Film Great Gary Cooper Loses Fight With Cancer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gary Cooper died Saturday of cancer after a deathbed fight that rivaled in courage the heroic roles he played in 35 years in motion pictures.

The tall, taciturn screen hero was 60 a few days ago.

He had lingered at death's door for days and was heavily drugged to ease the pain that wracked his once-powerful, 6-foot-3-inch body. He died at 12:27 p.m. (PDT).

Strangely, the actor's three dogs —two French poodles and a mongrel—started barking and howling moments after Cooper died. Newsmen and photographers waiting outside the modern, one-story home heard the animals but did not learn of Cooper's death until half an hour later.

DIED WHILE HE SLEPT

At Cooper's side when he died were his wife, Rocky, whom he married in 1932; his daughter, Maria; and his physician. The Rt. Rev. Daniel Sullivan, a longtime friend of Cooper, was nearby.

The Rt. Rev. Sullivan said Cooper had been unconscious all day and died while sleeping peacefully under sedation.

He said the wife and daughter took the death calmly. He said Mrs. Cooper had known her husband's illness was terminal since last December.

Both doctor and priest praised Cooper's courage.

The physician—who asked his name not be used—said that Cooper was near death several times in the last few days, but each time rallied.

Said the doctor:

"Any other man would have died 48 hours ago."

Said the Rt. Rev. Sullivan — who administered the last rites of the Catholic Church Friday.

"He was very much resigned to his condition."

Cooper's own last words to the public — a press statement released May 4 — expressed his courage in the face of death:

"I know what is happening is God's will," said Cooper. "I am not afraid of the future."

Cooper ranked with the late Clark Gable atop the list of all-time movie greats. For more than a third of a century—more than any otheractor—Cooper was a top-ranking star.

Fears for Cooper's health began a year ago. He had a prostate operation and denied at the time there was a malignancy. "I was living with uremic poisoning for two years," he said.

Five weeks later, a cancerous portion of his colon was removed. His only explanation: "I had an obstruction."

He went on to make his final film, "The Naked Edge," in London.

Intimates said he was aware right along of the gravity of his illness and endured it with the stoic calm which marked his performances against the villains of 70 starring films.

The public learned of Cooper's critical illness after the April 17 Academy Awards show, at which James Stewart — another of the thinning ranks of longtime movie greats—gave Cooper an honorary Oscar to go with those he won as best actor of 1941 ("Sergeant York") and 1952 ("High Noon").

"We're all very proud of you, Coop," Stewart said, speaking in a faltering voice directly into the television cameras, and knowing his old friend was watching at home. "All of us are tremendously proud."

Cooper had spent the last 10 days under heavy sedation and was fed intravenously. During the weeks before that, as the disease ran its course, he had watched TV, read and sunned himself beside his swiming pool.

Cooper's career was unrivaled. Unlike other superstars, he experienced no serious slumps.

AMERICAN HERO

His slim, angular frame (6 feet 3, 175 pounds); his stern face (with boyish grin); his terse, pithy speech; his bashful manner with women — they epitomized the American action hero.

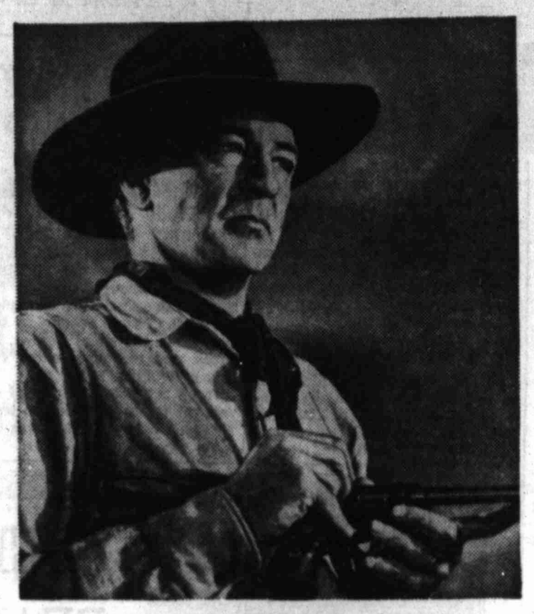

In his most memorable roles, he played outdoorsmen —quick with guns or fists, the living portrait of what men envied and women admired.

Cooper created the classic Western scene in his first really starring film, "The Virginian," in 1929. The showdown gun fight with the villain in the dusty, deserted street. Later, it was done to death in movies and TV. But Cooper still brought it enough integrity to win an Oscar for it in "High Noon."

He was a hero in many times and places: an intrepid officer in "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" . . . gallant Lou Gehrig in "Pride of the Yankees" . . . the brave indealist in "For Whom the Bell Tolls" . . . the straight shooter in "The Westerner," "The Cowboy and the Lady," "The Plainsman," "Dallas," "Springfield Rifle," "The Spoilers" and dozens of other Westerns.

Some of his nonheroic roles —

GARY COOPER
In Familiar Western Role

Will Stand By Foes Of Reds, Johnson Says

MANILA (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson pledged Saturday America never will desert friends who have the will to survive the threat of communism. He warned the Reds are testing this will in many places.

"America will honor her commitments to the cause of freedom throughout the community of free nations," he told a joint session of the Philippines Congress. "Our friends can count on America, and we know we can count on our friends—none more than our old and cherished friends, the Filipino people."

TOAST

Later, Philippine President Carlos P. Garcia, in a toast to President Kennedy, said the Philippines looks on Johnson's tour of Southeast Asian nations "as a positive demonstration of the unwavering resolution of the American government and people."

Johnson responded with the strongest statement he has made in the Philippines since arriving:

"We will continue to honor our obligations and will proceed either alone or with our free world friends to preserve our position in Asia."

This appeared to answer Philippine anxieties that the United States was easing its commitments in Asia.

In his speech to congress, the tall Texan, President Kennedy's personal fact-finding emissary, warned the packed chamber:

TESTING US

"Communism is testing our good will by many tactics in many places."

Johnson made clear the United States will not restrict itself to fighting communism militarily:

"Americans will continue in the future — even more than in the past—to march with you in the war against poverty, illiteracy, disease and other needless afflictions upon the people.

"Americans stand with and beside Asians in determination that our mutual cause of peace, justice and freedom will prevail, will succeed and will win."

Laos Conference Stalled, Heated Words Traded

MAJ. SHERROD OSBORNE

CAPT. DONALD JONKER

Rusk Charges Reds Lying In Blaming U.S.

GENEVA (AP)—The 14-nation conference on Laos, still unable to get off to a start because of a dispute over who is to sit in for the Laotians, erupted into a brisk war of words Saturday night.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk charged the Communists with lying in their accusations that the United States was trying to sabotage the conference.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Home, still hopefully seeking a compromise that would get the conference into session Monday, had a blunt exchange in a private meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

MUST GET STARTED

He told Gromyko a way must be found to get the conference started soon or the foreign ministers gathered here would look ridiculous.

Rusk obviously was stung by the charges of a spokesman for Red China's foreign minister, Marshal Chen Yi, that the conference troubles all could be laid at the doorstep of the United States.

Lord Home was reported, however, to have got along well with the Chinese foreign minister in another of the feverish diplomatic exchanges. British officials described Chen as in a "philosophical" mood and said he conducted himself in a "calm, polite and restrained" manner.

ANOTHER OBSTACLE

Even if the deadlock over Laos' representation were resolved, another obstacle loomed.

There were indications that talks might begin in Geneva on military questions involving supervision of the cease-fire in Laos even before the conference is formally inaugurated.

American sources did not deny this possibility.

The foreign ministers failed for the second day to get the conference under way when Rusk rejected Soviet demands for full government status of the Communist-led Pathet Lao at the table.

On the opposite side of the world, however, the Laotians themselves took one small step toward sorting out differences that have blocked the formation of a coalition government and a single delegation to represent the country here.

NOT RECOGNIZED

Rusk's position is that Pathet Lao cannot be admitted on an equal basis with the pro-Western royal government of Premier Prince Boun Oum because it is not even recognized as a government by the Communist bloc.

His stand brought the charge from Chen that the United States was obstructing the conference. Similar charges have been made by other Communists.

"The notion that we are sabotaging this conference is ridiculous," Rusk told newsmen.

Armed Forces Day Program Shapes Up

Big Spring moves into the observance of Armed Forces Week, with the highlight coming next Saturday when Webb Air Force Base opens its doors for a special observance of Armed Forces Day.

As in years past, Webb will be open to visitors from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. and a full schedule of activities has been arranged. The program is under direction of Maj. Sherrod H. Osborne Jr., project officer; and his assistant, Capt. Donald E. Jonker.

All the facilities used in conducting the undergraduate pilot training program at Webb will be open to the public. Static displays will line the hangars and the flight line will be filled with aircraft. Acrobatic demonstrations, fly-bys by jet aircraft and a parade are a few of the activities scheduled.

Eight airplanes and two helicopters will be on static display all afternoon, giving shutterbugs a chance to "work out" with their cameras. Webb aircraft displayed will be the T-33 and T-37 jet trainers used in training pilots; the supersonic F-102 "Delta Dagger" employed by the Webb-based 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron in carrying out its Air Defense mission; and the C-47, Webb's last aircraft operating with a reciprocating engine.

Helicopters include Webb's H-43 "Huskie" and a H-34 from Ft. Hood.

Equipment and supplies from the Base Chapel, National Guard, U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, American Red Cross, 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron, and the Big Spring YMCA, will be on display.

Acrobatic demonstrations by the T-33 and T-37 will be one of the highlights of the Saturday afternoon program.

Making its appearance to start the acrobatics at 2:05 p.m. will be the twin-engine T-37. This craft, which gives future pilots the "feel" of jet flying, will do a loop, immelmann, slow roll, barrel roll, inverted flight, half roll, cuban 8, and full roll.

The T-33 performance will round out the program. The 600 m.p.h. jet will do a series of loops, cuban 8, aileron rolls, square rolls, vertical rolls (up and down), inverted flight, knife edge, and double immelmann at 2:27 p.m.

Congo Leader Calls For A Showdown With Red Rebels

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—President Joseph Kasavubu of the Congo Saturday challenged Soviet-supported rebel leader Antoine Gizenga to a showdown of strength in a new session of Parliament.

The Congolese president announced the move at a conference in Coquilhatville, where political leaders are trying to hammer out a new constitution for the Congo. He said he would ask the United Nations to guarantee the security of all members of Parliament. The session probably will be held late in June.

Parliament has not met since last September, when the late Premier Patrice Lumumba shot through legislation giving him almost dictatorial powers. That session, held without a quorum, was generally regarded as illegal.

It was, in any event, one of the most bizarre parliamentary sessions in history. Lumumba's troops, carrying submachine guns, lounged about in the two chambers throughout. And on several occasions a machinegun was in position just inside the entrance of the building, aimed waist high at every entering member.

That earlier session led to Lumumba's ouster from office by Kasavubu and his subsequent arrest and murder while in the hands of the authorities of Katanga Province.

The new session of Parliament called by Kasavubu could lead to gradual resumption of orderly government. Or it could open old wounds, throw the Congo into a new round of political and tribal gouging and complete the prostration of this unhappy old colony of the Belgians.

There was no assurance at all that Gizenga would accept the challenge, although he has repeatedly called for a meeting of Parliament to legalize the government.

If the United Nations agrees to guarantee security at the session —and this is almost a certainty— Gizenga will be in a very tight spot indeed. Many of his followers favor a new session of Parliament as the only way out of the rift which has divided the country.

Weather Puts Crimp In Scouts' Spring Camporee

Threats of inclement weather Friday kept participation in the Boy Scout Spring Camporee down to about 150 persons and gusty winds Saturday caused it to break up early.

Troop 8 from Coahoma and troop 15, a newcomer from St. Lawrence, were the only out-of-town visitors. In all, nine troops were present.

A fire-lighting ceremony and Indian dances were staged Friday night by Nelson Clemow and Turner Ferguson.

Saturday's activities included wall scaling and rope climbing, but no awards were made. The contests and events were all cancelled because of the wind and dust.

But, all was not wasted. A. E. True, Coahoma, and George Foster led the scouts in advancement exercises.

Although no skills contests were run, awards were made for neatness, cleanliness, sanitation, etc. Troops 3, 9 and 300 received blue ribbons for first place; troops 6, 17 and 4 received second place red ribbons, and troops 39, 8 and 15 were awarded yellow ribbons.

"The boys had a good campout and I think the Camporee turned out well considering the dust," Bill McRee, Scout executive, said.

The troops began to break camp shortly after breakfast Saturday morning and by 2 p.m. most had left the camping grounds.

Hold That Tent, Sir!

Boy Scouts and billowing tents meant some real battles at the Camporee held at the Jamboree grounds Friday and Saturday. Members of troop 3, the last group to leave, are shown here. Nine troops were present, only about half of those expected, because of the bad weather. By 2 p.m. Saturday, all of the 150 participants in the Camporee had left the grounds.

Reviewing The

Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

Orbits, space problems and cease fires have kept the public mind whirling in recent weeks, but events of the past few days indicate there is a settling down to the mundane and hot topic of politics. Both of the U.S. Senate candidates, John Tower and Bill Blakley, were here last week to get in licks for the crucial May 28 election. Partisans are squaring off for a lively bid for the county's vote.

* * *

With the end of school rushing up, activities are at a dizzy tempo. Organizations are trying to get in meetings, dinners, barbecues, recitals, concerts, or what have you before the vacation season starts. We'll all need a rest by the time June rolls around.

* * *

Just around the corner—in fact next weekend—are two major events. One is the open house at Webb AFB, and everyone is urged to visit the base on that day. The other is the second running of the national junior college tournament. This is a thrilling contest and you'll not want to miss a bit of it. Some volunteer manpower is needed to assist in operating the meet.

* * *

Hard on the heels of this will be the annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo. Always a good show, this event takes on a bit added sparkle inasmuch as the Midland rodeo, traditionally held a week in advance, will not be staged this year. Incidentally, if you want box seats for the rodeo, better contact the Chamber of Commerce soon.

* * *

We have no late, official figures on the amount raised thus far for the Crippled Children's Center. It is considerably past $4,000 and enough is in sight to insure the hiring of a therapist, which will permit the center to reopen. With some major benefits still to come,

TEXAS IN STORM AREA

By The Associated Press

A severe thunderstorm and tornado warning was issued for a wide sector of Central and East Texas late Saturday night as turbulent weather returned to the state.

The newest warning, which was to remain in effect until 3 a.m. Sunday, included an area bounded by Ponca City, Okla., to near Fayetteville, Ark., to Tyler, Tex., to Brownwood, Tex., and back to Ponca City.

Grass Fires Cause Concern

A grass fire, about a mile wide, south of Sand Springs, caused Coahoma and Big Spring firemen some grief Friday at 3 p.m. The Coahoma truck got stuck in the sand and firemen had to turn water on the truck to keep the fire from doing damage. The Big Spring truck could not get to the fire so firemen were fighting the blaze by hand.

"If we don't get some rain before long," Chief H. V. Crocker said, "we are in for a lot more of just such fires. People seem to get careless when the grass is dry and the wind is high. The fires travel at a very high speed when the wind is blowing. Trucks have to be sure they don't get in front or they may be damaged."

Two grass fires near the Andrews Highway were extinguished by firemen about noon Saturday. One was on vacant land belonging to the Big Spring State Hospital. Firemen said it was started by burning trash.

The other occurred on a vacant lot behind the Bugg packing plant. Its cause was unknown.

No damage was reported on either fire.

Widely Known Rancher Dead

LUBBOCK (AP) — William W. Brunson, 78, widely known Texas and New Mexico rancher, died here Sunday. He had been ill for several months.

A member of a pioneer South Plains family, Brunson went to the Midland area with his family in the early 1890s from Rome, Ga. the family settled near Hobbs, N. M., and acquired extensive holdings in Midland, Glassock and Midland counties.

Fire Damages Grocery Store

Fire late Saturday night heavily damaged the building and merchandise of the Seven-Day Super Drive In, in the 3700 block of West Highway 80.

Cause of the blaze, discovered about 10:45, was not immediately determined, said Fire Chief H. V. Crocker, but apparently it started in a back room.

People in a next-door tavern noticed smoke, and notified the store operator, C. E. McDaniel.

The store inventory was badly damaged, and walls were charred. The roof also suffered damage. No estimate of the loss could be made immediately. Firemen fought the blaze for about an hour.

Highway Crash Injures Man

A collision involving two, possibly three, vehicles on U.S. Highway 87 about a half-mile north of Big Spring, Saturday night, left one person seriously injured.

A bracero, Robert Rico of Colorado City, was in serious condition at the Howard County Hospital Foundation suffering from cuts and bruises.

The others, taken to Cowper Clinic and Hospital, were Mrs. Richard Lepard, Brownfield, and two sons, Robert and Russell. Mrs. Lepard was treated for lacerations and released. The children were not reported injured.

Traffic was stymied for about ar hour as police searched the wreckage of a Terry County Users Association bus and a 1949 sedan strewn about the highway some 100 yards south of the south entrance to the Big Spring State Hospital.

The Lepards were in the bus, southbound, reportedly on the way to pick up laborers.

The mishap occurred about 9:30.

A third vehicle possibly involved was said to have struck a man thrown from the sedan and then to have continued going north on Highway 87. No other information was immediately available about the vehicle.

Gunshot Kills Local Man; Former Wife Is Wounded

A Big Spring truck salesman is dead and his former wife is in the Cowper Hospital and Clinic in grave condition as result of a shooting affray at 5:50 p.m. Friday.

Dead is Crawford Calvin Baggett, 62, of 1001 E. 12th. He was a salesman for Driver Truck and Implement Co. He died in the Cowper hospital at 12:51 a.m. Saturday. He had suffered one gunshot wound in the right temple, the bullet emerging from the top of his head.

THREE WOUNDS

Gravely injured with at least three bullet wounds is Mrs. Olga Yeager, 42, 407½ Bell, formerly married to Baggett. The shooting occurred at her home. She is employed in the supply department at Webb AFB.

Mrs. Yeager has two gunshot wounds in the neck and one in the right armpit. She was said to be paralyzed and her condition Saturday night was said to be extremely serious.

Both victims were shot with a .38 calibre Ivor Johnson revolver. The weapon with five discharged cartridges in the cylinder was found on the floor near Baggett's body by Capt. Walter Eubanks, city police department, and Deputy Sheriff Tommy Cole, who were the first two officers to reach the scene.

Vernon B. Phillips, who was Baggett's landlord, told Jack Jones, city detective, that Baggett had a gun like the one found at the scene.

REPORTED

J. C. Bankston, a neighbor of Mrs. Yeager, reported the shooting to police at 5:50 p.m. Eubanks and Cole answered the call.

Eubanks said that Bankston drove up to 407½ Bell and saw Baggett's pickup parked in front of the place. He walked to the door and saw bloodstains and the shattered door glass. He then called the officers.

The officers found Mrs. Yeager sitting against a wall in a bedroom at 407½ Bell. Baggett was sprawled, face-down, on the floor nearby. His legs and feet were across Mrs. Yeaker's body. He had been shot one time in the right temple and the bullet had passed out of his skull at the top of his head. He and Mrs. Yeager were taken to the Cowper Hospital and Clinic in a Nalley-Pickle ambulance.

HOLE IN DOOR

Eubanks said that he and Cole found a bullet hole through the screen door and that a door glass had been shattered by a bullet. They located a number of other spent bullets in the room.

There were no eye witnesses of the tragedy.

Mrs. Yeager, the officers reported, had been shot three times. Two of the bullets had struck her in the neck on the left side. The other had penetrated her body under the right arm.

She was conscious but unable to talk, Eubanks said that she answered questions by nodding her head.

Baggett's body was sent to McCormick Funeral Home, Blooming Grove, Saturday afternoon. Arrangements for burial wil be made there.

He was born in Oakwood, May 29, 1898.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Clara Baggett, Corsicana; one sister, Mrs. Ed Phillips, Temple; a stepson, Allen Ray Aubrey, Amarillo and a stepdaughter, Mrs. Nancy Akey, Big Spring.

Thai Doctor Finds Texans Are Happy

By M. A. WEBB

Dr. Sahas Nagasiri, M.D., and captain in the Royal Thai Air Force, is spending some three weeks at Webb Air Force Base gaining experience in the aircrew effectiveness program. He is also combining some pleasure tours along with his work.

"I really like this area. It is wonderful, and the people are all happy," he said this week. "I have visited a farm, a ranch, oil wells drilling and pumping, gone to church, and will make a trip through Cosden refinery. It is all very enlightening to a person who is not used to the things you have in the United States."

CAPT. SAHAS NAGASIRI

SECOND TOUR

Dr. Nagasiri and three other officers of the Thailand Air Force came to Brooke AFB, San Antonio, earlier. He came from there to Webb and the other three went to Reece AFB, Lubbock, for the same type of training. He is a student of aerospace medicine for allied medical officers, and is working with Capt. Robert R. Smith, flight surgeon, and other doctors. This is his second tour of duty in the United States.

The captain has been in the Air Force eight years. He is a graduate of Chulsiongkorn University in Bangkok, and served a year as intern with the medical corps and then went into the flying training school. He is a trained pilot.

The Thai Air Force uses F-86 Saber jets, F-84s, and a squadron of T-33s for training, C-47s, and H-13 and H-19 helicopters, and Cessnas for short trips and for insect control on crops. They use the old T-6 for bush fighting and close air support for ground forces.

VISITS

Capt. Nagasiri said his side visits were made through arrangements by Mrs. Floyd Ashley.

"I saw how the farmer planted his crops, did his work, and irrigated the farm," he said. "We don't use tractors in our country because it is too wet. He uses tractors for everything, and has plenty of all kinds of machinery. The J. M. Sterling ranch, where I visited, has three producing oil wells, the folks have a fine house, and they raise good livestock. They also have fine automobiles, which we are not used to."

Nagasiri visited a Baptist church last Sunday and said he was greatly impressed by the friendliness of the people.

"The preacher gave us a wonderful sermon and I enjoyed meeting him. The people of Thailand (formerly Siam) will always remember the service and friendship of the missionaries from the United States who came over many years ago," he said.

TAUGHT THEM

"They were not just preachers. They taught us how to do many things for ourselves. They gave us medicine, treatment, information, education, and taught us new ways of doing things. They didn't give us money because they didn't have any. They didn't charge us for what they did because they came to help us, not to make money from us."

The captain said the greatest impression he gained of people here is that "They are always happy."

Speakers And Displays To Tell Of Webb

The mission of our armed forces — particularly as related to Webb Air Force Base — will be presented in speeches and by displays this next week, being observed as Armed Forces Week.

Different groups at Webb are setting up window displays in various store windows in the city. The Pilot Training Group and the Base Hospital will arrange a window at Hemphill-Wells; Civil Engineer Group will have a Prager window; M&S Group will arrange a display at Mellinger's; Air Base Group will present a window at Anthony's; the 331st FIS will have a display at Swartz; AACS and Weather Groups will have a window at Gibbs & Weeks, and the Helicopter Rescue Group will arrange a display at Penney's.

Appearance of a number of Webb Officers before club groups was initiated a week ago, when Maj. Joseph Riley spoke at the American Business Club. This past week, Col. Donald W. Eisenhart had the Rotary Club for lunch at the Base, directed a tour and presented a film. A film showing also was given for the Optimist Club by Capt. C. A. Smith.

Talks scheduled this week include:

Chaplain (Major) Benjamin F. Meacham to speak to the Jay-Cees. Lt. Col. Leonard Einstein to speak to the Downtown Lions Club (Lions will have a number of Webb people as guests). Col. Eisenhart to speak to the Kiwanis Club. Col. A. F. Taute is to speak to the Midland Exchange Club this week also.

Virus Returns To Plague Residents

The virus has come back among Big Spring residents during the week ending Friday, with 72 cases reported to the City-County Health office. Tonsilitis came second with 59 cases, and upper respiratory trouble was third with 40.

Other reports and the number of cases were: flu 6, diarrhea 10, gastroenteritis 11, gonorrhea 6, chicken pox 2, bronchial pneumonia 1, measles 4, impetigo 2, pink eye 2, Rosiola 1, and Hepatitis 2.

Square Dance May 27 To Aid Crippled Fund

Plans are shaping for the benefit square dance set for the evening of May 27 on Main Street between Third and Fourth.

All proceeds from the dancers as well as from concessions and a collection among spectators, will go to the Crippled Children's Center.

Music will be donated by Pete Jensen, Bob Stewart, and Allie Carlyle. Harold Graves, local caller, will be the MC and guest callers will assist, George Zachariah, head of the local chapter for the Crippled Children's Society, will supervise the collections. Between regular squares, the band will play rounds so spectators may participate if they like.

Meanwhile, more gifts to the Crippled Children's Center continued to be received. A few, including those from individuals and two organizations — The Forsan Service Club and Eager Beaver Sewing Club, were relayed through the Herald. Contributions should be mailed directly to the Crippled Children's Society, Box 981 Big Spring.

Warehouse Burns

NORMANGEE, Tex. (AP)—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a large warehouse Saturday in this South Central Texas town 25 miles northeast of Bryan.

Personnel Group Meets Thursday For Installation

Annual business meeting of the Big Spring Personnel and Management Association will be held Thursday evening at 7:30 at the Cosden Club. It will be a dinner affair, and wives of members will be special guests.

Sam Anderson is to be installed as president of the association, succeeding Luther McDaniel. Harold Hendon is new vice president and W. C. Bryan will serve as secretary and treasurer.

Announcement is to be made later of the speaker for the evening.

Wildlife Talk

STANTON (SC) — W. C. Glazener, formerly of Stanton, associated with the Welder Wildlife Foundation of Sinton, addressed the Stanton Lions Club this week. He discussed work of the Foundation and showed slides.

NOT EXAMPLES

By T. H. Tarbet, preacher
Church of Christ, West Highway 80
P.O. Box 1383

"Study . . . rightly dividing the word of truth" (II Tim. 2:15) is an unheeded Scripture. Because they fail to rightly divide the Scriptures, many have thought that the alien sinner can use as his example of conversion, such people as blind Bartimeus, the sinful woman, Zaccheus, and the thief on the cross (Mark 10; Luke 7, 19, 23).

These are not examples of conversion, for men to follow today. This was before the law was nailed to the cross (Col. 2:14).

None of the people won to Christ before His death on the cross, could have been won according to the New Testament way; for the New Testament was not in force before Christ died. Read Heb. 9: 16, 17.

Welcome to our services today. Sermons: "The ABCs of the Gospel" (10:30 a.m.); "The Organization of the New Testament Church" (7:00 p.m.). —Adv.

Borden Co. Sues Neighbor Garza Over Boundary Line

Borden County claims that Garza County has usurped some of its land and has been taxing some of its citizens. Borden County has filed a lawsuit to bring an end to this situation and asks that the court confirm the northern boundary of its county as it was originally established in 1891.

The lawsuit was filed in District Court in Big Spring on Friday afternoon. R. H. Weaver, Big Spring attorney, filed the suit for Borden County. He said he filed it in Big Spring to comply with the law which specifies such litigation has to be lodged in a judicial district "adjacent" to the areas implicated in the case.

The petition, which Weaver says will be amended and expanded before the case comes up for trial, charges that since 1957, Garza County has been taxing 239 acres of land which Borden County asserts is within its boundaries and recognized as part of its territory for nearly 70 years.

The land involved is located in the north parts of Section 27, Section 22, and Section 3, Block 2 and in Section 677, Block 97, H&TC survey.

The petition claims that in 1957 abstract records were changed which in effect moved the northern boundary of Borden County southward. The abstract changes, the petition charges, were made by the General Lane Office. Borden County complains that the General Land Office has no authority to make such changes in its office without the authority from the courts or by agreement with the respective counties involved.

Borden County, the petition asserts, never consented to the change which it claims has been made.

The petition pleads that the Big Spring court enter a judgment confirming the location of the county's northern boundary as it was established in 1891.

Red Cross Swimming Safety Course Charted

The annual Red Cross swimming Safety Course will be offered this year beginning June 6, according to Mrs. Moree T. Sawtelle, executive secretary of the Howard - Glasscock County Chapter.

