SNYDER YOUTH IS REPEAT WINNER

Dusty Moore, Snyder FFA boy, above, is shown with his lamb that placed first in the fine wool class this morning. More than 300 persons saw the judging of 86 lambs in this class which was the first to be judged in the Scurry County Junior Livestock Show being held today and tomorrow at the rodeo grounds. Buddy Drum's lamb placed first in the crossbred class.—(Lee Watson photograph.)

Cross Breed, Fine Wool Sheep Champions Picked Here Today

Dusty Moore and Buddy Drum, both 16-year-old Snyder FFA boys, topped a large number of lambs in their separate classes this morning and showed first place, Moore in the fine wool class and Drum in the crossbred.

Moore won first places in last year's show in both the lamb and calf contests. Dry weather causes him to be pessimistic about the possibility of being a repeat winner in the calf contest this year, however.

"My calf isn't fat enough," he said.

Moore also took second and ninth places in the crossbred class, while Drum picked up seventh in addition to his first place lamb.

Jackie Grimmett, Snyder FFA, won both the second and third place ribbons with his fine wool lambs. Grimmett is a 17-year-old junior in Snyder High School.

Fourth place went to Royce Pierce, Synder FFA, a high school sophomore.

Another Snyder FFA boy, Johnny Roberts, a freshman took fifth place in the fine wool lamb judging.

Junior McCormick, Snyder FFA freshman placed sixth; Monnie Hedges, sophomore in Snyder FFA was seventh; Richard Miller, Snyder 4-H boy in the seventh grade was eighth; Dick Browning, Snyder FFA freshman, ninth; and Robbie Roberson, Hermleigh 4-H boy in the seventh grade placed tenth in the show.

There were 86 lambs entered in the class by FFA and 4-H boys from all parts of the county.

Other places in the crossbred class were: third, Jim Sealy, 16, Snyder FFA; fourth and eighth, Ray Parks, 17, Snyder FFA; fifth, Morris Head, 11, Snyder 4-H; sixth, Royce Pierce, who won fourth in the fine wool class; and tenth to Ed Kerley, 16, Fluvanna 4-H.

Oscar Fowler, county agent, said the grand champion will be selected from the best sheep in both classes. The total of 146 lambs entered in the two classes made a record for the show, Broadway Browning, Snyder FFA instructor, said.

More hogs than were anticipated by directors of the Scurry County Junior Livestock Association, sponsors of the show, have been entered. There are 105 swine entered. Judging of hogs will take place this afternoon.

Capon judging will follow, and calves will be judged starting at 9:30 in the morning.

Garza Stepout Ready To Drill

Alamo Oil Co. of Lubbock has staked location for its No. 1 W. A. Cash as a one location stepout to the northwest side of the Garza field in Garza County.

It is 330 feet from south and east lines of section 12-16-T&P, and will drill to 3,400 feet with combination tools for a test of the San Andres. This location is about one-half mile west and one - quarter of a mile north of the nearest San Andres producer, recently completed by Alamo as a one-mile extension to the field.

BORDEN WILDCAT

Hunt Oil Co. has plugged and abandoned the No. 2 R. L. Gray, Borden wildcat about nine miles west and slightly north of the one-well Canning - Wolfcamp pool. It was drilled to total depth of 8,471 feet in lime.

Drillsite was in section 228-97-H&TC.

Superior No. 6-597 Jones, Borden wildcat four miles northwest of Fluvanna, took a core from 7,979 - 7,986 feet and is now preparing to drillstem test. Recovery on the core was one and one-half feet, but no description was reported.

MITCHELL COUNTY

Plugging orders have been issued on Hunt Oil Co. No. 1 Elwood Estate, 17 miles southeast of Colorado City. It was abandoned at 7,412 feet, apparently in Ellenburger. Drillsite was in section 33, J. P. Smith survey.

Union Sulphur & Oil No. 1 E.E. Erwin, three miles west of the Coleman Ranch pool in Northwest Mitchell County, pumped 14.5 barrels of oil in 20½ hours through perforations from 7,550 - 7,581 feet. It is continuing to test for production.

KENT REPORT

In Kent County, Kewanee Oil No. 1 Maben has corrected the top of the reef to 6,436 feet. Casing is cemented on bottom, 6,475 feet, and perforated from 6,436 - 6,459 and 6,464 - 6,474 feet. Those perforations were treated with 500 gallons of acid, but the well did not flow after acid load and residue were swabbed out. More swabbing and testing are planned.

SCURRY COUNTY

Texas No. 198 P. L. Fuller, Scurry wildcat, is swabbing at the rate of about 10 barrels of oil per hour with 5,000 feet of fluid in the hole. Some of the oil is load oil and some is new oil. Operator swabbed 110 barrels of load oil in 12 hours before swabbing began at the present rate. Casing is perforated from 7,372 - 7,390 feet, and perforations were treated with 200 gallons of mud acid and 500 gallons of regular acid.

Postpone Oil Strike Temporarily Today

By The Associated Press

The oil strike set for Sunday midnight has been "temporarily postponed," a union official announced today.

The announcement came from Joseph J. McKenna, East Chicago, Ill., independent union representative on a contract co-ordination board.

McKenna said the delay will permit the 22 CIO, AFL and independent unions to take their case to the Wage Stabilization Board tomorrow. President Truman yesterday certified to the WSB the disputes between eight major oil companies and the unions and said other oil companies involved may be added to the list.

McKenna said President O. A. (Jack) Knight of the Oil Workers International Union (CIO) and C. R. Clover of the AFL oil workers will go before the wage board tomorrow.

Union officials in Texas, apparently anticipating the announcement, already had suggested that oil companies "hold in abeyance" any action toward shutdown of refineries.

Elro Brown, Beaumont, Dist. 4 director for OWIU, said the union sought to cooperate in averting the unnecessary expense and production interruption involved in such shutdowns.

But at least one big refinery—Magnolia's at Beaumont — already had taken steps to shut down. Others had planned to begin orderly shutdowns tonight. It takes as long as 72 hours to close up some of the larger refineries without endangering facilities.

Another OWIU district director described as "unrealistic" the manner of the government's intervention, especially because only eight oil companies were named in the President's order.

"That's unrealistic," said Fred Schmidt, Dallas, District 3 director for the Oil Workers International Union (CIO), one of the largest of 22 unions banded together in demanding 25 cents an hour wage increases.

"In some industries as steels contracts made by a few major companies set a wage pattern. That's not true in oil. We have more than 350 contracts involved in this dispute and no two are alike. Phillips Oil Company is not on the list given by the President."

Petitions For Liquor Election Are Turned In

Backers of the movement to call a local option election on legalizing the sale of all alcoholic beverages in Scurry County turned in 24 copies of the petition requesting such an election to the county clerk, Pat Johnston, about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon for certification.

Johnston said the petition contained 638 signatures — almost three times as many as are required to call an election. The Texas local option election laws state that the petition must contain signatures of 10 per cent of the qualified voters who voted in the last governor's election at which time presidential electors were voted upon.

In the last such election 2,310 persons voted so the signatures on the petition would have to total at least 231.

Johnston said he had checked two copies of the petition, and that the other copies could probably be checked in about two days.

The petition is to be presented to the commissioner's court on March 10, the court's regular meeting day.

Implications Of Tideland Bill Put Before Senators Today

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—Senators advocating state ownership of lands beneath the marginal seas hammered today at the idea that far more than oil is at stake.

