Kennedy's Lawyer Hits State's Inquest Laws

(AP WIREPHOTO)

GENERAL'S VIEW — Retired Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner used his hands yesterday to support his chin and illustrate points of his testimony before the Senate investigations subcommittee in Washington. The Army's former provost marshal said that Chicago police officials knew when they gave him 397 guns that they were for his own collection.

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's lawyer asked the Massachusett Supreme Judicial Court today to declare unconstitutional the state's inquest laws and to disqualify Judge James A. Boyle from presiding over a planned inquest into the death of Miss Mary Jo Kopechne.

Edward B. Hanify, attorney for Kennedy, asked the five justices to rule that Kennedy's rights would be prejudiced if the planned inquest were allowed to proceed under the Edgartown District Court judge's ground rules.

Hanify asked the high court "to quash the order of the respondent," Judge Boyle, "which in substance excluded everyone from the proceeding but the press and limited counsels' rights" to cross-examine witnesses and sit in on all testimony.

In the event the court upholds the inquest law as constitutional, Hanify argued, it should send "directives" to all district and superior courts which would result in "an infusion of constitutional vitality into the skeleton of the structure" of inquests in Massachusetts.

Miss Kopechne, 28, was found dead in Kennedy's car July 19 after it plunged into a tidal pond on Chappaquiddick Island. The inquest was ordered by Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis, whose jurisdiction includes the island.

Chief Justice Raymond S. Wilkins asked, "Do you claim an inquest is unconstitutional no matter how it is conducted?"

"No, no your honor," Hanify replied. He added that "appropriate directives" spelling out constitutional safeguards for inquest participants would be sufficient.

In response to another question, Hanify said he felt that inquests in the state at present "always have the potential to be accusatory."

Quoting from an appeal of a public grand jury proceeding, Hanify compared the pending inquest to a process which resembled "a victim tied to a stake while his reputation is being tortured to death."

Among the lawyers in the courtroom was Donald McFadden, a Pennsylvania attorney who represents the parents of Miss Kopechne. The girls' family has opposed Dinis' attempts to win permission from Pennsylvania authorities to exhume the girl's body and conduct an autopsy.

Hanify initially took his appeal to Justice Paul C. Reardon, who issued an order halting the planned opening of the inquest Sept. 3. Reardon referred the case to the full bench of the Supreme Court for hearing on the constitutional question.

Miss Kopechne was a secretary for the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. She was at Martha's Vineyard for a weekend reunion with five other girls who worked on the Robert Kennedy presidential campaign in 1968.

They got together with Edward Kennedy and four associates for a cookout at a rented cottage on the island, across a narrow strait from Edgartown.

Kennedy reported later he was driving with Miss Kopechne when he took a wrong turn and his car plunged off a narrow bridge into Poucha Pond, a salt water inlet.

Kennedy escaped but Miss Kopechne was trapped in the car and drowned.

Kennedy went to the Edgartown police station 10 hours later to report the accident. By that time the overturned car had been found in the water, and the body had been removed from it.

A week later, Kennedy pleaded guilty to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident and was sentenced by Judge Boyle to a two-month jail term, suspended on probation for one year.

As part of his investigation, Dinis has asked a court in Wilkes Barre, Pa., for an order for exhumation and an autopsy on the body of Miss Kopechne. She is buried at Lark, Pa.

The petition is under advisement in the Pennsylvania court.

Represented with the senator in the Supreme Court proceeding were four men and the five surviving girls at the Chappaquiddick cookout.

Army Graft Testimony Called 'Lie'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chicago Police Supt. James Conlisk says former Army Provost Marshal Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner lied when he testified city authorities knowingly gave him 397 confiscated guns for his personal use.

Turner is a central figure in a Senate subcommittee investigations of a probe into charges a ring of enlisted men, including former Army Sgt. Maj. William O. Wooldridge, was engaged in a large-scale graft ring.

In his testimony Tuesday, Turner was quized only on charges he obtained the confiscated guns under pretense they were for Army use and then sold some of them for his own profit.

He said, however, Conlisk knew he wanted the guns for his own collection, although he signed statements at the time affirming the weapons were for the Army.

Conlisk said in Chicago Tuesday Turner's testimony was "untrue." The superintendent also supported the testimony given by police Lt. Paul T. Duellman, who told the subcommittee Tuesday he showed Turner the guns, but never heard him say they were for his own use.

Under this week the main thrust of the subcommittee probe had been into allegations Wooldridge and a band of career sergeants had looted Army recreation clubs, manipulated currency, smuggled liquor and bribed officers.

Wooldridge, who is scheduled to testify Friday, told a reporter he will invoke the 5th Amendment and refuse to answer questions.

His attorney said he advised Wooldridge to refuse to testify because he did not believe he would be given a fair hearing by senators.

In his testimony Tuesday, Turner admitted that in 1968 he signed receipts four times at Chicago police headquarters stating that confiscated guns he had personally selected were to be used for Army training purposes.

RESCUE DIVE

Trapped Submarine Freed

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The research submarine Deep Quest was freed from its heavy recovery device early today and rose to the surface 12 hours after the craft and its four crewmen became trapped 432 feet deep on the Pacific Ocean bottom.

A two-man 8,000-pound submarine, the Nekton, used its mechanical arm to snip the plastic rope that was tangled in one of Deep Quest's two aft propellors. The rope was attached to a scoop-like recovery module, a galvanized culvert used to retrieve heavy test samples from the ocean floor.

The rescue dive five miles off San Diego by the Nekton, a craft operated by General Oceanographic Corp. of Torrance, took 70 minutes.

The 48-hour life-support system of the 50-ton, Deep Quest had another 32½ hours to go.

The crew was reported in excellent condition and in good spirits.

The 40-foot Deep Quest ascended to calm seas and was surrounded by Navy and Coast Guard ships on hand to assist in the rescue.

Air Force Reduction

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Air Force may reduce its basic training load from 100,000 to 70,000 men this fiscal year, a spokesman for the only Air Force basic training center said Tuesday.

A spokesman for the military training center at Lackland Air Force Base here said he understood Air Force recruiters had been told to cut the number of recruits by up to about 30 per cent, or 30,000 men.

Lt. Col. John L. Hartig, acting base information officer, said the figure is tentative and probably would be lower than 30,000. The reduction is a result of Air Force budget cuts, he said.

No Leads Yet

"We have received some calls on the BB vandals," Police Chief Jay Banks said, "but we do not have any strong leads yet."

Reports of glass broken from a BB or a pellet gun are still filtering in. Latest to the list are Resco Refrigeration, 308 Benton; McCroy's Store, and Joe Moss, 1604 Osage.

The city has offered $100 reward for information leading to the apprehension of the vandals.

New City Budget Okayed, After Being Cut $18,777

Following a relatively brief public hearing, Big Spring City Commissioners Tuesday evening approved a new budget for 1969-70, calling for expenditures almost $19,000 lower than had been proposed.

The commission took no action on changing the effective date of a police merit pay proposal, and Police Chief Jay Banks asked that this $8,777 be cut from the budget. In the motion for the deletion, Mayor pro-tem George Zachariah also included $10,000 that had been earmarked to provide sewer service lines to city residents not now being served.

The two deletions lowered the city budget from $3,072,219 to $3,053,442 and lowered the expected expenditures to within $14,673 of the anticipated income of $3,038,769. The city's accumulated balances in the operating funds and internal borrowing will close the gap between expenses and income.

Only four persons asked questions or spoke to the commission about the budget: Jack Watkins, Gil Jones, W. J. (Bill) Sheppard, and Joe Underwood.

The budget calls for no tax increase, although higher costs are reflected throughout the budget. Biggest of these was an increase in the cost of water from the Colorado River Municipal Water District, which went from a fixed monthly charge of $25,374 to $30,880.

There are no general pay boosts in the budget, however all city employes will get some increase in their pay envelopes beginning Jan. 1, due to a hike in longevity pay. The Legislature set a new rate of $3 per month for each year of service as longevity pay for firemen and policemen, up from $2. The commission approved giving this increase to all city employes, at an annual total cost of $21,600.

Changes in the proposed budget were made following a brief discussion on the police "merit pay plan." Several weeks ago commissioners had been asked to approve a merit plan to encourage policemen to seek additional training and reward those who do so. The annual cost was pegged at $38,833. Also, commissioners were asked to reduce the working hours for the department from 44 to 40 hours, which would require employing five additional patrolmen at an annual cost of $33,172.

All commissioners favored the plan, and agreed to the need for it, but in trying to balance income and expenditures several expressed concern over finding the money to finance the proposal.

When advised of the city's financial problems, Banks offered an alternative "bare bones" merit pay plan that would cost $17,552 annually. City Manager Larry Crow endorsed it, the commissioners approved it, and the proposal was included in the budget to begin next April 1.

Prior to Tuesday's hearing, the commissioners were asked by Banks to reconsider the activation date of the plan, making it effective immediately with the start of the budget year, Oct. 1. Zachariah said that a $10,000 item for sewer line extensions could be used to implement financing the plan. He told Jones that although he could make the motion for the change, he would be unable to get a second to his motion.

Following the vote to approve the budget, which was unanimous, Crow advised the commission that Banks had requested that the "delayed merit pay proposal" be taken from the budget. Zachariah made the motion to delete it, and included the $10,000 for sewer line extensions. This was also approved unanimously.

Watkins, speaking before the commission, expressed concern over budgets that are overpsent.

"According to the audit of March, 1968," he said, "though the total budget was balanced, 89 of the 161 accounts in the general fund were overspent. Who gives approval for spending more than the budget? It's impossible to determine income and spending exactly, but prior to exceeding the budget, someone should approve it.

"You deal with public funds in the budget; there are regulations for its use. The final decision rests with the people. You should go to the people for approval before overspending. We have not given a blank check to the city manager or to anyone else."

Watkins also expressed concern that so little time (five

Jobless Position Unveiled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary David Kennedy says the Nixon administration finds a four per cent unemployment rate "acceptable" in its fight to curb inflation.

But he won't say how much higher the jobless rate could go without causing a change in anti-inflation policies.

Kennedy was one of several administration experts quizzed Tuesday by worried members of the joint congressional economic subcommittee.

Sens. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and William Proxmire, D-Wis., made it clear they don't of unemployment from 3.5 to four per cent was a good sign indicating a slowdown in the inflationary trend.

Symington asked: "Are we planning for a recession to reduce inflation?"

Kennedy replied: "No, we must now watch the timing to make sure that doesn't happen."

The Nixon administration earlier this year assured labor leaders it would not use unemployment as a weapon to bring inflation under control.

But only last month organized labor's chief economist said government anti-inflation steps threatened to bring massive unemployment.

"What they are trying to do is bring down the rate of price increases by slamming the brakes on the economy, which can only result in a further increase in unemployment," said Nathaniel Goldfinger, economist for the AFL-CIO.

During Tuesday's hearing, Proxmire asked Kennedy to set an unemployment figure which would trigger alarm within the administration, but the secretary said he had no "magic figure" in mind.

Kennedy noted that prior to the Vietnam conflict unemployment rates often ran over the four per cent level. Proxmire acknowledged this but said "we can't go back to that."

Astronauts Receive Cheers Of Frenchmen, Top Medals

PARIS (AP) — America's Apollo 11 astronauts, tracing the steps of the welcome Parisians gave Charles A. Lindbergh 42 years ago, heard the cheers of thousands of Frenchmen today and received the nation's highest honor—the Legion of Honor.

Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas pinned the red ribbon symbolic of membership in the order founded by Napoleon on the lapels of Neil A. Armstrong, Col. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Col. Michael Collins. Then he embraced each man and gave the traditional French kiss on each cheek.

Chaban-Delmas had broken away from the weekly French Cabinet meeting to greet the astronauts and their wives at the Hotel Matignon, the premier's office. As he left the Cabinet meeting at the Elysee Palace he said, "I don't want to keep them waiting. They were on time getting to the moon."

Under cloudless skies and in temperatures that hovered around 75 degrees, the astronauts earlier received a good natured welcome at the Hotel de Ville—city hall—the spot where hundreds of thousands of Parisians had cheered Lindbergh after his solo flight across the Atlantic in May 1927.

"Only 10 days ago I sat with Lindbergh at dinner and he remembered for me that wonderful day," Armstrong said. "I can appreciate now the reason he remembered your warm welcome."

The astronauts received the City of Paris' highest medal, the Medaille de Vermeille, from the president of the Paris municipal Council, Etienne de Vericourt, on a stand draped with French and American flags.

Then it was down the Rue de Rivoli in an open car with crowds rushing into the street to get closer to the three astronauts. Their route took them past the Louvre and along the Tuileries Gardens where hundreds of tourists cheered the men in different languages.

At the premier's office, Chaban-Delmas greeted the spacemen with a wave and the exclamation, "Hello, champions."

Then he presented their Legion of Honor medals and led them into a garden where they were introduced to French guests, including the chief test pilot for the Concorde supersonic transport, Andre Turcat, and undersea explorer Jacques-Yves Cousteau.

WALKOUT THREATENED CITY WITH ANARCHY

Striking Police, Firemen Return

MONTREAL (AP) — Police and fire protection returned to normal in Montreal today after a one-day strike by more than 6,000 police and firemen seeking pay raises threatened Canada's largest city with chaos.

A provincial policeman was shot to death during a battle between rival groups of drivers. A mob of youths roamed the streets Tuesday night, smashing windows and looting stores.

Ten bank robberies and nearly a score of other thefts were reported.

About 800 provincial police were rushed to the city to aid about 200 senior police officers who stayed at their posts. A skeleton force of firemen also remained on duty. Several hundred army troops were flown into the area but did not enter the city.

The Quebec provincial legislature met in emergency session late Tuesday night and ordered the strikers back to work by 12:01 a.m. today. Union leaders demanded that their men obey the order, and the police and fire departments were reported fully manned and operating normally by 4 a.m.

Members of the 3,700-man police force began quitting their posts at 8 a.m. Tuesday. They were joined shortly afterward by most of the city's 2,400 firemen, who are also involved in a wage dispute with the city.

The policemen, who are not permitted by law to strike, seek a $1,900-a-year increase in salaries now averaging $7,300 a year. They rejected an arbitration board's recommendation of a $1,100 hike.

