13-car derailment cleanup continues

DAMAGE INSPECTION — An unidentified railroad worker stands atop one of 13 railway cars which overturned here Monday afternoon — three carrying potentially dangerous substances. At noon Tuesday, work to upright two of these cars — both carrying propylene oxide — was continuing. The third car, carrying dimethyl chlorothiophosphate, had been moved back onto the track and removed just before dawn Tuesday. (SDN Staff Photo by Noble B. Young)

Railroad officials just before dawn Tuesday had removed one overturned tanker car carrying potentially dangerous substances and were preparing to remove two others at noon following the 13-car derailment here Monday afternoon.

The word at 12:34 p.m. was that the two remaining would have to have their contents removed before cranes on-site would be able to lift these for moving.

The accident — reported around 2 p.m. — prompted Monday the evacuation of one Snyder elementary school as well as a 15-block residential area as a precautionary measure.

This was ordered due to feared leakage from the three tanker cars after the nature of their contents was discovered. As of Tuesday morning, however, the official word was no such leakage had occurred.

Two car loads of propylene oxide and one of dimethyl chlorothiophosphate — the one removed before dawn — were involved in the accident.

At noon, personnel with Hulcher Emergency Services of Amarillo and the Santa Fe Railroad were on-site to remove the first of the two tank cars loaded with propylene oxide.

Crews had dug out areas beneath the first tanker to allow the mounting of chains and hooks attached to four cranes moved on-site.

The cars to be moved Tuesday both fell clear of the track and were left undisturbed in the ditch on the southwest side of the right-of-way — about 50 yards east of Ave. I.

Railroad workers said Tuesday that hazardous materials specialists brought in Monday night had inspected the cars and found them to be safe enough to attempt to lift back onto the track without unloading.

It was initially thought the cranes would lift the filled cars, but the word shortly after noon was the tanker's contents would have to be removed.

The propylene oxide is a colorless flammable liquid used in the manufacture of other chemicals. Information received about it following the wreck indicates if spilled it could catch fire and give off toxic fumes.

Cof C event sponsorship 'won't be same'

The question of liability and its potential for lawsuits has prompted a "business decision" that future chamber of commerce events "will not be sponsored in the same manner," according to the head of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce.

And to insure that such events can continue, Chamber President Roy Baze approached the city council Monday to ask that the city consider assuming some portion of this sponsorship.

For Baze, it was the second of two presentations made Monday, the first before Scurry County commissioners at their morning session.

His request to both was that either or both entities consider future sponsorship of such events as the July 4th celebration, the AJRA rodeo and White Buffalo Days activities.

"We don't want to see these events canceled, but a different contractural relationship is needed so that the liability of the chamber is substantially reduced," Baze said.

The entity, which is projected to operate during 1985 on a budget of $86,695, now faces a $2 million lawsuit related to liability.

Regarding the "differences" between the chamber and the city and county, Baze noted these two have a source of revenue through a tax base plus access to legal counsel.

"We (the chamber) are in quite different respects," he said. The answer Baze received Monday from both the city and county was essentially the same — that both groups would consider the request and that any final decision would come only after they had conferred with their legal representatives and respective insurance companies.

The offer made by Baze was that the chamber would continue to promote and manage the annual events as in the past.

"If the city is agreeable to the idea in principle, (the chamber) will have a legal document prepared for your review," he said.

Session before jurors concludes with arrest

The appearance of a witness before the Scurry County grand jury Monday led to his arrest on charges of misdemeanor possession of marijuana.

According to court officers, 33-year-old Don Gene Light of 3005 Austin Ave. presented himself at the courthouse during Monday's regular grand jury session asking for permission to testify in connection with charges being considered against a local couple.

The husband and wife had been arrested by police April 4 and charged with felony possession of marijuana.

Light was reportedly present at the arrest, although the only charge filed against him at the time involved one count of misde-

Murder suspect indicted

An indictment for murder was returned Monday against 30-year-old Bharat Bhakta, the local motel manager accused of choking to death his wife Kumud.

The 25-year-old woman was found in room 9 of the Strayhorn Motel the morning of April 25. She died in the intensive care unit of Cogdell Memorial Hospital at 9:35 p.m. the same day.

Bhakta remains free following the indictment on a bond of $40,000.

In addition, the grand jury — meeting in its regular May session — returned additional indictments against three defendants indicted in April on various drug-related charges.

All three suspects were originally arrested and indicted as the result of a two-month undercover investigation undertaken by the Scurry County sheriff's office and Texas Rangers.

According to District Attorney Ernie Armstrong, Monday's additional indictments resulted from the delayed return of samples of seized substances sent to Department of Public Safety labs for analysis.

The drug samples relating to each of Monday's four cases were reportedly sent to the lab in March and only returned to local law enforcement officials this week.

To date, the investigation has resulted in 12 arrests and a total of 22 criminal indictments.

Paint-up, fix-up set for city signs

A funding request to repaint signs advertising "Snyder" was granted Monday by city council members — a decision that will see a new look for five and possibly six of the city-maintained signs.

The council okayed expenditures of up to $5,000 for this work, although a final decision regarding the design for the signs was referred to a three-member committee.

The funds approved will come from monies generated by the motel tax here and the request itself came from members of the Snyder Motel Association.

Art Feinsod, local motel owner, presented the request. He noted that all funds of the $5,000 not spent will be returned to the city fund generated by a tax on motel occupancy.

Such funds are by law required to be spent to promote such items as tourism.

Feinsod offered several possible designs for the signs. For a final decision on this, Mayor Rod Waller appointed the committee. It will be comprised of one member from the council, with Don Osborn appointed, and one member each from the Snyder Chamber of Commerce and the motel owner's group.

Signs to be replaced include the four "smiley face" drop of oil signs and at least one of two

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Young people are those who will soon grow up and worry about young people."

A week or so ago Bradi Johnson, three-year-old daughter of Tommy and Vicki Johnson, had one of those traumatic childhood experiences.

Bradi was riding her bicycle when she fell, knocking out three front teeth. Mom and dad came to the rescue, and her bloody mouth and tearful eyes made the parents hurt about as much as the youngster.

Dad picked her up, carried her into the house where he and Vicki began to clean the wound and examine the damage. The parents determined Bradi should see a doctor.

The parents carried her to the car, carried her into the doctor's office, carried her into the examining room. In their efforts to comfort the young lady after treatment, the parents carried her back to the car, carried her into the house and carried her to the rocking chair.

At bedtime, Vicki carried Bradi to her room, dressed her and then carried her to bed to be tucked in with a big goodnight kiss after such a dreadful experience.

