UN Plans To Release Anti-Commie POWs

Panel Opposes Flexible Price Supports Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 —UP—The Senate Agriculture committee is lined up 9 to 6 against the administration's proposed flexible price support system for basic farm crops, two members reported Saturday.

Identical reappraisals of committee sentiment were given in separate interviews by Sen. Milton E. Young (R-N.D.) and Allen J. Teller (D-La.).

It also was learned that the House Agriculture committee probably will vote overwhelmingly for extension of the present rigid price supports for at least one more year.

According to most of its members, sentiment in the House committee is even more strongly opposed to flexible supports than in the Senate committee. The House committee last Thursday completed a series of "grass roots" hearings in major farming areas. Members reported strong sentiment for continuance of high supports.

Would Require Veto

The present mandatory supports for 90 per cent of parity for the basic crops expires at the end of the 1954 crop year. President Eisenhower could put the flexible features of his proposed program into force on 1955 crops simply by vetoing the farm legislation Congress enacts this year.

Both Young and Teller favor continuing the present system.

Young is the second-ranking committee Republican.

Senate committee members who will support the administration declined to estimate their strength. One of them, Sen. John J. Williams (R-Ind.), said it was too early to start guessing.

Hearing Set Monday

The attempt to "sell" the program began in earnest Monday when Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson appears before Alcorn's group in an open hearing.

Principal features include support ranging from 75 to 90 per cent of parity on basic products, limitation of 250 million worth of current government-owned surpluses in a "defense stockpile," and a gradual transition to a "modernized parity" system.

Guill Supporting Postal Rate Hike

A proposed hike in postal rates although unpopular, is necessary, Ben Guill, Pampa, administrative assistant to Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield, said in a speech Saturday at the seventh annual mid-winter meeting of the Texas Press Association in Austin.

"We have no intention of hurting any business, large or small, but we cannot continue to pass on to future generations our unpaid postal bills," he said.

The postal deficit stands at approximately $429 million and the proposed boost in rates would trim the total by about $40-million, he declared.

Palmer Hoyt, editor and publisher of the Denver Post, was another speaker on the day's program. He accused a "lot of important people" of "wasting a lot of breath and causing a lot of heartaches by insisting that we are going to have a depression."

He told the editors and publishers that "such talk seems to me to be anti-social, foolish and shortsighted."

Detective Turns Blue And Dies
HOUSTON, Jan. 16 —UP—Police were trying to find out Saturday night whether a detective who turned blue in a saloon and subsequently died was killed by a Mickey Finn, or by narcotics.

The detective was Emmett Bailey, 33, his partner, Bob Blanchard, also became ill and was still under a physician's treatment. Four persons were questioned by police, but later released.

A Mickey Finn is liquor mixed with a sickening drug. Bartenders sometimes give it to troublesome drunks. It sometimes is given to unsuspecting persons for pure spite.

Leaders Studying Meet With Soviet

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 —UP—President Eisenhower conferred with his top diplomatic military and atomic advisers Saturday to prepare for forthcoming U.S. negotiations with Russia on his "atoms-for-peace" plan.

The White House declined to say what took place at the hour-long conference. But informed sources said the nation's leaders were hammering out strategy to be followed in talks with Soviet representatives here next week and at the Big Four conference in Berlin.

Two problems were understood to be foremost in Mr. Eisenhower's mind: How to determine if Russia is sincerely interested in his proposal to set up a world "atomic bank" for peaceful development, and how to meet the Soviet demand that the proposal be broadened to include an immediate ban on use of A-bombs and H-bombs.

The make-up of the conference indicated another subject may have been Mr. Eisenhower's proposal in his state of the union message to give Allied military commanders some of the now-secret facts about the battlefield capabilities and uses of America's latest atomic weapons.

On hand were Secretary of State John Foster Dulles; Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson; chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission; deputy defense Secretary Roger M. Kyes; Vice Adm. Arthur C. Davis, director of the defense department's office of foreign military affairs; and C. D. Jackson, White House adviser on psychological warfare.

He stressed the "atoms-for-peace" plan in a speech before the United Nations General Assembly on Dec. 8. He proposed that the world's atomic powers, will exist indefinitely. This premise resulted in a more gradual buildup of military power to lower eventual levels than planned by the Truman administration.

Decision, as State Secretary John Foster Dulles said, "depend primarily" on massive retaliatory power to keep the peace. With that decision, it was relatively simple to decide that the standing Army and the surface Navy should be cut sharply. Air-atomic power of the Air Force and Naval aviation become the first line of defense. The implication is that, no matter where the Communists might start a war, the targets of American retaliatory power might be Russia and Red China themselves.

Defense Plans Expensive
3. GOP belief that Truman administration defense plans were so expensive they would, as Wilson claimed, "almost surely endanger the economic health of the country." Weapons advances and emphasis on air power hardly make possible large and almost immediate savings in manpower, one of the costliest factors in defense. Plain and simple tightening up throughout the far-flung military set-up produced other spending

Train Collides With Automobile
The car stood on the railroad tracks — and got hit. That was the story at 3:25 a.m. Saturday when a car operated by Billy B. McCullough, 2015 Coffee, stalled on the Santa Fe Railroad tracks, at the Starkweather crossing, and was hit by a freight train.

McCullough was headed north on Starkweather and the train, west when the mishap occurred, police reported.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated between $600 and a total loss. No one was injured.

McCullough told police that, when his car reached the tracks, his choke stuck and his motor died. At the time, the train was two city blocks away.

If it comes from a hardware store, it was being in Starkweather.

Vessel Collides With WWII Mine
COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 16 —UP—A magnetic World War II mine exploded Saturday against the hull of a 15,000-ton Danish tanker making its maiden voyage.

The ship radiated for help in the dark of a North Sea gale.

Protests Awaited From Communists

SEOUL, Sunday, Jan. 17 —UP—Gen. John E. Hull announced Saturday he would ignore Indian protests and Chinese Communist warnings and free 22,618 anti-Communist prisoners on Jan. 22.

His announcement, made in a letter to Indian Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, was expected to bring a storm of protests and possible violence from the Reds.

The Communist radio said releasing the prisoners would "destroy the truce" and the State Department warned the Reds might start trouble and possibly riots in the prisoner camps.

Report New Chinese Armies
However, UN officials did not believe the Communists would resume the Korean war although there were reports of an entire new Chinese army in North Korea and two more enroute.

Hull, the Far East Allied commander, told Thimayya, head of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission, he would accept the prisoners Thimayya proposes to turn over to him Wednesday.

But Hull made it clear he will free them and not hold them indefinitely until a Korean peace conference is called to work out their destiny. The Indians and Communists want them held until then.

Hull said freeing them now was the UN command's "solemn obligation."

Rhee Rattles Saber
The feeling of crisis was heightened by South Korean President Syngman Rhee's announcement he would take "definite action" to unify all Korea if a peace conference fails to do so by late April.

However, a spokesman for Rhee watered down his fiery statement six hours later.

Rhee said he would wait until the last part of April before moving to unify his country but that Korea "will not wait until we are sold out."

Answer Date Postponed On Korean Talks
UNITED NATIONS, Jan. 16 —UP—Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit of India, president of the United Nations General Assembly, agreed Saturday night to a week's postponement of the Jan. 22 deadline for replies to India's request for a special Korean session starting Feb. 9.

The postponement of the reply deadline to Jan. 29 was agreed to only a day after the United States tentatively rejected a Feb. 9 assembly.

The U.S. notified Mrs. Pandit that "in view of the current situation," it would be unable to decide by the original Jan. 22 deadline "whether the general interest could be served by the reconvening the Assembly to deal with Korean issues. The U.S. added however that it would keep the assembly proposal 'under review.'"

Several U.S. allies — including, it was reported, Britain and France — Friday requested a postponement of the Jan. 22 time limit for replies.

Mrs. Pandit also gave in Saturday night to U.S. objections to her ruling that nations failing to give their answers by the deadline be counted in the "yes" column. (A majority, of 51, of the UN's 60 members must approve a meeting if it is to be held.)

She left the issue up to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. Hammarskjold promptly issued a statement saying nations failing to reply by the deadline would not be counted as voting.

The effect of this will be to make it more difficult to muster the necessary 33 votes. But, despite the extreme U.S. coolness to holding any assembly at all, observers have lived there would be a special Korean session sometime next month.

Beauty Gulps Sleeping Pills
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 —UP—Mrs. Margaret Clarke, beauty queen daughter of the Icelandic minister, gulped some sleeping pills, choked and died early Saturday after a gay country club and night spot whirl.

Her stunned husband watched helplessly as the 26-year-old Nordic beauty died at their home in suburban Chevy Chase, Md., about 4:15 a. m.

The popular chestnut-haired socialite and her husband, L. Blaine Clarke, had returned to their home shortly before after entertaining a friend at the Columbia Country Club in Chevy Chase until 2 a.m.

Clarke told police they sat quietly in the den of their home for a few minutes, when his wife suddenly produced a bottle and gulped down the pills. She began to choke.

Dr. Frank Brochart, Montgomery county (Md.) medical examiner, said death was accidental, "from suffocation due to inhalation of stomach content." In other words, Mrs. Clarke choked.

Brochart said police had told him the Clarks—who were married early last year and have an infant son—had been arguing.

But their guest of the evening, Carroll Bird of Little Rock, Ark., said they "were in fine spirits all evening."

Mrs. Clarke was the daughter of Icelandic minister Thor Thor who has represented his country in Washington since 1941. She had been living here since before World War II, and was educated at the Apple Blossom Festival at Winchester, Va., in 1949, and was married there by Gen. George C. Marshall during the festivities.

"PRIVILEGE" TO DIE OF CANCER — Rev. Julius Busse, a Catholic priest, of Parsons, Kan., dying of cancer, thinks it's a privilege to die of the disease. A former 8th Army chaplain during World War II, the 46-year-old clergyman said, "It isn't the certainty of death that men fear — it is the uncertainty, and the person with cancer is blessed with time to prepare for death."

Big Four Announce 'Basic Agreement'

BERLIN, Sunday, Jan. 17 —UP—Western and Soviet negotiators reached an agreement early Sunday on the site of the Berlin Big Four foreign ministers meeting, making it certain the talks would begin as scheduled Jan. 25.

The nature of the agreement, reached in a 12-hour all-night meeting, was not immediately disclosed.

It was believed, however, the West gave in to a Soviet demand that half of the conference sessions be held in Communist East Berlin.

The U. S., British and French had been insisting on holding three out of every four conference meetings in West Berlin.

It was announced the Big Four Berlin commandants had reached a "basic agreement" on the site but the exact terms were not disclosed because all the details were not yet spelled out.

The new meeting of the Big Four representatives began at 5 p.m. Saturday in the British headquarters in Berlin and did not adjourn until 5 a.m. Sunday (10 p.m. Saturday est.).

The commandants agreed to meet again Sunday afternoon at British headquarters to put the finishing touches to the accord. The exact time of the meeting was not announced.

Brothers United After 52 Years
Fifty-two years is a long time especially when one has not seen his brother during that period.

J. A. DeGrace, 1304 E. Francis, left his home in Canada 52 years ago at the age of 17 and came to the United States. He worked in many states for various oil companies as a driller and finally ended up in Pampa 27 years ago.

Meanwhile, his brother, J. Phillip DeGrace, left his Canadian home 41 years ago and went to Manchester, N. H., where he continues to make his home.

They lost all contact with each other and neither knew where the other was until about a year ago when Phillip DeGrace's son came to Pampa and located his father's brother.

Last week Phillip DeGrace came to Pampa for a visit with his brother.

Auction Broadcast Sparks March Of Dimes Fund Drive
Pampa's March of Dimes campaign will go into high gear today with its annual radio auction over radio station KPDM, beginning at 2 p.m. and continuing until midnight.

Everyone in town can get in the act. Requests may be made to hear local talent and counter-requests to not hear them can be offered. And it is an opportunity to get rid of "white elephants," or some no-longer-wanted items.

Much of the activity will center around Auctioneers W. B. (Red) Weatherred and Fred Neslage and the radio-equipped National Guard jeep which will go racing through Pampa streets top pick up and deliver auction items. Each jeep will contain a National Guard driver and a representative of a Pampa civic club. Fuel for the vehicles will be donated by Pampa wholesale gas and oil companies.

Women from the National Secretary's Association and the Business and Professional Women's organization will handle the telephones. Fred Brook and Leslie Hart will act as dispatchers, and "general funkies." Aubrey Jones will serve as bookkeeper and accountant, and Kay Pancher will direct the radio end of the auction.

By late Saturday afternoon, many items to be auctioned had already been received at KPDM, according to Fred Brook, city drive chairman. The items and donors include a complete shoe shine kit from Smith's Shoe Store, a lady's sweater from Gilbert's Ladies

YOUNG CONTRIBUTOR — Many items were being received at Radio Station KPDM Saturday to be sold in the March of Dimes radio auction, which begins today at 2 p.m. A young contributor to the drive was little Howard Weaver, Jr., five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Weaver, 117 S. Franklin, who is shown above with an animal of his own.

Stock Show Plans Near Completion

Plans for the annual Top of Texas Fat Stock Show and Sale are virtually complete, with only a few minor details remaining to be worked out. The show will be held in the new county dual-purpose barn at Recreation park Jan. 25-27.

This year's show will feature four divisions: The Top of Texas Junior Livestock show Jan. 25 at 9 a.m., to be followed at 1:30 p.m. by the judging of the fat steers. At 7 p.m. that day the annual Kiwanis 4-H Club banquet will be held in the basement of the First Methodist Church.

On Jan. 26 at 9:30 a.m. the Livestock judging contest will begin, while at 1:30 p.m. the junior livestock sale will be held, with Glen Bratcher, head of the animal husbandry department of Oklahoma A&M College, as official judge. The Livestock Judging contest is scheduled to be held in the cafeteria at Pampa High School at 5:30 p.m., followed at 7:30 p.m. by the Hereford Breeders banquet, with C. E. Weymouth, Amarillo cattleman, as speaker. The banquet will be held in the First Methodist Church basement.

On the final day of the show, Jan. 27, Bratcher will begin judging the breeding cattle at 9 a.m. He then will judge the Junior heifers at 11 a.m. The Top of Texas sale of breeding cattle will get under way at 12:30 p.m. with Col. Walter Britten of College Station as auctioneer.

PAUL BOWERS to run again

Bowers Announces For Re-election

County Commissioner Paul Bowers Saturday afternoon announced his candidacy for re-election from County Commission Precinct Three. Bowers is now in the second year of his first term on the county commissioners' court and has held no other political office.

A stockman and wheat farmer who lives 20 miles southeast of Pampa near the Grandview School, the commissioner has been a resident of Gray County all his life. "I appreciate the cooperation I've received so far during my first year as county commissioner and I'll continue to do everything to the best of my ability," he said in making his informal announcement. His formal announcement and filing will come at a later date.

Bowers was graduated from Texas Tech in Lubbock. He is married and has two sons, Richard, 8½, and John Paul, 6½.

City To Study Trash Disposal

City Manager B. H. Cruce Saturday knew of only one definite item on this week's Pampa City Commission agenda — the disposal of trash.

And that item, he said, will merely consist of a report on his Friday trip to Clovis, N. M., with City Director of Public Works James Cowan and City Sanitation Superintendent L. B. (Bush) Hagard.

Get-together, as usual, is slated for 9 a.m. Tuesday in the city commission room on the first floor of City Hall.

The "Dempster Dumpster" method of trash disposal is the type Clovis uses and the type that Pampa city officials wanted to see in action.

They spent four hours with Clovis city manager, trash superintendent and the truck driver who operates the "dumper." And Clovis is pretty well sold on the thing," Cruce commented.

Two days before the Pampa visit, Clovis, the city manager continued, the city commission passed an ordinance reading an ordinance to prohibit the use of oil drums as trash containers. Six months after the third and final reading, Clovisites will have to have covered cans with a capacity of 32 gallons or less.

Clovis and Odessa are two other communities that employ the Clovis system. Cruce went on to say that, Odessa went to Clovis before buying it. City manager of Odessa is Dick Peppin, former Pampa city manager.

Posts Bond In Stabbing Case

An early morning stabbing in the Owl Bar, 405 Maple, Saturday brought a charge of aggravated assault against Louston Samuels, 40, of 522 Maple.

Turned over to county authorities late Saturday morning, Samuels was freed on $500 bond, police reported.

Samuels is suspected of stabbing five times Herman G. Phillips, 525 Oklahoma. One of the cuts was a deep one, police said, but physicians were reported as saying that Phillips' condition was not serious.

The fracas occurred at 2:10 a.m. Saturday, police said.

Pampa Man Fined
It cost a Pampa man $50 and court costs to drive his automobile into his wife's house.

W. G. Morse early Saturday morning attended the feat; but his wife, who lives at 801 N. Warren, notified police, according to the police report.

Taken over to county court, he was fined on a charge of resisting an officer who was arresting him.

The American flag first was hoisted in Alaska at Sitka on Oct. 15, 1867.

Simmons Funeral Slated Monday

Funeral services for Charles Howard Simmons, 73, who died Friday at 5:30 p.m. in his home at Skellytown, will be held Monday at 2 p.m. in Duane-Carmichael chapel.

Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church here, will officiate, assisted by the Rev. Albert Stroh, pastor of the Skellytown Community Church and the Rev. Eugene Brand, pastor of the Skellytown Baptist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Pauline Simmons, Skellytown; a son, Bob Simmons, serving with the Air Force in Valdosta, Ga.; three brothers, 1229 A. Simmons, Chesnee, S. C., W. C. Simmons, Campbell, S. C., and Meade Simmons, Lake Lure, S. C., and Mrs. Henry Dodd, both of Campbell.

Clothesharers will be Frank Hewitt, Howard Patton, John Hand, W. N. Adams, Clyde Horner and Henry Lamb. Honorary pallbearers will be Ed Harmon, J. C. Jarvis, George Porter, Jimmy Crawford, Harvey Frick, M. D. Looney, E. E. Vaughn and L. Barlett.

The body will be sent to Spaulding, S. C., for further services and burial.

Breeding's Animal Wins Roberts Show

MIAMI — A calf owned by Bill Breeding, son of Earl Breeding, former county agent of Carson County, was judged grand champion of the sixth annual Roberts County Junior Livestock show here Saturday afternoon.

Breeding's animal, one of seven shown, was picked as the best of the show by Quentin Williams, Pampa real estate man, who was the judge of the show.

Reserve champion honors went to Bill Clark, who with his brother, Bob, and Breeding were the owners of the seven calves in the show.

In the senior class, Bill Clark's entries placed first and third, Bob Clark, second and fifth, and Breeding, fourth.

