Personal Funds Of Six Trust Firm Directors Are Released

Dulles Resumes Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles resumed western strategy talks today with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd as the top-level Anglo-American conference moved into its second day.

Critical Far Eastern questions seemed likely to come up for the first time at the high-level review. One of Britain's top Asiatic experts Sir Hubert Graves, accompanied Lloyd into the conference room.

Relations with Communist China including Britain's reported desire to ease existing Western trade controls, figured prominently among the key topics to be tackled in a review of policy in the Far East.

Middle East problems, twice discussed at yesterday's opening session, promised to serve as another discussion base during the day, either at the department or at the White House.

Winthrop Aldridge, U.S. Ambassador to Britain, joined in the talks as did Livingston Merchant, asst. secretary of state for Europe, and Douglas MacArthur II, department counselor.

This conference was a preliminary to another meeting of president Eisenhower and Prime Minister Eden over the White House luncheon table.

Eisenhower and Eden got off to a seemingly good start yesterday on three days of talks on how to deal with the Russians in the Middle East and elsewhere.

They agreed in assessing recent Soviet maneuvering on the diplomatic, economic and political front. And Eden pledged Britain's full support to Eisenhower's insistence on "deeds, not words," as evidence of Russian willingness to ease tensions.

But the first day also turned up a divergence of views on the Middle East. Some diplomatic officials said, however, that these differences are minor and should be narrowed even further at today's session.

Eisenhower took part in two of the three U. S.-British conferences yesterday. On doctor's orders he is passing up the night gatherings.

Eisenhower and Eden are expected to switch attention to the Far East once they go as far as they can in fashioning a common policy toward the Middle East.

The British are said to be more reluctant than they have been about backing unyielding U. S. opposition to seating Red China in the United Nations. Eisenhower will try to nail down British support on that issue.

For their part, the British would like to ease the West's embargo against shipping nonwar goods to Red China. They argue, in the face of strong opposition from segments of Congress, that such goods are being shipped now to Russia but are banned in the China trade. They point out that the Korean fighting, which led to the embargo, has been over for three years. Britain recognizes Red China while the United States does not.

Admissions Drawn On False Records

AUSTIN (AP)—Judge Charles Betts released from court restraint today the personal assets of six directors of U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co. of Waco.

Betts warned the directors this does not free them from any personal liability that might be proven in connection with the failure of the banking and insurance firm.

Given the use of personal funds which had been frozen by court order since Dec. 15 were Mrs. V. E. Ridling, Sam Deeley, Robert Abernathy, Joseph Trautschold, Irwin Wilhelm and James Hay.

Betts, who drew admissions from Hay and Mrs. Ridling that they knew certain records of U.S. Trust to be untrue, ordered the trial to continue on the question of whether the company should be put in permanent receivership.

The Waco banking - insurance firm, U.S. Automotive Service, and Texas operations of Arkansas Fire and Marine Insurance Co., were placed under court restraint Dec. 15. Assets of U.S. Trust and U.S. Automotive, and of their officers and directors were frozen.

Betts turned down, for the second time in four days, a motion by state Rep. Bert McDaniel of Waco for a delay of the trial on the merits of ordering permanent receivership.

McDaniel, representing U.S. Trust and Guaranty, U.S. Automotive and their president, A. B. Shoemake, contended a continuance should be granted because Shoemake was unable to be present to testify.

Shoemake shot himself through the head Jan. 7. He is in serious condition but accorded a chance of living.

McDaniel said testimony Shoemake could give to refute the state's allegations would be "material and cannot be obtained from any other source."

Asst. Atty. Gen. Will Davis opposed the motion. He said Shoemake's condition was brought about by his own action. He noted that McDaniel had offered no testimony that Shoemake would be available as a witness later.

The five directors testifying yesterday agreed they never exercised any authority or responsibility as directors of U.S. Trust.

Uniform testimony was that the only meeting they had ever attended was a Jan. 28, 1955, stockholders meeting at which Trautschold and Wilhelm were elected directors without advance notice that such action was contemplated.

Trautschold is in the sash and door business. Wilhelm is an electrical contractor in Waco. They said they had known Shoemake a number of years, had done mill and electrical work for his concerns, and had bought stock in U.S. Trust at Shoemake's suggestion. They said the stock had paid 6 per cent.

Abernathy, Mrs. Ridling and Deeley said Shoemake had told them they were directors but they always considered themselves as employees, nothing more.

"It was pretty much a one-man operation" asked John Sheehy of Waco, attorney for Trautschold.

"It was operated and managed by Mr. Shoemake. We were simply employees," Mrs. Ridling replied.

France Gets New Cabinet

PARIS (AP)—Socialist Guy Mollet, seeking confirmation as the 22nd Premier of post-war France, called today for a new deal for Algeria which would strengthen "the unbreakable union" of the North African territory with France.

Mollet announced a 13-man Cabinet, along with 21 secretaries of state. The list indicated he hoped to win Catholic and Moderate support which would release him from dependence on Communist votes.

Mollet told the National Assembly:

The National Assembly should affirm solemnly that the future of Algeria will not be decided unilaterally, and that it will not accept a decision imposed by force.

A genuine popular consultation should be organized without delay by election of an Assembly. This, he pointed out, implied electoral reform.

Deputies of all parties, including Communist Leader Maurice Thorez who now rarely appears in Parliament, crowded the floor of the chamber.

Mollet first read the names of his 13-man Cabinet:

Premier—Guy Mollet socialist.

Minister of state without portfolio—Pierre Mendes-France Radical-Socialists.

Minister of state in charge of ministry of justice—Francois Mitterrand Union of Democratic Social Resistance.

Foreign affairs—Christian Pineau Socialist.

Resident-minister in Algeria — Gen. Georges Catroux non party.

Finance and economic affairs—Robert Lacoste Socialist.

Labor—Albert Gazier Socialist.

National Defense — Maurice Bourges - Maunoury Radical - Socialist.

Overseas France — Gaston Defferre Socialist.

Veterans affairs—Francois Tanguy-Prigent Socialist.

Minister attached to premier's office — Felix Houphouet-Boigny African Democratic Rally.

Houphouet-Boigny is a 50-year-old Negro from the Ivory Coast in French West Africa.

The complexion of the Cabinet and the reported Mollet platform appeared designed to woo support of the MRP (Popular Republican Movement) as a substitute for Communist backing. The slightly left of center Catholic group is the French equivalent of a Christian Democrat party.

Mollet's platform was said to stress both France's ties to the Atlantic Alliance and the new drive for West European unification. This, plus the presence of several supporters of European unity in the Cabinet, would make it difficult for the Communists to vote for Mollet. MRP leaders are among the chief French participants in the European unity movement.

Mollet and Mendes - France, whose Republican Front won some 160 Assembly seats in the recent election, are far short of a majority in the 596-member House. Hence they must attract votes from either the Communists on the left, or the MRP and allied groups to the right.

An MRP spokesman indicated his party would vote for Mollet if he rejected Communist calls for a "popular front" of all leftist parties and if he presented a concise program including definite proposals for solution of the Algerian problem.

Mollet has said that if he wins the Assembly's nod, he will fly to Algeria for a personal try at ending the 15-month guerrilla revolt there.

Mother Freed In Abortion

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The mother of 22 - year - old Doris Jean Ostreicher, who arranged the abortion which led to the girl's death, was freed today by a judge who said the memory of the tragedy would be "substantial and overwhelming punishment. Shortly before, a bartender and his beautician wife drew prison terms for the death of the food chain heiress.

Strongly condemning the abortion as contrary both to the laws of Pennsylvania and to the moral laws of the world, Judge Vincent A. Carroll freed Mrs. Gertrude Silver and rejected pleas for mercy by the attorney for Milton Schwartz, 42, and his blonde 38-year-old wife, Rosalie.

He first sentenced Mrs. Schwartz who admitted on the witness stand yesterday that she performed the illegal operation that killed the attractive red-haired bride of a Miami motorcycle policeman. He imposed an indeterminate prison term and ordered Mrs. Schwartz committed to the Pennsylvania Industrial Home for Women at Muncy.

Mrs. Schwartz, moaning and weeping hysterically, fainted and had to be carried from the crowded courtroom. Her attorney, William Gray, leaped to his feet and asked Judge Carroll to reconsider and sentence her instead to 11 to 23 months.

The judge said he would take the request under consideration.

As the cries of Mrs. Schwartz echoed through the courtroom Judge Carroll called up Schwartz and sentenced him to 3 to 10 years in East State Penitentiary.

Mrs. Silver, the dead girl's mother, pleaded nolo contendre yesterday to being an accessory before the fact of abortion. She sat with bowed head and closed eyes as Judge Carroll directed his remarks to her before he suspended sentence. She could have received a maximum term of 10 years and $6,000 fine.

Judge Carroll said that "further punishment" in Mrs. Silver's case "would be classified as legal revenge."

He said that the "present tragic picture of this defendant, this mother, is and will continue to be a deterrent to future crimes of this kind. The memory of this tragedy will rest on her memory."

Gray, in asking for a lighter sentence for Mrs. Schwartz, said that under the law she could be imprisoned for as long as 10 years unless paroled.

County Grand Jury Returns 5 Indictments

Five indictments were returned yesterday by the December-January Scurry County grand jury as it completed its last session before the end of its term.

The indictments included one for murder, two for burglary, one for child desertion, and one for forgery and passing.

Indicted for murder with malice was Charles Everett Taylor, 42, who was charged with killing his former mother-in-law, Mrs. Ruth Nichols, 53, by shooting her with a .32-caliber automatic pistol on Jan. 19, at her home in the northeast part of Snyder. Taylor is being held without bond here.

The burglary indictments were against Julain Lambert, Jr., Lueders, and James Conway, Roscoe who were charged with the Dec. 28 burglary of the Guy Adams Store at Pyron. Lambert is in jail here, and Conway is being held at Roby on another charge.

Clint Mitchell Evans, whereabouts unknown, was indicted for child desertion. The children live here.

Calvin Monroe James was indicted for forgery and passing of a check in the amount of $78.62 to Lieb's Cash Grocery on Oct. 28. James is of Odessa.

District Attorney Renal B. Rosson said some criminal cases are scheduled to come to trial in the latter part of February but that none of these cases are yet definitely scheduled.

Members of the grand jury were Raymond Lunsford, J. A. Joyce, Dan Gibson, Harry Holbrook, Herbert Feather, Leonard Spence, O. S. McCormick, W. T. Dabbs, Bob Crowell, Frank Strom, H. H. Cary, and H. R. Williamson.

FINAL POLL TAX REMINDER GIVEN

Almost 500 persons qualified to vote yesterday afternoon and this morning, according to reports, as the poll tax and exemption figures soared to an estimated 6,154 late this morning.

About 5,169 poll taxes have been paid, and there have been about 985 exemptions.