Vicki was just about to turn off the lights and leave the room when Bradi whimpered for her mother one more time.

After being caressed, held and carried for more than three hours, Bradi asked, "Mommy, will I ever walk again?"

You get mixed reviews on Daylight Savings Time, but some groups really attempt to take advantage of the longer days, and some would like for DST to occur earlier or even all year long.

Hoping to light a fire under Congress, the Barbecue Industry Association has endorsed an earlier start to daylight savings time.

Tom Holcomb, minister of the East Side Church of Christ, had an item in his bulletin that pertains to anyone that puts out printed material. It read:

"If you find errors in this publication, please consider that they are there for a purpose. We publish something for everyone, and some people are always looking for mistakes."

Ask Us

Q. — How does Snyder's kindergarten hours compare with the rest of the state?

A. — Local school officials say that one of the provisions of H.B. 72 was to have all Texas schools offer both morning and afternoon sessions of kindergarten — a schedule Snyder had implemented previously. Local kindergarten classes begin at 8:30 a.m. and are dismissed at 2:45 p.m.

In Brief

Budget vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — A final Senate vote on the 1986 budget may be delayed until after President Reagan returns from his trip to Europe to give the president a chance to lobby wavering Republicans, Majority Leader Robert Dole says.

Dole said he is trying to put together a new package to replace the one negotiated earlier with the president — a package that has been largely dismantled in the GOP-led Senate — and the president's help might be needed.

State budget

AUSTIN (AP) — It was the Texas House's turn today to act on the state's spending budget for 1986-87.

Senators approved their $36.8 billion version of the next two years' appropriations Monday after first passing a $220 million increase in state fees to help pay for it.

The House was expected to reject the Senate version and ask for a 10-member conference committee to work out a compromise.

One of the outstanading issues between the two versions is a $263 million pay raise for state employees, which was approved by the House bill but not by the Senate.

Pesticides...

Plan is bringing complaints

AUSTIN (AP) — Farm workers, the state agriculture commissioner and others say they oppose a pesticide regulation plan offered by the chairman of the House Agriculture and Livestock Committee.

Rep. Robert Saunders, D-Columbus, said Monday he was offering a new plan he hoped will "get the politics out" of pesticide rulemaking.

But Rebecca Harrington, director of the United Farm Workers Union, accused Saunders of trying to put "smoke in everybody's eyes."

At issue are rules Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower has enacted to require notification of neighbors before fields are sprayed, time limits on how quickly workers can re-enter treated fields and other restrictions.

Farmer critics said Hightower enacted the rules to satisfy farm workers who voted for him, contending the rules make farmers' work more difficult and more expensive.

Saunders said his bill is designed to end the controversy.

"We don't want any politics involved in trying to write the rules. We want everything to be done as a neutral agreement," he said.

His bill, a proposed substitute for legislation already approved by the Senate, would create a three-member board that would be responsible for regulations concerning pesticide and herbicide use.

The board would include the agriculture commissioner, but also the state health commissioner and director of the state agriculture extension service.

Saunders said such a panel would be less influenced by political whim. Only the agriculture commissioner is an elected position.

"Every four years, we elect a new agriculture commissioner. I want to ensure also to the farm workers that if they don't have an advocate that's elected as agriculture commissioner, we have other people to protect their safety. You can argue that point from both sides," Saunders said.

Saunders said his bill wouldn't necessarily roll back rules not in effect.

"The board was not set up to wipe out what was already established by the commissioner. The board was set up to make sure that we don't have problems down the road," he said.

Ms. Harrington disagreed, saying the three-member panel would dilute the agriculture commissioner's authority.

"What he says it's going to do is really smoke in everybody's eyes," she said. "The real impact is going to be to gut the regulations that are in force right now."

Rep. Juan Hinojosa, D-McAllen, said he expects the House Mexican-American Caucus to fight Saunders' proposal.

"I can see what they're doing is trying to find a way of hiding the true purpose of the bill — and that is to take the regulation of pesticides and herbicides away from the Texas Department of Agriculture," Hinojosa said.

"Where else do we have a statewide elected official losing his jurisdiction and appointed to a board where you've got two other people of equal power and those people are not elected? One is a state employee and the other is appointed and responsible to a higher board. It's ridiculous," he said.

Hightower said Saunders' bill is the work of the chemical industry and was written outside negotiations which have taken place in the Legislature.

Donations okayed for apartment

AUSTIN (AP) — Speaker Gib Lewis said he always intended to use private money to remodel his Capitol apartment, and now the House has voted to give Lewis the authority to do that.

In a Monday voice vote, the House advanced a measure that would let Texans donate money to offset about $150,000 spent by the state for the apartment refurbishing. Sponsor Bill Messer, D-Belton, says he expects "altruistic-minded" Texans will want to contribute.

The speaker has been miffed at the press attention to the apartment project — which included $526 for shower curtains, $3,455 for decorative bathroom fixtures and $3,735 for a canopy bed. The money came from House funds after Lewis found no legal way for private citizens to pay for the work.

Messer's bill would set up the private donation system.

"We'll be able to save the taxpayers all that jillions and jillions and jillions of dollars," Lewis said with a bit of sarcasm.

"That was our intent from the very beginning," Lewis said of the private donations.

"It's a good public interest story, it gets a lot of people upset and excited," he said of news accounts of the apartment.

Texas House speakers always have has use of the apartment behind the House chamber in the Capitol's west wing. Lieutenant governors have had use of an apartment behind the Senate. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby has converted it to office space.

Also Monday, the House sent the Senate a proposed constitutional amendment that would allow the state to sell $500 million in bonds to back farm and ranch loans. Brookston Rep. Pete Patterson got 100 votes — one more than needed — for his proposal, which now goes to the Senate.

The House also sent senators Hurst Rep. Charles Evans' bill exempting from the Open Records Act letters sent by constituents to their lawmakers. The bill was approved on voice vote.

Blood Donors Are Lifeline To Rescue Those in Need

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Please give the piece titled "What Good Is a Blood Donor?" another run. I missed it the first time it ran, but several people have told me about it.

Blood donors are so desperately needed now, it sounds like something we could use.

VOLUNTEER

DEAR VOLUNTEER: Here it is:

DEAR ABBY: I just donated blood to the American Red Cross Blood Center in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., and I'm enclosing a piece that was handed to me on my way out.

I hope you will print it. So many people are not aware of how important it is to give blood—especially now that our blood bank supply has become critically low.

NEW YORK BLOOD DONOR

DEAR DONOR: You gave more than blood. You gave me an item that will (I hope) inspire more blood donors. Bless you.

