ATLANTA, March 1.—Atlanta loses $4,000 in early morning robbery.

Atlanta, Texas, March 1.—Bandits overpowered Lee Wicks, town marshal, looted several stores and escaped with loot valued at $4,000 shortly before daylight Monday.

The bandits forced Wicks to witness their deeds and then locked him in the city jail, where he was forced to remain until he attracted passers-by.

A coat left behind by one of the band, is the only clue officers have to work on.

LEAGUE WILL FACE GREATEST TEST SUNDAY

GENEVA, Mar. 1.—The severest trial yet undergone by the League of Nations looms as preparations are made for the arrival of league representatives for preliminary discussion of the league council dispute.

Disagreement on the matter of enlarging the permanent seat on the council of the league would mean that six premiers or foreign ministers would be forced to return home to face charges that the spirit of Locarno has been badly bruised. It is believed that it would bring a grave European political crisis, threatening disturbance in some of the European governments.

Preliminary arguments in all of the important capitals of Europe on the demands for and against the council's enlargement are expected to culminate in a bitter debate Sunday. League representatives here maintain that an agreement will be reached but they can not prevent a picture of what disagreement would mean.

The greatest hope of settlement of the dispute is that no single nation would be willing to take the blame for the consequences of an open fight in the league.

TECH DAIRY FARM EASTLAND MAN IS STARTS AS HERD BURNED TO DEATH IN JAIL

Sixteen thoroughbred dairy cows, purchased from the Flower Dale Farm, near Dallas, have been received by the agricultural department of the Texas Technological College here and business has started. The herd brought here from Dallas includes six holsteins and six jersey, a holstein bull and a jersey bull, two jersey calves and obstein calf. One of the calves was born enroute to Lubbock, and has been appropriately christened "Transit." This addition to the herd brings the total to 17, and this division of the agricultural department is attracting much attention at this time.

Six of the holstein and three of the jersey cows are fresh and the milk supply will be used at the college cafeteria, where meals are served a large number of the college students.

Three students have been given employment about the dairy barns that will enable them to defray their expenses while attending school, and additional help will be employed as other animals brought for the college and the work increased.

SUSANVILLE, Calif., Mar. 1.—Held prisoners in the Sierra Nevada mountains for ten days when a terrific snow storm blocked all trails, J. E. Reeder and his wife have been rescued after a period of suffering which brought them close to death.

Too weak to tell of their experiences after lumbermen had taken them to Westwood Monday, the couple was given medical attention while a "death diary" showed the tortures they had endured.

DROPS FEDERAL CHARGES OVER OSAGE KILLING

NO U. S. JURISDICTION, IS COTTERAL'S DECISION

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 1.—The bottom has dropped out of the government's prosecution of Oklahoma's Osage Indian killing ring with the dismissal of indictments against two men, one of whom federal operatives describe as the "master mind" of an organized murder plot which excels the wildest of wild west fiction.

After a dozen or more court hearings which obscured the story of a ferocious series of murders for $2,000,000 as the stake, Federal Judge John M. Cotteral decided Monday against the government's jurisdiction in the case and that the state courts must hear the evidence against William K. Hale, "king of the Osage hills" and his henchman, John Ramsey, cowboy and farmer.

Hale was indicted early in January by the state for the murders of a "squeamish" W. K. Smith, his wealthy Indian wife and a servant girl. Their home was blown up with dynamite in 1923. A few days later the federal grand jury at Guthrie indicted both Hale and Ramsey for the murder of Henry Roan, an Osage Indian. Federal attorneys induced Hale to turn both men over to them.

This caused great excitement. It was rumored that the "reign of terror" among the Osage tribe not only had come to an end, but the government would punish those responsible for the murder of 17 Indians. Federal attorneys and operatives announced that their investigation would be far reaching and that the entire country would be astounded at what they would reveal at "the proper time." The indictment of Hale, they said was significant but it was only the beginning.

The streets and hotels of Guthrie were thronged while the grand jury was in session, with long-haired Osage Indian bucks and their blanket squaws. They believed the "great white father" was about to avenge them against the white men who, not satisfied with defrauding them of the wealth which came to them from their vast oil holdings, sought the more rapid avenue of murder.

Judge Cotteral's ruling, however, places the investigation back to the point from which it started. Whether the complete story of the Osage murder ring is ever told depends now on whether the Osage county courts take up the prosecution of Hale and Ramsey.

Judge Cotteral ordered the men turned over to the sheriff of Osage county. In the vent that government attorneys wish to appeal the decision into the United States supreme court, which is believed unlikely, Hale and Ramsey will be held on their own recognizance, subject to the call of the court.

Lure of Unattainable Will Send Seven Expeditions Flying Over Worlds' Top to Find Pole of Relative Inaccessability

United News Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, March 1.—Three reasons why seven expeditions are hurrying into the Arctic this spring—racing towards the unexplored and frozen wastes around the top of the world—have been outlined exclusively for the United News by Vilhjalmur Stefansson who commanded the Canadian Arctic expedition of 1913-17.

The explorers of 1926 are not seeking the North Pole but a spot more inaccessible to man. Their objective lies at 84 N. 150 W. and is known among scientists as the pole of relative inaccessability. In other words, this spot is the center of unexplored Arctic ice fields. It lies on a direct line between Western Alaska and the North Pole.

That is one reason—the lure of the hitherto unattainable, Stefansson explained as he lollied in tweeds on a stuffed divan at the Harvard club and visualized, with the far away look in his eyes that is characteristic of explorers, the hardships and dangers that lie ahead of his fellows in the frozen north.

The second reason is to discover

Texas Independence is Ninety Years Old Today

Texas Independence from Mexico is ninety years old today. On March 2 1836, while Santa Anna was investing Travis and his brave handful at the Alamo, while the Anglo-Saxon settlers who had finally rebelled against the tyranny of Mexico were disorganized but still fiercely at bay; while dark clouds of disaster seemed to gather about the dream of freedom; Texas delegates at Washington on the Brazos flung a defiant glove in the face of their erstwhile rulers and declared that the Lone Star republic was free and independent.

This is how they said it, after reciting the injuries done by Mexico: "We, therefore, the delegates, with plenary powers, of the people of Texas, in solemn convention assembled, do hereby resolve and declare that our political connection with the Mexican nation is now forever ended; and that the people of Texas do now constitute a free, sovereign, and independent republic, and are fully invested with all the rights and attributes which properly belong to independent nations; and conscious of the rectitude of our intentions, we fearlessly and confidently commit the issue to the decision of the Supreme Arbitrator of the destiny of nations."

How the Supreme Arbitrator of the destiny of nations finally decided the issue all Texas and all the world knows. The Alamo fell and its brave defenders were slaughtered; Fannin and his men surrendered under promise of life at Goliad, and were massacred; Texans and their families fled before the advancing armies of Santa Anna. And then the Mexicans reached San Jacinto bayou, nd camped in fancied safety, secure in overwhelming numbers. Flush with victory, singing to the tinkling of guitars. And on April 21 Sam Houston and his Texans fell upon them and cut them down like sheep, and the independence of Texas was an accomplished fact.

EXPECTED TROUBLE WESTERN FARMERS IN NEW JERSEY AVERTED DEMAND RELIEF OF SOLONS

PASSAIC, N. J., Mar. 1.—Violence feared between more than 2,500 striking textile workers and reinforced police here and in the adjoining towns of Garfield and Clifton had failed to materialize as the strikers gathered here Monday night for meetings.

Orders had gone out from municipal authorities that there must be no picketing of the mills. The strikers, however, backed by advice of the American Civil Liberties Union and the International Labor Defense, paraded about and although they hurled taunts at the police and begged to be arrested, no action was taken against them.

NEWPORT SWEEP BY DESTROYING SHEET OF FLAME

LEGION MEMBERS PATROL STRICKEN CITY; ONLY ONE KNOWN DEATH

NEWPORT, Ark., March 1.—With approximately 1,000 persons or one fourth of the population homeless because of fire which laid waste to twenty blocks in the heart of the city, Newport was virtually under martial law Monday night as members of the American Legion paroled the streets to prevent possible looting.

While fire companies from Jonesboro, Little Rock, Batesville and other adjacent towns fought to keep the flames from spreading John M. Case, commander of the local post of the American Legion, summoned the legionnaires and began to patrol the city.

This was decided upon following an emergency meeting of the chamber of commerce, called by Mayor F. L. Boyce. Other measures were taken to care for the destitute groups of families who are "camped" in the streets in the public squares in the parks and sidewalks.

Despite the vastness of the fire only one person died in the flames, although several were injured, according to early reports. The victim is Mary Johnson, a negroess. Details of her death are not yet available. It is also reported that a child died in the fire but this has not been confirmed.

To add to the horror of the stricken city, the first of the electric light plant out of commission and except for a gas light here and there the town is in darkness. The little groups of homeless stood over lamps and bonfires.

It is estimated that 280 homes were destroyed, most of them in the negro belt.

It is believed that the fire started in a shack on the river front, and fanned by a heavy wind, ate its way through a lumber yard and then to small manufacturing plants and the residential district.

Slayers of Dallas Officer Get Death

DALLAS, Texas, Mar. 1.—Two juries today found S. A. and Forrest Robinson, negro brothers, guilty of the charges brought against them for the slaying of Motorcycle Patrolman C. M. Isbell and returned verdicts imposing death sentences on both of them.

SHOALS SALE PLAN WINS FIRST FIGHT IN SENATE

By THOMAS L. STOKES
United News Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, March 1.—The Muscle Shoals problem, which has been wandering around the capitol for six years, appeared again Monday in the senate, where it has received its previous setbacks. After the preliminary skirmish, indications were that the administration's plan for settling the problem would be accepted.