Only two animals were in the junior division, with first place honors going to Breeding's animal. Bob Clark took second place.

The show is sponsored annually by the Miami Men's Service club. Vic Joyner, county agent, was chairman of the show committee.

Torture Killer Hunt Switches

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 16—UP The hunt for Oklahoma City's torture-killer switched to the "deep south" Saturday after a report from Shreveport, La., that a man believed to be the suspect pawned a pair of sun glasses there Wednesday night.

The sun glasses were in a case marked "Otto A. Loel, Santa Rosa, Calif.," Oklahoma City homicide Capt. Ted Baughman said. Loel, 47, has been sought since the woman he registered with at a motel here last Sunday was found dead.

The victim, Mrs. Elizabeth Henderson, 31, Lynwood, Calif., had been stabbed 19 times, burnt and beaten. She had been traveling across the country with Loel.

Police Chief E. G. Huckabay at Shreveport told officers here that a hitchhiker pawned the sun glasses with a tourist card, said the FBI and state police put out alerts all along the route from Shreveport to Florida for the man.

Meanwhile, officers checked a report that the 1948 Buick sedan driven by Loel when he brought Mrs. Henderson to Oklahoma City was seen at Sentinel, Okla.

Mayo To Furnish Stock For Rodeo

For the 10th straight year "Goat" Mayo, Petrolia stockman, will furnish the stock for the annual Top of Texas-Rodeo to be held here Aug. 3-7.

This decision was made at a meeting of the Rodeo Events committee of the Rodeo association Saturday in the office of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

Three stockmen were present at the meeting. They were Mayo, L. D. Ward, Trinidad, Colo., and Claude Hayes, Weatherford, Okla.

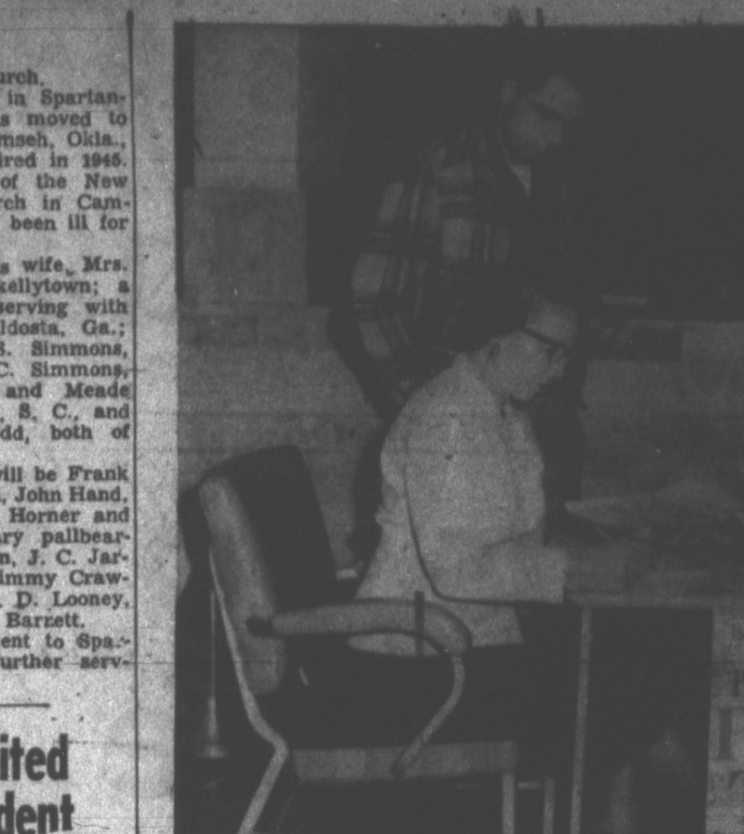

After hearing the three stockmen the committee voted to award the contract to Mayo, who has furnished the stock for the rodeo for the past nine years.

Chairmen of the committee is John O. Pitts. Other members are Guy Andia, Homer Taylor, Floyd Imel, Holly Gray and Paul Crouch.

UF Has Change In Office Hours

The Pampa United Fund office, situated in one of the rooms of the Pampa Public Library, will be open only Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from now on.

Dr. J. B. Veale Jr., fund vice president, Saturday said that the hours would be the same as those of the library, 9 a.m. to noon and 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Borger Girl Cited In Auto Accident

A 19-year-old Borger girl was given two citations by Pampa police Saturday night following an automobile accident which occurred at 7:30 p.m. at the intersection of Francis and Starkweather.

Police reported that Laquita O'Neal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O'Neal, Borger, was cited for driving without an operator's license on her person and for failing to yield the right-of-way.

The car she was driving was in collision with one driven by Jerry Wayne Neef, 1229 A. Stok.

Meantime, property damage amounted to approximately $1,150 when two cars collided at the intersection of Cuyler and Browning Friday and one of the cars crashed into the home of Leland's Grocery on the northeast corner of the intersection.

A car driven by Mrs. Wanda Smith Goff, 48, 408 S. Russell, collided with another vehicle driven by Mrs. Clara Dwyer Tarpley, 81, 900 N. Somerville, after colliding with the Goff car the Tarpley automobile jumped the curb and crashed into the front of the store building.

MOD AUCTION

Shop, a lady's pajama set from Behrman's Shoppe, a plastic clothes bag from Friendly Men's Wear, a Samson card table from the Furniture Company, a McGreggor wool man's shirt from Wanner's Men's Wear, four desk lamps from Pampa Office Supply, and a 1937 four-door Chevrolet from Noblitt-Coffey Pontiac.

Other items include an electric clock from Thompson Hardware, a Towne gladsome travel bag from Malone Pharmacy, two gallons of Prestone from Tex Evans Buick Company, 72 boxes of Kleenex from Pampa Wholesale Drug, and a milk certificate from Plains Creamery.

The radio auction is an annual fund raising activity of the Gray County March of Dimes committee. Pampa civic clubs with representatives in the jeeps include the Kiwanis, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Rotary and Lions clubs.

The Gray County March of Dimes campaign representatives from Pampa civic groups met Saturday morning to draw for street corners for the Corner Campaign, which begins next Saturday.

The Rotary Club drew two corners — Kingsmill and Cuyler, and Kingsmill and Somerville. Drawing for the group was James C. Wynn, representing the Kiwanis Club, drew the corner of Foster and Cuyler. The Lions Club drew the corner of Francis and Cuyler and the corner of Hobart and Foster. Fire Chief Ernest Winborne drew for the group.

Drawing for the Junior Chamber of Commerce was Bill Harris who picked the corner of Kingsmill and Cuyler and the corner of Cuyler and Tyn. The CIO Oil Workers Union, represented by R. E. Engle, drew the corner of Alcock and Hobart.

Beginning Saturday, representatives of the five organizations will be located on their respective corners soliciting funds for the campaign.

Installation Rites

During the recent installation service of the Girl Scout executive board, Mrs. Rufe Jordan, outgoing president, was presented a pin and certificate in appreciation of her work for the past two years by Joe Gordon, board legal advisor.

Gordon also presented Mrs. Fern Dawson, Girl Scout secretary, with a pin in appreciation of her work. During the business meeting, led by Mrs. Harvey Nenstiel, the new president, it was decided to use the surplus funds from 1953 to supplement this year's budget and to put the permanent fund in the general savings fund. Mrs. Mathers, Miami representative, presented a $150 check to the board as the receipts from the Miami fund raising campaign.

Texas Tech Exes To Meet Tuesday

An organizational meeting of the proposed Pampa chapter of the Texas Technological College Ex-Students association will be held Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the County Courthouse on the second floor of the courthouse, according to John Spearman, one of the organizers.

This will be the second meeting of Tech ex-students of the Pampa area, Spearman said, adding that all ex-students are welcome.

L. C. Walker, executive secretary of the Texas Tech Ex-students association will be present to assist in the organization of this chapter. He will be accompanied by J. P. Smith, District 2 representative.

All graduates and persons who have attended Tech are urged to be present, Spearman stated.

DeMolay Officers To Be Installed

Initiation of new DeMolay officers has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Pampa Masonic Lodge.

Marion Stone, incoming master councilor, has asked all of the officers to be present.

The entire slate of new officers in the boys' group was installed a couple of weeks ago.

Last Rites Set For Youngster

CANADIAN — (Special) — Funeral services for Luther Charles Morris, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Morris, who live on the Mahler Ranch nine miles north of Canadian, were to be held at 1:30 p.m. today in the First Baptist Church.

The youngster died Friday afternoon in Hemphill County Memorial Hospital, following burns suffered the morning of Jan. 3 when the lad was playing "dress-up" and let his long clothing get too near a gas heater. It ignited.

Rev. Taft Holloway, pastor, will officiate at the last rites. Burial will be in Wellington.

Other survivors include two sisters, Patsy Gail and Janice Ann.

WE ARE PLEASED TO INTRODUCE

Ed Klingler

District Manager

Pampa-Borger

Ed Klingler is new to you in Pampa and Borger although he is a Texan come home. But he is not new to this company, as he first joined us ten years ago as a branch office manager. We now him to be an outstanding leader in our field and in the communities in which he has previously resided.

His success has not been accidental. He has had many years of experience in the fields of credit redemption and collection management, working carefully and surely forward to his chosen vocation. Success in our business, as in most, is only the result of being fair and just, of being industrious and energetic, of being honest and honorable. In these traits, he excels. This makes him a good man with whom to do business, for our clients and for those from whom we collect.

He returns to Texas, and to us, by deliberate and enthusiastic choice . . . because he appreciates the opportunity to serve such a fine group of folks as constitute our Top O' Texas clients. He shares our objective and purpose: that Credit Clearance Corporation will continue to offer the utmost in service and the ultimate in results. You may justly extend him the same confidence as we do in handing him the keys to our offices and entrusting him with the privilege of serving you in our behalf.

Barn Due To Be On Its Schedule

The county dual-purpose barn will be on schedule.

Union tiffs of one kind or another have been plaguing the construction of the Recreation Park barn for the last few days.

But Paul Camp, representative of Wes-Tex Construction Company of Pampa and Borger, Saturday afternoon said he was certain the barn would be up by the Friday deadline — "in plenty of time for the Hereford officials to get the seats up and all."

The annual Top of Texas Hereford Breeders Association livestock show is scheduled for Jan. 25-27 in the barn.

Joe E. Bunn, Wes-Tex president, was in Pampa Saturday afternoon to see what could be done about the union problems with Armo Steel Company, Houston, Wes-Tex's subcontractor on the job.

Camp said that Wes-Tex workers would be on the job all this week end and that Armo men would be at work Monday morning.

Guaranteeing that the barn would be "substantially complete" by show time, Camp said the only thing that could hold things up was the weather.

Pampa Schoolteacher Taught Parents Of Present Pupils

By ED NASH
Pampa News Staff Writer
She looks like someone's grandmother. But she's not — not in the strict sense of the word.

Miss Frances McCue has taught quite a number of youngsters whose parents and relatives she taught, though. And she likes to call them "my grandchildren."

A fifth-grade teacher in Woodrow Wilson School, Miss McCue is nearing the quarter-century milestone in the Pampa public school system. This is her 24th year.

LEANING BACK in her chair one day last week Miss McCue, her gray hair awry and her blue eyes flashing, reminisced over her past years, years spent in Pampa, Lubbock and Waxahachie schools. (She has taught a total of 37 years in the three cities.)

"I like to think that my room has the cream of the crop," she said, looking around her corner room with the pale green walls — and three baseball gloves and a pair of levis hanging on hooks in the rear.

From the way she says it, though, you can tell that she has thought the same for all her 37 home-rooms. But "I guess every crowd thinks he has the blackest crow," she added.

"It's such a responsive room, the children are so affectionate — and loyal to each other," she began, then backtracked to memories, memories of how some of today's children resemble some of yesterday's parents.

Her first 23 years in Pampa were spent in the Horace Mann School. And now a lot of the people she knew over in that west-side school have moved over to the east of town. She lives at 1004 St. Fisher.

"Take this little girl who sits right down here," Miss McCue said, pointing with a smile to a front-row seat. "That's Karen Hubbard. I taught her mother, three of her mother's sisters and two of her mother's brothers."

Other children whose parents and relatives she recalls — very well — teaching include George Wilson, son of Deputy Sheriff Buck Haggard; Billy Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Morris; C. R. Jackson; and Jan Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Hall, who live northeast of town.

"Karen is just like her mother, looks like her and has ways like her, both of them are known for their singing," the veteran schoolmarm insisted. And Jan, who sits next to the big round globe in the rear, is like her mother, Lili Hall, too, she added. The same goes for the Morris, both being quiet, and studious.

THERE'S A difference between the Jacksons, though. Miss McCue remembers the father as "one of the most quiet and serious" students she ever taught. The son is a "mischievous as can be."

One thing that undoubtedly has much to do with her feeling that she is a "grandmother" is that the daughter of the niece that she reared is in her class, the youngest's first year in school. The "granddaughter" is named Janice; the niece is Mary Ann Cohen.

Miss McCue, and she says it with a twinkle, feels she really got a break this year: there are only 27 pupils in her homeroom. It's never been that low before. Usually, it averages about 45 or 50. One time, in Lubbock she had 375 students in seven different classes. And two of the classes had 110 each.

Her thinking back over the years brought to mind the subject of her age — but only for a moment. "I wouldn't mind telling you," she said, "but I'd have to count back so far." A grin came to her face as she said it. But her answer came from her lips.

The Pampa teacher with the whole class for "grandchildren" has taught literally all her after-school life. The first three months out of Waxahachie High School she went to summer school and got her teaching certificate. Then she went to work. She's been at it ever since.

She was a bit worried when she first came to Pampa. "Nobody knows me," she remembers telling herself; "they won't want to be in my room." Then she went on, with a slight flick of her head: "You know, they really enjoyed themselves."

But it's the today that she's most interested in. "There isn't a day that passes that something doesn't happen," she avowed. And then with just the suspicion of a chuckle: "Some of the things the children tell me would be too shocking for their parents."

WHAT MIGHT be termed her main operating creed in the classroom is the old adage of letting the students do it themselves.

When the bell rings at 8 a.m. each school day, there are the usual opening exercises which her pupils handle exclusively. They recite in unison the Lord's Prayer, they run through the week's motto (last week's: "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good"); they sing a song; and they give the pledge to the flag.

Another place where her adage works is in the practice in her class of writing and giving plays. For years, she wrote the plays her pupils would give. But now it's different. They write them and "each of them gets a talking part."

When they get stuck on writing one, she asks, "Now what do you think would be the natural thing to say or do right here?" And they figure it out. Last year, her group gave plays before the school assembly and the school Parent-Teacher's Association. The same is planned this year.

"I really do enjoy it. I love my children and my work," Miss McCue insisted, with an approving glance at her classroom where her students had even pulled up their chairs so that the janitor could sweep.

Talking of her years of public-school teaching almost seemed to bother her, for just a moment. One thing she wanted to make clear: "I'm not retiring."

GETTING READY — Charlie Shelton (left), 612 Sloan, shop superintendent, and Robert Bonnal, 304 Finley, mechanic, look over a piece of equipment in the city's shop, preparatory to the installation of Pampa's new cost accounting system. Each of the two have worked for the city for four years. (News Photo)

New Cost System On City Equipment

The city of Pampa is instituting a new system of cost accounting for its equipment, designed to make municipal operation more economical and more efficient.

Idea of it is "to try and get a better control over the cost of equipment," according to City Manager B. H. Cruce, one of the three city officials who helped devise the plan. Others were City Director of Public Works James Cowan and City Secretary Ed Vicars.

In essence, what it will do is concentrate all cost records into two places, the shop and the warehouse, and then they'll be funneled to the accounting office (the office of Cruce and Vicars in City Hall).

The three officials have worked up a "flow chart" of equipment cost accounting. Arrows on the chart indicate where the work or ders, service tickets, monthly equipment cost records, requisitions, receiving reports and vendors' invoices will go.

Pretty much a standardizing procedure, the plan will include all movable equipment owned by the city — "anything that's not tied down," said Cruce. Stationary equipment will be handled directly by the department head to which the equipment is assigned.

One by-product of the new system is that each department head will receive a monthly cost report on each piece of equipment assigned to him. Another by-product is that the city's shop will be put on a basis of fixed labor charges and fixed service charges.

There is no exact date for beginning the new system, Cruce said. It'll be a gradual and integrated change.

Guardsmen Given Advance, Transfer

Pampa's National Guard unit has had a promotion and a transfer among its ranks.

Corporal Douglas R. McBride of Pampa has been promoted to a sergeant and reassigned from the operations and training section to the personnel section recently. He was born in Wilson, Okla., and came to Pampa at an early age.

He graduated from Pampa High School in 1932. Sgt. McBride is married and is employed by the Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Company here.

Sgt. Bobby E. Bridwell of Dumas, a former member of Battery A 474th FA Bn, has been transferred to the headquarters unit here. Sgt. Bridwell attended school in Dumas and worked there for the city until he became a caretaker for the Texas National Guard Battery A, with a military assignment of supply sergeant for the unit.

He is now employed as mechanic at the Pampa service center and carries a military assignment of Helicopter mechanic. He is qualified as an expert in the firing of the carbine caliber .30 and the sub-machine gun caliber .45.

FIRST COUNTY COURTHOUSE — Hundreds of people were on hand one day in the fall of 1962, when the brand new court house at Lefors was dedicated and opened. The building was constructed at a cost of $2,588. In 1928 the county seat was moved to Pampa, and on April 19, 1929, the present court house was dedicated. The present building was constructed at a cost of $380,000.

County County nearly 26 years and Charlie Thut, county clerk, and others recall the long, bitter fight that finally ended on March 19, 1928, when county records were moved from Lefors.

Efforts had been made at various times from 1906 to 1923 to move the county seat. The state law required that in order to move the county seat from a town more than five miles from a railroad, an election must be held with a two-thirds majority being required.

The first attempt to move the county seat came on March 17, 1906, when Lefors was elected a town that would have moved county offices to that community.

The first attempt to gain county offices for Pampa came on June 10, 1919, when an election was held.

However, in an election called by E. A. Shackleton and 260 other voters of the county, Pampa received the necessary two-thirds majority in an election on March 9, 1923, that authorized the removal of county offices and records from Lefors to Pampa.

Returns of the election gave the pro-Pampa supporters a 2,675 to 1,377 majority, with 3,468 of the Pampa votes being cast by voters in the Pampa precinct, with 56 votes being cast here to keep the county seat in Lefors.