WHAT GOOD IS A BLOOD DONOR?

A blood donor is good for people who go through windshields and red lights. For somebody with leukemia. For people being operated on. For barefoot kids who aren't careful. For people who are into feudin' and fightin'. For hemophiliacs and daredevils. For people undergoing dialysis while waiting for a kidney transplant. For people who fool around with guns. For little kids who manage to uncap a bottle of something poisonous.

A blood donor is good for people who have been badly burned. For new mothers who need transfusions. For new babies who need a complete change of blood supply. For people having open-heart surgery. For cancer patients. For people with severe hepatitis and anemia. For kids who fall out of trees or whatever. For anybody any age with bleeding ulcers. For people who were in the wrong place at the wrong time.

A blood donor is good for people who are in a lot worse shape than most people you know.

A BLOOD DONOR IS GOOD FOR LIFE.

DEAR ABBY: I would like your opinion of a problem that I'm sure has cropped up in many marriages. Do you think a husband should bring guests home without giving his wife some notice?

My husband does this all the time. It's usually a co-worker for dinner, or some business associate. If they've never been here before, my husband gives them a tour of the house. This really upsets me because some days I'm behind in my work and the place doesn't look all that great. Yesterday I had an early morning dental appointment and a lot of errands to do, and I didn't get around to making the beds, when in comes my husband with two strangers!

Abby, am I unreasonable to ask my husband to give me at least a half an hour's notice, or the option of saying, "Not today, please"?

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: You are not unreasonable—your husband is inconsiderate. And unless you put your foot down firmly, where it will make a lasting impression, don't expect anything to change.

James Jacoby

Show your ace if there's space

May I have the pleasure of introducing you to a full-blown controversy about cue-bidding an ace when partner is making a slam try? First, let's examine the bidding of today's deal.

Because of a lack of defensive strength, East passed with his 13 high-card points. North made a limit raise of three spades in response to his partner's opening one-spade bid. South now made a slam try with his four-club bid. North looked at his eight high-card points and decided to suppress his heart ace. When he bid four spades, South assumed that North did not have a red ace. He passed and the good slam was missed.

The question to be resolved is this: When partner makes a slam try, should you show an ace, even though you construe your hand to be of a very minimum nature? The Jacoby rule is very simple and sensible. When partner expresses slam interest, you have an obligation to show an ace, regardless of your strength, if cue-bidding that ace does not put you higher than the game level. In today's deal, North would show the heart ace, and the slam would be reached.

In a different situation, let's say where South bids four diamonds as a slam try and North has the club ace, North would not show that club ace at the five level unless he has more than a minimum eight high-card points.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG

Q. — I live in a mobile home whose main bedroom has white painted louvered closet doors. The bottom section is not louvered, however, and is covered with what looks like mildew. I have tried several things but can't get it off and do not want to use an abrasive. Have you a solution?

A. — Poorly ventilated closets get damp and musty, especially during continued wet weather, and that fosters the growth of mildew. You can try keeping the closet door open, but you may need a fan in the area. Many people use a chemical that absorbs moisture. Various kinds are sold in home centers, building supply houses and even drug stores, but be sure you get the type that is not harmful to fabrics. Most of these chemicals can be used again and again if they are dried according to instructions on the container. Wash the mildewed area with trisodium phosphate, mixed with water according to directions.

With the recent outbreak of salmonella poisoning in the midwest, consumers are concerned about the safety of food we buy at the store.

But we should be equally concerned about food safety at home.

Salmonella is a common bacteria found in the gastrointestinal tracts of animals and man.

It most usually affects high protein foods such as meat, poultry, fish and eggs. However, any food that becomes contaminated and is then held at improper temperatures can cause salmonella.

Contamination of cooked foods is often caused by contact with surfaces or utensils that are not properly washed after use with the raw meats.

Insufficient cooking of food that has been contaminated can also cause food borne illness. Salmonella are destroyed at cooking temperatures above 165 degrees F.

Follow these few simple guidelines to reduce the possibility of salmonella poisoning:

—Wash your cutting board thoroughly after each use especially if you have been cutting raw meat on it.

—Wash your hands carefully before handling food.

—Wash raw foods well.

—Heat foods to at least 165 degrees F before serving.

—Refrigerate or freeze leftovers immediately after a meal.

—Keep pet feeding dishes and toys out of the kitchen.

The barbecue and picnic season brings special food poisoning hazards with it. It's especially important to make sure protein foods like deviled eggs, hamburgers and hot dogs and other picnic fare are cooked thoroughly and kept at the proper temperature.

Any food borne illness we get from improper handling of food at home may not receive the publicity of a major outbreak from a commercial manufacturing source.

All-Sports Awards given...

Freeman, Housden athletes of year

Kyle Freeman and Carie Housden were named Male and Female Athlete of the Year at the annual Snyder High School All-Sports Banquet, held here Monday night.

The two seniors were representative of the 27 young men and women who received special awards during the two and one-half hour program.

Freeman was a Super Team All-State selection for the 1984 Ragin' Tiger football team and a state 4A track and field qualifier in both the discus and the shot put. He received further honors as the top outside linebacker on the football team and was the most valuable field event competitor in track.

Housden, a three-year basketball letterman and two-time all-district choice, was selected to play in the North-South All-Star Game this summer. She has signed to play basketball next season for the Western Texas College Dusters.

The awards ceremony included a new honor this year, that of the top student athlete. The award, presented by schools superintendant Bob Hawes in honor of Bill J. Hood, went to Shana Hart. Also chosen most vaulable girl tennis athlete, Hart had a 98.05 grade point average.

Junior Karlene Thompson was one of several athletes to reap several awards. She was co-MVP of the volleyball team along with senior Sabrina Sullivan, took the Tiger Sport Award in basketball, and was Most Valuable in girls track. Thompson was all-district in all three sports during the 1984-85 year and has qualified to state in the triple jump.

Another multi-award winner was senior Willie Greathouse. He was voted top receiver on the football team and, like Freeman, earned a Name Jeresy Award in track as a regional qualifier in the long jump. Jay Mayo also took double honors. The senior was voted top defensive back in football and was recipient of the Robert Hobbs award in baseball.

Lance Leatherwood and Leslie Light were Medalist of the Year in golf. Light was District 2-4A medalist on Snyder's conference runnerup golf squad which placed fourth at regionals.

Toby Hinshaw was selected outstanding male tennis player.

Coaches presented the awards after being introduced by master of ceremonies Jerry Worsham.