The firemen have rejected an arbitration award of a $1,050 annual raise, which would bring their pay to $8,000. They seek $9,000.

The chief argument of both is that they make less than police and firemen in Toronto, and the police say their job is much riskier in crime-ridden Montreal.

Sympathizers contend that Mayor Jean Drapeau's administration is too involved in glamor enterprises—such as Expo 67 and the city's National League baseball team—and neglecting its employes and poverty-stricken areas.

Cpl. Robert Dumas of the provincial police was shot in the back and killed during a battle Tuesday night between taxi drivers and employes of a limousine service at a West Side garage.

The cab drivers, protesting the limousine company's exclusive license to carry airport passengers, drove more than 100 taxis to the garage and a scuffle broke out when company guards tried to hold them off.

A rock-throwing battle then developed. Fires were set, buses were overturned, and a sniper fired from a darkened upstairs window, killing Dumas and injuring four others.

Several hundred youths went on a rampage along Montreal's main shopping streets during the evening, smashing windows and looting them. Every display window along one street was broken.

Squad cars raced along the streets in the rain, sirens screaming, but the mob began to disperse on its own and no arrests were reported.

days) was given before a public hearing is held.

"I'm for taxes," he said, "but not for wasting money. We need an in depth study of city personnel; I have seen city cars being used after 5 p.m. with the whole family in them. It's not a matter of how little we can operate with, but a matter of having an efficient government."

Watkins also said that the fixed charge from CRMWD averaged out to a little more than $3 per city water meter, yet, the city charges a minimum of $2 on some meters.

"You can't stay in business and lose money too," he said. "I haven't figured it up exactly, but the difference could be several thousand dollars."

Crow explained the higher users of water, pay a greater percentage of the costs.

When told that $1,000 in the planning account included dues for membership in the Texas Municipal League (TML). Watkins said a new law passed by the Legislature prohibited city fund for being used in an organization which directly or indirectly tried to influence the legislature or acted as a lobbyist group.

"The city and the TML abide by the law," said Crow. "I'm aware the legislature has passed this law; it might be construed to cover this point."

City Attorney Herb Prouty said there was some question as to whether TML was a lobbyist group, the law did not prohibit the group from appearing before the legislature when called, nor did it prevent it from providing information to the city on an informational basis.

Sheppard expressed his concern of the decreased valuation of property.

"We all have problems with budgeting," he said, "but there is no way to economize unless we cut services. I will not tell you what services to cut, I want my garbage picked up, I want the other services a city provides, but you still have to cut services."

Sheppard also asked if the franchise rates were the same for the public services. He was told by Crow that Southwestern Bell's is two per cent; Texas Electric Service Co.'s, three per cent; and Pioneer Natural Gas Co., five per cent.

Earlier Jones made a plea for some kind of merit pay plan for the police department.

"The war on crime takes place in the patrol car; law enforcement exists in the patrol car and with the patrolman driving. You can have the greatest chief, the greatest captains and sergeants in the world, but police work is done in the patrol cars.

"We can have good streets and good parks, but they are not worth anything without law and order in them.

"We, the people of Big Spring are not being fair to the police; we are not giving them an incentive to be good law enforcement officers. I don't know if the proposed merit pay plan is the best, but the principle, the thought behind it remains one of our most important tasks. I would put it a little above our other projects."

Joe Underwood also asked for some clarifications in the budget, and was answered by Crow, about penciled corrections in the printed copies; forage, insurance, equipment and longevity, social security, and retirement.

Both Mayor Arnold Marshall and Zachariah expressed appreciation for the opinions given on the budget.

"We appreciate your presence and your comments," said Marshall to those attending.

"I would also like to make it known I agree with you, Mr. Jones," Marshall added, "on the need for a merit pay plan. Provision has been made for one in this budget, to become effective April 1." (This was later deleted.)

Utility's Real Power Is In Its People

The real power behind the power company is its people, Burl Hulsey Jr., president of Texas Electric Company told an employes banquet crowd honoring veteran employes.

The Quarter Century Club affair drew more than 200 people to the Cosden Country Club Tuesday evening. This year, TESCO had no new members to induct into its elite group of 25-year people, but Hulsey had words of appreciation for the entire TESCO family, saying that employes give the company its vitality, direction, purpose, and its distinctive quality and character.

"Our people make the difference between just an ordinary company and a really good one, a company that has earned the respect and confidence of its customers," he asserted.

A. E. Deel, Hugh Duncan, J. W. Garrison, Judy Kuykendall, C. L. Merritt, W. A. Shaw, J. W. Skeen and H. M. (Herb) Smith were recognized by Don Womack, Big Spring district manager, as members of the Quarter Century Club in attendance.

The Lamesa Slumtown Symfunny, led by Richard Crawley and his brother, Bob, brought the house down with its music and horseplay.

Computers are wonderful, said Hulsey, but when it gets down to the nub of a problem, it's people who count. In the moon landing, Neil Armstrong had to take over the controls from the computer to avoid possible disaster in landing, he reminded.

"Computers are accurate," he said, "but they can't exercise good judgment. Machines and equipment are only as good as the people who control and operate them."

They lack the ability to communicate with and listen to customers to handle problems before they get out of hand. It's people who give customers individual attention, who create the good impression for the company, Hulsey reminded. While the company is launching a multi-million dollar expansion program this year, one of the major projects will be to increase the flow of information between management and employes.

Hulsey said he was proud of the TESCO achievement during a summer with unprecedented demands for power, noting it couldn't have been done without exceptional performance by the employes, whom he regarded as TESCO's greatest asset.

DEFENDANT LISTENS TO WITNESS IN MOSQUE TRIAL — Michael Denis Rohan, left, on trial in Jerusalem in the burning of Al Aksah Mosque, listens as Arthur Jones, right, of Burbank, Calif., is cross-examined Wednesday. Jones, 25, said the 28-year-old Rohan had spent time in a mental hospital in Australia and Jones called him a "very unhappy, miserable body."

Four Aggie Cadets Axed For Blast

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Four freshman cadets at Texas A&M were suspended today after they admitted setting off an explosion that rocked the corps of cadets area of the campus early Tuesday.

Dean James Hannigan said the boys signed statements admitting their roles in igniting a box of plastic explosives in the corps dormitory area. The 2 a.m. blast broke 31 windows in four dormitories but caused no injuries.

Hannigan said the students are Christopher Tully 18, of Canyon; Stephen Cervantes, 18, of Port Isabel; William Chambless, 19, of Hobbs, N.M.; and James Huntington, 18, of Snyder.

The dean said the students have the right to appeal their suspension.

Noting the speculation that the blast might have been part of an anti-ROTC protest, Hannigan said, "Nothing could be further from the truth. We are very pleased to find that our record of strong support for ROTC remains unblemished."

Asst. campus security chief Morris Maddox said the Corps of Cadets provided key information leading to the identification of the four. He said the cadets gave pertinent information to their civilian advisors, who worked with campus security officers.

Police Academy Is Cancelled

The six-week police academy session scheduled to begin Monday at HCJC has been cancelled indefinitely, according to Police Chief Jay Banks.

The session would have provided more than the minimum 140 hours of police training needed for basic state certification. Seven or eight officers from the department were scheduled to act as instructors during the course, and four were planning to attend it.

Admitted Arsonist 'Lived In Torment'

JERUSALEM (AP) — Michael Denis Rohan, admitted arsonist of Jerusalem's Al Aksah Mosque, was described in court today as a former mental patient who lived in misery and torment.

Arthur Jones, 25, of Burbank, Calif., said the 28-year-old Australian had spent time in a mental hospital in Australia, and Jones called him a "very unhappy, miserable body."

The two young men lived in the same kibbutz for four months this year. Jones, a prosecution witness, told the three-judge court under cross-examination by defense attorney Yitzhak Tunik:

"In Hebrew language classes at the kibbutz he could not relate . . . When the teacher asked him a question he would sort of freeze and go pale.

"I felt very sorry for him. I could see he was in torment.

"He was very depressed. He once told me how all his life he was rejected and went from job to job and nobody understood him.

"He said his childhood was very sad and bitter and his father was very strict."

"He told me that in the mental hospital it was very miserable and unbearable," Jones continued. "He couldn't stand the drugs they gave him every night to sleep."

Annual Pig Show Opens

About 25 youngsters from Howard County 4-H clubs and Future Farmers of America were at the Howard County Fair Barns early this morning bathing, combing, clipping and grooming their pigs for the 24th annual Pig Show this evening at 7:30.

County Agent Paul Gross said he expects about 100 entries from 40 youngsters before the judging starts tonight, and he said the top 36 pigs will be sold at auction Thursday night. Bill Scott, a vocational agriculture instructor in Abilene, will be the judge.

Gross explained that the pigs are qualified for the show by weight and that they must weigh from 180 to 240 pounds. There is a 30 pound dividing line for the two classes of heavyweights and lightweights.

Kayla Gaskins, 13, from the Knott 4-H Club, was the only girl with pigs to show at the barns this morning and she was busy herding her three red-haired Durocs into their pen as she explained that she doesn't really get too attached to the animals before she sells them.

"They're not even a year old yet," she said. "And the only one I named is the one without a tail. He's Bob."

GRIFFIN SENDS NIXON MYSTERY LETTER

Haynsworth Losing Ground

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, the assistant Senate Republican leader, announced today he will vote against confirmation of the nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth to the Supreme Court.

Griffin said he told President Nixon of his decision in a letter Monday.

It could strike a severe blow to the administration bid for approval of the embattled nominee.

Griffin would not disclose the contents of his letter to Nixon.

But as the Senate Judiciary Committee met in closed session on the struggle over Nixon's choice to succeed Associate Justice Abe Fortas, who resigned under pressure over his outside activities, Griffin declared that "legitimate and substantial doubt has been raised" about Haynsworth's sensitivity "to the high ethical standards" required of a justice.

"Public confidence in the Supreme Court is the overriding consideration," the Michigan senator said.

Griffin who was a leading Senate critic of Fortas, is known to have urged Nixon to withdraw the nomination.

He had announced earlier he would reluctantly support the Haynsworth nomination.

He indicated that disclosure of Haynsworth's business interests, while serving as a U.S. circuit judge, had led to his reversal.

Ironically, Griffin is in a key spot now as a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee. He took the post at administration urging, because the Justice Department was anxious that the new GOP committeeman be a Haynsworth supporter.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., the leading opponent of the nomination, said there was a "clear conflict of interest" when Haynsworth ruled on a case before the 4th U.S. Court of Appeals in 1967 involving W. R. Grace Co. Bayh said Haynsworth owned thousands of dollars worth of Grace stock at the time.

The charge was denied by Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., who said the stock holdings were not substantial enough to require Haynsworth to disqualify himself.

Bayh's latest charge is the third such case in which Haynsworth has been accused of conflicts of interest for making a ruling while holding a financial stake in one of the parties before his court. It was included in a "bill of particulars" worked up by Bayh's staff for the Judiciary session.

"Sen. Bayh feels this case is not a landmark, but it is significant because it fits the pattern the judge has set," said a spokesman for the Indiana Democrat.

The case involved a seaman for Grace line, a W. R. Grace subsidiary, who was injured when a ladder fell on him. The seaman sought $30,000 in personal injury damages and back pay but won $50 from a federal district court jury. That ruling was upheld on appeal to Haynsworth's court.

Hollings rejected the case as unimportant Tuesday in a floor speech and at an hour-long news conference.

Hollings said that under law, Haynsworth or any other judge could only disqualify himself from a case if he had a "substantial" interest in one of the parties. Hollings also said that according to the law it is up to the judge to decide himself whether that interest is substantial.

"This was 300 shares out of 18 or 19 million," said Hollings.

Hollings also said that other courts had ruled that a judge must disqualify himself only in cases where he had a direct interest, not where his holdings were only in a parent company.

Predicting Haynsworth ultimately would be confirmed, Hollings also rejected criticism of another case as an error and a "lapse of memory."

Haynsworth has said he forgot when he bought $16,000 in Brunswick Corp. stock in 1967 that six weeks earlier he had joined in a ruling involving the company.

The case, in which the appeals court upheld a $1,400 claim from a bowling alley that sought $140,000 from Brunswick, was still pending before the court when the stock was purchased.

Haynsworth also has been accused of conflict of interest in ruling for Deering-Milliken Co. at a time when the firm was using vending machines owned by a company that Haynsworth helped found and which still carried him on the books as an officer.

LBJ Pulls Surprise

BEAUMONT (AP) — Former President Lyndon Johnson, who has stayed close to his Texas Hill Country ranch since leaving office, surprised 550 persons at a political dinner Tuesday night.

Johnson, without advance public notice, appeared at a dinner honoring Rep. Jack Brooks D-Tex. The former chief executive was accompanied by his son-in-law and daughter, Pa' and Luci Nugent of Austin.

Johnson did not make a speech but shook hands with al' attending the $100-a-plate dinner for Brooks in March 1968 while still in office.

Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., was the main speaker Tuesday night. He said Brooks is vital to the House leadership and "helps keep our institution in its highest tradition."

Four New Species, Five Champ Trees Discovered

Four new tree species and five new "Big Tree" champions have been discovered by the Texas Forest Service's Big Tree Program. Among the "Big Tree" champions is a national champion, a pyramid magnolia, according to John A. Haislet, Texas Forest Service, College Station.

The pyramid magnolia, located in Newton County, is judged to be the largest of its species in the nation. It measures 76 inches in circumference, 60 feet in height and 37 feet in crown spread.

Texas now has 91 tree species listed in its Champion Big Tree Registry, of which 28 are the largest of their kind in the nation.

The Big Tree Program, which is affiliated with Texas A&M University, endeavors to locate outstanding examples of the more than 200 tree species in Texas, to obtain the tree owner's cooperation to protect and preserve the trees as landmarks, and to stimulate interest in trees.

The new tree species are the sugar maple, Carolina laurel cherry, laurel oak and black willow. The first three are on the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation in Polk County and the willow is in the Angelina National Forest in Jasper County.

Four former state champions have been surpassed by larger trees. A hackberry in front of the Rush Taylor home, three-fourths miles north of Crockett on State Highway 21 in Houston County, replaced a hackberry near Moss Hill in Liberty County.

A two-winged silverbell in a roadside park, one and a half miles south of Jasper on US 86, replaced the previous champion near Shepherd in San Jacinto County.

