Ochiltree Landowners Will Vote July 24 on Standard Soil Conservation District

Thursday, July 24, has been set as the date when Ochiltree county landowners will vote on whether or not to establish a standard soil conservation district in the county to replace the present Wind Erosion Act. This date was set by the state soil conservation board.

Places for this soil conservation election will be the same as for the Democratic primary election on the same date.

All of the preliminary steps and establishing a standard soil conservation district have been taken, and if election carries, the standard district will go into operation immediately.

Under a standard soil conservation district, two supervisors will be appointed by the state and three will be elected in the county at large for the term. After the first term, there will be one supervisor elected from each precinct, plus

Sales Ring to Open July 23

James and Adrian Munger, owners of the Perryton Sales Ring, have announced the opening of the sales ring on Friday, July 23.

The livestock sales ring has been closed for the past month and the harvest was in progress.

The Munger brothers also announced that a miscellaneous sale would be held the second day of each month, and that livestock would be sold at the regular Friday sales. The first of these miscellaneous sales will be on August 14, they said.

Don't Like to Brag, But—

Ochiltree is Out Front in Tax Collections

Ochiltree county doesn't like to brag, but there's a sound basis for being proud of the tax collection records made this year. Taxpayers of state, county and school taxes.

Last week, Deaf Smith county went out a challenge, through Herford Brand, regarding collection records. Worthington, deputy tax collector of Deaf Smith county, reported the Brand that the county had collected 98.18 per cent collected.

State and county tax collector

W. H. Lance reports state taxes 98.92 per cent collected, county taxes 98.95 per cent collected and common school district taxes 98.22 per cent collected.

F. B. Sumpter, school tax collector, reports 98.49 per cent collections.

Ochiltree county, the all-time wheat champion, will concede an edge in potato raising, irrigation wells and cavity-less teeth to Deaf Smith, but in tax collections, never.

Paden Will Speak On Italian Work at Church of Christ

Cline R. Paden, recently returned from a two month survey of conditions in Italy, will be the speaker at the Church of Christ on Tuesday evening, July 20, at 8 p. m. Mr. Paden is being sponsored by the Crescent Hill Church of Christ of Brownfield, Texas, and is working under the supervision of the elders of that congregation.

This lecture will also be supplemented with 1,200 feet of motion pictures taken in Italy. Mr. Paden will return to Italy with his family in the near future to continue in the efforts of the Church of Christ there.

The immediate plans for the Italian work consist of the purchase of a 40-room house in Rome in which to establish an orphanage, sending of sufficient capable and qualified workers to care for and teach these children, providing of a program of teaching and preaching the Gospel in Italy, and the carrying on of an extensive program of benevolent work.

This work will be carried on much in the same manner as has been so successfully done by the Church of Christ in Germany since the war.

This lecture will be of about

The Perryton Furniture Co. announces the opening of a big furniture sale which will offer substantial savings to residents of the Perryton trade territory. The sale will open on Saturday, July 17 and will continue through Saturday, July 24.

Drastic price cuts, some as much as 33 1-3 per cent, have been made on many items. The store is offering an unusually large stock of living room suites and fine radios at greatly reduced prices.

A. P. McCelvey, manager of the store, stated that the sale was being held to move out the stock and make room in the showroom and warehouse. All of the items offered in this sale are of the latest design and type. Other furniture items featured during the one-week sale are

No Wheat Donations Reported in County

No donations have been received to date for the Christian Rural Overseas Relief Program, reports Charles E. Boatman, county chairman of the drive. Wheat donations are being solicited from Ochiltree county wheat growers to send overseas to Europe and Asia for relief purposes. The program is sponsored by Church World Service and Lutheran World Relief, and the wheat gifts will move in early August on the Will Rogers Memorial Train. Arrangements have been made with local elevators to receive wheat donations.

New Loan Rate Set at $1.92 Per Bushel

The permanent government wheat loan rate for Ochiltree county has been set at $1.92 per bushel, a one cent increase over the interim loan rate, announces Elliott Lee, county ACA secretary.

This loan rate compares with the $1.78 per bushel rate in effect last year.

No further information has been received from the state office regarding purchase agreements, stated Lee.

Business has been rushing since the permanent loan rate went into effect. There were 36 wheat loans made last Thursday and Friday, and the total loans is now approaching the 100 mark.

In 1946, there was not a single government wheat loan made in Ochiltree county, and in 1947, only 48 loans were made.

All of the loans that have been made so far cover wheat in elevator storage. Wheat in farm storage is not eligible for loan until thirty days has expired.

The permanent loan rate at terminal points is $2.32 per bushel, the difference in the local rate being shipping costs, handling charges and federal taxes.

Man Fined for Check Swindling

Carl Barnes, formerly of Boise City, who passed a number of worthless checks to local merchants on May 24, was returned to Perryton last Friday from Vernon by sheriff W. H. Lance to answer a charge of swindling with worthless checks.

He was in custody of Vernon police when he was released to sheriff Lance.

Barnes gave checks to local firms in the following amounts: Sparks Service station, $9.10; Carl Blackmore, $18.25; and Virtues store, $15.00.

Missionaries from Africa to Appear At People's Chapel

Mr. and Mrs. Vivan I. Smith, who spent twenty years in the Upper Ivory Coast, French West Africa, will speak at The People's Chapel on Wednesday night, July 21, Rev. Raymond Campbell has announced. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are now visiting churches in the U. S. on behalf of the missionary program in their field of service.

