Senate In Debate Over Law Revision

AUSTIN, Feb. 10. (AP)—The program law revision, prepared by a committee of the State Bar Association, passed a sharp debate in the senate today. The debate arose when Senator Westbrock of Sherman, sought to have two of the measures, prepared by the Bar Association committee, reported on a minority report favoring their passage.

The measure in question, he said, would permit a district attorney to sue not only the form, but the substance of a faulty indictment and could practically repeal the rules of procedure by empowering the judge to rule on the materiality of a charge, regardless of the law on the position.

Arkansas Debates Anti-Evolution Bill

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 10. (AP)—An overwhelming Viva Voice vote in the Arkansas senate today tabled the anti-evolution bill which passed the house by a margin of three votes yesterday. The bill was designed to prohibit teaching the theory of evolution in state-supported schools.

Believe Oklahoman Slayer Of 18 Men

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 10. (AP)—A record of having killed 18 men was credited today by Oklahoma City officers to J. M. Saunders, arrested here a few days ago in connection with an effort to dispose of $23,000 worth of Liberty bonds when they arrived in return him to Oklahoma. He is wanted there on charges of forgery.

Saunders formerly was connected with the Oklahoma Bankers' association as an officer, it was said.

Three Men Die In Colliery Explosion

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 10. (AP)—Three men were reported killed and a number entombed as a result of a gas explosion at the Phoenix park colliery, a Philadelphia and Reading coal and iron company operation five miles from Pottsville. Two dead have been recovered.

MEXICAN WOMAN HELD

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 10. (AP)—The newspapers have learned that Senora Maria, Olimeda De Trigueros, of a prominent family, was arrested a week ago and is being held incommunicado. The papers say she was arrested on the suspicion that she was connected with anti-government plots, although she has denied this.

SENATE TO GET BILL FRIDAY IS INDICATION NOW

EFFORTS TO FORCE VOTE ON JIM'S AMNESTY IS FAILURE TODAY

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 10. (AP)—Efforts to "force action" which would deprive former Governor James E. Ferguson of the amnesty granted him by the last legislature failed again today in the senate, but the way was paved, apparently for action on the measure tomorrow.

Senator Love of Dallas, author of the measure, sought to have it made special order of business after the special order of business recommended by the legislative committee failed to pass, but the senate failed to take the special order of business.

Bill Tops Calendar

The amnesty bill is now at the top of the section of the calendar devoted to senate bills and will come up as soon as joint resolutions are disposed of, provided no senate bill is made special order of business today.

Senator Love withdrew his motion to make the amnesty bill special order of business, but several notices that he would oppose any move to make any other bill special order for tomorrow.

Educational Bill Stopped

AUSTIN, Feb. 10. (AP)—The house today refused to consider one of the educational measures recommended by the educational survey committee whose work cost the state $50,000.

Consideration also was refused a bill that would have placed cotton gins under regulation of the railroad commission as public utilities.

The educational measure sought appointment of county superintendents by county boards of election instead of popular election. Representative Roy Daniels of Wichita Falls introduced it.

Pope Pardon Bill Looking Favorable

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 10. (AP)—A joint resolution by Representative Bowen Pope of Hamlin seeking to distribute the pardoning power between the governor, attorney general and chief justice of the supreme court, was reported favorably today by the house committee on constitutional amendments.

Pope's resolution was amended so that any two of the three officials named can pass on pardon application, after it has been approved by the pardon board. The house calendar is far behind and it may be several days before a house vote on the resolution, which calls for a constitutional amendment, can be secured.

Commissioners In Talk Over Paving

The City Commission is in regular session here this afternoon for a discussion of the paving and storm sewer projects recently contracted for, and with the completion of all estimates and individual property assessments by the city engineer, it was expected that the body would authorize publication of assessments of the various projects pursuant to an early beginning of actual construction operations on the paving program.

Twelve individual units are included in the plans, affecting four residential streets and three streets in the business district. Individual assessments against each property owner affected by the entire program have been completed by Marvin R. Smith, city engineer, and the construction company will begin signing up these property owners in the next few days, it was said.

Construction work on the storm sewer has been under way for several days, with the crew halted temporarily due to inclement weather. The storm sewer has been completed on Texas Avenue, and the machine is now on 16th. It is understood that the storm sewer on this street will extend west only as far as Avenue U.

Publication of the assessments will begin the first part of next week, it was said today.

Mrs. Ellen Perkins Is Dangerously Ill

Mrs. Ellen E. Perkins, sister of Mrs. W. R. Spencer's, who has been making her home in Lubbock for the last several years, is not expected to live following a stroke of paralysis about 8 o'clock this morning at her home, 2121 16th street. Mrs. Perkins had not regained consciousness about 2:30 o'clock this afternoon following the stroke and attending physicians told members of the family that she probably would not live longer than in the morning. Her sisters and brothers have been notified of her condition and Mrs. J. H. Gambrell, of Dallas, is expected to arrive from El Paso in the morning.

Scout Workers Are Opening Drive Today

The actual solicitation campaign whereby it is expected to raise $25,000 in twelve South Plains counties for boy scout work in the territory for the coming year started here Thursday morning following a meeting of the team organization in headquarters office at the city hall.

Lubbock's quota of the $20,000 budget has been fixed at $6,000, and workers in the drive are enthusiastic over prospects of securing the needed funds. Simultaneously with the drive here, similar campaigns were launched at Dalhart, Dalworth and Dalhart, after leaders in the movement were in these towns Wednesday planning final details.

Al Smith Not To Talk In Texas

(By Associated Press)

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 10. (AP)—Governor Smith apparently does not take very seriously the action of the lower house of the Texas legislature in voting an invitation for him, William Gibbs McAdoo, Governor Ritchie of Maryland and Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, to address that body.

"I read the item in the paper this morning," the governor said today, "and I referred it to the 'beating commission'."

Dead Man's Name Is Heard In Trial

NEW YORK, Feb. 10. (AP)—Testimony in the Daugherty-Miller trial turned today to the relationship of Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general and Jess W. Smith, his "man Friday."

Louis J. Bailey, of Atlanta, the first witness of the day told of finding Smith in charge of Daugherty's inaugural ceremonies in March, 1921.

Judge Cooper Says Charges Are False

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10. (AP)—Denial that Federal Judge Frank Cooper of the northern New York district conspired in 1924 with Prohibition Administrator R. Q. Merrick to entrap bootleggers was filed with the house judiciary committee today in a brief by Cooper's counsel, Elisha Hanson.

Maude Lee Mudd, Indian Heiress, Leaves On Another Of Her Mysterious Journeys

(By Associated Press)

VINITA, Okla., Feb. 10. (AP)—Sacrificing luxuries offered by a fortune estimated at millions of dollars for the thrills and freedom of the open highways, Maude Lee Mudd, 18-year-old Oklahoma Indian heiress, today resumed her wanderings with fears for her safety greatly allayed.

Restricted in the management of some of her rich oil and mine properties, but at liberty to travel and spend her money as she pleases, she appeared here yesterday to leave again without explaining her mysterious disappearance more than a year ago when she left her white husband, Earle Gordon of Oklahoma City, shortly after the marriage.

William Sims, her guardian, and J. S. Martin, her banker, aided in guarding her movements.

NEW RECORD ON TAX PAYING IS SET IN COUNTY

1927 BETTER EVERY WAY SAYS HOLLAND AFTER FIRST CHECK-UP

Tax collections in Lubbock this year have far surpassed previous years both in total amounts collected by the three agencies, and in percentage of collections at this date as compared with the same date a year or more ago, discounting the theory held by some that there is a scarcity of money in the country. It is revealed in a survey of the situation.

State and county taxes, apparently the last to be paid, this year are out in front in percentage of the total amount already in the hands of L. F. Holland, collector. Approximately 85 per cent of the assessments have been paid, Mr. Holland said today. Payment of auto licenses for 1927 have been slow, however, with an estimated 1,500 cars being operated in the county now without the new license. Many drivers of cars without the new plates have been haled before authorities and some have paid fines, with officers continually on the lookout.

School Taxes Better

Payment of school tax assessments this year has been much better than last year, with a little more than 80 per cent of the total already in. A. C. Jackson said today. The assessed valuation of taxes for schools this year is about $20,000 more than last year, and collections are said by Mr. Jackson to be fully 90 days ahead of collections a year ago.

