Fortified Rail Junction Falls Under Assault

Soviet Advance Units Pushing Beyond Town

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 12 — Russian troops of the First Ukraine army have captured Sarny, Premier Stalin announced today, seizing the fortified railway junction 35 miles within old Poland after an assault over the Sluch river.

Stalin's order of the day declared Sarny was "an important strongpoint in the German defenses in the Polessye direction."

The Soviet forces crossed the Sluch yesterday and then took Sarny by assault, said the order broadcast by Moscow and recorded by the Soviet monitor.

The key railway center, astride a north-south line and also on a line west to Warsaw, had virtually been encircled, and Soviet advance units already were pushing beyond Sarny. Towns on the railway north and south were taken yesterday, effectively breaking the Nazi supply route, and forcing the Germans to rely on the railway running through Brest-Litovsk 135 miles farther west.

Stryelsk, seven miles north of Sarny, and Nenovichi, seven miles south, were seized yesterday.

REDS ADVANCING IN FACE OF COUNTERATTACKS

BY EDDIE GILMORE

Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Jan. 12 (AP)—In the face of German counterattacks, the Russians kept up their advances today in the western Ukrains and north and south of Sarny where the Red army is pushing westward.

After cutting the north-south railroad through the Pripet marshes at points seven miles north and south of Sarny, the Russians were just 75 miles short of being halfway between Kiev and Warsaw.

(The dispatch suggested that the Russians plunging through old Poland were by-passing Sarny, 35 miles inside the old frontier. Besides the troops north and south of the city, others Russians last were reported five miles east of Sarny.)

"On many sectors, offensive battles were assuming a more violent character," the army newspaper Red Star said, "the enemy has introduced new units to complete

Demos May Get New Chairman

Frank Walker Said Planning To Quit

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (AP)—Robert E. Hannegan, of St. Louis, now U. S. commissioner of internal revenue, is expected to succeed Postmaster General Frank C. Walker as chairman of the Democratic national committee when that committee meets in Washington Jan. 22 to pick a national convention site.

Walker arrived here today with Ambrose O'Connell, vice chairman of the Democratic committee to survey the hotel situation. Walker would not discuss his impending resignation, but it was learned authoritatively that he intends to step out of the political job and that Hannegan has the inside track as his successor.

Others Mentioned

Others who have been mentioned for Democratic chairman are David Kelly, national committeeman from Grand Forks, N. D., and George E. Allen, of Mississippi and Washington, D. C., now secretary of the committee.

Walker indicated the Democrats would select Chicago for their convention and meet in the same stadium that will be the scene of the Republican convention starting June 26.

The Democratic chairman would not predict the exact date for the Democrat gathering, but he indicated it would be around mid-July. The Democratic party held its 1940 convention here beginning July 15.

Wants Short Campaign

"I still believe in a short campaign," Walker said. "I haven't changed my views on that. I think in wartime we should have a short campaign."

Walker is known to have accepted te Democratic chairmanship on condition that he would retain it only temporarily. He has never felt "comfortable" in the post, his friends say, and regard-

Charges Filed On N. Y. Bank

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (U.P.)—The Chase National bank, largest in the world, was charged today with violating the "trading with the enemy" act in indictments handed up by a federal grand jury.

Also named in six of seven indictments, two of which involve the bank, was Leonard J. A. Smit, a refugee Dutch international diamond dealer, of Saddle River, N. J. Both the bank and Smit were charged additionally with violating the export control law.

Involved Financing Methods

According to Assistant United States Attorney Bruno Schachner the charges against the bank involved financing methods used by Smit in selling large quantities of industrial diamonds here and abroad.

Smit was also charged with transporting industrial diamonds to Germany and Axis-controlled countries. He failed in one attempt to sell a large supply to

Dual Allied Air Blows Strike Balkan Areas

More Ground Is Seized By Fifth Army In Italy

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Jan. 12 (AP) — Allied bombers, striking another day-and-night doubleheader blow into the Balkans, battered Piraeus, the port of Athens in Greece, in heavy force yesterday, while aground the Fifth army seized more high ground in Italy, Allied headquarters announced today.

(The German communique said the Nazis had been thrown out of Cervaro, fortified village four miles east southeast of Cassino on the Rome road, "after hard fighting," and also lost a mountain top to the northeast.

Fortresses Deliver Punch

(Cervaro was the last village outpost guarding Cassino, the powerful Nazi stronghold blocking the road to Rome. Allied troops had closed in on the village from the south and the northeast).

The one-two punch against Piraeus was delivered by "a considerable force" of Flying Fortresses by day, followed by RAF Wellingtons swooping in last night. Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, was hammered Monday in the same kind of swift blows.

Fortress crewmen declared many fires were started in the harbor area, and a warehouse blew up. Fortress gunners downed five German fighters, and their lightning escorts bagged three more.

The Wellingtons hit about 10 p. m. starting at least nine large fires and touching off one huge explosion.

Seize More Ground

The ground communique said the Fifth army advance continued, "and some further high ground was seized. Enemy pockets of resistance were cleaned up and our front line straightened out."

Artillery duels and patrol activity marked both the Fifth and Eighth army fronts.

Railyards Are Hit

Eleven enemy planes were destroyed during widespread operations, and seven Allied aircraft were missing.

Mitchell bombers hit the railyards at Falconara northeast of Rome, and Fabriano in north central Italy, halting traffic in the Falconara yards at least temporarily, and blasting concentrations of rolling stock at Fabriano.

Texas Sergeant Is Cited For Wiping Out German Tank

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP) — A Texas sergeant with the 36th division in Italy has been cited for heroism by his commanding officer for the destruction, single-handedly, of an attacking German tank, the War department announced today.

The sergeant, Y. Gill of Amarillo, Tex., found himself in the middle of a tank battle, with bullets, gun flashes and thunderous reports coming from all directions. Concealing himself in the underbrush, he waited for an opportunity for action.

Hearing the clanking roll of an approaching tank, Sgt. Gill saw that it was German—and that its turret top was open. Seizing a hand grenade, he hopped on the side of the tank and threw the grenade through the open turret. After the explosion, the tank spun crazily for a few seconds, then came to a stop.

When Gill peered inside, he found that the entire German crew had been killed.

Hitler Urges Japs To Strike Russia In Diversionary Plan

CAIRO, Jan. 12 (U.P.)—Well-informed sources said today that Adolf Hitler is doing his utmost to persuade Japan to attack Russia at once in an effort to avert a Nazi disaster on the Soviet front.

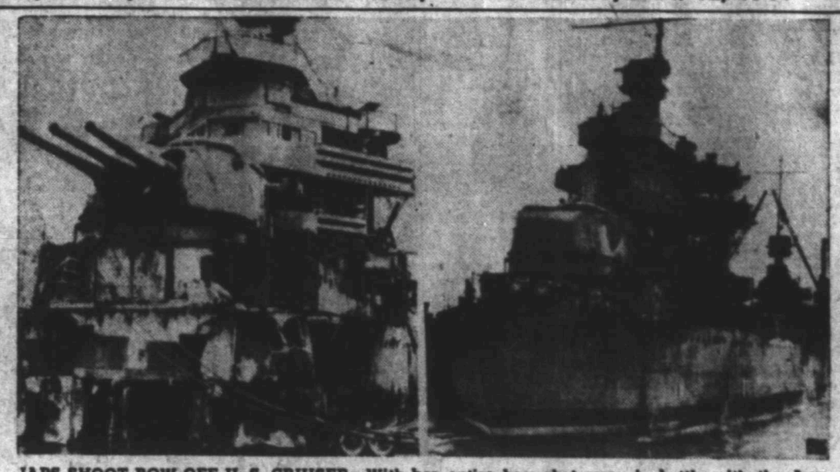

Informants said Hitler, in a series of recent conferences with the Japanese ambassador to Germany, urged Japan to strike immediately, arguing that sooner or later the Soviets would join the United States and Great Britain in the war against the Japanese.

Hitler was said to have proposed a "Russian Pearl Harbor" as a diversionary measure aimed at drawing Red army strength from the offensive against Germany in the west.

Usually informed quarters understood that Hitler insisted in his meetings with Ambassador Hiroshi Oshima that Japan launch an attack on Vladivostok and on the Manchurian frontier, especially at Changkufeng, the scene of a border "incident" in July, 1938.

Informants said Hitler based the main weight of his proposal on the contention that eventual war between Japan and Russia was inevitable and the Japanese should

Snow And Rain Is Reported

(By The Associated Press)

Freezing rain or snow spread over most of North and West Texas, and drizzling rain over central and south portions of the state Wednesday.

Heavy snow was falling at noon at San Angelo, Midland, Odessa, Wink and Salt Flat, the Dallas weather bureau reported, and a survey from San Angelo showed snow extending as far north from there as Sterling City, Tex., east to Eden, and west to Marfa.

Rains At Other Points

There were rains at Forth Worth, Dallas, Waco, Austin, San Antonio, Victoria, Yoakum, Galveston, Houston, Sulphur Springs and Brownsville. Palestine had 1.38 inches of rain in the last 24 hours and Lufkin 1.02.

Temperatures were 15 degrees at Amarillo and 16 at Pampa, Panhandle points buffetted last week by a heavy blizzard. Tonight's forecast for the Panhandle was 8 to 14 degrees. Little precipitation was reported there.

Wink reported an inch of snow, Salt Flat an inch, San Angelo, unofficially, two inches, and 24 degree temperature. The temperature at Midland and Odessa was 28.

Light, frozen mist fell at Borger, with the temperature 13 degrees.

SNOW REPORTED TO SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST OF LUBBOCK

With the temperature hovering on the 24-degree mark since 7 a. m. and snow reported to the south and southwest of Lubbock, the South Plains area was due for more falling weather, it was indicated today.

Snow, which began falling before dawn, was reported at Meadow, Brownfield, Seagraves, Seminole, Tahoka and Lamesa. Approximately two inches had fallen at these points and was still coming down at a rapid clip at 11 o'clock this morning. Still farther

Mustering-Out Pay Plan Nearly Ready

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP) — The House military committee today put the finishing touch on legislation to give men and women honorably discharged from the armed forces a maximum of $300 in mustering-out pay.

Only a few technical changes remained to be made in a bill approved by the committee late yesterday before clearance for House action tomorrow or Friday.

Finishing a task it started more than a month ago, the committee voted to make the $300 payable to anyone not over the rank of captain who is honorably discharged after having served more than 60 days. Those with less than 60 days service would receive $100, payable in one sum upon discharge. Veterans eligible for the full amount would receive $100 upon discharge, $100 30 days later, and $100 60 days after discharge.

The amounts would be payable regardless of whether the veteran served abroad or in this country. Excluded, in addition to those with a base pay of more than $2,400 (captains), would be students, persons who were discharged at their own request to accept jobs, and persons not discharged honorably.

Most of the estimated 800,000 men and women already discharged would receive the payments, the only condition being that their discharge occurred on or after December 7, 1941.

Senate Group Begins Work On Service Bill

Author Of Labor Draft Bill Says Action Should Depend On Sentiment Of Public

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—A Senate committee went to work today on national service legislation requested by President Roosevelt amid widespread expressions of opposition and the declaration of Senator Austin (R-Vt), author of a labor draft bill, that he would not push for its enactment unless he is convinced of a united public demand for it.

"This must not come as a mandate from Congress to the people," Austin told the military affairs committee. "It must arise from the people. This bill should move forward with the people."

President Roosevelt yesterday put national service legislation—government power to conscript civilian labor for essential jobs—at the top of a five-point legislative program to hasten victory in the war.

Austin Before Committee

Austin, appearing before the committee less than 24 hours after the President's message was delivered, said polls, letters and other evidence showed many segments of the population favored a home-front service act.

But, he told the committee, he has no intention of "forcing" the plan if anybody felt that any considerable portion of the nation does not want it.

Senator Austin outlined to the committee the measure which he revised yesterday after the President made his request.

Many Openly Hostile

Many of the committee members—among them Chairman Reynolds (D-NC)—were openly hostile to the idea of national service.

Austin said that under the new bill employes who leave a war plant on strike could be forced by the government to return to their jobs or be replaced by other workers, if the government felt the

WMC Wants No Dictatorial Law

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP) — If there is to be a national service law, the War Manpower commission wants one that will not be "dictatorial" and won't break up the management-labor cooperation that has been stressed in the present manpower program.

That was indicated today by an analysis of recent utterances and writings of Chairman Paul V. McNutt and his WMC aides, though they studiously refrained from commenting today on President Roosevelt's message calling for a labor draft.

Has Opposed Legislation

The Manpower commission has not been asking for a law. In fact its national management-labor policy committee, representing management, labor and agriculture, only two months ago came out strongly against such legislation.

But if national service became necessary — and the President now says it is — McNutt and his advisors have shown they would prefer a law that would:

1. Be based on cooperation between labor and management in attacking manpower problems. If Labor's rights have to be curtailed during the war, restoration of these rights after the war should be guaranteed.

2. Interfere with family life no more than absolutely necessary. A national service act wouldn't necessarily mean dictatorial action, McNutt said in a recent article.

3. Keep the "localized" approach to manpower problems. Working things out on local and regional levels is considered by WMC officials the fundamental principle of the manpower program.

Stangel Is To Head Agricultural Workers

FORT WORTH, Jan. 12 (AP) — W. L. Stangel, head of the department of animal husbandry of Texas Technological college at Lubbock, was elected today as president of the Texas Agricultural Workers association for the next two years.

Other officers elected as the association closed a two-day meeting here were T. P. Priddie of Houston, vice president; Miss Lida Cooper of College Station, secretary, and L. J. Cappleman, of Dallas, treasurer. D. T. Simons of Fort Worth, retiring president, was made a director.

CONVICT ESCAPES

HUNTSVILLE, Jan. 12 (AP) — Lonnie Jackson, 39, escaped from a work squad on Retrieve prison farm late yesterday. He was serving a life sentence from Hidalgo and Dallas counties for theft over $50 and two previous convictions.

President's Demand For Tax Hike All But Shrugged Off

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP) — President Roosevelt's implied demand for sharply increased taxes was all but shrugged off today by a Congress which had heard—and rejected—a series of similar suggestions from the Treasury.