A test vote showed that the concurrent resolution for a special congressional commission to receive bids for the $137,000,000 government project, which the house has passed already, will have a large margin in the senate. Senator Norris of Nebraska heads a small group which is fighting it, but it appears his stand will be short and futile. Norris made an effort Monday to kill the concurrent resolution on a point of order, but was voted down 55 to 15, by almost the identical coalition of regular republicans and democrats that put over the tax bill, and which it was indicated will carry along on this piece of legislation. The final vote probably will be similar to that on Norris' motion Monday.

Norris is for government ownership and operation of the huge power plants in Alabama, which were built by the government during the war for the manufacture of nitrates for explosives. His followers, insurgent republicans, and a handful of democrats, are for government ownership and operation in principle, but are not of one mind on the method.

When the concurrent resolution was presented Monday, Norris contended that it was not in order on the ground that the appointment of a commission to negotiate a lease was legislation and that legislation could not be enacted by a concurrent resolution. He pointed out that the president's signature was not required for a concurrent resolution, which is necessary for legislation.

The Nebraska senator contended also that the concurrent resolution would violate the national-defense act of 1916, under which the government must provide for the distribution of surplus power and that public utility commissions should regulate rates, and one by Senator McNary, Oregon, republican, allowing the commission an indefinite time to negotiate, instead of to April 1 and empowering it to make recommendations for legislation if no lease is made.

Two amendments to the resolution were presented Monday just before adjournment, one by Senator George, Georgia democrat, providing that any leases negotiated must provide for distribution of surplus power and that public utility commissions should regulate rates, and one by Senator McNary, Oregon, republican, allowing the commission an indefinite time to negotiate, instead of to April 1 and empowering it to make recommendations for legislation if no lease is made.

material is used for the round collar and, of course, a tie-string of ribbon is added. Two and a half yards of material 32 or 36 inches wide will be sufficient to copy this design.

By carefully studying the diagram, the home dressmaker may see how to add the faced collar to the neck of the dress. As soon as the seams are stitched together—or wither as soon as they are basted together—make a line of small running stitches about the neck to prevent it from stretching. Cut the collar and the facing the same size. In fact both may be cut at once. Stitch both rights together, then turn. Be careful to see that the corners are pushed out to the very end of the seam, otherwise the line of the collar will not be perfect. Turn right side out, then stitch around the edge of the collar to keep it flat. Sew the right side of the collar to the wrong side of the dress, then turn under the edge of the facing and baste to the neck from the right side. If preferred, one stitching may

R. B. Walthall, chairman of the State Board of Control will make his first visit to the college today. He spent yesterday at Spur and will arrive here today. He will make a talk to the students at the convocation this morning. A luncheon will be given in his honor at the College Cafeteria.

Tonight he will be a guest at the Texas-Exes banquet given at the Cafeteria.

DEAN HALL DELAYED IN VISIT TO TECH

Dean Colby Hall, dean of men at Texas Christian University who was to have been here yesterday, wired that on account of illness in his family he could not come. He will make a visit here sometime next week.

FIRST MILCH COWS RECEIVED FOR COLLEGE DAIRY

The first dairy cows were delivered to the College late Sunday afternoon by F. I. Dahlberg, superintendent of the College farm. He left Dallas late Thursday night and arrived here at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. The cattle all arrived in fine condition. An addition was made to the lot by the birth of a little Jersey calf. College officials have decided to name the calf "Tran-ent."

Sixteen head were brought back by Dahlberg, ten Jerseys and six Holsteins. The Flowerdale Farm near Dallas was the donor of a Jersey bull to the College. The dairy cattle were purchased from this farm. The dairy started operation yesterday. Everything is connected and working with the exception of lights. Electricians will install them right away. Three students have been employed and will milk the cows night and morning. The dairy will begin selling milk right away. Every modern machine and method of sanitation will be used at the dairy and the officials in charge plan to give the best service.

OFFICERS OF FIRST STUDENT ASSN. TO BE ELECTED TODAY

This morning at the convocation, the officers for the first student association of the Tech will be elected. Nominations were made at the ballot of the entire student body the past week. The following students received the highest number of votes for the nominations: For president, Harry Montgomery and John Young; vice president, Orval Borroughs and Rex Keys; for secretary, Agnes Brown and Ruth Officer. Standing vote will be made this morning and the officers will go into active duty immediately.

TECH TO SPONSOR STOCK JUDGING CONTEST

Dean Leidigh of the school of Agriculture announced yesterday that the School of Agriculture would sponsor and hold a Stock Judging Contest here March 27. The teachers of Vocational Agriculture made the request at the Teachers Institute last fall that the Tech hold a contest of this kind. There are over 30 schools teaching this subject in this section and at least half of them are expected to attend the contest here. Ray Mowery, professor of Vocational Agriculture in the Lubbock High School is cooperating with the Tech officials in holding this meet. Of course the Lubbock boys will not compete in some of the contest on account of having used Tech material in study. They will enter some of the contests and plan to carry off honors.

Several schools have been heard from regarding the contest and all have been elected at having a chance to compete and visit the Tech. Plans will be completed and other announcements relative to the contest will be made soon.

AGRICULTURE SCHOOL BUSY AS SPRING COMES

The students and the officials of the School of Agriculture will be very busy now as the warm days are approaching and green things begin to peep out of the soil. Plants and other vegetation have been received during the last three days from the United States Department of Agriculture. These will be turned over to the department of Horticulture and tests will be made on them relative to their ability to grow here and other similar tests.

Planting has begun on the college farm and the fields will be prepared for the crops soon. The students who plan to enter the acre project will have charge of the field in the planting season. The plowing is being done by E. E. Gray with a tractor, plowing day and night.

Two carloads of evergreens and shrubs will arrive this week and will be planted around the buildings. Holes have already been dug for these plants. Students will do most of this work, which will be directed by the school of Agriculture.

E. P. Pace of Acuff was a visitor at the College Saturday. He has some cotton seed that the School of Agriculture is germananting for him. They find that it is a particular kind of seed and different from the seed of this section.

CONNOR TO VISIT TECH THIS WEEK

A. B. Connor vice-director of the Texas Agriculture experiment station at College Station will be here Thursday and will be a guest of the School of Agriculture. He will consult with Dean Leidigh relative to some manuscripts which he prepared while he was at A. & M. College.

7,500 Volumes Of Newspapers Are In Library

AUSTIN, Texas, March 1.—When the work of binding the newspapers which have been filed for the past year is completed, the University of Texas will have at least 7,500 bound volumes of newspapers, according to D. E. McArthur, supervisor of the newspaper collection. There are at the present time 6,648 bound volumes, he said.

WOULD MAKE ENGLISH HOUSE OF LORDS DEMOCRATIC

LONDON, March 1.—Democratization of the house of lords is suggested in a proposal which has been submitted to the government by a cabinet committee headed by Viscount Cave, according to the Daily Express. The proposals are said to include one for giving the chamber greater powers and one for reducing the present membership of 742. The nucleus of 150 composed of men of royal blood, of legal and ecclesiastical peers would be supplemented through elections by various bodies if the present proposals were followed.

DEMOS WILL FIGHT ON LOCAL LINES THIS YEAR

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
WASHINGTON, March 1.—As democratic leaders survey their prospects, they are strongly disposed to rely chiefly on local issues in the next congressional election. This is the view, for instance, of Clem L. Shaver, chairman of the democratic national committee. It is supported by various other astute democratic politicians.

It is probable that this strategy will be employed unless an act of heaven throws a great national issue into the lap of the bewildered democrats.

Conditions this year are all against the time honored method of trying to elect democratic congressmen in remote districts on national issues, which sound big in Washington but fail to stir the citizens of Yanktown, S. D.

There is hardly anything else for the democrats to do. They have almost out-Melloned Mellon in resuscitating the rich from onerous taxes. They worked harder than the republicans to help Coolidge on the world court. Now they are volunteering for administration service in disposing of Mussolini. Senate democrats are hostile to the Italian debt, but not much more so than republicans.

Of course they have the tariff. But everyone is making money and is content to let well enough alone. Democrats do not expect to stir up much genuine enthusiasm over that. Prohibition interests every one, wet and dry. But the difficulty is that democrats are as divided among themselves over it as the republicans are. Neither party is going to stick up its head now when it will get hit in a prohibition fight.

This leaves Coolidge as the remaining possible national issue. He will be hammered about farm relief, and some about Mellon and aluminum. But the democrats haven't been able to get a solid foothold for a real attack on the president.

Senator Walsh, Franklin D. Roosevelt and several prominent democrats recently held a conference to discuss ways and means of making a real issue. But issues are seldom made. Usually they happen.

So circumstances force the democrats to adjust themselves to conditions in each senatorial district. In New Jersey they will assail the dry enforcement situation. In Kansas they will say less about that and more about farm relief. Each congressman standing for re-election will be assailed on his record here. Candidates will out-promise each other regarding postoffice buildings, water way development and local benefices.

Chairman Shaver has practically disposed of the party deficit left over from the Davis presidential campaign. He has obtained pledges of funds to support a publicly representative at the headquarters of the democratic national committee here. This headquarters has been a melancholy and deserted place since the 1924 election. Only four employees were kept on the payroll. Shaver seldom came here. But now he will spend less time in West Virginia and more here.

Home Economics Leading Course In C. I. A.

DENTON, Tex., Mar. 1.—Statistics recently tabulated by Dr. Lindsey Blayney, president of the College of Industrial Arts, showed that there are more majors in the school of home economics than in any other department of C. I. A. The reports include investigations in the major subjects of approximately 960 students of the college, including only juniors and seniors.

