FDR Says National Planning Is Necessary

Population Is Described As Out Of Focus

Subsistence Homestead Plans Are Endorsed By President In Extemporaneous Speech To Group Of Leaders

All An Experiment

Declares Government's Aim Is To Afford Opportunities To Those Who Are Attempting To Help Themselves

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 24.—President Roosevelt said tonight national planning rather than legislative cure-alls was the way forward.

Endorsing the subsistence homestead program in an extemporaneous speech to a group of the leaders in the work who had gathered from throughout the nation, Mr. Roosevelt smiled at legislative panaceas he said were advocated as able to correct everything in 30 days.

Evolution Wanted

"By using gray matter, brain trust or otherwise," he said, "we can discover a lot of new things we can do. We want evolution. When you hear talk of revolution there is one letter too many in that word."

Bernard M. Baruch, New York financier and economist who spent the afternoon with the president, was with him on the platform as Mr. Roosevelt met with the men and women who are carrying out the $25,000,000 program to provide homes and subsistence for persons stranded in industrial areas.

Out Of Balance

The president said that national surveys had showed the population was out of balance but he assured there would be no "regimentation or transplanting of population by force."

He said the government's aim was to afford apportunities for those who wanted to help themselves.

He warned a lot of experimenting would be necessary and plans which would work in one place would not in another but emphasized that he believed the solution lay in national planning.

Program His Own Pet

Describing the program as his own "pet", the president said he conceived it in a tour of the country during the 1920 campaign when he observed that the nation had grown up "like topsy" without planning.

He recalled his own plan in New York state to utilize the land for purposes best suited and said the survey there of human needs had shown stranded populations in lit-

Five Thousand Men Are Armed To The Teeth In Hunt For Dillinger; End Of Bloody Trail In Sight

Clues Reported

Officers Have Orders To Take Shot On Sight; Apprehension Felt That Mob May Attempt To Free Pals

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, April 24.—Five thousand police officers in five states, every one of them armed to the teeth, were heartened tonight with the word of federal authorities that the end of John Dillenger's bloody trail was in sight.

Government men in charge of the man hunt reviewed their accomplishments in tracking Dillinger during the past week and declared it only a matter of days, perhaps hours, before the outlaw would be killed or captured.

Reported Everywhere

Telephone calls, telegrams and personal visits from citizens came at the rate of hundreds an hour to the anti-crime directors of half a dozen cities reporting Dillinger to be here, there, everywhere—in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Indiana, Ohio Illinois.

From the many scraps of information reaching them, authorities sifted out what they believed to be of value and deduced that Dillinger and two or more of his outlaws had reached Minnesota in the neighborhood of Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Watches Are Kept

Another group of the seven Dillinger outlaws fleeing after northern Wisconsin gun battles that cost two lives were believed to have gone in the opposite direction. Watches were kept for them in Indiana, Ohio and Illinois.

"We've got more evidence to work on than ever before in hunting Dillinger," said Melvin H. Purvis, chief of the U. S. division of investigation here, "and we'll have him before long. His trail is getting broader every minute."

Included in the 5,000 officers under orders to shoot the notorious

Relief Leader Is Badly Beaten; Office Stormed

Stifling Tear Gas Fails To Stop Advance Of Mob; Victim Is Knocked Unconscious

(By The Associated Press)

PITTSBURG, Kan., April 24.—A crowd of 150 unemployed men and women stormed the Red Cross-federal relief headquarters here today and severely beat William A. Beasley, Crawford county commissioner, after he had released a tear gas bomb.

As a result of the disturbance John G. Stutz, executive secretary of the federal emergency relief committee for Kansas, announced at Topeka that federal relief funds would be withheld from the county "until we are convinced absolutely the county authorities have the matter under control."

Beasley was knocked unconscious and taken to a hospital. Injuries to the commissioner, a former newspaper publisher here, included a ruptured left kidney, bruises and abrasions on the face and body physicians said.

Beasley and Miss Marie Youngberg, county relief director, were in the office when the crowd arrived after forcing a cessation of work at the municipal airport by men on relief tasks.

A man said by officers to be Albert (Blackie) Lewis entered the headquarters and acted as spokesman. Beasley suggested that a committee of three be named to discuss the delegation's complaints, including demands for more clothing.

Man Driven At A Relentless Pace Through East Texas By Bandits; Forced To Lie In Back Of Roadster

Prisoners Surly And Uncommunicative And Refuse To Divulge Identity Or Tell Reason For Kidnaping

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, April 24. — Kidnaped and driven in his own automobile at a relentless pace through East Texas for 19 hours, Charles M. Kella, jr., 28, of Fort Worth, was freed late today by a Winfield woman filling station operator, who put Kella's three captors to rout with a pistol. Kella reported that he was kidnaped by the trio at 6:30 p. m. yesterday.

Two of the men were arrested by a posse a short distance away and were taken to Mount Pleasant, county seat of Titus county, for interrogation by Sheriff Sam T. Smith. The third, said to be heavily armed, was hunted tonight after eluding pursuers who thought they had him surrounded.

Heard Him In Car

The woman who freed Kella was Mrs. G. H. McKee, 36.

She heard him beating on the turtle-back of his roadster, where he had been forced to lie in a cramped position since 9 a. m., while one of the three men entered the station and attempted to trade a pistol for gasoline.

Two of the men had gone down the road while their companion sought to make the deal. Mrs. McKee walked to the car, raised the back and found Kella lying there. She assisted him out of the car. Seeing her pistol, the man in the station fled. Constable Ben Robinson of Winfield was called and with the aid of other officers captured two of the men in a field.

Men Are Surly

The men, one between 30 and 35 and the second between 35 and 40, were taken to Mount Pleasant by Constable Frank Mankin of Mount Pleasant, deputy Elmer Cato, and Robinson. Surly and uncommunicative, the men refused to divulge their identity or relate why they had abducted Kella, who was employed here as division traffic en-

House, Senate Leaders Begin Weeding Out The Legislative Program; Adjournment Sought

Widely Varying Views Held On Amount Of Work To Be Done; Important Matters To Get Front Rank

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 24.—With widely varying views of the amount of work remaining to be done before congress can pack its bags and head homeward, house and senate leaders today began weeding out the legislative program.

After a visit to the White House, Speaker Rainey and House Leader Byrns thought three measures might be enough and congress might get away by May 20.

Others Mentioned

Senate Leader Robinson talked with other members of his party and figured that there were ten major pieces of legislation yet to be considered. This would send the session far into June.

The conference between President Roosevelt and the two house cheiftains brought questions as they left as to whether there had been any discussion of administration dissatisfaction with the leadership of Rainey and Byrns.

Raney said:

Reach Understanding

"I asked the president if he would give me a job. He replied there was no necessity for that because he wanted me where I am."

The two said they reached an understanding with the president for a renewed endeavor to quickly conclude the administration program.

White House officials were silent about their visit, permitting Rainey

Banker Tells Of Cure For Tough Gunmen

One bandit was shot down and captured. President E. C. Weber of the bank tells Round Lake's cure for gunmen.)

BY E. C. WEBER

ROUND LAKE, Ill., April 24. (AP)—Three robbers walked into my bank this morning, and two of them walked up to the cage pretending they were looking for work.

They left one at the door, and taking one thing and another it was plain that they weren't there for any good.

Crazy Thing To Do

I told the two that I didn't know anything about jobs, and then one of them said:

"This is a stick up"

It was a crazy thing for them to do. I was behind bullet proof glass and the vigilantes are well organized here. So I said:

"The hell it is!"

One of them said, "yes, it is" and they both waved guns.

Reaches For Gun

So I reached for mine—a revolver and kicked off the alarm. It's beside my foot.

Then I told them:

"You must be a couple of damned fools." Then they both started shooting. Well, I stepped over to the porthole in the glass and opened fire.

They ran outside and I ran after them. We exchanged about five shots outside. By that time three of

Samuel Insull Suffers Light Heart Attack; Must Cut Down On Smoking

(By The Associated Press)

S. S. EXILONA, At Casablanca, Morocco, April 24.—Samuel Insull suffered a light heart attack tonight while chatting in the ship's saion. He recovered shortly and was able to resume conversation.

The former utilities operator had to leave the room but came back in a few minutes. He ascribed the attack to over-smoking.

The seizure came while he was smoking a cigar and talking to passengers. His face suddenly went extremely white. He arose and without a word walked quickly out of the room.

On returning he said it was his heart, and that he must cut down on his smoking. He seemed to have recovered and remained for another hour chatting with his friends.

To protect "home industries" Insull refused today to be photographed by Spaniards.

As the Exilona tied up at the dock to make hasty preparations for the last lap to the United States, the former utilities operator stood in the bright sunshine watching the proceedings.

Cameramen drove him to cover and, as he dove into a companionway, he shouted back, "I must protect home industries; these fellows want to rush pictures away by airplane to beat the American photographers who 'took' me at Catania—they're trying to snap my picture without my consent; I've had enough!"

MILADY'S HAIR-CUT

MILADY will wear her hair cut short and in tiers of carefully arranged curls this spring if she follows the latest dictates of fashion. The windblown hair cut so popular a few years and its successor, the long bob, are passe. So says John V. Ryan, advertising manager of Modern Beauty Shop, publication for beauty culturists, who is attending the spring beauty school and trade show at the Hilton hotel.

Windswept coiffures following that movement in hats and dresses are the present mode. This spring's costume has all of the fullness in the front, with ruching, ripple collars and lapels and belts arranged to give the effect. So is the hair fashioned. Curls are thick on the side of the head that is exposed and are arranged in the back to the natural neckline.

Students Of Piedras Negras School To Get Public Pool

EAGLE PASS, April 24. (AP)—Students of the federal secondary school (high school) in Piedras Negras, with the cooperation of parents and teachers, have made possible the construction of Piedgras Negras' first public swimming pool.

By contributing 25 centavos each and themselves digging the well that will furnish the water, the students have raised the greater part of the 1,500 pesos which the pool will cost. Lumber companies assisted by giving cost price on materials, the teachers purchased the gasoline engine to pump the water and parents are donating money for labor costs.

The pool, when completed about the middle of May, will be 70 feet long, 35 wide and 15 feet at the deepest part. The pool will be in the open on the school plaza at the rear of the new federal high school building erected last summer.

The Hat Governs The Spring Trend In Hair Styles Says John V. Ryan, Chicagoan, Attending Beauty School

By MARGARET TURNER
Woman's Editor.

The prevailing mode in hair styles this spring, as never before, compliments the hat. It is almost a necessity for the coiffure to match the hat style due to the fact that hats follow several trends, emphasizing the off-the-face mode.

So says John V. Ryan, advertising manager of Modern Beauty Shop, national trade style magazine for beauty culturists, who is here attending the third annual spring beauty school and trade show of Russell Morrison company at the Hilton hotel.

"The hats this spring have a tendency to lengthen the face and it is necessary that the forehead line be broken by curls," he said Tuesday afternoon in an interview granted between answering dozens of questions from sales representatives and lecturers.

Mr. Ryans says that one of the leading styles this spring is to pull the hat over the right eye, leaving the left side and part of the back of the head exposed. With this arrangement many variances are possible, all having a tendency to display rows of sculptured curls. The part is far over to the right side and the hair is combed to the left and slightly to the rear of the head so that the weight of the hair is on the exposed side of the head.

"The hairdresser holds in his fingertips the power to mold individual personality," says Mr. Ryan. "A woman should try to achieve an individual style that suits her face rather than copying the style that is flattering to her best friend or favorite cinema star."

The natural neckline is displayed in bobs this year, the Chicagoan said. Long bobs and windblown haircuts are disregarded this year, he added.

German Goods Are Boycotted

Dallas Department Stores Are Banning German-Made Goods As Protest Against Hitler Jewish Policy

DALLAS, April 24 (AP)—Boycotting of German-made goods has become almost unanimous among Dallas department stores as a reaction to Hitler's alleged nazi persecution of Jews.

Managers of several of the largest department stores today confirmed a report that they are no longer buying German-made goods. One manager said his store had formerly imported $250,000 worth of merchandise annually from Germany.

