BY BILL SALTER

ONE OF my favorite columns (other than my own, ha!) is Uncle Zeb by Carl C. Wood which appears in the Claude paper, among several others.

The following is something I gleaned from one of his recent columns, thinking it was cute, and that our readers, (especially with "time" in the headlines might find it worthwhile.

"Notice to Callers": Friendly calls-10 minutes. Salesmen with "real deals" half a second.

Life insurance agents-15 seconds.

Salesmen with sample you can eat or drink-2 hours.

Friends letting us "in on the ground floor"-1 sec.

Friends talking hunting, fishing or golf-most of the day.

Those wishing to pay bills-all day.

Customers-Eight hours.

Wealthy relatives in their 80's-Any time.

Relatives wanting jobs-Three seconds.

Bill collectors and tax collectors-All day (tomorrow).

THE OTHER day, I was driving in Lubbock and saw one of their new slogan bumper stickers which, in case you haven't seen them, reads, "Lucky Me, I Live In Lubbock!"

Well, being strongly against the idea of living in a town much larger than Tahoka, the idea flashed through my head that I should print up some bumper stickers of my own which would set across my feelings something like, "Lucky Me, I DON'T Live In Lubbock!"

And then, before I could put my brilliant plan in action, another car flashed by me with another side to the story which would make me look almost like a copy-cat.

Their sticker read, "Lucky Me, I'm Leaving Lubbock." Others, too have brilliant ideas, I suppose.

Perhaps Tahoka should have some bumper stickers, give me some ideas on an appropriate slogan and I'll print up some... to sell at a profit, if course!

GALE HARTMAN

Jaycee Of Month

Gale Hartman, 24, was selected by his fellow members as "Jaycee of the Month" for April, becoming the first person so honored by the group which plans monthly name their "hardest worker."

Hartman, a data processing supervisor for Lynteg Electric, received the award, a bronze plaque, for his work on the Jaycee volleyball tournament and the Jaycees' rodeo float.

Welcome Rains Drench Lynn Farms

Welcome rains visited most of Lynn County Thursday through Sunday, providing the moisture needed to begin planting operations on nearly all county farms.

But, although the rain was generally appreciated, the hail which was also a visitor through scattered areas of the county was definitely unwelcome. And, the rain itself, in flood proportion, was somewhat of a hazard in other places where already planted crops were washed out of the fields.

By far the heaviest downfall of the year came Thursday night and in the early hours Friday morning, registering up to five inches in places. Accompanying the moisture were tornado warnings, scattered hail and high winds, which forced many Lynn Countians to take cover, although after it was all over no tornado damage was reported in the county.

In Tahoka, Thursday's precipitation measured .84 on Frank Hill's official government weather gauge, although 1.5 or more fell in the extreme northern edges of the city.

Heaviest rain of the night was reported in the Grassland Draw area. At Draw itself, and on the Butch Ingle farm, 3 miles north, 5.0 inches was measured. Two miles down the road on the same line, Joe Brooks cupped 3.9 inches.

At Grassland, 2.0 was measured with amounts ranging from 1.3 on the H. R. east of Tahoka to 1.4 and golfball mail four miles down the road at the Mutt Huddleston farm.

Some of the "worst" hail damage of the storm was in the Gordon area where Carl Stone, 3 miles northwest, reported 2.5 inches of rain plus baseball-size hail which ripped his roofs, destroyed plastic irrigation pipe, tore tree branches and leaves, and bombed three automobiles. A mile northwest of Stone, C. L. Mason had 3.0 of rain plus the baseball hail which knocked power lines out in the area from 3.4 hours.

At Wilson, 1.0 fell, but larger amounts and hail were reported in the surrounding area.

W. R. Steen, who farms five miles east, measured 1.5 and was hailed out on adjoining farms Thursday night and the previous Saturday.

South of Wilson two miles, Earl Cummings reported .8 while one and one-half miles closer in, Bill Klos had 1.5. Westerly areas reported 1.2 on the Jack Blevins farm three miles out.

At O'Donnell, Ben Moore, who keeps the official government gauge, reported 1.15, although there were heavier reports in the surrounding area.

In the New Moore-Wells area, A. G. Crutcher (7 miles south of West Point) cupped 1.5, while A. W. Snider (4 north of New Moore) had only .5 and 3 miles 2.0.

