Japanese Terrorists Arrive At Damascus

United Press International

Four Japanese Red Army terrorists aboard a French airliner landed today at Damascus airport and were reported dickering with Syrian authorities over permission to debark and thus end a saga that began last Friday when three of them seized the French Embassy in The Hague.

The three gunmen, along with their Red Army companion released from a French jail, freed the last nine of their hostages in the Hague Tuesday night and flew with $300,000 ransom money to Aden, the capital of Marxist South Yemen, where they refueled and took off without disclosing their destination.

When the plane and its volunteer Dutch and British crew approached Middle East air space again today, Israeli security forces went on full alert at the Tel Aviv airport, mindful of a previous incident there when Arab and Japanese terrorists killed 28 persons.

There had been reports the terrorists might seek asylum in North Korea, a favorite refuge of Japanese Red Army terrorists, or in the African states of Tanzania and Sudan, which have been lenient in the past to Arab guerrillas. Damascus airport authorities said they were now seeking refuge in Syria.

In The Hague, Count Jacques Senard, the French ambassador and principal hostage seized by the Japanese, told of five days of terror at gunpoint, starvation and impossible sanitary conditions since the commandos refused to allow the hostages to go to the toilet. The Japanese seized 11 hostages but released two women on Monday.

Strict security precautions were quickly put into effect at the Damascus airport and a number of Syrian officials appeared on the scene for direct negotiations with the hijackers.

Damascus Airport sources said the hijackers have conveyed their demands to the Syrian officials "who are considering them in the light of the Syrian government policy."

One of these demands, according to the same sources, "is permission to allow the hijackers to debark in Damascus."

"It will take some time before the officials decide whether or not to agree to the demands," the sources said.

As soon as the plane landed, airport officials, "at instructions from the government officers at the airport," ordered the steps to be moved over to the plane. "But the hijackers demanded that the steps be removed immediately and that all journalists should be kept away," the airport sources said.

Beirut officials blocked airport runways to prevent it from landing there.

Israeli security forces, including soldiers and border policemen, went on alert at BenGurion International Airport outside Tel Aviv when radio signals indicated the plane was approaching neighboring Syria.

The Israeli precautions were prompted in part by memory of a "Red Army" operation at the airport in May, 1972, when three Japanese killed 28 persons and wounded 79 others in the main arrivals terminal.

Ford Reveals Proposals To Help Hungry Nations

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — President Ford said today the United States will increase its food aid to hungry nations and is willing to join in a worldwide effort to establish an international system of food reserves.

He told the 29th session of the United Nations General Assembly that the world's nations must cooperate "on oil, food and inflation" or they may face "disaster."

"A global strategy for food and energy is urgently needed," he declared.

It was Ford's first major foreign policy speech as president. He promised the world's representatives "straight talk." While he sketched out broad policies in many areas, hunger was the subject on which he was most specific. He promised three steps:

—The United States will "substantially increase" its aid designed to help other countries grow more food on their own.

—"Next, to ensure that the survival of millions of our fellow men does not depend upon the vagaries of weather, the United States is prepared to join in a world-wide effort to negotiate, establish and maintain an international system of food reserves. But each nation must determine for itself how it manages its reserves."

—To meet immediate needs, the United States will increase the amount it spends on food shipments to nations in need.

"Thus," the President said, "the United States is striving to help define and contribute to a cooperative global policy to meet man's immediate and long-term need for food."

Details of the food reserve proposal were not spelled out, but Ford said the United Sates will set forth comprehensive proposals at the World Food conference in Rome in November.

Setting forth four basic foreign policy pledges, Ford said his administration will:

—Pursue a more peaceful, stable and cooperative word.

—"Seek out and expand relations with old adversaries." China was the only example he mentioned. Cuba would also fit.

—Strive to heal the world's "old wounds": Cyprus, the Middle East, Indochina.

Specifically on food and energy, he said, countries must increase production, seek prices which are an incentive to producers and which consumers can afford, avoid "abuse of man's fundamental needs for the sake of narrow national or bloc advantage" and, finally, assure that the poorest nations "will not be overwhelmed by rising prices of imports necessary for their survival."

Celanese Co., Cabot Raise UF Pledges

W.L. Loving, chairman of the United Fund's Major Gift Division announced today that the combined pledge of Celanese Chemical Co., and Cabot Corp. totaled $15,000; an increase of 48 percent over the last years contributions.

"The Pampa plant's check for $3500 reflects the corporate 'Fair Share Gift' which is determined by the nationwide average gift per employe within our industry, and represents an increase for Celanese of 46 percent over last year", said Gene Steel, plant manager.

Steel added that this amount represents only the company contribution and that he anticipates a 10 percent increase in employe contributions, which should total over $4,000.

O.M. Prigmore, general manager U.S. domestic Carbon Black Production, announced that the 1974 - 75 Cabot foundation pledge is $12,000 or 50 percent above last year.

"This year's gift was improved primarily due to the enthusiastic response to the 'matching commitment program' instituted last year," Prigmore said. "Once again management has agreed to meet the employes contribution and we are enthusiastic that it will be as sucessful this year as it was last year."

Officials of the 1974 United Way Campaign View the increased pledges by Cabot and Celanese as being a major contributor to the success of this year's campaign and are proud of their continuing roles as active leaders in the community.

TO GAIN MANDATE

Wilson Orders Elections To End Long Stalemate

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson today ordered a parliamentary general election Oct. 10 in a bid to break a six-month-long political stalemate and win a new five-year mandate to deal with Britain's economic crisis.

Wilson's governing Labor party said if it wins it will push through a program of frankly Socialist measures, including state control of wide sectors of industry still in private ownership.

Because the Wilson government does not command a majority in the present parliament, the Conservatives and Liberals together have been able to block such measures so far.

Wilson made the election announcement in a brief statement from his 10 Downing Street office that Queen Elizabeth has "graciously signified" she will comply with his request to dissolve the present parliament.

The announcement came after weeks of mounting speculation that Wilson would hold an October election. Although the campaign only opens officially next Monday, all three main parties already have published their election manifestoes.

Before releasing the announcement, Wilson informed his cabinet at an unscheduled one hour meeting.

He also informed Conservative party leader Edward Heath and Liberal party leader Jeremy Thorpe. Heath cut short a pre-campaign speaking tour in eastern England and returned to london.

Officials said Wilson will address the nation on television and radio this evening.

Under Britain's constitutional monarchy the Queen dissolves parliament by proclamation on the "advice" of the prime minister.

Officials said the proclamation will be issued Friday.

Wilson informed the queen of the election date when he visited her at Balmoral Castle in Scotland 10 days ago.

Political sources said inflation is likely to be the top issue in the election campaign.

Britain experienced a 16 per cent inflation rate in 1973, one of the highest in the Western world. Official forecasts predict the 1974 rate will be at least, 20 per cent.

It will be the second time Britons have been called to the polls in less than seven months.

The Conservatives and Liberals combined on seven occasions to defeat government legislation before parliament started its summer recess at the beginning of August.

TO PREPARE PLANS

EPA Okays Grant For Plant Project

By TEX DEWEESE

A $51,000 grant has been approved by the Environmental Protection Agency covering 75 percent of the cost of preparing final plans and specifications for Pampa's proposed $1.2 million sewage treatment plant project.

Pampa applied for the grant last May estimating total cost of preparing the plans at $68,000. The federal grant will take care of all but $17,000.

City Manager Mack Wofford said yesterday's grant was not a construction grant and applies only to preparing plans and specifications for the entire project.

The city manager said the city still has not received any word on 75 percent federal aid on the entire project.

Exact cost of the sewage plant remodeling will not be determined until final plans are completed, Wofford stated, adding that the $1.2 million estimated cost could change.

He said yesterday's grant was a good indication the city will receive federal aid on the entire project.

City voters will be called upon to approve a bond issue for the difference between the government's 75 percent contribution and the total cost.

Figuring the cost at the estimated $1.2 million, the bond issue could be for as much as $276,000 as Pampa's share and the government funding $924,000 of the total.

In the letter to the city manager, Aruthur W. Busch, EPA regional administrator in Dallas, stated the "grant offer can be made when it is confirmed that the project meets all federal and state requirements."

Busch said that after making an environmental review of the Pampa project, the EPA decided not to require or prepare an environmental impact statement.

Busch stated in the letter that an evnivronmental impact appraisal of the local situation, which summarizes the review and the reasons an impact statement is not required, currently is on file in the Dallas EPA office and is avilable for scrutiny upon request.

Area Officials To Study TRC Gas Decision

Pampa will send a representative to a meeting in Lubbock Thursday, Sept. 26, to study effects of the Texas Railroad Commission's rejection of Lone Star Gas Company's petition for 100 percent "pass through" costs of gas.

The meeting has been called by Fred Poe, chairman of the Steering Committee of the West Texas Utilities Commission.

Poe is asking representatives of all cities in the West Texas System of Pioneer Natural Gas Co. to meet with officials of the utility to discuss just where the cities stand as a result of the railroad commission's decision.

Pampa and other cities on Pioneer's West Texas System have an agreement with Pioneer allowing the 100 percent "pass through" on costs of gas.

Pampa City Manager Mack Wofford said today he understood the Lubbock meeting is being called to determine what the immediate future promises as far as the cost of gas is concerned.

Freed POW Says He's Last Captive

CLARK AIR FORCE BASE, Philippines (UPI) — Civilian pilot Emmett Kay, looking relaxed and healthy after his release from Communist captivity in Laos, said on arrival here tonight he believes he was the last American prisoner of war in Laos.

"As far as I know, I was the only American," Kay told reporters at this huge U.S. Air Force base 60 miles north of Manila.

U.S. officials have reported some 300 Americans still missing in Laos.

Kay, 47, was released earlier in the day in Vientiane, the Laotian captial, after 16 months in the hands of the proCommunist Pathet Lao. He was flown to Vientiane from the Pathet Lao capital in Sam Neua aboard a British Embassy plane.

He was greeted there by his wife, Flora, who had been so excited she told reporters "I've got butterflies."

Kay said his captors had treated him "very well," but medical authorities said he had lost 20 pounds while in captivity.

He said he had been permitted recreation and specifically metioned volleyball and listening to the radio.

Asked if he made any friends among his captors, the tall, angular pilot from Hawaii said, "Oh, yes; I have a lot of friends there."

Asked if there had been any attempts to brainwash or discuss ideology with him, he replied "No, not at all."

Kay was captured May 7, 1973, when his small commerical plane under charter to the U.S. government ran low on fuel and was forced to land in Communist territory in Laos.

Kay said in Vientiane that his plane had been hit by gunfire.

Kay's wife, in a blue pants suit, stepped off the U.S. Air Force C9 plane before Kay did and said, "He looks very well."

Kay was greeted on the tarmac by Maj. Gen. Leroy Manor, commanding general of the 13th Air Force stationed at Clark, and Paul Philips of the U.S. Embassy in Manila.

Manor, who has been active in U.S. Air Force efforts to recover POWS, speculated that if other Americans had been held in Sam Neua in Laos, Kay "probably would have heard about them."

The Kays were accompanied on the plane by Maurice Brawlnik of the U.S. Embassy in Vientiane. Brawlnik said Kay had told officials that it was his impression that the Pathet Lao buried bodies of American pilots near where their plane crashed.

While in captivity at the Pathet Lao headquarters at Sam Neua, Brawlnik said Kay was kept in a small bungalow by himself most of the time.

Child Injured

Rosie Dominguez, 13 - year - old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Salvadore Dominguez, 831 E. Cambell, was treated for minor injuries and released this morning at Highland General Hospital following an accident in the 400 block of South Cuyler.

Details of the accident which occured at about 8 a.m. were not available at press time from police.

Tax Receipts Still Climbing

Pampa's sales tax receipts continue to climb.

The city today received a check for $121,502, covering the second quarter of 1974 ending June 30.

The amount was $16,768 more than the $104,733 received for the same period of last year.

So far this fiscal year, according to City Secretary S.M. Chittenden, the city has received $482,371 in sales tax money compared to $404,380 for the last fiscal year.

That's an increase of $77,991 or an average increase of approximately $6,500 a month.

While some of the increase is attributed to additional business, much of it is believed to have come from inflation and price increases in almost every line of goods.

Pampa began collecting the one - cent sales tax in January of 1970.

Since that time the tax has brought a total of $1,692,969 into city coffers.

UF PLEDGES — W.L. Loving, center, chairman of the Pampa United Fund's Major Gifts Division, accepts pledges from O.M. Prigmore, left, general manager of Cabot Carbon Black Plant, and Gene Steel, plant manager of Celanese Chemical Co., representing an average 48 percent hike over last year's pledges. The two pledges total $15,500.

Hurricane Heading Toward Honduras

MIAMI (UPI) — Hurricane Fifi wound its winds up to gusts of 125 miles an hour today for an expected mid-day raking of the mountain-rimmed northern coast of Honduras.

