BEARS WIN OFF SPUDS IN ONE SIDED GAME

PORT WORTH, May 13.—Port Worth defeated Houston in its one sided game here Friday afternoon, 10 to 2. The series, scheduled for two games, was shortened one game due to rain Thursday. Ken Penner and Denny Burns hooked up in a pitchers' duel and until the eighth inning the score stood 1 to 1, but in the final half of the eighth, Port Worth scored three runs to take the lead.

BEARS SWAMP SPUDS UNDER

DALLAS, May 13.—Heardened by the return of Moose Woeber to his old place in left field, the Steers gave them a 10 to 2 clubbing. Some combed four Cub drives out of the air after long sprits but failed to do anything with the stick. Fred Rainard got a homer through center field screens in the seventh. Heavy Rain Mars Prospects For The Derby Races Today

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 13 (AP)—Promise of fair weather and a fast track for the tens of thousands of spectators and the eighteen races of the fifty-third Kentucky Derby tomorrow, was marred late today by a heavy rain.

Weather bureau experts had seen a clear change and said there would be showers today in this part of Kentucky, but that it would be generally fair tomorrow. Those who remembered the deluge of two days ago—just as the weather bureau had forecast that year—said the outlook was all that was needed to make tomorrow perfect. Then came the afternoon "showers" preceded by a darkened sky and accompanied by rather high winds and rain. Prior to the rain the track had been declared fast, but the rain made the track muddy tomorrow, chances for use of the western horses to win the derby would be considerably improved. Royal Julian is a superior runner, while Hydromet, Bolled Stocking and Fred, Jr., have a likly shot for heavy going. Kew, of the eastern horses, seems to crave a muddy track, as on his way out this spring he has shown his real class on a fast track. Bostonian of the Whitney stable, and Scape Flow, are the other eastern favorites. The Derby is a mile and one quarter, will be worth $5,525 net to the winner, if all 15 start. The second horse will win $4,000, the third $3,000 and the fourth $1,000. The winner also will take down a $500 gold cup.

Four-Letter Men To Return At Hereford

HEREFORD, May 13.—Only four members of the football squad which represented Hereford high school in 1926 will return to school next fall, and Coach J. Porrett says he will find himself confronted with the problem of building a team from new material. Howard Harris, Arthur Harris and J. T. Harris will form the foundation of a line, and a backfield must be built around George Murphy, hard hitting fullback.

A number of the second team of last season showed up well in the new matched games they played, and Coach Riggs hopes to build up strong team with such athletes as Harris, Miller, J. Harris and others from the second string.

Business Manager C. W. Humble also says that a part of the football schedule for next fall has already been arranged. Contracts have been signed with a number of schools and the schedule is expected to be completed this summer. A two-year contract was signed with both Beaumont and Clinton New Mexico high schools.

Big Spring Starts Tournney Sunday

BIG SPRING, May 13.—Fred Stephens, secretary of the Big Spring Golf Club, announces the opening tournament for Sunday, May 15. This tournament, was to have been played Sunday, May 8, but high winds prevented. Twenty-seven entries have been made in the contest with handicap ranging from 8 to 25. With those handicaps scores the amateur player will compete with the semi-professionals and have a chance to win the silver loving cup that is being offered by Bob Sanderson of the Big Spring National bank of Big Spring.

Mr. Stephens predicts that the tournament will bring out some of the best scores ever made on the Big Spring course.

Hereford Coaches Are Re-employed

HEREFORD, May 13.—The coaching staff for the Hereford high school will remain intact for another year, according to Superintendent C. H. Dillhay. J. Porrett Riggs, who has been coach in football, track and basketball for the past two years has just been given a contract for another year, and C. W. Humble, business manager of the athletic and coach of basketball will also return.

During the past two years these two men have put athletics on a business basis and have made sports more popular among the business interests of the city. Regardless of the fact that a number of able athletes graduate this year, prospects are bright for some good teams to represent the Hereford high school next season.

Senator Wm. R. Burah: "We are building up a condition under which every conceivable human activity is being given over to regulation by business administered from Washington."

Prof. G. R. Pettor, University of California: "Grammar is not science and it is natural that it change with the times. Many colloquialisms and slang phrases are more vivid than those grammatically expressed."

Derby Day at Churchill Downs! This scene will be re-enacted today when the classic American turf event will be held. The upper photograph shows a typical Derby Day crowd and the smaller photographs glimpses of past races.

By BOB MATHERNE
LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 14.—Ghosts of the past will walk with ghosts of the future on Derby Day today.

Lovely ladies, aristocratic gentlemen, famous thoroughbreds, successful jockeys—all contributors to the history of the Kentucky Derby—will form the procession of ghosts.

The paddocks, the track and the stands will bring back memories of the past to many of the thousands that will watch Scape Flow, Boo, Omelet and other thoroughbreds of this age seek the winning of the fifty-third annual renewal of the classic derby today.

Churchill Downs is America's oldest track. The Kentucky Derby is America's most famous race. The two go hand in hand in making one of the most interesting chapters in sports.

Home raising, the pretty women and good horses, leaving important to Kentuckyans as soon as servers were Kentuckyans instead of Virginians.

Thoroughbreds thrived in Kentucky. Every person became interested in horses. The most famous race in ante-bellum days was the one between the great horse of Kentucky, Grey Eagle, and the pride of Tennessee, Wagner. The most famous track was the old Oakland track in Kentucky.

During the strife between the states, horse racing died down in Kentucky, but was revived a few years after peace had been established.

Col. M. Lewis Clark, after studying courses in England and France, founded the Churchill Downs course in 1875, naming it after Henry and John Churchill, some of the oldest and most aristocratic families in Kentucky.

When the track and stands were built, Colonel Clark formed the Louisville Jockey club, giving membership in it only to Kentuckians socially and financially prominent.

The first derby was held in 1875. It was won by Price McGrath's Aristides, with O. Lewis as the jockey. That small prize mattered not. The derby grew in importance. It became more than a race; it became the social event of the year. To the initial purse was added a few hundred dollars each year.

In 1894, the new Louisville Jockey club was formed. Colonel Clark remained as president judge, although other officers were chosen. Approximately $100,000 was spent on improvements. The length of the race was shortened.

