Scott And Black Land At Melbourne To Win $50,000 Race

Speeding Ship Slices Record By Three Days

Two Fliers Nurse A Crippled Motor Along On Final Lap; Thousands Of Australians Give Hearty Welcome

Preliminary Calculation Sets Time At Two Days, 22 Hours And 25 Minutes For Flight Of 11,300 Miles

(By The Associated Press)

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 23 (Tuesday)—C. W. A. Scott and Campbell Black, Englishmen, today won the 11,300-mile London to Melbourne air race, landing at the Flemington race course here ahead of all competitors.

The fliers, who reached Melbourne from faraway London in less than three days, traveled the last lap from Charleville with a faulty motor.

They Nurse It Along

But they nursed it along, after hasty repairs at Charleville, and made the 787-mile lap in fast time to capture the $50,000 first prize.

Thousands of Australians, who had thronged the race course since noon, were on hand to see the red DeHavilland swing in from the north in the mid-afternoon.

Preliminary calculation indicated that Scott had covered the distance from Mildenhall airdrome, England, in two days, 22 hours and 25 minutes.

Maintain Fast Pace

The calculations indicated that the aviators had maintained the amazing speed of nearly 165 miles an hour.

Burley Scott, well known to Australians, and his dapper co-pilot tumbled from their plane extremely weary after their record smashing flight.

The six foot Scott said he and his companion had slept only about two hours since they left England.

The previous record for a flight from England to Australia was six days, 17 hours and 45 minutes.

Thousands of cheering admirers swarmed about the plane.

30,000 Are On Hand

Fully 30,000 Australians were in the throng.

The crowd had demained at the field many hours despite cloudy weather and a threat of rain and its excitement was keyed to the highest pitch by frequent announcements telling of the progress of the plane.

The roof tops of Melbourne were crowded with spectators who were unable to go to the race course.

Many planes circled overhead to

Couple Hurt In Southland Crash

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Blanks of Sweetwater were injured when their automobile went off the highway in the south edge of Southland about 7 p. m. Monday.

The woman was the more seriously hurt, suffering a deep laceration on her forehead and bruises on the right knee, right arm, and left shoulder. After treatment of a gash under his chin, Mr. Blanks returned to Southland to supervise handling of his wrecked Chevrolet coach.

Both were treated at West Texas hospital. Mrs. Blanks was to undergo additional examination to determine if there were other injuries. Both were said to have been knocked unconscious in the crash. The woman was rational at 8 o'clock.

Their car was being driven on the present routing of highway 7, and at a curve went off the road and struck an embankment. Tim Fields of Southland brought the Blanks to Lubbock. Mr. Blanks is a representative of Western Cartridge company.

A CORRECTION

In a news story from Boston, Mass., it was erroneously stated Sunday that Dr. Sam G. Dunn, Lubbock, was the only Fellow of the American College of Surgeons between Amarillo and Abilene, Texas. Upon later advices, The Avalanche-Journal is informed that Dr. Samuel R. Hopkins, who for the past six months has been practicing in Slaton, is a Fellow in the College and has been since 1921. The error had its inception with a special correspondent in Boston and The Avalanche-Journal, in a spirit of fair play, makes this correction.

American Legion Given Warning Not To Demand Full Payment Of Bonus

Total Of 1,197 Delegates Accredited For Session; "40 And 8" Parade Is Staged

(By The Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 22—The American Legion, opening its 16th annual convention today was counseled by U. S. Senator Frederick Steiwer (R-Ore), and past National Commander Louis Johnson of Clarkesburg, W. Va., against demanding immedate full payment of the veterans' bonus.

In an open air session delegates also hear Dr. Thomas H. Healy of Georgetown university in Washington plead for "adequate national defense" and assert "a disarmed United States would be a menace to the peace of the world."

Peaceful Rebellion Asked

A call to the Legion for a "peaceful rebellion against communism and anarchy" was sounded by Governor Dave Sholtz of Florida in a welcoming address.

Memorial service for the world war dead was conducted by the Rev. Father Robert J. White, national chaplain of Washington. The solemn "taps" from a bugle rolled over Bayfront park. Thousands of spectators stood with bared heads.

While consideration of the bonus probably will be fraught with bitter controversy when the Legion begins its general business sessions Wednesday, Senator Steiwer declared disinterested and patriotic service presents a question whether this convention should take an unequivocal stand for the immediate cash payment.

Doubtful Of Ethics

"The Legion can, with the utmost propriety, stand vigorously for a program of justice to its disabled comrades, but adjusted compensation affects all alike. I am doubtful of the ethics of able-bodied men making a demand for immediate cash payment of claims not yet due when many of them can well afford to wait for payment until the certificates mature in 1945."

The credentials committee reported that 1,197 delegates were accredited.

The national commander's report, in which the Legion's work during the past year was reviewed, recommended additional expenditures in support of the program of Americanism.

Parade Is Staged

Tonight the legion gave over to the annual parade of the "40 and 8" society, and dinky "auto trains" representing those in which men and horses were transported to the battlefronts in war days rushed up and down the streets.

Tomorrow will come the Legion's annual parade.

The convention time and place committee of the Legion tonight voted unanimously to recommend to the convention that St. Louis be awarded the 1935 convention.

Bankers Flay FDR Policies At Convention

Unfairness Charged To President In Recent Comparison Of Bankers; Treasury Draws Bitter Accusation

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Direct and frequently harsh criticism of administration recovery policies today dominated the opening sessions of the annual convention of the American Bankers association.

Speakers at the meeting considered one of the most significant in the association's history, moreover, were ready with a vigorous denial of the often repeated charges that the banks have refused to cooperate with the government and have retarded recovery by unduly restricting loans.

Unfairness Charged

At President Roosevelt one speaker leveled an accusation of unfairness in his recent comparison of British and American bankers, while another suggested a lack of statesmanship in his signing the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium bill. This measure in effect provides a five year postponement of farm indebtedness.

The treasury was accused of trying to "borrow its way out of debt." Relief methods were described as tending to "freeze the depression at the bottom." The federal reserve system, it was asserted, has become subservient to the treasury.

Want End Of Uncertainty

The extent of recovery to date, another asserted, could be measured by the depreciation of the currency. An end of monetary uncertainty was demanded.

Private initiative and the incentive of private profit were upheld as the true paths of the depression. Of defense there was none. Nevertheless, officers of the association were backing a move for mod-

Missing Aggie Is In Tucson For Visit With His Brother

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 22. —(AP)—Charles "Pete" Barber, who disappeared from Texas A. & M. last week, was here today for a visit with his brother, Bob, university of Arizona student.

When newspapermen interviewed him, the football player declared he couldn't understand why his leaving the Texas institution should have caused such a "furor" and why "it got out" he had mysteriously disappeared.

"Why, I just decided to leave," he said, "there was no mystery about it. I told my roommate I was leaving and Bob, here in Tucson, knew where I was all the time."

Suspected Kidnaper Caught At Crane; Taken To McCamey

McCAMEY, Oct. 22. (AP)—Officers were reported en route here tonight from Crane with a man suspected of being one of the pair that kidnaped Constable Rice, Iraan, at 2 o'clock this morning and forced him to drive here.

The suspect was arrested in Crane early tonight on a tip from McCamey officers after persons here had reported a man answering the description of one of the pair that kidnaped the constable, had caught a ride into Crane from this town.

Three Mount Vernon Officers Capture Harvey Ferguson In Woods; He Is Rushed To An Unnamed Jail

(By The Associated Press)

MOUNT VERNON, Tex., Oct. 22.—Three Mount Vernon officers late today captured Harvey Ferguson, 20-year-old trusty prisoner and kidnaper of Mrs. Ennis Tittle, wife of the Franklin county sheriff, in a dense stretch of woods 15 miles south of here.

Exhausted and haggard after hiding from hundreds of possemen for nearly 24 hours, young Ferguson offered no resistance when N. A. Campbell, former sheriff of Franklin county, J. W. Hazlewood, constable, and W. A. Banister, deputy sheriff, came upon him in the woods.

Makes No Comment

The youth, who kidnaped Mrs. Tittle Saturday night and forced her to ride with him for 24 hours before he let her out at the Winfield, Tex., telephone exchange, made no comment except to say he knew "everyone was looking for me."

Officers, fearing mob violence, rushed the boy away to an unnamed jail. Hundreds of men had joined in the search for Ferguson after Mrs. Tittle, near a state of collapse, appeared in Winfield.

Federal kidnaping charges will be filed against the youth tomorrow, Deputy Banister said. He refused to name the time or place the boy would be arraigned. During the flight Ferguson took her to Hugo, Okla., Mrs. Tittle, recovering from her harrowing experience, said.

Dallas Man Robbed Of $2,300 In Cash And Checks Monday

DALLAS, Oct. 22. (AP)—Three masked men tonight robbed Max Glazer, president of a soft drink manufacturing plant, of $2,300 in cash and checks in a daring holdup on the edge of the downtown section.

Glazer, accomapnied by his wife and another woman relative, was en route to a night depository with the day's receipts when the trio forced his automobile to the curb.

Revenues Are Increased But Expenses Rise

Federal Spending For Past 114 Days Bounces Over The Two Billion Mark; Average Of $17,500,000 Daily

Emergency Blamed

More Than $140,000,000 Gain Over Collections For Last Year Is Accounted For By Liquor Taxes

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Federal spending for the past 114 days bounced over the two billion mark today—a daily average of above $17,500,000—but alongside this the treasury recorded a sharp increase in tax collections.

Internal revenues for the first quarter of the fiscal year were nearly one-third larger than the same period in 1933. Collections reached $804,878,165, exceeding last year's by $191,619,187, more than $140,000,000 of gain, however, was accounted for by liquor taxes available only since repeal and processing taxes which are ear-marked for re-payment to farmers.

Ahead Of August

September receipts aggregated $397,737,833, roughly $150,000,000 ahead of August because of quarterly income tax payments, and $60,752,204 larger than in 1933. Liquor and processing taxes also figured largely in the month's gain.

Heavy increases in income and capital stock tax receipts and a fair size gain in tobacco revenues were reported for the quarter. They were offset in part by a large decline in stock transfer taxes and smaller collections from excise levies, reflecting largely the dropping of the emergency one-half cent tax on gasoline last September.

Income taxes for the quarter were $215,809,559 as against $160,417,304 last year. The September figure of $171,176,917 compared with $22,924,081 in August and $134,342,919 in September 1933.

Liquor Revenues Up

Liquor revenues reached $109,387,567, although in the 1933 quarter they were only $51,623,882. Last year, more than 80 per cent of revenues came from beer, but with repeal bringing in heavy distilled spirits taxes the percentage shrank to approximately 60. The excise tax on distilled spirits accounted for $27,939,434 this year as against only $2,507,517 a year ago.

The month's total liquor collections were $31,997,606, a sharp decline from $38,566,380 in August due largely to a seasonal shrinkage in

Pacific Coast Is Counting Losses

(By The Associated Press)

Widely separated shores of the Pacific counted severe losses last night from hurricane, typhoon and heavy rains.

Seventeen persons were dead and much property was destroyed by a fierce gale that struck the Washington-Oregon coast. It then headed into California and two fliers were killed near Hayward when their plane crashed in a downpour.

Luzon, largest island of the Philippines, reported eleven dead and one missing in the typhoon which struck south of there Sunday. It was the fourth typhoon in recent weeks. Authorities estimated the four storms had killed 92 persons and made about 80,000 persons homeless.

Central Exposition Plans For Centennial Threatened

AUSTIN, Oct. 22. (AP)—Advocates of historical celebrations in the 1936 Texas centennial gave their ideas to a Texas senate sub-committee today while the house of representatives heard of a movement to abandon plans for a central exposition.

Representative Harold Kayton of San Antonio, one of the cities which unsuccessfully bid for the main exposition obtained by Dallas, revealed he had prepared a resolution to discard plans worked up by the Texas centennial commission during the summer.

Death Of Floyd Again Emphasizes Death Trail Of Bandits And Effectiveness Of Drives By Law

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Oct. 22 — The death of Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd today again emphasized the death trail of the desperadoes and the effectiveness of federal and police drives in the last year to eradicate gangdom.