The number of majors in each school are as follows: home economics, 267; fine arts, 257; liberal arts, 245; education, 138; industrial arts and sciences, 53.

PLAINVIEW MAN KNIFED IN FIGHT WILL RECOVER

PLAINVIEW, March 1.—Jack Scott of Plainview, employed at the Malone gin, was injured seriously and is in the Plainview Sanitarium as the result of knife wounds received in a fight. J. J. Smeakel, foreman at the gin, is out on a $500 bond charged with aggravated assault.

LOCAL MAN PURSUES DETRACTOR TO POLICE STATION AND SAFETY

A fear-stricken salesman was seen to take the lead in what proved an interesting race yesterday afternoon which was terminated at the police office in the city hall, where the leader sought protection from the angered local man who pursued him.

The leader in the little race that was made over two city blocks and in which both men proved slow but persistent runners, had displayed a large amount of merchandise in a sample room that was not guarded, and when he discovered that a dress had been "lifted" from the display sought to collect damages from the proprietor, who didn't want to take the blame for the lost goods. It was stated by the spectators that words preceded the race, but Chief May was unable to assess a fine due to the fact that there is no law against foot racing in Lubbock, and there was nothing more than that to the difficulty.

DISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH

A just distribution of wealth is the great problem society must face. We have learned to live in abundance. Frequently we speak of production of certain commodities but we are guarded against the idea of overproduction until we are sure that it is not a question of consumption. There can be no over-production of any staple commodity until the requirements of all for that commodity are met. No artificial distribution of wealth will be automatic and at the place and time of production. It will help if we repeat the factors of production. These are land, labor, capital. There are none other. If land takes much out of production in the way of rent it less to be divided between labor and capital in the form of wages and interest. Right where taxes play an important part in the distribution. All taxes are paid out of annual production. Adam Smith laid down law a century and a half ago. No one questions his truth but for the most part we ignore it.
That part of taxes taken out of wages or
added to the cost of production, lessens
production and proves a direct burden in the distribution of wealth. Taxes that are from rent account has the opposite effect.
Land into use, lowers its selling price or
value and thus reduces the cost of production and distribution. It is well known that a land value cannot be shifted.

There were to give as close attention to the governs production and distribution as to physical laws a just and equitable basis
upon be established. Thirty years ago Tolstoy said: "The intelligent seeks salvation where no salvation is to be found, and after of fact it is not quite sincere in its wishes to do good without sacrificing its advantages." Too many of our leaders finished with conditions as they are. So long as they get their why should they worry? The
of the hour is big men, men capable of leadership who can inspire confidence, who can awaken conscience of the indifferent and stir us up to intelligent action.

TEXAS ALMANAC

Many new features are included in the 1926
edition of The Texas Almanac and State Industry Guide, published by The Dallas Morning News, which has just come from the press. It is one compact volume, more than the edition of 1925,
more basic information is condensed and
light up to date, and there is in addition more than 250 pages of entirely new matter.

One of the features of The Texas Almanac
year is the full text of the Texas Constitution
all amended actions indicated by blackface
and with footnotes giving dates of all amendments and explaining all changes that have been since the adoption of the present Constitution. Due to the fact that amendments to the Constitution are made in the body of the
instead of being amended, as in the case of United States Constitution, the Texas Constitution is generally published in such a way that changes are not distinguishable. The new edition also carries the full text of the United States Constitution.

Another feature of the Almanac is a section
entitled "Brief articles on the 576 principal cities
of Texas and including all places listed by the last United States Census or having as many as forty listed business houses in the 1925
of the chief commercial rating concerns. Chapters on agriculture, minerals, live stock, education,
banks, banking, insurance, State finances, etc., fully revised and brought up to date. There is a complete list of all State officials, boards and commissions, giving names of office holders, salaries,
terms, manner of selection for office
date of founding of office. There are also of all county officials and the Mayors of more than 400 of the principal cities and towns of the State.

Other interesting features include a list of Texas organizations, with names and ad-
resses of presidents and secretaries, 1926 politicians, principal radio stations, origins of Texas cities and towns, sport records,
game laws, Texas vital statistics, foreign relations, the results of the new agricultural survey, complete calendar with supplementary matter for the year 1926, recommendations of the Survey Commission, revised Postoffice

Guide, weather statistics and numerous other matters. A revised map of Texas in colors is folded under the back cover.

TURKEY'S CHANGE OF GOVERNMENT

Abolition of all outward symbols of the religion which came out of the arid desert of Arabia
was the first step in the transformation of Turkey undertaken by Mustapha Kemal Pasha when the National Assembly at Angora clothed him with full power as President of the Republic.

The fez, the universal headgear of all true believers in Mahomet, was doomed. This elongated skullcap with its silken tassel which crowns the pyramidal cranium of the Egyptian fellah, squats
on the square brow of the Turkestan moujik or tilts aggravatingly over the bushy eyebrows of the smirking Syrian is the recognized emblem of the Orient. It obtrudes itself everywhere. It is worn in churches and salons, at marriages and funeral ceremonies. It is no protection against the sun or the rain. It has no earthly use whatever except as a symbol. As a symbol, then, it was doomed.
Asiatics might continue to wear it and be fez-
ed. Turkey was thru with it.

After the fez went its feminine counterpart,
the yashmak, or veil. Up to the introduction of the new regime women in Turkey, as in all Mohammedan countries, looked like a flock of ravens
circling around the towns or perched half a dozen in a somber row on a park bench. The veil did not merely cover the face. It enveloped the entire body. Since its suppression, accepted with glee by all except the oldest and ugliest, women are showing an unlooked for independence of spirit.
They are aware that they are human beings,
not chattels.

In this respect they are different from the men. The abolition of the fez was not accepted without murmurs of disapproval. "How are we going to pray if we wear European hats?"
they queried in dismay. When a true believer worships in the mosque he must touch the floor
with his forehead several times. With the fez, that was easy. It did not cover the forehead. The brim of the European hat interferes with the devotions of the Moslem. Many found a way out by trimming off the brim in front or by wearing a cap with the peak turned backward, like an aviator or a racing auto driver.

With the fez went also into the limbo of forgotten things the baggy pantaloons, the swash-buckler crimson jacket and the sash with a knife or two. All this ordained by law and enforced by a watchful police force. If the porter at Shepheard's in Cairo who hangs about the terrace in gorgeous
red velvet knee breeches bulging out at the hips
like a staysail in a head wind, Boston garters
bridging the bare space between knee and silver-
buckled slipper, a jaunty lock-to-the-monkey cap
on his head came to Constantinople these days,
he wouldn't be able to get by the policeman at the dock. A few months ago he would have been at home here.

Certainly it has taken away a lot of the picturesque in the streets of Turkish cities but it has brought an improvement in the mentality of the Turks. They are ceasing to be comic opera brigands and are getting down to business.

Scrocery, fortune telling, so-called "healing
by the power of the breath" and a dozen other evidences of superstition have gone the way of the fez and yashmak. The only man still permitted to wear the fez are the ulema, or Mohammedan
priests, and they are obliged to bind a turban around it, partly concealing the headgear. The immense Moslem seminary in Stambul, where thousands of young men spent eighteen to twenty years studying the Koran before they graduated as ulema were allowed to conduct prayers in the mosques, was closed. The stone cells bare of all furniture, with only a hole in the roof to elicit out
the smoke of the anchorite's fire, once the abode
of the devotees who cared nothing for modern learning but reached the end of their term able to recite the "Holy Book" from memory, have been rented to poor families who pay two Turkish pounds, or about a dollar a month. Whole families of four or five persons occupy many of them.

Some few believers still frequent the mosques. Women are admitted also, contrary to the custom in strict Mohammedan countries such as Morocco and Arabia. Unbelievers—they call us glaious—are permitted to enter, with sandals over their shoes, provided by a janitor for a fee of a few piastres. Time was when Friday, the Moslem Sunday, saw a vast concourse of people of all classes acclaiming the Sultan on his regular visit to the Mosque of Sultani Selim, one of the most beautiful buildings in Stambul. Now Friday passes like other days. The spirit of Islam has departed.

FEDERAL AID

Federal aid to the states now calls for appropriations amounting to $95,000,000 a year.
Under this system, which Congress is always seeking to enlarge, bureaucracy has increased, and state initiative has decreased. Under it the government gives back to the states some of the money
it taxes their people to raise, after first holding on to enough of it to pay the expenses of huge administration bureaus, with their red tape and frequent incompetence. In this way the people get in the habit of looking to Washington for a solution of their problems which formerly they solved themselves. The whole system runs counter to the original plan of government and is the result of new conditions that must be met. As at present conducted the federal aid system is unfair because
some of the states get back about 1 per cent, while others get from 50 to 240 per cent of the money their citizens pay to the federal government.

The jingoes are not letting grass grow under their feet and nothing short of a war with Mexico
will satisfy them—and all because the interests of American oil companies which have sinned
far more than they have been, sinned against in Mexico appear to be in danger. The propaganda machine is working overtime.

An anxious inquirer wants to know if it is possible to prevent grapefruit juice from squirting
on his immaculate shirtfront. Certainly. Either don't eat grapefruit, or eat it shirtless, use an oil-cloth bib. Go to the head of the class.

In the Whirl of March Winds

SO THINK WE

We think we need a lot more of this keep off the grass propaganda. People are trying to get the grass started in the yard, but as long as the pedestrians keep the corners cut off it will be hard to make a pretty yard.

We think there is a greater
need for numbering the houses
than many people think.

We think the kind of weather
we have is not usually the kind
we want. Some folks seem awfully hard to please.