Today is the deadline day for poll tax payment, according to Jim Ikard, county tax assessor-collector, whose office closes at 5 p.m.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce, however, has made provision for those who will not be able to pay their poll taxes or get exemption certificates by that time. A special deputy station will be set up at the post office here from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The Jaycees will also, upon request, send a deputy to the home of persons who cannot go to the office because of illness or old age. Those desiring such service should call 3-4358.

State Scandal On Insurance Still Boiling

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff

The resignation of an embattled insurance commission member, the disclosure of another fee paid a senator for legal work by U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co., and a court battle in the firm's receivership case highlighted the insurance scandals today.

Garland Smith, once a dance-band manager and small-town editor who climbed the political ladder to the chairmanship of the Insurance Commission, resigned under heavy fire, citing ill health.

Smith's step-out drew laudatory and caustic comments. Gov. Shivers, a longtime close personal and political friend, said Smith had done a fine job.

Sen. William Fly of Victoria, chairman of the Senate committee investigating the insurance scandals, said:

"It is best that Smith has resigned. His resignation will help clear the air."

The two remaining insurance commissioners, the new chairman, Byron Saunders, and Mark Wentz, said they thought Smith had done well in urging insurance reform laws adopted by the last Legislature.

Sen. Jimmy Phillips of Angleton, a candidate for governor, said in Austin his firm was paid $150 by U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co. for helping represent a defendant who had an insurance policy with that company in an auto damage suit. Phillips said he did not know that the bill for legal work was paid by U.S. Trust and Guaranty until he re-examined the case file in connection with another bill. He said he had been retained as local counsel in the case by Don Carroll of Houston.

"I was not hired by U.S. Trust and Guaranty, I have never met A. B. Shoemake (president of the firm) and I have never had any direct contact with him or any official of his company," Phillips asserted.

Appeal Set By Negroes

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—Six Negroes fined for playing golf on a segregated course here plan to appeal their conviction, possibly to the U. S. Supreme Court.

They were convicted yesterday in municipal-county court of trespassing last Dec. 7 on the Gillespie Park golf course. It is owned by the city, but is operated privately. Each defendant was fined $15 and costs, and each filed notice of appeal to Guilford County Superior Court.

The Gillespie course was established as a municipal course for use of white players. It was transferred several years ago to private operators. There is a city-operated golf course for Negroes here.

The defendants were charged after they played nine holes at the Gillespie course. They had offered to pay a greens fee but were told that they could not play. Judge William Poteat noted in his written ruling that the defendants did not deny going on the property after they had been refused permission.

Snow flurries in the Panhandle and scattered rain over other sections of Texas was forecast for Wednesday.

Continued cold and partly cloudy weather was predicted for Tuesday.

Rain splattered a number of points Monday but the amount was negligible. Fort Worth had a light sleet that melted as it fell.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 21 at Dalhart and Lubbock to 52 at Brownsville. Skies were clear in parts of West Texas, cloudy in South Central and East Texas, and partly cloudy elsewhere.

Lufkin and College Station reported a light rain before dawn.

Mother's March Nets $2,016.07

The Scurry County Polio fund was more than $2,000 richer today, thanks to last night's "Mother's March on Polio" in the city.

Mrs. Charles Tyer, chairman of last night's march netted $2,016.07, which is believed to be the highest figure in history for the annual Mother's March here.

Mrs. Tyer wishes to express her deepest gratitude to more than 100 women workers who braved the cold temperatures to participate in last night's march. Virtually every local women's organization took part in the march.

Mrs. Tyer also wished to express her appreciation to the residents for their wonderful response to the Mother's March.

Road Finance Plan Okayed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today approved a plan to finance his highway construction program through pay-as-you-go taxation. He abandoned his earlier plan for financing it with bonds.

House Republican leader Martin (Mass) announced the President's decision. He said it was made in recognition of a practical situation in Congress—refusal of the Democratic leadership to accept the bond program.

Martin said after the GOP congressional leaders' weekly conference with Eisenhower that the President decided to yield on the issue because he wants the highway construction program to get underway.

In response to a question Martin told a news conference at the White House that he believes the new program has a "good chance" of winning approval in Congress.

Eisenhower's choice, Martin said was either to "give up the roads" or go along with the Democrats' program.

The Republican leader said House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) and other Democratic members of the House made their position clear at a conference at the capitol last week.

Replying to questions, Martin made it clear that the new program means higher taxes to finance road building. He added it would be up to the House Ways and Means Committee to decide just how to raise the money.

Cotton Suit Fate Studied

HOUSTON (AP)—Indications today were that the federal government plans to seek dismissal of a suit in which West Texas cotton farmers seek an injunction against enforcement of acreage quotas.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Carlos Watson was reported preparing motions for dismissal. He declined comment.

Four West Texans sued two months ago, saying farmers in their area were not receiving a fair share of cotton acreage quotas.

The government was expected to challenge jurisdiction in venue, contending the suit should have been filed in Washington against Secretary of Agriculture Benson instead of in Houston against the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Filing the suit were Willis Hawkins of Castro County, Ralph White of Howard County, Floyd Smith of Martin County and George Smith of Jones County. They contend the committee set "unrealistic" quotas which could cause West Texas to suffer 10 million dollars in damages.

The West Texans said the Texas cotton belt is shifting west but the committee in setting quotas has failed to recognize this trend.

New Parity Program Set For Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government sets up new and somewhat shorter yardsticks late today for measuring prices of cotton, wheat, corn and peanuts—four major sources of farm income.

The new parity formula is supposed to reflect the impact of modern production methods in lowering crop output costs.

The shift was to be made in an Agriculture Department report which was expected to show that a long downturn in farm prices tended to level off this month under the influence of recent improvements in livestock markets.

Farm prices dropped 7 per cent last year. They were about 23 per cent below the record high of 1951 on Dec. 31. The long price decline has become a political issue, with leaders in both parties urging improvements in federal farm-aid programs.

The change in the price yardstick for the four big crops was directed by farm legislation enacted in 1954 upon the recommendation of President Eisenhower.

Parity prices are those declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their operating and living costs.

Farm prices as a whole on Dec. 15 were 20 per cent below the parity yardstick then in use.

The old pre-war formula was based largely on hand labor and horse manpower, which is being replaced by tractors and other mechanical equipment.

Cafe Operator Fined For Keeping Porker

HOUSTON (AP)—Just because a five day old pig had been "government inspected" didn't mean a thing to Judge W. E. Bell today. He fined Mrs. Joyce Creagle $25 for keeping the animal in the kitchen of a cafe she operates.

Wyoming Town Records Coldest U.S. Reading

DENVER (AP)—A mass of frigid air settled over the Rocky Mountain area today and sent the temperature plunging to 37 degrees below zero at Big Piney, Wyo., coldest reading in the nation.

Colorado's low was 4 below at Pueblo.

Standard Oil Income Given

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Standard Oil of New Jersey earned a net income for 1955 estimated at 717 million dollars.

M. J. Rathbone, president, told stockholders yesterday 1955 was the best year in the giant firm's history. The income estimate was a sharp increase over the 1954 net of 585 million dollars.

Stockholders voted to triple the number of Standard Oil shares and give each a par value of $7 instead of the present $15 and to split present shares 3 for 6.

They approved a proposal to increase by 10 million the authorized capital stock of 240 million shares.

Board Chairman Eugene Holman said the firm wished to broaden its base of ownership through share splitting. Holman said the 10 million added shares under the second proposal would be used for future expansion.

Directors meets Feb. 2 to consider dividend action.

Board Will Study Girlstown Appeal

AUSTIN (AP)—An advisory board of five will be named soon to study an appeal from Girlstown USA, after the state Public Welfare Department revoked its license yesterday.

Director John Winters said the license was revoked but enforcement of the order is being held up pending a study of an appeal.

The institution is operated by Miss Amelia Anthony at Whiteface in Cochran County. Winters said the institution had been notified its license would be cancelled unless it strengthened its board organization to head up responsibility for its management.

Winters said he had received notice of appeal and would appoint an advisory board. Under state law, the department has authority to license child care homes.

This board will submit its recommendations to the Welfare Department.

An order was issued Jan. 3, Winters said, revoking the license as of Feb. 3.

The Welfare Department's action was disclosed earlier in a court dispute at Lubbock over the custody of a runaway girl. The habeas corpus hearing was postponed in 1045th District Court on the motion of Hugh Harrell, attorney for Miss Anthony.

"The continuance of the hearing was requested at my insistence and instigation in order to prepare for the hearing in Austin. The continuance was granted by mutual consent of attorneys for both sides and the court," Harrell said.

The writ involved the custody of a girl, 17, who ran away from Girlstown and went to live with C. E. Ogden of Lubbock, who formerly worked at Girlstown.

In a preliminary hearing on the writ last week, Ogden told the court he worked at Girlstown about three years ago.

He said he saw a girl beaten and knew of two other instances in which he said girls were mistreated.

Fire Department Sub-Unit Proposed

(Ed. Note—This is the third in a series of articles on the $300,000 bond issue which will be submitted to taxpaying voters of Shyder on Saturday).

There are approximately 5,000 dwelling units in the City of Snyder, plus hundreds of business and commercial buildings.

These are spread over considerable territory. This is particularly true of residential units, which have been extended in various directions since the oil boom.

One area which has experienced particularly rapid expansion is Southwest Snyder, and the Fire Insurance Commission has recommended that the city construct a sub-station for the fire department in this area.

Officials have pointed out that a sub-station there would protect the insurance key rate, and at the same time would provide a more adequate distribution of equipment and personnel in case of fire emergencies.

Consequently, a new fire station in Southwest Snyder would increase the efficiency of coverage throughout the city, and would be of particular direct benefit to home owners in the southwest area.

Bond funds totalling $50,000 have been proposed for this purpose. This money would be sufficient to construct a two-unit station and equip it with two pieces of fire fighting apparatus.

If approved by the voters, the city proposes to build a "residential type" station, which means that the fire station itself would "blend" with architecture and general appearance of other buildings in the area, which, or course, are dwelling houses.

At present, the central fire station at the City Hall and the substation in east Snyder are capable to taking care of the needs of the remainder of the city. They would be in a position to increase the efficiency in these other areas if the new sub-station should be constructed to serve the sprawling southwest area.

AREA OIL ROUNDUP

Borden Wildcat Shows In Lime

Southland Royalty Co. No. 1 J. M. Higginbotham, South Borden County wildcat, six and one-half miles northeast of Vealmoor unloaded oil in a drillstem test of the Pennsylvanian reef lime at 7,977-8,016 feet.

The tool was open two hours. Gas surfaced in five minutes. There was a strong blow of air the first hour and it decreased to a fair blow for the remainder of the test.

After operator started pulling the test tool the drill pipe started unloading oil with 38 stands still in the hole. Then eight barrles of oil and two barrels of heavily oil and gas cut drilling mud was reversed out of the drill pipe.