At large remain only John Hamilton and George "Baby Face" Nelson of the imposing roster of nationally notorious public enemies.

Many Are Slain

John Dillinger, Hoosier hoodlum, slain here three months ago today.

Jack Klutas, collegiate gang leader affiliated with the Dillinger mob, slain Jan. 6.

Herbert Youngblood, negro criminal who escaped jail with Dillinger, slain at Port Huron, Mich., March 16.

Eugene Green, Dillinger Mobsman, fatally wounded in St. Paul April 11.

Carroll Pays With Life

Tommy Carroll, another of the Hoosier mob, shot to death at Waterloo, Ia., June 7.

Homer Van Meter, slain in St. Paul, Aug. 22.

Charles Makley, Dillinger mobsman, fatally wounded a few weeks ago in an attempt to escape the Ohio prison.

Markley's running mate, Harry Pierpont, was electrocuted in Ohio, Oct. 17.

In addition to death dealt out as a reward for crime, federal and police rounded the majority of other notorious gangs behind bars and two killed themselves.

Licensing Of Billiard And Pool Halls In Texas Asked

AUSTIN, Oct. 22 (AP) — Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson today submitted licensing pool and billiard halls to the Texas legislature. Public pool halls have been barred in Texas for many years.

A bill levying a license fee of $5 on each pool table was submitted with the message. Counties and cities could levy an additional $5 per table.

"Under the strict provisions of the bill innocent amusements would be provided and at the same time yield thousands of dollars in revenue which can be allocated to the public schools or to the centennial," the governor messaged the legislature.

MOTIONS STUDIED

WAXAHACHIE, Oct. 22 (AP)—Defense motions to delay the trial of C. B. Yarbrough of Belton, on trial for the third time in connection with the fatal burning of his foster daughter, Doris, 16, in Sept. 1932, were studied by Judge Tom Ball tonight.

Judge Ball said he would give a decision on a motion for continuance tomorrow.

Another Fight In Legislature Now In Offing

Senate Passes Bill Releasing Penalties And Interest On Delinquent Taxes; Date Is Set As Next Feb. 1

Conference Looms

Centennial Hearing Is On In Senate Committee As House Debates Tax Remission For Big Power Project

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Oct. 22.—Another fight between the senate and the house of the Texas legislature loomed tonight as the former passed a bill releasing penalties and interest on delinquent taxes until next Feb. 1.

The bill differed in several important respects, from one previously passed by the house and the differences probably will be adjusted in a conference committee. Adjustments in committee could be obviated if the house accepted senate changes, but likelihood of this was remote.

Debate River Bill

While the senate argued over delinquent taxes, the house debated the bill proposing to remit general revenue advalorem taxes in 10 counties along the Brazos river as a basis for a vast development project with federal aid.

A senate committee heard more delegations urge that permanent improvements at various historical spots be provided in the bill appropriating approximately $9,000,000 as state aid to the Texas centennial.

The bill remitting penalties and interest was passed by the senate, 18 to 7. While technically it was a house bill amended by the senate, actually it was the measure which the senate passed in the last special and which the house rejected. Parliamentary maneuvering substituted the text of a bill by Senator Ben G. Oneal of Wichita Falls for the house bill by W. E. Pope of Corpus Christi.

Provision Is Inserted

The provision which deadlocked the two legislative bodies in the last session, that making remission optional with cities and school districts, was inserted in the senate

Local Lions Are To Visit Matador

Lubbock Lions club is expected to send a large delegation tonight to Matador to attend a district 2-T meeting scheduled for groups 4 and 7. District Governor E. L. Pitts is to head the local delegation.

Group 7 is a new group and includes clubs at Matador, Paducah, Childress, Turkey and Quitaque. Matador was formerly in group 4, which includes now, Plainview, Brownfield, Lamesa, Dimmitt, Floydada, Littlefield and Lubbock.

The program begins at 7:30 in the Methodist church and the Lubbock party is leaving here about 5 o'clock. Final details for the trip will be announced at today's meeting, President John D. Mitchell said.

Four Hundred Teachers Hear Dr. H. B. Bruner In Address

Reasons necessitating revision of the curriculum taught in Texas schools were given by Dr. H. B. Bruner of Columbia university faculty, New York, in a lecture before about 400 public school teachers of this section assembled last night at Lubbock High school auditorium.

Factors pertaining, indirectly, to changes wanted if the curriculum is to be tuned with modern needs were presented by Dr. Bruner, whose appearance here was sponsored by Lubbock public schools and the education department of Texas Technological college.

Dr. Bruner was guest of honor at a get-together dinner yesterday evening at Hilton hotel attended by public school teachers and Texas Tech faculty members.

Outlaw Hit By 15 Slugs In A Final Dash For Freedom

"Who The Hell Tipped You?" He Demands; Clutches A Pistol But Does Not Fire; Oklahoma Phantom Trailed And Killed By The Man Who Got Dillinger; Gasps Only A Few Words

BY WILLIAM H. MYLANDER

(Copyright, 1934, By Associated Press)

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Oct. 22. — "Who the hell tipped you?" So died Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, the scourge of the Ozarks.

He was shot to death in a burst of fire from two machine guns, pistols and rifles, as he made his final effort to escape the relentless clutches of the law. The rays of a setting sun were falling upon the wooded Columbia county hill toward which Floyd started running to find a refuge when the volleys laid him low.

Fourteen bullets struck him in the back, and another in the side, as he fled. He died in 15 minutes.

An automatic pistol with its safety catch released was in the hand of the No. 1 public enemy when he fell, but it had not been fired. Another pistol with a full magazine was found in an inside shoulder holster.

A few moments before Floyd was shot down, Stewart Dyke, a brother of Mrs. Ellen Conkle, owner of the farm, had refused to drive Floyd to Youngstown, where the fugitive hoped to find safety in a more populous section.

Here's How Floyd Got Name Of "Pretty Boy" As He Launched Career

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 22 (AP) Here's how Charles Arthur Floyd, sinister desperado, came by the inocuous sobriquet of "Pretty Boy," as told in his native eastern Oklahoma hills.

After launching his spectacular career of outlawry in St. Louis, Floyd returned to Sallisaw, where the hill folk, impressed by his pocket comb and careful pompadour — "slick as axle grease" — dubbed him "Pretty Boy."

The name stuck, and became synonymous with machine gun banditry and Robin Hood generosity with the hill farmers who gave him refuge from "the law."

"I'll not take you there tonight, I'm going home," Dyke said he told Floyd.

Dyke asserted, however, that he had promised to take him to Clarkson, a nearby village.

"I backed up the car, Floyd was in the rear seat. Mrs. Dyke was in the front seat with me. I saw the two automobile loads of officers before Floyd saw them and wondered who they were. When Floyd saw them his face paled and he ordered me to drive back of the corn crib.

Crawls Under Crib

"After I backed up he said, 'get going!' and called me a nasty name. He pulled out his gun and jumped out of the car then crawled under the corn crib. An instant later he darted out and came toward the car. Then he started across a pasture.

"When he was about 500 feet away, the officers started shooting. First he fell on his face, rolled over on his back, and then on his stomach. He got up on his knees and then fell down again.

"By that time the officers reached him and put handcuffs on him."

Says Only A Few Words

Floyd, the slick-haired phantom of the Ozarks, was able to say only a few words before he expired.

Melvin Purvis, head of the Chicago office of the U. S. Division of investigation, immediately questioned Floyd concerning the machine gun massacre of five men at the Kansas City union station in June 1933, but to his dying breath, Floyd refused to admit participation in that crime. "He wouldn't admit it," Purvis said.

Just before his death, the desperado admitted his identity to the department of justice officer. "I am Floyd," he said, and it was apparent he knew that death was near.

A moment before, "Where is Eddie?" Floyd asked the officers. (Apparently he referred to Adam Richetti, captured Saturday near Wellsville, O., when he and Floyd engaged a posse in a gun fight.)

"You Got Me Twice"

Floyd apparently only knew two bullets had hit him. "You got me

Amarillo Man Kidnap Victim

C. E. Lemaster Declares That He Was Forced To Drive Men 325 Miles To Oklahoma; Robbed Of $2

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Oct. 22.—C. E. Lemaster, Amarillo grocer, reported today that he was kidnaped and robbed by two men Sunday morning and forced to drive his abductors 325 miles to Meeker, Okla.

Lemaster said that as he was driving through an underpass in the city limits an armed man leaped on his car and ordered him to turn around. As he drove back through the underpass, a second man joined them, and the two ordered Lemaster to drive east on highway 66.

Robbed Of $2

Lemaster reported to officers here that the men robbed him of about $2 just outside the city limits. He said he had a "considerable sum of money" the robbers failed to find.

The abductors did not threaten Lemaster. He said that when they reached the outskirts of Meeker, the men ordered him to turn around and get away, as they prepared to get in an approaching car.

Lemaster said he reported the incident to an officer near Meeker and to Oklahoma City officers. He described one of the men as heavyset with sandy hair, and a deep scar on the left cheek, and the other as a tall, dark-complexioned man.

Brother Of Local Residents Is Claimed By Death Monday

Funeral services of L. A. Eubanks, a brother of A. M. Eubanks and Miss Phyllis Eubanks of Lubbock, will be conducted at Caddo cemetery at 3:30 p. m. today.

L. A. Eubanks was injured fatally in an explosion at a Breckenridge refinery last week. Burial will be directed by the Masonic lodge.

The Breckenridge man died at 8:45 a. m. Monday. An uncle, Sam T. Davis, also lives here.

Lamesa Man Slain In Waco Shooting

WACO, Oct. 22 (AP) — Bailey Whitley of Lamesa, was killed late today on the Holloway ranch, east of here, and Fagan Parker, ranch foreman, was charged with the slaying and placed under a $2,000 bond.

Officers said Whitley drove to the ranch house, got out of his car and walked 500 yards to where Parker was busy working in a clump of mesquite trees. The shooting followed.

Parker surrendered to Sheriff W. B. Mobley.

Large Number Of Women Attend WMS Meetings Monday Afternoon

The Woman's Angle

BY MARGARET TURNER

RUTH BRYAN OWEN laughs when her friends ask her what "uncivilized Greenland" is like and asks them in turn what is their meaning of the word "uncivilized." Two months spent in those tiny Eskimo villages last summer gave her an impression of a folk whom she is beginning to think of as highly civilized.

There's the matter of the crime problem. Recently one of the largest papers in the United States sponsored a conference in New York City devoted mainly to discussions of the cause and cure of crime. We know that our criminal element presents a confusing problem throughout our land. But think of the Eskimos. Their governor, who has been there for 22 years, said that not once has there been a murder. Last year there were three thefts. Divorce is an unheard of thing. Their life is simple, far removed from the complexities of the machine age.

SAVE YOUR PITY

DON'T lose any time or sleep in feeling sorry for the poor Eskimos, suggests Mrs. Owen. Our modern ways seem funny to them. Mrs. Owen gave a picture show party aboard Uncle Sam's coast guard cutter for a village of Greenlanders. Until that time they had never seen a picture of a horse, of a tree or of a mouse. Mickey Mouse set them into peals of laughter and the coffee and ship biscuits were almost too much to be enjoyed in one short day.

At one town the "king" and his court entertained for our lovely minister and she ate pressed cheese and dipped her cup in a huge bowl of milk placed in the center of the table. We are sure that Mrs. Owen enjoyed that entertainment as much as the day that she spent in the White House as the guest of President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

A LOVELY LADY

SATURDAY evening Mrs. Owen sat at a small dinner party and conversed about her trip to Greenland, the gifts of the Eskimos, her god daughter in that icy country, related incidents in her father's life and listened attentively to the little incidental happenings that group thought of from time to time.

No description in words is adequate. She is a forty-nine year old woman but her complexion is that of a college girl, without make-up. Her beautifully shaped mouth is faintly outlined with rouge. Her dark eyebrows are naturally arched and her hair, although bobbed, is pinned back from her classic face. Her hair is gray rather than the white that you read of in so many articles.

Saturday night Mrs. Owen wore a strand of pearls and her only other jewelry, in addition to a baguette wrist watch, were ear drops and a ring made by the Eskimos. Her graceful hands are those of an artist and her nails are tinted with natural polish. Her voice is melodious, with the deepest feminine range.