County records reveal that on March 16, 1928, a hearing was held before District Judge Newton P. Willis to determine whether the election was legal. The hearing resulted when McLean residents, who

When the records were first placed in the church, guards were hired to keep watch over them until a brick vault could be rushed to completion.

At the time of moving the county seat here, the population of Pampa was about 16,000 and by the time the county move was completed in 1928, the later town had grown to about 12,000.

County officials at that time were Thut, county and district clerk; John F. Studer, county attorney; E. S. Gray, sheriff-tax collector; F. E. Leach, tax assessor; Miriam Wilson, treasurer; C. Bowers, W. A. Taylor, Thomas Kirby and M. M. Newman, commissioners.

But it was a futile attempt. It was the same story in another election, held on March 19, 1925.

However, in an election called by E. A. Shackleton and 260 other voters of the county, Pampa received the necessary two-thirds majority on election on March 8, 1925, that authorized the removal of county offices and records from Lefors to Pampa.

Returns of the election gave the pro-Pampa supporters a 5,678 to 1,977 majority, with 3,468 of the Pampa voters being cast by voters who had moved to Pampa in 1906. The voters being cast here to keep the county seat in Lefors.

When the records were first placed in the church, guards were hired to keep watch over them until a brick vault could be rushed to completion.

At the time of moving the county seat here, the population of Pampa was about 16,000 and by the time the court house was completed two years later, the town had grown to about 12,000.

County officials at that time were: Thut, county and district clerk; J. H. Gray, sheriff; C. J. Lawrence, J. S. Gray, sheriff's clerk.

County records reveal that on March 16, 1928, a hearing was held before District Judge Newton P. Willis to determine whether the county was legal. The hearing resulted when Mr. J. W. Hendon, who fought the removal bitterly before the election, sought an injunction to prevent such removal. However, Judge Willis denied the injunction and the county commissioners completed the removal. On the same day, trucks were loaded with county records, which were brought to Pampa that night.

The Pampa Baptist Church had offered the use of the church basement as a temporary county offices. The records were brought directly to the church. The church was then located on the corner of Kingsmill and Russell Streets where the Combs-Worley building now stands.

There are the present county officials were either: elected officials or employees of the county when the move was made. They are Thui, Wilson and Ola Gregory, who is now county treasurer. County tax assessor, F. E. Leach, was elected during one summer in the court house at Lefors before the removal, began working for the county shortly after the county offices were set up here.

The first present court house was begun in 1926 and was completed early the following year. The old frame court house in Lefors, which was built in 1902 when the county was detached from Roberts county, was torn down in 1928. The lumber was used to build homes.

Usually Best To Develop Best Suit

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Which suit do you usually try to develop first when you are the declarer at a no-trump contract? There are exceptions to the rule, of course, but it is usually your best suit.

The opponents are used to this procedure, and they will play carefully to avoid helping you develop the suit of your choice. For this reason, as today's hand shows, you have a pretty good chance to "steal" a trick at the very beginning of the play.

West opened the six of diamonds, and South took stock. He could expect to win two diamonds and your clubs. The seventh trick was harder to find.

If South won the first diamond trick with the ace or the king and immediately forced out the ace of clubs, the opponents would knock out the remaining diamond stopper.

"Then I came home," she stated. "I had graduated, but not at 18. I didn't know what I was going to do." But fate stepped in for when she reached LaCrosse she found the American Army had a large camp there.

"I had a job with the French movies, but it wasn't a very good one — and my father didn't want me to do it. So I got a job as an interpreter for the Army."

After talking with Liliane for a while, you realize she has picked up some of our American slang already. "I taught French to GIs," she related, "but my husband was not one of my pupils. I met him through the Army's educational department. He was from France so I used to take him around and translate for him."

him and told him to go tell my husband that if he wanted his wife, he'd have to pay for it. I watched him as he told my husband and I thought he was going to just let me sit there. But he paid for my baggage. At the hotel I opened one suitcase, and when I saw that it was completely filled with my baggage, he hit the roof. I don't know if he will ever forgive me.

Although Lilliane states she is very happy here, she admits there is one thing she misses a great deal—French food. "Here you eat good bare meal, in France we have a lot of little delicacies you don't have here. And I do miss them."

Another big chance for her is our American-way of riding everywhere. "We do a lot of walking in France," she explained. "I know I will get awfully fat here. I just walk to and from the car."

HER JOB AS AN interpreter had its exciting moments too. When the male Interpreter was not available, the women would get an emergency call from the military police, to interpret for them when there was a fight or an accident. She added that her position with the Army was a very well-paid job.

"The average man in France makes $100 a month and I was making more than that,"

Lilliane pointed out that the economic picture in France is far from bright. "As I said, the average man makes $100 a month and the prices are about the same as here — clothes are higher." There is also a great housing crisis in France. "You will find seven people living in one room — sleeping in the same room on the floor. Alcohol is scarce and quite dear. I am much happier here because I don't see all that misery."

"People are striking all the time and they don't have any money. I don't know how it is here, but the largest families still are the poorest."

She blamed much of the food shortage and the economic situation on too much concentration on wine. "They grow a tremendous

SHE WENT ON to point out that there are probably 1,000 cars in the United States to every one in France. The main means of transportation there is the bicycle, "We have a parking problem, too," she advised. "You have to pay to park your bicycle." Because of the few automobiles, traffic is not very heavy in France, except perhaps in Paris. CITIZEN Payne reported that the French are not as good drivers as Americans. "In France, they don't pay any attention to signs," she stated. "Here you are trained to be good."

A very energetic and talented young comedian, Payne is interested in the theater and has had a great deal of dramatic training; she paints and is a "great music lover." She loves to read and travel.

She added that she has another hobby — writing letters to her brother and sister in France. Her last letter was 80 pages long. "My eyes are so big," she laughed, "I have so much yet to discover."

SYMBOL OF STRENGTH—
A motto that was Charlemagne's in the year 800 forms part of the newly authorized insignia of Headquarters Allied Forces in Europe. The Latin phrase around the shield means "Crime does not pay." It stands as a warning against would-be aggressors as the West builds its strength. In the center is a tower in silver, symbolizing "the fortress of Europe." On the gateway to the tower are the letters "CE" standing for Central Europe. Behind the tower and pointing upward is the sword of Charlemagne.

Losing His Hand

TOKYO, Jan. 15 (UP)—Tomoharu Urawana, 38, complained to police Friday that visitors were "removing" his island.

Urawana, owner of a 16-acre island, said people were taking earth from his land to use as wall plaster.

South would then be able to take a clue, but the enemy would be ready to take three diamonds, a club, a spade and two hearts—enough to defeat the contract. South saw that the best chance consisted in "stealing" a trick. Since he won the first trick in dummy with the king of diamonds and immediately returned a low card from the dummy, "What would you do in East's case? Would you be a hero and risk right up with the ace of spades? You should, of course, but here are low cards. When you win, you actually lose. East played a low spade on the third play and South was developing his best suit."

When East played low, South managed to win the trick with the ace of spades. This was declarer's seventh trick, and he had no other plans with the spades. He promptly switched to clubs, forcing out West's ace. The enemy could force out the ace of diamonds, but South could run seven tricks—four clubs, two diamonds, and the carefully stolen spade trick.

Year In Office Has Taught Ike How To Live With Job

Editors' Note: President Eisenhower completes his first year in office next Wednesday. In the following dispatch, veteran United Press White House reporter Merriman Smith tells how the chief executive has learned to live with his job.

By MERRIMAN SMITH
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 —UP— President Eisenhower has made vast strides in learning to live with his job.

When he entered the White House Jan. 20, 1953, he still was a political neophyte, still somewhat self-conscious about life as a civilian after 40 years of military service. It had been a long, hard political campaign in 1952, followed by an arduous trip to Korea and days of pre-inauguration conferences with his advisers in New York. The new President's apparent tension was due as much to fatigue as apprehension over the momentous duties ahead of him.

Now, however, he is much more relaxed and seems much more in command of his own destiny, his own program. He has grown increasingly realistic and philosophical about his relations with other politicians.

A Changed Attitude
A year ago, one rarely heard of Mr. Eisenhower voicing the slightest word of criticism of members of his own party. Now, in the privacy of his official family, he discloses his knowledge that a political organization, like any other segment of humanity, contains a certain percentage of bore and trouble makers, as well as friends and men of intelligence.

He has spent the better part of his first year sifting and studying advice and information from administration associates, some of it from persons outside his party. Consequently, he has come up with a legislative program in which he believes enthusiastically, regardless of lukewarm acceptance by some sections of the GOP.

Convinced that he is right, Mr. Eisenhower is in a mood to fight for his blueprint for a "stronger America." This is not necessarily an attitude of belligerence. He has no chip on his shoulder. But he seems to feel the reins of government in his hands more than at any time since his inauguration.

Leaves Job at Office
One of the most valuable lessons he has learned is that, regardless of criticism, he must get in a certain amount of recreation each week. He tries, when possible, to leave his job at his office desk when he walks along the White House rose garden to his residential quarters.

He tries to play golf at least once a week, weather permitting. He paints when he gets a chance during daylight hours on the weekends. He likes to play bridge with old friends on Saturday night and frequently sends out to a Chinese restaurant for prepared orders of fried rice and eggs to which he serves as "bridge supper."

It is no secret that the President is less than enthusiastic about the heavy social life the White House family must endure during the winter. He sometimes seems preoccupied at the large and glittering state functions. But he seems to enjoy the musicale after a formal dinner.

There is much less evidence of the once-famous Eisenhower temper. News conference questions that would have nettled him into pink-faced anger last spring now roll off his back, undoubtedly, he still gets angry but it is difficult to detect.

Talks Like a Soldier
In the privacy of his staff or close friends, he will sound off in infantry-type words when he feels the occasion warrants. Not if he lives to be 100 years old, will he lose his professional soldier's rank.

cor for bungling and sloppy misplays.

Mr. Eisenhower seems to be in better shape physically, than he has been in months. There have been no recent complaints about the right elbow that bothered him in Colorado last summer, no recent reports of colds, upset stomach or other ailments.

This may mean he's taking better care of himself. But more important, he's learning to live with the terrifying task of being President.

Cow's Head May Tell How Much Milk She Gives
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 —UP— The experts on dairy animals now are looking at the heads of cows to determine how much milk they will produce.

For that, you have the word of the Agricultural Research Administration.

Cow experts made an intensive study of animals at the Beltsville, Md., research center of the Department of Agriculture, in co-operation with 20 cooperating state experiment stations. Some 350 Holstein and 245 Jersey cows were measured from tail to big brown eyes.

Both Ends Count
The department came to this conclusion:

A cow with a long head is apt to give more milk a year than one with a short head.

"This also was true of similar studies of other groups of heifers and cows at Beltsville," it said.

That doesn't mean you should ask your milk man if the cow that produced your quart of milk wore a long head or a short one.

As an expert put it: "The milk you get delivered from the dairy at home doesn't come from the same cow. It's a co-operative effort since all of the milk is put in one big bucket."

The department reports incidentally that a cow which does not produce 5,000 pounds of milk a year—two and a half tons—isn't worth her hay, mash, and salt.

"She barely makes her owner a profit," the department said.

A Large Sample
The overall report—apart from the measurements of heads and other parts of the cows—involved an analysis of records from about 950,000 cows.

The bureau, in regard to large and small heads, did point this out: Sculptors and artists use head-lengths as a basis for establishing body proportions.

The department also would have you know that it has learned of the development of a new short-time method for making American cheddar cheese from pasteurized milk. This method—available to industry—requires only 2 1/2 hours.

Dinner to Honor Rookie
FRESNO, Calif., Jan. 14 —UP— Top names of the sports world, including Eddie Stanky, Peanuts Lowrey, Chuck Dressen, Bill Sereno and Brick Laws, will attend the annual $7 a plate Fresno Cardinals dinner on Monday night for the benefit of Little League and American Legion baseball. Truman Cleveland, who is scheduled to report to the Boston Red Sox spring training camp, will be honored as the "rookie of the year." He compiled a 16-2 record last year.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — One recording development of 1953, that may have more lasting effects than the doggie in the window, is the release of Musical Sound Books. These are 81 records for "young listeners."

Paul Lazare and Dr. Miller McClintock, who are behind the project, have long felt that most children's records are "comic-book music." So they set about to do something better. Musical Sound Books, the result, are mostly gay classical selections, many written specifically for children.

There are such things as Schumann's "Scenes From Childhood," Beethoven's "Children's Games," Saint-Saens' "Carnival of the Animals," and Ravel's "Mother Goose Suite."

Many of the selections run only 30 or 40 seconds, and all are things youngsters can understand and enjoy.

As a unit, the Musical Sound Books make up the largest musical library ever recorded at one time. Begun last January, it was finished by Aug. 1. Many of the selections were recorded in Europe, and many feature the fine young American pianist, Sonda Bianca.

One feature of the set is that they're made on new-fashioned, 78-r.p.m. records — new in that they're the first Extended Play 78s, some running five minutes or so per side. That technique was chosen with a merciful thought for teachers, who have to search through an LP record for a wanted passage.

If you have a child, Musical Sound Books are a fine way to introduce good music.

The Popular Side: Mercury coming out with a tribute to Sophie Tucker, called "Fifty Golden Years." Top Mercury artists, like Patti Page, Vic Damone and Georgia Gibbs, will sing on the album.

Sammy Kaye has signed a new vocalist, Kathy Collins. . . . That weird rhythm, that makes Richard Hayes' record, "The Long Black Rifle," so fascinating, is made by playing a snare drum on top of a kettle drum. Mercury credits Hayes himself with devising the idea.

On The Classics: NBC-TV's vastly-moving production, "Victory at Sea," was an emotional experience which left us often thrilled and exhausted. How great a part the score created by Richard Rodgers had in creating these moods can be realized by listening to RCA-Victor's record of an orchestral suite from the score, arranged and conducted by Robert Russell Bennett. It stands by itself as a deeply expressive music, and to those who are haunted by the memory of the TV film's magnificent pictures it is a memorable souvenir.

Shamrock School Lunch Price Cut

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Price of lunches for senior and junior high school students has been cut from 35 cents to 30 cents, Mrs. Tommy O'Gorman, supervisor of the North Ward school lunch room, announced this week.

The price of 25 cents for grade student lunches will remain the same, Mrs. O'Gorman said.

Mrs. O'Gorman, with the assistance of four women helpers, prepares and serves more than 400 meals each school day. The regular plate lunch consists of meat, two vegetables, a salad, and is served with milk and a dessert.

Here the wealthy car dealer demonstrates his technique on "baby" Rose Monchena. He announced he plans to kiss thousands of young ladies from 18 to 90, and if elected, to put more women into office in an attempt to lessen "corruption" in government.

Smart housewife with 5 children and part time job spends only 20 minutes a day shopping

Big family plus brand knowledge helps busy Connecticut woman market quickly.

"Even if you have only a few minutes to shop for a tribe like mine," says Mrs. Richard Wols of Weston, Conn., "you can still be choosy about what to buy. And you can buy it quickly!"

"For instance, when we go marketing, the children and I pick up the things we like in no time at all . . . merchandise we trust, products with brand names. In fact, the whole shopping tour usually takes about 20 minutes, which leaves me time to go off baby-sitting while Ginger, Winnie and Muriel help take care of Richard and Jeff."

"We buy other things besides groceries quickly, too. But whatever we buy, we check with friends and study the advertisements in local newspapers. It doesn't take us long to decide after that. From stockings to storm windows, we like reliable manufacturers' brand names best! "I depend on the five children for help with the shopping just as I depend on the brand names we all use. And for both rea-

Harvesters Finish Strong For Victory

(Special To The Pampa News) ABILENE, Jan. 16 — Pampa's Harvester quint overcame a three-quarter jittery spell here Saturday long enough to pull ahead of the Abilene Eagles and down the Warbirds, 51-39, for the Pampa's 42nd straight victory.

Lubbock Quint Surprises Broncs, 60-36

LUBBOCK, Jan. 16 — (Special) — The Lubbock Westerners, strengthened by the addition of 4-8 Lyle Harger, romped over the Odessa Broncs here Saturday night, 60-36, for their third win in four starts in District 1-AAAA play.

Harger, who lettered for the Westerners as a sophomore, didn't come out for basketball last season and only reported to the Lubbock squad on Wednesday of this week. Harger's height put new life into the Westerners.

In addition to his rebound work, Harger tossed in 11 points for the Westerners.

Lubbock led all the way after surging ahead in the first quarter 20-4. The Westerners made it 33-15 at halftime and were leading 41-23 after three quarters.

Dale Hall of the Westerners was high with 19 points. Milton Gillespie bucketed 12 of his points in the second quarter.

Chuck Key tied Harger as the scoring runnerup for the Westerners with 11 points. Carl Schlemmer had 10 for the Broncs.

While Lubbock was winning its third 1-A game in four starts, Odessa was losing its third district decision in four outings.

Sandies Rout Midland 68-39

AMARILLO, Jan. 16 — (Special) — The Amarillo Golden Sandies rolled past an outclassed Midland Bulldog five here Saturday night, 68-39, and remain in the thick of the championship race in District 1-AAAA.

It was the third win in four 1-A starts for the Sandies while Midland was absorbing its fourth straight loss in district play.

The Sandies broke away quickly here tonight, scoring 11 points before the Bulldogs were able to score. The Sandies led 15-7 at the first quarter mark, 30-15 at halftime and 56-31 at the three-quarter stage.

Bub Farrell led the Sandies attack with 14 points with Jackie Collier contributing 10 to the winners' cause. Joe Nicholson led the Bulldogs with 10 points.

Amarillo held a wide edge in rebounds, 74-20, and got 72 shots at the basket to only 42 for Midland. The Sandies made 30 of their field goal attempts for 41 percent.

record. Abilene thus suffered its third 1-A loss in four starts.

The Eagles made the Harvesters "sweat" for a little better than three quarters before the Green and Golders pulled away to a safe lead midway through the fourth period.

The Harvesters led 37-32 at the end of three periods but Charlie Row hit a tee throw and Dan Boyd a field goal for the Eagles to cut the Harvesters lead to two points 37-35.

But the defending state champs stayed off the Eagle rally and scored 10 points before the Eagles scratched again.

Jimmy Bond, after being held to five points in the first half, came back in the final two periods to mesh 10 and grab high scoring honors for the game with 15 tallies.

Gary Griffin followed Bond in the scoring column with 14 points and Ken Hinkle, who fouled out with two minutes to go in the third quarter, added nine points to the Harvesters cause.

Twyman Ash led the Eagles with 13 points while Charlie Row dunked in 11 for the losers.

Abilene led after the first quarter, 10-9, but the Harvesters held the advantage at halftime, 21-20, and 37-32 at the three-quarter stage.