We think old man gloom
should not be encouraged to settle down in Lubbock, for we are sure he will not be satisfied in this live town.

We think it is just too hard on the folks that pay rent by the month that there are only 28 days
in this month.

We think it is time to begin
getting the yards cleaned up and ready for growing grass and flowers.

We think what this country
needs just now is a good soaking.
We think at the present rate
of smash-ups its going to be hard for the automobile factories
to make cars fast enough to replace those wrecked.

We think a lot of folks make
the great mistake of looking at their misfortunes rather than the things that tend to make one thankful, just think how many people are not near so well fixed
as yourself.

We think by the time you read
this we will be able to tell how many of those high powered
weather profits knew anything
about how March would come in.
We have contended all the time it would come in a little after 12:00 o'clock on the night
of February 28 and come in very much like other months.

We are sure she will stay longer than did February and we will possibly learn to like her better.

We think those foreign war
vets will have quite a job entertaining the American vets next summer when they go over there
to attend the big convention.

We think that Juarez is trying to excel again—They want to be the divorce mecca.

We think the chief of police
was in rather an embarrassing
position yesterday when he had the job of settling a fuss between a Jewish peddler and one of the business men of the city. The business man wanted to hit the Jew but couldn't catch him. The only chance for a fine was to charge them with exceeding the speed limit. The fuss was finally settled by mutual agreement.

We think the real test is to pull the cork and see if it has
the necessary kick.

We think there is little or no
use to change the prohibition law
unless we make it a whole lot tighter. If we weaken the stuff down, and legalize it some fellow

will then want to make it stronger, so lets just make it a heap
weaker and not allow it to be sold or drunk.

We think that where aluminum
is found wanting is on the scales

We think there might be something real in the German Mara-thonian stunt being pulled in Berlin. Necessity may have much to do with it.

We think that history does repeat itself. They say that George Washington made beer, and the twelve apostles it is said wore
no hose supporters.

We think one reason Lubbock
has grown and developed into as good a city it is, is because Lubbock men take time to see that visitors are shown the city, and
made to feel that they are welcome.

We think a person can keep sweet milk sweet by putting it
on ice, but what about a fellows temper.

We think that truth is not only stranger than fiction, but we are inclined to believe that it is more decent.

We think there has not been
one solitary man ever married that would make a perfect husband. He is still single.

We think that if the United States would have more golden anniversaries celebrated it would be a better place in which to live.
Too many of the weddings do not
last to even the years when wedding anniversary celebrations
are permissible.

IT IS REPORTED

That Ma Ferguson will run for Governor until the entire family is vindicated. It would seem that we will have the Fergusons with us just the same as we have the poor—always.

That we are to have an early spring. We wonder who knows?

That there are many more silent nights at home now since
the radio has come into more common use. Its possibly the cause of many divorces too. Some people cannot live happily together unless they can keep up
a fuss.

That out of 15000 people in Lubbock, only about 2500 attended Sunday school last Sunday.

That every third person uses
the telephone once every day.
The folks that use the business
telephone to make their social call of settle the family differences for hours at a time are probably included in this estimate.

That there is one person in Lubbock who never spoke an unkind word about his neighbor
he is dumb.

That Lubbock has it.

That many people regret that the first of March has come. It's time to pay rent and grocery bills again.

SCISSORED EDITORIAL

UNDOING THE MISTAKE OF A HALF CENTURY

For nearly a half century the bankers and merchants of Texas and other cotton-producing States, (with a few outstanding exceptions) have forced the growing of cotton almost
to the exclusion of everything else.
Cotton to them represented what they were pleased to term a liquid asset. It could be sold at any time and anywhere. If a farmer needed financial assistance at the beginning of the season, his merchants or his banker generally based his credit
upon the number of acres of cotton
he was going to plant and how many hands, meaning children, he had to chop and hoe. If most of his farm was going into cotton and he had a large family of children, his credit was good, but if he was going to reduce his acreage and grow something else, his credit was reduced proportionately.

Thus have the bankers and other business interests created generation
after generation of cotton farmers,
and today there are thousands of men on our farms who do not claim to know how to grow feedstuffs or to take care of good animals. Cotton is all they know.

Increased production of cotton,
due to labor-saving machinery and increased acreage, not only in America, but in other parts of the world, has brought about a serious situation demanding immediate attention. Depleted soils have reduced acre production to where cotton is unprofitable even at 20 cents per pound, and the business interests of the South, in order to protect their note files, have about-faced and are trying to undo the work of a half century. They are now preaching and advocating balanced farming, something that Farm and Ranch has been doing
since its first issue nearly forty-five years ago.

Go back into the files of Farm
and Ranch and you will find the slogan, "Live at home and board at the same place," printed in papers
yellow with age, and now that slogan is being popularized by those who did not give it even a passing thought in earlier days. "More feed
on more acres" is another slogan shouted from the banquet tables in every city of the land, and yet Farm and Ranch started this slogan and urged its adoption many years ago.
Merchants and bankers are now interesting to the appeals for a sane and balanced farm program, the necessity of which has been apparent to those more directly interested in agriculture since farming became an important industry in this State.
They are urging farmers to do those things which have frowned upon a few years ago. They are proclaiming their faith in the "Live-at-Home"
program and stand ready to back it with their money. Thus we have a new generation of bankers and merchants with advanced ideas on farming. May their influence increase to the end that cotton will become a real money crop for the producers,
and that the South will enjoy the rich reward that others have enjoyed from the returns of this most wonderful and most useful fiber on earth.

And here let Farm and Ranch
suggest that inasmuch as the bankers and merchants of the South own many thousands of farms, and through credit relations control the production on many others, they have the opportunity of testing out balanced farming to their own satisfaction and to set a good example to others in their own territory.—Farm
and Ranch.

Constructing an Empire
The first conflict in the Texas
revolution took place Oct. 2, 1835
at Gonzales. At that time Texas, for governmental purposes, was divided into three departments—Bexar, Nacogdoches and Brazos. Subject to these three departments were eight-

San Patricio, Shelby (or Tenaha), Victoria, Washington.
At the Provisional Council, held in 1836, the Texans added five more municipalities, as follows: Colera-
do, Jackson, Jefferson, Red River, Stebbins.

LIKE OTHER MEN

"Why can't you be like other men?"
My Nellie says to me,
"So many wives lead easy lives,
From care and worry free;
Their men don't do the things you do
Or say the things you say.
The faults they own are seldom shown,
I see yours every day."
"Why can't you be like other men?"
How often this I hear,
World-wide and far all husbands are
with such a problem tasked.
The wives of husbands she admires,
Their faults may plainly see,
And I've no doubt some point me out
And wish they were like me.
"Why can't you be like other men?"
Well, here's the reason why,
I am too much beneath your touch,
Too often in your eye.
Could you know all as you know me
Day in and out, why, then,
Your doubting mind would also find
I am like other men!

SKIPPER ALLEN WAS IN TRAINING WITH THE ST. LOUIS BROWNS AT HOUSTON SIXTEEN YEARS AGO

Skipper Allen yesterday stated to a member of the Morning Avalanche "It was sixteen years ago today that I began hard training with the St. Louis Browns. I was a tired man about this time then. I had gone through two mills and I was plenty tired. At that time the St. Louis Browns were in training at Houston, Texas. "The Old Man," as he is well known by all of the ball players throughout the state, has faced some of the greatest pitchers during those days, there was Walter Johnson, Eddie Plank, Chief Bender, Cy Young, Combs, and a host of the old timers of the American League. It was some sixteen years ago our same Skipper Allen broke into the great American game—it was in Wheeling, W. Va. that he started the professional ball playing. He was a "fitter" with the Wheeling Club and was "farmed" to the Mansfield, Ohio, in the Ohio League from which place he was shut out on to Enid, Okla., in the Western Association, he finished the season there in 1909 having aided the club in winning the pennant that year. With the Browns in 1910 he was several of the Enid players were sold or drafted to the Browns after the 1909 baseball season; Skipper was one of the Enid players that was drafted to the St. Louis Club; he remained with the Browns until about the middle of March that year was then "farmed" out to the Louisville Americans to finish the season. In 1911 he reported back to the Louisville camp but was recalled early in the season by St. Louis and sent to Houston in the Texas League. Later Skipper took charge of the Hurley, N. M. club in the Cooper League, and was not in baseball except for amateur for some time; he again took up the old game and managed the Ranger club of the West Texas League in 1921—the Ranger club dropped from the league and Allen then took charge of the Ardmore club of the T-O league, where his club won second place in the T-O race.

Came to Lubbock in 1922. In spring of 1922 the citizens of Lubbock gathered together and discussed the matter of purchasing the Burlington franchise of the West Texas League. At that time E. A. Morgan was president of the Lubbock Baseball Club which purchased the franchise and moved it to Lubbock. Skipper Allen reported to Lubbock on the 17th day of March as manager of the club and began training with his crew that he had gathered here and there. Sled ended the 1922 season in third place in the West Texas League. In 1923 Sled and his club took second place after the 1923 season the West Texas League dissolved and another league was formulated under the name of the Panhandle-Pecos Valley League in which the Hubbers drew first place, landing the pennant.

Semi-Pro Ball 1924-25. In 1924 and 1925 "the old fellow" followed the Semi-Pro game with a season that was nothing to talk of in 1924—but in the last year's season he was greatly responsible for a great advertising achievement for Lubbock in taking from Denver the Denver Post tournament flag; with many trophies that are offered by the Post in the tournaments.

Plans Good Year For 1926. Sled is in the optimistic mood for the great American game in Lubbock for the coming season; he has already lined up several hurlers and with a good part of the former members of the Denver champions already at home he is thinking of rounding-out another good team.