SHE SPOKE FOR HERSELF

SOMEONE commented on her aid in speaking campaigns for her father. She smiled and suggested that later campaigns had been for her own candidacy to office. She and her secretary went hundreds of miles in Florida when Mrs. Owen was making the race for congressman.

This lovely woman, who is doing her best to present the real America to the Danes, is great in her simplicity. She presented us with a gorgeous red dahlia, "because it matches your dress and doesn't go with our black." She consented after her lecture to greet the hundreds of students and town people who clamored for an introduction. You knew that it was not a pose—the Great Commoner would truly be proud of his daughter. Still it is unlikely that even in his fondest dreams he imagined that one day Ruth Bryan Owen would be the first woman minister to represent the United States.

Matronly Dress Comes In Sizes To 48

Contrasting Materials Used In Today's Pattern; Sleeve Arrangement Is Of Interest

Canton crepe in rich dark green and gold metal threaded green crepe combined to make this model the charming wearable dress it is.

The clever cut of the sleeves are of much interest—smart, easy to wear, and easy to make. It is given a slim waistline effect through pin tucks that make it "fitting" and a flat hip area through the curved seaming of the length-giving panels.

Another very modish scheme is to carry it out all in one fabric as monk brown woolen, line checked in gold.

Style No. 3446 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust. Size 36 required 2 1-2 yards of 39-inch material with 1 1-4 yards of 39-inch contrasting.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in stamps or coin (coin is preferred) for pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. Be sure to state size you wish.

Let the latest fall and winter book of fashions solve your clothes problems at a minimum of cost and effort. It tells you how to make a smart coat as easily as a simple dress. There are clothes for elaborate occasions as well as many smart trim designs for general wear. You will enjoy reading about your favorite screen stars. You simply mustn't miss this issue.

Red River Bridge Company Fails To Recover Damages

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—The Red River Bridge company of Texas failed today in the supreme court in an effort to recover damages claimed to have been caused by construction of a free bridge from Colbert, Okla., to Denison, Texas.

The bridge controversy between the two states resulted in the establishment of martial law in that section by Gov. W. H. Murray of Oklahoma in July 1931.

Murray sought to open the free bridge to traffic. He withdrew in the face of a federal injunction against interference.

The supreme court refused to review a decision by the tenth circuit court of appeals refusing damages. Its decision stands. The suit was brought by J. R. Handy, receiver of the bridge company.

Exclusive of the value of products used on the farm, estimated farm income in this country for the period ended May 1, 1934, was $5,530,000,000 as compared with $3,979,000,000 for the preceding year.

Bloody Trail Of Crime Left By Floyd In Last Four Years

At Least Seven Murders Are Charged To Phantom Bandit Of Oklahoma; Bank Robberies Were His Dish

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 22 (AP)—A bloody trail of murders, bank robberies and kidnapings was left throughout the southwest during the last four years by Oklahoma's phantom bandit, Charles Arthur (Pretty Boy) Floyd.

The most notorious outlaw Oklahoma has known since the days of Al Jennings and the Dalton brothers, the elusive Floyd sneered at frantic efforts of officers who charged him with a list of crimes staggering enough to awe the most fearsome bad man of the roaring days.

Seven Murders Charged

At least seven murders—six of the victims officers—and more than a score of bank robberies and kidnapings have been laid at the door of the swaggering desperado.

For two years after he returned to Oklahoma in 1930 following an escape from Ohio police who wanted him for murder, Floyd and his tall lieutenant, George Birdwell, staged so many bank robberies and kidnapings that Oklahoma insurance rates became the highest in the nation.

Floyd and Birdwell repeatedly wriggled through the lines of the law to reach carefully hidden hideouts in the mountains of western Arkansas and eastern Oklahoma or in the Seminole oil fields.

Birdwell Is Killed

Floyd's activities slowed, however, after Birdwell was killed in an attempted bank robbery in the negro village of Boley, Okla., two years ago. Floyd did not take part in that foray.

Throughout eastern Oklahoma and at Sallisaw where he was born, Floyd reputedly was known to some as a "Robin Hood" who gave his loot to indigent hill people, who in turn, gave him shelter.

Driving a fast automobile Floyd would drive up to the door of a bank. Leaving Birdwell manning a machine gun in the car, he would compel bankers and customers to lie on the floor, obtain all cash in sight and kidnaping the banker would flee. The banker would be released unharmed at the outskirts of the town.

Laughed At Death

Officers have fired point blank at Floyd during their running gun battles, but he has only laughed and sped by them. This led the authorities to believe the outlaw wore a bullet-proof vest.

One of his last bank robberies in Oklahoma was in his home town of Sallisaw about a year and a half ago.

Floyd began his career of crime in St. Louis in 1925 when he was sentenced to five years imprisonment for highway robbery. In 1930 when Harland F. Manes, Ohio policeman was killed, the authorities arrested Floyd and Bert Walker, later electrocuted for the murder.

Unable to obtain sufficient evidence, the officers turned Floyd over to Sylvania, Ohio, police. He escaped jail, was recaptured, sentenced to from 10 to 25 years but escaped by leaping from a train.

Ring Lost 28 Years Ago Recovered From The Stomach Of Fish

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—A ring found in the stomach of a cod fish by a Boston fisherman last week was claimed today by the Rev. E. T. Drake, of the First Presbyterian church of Orange, Texas, as one lost by him while swimming at Corpus Christi, Texas, 28 years ago.

The minister read of the finding of the ring in a Gloucester newspaper and communicated with police authorities in Boston. The ring bore the inscription, "Pat D." the abbreviation of his mother's name, Patricia Drake. One of Boston's crack sleuths was immediately assigned to recover the ring and hold it for further identification.

Fishermen along the water front, however, were debating the possibility of the cod fish being 28 years old, although many have been known to live more than 30 years, they said. Besides, they said, it's a long swim from the Gulf of Mexico to the fishing grounds.

Assurance That Tech Band Will Make Trip Is Given

Assurance that Texas Technological college band will make a trip by special train to the Matador-Loyola university football game at Los Angeles was made by the student body at a convocation Monday morning.

By popular vote undergraduates voted to allot 25 cents of their breakage deposits to a fund, $320 of which is to be given the band to make the trip, and the remainder to be given the college student association for financing impending events such as the annual homecoming. With each of Tech's more than 2,400 students contributing, the total fund will amount to approximately $600.

The band is to receive new uniforms today.

Leon Ince, student president, was in charge of the student election.

The well is 13 miles northeast of here and about 17 miles southeast of Seminole.

Marland Asks Quick Action

Representative From Oklahoma Tells President That Curb Must Be Applied Immediately Or Prices Will Fall

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 22. (AP)—Rep. E. W. Marland, Democratic nominee for governor of Oklahoma, telephoned an urgent appeal to President Roosevelt today to put an immediate clamp on alleged "hot" oil shipments from the East Texas field.

After talking with the president, Marland appeared optimistic over prospects for early action and said he urged the president to announce today the governments plans for stopping the flow of illegally-produced crude.

Warning Is Given

"I can tell you what I said but of course I am not at liberty to repeat what the president said to me," Marland said.

"I warned Mr. Roosevelt that business in general, and the state's revenues, will suffer from a slash in crude prices threatened as a result of East Texas shipments."

Marland said he recommended that the president use provisions of the national industrial recovery act empowering the interstate commerce commission to halt interstate shipments of "hot" oil and told the president:

Prices To Topple

"This misconduct of overproductions—this production of illegal oil—is only possible when some pipeline company buys the oil.

"Unless the curb is applied soon, the $1 a barrel price structure in Oklahoma will topple.

"If you'll issue a statement today that you'll immediately exercise the power to initiate proceedings before the interstate commerce commission, it will cut overproduction.

"Oklahoma producers have played fair with the national administration. They've lived up to the allowables fixed by the federal government and should not be punished for the misconduct of the East Texas operators."

DO YOU GET UP NIGHTS?
Are You Over 40?

If so, nature is warning you of danger ahead. Get rid of your trouble early. Make this 25c test. Get Juniper oil, Buchu leaves, etc., in green tablets. Ask for BUKETS, the bladder laxative. Take 12 of them in four days; if not pleased go back and get your money. BUKETS work on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. Organization Of Classes Will Be Effected Tonight

Sufficient requests for four college courses to justify organization of classes of the extension department of Texas Tech have been received, J. F. McDonald, director, announced, in stating classes would meet tonight for organization in room 209 of the administration building. Hour of the meeting is 7 p. m.

Classes will be organized in freshmen subjects as follows, chemistry, English and geology and also in advanced American history.

"There are a number of high school students here in Lubbock who are employed during the day and who could take these subjects at night," Mr. McDonald said. "By doing so, they could have a very good start on their freshman year and by further study, say during the summer term, they could make up their freshman year's work.

"Enough work may be taken in these night courses to cover up to about three fifths of their freshman year. We welcome all students who want to take these courses for college credit."

Cost per subject is $15 enrollment fee per course, for a three semester hour.

Three Assistant Teachers Assigned To Ralls School

RALLS, Oct. 22. (Special)—Under the Texas emergency education program, three teachers have been assigned as assistants to the vocational teachers in the Ralls High school, said Superintendent J. M. Rankin.

J. Wiley Holmes is assistant to the teacher of vocational agriculture and Misses Wilma and Wilda Spikes are aides to the teacher of vocational home economics.

The Misses Spikes are graduates of Texas Technological college and Mr. Holmes was a member of the Ralls state champion dairy judging team in 1930, of the freshman field crop and livestock judging team at A. & M. college in 1931-32 and of the sophomore dairy judging team at that college in 1933-34.

Man Jailed In Son's Slaying

Real Estate Man Is Charged After Arrest; Stepson Was Found Burned To Death In Car Last July 13

WEST PLAINS, Mo., Oct. 22. (AP)—R. E. Edwards, Thayer, Mo., real estate man, was jailed here today on a charge of slaying his stepson Oscar Bushart, 27, found burned to death in a motor car last July 13.

The charge was filed today at Alton, Mo., county seat of Oregon county, following the arrest of Edwards last night by Sergeant Nathan M. Massie of the Missouri highway police.

Massie said he was convinced that Edwards killed his stepson with a hammer, placed the body in a motor car owned by the slayer, and set fire to the machine on a country road northeast of Thayer.

The younger man had $4,000 insurance on his life, payable to his mother, Edwards' wife, which carried a double indemnity clause in case Bushart was killed in an accident. The insurance furnished the motive for the slaying, the highway patrol officer believes.

Edwards was said to have moved to Thayer several years ago from Pocahontas, Ark., and formerly lived in Texas.

Final Plans Made For Special Train To Leave For Coast Early Tomorrow

Matadors Show Hustle, Speed In Hard Drill

One Day Of Practice On Home Field Left For Matadors Before Meeting Loyola Friday Night In Los Angeles

The Texas Tech Matadors, fairly popping with enthusiasm and energy, clicked of a fast, hard workout yesterday in their next to last home drill before heading for California and one of their hardest games of the season.

Although tired out from the long round trip automobile ride to Tucson, Arizona, Coaches Pete Cawthon and Dutchy Smith were working as hard as anybody on the field yesterday. Flush with dope relating to Loyola university football attack and defense, against which the Matadors will be pitted come Friday night, the Tech mentors began to distribute hints and specifications with little delay.

THE PASSENGER LIST

The following persons last night had reserved tickets for the special train leaving here tomorrow for Los Angeles and the Tech-Loyola football game, the list announced by Santa Fe officials:

Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Overton, Dr. J. H. Stiles, Mr. and Mrs. Olen Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Sam West, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Dalby, Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Williamson, Allen Hill, Don Jones, Prof. and Mrs. J. N. Michie, A. M. Jones, Mrs. P. W. Cawthon, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Davis, Carl Patton, Mrs. J. Milton Jones, Mrs. R. O. Harvey, Joe Clayton, all of Lubbock.

Out of town reservations are held for Arch Underwood of Athens, Jinx Tucker, Waco Sports editor; Bill Parker, Associated Press, Dallas; Dick Fields of Hale Center, Miss Thelma Palmer of O'Donnell and H. S. Hilburn of Plainview.

