North Viet Targets Hit In New Reprisal Raids

By JOHN T. WHEELER

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—About 150 U.S. and South Vietnamese warplanes ripped targets in North Viet Nam with bombs and rockets today in reprisal for the latest in a series of Viet Cong attacks.

The Red attacks were capped Wednesday night by the blasting of a U.S. enlisted men's barracks at Qui Nhon, in which 22 Americans are believed to have been killed.

More than 100 carrier-based planes of the U.S. 7th Fleet attacked from the South China Sea in this third and heaviest reprisal strike since Sunday. They hit at Chang Hoa and Chap Le.

Three of the Navy planes went down, but apparently not directly from enemy fire. Two fell in the sea and one crash-landed at the Da Nang base. Two of the pilots were rescued.

Twenty - eight Vietnamese fighter-bombers and an escort of 20 U.S. Air Force F100 jet fighters struck across the 17th parallel at points near the border.

Heavy columns of smoke streamed up from the target areas.

All the land-based craft returned safely. There were believed to have been no casualties aboard them.

The Vietnamese planes smashed at staging areas for Viet Cong infiltrators with rockets and bombs after the American jets worked over the areas' defenses with their own rockets and bombs.

The commander of the Vietnamese air force, Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, said his planes had hit military areas just north of camps hit in the raid Monday. All are close to the 17th Parallel.

One of the pilots, Capt. Phuong Nguyen Luy, said he could see many buildings afire, with heavy columns of smoke rising. He said he could not see any bodies on the ground.

Maj. Phuong Luu Kim had high praise for the work of the American jets in suppressing the North Vietnamese antiaircraft fire.

He said that on Monday's raid his plane had picked up 24 bullet holes but that he returned today with only two holes. Most of the ground fire was from small arms, he reported.

No U.S. advisers rode in the Vietnamese planes.

Gen. Ky declined to say whether jets from the U.S. 7th Fleet also raided North Viet Nam today. He said no 7th Fleet planes were with his group but indicated Navy planes might have been in action elsewhere.

Ky led the raid on Monday but did not fly on the strike today.

At Qui Nhon, rescuers pulled out two American soldiers alive from the debris of the concrete enlisted men's quarters shattered by the Viet Cong explosion Wednesday night.

Twenty-two others, including two believed still alive, were buried under the mountain of rubble. Two others are dead. Sixteen Americans who got out of the blasted building were wounded. Four others escaped without injury.

Twenty-one Vietnamese also were believed killed, including two of the terrorists.

America's dead in Viet Nam combat totaled 270. Four U.S. Army advisers also were missing after a Viet Cong band attacked a town 80 miles north of Saigon.

Negroes Appeal For Troops Protection

By REX THOMAS

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Negroes sought protection of U.S. troops in their civil rights struggle today in the wake of a long forced march by students who had angered Sheriff James G. Clark.

Still more right-to-vote demonstrations were promised today and some of the students said they would lie down on the sidewalk if Clark attempted to drive them away again.

Hundreds of aroused parents waiting to hear a renewed appeal for nonviolence from Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. voted Wednesday night to ask President Johnson to put Selma under martial rule.

King, returning to the city several hours after the sheriff had compelled 160 teen-age demonstrators to walk and run three miles into the countryside, warned his followers once more that they "must not return violence for violence."

The 1964 Nobel Peace Prize winner told a cheering throng of students, including many who made the long march, that the problem of "brutality, meanness and terror" in Selma will remain unsolved until the federal government "is willing to do something" about it.

But he admonished young Negroes that they will gain nothing by yielding to any temptation to resort to violence themselves.

A short time later, at another church nearby, King warned an overflow crowd of adult Negroes that violence creates more social problems than it solves.

King related in detail his conference with Johnson and other high government officials in Washington Tuesday and said the President had promised to seek new federal voter legislation.

The integration leader reminded the parents that they will have another chance to register as voters Monday.

He urged Negroes to turn out "in numbers that will let the nation, the world, governor (George) Wallace and Sheriff Clark know that we do not intend to stop until we can register without any obstacles.

"We want all our rights," he added, "and we want them here and now."

Several students returning from the forced march complained that they were jabbed with nightsticks by deputies who herded them along the three-mile route. The sheriff said he did not see any of his officers use clubs on the Negroes.

Special Panel Seeks End To Strike

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special White House committee presses today for an end to the month-long strike that has tied up shipping on the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts at an estimated $6-billion loss to the nation's economy.

President Johnson appointed the three-man committee Wednesday and ordered it to report to him by noon Friday. He said the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association was "totally unjustified" in continuing the strike in ports where settlement has been reached.

Union President Thomas W. Gleason has held fast to the longshoremen's policy that none of the 60,000 men will return to work until agreement is reached at all ports.

"If we went back to work we would be sacrificing our union and we don't intend to do this," Gleason said.

The presidential committee composed of Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor and Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., will hear from both sides in the still unsettled Miami, Fla., and Galveston, Tex., negotiations.

In Philadelphia Wednesday night Federal Mediator John R. Murray announced a settlement had been reached between two longshoremen's locals and the city's Marine Trade Association. Talks continue between the association and two other locals while a fifth local, the largest, delayed voting on a pact reached Sunday until all the smaller locals settle.

Colds, Flu Are Filling Hospital

A spokesman at Cogdell Hospital reported this morning that the number of patients there was the highest that it had been at any time in the past 12 months.

The majority of patients were said to be suffering from upper respiratory infections, and the hospital has asked that since this type of illness is so contagious, that visiting in the hospital be held to a minimum.

Visitors, they said, were exposing themselves needlessly to the influenza and other respiratory germs which are so prevalent now. Some hospitals in the state have gone so far as to close the hospital to visitors, and to admit as patients only those of an emergency nature.

J. P. Timmons, hospital administrator, said that no such plan was seen for the local hospital, but he did emphasize that visiting patients in the hospital at the present time was not in the best interest of either the patient or the visitor.

Snyder schools reported a high incidence of absenteeism last week, but it was believed that the attendance was up somewhat this week. Colds and flu were blamed for most of the absences.

Red Premier Kosygin Flies To N. Korea

TOKYO (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin flew to North Korea today from Peking after talking with Communist China's Mao Tze-tung. It was their first meeting since Kosygin became premier.

A New China News Agency broadcast said they met at a reception Wednesday night which was attended by Premier Chou En-lai, President Liu Shao-chi, Foreign Minister Chen Yi and other top officials.

No details of their discussion were disclosed.

Kosygin stopped overnight in Peking en route home from a four-day visit to North Viet Nam. While in Hanoi, he promised the North Vietnamese military aid.

US Says Retaliation Compelled By Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States charged today that continuing "aggressions and outrages" by Communist forces in South Viet Nam compelled the U.S. and South Vietnamese governments to strike anew at Red infiltration bases in North Viet Nam.

A statement by the White House asserted "our desire to avoid spreading the conflict" in Viet Nam but added that because of "provocations" by North Viet Nam the United States and South Viet Nam felt compelled to strike back by air for the third time this week.

Reprisal raids, carried out by about four dozen American and Vietnamese aircraft, had been announced earlier in Saigon.

Unofficial reports at the Pentagon said U.S. carrier-based Navy planes also raided to the North, but that was not specifically confirmed by the White House, which spoke only of "air elements." Perhaps three of the Navy craft were reported to have crashed in connection with the operation, though possibly not directly from enemy fire.

The counterstrokes at the Communists presumably were ordered as a result of decisions made by President Johnson at a National Security Council meeting Wednesday afternoon. There was no announcement following that two-hour session and officials said privately that decisions would be made known only through action.

The White House statement this morning dealt with the new air assault as a limited reprisal action rather than as part of a developing air offensive against North Viet Nm. The reference to avoidance of spreading the war was evidently designed to indicate to the Communist side that the United States is still prepared to confine the struggle if the Communist strategy makes that possible.

The statement also left no doubt, however, that the unwillingness often displayed here in the past to hit North Viet Nam almost regardless of what happened in the South has now given way; whatever protection of privileged sanctuary the North had enjoyed until last weekend seemed to be disappearing fast.

The U. S.-Vietnamese strike was, however, once more directed against positions described in the White House statement as "infiltration bases."