Instruction and swimming will be conducted at 1½ hour classes for six nights. Junior and Senior lifesaving certificates will be issued to persons earning them.

In order to be eligible to take the course, a person must be at least 15 years old and must be a strong swimmer. The instructor puts a person through experiences he might meet if he had to save someone.

There is no charge for the course except the normal swimming fee for using the municipal pool. Bill Puckett, a student at Texas Tech, will be the instructor.

The course has been given ever since a local Red Cross chapter was established here about 35 years ago, Mrs. Sawtelle said.

"No life-saving course can surpass the one offered by the Red Cross," according to Mrs. Sawtelle.

To show the value of a Red Cross lifesaving certificate, Mrs. Sawtelle said it is usually enough to qualify a person to be a life guard at a pool or other swimming area.

Material for the course includes a booklet covering many aspects of personal safety, self rescue, use of small craft in rescue, the elementary forms of rescue, resuscitation and special forms of rescue such as in surf, by boat, buoy, etc.

Last year 14 persons were in the class. Mrs. Sawtelle said registration for the course can begin any time and that those interested should call AM 4-5031.

Dr. Hall Acquires Top Cows For Herd

Two top cows have been acquired from Rexie Cauble for the Hereford herd of Dr. G. T. Hall of Big Spring. The females, which went for $1,000 each, were topped from the Cauble herd by Kenneth Loso, manager, and were both daughters of Lord Lamplighter 7th, reserve champion of the 1952 national Anxiety 4th Hereford Sale.

They also both had calves at sire by Imperial Lamplighter 34th, another reserve champion. The Hall herd is rapidly becoming one of the outstanding in the area being fortified by a $20,000 sire purchased in 1960 from the famous George Mousel Anxiety 4th herd in Cambridge, Neb.

Difference Control Makes

The picture shows the effectiveness of grubbing and piling prickly pears. The area on the left was grubbed 10 years ago while the pears on the right were allowed to grow unmolested. Even after 10 years prickly pears are no problem where control techniques were used once. Property shown is that of Horace Garrett located five miles north of Forsan.

Stewards Urged To Rid Land Of Mesquite, Pear, Brush

As the steward of his land, a man can do no better than to rid it of invading brush and problem weeds and replace them with productive plants, according to Ben Day, work unit conservationist with the United States Soil Conservation District.

The optimum season for killing out moisture-robbing brush on rangeland is fast approaching, he pointed out. With increasing infestations of mesquite, prickly pear and shinnery oak, farmers and ranchers in the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District are becoming more and more concerned with the problem.

AVAILABLE

Partly because of the vastness of the problem and the expense of correcting it, federal assistance is available to those who want to control weeds and brush. The Agriculture Conservation Program and the Great Plains Conservation Program pay about 50 per cent of the cost of such work.

The mesquite brush problem can best be beaten in the early stages, Day said. Basal treatment with kerosene or diesel fuel is often preferred and it produces a high percentage of root kill.

SPRAYING

Aerial spraying with chemicals does not register as good percentage of root kill as does direct application, but it is often the only practical and economical way to control this fast-growing invader where a dense stand was developed.

Approximately 11,000 acres of mesquite are scheduled for aerial spraying this year under the Great Plains Conservation Program, Day commented. Spraying was begun this week in the Martin-Howard District. Low-volatile sprays are used to cut down on drift of the poison. By doing so, more poison settles on the sprayed area giving better kills of mesquite.

Grubbing the prickly pear has proven to be the most effective control method of this plant, according to Day. Although chemical spraying will work, it is usually not economically feasible.

"Do not let the prickly pear become extensive before you begin trying to root it out," he said. "If controlled immediately, it presents no problem. But the pear scatters easily and can become a problem quickly."

Shinnery oak, another thriving pest on sandy land, can be controlled with the same kind of sprays as can the mesquite. Often, however, two sprayings are recommended, Day said. The sprayings should be done in successive years when plants are in full foliage.

NOW IS TIME

Day pointed out that the time to control a problem brush is now. Each day gives the invaders time to take a firmer hold on the land. At the same time, work becomes more expensive.

All the control-methods could have been instituted 10 years ago for half or wha they cost today, he said.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

School Tax Rate Hike Questioned

Dear Editor:

The old saying is: All that goes up is bound to come down, but not taxes!

I have lived in Big Spring for 32 years and have always been a strong supporter of higher education and better learning. I still feel that we must shoulder the responsibility to make it possible for our younger generation to be fully prepared to guide our nation. I think even the best preparation might not be good enough unless we humble ourselves more before God and seek the Divine Guidance which is the only way out.

I am wondering how many times, if any, that the members of our school board of trustees prayed over this intended tax raise. Have they analyzed our school expense to the nth degree? Have they consulted with our school superintendent to make every conceivable effort to cut expenses without hindering our children's education?

It seems to me that our school board has taken the route of least resistance to find a way for more money to operate our school system.

I know it is very easy to sit on the sidelines and offer criticism to those who had "guts enough" to take on a thank you job with so much responsibility. But I do think that our school board should have labored day and night over this situation. If they were then still unable to cut expenses, then they should call in an outside analyst to do the job for them.

Every attempt should have been made before getting trigger happy and raise our taxes 15 per cent. I wonder if the board realized at the time of voting to raise taxes that this was a very grave decision? Could they say deep in their hearts that this was the only alternative and this action was the right course for our Community?

Yours truly,
M. N. THORP

To the Editor:

I have been a citizen of Howard County 33 years. I never miss reading my Big Spring Herald. I am thankful to the gentlemen of the press for keeping the people informed on our city government and federal government.

I read the article Mr. D. A. Brazel put in the paper. Thank God for a Christian man who is interested in all his fellow man, not just a few. I would like to shake his hand.

I wish our city manager and our city commissioners would read from Cor. 13 "though you have faith to move mountains, without charity it is nothing." This group of men spent $25,000 of the taxpayers money for their master planning to beautify our city and make a safer place to live. . . . In the background there will be people who are hungry and need clothes and the means to send their children to school and to church. Being a man and a part of this government, I bow my head in shame and submission knowing how imperfect man is in his allegiance to God and his fellow man.

CRMWD Revenues Stay Slightly Ahead Of 1960

Revenues of the Colorado River Municipal Water District continue to run slightly ahead of a year ago, the April revenue statement shows.

Total revenues for April stood at $152,421, up from the $147,854 for April of last year. The first four months revenue amounted to $614,288 as compared with $596,097 last year.

For the year, revenues from the cities has been somewhat less than a year ago, while oil company requirements have been up. However, in April the member cities showed $116,557 revenue as against $113,043 a year ago. During the first four months cities have bought $443,185 in water as against $452,818 a year ago for the same period. Oil companies using surplus water have taken $140,814 as compared with $109,552 for the first four months of last year.

Recreational revenues for the year stood at $30,007 or slightly under the $32,276 for the comparable period of last year.

Total expenditures for operating the system stood at $46,269 for April, or less than the $48,909 for the same month last year. The four months total was $189,592 as against $182,553, the difference being largely in power costs to pump the additional water to customers. During the first four months $374,754 has been transferred to the interest and sinking fund to meet debt service requirements.

Tuna Sales Leader Wins Trip For Tuna Fishing

Ever since Feb. 1, Bob Spears, manager of the Big Spring Piggly Wiggly store, has had tuna on his mind.

He has urged customers to buy tuna; he has drafted advertisements about tuna and he has arranged eye - catching displays of canned tuna.

As a result of his efforts, he has been declared winner of the divisional contest waged from February through April to sell canned tuna. The Big Spring store has sold more tuna than any other Piggly Wiggly Store in the Lubbock Division.

In fact, he said, 1.34 per cent of all grocery sales in the store in that interval were canned tuna.

And now that he has won the contest, guess what his prize is to be?

Four days of tuna fishing on the West Coast with all expenses paid.

He flies to San Diego on July 13 and all arrangements are made for him to get in four big tuna fishing days.

14 Get Sentences

DALLAS (AP)—The leader was sent to prison and 13 of his cohorts were given suspended sentences Friday for operating a $600-a-day policy racket in the South Dallas Negro community.

Negro Is Victor

GALVESTON (AP)—An official recount Friday confirmed the apparent election of Negro undertaker T. D. Armstrong to a City Commission seat. City commissioners found that Armstrong defeated lawyer Andrew Baker by three votes, 5,086 to 5,083.

WAR ON PREDATORS
... Trapper Bags Record Number of Coyotes and Bobcats

To Start Drive On Coyotes, Bobcats

LAMB KILLER
... King-Size Bobcat

Kent Morgan, Howard County rancher, who was named by his fellow ranchers to spearhead a campaign against predatory animals in the county, said Saturday that he plans to begin operations this week.

"I wasn't at the meeting where the fellows picked me to do the job," he said, ruefully, "but that's all right. Some one has to do it.

"I've been out of the county most of the time since I was appointed. I plan to call a meeting of the ranchers sometime early this week—maybe Monday or Tuesday—to see what we have to do."

The meeting at which Morgan was named chairman proposed the ranchers put up money to provide for the employment of a professional trapper to supplement the efforts of Earl Brownrigg, the county trapper.

Morgan has had a trapper employed on his ranch southeast of town for some time. He pointed to a long line of coyotes, Bobcats and other predators strung along his north fence as indication of the need for war on the animals.

Most of the animals on the fence, he said, were destroyed in the past month.

"You should see the string of coyotes and cats that Brownrigg has," said Morgan. "I'll bet he's got a mile of fence nearly covered with predators he's destroyed."

Morgan said that he has lost at least 100 lambs to cats and coyotes this spring and that most ranchers have had equally heavy losses.

He said that he is sure the ranchers will provide the funds for the extra trapper and he said that the benefits already shown on his own ranch would easily justify the expenditure of the money.

"Since my trapper has been on the job," he said, "I have noticed a sharp decrease in the number of animals I am losing and we do not see nearly so many predators as we were spotting earlier in the year."

The Blue Star designation means that the house includes such basic gas conveniences as built in range, water heater, central heating system, bathroom light, yard light, plus inlets for utilizing refrigerator and clothes dryer.

Body Recovered

GALVESTON (AP) — Brazoria County officers recovered Friday the body of a man drowned at San Luis Pass near Galveston when he fell from a boat while trying to start an outboard motor. The victim was identified as D. W. Garner of Oyster Creek.

Thespian Awards Presented At Organization's Dinner

The Court Jesters, Troupe 1474 of the National Thespian Society, handed out its annual awards at a dinner and masquerade ball Friday evening in the high school cafeteria.

Best thespian awards went to Nelson Clemow and Lida Fiveash, who was president of the organization this year. These awards are for work, including backstage and offstage, general attitude and contribution to the theatre arts.

The troupe also handed over three trophies: The best actor trophy went to Tommy Wilkinson for his role of the slightly tarnished heavenly host in "Mr. Angel"; Denneice Nicholson won the best actress trophy for her role as Lotus Blossom in "Teahouse of the August Moon"; and the first local trophy for most valuable thespian went to Ilameta Carr for her enviable record in speech activities.

Miss Fiveash was recognized for her work as president with a bracelet featuring a theatre motif.

The thespians also employ an honors system by which stars are given on a point system, these leading in turn to the more difficult to obtain "honor bars."

Receiving honor bars, plus a few stars, were Miss Carr, Johnny Cone, Miss Nicholson, and Miss Fiveash for whom this was the second such award.

Receiving stars were Jimmy Atkins, Kennard Lawrence, Linda Morton, Nelson Clemow, Gary Pickle, Wilkinson, Barbara Thompson, Dorothy Wheeler and Sharon Homberg.

Certificates of recognition were given to Cone, James Farris, Dale Phillips, Wilkinson, Pickle, and Misses Carr, Homberg, Morton, Nicholson and Zack.

New thespians were initiated during the ceremonies. These included Norma Jones, Gary Dunham, Wynona Richbourg, Vada Hoisaiger, Dan Cone, Lazette Yearby, Farris, and Cleo Thomas. New honorary members initiated were Mrs. Leslie Steward and Gordon Wheeler.

Letters of introduction were given graduating senior members of the thespian society. Faculty sponsor Bedford Forrest reminded the seniors that the society is a nationwide organization, and that the letters carry a lot or recognition among people who have been active in educational theatre.

The masquerade ball was held immediately following the award ceremonies. Winners of the best costume contest were Miss Hoisaiger, who came as a beatnik, complete with smoking pipe, and Phillips, who had taken a bit of attire from every conceivable source and simply came "as a mess."

Criminal Cases On Docket For County Court

Judge Ed Carpenter will sound a criminal docket in Howard County court on Monday afternoon.

Trial of the cases announced ready will begin at 10 a.m. Tuesday. A jury panel of 60 members has been notified to report to the county court room at that hour.

Twenty - two criminal cases are listed on the docket. Eleven are DWI complaints, five charged issuing worthless checks; two are appeals from justice courts and two allege carrying arms illegally. One charges unlawful possession of liquor.

HCJC Music Department Closes Year With Recital

The music department of Howard County Junior College will close out its school year this afternoon with a recital featuring instrumentalists and vocalists.

The recital will be at 4 p.m. in the auditorium. Jack Hendrix is chairman of the department, and will accompany several of his students.

Debra Watson and Hendrix will play "At the Ball Game" duo-piano style; Hendrix also will join Mary Row on the two pianos for "Jamaican Rhumba."

Delores Howard, soprano, will render "God is My Shepherd" by Dvorak, and "Little Jack Horner" (with apologies to G. F. Handel) by Diack.

Sally Adair and Jerry Younger will give a two-piano presentation of "Cubanaise."

Robby Allen, tenor, will sing "Tell Me Not of a Lovely Lass" and "Tu lo sai."

Another piano duet will feature Miss Howard and Robert Phelan playing "Pavanne."

"Morgenmusik," Parts I and III, by Hindesmith, and "Pastorale" from Christmas Concerto Grosso by Corelli, will be played by an ensemble of instrumentalists. These include:

Miss Adair, flute; Doug Davis, tuba; Charles Dunagan, cornet; Herman Hodges, French horn; Larry Latson, cornet; Sue Lindsey, clarinet; Durward Rutledge, trombone; and Wayne Williams, French horn.

Concerto in C Major for Three Harpsichords will be played by Miss Howard, Phelan, and Kathleen Wood.

Airmen Receive Cash Awards

Cash awards amounting to $40 went to three Webb AFB airmen for their management-improvement ideas. S. Sgt. Charles E. Hamm of M&S Group received the biggest award—$20.

Sgt. Hamm, who works in the Group Egress Shop, suggested an improved method of changing the canopy thruster on T-33 jet aircraft.

To S. Sgt. Charles R. Hardy of Civil Engineering Group went $10 for his idea of installing a stop clock on the Fire Chief's pick-up truck. Purpose of the gadget is to time nuclear or conventional weapons during an aircraft fire.

Airman 1.C. Carl F. Thomas of the 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron was paid $10 for devising a portable fuel maintenance stand during jet engine buildup.

ABI Officers

Among the nearly 100 people who enjoyed the spring barbecue of the American Institute of Banking chapter were the officers. The guests were welcomed by Chester, Cathey, right, chapter president. Besides those in Big Spring there were guests from Abilene and Lamesa. Officers of the three local banks also were guests at the affair held in the city park. The affair marked the completion of two college-level AIB classes taught by Carlton Chapman and W. S. Morrison. Others pictured here are Selma Roberts, treasurer; Charles Dunnam, first vice president; Jane Eubanks, secretary; Chapman; second vice president; and Cathey.

Perry Has A Good Life, Jelly Beans For Dessert

By JOE BEYER

Not everyone gets jelly beans for dessert.

Perry does. And he knows he has a good thing going.

Even a prairie dog doesn't want to give up the extras he can coax out of his keepers. Perhaps that explains why Perry has become an unusual pet.

BUMPS HEADS

Perry is friendly as a hungry pup and even more playful. He doesn't know a stranger for more than a minute. Then, he is ready to climb on a visitor's shoulder and play a game of bumping heads. Apparently this is his way of displaying affection.

This household pet at the Frank Sabbato home was adopted about a month and a half ago when his previous keepers moved to Massachusetts. Fearing the change in climate might kill Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Weaver decided that Perry would remain behind when they left.

The Weavers originally adopted the unusual pet when their children found him running down a street near their home. He became friendly and had the run of the Weaver household.

ROAMS HOUSE

The situation hasn't changed much in his new home. Perry is allowed to roam about the house for an hour or so each day—after the other pets have been put out.

"We are afraid the dogs might kill him," Mrs. Sabbato said.

During the rest of the day, Perry remains in his cage. He prefers to be out and sometimes puts up an argument, with a little scratching thrown in, when it comes time to go back in the cage.

But usually the relationship is harmonious. Perry will trip along behind his keepers like a curious child, watching every action in silent wonder.

Perry seems amazed at the world around him. One of his favorite occupations is standing at a door or window where he can see what causes the noises in that part of the world he is not allowed to enter.

FEEDS HIMSELF

He feeds himself or will eat out of someone's hand. It seems to make little difference to him. He drinks fluids from a miniature bottle.

His diet is not unusual, except for jelly beans or part of a chocolate bar occasionally for dessert. It consists mostly of corn, meat and vegetables.

Perry eats well and almost all the time. After all, he is still a growing boy.

The Bottle, Please

Perry, a prairie dog, sits up for one of his many daily feedings. He is a household pet of the Frank Sabbato family, 100 Lincoln. Here, Mrs. Sabbato feeds Perry corn before he gets his bottle. Perry is only one of several pets at the Sabbato home and he is watched carefully to make sure none of the others will take offense at his presence and hurt him. He is allowed out of his cage for an hour or so each day so he can get needed exercise.

2 District Traffic Deaths Occur In Howard County

Howard County accounted for of seven traffic fatalities which occurred in the Midland Highway Patrol District during April. It had 12 accidents which matched Ector County and was only outdistanced by El Paso County with 19.

Generally speaking April was a good month in the Midland district which comprises 24 West Texas counties, according to Capt. Ray B. Butler, commanding officer.

GOOD JOB

"The motorists of the Midland district," said Butler, "are to be congratulated for a good job of driving in April."

He went on to point out there were less accidents, less injuries and less property damage than in several months. Rural traffic deaths for the district stands at 25 for the first four months of the year. Five of these deaths are charged to Howard County. However, the district as a whole is 10 under the fatality total which prevailed at the end of April last year.

Howard County reported one accident in which two fatalities occurred. This was on April 9. Aurelio Cardenas was instantly killed in the wreck; Clemente Salazar, injured in the accident, died a few days later. Their deaths were the fourth and fifth of the current year on Howard County roads.

Six persons were injured in Howard County's 12 accidents. Property damage was caused in eight of the cases. Total property damage caused by wrecks was $4,720.

Total property damages caused by the 117 accidents in the district was $63,922.

Votes For Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., voted last week for a bill giving President Kennedy discretion to aid Iron Curtain countries if he thinks it will enable them to loosen Moscow's controls. The Senate passed the bill 43-36. Sen. William Blakley, D-Tex., was paired against the bill.

Local TEC Is Joining In Job Search

Big Spring office of the Texas Employment Commission announced Saturday that it is participating in the state and nationwide drive which was launched on May 10 to find more jobs for unemployed workers.

Leon M. Kinney, manager of the local TEC office, said that employers throughout Texas are beginning to add workers to their payrolls, that business is on the upswing and that unemployment, although higher than at this same time last year, has begun its seasonal drop.

"We believe now is the logical time for employers to fill job openings which they have held in abeyance for several months," Kinney said. "The high unemployment in this area provides a wide selection of qualified and experienced people and, as the economy proves, this supply of workers will become more restricted."

This drive to find more jobs for more workers has the hearty endorsement of state and national business leaders, Kinney pointed out.

"I have personally discussed it with bankers and business men leaders here. I have also talked with Horace Garrett, chairman of the Big Spring Industrial Foundation and the president of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce and with Lee O. Rogers, mayor of Big Spring, about the program. They are heartily in favor of the effort and lending it their full support.

"For the past two years our office here has been so busy trying to pay claims to the unemployed workers in this area that we may have neglected, to some extent, our responsibilities in the job finding field.

"We have no intention of neglecting the claimants but we are regearing our entire operation to provide faster and more efficient service in developing job openings for workers so we can place them in gainful employment."

Church To Give Dinner

Seniors and their parents will be honored at the Church Fellowship Dinner at 7 p.m., Monday at the First Christian Church.

They are Richard Atkins, Susan Bean, Tommy Burleson, Lillian Burnett, Jacie Clark, Charles Driver, James Farris, Beverly Hooser, Brenda Hooser, Jodell Hudgins, Judy Mitchell, Dreda Wilson and Rita Wilson.

The youth department will be in charge of the decorations and other arrangements. Special music will be presented under the direction of Ira Schantz and The Rev. John C. Black Jr., minister, will speak to the seniors and present Bibles to each one. Baptismal and membership certificates will be presented to new members at this time. The Christian Men's Fellowship will also have part on the program.

Preach Martin is chairman of the Fellowship Dinner, a covered dish, buffet style affair. Everyone is to bring food for three members. The Church will furnish the refreshments.

Refund Forms For Farmers Are Available

Farmers are advised that copies of Form 2240 for 1961, to be used in claiming refund on federal tax for gasoline used on farms, are now available at the office of Jimmy Taylor, county farm agent.

Farmers are urged to obtain the forms and the instruction sheet and prepare their claim to refunds for gasoline they actually used in farm operations.

The period covered on the current forms is from June 30, 1960 through July 1, 1961.

Gasoline used on the highways, for processing, packaging, freezing or canning operations or for personal or nonfarming purposes is not subject to refund.

The claims for such refunds have to be filed on or before Oct. 2, 1961.

Legislature Facing More Sessions

AUSTIN (AP)—The legislature has two weeks and one day to finish its work and the best informed sources do not believe it can be done.

The outlook is for one or more special sessions.

Top sources in both the House and Senate said that a final desperate flurry of activity will seek to write a tax bill, agree on the amount of teachers' pay raises, agree on spending and mop up final essential business.

This is the only hope that the lawmakers have to getting their job done.

This is the first legislature in history to work under a regular salary with higher pay and more liberal expenses than ever before. One argument in favor of these efforts to improve the lot of the lawmakers was that it would produce a more efficient operation than before, but this has not resulted.

This session's record has been largely a repeat of past performances. A great deal of unproductive work done and conscientious efforts by many legislators—largely rendered impotent by fundamental, trivial or personal conflicts, jealousies, and politically-motivated individual actions.

It adds up to one or two special sessions, probably in July and August. This again would be a repeat of past performances, with such matters as deficit retirement and budget balancing left to the last possible moment before the state finds itself without any money for current operations.

Most of this session's toughest problems are unsolved.

The general fund deficit is still a deficit.

The tax fight is still a tax fight.

Teachers' pay raises are hung up "how much" and without some agreement on revenue could come to nothing.

Loan shark control legislation has not been passed.

Legislative and congressional redistricting are still a matter of angry argument. In The Associated Press pre-session survey of legislative opinion, a majority of the lawmakers listed this as the No. 2 issue.

Overshadowing all the problems is the question of revenue.

Minor Collisions Checked By Police

Police investigated three collisions and one hit-and-run accident Friday and Saturday, but none was serious.

No one was injured in a minor accident in the 100 block of 2nd Street about 1:30 Friday afternoon. Drivers of the vehicles involved were Adrian R. Davenport, 2001 S. Main, and Sam Ivans Cauble, 800 Johnson.

A minor hit-and-run accident was reported shortly afternoon Saturday. Carlos Benton Barber, Andrews, told police he was involved in an accident at the intersection of 13th and Goliad streets. He said an argument followed and the driver of the other car left. Later he thought he should report the accident, he said.

Another collision occurring about 2:15 p.m. involved drivers Sybil Smith, Rt. 1, Knott, and Jerome Alfon Zax, Ballinger.

Drivers of vehicles which collided at 24th and Main streets Saturday night were Eugene G. Pennington, 1107 W. 7th, and Layla Taylor Evans, 2410 S. Johnson.

THE WEEK

the goal of $6,000 is not at all impossible, thanks to generous and warm-hearted people.

* * *

Weather continued erratic and distressingly dry. Temperatures varied from a crisp 41 to a sizzling 100. At this writing there was no immediate relief in sight, although some break in this pattern is due.

* * *

Veterans Administration Hospital volunteers were honored last week. Two, Mrs. H. B. Bruton and Mrs. C. O. Hitt, each have put in over 2,500 hours of service. Think of it! Mrs. Bessie Eckhaus, at 87, is still an active volunteer. Think of that! Have you any excuses?

* * *

Big Spring School trustees upped the valuation percentage last week to solve financial problems facing the district. Net effect of increasing the assessment to 60 per cent rather than 50 per cent of the actual value (although the tax rate was shaved 7 cents) was to pick up a potential of $149,742 more yield. This is about a 15 per cent increase. Trustees also voted to acquire 10 portable classrooms (permanent-type, fireproof structures) to give greater flexibility in meeting localized congestion.

* * *

A reminder that the Interstate 20 loop through northern Big Spring is taking shape came with settlements on two major items last week. The county took the city's settlement on a bit of FM-700 roadway too, but it served a reminder of its own. There'll be no more purchases on this loop until the State Highway Department makes a formal request for the right of way.

* * *

The city is moving toward the kickoff of the annual spring cleanup by tackling the alley problem. It's not too early for you to start your planning, too, for next week the big push will be upon us. And we're certainly ripe for a cleanup.

COOPER

like the pixilated but wily heir in "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" — clicked. Others didn't, like: the wolfish millionaire in "Love in the Afternoon," the cowardly commander in "They Came to Cordura," the confused architect in "The Fountainhead," the well-meaning failure in "Good Sam."

Cooper once offered this formula for film success: "You find out what people expect from your type of character and then give them what they want."

HIGHEST PAID

He was one of Hollywood's highest-paid performers. His 20-year contract with Warner Bros. called for a picture a year for a flat $275,000 each. On all other pictures, he received $250,000 plus a percentage of the profits.

He was born Frank James Cooper on May 7, 1901, in Helena, Mont., the son of Charles Henry Cooper, a former British barrister who became an associate justice of the Montana State Supreme Court.

During his formative teen-age years he lived among cowboys and learned to ride and handle horses.

Later, at Grinnell College in Iowa, he had some stage experience in school plays. After two years he returned to Helena and worked five years on a local newspaper as a cartoonist. He decided to try for a better career in Los Angeles, but newspaper editors were unimpressed with his penwork. He subsisted as an advertising salesman.

Cooper was about to take a train home when two friends from Montana told him of the riches to be made falling off horses and doing other movie stunts.

He recalled later:

"Well, I got into a Tom Mix picture at Fox and learned he was getting $15,000 a week. That started me to thinking. I had hoped to achieve $10,000 a year in the advertising business, but it looked pretty small after that."

Art Show Set For May 21

The 1961 Texas Fine Arts Association regional exhibition will be given at Howard County Junior College May 21, in the old student union building.

Public showing will be from 2 to 5 p.m., with awards at 4 p.m.

Entries must be received by Friday, according to regional chairman Mrs. Terry Patterson. Co-chairman is Mrs. Frank Shannon.

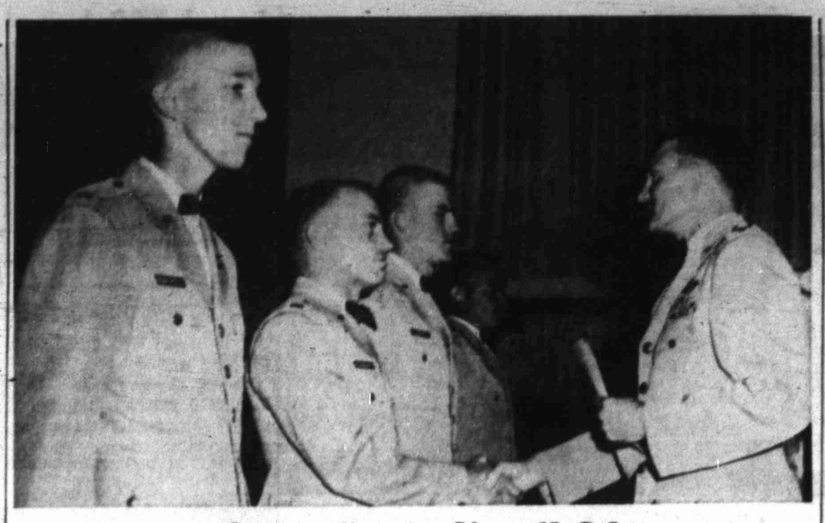

All artists in West Texas are eligible for entry, and there is no restriction as to age group, professional standing or media.