The public is cordially invited to hear them tell of their experiences as missionaries.

Upon their return to Africa, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will continue their work in the Mossiland Bible School which was established in 1941 for the training of a national ministry.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith first went to Africa in 1928. They pioneered two mission stations, Tako and Ouahigouya. When they first began work among the Mossi, the language was not a written one, but the missionaries reduced it to writing and have translated the entire New Testament and given it to the Mossi people, besides a large amount of other literature.

The Mossi tribe, a primitive, agricultural people, is the largest in all of French West Africa and numbers two million. Mossi territory lies to the south of the great Sahara desert, 800 miles inland from the south and 1,600 miles inland from Dakar on the west coast.

School System Commended By Inspector

The annual report of the State Department of Education regarding Perryton high school has been received by superintendent J. A. Anderson and school board president Aldon Bell, showing a number of commendations for the local school system.

This report was made following an inspection by Morris H. Jones, deputy state superintendent, who inspected the school plant in May.

The school has been given additional credits for shop and typing, and has the aeronautics credit dropped, since the course was discontinued.

Jones' report includes the following commendations:

1. The school plant was very neat, clean and orderly, which shows that there has been plenty of work and planning on the part of the custodians.

2. A strong emphasis is being placed upon a health program, and keeping record of same.

3. The homemaking and commercial departments are among the best equipped in the district.

4. Plans are in progress for enlarging the school plant by adding a new gymnasium and auditorium.

5. An excellent lunch program

Wheat Embargoes at Terminal Points Slows Down Movement Of Grain from Perryton Area

The wheat embargoes at terminal shipping points is slowing down the movement of grain from the Perryton area, although cars have been shipped every day thus far, a survey of local elevators reveals. Terminal markets at Kansas City, Galveston, Houston, and Fort Worth are choked with wheat and are accepting no more shipments until the backlog of grain can be moved out.

Court Condemns Several Tracts On Highway 70

The Ochiltree county commissioners court has ordered condemnation proceedings on the additional right-of-way tracts along highway 70.

Several of these small tracts, required by the state highway department for construction of channels for proper drainage at culverts and bridges, also tracts for supplying dirt to build up the road, have not been relinquished by the owners.

All of the regular right-of-way for the highway has been secured some time ago, and the deeds recorded.

The state highway department will receive bids for construction of 14.45 miles of this highway at state headquarters in Austin July 28.

Flowers is on All-American HS Grid Team

Keith Flowers, Perryton high school football star, will report to the All-American squad selected by the Wigwam Wisemen of America, at Rice Stadium in Houston on August 15.

The big game between high school stars of the east and west, with the Mississippi river as the dividing line, will be played in Rice Stadium the night of Saturday, August 21, at 8 o'clock. The squad, which is composed of four teams of 11 men each, will practice for a month before the game.

Flowers was named a back on the third All-American high school team. Byron Townsend, Odessa's great back, named on the first squad, and Glenn Lipman of El Campo, on the second team, are the only Texas

The Equity is still shipping wheat to Enid, and plans to do so for the next few days, at least. J. H. Woodward, manager of the Ellis Grain, stated that his firm had been shipping to Fort Worth, but that point was closed Tuesday until further notice.

R. L. Smoot, local Santa Fe agent, stated that 200 cars of wheat have been shipped from Perryton, Farnsworth and Waka during the past week.

The movement from farms to elevators has slackened off considerably in the past week, and the slowing down of boxcar shipments would not work any great hardship on the wheat growers. Some grain, especially wet wheat, was reported to be on the ground last week, but has been mostly put either into farm or elevator storage by now.

Practically all of the wheat that has moved this year has been put into storage, with very little selling reported. This is attributed partly to the large carry-over of 1947 wheat, part of which was sold just before harvest, and part of which is still in storage, and also to farmers waiting for the price to go up. Government wheat loan business has been more brisk this year than in the past several years, however.

Program Rounding Into Shape For 29th Annual Celebration

The program is rounding into shape for Perryton's 29th Birthday Celebration, scheduled for August 20 and 21 this year. Included in the entertainment is a street parade, free barbecue, carnival, two dances, four rodeo performances and the selection of the Nation's Wheatheart.

The celebration is under the chairmanship of Jack Todd this year, assisted by under-chairmen Walter LaMaster, Ray McWilliams and Clifton Bell.

Resumed in 1946 after a five year lapse during the war, the Perryton Celebration has become bigger and better in each of the two post-war presentations, and this year promises to be no exception.

This annual affair attracts thousands of visitors from the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles.

Arrangements have been made for the Claude Hays rodeo stock of Weatherford, Okla., with Buddy Heaton of Hugoton, Kansas, as rodeo clown. The Hays stock and clown Heaton were used in the rodeo last year.

It is planned to have four rodeo performances this year, two daytime and two night time, provided the lights are installed in time. Drew Ellis and Keith McLain are co-chairmen of the rodeo committee.

Dean McCutcheon and Horace Lackey, co-chairmen of the dance committee, have secured Jimmy Greir and his orchestra from Hollywood to play for the two dances. The dance will be held in the county building on North Main, as has been the custom the past two years.

Business houses and organizations in Perryton and from neighboring towns will enter floats in the parade, which carries a cash prize for winning floats. Leo Little and Sidney Jines are co-chairmen for the parade.

