may climb as high as the low 80s in far South Texas.

Rainfall amounts recorded in the area during the 24-hour period ending at 8:45 a.m. today included a trace of rain at Abernathy, Hereford and Plainview; .04 inch at Brownfield; .03 at Crosbyton; .01 at Post; .02 at Tahoka; .03 at Seminole and .02 at Tulia.

Spanking Students Upheld By Court

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Missouri Court of Appeals has ruled that common law dictates that public school teachers have the right to spank pupils for misconduct and that the right supersedes the wishes of parents when the punishment is needed to "secure the education of the child."

The city school board policy prohibiting spankings unless granted by written permission of parents was described by the appeals court Tuesday as "in the nature of municipal ordinances ... and contrary to the common law in the state."

Legal Aid Society lawyers had filed suit in 1972 for the mother of a 12-year-old girl, Haley Streeter, who was spanked while a pupil at Chouteau Elementary School.

A circuit court jury upheld the right of the girl's teacher, John L. Hundley, to administer the punishment.

Reporters Should Help Government, Man Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter said today American reporters' first obligation is to their government and they should be used even to plant false stories when necessary.

But two other former ambassadors disagreed with Porter at a hearing before the House intelligence subcommittee investigating the CIA's involvement with the news media.

Former Ambassador L. Dean Brown said reporters are responsible to their government as is any other citizen but they fulfill that role by accurately reporting the news.

Former Ambassador William Trueheart said a reporter "is working for his news organization, not the government. That does not mean he is unpatriotic."

Porter, an ambassador to Saigon during the Vietnam War, said a reporter's overriding responsibility is to his government and argued that newsmen should serve intelligence agencies if asked.

"There should be controls," Porter testified. "I don't say he should be used for disinformation or other purposes without that being approved far above the level of (CIA) station chief."

Disinformation would mean providing false or misleading stories.

Porter agreed that reporters normally should be adversaries of government officials but added that they should be "collaborators at times." He gave no example of what he meant by collaboration.

Trueheart's last ambassadorship was in Nigeria. Brown was ambassador to a number of countries including Jordan and directed a program for resettling Indochina refugees who fled at the end of the war.

Four American newsmen agreed in testimony to the subcommittee Wednesday that the CIA should not be allowed to use American reporters but differed on what contacts should be permitted with foreign reporters.

Ward Just, a former Washington Post correspondent, said present restraints against U.S. intelligence use of American reporters should be applied equally to the foreign press.

But Herman Nickel, a Fortune magazine correspondent, and Joseph Fromm, a U.S. News World Report correspondent, said that may not be realistic.

"Obviously we would like to see a free press in all societies," Nickel said. "But many countries do not have a free press.

"I'm not sure I wouldn't agree with the agency (CIA) that it would be unilateral disarmament if they were prohibited from making contacts (with foreign reporters)," he said.

"... A free press does not exist in many countries," he said, "so there might be a certain amount of value in countervailing propaganda."

Fromm agreed that countervailing propaganda in controlled-press countries is legitimate.

Tad Szulc, a former New York Times correspondent, said he does not object to "more or less visible propaganda."

Except for Just, the newsmen agreed that U.S. intelligence people can be valuable sources for reporters so long as the reporters avoid being used.

Just said reporters should avoid intelligence sources altogether because they can't tell when they're being used.

And because intelligence people usually insist on anonymity, Just said, the reader often does not even know of the possibility that he may be reading a planted and untrue story.

Earlier, the four newsmen agreed the new CIA directive against using American newsmen probably will have little effect abroad because foreign governments won't believe it.

They also agreed that largely for that reason, there would be little point in Congress' legislating the new policy into law.

Officers Find Man's Body In Shallow Grave

ROSWELL, N.M. (Special) —Aided by specially trained dogs, a dozen law enforcement officers apparently ended the nearly four-month search for a Roswell man early Tuesday with the discovery of a shallow grave five miles east of here.

Roswell Chief of Police L. M. Hall said authorities believe the decomposed body, clad in sports clothes, is that of George R. Daley, 33, a supervisor with a Roswell linen company who disappeared Sept. 1.

Daley, who had attended a United Way meeting with several other persons that night, later went to a Roswell tavern with other members of the group and then disappeared.

He was reported missing Sept. 2.

Hall said Wednesday a team of officers, including Chaves County deputies, a state police officer and local police, had scoured a low-lying area near the Pecos River for eight days without success, after receiving information on the possible whereabouts of the body.

Tuesday morning, following the arrival of three German shepherd dogs from Albuquerque, officers resumed the search, Hall said.

The dogs, specially trained to detect human flesh, found the grave within five minutes, Hall said.

The body was discovered beneath about 10 inches of soil, Hall said.

An 18-year-old Oklahoma man, who reportedly has relatives in Roswell, was arrested in Oklahoma City Tuesday in connection with the murder. Hall said authorities in Oklahoma said the suspect had indicated he may agree to extradition.

When Daley disappeared he was wearing a black sports shirt and checked pants. Hall said Wednesday the clothing found on the body appeared to be similar. He estimated it could take forensic experts in Albuquerque a week to positively identify the body.

Hall said robbery apparently was the motive for the killing.

Olney Man Injured In Trailer Fire

Robert Lee Compton of Olney was listed in satisfactory condition today at St. Mary's Hospital following an early-morning trailer fire at Bunge Corp. grain elevator at 321 Ave. N.

A fire department spokesman said the elevator superintendent, who was inside the trailer, escaped the fire but cut his hand while attempting to break into an office to report the 3 a.m. blaze.

The spokesman said the trailer was destroyed. Cause of the fire had not been determined by late this morning.

News Briefs

Two persons remained hospitalized today following a two-car collision about 11:45 p.m. Wednesday at the intersection of 42nd Street and Quaker Avenue. In satisfactory condition at Methodist Hospital were the driver of one of the cars, Edwina K. Johnson, 16, of 5501 77th St., and a passenger in the other vehicle, Jennifer Barron, 15, of 4403 28th St. Four other persons were treated and released.

Several Stranglers Considered Possible

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Authorities have linked two women strangled Christmas weekend to the first victim of the so-called Hillside Strangler, increasing speculation there may be more than one killer responsible for the deaths of 11 girls and young women.

Investigators said they will release today composite drawings of one or more suspects in the case.

Although police have said certain unrevealed similarities have linked all 11 deaths, authorities never ruled out the possibility that there is more than one killer.

Lt. Dan Cooke, a Los Angeles Police Department spokesman, said Wednesday the 65-member Strangler Task Force was now examining the possibility that some of the 11 strangulations may have been committed by a different person.

Pasadena police said friends of Carolyn Hobson, 21, and Paula Gwen Ward, 18, who were killed Dec. 24, knew Yolanda Washington, 19, the first victim attributed to the strangler.

Miss Washington's nude body was found Oct. 18 near Griffith Park. She was the only black woman connected to the strangler. Miss Hobson and Miss Ward also were black.

At first, Pasadena police believed Miss Ward was the strangler's 12th victim because her partially nude body was found in the hills near the Rose Bowl, not far from where the other 11 victims were found. Miss Hobson's body was found in a Los Angeles area parking lot.

Tuesday, Los Angeles police said the slayings of Miss Ward and Miss Hobson had "too many dissimilarities" to be regarded as the work of the strangler.

But Pasadena police said they found a connection between the two and Miss Washington.

"A couple of our detectives went down to the morgue with friends of Vaula Ward," said John McAlister, Pasadena police public information officer. "In their conversation with us they said, 'My God, first Yolanda, then Chocolate (Miss Ward) and now Mookie (Miss Hobson).'

"We shared that information with LAPD (Los Angeles police)."

Cooke said the task force was re-interviewing some persons questioned earlier about Miss Washington. "This is just a natural followup, once we learned that these people may have all known each other," he said.

Many of the victims, including Miss Washington, were either prostitutes or known to be involved in the "Hollywood street scene."

"Our position is that you can't rule anything out," Cooke said. "Hollywood's not that big an area. It's possible that they all crossed paths at one time or another."

Investigators said they were looking for one more person for questioning in the deaths of Miss Ward and Miss Hobson. Stephen d'Orsey Devezin, 40, and Thomas Davis, 24, are being held on suspicion of Miss Hobson's murder.

'Heloise' Dies In Hospital At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Heloise Bowles, whose "Hints From Heloise" was one of the top three syndicated columns in the country, died shortly before midnight Wednesday at Baptist Memorial Hospital. She was 58.

Hospital officials did not reveal the cause of death, but the King Features Syndicate columnist had been undergoing treatment for a heart ailment for several days.

Her column, a compendium of household shortcuts, consumer tips and shopping advice, appeared in nearly 600 newspapers. The column first appeared in 1959 in the Honolulu Advertiser.

A native of Fort Worth, she and her staff operated from her plush apartment in north San Antonio, where she had lived since 1966.

A King Features spokesman announced the column would continue to be written by her daughter, Ponce Cruse, also of San Antonio, who had been working with her mother for some time.

Besides her daughter, survivors include one son, Louis D. Cruse. Heloise had been married several times but was single at the time of death.

Services were pending.

She wrote several books; her first, "Heloise's Housekeeping Hints," was one of the top 10 selling hard back books of 1963 and sold more than a half million copies. The book became the fastest selling paperback in the history of Pocket Books, Inc., when it was published by that firm a short time later.

In a 1970 interview, Heloise described her reading audience — American housewives — as "the backbone of the world. A statue should be built in their honor."

No Clues Reported In Young's Death

County authorities today reported no new leads in the slaying of William Drew Young, 28, of 6305 Knoxville Drive.

Young's body was found stuffed in the trunk of a burned car about 10:30 p.m. Christmas Eve south of FM 1585. Young's body was partially burned but he apparently died from blows from a tire tool.

Two suspects picked up soon after the discovery later were released.

Sheriff's deputies also found blood stains and a cap thought to be Young's behind a 19th Street motel.

Young was last seen alive about 6 p.m. Saturday.

Two Workers Injured In Refinery Fire

LYBROOK, N.M. (AP) — One man was in critical condition and another was in fair in the aftermath of a fire at the Southern Union Refining Co. on New Mexico 44 between Cuba and Bloomfield.

The two injured employees were transferred Wednesday from the Cuba Health Center to Bernalillo County Medical Center in Albuquerque.

They were James Roundtree, 30, and Harry Johnson, 25, both of the Lybrook area. Roundtree was in critical condition at BCMC.

Ted Stiffler, a Bloomfield plant superintendent filling in for the vacationing Lybrook superintendent, said the fire broke out about 3 p.m. Wednesday, apparently caused by "some type of gas leak."

The fire, Stiffler said, was located at the center of the plant and broke out perhaps in the plant's control room.

"That whole section of the plant (control room) is pretty well burnt. There's quite a bit of damage," said plant manager James Martin.

No estimate of damage was immediately available.

The refinery, which processes about 70 million cubic feet of natural gas daily, primarily produces gasoline, propane and other gas by-products.

The plant is a wholly owned subsidiary of Southern Union Gas Co. with headquarters in Dallas. Gas Company of New Mexico is a division of the Dallas company.

Wealthy Georgia Widow Fifth Strangling Victim

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — A wealthy widow whose family warned her against living alone has become the fifth woman found strangled in 3½ months in a quiet, residential neighborhood of this west Georgia city.

Unlike the four other victims, all of whom were strangled with stockings, authorities speculate Kathleen Woodruff, 74, was killed with her own scarf.

Mrs. Woodruff, widow of former University of Georgia football coach George "Kid" Woodruff Sr. and a member of one of Columbus's most prominent families, was discovered dead in her bed late Wednesday morning by her maid.

As they have in the previous murders, police refused to discuss the Woodruff case in detail, but officers at the scene said Mrs. Woodruff apparently had been beaten and strangled by an intruder who entered her brick home through an unlocked rear window.

After the first two murders, many of the residents in the neighborhood armed themselves with pistols, burglar bars, dogs and dead-bolt locks, but Mrs. Woodruff apparently did not fear for her safety.

Tommie Stevens, the Woodruff family maid for 33 years, said the widow repeatedly was urged to take on a live-in companion.

"She just wouldn't listen. She felt nobody would bother her," Mrs. Stevens said.

The other four victims, aged between 59 and 89, also were found strangled at their homes in the same Wynnton Road district of Columbus. All lived within about 1½ miles of the Woodruff home.

The first four victims were sexually assaulted, but Muscogee County Coroner J. Donald Kilgore said it would not be known whether Mrs. Woodruff was sexually assaulted until after an autopsy.

Although the investigation is incomplete, it appeared her killer ransacked a bedroom closet but passed up expensive items in the house, police sources told The Columbus Enquirer.

Fern Jackson, 59, was the first victim. Her body was discovered Sept. 16. Nine days later, Jean Dimenstein, 71, was found about half a mile from the first victim. On Oct. 21, the body of 89-year-old Florence Scheible was discovered and four days later police found the body of Martha Thurmond, 69.

Of the five victims, four were widows and listed as such in the official city directory, available at libraries. Mrs. Dimenstein was single and so listed in the directory.

As police investigated Wednesday's slaying, the first strangulation in almost two months, a small crowd gathered in front of the Woodruff home.

"I can't understand five people being murdered and they can't find any clues," said one neighbor, who asked not to be identified. "I thought it was all over."

Victim Of Robbery Burned Critically

SEATTLE (UPI) — A robber wished his victim "Merry Christmas" before igniting a flammable liquid poured over him, burning him critically.

Jack A. Westlund, 37, a car salesman, was in intensive care today at Harborview Medical Center.

Westlund answered a knock on his door early Wednesday and the gunman, about 25, told him, "Merry Christmas. This is a stick-up."

Westlund was tied into a chair with tape and the man threw the liquid on him and set him on fire.

Detectives arrested a suspect a short time later.

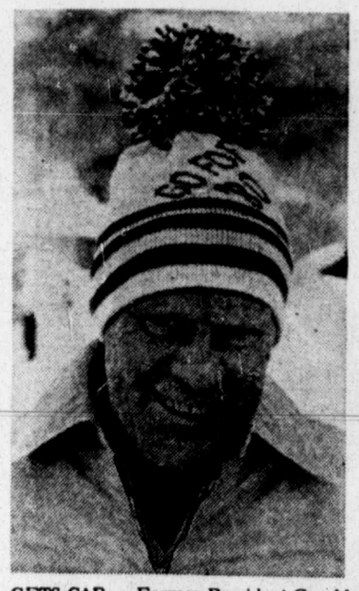

Food, Drug Chain Names President

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — John Hartman has been named president of Skaggs Companies Inc., says corporation chairman L. S. Skaggs.

Hartman succeeds George Jeffers, who resigned as president of the drug and food store chain, Skaggs said Wednesday.

In addition to his new duties, Hartman will remain vice chairman of Skaggs and chief executive officer of Skaggs Supercenters Inc. of Dallas.

Jeffers said he intends to return to the drug retailing field. Before joining Skaggs in 1975, he was with Walgreen's for 34 years, most recently as president of its subsidiary, Globe Discount Stores of Houston.

Ford Calls Carter's Budget 'Bad Policy'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gerald Ford said in a television program today he could have done better than President Carter on energy and the economy and he has a hankering to be back in the White House.

He said he likes the life of a former president — traveling, making speeches, working on a book.

"I enjoy it very, very much," Ford said on the program.

But he added, "Oh, you have a little hankering you might like to get back."

Ford said he did not intend to make a commitment on whether or not he would run again until after the congressional and gubernatorial elections of 1978.

Factors that will help him decide will be what good young candidates emerge among Republicans and what shape the country is in, Ford said.

He was asked what difference it would have made if he had been elected instead of Carter.

"My administration would have kept a greater restraint in federal spending," Ford said. He called Carter's budget "bad fiscal policy."

Ford added, "We would have done a better job on inflation .... I believe we would have been better prepared with an energy program that would have answered our energy problems more quickly and more effectively than under the present administration.

Alcoholic Center Sought In City

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

An ad hoc committee wants Lubbock County commissioners to help establish an around-the-clock detoxification center, the "missing link" in the treatment of alcoholics here.

The proposal, supported by Sheriff C.H. "Choc" Blanchard and local judges, would be an alternative to throwing drunks in jail or requiring them to seek hospital services many cannot afford.

Proponents say the center would provide facilities, now unavailable in Lubbock, where intoxicated persons could safely "dry out" — sleep off their stupor and receive free medical supervision and counseling.

After that initial contact and withdrawal, such persons could be channeled into existing local programs for the long-term prevention of alcohol abuse, backers of the proposal said.

"We have enough halfway houses and other programs in Lubbock for people who are already off alcohol, who physically don't have that need to drink again," said Norma Brown, alcoholism services director for the Lubbock Regional Mental Health-Mental Retardation Center.

"But what we don't have here is a place for people to initially dry out so they can be accepted into a halfway house."

Here enters the detoxification center proposed by a committee Mrs. Brown helped organize.

The center would take intoxicated persons referred by law enforcement and social service agencies, as well as "walk-ins," and give them a place to stay for a day, a few days or a few weeks, Mrs. Brown said.

During that time, she explained, they would receive medical evaluation and care and special counseling, through Alcoholics Anonymous (AA), the Texas Rehabilitation Commission and other groups, to guide them into halfway houses and long-term alcoholism prevention programs.

"This would be more than a place to sleep it off," Mrs. Brown said. "Just getting somebody off alcohol for a day or two is not enough. We hope to try to break their pattern, to show how their use of alcohol affects their families and jobs, so they will want to enter one of these other programs."

Local citizens, mostly AA members, have offered to buy a building in Lubbock for the proposed "detox center" if some governmental entity will agree to run it.

The regional MHMR agency is interested in administering such a program, because it already has many related services and personnel, but lacks funding.

However, Mrs. Brown said prospects for a federal-state grant from the Governor's Criminal Justice Division to start up the proposed center are "very favorable." The only problem is, that grant would have to be allocated to a specific local public body — and that's why the committee has turned to the Lubbock County Commissioners Court.

The committee, with representatives of local businesses, Texas Tech University medical school, sheriff's department and various agencies, wants Lubbock County to be the designated applicant for a grant for the detox center.

Dr. Ron Whittington, executive director of the regional MHMR agency, will present that request to the commissioners court Friday.

Whittington said the proposed detox center could be available "within a few months" if Lubbock County makes the application and the grant is approved.