Prizes will include a $100 Cosden Corporation award, and citation winners will go to Austin for the state competition.

Information is available from Mrs. Patterson at 407 Edwards Blvd., Big Spring.

Is Due Degree From Texas U.

Clyde McMahon Jr., 908 Mountain Park, is among the 300 University of Texas students who are candidates for bachelor of business administration degrees on June 3, Dean John Arch White has announced. He plans to be associated with his father here in the ready mix concrete business when he completes his schooling.

Outstanding In Class 61-G-1

Wing Commnader Col. Donald W. Eisenhart (right) congratulates Distinguished Graduates of Class 61-G-1. He also presented them with letters of Commendation from Lt. Gen. James E. Briggs, Commander, Air Training Command. Outstanding graduates (from left) are 2nd Lt. Larry G. Van Pelt, 2nd Lt. William T. Washburn, 2nd Lt. Ronald D. Stewart and 1st Lt. Paul S. Moore. WEBB GRADUATION PROGRAM

Manned Weapons Remain Essential, Fliers Told

The missile today (and for many years to come), is no panacea for aerospace power. This, in a nutshell, is what Col. Stanton T. Smith told 40 graduates of Webb Air Force Base Class 61-G-1 Friday night at the Base Chapel.

There is no question as to the capabilities of missile systems, the colonel said, but, he assured, there has been no basic change in the need for manned weapons systems. Man will be needed to seek out opportunity targets (a mission that could not be entrusted to a missile), and, there is always a possible danger of small warfare, requiring limited weapons.

Colonel Smith, who is director of flying training at Headquarters, Air Training Command, further appriased man's importance in the space age:

"Manned spacecraft is not only supplementary, but complementary to any future estimate of airpower. It may sound far away," he said, "but before you know, you will be engaged in space flight. There will be space stations, and there will be trips to planets."

Summing up, Colonel Smith told the new jet pilots, "There is a great future for you."

Colonel Smith had a few words of advice for the "leaders of tomorrow." They should learn from others; know their limitations; resist the desire to show off; be fair and just, but not soft; and be part of a team—"never feeling you're completely sufficient all to yourself."

Four of the new jet pilots in 61-G-1 were named Distinguished Graduates and received a Letter of Commendation from Lt. Gen. James E. Briggs, Commander, Air Training Command. The letters were presented to 2nd Lt. Larry G. Van Pelt, 2nd Lt. William T. Washburn, 1st Lt. Paul S. Moore, and 2nd Lt. Ronald D. Stewart by Colonel Eisenhart.

Diplomas were presented by Lt. Col. Henry G. Victory, Commander, 3560th Pilot Training Group; and the graduates received wings from their instructors.

Following the chapel ceremony, a reception was held at the Officers' Club.

Daedalian Award Winner

Webb Paces Whole ATC With Honor Graduates

Webb AFB flying students continue their winning ways in capturing top honors in the Daedalian Order Orville Wright Achievement Award competition in Air Training Command. The Daedalian Award goes to the number one flying student ATC-wide in each graduating pilot class.

The award for Class 61-G-1 went to 2nd Lt. William P. Washburn, 3560th Pilot Training Group.

Lieutenant Washburn, in receiving the Orville Wright Award for Class 61-G-1, gained the distinction of placing Webb AFB definitely on top in ATC in the student Daedalian honors.

Three of the seven awards given by the Daedalians since these awards began have gone to Webb students. Webb AFB is one of the seven ATC pilot training bases whose students are eligible to receive this award.

The Daedalian Order established the award for the top student with Class 61-A. Class 61-G-1 is the seventh class to graduate. Flying, academic, and military training grades are considered when the winner is selected by Headquarters, ATC.

Previous winners at Webb were 1st Lt. James R. Alley, Class 61-D, graduated 30 Nov. 60; and 2nd Lt. William C. Hendrix, Class 61-E, who graduated January 27.

The award to Lieutenant Washburn was made during graduation exercises Friday night by ATC representative Col. Stanton T. Smith, Jr., Director of Flying Training, Headquarters, Air Training Command.

A native of Pittsburgh, Pa., Lieutenant Washburn received his BS degree from Lehigh University. His wife, Alice, and his parents were present for the graduation ceremony.

Mr. Crawford Dies; Rites Set Tuesday

Funeral services for William W. Crawford, 68, retired railroad machinist, will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Nalley - Pickle Funeral Home chapel. Dr. Gage Lloyd of First Presbyterian Church, will officiate. Burial is to be in the City Cemetery.

Mr. Crawford died at 3 a.m. Saturday at his residence. He had been in ill health for sometime. He lived near Cosden Refinery.

Mr. Crawford was born in Thurber, July 18, 1892. He married Miss Dollie Davis, who survives him, in Big Spring on April 23, 1914. He worked for 11 years for T&P railroad out of Big Spring, leaving here to go to Hammond, Ind. There he became a machinist on the New York Central and worked for that line for 25 years until he retired in 1946. That same year, he and Mrs. Crawford returned to Big Spring and have made their home here since.

He is a member of the Staked Plains Lodge 598 AF&AM, and the International Association of Railroad Machinists. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church.

Pallbearers will be Lee Porter, John Stanley, Dr C. E. Thomas, Dee Foster Sr., Otto Peters Jr. and Donald Wood.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Mollie Crawford; two sons, James M. Crawford, Big Spring, and John C. Crawford, Fort Worth; one brother, B. D. Crawford, Big Spring. There are three grandchildren.

Blind Fund Aided By Broom Sale

Sale of brooms carried out by the Evening Lions Club on Friday and Saturday will provide the Lighthouse for the Blind with $420.54 and the Lions Club with $147.54.

Squeaky Thompson, president of the club, said that total sales for the two days hit $568.30. Last year's sale total was $1,300.

This year, Don Crockett, secretary of the Evening Lions Club, explained there were not enough men available to push the campaign as it should have been. Thirty men comprising four teams began work at 4 p.m. Friday and campaigned, house to house, for four hours. At 9 a.m. Saturday, the workers were back on the job and worked until 5 p.m.

Without Water

GREENVILLE (AP)—The main line at the water plant broke Saturday leaving this North Texas city of 20,000 without water for a while. The break came at 10:30 a.m. Officials were unable to say how long repairs would require.

Burglaries Are Reported Here

Police were busy Saturday investigating a theft and two cases of breaking and entering.

A picture valued at $45 was reported taken from the Howard House lobby some time Friday night. The picture belonged to Mrs. Bismarck Schafer, Garden City. She told police she had given no one permission to remove the painting.

Pickings were lucrative for a burglar who entered a house at 404 Owens Friday night. W. W. Brackett reported the theft of $264.

Other burglars who entered the Carter's Grocery Store on East 16th Street walked off with cigarettes, candy and some change. Mrs. Dave H. Carter called police at 7:26 a.m. Saturday to investigate the burglary.

Hold Workshop On Non-English Instruction

About 75 teachers from as far away as Lubbock, San Angelo and Marfa were in Big Spring Saturday to attend a workshop on instruction for children who do not speak English.

The workshop was held at Goliad Junior High School. It began at 9 a.m. with a general session presided over by Mrs. Theresa Carrell, a consultant from the Texas Education Agency.

This is the second year of the program to help prepare children who do not speak English. It allows them to start school at least partially prepared so they do not fall behind children who speak English.

After the general session, the group divided into two sections. Lubbock and San Angelo representatives showed each group materials and methods they used in their programs last year.

Sam Anderson, assistant superintendent-curriculum, Big Spring Independent School District, and about six teachers made up the local attendance.

Last year the program was considered quite successful, according to Anderson. He said about 125 children are expected to attend the classes this year.

School begins June 5 and will last eight weeks. Classes will be held at Bauer and Kate Morrison Elementary Schools between 9 a.m. and noon.

Registration is at 3:30 p.m. May 16, 17 and 18. Only children who will reach school age and enter school in September are eligible, according to Anderson.

Neel's Appaloosa Does Well In First Show

Whistler Joe, a 3-year-old Appaloosa horse owned by T. Willard Neel fared well in his first show entries at Del Rio.

The young son of Whistle Britches out of Collins' Best, took third place in the halter class, third in junior cutting horse. He also took fifth in the junior barrel racing and fifth in junior reining classes.

Neel was well pleased with the showing because he has not had much opportunity to work out the horse. He acquired Whistler Joe from Carl Miles, Abilene, who has an outstanding string of Appaloosas.

Ortega Released On $3,500 Bond

Israel Ortega, 23, posted $3,500 bond and was released from Howard County jail Saturday.

Israel is one of three brothers charged with strong arm robbery of Tom Buckner, used car dealer. Buckner, of 1103 E. 4th, was robbed on April 19.

Albino Ortega, one of the brothers, was released soon after the charges were filed. He posted bail. Margarita Mendoza Ortega, 26, is still in the county jail.

The three were arrested a short time after the robbery by city police officers.

BID WAS HIGH BY A DOLLAR

It was so near and yet so far.

A. P. Kasch & Sons, Big Spring construction firm, submitted a bid of $152,455 to build a major annex to the Lubbock County Jail.

The successful bidder was H. A. Padgett Jr., Lubbock.

His bid was $152,454—just $1 less than that offered by the Big Spring firm. Kasch and Padgett were the two low bidders of the nine which were considered by the Lubbock County Commissioners.

Damaging Blaze Finally Checked

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Firemen — aided by planes and subsiding winds — Saturday controlled a fire that spread destruction in the Hollywood Hills' exclusive residential rea.

Two U.S. Forestry Service planes dropped 1,200 gallons of borate solution on the flames in an area inaccessible to ground fire fighters.

The fire had destroyed or seriously damaged 24 homes—many of them mansions—and burned 1,200 acres in a 10-mile perimeter. Part of the fire area was only about a mile from the movie capital's famed Sunset and Hollywood boulevards.

Gusty winds forecast for Saturday did not materialize.

Winds up to 40 miles an hour swept the flames across brush-covered slopes and into residential streets Friday night.

The fire burned some homes to the ground and skipped others next door. More than 80 homes were damaged but saved.

Writer Aldous Huxley's home was destroyed.

Actress Spring Byington's home nearby was saved.

A five-story castle — built in 1920 of hand-hewn stone blocks—collapsed into a mass of rubble as the wooden framing inside burned away.

Flames threatened Griffith Observatory but were turned away. Five hundred persons — including 300 boys watching a planetarium show — were evacuated down flame-ringed roads of Griffith Park.

Winds In Wake Of Record 103 Heat

May continued Saturday to deal out assorted weather samples to Big Springers.

Friday it offered a sensational example of summer with the temperature hitting 103 degrees for the hottest May 12 in the city's weather history of 60 years.

Saturday, instead of heat, the weatherman offered blustery winds, swirling dust and the associated discomforts which accompany such displays. The temperature did not soar very high—80 degrees being about tops for the day.

So far the month has served every kind of weather except rain—the one kind that everyone would welcome with cheers.

Dusty though Saturday was, it did not keep shoppers off the streets and last minute buying in preparation for Mother's Day kept the clerks in high gear in most stores. Streets teemed with cars and pedestrians.

Friday's record shattering heat built up at 4 p.m. An hour later, the mercury had dropped to 100 degrees. It was warm all Friday night and the low on Saturday morning was 67.

Highest previous reading on any May 12 since 1900 had been a 98 degree mark established in 1913. Friday's 103 was matched on May 13, 1956. On May 11, 1910, the temperature hit 105 degrees.

Hottest May day on record was May 31, 1916. It was 109 on that date.

And, of course, the hottest day ever endured by Big Springers was that sizzling June 30, 1907. The temperature hit 117 that day.

Blakley Welcomed By Local Demos

Area Democrats whooped it up for Bill Blakley here Friday and shoved off a motor caravan to boost the interim senator's bid for a full term as U. S. senator.

Sen. Blakely arrived here behind schedule and hardly had time for more than a few words of greeting and visitation. More than four score people crowded around him in the Settles Hotel as he thanked them for support and answered questions individuals put to him.

Awaiting him here were members of an Abilene delegation and others joining the motorcade which carried the senator to Abilene and an evening speaking engagement.

RIGHT TO VOTE

In his brief stay here, Sen. Blakley urged the exercise of the right to vote. Right off our shores in Cuba, he said, people no longer have the right to vote, and it would be a tragedy for people here to neglect this basic responsibility on May 27.

Rep. Jim Wright, who ran third in the first round of the special senate election in April, was with Blakley and stumping for him. He urged Democrats to support and vote for Blakley and said it would be unthinkable that Texas would elect Republican John Tower, whom he said had never distinguished himself by one day of public service or in economics or the professions. This was no personal discredit, he said, but certainly no recommendation for one of the highest offices in the land.

FIGHTS FOR OFFICE

As he chatted with different individuals, Blakley said he had no apologies for being absent from the Senate. He said that the people expected him to make a fight for the office of U. S. senator, and he was doing just that. They have a right to expect him to report in person on his views. He added that he had been labeled a conservative because he believed in conserving freedom, private enterprise, private ownership, sovereignty of the state and of the nation. He said he opposed Red China entry into the United Nations with all his being and alerted the public to the dangers of communism, noting that he was also against any kind of subversion.

WELCOME

Mrs. Martin Binder, district Democratic committee woman, headed the delegation which greeted Blakley at the airport after he had flown here from San Angelo. With her was French Robertson, Abilene, district committeeman, J. E. (Ed) Connally, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, Frank Hardesty, Howard County Demo chairman, and R. H. Weaver, campaign chairman, and other civic leaders.

The meeting drew supporters from both the liberal and conservative wings of the local Democratic party structure.

Sen. Blakley had addressed more than 300 area supporters in San Angelo Friday noon before flying here. On the way he flew over his Reagan County ranch (which adjoins that of Rupert Ricker, Big Spring) and noted "I wish I could bring you a rain; I think that would be about the most welcome news."

Demos Greet Campaigners

These were but a few of the area Demos who met Wm. A. Blakley, second from right, as he brought his bid for the U.S. Senate here Friday. Among them are R. H. Weaver, campaign chairman; Frank Hardesty, Howard County Democratic chairman; Rep. Jim Wright, who ran second in Howard County in April and third in the state; French Robertson, Abilene, district committeeman and Doug Orme. Local arrangements were spearheaded by Mrs. Martin Binder, who was busy as a bee when this picture was snapped. She introduced Rep. Wright at Abilene where he boosted Blakley's candidacy.

WILLIAM W. CRAWFORD, 68. Passed away Saturday. Funeral service Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in the Nalley-Pickle Chapel. Interment in City Cemetery.

Local Students, Teachers To Attend Nuclear Symposium

Students and teachers from this area will be among some 400 selected individuals attending a nuclear science symposium in Austin next month.

Dates are June 11-14, and the affair is under sponsorship of the University of Texas and the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation. The Foundation is a nonprofit organization whose members are 11 electric utility companies operating in the state.

LOCAL ATTENDANCE

Science teacher M. D. Whitley and Dilworth Thompson, student, are scheduled to attend from Big Spring. From Garden City there will be S. G. Oakes, teacher, and J. D. Parker, student.

Purpose of the symposium, which will be held on the campus of the University, is to supply basic information to the students and teachers about nuclear science and the related fields of modern mathematics, radiochemistry and physics, and also to give them an opportunity to discuss aspects of nuclear science with highly-qualified scientists from various fields.

In announcing the symposium, the two sponsors declared, "The Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation and the University of Texas are cooperating to give our high school teachers and science students a front seat to the drama of the atom and a realization of the privileges, responsibilities and opportunities which scientific discoveries in this field present."

SPEAKER

Featured speaker at the symposium will be Dr. Willard F. Libby, professor of chemistry at the University of California, a Nobel Prize winner and former member of the Atomic Energy Commission. Dr. Libby will speak on "Atomic Science," at an evening session on June 13, in Batts Hall Auditorium.

Other nationally known speakers on the symposium program will include Dr. E. C. Creutz, General Atomic vice president-research, and Dr. D. W. Kerst, inventor of the betatron particle accelerator, who is director of the controlled fusion research project at General Atomic. Dr. Creutz will speak on "Nuclear Physics, an Introduction," June 12, and Dr. Kerst will speak on "Nuclear Fusion Research" on June 14.

Other distinguished speakers include Dr. Robert J. Shalek, head of the physics department of the M. D. Anderson Hospital of the University of Texas in Houston; Dr. W. O. Milligan, chairman of the chemistry department at Rice University; Dr. R. N. Little Jr. and Dr. B. B. Kinsey of the physics department of the University of Texas; Dr. W. T. Guy Jr., chairman of the mathematics department, University of Texas, and H. R. Drew of Fort Worth, executive vice president of the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation.

Big Campers

This den from a Midland Cub pack "roughed it" here Friday night, camping out on the Carl Strom yard at Pennsylvania and Westover. They were guests of Easy Ezzell, second from left, who is the grandson of the Stroms. In lieu of the campfire they roasted wieners over charcoal and bedded down not far from a big totem pole. The boys included Kim Huffman, Easy Ezzell, Ronnie Preuet, Mark Redford, Bill Bynum, Gregg Euston, Rickey Rooker, David Nelson.

Runnels Junior High In Year's Concluding Concert

Runnels Junior High School Choir closed out its school year Friday evening with a concert in the Runnels gymnasium. Mrs. Forrest Gambill, choral instructor, was director, and her husband provided narration for a program consisting mostly of religious and patriotic songs.

The choir, numbering more than 80, was made up practically of girls, there being no more than a dozen boys present, and they seemed a bit bashful.

The young vocalists started out rather well, managing to make themselves heard above the noise of fans. There was good harmony on "Little David," a spiritual, and "Halls of Ivy," and a new touch was added to the old folk song, "Grandfather's Clock" — handclapping instead of the usual ticktocking.

It was a sultry night inside the gym, but the singers suffered worse than the audience did. Toward the latter part of the program, the heat and humidity began to take its toll—at least five young girls from the chorus were seen speeding to an exit for a breath of air.

In spite of the discomfort, the chorus gave evidence of having worked hard.

Vocalists of the junior high age lack range and depth. Mrs. Gambill got around this with an excellent use of high sopranos in some places.

The fans drowned out the narrator's voice for those in the rear rows, and the sultry atmosphere inside the gym finally forced Mrs. Gambill to knock off the last few numbers and end the program.

"Next year, we'll have our program in the winter," she joked for the audience.

The chorus was arranged on choir steps since there was no room on the tiny stage in one wall of the gym, and members of the audience sat in closely packed metal folding chairs or in the bleachers. There was no speaking system for narration.

Brother Seeks Joe Cline, Offers Reward For Info

Have you seen this man?

He may be in the Big Spring area. If you can provide information which will establish his present whereabouts, you will be paid $100 reward by the man's b other.

Joseph W. Cline, 41, is a veteran of World War II. He is one-eyed, his left eye having been destroyed in the war. He has spent 16 years of his life since World War II in Veterans hospitals.

His brother, E. L. Cline, Fort Worth, is his guardian. The brother says that Joseph has a considerable amount of cash in banks.

Sometime ago, the man was released from the hospital and brought to Fort Worth. On Sept. 8 he left Fort Worth, his destination not known. It is believed he made his way to Abilene and later is reported to have been seen near Big Spring. He had only a small amount of money with him at the time he disappeared. He has written no checks.

The brother, as guardian, has been authorized to pay a reward of $100 for information which will lead to the present whereabouts of Joseph Cline. Anyone having any information is asked to contact Sheriff Miller Harris at the court house. Harris will notify the brother and if the identity of the man is established, the guardian will pay $100 reward for the information.

Joseph has no Social Security card and, if he is working, it would have to be in a place where the lack of the card is being ignored. He is capable of farm and dairy work but has no skill or ability in any other field.

JOSEPH W. CLINE

Fined For Checks

Mrs. Dewey Manning was fined $50 and costs in County Court for passing worthless checks.

Church Elects New Officers

At a recent business meeting of the Church of the Nazarene, 14th and Lancaster, reports were heard, and new officers elected for the coming church year.

Department officers elected were: Marvin Wooldridge, Sunday School superintendent; Mrs. D. J. McGuire, missionary president; and Linda Voyles, youth president.

Five trustees were elected. They are Virgil Little, chairman; Marshall Brown, W. E. Spears; William Gray, and J. M. Turner.

Stewards elected were: Mrs. Elma Hood, chairman; Willie Mae Witt, Gerry Spears, Dell McGuire, and Kelly Mize. Evelyn McGuire was elected secretary, and Loena Smith was re-elected church treasurer.

Five were elected to serve on the church school board: Earl Bohannan, Virgil Little, Clara Westbrook, Charlene Wooldridge, and W. E. Spears.

All of the new officers will assume their duties on Sunday, which is the first Sunday following the annual District Assembly of the church.

Gene Littler Wrests Lead From Souchak

FORT WORTH (AP)—Gene Littler charged past stumbling Mike Souchak into the lead at 54 holes in the $40,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament Saturday.

Littler shot a 3-under-par 67 for a 209 total as Souchak followed a disastrous trail that included a triple bogey and wound up with a 73 for 212.

Arnold Palmer and big Billy Casper also moved ahead of the floundering Souchak and tied for second place with 210, each shooting a 69 Saturday.

It was the tightest round in Colonial's history with the lead fluctuating through the first nine holes with Palmer's 32 putting him ahead by 2 strokes. Then Littler, who was on a hot-putting streak, one-putting six holes in a row, moved ahead on the 11th hole.

The Singing Hills, Calif., professional who hasn't yet won a tournament this year, birdied 10 and 11. Palmer bogeyed 12 when he was in a trap and Littler never had any trouble staying ahead the rest of the way.

Casper at this point appeared to be shooting himself out of it. He bogeyed 13 and doubled bogeyed 14 and Littler was three strokes to the good.

But Littler bogeyed 14 when he was in a trap and bogeyed 16 where he missed a short putt and he was only one stroke over Palmer. Casper moved back into contention with a birdie on 17.

Souchak was leading the tournament for 36 holes with 139 when the third round started Saturday while Casper and Palmer were three strokes back. Big Mike shot an eagle on the first hole where his 4-wood 250-yard shot was just four feet from the pin on the par 5 hole. Palmer and Casper birdied.

Souchak bogeyed 3 and on 4 had his triple bogey that shot him out of a chance of leading the tournament. His tee shot was against a fence and he had to play out left handed. He got on in three and 3-putted.

In fourth place was Doug Sanders, who had a 3-under-par 67 to match Littler. Sanders wound up with 211 for 54 holes.

Tied with Souchak at 212 were Stan Leonard and Gardner Dickinson who shot 68's.

Par was bettered nine times over the wind-swept 7,041-yard Colonial Country Club course Saturday in contrast to Friday's round when no one could go under par figures although weather conditions were similar.

Track Meet Queen, Duchesses

Caroline Sewell (left) and Marilyn Bigham form a pretty vanguard for Karen Baldwin (right), who has been named queen of the 1961 National Junior College Track and Field Meet, which will be held here Friday and Saturday. Caroline and Marilyn will serve as duchesses in Karen's royal court. The three will help pass out awards to the winning individuals—a factor that, no doubt, will have the athletes trying extra hard.

Willie Mays Again Picks On Braves

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays boomed two long home runs Saturday—driving in six runs — and San Francisco beat Milwaukee 8-5.

Mays socked a 420-foot homer with the bases loaded in the third inning and a 400-foot clout in the fifth with one on base.

Stu Miller, the Giants' third pitcher, didn't give up a hit over the four innings he worked and was credited with the victory, his first decision of the year.

Mays' grand slam was the Giants' first hit of the day with Milwaukee leading 4-0.

Both Mays' homers were hit off Brave starter Bob Buhl, the losing pitcher who is now 1-3.

The 29,150 fans saw a record home run output for two-year-old Candlestick Park. Willie McCovey of the Giants belted one with the bases empty in the eighth.

Flying Tom Wins Feature Event At Sunland Park

SUNLAND PARK, N.M.—Flying Tom slipped in home in a photo finish to win the featured race at Sunland Park Saturday.

The 870-yard run was doped to be a four-horse affair, and it was just that, with Flying Tom, Flying Dutchman, Clover Leaf and May High, all fighting all the way around the track. They remained bunched in the stretch, and it took the camera to show who had come in first.

Flying Dutchman was second, Clover Leaf in the money just barely ahead of May High, holder of the track record.

The day's results:

FIRST (6½ furl.) — Early Dream 5.20, 2.80, 2.40 Pursuance 2.80, 2.60 Kay Morden 2.80. T — 1:19.6.

Mary Griffin Tennis Champ

ROSWELL, N.M.—Mary Griffin of HCJC won the girls' singles championship in the Western JC Conference tennis meet here Sat- Betty Ellison, in the finals, 2-6, 7-5, 6-4.

In doubles play, Ellison and Griffin lost in the finals to Reynolds and Kemper of Amarillo College, 7-5, 6-2.

Griffin advanced in singles play by defeating P. Child of Frank Phillips College, 6-0, 6-1; Linda Lasater, Odessa, 6-3, 6-1; and Reynolds, Amarillo, 6-1, 7-5, in that order.

Ellison moved along to the finals by turning back Kirk, Odessa College, 6-1, 6-1 and; Kemper, 6-3, 6-3, 7-5, in that order after drawing a first round bye.

Ellison and Griffin sidelined Wedge and Hart, Frank Phillips, 6-0, 6-0, and Caudle and Kirk, Odessa, 6-1, 6-4, in that order to reach the finals in double play.

Alspaugh Leads Texas To Win

HOUSTON (AP) — Ralph Alspaugh, after being denied two meet records by a strong wind, anchored a third place Texas mile relay team with a brilliant 46.7 Saturday to clinch the 1961 Southwest Conference track and field championships for the Longhorns.

The third place finish in the final event gave Texas 68½ points to 66 for Baylor, the defending champion and pre-meet favorite.

Four records were broken and the wind that ranged from 7 to 10 miles an hour—well above the tolerance of 4.4—disallowed sprint marks by Alspaugh and two fine hurdle times by Ray Cunningham, also of Texas.

Texas needed at least a fourth place in the mile relay to clinch the championship. The Longhorns were running sixth when Alspaugh took over the baton. He moved into fifth place quickly and moved into third just before reaching the tape.

A first or second place would have given the title to Baylor if Texas finished no better than fifth. The Bears led the first two laps but were overcome by Southern Methodist on the third. Jim Parr, who earlier had set an 880-yard record of 1:49.0, then anchored SMU to victory with the 13:14.1.

The SMU victory jumped the Mustangs to third place with 38¼ points. Rice followed with 37½, Texas Tech 20½, Texas A&M 20, Texas Christian 12½.

Texas, taking six first places, also won the freshman championship with 89 points. Texas A&M has 56 2-3, SMU 44½, Texas Tech 25, Baylor 12½, TCU 7 1-3, and Arkansas 3½.

Allison Leads Twins To Win

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) —Bob Allison, regaining his old batting eye, smashed two home runs and drove in five runs Saturday in Minnesota's 's 13-6 victory over the Los Angeles Angels.

They were the sixth and seventh homers for the hefty Twins' right-fielder and kept him on the heels of teammate Harmon Killebrew, who clouted his eighth of the season.

Also joining in the homer parade for the winners was Dan Dobbek, who got his round-tripper in the eighth inning when Minnesota pushed across six runs.

The winning pitcher was Ed Palmquist, who gained his first decision after joining the Twins this week from the Los Angeles Dodgers. Ryne Duren dropped his second decision. He is winless.