Banning All Goods

Stanley Marcus, secretary-treasurer of the Neiman-Marcus company, was representative of the merchants' attitude.

"We are banning, so far as humanly possible, all German-made goods," he said. "Whereas perhaps a year ago 10 per cent of our merchandise came from Germany, today that volume has shrunk to about one-tenth of one per cent.

"I can't honestly say that we are not offering any German goods, because some American manufacturers use German raw materials, or manufactured bases from Germany. But wherever possible, we are extending the boycott to the form of goods also."

Gaining Support

It was said that the movement has the support of virtually all large stores in Dallas, without any distinction between those of Jewish or Gentile management.

Dallas Jews have started a drive for $25,000 to aid members of their race, who they claim are oppressed in Germany.

The boycott heer is costing German manufacturers at least $1,250,000 annually, retailers estimated. That volume, they added, is only a "tiny strand" in the "noose" of economic pressure that American stores are exerting against the nazi regime.

Macy's Started Fight

It was explained that Macy's in New York started the economic fight. Then Altman's of New York followed. The two stores had been the largest American outlet for German manufacturers.

Since that beginning nearly a year ago, the movement has filtered across the country in a quiet manner, until it is now virtually nationwide, retailers said.

"This is aimed at the nazi policy, not at the German people," the manager of one of Dallas' largest department stores explained. Because it is aimed at Hitler's policy rather than the German people, we are not publicizing the boycott here. There is no need to wound the feelings of good German-Americans. The boycott is to be felt in Germany, not by the innocent Germans in this country."

Chief imports from Germany have been toys, gloves, chinaware and gift items.

Taxes had not been levied in Orsa, a parish in Sweden, for 47 years, but now they have taxes to relieve unemployment.

Flapper Stars Of Another Day Face The Camera Again—At a Social Gathering

Turn back the pages of your movie album 10 years and see how many of these former film stars you recognize. They were the flappers of that flaming youth era that dominated the screen in the days when Katherine Hepburn was still wearing hair ribbons. They're members of "Our Club," a social group of erstwhile stars, most of whom are today married and retired to lives of quiet domesticity. From left to right, seated, you see Mildred Davis Lloyd, who gave up the role of being the "love interest" in husband Harold Lloyd's reel life to take the permanent job in real life; Carmel Myers Blum, once a wicked siren in vampire pictures and now married to a cinema executive; Virginia Zannuck, Carmelita Geraghty and Patsy Ruth Miller, all stellar players of another day. Standing are Enda Murphy, whose blonde beauty thrilled male fans once, and who is now a newspaper columnist; Helen Ferguson and Gertrude Olmstead, who were once preferred performers in romantic roles; Lila Lee, once leading woman for the late Milton Sills, and Virginia Valli Farrell.

Woman In Kelly Case To Be Tried

SAN ANGELO, April 24. (AP) — Louise Seaton, charged with harboring George (Machine Gun) Kelly and his wife, Katherine, was brought here today to face trial in federal court opening next Monday.

The woman, who has signed waivers, said she would plead guilty to the charges.

Purchased Car

She is alleged to have purchased a car at Brownwood last August and to have delivered it to Kelly on the Coleman-Brownwood highway.

Aliases listed in the indictment are: Louise Clark, Louise Magness, Miss G. Robinson and Mrs. H. E. Campbell.

The defendant is a tubercular and until this week has been too ill to be moved here from an Oklahoma State hospital at Talihina.

Kelly and his wife are both serving life sentences for the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma oil man. It was while they were fugitives on that charge that the Seaton woman allegedly bought and delivered the car.

Lone Star Gas Files Suit In Wheeler On Stripping Plant

WHEELER, April 24. (AP) — The Lone Star Gas company, which serves more than 250 Texas cities with natural gas, filed suit in state district court here today against the Smith Brothers gasoline stripping plant to stop alleged wasteful operations.

The suit, which is the first of its kind to be filed in a state court, acknowledges the right of the defendants to strip gasoline from natural gas under the 'sour gas" law, provided the residue is put to some legitimate use, but attacks the practice of letting the residue pop off into the air.

Ratable taking is being practiced by the Lone Star pipeline which offers landowners an equitable market, the petition points out.

The suit asks for damages amounting to $750,000 and control of the alleged wastage.

From 'Way Down Austin Way

Capitol Chatter

By Charles E. Simons

Associated Press Staff Writer

Charles E. Simons

AUSTIN, April 24. (AP) — Election of Miss Marie Dresden as director of the Texas relief commission surprised capitol officials.

Miss Dresden, who is a professional social service worker, had been with the commission since its organization but her name was not mentioned in the speculation prior to dismissal of Adam Johnson, former city manager of Austin.

The new director of relief took over the job at a time of unsettled conditions marking the transition from CWA relief to direct and work relief. She also was presented with a pressing financial problem that was solved when the federal government agreed to advance the state funds until proceeds from a state bond sale were available.

Why the commission majority ageed on Miss Dresden for the post caused some wonderment until it became known she was attached to the Texas commission at the request of the federal emergency relief administration. The commission majority, it was surmised, could not afford to engage in a controversy over a director with the federal administration and apprehended that Miss Dresden would be suitable to the national organization.

Immediate acceptance of Miss Dresden by federal officials proved their reasoning was right.

Miss Dresden did not appear elated over her elevation. "If the commission wants me to take it, I will," she said, "and do the best I can." She hinted, however, that her term might be temporary.

"I am vitally interested in relief and social service work," Miss Dresden said. "It is the only thing I have ever done and I have had considerable experience."

Miss Dresden graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1922 after studying social science. She has been working at it ever since.

AUSTIN, April 24 (AP)—James V. Allred stepped right into a controversy in his opening speech for the Democratic nomination for governor.

After attacking lobbying as it exists generally, Allred emphasized the identification of a member of the Texas house of representatives with the legal staff of a large oil company in Allred's recent anti-trust suit.

The legislator, T. H. McGregor of Austin, the house's outstanding orator, lost no time in replying and shot several barbed verbal shafts into Allred's armor.

Allred returned the fire and the two engaged in a spirited exchange through the press that may echo throughout the campaign.

The vigor of thrust and counter in his affray lends support to the opinion that the battle for votes may become as warm as the weather when it gets fairly under way.

Attention is being detracted somewhat from the governor's campaign by the forming of lines for the contest between United States Senator Tom Connally and Congressman-at-Large Josepn W. Bailey for the nomination for United States senator.

The senatorial campaign may overshadow the gubernatorial race in the first primary since only two are entered whereas the governor's race at this time is more or less a free-for-all with eight or nine candidates in the field.

The race for United States senator will be decided in the first primary while the governor's race is almost certain to require a second primary.

Those who pay careful attention to items in the realm of politics have started wondering what influence the prohibition question will have on the Connally-Bailey race.

Some say it will have none, others that it will be a factor.

Connally voted to submit repeal of the eighteenth amendment but announced he personally would vote against it. Bailey is an avowed wet.

Those who assert the liquor problem will play only a minor part in the campaign say that the question of national prohibition is settled and should have no effect on candidates for federal office.

Lake Baikal, in southern Siberia, is the largest fresh water lake in Asia and the deepest fresh water lake in the world.

Oil Production Shows Increase

TULSA, Okla., April 24. (AP) — Crude oil production of the United States increased 4,987 barrels in daily average last week, from 2,472,906 to 2,477,893 barrels the Oil and Gas Journal says.

A sharp increase in East Texas production, accounting for most of Texas' rise from 1,008,879 to 1,030,549 barrels daily, was the deciding factor in the week's statistics. Most other areas cut production.

East Texas produced 504,310 barrels daily as compared with a previous average of 482,125 barrels.

In Oklahoma there was a decrease from 522,585 to 502,220 barrels, and California registered a drop from 491,750 to 485,000 barrels. In Kansas a decrease from 131,585 to 126,859 barrels was reported; eastern fields, including Michigan, had an increase from 127,122 to 128,904 barrels; the Rocky Mountain area was up 309 barrels at 84,400.

KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT MOTOR OILS—CONOCO DARES TO GIVE YOU THE FACTS

New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Oil supports claims with positive proof!

A representative of the AAA Contest Board, a vigilant, unbiased investigator.

WITH the announcement of New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil comes another announcement of a daring and absolutely unique test. Supervised by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association, and held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, these unbiased results offer no unsupported claims but fairly and impartially give you positive proof of performance!

Six oils were in the test—each in an identical, new, strictly stock car—all tested under equal conditions. The five competing motor oils were nationally known, widely advertised. AAA officials bought them on the open market, together with New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. After the cars were carefully broken in, they were lined up for the final gruelling run. Five quarts of oil, a complete fresh fill, were put in each and the crankcase of each car sealed. No more oil was added.

The order was given—500 miles average a day—50 miles an hour—until the motors were destroyed for lack of lubrication. In four days, three oils failed and wrecked their motors—No. 4 at 1,713.2 miles—No. 6 at 1,764.4 miles—No. 5 at 1,815.9 miles.

Oil No. 1 failed at 2,266.8 miles. Then the exciting duel between No. 3 and No. 2. Oil No. 3, a competitive premium oil, went on for 3,318.8 miles before it broke down. Oil No. 2, New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Oil, stayed on alone for more than 1,400 miles farther, to a total of 4,729 miles, an all-time record of motor protection and low consumption on five quarts of oil!

This is evidence—these are facts—that should open a new era of results and economy for your motor. Drive into a Conoco station or dealer—fill with this New and Improved Oil. There is no longer any guess about it!

Five quarts of each brand of oil were carefully put in the cars by AAA officials.

The official sealing of crankcases after fill of five quarts was put in.

TO NEW CAR OWNERS

Some car manufacturers are using new types of bearings which will stand greater pressures and temperatures, resulting from increased power and speed. New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil has been exhaustively tested on these new bearings. The results show that it gives them greater protection against damage than many straight mineral oils now on the market.

Highway Meeting Scheduled To Be Held In Mexico To Lay Plans For Linking Up Two Nations By Pavement

BROWNSVILLE, April 14.—Efforts to weld another link of transportation between the United States and Mexico will be undertaken at an international highway meeting in Victoria, Mexico, the latter part of May, it was announced here by sponsors of the gathering.

Plans for the meeting are being made by road enthusiasts at Brownsville and other lower Rio Grande valley cities, and by Victoria, Matamoros and Tampico, Mexico.

Seek Paved Highway

A paved highway from Brownsville to Victoria is sought.

This highway will be a link in the Pan-American highway in Mexico and will be a short cut for persons from middle-western and eastern states going to Mexico over the present route by way of Monterrey.

E. H. Hernandez, manager of the Tampico Chamber of Commerce; Pedro Garza Uribe, manager of the Matamoros Chamber of Commerce, and G. C. Richardson, manager of the Brownsville Chamber of Commerce, recently were in conference on the project.

The delegates from South Texas cities are expected to form an automobile caravan to Victoria for the gathering. Delegates from San Antonio, Houston and other points are expected.

fugitive on sight were national guardsmen, sheriffs and their deputies, local authorities, state police and federal agents.

Car Is Reported

One of the clues that federal men considered of most value was a report that a maroon colored automobile carrying several men was seen speeding through Muncie, Ind., toward the east. The license number of the machine was the same as those for which St. Paul police had broadcast a warning.

A report from Muncie, Ind., caused apprehension at Columbus, Ohio, where three of Dillinger's former pals—Harry Pierpont, Charles Makley and Russell Clark—were confined in the state penitentiary upon conviction of murdering Sheriff Jess Sarber in freeing Dillinger from jail at Lima, Ohio.

Apprehension also arose at Madison, Wis., where three women of the Dillinger mob, captured after Sunday night's battle near Mercer, Wis., were held. At St. Paul, it was feared Dillinger might attempt to free another of his friends, Miss Evelyn Frechette, charged at St. Paul with harboring him weeks ago.

Had A Fine Battle

We had a fine gun battle—wild west stuff.