The most important step came in 1902 when Churchill Downs was purchased from the Churchill estate.

In 1907, the Jockey club and the Douglas Park Jockey club formed a holding company to manage the course. This lasted only for a few years before the agreement was broken.

Into derby history, few years previous to this, had entered Matt J. Wilson and Charles F. Granger, the former a general manager and the latter a president.

Under their management, the Louisville Jockey club thrived as never before. The purse, mounted by the hundreds and thousands of dollars until today it is $50,000 added.

That, briefly, is the story of the Kentucky Derby.

That is why ghosts will walk on Derby Day. To many there, there will be no haunting romances, no poetry, no physical loveliness. It will be just another Kentucky Derby.

But to others, Memory of all

ROBINS WIN OFF REDS 5 TO 4
BROOKLYN, May 13 (AP)—The Robins swept the three game series with Cincinnati by coming out in front in tonight's fray by 5 to 4. After being held in complete submission by Carl Mays for seven innings Brooklyn turned a barrage of base hits upon the veteran underhand pitcher in the eighth, forcing him to retire. Jackie May was rushed to the rescue after three singles and two doubles had put the Cincinnati lead in jeopardy. Herman scored the tying run when Kelly tumbled Henline's grounder with two out and Flowers brought in what proved to be the deciding run on a wild pitch.

ATHLETICS TAKE TIGERS 10 TO 3
DETROIT, May 13 (AP)—Ty Cobb hit safely in his seventeenth successive game as the Athletics took the closing game of the series from the Tigers here today, by the score of 10 to 3. The former Detroit manager kept his record intact by beating out a bunt in the fourth while Wells was in the box. In winning the final game and thereby making it three out of four for the series, the Athletics hit three pitchers hard. Rhumbo on the other hand, held the Tiger attack well in check. Score:

CLEVELAND, May 13 (AP)—Boston made it two straight from Cleveland today, winning 7 to 0. It was the first time this season Cleveland has dropped an entire series, two games being postponed on account of rain. Lundgren who won his first start at Detroit last week, held the Indians to three hits with the help of Flagstad's spectacular work in center. Lundgren also played a leading role in the attack on the Cleveland pitchers, contributing a three base hit. Score:

GOD'S WONDERFUL WORKS

Many O Lord my God, are the wonderful works which thou hast done, if I could declare and speak of them, they are more than can be numbered. Psalm 40:5.

PRAYER—Help us, thou give of every good and perfect gift, to count our blessings.

DANGERS SURROUNDING FLOOD

REFUGEES

After they have been saved from the angry floods and have escaped the bites of the poisonous snakes and thousands of flood refugees are confronted with the problems of keeping their health, but thanks to the well-regulated health department of the United States Government, two threats of scourges which appeared in isolated areas in the wake of the Mississippi floods, and which might have taken an appalling life-toll—typhoid fever and smallpox—apparently have been conquered through the health authorities' quick, highly efficient intervention.

Dr. William Redde, medical director of the Red Cross, reports that more than one hundred thousand of the 173,000 persons now gathered in 60 refugee camps in the Mississippi Valley have been vaccinated against the two diseases. The immunizing process will not halt there, but will be carried to residents of the inundated areas who have remained in their homes and who will be in danger, it is believed, when the flood waters recede.

Ordinarily, typhoid fever would present the greater menace; but prompt attention to sanitary measures in the camps, and adequate steps to prevent contamination of the milk and water supplies have reduced this hazard. In such an undertaking the wartime cantonments offered a guide. The experience gained there has proved invaluable in handling the present emergency. Safeguarding the refugee's health is even more important than providing them with food, clothing and shelter; and the anti-typhoid fever vaccine has proved an efficacious preventive.

Medical science has obliterated the necessity of ever again suffering such an epidemic as struck down encamped armies during the Spanish-American War, and even in normal times has ravaged civilian populations.

Because there had been marked recurrence of the disease throughout the country recently, and because sanitation is not so effective in preventing its spread, the smallpox problem might be regarded as the more difficult. Statistics just published by the American Association for Medical Progress reveal the disturbing fact that there were 33,752 cases in the United States last year, resulting in 361 deaths. No other country outside of Asia reported such extensive infection, and in some communities the malady appeared in virulent form. This unusual condition caused the authorities concern about the smallpox peril, but vaccination on a large scale no doubt has reduced the danger to a minimum.

Malaria might prove a source of trouble, but as it is transmitted only by the Anopheles mosquito it may be controlled by eradicating that pest.

THE SEARCH FOR KNOWLEDGE

Promoting useful knowledge" is the object of the American Philosophical Society which has been holding its annual meeting in Philadelphia. Reading some of the remarks made by the speakers at this meeting, one is tempted to speculate on what the founder of this society would think of them after the 200 years that have elapsed since it first met; for this society, though it has changed its name, is the same that Benjamin Franklin inaugurated in 1727 and named the Junto.

He gives an account of it in his autobiography.

It started with six members. One was a "general philosopher," whom we may identify as Franklin himself, a physician, a chemist, a botanist, a geographer and a mechanic. Within twenty years it had so impressed its usefulness and importance to the cultural life of the colony that it received a grant of land from the government from which it derived a revenue for the prosecution of its investigations.

A notable address at the present meeting was that of Dr. Francis X. Dercum, an eminent authority on nervous diseases and author of numerous text books on those subjects, who told the society there was no evidence to support the view that there is design in the universe or in the processes of Nature. We wonder what the physician, the geographer and the mechanic of that statement; one may even wonder what Franklin would have thought of it. There was more rationalism two hundred years ago than we ordinarily assign to the age, but at that time science had done little to support the theory now called mechanistic. If any such views had been voiced in the Junto it probably would have received no public grant from the state.

Even today Dr. Dercum's view will not pass without vigorous challenge. At least the implication, that because design cannot be scientifically proved it therefore does not exist, will be assailed. Here the scientific view is as weak as that view claims the orthodox doctrine to be. If design cannot be proved neither can it be proved there is not design.