An eastern cottonwood on the east side of Trinity River, 24 miles southwest of Crockett in Houston County, replaced a tree in Parker County near Weatherford.

A planer tree on the Davy Crockett National Forest, replaced the tree on Kirby Lumber Corporation land in Hardin County.

Only half of Texas' native tree species are listed in the Registry of Big Trees. Nomination forms and rules may be obtained from the Texas Forest Service, College Station, 77843.

Twilight Zone 'Death' Sequel

Editor's note: Elston Brooks of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram told vividly Tuesday of the "Twilight Zone" traffic death that never was. In a sequel, Brooks, an amusements writer, talks with the previously unidentified "victim."

FORT WORTH (AP) — The man I saw "die" under the wheels of his careening car on the turnpike Sunday is alive and well and working as a maid.

He turned out to be a slacks-wearing woman, 31-year-old Ethel Nolen of Fort Worth.

And how does it feel to hurtle to the pavement from an out-of-control car going 60 or 70 miles per hour?

"Sore," said Mrs. Nolen.

I recounted with horror in Tuesday's newspaper the scene I saw through my rear-view mirror as I drove toward Dallas on the turnpike. A blowout sent a white Chevrolet fishtailing over three lanes of the turnpike. Then the car began skidding sideways, and I was sure I had seen a man die in front of my eyes as a door popped open, the victim fell out and the car spun in a 180-degree angle over the helpless form.

Another motorist and I stopped and told a highway patrolman what we had seen.

It became a twilight zone mystery when no report or evidence of the accident could be found later. It had an incredible happy ending when investigating officers later deduced the driver they had seen changing a flat must have been the "fatal accident" they were searching for.

The only explanation was that he must have got up unhurt, the car had spun to a safe stop, he changed the tire and continued on his way.

After reading the story Tuesday, Mrs. Ed Lawrence of Fort Worth telephoned to say her maid had missed work Monday because she had fallen from a car on the turnpike Sunday.

But she was back at work Tuesday.

"That's the way it happened, all right," said Mrs. Nolen, a divorcee and the mother of a 16-year-old son. "Only I wasn't the driver. The car spun around so much you didn't see me come out of the right hand side of the front seat."

It kept on spinning until the driver finally brought it under control.

"It didn't go over me, it just looked like it," she recounted.

"And the other cars behind me missed me, too. I just walked over to the side of the road while they changed the tire."

She added: "We saw all those police going by looking for something."

Mrs. Nolen and two companions were driving to a Dallas bus station to pick up her son who was coming in from Mississippi. They made it on time.

"I got skinned knees and arms," she said, "but the best thing is that now you won't have to spend the rest of your life wondering about the twilight zone."

Janelle Tate Returns From 2nd World Tour

Janelle Tate wishes everyone could go around the world, because she says, "getting away from America enables a person to view the world situation more clearly and gives a better appreciation of what he does have."

"But more important," she said, "you realize that people are people the world around."

Miss Tate, a 21-year-old junior at Abilene Christian College whose home is in Tarzan, returned last month from her second world tour as part of a world evangelism team, Church of Christ.

"Dr. George Gurganus, a professor at ACC, takes a group of about 15 students around the world every year," she explained. "I went two years ago and again for seven weeks this summer." She said participants in the tour must attend a five-week seminar in foreign culture and mission practices and principles at the college before leaving on the tour.

"We stay with local people as much as possible during the tour," she said, "and this seminar prepares us for an appreciation and understanding of many ways of life."

Miss Tate left New York City for Zurich, Switzerland, in mid-July and then travled to Israel and over to Madras, India. She said nine members of the group stayed in Madras and worked in villages around India. She went with the other six to Ceylon, a tropical island south of India.

"We traveled to the interior and saw temples of Buddha, Hindu festivals, and worked with the Sinhalese and Tamal Indians." She added that she was amazed at the extremes between poverty and wealth in India.

Three weeks later the group reunited and went to Seremban, Malaysia which Miss Tate described as "most unique."

"This was one of the highlights for me," she said. "I lived on a rubber plantation with an Indian family and saw their culture first-hand."

She described the Indians' method of eating and explained that their diet consists primarily of rice and curry.

"They have an efficient way of cupping the hand then flipping the food out with the thumb," she said. "They're a very clean people, and lead simple lives."

She also described their manner of dress, sleep and cooking.

"They take a bath about four o'clock," she said, "and then change into evening clothes which they also sleep in. They have beds similar to ours with a hard mattress but they sleep on it instead of in it."

"They cooked everything from scratch," she said. "When they made tapioca cake, they actually used the tapioca root and grated out the cocoanut."

JANELLE TATE

Another highlight of Miss Tate's trip was climbing Mt. Fuji, an extinct volcano outside of Tokyo, Japan.

"There are 10 stations up the 12,395 foot mountain," she said. "and we stopped at each station to have our climbing stick stamped, or burned."

After a cold night at the ninth station and a short climb to the summit, Miss Tate said they returned via the lava side of the mountain, sliding all the way.

The group returned home by way of Hong Kong, Hawaii, and California. Miss Tate said she arrived in Abilene at 2:30 p.m. Sept. 1 and registered for classes at 3.

She explained that although members of the tour pay their own way, it is only about one third the normal cost, because they live with local people.

Miss Tate is majoring in elementary education and has decided to obtain a minor in music.

Medici Heads Brazilian Government

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Gen. Emilio Garrastazu Medici, the new president of Brazil, promised Tuesday night to bring democratic government back to South America's largest country with politically moderate guidelines. He said he would not tolerate the violence of the extreme left or the conservatism of the landowner-industrialist oligarchy.

"At the end of my mandate I expect to leave democracy definitively installed," Medici said in a television and radio address a few hours after the military high command chose him to replace ailing President Arthur da Costa e Silva.

One of his first steps, the 63-year-old Medici said, will be to open talks with leaders of all social strata.

He also pledged to limit the government's participation in the economy. But he was expected to continue the tight control the military has maintained since it overthrew President Joao Goulart, Brazil's last popularly elected president, in 1964.

A military junta took over the presidential powers after Costa e Silva suffered a stroke on Aug. 31, bypassing Vice President Pedro Aleixo, 68, a civilian.

Sources close to the military government said a move might be made shortly to reopen Congress, closed last December by Costa e Silva after it refused to turn one of its members over to the military for trial. The sources said the purpose would be to approve the change in the presidency and possibly to give assent to the amended constitution that was being prepared when Costa e Silva was stricken.

A very bad trump break complicated what would otherwise be a routine game contract in diamonds in today's hand. A shortage of entries to the dummy made it necessary for the declarer to handle his assets with great resourcefulness, and his successful performance rates the very highest plaudits.

South opened the bidding with one diamond and, when West made a preemptive jump to three spades, he really presented North with a problem. Altho the latter was somewhat tempted to bid four hearts, this appeared overly drastic on so ragged a five card suit, so he finally settled for a competitive raise of partner to four diamonds. South carried on to game.

West opened the queen of spades which was taken in the closed hand. As a preliminary measure, however, South first led a heart to the ace and ruffed a heart in his hand. The reason for this play will become apparent momentarily.

The ace of diamonds was cashed, and when West showed out, East was revealed to possess a trump trick. A diamond to the king put dummy in to ruff another heart—thus stripping East of his major suit holdings.

Declarer cashed the king of spades and then led a third diamond, throwing East into the lead at a time when he had nothing but clubs left. The latter exited with the ace and another club to North's king. A heart was ruffed establishing the long card in that suit, and dummy was reentered via a club ruff to cash the seven of hearts for the game-fulfilling trick.

When South led over to the ace of hearts at trick two, he did not know that the trumps were going to break badly but, at no extra cost, his fine technique laid the groundwork that was essential to cope successfully with the actual distribution.

Turnkey III Prices Cut

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Four housing developers have lowered their estimates on the average prices of proposed Turnkey III homes here, officials announced.

One of the developers dropped the average cost from $21,302 to $17,975.

The revisions were the result of initial negotiations between the developers and the San Antonio Housing Authority, which proposes to locate 432 low-income families in three sections of the city.

Turnkey III, aimed at families in the $3,000 to $6,000 income bracket, is designed to stimulate home ownership through increased income. As the families wages increased so would their house payments.

Hundreds of taxpayers have expressed opposition to the federally subsidized plan and a leader on one opposition group has raised legal questions over Turnkey III.

Similar housing projects are planned in Dallas and St. Louis.

GOP Call For Moratorium On War Dissent Shattered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican call for a moratorium on war dissent suffered another blow today with the introduction of resolution by two Senate Vietnam critics urging withdrawal of American forces from the battle zone within a "reasonable time."

Unlike two earlier withdrawal proposals, the one submitted by Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Mark O. Hatfield R-Ore., does not propose a deadline for an American pullout.

Instead, their resolution criticizes the pace of withdrawal set by President Nixon—and asserts that the continued presence of U.S. forces can only postpone "the political accommodations essential to ending the conflict."

The Church-Hatfield measure, and the two other withdrawal proposals, appear to have no chance of Senate approval.

But together, the proposals are the starting point for a new inquiry into war policy planned by Sen. J. W. Fulbright's Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Its hearings, the first on Nixon's conduct of the war, begin Oct. 27.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers has agreed to testify in open session, although no date has yet been set.

The committee also has invited testimony from Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

In a speech prepared for the Senate, Church said the United States has no vital interest in preserving the Saigon government of President Nguyen Van Thieu—or even in the preservation of a non-Communist government.

"From the standpoint of our interests, we have been fighting an unnecessary war for five long years, making it possibly the most disastrous mistake in the history of American foreign policy," Church said. "It can never be vindicated, it can only be liquidated."

Democratic Sens. Harold Hughes of Iowa and Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri Tuesday proposed a resolution calling for U.S. withdrawal unless the Saigon government undertakes major reforms within six days.

The Church-Hatfield and Hughes-Eagleton proposals would be expressions of Senate opinion with no binding effect on President Nixon.

Introduction of the two resolutions indicate the antiwar forces have no inclination to tone down their criticism as called for by Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott. He urged last week a two-month moratorium on dissent to allow Nixon to test the intentions of the new Hanoi regime.

A third measure, a bill sponsored by Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., imposes a Dec. 1, 1970, deadline on American withdrawal. It would become law if passed by both the Senate and House and signed by Nixon.

Priests Pose New Challenge

ROME (AP) — The first contingent of radical European priests attending the "shadow synod" this weekend arrived Tuesday night and unveiled a new challenge to Pope Paul VI.

The priests, all Belgians, showed newsmen a 30-page position paper calling for the Pope to be elected for a limited period, like the U.S. president, instead of for life.

The paper also echoed the urging of Leo Joseph Cardinal Suenens, the primate of Belgium, that the Pope be chosen by all the bishops of the Roman Catholic Church instead of by the College of Cardinals.

Cardinal Suenens is expected to lead the progressives at the second world synod of bishops, which opens Saturday at the Vatican.

The shadow synod of some 60 dissident priests from eight European countries meets Friday for a week. Many of its participants met in Chur, Switzerland, in July while the Congress of European Bishops was meeting there and succeeded in capturing some of the spotlight.

Transfer Of 80 Boats Part Of 'Vietnamize' Program

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Navy will transfer 80 river patrol boats to the Vietnamese Navy Friday in the largest single turnover of naval materiel in the war, South Vietnamese military headquarters announced today.

A U.S. Navy spokesman said the turnover is part of the U.S. program to "Vietnamize" the war so that more American forces can be withdrawn.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said the 80 boats would be divided equally among four river patrol groups which will form a task force to be commissioned at ceremonies Friday.

The turnover will bring to 229 the total number of U.S. Navy craft transferred to the Vietnamese since June, 1968, or about 40 per cent of the 550 American boats patrolling South Vietnam's inland waterways. The other 321 are to be turned over during the next nine months.

The U.S. Command says 33,800 American Navy men now are in Vietnam. President Nixon has announced a 5,000-man cut for the Navy as part of the 35,000-man withdrawal scheduled to be completed by Dec. 15.

Meanwhile, Premier Tran Thien Kiem predicted today that there will be no "breakthrough" in the war until a new supreme leader emerges in Hanoi.

Asked about Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott's statement Monday that there might be a breakthrough in the war in the next 60 to 90 days, Khiem replied:

"Now there is a collective leadership in North Vietnam, and there must be some time before anyone can make a decision. it depends on who will be emerging as the leader of North Vietnam."

Western observers do not expect the power struggle anticipated in the wake of President Ho Chi Minh's death to crystallize for some months. They believe the contest will be between Le Duan, the pro-Moscow first secretary of the North Vietnamese Communist party, and Truong Chinh, another politburo member who is pro-Peking.

Khiem, speaking to newsmen during a hospital dedication in Saigon, said the government is expecting another sharp increase in enemy attacks.

"We are waiting for another highpoint," he said. "The enemy is weak, but despite this he has the capability to create disturbances, so everyone must be on the defense."

The national police in a weekly summary reported 140 confirmed acts of Viet Cong terrorism during the week ending Oct. 1. The report said 98 civilians were killed, 138 were wounded and 36 kidnaped. The week before, 203 incidents were reported, with 163 civilians killed, 328 wounded and 94 kidnaped.

Again only light and scattered ground fighting was reported as the general lull continued.

American observation helicopters and artillery along the Cambodian border north of Saigon opened fire on three groups of North Vietnamese troops who fired on the helicopters. A total of 20 enemy were reported killed, and none of the helicopters was hit.

South Vietnamese headquarters said government troops killed 37 enemy soldiers in two clashes in the Mekong Delta 50 and 56 miles south of Saigon. At least five government soldiers were killed and 14 wounded in one of the fights. Government losses in the second clash were described as "light."

American B52 bombers flew only three missions against targets in South Vietnam in the 24-hour period ending at 2 p.m. today, a sharp scale-down from the recent average of eight missions per 24 hours.

"There's no significance I can see in it," a U.S. spokesman said. "It's just a matter of timing. We report B52 missions after they are flown."

Other sources indicated several B52 missions were flown today against the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos—an activity which the U.S. Command does not admit takes place—after good targets were turned up by intelligence.

'Chicago Eight' Trial Heats Up

CHICAGO (AP) — A policeman who posed as a protestor during the Democratic national convention testified Tuesday that he heard one of eight men charged with conspiring to promote violence say: "We'll do anything to disrupt the convention."