An appeal has gone out from the office for the balance of the funds, with the plea that the balance is necessary if schools are to continue unhindered. Officials have expressed much gratification at the co-operation of property owners in the payments.

City taxes are lagging, due mainly to the action of the commission recently in granting a 30 day extension before penalties are attached. R. A. Holland, collector said. Only about 55 per cent of the assessments have been paid, although collections in the city were just about on par with the two other agencies when the commission's action was taken, Mr. Holland said.

Mercury Rises In West Texas Today

Heavy clouds which dripped intermittent showers of mist, continued to hang over the South Plains Thursday, second day of the first February cold wave, this year, but the mercury which yesterday hung around 20 throughout the day was on a steady rise, and all indications are that the spell has spent its force.

The temperature early Thursday stood around 25, with 24 being the lowest point reached during Wednesday night. The moister or snowy sleet and ice that has covered the ground since Tuesday night, was slowly disappearing.

Forecasts for Friday promise some sunshine, with warmer weather, except possibly in the southeast portion of the Panhandle.

Wichita Falls Sees Sunshine

WICHITA FALLS, Feb. 10. (AP)—A bright sun Thursday was rapidly clearing all traces of the snow which accompanied the severe cold wave of Tuesday night and Wednesday in Northwest Texas and Oklahoma. The mercury here was rising from a low point of 22 degrees reached Wednesday night. The biting north wind had subsided.

Houston Man Faces Charges Of Murder

HOUSTON, Feb. 10. (AP)—G. Earl Taylor, 37, of Belleville, was arraigned on a $2,000 bond Thursday following a habeas corpus hearing on a charge of murder. The charge was filed late Wednesday in connection with the shooting of W. Allison Johnson, five Institute graduate near here on the night of July 31.

The case was turned over to the Harris county grand jury. Statements of two men and two girls said to have been with Taylor on the night of the shooting led to Taylor's arrest.

SCHREINER BURIAL SCHEDULED

KERRVILLE, Texas, Feb. 10. (AP)—Funeral services for Captain Charles Schreiner, capitalist and philanthropist, of Kerrville who died Wednesday, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the home, the Rev. W. F. Dickey of the First Presbyterian church here officiating. Burial will be in Glen Rest cemetery here.

Harold McCormick, Harvester King, And Ganna Walska, Singer, To Split, Claim

All Set To Grab Another Big Fee

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Feb. 10. (AP)—Harold McCormick, of the Harvester family of millionaires, denied today that his wife, Ganna Walska, beautiful Polish singer, is to divorce him.

"I know nothing about the divorce case" because there is nothing to it, Mr. McCormick asserted upon his arrival home from New York.

Ganna Walska Silent

PARIS, Feb. 10. (AP)—Ganna Walska today refused to discuss reports that she and her husband, Harold F. McCormick, had separated and that a divorce was contemplated.

Friends Confirm It

NEW YORK, Feb. 10. (AP)—The romance of Harold F. McCormick, Harvester Machinery company, magnate, and Ganna Walska, singer, is at an end and a Paris divorce is impending, the New York American says today. Confirmation of reports of their separation has been obtained from friends, the paper says.

Mr. McCormick left New York for Chicago yesterday, the newspaper says to confer with Clarence Darrow over the separation, and before he left, he told friends that he and Mme. Walska were "through forever."

SENDS NOTE TO POWERS ASKING AID FROM THEM

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10. (AP)—Once more the United States has undertaken to lead the world toward a scaling down of naval armaments.

In a note to Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, President Coolidge has suggested that treaties to that end be negotiated without delay at the Geneva conference.

The proposal would extend downward to smaller warships, the limitations imposed at the Washington conference—on first-class naval craft. The same proposal was made by the United States at the Washington conference but failed of acceptance.

Sends Message to Congress

In a special message to congress announcing what he had done, Mr. Coolidge declared that despite the principles laid down at the conference here in 1921, "certain powers" have laid down far-reaching naval building programs suggesting the shadow of another world wide race among nations to outbid one another.

He suggested also that the Geneva discussions initiated by the League of Nations, are threatened with deadlock if the powers proceed along their present lines of negotiations.

So far as land and air armaments are concerned the president evidenced a willingness to let foreign powers work out an agreement of their own.

The land and air forces of the United States, he said, are at a minimum and constitute a threat to no one.

Came Without Warning

The message fell upon congress without warning, in the midst of a controversy over construction of three new cruisers. Overriding the president's recommendation, the senate has voted to authorize this construction.

Dillon Jury Is Yet Without Agreement

The jury in the case of J. W. Dillon, local hotel and confectionery proprietor, who is charged with violation of the prohibition law, was still out after 24 hours of deliberation. The case was given the jury at 2:15 Wednesday.

While the Dillon jury was deliberating W. A. Duke, Lubbock county man charged also with violation of the law, was on trial. The state rested its case about noon, and the defendant took his own defense. Duke was arrested last December at his home about three miles northeast of Stanton, and is facing three counts, in addition to another count now pending after his arrest last Sunday on a similar charge. The case is expected to be completed today.

Farm Bureau's Man Opens Office Here

She Does The Work of 53 Men

Only Woman Carillon Player in United States Is Frail and Her Hands Operate Ten-Ton Bells

Mrs. Ruth Conniston

BY VIRGINIA SWAIN
For NEA Service

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Ruth Conniston is holding down the job of not one man—but 53.

She is the only woman carillon player in America and temporarily the mistress of one of the finest sets of church chimes in the world, the 550,000 bells given to the Park Avenue Baptist church by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in memory of his mother.

Is Memory Reducer

And she controls 53 bells, each one of which would require a man bell ringer, under the old system of playing chimes, such as obtains in England even today.

Her delicate feminine hands operate a keyboard of levers connected with 53 strings—48—weight from twenty pounds to ten tons. The largest bell has a clapper weighing three hundred pounds, but it knows its master—its mistress, rather. When Mrs. Conniston strikes the levers, they never miss their target.

"This job of carillon playing has always been considered too arduous for a woman," Mrs. Conniston admits. "It is a grinding work—and an excellent weight reducer. She has several pounds a month, consistently, on a fasting diet."

Not For All Obese

But she does not recommend carillon playing to every woman who wants to get thin. Tennis, golf, rolling exercise and a starvation diet are less wearing on the nerves—and the hands, she says.

For despite her rubber gloves with their heavy padding, Mrs. Conniston keeps her hands in a constant state of abrasion, by the impact upon the bell levers. And what a job it is for splinters! They cling to her little fingers as things cling to a magnet.

But the job has its compensations. High up above Park Avenue in her little watch tower alone, Ruth Conniston has the thrilling pleasure of sending her music out through space to all the dwellers of north Manhattan, as a voice of peace and serenity and faith in the midst of black materialism.

Goes Over WJZ Radio

Automobiles almost block the streets below at the hour when the chimes are expected to play. And throughout the city, and the country, for that matter, millions of listeners hear her music on the radio, broadcast at seven o'clock each Sunday evening by WJZ. This carillon playing offers a wide chance for satisfaction of the ear!

And anybody who has mastered it has an excellent right to that satisfaction. For the carillon musician is strictly "on his own" when he takes up the art. There are practically no precedents, and no music written for the instrument.

Improvises Her Own

Mrs. Conniston is obliged to improvise her own accompaniment to every hymn she plays. And there are specific problems of composition.

"The first thing the bells can be started but they cannot be stopped. Having struck one note, the player must not strike others that will make a discord with it, until the first note's vibrations have died away.

Then, too, there is the question of overtones. A bell note is not a pure tone. It is compounded of many vibrations above and below the main tone, and these vibrations will interfere with harmony of later chords, unless the player is very skillful.

The best music for the carillon is rich in arpeggios and broken chords with a strong, simple melody. Heretofore, the instrument is different from others. The melody is carried by the deep, rich notes of the bass, which the smaller bells—higher in the scale—suple out the accompaniment.

Uses Hands and Feet

CITY PLUMBING CASE SET FOR TRIAL MARCH 2

CONSTITUTIONALITY OF LAW ON STATE BOOKS BEING ATTACKED

The city of Lubbock has been granted a petition to advance the hearing before the court of appeals at Amarillo, in which the city is plaintiff in the case styled Mayor Pink L. Parrish et al vs. J. E. Wright et al, attacking the constitutionality of a state statute which provides for the creation of any city after it reaches a certain population, of an examining board for all plumbing work in the city affected.