Another Round Lake citizen, took a hand in the battle. One robber, fleeing afoot under fire, dropped wounded near William Luebe's garden. Luebe, at work there, seized his rake and clubbed the gunman on the head, to keep him quiet.

At the Waukegan hospital, the man was identified by fingerprints as Adlai C. Ferguson, formerly of Libertyville, Ill., who was sentenced to prison, 1925, for shooting Joseph Salotice in a gunfight at Roundout, Ill. The police said he was intoxicated.

Texas Youth Is Claiming Title

BEAUMONT, April 24. (AP)—Bobbie Bridges, nine, recently read a news dispatch from Quincy, Ill., in which Howard Holzagra was pictured as having recovered from tonsilitis, diphtheria, mumps, measles, chicken pox and whooping cough.

"You ain't heard nothing yet," says Bobbie, and rises to claim the "world ailment' championship.

Bobbie's list runs like this: Bronchitis, severe head injury resulting from a fall; both knees dislocated at the same time, the result of a fall; whooping cough, chicken pox, mumps, broken right shoulder, diphtheria, emergency operation for appendicitis, tonsil operation, granulated eyelids and measles.

The Bridges' family physician verified the lad's list, but said it was not entirely correct, since Bobbie had forgotten to name some of his ailments.

All that remained was for counsel to summarize the evidence that the churchman and Ada L. Burroughs did or did not conspire to violate the corrupt practices act by not reporting all the contributions and for Justice Peyton Gordon to tell the jury which testimony should be considered legal facts.

gineer for the Southwestern Bell Telephone company.

In a long distance telephone conversation with the Star-Telegram, Kella said the three men stopped his automobile at an underpass in Fort Worth.

Tells His Story

"They told me to get over, keep quiet and I wouldn't be hurt," Kella, who remained at the sheriff's office in Mount Pleasant tonight to aid in the capture and identification of his abductors, related.

"I never saw a gun but they convinced me that they had one. I sat in the middle of the car. One of the men drove, the second sat beside me and the third rode in the rumble seat.

"They were very quiet. They never addressed each other by names or said anything that might reveal who they were. We drove southwest toward Mansfield on state highway 34. I only had a small amount of change in my pocket and they took that during the progress of the trip. Late in the night they stopped somewhere and bought me a hamburger sandwich.

Parked On Side Of Road

"We drove until it was about 3 a. m. and parked on the side of a road near Pittsburgh.

"When daylight came we started again and drove, I think into Pittsburgh. They made me get into the rumble seat and closed down the top.

"When we had stopped for several minutes I began kicking and beating on the side of the car and the woman helped me out.

"Guess they wanted me for ransom," Kella said jokingly when asked why he had been abducted.

Was Never Told

"Honestly, though," he related, "I don't know why. They never told me."

Friends here, informed of the kidnaping, believed the three men wanted possession of Kella's fast roadster and intended letting him out later in the day.

First information the telephone company here had of the abduction was when the Winfield manager called, notifying the Fort Worth office that Kella had been freed and was safe.

His employers said Kella worked in the afternoons and early evenings and was not due at the office until 1 p. m. when he did not report at that hour they did not become alarmed, thinking he was late.

Kella, a graduate of the University of Texas, is national councillor of the junior chamber of commerce, representing the Fort Worth chapter.

His parents live in Austin.

Army Officer Is Charged In Murder Of Long-Time Friend

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24. (AP)—Capt. Edward J. Houck, U. S. A., was charged with murder tonight following the fatal stabbing of his long-time friend, Walter L. Potter, retired hardware merchant.

Despite his protests the slaying was accidental, Captain Houck was lodged in the city prison.

The stabbing was preceded by a drinking party, and assertedly occurred, Captain Houck told police, when Potter attempted to enter the Houck home over his protests. A curiously fashioned sword, acquired by the captain during recent service in the Philippines, was the death weapon.

and Byrns to speak for themselves. They sought the conference.

The three measures Rainey said were necessary for the house to pass before adjournment were extension for another year of the bank deposit guarantee legislation on its present terms; the stock exchange control bill; and the anti-crime legislative program of the administration.

Despite the several upsets in attempting to put through an administration program with a majority of almost 200, Rainey and Byrns apparently were told by the president to go ahead and fight it out with his support for the remainder of the session.

Some big "ifs" were marked beside some of the ten proposals included in the senate program. As announced by Robinson after a meeting of the 25 senators who compose the Democratic steering and policy committees, the program includes:

Reciprocal tariff.
Stock market regulation.
Corporation bankruptcy relief.
Municipal bankruptcy relief.
Communications commission.
Amendments to the farm act.
Pure food and drug regulation.
Loans to private export financing.
Wagner labor board bill.

Robinson would not specify what changes were contemplated in the farm act, but promised a statement tomorrow.

Campaign Is Planned Here

Committee Meets Tuesday To Plan For Fifth Annual Clean-Up, Paint-Up Week; City Consistent Winner

Plans for a fifth clean up and paint up campaign for Lubbock were formed yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce Clean-Up and Paint-Up campaign committee at the City hall.

Four loving cups won by Lubbock for having the best campaign in Texas during 1930, 1931, 1932 and 1933 were on display as the committee meeting was held.

Walter G. Alderson, chairman of the committee presided.

Dates Are Scheduled

The committee set official dates of the campaign for the week of May 6 to 12, inclusive, however will urge that property owners start immediately cleaning their front and back yards, houses from basement to attic, garages, barns, vacant lots and other property.

The Boy Scouts will be asked to conduct a nail pick-up campaign as in previous campaigns and the Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls and other organizations will be called upon to have a part in the campaign.

Clubs To Cooperate

Cooperation of the membership of the City Federated Women clubs and other groups will be solicited and a blanket invitation, to all individuals and organizations having suggestions to make or willing to help, is issued, requesting that the chamber of commerce be contacted by these parties.

The chairman was instructed to appoint a number of committees to which various parts of the campaign work will be delegated from now until the end of the campaign.

The throwing of hand bills, circulars, and dodgers on residence lawns and porches was declared a nuisance by members of the committee and a motion was passed that a sub-committee be appointed to study the matter with the idea in view of eliminating this practice in Lubbock.

Other members of the committee are: W. B. Atkins, Altus Sansom, Mrs. Clark M. Mullican, Mrs. Frank Winn, O. A. Terry, T. R. Prideaux.

Figures In New Jersey Tea Cup Poison Case

That he attempted to murder his wife by giving her poison tea on the eve of the birth of their baby was the charge on which Robert C. Miller, 38-year-old contractor of fashionable Spring Lake, N. J., was being questioned. Miller, who proclaimed himself the victim of a "mysterious plot", is shown (center) in the dress uniform of a Legion officer. His wife is pictured at right, and at left, Mrs. Mildred A. Conklin, pretty typist, reported frequently seen with Miller, shown at Freehold, N. J., jail where she was held as a material witness.

Famous Artist Hopes To Regain His Health And Continue Contributions

STEPHENSVILLE, April 24. (AP)—Ed Bryan, artist of renown, hopes some day to regain his health and continue the work that has occupied the larger part of his life time.

The 60-year-old painter, once prominently mentioned among the great in art in America and Europe, for 10 years has been at his ranch home near Stephenville fighting against failing health. But his hopes still are high and he believes he will be able to make a greater contribution to art than before ill health stopped his work as an artist and instructor in the Cincinnati art academy.

Awarded Honors

Prizes, scholarships and numbers of honorable mentions have been awarded Bryan by some of the world's greatest schools of art and by state fairs. He won first place on pictures at the cotton palace at Waco, the state fair at Dallas, and the San Antonio International Fair association; a $1,700 prize from the Cincinnati art academy and a scholarship that entitled him to teach for life in the academy; a two-year scholarship to study in the Academie Colarossi in Paris; a silver medal awarded by the republic of France; various honorable mentions from the Academie Colarossi and Julian Academy of Paris.

At Cincinnati, Bryan painted a life-size portrait of a woman on which he won a $1,700 prize. A portrait of John the Baptist won two first places at the state fair at Dallas, one first place at the Waco cotton palace and first honors at the San Antonio fair.

Others Still Held

Other valuable pictures still in his possession, many of which have won prizes, include "An Arab," "The Little Minister," a canvas of himself as a youth painted from reflection in a mirror; "Old Grey Mare," a bluebonnet scene near De Leon; a lad eating pecans under a tree by the roadside; Brooklyn bridge; the oldest house in Erath county; "Meditation," a girl deep in thought and "Motherhood," a mother and a sleeping child.

Many of these pictures have been on exhibit in the Carnegie library at Fort Worth and other places.

Besides his skill as an artist with brush and canvas, Bryan is a charcoal artist. A portrait of a negro woman, the blackest of her type, which Duveneck declared was the best Bryan had ever done, was stolen from the Metropolitan museum of art at New York and has never been recovered.

"I'll Show Them"

Despite his high standing in the world of art, Bryan hopes to make a greater contribution. "His bad health is for life, and he's through, I overhear people say," the artist said wringing his thin hands. "But I'll show them. I have work to do yet. It must be done; then I'm ready to give up."

The artist, whose health appears to be slowly improving, does not want to continue his work for commercial reasons. "Art for art's sake is his only concern.

"Air Conditioned" Room Is Exhibited In Beauty Show

One of the interesting exhibits at the Russell Morrison spring beauty school and show, is an "air conditioned" room on the mezzanine floor of the Hilton hotel where the temperature is kept at a controlled point through the new Frigidaire air conditioner.

The room is maintained at a temperature of 60 degrees, with all moisture in the air taken out, by the machine.

"We can control the humidity of any room by this machine," said D. A. Davis, Lubbock Frigidaire dealer who has the display. "This unit takes the moisture out of the room and makes it comfortable and livable.

"This is the first air conditioned exhibit in Lubbock that I know of. While the display is primarily for beauty shop owners who want to insure proper temperature and air conditions for their patrons, the units can be had for any type of room or business."

Crosetti Goes Home, Marcum Magic Is Lost

Ruffing Winning Pitcher As Substitute's Stick Bombs A Stand In Four-Hit Day For Each Club; One Error

NEW YORK, April 24. (AP)—While the assembled bombardiers of baseball did little more than go through the motions, a Yankee substitute, Frankie Crosetti, struck the one big blow that gave the New Yorkers a 1-0 verdict over the Athletics today.

A crowd of 40,000 fans, out for the opening game of the American league season here, cheered lustily for the mighty maulers, Ruth, Gehrig and Foxx, but Crosetti's home run into the left field stands furnished the main thrill. It came in the sixth inning and gave Charles Rufus (Red) Ruffing, big Yankee right hander, a brilliant decision over John Marcum, the pride of Eminence, Ky.

Crosetti, the former Pacific coast star who has been battling for a regular job for two years, was in the game as a substitute at short for Red Rolfe, now laid up for leg repairs.

Playground Ball Meeting Tonight

Formation of two soft-ball leagues for the summer is the object of a meeting to be conducted tonight, beginning at 7 o'clock, at Hilton hotel.

Lee Jones of J. & J. Sporting Goods company called the meeting.

The first league is expected to be in operation within a week or ten days, Jones said, seven teams already being lined up and practicing for the opening game. Eight teams will comprise each league.

Considerable interest was shown in soft ball last summer, two leagues playing a regular season which ended in a series playoff. An indoor league was also conducted in the Auditorium last winter.

Reggie McNamara, famous "iron man" of the six-day bike races, also is the champion eater. In the Chicago race he averaged $11 worth of food per day.

Lubbock Eleven, Alumni To Match Grid Prowess

Westerners Of 1934 And Former Stars To Be Opponents At Fair Park Today

What will the next Lubbock High school Westerner football machine be?

The first and only immediate answer will be had this afternoon at Fair park, where the Westerners and former wearers of the black and gold will match speed and power.

Their condition not equal to that of the younger lads, the alumni will have the margin in power and experience, and enough reserves at hand when tongues begin to hang out.

The game will begin at 3:45 o'clock, Coach Weldon Chapman has announced. The Westerner pep squad is selling tickets. Admittance price is 10 cents for a student; 20 cents for an adult.