Ruggies Complimented Allen. Bill Ruggies, former Dallas News Sports Editor and now secretary of the Texas University Ex-Students Association, stated through his columns of the Dallas News sports page before leaving that post, that the 1911 Houston Bluffs was the greatest baseball club ever produced in the history of the Texas League—Skipper Allen was mentioned as being one of the members of that club.

Just sixteen years ago today, Skipper said, "and I was getting ready for training with the St. Louis Browns." Sled must have been all of 20 then so he came very near telling us his age.

"I faced some real pitchers back in those days—there was Eddie Plank, deceased, Chief Bender, Walter Johnson, Cy Young, and others old-timers that were in the American League in those days. So the old man (Skipper) is well acquainted with these curve ball artists.

"Boy I am ready," shouted Shep with a smile all over his face when he was questioned as to the coming baseball season. "It will be 'tighter up Shep' soon."

Guy Hayden, the crack first sacker of the last year's Amarillo club, has joined the Texas Tech forces and will no doubt be a candidate for a berth on the Matador nine.

Hayden was selected as first base on the mythical nine of the Denver Post Tournament of Amateurs club last season.

Something like 30 or 40 Matador bidders for the Tech nine were out warming up the old soup bone yesterday evening. Freeland has not made any call for the baseball training as yet but hopes that circumstances will allow him to do so within the next few days.

Most of the baseball equipment for the Matadors is on hand at the present time—but will not be issued for a few days.

Coach Freeland states that if he is able to select from the material that has been working with track for the past few weeks a club that is in fair condition and will be able to take part in the Fat Stock Show meet of Track clubs in a week or so he is going to take the club down. Several of the cinder path lads have expressed their desire to attend the Stock Show meet and are working hard to get into shape so that they will be in condition for the trip.

The Matadors will open their baseball season with the Daniel Baker Hill Billies of Brownwood here on the 31 of March and the first of April. Freeland has some 30 or more games lined up for the season and it looks like the players of the great American game in the Tech College are going to have something to fight for.

The municipal golf course is creating much interest in the golf circles and improvements are being made daily now and soon the course will be in first class condition. Have gotten your membership card—if not you had better act quick for there is a limited membership.

Mule Davis and Skipper Allen will likely start training with the high school nine today, so stated "Mule" yesterday.

SPORT FLASHES

FANNING WITH FARRELL. BY HENRY L. FARRELL. United Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—Feeling that the public is only beginning to be influenced by the professional sports press, "Tex" Richard is looking around for other spots to extend his activities.

He is considering a proposition to erect a huge arena in Chicago patterned after his New York Garden and Florida boosters have interested him in considering Miami for another one.

Richard follows the business policy of "I'll take a shot on anything where there is a chance to make money"—and he has been so successful that he can afford to take long shots.

When the owners of old Madison Square Garden decided to raze the building and erect an office building in its place, Richard wasn't disturbed.

"We've purchased this old building," he said, "it was never intended for our needs. Guess we'll have to move up town and build a new one."

When Richard announced that he had an option on the old Eighth Avenue car barn within a stone's throw of the busiest section of Broadway and was ordering plans for a $5,000,000 enterprise, real estate men thought he was crazy.

It wasn't the first time that conservative business men questioned his sanity. It will be recalled that he was almost hauled before a lunacy commission when he said he would pay Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier $500,000 to meet in the ring and that he would build an arena that would seat 90,000 spectators.

He had the last laugh, however, when he put across and counted more than a million and a half dollars in the box office. How much of it was left after all the tolls had been paid is not known but there must have been a neat profit.

Those who thought his new Garden would wreck the Wall Street men who put up the money for him had another thought coming when figures were shown that $24,400 were taken in at the gate for the first ten boxing shows in the Garden. The receipts were $150,000 for the first ten same corresponding period in the old Garden.

Boxing is only one of the many activities in the Garden as the rules of the commission limit a club to one show a week.

Professional hockey has been even more successful in drawing money than boxing and considering the small expense encountered in promoting hockey, the profits are larger in the long run than boxing.

The six-day bike race is a huge money maker and it is likely that the promoters will realize a net profit of more than $200,000 for the two shows.

Fancy revenue is also obtained from the rental of the big exhibition arena in which the poultry show are held and from many other smaller exhibitions.

Now that Rickard has put it over and looks to be headed for a fortune, the wise boys are cracking that he isn't a genius and that the field was so good he didn't take any chance.

PACIFIC COAST TRACK. BERKELEY, Cal., Mar. 1.—Around a slender nucleus of probable first place winners, Walter Christie, University of California track coach, hopes this year to produce a team that will restore winning honors absent from the campus since 1923.

Track meets are won, not by first place winners but by the number of other men who can advance minor points, Christie believes. His greatest problem is to find a few more first place men.

The present squad, strong only in a few classifications, looks of paper to be an easy victim for California's chief rivals, Stanford and the University of Southern California.

Christie starts across in the sprints with Captain Jim Barber, who came along so rapidly in the 1925 season that he looks to be probably the fastest 220-yard competitor and among the best 100 yard men on the coast this year.

Elmer Boyden, who has won two collegiate starts from Bill Richardson of Stanford in the half mile, looks like a regular this year, and possibly the best on the coast.

In the mile California has Schwob, Ross and Smith, all looked upon as certain point winners. Schwob and Smith will compete in the two mile, along with Fix, Collins and Campbell and there are hopes that the Bruins again will be able to register one, two, three in the event.

California is weak in the hurdles and sure of places in the weights, but with Hampton leading in the high jump, Garner and Hill in the pole vault, and Bondachu in the broad jump, there are several more possible points in sight.

ANDREWS' NEW PLAN FOR PRO PROBE DISAPPROVED

BY ROBERT D. LUSK. United News Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—For the second time in a fortnight, the administration has blocked a major proposal on the program of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to enforce prohibition.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon late today voiced his opposition to an investigation of the sociological and economic effects of prohibition by a presidential commission, a plan which received the wholehearted endorsement of Andrews earlier in the day. President Coolidge and Mellon recently disapproved of the Andrews plan for government purchase of all medicinal stocks of liquor.

These were two of the outstanding maneuvers of the campaign of General Andrews to break up illicit traffic in intoxicants.

Mellon said that should an investigation be made, he favored a congressional inquiry. He said that he felt that it would be more appropriate for congress to ascertain the facts where a matter of change in legislation might be involved.

The people, he contended, knew the facts about prohibition and could draw their own conclusions. He said that he felt that they would not accept the conclusions of a presidential commission.

Mellon's disapproval of his assistant's plan has been variously interpreted here. In some quarters it was believed that the president does not wish to assume responsibility for such a commission's actions. It was pointed out that the steering committee of the house has stated that the prohibition issue into the open. Several congressmen have expressed the opinion that resolutions calling for prohibition investigation never would see the light of day during this session.

In the meantime, the activity of the alcoholic liquor traffic committee of the house has brought forth loud protest. This committee, the only group authorized to make such inquiry, announced that it would go ahead with an investigation and that Andrews would be called to testify Monday.

Representative Celler, New York, democrat, who introduced the resolution calling for investigation by a presidential commission, accused the committee of prejudice to such an extent that they could not judge fairly.

Celler said that Representative Upshaw of Georgia, ranking democrat member, already had shown he was biased by a statement to the United News that he believed that the committee, after its investigation, would recommend revision of the dry law upward.

"You may as well allow a bunch of bootleggers to make a study of prohibition," he added. "The desire to keep the country dry is no less a desire."

SELL 22 CARS AT KUYKENDALL AUCTION. The auction sale conducted late yesterday by the Kuykendall Chevrolet Company was a success from the standpoint of interest shown by the large crowd that attended and the large number of sales that were made.

Mr. Kuykendall stated that 22 cars were sold, and that prices were satisfactory, notwithstanding the fact that as a whole they were not as high perhaps as would have been the case by private sales.

Laziness is that factor, according to "drustick" that makes a fellow say "he wouldn't be what we wuz, doun' what he wuz, feelin' like he wuz, if he hadn't come around."

We can't understand why they call it "spring fever" when goodness knows it doesn't wake a fellow feel like there's any spring in him at all.

ANOTHER PERFECT COVE. ALAS, GOES "BLAH". TORONTO, Mar. 1.—Canada's "perfect romance" has ended. Mrs. Clifford Spaul, formerly Miss Mary Smith of Atlanta City beauty fame, has filed suit for divorce from Spaul, charging inability to support her.

Three years ago Miss Smith, attired as "Miss Toronto," won fame as a beauty and model at the Atlantic City pageant. Though feted and honored in United States cities, the beauty scorned the attentions of at least one American millionaire and returned home to marry young Clifford Spaul, a minor mechanic.

"Miss Toronto" has been separated from her motor mechanic husband for the past 10 months. Gerald Spaul, two year old baby, is being cared for by the mother.

Spaul says the winning of the beauty contest completely turned his wife's head.

"She was never the same girl as I knew her," he explained.

TOO EXCITING FOR FRENCH STAR. SHE PLANS TRIP. MENTON, France, March 1.—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen traveling incognito will leave shortly for Italy.

Suzanne said Monday that she desired to escape the publicity given her on the Riviera where "it is too exciting, especially for tennis players."

BRIAND DEFENDS LOCARNO FROM ATTACKS IN PARIS. PARIS, March 1.—Uremier Briand defended the pact of Locarno in the chamber of deputies Monday, meeting vigorous charges from the opposition that the Locarno treaties had been contrary to France's interests and that she would have been wiser to have entered a protective alliance with the United States, England and Japan.

From Modeste, looks to be the only California hope in that event.

As for the rest—Christie admits he's on the anxious seat.