Recovery was 750 feet of salt water. Flowing pressure was between 375 and 650 pounds. Shutin bottom hole pressure in 30 minutes was 1,400 pounds. Electric logs were being run at last report to determine whether or not there was sufficient oil pay above the water to justify running casing for a production test.

This operation is 1,998 feet from south and 1,992 feet from east lines of section 7, block 31, T-3-N, T&P survey.

Pan American Production Co. and associates No. 1 J. R. Singleton, Northwest Martin County project, one location north of the opener of the Pleasant Valley (Devonian) field; has set 5½-inch casing and plugged back to 11,012 feet.

Apparently operators are planning to test the Pennsylvanian. That zone is reportel to have logged a gas kick while being drilled through.

The same operators' No. 1 Shook, the Pleasant Valley opener is also credited with having possibilities of production in the Devonian. That zone was not tested in the No. 1 Shook, as the well completed from the Devonian.

No. 1 Singleton was dry in the Devonian and it found water in the Fusselman. It is bottomed at 12,371 feet and the casing is set at 12,341 feet.

This operation is 749.3 feet from south and 694.4 feet from west lines of labor 11, league 259, Borden County School Land survey. It is 17 miles northwest of Lenorah and 30 miles northwest of Stanton and approximately the same distance north of Midland.

Husky Oil Co. No. 1 Inez Fasken, Northwest Midland County wildcat, on the western outskirts of the city of Midland, had drilled through 240 feet of Devonian section without encountering any show of possible production in that formation.

The project called the top of the Devonian at 11,900 feet, which is on a datum of minus 9,105 feet. At last report it was making hole below 12,140 feet, and going on down toward its contract depth of 13,500 feet to test the Ellenburger.

This wildcat has logged slight shows of possible production in the Pennsylvanian. It is 856.66 feet from north and 1,750.82 feet from east lines of section 31, block 39, T-1-S, T&P survey.

Draft Board Plans Reserve Selection

The state Selective Service office has announced receipt of official regulations which authorize draft boards to select certain men for ready reserve units of the Army.

Col. Morris S. Schwartz, director of the office, said men selected must be limited to those who have occupations or activities in critical defense-supporting industry, or research affecting national defense. Draft boards have a detailed list of these occupations and activities. Men selected must also be in Class 1-A.

Draft boards cannot select men for this reserve activity, which includes up to six months of active duty for training, unless they make application for it. Men selected must spend eight years in reserves, and they are then exempt, under present law, from further military activity.

Men and their employers who have attempted to secure deferments because of civilian activity and have failed to convince local boards of their essentiality to national interest normally would be interested in this new program.

"Suppose an employer has attempted to get a deferment for a die setter who is working for him, asking for Class 2-A," Schwartz said, "and the local board has not seen fit to approve it. The die setter is faced with an impending two years in the service."

Under the newly authorized program, when all appeals or appeal rights are out of the way, the die setter can request his local board in writing to select him for the ready reserve of the Army, which includes up to six months of active duty training, then he spends seven and one-half years in the stand-by reserve which requires no drill participation. Standby reservists can be called to duty only by Congress, Schwartz said.

Under requirements of these new Selective Service regulations, the local board must suspend all other processing, including an order to report for induction, if one has been issued, and give consideration to the die setter's request for reserve enlistment.

The local board must then make a decision on the request, and the board can either grant or deny the request. But if the request is denied the die setter or his employer have the right to appeal the case to a state appeal board, and, in some cases, to the President.

When a man is selected under these regulations for enlistment in an Army unit of the ready reserve, he must enlist within 30 days after the board notifies him of his selection. The board has authority to give him more time if it wishes.

If the man so selected does not enter a reserve unit within that time, the local board, under these regulations, must process him for induction in the manner prescribed by law and regulation.

While in the reserve, the man is required to report to his local board any change in his mailing address, occupation or employment within 10 days after any such change.

Long Railroad Receivership May End Soon

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The longest major railroad bankruptcy born of the depression—the Missouri Pacific's 22-year-old receivership—may end within two months.

"It's anticipated that unless some monkey wrench is thrown into the proceedings, the receivership may end within 60 days," said Russell Dearmont, attorney for the Missouri Pacific trustee.

His comment came after the Supreme Court refused yesterday to grant a hearing to two objectors to the "agreed system" plan of reorganization.

The receivership would end with the effective date of a consummation order to be issued by Federal Judge George Moore of St. Louis.

Another appeal is pending in Federal Court and Moore's final order conceivably could be delayed if the objectors again seek a Supreme Court hearing.

Appeals involve technical objections to a feature of the reorganization plan under which 25 subsidiary corporations making up the Missouri Pacific System would be dissolved and their properties transferred to the parent organization.

This would make Missouri Pacific one of the nation's 10 biggest railroads.

The plan was approved in 1954 by the Interstate Commerce Commission and subsequently by Moore. The Federal Court of Appeals here affirmed Moore's ruling Sept. 19, and the objectors sought a Supreme Court hearing.

The pending appeal by the same objectors is on Moore's order confirming the plan after it was approved by 13 of 15 classes of security holders last spring by overwhelming majorities. Two other classes approved it by simple majorities but didn't give it a two-thirds majority.

Scout Troop Is Formed

Bob Clinton, president of the Snyder Rotary Club, has announced reorganization of the Rotary Club Boy Scout troop.

Dr. DWane R. Collines was appointed institutional representative, while Billy Fisher is committee chairman, with a committee made up of the Rev. Jay Hendren, Bob Taylor, Hugh Taylor, W. D. Everett, Jr., and Elmer Taylor.

George Elliott is scoutmaster, and Robert J. Quick is his assistant. Both are experienced in scout leadership.

Eight boys have become charter members of the troop, which will meet each Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the junior high school in a small building on the northeast corner of the campus.

The troop will serve boys in the neighborhood of the junior high who wish to become members, Clinton said.

Suspect In Kansas Bank Robbery Nabbed

DALLAS (AP)—Herbert Hoskins, 26, police character charged with being one of three who robbed a small Kansas bank was captured by the FBI last night in a Dallas tavern.

Hoskins, Louie Young Jr. and Billy Gene Ross were charged at Topeka, Kan., with a $2,000 robbery of the Richland, Kan., bank operated by Mrs. Georgia Gray, former U.S. treasurer in the Truman administration.

Ross was shot to death by Mrs. Gray's husband in their home early Saturday. Young was arrested a few hours later at Topeka.

Tax Expense Is Reported

DALLAS (AP)—Attorney's fees incurred or paid in the formation of gas units are a deductible tax expense, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled in New Orleans.

Bert Fields was awarded a $11,000 tax refund in the suit that grew out of gas exploration in 1948 in the Waskom Field of Harrison and Panola counties.

In the trial last year before Judge Atwell at Dallas the question of law involved the deductibility of attorney and survey fees in connection with the organization of oil and gas pooling units in conformity to the conservation and regulatory orders of the Railroad Commission.

It Almost Happened: Birth Behind Bars

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—San Antonio's city jail almost recorded its first birth behind bars today.

Police said there was a "near panic" among women prisoners when a woman, 23, arrested yesterday for shoplifting, showed signs of becoming a mother.

Dr. E. J. Arendt, acting city health officer who was checking the jail clinic, was called and ordered the woman to a hospital. Police described the woman as a narcotics addict.

A nurse accompanying Dr. Arendt said the woman was "in labor" but at the hospital later attendants reported the baby still hadn't arrived.

Prophet Jones Home Invaded

DETROIT (AP)—A gunman invaded the 54-room "French castle" of Prophet Jones yesterday and terrorized the household by firing a shot.

Nobody got hurt.

A spokesman for the Negro religious leader said: "We assume it was an assassination attempt since the man had a gun, wanted to see Dr. Jones, and there was no mention of money."

He said the white gunman demanded an audience with the Prophet. He fired a single shot over the heads of attendants after one of them ducked up stairs to warn the Rev. Mr. Jones.

The shot scattered the remaining attendants and the gunman fled.

The Prophet, whose congregation has showered him with costly gifts including diamonds and ermine, said afterward the incident could mean God wanted him to move from Detroit to New York. He has been shopping for a penthouse in New York where he has a large following, associates said.

The nonwhite population of the United States declined from 12.1 per cent of the total in 1900 to 10.8 per cent in 1955.

Charges Fly Fast

Our guess that the charges and revelations in Gen. Matthew Ridgway's Saturday Evening Post series would soon make the politicos and the country forget Secetary Dules' latest foot-in-mouth pronouncement received support from the second of that series.

In the first installment Ridgway's charge that President Eisenhower had wrongly stated the cutback in manpower had been the unanimous recommendation of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, of which Ridgway was a member, met a prompt rebuttal from Admiral Radford, the chairman, who said his impression was they had all agreed to it. Secretary of Defense Wilson fumbled on the one yard line by saying his impression was that Ridgway's account of it was correct—that is, that the recommendation had not been unanimous. Later Wilson rectified this blunder by agreeing with the Radford version.

But the really serious charge in Ridgway's opening article was that the cutbacks had been pre-set, a GOP "party line" decision—that is, by politicians, for political reasons.

He returns to this theme in the second installment and develops it still further. Asserting he (as Army chief of staff) had full support and cooperation from former Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens and his civilian staff Ridgway goes on.

"I must also say, regretfully, that my ideas and my efforts did not receive the same support from Secretary of Defense Wilson. From that office stemmed many suggestions that I take actions which had I done so, would have seriously impaired the Army's capability to accomplish its missions, and would have weakened rather than enhanced, the esprit, the pride, the confidence of victory, which are the basic strength of any military mission."

Finally, the clincher: " . . I would not reduce the strenght of combat units facing potential enemies overseas, thus subjecting them to the possibility of annihilation, unless I had a direct order to do so."

Peace In The Negev

One of those minor triumphs of UN diplomacy which somehow got lost in the clamor of UN failures real or imaginary, was chalked up this week in one of the hottest spots in the world, the Middle East.

Israel and Egypt accepted UN's three-point peace plan first proposed last November by UN's secretary general, Dag Hammarskjold. It involves territory in the Negev Desert which both sides claim, and where there have been many bloody clashes between Israeli and Egyptian land and air forces.

The plan now accepted by both sides includes: 1. Egypt permits the truce group to put up lines of demarcation whereever the UN group thinks they are necessary. 2. Egypt will withdraw any "minor encroachments" which might still remain in the zone. 3. Israel will remove all her military forces. Auja demilitarized zone.

The affected zone is some 20 miles long but includes only 95 square miles. Its value to either side, as plain real estate, is dubious. It may have some strategic value, but the main trouble was merely that one side didn't want the other side to have it.

Hammarskjold made his proposal after talks with the Western Big Three and UN's chief truce administrator, Maj. Gen. E. L. Burns of Canada. The secretary himself conferred with leaders of the two embattled nations, and finally came the announcement of acceptance by both sides.

The solution seems beautifully simple, costing no skin from anybody's nose—just a matter of each swallowing a little pride for the sake of peace and understanding.