Richard Thompson was the government's seventh witness.

Thompson said he attended a meeting Nov. 20, 1967, at which he heard Renhard Davis, a defendant, tell about 50 persons that there would be "demonstrations and civil disobedience during the convention and that demonstrators "would do anything to disrupt the convention."

Thompson also testified that another defendant, Abbie Hoffman, tapped him on the shoulder during a so-called peace march Aug. 29, 1968, and asked: "Are you with me?"

Then, Thompson said, Hoffman pointed to Deputy Police Supt. James Rochford and remarked: "If that cat doesn't talk right when we get to the top of the hill we'll hold them there and then we can do what we want."

Hoffman, Davis, and six other men are charged with conspiring to provoke violence during the convention. The federal trial is the first court test of an anti-riot provision of the 1968 Civil Rights Act.

County Library Taking Inventory

Howard County library is taking its yearly inventory, according to Mrs. Opal McDaniel, librarian.

"We will try to take as much of the inventory as possible," she said, "without having to close the library to the public but we will have to close it later for a few days. Right now we're just closing one section at a time until we finish with it."

Mrs. McDaniel said the inventory was usually taken in August, but this year they waited to see if they might take it after moving into the post office building.

NIXON'S ANTIPOVERTY LEGISLATION

House Heading For Bruising Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is heading for a bruising fight over antipoverty legislation in which the Nixon administration will have the support of only a handful of Republican members.

Faced with the need to line up at least 60 of the 188 House Republicans behind its bill to continue the antipoverty program unchanged for two more years, the administration was able to come with only 18.

As a result, Democrats on the Education and Labor Committee who were prepared to go along with the administration planned to write their own bill. It could add as much as $1 billion to President Nixon's request for antipoverty funds.

The shape of the impending battle was outlined Tuesday when the Education and Labor Committee took up the administration bill, delayed for months while the White House sought GOP votes.

Although a majority of the Republican members were prepared to vote for the bill in the committee, lack of support among the general GOP membership would doom it on the floor.

Most Republicans—and a large number of conservative Democrats—favor trimming the program and turning much of it over to the states.

Chairman Carl D. Perkins D-Ky., has refused to let the administration bill out of the committee. "We don't have the votes," he told the Democrats.

"The Republicans will support it in committee and gut it on the floor."

Since there is no chance to get the administration bill passed, he said, the committee should try to write a bill on which it can agree. But Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., who leads the fight to enlarge state control over the antipoverty program, refused to offer his amendments in committee.

"The fight is going to be on the floor anyway," he said. "Why waste the time here?"

"If the Republicans follow the practice of no amendments in committee," said Perkins "We'll bring out a bill that will increase the authorization to $3 billion. We'll beef up every worthwhile program and we'll get a role call on every amendment."

Texas Children Locked In World Of Silence

Editor's Note: Vice President Spiro Agnew will dedicate Thursday the Callier Hearing and Speech Center in Dallas. Without its work, the following interview of pupils at the center would not be possible because the children would be locked in a world of silence.

By MIKE RITCHEY

DALLAS (AP) — Deaf children can learn to speak. There are countless hours of hard, frustrating work involved, on both the part of the teacher and the pupil, but those connected with the Callier Hearing and Speech Center in Dallas believe the rewards to be well worth the trouble.

Dr. Aram Glorig, director of the center, says, "If we can reach the child—and the parents—soon enough, when they are young enough, we can teach them to speak and carry on normal conversation."

PARENTS PRIDE

Perhaps the main difficulty in the whole system and treatment of deafness, says Dr. Glorig, is not the teaching itself but the convincing of a deaf child's parents that the child can be helped and must begin as young as possible.

"Many parents refuse to admit their child is deaf," Dr. Glorig said. "The stigma of deafness—just as with blindness—is so strong that parents have not yet realized that a deaf child is not a freak."

In proving his point, Dr. Glorig brought in two beautiful children who were pupils—and patients—in his center.

At first glance—and on second and third glances, too—Michelle Steele, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Beckham of Dallas, is more than normal. She is precious.

VISITOR CHARMED

A smiling little blonde girl with a turned up nose and bright blue eyes, Michelle is just the right amount of shyness and friendiness in a group of too many adults.

After a visitor is completely charmed, he may notice the two hearing aids in Michelle's ears, with the rather large amplifier in her pocket. However, she seems entirely at ease when her teachers show her off by having her perform for what were not long ago unbelieving eyes.

"She can't hear you exactly," Dr. Glorig says, "but she can read your lips like crazy and she is able to distinguish the differences in the length of sounds."

Michelle says "hello" and answers questions perfectly audibly and in what is certainly not an unusual voice. On top of it all, she is happy.

The second child, four-year-old Jeff Reeves, son of Dr. and Mrs. Homer Reeves of Dallas, looked sharp in his navy blue, double-breasted blazer and powder blue trousers. He too, is strikingly blonde and exactly as wide-eyed as a four-year-old is supposed to be.

GUESSING GAME

Michelle has been with the center since she was two. Young Jeff is only in his second year. There is some trouble understanding the boy, a victim of embryonic German measles, but the doctors are confident that he will be Michelle's equal at the same age.

Dr. Glorig explains that the hearing aids do not allow Michelle, or Jeff, to hear but to become aware of sounds. "Without them," Glorig said, "the children would not be conscious of any sound at all.

"In teaching them to talk," he added, "tapping on the amplifier phonetically is one of the methods used to enable them to distinguish the differences in pronunciations."

Israeli Jets Attack Base

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli jets attacked an Arab guerrilla base 22 miles inside northern Jordan east of Irbid early today and returned safely, the Israeli military command said.

A Jordanian military spokesman said the Israeli jets made two strikes two hours apart near Irbid, killing two civilians and wounding six with rockets and machine-gun fire.

The raid was one of the deepest penetrations by Israeli warplanes in Jordan since the 1967 war.

The Israeli command also said one of its army patrols killed five Arab guerrillas during the night when it intercepted a saboteur band north of the Abdullah Bridge across the Jordan River. No Israeli casualties were reported.

Senate Reaches Agreement On Tough Pesticides Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has reached agreement on a bill requiring states to regulate the accumulation of pesticides in lakes and streams.

The bill, expected to come before the Senate for final action within a few days, calls for pesticide-water quality standards to be set by the Secretary of the Interior.

States then would be expected to set their own standards equal to or higher than the federal standards, or face policing waters within their borders by the federal government.

That provision was written by the Senate Tuesday into an omnibus oil and water pollution bill sponsored by Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine as a California legal group petitioned the Food and Drug Administration to ban the pesticide DDT.

The petition, filed on behalf of five pregnant or nursing women and a farm worker, cited a study indicating a link between DDT and cancer.

A spokesman for the petitioners, Dr. Charles F. Wurster of State University of New York, said evidence that DDT causes cancer in animals is "now beyond question."

The petition was filed by California Rural Legal Assistance, a lawyers' group, and Environmental Defense Fund, Inc., an organization of lawyers and scientists based in Stony Brook, N.Y.

The Senate bill would for the first time give the President authority to deal with oil spills threatening major damage to waters and coastal areas.

Also included are provisions requiring federal agencies to comply with water quality standards, controlling discharge of wastes from vessels using U.S. ports and harbors and setting standards for discharge of heated water into lakes and streams.

Negro Attorney Scores In Atlanta Election

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A liberal Democrat and a moderate Republican will vie in a runoff election for mayor of Atlanta Oct. 21 as the bid of the first Negro in modern times to seek the office fell short.

However, a Negro attorney, Maynard Jackson, won the post of vice mayor now held by the leading mayoralty candidate, Sam Massell.

Massell, 42, rode a surge of Negro votes to the top of the seven-man ticket ahead of Alderman Rodney Cook, 45, the only Republican in the nonpartisan election.

Massell picked up many Negro votes counted on by Dr. Horace Tate, the lone Negro in the race, who finished third.

Conservative Alderman G. Everett Millican, 72, who ran second before the dominantly Negro precincts began to come in, finished fourth. Millican had run on a law-and-order platform.

Jackson, who ran against U.S. Sen. Herman Talmadge last year and was the first Negro to seek the vice mayor's post, defeated Alderman Milton Farris.

With all 149 precincts reporting, Massell had 29,971 votes to 25,830 for Cook. Tate had 22,193 and Millican 17,481.

Final returns showed 54,455 votes for Jackson to 36,299 for Farris.

Jackson led Farris 50,619 to 34,315.

Three other candidates in the mayor's race picked up a few hundred votes among them.

Tate, 46, head of a statewide organization of Negro teachers and a member of the Atlanta school board, apparently was the victim of a split in the Negro vote. Also, voters turned out in fewer numbers than had been expected.

Predictions had run as high as 150,000 votes but the total appeared to be around 100,000. Atlanta has about 200,000 registered voters, 40 per cent of them Negroes.

Convicted Slayer Granted 30 Days

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A federal court judge has denied a writ of habeas corpus for convicted slayer Ralph Carl Powers, originally sentenced to die in the electric chair on July 17, 1965.

In denying the request Tuesday, Chief U. S. Dist. Judge Adrian Spears granted Powers a total of 30 days' stay of execution to pursue an appeal.

Powers was convicted Sept. 21, 1964, of the 1963 shooting death of Morris Renfro, a former high school football player.

State To Seek Death Penalty

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — The state will seek the death penalty in a trial set for Nov. 3 for James Williams, 42, charged with criminally assaulting two elderly Wichita Falls women and robbing a third.

Williams pleaded innocent Tuesday at an arraignment here. He was ordered held without bond.

Tuesday the defense was granted a motion that would prohibit the state from making public statements about the trial and another motion that would prohibit the news media from making any recording or photographic record of the trial.

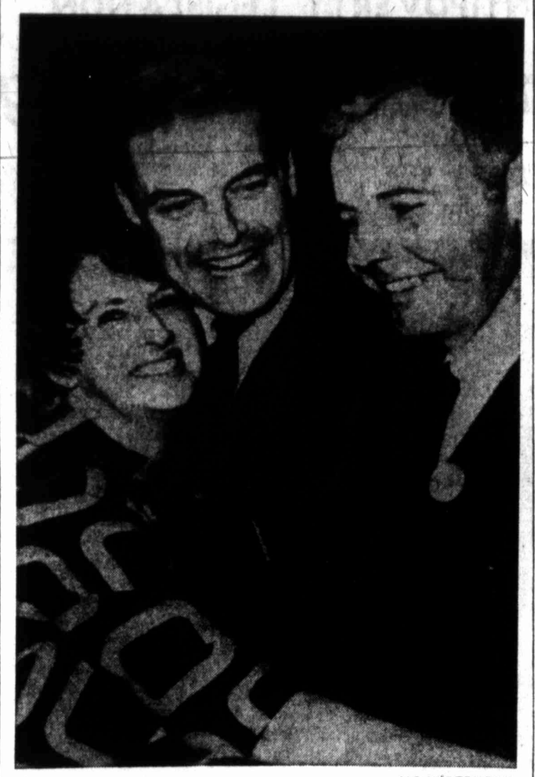

Being Watched From The Sky

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Residents of St. Louis county are being watched from the sky to make sure they don't burn leaves in their back yards.

The Missouri Highway Patrol and the county Division of Air Pollution Control used the patrol's spotter plane Saturday and Sunday but couldn't catch anyone violating a new law prohibiting leaf burning.

In one instance, the plane alerted a police car but the fire was out before authorities arrived. "Apparently the guy saw the plane fly over," said Donald Pescok, director of the control division.

A first violation draws a warning. Conviction can draw a maximum penalty of a $1,000 fine and a year in jail. Pescok said his office plans to use the plane each weekend this fall.

Brock Bids On Vehicles Accepted

The city commission Tuesday night accepted the Bob Brock Ford bids to replace 11 police cars, seven pickups, a public works car, and a garbage truck.

Brock was the only dealer to bid on all four items, and was also the lone bidder on police cars. His bid, after deducting trade-ins, was $25,016.06, an average of $2,274.20 per vehicle.

Broughton Truck and Implement Co. bid on replacing the garbage truck and the public works car, with net bids of $3,528.70 and $2,200. Brock had submitted net bids of $3,236.34 and $2,263.26.

For the seven pickups Brock's bid totaled $12,805.77 after deducting for trade-ins, while Pollard Chevrolet, the only other bidder, submitted a net bid of $12,807.14.

Brock also allowed a $20 discount per unit if he was awarded all units on which he bid, and as such he was low over-all bidder by $244.23.

Assistant City Manager Roy Anderson explained that bidders were fewer than normal this time because some could not get prices, another could not guarantee delivery within the specified time, another to meet specifications on an engine, would have to use an expensive model, and others had the specified engine, but did not put in the model the city wanted.

Both Mayor Arnold Marshall and Commissioner Jimmy Morehead expressed concern that specifications should be written in such a way that only one company could bid on them.

"Our specifications indicate only the minimum we think necessary for the good performance of the vehicle," said Public Works Director Ernest Lillard. "It does not prevent anyone from going above that. Prices this year are about $100 cheaper per car than we were led to believe, including prices from Chevrolet. Only the prices for the pickups were about what we had anticipated."

Lillard also said the Ford dealer told him they were able to make prices cheaper because they were getting a bigger rebate from the factory than others.

In other action the commission appointed Ben Bancroft to a four-year term on the planning and zoning board, and approved the third reading of an off-premises beer permit for the Hilltop Grocery.

Miss Ford Marries Robert Neal Henry

Miss Paula Ruth Ford and EM2 Robert Neal Henry were married Tuesday at Berea Baptist Church. The Rev. Frank Radcliff, pastor of Westside Baptist Church, performed the ceremony before an altar adorned with baskets of white chrysanthemums, greenery and a tree candelabra holding Cathedral tapers.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Ford, Sterling City Route, and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Henry, 1423 E. 6th.

The bride was attired in an Empire gown of peau de soie accented with Alencon lace and designed with petal point lace sleeves. The chapel-length train was enhanced with inserts of lace, and her fingertip veil of illusion fell from an organza rosette with pearl and lace trim. She carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations centered with an orchid.

