

BOGGED DOWN

Tate Lawyer Marooned In Mudslide

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The surprise-strewn Sharon Tate murder trial is bogged down by the absence of a defense attorney who sent word he's marooned in a mudslide.

The empty seat at the counsel table belongs to Ronald Hughes, 35, burly, bushy-bearded lawyer for defendant Leslie Van Houten, 21.

He failed to show up Monday and sent word that he might not make it for three days.

Other attorneys say they'll proceed with discussions in the judge's chambers about jury instructions, but they can't make final decisions until Hughes arrives. This, they say, could hold up the start of summations in the trial, now in its 24th week.

Attorneys for Charles Manson, 36, and two other women co-defendants, charged with seven murders in August, 1969, were puzzled by Hughes' failure to arrive Monday. In mid-afternoon, chief defense attorney Paul Fitzgerald said Hughes had called his answering service to say he was "marooned by a mudslide" during a weekend trip to remote Sespe Hot Springs, 130 miles away.

Hughes was quoted as saying he would try to drive out "when police allow us to go out," but he said that might be as long as three days.

Southern California was hit by torrential rains over the weekend, washing out many roads.

Most Expensive Satellite Ever Built Lies In Ashes

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The most expensive, complex scientific satellite ever built lies in ashes somewhere in Africa or the Indian Ocean today while a review board seeks to learn why it failed to reach orbit.

The doomed Orbiting Astronomical Observatory, OAO 3, had carried the world's largest space telescope, which might have unlocked many secrets of the universe.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration blamed the failure of the $98.5 million project on a protective nose cone which did not jettison as planned four minutes after launch here Monday night.

TAIL CONE
The 12-foot-tall cone, made of honeycomb fiberglass, was designed to protect the satellite during the Atlas-Centaur rocket's upward thrust through the atmosphere.

It was to have opened like a clamshell, and the two parts were to have been blown off the rocket by explosive charges once the booster pushed above the atmosphere.

Radio signals indicated the shroud deployed partially, but did not fall away. There were these results:

—The Atlas-Centaur had to carry along an extra 2,000 pounds of weight for the remaining eight minutes of powered flight. That was too great a burden for it to achieve orbital speed.

—When the satellite's solar panels and antennae tried to extend, they were restricted by the sides of the shroud. Thus, even if orbit had been reached, the OAO 3 would have been useless.

ALL BROKEN UP
NASA said the 4,680-pound satellite plunged back to earth over Africa or the Indian Ocean. It probably broke up from atmospheric friction.

Nose shrouds have been jettisoned successfully on hundreds of flights from Cape Kennedy.

But there were three notable failures in the past.

Shroud structural failures resulted in destruction of a Mars shot in 1964 and a communications satellite launch in 1966. The cone on the docking target satellite for Gemini 9 opened only halfway, prompting astronaut Thomas Stafford to call it an "angry alligator."

Considerable confusion surrounded Monday night's launch. NASA at first announced OAO 3 had orbited successfully, then said there was conflicting data. After 90 minutes, the agency announced the failure.

$200,000 NOSE
With 328,000 parts, the satellite was the most expensive and complex scientific payload ever built, costing $83 million. The rocket and launch costs were $15.5 million, raising the total cost of the mission to $98.5 million.

The nose cone cost about $200,000.

It was the second failure in three launchings for the Orbiting Astronomical Observatory program.

OAO 1 suffered an electrical failure minutes after it reached orbit in 1966. OAO 2 was launched successfully two years ago and still is transmitting data from its 16-inch-diameter telescope, the largest in space.

Astronomers had hoped that OAO 3, with a huge 38-inch telescope, would provide the clearest picture yet of star behavior and other mysteries of interstellar space.

White House Takes Aim At Pay-Price Increases

If You Don't Find It, Leave It Alone!!

STEVENS, Wash. (AP) — You can get five years in jail and a $10,000 fine for killing the legendary Sasquatch, or "Bigfoot," in Skamania County.

Commissioners in this southwest Washington county have passed an ordinance providing the fine for anyone killing the ape-like "beast" many enthusiasts say roam areas of the West.

The commissioners passed the law after a flurry of reported Sasquatch sightings last year. It was aimed at protecting county residents as much as the legendary, shy, night-roving, hairy "beast" from a hoard of armed and eager Sasquatch hunters that followed, commissioners say.

Local conservationists hailed the law, however, since it was the first time an animal was saved before it was even found.

Oil Rig Blowout Knocks 10 In Gulf

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An offshore oil rig blew out and caught fire today, knocking 10 to 12 workmen into the Gulf of Mexico, the Coast Guard reported.

A report from a ship at the scene, some 60 miles south of New Orleans just off South Timber Island, said rescue attempts were under way.

The Coast Guard said Shell platform 26 "had a bad blowout" and was burning out of control.

PILOT PAYS WEBB EMERGENCY VISIT

A civilian Twin Beech 18 made a successful wheels-up landing at Webb AFB Monday night following what the pilot, W. A. Greer of Grandview, Tex., called a landing gear separation.

After receiving notification of the emergency, Webb personnel foamed a runway for the aircraft to use, and the aircraft was brought in safely. Greer was en route from Presidio to Fort Worth when he encountered the emergency. Neither he nor his five passengers received injuries. Only minor damage was reported to the aircraft.

Mortgage Rates Cut Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration announced today a reduction in the ceiling on government-insured home mortgages from 8½ per cent to 8 per cent.

"The sharp decline that has already taken place in other interest rates and the general outlook for rates finally makes possible a lower FHA mortgage ceiling without causing either an undue rise in mortgage discounts or undue disruption in the flow of funds available to FHA mortgages," said Secretary George Romney, of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The 8½ per cent ceiling has been in effect since last Jan. 5. The lower rate takes effect immediately, Romney said.

It will apply to all home mortgage guarantees in the future but not to the $68 billion in FHA mortgages already outstanding. Romney urged local lenders to charge lower rates than the national ceiling wherever possible.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House, resorting to a new policy it earlier predicted, criticized today the wage settlement in the General Motors strike and a presidential board's recommendation to increase wages in the railroad industry.

In its second inflation alert, President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers also focused attention on price increases by the automobile industry, the oil industry, transportation industry and the two-price system of the copper industry.

'INCOME POLICY'
The White House thus moved into fostering an "income policy," a phrase covering presidential pressure to hold down inflationary wage and price boosts.

The council said that the General Motors settlement, "if generalized throughout the economy, would crowd further upward costs per unit of output, and, therefore, the price level."

"Apart from further increases through the cost of living escalator for the years ahead, the increase substantially exceeds any trend estimate of gains in national productivity," the council said.

"It also raises costs further in an industry where producers overseas are accounting for a substantial and growing share of the domestic market."

The council reserved an opinion on the railroad wage package as a whole but zeroed in on a so-called cost-of-living escalator clause under consideration.

"If an assumption about inflation that represents no improvement is explicitly embedded into a contract for future years, we thereby guarantee that these costs and prices will continue rising at an unchanged rate," the council said.

'COLD' CONTRACT
It said that "freezing into the contract such an assumption about future inflation would saddle the industry for the larger cause of achieving a new stability for the price-cost level."

The presidential board has recommended wage increases in the railroad industry averaging 11 per cent a year over three years. The board did not specifically recommend a cost-of-living escalator clause but did note that including one would yield a wage increase in excess of nine per cent annually.

Turning to price increases, the council noted that General Motors announced additional price boosts for automobiles.

"An increase of six to seven per cent in the price of passenger automobiles would add about $2 billion to the total cost to dealers and possibly $2.5 billion to the cost to consumers," the council said.

OIL INCREASE

Such an increase, the council said, translates into a rise of about three-tenths of one per cent in the Wholesale Price Index.

The council also noted price hikes in the oil industry, saying that they come "when petroleum inventories are at a level higher than is normal for this time of year."

The 41-page inflation alert also spotlighted "steadily rising costs of local public transportation" but said it is a difficult problem for which there is no simple answer. Specifically, it mentioned transit rate increases in New York, Washington and Chicago.

'VICIOUS CIRCLE'
The report said rising wages were a principal factor in starting the fare increases, which the council says, "has become a vicious circle."

The inflation alert said the two-price system in the copper industry results in inequities and inefficiencies. "As long as U.S. producers fail to adjust sufficiently promptly to the world price the performance of the copper market is likely to be a matter for concern."

The inflation alert said that while the rate of inflation has declined it remains higher than had been expected at this stage.

The council said the Nixon administration is now aiming its economic policies "more vigorously at expansion."

LABOR FRONT

Speaking generally, the council called for holding down profits, saying the nation cannot make progress in reducing inflation "if the gains we hope to make on the labor cost front are offset by too-rapid increases of profit margins."

It said that slowing down inflation also means that the working man must expect smaller wage increases and industry must expect smaller price boosts. "This may seem unfair to some, but there is no escape from it."

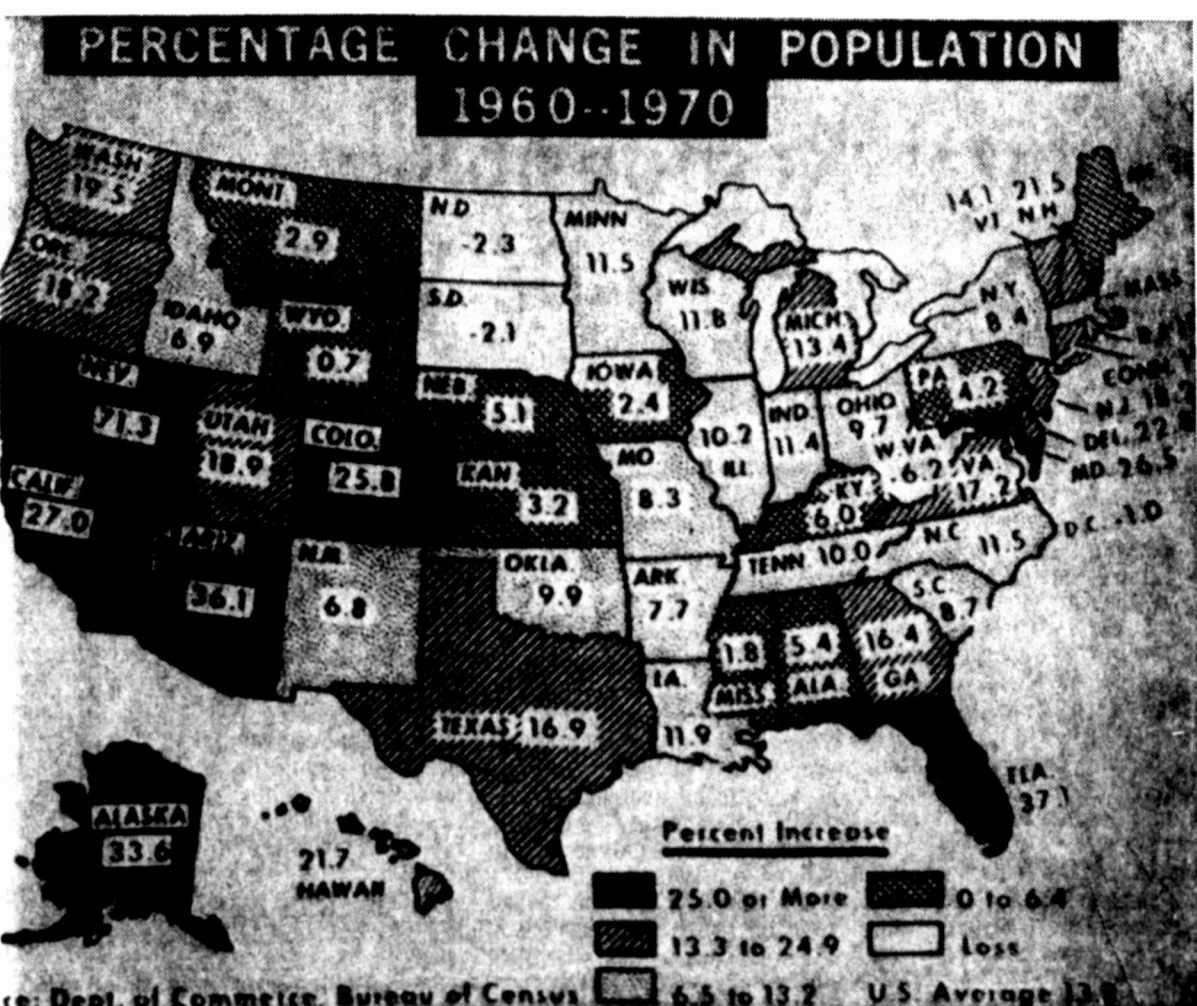

The alert comes on the heels of a decision by the Federal Reserve that could have an inflationary effect but nevertheless is supported by the administration.