Man can find many things in Nature that do not seem to co-operate with him, but it is just possible of course that in his present state of development man is not fully competent to co-operate with Nature. It is not a difficult view that man is still a little inadequate to the task of understanding Nature's uses and intent, and until he is equipped with the knowledge to do so it is perhaps a little too soon to say he is qualified to denounce Nature as blind—it may be man who is that.

"Promoting useful knowledge" is a noble aim and we think it will be conceded the American Philosophical Society is doing it right along, but it must always be, we suppose, that expression of opinion must precede the discovery of knowable facts. The statement that there is no design in Nature is an expression of opinion and at present can be nothing else; it may be a correct opinion for all anybody knows; but it cannot be a proved opinion.

Man has great achievements to his credit, but he is still puny when compared to the universe he cannot fathom or understand or justify to his own mind, it does not quite follow that the time has come when we may say Nature is puny and man universal.—Kansas City Star.

GET RICH QUICK

Every day the newspapers tell of tragedies that have resulted from the unsuccessful efforts of persons who have tried to gather riches by short-cut methods. A man endeavored to amass a fortune overnight in a number of real estate transactions. The house of cards fell, arrest and disgrace were in sight so he took suicide as the best way out. Another man, playing the market and losing, stole from his firm. He was sentenced to prison. As the words which sealed his doom were pronounced by the judge, he exclaimed: "Well, this kind of business doesn't pay." Hundreds of instances of this type might be related. Those who practice thrift may seem to be mere plodders. Their methods are not spectacular. They do not attract widespread attention in the press because of their sensational accomplishments. But slowly, steadily they build and develop. And, in the long run, success will be theirs. There will be no cause for regrets; no tragedies; no suicides; no prison sentences; no exclamations of, "Well, this kind of business doesn't pay." Much of the crime and distress existing in this country today may be attributed to the unwillingness of many to accumulate wealth through the slow, steady processes of thrift. Not all of the tragedies of financial ruin and disgrace originate in evil hearts or through lack of knowledge. They are very often the results of impatience. Instead of taking things more slowly and systematically there are those who are ready to gamble their own funds in the hope of abnormal profits or what is still worse—gamble money that belongs to others. One of the elements of thrift is patience. Through it growth and progress, while slow, are absolutely assured. The pathway of thrift is a safe one to travel. Those who are content to acquire possessions through slow but steady methods will never find themselves standing amidst the wreckage of a ruined life and exclaiming in their despair: "Well, this kind of business doesn't pay."

Little Avalanches

More sidewalks will make Lubbock a better town, and more paving will make it still better.

One man has prophesied a rain before Sunday. Here is hoping he knows. It will be appreciated by that time, but the country will not be ruined if it fails to come then.

The Right-of-way Committee is very anxious to get all of the funds collected in for the Denver. If you have a note out you know it; and you should see the committee and either pay it or make satisfactory arrangements for taking care of it. It is important that they know exactly the status of affairs in regard to the road. The right of way is needed by the railroad people. They are wanting to begin work, and as there is much heavy grading on the canyon near here it is important that they get busy soon.

Dr. Morris Fishbein—When a woman discovers a lump in the breast she should go at once to the best possible physician and should follow his decision. At present there is no treatment for tumor of the breast except early diagnosis and prompt surgical removal.

SO THINK WE

The Chamber of Commerce could do no better work just now than to see to it that a satisfactory market is maintained for the eggs and butter and the cream that the people bring to Lubbock.

The business men should see to it that as good prices are paid the producers for their products as any town within five hundred miles of here. That will do more to make friends for the town and bring business here than most anything else.

There has not been much said about petulant government lately. We presume that Mrs. Moody is not running Dan to any great extent yet.

People will nearly always come up to your expectations if you will measure them with the golden rule.

Gas is now ten cents the gallon in Lubbock, but have to put three cents a gallon tax in your car and that makes it cost your thirteen cents.

Yesterday was Friday and it was the thirtieth, and gasoline with thirteen cents per gallon. No wonder there were so many car wrecks.

About the only grave question that ever arises between some husbands and wives is where shall the grave of one or the other be located in the cemetery nearest to where death overtakes them.

This country is now enduring the worst flood that has been known in this nation in 100 years. Wonder who is living now that saw the one before this.

Your troubles will quit growing if you will quit telling them to other folks.

One cannot make the chips fly much if they are always having an ax to grind.

Railroad officials seem to want to help the stockholders in their efforts to reorganize. A substantial raise in freight and passenger rates.

The patent office has announced that there has not yet been anything that will produce perpetual motion. We presume the flapper has never applied for a patent, but when she starts her, she sticks to going and the wonder puffs are put into operation she does not fall far short of perpetual motion.

You can do a good deed for Lubbock by planting some more trees. It is not too late yet.

If your roof is liable to leak in a rain you should have it repaired. It will rain soon and then you will wish you had done so.

Uticin mail will soon be getting ready to count noses again soon. The population figures of nearly every city will have to be revised, but it will not be for long, because many cities have doubled their population between the time the census was taken and the time it was announced. Texas towns especially cannot wait on population figures to be announced they just have to keep on growing.

Think tanks and tax tanks are very much alike in some respects, neither one will take you anywhere when empty.

Possibly Noah would feel quite at home in the Mississippi valley these days, except that he might not have an ark, and that would prove rather inconvenient.

The price of cream is said to be a little. The system of marketing is to blame for that. The producer should seek a better system of marketing.

Love never tries of its object and never tires of its company. That is the reason that love never goes to court in a divorce case.

It takes about fifteen hundred bats to hold an automobile together, but one very simple one can wreck the machine in spite of the fifteen hundred others.

Variety is the spice of life, but life cannot be all spice.

Hollywood may have to change its name, according to a statement issued lately because of its adverse material. We imagine that would not help matters any. Call it skunk any other name and it will smell just as badly.

People ever in the flood districts are to be pitied. They are being forced to the high points and when they get there snakes and poisonous insects are there, wild beasts and stinging lizards. It is a terrible picture to paint. They escape from the waters to be bitten by snakes and die in agony. They are forced to live in unsanitary places and many will sicken and die. It is good to be here on the plains.

There is one thing about it. This bootleg whiskey may not be so good as the whiskey in other days, but the fellows who drink it possibly do not last as long either.

Leg work possibly isn't just right for there were more eyes sold in Lubbock last week than ever before in the same length of time.