The first move is up to the Senate, which began work yesterday on the $2,275,600,000 tax increase bill, which the President regards as inadequate, by voting to freeze the social security payroll tax throughout 1944 at the current rate.

A "realistic tax law" led off the President's legislative recommendations in his annual message yesterday on the state of the union. He contended the pending bill "does not begin to meet" the test of taxing all unreasonable profits and reducing the ultimate cost of the war.

Wants 10 Billion

Congressmen generally interpreted that phrase as meaning that the chief executive wants all or most of the $10,500,000,000 additional revenue repeatedly sought by Secretary Morgenthau.

This belief was shared in some Treasury quarters which predicted that Mr. Roosevelt would re-

Greatest Aerial Battle Of All Time Is Waged

Record Losses Expected For Both Sides; Nazis Say 136 U. S. Planes Are Downed; German Plane Losses May Exceed 300

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 12.—American heavy bombers roared over Berlin for the first time yesterday, German reports said today, setting off the greatest sky battle of all time in which the Nazis used "new tactics" and claimed to have shot down 136 planes, including 124 four-engined bombers.

U. S. LOSES 64 PLANES

LONDON, Jan. 12. (U.P.)—The United States Eighth Air force lost 64 planes in yesterday's air battle over Germany, it was announced officially tonight.

An American headquarters announcement said 59 bombers and five fighters were missing.

More than 100 enemy interceptor planes were destroyed by American Flying Fortresses, the announcement revealed.

The main force of the Eighth Air force's armada, accompanied by new-type long range fighters, struck at Magdeburg and Halberstadt 100 miles southwest of the capital while other heavyweights staged a diversionary raid on Berlin itself, the Berlin correspondent of Stockholm's Aftonbladet reported.

This maneuver, in daylight, was similar to that used by the RAF recently—a night feint at Berlin while delivering a heavy blow at Leipzig.

Rail, Arms Center

Magdeburg is an important German railroad and arms center.

More than 24 hours after the bombers returned—some of them badly crippled and carrying wounded—British bases of the U. S. air force still were computing results, preparatory to issuing an official communique on losses, claims and destructions.

TOLL OF NAZI PLANES BELIEVED TO BE OVER 300

(By The United Press)

LONDON, Jan. 12 — Massive American raiding fleets were believed today to have shot down a record number of German planes—more than 300—in the biggest air battle ever fought over Germany which London newspapers estimated cost them more than 60 planes.

The German high command claimed 136 American planes were destroyed, including 124 four-motored bombers, in the great battle fought five miles above the Reich.

Obviously believing the great aerial onslaught to be the first American daylight thrust at Berlin, the Nazis revealed tactics and weapons they had been saving for

Japs Repulsed In New Guinea

(By The Associated Press)

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Jan. 12—Complete control of the Huon peninsula on northeast New Guinea was in sight for the Allies today. Australians defeated the Japanese in a tank and artillery action there which ended with the victors crossing the Buri river on the coast.

The Japanese, finding their position more and more untenable as the Australians force them up the coast toward American invasion troops at Saidor, staunchly resisted the Aussies but finally gave way before the tanks, leaving their dead on the field.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique reporting the Australian victory also told of Allied air action against enemy barges and supply points along the New Guinea coast from Gali village north to Uligan. Many barges, some of them bearing troops which the Japanese may be attempting to evacuate from the Allied nutcracker, have been destroyed in recent days.

Two Aussie Drives

The Allied campaign to clear Huon peninsula started soon after the fall of Lae, on the southwest shore, Sept. 16. While one force of Australians drove around the coast, another battled its way northward inland, through the valleys of the Markham and Ramu rivers. The inland force is nearing Bogadjim, enemy supply point on the coast about 20 miles south of the larger Japanese base at Madang.

Dead Navigator's Body Jettisoned To Save Liberator

A U. S. LIBERATOR BASE IN ENGLAND, Jan. 12 (AP)—The crew of a shattered Liberator struggling back from France on only one engine threw the body of their dead navigator into the English channel to help lighten their ship—and credited this with saving their lives.

Jettisoning their comrade's body was a grim decision to have to make, but with the plane dropping rapidly toward the ocean—with four wounded and two frostbitten men who would have drowned if the plane had "ditched" in the sea—and the crew throwing everything loose overboard, from guns and ammunition to their radio and even their helmets, it was considered justified in an effort to save the lives of the other nine.

The Liberator, "Conquest Cavalier," was jumped by eight twin-engined Messerschmitts and a Junkers-88 Rocket plane soon after it bombed northwest Germany a few days ago.

Crewmen included Sgt. Charles R. Jones, Fort Worth, Tex.

Supreme Court Will Review Juvenile Act

AUSTIN, Jan. 12 (AP) — The state Supreme court today agreed to review an act of the last legislature transferring juvenile delinquency proceedings from criminal to civil status.

Constitutionality of the act was upheld by the Amarillo court of appeals which nevertheless remanded a case originated in Lubbock county juvenile court. The appeals court said that two youths convicted of stealing an automobile might be tried again in closed court which is permitted by the new statute, which the defendants attacked.

The juvenile court's sentence was reversed on other grounds.

The youths were judged to be delinquent and were sentenced to confinement in a reformatory until 21 years of age.

Allies Capture Port In Burma

LONDON, Jan. 12 (U.P.)—Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten's Southeast Asia forces in a strong thrust westward into Burma have recaptured the strategic port of Maungdaw, front dispatches said today, in what was regarded here as the opening move to clear the Arakan area for a large-scale Allied ground offensive.

Units of the 14th army were reported battling through the jungles several miles south and west of Maungdaw on the Mayu peninsula and their immediate objective was believed to be the port of Akyab, 55 miles distant and goal of the abortive British offensive of 1942.

If Mountbatten's forces can push down to the tip of the Mayu peninsula before the start of the rainy season, several months hence, their advance would bring the western shores of Akyab island within rang of heavy British artillery.

Not Grand Offensive

Military observers here emphasized, however, that seizure of Maungdaw, advance base for the unsuccessful 1942 campaign, did not mean the opening of the await-

Air Attack On Takao On Formosa Claimed

(By The Associated Press)

The Tokyo radio said today that several Allied bombers had attacked the vicinity of Takao on the western coast of Formosa last night. The radio claimed damage was small.

Formosa, Japan's big island colony 90 miles off the coast of China, was raided on Thanksgiving by Mitchell bombers and Lightning fighters of Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's 14th U. S. air force.

That blow, which also was announced first by Tokyo, was struck against the airbase at Shinchiku on the northwest corner of the island and resulted in the destruction of at least 31 enemy planes, on the ground and in the air, without loss to the attackers.

Three Problems Sure To Arise On Deals For World Peace

By JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE
Associated Press Staff Writers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—Three questions, fairly quiet now but bound to spring into vivid life at war's end, revolve around the problem of making arrangements with our allies for keeping world peace:

1. Will the Senate, perhaps after agonizingly long debate, approve or wreck proposed treaties of peace or alliances?

2. Would the President—whoever he is at the time—be justified in dodging the Senate and achieving the arrangements through executive agreements?

3. Could a majority of the American people wish such treaties and be frustraed by a minority of the Senate representing only a fraction of the population?

Professor Provides Ammunition

The latest ammunition for argument is provded by Kenneth Colegrove, professor of political science at Northwestern university, in his just-published book, "The American Senate and World Peace."

The 435 members of the House of representatives have nothing to do with treaty-making since the consttution provides that approval rests with a two-thirds vote of the senators, which means that one-third of the Senate—plus one more senator—can block a treaty.

Noting that each state is represented by only two senators, no matter the size of the population, Colegrove uses arithmetic to show what can be done by the two-thirds rule which he considers undemocratic. He says:

"The votes of 17 states are sufficient to wreck a treaty under the existing rule. If all the votes opposing a treaty should come from the small states, the senators representing 10,518,249 people would be able to block the will of 121,151,026 people who live in the largest 31 states."

Suggests Amendment

So he suggests a constitutional amendment to place the approval of treaties in the hands of a simple majority of the members of both houses of Congress.

So much for question No. 3 as Colegrove sees it. As to question No. 2 he says:

"About 900 treaties have been proclaimed by presidents of the United States from the inauguration of the federal republic in 1789 to the opening of World War II in 1939. Over 200 other treaties were concluded which never became law because they were rejected by the Senate or neglected by the Senate or amended in a manner not acceptable to the other signatory powers. In the same period, over 1,200 agreements with foreign countries were entered into and enforced without securing the advice and consent of the Senate to these contracts. All of these other contracts were executive agreements. They were made and enforced by the executive without reference to the Senate."

Agreements By Presidents

American presidents in the past have made plenty of agreements without help from the Senate. Can't the President after this war—if he thinks the Senate may get horsey—just ignore that body and make an agreement with foreign nations that will have the effect of a treaty?

But in doing it, actually he might be evading the provisions or intentions of the constitution. (You can argue all day on that). Colegrove thinks that that kind of evasion breeds contempt for law that is dangerous to democratic institutions.

So much for queston No. 2. As to No. 1—time will tell, although Colegrove warns that it is unlikely all senators, at treaty-making time, can lay aside personal prejudice or party politics and attack the problem unselfishly.

Member Of German Nobility Arrested

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP) — J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced today the arrest in New York of a member of a German noble family, now a United States citizen, on charges of violating the wartime espionage laws.

Hoover identified the prisoner as William Albrecht von Pressentin Gennant von Rautter, 56, and said he had been brought to the FBI's attention by censorship officials because of letters being sent from New York to known German agents in neutral European countries.

"Although these letters have been addressed to different individuals and have contained different return addresses, most of them prominent individuals in the downtown business district of New York City, the FBI was able to establish that they all emanated from the same individual and that under the guise of the innocent-appearing personal information, they contained in secret writing material affecting the national defense of the United States," Hoover said.

In New York, E. E. Conroy, FBI agent in charge, said Von Rautter, speaks five languages. Conroy said Von Rautter had admitted acting on behalf of the German intelligence.

Colorful, Old-School Swindler Dies At 103

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP) — Stephen Dutton, a blustering, colorful fellow who said he was 103 years old and claimed an intimate acquaintance with two presidents — and was well known to police and prison authorities—was buried in Potter's Field yesterday.

Described by police as a swindler of the old school, with a prison record dating back to 1896 and extending to April, 1941 — when he was 101 years old — Dutton succumbed to pneumonia contracted after a heroic effort to save his mongrel pets from his blazing Brooklyn shanty.

The shack caught fire Christmas day, and in trying to rescue the pets Dutton's legs were severely burned. Taken to Kings County and he died two days later.

FDR's Plan Raises Many Questions

BY JAMES MARLOW AND GEORGE ZIELKE
Associated Press Staff Writers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—Many million Americans would feel the weight of the labor draft law proposed by President Roosevelt although it might force only a comparative handful into jobs they didn't seek.

Reasons:

1. The President emphasized it would prevent strikes, now running about 10 a day. Therefore, all labor would be affected.

2. All men and women not disqualified by age or other reasons would be subject at any time to orders where to work, even if it meant moving to another city.

Barely Mentioned Labor

It is notable that nowhere in his lengthy message to Congress did the President refer to labor except once in passing and then he coupled the word with government and management, warning against relaxing the war effort.

He left no doubt, however, that a primary aim of the labor draft would be to stop strikes although there has been an anti-strike law since July 1.

That law has not stopped strikes. They're occurring at a rate higher than last year. Why? That's debatable. One congressman said the law would work if the President "would only enforce it."

Didn't Give Figures

Nowhere in his message did the President show what 1944 manpower needs would be and therefore why a labor draft law would be necessary to fill them.

The President said "it is argued that we have passed the stage in the war where national service is necessary but our soldiers and sailors know that this is not true."

Nevertheless, the labor draft proposal comes at a time when a number of war plants have shut down and others are converting to civilian production, with more of the same expected as the year advances.

But when would Congress be likely to pass a labor draft measure?

Reaction Is Mixed

The congressional reaction to the President's proposal was mixed. So there apparently is no congressional agreement on need for such a step.

But the labor draft was only one of five proposals by Mr. Roosevelt. The other four asked Congress for:

"A realistic tax law," a continuation of the law for renegotiation of war contracts; a law to keep food prices down; and renewal of the law to stabilize costs generally.

Could a Congress which passed a labor draft quickly give assurance to Mr. Roosevelt that it would approve his other proposals to his satisfaction? If not, would he approve a draft law or veto it?

Or would a labor draft have to be held back until the other proposals were approved in Congress? That might be late in the spring, if ever. By that time any need for a labor draft might have definitely passed.

If Congress fails to heed the President — and if strikes continue and living costs rise — he can always say "I suggested to Congress what was needed but Congress didn't listen."

Congress is now busy juggling not one hot potato but five.

COLDS KILL JOY EVERYWHERE THESE DAYS

Food And Feed Outlook Poor

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP) — The Agriculture department today termed the outlook for 1944 food and feed crop production as the poorest of the war as a result of an abnormally dry fall and early winter.

Officials pointed out, however, that snows that had fallen in the Midwest since data for the report was gathered on Jan. 1 may have eased the situation and that heavier than normal precipitation during the next few months may yet make possible another record crop year.

Fall precipitation from Sept. 1 to Jan. 1 was 21 per cent below normal for the nation as a whole and the lightest since 1939. The department expressed "most concern" because of the serious deficiency of sub-soil moisture in the great plains.

Drouth Damages Wheat

The winter wheat crop has been the heaviest sufferer from drouth. The department said wheat prospects deteriorated most in the central and northern great plains, while from Kansas southward the crop was improved by December precipitation.

The War Food administration has asked farmers to plant 16,000,000 more acres in crops this year than last. A large part of that expansion, if it is to be attained, must come in the great plains where uncultivated acreage suitable to crops is available.

While crop prospects are less favorable than in either 1942 or 1943—the two highest production years on record—the outlook for meat, milk, eggs, poultry and fish is relatively encouraging, the department said.

There were record numbers of livestock—probably 81,000,000 cattle, 88,000,000 hogs and 53,000,000 sheep and lambs—on farms at the start of the year. There was a record of 431,267,000 hens on farms, and egg production, already at a record level, was 73 per cent above the 1932-41 average in December.

Feed supplies, although lower than a year ago, were said to be ample provided distribution facilities are available and livestock numbers are reduced during the year in line with the WFA requests.