Free barbecue will be served

Eighteen Cast Absentee Vote

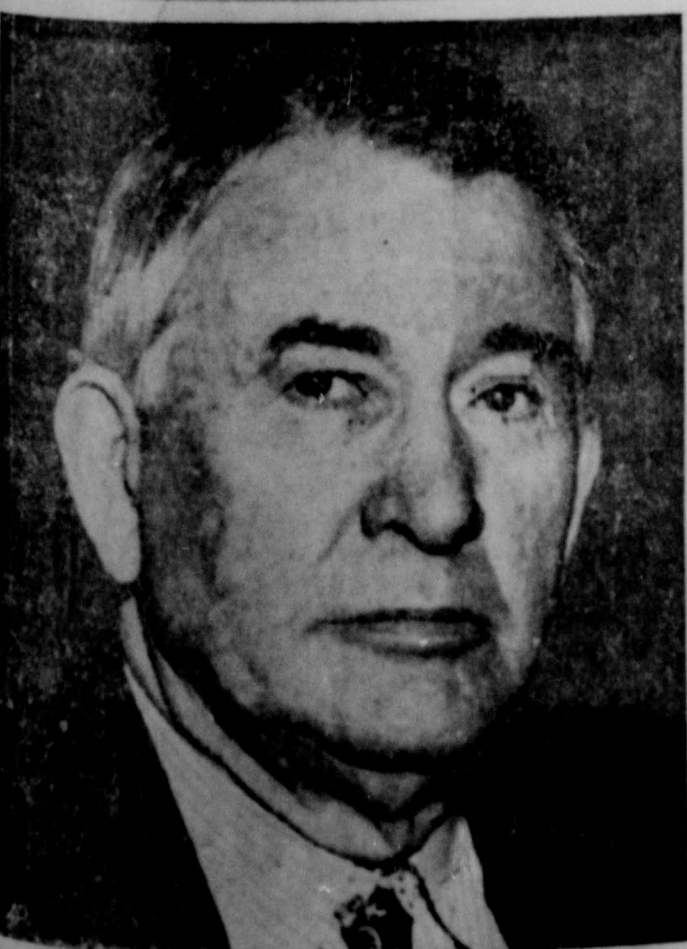

Absentee voting, which began July 6, is reported to be progressing slowly but steadily. During the first week of absentee voting, there have been 18 ballots cast.

Another 33 persons have made applications for ballots, however.

Voting by absentee ballot is generally light unless there is unusual interest in state or county races.

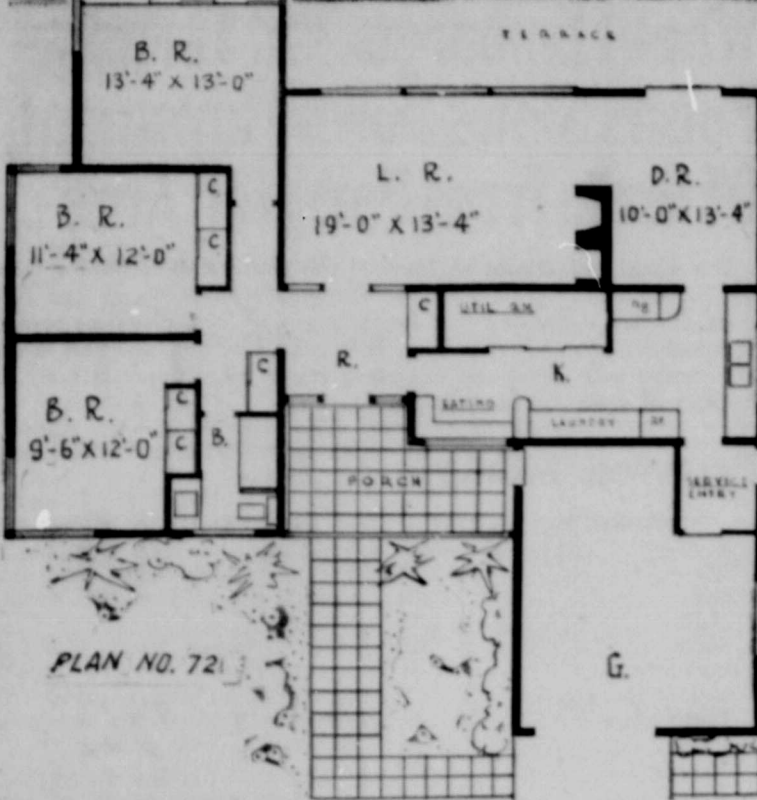

Last day for absentee voting is July 20. Absentee votes are sent to the presiding judges of precincts on July 22.

The county's strength in state conventions is based on voting in the primaries.

DEMOCRATIC PARTY CHOICES?—President Harry S. Truman, right, and Senate Leader Alben Barkley, left, seem certain to receive Democratic party nominations for president and vice-president, respectively. As the Herald went to press Wednesday noon, it seemed certain that these two would be nominated at the Democratic National Convention being held in Philadelphia. If they are nominated, they will oppose Republicans Thomas E. Dewey and Earl Warren in the presidential elections. Most of the controversy at the Democratic convention has centered around the party platform, and the nomination of candidates has been secondary.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

A LOW RANCH-STYLE dwelling, designed to face north to give the living room and dining room a southern view over the rear terrace. Plan 72 by Walter T. Anick, architect, 617 Forest Ave., Ann Arbor, Mich., this house can be built with or without a basement. The utility room adjoining the kitchen would provide space for cellar stairs. Ample room for a work bench and garden tools is planned at one side of the garage, which has an entry from both the covered front porch and service vestibule. The house covers an area of 1,280 square feet. The architect suggests a white exterior of clapboards, shingles or white-washed brick with an asphalt shingle roof in contrasting color.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

BY TEX EASLEY
(U) Special Washington Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—The violins have hit Capitol Hill.

