

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

VOLUME FORTY

GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JULY 20, 1934.

NUMBER FORTY-SEVEN

Drouth Relief Is Secured

Application was made last week for placing Mills county in the federal government's emergency drouth relief district and early this week Judge Patterson and Mr. Dew received telegrams from Senator Connally advising them that the request had been granted by the department.

This designation will help in several ways, the most important benefit being that the government's plan of buying cattle, sheep and goats at a fair price and having the healthy animals butchered for food, to be delivered through relief offices will apply to this county, thereby preventing a heavy loss to the owners of stock whose pasture is poor and feed scarce.

By being placed in the drouth relief area the county will be given the benefit of low freight rates on feed stuff and on the shipment of stock to pasture. Feed and seed loans from the government will also be available to the people of this county.

The people of the entire county fully appreciate the prompt and effective assistance of Senator Connally in this time of need and they realize now more than ever before that he is a representative who looks to the interest of his constituents and is always able as well as ready to protect their every interest.

PICNIC AT RATLER

All of the local candidates and many of the aspirants for district and other offices, together with a great number of other people attended the barbecue and picnic at the Renfro dam on the Colorado river at Ratler yesterday. The place is ideal for such a gathering and reports indicate there was a big crowd, plenty to eat and a fine program of entertainment, including speaking by the candidates. Those in charge of arrangements had put forth a great deal of effort in providing for the entertainment and pleasure of their guests.

This occasion gave Mr. Renfro an opportunity to show what an ideal fishing and camping place he has arranged for the pleasure of those who want a few days recreation.

FAMILY REUNION

The children, grandchildren and several other relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Reid gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stacy McCasland Sunday to enjoy their annual reunion at Center City.

At an early hour the guests began to arrive. The morning was spent in merry conversations and preparations of the feast enjoyed at the noon hour. In the afternoon the different families attended the singing at Center City. This occasion has become so interesting that it is being looked forward to each year. After singing they again gathered at this home and enjoyed an evening meal together.

Those who enjoyed this reunion were Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Carroll and family of Lockney, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Carroll, also of Lockney, Mr. and Mrs. Stacy McCasland and family, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Atchison and boys, Mr. and Mrs. Farrar Head and boys, Mrs. Lawton McBeth and children of Pidcoite, Willie Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. DAVIS TO SPEAK

Judge E. M. Davis of Brownwood, a former Mills county teacher, will address the people in Goldthwaite this (Friday) afternoon at 4 o'clock, on the court house lawn, in the interest of his candidacy for the state senate.

Methodist Notes

A representative out of the office of the National Red Cross from headquarters in St. Louis was among us last week. His business was to prepare the local organization for the annual roll call, which will be held this fall. It is scarce worth saying that this roll call will be more important this year than any year within recently. Last year hundreds of children were protected from the wintry blast in our county through the operation of this organization, while other hundreds were fed. The prospect for this coming year is more alarming than that of last year. It is none too early for us to begin to think and plan for the work before us. The fact that out of every subscription, fifty cents goes to the headquarters treasury, while all the rest remains in the local treasury, ought to be a strong appeal to our people to subscribe. I nother words if you subscribe five dollars, fifty cents goes to the national treasurer of the Red Cross, while four dollars and fifty cents remains to be used among our own people.

Our congregations at last Sunday services were good, considering the warm weather. Now, as those who have been away at school and for other reasons are returning, we may expect a better attendance at both church and Sunday school. Let us all put a little more interest into our work.

These are the days when our high school graduates and others are casting about looking toward college next year. The very hard financial conditions will deter many from going to college now. Besides there are so many college people out of jobs that many who might desire to attend some college feel that it is not worth while to go to the expense and trouble to proceed. If the entire proposition should be viewed from the standpoint of dollars and cents they are doubtless correct, but this is not the chief thing to be obtained in a college education. Most certainly we should look forward to a business that would buy meat and bread, yet we must think of the college education from another angle also, that of the cultural value. So let none be entirely discouraged and thwarted in their purposes to obtain the highest educational advantages but with a determination to get the best, go forward. Texas has an abundance of fine schools, both state and denominational, that offer the very best opportunity for high class training. All are bidding for patronage, and are seeking to cut the expense to the minimum. It may require effort and sacrifice to do all that an ambitious youngster would like to do, but it is worth the effort, and miracles can be accomplished with a strong determination. J. S. BOWLES

A SAD MISSION

Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Palmer received a message Saturday morning telling of the serious illness of Mr. D. T. Hunt at his home in Blackwell, Nolan county. They left immediately for the home of the sick man and were joined at Brownwood by Mrs. P. G. Palmer. They arrived in Blackwell before the death of Mr. Hunt, which occurred about noon Saturday and they remained for the funeral Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Hunt was known to a good many Mills county people, having visited here several times. He was engaged in the drug business in Blackwell and also owned a grocery store at that place. He had been in ill health a long time and his death was not unexpected. He leaves his wife and two married daughters.

Nearing Close First Campaign

Only one more week remains of the campaign preceding the first primary election. In many cases this primary will fix the nomination, which is tantamount to an election. Whereas, in a few cases the two high candidates will have to make a second campaign, terminating in a nominating primary August 25.

This has been an interesting and most intensive campaign, but with all it has been a pleasant one. There has been very little "mud-slinging" in the entire state and none at all in Mills county. The candidates are all people of high character and good qualifications and, in the Eagle's opinion, the voters will have no cause for serious regret, no matter where the nominations fall.

The next week will see some very hard campaigning and the citizens should give patient and respectful hearing to the good men and women who are soliciting their votes, then make their selections with the confident knowledge that the state and county's business will be in safe keeping. True, we all have our preferences, for one reason or another, but when the choice is made by the majority of the voters we can and should give hearty support to the candidates securing the majority vote.

BERRY-ROBBINS

A wedding of wide interest took place Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock, at the Methodist parsonage in Lampasas, when Miss Letris Berry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elam Berry of Pleasant Grove, became the pretty bride of Mr. Arthur Robbins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Robbins of Taylor, Texas. Rev. J. Vergil Davis, pastor of the Methodist church at that place, officiating. The bridesmaid wore a white taffeta, beautifully trimmed with accessories to match. Her going away suit was a blue crepe with accessories to match. The groom wore a grey suit.

They left Lampasas at 9:30 o'clock for a short wedding tour by the way of Taylor, Georgetown, Austin and other places, to visit Mrs. Robbins and other relatives. Plans for the future are not known.

Miss Letris, as every one knows her, was ever ready to help in everything that was an uplift to her community. She was real active in her church work. We could always count on Miss Letris to help in school work in her community.

Mr. Robbins has made many friends in this community. No one has anything against him, only he stole one of their girls from them. You will not find a couple that has any more friends than this couple, and all their friends are hoping they will decide to locate in this community. A FRIEND.

CHANGE LOCATIONS

County Agent W. P. Weaver and Judge Jas. Rahl have exchanged rooms in the basement of the court house, which makes it more convenient for those having business with either office. Judge Rahl, justice of the peace, now has his office immediately underneath the county clerk's office, while the county agent's office is in the west end of the basement, immediately under the commissioners court room.