How much if any fiscal liability Lubbock County would incur in the project has not yet been determined, Mrs. Brown said. That aspect will be explored if commissioners give the go-ahead, she added.

Ordinarily, local governments are required to pick up the cost of Criminal Justice Division-funded programs over a five-year period.

The ad hoc committee said the proposed detox center, with 15 to 20 beds, would require an annual budget of about $136,000.

The proposed center is supported by Sheriff Blanchard and Gary McGrew, administrator of the Lubbock County Jail.

"With the upcoming merger of the city and county jails, we will be faced with a considerable number of 'drunks' being placed in jail. This detoxification center, if established, would be a tremendous help, not only to the people of Lubbock County but to the jail specifically," they said in a letter to commissioners.

They said persons arrested on alcohol-related charges "could be immediately transferred from the jail to the center, where medical and counseling services would be available on a 24-hour basis."

That kind of care is something the jail

New Legislation To Take Effect

B Local State
Lubbock Avalanche-Journal
Thursday Dec. 29, 1977

AUSTIN (UPI) — A handful of laws passed by the 1977 Legislature take effect Sunday, but one proposal some legislative leaders had hoped would give a tax break to economically strapped farmers and ranchers already has been negated.

The House and Senate approved, and the governor signed, legislation during the regular session which would have permitted agricultural land in Texas to be taxed on its productive value rather than on its market value.

A proposed constitutional amendment that would have assured the bill's validity failed by one vote in the House after passing the Senate. But Speaker Bill Clayton, Comptroller Bob Bullock and others argued the tax break for agricultural lands could be implemented without the constitutional change.

Attorney General John Hill spoiled that plan, however, issuing a ruling saying the lands must be taxed on their market value unless Texas voters approve a change in the constitution allowing the special tax breaks for farm and ranch land.

Hill's legal opinions ordinarily have the effect of law unless overturned by a court.

While the agricultural tax bill was the major proposal to have taken effect Jan. 1, 1978, there are a number of other new bills which will have an impact on many Texans.

Those include:

—A law allowing a person to voluntarily restrict his land to recreational, park or other "open space" use. After 10 years of such use, the land must be taxed on its recreational value rather than market value.

—Legislation revising retirement laws for public employees, enabling a public employee who changes from one governmental unit to another to retain his retirement credits.

—Legislation allowing the judge of a juvenile court to order examination of a child alleged to be delinquent to determine if the child is mentally retarded. The law also provides clearer standards for determining mental retardation.

—A law permitting an increase in the fees charged by county clerks for filing and recording documents. The law also sets specific standards for the size and style of legul documents, and permits charging double fees for documents not filed in the standard form or size.

—Legislation creating a Texas Prosecutors Coordinating Council, which has authority to develop standards and training programs for prosecutors. The council also can recommend special prosecutors in cases, and can reprimand, disqualify or remove prosecuting attorneys for incompetency or misconduct.

—A law repealing the existing Mentally Retarded Persons Act and expanding the rights of the mentally retarded in Texas. It also provides protection of the right of due process in the decision making for placement, treatment and discharge of mentally retarded persons.

—Legislation permitting the Department of Health Resources to increase the fee it charges for file searches, certified copies of records and certain birth certificates.

Agency To Stop Smallpox Fight

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Health Department says it will go out of the smallpox vaccine business Jan. 1 after distributing 7.9 million doses since it began production in 1938.

Health commissioner Dr. Fratis L. Duff said smallpox has been confined to infrequent outbreaks in parts of Ethiopia and Somalia.

He added that worldwide efforts to eradicate the disease make "very small" the threat of an imported epidemic.

Smallpox vaccination is no longer mandatory in most nations. Texas eliminated it six years ago from the list of required immunizations for school children.

Duff said that with smallpox almost eradicated, the immunization itself is riskier than the disease.

He said the last major outbreak in Texas consisted of 10 cases in 1949. The last reported case was in Cherokee County in 1954.

GORGE FORMS OASIS

The most accessible features of the Bandelier National Monument are the ruins in Frijoles Canyon. The deep gorge, cut by a stream rising high in the mountains, is still a veritable oasis in the dry country of New Mexico.

You can't afford to relax just because a contract looks like a laydown. You never know what surprises the shoals of distribution hold in store for you.

Had the vulnerability been reversed, East-West would have had a reasonable save at four spades. However that contract might be defeated two tricks with accurate defense, and 500 is too high a price to pay to prevent the opponents from becoming vulnerable.

West led the two of spades, and declarer saw no problem. He won the opening lead with the ace and laid down the king of trumps. He got the bad news that he had a trump loser, but he still was not worried. It was only after he cashed the king of clubs and led a second round of the suit, on which West sluffed a diamond, that the danger of the situation began to dawn on him. He won the ace of clubs and conceded a trick to the ten. East briskly cashed his high spade, then shifted to the king of diamonds and declarer could no longer make the contract.

He won the ace of diamonds and ruffed a club to set up a long club, but West overruffed, and the defenders took a diamond for down one.

Declarer should have planned his campaign before playing to trick one. The first step should be to let East hold the queen of spades. East can do no better than return a spade to declarer's ace. Now a trump to the ace reveals the bad news, but declarer can virtually claim his contract.

He returns to his hand with the king of hearts and runs the jack of diamonds to East's queen. Whatever East returns gives declarer his contract. A minor suit return presents declarer with an extra trick in the suit led, and declarer loses only a trump, a spade and a diamond. And a spade return allows declarer to discard the club loser from his hand while ruffing in dummy.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old girl. Recently my parents were separated, and my father moved out of the house. Every Sunday he comes to visit us kids. (There are four of us. I am the oldest.)

When he comes here, Mom goes out, and if Dad is still here when she returns, she goes right to her room and stays there until he leaves. Dad always asks how Mom is, if she's "happy," and how her health is.

He really seems interested in her. After Dad leaves, Mom asks how Dad looked and what he said. Abby, I think they still love each other, and I would do anything to get them back together again, but I've been told to live my own life and let them live theirs. How can I help?

Wants to Help

Dear Wants: If your parents parted without seeking professional help in resolving their differences, beg them to give it a try for their own sakes as well as for yours. But if they have, the advice you received was good.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: Shortly before our 16-year-old daughter was to receive her driver's license, I made the statement that is she were involved in an accident that was her fault, or was arrested for a traffic violation, I would take her license away for one year. Everyone in the family heard me make this statement.

Last week my daughter was driving and my wife was with her. My daughter was trying to look at a road map as she drove.

Her mother told her to stop the car if she was going to look at the map, but she didn't stop — until she hit a highway post about five seconds later.

Now my wife feels that the one-year penalty was too strict to begin with. I believe it will not only teach the girl a lesson, but will serve as an example to the younger children. If you say the one-year penalty is too harsh, I may reconsider.

Pop

Dear Pop: Yup. It's too harsh. A year is practically a lifetime for a 16-year-old. Personally, I'll bet the highway post taught your daughter more about safe driving than the reprisals of her pop. If it happens again, lower the boom. For the time being, lower the penalty.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for 23 years and my pet peeve is my husband's constant complaining about the sandwiches I put in his lunch pail.

He says he loves tuna fish, but it makes his hands smell. He doesn't like pork products, and he says peanut butter gives him a pain between his shoulder blades. He also says his is sick of eggs and cold cuts. And chicken and turkey are too dry.

Yesterday he came home and said a fellow had a Canadian bacon sandwich and it looked real good, so this morning I put one in his lunch pail. Well, he came home tonight and said he found out Canadian bacon was ham and he hates ham! Do you have any ideas, Abby? My man is driving him nuts.

Now What

Dear Now: Keep giving him tuna and pack rubber gloves!

Couple Finds 'Boat Living' Congenial Lifestyle

By MARY ELLEN HASKETT

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — In 1971, Jan and Bill Moeller left their New York jobs and suburban home to live aboard a sailboat for a few years. They are still cruising. They say they may never move back ashore.

"I can't sleep any more if my bed doesn't rock," said Moeller, who gave up steady free-lance photography to live aboard the Whiffle, a 32-foot sloop.

The Moellers are among about 400,000 Americans who find living aboard boats a more congenial lifestyle than living on land.

"We just got sick of our cute little home with its high taxes in New Canaan, Conn.," Moeller said.

Mrs. Moeller, a free-lance writer, added:

"We were just planning on a year or two to get away from our high pressure businesses."

The Moellers, both 47, left their New York jobs in 1971, they year they bought their Danish-built steel cutter with a sky blue hull and white trim.

"We had responsible jobs," said Mrs. Moeller. "We're not hippie types like people think most 'live-aboards' are."

They make enough money at their free lance work to support themselves. They recently wrote a book about the techniques and pleasures of living aboard a boat yearround. They give seminars at various ports to prospective "live-aboards."

The Moellers also said they will take odd jobs if needed to support their lifestyle.

"It's very inexpensive," said Mrs. Moeller.

After the initial outlay for the boat, the main cost is for docking, $50 to $100 a month. Boats like the Whiffle cost $18,000 to $20,000 in 1971 but prices have doubled since then, they said.

"It costs one-fifth as much to live on water as it does to live on land," Moeller said. "We can live on $5,000 a year."

"And we're rather spendthrifts by 'live-aboard' standards," his wife added.

Most "live-aboards" take odd jobs outside their regular professions to meet expenses. But some have professions such as nursing or painting that allow working in different ports of call.

Mrs. Moeller said some of their "live-aboard" friends have gotten by on as little as $500 a year.

Her husband, a hefty man with a quick smile and friendly eyes behind wire-rimmed glasses, said the small expense involved in living aboard a boat is not the reason most people, he and his wife included, choose the sea-going lifestyle.

"It's the adventure of cruising and seeing other things," Moeller said. "The sea is one of the last few areas that man can still explore. There's a sense of achievement, you feel you've accomplished something. This lifestyle gives a lot of satisfaction."

He said the motivation for many is "the true American pioneer spirit" while for others there is the appeal of living closer to nature.

Mrs. Moeller said the water "always feels new and unexplored" even if other people have been in the same spot before them. She said one's lifestyle can be as adventurous or as quiet as one chooses.

She particularly enjoys navigating, "making our own way to a place."

So far, the Moellers have cruised only the Atlantic Coast, north to Canada and south to the Caribbean. They hope to sail to the Pacific Coast soon. Last year, they cruised up the Hudson River, through the Great Lakes and down the Mississippi, emerging finally in the Gulf of Mexico.

They read Mark Twain while sailing down the Mississippi and looked through their stacks of Revolutionary War literature while sailing in the New England and Mid-Atlantic area. Both are Revolutionary War buffs.

The main room of the Whiffle combines a living room, a dining room and a kitchen. It has two matching built-in blue couches facing each other with a drop leaf mahogany table between. Large drawers under each couch hold most of the tools and spare parts needed for repairs.

A small fireplace augments battery-powered heaters for warmth. A battery-powered television set, a cassette tape recorder with 300 recordings on tape and over 600 books, mostly paperback, provide entertainment.

The Whiffle also carries a sewing machine and a small Christmas tree.

So they can continue their free-lance work, the Moellers have stored away a typewriter and darkroom equipment. Moeller arranges the equipment in the vessel's small bathroom for a complete darkroom.

They have kerosene lamps and battery-powered lights for night use and several ways of cooking, including a gas stove, a hot plate, a toaster oven and a broiler.

The bedroom forward of the main living room and kitchen is filled nearly wall-to-wall with a built in double bed that has lots of storage underneath.

"We don't use sleeping bags like most people think," Mrs. Moeller said. "I have honest-to-goodness sheets."

Both disputed popular opinions that sailing from port to port is a lonely lifestyle lacking in permanent attachments.

"We've made more friends since we started cruising than we had in the rest of our lives," Moeller said.

"And they are true friends. I think it's because there is such a tremendous bond of common interest."

The majority of their friends are other "live-aboards" because even though they go in different directions their paths always cross, the Moellers said.

"You can always count on meeting again," said Mrs. Moeller.

They have found many others to be kind, friendly and interested in what life is like on a boat all year.

"People will go out of their way to be friendly," Mrs. Moeller said.

As one example, she cited a marina owner on the Mississippi who loaned them his car so they could buy groceries before they had even introduced themselves. The Moellers said living aboard a boat is a good way to conserve energy and natural resources and control pollution.

Mrs. Moeller said she and her husband use bicycles whenever possible to move around on land.

"Most 'live-aboards' use a maximum of 20 amps of electricity at any one time" and have fewer electric appliances than an average household, she said. Also, they use only 80 gallons of water a month.

They are strong proponents of pollution control to protect the environment, although that is not their main reason for choosing their lifestyle.

Mrs. Moeller said now she feels cooped up when she is in a house for a long period during their rare visits with friends ashore.

The Moellers said they don't know if they will ever move back to land.

"We're just like turtles, we carry our house with us wherever we go," she said.

They don't like to plan too far ahead. Mrs. Moeller likes sailing in the northern climate while her husband likes the tropics and they never plan their trips too far ahead.

"If you want to know where we'll be next week, ask us next week," she said.

CRANBERRY SAUCE

1¼ cups sugar
2 tsp. cornstarch
4 cups fresh or frozen whole cranberries
1 can (6 oz.) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed

To make cranberry sauce: In a 2-qt. saucepan stir together sugar and cornstarch. Blend in cranberries and orange juice concentrate with enough water to make 1 cup liquid. Stir over medium heat until cranberries are coated. Cover and bring to a boil. Simmer 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat. Chill. Yield: 3½ cups. To serve: Unmold fluff onto platter. Garnish mold with some Cranberry Sauce and pass remaining sauce to spoon over servings.

MUSHROOM BEANS

¼ cup butter
1 cup chopped (medium fine) onion
½ lb. mushrooms, sliced
1 tsp. chicken bouillon granules
1 lb. snap beans, cut in 1-inch lengths and cooked
Salt and pepper to taste

In the hot butter gently cook the onion until slightly browned. Add the mushrooms and the bouillon granules and cook over moderate heat, stirring often, until wilted. Mix with the beans and salt and pepper and reheat. Makes 6 servings.

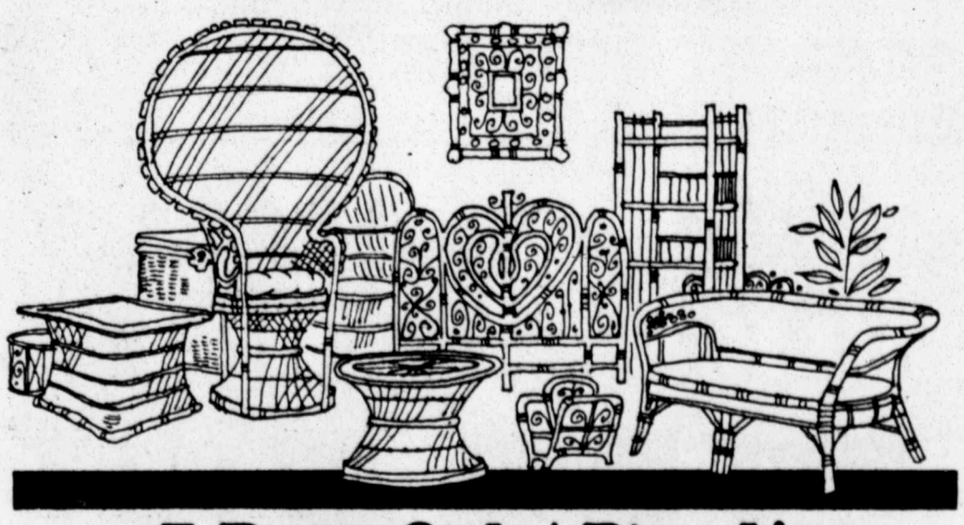

Will you ever finish moving in?

You might not think so when the living room's still jammed with packing crates. But you will—and I can help. As your WELCOME WAGON Hostess I can save you time and money in

Small Japanese Firms Hurt By Stagnant Market

TOKYO (UPI) — Police pulled Akio Hashimoto's body out of a river in Osaka last week, as thousands of well-to-do Japanese thronged to the airports to leave for New Year vacations in Hawaii and Guam.

Hashimoto, 47, was the owner of a small industrial design company, one of thousands of businesses that went bankrupt in Japan's domestic recession. Two days before drowning himself, he had dipped into his personal savings to give his last five employees their severance pay.

Japan's business world has a split personality. For some elite companies in international business, profits are surging. Their exports are so successful that they are blamed for economic woes in the United States and Europe.

But small exporters and businessmen like Hashimoto, who depend on Japan's domestic market, are not sharing in the festive mood of the New Year holidays. For them, 1978 shapes up as a year of desperation.

Heeding the pleas of business leaders, the government will resort to deficit financing in 1978 on a scale never seen before in Japan in a frantic effort to get the economy restarted.

Japan's $143 billion budget will be $46 billion in the red and vast sums will be spent on public works, but the effects will not be felt until late in the year, if by then.

Typical of companies on the bright side is Sony Corp., famous maker of electronic appliances. Sales of its video tape recorders in America and Europe are booming and profits are up 12 percent.

Automobile titans like Toyota and Nissan also walk in the sun. Japan in 1977 built a record 8.5 million cars and trucks. Half of them were exported — the highest ratio in the Japanese car industry's history.

The reason for the emphasis on exports is simple: No more sales can be squeezed out of the stagnant domestic market.

The slack internal market resulted in the bankruptcies of 1,604 small and medium-sized companies in November. It was the fourth consecutive month the figure surpassed 1,500, which the government regards as a "crisis level."

December's figures will be even worse. The month saw the collapse of Hashima Co., a medium-size ship building company, with liabilities of $179 million.

Hashima was the largest of 14 small and medium shipyards to go under in 1977. But the entire shipbuilding industry, which used to build half the world's commercial ships, is running out of orders.

Even the big boys are getting hit. Sasebo Heavy Industries, one of the "big six" of Japanese shipbuilding, has just announced a reorganization plan that probably will result in pay cuts, layoffs and forced retirements for thousands of workers.

Japan's unemployment is about 2 percent by the government's system of counting. Economists say that if the American way of measurement were used it would be around 5 percent, a post-war record.

The number of jobless seems certain to go up next year. Production cutbacks followed by layoffs are coming on all sides.

At Gifu, 200 miles west of Tokyo, 1,400 zinc miners have been notified by Mitsui Mining Co. that they will be idled shortly after New Year's because of depressed zinc prices.