Boys basketball awards went to Wade Forga as the best defensive player, Trey Tippens as the most improved, Bobby Scott as most valuable and Tim Courtney as the Fighting Tiger.

Special recognition in girls basketball went to Thomspon, Stephanie McKnight as most improved and Wendy Lunsford as the best free throw shooter.

In addition to track awards presented to Freeman and Greathouse, Tommy Holladay was selected Most Valuable Track athlete and Thomas Quintela received the Tiger Track Award.

Tonya Holladay, who won the district 100 meter hurdles and finished fifth at the regional meet recently, was chosen most improved in girls track.

Most valuable in baseball was pitcher-short stop Charles Bollinger.

Ten awards were presented in football. Honored were Jimmy Cain as most vaulable player; Delwin Bane as recipient of the Fighting Heart Award; Juan Benitez as the top defensive lineman; Justin Webb as the top offensive back; Joe Rodriquez as the top offensive lineman; Jimmy Hunter as the top inside linebacker and Steve Parker as the top defensive end. WJCAC institutes 45-second clock during 1985-86 season

Men's basketball in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference will have a new look for the 1985-86 season - a 45-second clock.

The clock has been instituted to comply with the new NCAA rule, which the NJCAA plays under. The 45-second clock will be used for the entirity of each game and will not be shut off in the last three or two minutes, as had been proposed in some leagues.

Other items of interest from last weekend's WJCAC meeting in Odessa includes a decreasing limit of games a team may schedule and elimination of the pre-regional playoffs for men.

Conferenee voting members chose to limit the number of games to 31 for men's and women's basketball teams for the 1985-86 season. That number will be further reduced to 29 in the 1986-87 season.

The group voted to limit number of games to reduce absenses from class. It was also pointed out that with Amarillo College having dropped its basketball program, each team would have two less league games.

The WJCAC also voted to eliminate the current playoff system in men's basketball. Previously, the champion and runnerup earned automatic berths to the regional tournament with the rest of the league entering a playoff system to determine the other two qualifying spots. Under the new system, the top four teams in the league will earn automatic berths to the regional tournament.

The league also announced Phil Ryan of Midland as the new supervisor of officials for basketball. He replaces Brooks Jennings who was named athletic director of Clovis public schools.

The conference notes two coaching changes. Ron Mayberry has replaced Dennis Perryman at South Plains as men's basketball coach. Kelly Chadwick, former coach at Amarillo, has replaced Joe Cushing as women's basketball coach at Western Texas. Cushing resigned to accept a similar position at Panola Junior College in Carthage.

Nazi capulation recalled

REIMS, France (AP) — The same large oak table and the 13 pine chairs are still there with the same maps covering the walls in the Reims schoolroom where the Nazis surrendered at 2:41 a.m., May 7, 1945.

Three Germans, headed by Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl, sat in three of the chairs and Allied officers — Americans, British, French and Soviets — sat in the others.

The Germans had to surrender all over again the next day — May 8, V-E Day in the West — outside Berlin, at the insistence of Soviet leader Josef Stalin, to emphasize his troops' capture of the Nazi capital. The Soviets observe V-E Day on May 9, the day the news reached Moscow.

The "official" dates of the capitulation served the postwar needs of the Allies, jockeying for position but trying not to offend each other.

The Russians were worried about German attempts to make a separate peace with the United States, Britain and France. The Americans tried to keep the May 7 surrender a secret until May 8 so Stalin could announce the end of fighting simultaneously with the other Allies.

But it was 40 years ago on May 7 when the German military actually gave up in World War II.

And it was the day "the little red schoolhouse" in the capital of France's champagne country joined the Appomattox Courthouse in Virginia, and the World War I railway car in Rethondes, France, as a symbol of the end of some of history's bloodiest conflicts. The surrender of Japan was signed a few months later on the U.S.S. Missouri.

The room where the Germans lost all hope of striking a separate deal with the Allies is not impressive even now. The oak table and the 13 chairs are the only furnishings. The original military maps showing Allied advances and casualty charts are the only wall coverings.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the supreme Allied commander, was in Reims at the time but had his chief of staff, Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, stand in at the surrender.

The red-brick school building is still the school it was then — the College Moderne et Technique. It isn't little now and it wasn't little then, but the description "little red schoolhouse" caught the public's imagination in the euphoria of victory in 1945.

The vocational school with more than 1,000 students is a massive three- and four-story complex covering two acres and enclosing a courtyard as big as a football field.

The size was one reason Eisenhower chose it when he moved part of the Supreme Headquarter Allied Expeditionary Force to Reims, 100 miles northeast of Paris, at the end of 1944.

"Reims was closer to the front and it had a good working telephone system," explained Daniel Pellus, a retired newspaperman who is the unofficial Reims historian.

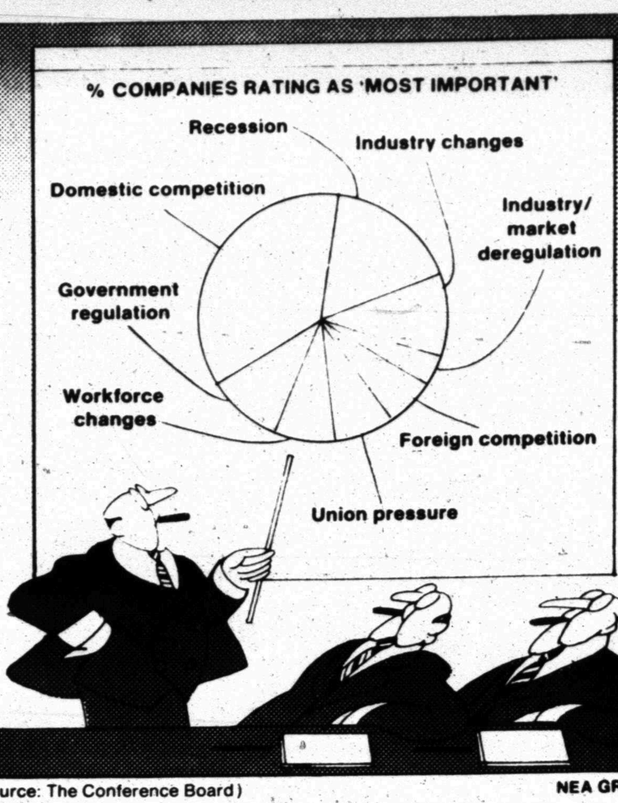

Eisenhower arrived Feb. 20, 1945, and lived in an impressive mansion, next to a Protestant church where he worshipped on Sundays, until leaving the city May 25.