A FRIENDLY ACT

H. B. Dennard of Big Valley brought the Eagle a fine watermelon and two delightful cantaloupes last Saturday. The Big Valley section is famous for melons and our friend Dennard grows some of the best. It was certainly a kind and friendly act to bring the melons to this office, but it was not the first time he had performed a good deed of this character and we certainly thank him.

Child Welfare Work Started

Enumerators are at work in the county, making a survey of the homes of persons on the relief rolls, ex-service men's homes and homes where there are persons up to 55 years of age who are suffering any physical defects. This survey is under the direction of Mrs. Passow, social service supervisor for the relief office. Several enumerators have been allowed for the work and it will be expedited as much as possible. Those who have persons with physical defects in their homes should report to the relief office if the enumerators do not find them.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

The children grandchildren, and other relatives of "Uncle Tobe" Kelly, gathered in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Snow last Tuesday to help him celebrate his 84th birthday.

Mr. Kelly was born in Montgomery county in 1850 and lived there until he was thirteen years of age, when he left home to drive cattle on the "Old Chisholm Trail." Grandfather has sat around and told stories of his cowboy days to his grandchildren. I have heard him tell of driving cattle up Main street in Fort Worth and up to Abilene, Kansas. He has related the experience he has had with Sam Bass. One of them was: Sam Bass forced him to help steal his bond out of a court house. He can relate some very interesting stories of his cowboy days. He worked as a cowboy for quite a time, then went back to Dewitt county.

He married Miss Georgia Crossen. He lived there until her death. Two children were born to them, a boy and girl.

He left Dewitt county and came to this county September 5, 1885, and married Miss Frances Kelly, and has lived here since. Eight children were born to this union. Four boys and four girls, two boys and one girl and his wife have passed on to the Great Beyond. The other children were with him to enjoy the good eats, ice cream and watermelon on his birthday, with the exception of two daughters, Mrs. Jesse Warren of Lamesa and Mrs. Laura Morgan of San Antonio.

Those present to enjoy the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Kelly and three boys from Stephenville, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kelly and three children, Mrs. R. G. Huffman and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Snow and three children, all of this city.

His sister, Mrs. Maggie Thomas, his brother, John Kelly, wife and son of this city, were also present.

SOUTH WILL SPEAK

Hon. Chas. L. South, candidate for congress, will speak in Goldthwaite Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the interest of his candidacy. He will be introduced formally by Sheriff Frank Mills of Coleman, a former Mills county citizen and a son of the late Mr. Will Mills and nephew of the late Mr. John J. Mills.

Many citizens of the county will be glad of this opportunity to meet again one of the county's native sons, who has distinguished himself as an officer and will also be glad to hear Judge South discuss the issues of the campaign.

A SMALL BURGLARY

Sunday night burglars entered R. E. Clements' drug store by breaking a glass in the front door, through which they could reach and turn the lock. Nothing was taken from the store, as far as discovered, except $4.05 from the cash register. It is supposed to have been the work of tramps. So far no arrests have been made.

Operations Begun On Oil Test

A genuine test for oil in Mills county has been started on the Weston tract, in the Rock Springs community.

The well is being drilled by Threlkel Bros. of Oklahoma City and is being financed by Flymer & Smith, oil men of Tulsa, Okla. The well will be an offset to that drilled by C. M. Gregory in 1926 and is east of the bayou.

Workmen have been busily engaged erecting the tower and making other arrangements for spudding the well in next Tuesday.

Many people in this section are enthusiastic over the prospects, as a fine showing is claimed for the location. The old Gregory well has been opened for water to supply the drilling and a strong showing of oil and gas in that well is the report.

A FATAL ACCIDENT

John Leverett, son of Mrs. M. J. Leverett of Caradan, was killed in an accident at Pampa, Gray county, Friday of last week and his remains were brought here for burial in the Mount Olive cemetery, the sad service being conducted Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, attended by a large number of friends and relatives.

The accident occurred as Mr. Leverett and two other employees of an oil company were riding on a trailer attached to a truck en route to Pampa from some interior point near that place. As the truck reached an intersection of one of the Pampa streets another car approached and the driver of the truck made a sudden turn to prevent a collision. The trailer was turned over and Mr. Leverett attempted to jump, but was caught beneath the overturned load and crushed so badly that he died a few hours afterward.

He is survived by his wife and daughter, besides his mother, brothers, a sister and other relatives. One of his brothers, Mark Leverett, was manager of the telephone office in Goldthwaite some years ago and is now engaged in the same line of business at Menard.

When the news of the accident reached the family Mark Leverett came to Caradan, where his mother and sister joined him for a hurried trip to Pampa, but the injured man had succumbed to his injuries before they reached his bedside.

The top price paid will be for 2-year-old cattle and over, which will be $20.00 of this amount a mortgage holder can get as much as $14, but the owner must receive as much as $6. In no case can a mortgage holder get the entire amount. Prices vary for various grades of livestock, but the maximum is here given.

FIGHT AGAINST WASTE

The fight of Panhandle land-owners against the waste of gas in the Panhandle, which a Texas senate committee found to be 1,000,000,000 feet a day, or about enough to supply the whole United States, was in district court in Amarillo Saturday on a new angle. This new angle involved the suit of landowners against a group of gas companies for the difference in royalty which would have accrued to them if the gas from their property had been properly marketed, and the small sum they were offered for gas merely stripped of lean natural gasoline content and blown into the air. The question involved is termed by attorneys a far-reaching one, and this test case, if successful, is held certain to be followed by a large number of others.

Lady Says She Took
CARDUI for Cramps;
Was Soon Relieved

Women who suffer as she did will be interested in the experience of Mrs. Maude Crafton, of Belleville, Ill., who writes: "For several years, I suffered from irregular trouble and cramping. There would be days when I would have to stay in bed. I would get so nervous, I was miserable. My aunt told me to try Cardui. She believed it would build me up, regulate me and help the nervous trouble. I knew after taking half a bottle of Cardui that I was better. I kept on taking Cardui and found it was doing me a world of good. I am in good health, which means a lot to me." Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. The farm administration entered its busiest period of dispensing benefit payments to farmers Friday, its books showing that thus far it had paid its own way and had a slight margin to spare. A total of $358,993.194, has been disbursed for all purposes in the agency's fifteen-month career. Meanwhile, processing taxes on farm commodities have brought $359,589,313 into the treasury.

The American investor—golden goose of boom days on Wall street—was plucked of nearly $2,000,000,000 in commissions and interest by members of 29 securities exchanges from 1928 to 1933, the senate stock market committee has disclosed. The revelation came in the first of a series of reports by the committee on its two year inquiry into various phases of stock market practices which resulted in congress ordering the exchanges placed under federal regulation.

Apparent recovery of a patient at Pineville, Ky., from a virulent case of rabies has led his attending physicians to believe they have discovered a cure for the malady. The boy has had as many as 60 convulsions a day. Although the doctors decline to discuss the nature of the treatment, it is believed to be in the form of intravenous injections of a germicide. One physician said he would make a full report for the benefit of the medical profession upon the patient's complete recovery.

Urging that the use of the mails be closed to "liquor propaganda," a professor of political economy at Harvard University, Saturday charged that the liquor interests were "moving heaven and earth and hell" to increase the consumption of intoxicants. In a statement made public at the National W. C. T. U. headquarters in suburban Evanston, Ill., he said, "It is impossible to state accurately how much money is being spent by the liquor traffic in this campaign of education for intemperance, but it must run into the hundreds of millions. If any organization, which is trying to carry on temperance education, could raise in a year as much money as a great wet newspaper gets in a single day for advertising liquor, temperance education might make some headway."