As to the provocations charged against the Communists, the statement said that in recent days "large numbers of South Vietnamese and United States personnel have been killed in an increased number of Viet Cong ambushes and attacks."

Heavy Snows Dumped On Western US

By The Associated Press

A giant storm roamed over the western United States today, dumping heavy snow on Colorado and Arizona while rain and snow struck much of the eastern half of the country.

Livestock warnings were in effect for western Nebraska and Kansas. Cold weather and snow harassed New England. Thunderstorms struck from Texas to the Carolinas.

A 6-inch snow fell Wednesday on Colorado's parched eastern plains, a dryland winter wheat area in the grip of a three-year drought. It was the first major precipitation of the winter on the eastern prairies and raised hopes for wheat farmers.

More than 6 inches of snow fell in Denver. Pueblo in southern Colorado had more than 8 inches and several other cities reported 6-inch accumulations.

Ice, Snow Coat Upper Panhandle

By The Associated Press

The Highway Department said snow and freezing rain in the upper Panhandle created hazardous driving conditions in Sherman, Hansford, Ochiltree and Dallam Counties.

The Weather Bureau said new snow was due for the northern and central Panhandle, with accumulations of 1 to 3 inches in the upper Panhandle. Light snow was expected to continue through the night and Friday.

The Weather Bureau issued the season's first tornado forecast for Texas Thursday for a wide path from Waco to Texarkana — then modified it sharply as the threat moved northeastward.

The revised prediction included only the extreme northeast part of the state.

Removed from the forecast area shortly after dawn were Tarrant, Dallas, Johnson, Ellis, Collin and Rockwall counties.

The forecast had called for a tornado or two, large hail and locally damaging winds until noon.

The Dallas fire department removed 57 persons Wednesday from a three-block area where White Rock Creek enters the Trinity River. The evaucations were only precautionary, and by mid-afternoon the families were able to move back into their houses.

The Trinity River was falling from Dallas north and rising from Rosser south. The Weather Bureau said the river would return to its banks tonight and crest near 33 feet at Rosser early Friday, seven feet above flood stage. The river measured 31.5 feet there early today and 26.5 feet downstream at Trinidad.

The Trinity is expected to reach 28 feet flood stage at Trinidad tonight and crest near 36 feet there Monday. The river's east fork crested Wednesday at 17 feet at Crandall and was expected to return to its banks by the weekend.

Chambers Creek, a tributary of the Trinity, was swollen mightily from hill to hill five miles north of Corsicana where busy U.S. 75 crosses the turbulent stream.

The Weather Bureau said the Trinity will flood at Long Lake, 13 miles southwest of Palestine, Monday. A moderate rise was predicted for Riverside and below during the next several days.

SET FOR DEBATE

Committees OK Connally's Plan

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. John Connally's No. 1 legislative demand, a blue ribbon board to upgrade Texas college education, got a go-ahead sign Wednesday for debate.

State affairs committees of both House and Senate on voice votes quickly cleared the governor's plan to replace the 15-member Texas Commission on Higher Eeducation with a new 18-member statewide board — the "coordinating Board, Texas College and University System."

The measure went on today's calendars, ready for floor debate.

Connally said he was "very happy with the action of the two committees," adding:

"This reflects what I have said all along — that there is a great will and desire on the part of this legislature to make some real strides toward excellence in higher education."

The new board would assume control of junior colleges now under the Texas Education Agency. It would pass on college course offerings, whereas the present commission controls only degree programs.

In addition the new agency would assign university or senior college status to each of the 22 state schools.

However, the coordinating committee is not a part of the controversial regrouping of state colleges and universities into three systems, which was suggested by the governor but has not been introduced in the form of a bill.

Connally has said he wants the coordinating committee whether or not he gets the regrouping.

"This will help higher education in Texas to achieve excellence in the nation," testified Dr. Arleigh Templeton, president of Sam Houston State Teachers College. He was executive director of Connally's special study group that first recommended the coordinating committee.

Eighteen of the 25 members of the study group supported Connally's bill.

Workers Rescue Victims Of Blast

By PETER ARNETT

QUI NHON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Sweating and crying American rescue workers pulled two American soldiers alive today from the rubble of a U.S. enlisted man's hotel destroyed by Viet Cong terrorists.

One of the young American survivors was dragged out of a tunnel dug through the debris after a Korean doctor amputated his leg to free him.

The doctor, a member of a Korean medical team stationed at Qui Nhon, crawled into the tunnel smashed into the rocks by U.S. Army engineers and rescue wokers.

Faint cries from the trapped man were heard at 2:30 a.m., about six hours after Viet Cong bombs crumpled the four-story concrete building. The soldier was in the rubble for 18 hours before he was pulled out.

By late today, the toll from the blast was:

One American killed in the hotel when a bomb went off in the hotel bar. Another died later in the hospital. Sixteen Americans were wounded but survived and got out. Four escaped injury, and got out. Twenty-two others, including two believed to be still alive, were buried under the mountain of debris.

Soon after the first cries for help, the cries of three other men in the rubble were heard. One of them was pulled out, leaving two others trapped late today.

One of the heroes of the bloody night killed two of the Viet Cong attackers and survived himself.

Spec. 5 Robert K. Marshall was on the second floor of the building when the attack began. Viet Cong squads poured machine-gun fire into the building.

Marshall rushed onto the balcony of the building with his carbine and emptied his magazine at two terrorists firing from a street across the way. After killing both, he rushed back into his room for more ammunition, but the explosion went off at that moment. Marshall was evacuated to Saigon.

Marshall saved himself by diving under his bed when the building collapsed.

Rioting In India Claims 32 Lives

MADRAS, India (AP) — Indian army units moved into Madras and eight outlying cities today to help police combat language rioting which has claimed 32 lives.

Bloody battles raged throughout Madras State as thousands of students opposing Hindi as India's official language attacked trains and fought police.

The Madras government said "substantial and heavy" units of the army had been brought in.

In Madras City, the state capital on the shore of the Bay of Bengal, students and police battled on train platforms. Most trains were canceled or delayed for hours.

Students swarmed over the engine of the Indo-Ceylon Express and kicked crewmen onto the tracks.

Finance Minister T. T. Krishnamachari arrived in Madras to appeal to the students. Officials closed all colleges and high schools in the state until March 1.

The students have ignored all pleas, even from fanatic anti-Hindi groups and organizations struggling for an independent Tamil-speaking nation, and many have gone on looting sprees.

Twenty - three persons were killed by the police Wednesday, 10 of them in Kumarapalyam. Officers there opened fire on a crowd of 10,000 demonstrators.

Two police inspectors were burned to death by a frenzied mob in Tiruppur.

At least 36 persons were injured.

Two others died previously in the rioting that began more than two weeks ago when the central government proclaimed Hindi as India's official language. Three persons committed suicide in protest.

At least 3,000 persons have been arrested.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Mona and I are college seniors and have been dating steadily since the beginning of this term. I like her a lot and could be serious about her. Last Saturday night we went to a university-sponsored swimming party. When Mona saw me in my swimming trunks, she looked disgusted. I'm no Adonis, but I'm no bag of bones either. Mona suggested leaving early and while we were driving home she said, "You embarrassed me to death. Why didn't you tell me you were hirsute?" I asked her what that meant and she said, "Anyone having excess hair on his body is hirsute. Why don't you shave the hair off your back and shoulders?" I asked, sarcastically, "How about the hair on my chest?" She said, "Oh, that's all right. It's accepted. The other isn't." Is her request whacky, or is she right, Abby? A man doesn't know much about these things.

TIM

DEAR TIM: If Mona doesn't want you, hair and all, bow out and figure your brush with her was a close shave.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 17, a senior in high school and a compulsive letter - writer. Last year she wrote to a freshman boy at the state university every day without fail. She'd be writing him at 6:30 in the morning, and also past midnight she sat writing page after page after page. She'd get maybe a one-page letter from him every other week. Once I read some of the stuff she wrote (trying to get a clue as to how serious it was) and it was the biggest bunch of nothing I ever read. She is just a fair student, but if she spent half the time on her school work that she spends on those letters she would be much better. She writes a fellow in the Navy she doesn't even know. She got his address from a girl friend. Every lunch hour she spends a dime calling home to see if she got any mail. What on earth is wrong with the girl? You may print your answer. She never reads your column and gets mad if I suggest it.