Dr. Morris Fishbein—When a woman discovers a lump in the breast she should go at once to the best possible physician and should follow his decision. At present there is no treatment for tumor of the breast except early diagnosis and prompt surgical removal.

OUT OUR WAY

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that thirty miles of grade has been completed on the Denver road in life county, and other contracts have been let.

It is reported that a great many of the people who signed notes on the Denver right of way have not paid, and the committee is anxious to collect the necessary amount to secure the needed ground for the road, and you should pay off if you possibly can.

It is reported the Dallas bunch found a rather warm reception to them when they arrived at fifteen minutes after twelve yesterday. The Lubbock folks enjoyed their short stay here, and hope they will come back again soon.

It is reported that one automobile driver tried to run into a pretty home on Avenue Q yesterday. Wreckless driving on the part of another party was to blame for forcing the car up into the yard.

It is reported that Lubbock has more reckless drivers than any other South Plains town. There are more people here.

It is reported that some men who have just recently returned from a visit to Washington, D. C., that the people in Texas talk a great deal more about the presidential possibilities than they do in the capital. We presume that is because we are more interested, and are probably more distant than many of them in Washington.

This is a day of specialization. Have the boy and the girl continue in their studies as they will be prepared to enter into business with a good basis for specialization courses.

Invite the Tech students to return to Lubbock next year. This will be one of the big institutions of the south in a few years. It is growing, and with the additional buildings that will be provided for future use their work will continue to reach higher and better standards.

VISITORS

The old saw about how the world treats a beaten runner to the door of the man who makes the best money is probably all very true, but it never made for the man to be a little advertising to let you know about his invention.

This is true of cities as well as individuals. Colorado Springs has marvelous natural attractions. Its citizens felt that it ought to be a regular mecca for tourists. For some reason they had made enormous efforts to get visitors, without a great deal of success.

So, one year, they appropriated $14,000 for advertising. This helped, and the next year they boosted the sum to $68,000. They advertised chiefly in newspapers all over the country.

It worked. Over 25,000 autos visited Colorado Springs last year, carrying some 250,000 more people than by train. These visitors spent some $12,000,000 in the Colorado Springs neighborhood.

Not a bad return for a $68,000 investment, is it? It pays to tell the world about your advantages.

Learn more about Lubbock, and write more about Lubbock to your friends and relatives back in the old home town. Lubbock does not need to set forth anything but the actual truth to attract people, and if the truth brings them here they will come to stay.

Actual growth without any much-room advertising has built Lubbock. It has made paved streets and good buildings have been erected on the spot where the cowboys once sat and yelled, and later where the cowboys held the herd in roundups. Consistent, conservative advertising is the thing that has built Lubbock and keeps it growing.

He rushed excitedly over to the tall grass and after poking around a while, held up a large frog.

ANSWER THIS:

Coming to think of it, just where would you go to find a better country than this?—We have a little wind at times and we call upon you to go without rain for a little longer time than we like, but always when you go to bed you are practically certain that no floods or cyclones will come during the night and wipe out your entire holdings and perhaps take your life. There are much worse places in which you might be living, quite a few of them.—Panhandle News.

Guess that question will hold you for a few days at least. We have not heard much complaint about this country for the past two months. The people have been reading about the cyclones, the tornadoes, and the floods, and they have become so thankful that they live out in the country that they forget and went and dug up a handful of that money that they have had stowed away, pretending that they did not have any, and that things were so hard, and the wind was blowing so much, and the rain did not come just when they thought it should, have it. They just forgot about that and sent a nice contribution to the flood and storm sufferers and thanked God that they lived in this great country.

DAILY MARKETS

COTTON REACTS

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—An opening advance in the cotton market today on unfavorable weather and crop news, was followed by reactions. July contracts sold off from 15.81 to 15.41 and closed at 15.56. The general market closing steady at net advances of 3 to 5 points. The opening was firm at an advance of 7 to 17 points, and active months sold 15 to 19 points net higher in early trading on reports of additional overflows in Louisiana rains or showers in the central belt and from cables from Liverpool. There was a good deal of covering or rebuying by recent sellers, and also some buying for trade account on the advance which carried prices up to 15.50 for May, 16.13 for October and 16.33 for December. These figures seemed high enough to attract increased redempting, however, and after the initial demand had been supplied, the volume of business tapered off, prices becoming easier.

Detailed weather reports showing good rains in West Texas, which has been complaining of droughty conditions, probably encouraged local or southern selling during the early afternoon, but the bulk of the pressure was attributed to realization. May declined to 15.45, October to 15.95 and December to 16.16, or back to approximately yesterday's closing quotations. Last prices were shade up from the lowest on renewed covering. Failure of the opening advance to bring in a broader or more aggressive demand, appeared to disappoint recent buyers, and may have contributed to the more reactionary tone of the market.

The week-end figures showing a decrease of 264,550 bales in the world's visible supply of American cotton for the week, compared with the loss of 67,225 last year, led to bullish comment but evidently without much effect on the market. Port receipts today 17,596 bales. U. S. port stocks 1,956,474 bales. Exports today 48,160 making 18,34,522 so far this season.

COTTON GOODS SLOW
NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—Cotton goods trading was light today as a great many merchants and manufacturers, even at Atlanta City, attending a joint convention. Raw silk was unsettled at Yokohama, and over here. Silk novelty printed goods sold moderately and there was a fair volume of filling in orders on wanted silk crepes. Linens have been more active in the local markets this week, due to the expected advance in price following rising rates abroad. Barriage were firmer, wool goods ruled quiet.

COTTON OIL ACTIVE
NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—Cottonseed oil was active and easy today under general liquidation produced by the distinctly disappointing showing made by the census bureau report, giving a smaller April consumption and a large increase in the visible supply. Final prices were 5 to 15 points net lower. Sales 18,600 barrels. Prime crude 7.25; prime summer yellow spot 8.90; May closed at 2.90, July 9.12; September 9.42; October 9.47; December 9.45.