The hearing is in connection with a petition filed in district court here by plumbers of this city following repeal of an ordinance by the city which created such a board, seeking a writ of mandamus forcing the city to pass another similar ordinance. The writ was granted in court here. The hearing before the appeals court has been set for March 2.

The ruling by the court came on the strength of a statute in Texas which requires that each city after it reaches a certain population, must pass such an ordinance. The statute of the city formerly contained such a law, but about two years ago, the ordinance was repealed on the grounds that it tended to create a monopoly for plumbers established here.

The city contends that even though the ordinance is provided for under state law, it is unconstitutional, and officials say that the case will eventually be taken to the supreme court for final decision as to the constitutionality of the state law.

Desert Flower Crop Spoils Movie Film

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Feb. 10.—Here are two samples of how overhead charges pile up in motion pictures.

A company "shooting" on the desert, was driven off by a storm. Two weeks later the company returned to find the desert waste totally changed by the wild flowers that followed the rain. All the desert scenes had to be retaken.

Adolph Menjou and his company traveled 1,000 miles to include a newborn colt in one scene. When they reached the colt's stable it was raining and the owner would not let the baby be taken out in the wet weather. Menjou et al waited three days until the colt was too old to take the newborn part, and had to scour the country for another.

RUTH RETURNS YANK CONTRACT, UNSIGNED

ROUSH GOES TO GIANTS; MEUSEL YET UNDECIDED

'BIG BAM' SAYS HE MUST HAVE HIS TERMS OR HE WILL QUIT GAME

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Echoes of the first shots fired in Babe Ruth's long expected contract war with the New York Yankees sounded through the baseball world today.
 Hardly had Colonel Jacob Ruppert, president of the Yankees, announced that the salary conflict was on than the Bambino levelled his guns on New York, all the way from Hollywood, where he is making a movie.
 The Babe has returned the contract Ruppert offered him unsigned, he said, because the terms called for the same salary he has received for three years—$12,000. And unless better terms are offered him, why "I'll quit baseball," he announces.
 To Be Barred at Camp
 Colonel Ruppert said the big home-run hitter would not be allowed to report to the training camp at St. Petersburg, Florida, until he signed a new contract. Right back across the country came Ruth's declaration that he would report at camp on March 5 whether or not the contract question has been settled by that time.
 "I'm not saying what terms I want or what I would accept," Ruth said. "That's to be worked out with the club owners, but unless the terms are satisfactory, I'll quit baseball if necessary. I wouldn't like to do that, of course."
 Babe is thought to have demanded a contract covering several years with the figure in the vicinity of $100,000 a year.
 A second New York favorite, also in movie work on the coast, Emil Meusel, meanwhile became embroiled in a controversy between the Brooklyn Robins and Cincinnati Reds as to which club would boast his services in 1927. The Robins through President Wilbert Robinson, offered Meusel an agreement had been made with the former Giant outfielder for 1927 just as Manager Jack Hendricks of the Reds was reporting the same thing.
 Roush to New York
 Meusel, who purchased his release from the Giants last fall, was reported by Brooklyn to have accepted, by telegram Monday, a contract at a figure reported to be $10,000 a year, to be in Hollywood Monday, Robinson said. Hendricks said he had accepted Meusel's terms and announced that Cincinnati had traded Eddie Roush, crack outfielder, first baseman, for George Kelly, Cleveland batter, one of the most respected and sensational in a win-win-wholesale changes and barter, completed yesterday. No cash was involved.
 In acquiring Roush, John McGraw had added to his lineup another excellent fielding star and powerful hitter to team at an attraction with Rogers Hornsby, former Cardinal manager. Roush, traded to Cincinnati from the Giants for Buck Herzog, in 1926, has ranked among the most brilliant outfielders in baseball for ten years.
 Kelly, a fielding star who bats over left, probably will be used in the Cincinnati outfield because of pressure on the Red's first baseman, Wally Pipp, also a former Yankee. Kelly will be supplanted in the Giant infield by Bill Terry.

Suggests Federal Control of Pro Baseball

Congressman Clyde Kelly Thinks Government Should Intervene

By Congressman Clyde Kelly of Pennsylvania
 (Written for NEA Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Baseball has grown into a great business enterprise with millions invested in permanent plants, and yearly expenditures also amounting into the millions. But that is an insignificant phase of the situation which involves the honesty of baseball, the distinctive national sport.
 Baseball does not belong to those who commercialized it. It belongs to the American boy. It would be better to destroy the business organization entirely than to make baseball a synonym for crooked and dishonest tactics in the mind of the boy.
 The normal boy worships his baseball hero. He knows his record by heart. To the boy, the baseball star is a great idol, without fear and without reproach. It is a serious thing to strike down that faith. The man who would do it without justification not only injures a player, he commits a crime against boyhood.
 If the conduct of organized ball is such that it kills the boy's faith in his honesty, it means the destruction of something greater than fine gold and precious stones. It means putting a cynical sneer on the fact of boyhood, the poison of unbelief in the heart of youth.
 The action of a few crooked ball players will not work this great injury. But if it is believed that the whole organized game is riddled with cheating and game fixing in which honor and applauder super-players have their grubby part, then indeed has American boyhood been betrayed.
 Therefore, it is of tremendous importance that while every crook should be driven out of baseball, no honest player should be branded as a crook.
 Congress is not interested in baseball? It is so unimportant? We are laboriously dealing with questions not one-tenth as important as that of keeping faith with the American boys, twenty millions of them under the age of 18 today. We are devoting attention to problems of groups, while baseball holds the interest of every community in America.
 Congress has no power? There is a mandate for Congress to act when the states cannot act. No state can regulate such a nationwide organization. The problem of responsible baseball cannot be met in piecemeal and by fractions.
 Recent events prove the necessity of qualified control under a responsible authority. For the sake of the game, for the sake of the American boy, Congress should interfere and make sure that in the future there will be no such a thing as a "game fixer" and that when a dishonest hero is made an outlaw it will be because he is guilty of betrayal of the game.

LOCAL GOLFERS BECOME ACTIVE

Membership Drive Starts Soon For Municipal Association President Wilson Says

Plans have been started here for annual renewal of memberships in the Lubbock Municipal Golf association, effective March 1, and all indications are that this year will be the most successful in the short life of the association, Vaughn E. Wilson, president said Thursday.
 New membership cards are now being printed, and will be ready in a few days, Mr. Wilson said, in expressing his anticipation of several hundred active members for the coming fiscal year. The annual fee is $10, entitling the holder to all privileges of the course, and all local citizens are urged to use the annual card instead of the nominal amount established for each game.
 For the accommodation of visitors to the city, the rules of the association provide for a small green fee to help in maintenance of the course. It was said today that at least seven of the greens on the nine hole course will be rebuilt as it was last fall when most play stopped.
 Maintenance work has been carried on through the winter, and the course is now in very good condition. Located in a picturesque setting in the Yellowhouse canyon just east of the city limits, the course presents an all-year play ground, and is one of the best in West Texas. Many improvements, however, are planned for this year.

Matadors Take First Of Two Game Series With Highly Touted Quintet From Sam Houston Normal, 26 To 16

The highly heralded Orange clad casters of the Sam Houston State Teachers College lost their first encounter with the greatly improved machine of the Tech Matadors here last evening on the Tech assembly hall by a score of 26 to 16. Since the last appearance of the flashy jersied basketeers of Texas Tech an astonishing and striking improvement both in the offense and defense departments was distinctly brought out in the last evening's performance. Only one time during the exhibition were the Matadors threatened from a closer margin than four points, which was near the middle time of the second period when the visiting quintet created a rally and brought their count from 18 to 6 to 18-14. As the limited system concluded the flaming scarlet clad indoor performers were leading the Houstonians with a twelve point margin.
 At the times the Bearcats were cutting the Matador margin down, Captain Dennis Vincent saw fit to call a halt in the scoring spree of the visitors and get the Tech machine back into smooth action. After a short conference, the Tech five once called time and gradually piled up a margin that was never threatened for the remainder of the encounter.
 Game Starts Slowly
 When Referee Von Tungeth blew the starting whistle both clubs worked slowly and cautiously for five minutes of play had passed before either of the teams chalked up a point. The Teachers were the first to score when Rogers Bearcat guard and captain, registered with a free pass from a personal foul by Percy Walker. It was not long, however, until Alvin Pace, fleet forward of the Tech forces shot his team into a lead with a rapid fire of short loopers. Pace led the floor workers in scoring honors with a total of six loopers during the evening, five of which were registered in the initial period. Holman, forward for the Grange clad crew, topped the visitors in the scoring ability with a total of ten points, four field goals, and two free tosses.
 The Huntsville touring machine of Sam Houston College was baffled when it rushed into the strong defense of the Higginbotham crew and forced the Bearcats to fling the sphere from long distances. Even though the visitors displayed good form on their distant shots they were inaccurate in judging the ring and none of their attempts were registered. Rash, substitute center, was the only man on the Bearcat crew that was able to sink a counter other than those chalked up by Holman. Two free tosses were counted by Hopper, substitute forward, and Rogers and Richardson counted one free-attempt each.
 Hemphill Goes Good
 "Andy" Hemphill, husky pivot man for the Matadors, was a giant dynamo of the Tech machine. His work was evident in most every play and was a pillar under both his goal and the opposing goal. Three personal fouls were ruled on him during the fracas and each of them were called while jumping in the center ring. Although he had three personal fouls attached to his statistical column of the scorers book at the end of the first half Hemphill carried on the same characteristic of play in the last period and remained in the game for the entire evening. Aside from the stellar work of Hemphill, Captain Vincent and Percy Walker both staged a wonderful defensive game breaking into the well trained