The Westerners suffered a jolt when it was learned that Robert Allan Hill had suffered a break of the small bone in his left leg in last Friday's scrimmage. The injury at first appeared to be only a bruise. Hill had been doing the signal calling and had developed into a valuable ball carrier. His passing was also one of the factors the Westerners relied on. Eugene Alderson probably will start in place of Hill. Alderson has been showing ability as a passer, punter and runner.

Backs Promising

Starting with Alderson in the backfield for the Westerners will be Morris White, Charles Calhoun and Woodrow Barnes. White, ineligible last season, has speed. Calhoun, letterman last year, is an effective blocker and strong on defense. Barnes, a guard of last year, is a good blocker and has been developing fast as a back. The line will be led by Captain "Blackie" Young at center, Aycock and Phillips at guards, Dixie White and Dowell at tackles, Whitehorn and Griggs at ends. Capable reserves are available.

The Westerners will complete their spring training with this game. The prospects for their being in the running in the 1934 District I race have been fairly encouraging. This game will show whether they can "go" against good competition.

Probable Line-Ups

Westerners		Exes
Young	C	Crawford
Aycock	RG	Hodges
Phillips	LG	Speer
Dowell	RT	Doherty
D. White	LT	Wimberley
Whitehorn	RE	Godeke

Westerners who will see service are: McGraw, Linn, Hendricks Martin, Coursey, "Babe" Ritchie, R. Rischie, Wright, Jackson, Halsell, G. Jones, Meador, J. Jones, Nelson, Gear, Bull, Fulton, Upton, Vermillion.

Exes: Newton, Granberry, Bradley, Bradshaw, Haley, Simmons, Scoggins, Jenkins, McCarty, Vaught, E. Dowell, Turner, Speer, Duval, Prather, Billings and Hutson.

Senator Pitchers Crack From Wallops Of Red Hose While Outfielders Race; With 16 Hits, Boston Wins, 5-0

WASHINGTON, April 24. (AP) — The renovized Boston Red Sox today took quick advantage of a mid-game departure by President Roosevelt—claimed by Washington as a good luck fan—and in his absence bowled over the Senators 5 to 0, and completely spoiled the season's opener here for 25,000 fans.

The chief executive, acting as the nation's number 1 fan, with part of his cabinet and congress as onlookers, lobbed a better-than-average presidential toss toward the infield to crown the opening festivities. Washingtonians, recalling that Mr. Roosevelt had yet to see the Senators lose a game, sat back in anticipation.

Finery Is Limp

But three innings later came a spring downpour that halted the game for an hour; took the starch out of the opening finery; caused the departure of all but a few of the New Deal representatives; and proved the Red Hose considerably better "mudders" than the Senators when play was resumed.

The Sox fell on four members of the league champions' weakened pitching staff for a total of 16 hits. Only brilliant outfielding by the Senators prevented a worse defeat.

Mr. Roosevelt, his arm limbered by fighting fish on his southern cruise, lobbed his opening throw about twenty feet in the direction of the infield to start matters off. The well filled stands gave him a good-natured cheer.

Stewart Snares It

Walter Stewart, the Senators' starting pitcher, ended a young riot among the ball players lined up in front of the presidential box by leaping in front of his teammates to snare the Roosevelt toss.

Vice-President Garner previously had held center stage in the festivities. With an Indian chief in full regalia beside him, and the United States army band and two ball teams behind him, he led the march to centerfield for the traditional flag-raising.

Virgil Ballard Draws Praise

'Lifted Spirit Out Of Chaos' At Gainesville, As Leopards Gained Rank In Two Seasons; Successor Approved

Texas Technological college's coach-elect of freshman football and varsity basketball and track-field teams, Virgil Ballard, went to Gainesville Junior college and High school two years ago from Childress. He replaced Alva Sheppard, now line coach at Forest High school in Dallas, at Gainesville.

In Ballard's second year, the Gainesville Leopards tied Sherman for second place in district 6 interscholastic league football. The Gainesville Register, in a story of Ballard's appointment to the Technological college staff and of his record, commented:

Built a Spirit

"Coach Ballard not only led the high school out of the 'football wilderness,' but he lifted the Gainesville football spirit out of chaos building up a spirit of support and co-operation among the citizens which had not been seen in years.

Procurement of equipment to illuminate the Gainesville stadium for night football, payment for most of the equipment in two years, and improved outfitting of his athletes was credited to the young mentor by the Gainesville writer.

Morgan Praises

J. O. (Del) Morgan, whom Ballard succeeded, telegraphed the Avalanche-Journal newspapers Tuesday from Auburn, Ala., where Morgan will be Alabama Polytechnic institute's line coach, that he regarded Ballard as "one of the few men who will fit perfectly in Tech's system."

Morgan, a teammate of Ballard at Austin college, added:

"Coach Cawthon's choice (is) very wise. . . . I know he (Ballard) will give Tech better coaching in football and in basketball than has been there in his capacity.

"With Ballard on the staff and the fine bunch of boys there the athletic stock will go up."

New National League Ball Is Wonderful Thing To Behold, Says Randy Moore Of Braves

NEW YORK, April 24. (AP)—Accept the word of Randy Moore, a hitter of parts and the Boston Braves, this new ball the pitchers are feeding up in the National league is a most wonderful thing to behold.

"But please," he begs, "don't say too much about it for a while. They may take it away from us and give us back that muffin we were hitting at last season."

Averages 500 New

Unfortunately for the clouters, the home runs whistling off the bats of Jimmie Foxx, Chuck Klein, Chick Hafey, Babe Ruth, and the rest of the great sluggers, are singing a song so long no one can help hearing. For the first two games of the season Randy, a pleasant, drawing young man from Omaha, Tex., hit a natty .714. He has slumped now to an even .500. He averaged .302 last year.

"I notice the difference in the new ball more out in left field than at the plate," he said. "Right now I'm playing deeper than I did any time last season. I've only had to come in for one ball. This sure is a high sailing, far flying apple when you tee it up."

Randy, a left hand hitter and with Berger the only .300 belter of the Braves last season, has been getting most of hits on ground balls and he predicts that infielders are going to have a rough time of it this summer.

Canuck's Ire, Not Cool, May Need Revenge

Olympian Spilled Him Once So Lumberjack's Resentment To Be Violent If Memory Does Not Fade Under Pressure

By FRANK TALBOT
Avalanche Sports Writer.

"Lightning Rod" Fenton, the boy with the perpetual chip on his shoulder and the Canadian middleweight title-belt about his muscular midriff, will attempt to wreak revenge on Jack Van Bebber in the main event of a wrestling card tonight at the auditorium.

Fenton made his bow to this region with a surprising victory over the Amarillo fat boy, Otis Clingman. He jarred Squeeky with dropkicks for three skull-cruises to the concrete of the Amarillo hall. The next day Clingman left for a month's rest cure in New Mexico.

Plays With Referee

Then at the auditorium a couple of weeks ago snarly-mouthed Rod became occupied with the referee, tossing that dignitary among the audience in the manner of a child playing a game, and was spilled for the third and deciding heat of a melodramatic bout. And there on the mat amid a whizzing barricade of pop-bottles and boos, Fenton expressed his disgust with fate and raucously demanded a return match with Van Bebber.

So the meaty mauler from the north woods and the long-legged Olympic champ have a lot to settle in their battle this evening which goes, maybe, for three falls and certainly to a positive finish.

Hallas On Tap

Billy Hallas, bundle-bodied little Greek from El Paso, will protect his top-flight position among the welters this evening against the menace of young Ed McMillen, Greeley, Colo., in the one-fall semi-final.

Second only to Champion Jack Reynolds in his weight division, Hallas is undoubtedly one of the cleverest and perhaps one of the ugliest bone-benders on this loop. Bruising head-locks, chanceries, and scissors are Billy's specialties.

Not until the clubhead has been dragged backward away from the ball and reaches a point where it must be lifted from the ground should any wrist action take place.

Many good golfers at this point start the wrist action with a roll of the left wrist toward the body. This, however, is not necessary since the gradual turn of the body while the wrist action takes place, without a turn of the left forearm, will open the face of the clubhead as it goes back.

Lindstrom Is Star At Plate

Pittsburgh Shells Haines In Ninth, Outfielder's 3-Run Circuit Drive Turns Tide; Redbird Wings Clipped, 4-5

PITTSBURGH, April 24 (AP) — Freddie Lindstrom, Pirate left fielder, gave the Pittsburgh home-opener a flavor seldom matched in the history of local inaugurals this afternoon with a three-run ninth-inning homer that defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 5 to 4.

With the veteran Jess Haines in the box, the Cardinals went into the last half of the ninth carrying a two-run lead. A dis-appointed crowd of 15,000 began filing out the exits as Catcher Earl Grace, pinch hitting, scratched a single to short.

Lloyd Waner skied out, but Walter Roettger, playing at Paul Waner's outfield post, laced a single into left, stopping the rush for the exits.

With the count two and two, Lindstrom lined the ball over the fence in deep left center.

Oklahoma Threatens To Undo White's Fine Pitching But Whitworth Checks Shelling; Cats' First Victory 4-3

FORT WORTH, April 24. (AP) — Fort Worth's Cats tilted the lid on the 1934 Texas league season here in a fashion today that had the 2,000 fans attending the inaugural sitting on seat's edge before the home colors went up a 4-to-3 winner over Oklahoma City.

There were tense moments in the ninth when the Indians threatened to undo all of the fine pitching that young Harry White had hurled in the eighth previous rounds. They scored one run and had a man resting on third when Manager Del Pratt called in the veteran Dick Whitworth. He stopped them.

Gaudy 'House Of Babylon' Will Be A Refuge; Mansion Of Sin Is Cleaned

Blind Mistress Now Is Finding Rest In Religion

By NEA Service

KANSAS CITY, April 24. — Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool—

The green shutters swung back the other day against the red brick walls of Annie Chambers' establishment in North Kansas City, letting in the sunlight for the first time in many years.

And with sunlight there came 000 or more church people, many carrying Bibles, to aid in the dedication of the spacious house as a refuge for unfortunate and homeless girls.

Within the gaudy house still lives Annie Chambers, blind and feeble and 92 years old. For more than 60 years she operated the old mansion as the most notorious resort in the middle west.

Luxury Of Babylon

Surrounded by a galaxy of feminine beauty, with an unsurpassed wine room, a mirrored ballroom with dazzling crystal chandeliers, and a luxurious dining room with uniformed servants, Annie presided over a scene of riotous gaiety that had become a byword for Babylon.

Men from the gold and silver mines of Colorado and Nevada, cattlemen from Texas, and rising financial geniuses of the midwest, all knew Annie Chambers' place.

And Annie came to her declining years endowed not only with the 24-room mansion, but also a fortune reputed to consist of $1,000,000 in cash and rock-ribbed bonds.

Mission Comes Next Door

But a few years ago the City Union Mission, a relief organization sponsored by church leaders, bought the old Lovejoy mansion next door to Annie's. The mission became a haven for homeless ex-convicts and derelicts of all kinds.

Word of the remarkable work done by "The Harbor," as the mission was called, came through the darkened blinds of Annie Chambers' house, and the light from those good deeds at the Harbor gradually began to replace the fading of daylight as blindness closed in on the aging woman.

The Rev. David Bulkley, superintendent of the mission, had been wounded while overseas with the First Division. He knew men, and he moved into the mission with his wife and little girl.

No psalm-singer, Mr. Bulkley was bringing real help to people who desperately needed it.

Sermon Brings Repentance

Shortly after the Bulkleys moved into the mission, an unfortunate and tearful woman came to Mr. Bulkley, asking that he preach a sermon and give decent burial to her nameless baby. He did.

And his stirring and sympathetic words came to the ears of Annie Chambers. It was the first sermon she had heard since she had been a girl.

"My soul was stirred when I heard Mr. Bulkley preach," she later told the church people who came to accept her offering. "When I heard that mother weeping, I had thoughts that had never come to me before.

"The strange funeral and the sympathetic, human words of Mr. Bulkley rang in my ears. I decided then that the way of the Lord was the right way, and could be followed by anyone, regardless of his past."