Makers of synthetic textile fiber have just decided on another round of large production cuts. Leaders of the chemical fertilizer industry have agreed to scrap 40 percent of their production facilities for urea fertilizer because of declining export markets.

The government's official forecast is that the huge program of deficit spending will prime the pump and enable Japan to enjoy an economic growth rate of 7 percent next year.

It is hard to find a reputable private economist in Japan who agrees. Most guesses range from 4 percent to 4.5 percent at best, with most of the growth coming in the latter half of the year, if at all.

Kabushiki Shimbun, a Tokyo daily newspaper devoted solely to the stock market, summed up the outlook for 1978 in a terse headline:

"First Half Down
"Second Half Up, Maybe."

Sales Of Fund Shares Exceed Redemptions

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Mutual fund shares are exceeding redemptions for the first time in any year since 1971, but the improved showing hardly reflects a renewal of interest in the stock market.

Most of the sales, statistics show, are being produced by the bond categories, especially the ultraconservative municipal bond funds, which offer investors tax-free income.

The Investment Company Institute, of which most of the important funds are members, notes that more than half of all sales in October were accounted for by municipal bond funds.

In 1969, by contrast, sales of bond and income funds totaled only 11 percent of sales. The remaining 89 percent was in sales of equity funds and those balanced between stocks and bonds.

Sales of growth funds, the largest category in the mutual fund field, plunged during 1977, amounting to only $786 million, compared to $1.08 billion in 1976.

If it weren't for the municipal bond funds, in fact, the industry would again have a year in which redemptions exceeded sales. In existence for little more than a year, nearly $2.1 billion of them were sold in 1977.

The conservative tenor of the investment mood, as revealed by the ICI figures, is both a reflection of market conditions, in which high bond yields prevail, and what appears to be an unwillingness to assume risk.

To begin with, mutual funds are specifically aimed at reducing the dangers of loss by diversifying their portfolios among a great many issues. By investing in low-risk bonds they reduce the risk even more.

Nevertheless, many investors have suffered serious losses, some of which have amounted to 50 percent or more in a single year.

While many of these funds subsequently regained much of their losses, it hardly benefited shareholders who were unable to hold on, and a good deal of animosity was engendered in the late 1960s and early 1970s.

The fact is that there is a good deal of risk in mutual funds that aggressively seek growth of capital. The ICI now says these funds offer investors an opportunity if they are willing to assume risk and retain their holdings for the long term.

Partly as a result of losses, the mutual fund industry suffered five straight years — from 1972 through 1976 — during which investors sold more shares than they purchased.

It's recovery, if it should be termed that, comes at the expense of the original mutual fund concept, that of stock market investments for capital gains and income.

From another point of view, however, one might say that the adaptation to municipal bonds demonstrates the agility and survival ability of the fund industry.

Sales for 1977 of about $6.4 billon, more than $2 billion of them in municipal bonds, and about $400 million in excess of redemptions, would seem to indicate that.

Chicago Zoo Offers Home To Skunk

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The big stink about Wishbone the skunk appears to be over.

Wishbone, who wandered into Bill Stanton's Chicago garage a month ago, is on his way to a new home in the Lincoln Park Zoo, Gov. James R. Thompson said this week.

Stanton, a 45-year-old electrical contractor, took Wishbone into his home after finding him huddled in the garage on a cold day. He promptly contacted state officials to ask what to do with the animal. They said he was breaking the law by keeping the skunk, which they said was legally state property, and would also be violating the law to let it go.

The controversy raged for a month. At one point, the Department of Public Health offered to "bend the law a little bit" and allow Stanton to have Wishbone put to death.

But by that time, Stanton's seven youngsters already had bought a cage and built a small house inside it in the family room. When the children watched cartoons on television, Wishbone came out of his house to watch with them, happily gobbling up peanuts and popcorn from their hands.

In announcing the skunk's new home, Thompson observed: "Wishbone has been rescued from the clutches of the bureaucrats."

DR. LAMB

Diet Confuses Reader

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am another confused reader about cholesterol, fat, and salt-free diets. My husband has had a bypass operation on his heart and a bypass operation for a blocked artery to one kidney. He still has a partial obstruction in the artery of the other kidney and has high blood pressure.

I am trying to feed him a low-fat, low-cholesterol, salt-restricted diet, but the labels on the dietary food confuse me. They list sodium in milligrams. Is sodium the same thing as salt?

Labels may read "polyunsaturated fatty acid trace, saturated two grams, total fat four grams." I don't know how to use these figures and if it is a low-fat food.

I use Egg Beaters, Morning Star cholesterol-free breakfast strips. All meat or chicken, which are very small servings, have all the fat trimmed from them.I boil chicken and beef, let it stand and remove all the fat before making stews. That makes it very tasteless so I add one or two bouillon cubes. Can you help me?

DEAR READER — You need help. Salt is sodium chloride, and you will get about 1 gram of sodium in two and a half grams of sodium chloride salt. It follows that 100 milligrams of sodium is equivalent to about 250 milligrams of sodium chloride (ordinary table salt). And those bouillon cubes you are using to add taste to the meal are loaded with sodium chloride. One average bouillon cube contains 960 milligrams of sodium. Try to learn to cook with spices to add flavor, including curry powder, garlic if your husband likes it, and other spices. You might be surprised to learn what an apple or two added to a beef pot roast will do for its flavor.

As a basic rule, no more than 35 percent of all calories in your husband's diet should come from the total fat. A good way to estimate a particular food's fat content is to add the grams of carbohydrates and proteins. That total should be four times the weight of the total fat in that food. In such a food, only 32 percent or less of the calories are from fat. This is based on the point that a gram of carbohydrate and protein contains about four calories while a gram of fat contains nine calories.

Is isn't perfect, but if a third or less of the fat in a food is saturated fat (for example, 1 gram of saturated fat, 1 gram of monounsaturated fat and 1 gram of polyunsaturated fat), and the total grams of carbohydrate plus protein is four times as much or more than the grams of fat, that food is a good choice. That will rule out some of those foods you are using which contain no cholesterol but do contain lots of fat.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-3, Diet, Preventing Atherosclerosis, to give you some general guide lines, but it will be just a start for what you really need. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for it to me in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Aid Borrowed For Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's six-nation tour has put such a strain on his own small staff of advance planners that the White House has borrowed helpers from throughout government, and even recruited a Republican refugee.

In this city filled with perennial candidates, there is no numerical shortage of specialists who go forth in advance of their bosses to make detailed travel preparations.

There may be a shortage of highly qualified and effective specialists, however.

That's one reason Eric Rosenberger, who once served as chief press advance man for former Presidents Nixon and Ford, is in France preparing for Carter's visit next week to the World War II beaches of Normandy.

Rosenberger, who quit the Ford team before last year's campaign, is regarded by many as one of the best advance men around. Since he never has appeared to be a dedicated partisan and came highly recommended, the Carterites recruited him for temporary duty.

Carter's regular three-member advance team, headed by Ellis Woodward, obviously could not do all the minutely-detailed planning necessary for stops in six countries on two continents. So Rosenberger and at least a dozen others were dispatched to cities along Carter's route.

One recruit is Robert Neuman, press secretary to Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona, one of Carter's most determined opponents for the 1976 Democratic nomination. He was sent to Poland.

Another is Mike Pohl, an aide to Mayor Tom Bradley of Los Angeles, who is in India.

Dennis Oakes, a lawyer in private practice here, was assigned to Iran. He formerly did advance work for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn.

Frances Lewine, veteran White House reporter now with the Department of Transportation, is with Pohl in India.

The White House also has temporarily reduced the ranks of the unemployed by one, hiring Dan Dwyer, a campaign advance man for Carter who has been job hunting.

Other recruits: Griff Ellison from the Agency for International Development, Carroll Ann Rambo from the Democratic National Committee, John Thorne from the Customs Bureau, Greg Andrews from the Transportation Department, Paul Costello from ACTION, Mike McShane from the Department of Energy and Mary Massorini and Mary Hanley from the State Department.

Some kind of communique or joint statement is expected at the end of Carter's visit to each country. There is some suspicion among reporters that these documents were prepared in advance of the president's departure from Washington.

One knowledgeable administration official who was asked about them joked: "They'll be remembered for less time than it takes to write them, that's for sure."

When foreign leaders visit Carter, he gives them a state dinner and they provide reciprocal entertainment the following evening. However, Carter has made it a practice to avoid the reciprocal events, sending as emissaries Vice President Walter F. Mondale and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

During his foreign travels, Carter will move his policy another step forward. He will be entertained at state dinners, but will not attempt to provide any reciprocal feasting. He may set a whole new style in diplomatic exchanges.

Attorney To Enter Pleas Of Guilty

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Former state Sen. Henry J. "Buddy" Cianfrani will plead guilty to all criminal charges against him except those involving alleged income tax evasion, according to a letter released Tuesday. The letter indicated that Cianfrani would plead "no contest" to the tax charges.

The letter was sent to U.S. District Judge Edward R. Becker by Cianfrani's lawyer, Nicholas Nastasi.

Nastasi said Cianfrani would appear in court Friday to change his plea on a 110-count indictment handed down last September by a federal grand jury. He had pleaded innocent to the allegations.

Cianfrani had been accused of racketeering, bribery, mail fraud, income tax evasion and obstruction of justice.

Carter Administration Also Faces Geese Problem

By JAMES PHILLIPS

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's not enough that the Carter administration must deal with the energy crisis, Middle East and Panama Canal. It also must grapple with the vexing problem posed by the Canada goose — too many geese in the wrong place.

Recent administrations have failed miserably in their efforts to resolve the goose crisis. And if the past is a guide, the Carter administration also will fail.

Analysis

For the Canada goose blithely ignores all bureaucratic fiats. It wings southward each autumn regardless of whether the administration is Republican or Democrat.

Everybody has an opinion about the goose problem — farmers who want the birds to quit eating their crops, hunters who want to shoot them, birdwatchers who want to watch them, biologists who want to manage them.

The opinions have little effect on geese. They do as they please, cannily foiling the attempts to alter their habits.

The biggest problem today centers around Horicon, Wis., where about 200,000 geese gather each autumn. In years past, the geese flew right over Horicon without stopping; there was no problem.

But then a refuge was created by the federal and state governments about a decade ago. Geese began stopping in greater and greater numbers. A few the first year, a few more the second year and so on. Today, the flock is the biggest single concentration of honkers in the Mississippi River Valley.

And they stay longer and longer, with some spending the entire winter in Wisconsin. This, of course, angers persons farther south who once anxiously awaited the arrival of the honkers each autumn. It is especially bothersome to Illinois goose hunters, who are finding fewer and fewer geese to hunt.

Illinois hunters, some think, are simply getting their just desserts. When Horseshoe Lake in southern Illinois was made into a refuge in the 1920s, the geese quit flying to Louisiana, a matter that peeved many Deep South gunners who suddenly began staring into empty skies.

Wisconsin hunters, of course, are ecstatic about the big goose population. But Badger State farmers complain the geese are devouring standing crops. And biologists fear a disease outbreak could wreak havoc in such a dense concentration of birds.

The government has tried various tricks to lure the birds south. Geese have been live-trapped, driven south in trucks and released. The birds generally flew back before the truck completed its round trip.

The birds have been buzzed by low-flying aircraft. But the aerial warfare failed to disturb them.

The latest battle tactics include a modified scorched-earth policy in which standing grain crops on the refuge are plowed under in hopes of forcing the birds to fly elsewhere to feed, preferably in Illinois.

Water levels on refuge ponds have been drawn down. Noise-making cannons boom continuously.

The generals conducting this goose offensive hope to force about 100,000 birds to winter elsewhere.

Dispatches from the Horicon front show the generals are encouraged by their initial efforts. And while they are not claiming total victory, neither have they admitted defeat. Things are looking up, the strategists say — a line that could have been borrowed from the Vietnam war-era Pentagon.

Some believe a few geese may decide to avoid the refuge. But the minute the war winds down, they assert, the geese will return. And the next administration will face the problem of how to disperse goose concentrations.

Blacks Set Standards At Schools

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
United Press International Writer

The nation's 41 black private colleges are joining hands to solve a problem facing all colleges: growing numbers of students poor at reading, writing and math.

Presidents of the predominantly black private schools agreed recently to adopt a common policy insuring academic excellence at their institutions.

Their blueprint may help all colleges to solve the problem of poorly prepared students — a blight touching almost every institution of higher education.

Among new requirements are these:

—Students who have lower than "B" average in English must take a proficiency examination in English before being allowed to graduate.

—Students must make a passing grade of at least "C" in freshman English.

—Students found to be deficient in communications and mathematical skills must take mandatory remedial courses.

—High-ranking work-study students and scholarship recipients will be used as tutors to help those students inadequately prepared for these courses.

—Pre-college courses will be offered to incoming freshmen identified as weak in communications or mathematical skills before they begin the fall term.

—Each school will adopt a manuel for the uniform usage of correct English.

Dr. Hugh Gloster, president of Morehouse College in Atlanta, said the black institutions have within their grasp the possibility of being part of the academic elite of the nation.

Gloster and Dr. Samuel DuBois Cook, president of Dillard University in New Orleans, are co-chairmen of a committee which prepared the report on pursuit of excellence.

The presidents of the 41 schools reached agreement at the annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the United Negro College Fund in Birmingham. The 41 schools constitute the membership of the UNCF.

Gloster said the presidents felt some of their institutions already had achieved academic excellence, but that the new steps were necessary to bring all schools up to the same standard.

Cook said the emphasis on English and communications skills will meet head-on one of the most pressing problems facing colleges, white or black: "That of virtual illiteracy among many freshmen."

"Unfortunately, the black colleges are hurt more because they still suffer from the legacy of segregated, slum and ghetto school systems," Cook said.

"Most of the students we get are even more deficient in English and language skills than the national average, which is low enough.

On the other hand, some 25 percent of the students graduating from the black private colleges go on to graduate schools, including top ones in the nation.

"Our colleges right now are strong," Cook said.

"The percentage of Ph.D.'s on our faculties exceeds the national average. We have complete accreditation and approval from the same accrediting associations that rate white schools.

"Remedial programs are long-established requirements at black colleges, and they are effective.

"We can take a youngster with substandard preparation and, in four years, prepare him for admission to the best graduate professional schools anywhere."

Among the UNCF member schools are some of the oldest colleges for blacks in America. Wilberforce was founded in Ohio in 1856. Other well-known and long-established UNCF schools include Fisk University in Nashville, Tuskegee in Alabama, Xavier in New Orleans, Atlanta University and Morehouse.

An honor program will be established at each member school not now having one. In addition, each school will set up honor societies in all major fields and bring to campus a college-wide honor society.

Thailand Reports Murder Discovery

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The mutilated bodies of 11 men were found in the Surat Thani province 328 miles from Bangkok, authorities reported. Police believed the murders were carried out by Communist insurgents.

Police said Tuesday that the men had traveled to the province to sell Buddha statutes to villagers there.

When a dog is over 7 years old, love and care aren't enough.

He should also have Cycle® 4. DOG FOOD

Sure, the dog food you've been feeding him has been alright. So far. But by the time a dog reaches 7 or 8, his nutritional needs are changing. He should be getting a special kind of dog food made to meet the special needs of an older dog. He should be getting Cycle 4.

Old age starts to happen long before it starts to show.

By the age of 7, your dog may begin to feel his years—inside—where you can't see. His digestive system may not be what it used to be. The organs less efficient. The muscles not as hardworking. His whole metabolism may be slowing down. His joints may even be a little stiff. His hearing a little hard. So of course, his nutritional needs have changed.

Delicious Cycle 4—is the first dog food made specially for an older dog.

When you feed Cycle 4—as your dog's regular food, he gets all the special nutrition he needs. Special nutrition that's easier on his older, delicate digestion. Extra calcium and phosphorus, along with vitamin D for his aging bones and teeth. Vitamin A for his coat and eyes. And high-quality protein in amounts his older kidneys can easily handle. Yet believe it or not, all this nutrition comes in a delicious form. Tasty, crunchy nuggets your dog will love. Cycle 4 is the only food he needs to help keep him happy, healthy and active in his later years.

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) — Commission house buying lifted wheat futures almost 3 cents a bushel, but other grain futures declined Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

A second major grain elevator explosion in less than a week had little impact on futures trading, but some market participants said the late strength in wheat might be connected with the blast in Galveston, Tex. overnight.

Market analysts said the deadly explosions at a Farmers Export Grain Co. elevator Tuesday night and at a Continental Grain Co. elevator near New Orleans last week could be bearish because of the reduced ability to handle grains for export. Combined, the elevators had a capacity of nearly 10 million bushels.

The Agriculture Department reported that corn exports dropped almost 40 percent last week, while traders had expected overseas shipping to remain steady. A factor that depressed prices in the soybean complex was disappointment over a relatively low export figure.

Soybean futures, which were about steady for most of the day, weakened when commercial users of soybean oil sold those futures.

Cotton Futures

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures No. 2 closed 50 cents to $3.55 a bale higher Wednesday.

Brokers said speculators bought contracts because they thought price chart-patterns indicated further advances, brokers said.

The average price for strict low middling 11-16 inch spot cotton advanced 80 points to 49.70 cents a pound Tuesday for the 10 leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Trading on the Lubbock spot cotton market was active on Wednesday. Supplies of cotton for sale were heavy and demand was good.

Growers sold mixed lots of new-crop cotton at 125 to 450 points over 1977 loan rates. Gins paid growers $58 to $70 per ton for cottonseed, mostly $64 to $65.

The Lubbock Cotton Exchange's spot quotations advanced 50 points. The base price of grade 41, staple 34, mikes 3.5-4.9, stood at 46.85 cents per pound, 75 points over a week earlier.

Classing offices graded 18,000 samples on Wednesday. The season's total stood at 2,681,000 bales, compared with 1,417,000 last year. About 13,000 bales were received and approximately 60,000 were carried over as unclassed.

Farm Group Suggests Land Policy Changes

By JOE BIGHAM

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — The maximum size of farms receiving subsidized federal irrigation water should be 640 acres, a land reform group contended today.

National Land for People, which has been pushing for changes in Reclamation Act regulations to encourage family farming, issued 21 recommendations it wants Congress to adopt.

The maxmimum of 640 acres could be owned by an individual or family, but need not be, explained George Ballis, National Land spokesman.

"The 640 could be one person; it could be 25 persons; it could be a corporation," Ballis said.