Opening this line of attack on the pending bill, which would give the Federal government temporary control of submerged lands, Sen. Long (D-La) told the Senate yesterday there was no assurance the government wouldn't claim all structures erected on filled - in coastal land.

Billions of dollars worth of property such as piers; docks, warehouses and pleasure pavillions would be involved, he said.

Some future administration, he argued, might seek to extend the Federal "paramount rights" theory also to the beds of rivers and harbors.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) has insisted no such action is contemplated, and Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) said yesterday nine senators would join him in an amendment which would specifically surrender any federal claim to land beneath bays, harbors, rivers, lakes and other inland waters.

O'Mahoney is co-author with Sen. Anderson (D-NM) of the pending resolution, which would put oil operations in off-shore areas under the Secretary of Interior. The states would receive 37½ per cent of revenues from developments for a distance of three miles from their respective shores.

Sen. Holland (D-Fla), agreeing with Long, said many cities have erected buildings on filled-in land. He declared federal success in the present controversy might cloud these titles.

He described how Miami Beach was built up largely from a sand bar by filling in land.

Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass) noted large tracts in the Boston area also were on filled-in land. These might fall under federal jurisdiction, he said if the government's claim on the off-shore oil lands is sustained by Congress.

The Supreme Court has held the government has "paramount rights" to the areas off the shores of California, Texas and Louisiana.

Emphasizing his views, Long observed that it would be easy at many places in the Gulf of Mexico off the Louisiana and Texas coasts to build an island. He asked then whether anyone thought the government would recognize state ownership of such property if a well were drilled there and oil production brought in.

Union Men In This Area Are Set For Strike

While the oil workers' strike for higher wages threatens the entire nation with a halt in production for civilian use, pipeline workers here are awaiting orders from their locals.

The largest number of those workers are at Pan American Pipeline, where about 65 employes may stop work at any time after the strike is called.

According to Landis Lee, West Texas division chairman here of the Oil Workers International, CIO, union men at Pan American are members of a local at Texas City and will not strike until the local gives him orders.

A. M. Ramsey, Lee's alternate, said the strike will probably be staggered across the nation, beginning in the Eastern states and finally working west. He added that workers here may be called out on strike at any time afterward.

If workers here strike, Ramsey said, pickets will be stationed at three Pan American offices near here.

Workers here voted to demand a 25 cent across - the - board pay raise, just as workers have voted throughout the nation, Ramsey said. He added that very few field workers for the firm here are non-union men.

An estimated 28 union members are employed at Texas - New Mexico Pipeline. Union men there have not yet indicated when they will be called out on strike.

Dam Closure Is Started, About 40 Days Work

J. W. Moorman, contractor who is constructing the Colorado River Municipal Water District dam southwest of Snyder, said today that work on closure of the dam has begun and will be completed in about 40 days.

Moorman said that dirt will be filled in the gap, which averages 700 feet in width, to an elevation of about 2,210 feet, adding that if he receives no notice from the district to hold up completion, the closure will be filled 70 feet higher.

The contractor explained that two oil companies are now drilling wells in the area which will later be a part of the lake, adding that if they have not finished drilling by the time he is ready to complete the closure the district has the right by contract to hold up his work for at least 60 days. He added that mounds have already been built for nine oil wells inside the lake boundaries to elevate them above the water.

The gap was left in the dam while the first phases of the work were underway to prevent water from backing up the river before completion of the dam. Moorman said that about 370,000 yards of dirt will be required to complete the closure.

Ex-Big Democrat And Society Lawyer Wounded By Gun Shots

NEW YORK (AP)—Sol A. Rosenblatt, society lawyer and disputed heir to a J. P. Morgan granddaughter's fortune, was wounded last night by a mystery gunman as he entered his Park Avenue home.

The attorney, one-time general counsel for the Democratic National Committee, was struck in the left thigh by one of three shots fired by his assailant, who escaped in a car with another man.

The car, reported stolen, later was found abandoned four blocks north on Park Avenue.

Rosenblatt, 51, a key figure in the currently contested will left by Mrs. Eleanor Morgan Satterlee, kin of the late J. P. Morgan the elder, said after the shooting:

"I wish I had something to tell you, but I don't know anything."

His wound was described as not serious. A policeman was assigned to guard him at New York Hospital.

Rosenblatt, besides handling the legal affairs of numerous society figures, is impartial chairman of the New York cloak and suit industry, often a storm-center in labor relations.

He served as an administrator of the National Recovery Administration (NRA) under the late President Roosevelt.

The shooting came six hours after hearings on the disputed will had been postponed without explanation until Monday.

The will of Mrs. Satterlee, who died last April 11, made Rosenblatt the chief beneficiary to an estate estimated from $35,000 to several hundred thousand dollars. The document is being contested in Surrogate's Court by Mrs. Mabel S. Ingalls, Mrs. Satterlee's sister, who received nothing.

Mrs. Ingalls charges that Rosenblatt and Dr. Richard H. Hoffman, Park Avenue psychiatrist, exerted undue influence over Mrs. Satterlee.

Witnesses in the case have testified that Mrs. Satterlee was in love with Dr. Hoffman and left her fortune to Rosenblatt so he could see that Hoffman got it. In the will, Hoffman was bequeathed only an oil painting.

Following the shooting, a police guard was placed in the home of Hoffman, who said:

"Maybe they were out to get me and made a mistake. Rosenblatt and I look alike, you know. Furthermore, as a psychiatrist, I am afraid of a chain reaction, as we both are involved in the same case. I might be next."

Hoffman is married and has a son.

The gunman accosted Rosenblatt as he was about to enter his apartment house for dinner.

A sedan, its motor running, was parked by the apartment entrance as Rosenblatt, his back to the street, started to enter the building.

The doorman, Edward Minerly, saw a man suddenly leap from the parked car and fire three shots from a .32-caliber pistol.

The first bullet hit the attorney, a second landed inside the apartment lobby and a third pierced a panel in the glass entrance doors.

The gunman leaped into the waiting car which sped away.

Chinese Try To Write Ban On Blockades Into Truce

MUNSAN, Korea (AP) — Communist truce negotiators today sought to forestall a possible naval blockade of the Red China coast or an invasion of the mainland.

The Reds proposed writing a ban into a Korean armistice.

"It seems that what they are trying to do is to stretch the armistice agreement to any place in the world where forces in Korea have any territory under their control," said Col. Don O. Darrow.

He said the Reds held that "any military action would be prohibited, not only in Korea, but in any other place."

The Communist maneuver came during a discussion of withdrawing naval forces from Korean waters during a truce.

Harvard-educated Col. Pu Shan proposed deleting specific reference to Korea.

Darrow said the proposal apparently was designed primarily to prevent an Allied blockade of the Chinese mainland or an Allied-supported invasion by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist forces from Formosa.

There has been unofficial talk that the U.N. Command might attempt to enforce a Korean truce by threatening to blockade the China coast and bomb Chinese industrial centers if the Reds violate the armistice.

Darrow intimated the Communist move could have far reaching effects on the truce negotiations. But he emphasized the Reds might be "just exploring the idea."

"Tomorrow they may have a different view," Darrow said.

The U.N. staff officer told the Communists they apparently were "not aware of the nature of the conflict in Korea."

He said both sides "are fighting only in Korea" and to avoid possible misinterpretation an armistice agreement should "clearly specify these limitations."

Darrow said Red negotiators "had practically no arguments to come back on that."

Another truce group negotiating prisoner exchange met for almost an hour. It made no headway toward ending the stalemate over voluntary repatriation.