CENSUS REVEALS POPULATION SHIFT — Chart shows how population of states changed from 1960 to 1970, as revealed by latest Bureau of Census figures. Seven states were heavy gainers and only the Dakotas showed losses.

1970 Census Mirrors Nation Troubled By Decay, Sprawl

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1970 Census mirrors a nation troubled by central city decay and suburban sprawl, trends which may get worse in the decade ahead.

Measured in human terms, the Census means increasing problems for cities as the more affluent flock to homes in the suburbs, leaving urban cores with declining tax bases and rising social troubles.

For the suburbs, it means an increased demand for housing, land and highways but implies problems of pollution, unplanned growth and transportation.

FINAL FIGURES

Releasing its final 1970 national figures Monday, the Census Bureau said population in many central cities declined sharply in the last decade.

"Declines also occurred in the decade of the 1950s, but the number of cities showing population losses in the 1960s appears to be greater than in the previous decade," the bureau said.

The nation grew by more than 25 million persons between 1960 and 1970, to 204.7 million.

"Suburbanites now outnumber those living in central cities," the bureau said. More than three-fourths of the growth occurred in metropolitan areas, "with suburban rings showing rapid and substantial population growth."

LONG GONE

Preliminary figures released earlier remained true indicators. They showed that 13 of the 25 largest cities had lost population, including Chicago, Detroit and Baltimore.

But, while population in many core cities dropped, the flight from the nation's countryside to metropolitan areas continued. The farm population, for example, declined by one-third since 1960, from about 15 million to 10 million.

The trend toward creation of megalopolises, groups of vast population centers stretching across state lines in an almost unbroken pattern, continued.

For example, in the dense corridor along the East Coast, more than one-sixth of the nation's people now live in a 450-mile strip running from Boston to Washington along the Atlantic Ocean and stretching 150 miles inland.

WARM WEATHER

The Census showed, too, a people in search of warmer weather and water.

Migration patterns were from midcountry out, with coastal areas continuing to grow.

MIDLAND SETS PATTERN

Program For Leasing Repossessed Homes

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — A trial home lease program for 14 Midland families ends this week as the families sign final closing papers toward purchase of the repossessed Federal Housing Administration homes.

The families are among 120 families in the trial lease program. The homes have been repossessed from their former owners in years past by the FHA.

SO SUCCESSFUL

The FHA began the program a year ago "on a strictly experimental basis" at the request of Midland officials.

"It proved so successful in Midland," said Glenn Bailey, of Lubbock, FHA regional director "that it is being copied in several communities across the nation, where there is a large inventory of vacant repossessed houses on the one hand and a large number of families living in sub-standard homes on the other."

Bailey and Midland officials say the program solves two problems at once.

The program, which involves no subsidies, permits families within certain income ranges, who were previously in sub-standard housing, to lease houses for a one-year period with option to purchase after proving their ability to meet the obligation.

PAY TAXES

Part of the lease payments are applied to the down payment and closing costs of the homes. They are sold for between $4,000 and $7,000. Most of them sold for $7,000 to $12,000 when new 10 to 15 years ago.

Heart Pacemaker Size Of Bullet

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A tiny heart pacemaker, about the size of a .22-caliber bullet, has been developed by the Cox Heart Institute in nearby Kettering.

The device, which is implanted directly into the heart, is powered by a self-contained chemical battery or an atomic battery made by the McDonnell Douglas Corp.

Dr. J. W. Spickler, a physiologist, and Dr. N. S. Rasor, a consulting physicist for the Douglas Laboratories of McDonnell Douglas, developed the new pacemaker.

Pacemakers now in use are about the size of a deck of cards and are inserted under the skin. Tiny wires connect it to the heart and sometimes break or become dislodged by the action of the heart. The pacemakers are powered by chemical batteries which last about 18 months.

The Cox pacemaker is inserted in the right ventricle of the heart by a catheter tube run through the jugular vein.

Made of stainless steel and ceramic, it spurs the heart to beat at a steady rate by sending minute electrical impulses through tiny metal bars hooked into the heart muscle fibers. The battery inside the pacemaker powers solid state circuits within the tiny tube.

Spickler and Rasor said the new pacemakers could cost about $1,000, compared to $600-$1,000 for a conventional pacemaker. Even with longer-life chemical batteries instead of nuclear ones, Rasor said, the new pacemaker would last five years and would be much cheaper to replace than pacemakers now in use.

The atomic battery being used at Cox is expected to operate the pacemaker 5-10 years, the Cox team said, noting that the majority of pacemakers are implanted in persons 65-70 years old. Experiments are under way with new types of nuclear isotopes for power sources.

LETTERS Asks For Lake To Be Cleaned

To The Editor:

It has been eight years since we have had a big rain on Lake J. B. Thomas watershed.

Weeds, willows, salt cedars, etc. are 10 to 20 feet high in the lake.

If and when we get that big rain to once more fill up the lake, will we be ready for it? Will the water be fit to use? We think not.

Surely, the first cost of the lake has paid for itself before now. Se we beg, plead and urge the Colorado River Municipal Water District to drag, burn or in some way clean out the lake bottoms so people far and near can enjoy the lake once more when it fills up.

Agents Arrest Four Men, Seize Two Planes, Cars

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Four Houston men were charged Monday with conspiracy to smuggle marijuana said to be worth $100,000 on the retail market.

U.S. customs agents arrested the four Sunday and also seized two light airplanes and two cars.

Charged were George Armstrong, 42, owner of Armstrong Aviation in La Porte, Jack Covington, 32, a pilot, Keyon E. Clonts, 18, a student, and L. T. Bowman, Jr., 36, an employee of a tile company.

Agents said they received a tip last Monday that the men were smuggling in drugs by plane.

Agent Don Slocum testified at a probable cause hearing Monday before U.S. Commissioner Ralph Fowler that customs agents had tracked several of the men by plane and radar as they made trips into Mexico in both of the seized airplanes.

Slocum said one of the planes came back into the United States Sunday and cleared customs at Corpus Christi. But radar revealed the plane first landed on a strip at Rockport. Slocum said two of the men rented a car and drove back to Houston, first stopping at the Rockport air strip and picking up two large duffel bags.

When the two were arrested in Houston, the agent said, the bags were full of marijuana.

CLAIMS KY PLOT — This is a copy of a letter received by The Associated Press in San Francisco Monday which says four men with M-16 rifles and grenades will try to kill Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam during his visit to San Francisco Tuesday. The letter reads: "There is a plot to kill Ky Dec. 1. Four men—I think Weathermen—they have M-16's and grenades. They are serious!! I found out by chance, and I know they will do it. CRMWD Expansion On Agenda

Financing of a probable expansion program will be the prime business of the Colorado River Municipal Water District directors when they meet Dec. 9 in Big Spring.

The district has been working with Eastman, Dillon, Union Securities of New York, fiscal agents, relative to issuance of nearly $7 million in revenue bonds for development of additional ground water supplies and additional supply lines.

In the meantime, tests are being run on potential sources of supply, and O. H. Ivie, general manager, said he hoped to have more detailed information on this by the time of the meeting.

Several successive years of abnormally low runoff on the Lake J. B. Thomas lake shed and a subnormal year for Lake E. V. Spence the past two seasons has reduced lake reserves to the point that directors moved two months ago toward more well water as a hedge against continued light runoff.

The district has retained its A rating by Standard and Poor and BAA rating by Moody's on the impending issue. Officials made a presentation to the two rating agencies a fortnight ago.

Will Challenge Military Statute

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A land instructor to face trial on maltreatment charges in less than a month.

One of the recruits in Wilson's case, Dale A. Davis, 20, of Stanberry, Mo., claims he had to undergo surgery after his head and another airman's head were knocked together.

Gillespie said he will seek a federal ruling on the constitutionality of the maltreatment statute of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

The statute is "vague and indefinite" and therefore unconstitutional, Gillespie argued before the court-martial judge Monday.

The judge, Col. James Thorn, denied a defense motion to declare the statute unconstitutional. He ruled the question is "beyond the purview and jurisdiction of this court."

Judge Thorn granted the continuance after the defense said it was not informed of the seven additional prosecution witnesses until five days before the trial, and had no chance to interview them.

Don't Buy 7,000 Acres For Park Recommended

AUSTIN (AP) — A special investigating group recommended today to Gov. Preston Smith against the buying of 7,000 acres of Mustang Island for a state park.

The decision of the Texas Conservation Foundation was confirmed by Pearce Johnson, chairman of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission. He said other details of the recommendation would be revealed in a news release later today from the governor.

CLOSED SESSION
The foundation group went into a closed session Monday night after an all day hearing of testimony on the highly controversial issue.

Smith asked the foundation to conduct the hearing after the Parks and Wildlife Commission reached an improbably impasse: two of the three members voted to buy the land, but the chairman, Pearce Johnson, refused to sign an application for federal matching funds, and only Johnson has the power to sign.

Mrs. Sam Wilson has offered to sell the state some 7,000 acres of Mustang Island for $1.100 an acre. She reportedly has money from private investors, including one oil firm.

BONDS SOLD
A commission member, Harry Jersig, told the foundation $3,150,000 remained of $5 million in bonds sold for the purchase of park land.

A total of $75 million for such bonds is authorized but only $5 million could be sold before zooming interest rates made it impossible to market the bonds at or under the 4½ per cent ceiling set out in the state constitution.

Hersig said the Federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation would chip in $2,137,047, making it possible to buy enough land from Mrs. Wilson for a 5,000-acre park, including 220.5 acres of the choicest property, which Mrs. Wilson will give the state free.

Representatives of Parks and Recreation Departments in Houston, Fort Worth and Port Arthur testified against the purchase on the ground cited by Johnson, that it is far from population centers that have a critical need of new park land. If all the state park money is used on this one project, it would be five years before any more park land could be bought.