In the New Home area, Joe D. Unfred (three and one-half miles west) reported 2.7 inches. Three miles south and one west of Lakeview, J. A. Godfrey had 1.7 while the Lakeview Store (Lloyd Nunnally) reported 2.6.

At Petty, H. C. Hemmeling showed 4.0 inches with pebble-size hail. One mile south, Roy Phifer reported only 1.5.

Rain again fell on Friday and Saturday nights with all reports in the low tenths except in the New Moore area (one of the critical dry areas) where amounts neared the inch mark on the Cuddeker, Snider and Dorman farms.

Then, on Sunday night, the second-largest reports the best overall even coverage, with the heaviest concentration (.8 to 2.5) in the Wilson area, northwest of Gordon (1.6) and south of Petty (1.7).

No appreciable amounts had fell through Wednesday, leaving three days of warm weather to dry the fields enough to put most farmers in high gear for planting, it was thought.

LOCKED TIGHT—The two pickups pictured above were locked tight and required pulling apart with wreckers early Sunday morning in a head-on collision just north of the Tahoka city limits. Involved were Bonnie Clifton Brown and Gregorio Villanueva, both of whom remain in critical condition. (PRIVATE PHOTO)

Spectacular Crash Leaves Two In Critical Condition

Two men remained in critical condition Tuesday after a grinding head-on collision two-tenths of a mile north of Tahoka on U. S. 87 at 7:51 a.m. Sunday.

Involved in the spectacular crash were late-model farm pickups driven by Bonnie Clifton Brown, 51, 1919 North 6th, Tahoka, and Gregorio C. Villanueva, 41, a farm employee of J. E. Nance, Tahoka. Villanueva lives on the Nance farm in Borden County southeast of O'Donnell.

Upon checking with hospital authorities Tuesday, reports showed Brown still in the intensive care ward, while Villanueva had been moved from the ward into a private room.

Both men suffered extensive injuries in the crash, apparently involving head injuries, and remained in comas much of the time between Sunday morning and Tuesday it was reported. Doctors of the men would not issue comprehensive reports on the extent of either man's injuries, fearing further complications, only saying both remained in "critical" condition.

According to Department of Public Safety Patrolman Curtie Pray, Tahoka, who investigated the accident, the Brown car was traveling south, the other north, with the point of impact occurring in the west lane of the two-lane highway (U. S. 87).

The officer estimated the combined speed of impact. Both vehicles were termed at 30-40 miles per hour. A "total loss" with damage thought to exceed $3,000.

Although citation of some nature will probably be issued in connection with the crash, Pray stated that it was "too early to say" just what complications may arise following further investigation into the accident.

Both men were rushed to Methodist Hospital, Lubbock, by White Funeral Home ambulances immediately following the crash.

JORDAN

Government has purchased the land from the landowners and re-distributed the lands in farm units of about 10 acres each. A project of land and irrigation development has been carried out in this area. Plans are for an irrigation development of about 70,000 acres in the Jordan Valley.

Toufaha's job is to design irrigation layout and help farmers technically. He has come to the United States and to Lynn County to study irrigation practices and land development in this area, so that he may apply some of our conservation practices in Jordan, Love-lace says.

Toufaha says he has learned much since coming to the U. S. that will help him and that he is very grateful to the American people for their kindness and assistance. He says that America has done more for the world than any other nation in history in keeping peace and lasting friendship among people of the world.

From Tahoka Toufaha goes to Colorado to study the land reclamation with the Bureau of Reclamation.

SANDHILLS PHILOSOPHER

Cost Of Living

(Editor's Note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm examines the cost of living this week, in his own way.)

Dear editor:

A neighbor of mine climbed through a fence of mine yesterday morning—well actually he didn't climb through, he just stepped over, since the top two wires have been missing since 1958 and as long as it suits my cows it suits me—and handed me a newspaper and said, "Here, read this," and pointed to an article he'd marked.

What it was was a report on the government's current consumer price index, showing living costs last month climbed three-tenths of one per cent, which is figuring it pretty close. I would have figured it had jumped maybe 40 per cent.

In fact, it was too close for some people who have trouble with fractions, because I bought a tractor bolt last week that used to cost a nickel and now costs 15 cents, although it's possible the store owner can figure fractions like three-tenths of one per cent but just hadn't read the latest consumer price index.