Communist negotiators did accept a revised version for exchanging interned foreign nationals.

It provides that all foreign civilians be "permitted and assisted" to return to the other side after an armistice if they so desire.

The U.N. Command holds only a 23-year-old Russian and her 32-month-old daughter. They are interned at Pusan.

The Communists have reported holding 48 foreign civilians. The U.N. Command has asked for an accounting of 30 others.

Warmer During Night

Temperatures were much warmer yesterday and last night, according to Mrs. D. P. Strayhorn, weather observer, who recorded a high of 71 yesterday and low of 46 last night. Temperature at 7:30 o'clock this morning was 50.

More Probes On New Angle Are Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators dug into new evidence today of high-profit trade in which rich Americans and Chinese Nationalists sold goods to Red China, even after the start of the Korean War.

Sen. Mundt (R-SD), denouncing the traffic and what he termed its "blood soaked profits," said he will insist on further inquiry into some only partially explored channels of the trade.

Mundt said he has been advised that "new evidence is available" to shed light on a never fully-explored story of how 48,563 bales of cotton, purchased from U. S. surplus commodity stores, were delivered to Communist China in the three months after fighting started in Korea.

The current inquiry, originally concerned with huge profits reaped on deals in war surplus oil tankers, already has branched out to cover these new points:

1. A statement by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) at a public hearing yesterday that he has learned two trustees of a charitable foundation headed by government cleanup man Newbold Morris had participated in numerous "Communist front" activities.

2. Reasons why the State Department waited more than a year to act against the traffic with Red China after getting protests from the Pentagon and some other government agencies that it was "dangerous" to this country's security.

The subcommittee is expected to set a date today for questioning Morris.

Houston H. Wasson, Morris's New York law partner, who returns for a third day of testimony, has acknowledged that he and Morris were lawyers for two firms whose ships hauled goods to the Chinese Reds under charter arrangements with Soviet Russia.

Wasson denied it was "incongruous" for Americans and Chinese Nationalists to engage in such trade. If the subcommittee has any quarrel about it, he said, the quarrel should be with the State Department for not ordering an earlier halt.

Mundt announced he will move to determine whether trading between China Trading and Industrial Development Corp., a Chinese Nationalist firm, and the Communists was related to the partially explored cotton deal in which China Trading shared profits with World Commerce Corp. The latter firm is an international banking and trading group which embraces some big names in New York and overseas financial circles.

A Senate commerce subcommittee headed by Sen. O'Conor (D-Md) started an investigation of that deal a year ago, but never filed a report. The group indicated it had not completed the study.

In hearings before O'Conor's group, New York financier Edward L. Hutton, a vice president of World Commerce, testified that firm and China Trading sold 48,563 bales of cotton to the Chinese Communists, delivering it in the three months immediately after the start of the Korean War.

Truman Appears To Have Little Chance Getting What He Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman's one-two "Sunday punch" for his $7,900,000,000 foreign aid program left Congress members still talking about scaling it down today, almost as if nothing had happened.

Even administration supporters conceded they were in for a tough time.

The President led off with a 7,500 word special message to Congress yesterday noon declaring every single dollar of the amount he asked for was needed to meet the threat of Russian communism.

Then he went on a far-ranging network of radio and television last night to carry his plea direct to the American people.

Although the President said "we'd be better off to win the fight against communism than to win any particular election," some senators and representatives said privately today that he appeared to be injecting politics into the matter after asking them to avoid doing so.

Alluding to congressional threats to slash foreign aid by billions, Truman told his radio-TV audience:

"Now I know this is a very popular point of view, especially in an election year—just as popular as a campaign pledge to reduce taxes."

But, he said, the $7,900,000,000 request was not a "single dollar more than our national security requires."

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Ia) told this reporter what the President "really means is they won't spend a dollar more than the Democratic administration requires to stay in power."

"We failed to stop communism in Korea and it's become more clear every day that European unity is not materializing," Hickenlooper said. "Meanwhile the evidence of waste and corruption in public funds and contracts is growing."

Two Democrats on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, McMahon of Connecticut and Green of Rhode Island, applauded the Truman appeals but, in separate interviews, agreed they face a stiff fight this year.

"We may spend the money in foreign lands but we're spending it for our own security," McMahon said. It's politically unpopular to claim otherwise and, this being an election year, we'll have to fight it out with the full vigor that a great cause demands."

"I think it's a very well thought-out program," Green said. I may question some details but I agree with most of the principles."

The Senate and House Democratic chairmen who normally pilot foreign aid bills, predicted cuts.

Chairman Richards (D-SC), of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said Congress may gouge out more than a billion "and I'm not saying that it should not be more than that."

Chairman Connally (D-Tex), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was happy Truman asked less than last year, when he requested 8½ billion, but added:

"I am confident that even this lower figure can be cut."

School Census Underway Here

Considerable progress was made this week in obtaining information in the school census, Elmer Taylor, in charge of scholastic records, said.

The census work began Monday morning with six persons gathering information in the house-to-house survey.

Those to be included in the census figures are all persons residing in the Snyder school district who were born on or since Sept. 1, 1934, but not later than Sept. 1, 1946. "Even married persons these ages, whether in school or not, would be included in the census," Taylor said. "And the census should also include students of these ages who have either graduated or withdrawn from schooling."

He said the reason for wanting all persons of school age listed is that the state education department pays the school districts per capita apportionments based on the number of school - age persons residing in the districts.

"This year, the apportionment, which varies from year to year, is $62.50 per person," he said, adding that it was not known what the figure would be for the next school year.

The current census is being taken for the next school year. "The per capita apportionment is the only financial assistance the Snyder district is receiving from the state now that we are no longer operating under the Gilmer-Aiken assistance," Taylor explained.

Those gathering information are Mrs. Bushy Hedges and Mrs. Bill Teaff in Southeast Snyder, G. R. Austin in Northeast Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hull and Mrs. Earl McDow in the west half of the city.

Compilation is to be made April 1.

Only a photographer can superimpose the Bible on the World! History tells us that the few theocrats who tried it failed. Not that the Bible is too small to cover the World. THE WORLD IS TOO SMALL TO ENCOMPASS THE BIBLE.

A great truth, you see, is always greater than those who awaken to it! That is why the Bible can change men's lives . . . can give them immortality. Men do not grip the Bible. The Bible grips men!

But don't make the mistake of waiting for the Bible to reach you. It has already surrounded you!

REACH FOR THE BIBLE. In your Home. In your Church.

Learn its Truth. Love its Author. Live its Life.

HOLY BIBLE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Mrs. Leon Johnson looks at one of her favorite paintings of a wagon train at night. She's had about 20 hours of formal lessons and only began painting a year ago.—(Sue Holmes photograph.)

TALK OF THE TOWN

By SUE HOLMES

Art galleries and museums are crammed with canvases inferior to those executed by Mrs. LEON JOHNSON, who lives at the Texas - New Mexico Camp.

Amazing as it seems to look at the oils hanging on her walls, Mrs. Johnson only began painting in earnest a year ago in January. She has always loved to paint, though, even when she was a child and used to daub paint on the barn or on the stumps which formed the foundation of their home. That is, she painted when she didn't take a hatchet in her hand and hack away at the knotty oak roots from which her mother told her babies came. Mrs. Johnson says when she found out the mythical source of babies, she was determined to get rid of those tree knots so she wouldn't have any more brothers and sisters. The total stood at seven sisters and three brothers. All are still alive except one brother who died as an infant.