NOT US
"The Department of the Interior has decided we need this, not us," said W. G. Scheibe, director of Parks and Recreation in Houston. "Let them buy it. Let them use their money. Let's keep our money and put it in the cities where the people voted to use it."

"This is an opportunity which will never come again in our lifetime or in the lifetime of our children," said Rep. DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi.

Johnson said he and his integrity were on trial.

Hale said: "What's on trial is the Democratic processes of our government."

"YES, IT IS"
Hale turned to Johnson, who also is a member of the foundation, and asked: "Is two to one a majority?"

"Yes, it is," Johnson replied, "but a million to one vote would not make me agree to something I believe to be untrue."

Johnson referred to his contention that federal money would not be forthcoming because Mustang is not on the list of priorities in the comprehensive statewide plan approved by the commission in 1968. The state's eligibility for federal funds is dependent upon adherence to that plan, he said.

Jersig said that was untrue. The Corpus Christi and lower Rio Grande Valley region was next on the plan's list of areas that have had no park development since the plan was adopted, he said.

Harry L. Tension of Fort Worth, foundation member, said it appeared to him there had been a lot of "passing the buck" in the Parks and Wildlife Department over the issue of priority. "Somebody evidently is lying," he said.

Man Is Charged With Auto Theft

Preston Lee Wood, 20, 1505 Gregg, was transferred to Howard County Jail Monday on a charge of theft over $50.

Wood is charged in connection with the theft of a car belonging to Arnold Tonn's Used Car Lot during the early morning hours Friday.

The car was parked at the home of Pete Sanderson, 1305 Barnes, an employee of Tonn's, when it was allegedly stolen. Wood was arrested at 4 p.m. Saturday by Big Spring city police.

Jury Dismissed Until Wednesday

Jurors were dismissed from Howard County Court this morning after being instructed by County Judge Lee Porter to report at 9 a.m. Wednesday in the county courtroom. No case was heard today.

A case involving a charge of aggravated assault is set to go before the jury Wednesday. Jerry Edward Fielder, 24, 1902 Johnson, is charged in connection with the Aug. 30 shooting of James Boyd Pearce. Pearce was allegedly wounded in the leg.

Fielder was arrested by city police on Aug. 30, transferred to the county jail and released on $500 bond Aug. 31.

Bus Dive Kills 30 Passengers

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — A bus filled with holiday passengers struck a railing and plunged off a road into a river in South Sumatra, killing 30 persons and seriously injuring 10, the official Antara News Agency reported today.

Most of the passengers were on their way to visit their families for the end of the Muslim New Year, the report said.

Court Order Blocks Pay, Officials-Pros Resign

COMMERCE, Tex. (AP) — Mayor W.J. Bell and two city commissioners resigned here Monday after a court order was issued ordering the state comptroller not to pay state employees who hold elective government posts.

Nov. 27 seeking the names of the employees.

Kimbro said employees who hold such elective positions may have to pay the state for the salaries they have received because their state employment was based on affidavits saying they are complying with prohibitions about holding elective office.

Jones' ruling applied specifically to five Texas A&M faculty members, all of whom have appealed his decision.

Bell and the two Commerce city commissioners quit because, they said, they weren't going to be paid for the month of November.

Bell is head of the college's journalism department. Hawthorne is head of the physical education department while Cox is a member of the history faculty.

A Devotion For Today . . .

God himself is kind to the ungrateful and wicked. Be compassionate as your Father is compassionate. (Luke 6:35-36, NEB)

PRAYER: O God, we plead guilty to sins against You and our neighbors, sins spawned by selfishness. Forgive us. Possess our hearts so that our thinking and actions may accord with Your will. Amen.

How can we save the colleges and universities of the United States from the "unholy alliance" of the left and the right?

The question probably hadn't occurred to most people. Some have joined Vice President Agnew in condemning the "disturbing permissiveness of campus officials" which permitted, or even countenanced, violence. Others take the position that police provocation and brutality cause campus violence, and that the college and universities have become a tool of the "military-industrial" and the "warfare-liberal" establishment.

A sincere effort to separate the chaff and sort out the nonsense of these opposites has been made by Kenneth Keniston, professor of psychology, and Michael Lerner, political science teacher, both of Yale, writing in the New York Times Magazine. Perhaps their argument that the arguments of the left and the right should receive short shrift may filter down to the militants in each camp.

In a study of 849 colleges, the authors found that in 1969-70 there were 386 student protests per 100 colleges. Yet violent protest occurred on fewer than 7 per cent of all campuses. Less than 1 per cent of the students at all universities were "violent."

How, then, is one to account for the fact that the majority of the American people are apparently coming to believe that the campus is a constant source of violence? Because simplistic explanations have too often been accepted as the gospel. Equally as destructive, the left argues, but with much less public acceptance, that universities must be restructured completely, giving students, rather than the administration, the key voice in establishing policy.

It should be obvious to thoughtful men and women that the academic community cannot forever withstand this attack from the left and the right. Polarization proceeds apace. Out of it can come a "right" view of the role of a university. Out of that could come the repression that would dilute severely, if not destroy, academic freedom and the right of free inquiry. An extreme "left" view would bring chaos.

The moderate majority must keep a sharp distinction between peaceful dissent, guaranteed by the Constitution and practiced by about 9 per cent of the student body, and the violence practiced by about 1 per cent of the student population.

John Cuniff New Construction Tests

NEW YORK (AP) — The cyclically vigorous construction industry has slowed again as business finds itself with an abundance of plant capacity but not enough work to fill it.

As reported by F. W. Dodge, the October total of new construction contracts fell to the second lowest level of the year — to an index of 179, based on 1957-1959 activity equaling 100 — compared with 200 in August.

"Anyone hoping to find signs of economic recovery in October's construction contract statistics will be disappointed to learn that, as in September, the weakness was again concentrated in . . . business capital spending," the company said.

During the boom years now ended, industry plowed tremendous sums into expanding and improving its production facilities, confident that the investments would be repaid in big sales and profits.

Now that economic activity is sluggish, in direct response to the anti-inflation efforts in Washington, businessmen are less inclined to spend for factories, plants, offices and stores whose need hasn't been proved.

Instead, the emphasis in corporations now is on holding the line, on cutting costs, on improving efficiency and productivity rather than merely increasing sales. Efforts are aimed at saving rather than spending.

This is a new test for many managers who knew nothing but many of the companies that prospered during the 1960s are likely to be found wanting in the skills needed to make more money out of the same sales.

As the General Electric Economic Forecasting Operation views the upcoming months, "American management now faces its greatest challenge since the end of World War II. That challenge: to operate more efficiently."

"Capacity is no longer a problem for the next several years," it declared in its Quarterly Review of Economic Prospects. The best use of that capacity will, however, be a momentous task.

"Boosting productivity is the crucial need and will continue to be the priority one task for as long as cost inflation persists in its present virulent form," the quarterly's editors reported. "Attention to detail, waste, inefficiency, excessive inventory, sloppy distribution, quality, resources—all of these things are going to have to be watched in the future as never before because of the inability of our economic system to control inflation."

One highly regarded consultant to the management of several very large corporations reports confidentially that some of the whiz kids of the 1960s are paralyzed in such situations.

"When asked to cut the budget 10 per cent," he said, "they either take a machete and lop off 10 per cent indiscriminately instead of selectively eliminating only the bad. Either that or they sit there paralyzed, unable to move."

Even though unemployment is relatively high and construction activity is slow, indicating that business already is responding to the demands for greater efficiency, the GE unit sees the challenge still ahead.

"Following the end of the auto strike," it forecasts, "general business conditions should improve for a short time, but the real test of management and labor will come later . . ."

That test will come, it said, "when the end of the defense spending and investment boom has made its full impact felt upon the durable goods industries and to a lesser extent the nondurable goods industries."

Most of the large basic industries will find the going tough during the early 70s, GE's economists said. And they named steel, autos, nonferrous metals, metal fabrication and aircraft.

Suggestions Are Taxable

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Three Yale astronomers predict the earth will probably last for another billion years. Does this mean we don't have to rush to do our Christmas shopping early?

If you drop an idea in the office suggestion box for which your firm pays you money, you must divvy it up with Uncle Sam. The Internal Revenue Service has ruled that such bonuses are part of your pay and subject to income tax.

In Soviet Russia, now suffering a labor shortage, you're never too old to work. One of the first to respond to a government appeal for retirees to return to the labor market was a man in Uzbekistan who claimed to be 117 years old. He was given a job as a traffic policeman.

It takes a long time to pay off a battlefield. No Civil War veterans are left on U.S. federal pension rolls, but at last count the government was still paying money out to 3,900 widows and 650 dependent children left in the wake of that long ago conflict.

Isn't it a shame? It takes some 2,000 bolts to hold a car together — and only one nut to tear it apart.

Here's an irony about auto liability insurance. In an accident involving only $500 damage it may enable you to recover more than four times that amount, a survey showed, but in a case involving serious injury, it may repay you only one-sixth of your total economic loss.

Literary humor: Author H. G. Wells once donated another man's hat by mistake, liked it so well he kept it, and left this note behind for the owner: "I stole your hat. I like your hat. I shall keep your hat. Whenever I look inside it, I shall think of you. I take off your hat to you!"

How's that again? There is some fear that most city dwellers will be totally deaf by the year 2000 if urban noise levels continue to rise at the present rate. In the last 10 years they have doubled, according to the Northwestern National Life Insurance Co.

Some fling: Boomerang throwing is becoming a booming sport in Australia and Canada. Using a nonreturnable curved flying stick, Australian aborigines have been known to bring down a kangaroo at 200 yards.

Inner ear trouble is the likely explanation, but whether it is labyrinthitis or some other ear disorder is not so easy to answer without examination. Best I can do is suggest that you send 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for my booklet, "Dizzy Spells," which explains labyrinthitis as well as other conditions causing troubles like yours.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is and encouraging sinus sufferers to do something about it. For a copy write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

are cirrhosis of the liver, chronic intestinal disease, systemic disease. Among them malnutrition, and tuberculosis. With all of these, there would be other symptoms, too.

Red palms sometimes can be associated with pregnancy, but you can rule that out since your problem is continuing.

Lastly, some women have an unusual degree of dilation of the small blood vessels near the surface of the skin. This, it would seem, might be true in your case because you notice it more in warm weather, and experience a sense of warmth — which would go with such a situation. Unhappily, I don't know anything you can do about it, if that is your problem.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You are asked a question about labyrinthitis. I'm wondering if that is what you would call my case. My doctor says it is from "inner ear trouble" which I had a few years ago. I had a fall eight months ago and was in bed 4½ weeks, and still can't

Around The Rim Charming Canyon Road

Before white men invaded this continent, Canyon Road in Santa Fe was an Indian trail along the meandering Santa Fe River, climbing over mountains to the Pecos Pueblo.

WHEN SANTA FE was founded in 1610, the Spanish soon began to build homes along the road, and their ways were different from those of the eastern coast. No neat lawns and flower gardens in front of homes — houses were built with the outside wall tight up against the property line, with gates leading into inner courtyards, or compounds. These courtyards were planted, portaled and were very lovely places where the women could sit and weave, sew or shell beans while children played safely under their watchful eyes.