But the part of the article he especially wanted me to read brought out that a million workers in the auto industry will now get a cost of living pay hike of two cents an hour because their labor contracts are pegged to the consumer price index. Things go up, their wages go up.

"That's what we ought to have," he said. "Farmers don't get enough per hour. When things go up, we ought to get paid more."

I didn't argue with him, but I've got a little different notion about it. We ought to get paid more, but not more per hour.

You start trying to pay a farmer by the hour and you'll wreck farming, particularly on this Johnson grass farm. Some government official offers to pay me two cents more an hour, and the next thing he'll want to know is how many hours.

No sir. Farming ought to be pegged to the cost of living index, all right, but stay away from this hour business. Tie it to the price of bolts and nuts, tires, batteries, tractors, pickups, campers for pickups, fishing gear, T.V. picture tubes, oil and grease, doctors' fees, and such things like that.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Rotarians Hear Program On Agriculture's Future

"There's a great future for young people in agriculture, in spite of current trends, and you should encourage young men to prepare themselves for this vocation", Elmer Hudspeth, agricultural engineer at Lubbock Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, told Rotarians in a talk before the club last Thursday.

Illustrating his talk with color slides made at the Experiment Station Field Day last year, Hudspeth cited the opportunities in developing new and better cotton varieties, combating cotton diseases, castor beans, hybrid grain sorghums, grasses, and vegetable crops.

He made a few observations on crops of the near future. For instance, a new long-staple stormproof cotton is being developed.

Research is being done on producing staple of uniform strength and micronaire. For example, experiments show low temperature in late July results in low micronaire cotton staple. Cotton given artificial night heat in the laboratory is found to produce a strong fibre.

He predicted, also, we may soon plant cotton in 40-inch rows, water, and harvest with little or no cultivation.

He stressed there is still a tremendous amount of research to be done on crops for the Plains, and there are not enough young people coming out of the colleges prepared to carry on the experimentation.

Maurice Small introduced the speaker.

President Harold Roberts

Birdwell is the 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Birdwell, Route 1, O'Donnell.

The American Farmer degree is the highest degree given nationally to members of the FFA. His books and application now have been sent to the state degree check, where they will be considered for the Star American Farmer of Texas.

The award is not the first received by Birdwell in his work with the FFA and Texas agriculture. In 1965, he was chosen Star State Farmer of the Area II FFA, and third in the state. He was also honored in Dallas in 1965, by the State Fair of Texas, as one of the 40 top rural youth in the state of Texas. In 1966, he won the FFA's "Sheep and Goat Raisers Award." The Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, last December in Fort Worth named him the top producer in sheep and goat production in the state.

Birdwell attended Texas Tech until January 1967, majoring in marketing in the school of business. In January, he transferred to Southwest Texas Junior College, Uvalde, where he studied wool and mohair economics, and farm and ranch corporation accounting. He plans to return to Tech in January of 68, where he will resume his major.

Upon graduation from college, Birdwell plans to go into the fiber business, cotton, wool and mohair, since they all face the same problem, synthetics.

Birdwell is also on the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association board of directors, lamb and membership committees.

While at the twirling school, the girls will stay on campus in the college's dorms.

Ann Duncan, CHDA Says:

Use an elegant upholstery cotton to make a bedspread and matching window shades. The heavy upholstery fabric is ideal for shades. All you need to do is cut to size, hem and edges, and tack it to a window shade roller. If you like, you can line shades on the reverse side with an iron-on cotton interfacing.

Bright cotton prints will go to your head this spring. New looks in hat fashions include vivid pop art patterns, used for close-fitting helmet styles. Another hat design keeps pace with the jungle look in cotton sports wear. It's a derby, or "Safari" hat, with a snood attached. Other new printed cotton hats come with matching tote-bags.

BY D. R. PROFFITT

Dear Mr. Proffitt:

JUST AS SOON AS I GET TO CHECK WITH 23 PER CENT OF YOUR CHURCH MEMBERS AND 100 PER CENT OF THE POSTAL AUTHORITIES, I WILL CHECK THE STRENGTH OF OUR PRINTING PRESS AND SEE IF WE CAN PRINT HOW MUCH ABUSE A CUSTOMER'S CAR TAKES ON 6,000 MILES BEFORE OIL CHANGES AND APPROXIMATELY THREE YEARS BEFORE SMEARING A LITTLE GREASE ON THE MUCH NEEDED PLACES.

Your Editor, Bill