Fifi, the season's sixth tropical storm, was moving west-southwest across the Caribbean Sea at 10 m.p.h., and forecaster Paul Hebert said the center of the storm would cross or brush the northeast coast of Honduras near Cape Camaron this afternoon.

Winds of 100 miles per hour were expected to begin lashing the northeastern tip of Honduras around noon, and Hebert said Fifi was pushing heavy rains and 10-foot storm tides ahead of its center.

Forecasters said the storm was expected to dump as much as 10 inches of rain along the north slopes of the Honduras mountains today, "producing a serious threat of flash flooding in Honduras and Nicaragua."

At 6 a.m. EDT, Fifi was centered about 145 miles east of Cape Camaron near Latitude 16.2 north and Longitude 82.9 west.

"This track will take the center across or very near the coast of northeastern Honduras near Cape Canaron this afternoon or evening," Hebert said.

Fifi, which grew out of a tropical depression spotted in the Eastern Caribbean Sea last weekend, had sustained winds of 100 m.p.h., and gusts to 125 m.p.h., and Hebert said the storm was expected to intensify even more later in the day.

The National Hurricane Center here said Fifi was expected to continue on a west or southwesterly course throughout the day and parallel the north coast of Honduras through tonight.

The National Hurricane Center said the 100 residents of Swan Island should not discontinue their vigil against the storm.

Rain soaked Texas for a tenth straight day today, pushing rivers to their banks and triggering flash flood watches.

Rivers were at their banks in sections of eastern and southern Texas and a flash flood watch remained in effect through this morning for southwest Texas. Heavy rains soaked the Lone Star state for the ninth straight day Tuesday.

Pampans Help Ease Tensions In Irish Strife

Two young Pampans, Lynn Hart and Randy Carter, are doing their bit toward relieving tensions in distant parts of the world.

As members of the "Up With People" program, they are on a tour of Europe and are currently in Ireland.

Hart, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Les Hart, joined the group in May to assist in early preparations for the tour, while Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Carter, left here July 31.

Their parents this week received a memo from a tour official who had received a cable from the cast saying they had arrived safely in Belfast, Ireland.

The memo gives excerpts from a review of the Up With People show, published in the Belfast Telegram.

Portions of the review follow:

"An unbelievable sensation and unforgettable experience — that's only two of the ways of describing last night's concert in Ulster Hall ... it's brought a breath of fresh air to Belfast which has long been overdue, and the music and songs eased the pent-up tensions of everyone there.

"Up With People are a group of young men and women, aged between 17 and 25, who are selected from applicants from all over the world ... those who feared a night of revival music were pleasantly surprised, as all the songs contained was a message of love, peace, and joy.

"Up With People" proved that in these days of protest and violence, there are still young people in the world who are happy with life and their lot."

When the overseas tour is completed next spring, the group will present a final concert at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C., in May, intended especially for parents of the participants.

NUCLEAR PLANT — Artist's rendering of how Southwestern Public Service Company's proposed 300,000 kilowatt GCFR nuclear demonstration plant might look adjacent to a conventional coal or gas-fired generating station. The cylindrical structure on the right houses a prestressed concrete reactor vessel, 84 feet in diameter and 71 feet high, and contains the principal components of the nuclear steam supply system.

SPS Announces Breeder Reactor

Southwestern Public Service Company today announced the first step in a program which sets the stage for the company to take a lead role in the construction of the nation's first power plant to use a gas-cooled breeder reactor.

Roy Tolk, chairman and president of the electric company, said the gas-cooled fast breeder reactor (GCRF) plant, would have a generating capability of 300,000 kilowatts and would be located on a site provided by Southwestern, probably at the Harrington Station, northeast of Amarillo.

"We have signed a letter of intent with General Atomic Company of San Diego, in which we would contribute $100 million to the project. Substantial additional financial support will be required from the electric utility industry and the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission," Tolk said.

"Our long-range projections call for additional generating capability in the mid 1980's; so, this development program fits right into our growth pattern and could very well be our introduction to nuclear power.

"We will, of course, have a conventional generating unit in service to meet our customer's needs, if that is necessary, but are enthusiastic about the prospects for the breeder unit being available," Tolk said.

General Atomic has been working on a gas-cooled breeder reactor for 13 years.

Support for the program has come from the Atomic Energy Commission and a GCFR Utility Committee comprised of 57 investor-owned utilites, 55 rural electric cooperatives and three European electric utilites.

Included in the cooperatives participating in the program are the Rita Blanca Electric Cooperative, Dalhart; the Bailey County Electric Cooperative, Muleshoe; and the Tri-County Electric Cooperative, Hooker, Okla.

Breeder reactors have the unique capability of producing more nuclear fuel material than they consume. Because of this potential to stretch nuclear fuel resources, breeders are regarded as an essential component of the long-range success of the nuclear power industry.

In operation, the GCFR will produce nearly 1 ½ times as much fuel material as it consumes.

Argentina Hit By Bombings

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Argentine President Maria Estela Peron hastily called a meeting of government, labor, judicial and military leaders today hours after a wave of guerrilla bombings and assassinations ripped the country.

Guerrillas gunned down a police doctor Tuesday and murdered a former provincial governor and his aide Monday. More than 100 bombings and firebomb attacks were reported across the country in two days.

Rival right wing and leftist guerrilla bands set off bombs that tore through banks, businesses and military installations and killed at least two men.

The increase in the bombings appears linked to the decision by the Montoneros, the largest left-wing Peronist guerrilla group, to begin to openly oppose Mrs. Peron.

The commando campaign has claimed a victim every 19 hours since Aug. 1, a month to the day after Mrs. Peron succeeded her late husband as president.

Although the subject of today's unexpected meeting was not disclosed, political observers said Mrs. Peron would probably take up the issue of violence, political unrest and the country's critical economic problems.

Some observers said the increased terrorism has led the government to consider placing the country under a state of siege.

AVOIDING HOSPITAL

Nixon Reported As Seriously Ill

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Richard Nixon is seriously ill with blood clots in his left leg and will be hospitalized soon, according to the former President's daughter, lawyers and spiritual adviser Billy Graham.

Julie Nixon Eisenhower told reporters in New York that her father would be "hospitalized within a few weeks."

Lawyers for Nixon presented arguments to a federal court that Nixon is too sick to make a deposition appearance next Tuesday.

Graham, a frequent visitor to the White House before Nixon was forced to resign, said at a news conference Tuesday that he talked to Nixon by telephone three weeks ago, suggesting a visit. Nixon "said that it was not convenient and that he was in a great deal of pain," the evangelist said.

The Los Angeles Times reported today that another doctor has backed up the urging of Nixon's personal physician that he enter a hospital soon. "Three hospitals near his home in San Clemente have readied plans for admitting him," the newspaper said.

"He will be hospitalized within a few weeks because of the phlebitis," Mrs. Eisenhower told a news conference after acting as guest hostess taping a syndicated television show.

"The condition is quite serious," she said. She would not say whether her father personally told her he would enter a hospital, or why he would not do so immediately.

"He's just like anyone else. He just doesn't want to go to the hospital," she said.

Nixon attorneys Herbert J. Miller Jr. and Raymond G. Larroca told U.S. District Court Judge William P. Gray Tuesday that Nixon should be excused from giving a deposition in Santa Ana, Calif., next Tuesday.

FOR NIXON FUNDS

Angry Committee Slashes Requests

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An angry House appropriations subcommittee has slashed $452,000 from President Ford's request for $850,000 to finance former President Richard Nixon's return to private life.

The 13-member panel voted 76 Tuesday to cut the total supplemental appropriations request to $398,000 after rejecting attempts to reduce the sum to a flat $200,000. Some subcommittee members, including Rep. Tom Bevill, D-Ala., wanted to deny all funds for Nixon except his $60,000 annual presidential pension.

Chairman Tom Steed, D-Okla., said opposition to the Nixon funds was so intense within the subcommittee, "I was surprised I got as much out of the committee as I did." He said the six members who voted against the final figure wanted to reduce it further.

Ford had sought $450,000 under a presidential transition law to provide Nixon with staff assistance to help in declassifying and sorting his presidential papers and answer a mountain of mail that has come in since his resignation.

The biggest single sum knocked out of the request was $110,000 the General Services Administration said it needed to build an elaborate vault and security system to protect Nixon's Watergate tapes and documents at a facility near his San Clemente home.

Dimebox Bank Lowers Rates

DIMEBOX, Tex. (UPI) — The Little First State Bank of Dimebox lowered its prime interest rate today from 12 per cent to 11 ½ because its directors decided it would be in the public interest.

"Our board of directors worried over this all night and we decided it was up to the banks to project leadership during this time of extreme monetary crisis," said bank board chairman Frank W. Head.

"Even though we are not one of the largest banks in the state or nation, we want to stand and be counted as doing something positive for our economy."

Most banks in the nation are charging a prime rate the interest charged big commercial borrowers, of 12 per cent, and the rise in this rate during the past several months has been blamed for helping cause the sagging economy.

"Now we know that General Motors is not going to be coming out to Dimebox to borrow $500 million," said John E. Whitmore III, a spokesman for Head's company which controls many of the little country banks in southeast Texas. "The assets of this little bank are $1.7 million. But it serves the people."

Dimebox — there used to be an Old Dimebox and a New Dimebox — is a German-Czech settlemet in the rolling hills and black, sandy loam soil country along the Yegua River of Central Texas. It survives on an economy of peanuts, pecans, grains, hogs, poultry, cattle and a little oil and gas.

And 313 persons call it home.

"The Dimebox bank is a country bank heavily involved in individual and agricultural loans," Whitmore said. "Its the real bastion of personal banking where the banker looks at the person a good deal more than he looks at the collateral."

Thefts Reported

Wards Minit Mart, 700 block N. Hobart, reported to police the theft of a 12-volt battery from a car on the parking lot. The cables had been cut on the battery, valued at $30.

R.A. Gowin, 730 N. Christy, reported the theft of a fender skirt from a 1967 Buick parked at the residence.

Want A Dog? City Has 'Em

Anyone interested in buying a dog at auction or saving a canine life is invited by Police Chief Jim Conner to attend a public auction of 12 impounded dogs at 1:30 p.m. Friday at the city dog pound.

The dogs to be offered for sale, unless retrieved by their owners before that time, run all the way from curs, shepherds, collies, poodle to a peekapoo.

Owners wil have an opportunity to pick up their dogs by paying a pound fee of $2 and $2 a day board.

Kissinger May Be Called To Testify On CIA Role

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, cleared earlier this summer of lying to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, may have to testify again, this time on previous testimony about Chile.

The committee voted unanimously Tuesday to investigate CIA operations in Chile, raising the possibility of another set of hearings involving Kissinger and former CIA director Richard Helms.

Helms, now ambassador to Iran, testified last year before the Senate Watergate Committee about the agency's role in covert domestic operations. He is now under fire for the CIA's role in opposing the Salvador Allende government in Chile, overthrown by a military coup last September.

Outgoing Committee Chairman J. William Fulbright said the question of recalling Kissinger would be decided in "a week to 10 days." If called, the secretary would be questioned about the accuracy of testimony during his 1973 confirmation hearings, which minimized the U.S. role in Chile.

After his testimony a few months ago, following his threat to resign, the committee cleared Kissinger of allegations he lied during the confirmation herings about his role in Watergate-era wiretapping.

President Ford acknowledged Monday the CIA intervened in Chilean politics between 1970 and 1973 in opposition to the Marxist government. But he, as have Kissinger and Helms, denied U.S. participation in the coup, in which Allende died.

Mayor Accepts TML Position

Pampa Mayor R.D. Wilkerson has accepted an appointment to the Texas Municipal League Committee on Municipal Affairs.

He will attend the first meeting of the committee scheduled for Friday in the Driscoll Hotel at Austin.

The TML group will study legislation affecting cities now pending before the State Legislature.

City Commissioner Ray Thompson of Pampa is a member of the League's Finance Committee which met recently in Austin.

NEED TIRES?
THINK RADIAL AND LOOK TO THE LEADER.

Satisfied Radial Tire Drivers Have For Over a Quarter Century

Sometimes it takes a while for a good idea to catch on, but now, the time of the radial tire has surely arrived. And we want to clarify the point that Michelin pioneered the steel-belted radial idea. Michelin introduced the first steel-belted radial tire back in 1948... over a quarter century ago. And today the Michelin 'X' steel-belted radial is unsurpassed for proven road performance. It's the only radial tire that has over 25 years of experience built right in. So if you've decided that now is the time for you to get in on the easy-handling, firm road-holding, sure traction and smooth ride of radials, we think you should start with the leader — Michelin. That's where it all began.

TO KEEP CONTROL

Briscoe's Forces Fighting Liberals

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe's forces today turned back the final challenges from shouting, foot stomping liberals and maintained firm control of the state's party machinery.