Although she had the yen to paint all her life, she didn't take a lesson until last year when she lived in Crane, Tex. She began taking lessons from a Mrs. Wilson, who soon found that her pupil refused to measure distances in pictures but had a natural feeling for perspective and color. Her first picture was a mission scene —a quaint, tranquil little picture. Next came a snow scene and then an Indian sitting on a mesa, reminiscent of typical New Mexico or Arizona scenery. Then the larger canvases were tackled. The wagon train picture shown above was done first with the cattle and wagons bearing the brand "Diamond R." Then Mrs. Johnson decided an "M" would be assymetrical in the picture and the next time she painted the same picture with a "Diamond M" brand—never dreaming at the time that there actually would be such a brand here, after which C. T. McLaughlin's ranch is named.

After a few more lessons, Mrs. Wilson turned her precocious pupil to fend for herself. Actually, Mrs. Johnson's formal training gave her knowledge about brushes and paints to buy. Once she was started, she went at a galloping pace.

One outstanding scene is of a lone cowboy who has bedded the cattle down for the night and paused to light a cigarette which illumines his face. The sky is inky blue and pierced by stars. Just looking at it makes one feel peaceful.

Portraits are still almost untried by Mrs. Johnson. She did paint from memory a picture of her grandson, Keith, who now lives in Venezeula.

Once Mrs. Johnson visited her sister, who was complaingin about her plain kitchen. Before long, she had painted a trellis and morning glories climbing over the back door "We're not allowed to paint company houses," she says with a grin about her home.

Ask Mildred

Send your questions to Mrs. Mildred Sparks, county home demonstration agent, courthouse, or to the Snyder Daily News.

I have a Jewish sponge cake recipe. I used to beat it by hand. I want to beat it on the electric mixer now. Should the number of minutes be the same or less For instance, in hand mixing the eggs should be beaten 15 minutes. Mrs. C.

I would say to beat the same length of time, on the mixer, if you use a similar rate of speed you used with a hand beater. One of the principles of good sponge cakes is to incorporate all the air possible. You can judge by the texture and appearance of the beaten egg whites.

* * *

I plan to bake a turkey in my new electric roaster. Should water be put into the pan? Mrs. C.

Yes. One cup is usually sufficient—maybe more if you like a lot of juice.

* * *

How can I prevent the usual profusion of scorpions (in the house) this spring? Mrs. F.

A five per cent DDT house spray applied to the surface of the area where scorions inhabit is effective in both killing and also driving them out of the cracks and crevices. Apply around baseboards, quarter rounds and especially where small openings are present around water pipes and other fittings. The area under the building should also be dusted with ten per cent DDT dust to prevent them from entering homes. A two per cent chlordane spray or five per cent chlordane dust may also be used in the same manner as DDT if desired.

* * *

What per cent DDT should I use against hog cholera insects? (ants, and scorpions and black widow spiders—if effective). Mrs. F.

5 per cent.

* * *

What treatment, if any, should be given a person bitten by scorpions? Mrs. F.

A paste made of baking soda and cold cream or a compress moistened with ammonia water provides relief for stings and bites. Cold applications help relieve pain.

TODAY'S WOMEN

Escapee From Estonia Is Still Marvelling At U. S.

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Staff

Blonde, blue-eyed Maia Andre is a modern pilgrim who marvels at the everyday things most Americans take for granted.

Maia was one of 16 Estonian refugees who crossed the Atlantic from Sweden to America six years ago in a leaky old 36-foot sloop. The spine-tingling story of their adventure is told in a new book, "Sailing to Freedom", by Voldemar Veedam and Carl B. Wall.

Just being able to walk down the street without fear of being followed seems miraculous to this tall, quiet girl, now attending Hunter College in New York and earning a living at social work while waiting to achieve American citizenship. Seeing shop windows filled with the goods of a free country, being able to buy enough to eat and wear, saying what she thinks without fear of reprisal—all these things seem to her privileges well worth the perils of her desperate flight from the Russians.

Maia was the daughter of an Estonian merchant marine captain, who used to take her along on sea voyages when she was a child. She grew up loving the sea, and welcomed the chance to escape Russian-occupied Estonia with her mother, cousins and friends in the 70-year-old sloop which did not seem capable of a day's sail on the canal.

During the four-month voyage from Stockholm to Norfolk, Va., the little band of men, women and children weathered all the perils of storms, homemade equipment, lack of fuel, food and water. When they had almost given up hope of reaching America they were rescued by the Coast Guard and led into Norfolk Harbor.

Maia, bred to the sea, was a tower of strength during those desperate days. Now she confines her sailing to rowboats in Central Park.

The 16 who sailed their lumbering little craft, 8,000 miles to freedom have fared well in America, even though they arrived without visas or clearance by immigration authorities.

The majority have achieved U. S citizenship. The others, including Maia and her mother, still are waiting clearance under the Estonian quota. Says Maia:

"The most wonderful thing is that we have been allowed to live here, in peace and safety, for these six years on sufferance.

"When we first arrived all of us were in constant fear of reprisals from the Communist underground. I know how widespread it is, and wherever I go there seem to be Communists in almost every group. Perhaps they do not consider us important enough to worry about."

The one thing Maia fears is being sent back to Estonia. Asked what would happen to her if she went back, she replies simply:

"I would be killed. Nothing has been heard of the people who did go back."

'Oilboat Olga' Challenged By Feats Of Businessmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beautiful "Oilboat Olga" Konow, who had to tell a Senate committee about her surprisingly lucrative business, became a ship-owner and broker because her Norwegian husband used to tell her that "shipping is for men."

"Dis cannot be so," she said to herself in a Marlene Dietrich voice which comes natural. Mrs. Konow was born in a part of old Austria-Hungary which is now in Czechoslovakia.

She was a distinct strain on senatorial dignity and a joy to the press box as she told a Senate committee how she made half a million dollars in a sale of surplus U. S. tankers to a company heavily financed by wealthy Chinese. The committee is investigating several tanker deals which made tremendous profits for a star-studded list, including former Congressman Joseph E. Casey, now a Washington lawyer.

Mrs. Konow is tall, with big green eyes, and a halo of silvery hair. There is nary a line in her soft, round face.

"Dis is so surprising the Senate want to hear from me," she said. "My husband and I tink it such an honor. I may be the only woman ship-owner today. But I am such a leettle one. You say that, please. The men know.

"So I get on the plane. And half way I tink maybe I should have a lawyer. So I turn to the man next to me, and he say, 'I take you to my frien.' So we take a taxi from the airport and we see dis nice, young Mr. Kelly." (Roy Kelly, a Washington lawyer.)

He was so busy," she continues. He wants to read through all that transcript I say, 'no, no. Just find out where I fit in, and how I can help the Senate.' So he find out."

Then the zero hour. She says, "It is not easy, you know. I have fine butterflies in my tummie. But those senators are so handsome, and they are so-o well-dressed. I sat down. But those lights. Those cameras. Can you believe it I nevaire saw the press before. Nevaire saw a real movie camera before.

"I have tell Kelly I just tell the truth."

She said her interest in the shipping business is just profit. She has little or no interest in international complications.

"I am not interested in from where the money comes," she smiled brightly at the senators. But it interests me when it is coming." She put one of those Dietrich drawls on "when."

It comes, and amazingly.

She decided to stop being just a housewife in 1944. Her husband, successful shipping man, and an international yachtsman, didn't take her seriously. But he let her start in his office.

"He let me stamp envelopes," she chuckles. "Den he let me carry dem around to the mail shute."