Fans planning to ride the special are urged to make Pullman reservations early this morning in order to get in on the reduced rate. Unless reserved early today, the Pullman price will be more than twice the announced amount, as an additional car must be ordered. Spaces reserved after today may not be occupied during the stay in Los Angeles, railroad officials said.

Coaches See Game

Loyola defeated University of Arizona, Tech's Thanksgiving day foe, 6 to 0 Saturday night at Tucson. Cawthon and Smith were perhaps the most interested spectators in the stands. Beginning yesterday and continuing on the field today and on the train tomorrow they are dishing out detailed information regarding just what makes the Lions of Loyola go.

While they would not underrate the Arizona Wildcats, Tech coaches estimate that Loyola should have defeated Arizona by a couple or three touchdowns instead of one. In other words, Loyola is that much stronger, "but Arizona is one of the most improved ball clubs I ever saw," asserted Coach Cawthon. "We will have our hands full in both games, and we'll be lucky to hold Loyola to three or four touchdowns.

Even discounting Cawthon's natural attitude toward optimism, the Tech-Loyola game looms as one of the most difficult, if not THE most difficult, on the Matador schedule.

"Will Be A Ball Game"

"If we play football like we're capable," Cawthon said, "that will be a ball game you wont' forget for a long time.

"Those Lions are out of our class. We're stepping into fast company sure enough," continued Cawthon, "when we meet those big, rough boys.

"Talk about our team being rough, you oughta see that Loyola bunch. Now they really do tackle and block hard and rough. They make teams down in this section look like sissies. But they play a clean game. There were no penalties for unnecessary roughing."

With the special train definitely assured and ordered, Lubbock and Texas fans may rush the Santa Fe agency today for tickets, the round trip variety via special going at $35 each, and this price includes cost of a reserved seat ticket to the ball game at Gilmore Stadium Friday night.

Matadors Encouraged

The Matadors display an added burst of energy upon learning definitely that the train would run. They seem highly encouraged that a number of fans and the Tech band are going along. "The more the merrier," a spokesman for the club said. "We'll play all the harder with a little rooting going on for us."

The special train, carrying football players, the band boys and fans, is scheduled to pull out from the Santa Fe station here at 8 o'clock in the morning. The first stop will be at Clovis where a fresh and bigger engine will be attached. A brief stop for lunch at noon, probably at Vaughn, N. M., a longer stop at Gallup, N. M., where the Matadors will work out, then the all night ride to Los Angeles will wind the going trip up at 8 o'clock, Pacific time, Thursday morning.

Three full days will be allowed in Los Angeles, the return trip starting at midnight Saturday and ending early Monday morning.

Lubbock Motor Poloists Are National Champions

Redshirts Win Over Philadelphia By 9 To 7 Score

(Special To The Avalanche)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22 — The 1934 national motorcycle polo championship was officially awarded to a hard-riding, fast-breaking bunch of lads from Texas, after they had overridden the Philadelphia Quakers, champions of the east, 9 to 7, on a local field.

The Redshirts from Lubbock had to go an extra period to beat the Quakers in the game designated by the American Motorcycle association as for the national title. After the regular four chukkers had been played, the score was five-all. But the Texans had come so far and the game so important that officials ordered another period.

Champlin Scores Twice

Captain Stewart Champlin immediately flashed into new and bitter action, booted two goals for four points and the Redshirt defense worked brilliantly to stave off a determined Quaker threat, to win the game. Philadelphia registered two points in the final period and threatened several other times, but Lubbock's active goalie prevented further scoring.

Dugan Wheeler and Otto Flynn scored the other points for Lubbock, one in the second period, after a scoreless first, two in the third and two in the fourth.

The Quakers took the lead in the second chukker with a field goal and a free kick for three points, and scored another field goal in the third. They were held scoreless in the fourth period, but Lubbock's single field goal was not sufficient to win.

Texans' Hardest Game

The Texans fought like tigers from start to finish. They found a ready bunch of hard hitters in the Quakers, and contended after the game that it undoubtedly was the hardest they had played in three years of competition. They won only after a consistent battle, which sparkled at times with brilliant team work.

Although it was a rough, hard game, nobody was injured. In addition to Flynn, Wheeler and Champlin, other Lubbock players, who earned the right to play in the national championship, were Wade Anthony, Bus Adams and Robert Howard.

The Texans leave for home Tuesday. They intend to spend today resting and packing their machines for the long trek to Lubbock.

Right-Handed Swingers Best Against Southpaw Hurlers?

DETROIT (AP)—Here's a little ammunition for those baseball fans who espouse the theory that right-handed hitters have better success against left-handed pitchers than batters who swing from the south side of the plate, and vice versa:

In a game here which the Tigers won from the Washington Senators, 4 to 3, Detroit made eight hits off the southpaw slants of Wally Stewart—and seven of the eight blows were struck by right-handed swingers. Greenberg, Owen and Rogell got two apiece and Fox one.

Charley Gehringer was the only Detroiter who nicked Stewart while swinging from the first-base side.

McShain Takes On Detton For Feature Event

Rowdy Irishman Back In Circuit Again; New Faces To Appear In Semi-Final Here Wednesday Night

Two newcomers to the Southwestern wrestling circuit will be introduced from the Auditorium ring tomorrow night in Sled Allen's regular weekly grappling show.

Said to be fast and furious mat men, Art Perkins, from Detroit, and Sam George, from Corpus Christi, Texas, meet in a one-fall, 30-minute limit match as the semi-final on tomorrow night's card.

Danny McShain, Seattle Irish boy, returns to the local mat after a short absence. McShain meets Dory Detton in the main event Wednesday night.

Detton and McShain met once before in an indecisive 30-minute bout at Amarillo. It was the night after Dorry had been thrown from the ring here across a chair. So he wasn't feeling so well.

Buddy Edwards, Nebraska, whose chief claim to fame now is his kinship to mat-villain Billy Edwards, will attempt to exhibit his mat brilliance upon the person of Pat Dowdy in the prelim.

Forty-Six Teams Still Undefeated

NEW YORK, Oct. 22 (AP) — With last Saturday's results all accounted for, Holy Cross and University of North Dakota are setting the pace for the nation's unbeaten and untied football teams.

An Associated Press compilation shows nearly 50 teams still boasting perfect records despite the upset results of a topsy-turvy season. Holy Cross and North Dakota head the parade by virtue of five victories apiece.

Fifteen Blank Foes

The University of New Mexico, sets the scoring pace for this group with 148 points in four games. Fifteen teams on the list have blanked the combined opposition.

Bridge Lesson Taught Scot His Golf Wasn't So Bad

NEW YORK (AP)—The game of bridge has been credited and charged with many things, but the responsibility for winning a golf championship has never been laid on its table — at least not until Tommy Armour, the Silver Scot, won the Canadian open.

Armour was soured of his own golfing ability after being eliminated from the P. G. A. tournament at Buffalo. He booked passage to Chicago, then got in a bridge game to pass the hours until train time.

It took several hours, at several dollars an hour, to convince Tommy that he's no bridge player. By comparison, he concluded his golf game wasn't so bad. Meantime his train was well along toward Chicago.

So up he went to Canada, and back he came with the title.

Southwest Conference Teams Prepare For Important Scraps Next Saturday

Owls Hope Hilliard Will Be Ready To Go In Big Game

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Oct. 22. — Behind barred gates the Rice Owls, only unbeaten eleven in the Southwest conference, today started making medicine which they trust will turn the University of Texas Longhorn into a docile animal here Saturday.

Coach Jimmy Kitts' gridders hope that Bohn Hilliard, the Steers' great running back, will be able to perform. They believe they can turn back the invaders regardless of whether Hilliard plays and they want the satisfaction of beating the Texas combination that conquered Notre Dame.

Barring scrimmage injuries, Rice will be in tip top physical shape for the Longhorns. Buck Friedman, halfback who suffered an injured knee in the Southern Methodist game and didn't make the trip to Creighton, will be ready. He is an Austin boy and is anxious to tear into the squad from his home city.

Choice Rucker Added To Porker Injury List

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Choice Rucker, Arkansas regular half back, was added to the Razorback's injury list here today when he failed to report for practice because of a "knocked down" shoulder received in the Louisiana State game Saturday.

With Rucker out, Coach Fred Thomsen ordered a letup in practice until tomorrow, when the Porkers will plow into the freshmen in a scrimmage session. Failure of the Arkansas offense to function in the last half of the Tiger fray caused Coach Thomsen to turn his attention to that department today.

Aggies Prime For Go At Waco With Ruins

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 22. (AP)—Still hopeful despite three straight setbacks, the Texas Aggies went back to work with vigor today in preparation for the game with Baylor at Waco Saturday.

Since no injuries were reported after the T. C. U. game, the Cadets probably will be lacking only Wilbert Randow and Jack Roach, center and halfback, from the lineup for the Bruin tilt. Those two, injured in the Centenary game, probably will not see action.

John and Marion Crow, first string guards from Milford, missed the workout today because they were called home by the death of their grandmother.

The Aggies first worked offensively against the freshmen to improve their attack, and then took the defense against the "B" team which used Baylor formations.

Darrell Lester May Be Lost To Horned Frogs

FORT WORTH, Oct. 22. c—Darrel Lester, 215 pound all-conference T.C.U. center from Jacksboro probably will be lost to the Frogs for Saturday's game with the Centenary Gents at Shreveport. An examination by physicians today disclosed that he suffered a torn cartilage in his chest during the battle with the Texas Aggies.

He was advised by physicians not to play any more than necessary Saturday.

That Coach Meyer has no intention of using Lester Saturday was indicated in this afternoon's workout when he shifted Mancel (Tiny) Godwin from left tackle to center. Godwin played center during his high school days at Hot Springs, Ark., being shifted to tackle upon his entrance into T.C.U.

The injury to Lester means a starting berth for Heard Floore at center.

Plan To Attend Football Party At Auditorium; Play-By-Play Account Tech-Loyola Game To Be Announced

If you are not among those who plan to ride the special train or some other vehicle to Los Angeles for the Texas Tech-Loyola university football game Friday night, make your plans to attend the Avalanche-Journal-Auditorium football party where a first class play-by-play report of the game will be announced over a public address system.

It is possible for local and South Plains fans to attend the Lubbock-Sweetwater high school game at Texas Tech Field Friday night and then hear all of the Texas Tech-Loyola game. The local contest starts at 8 o'clock Friday night. The Los Angeles game starts at 8 o'clock, also, but 8 o'clock in Los Angeles is 10 o'clock here, by which time the Lubbock game should be over.

The Plainsman, Lubbock editor and columnist, will be master of ceremonies at the football party, announcing the play-by-play report as it comes over a special leased wire direct from Gilmore Stadium press box to the Auditorium.

An orchestra will be present to play for dancing for those who wish it before the broadcast starts, at the intermission between halves and for an hour after the game is over. Bleacher seats will be provided during the announcing.

BOWLING SCORES

Opening the Lubbock bowling league season with a loud clatter of pins, the West Texas Gas company club, winners last year, trounced the Myrick building team, 2730 to 2299 last night at the Lubbock Club alleys.

L. W. Bell, outstanding performer of the 1933 season, crashed through with individual honors in the first match last night, rolling scores of 212, 204 and 245 for a total of 661, or an average of better than 220. Chas A. Begey, another prominent player of last season, showed old time form to take runner up honors with a three-game total of 605 pins.

Pierce was high scorer for the Myrick building team with 521 pins. The gas company quintet won all points of last night's matches, winning each game and running the high total.

The schedule continues tonight with Hilton Hotel playing Doak's Barbers, the latter replacing City Hall in the league membership. On Wednesday night, Abernathy's entry in the league meets the North Siders of Lubbock.

Negro Confesses To Slaying Child

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 22. (AP)—Deputy Sheriff Marion Anderson said today that J. C. Cox, 19 negro, had confessed after an all-night inquiry that he killed eight-year old Bernice Hoffman at a tourist camp here last August 2.

The child was killed when her father, R. J. Hoffman, of Beaumont, Tex., said he sought to prevent a would-be robber from entering his cabin.

Hoffman said a young negro flashing a light, came to his cabin and peered in. Awakening, Hoffman said he asked the negro what his mission was and was told he was a night watchman. The negro then asked Hoffman to hand him a pair of trousers on a chair and when he found no money in them shot. The bullet struck the sleeping child in the head, killing her instantly.