TEXAN

DEAR TEXAN: Apparently your daughter needs the outlet that letter - writing offers her. But I think she's overdoing it. Insist that she spend more time on her studies, and write letters in her "spare" time.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that is keeping me awake nights. My husband grinds his teeth in his sleep. Is there anything I can do to cure him of it? When I hear him grinding his teeth, I pat him gently on the jaw. He awakens for a few moments and stops, but the minute he falls back to sleep again he continues to grind his teeth just like before. I don't suppose this will ruin our marriage, but I wish I knew how to help him.

SAN MATEO

DEAR SAN MATEO: Your marriage may survive all that teeth grinding, but your husband's teeth may not. Urge him to see his dentist before he grinds himself into a diet of crackers and milk.

Could You Qualify As An Astronaut?

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — You want to be an astronaut? Well, let's see how you measure up to the average moon traine.

He is approaching 35, weighs 161, stands just under 5-feet-10, has blue eyes and his brown hair is clipped close.

He's a test pilot with more than 3,000 hours' experience, of which 2,500 were in jets. He has flown about 20 combat missions in Korea and World War II, and attended a military test pilot school.

The Manned Spacecraft Center lumped its 28 astronauts into one big hopper today, and these were the average statistics that came out.

Five of the 28 moon trainees are civilians, but all served as military pilots.

Texas' Economic Climate Said Good

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas had a "generally favorable economic climate" in 1964, the Texas Employment Commission says. By Dec. 31, total employment reached a record 3,677,900.

"Despite weakness in some industries, employment trends reflected an upturn in business activity," the Commission said Wednesday.

The December employment total was an increase of 11,300 from November and 85,800 from December, 1963.

Unemployment declined 5,500 during December and totaled 153,500.

Regents To Pledge Rights Compliance

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The State Board of Regents has voted to sign a pledge in compliance with the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The decision was taken Wednesday without comment.

Dr. Walter Martin, acting chancellor, said that now the board will be able to pledge compliance to the act for all 20 state colleges.

George Washington, his long hair powdered white, delivered the first inaugural address in New York City on April 30, 1789. The first President was apparently so nervous that his hands trembled. His voice often was inaudible. Washington apologized that he was "unpracticed in civil administration," and announced that he would accept no salary.

U. S. Army Now Offers Many Choices

Under the Army's new "Choice Not Chance" program, voluntary enlistees can choose their fields from over 55 career groups and 198 occupations. High schools graduates are preferred but there are no special educational requirements for this option.

Eligibility for the chosen vocational training is determined by special aptitude and physical examinations. If the enlistee qualifies a guarantee is written into his future Army record stating he will receive schooling or on the job training in his chosen speciality.

College graduates are not left out of the program. Under the Officer Candidate School option, potential candidates are tested and if qualified, receive their choice of option guaranteed in writing before enlistment. Also, selected candidates are enlisted for only a two year period, under this program.

Foremost among Army volunteer enlistment options is the Graduate Specialist Program, which is limited to high school graduates only. If a high school graduate passes the qualifying examinations for enrollment as a graduate specialist he chooses the school he wants before he enlists. In the program there are over 107 different classroom courses.

These are but a few, of the many enlistment options available to the adventurious young man of today, in the new "Action Army." Young men who like excitement, travel, plus the advantage of getting an education should contact their local Army Recruiter, Sgt. Joe Welch at 1825 Twenty - fifth Street, or call collect HI 3-9675 or HI 3-9934 for an appointment.

Asks Federal Trial On Eagle-Killing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 36-year-old dairy and sheep man has demanded a federal district court trial of charges that he shot a golden eagle and a bald eagle.

The case of LeRoy Martinelli of Point Reyes was continued by U. S. Commissioner Richard Goldsmith until the U. S. Attorney's office can file a new information against the rancher.

Martinelli was arraigned before Goldsmith on charges of shooting the two eagles Jan. 26. Martinelli said he shot the birds after they killed nine of his lambs.

He and the California Woolgrowers Association retained A. E. Bagshaw as counsel. Bagshaw said he wanted a jury trial in view of widespread interest in the case.

Goldsmith said the Supreme Court has ruled there is no right to a jury trial in a petty offense.

Bagshaw said his client will plead the right to protect his property and lack of criminal intent.

Among scores of letters offering moral and financial support, Bagshaw said, was one from the Texas Sheep Growers Association offering financial support.

Janitor Finds Way To Stump IBM

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A janitor has stumbled upon a drastic but effective answer to automation: Throw away the computer's punch cards and it is helpless.

A county janitor accidentally discarded boxes containing cards with the names and addresses of 70,000 present or former county employes, it was disclosed Wednesday.

It caused the county to miss the Jan. 31 deadline for mailing federal income-tax W-2 forms. The punch-card data was obtained from electronic tape, but it took so long the last batch of forms wasn't mailed until Tuesday.

Chinese Are Digging But Not Exporting

BY MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK, (AP) — Though the Communist regime in China long ago stopped the export of ancient artifacts — which give scholars their clues to early Chinese civilization — their archeologists are busy as beavers.

And fortunately enough scientific information is seeping from behind the bamboo curtain to give the outside world (meaning the Sinologists — students of China) some exciting disclosures.

That is the report of Dr. Paul Singer. By avocation, he is both a scholar and collector in the field of Sinology. Professionally he is a psychiatrist practicing in this area. His collecting days began when he was 12, in his native city of Vienna.

The Asia House Gallery now has an exhibition, running through March 28, called "Relics of Ancient China from the Collection of Dr. Paul Singer." It is a cross section of more than 150 items from the collection of more than 1,500 specimens, selected for this occasion by Dr. Max Loehr, specialist in Oriental Art at Harvard University.

This is a major private collection, and like others in museums as well, it has been formed from the lucky chance, unscientific discoveries of back-country Chinese peasants who often were just plain grave-robbers. There had been no other sources.

Chronologically, the exhibit ranges from Neolithic times to a little after the Christian era, and includes pottery, inlaid pieces, jade, ritual vessels of bronze and mythical figures in many materials.

Archeology, though it has flourished for a long time in other areas, came late to China.

As Gordon Washburn, director of the Gallery points out, scholarly investigation there "is a matter of barely 50 years."

Nationalist China made a start, and in 1929 the excavations at Anyang, capital of the Shang dynasty (1766-1122 B. C.) lifted this period, as Washburn says, "out of the realm of myth and speculation into solid historical reality." But not much was published about it.

The Communist regime began with the formation of a science academy in 1949. But it also shut off exports. It made propaganda of the idea that ancient relics "belong to the people."

"The present Chinese regime does not permit anything to be taken out of the country, but they are digging furiously," says Dr. Singer. "They have developed teams that move anywhere a find has been made. They establish museums right on the spot."

The export ban has meant that for the outside world there is no more material. Except when existing collections are broken up — and there still are treasures in the West and Japan — there is no way to assemble another collection.

The Chinese Communists publish two journals, each on a monthly basis, in the field of archeology, and except for one recent lapse, the journals reach outside scholars.

"The information is good enough, though inferior by Western scientific standards," said Dr. Singer. "They are young yet in the science. Their publications do not keep pace with their discoveries."

For scholars, there have been some basic, significant, reports.

"In the Shang period, the question had been, how did they learn bronze making?" said Dr. Singer. "It has been assumed they case their bronze by the Lost Wax method, known early in the West. Now we learn the assumption was wrong — they used pottery molds. They did not get that method from the West."

Another question had been, did the Chinese learn glass-making from the West, via the Greeks, and earlier the Egyptians?

"Now we learn that the comparable glass in China had a high content of barium and lead," Dr. Singer continued. "It is a formula that is their own. There is no evidence they learned from the West."

Decorator's Delight

If you're modernizing the central heating system of your home and you're having a new gas-fired, hot water or steam boiler installed, don't overlook the unsightly old room radiators. You can replace the dust-catchers with modern baseboard units that distribute the warmth over a larger area of the room. They are so low and inconspicuous that they never interfere with furniture placement or the decor of the room.