The Eagle threw a scare into the Harvesters early in the third quarter when they pulled ahead by three points, 28-25. But Hinkle dropped in a long one and Bond and Griffin each connected to put the Harvesters out front to stay, 33-29.

Pampa hit 17 of 24 free throw attempts for 70.8 per cent while Abilene made only 13 of 26 for 50 per cent.

Both teams were sluggish on ball handling with bad passes, traveling with the ball and double dribbling marring play. But the Harvesters settled down somewhat in the last half to pull away from the battling Eagles.

The Harvesters will return home today and will start work Monday on another invasion of the southern half of 1-AAAA. The Pampans will meet Midland at Midland Friday and jump over to Odessa Saturday night.

Saturday's win was the 14th without a loss for the Harvesters this season.

Borger Outscores San Angelo, 65-59

SAN ANGELO, Jan. 16 — The Borger Bulldogs stayed in the running for the District 1-AAAA title here Saturday night with a 65-59 win over the San Angelo Bobcats.

The third in four 1-A starts for Borger. For San Angelo it was their second district loss, also in four starts. San Angelo, who entered the week's play with a perfect 2-0 district slate, dropped their second tilt in as many nights, the Pampa Harvesters having defeated the Bobcats Friday.

San Angelo's attack was led by Bub Farrell with 14 points. Jackie Collier contributed 10 to the winners' cause. Joe Nicholson led the Bulldogs with 10 points.

Panhandle 5 Surprises Tigers, 39-37

McLEAN, Jan. 16 — (Special) — The Panhandle Panthers rose up here Friday night to upset the McLean Tigers in a District 1-A basketball game, 39-37.

It was only the second loss in 19 starts for the Tigers. Panhandle, in winning, extended their win-loss record to 10-4.

Friday's game was nip and tuck all the way through with the score tied at halftime, 19-19, after McLean had held a 9-8 lead after one quarter of play. Panhandle outscored the Tigers by one point in each of the final two quarters for their victory.

Rodney Gunn of the Tigers and Aubrey Russell and Gregory Sherwood of Panhandle shared high scoring honors with 13 points apiece.

Panhandle made a clean sweep in two preliminary games also, winning the girls game 40-36 and the 'B' boys game, 34-23.

In the girls game, Panhandle held a one-point lead at half-time and third quarter stages before stretching it to four points at the game's end.

The Tigerettes held a 10-7 first quarter lead but the Panhandle ladies rallied to go ahead at half-time, 18-17, and were leading by one point at the third quarter mark, 29-28.

Kay Williams was high for Panhandle and the game with 25 points while Mavis Medley led the Tigerettes with 17.

The McLean teams will play two games here next week, meeting Wheeler Tuesday night and Canadian Friday night, the latter a District 1-A contest.

Starter Wayne Moore, who missed the game for the Tigers here Friday, with a sprained ankle, is expected to be ready for action for the Canadian tilt.

Local GG Officials Frown On Regional Director Inviting Tourney Runnersup

IT WAS DECIDED AT A MEETING last Monday night between the Pampa Boys Club and Duke Nally, regional director of the Golden Gloves tournament, that no runnersup from the Pampa District GG tourney would be allowed to go to the regional tourney.

The vote on this was unanimous by the Boys Club directors who ram-rod the district tourney here and Nally said he would go along with this.

Well, it looked like everything was running along smoothly until Thursday night, the night of the district finals here. When Nally approached T. J. Watt, Boys Club boxing coach, to tell him to send the runnersup to the regional tournament.

Watt, of course, was dumbfounded because that very same man (Nally) agreed only three days before that no runnersup would go from here to the regional.

It's just not right for the runnersup to be allowed to advance to the regional. It's taking away the principle of the tournament. The tourney is held to see which boys are the best boxers and the boys who are fortunate enough in winning should be the only ones to advance past the district, except, of course, when an alternate may be used to replace a winner who is unable to participate in the regional.

If they're going to let all the boys go to the regional anyhow, then there's not much point in holding a district tournament.

Even if Nally agreed to pay the expenses of the runnersup to the regional tournament, it still wouldn't be right.

In most cases, the winner of the district meet would meet the boy he defeated in the regional tournament. And if the fight was pretty even in the district meet, then the boy who won the district might get beat by the same boy in the regional.

Anyway you look at it, it isn't right.

What made it even worse, the meeting we held with Nally Monday lasted until well past midnight as it took that long to get this situation straightened out. The meeting was all in vain.

Unless a match can be arranged this week, the Pampa Boys Club will not see any more action until the Regional GG tourney in Amarillo, Jan. 26-27-28-29.

A match with the Cameron Area has been previously arranged but negotiations with the Oklahoma school have fallen through.

Rice, Lamar Stars Win Honors Easily

DALLAS, Jan. 16 — David Kosee Johnson, Rice Institute's tremendous fullback who led the Southwest Conference in rushing and scoring, has been voted Texas athlete of the year for 1953.

The slightly-built Baytown, Tex. product who sparked the Rice football team to a Southwest Conference championship club, Saturday staged a runaway for the honor in a poll of the Texas Sports Writers Association.

He received 33 of the 74 ballots cast to far outdistance a dozen other candidates for the award. — a plaque which will be presented to him Feb. 16 at a sports achievement dinner in Dallas.

His deceptive power-plunge, which belied his 175 pounds, earned him unanimous choice for United Press all-conference honors. He gained 944 yards in 10 games for an average of five yards per carry while being the busiest ball-lugger in the loop. As the workhorse of the Rice backfield he was called on to carry the ball on 188 occasions and was touched for only 17 yards in losses all season.

He scored 10 touchdowns and kicked two extra points for a 62-point total, led the circuit in kick returns with a 28-yard average and was considered as vital a defensive plug as he was on offense.

An ankle injury kept him out of all but a few minutes of Rice's 28-6 Cotton Bowl victory over Alabama.

Johnson and recipients of the Sports Writers Association's four other awards will be honored at the banquet sponsored jointly by the association and the Saturday morning quarterbacks club. Association President Dick Peebles of the San Antonio Express will make the presentations.

The others to be honored include DeWitt Weaver, Texas Tech, as Southwest champion for the year; Milburn Smith, of East Texas State, as senior college coach of the year; Floyd Wagstaff of Tyler Junior College, as junior college coach of the year; and Cooper Robbing of Odessa, as high school coach of the year.

Darrow Hooper, Texas A&M weight star, was second to Johnson in the balloting with nine votes. Others receiving ballots included Walter Davis, former Texas A&M athlete who set a new world record for the high jump, seven feet, six inches, at the 1948 Olympics; Walter of East Texas State, as senior college coach of the year; and Bobby Chaves of Texas Tech, five each; Licky Moegele of Rice, four; Gene Schwaninger of Rice, three; Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, two; Morgan Wilkerson of Texas Christian, Rex Baxter of Amarillo and Jim Gray of East Texas State, one each.

Fondren Polls 48 Votes As Top Schoolboy

DALLAS, Jan. 16 — Walter Fondren, 160-pound tailback on Houston Lamar's State Class AAAA championship club, Saturday was voted the outstanding high school football player in Texas in 1953 in the most-looked-up balloting in the award's seven-year history.

The slender trigger man in Coach Bob Schultze's single wing attack so impressed the members of the Texas Sports Writers Association that they gave him 48 out of the 73 votes cast.

Fondren will be honored by the alumni association of the University of Houston at its annual banquet at the Shamrock hotel Jan. 22.

Thirteen other schoolboy glidders figured in the voting, but the closest of them came to Fondren's impressive showing was five ballots each for Kenneth Hall, Sugar Land back who broke all state scoring marks, and Johnny Elam, the elusive back off Luling's Class A finalist team.

The other getting votes included Jack Morgan, Kilgore guard; Joe Clements, Huntsville back; Carl Schlemmer, Odessa back; Carl Larper, Port Arthur end; Don Barber, Floydada center; R. V. Allcorn, Olton back; Larry George, Dallas Tech back; Carlos Esquivel, Edinburg back; Carlos Lerma, Kingsville back; Curtis Reeves, Wichita Falls back, and Roy Masters, Brownwood back.

The Houston school alumni have been honoring the state's outstanding football players since 1948, presenting him with a trophy emblematic of his selection. Morris Frank Houston columnist will be master of ceremonies at this year's dinner.

Porkers Jolt SMU, 61-58

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Jan. 16 — UP — The University of Arkansas Razorbacks defeated Southern Methodist 61 to 58 Saturday night before a capacity crowd in Razorback fieldhouse for their first conference win.

The victory over SMU gave the Texas Longhorns undisputed leadership in the Southwest Conference. Longhorns now have a 3-0 record and are the only undefeated team in the conference.

Arkansas came from behind in the final quarter to hand the Mustangs their first defeat. At the half, the score stood at 34 for Arkansas and 33 for SMU. It was tied 45 to 45 at the close of the third.

Hog 11 To Play 10 Games In '54

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Jan. 16 — UP — Arkansas will face Tulsa, Mississippi, Louisiana State and Houston in addition to its six Southwest Conference rivals next fall, Coach Bowden Wyatt announced Saturday.

Texas Razorbacks will open at home against Tulsa Sept. 25, then play three conference foes—Texas Christian, Baylor and Texas, before getting in another inter-sectional game against Ole Miss. The LSU and Houston games will close out the season.

Definite site of the LSU game has not been determined, but will either be at Baton Rouge or Shreveport.

Ford, From Sidewalks Of NY Starts Year As Hottest Pro shot in Chicago Tam O'Shanter's World Championship.

The fact that Ford was born in Manhattan makes him unique among top golfers, nearly all of whom came from places which had backyards large enough to hold at least a nine-hole course. Tracing practically all of the top-notchers since they began playing, you find almost the same environment. Francis Ouimet and Bobby Jones lived across the street from courses. Harry Cooper, Byron Nelson, Lloyd Mangrum, Ralph Guldahl, Jimmy Demaret and Ben Hogan found courses as plentiful as pavement in Texas.

Ford's neighborhood was more suited to the thing which, he claims, makes his putting so excellent.

"I hung around a poolroom, a place called Lou Brown's, and played all afternoon once school got out," he recalls. "Shooting pool left me with the touch on angles and all the stuff that goes into putting. When I began to play golf seriously, I found I was saving shots on the greens because I was putting naturally."

Ford is unorthodox in the back-swing, but once the club starts coming down, he's definitely in business. He is extremely sound in the hitting area.

"I was stationed in Miami while in the Coast Guard, played on some tight courses, places where you really had to control the ball," he explains.

Ford's pop, it must be noted, was a pro himself. When his son returned with a "terrible tight swing." Pop made Doug straighten it out. Fixing it up, Doug went about things his own way. The result is a looping backswing.

Trotters To Be Here Jan. 27

Globe-Trotter Tickets On Sale

Tickets for the Harlem-Globe Trotter basketball show to be unveiled in Harvester Fieldhouse, Jan. 27, are now on sale. Buff McGuire, president of the Kiwanis Club, sponsors of the program, has revealed.

The duets may be obtained at Addington's Western Store, 119 S. Cuyler, any day during the week or at the Combs-Worley and Hughes Building, lobby next Saturday morning.

It will be second time in as many years that the world famous Globe-Trotters will appear in Pampa. As was the case last year, three teams will accompany the Trotters here for the show with a double-header on tap. The other three teams this year will be the Hawaiian Surf Riders, House of David and the Kansas City Monarchs, the latter two making their initial appearance here. The Surf Riders were with the Globe-Trotter troupe here last year.

In addition to the two basketball games, there will be several special events during the half-time ceremonies and between games. Special events will include Hula-Hula dancing by pretty Hawaiian girls and various vaudeville acts.

Reserve seat tickets to the show are priced at $3.50 with general admission $2.50. These are the only two ticket prices.

The Globe-Trotters played to a full house here last year. Proceeds of the show will go toward helping finance the Kiwanis youth recreation center.

Raiders Smother NM Aggies, 81-50

LUBBOCK, Tex., Jan. 16 — UP — Forward Jim Reed led the Texas Tech Red Raiders to their third conference win in as many starts Saturday night by defeating New Mexico A&M 81 to 50 in a Border Conference game.

Lubbock led all the way after surging ahead in the first quarter 20-4. The Westerners made it 33-15 at halftime and were leading 41-23 after three quarters.

Dale Hall of the Westerners was high with 19 points. Milton Gillespie bucketed 12 of his points in the second quarter.

Chuck Key tied Harger as the scoring runnerup for the Westerners with 11 points. Carl Schlemmer had 10 for the Broncs.

While Lubbock was winning its third 1-A game in four starts, Odessa was losing its third district decision in four outings.

Sandies Rout Midland 68-39

AMARILLO, Jan. 16 — (Special) — The Amarillo Golden Sandies rolled past an outclassed Midland Bulldog five here Saturday night, 68-39, and remain in the thick of the championship race in District 1-AAAA.

It was the third win in four 1-A starts for the Sandies while Midland was absorbing its fourth straight loss in district play.

The Sandies broke away quickly here tonight, scoring 11 points before the Bulldogs were able to score. The Sandies led 15-7 at the first quarter mark, 30-15 at halftime and 56-31 at the three-quarter stage.

Bub Farrell led the Sandies attack with 14 points with Jackie Collier contributing 10 to the winners' cause. Joe Nicholson led the Bulldogs with 10 points.

Amarillo held a wide edge in rebounds, 74-20, and got 72 shots at the basket to only 42 for Midland. The Sandies made 30 of their field goal attempts for 41 percent.

Borger Outscores San Angelo, 65-59

SAN ANGELO, Jan. 16 — The Borger Bulldogs stayed in the running for the District 1-AAAA title here Saturday night with a 65-59 win over the San Angelo Bobcats.

The third in four 1-A starts for Borger. For San Angelo it was their second district loss, also in four starts. San Angelo, who entered the week's play with a perfect 2-0 district slate, dropped their second tilt in as many nights, the Pampa Harvesters having defeated the Bobcats Friday.

San Angelo's attack was led by Bub Farrell with 14 points. Jackie Collier contributed 10 to the winners' cause. Joe Nicholson led the Bulldogs with 10 points.

WT-NM Votes To Keep 3-Vet Limit

PLAINVIEW, Jan. 16 — (Special) — An attempt to change the controversial veteran limit from three to four failed to carry at the annual spring meeting of the West Texas-New Mexico League here tonight.

A motion that the rule which now calls for three veterans, five limited service and six rookies be changed to call for 4-6 was made by Borger president, Chippy Spenser, and seconded by Plainview president, H. O. Cooper.

Abilene cast a vote that killed the motion but it seemed altogether probable that several other clubs would have voted against the change had it gotten past Abilene.

The league directors voted to stage another queens contest.

The league decided against hiring ex-major league umpire Art Passarelli as publicist.

All clubs reported ready to go for the coming season. League president Hal Sayles commented on this by saying that the WT-NM is the only league in Texas, besides the Texas League that is ready to go this coming season.

PHS Beats Bobcats To Take 1-4A Lead

1st Loss For 'Cats In District Play

SAN ANGELO, Jan. 16 — The Pampa Harvesters took over sole possession of the District 1-AAAA leadership here Friday night with a resounding 62-48 win over the hitherto undefeated San Angelo Bobcats.

It was the third straight 1-4A win for the Harvesters without a defeat while San Angelo was suffering its first loss in district play in three starts. For the season, the Harvesters remained unbeaten with a 13-0 record while the defeat left the Bobcats with a 15-3 record.

All-state center Jimmy Bond, abed with influenza for most of the week, led the Harvesters to their unexpected easy win here Friday.

The 6-5 pivot man poured in 29 points to give him a total of 90 in three district games, an average of 30 per tilt. Bond hit 12 field goals and five from the gratia line.

San Angelo was only able to make a game of it through the first three minutes at which time

3-Way Tie For 2nd In 1-4A Thru Friday

Amarillo, Borger, Lubbock and Pampa recorded wins in District 1-AAAA cage play Friday night. Friday's results left the Harvesters with the only unbeaten record in both district and season's play. The Harvesters, in defeating San Angelo, 62-48, at San Angelo, swept to their third straight 1-4A win while San Angelo bowed from the undefeated ranks in the district race.

Amarillo and Borger climbed into a 3-way tie for second place in the standings by winning Friday night games. Amarillo defeated Odessa, 71-50, while Borger was edging past Abilene, 54-41. In the other conference game, Lubbock swamped Midland, 66-48.

Amarillo led all the way in defeating Odessa. The Sandies held quarterly leads of 20-13, 39-30 and 63-41. Ken Hutto with 21 points led the Sandies. All-state griddler Carl Schlemeyer paced the Broncos with 18 points.

Hook-shot artist Allen Simpson led Borger to its win over Abilene with 17 points. Ronnie Mulhern was high for Abilene with 17. Borger held quarterly leads of 13-10, 29-24 and 44-22.

Tall Wade Wolfe was the scoring star for Lubbock's 66-48 win over hapless Midland. The 6-8 center bucketed 22 points. Tom Dyer led Midland with 13 points.

Lubbock was ahead at the end of each quarter, 19-10, 34-20 and 41-22. It was the first win in three 1-AAAA starts for Lubbock.

New York Scribes Honor Campanella

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 — Roy Campanella, Brooklyn's "Mr. Big" in the 1953 pennant campaign, was named "player of the year" Saturday by the New York baseball writers and will be presented the Sid Mercer Memorial Award at their annual dinner on Sunday, Jan. 31.

Campanella was the second Dodger in a row to win the award. Pee-wee Reese was choice of the writers a year ago.

The 32-year-old Campanella previously had been named the National League's most valuable player and was named to the United Press National League all-star team. He hit 41 homers last season, an all-time major mark for catchers, and he also had an all-time high in runs batted in by receivers, 142. He batted .312 and played in 144 games, tops for any catcher in the National League.

Ellis Most Valuable Ag

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Jan. 16 — Don Ellis, little all-Southwest Conference quarterback from DeQuincy, La., Saturday night was presented the Lipscomb-Loveless award as the most valuable player on the 1953 Texas A&M College football team.

The award was one of several presented at the annual winter sports banquet at which Dallas insurance man Louie Throgmorton was the principal speaker. Some 500 persons attended the affair at Sblus Hall.

A new award given this year was the Bert Smith Memorial by A. O. and H. E. Nicholson of Dallas to the best little man on the squad, all-around performer Johnny Smith was a small end of the 1939 national championship team who was killed in World War II.

Others honored included: Connie Maguire, New London halfback, Bert Pfaff award to best blocker.

Durwood Scott, Munday tackle, team captain.

Norbert Olendorf, Lockhart tackle, A. M. Waldrop award for most improved lineman.