Miss Virginia Jenkins was maid of honor, and Miss Lana Jo Ford, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. They were dressed in identical floor-length Empire gowns of red brocade accented with satin bows. Their headpieces were matching Dior bows attached to tulle. Both carried peppermint carnation nosegays with satin streamers.

Arvil James Henry, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Danny Priest served as junior groomsman. Ushers were Jerry Daughtery and David Wanner.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School, where she was a member of the Shorthand and Library clubs, and she attended Howard County Junior College. The bridegroom graduated from BSHS, where he was a member of the Future Farmers of America. He attended HCJC prior to joining the Navy. He is assigned to the USS Carbonero.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

As we get deeper into the fall months, I'm almost persuaded to get back into the once-upon-a-time habit of making bread once or twice a month. I don't know when I felt as domestic as I did when I would, by some chance or another, produce several loaves of finely-textured light bread. And when the family devoured in the first day I was as pleased as Punch. This must have to do with that great feeling of accomplishment . . . I had done something no one else in my family could do!

While I made the bread because my family liked it better than what we bought, my mother and grandmothers made it for their families because that was the only way we got light bread when I was a small child. They never baked on the same day because one of the two grandmothers, my mother, or my aunt had the 'starer', and it had to be passed to one of the others before she could 'set' her bread. Baking day at our house brought forth bread, rolls and several delicious coffee cakes . . . and friends from all over town.

Time For Action

The time for patience and forebearance has ended, and the time for enforcement has come under the Texas Water Quality Act of 1967.

The Riverside Homes in Orange, a real estate development company, has been assessed a penalty of $2,800 for polluting the Sabine River. It was the first civil penalty under the water quality act, Attorney General Crawford Martin reported. The development company is building a waste disposal plant in order to conform with the state law, Martin added.

This is little more than a token penalty, though. But it serves as a warning that the people of Texas are serious about improving the quality of their water. Indiscriminate pollution of the water supplies of the state can and will no longer be tolerated. The cost of abating that pollution will be substantial, but clean water is vital to the well being of Texans.

Basis For Comparison

A revolution in packaging may follow a New York City decision to require food retailers to label a variety of goods not only with the total price, but the unit price. The order, effective Nov. 20, was adopted over the vigorous opposition of retailers.

When the order takes effect, the price for each unit — ounce, pound or quart — will have to be included. It is designed to meet widespread complaints from housewives that it is almost impossible to compare the price of different sized packages in the absence of a unit price.

Consumers have accused packagers of deliberate deception in producing packages of odd, fractional weights which make it impossible for the average shopper to make price comparisons. Whether the intent is deliberate or not is an unanswered question. But even retailers must confess that the present packaging and price system is confusing.

Complaints have even reached Congress. Congressional committees are looking into packaging practices. The threat of federal control of packaging is not immediate, perhaps, but it certainly looms as a possibility.

The packaging industry would be wise to police their own ranks. Packaging reform which makes comparison shopping easier would be a relief to housewives. In addition it would turn back the growing threat of federal control.

Long-Range Effects Of Capitulation

WASHINGTON — Which is better — short-range politics or long-range patriotism? This question is pertinent now, and it concerns not only the future of the United States but the destiny of other countries as well.

Too many members of Congress are playing with fire. They are, in effect, telling the enemy that America is ready to raise the white flag in Vietnam before the end of 1970. It seems incredible that a small group from both parties in Congress is demanding that President Nixon announce that the withdrawal of American forces from Vietnam would be completed in 15 months, even though the enemy meanwhile makes no concessions whatsoever.

GEN. LEWIS W. Walt, assistant commandant of the Marine Corps, said in a speech Thursday night that he believes the Vietnam War would have been ended a year ago if it were not for the "voice of dissent" in this country. He added that the Communists have judged this to be the "voice of the American people." He declared:

"In the past year, over 10,000 Americans have been killed in Vietnam. Those who dissent may not have fired the rifle or thrown the grenade, but they must bear a part of the responsibility for the loss of those gallant Americans."

IF MERELY a problem of domestic politics were involved, certainly it would seem more popular to end a war than to keep one going indefinitely. But there's more to the issue. The United States may find itself in the midst of a major war within the next two or three years, and this could conceivably provoke the use of nuclear weapons in Asia with possible attacks against the United States.

Despite the outward appearances of friendship between Moscow and Washington, North Vietnam is directly sponsored by the Soviet Union. It will be recalled that Arthur Goldberg, former American ambassador to the United Nations, pointed out in a speech during the last few months of the Johnson administration that the Soviet Union, not Vietnam, is "the greatest threat" to the United States. He said Americans have "too long taken their eyes away from the main ball game."

PRESIDENT NIXON assumed a big risk when he began withdrawing troops without getting any concessions at the Paris peace conference. President Johnson took a similar chance when he halted the bombing of North Vietnam. In both instances the United States was treated with scorn by the Hanoi government. Not a single sign has appeared to indicate that total withdrawal of American troops will bring an end to the war in Vietnam.

What could happen is that, as soon as the American forces have pulled out, the massacre of the South Vietnamese would begin. The whole world would witness how the supposedly most powerful nation in the world abandoned a small country and rendered valueless the sacrifices of the past few years by Americans and South Vietnamese.

POLITICS TODAY is on the side of surrender — at least that is the way various members of Congress interpret public opinion. It remains to be seen what the American people would say about a pullout from Vietnam if the consequences should prove to be grave. The Wall Street Journal, in an editorial the other day commenting on the possible results of an American withdrawal from Vietnam, said:

"The Communists would take over South Vietnam by military force, which would be a cheap enough price if the international effects stop there. But just as the American debacle at the Bay of Pigs helped prompt the Soviet initiatives leading to the Cuban missile crisis, so we expect American defeat in Vietnam would encourage the adventurous throughout the Communist world . . . Over the long run a show of American irresolution is likely to result in worse crises, not easier ones."

THERE IS AGAIN talk that the United States need not become involved in any wars overseas — as if world events are controlled by America alone. But what would happen when our potential adversaries decide to invade other countries in Europe and Asia? Inevitably, America would be drawn into a major war. It seems likely that if the United States is drawn into a larger war in Asia, the opportunity would not be overlooked by Moscow to try to strengthen its hand in Eastern Europe, and perhaps even encourage East Germany to try to take over West Germany.

Billy Graham

I believe that everyone is good at heart. Yet some religious people think that some of the things that I do are wrong. N.C.

I'm afraid you came to the wrong source if you expect comfort in your argument. We often hear people say, "They act bad, but they are good at heart." God judges us by our actions, and not by shallow sentiment.

He also lays down a principle. He says, "The heart of man is desperately wicked and deceitful above all things." The best of us are capable of murder, embezzlement and larceny. It was for this reason that Christ came to the cross — to redeem us and rescue us from our lostness. If we had all been 'good at heart' Christ wouldn't have been given as a sacrifice for the world's sins.

It doesn't matter so much what 'some religious people' think about you — but God's estimate is all important. He has said, (and this includes you) "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God." He sent a Savior to save us from sin, and wise is the person who accepts Him as such.

Unemployed

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — South Africa had 11,213 unemployed at the end of June — 483 less than in the previous month. The Labor Department reported 4,521 of these were whites, 4,294 Colored (mulatto) and 2,398 Asians.

Yep, Daydreams Keep Us Young

NEW YORK (AP) — The world honors a man for the goals he has won, but he criticizes himself for the daydreams he has never been able to make come true.

They are what keep him young and wondering and hopeful.

The difference between a goal and a daydream is the difference between common sense and fantasy.

It is common sense for a man to want to hold a good job, have a wife and family, buy a home and an auto, and be able to afford to join a country club. These are fine and honest goals, but they do grind a man down in his prime. They tire him out.

On the other hand, daydreams, being mere fantasies of the mind, do not inflict wear and tear on the body. Why, a fellow can sit in a swivel chair and daydream all day long and still be as fresh as a daisy at nightfall.

Wouldn't it be nice if, instead of slaving away at his routine goals, a man could spend half his life realizing his daydreams?

For example, he might—

Get himself piped aboard a battleship.

Break up a white slave ring.

Tear a noisy telephone out by its tendrils.

Buy his wife a department store if she complained she had nothing to wear.

Face a rifle squad for an undying cause, and be saved in the nick of time by the arrival of the U.S. cavalry.

Head off a band of rustlers by taking a shortcut over the hills to Eagle Pass.

Find a way for middle-aged men to keep their hair other than by putting it in a cigar box.

Break through the front line of the New York Jets and set Joe Namath back on his heels three times in a row.

Hire Mrs. Onassis as a judo instructor.

Carve the history of the Republican party on the head of a pin.

Find a needle in a haystack and a winning presidential candidate for the Democrats.

Discover something women can wear to make them look even more interesting than miniskirts.

Solve the genetic code, so everyone could have the kind of children he wanted.

Put a new ingredient in the dollar bill that would make it worth even more than the paper it's printed on.

Yep, goals age us, daydreams keep us young. If we all spent more time pursuing our daydreams, we might never grow old.

Did Uncle Sam Goof?

NEW YORK (AP)—Did Uncle Sam goof?

As everyone learned in the second grade, it's quite easy to err in adding a column of figures. And that's just what some observers think the government did in compiling the unemployment statistics for September.

If there are no serious errors, then the figures are loaded with significance.

The Labor Department announced that joblessness for the calendar month rose to 4 per cent of the labor force, a sudden and very large jump from 3.5 per cent a month earlier.

Making the jump even more surprising is the fact that for the past year the figure had remained around 3.5 per cent, showing no real trend, and that in August it had even dropped a bit.

The September percentage could be correct, but some economists can't easily forget that in the past the government has changed some figures after totaling them up a second time.

There are other surprises:

—Unemployment for white workers rose more swiftly than for blacks. The rate for whites went to 3.6 per cent from 3.2; that for blacks rose to 6.8 per cent from 6.5 per cent.

—The average work week in manufacturing rose to 40.7 hours from 40.6 hours in August.

Both of these findings seem to contradict some generally accepted notions about the employment scene and are bound to occupy economists and analysts for many hours in search of explanations.

First, black workers generally hold the least skilled jobs and therefore have the weakest grip on employment. In the past, such workers generally were among the first to be laid off in slack periods.

The rise in the average work week poses a problem because logically it should have gone the other way. If employers are slowing down their activities, why should they be increasing the work week?

There could be explanations, but it will be some time before they are revealed. Meanwhile, considerable doubt will remain about the validity of the statistics.

If accepted as valid, the unemployment statistics could mean:

—Efforts of the Nixon administration to slow the economy are having an effect. Some of the other so-called economic indicators have shown little direction. The jobless figures point conclusively toward a slowdown.

—Employers may be making conscious efforts to keep black workers on the payroll, thus slowing the rise in black unemployment.

—The relatively slower rate of increase in black joblessness also could mean that job training and other efforts to upgrade the skills of blacks have had noticeable results.

Suspicion that changes may yet be announced in the job figures is based partially on recent experience with other economic statistics, such as for wholesale prices.

Answer To Why The Lady Has The Itch

Dear Dr. Thosteson: The past few weeks I have been scratching like mad on my extreme lower abdomen. Then I discovered tiny brown scabs, but when I scratched them I soon found they were tiny bugs.

They are sort of heart-shaped, with three or four legs on each side, very light in color, and with reddish tips. About the size of a pin head, legs included.

I bathe twice a week in hot soapy water but am afraid to use anything stronger in bath water. Could you tell me how I got these bugs, what they are, and how to get rid of them? — E.C.

Miss (or madam), you've given such a vivid description, not to mention the little sketch you included, that it makes it easy to define your problem as pediculosis.

It is not so easy to find a delicate way of saying that you have acquired lice, probably crab lice.

We think of lice as an affliction of bums, the poverty-stricken, the great unwashed. This is neither very scientific nor accurate. A louse doesn't care much about the economic or social status of the person upon whom he feeds. Any handy human body suits him!

Where did you acquire them? Who knows? The likeliest way is directly from person to person, by close physical contact, but you may have acquired one of the beasties from someone on the bus, in a crowd, or wherever. You may also have acquired it in a public wash room. Or anywhere that someone, already infested with the creatures, happened to lose one.

Soap and water simply cannot cope with body lice. Neither can you get rid of them by picking them all off and destroying them.

Why? Because they lay eggs (or nits), attaching them very firmly to hairs. Lice prefer hairy parts of the body. These nits adhere so strongly that they won't wash off. Ultimately they hatch.

So for final relief, you must use some sort of preparation which will kill the nits.

As you know, I am chary of using trade names, but in this instance I don't know any other way. Among products which are effective in getting rid of these pests are Kwell, Barc, Cuprex, and an old-time one, tincture of larkspur.

Follow the directions carefully and exactly, and you'll get rid of your itch. Besides that, you will get rid of a potential health menace, since these pests can transmit some diseases from person to person.

Around The Rim

That Historic Party

IT HARDLY seems possible that 20 years ago this week Big Spring was having its longest sustained party in history. There were seven days of celebration commemorating the 100th anniversary of the chronicling of his "discovery" of the big spring by Capt. Randolph B. Marcy on Oct. 3, 1849. Scores of organizations were involved in a cavalcade of events that drew thousands to town. Nearly every day there was a big downtown parade, kicked off by the Grand Parade Monday and led by Gov. Allan Shivers through a throng of 20,000 spectators. There were 53 floats, all of them gaily decorated with that fluffy paper in all manner of shapes and designs.

THE BIG EVENT of the week, however, was "Centurama," a pageant of 21 episodes with some 500 costumed characters moving in rapid sequence across the City Park Amphitheatre stage. This included everything from Indians to horses and covered wagons, to soldiers, to locomotives. The show drew 5,000 the first night, and nearly as many the second and 3,500 the third and final night, which was climaxed by a fireworks show. All the time a carnival was going on at the Park.

THE TIMING was just right — people were getting settled down after the shock of WWII. There hadn't been a major celebration in the area in years. The late B. Reagan kept reminding of the upcoming 100th anniversary. Late in 1948, Elmo Wasson, then Chamber of Commerce president, named a committee, headed by the writer, to make a recommendation to the board, which was done in January, 1949. Out of this came a meeting Feb. 26 at which 50 organizations were represented and a decision made to produce the big historical pageant, "Centurama." By March, the centennial commission (headed by Shine Philips) had been formed by Doug Orme, who had become the Chamber president. The steering committee called meetings upon meetings. Promotions flowed everywhere; whisker growing was sponsored by Brothers of the Bush, costumes by Sisters of the Swish. Centennial certificates sold for $1 each and raised over $6,500 which underwrote the celebration. There were other gimmicks including a Centennial Seal (designed by Gilbert Sawtelle), Centennial Plates (by Hemphill-Wells). The Herald issued a 212-page commemorative edition.