Largest Cotton Crop Ever Harvested Here
 Lubbock county the past fall has harvested the largest cotton crop in its history, with much of the staple still in the fields untouched, according to David F. Eaton, county farm agent, who estimated that 60,000 bales already have been ginned in the county.
 Through the sledding process of gathering, it is estimated that at least 7,000 bales were lost in the fields on the stalk in fields, in the opinion of Mr. Eaton. Much of that now gathered will not be harvested, it was said.

Billy Evans Says:

Power carries the biggest thrill in all forms of sport.
 The punch is a greater factor than science in achieving fame in the athletic world.
 It is far more scientific to lay down a perfect punt and beat it out than knock the ball over the fence.
 That no one ever enthralls over a punt in baseball. It takes a Babe Ruth home run over the garden wall to make the fans roar and slap their unknown neighbor on the back just as if he were a lifelong friend.
 The boxer with the fancy foot work will never compare with the fighter who packs a "hay" wallop in either hand. The abysmal brute in the fighter makes a far greater hit than the scientific mind.
 Walter Hagen's Views
 Yet power has its limitations unless it is combined with rhythm.
 Last winter while hobnobbing with a number of the leading professional golfers I heard the pro and con of the question.
 I was particularly interested in the impressions of Walter Hagen, who to my thinking is about the last word as a stylist, both as to dress and golf.
 "Power is a big factor in golf, but power alone will never get anyone below the 100 class," said Hagen.
 "With power there must be correct timing, perfect rhythm, absolute co-ordination of mind and body."
 "Some of the longest drivers in the golf game are small of stature. Naturally they combine power timing and rhythm."
 Getting Line On Truth
 The following day the truth of what Walter Hagen had said was brought forcibly home. I was in St. Petersburg, Fla., at the time, where the New York Yankees were in training.
 Going out to the ball park I had an opportunity to see Babe Ruth in action. Never in my life had I seen him look better. In training all winter he was in perfect physical condition.
 It was a warm spring day and had it not been for Babe Ruth's club swinging act, would have been mighty uncomfortable.
 Against very ordinary pitching the Babe was missing as many balls as he hit. In fine shape, the power was there, but it was apparent something else was lacking.
 Timing and Rhythm
 Then, my mind reverted back to Hagen's conversation of the day previous, that power alone wouldn't get you anywhere in golf. I realized the same held good for baseball.
 Babe had plenty of power, but the timing and rhythm was lacking. There was no co-ordination of brain and brawn. The winter's rest had taken its toll.
 Jack Dempsey looked in great shape when he lost the title to Tunney. He seemed to have plenty of power, but when the opportunity presented itself to slip over a punch something held him back or else his effort was wild.
 Out of the ring for three years, his timing was sadly at fault.

THIS NOW
 which combats the scientific method, etc.

BRISTLING BATTLES OF BARE FIST DAYS
 MY LIFE STORY
 by Jack McAuliffe

"Bim" Buckley was then political boss of Frisco and related to Jimmy Colville in my party. We went to him with the facts in the case, explaining the high-handed attitude of the club officials, who would not let Dempsey second me against Carroll. Buckley came through with a rush and forced a fair deal for us right away.
 Hiram Cook was announced as the referee and the fight was on.
 As I said I figured Carroll was yellow and the only way to beat a coward is go after him. I started the fight with this purpose in mind and his not long learning I had been wrong.
 Carroll was game enough to take anything I had and was coming to so strongly I was used up in rounds.
 All the time I was waiting for the blow. The tenth round started I saw La Blanche, who was seconding Carroll, say "Now" and I prepared for it. Sure enough, Carroll started it. I stepped back as he whistled and clipped him on the jaw with everything I had in a right-hand punch.
 Wham—he went down, banging his head on the floor and never even moved while Cook counted ten, twenty, thirty. Everybody ran out from my Irish friends and the place was being emptied when a most surprising thing happened.
 Cook ordered the ring cleared and said the fight must continue. Dempsey wanted to commit manslaughter. Carroll meanwhile had been dragged to his corner and revived.
 My right hand was throbbing at every pulse beat from the terrific blow I had dealt Carroll. I was arm weary. I was sick at heart, too, at

Harvard Grid Staff Gets Third Westerner
 Jerome ("Duke") Dunne, who got about $1,500 for coaching Northwestern's line, will draw around $6,000 for ten weeks of work with Harvard's football forwards next fall. The addition of Dunne will make three Mid-Westerners on the Harvard staff. Head Coach Arnold Horween and Dunne are from Chicago while "Chuck" Carney was one of the greatest ends developed at the University of Illinois. Dunne, graduate of Michigan and son of former C. P. Edwards, F. Dunne of Illinois, is a lawyer but loves football so much he ducks it practice each autumn.

Mostil Credits Edward Collins

By NEA Service
CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Johnny Mostil, star center fielder of the Chicago White Sox, regrets the passing of Ed. Collins as manager. He says:
 "What little success I have had as a ball player can be traced back to the coming of Collins as my manager. He made me believe in myself just when my confidence was wavering most.
 "Under the management of Eddie Collins at Chicago, I feel that I have improved my play 50 per cent. When I came to the majors I hoped to be a star and believed I would.
 "Then came several years of mediocre success, in which several managers didn't think as much of my ability as I did. They discouraged me and I was wavering when Collins took charge of the Sox.
 "He must have known my faults, because under him I began to play the game I believed I was capable of. I only hope I do as well for Ray Schalk, who succeeded him."
 When Eddie Collins took charge of the Chicago club in 1925, he told Mostil to run wild. He proceeded to steal 43 bases, six times as many as in the previous season.

Gardening-A Good Game

GARDENING is a family sport. Every member of the household can be interested in it. While affording instructive recreation it also pays you a wonderful profit in the form of fresh vegetables all summer and fall—even for winter if you will cook pack varieties, such as Corn, Beans, Beets, Carrots, etc.

A small garden is very much worth while. A space 20x25 feet will well repay you if used for beans, radishes, beets, lettuce, carrots, spinach, etc.—the quick growers. A larger area permits growing sweet corn, peas, melons, tomatoes, and the root crops for winter storage.

To utilize your land to best advantage, plan your garden right away. Also plan to use seed that bears a reputation for producing good crops over a long period of years. Northrup, King & Co.'s seeds have given satisfaction for 42 years. They are available now in packets and cartons

Versatility—That's A Utopia of Content

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Found one contented man—Emil Fuchs, the artist.

"I'm the happiest man I know," he admits. "I have no wife, no child, no family ties, no unachieved ambitions, no desire for great wealth, no regrets. He is no longer young. But he has his art, his independence, his many pursuits, his philosophy—and two Persian cats."

"Loving art as I do," he says, "it would be an injustice for me to have a wife or family. It would be a waste just as it is to offer a good, delicately seasoned, epicurean treat to an inveterate smoker. His palate does not need or appreciate it."

The Secret
"Happiness," he goes on, "need not be a mirage. The secret lies in planning your life not only for work but for leisure. Branch out early in life. Cultivate resources and pleasures outside of your principal occupation. The more interested you are in your work the more necessary it becomes to have a counter balance in some quite different line. Then when you are ready to cease such feverish activity in life, you can carry on more leisurely in lines that require less concentrated effort."