"I remember seeing him being driven home," said Bertrand Mure, now 70. "I still remember his smile. It was a dazzling, broad smile."

"The American officers were real gentlemen," Mure said. "My memories of that period are very warm."

How they are determined

Wages and prices in America depend largely on business competition in the United States. So report companies in a survey on decision making. Other key factors: recession, industry changes and government regulation.

Counties experience growing pains

HOUSTON (AP) — Officials in the Houston-area's Fort Bend and Montgomery counties, cited this week by a national survey as the nation's fastest growing counties since 1980, say the rapid growth has put a strain on public services.

Dun & Bradstreet statistics put Fort Bend, southwest of Houston, with a a population growth of 46 percent, from 130,846 in 1980 to an estimated 192,099 now. In 1970, the county had just 52,314 residents.

Montgomery, north of Houston, was just a notch back with a 45 percent growth rate. Figures show the 128,487 residents in 1980 grew to 164,869 now. In 1970, the county had 49,479 people.

"You used to know everybody in town when you went shopping," says Lynette Self, mayor pro tem in Rosenberg in Fort Bend County. "Now it's almost like shopping with strangers."

The county last year added a new wing to its jail. Court dockets now are crowded. The Fort Bend Independent School District has had to build five schools in the past 15 months.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have trouble with my fingernails. They grow just so far, then break. My nail tips peel. Am I lacking a vitamin or what? I am 62.

DEAR READER — Fingernails become more brittle with age and in cold dry weather. You may be able to reduce nail peeling and cracking by keeping them cut shorter. Some experts recommend eating two or three portions of gelatin every day as a method of strengthening your nails by adding protein to them. I have not been encouraged by the results of applying hardening material or lacquer to nails. I have seen women whose nails became brittle as a consequence of long immersion in dishwater. Would your husband be willing, as a trial, to take over washing dishes?

DEAR DR. GOTT — My 63-year-old mother has been told by her doctor that she has decreased lung capacity. He described her condition as "borderline." She has not smoked for 25 years. What can she do, besides avoiding smokers, to ensure that her condition doesn't worsen?

DEAR READER — Decreased lung capacity usually signifies a degree of emphysema. This common lung disease is more prevalent in smokers, but most non-smokers, as they age, will also develop a degree of lung stiffening. This reduces the ability of oxygen and carbon dioxide to pass back and forth between the bloodstream and inhaled air. If your mother, at 63, has only a "borderline" condition, she will probably not suffer ill effects for many years. But you are correct in assuming that her condition can be arrested if she avoids air that is polluted. She would undoubtedly be more comfortable staying away from tobacco smoke.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have gotten into the habit of using cider vinegar in my food at each meal. I have a pacemaker and asthma, and I wonder if the cider vinegar will do me harm.

DEAR READER — Vinegar is a weak acid which will not, in moderation, affect either your pacemaker or your asthma. You may occasionally experience some heartburn but that can be controlled easily by taking antacids or eating. I am intrigued by the notion that you use vinegar at every meal. What do you put it on at breakfast?

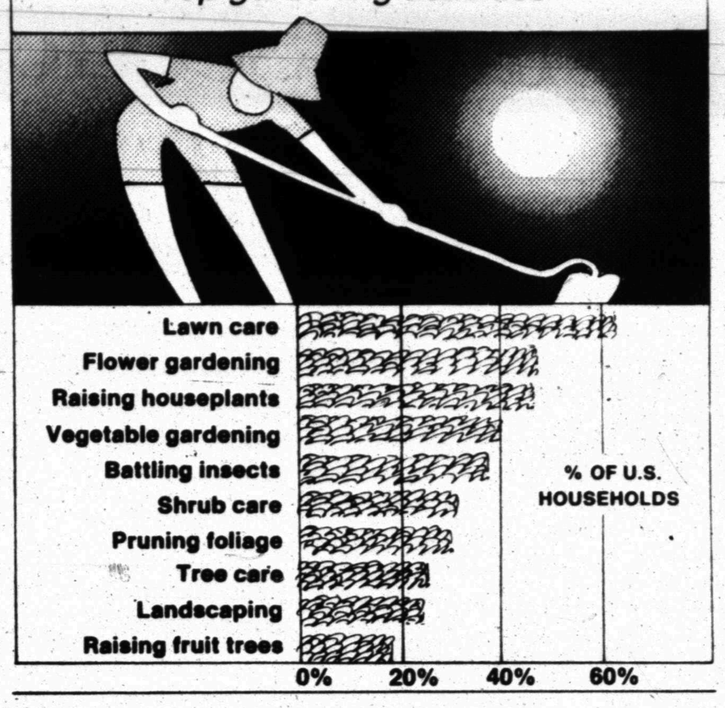

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a 19-year-old female with a desperate problem. All of my life I have had inverted (retracted) nipples. Can plastic surgery be done on my breasts to have them corrected? Please hurry and let me know before I drive myself crazy.

DEAR READER: Retracted nipples are a normal variant of nature. Yours probably protrude when your breasts are stimulated, and they will certainly behave normally once you become pregnant. I think you will enjoy life to its fullest extent if you'll make an effort to stop worrying about your nipples. Nipples are nice, but there are more important things in life.

Top gardening activities

In spring, many folks turn to the greening of America. Lawn care is the top home-gardening activity — a favorite with 63 percent of U.S. households. It's followed by flower gardening (47 percent) and houseplant care.

Many Western historians contend that Russia takes its name from the Rus, as the Viking adventurer-merchants who thrust eastward across the Baltic Sea before the mid-11th century were called.

C. Manges avoids foreclosure action

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — South Texas rancher and oilman Clinton Manges has avoided a date with the auctioneer, who had been poised to sell off the mineral rights on Manges' Duval County ranch.

An auction had been set for 10 a.m., today on the steps of the Duval County Courthouse.

Aztec Petroleum Co. of Dallas had ordered the sale in a bid to collect a $1.7 million judgment against Manges.

Aztec won the judgment in December from a Maverick County district judge, who ruled Manges owed the money for natural gas his company ManGas Transmission bought.

But Manges claims he does not owe the mney and has appealed.

To avoid paying the judgment during the appeal, he has attempted to post a surety bond.

Maverick County district clerk Diamantina Trevino refused to accept two sets of personally backed bonds Manges offered.

Monday, Manges' representatives in Eagle Pass offered a corporate surety backed by Safeco Insurance Co. of America.

The 4th Texas Court of Appeals in San Antonio ordered Ms. Trevino to accept it, in effect canceling Tuesday's sale.