"I've never seen so little mail as we're getting now," said Mrs. Julia Lynch Pickard of Huntsville, secretary to East Texas Rep. Tom Pickett.

"I suppose most people keep up pretty well on the doings of their congressman and know when he's down home. You know we keep an office open in Palestine during the recess so Mr. Pickett can see folks there."

That's the way it is in most of the Texas Congressional offices, with only one or two secretaries remaining in each. Other secretaries are back in Texas to run the legislators' offices.

Mrs. Edith Welborn Henderson, for example, returned to handle the secretarial work in Palestine for Rep. Pickett.

The congressmen will spend much of the summer in their home towns, but they'll also get out to the other towns in their districts to keep the political "sees" mended.

They know that constituents want them to keep in close touch with problems in every community, and so a lot of handshaking and visiting. If they have opponents they have to do it; if they don't, they usually do it as a good means of forestalling opposition.

One of the few Texas congressmen still here is the tall and colorful Rio Grande Valley Rep. Milton West of Brownsville.

He is in the army's Walter Reed Hospital, about completely recovered from a serious throat infection that has bothered him for several months.

Once a Texas ranger on the border, West came to Congress in 1933 to succeed John Nance Garner, when Garner became Vice President.

West is not seeking reelection. On the final day of the recent session of Congress, he was overwhelmed by tributes paid him by members of both sides of the aisle.

The eulogies started when Rep. George Mahon of Colorado City, as chairman of the Texas delegation, arose to note that West had recovered sufficiently to show up for the closing session.

Democratic and Republican members alike arose to a man and applauded. Then at least a score or more asked for recognition to voice their sentiments. Here are a few excerpts:

House Minority Leader Sam Rayburn of Bonham:

"I cannot let this opportunity pass without saying something about one of the loveliest men I have ever known, a man of sterling character, of stout heart, a great friend, and a fine American."

Rep. Rich (R-Pa.): "Of all the men with whom I have served in Congress, Milton West is one of the finest fellows I have ever known in or out of Congress."

Rep. Jenkins (R-O): "I just want to say on behalf of the Republican membership of the Ways and Means Committee that we have enjoyed the companionship of Milton West and his fine character. We are sorry to see him go."

Rep. Reed (R-NY): "I think Milton West comes nearer to being the typical American that will keep this country safe than any man with whom I am acquainted."

Rep. Patman (D-Tex): "He has made a wonderful record in Congress and has as many friends in this House as any member I have ever known."

Rep. Poage (D-Tex): "We all wish him well. We regret the parting, but those of us who know his 'magic valley' will understand why he might prefer a home there instead of the tumult of Washington. Adios, me amigo."

'Men Without Country' Sailing Seas
BALTIMORE (AP)—Six men without a country are sailing the seas aboard the Kegums—only ship in the world still flying a Latvian flag.

The only two surviving ships of the half dozen which escaped when Russia took over Latvia in 1939 are tied up in Baltimore, awaiting orders and cargo.

One of them, the Everaga, now flies the flag of Honduras, and considers Porto Cortes her home port. But the Kegums still has the name of Riga—the Latvian port—painted on her stern.

The ship has not been home in nine years, and none of the crew has hope of returning very soon. Ausis Kerns, radioman, says he hopes instead to be admitted to the United States so he can bring his mother and sister out of a German displaced persons camp to a home—"something we haven't known in a long time."

Both ships are owned by the Grauds Shipping company, a former Latvian firm now operating out of New York.

'Lithuanian Gold' Makes a Comeback
MOSCOW (AP)—The Lithuanian amber industry—which was all but wiped out during the war—is making a comeback.

The magazine "Ogenok" points out, however, that out of the 100 principal amber workers whose families have worked in this industry for generations only four have been found alive.

Lithuania possesses the largest amber deposits in the world. The city of Palanga is the amber center. It is a small city whose inhabitants have devoted their lives to the refinement of "Lithuanian gold," as they call it.

High winds and seas hurl chunks of this dull yellow substance, mixed with seaweed, on to the shores.

An ancient legend has it that the Lithuanian Princess Jurat built a castle of amber. Everything went well until she fell in love with a commoner, Kastitis. The gods didn't like the way she was carrying on and called up a storm, which knocked down the amber castle and sucked it into the sea. Lithuanian-amber, the story has it, has been coming from the ruins of the castle at the bottom of the sea ever since.

Webb Has Success
NEW YORK (AP)—American sports fans can look forward to a boxing championship or two at the Olympic Games in London—Spike Webb is back as coach of the team.

Webb, boxing coach at the Naval Academy, has coached seven Olympic winners for the U. S. since 1920 when the sports was included on the Olympic program. He had three winners in 1920, two in 1924 and two in 1932. The U. S. failed to win in 1936 when Webb didn't coach the boxers. Among Webb's winners were Eddie Egan, light-heavyweight in 1920, now chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission; Fidel LaBarba, flyweight, in 1924 and Jackie Fields, featherweight in the same year.