STYLES IN NEW YORK

Satins Important In the Mid-Summer Mode.

Satins, which always spell elegance in dress, have taken on a new style interest in the mid-summer mode with New York's smartest shops featuring them in a variety of silk and synthetic versions—plain, printed, ribbed and crinkled—and in cool summery tones along with the ever-favored black and white. For evening they are lovely in the newest Augustbernard slashed skirt, with décolletage knotted at the nape of the neck line like the beach halter and in such colors as Vionnet blue, elegant pink, seaglide green and white. For the cocktail hour there's nothing smarter just now than the tailored satin—the black satin suit with white accents carried out in grosgrain cuffs and collar—and worn with white accessories, including the white beret. One note also some stunning satin suits in prints, particularly black with small white polka dots. And, as we know, satin has invaded the smartest beaches. The black satin beach wear accented with white is really the last word in beach wear elegance.

Buttons Stressed In Sports.

It's the buttons that count in smart sports wear this season. The white crepe sports frock—with large buttons—in matching or contrasting colors buttoning the slim skirt straight down the front—has become the 1934 summer sports classic. Decidedly favored is the white ribbed rayon crepe with bright red buttons, worn with red accessories or with white accessories strongly accented by red, as, for example, white matching crepe hat with red lacquered band and bow and with red lacquered handbag or white with red touches.

Colorful Blouses Chic Summer Note.

Separate blouses—cool and colorful—along with separate jackets are being featured in New York's smartest accessory displays—suggesting limitless ways of converting the favored white crepe jacket dress into many. There are new net blouses in dark and pastel colors for the dressy occasions, while for more casual wear there are lovely new silk and synthetic crepe ones in solid dark colors and in flattering checks and Roman stripes. Very chic, too, are the blouses in dotted swiss—dark blue, red, brown and black with tiny white dots. There are also cool organ-dy blouses in dark colors, and some of the smartest stylings in checked and narrow striped linens, gingham and muslins.

Summer Negligees in Crisp Cool Fabrics.

Dotted swiss, printed lawns and muslins—in fast dye colors and a permanently crisp finish—are noted in some of the smartest summer negligees which, for the most part, are very simple in styling—some featuring little frills at neck and short cap sleeve. There are also lovely new silk and rayon crepe negligees—decidedly simple in design and worn over shorts. These oftener than not are seen in soft pastel shades—pale green, pink, blue and yellow.

Spanish Influence In Summer Evening Gowns.

Picturesque Andalusian peasant costumes with characteristic shawl shoulder line, clinging but not moulded silhouette and tiered skirt ending with a flare, are the inspiration for some smart summery evening gowns seen now in smart New York shops. These gowns are carried out in organ-dy, trimmed with rickrack in the real Andalusian manner. Petticoat Important In Evening Mode.

The petticoat, which has been gradually coming back into the evening mode, promises to be decidedly important in the fall. Already it is noted in soft silk and rayon taffetas worn under sheer organ-dies, nets and lace. And now, with the Spanish dress being stressed, we have the white petticoat under the black dress. There are new thin linen models trimmed with rows and rows of little ruffles worn under cotton and linen evening gowns, as well as under net and lace. Under the new slashed skirt, the lace petticoat is favored.

Contrasting Accessories In Summer Fashions.

White accessories continue important, particularly with the dark sheer costume. Equally important just now are the dark and vivid colored accessories worn with the white costume. There are lovely new white hats—brims and berets in summer silks, rayons and cottons, particularly smart with the dark sheer frock. And no season has ever seen such practical and at the same time charming white handbags. There are limitless new patterns in washable lacquered fabrics in new envelope and the pouch stylings with back strap and top handles—some featuring big white composition ball and loop handles and closings. These smart new stylings in these same lacquered fabrics are noted now in dark colors—red, rich browns, black and green and, along with matching color in other accessories, are very effective with the white summer frock.

WRITE THE NAME

To the Voters of Mills County, Texas:

As the Honorable Jno. W. Roberts has declined to run for county chairman of the Democratic party of Mills county, the friends of the Honorable J. E. Greathouse are asking the voters of the county to vote for him for county chairman.

We did not know Mr. Roberts (the old chairman) was not going to run until it was too late to get Mr. Greathouse's name on the ticket. It will, therefore, be necessary to write his name on the ticket, marking out any other names that may be on it.

TWO VOTERS

STYLE NOTES

Royal blue is a favored new color in summer beach wear—brown in rust shades is also important. Checked gingham, polka-dotted taffetas in silk and rayon are all definitely in the beach style picture.

The favored travel costume recipe for summer is the dark dress—almost any kind—print, or monotone crepe or sheer—frosted with white. Not too much white—but dainty touches.

The popular jacket dress to be doubly practical should have real sleeves, so that the dress looks finished when the jacket is removed.

Heavy crinkled rayon fabrics promise to be particularly important in the fall mode.

Black stockings are noted in smart New York shops. In keeping with the Spanish trend, they are scheduled for a real comeback in the fall mode.

Berets, tricorne and Spanish sailors are all new in the millinery mode. Berets are noted in a variety of new drapery effects and in new fall materials including velvets and these sometimes displayed with matching scarf, gloves and handbag.

NEWS FLASHES

Three railroads, all part of the Southern Pacific system, have been consolidated into one company with the filing of two deeds which transferred the properties of the San Antonio & Aransas Pass railroad and the Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio railroad to the Texas & New Orleans. The properties attached to the Texas & New Orleans by the consolidation were valued in excess of $23,000,000, on the basis of revenue stamps attached to the deeds. The deed to the Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio properties bore $23,136 in revenue stamps. The other deed bore $105 in stamps. A $1 stamp is required for each $1,000 of property involved.

EXERCISE AT HOME

The other day we read an item advising women how to exercise at home in order to keep the proper proportioned figure. If we remember correctly it recommended six minutes devoted to exercise each morning. That isn't much time to give over to making the body beautiful, but the trouble is that most women these days get too much exercise. Many who formerly had maids, cooks and servants now find themselves doing their own work and liking it. They do not have time to sit around and grow fat.

As for young girls and women, they get plenty of exercise in the natural course of the healthful outdoor life they lead. Normal, active persons who dance, play tennis, swim, ride horseback, take frequent walks and do their allotted share of work get plenty of exercise without having to go to the bother of taking special reducing exercises.

Even the beauty experts now admit that housework is just as good a conditioning and slenderizing exercise as golf and tennis. Dishwashing, sweeping, ironing, scrubbing, bed-making and running up and down stairs, they say, are especially good for reducing the hips, taking off excess weight and maintaining those now popular graceful curves. —Pathfinder.

VOIDING BALLOTS

It is a very easy matter for a ballot to be rendered void, as shown by an outline given in the San Angelo Standard by the Democratic chairman of that county, who says:

"The surprisingly large number of persons who do not know how to mark a ballot is, no doubt, partly due to the large number of person who have, within the last few years, moved here from other states where a different system of marking the ballot is permitted.

"Some voters mark a ballot by simply placing a check mark while others place an X before the name of the candidate for whom they wish to vote, leaving the rest of the names on the ballot. Under the law a ballot marked in either of these ways can not be counted.