His group would allow farms larger than 640 acres only if the growing season is less than 180 frost-free days.

The proposal would require buyers of excess reclamation land to live on or within 15 miles of their property.

Excess land currently is defined as acreage above 160 acres owned by an individual. Present law prohibits an individual from retaining more than 160 acres and receiving federal irrigation water.

Under National Land's proposal, a lottery system would be used to dispose of lands not retained by the original owner or his family under the 640-acre limit per farm.

Leases, which National Land feels have been used to continue large farming units, would be prohibited except in emergencies "or through the government."

That clause would allow the Interior Department to buy land and lease it to people who can't afford to buy a farm themselves, Ballis explained.

"One legitimate objection to no leasing at all is that many people get started in farming by leasing," he said. "To provide opportunity, the government ought to buy a certain percent and ought to lease to new farmers. The new farmers would have an option to buy within five years."

National Land's proposal would have the federal government buy 20 percent of reclamation property to dispose at lotteries to people "who at the time would not be farming, in their own right, land receiving federal water."

The average size of parcels involved in lotteries would not exceed 200 acres in areas where the growing season exceeds 240 frost-free days.

The U.S. Interior Department proposed its own regulations during the summer to require that buyers live within 50 miles of their property, bar most leases and dispose of land by lottery.

The department's plan retains the 160-acre maximum which has been enforced in such reclamation areas as Central California's 540,000-acre Westlands Water District.

Farmers critical of the 160-acre rule and proposed ban on leasing contend the acreage limitation is uneconomical in modern mechanized farming.

The Interior Department had planned to change the rules in March following public hearings, but a federal judge here has ruled that an environmental impact statement must be prepared first.

Senator Says Parity May Not Be Answer

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Sen. Dale Bumpers says the concept of parity for farm products may need to be scrapped.

The senator met with 200 to 250 farmers at his offices and said he supported the position of striking farmers, but that he was not sure 100 percent parity would solve their problems.

"Parity is a concept that was developed in 1910 and right now the law in this country on parity is based on the price of commodities against the price of your production costs to your expenses," Bumpers said.

The senator said he feared the system of parity could be contributing, in part, to lower farm prices.

Some farmers showed Bumpers financial statements saying they were near bankruptcy and could not plant crops next year.

Bumpers did not encourage or discourage the farmers from planting crops.

He said he thought Congress will likely take action soon on the farmers complaints. Bumpers said he did not know what action Congress would take.

One farmer at the meeting asked Bumpers, "Why is it we have a farmer in the White House and he is not pushing exports as much as the previous president?"

Bumpers agreed that that farm exports were not being pushed, but said he had no answer as to why.

Meanwhile, officials of four Batesville firms have agreed to send telegrams supporting the strike to President Carter.

Independence County farmer Kenneth McDoniel said officials of Ideal Baking Co., Mack Farm Dairy and the Arkansas Poultry Co. agreed Wednesday to send the telegrams.

An official of the Southerland Division of Banquet Foods sent a telegram Tuesday to Carter supporting the strike.

McDoniel also said striking farmers would meet Thursday at Little Rock with Rep. Ray Thornton and also Thursday at Batesville with Rep. Bill Alexander.

Farmers had encircled the Southerland plant with tractors on Monday and vowed to double their forces if plant officials didn't send the telegram.

Government To Study Recycling

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is studying the feasibility of what may be the ultimate in recycling — fattening up farm animals on other animals' manure.

The Food and Drug Administration has a 1967 policy against that practice, and says it has no immediate plan to change its mind. But it wants to study the arguments involved, particularly since some states have authorized manure feed additives within their borders.

The process of using manure additives involves collecting wastes from various animals, drying and processing the waste to kill bacteria and make it acceptable to the animals, then mixing the result with regular feed.

Using treated animal wastes in feed may provide an economic benefit to consumers, the FDA said, since it is less costly than other sources of nutrition. Large corn crops have lowered feed prices for now, but the Agriculture Department notes that this could change.

"In addition to contributing to the nation's protein supply, recycling of animal waste may reduce water and air pollution," the FDA said.

However, it added that "animal waste could contain disease-producing organisms and parasites, residues of drugs and drug metabolites and toxic elements and other contaminants. . . ."

Some states, including Alabama, California, Colorado, Mississippi, Virginia and Washington, have issued their own laws allowing some uses of dried waste as feed.

In addition, Florida, Georgia, Iowa and Oregon have started registering dried waste as a feed ingredient under existing laws.

The FDA's current disapproval isn't a factor in those states unless the product crosses state lines.

"The research to date has demonstrated that animal waste contains nutrients that can be used either by the species that produces the waste or by other species," the FDA statement said.

"Because poultry waste contains from 30 to 35 percent crude protein equivalent, it may present an attractive alternative to conventional protein supplements," such as soybean meal, the FDA added.

Scientists estimate that 1.7 billion tons of animal waste is produced in the nation each year and as much as 143 million tons of this can be used as animal feed.

The value of the waste, the FDA estimated, would range from $6 a ton raw to $110 per ton when dehydrated.

While the agency noted that many persons might find such feeding repugnant, it pointed out that eating excrement is natural among many wild and domestic animals.

"In addition, placing swine or poultry in feedlots or on pasture in order to recover nutrients from beef waste is standard animal management practice on some farms," the FDA said.

Group Seeks Backing For Detoxification Center

alone cannot offer, they said.

Several other groups also urge commissioners to help the project.

The Lubbock Council on Alcoholism said the proposed detoxification center "will satisfy a need that we have seen and felt for many years."

The Texas Rehabilitation Commission said, "There is a definite need for such a facility."

"Services for the alcoholic in Lubbock have been incomplete for years since there has never been a detoxification center that is available to all people who need it," said the ad hoc committee pushing the proposal.

Directors of local halfway houses also endorsed the project, noting it would fill a gap in services here.

"The alcoholic must be dry (at least) 24 hours before admission to a halfway house, and this makes the necessity of a detoxification facility a very urgent need," said Myrtle Tatum of the Walker House.

Added Cathy Pope, director of the new Berean Halfway House: "Our experience seems to indicate that a detoxification unit is the missing link in the alcohol treatment services of this community."

Dot Patterson, director of Lubbock's Alcoholic Recovery Center, said her program and local halfway houses can deal only with sober alcoholics.

"This rehabilitation cannot be brought about or be a success without the necessary ingredient — the detoxification of such people on the streets and in the cars in the city," Mrs. Patterson said.

"Due to our location on Lubbock's 'skid row,' we are available for the practicing alcoholics, and I am in a position to daily see such persons turned away, badly in need of the medical attention given in a detoxification center before they can be admitted to the already available three halfway houses as well as our center," she said.

Local AA groups said entering a private hospital for detoxification is "impossible for many people due to high costs." The only other alternative now, they said, is the state hospital at Big Spring, where transportation and strict admission rules leave "many people without a place to go."

The South Plains Association of Governments also endorses the proposed detox center. Edward Paul, SPAG's regional alcoholism prevention coordinator, said the center would be a "great benefit" not just to Lubbock but to outlying counties.

Annually in Lubbock County, he said, 2,100 arrests are made for public drunkenness and 1,200 for driving while intoxicated.

Mexican Protesters Seek Election Probe

REYNOSA, Mexico (UPI) — Protesters are vowing to block three key Mexico-Texas border crossings again today unless the government investigates their charges of vote fraud in recent local elections.

Nearly 10,000 people stopped car traffic Wednesday in the three crossings — Nuevo Laredo-Laredo, Reymosa-McAllen, and Matamoros-Brownsville. They lifted the roadblocks every three hours for 30 minutes until 9 p.m.

A spokesman for the opposition Authentic Party of the Mexican Revolution said the blockades would go up again today unless the government looks into the vote fraud allegations.

Other protesters seized more than a dozen buses in Ciudad Mante, about 300 miles south of Reynosa, and threatened to burn them in the next few days unless authorities act on their charges of voting irregularities.

The three border points — connecting Texas with the northern Mexican state of Tamaulipas on the Gulf of Mexico — are on the most heavily traveled roads in the area.

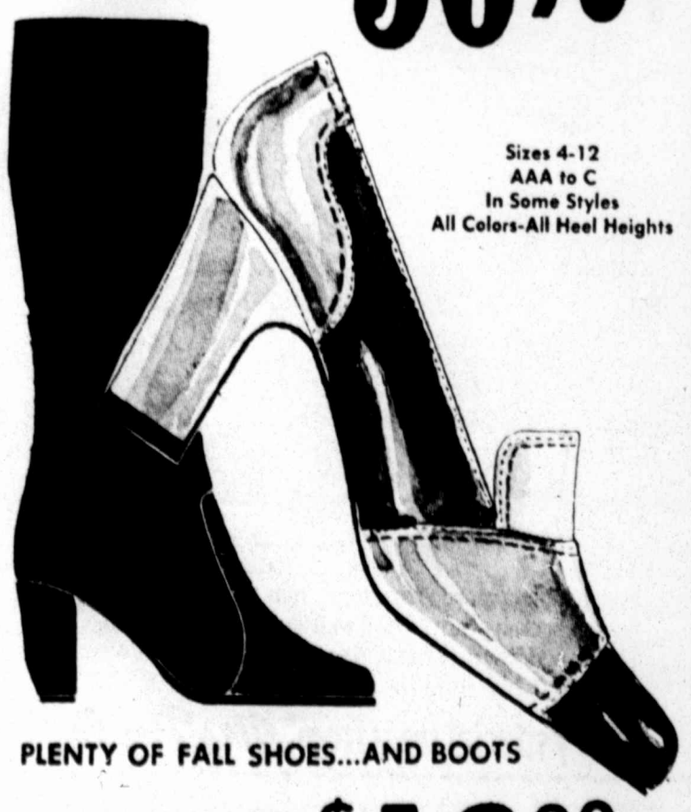

The blockades, carried out partially since Monday, were in full force Wednesday in the towns of Rio Bravo, San Fernando, Ciudad Mier, Altamira, Ciudad Mante.

The Authentic Party spokesman warned the blackades would become permanent unless authorities agree within two days to investigate the party's claim that it won the Reynosa mayoral and congressional elections Dec. 5.

An election commission awarded both races to the ruling Revolutionary Institutional Party.

"We have exhausted all legal means. Nobody paid any attention to us, that is why we decided to launch the road blockade throughout the state, to draw the attention of the government so that the electoral commission's decision on the vote will be reversed," the Authentic Party spokesman said.

Now Equitable Savings is as strong as Gibraltar.

Now Equitable Savings is Gibraltar Savings, the biggest in Texas with assets approaching $2 billion.

As of January 1, 1978, Equitable Savings will have a strong new name: Gibraltar Savings Association. This new organization is the result of the merger of five savings associations in seven major cities across Texas. For Lubbock, Gibraltar offers both a statewide savings service and additional mortgage money to meet the demands of a growing city.

Gibraltar offers statewide service.
In addition to our office in Lubbock, fifty-nine more will serve you across Texas in Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, Midland, Amarillo, and Corpus Christi.

Gibraltar is financial strength.
The merger of these five Texas associations will bring Gibraltar's assets to nearly $2 billion. Reserves will exceed any other savings association in Texas.

Financial strength like this makes a Gibraltar savings plan one of the safest investments available in Texas today.

Gibraltar's money will work in Lubbock.
We are committed to the principle of reinvesting local deposits in local mortgage loans. Additionally, Gibraltar's statewide organization will generate large blocks of mortgage money to take care of any job, no matter how big it may be.

Gibraltar is a new name for old friends.
Gibraltar in Lubbock will be staffed by the same local, friendly people you know at Equitable. You'll find them still on the job serving your financial needs in the same dedicated way. Gibraltar Savings is a strong new name in town, working for you.

City Police Seek Four Men In Reported Assault

Police today were looking for four men who reportedly terrorized three persons during early-morning hours. One victim said he was attacked with a knife and his friend said he had to swerve off Loop 289 to escape a gun pointed at him.

Samuel David Clay, 18, of 5801 22nd St., said he and two friends, a 19-year-old Stephenville man and his girlfriend, had stopped at a 19th Street gas station about 2 a.m. when they first met the four suspects.

Clay said as two of the men began to approach his car, he left the station and drove to his apartment. While Clay's companion took his girlfriend home, two of the men appeared at his apartment and began banging on the door, he said.

The victim said he opened the door and saw one of the suspects holding a knife. He said he closed the door after refusing to give the whereabouts of his friend. However, the two men reportedly kicked open the door and the knife-wielding man attacked Clay.

Clay, police said, sustained multiple wounds but refused hospital treatment.

The two men reportedly left Clay's apartment after the attack. The Stephenville man told police at Clay's apartment that while he was taking his girl home the four suspects drove up next to him on Loop 289.

He said he saw one of the men pointing a gun at him, but lost his pursuers by swerving off the road.

Along with the reported assault, police were busy investigating numerous house burglaries.

Robert J. Wood of 510 Ave. V said he had been away from his home since last Thursday and when he returned Wednesday night his $800 stereo was missing. Entry apparently was gained through a bathroom window.

Maxine W. Gross told police that while she was at her waitress job Wednesday someone broke into her 609-B 38th St. residence and stole a $100 television set.

A television and stereo were reported missing by Wanda J. Ross of 812 David Ave. after she came home from work about 1 a.m. today.

Brett Eugene Hosey of 2208 17th St. said he came home Tuesday morning after being gone since Saturday to find his stereo missing. He estimated his loss at more than $700.

Earl Ince of Ince Oil Co., 115 34th St., told police he had two men in his office who had been charging gas and money to a stolen credit card since about July. The illegal charges totaled about $1,208, Ince said.

Reports show that police questioned two 19-year-old company employees Wednesday and subsequently placed them under arrest.

Larry Don Fitzwater, manager of Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurant at 5004 Slide Rd., was the apparent victim of till tapping.

Fitzwater said two men came into the restaurant about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, making purchases and asking for change. The manager said the men left after he and the two suspects exchanged several bills.

An audit of the register made after the men left showed $41 missing, Fitzwater said.

Larry Lagrone of 3601 30th St. said he returned from vacation Tuesday to find his $400 trailer missing. The camper had been chained to the driveway post, Lagrone said.

Someone apparently took advantage of Barbara Carol Blankenship of Wilson who said she forgot her purse after leaving a building under construction at 8105 Flint Ave.

She said that when she returned Wendesday the purse, containing jewelry, credit cards and checks totaling $340, was gone.

Charles Earl Raymond, a truck driver from Grand Forks, N.D., told police he was unloading his cargo Wednesday afternoon at 404 34th St. when someone apparently entered the truck's sleeping compartment and stole a pistol and credit cards.

Raymond said he had gone in to get some coffee and when he returned his suitcase had been ransacked and the cards were gone.

Sheriff's deputies today still were looking for Gertrude Cuellar's purse and the person who snatched it from her dining room. The Carlisle resident said the purse contained about $300 and credit cards, and its disappearance might have been a result of a domestic argument.

At least 15 Lubbockites reported damages totaling nearly $2,000 in separate incidents of vandalism early in the week.

The majority of police reports detailed vandalism to parked vehicles, primarily in the form of broken windows.

Philip Bogel of 2400 44th St. said miscreants inflicted $150 worth of damage to his 1977 auto Tuesday or Wednesday and Tony Barnett of 4001 45th St. reported broken glass in his vehicle to the tune of $400 during the same period.

Gary McCurry of 3014 45th St. said his 1969 van's window was smashed Tuesday resulting in a $50 loss. Another van, this one belonging to T. J. Lovett of 4810 15th St., also was hit Tuesday or Wednesday, leaving the owner with a $75 repair bill.

Roy Ritchie of 2004 43rd St. was victimized for $100 in damages Tuesday, when someone smashed a window in his 1977 pickup.

The story was much the same for Rita Beck of 4002 47th St., Arch Rousseau of 2400 44th St., Johnny Mont of 4016 45th St., Herman Day of 2822 42nd St., Carol Kollman of 4400 Ave. X, Fred McClung Jr. of 5426 16th Place and Charles M. Davis of 4011 45th St. The group's aggregate damage was $80[illegible] following the vandalism.

Yet another victim said her car received about $30 damage sometime Wednesday, but the woman indicated the destruction may have been the result of a domestic argument.

In still other reported criminal mischief Alice Guidry of 2502 Utica Ave. said someone broke out two security lamps valued at $200 with some type of pipe Tuesday or Wednesday, while Stephanie Oliveira of 1609 Bangor Ave. reported $10 damage to her fence, caused possibly by a deliberately set dumpster fire.

Meanwhile, W. D. Cooper of Slaton said someone broke into his home sometime Monday or Tuesday and ransacked the house, making off with clothing, jewelry and appliances valued together at more than $2,200.

Seventeen chandeliers worth a reported $430 were stolen from houses under construction in the 2300-block of 70th St. Christmas Eve, according to Pete Durman of 2611 20th St.

Suzanne Fowlkes said she walked away momentarily from her desk at an office in the 1100-block of Main Street Tuesday and when she returned her billfold, a necklace and her glasses were missing from her purse. She said the items, including some stolen cash, would cost her about $315 to replace.

Though they apparently didn't get anything, burglars who broke into Ermon Fenwick's 316 43rd St. residence Dec. 20 or Dec. 21 caused about $100 damage to two doors.

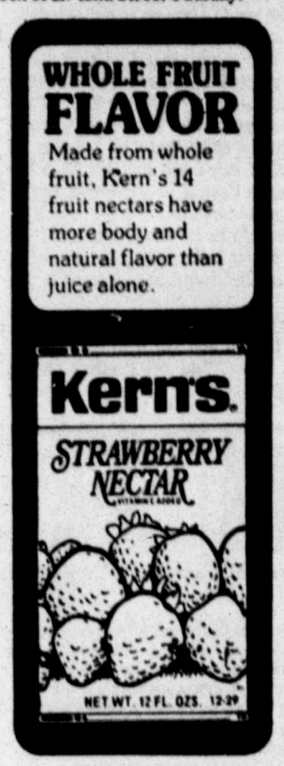

Burglars took a $150 tape deck Christmas Eve from a vehicle belonging to C. W. Lusby of 3311 88th St., reports indicated.

A cotton trailer loaded with cotton reportedly was stolen from a gin in the 300-block of Erskine St. earlier this week, according to Raymond McLain of 2704 55th St. McLain estimated the gin's loss at $1,450.