For 3rd Conference Win Reaper 5 Breezes Past Nixson, 35-27

The Pampa Junior High Reapers' ing was equally divided among the little Reapers. Gene Green was the high with four points followed by John Nutting, Loyd Waters and Buster Baird with three each.

Following is the Reaper-Nixson "A" game box:

Player	FG	FT	PF	TP
McWilliams	7	3	2	17
Maudlin	4	3	2	11

Murray	0	0	0	0
Totals	11	7	5	27

The Reapers broke the game wide open in the third quarter when they raced to a 33-12 lead, scoring 14 in the third to a lone point for the Whirlies.

Coach Pernal Scoggin swept the Reaper bench in the final period and with reserves taking over, the Whirlies whittled the Reaper lead but they never came close to catching up. The Reapers scored only two points in the final period while Nixson was collecting 15.

Larry McWilliams led the Reapers with 17 points. He was followed by Dickie Maudlin with 11. Quisenberry was high for Nixson with 11.

It was the third win in five starts for the Reapers in Panhandle Conference play. Friday's game was the only game played by the Reapers last week. They were scheduled to meet Borger at Borger Tuesday but was postponed because of icy hi-ways. The game will be made up later in the season.

The Reapers will be idle next week due to mid-term examinations. Next scheduled game on the Reapers slate will be Jan. 29, when the locals will host Sam Houston of Amarillo at Junior High School.

In a preliminary game at Amarillo Friday, the Nixson B team defeated the Reaper B, 20-17. Score:

New York Giants Stand Pat Despite Fifth - Place Finish

By JIMMY BRESLIN
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — (NEA) — The starry-eyed summer stock player in Bangor, Me., has his feet on the ground compared to the cloud which is apparently holding up the front office of the Giants.

The complete flop in 1953 with a fifth-place finish and a drop of 173,421 admissions, Polo Grounds needed a thorough revamping during the hot stove season. Sal Maglie and Larry Jansen, 20-game winners during 1951's miracle, appear through. Was Westrum, the catcher, hit .224 and knocked in only 29 runs.

But instead of action in the trading marts and any sort of dealings which would improve the team the New Yorkers have been sitting tight and reading the papers, which dutifully told them of the Yankees' acquisition of Harry Byrd, a fine pitcher and Eddie Robinson, a rousing left-hand pull hitter; Milwaukee's trade for needed second baseman Danny O'Connell; and Brooklyn's almost frank admission that it would trade with anyone coming up with a decent deal.

High School Coach Hired As New Kansas U. Mentor

LAWRENCE, Kan., Jan. 16 — UP — Kansas University's 27th football coach and the first the Jayhawks have hired directly from a high school post-said Saturday he expected to do most of his recruiting of players within this state.

Charles (Chuck) Mather, who put together six mythical Ohio state prep champions in as many years at Miamillon High, was hired Friday at a $9,600 annual salary to replace J. V. (Bik) Sikes, Sikes quit, under pressure, immediately before Kansas played its last game in 1953.

"We're not going to Ohio or any other state looking for players," Mather said. "But if one of them happens to wander out our way, we'll be happy to see him."

Mather said he hadn't made up his mind yet about assistant coaches, and would talk with Sikes before he did. There was one report he would hire three new men and keep two of Sikes' aides, Wayne Replugh and Dee Andros.

Mather was the second Massillon coach to jump directly from prep tutoring into a major college post. Paul Brown pioneered when he went to Ohio State in 1941 after a successful career as the perennial Ohio high school grid contender. Brown now is coach of the Cleveland pro team named in his honor.

Mather's six year record was 87 wins and only three losses, compared with an 80-8-2 mark rolled up by Brown over a nine-year span.

A. C. (Dutch) Lomborg, Kansas athletic director who announced Mather's appointment, said the Big Seven Conference college expected an "outstanding coaching job" from the Ohioan.

Howey said Mather was chosen from a field which included Coach Jack Mitchell of University of Wichita, Volney Ashford of Missouri Valley and Delmar Patterson of William Jewell College.

ACC Schedules Track Clinic

ABILENE, Tex., Jan. 16 — UP — A track and field clinic, free to all high school coaches, will be conducted at Abilene Christian College Feb. 27, ACC Track Coach Oliver Jackson said Saturday.

Jackson, Coaches J. H. Shelton of Howard Payne, O. W. Strahan of Southwest Texas and L. B. Morris of the Fort Worth high schools will serve as instructors in methods and techniques of all running and field events.

The ACC team will provide demonstrations for the lectures.

ing marts and any sort of dealings which would improve the team the New Yorkers have been sitting tight and reading the papers, which dutifully told them of the Yankees' acquisition of Harry Byrd, a fine pitcher and Eddie Robinson, a rousing left-hand pull hitter; Milwaukee's trade for needed second baseman Danny O'Connell; and Brooklyn's almost frank admission that it would trade with anyone coming up with a decent deal.

"Willie Mays will be back from the Army and he could light a fire which would spread through the team," Carl Hubbell, the old south-paw and farm system man, says hopefully. "I've seen plenty of teams which pulled the day and night difference act with one good player added to them."

"We've got some fine players coming up... pitchers like Mario Picone and Johnny McCall, a left-hander who can throw real hard," publicity man Bill Goodrich points out.

Horace Stoneham, the president, and Charley Feeney, his assistant, greet you with a smile. Nobody mentions the words deal or improvement — outside of Mays' return.

Hubbell does say that the club would love to make a deal of the type which brought Harry Byrd to the Yankees. But those things don't just come along — except to the Yankees.

The Giants seem to be putting all their blue chips on the youthful Mays, whose tremendous throwing arm, strong early-season hitting and infectious spirit had so much to do with the pennant in 1951, and who was helping keep the Giants on top for the first six weeks of the next year.

Percentage show that, year in and year out, the one which stands pat with a loser, simply loses again.

The New York Nationals, once baseball's finest franchise, now is a stumbling one. It is not any wild prediction to say that a fifth place repeat in 1954 might be disastrous.

The Giants' biggest assets are 11 home games with the Dodgers and television and radio money.

Instead of using an outfielder — Don Mueller, Monte Irvin or Bobby Thomson for a hurler who could help, a Johnny Antonelli, perhaps, the Giant brass points, Pione, who has failed before, and McCall who couldn't make it with Pittsburgh.

And, of course, to Mays. There is little doubt about Willie's worth. He was able to do almost anything when he was up before.

Willie has been in the Army, however, and, some will point out, hit a meager .228 for his last 13 weeks in baseball.

If Mays should have a bad year, even the personality of the fine people in the Giants' front office couldn't salvage things.

To CUT DOWN ON INJURIES Piling-On May Be Wiped Out In Pro Football Next Year

By JOE KING
NEA Special Correspondent
NEW YORK — (NEA) — An alarming total of injuries to head-line players is turning professional football toward the college rule on ball-carriers.

Bert Bell says he will campaign for the rule which downs the ball whenever the carrier falls on contact with an opponent.

Commissioner Bell of the National Football League would retain the pro privilege of getting up and running when a man slips in the open.

At present, a runner must be securely held by a tackler, or in danger of being piled on, before the whistle blows.

"Most of our injuries are caused by tough, hard football," says Bell. "But we must give our players whatever protection we can. I want the ball downed wherever it lands, whenever a man goes down, unless he is in the open."

President George Preston Marshall of Washington, the Chicago Bears' owner-coach George Halas and New York president John Y. Mara are among those who strongly support Bell.

Others, including Detroit general manager Nick Korbaw and coach Joe Bach of Pittsburgh will not vote for a change.

Paul Brown takes a middle course.

"I am in favor of any rule that would protect the player against injury," comments the Cleveland general manager and coach, "but strict interpretation and calling of the rules would alleviate the injury situation to a great extent."

"I am 100 per cent for Bell's notion," observes Marshall. "We have a rough game to start with, a game which has reached the point where it is important financially for a player to hustle about for his job. We have to protect these men best we can."

The Redskins' chief cites two interesting points about television.

"You may not be aware that players are very conscious of TV," he says, "but they do not want to look bad before their home folks on the network."

"Also, TV closeups of wrestling for the ball when a man is on the ground are certainly not helping us sell football."

Halas says he has been in favor of Bell's rule for two years, stresses ball-wrestling as "so unnecessary."

Mara claims the Bell proposal is a wise one, unless the league can find some means of getting officials to use a quicker and more uniform whistle.

Korbaw flatly opposes Bell.

"We firmly believe that impetus of team A should be halted by team B and not by the rule book," he sums up.

7 Universities In WT Relays

ODESSA, Tex., Jan. 16 — UP — A seven-team university division, numerous high school squads will, eight-team college group and give the 1954 West Texas relays its strongest field in history.

The two-day meet opens March 26 at Odessa.

This year a one-day joint university-college golf division also has been added, to be staged Saturday, March 27, over the 18-hole Odessa country club course. The winning team and top medalist will receive awards.

University division entrants in the West Texas relays included Texas, Houston, Rice, Texas Christian, Southern Methodist, Baylor and Texas Tech.

In the college class are North Texas State, East Texas State, Texas Western, Sul Ross, Howard Payne, Hardin-Simmons, McMurry and Abilene Christian.

About 40 high schools from all over West Texas have entered the two-day event at the Broncho stadium track.

Rote Inks '54 Giant Grid Pact

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 — UP — Frank Gifford, Kyle Rote, Eddie Price and Arnold Galiffa, who probably will form the first string backfield for the New York Giants, in 1954, all have come to terms and signed new contracts, Coach Jim Lee Howell said Saturday.

"With Gifford and Rote at half-back posts, Price at full and Galiffa at quarter, I think that will be the best I've start most of the time," Howell said. "Our new rookie, Don Heinrichs from Washington, may give Galiffa a run for the quarterback job. And of course if Charley Connerly decides he wants to play again that will be something to consider, too. But right now on the basis of last season, Galiffa is my man."

Williams Disagrees With Accepted Theory Of Hitting, But Bosox Suggest Follows It

By JIMMY BRESLIN
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA) — Ted Williams and his partner won an international golf tournament off Florida. The Red Sox slugger caught one the first day, two the second.

To take an interest in anything, Williams has to be the greatest. The four-time American League batting champion and the last man to hit .400 collects $5000 a week for giving catching exhibitions. He heads a fishing tackle manufacturing concern.

Although an avid golf fan, Williams doesn't play. That's because the long follow suspects he couldn't be a Ben Hogan.

Williams disagrees with the generally accepted theory of hitting, yet follows it. The principle is, of course, that the bottom, or pull, hand is the hitting hand, the other the guiding.

Williams fractured a bone in his elbow running into the Comiskey Park wall in the All-Star Game of 1960. He was taking whirlpool baths at Fenway Park, when Alvin Dark called him on the telephone.

Asked his trouble, Dark replied that it was hitting to right field behind the runner.

"I haven't good control of the bat," explained the Giants' shortstop. "I pop up or hit a soft grounder."

"Maybe my theory doesn't agree with yours," said Professor Williams, throwing a towel on the clubhouse floor to serve as a plate. "If it doesn't, I can't help too much, and I probably won't be able to swing a bat on account of the elbow."

"My theory is that if you are a right-hand thrower, the right hand should not only be the power hand, but also the guiding. The reason for this is that it is 20 per cent stronger than the other and more accurate."

Williams stressed that such celebrated right-hand batters as Jimmy Fox and Joe Cronin would violently disagree.

Williams, you see, is a right-hand thrower and a left-hand batter, which leaves him executing the accepted theory.

Carrying out the Williams idea, Dark, the right-hand batter and thrower, would be hitting with his right, top or push hand.

When they discussed National League pitchers, Dark discovered that Williams knew more about them than he did.

Williams, a perfectionist when it comes to batting, is a close student of all pitchers. He studies the batters the same way, any new man coming into the league getting special attention.

One spring trip Williams drove 200 miles out of his way to

South Carolina to get the batting slants of Shoeless Joe Jackson. He put the vacuum on Hugh Duffy, then a coach with the Sox, when he was told that the little man had twice led the National League in batting, once with .438 in 1894.

Returning from Korea at the tail-end of August, after having been away two years, Williams picked up right where he left off and then some. He made 37 hits in 91 times at bat for .407. Nineteen blows were for extra bases — six doubles, 13 home runs. This means that he got a hit, two out of every five trips and was a better than even chance to make it for extra bases.

Referring to Ted Williams' business, he learned it well.

Longhorn 5 Pulling Away In SWC Race

By UNITED PRESS
Texas' unheralded Longhorns were pulling away from the field Saturday in the Southwest Conference basketball race thanks to a 74 to 66 win over Rice.

The Longhorns had the advantage of the familiar floor at Gregory Gym Friday night in their seasaw battle with Rice, which had been favored for the title by virtue of the Owls' victory in the pre-season tournament. It was Texas' fourth loop win without a loss and gave Rice a split in as many games.

Texas Christian climbed out of the cellar with its 69 to 62 victory over Texas A&M in a game marked by 67 personal fouls, in the other SWC cage tilt last night.

SMU Faces Hogs
Saturday finds Southern Methodist at Fayetteville to meet Arkansas in a game which should tell if the Mustangs can maintain their pursuit of Texas. SMU has won its two loop tests and Arkansas has lost its two starts, but the Hogs will be playing their first home conference game and tradition indicates they are always tough on their home court.

The Texas win was ample atonement for the 65 to 58 defeat the Owls hung on the Steers at Houston two weeks ago, and was achieved by much better shooting. Texas hit 47 per cent of its field goal tries, while the Owls connected on only a third of theirs.

Fred Saunders of Texas led the scoring with 26 points, noosing out Rice's star, Gene Schwingner, who got 24, or just under his previous average production.

TCU Rebounding Pays
TCU control of the backboards and greater accuracy at the free-throw line were the difference at College Station. The Frogs got 45 charity tosses from the 36 A&M fouls, and tallied 29 points that way. The Aggies could sink only 19 of their 42 chances.

Four A&M starters had fouled out with five minutes to go, but luckily, no more were thumbed, since Coach Floyd Jones had suited out only nine for the game.

Ray (Shag) Warren of TCU was the big man on rebounds and also the leading scorer with 19 points. He was trailed by teammate Hank Ohlen, who found his eye again for 16 markers, and Pat McCrory of Texas A&M, who got 17. McCrory was the only A&M starter who did not foul out.

Ag Thinlies Slate 11 Meets
COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Jan. 16—UP—Texas A&M's perennial Southwest Conference track and field team will compete in 11 events this spring, highlighted by a May 1 quadrangular meet in Dallas involving Texas, Southern Methodist and NCAA champion Southern California.

Col. Frank Anderson's team, conference champs six of the past seven years, will appear in the Border Olympics and the Texas and A&M relays as well as the star-studded meet at Dallas.

The complete schedule:
March 6 — Triangular meet at Houston (Texas A&M, Houston, Texas).
March 12 — Border Olympics at Laredo.
March 20 — Triangular meet at Houston (Texas A&M, Rice, LSU).
March 27 — Varsity-Frosh dual meet at College Station.
April 23 — Texas Relays at Austin.
April 30 — Triangular meet at College Station (Texas A&M, Rice, Texas).
April 17 — Triangular meet at Dallas (Texas A&M, Rice, SMU).
April 24 — Drake Relays at Des Moines, Ia.
May 1 — Quadrangular meet at Dallas (Texas A&M, Texas, SMU, USC).
May 6 — Triangular meet at College Station (Texas A&M, North Texas, and Abilene Christian).
May 14-15 — Southwest Conference meet at Waco.

In LA Coliseum Today 60,000 To Watch Pro Bowl Game

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16—UP—More than 60,000 fans were expected to crowd into Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum Sunday when the eastern and western divisions of the National Professional Football League square off against one another in the fourth annual Pro Bowl game.

Clear skies and a fast turf were forecast for coaches Buddy Parker of the western division and Paul Brown of the easterners when the nationally televised game gets underway. Both coaches said they favor a dry field so their spectacular passing acts can do their stuff.

Pitching for the west will be quarterbacks Y. A. Little of the 49ers, Detroit's Bobby Layne and Norm Van Brocklin of the Rams. Cleveland's Otto Graham and Philadelphia's Bobby Thomson will do the pitching for Brown.

Laden With Talent
Brown and Parker last clashed in the pro bowl championship game last month when Detroit defeated the Cleveland Browns and Coach Paul Brown 17 to 16. Parker and his western teams were listed as 7-point favorites, partly on the Detroit coach's record of never having lost to the Cleveland mentor.

Both teams are laden with the best professional footballers in the business with a slight weight advantage given westerners. Parker's team averages 238 pounds in the line and 200 in the backfield for a team average of 218 pounds. The eastern all-stars average 225 up front with the backfield weighing in at about 199 each for a team average of 214 pounds.

In the first three Pro Bowl games, the west has grabbed off two victories after watching Paul Brown and the eastern division squeak through with a 28 to 27 win in the inaugural game.

Layne, Graham to Lead
Brown and Parker have continued to juggle their starting lineups during practice sessions. With two top-notch players vying for each position, starting berths are difficult choices to make.

Barring last second changes, Buddy Parker will start Layne at quarterback; Dock Walker, another Lion, and Tank Younger of the Rams at halves; and Joe Perry of the 49ers at full.

Against this powerful running unit, Brown will lead off with his own Otto Graham at quarter; Ray Renfro, also from Cleveland, and Lynn Chisnold of Pittsburgh at the halves; and Chick Jaggard, another Brownie, at full.

On the open market, it is estimated the football talent for this game would cost $2 million. Some of the highest priced and most valued of the 42 gridgers are not flashy quarterbacks. They're place kick specialists Lou Groza, Cleveland, and Gordon Soltau, 49ers, who led their divisions in scoring during the regular season.

Crash Kills 2 LSU Coeds; 2 Gridders Hurt
BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 16—UP—A head-on auto collision killed two Louisiana State University coeds Friday and seriously injured five persons, including two LSU football stars.

Jackie Polizzi, 20, of New Orleans, and Mary Ann Krebs, 21, of Pascagoula, Miss., died Friday night of injuries. They were senior physical education students.

The injured football players riding with them are George Brantley, senior right halfback, and Charles Oakley, senior right halfback. Both received serious chest injuries.

Injured in the same car was Danny Orsak, also a student and assistant boxing coach, whose condition and injuries were not learned immediately.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Butler of Washington, D. C., riding in the other car, both were hospitalized here with severe head injuries and other injuries.

AT MICHIGAN STATE
Munn Leaves Coaching Post In Favor Of Athletic Director

EAST LANSING, Mich., Jan. 16—UP—Clarence (Biggie) Munn, Michigan State's newly-appointed athletic director, promised a free charge of the Michigan State athletic program until July 1, at which time the retirement of Ralph A. Young as athletic director becomes effective.