State party Chairman Calvin Guest quickly gaveled the convention closed at 2:25 a.m. today after a voice vote on at-large delegates to the national mini-convention. The delegates had spent more than 16 hours trying to resolve their differences, and left the convention as openly split as when they had arrived, despite unity pleas from Briscoe, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., and a lineup of state officeholders.

Guest, who told the 5,447 delegates he was Briscoe's boy and would always be, defeated Houston city controller Leonel Castillo for a second term as chairman. Briscoe allies also dominated the new membership of the State Democratic Executive Committee and the state's delegation to the Kansas City miniconvention.

Billie Carr of Houston, the chief liberal spokesman, said the group will challenge the Texas delegation to the national convention because Guest refused to allow a vote on a minority eport for selection of atlarge delegates.

"We now have a reason to challenge," Ms. Carr said after Guest quickly adjourned the convention and sleepy delegates began filing out of the auditorium. "I don't see what we can do but take it to the Compliance and Review Committee."

Liberals claimed some gains on the SDEC, although Briscoe's allies, assisted by organized labor, clearly had control of the convention from the beginning.

Castillo's race against Guest was the biggest challenge to Briscoe's leadership. Rep. Craig Washington, D-Houston, seconded Castillo's nomination, and told the delegates "if this is truly the Democratic party, then we ought to make the decisions about our future in this hall.

"Never again should we allow our leadership to be chosen in smoke-filled rooms," Washington said. "Because if we do we're no better than the Republicans."

Guest won the showdown vote on a 3,125 to 2,183 roll call that was finally completed at 1:15 a.m.

"We hold no animosity toward anyone," Castillo said. "We are still pledged to work to improve this party, but let's go out in November and trample the Republicans first."

The convention was without the usual bunting and fanfare, and dragged on through repeated intermissions and delays. One delegate was removed from the hall by police after he had been slugged in the face and got up bleeding. Another collapsed on a ramp to the balcony and was taken to a hospital in an ambulance.

Murder Suspect Found Dead By Maid At Hotel

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — A Plano, Tex., baker sought for the murders of his wife and two stepchildren was found dead Tuesday in a Hilton Inn hotel room by a maid. A coroner said Don Allison, 30, had committed suicide.

A. G. Tirona, San Diego County deputy coroner, said Allison, missing from Texas for more than a week, left a series of suicide notes which also instructed authorities where to find the bodies of his family.

Authorities refused to release the verbatim contents of most of the notes but said they indicated Allison killed his wife, Juanita, 34, and stepdaughter, Deana Mordecai, 15, because of a homosexual relationship in which they were engaged.

The notes also contained references to rapes of the stepdaughter before and after she was strangled.

Plano police Sunday discovered the decomposed bodies of Mrs. Allison, Deana Mordecai and Robert Schaffer, 14, both of Mrs. Allison's children by two previous marriages, in their home.

They went to the residence after Allison's mother visited the home but was unable to get anyone to answer the door. She opened a window but was driven back by a foul odor.

Mrs. Allison said she was sure her son had not killed the other family members even though his clothes had all been removed from the house and the family car was also missing. She said he had been kidnaped by his family's murderers.

"I think my son is dead," Shirley Allison said. "I think they've took him off in the station wagon and killed him.

"They were going to sell some land Don had in East Texas and buy a bigger house. They just had arguments that any couple would have. I know my son didn't even have a gun."

But California authorities said Allison died from a pistol shot to the head. They said his suicide notes indicated he had tried to kill himself by taking barbiturates and by slashing his wrists.

He checked into the hotel last Friday, about five days after Plano authorities surmised his family had been murdered. He had a .25-caliber pistol with him, they said, and purchased a .45-caliber pistol after he arrived.

Hightower Says Ford Needs To Help Economy

State Sen. Jack Hightower, Democratic nominee for Congress from the 13th District, said today it would be a national tragedy if President Ford "fritters away broad based popularity — that he needs to lead this country out of the economic wilderness."

Hightower, a former district attorney and winner of many honors for this law enforcement work, declared:

"I sincerely hope the President won't spend so much time on Watergate pardons and Vietnam amnesty — both of which are extremely devisive national issues — that he undermines the popularity he needs to attack the most urgent issues of all, which are inflation and economic distress.

"He must have wide spread public confidence to accomplish anything in bringing down interest rates and the disastrous rate of inflation. I am afraid he will not maintain confidence unless he concentrates his attention on the economy and stops getting embroiled in controversial and questionable decisions that can wait.

"Every barometer of economic health, from the stock market to the consumer price index, shows we are drifting deeper into inflationery recession.

Farmers and stockmen are hard hit. Families can't get mortgages to buy homes, grocery prices are still going up. Sugar has gone up 40 percent since April, lettuce has gone up 36 percent and tomatoes 23 percent.

"I think it is high time the administration got down to brass tacks and faced the real issues," Hightower concluded.

THE VANISHING WOLF

Coyotes Endanger Existence Of Red Wolf

This is another in a series about the ever - growing problem of endangered wildlife. Part II — The Saga of Vanishing Wolf

By PAUL SIMS

Coyotes are causing more headaches than anything else for Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials trying to save one of the most endangered species of animals in Texas — the red wolf.

Only around 300 of the wolves are alive and are found in southest Texas near Houston. A few red wolves have been located in Louisiana, a state that, along with Arkansas and East Texas, used to be a haven for the creature.

Why the decrease from thousands to only 300?

"Several things," said John Smith, wildlife biologist at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department in Austin. "There are parasites like heart worms and mange, and then there's interbreeding."

The latter is the major reason for the wolf's steady decline and is twice as detrimental to the animal as man.

Coyotes, which are somewhat attracted to man, moved into the area when the country around Houston was developed. As a result, coyotes and red wolves interbred and the result was a cross, which so much resembles the pure wolf it sometimes takes an expert to distinguish the difference.

The pure wolf usually weighs between 40 and 80 pounds while a coyote never weighs over 40. The color of the wolf can be red, gray, black or any color in between. Usuaslly, it is light gray with a reddish tinge.

Smith explains the difference between the pure animal and the coyote. "The crosses get to look a lot like the pure wolf. Sometimes the only way to tell them apart is by taking a skull measurement. It's not the size of the skull but the size of the brain cavity.

"Coyotes are much more intelligent than wolves and their brain cavities are larger in proportion to the size of the skull," added Smith.

The red wolf is a beautiful animal with its German shepherd look, massive head and long legs. The pure lupus and the cross can often be told apart when an animal is trapped. The red wolf will snarl with its mouth closed while the cross, if it is dominated by coyote genes, will tend to gape.

The coyote and the cross must be destroyed, according to Smith. "We're ttrying to kill off the crosses. The fish and wildlife service office in Beaumont has several biologists working on it."

It's not feasible to declare an open season on crosses for hunters since some red wolves would more than likely be taken in the process. So the question of how to separate coyotes and the endangered wolves is baffling both Austin and Beaumont biologists.

"There's a breeding study in Tacoma, Wash., where they are taking the best stock of wolf and trying to develop a large number of good - blooded animals. According to Glen Riley of the fish and wildlife service, the situation has improved since he started working in 1970," said Smith.

In 1970, it was estimated there were between 80 and 100 pure wolves. The problem is better now, but the red wolf is still one of the three most endangered species in the state, along with the whooping crane and black - footed ferret.

Much progress has been made since 1964. A breakdown of that progress is as follows:

1964 — John Paradiso of the Bird and Mammal Laboratory (Smithsonian Institute) reveals that the red wolf is being replaced by the coyote.

1965 — Professors Douglas Pimlott and Paul Joshlin of the University of Toronto report that the red wolf has survived in only a few localities. The wolf is declared an endangered species by the United States Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

1966 — Federal Predator Control efforts in southeast Texas are curtailed in an effort to assist the red wolf.

1967 — Live trappings begin to obtain animals for captive breeding and study. Most of the so - called red wolves in zoos are proved to be crosses. Zoos are ordered to destroy those animals and replace them with pure wolves.

1968 — A full - time investigation begins. The study includes the following counties: Brazoria, Chambers, Galveston, Harris, Jefferson, Liberty and Orange.

1969 — Riley takes over the investigation. He attempts to convince ranchers and other persons that wolves are not a serious threat to humans or human interest and the species deserves protection. Riley works out agreements with major land owners to not kill wolves indiscriminately. Riley begins trapping the wolves believed to be attacking stock.

1970 — The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department confirms what it already knows — a population of red wolves still exists.

1971 — James Shaw of Yale University does a field study in Chambers County to obtain information on the ecology and behavior of the species. Radio collars are used on 10 of the wolves as Shaw follows their movements.

1972 — The Office of Endangered Species instigates a program for the wolf which calls for public education, habitat improvement and control of disease.

1973 — Dr. Curtis Carley is sent to southeast Texas to supervise recovery of the red wolf. Glen Riley remains active in the project and receives the American Motors Conservation Award for his efforts. Texas establishes a law protecting the red wolf.

1974 — The work continues.

Doctor's bedside manner includes slamming doors and snarling

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: I took my little girl to the doctor for her annual checkup. We were called into the examination room, and as soon as she saw the doctor coming toward her in his white coat, she began to cry. When he touched her, she started to squirm on the table and cry even harder because she was frightened.

The doctor very gruffly said, "Who needs this," and stomped out of the room.

A few minutes later, he came back and in a very nasty tone, said to me, "Take her home, and don't bring her back unless she is really sick!"

I thought doctors were supposed to be patient. What can I do about him? A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Most doctors try their best to calm and reassure frightened children. Perhaps your doctor was having a bad day, but if that's his usual manner, he is guilty of unprofessional conduct and deserved a reprimand from his county medical society. Mail this column to him. I think it will help him.

DEAR ABBY: I am 19, going to college and work part-time in a department store. There is a guy who works here who is very good-looking. He's 31 and married. He has made advances to me in the stockroom in the back of the store. I really am attracted to him, but the fact that he is married stops me from going out with him. (He's asked me.)

Please advise me. I'm weakening.

KNOWS THE SCORE

DEAR KNOWS: Tell good-looking to get lost. So far, the score is no hits, no runs, no errors. And if you're smart, you'll keep it that way.

DEAR ABBY: I have had a reasonably happy marriage to a man who has come up from the ranks to become an executive with a large company. Now, after 36 years, he told me recently that I have never learned how to be an executive's wife.

He is nearly 60 and has been an executive with this company for over 20 years.

My creed has always been to be myself, and as long as I acted like a lady, which I am, I thought that should be sufficient. According to my husband, it was not enough. Where have I failed? WORSE HALF

DEAR HALF: In addition to being a lady, have you always reciprocated social invitations promptly? Have you graciously initiated a social contact at your husband's suggestion? After having been entertained, do you promptly send a written note of thanks? Do you refrain from gossiping about people whether they're associated with your husband in business or not? If you have had time to devote to your church and/or community activities, have you done so?

If you can answer yes to all these questions, you qualify as an asset to your husband, whether he's an executive or not.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. K. IN OKLAHOMA CITY: I do not recommend washing out the mouths of youngsters as a punishment for "talking dirty." Some youngsters grow to like soap.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Florists Harvest A Cornucopia Of Dried Materials For Home Decoration

It's fall — time to tidy up the garden, put away cotton slipcovers and reward the family for summer - long gas saving efforts with a drive to the nearest hiking spot to savor the brisk air and Nature's annual color extravaganza.

You can return from your outing with an armload of interesting grasses, pods and flowers whose delightful aromas, eye - catching shapes and natural colors will spruce - up any room of your home. Begin at the front door with a wicker half - basket filled wtih bright, welcoming straw flowers, proceed to a foyer fragrant with eucalyptus stalks and into a living room sparked with a dramatic arrangement of tall grasses with feathery plumes.

In the kitchen, a container such as an antique fruit crate or a perky rooster vase from the florist will add a piquant, country air when filled with statice, golden wheat or a mixture of dried materials in copper, burnished greens, and berries.

If you hesitate to pluck a handful of the natural dried grasses, or if trail signs forbid disturbing the floribunda, don't feel badly. The beautifully aged "everlastings" used for fall decoration in homes since Colonial days should be picked in mid - summer and dried in a cool dark place to be at their best, reports the Society of American Florists.