"See my kitten here," he stroked a gray ball of fur that rubbed against his foot. "Now it is a baby, so it spends all its time scampering around, bumping its head and using up its energy. When it is older, it will understand that so much activity is not necessary and will curl contentedly beside the fireside."

Versatile
Fuchs, besides being a sculptor, portrait painter and etcher, is an international fame, is an accomplished musician who composes for his own pleasure, an author of books and epigrams, an excellent horseman, a fencer of sufficient skill to hold the junior championship of this country in 1916 and 1917—and recently he has developed a new pursuit, that of radio speaker.

"I am versatile, that I may not be bored," he explains. "Boredom curdles creative ability. With many avocations and interests one has no time to realize how quickly life is passing by. To realize it would make happiness impossible."

Fuchs believes the reason for the restlessness and unhappiness of many Americans, particularly those who have amassed large fortunes, is that in their desperate effort to become rich they have cultivated none of the graces of leisure. Consequently when they have time, they know not what to do with it.

"Then they try to find in night clubs, in theaters, and in places of amusement the satisfaction that can come only from themselves."

"We cannot, or do not always earn our livings by the pursuit we most love. Probably not more than one man in a hundred really drifts into exactly what he would like. Often he doesn't know what he wants, so he is drawn into what is nearest, or into his father's line of work, or he allows others to decide for him. And because his enthusiasm and his heart is not in his work, he never develops to his utmost capacity."

A Viennese
"Such persons particularly need avocations. Sports alone are not sufficient. There should be a creative outlet if it is nothing more than tinkering with tools in the basement, or painting indifferent pictures in the attic."

Early in life, Fuchs decided to become an artist. Born in Vienna, he studied there, then in Germany and Rome and lived in practically all the European capitals until he came to America some 20 years ago on a visit.

He likes New York so much he opened a studio here and for several years spent his winters here and his summers in London. Later he became a citizen, and now spends all of his time here.

His Day
His morning is spent in painting. Luncheon, his only substantial meal, is followed by an hour of leisure and relaxation. In the afternoon he goes back to his work, and quite as frequently as not works until midnight. Dinner with him is a bowl of lettuce or soup. When he does not paint in the evening, he usually writes or plays his piano.

"That, too, is part of my secret of happiness—I depend upon myself, not upon others, for entertainment as well as work."

"To be a happy artist is better than to be a discontented millionaire."

State Briefs

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN.—Governor Moody called special elections for March 5 in the 41st and 126th legislative districts to fill the house seats left vacant by the expulsion of Representatives Moore and Dale.

KERRVILLE.—Pat Forrest, charged with the murder of W. H. Gray in Bandera county, was placed in jail here for his trial which starts Tuesday.

TEXARKANA.—Willis Skinner escaped from the DeKalb prison farm and was recaptured by bloodhounds. Alva Harris was still at large.

DALLAS.—Three men recently pardoned by Governor Ferguson were under arrest here charged with felonies. They were Fred Skidmore, Clyde Masonheimer and Fred Berkett.

NACONA.—Lee Smith and a man named Gunter escaped from jail at Montague, after a struggle with the jailer.

KERRVILLE.—Charles Schneider, 32, cattleman and philanthropist, died Wednesday.

AUSTIN.—Twenty five hundred Mexican quail, secured from the Brewerville district, are being sent out by the state game, fish and oyster commission to stock preserves in 13 counties.

AUSTIN.—Proposed revision of the pardoning power of the governor met defeat in the senate when that body refused to engross a resolution designed to give the legislature a hand in such affairs.

DISARMAMENT

tion and the house, although it once has rejected the proposal, appears somewhat disposed to accept the senate viewpoint in conference.

Some of the most influential leaders of the president's own party, including Speaker Longworth, have thrown their support behind the building plan.

Should Mr. Coolidge's suggestion be accepted by the powers, and treaties negotiated to carry it into effect, cruisers would be one of the classes of ships directly affected by any limitation agreed upon.

Effect Was Apparent
Sent to the capitol by messenger, the special message was read in senate and house early in today's session but the possible effect on the entire cruiser plan was not immediately apparent.

Great secrecy has been observed in preparation and transmission of the American note to the powers. Apparently but a very small handful of senators or representatives had any inkling of the move until the message reached the capitol, and some members of the cabinet expressed surprise when they heard of it. Arrangements had been made, however, for publication of the note through the American embassies abroad simultaneously with delivery of the president's message to congress.

Would Instruct Delegates
WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—President Coolidge has suggested to the powers that they empower their delegates to the Geneva preparatory commission for disarmament, "to negotiate and conclude at an early date an agreement further limiting naval armament."

The suggestion went to Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, and was announced to the world today by President Coolidge in a special message to congress.

The proposal is that the agreement be made supplementing the naval limitation treaty of Washington, "and covering the classes of vessels not covered by treaty."

Text of Note Given
The text of the note to the powers was included in the message to congress. It said in part:

"Although hesitating at this time to put forward rigid proposals as regards the ratios of naval strength to be maintained by the different powers, the American government, for its part, is disposed to accept, in regard to those classes of vessels not covered by the Washington treaty, an extension of the 5-5-3 ratio as regards the United States, Great Britain and Japan, and to leave to discussion at Geneva, the ratios of France and Italy, taking into full ac-

Briand Has Joke When News Is Dry

GENEVA, Feb. 16.—The humorist among European statesmen is Mr. Briand, the foreign minister of France. When reporters badger him for "political" information, he never says no and never gets angry. He can't say anything helpful he always tells a little joke. At a meeting of the Council all the foremost members were taking a crack at experts in general and in particular at experts who thought they knew something about the complicated problem of adopting the system of proportional representation at elections.

Mr. Briand said solemnly: "I thought I was the great international expert on this subject. I fought and pleaded for it in the Chamber of Deputies. I rose to superb heights of oratory. I thought I was irresistible. And within half an hour the Chamber overthrew my ministry. And now you know what I think of experts."

The American government, and people like the president said, "are convinced that a competitive armament constitutes one of the most dangerous contributing causes of international suspicion and discord and are calculated eventually to lead to war."

Despite the hope of the United States to complete the work of the Washington treaty and extend limiting treaties to cover cruisers, destroyers and submarines, the message continued, "far reaching building programs have been laid down by certain powers, and there has appeared in our own country, as well as abroad, a sentiment urging naval construction on the ground that such construction is taking place elsewhere."

"Actually, I do not believe that competitive building of these classes of ships has begun," the president said.

He added, however, that in such sentiments as he had referred to, "lies the germ of renewed naval competition."

A "Zinc Well" Spouts Among Oil Derricks

MIAMI, Okla., Feb. 15.—Okla. has long noted for its oil wells, now has something new in the way of mineral production—a "zinc well."

When the water flowing through the pipes of a mine near here began depositing a clinging substance which clogged the conduits, the plant engineers investigated. Analysis of the water revealed that it contained 0.704 per cent zinc, they said.

Metal experts declare the chemist who finds a cheap way to precipitate this zinc has a fortune assured. Riches may be pumped at the rate of $500 an hour, they say.

Texan, Too Ill To Laugh, Now Happy, Healthy Again

San Antonio police officer, wrecked in health and spirits, for many months "Forgot how to laugh." Tanlac toned up his system, gave him back glowing, radiant health.

Officer A. Valdes is well known in San Antonio, Texas, and lives at 2015 San Luis St. Speaking of his distressing experience, he said: "For many months I was run down by stomach trouble and acute indigestion. My weight dropped from 170 to 135 lbs. in that time. Biliousness, constipation and dizzy headaches combined to keep me in misery. My liver, too, was sluggish and gave me a lot of trouble. Just as a policeman stops a law-breaker, Tanlac arrested all those troublesome symptoms and drove them out of my system. And they haven't come back. I'm feeling as energetic and strong as an officer of the law should be. My wife, too, has been helped greatly by Tanlac. She and I are enjoying the best health of our whole lives. I'm up to 170 lbs. now—a gain of 41 lbs!"

Glowing health is the birthright of every man and woman. Overwork and neglect are the enemies of health.

If they have sapped your vitality, build it back with Tanlac. It is nature's own remedy, made from roots, herbs and herbs. Your druggist has it. Get a trial bottle today. 60¢ and $2 million bottles sold.