AS CHILDREN grew up and married, additions were built on, or new houses erected for the son and his wife, and the compound became a cluster of homes. A few generations, and Canyon Road was almost solid with homes. (This was an era when men wore the pants and women the beads.)

During this century the ancient road was discovered by artists, writers, sculptors and businessmen. The old homes and the compounds back of them have gradually changed in character, but very little in appearance.

NOW YOU HAVE only to step through a portal to find a lovely garden, an artist's studio, a unique little gift shop of some kind where most anything can be purchased.

Studios feature a wide spectrum of art, from the traditional to the ultra-modern, with prices ranging from less than a dollar to a $50,000 painting — and it may be a bargain at that price. Galleries abound.

CANYON ROAD is narrow, so it is best to see it on foot. There are a number of places where you can get any kind of meal you want, or for a picnic in the park, you can get makings at Gormley's Store which has preserved its "country" charm since 1901.

SHOPS ON Canyon Road are famous for descriptive names as well as unique merchandise. The Pot Shop does not handle marijuana, but does handle pottery. A few other unusual names are the Shop of the Frightened Owl, Feather Moon, Poor Richard's, Ludi Snaffle Shop and the Bird Watcher.

Art Buchwald Precision Raid With No Casualties

WASHINGTON — "I've got it! I've got it!" Sam Craftsman yelled as he rushed into the office of Darryl Kleigfoot, the head of Metro-Mogul studios.

"What have you got?" Kleigfoot said, slightly annoyed.

"An idea for a new cowboy picture. It's the greatest thing since 'How the West Was Won.'"

"All right, but give it to me fast."

"I WAS READING a history book the other night and discovered that President Rutherford B. Hayes was very disturbed because a bunch of Apache Indians were holding several American soldiers as prisoners. So he ordered his secretary of war, Alexander Ramsey, to get a rescue operation under way."

"Continue," said Kleigfoot.

"Can't you just see it as a film, Chief? We get John Wayne to play the colonel of the United States cavalry and Frank Sinatra as his cocky first sergeant."

"THE SECRETARY of war, played by Ronald Reagan, calls in Wayne and Sinatra and tells them he wants them to organize an expedition to go into Apache country and rescue the American prisoners. He tells them that unimpeachable intelligence sources indicate that the Apaches are holding the men at Little Red Creek and the President says they can have anything they want as long as they get the men released."

"Wayne and Sinatra go back to Fort Frontier and, with the aid of captured maps, build an entire replica of the Indian village of Little Red Creek."

"THEN, WITH a hand-picked crew of cavalrymen, they rehearse the attack on Little Red Creek. For three months they go over every detail."

"Come on, come on, get on with it," Kleigfoot said angrily.

"All right. The secretary of war reports to President Hayes that everything is in order and so President Hayes writes him a note and says 'Proceed as planned.'"

"Wayne is notified and he orders all his men to mount. They ride off into Apache country."

"Good," the studio head said.

"THE PLAN is to attack at night so the Apaches will be surprised. So they wait until midnight, and then, firing all their guns, they ride into the sleeping village of Little Red Creek."

"It should make a good fight scene," Kleigfoot said.

"Wrong, Chief," Craftsman says. "There's no one in the village. The soldiers go from one tepee to another and find they're all empty."

"Oh, my God," said Kleigfoot.

"Apparently the intelligence was wrong or else the Apaches were tipped off and moved out."

"SO WHAT happens?" Kleigfoot said.

"The cavalrymen ride back to Washington, D. C., where the secretary of war calls a press conference and introduces Wayne and Sinatra to the reporters."

"The secretary of war calls it one of the most successful operations against the Apaches in military history. It was not only pulled off with precision, but did not produce one single casualty. The only way they could have improved on it was if they had found the prisoners."

"PRESIDENT Rutherford B. Hayes sends his personal congratulations to Wayne and tells his press secretary to announce that this should be a lesson to the Apaches once and for all."

"We end the film with the secretary of war awarding Wayne a medal and Sinatra getting the girl."

"I don't know, Sam. There's something wrong with the story. Don't you think the public will be let down a little at the end, when the cavalry finds nobody there?"

Craftsman said, "I don't see why."

Massive Thefts At The Airports

WASHINGTON — In the matter of pending legislation in Congress to cope with theft and racketeering at the nation's airports, let me put in this way:

The theft-and-racketeering operation couldn't survive for 10 days unless the creeps had protection from assorted statesmen on the public payroll. I am not sure, therefore, that Congress will break its neck to enact laws aimed at stamping out an illicit trade that — with its accompanying loan-sharking, hijacking, sabotage and violence — costs business and the taxpayers about $4 billion a year nationally.

HOWEVER, I acknowledge a ray of hope. The legislatures of both New York and New Jersey have approved a compact to extend the bi-state Waterfront Commission's authority to the area's major airports in an effort to clean them up. The states have urged Congress to approve this compact, which would require the licensing of all persons handling air cargo, and labor relations, "consultants" in the industry; would permit the commission to set up cargo security areas, and would assign cargo protection to special police controlled by the commission.

NEW YORK and New Jersey understandably have reached the panic stage. At New York's Kennedy International Airport alone, airport thefts have jumped from $45,000 in 1963 to almost $4 million last year. In insurance losses, not to mention others that is a lot of mazzuma.

Paul J. Curran, chairman of the New York State Commission of Investigation, told a House hearing an inquiry in 1967 showed that Teamsters Local 295 and a trucking trade association had "placed the air freight industry at Kennedy airport under the virtual control of ex-convicts and racketeers who ruled both organizations."

CURRAN OFFERED a bit of testimony that would seem incredible in any other country. He testified that Local 295, which has a monopoly over trucking jobs at all major New York airports, is still headed by one Harry Davidoff. An associate of convicted labor racketeer John (Johnny Dio) Dioguardi, Davidoff has been convicted himself of burglary, conspiracy to extort, and gambling. He has been linked by lawmen with "Murder, Inc.," which is not a TV show.

The tragedy is that although most businessmen and labor leaders are honest, at least within the terms of their trades, they have no choice but to go along with the racketeers.

FOR EXAMPLE, consider the testimony of William P. Sirignano, executive director of the Waterfront Commission of New York Harbor. According to Sirignano, air freight employers have been forced to hire men with criminal records referred to them by Davidoff. If true, how could any racketeer ask for a juicier setup? No fox charged with guarding a chicken coop ever had a better deal.

The time is now, sir, to get Congress moving, while bidding all good luck to New York and New Jersey. In this one, the cautious approach can only result in those creeps stealing us all blind.

Marquis Childs Europe Watches U.S.-Soviet Moves

LONDON — Between the two giants on the West and the East Europe has no choice but to play a game of watchful waiting. Decisions taken in Washington and Moscow — often decisions that seem heedless, reckless — determine the course of events beyond the power of individuals or nations to control or even, except in a small degree, to influence.

THE TRADE bill is an example of America's go-it-alone conduct that is dismaying all Europe. Angry cries of protest come from north to south, coupled with the warning that adoption of the quotas contained in the bill will bring a trade war.

That will be the reaction after the event, promising disaster for all concerned. It is not merely the quotas imposed on imports of shoes and textiles but the way the bill opens the door to protectionism and old-fashioned logrolling all down the line that leave Europeans appalled at the prospect ahead.

WITH THE measure having passed the House of Representatives, the press here reports it is likely to get by the Senate as well, short of a determined public stand by President Nixon. And if it is tacked onto Social Security increases the President would find it difficult, if not impossible, to exercise his veto. These reports read in the chancelleries of Europe are like weather reports of an impending hurricane followed with a sense of powerlessness.

THE FREE-TRADE structure so painstakingly put together through the General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs is menaced from other directions. Britain's entry into the Common Market is likely to bring new and stringent controls over agricultural products. That could mean barriers erected against imports of American farm products which would hurt.

THE EXERCISE of gigantism in military might is an area where watchful, not to say nervous, waiting is the order of the day. The Pentagon decision to strike North Vietnam with a bombing raid and the commando attempt to rescue American prisoners could widen the war and put a final period to any hope of negotiating a settlement. Yet, aside from voices in the press and a few labor backbenchers, silence gives the consent of the concerned helpless bystander.

NOT TO EQUATE the two events in any way, the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia and the destruction of the Dubcek government in 1968 was a shattering explosion in the East, threatening Europe. In the face of this shocking rape, which seemed for the time being to end any hope of agreement between the giants to abate the nuclear arms race, waiting for the dust to settle and the clamor of the helpless Czechs to subside was the rule.

"They also serve who only stand and wait." The fragile "special relationship" that Britain has tried to maintain with the United States since the war rests on that premise. Its validity is in British know-how based on more than a century of world power and peace-keeping if Washington could only take advantage of that know-how.

What Others Say

It is a pleasant surprise to find the chief of naval operations, Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., issuing orders calculated to have a humanizing effect on the Navy. This is a welcome further step in the slow but inevitable process of making the armed services less rigid and straitlaced in their handling of personnel.

This is not quite the Pollyanna formula that some old salts and also some fire-eating landlubbers may see it as being. What Zumwalt and his colleagues have recognized is that in an era marked by freedom in life styles and a ferment of changing beliefs and standards, many "abrasive" regulations are no longer tolerable. To insist on enforcing them would tend to reduce, not increase, efficiency.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Although I have often taken exception to your "hardnosed" advice to persons involved in extramarital affairs, I respect your advice and am now in need of your viewpoint.

For 11 years I was deeply in love with a married man. Our relationship provided a purpose for living in an otherwise pointless existence. I was free, but his devotion to his family prevented him from making the break and marrying me. We were both extremely discreet and no one knew about us.

He passed away last year and I have managed to adjust to the loss fairly well, with one exception.

My beloved's resting place is in an unkempt cemetery without even a marker for his grave. Please understand that he was well-to-do and well-insured and his children (grown and married) are all well-off.

I have no desire to embarrass his family because I respect his memory and the discretion he practiced to protect them, so I have done nothing thus far to correct the situation, but I would appreciate your advice on how to handle it. It hurts me terribly to know that my beloved lies alone and forgotten by the family for whom he sacrificed his own happiness.

He was the most important part of my life. What advice have you for — HIS ANGEL?

DEAR ANGEL: Now it's your turn to "sacrifice." Stay out of sight. Don't do anything to destroy the memory he sacrificed so much to create. Beautiful memories are more important to him now than a beautiful grave.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow in my middle fifties who is dating a man in his early seventies, but he acts lots younger than most men my age. He is very good to me and he has asked me to marry him, and although I like him a lot, I am holding back my answer for the following reason. He never tells me how much he loves me. He keeps telling me how lonesome he is and how much he needs someone to talk to, and to cook for him and clean house for him. I would like to see your answer in this space. Thank you. WAITING

DEAR WAITING: If you need him and he needs you, grab him. Se he's no poet. A good man is hard to find.

DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote complaining because the boss called the female help in his office by their first names, but he expected them to call him "Mr. So and So."

In most offices it is accepted office procedure to call the boss "Mr." And almost without exception, the "girls" in the office are flattered to be called by their first names. The "girls" may be anywhere from 18 to 70, but I've never known any who objected to being called "the girls" collectively, or Mary, Sally or Sue individually. SHARON

Feeble Fog In West Texas

By The Associated Press

A feeble cold front from the Pacific coursed eastward across Texas today without exerting much effect on the weather.