Then she swung a loan for her first boat—a tanker. She took a huge mortgage, and formed the American Viking Corporation.

"But ships have life, you know," she says. "You own one ship. You want more ships. So I get part of my first tanker paid, and I take another mortgage and buy another. You are always mortgaged to the eyebrows."

She has organized three companies: the American Viking, the Olga Konow, Inc., and the Deep Sea Shipping and Chartering Company. All lease tankers to major oil companies. She has just sold out control of American Viking (for several hundred thousand) but she remains president, and has a working contract for five years, at $20,000 a year.

How could she be a success in a man's business? "It is like running a good house, that's all," she said. "More women should go into the shipping business."

BUSINESS MIRROR

Short Memories Cause Many Not To See Real Income Rise

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP) — Does your income — in terms of real buying power after taxes — stretch 40 per cent farther than it did before World War II?

The answer from most people is likely to be a resounding "no!" Yet government slide-rule boys say that, despite soaring taxes and prices, incomes per capita are 40 per cent higher than in 1939, in terms of what can be bought with the take-home pay.

The notion that incomes stretch farther will find no credence with retired persons living on fixed income. Few persons in white collar jobs will believe it. Nor will the wealthy who have seen their incomes whittled by higher taxes.

'MEMORIES ARE SHORT'

And the worker who took home a $60 a week pay check in 1939 to can find statistics to show rising taxes and higher prices make it necessary for him to bring home at least $115 a week now for the same standard of living.

Yet the government statisticians say per capita incomes have a higher buying power now. Per capital income on the eve of the last war was $536. In 1951 it was $1,443. After deducting taxes and translating the 1951 dollar into terms of what a dollar would buy in 1939, last year's per capita shrinks to $750. Still, that $750 is 40 per cent higher than 1939's per capita income of $536.

This seems contrary to so many persons' own experience and memory.

"The reason that this large increase in real income seems surprising is that memories are short," says the Northern Trust Company, Chicago, in its "business comments for March."

RISE AFTER WAR

It points out that between 1939 and 1944 per capita real incomes, rose sharply. Since 1944 real per capita incomes have actually fallen slightly. In other words, during the money, while prices were held down. Since the war, prices and taxes have soared — in many cases faster than incomes have increased.

People are acutely conscious of this postwar inflation without remembering the earlier sharp rise which boosted their take-home pay, the bank says.

There are other reasons, too, for the gain in real incomes, when figured on an impersonal per capita basis, rather than on individual experience. Employment and hours worked have increased. And during the war, people had more cash jingling in their pockets. Today they have more deep freezers and teleision sets — and feel harder up for cash.

Man Observed During Murder

LOS ANGELES, March 7 (AP)—Police held William Klink, 27-year-old refrigerator repairman, on suspicion of murder today and said they had a witness who saw him strangle a nurse to death in a downtown hotel room.

The victim was identified as Mae E. Mathis, about 40, formerly of Dragerton, Utah. She was a special duty nurse, on call by various hospitals.

Jordan Jones of Sacramento, Calif., told Lt. Bob Reed of the homicide detail:

"I looked through my window and saw the couple enter their room. There was a brief period of love making. Then, suddenly, the man looped a belt around her neck and began dragging her around the floor.

"He kept pulling the belt tighter, then started going through her handbag and clothes, hauling the body around as he did so. When he needed both hands he would take the belt in his teeth, still holding it taut."

Jones said that for a time he was dazed and unbelieving, then he telephoned the clerk, who notified police. Officers said the man still held the belt in his hands when they broke into the room.

A fire department rescue squad tried to revive the woman and a doctor gave her adrenalin injections, then pronounced her dead.

Lt. Reed said Klink told him he met the woman in a bar. The couple registered at the hotel about two hours before she was found dead.

Klink refused to give his address and insisted there was a quarrel because she attempted to take his money.

THE STARS

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fifty years ago, a stage-struck kid named Edwin Leopold ran away from his Philadelphia home to join a medicine show. Today he is still in show business, known to television fans as Ed Wynn.

The half-century career of Ed Wynn, which will be commemoratee on his TV show tomorrow night, has covered virtually every field of the entertainment business, including stage dramas and musicals, vaudeville, radio and movies. He has even played short engagements in a circus and a night club, so his scope would be complete.

The only medium he hasn't played is burlesque—and that's significant.

"I have never told an off-color joke to an audience," he remarked. "I have always put on the kind of a show that people could bring their children to. During my career, 17 newspapers have written editorials about my work, and many of them have remarked that I always put on a clean show. I'm proud of that."

Wynn is so firm on this point that he once advised a fellow comedian in a George White musical: "You could be one of the biggest comedians in the country if you would only drop your dirty material." White dubbed him "The Preacher" after that incident.

"I've seen young comedians make a big splash and then disappear," Wynn told me, "and many times the reason is that they have used off-color jokes. That's a bad mistake, because the greatest comedians are those who use only clean material."

Speaking of great comics, I asked Wynn to name the top men of his 50-year history. He listed 20 comics or teams, and I present them in more or less chronological order:

Weber and Fields, De Wolf Hopper, McIntyre and Heath, Montgomery and Stone, Raymond Hitchcock, George M. Cohan, Victor Moore, Bert Williams, Will Rogers, Al Jolson, W. C. Fields, Charlie Chaplin, Sir Harry Lauder, Jimmy Durante, Groucho Marx, Jack Benny, Bob Hope, Red Skelton, Danny Kaye and Jerry Lewis.

Of the living members on the list, only Victor Moore has been in the business longer than Wynn.

I asked the "Perfect Fool" about his reflections on TV comedy.

"Let me draw an analogy from the other media," he began. "When comedy began on the stage, it was strictly slapstick. When a person got hit over the head with a bladder or fell, that was considered funny. But soon audiences became more educated, and the level of comedy rose.

"The same thing happened in the movies. The pie in the face, the Keystone Cops, the banana on the sidewalk were funny. But now movie audiences consider such things corny. Radio, deprived of the sense of sight, at first relied on Dutch, Negro, Jewish and other dialects for comedy.

"But as TV develops, the comedy will become smarter. The pies and seltzer water will be considered as corny as they are in the older mediums."

I had but one more question to ask the veteran comedian: "What is funny?"

He thought for a moment and then replied: "The unexpected. It's the final twist on a joke or an unpredicted action. That's what is funny."

Mitchell Gets In Rainmaking Deal at $7,000

COLORADO CITY — More than 400 Mitchell County farmers and ranchers voted last night to consider hiring a rainmaker at a cost of about $7,000.

Mitchell County will join Howard, Dawson, Terry, Lynn, Yoakum, Gaines, Borden, Midland and Martin Counties in a proposed weather district to negotiate with the rain company. Curtis Latimer and Lon Strain were elected to represent Mitchell County at a discussion of the formation of the district Monday night in Lamesa.

The Chamber of Commerce, the City National Bank and the Farm Bureau were named collection agencies for the fund.

Clyde Hoyt, a representative of the Krick Corp. of Denver, Colo., spoke to the group. He said the corporation does not promise rain, but that some areas which have been under contract to the corporation have had an apparent increase in rain. He presented slides to support his statement.

The rainmaking project will begin within two weeks after the weather district signifies that it is ready, Hoyt said.

Youth Wanted To Free Others

FORT WORTH, March 7 (AP) — William Ralph Hagan, 13-year-old Dallas redhead, was in custody here after a futile attempt last night to free four county jail prisoners.

"I was gonna' break 'em out," he said. "I don't like to see people caged up like animals."