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Gidley and Edith and Miss Luan Drew, New Boston, Tex., were weekend guests in the home of the Gidley's daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Bigley and family, Gate, Okla. Miss Edith Gidley and Miss Drew remained for a weeks visit.

Perryton Squeezes League Leading Texhoma Club 5-4

The fast improving Perryton baseball team squeezed out a thrilling 5-4 victory over the league leading Texhoma club Sunday afternoon to advance another notch in the league standings. After a rather slow start this year, the local club has now chalked up five wins against three losses.

In their last three games, Perryton has beaten three of the strongest teams in the league, Dalhart, Dumas and Texhoma.

The Texhoma game was a tight contest from the opening inning. Perryton scored in the first inning when a single by Irvin Hergert brought Dave Deal in from third. Deal had gotten on when Texhoma right fielder B. Johnson dropped a high fly ball.

Texhoma's shortstop Francis, a thorn in Perryton's side all afternoon, tied it up in the second when he came home on a blow by second baseman Blackmore.

The score was tied until the fourth when Perryton scored two runs. Hergert drew a walk, Willbert Hart made second on a high fly which was dropped by Texhoma right fielder Johnson, then Hank Richardson laced out a single which scored Hergert. Hart came in on a single by Muir.

In the fifth, Porky Holland came home as the Texhoma shortstop and second baseman were trying to tag Hart out at second, bringing the score to 4-1.

Texhoma's Francis scored in the sixth when Perryton third baseman Hargrove threw Johnson's grounder to first and the throw was late. Perryton's Muir scored in the sixth on a long single by Dave Deal.

Blackmore scored in the seventh for Texhoma and Francis made another run in the eighth, but the local team went into the ninth with that one run lead and shut out the visitors.

Texhoma outlived Perryton 12 to 6. Perryton left 9 men stranded on the bases, while Texhoma left 9 men on.

This game was unusual in that there was not a single extra-base blow. All of the 18 hits in the ball game were singles.

Milton Deason, who opened on the mound for Perryton, gave up four hits, struck out one and walked none. He was relieved in the sixth by Wayne Gyger, who gave up eight hits, struck out three and walked none.

Gilley, who went the route for Texhoma, gave up six hits, walked six men, hit two with pitched balls and struck out five.

Leading hitter for the day was Francis of Texhoma, who hit 3 for 5 and scored three runs.

tional rehabilitation.

Q—Is it true that if I secure a guaranteed loan, VA will pay part of the loan without cost to me?

A—Veterans Administration would pay to the lender, for credit to your account, an amount equal to four percent of the guaranteed portion of the loan. For example, if the guaranteed portion of your loan should be $2,000, the lender would receive $80 from VA to credit to your debt and you would not have to repay this amount.

Q—Can I, a veteran of World War II, get a guaranteed loan to go into any type of business I want?

A—Yes, you are permitted to get a guaranteed loan for any type of legitimate business, on which the lender is willing to lend you money, provided your ability and experience as well as the conditions under which you propose to operate your business are such that there is a reasonable likelihood you will be successful. Also, the total cost must not exceed the reasonable value of the business.

Q—I am in training under the GI Bill and am writing a thesis for my Ph. D. Will the Government pay the cost of publishing this thesis?

A—No.

Scott Memorial Defiled

CAPTOWN (AP)—Vandals have destroyed with a hammer the little stone galleon which rests on top of the pedestal of the famous memorial erected on the Capetown shore in memory of Capt. Scott, the Antarctic explorer who with four companions perished in March, 1912, when returning from the South Pole. Broken parts of the galleon were discovered at the base of the monument. Police are investigating.

Relic Touches Off Plane Hunt

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—A tiny war relic from the North Sea has prompted an unusual search on two continents. The relic is a small brass name plate from an airplane carburetor. It was found recently caught in one of the nets of the fishing-trawler Rance when the boat docked at Grimsby, England.

A fisherman sent the plate to its manufacturer, the Bendix Aviation Corporation here. Serial numbers showed it had come from a carburetor built during the war for a Rolls-Royce engine destined for a British bomber.

That started the company to wondering about the plane and its crew. It now hopes to learn the plane's fate through a search of technical war records in the United States and England.

High Living Brings Yen for Yak

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet experimental and breeding station two miles above sea level in the Kirghiz Mountains is developing new breeds of sheep and also yaks.

The yaks are being developed for mountainous regions of the Soviet Union where they are invaluable for transport purposes and also give excellent milk. While ordinary cows at such altitudes as two and three miles above sea level are very short-lived the yaks thrive on the thin mountain air.

Cow Visits Maternity Ward

BESANCON, France (AP)—A cow was the first being to see a newly born baby in a farm here.

Mme. Madeleine Mesnie, the wife of a farmer, was having a baby in her room, which like most farms in this department was situated underneath the cow's stable.

Suddenly the ceiling collapsed and one cow was found munching near the baby's cot. The mother was covered with plaster and so was the baby, but neither of them had been hurt.

According to the usual social announcement, "the mother, the baby . . . and the cow are all well."

Britain Wars on Potato Beetles

LONDON (AP)—Britain has enlisted thousands of agricultural workers, students and volunteers to destroy pests—identified here as Colorado beetles—which have threatened an invasion from France and Belgium.