Skies cleared as a mass of dry and cooler air settled over the western part of the state. Winds which whipped up to 32 miles per hour Monday around Amarillo subsided, allowing dust to settle.

Farther east it was partly cloudy over the area from Paris, Waco and Laredo toward Louisiana.

Small areas of fog appeared in early morning around Wink and Midland in West Texas, and in the vicinity of Beaumont and Port Arthur on the Upper Texas Coast.

Near dawn the forward edge of the cool front lay along a line linking Wichita Falls, Abilene and San Angelo.

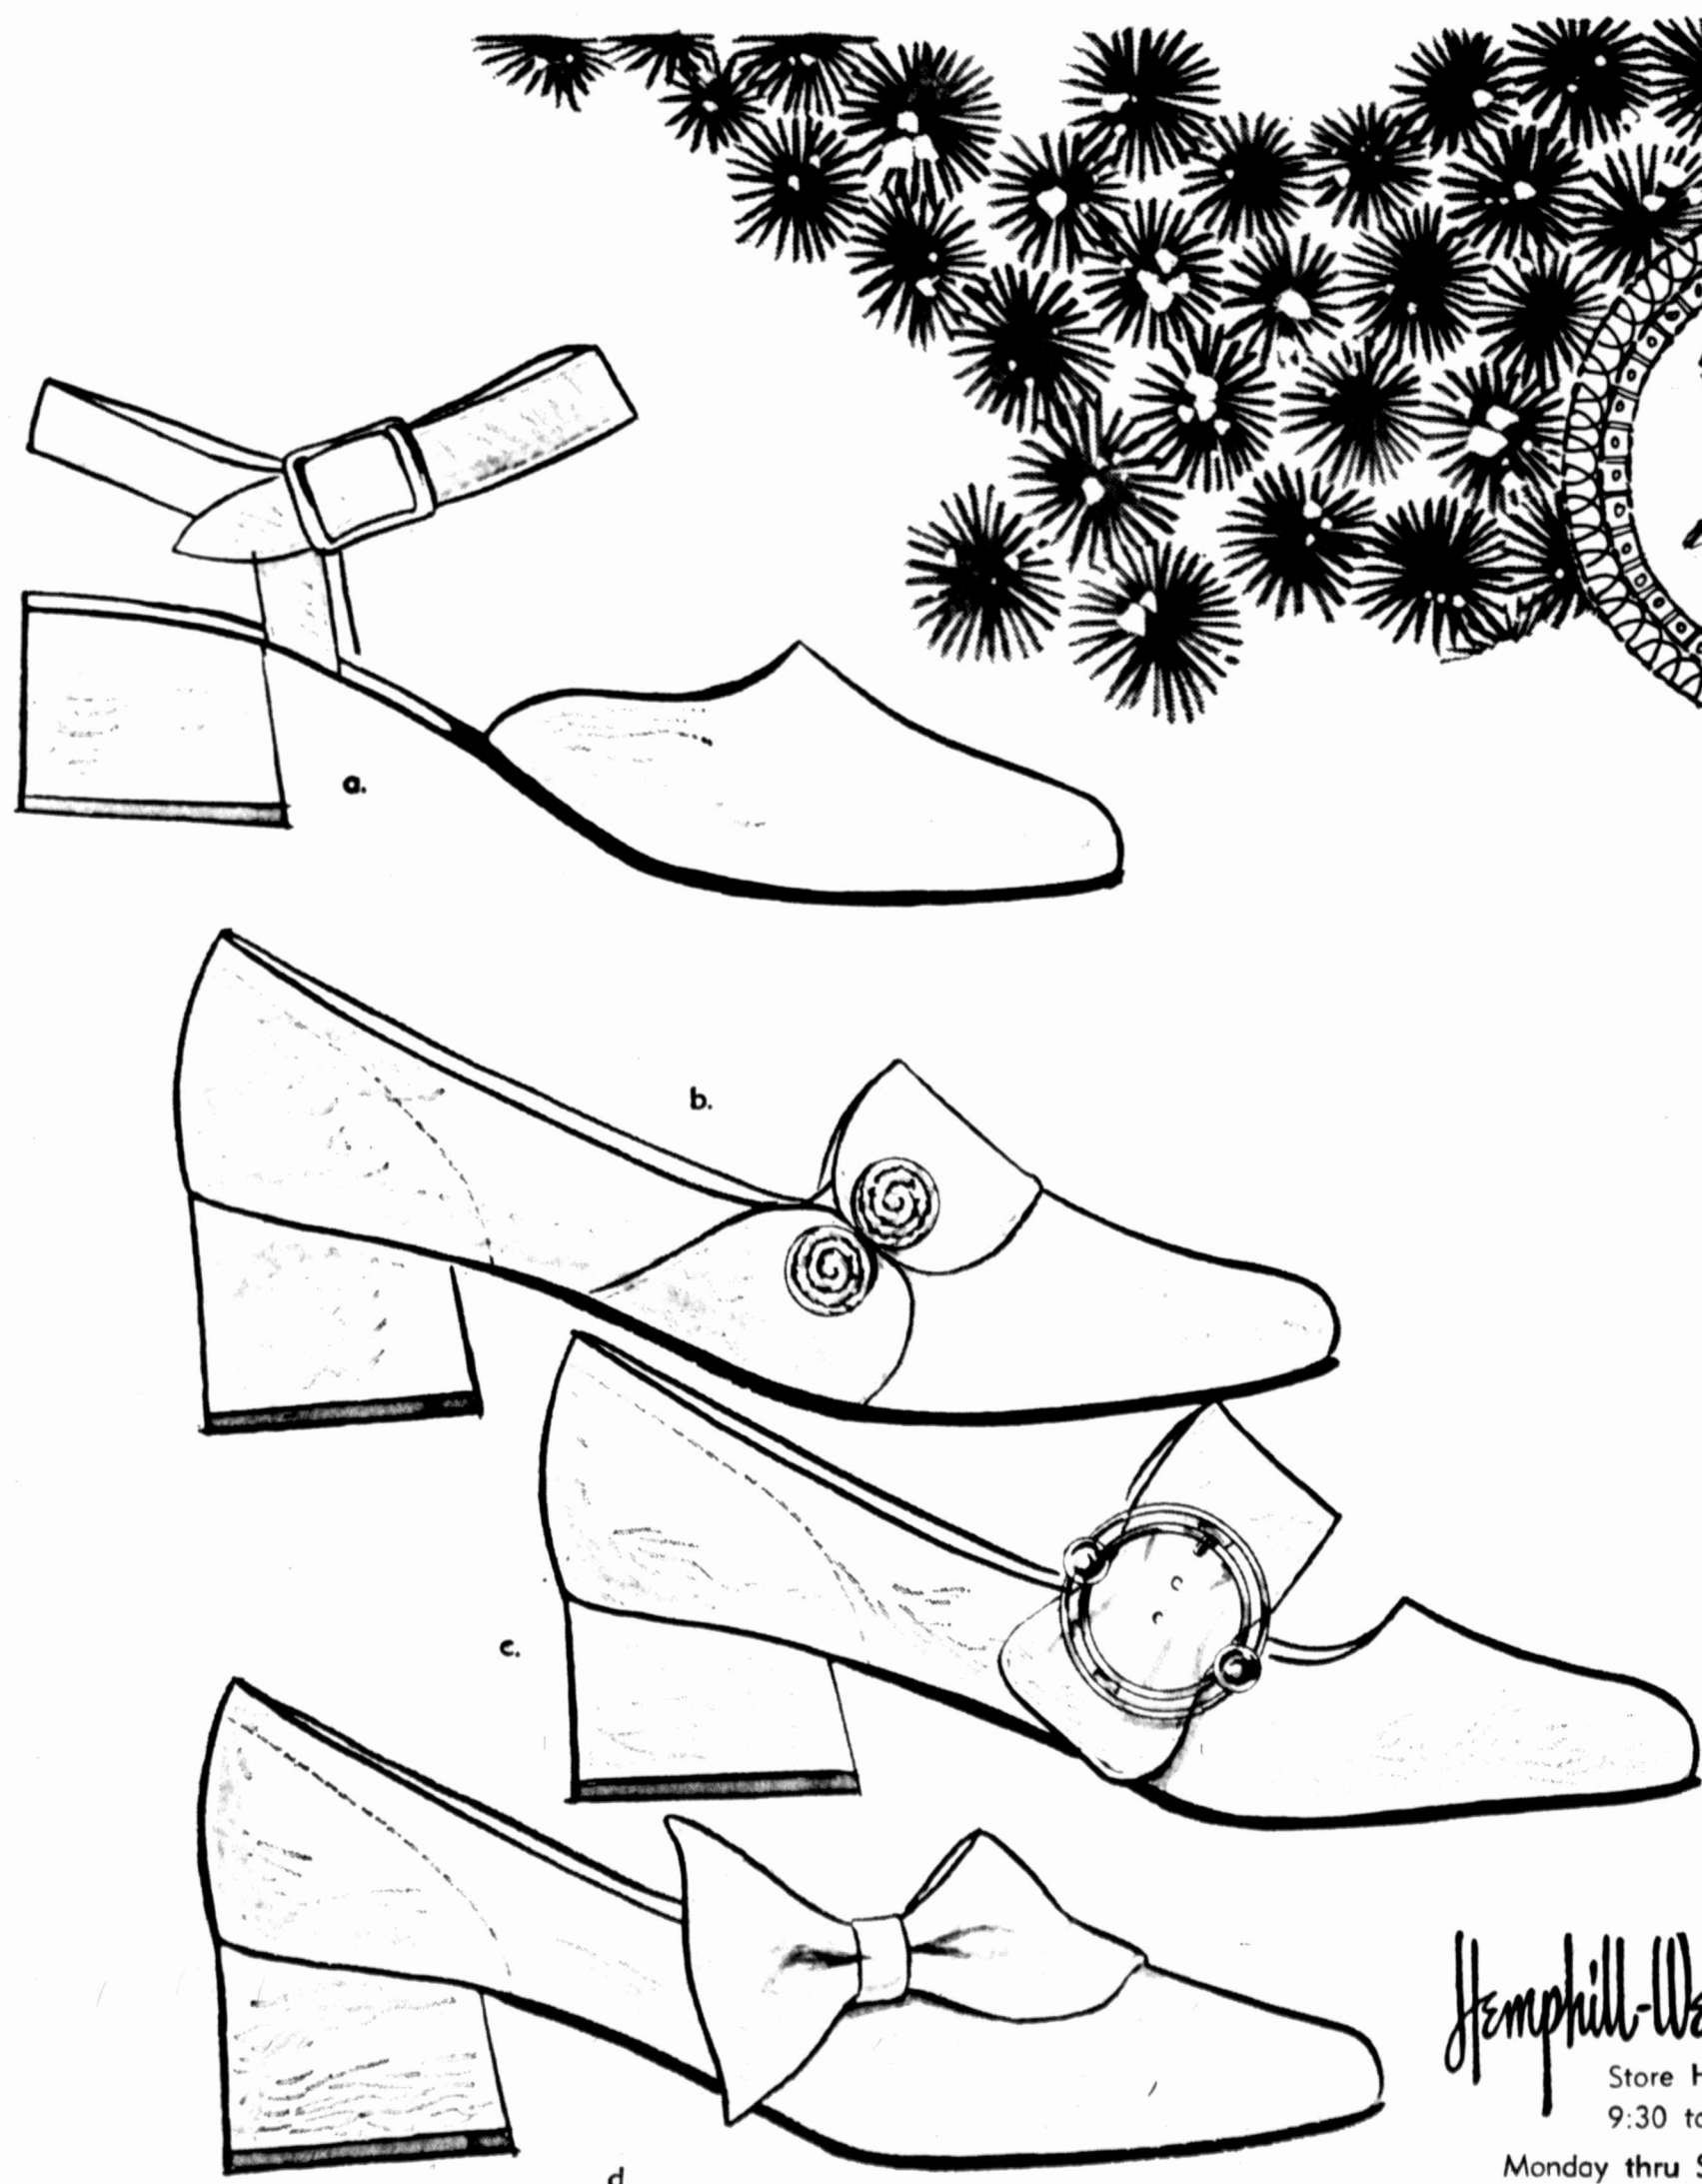

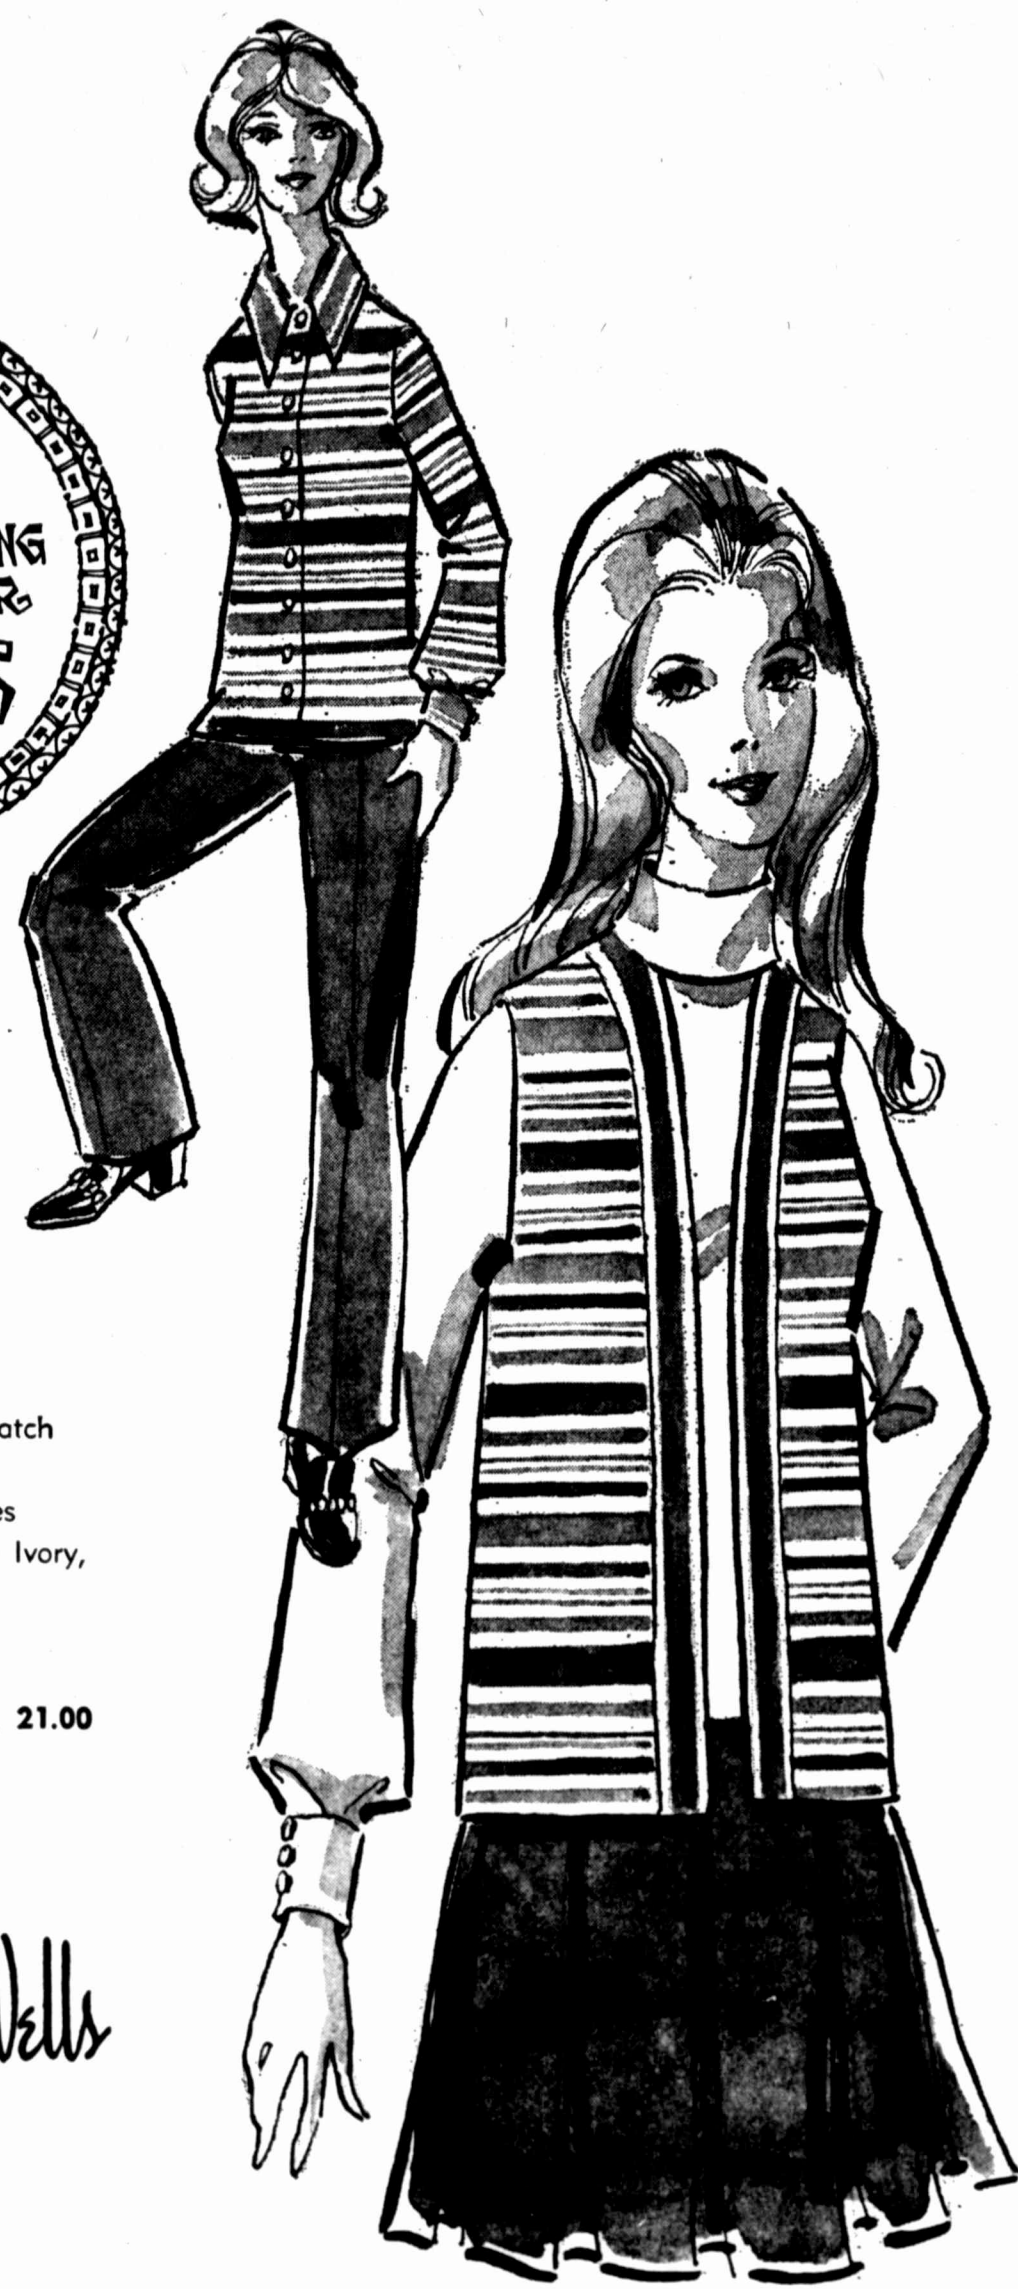

Temperatures before sunrise ranged from 31 degrees at Dalhart in the Panhandle up to 69 at Waco and 70 at Brownsville, with most readings in the 50s and 60s.

A's Acquire Berry; Foy Goes To Sens

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California and Washington, base-ball's most active wheel-deal-ers since the end of the 1970 sea-son, have set the early pace at the winter meetings, the Angels re-lying on swinging another 3-for-3 trade and the Senators with the acquisition of another contro- versial player.

The Angels, who had obtained slugger Tony Conigliaro from Boston in a six-player trade dur- ing the World Series, dealt for defense Monday and landed vet- eran outfielder Ken Berry from the Chicago White Sox in a 3- for-3 swap.

Ted Williams' Senators, who have taken on Denny McLain and Curt Flood in the past two months, rescued third baseman Joe Foy from minor league ex- ile during the draft session that kicked off the annual conclave. Relief pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm,

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue: BOB DAVIS, reserve quarterback for the New York Jets: "Al Woodall is lucky because he's playing for Weeb Eubank. He understands something about young quar-terbacks. I ought to know. I played at Houston for three years and everytime you made a mistake you were casti- gated and degraded to the press and to your team mates. I lost my confidence the second year."