Person-To-Person Salesmanship Will Be Emphasized In Fourth War Loan Drive

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP) — Person-to-person salesmanship will be emphasized during the Fourth War Loan drive as the result of a nationwide survey which showed that "personal solicitation" is the best way to sell bonds, the Treasury said today.

It also announced individual-sale quotas for all states.

Half the nation's gainfully employed were reached by personal solicitation during the Third War loan—and 59 per cent of them bought extra bonds—while only 18 per cent of those not personally solicited did so, the survey showed.

State Quotas Announced

It revealed that people were more easily persuaded to buy war bonds while at work than at home. Sixty-eight per cent of those canvassed at work bought extra bonds, as against 53 per cent of those solicited at home.

The national quota for individual sales in the new drive will be $5,500,000,000 out of a total goal of $14,000,000,000. The individual quotas by states, in millions of dollars, included:

Arkansas, 32; California, 414; Colorado, 40; Idaho, 16; Illinois 368; Iowa 92; Kansas 65; Mississippi 35; Missouri 136; Nebraska 53; Nevada 7; New Mexico 11; New York 911; Oklahoma 58; Texas 210; Utah 22.

Flu Strikes Heavily At Tech Faculty

The current influenza epidemic is hampering activities at Texas Technological college.

President Clifford B. Jones, who was put to bed with flu last week, was reported Tuesday as improving. J. M. Gordon, dean of the arts and sciences division, was also improving Tuesday and expects to be back on the campus within a few days.

Dr. H. L. Kent, administrative assistant who has been out with flu since Saturday, was "about the same" late Tuesday. W. P. Clement, registrar, was reported with a severe cold but expected to be at work this morning.

Mrs. O. V. Adams, wife of Dean Adams of the engineering division and Mrs. R. A. Mills, wife of the professor of English, were also reported to be in bed with influenza.

Recuperating from flu and at work again were S. T. Cummings, purchasing agent, J. N. Michie, head of department of mathematics, Mrs. J. N. Michie, head of department of foods and nutrition and Dr. T. E. Hamilton, instructor in Spanish.

Dallas County Blood Donor Unit Expanded

DALLAS, Jan. 12 (AP)—Expansion of the Dallas county Red Cross blood donor center to accomodate donors in twenty-two counties in Texas and Oklahoma, to produce 750 pints of blood weekly, was planned today with appointment of David Steinicke, Southern Methodist university instructor, as director of a mobile unit.

Detailed plans for the new operations will be announced later, Col. R. P. Palmer, director of the center, declared.

Counties to be served by the mobile collection organization will be Anderson, Collin, Delta, Ellis, Fannin, Freestone, Grayson, Henderson, Hill, Hopkins, Hunt, Kaufman, Lamar, Limestone, Navarro, Rockwall, Smith, Van Zandt, McLennan and Wood in Texas, and Bryan in Oklahoma.

Southern Railroaders Get Pay Concessions

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Jan. 12 (AP) —G. A. Link, general chairman of the brotherhood of railway and steamship clerks, freight handlers, express and station employes, Southern Railway System lines, said today members of his organization had obtained time and one half pay concessions in arbitration under the national railway labor act.

The change will affect approximately 8,000 employes of the Southern railway, effective today, Link said.

Kiwanis Ladies Night Program Is Tonight

Music will feature the program at a ladies' night meeting of the Kiwanis club tonight at 7:30 o'clock, club officials have announced.

The program will be in the East ballroom of Lubbock hotel, and will include group singing; dinner music by a string ensemble of Lu Ann Hardy, Marion Chandler and George Zournas; Mrs. Carl Scoggin, soprano; Sgt. Helen Toussaint, Sgt. William Harrod, Lt. Richard H. Chamberlain, baritone, and "surprises." Others on the program will be Harry Delaney, Miss Mary Evelyn Pickle and Sgt. Alice Ward, it was announced by T. E. Buckner, Kiwanis club president.

Program By Women

There will be a woman master of ceremonies and the program will be completely in charge of women.

Buckner asked that absence of some Kiwanians from the city not be allowed to interfere with presence at the program of their wives, and Kiwanis Secretary-Treasurer W. C. Rylander asked that reservations be made, or indicated in a telephone call to him, not later than today noon.

MISERIES OF

Baby's Cold Relieved As He Sleeps

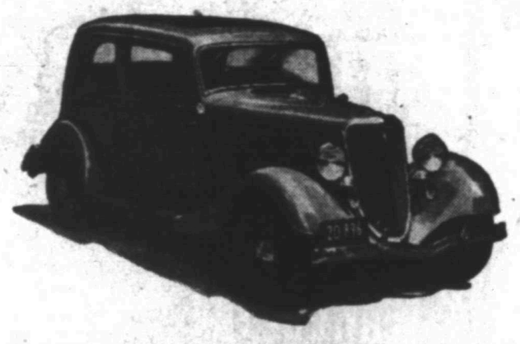

Now . . . here's wonderful home-proved medication that works 3 ways at once to relieve distress of child's cold—even while he sleeps!

Just rub throat, chest and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. Instantly VapoRub starts to relieve coughing spasms, ease muscular soreness or tightness, and invite restful, comforting sleep. Often by morning, most of the misery is gone.

For baby's sake, try VapoRub tonight. It must be good, because when colds strike, most mothers use Vicks VapoRub.

There's life in the old dog yet!

Millions of motorists are amazed by unexpected extra mileage from cars and tires

WHO WOULD ever have thought, say countless car owners, that the old bus would still be running strong in 1944!

They say it with wonder . . . and that is a tribute to the lasting quality which American automobile and rubber companies built into cars and tires.

They say it with pride . . . and that is recognition of the vital part each car plays in helping to solve the nation's wartime transportation problem.

So, to the man who has made his car last, this is a deserved word of thanks. You have done your part in two ways: By driving under 35, and by driving to your service station at least once a week for wartime car-saving and tire-saving care.

This help is always available, ready and waiting, at every Phillips 66 Service Station. Tire-Saving Service includes weekly checking of air pressures . . . inspection for cuts and bruises . . . crisscrossing with the spare every 3,000 miles . . . recommendation for recapping. Car-Saving Service includes inspection of battery, radiator, air filter . . . lubrication of every friction point specified by the maker of your car.

Remember, you are helping to "Guard America's Mileage" when you drive in for wartime Car-Saving and Tire-Saving Service at the Orange and Black 66 Shield . . . the sign of famous Phillips 66 Gasoline and Phillips 66 Motor Oil.

Tuesday Clubs Have Sessions

Discussions of the part of women in the world of today and selections were features of study club sessions in Lubbock Tuesday.

Mrs. Leroy Patton was program leader at a meeting of Twentieth Century club in the Chimayo room of the Hilton hotel. Nineteen members and one guest heard her speech on "Indian Ocean and Its Islands."

Honor Mrs. Mark Allen

Members of Lubbock Woman's club were special guests of Lubbock Woman's Forum meeting in the home of Mrs. R. H. Fulton. Thirty members also asked 25 guests in observance of guest day.

Dr. O. A. Kinchen talked on "Post-War Problems" and Mrs. Jerry Dye played several piano selections. Mrs. Mark Allen, who is moving to Loop, was presented a gift of appreciation by the club.

White and pink carnations and sweetpeas formed the centerpiece for the refreshment table covered with a white cut-work cloth. Tapering white candles lighted the room.

Elect New Officers

Sixteen members of Clement Sorosis club meeting in the home of Mrs. George Lemon with Mrs. W. D. Comer as co-hostess elected officers who will assume their duties in September.

Mrs. Jack Emanuel was voted as a new member. Plans were made in the business meeting for the birthday tea to be given Feb. 8 in the home of Mrs. Fritz Carter, 2425 Nineteenth street. The group will meet next at the Red Cross.

Officers elected were Mesdames Jerry Brooks, president; Fred Youree, vice-president; Homer Roper, recording secretary; M. L. Waldrop, corresponding secretary; George Smith, treasurer; Powell McWhirter, parliamentarian; L. C. Caddell, federation representative; Lemon, executive member.

Hostess Directs Program

Mrs. Harold Blank, hostess to members of Pierian Sorosis Study club, directed a program on "Notable Women in the United States", Mrs. Bonner Cummings; "Women of Our Allies," Mrs. Horace Gilmore; and Mrs. Joe Christian, "Women in Public Office."

Others present included Mesdames Euel Liner, Don King, Ralph Douglas, L. H. Kirby, E. W. Reed, Bill Tinney and Walter Wilson.

Study Club Sews

Members of Sunshine Child Study club meeting in the home of Mrs. Lewis Kittrell sewed Tuesday afternoon.

Attending were Mesdames J. D. Gammill, C. W. Tatum, Frank Bass, S. W. Brunson, Garland Head, W. M. Ryan, J. H. Brock, G. E. Dawson, Clyde Tatum, Joe Baldridge, C. C. Perryman, C. W. Bartlett, J. C. Sanders, A. D. Montgomery and C. V. Sandlin.

Eleven Report

Eleven members of Athenaeum club heard Mrs. T. A. Rhodes, program leader, speak on "Women's Place in the Present Day World" at a meeting in the Lubbock hotel. Mrs. L. P. Gilbert concluded the program on "Meeting Today's Problems Through Federation."

California Couple To Marry In Church Service Tonight

An interesting event on the calendar for 8 o'clock this evening is the marriage of Miss Jean Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Harris of South Gate, Calif., and First Sergeant Clyde H. Dunlap, jr., of Camp Gruber, Okla., and Pasadena, Calif., which is to be solemnized at the First Presbyterian church with Dr. Jack M. Lewis officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Retha R. Martin, 2517 Nineteenth street, will entertain at their home honoring the couple after the ceremony and wedding cake and coffee will be served. Mr. Martin is Sgt. Dunlap's uncle.

In Bridal Party

The bride's attendant will be Miss Jean Watson of Compton, Calif., and M/Sgt. Don Stout of Camp Gruber will be best man.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Southern California where she was a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. Last summer she was chosen to represent the University as guest editor of college clothes section for Mademoiselle magazine.

In civilian life Sgt. Dunlap was associated with his father, C. H. Dunlap, in mercantile business on the West Coast.

Out-of-town guests will include the bride-elect's parents, Mrs. Jean Finley of Austin, and Sgt. Dunlap's aunt, Mrs. John Smock of Seminole.

War Influences Fashion Trend Displayed This Week In New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—The 1944 spring silhouette is stripped for action, shorn of gew-gaws, austere in cut, flamboyant in color.

New York's spring openings, presented this week for visiting fashion editors from all sections of the country, present a theme of conservation of fabric which goes far beyond the limitations of the War Production Board.

Skirts are skin-tight, jackets are ever briefer, sleeves in summer dresses and blouses are practically non-existent. The short dinner dress remains the overwhelming favorite, although a few floor-length styles are returning.

There is an echo of World War I in many of the collections, with a hint of the hip-belted, straight-line styles of the flapper age. Thus far, however, even when dresses flaunt wide sashes tied squarely around the hips, the waistline is still fitted, and there is no tendency toward the flat chested vogue of the Twenties.

Training School Plans Made By Scout Council

Girl Scout council is to sponsor a training school Feb. 21-26 under direction of Miss Alice Mulkey, regional field director for outdoor activities of Girl Scouts of this area. This announcement followed a meeting of the council Tuesday morning at the Little House. Mrs. E. E. Louthan, commissioner, presided. Ten members attended.

Food Waste Over Nation Discussed At H-D Club

When Southwest Ward Home Demonstration club members met with Mrs. H. T. Wiley Tuesday afternoon Miss Clara Pratt, demonstration agent, lectured on food waste. "Three million meals could be served from the plates of the 50,000,000 meals served daily in public eating places," she said. "About one-sixth of the food prepared in American homes goes to the garbage pail," she added.

Mrs. Wiley read "Something Brewing." Mrs. M. Sterling talked on conserving gas in the home and Mrs. Paul Judah discussed the value of eggs in the diet.

Others present were Mesdames Joe Sterling, W. L. Elam, John Aufill, Doyle Oswalt, R. O. Corcorran, Bert Elam, and W. M. Gaston.

Mrs. Gaston, 2407 Thirty-fourth street, will be hostess Jan. 25 at 2:30 p. m. at her home.

Mrs. Adams Is Hostess To OES Past Matrons

Mrs. G. T. Adams, 2102 Fifteenth street, entertained Tuesday night for the OES Past Matrons club. After a business meeting, refreshments were served to Mesdames A. G. Odom, G. C. Mitchell, Clara Abney, Mary F. Hinton, Willie Brown, Rafe Nabors, J. P. Middleton and R. T. Bertram.

CLUB HAS PROGRAM

The Frenship 4-H club met Tuesday with Kathleen Hafiner, club president, in charge. Nell Bartlett led the 45 members present in a song. The meeting was then turned over to Miss Helen Edwards who gave a demonstration on pillow and comfort protectors. The club members then discussed the Texas Food Standard.

WAR ERA CONSTIPATION IS DAMAGING

In these times it is everyone's duty NOT to neglect constipation and suffer miserable acid indigestion, headaches, biliousness or that sluggish feeling which may follow. February Date Is Revealed

An announcement tea for Mrs. Lou Freeman who will become the bride of Lt. Gilbert Zimmerman, who is stationed at Sheppard field, Wichita Falls, sometime in early February was given by Mrs. H. A. Watson, jr., and Miss Oma Wright at the home of Mrs. L. R. Sims, 2011 Twenty-third street, Monday night.

The dining table from which the punch and cookies were served was draped with mirrorcloth. At one end of the table was a large reflector framed by clusters of orchid sweetpeas and fern, and a miniature bride kneeling with a white prayer book and golden cross locket in her hands topped the reflector. White candles burned on each side of the arrangement.

About fifty guests called between 7 and 9 o'clock and were greeted at the door by the receiving line consisting of Miss Wright, the bride-to-be, Mrs. Will H. Brown of Winters, mother of the honoree; Mrs. Paul Kennan who presided at the bride's book; Mrs. Sims and Mrs. Watson. Other members of the house party who poured punch and served cookies to guests were Mrs. Forrest Sanders, Miss Clara Pierce, Mrs. B. A. Maddox and Miss Julia Lair. Miss Marilyn Wilgers presided at the record player.