Hammarskiold, the optimist, thinks the arrangement of the general Palestinian peace is possible. It is certain that the removal of this particular provocation is a step in the right direction, and perhaps a long one.

Score another minor but encouraging point for the UN's diplomatic intervention.

Soviet Leaders Create Impression That They Have Challenged Leadership Of U. S.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

The Soviet Union has led the world to believe it has challenged the world leadership of the United States. It is a long way from making the challenge stick.

With spectacular ventures Kremlin leaders, particularly in the Middle East and Asia, have created the impression in many minds that they have seized the offensive and are holding the initiative.

There are facts of life, however, that even the collective Soviet leadership must face. Barring a catastrophic economic collapse in the West, the U.S.S.R. is by its own reckoning at least 10 years away from the fundamental goals that would put sharp teeth in the challenge.

Soviet strategic planning on the home front encompasses 10 to 15 years. In that period, despite a continuing necessity for bold and conspicuous maneuvers, the Russians likely will cautiously avoid moves entailing the risk of blundering into world war. In a decade many things can happen, particularly in Soviet internal development.

That may be the period of grace for the free world to wage another kind of modern warfare on a political-economic battlefield. And free world policy may have the opportunity to bring mankind to the brink of peace.

This is an election year in the United States, complicating the conduct of foreign policy. But it is a difficult year in the U.S.S.R. too. The 20th congress of the Soviet Communist party opens Feb. 14. It will have to examine the new Moscow approach to foreign policy, to repeat fundamentals of the internal party line and the line for Communists abroad. It must nail down the policy of "all for heavy industry," which means progress without abundance. It may even clarify leadership questions.

Behind the scenes in Washington, there seems much thinking on these lines:

1. The united States is often criticized by its friends, abused by the uncommitted and badgered by its enemies. But its policies over the cold war years have built a firm foundation for the job of waging peace.

2. Instead of dismay, the new Soviet ventures into the economic aid arena should bring cheers from the free world. The U.S.S.R. made a big splash in 1955, but its actual investment in the welfare of other nations has been infinitesimal in comparison with that of the United States.

3. A prospective standoff in a few years in nuclear weapons can promote peace if it is accompanied by a determined drive on the social-economic side to meet and turn back Red challenges. Coupled with this would be a campaign to jog short memories and arouse moral indignation at the record of Soviet communism. The means for these drives exist. The method seems yet to be determined.

Members of the Soviet Communist party, noses buried deep in their compulsory homework, have received a tipoff of things to come. The journal Kommunist, in discussing agriculture, warned "it is impossible to forget the international aspect of this question." Soviet policy, it said, would depend for success on huge rises in industrial production and labor productivity —and on agricultural production— to place the U.S.S.R. in a position for successful "economic competition of socialism and capitalism."

So long as the Russians are beset with vast economic problems, the over-all initiative in this shadow war can remain with the free world. The Soviet has a long way to go even with significant advances in such areas as industrial use of atomic energy.

The Soviet State Planning Commission has been ordered to evolve a plan for developing and locating important branches of industry. This is to eliminate vast discrepancies between supply and demand in raw materials, bottlenecks of distribution, enormous transport problems.

All this ambitious program aims to ensure Soviet safety in the event of war. Even agriculture has been developed on the basis of strategic planning. At the same time the Soviet Union has indicated it will be 10 to 15 years before this program is accomplished. Until then the kremlin is unlikely to feel secure.

The U.S.S.R. apparently is digging in for a long pull. Meanwhile, the problem of leadership is unsettled. On the eve of the 20th congress there are repeated warnings against "pseudo-economists" who dared suggest some of the Soviet riches go into the consumer economy. Former Premier Georgi Malenkov is identified in the Soviet mind with this sort of "right deviation."

The Kremlin, meanwhile, waits hopefully, apparently in the belief that economic crisis in the United States evenually must bring the capitalist world to its knees. This, the Communists are told, will take place after "a period of co-existence and economic competition"—the excuse for the program of Premier Bulganin and party boss Khrushchev. The corollary is that the U.S.S.R. can conquer without a shooting war if it achieves maximum production in all fields. That seems to be a long-term goal.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

THE LIFE OF MATTHEW SIMPSON, By Robert D. Clark. Macmillan.

Simpson was a Methodist bishop and in fact the senior bishop at the time of his death in 1884 in his Philadelphia home. Born in 1811 in Cadiz, Ohio, he tried medicine but immediately turned to the pulpit, the circuit and the denominational school.

After preaching in Pittsburgh, he taught at Allegheny College, in Meadville, Pa., and was president of Indiana Asbury University. Clark calls him "chief architect" of his church in his time.

Certainly this alone justifies our interest in his biography, whether or not we are Methodists. Yet Simpson's activities covered a tempestuous period in American history, and his influence reached well beyond his church.

Man as well as Methodist, he played a role in Indiana politics, struggled to hold to middle ground in the slavery conflict, was involved in the bitter North-South division of Methodism, interceded with Lincoln on several matters, was a welcome addition to Thad Stevens' Radical Republicans.

By his rigid standards, to be sure, it seemed shocking to him for a city to pay $15,000 to hear one Jenny Lind concert: Hiram Powers' nude "Greek Slave" struck him as a debauching spectacle; James Harlan was his friend though it was Harlan who fired Whitman for "obscene" poetry. Yet here was a man of great influence. His eloquent sermons could bring tears to Lincoln's eyes; He was chosen to deliver funeral orations for the President at Washington and Springfield, Ohio. Belonging among the religious leaders of his century, he's a good find for a biographer.

Hatoyama's Wife Makes Sure He Gets His Vegetable Juice

TOKYO, Jan. 31 (AP)—The Prime Minister of Japan hates the glass of vegetable juice he has to drink with every meal. But there's always a firm, if tiny, little lady nearby to make sure he drinks it.

Mrs. Ichiro Hatoyama has been right at her husband's side during his long climb to the top in Japanese politics—while he served as a Cabinet minister before the war; as he sat out the war, jobless, in a mountain retreat; during his "purge" by the occupation for prewar writings, and after the stroke that partly paralyzed him four years ago.

The thin, gray-haired aristocratic woman is given much of the credit for his success.

At 73, the kimono-clad first lady of political Japan still maintains a heavy schedule, crammed mostly with work related to her husband's job. She believes that hard work is the only way out for her country.

"Rough, work-worn hands are the symbol of women in the new Japan," she said in the first interview she ever granted to an American news agency.

Economic Report Shows Huge Gains, But Severe Test Due In Soviet Competition

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The statistical notes which come with the President's economic report are eloquent about the success of the American economy since the end of World War II. They show that in the ten years, 1946-1955, while our population rose by 24,000,000 persons, the gross national product—measured in present buying power—rose by over a hundred billion dollars, and the money spent in personal consumption, rose by sixty billion. In spite of the first demobilization, the Korean war, and rearmament, the people's standard of living has risen much and steadily. The President's economic advisors are well justified in saying that in these ten years the American economy has "met severe tests with considerable success," has been able to expand and yet to maintain full employment without severe ups and downs.

* * *

The report has, however, nothing to say about the severe test that has now begun—that of competition with the Soviet Union. The President's economic advisors are, judging by the report, thinking inside the framework of the thirties and forties. That is to say, they are concerned with the over-riding problem posed by the great depression of 1929 which is whether a free economy can expand and protect itself against the violence of the business cycle. The Council of Economic Advisors was created by the Employment Act of 1946, and the act was passed in order to apply the lessons learned, fundamentally from the teachings of John Maynard Keynes, about the great depression. It is appropriate enough, therefore, that the economic advisors should have much to say about our success in carrying out the directives of this act.

But someone at the highest level of the government—and why not the Council of Economic Advisors?—should be examining the new test of Soviet competition. For it is certain to dominate much of the world's affairs in the years to come. This was not foreseen, was perhaps not even foreseeable in 1946 when the Soviet economy was still small and greatly damaged by the war. The challenge of Soviet competition has, in fact, come suddenly up over the horizon in the past six months.

* * *

What is it that is going to be tested? It is whether the Soviet Union is to become the model and is to be the principal guide and supplier in the industrial development of the old, densely populated and under-developed countries of Asia and North Africa. Another way to put the question is to ask ourselves whether the fabulous success of our economy is something that can be imitated in let us say Morocco, Egypt, India, and Indonesia or whether the American economy is something unique—the product of our unique geographical position and of our special history.

If the American economy is unique, then if we are to compete with the Soviet Union in the under-developed countries, we shall have to invent methods which are applicable to their economies, though they are not applicable to our own.

The crucial problem is how the capital needed for development is to be obtained. In our own formative period in the nineteenth century, we received capital on loan from private investors in Europe. In the formative period of the Soviet economy capital has been built up by the forced savings of the Russian people, a process which has meant the fierce compulsions and regimentation of the Soviet state. The question in non-Communist Asia and Africa is at bottom this: Assuming, as one must, that private investment on the early American model will not be forthcoming on an adequate scale, nor acceptable for political reasons if it were forthcoming, is there any third way that can be taken?

* * *

This, I believe, is the question to which we shall have to find the answer. There is no use telling the Asians to imitate the United States. We shall have at the outset to accept the fact that in these old, crowded, politically primitive countries, the initiative in the industrial development has to be taken by the government, that it cannot be expected to come from native private enterprise. We shall have to recognize, too, that unless these countries are to follow the Russian method of forced industrialization, they will have to get a considerable part of their initial capital from the outer world, and as a matter of fact, from the governments in the outer world.

What is more, unattractive as it must sound in Congress, these under-developed countries will have to get more capital if they are turned to the West than if they turn to Moscow. For Moscow is a standing example of how to industrialize by forced savings at home and without foreign aid. So if the Western aid is so meager that there is little visible progress in raising the standard of life, the temptation to copy Moscow is bound to become very strong. For development with freedom, though ever so much better then development with coercion, is a slower and a more expensive method.

* * *

Next year's report will, we may safely predict, have much to say about these matters on which the present report is silent. For we are drawn into a contest from which we cannot run away, a contest fought with weapons with which we are unfamiliar. It is a contest which the President and his advisors did not foresee when they went to Geneva last summer. It is a contest about which they have said almost nothing to enlighten our people, perhaps because it is a contest about which they, like the rest of us, have just begun to think.

WASHINGTON LETTER

You Can't Lose With U Win As Ambassador

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—You can't lose, when someone introducing you to the new Burmese ambassador announces, "U Win." The diplomat is a friendly, scholarly, witty man who probably doesn't yet suspect the ribbing he'll be taking from wiseacres in this country over his name.

The U is one of the most common words used in Burma. It's the Burmese equivalent for mister. Remember U Nu? He was Mister Nu to us, the Burmese Prime Minister who visited this country last year, winning many friends for his government.

Ambassador Win, who came here only a few months ago with his wife and four children, has already met most of Washington and recently he and his wife gave their first party at the embassy.