DICK BUTKUS, star linebacker for the Chicago Bears: "The Atlanta Falcons have the trickiest blocking system I've ever seen. Normally, you can expect a blocking wave to come at you from one specific direction most of the time. You know, usually, the center's assignment is the middle line- backer. But, against the Falcons, you learn not to expect the center to come at you twice in a row. One time, they'll send Jeff Van Note (Atlanta center) out and he'll tear your head off. Next time, you're ready for him, and a tackle or a guard, may be even a back, knocks you on your pants. Let me tell you about their backs. They don't go down the first time you hit them, and they block, too. A lot of runners in this league just motion block you . . . run toward you like they intend to hit you, but never do. Wages, Butler, Gipson, Malone . . . they really pop you."

DICK PEEBLES, Houston columnist: "There's a rumor going around Dallas that Eral Allen, special assistant to Tom Landry of the Cowboys, will be the next Houston Oilers head coach. Allen, an offensive spe- cialist, coached at Kentucky under Bear Bryant and Blanton Collier before joining the Cowboys."

PETE FINNEY, New Orleans newsman, after John Mecon, owner of the New Orleans Saints, had fired coach Tom Fears: "What Mecon should do is seat himself in front of a full length mirror . . . and he'd be looking at the real trouble with the Saints, the reason one of the truly great franchises in professional sports has reminded me, at times, of a modern day Toonerville Trolley."

STAN HINDMAN, defensive end for the San Francisco 49ers, on why he hung the nickname "Fudge Hammer" on San Fran- cisco's middle linebacker, Frank Nunley: "He is built like fudge and hits like a hammer."