COTTON ERRATIC

NEW ORLEANS, May 13 (AP)—Trading in the cotton market was somewhat erratic today and price fluctuations were two-sided. Better cables than due failed to influence the opening and first trades were one point up to 16.30. The market then started on the upward on unfavorable weather conditions and advanced 14 to 16 points above the previous close. There was a reaction of 14 to 16 points around mid session on the favorable showing of the weather map but near the end the market rallied again and the close was steady, 4 to 5 points net up.

Despite better Liverpool cables the opening here was irregular. The market advanced right after the call and by the middle of the morning July traded up to 15.75 and October 16.06. The advance was attributed to flood news and fears of dry weather in Texas.

At these levels selling was encountered, induced by the weather map showing there had been rains in the portion of the belt where moisture was needed. Before these offerings were absorbed July traded down to 15.60, October 15.90 and December 16.06.

There was a slight rally near the end on covering and fears of too much rain in the central belt and the market recovered 5 to 8 points.

from the lows, closing at a slight net gain for the day.

Secretary Heister made mill takings for the week 323,000 bales, against 354,000 last year. These figures, while considered bullish, had no effect on the market.

Exports for the day totalled 44,160 bales and for the week 189,045 bales.

CATTLE GAIN

FORT WORTH, May 13 (AP)—Beef cattle showed a gain of ten cents with prices ranging from 6.85 to 8.50 to supply the main feature of the livestock market here today. Weakness in the sheep and stocker trade was also noticeable.

Receipts called: cattle 2,500, including 500 calves; hogs 800; sheep and lambs 3,800.

COFFEE ADVANCES

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—Coffee futures opened today at an advance of 10 to 15 points but eased off later. May selling down to 13.43, under a little liquidation, while July declined to 12.55. The close was net unchanged 13.13 points lower. Estimated sales, 17,000 bags, closing quotations: May 13.47; July 12.55; September 11.83; December 11.30; January 11.35; March 11.35; May (1928) 11.18.

Spot coffee quiet. Rio 7 1/2 15 1/4 to 15 3/4; Santos 4 1/2 16 1/4 to 17.

SUGAR IS EASY

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—An easier tone developed in the raw sugar market today, due to increased offerings, prices declining 1-16 of a cent to the basis of 4.82 for Cuban duty paid. Sales were 75,000 bags of Cuban for late May shipment at 4.86 and 20,000 bags, prompt shipment at 4.83.

WHEAT BETTER

CHICAGO, May 13 (AP)—With indications almost certain that the Manitoba wheat crop this season will be below normal, wheat prices tended upward today after aver-sing lower early. Easiness of corn planting was also a bullish factor. Wheat closed unsettled 1-3 cent to 1-2 cent net higher, corn 7-8 cent to 1 1/4 up, oats 1-3 off to 3-8 to 1-2 cent advance, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 35 cents.

Continued showery weather in the corn belt harassing planters gave improved strength to the corn market. Cash demand for corn improved, and country offerings were light. Commission houses were active buyers in the oats market, July oats reached the highest price yet this season.

Provisions responded to the upward trend of grain and to steadiness of hog values.

DOMESTIC WOOLS MOVE

BOSTON, May 13 (AP)—Mill buyers are inquiring for domestic wools of 1-4 blood 48-50's grade, and a few sales are being closed. Ohio 48-50's sell at 41 to 45 cents, with 41 cent buyers' limit on most offerings. The clean basis price of current sales of best combing 48-50's is 72 to 73 cents for average mid-western. Territory choice combing 48-50's is 72 to 73 for average mid-western.

TRADE OUTLOOK

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: Trade and crop reports still present a spotted appearance, for which variations of temperature, excessive rains in some areas, floods in the central valleys and changes in the channels of distribution are variously credited. Industry, likewise, shows numerous irregularities, credited partly to seasonal reactions from earlier activities and partly to a desire to weigh up prospects for the further future. Taken as a whole, the weights of evidence is that changes have been on the quiet side, this to a certain extent obscured by April returns, which including a larger share than a year ago of Easter business, make closer analysis of four months' returns advisable before full determination of increase or decrease is possible.

While prospects of fall-seeded crops and especially winter wheat, are for yields little below a year ago, the weights of the soil in wide areas of the surplus grain producing areas has unquestionably made planting and seeding of spring planted crops later than usual. Over against this fact is, of course, to be set the fact that a copious of moisture in the soil and by itself, is generally indicative of quick growth once planting is finished. Weekly bank clearings $3,740,702, an increase of 4.7 percent as compared with a year ago.

Glacis inhabitants was proceeding rapidly with, several boats, barges and other rescue equipment being concentrated in that section. Red Cross officials estimated that 25,000 persons must be removed from the area. Many of them had been taken to Bunkie, but plans were being made to transfer them to Marksville and Mansura, since the spreading flood waters might endanger the water system of Bunkie.

Evaluation of Melville, the largest town in the direct path of the flood had started tonight. More than a thousand were to be moved there.

The weather bureau at New Orleans warned that the break along Bayou Des Glaives would not remedy the situation along the main stream between the mouth of Old river and New Orleans, although it reiterated the statement that the artificial crevasse below the present city would prevent the river from exceeding a stage of 21 feet here.

The sweep of the waters escaping from Bayou Des Glaives crevasse will take them into Avoyelles, St. Mary, St. Landry and Berwick parishes, two of which are large producers of sugar cane and one of which, St. Martin, is in the heart of the Evangeline country made famous by Longfellow's poem.

An estimated acreage of 1,138,720 acres stands in the path of the released waters and 105,000 people are expected to be affected.

In southern Louisiana, along the Mississippi, the fight to hold the rising waters continued with unremitting energy. A weakness developed in the levee at Mossburn, above Baton Rouge, but quick work checked the waters and tonight it was believed in good condition.

Still further north in eleven northeastern parishes, only houses, tops, church steeples and tree tops protruding above the surface of the inland lake marked the location of numerous towns and villages.

PIERCE FINED $400

C. A. Pierce, charged with driving a car while intoxicated, in Judge Pharr's district court here Friday, was assessed a fine of $400 and costs after a verdict had been returned against him.

Pierce was arrested last year in connection with a collision when his car is alleged to have struck that of Judge George Foster.