New blood must be developed if California hopes to win this year and start such a string of victories as those which put the Blue and Gold in the lead in 1920, 1921, 1922 and 1923.

Million Saved For Woolworth Heir

NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—An eleven year old girl would be more than $1,000,000 poorer Monday, according to Wall Street, if it had not been for the foresight of the trustees of her estate.

And, as the estate was receiving congratulations not a few laughs circulated in financial circles at the expense of those who, last January bought 50,000 shares of Woolworth stock belonging to little Barbara Hutton, one of the heirs of Mrs. Frank W. Woolworth, widow of the five and ten cent store king and Barbara's grandmother.

At the time of the sale, the stock was selling on the New York Stock Exchange at 218 and the buyers were credited with a shrewd deal when they got it in a private transaction for about 203.

Monday, however, Woolworth stock fell to 181, just 14 points below Saturday's close.

BLOOD AND SAND FROM EL TORO

March 2nd, Texas Independence Day.

Seems that every time one turns around, there's some event to be commemorated, something to be either thankful for or to celebrate, or something: Now doesn't it?

But then, to we Texans—and practically all of us are—there's no one day has such meaning as this day, July 4th, common property of all the states—Christmas for the world; but March 2nd for Texas.

There was some little talk—small talk, if you please, about the possibility of another holiday for this state, but that we effectually canceled in conversation the other morning with the announcement very contrary to that fact.

Concert Band was up to its old practices again last night. The old gang is staying with it regularly enough, or, at least, most of them are—and when our new director—Prof. Lamier, gets through tuning us in, we'll be ready to step. Atta way!

Really, we're not so very up-to-date on college events as we might be, but one can't help noticing the La Ventana office last week. School's rapidly drawing to a close (at least, it's a few days past the mid-way mark for the year) and things are going to be stepping lively around that end of the campus. Yes no?

Uncle Tim says that the modern flapper can't be put out at anything. Hit one of 'em she'll hit back—kiss one of them and she kisses back.

Today's proverb: Never let the sun go down on a misdeed standing. Midnight is the devil's heyday.

We're not so much a real estate agent as some other things but this spring weather looks good to us. Sometimes it does look like winter's on the back trail, but it "ain't."

Houston Post—way down in south Texas, mind you—is asking for some "material" for its columns. Some pictures, "everything." Tech is still arriving.

Laziness is that factor, according to "drustick" that makes a fellow say "he wouldn't be what we wuz, doun' what he wuz, feelin' like he wuz, if he hadn't come around."

We can't understand why they call it "spring fever" when goodness knows it doesn't wake a fellow feel like there's any spring in him at all.

INVENTOR GAINS MILLIONS BY RULING

By United News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 1.—Unlike many poor inventors who have fought big corporations through the courts, George Campbell Carson, picturesque prospector and chemist, actually will gain millions as a result of his long legal battle over blast furnace patent rights and royalties.

The Carson litigation has been going on for nearly a decade and was regarded as its practical termination came in two decisions of the federal circuit court of appeals here Monday.

"All that remains now is an accounting suit and that won't take long," said C. S. Wheeler, defense attorney, after the appellate court had denied the petition of the American Smelting & Refining Co., for a new trial.

Carson, who prospected over the Nevada hills with his pack burro 20 years ago, now is 59 years old and not in good health. His fight has been carried on by a sincere body of men under an agreement which insures him a major portion of the winnings, estimated now at some $200,000,000. A favorable United States supreme court decision preceded Monday's developments.

"The thing is practically over," Wheeler explained in denying that further petitions and delays would carry the suit on indefinitely.

To add to Carson's victory Judge Radkin of the circuit court also ruled Monday on another petition from the American Smelting & Refining Co., which sought dismissal of Carson's litigation on the ground that he had parted with the patents.

"The ends of justice demand that the litigation should end here," the court held in deciding that these claims were without merit.

The American Smelting & Refining Co. is one of a half dozen copper concerns affected. The suits were carried on under this name but the rulings apply automatically to the others concerned.

Carson plans to use his new wealth in chemical re-search.

CHANGE OF INAUGURAL DATES UP THIS WEEK

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—The fate of the Norris resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution changing the date of inauguration of the president and convening congress following elections will be decided this week by the republican steering committee of the house.

Before the present congress adjourns, Chairman White, Kansas of the elections committee believes the amendment will be enacted and submitted to the states for ratification.

Under the Norris resolution a new congress would convene about two months after the elections and the president will be inaugurated two weeks later.

TEX WANTS BET THAT JACK DEMPSEY WON'T FIGHT WILLS

By United News.

NEW YORK, March 1.—With both Tex Rickard and Jack Dempsey in town although they did not meet openly before the heavyweight champion departed again for Baltimore, talk of a Dempsey fight in 1926 was revived Monday.

"I'll bet a suit of clothes Jack doesn't fight Harry Wills this year, and that he does fight Gene Tunney," said the promoter, just back from Florida.

"Dempsey reiterated his willingness to fight Wills 'for a reasonable purse'."

SURRENDERS ON BLUE LAW CHARGE, NEW JERSEY

By United News.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 1.—New Brunswick's "blue laws" were invoked Monday to prosecute Walter Reader of New York, wealthy theater owner who was lodged in Middlesex county jail in default of $15,000 bail on indictments charging him with operation of three movie theaters on Sunday.

The indictments were returned several months ago, but Reader could not be located. He appeared voluntarily today.

ALLEGHANEY RIVER ICE—JAM IS FROZEN TIGHT

By United News.

FRANKLIN, Pa., March 1.—The heavy ice jam in the Allegheny river, threatening Franklin and Oil City and seriously endangering the big rock bridge, was frozen tight tonight and fears of further damage for the time being had abated. Floods from the gorge have already caused $500,000 damage.

Many of those driven from their homes near the river are being cared for in temporary structures. City officials and the Red Cross are lending aid.

The number of foreign visitors to Berlin during the summer exceeded all expectations, and surpassed the records of pre-war summers.

Chicago Papers Publish Photographs Showing Political Leaders Seated at Banquet Tables With Alleged Gangsters

By EARL J. JOHNSON.
United News Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Mar. 1.—Behind the appeal to the United States senate to rescue Chicago from crime are two main factors:

A lurid record of murders, bombings and gang terrorism.

A political war that has been smoldering for years between two factions in the local republican organization.

Whether there is an actual alliance between the criminal and the political elements as charged by the better government association in its petition to congress, must be determined by whatever federal committee may undertake the probe.

For five years Chicago's crime wave has been a political issue. City and county administrations have changed but the murder a day average has continued and gang warfare, which is an outgrowth of the alcohol business, has increased.

Until now the situation has been regarded as purely a local question. Administrations have come into power with promises of clearing the city of crime and removing the stigma of "crime capital."

No outside help has been solicited.

Recently, however, the growing flagrant of murders among the alien gangsters of the West side, many of them wealthy and influential, brought federal immigration officers into a drive to deport the gang chieftains.

The first week of the federal round up was so successful that the next logical step was for someone to call upon congress for a sweeping probe of all crime in the city including gang killings, bootlegging and election frauds.

The Better Government Association carried its petition to Washington where it was referred to the senate immigration committee, headed by Senator Hiram Johnson. He has called a meeting for Tuesday to consider the request for a special senate investigation.

Thus far reaction to the move by officials here has been that it is only an outgrowth of the war between the two factions in the local republican organization, one headed by Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, and the other led by United States Senator Chas. S. Deneen.

Local newspapers have broken out with implied charges that both Crowe and Deneen are in league with gang leaders who control the votes in predominantly foreign wards.

The implied charges were in the form of photographs showing political leaders being seated at banquets by such gang powers as "Diamond Joe" Esposito and "Big Jim" Genna.

In one picture, Crowe, lieutenant Governor Fred Sterling, Secretary of State Louis E. X. Emmerson and several judges and state representatives are seated at the speaker's table with the directors of the notorious Genna gang.

In another, Senator Deneen and a half dozen of his henchmen are banqueting with "Diamond Joe" and other oligarchs and political leaders.

Crowe claims the banquets were republican rallies and that they were not given by the gangsters. Deneen says the same was true of the banquets he attended.

Until the charges of the Better Government Association became known, Chicago little realized the full extent of the growth of gangs in the city.

To petition to congress calls attention to the fact that in the trial of two prominent gangsters for murdering a policeman, Judge Wm. V. Brothers excluded evidence that would have shown collusion between the law and the Genna gang.

According to the petition the excluded evidence would have shown that the Gennas have been selling 500 gallons of alcohol a day for five years; that 300 policemen were collecting money from them monthly; that police escorts were furnished for shipments of Genna alcohol and that Genna's 15 stills were protected from prosecution.

The petition has caused intense excitement in political circles here. It has made more acute than ever the campaign in which the Deneen-Lundon republican faction is accusing the Crowe-Barrett-Thompson faction of a bi-partisan alliance with the Brennan democrats for control of public jobs and contracts in Cook county.

HONOR AUTOMOBILE DEALERS OF SO. PLAINS

The South Plains Automobile Dealers Association were entertained with a banquet at the Merrill hotel last night by the Plains Journal, with special entertainment features provided by D. D. Roderick, Editor Charles A. Guy, Tanlac Strange and a sham trial over which Hub Jones presided as judge, with Joe Griffith chief counsel for the defense and Dyke Cullum misrepresenting the prosecution.

The meeting was held in the dining room of the Merrill hotel, where fifty plates were laid.

Short talks were made by Neal Norris, of the Journal; G. P. Kuykendall, Chevrolet dealer; R. N. Payne, Dyke Cullum and others, with George Benson, president of the association, presiding.