La Farge A Pleasure To Read

THE DOOR IN THE WALL. By Oliver La Farge.

La Farge was one of those rare individuals whose ambidextrous gifts enable them to flourish in the two cultures — science and literature.

He began his career as an anthropologist, turned to fiction — his first novel, "Laughing Boy," won the Pulitzer Prize for 1929 — and through both fact and fiction became an authority on the Southwest and the American Indian.

This collection of 12 stories, written over a period of many years, has a common theme — the personal lives and adventures of people working in the scholarly field of anthropology, archeology and ethnology.

Most of them are connected in some way with an imaginary school, Talvert University, and a good many characters appear in two or more tales. Some of the stories are set in the rain forest and some in the Southwest. And despite the fact they are all close to the academic world, they encompass a surprising range of human experience.

There is a subtle story of a man who created a scholarly hoax and then let it change his whole life. One is a vivid study of an independent researcher's disintegration in the tropics. Another is a stirring illumination of the crucial moment in the life of a boy who is loyal to his father, and cannot accept his mother's second husband. Two tales show how the members of a primitive society protect their cultural heritage through privacy and secrecy.

La Farge's smoothly flowing style and his artfully artless delineation of character make these stories a pleasure to read.

Diary Before Dying

THE KEY TO MY PRISON. By Harris Downey.

In subject, treatment and style, Downey's novel is a psychologically macabre and lyrically eerie story.

It is presented as the journal of a young woman, Delia Wright whose mind wavers between sanity and insanity. She has decided to take her own life, but delays the act for months while she records her thoughts.

Delia had grown up in a small town, her adolescent years disturbed by the long illness and death of her pitiful mother. This is the third time Delia has intended suicide.

The first occasion was when the object of her schoolgirl love dismissed her with the remark, "You just don't appeal to me, Delia." The second was when an older woman, who had taken her in as a companion and prodigy, broke up their relationship.

The crisis came in Delia's sordid affair with a wandering laborer, Hoagie, a purely physical attraction, which Delia knew was degrading, but which she could not halt. Then Hoagie had deserted her for a local waitress, and the pair had left town together.

The journal is written in a remarkable style, full of poetic cadences and imagery, as Delia alternately spins out her fears and delusions in her "dungeon of creep - toads and despair," or rambles off into aphorisms and word - smoke. In her more rational moments, Delia knows that her journal is a self - justification — "Maybe it is only myself I attempt to explain to."

Would Delia have possessed the articulate intellect to create such a subtle, lyrically composed journal? Probably not. But if the reader accepts this device of literary style, the effect is striking. Few novels have such a haunting, insinuating, literary virtuosity.

LOST AND RECOVERED: "A Wild Scene," by Thomas Cole of the Hudson River School, now at the Baltimore Museum of Art.

Art Detectives Succeed With A Cole Painting

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor

A classic example of the current recovery of a lost painting is the key item in a current exhibition at the Baltimore Museum of Art.

It typifies the art historian's fascinating problems of identification and authentication, as well as the delicate skill of the restorers' art.

It is a large, romantic landscape, "A Wild Scene," one of the major works of Thomas Cole, a prominent figure in the Hudson River School.

Having been rediscovered after three - quarters of a century, it now is on view in an exhibition, "Thomas Cole: Paintings By An American Romanticist." The show, which includes another Cole work acquired by the museum, "The Tempter," was assembled from many museums and will run through Feb. 28.

More than six years ago a Baltimore auctioneer turned up a dark and dirty old landscape. It had a bad crease in the center and was very unimpressive. It was large — 45 inches high, 75¾ inches wide. But it seemed to have possibilities.

He called it to the attention of Dr. Gertrude Rosenthal, the Baltimore museum's chief curator, and Dr. James Breckinridge, then the curator of decorative arts. Although they were specialists in American painting, they thought it had merit, that it was an example of the 1830 - 1849 romantic period, and might be a work of Cole. It was bought for $500.

In the next three years several experts examined the picture, but pending a thorough cleaning, could not be sure of an identification. In 1961 it was seen by Prof. Oliver Larkin of Smith College, who suggested it might be "The Savage State," the first painting which Cole did in a series called "The Course of Empire."

Then it was Prof. Howard Merritt of the University of Rochester, feeling this was a major work by Cole, who dug out its early history.

The story began with Robert Gilmor Jr., Baltimore's first great art patron. Gilmor had loaned Cole $300 for a European trip.

In a draft of a letter written to Gilmor in Florence, Italy, dated Jan. 29, 1832, the artist offered "The Wild Scene" to Gilmor in payment for the loan.

Gilmor accepted. But first the painting was exhibited in the National Academy Design Show of 1832.

Within 16 years the picture had passed into the hands of Gilmor's nephew, William Gilmor, for it was so identified in the first annual exhibition of the Maryland Historical Society, in 1848.

The last recorded entry found by Prof. Merritt in his search of the picture's history came in 1882, when a reference book on artists reported it was in the collection of E. L. Rogers, son of Lloyd Nicholas Rogers, who built for himself the famous Druid Mansion in Baltimore. After Rogers' death, there was no trace of the painting.

The cleaning and restoration were undertaken by conservators Victor Covey and Kay Silberfield. They found the surface covered by a thick, dull scrumble, but when they tested a small area, they found that underneath the obscuring layers there was a rich, bright, precise detail.

"We then knew that these layers had been put on later," said Dr. Rosenthal, "since no artist would ever go to the trouble of painting the finest kind of detail in order to cover it up.

"The removal of the varnish layers gave the picture its sparkle and excitement, and was for me the most rewarding moment in the rediscovery of the painting.

The museum has given no estimate of the picture's present worth, but it would be a good many times the $500 that was paid for the dark, old, unidentified painting in 1958.

Salesman Seeks Job—In A Big Way

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — When Fred Pitkof decided to top all his other efforts to land a job he proclaimed his need and his qualifications in an expansive, and expensive, way: A $200- a-month billboard at a busy mid-city corner.

Large capitals on the sign spell out, "I want a job!" and alongside them Pitkof lists these qualifications — "law degree, three years stock broker, eight years administration, 35 years old, married." Across the bottom of the sign, in king-size letters and figures, are his name and a phone number.

This billing went up about two weeks ago. Wednesday, Pitkof said he was disappointed in the response — but not discouraged.

He said he had received 35 to 40 telephone calls and had been interviewed a few times. He is still, however, an out-of-work securities salesman.

"So far," he said, "there has been nothing substantial or significant.

"It isn't as if I were asking for something unreasonable. I feel I am worth $150 a week, but I might take $125."

He might settle for that because he and his wife are expecting their first child in June.

Pitkof says it's a mystery to him why he isn't snapped up right off.

Pitkof, who served in the Korean War, said he studied law at the City College of New York and New York University. During his law school years, he said, he worked for a linen supply company, in time becoming an assistant to the president. After that company merged with another, he said, he went to work for a member of the New York Stock Exchange.

Last summer, Pitkof said, he moved here as an employe of a bank that intended eventually to make him a branch manager.

"But I wasn't happy outside investment trusts," he said. "I felt I wasn't doing myself any good. So I left in December. Since then I've tried everything to get a job."

Arguments End On FPC Gas Pricing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arguments which lasted three days over the Federal Power Commission's regulation of wellhead gas prices in the Permian Basin of West Texas and New Mexico ended Wednesday.

The next step is up to the commission.

The case is a key to the FPC's area approach for control of field prices of natural gas. At issue were a hearing examiner's recommendations for the field, which produces about 10 per cent of the nation's gas.

There was no indication when the FPC would make its decision.

Staff lawyers of the commission made the closing arguments. Some gas company lawyers offered rebuttals.

Examiner Seymour Wenner recommended Sept. 17, after lengthy hearings, the application of a two - price system according to category of gas to production from the Permian Basin, most of which goes to California.

He proposed one formula for prices on gas from wells drilled exclusively for gas and another for gas discovered and produced along with oil.