At one point, Bud Haun, president of South Texas Sports, Manges' holding company for the San Antonio Gunslingers, offered an appeal bond. To shore up his assets to back the bond, Manges turned over ownership of the United States Football League team for a brief period to Haun.

But Ms. Trevino refused to accept Haun's offer. She also refused to accept later bonds backed by Manges's son-in-law, Albert Cole, and business associate, Don Parmer.

The same appeals court last week refused a motion by Manges attorney, Marynell Maloney, to direct Ms. Trevino to accept the first two offers of bonds.

Mrs. Maloney Monday asked the state Supreme Court to order Ms. Trevino to accept the bonds, but the high court denied the request.

Aztec attorneys Monday filed several motions of their own.

In San Antonio, they asked the appeals court to throw out Manges' appeal. Appeals court clerk Herb Schaefer said a ruling on that motion was imminent.

Mrs. Maloney was unavailable for comment late Monday.

But earlier in the day, she vowed the auction would never occur.

"Everything is under control," she said.

Some say they were isolated in boxes

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Students at a special public school here say their principal has punished them by forcing them to go into isolation in a [illegible].

Several students complained Monday night at a board meeting of the South San Antonio School District of the treatment they have received from Principal Hoyt Garner.

The students said Garner has verbally and physically abused them.

"He treats us like animals," said student Gustavo Rodriguez. "He puts us in boxes like animals. I realize I may have done something wrong, but I don't think I deserve this type of punishment."

Garner, principal since last February, said only, "I believe in the old philosophy of saying 'yes sir, no sir, please and thank you.'"

Several students and parents complained at the board meeting of the treatment at the school. Three students said Garner used a large refrigerator shipping box to isolate unruly students.

Council ponders phones, pay window

Equipment replacement items involving a phone system for the police and fire departments plus a new drive-in pay window for water customers at city hall were discussed Monday by council members.

Action related to both proposals was postponed for further study.

Regarding the phone system, estimates from $2,688 to up to $6,000 were discussed. The low cost would be to purchase existing equipment owned by AT&T and the second was for an upgraded system offered by Advanced Telephone Systems of Snyder, Big Spring and Abilene.

Council members asked administrators to prepare bid specifications for the phone system needed. This will then be considered at a future meeting.

The drive-in window for water customers prompted a discussion related to relocating the existing facility now situated at the east end of city hall.

Again, the council authorized drawing up bid specifications for the work with final decisions postponed until more concrete plans were presented.

Monday's meeting marked the first for new council member David Hines. Other councilmen attending the session were Tommy Davis, Truett Bryan, Troy Williamson and Mickey Nunley. Mayor Rod Waller presided and Councilman Don Osborn was absent.

All action taken by the city Monday was by unanimous vote. In other city business, the council:

—Approved a preliminary plat of a 6.3 acre tract located adjacent to College Ave. just south of the Varsity Square Shopping Center. Pending the plat's final approval, the council suggested the area be re-divided into two rather than three lots since the third lot was deemed to be of little commercial value. The replat area, which now includes the Anthony's store here, is owned by Dennis and Blanche Chisum.

—Approved a preliminary plat of a 7.6 acre tract of land being sub-divided into six blocks along East 37th St. between Aves. C through E. The plat area — involving several property owners and submitted by Edwin Parks — is now zoned for commercial use. Pending the plat's final approval, it was recommended the city obtain a dedicated alley across the back of the property.

—Approved a preliminary plat of two lots fronting 33rd St. and Aves. F and G, sub-dividing these into four lots. The plat was submitted by Nell Holdren.

—Approved a preliminary plat re-dividing two lots in the Snyder Shopping Center and submitted by Bud England and Harley Bynum.

—Approved on first reading a zoning ordinance requested by Nell Holdren changing two lots in the 600 Block of 33rd St. from R-2 (limited multi-family) to R-3 (general residential.

—Approved on first reading a zoning ordinance requested by Janice Hodges changing the north half of a lot located at 2201 Ave. O from M-1 (light manufacturing) to R-3 (general residential.

—Approved on second and final reading a zoning ordinance changing six lots located in the 1500 Block of 39th St. (Noble Heights Addition) to R-2 (limited multi-family). The change was requested by David Strunk.

—Denied a request to establish a four-way stop sign at the intersection of Ave. I and 24th St.

—Approved a "best bid" of $21,767 from Key Brothers Implement to purchase a mowing and loading tractor for the city sewer plant. Two other bids submitted had lower estimates but the equipment did not meet all bid specifications.

—Approved the low bid of $7,350 from Grimmett Brothers of Snyder to repair RS&P railroad crossings in the city. It was noted that funds in excess of this have been paid to the city by the crew which salvaged cross ties and rail from these crossings.

—Approved a request from Morningside Baptist Church to hold a vacation Bible school parade June 1.

—Approved a request from the July 4th Committee of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce allowing them to hold a July 4th Parade in Towle Park.

Endangered turtles prepared for freedom

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — About 1,000 endangered Kemp's Ridley sea turtles will be released into the Gulf of Mexico later this month as part of program to help the species establish a new nesting ground on the protected beaches of Padre Island National Seashore.

Scientists from the U.S. Marine Fisheries Service in Galveston will release the year-old Ridleys on May 21 on north Padre Island.

But Charles Caillouet Jr., chief of the service's life studies division, said, "The question of success or failure can't be known until the turtles reach productive age, which may take over 10 years in the wild."

The turtles, which are the smallest of seven species of sea turtles, grow from the size of a half dollar to about the size of a dinner plate, or a weight of about 2 pounds.

The Ridleys are the seventh bunch of turtles released under the program, started in 1978.

meanor possession of an unlawful weapon.

While he was speaking to the grand jury, court officials report he produced a quantity of marijuana, reportedly an amount equal to a misdemeanor-level offense.

At the end of his appearance before the jury, District Attorney Ernie Armstrong directed Deputy Sheriff Joe Cheyne — serving as baliff for the jury — to arrest Light on the possession charge.

He was later released from the Scurry County Jail after posting a $500 bond to a charge of possession of marijuana in a quantity less than four ounces.

returned against them were:

—Paula Lytle, 33, of 317 34th St., who is charged with two additional charges of delivery of a controlled substance (amphetamine) — one on March 1 and the other on March 14. She had previously been indicted on five similar counts by the April Grand jury.

—Traci Cooley, 22, of 317 34th St., who was indicted Monday for possession of a controlled substance (methamphetamine) on March 18. She had previously been indicted for delivery of amphetamine on Jan. 30.

—Micheal McLane Floyd, 27, of Midland, who now stands indicted for delivery of a controlled substance (amphetamine) on March 14. He was previously indicted for delivery of amphetamine on March 15.