Drilling Resumed On Capitan Well

SLATON, May 13—Drilling has been resumed on the El Capitan company's Robertson No. 1 test well located five miles east of here. This test was shut down several days ago at 1,510 feet, 10 feet below the contract depth. It is understood that a much deeper test is to be made on this well. Several of the major companies hold acreage in the vicinity of the Robertson test.

Two strings of casing were unloaded Tuesday to be used on the Robertson No. 1 well, seven miles north-west of Slaton. This is the test begun by the Center Oil company and it reached an approximate depth of 1,900 feet sometime ago. It is understood here that Center's interest has been taken over by Schuler Brothers who will complete the test to the contract depth.

ALPINE FRUIT CROP IS LOOKING GOOD NOW

ALPINE, May 13—The fruit crop in the Alpine and Davis mountain section promises to be much more abundant than it was at first expected. The apple crop promises to be average, and a few peaches, plums and pears will be harvested. It was thought that the late frost killed all fruit except apples, but upon recent survey, it was found that there are a number of plum trees that entirely escaped the freeze, while scattering peaches and pears are found throughout the Texas Highlands. The berry and grape crops are always abundant, as they blossom too late to be

Big Spring Seeks Viaduct Crossing

BIG SPRING, May 13.—The city of Big Spring with the chamber of commerce cooperating in advocating a viaduct crossing the railroad tracks at Green street being the street over which highway number nine comes into the city.

At this crossing there are seven or more tracks and switching is almost continuously in making up trains.

The blocking of traffic on the highway and the danger incurred in crossing this number of tracks is prompting the agitation for the construction of a viaduct.

separate cells in Queens county jail.

They will remain there until Monday, when they will be whisked away to Sing Sing's death house.

Mrs. Snyder was sentenced first, and several moments elapsed before Gray's fate was pronounced.

Brief motions asking that the verdict be set aside were made by attorneys for both before sentence was pronounced.

Justice Scudder immediately denied them. Notices of appeal were filed. By statute, those sentenced to death have the right of appeals directly to the court of appeals, avoiding the delay of laying their cases before the appellate division of the supreme court, as in the procedure in cases not involving the death penalty.

Two months will be required, at least, for preparation of the appeals.

It had been arranged that Mrs. Snyder and Gray would be taken immediately after sentence to Sing Sing but Justice Scudder granted counsel's request that Mrs. Snyder and Gray be permitted to remain in Queens county jail until Monday to arrange their affairs.

Hereford Begins Feeding Industry

HEREFORD, May 13.—G. W. Brumley of Hereford last week sold 111 head of baby heaves in Kansas City for $65 around. These Hereford calves were fattened exclusively on Deaf Smith county grains.

Mr. Brumley was pleased with the way the calves fed out, and he thinks that there is a great future in the feeding of livestock in this section.

Three hundred hogs were fattened in the same lot with these baby heaves, and Mr. Brumley figured that this method of feeding reduced the feed bill for his hogs by one third.

The cheap price of grain, sorghums last fall caused a number of people in Deaf Smith county to turn to the feeding industry, and market the grain through Hereford calves and hogs, and these men have found the feeding industry very profitable. Many more are expected to turn to the feeding industry next year.

Edward L. Parsons, Episcopal bishop of California: "One of the most distressing ways of intolerance is shown in the attempt to control by legislation the freedom of scientific thought."

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

By Grace Gaston

A CBS IN THE SERVICE

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Three girls are selected by T. Q. CURTIS from his department store to come into his home as his wards for one year, because he believes they have worthy ambitions. BILLY WELLS, who wants to become a concert violinist, is the only one of the three that is serious. The other two girls, NYDA LOMAX and WINNIE SHELTON, have accepted old T. Q.'s generosity under false pretenses.

MRS. MEADOWS, a poor aristocrat, is hater of the girls. Her nephew, DAL ROMANINE, a fascinating, Oriental looking man, is cleverly "playing up" to all three of the wards, much to the despair of Billy, who is infatuated with him.

Billy makes short flying trips to her mother's cottage, and shamelessly admits to herself that she finds her mother's and CLAY CURTIS' manners almost vulgar.

Clay, son of T. Q. Curtis, has disinherited himself and is living with the Wells family in the poor section of the town, working in an automobile factory in the day time and writing music at night.

Billy is in a hateful dilemma: she is infatuated with Dal, though there is a tender memory of CLAY CURTIS, with whom she has been deeply in love. Clay, son of her benefactor, has disinherited himself and is working with Billy's mother, in the poor section of the town, working in an automobile factory in the daytime and writing music at night.

Because of her infatuation for Dal, Billy begins to lose interest in her music. One evening when old T. Q. dejectedly remarks that his temporary adoption of the three girls has caused a drop in morale in his store, Nyda suggests that the employees are jealous but with false sweetness asks what she can do to help "dear Daddy Curtis."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXX DAL ROMANINE called for Billy Wells the next morning at ten o'clock, drove her in his long, low, cream-colored roadster to the business district of Lubbock, and discreetly at the curb while she cashed her monthly allowance check for $500, then, smiling mysteriously and refusing to answer her questions, turned into West Seventh, which was becoming the most fashionable shopping street in Lubbock.

"Here we are!" He parked the car before a small but exclusive looking shop. Small gold letters inconspicuously placed on the plate glass window informed the elect that it was the establishment of Madame Dubois-Gowns.

"It looks frightfully expensive," Billy worried, as she followed Dal Romanine.

"Don't you worry about that," Dal smiled down at her. "The only important thing is for you to have the dress. It really was made for you, Mignon. I had Madame Dubois take it out of the window and promise to conceal it until I could bring you to see it. We wish to see Madame Dubois herself." Dal explained to the pretty, smartly dressed girl who advanced to meet them.

This way, please, Madame Dubois. The girl smiled lingeringly into Dal's eyes. They found Madame Dubois sitting them in a smaller room behind a mirror door. She came forward with outstretched hands to greet Romanine, as if he were a guest friend. She was taller than Dal, a Juno of a woman with deep-margined, beaming eyes.

"It is so good of you to bring the little girl for whom my favorite dress was designed. It sometimes happens that way, Miss Wells. She took Billy's hand and held it as she gave her own broad, white palms a moment. "And artist conceives lovely creation, praying that it will find its way to the one person and his prayer is answered, the embarrassed girl.