Ed Sachs Wins Pole Spot At Indianapolis

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Eddie Sachs Saturday came back from a bad 1960 wreck and won the pole position for the 500-mile auto race for the second straight year. The feat had been accomplished only twice before since the first Memorial Day speed classic 50 years ago.

The late Ralph DePalma earned the No. 1 starting spot in 1920-21 and the late Rex Mays did it in 1935-36.

The Center Valley, Pa., veteran, hospitalized a month last fall after a wreck at Sacramento, Calif., came back with the second-fastest 10-mile qualification in Speedway history. He wheeled his white Dean special through the four laps at an average speed of 147.481 miles an hour. The day's 22 qualifiers, including world road racing champion Jack Brabham of Australia, among six rookies failed to approach the qualifying record of 149.056 set last year by Jim Hurtubise of Lennox, Calif. Hurtubise, in a different car this year, had Saturday's third-best speed of 146.306.

Sachs will start in the three-car front row for the fourth time in five years — but he never has finished the race.

The 22 qualifiers, largest number on opening day since World War II, was faster over-all than ever before. It averaged 145.261, compared with a record average of 144.863 for the 16 qualifiers on last year's first day of trials.

Australia's Jack Brabham, world road racing champion, whipped his rear-engine English car around the Indianapolis Motor Speedway's 2½-mile track in an average speed of 145.144 miles an hour in attempting his first 500.

That was considered fast enough to put Brabham's Cooper-Climax in the 50th annual classic May 30. It would be the first foreign entry since 1952.

Brabham didn't stay for congratulations. He hopped a jet for Monte Carlo, where he was scheduled to race Sunday in the Monaco Grand Prix.

Wayne Weiler of Phoenix, teammate of Tony Bettenhausen, turned in a 10-mile trial run of 145.349 m.p.h.

Ysleta Bel Air Trounces Midland To Win Series

EL PASO — Ysleta Bel Air defeated Midland, 7-5, in the rubber game of a three-game bi-district baseball series here Saturday.

Frank Johnson pitched and helped to bat the Ysleta team to the win. His first inning triple with two on got the home team off to a good start. He also had a single.

Right fielder Joe Hague collected three hits and drove in three runs for the winners.

Carl Schreiner had a single and a double for Midland, as did Paul James.

Midland used three pitchers in a vain attempt to halt the Bel Air club, which wound up with 11 hits.

The Bulldogs had won the first game of the series while Bel Air copped both of them played at home.

Colavito Is Leader In Win Over Yanks

NEW YORK (AP)—Rocky Colavito, ejected Friday night for chasing into the stands after a spectator, Saturday chased New York outfielders all over Yankee Stadium. The Detroit outfielder smashed two home runs and a pair of singles as the American League-leading Tigers drubbed the Yankees 8-3.

Dick Brown also starred at bat for the Tigers. The 26-year-old catcher drove in three runs with a home run and a single. Brown's four-bagger snapped a 3-3 tie in the eighth inning.

Colavito's first homer was a solo in the fifth, and his second came in the ninth with two on to clinch the Tigers' second straight victory over New York and widen their lead to 4½ games over the Yankees.

Phil Regan, a 24-year-old right-hander, went all the way for Detroit to record his third triumph without a defeat. He permitted only five hits but two were home runs. Johnny Blanchard walloped one, in the fifth, and Yogi Berra temporarily tied the score at 3-3, with his solo smash, in the sixth.

Bob Turley was the Yankee starter and loser. The big right-hander yielded 10 of the Tigers' 12 hits before he was replaced by Danny McDevitt in the ninth. Colavito's second homer was hit off McDevitt.

Paul Como Wins SWC Net Title

HOUSTON (AP)—Paul Como, the defending champion, defeated ice teammate Ronnie Fisher in straight sets Saturday for the tennis singles championship of the Southwest Conference.

Como, a senior from Baytown, defeated Fisher, the 1958 and 1959 champion, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

Fisher had won his second conference title in 1959 by taking a rugged five sets finals match from Como, then a sophomore.

The defeat kept Fisher from becoming the sixth player in conference history to win the single title three times. After winning in 1959, Fisher postponed his final year of eligibility and did not compete last season.

Willie Wolff and Tommy Howorth of SMU defeated Fisher and Neal Marcus of Rice 6-1, 6-4, 6-4 for the doubles championship.

It was the second straight year for Howorth to share the doubles title. Howorth and Bill Wright, now graduated, won in 1960.

Pueblo Hopefuls

Three boys who will represent Pueblo JC, Colorado, in the National JC Track and Field Meet here Friday and Saturday are pictured above. Standing, left to right, are John Plummer, who has run the 440 in 49.6 seconds; and Earl Steers, fourth in the two-mile run in the Nationals last year. Kneeling is Curt Dodson, a broad jumper who was fourth in his specialty here last year.

Virdon Leads Bucs To Win

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bill Virdon rapped three hits, including a solo home run, and walked twice in leading the Pittsburgh Pirates to a free-wheeling 13-5 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs Saturday.

The fleet outfielder lashed his homer in the sixth inning off Jay Hook, fourth of five Redleg pitchers. He also had a triple and a single, and scored two other runs in Pittsburgh's 16-hit attack.

Clem Labine received credit for his first triumph against no losses. He came on in the fifth after starter Joe Gibbon was struck on the head by a batted ball, and held the Redlegs scoreless.

Redleg starter Jim O'Toole absorbed the loss, his third against three victories.

The Pirates broke open the game in the third, tallying six runs on six hits, a walk, a sacrifice fly and an error.

Cincinnati tried to make a contest of it in the fifth, coming back with four runs to make the score 7-5. But the Pirates bunched three runs each in the sixth and eighth.

Gibbon was taken to a hospital for X rays.

Tom Sturdivant Stifles Boston

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tom Sturdivant, put on the expansion draft list by the Boston Red Sox last winter, came back to haunt them Saturday with a one-hitter, as the Washington Senators won 4-0.

The knuckleballing right-hander pitched to 28 batters, one over the minimum.

His chance at no-hit fame was ruined in the fifth inning by a leadoff double by Vic Wertz. Sturdivant walked one — Gary Geiger in the first inning.

The Sox were playing without shortstop Pumpsie Green, who is recuperating from an emergency appendectomy performed Saturday morning. He will be out two to four weeks.

The Senators sent Gene Conley down to his third loss.

Jim King banged a home run with Gene Woodling on base in the third. Woodling had walked. The Senators got two more runs in the seventh.

This was Studivant's fourth start of the season. In his first start he allowed only three hits in 7 1-3 innings to beat the Red Sox at Boston. Since then he has lost to Detroit and Cleveland.

Brown On Hill As Baltimore Rips Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Hector (Skinny) Brown shackled Cleveland with five hits and Jim Gentile raised his league-leading home run total to 11 Saturday as the Baltimore Orioles beat the Indians 4-1.

Brown, a 36-year-old right-hander, walked only two and scattered five hits in seven innings for his second victory against one defeat. He struck out none.

Hoyt Wilhelm gave Brown relief help by retiring the last six Indians in order.

Wynn Hawkins, who started for Cleveland, suffered his first loss against three victories.

Gentile's solo shot in the eighth came off reliever Bob Allen.

Baltimore got only seven hits including a single and a double by Russ Snyder.

The Orioles got three runs in the fourth. Whitey Herzog walked, Snyder beat out a bunt and Robinson singled to fill the bases. Herzog scored on an infield out, and Snyder came across on Gus Triandos' fly to center. After Ron Hansen beat out an infield hit, Gentile scored when Hawkins covering first, dropped a throw.

Cleveland got its run in the sixth on doubles by Jim Piersall and Tito Francona and Vic Power's infield out, which scored Piersall from third.

Cosden evened its won-lost record at 2-2 in Texas Little League play here Friday night by belting the Locals, 9-1, behind the one-hit pitching of Manny Olague.

In the other game, Toby's won over Reef, 13-0, to protect its unbeaten record.

The only hit Olague surrendered was a third ining triple by Danny Clendennin, which resulted in the Locals' run. Olague fanned three and walked three.

Olague helped his own cause with solo home run in the fourth inning. He also had two singles.

Jay Ingram and Larry Bennett each had two hits for the winners.

Ysleta Bel Air Kayoes Midland

EL PASO—Ysleta Bel Air defeated Midland, 6-5, in the second game of their bi-district baseball series here Friday after Midland had copped the opener in Midland. A six-run outburst in the fifth inning sealed Midland's doom.

Frank Johnson and Joe Hague blasted home runs for Bel Air in the big fifth.

Jones To Join Jersey C. Club

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Sherman Jones, who had a 10-0 pitching record with Tacoma in the Pacific Coast League last year, is on his way to join the Jersey City Jerseys of the International League.

The Jerseys announced Saturday that the club's parent organization, the Cincinnati Redlegs, obtained Jones in a trade with San Francisco. Jones was part of a deal which involved Don Blasingame and Ed Bailey.

Pimlico Entries Get Treatment

BALTIMORE (AP)—Two prime contenders for next Saturday's Preakness received veterinary treatment at Pimlico Saturday and their status for the $150,000 race was in doubt.

Fred W. Hooper's Crozier, second-place finisher in last Saturday's Kentucky Derby, came down with the colic and Leonard P. Sasso's Globemaster suffered a stifle (knee) injury.

Hawks Win Nine First Places In WJCC Meet

ROSWELL, N. M. — Howard County Junior College caputred nine first places and tied for another in the Western JC Track and Field Meet here Saturday.

Lubbock Christian won four blue ribbons and tied for another. New Mexico Military Institute and Amarillo each settled for a lone first.

Although points did not count, an unofficial tab of the scoring showed HCJC with 108½ points, compared to 71½ for LCC, 53 for NMMI, 32 for Amarillo and eight for South Plains.

The entire meet was staged in winds of from 30 to 40 miles an hour.

The Jayhawks copped first places in the 100, 220, 440, mile run, low hurdles, two mile run, shot put, discus throw, sprint relay and the sprint medley relay. They also tied for first in the high jump.

The sprint medley win came as a real surprise, since Lubbock was unbeaten in that event going tino opening quarter run by Herman Robinson, the Hawks sailed to a 3:36.3 clocking in the event and beat the Pioneers by a good 15 yards.

Eugene Franklin of HCJC, who has won the low hurdles in 23.9 seconds, tied Lubbock's Duke Jennings for first place in the high jump with a leap of 6-feet-0.

A double winner in the meet was Tiffin Stone of HCJC, who won the shot put with a throw of 46 feet 5⅛ inches and the discus with a toss of 152 feet 1 inch.

Amarillo's lone victory came in the pole vault, which Garlnad Fox won with a leap of 12 feet 3 inches. NMMI managed a blue ribbon when John Puster won the high hurdles in 15 seconds flat.

HCJC pushed Lubbock all the way in the mile relay and was clocked in 3:22.0.

The meet served as a final warmup for league teams for the National JC Track and Field show, which takes place in Big Spring next Friday and Saturday.

Chihuahua Handicap Is Top Race At Sunland Pk. Today

EL PASO — It's Getaway Day at Racing's Place in the Sun as the curtain comes down on the first, and highly successful, 32-day Sunland Park spring meeting.

The $5,000 Chihuahua Handicap has lured a fine field of seven distance stars in the mile and one-sixteenth closing day feature.

The Temulac Stable's Graphite, coming off a two straight win streak, will carry the hopes of his 14 women in the absence of stablemate Winsham Lad, whose leg injury has once again kept him from going postward.

According to Trainer Herb Clagget, Laddie rapped himself during the running of the Santa Fe Handicap and has not sufficiently recovered to train properly.

"I had hoped that he would be up to the Chihuahua, but his leg just won't stand training and it would be an injustice to the horse and the public to start him at this time. I guess we'll just have to rely on Graphite," said the dejected Claggett.

Off of his recent efforts, the bay son of Double Jay might develop into the number one standard bearer for Temulac. He turned back Judillo and Call Hy in winning the Del Norte Club Purse last week at six furlongs and annexed another three-quarter mile victory last month.

It will be the first time this season the stretch-running son of Double Jay has been able to go a route and the added yardage should be to his liking. In every start this season he has closed boldly, although he will be facing the sternest opposition this season in his Sunday engagement.

He has been assigned 111 pounds and will be handled by jockey Gale Mower, Temulac's regular reinsman.

With Winsham Lad out, Macdan becomes the Chihuahua field highweight at 116 pounds. Trainer Oral Pickard has the New Mexico-bred speedster in rare form as he comes off a smashing second to Social Blunder in the Thunderbirds Purse two weeks ago. The four-year-old son of Immediate won the New Mexico Futurity in his three-year-old year and seems to be coming to his best as a four. The capable Jack Brown will do the riding.

Trainer Gerald Bloss is still considering sending Penrock east to challenge Kentucky Derby winner Carry Back in the Preakness or Belmont Stakes. The property of Ralph Lowe of Midland, Texas, who won the Belmont with Gallant Man four years ago, Penrock is the only three-year-old in the race and it marks the first time he has been asked to face older horses. Bloss' decision on sending his charge against the best "threes" in the country will depend upon his performance Sunday. Penrock is in the Chihuahua with 110 pounds.

One of the feature's strong contenders is Net Man, who forced the pace against Mr. Vale and Social Blunder in the Del Norte Handicap last week. With a sixteenth of a mile less to travel, the grey ace will bear watching and is considered by some railbirds as the horse to beat. He has raced with and beaten some of the top runners in California and Arizona and is in the Chihuahua with 115 pounds.

Lightweights of the field include Blanter at 109, My Spike, 108, and Jet Plow, 108.

Nominations:

FIRST (6 furl.) — Big He, Ethel Bonar, Buckhaven, Robbers Gulch, Sally's Pride, Slipper Rock, Canyon Breese, Reprisal, Dodo Phil, Shaker Red.

SECOND (6 furl.) — Ban Sen, Sabariel Boy, Don Melody, Compass, Left Hasty, Underhand, Carelos, Raymeedon, Shuffle Duck, Oh Leilani.

THIRD (400 yards) — Lena's Bar, Safety First, Never Beat, Easter Rose, Kaystorn, Allegro.

FOURTH (350 yards) — Miss Seal's Girl, Blood Bay, Go Gal Go, Roleo, Silly Folly, Tee Beau, Will Van, Reed Mist, Hy Sugar, Miss Juanita Jo.

FIFTH (1 M & 1-16) — Little Paul, Vingh, Pepper J., Mr. J. B., War Mount, Damask Cloth, Solo Fiddle.

SIXTH (1 mile) — Tribal Tip, Star Performance, Double Stall, Mack Sweeper, Alicorno, Borned Right, Precioso 2nd.

SEVENTH (6 furl.) — Rein Abbey, Maud's Flash, Red Chafe, Stock Split, Sullivan's Alibi, Eiffel's Order, Ante Time, Buddie Jim, Ardent Rose, Count Summit; also Bren Brad, Sir Chief, Belle Fleur.

EIGHTH (1 M & 1-16) — Glyndon L., Bang's Victory, Star Diamond, Diamond Plow, Calamonco, Whoopin Crane, Lien.

NINTH (1 M & 1-16) — "Chihuahua Handicap" — Penrock, Jet Plow, Net Man, MacDan, Blanter, My Spike, Graphite.

TENTH (1 M & 1-16) — Music Market, Trucker, Piteo, Las Bananas, Tribal Justice, Gryy Strike, New Miracle, Frontier Saga, Jennie Heath, She Didnt Miss; also Admiral Bingo.

Tigers Seek Seventh Win In Twin Bill Here Today

Boasting a record of six wins against two losses, the Big Spring Tigers return to play at 1 p.m. today, at which time they oppose the Carlsbad Lions in a double header.

Danny Valdes will probably pitch the first game for the Bengals. The locals dropped their second game of the season last Sunday, at which time they yielded to Midland, 10-3. They came back to win the second game, 19-1.

Their only defeat has been at the hands of a contingent from Mexico.

Probable starters for Big Spring today include Charles Fierro, second base; Jack Thomas, third base; Tito Arencibia, center field; Billy Weatherall, right field; Pat Martinez, first base; Sonny Dutchover, catcher; Bernard McMahon, shortstop; Guy Lara, left field; and Valdes, pitching.

J. W. Smith and Joe Cadenhead are others who will be available for mound duty with the Bengals.

Hitting Away Is Withers Winner

NEW YORK (AP)—Long shot Hitting Away pulled a major upset Saturday when he captured the famous Withers Mile at Aqueduct in stakes' record time and perhaps earned a trip to the Preakness next week at Baltimore.

The colt, trained by Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons and ridden by Hedley Woodhouse, led for the final three-quarters of a mile and came home over the sloppy track 4¼ lengths in front of Up Scope. Nashua Blue finished third, another four lengths behind.

Merry Ruler, the 9-5 favorite finished seventh in the field of 11 3-year-olds. Eight of them are eligible for the $150,000 Preakness at Pimlico next Saturday.

Hitting Away, owned by Ogden Phipps was clocked in 1:35 1-5. That clipped one fifth of a second from the Withers record set by John William last year.

Minnie Minoso Is Standout In Win Over Kansas City

CHICAGO (AP) — A homer-spiced Chicago White Sox attack, including two bleacher clouts by Minnie Minoso, led lefty Billy Pierce to his first 1961 victory Saturday with a 10-1 verdict over the Kansas City Athletics.

Pierce, a 14-game winner last season, had been beaten twice in four previous starts. The lefty who had a busy day — also spanking a pair of singles to drive in two runs — was replaced by Frank Baumann at the start of the ninth.

The boisterous 12-hit White Sox attack included the first major league homer by rookie outfielder Floyd Robinson as he led off the first inning against A's starter, Jerry Walker.

Minoso's first homer, his No. 3 of the season, also came in the first off Walker. Minnie's second blast came in the sixth off Bill Kunkel, third Kansas City pitcher.

Walker's goose was cooked in a five-run White Sox second in which four hits and three Kansas City errors plagued him and his relief pitcher Ed Rakow.

The five-run burst included a double error by center fielder Bill Tuttle, who bobbled a single by Nellie Fox and then uncorked a throw which flattened Fox going into second. Stunned, Fox finally was revived and resumed play. However, he left the game at the start of the sixth complaining of a slight headache.

A third A's error in the fifth came as third baseman Andy Carey slipped and dropped the ball after catching Roy Siever's tall pop near the plate.

The mile relay event in the upcoming National JC Track and Field Meet here should be one of the most thrilling races on the program . . . New York City Community College has a 3:19.0 clocking to its credit in the event this year; Lubbock Christian has been timed in 3:20.7, Hutchinson, Kan., in 3:22.9; Independence in 3:23.0; Coffeyville, Kan., in about the same; while HCJC will be a factor in the baton-passing feature . . . Hutchinson, Kan., the pre-meet favorite, looms especially strong in the field events . . . Hutchinson has four javelin throwers who have each gone over 180 feet . . . One of the standouts on the Hutchinson team is Bill Dick, a Negro sprinter from Tulia, Tex., who has run the 220 in 22 seconds flat . . . Spalding, the sporting goods manufacturer, wants to sign the big league baseball clubs to a new contract . . . Spalding, under a contract now in effect, gives each team 600 dozen balls free, after which the teams pay $15 a dozen for the extra balls it needs . . . In all, a team will use about 800 dozen annually . . . Spalding claims it loses $3 a dozen on the balls it sells to the majors . . . Those balls the clubs pass out to fans as autographed copies are subgrade and, for that reason, cheaper . . . R. L. Lasater, Big Spring's peerless speedster, re-injured his leg recently but may recover in time to get in some competition this summer . . . The University of Houston and East Texas are two schools who are very interested in Lasater . . . The Exes may line up a surprisingly strong football club for that game with the 1961 Steers later this month . . . Bennie Lybrand, the Lamesa hurler who beat Snyder in that playoff baseball game earlier this week (3-1), hadn't taken a turn on the pitching mound since April 29 . . . Roland LaStarza, who received $79,000 for his fight with Rocky Marciano in 1953, earned $792 when he lost to Monroe Ratliffe in San Diego the other night.

'Watch Martha In Pitt Backfield'

Two of the top coaches in the San Angelo junior high school system, Wilbur George and James Brown, resigned their posts recently to join their old coach, Bob Harrell, at Irving. . .Both men were at Edison Junior High. . .Previously, Jerry Millsapps and Bob Stolusky had stepped down from post at San Angelo Lee JH. . .Millsapps is going to Gatesville. . .Buddy Cosby, the former Big Spring grid great, now a coaching aide at Stanton, says he thinks Bill Gravitt will make a better college football player than will Bill's twin brother, Bert. . .It was Bert, who as a back, reaped most of the headlines for Denver City High School. . .Cosby did much of the scouting for the Stanton varsity, in addition to handling the Buff B team —which won three of six starts . . . Buddy thinks at least three of his starters will be playing regularly with the Stanton A squad in 1961. . . Dale Hackbart, the Green Bay Packer back, passed up pro baseball this year to concentrate on the job of learning all the chores of a defensive back in efforts to win a permanent job with the NFL team. . .He says he lost 15 pounds last year riding the buses in bush league baseball. . .One of the state's best known track athletes (living elsewhere than here) will have trouble making his grades anywhere in college . . .That's why most of the SWC schools haven't taken the trouble to dangle offers before him. . .John Michelson, the University of Pittsburgh football coach, says he'll have his most interesting team this fall in seven years. . .The watchword is, "Watch Martha in the Pitt backfield". . .That would be Paul Martha, an outstanding sophomore quarterback. . . Arnold Palmer, the golf great, will make more money this year than Mickey Mantle, Willie Mays and Warren Spahn combined. . .A 16-lane bowling lane is to be built in Levelland.

Duffy Adds More Fun To Workouts

Morning Dawns, a six-year-old racing animal owned by Big Spring's Raymond River, reportedly is in fine shape for the Ruidoso Downs season just ahead. . .Her best distances are at one mile and longer. . .River, incidentally, has disposed of his interest in that tourist motel in Ruidoso . . . Duffy Daugherty, Michigan State's football mentor, has been trying to put more fun in the Spartans' game by giving his players a 15 minutes 'free period' in the middle of each practice session. . ."Football has become so regimented," he says, "and practices so organized that I feel a definite need for a break in the routine. Let's face it, practice can be a real drudge". . . During the free period, Daugherty permits a player to perform anywhere he pleases; e. g., a guard can go to end . . . If the boys want to rest in the shade during that time, it's all right with Duffy. . .Dean Cheatham, the Kress sprinter now at HCJC, was coached in high school by Leo Fields, the former Stanton mentor. . .Cheatham, who has run a 9.6 here, was never able to do better than 9.9 in high school and did that only once. . .Foy Dunlap, who is the father of BSHS's fine athlete, Jerry Dunlap, played high school basketball under Brady Nix at Forsan back in the '30's. . .Nix is now superintendent of schools at Crane. . .D. H. (Tiny) Reid, the one-time Big Springer who helped build Eastern New Mexico University into the school it is, is no longer connected with that school. . .Odessa High had 75 boys and Odessa Permian 65 report for the beginning of spring football workouts . . .New Mexico Military Institute won the Western JC Conference baseball championship with a 13-3 record, followed by Amarillo (11-5), South Plains (8-8), Odessa (7-9) and Frank Phillips (1-15) . . .Rogers Hornsby, the former big league hitter great, and Gil McDougald, ex-New York Yankee, will both be scouting for the New York entry in the National League next season. . .Hornsby managed McDougald when both were at Beaumont a few years ago.

Sluggers Will Be Honored In Shrine

CINCINNATI (AP) — Major leaguers who join the "200 home run club" in the future will be honored in Cooperstown, N.Y. and will receive a membership card from the league.

Warren Gile, president of the National League, and Joe Cronin, American League president, announced Saturday that a display has been erected in the National Baseball Museum at Cooperstown to list each member of the club and his lifetime total. The figures will be changed daily during the season.

Fifty big leaguers, an average of one in every 200, have gone over the 200 mark. Six are dead and 13 of the remaining 44 are still active.

Stueckler Hired As Lee Mentor

MIDLAND — Paul Stueckler, who coached two district championship basketball teams at El Paso Austin, has been named head basketball mentor at Robert E. Lee High School here.

The new school opens its doors for the first time this fall.

Stueckler is a graduate of Concordia Academy at Austin and Texas Western College. He formerly coached at Presidio. He has served as head cage mentor at Austin for the past four years.

Four years ago, one of Stueckler's team lost to Big Spring in bi-district play. The other was sidelined by Midland in 1960.

Thomas Hurls No-Hit Game Behind Grocers

Webb AFB bombed Coca-Cola, 13-0, and Newsom's Grocery blanked McDaniel Construction, 11-0, in YMCA Industrial Softball League play at the City Park Friday night.

Webb and Newsom's each has a 2-0 won-lost record. The other two teams are 0-2.

Coca-Cola managed only one hit off Jack Long in the opening game. That was a single by Adams.

Bob Elsberry clubbed a home run and a single for Webb, which struck for five runs in the first inning and added four in the second.

Billy Paul Thomas pitched Newsom's to an easy victory, setting McDaniel's down with a hit or a run in the five inning game.

Marion Treadaway slugged a home run and a single. He batted in three runs while Jackie Thomas drove in two.

Thomas walked only one batter and fanned seven.

Newsom's now has won two games without a loss in league play while McDaniel stands at 0-2.

Ken Hamby Leads Pigs To Victory

In a game called at the end of five innings due to the curfew rule and hampered throughout by wind and sand, the Pigs outlasted the Jets, 11-8, in American Little League play Friday night.

Kenneth Hamby sparked the nine-hit Pig attack by belting a three-run home run in the second and two singles. Jerry Tate had a brace of singles for the winners.

The Jets struck for four runs in the first inning but the Pigs came right back with four tallies in their half of the round and went ahead to stay on Hamby's homer in the second.

Broken Wire Led To Racing Death

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)— Tony Bettenhausen, 44, whose greatest ambition was to win the richest of all auto races, died because a nickel's worth of wire broke on a car he was testing for a friend at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Bettenhausen was killed instantly when the roaring racer hurtled into a wall and burst into flames Friday.

Speedway officials said the cause of his death was a cotter-pin worth about five cents. The sheared pin let a bolt fall, and when the idol of American auto speed fans stepped on the brakes, the axle twisted, flinging the car into the outside retaining wall on the northwest turn.

Bettenhausen, of Tinley Park, Ill., was dead when guards fought their way through horrified fans to where the smashed car hung wrapped in wire atop the wall.

It was his 29th wreck in a race car. The first was in his first race at Chicago 23 years ago. In 28 of those crashes he was upside down.

The stocky little Dutchman's death came while his own car, with which he hoped to break records at today's time trials for the 500-mile Memorial Day race was sitting in a speedway garage.

He was testing a car for his long-time friend Paul Russo of Fortville, Ind. He had turned in several laps at 145 miles an hour in the car, the Stearly Special, and had slowed down as though he planned to come into the pits.

Only Wednesday, Tony had turned in a 149.245 lap — the fastest ever recorded in traffic on the 2½-mile brick and asphalt track.

His death was the 53rd at the Indianapolis "brickyard," opened in 1909 as a dirt track. He was the 30th driver killed. The toll includes 14 mechanics and 9 spectators.

Sherrill Resigns Post At McCamey

McCAMEY — Tommy Sherrill, head basketball coach and assistant in football at McCamey High School, has resigned that position. He coached at Vega before going to McCamey.

Sherrill said he planned to go into the sporting goods businses in Amarillo. He is a graduate of West Texas State College.

Takes Two To Hold 'Em

Otis Perry of Big Spring has to enlist the aid of his son, Reagan, in holding up the string of black bass (six of them) he caught recently near Clyde Montgomery's Grocery at Lake J. B. Thomas. Four of the fish weighed four pounds each, the other two two pounds each.

Sabres Decision T-Birds, 12-4

In a battle of unbeaten teams, the Sabres defeated the T-Birds, 12-4, in International Little League competition here Friday night.