"The law provides that a voter shall draw a line through the names of the persons he does not want to vote for or erase the name, leaving the name of the one he desires to vote for unmarked. In other words, if there were six candidates in a race you would draw a straight line through five names and the name not marked out would be the person the voter intended to vote for. This ought to be clear. Yet, as stated, a great many of the people place a check mark or an X by one name, intending to vote for that person, but unless election judge to assist a voter, be counted.

"Neither is it lawful to bring a sample ballot to the polls and strike or check the official ballot from the sample ballot. Such a vote will not be counted. "It is not permissible for an tops a 22-year record of engineering progress that makes Chevrolet the best riding car in the low-price field

Year after year, it's been the same story: Chevrolet FIRST with the NEWEST and BEST! Chevrolet leading—others following. Chevrolet out in front with the latest proved advancements. Self-starter! Sliding gear transmission! Streamlined design! It was Chevrolet aggressiveness and progressiveness that forced all low-priced cars eventually to adopt these and other major improvements. And now, this year, comes the climax of Chevrolet's engineering leadership: the Knee-Action ride! This newest of motoring sensations is a marvel of smooth, easy, gentle motion. No other ride in the world can even compare with it. It makes Chevrolet far and away the best riding car in the low-price field.

Have you noticed how America has taken to the Knee-Action ride? In the first 6 months, demand for Chevrolet cars sent production to the highest total attained by any automobile during 1934.

REPRESENTATIVE

My Friends:

We have had enough red hot politics. We cannot afford foolishness. I would not waste your time and mine discussing petty or personal issues.

Texas has its part to play in the recovery program. We cannot play that part with our legislature trying to make it a crime to pluck a wild flower or such.

We are too big in little things, too little in big things.

We have too many laws; too many lawmakers; too many courts; too many state owned automobiles, and too many people riding in them; too many paid for doing the same thing over again and too many paid for doing nothing at all.

Because we waste so much the State is in the red and can't pay pensions, teachers' salaries, and other bills.

If we will spend less for useless things we can spend more for useful things and leave more for those who pay.

Extravagance cannot be stopped at once and may never be stopped altogether, but we never do anything unless we begin.

We have been promised efficiency for all the years, but in the years to come we expect performance.

Texas is large, its legislature is large, but it is possible to elect one hundred, eighty-one persons who want to do right and have sense enough to know how.

I Will Appreciate Your Support.

Yours,

R. A. LUKER.

MOUNT OLIVE

Mount Olive now has a new reporter to the Eagle. This report is the work of a fellow who knows nothing, sees nothing, but attempts to write something.

Well begun is half done, so with this good beginning we are off.

Mount Olive is in the midst of their "hog plum" season now. A truck load was hauled out last week and another this week. Every year several truck loads are shipped out. A good plum picker can pick enough to pay for the clothes he tears off picking them, but he gets the business out of it.

Man Roberts trucks our plums this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cody's little girl has been real sick for several days. They had the doctor with her twice. We trust she will soon be all right again.

Mrs. George Poer and Mrs. Hannah Lee had business in the Mills county capital Monday.

A number of Mount Olive folks were seen at the picnic at Priddy last week end. We have had three picnics in this vicinity lately. We had one at Caradan, Indian Gap and Priddy. To have seen the money spent at these places, you would not have thought of a depression.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Harris visited in the George Mason home at Lake Merritt over the week end and Sunday.

Our mail carrier, Lee Stewart, now carries the mail on a 1934 Chevrolet coach, with "knee-action" and every thing. We used to listen for the carrier, but now we have to watch for him.

Lloyd Cathey and family were on the mountain Sunday. They came after their son, Doyle, who has been visiting in the homes of Almer Neal and Firman Crawford.

R. L. Denton has been helping George Poer pick plums this week.

The weather is hot here, but still we have work to do. The women folk are canning, the men are cutting corn tops, and the girls are—well, getting ready for a week end dance.

Herman Reid of Caradan was seen touring over the mountain Sunday. Probably he was looking for a girl.

Mr. and Mrs. George Poer and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Poer and Pattie Nell visited J. M. Poer's folks at Stephenville last week.

Things are quiet here politically. No candidates have visited us lately. They have not all been to see us yet. Allow this reporter to suggest that we have more good timber to select from for governor than is usually the case. Most any one of them would make an able governor, but I say no more. I might start an argument.

Mr. and Mrs. Lennon Lane and family visited in Frank Poer's home Saturday evening and Sunday. These folks are from Regency.

The remains of Mr. John Leverett were brought in from Pampa Monday. We understand he lost his life in some kind of truck accident, where he was at work. His funeral services were held at the Caradan church house on Tuesday evening, after which he was buried in the Mount Olive cemetery. We all extend our sympathy to the bereaved families.

This reporter hopes these news items are substantially correct. The reporter has no telephone and can't "listen in." He has no gasoline and so can't go anywhere. These items are written from "hearsay" and some of them will, of necessity, be inaccurate. We trust no one will be offended if some details are not correct. They are written just as the reporter hears of them.

Aubra Hudson took Joe Langford to a Temple hospital two weeks ago. He is still there and not improved at all as had been hoped. Mrs. Langford is at his bedside. Their many friends are hoping the treatment will soon prove beneficial and he will be restored to health.

Hugh Carroll and family and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Carroll of Lockney are visiting relatives here.

We are glad to report Mrs. C. A. Head improving. She had the misfortune of being tripped and falling, cutting an ugly gash in her forehead.

Mrs. Tull Wright was able to be brought home from Goldthwaite, where she had been under the care of a physician. Her mother, Mrs. Garrett of Star, is with her.

Investigation will prove Goldthwaite to be one of the best wool and mohair markets to be found.

Mrs. Dora Morris and Jake Sexton received a message yesterday from Dallas informing them that their sister, Mrs. Mallie Sexton, who has been quite sick, was improving. This is good news to the lady's many friends in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Frazier and daughter, Barbara June, of Brownwood, spent last Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chess Frazier and Mrs. R. G. Huffman. Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Whatley and children also visited in these homes.

Carl Runge for Congress

He Understands the Problems of the Farmer, Ranchman, Business Man and Laborer of this District

McLean, he was appointed District Judge and although apparently assured that he would have no opposition he was not a candidate to succeed himself.

SUCCESSFUL RECORD AS JUDGE

During the time that he was District Judge, he tried several cases that attracted statewide attention, among them the Ferguson suit against the State Highway Department tried at Austin, where he was sent to sit for Judge Moore, who was sick. The decision in this case, like most others tried before him, was affirmed by the higher courts. Because of the correctness of his decisions and the dispatch with which he transacted business, he kept court costs at a minimum and saved the taxpayers money.

READILY ACCESSIBLE

Because of his residence in the central part of the District he is most readily accessible to all of the citizens of the District. Besides knowing the needs of the District from actual experience and education, he has the ability and moral courage to properly represent the same.

"The past accomplishments of Judge Runge are sufficient evidence that a VOTE FOR CARL RUNGE IS A VOTE FOR EFFICIENT AND CAPABLE REPRESENTATION."

Vote For PAT MURPHY FOR CONGRESS

(Del Rio Evening News)

Pledging to support the tariff and an equalized distribution of patronage positions were among the highlights of the address which E. E. (Pat) Murphy made before a large gathering, fairly estimated at around 400 people in Greenwood Park Wednesday evening. This was Pat's opening address in his race for Congress.