A 19-year-old Lubbock woman told police Wednesday a 28-year-old man beat and bit her following a domestic argument.

Three persons, including Ester Gutierrez of 3103 2nd St., Veronica Gonzales of 2005 22nd St., and Danny Long of 3009 58th St., reported stolen bicycles to police Wednesday.

James Wallace of 2702 25th St. said a CB radio worth $300 was stolen from his vehicle while it was parked in the 500-block of E. 42nd Street Tuesday.

RIDING DOUBLE — Curtis Johnson, 14, left, and his brother, Perry, 17, of Dallas added a new twist to the old "bicycle built for two" theme. The boys, bundled in ski masks against the chill, enjoyed the ride on a bicycle built for one. (AP Laserphoto)

Lost Man Says Error Was 'Skiing Alone'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — For four days, cross-country skier Eric Schine wandered lost, hungry and cold, often hallucinating, in the trackless snows of the High Sierra before making his way to safety.

"I made the skier's first error. I went skiing alone," he said in an interview Wednesday from a hospital bed in Auburn, 110 miles east of San Francisco.

He told a harrowing story of existing on leaves and acorns, losing his ski poles, breaking his ski bindings and digging out snow caves to sleep in.

The San Francisco bank employee, a former member of the University of Denver's Alpine Club, said he went ski touring the day before Christmas. His plan was to make it from the crest of Squaw Valley to Picayune Valley 10 miles west, about 200 miles north of San Francisco.

"I went down what I thought was a small run and ended up going down the backside of a mountain," said Schine, 26. "The streams and sun became distorted. I had no map, and there were no landmarks."

Schine tried to follow streams in the belief that they would lead him to safety. Instead, his senses scrambling in the snow and fog, he became more and more lost.

Schine said it occurred to him that he might freeze to death. He had no matches to start a fire.

Bone-weary and disoriented, he scooped out a snow cave and went to sleep. He awoke Christmas Day and headed west. His heart leaped when he heard voices — thought he heard voices. He said he was hallucinating.

That evening he saw a helicopter, but it swooped behind some trees and vanished.

"If it had come over 30 feet more it would have seen me," he said. "I yelled, but I couldn't make myself heard over the rotor."

On Monday morning the Placer County Search and Rescue Team began scouring the mountains near Nevada for him. But night came again, and Schine was still lost, and fearing for his life. He dug out another cave and slept.

He said he awoke Tuesday determined to get a grip on himself.

"I got the direction right this time, and began following the sun. I didn't see an animal or a person for three days."

At a stream, Schine found his first signs of civilization — discarded beer cans.

He climbed a hill; in the distance, voices.

"I thought I was hearing things again," he said, but it was true this time. He was hearing, and finally saw, the rescue team. He ran toward them yelling and yelling.

That night, at Auburn Faith Community Hospital, he was found to be in good condition despite the ordeal.

Panel Gives Approval To Jail Plan

The executive director of the Texas Commission on Jail Standards has given formal approval to the preliminary drawings for a new Lubbock County Jail.

Guy Van Cleave said in a letter to county officials here that plans for the proposed 335-inmate detention complex generally are in compliance with state standards.

A few aspects of the new facility need further clarification, Van Cleave said. But he said these could be easily worked out between the state commission and county architect Arnold Maeker.

Otherwise, Van Cleave said, Maeker's working drawings for the proposed new jail meet the necessary requirements — governing the size and design of cells, hallways and dayrooms, provisions for safety and security, and dozens of other things — set by the state.

Van Cleave's letter came as no surprise. After a meeting with Maeker in late November, Van Cleave told The Avalanche-Journal he was impressed with the local plans and saw no problem in getting them approved.

If built as designed by Maeker, the new Lubbock County Jail will be "one of the best in the state," featuring security and safety for guards and inmates but at a "most efficient level" of operation, he said.

County officials had been waiting for written confirmation of Van Cleave's comments so they can take bids on construction of the proposed new jail in early or mid 1978.

The new jail will be built east of and adjoining the existing downtown detention building. The new facility will straddle Avenue G, necessitating closing a segment of that street.

County officials expect the new jail will cost about $3.6 million. They hope to pay for it with federal revenue-sharing funds.

Don Rickles Admits Being Under Spell Of Sports

By KEN PETERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — He says Kareem Abdul-Jabbar is great — if you happen to live on the second floor and lose your keys.

He calls Tom Landry the guy standing silently alone at a pep rally.

To him, Reggie Jackson is an athlete with a five-year plan — to put Billy Martin in a rest home.

Don Rickles, the modern master of the putdown, has a lot to say about athletics and athletes. But he cautions that it should be made clear he is only kidding, that he only makes fun of "big" people.

"I've had things that I've said about people printed and come out sounding like I was serious," Rickles said. "They came looking for me. You've got to make it absolutely clear that I'm kidding, so that means don't use big words so the dummies in Kansas — and football players — can understand."

Rickles admits he has fallen under the spell of sports in America, that he spends "half his life" transfixed in front of the tube.

"It's gotton so bad my wife drew a picture of herself and put it in my wallet," Rickles said. "You gotta worry on the wedding night when the bride finds the groom sitting in front of the TV with a helmet on.

"But just think, if you didn't have football on television Sundays, you'd have to walk your kid in the park and explain why birds sit in trees."

Rickles says baseball in general and the Los Angeles Dodgers in particular are his favorites because "Tommy Lasorda is my idol, primarily because he's dying to hang around with me. And I like Mr. Clean, Steve Garvey. He's the only first baseman I know who washes his glove."

While Rickles, currently the star of television's "CPO Sharkey", said he loves all sports, there are some he loves less than others.

"I've never been real hot on polo," he explained. "Most of the guys who play polo are really Jewish guys dressed up as South American captains."

Rickles dryly dispatches women in sports with, "I think they're OK, except if you're married to one. Then they tend to lift the stove instead of cook on it."

He doesn't understand fans' moaning about high ticket prices and bad seats. "All you gotta do is know the team's general manager. And you can always get a good seat for Braves' games in Atlanta; you can sit all alone and buy popcorn and peanuts from Ted Turner. Atlanta had a great season until the stadium opened," he said.

Rickles, serious for a moment, said that if modern sports needs anything, it's more people for him to make fun of. "I think guys like Lasorda, like John McKay at Tampa Bay, are great for sports. They have that magic, that charisma. I think sports could use more colorful guys like that.

"I understand McKay was so excited about Tampa Bay finally winning, that to celebrate, he put two of his players into a cannon and shot them through the showers."

Largest Icebreaker Placed In Service

SEATTLE (AP) — The world's largest and most powerful icebreaker, Polar Star, made its debut over the Christmas weekend in McMurdo Channel in Antarctica, the Coast Guard announced here Tuesday.

Coast Guard spokesman Mike Kelley said the ship, held in drydock for a year because of mechanical problems, had no problems on its first ice-breaking assignment.

"The ship used her diesel engines and gas turbines to ram through 3 to 8 feet of ice," Kelley said.

He said the Polar Star Friday was to begin forging a path to McMurdo Station west of the Ross Ice Shelf, the largest solid ice shelf in Antarctica.

Nielsen Figures Indicate Loss Of TV Viewers Through 1977

NEW YORK (AP) — New figures from the A.C. Nielsen rating service confirm that 1.1 million households across the nation stopped watching television from last March through November.

Figures for early December, which nearly match last year's, indicate the loss may be slowing. But network executives say they are concerned about the long-term trend.

The Nielsen company said this week that diaries kept by 100,000 families from all the country's major cities in November verify the accuracy of a downward trend previously detected by ratings meters on the television sets of 1,200 Nielsen families.

Those figures for homes using television (HUT) indicate an 8 percent decline in the daytime TV audience and a 3 percent nighttime audience decrease in the 9-month period.

According to Nielsen, the loss was 870,000 households during daytime viewing hours and 260,000 households at night.

Diaries are issued during the so-called "sweeps" to measure local audiences, and they were used last month to determine whether the trend detected by the meters was actual or the result of a computer or sample error.

"That's what I have regarded as the principal problem, the possibility that something was wrong," CBS research chief Arnold Becker said. "I think that a reasonable person has to take the attitude that, indeed, HUT levels are down."

However, ABC Vice President Paul Sonkin disagreed.

"It's hard to say it's a real change and there's something wrong with television when we're still investigating it," he declared. "As far as we're concerned, the jury is still out."

But Sonkin noted that figures provided by the Arbitron rating organization have buttressed the Nielsen numbers.

While questioning the significance of HUT figures in general, NBC research head Bill Rubens pointed out that figures so far this month nearly match those of last December. He said the average time people watch television each day has climbed from 4 hours, 43 minutes in 1951 to a relatively stable 6 hours, 23 minutes last season.

"What we're dealing with is a very high commitment in terms of hours of viewing — but very consistent in the last four years," Rubens said.

He also described as probably aberrational HUT figures for previous periods in which ratings broke records with such programs as the summer Olympics, "Gone with the Wind" and "Roots."

Referring to defects in the Nielsen computer program and sample that brought down HUTs in 1975, the NBC executive said, "These things don't exist now. They have put in many more controls."

He said NBC was continuing its study of the changes, despite the improvement in December, and CBS's Becker said the networks still have to explain them.

"The job of the industry is to try and figure out why," Becker said. "That's not going to be such an easy task."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Others will find you charming tomorrow, because of their realization that you have a deep and sincere concern for them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Making yourself or your surroundings more attractive is what you will excel in tomorrow. Try a new hairstyle or make-up, or redecorate your dwelling.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Friends with whom you have strong emotional bonds will deny you very little tomorrow. If you need a favor, don't hesitate to make it known.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Tomorrow is a good day to be extra-solicitous of those working for you or in your behalf. It will stand you in good stead now, as well as in the future.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Romance could be one of your brightest events tomorrow. It might be someone you're already involved with, or it could even be somebody new.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You are extra-fortunate in managing or directing those you love. What you do can be a special benefit to you, too.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In ways that are not immediately evident, you will be lucky tomorrow. The source of your good fortune may be unknown until you reap its benefits.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be willing to help others tomorrow because you care for them. You will receive more than you give in as unselfish manner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Business and pleasure are a compatible mix for you tomorrow. If you have a business contact you can invite to lunch or dinner, get on the phone now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A rendezvous with candlelight and wine for you and the one you care for — follow this order of the day and you'll both have a pleasant, happy time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Members of the opposite sex will be particularly attracted to you tomorrow. Even people you didn't know even noticed you will cast admiring glances your way.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The motivation you need tomorrow is not of the bread-and-butter variety. It is something like a luxury item that you've fancied but didn't strive for.

Your Birthday

Dec. 30, 1977

You will have more time to spend on pleasurable pursuits this coming year. Things will be better careerwise and you will have a freer spirit to travel and do what you like.

If you're still looking for the right career opportunity, perhaps we have the answer. We need several good people to train as Employee Benefits Counselors. You must enjoy meeting new people in daytime counseling sessions. The people we choose will be placed on a 36 month training program, including intensive study in our Kansas City Home Office. We offer an excellent starting salary and give you the opportunity to earn additional compensation based on performance. Our benefits package is among the best in the country. This is high visibility position. In fact, we expect the people we select to one day hire their own replacements and move into a supervisory capacity. In other words, we're looking for winners. If this sounds like the opportunity you've been waiting for call:

City Man Faces Murder Charge

A 29-year-old Lubbock man has been charged with the Dec. 22 murder of Virginia Vielma Meza.

John Torrez Champion Jr. was released Wednesday from county jail after posting a $2,500 bond, set by Justice of the Peace Charles E. Smith.

Champion is accused of shooting the 22-year-old victim in the neck. She was found in her home at 2100 Duke St., No. 28. Champion lists the same address as his residence.

The victim was found lying face-up on a bed about 7:50 p.m. after Champion allegedly directed police to the residence.

Police reports indicate she apparently had just entered the apartment when she was shot. Reportedly there was no sign of a struggle.

Police recovered a bullet from the mattress on which the woman lay, and a .38-caliber pistol also was recovered.

Agnew Suit Upheld By Maryland Court

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — A Maryland appeals court has refused to block a civil suit filed in an effort to force Spiro T. Agnew to repay $87,000 in alleged kickbacks.

The Court of Special Appeals said the former vice president's request to overturn a lower-court order allowing the suit to be tried was in violation of state judicial proceedings. Agnew has been given until Jan. 11 to ask the appeals court to rescind its order.

Three Montgomery County residents filed the suit, seeking to recover kickbacks allegedly paid to Agnew by architectural and engineering firms during his term as governor of Maryland.

CB Convac

By INK DIPPER

Any news writer comes across a story, now and then, that is made up of loose ends. That's CB and the United States Coast Guard. The Guardsmen are having a very tough time trying to figure out what to do about CB. All districts admit CB exists. They are aware of the usage factor. They just can't seem to make a decision about it.

Sometime ago, in this column, it was reported that District 8, which is the Gulf of Mexico region, was planning to put CB units in their Search and Rescue stations so they could monitor the emergency channel. They hoped to have it done by the summer of 1978.

After talking with no less than six Coast Guard officers in various districts, as well as the headquarters in Washington, D.C., it is obvious that there are a lot of memoranda being sent around — "yes, we will, and no, we won't" types — and that the Coast Guard still opts for the very expensive VHF-FM gear that is traditional.

It is reported that there are 9 million leisure craft on the inland waters and surrounding oceans of the United States. It also is pretty obvious without too much research that most of these crafts are not yacht type. They are boats that a guy tows behind his car, slips off the trailer and gets ready to go for a spin. It is equally reasonable to assume that he picks his CB out of his car and takes it with him in the boat.

The Coast Guard says that's a correct assumption. However, it says that CB has too many problems.

"The limitations of CB originally recognized in an exhaustive study by the Coast Guard remain unchanged," a spokesman in Washington explained.

"CB signals bounce around, they're affected by atmospheric conditions, and their range is limited."

There is no question about the reliability of VHF-FM. But, there is the difference between $450 and perhaps $50 in the price of the respective units. And, that's a substantial difference.

It took two lieutenants and a captain in Washington to finally say the Coast Guard hadn't made up its mind. Lt. Gabriel Kinney in St. Louis said that because he was in District 2 they had no plans for CB. He explained that District 2 covers all inland waterways and, therefore, it was not deemed necessary to monitor CB through Search and Rescue stations. District 8 related that its primary monitoring station would be in Southern Louisiana which also serves as a Coast Guard radio link into the Gulf of Mexico. Lt. Tom Pearson, of 8th, said, "We're basically doing it as a service because so many people have them."

After hearing the way in which the Coast Guard has divided the country into districts, you get the feeling that this may be one of the holdbacks. The East Coast comprises the 1st, 3rd, 5th and 7th districts; the 8th is the Gulf; the 11th, 12th and 13th are the Pacific; the 17th is Alaska; 14th is Hawaii; 9th is the Great Lakes; and the 2nd covers inland waterways (river systems).

In September a news release was sent to all districts stating that the Coast Guard was cognizant of the widespread use of CBs and would attempt to develop a limited monitoring program. No Coast Guard vessels would be equipped in the plan. Channel 16, the international emergency channel, would be the channel monitored.

So, boaters with CB's don't count on the Coast Guard. And, this advice is directly from the Coast Guard. They do not want boaters to get the idea a CB call will bring them skipping. For the CG, it's 10-4 and out. At least for right now.

Private Mail Service To Fight Court Order

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Rain, snow and sleet didn't deter the P.H. Brennan Hand Delivery Service from competing with the U.S. Postal Service. But a court order may send the husband-wife, 10-cents-a-letter, same-day delivery system to the dead letter office.

"It's going to be a long law suit," said Patricia Brennan, 25, who runs the business with her husband, J. Paul Brennan, 38. "By no means are we down and out."

Mrs. Brennan said Wednesday that she had not been served with any papers yet. She said the decision would be appealed. The delivery service continued Wednesday, but it was not clear whether it would continue operating during the appeal.

U.S. District Judge Harold P. Burke ruled Tuesday in favor of the Postal Service which filed suit in February to protect its statutory monopoly on first-class mail.

"Elimination of this monopoly would seriously threaten the very existence of the U.S. Postal Service," the government's brief said.

The Brennans contended in court that Congress had overstepped its authority in granting the Postal Service such a monopoly.

But the government argued that Congress and the courts have recognized for more than 200 years the need for a monopoly.

"There is a strong and abiding national interest in having one uniform postal system, operated impartially, unturned by considerations of profit, serving the entire country," the government brief said.

Although unwilling to say exactly how many letters a day the private service delivers in downtown Rochester, Mrs. Brennan confirmed that she and her husband handled about 1,000 pieces a day during November. The Brennans charge 10 cents a letter and guarantee same-day delivery.

Messenger services operate in many cities dispatching couriers to companies who call each time they have something to send. The Brennans' firm, however, picks up mail every day from its 300 customers.

Mrs. Brennan said she got the idea for the delivery service two years ago when she received a letter from Idaho 13 days after it had been posted.

Williams Directs Tech Past Rams 78-73 In OT

By DICK FISHBACK
A-J Special Correspondent

HONOLULU — There may have been some times midway through the second half when Kent Williams' name was mentioned by his staunchest supporters in something less than reverent terms, but in the five minutes of overtime he was the key to Texas Tech's 78-73 victory over Rhode Island in the first round of the Rainbow Classic Basketball Tournament here Wedesday night (early today Lubbock time).

In the evening's nightcap, North Carolina presented another of its clinics in the fine art of basketball to drop young but scrappy Brigham Young 94-81.

The result is a matchup tonight in the 14th annual tournament's semifinals of Texas Tech against North Carolina at 11:10 p.m. (CST) and Providence against Stanford in the second game.

Lafayette and host Hawaii tangle at 5 p.m. and Rhode Island and Brigham Young clash at 7 in the consolation bracket.

Williams scored seven points in the extra period, including a pressure 20-footer and two free throws on the one-and-one that put Tech up by four at 71-67 with 1:55 remaining.

"I thought (forward Mike) Russell played a good game for us, but he had to work hard for everything he got," coach Gerald Myers of the Red Raiders offered, still coming down from the stretch effort that overtook the Rams. "And because it was so tough inside, we got some room outside for guys like Williams."

Williams had 22 points for the night and Russell 25. Williams was 8-for-11 from the field, had five assists and played the full 45 minutes in a rough-and-tumble game that was a test of endurance.