The Sabres did it with a nine-run outburst in the final inning. Only two extra base hit were struck in the game, one by each team. Jimmy Carrothers had a first inning double for the Sabres. Tony Best blasted one for the T-Birds in the sixth.

Carrothers was the winning pitcher. He fanned seven and walked four. James Gibson was charged with the loss.

Colavito Ousted After Aiding Dad

NEW YORK (AP)— "What would you do if you saw a guy hitting your father?" asked Rocky Colavito today.

"Well, I did it. I went after him."

The Detroit Tigers' outfielder rushed into the stands at Yankee Stadium Friday night after the eighth inning when he saw his father, Rocco Sr., in a scrap just behind the visiting dugout.

"It was pretty mixed up," said Colavito. "At the time I didn't know what was going on, just that my father was in a fight. He's 60 years old and I'm not going to let anyone hit him."

For his efforts, Colavito was ejected from the game and Manager Bob Scheffing said he would play under protest. As it turned out the Tigers won 4-3, and the protest wasn't needed.

"I found later that some drunk was annoying my wife," said Colavito. "When the fight started my brother, Dom, who also was there, tried to step in.

"When I ran up, three guys were holding Dom. If he had been able to get away I would have bet on him."

Colavito, a native new Yorker, always has a big crowd of his pals on hand when he plays in the stadium.

"I had 27 guests last night," he announced.

Trainer Jack Homel, along with teammates Bill Bruton, Dick Brown and Jim Bunning started into the fray, but they were sidetracked before they waded in.

"I don't think there were any punches thrown," said Rocky, "but I'm not even sure of that. They threw the guy out who was making the remarks."

Rocky's father refused to press charges.

Who Says You Won't Get POLIO?

Polio struck last summer . . . and the summer before . . . and it can strike again this summer. There is no reason why you can't get it—unless you are immunized with vaccine shots.

The groups who appear to be particularly susceptible are young parents and babies. And now is the time to do something about it. It only takes minutes for Polio protection.

Call your physician or local health department.

No one needing this protection should go without it!

JET-SMOOTH CHEVROLET

(the full-size wagon more people are buying than any other make) Point a new Chevy wagon down an open stretch of road—and happy vacation, here you come. You've got all the cargo room (up to 97.5 cubic feet) you know what to do with—even a hidden valuables vault under the floor. You've got power tailored to your purpose. And you've got Chevy's Jet-smooth ride paving your way to out-of-the-way places. At each wheel a big, supple Full Coil spring gentles the ride, come highway or byway. And over 700 insulating and cushioning points sop up road-surface chatter. With all that (plus craftsmanship everyone's come to expect from Body by Fisher), no wonder more people are picking these full-size Chevy wagons over any other make. Six big load-totin', people-lovin' models, including America's lowest priced full-size 4-door 6-passenger wagon*. Fix that in mind—and take a good healthy look at how the country's bustin' out all over. Now do you see why the time's so ripe for a beautiful wagon buy at your Chevrolet dealer's?

Pioneers Eye 2 Relay Wins

Lubbock Christian college returns to the National meet next weekend with almost the same performers that set one mark here last year.

Larry Gould, Rusty Childs and Gary Bowe are back from the sprint medley team that set a record of 3:29.7 last year and are undefeated by junior college competition this year. The fourth member of the team is freshman Larry Reed.

Childs, Bowe and Roy Hinkle return from the mile relay that neared a record by running a 3:22.2 a year ago. Reed is also the fourth member of the team and they have run a 3:20.7 and are capable of breaking 3:19.0. The meet record is 3:21.2, set by Arlington in 1959.

Bowe ran a 1:54.0 last year in the 880 to place second, but has been hobbled with injuries this year and has not been under two minutes.

Larry Gould was third in the broad jump in the 1960 meet and has equaled that distance of 22-9 this year.

The entrants and best times of this season:

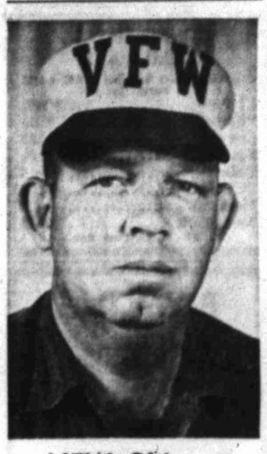

100-yard dash — Gould (10.0). 220-yard dash—Gould 21.8; Reed 22.5; Hinkle 22.6. 440-yard dash—Childs 48.9; Reed 49.6; Hinkle 50.0. 880-yard run—Bowe 2:00.5; Helge Reistad 2:02. Mile run—Bob Crass 5:00. High hurdles—Charles Lockhart 16.2. Low hurdles—Lockhart 24.8. High jump—Doug Goen 6-0; Duke Jennings, 6-½. Shot Put—Bob Camp, 45-10¾. Discus—Bob Camp, 130-3; Gerald Gray, 131-0. Broad jump—Gould, 22-9; Bob Burke, 21-10. Javelin—Camp, 140-0.

Mile Relay—Reed 50.2; Childs 48.6; Hinkle 49.8; Bowe 50.2. Best time: 3:20.7. (Times above are individual best, not all from same race.) Lockhart (52.0) is alternate.

Sprint medley—Reed 50.2; Gould 21.8; Childs 21.0; Bowe 2:00.5; best time: 3:40.2. Times also best by individual. (Note: best time many throw predictors as team has not been pushed at all this year except once, when best time was recorded in losing effort to college team. Wind was real high every time run. Capable of coming close to last year's record. Hinkle 22.4 is alternate.)

440-yard relay—Gould, Reed, Childs, Bowe. Best time: 43.7.

No entries in pole vault or two-mile.

SWC To Freeze Scholarships

HOUSTON (AP) — The Southwest Conference took action Saturday to freeze football and basketball scholarships at current averages.

A resolution adopted by faculty representatives said the conference "insists" the member schools limit full-time football aid to an annual average of 100 scholarships and basketball aid to 20 scholarships.

The limits become effective in September, 1962.

The resolution provides no penalties for violations but a scholarship limitations committee was instructed to "scrutinize the athletic program of any member institutions whose two-year average exceed by any appreciable degree the limits established."

"Actually the resolution will not cause any school to make any major adjustments," said Howard Grubbs, conference executive secretary. The limits were based on averages for the past three years. It might cause some schools to cut three or four scholarships but that's about all."

Grubbs said the resolution obtained the necessary six votes but did not receive unanimous approval.

"I'm sure this represents a compromise of the extremes on this matter," he said.

He emphasized, however, that only one vote was taken and the recommendations of the limitations committee were adopted without change.

"In effect, the resolution specified figures and defined reasonable bounds," he said.

It has been known some schools favored stronger limitations. SMU, for instance, recently abolished scholarships for all sports except football and basketball.

Other actions by the conference governing body:

1. A limit of two complimentary tickets for each game was established for each football player. Should the player prefer, each school can give the player cash equivalent to the face value of the tickets but the athlete will not be permitted to sell any complimentary tickets received.

2. A private investigator reported on "three or four" recruiting cases but the conference took no action.

3. The conference commended football coaches for establishing and abiding by their own ground rules limiting the number of recruiting contacts that may be made with prospective athletes. In a separate meeting, the coaches reaffirmed the rules adopted last year.

4. Dr. Delbert Swartz of Arkansas was elected conference president, succeeding Dr. Henry Hardt of TCU. Dr. Chris Groneman of Texas A&M was elected vice president.

Nixon Is New League Chief

Maj. Wilson Nixon, an active member in Webb's youth activity program, has taken over the reins of the International Little League. S.M.Sgt. John F. Homberg resigned as president because of a forthcoming trip and recent sickness.

Aiding Major Nixon in handling the league will be M.Sgt. Harold E. Butler, who has served two terms as president. They are three of the original founders of the league. Sergeant Butler is also active in the Boy Scouts, P-TA and other youth activities at Webb.

Sergeant Homberg will depart for school late this month and will return in time to assist in the Sectional Little League tournament to be held at Webb on Aug. 3, 4, 5.

The present program has 220 boys participating. According to league officials, with assistance from parents, two more minor league teams could be added, giving 40 more boys an opportunity to participate. Officials also stated that help is needed in the general operation of the league.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"HE'S NOT LAZY! HE'S JUST RESTIN' UP SO HE CAN WATCH FOR BURGLARS TONIGHT!"

Curbside loading is easy with a VW panel truck. For one-way street deliveries, for narrow alleys, or in any tight spot, you can load and unload fast. The VW panel truck loads and unloads through big double side doors as well as the rear door...double doors on both sides are optional. Forward cargo is easily reached. The top-hinged rear door facilitates loading goods of unusual length.

EASY WONDER... A VOLKSWAGEN CUTS DELIVERY COSTS

Profits go up when delivery costs go down. If your payload is 1,830 pounds or less, you'll find the VW panel truck delivers the full load economically, swiftly...yet even a small load is delivered economically because of VW's low operating cost. The Volkswagen carries 80% more weight at one-half the cost of standard half-ton trucks. The powerful aluminum-magnesium air-cooled engine uses no water, runs perfectly at all temperature ranges. It's rear-mounted to assure extra rear wheel traction ... makes VW's climb hills with ease. Visibility is excellent ... steering is remarkable. Variations in interior adaptations are as numerous as the trades in which VW serves. With Volkswagen's efficient and convenient side door and rear door delivery ... it's easy to see why you not only save in low initial cost, on economy of operation and maintenance — you save on time.

Coming Here Friday

Justin Wilson, well known narrator of Cajun stories, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the American Petroleum Institute being held at the Cosden Country Club. Wilson was a safety engineer long before he became famous for his stories. Safety is the topic on which he will speak.

Cajun To Speak At API Meeting Here

Justin Wilson, nationally known Cajun storyteller, will be guest speaker at the final Spring meeting of the Permian Basin Chapter of the American Petroleum Institute being held here Friday.

The meeting will begin with a social hour at 6:30 p.m. at Cosden Country Club. A buffet dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. followed by a short business meeting before Wilson's talk.

In adiition to being a noted teller of Cajun stories, Wilson has often been a featured speaker for safety. He is a safety consultant and belongs to the American Society of Safety Engineers and the American Society of Training Directors.

Although the subject of Wilson's lecture is safety, it will no doubt be brightened with many stores about the Louisiana Cajun.

His record albums of Cajun humor have sold by the hundreds of thousands. He made a recent appearance on the Ed Sullivan show.

Wilson was born in Amite, La. and has been in safety work for more than 20 years as a consultant.

Basin Rotary Count Down

The gain registered last week in Permian Basin rotary drilling was temporary and the number of active units slid back to 224 units, 29 less than a week ago, according to a Friday Reed Roller Bit Company survey.

Lea County, N. M. dropped one unit but continued to lead West Texas and Southeast New Mexico with 42 active rigs. Andrews County was second with 15 units.

There were 22 rigs in the local eight county area, four less than May 5. Glasscock and Borden counties each showed a gain of one rotary rig.

The county-by-county survey, with the previous week's totals in parentheses, looks like this.

Andrews 15 (24), BORDEN 5 (4), Cochran 1 (0), Coke 1 (0), Chaves 3 (1), Concho 1 (1), Crane 9 (13), Crockett 2 (1), Culberson 1 (1), DAWSON 5 (6), Ector 13 (19), Eddy 10 (12), Fisher 3 (3); GARZA 3 (5), GLASSCOCK 2 (1), Gaines 11 (16), Hall 1 (0), Hockley 4 (5), Hudspeth 1 (1), Irion 1 (2), Kent 3 (3), Lea 42 (43), Loving 2 (1), Lubbock 0 (1), Lynn 1 (2);

TIPRO Plans Policy For '62

MIDLAND (AP) — Independent oil producers of Texas meet Monday to discuss what they call their "depression-racked" industry.

Texas crude production allowables will be at a record low as the 6,500-member Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association (TIPRO) begins its annual meeting.

The Texas allowables have been held to a record low of only 44 days the first five months of 1961.

Sagging allowables, imports, and natural gas price controls will be major problems under discussion as TIPRO charts its policy program for 1961-62.

There is indication TIPRO's solution will include:

1. A request that crude purchasers aid in returning to Texas its share of the domestic crude market.

2. A renewed plea for a stronger mandatory program to control imports of crude and petroleum products.

3. A refusal to endorse President Kennedy's request that Congress exempt from federal price controls the small gas producer who sells less than two billion cubic feet a year into interstate commerce.

4. Renewed endorsement of the Federal Power Commission's area formula for controlling wellhead prices of gas as a "genuine step forward out of the regulatory morass."

TIPRO traditionally has contended an equalization tariff would be the most effective method for controlling imports but has endorsed the mandatory controls program and has asked frequently that it be strengthened.

Foreign oil, however, has not drawn all the blame for sagging Texas allowables. TIPRO believes part of Texas' fair share of the domestic market has shifted to other states. The Texas independents contend the state lost 50 million barrels in domestic markets last year while other producing states added 40 million barrels.

Rep. Torbert MacDonald, D-Mass., will speak on President Kennedy's small producer exemption plan at a Tuesday luncheon. MacDonald is sponsoring the plan in the House.

John Hurd, TIPRO president from Laredo, has indicated TIPRO's reaction to the plan:

"While we can't agree the suggestion for decontrol by size is sound, we can welcome the fact the administration recognizes the present situation is intolerable."

New Catalyst Helps Cut Smog-Causing Products

CLARKSVILLE, Md.—Speaking at the annual meeting of stockholders recently, J. Peter Grace, president of W. R. Grace & Company, told about a new catalyst developed to control smog from automobile exhausts.

The catalyst is the culmination of more than two years of research. It greatly reduces the percentage of smog-causing hydrocarbons as well as carbon monoxide when substituted for the standard muffler in the exhaust system.

Grace exhibited a prototype of the reactor muffler system of the future built by Norris-Thermador Corp., Los Angeles. It has been operating on an automobile in road tests for more than 25,000 miles.

California has adopted laws aimed at lessening smog and carbon monoxide in heavily congested areas. The Grace catalyst has operated successfully on gasolines containing lead and other conventional additives. It must be approved by the California Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board and receive acceptance by car manufacturers before it is made available to the public.

The Grace president spoke to stockholders at Grace's six million dollar chemical research center here.

April Potential Up As Oilers High For Year

By JOE BEYER

Completions in the area rose to a new high for the year pushing April new potential up 470.21 barrels over March as total potential climbed over the 4,000 barrel mark.

Forty-one completions, 14 more than last month, registered 4,179.29 barrels of new oil. The figure is also 184.78 barrels above April, 1960, when operators completed 32 wells.

New locations in April were three above March as 56 new sites were spotted. The high figure for this year, however, was still eight below April, 1960, when 63 new locations were filed.

Seven were prospectors, one less than last month and six less than a year ago.

Two wildcats were completed in the area, the same number as in March, but they produced only 130 barrels on initial potential, 349.80 barrels less than did the two for March.

One less project was abandoned than in March. There were 11 dusters in April.

Martin County continued to lead the eight county area in total potential with 2,016.86 barrels of new oil, almost twice that of Howard County, its closest competitor with 1,045.75 barrels. All wells accounting for the new oil in both counties were field sites.

County-by-county, the April picture looks like this:

BORDEN

Two field completions in the Gordon Simpson and Jo-Mill fields accounted for 272.88 barrels of this county's total 316.88 barrelage. A Spraberry discoverer, A. K. Guthrie No. 1 Fred Shaffer, two miles northwest of the Myrtle, East field, represented the remaining 44 barrels.

Production was 349.80 barrels below last month when two good producers came in.

One explorer was staked and an old well in the Ackerly, Southeast field was scheduled to be plugged back for a completion attempt. The Myrtle, West and Fluvanna fields each had one new site filed.

DAWSON

The picture in April looked bleak and expensive as this county registered no new oil for the first time this year. Two explorers were plugged and abandoned. Two new sites were set in the Ackerly, Northwest field with one more in each of the Dupree and Welch fields.

GARZA

A Glorieta discovery for 86 barrels on initial potential, Threeway Drilling Co. No. 1 Connell Estate, paced the county this month. Production totaled 393.10 barrels, up 293.54 barrels over March and slightly more than last year in April.

The Post field had three completions for 239.10 barrels and an Arlene field well registered the remaining 68 barrels. Three projects were abandoned — one a wildcat, one in the Hackberry field and another in the Koonsman field.

The Dorward field had four new locations, the Post, two, and the Justiceburg and Gordon Simpson fields, one each.

GLASSCOCK

The only production chalked up in the county was by an extender to the Fool's Creek field. James R. Currie No. 3 TXL produced all 120 barrels of new oil for the month. There were no completions last month.

Four wildcats were plugged and abandoned, but two more were staked. The Spraberry Trend also had 14 new sites, six being old wells to be plugged back and seven set for deeper drilling. The Fool's Creek field also gained a new location.

HOWARD

Fifteen completions, all in established fields, gave Howard County its best production of the year. The 1,045.75 barrels of new oil more than doubled the 464.43 barrels for March and this is the first time the county has exceeded 1,000 barrels in a year. The last time was April, a year ago.

The Snyder field accounted for 547.43 barrels of the new oil by having nine completions. Three were in the Iatan-East Howard field; two in the Howard-Glasscock, and the other in the Big Spring field. The Big Spring well was for 220 barrels on initial potential, biggest producer in the county.

Howard County dropped to second place in new locations, showing eight filed in established fields and two exploratory projects. Snyder field had most of the field sites with five. The Iatan-East Howard had two and the Howard-Glasscock field, one. Last month there were 15 new locations, one of them a prospector.

One explorer was plugged and abandoned.

MARTIN

The county out produced others for the fourth straight month with almost half the total new oil for the month. Its 2,016.86 barrels were all registered by field wells. This is an increase of 310.20 barrels over March.

The big producer of the 10 completions was a Breedlove well which flowed 466.53 barrels for that field's total new potential. The Mabee field had most completions with four and the Spraberry Trend was next with three. Single producers were registered in the Stanton and Billington fields.

Eight new projects were filed. Three are in the Spraberry Trend; two in the Mabee field, and one in the Breedlove and Playa fields. There was a single wildcat spotted.

MITCHELL

Some 274.70 barrels of new potential were added to the area total by six field wells in this county. This is 72.07 barrels less than in March.

The Sharon Ridge (1,700) field produced four of the new wells and two were in the Turner-Gregory field. One project in the Turner-Gregory field was a duster.

New sites were registered in the Iatan-East Howard and Sharon Ridge (1,700) fields, with one each.

STERLING

After two months of drought, the county had one Clark field completion reported for 12 barrels of new oil. No projects were abandoned and two were filed. One is a prospector; the other is in the Clark field.

Russ Oil Used As Political Tool

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia is using oil as a political and economic weapon in its cold war competition with the United States.

This is the gist of a study prepared by the Library of Congress for the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

With Russia scoring impressive oil production gains in recent years, the study said, the Soviet Union is determined "to employ petroleum as an important means of extending its influence into the free world."

In describing Russia's sales of oil, the report said bargain prices for Soviet oil in some instances have shown almost no relationship with those charged Soviet satellites, much nearer the source of supply.

The study gave this example:

In 1958, Russia is reported to have sold oil to Argentina at an average price of $1.60 a barrel. At the time, Poland was paying $2.87 a barrel.

Prices of Soviet oil and oil products in the export trade, depending on circumstances, "have been pegged well below prices previously accepted as standard in the international market," the study said.

It also said a large part of the Soviet effort in foreign economic aid in recent years has been directed toward replacing the West in the development of the oil resources of underdeveloped countries.

Billington Outpost Set In Martin

An outpost to the Billington (Spraberry) field was staked in Martin County by Gulf Oil Corporation. The No. 1 Kelly will be drilled to 8,200 feet to test the Spraberry.

The project is 1¾ miles west of the Billington field and 1½ miles north of the Spraberry Trend Area. It spots C SE NW, section 17-36-1s, T&P survey, three miles west of Stanton.

The only other activity reported in the area was from a wildcat in the South Rocker A field in Garza County. The TXL No. 1 Nance, set to test the Wolfcamp in the field which produces in the Glorieta and Strawn, has drilled out cement on 8⅝ inch surface casing set at 299 feet.

This prospector has been filed to bottom at 6,000 feet and so far has reached 304 feet. Location is C NW NE, section 42-6, H&GN survey, seven miles west of Justiceburg.

Dies In Jail

SAN ANTONIO (AP) —Robert Holloman, 38, was found dead in his county jail cell Saturday. He was charged with bootlegging.

Mexican Oil Debts Soon To Be Paid

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Pascual Gutierrez Roldan, director of Pemex, says Mexico will pay off its last installment of expropriation oil debts in September of 1962.

Mexico took over foreign oil properties in 1938, and agreed to pay more than one and a half billion pesos. It has paid $389,488,387 pesos and now owes 217,231,446.

Gutierrez Roldan reported Pemex made a profit of 98.5 millions in 1960 and has a reserve of more than 4,371 millions. A peso is worth 8 U.S. cents.

DOUBLE ATTENTION comes to the mother of twins on Mother's Day as Mrs. Cecil Phillips, Gail Road, can testify. Getting in practice for serving their mother coffee and dainties which they will prepare for her special day are Joan and Joyce Phillips, who have received their training in cooking as members of Future Homemakers of America in Big Spring High School.

A 'Double Take' On Mother's Day

IT'S DOUBLE THE WORK, BUT DOUBLE THE FUN to assist twin daughters in dressing for formals. Mrs. Elmo Phillips, 1306 Mount Vernon, knows about that, since she has helped Linda, at left and Marilyn, prepare for ever so many festivities during their days in Big Spring High School. The girls are cousins of Joyce and Joan Phillips, shown on this page. (Photos by Keith McMillin).

COMFORT FOR TWO comes from Mrs. W. R. Faulks, 1611 E. 5th, as she consoles her twins, Billy Ray and Ella Faye. Nine years old and in the third grade at Boydstun School, Billy sustained a broken arm when a door at the school slammed on it. His sister, in the same grade, carefully makes an adjustment in the sling to help the youngster to be a little more comfortable.

A KISS AND A CORSAGE are a tribute to Mrs. L. D. Thornton, 1416 Wood, received from her daughter, Phyllis Renee, while twin brother, Stanley Kent, waits to present his remembrance. The floral pieces were made by Brownies and Cub Scouts for their mothers and were to be presented today. This attractive mother of twins works as assistant den mother for Cub Pack 14, Den 6, besides helping with field trips and other activities of the Brownies.

TIME WAS when Mrs. Tom South, (photo at right) 1703 Kentucky, towered over her twin sons Tommy, at left, and Lacy. Now, the tables have turned, and she has to look up at both of the "six-footers plus four inches." Tables were probably turned again today when she was on the receiving end of lemonade and other refreshments such as she is bringing to the two after a game of croquet.

WOMEN'S NEWS

The Big Spring Herald

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, MAY 14, 1961

From Pennsylvania

Back in Big Spring from Pittsburgh, Pa., where they lived a year, are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hughes and children, Kenda Kay, five-weeks-old; and Stevie, two. Hughes is employed as an engineer for Cosden Petroleum Corp.

Plenty Of Playroom For A Two-Year-Old

One of the nice things about being back home for Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hughes, 1305 Dixie, is that their two year-old son, Stevie Edward, again has a place to play.

For nearly a year the Hughes lived in Pittsburgh, Pa., and it was either too cold or there was too much traffic for Stevie to be outdoors. There was one time when even Mrs. Hughes was afraid to get outdoors,—when the Pirates won the World Series.

"People said that there was as much excitment as when the war ended," says Mrs. Hughes. "People were shouting and kissing complete strangers on the street; it was the first time I had ever seen a town go wild."

The Hughes have to reacclimate themselves to Big Spring's warm weather. When Mrs. Hughes left Pittsburgh two weeks ago it was 35 degrees there. At one time there was 17 inches of snow on the ground during the Hughes' stay.

Before they left, the Hughes had a daughter born in Pittsburgh, five week-old Kenda Kay. Stevie is a "college man," having been born at College Station.

Actually, dad attended most of the classes at Texas A&M and received a degree in mechanical engineering last spring. Mrs. Hughes says she feels as though she went to college, since she worked for three state home demonstration agents in the home economics department. At college, Hughes belonged to Tau Beta Phi, honorary fraternity for engineers, and to the Big Spring Hometown Club.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hughes were raised in Big Spring and attended high school here. Mrs. Hughes was a senior in high school and he was a sophomore in college when they married three years ago. They haven't lived in Big Spring since their marriage.

While at College Station both the Hughes learned to play 42, and he became a bridge fan, a game that he still is learning. Both like to water-ski and Hughes is a bowler. Mrs. Hughes hasn't been able to participate in an active sport because of the new daughter.

Neither of the Hughes have had time to join any clubs or a church since their arrival. Before moving from Big Spring, Mrs. Hughes belonged to the Baptist Temple, and he was a member of the First Methodist. They plan to find a church to attend together, says Mrs. Hughes.

Mrs. Hughes is the daughter of Mrs. Ira Rice, 1466 E. 14th; and Gordon Montgomery, 2003 Johnson. Hughes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hughes, 1801 Mittel.

JOY Class

JOY Class met with Mrs. Delbert Simpson, 1705 Kentucky Way, Thursday for a program on the topic, "Mothers" by Mrs. E. T. White. Eleven members were present and Mrs. John Taylor gave the opening prayer.

Bride-Elect

Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Lee Roman Sr., of Knott have announced the engagement of their daughter, Wanda Jean, to Robert Eugene Owen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Owen of Kermit. The wedding will take place in the First Baptist Church, Knott, on June 17.

Lesson On Prayer Given Hatch Circle

Five members of the Mary Hatch Circle of First Baptist Church met with Mrs. P. D. O'Brien Tuesday for a business meeting and lesson study on "Intercessory Prayer."

Mrs. Charles Sweeney gave the lesson and Mrs. Walter Douglas gave the call to prayer. A joint meeting of all the circle was planned for the District 8 camp ground, north of Stanton, next Tuesday. Members are to meet at the church and go to the camp for an all-day meeting.

In her lesson, Mrs. Sweeney discussed five things to pray for; the sick, children, disciples, enemies and laborers.

Ensembles Solve Many Problems Of Traveler

Cotton is setting a dizzy pace of color and free-swinging silhouettes whether you're going to the Alps, the tropics or staying in your own backyard.

High on the traveler's wardrobe agenda is the elegant, versatile travel costume in cotton pique, suiting or knit. Increasingly important in ensembles is the sleeveless, side slashed coat worn over an understated sheath, either slightly bloused or plumb-line straight.

Ensembles are multi-purpose, on-the-go clothes that insure a busy traveler of a non-stop fashion throughout the day. Jackets, ensembled with dresses, are also ideal fashion traveling companions for they go from day to evening by the simple subtraction method of discarding the jacket to transform the sleeveless dress into a perfectly geared date frock.

Cotton knits come to the fore this season, being newly styled by fine designers into jacket and dress ensembles. Also important is the cotton tweed ensemble in red and white plaid shown in a sleeveless dress with interesting side belt treatment and worn with a jacket that faintly indicates a natural waistline.

Cotton's versatile two-time styling aids the traveler to keep well within airline luggage requirements.

In the sports picture, coordinates and separates lead double lives. Matching printed skirts and dressmaker suits allow for active beach hours as well as for pretty coverage during lunch and on sightseeing trips.

Cotton knit separates in prints, plains and brilliant stripes are featured in shorts, pants, overblouses and jackets. These mix and match to a traveler's delight. A minimum number of separates transform into a maximum number of outfits, making it easy to conform to weight requirements.

For Prettiest Look by CHARLES LeMAIRE

N-1149
From SPADEA'S International Design Series

Charles LeMaire presents the easiest dress to make for the prettiest way to look. The entire body of the design is fully gathered in front to a soft shoulder yoke, then hangs smock-loose to the hem.

It takes its shape from the way you wrap your waistline with the separate cummerbund that crosses in back and ties in front. The comfortable raglan sleeves are an easy below-elbow length; a perky standup collar is cut-in-one with the dress.

Try soft cottons, silk jersey, crepe or triple sheer for the most feminine shirt dress you've ever had.

From these corresponding body measurements select the one size best for you.