A negro suspect was arrested soon after the slaying, but was released.

Sweetwater Is Next Opponent For High Team

Westerners Rest Yesterday And Today; Dope Indicates Easy Time Friday Night Here But Anything May Happen

The Westerners rested yesterday. They'll rest again today, having earned a short respite from hard practice by showing up so well against Abilene last week-end.

The first workout in preparation for the game with Sweetwater here Friday night is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

Powerful last year, the Mustangs, according to rough calculations arrived at by the comparative score route, will be only a breather for the Westerners this season. The Abilene Eagles soundly licked the Sweetwater outfit early in the season by a 34 to 0 count. Last week the Mustangs succumbed 19 to 0 to Big Spring.

Lubbock Seeks Revenge

So the forthcoming contest looks to be an easy one for Lubbock, but nevertheless it will not be without its significance.

Last season Sweetwater defeated Lubbock, 6 to 0. Lubbock should want revenge for that. But in the course of the game the Westerners damaged a trio of Sweetwaters' outstanding men, and in fact practically wrecked what would probably have been a set of district champions. So Sweetwater, Friday night, should have a bone to pick about that.

If Charles Calhoun and Robert Allen Hill round into shape this week, Coach Chapman can send a more potent array on Matador Field Friday than he did last week against Abilene. Both Calhoun and Hill played against the Eagles but both were suffering with bruises and protesting muscles.

University of California's contract to journey to Hawaii for football games on Christmas Day and New Years contains a clause abrogating the agreement if the Golden Bears win the Pacific Coast conference championship or are chosen to play in the Rose bowl game at Pasadena.

Western Maryland Halfback Leads The Nation's Football Scorers Thus Far

(By The Associated Press)

A new football scoring leader was nominated Saturday following the weekend games, an eastern team this time furnishing the nation's highest scorer so far.

Leading the way as his team smashed out a 40-0 victory over Boston college on Saturday, Bill Shepherd, Western Maryland halfback, scored 21 points and boosted his total for the season to 57. His closest rival is Jay Berwanger, Chicago's great halfback, who has scored 41 points.

The following compilation shows the leading scorer in each of the nation's major conference or groups:

District and player—	Pos.	G	Td.	PAT	Fld	T'l
East—Shepherd, Western Maryland	HB	3	8	9	0	57
Big Ten—Berwanger, Chicago	HB	3	6	5	0	41
Big Six—Neal, Iowa State	QB	4	6	0	0	36
Southeastern—Brown, Florida	QB	4	6	0	0	36

It's easier to get work if you have a telephone

Housekeepers by-the-day, janitors, laborers, railroad men, professional dancers, maintenance men, all tell the same story.

Housekeeper

Janitor

Laborer

Railroad man

Dancer

Maintenance man

Most of the people who are having their telephones installed again . . . after being without a telephone for sometime . . . tell us: "It's easier to get work if you have a telephone".

The majority are men and women in search of a job. Some are part-time workers. Housekeepers by-the-day, janitors, laborers, railroad men, professional dancers, maintenance men, all tell the same story. A telephone at home makes them available, makes them easy to reach. And they tell us, too, that the difference to them is one of dollars and cents. In other words, it pays them to have a telephone.

Question: Would it perhaps pay you to have your telephone put back? Think it over.

A Distasteful Situation

FROM time to time The Morning Avalanche has expressed its distaste—and we believe the distaste is shared by many readers—of members of the President's official and unofficial families using their positions in a commercialized way.

We are of the opinion that members of the President's family should conduct themselves with dignity and decorum and not attempt to wring silver from any connection they may have with the man chosen by the people as their chief executive.

And we further think that governmental officials, who are paid to be governmental officials, should not be permitted to run around the country making lecture and chatauqua appearances for money all the while they are drawing salaries from Uncle Sam for doing something else.

In this belief we are joined by The Sherman Democrat, which pointedly comments about the latest New Dealer to take the stump—Madame Secretary Perkins—while holding the secretaryship of labor. Says The Democrat:

"The Fort Worth Star-Telegram appears to be entirely justified in its severe condemnation of Mrs. Perkins, the secretary of labor, for commercializing her lecture tour. As a member of the President's cabinet she receives a salary that should be sufficient, ample for her time and services. The Fort Worth editor declares that this lecture tour for money 'suggests again that Mrs. Perkins' special talent rather fits her for some other line of work than heading the labor department at a time when that department has perhaps more social workers, statisticians and chautauqua speakers than it needs.'

"Recently at Tulsa the secretary must have been embarrassed beyond words when federal relief "clients" picketed and blocked the box office. And The Star-Telegram found the incident 'somewhat embarassing to Americans in general to be thus rudely reminded that a member of the cabinet, one who desires to be thought of as among the foremost of the group advocating sacrifice and abnegation by all for the general welfare, is apparently so little content with the emolument embraced in a cabinet member's salary check that she must absent herself from Washington and travel about the country making personal appearances at so much per head.'

"It is part of her job, of course, to assist in the work of keeping the public informed of what is going on in Washington. But to capitalize commercially on that task is to be condemned in no uncertain terms. Were she not the labor secretary no doubt she could not even get the $450 guarantee much less an audience sufficient to pay her expenses. She is using the prestige and attraction of her office to attract box office receipts.

"Her chautauqua tour is certainly beneath the dignity of her office, if it is for personal gain. If she is on government business, then there should be no charge for admission."

In our opinion, The Democrat's remarks fit not only Miss Perkins but any other official who may be doing the same thing, as well as to those members of the President's personal family who are forever and a day writing for newspaper and magazines or orating over the radio.

If what the various candidates are saying about each other is true, there is no future for this country regardless of who is elected.

It is to be noted that the New Deal campaign handbook contains no contribution from Senator Glass.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this Book, if any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this Book:

And if any man shall take away from the words of the Book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the Book of Life, and out of the Holy City, and from the things which are written in this Book.

He which testifieth these things saith, Surely I come quickly: Amen. Even so, come, Lord Jesus.

The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen. — Revelations, 22: 18-21.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

HERE'S an angle on the Republican charge that federal relief is a form of political first aid to the New Deal. All signs point to an abnormal increase in use of the franchise next month and again in 1936—as a direct result of the federal relief system.

Woman suffrage helped jump the presidential vote from 18,500,000 in 1916 to 39,700,000 in 1932—an increase of over 21,000,000 in a 16-year period during which the total population was increasing only about 25,000,000.

Right now a great many people who never thought much about the ballot box before are being made decidedly vote-conscious by relief authorities. Their number cannot be estimated in advance but it will run into important figures.

Proof of permanent residence is a primary factor in obtaining government aid. The easiest way to provide it in many communities is for the needy one to show he is a registered voter. A number of state and city relief administrations ask first for such evidence. Permanency is a factor to keep any given community from being overloaded with transients, whose welfare the government seeks to protect in other ways.

The Federal Emergency Relief administration is now in the throes of an extensive legal research to determine governing residence and settlement for persons seeking relief in each state. Laws of 20 states and the District of Columbia have already been analyzed. It will take another month to finish the job.

The incomplete survey reveals complexities that will probably prevail throughout. There are fine legal distinctions between "legal settlement," "domicile" and "residence". Quite a few states have no laws governing "legal settlement."

This leaves proof of voting registration as the shortest cut to relief in many spots.

Back in 1916 there were thousands of immigrants unorganized and unconscious of national issues who could not vote. Today many of their children and grandchildren are on relief rolls. A blind man can see how most of this new class will vote when it marches to the polls for the first time.

APPEALING: Twelve states—Delaware, Georgia, Maine, Massachusetts, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Oklahoma, Rhode Island Texas, Vermont and West Virginia—have laws divesting paupers of a vote.

President Roosevelt has said it is unthinkable that a person willing to work but unable to do so because of national circumstances should be classed as a pauper. Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins would like to see the whole question settled once and for all by the Supreme Court.

A private and unofficial estimate shows that 1,600,000 voters would be disfranchised in these twelve states if the courts should hold recipients of relief to be paupers.

In eight states—Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia—a poll tax is required. This would be a burden on relief rollers unless it should happen local political bosses are able to arrange matters.

Twenty states also have literacy requirements. A majority of these are in the South. This barrier is not likely to block many potential new voters whose ballots would make any difference.

Dollars and cents offer an appeal campaign argument. It's no cinch for the Republicans to find candidates and issues that will offset cash on the barrel head.

PERMANENT: Those who talk privately with President Roosevelt come away with the firm impression that the basic New Deal policies are being molded with a view to permanency.

One recent caller expressed it, "Mr. Roosevelt has set himself up as a long-range salesman. He is thinking of his program in terms of a twenty-year conclusion. He is doing all he can to make it so popular and to entrench it so firmly that future administrations will have to carry on whether they want to or not."

The trial-and-error system is still in effect but FDR has expressed confidence to his intimates that many of the administration brain-children are on the high road to becoming permanent institutions.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

NEW YORK inflationists aren't a bit disheartened by sound moneyite rejoicing at the Treasury's call for payment of nearly two billion in Liberties next April. Conservatives interpret the move as a virtual guarantee of monetary stability for seven months—but cheap money advocates confidently hope to turn an apparent defeat into a devastating counter-attack.

They figure this way. The object of refunding the Liberties is to save the Treasury money by substituting a new issue or issues paying less interest. That being the case why not save a whole lot more money—and at the same time increase currency in circulation—by invoking the Thomas amendment to retire the entire $1,870,000,000 in bonds with Treasury notes—greenbacks—which pay no interest at all.

Inflation leaders believe that forceful Congressional thunder early next year could make this proposition sound mighty attractive to the average citizen and perhaps stir up enough clamor for such action to force the administration's hand. Already they're busy offstage organizing the thunder. The situation offers a made-to-order setting for an emphatic demand that Mr. Roosevelt make use of the sweeping monetary powers conferred on him last year by Congress.

Financial insiders expected just such a demand before now—in connection with the payoff of unconverted Liberties on the October 15 call. It's known that some inflationary Congressmen and their backers wanted to make a point of it. Yet nothing happened. Why? Mainly because the New York big shots on the inflationary general staff vetoed the idea. They could see no sense in squandering valuable ammunition on the paltry sum of two or three hundred million dollars involved in this payoff when they scented bigger game in the offing. Now the Treasury has set up a target worth shooting at.

Even the staunchest proponents of the idea frankly admit—in private—that the physical effects of adding two billion dollars to the outstanding currency would be negligible. The Treasury notes would probably drive an equivalent amount of other paper money into retirement for no net change in the circulating medium. The inside strategy behind the urge to issue the notes is subtler—to give the dollar a psychological crack on the nose which would scare people into exchanging their dollars for securities and commodities and thereby blow prices through the roof.

Conservatives who have gotten wind of this inflationary pressure plan are worried. They're reasonably sure that FDR won't fall for it but they seriously wonder whether he'll be able to hold the tornado in check. It will be skilfully brewed.

HEDGE: Some extremely well-informed New Yorkers are taking an active interest in real estate once more. They view real property as the best hedge against inflation and are firmly convificed that the dollar will be further cheapened—perhaps not immediately but inevitably. The Washington contacts of these sources are such that their views command respect.

THE BLOODIEST CLAN FIGHT

On July 15, 1544 near Kinlochlochy was fought the Battle of Biar-na-Leine, the most famous in Highland History. The McDonald-Clanranalds, numbering about 600 men led by John Moydartch, ambushed the Frasers led by Ranald Gallda, who was accused of having usurped John's estates. The battle lasted several hours, both sides fighting with grim determination. The McDonalds won in the end although they too were practically exterminated. Only four Frasers survived the battle, while the number of McDonald survivors was five. John Modyartach replaced Ranald as the owner of the McDonald estates. The Fraser Clan was saved from extinction by the wives who subsequently all gave birth to boys.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

Mabel McElliott

Copyright 1934 by NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SYLVIA RIVERS, rich and spoiled, rules the younger set of Larchneck, fashionable New York suburb. Sylvia gives a party at the Yacht Club and asks all "the crowd" except BOOTS RAEBURN of whom she is jealous.