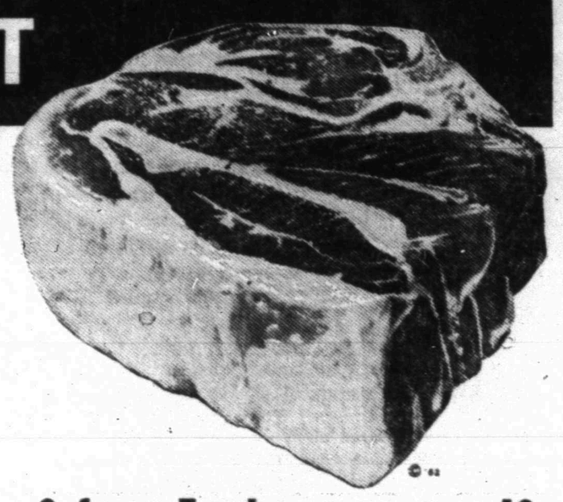

Wenner recommended ceiling prices ranging from 10 cents a thousand cubic feet for "old" casinghead gas to 16.75 cents for new "gas well" gas.

Governors of Texas and New Mexico and lawyers for many gas producers argued a single area price of not less than 20 cents was just and reasonable.

The commission has sought in the Permian Basin case to establish a pattern for its regulation of producers' prices of natural gas destined for interstate commerce — a job handed the commission by a 1954 Supreme Court decision.

If I were a King and knew a queen whose love was not quite mine—I'd send her flowers from Hinshaw's and ask her to be my VALENTINE.

Pro Football Leagues Balk At 2 Proposals

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Football League has followed the rival National League by banning premature signings, but neither pro league has agreed to two other proposals aimed at protecting the nation's colleges in the multimillion-dollar war over top player talent.

Joe Foss, commissioner of the AFL, issued his statement on premature signings Wednesday in a document that almost paralleled one issued by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle last month.

Both leagues are now on record as prohibiting the signing of college football seniors until the teams have completed their seasons, including bowl games.

That, however with a few small exceptions, is as far as the pro leagues have gone in responding to three requests made by the National Collegiate Athletic Association after it was revealed that four Oklahoma players had signed pro contracts before the Gator Bowl game.

The NCAA, at the time, also requested that the pro leagues hold their drafts after the bowl games and discontinue their practice of signing redshirts — players who remain eligible for college competition after their class has graduated.

The AFL, however, took a further step toward trying to reach settlement with the NCAA by stating that it would be league policy initially to seek assistance of the athletic director or the head coach at the college where a club desires to contact a player about signing a pro contract.

The AFL action came just before the deadline set by Jim Corbett, Louisiana State University athletic director and chairman of the NCAA committe on college-pro relations. Corbett said he was withholding comment until he studied the statements.

Despite the fact that the AFL agreed to only one of the three proposals advanced by the NCAA, they jumped back into the good graces of the Southeastern Conference publicity directors.

The conference's sports directors had voted in January to ban AFL representatives from their campuses since the league had not agreed to halt premature signings. With the AFL's announcement, the ban was lifted.

Heart Fund Tournaments In Progress

The two annual Heart Fund sporting events — golf and bowling tournaments - will be naming their champions within the next week. Weather permitting, that is.

In the golf tourney, entrants in the men's division are to complete an 18-hole qualifying round by dusk Saturday, Feb. 13, with an 18-hole final round to be played on Sunday, Feb. 14. Entrants in the ladies' division are to complete a nine hole qualifying round prior to regular ladies' day play on Tuesday, Feb. 16, when a final nine-hole round is to be played.

Entry fees are $2.50 and $1.50 in the men's and ladies' divisions, respectively, not including applicable green fees.

The bowling tournament is being conducted as part of regular league play this week. The event is of the handicap variety with a bowler eligible to enter as many times as he bowls in regular league play. Trophies will be awarded for high line and high series for both men and women with each entrant eligible to win only one trophy. Entry fee is one dollar for each time entered.

Proceeds from the Heart Fund Golf and Bowling Tournaments will go to the Heart Fund.

Estes 18th Player To Hit 2,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Wayne Estes, the Utah State star whose tragic death last Monday night stunned the college basketball world, was the 18th player to break the 2,000-point barrier in three varsity years.

This was pin-pointed today in the weekly major college statistics compiled by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau. Estes' career total was 2,001, a mark he reached with 48 points against Denver shortly before he was electrocuted when he came in contact with a high-tension wire.

The 48 points gave Estes a final season total of 641 points on 250 field goals and 141 free throws in 19 games. This is an average of 33.7, up from his 32.7 the previous week, and kept him in second place behind Rick Barry of Miami, Fla.

Barry, who has been No. 1 all season, lost a point from his 38.2 average the previous week, but continued to lead with a 37.1 on 742 points in 20 games. Bill Bradley of Princeton retained third place at 31.4 on 534 points in 17 games.

Penn State Is Tough On Road

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Nittany Lions of Penn State can put in a strong claim as the best road team in college basketball this season.

They whipped Bucknell at Lewisburg, Pa., 79-61 Wednesday night for their seventh straight victory, a 14-3 record over-all and their eighth triumph in 11 road games.

Jim Reed's 26 points, including nine in a 13-point spree that broke a 23-23 tie, paced the Lions as they added the Bisons to their previous road victims, Kansas, Kansas State, Gettysburg, Temple, Houston, Detroit and West Virginia.

The third-ranked St. Joseph's Hawks of Philadelphia, the only team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action, won their 10th straight and upped their over-all record to 20-1 by crushing Albright 92-71 in the feature of a doubleheader at the Palestra.

A basket from 50 feet out by 5-foot-9 Curt Fromal at the halftime buzzer helped LaSalle wallop Gettysburg 91-68 in the Palestra opener.

Evansville, the No. 1 team in The AP small-college poll, kept its unbeaten streak going with a 103-73 thumping of St. Joseph's, Ind. It was the Aces' 19th straight this year and a winning streak of 25, counting six from last season.

NYU whipped Holy Cross 84-73 and St. Bonaventure, downed Iona 74-64 in a twinbill at New York's Madison Square Garden. Jeff Hazard, with 20 points, and George Carter, with 18, sparked the Bonnies.

Ron Reed, 23, and Larry Sheffield, 18, combined for 41 points to lead Notre Dame to a 62-59 triumph over DePaul at South Bend.

Marquette lost its third straight since upsetting St. John's of New York, bowing to Memphis State at Milwaukee 82-70.

Wall, Ford Lead Group

PANAMA (AP) — Defending over-all champion Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., and Doug Ford of Tuckahoe, N.Y., led a strong U.S. delegation into today's first round of the Panama Open, first tournament on the annual Caribbean pro golf tour.

Wall captured three tournaments and the Seagram Caribbean trophy on the tour last year. The Panama Open was not played a year ago because of anti-United States demonstrations in the Canal Zone.

Included in the field of 98 professionals and 69 amateurs are players from Canada, France, Spain and the best of the Latin-American players.

Midwestern Has A Leaping Star

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — It isn't true that John Henry Young clears the top of the backboard while leaping for rebounds.

He can come within six inches, however, and that gives him a bird's eye view of many a goal.

Young, the 6-4 star of Midwestern University's mighty Indians, gained his reputation as a basketball player with his prodigious jumping.

They think out at Midwestern that the cow that jumped over the moon was a piker.

But while he is noted for his rebounding, John Henry also is quite a scorer. He has poked in 522 points in 24 games this season while leading Midwestern to a 21-3 record.

Midwestern expects to go to the NAIA tournament and while there show the cage fans a player on the order of Lucious Jackson, the Pan-American great who was such a sensation in the NAIA, played on the 1964 Olympic team and now is wowing them in pro basketball as a member of the Philadelphia 76ers.

Some think Young is even better than Jackson.

When Edward Johnson, coach of Dogan Negro High of Fairfield, ran out of jumpers five years ago, he began to search the halls of the little East Texas school for replacements.

Fortunately, Johnson's recruiting took him no farther than the track where he settled on a likely prospect, John Henry Young, state champion high jumper and miler. So Young led the team to the state tournament.

Then Midwestern Coach Dennis Vinzant got into the act. Despite the fact that Young had only one season in basketball, he offered him a four-year scholarship.

The Indians' super chief has been producing points at a mechanical pace in his four seasons here. He had 306 as a freshman, 321 in a half-semester as a sophomore and in 1963-64 broke the school record with 647 in 26 games for a 24.8 average.