Five minutes after he had signalled third-floor windows of the county jail here, young Hagan was in jail himself.

He had been released on probation to his father Wednesday after he was arrested for theft of a motor scooter.

Yesterday morning in Dallas, he said, he stole six dollars from another boy's billfold, bought five knives and some hacksaw blades, and rode a bus to Fort Worth.

A jail matron overheard excited conversation of the four youths Hagan sought to free, spotted the Dallas lad signalling from the street, and he was arrested.

Foundry Ordered To Cease And Desist In Its Labor Practices

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—A National Labor Relations Board trial examiner today recommended that the Texas Foundaries, Inc., Lufkin, be ordered to "cease and desist" from refusing to bargain collectively" with an AFL union.

Trial Examiner Arthur Leff made the recommendation to the full board after hearings which he said showed the firm has engaged in unfair labor practices by refusing to reinstate some employes allegedly discharged discriminatorily. Leff said a strike in January, 1951, was caused by the firm's unfair labor practices.

Leff also recommended that the board order the foundry to "cease and desist from x x x discouraging membership in International Molders & Foundry Workers Union, AFL," or threatening employes with discharge or reprisal for union activity, and that certain employes be reinstated.

To Reconsider Hospital Bids Here Tuesday

Low bids received recently proposing construction of the county hospital are to be reconsidered Tuesday by the commissioners court, Edgar Taylor, county judge, said today.

None of the 23 bids received on three phases of construction a week ago today has been accepted or rejected. The court at that time agreed to postpone decision because the county lacked more than $200,000 having sufficient money in the fund for that purpose to accept the lowest bids presented then. All bids were higher than had been anticipated.

Judge Taylor said Herbert Brasher of the Lubbock firm of Butler-Brasher Engineering Co., architect on the project, told him today that he would try to arrange a meeting between the commissioners and the low bidders Tuesday.

Object of the meeting will be to cut construction expenses either by alterations in plans or cuts in bids or both. According to present bid figures, total cost of the hospital would be approximately $1 million as a 50 - bed project.

Compensation Case In District Court Today

Testimony began this morning in the district court compensation suit of R. P. Butler vs. Texas Employers Insurance Association.

Butler is represented in the suit by Bob Woodruff of the Dallas law firm of Caldwell, Baker & Jordan. The insurance firm is represented by Fred Porter of Dallas and Ross Hemphill, Snyder.

Pipe Is Being Laid On 37th

Parts of Thirty - seventh Street adjacent to the Highland Park addition were temporarily impassible yesterday while pipe line was being laid which will soon connect Snyder with the Colorado River lake.

The street was blocked off for only about two blocks at a time as equipment and crews of the Enix Construction Co., Amarillo, dug the trench, laid the concrete pipe, then covered it.

The 21 - inch (inside diameter) line being installed now will connect the site of Snyder's future filtration plant with a line from the town to the dam. The line laid in December from a point near the Towle Place addition to the dam is 21 - inch pipe for about six miles, then 27 - inch pipe the rest of the way to the lake in the southwest corner of the county.

Laying of the line progressed yesterday and today from near Towle Place to the Big Spring highway. From there, it is to go in a northeasterly direction to a city - owned lot at Thirty - third Street and Avenue M, where the combination filtration plant and sedimentation system is being built.

The line is expected to be completed in less than a week, R. A. Schooling, a director of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, said.

Hawaiians Are After Connally

HONOLULU, March 7 (AP) —American war veterans and a Gold Star mother leave tonight for Washington to ask Sen. Tom Connally to say it isn't so.

They want him to take back his remark that he is a better American than many Hawaiians where many "are not of American descent." He spoke in opposition to immediate consideration of Hawaii statehood.

A lot of Hawaiians got mad. They began raising money to send the delegation, which will fly by United Airlines via Los Angeles and Dallas.

Angry protests boiled out of veterans and civic organizations and from residents who have sought statehood since the turn of the century.

A radiogram of protest was sent by 839 mainland-born residents to Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif) statehood supporter, who was asked to read it into the Congressional Record.

Other protests went to President Truman and Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas.

The delegation will include some members of Hawaii's much-decorated 442nd Regiment which rescued trapped elements of Texas' 36th Division in Italy during World War II.

West Coasters Backing Down On Major League Ban Quickly

By GAYLE TALBOT

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Well, it turns out the Coast League doesn't want to fight quite that bad—or at least not that soon. Some of its members are able to recognize an overmatch when they see it.

Less than 24 hours after Horace Stoneham balled his fists about the coasters' new rule barring spring games between big league clubs in their parks, the president of the Giants has been assured earnestly by a pair of men who are high in the saddle that it was all a mistake and that it will be rectified hurriedly.

"We're not that crazy," said President Clarence (Brick) Laws of the Oakland club after he and owner Phil Wrigley of the Los Angeles Angels had spent better than an hour placating Horace in a local hotel.

"I can't feel that our fellows meant to go quite that far. If there's anything we don't want to do right now it's to cut ourselves off from the big leagues. We want the Giants back out there next year and every year, and we told Horace so. The announcement, among other things, was poorly worded."

Laws and Wrigley have asked their fellow club owners to give league President Clarence Rowland authority to meet with the heads of the six major league teams which train out this way at Los Angeles on March 15 and to straighten things out to everyone's satisfaction. That is the meeting at which the big leaguers annually arrange their exhibition schedule for the following spring.

"I can't say that the rule will be rescinded," Laws said. "That can only be done by official vote, but I believe I can promise that Clarence will be given the power to abridge it for the time being—call it anything you like."

That might well be the understatement of the season. When Phil Wrigley, not to mention Laws, suggests to the boys that they cease fooling around with the dynamite, the chances are more than bright that they will listen attentively. Wrigley has the money and Laws usually has the champions.

The wonder is that a group of otherwise intelligent baseball men did not realize they were finally going too far in the cowboys and Indians gange they've been playing with the big leaguers for the past several years. If Stoneham had not told them off, some other owner would have before long. It just happened to be the boss Giant who got sore first.

Horace felt somewhat better about it after his talk with Wrigley and Laws, but not to the extent of cooling out completely. The Stonehams rouse slowly, but they stay roused.

"I'm willing to see what can be worked out at the Los Angeles meeting," he said, "but whatever it is it's going to change my plans much. I said we would go to Mexico next year, and we'll go to Mexico. We'll play Cleveland at Chihuahua, Monterrey, Mexico City and maybe another city down there. It'll be a great trip."

The guess here is that Rowland will have permission to work out an exhibition schedule with the major leaguers on a plan similar to that the Texas League intends to enforce next spring. That is, for each game two big leaguers play against each other they would be required to play a pair against Coast League teams. The big fellows are not fond of that restriction, either, but they are willing to let it ride.

Wade Pipkin; Chuck Wagon In Lop-sided Wins Last Night

Wade Pipkin Motors began its comeback in the city basketball league last night as the squad defeated Pan American 73 - 51.

The Pipkin squad, which suffered three losses through lack of organization, now has three victories to its credit and shows a threat of rough competition in the championship tourney, which will be played a few days after the practice games end.

Ernest Kinney, speedy ex of Oklahoma A & M, bucketed 24 points for the Pipkin five, while Bill Zimmerman made 18. C. E. Watson was high for the losers with 18.

In last night's second game, the Chuck Wagon finished its sixth win with a 65 - 21 score over Sunray. The Chuck Wagon has lost only to C & S Sporting Goods, which is still undefeated.