Actually, Munn doesn't take charge of the Michigan State athletic program until July 1, at which time the retirement of Ralph A. Young as athletic director becomes effective.

However, Daugherty assumes his new post immediately. He must formulate plans for spring football practice and select a successor for the line coach job which he has vacated.

Munn, active in the coaching ranks since 1932, reaped all of the honors that could be bestowed upon a coach.

He was "coach of the year" in 1952 after his Michigan State team rolled through its second straight unbeaten season. And, although Purdue snapped the Spartans' 28-game winning streak the past season, Munn directed his squad to a share of the Western Conference crown.

The 45-year-old Munn saved his best victory for last—28 to 20 triumph over UCLA in the Rose Bowl earlier this month.

Daugherty played under Munn while the latter was an assistant to Ollie Solem at Syracuse. After his graduation, he spent five years in the service and returned to join Munn at Syracuse in 1948. He followed Munn to Michigan State.

S'Boy Cager In Detroit Attacked

DETROIT, Jan. 16—UP—A knife assault on a high school basketball star prompted police officials to cancel future night games Saturday in a move to halt frequent outbreaks of rowdiness and violence.

The player, Ross A. DeBoeskey, 18, was stabbed with a knife and an ice pick Friday night by a teen-aged mob of angry and disappointed fans whose team had lost a game.

Two of DeBoeskey's schoolmates, Jacques Berlin, 17, and Jo Davidson, 17, were beaten by the attackers. Both suffered head injuries.

DeBoeskey, high scoring center on the MacKenzie high school basketball team, remained in critical condition at Receiving Hospital, the victim of body wounds and a punctured lung.

The three youths were attacked as they left the Central gymnasium after MacKenzie's game Saturday night, 46 to 36, in a rough and tumble game before victory-crazed fans.

Arthur Dondineau, superintendent of schools, said he had decided "reluctantly" to ban all night high school athletic events because it appeared that students and fans no longer could see the games in safety.

Blamed His Playing
Meanwhile, police questioned 11 suspects about the assault. The youths' identities ranged in age from 14 to 21.

All of them admitted they were in the mob, police said, but none would say that he personally had committed the stabbing.

They were laying for their star to come out because he is the reason we lost the game," police quoted one of the suspects as saying.

Average Age Is 27 Years 'Youth Movement' Holding Its Own In Red Sox Camp

By DAVE BLUME
BOSTON, Jan. 16—UP—The Boston Red Sox "youth movement" was holding its own Saturday as the club announced a 38-man 1964 roster with an average age of less than 27.

Only 11 members of the squad are over 30 years of age, the eldest being 38-year-old Ellis Kinder, veteran Sox relief pitcher. Bonus baby Billy Conzolo, an infielder, is the team's youngest player at 19.

Fourteen hurlers were listed on the roster, which also included five catchers, 10 infielders and nine outfielders.

Among the pitchers, only Tom Herrin never has seen service in a Boston uniform. Herrin won eight and lost four last year at Baltimore.

Pete Daley and Guy Morton are the rookie receivers on the squad. Morton hit .302 for Albany on half of the 1963 season but averaged only .225 for the remainder at Roanoke. Daley's mark for a full campaign at Louisville was .266.

Infield newcomers are Ken Aspromonte and Lew Damman from Louisville and Vin Furfaro from Roanoke, none of whom batted anywhere near .300 last season.

The trio of Sox outfield hopefuls fared better. Charley Maxwell, who was up with the parent club once before, blasted 23 home runs and posted 107 RBIs at Louisville while compiling a .305 batting average.

Maxwell's team mate Bob Brooks, knocked across 45 runs and hit .306. Al Van Alstyne, up from Albany, hit .284 in 1963.

Also returning for another crack at a Boston outfield post is 23-year-old Gene Stephens, a classy fielder who would have made the grade last year except for his snafu hitting.

Manager Lou Boudreau may carry a 28-man roster for most of 1964 if he so wishes, because of the rule covering players who return from military service. Sox players who may be kept on the roster in addition to the specified 25-man limit are slugger Ted Williams, who returned last August from his second tour of duty as a Marine pilot; outfielder Karl Olson, who rejoined the team about the same time as Williams after serving in the Army; and pitcher Leo Kiley,

Care For Shoes Is Boy's Grooming Starter; Intrigues Six-Year-Olds

By ALICIA HART

NEA Beauty Editor

Training youngsters in good grooming habits is quite a challenge. You can generally appeal to the vanity of little girls in coaxing care of curls; from there, it is a gradual process. But boys are a bit more difficult to handle. At about the time they are ready for such training, they also have become aware of things masculine and feminine. And, of course, they want nothing to do with the latter.

Unless fostered with considerable tact, any care in grooming appears as sissy stuff to them. It often seems that the dirtier they are, the happier they are.

The best starting point for these little lads probably is care of their shoes. It offers a bit of challenge and the work itself can be fun. Therefore it is least likely to carry the staid stigma. Furthermore, the finished job rewards with that all-important sense of accomplishment which youngsters in this age group seek.

The old-fashioned method of shoe polishing was a tiresome chore that nobody liked. It was messy; there were too many steps, and one really had to work to get a good shine.

However, considerable progress has been made in recent years. One firm, for instance, recently brought out a one-step polish that is said to be no trouble at all for children to use.

Your second-grader should find it fun to see the rapid improvement he can make with one stroke. He can get that sense of accomplishment without too much effort since the dabber which is included in the package does not demand a deft hand. Neither is it messy to handle.

The polish will also condition leather, prolonging the life of the shoe, this firm says. Every application is said to restore damaged leather so that it appears like new.

Once you have your child beaming with pride at his work, encourage further development toward careful grooming.

After congratulating your son on his accomplishment, you might remark that you will take care to prepare his other clothing as well as he has groomed his shoes.

Then, outlining the things you will have to do to keep up with the pace he has set, suggest he might be interested in helping you with some of them.

Your next step might be to introduce him to keeping his closet and bureau drawers orderly.

A little later, you can go on to training him in other good grooming habits, such as care of his hair and nails.

Wheeler County Candidacies Told

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Sixteen men in Wheeler County have announced their candidacy for county and district offices subject to the Democratic primary this week.

Seeking re-election is D. A. Hunt who is now completing a two year term as county judge. Prior to his election two years ago he also served as judge from January, 1930, through December, 1934 before retiring to enter private business.

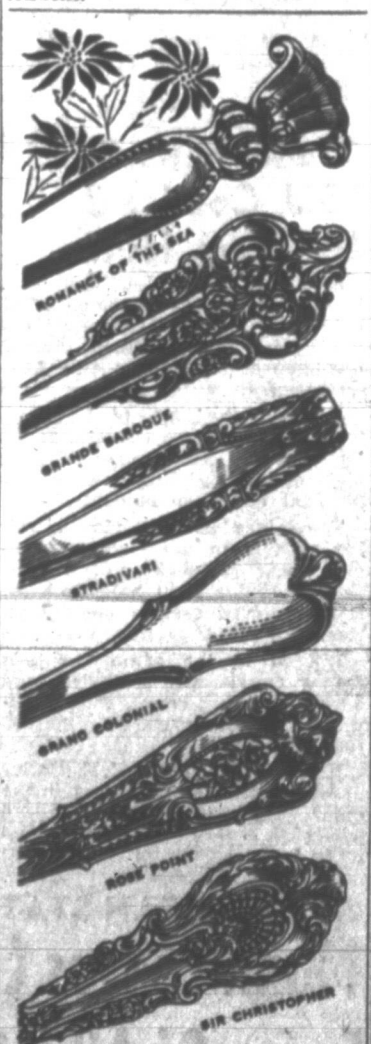

Palmer Savage, who has been handling the duties of the county treasurer's office the past two years, this week announced his candidacy for re-election.

John Templeton has stated he would like to return as justice of the peace of Precincts 3 and 4.

Each of the county commissioners races in the four precincts will be contested this year with two men entered in each race so far. In Precinct 1, W. L. (Shorty) Erwin, incumbent, and George Henderson have announced their intention of running. O. W. (Chester) Pedleton and R. D. Mason, appointed to complete this term, are entered in the race in Precinct 2. The two candidates for county commissioner in Precinct 3 are Tommy Burrell and L. L. See, incumbent. Both Elmo Riley and Sam McMurry, incumbent, have announced their candidacy for county commissioner of Precinct 4.

Others who have stated their names will appear on the ballot of the Democratic primary are Chris McClain of Wheeler for the office of district clerk of Wheeler County; Harry Wofford, re-election as county clerk; Thurman Rives, re-election as county tax assessor and collector; Gus Dorman, re-election as sheriff; J. J. Dyer, re-election as county school superintendent.

J. B. MAGUIRE, JR., county judge

ARLIE CARPENTER, COMMISSIONER

Maguire, Carpenter Asking Re-Election

County Judge J. B. Maguire Jr. and County Commissioner Arlie Carpenter Saturday threw their hats into the political ring.

Both Maguire and Carpenter announced that they would be candidates for re-election in the July 24 Democratic primaries. They said they would file their formal announcements at a later date.

Now in his first term as county judge, Maguire has never held any other political office. He came to Pampa Dec. 15, 1947, from Dallas where he was graduated from Southern Methodist University with an L.L.B. degree.

"I'll continue to conduct the business of the county commission court in an efficient and fair manner, acting as chairman of the court, and in cases tried before the county court, I'll always see that it will be a fair and just trial," he said in announcing his candidacy.

Maguire received his bachelor's degree from Louisiana State University and was associated with the late John V. Osborne and the late S. D. Stennis before practicing law by himself. That lasted till November, 1949, when he became associated with the law firm of Wm. Jarrell Smith, Curtis Douglas, Arthur M. Teed and Thos. L. Wade.

He spent 3 1/2 years in the armed forces, is married and has a boy, Mike, 8, and a girl, Susan, 2. He lives at 1800 N. Russell.

A resident of Lefors for the last 26 years, Carpenter is now in his second term as county commissioner, having served as county commissioner for a number of years in the past.

A stock farmer, the commissioner was reared in Motley County and was once superintendent of schools in Wheeler.

"I will do my best to serve the people to the best of my ability in the affairs of the county," Carpenter said.

center said in making his formal announcement.

He is married and holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Clarendon College where he majored in history and economics.

Carpenter won the Democratic primary in 1952 hands-down, but Maguire was forced into a runoff primary election with Former County Judge Bruce Parker.

The group of 10 heads were of the Westland variety of milo grown by Ira Passon of Wheeler. This same class of sorghum heads also won first place at shows in Shamrock, Allison and Amarillo before being consigned to the Hay and Grain Show of the International Livestock Exposition.

The entry was consigned by Wheeler County 4-H Club boys.

Colorado Preacher Leads Revival Here

Rev. Ralph A. Durham, Montrose, Colo., is in the midst of leading a revival in the Immanuel Temple, Campbell and Finley.

And he'll be preaching — 7:30 p.m. each day — for at least another week, according to Rev. A. H. Watkins, pastor.

Revival services got underway Jan. 7 and the "sermons have been outstanding," Watkins said.

Tonight Durham will preach on "Redemption." Wednesday night the subject will be "Holy Ghost or Hell Bombs."

Associated with "The Voice of Healing Evangelists" with his home office in Dallas, Durham has traveled in England and the Continent for the last two years.

In the past he has preached over Radio Station KPDN. During his present stay in Pampa, he is preaching at 8 p.m. Monday through Friday over Radio Station KPAI.

The Annie Billee Circle met with Mrs. E. R. Gower, Mrs. J. W. Holt had charge of the program. Refreshments were served to Mrs. Holt, Lawrence, A. H. McPeak, Fred Williams, and the hostess. All circles will spend next week's meeting time visiting prospective members for the W.M.S.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend

I felt as though I would like to write you although I have to say may be different than most of your letters. I am most sincere in what I ask.

Before I start I want to say how much I enjoy your column and the advice you give. I am sure it has helped many.

Many times people have a lonely longing in their hearts for spiritual help and even though they live in America, which is supposed to be a Christian nation, they do not know about God and his son, Jesus Christ, and what he can do for them.

Feeling a hunger in their hearts they seek a church for something that will satisfy that longing. May be they will go to the wrong church, and by that I mean a church that doesn't welcome them or is disinterested in their need.

I have some friends and myself too who are interested in people like I have mentioned, not because we want them to join our church, or for any reason except that we want them to know what joy and peace God can bring to their hearts.

We would be glad to pay and help anyone who has a need.

Also I have clothing from time to time that my girl outgrows. Clothing that is good and would give service to some little girl, 8 to 10 years of age. I would be glad to give them to anyone who would like to have them.

God Bless you, Grace, in your good work.

Interested

If anyone knows of someone who would like the clothes you mention and writes me, I will forward the letters to you.

LOVELY WIDOW

To the "lovely widow," C. J., who wrote me recently I would like to suggest you write me again including your name and address so that I can help you with your problem. If I had the information you want, I would have no way of forwarding it to you.

to be awarded to three outstanding tables selected by popular vote. Tables are not divided into classes, and formal and informal tables will compete on an equal basis.

The contest, involving some 450 members of the women's groups entered, will feature tables planned and decorated for this event. Tables will be exhibited from 2 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 22, in the Pampa Senior High School fieldhouse. Any person holding a ticket may cast a ballot to help select the winning tables. Cash prizes will be announced and presented about 8 p.m. the night of the contest.

Tickets for the one-day exhibit may be purchased from Beta Sigma Phi members.

You'll really enjoy this porkchop recipe from Seattle, Washington. Both Washington and Oregon grow fibert nuts, delicious kernels of protein, fat, vitamins and minerals with a rich flavor.

To glorify your roast loin of pork, first cut into chops. Then stuff with a fibert stuffing and skewer the chops together with a long skewer before baking. It is easy to serve and with a protein-rich fibert stuffing, it will economically stretch the budget when entertaining a large group.

Pork-Chop Roast with Fibert

(Serves 6)

Six pork loin chops, 1 cup fibert, coarsely chopped, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1/2 cup chopped onion, 1/2 cup chopped celery, 4 cups toasted bread cubes, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 to 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 1 cup bouillon or consommé.

Melt butter in small frying pan. Add onion and celery and saute until tender. Combine remaining stuffing ingredients. Add onions and celery and mix lightly. Place pork chops on long skewers with about 1 cup stuffing pressed between each one. Place in baking pan. Bake uncovered about 1 1/2 hours at 325 degrees F. Garnish with sprigs of parsley.

Nuts, good sources of protein, can be combined with vegetables and potatoes into a main course loaf. Here's an economical recipe from Maine, a state famous for its potatoes.

Main Potato and Nut Loaf

One cup cooked carrots or celery, diced, 1/2 cup chopped pecan nut meats, 3 cups mashed potatoes, 3 tablespoons fat, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons chopped onion.

Combine all ingredients. Pack them into a greased loaf pan. Bake for 35 minutes in a moderate (300-400 degree F.) oven. Serve hot with tomato sauce. To make the tomato sauce, use tomatoes in place of milk in a white sauce recipe.

Pampa OES Chapter Honors Deputy Grand Matron With Dinner

Mrs. Catherine Harbour of Shamrock, Deputy Grand Matron of District 2 of the Grand Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, was honored with a dinner given in her honor at the Schneider Hotel last night. Mrs. Harbour, whose territory embraces approximately 14 chapters in the Panhandle, made her official visit to give special instructions to members of the Pampa Chapter, Miss Corrine Landrum, worthy matron of Pampa Chapter No. 65, explained. Several out of town guests attended.

Here's Word Sketch Of Your 'Little Man' — 12 Years Old

By RUTH MILLETT

He can describe anything by using one of two words. It's either "small" or it's "crummy" — or their local equivalents.

He is scornful of girls, and yet he'll save his allowance for weeks to buy a girl the biggest, fanciest box of candy in the corner drugstore.

He'd rather be dead than have to wear slacks if the other boys are wearing blue jeans.

He laughs raucously, but watches intently when there's a tender love scene on the TV screen.

He has not only discovered hair lotion. He is as dependent on it as a woman is on lipstick.

His idea of getting slicked up is to spend three minutes under the shower and 15 minutes combing his hair.

Only a few girls meet his lofty requirements, and these are always the same girls who rate with the rest of his gang.

He is sure life begins the day you get your driver's license.

Thirty minutes after a hearty meal he is poking around in the icebox.

He tries out a big word now and then and looks pained if his parents give each other an amused look.

He isn't always sure that Mom and Dad are right about everything, but hasn't yet reached the stage where he thinks that chances are they're wrong.

His idea of something really "neat" for his room is a mounted deer's head.

No matter when you pop into his room to ask him to put down his book and turn out his light he is just "just at the most exciting part." When you start looking for him you look first to see if his bike is gone. It will be if he is more than three houses away from home.

He asks questions you sometimes can't understand, and if you want to keep his respect you'd better not hedge, but say, "I don't know, but let's see if we can look it up."

He's your 12-year-old — studying up to be a man.

Noretta Terry, Johnnie Morse Wed

Miss Noretta Terry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Terry of Miami, became the bride of Johnnie Morse, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Morse, 907 Barnard St., Saturday evening at the Baptist parsonage on E. Francis.

Rev. H. M. Hutchinson, pastor of the Bible Baptist Church, officiated with the single ring ceremony. Miss Billie Shaw was matron of honor and Tommy Wells served as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Morse will make their home at 1055 S. Nelson. Mr. Morse is associated with the Canadian Construction Company in Dallas.

Sound Off By A Leaguer

"DON'T MISS THE BOAT. BE READY TO VOTE" PAY YOUR POLL TAX NOW.

In the women's auxiliaries of several Pampa churches, this month is being devoted to a "Christian's Duty to His Community," a fact many good people would rather forget. The fact that we as Christians are responsible for the way our community is run. Several years ago a church man made this point. We are not very good Christians when we allow someone to be elected to office with whom we as Christians would not associate socially. Too many of us wear our Christianity much like a bikini bathing suit. . . . covering just enough to be decent.

It is not a privilege to run for a public office, it is our duty as good Christian citizens to protect the country of which we are justifiably proud. We cannot expect to have a well-run country, when we are unwilling to sacrifice a little of our own well-being and quite often money as well, to insure that the best possible man is elected.

The first thing that we as Christians in Texas must do is pay our poll tax. A tax of not more than $1.75 anywhere in Texas, this money is used for a number of things. Part of it goes to the county in which it was collected and part to the state. Some of it goes into a permanent fund for the purchase, repair and maintenance of voting booths.