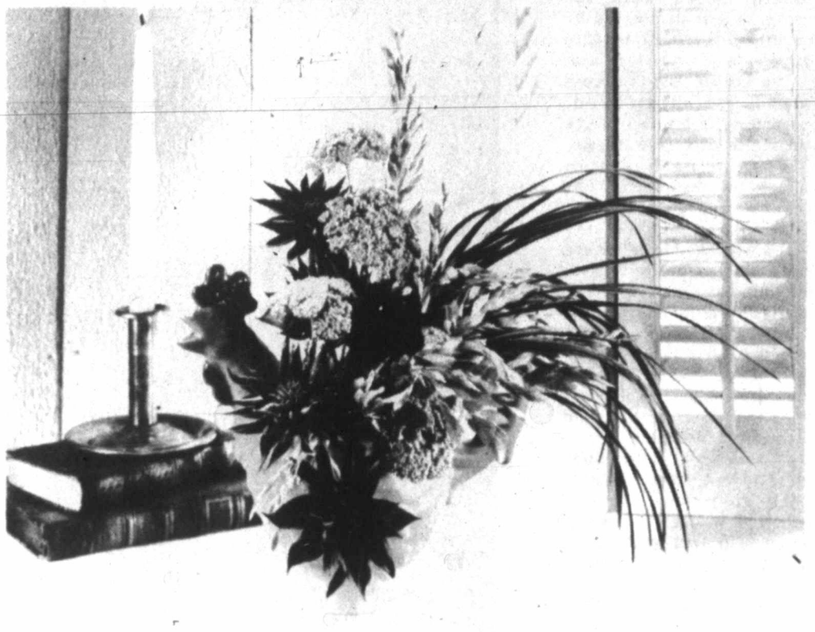

This technique of picking and preserving dried materials at their peak is still at the heart of the production methods that annually produce a cornucopia of dried materials from New England cattails to California corn flowers available at florists. Most such dried materials were planted and grown as renewable crops, thereby helping to preserve the natural beauty of wild everlasting.

A new electronic preservation process is adding extra color to this year's harvest of dried materials. The new process helps flowers retain more pigmentation during dehydration, resulting in brighter, more colorful hues. Other methods, including bleaching and dyeing, add further variety and color to the selection of dried plants on display at florists.

Fall is the season of bright color and form in meadow and field. So let the year's harvest of dried flowers and plants brighten your home and your world ... naturally.

WORTHWHILE CLUB

The Worthwhile Home Demonstration Club met recently with Mrs. Alma Jaynes, 120 N. Sumner. The President, Mrs. Maggie Smith, presided.

Roll call was answered with "Something I wish I had time for."

Mrs. Janice Carter gave the council report and Mrs. Cora Robertson gave the THDA report.

The 4-H report was given by Mrs. Elaine Houston, who also presented the program on "Managing Our Money."

The state meeting is being held in Amarillo, Sept. 17, 18, and 19.

Two new members joined the group, Mrs. Corrine Wheeler, 1906 Coffee, and Mrs. Mattie Brown, 503 N. Russell.

Attending were Mattie Lou Maness and Mrs. Houston, guests, and 13 members.

The next meeting will be a luncheon Sept. 27 at 10 a.m. with Mrs. Janice Carter, 213 N. Sumner. Mrs. Gladys Stone will be co - hostess.

PATTERNS

The patterns of play and deliquency are often similar. Both drives have the activity urge and both involve doing, daring and risking. Both involve struggle, challenge and the satisfying feeling of mastery, Nelson Barksdale, recreation specialst with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, contended.

HOME IMPROVEMENT

When home improvement work is finished, secure proof that the contractor has paid all subcontractors before you sign a work completion certificate. Failure to do this could result in your being liable for those payments, Patricia Bradshaw, housing and home furnishing specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, noted.

Consumer Market Report

COLLEGE STATION — Cheese still tops the milk - production pyramid, Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt reported this week.

Cheese, non - fat milk and butter supplies remain above last year's levels, although milk production continues its seasonal decline, according to the consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M Universtiy System.

"Peanuts are in ample supply, too — even though the 1974 crop will be slightly smaller than last year's record crop," she added.

Fresh fruits in good supply at the most economical prices this week include oranges, bananas, nectarines, grapes, prunes and plums.

Economical vegetables are watermelon, cabbage, carrots and squash.

Also dry yellow onions, celery, cushaw, beets, collards, mustard and turnip greens.

At beef counters, Mrs. Clyatt said much of the meat supply is from grass - fed animals.

"This is good news for calorie - counting consumers because it means lean beef has less marbling, and there's less outside fat covering."

Pork values center on hams, picnics, shoulder roasts and steaks, end - cut loin roasts and chops.

"Fryer chickens are an excellent protein choice in most markets, and grade A, large - size eggs still offer the most quality and economy."

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: "real" beef cost is its cost per serving — not cost per pound.

Example: ground beef and chuck roast are both $1.12 per pound. Ground beef makes four servings per pound; chuck roast makes two.

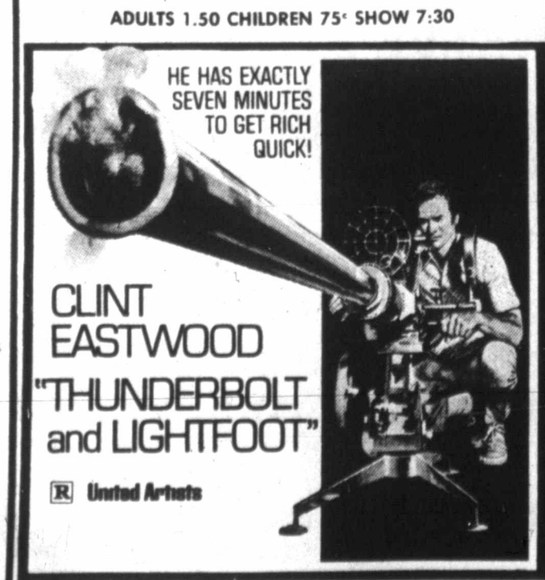

So, ground beef costs 28 cents per serving, while chuck roast costs 56 cents per serving — although both cost the same per pound.

DRY BEAN

Dry bean harvest should be substantially greater than last year as a result of increased plantings. Dry peas will be in good supply, with production nearly double the 1974 short crop, according to Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

There can be no doubt but that the playing of a "hunch" — as contrasted to taking the right "percentage" play — often turns out to be the winning play. But, conversely, the "hunch" play more frequently results in a loss being incurred, a loss that would have become a gain if the percentage play had been taken.

The above is the theme of today's deal, which was played in the 1972 World Olympiad, in the match between Poland and France.

Both sides vulnerable. South deals.

NORTH
♠ 1065
♥ K Q J
♦ 10 5
♣ A K 10 8 5

WEST

♦ A J 9 2
♣ Q 6 4 2

EAST

♥ 10 9 7 5
♦ K 4 3
♣ 3

SOUTH
♠ K 4 3 2
♥ A 8
♦ Q 8 7 6
♣ J 9 7

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	1 ♠
1 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Seven of ♠.

With France holding the North - South cards, the above bidding sequence took place. East put up the spade jack on the opening lead, and South captured the trick with his king.

A low club was then led to dummy's king, after which the South hand was re - entered via the heart ace. The jack of clubs was led next and a successful finesse taken against West's queen. The nine of clubs was then led and overtaken by the board's ten. When play had ended, declarer had made nine tricks: five clubs, three hearts and one spade.

When the deal was replayed with Poland holding the North - South cards, a three notrump contract was arrived at, with north as the declarer. East opened the queen of spades, and South's king won the trick.

To trick two, the club jack was led, declarer's king taking the trick. He then led a heart to South's ace, after which he played the nine of clubs. When West followed suit with the four - spot, declarer paused for a long time to reflect on the situation.

After deep consideration, he put up the ace, hoping that East had been dealt the doubleton Q - x. When East discarded a heart, declarer next led a third club. West winning the trick with his queen. At the conclusion of play, declarer had gone down four tricks, losing a club, three diamonds and four spades.

Thus Poland lost 11 International Match Points, instead of gaining 10, as they would have done if the Polish declarer had made the technically correct play of finessing against the queen of clubs, instead of playing the hunch that East had been dealt the doubleton Q - x.

FOOT DIALER

WEST COVINA, Calif. (UPI) — Robbers posing as prospective tenants asked apartment manager Jane Cormey, 43, about a vacant apartment Tuesday.

They agreed to rent it, and while Miss Cormey was leading them into the manager's office, one of the men pulled a 9-inch butcher knife.

The other man tied and gagged Miss Cormey and the pair fled with $173 in cash from the office.

But Miss Cormey was able to knock the telephone off her desk while bound and gagged and she used her big toe to dial the operator, leading to her rescue.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

THURSDAY, Sept. 19

Your birthday today: Consolidating current progress is your main prospect this coming year. Add to your reserves at every opportunity; confirm your claims to material possessions. Much extra effort is needed to overcome your tendency toward laziness and settling the status quo. Today's natives have strong literary interests and include many productive writers.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Be political, keep each deal separate from all the others and move on briskly. Brief contacts with technical experts fare well, bring in new angles.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Ask your friends and loved ones for ideas about organizing future schedules and budgets. Interesting complexities arise in romance.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Everything and everybody you met now has a different angle or another story altogether. You begin a promising, long-hoped-for personal project.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Creative efforts predominate. News draws scattered ideas together in a more coherent form. Cash in on current conditions where possible. Redeem outstanding obligations.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Make introductions, promote long-range career plans and improve public image. Home and family matters turn out more lively and productive than expected.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Before you help others, be sure first that they're asked you for it. Social contacts multiply. You confront many choices on how to spend your time.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Financial plans are favored. Seek a profitable sideline, turn an idea into ready cash. Bring home pleasant surprises to show your feelings about those you love.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: You're at the peak of your personal energy cycle. Exploit what you have without further delay or hesitation. The excitement of originality pushes you nearer to your goals.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Be discreet now. Use skills and knowledge not generally known. Simple moves made today will yield permanent improvements.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: It's time to celebrate friendships with and achievements of those who frequently cooperate with you. Local and distant news is helpful, although not all happy or complete.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Get right down to serious business without wasting a minute. New plans practically launch themselves spontaneously. At quitting time, take a break; forget work and shop-talk altogether.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Good counsel, technical and professional skills are close by. Personal ventures thrive with normal diligence. The concerns of children and younger people in general improve.

WEDDING-ENGAGEMENT DEADLINE

The following deadlines and procedure on wedding stories will be as follows: For a wedding story to appear in a Sunday edition, information and picture must be turned in to the women's editor by 5 p.m. on the Monday BEFORE the wedding. All wedding stories submitted after that time will appear during the week. Engagement announcements must be submitted by 12 noon Wednesday to appear in Sunday's edition.

'Cooperative Involvement' Is Civic Culture Theme

The Civic Culture Club met in the home of Mrs. D. A. Rife recently for a covered dish luncheon and program. The program committee Mmes. A. D. Hills, Frank Grantham, Teresa Reed, A.B. Cross and D. A. Rife were hostesses.

Mrs. Rife, president, presided, and Mrs. Teresa Reed, vice - president, presented the new year books and announced the course of study for the year "Involvement for a Better America," the theme being "Cooperative Involvement."

The program subject for the day, "Involvement in Federation," was given by Mrs. A.B. Cross.

Federation was founded in 1890 and was granted a charter by the Congress of the United States March 3, 1901, she stated.

The object of the Federation is to unite the Women's clubs throughout the world for the purpose of mutual benefit, and for the promotion of their common interest in education, industrial, philanthrophic, literary, artistic, and scientific culture as interpreted and implemented by established policy, she continued.

These members reside in 36 counties and territories with 13,571 clubs and approximately 10,000,000 members. There are many advantages in Federation membership, Mrs. Cross said. Through membership in State Federation they become better acquainted with their state; they have a large voice in state affairs; and they join with other clubs in action programs.

Membership in General Federation brings a better knowledge of national and international affairs; the strength to influence legislation and govermental activity; the ability to speak with one voice on important questions; as well as better understanding of different areas of the country and the world, through friendship with women of these areas.

Too, there is a wealth of program material, available to clubs that are members of Federation, Mrs. Cross concluded.

Mrs. Rife announced the District fall board meeting will be in Wellington Oct. 22.

Members attending in addition to the previously mentioned were, Mmes. E.L. Anderson, Irvan Cole, C.V. Forsman, George Neef, Carl Patchin, Carl Smith, W.F. Taylor, H. W. Waters Chester Williams, Katie Vincent, and Emmett Gee.

LITTLE TOO EAGER

DETROIT (UPI) — Some 100 would-be donors were disappointed when they learned a hospital would not allow a patient to buy a kidney for $3,000.

All 100 had answered an ad offering $3,000 for the organ for Mohammed Abbas Ali, 42, of Yemen, who is being treated for malfunctioning kidneys.

But a spokesman at Ford Hospital said the facility would not accept a purchased organ because it would involve a major operation.

The would-be donors "had disappointment in their voices," said Mohammed Karoub, Ali's spokesman. "It blows my mind," he added. "It's not like giving up a fingernail."

Austin PTA Hosts Back-to-School Night

Stephen F. Austin PTA had their Back - to - School Night recently. A brief meeting was conducted by President, Mrs. Dwaine Blakemore. Cub Scout Den presented the colors.

Reverend James Lusby, minister of the Westside Church of Christ, gave the Spirtual Thought, and spoke on the importance of communication between parents and children.

Mrs. Blakemore welcomed the parents, teachers, and guests.

A report on the scheduled programs was given by Mrs. Woody Mitchell. Mrs. Harold Taylor reported that the volunteer program is coming along very well with more volunteers enlisting each day.