Boots, heartbroken by the snub, accepts a belated invitation to a dinner at the club that same night given by MRS. WATERMAN, one of the town's social lights.

HARDY WHITMORE, one of Sylvia's guests, rushes Boots off the dance floor and tries to persuade her to go sailing. She refuses and runs away, losing her shoes. Hardy goes off in his boat and falls overboard. The entire club is aroused and he is rescued. Boots, embarrassed and shoeless, is driven home by RUSS LUND, swimming instructor.

Next morning she calls on Mrs. Waterman to apoligize and, to her immense relief, finds it unnecessary. Mrs. Waterman was called away from the club that night by a death in the family.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VI

It took courage of a sort to face the Beach Club that morning but Boots ran the gantlet with head high. No matter how clear her books were with Mrs. Waterman there still remained the problem of the younger crowd's attitude toward her.

The first person she ran into on arriving at the club, was her escort of the night before. Russ Lund wore his usual dark jersey swimming suit and had his woolly sweater slung over his square shoulders. But to Boots, today, the face that had seemed merely rather ordinary, rather lantern-jawed, appeared kind and intelligent. Indeed, she might almost have called him handsome, in a big, crude, male way. His well-knit figure was hard-muscled, burned brown. It was the body of an athlete. White teeth flashed in a big mouth, and the eyes under the craggy, irregular brows were laughing, too.

"How's things?"

Once Boots would have resented his ready assumption of friendship. There is no one on earth so essentially snobbish as a young, pretty and unsure girl. But today she smiled at him in return, almost as an accomplice.

"Just fine! Everything came out beautifully." With a swift glance at the nearby groups she outlined the events of the morning.

"That's swell. Mighty glad it turned out so well." He waved his hand at a big, flabby blond woman in a rubber suit who came toward them from the direction of the bathhouses. "Be with you in a minute Mrs. Spragg. The end of the pool."

The fat woman went and sat on the concrete curb, looking forlorn and lonely, and Boots took the occasion to say hurriedly: "I won't keep you. You're busy."

"Swimming lessons" said Russ confidentially. "See you later."

As she went on down the narrow aisle Boots told herself that she must be getting a bit giddy. There was something in the quality of the big young man's smile that had stirred her oddly. Her heart was actually beating faster for him! She was still crazy about Hardy, wasn't she, in spite of what had happened last night? Why, she had dreamed about Hardy for years, ever since she was a little bit of a girl! If Hardy showed her favor, her day was perfect. No, she couldn't be interested in Russ Lund. She was just grateful to him for being decent about taking her home last night.

Patty saw her as she came down the steps, "Hi!" Patty called. Her tone had the light flick of insolence in it.

"Hi!" Boots returned, with pretended serenity.

"Where you-all going?"

Boots dropped down on the sand. Patty was the only girl in the group. Patty stared at her coolly. "You kind of dropped out of the picture last night, didn't you?"

Boots said composedly, "Mrs. Waterman had a message from home about her cousin. She died last night. We—it broke things up—"

"Oh, yes?" There was frank disbelief in Patty's voice.

But Laddie and John created a diversion just them, rolling over and over again on the sand, wrestling. Patty had no further opportunity for knift thrusts.

Boots had a sense of danger escaped, however. There was a look in Pattys' eyes which indicated the subject was not closed. That was Patty's way. She had the relentlessness of a steam tractor. And she never forgot. Perhaps she, too, in her secret heart, yearned over Hardy's blond demigod looks.

Boots swam later and floated, idly staring up at the sky. Things had a way of straightening themselves out, she reflected. Just the same, she was tired of this sandlizard life. It was amusing, but what did it get you? Sometimes she was so desperately restless she thought she couldn't stand it another moment. Oh, it was all right if you were like Sylvia, could keep things going every single minute—Sylvia, with her big car, and the parties she could organize at a moment's notice—but for the average girl, with no allowance and home worries, life in Larchneck was "just poisonous."

When she came in at last the rest of the crowd had drifted away. They had a way of doing that lately, Boots noticed. All of them had plans for the afternoon. Some of the girls were playing bridge at Sylvia's. She had hoped Johnny would ask her to come sailing, but he hadn't. Oh, well . . .

She dried her hair on a rough towel and it stood fuzzily around her head like a halo. It wouldn't do to go home like that. She would have to make it sleek and shining, press the waves down until they fitted her head like a cap. She was standing before the cracked, blue-framed mirror in the hall, doing

Slaton Doctor Also F.A.C.S.; Corrects Error Made

Editor, The Avalanche: May I please call your attention to an error in a news story on the front page of your Sunday morning edition. With Dr. Sam Dunn's picture, there is a story stating: "Dr. Dunn's elevation to senior fellowship makes him the youngest Texas member as well as the only one between Amarillo and Abilene."

I beg to advise you that I was made a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons, Oct. 28, 1921. I have been a resident of Slaton and have practiced my profession here since last March.

I shall greatly appreciate your correction of the error which states that Dr. Dunn is the only Fellow of the American College of Surgeons between Amarillo and Abilene, as there are any number of people in West Texas who will recognize your error.

Yours very truly,

American Idea Is Drawing Support

ROME, Oct. 22 (AP)—Italy's hearty support to the American delegation's idea of world planned economy in agriculture was given today at the opening meeting of the general assembly of the institute of agriculture.

Baron Acerbo, Italian minister of agriculture, speaking in the name of Premier Mussolini, voiced the support.

Rexford G. Tugwell, American assistant secretary of agriculture, was elected vice president of the assembly.

Baron Acerbo, however, attributed the American idea of an internationally-planned agriculture, to Mussolini who, he said, "speaking in this hall in 1927 recognized in the international institute of agriculture the further possibility of outlining and planning what should be done in the matter of an international agriculture economic policy."

Prince Potenziani, president of the international institute, opened the meeting, attended by internationally known agriculturalists from a number of countries.

TARZAN AND THE LOST EMPIRE, No. 32

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Shouting their disappointment, the soldiers gazed upward into the foliage, but there was no sign of the barbarian. Several climbed into the tree, and then Maximus Praecларus, pointing in the direction opposite to that in which his home lay, shouted, "This way! There he goes!" He led his soldiers on a run down the avenue.

Moving silently through the branches of the great trees that overhung the greater part of the city of Castra Sanguinarius, Tarzan halted at last in a tree that overlooked the inner courtyard of the home of Maximus Praecларus. Below him he saw a matronly woman of the patrician class listening to a tall black who spoke excitedly.

Tarzan recognized the speaker as Mpingu, and, though he could not understand his words, he realized that the black was preparing them for his arrival. Clustered about the woman and eagerly listening to the words of the speaker were a number of black slaves, both men and women. Mpingu was describing Tarzan's battle with Fastus.

He was acting out the scene in exaggerated pantomime when Tarzan dropped lightly to the sward in front of him. The blacks were astonished, but the patrician woman showed no surprise. "Is this the barbarian?" she asked of Mpingu. "It is he," said the black. "Tell him then that I am the mother of Maximus Praecларus and that I welcome him."

Grains

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Oct. 22. (AP)—Good demand for wheat and fair for other offerings was reported today on the grain market here. Estimated receipts were wheat 15 cars; corn 52 cars, oats none and barley 1.

Prices quoted: Wheat No. 1 hard 110-111 1-2; barley No. 2 nominally 90-92; No. 3 nominally 88-90; sorghums No. 2 milo per 100 lbs. nominally 1.98-200; No. 2 milo nominally 1.93-98; No. 2 kaffir nominally 1.85-90; No. 3 kaffir nominally 1.83-88.

Corn No. 2 white 103 1-2-104 1-4; No. 2 yellow 97 1-4 to 98 1-4; oats No. 2 red 61 1-2 to 62 1-2; No. 3 red 60 1-2 to 61 1-2.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Oct. 22. (AP)—Confronted by increasing movement of new corn in the southwest, heavy pressure to sell developed in the corn market today dragging all grain values down.

Wheat closed easy at the same as Saturday's finish to 1-2 cent lower, May 97 1-8 to 14, corn 5-8 to 1 1-4 off, May 77 1-4 to 38, oats unchanged to 1-4 up, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to 7 cents gain.

Wheat prices at the last were around the day's low point, about 2 cents beneath earlier top figures.

WALL STREET

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Stock idled through another slow session today, holding closely to the groove the market has occupied for more than a week.

The Standard Statistics Co., average for 9 selected stocks at 71.6 was of only two tenths of a point.

Some of the deposits piling up in banks seemed to be finding investment outlet in the corporate bond market, judging by the sustained undertone of firmness there. Treasury obligations, however, eased off a bit, coincident with the offering of a block of $50,000,000 more home owners loan 3s by a banking syndicate.

Commodities aped the share market in narrowness of fluctuations and dullness of trade. Grains sagged further, wheat finishing unchanged to 1-2 of a cent lower and corn down as much as 1 1-4 cents. Cotton dipped 1 to 20 cents a bale. Losses in other staples were restricted.

A modest gain in the share turnover was due partly to renewed interest in some of the low priced merchandise shares. Volume totaled 578,080 shares against 527,512 Friday.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22. (AP)—The cotton market was rather quiet during the morning but was more active during the afternoon. Prices advanced 5 to 7 points during the first half of the session owing to favorable cables and early firmness in stocks with a little trade buying. Prices weakened during the afternoon on hedge selling, a reaction in stocks and weakness in grain, losing 10 to 11 points from the highs. After a slight recovery of 1 to 3 points at the end the market closed steady with prices showing net declines for the day of 2 to 5 points.

December closed at 12.27, down 3 points net. March at 12.34 down 5 points and May at 12.40, down 2 cents net.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 2 to 3 penny points down.

Port receipts 37,756, for week 65,597, for season 1,913,965, last season 3,028,205. Exports 15,152, for week 28,181, for season 1,100,003, last season 2,012,787. Port stock 3,089,200, last year 3,873,375. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 80,706, last year 157,483. Spot sales at southern markets 21,457, last year 44,139.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (AP)—Cotton moved sluggishly within a narrow range today. Prices showed early firmness but the list sagged near the close under southern selling and scattering liquidation.

December contracts after selling up from 12.27 to 12.34 declined to 12.25 in the late trading and closed at that figure. The general market finished barely steady at net decline of 2 to 4 points.

In the early trading May sold from 12.41 to 12.48 making net advances of about 4 to 6 points on active epsitions with buying promoted by the early firmness of grain and favorable reviews of last week's cotton cloth markets.

In the final hour May sold off to 12.38 with active months actually showing declines of 8 to 9 points from the highs of the morning and last prices were the lowest of the day.

Over Sunday reports from Washington that cotton acreage program for 1935 will be formally announced by Dec. 1, were considered about in line with the advices reaching here last week.

Exports today 15,152 making 1,125,710 so far this season. Port receipts 37,756. U. S. port stocks 3,077,473.

Gangdom List

perado, slain in police ambush near Black Lake, Louisiana, May 23. His cigar smoking girl friend, Bonnie Parker, was killed with him.

Verne Miller, northwestern sheriff who turned desperado, was found, his body beaten and stabbed, outside Detroit, but police regarded the death as one of intergang warfare.

Gordon Alcorn, another northwestern criminal, who was a running mate of Miller, was captured and jailed.

The Touhy gang was rounded up and its leader, Roger, along with three others, went to an Illinois prison for kidnaping John Factor.

The George "Machine Gun" Kelly gang met its fate behind prison bars.

And so it went—deperadoes defying law, the law paying in death or prison.

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 22. (AP)—Receipts of cattle at eleven markets approximated 107,000 while 112,035 were yarded last Monday and 109,590 the same day a year ago. Surplus of better grade fed steers and yearlings were comparatively light at several key points and prices went unchanged. Steady rates prevailed on lower grades at some places, but at others where this class predominated most sales were weak to 25 under last week's closing levels. Heifers cashed at steady figures but cows ruled weak to 15 lower. The more attractive stockers and feeders moved readily, while medium kinds, in liberal supply, show losses up to 25. At Chicago, best weighty steers were being held above 10.00 at a late hour while choice long yearlings made 9.00 and yearling heifers 8.00.