Parties Honor Bride-To-Be

Miss Helen Thomas, bride-elect of Ensign Newton Bryant Lassiter, is being honored with a party series.

Mesdames Orville Shofner and Vernon Turner gave a miscellaneous shower in her honor Tuesday night at the F. R. Friend home, 2005 Broadway. A rose-tinted mirror bordered with rose gladioli on which the words "Helen and Bryant, Jan. 15" were written in green revealed the wedding date. The bride-elect's parents had announced her engagement several weeks ago.

Miss Sara Daviss presided at the table. White candles in silver holders were at either end of the mirror. Crystal candle holders were on each side of a centerpiece of gladiolas placed on the buffet. Miss Mary Jane Kinard was at the guest book.

Those who called were Misses Ophelia May Beall, Nell Arnett Johnson, Dorothy Nell Swanson, Ruth Macek, Lucille Arnold, Joyce Watson, Betty Rhea Caldwell, Margaret Cammack, Jane Hiatt, Mary Lou Metcalf, Ruth Overton, Bernice Cocanougher, Sarabeth Kimmel, Lalla D'Spain, Lois Alexander, Bea Spivey, Helen Brown, Pauline Stafford, Marguerite Harris, Lynette Merrel, Merle Scoggin, Doris Arthur, Lorella Stephens, Ruby Nelle Smith, Ina Bacon, Virginia Miller, Odessa Walser, Ruth Thomas and Ruby Cowan.

Others were Mesdames James D. McIlyar, Robert Newell, N. H. Lassiter, Jess Seale, C. A. Whitfield, Blandina Trojan, Hugh W Thomas, Robert Coble, Christine Keeny, Brunette Harper, R. L. Edwards and Frances Jones.

Hurlwood Club Meets In Thompson Residence

Hurlwood Home Demonstration club members, meeting with Mrs. D. B. Thompson Tuesday afternoon, transacted business. Nine were present. Miss Clara Pratt will be in charge of the Jan. 25 program in the home of Mrs. A. F. Williamson.

WOLFFORTH WMS

Wolfforth Women's Missionary society, meeting with Mrs. A. R. Carlile Monday afternoon, heard a Royal Service program. Mrs. F. J. Stryker presented a devotion. Mrs. Joe Miller presided.

Others attending were Mesdames Leo Davis, V. W. Allen, S. R. Jerden, Cecil Gillit, R. S. Hobgood, Raymond Hitt, Joe Thomas and Bob Hutcheson.

Strikes' Effect On Fighting Men Cited By Naval Officer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP) — A letter from a naval lieutenant on combat duty in the Pacific, denouncing strikes and asserting "we have a double battle—one with our external enemies—the other with our internal enemies" has been received by Rep. Compton (R-Conn), who said he would bring it to the attention of the House today.

The unnamed officer wrote Compton after the congressman defended Esquire magazine as an aid to morale among fighting men. Second class mailing privileges of the publication are being revoked by Postmaster General Walker.

The lieutenant wrote that one American youth, killed by the Japs in his foxhole, was found clutching a picture of an Esquire Varga girl in his dead fingers.

The lieutenant, who said his position charged him with personnel problems aboard his ship, said news of the railroad and steel strike threats in the ship newspaper, "had a direct deteriorating influence on the members of our crew."

"Tears came into eyes that have survived great naval battles, men who have fought and killed—'what's the use—where are we getting,' they asked," the officer wrote.

Elbert Lavender Is To Be Mid-Term Graduate

FORT WORTH, Jan. 12 (Special)—Elbert Lavender, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Lavender, 2101 Twenty-eighth street, Lubbock is one of 64 candidates for bachelor's degrees in the midyear class at Texas Christian university.

News Briefs

Two non-commissioned officers each from Lubbock and South Plains Army Air fields are attending a short course at Camp Hood, near Temple, to receive instructions in the staging of shows and other post entertainments, post officials reported Monday.

Robert M. Castle, flight engineer with Pan-American Airways at Vera Cruz, Mexico, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Clara L. Castle and sister, Miss Ruth Castle, 1712 Avenue J. He will be here approximately 15 days.

Opti-Mrs. Has Book Review

Mrs. Ivy Savage reviewed "Mama's Bank Account" (Forbes) at a meeting of the Opti-Mrs. club Tuesday night in the home of Mrs. James O. Cade, 1707 Twenty-seventh street, with Mrs. J. B. Morrisset assistant hostess.

During a business hour, plans were made for a party Feb. 29 to which Optimist members will be invited.

Those present were Mesdames V. T. McMullen, Estell Hendrix, J. D. Strickland, Frank E. Hangs, Robert L. Mason, O. W. McGuire and M. L. Waldrop.

It has been estimated that 60 per cent of school children who fail to merit passing grades in school have defective eyesight.

Most Of Labor Law Is Upheld

AUSTIN, Jan. 12 (AP)—All but three provisions of the multiple sectioned Manford union regulatory law, criticized by labor as ruinous and defended by the state as a reasonable protection for the general public and labor are valid.

This is the opinion of Judge J. D. Moore of the 98th district court who yesterday refused to permanently enjoin enforcement of the law which the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organization declare is unconstitutional because it will damage unions irreparably.

Judge Moore said his judgment was a tentative one subject to alteration if attorneys for the state and labor organizations can agree.

Appeal To Be Taken

Attorney James P. Hart declared for the American Federation of Labor that an appeal would be taken from the injunction ruling when it was finally entered.

One section of the law, that requiring paid labor organizers to obtain a state permit before soliciting membership, has been upheld by the state Supreme court in another case. The court's ruling that the permit requirement does not violate the freedom of speech guarantee of the state constitution is on appeal to the Supreme court of the United States.

UNIONS GIVEN WARNING ON FILING REPORTS

AUSTIN, Jan. 12 (U.P.)—Secretary of State Sidney Latham today warned Texas labor unions that they must file financial reports and other data required by the Manford labor act in his office by Feb. 1.

The act, passed by the last session of the state legislature, requires filing of financial reports accompanied by copies of union constitutions and by-laws, names of officers, and working agreements that contain check-off clauses.

Filing of information by unions which operate on a calendar year basis must be by Feb. 1. Latham said that unions operating on a fiscal year system would be allowed 30 days past the close of the year's records to file required reports.

Caldwell's Casualty List In Italy 61

CALDWELL, Jan. 12 (AP) — Burleson county's casualty list in the Italian invasion alone has reached 61, with the receipt of War department news of the death of two additional Caldwell boys in the 36th division.

Messages received yesterday told of the death of Cpl. John E. Reeves, jr., son of Mrs. Maude Reeves and John Reeves, killed in action Dec. 9, and Pvt. Lewis I. Luksa, son of Jan Luksa, killed in action Dec. 10.

Burleson county's population is 18,300; Caldwell's 2,761.

Since the beginning of World War II, sale of monocles in the United States has increased more than 50 per cent.

Radio Operator Of Famed 19th Group On LAAF Broadcast

Regular weekly broadcast of the Lubbock Army Air field band tonight at 7:30 o'clock from the post theater will be highlighted by the story of Aviation Cadet Joseph Corley of Charleston, S. C., who served as a radio operator in the crew of a B-17 with the famous 19th Bombardment group.

Cadet Corley has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for participation in the Coral Sea and Solomon islands engagements and two additional citations. He was at Hickam field when the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor.

In addition to the story of Cadet Corley, the featured hero of the week from the LAAF Hangar of Fame will be Capt. Robert A. Storz, who graduated in class 42-H and has since been decorated on eleven occasions. He holds the Silver Star, the DFC with two Oak Leaf Clusters, and the Air Medal with Five Clusters for his participation in the European, African and Middle Eastern theaters of war which included the Ploesti oil refineries raid in Rumania, the raids on Rome and Athens, the Tunisian and Sicilian campaigns.

Musical part of the program will be highlighted by the playing of "The Pickled Herring Bounce," written by Sgt. Ed Carney of the LAAF band and a vocal solo by Sgt. Sam Carson. Warrant Officer Geo. P. Attridge will direct the band.

Lt. Conrad Vernon will announce the broadcast.

Burma Port Taken

ed Allied grand offensive to drive the Japanese from southeastern area.

That all-out offensive when it comes probably will be a sweeping amphibious drive across the Bay of Bengal, aimed at the capture of Rangoon, Singapore, or both, these observers said.

Front reports indicated that the Allies occupied Maungdaw after an advance of about 15 miles in bitter jungle fighting. The village was seized when Allied troops fogged a crossing of the Bengal-Burma border stream, the Naf, just west of the town, to climax several weeks of ridge-to-ridge, bunker-to-bunker combat.

Aids Allied Supplies

The Japanese apparently were determined to hold the little fishing village, composed mostly of houses on stilts, not only because of its location on a strategic highway, but also because its capture now will enable the Allies to ship supplies and heavy equipment along the Burma coast from their base at Cox's Bazar, 50 miles north.

Maungdaw, which has a fairly good dry weather airfield, is the terminus of an excellent lateral highway which tunnels under the Mayu mountains to the railway town of Buthidaung, 17 miles away. It was along this highway that British and Indian troops braced for their final stand last winter before numerically superior Japanese forces drove them back into Bengal. Their advance had been repulsed at the village of Donbaik, 15 miles short of Akyab.

Leaves and cut grass, allowed to rot during the winter, may be used as fertilizer for spring gardens.

Negro Voting Case In Court

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP) — Litigation to determine whether the Supreme court should overrule a previous decision and hold that negroes in Texas have the constitutional right to vote in a congressional primary, was before the tribunal today for argument.

It was the second time this term that the question has been up for debate. During the first argument on November 10 and 12 no one appeared to represent the Houston election judges alleged to have denied Lonie E. Smith, a negro, the right to vote in a 1940 primary.

Reargument was ordered by the tribunal after state officials requested an opportunity to be heard. They also filed a brief contending that the Democratic party can regulate its policies and determine who shall constitute its membership, unless specifically prohibited by statutory law."

Negroes May Organize

The brief added that negroes had the right to "organize a political party in the state of Texas and exclude from said party all persons except negroes."

Counsel for the negroes have urged the court to "reexamine" its 1935 opinion sustaining the exclusion of negroes from Texas primaries.

They cited a 1941 Supremt court opinion which they said held that in a state where choice at the primary was tantamount to election, the right to vote in the primary was derived from the federal constitution.

This 1941 opinion, in a case from Louisiana, was "ignored" by the federal district court at Houston and by the Fifth Federal Circuit court in upholding the exclusion of Smith, his attorneys asserted.

Tax Demands

state his demands in even more vigorous language when he submits his budget message Thursday.

Most of the lawmakers didn't want to talk for publication. They just shook their heads when asked if there was any chance of going much beyond the $2,000,000,000 mark in an election year."

Another Request Seen

Rep. Knudson (R-Minn), a power on the House ways and means committee, said he supposed the President is going to ask for another tax bill in 1944.

"This the Republicans will oppose," he declared.

Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Senate finance committee declined to comment directly on the President's stand, but he told newspapermen that he himself was convinced taxes could go too high.

"I believe with Chairman Doughton of the ways and means committee," he said, "that you can shear a sheep for years but you can skin it only once."

Tito's Headquarters City Taken By Nazis

LONDON, Jan. 12 (AP) — A Yugoslav army of liberation communique said today that a German tank column had driven to Jajce, 30 miles south of Banja Luka on the Vrbas river, and the Budapest radio asserted the Nazis had occupied the town, previously identified as headquarters of Marshal Josip Broz (Tito), the partisan leader.

Tito's communique, broadcast by the free Yugoslav radio, declared that the Germans were throwing increasing weight into their new offensive against central Bosina, where Jajce lies high up in the Vrbas valley.

German tank formations "succeeded in thrusting forward from Banja Luka to Mrkonjicgrad and Jajce," the bulletin added without saying whether they had been occupied, and fierce fighting is raging between the two towns.

German broadcasts claimed the seizure of Jajce three weeks ago.

Units of the Prince Eugen division attacking at Travnik, 20 miles southeast of Jajce, were repulsed by partisan troops, Tito said, and in eastern Bosnia, the German-held localities of Frebrenica and Vlasinyaka were captured.

Agreement On Subsidies Seen

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP) — Belief that President Roosevelt left the door open for a compromise of the food subsidy battle was widely expressed in Congress today — even though the chief executive didn't mention the provocative word 'subsidy' in his annual message yesterday.

While he called urgently for a continuation of government controls over living costs, Mr. Roosevelt dealt with the whole problem in terms which found ready acceptance among congressional leaders on both sides of the issue.

Aiken In Agreement

One of the principal Senate foes of consumer food subsidies, Senator Aiken (R-Vt), said "no one could disagree" with the President's recommendation for a cost-of-food law authorizing government support of minimum guaranteed prices to farmers, coupled with a continuation of retail ceilings.

"Everyone accepts the principle of support prices to farmers, and that kind of subsidies wouldn't be opposed generally," Aiken said. "As for consumer ceiling prices, they should certainly be retained and could be under the present stabilization law."

Senate Democratic Leader Barkley, expressing the view that additional legislation to authorize price supports would be needed, said he expects to confer soon with federal food and stabilization officials on the subject.

Lifting AAF Ban Is Boost To "Gloves"

Comment Withheld By Local Fields

There was no comment Tuesday night from local Army Air fields in regard to effect of the report from Fort Worth yesterday regarding the lifting of the ban on the participation of trainees in the Golden Glove boxing tournaments.

Tournament Director Morley Jennings, however, said that the word from Fort Worth gave the District Golden Glove Tournament at Texas Tech gym Feb. 3, 4 and 5, a decided "shot in the arm" and that prospects for a big tournament were greater than at any time.

No official order had been received at the local fields late Tuesday, but on the strength of the announcement from Fort Worth, quoting Lt. Gen. Barton K. Yount as the source of the announcement, as issued by the United Press, the entry of the local soldiers is to be expected.

The local tournament was postponed yesterday, after being first set for Friday, Saturday and Monday, and will be held on the first week end in February.

Cheered by the word from Tahoka that eight or ten top notch leather pushers would be sent to the Lubbock tournament from the meet there, and many others from the Lubbock area expected to come into the fold the success of the local meet seems assured.

The Tahoka tournament closed last night with the crowning of the champions, and Leo Jackson, director of the tournament there, said he felt confident that the Tahoka boxing team would give a good account of its powers in the Lubbock tournament.