Kiwanians Lend Courteous Ear To Clowing Of Newspapermen As Three Act Play Is Presented At Meeting

Members of the Lubbock Kiwanis club, in regular weekly luncheon sessions today were greeted with a program offered by members of the Avallanche-Journal staff. Six members of the staff took part in a three act play, preceded by a general talk by Lawrence D. Roderick. Other members of the program were James L. Dow, Charles A. Giv, Otho B. Jarvis, Joseph H. Griffith and Daniel Fenley. Throughout the program the club men gave courteous attention to the giving of the actors and after the play was over the membership seemed about evenly divided concerning the success of the occasion.

Following the program Claude McDaniel, a member of the club, asked permission to write the account of the program. Mr. McDaniel's report follows:

The six members of the staff of the Evening Avalanche and Evening Journal were requisitioned into the three act play portraying the less sublime features of Lubbock newspaper-making. It falls to an outsider to report the interesting little affair. A very hot burning sense of professional modesty prevents the boys giving themselves a just write up of their stunt.

Mr. McCormick followed two days later but returned to the United States alone within two months, saying he would rejoin his wife after attending to business here. The chairman of the board of the International Harvester company and Mrs. Walska, widow of a Russian cavalry officer, were suddenly married in Paris in 1922. Mr. McCormick is the singer's fourth husband.

The American reports that Mr. McCormick has become a comparatively "poor man" with an income hardly in excess of $10,000 a year. The settlement on Mrs. Walska and a 50 percent allotment of his property to his former wife have reduced his fortune, the newspaper says.

Mrs. Walska's endowment from her various husbands is estimated by the American to be at least $5,000,000.

REBELS BEATEN BY PORTUGUESE

Complete Surrender Made To Federal Forces; Casualty List A Large One

(By The Associated Press)
 LONDON, Feb. 10.—Surrender of the revolutionaries in Lisbon at 10:20 o'clock last night was reported in a dispatch from the Portuguese capital today. The correspondent said the city was quiet and that order had been restored throughout the country. A large number of persons, including combatants he added, were killed or wounded in Lisbon during the fighting between the insurrectionists, the loyal forces, and the property damage is extensive.

The insurgents, who had entrenched themselves in an arsenal surrounded for 41 hours of intense bombardment from field guns and machine guns. To add to the discomfort of the revolutionaries, an airplane dropped three torpedoes into the arsenal, doing much damage.

Navy Supported Revolt
 The revolution broke out in the capital at noon Monday, supported by naval men, a portion of the republican guard, police and a large number of civilians. The insurgents erected barricades in various parts of the city, and the government took energetic measures to crush the movement, ordering out all loyal detachments of the Lisbon garrison, who directed an intense machine gun fire on the insurrectionists.

The orders of the government the rebels who were suspected of favoring the rebels, were promptly disarmed. Thus, it is believed, Lisbon was spared the horrors of a naval bombardment. The insurgents had seized the naval arsenal and the general postoffice, preventing news from leaving the capital.

Surrender Wednesday Night
 PARIS, Feb. 10 (AP)—Portugal's last revolution is over, says a telegram received by the Portuguese diplomatic representative here from the revolutionaries in Lisbon surrendered last night.

The rebels surrendered after being beaten in every quarter, and those who barricaded in the arsenal fled. The cruiser Carvalhao Araujo which was the rebels' headquarters, was shelled by the shore batteries. The crew ran up the white flag and took aboard a German boat.

Washington Himself Picked These Water Power Sites

Great Falls on the Potomac where one of the great power plants is projected.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—George Washington's recently advanced claim to distinction as the greatest business man of his time may soon be convincingly proved in the saving of millions of dollars to the government and some 2,000,000 citizens.

A miniature Muscle Shoals, which will produce electric light and power in the national capital's backyard at about one-half the present rate, is likely to be developed by act of this congress or next.

Two 190 foot dams with power plants on the Potomac river, each to develop 50,000 horsepower to serve the District of Columbia and territory within a hundred mile radius, are provided in legislation proposed by Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska.

Build Two Plants
 The program is known as the "Great Falls project." The Norris bill calls for erection of a dam and power plant to cost $13,000,000 at Chain bridge, three miles from Washington, and similar construction at Great Falls, 14 miles away, to cost $13,515,000.

George Washington's "favorite dream" envisaged the harnessing of beautiful Great Falls to his country's industrial needs. The foundations of his iron mill and grist mill stand there as testimonials to his foresight.

Primarily, the project is designed to supply government buildings and effect an important federal economy, but the people of Washington and surrounding cities and towns of Maryland and Virginia will reap full benefit.

It was originally drafted by Major M. C. Tyler, hydro-electric expert of the army engineer corps, in 1921, after an exhaustive study. It has gained the approval of the U. S. board of engineers, the secretary of war, district commissioners, Washington chamber of commerce, district committee of the house and the federal power commission, which has special jurisdiction over such matters.

A Huge Saving
 Approximately 50,000 horsepower would be used by government and other buildings in Washington and as much again in the hundred mile radius, containing 1,500,000 persons outside the capital. With both plants in operation and with control of water by three supplementary dams further upstream increasing the regular flow to 5,000 feet per second, all this electric current could be developed for $44,421,000, according to the plan's supporters.

The $44,421,000 would be amortized in 20 years, after which the price of current would be expected to drop well below half the present figure. Senator Norris says that even if all electric distribution were left to local utility companies, the people would save two mills per kilowatt hour with a total saving of $1,300,000 a year to the government.

consumers during the 50-year period and $4,500,000 annually thereafter.

In addition, the government departments especially a saving of $5,000,000 annually by using their own power, multiplied with a saving of 200,000 tons of coal, worth more than $5,000,000 at retail, to the nation.

Most impressive of all, congressional friends of the plan argue that if the government should take over transmission and distribution lines, the people of Washington would be saved more than $15,000,000 a year over those figures, and at the same time be paying back the cost of taking them over.

The Norris bill has previously passed the Senate, only to be killed in conference.

Will Continue Fight
 Norris will continue to fight for it, however. He favors complete government ownership and operation. He cites the municipal power plant in Cleveland, which cut the cost of production in half, and points to Seattle and Tacoma, where similar plants have cut electricity costs from 12 and 15 cents to 3 and 1 1/2 cents per kilowatt hour.

Hydro-electric power is the cheapest electric power obtainable. It saves the coal supplies of the nation and the more it is used the cheaper it becomes.

The attorney general has certified that the government has every right to condemn necessary lands and build the projects for government benefit.

The Chain Bridge dam will create a nine-mile lake of great beauty in the Potomac gorge and the Great Falls dam another beautiful lake 24 miles long. Major Tyler's plans call for boulevards on either side of each lake and use of reservoirs by the Cumberland canal boats, thus saving about 45 miles of canals and 18 separate locks now existing at the lower levels. The territory is sparsely settled and no difficulty is expected in acquiring the necessary acreage.

Richard Cavett To Explain His Belief

Richard Cavett, formerly secretary of the Lubbock district and a member of the First Methodist church Epworth League, is to represent his church in the "Know Methodism" oratory contest Saturday evening in the church here, when representatives of other Northwest Texas leagues will speak. The winner to enter a regional contest to be held at Dallas some time this month. The winner of this latter contest will, in turn, enter another such engagement in St. Louis.

Representatives from nine districts are to enter the tilt here, and the leader is entitled to a scholarship in Clarendon College as well as entrance into the Dallas contest. Five subjects relating to Methodism have been selected for the orations.

Smallpox Controlled by City Physician

Smallpox, which for a time threatened to spread into an epidemic here, is now well under control, with no new cases reported during the past six or seven days. Dr. J. W. Hollo, city health officer, said today that about thirty cases have been reported to health authorities during the week.

Vaccinations have been very much ordered the past few weeks, and it is estimated that more than 4,000 have been vaccinated, including about 2,500 school children. The willingness of the people as a whole to co-operate with health officials was assigned by Dr. Hollo as a big factor in curbing the disease.

Editorials Voices From the Dark

A little group of students sat around the fireplace in the parlor of a Madison (W.V.) fraternity house the other night, waiting for a message from the other world.

Before it had come to communicate with them from beyond the grave. Hence the vigil.

The students, it appears, got no message. They waited expectantly but nothing happened.

It's easy to smile and say, "Of course—how could they have expected otherwise?"

But it isn't becoming for any of us to adopt a superior attitude. For that little circle of boys, sitting in the firelight waiting for a voice from beyond the horizon, typifies all of mankind from the dawn of civilization down to the present.