Their eldest son, Khin Maung Win, 19, is enrolled in American University here and their other sons, Tin Maung Win, 17, and Maung Maung Win, 9, and daughter, Tin Mya Win, 13, are also going to schools in the Capital. The girl executes the graceful exotic native Burmese dances very well, according to U Mgyi (Mr. Gee) an embassy official.

"As yet the children are not adjusted exactly to their new life," Mgyi told me, "They have never been out of Burma before. They're not used to the cold. And though they speak English very well, everything is new and strange to them. We keep telling them to wait until spring and they'll see how beautiful it is here."

The ambassador, who speaks English fluently, and his wife, who is just learning the language but understands it perfectly, have moved into the embassy residence on R street, the spacious and beautiful former home of the late chief justice of the Supreme Court, Charles Evans Hughes.

Ambassador Nu was born in Lower Burma and graduated from the University of Rangoon in 1905. Before coming here he was Burma's minister of national planning, culture and religious affairs; a post to which he was appointed in 1952. The only other time he's been out of Burma was when serving as high commissioner in Burma and India after his country's independence. He has also served as a member of the governor's Executive Council in charge of industry and labor before Burma got its independence from Great Britian.

Successful Oilmen Finance Many Charitable Causes

By INEZ ROBB

TULSA, Okla.—When I lived in Tulsa three decades ago, an ambitious kid named Forrest H. Lindsay ran a service station at 18th and Main Streets. Gas and oil are still Mr. Lindsay's business, but he isn't wiping windshields or changing tires any more.

Mr. Lindsay owns and operates the National Associated Petroleum Company, and last year it is reported that Mr. Lindsay and his firm dropped into the till a sum in the neighborhood of $10,000,000, a respectable total for even south of the border in Texas.

Pluck and luck and that little extra added something called nat- [illegible] and savvy, not to mention hard work, have operated in favor of Mr. Lindsay and any number of other oil operators in Tulsa, which is still the oil capital of the world, as it was in my salad days.

In this beautiful city, there are 800 oil and related industries. Scratch a Tulsan and he oozes oil. The Texas big rich make the front pages while the Tulsa big rich quietly clip coupons, air-condition their Cadillacs and line their swimming pools with mutation mink.

Tulsa harbors many oil operators in the Lindsay tradition and many "small" oil companies in the National Associated Petroleum Company category that are unknown to persons outside the oil industry. But an oil company does not have to be as big as Standard Oil of New Jersey (although it is no handicap), Sinclair, Skelly, Amerada or Aramco to make a pile of jack.

In addition to harboring many big rich unknown outside this state, Oklahoma and Tulsa, in particular, are the home of many charitable foundations of staggering size. These, too are equally unknown throughout the rest of the nation only because they are modest by comparison with the Rockefeller and Ford Foundations.

In the short time I have been here, visiting the newspaper where I got my start after I was out of school, and the people who were so kind to me then, there has been an announcement that the Warren foundation will be enriched by a minimum of $42,340,000 when the Gulf Oil Corp. acquires control of the Warren Petroleum Company.

W. K. Warren, who organized the trust or foundation for public good, is another of Tulsa's unknown big rich. Goodness knows how many millions are already in the Warren Foundation Kitty. But something new is about to be added and it's $42,340,000.

Horatio Alger stories and tales of American gumption, git-up-and-go and free enterprise are a dime a dozen in this self-made community. Mr. Warren in 1916 was the ticket seller and freight checker for the new Sapulpa and Oil Field Railroad that ran from Tulsa to the oil fields at Depew. By thus doubling in brass he made $15 each and every week.

The long and short of it is that Mr. Warren decided to get on the train, too. For him, it turned out to be a combination oil and gravy train. Long ago he started plowing his millions into good works via a foundation. Today, Tulsa is trying to find a suitable site for a new hospital offered it by the Warren trust.

The Warren Foundation is only one of the many "unknown" trusts dedicated to public good that flourish in the oil of this petroleum kingdom.

Red Proposal Was Good Try At Turning Tables

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russians' treaty of friendship offer to the United States — rejected by President Eisenhower—is a pretty clear propaganda try at turning the tables.

The Russians suffered psychological and propaganda damage when they rejected Eisenhower's sensational "open skies" proposal. It took them six months to think of an equally dramatic way to get even.

At Geneva in July Eisenhower suggested the United States and Russia agree to aerial inspection of each other's countries as a necessary step toward disarmament and protection against surprise attack by either.

With this proposal Eisenhower put the United States in the position of taking the initiative for peace. World reaction was good. Men everywhere could visualize it: airplanes taking pictures from the sky.

The proposal had the appeal which propagandists must dream about: a simple idea easily grasped. And it was bold. Upon examination it was not so simple.

It has never been clear whether Eisenhower's plan had been carefully thought out or was pulled from his hat on the spur of the moment. And he did not say whether the demand included America's overseas bases, which the Russians might want to watch more thoroughly than anything inside this country.

RADIO-TV REPORT

By CHARLES MERCER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like many another busy male citizen of the United States, President Eisenhower is not an avid viewer of television. He simply doesn't have the time.

But he is deeply interested in television and watches a variety of programs whenever he can. Available to him and Mrs. Eisenhower in various rooms of the White House living quarters are four black-and-white TV sets and one color set. They also have television sets at their farm in Gettysburg, Pa.

It would make interesting news if one could report the specific favorite programs of the President and Mrs. Eisenhower. But that's top secret. As the Eisenhowers and their official family are keenly aware, their personal likes and dislikes would attract so much public interest in certain programs that the result could be most unfair to many other programs.

Whenever possible both the President and his wife view at least one televised news program in the evening. For relaxation, when time permits the President enjoys watching a good mystry drama.

Mrs. Eisenhower, on the other hand, is an avid television watcher. She takes TV programs pretty much as they come. She enjoys music and there is one specific weekly dramatic program that is her personal pick of the many regular dramatic shows on the screen.

Naturally the Eisenhowers always are interested in seeing news program pickups of the President's televised press conferences.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty says the White House is greatly impressed by the numbers of letters that pour in after a televised press conference.

"The President thinks of television as a grat medium of both entertainment and education," says Hagerty. "He believes it should be applied to government and the news events of the world. It helps keep people informed every day."

BAD NEWS FOR TYPISTS

New Keyboard To Be Tested

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bad news, stenographers: You may have to go back to school and learn to type all over again.

But there's a bright side to it: your fingers might get a lot less tired under a new keyboard system which the government begins testing today. And your employer—the American taxpayer, in this case—stands to save a tidy sum if the new keyboard does all that's claimed for it.

Twenty - four government girls from 10 federal agencies are taking part in the four-month test. Twelve use standard typewriters. The others work out on new keyboards, which look at first glance like a stenographer's nightmare.

For instance the familiar "home row," beginning "A-S-D-F," starts out "A-O-E-U" on the new keyboard, developed by August Dvorak of the University of Washington. And the row of figures at the top goes "7-5-3-1-9-0-2-4-6-8" instead of starting at 1 or 2 and going straight on up.

All this is supposed to shift the main work load from the left hand to the right. Since most typists are right - handed, the system's backers say the result is 35 per cent more production by the average typist.

Since the government uses more than 800,000 standard machines at a cost of some $125 apiece, General Services Administration, the government's housekeeping agency figured it was worth while converting some machines to the new keyboard at a cost of $15 apiece and putting some girls to work trying them out.

GSA head Edmund F. Mansure dropped in yesterday for a trial run of the experiment. He shook hands with each girl and wished her well, but said:

"We're not endorsing this system. We only want to know if it works. If some other system works better, that's the one we'll want."

Vandals Toss Bomb Into El Paso Home

EL PASO (AP)—An El Paso high school principal said yesterday vandals tossed a flaming gasoline bomb at his home Sunday night. The flames were put out with only minor damage.

Virgil Welch, principal of a new high school, said the makeshift bomb consisted of a jar of gasoline with a handkerchief stuffed in the neck. He estimated damage to woodwork at $350.

Welch said he called down a group of boys at the school last week for wearing "gang" sweaters to school.

Builder Of Wright Plane Engine Dies

SAN FERNANDO, Calif. (AP)—The man who designed and built the airplane engine used by the Wright brothers in their Kitty Hawk flight is dead. Charles Edward Taylor, 87, died in Foothill Sanitarium last night during an asthma attack.

Early last month Taylor, destitute, was in Los Angeles General Hospital suffering from asthma and the infirmities of age. It was learned he had been existing on an $800-a-year pension from the will of Orville Wright. Yet, he was considered by aviation men everywhere to have been, literally, the "heart of the industry."

Taylor went to work in 1901 for the Wright brothers in their Dayton, Ohio, cycle factory and in 1902 they commissioned him to design the lightweight, four-cylinder built the engines that powered military aircraft and pioneer cross-country planes.

The Aircraft Industries Assn. which set up a fund to care for Taylor after his plight was learned, —said he will be buried in Valhalla Memorial Park in Los Angeles alongside such aviation figures as Bert Acosta and Walter Brookins.

Fate Of Tokyo Rose Debated

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The attorney who defended Tokyo Rose in her 1949 treason trial contends that even if the government takes away her citizenship, it could not deport her.

Wayne Collins pointed out yesterday that Mrs. Iva D'Aquino, her real name, was born in the United States. Even if she loses citizenship, he said, she would still be a "resident native of the United States—a stateless person—but not subject to removal because she would not be an alien."

Rose tantalized American servicemen in the Pacific in World War II with a radio program featuring jazz records and low-voiced talk of pretty girls. She was [illegible] and sentenced to 10 years at the federal reformatory at Alderson, W.V.

After her parole Saturday, the immigration service said it would start deportation proceedings.

Snow, Cold Covers Much Of Country

By The Associated Press

January skidded for the exits today on cold and snowy areas from the Rockies to New England.

The late January storm which brought fresh falls of snow from Kansas to New England yesterday moved off the Northeast coast during the night.

The snow cover and light winds sent temperatures tumbling rapidly over most of the country east of the Mississippi River.

Southern sections, except Florida, felt the sting of the icy air as temperatures dropped to freezing in Texas and were near 32 degrees in central Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee and northern Georgia.

It was 4 degrees below zero in Vandalia, in southern Illinois, the coldest of the season. Many other areas reported lowest readings of the winter.

The northern Rockies had the most frigid weather with below zero marks. It was —24 at Big Piney, Wyo., and at Havre, Mont., the mercury plunged to —22 after yesterday's top of 6 below.

The snowstorm left a solid blanket of white from Kansas eastward across Missouri, central Illinois and northeastward from northern Ohio to northern New England.

Heaviest falls of snow were in Kansas, with around 10 inches, while falls in other areas ranged up to 7 inches in Cleveland. Only snowfall reported during the night was in parts of the Northern Plains and the Northeast region.

Local residents will learn about the most successful hair and scalp treatments known to science in demonstrations here by F. A. Cherry, noted tricholigist.