The battle to keep the beetles from Britain is being waged on the beaches, along the roads and in the fields over an area of 30,000 acres from Folkestone, Kent, to Guildford, Surrey, and along the east coast to Hull. A "beetle patrol" is watching for the insects brought into ports in imported vegetables or blown across the Channel by winds from the continent.

The Ministry of Agriculture says it considers the "invasion" the worst threat to Britain's potato crop in ten years. Potato fields are being sprayed with lead arsenate and afterwards with DDT, by thirty high-powered machines and thousands of hand sprays. National Fire Service pumps are providing water for the sprayers as they work their way through the fields of and Lincolnshire.

Discord in The Choir Loft

STOCKHOLM (AP)—In Ivetofa church in Skane, Southern Sweden, a policeman was posted on the organ loft to prevent fights between the precentor and the woman organist during the divine service.

In a letter to the Church Commissioners the organist complained: "The old precentor is very deaf and the possessor of a thunderous voice. He can not follow the organ but pipes in his own song, sometimes before and sometimes after the music. He is used to make wry faces and laugh derisively at my performance."

Said the Church Commissioners: "This situation is . . . utterly embarrassing."

Mrs. Mary Gugliotti, Lodi, N. J., came in last Tuesday to spend approximately two weeks visiting her son, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Gugliotti and their young daughter, Toni Lou.

Hollywood's Most Powerful Publisher Operates a One-Man Printing Shop

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD—Earl Hays, a quiet-voiced man of 55 with gold-rimmed spectacles, a cigar, and a printer's apron, is known here as the biggest, most powerful publisher in the world. That's because he prints countless different newspapers. You see their headlines in quick flashes, called "inserts" on the screen.

"SURRENDER—Japanese Quit," splashed across a non-existent "Record-Herald." It is his most used headline now. Hays smoothed a thick brown lock above his leathery, squarish face and said: "I've been making movie inserts 32 years. They're more effective than dialogue in telling something quickly because people are more visual-minded than aural-minded. You can cover a lot of history in a few seconds with a montage of headlines like:

"BELOIT FLIES CHANNEL (that's 1911)—WILSON ELECTED—WAR WITH GERMANY—ARMISTICE SIGNED—WOMEN GET VOTE—OPEN KING TUT'S TOMB—HOOVER GOP CHOICE—LINDBERGH FLIES ATLANTIC—WALL STREET CRASH—ROOSEVELT ELECTED—PROHIBITION REPEALED."

A single press run seldom exceeds 15 copies. Hays also prints whisky labels, railroad tickets, college diplomas (of real or fictitious colleges), travel posters, telegraph blanks, book jackets, police forms, and those "WANTED" posters that the sheriff tacks on trees in westerns. "Anything that's printed," Hays says. I found him preparing dummy covers of national news and picture magazines with photos of Laraine Day for her current movie, "The Babe Ruth Story" gave him a lot of business because headlines were used to condense much of Ruth's biography. Newspaper names and mastheads are never those of actual journals for fear of suits.

Hays even prints cardboard auto-license plates that look like the real metal ones from all states. His filing cabinets bulge with matter useful in movies: a 1725 Colonial land grant, Civil War discharge papers, a 1903 Deimonico's menu, and a crumbling copy of the London Chronicle for "Wednesday (that's correct), Sept. 23, 1795," to name a few. The more than 200,000 pieces of printed matter are insured for $50,000.

Hays was a job printer before devoting himself full time to the movies. "A profitable business?" I ventured. "Oh," he said modestly, "I make a living."

They Started Something

NEW YORK (AP)—Pioneer track in the introduction of harness racing to big cities—it was traditionally a small town sport—was Roosevelt Raceway, Long Island, N. Y., which opened its first meet in 1940. Second commercial metropolitan track was Northville Downs, Detroit, which began operations in 1944. Fifteen big-city plants will operate on the circuit this year.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

(P) Newsfeatures. EFFICIENT planning of all rooms around a small center hall affords access to any room in this house without passage through another room. A covered front stoop protects the entrance to the house as well as to the garage. Designed by the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn., as Plan B-58, this house gains a wide appearance from its attached garage, but the main body of the house covers only 908 square feet. Including a full sized basement there is a volume of 17,252 cubic feet. Plumbing costs are reduced by juxtaposition of kitchen and bath. There is dining space in the kitchen or end of living room where large windows face the garden. A fireplace could be added in the living room-garage wall. The architects suggest frame siding and asphalt shingle roof.

What It Means:

The New Farm Price Law

By ROBERT E. GEIGER

WASHINGTON — Department of Agriculture officials say the new long-range farm law, approved in the closing hours of Congress, moves toward a philosophy of plenty. The law, known as the Agricultural Act of 1948, works this way:

It continues, with some changes, the present high wartime price supports through 1949. Then the long-range plan, with lower price support, goes into effect. After 1949 the more abundant the crop, the less support the farmer will receive. The government may provide this support by making loans, purchasing crops or other means.

Department spokesmen say the purpose is to give some support to abundant crops, but not so much support that the man who has to buy food has to pay prices too high for his pocket-book. If prices start sliding downward because of an over-supply, the federal aid money to farmers will be increased. This may encourage them not to cut crops too sharply. This ties in price support with the law of supply and demand. The experts hope it will create abundance without waste. They say this is the first time there has been such an arrangement covering major crops.