Joe Burney paced his team to the win with 17 points, while Skeeter Lawrence and Tom Anderson each tallied 15. The squad led 22-9 at the end of the first period and 40 - 10 at the half.

Tonight, Jaycees will meet the National Guard at 7:30 o'clock, and C & S will play Pan American in the second tilt. Tomorrow night, the ten members of the all-star squad will journey to Loraine to meet a group of all - stars there.

Border Olympics Starts Off With 941 Athletes Entered

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

LAREDO, March 7 (AP) — The bulk of a field of 941 athletes moved out today in opening events of the twentieth Border Olympics. The big track and field meet — first major outdoor carnival of the year — reaches a smashing climax tomorrow night when the blue ribbon university class, threatening records right and left, fights it out.

The junior colleges, of which there are 10, and the high schools, entering 32 teams, go through trials today. The university and college classes, with nine and 14 teams respectively, hold their preliminaries tomorrow morning.

Most of the new records look in the field events of the university and college divisions with Darrow Hooper of Texas A&M the man of the moment. A shot putter who last year did 54 feet 7½ inches, the Border Olympics record of 51 feet 10½ inches would appear childs play for Hooper. He also has bettered 160 feet with the discus and might erase the record of 165 feet 10½ inches.

Two fellows built like greyhounds will be after the overall high jump mark of 6 feet 7¼ inches — a record that has stood since 1943. One is Charles Holding of East Texas State, who leaped 6 feet 9¾ inches in 1951, and the other is Walt Davis of Texas A&M, who soared 6 feet 9.

Jerry Peery of Oklahoma A&M might eclipse the pole vault record of 14 feet 1⅛ inches. He has been doing over 14 feet consistently. And Bobby Ragsdale of Texas A&M, who has broad-jumped over 24 feet, will be after the record of 23 feet 6½ inches.

In the running events, Val Joe Walker of Southern Methodist might beat the 120-yard high hurdles record of 14.3, and the University of Texas sprint relay team will be hot after the record of 42.1. It already has done under 42 seconds.

Entered in the university class are Texas A&M, the defending champion favored to repeat; Texas, Baylor, Oklahoma A&M, Louisiana State, University of Houston, Rice, Southern Methodist and Texas Christian.

North Texas State is picked to win the college division title. Other teams entered are Sul Ross, Abilene Christian, East Texas State, Hardin-Simmons, Howard Payne, McMurry, Southwest Texas State, Stephen F. Austin, Texas Tech, Texas Western, Trinity, Southwestern and Texas A&I.

Victoria is expected to repeat in the junior college class and Odessa in the high school division.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

By The Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG (AP)—Catcher Yogi Berra of the New York Yankees insists he's in shape although he tips the scales at 196, about 10 above his playing weight.

Berra, named the Yanks' cleanup hitter yesterday, believes he will shed the excess weight during the season but Manager Casey Stengel is going to use Yogi in most of the exhibition games to bring down the weight.

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—To get sluggers Ted Williams and Junior Stephens up to the plate more often Manager Lou Boudreau is moving them up higher in the Boston Red Sox' batting order.

"My idea," says Boudreau, "is to try to get both Ted and Stephens at bat five or six times in every game. In that fifth or sixth time one or both might hit a home run."

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Maybe Cleveland Manager Al Lopez was a little hasty in saying outfielder Harry Simpson was looking bad.

Just a day after he said that Simpson collected four hits in six trips to the plate—off the Indians' top relief pitchers, Lou Brissie and Steve Gromek. He got a double, two singles and a safe bunt.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Philadelphia Athletics Manager Jimmy Dykes was so pleased at having all 33 players on the roster signed and in camp that he gave the boys a day off today.

It was the first day since battery men reported Feb. 20 that no drills were scheduled. The "traveling squad" was to leave by bus about noon for the Washington Senators' camp at Orlando, where the A's play two weekend games.

Catcher Joe Tipton and infielder Billy Hitchcock, the only ones outside the fold for several days, came to terms yesterday.

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 7 (AP) — Second string Catcher Sal Yvars of the New York Giants is having a tough time.

Yvars has a blood clot in his right shoulder as a result of being struck by a foul ball. The previous day he was struck on the head by a swinging bat.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 7 (AP) — The sparkling play of two Rookies had Detroit Tigers veterans hustling today.

That was the result of the first intra-squad game yesterday in which young John Phillips at third and Alex Garbowski at shortstop batted home runs and starred in fielding.

MESA, Ariz., March 7 (AP) —Rookie Catcher Harry Chiti of the Chicago Cubs reports today to the Phoenix draft board for a pre-induction physical examination.

PASADENA, Calif., March 7 (AP)—Manager Paul Richards of the Chicago White Sox has tapped three pitchers for service in the Sox first exhibition game of the spring training season Saturday.

Ken Holcombe, Skinny Brown and Marv Grissom will handle the mound chores in the Grapefruit opener with the Chicago Cubs.

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 7 (AP) — Second Baseman Jackie Merson is the only Pittsburgh Pirate infielder sure of his job, says Manager Billy Meyer.

Merson, who played most of last year with Indianapolis, has been impressive in drills this week. During the late part of 1951 he hit at a .360 clip for the Bucs and in one game against Brooklyn drove in six runs.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 7 (AP) — The fate of the Washington senators this year, says Manager Bucky Harris, depends on his "gamble" to develop a pitching staff.

"Right now," Harris said yesterday, "I'd have to go along with the complaint that we have only one solid pitcher — Bob Porterfield. The others have to come through for us or we could be sunk."

If Sid Hudson comes through, he adds — "Sid says his arm doesn't pain him any more — that will make two solid pitchers and we'll be a heap better off."

27 Teams In NAIB Tourney

KANSAS CITY, March 7 (AP) — Twenty-seven of the 32 teams that will compete in the week-long national intercollegiate (NAIB) basketball tournament beginning Monday were in the fold today.

Qualifying in playoffs last night were defending champion Hamline, Washburn, Southwest Missouri State, West Liberty, American International and Findlay College.

A premium for the NAIB winner this year will be a crack at the NCAA champion in a first round game of the Olympic playoffs in municipal auditorium here March 29.

Roanoke, Loyola of Baltimore, American University of Baltimore and Baltimore University survived first round games in the Mason-Dixon tournament at Baltimore last night. The winner, to be decided Saturday night, will compete in the NAIB.

Polly Riley And Mary Faulk Meet In Match

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 7 (AP) — Mary Lena Faulk, defending champion from Thomasville, Ga., and Polly Riley, two-time winner from Fort Worth, Tex., met today in the semi-finals of the Florida East Coast Women's Golf Tournament.

GOOD SERVANT

Stanky's Rival At 2nd Base Is One Of His Co-Captains

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla (AP) — Schoendienst in German means "good servant' and Albert Fred Schoendienst, the St. Louis Cardinals' happy-go-lucky redhead, is living up to his name.

All winter long, ever since Eddie Stanky was named Cardinal manager and followed it up by announcing he would be a strong candidate for Schoendienst's second base job, baseball fans have been wondering how Red would react. Rumors, all unconfirmed, flew thick and fast that (a) Schoendienst was on the trading block; (b) Schoendienst would be switched to first, third, shortstop or outfield; (c) Schoendienst had rebelled against playing anywhere but second.

Untrue, of course, all of it. Here is what happened:

One of the first things Stanky did after taking over the reins of the Redbirds was to pay Schoendienst a personal visit in St. Louis. Among other things Eddie told the All-Star second sacker he was going to compete with him for the second base job. If Eddie's playing meant the club would be stronger, Red would be shifted to another position. But Red would play regularly somewhere. That was certain, Stanky told him.