The loss had to be a bitter pill for Rhode Island because the Rams seemed in control with a 63-60 lead and the ball with under three minutes to go. But the Rams began to crumble when Sly Williams chose to drive to the basket after his club had stalled away a minute.

The result was a charging foul. The ball changed hands again and Phil Kydd had another chance to salt it away with 1:44 showing. But he missed the one-and-one and Tech came back with Tommy Parks driving by Rhode Island's Jiggy Williamson for a flying 10-foot jumper. Parks' free throw at the 55-second mark tied it up. The Rams jockeyed the clock down to 18 seconds, called time and Williamson was short on a rushed last shot.

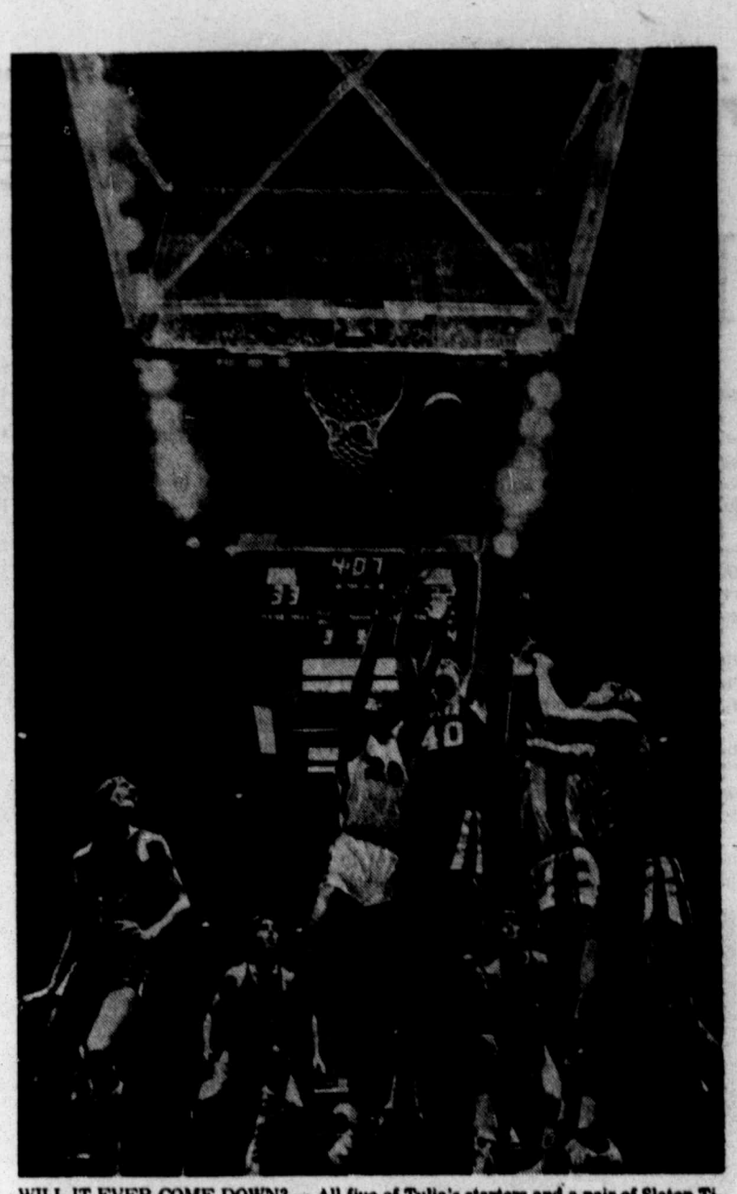

"We lost the game when we had an eight-point lead with four or five minutes to play and didn't score while they got three field goals," Rhode Island's Jack Kraft suggested. "We had gone from a five-point deficit to an eight-point lead and that should have been enough to win. But we have to give Texas Tech a lot of credit for that."

Kraft was impressed with both of the mainstays in the Red Raiders' roster.

"Williams is a fine shooter and we haven't seen a stronger man inside than Russell," he said. "That freshman,

Tech Recruiting Chances 'Good'

WITH THE 1977 season completed and the turmoil surrounding the coaching situation over, Texas Tech will now get down to the serious business of recruiting. Recruiting, of course, is a year-round task, but presently there's nothing to interfere with it between now and the Feb. 1 conference signing date.

Taylor McNeel, who coached the offensive backs the past two seasons on Steve Sloan's staff, is the interim recruiting coordinator. A permanent choice to fill this capacity has not been announced.

McNeel is having to get used to the job, but the task is easier than it might have been. As far as Tech's recruiting is concerned, Sloan's resignation came at a good time. He resigned Dec. 1, and Rex Dockery was named his replacement five days later, meaning that Tech has plenty of time to regroup and have a chance for a good recruiting year.

"The timing of the coaching change could help us," McNeel admitted Wednesday, as he shuffled through a mountain of papers containing the names of prospects. "When we came here in (January) 1975, it was tough.

"When we finally got rolling, we had less than a month before the signing date. Also, Jess (Stiles) and I were the only two guys on the staff who knew the state, where the towns were or anything. The others came from a different part of the country, and didn't know much about Texas, so it took them time to learn the geography of the state and get to know the high school coaches."

McNeel came to Tech from Ole Miss, but he had been an assistant at Baylor for eight seasons in the 1960s and early 1970s, so he had some familiarity with the situation.

ANOTHER FACTOR IN Tech's favor now is that five members of Dockery's staff, which is not yet completed, are holdovers from the previous staff, so this will help retain some continuity.

"We haven't lost any ground as far as contact with the kids goes," McNeel said. "Of course, we haven't been out on the road as much because of the coaching change and the bowl game."

In a way, the change from Sloan to Dockery is expected to help Tech in recruiting.

Sloan was constantly hampered by the countless rumors that he would not be at Tech long—that he would soon be leaving for Alabama or another school. It worried prospects because they weren't sure if Sloan would be at Tech for four years if they signed with the Raiders.

"We would certainly hope that that situation would ease now," McNeel said. "It should. Rex isn't going to move. He wants to camp here. This should absolutely be a positive factor for us.

"The rumors that surrounded Steve were unfortunate. They hurt us. We all had to fight this constantly each year. We ran into it at the very first, before we could even move our families down here, prospects were asking us about it.

"It's tough, though, to accurately measure the impact it had. You never know what triggers a particular youngster. It might be the team's record and tradition, personalities, a date, facilities, the plane ride—just a bunch of things."

TECH'S SEASON DIDN'T end on a high note. The Raiders lost three straight games to finish 7-5. Included in the three losses were a 45-7 strapping by Houston and the 40-17 loss to Florida State in the Tangerine Bowl. The losses to Arkansas (17-14) and FSU were on television, too.

However, McNeel doesn't believe that this will necessarily hurt Tech in recruiting this season.

"We believe our program is too established for us to lose kids on the basis of one or two games. One or two games don't make a whole season. If a guy lets one game make that much of a difference, he wouldn't go anywhere.

"The Arkansas game was a good game. It could have gone either way. I think any prospect who saw that game and the Florida State game could see that we didn't play up to our potential against Florida State."

Since the staff is not completed, recruiting areas have not been defined. The coaching holdovers are working the areas they had previously. Since the Raiders are likely to employ basically the same types of schemes they did under Sloan, they will go after the same types of players in recruiting that they were before.

Dimmitt Stuns Matadors 55-54

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Remember that potential matchup between those two city cage powers Estacado and Dunbar for the champeen's crown at the Caprock basketball tournament.

Forget it. That's right, chalk that one up to hindsight.

Instead, pencil the Dimmitt Bobcats on the dancecard. The Cats, not the Mats, will be boogying in the finals with the Dunbar Panthers, 79-78 winners over Iowa Park.

Maybe its not Astaire and Rogers, but its a start.

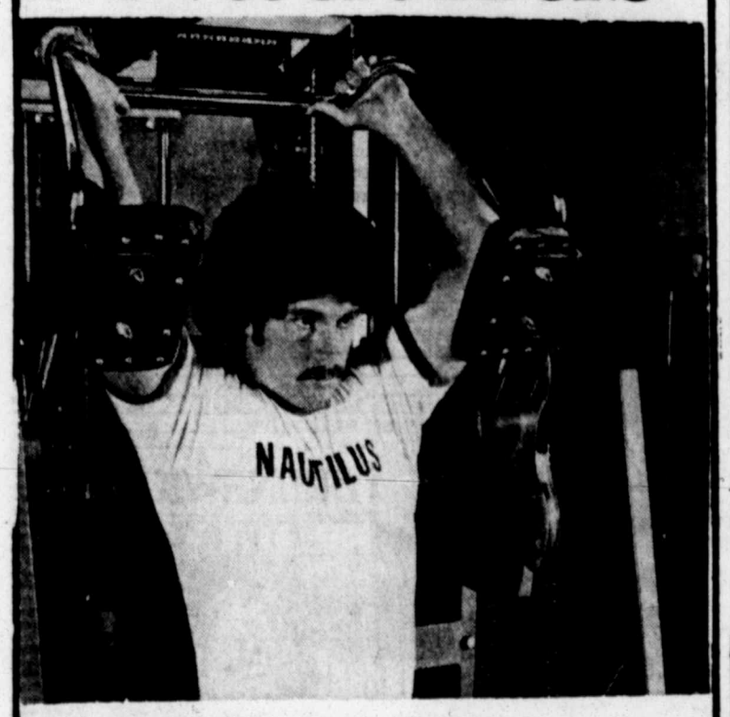

The Bobcats, taking advantage of a frigid fourth quarter which saw the once-beaten Matadors hit only five points — all from the free throw line — nipped Estacado 55-54 Wednesday night at Lubbock Coliseum.

And it didn't come easy for the Bobcats, who had to battle back from a 12-point deficit early in the fourth period.

Dimmitt's Thompson Maberry, who would probably have been voted Least Likely To Take A Last Second Shot by any of the more than 500 souls that witnessed the game, hit a driving layup with 9 seconds left to give the Cats' their mar-

An Individual Retirement Account (IRA) isn't just for the working spouse.

If you're unemployed and your working spouse is eligible for IRA, you are eligible, too.

Together you can deposit up to $1,750 annually, in tax-free, income-producing, federally-protected retirement accounts. The amount will be divided equally in two separate accounts, $875 in your account and $875 in your spouse's account.

Your IRA deposits earn 7¾% for an effective annual yield of 8.057%.

IRA was a good deal last year. This year it's even better. For everybody.

gin of victory.

Earlier, Jim Bradford, who wound up with 16 points to tie Rocky Rawls for the team's scoring lead, tied the game with 3.27 left at 49-49 when he hit a 20-foot jumper.

Bradford also hit a 16-footer with 52 second left to cut EHS lead to 54-53 after the Cats had fallen behind following charity tosses by Willie Powell and Dewey Turner.

The Mats had a last-ditch chance to win the game with 4 ticks left on the clock, but a Powell attempt from the 25-foot range failed to find its mark.

"It's a hard thing to explain," said Dunbar coach J.J. Wood, following the game. "We got cold and they got hot. They hit and we missed. That's about the only way to explain what happened out there."

Wood, who has seen the Mats win 14 games this season, believes Estacado played a "little too cautious" late in the game.

"We didn't run our offense the way it should be run, " he said. "If we had just hit one field goal in the fourth quarter we would have won."

Wood also referred to what he called "the Caprock jinx".

"We've never reached the finals here in the past and we won't do it this year, either."

Dunbar held off a late Iowa Park rally to advance to the finals. Trailing by 10 points early in the fourth quarter, the Hawks used the scoring of Anthony York, who ended the night with 26 points, to catch the Panthers.

DHS countered with Billy Don Hardaway's 27 points to defeat Iowa Park, one of the surprise teams in the tourney. Dwight Brown, Wayne Williams and Greg Whitfield followed for DHS with 18, 16 and 13 points respectively.

In other Large School action at Lubbock Coliseum, Coronado whipped Lubbock High in overtime 63-62 and Monterey thwarted Morton 46-39.

Today's action pits Monterey against Coronado at 2 p.m. for consolation, Estacado against Iowa Park at 6 p.m. for third place and Dimmitt against Dunbar at 9 p.m. for the championship.

Dimmitt coach Ken Cleveland, who admitts openly the 'Cats fortunes at the tournament sponsored by the Caprock ABC club is "a little surprising," felt his team was fortunate to beat the Matadors.

Talking about the Mats' cold fourth quarter, Cleveland said, "That kind of thing happens to the best of teams. We battle back, though, and never gave up. That helped, too."

Leading the Mats were Alvin Harris with 14 points and Powell with 13 points.

Monterey used the 14-point performance of David Davidson to whip Morton 46-39 and push the Indians out of the tournament.

The Plainsmen, who never relinguished the lead after jumping out to a 14-8 margin in the first quarter, also relied heavily on Tony Hamby's 11 points to move into the consolation game with Coronado.

Leading the Indians was Rusty Lamar with 14 points.

Mike Higgins hit a field goal and Jim Wells bucketed a free shot during the overtime period to lift the Coronado Mustangs over Lubbock High.

During the overtime the Westerners were outscored by CHS 3-2. Hitting the lone bucket for LHS was James Williams.

Craig Mitchell canned 27 points for the Westerners, while Jay Norton led CHS with 15 points.

Tar Heels, Raiders Square Off Tonight

(Ralph) Brewster, caused us a lot of trouble, too."

Neither coach was completely satisfied with the total evening, but Myers was happy enough to move on to the semis.

"We were patient in the first half; you have to be with a lot of young kids in there," he said. "We passed two or three times before taking a shot."

Part of the raggedy-ann nature of the contest, though, had to rest with the officiating and especially the mystical performance by visiting Bob Korta of the WAC. He and Hawaii's Fuzzy Richards let the boards go somewhat in the model of the NBA, but it wasn't that part of it that was mystical.

The real gems were Korta's miss of an errant cripple shot by Rhode Island's Percy Davis that resulted in his still giving the Rams the ball out of bounds and his call of a time out with 52 seconds left in the game with no one in possession of the ball.

But that part of it was far overshadowed by the fine matchups between two teams loaded with individual talent and enough depth to make it interesting even when there was foul trouble.

One of the biggest matchups was between the Rams' Williams and Tech's Russell. They jockeyed for position and points for the 45 minutes and weren't that far apart at the close.

Defensively, Kraft showed an ever-changing number of looks, centered on his "ball defense" concept of both zones and man-to-man, while Myers used a collapsing man-to-man in an attempt to equalize Rhode Island's strong inside threat.

Russell's 25 points came on a 10-for-15 night from the field, 5-of-5 from the fline and six rebounds for good measure. Williams had 17 points and 11 rebounds for Rhode Island.

Ford, O'Koren Lead Tar Heels

HONOLULU (AP) — It'll be tournament favorite North Carolina against Texas Tech and Providence against Stanford in semifinals action tonight in the 14th annual Rainbow Classic basketball tournamsnt.

The second-ranked Tar Heels defeated a stubborn Brigham Young crew 94-81 Wednesday behind the shooting of All-American guard Phil Ford and Sophomore forward Mike O'Koren, who combined for 56 points.

Afterwards, Tar Heel head coach Dean Smith called BYU a "scrappy, young team. You can't expect to blow a team like BYU away in the first half."

Smith also said he didn't expect the Cougars' junior forward Keith Rice to "be that good." Rice matched Ford's 31 points to share high scoring honors for the game.

Not surprising. The Savin 770 plain paper copier is the most reliable machine on the market. It's practically jam proof. That's because of our simple paper path. Our copies move a mere twelve inches from beginning to end. In some Xerox machines a copy is forced to twist and turn over four feet, very often ending up in the middle.

Our copies are always clear, clean and needle sharp, whether you copy on one side or two. That's because the Savin 770 has a mind. An electronic brain makes whatever adjustments are necessary to give perfect copies every time.

1977 Unusual Year In TV Sports Business

By HOWARD SMITH

NEW YORK (AP) — With the new year fast approaching, it is time to pause, turn down the volume, give the eyes a rest and consider the year about to end.

It was an unusual year in the television sports business. TV and sports expanded their uneasy alliance with big contracts and more programming. Made-for-TV events blossomed with the promise of more to come. Football, boxing and the National Basketball Association prospered. Baseball and college basketball slumped a bit and hockey was out of the picture.

Analysis

There were scandals, ABC's ill-fated U.S. Boxing Championships and CBS's "winner-take-all" tennis the most notable. ABC continued its reign as the top sports network, NBC made some strides and CBS trailed.

Shakeups resulted in new sports leadership at both NBC and CBS. NBC was the surprise winner in bidding for the 1980 Moscow Olympics, paying about $85 million. The NCAA got a four-year contract for a whopping $118 million from ABC for college football games. And the National Football League extracted about $656 million from the three networks in a four-year deal that will insure more pro football on the tube than ever.

Super Bowl XI was easily the top-rated sports show of the year, earning a 44.4 rating, meaning 44.4 percent of homes in the nation were tuned in.

The rest of the top ten included the Ali-Shavers fight, NBC, 37.3 rating; World Series Game 6, ABC, 33.9; World Series Game 2, ABC, 30.5; World Series Game 1, ABC, 30.3; World Series Game 3, ABC, 30.2; World Series Game 4, ABC, 27.2; Rose Bowl, NBC, 26.9; World Series Game 5, ABC, 26.6; American League Playoff Game 5, NBC, 25.2.

Some of the ups and many of the downs have gone unrewarded throughout the year. Herewith a series of awards in an attempt to put things right:

MAN OF THE YEAR: Lothar P. Bock, an unheralded West German TV producer, parlayed a friendship with the Soviet Union and a knack for being in the right place at the right time into more than $10 million worth of fees and revenues directly resulting from his work on the Olympic contract in behalf of NBC.

BEST COMMENTATOR: Billy Packer, NBC's college basketball expert, knows his stuff and presents the information well. He is the best in the business. Packer should be required watching for all basketball fans. Absolutely tops.

WORST COMMENTATOR: A crowded field, but CBS's NFL commentator Alex Hawkins gets the nod. Hawkins mixes country corn and cliches with misinformation and offers virtually no insights.

BEST COVERAGE OF A MAJOR EVENT: NBC's work on the baseball playoffs was extraordinary, particularly in the area of camerawork and replays.

DUMBEST EVENT: The World's Strongest Man competition on CBS's "Sports Spectacular." This affair included events like the girl lift, the tram pull and the refrigerator race, the latter doubtless inspired by the actions of some New Yorkers during last summer's blackout.