The new law has a new method of figuring parity prices. The parity formula attempts to define the buying power of farm products during a period of fair farm profits. Then it attempts to insure the farmer the same buying power today. (As an instance, if two bushels of wheat, in a given period, bought a pair of shoes, today's price for wheat would be set so that two bushels would be sufficient to buy a pair of shoes, although in dollars the price is twice as high. More than 900 items the farmer buys are used in determining the price he should receive for products he sells.)

The new parity will be based on prices in the 1910-14 period. But in addition it will attempt to take into consideration changes that have taken place in farming practices and demand for farm products since then. For instance, it costs less to produce grain today than it did in 1910-14 because grain planting and harvesting machines have been invented, reducing farm labor. Also the demand for grain has changed. The new law averages prices for all farm commodities during a recent 10-year period. Then this average is used, at one stage of figuring, to establish a "modern" relationship among the crops and the profits they bring.

Farm officials say in general this will tend to reduce grain prices and increase prices for livestock and dairy products.

The law spells out the way the secretary of agriculture may support prices of the "basic" commodities—corn, wheat, cotton, peanuts, rice and tobacco. He may support other products at his discretion. The tobacco price will be set at 90 per cent of parity indefinitely. The other five basic commodities may be supported at from 60 to 90 per cent of parity. The level will be determined by the abundance of any commodity. The price may be set at 90 per cent of parity when the size of the crop is 70 per cent of normal but it may be reduced as low as 60 per cent of parity if the size of the crop reaches 130 per cent of normal. In the case of tobacco the price will be 90 per cent of parity whenever marketing quotas are in effect to control the size of the crop.

Rides 3 Generations

OCEANPORT, N. J. (AP)—Jockey Tommy Malley boasts an unusual turf record: He has ridden three generations of winning horses for Trainer Eddie Feakes. In 1931 he piloted Upturn, who later became the dam of Opera Hat. He rode Opeña Hat, the sire of Hat Check Girl and this season booted home Hat Check Girl.

Mrs. W. C. May, local librarian, had the misfortune to fall Saturday afternoon in front of the library building. She tore several ligaments in her leg, but is able to be at work this week.

Wool prices will be supported at 90 per cent of parity until production reaches 360,000,000 (m) pounds a year. At present it is 300,000,000 (m). White potatoes will be supported at from 60 to 90 per cent of parity. Other farm products, including poultry, may be supported at from 60 to 90 per cent of parity.

The secretary of agriculture may establish marketing restrictions on the basis of commodities when supply is 115 per cent of normal or prices are below 70 per cent of parity and supply is less than normal. When the secretary establishes marketing quotas for a basic crop, farmers may vote upon it. If more than one-third of the votes are against the quotas, the support level will be reduced to 50 per cent of parity.

Begin New Tradition

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Birth of a tradition was marked at Michigan State College this year at the close of the baseball season. After the Spartans had defeated Ohio University 5-4 before 4,000 fans, the undergraduate members of the squad pounced upon all the seniors, dragged them to the adjacent Red Cedar River and tossed them in. This will be the fate of senior baseballers at Michigan State during coming seasons.

Not Much Hopper Poison Issued Since Harvest

Although the grasshoppers are as thick as ever, and still growing, Ochiltree county ranchers and wheat growers have spread hardly any poison bran mixture since the middle of June, reports Hood Willis, county agent.

Now that the rush of harvest is over, the poison is beginning to move again, Willis added. A total of 24,000 pounds of poison has been issued since it was received.

Many of the hoppers are now in the adult stage, said Willis, and as adults, they don't eat a fraction of the food they did while growing. For that reason, the best time to spread the poison is while the hoppers are young and eating heartily. There will probably be a substantial increase in the number of grasshoppers in the next year, unless weather conditions destroy the eggs this winter, stated Willis.

CHICAGO RAILROAD FAIR

You'll think you are really on an Indian reservation in the Southwest—when you visit the Santa Fe Indian Village at the Chicago Railroad Fair this summer (opening July 20).

You'll see Navajos, Apaches, Hopis, Zunis, San Juans and Jemez—125 colorful Indians living in pueblos, hogans and wickiups.

You'll watch ceremonial dances seldom seen away from the reservations, and see Medicine Men make their famous sand paintings and destroy them every day at sundown.

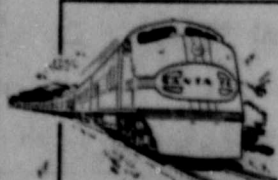

Indian craftsmen weave rugs, make moccasins, baskets and jewelry. In fact, in the Village you actually see a faithful portrayal of costumes, ceremonies and living quarters of Southwestern tribes. Their way of life today is noticeably unchanged from that of their ancestors who inhabited the Southwest years before Columbus discovered America.

The Connoisseur Society of Amarillo recently sponsored a showing of 46 of his paintings, and nearly a thousand visitors thronged the rooms of the Amarillo Center, West Texas State College, during the two days they were displayed.

Mr. and Mrs. Neugebauer and their daughter, Mrs. Clark Elzey and Dr. W. Elzey, Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., visited briefly this week in the T. V. Elzey home.

Blanket Storage Important Now

These warm spring days mean warm weather is not too far away, and it's time to store the woolen articles for the summer. Most housewives are especially interested in taking the best possible care of their blankets.