Mrs. Butch Reynolds announced that Family Night will be Oct. 24, and a spaghetti suppper will be served. Mrs. John Warner reported on the Blue Star Program, stating there are still some blocks in Austin district that do not have Blue Stars.

The Austin teachers were introduced by Joe Page, principal.

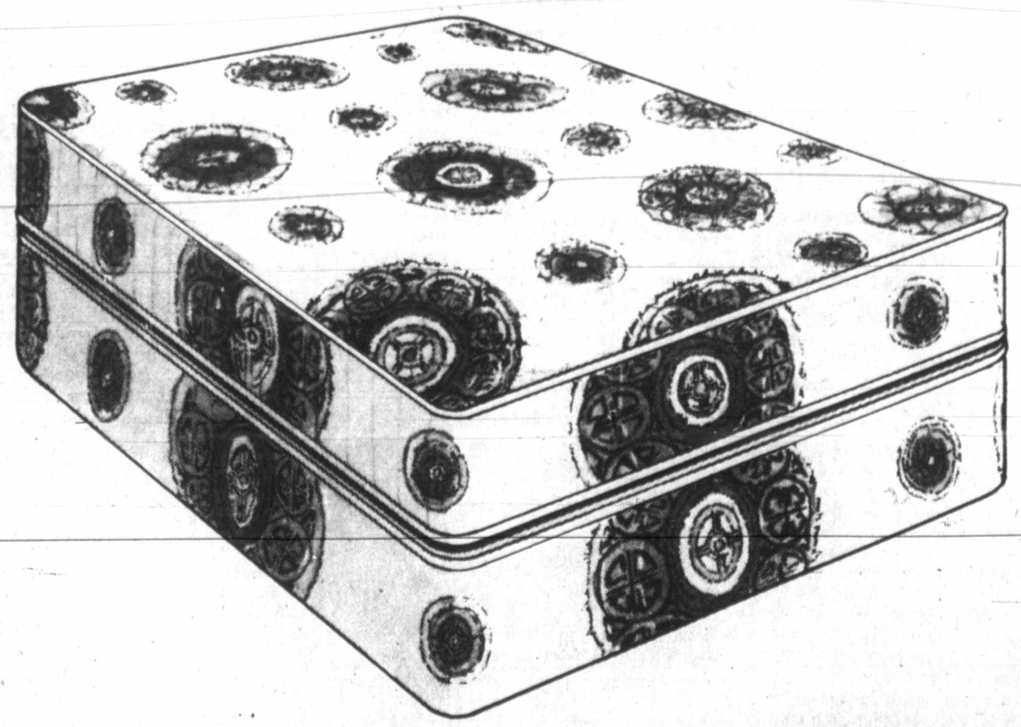

The nonimating committee elected to name a slate of officers for next year are Joe Page, Mrs. Jim Birdsell, and Linda Clark.

Parents visited their children's room, and refreshments of pie and coffee were served in the cafeteria.

The Fault In 'No-Fault'

As some readers already have surmised, the so - called no - fault auto insurance was only the opening wedge. The same attorney who first advocated the misnamed "no - fault" now proposes a similar system for settling medical malpractice claims.

Under the plan advocated by Jeffery O'Connell in "Prism" magazine of the American Medical Association, if a patient experienced frequent undesirable effects from medical treatment, he would be promptly compensated without trial. Presumably the legislature would come up with a statutory provision designed to relieve the physician from tort liabilities.

As lawyer O'Connell describes his brainchild, the medical - care provider still would be liable for any injury inflicted on purpose or through gross negligence. The patient would receive payment of medical bills above what is covered by medical insurance and also would be compensated for loss of income. If he expected to receive any dollar offset for pain, suffering and mental anguish, he would have to look to present legal channels.

In behalf of his scheme, O'Connell argues that medical cases are extremely hard to air in court.

"Deciding who was speeding or who went through a stop sign is difficult, tedious work," he said, "but it is child's play compared to deciding whether an adverse medical result was caused by a physician's negligent mistake instead of being properly ascribed to, say, unpreventable complication of the patient's condition."

Well, we see no harm in an insurance company and a doctor offering the patient a "satisfaction or your money back" guarantee if they choose to do so. Further, we see nothing amiss in the medical care provider and his insurer insisting that the patient give them a release from tort liability if he takes the money. Claims adjusters for automotive insurers do something similar to that as a matter of routine.

In the case of medical care, we don't know how the arithmetic would work out. The doctor might go broke paying insurance premiums and the insurance company might go broke making unlitigated settlements. But going broke is their privilege. On the other hand experience may show that the financial burden is less than with the standard malpractice insurance. Who knows?

The trouble will come only if and when — as the promoters of "no fault" look to the legislature to impose their program by mandate. The gist of no - fault is that the complaining party gets paid regardless of whether anyone is to blame. It boils down to an automatic, unlitigated liability of limited amount. Imposed by law, "no fault" on the one hand serves as an incentive for unjustified complaints and — on the other hand — bars adequate recovery when complaints are valid.

It penalizes the just in order to be corrected.

Mandated "no fault" is not the way to do it.

EDUCATION IN AMERICA

Blacks Building Own Ghettos

By MAX RAFFERTY

I'm trying to restrain myself in today's topic, but it's not easy, friends.

Remember the Sixties? The white activists were busy bombing and setting fire to the campuses, and their black counterparts were bleeding all over the place for the cause of complete desegregation in the nation's colleges.

As it turned out, the whites got put down, but the bblacks hit the jackpot. Not only were the student bodies integrated by 1971 but also dormitories, eating halls, drama clubs and even the tiddlywinks team. Never has a cause been so thoroughly won.

So now what's happening? Why, the black collegians have apparently decided it's more fun to be segregated, after all. At least it is at Penn State, where "black lounges," "black dorms," "black dining rooms" and even separate "black homeocmings" are very much in style.

What's the idea? Well, here's the rationale: such segregated programs, it seems, "Help elminiate the deep sense of alienation experienced by black students at predominately white colleges," to quote wire service dispatch. Penn State's administrators, moreover, are "overlooking" the new segregation because "they consider it the only way to avoid racial - social conflict" in the university.

Oh, I don't know. I can think of at least one other perfectly practicable way to avoid both racial conflicts and feelings of black alienation at white colleges. Simply re - establish all - white colleges and all - black colleges.

Mind you, I'm not advocating this. I'm simply calling attention to the question that, if black are going to sealthemslelves off from their white fellow students while attending technically integrated institutions, what the devil was the point of mixing the races there in the first place? Why the protest marches, the bullhorns, the demonstrations, the riots, and rabid rhetoric?

Could it possibly be, after all the brouhaha of the last 10 years, that blacks and whites actually prefer to be segregated, educationally at least? That's what Denise Heisser seems to be saying, and she's a sophomore living in Penn State's all - black dormitory: "I'm comfortable here. Living in the project makes you feel more at ease."

Right on, Denise. Everybody wants everybody else to be more at ease or should. But maybe — just maybe — black high school students now being bused all over the map every day in order to achieve "ethnic balance" would be more "at ease" if left to go to their own schools with each other. It's even possible that little black elementary pupils would feel a lot more "at ease" in their neighborhood schools instead of being salt - and - peppered around a great city into strange schools in unfamiliar surroundings.

Anyhow, when I think of how my professional and administrative colleagues knocked themselves out, fretted, organized and got ulcers on their ulcers just 10 years ago in order to rid their campuses of the least taint of apartheid, only to see in the Seventies a growing insistence on racially segregated facilities by the black successors to the successful agitators for togetherness of the Sixties, I don't know whether to swear, weep or enjoy a belly laugh.

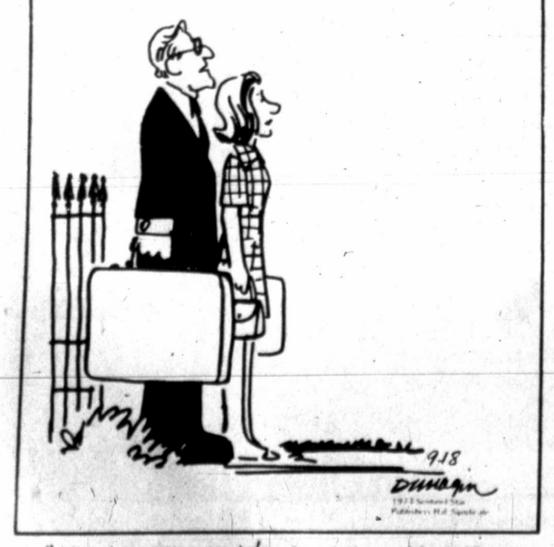

The time we wasted. The money that went up in smoke, both figuratively and literally. The system - shaking emotions that were generated. The absolutely infallible convictions that segregation was intrinsically evil, that the young of all races were merely waiting for the green light from their bigoted elders to mingle joyously, that prejudice was the exclusive commodity of the majority Establishment.

Ha!

The truth, I'm afraid, is that most of us — black or white — really like ghettos. With the all - important proviso, of course, that we build them for ourselves in order to keep others out.

INSIDE LABOR

Labor's Political 'Machine'

By VICTOR RIESEL

WASHINGTON — Just the other day in his office (The Eighth Floor) across from the White House, labor chief George Meany said that the AFL-CIO has more political "clout" than ever in its history. And this is the result of having "a very, very effective political organizaiton ... we do have a machine ... that reaches into the precincts of every industrial state in this country."

And when Meany, labor's chief of chiefs, says it's a machine, he certainly means it. I do believe it never has been matched in political history. During the next weeks, it will run the most electronicized election campaign any free nation ever has known.

According to a confidential packet of documents and two huge folding charts prepared for a special closed conference of COPE's Operating Committee (made available to me) labor's political - action strategists have developed new techniques under a hitherto unreported name and formula known by the code CPM.

The procedure, using computers all the way, is intended to saturate every state in a short time, reach down to every single union member, get his registration record, match it with the party in which he registered, if he did; determine whether he voted or not, print out his telephone number and union relationship — and electronically give the Committee on Political Education directors access to every unionized working - class home in the land.

This futuristic politicking is called "the AFL-CIO National COPE Critical Path Method political procedures program."

In effect, it couples an electronically computerized "network" with hand - card selection, merging of political units, special budgeting of money and manpower in state after state. At least 13 states already are geared for action. They have deadlines for getting their members registered. They have alerts for unions and political action committees to tell them they are behind in view of primaries or the actual November balloting.

To describe the CPM's intricacies, the chart, the arrows and interlocking "boxers" and list each state would take several columns.

Today this "Critical Path Method" (CPM) is aimed at the November elections. It has devised its own enemies list in marginal states and regions. It appears to be able to forecast victories and defeats. For example, Meany said that noontime in his office that he would not (repeat not) be "greatly surprised" to lose to the Republicans the old Jerry Ford - Grand Rapids, Mich., Fifth and the Ohio First Congressional Districts in the Cincinnati area this November.

Though the Path operation no longer calls for a "Veto - Proof Congress," it hasn't changed its objectives. Now it is driving for a "People's Congress" or "a pro - People Congress." There is no difference.

Point is to be able to override President Ford on labor's bills or those it supports. As a wise political scientist, Meany isn't tackling the President head - on in this campaign. For the labor chief it would be senseless. Eventually he may need the President politically. Meany and most of labor may find themselves unable to take the Democratic presidential nominee in 1976. And Meany already has indicated he believes that Sen. Ted Kennedy, were he nominated, would be defeated because of Chappaquiddick.

As for Sen. Scoop Jackson, those around Meany believe the Washingtonian has sacrificed much of the AFL-CIO support with his championing of Peking over Taiwan. And, says one close friend of Meany's, "Jackson is dead politically anyway. I believe George believes Jackson can't get off the ground, so why stay with a loser?"

So the COPE line now, according to the decouments before me, is to say we'll support the new President and fight him only when we have to, but his conservative record discloses he'll not back our bills, so we need a people's Congress to override him when necessary.

But no disrespect is shown for the President. Part of the strategy is to campaign in each district where possible by saying such and such a Republican candidate is "Nixon's man."

And Path certainly can get into each district. As Meany said:

"We've a computerized voting registration list that reaches right down to the grass roots of our own membership."

As for financing, Meany, when asked about contributions to COPE, replied the money is "bigger than ever."

The Path electronically lights up the way to a People's Congress.

But what avail the plow or sail, Or land or life, if freedom fail?

INSIDE WASHINGTON

'Throw Weight'---Key To New SALT II Talks

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14-15 — Crux of those about - to - be resumed SALT II negotiations in the crucial and complex issue of "throw weight" — total weight (destructive power) a nuclear missile can deliver.

Russia has immense superiority in this vital area — and wants even more.

That's the heart of what SALT II is all about. In simple terms, these fateful deliberations on limiting strategic nuclear weapons get down to the following:

Under SALT I, the U.S. can have no more than 1,054 intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBM). These are virtually all of the Minuteman ("light") type. In contrast, the Soviet Union is allowed 1,618 ICBM of which 1,300 are "light" and the other 318 "Heavy."