Many of the fields are in Texas. Randolph, Brooks and the Cadet Center at San Antonio, Ellington at Houston, Fort Worth, Midland, Amarillo, Dalhart, Lubbock, South Plains, Waco, Bryan and those in the Valley around Harlingen will be among those directly affected.

TEXAS GOLDEN GLOVES ARE GIVEN MAJOR BOOST

FORT WORTH, Jan. 12 (AP) — The Texas Golden Gloves were given a major boost today when restrictions were lifted to allow Army Air Force trainee participation in the popular boxing tournament.

All amateur boxers on duty at stations of the Army Air Forces Training command — both flying and technical schools—were given permission to enter the event.

Restrictions announced recently were relaxed due to the national scope of the sponsorship and because participation will involve travel for only a relatively small number of men within the command.

Champions Crowned As Tahoka Boxing Tournament Closes

TAHOKA, Jan. 12 — The two day invitation boxing tournament sponsored by the Tahoka High school as a preliminary to the District Golden Glove tourney in Lubbock Feb. 3, 4 and 5 closed here last night with champions crowned in eight divisions.

Eight championship fights on the card tonight rounded out the team of champions with Jackie Driver named king of the flyweights, James Tippett dean of the bantamweights, Jack Miller tops in the featherweights, Bill Grider the best of the lightweights, Gene Knight king of the welterweights, Lavaughn Caraway tops in the middleweights, Bill Woods champion of the light heavies and A. L. Hodge the heavyweight champion.

Leo Jackson, director of the Tahoka tournament, asked Golden Glove headquarters in Lubbock for "at least 14 entry blanks" and indicated that Tahoka would be ready to provide a rough team for the meet in Lubbock, Feb. 3, 4 and 5.

Semi-finals were held tonight in two divisions with Jack Driver reaching the flyweight finals with a decision over Charles McLaurin of O'Donnell while Buddy Bragg reached the finals with a decision over Bobby Scott.

One of the best fights of the night found Dwain Vaughn winning a decision over Glenn Newton in the bantamweight semi-finals while Tippett reached the finals by a default.

The lone knockout punch of the night came in the lightweight finals as Bill Grider landed the sleep punch on L. W. King in the opening round to win the title.

Caraway gained the middleweight championship with a decision over Hillery Mather.

Jackie Driver then decisioned Buddy Bragg for the flyweight crown and in the grand finale, James Tippett annexed the bantamweight championship in a slam-bang battle with Dwain Vaughn.

The finals drew another banner crowd and the tournament was pronounced as one of the most successful in the history of the mid-winter sports event.

Marine Has Athletic Situation In Hand

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Jan. 12 (AP)—Marine Private Turby Crawford, of Shorewood, Wis., has the athletic situation well in hand at Penn State.

As a member of last summer's track team he won honors in pole vaulting and when fall came quickly earned himself a starting berth on state's soccer squad. When the season closed he turned to football, for the few remaining games, and became a star tailback.

From football he turned to ice hockey and makes his debut with the Nittany Lions against Colgate, Jan. 29.

Medical Detachment Leads SPAAF Loop

Undisputed leadership of the South Plains Army Air Field Squadron cage league went to the Medical Detachment five last night after the Medics won the feature game of the night over the Student Detachment club, 31 to 18.

Squadron Two defeated the 336 Colored Detachment 22 to 14 in the other battle on the card. Scoring honors in this game ended in a three way tie with Settles and Mehew of the winners and Jones of the losers all getting six points.

In the feature game, Hargrave of the Medical Detachment five carried off top honors of the night, matching the losers score with 18 points. Hargraves gave the Medics a running start in the game and they were never in danger of losing their comfortable lead.

Colka was high point man for the Student five with eight points.

Comeback Due In Grid Loop

Ten Southeastern Teams May Play

ATLANTA, Jan. 12 (AP) — A football cheer went up today within the Southeastern conference bailiwick on the basis of indications that perhaps ten of twelve member schools would be entered in next fall's gridiron parade.

Last minute advices from the universities of Kentucky and Florida showed that one was definitely getting set for 1944 and the other was highly optimistic. Neither had football teams last season.

Kentucky has decided to sponsor a football team next fall "if enough boys are available to make up a squad," said Bernie Shively, athletic director for the Wildcats. Preliminary steps, he added, already have been taken to arrange a schedule.

Florida Is Interested

Florida, through head coach Tom Lieb, reported it was "definitely interested" in fielding a team.

The Florida and Kentucky announcements came almost simultaneously with an official report from President L. N. Duncan of Auburn, who said "Auburn wants to resume the sport."

Four southeastern teams — Georgia, Georgia Tech, L. S. U. and Tulane — played regular schedules last year and are expected to continue this season.

Alabama, which had an "informal" aggregation last season, is "going to make every effort to play formal football" this year, Coach Frank Thomas said. Tennessee Coach John Barnhill reported a favorable outlook for a resumption of play by the Volunteers. Vanderbilt operated under "informal" colors last year and can be expected to do the same—or better—this season.

The full roll call leaves only Mississippi and Mississippi State answering with a definte "nay" for the present.

Tech Engineers And LAAF Clash Tonight

The Texas Tech Engineer's Unit and Lubbock Army Air field will blast off the lid tonight at 7 o'clock at the Texas Tech gym on the newly formed four-team basketball league. There will be no admission charged for the game.

The two teams have started the season with prospects high, and the battle tonight should provide some colorful fireworks for the cage fans of the city, and a banner turnout is expected for the opener.

Paced by Reinecke, former Wooster Tech star from Wooster, Mass., and Bailey, former star with the Southern California Trojans, the Engineers will be at full strength for the opening game.

Engineer officials Tuesday night indicated that Reinecke and Bailey would start at forward, Booth at center, with Lanahan and Kooi at the guard posts.

Just who LAAF will start in the game remained in doubt, but indications from the West Base were that there would be a powerful five on the floor at the opening tipoff.

Two Westerner Rallies Fall Short; 848th Squadron Five Downs High Schoolers 37-34

The Lubbock Westerners staged two stirring rallies Tuesday night at the high school gym, but went down before the smooth working 848th Squadron cage five from South Plains Army Air field, 37-34.

It was big Bob Edwards from Monahans, Texas, that provided the spark for the winners, and was the high point man for the night. Edwards also played a great defensive game, and his work on rebounds under his own basket was as important as his uncanny ability to drop the ball through the meshes at the other end of the court.

Edwards dropped six goals in from the playing floor and toed the foul line for two more to account for 14 of his team's points.

Marion Manderson, rangy high school center, paced the Westerners in their game battle against the veteran soldier five, firing in five field goals and one donation toss for 11 points while Bill Cope helped him along with four field goals and a free pitch for nine points as the two accounted for 20 of the Westerner's 34 points.

Beauchamp, of the Army five, was next in line with seven points.

The soldiers worked smoothly from the start, and pulled away to a first quarter lead of 13 to 6 over the Westerners, and were never behind.

The battling boys of Dixie White stormed back in the second period, and pulled up into a 16-16 tie with the soldiers, but again the Army lads put on the steam and piled up a 24 to 17 lead by halftime.

The Westerners came back after the intermission, and history repeated from other games of the year as the Westerners came out swinging and pulled up on the soldiers. At the third quarter, the schoolboys were breathing on the necks of the soldiers, 31 to 30.

Midway in the final period, the soldiers built up a five point lead and began to play for time, and the Westerners were never able to break up their passing game and Timekeeper J. Mule Davis turned loose his heavy artillery to end the game without the Westerners ever able to offer another serious threat.

In a curtain raiser, the Lubbock Cowhands took a 19 to 11 win over the Cowboys in a battle that found both teams displaying some promising future stars. Crawford was high point man for the winners, getting eight points.

ESCOBAR IN PANAMA

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Jan. 12 (AP)—Sixto Escobar, former bantamweight boxing champion, now is a member of a mobile infantry unit, stationed at the Panama Canal, it was announced today. He entered the Army in March, 1942, in Puerto Rico.

Nine New Names In Major League Stars

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 12 (AP)—Reflecting the great changes in baseball resulting from the war, the 1943 All-Star team, announced today by the Sporting News, includes nine players chosen for the first time by members of the Baseball Writers, Association.

Only Morton Cooper, the St. Louis Cardinals' pitcher, held over from the 1942 team, while Luke Appling, shortstop of the Chicago White Sox and the American League's batting champion came back after having been named previously in 1936 and 1940.

The virtually complete remaking of the team brought initial recognition to such established players as Billy Herman of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Rudy York of the Detroit Tigers and Billy Nicholson of the Chicago Cubs, who had failed to make the grade in previous seasons.

The team's lineup (with votes in parenthesis):

Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinals (217), center field.

Bill Nicholson, Chicago Cubs (129), right field.

Rudy York, Detroit Tigers, (165), first base.

Billy Herman, Brooklyn Dodgers (128), second base.

Luke Appling, Chicago White Sox (131), shortstop.

Bill Johnson, New York Yankees (109), third base.

Walker Cooper, St. Louis Cardinals (158), catcher.

Spurgeon Chandler, New York Ynakees (215), Morton Cooper, St. Louis Cardinals (197), and Truett Sewell, Pittsburgh Pirates (182), pitchers.

Of the 1942 All-Star team, five members—Ted Willimas, Joe DiMaggio, Enos Slaughter, Johnny Mize and Johnny Pesky—are in the armed forces, while Joe Gordon, Stan Hack, Ernie Bonham, Mickey Owen and Tex Hughson failed to qualify again.

Baylor Downs Aggies 48-43

T.C.U. And S.M.U. To Tangle Tonight

(By The Associated Press)

A growling Baylor Bear quintet clawed its way to a hard-earned 48-43 victory over the youthful Texas Aggies last night at Waco to inaugurate the week's Southwest conference basketball schedule.

The win pushed the Bruins up a notch in the loop ladder, one rung ahead of the Texas Christian Horned Frogs and the Aggies, both of whom have lost two title tilts and won none.

TCU plays Southern Methodist at Dallas tonight in a conference game while the Texas Longhorns meet the Corpus Christi Naval Air center at Austin in a non-conference contest.

Aggies Inaccurate

Baylor, with one title win and two losses, can thank the Aggies' inaccuracy from the free throw line for their victory last night.

The Maroons missed 14 gratis shots granted them on the basis of 22 Bear fouls.

Three players fouled out of the close game with less than a minute to go — Buddy Ekas, who kept the College Station lads in the fray with ten points; Marlin Hicks, hot-shot Bruin center who poured 19 tallies through the meshes for scoring honors, and his teammate, Guard Frank Scott.

Baylor led the Aggies 23 to 19 at half time.

On Friday night, Arkansas meets Rice at Houston. On Saturday night, the teams play again, Texas battles the Aggies at Austin and Baylor tangles with TCU at Fort Worth.

Nation's Top Scorer On Great Lakes Team

GREAT LAKES, Ill., Jan. 12 (AP)—Coach Tony Hinkle, who has a wealth of material for his Great Lakes basketball team, now has available the nation's top scorer in college competition.

Johnny Abramovic, former Salem (W. Va.) college star, who has arrived at the station, played for a few minutes in the Sailors' easy win over Lawrence (Wis.) college last night.

Abramovic holds the national scoring record of 2,170 points in four season, 777 of which he scored in one season.

Navy And Marine Leaders Value "Bodily Combat" Sports Highly As Battle Training

BY PAT O'BRIEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—Take it from the top men of the Navy and Marines — sports, particularly the bodily combat variety, play an important part in battle training and physical conditioning during war years as well as in peacetime.

The endorsements came from Navy Secretary Knox and Lt. Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift, Marine Corps commandant, shortly after President Roosevelt's recommendation for a national service law. Such legislation may force a showdown on whether athletes are essential to the war effort.

"We of the Navy believe football should be continued," Knox said last night at the Washington touchdown club's annual banquet. "We believe it is essential training for war duty."

Outdoor Sports Emphasized

And in peacetime, the secretary continued, outdoor sports programs involving bodily contact — "and that primarily means football" — should be emphasized to improve the nation's physical fitness standards. Military leaders were amazed at the high percentage of men found unfit for service duty during the present war, he said, adding that "only a nation able to fight to preserve its liberty is fit to be free."

The Navy chief expressed the belief that intensive physical fitness programs — for children, youths and adults alike — were necessary for the nation's future well being, saying that "a durable peace for the future must be backed by force."

Knox indicated that the Navy, whose pre-flight cadets and V-12 college trainees made up some of the country's top teams last fall, was going ahead with plans for football this year. He expressed sharp disagreement with the Army policy of barring college trainees from varsity competition. Secretary of War Stimson has explained that the Army students are too busy for other than intramural athletics.

Hoppe's Lead Reduced In Billiard Match

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (U.P.)—Welker Cochran of San Francisco, won two out of three blocks played yesterday in his cross - country, non-title three cushion billiard match with World's Champion Willie Hoppe, but Hoppe retained the lead by taking the third block easily, 62 to 48, to give him a total of 650 to Cochran's 590.

Hoppe led, 400 to 342, at the conclusion of the Kansas City portion of their match. Cochran fought to close the gap through the first day of their Chicago competition and yesterday, won the first two blocks, 51 to 48, and 50 to 40.

The players finish their match here Saturday and move east to Detroit and New York.

TIP-OFF: Apparently the New Deal's political high command is not sure that Gen. Douglas MacArthur would refuse the Republican presidential nomination were it offered him. The tip-off is that the Virginio Gayda of the New Deal, Walter Winchell, recently has taken to slipping into his column veiled cracks at the overall commander in the Southwest Pacific.

The New Deal's pet hatchetman, who divides his time between the New York saloons, telling the Navy whom it should commission and the State department how it should handle the Argentina matter, knows full well that a lot of quiet organization work is being done for MacArthur by admirers who would like to see the general go into the White House next year. No dummy, Winchell also knows it is entirely possible that MacArthur forces might blitz the GOP convention in the final 24 hours and seek to draft the general as a candidate.

So here and there, mixed up in the items about Gotham's charming drunks and Hollywood's divorce set, Winchell has been dropping in little items aimed at making MacArthur look bad.

Sure, it's Winchell's right to do it. As a free American, a radio commentator and newspaper columnist, he has a right to say what he pleases politically, and otherwise, and we'd be the last to deny him the right.