Noted Expert Coming Here To Reveal Facts About Scalp Ailments

If you are worried about falling hair, scaly dandruff, itchy scalp, or kindred disorders, F. A. Cherry, nationally known trichologist and authority on hair and scalp, will put your mind at ease. He will conduct personal demonstrations in his suite at the Manhattan Hotel, here Wednesday, February 1, from 12:00 noon to 9:00 p.m. Science has found the way to end those troublesome disorders, says Mr. Cherry. No longer need you suffer the embarrassment of dandruff, the torment of itching, the haunting fear that you may infect other members of your family with your scalp troubles. In fact, even baldness may now be remedied in the great majority of cases; the mere presence of a light, colorless fuzz is indication of life in the hair roots, which may be restored by proper care. While in Snyder, Mr. Cherry will give FREE complete hair and scalp examinations. After one of these free private examinations he is able to tell the individual just what is wrong, and what treatments are needed to return the scalp and hair to a healthy condition.

"I wish I could say there is no such thing as a hopeless case," says Mr. Cherry. "Fortunately such cases are extremely rare. They are usually characterized by slick shiny baldness." When a private examination indicates that the case is beyond help, Mr. Cherry reveals the truth without hesitation, believing that it is better for the individual to know the facts, than to live in false hope. However, he explains that amazing results are being achieved all over America with cases which might appear hopeless to any but the skilled technician.

Guaranteed

Vir-Bet, Inc., the firm of consultants with which Mr. Cherry is associated, will accept no case for treatment unless the examining expert feels that satisfactory results can be absolutely guaranteed. "If at the end of 30 days you are not completely satisfied, your money will be refunded," the company guarantees without equivocation. "There will be no argument, no unpleasantness. You MUST be satisfied."

In his demonstration here, Mr. Cherry will describe the 18 most frequent causes of scalp disorders. He issues this warning to all who are interested: "If a recession appears at the temple, or a spot begins to show at the crown of the head, something is wrong. It could be functional, organic, or of nervous origin."

FREE EXAMINATION

Beside re-examining present clients, Mr. Cherry will demonstrate methods of treatment to those needing expert help and guidance. He will occupy a suite of rooms in the Manhattan Hotel, in Snyder on Wednesday, February 1, from 12:00 noon to 9:00 p.m. Ask at the desk for Mr. Cherry and learn what help you may expect for your hair and scalp problems, no matter how troublesome or hopeless they may seem to you.

YOU NEED NOT HAVE AN APPOINTMENT

No appointment is necessary to receive the services of this clinic. Just ask for Trichologist Cherry at the Manhatton Hotel. The examination is private. There is no embarrassment and no obligation in any way. Both men and women are welcome.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

LEVELLAND'S LOBOS suddenly found themselves in the thick of the District 1-AAA basketball title race last Saturday night when Monterey pulled a mild upset in defeating Palo Duro.

The Lobo chances are still slim, to be sure, but the outlook is much brighter for them this week than it was this time last week.

The Lobos will still have to acquire some help from some of their fellow district teams to catch two leaders, Palo Duro and Monterey.

The thing that gives the Lobos a good outlook on life is that they will catch both Monterey and Palo Duro at home before the race is concluded.

Levelland, however, has three district losses already and even if she should defeat both Palo Duro and Monterey at Lobo gym, she would still be one game behind the two leaders who would have only two defeats each.

This is where Levelland will be asking for some help from other 1-AAA teams.

Since Monterey and Palo Duro have already met each other twice, the chances for the Plainsmen and Dons to lose another game (besides their games with Levelland) appear somewhat slim.

Tigers Standing In Dons' Path

The best chance, as we see it, for Palo Duro to drop another game is when the Dons come here to meet the Tigers, Feb. 10. The Tigers, who have had their good and bad nights this season, could make it rough on the Dons by having one of their "good" nights.

The Dons, too, must meet Sweetwater at home and Plainview at Plainview in other rugged assignments.

The biggest test facing Monterey besides her game with Levelland will be against Sweetwater at Sweetwater, Feb. 16. This will be Monterey's last game and the 1-AAA title may hinge on the outcome of this tilt.

Monterey still must meet the Tigers, too, but the Plainsmen will catch the Bengals at Lubbock which will give the Hub City team a decided edge in this one.

In all due respect to a good Monterey team, it still looks like Palo Duro for the 1-AAA crown from here.

It will take teams with good big boys to stop Palo Duro and none of the teams remaining on the Palo Duro slate has that good "big boy."

Levelland has Larry Corbin, 6-8 and Sweetwater has Dale McKeehan, 6-5, but both of these boys are weak on defense. The Tigers have some good hosses under 6-4 but you're practically fighting a losing battle when you take on a team with such tremendous height as Palo Duro possesses without a big boy.

Lobos Not Likely To Beat Both Leaders

We believe Levelland will take one of the two leaders, Monterey or Palo Duro, but don't believe the Lobos can take them both. The Lobos have a better chance against Monterey because they can just about match Monterey in height.

Whichever of the two leaders fall to Levelland, if either does, the title will undoubtedly go to the other.

But then this a rugged district and anything can happen, and it probably will, from here on in.

The Palo Duro-Levelland game, incidentally, falls this week, Saturday night.

Don McNew, Tiger footballer-basketballer, returned home yesterday from Lubbock where he underwent a knee operation last week.

From all reports, the operation was a big success and McNew will be able to take his place in the Tiger baseball lineup this spring.

McNew will be hobbling about on crutches for a few days, however, before getting back to his favorite past time--sports.

Alston Signs For $32,500

NEW YORK (AP)—Walter Alston sees no danger of complacency on his 1956 Brooklyn Dodgers after their first World Series sucess.

"They all know they had to hustle to get up there and they'll have to keep hustling to stay," Alston said yesterday after signing to manage the Dodgers again for a reported $32,500 salary. "They all realize this is another year."

Alston pointed to catcher Roy Campanella, pitcher Don Newcombe and third baseman Jackie Robinson as he spoke of his hopes for the new season. He discounted the problem of the Dodgers' advancing ages.

"Campy, Newk and Jackie look pretty good to me," he said. "I think they all lost weight since the end of the season. Although they're a year older, they'll still get us plenty of runs.

"Pitching could be a problem, if we still have sore arms. It all depends on how Carl Erskine, Karl Spooner and Billy Loes come around. Roger Craig and Don Bessent should be better but you never can tell about young pitchers."

Alston singled out second baseman Charley Neal (.274), outfielder Gino Simoli (.306) and pitcher Ken Lehman (22-9) as newcomers from the Montreal farm with "good reports."

Admitting the Dodgers had "as good a chance as anybody else," Alston cautiously listed New York, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Philadelphia as the top opposition.

"We don't know how long Johnny Podres will be around before he goes into the Army. But he should be a better pitcher after that job in the Series," he said.

As for the third base rivalry between Ransom Jackson, the former Chicago Cub who was acquired in a December trade, and Robinson, Alston said it will have to be worked out in spring training.

Tigers Battle Eagles Here Tonight

Locals Out To Make It 2 In RowOver'Birds

Coach J. P. Ward's Tiger basketballers will attempt to make it two in a row over the Abilene Eagles when they meet the Warbirds at Tiger Gym.

Tipoff time has been set for 8 p.m. The game will be preceded by a B team clash between the two schools. The B game will start at 6:30.

In the first game between the Tigers and Eagles, the Bengals emerged with a 55-53 overtime victory at Abilene, Jan. 17.

The first game wound up at 53-53 and Dwayne Prince of the Tigers dropped one in from the corner for the only two points in the overtime period.

Abilene, which held a seven-point lead going into the final quarter in the first game with the Bengals, had to battle from behind to send the game into overtime. Bruce Boyd connected from the field with seven seconds left to tie the game up for Abilene and send the game into overtime.

Several members of the Eagle football team, state champions in Class 4A, are members of the Eagle basketeers. Two of the grid stalwarts are starters for the Warbird cagers, Glynn Gregory and David Bourland.

Gregory was selected on the All-State team while Bourland gained Honorable Mention. Gregory is a halfback and Bourland a quarterback in football. In basketball, Gregory plays a forward position while Bourland is a guard.

Gregory, despite his late start with the Eagle cagers, ranks in the top five in scoring with 137 points.

Boyd is the top Eagle scorer with 250 points. Mike Lockerd is the second leading Eagle with 184 points, then comes Gregory and Leslie Strange with 137 each. Ted Lucas rounds out the top five in the Eagle ranks with 136.

Milton Ham tops the Tigers with 302 points, followed by Jerry Taylor with 223; Alan Snead with 205; Jack Spikes with 160; and Powell Berry with 85. These five will likely start for the Tigers tonight unless Robert Dabbs, who has been coming along fast, is inserted in the starting quintet.

The Tigers will carry a 10-9 season record into tonight's game as compared to Abilene's 9-10.

In 1-AAA games tonight, Lamesa goes to Big Spring and Sweetwater to Plainview.

Dons Hike Lead In AP Cage Poll

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

The San Francisco Dons, who remained undefeated through last Saturday's battle of the Deep Freeze against California and set a new record for college basketball winning streaks, seem to be just as thoroughly installed at the top of the basketball rankings.

After winning their 40th straight game—and their 14th this season—by the unusual score of 33-24, the Dons scored 1,357 points in the Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters to tighten their hold on the No. 1 ranking.

San Francisco received 90 first-place votes out of 148 ballots and 34 for second place. Fewer than a dozen unbelievers dared put the Dons lower than fourth. Points were scored on the usual basis of 10 for first, 9 for second, etc.

Dayton's Flyers, who suffered their first defeat after winning 14 straight, held onto second place ahead of upsurging Vanderbilt.

While Dayton was losing to Louisville, 66-64 in overtime, Vanderbilt's Commodores turned in a decisive 81-73 decision over Kentucky and St. Louis University beat Cincinnati by an impressive 104-86 score.

As a result of these three games, Vanderbilt leaped from seventh place to third in the rankings. Louisville vaulted from ninth to fifth and Kentucky dropped from third to eighth.

Although running their winning streak to 13 for the season, unbeaten Temple pushed down one place to seventh, just behind Big Ten leader Illinois, which also lost ground.

North Carolina State, fourth; North Carolina, ninth; and Duke, tenth, completed the top 10.

The leaders, with first-place votes in parentheses:

1.	San Francisco (90)	1,357
2.	Dayton (3)	898
3.	Vanderbilt (13)	822

McKeehan Leading 1-AAA Scorer

Dale McKeehan, 6-4 Sweetwater Mustang center, continues to set an amazing pace in the District 1-AAA individual scoring race.

McKeehan has poured in 250 points in 11 games to hold a commanding lead in the individual scoring battle. The Mustang pivot man leads Gene Arington of Palo Duro, second leading scorer, by 36 points.