Other indictments handed down Monday involve a felony possession of marijuana charge (more than four ounces but less than five pounds) against 33-year-old Shelby James Jones of 1007 27th St. and his wife Yvette.

Both were arrested by police April 4 and both are currently free on bonds of $2,500 each.

Also named in a felony indictment Monday was Guadalupe M. Rogers of 809 27th St.

Rogers was indicted for felony failure to stop and render aid in connection with an April 14 accident on the Furr's parking lot in which a 1976 Chevrolet pickup he was driving struck and injured 23-year-old Gilbert Martinez.

Martinez — who was riding a bicycle at the time of the collision — suffered a broken leg in the incident.

Bond for Rogers was set at $1,500.

Bond for 32-year-old Michael Ray Morris of 1909 KSNY Dr. was also set at $1,500 Monday after he was indicted for felony driving while intoxicated.

Morris was arrested for the charge by police April 24.

Grand jurors also issued an indictment for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle against a defendant who has not yet been arrested.

The suspect now stands formally charged with stealing a 1981 Ford owned by Jimmy Phariss of Snyder on April 22.

The car was recovered in Post that evening but the suspect escaped law officers there on foot.

In addition, two defendants were named in separate indictments related to an alleged felony criminal mischief incident.

Neither had been arrested at noon Tuesday and their names were being withheld pending their being in custody.

larger 10 by 40 ft. signs.

These larger signs — one of which advertises the 1983 championship season of the Snyder Tiger baseball team — are located along I-20 and the second adjacent to Ezell Key feed plant beside U.S. Hwy. 84.

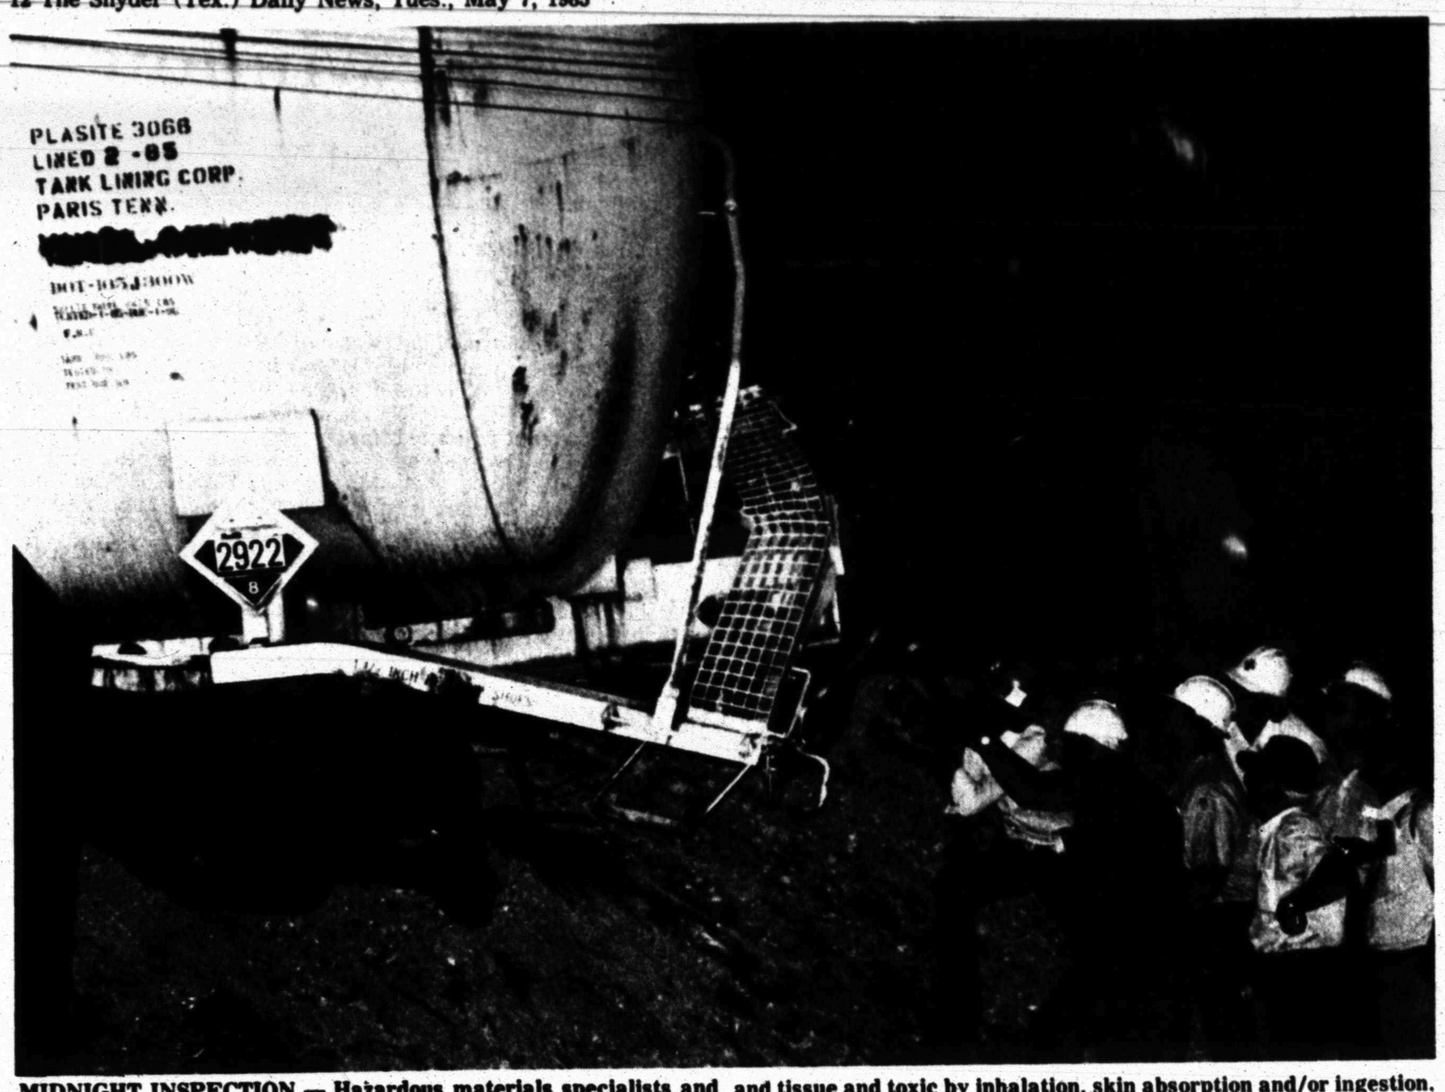

Regarding the Tiger sign on U.S. Hwy. 84, its replacement was characterised as "optional" and the indication was this decision would be left up to the sign committee.