Murphy was introduced by Judge J. J. Foster, who was active in the interests of R. E. Thomason in 1930. Judge Foster described the candidate as a "first class business and professional man," who was trained in Washington, D.C., and who would represent all classes and all sections of the district fairly.

"Mr. Murphy is well qualified to serve you as congressman because of his experience in Washington, where he received his education. He understands the needs of the people in this section. Mr. Murphy is a sincere young man," Judge Foster said.

Represents No Class

"I appeal to no class," Murphy immediately pointed out in his opening remarks.

"In entering this campaign for the Democratic nomination for congressman from this district, I appeal to no class, faction, organization, bloc, group, political boss or special interest. A representative in the national congress should, I repeat, be free to represent every man, woman and child in the district alike. A member of the unemployed is entitled to as much consideration as the most powerful group.

"A representative should know the needs and desires of the people and should be a true representative in every sense of the word," Murphy continued.

Training Expensive

He pointed out that it usually took two years in Washington to train a congressman to know how to go about obtaining legislation and relief for his district, two years in which the people pay him $10,000 annually to obtain his education.

"My training in the matters of government, secured through 20 years of preparation, over six years of study in every phase and department of the government on the ground at Washington, D. C., has equipped me to properly and immediately represent all classes of citizens before the hundreds of government bureaus and departments," he asserted.

Supports Roosevelt

Murphy pledged his support to President Roosevelt.

"We are in a critical hour. We are not over the depression yet and our president is entitled to the unstinting and unqualified support of the legislative branch of the country. I pledge you, I will support Mr. Roosevelt. He is surely bringing about a recovery, but there are enemies who would hold him back—I favor throwing these amateur navigators overboard and supporting our President at the helm," he declared.

"Redistribution of wealth is the problem of the government today," declared Mr. Murphy. In part, Mr. Murphy stated: "I am in favor of a protective tariff for the products of this section. I am a Democrat, but I am not a free trader. The very life of this district depends upon proper protection for our raw productions. I favor a tariff on livestock, mohair, hides and crude oil. When the question of voting for a tariff on these products comes up in congress I will vote for such a tariff, regardless of the party in power that proposes the tariff bill," he reiterated.

Backs Agricultural Groups

"I will also meet from time to time with the Sheep and Goat Raisers association, the wool and mohair organizations, the farm organizations and will actively support their programs. I will be truly a representative of the people of this section."

Pat Himself

E. E. (PAT) MURPHY

Murphy stressed that he was in favor of a "Truth-in-Fabric" bill, which would be one means of raising the price on local commodities, since a majority of the consumers do not get what they ask and pay for in buying woolen and mohair materials.

He explained, that in his opinion, a law of this sort, patterned after the Pure Foods and Drugs Act, would go a long way toward correcting and stabilizing the markets for mohair and wool. Any material, whether it be a flat weave or a pile fabric, should have a stamp showing the true content of the material offered the consumer.

The speaker pointed out that the consumer was entitled to know just what percentage of wool, mohair, cotton, rayon or grass an article contained, just as one would want to know just how much morphine, alcohol or any drug was in a preparation he was to take for an ailment.

Educational Department

Murphy described the huge waste of money spent on educational purposes through improper supervision in Washington. He would suggest that a department of education be established with a secretary of education in the President's cabinet.

"The educational system is at the cross roads. A secretary in the president's cabinet would raise standards of education, which I believe had much to do with the depression."

The candidate thought each district in the country was entitled to its share of patronage jobs. He pointed out that a majority of the patronage jobs went to residents of Washington, in place of being distributed to the districts entitled to the jobs. After the speaker had closed his address, many people pledged their support to Mr. Murphy's candidacy.

CENTER POINT

Seems as if the weatherman has decided on a little prohibition of his own since it has not rained for so long a time and so many states and countries have gone on the "dry list."

Well, all have to hand it to nature as an agent of enforcement. Now, let's see somebody repeal her amendment. Then we will all swear the day of miracles is not past.

Last Friday night the Robbins family were guests in the Fallon home until bedtime.

Misses Anne Beth, Doris, Dorothy and Florence Davis visited the Robbins sisters Thursday.

A telephone meeting was held at the home of E. D. Davis last Monday night. The motive of this meeting was to determine what hindered service. The next day brush was cut from the line. The wire was stretched and repaired in places along with careful inspection. As a whole, the community co-operated well in the enterprise. Let each owner look into his own box before taking a crack at a neighbor. Let's all strive for better and prompt service for we never know when a single call will mean "a life will be saved," and thereby be worth more than all our telephones combined.

Last Thursday J. D. Fallon gathered a great deal of information about cotton upon listening to a speech in Brownwood.

Mrs. Sam Carroll and children, Claudia and O. B., have gone to Arizona to see her son, Clifford, and family. They intend to be gone several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Perry visited in the home of Amos Shelton Thursday afternoon.

C. C. Wesson and Fred Davis took a car load of cantaloupes east Monday.

Ray Davis thought he saw a mad dog at his house Sunday night. Since it was dark, he was not positive.

The young folk enjoyed a very agreeable party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Davis Friday night.

Julia Dee Fallon spent Tuesday with Mrs. Omar Hill.

Last Wednesday several young people met at the school for the purpose of arranging some kind of a program for our B. Y. P. U. When the program was decided upon the 4-H club had a brief rally. Three cheers were given for Mr. Weaver, who at that time was lying ill, awaiting an operation in a Brownwood hospital.

Mr. Weaver, our local farm demonstrator, is a close friend to every boy and girl in the county. We sincerely hope he shall soon be able to resume his duties.

Few of us realize just how much unselfish service this one, man, Mr. Weaver, has rendered to our community and county as a whole. Let's show our appreciation and gratitude to him some way.

Darrel Davis of Mullin is enjoying the week end with Gerald Davis here.

Zeta Lawson spent a few days last week with her grandmother.

Anne Beth Davis called on Julia Dee early Friday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Connor and Mrs. Sarah Connor of San Antonio are visiting Mrs. Connor here.

Some Needed Help

The placing of this and other counties in the drought relief zone will be helpful in saving live stock and providing a market for animals that would be unsaleable, which would possibly result in a total loss to the owners. This is a great and good plan of our government, but there is another class of citizens who need help because of the destructive drought. They have no live stock and will suffer much deprivation before applying for direct relief. These people are equally as deserving as the live stock owner or the unemployed. Perchance they own their homes and their farms, but can not secure the finances to continue operations and prepare for another year's crops. Some plan should be provided to give relief and lift the burden from the shoulders of these people. They have worked hard and economized and it is through no fault of their own that they have not been able to provide enough to pay their expenses and taxes, as well as tide them over until another crop is planted and matured. Some of our statesmen should be able to work out a plan whereby these people can secure some of the help and benefit our great and liberal government is extending and will continue to extend. Make such relief in the form of a loan, a bonus or in any other form desired, just so this deserving class of citizens secures the assistance to which they are entitled and in whom the government is as much interested as those in any other class or condition where the appropriations are being advanced.