This year he has averaged 21.3 despite a crippling attack of bursitis in both knee joints.

Illness Of Ortiz May Delay Bout

PANAMA CITY (AP) — A sudden illness that has floored lightweight boxing champion Carlos Ortiz is expected to force postponement of Saturday night's title fight against Ismael Laguna of Panama.

Although officials were still waiting before calling off the first world championship fight in Panama's history, it seemed doubtful that Ortiz would be able to climb into the ring against the No. 4 contender.

"If he's well, he'll be in there fighting Saturday night," said Ortiz' manager, Bill Daly. "But if he is not in top shape he won't be in the ring. He'll have to be in top shape."

Daly first revealed Ortiz' illness, admitting that the 28-year-old Puerto Rican-born New Yorker had been having trouble because of a stomach disorder.

First reports indicated that Ortiz had a virus which was causing vomiting and diarrhea.

Evansville Still Tops

By The Associated Press

Unheralded Southern Illinois, which gave top-ranked Evansville its toughest battle of the season, has moved in among the first 10 in The Associated Press' small-college basketball poll.

Unranked a week ago, the Carbondale team soared to seventh place. Augusburg, Minn., is the only other new team in the top ten.

Meanwhile, Evansville strengthened its lead, collecting 17 first-place votes and one for second place for a 179-point total in the balloting by special panel of 18 regional experts. The Aces lifted their record to 18-0 last week with victories over DePauw and Indiana State.

Southern Illinois is 12-4. The Salukis dropped an 81-80 decision to Evansville on the Aces' home court three weeks ago and a return match is scheduled at Carbondale on Feb. 27.

The top ten, with total points:

1.	Evansville	179
2.	Central State, Ohio	145
3.	High Point	101
4.	Fairmont	80
5.	Gannon	69
6.	Arkansas AM&N	45
7.	Southern Illinois	38
8.	Phila. Textile	31
9.	Grambling	24
10.	Augsburg	23

Starts Bout Before Bell

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Willie Richardson raced across the ring Wednesday night at Oakland Auditorium and kicked California state heavyweight champion Roger Rischer in the groin before their scheduled 12-round fight for the title.

The 192-pound Richardson was disqualified by referee Vern Bybee, then suspended indefinitely by the State Athletic Commission.

Rischer, 198, of Oakland, was standing in the middle of the ring with Bybee waiting for the referee's instructions. Richardson then rushed at Rischer and kicked him a number of times.

Rischer said he didn't move when he saw Richardson charging because, "I thought it was a gag."

The incident almost turned into a full-scale brawl after Rischer was ordered out of the ring.

Richardson, of nearby San Jose, had been seated by handlers in his corner, but he jumped through the ropes and began throwing punches at Rischer.

The $4,603 gross gate receipts will be refunded to the approximately 2,000 fans on hand, promoter Don Chargin announced.

Last Nov. 2 in San Jose, Rischer knocked Richardson down twice in the 11th round was awarded a knockout victory by referee Frank Carter, allowable under California rules.

Phoenix Course Ideal For Jack

PHOENIX, Ariz, (AP) — Big hitter Jack Nicklaus had the conditions in his favor today as he opened his bid for a second straight victory in the $67,500 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

Nicklaus and other proponents of the power game were conceded advantage on the damp Arizona Country Club course, a 6,584-yard par-72 desert layout which has been drenched with rain in recent days.

No rain fell Wednesday, but the course had little chance to dry out as the sun spent much of the day behind clouds and temperatures hovered in the 40s.

Despite the slowness of the fairways, soft-spoken Kentuckian Frank Beard proved in Wednesday's pro-am competition that the power boys won't have the game all to themselves.

Beard, of Louisville, made finesse count, whittling out a nine-under-par 63 with accurate irons and a deft putter. He had nine birdies and no bogeys.

Beard didn't get much help fron his teammates in the pro-am competition. They contributed only two strokes to his team's best-ball score.

Foursomes led by Miller Barber and Bruce Devlin had best-ball counts of 56 to tie for pro-am honors.

Nicklaus, who tied for third in the Bing Crosby tourney and for fourth in the Bob Hope Desert Classic, indicated in the pro-am that he's fit to defend his Phoenix crown. Big Jack knocked one stroke off par at 71.

Owens Has Tough Task With Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — Jesse Owens won four Olympic gold medals, made Hitler look like a bum and beat horses in exhibition races. Now, at 51, comes his toughest test — teaching the New York Mets to run fast.

The Mets have sprinted home 10th, 10th and 10th in the first three years of their existence. Not only do they lack early foot but they die in the stretch. They're not so hot down the back side either. Since the 1964 season ended they have added dash man Yogi Berra.

George Weiss, the Mets' president, announced Wednesday that Owens was joining the club as a special running instructor for spring training. He plans calisthenics and sprints and hopes to have them doing push-ups out of last place.

"I don't expect to find any Bob Hayes among the Mets," said Owens at a news conference. "But I do think I can help the boys discover some of the technique of running. A half step can mean the difference between a hit and an out."

Owens lives in Chicago where he is very active in boys club work and with the Illinois Youth Commission.

Mack Jones of Syracuse led the International League in strikeouts last season with 121. He also led in home runs with 39.

THINKING BIG!

Boyle Takes A Leap To Conclusions

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

It's easier to borrow money on a sunny than a rainy day. On a rainy day most people are so preoccupied with their own miseries they don't feel like helping anyone else.

The quickest way to get acquainted with a stranger is to ask him if he knows a cure for the hiccups.

The biggest creeps among sports fans are those who go to prize fights and those who like auto races. Secretly, most of them just want to see someone get hurt, and as kids they probably got a big thrill out of stepping on bugs.

Elderly bankers and middle-aged confidence men wear vests for the same reason — to gain an air of conservative respectability.

A wise man never makes a bet after midnight — or a third martini.

Dinner always tastes better on days when you've paused to help a blind man cross the street on your way home.

Much of what passes for scholarship today is merely tedious gobbledygook and double-talk.

One of the best ways to allay the pangs of rheumatism is to listen to a movie star talk about her career. Both your legs soon grow numb.

It's a funny thing about millionaires. They sometimes give the impression they have holes in their heads — but you never meet one with a hole in his pocket.

Football coaches disagree about many things, but they all are certain that no kid will ever make a really good fullback unless he has big feet.

One of the great research problems in the fashionable drinking set is what they can mix vodka with next. My suggestion is castor oil.

Guys with big expense accounts usually are chronically late in getting up their rent money for the landlord. They're also slow to pay on their grocery bills.

Office boys now spend more time combing their hair than stenographers waste fixing their fingernails.

The joint income tax return has done more than Moses to wipe out philandering by married men. They no longer can hide the expenses of keeping up love nests.

Deck stewarts on luxury liners are among the last to pull up a chair for their wives at dinner ashore.

Chauffeurs of rented limousines wear the same mournful expression, whether their passengers are going to a funeral, a wedding, or a race track.

LBJ Takes Dramatic Steps To Seem Very Undramatic

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is a short story which could be called "An Afternoon at George E. Reedy's Place" or better, maybe, "An Afternoon at Lyndon B. Johnson's Place."

Reedy is President Johnson's press secretary with his office in one of the White House wings. On the right, going in, is the press room, full of reporters' desks and telephones.

Straight ahead, going in, is a huge room, a lobby, with leather chairs and sofas and big oval table where reporters who don't regularly cover the White House dump their hats and overcoats.

To the left, through a little hallway, is Reedy's place. This towering man with thick, horn-rimmed glasses, and gray hair so thick and high it looks bouffant, likes pipes, music and fishing. He's a slow talker.

He briefs the press for Johnson except on those days when the President holds an open news conference, which isn't often. So these meetings with Reedy for most reporters most of the time are their only link with Johnson.

There are exceptions. Johnson frequently calls in certain newsmen and talks to them for background which means they can say what he said so long as they don't say he said it.

The lobby Wednesday was jammed with reporters waiting for the word from Reedy because Wednesday was an unusual day, and they were very serious.

Johnson had called his National Security Council into emergency session because earlier the Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam had really cut some capers.