Some discussion of having the meeting dates changed for once each month instead of semi-weekly was heard, but it was finally agreed to make no change at this time.

President Benson called attention to the fact that officers for the new year will be elected next month.

Dyke Cullum was taken into the association as an honorary member, and the applications of new dealers were taken by the secretary.

FORMER SLATONITE IS CANDIDATE IN SCURRY

SLATON, March 1.—A former citizen of Lubbock county, Warren Dodson of Slaton, has announced for county attorney of Scurry county at the request of a large number of Snyder citizens.

Warren Dodson resided at Slaton for three years prior to his going to Snyder. He has been cotton inspector for the past two seasons and has a host of friends in Slaton who wish him great success in his new field. We understand that he has no opponent and he surely ought to be elected.

Littlefield Antes Up For Scout Work

Harker and District Executive Palmer said yesterday, returning from that city after attending a mass meeting at which James P. Fitch of Houston, regional director of scouts for the southwest, made an address.

All Littlefield churches suspended services to permit the congregations to attend the meeting, which was the last of a series which M. Fitch has been addressing in the South Plains during the past week.

New Member of Cadet Corps

The following Hi School boys have recently joined the Hi School Cadet Corps: Roland Lewis, Stewart and Noble Champion, T. I. Scott, Jaster C. A. Hopper and Archie King. These boys are whipping into shape and from outward appearance these boys will make excellent cadets. More boys are expected daily. We do not believe that they will disappoint us.

Freshman News

Who sez that the Freshman can't do anything? Just you wait and see! It is reported that a certain Senior sleeps in his glasses to see his dreams better.

Mr. Brown, one of the Freshman teachers, has had the flu all week.

Brooks Penny, a member of the Freshman class has had the flu.

F-u-n

The F-U-N Club met at the home of the following in the past three weeks: Maurice Jones, Frances Jordan and Jacquelyn Edwards. The evening at each of the home was enjoyed. We hope all the members will be present at the next meeting.

Marie Hudson has been absent all week. Flu, maybe.

Lois Harkey has had the flu. We are all glad she is back.

James Roberts has been ill with the flu.

Cora Belle Smith has been absent. Flu we suppose.

Pauline Brock visited friends in Brownfield Saturday and Sunday.

Veta Stafford, accused a certain person of stealing her sweetheart. I wonder what would happen if that certain person did.

Miss Atwood went riding with Warren and Frances Sunday. We suppose as a chaperone.

Jesse Holt was absent from school Friday afternoon on account of sick.

We are all glad to know that she was able to be back in school today.

The T. T. Club met Friday afternoon at the home of Mary Frances Gale. New officers were elected.

President, Norren Lewis; secretary, Mary Frances Gale.

Plans were discussed for a theater party to be held soon. Afterwards delicious refreshments were served. All members are urged to be present at the next meeting the date of which will be announced later.

Cadet Corps to Have Entertainment

The social activities of the Lubbock Hi Cadet Corps commence tonight at 7:30 in the Hi School gym.

This is given to stimulate the already growing interest in the Cadet Corps. If any cadet knows of a good wide-awake boy who is now attending Hi School, and who thinks that he would make a good cadet, bring him along.

The interest in the Cadet Corps is growing steadily, and by the end of the semester, a Cadet Corps worthy of the town's notice will be established. Should the Corps stick together through that year, we have no doubt but what it will be taken up next year as a regular course. To the boys who are not members, you are missing the greatest fun in Hi School life; to those who contemplate joining, you will make no mistake by doing so, and we will give you a hearty welcome; to those who are members we are glad you are here. You are making and organizing now, that in later years, will put Lubbock Hi among the leading schools of the state.

Military training makes of a boy a citizen and a patriot. It makes him physically fit and morally straight. But the greatest of all it makes him glad he is an American, and to appreciate his flag.

Don't forget the date, hour and place. Let's make this the peppiest entertainment of the year.

It is reported that the "L" Club had a good time on their wieners roast last Friday. (Don't we all wish we belonged to the "L" Club?)

Mr. Cox (in economics class) "Now, even the gold in your teeth still has its value."

Ray Sawyer—"Give me a knife."

Miss Morton (in Latin class) "Mary Edna come down here to my room after school and I'll help you with your Latin."

Mary Edna—"Do you want me to bring Caesar?"

There must have been a goodly supply of wieners (hot dogs) at the Junior picnic because Clyde Tatem has been barking ever since then.

Mr. Slagle says that something was wrong with his sentle nerve, well, we think he was only sea-sick from looking at these permanent waves.

Mr. Cox says that if yellow hair was spun gold, Virginia Mullean would be wealthy.

A good recipe for a fruit salad is a big car, a peach at your side, and a sharp turn in the road.

Girls' Athletics

Last Friday evening the Freshman team played the Canyon girls' basketball team a game in the Lubbock Hi gym. Leslie Hays played guard and Etta Mae Brown played forward for the Fish. There was not much team work on the part of the Fish team as these girls hadn't practiced with the other players.

At the end of the first half of the game the score was a tie, and the Fish sure did some fighting the last half. Just at the last minute the Canyon team fouled, this gave the Fish a chance for two scores and they made them both. The game ended with a score 17-20, in favor of the Fish—Hurrah for the Fish!

The Tech girls have been trying the last two weeks to get a basketball game with the Junior girls.

We wonder why you Junior girls went play them. Surely you're not afraid, Juniors!

The Junior girls' basketball team played the Sophs' another game last week. The Juniors won—as usual.

The girls' basketball team of Lubbock Hi is going to play Canyon next Friday, March 5 in Hi School gym. Everyone is there. (No charges.)

Junior Notes

It is reported that some of the Juniors got lost on the way to their picnic.

Mary Edna—"Ah want a ticket for Troy."

Ticket agent (after exhausting the supply of information in regard to "Troy" and travels)—"Why, Madam, where is Troy?"

Mary Edna—"Oh! he's setting right oah there on that bench, sub."

It looks like the Juniors would play the Tech girls a practice game at least and help the Texas Tech win games with other Colleges.

We think that some of the boys had something to drink besides soda pop on the Junior picnic the other night—and it wasn't water either.

If anyone wants, Mr. Phillips, Charles Woods, and Jess Coager.

We are looking for the Junior class pin in any day.

When I die, bury me deep

Bury me where the willows weep

And tell Mrs. Matthews I've gone to rest.

It seems that dogs crave education!

Yesterday an earnest four-legged seeker after knowledge entered our scholarly portal, and wondered about trying to absorb learning, until he was finally shown out in a most violent manner. It seems almost cruel to discourage such ambition so unfortunately lacking in most of youthful America's make-up.

A dark and puzzling question shrouded in gloomy mystery, is keeping us awake at night. The point at stake is this: Why is E. C. Caveness always absent on Mondays? Any clue to this will be gladly welcomed.

Richard Harrison—"Do you know I'll see you in my dreams?"

Frances Ford—"Oh, will you?"

Mary Lois Gamel, a Sophomore student, was among those who broadcasted from Amarillo Friday night.

Howard Hoffman, director of the Slaton High School orchestra, visited his mother, who is ill at the Lubbock Sanitarium, here yesterday.

A good many of us wish that there was no such thing as Ordinance 322 of Lubbock, Texas, regarding milk! Reason: we have to study it in biology class!

The band has just received the contest music which they will play in Amarillo.

Some of the Lubbock High girls are mourning over the loss of a famous Tech student and Cheri Casan. What? Pat Motley from Hollis, Oklahoma, who returned home Friday. Don't cry girls he'll be back perhaps.

Edythe Hicks, Glenna Dillard, and Addie Lou Posey motored to Slaton Sunday. Wonder why?

Mary Frances Gale visited in Raft Sunday.

Miss Atwood went to O'Donnell Saturday night to hear the Simmons University quartette sing. She reported a very good time.

Pauline Brock visited in Brownfield during week-end.

There is a certain girl we know, who will write notes to a fellow nearly a whole period, and then show him a diamond ring on the ring finger of her left hand. Nerve, what?

Ardath Bates was absent this afternoon.

Mary Ella Nichols is back in school today following several days absence due to flu.

The fourth period geometry class received a very good lecture from "Dad" Niles on the subject, "Why many failed on last Friday's geometry test."

We sincerely hope somebody takes pity on us in the near future, and turns in more Soph news items. Maybe you think it is a very easy job for a "hain-brained" person like us,—but we don't.

Why, Oh why, does A. G. Stalaker go to room 210 immediately after finishing his lunch? Maybe he craves the company of the opposite sex.

It is reported that a certain girl in room 210 is thinking of matrimony. We imagine she will be thinking of matrimony pretty soon.

Mr. Niles—"Rupert, when is your sister thinking of getting married?"

Rupert Hayes—"Constantly."

The Juniors who went "weenie" roasting the other night reported a "L" of a good time—especially after it was over.

H. E. C. Girls Notice!

Members of the Home Economics Club give orders for pins to Mary Lois Thompson, this week!

Mr. Sheredd made the home management girls an interesting talk on cabinets and ice boxes this morning.

There are no charms in some rural Japanese restaurants, but the waitresses bring kimono to wear and mats to sit on.

Geo. C. Cooper Offers For Co. Commissioner

We are authorized to place—the name of George C. Cooper in the proper column, asking for election to the office of County Commissioner of Precinct number four. Mr. Cooper has been a resident of the county for the past sixteen years, and has taken a great interest in the development of the town and the building of Lubbock, he believes in good schools and in good roads, but also believes in the economical expenditure of the people's money.

Mr. Cooper has farmed during his time in this county, but has had experience in teaching, having followed that as a profession for a number of years, and while this possibly does not necessarily qualify him for the office of commissioner, it does show that he is a capable man, and has taken an interest in the development of the children of the county.