Deeds Mansion to Mission

So that very evening, Annie Chambers made a tour in her wheel chair of the rooms in the spacious mansion, winding up in front of a huge $5000 mirror made 62 years before especially for her house.

Mistily in the mirror she could scarcely see at all, she sensed the images of all the girls who had come and gone in those 60 sinful years.

So Annie Chambers sought out the Rev. David Bulkley. Gradually she became friendly with his family, gradually her plan came to fruition.

Three weeks ago she told Bulkley that she wished to deed her property to the mission, property once valued at $100,000.

On the wall of Annie's room Mr. Bulkley found a placard bearing these words: "Christ is the head of this house, an unseen witness, a silent listener, an abiding companion."

Keeps Old Room

Blissfully, accepting the gift of the house, provided that Annie Chambers was to occupy her old room, across the hall from the grand salon, for life.

"Every night I kneel at my bed," Annie Chambers told him, "and tell God what he already knows, that I have been a disobedient woman. But I know that he has forgiven me, and with that thought I fall asleep as soundly as a little child.

"I am so blind I can no longer read the Bible you gave me, but several of my girls of the old days, happy wives in comfortable homes, visit me sometimes, and read it to me."

Though Sins Be Scarlet

Church people, passing through Annie Chambers' house on a tour of inspection before its opening as a refuge for girls, noticed an open Bible on Annie Chambers' chair. It was opened at the first chapter of the book of Isaiah, where the words of the prophet stood out on the printed page:

Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool.

From sin to salvation . . . Annie Chambers, upper left, 92 years old and almost totally blind, turned over to social welfare uses the house in which for 62 years she conducted the most notorious resort in the middle west.

Big Spring Women Plan For Women's Tournament Along With West Texas Golf Tilt

BIG SPRING, April 24. (Special) —The Big Spring Women's Golf association is planning an extensive program of entertainment for the visiting women golfers who will be here during the West Texas Golf association meet on May 24, 25, 26 and 27.

During the hour that the men will be having a "stag" barbecue on the evening of the 24, the visiting women will be guests of the Big Spring Golf association at a picnic at the City park. Following the barbecue and picnic the Calcutta pool will be held.

On Friday, the second qualifying day for the men, the women will play a competitive golf match on the municipal links which is a beautiful nine-hole grass green layout. That evening a dance will be the feature of entertainment. Saturday and Sunday will be reserved for those interested in seeing the championship flights of the West Texas association. Bridge will be arranged at the Country club for those who do not participate in golf.

Hostesses for each day will be in charge of the entertainment at the Country club. All women golfers are invited to bring their golf clubs and mail in handicap scores before coming to Big Spring in order that all matched plays be arranged prior to May 25.

Upon arrival in Big Spring they will be asked to register at the Big Spring Country club, where they will receive instructions as to the different places of entertainment during their stay in the city.

ON THE SIDELINES

BY EDWARD J. NEIL

The brief tour of a rugby team from Cambridge, the Harvard of the British Isles, might have more than a passing influence on our college football game. It could bring about tremendous changes and still do us far more good than harm.

The flashes of resentment that break out against American football in cycles, such as the sudden realization of the totally unwarranted death and injury toll, resulting in rules changes; the Carnegie report on proselyting; and more recently the players' revolt, exemplified at Yale, against the high pressure of the game, all indicate we have far from the "perfect sport."

I've said before, and I hope to say again, that college football not only needs drastic changes but should undergo a complete overhauling, with the one aim in mind of making it a game again, instead of a high-powered, money-making sideline.

College football today comes close to being the outstanding American racket. It's pretty much a frank exploitation athetically of boys who, technically at least, have been sent off to college by parents interested chiefly in training the boys' minds and moulding their characters.

Their characters may be helped in the tremendous physical strain of three months of football, the nervous strain of playing before tens of thousands of "big" Saturdays, with all the woes and censure of mistakes that would break down grown men, let alone youths just in their process of development. But I'm certain that no mind ever was improved by encasing it in a football helmet and permitting 11 opponents to belt it around for 60 minutes one day a week for about 10 weeks, not counting practice sessions.

RUGBY MAY BE ANSWER

So when the collegiate revolt against high-pressure football finally gains momentum, this game of rugby may offer the solution of the problem. It's football with the fangs drawn. It's a far more exciting game to watch than football. And in Great Britain it draws tremendous crowds, which should shut off the objections of college authorities who lay out the school sports budgets.

No one gets hurt playing rugby, which should be important in view of football casualties and the great mass of comparatively minor injuries in frozen ankles and sprung shoulders and knees that so many former college players carry through life as unrecorded mementoes of bright fall afternoons.

The British play it with little or no training, except along normal, common sense conditioning lines, and the Cambridge team, coming over for games with Harvard, Yale, Princeton and an all-east team, brought no professional coach. Before making the trip, Cambridge lost a couple of games to minor college teams, something that would amount to a major catastrophe if it happened to a big college eleven here. Captain Leather, of the Cantabs, was surprised anyone should think that was important.

"They were just small teams," he said. "We really don't count those."

A REFRESHING ATTITUDE

His idea plainly was small teams deserve to have as much fun as big ones and no one should get excited about their winning occasionally, realizing that it could have been different if the Cambridge boys had wanted to get very serious and bitter about the competition, which they didn't.

When you stop to think about it, no one in the baseball world, for instance, goes into deep mourning if the Atlanta Crackers take a fall out of the world champion New York Giants in a spring exhibition game, which is about the same idea.

It's a refreshing attitude, particularly after you've seen college boys on the verge of a nervous breakdown before big games, weeping hysterically in dressing rooms after losing, all over what's supposed to be a game, a physical balance for the mental grind of college. Rugby at least is that.

Explanation Is Given Of Operation Of Telephotographic Service To Be Put Into Operation By AP Next Year

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, April 24.—Operation of the revolutionary telephotographic service which the Associated Press will give its members was explained today by N. A. Huse, executive editor of the A. P. News Photo Service.

At the transmission point, this will happen.

"A positive photo print will be wrapped around a cylinder which may be 11 by 17 inches in size, or half the size of a newspaper page," said Huse. "The motor starts. It travels horizontally at the rate of one inch a minute. Thus, this picture, if it is the maximum size of 11 by 17 inches, will be sent in 17 minutes.

Light Value Innovation

"A light which falls on the surface of the print at an angle of 45 degrees will allow the reflection of the print's lights and shadows through a light valve which opens and shuts at the rate of 1,200 times a second. This light valve is an innovation in tele-photography.

"This reflection falls upon a photo-electric cell whose impulses are transmitted over the wires simultaneously to all receiving points.

"These impulses strike another photo-electric cell of the receiving machine. This cell's impulses in turn pass through a light valve to a sensatized photographic film.

Synchronization Is Key

"This film is encased in a cylindrical light-prof holder, wrapped around a cylinder identical in size with the sending cylinder. It is propelled by a motor synchronized to the one-millionth of a second with the sending motor. This synchronization is one of the keys to the success of the apparatus.

"In the case of a picture 8 by 10 inches in size, the reception is completed at the end of eight minutes. The film is then taken off the machine and developed like any negative. Any number of prints may be made.

Operate In Daylight

"Both the sending and receiving machines operate in full daylight. When the wire is not being used to transmit pictures, it will broadcast into every telephotographic bureau in the United States the human voice, thus permitting instantaneous co-ordination of the service.

"The equipment requires a room 12 by 20 feet. It requires nine months to build the machines. Twenty-four machines have been in the process of manufacture now for six weeks so there is every expectation that the new service can start by January 1, 1935.

"Twenty-four cities already have contracted for the service, involving wire mileage of some 10,000 miles and covering all portions of the United States, including the southeastern tip at Miami for picking up important news pictures from Cuba, the West Indies and Central and South America.

"In the twenty-four cities, 35 Associated Press members already have subscribed to the service.

"It represents a radical forward step compared with previous picture transmission methods.

"First, transmission of a picture may begin the instant a print is received in any bureau. Previously, one hour was required at the start to prepare a special transparency before sending.

"Second, the maximum size picture that could be sent was seven by five inches with the result that when it was enlarged to a one-half page size the imperfections were magnified. This new process will send a one-half page picture requiring no enlarging.

"Third, transmission of news pictures will be substantially speedier than before.

"Fourth, as a result of the effect of the light valve, the 100 lines an inch on the print are so diffused and absorbed as to be almost imperceptible to the naked eye."

IMPROVEMENT ASKED

WASHINGTON, April 24. (AP)—Major General E. M. Markham, chief of engineers, in a report to the house committee on rivers and harbors today recommended improvement at Port Aransas, Texas, at an estimated cost of $50,000 and $10,000 annually for maintainance. Great Year For Vacations

FORECASTS for the spring and summer are usually concerned with business conditions. But there's one field that has been overlooked in most of the prophecies so far, and we might as well get in on it right now. It looks as if it ought to be a great year for vacations.

More people are at work, incomes are higher, business firms are doing better, and there is a lot more leisure time. Add all this together, stir in a dash of hot weather, and you get a booming vacation season.

And in that connection it's worth pointing out that the people of the United States and Canada are exceedingly lucky, when it comes to holidays. They have so many places to go, and the ways of getting there are so very pleasant.

IF you take your vacation in your own car, you have the world's finest network of smooth, well-cared-for highways, studded with hotels, camping sites, garages, and service stations.

If you go by rail, you have an almost limitless selection of fine trains and special vacation fares.

If you like to go on the water, there's a whole fleet of steamship lines traveling over an infinite variety of fresh and salt waterways.

But all this deals only with the mechanics of travel. It's where you go that counts most; and the North American continent seems to have been designed especially as a vacation ground.

But all this deals only with the mechanics of travel. It's where you go that counts most; and the North American continent seems to have been designed especially as a vacation ground.

WHATEVER direction you choose—whether you turn east, north, west, or south, or stay right in the middle—you can find pleasant scenery, good accommodations, and hospitable people.

No matter where you live one vacation spot or another is bound to be accessible to you.

The old slogan, "See America First," is about as sound a bit of advice as you could get.

Every summer we turn into a nation of nomads. It's a fine, healthy tendency.

One of the best things about our returning prosperity is the fact that it will set an increasing number of us wandering about our country this summer.

WAR DEBTS AGAIN

Revival of war debt discussion in Washington has been caused by the British treasury's announcement of a surplus for the past year.

With receipts running ahead of expenditures, it is argued by those opposed to debt revision, Great Britain should be willing to make more than token payments on her debt to the United States.

On the other hand, administration officials are said to hold that the merits of the case have not been affected by the surplus. They nevertheless fear that the latter will cause a popular reaction in this country that may delay final settlement of the war-debts question.

President Roosevelt is expected to send a message to congress during the present session dealing with this matter. What position he will take remains problematical.

Sentiment in congress has been determinedly against revision of war debts. This has been one of the obstacles to a settlement being reached. The surplus in the British treasury will not have the effect of softening this attitude. That a surplus exists, though, should not cause other factors in the debt situation to be overlooked. Britain has never advanced as a cause for debt revision its inability to pay. Nor has she indicated an intention of defaulting.

A complete survey of the whole war debt situation should be made at the earliest possible date with a view to finding a definite and permanent settlement of this troublesome question. Our own interests demand it no less than those of the debtors and the world at large.

If the idea is to cheer the patient, why not cut out the flowers and apply the saving to his hospital bill?

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

ONE last word on the Wirt episode. Washington political observers are still commenting on a certain neglected but intriguing angle.

It involves Jim Reed. The old Missouri Democratic war horse was shoved so far away from the spotlight that he never was heard of as counsel for the good Doctor with his visions of anarchy and sabotage.

Time was when the white-haired ex-Senator would have held the stage against all comers. This time revolution loomed and died with Jim hamstrung and almost muted by three mere congressmen. Worst of all they were from his own party.

Twice Reed made efforts to establish the right to cross-examine and speak freely before the Bulwinkle committee. Each time the minority Republican members—McGugin, of Kansas, and Lehlbach, of New Jersey—lifted a lusty voice to defend his rights.