There is a very strong probability of the state legislature being called together early in the fall, to arrange for disposing of the remainder of the twenty millions in bonds voted last year to provide assistance for the people of Texas. At this special session it is hoped a plan will be evolved to advance some of this money to those citizens who need it equally as much as those provided for by the direct relief method. A reasonable advance of funds to farmers who are unable to finance another crop and to those engaged in other lines of industry, who will be willing to return it to the treasury when conditions make it reasonably possible, will reach a most worthy class that is not being reached by any other method of appropriation or government aid.

Cost of Speed

Columns and even volumes have been written about the danger and hazard of uncontrolled speed on highways, but the results from such publicity are not encouraging. The number of accidents are not all attributable to speed or even carelessness, yet the per cent due to these causes is not small. There is, however, another angle to the subject that may be given more attention, when it is properly displayed and that is the cost. A recent investigation and tabulation constitutes a serious challenge to the average driver's pocketbook and may, therefore, bear greater weight. It is vastly more expensive, it is found, to operate an automobile at speeds in excess of 30 miles per hour. The faster a car goes beyond that rate, the more gas it consumes per mile—at 75 miles per hour over twice as much gasoline is required to go the same distance as at 30 miles per hour. In addition, wear and tear on the tires and on the car mechanism itself is greatly increased, so that a motor vehicle habitually driven at high speeds wears out much quicker than a car driven at moderate speeds. The subject of "safe speeds" is everywhere controversial, but it is agreed that conditions on the highway must govern acceleration. It is frequently as dangerous to drive slowly as it is to speed through congested districts. Speeds in excess of 45 miles per hour, it is said, are almost always in the danger zone, but the fact that excessive speed is as expensive as dangerous will appeal more directly to many reckless drivers.

Tax Burden Universal

Everybody pays taxes, either directly or indirectly, therefore, no individual need imagine himself being tax free. No person who occupies property, owns a car, smokes tobacco, goes to the theatre, rides on a street car or goes through the other motions of daily life gets by untaxed. Yet there are people who think themselves non-taxpayers, when at least ten per cent of their earnings go for taxes. They are victims of the great American delusion. Of itself government earns no money. Every dollar that it gets for its support must come from someone who does the earning. To do this it must tax production, which means that both producer and consumer share in paying the bills. It is the consumer who invariably bears the greater share of the burden—our industries, much as they would like to, have no magic means of conjuring money from air. Every expense of operation, whether it be materials, labor, rent or taxes, must be included in the cost of the finished product. The buyer always pays. With the cost of all forms of government soaring, he pays more in taxes for each dollar he earns than he ever did before. If these indirect taxes were paid directly, there would be a howl of anguish from one end of the country to another. A similar result will follow when the people learn that indirect taxes can be as expensive as direct taxes—even more expensive, as heavier levies can be exacted without the public knowing it.

Centennial Now Or Never

It has been rightly urged that the present time does not present the conditions most favorable for securing money to pay the expenses of the centennial celebration, yet the effort must be put forth now or the proposition must be abandoned entirely. It is certain that those interested in preparing for a proper celebration will never agree to abandoning or even deferring the undertaking. The state's one-hundredth birthday should, must and will be properly observed by displaying the wonderful development of the resources of Texas since 1836. The showing that will be made will be of vast and lasting benefit to every section and will be interesting as well.

If the matter is delayed until everything is just right and prosperity is universal, it will be too late to celebrate the state's first century as a government and most of us will lose our opportunity of taking part in it. The celebration must be now or never.

Health Hint

CARE OF FOOD

Austin, Texas, July 19. — Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer, warns those going on a vacation or picnic, to be careful about their food and the water they drink if they want to avoid unpleasant after effects.

"As to foods," Dr. Brown said, "First, be sure that what you take is perfectly fresh. Second, take things that won't spoil. During the hot muggy weather that prevails at this time of the year it is hard to keep any kind of food in good condition, as every housekeeper knows. Rich, perishable food taken off the ice and carried around for several hours before using will spoil very quickly.

"It is better to avoid rich salads and indigestible combinations and to stick to the simpler things. Sandwiches—of which an infinite variety can be prepared—make, the simpler the better—and plenty of fresh, ripe fruit, are usually safe and satisfying and should form the principal part of your menu. Whatever you take, don't overeat and don't mix in all sorts of queer mixtures. If you do, the day after the picnic is not likely to be a pleasant one for you.

"And as a third precaution: Take your own drinking water unless you are sure that the water supply of the place where you are going to spend the day, is free from contamination. Thermos bottles, thermos jugs, fruit jars can all be pressed into service. It may be more trouble to carry water from home, but it is much safer than to drink water from a source that may be contaminated with disease germs, especially those of typhoid fever."

NATIONAL DEFENSE

Instead of leaving the all thought of national defense to our soldiers, why not think some ourselves. We are the ones who pay the taxes and why not elect people who know something of the policies we want enforced.

These aircraft and motor truck scandals could probably have been avoided if such bids had to be made before an open committee. Such things are necessary but aren't we paying too much for them.

In pioneer days, defense was an ever present problem and every man was his own defense as well as a part of the community defense. In these latter days, we have national defense to specialists. But we do not maintain an army and navy of specialists large enough and we must ourselves step in during a national emergency.

The national defense plan now discussed figures on conscription of materials and national resources as soon as war is declared. But a well-known authority says it would take six months to get tooled up to start producing. During that time our professional defenders are too few to hold the line. We do not have enough trained officers. It takes years to make officers. Pershing said a fourth of our casualties were unnecessary, owing to the fact that our men were green troops when put into the lines.

We must keep our services armed with the latest weapons, including the national guard and officers reserve corps. This will give us trained men, trained in the use of new weapons with which to officer the huge civilian armies.

European countries train civilians for defense against air raids and gas attacks.

The fact that an armed guard stands at the bank door is not a dare to one and all to attempt to rob the bank. We all want peace. We must pave the way for peace, but we are living in a world that still lives by the sword. —Temple News.

UNCOVER SPY RING

Another American—a woman—was brought Monday into the network of French investigations at Paris of a huge international spy ring. The slowly widening inquiries of French secret police were disclosed at the same time to have brought to light dealings of the espionage ring in the secrets of microbe warfare.

PROFITS AND WAR

With the advent of civilization and the inability of one person to manufacture for himself the necessities of life, the parasite of commercialism appeared.

From a comparatively minor factor in the lives of medieval laymen it has now become one of the most vital elements influencing human behavior.

From the time of the industrial revolution the abuse of the profit motive grew until now it is powerful enough to plunge whole nations into the chaos of war.

The war of today is no more the glamorous riots that took place in the "good old days." Oracles of destruction, sponsored, so to speak, by the munitions industries have exploited the traditions of patriotism and self-sacrifice that lead men to the front to fight for something they think will vitally affect their country.

War is not a great heroic struggle for something fine. It is nothing more than means of gaining more and more wealth for the powerful factions in control of the munitions plants. More than that, this industry thrives on competition. It expands and develops while nations vie for armament supremacy in a jealous scramble for power.

It is noble to fight for one's country—if that country is in the right. It is a different thing, however, to fight for men who will exploit an entire nation for the sake of personal gain.

We speak of the horrors of war and make elaborate plans to prevent it, yet overlook one of the most important causes.

Take the profits out of war and there will be no more international conflicts like the world war. It is the "extra nickel" that causes the conflicts of today—not political entanglements. —Independent, Littleton, Colo.