BEST CONTINUING SERIES: ABC's College Football.

WORST CONTINUING SERIES: NFL's punt, pass kick competition, a seemingly endless exercise the NFL annually foists upon the viewing audience.

BEST PERFORMANCE BY A ROBOT: NBC's football forcaster Statz. Runner-up: CBS's Jimmy The Greek.

BRIEFEST PRIME TIME APPEARANCE: Duane Bobick, who was knocked out by Ken Norton just 58 seconds into the first round, thereby leaving NBC with a lot of time to fill which it did by alternating replays and commercials.

MOST MEMORABLE MOMENT: Linda Ronstadt signing The National Anthem in dungarees and a Dodgers jacket before Game 3 of the World Series. Runner-up: Howard Cosell getting his hairpiece knocked askew by irate heavyweight Scott LeDoux.

BEST USE OF FILMED HIGHLIGHTS: "This Week in Baseball," a marvelous show no one watched.

TAINTED TROPHY AWARD: To CBS, Trans World International and the Downtown Athletic Club for conspiring to turn the respected Heisman Trophy into an excuse for another inane variety show.

BAD TASTE AWARD: CBS again, this time for its memorable "Evel Knievel's Death Defiers."

SPECIAL CITATIONS: Lindsey Nelson's sports coats; Merlin Olsen's voice; Frank Gifford's patience; Don King's hair; Brent Musburger's talent; Al McGuire's quotes; Larry Merchant's honesty; John Madden's profile, and Pat Summerall's low-key approach.

Cards, UN-LV, Terps Enjoy Own Meets

By The Associated Press

Louisville, Nevada-Las Vegas and Maryland are finding that home is the friendliest place to spend the holidays.

While other college basketball teams travel to places like Florida, the West Coast or Hawaii to play in holiday tournaments, those three nationally ranked schools are hosting their own festivals — and not treating their guests too kindly. All three posted first-round victories Wednesday night.

The seventh-ranked Louisville Cardinals, behind 29 points by Darrell Griffith and 23 by Rick Wilson, overpowered LaSalle 113-85 in a first-round game of the Louisville Holiday Classic.

Louisville will meet Georgia in the finals. Georgia beat Ohio State 84-80 in overtime as Lavon Mercer scored 29 points, including 16 in the second half and four in the extra period.

Ninth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas beat Gonzaga 91-68 in the first round of the Las Vegas Holiday Classic as Earl Evans scored 24 points and pulled down nine rebounds. In the other first-round game, Matt Maderos scored 17 points to help UC-Santa Barbara beat Seattle 58-55.

Maryland, rated No. 14, went on a 21-6 tear to start the second half and defeated Western Kentucky 91-78 in the first round of the Maryland Invitational tournament. Freshman Albert King scored eight points in the decisive burst for the Terps and Bill Bryant had six. Both finished with 19.

In the final, Maryland will meet Georgia Tech, which beat St. John's, N.Y. 73-67 as Tico Brown scored 12 of his 20 points in the final 6½ minutes.

In other games involving Top Twenty teams, No. 15 Indiana beat Florida 73-60 to win the championship of the Gator Bowl tournament; No. 17 Kansas routed Missouri 96-49 in a first-round game of the Big Eight tournament, and No. 19 San Francisco topped Austin Peay 75-66 in the first round of the All-College tourney at Oklahoma City.

LaSalle Coach Paul Westhead was very impressed by Louisville.

"Louisville just exploded like out of a rocket," he said. "They jumped over the tops of people. You just try to contain them. I thought for 30 to 32 minutes, we did a good job; we just couldn't do it for 40 minutes.

"If Louisville has a weakness, they miss too many dunks." The Cardinals missed three of six dunk attempts Wednesday night.

Louisville Coach Denny Crum praised Griffith, saying, "He shot the ball extremely well. He worked hard. He did a good job rebounding and playing defense. It was his best game this year."

Nevada-Las Vegas, 12-0, had no trouble posting its 70th straight home-court victory, moving out to a 43-22 halftime lead and then coasting home. Paul Cathey scored 18 points and pulled down a tournament record 28 rebounds for Gonzaga.

Maryland impressed Western Kentucky Coach Jim Richards with its burst after halftime. "Maryland was an awesome team at the start of the second half," said Richards. "They certainly are an explosive outfit."

This is the seventh time Maryland is hosting a tournament. The Terps have won five of the previous six; their only loss was by six points to UCLA, which went on to win the national title in 1975.

Wayne Radford scored 21 points and Wayne Radford added 16 as the Indiana Hoosiers beat Florida in a tense defensive battle for the Gator Bowl title. Indiana is now 8-1, Florida 7-2.

Greg Sanders scored 31 points to help St. Bonaventure to an easy 103-75 victory over Jacksonville in the consolation game.

Kansas beat Missouri by the widest margin in the 70-year history of their rivalry as Darnell Valentine led a balanced attack with 20 points. Kansas led 52-24 at the half and by as many as 50 points in the late stages.

Oklahoma center Al Beal scored seven points in overtime in the first game of the night to lead Oklahoma past Iowa State 74-69.

San Francisco, getting a lift with the return of 7-foot center Bill Cartwright to full-time duty, wore down Austin Peay in the second half of their All-College matchup. Cartwright, who suffered a broken wrist in preseason, scored 20 points.

In another first-round game, Archie Aldrich scored 24 points to carry Miami, Ohio, past Texas A&M 79-68.

In perhaps the most dramatic performance of the night, Billy Harrington came off the bench with four seconds remaining for his first appearance of the game and hit a 30-footer at the buzzer to give William & Mary a 61-60 victory over Stetson in the first round of the Tangerine Bowl tournament. Rollins defeated Bowling Green 76-73 in the other first-round game.

In two other tournament finals, Jim Bailey scored 26 points to lead Rutgers over Seton Hall 92-78 in the championship game of the New Jersey Classic, and Colgate edged CCNY 58-50 to win the Cornell Classic.

In other tournaments, South Alabama trounced Bucknell 94-68 and Pepperdine trimmed Middle Tennessee State 68-61 in the first round of the Senior Bowl; Colorado State beat Oregon 61-50 and Washington State defeated Illinois 82-75 in the first round of the Far West Classic.

Cowins Raps 'Rash' Decision By Holtz

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — University of Arkansas runningback Ben Cowins, who ranks No. 2 in rushing yards in the Southwest Conference, says his football career will be irreparably damaged if he doesn't play in the Orange Bowl Monday night.

Cowins, runningback Micheal Forrest and flanker Donny Bobo were excluded from the game by Coach Lou Holtz following an incident Dec. 20 that Cowins said involved a partially-clad young woman in an athletic dormitory.

Each of the three players has one year of eligibility left.

"Everything we have built up in the past three years has been torn down in what, in my opinion, was a rash judgement by Holtz," Cowins testified Wednesday in U.S. District Judge Terry L. Shell's court. "All that's left now is for us to salvage what's left."

Attorney John W. Walker, representing the three standouts, filed suit asking the court to order Holtz and other university officials to allow the three to participate in the Orange Bowl.

Cowins is expected to testify further today, the second day of the hearing.

"A lot of us don't have a lot of smarts," Cowins said, clutching and unclutching a rolled sheet of paper. "We can't make it as big time lawyers. This thing could keep us out of the (pro) draft."

When asked by Walker if his testimony indicated he would be "injured irreparably" by not playing in the Orange Bowl, Cowins said, "Yes."

"We feel something is wrong by us not being in the Orange Bowl. I don't think the team can really come together."

Walker maintained that Holtz chose to suspend the three "despite the fact" that they had not been charged with a crime and had not violated any rule Holtz had made known to the players.

"We spent a lot of time gaining respect from the team and Arkansas. We don't want to have them believing something that is basically untrue," Cowins said.

He said the three voluntarily gave an account of the dorm incident to Holtz Dec. 20, the night before the suspensions were announced.

The three went to freshman runningback Trent Bryant's room to "have a discussion with a certain person in the room. It didn't work out, so we left," Cowins said.

"We told Holtz that an incident took place that was completely under control and everybody knew what was going on. I told him basically that about 10 people were in the room and some of the girl's clothes were removed, and there was an indication of play. It was just a playful act."

Cowins said that Holtz "walked to a table, sat down, put his hands over his face and peered down. We knew something was wrong.

"He said we violated the 'do-right' rule. . . . That's 'always do right,' I guess."

"Holtz said that breaking the do-right rule had a negative effect on the freshman players."

Cowins said the woman involved in the incident had suggested to Holtz that the whole matter be dropped and Holtz should let the three play in the game at Miami. The woman was not identified.

Cowins said Holtz later told the rest of the team about "what had happened." Cowins said the three standouts were not present at the meeting.

Cowins said the feedback he later received from teammates led him to believe "they were told something different by Holtz than what had actually happened." He said he confronted Holtz with that opinion, but the coach gave "no response."

Holtz is in Miami with the team preparing for the Monday game.

Under questioning from deputy Attorney General Frank Newell, Cowins said he guessed about 10 people were in the room at the time of the incident. He said he could not remember everyone's name that was in the room.

When Newell asked Cowins to identify any persons he could recall from the dorm room incident, Walker asked the judge to call the lawyers from both sides to the bench.

After a brief exchange, Shell called a recess until today's resumption of the hearing.

In opening arguments, Ellen Brantley of the state attorney general's office told the court that a coach has only certain measures of discipline and that if the court second-guessed Holtz's decision it would "harm discipline on the team."

She also said that maintenance of discipline is one of the things considered by parents when they are choosing a school for their child.

Walker said in his opening arguments that Holtz's decision was not based on a written rule and that rules must be reasonably ascertainable and not as "nebulous as doing right on the football team."

Cowins has tallied 1,192 yards rushing this year and scored 14 touchdowns. He is second in SWC rushing to Heismann Trophy winner Earl Cambell of the Texas Longhorns.

Bobo is the team's leading receiver with 22 catches this season. Forrest, not a regular starter, has been out of action much of the season with a bad ankle.

Brantley told the court that she had found no case in her research to indicate that a coach's decision to exclude individual players from a game consitutued a deprivation of consitutional rights.

Walker filed suit Tuesday seeking a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction to force Holtz to allow the three standouts to join the team for the game.

Walker charged in the suit that the suspensions were "based on a personal whim of defendant Lou Holtz, which may be based on racial considerations." All three suspended players are black.

HIGHLIGHTS

GENERAL
NEWTON, Ill. — David-Furr, a freshman at the University of Evansville, and his brother Byron, were killed in a car crash while returning from a high school basketball tournament. Furr, 18, was an Evansville basketball player, but had been redshirted by Coach Bobby Watson before the season because of an ankle injury. He was not eligible for the 1977-78 season, and thus was not aboard the ill-fated charter when all 14 members of the Indiana team were killed in the Dec. 13 crash.

ORTHEZ, France — Dave Russell, one of Europe's top professional basketball players and a three-time All-West Virginia Conference star at Shepherd College, was killed in an auto accident. Police said the 24-year-old Russell was killed instantly when the car he was driving left the road and went into a ditch.

GOLF
MONTEREY, Calif. — Rod Funseth made a strong bid to become the first two-time winner of the annual $90,000 Monterey golf tournament by firing a 4-under-par 67 at the Rancho Canada-East course. Funseth, who won this pre-PGA tour event three years ago, had four birdies and no bogeys on the par-71 course to make his leading 36-hole total 133, two strokes ahead of George Cadle.

BOXING
INDIANAPOLIS — A United States boxing team, coached by Vic Zimet of New York City, will make a four-nation tour of Northern Europe in January, the Amateur Athletic Union announced. The American team, which has not yet been chosen, will compete in Sweden on Jan. 6, Denmark Jan. 9-11, West Germany Jan. 16 and Norway Jan. 18. On a similar tour last year, the American boxers won 40 of 48 bouts.

TRACK
INDIANAPOLIS — The U.S. Amateur Athletic Union named Heliodoro Rico, Croton-on-Hudson, N.Y., as meet director for the AAU national indoor track and field championships at New York's Madison Square Garden next Feb. 24. He replaces longtime meet director Dan Ferris, who died last year. Rico, an attorney with the New York State Labor Department, has been a member of the AAU track rules committee for the last 15 years.

HORSE RACING

CORNWELL HEIGHTS, Pa. — Happy Memory, $8.40, posted a 2½-length victory over Knock Out Punch in the feature race at Keystone.

LAUREL, Md. — Dancing Laura, $3.80, led every step of the way to overcome a field of six 2-year-old fillies and capture the High Voltage Purse at Laurel.

CHICAGO — Solid Mix, $8.60, finished 1¾-lengths ahead of Slim T. in the featured $4,400 Big H. Purse at Sportsman's Park.

ARCADIA, Calif. — Misrepresentation, $4.20, scored a five-length victory in the $84,000 California Breeders' Champion Stakes at Santa Anita.

MIAMI — Amber Amethyst, $6.50, closed fast on the rail to defeat Hope Beech in the feature race at Calder Race Course.

Bulls Tumble–But What's The Sport?

By The Associated Press

Chicago Bulls Coach Ed Badger wasn't sure what sport he was watching.

"I thought we we're playing the Eagles," said Badger, referring to Philadelphia's football team. Actually it was the city's basketball team, the 76ers, who were pounding out a 129-125 overtime victory over Badger's Bulls Wednesday night.

"The wide tackles were trying to fake us out and it seemed like the linebackers were coming in on us," continued Badger following the hard-fought game. "I thought they could have been called for piling on."

George McGinnis, the Sixers' rugged forward, was the hero for the home team with a season-high 37 points. He scored on a dunk with 43 seconds left in overtime to snap a 125-125 tie, then was fouled by Chicago's Mickey Johnson with one second left and hit two free throws to end the scoring.

In other National Basketball Association games, the Portland Trail Blazers defeated the Detroit Pistons 111-106, the Washington Bullets beat the Buffalo Braves 106-87, the Atlanta Hawks trimmed the Indiana Pacers 99-92 and the Denver Nuggets topped the Golden State Warriors 130-108.

The 76ers led by as many 14 until late in the third period when Chicago scored 11 in a row to climb into contention. Chicago led 118-116 with 48 seconds left to play in regulation, but Julius Erving, who scored 23 points, sank an 18-foot jumper to send the game into overtime.

Philadelphia's defense kept the Bulls from scoring a field goal in the extra period, but the Bulls were able to stay close on free throws until McGinnis put the game away in the final minute.

"Everybody thinks Portland is the top team in the league," said McGinnis, "but I think Chicago is as good as any team. Chicago is a tough team coming down the stretch, a great, unselfish ball club."

Sixers Coach Billy Cunningham agreed.

"The three games we've played against Chicago (Philadelphia lost the first two) were nip and tuck and they all went down to the last minute. We were fortunate to dig this one out."

Blazers 111, Pistons 106

Lionel Hollins scored seven of his 17 points in the final two minutes to lead Portland to a come-from-behind victory. Lloyd Neal, filling in for the injured Bill Walton, scored 31 points for Portland. Walton sat out the game with a bruised knee suffered Tuesday night in Chicago when he slipped on an exposed ice surface at the arena.

"This was a great win for us," said Portland Coach Jack Ramsay, whose team committed just two turnovers in the second half. "This was the win of the season because we did it without Bill."

Bullets 106, Braves 87

Buffalo lost its fourth in a row as reserve guards Kevin Grevey and Larry Wright combined for 15 points in a five-minute spree during the fourth quarter that helped Washington pull away. Elvin Hayes led the Bullets, who won their third in a row and lead Cleveland by 1½ games in the Central Division, with 18 points, 12 rebounds, four assists and two blocked shots.

Hawks 99, Pacers 92

Center Steve Hawes scored 23 points Wednesday night and Atlanta outscored Indiana 13-6 at the end to win.

"We played very bad tonight," said Pacers Coach Bobby Leonard. "Some guys labored. We couldn't get anything going. We were lucky to be as close as we were. We played flat. We were poor on the boards. It was just one of those games you can expect in a season."

Nuggets 130, Warriors 108

Denver moved one game ahead of Chicago in the Midwest Division race, beating Golden State behind a balanced attack led by David Thompson's 29 points. Denver, which has won 15 of 16 games at home, jumped to a 42-29 lead in the first period and led by as many as 24 in the second quarter.

Shearer Says UT's Schedule Tougher

DALLAS (AP) — Outland Trophy winner Brad Shearer says he's aware the national title is on the line in the Cotton Bowl but the thought of Texas losing to Notre Dame never occurred to him.

"No, I haven't thought about losing," the Longhorn defensive tackle says. "I think if we go out there and take care of our business we'll win the football game.

"We'll be national champions and we won't have to argue with anybody about it."

The top-ranked Steers meet the Fighting Irish in the Jan. 2 classic and Shearer, an All-America selection, was almost flippant as he discussed the contest during a telephone news conference Wednesday.

"You're obviously not awed by Notre Dame," a writer observed.

"Well," Shearer replied, "We've had more time to prepare for Notre Dame . . . I think the intensity is there. I think we're all looking forward to a good game.

"I haven't been in awe of anybody we've played but I don't think that means I haven't any respect for them. I know it's going to be an enthusiastic game because the stakes are high.

"Notre Dame's always playing for the national championship. They're not playing for any kind of a conference championship or anything."

Shearer contends the unbeaten Longhorns played a tougher schedule than the once-beaten, fifth-ranked Irish and deserve their lofty status in the national poll.

"I think we've definitely played better teams this year than Notre Dame did. We played three teams in the Top Ten," he pointed out. Texas shot down both Orange Bowl foes, No. 2 Oklahoma and No. 6 Arkansas.

"Notre Dame played only USC, and I think Clemson may have been in the Top Twenty, and they gave them a good game," he added.

Shearer did concede that the Longhorns benefitted from a schedule break, explaining: "Our first three games weren't too tough. We had a chance to pull all our troops together and see what we had. But we did have a tougher schedule than Notre Dame, which doesn't mean a damn thing when you come down to Jan. 2."

Teammate Earl Campbell, the Heisman Trophy winner, refused to speculate on the esoteric sidelights of Monday's clash. He put it this way:

"What I've seen so far, they're going to be real tough . . . When Jan. 2 comes, the Texas Longhorns are going to be out there . . . doing their very, very best. Whatever takes place, we're going to have to live with it.

"Either way."