We are sure that Mr. Cooper is qualified for the job, and we ask that the voters of the precinct give his candidacy due consideration, before casting your vote for the office.

NEW LIGHT ON FRANKLIN'S CAREER

By A. ROBBINS
United Press Staff Correspondent.
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Mar. 1.—An unwritten chapter in the life and activities of Benjamin Franklin has been revealed here by the acquisition of a practically unknown letter by the Yale University Library.

This letter, written by Franklin to William Strohman of London in 1753, orders material for the establishment of a printing plant in New Haven to be run by his nephew, Benjamin Mecom. It led to the establishment of New Haven's first newspaper, The Connecticut Gazette, and to what afterwards became the Yale University Press.

Franklin decided to establish an office and plant in New Haven on the recommendation of Thomas Clap at that time President of Yale College, who wished to have a reliable printer on hand to care for the college's text books and pamphlets.

The letter discloses that in those far off days it required only some $500 to establish a combined newspaper, printing office, book store and publishing business.

The press and equipment arrived in New Haven in 1754, but Mecom, who was managing his uncle's establishment on the island of Antigua, had a will of his own and refused to leave his balmy home to come to New Haven. Franklin then made his friend James Parker of New York, postmaster of New Haven and turned the printing business over to him.

Parker established the newspaper early in 1755 and opened the store and publishing business a little later. Nine years later Mecom finally came to New Haven and took over the business. He printed many of the early Yale books and became noted for his fine workmanship.

In the letter to Strohman, who was a prominent dealer and bookseller in the London of those days, Franklin, after outlining the books, type and material he wants for his nephew, asks that the press be made to conform to several improvements which he (Franklin) had recently contrived. The presses of those days were small, clumsy hand affairs.

The first volume to come off this historic press was the "Laws of Yale College," printed in Latin. Another early volume was a textbook on "Ethics" by President Clapp, which bears Mecom's imprint.

Oil Company Making Ownership Map of County

Lubbock men who have seen experience in the development of Texas oil fields, were yesterday encouraged over news that a large oil company has started work through a local abstract office to make an ownership map of all of the land in this county.

The map, those interested declare, indicates that the company involved is interested in the possibility of leasing land here in the future, as it is in order to know by whom each tract of land is owned that the map is being made. The map will compose an important part of the file of the company interested, and in case it becomes interested in purchasing leases no time will be lost in locating the owners of the land wanted.

LORRAINE, Mar. 1.—Mr. J. F. Muns, a pioneer citizen of Mitchell County died at his home here after an illness of short duration. He was taken sick Saturday afternoon with the flu, and that combined with a severe attack of asthma was the cause of his death.

MONSTER SETTINGS IN "THE WANDERER"

The largest motion picture set ever constructed and the greatest number of persons ever used for one scene in an American made motion picture are two of the outstanding features of "The Wanderer," famous Biblical spectacle, which Raoul Walsh directed for Paramount, and which opens a four-day run at the Palace Theatre on Wednesday.

The scene, which is that of an unnamed Biblical city, was built in the foot-hills of Santa Monica, California and covers many hundred acres of ground. More than two hundred carpenters and scores of technical assistants were at work for more than three weeks constructing the hundred massive buildings and walls for the set.

For the scene depicting the destruction of the city by earthquake and fire, thousands of actors were used as well as hundreds of lions, tigers, elephants and camels.

Study to be Made of University Dormitories

AUSTIN, Tex., Mar. 1.—A survey of study conditions in the boarding houses and dormitories at the University of Texas housing women students is to be made by the Women's Representative Board, according to the officers of the organization.

For the present year Miss Elsie Townes of Houston is president; Miss Sally Humling of Bronte, vice president; Miss Mary L. Fountain of Bryan, secretary; and Miss Lohi Jackson of Gladewater, treasurer. It is the purpose of this board, according to its members, to bring together through representatives from each house or dormitory where University women reside the common ideas and interests of the women students and to work out a solution of their problems. Questionnaires were formulated by Miss Ruby Terrill, dean of women, Mrs. Florence Bell, assistant dean of women, and the officers of the board. It is believed that the answers to the questionnaire will give a foundation upon which important recommendations can be based.

692 Have Applied For Degrees In University

AUSTIN, Tex., Mar. 1.—Although candidates for degrees in June at the University of Texas have until May 1 to make formal application, 692 students have already signed, according to Dean T. U. PEKING CHAMBER OF COMMERCE GETS BILL FOR WAR EXPENSES

PEKING, Mar. 1.—Peking merchants are now engaged in cleaning up the war mess left after Feng Yu-hsiang, "The Christian General," defeated his mutinous subordinate, Li Ching-lin.

As an aftermath to the fighting around Peking and Tientsin, there are thousands of wounded soldiers, of dead soldiers to be buried, of prisoners of war, and of civilians whose homes have been destroyed by shell fire. In the absence of a functioning government, the expense of attending to these matters settles upon the Peking Chamber of Commerce.

First a meeting of the Chamber was called by Lu Ching-lin, superintendent of the metropolitan police through appointment by Feng Yu-hsiang; for the purpose of demanding contributions to pay for proper burial for those who had died in the service of their country, i. e., the soldiers of Feng Yu-hsiang.

He announced that the merchants of the village of Paoting has given $50,000 toward buying land for cemeteries and declared that Peking's quota must be much larger, a sum worthy of the capital city of China. He suggested that ordinary shops might each contribute a few hundred dollars while special donations would be in order from the large silk stores and banks.

At this point one of the directors reminded the police superintendent that the Chamber of Commerce had given $150,000 to Feng's army at the outbreak of the war and that business had suffered a great depression as a result of the hostilities. But the police chief, on whom the merchants must depend for protection waived this consideration aside. He asserted that the Chamber must support a laudable patriotic enterprise or the spirit of the dead warriors could not rest in peace.

Simultaneously an appeal was made on behalf of the people who were living in the war area and who are now destitute. The magistrates of the stricken districts were ordered to hire coolies to erect mat sheds as temporary shelters for the refugees. It was promised that soldiers would be sent to build permanent houses when warm weather makes such work feasible.

Uniform Time System Will Be Installed In C. I. A.

DENTON, Tex., Mar. 1.—A contract has been let for the installation of a uniform time system at the College of Industrial Arts. Uniform time in all of the buildings on the campus as well as uniform ringing of the bells will result from the installation of the new system.

FLOYD COUNTY FAIR WILL BE HELD AT FLOYDADA

FLOYDADA, March 1.—Floydada will hold a Floyd County Fair this year, was the unanimous decision reached at the regular meeting of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce Friday evening. Several merchants have been interviewed and work will start on arrangements as soon as the date can be arranged.

In connection with the Floyd County Fair will be held the Home Demonstration Club's Fair. Eighteen clubs from different parts of the county will have exhibit booths. Special prizes will be offered by the Chamber of Commerce for the best booth. Several clubs are already at work on their "show stuff."

The Flower Show, which is an annual affair, will also be held during the Floyd County Fair. Special prizes will be offered for this show also.

C. I. A. Regents to Meet At Denton On March 15th

DENTON, Tex., Mar. 1.—March 15, the date upon which regents for the College of Industrial Arts will meet here, has been set for the examination of bids for the construction of the Bralley Memorial Library at the College of Industrial Arts. If the contract is let at that time work will begin immediately thereafter.

See the Book of Job at the High School auditorium on Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Admission 25c. 35c and 50c. 122-4

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat trouble. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

HOWS

New York Finance

By United News.
NEW YORK, March 1.—Wall
street had one more day of corrective measures and at the close of the list
presented a steadier undertone, despite the evidence of weakness on the surface.

High priced industrial leaders
which had been billed out of all proportion to real or potential value,
cracked under the strain of bearish
selling and at least three big speculative accounts were forced to call for help. The pool running the foundation market was taken over by
"strong interests" with like action
in the case of American Brake Shoe
and presumably New York cannery.

The speculative activities in these stocks had reached a point where there was no relation between the stock market quotation and probable value. This was not so important in a market sense as the fact that the managers of the market operation over-extended themselves on the maneuver and were unable to protect themselves when the inevitable
selling commenced.

The bearish contingent enjoyed another day of perfect control of market activity and trends and made the most of it. General Electric gave way readily. Stewart Warner, recently listed among the Durant
stocks as "headed for much higher levels," sagged steadily and sold below 80 despite the high earnings and $6 dividend rate. Professional operators who are now working against the market have become emboldened
since their initial strike with DeVoe & Reynolds a fortnight ago. This issue had been selected as the most likely to give ground under an attack
and bears were amply justified by subsequent developments. DeVoe broke from a figure above 100 to less than 50 in one sheer drop.

A very dangerous trading position
was discovered in the investigation
after this collapse and encouraged sharpshooters to gun for other
"airholes." Foundation was selected next for the simple reason that the stock had enjoyed a long and sensational rise without material evidence
in the way of proved earnings gains
to bolster the movement. Resistance was broken down here and the present situation is the result.

Technically the market is in about the worst shape it has enjoyed for years. Virtually all of the weak long accounts have been eliminated by one means or another and the short interests has been substantially increased.

Those of the public who have waited for the very optimistic prophecies of January to blossom out into 1926 actualities, still are waiting.
Those who bought in anticipation are selling in disappointment, adding one more burden on the meager purchasing power available.

The market may or may not rally
Tuesday. This depends upon overnight reflection of the factors entering into Monday's debacle. The accounts taken over Monday with same fag-end selling, but pressure against other pool favorites went on unchecked. Probably this can be explained on the grounds that bears were seek-