Forum Ends Club Year

Members of the Modern Woman's Forum met for the final session of the club year in the home of Mrs. C. B. South Friday. Mrs. W. A. Laswell was cohostess for a covered dish luncheon.

Guests were seated at foursome tables laid in white linen and appointed in silver and crystal. Mrs. A. C. Bass gave a report on the meeting of the state federation which she attended in Midland.

The club voted to donate $25 to the Crippled Children's Fund.

Mrs. Norman Read, using the theme of rainbow colors, installed officers, who formed a wheel with the president as the hub.

Mrs. Bass was installed as president; Mrs. C. W. Parmenter first vice president; Mrs. Laswell, second vice president; Mrs. Hugh Duncan, third vice president.

To serve as recording secretary is Mrs. C. B. South; Mrs. Ira Driver is corresponding secretary; Mrs. H. H. Tanner, historian, and Mrs. V. E. Jones, historian.

Twenty-Seven Appear In Recital

Piano pupils of Mrs. Ann Gibson Houser were presented in recitals, sponsored by the National Piano Teacher Guild. The recitals were at Howard County Junior College auditorium.

Twenty students took part in Wednesday night's recital. They will be Dana Rosene, Sara King, Paul Camp, Merry Lee Dibrell, Delores Durham, Ann Garrett, Lynda Gray, Sherri Alexander, Debbie Haller, Mary Francis Malone.

Marilyn Doelp, Ann Gibbs, Debbie Duncan, Susan McNary, Karen McGibbon, Kay Dyer, James Robert Haston, Peter Einstein, Alan Doelp and Rachel Phelan.

Seven students were presented Thursday night, and they include Diana Durham, Ann Puckett, Lynn Puckett, Sandra Merrill, Candy Bacus, Cynthia Pond and Beverly Hooser.

Sewing Club Votes Center Assistance

The Crippled Children's Center will receive a $25 donation from members of the Eager Beaver Sewing Club, it was decided at a meeting of the group Friday afternoon.

Mrs. H. D. Bruton was hostess for eight members who sewed and chatted as diversions for the afternoon.

The next meeting is set for Friday in the home of Mrs. R. I. Findley, 1810 Owens.

Party Charmer By

LACHASSE OF LONDON

S-390

From SPADEA'S International Design Series

Lachasse of London does a dress that puts on garden party airs with its charming bodice and gracious skirt.

The flattering neckline curve is rimmed with a shaped collar that disappears under pleated softness.

Shoulders widen into tiny sleeves to shadow upper arms.

Deep box pleats in front are merged with a group of small back pleats to shape a pretty skirt.

Make it now in plain or printed cottons, silk or rayon, shantung or linen; for fall parties choose taffeta, faille or peau de soie.

Cotton Goes Nautical For Summer

A breeze-fresh collection of nautically-inspired cottons is riding the tide for this summer's fashion.

Sailcloth, duck and cotton knit are the fabric favorites, frequently detailed with brass button closings and middy collars to emphasize the sea-going look. Colors are predominantly bright shades of red and blue combined with white.

Sportswear adopts this theme with particular enthusiasm, providing coordinates such as cotton duck "cabin boy" pants which hit just below the knee, and loose-fitting middy-collared jackets in denim.

For daytime and travel wear, cotton takes on a ship-shape appearance with neat blue binding on white sailcloth coat and dress ensembles.

Special Events Planned For B&PW Convention

A series of special events has been arranged for the 850 delegates expected to attend the state convention of Business and Professional Clubs, June 9-11, in Abilene.

Delegates from the local club include Edith Gay, president; Mrs. C. L. Rowe, Mrs. Nell Frazier and Mrs. Cass Hill. Alternates are Mrs. Vena Lawson, Mrs. Ruby Billings, Mrs. Lois O'Barr Smith and Mrs. Zula Reeves.

First of the events will be a tour of an Atlas missile site, and guests will attend a western fandangle in the evening. The presentation of folklore has been written by Robert Nail of Albany, who presents the annual fandangle in Albany. The group from Albany will assist in the performance, which centers around Fort Griffin, established soon after the Civil War as one in a chain of frontier posts.

Mrs. Kay C. Metz of Chicago will be guest speaker for the dinner, to be staged in sidewalk cafe style. All activity will center around Abilene High School, it was announced.

Breakfast workshops will begin Saturday morning. Speakers will be Mrs. Grace L. Martin of College Station, state director of women's activities in Civil Defense and Disaster Relief, and Jack Cox of Breckenridge.

Mrs. Helen Krauss, St. Petersburg, Fla., national treasurer of B&PW, will address the gathering Saturday evening. She is recognized for her goodwill tours of Central and South American countries to foster relations with club members of the various areas.

Election of officers will be held Saturday afternoon, with the installation service on Sunday morning.

Brownies Entertain With Tea

Mothers of Brownie Troop 235 members were honored Saturday afternoon at St. Paul Presbyterian Church, when the girls entertained with a tea.

Pink rosebuds with name cards attached were presented by the Brownies as guests arrived. They were registered by Mrs. K. L. Brady, and Mrs. T. A. Harris presided over the serving. Members of the troop assisted with the hospitality.

Pink hollyhocks floated in a crystal bowl to form the centerpiece on the table, laid with a white cloth and holding pink tapers in crystal holders.

Fruit bowls, made by the Brownies from records and sprayed with gold, were given to their mothers as favors.

ROUND TOWN

With LUCILLE PICKLE

Happy Mother's Day, all you mothers.

Remember when the mother in the Mother's Day art was typified by a little gray-haired lady with a sweet smile and glasses hanging just a little low on her nose? That was sweet sentiment but it doesn't fit the modern day mama.

Today's mother may use glasses, but the young ones don't wear the rimmed type. . . they are more likely to go the contact way. And their hair may be a shade of gray but it was probably tinted that color by the practiced hand of the beautician and the little mother turns out looking like a Powers model. She appears to have everything under control when it comes to taking care of her little ones.

Just like her mother before her, she has the same trials and tribulations. Although there are many more conveniences to help her through the days work, conveniences don't care for a colicky baby or clean up the colossal messes the little bits of humanity can bring about. No one else but mama has the same patience when it comes to spooning the first bits of solid food into a little mouth accustomed only to liquids. Just mama could stand the constant barrage of questions that three and four-year-old youngsters came forth with each day.

One with less love and understanding would never be able to control herself when the little one uses a favorite lipstick for a marking pencil down the side of the wall or when she finds she has washed the remains of a frog or a piece of bubble gum in the little jeans. Her six-year-old has seemed such a big boy or girl until the first day of school and when they suddenly seem to be just chubby babies.

Each age level brings joys and sorrows, frustrations and pride. Probably the greatest strain of all is when she realizes the offspring has reached the age of making his or her decisions. This is the time when the kind of a mother she has been really shows up.

Being a mother is a very special privilege. . . I am grateful for it.

People have more fun and find out more things when they go places. Take for instance MARY MILLER, who was at one time area executive of the Girl Scouts in this district. In a letter to NELL BROWN, Miss Miller, who is now regional Girl Scout executive in Cleveland, Ohio, tells of attending a performance of "An Enemy of the People" put on by the speech department of Baldwin-Wallace College in Cleveland. Looking over the program she came to the name of BARRETT THIEL in the cast listing. In the thumbnail sketch of his background it mentioned that he was a charter member of the Big Spring Little Theatre. Although she had never heard of the young man before, having been from Big Spring made a big impression so she called backstage after the performance. Young Thiel is the son of CHAPLAIN THIEL who did so much toward getting the Big Spring State Hospital Volunteer program to moving. The two ex-Big Springers had a good visit. The Thiels are now living in New Jersey.

People Read- And Respond- To Herald Advertising

The Herald Reaches The Big Spring Trade Area With An All-Time High In Circulation

10,375 Daily

10,860 Sunday

The first requirement for any advertising to be successful is that it MUST REACH prospective customers. And here The Herald does a whale of a job! It blankets the Big Spring trading area. No guess work. No Doubting. No wondering. The Audit Bureau of Circulation checks records . . . carefully, completely! To be counted, subscriptions must be PAID. This is added assurance that The Herald goes where it says it goes.

Advertising's second requirement is that it MUST BE SEEN. Does anyone doubt that people find as much news in the advertising columns as they do in the text? About bargains. And Fashions. And yard tips. And appliances. And children's wear. And furniture. And new things for the home. And scores of other goods and services. Yes, people READ The Herald from front to back. They take the time to search for, choose, compare. Right in the home where most selling has its beginning. They read. They believe. They respond!

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

The Robert Taylors' Ideas On Femininity

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — When I was lunching with Robert Taylor and his wife Ursula Thiess at the Beverly Hills Hotel, we became unpleasantly aware of a lady with a very penetrating voice. When she left the room, we were relieved and Bob commented, "Voices are extremely important, but it seems that those who sound the worst talk the most. And those who talk the most give least thought to what they are saying.

"I fine a soft, well-modulated voice most appealing," he asked as he looked across the table at his beautiful wife. "Ursula's voice has always intrigued me. That is one of the things that I liked about her when we met."

"What else attracted you to her" I taked.

"I like a clean scrubbed look—a clear complexion," he replied. "It was the fashion in Hollywood to wear a lot of dark make-up, and then Ingrid Bergman came with her clean skin and fresh look, and I though how much more attractive she was having a healthy glow. Ursula had that scrubbed look and I thought she was one of the most beautiful women I'd ever seen."

I knew that Robert Taylor had worked and lived in Europe and thut Ursula is German, and so I asked how European girls were different from Americans.

"There is a big difference in background and training," he replied. "In America we needed women suffrage but somehow a woman loses something when she competes with a man in his home. The job she does during the day may be equally important as his, but when a man comes home, she should make him feel that he comes first. I think it is the secret of feminity—assuring a man of his masculinity.

"And if a man is normal, he's going to appreciate a wife thinking of her appearance," he added. "It is a mistake for a woman to be careless about this."

I told Ursula that she had succeeded in getting her figure back nicely after having babies.

"I worked out in a gym. I went every morning and lifted weights. I only had 10 pounds to take off, but I wanted my body to be firm. When I came back to work on Bob's 'The Detectives' series, I didn't have a figure problem to worry about.

"I allow two or three pounds for normal fluctuation, but if I gain above that I cut down immediately on what I eat. It is easy to lose a pound that you've just put on. That is why I like to weigh every morning," she explained.

I had been looking at Ursula's long eyelashes. They were fascinating and I told her that it was hard to believe they were real.

"I use a waterproof mascara and always remove it with oil. I think lashes often break from dryness," Ursula observed.

GUIDES TO FEMINITY

Here are three leaflets that are truly designed for enhancing femininity:

Leaflet M-78, "The Hidden Charm of Perfume."

Leaflet M-82, "Bathing for Beauty and Repose"

Leaflet M-83, "The Art of Being Feminine"

If you want to be more charming, feel beautiful and look loveller, you'll want all three of these guides to feminity. For EACH leaflet send only 10 cents AND one self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, Big Spring Herald.

Couple's Idea On Beauty

Robert Taylor and his wife Ursula Thiess chat with Lydia Lane, Hollywood columnist, about the importance of making yourself attractive for your mate. This handsome couple stars in "The Detectives" series on ABC-TV.

British Influence Seen In Men's Sportshirts

The British influence on styling is creating a fresh fashion story for summer sportshirts.

It starts with a flash of crisp racing plaids and checks, continues in a revival of regatta stripes and highlights a new look to compound or heather tones.

Sure to be a strong seller in sportshirts this summer is the comfortable pullover in both cut-and-sewn and knits. These shirts will feature a simple placket closure and many will have a Continental type collar.

On the revival list is the jacket shirt to be found mostly in solid colors and cotton fabrics of heavier construction. Here again Continental detailing is favored—one-piece collars, accent stitching, novel buttons.

Although sold primarily as individual items these all-purpose shirts are excellent for coordination with boxer type swimwear and walk shorts.

Colors will be bolder and brighter, especially in prints. Replacing the small traditional print designs of last fall and spring will be larger motifs, geometric in shape, on white or lighter shade backgrounds.

Especially strong in sportshirts will be the batiks. These free-form native prints will appear in all-overs, vertical and horizontals formed by the pattern.

Grandma Had Quite A Firm Foundation

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

Just before the turn of the century, the big news in unmentionables was rust-proof corsets.

Today it's the new synthetic fibers that, when woven into three-ounce underpinnings, are more supple than a second skin.

Between these two milestones lies the uplifting saga of the two-way stretch.

Now as we edge into summer weather it's especially easy to sympathize with women of six decades ago who confided to each other their dismay at rust-stained underclothing. And then came the corsets guaranteed rust-free and recommended for wear beneath bathing costumes at the seashore.

Steel was cheaper than whalebone, which soon was used only in luxury garments; boning from East Indian buffalo horns disappeared altogether.

But the shape was inexorably that of the prevailing fashion: tiny waists (13 inches preferably), balloon hips, bulging stomach. Corsets kept their shapes because they were put over cast iron steam-heated molds from which they were removed rigid. And the ladies, when they poured themselves into the corsets, kept their rigid shape too.

Suddenly in 1900 time ran out for the hourglass figure. Within a few months women were ruler-straight in front, camel-curved in back, and forced into a gait only a kangaroo could envy.

It was progress though. For the first time hose supporters made an appearance. Before that the only corset anchorage was at the waist and necessitated lacing tight enough to induce suffocation.

By 1905 the Gibson Girl fashions reached their height of popularity, and the rubber reducing girdle was introduced. No figures are available to indicate how much "superfluous flesh"—as the ads termed it-was lost as a result of its attrition. (Later, in 1924, a sheet rubber reducing girdle also enjoyed a brief vogue).

The corset kept extending its control and by 1915 reached so far down the thigh the big question became "Can she sit down?" But the silhouette softened and grew more practical during World War I.

By the flapper era of the Twenties slim girls didn't bother with girdles, flattened themselves at the top when necessary. The fine figure of a woman type wore corsets to give a straight line from shoulder to hem.

But fashion, ever on a pendulum swing, started the other way in the Thirties. The bosom gained new respect along with other feminine curves. Lastex was developed in 1931 and a two-way stretch girdle was shown in that year.

From that time on, the big changes in foundation garments have been in fabric; shape has remained mostly faithful to nature.

Nylon came along in 1940—lightweight, durable, easy to wash and dry—and today we have Lycra and the other spandex fibers. Girdles weigh a few ounces, are machine washable, and perspiration resistant, but they give the kind of figure control formerly possible only with heavy, bulky garments.

Women today don't question the ability of their featherlight foundation garments to shore up sagging sacroiliacs and bulging beams, and still be as comfortable as wearing next to nothing at all.

They Practiced Restraint

Grouped around a 1961 summer cocktail dress by designer Cen Chapman, reembroidered white braid on beige silk organza, are (clockwise) the Kangaroo Shape of the 1900s, where the straight front corset gave the lady a self-made bustle and kangaroo walk; the 1926 straight, flat, boyish form that forbade curves; the 1935 foundation garment that let women look like women in two-way stretch elastic; the 1961 featherweight girdle of new synthetic fibers providing amazing strength and gentle control.

THREADLEAF GROUNDSEL
Jimmy Taylor, County Agent, and poisonous range plant

Poison Weed Added To Woes

By SAM BLACKBURN

Howard County ranchers, who may have thought they were having trouble already thanks to the drought and to the sudden upsurge in the number of predatory animals, now have something else to worry them.

Jimmy Taylor, county farm agent, said Saturday that pasture lands in the county are rapidly becoming dangerously infested with threadleaf groundsel.

POISONOUS

Threadleaf groundsel is a poisonous range plant which, in the past few years, has begun to show up in increasingly large volume in all parts of the county. It seems to be thriving best to the south but scattered stands of the weed are found north of U.S. 80.

The plant is a member of the senscio family and is espceially toxic to cattle. The senscios contain an alkaloid poison which usually causes abnormal births in cattle and possibly some abortions. First calf heifers are usually the heaviest grazers on the weed.

Cattle which have been feeding on threadleaf groundsel usually have yellow on their noses.

EASY TO SPOT

The plant can be easily identified at this time. It ranges from 18 inches to two feet in height. The color is gray green and it has small, bright yellow blossoms. When these blossoms mature, the seeds develop, attached to feathery down much like the mature flowers of dandelion. Winds catch up these feathery white wings and the seeds are quickly spread over an increasingly wide area.

Normally, Taylor said, cattle do not like the groundsel. However, when pasture grass begins to get sparse and when other feed stuff is scarce, the cows turn to the plants. As he said, first calf heifers, for some reason, have an affinity for the weed.

There is little that ranchers can do about control of the groundsel now in the pastures. The big plants are too mature for chemical control.

GRUB THEM

If a pasture has light infestation, it is possible Taylor said, to grub up the plants, haul them from the pasture and burn them to destroy the seed. If they are left in the pasture, cattle will graze them when they begin to dry. The seeds will be widely scattered.

Taylor said that the plant constitutes a grave problem in many Texas counties but it has been only in the last few years that it has become a threat in this area.

He said that in addition to the seeds being widely distributed by the wind, they are carried in the hair of animals brought from infested counties. Sometimes the seeds are brought in by cars passing along the highway.

EVEN PLANES

There is a case on record, he said, where an area became infested with threadleaf groundsel from seeds brought in by planes flying off a military airbase.

Chemical control is possible in cases where action is taken befor the plants reach mature stage. Most of the blooms on plants are turning to seeds at the present time.

Sampson Attends Advanced Course

Cmdr. Richard Albert Hoimes Sampson was recently relieved of command of his Squadron at the Jacksonville Naval Air Station in Florida to attend an advanced course at the Naval War College in Newport, R. I.

Mrs. Sampson, the former June Adams of Coahoma, will accompany the commander on his new assignment in July. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Adams, Coahoma.

The squadron commanded by Sampson, Patrol Squadron 18, was the first to sight and maintain contact with the pirated Portuguese ship Santa Maria. It was also instrumental in recovering Ham, the space monkey.

Westbrook Hosts County Meeting

WESTBROOK (SC) — Westbrook School was host to the Mitchell County Teachers Association last week when more than 125 teachers met in the cafetorium for dinner and election of new officers. The Colorado City Choir presented several numbers, under the direction of Curtis Baker.

Presiding during the business session was Eugene Finley, high school principal at Colorado City.

Brooks Teague, chairman of nominating committee, presented nominations to the meeting. Officers elected were Vance Dickenson, principal at Loraine, president; first vice president Robert Hutchins, principal of Westbrook; 2nd vice president Weldon Moore, principal of Hutchinson; Colorado City. Mrs. Robert Aycock, Colorado City, will serve as treasurer and the secretary will be appointed by the president.

Epps Transferred To Lubbock Store

C. M. Epps Jr., manager of the J. C. Penney Company store here for the past six years, has been named manager of the downtown Penney store in the 1100 block on Broadway in Lubbock.

He will assume his new duties on June 14, closing out an association which began here in April of 1955.

"We've enjoyed our stay in Big Spring," said Epps, "and while we regret to leave many dear freinds, this represents a substantial advancement and I feel that we must take advantage of it."

Under Epps, the Penney store here has experienced a substantial and progressive increase in volume.

Epps, the son of the Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Epps, began his career with the Penney organization at Kerrville in 1933 as a trainee. His father has since deceased and his mother now resides at Sonora.

During his 28 years of service as a Penney associate, he has managed five stores, all of them in West Texas. He came here from Levelland. He was married to the former Maralyn Peterson at Kerrville in 1935. They have one son Clift, a sophomore engineering student, at Texas Tech.

Epps is a member of the Wesley Methodist Church, has served as a steward, been active in Scouting (he was on the South Plains Council executive committee), is a Mason, has been in civic work, and a member of Rotary International for 20 years.

A Devotional For Today

"If God so clothes the grass of the field, which today is alive and tomorrow is thrown into the oven, will he not much more clothe you, O men of little faith?" (Matthew 6:30 RSV.)

PRAYER: O Father, forgive us when we allow our disappointments to dim our love and understanding of Thee. Help us to possess faith that will carry us through the deep and dark valleys of life. Through Christ our Savior and Master. Amen.

(From The Upper Room)

Industrious Mothers

A young lady, writing a profile of her mother for an English assignment, had this to say in part:

"My mother—always busy, enthusiastic and enjoying the activity. . .Her industry is reflected in all she does. She can get along well with all types of people, and she loves people and enjoys being around them. . .There is never a dull moment around my mother."

These excerpts, are a penetrating analysis of one of the virtues of our mothers too often overlooked. Sometime we get lost in a maze of emotions surrounding our mothers' love, and we get bogged down in sentimentality that blinds us to the fruits of love.

In the matchless Scripture starting with Proverbs 35:10, there is one characteristic which stands out in the discription of this virtuous woman. It is in her industry. Almost every verse is citing some different manifestation of her unselfish service to her husband and family. No one can doubt how much this woman loved her family, because she did so much for it.

Sometimes we tend to make our mothers the best loved slave in the house, but it is those who neglect this opportunity of industry or exchange it for something in other areas of personal pleasure or career who are in reality less content. Maybe busy mothers are too weary to be discontent, but more likely they are serenely happy because they are busy thinking about the ones whom they love.

Wide Of The Basic Issue

County authorities have arranged for a warehouse which can be used in connection with storage for surplus foods which may be distributed to the needy.

Because the city did not participate in this plan, city commissioners have come in for some castigation. Anyone has a right to agree or disagree with the city's course of action, which was based on a philosophy that the law specifies county responsibility in care of indigents. To say that a public servant is heartless and lacking in compassion because of that view is hardly fair.

The city council could be wrong in its interpretation of governmental responsibility, but its greatest failure is probably in not making clear its position that city participation in the program amounts to double taxation to urban dwellers. The search, paralleling that of the county, for a warehouse, seemingly lacked in feeling and enthusiasm.

But none of this should be interpreted as a reflection upon the personal charitable spirits of the members of the commission. Men could not be insensitive to the needs of others and donate their entire April checks, modest though they are, to the Crippled Children's fund. The act of giving away this honorarium, which can never begin to recompense for the frequent criticism they must absorb, speaks for itself. Even this single act should help clear the air and get this business back to basic issues and away from the easy temptations to equate disagreement with inhumanity.

BIG ENOUGH TO DRIVE A TRUCK THROUGH?

If Khrushchev Makes An Error—

OSLO—Behind the speeches, the ceremonials, the familiar diplomatic quadrille of the annual NATO political conference just ended here there has been one gnawing, nagging concern that, like an aching tooth, it has been impossible to ignore. That is Berlin and what to do about it when, after all his warnings, the implacable Premier Khrushchev finally acts.

DESPITE THE somewhat sensational news reports, nothing has essentially changed in the stand of the Western alliance on Berlin and its vital importance in NATO's delicate and uncertain power structure. The difference today is in the realization that time is rapidly running out. And, above all, it is in the fear—the almost obsessive fear—that Khrushchev will make a miscalculation.

This would be an irretrievable error of judgment, such as the Communists made in Korea. Thereby a chain of events would be set in motion, leading to the ultimate catastrophe.

WHEN IT WILL happen—Khrushchev has said in 1961—whether in the early summer or the late fall is still uncertain. But the nature of the response seems fairly well established.

Khrushchev with a great deal of huffing and puffing will sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany. This will be denounced by the Western Powers occupying West Britain, France and the United States—as an illegal act in violation of the occupation rights and obligations agreed to by the Soviet Union along with the other three.

BUT THE SIGNING of a treaty will not in itself, as this meeting of Western foreign ministers seems again clearly to have understood, be taken as justification for the use of force. The showdown would come when and if the East Germans, taking over control of the access routes from West Germany to West Berlin in the corridor that goes through Communist East Germany, should begin to squeeze down on the traffic supplying the city.

If that happens the occupying powers will use all the force they have to seize the checkpoints where the blockade is imposed and insure the continuing flow of supplies vital to the city. Would Moscow then back its East German dependents with a promise of support to the limit, including the use of the nuclear rockets that Khrushchev has rattled in so many crises in the past? In the answer to that terrible question the fate of peoples everywhere would turn.

BEHIND THE grandiloquent language of NATO's familiar final communique and the somewhat feverish private debates over whether the East Germans could be considered as "agents" of the Russians at the checkpoints on the corridor—as the late John Foster Dulles held that under certain circumstances they would be—this is the reality. And while the other foreign ministers may not be altogether aware of it the American Secretary of State has a clear and almost-painful understanding of the attitudes of both sides of the great divide that raise this danger to the nth power, a temperature exceeding any in recent years.

THE READING ON the Russian side is that Khrushchev is in a mood both impatient and euphoric. His recent successes and the political disorders in the West, notably the American reversal in Cuba, have fed his never-exactly-restrained view of Soviet capabilities. Berlin, with its escape hatch to the west, has been an ever-increasing source of frustration for Moscow and within the Communist bloc it has been to Khrushchev both a goad and a challenge.

This reading could be overly pessimistic. Such estimates based on public acts and declarations plus scraps of intelligence are always chancy.

BUT SECRETARY of State Rusk, as he has tried to indicate to other NATO members, knows full well the mood in the United States. In the failure of the American will to work its way, as in Laos and Cuba despite great expenditures of money and effort, there is a growing sense of frustration. One form this takes is a heightened nationalism, a feeling that we might as well get it over with and what's the use of fooling around with these half-measures. As Rusk sought to convey in the frankness with which he explained the Cuban "episode," a frankness generally admired by the other ministers, this frustrated nationalism can take dangerously explosive forms.

THE YEAR may end—the halfway mark is approaching—with little or no real alteration in the situation in Germany and Berlin. The British Foreign Secretary, the Earl of Home, has been bearing down hard on the optimistic line. His reading is that the Soviets have abjured nuclear war as an instrument of policy and they have also put aside the use of their own forces in small wars, and what remains now is to convince them that the arming of others to carry out such small wars is also dangerous.

THE FINAL warranty against disaster repeated over and over as though it had the magic of a charm is that Khrushchev does not want a nuclear war, just as the United States does not want a nuclear war, and that he will therefore stop short. This warranty is inherent in the optimistic language about future planning and in the committees and commissions within NATO for such planning. It is inherent in the gesture of the five Polaris submarines to be assigned to the "NATO area." While this last is little more than a gesture of goodwill for the future, still such a submarine force might eventually be integrated within an over-all NATO command. There has been a gain here in the frank consultation on all the sore subjects.

BUT THE FUTURE is still as cloudy as when the 15 foreign ministers gathered early in the week. If there is one real resolve it is to impress on Khrushchev the danger of a miscalculation; the danger of misinterpreting the political disarray of the alliance as proof of its weakness and its readiness to fall back. It is Rusk's goal to try in public and in private at every possible level to do just this.

Recovery May Be Both Fast And Enduring

Now that recovery is definitely under way, it would be foolish to pooh-pooh it with impatient underestimation.

Because unemployment is still high, 6.8 per cent of the labor force, President Kennedy's economic advisers are anxious—understandably.

No waste is more dismal and disheartening than joblessness. The man who can't find work feels unwanted—economically disfranchised.

And the society that can't provide him with work seems lacking in gumption, knowhow, and ingenuity.

Therefore, when Walter W. Heller, chairman of President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisers, testified before the Joint Economic Committee, he declared: "We face a stubborn problem of chronic slack."

He was deeply concerned—even indignant—that at the top of the 1954-57 recovery, 3.9 per cent of workers couldn't find jobs; that at the top of the 1958-60 recovery, 4.8 per cent were out of work.

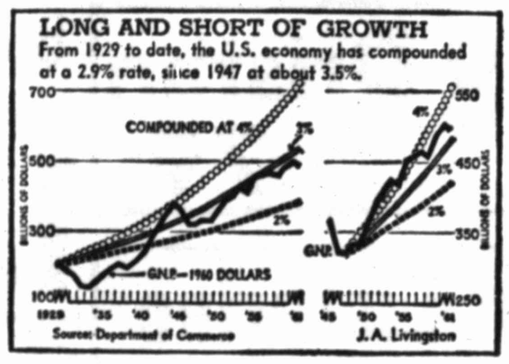

Each successive postwar recovery has been less durable than the preceding. The 1949-53 expansion lasted 45 months; the 1954-57 only 35 months, and the 1958-60 advance 25 months.