But when Winchell starts rapping MacArthur, the suggestion that the general is not entirely out of the presidental picture makes sense.

It's a tip-off—make no mistake about it.

SPEAKING further of politics—and this time closer to home—it is being whispered around that Rollin McCord, district attorney of the 106th Judicial district, is going to run for Congress.

Forty-year old Mr. McCord has a good record in public office. He served two terms as Lynn county attorney and is now serving his second term as D.A. in the area comprising Garza, Lynn, Terry, Dawson, Yoakum and Gaines counties. He is married and has two children. Clean cut, he is highly respected by his constituency.

Just how much luck Mr. McCord would have trying to unseat George Mahon is a matter for conjecture. Mr. McCord's record shows him to be a very good vote-getter, but, of course, Mr. Mahon is no slouch, either, when it comes to campaigning.

There are 26 counties in the Congressional district and, if things run true to form, about 65,000 votes likely will be cast in the congressional race; maybe 60,000 will catch it. Mr. McCord's judicial district can be figured to cast around 13,500 to 15,000 votes or, roughly, about one-fourth of the total. That he would run a strong race in his home section is a cinch but, unlike Mr. Mahon, he is unknown, generally, in other parts of the far-flung 19th Congressional district.

Thus far there has been no official filing for the congressional seat. C. L. Harris, formerly of Dickens county and more recently living here, who ran in 1940, has announced his intention of making a second try, and Congressman Mahon, when here a week ago said he would, of course, run for a sixth term. There is some talk that a Big Spring man, too, will be in the race but unless all early signs fail, it will be Mahon against the field—or, perhaps, the field against Mahon.

John Q. Citizen will have the final say along about next July or August.

Army camp installations in East Texas may teach the natives over there a good deal, it seems.

Shortly after a camp was opened up near Tyler, one of the Piney Woods boys saw a motorcycle and rider coming along and, never having seen a motorcycle before, grabbed up his rifle and took a shot at it.

"Did yuh git the varmint, Joe Bailey?" his wife called out.

"Nope," answered Joe, "I never killed it. I can still hear it growlin'. But I sure made it turn the man loose!"

THE other day we had a mention here concerning the movie, "Princess O'Rourke," closing Wednesday night at the Lindsey. We said we had been told by two men in the theater business that the film was another piece of political propaganda, neatly put over by Warner Brothers, which concern made "Mission to Moscow."

Pointing out that we had not seen the picture, we said our two informants—who are interested in dozens of showhouses and who keep in close touch with the movie business the nation over—told us many theater owners were hopping mad over the political propaganda angle of "Princess O'Rourke." We said we aimed to see the picture while it was here.

Well, we did. And we weren't able to detect any political propaganda of any kind. "Princess O'Rourke" is a delightfully amusing piece of entertainment on the line of "It Happened One Night," and "The More the Merrier." To be sure, the White House sequences are far-fetched and there are some complimentary references to the President. But why shouldn't the movies, or any of us as individuals, make complimentary references to the President of the United States, whomever he may be? Just because we don't agree with everything he does is no reason why we can't — or shouldn't—see his good points, or remember that he is a very human individual and the titular head of our country?

It is entirely possible that "Princess O'Rourke" has been "cut" since it first came out. We heard the propaganda story several months ago when the film was new and it may then have been highly propagandized. But it isn't now—at least, not in our book.

The Plainsman does not believe in a great deal of the Roosevelt theory of government, nor does he approve of many Rooseveltian actions, including extension of terms past the second. But he hasn't gotten to the point yet where his blood pressure soars at any complimentary reference to the President, or where he's always "skeered" a New Deal boogeyman is hiding under the sofa.

And he hopes he never will get to that point.

FRANK TOLBERT—now a sergeant of U. S. Marines—who got his newspaper start on The Avalanche-Journal, is widening his literary field. The son of Mrs. Frances Tolbert, 2119 Twenty-seventh street, the sergeant has a story, "The Absent-Minded Marine," in the next issue of Esquire magazine.

Sergeant Tolbert has had a number of stories published in Collier's and has done considerable good work for publications of the Marine corps. Frank is a "natural" writer—always has been since he was old enough to string words together.

In the post-war era he's likely to become one of the nation's top-flight story spinners. He certainly has a good start in that direction.

CHAPTER XXI

When they returned Frank had left and Emily was upstairs. Nancy came into her room, her cheeks bright with wind, her eyes heavy, her hair tumbled. She said, "I went out to Lawson on a call with Jim . . ."

Emily was brushing her hair with long, even strokes. She said, without comment:

"I saw you go."

Nancy looked at her with a strange, half-reluctant malice. She said:

"You sent Frank home early."

"I was tired."

"I heard him ask you to marry him."

Emily shrugged indifferently. She said, "He doesn't mean it. It's his way of being—flattering. I dare say he asks—everyone—"

"He didn't ask me," said Nancy. "I would have jumped at the chance."

Emily laid down the hair brush. "I don't believe that, Nancy," she said.

"Why?"

"You don't love him."

"I like him,' said Nancy. She perched on the edge of the bed and clasped her hands around her knees. "He's physically attractive to me. I like his background and his money and the things I could do with it. What more could I ask . . ."

"A great deal," her sister said. She looked with level eyes at the younger girl. "You have it in you," she said bluntly, "to love one man very much. That man isn't Frank. If you married him or any man whom you didn't love, you would be miserable."

"Sez you," said Nancy, "don't judge me by yourself. I take it you refused the offer?"

"Naturally."

"Poor mother," said Nancy. "She set her heart on my capturing Frank . . . but failing that it would be an equal feather in her cap if you did. Now, thanks to you, she loses out both ways."

Emily's firm red mouth straightened. She picked up the brush again and drew the stiff bristles through the cloudy dark hair.

Nancy slid off to bed. "Good night," she said, "and pleasant dreams . . . "

At the door she turned.

"Don't get any high-minded notion," she warned, "about handing Frank over to me. I'm no longer interested . . . I've other plans."

The door closed behind her. Emily stared for a long moment at her own face in the mirror. She saw with detachment that her eyes brimmed with tears. Nancy, she thought dully, whom she loved very much, had become her enemy. It isn't my fault, Emily thought, refusing to let the tears fall.

Other plans? Which included Jim? But Nancy wasn't the woman for Jim, she would hurt him, she would ruin him. She wouldn't, conscientiously, perhaps, but the damage would be done just the same. And there's nothing I can do, Emily thought, nothing.

Nothing anyone could do. Nancy tearing the snapshots of Drew Warner into fine pieces was thinking that, too. She thought, serves Emily right. If she wanted Jim Thompson why didn't she do something about it when they were in Boston togeher . . .? I'm not sorry for her."

She wasn't sorry for anyone, except herself. Drew, she whispered, mutely, Drew—

Anything to forget, strike out, wound, hurt, stab . . . never mind who got in your way . . . After a while your own pain might dull, might cease to trouble. When it did you could afford to be kind to people again. But now you were armored in agony, you were encased in it, it didn't matter to you what happened to anyone else.

The long summer slipped quietly toward autumn. Outwardly things were little changed. Jim had settled to his routine, he and David Hall worked together in complete amity and understanding. Almost every fine evening Nancy went out with Jim on his early calls and waited for him in his car. The car had a radio and she amused herself while he was gone. They would come home and raid the ice box. Sometimes Doctor Hall insisted on taking the early calls himself and giving Jim an opportunity to get off to the beach or the club with Nancy and her crowd.

Frank was a constant caller, dogged, determined. Emily, tired of battling him, went now and then to the club or beach with him, occasionally Jim and Nancy were with them. It looked to the rest of Cranberry like a very settled foursome. Even Elsie Edgar was aware of it. "You know, Millicent," she told her friend, "I've always preferred Nancy . . . but Emily's a nice girl and I've always liked her. Of course I would never stand in Frank's way. I'd like him to marry and settle down."

She added that she had a special place for Nancy in her heart because she had always reminded her of the little girl whom the Edgars had lost many years ago. "Emily is so serious," added Elsie, a large, vital woman, "and I'm serious enough as it is. Nancy's the sort of girl I need around that gloomy old house, However, it's up to Frank and, I suppose, Emily. He told me that she had already refused him 11 times this summer. I simply cannot understand it. I was certain he was joking."

Black mark against Emily who dared to refuse an Edgar.

(To Be Continued)

The term "dog days" for late summer originated in the belief that dogs were especially liable to go mad at that time, although actually fewer go mad in summer than in any other season.

THE BRITISH AND OIL SUPPLIES

It is to be hoped that the President is correct in reporting that a much larger part of the astronomical quantities of gasoline and oil required in the Mediterranean war zones will come from British-controlled sources during 1944 than they have supplied in the past.

This should be done. If it isn't done, the groundwork for another post-war scandal almost certainly will be laid.

Despite attempts to silence them, more than a few complaints have been heard that the British aren't doing anything like as much as they could in supplying the gasoline requirements of the war. Our administration has been very hush-hush about this. But the fact remains that Uncle Sam and other American sources have supplied practically all the fuel requirements. The charges have been made that the British not only have failed to aid in these supplies, but have neglected, or refused to develop, potential sources of supply.

This has led to the very definite suspicion that the British may be thinking of the day when Uncle Sam's oil resources are so depleted that he may have to turn to Britain's virtually intact supplies, paying whatever prices our cousins may choose to charge, as in the late, lamented crude rubber industry.

Possibly these suspicions are entirely unfounded. But there could be no better way to allay them completely than for the British to tap their own supplies more generously.

Soldier Convicted On Mann Act Violation

EL PASO, Jan. 12 (AP) — Sentencing was expected Saturday for Ralph Francis Claggett, 31-year-old former Washington, D. C., resident convicted in federal court yesterday of violation of the Mann act.

With his wife and two of his four children in the courtroom, Clagett heard 24-year-old Kate McManus testify that he had "picked her up" in a Washington park five years ago and that since that time she had borne two children, one of them Clagett's, while serving as the Clagett housekeeper.

Specifically, Clagett was convicted of interstate transportation of the domestic from Washington to Silver City, N. M., for immoral purposes. When the Claggetts moved to Silver City for Mrs. Claggett's health, Miss McManus went along as housekeeper.

The young woman testified that she had "been on the street" for the defendant and that he had waited for her while she had "dates" with soldiers.

BEAR CUB DIES

EL PASO, Jan. 12 (AP) — A newborn cub bear deserted by its mother, died in a pullman compartment aboard a west-bound limited Tuesday, ending with a tragic touch a story that started hilariously in the rail yards of Kansas City union station where the cub was born in the baggage car.

ON BROADWAY

(Copyright, 1943, For The Journal)

The First Nights: The year began with a score for the theater. After a diet of mediocrities, the reviewers finally met up with a play they could not get their teeth into. This was "Over Twenty One," which Ruth Gordon scrivened for her own rich talents. About some local biggies in the war camps (named as Ralph Ingersoll and Dotty Parker), this frolic earned general hurrahs, with one critic finding it "a delicious comedy of charm and several kinds of laughter — all good" . . . "Ramshackle Inn" fetched ZaSu Pitts, the cinema flutterer, to the footlights. She plays a quavery spinster who gets clue-jumpy in a batch of sinners. Joe Downing, Harlan Briggs, Ruth Holden, et al, jump with her. The farce got pushed around, but Miss Pitts was enthusiastically welcomed. H. Barnes found her "antics artful and beautifully timed for laughter." The press also threw in a few plugs for Mary Barthelmess.

The Magic Lanterns: The N. Y. Film Critics held their annual beauty show and picked "Watch on the Rhine" as their ever-lovin' best. It was a good pick — and so were the minor awards — the directors, players, etcetera. What makes you glad "Watch on the Rhine" got it is a peek at some of the runners-up. Included among the best 10 are some of the sourest (three, anyway) that ever chased your deputy out of the theater. Which only goes to show — that whatever Hollywood makes somebody's going to like. The West Coast academy balloters will be sure to overrule the Manhattan judges. The academy medals are a swap, anyway, with lal the studios lobbying for their honeys — so that everybody goes home with something, even if it's only an Oscar for boring the fewest people in 1943 . . . "The Human Comedy" finished second, Saroyan is always chasing the winner in the theater, too . . . The week's loner, "Government Girl," will never get down to the pay-off ballot. It attempts to picture some of the left-handed maneuvers in Washington, D. C. — but comes up with an indictment of confusion in Hollywood. Olivia de Havilland, Sonny Tufts and James Dunn hope you'll understand it's just a living.

Sewell Stokes relates in Theater Arts Monthly that Noel Coward, who has made monkeys of his hecklers for 20 years, has acquired a new abuser. Sean O'Casey hammers him for three chapters of his book. THE Front Pages: The Miami Herald editorialassoed Irvin S. Cobb, calling him "a former humorist." The Herald was incensed at Cobb's quoted remarks that Gen. Patton should be sent to California to deal with certain Jap-Americans in the camps. Said the editorial, in part: "This is a slanderous insult to Gen. Patton and an insult to everything clean and fine in our American way of life: The foul suggestion that an American officer be sent in to slaughter defenseless human beings whose only known crime has been to be born of an alien race. It is true Mr. Cobb has been ill. He ought to also have his head examined" . . . The H-Trib's Jos. Newman identifies some of the charming people who put the snatch on the gov't of Bolivia. The new biggies, he reports, include an anti-Semitic newspaper owner, three avowed pro-Nazi cabinet members, and a sawdust president, Villarroel who'll do as he's told. The policy is decidedly anti-USA.

"Trench Foot" Strikes Both Sides In Italy

By ERNIE PYLE

Journal War Correspondent

AT The Front Lines In Italy, Jan. 12. (By Wireless)—You've heard of trench mouth and athlete's foot, but now another occupational disease of warfare has sprung up on both sides here in the Italian war. It is called "trench foot." The Germans as well as the American have it. It was well known in the last war.

Trench foot comes from a man's feet being wet and cold for long periods and from his not taking off his shoes often enough. In the mountains the soldiers sometimes go for two weeks and longer without ever having their shoes off and without ever being dry.

ERNIE PYLE

With trench foot the tissues gradually seem to go dead, and sores break out. It is almost the same as the circulation being stopped and the flesh dying. In extreme cases gangrene occurs. We have had cases where amputation was necessary. And in other cases the soldier won't be able to walk again for six months.