The unkindest cut of all came when the Democrats produced old records and showed that Reed, while senator, had denied similar rights to counsel for witnesses before senate investigations over which he himself had presided.

Some of the oldsters with good memories say Reed should have taken a leaf from the late Senator Joseph W. Bailey, of Texas, whose able son is now contesting the senatorial nomination in that state with Tawm Connally.

NOW: Back in the rib-thumping days of 1918 Old Joe showed how an ex-senator should really handle a congressional committee.

One such committee was investigating possible inspiration of German propaganda by the brewing and liquor interests. On the committee were Overman, of N. C.; King, of Utah; Wolcott, of Del.; Nelson, of Minn., and Sterling, of S. Dak.—all dead and gone today except King. Bailey, just out of the senate, knew them all well except for Wolcott.

He was appearing as counsel for a Fort Worth publicity man who'd been called to tell of his activities for the brewery interests.

Bailey let his client be sworn but immediately thereafter took over the hearing. When a question was asked he'd advise the witness to answer it—and then make any explanation he desired. Or Senator Joe would answer it himself.

Before long he had his four old friends on the committee nodding more or less sympathetically. Not so with Wolcott of Del. In a quick aside Bailey asked a reporter who the "little thin fellow" was and upon being told directed all his remarks and arguments thereafter directly to him.

It was not long before Wolcott too was nodding unconscious acquiescence and Bailey did most of the testifying.

WAGNERISM: Administration "rejuvenation" of the Wagner Labor board bill will be interesting to follow.

President Roosevelt says he favors a permanent system of arbitrating labor disputes created by legislation rather than by administrative action. General Johnson gave the original Wagner bill a rather left-handed and indifferent endorsement—after being pursued by the Senator for weeks.

Finally the business of rewriting Wagner's first effort—which would have put such teeth in the National Labor board as to outlaw company unions in favor of the A. F. of L.—was turned over to a committee composed of Wagner, Johnson, Secretary of Labor Perkins and Relief Administrator Hopkins.

If anything of the kind does emerge from this session of congress it won't bear much resemblance to the first Wagner bill. Not from an organized labor viewpoint. The White House settlement of the threatened general auto strike precluded this.

On the other hand federal officials will admit privately they'd like very much to see congress set up a national industrial arbitration tribunal.

Mere existence of such a body would stand to help the government over its toughest labor spots. If the law should require submission of threatened strikes to a sort of supreme court for labor after all preliminary negotiations had failed, it automatically would delay any walk-out until public opinion or mutual agreement intervened. Delay is the essence of federal treatment of labor disputes. Whether the unions will take kindly to the idea is another question.

UNITED AIRCRAFT is on the horns of a diplomatic dilemma. Its management has to perform the tough task of facing two ways at once.

The company has been working hard to qualify for a mail bid under Farley's terms—even to the extent of splitting itself into independent transport and manufacturing units. It has been politeness itself to the government all through the cancellation unpleasantness. Such protests as it voiced were more pained than wrathy. So why do the four United transport lines which formerly held contrasts suddenly decide to sue Postmaster General Farley for damages arising out of cancellation? It hardly seems consistent.

The answer is stockholders. A group of the latter—aroused by losses since mail revenues were cut off—formed a protective committee last week to fight for contract restoration. A protective commitee is often a tack in management's chair—especially if the management is sitting none too firmly. Its wishes cannot be safely ignored and this one wants action.

EASIER: So now the trick is to satisfy the stockholders by a show of belligerence towards the government and at the same time convince the government that really the action doesn't mean a thing and the company is still willing to play postoffice rules. Insiders say the suits are due for an early and quiet demise and that the government is going to be easier to appease than the embattled share owners.

T. & W. A.: Transcontinental and Western Air also has a devil-and-deep-blue-sea problem. Its vigorous insistence that the contracts be restored focussed on the hope that the Austin-Berbour bill or some similar measure could be forced through at this session of congress if public opinion were sufficiently steamed up by the injustice argument.

Now this hope has been dashed by the President's proposal to delay permanent air mail legislation until next year. A last-ditch battle will be staged to try to squeeze the McCarron bill through but interested New Yorkers privately concede it hasn't a Chinaman's chance.

So where does the company go from here? If it sticks to its present tactics it's pretty sure to be frozen out on the new bids. Moreover the large General Motors interest presents a complication. The suspicion persists in inner circles that reprisals on General Motors itself are possible if T. & W. A. remains too stubborn. On the other hand it is committed so deeply that backing water would be very difficult. Many a directorial brow is furrowed trying to find the answer.

The airline officials' most haunting private fear is that E. L. Cord will underbid them for their transcontinental route and later obtain upward adjustments to make the bid a paying proposition. They figure that such adjustments are out of the question for them.

MANUFACTURERS: Meanwhile the aviation manufacturing companies are moving right along with the help of warclouds. Chinese and South American orders have recently taken a sudden jump with most American manufacturers getting a slice.

Curtiss-Wright's Russian connection is beginning to reach the remunerative stage. Douglas Aircraft has licensed the Fokker plant in Holland to build planes to Douglas' specification. This last has an important bearing on the development of German aviation.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE EMANCIPATOR OF 40,000,000 SLAVES

Emperor Alexander II of Russia (1818-1881) succeeded to the throne in 1855 when 40,000,000 peasants, fully two-thirds of Russia's population, were slaves (serfs). The emancipation of these serfs was Alexander's most memorable act. Millions of slaves belonging to the enormous crown dominions were freed by him in 1858. Finally, on March 3, 1861, the Emperor issued his famous ukase in which all the privately owned slaves were made free. It is a strange historical coincidence that this ukase was signed only a few hours before Lincoln's inauguration. Lincoln's own emancipation resulted in the freeing of about 4,000,000 American negroes.

CHAPTER XLVII

Two girls were at lunch in a downtown restaurant. One was thin and eye-glassed and her blue suit wore an air of primness. The other had a merry, mischievous face, crowned by a bleached mop of permanently waved hair.

"You know what happened," she urged the other, spooning up her ice cream eagerly. "Tell me—don't be such a meanie. I'm dying to know."

"Honestly I don't", said the girl in blue whose name was Catherine Miles. "Honestly I haven't an idea. The only thing was when I came in that morning I heard Mr. Lawrence say, 'Well, I'm sorry to hear you're leaving us, Miss Gray. . . .' "

"That's good." The blond girl finished the last of her sundae and reddened her lips with the aid of a small pocket mirror. "He's the only one who was sorry, I can tell you. She should have been eased out long ago. What I don't know about that one . . ." She looked mysterious, compressing her lips.

"Well, you know lots more than you pretend to, only you're afraid to spill it," she taunted. "I heard a few things myself. That morning—the one after Mr. Weaver got back from his western trip—he stormed in like a hurricane. I was in Whiffy's office, right next to hers, and I heard plenty though I wasn't supposed to. He said to her, "Where's that telegram?"

Miss Catherine Miles leaned forward, putting down her cup of tea in her excitement. "He said that!"

"Yes, he did. And he was mad clean through. I thought he was going to chew the partitions, 'Where's that telegram?' he said and she said, 'I don't know what you're talking about.' Then he laid into her. He said he was going straight to Mr. Lawrence and she said, 'You don't dare.' He laughed and said why didn't he? And she said if he did she'd tell he'd been coming up to her apartment at all hours and drinking her liquor and pestering her. . . ."

"She said that!" Miss Miles went crimson all over. "Why, the—the nerve of her. I don't believe a word of it."

"Well, anyhow, he laughed again and said he wouldn't have believed it of her, though he'd been warned before what she was like. "I thought you were just a good scout," he said or something like that. "I didn't know you were a snake in the grass. You tell Lawrence any lies like that and you'll be finished in this business for life."

"Then she started to hedge, sort of, and said naturally a girl didn't want any trouble and what did he want her to do? He had all he breaks, she said. A man always did. He didn't pay any attention to that. You could see she thought being pathetic was going to break him all up or something. He said, "You be out of here tomorrow morning or else. . . !"

"So she didn't dare do anything else," announced the girl with the tawny hair with relish. "And that's a case of good riddance if you ask me."

At Pier 57 in the heat of midday a limousine nosed its way among the trucks and taxis, sliding up to the curb.

"Empiric sailing?" Two porters jumped on the running board and a uniformed chauffeur said something in a low voice to them. They fell away and a lady emerged from the depth of the car. She was slim, she was very beautiful, she was young. Everything about her, from the many bags in their suede casings to the pearls around her slim throat, looked costly. She looked around quickly, as though fearing notice. Then, followed by the chauffeur and the men, lugging bags, she disappeared into the crowd.

The August sun beat down upon the decks of the huge liner. The lady came up the gangplank, looking neither to the right nor the left. A man in blue, with gilt braid on his officer's cap, saluted her and led her to the elevator. Her suite was on A deck. There was a sitting room, all delicate French furniture and damask hangings. The bedroom beyond was a blue and rose symphony and beyond could be glimpsed a gargantuan bath, all chrome plate and gleaming tile.

The lady was obviously nervous. "You wait on the pier for Mr. Hotaling," she instructed the chauffeur. "Give orders that no one is to be admitted to my suite. There may be newspaper people. . ."

"Certainly, madam. It's too bad you didn't bring Davies. She could have fended them off for you."

She shook her head, dismissing him.

The sound of hurried footsteps went past. On the deck two or three young people, gay in sport clothes, passed one damask draped window. The woman, pacing nervously to and fro, could hear suppressed gig-

Schools Of Mackerel Off Galveston Island Attracting Fishermen Early

GALVESTON, April 24. (AP)—Spanish mackerel schooling off Galveston island several weeks ahead of schedule, has resulted in the local deep-sea fishing season getting an early start. Because of unusually mild winter along the coast, the mackerel began appearing late in March in contrast to early May in other years, and a number of large catches have been made.

Old salts and commercial fishermen of this section predict the season will be a good one. If it isn't, the signs are all wrong.

Fishing Trips In Swing

Numerous bayous and bays in the vicinity of Galveston provide disciples of Izaak Walton plenty of action the year-round, but it is not until the mackerel arrive that interest begins to pick up in the deep sea sport. Sportsmen are attracted here from all parts of the southwest and practically every week-end scores of parties fishing in the near by waters of the gulf.

The "big run" of mackerel, which lasts several days, is expected to start any day. The fish, however, remain here until fall when they seek warmer waters.

Not all of the sport is provided by mackerel for the silver king, the tarpon, also has a large following. Extra large ones are occasionally caught—sometimes by the surf fishermen.

Red fish, pompanos, speckled trout, red snappers, and jewfish and a few of the other species which are caught in large numbers. Indications are that they will all be fairly plentiful this summer.

Two Defendants In Mail Fraud Case Get Instructed Verdicts

FORT WORTH, April 24. (AP) — Two of four defendants on trial here for alleged mail fraud in connection with operations of the A. D. Lloyd oil company, were freed today on instructed verdicts of acquittal.

The two freed were J. Granville Cubage, cleared on motion of the government; and R. L. Burch, cleared on a motion of the defense.

A. D. Lloyd and Jimmy Cox were the two remaining defendants as arguments in the case began.

The government alleged that literature purporting to be signed by Lloyd promised fabulous dividends to investors. A desire to make "millions" for investors was alleged to have been expressed.

THE SON OF TARZAN, No. 75

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

A full day's march ahead of the Big Bwana who trailed them hour by hour, five young Arabs were returning homeward to the tribe the Sheik ruled. They had been far inland on a successful ivory raid. A handsome, sinister youth rode at their head when they sighted some fleeing object in the distance. Perhaps it was a lost hunter! Thinking always of possible ransom money, Abdul Kamak put spurs to his horse and rode toward it.