A few minutes later the model, a lovely little person of Billy's size, stepped daintily into the room, one, highly manicured and posed lightly on a flat, boyish, by the other at the back of her high-held, shingled little head.

"Oh, it is lovely!" Billy gasped, as the little figure of the model presented before her.

"You like it?" Madame Dubois smiled happily. "But of course you could. Real lace, my dear, made in Belgium. See the lovely patterns of the jasmine and primrose?" She tied a corner of a panel and held it against her own broad palms. "Try it on, Mignon. I will stop up and wait until I am called," Dal commanded her.

they all insisted that a bronze-colored satin-crepe afternoon dress, embroidered in nasturtium-colored silk, a frock which made her look slim and tall, must not be permitted to go to waste on some other girl whom it could not possibly become so well.

She was frightened and helpless at last, but quivering with pleasure that Dal had chosen her clothes for her. She felt, in them, as if she were wrapped about in tangible evidence of his love, as if, by wearing the dresses that he had chosen, she were with his approval, she were somehow in his arms. And it was in his arms, his actual arms, that she wanted to be, wanted so acutely, so feverishly, that she could not sleep an hour without dreaming of him.

She heard Madame Dubois' charming, slightly French voice telling her that the total bill was three hundred and ten dollars. She tried to do mental arithmetic as her fingers frose around the roll of bills in her pocket. A hundred and fifty for her mother, thirty dollars a week for Professor Navratil—four times thirty is a hundred and twenty, plus a hundred and fifty is two hundred and eighty—

"All ready, Mignon? We're going to have the rest of the day entirely to ourselves," Dal Romanine bent over her to whisper, while Madame Dubois looked discreetly away.

Billy's cold fingers drew the roll of bills out of her pocketbook, automatically almost, as if they were under compulsion entirely outside her own will. Maybe she had counted up wrong—and Professor Navratil really didn't want her to take three lessons a week—and she was no good at subtraction anyway. Five hundred dollars was an awfully big sum of money. It couldn't melt to nothing so easily—and Nyda and Winnie had such exquisite clothes—

Three hundred and ten. She peeled the bills from the roll with trembling fingers, then smiled almost impudently into Madame Dubois' beaming, red-brown eyes. "I believe that's right."

She was wearing the bronze-colored crepe, because she had not been to take it off. In it she belonged so wholly to Dal Romanine. He helped her into the moleskin coat, his hands gentle upon her shoulders.

As they were leaving the shop, the girl who evidently acted as "receptionist" to Madame Dubois clientel, opened the door for them.

"If you see Miss Shelton today, Mr. Romanine," she spoke softly, in the intensely refined voice that the place demanded, "tell her that the coral chiffon that you helped her select is ready for a fitting."

A shade of anger settled on Dal Romanine's face, like the passing shadow of a bat's wing. He did not answer beyond a curt bow from the waist, and he did not look at Billy until they had sped for at least five minutes through the downtown traffic.

When he did turn his smoldering black eyes upon her, her mouth was tight with pain, her eyes steel blue, stark, gleaming with the corrosive of jealousy.

"You're thinking," he said gravely, deliberately, "that I said the same things to Winnie that I've said to you today. Try to believe me when I tell you that I didn't. We were passing that shop and she asked me to go in with her. I had seen that lace dress in the window. Visualized you in it, would not let her have it, because I wanted it for you, went in with her and made her like a coral chiffon better. Winnie is a charming, brainless little clinging vine, to whom I owe every courtesy because of Aunt Lucia, but you—oh, Mignon. His voice deepened, vibrated, thawed the ice that had been creeping upward to her heart.

Billy laughed shakily, her eyes luminous with the fever which he could send racing through her veins at will. She had been ill of that fever for a month now, and she had gone beyond all effort to think rationally, to remember that she really loved Clay Curtis. Curiously, her love for Clay remained beneath the pain, the fever. It was cool and steady and strong that love for Clay, but she did not dare look at it. It had become an absolute necessity that Romanine should care for her, want her as she wanted him.

His voice broke into her thought. "We're in the country"

now. I'm going to slow down. We have the whole day, Mignon—hello, did you see who that was?" His voice was mildly astonished. "Nyda on the front seat of a limousine, with her head on the chauffeur's shoulder."

"It must have been Eddie Banning," Billy conceded, but she was too dazed, too feverish, to wonder or care what Nyda was doing with Eddie Banning, whom she professed to despise. She supposed to be in school," she added dreamily, her eyes watching the play of brown, slim fingers on a polished steering wheel.

Dal takes Billy to a country house which, inside, proves to be a little bit of mystic India. Only a Hindu servant welcomes them.

CANYON GRADUATE CLASS TO BE LARGE

SIXTY-EIGHT STUDENTS ARE TO RECEIVE DEGREES THIS YEAR

CANYON, May 11.—Sixty-eight young men and women will receive degrees from the West Texas State Teachers college when the present session ends on June 1. There are 30 men and 38 women in this year's class.

The oldest member of the class is B. B. Chamberlain, who is 57 years old and who has taught twenty-five years in the schools of Texas. The youngest man in the class is his son, James Chamberlain, who is just nineteen and has his first public service still before him.

Thirty-two Teachers. Besides Mr. B. B. Chamberlain, there are 32 members of this class who are already experienced teachers. The experience record of the group varies from eight months to 146 months.

The class of 1927 had in it fifteen married people; nine of these are men. Mr. and Mrs. Irvy Carruth will receive their bachelor's degree within a few minutes of each other. Mrs. Vernon Baker will receive her degree at the same time that her husband is finishing his freshman work.

The senior class of the Canyon college is made up of a cosmopolitan group. Three states besides Texas are represented; these are Kansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

The student from the farthest point north in Texas is Miss Opal Dutton of Panhandle. The one from the farthest point south in Texas is Miss Audrey Hall of Emory, Wharton county.

Canyon Home Folks. Twenty-nine give their home addresses as Canyon, but this figure is not strictly correct, for most of these are married people who have moved to Canyon for the college and who will move their families to some other location immediately after graduation and several of the others belong to families who have come to Canyon because of the school advantages which it offers.