In a way it is much like frostbite, and as in frostbite, it is the wrong thing to put your feet in hot water when you get an opportunity.

Experiments Being Made

Sometimes they've let their trench foot go so long without complaining that they have finally been unable to walk and have had to be taken down the mountain in litters.

Others get down under their own power, agonizingly. Recently one boy was a day and a half getting down the mountain on what would normally be a two-hour descent. He arrived at the bottom barefooted, carrying his shoes in his hand, and with his feet bleeding. He was in a sort of daze from the pain.

One battalion has been experimenting by having its soldiers wrap part of a cellophane gas cap around their feet, between their socks and their shoes, in order to keep their feet dry. The battalion surgeon doesn't yet know whether the experiment will work, because right in the middle of it we had a week of dry weather.

THE fighting on the mountaintop sometimes almost reaches the caveman stage. The Americans and Germans are frequently so close that they actually throw rocks at each other.

They use up many times as many hand grenades as we have had in any other phases of the Mediterranean war. And you have to be pretty close when you throw hand grenades.

Rocks play a big part in the mountain war. You hide behind rocks, you throw rocks, you sleep in rock crevices, and you even get killed by flying rocks.

When an artillery shell bursts on a loose rock surface, rock fragments are thrown for many yards. In one battalion 15% of the casualties are from flying rocks.

Also, now and then an artillery burst from a steep hillside will loosen big boulders which go leaping and bounding down the mountainside for thousands of yards. The boys say such a rock sounds like a windstorm coming down the mountainside.

Wisecracks Are Plentiful

When soldiers come down the mountain out of battle they are dirty, grimy, unshaven and weary. They look 10 years older than they are. They don't smile much.

But the human body and mind recover rapidly. A couple of days down below and they begin to pick up. It's funny to see a bunch of combat soldiers after they've shaved and washed up. As one said: "We all look sick after we've cleaned up, we're so white."

It's funny to hear them talk. One night in our cowshed I heard one of them say how he was going to keep his son out of the next war.

"As soon as I get home I'm going to put 10-pound weights in his hands and make him jump off the garage roof, to break down his arches," he said. "I'm going to feed him a little ground glass to give him a bad stomach, and I'm going to make him read by candlelight all the time to ruin his eyes. When I get through with him he'll be double-4 double-F."

ANOTHER favorite expression of soldiers just out of combat runs like this:

"Well, let's go down to Naples and start a second draft." Meaning let's conscript all the clerks, drivers, waiters, MP's, office workers and so on that flood any big city near a fighting area, and send them up in the mountains to fight.

The funny thing is they wouldn't have to draft many soldiers down there. A simple call for volunteers would be enough, I really believe. One of the paradoxes of war is that those in the rear want to get up into the fight, while those in the lines want to get out.

Out of the Sea comes
●STRENGTH
●STAMINA
●POWER
The sea is our richest source of animal proteins, vitamins and minerals which livestock must have to be healthy, productive and fast-growing.
STANTON'S 13% LAYING MASH
brings these vital elements straight from the sea and puts them to work in your poultry yard. This fine feed, milled right here in Lubbock, contains ManAmar and B-G Plus, blended with our local-grown grains into a feed especially adapted to the needs of West Texas feeders.
B-G PLUS
is a patented vacuum concentrated extract from fish. This new and potent product, resulting from ten years of ceaseless research and experiment, supplies extra trace minerals and vitamins in Stanton's 18% Laying Mash.
MANAMAB
in Stanton's 18% Laying Mash supplies the hard-to-get feeding essentials — fish proteins, food minerals and vitamins, including the important Vitamin B "Complex."
* * *
ManAmar and B-G Plus have been developed and are produced in the laboratories of Philip R. Park, famed livestock nutrition authority. These laboratories have approved the formula for Stanton's 18% Laying Mash. Let the records of users tell the rest of the story. Get all the facts today.

Reds Smash Attacks

his defeated infantry and tank divisions."

Threat To Railway Increased

Other Russian columns advancing toward Rumania increased their threat to the Odessa-Warsaw railroad.

In the upper Dnieper bend sector, the Germans by hard fighting and heavy losses still were holding open their narrow escape corridor from the Smela-Kanev area where they were being squeezed between the First and Second Ukrainian armies. No Russian report suggested a German withdrawal although the peril to the Nazis increased every hour.

The Nazis were mustering all available tank and infantry reserves in an effort to stem the Russian advance, Red Star dispatches said, and fighting all along the front was assuming a more violent character. At no point, however, the dispatches added, was the enemy able to stop the Soviet drive, despite the heavy weight of armor thrown into the battle.

Tank Charges Beaten Back

Furious tank charges against troops of Gen. Nikolai Vatutin approaching the Odessa-Warsaw railway were beaten back, Red Star said, with guerrilla detachments lending valuable aid to the Soviet regulars. The Germans were also reported launching fierce counter-assaults south and southwest of Berdichev, but these, too, were smashed, Red Star added.

From inside the Dnieper bend where huge concentrations of German troops face encirclement by the forces led by Vatutin and Gen. Ivan S. Konev, enemy resistance also was increasing, Red Star reported.

These German counterattacks were not surprising, it was pointed out, as there have been recurring reports of heavy German reinforcements being pushed to the front as the situation became more and more dangerous.

Must Continue Resistance

The Nazis, it was said, must continue their resistance, no matter what the cost, in order to avoid a major calamity not only in the Dnieper bend but as far west as Odessa. The war is already being brought closer to Rumania as Vatutin's troops continue their march down the Ukrainian steppes toward the Odessa railway, thus threatening to throw the Germans back on the resources of that satellite nation.

The Nazis, dispatches said, have been able to bring in reserves in divisional strength, despite their reverses of the past two weeks, and these fresh units have taken up the fight under new commanders who have been rushed to the front to try and halt the Red army offensive.

Frank Walker

ed himself as "out of place" as a political organization leader.

He was named chairman at a meeting of the committee here Jan. 18, 1943, after Edward J. Flynn, of New York, resigned. Flynn had been the center of a controversy over his nomination as minister to Australia. The committee then charged that the attacks on Flynn were carried out by enemies of President Roosevelt who "dare not directly attack the commander-in-chief of our forces in the midst of a war."

Hannegan is not as widely known as Walker. Only a recent arrival on the national scene, he succeeded Guy Helvering of Kansas in the internal revenue post when Helvering went to the federal bench.

Daily Markets

Stock Market

STOCK MARKET FALTERS

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP) — The stock market faltered today after failure of early efforts to extend yesterday's upturn and industrial leaders generally retreated fractions to around a point.

The decline was attributed to what speculative sources conceived as an impaired technical position rather than news developments, although domestic political events were cited as a reason for some buying caution.

Persistent heaviness of steels and certain popular specialties helped to bring out selling in the late proceeding. Rails were irregular. A few gold mine issues moved up in the final hour. Transactions totaled about 700,000 shares.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP) — Reports of improved mill demand for spot supplies, lighter hedge offerings and renewed trade price fixing against textile contracts enabled cotton futures to advance today. Futures closed 20 to 35 cents a bale higher.

Control Of Huon

miles from the Australians who crossed the Bari river, are the Americans at Saidor.

Allied bombers threw 76 tons of explosives at supply dumps in the Bogadjim area and destroyed eight bridges on the highway that leads to Madang.

Two Jap Attacks Smashed

United States marines smashed back two Japanese counterattacks south of Borgen bay in northwestern New Britain and advanced slightly in their fight for hill 660, important height in the Cape Gloucester area. Allied heavy bombers helped the Leathernecks with smashing attacks on enemy defense positions.

A Japanese convoy of six ships was spotted southeast of Kavieng, New Ireland, by an American naval Catalina flying boat which put a bomb directly amidship in accompanying destroyr. The explosion set the warship afire and silenced its antiaircraft guns.

Rabaul, big enemy base on the northeastern tip of New Britain, was raided by heavy bombers, torpedo and divebombers from Allied Solomons' bases. The attack Sunday, continuation of daily hammering here for more than two weeks, damaged the Vunakanau and Tobera airdromes and destroyed antiaircraft batteries.

The raiders and their escorting fighters blasted 16 enemy interceptors from the skies, ringing up a total of 73 destroyed since Jan. 1 over Rabaul. The Allies lost four planes.

Labor Draft Bill

strike impeded the war effort. He insisted the bill would not prevent the workers' right to strike. It would, he said, prevent the shutdown of essential industries.

The benevolent character" of the measure, he said, is that it is intended to prevent labor raiding by employers who might try to use wage increases to pirate workers from competing industries. His measure would make it impossible for workers to change jobs once they were assigned to a specific occupation.

No Forced Labor Battalions

Saying he contemplated "no forced labor battalions in this country," Austin asserted his measure would leave labor on a voluntary basis in picking jobs unless the conscription phases of the act are invoked by a war emergency.

Meanwhile, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, added his voice to labor's declared opposition to the proposed legislation. He asserted it would "undermine our basic concepts of democracy" and would not prevent strikes or solve manpower problems.

"There is no real comparison," Green's statement said, "between drafting men for service in the armed forces of the country and drafting them for service in private industry, operating for private profit. As eminent an authority as Mr. Bernard Baruch has publicly warned against this."

"Will Not Stop Strikes"

Green said Great Britain's experience with a national service law demonstrated that it would not stop strikes. In 1942, he said, "the number of strikes in Britain was greater proportionately than in the United States."

Green added that "we are all agreed that strikes should not occur during the war emergency" and said that since Pearl Harbor he had not ordered, approved, or condoned one strike.

President Roosevelt's request for national service legislation—under which the services of all men from 18 to 65 and all women from 18 to 50, with some exceptions, would be subject to government call—split Congress wide apart and foreshadowed one of the most bitter fights of this election year.

A cross-section of sentiment in both Senate and House indicated it would be touch-and-go whether the executive's request would be granted or denied, with the opposition seemingly having the edge at present.

Reaction Varies Widely

The reaction ranged from Senator Wheeler's (D-Mont) charge that the President's proposal was "a very definite, if not final, step toward fascism," to the contention of Representative Wadsworth (R-NY) that it was "the democratic thing to do."

Labor leaders renewed their opposition, with CIO President Philip Murray denouncing national service legislation as "quack medicine" for what he termed the failures of legislative and executive agencies.

Both Murray and AFL President William Green were asked to talk the matter over with Mr. Roosevelt today.

Many congressmen steered clear of committing themselves and took the attitude that enactment of a worker draft law should be contingent, as the President suggested, on passage of legislation to hold down living costs, revamp the tax system, and curb profits. Many were inclined to feel that the service legislation should follow the others, not precede it.

May Calls Meeting

Chairman May (D-Ky) called a meeting of the House military committee for next Tuesday to consider the President's request. May's committee held extensive hearings last year on a national service bill introduced by Representative Wadsworth and Senator Austin (R-Vt.) but took no action on it.

Three courses confront the committee, May explained: to reopen the hearings, to write a bill without further hearings, or to shelve the entire subject, at least for the present.

As for himself, May said he was never "hot" for national service legislation but felt that in view of the President's message the committee and Congress should take some action. Sentiment of other members was sharply divided.

Senator Reynolds (D-NC), head of the Senate military committee, assailed national service legislation as a measure for "enslaving the American people," and said it would give this country "the same thing Hitler and Stalin have got."

As Wadsworth and Austin introduced revised versions of their original bills, it was learned that an "administration" measure, supposed to have been written by Chairman Paul V. McNutt of the War Manpower commission, has been sent to capitol hill. Those who have seen it said the McNutt measure is similar to the Austin-Wadsworth bills in general principles, but gives jurisdiction to War Manpower commission.

The revised Austin-Wadsworth measure would give jurisdiction to a director appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate. It would permit appeals from work assignments, the appeals to be handled through existing selective service local and appeal boards, and would permit persons assigned to work to join or refuse to join a union at their own discretion, regardless of existing labor agreements.

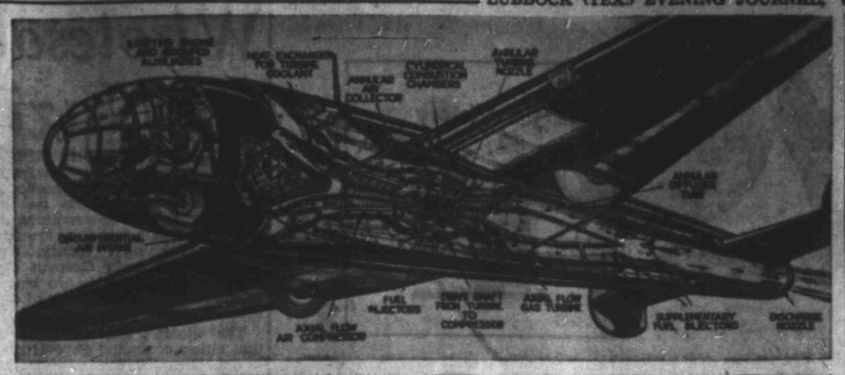

Other Provisions Stand

Otherwise, Wadsworth told reporters, the original provisions stand.

Briefly, the measures provide that when voluntary recruitment of necessary workers fails, labor may be conscripted through local selective service boards. All able-bodied men between 18 and 65 would be subject to such a labor draft, while women from 18 to 50, except those with small children, or expectant mothers, also could be assigned. Workers assigned to industry certifying a need would receive the prevailing wage rates, would have their transportation furnished, would be guaranteed adequate housing, and would be protected in their right to re-employment at their original job.

Austin emphasized that the bill would make employers, as well as employes, "liable for government conscription."

The President, who gave the nation a boiled-down version of his message over the radio last night, said he was convinced of the "necessity" for national service legislation now, after hesitating over it for three years.

HOW SECRET "ROCKET" PLANE WORKS—The photo and diagram shown here are of an Italian Caproni-Campini jet-propelled plane that presumably operates on the same principle as the new, secret jet-propelled, propellerless plane whose perfection by U. S. and British engineers has just been announced. This Italian plane flew 168 miles in 2½ hours on Dec. 1, 1941. The first successful flight of the British plane was made in May, 1941. The "rocket" or jet-propulsion method is basically simple. Air is drawn into the fuselage through large intake vent under the nose and compressed in a rotary blower. Fuel is aded in the combustion chamber and the gases then pass through a turbine and are ejected at high velocity through a tail nozzle. The rearward force of this jet of gas thrusts the plane forward.