Schoendiest assured Stanky that the arrangement was satisfactory to him.

"I'll play anywhere you want me to," Schoendienst told his manager. "All I want to do is help the club win. If I do that I don't care where I play, just as long as I play."

The more they talked the more Stanky became impressed with Schoendiensts unselfish outlook and his keen philosophy on the subject of baseball.

"Red," Stanky suddenly asked, "Have you ever given any serious thought to what you would like to do after your playing days are over."

"Why no," Schoendienst replied, "but I'd like to remain in the game in some capacity."

"How about managing?" Eddie persisted. "How would you like that?"

"I sure would," Red said. "I'd sure like an opportunity to manage."

"Okay," said Stanky, "from now on you're my co-captain with Enos Slaughter. I'd like to have somebody in the infield with authority in case I'm not in the lineup. I want you to take charge out there. Keep your eyes and ears open. Pick up the finer points. Try to get the manager's aspect of things. Assert yourself with the players and the umpires."

The two friendly second base rivals parted with a complete understanding of each other.

"He's quite a guy," said Schoendienst later. "I learned a lot just listening to him. I dont see how he can miss being a good manager. . . . I'm going to play my head off for him, no matter where he puts me, first base, second base, the outfield or anywhere else."

"Schoendienst is a real competitor," said Stanky. "He has a fine baseball instinct. Furthermore, he is a great player. He's a major leaguer no matter where he plays."

OPEN SEASON

By DALE WALTON

Now that youngsters taking advantage of the athletic program of the Optimist boys' club have worked out in the boxing ring for several weeks, J. C. Morgan, instructor of the group, has decided to try them in matches with boys from other cities.

This week, he talked to Don McLaughlin, who instructs several boys in Hamlin, and arranged matches for seven Snyder youths. He plans to check with another boxing coach at Rotan soon and invite boys from there to participate in the same events.

Those already matched are Jackie Calvin, 7-year-old 45 pounder, Don Calvin, 75 pounds; Bobby Brown, 100; Tommy Hensley, 105; Kenneth Brotherton, 126; Paul Hailey, 145; and Charlie Kemp, 135.

Date for the matches have not been definitely set, Morgan said, but they will probably be held in the high school gymnasium March 18.

The instructor said there will be an admission charge to the bouts, but all money will go into the boys' club to pay for equipment. He added that the boys will soon be organized in their club, electing their own officers and raising funds for use at the club.

More than 20 boys are now working out on Morgan's Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday night schedules. Morgan invited more to join in the fun. The club opens at 6:30 o'clock this evening and will close at about 8:45.

* * *

Texas Tech Coach DeWitt Weaver will open his spring football training April 1, and W. G. Birt, 225-pound senior at Snyder High School, will be trying out for the team there. We hope he makes the squad. The spring workouts will last until April 28, and it will be climaxed by an intra - squad Red Raider Roundup game and coaching clinic.

Members of two organizations in Snyder have already indicated that their clubs will probably sponsor a Little Baseball League team this summer if the program is begun. Anyone else?

Middle Boys Fight Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Left-hooking Paddy Young of New York was rated a 7 to 5 favorite to whip Ernie (The Rock) Durando of Bayonne, N. J., at Madison Square Garden tonight and earn a middleweight title shot.

A good crowd of 10,000 and a gate of close to $40,000—big money in these television days—was anticipated by the promoting International Boxing Club for this fourth meeting of the two power punchers.

The 10-rounder will start at 10 p. m. (EST) and will be broadcast and telecast across the nation. The telecast will be carefully watched by Middleweight Champion Ray Robinson who has signed to fight the winner in a title go at the Garden, May 16.

That depends, of course, on Sugar Ray winning both of his forthcoming championships bouts. He takes on Carl (Bobo) Olson in San Francisco next Thursday, and Rocky Graziano in the Chicago Stadium, April 16.

The 23-year-old Young, and the 25-year-old Durando are all even after three clashes. Paddy won the first one, on Sept. 15, 1950, by a wide margin. Durando, a terrific right hand clouter, captured the second by split decision, Nov. 2, 1951, and 28 days later they fought to a draw.

Semi-Finals In Golden Gloves Set Tonght

CHICAGO, March 7 (AP) —Thirty-two young boxers awaited the climax tonight on a long fist-swinging grind.

They're all that's left of some 20,000 hopefuls who began swinging three months ago in preliminary Golden Gloves campaigns in nearly 400 communities west of the Appalachian Mountains.

Tonight come the semi-final and final bouts of the Western Golden Gloves tournament of champions.

There are eight divisions and the eventual champion of each will fight two bouts, the semi-final elimination and, a couple of hours later, for the championship.

The 32 youngsters qualified for these bouts in a three-day elimination here last week.

Schoolboy Finals At Austin Start Today

AUSTIN, March 7 (AP)—Laneville and Big Sandy were favored to advance into the Class B finals of the State Schoolboy Basketball Tournament today.

Laneville met the Slidell Greyhounds at 8:45 a. m. in the opening game of the second day of the giant tourney on the University of Texas campus.

The tall Laneville quint beat a good Samnorwood five, 54-47, in first round play, while Slidell was walloping Balmorhea 44-19.

Big Sandy the pre-tournament favorite, faced a smooth-working Hempstead five in the second semi-final tilt at 10:10 a. m.

Hempstead had to stave off a last half rally to beat Woodsboro, 40-37, yesterday.

The sharp-shooting Big Sandy five lost none of its luster in trouncing Hawley, 61-35. Rangy Glenn Fields, the only returning all-tournament performer of last year, led their scoring with 20 points.

Mighty Dimmitt met the Plano Wildcats in the Class A finals in the last clash of the morning today.

Dimmitt won their 34th game without a defeat when they shellacked Sweeny, 65-44. With the best high school record in the state the West Texans were odds-on favorites to win the Class A championship and enter the Division — (Class A and AA) playoff.

Plano had to come from behind in the last 10 seconds to beat Lovelady, 40-38. Red Braden hit a lay-up to tie the count. Then Ronnie Dunn got a tip-in just before the buzzer sounded.

Levelland's Lobos and the defending Class A Champion Bowie Jackrabbits opened fire at 1:45 in the finals of Class AA.

Levelland got to the final round when they edged classy French of Beaumont in yesterday first round, 44-40.

Little Harold Phelan paced the Lobos, hitting seven field goals and 12 free shots for 26 points. His free toss mark wiped out a tournament record of 10 set last year.

Bowie's Jackrabbits staged a final period comeback to beat Madisonville, 49-41, and go into the final round with Levelland.

Temple Tucker, 6-8 Bowie stringbean, led the Jackrabbits scoring with 19 points. Joe Lindsey was high scorer for Madisonville and for the game with 20 points.

Brownwood made its ninth appearance in the big tournament, while Gladewater is here for the first time.

In the other Class AAA tilt, Alamo Heights of San Antonio (30-4) went up against Bryan's Broncos (19-7). Alamo Heights finished second in the City Conference division in 1951. Bryan made the tournament for the eighth time.

In tussles tonight, Class AAAA begins play with Poly of Fort Worth (26-4) going against Sam Houston of Houston (25-4). Poly eliminated previously unbeaten Sunset of Dallas in bi-district play, while Sam Houston was ousting Port Arthur.

Class AAAA favorite Borger faces a tough Waco five in the final game tonight. Borger, losers but once this season, finished third last year after losing a narrow one-point verdict to Austin in the semifinal round.