TEXAS TAX DELINQUENCY

The bureau of census reports that tax delinquency in Texas averages 28 per cent of the full amount payable, but consolingly adds that this is not a bad showing, compared with some other states. It is not a time to compare with other states. Comparison with a common-sense interpretation of normal tax delinquency furnishes the only clue to the actual status. Such a comparison is not very consoling.

Texas is now spending more than $300,000,000 annually for state and local governmental purposes. Texas is a big state and big expenditures are necessary, but $300,000,000 is too much, considering the results obtained. Texas needs a fiscal for both state and local operations. Cumbersome methods are wasting money. An example is found in the handling of the state bread bonds. Legislative expenditures equivalent to a major portion of the interest for the first year have already been allowed, and still another session is in sight to permit the issuance of the remaining block of constitutional authorized securities. In finances, as in many other matters, Texas needs a plan. —Dallas News.

DIVORCES DECREASE

The depression has done devastating damage to divorce.

So says Dr. Paul Popenoe, who observes the progress of the war between the sexes on the western front. He is director of an Institute of Family Relations out in Los Angeles.

Since the nation plunged into a speculative nose dive five years ago, young folks, according to the doctor, aren't rushing into marriage on as narrow a speculative margin as they used to. They're stopping, looking and listening a few times before saying that they do.

The number of divorces and separations is decreasing steadily among young couples. Not only are young people more cautious about embarking on the seas of matrimony, but they're really preparing themselves for marriage by reading recognized books on sex and marriage. And a couple of dozen states are putting brakes on ill-considered marriage by requiring advance announcements or by insisting on physical examinations of the bridegrooms and brides. —San Antonio Light.

—EDITORIAL COMMENT—

VIEWS OF THE NATION'S PRESS ON TOPICS OF INTEREST AND IMPORTANCE

The federal crop figures give a definite picture of the terrible harm done by the widespread droughts. A prospective wheat production of 483,632,000 bushels, compared to a former five year average of 886,000,000 bushels, and to single-year crops of more than a billion bushels, tells a tale of disaster in the farming sections which needs no elaboration.

Fortunately the loss is not a net one. Our warehouses are bulging with wheat, there is no danger of a food shortage. The price for the grain is on a rapid rise, promising better returns for those farmers who can yet place wheat on the market. Government payments to farmers to reduce acreage, while now seen to have been unnecessary for the original purpose, nevertheless went into the pocket of hundreds of thousands of farmers, and have constituted a sort of insurance payment against crop failure. The world surplus of wheat is rapidly going down, giving promise of better prices in future years.

Holders of wheat will benefit greatly. However, this means more buying power for the trading class, while the wheat sections, despite the several consolations of the situation, will have much less buying power. Thus nature defeats in so far as the wheat section is concerned, a major effort of the administration to put money into the hands of the farm element.

The combined effects of the drought and federal reduction program in other fields than wheat may have a different story to tell. The government statistics show all crops drastically down, but not disastrously down as in the case of wheat. This undoubtedly will mean better prices for them, which together with government payments for reduction efforts, may very well show a marked gain in income for the farm element of the country generally. No one can say for certain without making an exhaustive calculation of all the figures in the situation. On the whole, however, we have reason to believe that the government farm relief efforts will more than offset the monetary losses due to the unprecedented drought—but of this other fact we may be quite sure, that without the government effort there would have been tragedy piled on tragedy.

Incidentally the crop reports remind us again of the shortsightedness of southern members of congress, several years ago, in having prohibited announcements on cotton crop estimates by the department of agriculture until very late in the season. As matters now stand the private traders, the men who can give their minds and attention to gathering the facts, have pretty definite ideas as to the condition of cotton, and the likely size of the coming crop, while the individual farmer has only his guess to go by. The government can't advise him. We decreed this in the days of Republican administrations, but it represented pique and suspicion rather than reason. We should put cotton crop report back on the same basis with other crop reporting. —Houston Chronicle.

OLD AGE PENSION

A reserve fund for old age is a wise provision. The life insurance companies have long offered annuities in combination with life insurance or separately, and numerous corporations have provided for a retirement pension, after a long and loyal service to the company. The railroads have voluntarily done something along this line, at least some of them have. Now the law has made pensioning compulsory. The older idea was that the individual himself should provide for his declining years. That idea is still held by many. The majority still believe it is better for the individual to serve himself than to be served by others. Unfortunately, few of us are sufficiently far-sighted as to envision ourselves in old age or decrepitude, so we make no provision. Sometimes it is because we can't, but mostly because we won't or sim-

DEPRESSION AND SUMMER SCHOOLS

The summer session in the decade of the 1920s and even before was the big session in many of our colleges and universities. Many institutions which before the boom had offered no summer work felt obliged to operate in the summer in order to hold their regular clientele.

Summer school students were composed primarily of two groups — undergraduates, some who had been behind with their studies, some were anxious to cut a year or half a year from the regular academic course, and teachers whose compensation was based in part upon the number of academic credits that appeared on their records.

Some of the flunkers are still in the summer schools, but not so many. Nor is the number of good undergraduates who are anxious to graduate early so great as it used to be, because there is no longer any particular advantage in early graduation. What with thousands of college graduates of the classes from 1930 on still looking for work, this argument is better for extending the college course than for shortening it.

As for the teachers, there is no longer that financial urge to get additional credits and degrees. Their pay has been cut so deeply, and the prospect for a restoration of their cuts is so dark at the moment, that it is the optimistic teacher indeed who continues to go to summer school in the hope of getting ahead in his profession.

Perhaps the decline in the attendance at summer session is not all loss. Conceivably some of the influences that were responsible for the summer school boom were as unsound as the business boom of which it was a part.

Certainly the depression has forced upon collegiate administrations everywhere the necessity of reconsidering fully and carefully questions both of policy and curriculum which were believed settled for a good decade ago. And reconsideration in some instances has already led to needed reforms. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

Despite these economic fallacies, which should be treated at greater length, the most injurious effect of the dole is upon the morale of those to whom it is extended. Calvin Coolidge once said: "If when unemployed he is to receive something he did not pay for, no one can say how that would effect the will of the wage earner to hold his place by doing his best. Evidently, the morale would be lowered. Those who look with apprehension on these tendencies do not lack humanity, but are influenced by the belief that the result of such measures will be to deprive the people of character and liberty." The continued reliance upon governmental paternalism is one of the most dangerous tendencies now rampant in America, and public unemployment insurance would accelerate it beyond control. More pronounced today than ever before is that sharp divergence in social philosophies which aligns believers in government control of private life and business against believers of individual initiative, self-reliance and enterprise. It should not be necessary to say that the policies of those who seek governmental paternalism in all things are incompatible with the principles upon which our democracy is based, and the faithful protection of these principles compels the tireless vigilance of a democratic people. —Texas Weekly.

ply don't. An industrial civilization carries penalties as well as advantages. In a purely agricultural state, the aged and infirm are taken under the protection of their heirs or the community. Presumably the law applicable to railroad pensions insures the employee his proportion of the pension fund in cash in the event of his enforced separation from the company before the retirement period. — State Press in Dallas News.