These 318 missiles are so "heavy" that their total "throw weight" exceeds that of the intire U.S. Minuteman force.

The U.S. agreed to this manifest Russian numerical superiority on the ground that the Americans possessed a big technological margin — specifically the multiple warhead MIRV. At that time the U.S. had an arsenal of hundreds of these nuclear weapons.

Russia had none. Its efforts to develop an operational MIRV had failed, and they had to start all over again.

They did — with a vengance. Several years ahead of expectations the Soviets now have an effective MIRV, and are in process of deploying it on an extensive scale. U.S. authorities estimate that by 1977, when the SALT I agreement is due to expire, Russia will have at least 10,000 multiple warheads mounted on its ICBM.

That's where the sinister rub comes in!

With the Soviets' already large superiority in "Heavy" missiles, the addition of thousands of MIRV would give Russia overwhelming "throw weight" domination — and with it annihilating first - strike preemptive attack capacity.

Moscow doesn't have that now — but it definitely could have it in a relatively few years unless something decisive is done about "throuw weight."

Somberly warns Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the arms conrol subcommittee and leading critic of SALT "In my judgment the current position of the Soviets, with respect both to their arms build - up and their wholly unacceptable weapons limitation proposal, tends ominously to confirm the most profound apprehensions and to raise the most serious question of all: Does Russia really want to stabilize the strategic balance?"

Only time will tell whether the answer to that momentous question will be dicided at the SALT II deliberations reopening in Geneva next week.

Significantly, no informed U.S. official is willing to hazard a guess on the prospects.

RED MENACE

Reason for this wary uncertainty is as clear - cut as it is foreboding:

In the month since the suspension last March of SALT II negotiations, the Kremlin rulers have unyieldingly refused to budge on their demands for what, in effect, amounts to eventual definite all - around superiority in offensive strategic weapons — in numbers, "throw weight," etc.

That's why President Nixon's visit to Moscow last spring was a bust, and why various other backstage maneuvers and strategems have failed. The Soviet Union has adamantly stood pat — and that's that.

Sen. Jackson succinctly sums it up this way, "Far from viewing SALT II as an opportunity to formulate the kind of stable strategic balance that can result only from equality, Russia has actually hardened its position. What its proposal actually comes down to is the classic cases of "what's mine is mine and what's yours is negotiable."

Just what that adds up to in concrete realities are the following:

Since the signing of SALT I the U.S.S.R. has not only developed an operational MIRV capability, but has done so through two new MIRV technlogies. Also, they have tested an entire new generation of land and sea based ICBM, incorporating new technologies as well as new launch techniques. Simultaneous with these tremendous weapons advances they have achieved a mobile land - based ICBM — an unmatched breakthrough.

Also during this period, the Soviets greatly increased the "throw weight" of their missile forces — in which they had a threefold superiority to start with.

Points out Sen. Jackson:

"What is disturbing in these developments is not simply that Russia is modernizing and improving its strategic forces, but the unrestrained accelerating pace at which this development is proceeding, a pace which has seen the production of four completely new ICBM in recent months alone.

"Again, what is gravely disturbing is not that Russia has finally developed MIRV, but rather the spectacularly increased 'throw weight' demonstrated in their recent tests, which would allow them to ultimately double their already vast advantage over the U.S. in this most critical of all categories."

WHAT U.S. WANTS

That graphically and tersely pinpoints the key issue at SALT II.

What it all gets down to is curbing (putting a ceiling) on Russia's steadily soaring "throw weight" superiority.

For that purpose the U.S. wants to impose specific limitations on both the number of MIRVs and "heavy" missiles. Currently, the U.S. outclasses the Soviets in MIRVs, while Russia has a massive edge in giant ICBMs.

Defense Secretary Schlesinger's formula for coping with this complex problem is increasing the number of U.S. land — based ICBMs to the total allowed the Soviets under SALT I. He contends this type U.S. missiles are far more accurate and lethal than anything Russia has — or is likely to have for some years to come.

Secretary of State Kissinger maintains the answer revolves around getting an agreement on "throw weight." As the State Department head sees it, there is little likelihood of inducing Moscow to limit the number of "heavy" missiles, so efforts should be concentrated on attaining an approximate balance of "throw weight."

On this stand he has the general support of President Ford.

However, Schlesinger has strong backing in the Joint Chiefs of Staff and amoung top members of the Senate and House Armed Services Committees.

As a consequence, the U.S. position at the start of the renewed SALT II deliberations will be a "tough composite" — as it was described by a knowledgeable White House source.

"To begin with," he explained, "we are not going to lay down a hard - and - fast line. That is what the other side does, and we definitely are not going to mimic them. We propose to be reasonable and moderate. At the same time we are going to be much tougher than at the first round on SALT II. We are ready and willing to negotiate, but not to pussyfoot. If the other side persists in being unyielding, we'll just call it quits."

Time will tell!

Singles Group Being Formed

The Betwixt - Between Singles Club is Pampa's newest organization.

During its first meeting last Friday Dr. Gerald O. York, Jr., was elected president.

Other officers are to be elected and committees formed during the second organizational meeting, scheduled for Friday, Sept. 20.

The group will meet at the home of Dr. York, 1121 S. Hobart, at 6:30 p.m.

As president of the club, Dr. York said the invitation to the public is:

"Please come out and help make this club a success and help us singles get acquainted. All ages, both sexes, non-denominational, come one and all."

The group's president also said that the first meeting drew a large gathering and that new ideas are welcome.

His phone number is 665-1627.

Democrats Accept Briscoe Platform

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Texas Republican Party convention Tuesday criticized President Ford's anmesty policy and his selection of Nelson Rockefeller as vice president.

The convention earlier decided not to vote on a resolution that would have supported Ford's pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon.

The resolution lambasting Ford, a minority report, was adopted by voice vote and ruled valid by Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., the convention chairman. The resolution was proposed by Rep. Ray Barnhart, R-Pasadena.

Cheers greeted a section of the resolution condemning appointment "to high public office," which referred to Rockefeller.

The resolution was passed over efforts by Tower and George Bush, the new U.S. envoy to China and former congressman, who tried to keep the convention on state issues.

The resolution read:

"Be it resolved that the Republican party of Texas make known to President Ford its very deep concern over the direction of the new administration and apparent compromises of basic conservative principles, as expressed in legislation which would enlarge the federal bureaucracy and subvert personal freedom, legislation which reflects goals of the radical-liberal establishment rather than those advanced by conservative spokesmen, amnesty and the appointment to high public office of individuals whose personal philosophy has previously been rejected by Republicans across the nation."

IN STATE CONVENTION

GOP Criticizes Amnesty, Vice President Selection

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Democrats Tuesday night accepted on a very close voice vote a Gov. Dolph Briscoe - dictated party platform which calls for limits on political spending and tighter restrictions on contributions given to Texas candidates.

The platform, already printed and distributed to delegates before the convention even opened, also commends the Legislature for reinstating the death penalty, calls for repeals of the sales tax on utility bills and suggests deregulation of natural gas and a phasing out of price controls on crude oil.

The 51-page platform was written without the benefit of public hearings and for the most part, reflected the stands Briscoe has expressed in his reelection campaign.

The platform was only slightly amended in committee, with the deletion of one recommendation calling for legalization of wiretaps and oral confessions the only major change.

The platform was accepted by the Democratic state convention on a voice vote and even though it sounded extremely close, Democratic chairman Calvin Guest, a strong backer of Briscoe, gaveled it passed.

"Watergate and Sharpstown should be adequate lessons that the best government is an open government under constant scrutiny by a free press and an informed citizenry," the statement on public confidence said.

The platform also urged the Legislature to require political contributions of more than $100 be in the form of checks rather than cash and that reasonable limitations be imposed on the amount of money political candidates could spend on statewide and district races.

Other platform recommendations included:

—a raise in salary for members of the Legislature.

—revision of the constitution through a "citizens' convention" with delegates appointed by the Legislature.

—a state utility commission for Texas.

Chief May Attend Amarillo Seminar

Pampa Chief of Police Jim Conner said today he hoped to be able to attend a seminar on police personnel and retirement systems scheduled for Thursday at 9 a.m. in Amarillo.

The seminar, to be held at the Villa Inn, is one of 12 set for locations throughout the state, and is funded through a grant made by Governor Briscoe's Criminal Justice Council.

Discussions will focus on two major studies prepared recently by two consulting firms.

Pythians Set Open House

Pampa Lodge No. 480 Knights of Pythias met in regular session Tuesday evening at the Pythian Hall with Don Thompson, vice chancellor, in charge of the meeting.

Plans for an open house meeting Tuesday, Sept. 24, at 8 p.m. at the Pythian Hall, were announced.

LeRoy Slater is in charge of refreshments and A.C. "Lonnie" Parsley, in charge of entertainment. Students of Jeanne Willingham dancing studio will furnish the program.

Three winners in the Knights of Pythias youth program contests held the past year will be presented to the members

Visitors are invited.

API Planning Program On Industry Legislation

Guest speaker for Thursday's meeting of the Panhandle Chapter of American Petroleum Institute, scheduled for 6:30 p.m. at Pampa Country Club, will be Jack Allen, who will discuss various legislative proposals now before Congress.

Allen, an independent oil and gas producer and president of Alpar Resources, Inc., will speak on "the great cloud of uncertainty for the oil industry, such as rolling back of domestic crude oil prices, reduction of elimination of essential tax provision (depletion), excise taxes on production, and mandatory allocation."

A graduate of Texas School of Law, he is immediate past president of the Panhandle Producers and Royalty Owners Association, chairman of the Natural Gas Committee of Independent Petroleum Association of America, and a member of the Gas Supply Committee.

The meeting will be preceded by a social hour at 6:30 p.m., with a buffet dinner set for 7 p.m.

Guests are welcome.

Local Girls Picked For Who's Who

Three Pampa High School senior girls have been notified of their selection for the 8th annual edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students, 1973 - 74, the largest student award publication in the nation.

The three are Nina Marie Westbrook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Ellard, 1608 Christine; Terri McAdoo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene McAdoo, 915 N. Gray, and Kim Morrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Morrow, 1924 N. Zimmers.

Miss McAdoo has been active in the Concert and Stage Bands and Future Homemakers of America.

Miss Morrow has been active in Concert and Stage Bands, Vocational Office Education, United Methodist Youth Fellowship, 4-H Club and National Honor Society. She has served as secretary for the Harvester band.

All three girls plan to attend college after graduation.

Students from over 20,000 public, private and parochial high schools throughout the country are recognized for leadership in academics, athletics, activities or community service in the books. Less than three percent of the junior and senior class students nationwide are awarded the recognition.

In addition to having their biographies published in the book, the students will also compete for one of ten scholarship awards of $500 to $1000 funded by the publishers and will be invited to participate in firm's annual Survey of High Achievers.

By MICHAEL J. CONLON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — We've received some complaints from consumers who ordered record albums, tapes or other merchandise from Longines Wittnauer in New Rochelle, N.Y., but ran into billing problems, undelivered merchandise and other difficulties with the "club."

For example, a reader in Afton, Wyo., said he signed an agreement under which he was to receive 12 free tapes if he would buy 12 more during a three-year period. Two of the first six he received were defective, he says, and he sent them all back.

Later he was hit with a bill for $91.80 for "unfulfilled commitments," with no indication he had been credited for the returned merchandise. He adds that he does not intend to pay for defective products.

The company's problems apparently were sufficient to attract the attention of the New York Attorney General's office, which says Longines Wittnauer has signed an agreement under which it will change some of its procedures. The office says the company henceforth will ship merchandise before requesting payment and inform consumers of their right to refunds or credits when pre-paid merchandise will not be shipped within 30 days of receipt of payment.

Longines also agreed to mail refunds promptly and to remedy consumer complaints, including "the hiring of necessary personnel and the instruction of appropriate procedures to rectify the complaints."

The firm also agreed to make "timely delivery" on catalogues and other order forms for customers who must decide within a set period if they want merchandise mailed to them. Several of the company's affiliates were involved in the agreement, including the Longines Symphonette Capitol Music Service, subject of the complaint in the letter from Wyoming.

As for that particular case and others like it, the attorney general's offices suggests waiting awhile to see if Longines Wittnauer makes the agreed-to corrections, which were to be in force by Sept. 1. If customers are still not satisfied they should pass their complaints on to Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz, 2 World Trade Center, New York, N.Y.

An exercise plan widely advertised in Sunday supplements, magazines and other publications has been hit by a court order designed to curb the advertising claims it has been making. Involved is the "five minute body shaper" marketed by Weider International of Los Angeles.

A suit filed by city and state officials in California is not expected to be decided for some time; but meanwhile a superior court has issued a preliminary order forbidding the firm from referring to its product or plan as a "five minute" program, or any other phrase that implies results can be had in five minutes or any set time unless the average user can expect to do so.