Total arrivals of hogs around the circuit amounted to 85,000 a decrease of 10,000 under last Monday. At Chicago, weights above 180 lbs. were taken at prices strong to slightly above Friday quotations. Lighter averages at that point, however, and all weights at other markets cleared on a steady to ten lower basis. A late drop of 6,000 at Chicago was the day's high mark.

Slaughter lambs sold strong to 25 higher today while aged sheep remain unchanged. Feeding lambs maintained a strong position showing another slight advance as compared with last week's higher trend. Selected native lambs realized 6.75 at Chicago with choice feeding lambs upward to 6.25.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Oct. 22. (AP)—Hogs 1,400, including 890 directs; mostly 10 lower than Friday; top 5.75; paid by small killers for truck hogs, packer top 5.65 paid for rail and truck hogs; bulk 185-260 lb. truck hogs 5.65-75; packing sows steady, mostly 4.75-5.00.

Cattle 2,000 commercial, 2,500 government; calves 2,000; 800 government; quality lacking most classes cattle about steady. Few slaughter steers, few slaughter yearlings 4.75-5.50; other grassy yearlings 4.50 down. Slaughter calves rather slow.

Sheep 3,200 commercial, including 2,737 on through bill; 1,000 government. Fat lambs steady to 25 higher, other classes steady; fed lambs 5.75; fat yearlings 3.75; aged fat wethers 2.00-50; feeder lambs 3.00-4.00.

LOS ANGELES REPORT

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 22. (AP)—Hog receipts 250; steady; grain feds 6.00-25; packing sows 5.0.

Cattle 2,400; government 1,151; strong to 10-15 higher; short fed steers 5.40-60; stockers down to 3.50; short fed heifers 5.00-35; grass sows 3.00-50.

Calves 1,000; governments 337; steady; light calves and vealers around 5.50; stockers up to 4.50.

Sheep 250; holdovers 1,480; governments 1,461; steady; wooled lambs 6.25; strictly good around 6.50; holdovers unsold.

beer consumption. The total was $17,137,884 ahead of last year.

Tobacco brought in $119,321,437 for the quarter $8,738,552 more than in 1933. The increase reflected chiefly revenues from small cigarettes, as receipts from several other tobacco clasifications declined. The September figure of $36,853,683 compared with $42,145,159 in August and $35,007,514 in September 1933.

Decline Is Shown

Manufacturers' excise tax receipts were $83,163,838 for the quarter, a drop of $22,548,303 from last year. Collections of $26,282,691 in September were approximately $2,500,000 less than in August and $6,500,000 smaller than for September a year ago.

Gasoline tax receipts declined by $16,331,187, but the Setpember figure of $14,483,429 was more than $1,000,000 ahead of August.

Professing taxes were $123,943,543 for quarter, $93,267,013 more than a year ago. The September total of $40,292,074 compared with $39,891,439 in August and $24,843,548 in September, 1933.

Expenditures through Oct. 19, as reported by the treasury today, were $2,010,859,834, of which $1,049,508,633 represented emergency outgo and $961,351,200 general expenditures.

Emergency relief was responsible for $448,665,909 of expenditures with public highways coming second in the emergency column with $156,711,892. Emergency conservation work accounted for $123,303,603.

Processing taxes accounted for $110,286,764 of the general expenditures, but this was more than balanced by $168,772,517 of processing taxes among the receipts.

greet the Englishmen.

Unofficial calculations showed that, counting only actual flying time, Scott and Black had hurtled around the globe from London about 176.5 miles an hour. Their stops, including more than two precious hours lost at Charleville while mechanics labored over the faltering motors, made their speed for total time elapsed about 160 miles an hour.

Approximately 1,300 miles behind them, also tearing along at a terrific pace, came the pair of determined flying Dutchmen, K. D. Parmentier and J. J. Moll. They reached Port Darwin, paused 38 minutes and then sped on toward Charleville.

Somewhere over the Timor sea, presumably, were the Americans, Roscoe Turner and Clyde Pangborn, hastening on to Port Darwin, the first point on Australian soil.

The fliers were happy but exhausted and voiceless. In whispers they explained they had shouted to eoch other through the long night to banish sleep.

Regard Trip As Adventure

Parmetier and Moll, before leaving Port Darwin, said they were enjoying their trip thoroughly. They regarded it an adventure which was proving the commercial value of their plane.

Cathcart Jones, Englishman in fourth place, arrived at Singapore, at 2.14 a. m. g. m. t. J. D. Hewitt, New Zealand, left Jask for Karachi at 1:35 a. m. Malcolm MacGregor, another New Zealander, arrived at Allahabad at 2:21 a. m.

The news of the British leaders' triumphal progress ws closely followed, however, by report of the first fatalities in far-off Italy, where H. D. Gilman and his co-pilot, J. Y. C. Baines, Englishmen, burned to death as their flaming plane crashed near Palazza San Gervasio.

Entries Are Reduced

Their tragic fate and other withdrawals reduced the number of entries still flyng in the speed and handicap divisions to 13 out of the 20 craft that roared bravely away from Mildenhall airdrome, England, in Saturday's dawn.

Climbing to fourth place were two other Englishmen, Cathcart Jones and Ken Waller who pushed toward Singapore from Allahabad, India, in their green ship that duplicates Scott's red one.

Five other ships, all apparently hopelessly trailing the leaders, were strung out behind Jones and Waller among the stretch from Baghdad Iraq, to Allahabad. They were the planes flown by:

bill, which also provided that to obtain benefits of the measure taxpayers must take oath they were unable to pay their taxes when due.

The house bill makes remission of penalties and interest on delinquent taxes mandatory on all taxing subdivisions and establishes a sliding scale of penalties much lower than the statutory rate.

Previously a movement in the house to delay consideration of the Brazos river bill until the senate had acted on a delinquent tax bill failed. The house refused to table the Brazos measure, subject to call, as suggested by Representative Lon E. Alsup of Carthage.

Asserting the senate should be offered an "inducement" to pass a delinquent tax bill, Alsup charged that if the house pased the Brazos and Colorado river measures, heavily favored by the senate, the latter might allow the tax legislation to die.

The senate state affairs committee will hold a hearing on the house bill by Representative Sarah Hughes, of Dallas, Tuesday. The Hughes bill proposed a permanent plan for the delinquent tax problem and includes a discount feature for prompt payment of taxes. It, too, has been passed by the house.

Opponents of the Brazos river bill strove mightily to combat the support that apparently had been enlisted for the proposal. They hurled amendment after amendment at it but only those acceptable to sponsors of the bill were adopted. They strongly intimated that a coalition had been formed between advocates of the Brazos river bill and sponsors of other major legislation that will be presented later.

Predictions were made that remission of ad valorem taxes would break down the state's taxation system and force enactment of a sales tax at the next session of the legislature. State taxes now are remitted in 19 counties. The bill proposed to remit taxes in 10 additional counties amounting to $309,000 annually and would bring the total remitted in all counties to approximately $1,000,000 annually.

Widow And Son Of Slain Bandit

Branded by the rest of the world as a ruthless criminal, Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, slain in Ohio Monday by federal agents, was a "pretty nice fellow" to this couple. Picture shows Mrs. Floyd and their son, Charles Dempsey Floyd, as they appeared recently when the boy was cashing in on the notoriety of his father by making a stage tour. Complete story is on page 1 this morning.

twice," he said in a choking voice.

Purvis had a few more words with Floyd, which the department of justice agent did not reveal. Then the officers picked up the wounded fugitive and started to carry him to one of the automobiles intending to hurry him to a hospital.

Floyd, however, was dead before they reached the car.

They took his body to a mortuary in East Liverpool and there it was laid out on a slab, its many wounds to be discovered.

Within a few minutes, a crowd of more than 500 persons gathered at the entrance of the undertaking establishment much like a similar crowd that collected in Chicago a few months ago when department of justice officers led by Purvis shot and killed the notorious John Dillinger.

Fifty Shots Are Fired

Police Chief Hugh J. McDermott, who with three East Liverpool patrolmen, aided Purvis and three other department of justice men in the final run-down of the fugitive, said about 5 shots in all were fired.

Adam Richetti, long-time partner of Floyd, who was arrested Saturday while Floyd escaped during a gun battle they fought with a posse at Wellsville, was held in jail at Wellsville tonight.

Richetti, in his cell refused to believe officers tonight when they told him Floyd had been killed, until he was shown accounts of the death in a newspaper.

"I don't see why he stuck around so long," Richetti said.

Richetti told the local officers he would resist any attempt to extradite him to Missouri to face a murder charge in the Kansas City massacre.

Demands A Lawyer

"I want a lawyer," he said.

Mayor W. H. Daugherty of Wellsville said George Lafferty, prosecutor of Columbiana county, where Richetti was arrested and Floyd killed, would confer with two officials and autholties from Kansas City tomorrow, and at that time details would be arranged for returning the prisoner to Missouri.

Chief McDermott tonight stood at the head of a small iron bed on which Floyd's body was placed at the mortuary and met each one of hundreds of persons as they filed through to see the body.

The body was covered with a rose-colored drape.

Patrolman Chester Smith one of those who cornered Folyd at the farm, said tonight that Floyd "made a great mistake by not staying behind that corn crib and fighting it out."

Better Chance Hiding

"He had a better chance there than in the open even if he is a fast runner," Patrolman Chester said. "Floyd ran with a sort of twisting motion, but I'm telling you he sure could run."

Chief McDermott said tonight he had received a wire from Mrs. Walter Floyd, mother of the bandit, in Sallisaw, Okla. The wire said:

"I am the mother of Charles Floyd. If he has been killed, turn the body over to a reliable undertaker and prevent any picture being taken of him and bar the public. Pass this request to the U. S. department of justice. Hold body until I arrive."

Chief McDermott said he would not allow the public inside the mortuary tomorrow.

Has $120 In Pockets

Floyd had only $120 in his pockets when he died. The magazines of the two automatic pistols he was carrying were fully loaded.

Floyd had appeared at the farm this afternoon where he was seen by Arthur Conkle. Previously warned, as were all farmers in that section, to be on the lookout for strangers, Conkle notified the department of justice men.

Quick action by the officers followed. In just a few minutes they had raced from their headquarters several miles away, closely followed by the four East Liverpool policemen, to the Conkle farm. The shooting began almost as quickly.

At noon, Floyd had asked Mrs. Conkle to cook a dinner for him. She prepared the meal while the desperado questioned her about newspaper stories she had read.

Asks For A Ride

After the meal, Floyd asked Mrs. Conkle if she could arrange to get him an automobile ride to Youngstown. She replied he would have to wait for the men to return from work in the fields.

Floyd was only about 200 feet away from the officers when the burst of gunfire brought him down. At that distance, it would have been almost impossible for him to have escaped.

The trail of the much-hunted criminal was picked up in Ohio Saturday when a man residing near Wellsville, O., reported to police Chief J. H. Fultz, there that two suspicious-acting men were staying in a ravine near his home.

When Fultz and another officer investigated they were greeted with bullets.

Posse Is Summoned

They were convinced they were dealing with desperate characters although not realizing one was Floyd. Fultz summoned a posse to aid him before proceeding further.

When the posse arrived, a general gun fight ensued in which Grover Potts, 35, a deputized posseman was shot in the arm.

One suspect was arrested then and identified later as Richetti, but it was not until much later that the officers learned the other man was Floyd.

While Richetti was being captured, Petty Boy kidnaped James H. Baum, 65, a florist and forced him to drive him away in Baum's automobile.

The officers, however, were in hot pursuit, and finally overtook Baum's car.

Flees To Nearby Woods

Floyd ordered Baum to jump out and then fled to a nearby woods while the officers fired at him. One of the shots struck Baum in the hip.

Then the officers temporarily lost the trail and although they scoured the countryside today it looked for a while as if the Pretty Boy had made good another of the sensational escapes that have marked his long career of crime.

Purvis tonight issued the following statement:

"The killing of Charles Arthur "Pretty Boy" Floyd brings to a close the relentless search and effort on the part of the department of investigation of the United States department of justice.

"The search was directed by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the department, from Washington and I have been in constant contact with him by telephone and telegraph. Mr. Hoover has been particularly anxious as have we all to bring about the apprehension of this and other similar hoodlums.

"Mr. Hoover and all of the special agents were particularly interested in Floyd because he killed one of our men in the Kansas City massacre of June 17, 1933."