FRANK M. GRANDSTAFF, a lifer in the Tennessee prison, had written a cantata, "Big Spring," based on Shine Philips' book, and the governor of Tennessee consented for him to come hear his work, sung by the T&P mail choir, before a packed Sunday afternoon crowd at the city auditorium. Wire services and several metropolitan papers, as well as Time and Life, staffed the event.

That evening, Pat M. Neef, former governor of Texas, honored the churches and pioneers before an overflowing crowd at the amphitheatre. On Monday Mayor G. W. Dabney, Shine Philips and Dr. P. D. O'Brien officially launched the week just before the giant inaugural parade. At 4 p.m., Old Timers, led by Mr. Reagan, dedicated a marker at the historic spring. The first showing of "Centurama" was followed by the Queen's Ball at the Bombardier School (Webb AFB) hangar, with coronation of Patti McDonald, and the grand march led by Gov. Shivers.

TUESDAY BROUGHT a fly-in of private planes. There was a water fight by visiting fire departments, and, then the Good Neighbor Parade, followed by "Centurama" and the carnival.

Wednesday saw another giant parade with 700 men and 135 men from Fort Hood, plus numerous other special units, veterans organizations, an overfly of planes, including the huge B-26s. "Centurama" and fireworks closed out the day.

THURSDAY SAW the opening of the Howard County Fair, for a successful three-day run. Friday was dedicated to youth with youth city officials, a parade of some 6,000 school children, and a super all-school program at the stadium. Saturday saw the christening of Pioneer Airlines "The Plainsman;" a grand labor and industry parade; speeches by W. G. Vollmer, T&P president, and Ray Hackney, regional official of the Communications Workers of America; a massive barbecue, and finally the all-West Texas square dance with Hoyle Nix and his West Texas Cowboys furnishing lively music.

WHEN IT WAS all over, Big Spring barely caught its breath before being caught up in the greatest wave of development and enthusiasm in its history. —JOE PICKLE

Armaments On Thin Ice

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Laird's last three public statements can be paraphrased in the vernacular — we are skating on thin ice.

HE HAS said that in cutting back on weapons in order to spend on welfare, Congress is taking the chance that we won't need the weapons.

He has said that in withdrawing troops and in reducing draft calls, we are hoping the Communists will give us a break in Vietnam.

He has said, and very specifically at the launching of the new attack submarine, the USS Trepang, at Groton, Conn., that we are conceding the Soviets a nearly three-to-one superiority in the number of submarines, but are counting on the quality of our boats and the dedication of our boys to make up the difference.

THREE CAPSULES of the Secretary's informed opinion ought to be separately pondered, for they contain warnings that a self-governing people should not brush off.

We too often assume that the Pentagon's demand for weaponry is insatiable, and that the demands for housing and health, education and nutrition, racial equalization and anti-pollution, are finite. The exact opposite is true.

THE DEFENSE Department knows with fair mathematical certainty what arms are needed to provide a margin of safety against the total World Communist threat. Given the required amount of nuclear megatonage, chemical-bacteriologicals, explosives, manpower and the vehicles to move them all, our military planners could reasonably insure against every kind of enemy attack, except the "insane" kind, and even this could be taken care of by a preemptive strike. Expensive as it is, we could make ourselves an invulnerable world power, or at least reduce our vulnerability to negligible risks.

But there is no way on earth that a government can come close to the goals of domestic reformers. No amount of money will purchase and maintain housing that somebody won't gripe about, medical care that will satisfy the unhealthy, schools and food and civil rights and air-water purity which can be pronounced in no need of improvement. We can have a sufficiency of guns, but never of butter, and yet that isn't the real choice. The flower which we are called upon to pluck from the nettle is freedom, both physical and political. The concern is that, without adequate military preparation, we could be incinerated, invaded, subjugated by enemies who are plotting just such a finish for this nation.

AS TO THE idea that the Communists will desist in Vietnam, it escapes being ridiculous only if we make it intolerable and unprofitable for them to continue. When the enemy has had enough war for a while, we can have peace for a while. Perhaps that has happened already in Vietnam, thanks to bullets, iron bombs and napalm, and this is the only fact that will justify troop withdrawal and draft suspension.

FINALLY, THERE is Mr. Laird's make-the-best-of-it hope expressed at Groton that one submarine of ours is worth three of the Russians, and that American boys are better motivated than theirs. The Secretary was voicing an article of faith in American superiority that used to be provable and justifiably a matter of pride. Whether this is any longer the case would be a matter of subjective opinion.

And most of us, it clearly appears, are temperamentally unaccustomed to believing in American vulnerability. We do not accept our mortality as a nation. We refuse to translate such statements as Mr. Laird's into their skull-and-bones reality.

What Others Say

The drawing up of a guide to what professional actors can be asked to perform in the way of nudity and sex on the stage, and the acclamation of the word-artist and master of symbolism, Vladimir Nabokov, as the greatest living American novelist, are an indication of the creative bankruptcy of our times.

Actors may so far imitate but not perform sex acts on the stage, and novelists can, in the name of interpretation of life as they see it, present us with Lolita and now Ada, in which Van Veen and his half-sister fall in love at the ages of 14 and 12, and "begin an energetic sex life in the nooks and the dells of the family's rural estate."

Neither nudity dramatists nor Nabokov-imitating novelists would admit that they are very interested in sales of their wares. But if the market declined they would, like the "see-through" fashion devisers, quickly turn to something else.

All this is not new. In "The General Next to God," Richard Collier describes the vice which The Salvation Army's founders and friends discovered in London a century ago. "The real profit comes from virgins, in 100 pounds . . ."

Nothing can be done by screaming protest except advertise the disease. Something can be done by legislation. Most can be done by the millions who would loudly declare that they are Christians living in a God-honored country. They can keep their own homes and families guarded . . . and lend their money and time to the provision of better fare in better facilities for the young.

Evil is constantly assailing us as industriously as flu bugs and cancer growths. Medicine fights on. So should each one of us.—Salvation Army War Cry.

Dear Abby

—ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I recently met a very charming 73-year-old widower in Florida. (I am a 70-year-old widow.) It was a whirlwind romance and we married shortly after. Herbert is very well-to-do, but that is not the reason I married him.

The problem is that Herbert gave me no hint at all that he had had surgery six years ago, and all he could offer me was "a lovely home and a gin rummy partner."

Please don't get the idea that I think "sex" is everything in marriage, but I am a very youthful 70, and I was looking forward to a little more than a lovely home and a gin rummy partner.

I don't want to disgrace my children and grandchildren with a divorce. Herbert laughingly said, "If you got yourself a boyfriend, I wouldn't divorce you as long as I didn't find out about it." What should I do?

MISLED

DEAR MISLED: Most women of 70 who marry a man of 73 would be content with a lovely home and a gin rummy partner, but if you are not, don't worry about "disgracing" anyone. See a lawyer about an annulment. You have legitimate grounds.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this for myself and a lot of my girl friends.

There is a woman in town who is married and has small children. Her husband works nights, and while he is working this lady runs around with other men. (We know this is true because our parents have told us so.)

This lady calls me or one of my girl friends just about every night, asking us to baby-sit for her. We can use the money, but our parents have told us to turn her down. No matter how many times we turn her down, she calls again.

We think maybe if she can't get a baby-sitter she'll stay home. If you put this in your column she might see it and take the hint. HOPING

DEAR HOPING: Assuming your parents are right, it will take more than a "hint" from me, and repeated turn-downs from a long list of sitters to make this lady stay home, if she's inclined to run around.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am getting ready for a visit from my brother and his wife, and much as I love them both, I am dreading their visit. Why? Because they both smoke like every puff was their last.

After their last visit, I had to take EVERYTHING out of the bedroom they occupied and air it two days running. Even the draperies, mattress and pillows! A strong odor of stale cigarettes still persisted, so I searched and searched and finally found an ashtray full of cigarette butts in a DESK DRAWER!

I have come up with an idea: The next time we go to visit THEM I will take along several strong onions and I'd carry a slice of raw onion with me to the breakfast table and make them inhale it with their breakfast. I would carry a slice of onion with me into every room of their house, and also into their car. And upon leaving I'd "hide" slices of raw onion all over their house. Then they would know what it's like to try to eliminate an offensive odor which has permeated everything. What do you think?

LOVES FRESH AIR

DEAR LOVES: I think they deserve it. But I'm betting against your ability to be that rude.

Fem Waives Extradition

BURNET, Tex. (AP) — A woman held in Denver in the slaying of a wealthy Marble Falls rancher has waived extradition to Texas. Two men held with her are fighting the move, Sheriff Wallace Riddell said.

Barbara Long, 26, is willing to return for arraignment here in the strangulation death of Wesley Joe Baugh, the sheriff said.

Her companions, John Thurman, 23, and Marvin Kline, 26, are fighting extradition, Riddell said. He said he has asked Denver authorities to hold the woman until all three can be extradited here at the same time.

The three were arrested Thursday in Rocky Ford, Colo.

Baugh's body was discovered by his wife on their ranch Sept. 18 in front of an abandoned house where three persons, befriended by Baugh, had been living. He had been missing three days.

STEER QB IS CUT DOWN — Gary Hinds, Big Spring quarterback who played a major role in the Steers' exciting 29-15 victory over Lubbock High last weekend, is shown being stopped by several Westerners after a sizeable gain. Joe Zubiate is the boy in the foreground while No. 60 is Fill Guinn. Lubbock's 99 is Larry Stockton.

Cooper Game Is 'Big One,' Says Dykes

"Since the boys played their last game with Permian last November, they've been looking forward to this one," coach Spike Dykes of BSHS told members of the Quarterback Club Tuesday night, in discussing the Friday night 3-AAAA encounter with Cooper in Abilene.

"We'll be ready," the mentor said, with noticeable pride in his voice.

Dykes said it would take a supreme effort on the part of the Steers to stop the undefeated Cougars but added he believed it could be done.

"Thanks to our younger kids, we've had good workouts Monday and today. The kids want to play."

Dykes said that, in order for the Longhorns to win, they will have to stop QB Richard Mildren, a senior 187-pounder the coach compared favorably with his brother, Jack, who starred for Cooper two years ago and who is now first string quarterback for the University of Oklahoma.

"Cooper's defense wins for them," Spike said. "Invariably, they get the ball in good field position and give it to the offense. They run the same type defense they always did, and they do it well."

Cooper usually plays six men up front while Mildren and Roy Longacre back up the line.

Scout R. S. Higgins described sophomore Kelvin Caesar as a back who "can really fly." For that reason, he is a dangerous outside runner who can break at any time.

Mildren injured his left knee slightly in last week's Ector game but is likely to be ready for 48 minutes of play if he is needed Friday, Higgins said.

Longacre is a tailback who runs "real tough" inside, according to the Steer scout.

Best pass receiver on the Cooper team is split end Hobby Stevens, a 160-pound senior. Higgins said he had a "great pair of hands and good speed."

"He's the best high school receiver I've seen in years," Higgins remarked, "and he has no regard for his personal safety."

Dykes said the Steers gave him a great thrill in beating Lubbock High last week, adding that the club's blocking was the best he's seen since he's been here.

The team's ability to screen out would-be tacklers bordered on the fantastic at times, according to the coach.

Blockers like Dave Thomas, Fillmore Guinn, Roy Anderson, Lewis Switzer, Robert Dennis and Randy Morgan particularly came in for praise.

Cheerleader Patty Spier spoke briefly to the gathering and urged fans attending the game to use the school's color scheme (black and gold) in some manner while dressing for the game.

Jimmy Felts Jr., QBC co-captain, was in charge of the session, which was climaxed with a film of the Big Spring-Lubbock game.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Spike Dykes' Big Spring Steers will play more important games this season but, for pure excitement, last Saturday's game between the locals and Lubbock High would be hard to beat.

The fact that Big Spring couldn't buy any yardage with its passing game probably helped the suspense. The Steers did it all on the ground, which is the hard way to go about anything, but they did it well.

QB Pat Kelly of the Westerners gave the Steers a fit with his uncanny ability to shoot from the hip but the Steers won because they seemed intent on seeing that the boy with the lucky No. 7 on his back emerged not so lucky.

How many games will you witness in a season or a lifetime where (1) a 94-yard run from scrimmage puts one team back in contention; (2) a back runs 29 yards for a score after going on the wrong count; and (3) a guard finds help in the person of a referee and intercepts a ball that results in the first touchdown he ever scored? No one in the ball park was more surprised than Randy Morgan of Big Spring when he saw the ball settling in his arms but he didn't muff his big chance.

What a shame Lubbock people don't support their own. The smallest crowd in several years to see a Steer game was present and most of those who did show were Big Spring rooters. The night before, when Lubbock Monterey and Lubbock Coronado had been involved in a game in the same stadium, a throng of 9,500 was in attendance.

Yet Lubbock High has a more exciting club than Monterey or Coronado.

Craig Morton, ace quarterback for the Dallas Cowboys, could have wound up at Notre Dame rather than the University of California after leaving high school.

Notre Dame courted him but Cal won out, perhaps becaust Morton's high school coach had attended California.

Had Morton gone to Notre Dame, chances are Dallas wouldn't have been able to tap him in the draft. He would have attracted more attention and, no doubt, been picked up by some team lower in the standing than the Cowboys.

* * * *

Incidentally, Tom Conway Jr., a local boy attending Notre Dame, will accompany a group of students who will go to New York this weekend for the Irish/tussle with Army.

Another Big Springer, Gary Don Newsom, is a member of the Cadet corps and is sure to be in the stands.

Another note on Notre Dame:

Years ago, a fellow named Bill Shakespeare was one of the great punters and pass catchers for the Irish.

His weakest subject was English. He always had trouble passing the course.

Sands High School is experiencing a time of travail in football but the Mustangs could be salty by 1970.

Nine of the starters on this year's team will be back.