The longing and wonderment of the ages find expression in ways similar to the one those boys adopted. Men grow up through carefree childhood to busy, worried manhood and the friends and loved ones they have made by the way one by one say goodbye and disappear. Men at last discover that death is the one certainty.

So we like our adventures before we sit in the half-dark, by a dying fire and wait for a word from beyond. We yearn for it, feel that we must have it, but it never comes. Children of light we are hemmed in by darkness before and after.

The fire burns low and casts long shadows. We can hardly see one another's faces. The night that hovers over us is uncommunicative.

Yet now and then in the anxious hush, we hear, or seem to hear, faint voices from the starless dark, voices that we cannot wholly understand, but that seem to us to be echoes from the distant ramparts of eternal night, when sentinels cry a loud "All's Well!"

So, comforted, we leave the fire and go about our daily tasks again.

The Father of 34

The president of these United States is a very busy man and many people want to see him. He is so busy in that White House office that delegates of Amalgamated Doughnut Holes, Inc. or presidents of Tireless Autos, Affiliated, may trek across a continent only to be told that Calvin is "not at home."

But Hensley, blind from "down North" Calvey was left his calling card at the White House with no trouble at all the other day.

Reuben's title of "America's champion papa" got him past the guards at the president's door.

Reuben is 73—the widower of one wife, the husband of another, and the father of 34 children, some of whom have died.

Affairs of state are not so great that they can not be suspended for a time while homage is paid to the "father of a mighty race."

Old Master's

Awake! awake! the stars are pale, the east is rufous gray; They fade, behold the phantoms fade, that keep the gates of Day;

Throw wide the burning valves, and let the golden streets be free. The morning watch is past—the watch of evening shall not be.

Put off, put off your mail, ye kings, and beat your brands to dust; A spear grasp your hands must know, your hearts a better trust.

Nay, bend aback the lance's point, and break the helmet bar; A noise is on the morning winds; but not the noise of war!

For aye, the time of wrath is past, and near the time of rest; And hence binds the brow of man, and faithfuls his breast; Behold, the time of wrath is past, and righteousness shall be;

And the Wolf is dead in Arcady and the Dragon in the sea! John Ruskin, from "Some of the Dawn."

IN NEW YORK SEE SAWING and BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—What price scandal? Along Corland street and adjacent channels, where the Wall street bell clerks wander, one realizes the transient value of the sporadically salacious.

With the whispered details of the Browning-Peaches separation suit being brazenly sold in this mart of many suspicious pamphlets for $5 a copy or what-have-you, the intimate details of the Chaplin petition already find themselves in the marked-down list.

The once vastly popular Rhineland letters, selling up to $25 when fresh from the press, now stand yellow with age in back rooms. The Hall-Mills pamphlets looked set appeal it was said. Even at 25 cents they failed to return the investments of the furtive printers of the down town area. The same was the case of the Gerald Chapman booklets.

The dozen and one intimate stories of Rudolph Valentino rather dust upon the news stands, although just off Times Square I saw a vendor of fresh from the press, now stand yellow with age in back rooms.

Hall-Mills pamphlets looked set appeal it was said. Even at 25 cents they failed to return the investments of the furtive printers of the down town area.

These dolorous ballads, I am told, are ground out by the yard and mile in the phonograph record factories. While these seem almost legendary to the Broadwayites, for whom jazz numbers are chiefly made, sale records indicate that through the far north and in the backwoods of the south and northwest there is a terrific sale for numbers that go into four and five records, carrying on some almost endless tale such as was unfolded in one version of "The Prisoner's Song."

One concern was said actually to have figured on selling two and three discs of some record in certain of the backwoods of the north and south.

A ballad based on the Hall-Mills case, which scarcely was heard in New York, was said to have enjoyed a great sale in the outlands and the Floyd Collins disaster song still carries a big sale in certain parts of the south, they tell me.

The story went around the phonograph belt that in one southern town a dealer had to stop playing the record because the crowds about the record were so great.

Styles in songs travel in amusing cycles. Let one type of song catch on and immediately imitators spring up from behind every piano in "tin pin alley."

The last page was for "Bird" songs, following the success of a blackbird number. "Bird" songs have appeared in such numbers that I am told the cat is to come back, as it were.

"Moonlight" songs, done almost to death a season or two ago, now are reappearing for, as one publisher explained, "there's a new gang of kids every year who think they're the only ones the moon ever shined on."

Tango numbers have almost reached their peak and the hard working young piano pounders now struggle with tunes to accompany black bottom steppers. GILBERT SWAN.

Spring styles will look better on a slender figure than on a slender income.

Just as Soon as He Is Able to Digest It

WASHINGTON LETTER

INJUSTICE TO THE PRESS—LANISING MAKES HAY—'EHECK'—SECRETARY KELLY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—It may be as Senators Bruce and Wadsworth say, that very few senators can be prevailed upon to refuse a drink.

But, if so, it must be said for the others that they can carry their liquor.

And not many of them can be prevailed upon to offer a fellow a drink.

An indignant senator is a very rare specimen for one's butterfly-net. There are people who claim to have seen this inspiring sight, but there has been no obvious exhibition on the Senate floor during this session.

Some of them have ever pulled out such a tap-root of evil in this correspondent's presence and it is still a puzzling problem just how strong a man one must hint in order to effect such a phenomenon.

There is danger in office drinking for the head of the local W. C. T. U. from back home may show up at any time for a conference, and with galleries full it is dangerous for senators to raise contraband articles under their desks like kids with notes or lollipops in school.

Senators go into "echeck," as it is called, only on serious occasions. Most "echecks" during this session of Congress have concerned the Lausanne treaty, the pet of Senator Borah.

Others have concerned such matters as consideration of the president's appointment of Cyrus Woods to the Interstate Commerce Commission and discussion of whether Senator-elect Frank Smith of Illinois should be taken in before being booted out.

Once one becomes the subject of an "echeck," he would seem to be out of luck. Smith, Woods and the Lausanne treaty have all been given the gate.

Former Secretary of State Robert Lansing is a silent spectator in these days as the country is agitated by an international situation involving us with China, Mexico and Nicaragua.

Lansing is practicing international law less than a block from the State Department, a genial gentleman who has no desire to get back into the limelight in which he once figured so prominently.

He is counsel for the Chinese government, but he has nothing to say publicly about the Chinese situation or any other—the foreign situation in which his latest successor, Secretary Kellogg, has become involved.

They all think the American Catholics are controlling our foreign policy. They think the head of our State Department is named Secretary of State Frank B. Kelly.

Contemporaries THE GARBAGE CONTROVERSY

"You didn't pick up those tin cans!" "Yes, we did. Besides, they were in a big paper box and we don't have to pick 'em up."

Thus the controversy goes on throughout the winter and so probably on into the hot, fermenting, fly-time of spring. It was brought out in one of the cases of City Health Department vs. McGuinn and Pryor, private garbage collectors, at the city commission meeting last Tuesday night.

Not in those words, but in that spirit of harangue has the battle continued, with the garbage cans and trash stumbling peacefully in some alley.

Prohibition, probably is the greatest curse of mankind—to argue, to appoint committees, to take under advisement. Only a few executives have the rugged initiative to drive direct to the heart of a matter.

The city has six health inspectors, three of them on garbage. Why does the city manager get a list of the routes McGuinn and Pryor say their wagons cover? Have an inspector follow them for one night. Either they did not, if they passed a residence, was there a regulation garbage can or trash box there or not? It can't be ascertained, either there was or there wasn't.

If McGuinn and Pryor did not follow the routes on the schedule twice a week, the matter is ended. They violated their contract and a resident could not be blamed for not troubling to purchase suitable containers if they would not be collected anyway.

If they did make the routes and the inspector found garbage and refuse in unlawful containers, then definitely warn the resident or fine him, according to the terms of the garbage ordinance.

A week the blame would be laid positively, the wrangling over, and the city in some semblance of sanitation with the hot, decomposing temperatures of summer rushing on a city straining under boom conditions.—Amarillo Globe.

A REAL EDUCATOR IS DEAD

Public school teachers of this section of Texas are mourning the death of E. L. White, formerly superintendent of the McCulloch county schools and later chief of rural schools for the State Department of Education.

He was from to death a few days ago in Wyoming, according to dispatches received by McCulloch county friends. Mr. White served for five years in McCulloch, beginning his duties there in 1912.