Over the weekend, after they had attacked an American airbase, Johnson ordered a bomber raid on North Viet Nam in retaliation. This was truly tit-for-tat although the White House explained it more stiffly. "The response was appropriate and fitting."

Then in a clear effort to test the American will to go on helping the South Vietnamese resist the Reds, the guerrillas made blazing attacks Wednesday throughout Viet Nam, even blowing up an American billet.

So the reporters in the lobby had only one question on their minds: What would Johnson and the National Security Council do now to meet this new test?

Reedy called in the newsmen at 4 p.m. but it was a big bust. He would only say what everyone knew: That the situation in Viet Nam was "receiving the closest attention."

The reporters pelted Reedy with questions to try to loosen him up but he wouldn't budge and nobody was mad at him. He couldn't say more than Johnson wanted him to say.

At last, with a brief "thank you," the reporters burst out of Reedy's office and into the lobby on their way to phones or their coats. And at that very instant Johnson burst out of another door and strode across the lobby.

At top speed he went out the door opening on the White House grounds. The reporters forgot their phones and their coats and went after him.

Johnson's timing was amazing. He had emerged at the best possible moment to get the most attention from the most reporters, in fact, all the reporters, although there is no evidence to support this kind of speculation here:

That Reedy's office is bugged — meaning it is equipped with a listening device that enables Johnson to sit in his office and hear what goes in Reedy's briefings. The White House has disclaimed any such bugging.

Johnson walked fast up one White House walk and fast back down another, all of it taking no more than five minutes, with perhaps a hundred newsmen trotting around and behind him. He led them like the Pied Piper and then disappeared indoors again.

A Junior Editors Quiz About PLANT LEAVES

QUESTION: Why and how do plants' leaves turn toward the light?

• • •

ANSWER: Plants turn their leaves toward the sun for a very simple reason. Their leaves manufacture the food upon which the plant depends for nourishment, and they must have sunlight to get the energy to put these little green factories into operation. So we will find plants growing in such a way as to get as many of their leaves in the sunlight as possible. At lower left, Jerry is showing us with his stretched-out arms how a tree in the open stretches out many branches, each bearing great numbers of twigs and leaves. This stretching gives the best chance for light to fall on the greatest number of leaves. But in a dense forest (right), there is too much shade for lower branches to receive any benefit. Jerry is pointing directly up and that is where the trees must grow to get light; as a result, forest trees tend to be tall and straight.

Plants have a wonderful mechanism which makes them turn toward the light. Substances called 'auxins' are responsible. They accumulate in the part of the stem away from the light and stimulate the cells on that side to grow rapidly. Since the shaded cells become longer than the shorter ones in the light, the plant stem becomes bent toward the light (upper left) bringing the light's energy to its leaves.

• • •

FOR YOU TO DO: Take a walk in the woods in early spring and you'll find something most interesting: many tiny flowering plants close to the ground. Why do they flower so early? Because, later on, the leaves of the trees would cut out the light from them. So they get their share of the sun's energy while they have the chance.

Claiming Of Dependents Vital Part Of Tax Return

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's no single rule covering exemptions for all dependents. But each one you can rightfully claim means $600 taken off your income in making out your 1964 income tax return.

Anyone filing a return gets a $600 exemption for himself if he is under 65 and an additional $600 if he is over 65. The same goes for his wife. A blind person under or over 65 gets an extra $600 exemption, in addition to his regular one.

A dependent could be your child, parent, or some other relative, or a friend. But you get no extra $600 exemption for a dependent because he is over 65 or blind.

If you contributed more than half his support in that part of the year in which he was alive you can claim as a dependent a child who was born or who died in 1964, but not a stillborn child.

In deciding whether you can claim your own child, stepchild, or an adopted child as a dependent, age 19 is an important point. But, first, remember: Anyone of any age — that goes for a child under or over 19 — who had $600 income of his own must file a return and take his own $600 exemption on that return.

But say you had an under-19 child for whom you contributed more than half the support. It wouldn't matter how much income he had, below or above $600 or none at all, or whether he had to file a return.

You could claim him as a dependent and take a $600 exemption for him, and you wouldn't have to report his income on your return. The point is: He was under 19, your child, and you contributed more than half his support.

But it's different if he was 19 or over and had $600 income, even though you contributed more than half his support.

You couldn't claim him as a dependent unless he qualified as a full-time student. He couldn't qualify as such if he had a regular full time job during the day and went to night school or took correspondence courses.

But if he qualified as a full-time student — no matter how much his income — and if he got more than half his support from you, you could claim a $600 exemption for him.

And even if your dependent child won a scholarship, you could ignore its value in figuring whether you paid more than half his support last year.

While you cannot claim a paid servant in your home as a dependent, you could make that claim for a friend who lived in your home the full year and got more than half his support from you.

But you couldn't claim that friend as a dependent, even though he got more than half his support from you, if he had $600 income.

You could claim anyone of the following list of relatives as a dependent but only if you provided for more than half the support for him or her and that relative did not have as much as $600 gross income:

Your grandchild, great-grandchild, and so on; your legally adopted child or stepchild, but not the latter's descendants; your brother or sister; your parents, grandparents, or other direct ancestors, but not a foster-parent; your stepfather or stepmother; mother; your niece or nephew, meaning a son or daughter of your brother or sister; your father-, mother-, son-, daughter-, brother-, or sister-in-laws. But, generally, not if they live overseas, unless they are U.S. citizens.

Those relationships do not end with death or divorce. Even though your wife died or divorced you, you can continue to claim her father — your father-in-law — as a dependent if he fits the rule mentioned above.

Nor does a relative have to live with you for you to claim him as a dependent. For example, you may have been paying more than half the support of one of your parents who was living with your sister.

Here's how you couldn't claim a relative as a dependent: Your brother got more than half his support from you but earned $600 or more on his own. He'd have to file his own return, taking his own $600 exemption.

Two questions arise here: What's income in the case of a dependent? And if it isn't taxable, does it count?

Social Security payments are not taxable and do not have to be reported as income by anyone, yet they may be a decisive factor in deciding whether someone you wish to claim as a dependent got more than half his support from you.

Example: Your father got $700 in Social Security payments, and used them to live on. That was the only income he got on his own. You contributed more than $700 to his support. You could claim him as a dependent.

Example: Your father got $700 in Social Security payments but, instead of using them to live on, put them in a bank and lived off the support you gave him. You could claim him as a dependent, even though you gave him less than $700.

But you could not claim him if he lived off the Social Security payments and the support he got from you but your support was less than what he got from Social Security.

Then there's this one: Suppose you paid more than half the support of your married child but he, or she, filed a joint return with his or her spouse.

You couldn't claim an exemption for him. In this case the fact that you paid more than half his support wouldn't count.

TSTA Here Raps Governor's Bill

The Scurry County Unit of the Texas State Teachers Association has voiced strong opposition to Gov. John Connally's teacher pay proposal.

Quoting from figures in the TSTA's own bill called the "$45 for '65" plan, and the governor's bill, R. E. Cooper, Lamar Junior High Principal and president of the Scurry unit of the TSTA, said it was apparent that local school property taxes would have to be increased immediately under the governor's bill, which has been introduced by Sen. Jack Strong of Longview and Rep. W. S. Heatly of Paducah. The governor's measure calls for local districts to pay $14 million of the bill's $20 million annual cost.

This would contrast sharply with the Gilmer - Aikin Foundation program now in effect and which is credited with raising Texas' public education standards. The foundation basis is 80 per cent from state funds and 20 per cent for local funds. Local teacher spokesmen fear that the governor's bill would put districts with limited local financial resources at a decided disadvantage and thus put the standards for the state as a whole on a sharp decline. The difficulty for such local districts would stem from the fact that the district themselves would have to pay 70 per cent of the salary program provided by the governor's bill, compared to 20 per cent on the present basis.

L. P. Sturgeon, TSTA director of public relations said the "$45 for '65" plan advocated by TSTA would become effective next September, while the governor's full program for teachers would not materialize until 10 years from now.

Moreover, he said the governor's bill, by including the cost of textbooks and teacher retirement matching in the minimum foundation program, would require local districts to pay 20 per cent of the cost of both of those items. By adding that to the governor's salary plan it would indicate 70 per cent from the local districts and 30 per cent from the state.