SUPPORT TEXAS CENTENNIAL

The Centennial of Texas independence will not be adequately celebrated in 1936, in the opinion of the Centennial Commission, unless the next legislature makes a substantial appropriation for such a celebration. The commission estimates that the main celebration will require $15,000,000, of which the city chosen as the location for it will be expected to put up at least $5,000,000, and if this amount is provided it is assumed that the federal government will put up the remainder. Without an adequate appropriation by the legislature, however, the commission believes that the whole thing will fall through, because neither the federal government nor the centennial city can be expected to do more than the state government. Cullen F. Thomas, president of the centennial commission, in calling attention to this situation in a recent statement, appealed to the people of Texas to an adequate appropriation for the celebration. The figure which the commission believes will be required was arrived at on the assumption that if the celebration is to succeed it must be big enough to attract people from all sections of the country and from other countries. It is the commission's idea that a big centennial celebration will be a great success and will be a good investment, but that a small one will not be successful at all, and will be a poor investment. There is a disposition to conclude that "this is no time to spend public money foolishly," and, of course, that is the precise truth. As a matter of fact it would be a good thing if the mass of the people would come to realize and remain convinced that it is never a proper time to spend public money foolishly. But to finance an adequate centennial celebration would not be spending public money foolishly.

We will all have reason to rejoice if the centennial project is a big success. We will all share in the benefits which will result from it. But if it is not a success, if public sentiment is not aroused sufficiently to insure adequate financial support of it by the state government, there will be those who will be inclined to blame the members of the commission for the failure. But they will not be to blame, for if they are given the proper cooperation the project will be a big success. And if it fails, this will be due to the fact that they did not receive the proper cooperation. Let's see to it that they do not fail on that account. —Centennial News.

CURING HOME SHORTAGE

An attempted shift from public initiative to private initiative is definitely under way in the government's policies and programs of recovery," says the United States News. One important phase of this, the News continues, is a plan for insuring loans for home repairs and new building to attract private capital into the dormant construction industry.

It is a well known fact that stimulated construction holds out the promise of two million new jobs—half of them in actual building and half in the industries providing needed materials. The merest glance at the statistics serves to show how sorry the state of the building industry is at present. In 1928, residential building expenditures touched $2,788,000,000. In 1930, they went down to the extraordinary low of $300,000,000 — a fraction of the 1928 level.

It is estimated that $1,500,000,000 of private capital will go into housing developments during 1934, if present plans have the hoped for result. Close to 80 per cent of that would find its way into the pockets of workers—it would go a long way toward solving unemployment and relief problems. And it would provide hundreds of thousands of much needed dwellings, and represent a substantial beginning toward eliminating the extreme housing shortage that now exists. —Industrial Review.

Brownwood

Adam R. Johnson, Texas relief director, has ordered that all able-bodied men and women on Brown county relief rolls be put to work within a few days on county work relief projects. This means that approximately 800 men and women on the county's relief rolls will be at work.

Brownwood city council did an about face Tuesday night on an ordinance that would have legalized Sunday moving picture shows in Brownwood. Two weeks ago city council had voted three to one in favor of the ordinance that would have lifted the ban on Sunday movies, but when the ordinance was brought up for a second reading this week the four aldermen split, two-two, forcing Mayor W. H. Thompson to cast the deciding vote on the ordinance.

Brown county relief headquarters received a check for $3500 from the Texas relief commission Monday, this being for direct relief and work relief during the month of July. Accompanying the check was a letter from state relief officials advising that the funds should be conserved as much as possible because of the fact that federal matched funds are running low and that after they are exhausted there will be no more relief money until after the Texas legislature is called into special session again.—Banner.

They report a wonderful gathering and large attendance, many of the former members now of other towns coming for the occasion. Noon lunch was spread in the church basement and an old time get together festival was enjoyed.

Misses Janice Chadwick and Gene Kuykendall were principals in a tragic and near fatal automobile accident just at noon Tuesday. In attempting to dodge another car the Chadwick car was lost control of and headed into a telephone post and on into the residence occupied by George Winslow. Miss Kuykendall was driving and was protected by the steering wheel. Miss Chadwick was thrown thru the windshield and suffered deep cuts and lacerations about the head and face. A small cyclone struck the home of L. W. McGree in the McGreeville section, west of Lampasas, Friday afternoon. It is a two-story home, but the dining room and kitchen are under a separate roof. The wind wrecked the dining room and kitchen and turned back the roof on one side of the other part of the house.

Burglars entered the Senterfitt Grocery Co., store some time Saturday night and took seven or eight dollars from the cash register. Some articles from the store may have been taken, but it was not noticed. Entrance to the store was gained by breaking a lock on the freight chute located in the alley. After going down the chute to the basement they came up into the store building and left by the back door, which they opened from the inside.

The Lampasas fire department was called Monday afternoon to the old opera house, where some weeds had caught fire. The chemical and also water were used in extinguishing the small blaze, the source of which was undetermined. The fire department also answered an alarm Tuesday morning. The wiring of a small truck, standing in front of the Gulf warehouse, caught fire. A hand chemical, hurriedly brought to the scene by Gerald Coker, extinguished the fire, which made it unnecessary to use the fire trucks.—Leader.

HERE AND THERE

The president of the Magnolia Petroleum company revealed Saturday that the company had made a voluntary increase of $600,000 a year in the pay of its employees.

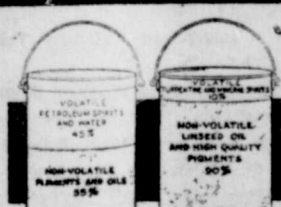

A general campaign to educate motorists in the rules of the road, re-arrangement of stop signal lights and an effort to bring about passage of a driver's license law are being undertaken by Fort Worth police in the drive against increased traffic accidents.

Looking toward treaty strength by 1942, the navy has adopted a plan calling for 5500 more enlisted men and the laying down of 19 new ships in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936. This "operating force" plan would give the navy 83,000 men, as compared with 62,500 during the present year. The new ships would include 13 destroyers of 1500 tons each, two heavy destroyers and five submarines.

The federal government, thru the national forest reservation commission, is negotiating with East Texas land owners for purchase of extensive acreage of burned over and cut over timberlands, mostly submarginal, which will be converted into national forests. It is part of the Roosevelt program of reforestation and natural resource conservation and $20,000,000 of PWA money has been set aside to buy up such lands in many states. It will be cleared and replanted by recruits in the CCC camps.

The federal farm administration's cotton acreage reduction checks, rolling out in every mail, have totaled $30,301,061—a little less than a third of the $100,000,000 expected ultimately to be paid. This was announced Saturday, the figures being as of July 11. Checks sent out to date numbered 811,680. The money is going out in two $50,000,000 installments, and the administration said the first payment virtually was completed in some states, adding practically all rental contracts, save those from Oklahoma, now have been received.

The Mexican embassy at Washington was instructed Saturday from Mexico City to take no action regarding the Hugh Johnson speech that already has brought a protest from Germany. After the Iowa speech, in which the NRA chief severely criticized Hitler's activities in Germany, and linked conditions there with those in Mexico during the days of Pancho Villa, the embassy notified its foreign office. It was understood some Mexicans regarded Johnson's mention of by-gone days in Mexico as an unfortunate and gratuitous reminder of conditions no longer existing. Apparently, however, the Mexican foreign office accepted Secretary Hull's explanation, made to the German government, that Johnson spoke as an individual and not for the American government in his reference to international matters, and decided to let the matter drop.