January 31 is the deadline for the payment of your poll tax and the week of January 18-23 is being set aside as Voters Roundup Week by the Texas League of Women Voters. For your convenience, the Pampa League of Women Voters will have booths set up in the First National Bank, Citizens Bank, the two Ideal Food stores, Buddy's No. 1, and the Hill and Purr Food stores during the workday, you will be able to purchase poll tax applications from these booths. The certificate will be mailed to you from the collector's office.

On Tuesday evening, the 19th, radio station KPDM will broadcast a fifteen minute program sponsored by the Pampa League and put on by the Speech Department of the High School. This program concerns the methods used by other Texas towns to corral non-voting mavericks during "Vote Roundup Week." It also lists the various amounts spent in each department from your poll tax.

JoAnn Rogers, Lee Ledrick, Charlotte Hoggatt, Don Sprinkle, Pamela Jett, Tommy Lockhart, David Fatheree, Norma Qualls, Sue Stoll, D. I. Wilkenson, Shirley Kirby, Rex McKay, Donald Lee Hegwer, Dorothy Gray and Mary Ann Guthrie are the students who will take part. At this time the League would also like to extend its thanks to Miss Schaeffer, the Speech Teacher, who, out of her very busy schedule

Wheeler Couple Receives Friends On Anniversary

WHEELER — (Special) — Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Mason who live east of Wheeler celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary recently with an open house during the afternoon. Those present were their three children, nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. All were present except one granddaughter from San Antonio and one grandson in Korea. Seventy-six registered during the afternoon from Kansas, Amarillo, Canyon, McLean, Shamrock, Pampa and Wheeler. A three tiered wedding cake and coffee were served to relatives and guests. Those serving refreshments and registering guests were granddaughters of Mr. and Mrs. Mason. Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Mason were married December 27, 1903 at Fairview, Texas and came to Wheeler in March 1919 and made their home. They still live on the same farm which they bought when they first came to Wheeler. They are both members of the First Baptist Church of Wheeler.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Payne To Provide Program Tuesday At AAUW Meeting

Mrs. Robert Payne will be guest speaker at a meeting Tuesday evening at 7:30 of the American Association of University Women in the City Club Rooms. Mrs. Payne, whose subject will be "School Life in France," was born and reared at LaRochelle, France, and attended boarding school, high school and one year of college there. She continued her studies at the Sorbonne in Paris and received her degree in Philosophy at the British Institute for Foreign Students at London. She met and married Robert Payne while he was serving in the United States Army, and came to Pampa to live about five months ago.

Mr. Payne, who is a member of the Pampa High School music department, will sing for the group. Hostesses for the evening will be Miss Ruby Trusty, chairman; Mrs. Marvin Bowman, and Miss Nova Mayo.

All college women eligible for A.A.U.W. membership are cordially invited to attend.

Manners Make Friends

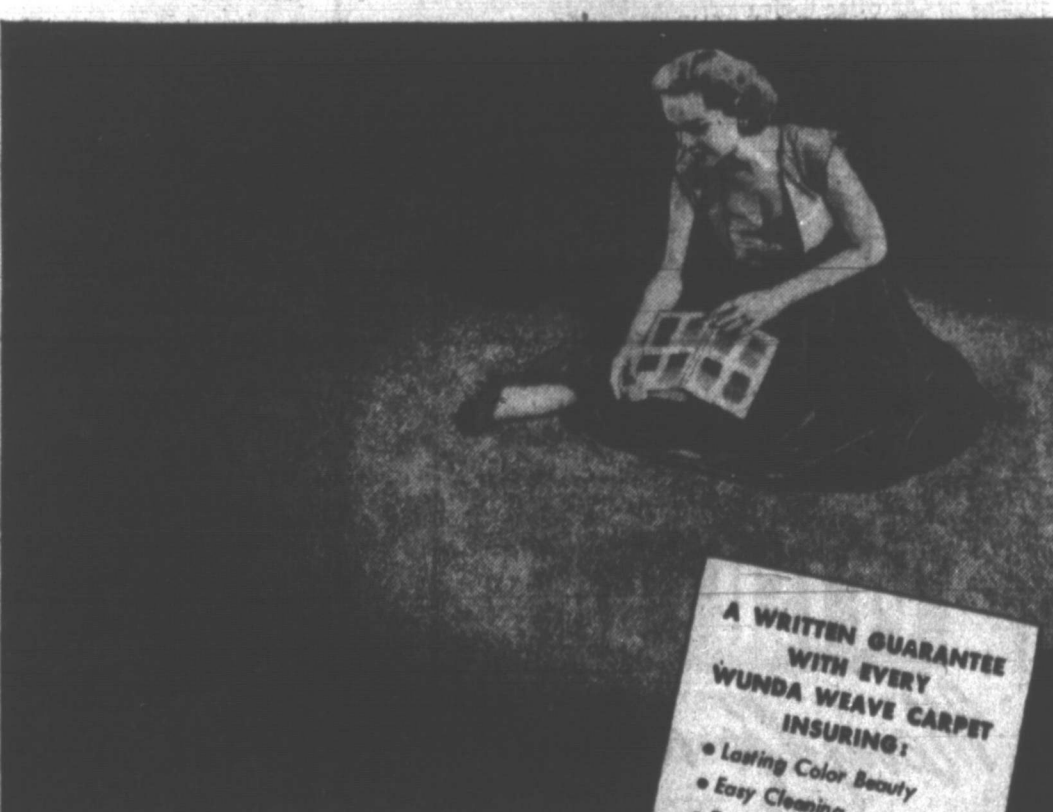

Once in a while it's the girl who has to ask the boy for a date. So if your club or sorority is giving a dance, here are a few pointers to remember when you ask him for a date. Explain all about the party before you ask him if he is going to be busy on the important night. Be a bit of a salesman. That is, make the party sound like fun. Above all, try to get there "fustest" — before some other girl gets him all lined up for the big date.

The closing prayer was by Mrs. T. O. Trout. Refreshments were served to Mmes. J. E. Cantrell, T. O. Trout, Shirley Nichols, Henry Gruben, Lawrence Barrett, H. M. Stokes and W. R. Bell.

The Edith Dyal circle met at 2019 Coffee with Mrs. Robert Hogan.

Mrs. Hogan conducted a business meeting after Mrs. L. A. Baxter gave the opening prayer. Handkerchief showers were planned for two former members of the circle who have moved from Pampa.

Mmes. Ed Schneider, Louis Holter and C. E. Powell each gave a chapter from the Bible study book on women in the Old Testament.

Mrs. Glenn McConnell led the closing prayer.

Present were Mmes. L. A. Baxter, Louis Holter, Ed Schneider, C. E. Powell, Rupert Orr, A. C. Stull, W. H. Sellers, Glenn McConnell, A. C. Howard, Robert Hogan and two visitors, Mrs. Clayton Callan and Mrs. Dulaney.

The Julia Luper circle met with Mrs. Leo Graham, 716 N. Dwight.

Mrs. James Goodwin led the opening prayer and conducted the business meeting.

Mrs. Pernal Scoggins gave a devotional based on the story of Aaron's rod.

Mrs. E. B. Bowman closed with prayer. Those present were Mmes. Bill Bailey, Bill Garrett, Marjorie Crouse, Carlos Grisom, Leo Graham, Leroy Thornburg, Pernal Scoggins, E. E. Bowman and

James Goodwin. Mrs. Tom Duvall, 431 N. Hazel, was hostess to the Lillie Rogers circle this week.

Mrs. Minor Langford, chairman, presided at the business meeting.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Owen Johnson who led in prayer and then brought the Bible study on the topic "Rahab and Ruth."

Those present for the meeting were Mmes. Owen Johnson, Joe Foster, Ella Brake, Minor Langford, G. R. Riggs, J. A. McLain, Mrs. Vernon Moore and Mrs. Hooper.

A new circle met this week for the purpose of organizing and is as yet unnamed. This group met with Mrs. Floyd Walker, 1104 Garland.

Mrs. H. M. Stokes, W.M.U. president, led the opening prayer.

Mrs. S. E. Waters was named as counselor for the group.

Other officers elected from this group were as follows: Chairman, Mrs. Delton Sanders; Mrs. J. R. Miller, Program Chairman, Mrs. Warren Woodard; Telephone Chairman, Mrs. Floyd Walker; Literature Chairman, Mrs. Odell Gildeen; Mission Study Chairman, Mrs. R. N. Taylor (Temporary); and Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. Floyd Walker.

MAKING A NEW WORLD

SHAPING IT UP—At the Babson Institute of Business Administration in Wellesley, Mass., a "new world" is being built. The revolving model globe will measure 28 feet in diameter and was designed to depict the earth as it would appear floating 5000 miles out in space. Upper left, Lyman Judson looks up through a trap door at the "South Pole." Electric motors will rotate the globe on its tipped axis. A more complete view of it is shown at right and, below, steel workers lower girders into place on the model to be used for global planning.

STITCH IN TIME—Because the dance actress Debra Paget performed in a movie being made in Hollywood is so violent a jewel had to stand by. Debra's movements required constant repair on the 10 pounds of soft gold link chain that comprised most of her costume. Filers in the skillful hands of Seth Banks kept Debra before the camera in a decently clad condition.

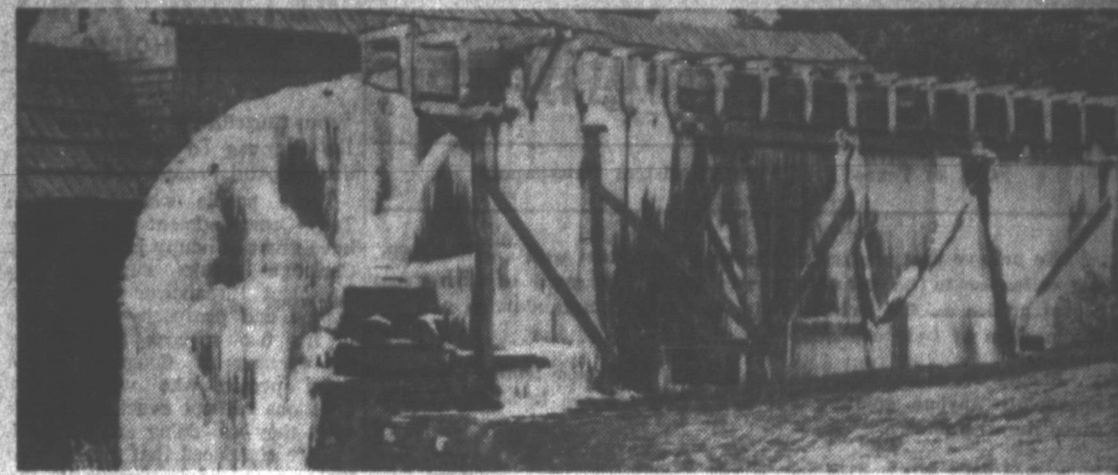

CHILDREN'S HOUR—This full-length pink nylon nightgown for little girls is every bit as nice as mama's. It has lace ruffles at the neck and yoke, and short, puffed sleeves add the proper touch of grown-up glamour.

CAMELS AND TIGERS—Not in the same pen, of course, for the camels in the top photo got stranded near Lawrence, Kans., when the truck broke down en route to St. Louis, Mo. George Alexander helped make them comfortable for the night. The three little cubs below are six-week-old inmates of the Cleveland, O., Zoo, and already they appear not very sweet.

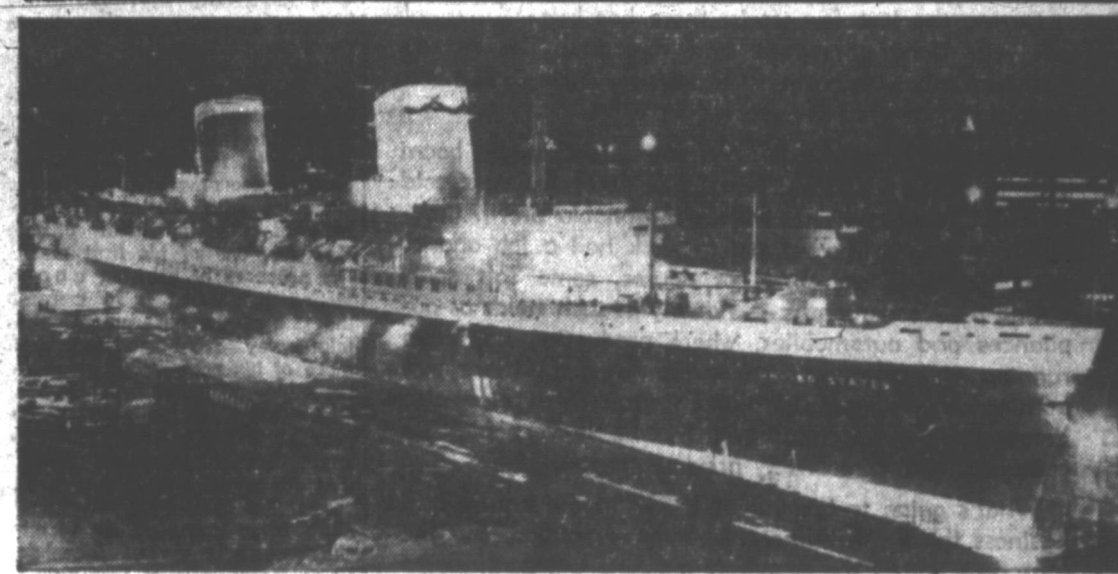

TRAVELING BIRD—Captain Charles W. R. Knight, of Sevenoaks, Kent, England, is urging his Scottish Golden Eagle to show its wing spread upon their arrival by ship in New York. It was the 27th Atlantic crossing for the 26-year-old bird which is trained for falconing.

WINTER'S TOUCH—After several days of below-freezing weather, the sluiceway and water wheel at Mabry's Mill, near Hillsville, Va., were covered with ice. The popular tourist attraction looked more like Alaska than that lovely southern state.

PICTURE NEWS

NIGHT AND DAY—The superliner United States, world's fastest and most modern liner, presents this spectacular night view as workmen follow a 24-hour schedule during her annual drydocking in Newport News, Va. After her first 18 months of service, she easily passed all tests.

ALL TIME—The time in any part of the world can be checked against local time on this electric clock recently installed at the airport in Frankfurt, Germany. Frankfurt time is shown by the arrow at the top of the dial while minutes are given by the center hand and dial. With this clock, you know at once that it is 7 a.m. in New York when it's 1 p.m. in Germany.

EVEN UP—Army Captain and Mrs. M. H. Thoreson are introducing their new twin daughters to their five slightly older sisters Salina, Kans. The Thoresons had not been expecting a double arrival and, after having five girls in a row, they might have been hoping for a boy. One thing they can look forward to is plenty of assistance with the household chores.

NEW PURPOSE—An all white evening gown by Rome's Gasbarri Fashion House is made entirely in nylon with an overlay of silver lace. The jacket worn on the left is created of white satin with gold embroidery. The two styles will highlight Gasbarri's spring selection.

Buyer's Market

During the last few weeks there has been the usual new-year flood of reports and forecasts. The reports deal factually with business' experience during 1953 and look ahead to what is expected in 1954.

Measured by production and sales, 1953 was a boom year in anybody's book. Practically every business sold its output and came up with a reasonable profit. Practically everyone who wanted to work had a job and at good wages. There were, of course, some soft spots during the latter months — notably in such fields as appliances and automobiles, where production has been running at extremely high levels. Even so, there was nothing resembling a real slump. Certain farm prices also dropped — but agriculture's income is very high as compared with almost any previous period.

What's going to happen in 1954? In the crystal ball business there can be no unanimity of opinion. But the consensus is that the economic machine will continue to roll along in high gear — even though it may not race its motor to quite the extent as in the recent past. This belief is based in large part on the fact that the public at large is earning more money, and has larger savings, than ever before. To take one example, there is a record $24,000,000,000 now on deposit in mutual savings banks alone.

Even so, hard-headed businessmen in large numbers believe that financial success in the coming year will depend on aggressive selling to a greater extent than we have known since World War II. Just after the war, of course, there was a huge backlog of hungry demand for almost every conceivable kind of manufactured article, and even inferior goods found ready buyers, for lack of anything better. This situation gradually corrected itself as the factories hit new production record after new production record. Now, as the Wall Street Journal recently pointed out, "The public must be sold harder because it's already bought so many of its needs." An outstanding example of this is the automobile — 65 per cent of American families own a car now, as against 54 per cent in 1948.

The Journal polled 75 representative American corporations on the question of souped-up selling. Sixty-six expected competition to be tougher this year than last. A leader in the appliance field said, "It's going to be the manufacturer with a strong sales organization, and who can keep his production costs in line, who survives." A spokesman for a major motor manufacturer said that there will be a hot competitive battle for the consumer's favor and money "such as this country has not seen in over 15 years." An executive of a big company making electrical products observed, "The 1954 edition of a salesman will have to stop thinking about his product only and concentrate instead on the customer's needs." From a leading point and building material concern came this view: "Competition is certainly back with us in no uncertain terms." And a very significant observation came from a spokesman for a farm equipment company, who said, "A lot of younger men in sales have never experienced a highly competitive situation such as now. It'll take some time and hard work to get the best out of them."

All of this should add up to good news for the consumer. The buyer's market is here in full flower.

Earned Compliment

Senator Robertson of Virginia recently had some important things to say about our American railroads.

We have only six per cent of the world's land area and population, he pointed out, yet we have 30 per cent of its total railway mileage. Our railroads employ 1,500,000 persons paying them more than $5,000,000,000 a year in taxable wages. And the industry has achieved safety standards which are almost unbelievably high. On the average over 9,000,000 passenger miles are traveled for each passenger injury.

He also cited railroads as a prime example of the virtues of private enterprise and an outstanding answer to socialist arguments. During World War II, he said, the railroads paid federal taxes averaging over $3,000,000 a day. By contrast, when the government operated the railroads in World War I a tax-supported deficit of nearly $2,000,000 a day resulted.

Finally, the Senator said: "I have ridden on some of the railways of Europe and of the Orient where all are under government operation. The equipment of none of them is comparable with ours and all of them, with the possible exception of the National Railway of Switzerland, operate in the red every year."

We take A-1 railroad service for granted. And the compliment that implies has been thoroughly earned by our railroad men.

What Christian Means Does Ike Propose To Promote Justice And Prosperity?

Those people who believe in Ten-Commandment Christianity have great difficulty in finding any Christian means suggested by President Eisenhower to promote justice and prosperity and peace in his two speeches made since the opening of Congress. And those people who will answer questions without evasion about what they are doing and advocating are convinced that means used that are out of harmony with the Golden Rule and the Commandments will not produce results that are in agreement with the Golden Rule and the Commandments.