Parliament Member In Cromwell Rift

ELIZABETH, N. Y., Jan. 12 (AP) —Counsel for James H. R. Cromwell, charged in court today that the former Doris Duke Cromwell had turned him out of their home in favor of an unidentified member of the British parliament.

"The acme of refined cruelty was reached," Lawyer James E. Toolan told advisory Master Dougal Herr in chancery court, "when Mr. Cromwell's valet, calling at Duke farms for Mr Cromwell's clothes, was compelled to wait several hours, until noon time, because Mr. Cromwell's bedroom was then occupied by his successor in his wife's affection, a truant member of the British Parliament who found Duke farms as well as Mrs. Cromwell's home in Honolulu more relaxing than London, then undergoing the fury of teutonic bombing."

"She saw no virtue in concealing her current affection," said Toolan, state senator from Middlesex county.

Toolan also charged that the former Doris Duke, tobacco heiress often referred to as the wealthiest girl in the world, had "humiliated" her husband while he was minister to Canada and contributed heavily to his defeat in an election for United States senator from New Jersey.

Insurance Exchange To Lose Charter

AUSTIN, Jan. 12 (AP) — Charter of the Beaumont Insurance Exchange, Inc., was ordered forfeited today and the exchange must pay $2,000 penalties under terms of an agreed judgment entered in 85th district court at Bryan yesterday, the attorney general's department announced.

The exchange had been sued for alleged violation of the state anti-trust laws.

National Highway System Proposed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP) — President Roosevelt submitted to Congress today a proposal for development of a national highway system of approximately 34,000 miles to provide a network of modern roads "essential to the future economic welfare and defense of the nation."

It was estimated the program would cost $750,000,000 annually, "over a reasonable period of years."

The chief executive transmitted to the legislators a report by a national inter-regional highway committee which he appointed in April, 1942.

"The report recommends," he informed Congress, "the designation and improvement to high standards of a national system of rural and urban highways totaling approximately 34,000 miles and interconnecting the principal geographic regions of the country."

Emotional Misfits, Problem For Army, LAAF Officer Says

A man who "breaks down" or "takes mental leave" under combat is useless so far as the Army is concerned and should have been eliminated long before he ever got to the front, Lt. Fred Brown of Minneapolis, instructor at Lubbock Army Air field, declared in a discussion of mental health problems of the Army in a talk before the Lubbock Rotary club today noon at the Hilton hotel.

Lt. Brown, an instructor in navigation and orientation at LAAF, pointed out that certain individuals were unable to withstand the strain of Army existence even, and an effort was being made to weed them out by Army psychologists and psychiatrists before they got into service so that they would not be a liability.

"The majority of them led sheltered lives before the war and when called into the Army they could no longer lean on the crutches of their civilian life," Lt. Brown said. He declared that it required $25,000 a year to take care of emotional misfits and three mistakes a day by a psychiatrist could cost the government as much as $100,000.

He decried the lack of knowledge of the mental makeup of individuals of the various communities prior to the war, pointing out that the entrance into the service of the individuals could have been eliminated had this knowledge been available.

"We will need a stable, emotionally intelligent citizenship after this war to deal with the problems of peace," he declared.

Lt. Brown was introduced by Clarence Bestwick, program chairman. Out-of-town visitors at the luncheon were: Bill Blakeley, Abilene; Neal McCullough, Albuquerque, and Marvin Paul, Borger.

Retha Martin and Rev. William Blakeslee were inducted into the club as new members by Rabbi Isadore Garsek. Sam Henry was introduced as the Junior Rotarian for January.

Texas' Chiropractic Law Is Under Fire

AUSTIN, Jan. 12 (AP)—Constitutionality of Texas' new chiropractic law was attacked in arguments before the court of criminal appeals today in the case of W. G. Halsted from Johnson county.

Halsted was represented by Atty. Otis Rogers and State Rep. Jack Love of Fort Worth.

Judge Lloyd Davidson of the appeals court said Halsted was charged with violating the act, passed by the last session of the legislature, and that the challenge was made by writ of habeas corpus.

Bank Faces Charges

Japan, according to Schachner. Smith also negotiated with most of the big defense industries in this country.

First Charges Of War

The government was said to be acting to stop a flow of strategic industrial materials to the Axis. Attorney General Francis Biddle also announced the indictments in Washington, saying they were the first indictments against an American banking institution in this war.

Although no officers of the bank were indicted, the indictments named Fred C. Witte and Harry R. Robinson, second vice-presidents and Joseph T. Pender, a contact man for the bank, as co-conspirators.

Schachner said that Smith, if convicted, would face jail terms of more than 100 years and fines exceeding $200,000. The bank faces fines aggregating $190,000.

Owner Of Corporations

Smith was described as the owner of a network of corporations scattered around the world, which deal in industrial tools. He controlled the organization, according to Schachner, through two holding companies, one incorporated on the island of Guernsey and the other in the republic of Panama.

The indictments charged that after the presidential order freezing the bank accounts of nationals of invaded countries in 1940 Smit attempted to obtain credit to carry on his business from the National City Bank and Guaranty Trust company but was refused because he didn't have the proper license from the Treasury department.

But, the indictment charged, the Chase bank "despite adequate knowledge, conspired with Smit and his companies to make payments without licenses."

According to Schachner, several hundred thousand dollars were made available to Smit by the bank in this manner.

the defense of their battered capital.

Many Weapons Used

The Nazi command threw into the struggle "destroyer" smoke screens and broadside rocket shelling in a desperate attempt to check the hundreds of Flying Fortresses and Liberators flanked by hundreds of Thunderbolts and Lightnings as well as a new type of long range fighter.

The London Evening News, asserting that American losses were believed to exceed 60 planes—a record 60 U. S. heavy bombers were lost in an October raid on Schfeinfurt—estimated that the German losses might be four times as great.

The News said United States pilots estimated that the Nazis may have lost as many as 300 aircraft all told.

Losses Being Checked

While the German high command was claiming 136 raiders downed and "the destruction of further enemy planes probable," authorities were checking official reports from air bases in Britain and were expected to issue a communique at any time.

Speculation that the toll of German planes might exceed 300 revolved around the record figure of 307 destroyed in the double raid on Schweinfurt and Regensburg last Aug. 17.

A special announcement from Adolf Hitler's headquarters last night claimed that 123 American planes, "most of them four-engined bombers," were shot down out of the hundreds that raked industrial and communications targets in northwestern Germany, but the official DNB agency boosted the figure to 136 this morning.

Two German fighters were known definitely to be lost, Hitler's announcement said, and "seven more crews are missing."

Berlin Said Bombed

Travelers arriving in Sweden from Berlin said single planes bombed the German capital at noon yesterday while others swept as far as east as the Baltic port of Danzig, 700 miles from Britain. American announcements referred only to targets in northwestern Germany.

American headquarters had indicated that a communique detailing American and German losses would be issued at 9 a. m. (3 a. m. CWT) today, but three hours later said there would be a further delay of possibly several hours.

Overlapping claims of enemy planes and the difficulty of checking American bombers which may have landed safely at other than their home bases among the scores of American air fields used for the raids were believed responsible for the delay.

An American announcement last night said strong forces of Flying Fortresses and Liberators with fighter escort fought a three-hour running batile against "vicious and determined" German interceptors and returning crewmen said the combat was reminiscent of that on the Schweinfurt raid, last Oct. 14, during which 60 American bombers were lost, the largest toll to date.

Hitler, according to reports in informed quarters, feels that the time has come to play the last Axis card. He was represented as believing that a Japanese attack on Russia might counteract the effects of a second front and cut off Vladivostok as a source of supplies to Russia.

Japan was believed hesitant to commit herself, which resulted in the news of the Hitler-Oshima talks leaking out through the occupied countries despite Axis efforts to keep them secret.

Wholesale Collapse Of Nazis Unlikely

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

While expectation of imminent wholesale Nazi collapse on the Russian front is unwarranted at this time, it is a fact they are laboring under such terrific Red pressure that both German and Allied high commands are bound to consider the contingency of disaster overtaking the invaders.

That doesn't necessarily mean that either command expects such a debacle. However, they can't overlook the axiom that potential catastrophe always hangs on the flanks of armies retreating under heavy attack.

Important To Both

A point of vast importance to both sides is that the Russo-German struggle and the projected Allied invasion of France are in considerable degree interdependent. Should the Germans crack in Russia, it might result in a speeding up of Allied plans for invasion, to take advantage of Nazi weakness.

Presumably a disaster in Russia would force Hitler, to withdraw troops from western Europe to defend his eastern frontier. Today's reports show Hitler rushing all available reserves into battle in the Ukraine theatre in an effort to halt the Red onslaught. Should he have to deplete his forces in France, obviously the invasion across the English channel would be simplified.

The Red tactics are resulting in the development of the dangerous drive directly west into pre-war Poland, and further south we have the turning movement that has brought the Russians within a score of miles of the Warsaw-Odessa railroad upon which the Nazis depend so heavily. In this southern sector the Hitlerites are threatened with being forced to retreat into Rumania, thereby opening the way for a Russian drive through to the German border and making it exceedingly difficult to move the Nazis back to the Reich from Rumania.

Final Stand Expected

Despite all these potentialities, Hitler undoubtedly still is figuring on being able to pull the bulk of his eastern forces back to his own border for a final stand. And he may be able to do so.

It is without tears that one learns of the violent death of count Galeazzo Ciano, forty-year-old son-in-law of Benito (soft underbelly-of-Europe) Mussolini.

Berlin announces that this arrogant exponent of fascism was executed by a firing squad, along with four other members of the fascist grand council, after they had been convicted of voting to oust Il Duce at the time of Italy's collapse. This gives some hope that the Axis will continue executions in their own circles and thus lessen the task of the Allies in punishing war-guilt.

Our main regret must be that shooting is far too good for the chief gangsters.

Britain Hails FDR's Proposal

LONDON, Jan. 12 (AP) — London's papers greeted President Roosevelt's recommendation for a national service law with banner headlines today and praised the President for making the proposal in an election year.

Headlines which subordinated even the Russian advance read:

"Roosevelt demands 'mobilize all in U. S.' law" — Daily Express.

"FDR demands total conscription" — Daily Mail.

"FDR opens battle for total call up" — Mirror.

The Mail said, "in this election year Roosevelt is not seeking popularity; he is facing reality."

The British national service act, which President Roosevelt called a "unifying moral force," provides for compulsory service for men and women, but contanis no clauses relating to strikes.

21-Day Notice Required

Under wartime legislation, however, British workers are obliged to give 21-day notice of the intention to strike. During that time the Ministry of Labor investigates the dispute and if necessary refers it to the national arbitration tribunal, whose ruling is final.

This has not stopped sudden walkouts, despite protests of the workers' own trade union leaders, and 1943 was the second-worst year for strikes in Britain's history.

Broadened After Dunkirk

The national service act was not broadened to include women for war plant work until after Dunkirk, and then was aimed entirely at getting a sufficient number of workers.

Men from 17½ to 45 and women from 20 to 25 are subject to service in the nation's forces, women being allowed to choose nursing or industrial work as an alternative to service in the auxiliary territorial service (similar to the U. S. WAC), the Women's Auxiliary Air force, the Women's Royal Naval service or the Women's Land army.

Do you lack pep or vim?	☐	☐
Do you get irritable easily?	☐	☐
Do you feel depressed—nervous?	☐	☐

Everybody knows that poorly digested food often causes a headachy, sluggish condition.

But you may not know that Nature must produce each day about two pints of the vital digestive juice—liver bile—to help digest your food.

If Nature fails—food doesn't digest properly—you may get irregular. And the amount of this vital digestive juice may be still further reduced. Thus, digestive upset and sluggishness can follow each other in a vicious circle that keeps you feeling rotten. Therefore, take Carter's Little Liver Pills because they start bile flowing quickly—often within thirty minutes. When bile flow increases—you may help your digestion. You're on your way to feeling grand all over again. Remember—you can't get these same results from laxatives that fail to stimulate the flow of bile.

If you feel headachy, listless, irritable or depressed, get a 25¢ package of Carter's Little Liver Pills at any drugstore today. Take as directed. Tomorrow see how fit and alive you'll feel!

Sailor Offers His Blood To Extend Texas Child's Life

DALLAS, Jan. 12 (AP) — Fighting blood from the Great Lakes Naval hospital has been pledged to keep Billy Meers alive and happy.

Plight of the 4-year-old Seymour, Texas, boy who suffers from chronic nephritis and requires two pints of blood plasma daily to remain in normal health drew this promise today in a letter received by Parkland hospital officials and passed on to Buchanan blood bank directors at Baylor hospital.

In the mail came a letter to Russell P. Nye, director of Parkland. It was from Seaman Peter Arthur Gilbert, hospital corps school, at the naval hospital, Great Lakes, Ill.

It said:

"I have got lots of blood and can spare 500 cc's every ten days and want to give it to Billy. Please make the necessary arrangements and inform Billy's mother that she need not worry. I'm going to try and get some sailor buddies of mine here to donate enough to keep Billy alive for a long time.

"I don't know whether or not Billy is in your hospital but you can inquire and see to this please.

"I have a little boy also, age 5, and have five daughters besides and Mrs. Meers has only Billy. I thought maybe if we could donate enough blood to keep Billy alive a little longer, the doctors may figure out some way to cure him."

Protect Your Good Name —AND YOUR TIRES

Driving with unsafe tires places not only your life in danger — but others also. Even worse is the fact that you are ruining America's precious stock of crude rubber and jeopardizing any future driving. Better to show good judgement, earn the respect of your neighbors by taking care of your tires

The Best of Recapping

All recapping is not alike. The best is performed by Certified Master Treaders whose workmanship, integrity and reliability have been approved by the National Institute of Treading Standards. To retain that distinction we must adhere constantly to the highest standards.

Expert Tire Inspection

You can't tell the condition of a tire merely by looking at it. To be sure the tire must be placed on a spreader, examined inside and out for holes, breaks or cracks. Then it can be properly repaired or recapped to add new miles of safe service. Every day that you delay means adding to the possibility of destroying that tire beyond service-ability. Today is the time to do it.