Armed Nation Is Necessary

Dean Of School For Foreign Service Says That Disarmed United States Would Be A Menace To Peace

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 22 (AP)—Thomas H. Healy, assistant dean of Georgetown university's school for foreign service, told the American Legion today that a disarmed United States would be a menace to the peace of the world.

He declared that the surest way to prevent aggressive action by other nations is to be armed in advance.

Speaks For Defense

Healy spoke for national defense in an address at the opening day's session here of the Legion's 16th annual convention.

After reviewing the opposition to national defense—"a strange lot of bed fellows"— Healy said, "every sane person would be delighted if war could be abolished and armaments reduced or even eliminated."

"Unfortunately," he continued, "even the most optimistic person now admits that little real progress has been made toward abolishing war and that armaments are rapidly increasing rather than decreasing.

Few Are Solved

"It is generally admitted that scarcely any of the grave porblems causing dangerous international friction have been solved, and that the existing situation is so critical that it would not take much to light the fuse of war in a number of parts of the globe."

Healy declared:

"The thesis that America could arm itself overnight is so ridiculous that it is amazing that otherwise intelligent persons hold it. x x x It is astounding how quickly the grim lessons of 1917 can be forgotten! x x

"The prime reason why we are compelled to pay more for our national defense than other nations is that we have not resorted to compulsory military defense, where the military forces are paid practically nothing for their work."

"It is totally beyond my comprehension that churchmen cooperate with communists and radical groups in their opposition to national defense when in so doing they are practically preparing the way for their own death warrant," he said. "The cardinal policy of these groups is complete atheism and the destruction of all established churches."

Government Forces In East Texas Strengthened Monday

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (AP) — The government strengthened its forces in troubled East Texas today, as it prepared for a showdown campaign against illegal production in the nation's greatest oil reserve.

L. R. Martineau, jr., designated a special assistant to Attorney General Cummings and commissioned by Cummings to take command, left by airplane for Tyler, in the heart of the field, with instructions to proceed against "hot oil."

President Opens Drive For Private Charity Last Night

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (AP) — President Roosevelt called upon the people of the nation tonight to lighten the load of government expenditures for unemployment relief through the 1934 mobilization for human needs.

In a radio address opening a campaign for private charities, headed by Newton D. Baker of Ohio, Mr. Roosevelt said the government counted upon a continuation of private contributions to private organizations. He called for a "decentralization of relief."

Texas Aggies Are Winners In American Royal Livestock Show; Individual Placings Are Announced

A senior livestock judging team of Texas Technological college Saturday placed second in a field of 12 schools in the annual senior college livestock judging contest of the American Royal Livestock show at Kansas City, Ray C. Mowery, coach, Monday advised Dean A. H. Leidigh of the division of agriculture.

Placing below the Tech team were schools which had been teaching agriculture for 40 to 50 years.

Texas A. and M. outranked Tech, the points being 4,725 for A. and M. to 4,686 for Tech.

Individual Placings Given

Individually, team members placed: Lawrence Shipman, sixth; J. P. Smith, seventh, and Casey Fine, ninth.

Tech teams stood first in cattle judging; third in hog judging; seventh in horses and second in sheep.

In classes of livestock, highest ranking of Tech judgers were: Homer Brumley, eighth in cattle and tied with Henry Elder for seventh in hogs; Lawrence Shipman, fifth in sheep; J. P. Smith, tenth in sheep.

Rankings of the other teams entered in the contest were given by Mr. Mowery as follows: Kansas State, 4,589; Iowa State, 4,517; Oklahoma A. and M., 4,501; Colorado Agricultural college, 4,453; University of Minnesota, 4,426; Michigan State, 4,411; University of Missouri, 4,399; University of Nebraska, 4,322; Ohio State university, 4,306; University of Wisconsin, 4,102.

Members of the team, who left Wednesday morning, are: Homer Brumley, Hereford; Henry Elder, Cuero; Casey Fine, Posey; Lawrence Shipman; J. P. Smith, Littlefield.

Sixth Last Year

Last year and in 1932, Tech placed sixth, Ohio State winning both years. Tech's place this year was the highest it had attained in the seven years it had competed.

For the first time in the history of the school no alternate was taken to Kansas City, only the members of the team being taken this year. Herbert Davis, an alternate, was sick and unable to make the trip.

Complaints Of Gambling Are Filed Against 25 Persons

Complaints of gambling were filed against 25 persons, all except three of them negroes, in Justice of the Peace J. T. Trigg's court Monday as a result of four raids by police, constable's, and sheriff's departments Saturday and Sunday.

Several other negroes were arrested in the raids and charged with disturbances or drunkenness.

Two other negroes arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Cap Moore and Baxter Honey and Highway Patrolman Jack Reaves were charged with operating a gambling house. They were pleaded not guilty and their bonds were set at $500 each.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

just this, when she was suddenly conscious of a shadow thrown across the sunlight.

"Oh, hello!"

It was the big young swimming teacher again and he was staring at her and smiling.

"Drive you home . . .?"

She coludn't refuse. It would have been too pointed and, besides, she was tired after her exertions. Hungry, too. Oh, what did it matter? She could be merely friends with this square-shouldered, strongly built young man, couldn't she?

But she was aware, driving along, of heads being turned to stare at her and her companion. Patty's car was parked in the driveway of her house as they passed, and Patty, with one foot on the running board, was jerking a recalcitrant "bunny sock" into place. Patty opened her eyes widely. That, said Boots to herself, grimly, would give Patty something to talk about all afternoon.

This time last year Boots had been invited to all the bridge teas and luncheons. But the feud between herself and Sylvia had deepened, widened. Sylvia was powerful—rich. So now Boots had fewer and fewer invitations. She threw up her head proudly. If they thought she cared!

"What's wrong?"

She had completely forgotten the young man at her side.

"N-nothing. I was just thinking. . . ."

He jerked his head back in Patty's direction. "Don't let her get your goat!"

How much did he know? Boots shrugged. "What d'you mean?"

He glanced sideways at her compressed lips, at the high color touching her cheekbones.

"Oh, nothing! Only — this is a small puddle, you know. I've noticed things. Some of these dolls are pretty high-hat."

She didn't know whether to frown over that or not. The idea of accepting pity from anyone, especially from a newcomer, however sympathetic, was bitter.

She said, "I'm tired of this town. Wish I had a job in the city."

He applauded that. "Atta girl. Do your stuff."

"We don't—don't do anything but barge around." Boots complained, fumbling for words. "It's all right for the kids but when you get older you wonder what it's all about."

"So?" He was driving slowly now, turning about so that he halfaced her. "So you're getting along?"

"Oh, you know what I mean!" She felt she almost disliked him, teasing her so.

He sobered, feeling her change of mood. "Sure. You've got the dope. Why, you ought to be on the stage, girl, with your looks." His look was bold but she didn't mind that. She warmed at his appreciation.

"Honestly, do you think I could get by?" This was what she needed, understanding sympathy.

"Do I think? Why say, there're managers just waiting for girls like you. Class—and—and everything."

She wished her mother could hear him. Her mother, who shuddered delicately whenever the subject was mentioned. Why couldn't Boots be perfectly satisfied with things as they were? She had a good home, didn't she? She knew all the best people in town. Why couldn't she stay at home, wait until some wonderful boy asker her to marry him and settle down right here in one of the little Spanish houses over in the Hill section?

"I'd love the stage," Boots said soberly. "I've always wanted to break away—do something."

She thought of being a mannequin in a shop. Head high, hips swinging insolently, showing the latest Paris models. . . . The young man with the stick, the one who looked like Franchot Tone, would sit negligently by with his sister, the Countess of D——. There would be an invitation that night, mysteriously delivered: Would Miss Raeburn honor the Countess? Dinner at the Ritz. . . .

"Well, here's the ancestral castle.", Boots started at Rus Lund's jovial tone. She had been miles away, dreaming.

"Thanks—thanks a lot."

"That's all right." He got out to help her and she wished that he wouldn't. It made her so conspicuous. He was so big and noticeable in his soiled white slacks, his sweater. What a snob she was! As bad as the rest of them.

To make up for this she was unusually cordial in her farewells. Oh, well, she needn't do this, ever again. She'd have to avoid leaving the club when he did. He might misunderstand. . . .

Fortunately her mother was in the back of the house, fussing with the sweet pea vines and didn't see her arrive.

"I declare, I thought you were never coming. It's almost one o'clock."

"Sorry." Boots kissed her lightly. When she was rich and famous, she reflected, her mother would be sorry she had balked her ambitions.

"I want to send some roses over to the Watermans'. The only way to show our sympathy . . ."

Boots stared frankly for an instant, then recovered herself.

"You don't mean to say," her mother demanded querulously, "that you've forgotten poor Cousin Ella! So sad . . . such a pity . . . you young people think of no one but yourselves . . ."

Mistily Boots heard the words. Cousin Ella was already relegated to the limbo of forgotten things. She had served her purpose, but to Boots' mind nothing mattered but the immediate future.

No Motive In The Firing Of Home Discovered By Officers

Investigators yesterday intimated they were unable to determine a motive for a fire evidently set deliberately in the home of Miss Elizabeth West, Texas Technological college librarian, Saturday night.

There were several clues.

Miss West, who returned yesterday from Tennessee, told Fire Chief W. E. Twitty that a dress, of little value, was found missing in a cursory examination. Miss West had no theory to advance in the case.

Policeman Bill Mabray found a suitcase, containing dresses, and a separate roll of several garments where they evidently had been dropped by a burglar near the alley back of the librarian's home.

Fire had been set to a bed and in several closets, Fire Marshal D. A. Forbess said. Supposedly valuable books and manuscripts and copies of rarer ones were not disarranged and neither fire nor smoke damaged them, he said.

The home is at 2309 Tenth street.

Bruner Speaks To Students At Tech

Texas Technological college students Monday morning were told that Soviets may obtain a divorce in a few minutes, but that the Russian divorce rate is lower than in the United States.

Dr. H. B. Bruner, curriculum authority and Columbia university faculty member, was the speaker. He discussed Russia and Germany.

Doctor Bruner was here for a series of lectures on "The Curriculum Reconstruction Movement," sponsored jointly by the education department of Texas Tech and Lubbock high school.

Doctor Bruner spoke to students majoring in education at Tech at 11 o'clock, to the college faculty at 4 p. m., and to public school teachers of this section at High school last night. He was a guest at a dinner in Hilton hotel prior to the evening engagement.

Information Garbled

In his speech, which dealt chiefly with Russia, Dr. Bruner, who was in Europe last summer, said that much garbled information has been contained in reports upon Russia. He said that the most usual articles, such as soap, were unobtainable in the country, and that the industries of the Soviet is far behind in production.

Adolph Hitler's ambitions are primarily imperialistic, the educator said, quoting from the German chancellor's autobiography, My Battle.

WHEN YOU FEEL "ALL IN"—

GET A LIFT WITH A CAMEL!

CRAWFORD BURTON...gentleman rider...twice winner of the Maryland Hunt Cup...dean of the strenuous sport of steeplechase riding...and a Camel smoker.

Have you ever tried this enjoyable way of heightening energy?

HOUSEWIFE. Mrs. Charles Daly says: "Camels pick up my energy when I feel tired, and they have a mild, delicate flavor that a woman likes."

AIR HOSTESS. Miss Marian McMichael: "When the run is over, my first move is to light a Camel. A Camel quickly relieves any feeling of tiredness."

SPORTSMAN. Rex Beach, famous fisherman, says: "When a big fellow is safely landed, I light a Camel and feel as good as new."

Crawford Burton, the famous American steeplechase rider, is speaking: "Whether I'm tired from riding a hard race, or from the pressure and tension of a crowded business day, I feel refreshed and restored just as soon as I get a chance to smoke a Camel. So I'm a pretty incessant smoker, not only because Camels give me a 'lift' in energy, but because they taste so good! And never yet have Camels upset my nerves." Note these important points: that Camels taste so good. And that they make available your stored-up energy.

Science tells us that Camel's "energizing effect" has been fully confirmed. Try Camels yourself. You can smoke them constantly. For Camels are made from finer and MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS. They never taste flat...never get on your nerves.