Arington however, who has 214 points, has played one less game than McKeehan. McKeehan, nevertheless, sports the best average in the district with 22.7. Arington's average is 21.4.

Another Palo Duro player, Robert Hover, holds down third place with 202 points. These three lads are the only players above the 200 mark in conference play.

A total of 26 1-AAA players have scored 100 or more points. Three of these are members of the Tiger squad, Milton Ham with 157; Alan Snead with 117; and Jerry Taylor with 114. Ham ranks ninth in the district.

Following is a list of 1-AAA players who have scored 50 or more points in 1-AAA play:

IN FIGURE SKATING

Miss Albright Increases Lead

By TED SMITS

CORTINNA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—Tenley Albright, a poised 20-year-old New England girl who whipped polio to become the world's best woman figure skater, increased her lead over teammate Carol Heiss today in the winter Olympic games.

After four figures of the compulsory phase of the competition, Tenley and the 16-year-old Miss Heiss were far out in front. America appeared sure to win a gold medal here when free skating winds up the competition Thursday.

Meanwhile, Sverre Stenersen, a 26-year-old veteran, retained Norway's monopoly in the Nordic combined skiing championship; Austria's Toni Sailer, shooting for his second championship of the games, took an early lead in the men's special slalom and Oleg Gontcharenko, Russia's former world champion, smashed the Olympic record in the 10,000 meter speed skating race.

Brooks Dodge, a 26-year-old engineer from Gorham, N.H., was a surprise third in the special slalom behind Sailer, who earlier captured the giant slalom.

The icy Canalone Course was extremely hazardous, with falls frequent. Andreas Molterer, another Austrian favorite, fell on the treacherous slopes and withdrew. So did Wallace (Bud) Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colo.

Sailer, a handsome 21-year-old plumber, whipped down the course in 1 minute, 27.3 seconds for his first of two runs. He was closely followed by Adrien Duvillard of France in 1:27.5 and Dodge in 1:27.6.

Ralph Miller, a 22-year-old soldier from Hanover, N.H., skiing bareheaded, had 1:34 on his first trip.

Tommy Corcoran of Westfield, N.J., had 1:37.1 on his first cruise down the Canalone Course.

At the high Misurina Course, where the Russians already have swept three speed skating titles, Gontcharenko, a powerfully-built young man of 24, clipped 3.5 seconds from the Olympic 10,000 meter (6 miles, 376 yards) mark set by defending champion Hialmar Andersen of Norway at Oslo in 1952 in speeding over the track in 16 minutes, 42.3 seconds. The Norwegian also holds the world record of 16:32.6.

North Carolina State expects Ronnie Shavlik, a senior from Denver, to lead the team in basketball scoring again this season. He make 707 points last season for a 22.1 average.

Babe Going Home

GALVESTON (AP)—Babe Zaharias, the great woman athlete, was to fly to her Tampa, Fla., home today where she said she plans to rest and play golf again.

Her plane was to leave the Houston Airport at 7:30 a.m..

She was officially released from John Sealy Hospital Saturday after undergoing treatment for pains in one leg following a second bout with cancer.

Mrs. Bob Womack will furnish organ music during the dinner, while entertainment will be by students. During the evening the year's DE sweetheart will be crowned. Candidates are Linda Palmer, Betty Green, and Gay Smyers.

The program will be closed by a responsive reading of the DE creed, led by Von Dell Drinkard.

Brawl Started In Tennessee Concert Hall

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A bottle-throwing brawl between Negro dancers and white spectators interrupted a concert-dance here last night.

Three white persons and three Negroes were hurt slightly and nine Negroes were arrestd on disordrly conduct charges.

City and county officers waded into a barrage of flying bottles and chairs to break up the melee. No estimate was available on the number of participants.

The fight came during the closing hour of a dance and concert which featured Roy Hamilton, a well-known Negro singer. The affair was primarily for Negroes, but a special section of Memorial Auditorium was reserved for white spectators.

It was estimated 3,000-4,000 Negroes and more than 1,000 white persons were present.

Police said the affray was touched off when a Negro member of the Hamilton troupe sat down in the dress circle, an area surrounding the dance flood and reserved for the white spectators. Another Negro, also unidentified, tried to remove him and the two began fighting, officers said.

Negro dancers joined in the brawl and bottle throwing by both races began. Officers said it was not known whether whites or Negroes hurled the first object.

Police dispersed the crowd in about an hour and made the arrests. Four of those jailed also were charged with public drunkenness, officers said. All will be tried later today.

Hamilton was not available for comment. No member of his group was hurt or arrested.

Pie Pushing Price Is High

SEDA IA, Mo. (AP) — Station KDRO-TV, staging a money-raising program for the polio fund by taking telephoned pledges, got this offer from one viewer:

He would pay $5 to see Patrolman Leroy Kidwell get hit in the face with a pie.

Police Chief Edgar Neighbors, on the program, called Kidwell out of bed and summoned him to the TV station.

"Not for $5," Kidwell demurred. "But I'll do it for $50."

Calls started pouring in, and when the pledges reached $65 Kidwell got popped in the puss with a pie.

Kidwell writes overtime parking tickets six days a week.

Two Men Rescued In Alaskan Area

NOME, Alaska (AP)—Brig. Gen. John R. Noyes, commander of the Alaska National Guard, died in a Nome hospital last night, a few hours after his dramatic rescue from the wreckage of a crashed plane.

NOME, Alaska (AP)—The injured commander of the Alaska National Guard and a disabled companion were removed from the shattered remains of their plane yesterday in a daring rescue by three pilots and a druggist.

Brig. Gen. John R. Noyes was reported in critical condition with numerous injuries and extreme exposure.

Maj. Robert Kolb, pilot of the Guard plane, was hospitalized with minor injuries. He too was frozen from three days spent huddled in the wreckage with Noyes, who could not be moved until aid came.

Noyes' twisted body remained in the same position it took Friday when the plane in which he and Kolb were riding with two other men crashed into the top of a high mountain and slid 300 feet down its icy slopes.

The crash scene was 25 miles northeast of this bleak northern outpost across the forbidding Bering Strait from Soviet Siberia.

The two men riding with Noyes and Kolb, Sgt. Richard August of Nome, the mechanic, and Maj. Francis Siegwart, commander of the Alaska National Guard's 1st Scout Battalion here, started the long walk from the crash scene to Nome Sunda, two days after the plane crashed.

They were spotted from the air and intercepted on the ground shortly after a Civil Air Patrol plane piloted by Phillip Lancaster of Nome located Noyes' downed craft.

Siegwart was uninjured. August was suffering extreme exposure.

Lancaster and his flying companion Martin Olson landed their light craft at the top of the plateau-like mountain and were soon joined by Bill Munz, another bush pilot, and Nome druggist Boyd Harwood, in another plane.

Two paramedics summoned by radio administered first aid to Noyes and Kolb.

Then, with a slip meaning a tumble of yards, the three bush pilots and Harwood started a tortuous journey to the summit of the mountain with the injured men on stretchers.

From the top of the mountain the two injured men were flown to Nome.

Infant In Frozen Condition Is Found

WASHINGTON (AP) — An infant found in a frozen condition on a doorstep yesterday was pronounced dead at general hospital, but later gave out a few feeble gasps and was revived.

The infant, a boy, had a temperature of 73 degrees and no detectible heartbeat when examined at the hospital after being found on a front porch in the northeast section of the city. Doctors estimated he was about five weeks old.

Artificial respiration was applied. When the feeble gasps were noted, the baby was given oxygen and adrenalin.

In two hours the baby's temperature had climbed to 96 degrees, only 2.6 below normal. It was 100 this morning.

Authorities had no clues to the infant's identity.

'Thank You' With Stamps

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department has developed a device to say "thank you" when a customer pops coins into a stamp vending machine.

The device works by tape recording and says, "Thank you for buying stamps."

Postal officials have told a House Appropriations subcommittee the first seven of these devices cost about $4,000 each. They estimated future cost at less than $1,000 apiece.

In a less advanced state of development, they said, is another machine which the department hopes will be able to read addresses on letter mail and automatically segregate letters by cities. This machine already has been "educated" to read "Washington, D. C." stamped or typed on envelopes, they said.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Basic Taxpayer Classes Listed

(Second of a Series)
By FRAND O'BRIEN
A P Newsfeatures

Every income taxpayer falls into one of four basic taxpayer classes. It can be considerable dollars-and-cents value to you to find and use the status most favorable to you.

The four classes are:

1. The separate return, 2. the joint return of husband and wife, 3. the special joint return for recent widows and widowers, and 4. the special "head of household" return for single, or legally separated persons.

The law lays down specific conditions under which each of these may—or must—be used. Here is a description of these conditions, to help you find the taxpayer status most advantageous to you:

* * *

1. THE SEPARATE return can be used either by single taxpayers, or by married taxpayers who wish to file individual returns. If husband and wife file separately, both must have income under the laws of their state (in community property states, the wife has half the family income, even though she may earn nothing directly). The separate return applies only to the income, exclusion and deductions of the individual filer, but in community property states, deductions may be divided half and half between husband and wife if based on expenses paid from the community income). When husband and wife file separately, and one itemizes deductions, both must do so. Table I, page 14 of the instructions gives you the formula for finding your tax.

* * *

2. A joint return may be filed by husband and wife even though only one had income during the year. It must include all the income and deductions of both husband and wife. You can file jointly on either form 1040A or 1040. No joint return may be filed if either husband or wife was a nonresident alien at any time during the year.

You are eligible to file a joint return if you were married any time during the year and remained married the rest of the year. You are not eligible if you were divorced, or legally separated, any time in the year, up to and including Dec. 31.

Both husband and wife must sign a joint return, and each is legally responsible for the whole return.

The advantage is this—when you come to figuring your tax, your joint income is split into equal parts, and your tax is the combined tax on the two halves. This usually results in a smaller tax than figuring the tax on the joint income as a whole. Table II on pg. 14 of the instructions — new this year—takes most of the arithmetic out of finding the joint return tax, because the income splitting and tax adding are built into it.

* * *

3. THE 1954 TAX LAW revision gave a break to recent widows or widowers. If your husband or wife died any time in 1955 you can file a joint return for the full year, claiming an exemption for your deceased spouse, and in general filing just as though both had lived out the entire year. If your wife or husband died in 1954, you can file a modified joint return for 1955. In this, you claim only your own exemption, income and deductions, but you use Tax Rate Schedule II in figuring your tax, getting the split income benefit.

There are certain conditions attached to joint filing by widows or widowers. They are: You must not have remarried (if you have, of course, you can file jointly with your new wife or husband), you must have been entitled to file jointly with your deceased wife or husband at the time of death, and since that time you must have maintained a home which is the principal living place of a child or stepchild for whom you are entitled to an exemption.