California officials brought the suit because they felt the advertising was deceiving consumers.

B. F. Goodrich has issued a warning to drivers of cars equipped with its collapsible "space saver" tire. It says there have been 19 injuries, two of them fatal, because of violent ruptures of the tire due to improper handling.

The tire comes collapsed in the trunk, equipped with a pressurized container for inflating. Goodrich says the tire should always be securely bolted on the axle hub before any attempt is made to inflate it.

In addition only the pressurized container —never an air hose of the type found at gasoline stations —should be used, and no one but tire experts trained by Goodrich should attempt to remove the tire from its rim or try to repair it in any way.

WFL Restocking

United Press International

There could be some big surprises in the World Football League beginning tonight.

WFL teams, after waiting for nearly six weeks, finally have gotten a chance to sign players dropped by National Football League clubs and quite a few of the have-not teams have been busy restocking their rosters.

Previous scouting reports and game films could be meaningless with all the new personnel filtering into the league. The NFL held on to massive 60-70 man rosters until last week when they reduced their limit to 47 players, making available about 300 players for the new league.

In tonight's games, Portland is at Jacksonville, Philadelphia at Florida, Memphis at Chicago, Detroit at Southern California and New York at The Hawaiians. Houston is at Birmingham in Thursday night's national television game.

With the season little more than half over, the close races are in the East and West while Southern California has surged to a three-game bulge in the West.

Florida, stunned by Detroit last week as the Wheels won their first game, is tied with the New York Stars for the Eastern lead. The Blazers, who have given up the fewest points (149) in the league, will get a big test in the passing of Philadelphia's King Corcoran.

New York, meanwhile, will be playing the first night game in Hawaii this season and the big time change could be a factor. The Hawaiians played their previous home games on Sunday afternoons but have switched to the Wednesday night format. The game will begin at 1:30 a.m. EDT.

Memphis, which trails once beaten Birmingham by a game in the Central Dvision after ending the Americans' unbeaten string last week, will try to put Chicago into a hole.

Portland at Jacksonville features a pair of teams trying to escape the basement in their divisions while Detroit tries to prove its initial win last week was no fluke by trying to knock off another first place club, Southern California.

Coug Golfers Win Tourney Despite Rains

TEXARKANA, Tex. (UPI) — Heavy rains forced several long delays during the first round of the 6th annual Southwest Conference Fall Golf Tournament Tuesday, but the favored Houston Cougars got in enough holes to win the medal play portion and hold a slim edge in the match play.

The golfers got in only 27 holes with the remaining 27 holes to be played Wednesday over the 6,613-yard par 72 Texarkana Country Club course.

The Cougars, who have won the match play title for the past two years, qualified for that segment of this year's tournament with an 18-hole team total of 301.

SMU was runner up with a 306 and Texas came in third with a 312. Texas Tech rounded out the qualifiers with a 320.

The remaining five SWC teams — Baylor, Rice, Arkansas, Texas A&M and TCU — are still competing for the two-ball and four-ball titles.

In match play over the first nine holes, Houston led the Red Raiders 3½-2½ and Texas held a commanding 4-2 lead over SMU. The final nine holes of those matches were scheduled for Wednesday morning with the final rounds of the 54-hole tournament set for the afternoon.

Houston was the four-ball leader with a 27-hole total of 96, 12 under par. Tech came in second with 100 and Texas and SMU tied at 102. Texas A&M held a 103, followed by Arkansas (105), Baylor and Rice (106) and TCU (108).

In the two-ball competition, the unheralded Cougar pair of Van Gillen and Brad Fabel led with a 102 total. Keith Fergus, a Cougar all-America and this year's SWC medalist, and Elroy Marti Jr. trailed their teammates by one.

Eyes Of Texas On Dying A's

United Press International

The eyes of Texas—and, for that matter, the baseball world—are suddenly focused on the two-time world champion Oakland A's.

It's still a long shot but the usually steady A's just might be about to blow their chance to become the third team in baseball history to win three straight World Series.

The A's have lost nine of 14 games since Sept. 5, the worst streak they have had in the last three years for that period of time, giving the Texas Rangers a chance to "steal" the American League's Western Division title from them. The A's lead the West by only 4 ½ games after dropping a 2-1 decision to the Kansas City Royals Tuesday night and have 13 games left to play while the Rangers have 14.

The Rangers gained ground Tuesday night without playing, as their game with California was postponed because of wet grounds.

Baltimore reduced their deficit in the AL East to 1 ½ games by defeating New York 4-0, Detroit beat Boston 5-3, Milwaukee shaded Cleveland 32 and Minnesota whipped Chicago 8-0 in other AL games.

National League results were St. Louis 2 Pittsburgh 1, Chicago 4 Philadelphia 2, Houston 7 Los Angeles 0, San Diego 6 Cincinnati 1, and Atlanta 4 San Francisco 3.

Jim Hunter, a four-time 20-game winner who is supposed to win the big ones for the A's, didn't Tuesday night when Steve Busby hurled a three-hitter for the Royals and became a 20-game winner for the first time.

The Royals scored the decisive run in the seventh inning when Vada Pinson doubled and scored from second on an infield single by George Brett. Shortstop Bert Campaneris fielded Brett's grounder behind second base and threw too late to first base. Pinson, who never stopped running, scored before the relay could retire him at the plate.

Busby struck out eight and walked three in raising his record to 20-14.

Brewers 3 Indians 2

Darrell Porter's homer tied the score and pinch-hitter Bob Hansen singled in the decisive run in the seventh inning to give Milwaukee's Jim Colborn his ninth victory against 12 losses. Jim Perry went the distance for the Indians and is now 15-12. Oscar Gamble homered for the Indians.

Twins 8 White Sox 0

Vic Albury pitched a six-hitter for his seventh win behind a nine-hit Minnesota attack which included two singles and a double by Eric Soderholm. Stan Bahnsen was the loser for the White Sox, who have dropped 10 of their last 12 games. The victory was the Twins' ninth in 11 game.

US Yacht Wins Cup

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — The U.S. Yacht Courageous was the toast of the American yachting world today.

In what seemed an almost effortless test, she had wiped out a brash challenge by Australia's Southern Cross to win the America's Cup, held by the United States Tor 123 years and considered the emblem of international yachting supremacy.

Courageous, a better boat with a better crew, scored four straight wins in the 22nd challenge for the Cup, the most decisive of which came Tuesday when she left Southern Cross trailing behind at every turn on the six-leg, 24.3-mile course on Rhode Island Sound.

The Americans crossed the finish line seven minutes, 19 seconds ahead of the struggling Australians, broke out the champagne already icing in the boat's hold—and let pandamonium break loose.

Whistles tooted, sirens shrieked and horns blared as skipper Ted Hood brought his boat across the line to the cannon's boom in this first battle between alunimum hull 12 meter boats.

CORRECTION

It has been reported on recent sports pages that Kelly Baker, Pampa defensive end, has caught passes for the Harvesters in the last two games.

That would be tough to do since Baker doesn't play offense. Actually, it was alternate end Kory Gamblin, who has caught two passes for 42 yards this season for a 21.0 average.

Maybe this sports editor will start using his program.

LANDRY SAYS

Films Play Big Role In Football

DALLAS (UPI) — Coaches and players in professional football look at hundreds of feet of film between games and what they try to do each Sunday depends a lot on what they have seen in the film room during the week.

And sometimes, perhaps, a player's mental attitude is also affected by what he has seen on the screen.

"When a team is mentally ready," Dallas coach Tom Landry said Tuesday, "it can get rapped for a loss or make a mistake and come back from it.

"It's a fine line. Sometimes what you look at (on film) and see the other team do, that has a lot to do with the way your players think.

"Atlanta of course looked at our game film with Pittsburgh (in which the Steelers won, 41-15 to close out the exhibition season). They should have burned that film."

In other words Atlanta might have looked at the Cowboy-Steeler film and become a little complacent, or at least not mentally tough.

So, using that philosophy, does Landry plan to take a look at the Cowboys next opponent — Philadelphia—in films of the Eagles 7-3 loss to St. Louis last week?

"Yes, we're going to show it," Landry said. "We remember what happened to us last year when we went up there (a 30-16 Eagle win). That stays with you a lot longer than a film does."

The Eagles usually manage to get up for the Cowboys, particularly in Philadelphia, so Landry expects something more from the opposition offense this week.

San Diego Figures To Grow Stronger

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — The big question for the San Diego Chargers this year is not whether they will make the National Football League playoffs but whether they will beat anybody.

"You can figure us for 0-14 this year," Coach Tommy Prothro said, "but we'll be better than that. As the season progresses we'll improve more than the other teams."

Obviously, the Chargers are rebuilding after coming off a 2-11-1 season. Sixteen players who started at least several games last year are gone. A few were involved in a drug scandal that had a serious impact.

"That's a lot of starters to disappear," Prothro said, "and the only thing we got for any of them other than a future draft choice was John Teerlinck." The rookie defensive tackle was obtained for former All-Pro guard Walt Sweeney.

Off the exhibition season, second-year quarterback Dan Fouts appeared ready to take over for John Unitas and has capable back-up men in rookie veteran Don Horn and Jesse Freitas, who led the country's collegians in passing last year with San Diego State.

Top draft choice Bo Matthews of Colorado and free agent Glenn Bonner of Washington were impressive in preseason and team with veteran Cid Edwards, who Prothro calls his ace, at running back.

Veterans Gary Garrison and Jerry LeVias are quality wide receivers with veterans Dick Gordon and Jim Beirne and rookie speedster Harrison Davis to back them up.

No standout tight end to replace Pettis Norman has emerged although veterans Wayne Stewart and Jim Thaxton have had moments.

The offensive line of Russ Washington and Terry Owens at tackles, Doug Wilkerson and Ira Gordon at guards and Carl Mauck at center has been regarded as a strong point but is beginning to show age. Rookie Mark Markovich from Penn State is being groomed for the future.

Defensively, the Chargers had no pass rush last year. Coy Bacon at right end is the only returning starter. Trades have added veterans Dave Rowe and Bob Brown at tackle and Pete Lazetich has been moved from linebacker to left end. Rookies Teerlinck and Bon Boatwright show promise.

Rookie Don Goode, another first-round choice, is the hope at one outside linebacker but he probably will be brought along slowly behind journeymen Carl Gersbach and Floyd Rice. Veteran Fred Forsberg and rookie Charles Anthony are slated in the middle.

Those So-Called Blood Thinners

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know what you mean by the "so - called blood thinners." You said excessive use could cause bruises.

I have taken blood thinners for longer than I care to remember. I have never felt it was necessary to take that many or that they do that much good. Why do you call them "so - called" and do they have any other adverse effects? — S.M.M.

I used the term "so - called" because that is the popularly used word. The technical (and more accurate) term is "anticoagulants."

That is, the anticoagulants have the property of retarding the clotting of blood, although other than that they do not markedly change the consistency of the blood. Here is one effect:

If, having normal blood, you get a bump hard enough to break some tiny blood vessels, the blood will clot so rapidly that relatively little of it escapes.

But if the blood has been "thinned" with anticoagulants, the blood does not clot so promptly, more of it seeps into the tissues, and presently there is enough to cause a visible bruise. The anticoagulants do not cause the bruises — but they permit them to develop.

Similarly a nick, say from shaving, or any small wound will bleed longer if you are being treated with anticoagulants.

These medications are extremely useful in some cases, chief among them being a heart attack caused by a blood clot; a stroke from a clot; or in acute phlebitis. The treatment combats the risk of another clot forming.

The value is counterbalanced by the risk of more bleeding if some wound occurs, so the best protection is to have periodic "pro - time tests," meaning tests to see how long it takes the prothrombin in the blood to form a clot when a clot is needed.

Are your "blood thinners" of the truly anticoagulant type or something else?

Dear Doctor: When a certain individual is identified as confirmed "positive" for opiates (44.0), would that mean that he was pretty well hooked? — J.H.S.

Never heard of it, nor has the drug clinic with which I checked. Can any other reader elucidate?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please tell me what you can about DMSO (dimethylsulfoxide). Where could I obtain a copy of the Food and Drug Administration report or ruling relative to its uses, dangers, etc.? — T.E.H.

You'll have to ask FDA about that. Pat McGrady, Sr., in a book, "The Persecuted Drug, the Story of DMSO," published last year by Doubleday, said he had great difficulty in trying to get specific reports. McGrady has long been a highly respected science writer, so you may be interested in looking up his book.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I want your opinion on giving beer to children, especially under 2 years of age. I have seen parents do it and have seen the results that followed.

Some say the doctor advised putting beer in their formula. I knew one young fellow whose parents frequent the tavern and took him along and everybody in the tavern would give him beer. Later he developed kidney trouble and died. — Mrs. L.C.S.