In Texas, the state has furnished free textbooks since the textbook program began in 1921. The state has paid the cost of matching teacher contributions to the retirement system since 1941.

"The governor's proposal," Sturgeon pointed out, "would shift part of this cost to local districts and establish new precedents which probably would lead to even heavier local tax burdens in the future."

Jury Probes Dope Traffic In Center

CENTER, Tex. (AP) — The Shelby County grand jury, probing reports of the illegal use of narcotics and liquor by high school students, was in recess today. It will meet again Friday.

Two city policemen have been fired in the wake of charges of law enforcement irregularities in this East Texas town of 4,500.

One of the former policemen, William Pool, 45, said Wednesday he was fired in "a reprisal for speaking out against the use of narcotics and drugs in Center."

The other officer, Everett Harbison, worked with Pool.

"We just didn't need him," Mayor George Smith said of Harbison's discharge.

Smith said Pool was fired because he had a conviction record in Nevada and had been suspended from the Houston police force.

Pool said city officials knew of this record when he was hired last April.

Paul Ross, head of citizens committee that made the charges of inadequate law enforcement, was one of 11 men the grand jury heard Wednesday. Pool, Ranger Dub Clark of San Augustine and Center High School principal Chester McElroy also testified.

The Mayor said Pool gave information to the Ross Committee "for the sole purpose of creating dissension and discord in the community."

Ross and Pool said high school students could obtain narcotics and liquor on and near school property.

LBJ Outmoves Critics Of Policy

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has outmaneuvered Congress to turn back challenges to his conduct of foreign relations and his orders to close 11 veterans hospitals and 20 farm research stations.

By trading off some time, the President got voice-vote passage by the Senate Wednesday of a $1.6-billion supplemental money bill carrying watered down anti-Nasser and anti-closing riders. The measure, previously approved by the House, went to the White House.

The uproar caused by an original House vote to cut off the shipments of surplus foodstuffs to the United Arab Republic had died to the point where the matter wasn't even mentioned in the final debate. The flareup came after UAR President Gamal Abdel Nasser said, in effect, the United States could take its aid and "go to hell."

Johnson got authority to make the decision on whether additional shipments shall go to Egypt.

Instead of cutting off funds for the closing of Veterans Administration hospitals and agriculture research stations as the Senate had voted to do, both houses agreed to a compromise under which none would be closed until after May 1.

The Senate accepted this provision by a 62-9 vote, with nine Republicans voting against it.

Presumably this moratorium would give Congress time to look into the matter and recommend against some of the prospective shutdowns. But Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., told his colleagues that Congress was getting no guarantee that any of the facilities would be kept open.

Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., who piloted the compromise through the Senate, tried to soothe his colleagues with the prediction that there will be some changes in the closing orders. Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., predicted that all on the list would have shut up shop by July 1.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — Well, here is another letter from a city cowpoke in Ohio wanting to know if he can buy a spread and some livestock around the states of Chihuahua or Sonora. And he is interested in knowing if we have heard of any places for sale and what does a man have to do to buy some ranch land.

This sounds like when I was a kid and we used to order suits and reading glasses from the old Sears catalogues. Friend, if you really want to pick up some grazing land you better come down and examine it first. You can get land and own it outright but the thing to do is go to the capital of the state that strikes your fancy and check with the authorities. They know what is available and what isn't. But if you expect to raise cows, you need grass and water or you have to bring in store — bought fodder and maybe equip each animal with a big canteen.

Name of section of Guadalajara where they specialize in clay jugs and pottery?

The place of Tlaquepaque and it is a separate town about two miles from Guadalajara although the whole place is mixed up together sort of like Los Angeles and Hollywood. You get not only excellent pottery and glazed service sets but tiles and (no kidding) bathtubs fit for an emperor. Also a glass factory there turns out some unique platters, bottles, glasses and such. Hand blown stuff.

What kind of clothes should we take to Acapulco for winter vacation?

Summer, as far as the weather is concerned. If you stay in plush spots like the Acapulco Hilton it would be a good idea to have something more formal than a bathing suit and flowered shirt for evening. Lightweight suits and dresses that would get you in a similar place in the states or Europe would be appropriate.

Will spend economy vacation in Manzanillo this winter; can you recommend inexpensive places to stay and how do we get there?

Getting there economy style, you'd do all right by train. It leaves Guadalajara every morning at 10 and pulls into Manzanillo around 7:30 p.m. Fare is $2.40 (US) first class one way. The Hotel Colonial has rooms from $2.40 (US) a day without meals to $4.40 a day with. Around the Playa Azul section you find the Bella Vista Apartments, Las Palmas Bungalos, Kon Tiki Apartments, Hotel Pez Vela and Hotel La Posada with rates from $2 to $4 a day. If you plan on more than a month's stay, you can try the Orduna Apartments which go for $36 a month.

Any information on business in Mexico such as what guarantees on investments and which industries foreigners can own?

That would take a book to answer. Like everywhere else, business is good in spots and slow in others. Generally, things are expanding and the boom is on. Your investment will be safe and is guaranteed by the government — unless you louse up and go broke through poor management and planning. As to the industry bit, I'd suggest you write Relaciones Exteriores, Ave. Juarez, Mexico C.F. and ask for that information. Tell them what you have in mind and the amount you want to invest. They have a list of everything, and can give you the regulations.

Poor Girls— Now Ringo Is Married

LONDON (AP) — Ringo Starr, the Beatles' drummer, married 18-year-old Maureen Cox today. Ringo is 24.

A spokesman said the parents of both Ringo and his bride were present for the civil ceremony at the London's Caxton Hall registry office.

Ringo and Maureen were married at 8:15 a.m. After the ceremony they left London for a short honeymoon at an undisclosed place.

The spokesman said Ringo had to be back in London Monday for movie work.

Barry Digweed, superintendent registrar of Caxton Hall, performed the ceremony.

The Beatles' manager, Brian Epstein, was best man.

Also present at the ceremony — which took about five minutes — were two Beatles, John Lennon and George Harrison. Lennon was accompanied by his wife.

Ringo's wedding leaves two Beatles unmarried — Harrison and Paul McCartney.

TWU Sets Date To Begin Structures

DENTON, Tex. (AP)—Construction is set to start in late summer or early fall on an $800,000 biology - chemistry graduate research building at Texas Woman's University.

TWU president John Guinn said the new structure will go up just south of the arts and sciences building, the former sites of a home economics building razed several years ago.

"The Grave Yard Of Apathy"

Due to the unfairness of Local Option, that permits a dry county to be encircled by wet counties, and the 31 Liquor Dealers that operate here with a federal perfume stamp, whose greatest wrong is selling their products to children and helping drunks escape from the law, we are calling an election to LEGALIZE the Sale of Beer, not to encourage anyone to drink, but to protect our economy.

Believing that with the legal sales of beer, at least some of our economic difficulties would be partially solved, and believing that our law forces are fully capable of enforcing the law that forbids drunkeness, driving while drinking, and the sale of alcoholic beverages to minors, this election is being called for no other reason or motive other than economic.

This election is being called in the only way it could possibly be called to keep outside chain package stores from moving into Snyder.

Knowing that over 3,000 people and 62 businesses have left here in the past 4 years, with only a small portion of these people and businesses being replaced, and believing that we are in grave danger of losing more, we are going to make every effort to create more jobs and hold the population we now have.

We have assurances, and I quote from this letter, "I do appreciate very much your suggestions, and I shall certainly make every effort to make improvements in the areas you have suggested. It is a real pleasure for me to hear from you, and I do hope you will continue to give me the benefit of your thoughts, that other efforts will be made in our behalf to improve our economic conditions."

We can by working together, free ourselves from the quick sands of fear, and release ourselves from the straight jacket of tradition. We can stop the bounty hunters from Big Spring from reaping the bountiful harvest from our economic fields.

We have too many magnificient churches and fine schools to ever permit our population to drop to 7,000, and be pointed out as another town that was buried in the grave yard of apathy.

If any of you care to sign the petitions and some of you must in order for us to have an election, get in touch with me.

Bill Wright