AS ANOTHER SEES IT

Here was prosperity without progress; here was a slow undertow of deterioration. Heller and other Kennedy advisers are fearful lest the present turnaround be slow and incomplete, lest too much joblessness persist even as the economic indicators point upward.

To Dr. Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers during President Eisenhower's first term, this is neostagnationism—a reinvocation of the prevalent theory of the 'thirties: The U. S. has reached maturity. The economy is stagnating.

"On the basis of my interpretation, there is no chronic slack of our economy," says Dr. Burns. And he's just as impatient as the next economist with unemployment. "I know what it's like. I've been out of a job."

"Historically," he told me, "recoveries have been rapid, rather then the reverse. I don't see any reason to think this recovery will be slow and halting. I am not aware of any significant depressive influences and I am aware of expansionary influences."

THE SLOW PSYCHOLOGY

Dr. Burns could be right. At the National Bureau of Economic Research he specializes in the vagaries of the business cycle. He teaches economics at Columbia, and is a past president of the American Economic Association. Even those who disagree with him respect him.

Economists who don't specialize in business cycle analysis are frequently overcautious at the bottom of a recession. One never can be sure a recovery has started until it's well under way. Therefore, economists, to protect themselves in case activity drags along at the bottom, invariably say recovery will be slow.

Yet, recoveries seem to develop pell-mell momentum. You see this in the pickup in the steel industry, the upturn in automobile employment, the opening of two potlines by Kaiser Aluminum and the rehiring of 300 workers at Chalmette, La. Jobs develop here, there, and everywhere—often unforseeably.

QUICK CONKOUT

We make progress in the U. S. fitfully.

Since 1929, the top of the last great boom, the economy has grown at a 2.9 per cent rate (see chart). This allows for the Great Depression, wartime exertions, and takes in the postwar boom. Since 1947, the growth rate has been 3.5 per cent.

It doesn't follow that because successive postwar recoveries have been shorter, the current advance will conk out early. It could be just the opposite. As this column noted last week, we've just gone through the mildest postwar recession. Not only was it shallow, but it was short—only eight months, the same as the 1957-58 recession, which was sharper. The 1953-54 decline lasted 13 months, the 1948-49 recession 11 months.

It can be argued that the economy has shown extraordinary strength. Consequently, the subsequent recovery could be not only sharp but long-lasting.

To argue that we need wider Social Security, greater health and medical care, and other welfare programs merely because the economy has been through a period of slack is opportunistic dogoodism, but not sound economics. A health program doesn't reduce unemployment, nor do higher minimum wages. And most certainly higher federal expenditures add to costs of doing business.

The Kennedy administration needs to separate welfare aspirations from recovery economics.

Running Into Bad Luck In Hernia Cases

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have been operated on for hernia on the right side twice by the same doctor, and now I have to go back for the third time. My surgeon has a very good reputation but he has two strikes on me and I feel that I shouldn't give him a third chance. I have no faith in him. At my second operation I asked him to sew in a mesh lining but he said it wasn't in a good position for that. My wife and friends advise me to go to — Hospital for this operation. What do you think? Please don't use even my initials, but sign this 'Third Strike' if you print it."

You aren't the first person who's had such bad luck. Usually one operation puts an end to the trouble. But not always. Sometimes, because of location, or texture of the tissues, or whatever, the hernia repair breaks loose. Or sometimes the repair itself remains firm, but a new one develops right next to the incision.

I don't like to give the idea that subsequent trouble is to be expected. Usually there isn't any more trouble after the first operation. But we have to face the facts and realize that sometimes conditions are such that there is.

I'm sincerely sorry that you've lost faith in your doctor who, as you tell me, has a good reputation. (And from some things I omitted from your letter, you and I realize that he warned you that your case was one of the tough ones.)

My advice, even if you don't like it, is this: Go back to that same doctor rather than to a different one, however good. Why? Because your doctor knows you, knows how difficult your particular case is, knows what extra techniques must be attempted. I'm afraid you'd be deceiving yourself by hoping that somebody else would do better with a very difficult case. Surgeons are surgeons, not baseball pitchers! There's quite a difference.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Suppose you could discuss hemorrhoids in your column? I would be very interested.—Mrs. W. E."

I could, and I have discussed 'em. Quite a few times. And I've finally assembled the material into a booklet, "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids." Send 20 cents for printing and handling, and a stamped, self-addressed envelope, to Dr. Molner, in care of The Big Spring Herald, for a copy.

* * *

"Dear Dr. Molner: My pulse rate varies around 110, 115, 120, never under 100. I am 35. Other than the fast beating, a heart murmur is all that has been found. My question: Can you have a heart murmur without any kind of trouble involving the heart?—S. N. L."

A persistently fast heart rate should be investigated fully. Overactive thyroid is one possibility. Excessive coffee or tobacco can be a cause also. Second question: Yes, it is possible to have a "functional murmur," a murmur with no underlying heart disease, just as a house can have plumbing or heating pipes that gurgle or bang, without any leaks in the plumbing.

* * *

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it normal to have hot flashes after removal of the ovaries through surgery? "Surgery like this is not a hysterectomy, is it? That means the removal of everything, including the womb. Am I right?—Mrs. B. A."

No. 1: Yes, hot flashes can occur whether the inactivity of the ovaries is because of surgery, or from normal menopause. In either case, individuals vary. Medication may or may not be needed.

No. 2: You are right. Hysterectomy means removal of the uterus, or womb. But there are varying degrees, such as a "total hysterectomy," or a "sub-total hysterectomy," depending on how many of the associated organs are removed.

* * *

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is, and encouraging sinus sufferers to do something about it. For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover handling.

* * *

Dr. Molner is happy to receive readers' questions, and whenever possible uses them in his column. However, due to the great volume of mail received daily, Dr. Molner regrets he cannot answer letters individually.

Around The Rim

Something Less Than A Mink Stole

On such occasions such as Mother's Day I have turned, from time to time, to this quite young friend of mine, in order that you could get a fresh viewpoint on a familiar subject. The column is his again today:

* * *

GEE WHIZ, you mean you want me to write about Mother's Day again? I've done it about forty eleven times already, but I guess if I hafta, I hafta.

I didn't see how I could say much new about this, so I asked my Dad, and he said, "For blankety-blank, you mean it's that time again?" He didn't actually say blankety-blank, but I heard that's the way you have to write it in newspapers.

I TOLD HIM YES, it was, and also told him that Father's Day comes along next month, and he started hollering some more. I woulda told him that birthdays come every year, too, but was scared to set him off again.

Anyways, he said, "I guess we'll have to get your Mother something. Why don't you try to find out what she would like?" And I said, I already tried to find out, and she told me:

"IF IT'S YOUR Father that's asking, you tell him that a mink stole better than Joan's, or even sable would be better, and not to come up with anything else. If you're asking for yourself, just a big bunch of love, with a hug and a kiss will suit me fine."

Gee whiz, Mom, I said, let's don't get into huggin' and kissin' stuff.

And I told her, partly the present would be from me, and partly from Dad, I guess, so could you use maybe something less than a mink stole, whatever that is.

"Oh, sure, honey. You and your Daddy just do what you want to."

THIS IS ONE nice thing about Mothers. They may fuss at you sometimes or maybe make a little fun of you when you don't want 'em to, but generally they end up by making you feel good.

Anyways, I went back to Dad and I said, I think Mom will settle for something less than a mink stole, whatever that is.

"It's a lot of money, that's what it is," he said. "Why don't we see about maybe some hose and some candy."

I'M NEARLY SURE that's what we got last year, I said.

"Oh, yeah, well some lawngeray, if we knew what size to get?"

I told him I believe that's what we tried year before last, and she had to swap all of it.

"Oh, well, we got a couple of days yet. You keep thinking, and I will too, and we'll get her something. Just don't tell her what."

WELL, I SURE wouldn't, but I kept hoping that he wouldn't decide on some pans or something like that. I don't think Mothers care for things to work with on Mother's Day. Seems like they'd rather have something sort of silly-like, and they will cry a little, which makes a fellow feel funny, and say, "Oh, this is just the nicest ever!"

I WOULDN'T be surprised if my Dad found something that would make my Mother act that way again this year. Course, when I say my Dad, I mean the two of us. He will prolly pay the bill, but the present will be mostly for me, because she is my Mother.

And I wouldn't hardly want to let her know, especially, but I'll give her a big bunch of love, too.

I hope that is enough for you and your Mother's Day piece.

Dictatorship Over The Air Waves

WASHINGTON—Is the Kennedy administration about to "take voer" the radio and television stations of the country and make them obey the government's dictation as to what they shall put in their programs?

If so, then will there have to be a soft-pedaling of some of the criticisms usually launched against Nikita Khrushchev's methods of controlling public opinion?

THESE QUESTIONS are asked because of the amazing speech just made by President Kennedy's appointee as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, Newton N. Minow. He spoke before the annual convention here of the National Association of Broadcasters.

If Mr. Minow's speech is carefully analyzed, it can only mean that broadcasting companies in America hereafter will be under the constant threat of government confiscation and punitive measures. This could readily lead to the use of government influence to get publicity and favorable treatment politically for whatever administration happened to be in power in Washington.

MR. MINOW TAKES the position that, because the government issues licenses to broadcasting stations, it has the right to decide whether a station is giving "good programs" to the public.

There is nothing in the Constitution which says an agency of the federal government may tell any medium of communication what shall be published or broadcast. Indeed, the Constitution specifically says that Congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of the press. Both radio and television are integral parts of the press.

THERE ARE, of course, areas in which the government can exercise supervision so as to avoid collision on wave lengths, for example, and it can inquire also into the character and integrity of the applicant for a license, or his sense of responsibility in business. But no chairman of the FCC heretofore has claimed the wide power that Mr. Minow now claims.

Who is to define now the standard that shall be applied by the FCC? Who shall judge how much entertainment, how much information, how much editorializing done by a radio or television station is just the right combination? Yet Mr. Minow says:

"WE ALL KNOW that people would more often prefer to be entertained than stimulated or informed. But your obligations are not satisfied if you look only to popularity as a test of what to broadcast. You are not only in show business; you are free to communicate ideas as well as relaxation. You must provide a wider range of choices, more diversity, more alternatives. It is not enough to cater to the nation's whims—you must also serve the nation's needs. The people own the air."

Who speaks for the people? Who interprets their wishes or their "whims"? The people have never delegated to the government any power to decide for them what is or is not a good program content or entertainment content—or what is a satisfactory publication.

MR. MINOW MAKES the usual disclaimer that any governmental censorship is intended. What the FCC chairman proposes, however, is broader than censorship. No particular program or particular declaration or particular form of speech - making will be ordered suppressed — that's "censorship." Instead, a whole broadcasting company would be suppressed and put out of business and its source of revenue taken away altogether unless that company toes the mark and conforms to the doctrines of the administration which happens to hold office when a broadcasting license comes up for renewal.

This Is Not Moral Leadership

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy's failures in foreign policy have been spectacular and horrifying to behold. But the slow success he is having in legislative and executive actions may do us more harm than the overseas bungling.

A great nation can shoot itself out of trouble with other countries — and bury the mistakes — but the things we do to ourselves at home are frequently beyond redemption.

I DO NOT EXPECT these statements to cause a chorus of "Amen." The things that are happening are not easily perceived. They are artfully camouflaged. There are diversionary forces at work. There is a scheme which roughly is the reverse - English of a political tactic made famous by King Henry V and F. D. Roosevelt.

The King was advised to "busy giddy minds with foreign quarrels" in order to distract attention from troubles at home. Mr. Kennedy has very skillfully turned this around. He has taken our minds off Cuba and Laos by winning votes in Congress for minimum wage hikes, depressed areas relief, unemployment compensation increases and all the rest.

IT IS PROFITABLE to note how this tricky business is managed. As soon as things went wrong abroad, the President's publicity legions, led by the hatchet brigade of Robert Kennedy and Stewart Udall, went into action. The tattoo they beat on the patient skull of Dwight Eisenhower comprised a tom-tom message to faithful commentators and opinion-makers. Cuba? All Ike's fault except a generous morsel of blame for Richard Nixon. Laos? The Eisenhower administration had left JFK this hideous skeleton which now had to be buried with all seemly haste.

YES, BUT EVEN if the legislation were much better than it is, the means are unjustifiable. The crafty and corruptive methods of winning these Congressional majorities are too much to pay, are they not? Let's see:

Is it worth the cost in lost morality for the administration to drop indictments against Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D., N. Y.) in order to get his support in Congress? Is it worth it in the integrity of our parliamentary system for the administration to make the temptations irresistible for Southern House members to drop the objections on minimum wage? Wouldn't the President have done something very fine for the nation if he'd announced that he would veto the overstuffed 73-job judgeship bill unless Congress took out the pork?

THESE ARE conspicuous, in-the-news examples. It would not be difficult to scour the notebook and memory for other illustrations. The President is not giving us moral leadership in Congress. He is playing "practical" politics at a very inappropriate time of history for such games.

Still worse, and harder to perceive and to counter, are the moves to get things done by executive authority. Only a few labor lawyers understand, for example, what the habitual interjection of the federal government by Labor Secretary Goldberg is doing to the established system of collective bargaining. Three times since he took office, Mr. Goldberg has burst into a strike (most recently in National Airlines) before the bargainers had exhausted their wits and resources. If government is going to do this, labor-management's ability to run its affairs will soon evaporate.

BUT FAR THE worst, as it seems to me, is the administration's use of its muscle and prestige in pressing for racial equalization. Universal integration is not desirable for many reasons, and is not legislatively possible in any event.

But the President and his brother, the Attorney General, seem determined to accomplish by force and fiat what they cannot do by law and consent of the governed.

I AM NOT psycho-anthropologist enough to predict what will happen at the lowest levels of universal integration. But we do have examples of what did happen when similar abrupt, intoxicating changes took place in places once ruled by British, Belgian and French leadership. The Brothers Kennedy had better be certain that it can't happen here.

WINGS OVER BIG SPRING

New Flying Club Plan Encourages Beginners

By M. A. WEBB

Some rain is badly needed in the Big Spring area for more reasons than one. Farmers are somewhat worried over crop prospects, and planting is getting off to a slow start. Flyers of aircraft also would like to see some rain to cool off the earth and get rid of a few bumps in the air. Pilots are used to some bumps and are aware of what causes them, and they say that it is not unusual, but the rides could be a little smoother if a few bumps were leveled off.

* * *

Dr. Cyril J. Ruilmann, Austin, director of State Mental Hospitals, was a visitor at the state hospital in Big Spring Thursday. He flew in to Howard County airport in a Cessna 210.

* * *

Traffic was about normal during the past week at Howard but not too many local pilots took off and went anywhere. The visiting, and few outgoing craft recorded included George L. Wyatt; from Amarillo; Richardson and Bass, Dallas, in a twin-engine job; Gorpo Enterprises, Fort Worth; Ward Construction Co., San Antonio, in a Cessna 180; Paul Kasch on a crosscountry flight to Abilene and Wichita Falls Thursday in his Cessna.

* * *

A national airport plan issued late in April by the Federal Aviation Agency, including three categories of projects in West Texas—those which have been done, those which may be necessary in the agency's eyes, and those which local airport operators want and have asked for federal participation to build. Contradictions have arisen.

A surprising fact about the list of "necessary work," according to Dale Walton, San Angelo Standard-Times, is that many of the airports included have no commercial airline service, largely because another government bureau, the Civil Aeronautics Board, established minimum required airline boardings far above what those communities could provide.

At Del Rio, for example, work listed as necessary has already been done and the new county airport already dedicated, with $104,000 in federal participation; Lamesa officials say they have no such plans as listed for them, as they have not had airline service for some time, and say if they did have plans the city probably would not want any federal aid; Brownwood also has no plans for reconstructing and widening runways and taxiways; Sweetwater has had no air service in a long time and is making no plans.

* * *

A new student began at Howard County Airport recently. He is Sam Fuller, who took on the job as second animal warden for the rush season with the police department.

* * *

Running up the list of aircraft hangared at Howard County, and at Hamilton Field, the following are included: J. R. Henderson, Cessna 170; Vernon Smith, Mooney; Roy Merworth, Piper Tri-Pacer; Bert Anderau, Piper PA-11; Talbot, Nabors and Bellamy, Cessna 170; Arnett Dorbaut, Piper Commanche; Charles Viergge and Herman Taylor, Piper Clipper; Pete Harmonson, Cessna 128; Webb Aero Club, Aeronica Champ; Benton Nix, Piper Vagabond; Virgil Jones, Cessna 140; LeRoy Tidwell, Bonanza;

B. Broadrick, Cessna Skylane; Big Spring Aircraft, Piper Cub, Comanche, and Tri-Pacer, with a Cub and a crop duster being serviced; Cosden Petroleum Corp., DeHaviland Herron, DeHaviland Dove, and Cessna 172; (Hamilton) Dr. Nancy O'Neal, Tri-Pacer; Cecil Hamilton, Tri-Pacer; J. D. Carter, Cessna 140. Other aircraft owned and hangared in the area are: Hoyle Nix, Balanca, Ben Nix, Swift, and Dr. Loren Warren, Aerocoup.

* * *

Out at Howard County Airport a plan has been set up whereby a five to 20-member flying club can be set up and individuals who would like to have the use of an airplane, along with others, on a monthly or weekly payment plan, can do so.

For instance five people can buy an airplane by paying from $199 to $279 down, depending upon the type craft, and from $5.94 to $8.31 a week, and from $5 to $6 per hour flying time which would include a reserve, for inspection, and some overhaul, hangar rent, gas and oil. Twenty members can pay from $49.75 to $69.75 down, with $1.49 to $2.08 weekly, with the above cost for flying time.

"The purpose," Ted McClung, airport manager, said "is simply a means of letting many people participate in the use of an airplane where they could not buy one outright. It is purely a means to help create more interest in private flying."

Zale Jewelry Declares Dividend

Directors of Zale Jewelry Co. have declared the regular quarterly cash dividend of 25 cents per share on the common stock, payable July 10 to stockholders of record June 9.

The board of directors also announced that as of May 5 the Dallas-based Zale organization is operating 195 stores in 32 states. The company is listed on the American Stock Exchange.

HCJC Should Finish Year Within Budget

Howard County Junior College has good prospects of finishing its fiscal year within its budget, the April financial statement indicates.

While most of the revenues are in, the district is within about $10,000 of total estimates. This happens to be the amount budgeted for summer school tuition, hence the revenue estimates appear to be safe enough.

General fund expenditures, exclusive of transfers, shows $289,398 through April. The April total of $32,098 likely will be matched in May, but the three summer months should show substantially less expenses, hence requirements for the year promise to be within the $412,000 budget outlay.

Disbursements in April (with the total for the year so far in parenthesis) were: administrative $3,466 ($29,658); general $2,493 ($20,063), instructional $17,372 ($135,149), library $1,158 ($11,102), athletics $2,233 ($13,147), plant maintenance and operation $4,353 ($47,036), student activities $474 ($9,463), capital outlay $141 ($6,088), contingencies, none ($6,088) fixed charges $404 ($14,498).

Interest and sinking fund receipts for the year have been $69,955 and disbursements (including $17,000 in bonds retired and $12,871 in interest) have amounted to $29,871, leaving a difference of $40,083.

Dies Of Injuries

ABILENE (AP) — Virgil Lee Shelton, 33, of Burkburnett, died last week of injuries suffered May 1 in an underground explosion. The blast occurred at an oil drilling site south of Abilene. James Kinnett, 36, also of Burkburnett and injured at the same time, was reported in good condition.

Spence Disappointed With USGS Map Area Selections

Keen disappointment with the United States Geological Survey selection of mapping projects in Texas for the ensuing year, was expressed here Saturday by E. V. Spence.

Spence, as chairman of the water resources committee, represented the West Texas Chamber of Commerce on the Texas Mapping Advisory Committee which made recommendations to the USGS.

The committee had picked 65 quadrangles (1-64th of a degree latitude by degree longitude) for three grades of priority.

However, the USGS report showed 91 quadrangles, but only four of them coincided with the 65 suggested by the Texas advisory panel.

Nine of the top priority quadrangles had been in the West Texas area, according to state recommendations, but none were included in the USGS report. Forty-three of the 91 quadrangles were in extreme South Texas where there is no major project pending.

John J. Vandertulip, Austin, chairman of the Texas advisory committee, said that George D. Whitmore, Washington, D. C., speaking for the USGS, explained the federal report had been shoved forward and issued before the Texas advisory reached there.

Among the top priority requests from the Texas committee were quadrangles within the enlarged study of the Colorado River Municipal Water District for a second lake on the Colorado River.

OMEGA RATLIFF

Johnny Bob Asbury And Terry Harkrider Head Graduates

By BONNIE SIMPSON

Valedictorian of the 1961 Forsan graduation class is Johnny Bob Asbury, Terry Harkrider was named salutatorian, while Cleta Newsom ranked third and Omega Ratliff fourth. The race for the top honors was very close this year. All four are busily preparing speeches for graduation night.

The seniors came to school Monday tired and sunburned, but with large smiles on their faces. They seemed to have enjoyed themselves on their trip to Galveston very much, but they did have some trouble settling back into the same old routine once more.

A special meeting of the FHA was held Tuesday morning at 9 a.m. The purpose was to discuss installation of officers and to elect a new officer. The office to be filled was that of third vice president; the girls elected Darla Dunagan to fill it. Friday morning new officers practiced their parts for the installation of officers which is to be Monday night, May 15.

The sophomores set up a stand and sold ice cream, cake, cookies and peanuts at the league softball games Friday night. The games were held at the Forsan baseball field. The sophs ran the concession to help raise money for the Junior-Senior Banquet.

Tuesday the pep squad elected as their next year's captain Saundra Griffith. This job is quite an honor and a very large responsibility. Election of next year's leaders in the cheering section was wound up with Saundra's selection.

Now is the time of the year when everyone starts receiving graduation announcements through the mail. The seniors finally got theirs off and all they have to do now is sit back and wait for graduation—disregarding final exams, of course.

The Student Council held a meeting Wednesday for the purpose of discussing and planning activity week, which will be held next week. Plans for the annual Student Council picnic, which serves as a grand finale for activity week, were discussed and a committee was appointed to find a place to have it. This committee consists of Johnny Bob Asbury, H. K. Elrod and Glenda Rutherford. The food committee is made up of Darla Dunagan, Susan Elrod, Carla Jo Hughes and H. D. McElreath. Prices were discussed, and it was agreed that a quarter must be paid at the gate in order to attend.

Those serving on the gate committee are Johnny Bob Asbury, H. K. Elrod and David Roberson. This picnic is important because this is where the new Student Council president is revealed. Running for the office are Larry Stroud, Darla Dunagan, H. K. Elrod and Carla Jo Hughes. It is always a highlight of school activities with everyone, including high school and junior high, participating and enjoying the fun. The Student Council also voted to send $15 to the Crippled Children's Foundation in Big Spring and $15 to the Hope Fund, which supports a hospital ship that aids people in disaster at sea.

Top Graduates Named At Gail

LAMESA (SC)—Nancy Beal and Patti Harrell have been announced as valedictorian and salutatorian, respectively, of the 1961 graduating class at Borden County High School in Gail. The pair compiled close averages of 94.54 and 93.24 grades.

The highest ranking boy was Carroll Ramsey.

Twenty-two seniors will be graduated later this month.

Jim Samuel, minister of the Church of Christ of Gail, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon May 14 in the school auditorium. The following day, the Rev. M. P. Owens, Gail graduate, and present associate pastor of the West Cliff Methodist Church in Fort Worth, will give the commencement address.

ERIC BREWSTER, BRENDA GRAY WIN FREE RECORDS

Eric Brewster, student at BSHS, won The Herald's free record album this week, the score from the new Broadway play "Carnival" by Ornadel and the Starlight Symphony Orchestra.

Bonus winner was Brenda Gray from Goliad Junior High School.

School Is Nearly Out

By MARSHA BRISTOW

This is the last week of regular school for all of us at SHS because the seniors are out except for the ones that have to take their tests next week, and all of the rest of us will have review and tests the rest of the time. We will get out officially next Thursday. It will be nice to be out on vacation for three months! The only bad thing about the end of school is the fact that some of our senior friends won't be coming back with us next year, but in another sense, we are happy for them and their achievement.

The seniors' last day was Thursday, and they left for the senior trip Friday morning. They had planned a weekend at Carlsbad, N.M., where they swam and toured the Caverns. They were to return today.

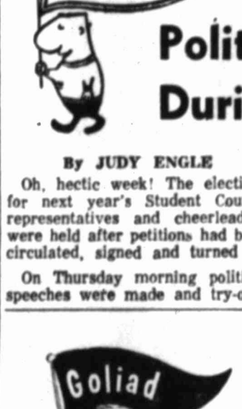

Last Monday night was our annual May Fete. Each class was responsible for preparing a skit or song portraying a certain country in the world. Some of the grade school classes showed scenes depicting Holland, Russia, England, and Mexico. The high school country, or state we should say, was Hawaii. Each of the participants were dressed in true Hawaiian style. All of the girls were dressed in bright colored muumuus, and the boys were in everything from deck pants to swim suits. It was a lot of fun, whether it accomplished its purpose or not!

Tuesday morning the National Honor Society installation was held. The new officers are president, Nina Yater; vice president, Markus Hanna; secretary, Dorothy Lawson; and treasurer, Marsha Bristow. The service was begun by a prayer, then David Norvell, musical and educational director of the First Baptist Church, sang "He." The new officers were then led in their pledges of office by the old officers. Next, the new members were led in a pledge. The new members were George Foreman, Mary Beth Glaspie, Linda Lawson, and Martha Johnson.

Wednesday the annual awards assembly was held. Mr. Bickley was master of ceremonies. Each department presented a merit "S" award to the outstanding boy and girl and to ones who had made the most improvement. Also the citizenship award was given for the year. Weems Williams and I received this award. Also Tommy Newman and Thadd Koonce were awarded gold trophies for their participation in track and basketball. The Beta Sigma Phi Sorority presented its $100 scholarship to the most deserving senior girl, Carolinne Womack. The Chamber of Commerce also presented honorary memberships to Carolyn Manning, Janice Glaze and me. Ben Mott was awarded a medallion for his sheep raising from county agent Bob Johnson.

Thursday SHS had a nice treat. The eighth graders, who will be freshmen next year, came to school and visited. They were shown around and met all of the teachers. We hope they enjoyed it as much as we enjoyed having them.

Friday was a little different, I will have to admit, without the seniors. However, I suppose that all of the rest of us will get used to the difference.

Politics In Air During Past Week

By JUDY ENGLE

Oh, hectic week! The elections for next year's Student Council representatives and cheerleaders were held after petitions had been circulated, signed and turned in.

On Thursday morning political speeches were made and try-outs for cheerleader were held. Elected sophomore Student Council representatives were Sue Cook, Judy Engle and Dee Roby Gartman. Judy Engle was also elected sophomore cheerleader from Runnels.

Ninth grade Student Council members will be Peggy Spier, Jerry Peurifoy, Beverley Womach, Pam Vines and Sherry Stevens. Cheerleading for the ninth grade next year will be Ann Coyle, Peggy Spier and Glenda Heffington. Sarah Smith, Susie Engle, Cindy Jones, Sheryl Gambill and Jimmy Johnson will represent the eighth grade in Student Council, and Susie Engle, Sarah Smith and Cindy Jones will be eighth grade cheerleaders.

Johnny Hughes will be president of the Council and Howard Bain vice president. Seventh grade Council members will be elected next year.

Wednesday morning Don Osborne presided at the freshman class meeting held to discuss a class project. It was decided that we would raise money to help open the doors of the Crippled Children's Center. A faculty volleyball game was held with an admission of 15 cents per student. Also Friday cakes, sandwiches, cupcakes and coca-colas were sold. The project proved to be really worthwhile since the freshmen raised $159.13. Good going, kids!