He was regarded as one of the most efficient school supervisors that county has ever had, and was able to wield a great deal of influence in the Mid-Texas Teachers Association in the early days of its organized work.

Many remember him kindly and regret his death.—Brownwood Bulletin.

Much Help For Needy At Christmas But Not Much Available Now, Says Miss Mae Murfee In Latest Report

Plenty of people were willing to assist the needy and sick at Christmas and there was food, clothing and help for any number that might have deserved aid at that time, but with the opening of February it is not so easy to cheer and bring assistance.

Maintaining a willing service bureau, going night and day to visit the sick, comfort the sorrowing, report to the churches, the doctors and the employers, the government and the officers of the law, the secretary's report for December and January showed extensive activities.

Many Jobs Secured Jobs were secured for 20 needy people during the two months in addition to jobs that were found for six ex-service men, and among these were widows with children that must be kept in school. Clothing and food were often taken these families with food, medicine and other necessities.

Every year there is an influx of boys from other states who have run away and are seeking employment. Parents of three such youngsters were located during the two months and the boys were returned to them.

states, who were stranded in Lubbock were helped by the Red Cross, the report shows.

Woman Is Aided One woman, who has become discouraged trying to make her wages keep the home while her husband drank to excess and who had fled to Lubbock, was assisted with food and clothing and finally persuaded to return to the home of relatives. Orphaned and widowed Mexicans were helped.

At Christmas the secretary had many calls for lists of needy and these were furnished the Avalanche-Journal, Methodist, Christian and Episcopal churches, the Girl Reserves and III Y organizations of the high schools. In addition to this, the secretary carried Boy Scout troops on tours visiting the needy and shut-ins and helping them about Christmas, kindling and doing other old jobs, in the homes, and assisted the Juniper Girl Reserves in arranging and distributing cheer baskets at Christmas.

She cooperated with members of the Legion Auxiliary in preparing comfort bags and hospital packages and sent Christmas packages, toys, food and fuel to the aged, helpless, small children prisoners and sick on Christmas.

The secretary crowded in five health lectures and assisted 40 war veterans in receiving back pay for service in entering hospitals for treatment and in filling out application blanks for money and other help. She also helped relatives of these men in receiving help and money.

Two New Officers Added To Police

In line with a recent announcement by Lubbock police officers that tranquility from school must be curbed, "petting parties" around churches and other public places must stop, and the petty thievery must be curbed.

Two night patrolmen have been added to the police force, here, one of whom has been away for a short time on a death call.

S. Layne, of Lamesa, former deputy sheriff of Dawson county, has been added to the force, and Cap Moore, who recently was called to Hargrett to the funeral of his father, has again taken up his duties. Both are night men.

SAINT AND SINNER

BY ANNE AUSTIN COPYRIGHT 1926 NEA

FOR the first time since Cherry's arrest Faith was not bored Friday afternoon for a visit with her sister in the women's ward "parlor" of the jail. Now that Cherry had been indicted, arraigned and her case set for trial for a month hence, she was not considered "hot copy" any longer; newspapers would give her and her family a measure of space and publicity until the case should come up for trial. Faith, as Faith had been warned by Bob Hathaway, the editor, would be a mecca for feature reporters from all over the country.

Mrs. Webb, the matron of the women's ward of the county jail, received Faith as if she had been an old friend.

"Hello, dearie. You're looking right peaked. What's the thing for you that your mother had to go and do you like that? To think she'll never know whether her baby girl was innocent or not!" And Mrs. Webb shook her gray-haired head with tongue-clicking sympathy.

"Mother would not have believed Cherry guilty if every jury in the land had convicted her," Faith answered sadly. "May I see Cherry now, Mrs. Webb?"

"Sure you can, dearie. She's sure the little lady, and the way she's behaving herself is setting a wonderful example to the other girls—poor dears. You set here and nurse yourself at home," she soothed Faith with unconscious irony. "I'll go fetch her."

When Faith again was holding her adored little sister in her arms, Mrs. Webb wiped an easy tear from her plump cheek and considerably withdrew.

"Bring her a present next time you come darling," Cherry whispered, as the two girls seated themselves. "She adores home-made fudge and taffy. She really is an old darling, even if she does talk my arm off, telling me hair-raising stories of other murderers that she counts among her best friends—as she says." There was a bitter twinkle to the childish, unseeing, possessing a loving hand over the short, gleaming red curls. "You're not a murderer, and you're not to get bitter. I've been to see Churchill, and he wants me to get you some new clothes—before the trial starts."

"And how?" Cherry's voice was scornful but her lips trembled. "Don't work yet, I suppose. I don't know where you're going to get money for food much less to buy clothes for me."

Faith's eyes filled with quick tears but behind them shined a light of pure thankfulness. Cherry was at last thinking of someone besides herself.

"Hush, darling! You mustn't cry like that," Faith begged, her own voice straggling through tears. "They won't let me stay long. Look up now. Smile! That's better! I'll now consider ways and means, and plan for some clothes—"

"If I have to go to trial in Churchill's ideas—" Cherry laughed shakily.

"He knows how to dress you to get the sympathies of the jury," Faith retorted. "Now, first, what about Chris? After all, he's your husband. What can he do for you?"

Color flamed in Cherry's pale cheeks and lightning flashed ominously in her golden eyes.

TOMORROW: Cherry makes a confession to Faith about her wedding night.

Tell Sex In Advance? It Can't Be Done

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Myke, the Health Magazine

HUNDREDS of books are available and innumerable articles have been written to prove that their authors had discovered the secret of the determination of the sex of an unborn child.

Among the peculiar unproven theories which have been advanced are the views that the matter is governed in some manner by the diet; that the amount of sunlight received by the mother has something to do with it; that the age of the parents is the determining factor; that the eating of an unusual amount of sugar will incline toward male; that the side on which the mother rests has some little influence, usually the right side for boys and the left for girls.

As has been stated, practically everyone of these theories has been disproved by the assembling of a sufficient number of statistics to establish the falsity of the view.

A. S. Parks of Manchester, England, studied the records of 8,000 births in a hospital in that city. These figures showed that if the mother is young, the chances are better that the baby will be a boy, and when the mother is over forty, the probability was that the child would be a girl.

However, the proportions were so insignificant that even fanatical race-track enthusiasts would not place a wager upon them. The odds for mothers around twenty years of age would be 1.2 to 1 for a boy, and for mothers under forty years of age 1.1 for a boy.

The best available scientific evidence indicates that heredity is the most important factor in determining the sex of the child.

The female apparently exercises little influence in the matter. The male forms germ cells of two kinds, in one of which male elements predominate and in the other female elements. Apparently the parents can do nothing in influencing the sex of their progeny. The matter is all determined for them in advance.

DON'T SHY AWAY FROM COLLEGE OUTLAWS

I had viewed the matter of the "younger generation" in the light of an epidemic of a war-scare, something that would pass—and I have skipped all scare heads about them with a bored yawn.

But an article by Mrs. Avis D. Carlson, for many years a teacher of English in a state university, was highly significant and not a little alarming. My world turned upside down.

In part Mrs. Carlson says: "I have known a few individuals who went through four years of a state university without revising in the least the standards into which they were initiated in their cradles, but those young people were never influential, and he it remembered, never much respected by their mates. We teachers know that to appeal to students through the old standards is to waste our breath."

She says also that the old "right and wrong appeal is dying, and we may as well admit it."

The thing she suggests is to try to appeal to them through their sense of beauty and fairness.

But my world has righted itself again. There came to me my irritated nerves, the memory of an article I read a short time since, by one of the greatest editors in our country. It was on "college radicalism." He spoke of alarming cuts and bolshevism against accepted social standards in schools, as the best thing that could be done to the country. "It is in all of us to have to try for ourselves and sooner or later we do," he said in substance, "a sort of mental and spiritual sowing of wild oats. The college seems to be the field the present day youngsters choose to run amuck. But they all come back and the reaction makes them better citizens than ever. It is out of their systems."

I think he is entirely right. The "youngsters" find out when they leave college and are "on their own" that social and economic traditions they may shatter, and spiritual things they may ignore; but one law, natural law, they cannot, and so will not despise. They discover that to fracture it in any form brings ruin to body and mind. Natural law is the foundation of all other laws. Young people of today are capable of independent thought, and they will accept the principles of living—of those forefathers eventually, not perhaps by authority, but because they choose to.