The smaller "drop of oil" signs are located north on U.S. Hwy. 84; at Huffman Ave. and U.S. Hwy. 84; east of the city on U.S. Hwy. 180; and on south U.S. Hwy. 84.

MIDNIGHT INSPECTION — Hazardous materials specialists and railroad work crews are pictured inspecting this tank car loaded with Dimethyl cholorothiophosphate shortly after midnight Monday. The car — which had come to rest directly across the track — never leaked any of its contents which were listed as corrosive to metals and tissue and toxic by inhalation, skin absorption and/or ingestion. It was removed from the track before daylight Tuesday after work crews sucessfully picked it up and placed it back on the track between 4 and 5 a.m. (SDN Staff Photo)

TRACK REPAIRS UNDERWAY — Track repair crews from Santa Fe Railroad — pictured here cutting damaged rail just west of the derailment site — arrived in Snyder to begin work shortly after 5 p.m. Monday. The Santa Fe workers along with crews from Hulcher Emergency Services in Amarillo worked through the night Monday and the 475 feet of damaged track were replaced and the line reopened shortly before 8 a.m. Tuesday. Heir to millions accused in case

TOMBALL, Texas (AP) — A man who may inherit $5 million tried to borrow money illegally to feed his herd of starving Arabian horses, prosecutors say.

Alan B. Caliva of Houston is charged with tampering with a government document.

Prosecutors say he gave an altered document to a bank in a bid to borrow enough money to feed the horses. Judge John Hughes scheduled a hearing for June 7.

"Sometimes, I've had to write hot checks just to feed them. It's been a nightmare," Caliva said. "I've wanted to move them, but I have no place to take them. And the owners of the stables won't let them go until they're paid."

The Houston Post reported Monday that 17 of a herd of 50 horses belonging to Caliva are near starvation at a stable near Tomball just north of Houston. Stable owner John T. Parkins says Caliva owes him about $20,000 in rent.

The newspaper said Caliva has sought protection from creditors under chapter 11 of the federal Bankruptcy Code.

Caliva was named as an heir in the will of a man he once cared for, a bequest that his lawyer says could be worth as much as $5 million. But he has no money until legal challenges to the will are settled, said attorney James Patrick Smith.

Accident cleanup underway today worked through the night Monday to remove other wrecked cars and repair some 475 feet of damaged track before attempting to move the propylene oxide tankers.

By 8 a.m. Tuesday all of the cars involved in the derailment had been cleared away and the track reopened.

The undercarriage on the third hazardous tanker — carrying dimethyl chlorothiophosphate — was found to be intact Monday night and it was moved back onto the track and out of the area before daylight Tuesday.

Local police and fire officials were standing by Tuesday in case the movement of the cars required the issuance of a second evacuation order.

In that event, a procedure much like that initiated Monday would be used to clear the area surrounding the accident site.

Local officials began evacuating residents from the area shortly after the 2 p.m. derailment Monday but halted those efforts after it was definitely determined that no hazardous substances were leaking from the wreck.

Chief of Police Bill Stone directed the evacuation of Northeast Elementary School — downwind of the wreck site — at 2:31 p.m. Monday. Those students were bused to the North Elementary campus without incident.

School officials note the youngsters were located in the North auditorium while their parents were notified to come and get them. School personnel stayed until around 4:30 p.m. with the youngsters.

The residential evacuation was implemented as officers began blocking roads and erecting barricades around the area. Residents were advised of the possibly dangerous situation, then left to make their own decisions regarding going or staying.

Railroad officials from Slaton arrived on the scene around 4 p.m. and the barricades — erected to slow spectator traffic through the area — were taken down after J. R. Wilson — Santa Fe engineering foreman — inspected the site and pronounced the cars safe.

Work to clear the wreckage began in earnest around 5 p.m. with the arrival of Santa Fe track crews who began working on tracks on either side of the piled up cars.

The Hulcher crews — equipped with heavy cranes and earth moving equipment — arrived on the scene shortly before 7 p.m. to begin moving the damaged cars away from the track.

Several of the cars whose undercarriages remained intact were replaced on the track and towed away while others — too damaged to roll — were moved away from the track and left on the right-of-way.

By daylight Tuesday, crews had laid pre-built track sections through the derailment area and the track itself was clear.

Santa Fe officals have issued no statement as to possible caused of the derailment but several sections of apparently broken rail were removed from the area of the trestle at the intersection of Ave. G and 21st St. around midnight.

Inspectors examined those rails at the scene and sections of them were taken away for detailed examination.

Provo police chief thinks Lucas guilty of Scharp murder

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Police still consider the murder nearly seven years ago of a 26-year-old Brigham Young University coed the work of Henry Lee Lucas, the self-styled serial killer who now claims he confessed to hundreds of crimes he never committed.

Provo police closed the books on Marla Rae Scharp's June 29, 1978, sexual assault and suffocation after Lucas signed a confession to the crime in his Texas jail cell in February 1984.

Last month, Lucas, who has been convicted of two Texas murders including the death of his common-law wife, Freida Loraine Powell, recanted most of his 600-plus confessions in interviews with two Dallas Times Herald reporters.

At different times, he has maintained he is responsible only for the death of his mother or for the deaths of three people — his mother, Ms. Powell and 80-year-old Kate Rich, with whom he said he lived in 1982.

PUBLIC NOTICE

AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc. ("AT&T Communications"), in accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("PUC") hereby gives notice of its intent to implement a new schedule of rates for its services. The new rates will be effective May 14, 1985, unless otherwise determined by the PUC. All customers and classes of customers would be affected by the proposed rates.

AT&T Communications has filed a reprice of its tariffs designed to more closely recover access and other costs for WATS and 800 Service and all private line services including Channel Services, Foreign Exchange (FX), DATAPHONE* Digital Service, and OCC Facilities.

Also proposed is the institution of a charge for Directory Assistance to begin to recover access costs incurred for such service and increases in rates for operator assisted AT&T Long Distance calls. The initial minute charge for all AT&T Long Distance calls and additional minute rates for AT&T Long Distance calls 51 miles or less are proposed for increases to reflect the access charges approved by the PUC for such calls.

The proposed new rates for all services would result in an increase in adjusted test period revenues of $139 million or 12.7 percent.

A complete copy of the proposed tariffs are on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene or participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.