Wide Study Range. Four of the members of this class have majored in home economics; part of these will do home demonstration work, others will teach vocational home economics in the schools of the territory. History is a favorite major subject with five men and six women choosing it. English is always a favorite with college students, perhaps because most of them abuse it so much. In this class ten girls and five men have majored. Careful preparation for teaching in the primary grades has been made by four women. Spanish claims five; Latin 2, chemistry 5, mathematics 1, educational administration 3, manual training 4, public speaking 2, agriculture 3, physics 2, art 4, sociology 2, music 1.

With the exception of those majoring in elementary education practically all members of this class will teach in the high schools of Texas with a few of them as superintendents of school systems.

Class Standards High. Mrs. and members of the class of 1927 belong to the Lloyd Green Allon chapter of the Scholarship Society of the Southern States which was formerly known as the Texas Scholarship Society.

Two members of the class have received graduate appointments which will enable them to study next year. These are Fred Oberst, Canyon, who has been granted a scholarship worth $200 and exemption from fees and tuition at the University of Iowa. He will continue his work in his chosen field of chemistry.

Freston Wohlford, who is a mathematics major, has been granted a teaching fellowship at the University of California. He will receive $700, will work half time on his graduate study of chemistry and will teach half time.

Cream Checks Aid Hereford Farmers

HEREFORD, May 11.—Cream checks and the money received from hogs and poultry, are largely supporting the farmers of the Hereford country right now, according to Henry Wilkinson, local financier, and the cow, sow and hen play an important part in the paying of bills and the building of bank accounts the year round here.

In reviewing the development of the past ten years, Mr. Wilkinson says that there has been a big change from a cattle range to a diversified farming region. "Ten years ago farmers bought their eggs, butter and meat from the local stores, and borrowed money to buy every thing from suspenders to cattle herds; today these same men bring in full cream cans, crates of eggs, and market hogs regularly," he says.

Mr. Wilkinson predicts a great future for the dairy and poultry industries here, and is now heading a committee that is working to secure a creamery for Hereford.

Cattlemen Prepare For Hereford Meet

HEREFORD, May 11.—A number of the Hereford breeders of the Hereford country have already started conditioning the cream of their herds, for the blue ribbon Hereford sale which will be held here February 8 and 9, 1928, and indications are that the aristocrats, both kings and queens of American Herefords, will be in their bloom for this big sale.

Local breeders will make an effort to establish this as an annual event, where breeders from north, south, east and west will be given a chance to purchase strictly choice Anxiety 4th Herefords.

They will leave nothing undone to carry out this idea.

The Hereford country claims more Herefords of this famous strain than any county in the southwest and each year breeders from distant parts of the nation come to Hereford to buy both herd and range bulls. The Hereford country is fast becoming known as headquarters for line bred Anxiety 4th Herefords, and the big sale next February promises to be one of the greatest in Texas for the cream of line bred Hereford cattle.

Slaton Paving Is Progressing Fast

SLATON, May 11.—Street paving in the residence section of Slaton is under way. L. H. Howard, contractor, being in charge of a project to include hard-surfacing of between fifteen and twenty blocks. Seven blocks will be laid on West Garza street, where construction is now going on. South Tenth street will probably be next in line, the paving extending to the high school building from the intersection of Tenth and Garza streets.

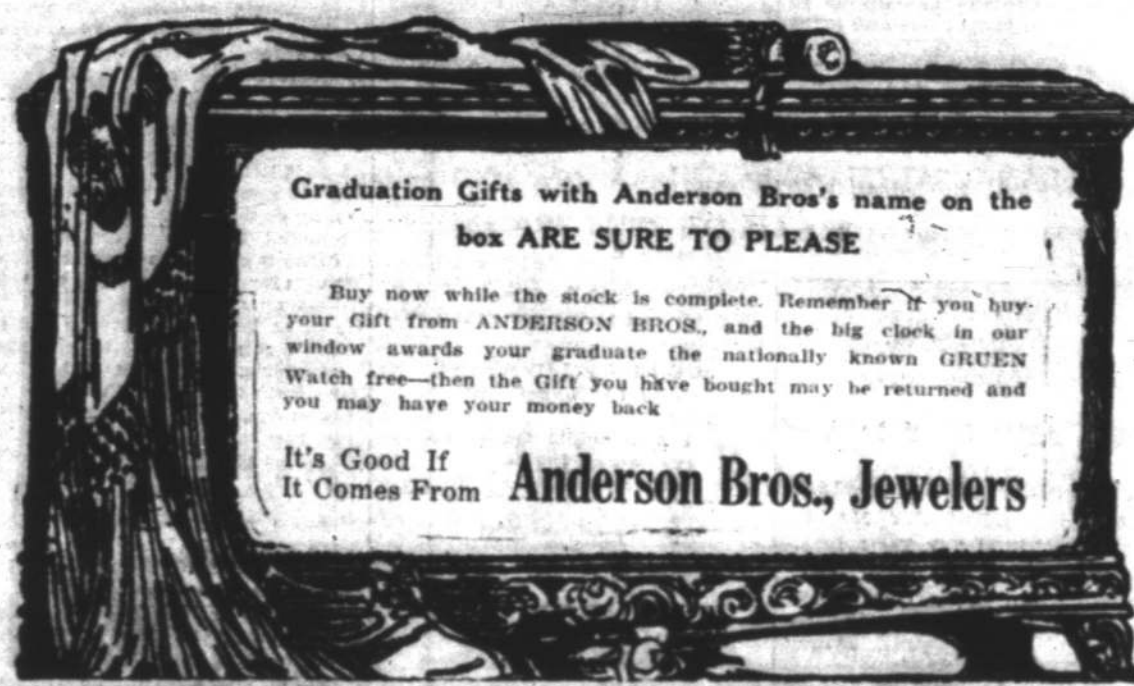

Twenty-one blocks of paving was completed here last year in the business district. The present project will bring the total to about forty blocks. All the paving is of heavy brick laid on a firm concrete base, with asphalt topping over the brick. There is some talk of also paving Ninth street from city limit to city limit. This street is traversed by State Highway No. 7.

Excessive rains soaked the wool of a flock of sheep near Sedalia, Ohio, and when the animals burrowed into haystacks timothy seed fell on their back, germinated and sprouted.