And these people who believe that prosperity and justice and good will and friendship and prosperity and the general welfare all come to society as result of using means that are in harmony with these great moral laws.

VIOLATIONS OF THESE LAWS
Now let's point out a few things that Eisenhower suggested in his address to Congress that violate these moral laws.

His objectives are fine. Everyone wants the three things that he proposes to bring about — namely, to protect the freedom of our people, to maintain a strong, growing economy and to concern ourselves with the human problems of the individual citizen. However, one of his first means Ike proposes of bringing about justice and peace is to increase the size of the government — to take away from an individual more of his responsibility and relieve him of living by the sweat of his brow. Jesus said "The poor ye will always have with you," but Eisenhower believes that the state can eliminate responsibility and eliminate individuals being penalized for their shiftness or errors. Eisenhower evidently believes that man is his brother's keeper. But no man can keep everybody or even one individual without laying hold of him and taking away from him his initiative and his right to choose. And the United States Government with all its wealth cannot keep all our people or even one person without doing him more harm than good. The minute some people get the idea that someone else or the government is going to take care of them, they make no effort to help themselves. It is therefore absolutely impossible for the state to eliminate poverty or prevent people from reaping what they sow — whether it be good or bad.

Government A Pauper
Eisenhower does not even seem to realize that all governments are paupers. They create nothing and have nothing to give except what they take by coercion and violence from others. The government can be successful in pauperizing everybody, but it cannot ever reduce poverty. When the government attempts to take by taxation or by inflation from one to give to another in order to benefit those who "the government thinks need help," it is violating the Coveting and Stealing Commandments, and thus that violate the Coveting and Stealing Commandments and the Golden Rule cannot produce results that are moral, ethical or just, and things that are not moral, ethical or just will not produce material well being.

Here are other things that Eisenhower proposes to legislate that violate the Golden Rule and the Coveting and Stealing Commandments: flexible credit; tax measures to stimulate consumer and business spending; suitable lending, guaranteeing insuring and grant-in-aid activities; strengthening old age and unemployment insurance measures and improved agricultural programs.

When the government attempts to regulate credit, it covets man's right to be a steward of his production and the government could not really regulate credit if it did not make it a crime to own, which is another form of coveting on the part of the government.

What Ike does not seem to realize is that when the government takes wealth from those who produce it, either by direct taxation, or by so-called "social security," or by inflation by borrowing from the banks and regulating the banks, it is taking from individuals money that in most cases would be used to go into tools that furnish permanent jobs that are self-renewing year after year and that really produce wealth and benefit everybody in the world. But when the government takes from any individual the fruits of his labor to give to someone else, then that wealth is dead — it is used up or consumed and it does not reduce the cost of living nor does it raise the standard of living. It is simply the same as a bank robber stealing from a bank. It transfers the purchasing power of the holders of the bank to the government. It creates no wealth.

Class Legislation
Ike gives lip service to contending that we are one big family. But he denies this by his advocacy of reducing taxes for the small taxpayer. If we are one family and there are no classes, as this country was intended to be, then all people should pay not the same amount of taxes to support the government, but they should pay the same fraction of their income or the same fraction of their assets or the same fraction of what they consume to support the government.

Ike violates the Golden Rule and the Coveting Commandment when he supports a graduated income tax and his desire to further increase the disparity in the distribution of wealth. The government takes

Communist "Free" Trade

Down South . . . Ike Tried To Favor Everybody In His State Of Union Message

By THURMAN SENSING
Southern States Industrial Council
Nashville, Tennessee

In his "State of the Union" message — the longest ever delivered — the President apparently attempted to take a "middle of the road" policy on the wide range of subjects presented to the Congress. He seemed to be attempting to please everybody — or at least the large majority of the people — and apparently has the hope that the majority of the Congress will go along with him in this approach and in this effort.

Perhaps it is necessary for those holding public office to take this attitude if they expect to remain in office. We won't argue the point even though we are a little doubtful as to its soundness — but we will point out that it is impossible to please everybody and that it is also quite necessary that someone take a nonpartisan view of matters affecting the welfare of the nation. In other words, it's a good thing everybody is not running for office and it's a good thing to vote for candidates who take a certain stand and not because they belong to a certain party.

There is much to approve in the President's message and there is much of which to be critical.

The budget message is yet to come, but he states that an increase in the statutory debt limit is necessary. There is no excuse for a deficit in the budget for the year beginning next July 1st. If foreign aid must be discontinued in order to balance the budget, then discontinue foreign aid. There are many other ways to further reduce expenditures — as much as from different individuals.

A Good Start
There was only one suggestion that Eisenhower made that even tends to be in agreement with the Commandments. That is to reduce protective tariffs. Instead of reducing protective tariffs, we should entirely eliminate tariffs for production.

Eisenhower seems to see the injustice of drafting soldiers under 21 years of age and not permitting them to vote. Instead of correcting the error by not drafting soldiers, he proposes to remedy the crime by giving them the right to vote. That young men under 21 will help select government officials with help more understanding than voters will who are over 21. It might be a good idea to permit those who volunteer to defend our country to have the right to vote, but not the ones who are drafted or volunteer to keep from being drafted.

Eisenhower violates the admonition of Jesus when He said: "And fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul; but rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell."

Ike seems to think that the state can take the place of God. He attempts to worship the state rather than God. He substitutes the state for man's conscience or God.

We certainly cannot rationally expect to approach justice and peace and good will by using means that violate moral law, and Eisenhower seems to be following the very means that brought on the great depression that started in '29 and is still with us — fiat money, expanding government bank credit, doles, pensions and attempting to relieve individual from doing their duty to help take care of themselves and voluntarily assisting those who have made mistakes and are temporarily suffering the consequences.

the administration is to be compelled on the reductions thus far made.

The President advocates admission of Hawaii as the 49th state of the Union. This is objectionable from several viewpoints. First, it has been the established policy of this nation since it was founded to admit to statehood only territories contiguous to other states. Second, it has been the settled policy to admit as states only territories where the population was homogeneous with the population of the United States — which the population of Hawaii is not. Third, it has been the settled policy to admit as states only territories whose size, resources and general economy gave promise of adding to the strength and security of the nation — not true of Hawaii.

The President recommends a constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 18 from the present 21. There is no good reasonable argument for doing this. The one mainly used is the "old enough to fight, old enough to vote" argument. This falls flat. There is no question of the bravery of our boys; plenty of boys younger than 18 fought in the Revolutionary War and in our other wars. Age doesn't have much to do with bravery. But bravery has nothing to do with voting. There are plenty of boys 18 years old and younger much more capable of casting an intelligent vote than men say 20 years old or 18 years old. There are individuals who will never be able to cast intelligent votes, no matter how long they live. So if we are going to amend the Constitution to provide for those capable of voting to be allowed to vote, let's forget the age limitation entirely and put it on some other basis.

The President shows a commendable interest in assuring prosperity to the nation, in an effort to reduce expenditures, a good intention.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

Angina pectoris means literally pain in the chest. It is usually caused by a diseased condition of the arteries which supply blood to the heart muscle. These blood vessels are called the coronary arteries. The pain develops when not enough blood is passing through them to supply the needs of the heart muscle.

The hardened coronaries do allow some blood to pass through. Consequently the pain usually does not develop when the victim is resting or exercising only slightly; it comes on when the heart muscle is working harder and needs greater quantities of blood.

A person who has angina pectoris has to learn how much exercise he or she can take without producing symptoms. In addition to the pain, these often include a feeling of anxiety, sweating, shortness of breath and sometimes other signs.

It was formerly thought that a person with angina pectoris could not live very long and could not avoid suffering great discomfort. But according to recent studies, the average life expectancy after the first sign of angina is about eight to ten years, and some live tion to reduce taxes when it seems feasible. He wants to assure adequate housing and slum clearance, ample social security, unemployment benefits, and health program. He seems to be genuinely interested in the general welfare of all the people. It is in the methods by which he proposes to do these things — yet to be spelled out — that we must judge the soundness of his program. If it is to be done by encouraging the people to help themselves through private enterprise and government encouragement of private enterprise — that's fine; if it is to be the old deficit financed "government" — take care — of your welfare state policy, then we must look elsewhere than to the administration for our leadership.

National Whirligig... GOP Congressmen In Dilemma Over Ike's Welfare Program

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The principal dilemma which confronts Capitol Hill Republicans in acting on the detailed Eisenhower legislative program is that they have never served under a President of their own who advocated the preservation and extension of a semiwelfare state. It is a distinct shock to their political system, and the problem of readjustment will be difficult.

It is true that many GOP legislators voted for such innovations as farm subsidies, federal pensions and insurance, government aid to health, housing and education, and Washington's general assumption of responsibility for national prosperity. But they did so grudgingly for the most part, and because it would have meant defeat of individual members if they refused to go along. They bowed to the popular currents set in motion by F. D. R.'s oratory.

But they always entertained the hope that this trend toward "statism," as they frequently termed it in congressional debates, would be checked. Though 1932 to 1952, their platforms condemned many New Deal-Fair Deal reforms, although Willkie, Dewey and Eisenhower did not always adhere to convention decisions in their campaign speeches.

SAME OLD PLAYS — In their opinion the Republicans' most effective issue in the 1952 contest was the chant that "It is time for a change." And now, as they peruse Ike's several messages and discuss the program he has outlined to them at secret White House conferences, they find that there are no fundamental differences between his proposals and those which they have fought for 20 years.

"They have a new platform on the executive field, but they are executing the same old plays. Only the uniforms are different. It is not generally realized, but no basic social or economic reform was approved or enacted by Congress after 1938, when F.D.R.'s 'purge' and his court-packing scheme alienated so many Southern Democrats. Roosevelt himself became obsessed with foreign problems and the coming conflicts in voting 'Doctor Win the War' as a successor to 'Doctor New Deal'."

Under Truman, a combination of Republicans and Southern Democrats blocked his "welfare state" theories.

RESENTMENT TO BE HELD IN CHECK — Congressional veterans who have served through the transitional period from Hoover to Eisenhower have pronounced Ike that they will hold in check this spirit of protest and resentment. Luckily, they include almost all the top GOP figures — Speaker Martin, Majority Leader Halleck, Rules Chairman Allen, Majority Whip Amden and Sen. Styles Bridges in the Senate.

Even they would welcome a greater "change" than Eisenhower has given them. But, in their fluidity with voluntary grievance committees, they argue that it would be politically fatal to wipe out basic Roosevelt-Truman reforms of a helpful and humanitarian nature. A whole new generation of voters, they point out, as a result of the philosophy preached at Washington, expect Uncle Sam to look after their needs.

HERBERT HOOVER CITED — In their desperation, they cite Herbert Hoover as having planted the first seeds of a paternalistic form of government. They recall that he established the first Farm Board, which did in a small way what the Commodity Credit Corporation does now. He also inaugurated the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to help distressed business and industry.

It was the late Senator Vandenberg who, in the face of Roosevelt's opposition, forced through legislation for federal guarantee of more than twenty-five years.

EXERCISE NEEDS ADJUSTING
In addition to the improved outlook which has been uncovered, methods of improved management are being developed constantly in which the amount and kind of exercise is more closely adapted to the patient.

Until research workers have discovered a means of preventing hardening of the arteries, angina pectoris will continue to occur. It is well to realize, however, that while this is a serious condition it does not mean the end of all good things. Sensible adjustment to the new circumstances is necessary. This can be accomplished with great success.

bank deposits. In the foreign field, Hoover tried to check the worldwide depression of 1929-1933 by declaring a moratorium on foreign debts. In short, the present governmental structure has a Republican foundation.

When these sages are forced to cast the apostle of "rugged individualism" in the role of stepfather to the New Deal and Fair Deal, a part which he did not realize he had played, the administration's forthcoming difficulties on Capitol Hill become understandable. Once again, Eisenhower will have to depend on the Democrats for enactment of his legislative program.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

MIDNIGHT MEANDERS: You have been to five plays in two hours, giving each about 15 or 20 minutes, standing in the back of the theater, listening both to what is being said on the stage and what is being whispered in the audience. . . Audiences are the best check there can be found on what a play is doing. . . It may be selling out because it is fashionable to buy tickets for it, but often enough people are disappointed after they see it. . . They have been built up too high and the play doesn't meet their advance anticipation. . . You leave the last play and you run into Courtney Burr, co-producer of "The Seven Year Itch," a comedy which has been selling out for over a year and thus far doesn't seem to have let anyone down. . . Audiences are let down. . . He tells you that it is running in four other countries besides the United States, where New York and Chicago have it, and that in French or German it seems just as funny as it does in English. . . "Young Axelrod ran onto a basic theme," he says. "I think that's the answer. Every man who has been married seven years gets to a point where he isn't exactly indifferent to a pretty young girl who crosses his path. I think all married men in the audience realize that and all wives sense it. It strikes what is known as 'audience participation.' Maybe I'm crazy and none of that is true. All I know is that the greatest proportion of the audience consists of married couples—who come to the play to get—and who laugh together fondly, as though they shared a secret. . . It's just wonderful to watch them."

You wander down Broadway which glitters after the riot and litter of New Year's Eve during which, by police estimate, nearly 1,000,000 persons swarmed through the cramped area, sweeping in flooding surges past boarded up windows, thrashing, gouting, laughing and performing other slightly disarming mob antics. . . You see flash, the old-fashioned movie camera, ever Opening Night to protect the jewels that First Nighters wear. . . You cross the street to talk to him and he tells you it was a wild night, the wildest in several years. . . "The boys had a job in their hands and they did it beautifully," he tells you. "It was made you proud of a force. They didn't spoil anyone's fun or dampen the spirit but they kept that many people moving along and out of major jams. That's a huge job of people to manage. I can tell you. Where were you?"

You tell him that you never got out on New Year's Eve, but always celebrate quietly at home. . . This time you had Oscar and Mitzie as guests. . . "It's the right way," he says. "Who wants to be shoved around by a million other? . . . Apparently, you say, about a million persons wanted just that. . . He shakes his head in wonderment."

You look down 46th Street and see Vanessa Brown walking toward Broadway and you wait for her. . . A refugee actress, brought to this country when almost a child, she was brought up in California, soon was being tested by 10 specialists at UCLA who found that she was of genius rating. . . It didn't seem to spoil her adolescence or her life. . . If anyone every brought it up out there, she always seemed a little embarrassed by it. . . She made some pictures, was married to a plastic surgeon, came East for "The Seven Year Itch," playing the young girl who comes momentarily into a married man's life. . . You ask her what she has been up to all these months since you last saw her. . . She tells you that she has written a play, which you already knew, and that recently she finished a book, which you didn't know. . . "When do you do all this?" You ask her. . . "Oh, between scenes in my dressing room, at home. Sundays. Here and there. . . You decide that this is a prodigious young woman. . . 'It's nothing,' she says. . . Look at Georges Simenon, seven, six novels a year. He writes 1,000 words a day. That is 365,000 words a year. You can get a lot done if you sit down on a chair and do it. Heavens, you fellows do 1,500 a day and think nothing of it, nothing. If you did that on books you would be famous in a year. . . But supposing it wasn't any? . . . 'It's not,' you ask. 'Ah, well, then, she said. . . Ah, well, then, indeed."

TRRC Slates Pilot Gas Meet

The three-member Texas Railroad Commission is scheduled to hold a hearing on the application of Continental Oil Company to carry on a pilot gas injection project on its Carver lease in Hutchinson County.

Get-together is slated for 2 p.m. Feb. 17 in the TRRC hearing room in the Tribune Building, Austin.

Continental proposes to inject gas into the Wolfcamp dolomite oil producing horizon through its W. A. Carver well No. 11, located in the northwest quarter of Lot 24, Blk. 7, J. J. Hale Survey.

HANDS FULL—Ernst Gale, a Pentagon employee in Washington, D.C., is all tied up taking care of copies of the budget for fiscal 1955. He's on his way to distribute the copies to high-ranking military officials.

Pentecostal Church To Hold Conference

The sectional conference of the United Pentecostal Church will be held Jan. 25 at the Pampa church, 1416 W. Brown, according to an announcement by Rev. Nelson Frenchman.

Pastors of the Panhandle Fellowship Section will attend. Churches included in the group are: Dalhart, Dumas, Amarillo, Borger, Canadian, Shamrock, Allison, Wellington, Childress, Memphis Clarendon and Pampa.

The conference will begin at 8:30 p.m. and continue through the evening.

One-Third Of Drill Intentions Have PDs Of Over 4,000 Ft.

Almost one-third of the intentions to drill filed last week with the area office of the Texas Railroad Commission had proposed depths of more than 4,000 feet.

One of them was in Hansford County. It was the Humble No. 3 East Gruber Unit, 4 1/2 miles southeast of Gruber. Its PD: 6,700 feet.

Other three were in Roberts County. They were the Phillips No. 1 Pennington "B", No. 1 Agatha and No. 1 Gay, all of them located west of Pampa.

In the completion line, there were 20 older and four gasers. Also there were four plugged wells and one intention to deepen.

Solon, Union At Sharp Odds On Purge Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 — UP — Sen. John Marshall Butler and the Oil Workers International Union were at sharp odds Saturday over the intent of the Maryland Republican's bill to purge pro-Communist labor leaders.

Butler introduced the measure last year and hopes to make it a part of the Taft-Hartley law which is up for revision. He would deny rights and privileges of the 1957 labor-management act to any labor organization whose officers were judged to be pro-Communist by the subversive activities control board.

The OWIU bitterly assailed the bill, asserting it would strip a union of its bargaining rights "at any time anyone charges that a union with being to the slightest degree influenced by any individual who has, to the slightest degree, supported any so-called Communist group."

Furthermore, he said, the bill provides that disqualification of a labor organization "shall not invalidate any collective bargaining contract... insofar as the contract bestows rights or benefits upon the employees or the employer."

"Extensive material has been developed by Congress," Butler said, "which conclusively established that, by capturing strategic posts in certain labor organizations, the Communists pose a danger at the heart of our industrial system and have a key to the inner recesses of our defense establishments."

Security Involved

"An over-riding question of national security is here involved, and it requires the combined efforts of the free labor movement, the public, and adequate legal machinery in proper hands. I call upon labor to come forward with constructive recommendations if they do not agree with any of the bill's specific provisions."

The OWIU asserted that if a union were brought to trial "it would undoubtedly be dead and gone" by the time the subversive board got around to hearing the charges.

"It seems almost unbelievable," he added, "that congressmen in their right mind would vote for the bill but then some mighty unbelievable things are happening in Washington these days."

Butler said this was not true; that all charges must be thorough.