* * *

4. THE SPECIAL head of household provision is for single (including divorced or legally separated) persons who maintain a household. You are also eligible if you were married during any part of 1955 to a nonresident alien. To be eligible, you must maintain a home in which lives your unmarried child, stepchild or grandchild, whether or not a dependent of yours, or a person for whom you can claim an exemption. You are also eligible if you pay more than half the cost of a separate home for your father or mother, if either qualifies as a dependent of yours.

If you fit this description your tax will be lower than if you file a separate return. Table II on pg. 14 of the instructions pampalet will give you your special rate.

The next thing in filing your income tax return after deciding your most advantageous tax status is claiming your exemptions. This is the provision of the law that frees the most income, for most people, from taxation. So it is to your advantage to claim all exemptions to which you are entitled. But since exemptions do liberate so much income from taxation, the rules about them are rigid, and strictly applied.

Each exemption sets aside $600 of your income, tax free. You get one exemption for yourself, and one for your wife (if you file jointly, otherwise, each claims one exemption separately). You get one exemption for each of your children (including adopted children and stepchildren) who can be included within the following restrictions laid down by the law:

The child received more than half his support from you in 1955; was not yet 19 years old in 1955, or, if 19 or over, was still a student or earned less than $600 during the year. You can claim a married child as a dependent giving you an exemption if the married child fits the general description of child dependents above, and did not file a joint return with his or her spouse for 1955.

There are others you can also claim for exemptions, and they include anyone who fits the following conditions:

Had less than $600 income in 1955; got more than half his or her support from you during the year; was not party to a joint return; was a citizen or resident of the United States, or was a resident of Canada, Mexico, the Republic of Panama or the Canal Zone; was a member of your household, or was related to you (or to your wife or husband, if you are filing a joint return) as a mother, father, mother or father-in-law, brother, sister or step brother or sister or brother or sister-in-law, son or daughter-in-law, step mother or father, grandmother, father, son or daughter, or (when related by blood) as aunt, uncle, nephew or niece.

There are special exemptions (applicable only to the taxpayer, including husband and wife on a joint return) for the aged and the blind. Blind taxpayers get two exemptions ($1,200) each. Those 65 or over also get two exemptions each. Taxpayers 65 or over, and blind, get three exemptions each ($1,800). Thus, a married couple each blind and 65 or over, would be able to exempt $3,600 of their income—the same as a younger, sighted couple with four children.

A survey shows California has more subcontractors and suppliers for the aircraft industry than any other state—10,314—with Ohio second 4,487; New York 3,382; Texas 1,615 and Connecticut 1,513.

Little America Is Made Up Of Thick Ice Coat

LITTLE AMERICA V (AP)—This main base in America's antarctic Operation Deepfreeze stands on a floor of snow and ice 600 to 800 feet thick.

Below, seismographic studies show today, there is water to a depth of 1,500 feet. And below that is about 350 feet of silt resting on the bed rock of the antarctic.

This information was supplied Rear Adm. George Dufek, commander of Navy Task Force 43, by the Rev. Daniel Linehan, seismologist of Boston College.

The Little America base is located three miles inland from Kanan Bay, on the Ross Shelf, which covers an area of 160,000 square miles. The shelf has been built up by thousands of years of snowfall and glacier ice sliding down the mountains from the giant plateau covering the antarctic interior.

Experts estimate the coastal area of the Ross Shelf expands outward about four feet a day under the force of its own weight and that of the glaciers pushing down from the mountains. Thus, a year from now, Little America V is likely to be more than a quarter of a mile farther north than it is today.

Good news was received, meanwhile, from the trail-blazing party penetrating deep into Byrd Land to locate the site of another base American scientists will use for the International Geophysical Year observations next year.

The seven-man party was reported moving east again after being stopped for 2½ days by a blinding whiteout.

Assassins In South Korea Being Hunted

SEOUL (AP) — The two assassins who shot to death South Korea's chief of counterintelligence are "both serving in the ROK military forces," a highly placed police official said today.

He said they "are definitely inside Seoul, under apparent protection of some influential circles, and will probably be arrested within 24 hours." He declined to identify them or their protectors.

Maj. Gen. Kim Chang Yong, 37, was shot three times as he was leaving home for work yesterday.

The tough Red-hunter who enjoyed the personal confidence of President Syngman Rhee was posthumously promoted to lieutenant general. A military funeral will be held for him Friday.

BACK TO WORK IN ANTARCTICA—A not very willing sled dog is led to harness from the icebreaker U.S.S. Edisto, background, after the arrival of the ship at McMurdo Sound, the jumping off point for "Operation Deep Freeze," the current Antarctic expedition led by Admiral Richard E. Byrd. The end of the long trip by ship spelled the end of a long rest for the sled dogs that from here on in will share the work load of the expedition with planes. This is one of the first pictures from the expedition to reach the United States.

Residence Of Negro Minister Bombed In Alabama Violence

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—An explosion last night damaged a Negro minister's home in a new flareup of violence stemming from the prolonged boycott by Negroes of the city's transportation system.

Minutes after the blast the minister, who has been an outspoken leader in the movement protesting segregated-seating laws, appealed to a crowd gathered at the scene to remain calm in the face of mounting racial tension here.

Police said either a hand grenade or dynamite shattered windows at the home of the Rev. M. L. King.

No one was injured.

This was the first violence reported since the first week of the boycott last Dec. 5. Shots were fired at a few buses during that first week but there were no injuries and little damage.

The City Commission offered a reward of $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for the bombing.

King's wife, and their 7-week-old daughter were in the home alone when they heard a thud "like a brick hitting the front porch."

They ducked into a back room just as the explosion shattered windows, ripped a hole in the porch and cracked a porch column.

Arriving home 15 minutes after the explosion from a mass meeting at a church, the Rev. Mr. King asked about 300 Negroes gathered outside his home to be "peaceful."

"Don't get panicky," he said, "Don't get your weapons. He who lives by the sword will perish by the sword. Remember that is what God says . . ."

Mayor W. A. Gayle told the Negroes at the scene that the "entire white community is for law and order and none of us condone or believe in these sort of acts."

King, 27-year-old pastor of the Dexter Avenue Baptist Church, was fined $14 last Saturday for driving 30 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone. He denied the charge and blamed his arrest on Gayle's statement that the City Commission was through "pussyfooting around" with boycotters.

Diplomatic Flub Made

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sir Anthony Eden tripped over one of the diplomatic niceties at a state dinner last night. The British Prime Minister did not propose the customary toast to President Eisenhower.

It was assumed that Eden, a veteran diplomat, forgot his closing lines in addressing the dinner guests. He paid tribute to Eisenhower but sat down without offering a toast.

Eisenhower did not attend the dinner, given by Secretary of State Dulles. The president is foregoing the social activities connected with Eden's current visit.

Just before Eden spoke, Dulles had concluded his remarks to the gathering by proposing a toast to Queen Elizabeth.

Taxes From Gambling

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—Nevada collected a record $4,750,144 in revenue from the gambling industry in 1955, the State Tax Commission announced today. That more than doubled the record of $2,203,483 set in 1954. The big jump resulted partially from an increase in the tax rate.

Britain Plans Explosion Of Gigantic Bomb

LONDON (AP)—The London News Chronicle said today Britain will explode its first hydrogen bomb "somewhere in the South Pacific next year."

The story, which gave no source for the information, said the bomb will be of an immensely powerful three-decker type—with an atomic bomb trigger, a middle shell of hydrogen and an outer layer of uranium.

There was no immediate comment from officials on the report. Britain has scheduled a nuclear weapons test off Australia in April but Australian sources have said a hydrogen weapon would not be set off.

The News Chronicle said a team of British scientists already is exploring possible test areas in the Pacific and added:

"It has been decided that, if a ground test is objected to be other countries, the bomb will be exploded in the air between three and four miles up so that the fireball cannot touch the earth's surface."

The Soviets announced last November they had exploded their most powerful H-bomb so far high in the air to safeguard against harmful radioactive influences. The first man - made hydrogen fusion device was set off by the United States on the ground at its Bikini Atoll testing site.

Senate Debate Being Limited On Gas Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—An agreement to limit debate has assured a Senate vote early next week on a bill to exempt natural gas producers from direct federal regulation.

Forces for and against the measure accepted the debate limitation without dissent late yesterday. Debate, now in its third week, will be limited Monday to an hour on each amendment, with up to three hours of discussion to precede a vote on final passage.

The House approved 209-203 last year a measure almost identical to the Senate bill.

Sen. Hennings (D-Mo), opposing the measure, called on Congress to "investigate the country's giant oil companies to see whether the anti-trust laws and the Corrupt Practices Act (federal election laws) are adequate to protect the people against a powerful price fixing monopoly working in politics through both major parties."

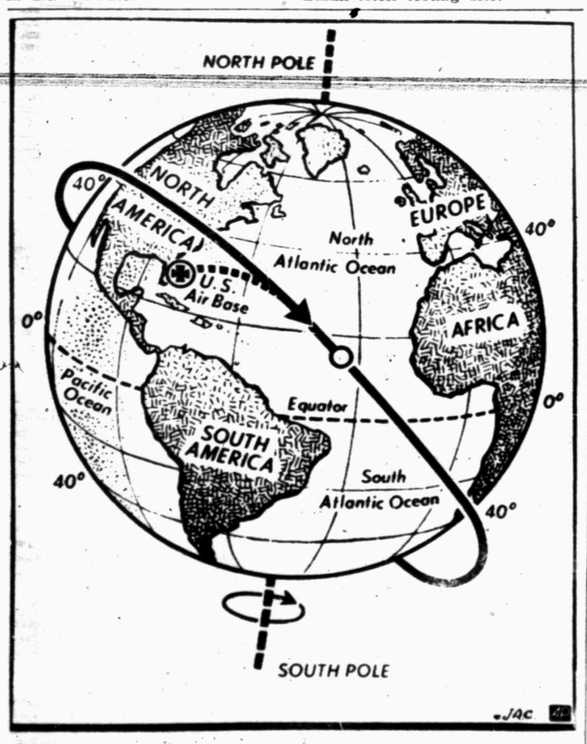
He assailed the bill as designed "to protect monopoly pricing of oil as well as gas, and to prevent public disclosure of the use of great concentrated wealth to influence the nation's political decisions."

Hennings said that "while the Natural Gas Bill has the support of a small part of the Democratic party leadership in both House and Senate, it is opposed by the great majority of the Democratic party throughout the country and by most of the party's representatives in both houses."

Backers include Speaker Rayburn and Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson, both of Texas.

Hennings called natural gas "merely a by-product for the oil companies which primarily are interested in the sale of oil."

"The giant oil companies," he said, "already are able to pay large dividends, and stand in no need of public relief or public aid or legislative assistance of any kind whatsoever."



SATELLITE PATH—This is the elliptical orbit around the earth which scientists announced will be the path of the first made-in-America satellites. After launching from Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., satellites will follow a course about 5,000 miles wide along the equator, ranging from the two latitudes of 40 degrees, north and south. The satellites will be about 30 inches in size and weigh 21.5 pounds each.