Coach Johnny Ray went from Notre Dame to the University of Kentucky labeled as a defense-minded coach but his Wildcats gave up 58 points to Indiana in its opening game and, two weeks later, yielded 44 to Auburn.

Buffs Bruised In 'Dog Bout

STANTON — "If we can muster 11 boys, we're going to take on Post this weekend, and we're going to do our best to beat 'em," Coach Gerald Lloyd said today.

This might have been a slight exaggeration — but not much, for he lost three boys for the season in last Friday's clash with Coahoma. Rusty Hicks went out with a shoulder separation; Lupe Padilla was lost with a broken hand; and Gary Kitchens was sidelined with a knee injury.

Stanton was reduced to the point that it was down to one remaining back last Friday.

The remainder of the squad came out with some bruises, but spirit is high, said Lloyd. The Buffs are serious about intending to whittle Post down to size.

Texas Picked To Nudge OU At Dallas

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The annual battle of Dallas, also known as the Texas-Oklahoma football game, takes place Saturday in the Cotton Bowl. Both teams are hoping for an assist from Michigan State.

The Spartans will be hundreds of miles away in Columbus, Ohio, playing top-ranked Ohio State. If they can pull off an upset, the Texas-Oklahoma winner could be No. 1 in the polls.

"Someone'll have to derail Ohio State for this game to decide the national championship," said Darrell Royal of Texas. "Someone's got to get to them before anyone in this section can think of the national championship."

Royal's got enough problems worrying about eighth-ranked Oklahoma, even though his own team is rated second.

"We haven't been extended or pushed in beating California, Texas Tech and Navy," he said. "We haven't met adversity. I don't know if we can meet adversity until we're put to the true test, and that'll come Saturday."

Royal says his backfield of James Street, Jim Bertelsen, Ted Koy and Steve Worster is "as good as any I've had at Texas" and he calls Street his best-ever quarterback. Oklahoma counters with tailback Steve Owens, a Heisman Trophy candidate who grinds out more than 100 yards every week, and Jack Mildren, a potentially great sophomore quarterback.

The bitterly fought, rock 'em-sock 'em pick is . . . Texas.

And some bad news from Columbus, Ohio, for Royal and Oklahoma's Chuck Fairbanks . . . Ohio State to remain No. 1 by whipping 19th-ranked Michigan State.

"If Southern California's Jimmy Jones is as tough as Purdue's Mike Phipps, we're in trouble," said Stanford's John Ralston after Phipps threw five touchdown passes and a two-point conversion to nip the Indians 36-35 last Saturday.

Stanford's in trouble. The pick is Southern Cal—with Jones passing and Clarence Davis running—to take a giant stride toward the Rose Bowl.

Penn State over West Virginia.
Missouri over Nebraska.
Arkansas over Baylor.
Georgia over Mississippi.
Purdue over Michigan.
Tennessee over Georgia Tech.
Notre Dame over Army.

ABA Plucks Beaty With 4-Year Pact

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Strategy of the young American Basketball Association in its war against the Establishment closely resembles that of its football brethren with the latest skirmish landing Zelmo Beaty on a four-year contract.

The 6-foot-9 veteran center of the Atlanta Hawks signed with the Los Angeles Stars of the ABA and announced Tuesday he would sit out the coming season.

His ABA pact starts with the 1970-71 campaign since the National Basketball Association club holds an option on his services this year.

General Manager Jim Hardy and owner Jim Kirst of the Stars both admitted they expect a future merger with the NBA, but with two clubs in Los Angeles—the Stars and the NBA Lakers owned by Jack Kent Cooke.

In Beaty, the Stars landed the No. 2 scorer and top rebounder of the Hawks, who only last year moved from St. Louis to Atlanta and reached the Western Division finals before being defeated by the Lakers.

"Security," said Beaty was the reason he jumped from the establishment to the newer ABA. Already the young league had signed Billy Cunningham of the Philadelphia 76ers to a Carolina contract starting in 1971 and Dave Bing of Detroit to a Washington pact for next year.

In addition, the ABA has signed four top NBA officials for the coming campaign.

Asked about a possible merger during a news conference hailing the signing of Beaty, Hardy answered:

"I feel a merger eventually will come about with two teams in Los Angeles — unless Mr. Cooke wants to move the Lakers. I definitely think two teams can operate successfully in Los Angeles."

Kirst said: "At this time there are no talks going on about merger (although they have been held previously.) We probably are the biggest roadblocks. It's easy to sit down and talk of shuttling the Los Angeles Stars, but we want no part of it."

However, Kirst indicated that if his club can remain in Los Angeles under a merger agreement he would favor such action, which requires a unanimous vote in the ABA.

The National and American football leagues merged two years ago after the latter had made player raids and the competition had driven players' contracts to astronomical monetary levels.

FOR JACK MILDREN

It's Homecoming After Fashion

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — It will be a homecoming of sorts for Jack Mildren, but this one will definitely be on the hostile side.

Mildren was the most sought after schoolboy football star in Texas when he graduated from Abilene Cooper in 1967. He chose to go to Oklahoma instead of a Texas school.

Now, a sophomore for the Sooners, Mildren will start at quarterback Saturday for Oklahoma against Texas in their 64th meeting which will be nationally televised.

Mildren said the game means so much to him.

"It's my home state," he says. "We can't lose. I couldn't go home. It's another year before we play 'em again. That's a long holiday."

Mildren said Oklahoma must cut down on its mistakes to whip the second-ranked Longhorns.

"We'll have to keep away from penalties," Mildren said. "They have a good defense. I played against Halsell (linebacker Glen) in high school. We shoulda lettered him. He played in our backfield all night."

It will be the 64th meeting between the bitter rivals with Texas leading 40-21-2.

It's the first time both teams have come into the game undefeated since 1963. Oklahoma is eighth-ranked.

Texas coach Darrell Royal and Oklahoma mentor Chuck Fairbanks spoke to the press in Dallas on a telephone hookup Tuesday.

Fairbanks said not enough good things had been said about the Texas defense.

"You hear a lot about Texas' offense, but their first team defense has allowed only two touchdowns in the last nine games," Fairbanks said.

Royal, of course, had something nice to say about Oklahoma.

He said Heisman Trophy candidate Steve Owens "has to be a great runner or he wouldn't have the statistics he has. And Mildren gives them the big play potential."

The plaudits from both sides will no doubt get louder. Nobody wants to say anything ugly that can be pinned to the opponents' locker room door.

But at 3:20 p.m. CDT Saturday all niceties will cease at the Cotton Bowl.

Callihan Out For Season

FORSAN — Coach Don Stevens of Forsan High School lost his second fullback since the 1969 season began when Alton Callihan went out with knee problems.

Callihan, who was after his fourth varsity letter, is to undergo knee surgery Thursday.

Earlier, junior Jackie Willis was lost with a knee problem. He is still wearing a cast from his hip to his ankle and won't be allowed to report for basketball drills until January, Stevens said.

Lee Doyle Whetsel has been moved from the line to the fullback spot and will play against Hermleigh Friday night. Tom Bill Kuykendall will replace Whetsel at end.

Stevens now has 32 boys in camp. Idle last week, the Buffs rule as slight favorites over Hermleigh.

The Forsan B team plays its second game of the season at 10 a.m. here Saturday, at which time it hosts Wall. The team is 0-1.

Astros All But Rewrote Record Book In 1969

HOUSTON — The Houston Astros have completed their finest year in history.

Posting an 81-81 record, nine games better than their previous high performance, the Astros virtually rewrote the Houston club record book in 1969, as well as jotting some new entries in the National League and major league records.

It was a year of streaks. The Astros were almost left at the post as they went 4-20 in April. But they came back strong, twice matching the Houston record of 10 wins in a row, and — as late as Sept. 10 — they were within two games of the National League Western Division.

Although they finished fifth in the West, it had to be an outstanding season.

Probably the most important new record set in 1969 was a major league pitching record for strikeouts. The Astro staff fanned 1,221 batters, becoming the first ever to strike out as many as 1,200 in a season.

They also tied two major league records (and set National League marks) by turning seven double plays in a nine-inning game, and by hitting two grand-slam home runs in one inning.

Individually, Astro center fielder Jimmy Wynn tied the National League season mark for bases on balls, walking 148 times, one of the high totals in major league history.

Righthanded pitcher Larry Dierker wiped out almost all Houston club marks, becoming the Astros' first 20-game winner (20-13). He also set records in such departments as total innings and most complete games.

Clubwise, the Astros scored more runs, drove in more runs, and stole more bases than they ever had done before.

On the won-lost side of the ledger, the 1969 season saw Houston post new marks for home wins (52) and night wins (57). The Astros went 43-29 against the Eastern Division, and during the year won the season series from such outstanding clubs as the New York Met (10-2), San Francisco Giants (10-8), and St. Louis Cardinals (7-5), as well as battling the hard-hitting Cincinnati Reds to a 9-9 stalemate.

Wynn, hitting .269 with 33 homers, and shortstop Denis Menke, .268 with 91 runs-batted-in, were the top Astros' batting leaders. Dierker, Don Wilson (16-12) and record-setting rookie Tom Griffin (11-10) featured the impressive pitching.

Big Ten Asks For Equality

CHICAGO (AP) — The Big Ten's slip is showing again and some of the coaches are asking for football equality.

A preconference record of 12-16-1 including last week when conference teams posted a 3-7 record on Black Saturday, has brought on the cry of "What's wrong with the Big Ten?"

Coaches and those close to the situation know that the Big Ten's higher academic requirements, a lower number of football scholarships and the rule against "Red Shirts" is the cause of the decline.

The biggest disadvantage is the rule against the "Red Shirt" a practice where players can be withheld from competition for a year without losing any eligibility.

The Big Eight Conference red shirts and as a result has a 6-0 record over the Big Ten this season and is 10-0 over the Big Ten the last two seasons. In the last three years, the Big Eight holds a 12-1 edge over Big Ten teams.

Although Commissioner Bil Reed claims the Big Ten is far from a football disaster area some of the coaches would like the rules changed.

"I'm in favor of one rule for everyone," said Coach Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue's undefeated and ninth-ranked Boiler makers. "I think we should follow the NCAA rules which are strict enough. I'm all for a football program to be as strong as it can be."

Illinois' Jim Valek said "I'm for red shirting and more scholarships. Personally, I would like to see the entire nation work under the same rules including the same number of scholarships."

Northwestern's Alex Agase flatly said "I want the same advantages that are enjoyed by the people I'm competing against. Nothing more."

One dissenter was Woody Hayes, coach of Ohio State's top-ranked Buckeyes, who is al' for the limitations placed on the Big Ten members.

Hayes' formula is selectivity in recruiting on both the athletic and academic levels.

"I don't believe you need too many good players to have a good team," said Hayes. "Remember, you can price yourself out of football. The object is to get the youngsters you can keep under the academic standards."

Sands Will Host Lubbock Eleven

ACKERLY — Happily for the Sands Mustangs, this is an open weekend. It will give the boys a chance to get well from an assortment of bad ankles, sore knees and bruised rib cages, etc.

Ed Barraza, tackle, went out last weekend in the first three minutes of play, but his ankle appeared Monday to making better progress than at first anticipated.

Friday, Sands will entertain Lubbock Christian High School at Ackerly, then on Oct. 24 it gets a double-tough test in the district opener against Hermleigh at Ackerly.

Two Other Local Swimmers Place

Overlooked among Big Spring winners at the Midland YMCA Swimming meet the past weekend were Chris Danford and Roger Lloyd.

Danford placed third in the 50-yard free style race (an open event), at which time he was clocked in 27.8.

He was also third in the 100-yard back stroke in the time of 1:17.2 and fourth in the 100-yard breast storke in 1:25.0.

Lloyd was third in the 100-yard fly stroke in the time of 1:45.1.

MAKING THEIR POINT—An anti-population group in the San Francisco area is seeking 300 recruits to spend a week without food in this plastic pillow, with a starting date of Oct. 11. The participants will be given water and entertainment, as they seek to dramatize the effects of over population. The main problem now is to find a community or place where the experiment will be permitted.

Operation Intercept Inept, Senator Says

By The Associated Press

Operation Intercept continued today amid statements by some federal officials that it is ineffective, a step-up in a Mexican countermove and announcement by U.S. customs officials of arrests for drug smuggling.

Dr. Sidney Cohen, chief administrator of the U.S. Government Center for Study of Narcotics and Drug Abuse, said in San Antonio Tuesday that Operation Intercept won't halt narcotics traffic and it won't solve the nation's drug problem.

In Washington, Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., told the Senate that Intercept should be called Operation Inept.

"Just as no one can quarrel with the need for controlling the traffic in illegal drugs and narcotics, no one can quarrel with the fact that Operation Intercept has done serious, possibly permanent, damage to our relations with Mexico," Yarborough said.

In Juarez, Mexico, across from El Paso, the U.S.-Mexico Border Cities Association (BCA) Tuesday voted to ask President Nixon to change Intercept.

The American and Mexican business leaders said Intercept has severely reduced business on both sides of the border and has provoked a retaliatory movement known as Operation Dignity in Mexican border towns in an effort to keep Mexicans from shopping in the United States.

The BCA sent a telegram to Nixon urging him to "emphasize interception points in the vicinity of the border" rather than on the border itself. It urged changes in inspection methods "such as blitz inspections, instead of 100 per cent inspections, that will accomplish better results without basically restricting the normal flow of traffic."

Juarez civic leaders announced Tuesday that Operation Dignity will enter a new phase today. A house-to-house campaign will be made urging Mexicans to stay away from El Paso.

In addition, speeches will be made to schools, labor halls and civic organizations. The stay-at-home operation has been confined to passing out leaflets at international bridges.

Manuel Savignac, chief of the Juarez Tourist Bureau, told a news conference that Intercept was an attack "on the dignity of Mexico...an unfair way to treat Mexicans, the only good friends of the United States in Latin America."

Savignac said "20 years of good U.S.-Mexican relations are going down the drain" and urged American citizens to oppose the border searches.

In El Paso, AFL-CIO labor pickets are urging Americans not to cross the border to Juarez because of the Mexican countermove.

But the U. S. Customs pointed to seizures of drugs as an answer to critics of Intercept.

Monday and Tuesday, customs agents announced arrests in Edinburg, Brownsville and Sonora, Tex., and Mexican authorities said they arrested a McAllen, Tex., man on their side of the border.