PLATE PLACED

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A metal plate has been placed in the broken right arm of Pittsburgh Pirates pitcher Jim Rooker. Rooker, a veteran lefthander, suffered the injury in an October auto accident. Doctors who performed the operation said the plate should speed up the healing process, probably enabling Rooker to play by the opening of next season.

BLAIR DIES

TORONTO (AP) — Andy Blair, a former center for the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs, died in Seattle at the age of 70. Blair, who played on a line with Toronto stars Ace Bailey and Baldy Cotton, played nine years with the Leafs, including the Stanley Cup champion team of 1932. He also played with Chicago for a season. Blair died of a heart attack while playing cards with his son.

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Stock Mart Suffers Small Loss

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market showed a small loss today, steadying after an early drop that followed President Carter's nomination of a new chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off more than 4 points in early trading, cut its loss to 1.22 at 828.48 by noontime.

Losers outnumbered gainers by a 3-2 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

After the NYSE close on Wednesday the White House announced the surprise choice of G. William Miller, a Rhode Island business executive, to succeed Arthur Burns as chairman of the Fed.

A number of top executives and bankers said they believed Miller was an excellent choice for the job. But analysts also pointed out that he was largely an unknown quantity to investors.

"I think Wall Street will take a wait-and-see attitude," said Larry Wachtel at Bache Halsey Stuart Shields. "Nobody quite has a handle on his philosophy."

Louisiana Land Exploration was the most active NYSE issue, up ¼ at 22½. A 100,000-share block traded at that price.

The Big Board's composite index edged up .01 to 52.32. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .16 at 126.59.

Volume on the NYSE was a moderate 9.52 million shares as of noontime, against 8.01 million at the same point on Wednesday.

New Record Reported

DETROIT (AP) — Car and truck production in North America set the expected record this year, a trade publication reported Thursday.

U.S. production missed being a record by a narrow margin, according to the report in Ward's Automotive Reports.

Vehicle production in U.S. and Canadian plants totaled 14,419,539, 1 percent above 1973's record 14.2 million and 10 percent above the 13,136,809 produced in 1976.

U.S. production alone was 12,651,532 against the 1973 record of 12,662,919. Truck production was a record 3,443,055, 15 percent above the record 3,002,098 turned out in 1973.

Car production of 9,208,477 units was the third best ever, 4.7 percent under the 1973 record of 9,660,821, 1.3 percent under the 9.3 million of second-best 1965, but 8.4 percent above the 8,492,473 produced in 1976.

General Motors Corp. produced 57 percent of 1977's total against 57.9 percent last year. Ford Motor Co. increased its share from 24 percent to 27.7 percent, largely at the expense of American Motors Corp, down to 1.7 percent from 2.5 percent, and Chrysler Corp., down from 15.6 percent to 13.6 percent.

Aggies

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas A&M Coach Emory Bellard figures there's always a mystery to preparing for bowl games but the Aggies had the right formula a year ago.

"Bowl preparations are always in limbo," Bellard said Wednesday as the Aggies arrived to begin final preparations for their New Year's Eve meeting in the Astrodome against Southern California.

"You never know exactly what to expect," said Bellard, who has the Aggies in a bowl for the third straight year. "But we've been having good workouts so I hope we are prepared to play Southern Cal."

Whatever formula the Aggies used a year ago worked. They blistered explosive Florida 37-14 in the Sun Bowl to complete a 10-2 season. Things didn't work out as well two years ago, however, when the Trojans whipped the Aggies 20-0 in the Liberty Bowl.

"It's always been an interesting thing to me how teams come right up to their peak at kick-off time for a bowl," said USC's John Robinson, who did something right in getting his Trojans ready to upset Michigan in the 1976 Rose Bowl.

"I don't think anybody really knows the secret," Robinson said. "I know we're going to slack off on these guys the last two days. We've worked out twice in 15 hours since arriving and we have our rhythm back."

Both teams were scheduled to work out today in the Astrodome in their next-to-last drill prior to Saturday night's kickoff before a sellout crowd of at least 54,000.

"We'll follow the same bowl preparation format that we did last year," Bellard said. "In 1975, we played the early (bowl) game. We were taking final exams while we were getting ready to play and we didn't have the players' full attention."

Both teams closed out the regular season with impressive victories. USC came from behind in the final two seconds with a 38-yard field goal by Frank Jordan to beat arch-rival UCLA 29-27 and the Aggies whipped defending Southwest Conference co-champion Houston 27-7.

The most impressive aspect of A&M's victory over Houston was the off-the-bench performance of freshman quarterback Mike Moseley, who will start against the Trojans. Moseley replaced senior starter David Walker, still suffering from a chest injury.

Bellard said his decision to start a freshman quarterback against the Trojans was simple.

"If David Walker was full speed he'd start the game," Bellard said. "Not because he deserved it but because he earned it. But if you can't practice full speed, it's hard to get your timing."

Moseley, a 9.4 sprinter and former schoolboy state hurdles champion, will pose more of an outside threat than Walker.

Cowboys

DALLAS (AP) — So you think the Dallas Cowboys should be favored in their National Conference title game with Minnesota because they are playing on home turf at Texas Stadium.

Don't rush out and bet your lunch money on it even though the oddsmakers have installed the Cowboys as 11-point favorites for Sunday's game that decides the NFC entry into Super Bowl XII in New Orleans.

Fact: Minnesota has NEVER lost in Texas Stadium.

The Vikings ripped Dallas 27-10 in the 1973 NFC title game, trimmed the Cowboys 23-21 in the 1974 regular season and took a 16-13 preseason decision in 1975.

So much for the home field jinx.

"We might have a little edge because the Vikings have to travel but the home field advantage is greatly exaggerated unless you are playing in a wild place like Denver," said Cowboy Coach Tom Landry.

He added, "I'd call it a tossup ball game."

Dallas traditionally has played well in Texas Stadium and some members of the Chicago Bears, who were butchered 37-7 last week, spoke in awe of the stadium with a hole in the top.

"It (the stadium) can be distracting," admitted Chicago defensive back Doug Plank. "It's that Texas image I guess — the biggest and the best. They've got the team and they've got those Cowgirls (cheerleaders) on the sidelines . . . if you aren't careful you kinda stand back and watch it all in awe."

Obviously, there's no awe in the Vikings.

The Vikings and Cowboys have represented the NFC in seven of the last eight Super Bowls.

"It's been a great rivalry," says Viking Coach Bud Grant. "We've played in a lot of crucial games. We have a lot of respect for Dallas and we feel they have a lot of respect for us. We certainly aren't in awe of them."

Dallas has won two of three playoff games from the Vikings in 1971 and 1975 while Minnesota took the 1973 NFC title game.

"I think both teams appreciate the other," said Grant.

The Vikings, who have been losers in four Super Bowl games, are described as a team long in tooth.

"The hungriest players in this business are the oldest . . . they have a better appreciation of what playoff games are worth . . . you never have to worry about them," says Grant.

Dallas beat Minnesota 16-10 in overtime in the regular-season opener.

MHS Gains West Texas Meet Semifinals

SLATON (Special) — Margaret Grennell scored 40 points as Monterey rallied in the fourth quarter to defeat Post 60-49 in a quarter-final match Wednesday at the West Texas girls basketball tourney.

The Plainsmen advance to the semifinals Friday night against defending Class B state champ, Nazareth, a 56-27 winner over Abernathy in their quarter-final bout.

Cheryl Hartman sparked Nazareth's win with 40 points while Linda Atkinson led Abernathy with 9.

In the other semifinal, Slaton will meet Stanton Friday at 7 p.m. Stanton defeated Abilene Wylie 38-35 in overtime while Slaton downed Idalou 59-30 in quarter-final matches.

Loretta Young led Stanton with 22 while LeAnn Wester paced Wylie with 17. Cindy Robinson guided Slaton's win with 26 points while Janet Williams led Idalou with 14.

In the consolation bracket, Rotan beat Lubbock Christian 55-39, Cooper beat Greenwood 48-31, Tulia topped Tahoka 64-56 and Frenship defeated McCamey 50-49.

Ginger Duke and Charri Smith scored 22 points each for Rotan while Lynn Blackmon hit 18 for LCHS. Martha Branley paced Cooper's win with 24 and Genni Anderson topped Greenwood scorers with 16. Rhonda Hale of Tulia collected 46 points in the win over Tahoka while Sylvia Salinas paced the losers with 27. McCamey's Tonya Ivie scored 34 points in the losing cause while Frend Frenship forward Lisa Steward had 19.

Kloppenburg Keeps Secret

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Bob Kloppenburg may be the best kept secret in the San Diego sports world. He's a winning coach at a little-known university with a basketball team that doesn't know what it means to have a home-court advantage.

Kloppenburg is head coach for U.S. International University's basketball team. And in his 20th year with the Westerners, he's compiled an impressive 322-147 record, coming up a winner in 17 of his 19 seasons.

If he were doing that at Kentucky, Notre Dame or North Carolina, Kloppenburg might be a household word.

Twelve times his teams have gained National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics regional berths.

'Scribe Devises Hollywood Ending For Super Bowl; Morton Hero

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

If Hollywood was writing the script, the Dallas Cowboys and Denver Broncos would win Sunday's conference crowns in the National Football League and turn Super Bowl XII into the "Saga of the Quarterback Nobody Wanted."

To give the story the proper dramatic ending, the championship game would develop into a fierce duel featuring rival quarterbacks Roger Staubach of the Cowboys and Craig Morton of the Broncos and end with Morton throwing a last-gasp touchdown pass for the victory.

Then, with the eyes of 60 million TV viewers upon him, he would bask in the spotlights of New Orleans' Superdome — the old, oft-rejected retread who wouldn't die.

That's the way any screenwriter worth his salt would do it. Unfortunately Dallas has a way of fashioning its own scenarios, and they aren't always so poignant or sentimental. In a word, they are devastating.

Yet no one can deny that there has been a certain ethereal quality about Morton's resurrection this year and the inexplicable surge of a Denver team that had been a doormat for 17 years, never before making the playoffs.

It is as if some unseen force has been leading Morton and his orange-shirted nobodies to a rendezvous with the unbelievable.

Morton, out of the University of California, was a member of one of college football's most illustrious classes — the class of '65. The group included Heisman Trophy winner John Huarte of Notre Dame, Joe Namath, Gale Sayers, Dick Butkus, Tucker Frederickson and a scrambling quarterback from the U.S. Naval Academy named Roger Staubach.

It was at this point that Morton experienced his first, belly-stabbing taste of slight. The College All-Stars, playing the NFL's Cleveland Browns in Chicago, voted Staubach their captain. "A natural leader," they said.

Morton had been the No.1 draft choice of the Cowboys. Dallas also had chosen Staubach in the 10th round as a "future" pick since Roger had a four-year commitment to the Navy.

In his first four years at Dallas, Morton wore the seat of his trousers thin sitting on the bench. The Cowboys' No.1 quarterback was Don Meredith, a home-town hero from Southern Methodist.

In the summer of 1969, Meredith, at age 31, decided he'd had his fill of football and unceremoniously quit.

The decision coincided with the end of Staubach's naval duty — and so Jolly Roger, as a 27-year-old rookie, moved onto a collision course with Morton, the frustrated stand-in, in the bid for Meredith's vacated job.

Morton got the nod. He was the No.1 field general in 1969 and 1970, Staubach filling in only when Craig suffered an injured finger in the 1969 exhibition season and after an arm operation early in 1970.

In 1970, the sore-winged Morton led the Cowboys to an 11-2-1 regular-season record and into the Super Bowl, where the team lost to Baltimore 16-13. Staubach never got in the game.

In 1971, Landry rotated the two quarterbacks through the first half of the season. The team floundered. Squad members were divided. Fans became restive, booing Morton regularly. Then Landry made the firm decision — Staubach was his quarterback.

It was a spirit-puncturing blow to Morton. Staubach proceeded to lead the Cowboys through the last seven games without a defeat and, as the game's Most Valuable Player, to a 24-3 victory over the Miami Dolphins in the Super Bowl.

Morton again was doomed to a spear-carrying role and complete frustration. He remained a bench-warmer with the Cowboys until mid-1974 when he was peddled to the New York Giants, there to be pilloried by the press and public.

His career appeared headed for the dump heap when suddenly this year the Giants shoved him off on the Broncos. For Morton it was like falling in a bed of roses.

The Broncos named him captain. Fans adored him. At age 34, he found new life and new spirit, leading the Broncos to the best record in the league. Can the fairy tale really end there?

Jayton Meet Opens Today; Host Favored

JAYTON (Special)—The host team has taken only one of the Jayton Invitational's six crowns the past three years, but both the Jaybirds and Lady Jays are in an excellent position to do that this year.

The Lady Jays, twice the runner-up in this meet, bring a gaudy 18-1 mark into today's first-round game against Knox City.

The Jaybirds are 7-3 and both are ranked No. 1 on the South Plains.

Elsewhere today, action starts in the Muleshoe Invitational with Levelland's girls and Littlefield's boys the picks, although the host boys will likely make it to the finals also.

Levelland has taken meet crowns at Roosevelt and Levelland this fall and Littlefield s boys have won the championship honors at Ralls and Kress.

Likewise, the Jayton girls are gunning for their third meet crown, having previously won at Spur and Ralls.

Reasonable Ticket Prices Big Gamble For Owners

By HOWARD ULMAN

CHICAGO (AP) — "If you're operating a restaurant, you need $12.50 for a steak but you price it at $9.99 because you can't take your problems out on the public," says William W. Wirtz. "You don't pass on all your tremendous expense."

All club owners face the dilemma of just how much more can be passed on to the fans who provide most of professional sports teams' revenues in Chicago.

As incomes and team costs for travel, lodging, meals and other items rise, so, in all probability, will ticket prices. The question is when and how much.

"I think every team owner is trying to keep pricing where it is. You could end up pricing yourselves out of the market,"

Second In A Series

says Wirtz, president of the Black Hawks and governor of the Bulls.

He does see some hope.

"Salaries (in pro hockey and basketball) certainly aren't escalating as they have. You never knew when they were going to end. This year it's moderated."

The cost of tickets to games in Chicago has risen during the last 10 years. In 1967, if you watched the Bulls, Black Hawks, Bears, Cubs and White Sox for one game each, the cheapest seats would cost you $10.75 and the most expensive $25.25. By 1977, the spread had increased to $19.50 to $43.

And the growth was greater from 1972 to 1977 than from 1967 to 1972.

Although the recent basketball and football bidding wars have cooled down, the advent of the free agent has sent salaries of some baseball players soaring.

In Chicago, ticket prices for baseball games haven't increased as much since 1967 as those in football, basketball and hockey. But what will happen to baseball tickets now?

"They're just going to have to go up because that's the only real other place you have for producing substantial revenue," says White Sox business manager Rudie Schaffer. "I don't know what a survey would show of the major league clubs, but I would guess at least half of them are increasing their prices for 1978."

One of them is the Cubs, who are hiking prices for the 1978 season by 50 cents for box and reserved grandstand seats. Tickets will be priced at $1.50, $3, $4.50 and $5.50.

"We've tried desperately to keep ticket prices and the prices of concessions as low as possible," says William J. Hagenah Jr., executive vice president and treasurer of the Cubs.

"We don't want to get ourselves priced out of the market. So although we need more money to stay solvent we still don't want to increase ticket prices more than we have to. I think they will have to go up because all the clubs are paying so much higher salaries to the ballplayers."

The White Sox paid about $2 million in salaries last season and, although they made about as much money in 1977 as they lost in 1976, had planned on raising prices, says Schaffer. But team officials changed their minds.

"We had a super attendance and we just felt that for that loyalty we should retain the price and just try to keep a hold on everything else, too," Schaffer says.

For the current National Football League season, the Bears raised the prices of all seats by $1.50 to $7.50 and $9.50.

Bill McGrane, the team's assistant general manager, isn't sure when they'll go up again.

"I think it would be awfully difficult to project right now," he says. "We are reluctant, as I'm sure most businesses are, when we have to make increases due to costs. I guess it depends on what the prospects are for general expenditures increasing."

Mike McClure, marketing and public relations director of the Bulls, agrees that the uncertainty of the future economy clouds any ticket price forecast.

"I think it would be ridiculous for me to predict what the breaking point would be for people," he says. "I think if you look back a few years ago and told people they would be paying 70 cents a gallon for gas without cutting their driving they would have said you're crazy."

Although many fans haven't reached the breaking point at which they would stop going to games, they have become less tolerant of mediocrity, some team officials say.

"When you read about the kind of salaries some of these people are making and what you make is very modest compared with it you don't want to see anything but perfection. But that's impossible," says Hagenah.

McGrane agrees that ticket prices have made Bears' fans more demanding. But he says they also are more critical because they are more knowledgeable than fans in the past.

Wirtz says the fans aren't the only ones with cause to complain about big salaries.

"It's been amazing that sports has been able to get through this difficult period because you have to come up with fresh seed money to keep the clubs going," he says.

Hagenah believes baseball clubs which keep paying high salaries eventually will go out of business.

Officials on most Chicago teams say there hasn't been a large number of complaints about their prices, although Hagenah admits the cost of a ticket probably keeps some fans away.

Schaffer doesn't think fans have a good reason to complain about the prices the White Sox charge. But some gripe, nevertheless.

Says Schaffer: "We do have an occasion where somebody will say, 'Hey, I took my group of five out and after hot dogs and ice cream and all the rest it cost quite a bit of money. Can't you cut your prices?'

"And, of course, we can't."

Pardee Wants Some Changes

CHICAGO (AP) — Jack Pardee says he hasn't made up his mind whether he will remain coach of the Chicago Bears after his three-year contract expires next month. While his job seems secure, he's not ruling out a move.

Earlier this week, Pardee told reporters, "When my contract is up, I'd have to consider a better job if it's offered."

Pardee, who guided the Bears to their first post-season berth in 14 years with a 9-5 regular season record in 1977, said he is happy with the overall situation in Chicago and stressed that he isn't looking for a new contract which will afford him "a couple of extra bucks."

"I'm more worried about the other intangibles of coaching," he said.

"A lot of things here . . . the facilities . . . are not adequate. I can't outcoach anyone if you're in a place where you haven't got a chance to win, you're going to die sooner or later."

Pardee said he is particularly unhappy with the Bears' current training facilities and with Soldier Field, where the Bears play their home games.

"An AstroTurf field is the biggest thing. We need a place at our camp site where we can work three or four weeks of the year. The weather is a factor."