My opinion? I cannot see any exucse whatever for giving beer (or anything else alcoholic) to babies. I cannot see any excuse for putting it in babies' formual. Nor can I see any excuse for taking babies to taverns or giving beer to youngsters if they do get in.

I would question whether the beer had anything to do with the young man's death from kidney disease — but that doesn't alter my other remarks one whit.

To learn of the many factors involved in the treatment of hiatal hernia (which concerns the esophagus), write to Dr. Thosteson in care of Dr. George C. Thosteson, Box 1400 Elgin, Illinois 60120 for a copy of his booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It." Enclose a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dog Is Woman's Worst Friend

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Liv Ullmann unleashed a story about her dachshund which has a new moral: Dog is woman's worst friend.

"Her name is 'Pet' and I get her by a psychiatrist I was with for several years," said the blue - eyed Norwegian beauty as she delicately tasted champagne at the Park Lane. "When I went with Ingmar Bergman" — she easily tossed off the name of the famous Swedish director — "I found he was very jealous, hated the dog, tried to kick it and tried to pay my friends to run over it."

"The bastard!" I said. The B.W. and I are dog - lovers and hate dog - haters.

"But the dog is sly," Liv Ullmann said with a pretty smile.

"The dog very slowly comes into his room and changes its affections from me to him. It is always lying with him when he's reading a script. He gets to love the dog. In fact, we call the dog our divorce child."

Miss Ullmann explained that when they broke off, "he wouldn't let me take the dog with me. He let me have our child, our daughter, but he keeps the dog. I've never seen a lady conquer a man like that!"

I tried to get Liv Ullmann to talking about her new films, "Scenes From a Marriage" or "The Abdication," the former having been directed by dog - lover Ingmar Bergman.

"The dog," she finally said, "is 15 years old, which would be 105 if she were human. Oh, I still love the dog. She's MY dog."

"Do you see her?"

Miss Ullmann stared at me across the top of her champagne. "Oh, yes," she said, with a certain throatiness, "I have visiting rights."

How soon they forget! At the El Morocco booming opening, jammed with black - tie folks, the laugh was, "Hear the news? Ford just pardoned Dillinger, Pretty Boy Floyd, the Boston Strangler, Eichmann, Hauptmann and John Wilkes Booth!" ... Maitre d'Angelo's starting his 40th year at El Morocco, his boss Jeff James is beginning his 3rd. Hope Hampton, the Duchess of Park Av., has been a customer almost as long.

James Michener told a Doubleday literary party for the Millie Considine - Ruth Pool book, "Wills," that his advice to would - be writers is "Do everything just the opposite of the way I did it." He meant that he is a methodical researcher and painstaking writer which, I gathered, he felt one doesn't have to be nowadays ... The new "Copacabana" private club at the old 10 E. 60th St. site will start with a big backgammon extravaganza if things work out as expected.

Ed Sullivan's condition mystifies the doctors ... Beatrice Lillie has cataracts awaiting removal but otherwise is healthy, says her personal mgr. John Philip. Digging up her Canadian birth certificate recently, Bea found she was 4 years older — not younger — and was therefore 80 on May 29.

Under Twenty

DEAR ASTRID
By ASTRID CARSON

Dear Astrid:

I've loved this girl for over two years. We both went to the same junior high and now we are going to the same high school. I call her every once in a while and have told her how much I like her.

I've bought her a gold necklace. She told me how nice and kind I was and that she likes me very much as a friend. Now she has broken up with her boyfriend and so I want her. I don't know how to get her. Please help me.

In Love

Dear In Love:

It sounds as if you might be rushing things a bit for this girl. The gift you bought her under the circumstances was perhaps too much. Now that she's broken up with her boyfriend you may be moving in too fast.

Try to accept the friendship she offers for the time being and give your relationship a chance to grow. Also, give her a chance to get over her boyfriend.

Dear Astrid:

My sister thinks that I am the cause of her and her boyfriend's breaking up. What can I do to convince her I'm not?

Confused

Dear Confused:

If you know you are not responsible, all you can do is to try to talk it out with her. She will only believe what she wants to believe, especially now while the breakup is fresh in her mind. Be patient. She'll see the truth when she really thinks it over.

Dear Astrid:

Every time school starts I get a girlfriend. When we break up she says she never really liked me. She usually says she felt sorry for me. It is that way every time. Is she really sorry or is she using me until she gets another boyfriend?

Wondering

Dear Wondering:

Sometimes people in breaking up a relationship look for excuses to ease the feelings of the other person. It is probably just coincidence that the girls used the same story to you. You may just be trying too hard and as a result are up tight with your girlfriends. Try to play it cool.

Dear Astrid:

I've been living with my boyfriend for five months. He was married twice before and refuses to marry again? We love each other very much. What can I do to get him to marry me? I've tried just about everything.

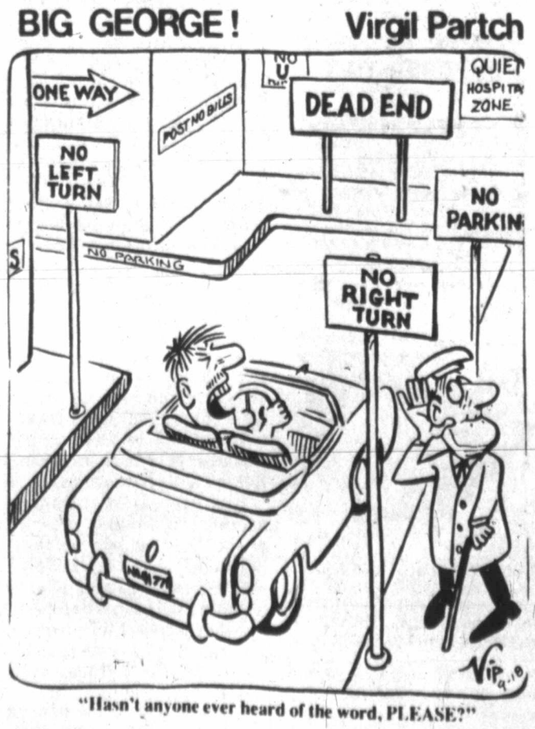

RM

Dear RM:

If marriage is what you were looking for, you should have insisted on it before you began living with your boyfriend. It is obviously what you want now and if you've tried everything else there is only one thing left for you to do: Move out.

NUCLEAR PLANTS

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission says that electric utilities have announced plans for 21 new nuclear power generating plants since the first of the year.

The AEC says there are in this country 45 plants already licensed for operation, 2 others authorized to operate, 60 under construction and 105 for which reactors have been ordered.

MEDITATION PITCH

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Jim Lonborg, star pitcher with the Boston Red Sox before being injured in a ski accident several years ago, gives part of the credit for a comeback with the Phillies this year to his practice of Transcendental Meditation, a mind and body relaxant dependent upon periods of deep, restful thought. "It calms me," says Lonborg.

Social Security Q And A

(Have you a question about social security? Address it to Howard L. Weatherly, Branch Manager, Social Securtiy Administration, 1541 N. Hobart, Pampa, Texas 79065. You will receive an answer in this column or by mail.)

By H.L. WEATHERLY

Q. I am a disabled widow with no children. I am 48 years old. Can I receive social security now on my deceased husband's record?

A. A disbled widow without children can get benefits as early as age 50.

Q. I receive supplemental income payments. Do I have to notify the social security office if I move, even though my post office box address will be the same?

A. Yes. Persons getting supplemental security income payments should always notify social security if they move.

Q. My husband, age 68, is going to retire at the end of November. He has Medicare but, has not received any monthly benefits because of his earnings. How soon should we notify social security in order to get his checks started on time?

A. Call us about Oct. 1 so the check for October, due Nov. 3, will be on time.

Q. A neighbor who was working for the city sanitation division, retired recently. Benefits to him, his 16 - year old son and his wife are slightly higher than his salary was. Is this possible?

A. Yes, in the lower income brackets, the maximum family benefits may exceed the worker's average earnings. However it is rare for family benefits to be higher than the worker's salary at retirement.

INDUSTRY IN UNIVERSITY

IBM Paying Teacher's Salary

EDINBURG, Tex. (UPI)—Joe Diaz, 52, is a graduate engineer, computer programming expert, 23-year-old veteran of the IBM Corp. and just starting a new career as a teacher at Pan American University.

IBM pays Diaz' salary, and placed him at Pan Am because the school has a large enrollment from minorities and has some difficulty in competing for top teachers and professors. Diaz and IBM hope to receive as much from the arrangement as Pan Am and the university's students.

"My primary function here is teaching," Diaz said. "But along with that, this program allows IBM to bring some of the application areas to teaching, giving the classroom a more real-life situation.

"It provides for an exchange of ideas between education and industry which has been very neglected in the past and provides IBM with some interface on what is going on in the academic world, what the faculty thinks, what the students think and it helps IBM to know what to expect of the employes it hires out of the universities."

Diaz, who lived in Owego, N. Y., before moving to South Texas, is one of 34 IBM employes involved in the faculty loan program.

Other colleges in Texas with an IBM employe on their faculty are El Paso Community College, Laredo Junior College, Texas Southern University, Prairie View A&M and Bishop College.

"The number one goal in beginning this program was to provide assistance in easing the teaching load at the various universities," Diaz said. "Many classes at the universities are heavily overloaded, 40 to 50 students, when the ideal is 20 or less per class.

"But beyond that, we feel that we can make contributions in course development and in what is actually taught in the classroom."

The emphasis is on minorityoriented schools, and that too will be a plus for IBM.

"This project is being conducted almost exclusively at minority and Appalachian schools," he said. "Those who because of money have not been able to compete for the better educators.

"There has been heavy competition among universities in the last few years for outstanding Negro scholars among the non-Negro schools. Some of the competing universities simply had none of these individuals and wanted them, and others were just entering areas where these individuals had expertise."

Diaz said the program will be helpful in recruiting.

Several years ago, IBM began the project by compiling a list of universities which would want IBM employes as teachers. The universities would send a detailed request for a person, listing specific educational and interest backgrounds. IBM employes at the same time applied for consideration by IBM, listing what kind of a university they wanted to be assigned to.

FOR CANNING

Woman Complains Of Lids Shortage

EAGLE, Mich. (UPI) — Mrs. Margaret Maag has been canning the garden vegetables she raises on her farm in the rural community of Eagle for years. But now she's got a problm —no lids for the jars.

You'll find no "store bought" canned goods cluttering her pantry shelves.

But, because of a new commodity shortage, Mrs. Maag, her daughters and their neighbors are having deep trouble finding jar lids.

It's gotten so bad, they are sometimes forced to throw away the products they are raising for their own families.

"This is really a serious problem, with people not being able to can when the products are available," the 65-year-old homekeeper, wife of a retired steelworker, said.

"I know I have thrown away a lot of stuff because I was short of lids. They were hard to come by. I can everything, including applesauce."

Canning supplies have been in great demand nationwide because of a shortage of tinplate used for jar lids and in material essential to the production of glass canning jars.

This month, Mrs. Maag, a daughter, and another woman who had purchased a dozen cans of tomato from Mrs. Maag began calling retail stores in surrounding communities, Lansing and even as far away as Michigan's Upper Peninsula in search of jar lids. No luck.

"There were no lids to be had anywhere," Mrs. Magg said.

Finally, "in desperation," she decided to call Gov. William G. Milliken.

"Lids are something we need," she said. "This isn't a frivilous thing. I hated to bother the governor, but I thought he might know a source. And as it turned out, he did."

Milliken told Mrs. Maag he had been told by a member of the legislature that a jar lid supplier had been located in Toronto. He ordered the state department of commerce to begin notifying Michigan retail outlets where lids could be obtained.

But Mrs. Maag, who puts away from 350 to 500 cans of vegetables, fruit and even stew for winter each year, said she's afraid she waited too long to look for help.

"We can expect frost anytime now and once that happens, that's it for your garden," she said. "Maybe I should have started making waves about a month ago.

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS® ...it tells you how

What's summer without at least one good, old-fashioned fish fry . . . and what's a fish fry without corn bread! Every good cook, of course, has his or her own "special" corn bread recipe. It's always fun to try a new one, however . . . and the following recipe was taken from The Deaf Smith Country Cookbook.

Mix together 3 cups of stone-ground cornmeal, 1 teaspoon of salt and 3 tablespoons of corn oil. Pour 2 cups of boiling water into the mixture and stir well. Add one cup of milk and let batter cool for about 40 minutes. Stir in 1 beaten egg and 3 teaspoons baking powder . . . then pour the mixture into a hot, well-oiled 8" X 8" pan or muffin tins. Bake at 425° F for 30—40 minutes and serve hot. With lots of butter!

As many good cooks (especially in the Southwest) know, two parts of corn and one of beans—properly prepared—are almost equal in protein to fresh milk and meat. For ten budget-stretching, traditional, pinto-bean-and-corn recipes straight from Mexico, send 10¢ and a stamped, self-addressed long envelope to THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS®, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.