The annual, El Palomar, came in at last! An annual signing party was held fifth and sixth periods on Friday. The annuals were really beautiful and we all express our many thanks to the annual staff and Mrs. Johnson, the sponsor.

The Runnels choir held its Spring Concert Friday night in the Runnels gym. A good crowd turned out for the event, and the choir did an excellent job.

Remember, students, only a few more weeks of school, so let's really make them count.

Formal Set In Orient

By NANCY HEDLESTON

"Oriental Paradise" was the theme of the Spring Formal held Friday night at the Cosden Country Club. The music was furnished by Pat Paterson's Orchestra. All those who attended seemed to enjoy themselves very much.

The dreaded days for nine week's exams for the 9th grade will be next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Schedules for the exams are as follows: Wednesday, 1st and 4th periods; Thursday, 2nd and 5th periods; and Friday 3rd and 6th periods.

Next week we will elect a cheerleader for high school for next year and three representatives for the high school Student Council.

We have enjoyed having the 6th grade students visit our school this past week and we hope that they profited much in learning about junior high school.

Besides the excitment of the Spring Formal, it has been a very quiet week at Goliad, but the next week promises much excitement with the arrival of our annuals. An annual signing party will be held Monday afternoon after school.

Finals Begin On Thursday

By KAY LOVELAND

As the end of school draws near, Jayhawks know that the time for final exams is almost upon them—bringing with them tension, all-night cramming sessions and then, finally, welcome relief. Final examinations at HCJC begin at 8 a.m. this coming Thursday morning. On Friday there will be no exams given due to the National Junior College Track Meet which will be held on our campus May 19 and 20. The rest of the finals will take place Monday, May 22, through Thursday, May 25.

The night of the 25th some two dozen or more sophomores will climax their studies at HCJC when they receive their diplomas at the Graduation Banquet, which will be held in the Student Union Building. By Friday afternoon 128 persons had indicated they will attend the banquet. Baccalaureate services for these students is set for next Sunday afternoon at 4:30 p.m. in the auditorium.

Last Friday night Phi Theta Kappa members held their annual outing at Moss Creek Lake. Most members of the fraternity, and their guests, attended the affair and munched on hot dogs and potato chips. Some of the group also went swimming.

At the last meeting of the organization on Wednesday, Doug Davis was selected as next year's president and Barbara Moelling as secretary. The vice president will be chosen next year.

The 1961 Jayhawker, college yearbook, arrived last Monday and the books were distributed to students. The motif this year was based on the sanddunes of West Texas with our old Jayhawk writing the titles in the sand.

Guess the only thing left worth saying is "Good luck, Hawks!"

Kay Campbell Gets P-TA Scholarship

LAMESA (SC) — Kay Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Campbell, has been selected by the scholarship committee of the Lamesa High School Parent-Teacher Association to receive the annual $200 scholarship for future teachers.

She was picked because of outstanding scholastic rating, leadership and for her interest in becoming a future teacher. Kay plans to enter Texas Tech in Lubbock this fall.

Her high school activities included membership in the band, Future Teachers of America, Future Homemakers of America, Booster Club, Dramatics Club, National Honor Society, student council and second place winner of the county oil essay contest.

Long Way From Starting Points

Neither Dean Martin nor Shirley MacLaine who star in the Hal Wallis Technicolor production, "All in a Night's Work," displays in the romantic comedy even a hint of the talents that first made them famous.

Dean who came to Hollywood as a singer, doesn't even hum in the Paramount release, in which he plays a playboy publisher. Shirley, who hoofed her way to the attention of Wallis when she replaced Carol Haney in Broadway's "Pajama Game," does no dancing at all as the white collar girl who finally collars Martin.

Parallels

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Clergymen and psychiatrists have to use a common approach to people who need help, says Dr. Edward J. Sheridan Jr., a University of Michigan psychiatrist. Both, he said, "must try to see the world as the sufferer sees it."

They'll Be Cheering

'Au'voir' Used As Theme Of Junior-Senior Prom

By LYN CLAWSON

Upon entering a mystic city of enchantment at the Junior-Senior Prom the French Mademoiselles and Monsieurs were greeted by the Junior Class officers and presented with programs and favors. As the night quickly passed over the enchanting city, the guests paused at a sidewalk cafe to hear the fabulous DELTAS.

At twelve, the bewitching hour, the Juniors formed a friendship circle around the graduates and everyone sang "Auld Lang Syne." At the party the Mademoiselles and Monsieurs were entertained in the luxurious Cafe de Paree with games and songs.

This event, which climaxed the school year for both the juniors and seniors, was staged at the Big Spring Country Club. The theme for the evening was "Au'voir," which is French for "Until we meet again." Couples sanced from 8-12 to the music of the CLASSICS.

Following the dance, members of the junior and senior classes met at the Ritz for a special midnight showing of "It's All in a Nights Work." At seven this morning the seniors convened at Coker's Restaurant for a breakfast.

The a capella choir elected officers for the 1961-1962 school year last week. Elected were Greg Peay - president; Barbara Bahn - vice president; Sylvia Cole - secretary; Judy Bradberry - treasurer; Linda Cunningham - senior representative; Jimmy Hensley - junior representative; Doris Compton - social chairman; Suzanne Compton - historian; Tommy Chapman - sergeant at arms.

Next Saturaday Claudie Self and Ronnie Hamby will represent BSHS at Armed Forces Day at Webb Air Force Base.

Students spent most of their free time this week signing the 1961 El Rodeos which were issued last Monday. The annual staff did a very good job this year. They published a black and gold yearbook.

Seniors are busily planning for the senior activities which take place at the end of this month. The first one is to be the Senior Assembly and Senior Day scheduled for next Friday.

Next Thursday the last issue of the "Corral" will be distributed to all students. The last eight pages of the Senior Magazine will be shipped to the printer today and the books are expected the last week of school.

Friday night the Thespians and Court Jesters held their annual Masquerade Ball in the school cafeteria. Denniece Nicholson and Tommy Wilkinson were named Best Actress and Best Actor. Lida Fiveash and Nelson Clemow were presented the Best Thespian awards. Ilameta Carr was chosen Most Valuable Speech student.

Ilameta Carr, BSHS's only representative to the State Interscholastic League meet, brought home a third place in poetry. Congratulations, Ilameta!

The last Student Council meeting will be Tuesday. The council will have its party Thursday evening.

Last Tuesday afternoon the National Honor Society held its last meeting of the year and elected officers for next year. Then the group went to Cleo Thomas's house to swim and sign annuals. The officers elected were: Jerry Younger - president; Chap Smith -vice president; Rachael Phelan-secretary; Carol Bohannon-treasurer; Karon Koger - reporter; Gayle Bratcher - historian.

Last Monday night the senior Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y club members participated in a Vocational Banquet at the Y. Roy Worley spoke to the group and Wanda Boatler presented him with a gift from the seniors.

States Join In Scramble To Attract Industries

NEW YORK (AP)—In a pell-mell scramble, state after state has jumped into spirited bidding for new industry and jobs. Like wily fishermen, they have trotted out a bewildering variety of lures and bait.

Yet 20 years ago talk of a factory on the outskirts would haye given city fathers fits.

The turnabout in attitude mirrors an economic upheaval that has started factories on the march — especially since World War II—to claim new markets, shed outworn facilities, decentralize, diversify and cut costs.

Mostly, they moved from old buildings in industrial cities of the Northeast and Midwest to new economic frontiers in the South and Southwest.

Trailing behind sometimes were angry recriminations over the loss of revenue, denunciations of company and labor policies, and charges of "plant piracy."

CHANGE

To hundreds of communities, the dislocation has brought convulsive change. For some it has meant seam-bursting boom times, for others creeping decay and the blight of depression.

A decade ago, Perry, Fla., was a sleepy town of 2,600 modestly housed persons in a farming and pulpwood area. Kay Porter, a former mayor, worried about slipping patronage at his downtown movie house and considered closing it.

Then came the $20-million Duckeye Cellulose plant.

Within a few years, Perry's population tripled, bank deposits tripled, retail sales doubled, swank motels and hotels sprang up, and home builders had a field day.

Change such as occurred in Perry swept over hundreds of other towns in the late 1950s—particularly in South Carolina, Tennessee, Arkansas, Arizona, Louisiana, but in other states too.

WRACKED

Meantime, once-bustling, one-industry towns elsewhere — the factories forever shut—were left wracked by grievous ills, breadwinners out of jobs, vacant store fronts dotting Main Street, and residential districts sliding downhill.

It was this specter that haunted leaders in desperate efforts a few weeks ago to head off closing of the Ford Motor Co. assembly plant in Chester, Pa., the community's economic mainstay for 34 years.

The assembly plant shutdown ended jobs for 1,500 persons and took a payroll of $10 million a year out of a city of 63,356.

The blow to Chester helps explain why state and local governments not only are vying strenuously for new economic plums but are fighting to keep from losing what they have.

A handful of business-minded Southern governors, long accustomed to lean economic pickings, blazed the trail in systematic courting of those who call the shots in factory shifts.

AT THE TOP

The best known, North Carolina's Luther H. Hodges, now is U. S. secretary of commerce.

In the campaign for jobs, cities, counties and towns pitched in by the hundreds to outdo one another in come-hither pleas and lures to industry captains.

They offer tax holidays, free plant sites, special work force training programs, railroad spurs and highway access concessions.

In the South, wage rates below the national average for many years exerted a powerful pull on manufacturers with a high proportion of over-all cost in payrolls.

A recent study at Dartmouth College found the differentials with the Midwest and Far West, while narrowing, "are likely to remain significant for years."

Many of the incoming companies accepted free plant sites and offers to have factory buildings put up by local capital for occupancy on a lease basis.

MOST LEVERAGE

Of the broad array of government-coined inducements, this device perhaps has effected the most leverage on plant-location decision makers—nearly painless financing of new manufacturing facilities.

In one way or another, some 20 states have adopted it, most of them allowing expenditure of public funds for the purpose.

North Carolina, however, worked basically through 200-plus local business development corporations which raised private capital by stock issues, subscriptions, bank loans and in other ways.

Under a 1955 law, Tennessee cities and counties pledged their taxing power behind bond issues for factory buildings.

In 1960, 21 local governments sold $6.3 million in bonds to erect plants for industries which employed 3,975 persons.

State Could Use A Soaking Rain

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Texas' farmers and ranchmen generally would welcome a general soaking rain. In all areas except the north and east, rain is needed, reported Director John Hutchison of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service this week.

The need was greatest for surface moisture but district agents from several areas reported subsoil moisture becoming short.

High winds took their toll of moisture and the dry soil is holding up planting of cotton and grain sorghums and delaying the growth of crops already up. Ranges also need moisture.

Rain is needed in South Texas. Crops in the Valley and Coastal Bend are making good growth but all other counties are dry. Pastures are suffering. Onions, tomatoes, potatoes and melons are being marketed at fair to good prices.

High winds have dried out moisture and damaged vegetable crops in South Central Texas. The northwest counties of the district were in serious need of rain for planting of cotton and sorghums. Cotton in the southern counties is being attacked by insects. Cattle are in good condition.

Light rains helped crops and pastures in the upper Gulf coastal area but high winds sapped moisture. Chopping and cultivating of early cotton and corn were on. Rice planting was in full swing. Pastures and cattle improved. Vegetables are looking good.

Moisture is good in East Texas except for spots in western counties. Most crops are up and making good growth. Pastures and livestock are in excellent condition.

Local showers helped some, but moisture is short in Central Texas. Oats are maturing and some fields are being baled for hay. Corn and sorghum in the shower areas is looking better. Some cotton has been cultivated. Pecan crop prospects are good. Grazing for livestock is fair.

The surface moisture situation is critical and subsoil moisture becoming short in Central West Texas. Oats were ripening but a large acreage was being grazed or cut for hay. Wheat prospects were fair. Dry ranges are causing some livestock to be moved early. Sheep shearing is ahead of schedule. Cotton planting is waiting on moisture.

A general rain is needed in far West Texas where some livestock feeding is continuing. Cotton planting was near completion with excellent stands. Sheep shearing was continuing.

Last Battle Of Civil War Occurred Near Texas Coast

By HARRY QUIN
Edinburg Daily Review
Managing Editor
Written for The Associated Press

EDINBURG (AP)—The last battle of the Civil War took place here 96 years ago this Saturday—5 weeks after Gen. Robert E. Lee surrendered at Appomattox.

A neglected historical marker sits at the site of the battle 12 miles from Brownsville.

The marker is neglected and scratched, the state emblem missing. A flood on the Rio Grande two years ago washed sand away from the base and left the foundation above ground until the sand blew back again.

The battle was on what was called Palmetto Hill, nothing more than a knoll. Sometimes it is spelled Palmito. It is near where the Rio Grande flows between two large islands into the Gulf.

The soldiers of nearly a century ago didn't know they were fighting the last battle of the war. There was no telegraph. No authentic word of Lee's surrender reached the area until a ship brought a New Orleans newspaper on May 18—six weeks after the actual surrender and five days after the Texas battle.

The fight was forgotten until historians began to dig through Civil War records.

Brownsville and Clarksville, now an abandoned seaport down the Rio Grande, were being used by the Confederacy to move out cotton and bring in war materials the cotton bought.

Around May 1, 1865, there were 500 Confederate troops along the Rio Grande near its mouth. And Gen. E. B. Brown had about 1,000 Union soldiers between Brownsville and Clarksville.

On May 11 about 300 Union soldiers marched toward a place called White's Ranch looking for Confederates they hoped to wipe out.

They found 150 Confederates under command of Capt. W. N. Robinson and the forces engaged. The Southerners retreated.

Robinson reported to Col. John Ford what had happened and Ford sent reinforcements. The Union command, having information that only a handful of Confederates remained along the river, continued to move in to wipe them out.

Mexican soldiers on the south side of the Rio Grande saw the march of the Union troops on May 13 and warned Ford.

Coming at the Southerners were men of the 32nd Indiana, part of a New York regiment and a regiment of Negroes. They were led by Col. Theodore Barret.

A Confederate officer named Giddings moved in and checked the Union force, which was moving toward Brownsville. Ford and his reinforcements moved down river until they found the Barret-Giddings skirmishers.

The Union soldiers entrenched behind sand pits on Palmetto Hill.

At 4 p.m. the Confederates began an advance. They faced two cannon on Palmetto Hill, but they forced the Federals to retreat back toward the mouth of the Rio Grande.

During the fighting, the Union forces suffered 111 casualties among the enlisted men, 30 of them dead. Several Union soldiers were captured, only to be released. Some drowned trying to swim the Rio Grande.

The engagement lasted until about 5 p.m. and the skirmishing and maneuvering covered an area of about four square miles. The forces moved back and forth through brush hardly good enough to sustain a goat.

The land wasn't worth much. The battle wasn't significant—and very little has changed at the battle scene in the nearly 100 years.

Ranchers Invited To Tech Program

Howard County ranchers have been extended an invitation to attend the Livestock Feeders Day Program at Texas Tech Monday. Jimmy Taylor, county agent, said that he had sent out letters to a number of cattlemen calling attention to the program and that it is probable some of them would be present.

The program is to be in the Student Union Ball Room starting at 8 a.m. It will close at 4 p.m.

Lamb, cattle and swine feeding reports will be offered by specialists who have been working on important experiments. The ranchers will be guests of the Plains Co-op Oil Mill, Lubbock Cottonoil Mill and Western Cottonoil Mill at lunch to be served in the livestock pavilion.

DEAR ABBY

Get The Wife Organized

DEAR ABBY: How do you get a wife to be more "organized"? I realize that a woman has a lot to do with two school-aged children, but she has help one day a week and her own jalopy—and still nothing seems to get done. She washes, irons and cleans whenever she "gets around to it."

My wife is a "do-it-tomorrow" expert. I had Christmas cards printed last year and she never got around to addressing them. She was so late in sending a "Get Well Quick" card to a friend, it arrived the day he died. She is a wonderful woman, with good intentions, and she knows her faults but she doesn't know what to do about them. Can you help me?

HER HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: Haphazard housekeeping is inexcusable. If your wife has an "organized" friend, she should enlist her help in making out a work-day schedule. (The friend would be flattered.) She should plan her work, and then work her plan.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I belong to a card club that has been in existence for about nine years. We have gotten along fine and always had a good time.

About a year ago we asked a relative of one of the members to substitute. Since then she has come to every game. It makes it difficult because we always end up with an extra player.

We would like to keep her as a substitute, but how can we tell her? The last time she came, she played all the time and one of our regulars sat out. We don't want to hurt her feelings, but what can we do?

THE CLUB

DEAR CLUB: Whoever invited her to come as a substitute should tell her in a friendly way that she is a substitute and not a regular member. (Perhaps she doesn't realize this.) Now is the time to call a spade a spade, before she gets squatter's rights.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Exactly how do you kiss a boy? My mother says it will come naturally, but in case it doesn't do you have any hints? Do you stop breathing? Also, when kissing a relative, do you make a "smack" sound? Is this supposed to happen when kissing a boy? Last but not least, do you move you hear or your lips? And what do you do with your nose? I am 13.

NEVER BEEN KISSED

DEAR NEVER: You do NOT stop breathing. You do NOT make a "smack" sound. And all you do with your nose is breathe through it.

DOWPON
controls cattails and problem grasses along ditches

A regular spraying program with DOWPON* puts an end to the continual expense and hard work of burning, chopping or cultivating Johnson or Bermuda grass out of crop lands and cattails out of ditches. In headlands and along fence lines, too, Dowpon eliminates grass—for it kills the deep roots as well as tops. Through cumulative action, this program becomes less costly each year. You'll find Dowpon cheaper than chlorates or borates, less messy than oiling. Simply mix Dowpon with water, and spray.

Features Chosen For Film Club, Children's Theatre

The Big Spring Film Club, Inc., today announced selection of eight feature films for next season's showings.

The club also has completed the program for the children's theatre.

Names of feature films and show dates:

"The Golden Demon" Sept. 21; "Our Man in Havana" Oct. 19; Package A, Nov. 16; "Please, Mr. Balzac" Jan. 18, 1962; "No More Fleeing" Feb. 15; "One Summer of Happiness" March 15; "Othello" April 19; and "Nana" May 17, 1962.

Season tickets will be sold by subscription only, and membership will be held to 200. Present ticket holders will have first choice, and tickets left over will later be placed on general sale. Price for the tickets is set at $5 per person.

MAIL ORDERS

Beginning next week, mail orders from present Film Club members will be accepted if mailed to: The Big Spring Film Club, Inc., 2500 Morrison, Big Spring, Texas.

Short subjects to go with the eight feature films have not yet been selected, but will be announced at Thursday evening's meeting of the club.

First of next season's tickets will go on sale at the Thursday showing, which will feature a Russian film, "The Stone Flower," the last on this season's series. Thursday also will be guest night for members.

The "Package A," selected for showing in November, was described by club officials as "a surprise" to be announced Thursday evening.

LIMIT IS 300

Membership in the children's theatre will be limited to 300, with first choice of tickets going to members of Film Club families. No individual tickets will be sold; only season tickets are available, club officials said.

The age group will be up to and including age 15, and children 3 years of age or under must be accompanied by an adult.

Price of the children's theatre season tickets is set at $2 per person, and may be had beginning next week from C. D. Wade, 1751 Purdue, Big Spring, Texas.

The children's schedule:

"The Living Desert" Oct. 7; "Edison the Man" Oct. 21; "National Velvet" Nov. 4; "Our Vines Have Tender Grapes" Nov. 18; "Melody Time" Dec. 2; "Captains Courageous" Jan. 6; "State Fair" Jan. 27; "Madame Curie" Feb. 10; "The Yearling" Feb. 24; "Captain Horatio Hornblower" March 10; and "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell" March 24.

BONUS FILM?

A twelfth bonus feature for April 14 may be announced later if club finances allow it.

All features come complete with a selection of short subjects, mostly cartoons, aimed at the younger audience. The films all will be shown on alternate Saturdays at 10 a.m. Both children's theatre attractions and regular adult Film Club fare will be shown in Howard County Junior College Auditorium.

Club officials provided descriptions of the adult films:

"The Golden Demon," a Japanese film, is an award winner which tells a typically Oriental story, but in modern forms.

CUBAN STORY

"Our Man in Havana" stars Alec Guinness as a British businessman in Cuba who takes advantage of the secrecy employed by foreign agent, to make a fortune for himself. It is filled with both drama and a sly, cutting, heavy-handed satire which is even more applicable to Castro's Cuba than it was to that of Batista. The story takes place in the latter setting. Burl Ives and Ernie Kovaks co-star.

"Please Mr. Balzac" was the first major film starring Brigitte Bardot, and was the one which shot her to stardom. It retains its native French flavor, for it was made primarily for European audiences.

ATOMIC WORLD

"No More Fleeing," from Germany is a tale of the odern atomic world and the dangers, both old and new, which it contains. It is filled with symbolism, and is classified as an art film.

"Our Summer of Happiness," a Swedish movie, is an international award winner which tells of the conflict of youth and custom during a time of flux and social change.

"Othello" stars Orson Welles and is a film version if the classic by Shakespeare.

"Nana," from France, tells of the infamous Parisienne immortalized in the novel by Emile Zola.

To Night Club From The Harem

Cry For Happy

Miiko Taka hears sweet nothings from Glenn Ford in this scene from "Cry for Happy," but keeps a wall between them. The comedy about Japanese-American relations plays beginning today at the Jet.

Beautiful Rosemarie Bowe, who quit movies five years ago when she married Robert Stack, was inveigled to return to film work by producer Hal Wallis. Rosemarie appears as one of man-about-town Dean Martin's glamorous girl friends in the producer's romantic comedy, "All in a Night's Work."

Miss Bowe's last screen appearance was opposite John Derek in "The Adventures of Hajji Baba" in which she played a harem beauty. As one of Martin's "harem" in "All in a Night's Work," Rosemarie is exposed to New York's smartest night spots, which is certainly showing considerable historical progress in only five years.

Shaggy Dog Tale

Jasper, son of Hobo, the shaggy sheep dog who made a hit in "Please Don't Eat the Daisies," is following in his pappy's paws. He has an important role in Hal Wallis's romantic comedy, "All in a Night's Work."

'Millionairess' From Pen Of G. B. Shaw

"The Millionairess," another delightful comedy from the pen of G. B. Shaw, dean of British wit, has been brought to the screen by Twentieth Century - Fox starring Sophia Loren, the international glamour comedienne and Peter Sellers, current comedy toast of the British Isles and America. The CinemaScope DeLux Color production, which features Alastair Sim and Vittorio de Sica will open Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre.

Produced in London by Pierre Rouve and directed by Anthony Asquith, the story is based on the Shaw play, retains his great wit and is a gay, smiling comment on love, beauty and riches.

It tells the story of Epifania Parerga (Sophia Loren), a female tycoon of a time not too long ago who believes her riches can buy her everything. Yet, she finds they can't buy her love and affection—a situation that irritates her deeply. This presents a challenge so that when she meets Kabir (Peter Sellers), a selfless Indian doctor practicing in a poor section of London and falls in love with him, she is determined to win his affection and marry.

The doctor's only interest in women is their ailments. He has never looked upon them in any other way—that is, not until the millionairess comes along. Moreover, he is contemptuous of wealth and material things and the very fact that Epifania flaunts her fabulous power both overwhelms and frightens him.

A merry chase ensues and in the scenes that follow, these new-style lovers of the screen are finally brought together.

Alastair Sim is seen as Sagaro, the charming solicitor who looks after the interests of the millionairess in general and his own in particular.

What Working Girl Should Wear

For her role of research worker in a big New York publishing company in "All in a Night's Work," Shirley MacLaine previews what the white collar girl of 1961 should, or could, wear.

Edith Head, Paramount's Academy Award-winning stylist, designed a realistic wardrobe consisting of five basic changes that typify outfits a girl on an office worker's salary could conceivably afford. However, the story also calls for Shirley to wear a mink coat costing $11,000 (which causes hilarious plot complications) and a turkish towel without which, in one sequence, the star would have a serious censorship problem.

Pepe At Work

Cantinflas, the great Mexican comedian, meets a beautiful damsel in this scene from "Pepe," a sort of poor man's "Around the World in 80 Days," in which Cantinlas also was starred. The comedy will continue through Wednesday at the State.

Martin, MacLaine In 'Night's Work'

Producer Hal Wallis turned his experienced hand to farce comedy with his newest film, "All in a Night's Work," starring Dean Martin and Shirley MacLaine, a Paramount release in Technicolor, which will open today at the Ritz Theatre.

The story concerns the events that occur within a huge publishing company when its founder is discovered dead with a strange smile on his face. Suspicion as to what put it there points to a mystery girl who was seen, clad only in a towel, racing out of his Palm Beach hotel suite at three o'clock in the morning. To forestall a public scandal which would topple the teetering company, the girl must be found and her silence bought.

Martin is cast as the playboy nephew called upon to replace his late uncle as company head, and to solve the problem created by the circumstances of his death. Martin and Miss MacLaine, who portrays the "mystery girl," are no film strangers to each other. Three times before they appeared in the same films—"Artists and Models," "Career" and "Some Came Running." Both stars prefer to work in comedies, perhaps because the personality of each has a built-in affinity to laughter.

MARTIN & MacLAINE
He owes an apology

Martin's most recent films include the light comedy, "Who Was That Lady?" the musical comedy, "The Bells Are Ringing" and the suspense drama, "Ocean's Eleven." Miss MacLaine recently scored big in "The Apartment" in a comedy role containing plenty of opportunity for dramatic acting as well, and prior to that displayed her talents as a song-and-dance girl in "Can-Can." In 1958 she won an Academy Award nomination as best actress for her work in "Some Came Running." Now as Katie Robbins in "All in a Night's Work" Shirley again returns to high comedy and gay romance. For her role of the office worker mistaken for a femme fatale, Shirley has a wardrobe that ranges from the aforementioned towel costing approximately $5.95 to a full-length $11,000 mutation mink coat. In between are Edith Head designed clothes that any well-dressed white collar girl might wear in 1961.

Co-starring roles are filled by Cliff Robertson, who will be seen as Shirley's veterinary fiance, Charles Ruggles and Mabel Albertson, who play his straitlaced parents, and Norma Crane in her film debut as Shirley's co-worker. Jerome Cowan and Gale Gordon portray nervous executives of the company, and Jack Weston plays an over - zealous detective who works on the case-of-the-missing girl with Dean.

The film welcomes back to movie work Rosemarie Bowe, a young beauty who quit films five years ago when she married Robert Stack. She appears as one of playboy Martin's many playmates, until Shirley enters his life.

Rice Selected For Program

George Rice, coordinator of Distributive Education in Big Spring High School, is among five Texas teachers selected for assignments in the 1961 Summer Material Development Program set in Austin between June 19-July 14.

Financed by a grant from the Sears, Roebuck Foundation, this second annual program for development of subject matter for high school and junior college DE programs in Texas is conducted by Mrs. Pauline W. Burbrink, teacher trainer and research subject matter specialist of the University of Texas, Division of Extension. Texas ranks first in the nation in the availability of subject matter materials for DE.

Recommended by West Texas area supervisor for Distributive Education Services Will Inkman, Rice was selected from applicants in 95 West Texas counties. Selection was based on the recommendations, experience, background educational requirements and merits of the respective DE programs.

Navy Seeking Musical Recruits

The local Navy recruiting station has announced that the Navy now has new openings for musician applicants.

Qualifications for musician include proficiency in one or more musical instruments, sight-reading ability, technique, and general ability to grasp new ideas pertaining to musical training.

Musician applicants are given the opportunity to go to San Diego, Calif., at Navy expense, for the purpose of musical auditions. Persons passing the auditions may elect to enlist as musician recruit, or may return home.

For further information, young men are asked to contact the local recruiting station, located in the post office basement.

Manslaughter

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A 12-man jury last week returned verdicts of manslaughter against former Patrolman N. I. Habighorst, 25, and Donald Glowacki, 23, a cook, in the death of W. Ray Scheuring, managing director of the New Orleans Municipal Auditorium and formerly West Point Military Academy athletic director.