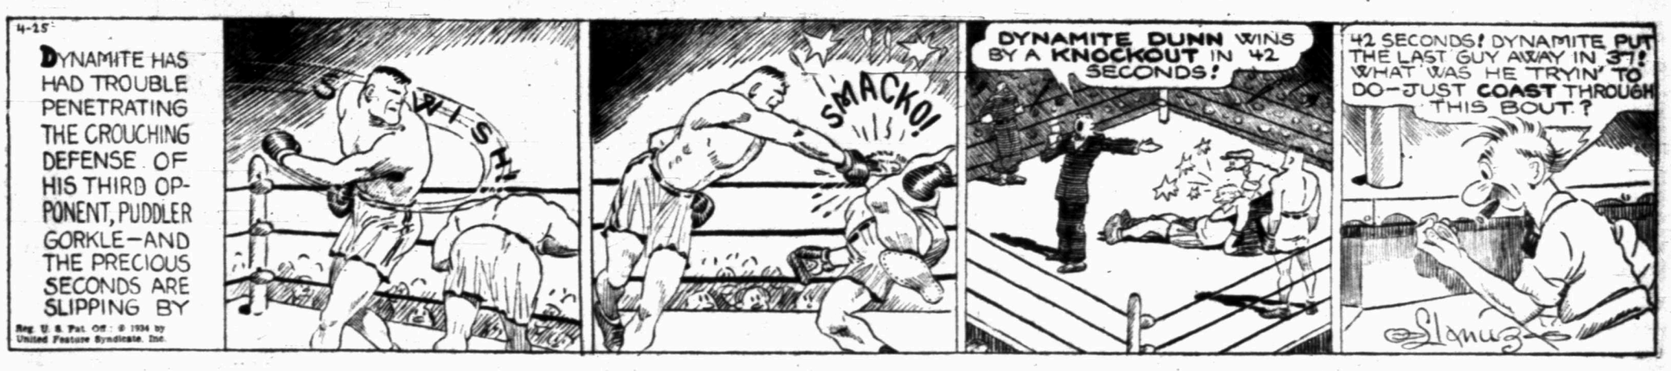

Meriem, after eluding the Swede, roamed the forest several days before she was aware she was lost in its dense maze. Her ammunition was exhausted searching for food, when she came abruptly to a small clearing where once had stood a native village surrounded by its fields. All unconscious of impending danger, she was making her way down its deserted street to the jungle when she noticed a cloud of dust on the horizon.

Rapidly it rolled toward her until she made out a horseman in flowing white coming straight across the plain. Like a startled doe Meriem sped for the jungle, but ere she could reach its safety Abdul Kamak had won the race and she was his prisoner. The young Arab saw that the figure clad in the riding boots and breeches was a woman—a young and lovely one too. Here was a gift from Allah! Swiftly he swung her to his saddle.

Two more days the men rode with their fair prize until the girl saw the Arab tents on the yellow desert sands. Vaguely it all seemed strangely familiar to her as with shouts of greeting the wild youths led Meriem directly into the presence of a tall grim old fellow who glared down upon her from the folds of his burnose. All the fears and terrors of her childhood returned as Meriem stood before the Sheik and knew that he recognized her.

CONSTABLE'S SALE
STATE OF TEXAS,
COUNTY OF LUBBOCK.

Whereas by virtue of an Order of Sale issued out of the 41st District Court of El Paso County, Texas, on a judgment rendered in said court on the 7th day of March, 1934 in favor of The Peoples Building and Loan Association of El Paso, Texas and against George Duvall, Mrs. Joe Duval and G. J. Casselberry, Trustee, against George Duval for the sum of $2661.43, and against all of said defendants for foreclosure of a mortgage, and of a 2nd mechanic's lien and 2nd deed of trust liens on the following described property securing the payment of said indebtedness, in cause No. 46580 on the docket of said court and to me as constable directed and delivered, I did on the 9th day of April, 1934 at 4:00 p. m. levy on said property which is situated in Lubbock County, Texas, and belonging to said defendants, to-wit: All of Lot 3, Block 117, of the Overton Addition to the city of Lubbock, Lubbock County, Texas, on May 8, 1934, being the first Tuesday in said month, between the hours of 10:00 a. m. and 4:00 p. m., on said day at the court house door of Lubbock County, Texas, I will offer for sale at public auction for cash to the highest bidder, all the right, title, and interest of said defendants George Duval, Mrs. Joe Duval, and G. J. Casselberry, Trustee in and to said property.

Witness my hand this 9th day of April, 1934.

L. N. HOLT,
Constable Precinct No. One,
Lubbock County, Texas.

THE STATE OF TEXAS
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Lubbock County, greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Myrtle P. Cowan by making publication of this citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therin, but if not, then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the 72nd District Court of Lubbock County, Texas, to be holden at the courthouse thereof in Lubbock, on the third Monday in May, 1934, being the 21st day of May, 1934, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 5944, wherein R. I. Wilson and Lorena Wilson are plaintiffs, and Temple Trust Company, a corporation, H. C. Glenn, as receiver of said Temple Trust Company, and Myrtle P. Cowan are defendants, said petition alleging that on the 5th day of May, 1934, plaintiffs borrowed the sum of $14,000.00 from said Temple Trust Company and secured such indebtedness with deeds of trust liens on lot No. 11, in Block No. 134, of the Original Town of Lubbock, in Lubbock County, Texas; that the contract by which plaintiffs borrowed said sum is usurious, and plaintiffs have more than repaid said loan, all interest being void and payments made should be credited on the principal debt; also on such credit of the principal debt, plaintiffs seek to recover double the amount of $1,856.65 paid in the last two years. Plaintiff alleges that the defendant, Myrtle P. Cowan, is asserting or claiming some interest in the notes evidencing such indebtedness, as well as the deeds of trust purporting to secure the same on the land above described of plaintiffs, the particular interest being unknown, and said Myrtle P. Cowan is made a party to this suit to clear their title in said property of any interest thereof of said defendant in said notes and deeds of trust, by reason of the invalidity thereof because of usury. Plaintiffs seek against all parties the cancellation of all the notes evidencing such indebtedness above described and of all deeds of trust thereon on the property above described, and abatement and cancellation of all such indebtedness, and to remove clouds upon the title of the plaintiffs to the land cast thereon by virtue of such deeds of trust and notes, purportedly outstanding, in the hands of all defendants.

Herein fail not, but have you before said court on the said first day of the next term thereof, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness, Charles B. Metcalfe, Clerk of the 72nd District Court of Lubbock County.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, in the city of Lubbock, this the 17th day of April, A. D. 1934.

(SEAL) CHAS. B. METCALFE,
Clerk, District Court, Lubbock County, Texas.
By OLIVE FLUKE, Deputy.

WALL STREET REPORT

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, April 24. (AP)—Heavy selling of silver and fresh weakness of grains contributed to further uncertainty in stock trading circles today and the trend was downward. Many leaders were off fractions to a point net, particularly among industrials.

Silver futures tumbled one to two cents and bar metal was down a cent to 43 3-4 cents an ounce, the lowest in some time. Wheat reduced its extreme losses when speculators turned to the buying side on reports of dry weather in the northwest. In the bond market, U. S. governments strengthened again, but corporation listings showed mixed changes.

Stocks transactions reached the moderate total of 1,278,300 shares. Speculative sentiment seemed confused, unwilling to venture very far on either side, although the familiar assortment of preferred issues and lower priced specialties held a following on the advance. Whatever short selling there was proved to be rather timid and trades for the most part had to be content with small swings.

Liquidation of silver futures was well underway before the treasury's list of holders became public. Speculative commitments were lightened and the market closed around its lows. Silver stocks softened, their losses being about the largest of the day. Motors displayed some apprehension over their labor situation, though General Motors braced in the last hour. Auburn made another new low and Chrysler at the worst was off more than a point. Standard Oil of New Jersey, Socony Vacuum and Standard of California yielded approximately one each.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, April 24. (AP)—Influenced by May liquidation, with first notice day for that month due tomorrow, cotton developed a sharp decline in active trading today. Easier stocks and silver and continued good weather in the belt were additional bearish influences and final prices were 22 to 29 points net lower.

The opening was irregular although Liverpool cables were a shade better than due and sterling was steady, first trades showed no change to 2 points down but liquidation of the May position started at once and the difference between that month and July soon widened to 43 points after being only 8 points at the start.

The market rallied about 7 to 9 points from the lows on covering, but weakened again in the final trading and May dropped to 11.17, July to 11.30 and October to 11.43 or 26 to 31 points below the previous close. There was a rally of 2 to 3 points at the end on covering. May closed at net decline of 29 points, July 23 points and October and December 29 points net lower.

Port receipts 17,378, for week 41,678, for season 7,066,941, last season 7,070,074. Exports 5,423, for week 13,302, for season 6,292,304, last season 6,383,736. Port stock 3,051,551, last year 4,199,629. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 109,807, last year 95,199. Spot sales at southern markets 8,043, last year 13,607.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, April 24. (AP) — Continued near month liquidation and increased selling of later deliveries forced cotton prices into new low ground for the movement during today's trading.

July contracts sold off from 11.50@11.29 or 28 points net lower, and more than 32 points below the highs reached on the rally of late last week. That delivery closed at 11.32, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 26 to 31 points.

Early prices were slightly under the May liquidation in anticipation of possible notices tomorrow. There was also selling in later months to the accompaniment of talk of diminishing prospects for silver legislation.

Following a mild rally liquidation became more active and general during the afternoon.

Stop orders were uncovered as prices broke into new low ground for the movement, with May selling off to 11.13 and December to 11.58 in the late trading or 25 to 34 points net lower. Closing quotations were within 2 or 3 points of the lowest on most positions.

Exports toady 8,338 making 6,437,337 so far this season. Port receipts 17,378. U. S. port stocks 3,051,861.

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, April 24. (AP) — Cattle trade at midwestern markets was featured by an active demand for medium weight and weighty steers. Generally strong to 15 higher rates prevailed, with most centers reporting this class in limited supply. Better grade light weight heaves were little changed, but medium quality light weights moved slowly at barely steady prices. All grades of cows brought steady prices, with an active trade reported at several points. Stockers and feeders continued to move slowly at barely steady rates. At Chicago $ 25 was paid for 1407-1569-lb averages—a new top for the season—with most heavies at that market going at 7.50 and up. Three loads of medium South Texas grassers brought 4.70 at Kansas City.

Midwestern hog markets were featured by an active trade, some points opening slowly and slightly lower, but all centers closed active and steady to strong. Desirable 180-340 lb. weights bulked from $3.15@3.35 largely. Aggregate receipts of eleven markets totaled 81,300 as compared with 75,321 last Tuesday.

Very little change was made in prices on fed wooled lambs around the circuit, although a few points reported a slight advance. Clipped lambs and ewes were quoted strong to 25 higher at several river markets. At Chicago 10.00 was bid and refused for best wooled skins. Better grade wooled lambs at other markets ranged mostly from 9.50@9.85.

Much Pumping Equipment In East Texas Oil Field Stands Idle, Valued At $12,000,000

KILGORE, April 24. (AP) — Nine million dollars worth of pumping equipment stands idle in the East Texas oil field and in all probability it will continue unused for at least five years, Gordon Griffin, formerly petroleum engineer of the East Texas division of the Railroad commission, now engineer for W. B. Hamilton of Wichita Falls, said recently.

Of more than 2,000 wells equipped with pumps only slightly less than 600 are using the equipment, Griffin said following actual tests that many of these do not actually need pumps but are using them because they can be operated from a central point with a consequent saving of time required to open flow valves on large leases.

Costs $6,000 Per Well

About a year ago, following a flush production period, approximately 2,000 wells in the field installed pumping equipment at an average cost of more than $6,000 per well, or a total expenditure of approximately $12,000,000, according to a careful survey made by petroleum engineers, including Griffin. The report and belief that East Texas would be on pumps within 60 days together with railroad commission's orders permitting wells on the pump to produce a maximum of 40 barrels per day were responsible for the installation of pumps.

Griffin said that he believed the 40-barrel order for pumping wells was largely responsible for the installation of pumps and the resulting expenditure. He said that the condition of the field at the time did not warrant pumping equipment as has since been proved.

The East Texas field is in the best condition it has been in for more than a year, Griffin said. He attributed the improved physical condition to the proration orders of the Railroad commission and the degree at which they have been enforced in the greater part of the field Griffin was of the opinion that if the allowable were kept around 400,000 barrels per day the pressures would either maintain themselves or show only a slight decline from month to month. The allowable as of April 1 was 456,644 barrels per day.