MERLIN OLSEN, star defensive tackle for the Los Angeles Rams: "When someone speaks about playing with emotion, I believe they mean intensity. I think if a man is playing emotionally, his intensity is greater. Thus, his level of ability heightened, he is doing little mechanical things better than he does them normally. His reactions are better; they are automatic. I've known players who could play their best only if they go themselves into an emotional frenzy. I've known others who built up antagonism for an opponent they face . . . the hate philosophy. I think most professionals think too highly of themselves and others in their work to go about hating, as if they were enemies of society. My objective is to dominate my opponent in each game. It is a competition between the two of us; next week, I have a new adversary."

FRED TAYLOR, the football coach who has been fired, when asked if Texas has a freshman football team: "Listen, our coaches say we have a good football team and Texas wiped us out, 55-8."

Porkers Climb To 4th Place In Grid Poll

By The Associated Press

Coach Darrell Royal of Texas and Coach Frank Broyles of Arkansas might have found a way to beat Notre Dame last week, but uppermost on their minds now is how to beat each other.

Top-ranked Texas and No. 4 Arkansas clash Saturday with the rankings, the Southeast Conference title and a trip to the Cotton Bowl at stake.

However, with Notre Dame the other team in the Cotton Bowl, Royal and Broyles flew to Los Angeles together for a look at the Irish, just in case. They saw the Cotton Bowl lose some of its luster when Notre Dame lost to Southern California 38-28.

The defeat dropped the Irish from fourth to sixth place in the weekly Associated Press major college football poll Monday.

Texas, 9-0, after clobbering Texas A&M on Thanksgiving Day, easily retained its top ranking with 23 first place votes and 788 points in the balloting of sports writers and sportscasters throughout the nation.

Still, with Texas still faced with Arkansas and, if it wins, Notre Dame on New Year's Day, any number of teams still have a shot at No. 1, including the Irish. The final poll is taken after the bowls.

Ohio State, holding onto its No. 2 ranking with 12 top votes and 752 points, will be playing in the Rose Bowl, while Nebraska, still No. 3 with five first place votes and 702 points, plays in the Orange Bowl. Ohio State is 9-0 and Nebraska 10-0-1.

Browns Face Uphill Fight In Stretch

CLEVELAND, Ohio AP — A night and come back the following Saturday to host Dallas.

Cleveland ends its season on Dec. 20 at Denver.

A 28-9 loss to Pittsburgh Sunday cost Cleveland a chance at taking a two-game lead over the Steelers and one-game lead over Cincinnati with three games to play. The loss and Cincinnati's play at Houston next Monday all three teams with 5-6 records.

26-6 victory at New Orleans left

Cleveland's coaches and play- ers seem confused on how to re- gain winning ways. There is talk about the need to rebuild the failures of veteran stars like quarterback Bill Nelsen and running back Leroy Kelly to produce, and a reluctance to substitute veterans with young- er players while a championship is still possible.

"The guys are tremendously depressed now," veteran center Fred Hoaglin said Monday, re- flecting a morale problem on the club. "We doubt ourselves but we won't give up."

"We are all down after a de- feat," Coach Blanton Collier said, adding optimistically, "Real pros bounce back."

Collier said no personnel changes were planned as of Monday.

The Browns lost backup run- ner Randy Minniear in the Pittsburgh game with torn car- tilage and ligaments of his right knee. He was to undergo sur- gery today.

Rookie running back Steve Engel, on the team's cab squad, was to undergo exploratory sur- gery today on his right knee, which was reinjured last month.

Dolphins Win To Keep Alive Title Hopes

ATLANTA (AP) — Mercury

Morris and Larry Csonka ripped Atlanta's touted defensive unit to shreds and Bob Griese added the big play touch as the Miami Dolphins kept alive their hopes of reaching the National Foot- ball League playoffs with a 20-7 victory over the Falcons Mon- day night.

"We just got whipped in every phase of the game," said Coach Norm Van Brocklin of the Fal- cons following the weekly na- tional television (ABC) attrac- tion.

The triumph boosted Miami's American Football Conference East Division mark to 7-4, leav- ing it 1½ games behind Balti- more. Each has three games re- maining, with all of Miami's at home against the New York Jets, Boston and Buffalo.

However, Miami still has an- other shot at a playoff spot by compiling the best record of di- vision runnersup.

The only other teams ap- proaching the Dolphin mark are co-leaders in the West. Oakland and Kansas City, both with 6-3-2 records. They still must face each other.

The Falcons never were in the game in the first half when Morris dashed for 71 of his 76 yards on the ground and added a vital 49-yard return of the opening kickoff that set up a field goal.

He also had a 27-yard run in the field goal drive and sprinted 40 yards in the second quarter to set up Jim Kiick's one-yard touchdown plunge that helped the Dolphins to a 13-0 lead.

Atlanta, which hadn't pen- etrated the Miami 40 in the first half, took charge in the third quarter, holding the ball the first 10 minutes and driving to the Dolphin 21. There, on fourth-and-one, Bob Berry crossed up the defense with a pass to the end zone.

Art Malone stepped under the job at the goal line, but the ball appeared to squirt through his arms, ending that threat.

Don Hansen then intercepted a Griese pass and returned it 15 yards to the Miami 40. Berry drove Atlanta to a touchdown.

Then Csonka, who compiled 70 of his 108 yards in the final half, sparked an 80-yard scoring drive for the Dolphins. He capped the march with a one- yard run with less than three minutes remaining.

Griese, who attempted only 11 passes, and completed eight, said he preferred to stay on the ground after the Dolphins found they could run on Atlanta.

"If we can win without throw- ing a single pass, then that's okay."

Berry also threw well, hitting 18-of-24 for 160 yards, but most were short yardage tosses over the middle.

Campaign chairman Ken Perry announced plans Monday for wrapping up the 1970-71 United Fund Drive by 5 p.m. Friday after hearing program reports from his division chairmen.

Perry asked division chairmen to have their workers finish contacting as many sources as possible during the week and then turn in all United Fund cards — worked or unworked.

He said United Fund contributions will be accepted after Friday, but the active campaigning will come to a close. Perry also announced plans for a "Were You Missed" campaign similar to the census bureau effort to reach those who have not been contacted by the campaign workers. News media public service announcements are to urge those who were missed to mail their contributions directly to the UF office.

The total now stands at $100,419.14, short of the goal by $9,555. The Webb AFB division headed by Maj. P. L. Braddon is the only one so far to reach its division goal Webb closed out its campaign this year after going $2,000 past its goal, Perry said.

Each division chairman estimated contributions he expected to come in and the time it would take to exhaust the remaining possibilities.

If each division takes in the expected additional gifts, the drive will come within $2,800 of the goal.

Late contributions are likely to filter in as the cotton crop is ginned, said Larson Lloyd, town and country division chairman. Other divisions expected to get a delayed boost are Cub Scout Pack 202 met Monday night at the First Methodist Church with Den 2 giving the opening and the closing and Den 3 presenting the skit.

Dick Denton asked for donation of presents for state hospital patients. He also announced the Adult Scout Banquet Dec. 10 at Howard County Junior College. Denton invited all den mothers and their assistants to attend as guests of the pack.

A high-contrast, grainy black and white photograph of a city street scene. In the foreground, a large, light-colored truck is moving towards the viewer. To its right, a line of people is walking along the sidewalk. The background is filled with more vehicles and buildings, creating a sense of a busy, congested urban environment. The image has a stark, almost abstract quality due to the high contrast and grain.

Opening lead: Ace of ♠ South was not far removed from a demand opening bid, and his thoughts turned to slapping South on the nose given him a raise to two spades. His three club rebid was one round force, inasmuch as spades is the agreed suit. When North showed a feature by bidding three hearts, South decided that the suits fit well and he proceeded without further ado to six spades.

West opened the ace of diamonds which declarer ruffed. The ace of clubs was cashed and a small club was ruffed in dummy. A heart was returned, on which East began a high-low signal by playing the eight. South put up the queen and West made a fine play by ducking. Observe that if he takes the ace, declarer has 12 tricks—for he can discard his remaining club losers on North's long hearts after trumps are drawn.

When the queen of hearts held the trick, South ruffed another club as West showed out—discarding a diamond. Declarer was in a precarious position: he could not afford to lead another heart, for West could win the ace and give his partner a ruff. With the clubs failing to divide favorably, South must find a parking place for the jack of clubs.

The queen of diamonds was led from dummy and East covered with the king—it would have made no difference if he ducked—and South trumped with the ten of spades. Three rounds of trumps cleared up the suit. The king of clubs was cashed and the six of diamonds was discarded from dummy. The queen of hearts dislodged West's ace and North's hand was high—consisting of the established jack of diamonds and good hearts.

A trump opening originally would have complicated declarer's task. In order to land 12 tricks, he must take a first round finesse of the jack of clubs, inasmuch as North has only two trumps left for ruffing purposes. Without the benefit of a peek at the opposing holdings, South is apt to fall short of his goal.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special House subcommittee probing the conduct of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas has found no grounds for his impeachment, sources on the panel say.

Although the tie to Republicans on the subcommittee immediately denied the report Monday and the panel's chairman, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said no conclusions had been reached, the sources stated the findings are part of a draft report prepared for the House Judiciary Committee.

The three-man Democratic majority on the subcommittee, according to the sources, met last week and agreed the charges leveled against Douglas by House GOP Leader Gerald Ford and others were not supported enough to justify impeachment proceedings.

Three Men Die In Copter Crash

Fair was touched off last April when Ford accused the 72-year-old justice of a wide range of misconduct.

Ford's charges dealt mainly with Douglas' outside writings and associations. It was these charges that the subcommittee investigated.

The central issue in the controversy is the differing view Ford and the subcommittee hold ervation in Central Texas killed three men making their homes at Copperas Cove.

The Army identified them Monday as WO Guy Andrews, WO Stewart Hurdery and Specialist 5 Derry L. Harless.

A spokesman said the helicopter cracked up before dawn while on a training mission. The men were stationed here with the fifth Aviation Battalion.

TERRELL, Tex. (AP) — Donald W. McClung, 25, of Terrell was killed Monday in the collision of his truck and a freight train.

Officers said the wreck occurred in the downtown section where Texas 34 intersects the Texas & Pacific railroad tracks. McClung's truck was dragged two blocks before his body was pitched from the flaming wreckage.

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Leon H. A. Pierson, attorney for Rep. John Dowdy, said Monday he has filed a motion aimed at dismissing the bribery conspiracy charges against Dowdy. Pierson said he filed the motion in federal court here so that Judge R. C. Thomsen will reconsider two earlier motions for dismissal.

He said that in both cases, the charges "conflicted with the speech and debate clause of the U.S. Constitution."

Under the speech and debate clause, a member of Congress cannot be questioned concerning his speech in the legislative halls. It is designed to protect a member from outside influences.

Thomson ruled that the clause could not protect a congressman whose alleged misdeeds are in "no wise related to the due functioning of the legislative process."

Dowdy, 58, is charged with two counts of conspiracy, one count of traveling in interstate commerce to carry on an unlawful activity and five counts of perjury before a Baltimore federal grand jury.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., says a British newspaper report that he was out on the town with an Italian princess the night before Drayne said the senator was not dancing with the princess, doesn't even know her and was in fact with his wife in Paris.