In Edinburg, Roy Albert Rodruguez, 24, of New York City, was charged with smuggling 27 pounds of marijuana. In Brownsville, Thomas Wheeler, 24, of Los Angeles, was charged with bringing in 37 pounds of marijuana.

Two Fort Worth residents, Garfield Johnson, 43, and Irene Davis, 35, were arraigned at San Angelo after their arrest on charges of smuggling a pound of heroin. Officers said they had followed the couple from just below Amistad Dam at Del Rio before making the arrest.

Mexican federal police in Reynosa said they arrested Leobardo Gonzalez Perez, 35, of McAllen and charged him with attempting to cross the Rio Grande with 60 pounds of marijuana.

In San Antonio, narcotics officers said marijuana prices have been upped three fold as a result of intercept. They said that heroin now appears to be easier to obtain than marijuana, and some pushers are selling blood weed and catnip for marijuana.

In Laredo, chamber of commerce officials called on Laredo residents to visit, shop and eat in Nuevo Laredo Friday to show solidarity with their sister-city across the border.

George F. Ballard, a chamber executive, said, "The merchants in Nuevo Laredo probably have been hit twice as hard as we in Laredo have been," by Intercept.

New members welcomed into the pack were Rodney Davidson, Norman Fryar, Russell Burchett, George Longley and Keith Smith.

'PRESIDENT NIXON CALLED THE MOON AND BILLED US'

DETROIT (AP) — "President Nixon called the moon and billed us," Samuel Brezner moaned when he got a $9,000 telephone bill.

The computer - style lettering on his statement said he had been credited with paying all except $9,000 — of the $39,011.20 charge for the month of August.

An accompanying note advised, "We periodically ask our customers to compare their records with ours to be sure we are correct."

Brezner, 63, legal advisor to the Wayne County sheriff's office, found he had already paid his phone bill — $11.20.

"I must respectfully dispute owing you $9,000 as you claim," Brezner wrote the company. He suggested the company keep the $11.20 of the $30,011.20 it says he paid, and then send back the $30,000.

"I promise to invest it in your parent company's stock as a symbol of my deep gratitude for your abundant generosity. Whatever your decision, I shall not pay the $9,000," he wrote.

Brezner said he thought his note had straightened out the confusion, but the bill he received this month still had him owing the $9,000.

A spokesman for Michigan Bell Telephone Co. declined immediate comment.

GRIN AND BEAR IT

"Aren't you the same fear-mongers who predicted World War III when we discontinued the $500 bill?"

'War Birds' Pact Signed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Could crows, ravens, jays, hawks and vultures replace humans in such "dangerous, difficult, expensive or boring" facets of war as aerial photography, gunnery, steering of missiles, detection of mines and search and destroy missions?

The Pentagon has signed a $600,000 contract with the University of Mississippi to find out.

According to the three-year contract with the university, "this program is based on the supposition that birds will eventually replace humans for activities that are dangerous, difficult, expensive or boring" in war.

"Much of the research will relate to complex forms of stimulus control," it continues, "for example, visual search, auditory pattern recognition, pursuit and tracking, controlled locomotion and operation of manipulanda while flying."

The studies will concentrate on the adaptability to war of crows, ravens, jays, hawks, vultures, doves, parrots, mynahs, chickens and pigeons.

The contract was disclosed in a Pentagon circular seeking ornithologists to work on the project. At least one researcher was less than enthusiastic.

"I read it, I re-read it, and a read it again," said one scientist quoted in today's Washington Post, "and I still couldn't believe it. It's insane."

Prior attempts to draft birds and bird-like creatures for war haven't worked out. One, named Project X-Ray, envisioned bats with incendiary devices strapped to their backs flying into Japan during World War II, roosting in eves of wooden buildings and setting off the fire bombs by flipping over to sleep.

"The trouble with that one," a scientist who worked on the project told the newspaper, "was that it almost burned down an Air Force base in New Mexico."

TINY SWIMMER DOES UNDERWATER TRICK — Annie Laurie Alexander swims through a hoop held by her teacher, Crystal Scarborough, in Los Angeles. 'Too Tragic To Talk About'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A school friend attending the funeral of 20-year-old Diane Linkletter, daughter of television star Art Linkletter, remembered her as someone "always searching for something she couldn't find."

Miss Linkletter, youngest of five children, plunged to her death Saturday from her sixth story apartment window. Her father said she died while under the effects of the hallucinatory drug LSD.

Among the small gathering of friends and family at private graveside services in the Hollywood Hills Tuesday was comedian Danny Thomas, who said the death was "too tragic to talk about."

Two Held Without Bond In Death Of Patrolman

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — The two men charged with murder in the shooting death of a Texas highway patrolman in La Marque Monday night are being held without bond, one in jail and the other in a hospital.

Elmer Thomas, 20, a Houston construction worker, is in the county jail in Galveston following his arrest Tuesday morning in a Texas City railroad yard.

Roosevelt Ford, 25, a Houston truck driver, was in undetermined condition late Tuesday in John Sealy Hospital following surgery for a bullet wound in his left arm.

He was captured Tuesday morning near a Texas City tin smelter.

The men are charged with the murder of Norman Zator, 25, of La Marque. Zator was shot while apparently making a routine traffic arrest.

He died in Galveston County Memorial Hospital. Funeral services will be Thursday in La Marque. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Kay Zator of La Marque; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Zator, and a brother, Randy, of Houston.

The Texas Rangers, Highway Patrol and several law enforcement agencies were in on the manhunt, including a helicopter and dogs from a state prison farm.

Zator's body was found beside the car he had stopped. He had his gun in his hand and one shot had been fired.

Plane Crash Kills Pilot, Rakes Homes

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A fighter plane trying for an emergency landing crashed in a residential area near Tinker Air Force Base Tuesday, killing the copilot and leaving a block-long trail of destruction.

Two homes were destroyed and three damaged, but no civilians reported injuries. The pilot of the Kansas Air National Guard F100 parachuted to safety less than three blocks from the scene.

Col. Loy Norris, commander of Tinker base, said the pilot, Capt. James L. Kirkhuff, radioed that his engine had flamed out at 15,000 feet and that he was unable to restart it.

The body of the copilot, 2nd Lt. James Nelms of Wichita, Kan., was found in the wreckage of one of the houses.

Kirkhuff, 27, of Euless, Tex., and Nelms were attached to the Air National Guard 184th Tactical Fighter Group at McConnel Air Force Base near Wichita.

The plane came down half a mile north of the Tinker base runway, and only four blocks from where two persons died eight years ago when another F100 crashed.

The plane came down in a street intersection, careened through one house, across the railroad tracks, through a small building, and across three back yards before it came to rest partially inside another house.

The houses destroyed were both vacant.

Ernest Stroud Jr., who was working on a street project, said Kirkhuff came up to a group about 1½ blocks from the scene soon after the crash.

"He told us that he told the copilot to bail out 'about a mile back.' He thought he was out, I guess. He was looking around wondering where the copilot was," Stroud said.

MADE IN INCEST CASE

Wants California Judge Censured For Remarks

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The head of the Mexican-American Legal Defense Fund has urged that a California superior court judge be censured for remarks he allegedly made in a juvenile incest case.

The San Antonio-based organization accused Judge Gerald S. Chargin of the Superior Court in Santa Clara county of making prejudiced and racist remarks.

Pete Tijerina, executive director of the legal aid group sent his protest in a letter to Judge Murray Draper, presiding justice, First Appellate District, California Court of Appeals, San Francisco.

Copies of the letter were sent to President Richard Nixon and California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

In his letter, Tijerina said that, according to a Los Angeles Times story, Judge Chargin allegedly said, in part:

". . . Mexican people after 13 years of age think it is perfectly all right to go out and act like an animal . . . We ought to send you out of the country—send you back to Mexico . . . You belong in prison for the rest of your life for doing things of this kind. You ought to commit suicide . . ."

The case involved a 17-year-old youth charged with incest with his 15-year-old mentally retarded sister. Judge Chargin placed him on probation.

According to Times reporter Ruben Salazar, the judge told newsmen that he is not prejudiced against any ethnic group.

Judge Chargin also was quoted as saying, "It is an accepted fact that these lectures (in court) are stated in harsh terms to impress upon the minds of the youth the seriousness of the situation in which they find themselves."

Tijerina's letter said, "It is shocking to us to see in a court of law such unrestrained expressions of prejudice and racism as were the unfortunate remarks of Judge Chargin."

"We wholeheartedly condemn his conduct and we respectfully request that he be censured," Tijerina's letter stated.

Church, Firm Fire Bombed

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — A church and a car wash were set ablaze by fire bombs Tuesday night.

Earlier members of the Black United Front walked out of a meeting with white leaders over a demand for the dismissal of two policemen.

There was no evidence, police said, that the events were related.

Two fire bombs were thrown at the St. James Baptist Church and two firebombs at the car wash firm. No one was injured and police said neither fire caused extensive damage.

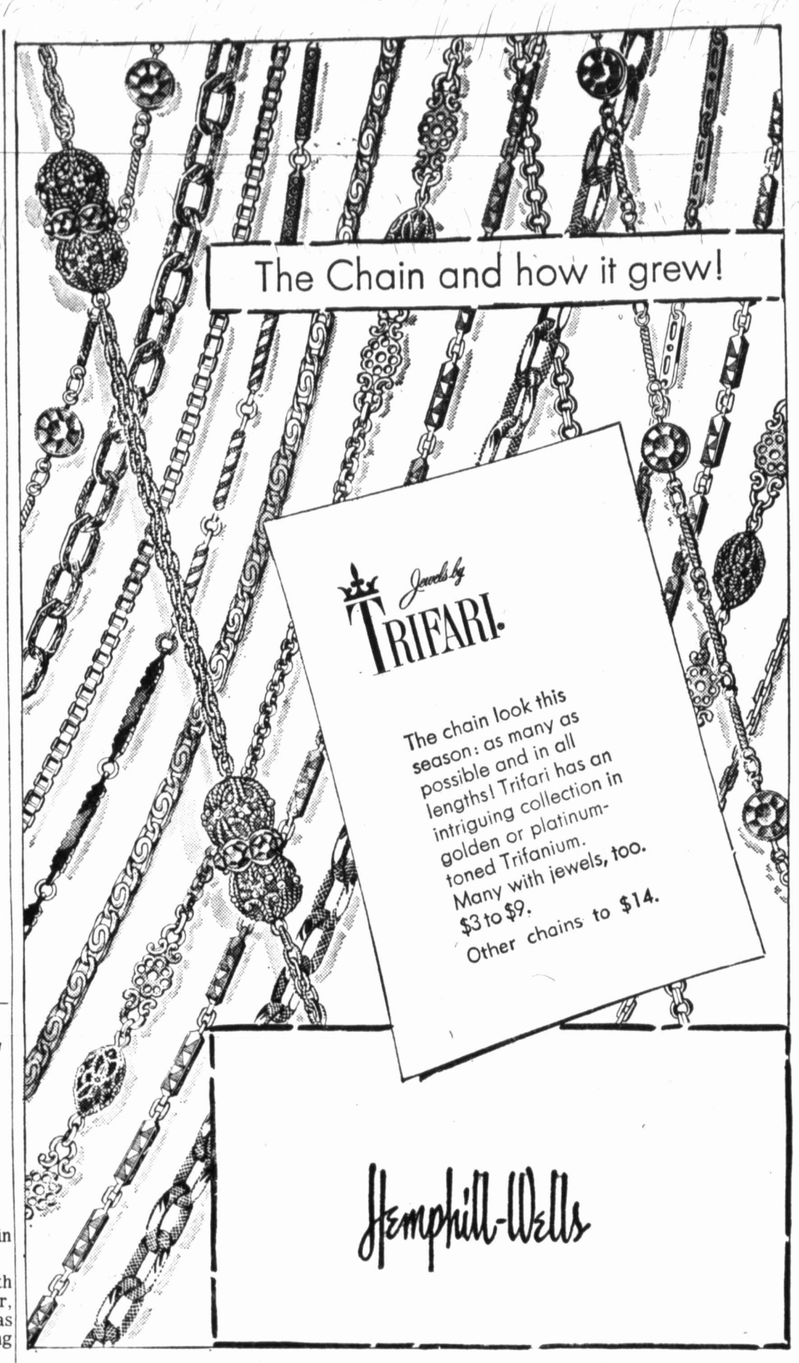

The demands presented Tuesday night also called for human relations training for policemen, a citizen review board to investigate police conduct, correction of sanitary conditions at the city jail, appointment of three additional Negroes to the Law and Order Committee—which has three Negro members—and of five Negroes to the city Civil Service Commission.

Mayor Paul Lenz said talks got no further than the first demand for the immediate dismissal of Police Cpl. John Ruyle and Patrolman Stanley Walkington.

The officers were involved in the shooting of 15-year-old Hilton Perry last spring. The youth was paralyzed by a bullet that struck him in the neck.

The National Waterways Conference Inc., is an organization of industrial firms that ship goods by water, barge towing and related businesses and other supporters of waterways.

Tycoon Says He's Under 'Sadistic Pressures'

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Financial tycoon Louis E. Wolfson, charging that he is under "sadistic pressures" to admit guilt, has told the U.S. Parole Board he will elect to serve his full one-year prison term on a charge of selling unregistered stock.

In a letter dated Sept. 5 from a Florida prison camp, Wolfson told Parole Board Chairman George Reed that if he was not released by Sept. 15 "I will not accept any parole at a later date."

The board declined Oct. 2 to parole Wolfson, who began his term April 25 at a federal prison honor camp at Eglin Air Force Base.

"There is either a political vendetta against me or the Parole Board lacks the courage and judgment to make this decision on its merits," Wolfson wrote.

Copies of the letter were distributed by Wolfson's son, Stephen P. Wolfson from his Jacksonville office.

Wolfson, who built a personal fortune estimated at $100 million, was convicted in 1967 of selling $2.5 million in unregistered stocks and drew a one-year sentence. A second conviction on charges of perjury and conspiracy to obstruct an investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission is under appeal.

"Certain people in our government," he wrote Reed, "will never let up until I yield to their sadistic pressure (to admit guilt). This I will never do. . ."

The board set the expiration of his sentence for next Feb. 23.