Grains

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, April 24. (AP)—Corn was in good demand on the Fort Worth cash grain market Tuesday, oats and grain sorghums were fairly well taken, while wheat was still slow sale.

Prices were quoted as follows:

Delivered Texas gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points:

Wheat No. 1 hard 76 1-2@80 1-2. Barley No. 2 nominally 52@53; No. 3 nominally 51@52. Sorghums No. 2 milo per 100 lbs. nominally 1.04@1.05; No. 3 milo nominally 1.02@1.03. No. 2 kafir nominally 94@95; No. 3 kafir nominally 92@93.

Delivered Texas common points or group three: corn No. 2 white 65 3-4@66 1-4; No. 2 yellow 62 1-4@62 3-4. Oats No. 2 red 39@40; No. 3 red 38@39.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, April 24. (AP)—Dominated by heavy liquidating sales on the part of holders who bought some time ago because of inflation talk, wheat prices underwent material setbacks today.

Many traders in wheat were apparently impressed by a sharp break of quotations for silver futures and by comparative lack of market response to reports of widespread shortage of moisture in leading wheat states, the spring crop belt in particular. Forecasts of damp weather in some sections of the dry area tended also to pull values down.

Wheat closed unsettled, 5-8 to 1 1-8 under yesterday's finish, corn unchanged to 1-8 lower, oats 1-8 to 1-2 off, and provisions at 5 cents to 7 cents decline.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat weakness. There was a notable slackening of shipper demand for corn, with no east from here when lake navigation opens seeming apparently probable to get corn around the end of the current week.

Provisions responded to downturns of grains, and gave less heed to a rising trend of the hog market.

Insull Reveals Story Of His Flight From Greece; He Simply Walked Out Of His Athens Apartment, Disguised

By JOHN LLOYD,
Associated Press Foreign Staff.
(Copyright, 1934, By Associated Press)

ABOARD THE S. S. EXILONA, April 24.—Bit by bit, as the S. S. Exilona bears him homeward to face his accusers, Samuel Insull, sr., has disclosed the story of his dramatic dash for freedom aboard the ancient tramp steamer Maiotis from Athens into the eastern Mediterranean.

His lips have remained sealed regarding the country where he finally decided to seek refuge, but, otherwise, few questions have gone unanswered.

Told In Three Parts

His story is best told in instalments, as each of the three phases into which the happenings fall has its particular characteristics.

The first deals with his incognito departure from Athens; the second is confined to his wanderings at sea in question of a santuary; the third refers to the events which led him into a Turkish jail and later into the hands of American authorities.

Here is the story as told by the white haired old man through the smoke of after-dinner cigars in the cozy lounge of this trim little American steamer, homeward bound by coincidence from a "vagabond cruise."

Began March 14

It begins early in the morning of March 14 when the one-time "little giant" of the utilities business sat pondering over orders to leave Greece within a matter of hours.

No one expected a man of his 74th year, who had been described as in a serious condition from a heart ailment, to resort to the methods that Samuel Insull was at that moment turning over in his mind. Consequently, none of the sentinels on duty was prepared to penetrate the disguise of the man they watched—a man whom they were about to see appear as 25 years younger.

Procuring a box of blacking such as women use to touch up their eyes, he set to work coloring his hair and moustache, finally accomplishing a remarkable transformation. He gazed with interest at the mirror where there stared at him eyes shaded by rich black brows and set off by equally black hair and moustaches.

Simply Walked Out

The rest was, he says, "as easy as falling off a log." He simply removed his glasses in order to complete his disguise, then walked boldly out the door, passing the men who were watching for him within a few feet.

He progressed down the street until he reached a taxi stand, then he merely hired a cab as any ordinary person might do. In it he drove past the pickets and reached Piraeus where the Maiotis was waiting. It was, he said, chartered for him by friends whose names he refuses to divulge.

Once aboard, he went directly to the cabin and remained close inside until the dingy freighter could be made ready to weigh anchor. It was 5 p. m. before the sooty old vessel cleared the harbor and he could come out for air.

Ship Ordered Back

When the Greek authorities became aware of his whereabouts, late the next day, they ordered the Maiotis to put back under the threat of sending a warship in pursuit.

It was hours after they doubled back on their course before Captain Ioannis Mousouris, the master of the ship, for whom Insull professes a great regard, could bring himself to inform his aged passenger of the situation.

While the world sought vainly to discover his whereabouts, Insull bobbing around in the Mediterranean in search of refuge, was in regular radio contact with Mrs. Insull in Athens.

He and his wife devised a secret code by which they transmitted messages through ordinary methods but which only the two of them could decipher.

Captain Mousouris had his own code with which he communicated with the Maiotis' owners in Greece.

Passage Not Declared

Insull contends that the only irregularity of his first departure from Greece was the fact that his passage had not been declared. He claims that this was not sufficient grounds to warrant ordering the Maiotis back to port.

When the Maiotis chugged asthmatically out into the Mediterranean on her second voyage she still ostensibly was bound for Port Said. It was generally doubted at the time that that really was her destination, but Insull says he did come "very near" Port Said and turned back only after receiving a radio communication from the shore.

Commanded Cruise

He himself commanded the tramp ship's movements on that vagabond cruise. Captain Mousouris followed his orders to the letter, although there were difficulties due to Mousouris' scanty knowledge of English.

The former millionaire fugitive had a comfortable room on the Maiotis with a private bath. The ship was stocked with a plentiful supply of fresh vegetables and chickens, which last furnished the piece de resistance of his diet.

When the Maiotis turned back from near Port Said, Insull determined on an attempt to reach a Black Sea port "two days steaming distance from Istanbul."

But Insull refuses to say whether that Black Sea port was in Rumania, Turkey, or Russia.

Make "Gloomy Gus" Smile And Win A Prize; Mechanical Man Is To Appear In Local Store

Here's a chance to win a theater ticket and possibly an automobile. R. H. Harris, a "mechanical man," is known throughout the United States as Gloomy Harris the gloom-chaser.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Gloomy will fill an engagement at the J. C. Penney company store in Lubbock. He will be in the show window from 2 p. m. to 6 p. m. Thursday and Friday and from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Saturday.

"To anyone making me smile while in the window I will present a complimentary ticket to the Broadway theater—to anyone making me laugh while in the store I will personally present a new 1934 V-8 automobile free of charge. Understand, I am personally making these offers—the J. C. Penney company has nothing to do with this part of the show," said Mr. Harris.

Holding the reputation of being able to keep his eyes open for three hours without batting an eyelid, "Gloomy" promises the public some excellent entertainment.

Russek Trial Set April 30

Veteran State Senator Faces Indictment Charging Misapplication Of Funds From A Schulenburg Bank

HOUSTON, April 24 (AP)—Witnesses have been subpoenaed and the government has announced that it will be ready when the case charging Gus Russek, veteran state senator from Schulenburg, with misapplication of bank funds is called for trial in federal court here, April 30.

Senator Russek, who is up for renomination this summer, will be defended by Jim Ragsdale of Victoria and Sen. Walter Woodul of Houston, candidate for lieutenant governor. Albert Thomas, assistant United States district attorney here, will direct the prosecution.

Others Indicted

Russek was indicted late in February along with two other former officials of the First National bank of Schulenburg, Charles A., and Otto G. Vogt. They were alleged to have misapplied approximately $51,000 of the bank's funds. Trial of the trio was set for April 30.

The defendants were accused of misapplying the money between October, 1931, and September 13, 1933, by means of "kiting" drafts. Russek was an official of the bank for ten years, serving as cashier, vice president and director.

All Paid Back

At the time the indictment was returned, department of justice special accountants said the entire $51,000 had been paid back to the bank. Senator Russek previously had stated that the alleged irregularity did not "involve the loss of money to anybody" and that the bank was in sound condition.

The trial will be of particular interest in view of the likelihood that it will affect the senatorial campaign in Russek's district. The senator is opposed by L. J. Sulak of Lagrange, member of the board of regents of the University of Texas and former member of the state Democratic executive committee.

Russek, once mayor of Schulenburg, has been in the state senate since 1925. He was appointed chairman of the banking committee of the present senate.

gles. "The bridal suite," she heard someone say. And she winced.

The chauffeur came back with some message. As she wrote out a direction for him, a knock came at the door.

"See if that's the steward," the woman said. "Let him in. I sent for him."

But the man at the door was not in uniform. He wore careless gray tweeds and a battered hat. He said, "I'm from the Globe, Mrs. Bliss. . ."

She uttered a little cry. "No reporters. I said I would see no reporters." She shrank in her chair.

"If you'd just make a statement? Is it true that your reported engagement to Mr. Broughton is broken?"

"I won't answer. You have no right to break into my suite this way. I'll complain to the captain. Grisson. . . ."

The chauffeur elbowed his way into the passage. "Mrs. Bliss says you're to ease out! Get that?"

The man in gray gave no sign he had heard, but continued imperturbably with his barrage of questions. "Is it true that Broughton's common law wife threatened you with a suit for alienation? What are your plans?"

"No statement . . . no statement," the woman chattered, her eyes flashing. "Oh, Uncle Morgan, send this man away!" This to a dignified gentleman whose white hair and pince-nez appeared over the shoulder of the newspaperman.

"You're annoying my niece, sir. Please take yourself off or, by the Lord Harry, I'll give you a whaling." Morgan Hotaling raised his ebony stick.

Lila Bliss sank back against the cushions. "Why do they persecute me like this? What have I done?"

"Hush, hush, my dear. Don't let the bounder hear you."

"He's gone, madam," Grisson said. "Is there anything more I can do?"

"Nothing." She had her handkerchief to her eyes.

"Marko come yet?"

She shuddered. "I told him not to. He simply mustn't. They'd have his picture in all the tabloids. Besides, I didn't want to see him."

"The thing is over then?"

She frowned. "Of course. She threatened me—threatened both of us. My nerves won't stand it. I had to get away. New people — new places."

"You knew of her existence before then?" It was the lawyer speaking now, not the concernedmale relative.

"Oh, I had heard of her—naturally. I didn't suppose it was important. All men . . . ."

"Lila, dear," interrupted the other. "I don't like to hear you talk like that. It's flippant. It's unbecoming."

She shrugged her shoulders. "Well, anyhow . . . Marko's been very nice about it. He said I ought to have a change. Perhaps when I come back things will have arranged themselves."

"I doubt it."

"Anyhow, I'm grateful to you, dear, for standing by me so splendidly, with Aunt Marion and all the rest against me."

Lila would employ this manner with males to her dying day. This one—elderly, precise, conventional—responded to it as she had expected him to. He said, "Not at all. You're the victim of circumstances, my child. Nothing more. Aunt Marion simply doesn't understand. . . ."

Lila kissed him fondly. He was a bit of a lamb. No one else understood her so well. Aunt Marion and her cousins had been horrid all through her trouble. They had never liked her, had always been jealous of her because she was beautiful. Women!

After he had gone she began to feel a trifle lonely. Had she been wrong not to bring her maid? But then she had felt she wanted to be alone. There was an engraved list of passengers on board and she picked it up, reading it avidly. One name caught her eye; "The Marquis of Emelin-Dare."

Why, that was the handsome young man she had met at Cannes two or three seasons ago when she had been visiting the Dentons. He was a delightful Englishman. He had been poor as poverty then but he had since come into a lot of money through the death of a relative. Lila sauntered over to the dressing table, and touched her hair speculatively. She looked a fright. She would ring up the beauty shop and have a facial. Maybe she would not keep to her cabin all the way, as she had threatened, but dine in the main salon. After all, she had been terribly shut up for the past month. She owed it to herself to take an interest in life . . . She was young . . . .

The Marquis was young, too. And Marko Broughton was old. Poor Marko! Maybe it had been providential that woman had made such a fuss. He had been very generous with Lila. She would send him a radiogram presently. It would be friendly and cheerful and sisterly in tone. Then she would change and go on deck. Those dreadful reporters would be gone. . . .