MOSCOW (AP) — Writer Alexander Solzhenitsyn says he has decided against a trip to Stockholm to receive the Nobel Prize for literature because he feared the Soviet Union would not let him go.

In a letter to the Swedish Academy made public by friends Monday, the novelist said he would like to accept the prize in Moscow if that could be arranged.

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP)—A helicopter crash on this Army reservation in Central Texas killed three men making their homes at Copperas Cove.

The Army identified them Monday as WO Guy Andrews, WO Stewart Hurdery and Spec 5 Derry L. Harlstead.

A spokesman said the helicopter cracked up before dawn while on a training mission. The men were stationed here with the 55th Aviation Battalion.

Solzhenitsyn's writings have been critical of the Soviet social system and he was expelled from the Soviet Writers Union year ago.

Explaining his decision to forego the Stockholm trip, he said in his letter he formed the conclusion from Soviet press attacks on him "that my journey to Stockholm would be used to cut me off from my native land simply to prevent my return home."

DC8-Design Woe Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Transportation Safety Board told the Federal Aviation Administration a month ago it had found a design problem which could hinder takeoff of DC8 jetliners—the kind of plane which crashed on takeoff Friday in Anchorage, Alaska, killing 47.

NTSB investigators in Anchorage are checking, among other things, whether this problem with the up and down movement of the plane may have contributed to the crash of the Vietnam-bound chartered Capitol International Airways jet.

The safety board unanimously recommended in its Oct. 28 letter that the FAA notify all DC8 operators of the hazard, which it discovered while investigating why another DC8 crashed on takeoff from New York.

The FAA said Monday its engineers and the Douglas Aircraft Co., manufacturers of the DC8, have been evaluating the NTSB findings. No formal FAA statement has been issued, and no notification has gone to DC8 operators.

The NTSB investigates aviation and other transportation accidents. The FAA is the agency which regulates airline safety.

The NTSB discovered during its probe of a Sept. 8 crash at New York's Kennedy Airport that the movement of a DC8 elevator can readily be restricted by the entrapment of a foreign object between the aft part of the stabilizer and the leading edge of the elevator.

This means that a rock, chunk of ice or other object that might be thrown up from a runway can jam the elevator, located on the tail of the aircraft.

The NTSB's letter to FAA administrator John Shaffer said "the elevator may be rather easily jammed at speeds in the takeoff regime." It said that partly because the DC8 does not have an elevator position indicator in the cockpit, "it is very possible that an elevator jammed by a foreign object would not be detected by the crew."

VOTE FRAUD CHARGES

Trial Of 22 Starr County Residents Slated Monday

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Trial of 22 Starr County residents, including six county officials, on vote fraud charges has been set for next Monday by U.S. Dist. Judge Reynaldo Garza.

Garza also ordered five of the six indictments against the defendants dropped and ordered the seven government lawyers handling the prosecution to provide the defense with a bill of particulars by today. This would outline the specific charges against the defendants.

Garza ruled that five of the six indictments, which involved a changing combination of defendants' names, were superfluous.

He said they would be tried on the first indictment which charges them with conspiring to "dilute" the vote in the May 2 primary election by improperly handling some 150 absentee ballots.

The defendants were given a warning by Judge Garza who told them not to contact any witnesses who will be listed in the bill of particulars. The judge said "I'll hold you in contempt of court."

Those indicted last summer include Starr County Sheriff Dr. Rene Stoll, County Commissioner Amando Pena, Constable Remundo Alvarez, County Clerk Jose S. Hinojosa, Chief Deputy Raul Pena, and Assistant County Auditor Heberto Barrera.

Others indicted include Fidenia Salmon, Rene Jorge Gonzalez, Eulogio Munoz, Raul Villarreal, Santiago Clarke, Max Gaytan, Leonel Solis Sr., Alvaro Canales, Brigido Escobar, Guadalupe M. Morado, Minnie Garcia, Agustin Moreno, Leonel Ramos, Federico Pilon, Felberto Salinas and Concepcion Alaniz.

The indictments were returned by a federal grand jury at the completion of a lengthy investigation initiated by the government after the May 2 primary election. A record absentee vote was recorded in that election when there were 1,203 absentee ballots cast out of a total vote of 6,168.

Nationwide Rail Strike For 500,000 Set If....

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four railroad unions have set a nationwide rail strike for 12:01 a.m. Dec. 10 unless they win a settlement on wages and working conditions for nearly 500,000 workers.

"We hope to be able to settle it without a strike but, we are going to be prepared," President Charles Luna of the United

Transportation Union said of strike plans. "We could get them out in a matter of hours." The strike threat was the first by Luna's union, the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and the Hotel and Restaurant Employees, and moved up by one day the earlier Dec. 11 strike date of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks. The Clerks' union agreed to the new strike date.

The four AFL-CIO unions have rejected as not enough an industry offer of the biggest wage package in rail history, $1.32 per hour over three years for workers whose current pay is variously estimated at averages between $3.45 and $3.60 hourly.

The unions said work rule changes demanded by the industry in exchange for the wage hikes would cut thousands of jobs, speed up the work pace and force many men to uproot their families and move to other cities.

The unions also want cost-of-living protection, improved vacations, holidays and other benefits. The railroads offered only improved insurance protection as a fringe benefit.

Assistant Secretary of Labor W.J. Usery has called for virtual round-the-clock talks to avert the threatened strike. The government has no further delaying procedures under the law, but Congress has stepped in several times in the past with special legislation to prevent or halt nationwide rail strikes in similar circumstances.

Delaying procedures of the law have dragged the dispute out nearly a year since the last agreement expired.

Meanwhile, it was reported that four railroad shopcraft unions have filed separate demands on each of the nation's major railroads for 1971-72 wage hikes of 20 per cent each year. Top pay is now about $4.28 hourly.

LTV Retains Ling As A Consultant

DALLAS (AP) — Officials of LTV said Monday that James L. Ling, vice chairman of the board of Ling-Temco-Vought Inc., will no longer be an LTV employee but will serve the company under a management consultant agreement.

Qualified observers said that Ling, in negotiating his release by LTV to form his own corporation, gave up more than $1 million, including a minimum of $675,000 under existing contracts.

Ling will be retained in a consultant's role through March 5, 1980, when the contract expires.

Ling remains LTV's largest single shareholder and will serve as both a director and vice chairman of the board, a spokesman said.

But the spokesman said, Ling has agreed to relinquish his options on 100,000 shares of LTV stock, his employee benefits and death or disability benefits for which his earlier contracts provided.

Under the earlier contract, Ling was to receive $225,000 a year through March 5, 1978, and for an additional three years at his option, or $2.3 million during the life of his contract.

Under the new contract, Ling will receive $1,630,000.

"A believer in symbolism," Ling said in a news conference Monday he has named his new company Omega-Alpha, symbolic of his fresh start.

The Greek letters, Alpha and Omega, are first and last in the alphabet and, Ling said, represents his symbolic end and beginning.

Ling's new firm will be headquartered in Dallas. Principal assets are Alcorn Combustion Co. and Bell Equipment Co., both subsidiaries of University Computing Co., which Ling's new company is acquiring for non-voting convertible preferred stock, debentures and warrants of Omega-Alpha.

He said he expects to put together a small corporate staff in the coming weeks.

Ling stepped down from active management of LTV last July.

HUNTED 'GIRL' FIGHTS BACK

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Karyn Prestwich, six-year-old North Fork, Idaho, girl who was shot by a hunter more than three weeks ago, was reported in fair condition today at the University of Utah medical center.

She was taken off the critical list only last week, hospital authorities said.

Miss America Of '63 Stricken

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Jacqueline Mayer Townsend, Miss America of 1963, has been hospitalized with a stroke.

Her husband, John Townsend, a lawyer, said Monday night doctors believe there is a good chance the 27-year-old beauty "will make a substantially total recovery."

Mrs. Townsend was stricken Friday and taken to Montefiore hospital in Pittsburgh. She lost the power of speech and the use of her right arm and leg.

Improved Medicaid Program Could Reduce Welfare Rolls

Editor's Note: Welfare not only means hungry people but sick people — many of them wage earners when they are well. The recent Texas Senate committee investigation comes up with some facts.

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN (AP) — An in-depth survey of Texas' welfare programs says that a better Medicaid program can get some of those receiving aid back on their feet and off welfare.

The survey was made by the Senate Interim Welfare Reform Committee.

CAN'T AFFORD IT

Medicaid is a special program to provide some medical care for those who can't afford a dime for help. Medicare is for older persons who can contribute some money.

Medical help cost $220.5 million in state and federal funds, or 44 per cent of total welfare expenses, in the past fiscal year.

It takes up most of the $45 million in emergency appropriations sought by the Welfare Department when the legislature meets Jan. 12.

The department's budget request for the two years starting Sept. 1, 1971, includes $262 million in state funds alone for medical assistance, $146.1 million over the current appropriation.

"We have discovered an undetermined percentage on welfare because they are sick or because they have sick kids," said Dr. June Hyer, the committee's research director.

MORE INCOME Particularly among the disabled, "high medical expenses have become a part of daily need and have frequently been the casual factor making it necessary for people to apply for welfare benefits," the committee report said.

The committee specifically proposed medical co-insurance, under which the state would help pay medical insurance premiums for fatherless families that are within $200 of qualifying for aid to families with dependent children.

Such insurance also would be provided for current children's aid families who can earn enough to be removed from the welfare rolls as "an incentive to earn more income without the penalty of losing valuable medical care."

Another recommendation by the committee is a program under which a welfare recipient could buy $15 worth of prescription drugs directly from pharmacists each month. The drugists would receive coupons which would be forwarded to the state for payment.

The chronically ill requiring more than $15 worth of drugs monthly could receive whatever they need.

DRUG COSTS

"When the recipient, eligible under Medicaid to see a physician, has lacked sufficient funds to buy the prescribed drugs, the attending physician has been severely limited as to the level of care he could provide," the committee said.

The report said a data processing system must be designed before the drug program is started.

It estimated total drug program costs, state and federal, at $35.9 million next fiscal year and $39.3 million the next.

Balanced against that cost is the $34 million now being given welfare recipients each year as part of their monthly checks on the assumption the money actually will be spent for medicines.

'POVERTY CYCLE' The committee recommended free dental care and glasses for

Accused Poke On Move List

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Lance Rentzel of the Dallas Cowboys, charged with indecent exposure involving a 10-year-old girl, was on the inactive list at his own request today while he settled his personal affairs.

The 27-year-old star wide receiver of the National Football League team will be unavailable to the Cowboys for a minimum of two games.

"He will work out with team as time permits," said Cowboy president Tex Schramm.

Schramm said, "Within the league structure, we are able to put Rentzel on the 'move' list."

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade told The Associated Press it will be at least 10 days before the grand jury gets the case. The felony charge carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison.

Telephone calls lit up the switchboard of the Cowboy offices after word was released Monday that Rentzel, the husband of television star Joey Heatherton, had been charged with exposing himself before the young girl.

The offense report was filed Nov. 19 in suburban University Park. Rentzel posted a $1,500 appearance bond Nov. 23.

Rentzel, who holds the Dallas Cowboy single game record of 13 catches for 233 yards, made no immediate comments on the charge.