Mrs. Bernice Claytor, extension home management specialist of Texas A. & M. College, says that blankets should be carefully cleaned so they will keep their light, soft fluffiness. And storing woolen blankets is an important job—it must be done correctly so there is no risk of moths and dust.

Good care of blankets means several things. Keep them clean, light and fluffy. Repair the frayed or ripped edges and darn the holes and thin spots. Protect them against moths, and wash and store them properly. They will give you extra years of service if treated gently.

Moths cannot live in freshly laundered blankets, so for that reason alone, it is important that they be clean before they are stored.

Lukewarm water, plenty of suds and three rinsings in clear water will lengthen the life of the blanket. Hang it in the shade to dry, and remember it will dry much more quickly if hung over two lines about a foot apart.

Leaflet L-53, "Care of Woolen Blankets" gives instructions on cleaning and storing blankets. This leaflet is put out by the Texas Extension Service, and can be found at the county home demonstration agent's office.

Private Recital Presented July 7 At Wilson Home

Mrs. A. K. Wilson presented her daughter, Virgie Lou Wilson, Marita Lou Pittman and Gayla Faye Milledge, in a private recital at the Wilson's country home Wednesday afternoon, July 7.

Maresa Sue Pittman read the fairy story which was presented musically in the selections offered. These numbers consisted of piano solos, duets, group singing and musical readings.

The rooms were attractive with Goldilocks and the Three Bears, Butterflies, swinging birds, a monkey tree and a frog pond, further accenting the fairy tale motif of the recital. Large vases of wild and garden flowers added to the attractive setting.

During the social hour refreshments of punch, cookies and mints were served from the spacious entrance hall. Mrs. Alfred Pittman and Mrs. A. F. Milledge served to 55 guests from the table covered by a lace cloth with blue underlay. Sweet peas circled the crystal punch bowl, which was flanked by white tapers.

Last Summer's Dress Can Be Made Longer

The dress you thought too long last summer may be still too short for the current style, but there are ways of making it longer and more stylish, too. "Study the styles in newspaper ads and fashion magazines to see how materials are combined in dresses, and you'll be surprised to see how many ways you can make your last summer's dress look like new," advises Nena Roberson, associate extension clothing specialist for Texas A. & M. College.

She says you'll find eyelet embroidered pique used in many ways. A skirt can be lengthened from 2 to 6 inches by using one or more bands of the pique. Bands of contrasting color, bias plaids or striped material will not only lengthen the skirt, but bring life and color to a discarded dress. A yoke added to the top of a skirt is a good way to get the "new look" in length and hip style, too, says the specialist.

A bias fold or a "petticoat ruffle" added to the bottom of a full skirt can add 2 inches and fit into the current styles as well.

The specialist suggests that all dresses made this summer have a good hem, and all new clothing bought or ready made have a generous hem in addition to being the proper length. This proper length depends upon the woman and her height for there is no definite number of inches from the floor for all women to follow. Many stylists say from 11 to 13 inches is within the fashion, but Miss Roberson says the very tall, slender woman might wear her skirt 13 inches while 10 inches from the floor might be more becoming to the very short woman and yet both be fashionably correct.

Royalty at the Garden Gate

LONDON—King George has tentatively chosen two July dates—the 8th and 22nd—for this summer's big garden parties at Buckingham Palace.

A member of the palace staff said between 5,000 and 6,000 invitations would be sent out for each.

The garden parties were revived last year after a long lapse because of the war. Intended by the King and Queen to take the place of more formal court functions of pre-war years, they are not fairly informal, especially to the men, who are permitted to wear ordinary lounge suits.

Miss Virginia Good and Ray McWilliams drove to Shamrock last Wednesday morning to take Miss Good's cousin, Mrs. Katherine Pratt, who entrained for her home at Nashville, Tenn. Mrs. Pratt had visited for two weeks in the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Good.

Every Queen Has Her Day— In Memphis

By BOB DUNNE

(AP Newsfeatures) MEMPHIS, Tenn. — This is really the city for royalty—the beauty contest type of blue bloods.

If there's any place that chooses more "queens" it hasn't been heard from.

"Maid of Cotton, Cotton Carnival Queen, Miss City Beautiful, Miss Dixie Belle, Miss Fire Prevention (or just "Miss Flame Girl" if you're second best) and Delta Bowl Queen" are some.

There's "Miss Navy" for the naval base nearby and "Miss Cinderella"—one of the many "Misses" and "Princesses" connected with the annual carnival. Beale Street—the famous Negro thoroughfare—has its "Spirit of Cotton" queen and a "Blues Bowl Queen," too.

The churches are even getting into the act. Bellevue Baptist now names a queen annually.

More are on the way. When "Miss Memphis" — Barbara Jo Walker—became "Miss America of 1947" that accomplishment seemed to have inspired hundreds of hopefuls. The "Miss Memphis" event is expecting more entries than ever this year.

Not that competition in past parades hasn't been tough. Miss Walker lost out in both the "Dixie Belle" and "Maid of Cotton" contests before becoming "Miss America."

Some think the thing's getting out of hand but the enthusiastic sponsors are likely to sound off with something like this:

"Cleopatra might have had the Nile river situation sewed up but then she never docked at Memphis on the Mississippi."

Mrs. Eldon Strickland, who is attending the summer sessions of West Texas State College, Canyon, spent the weekend visiting her father, Calvin Flowers, and her sister, Mrs. Jim Wright and Mr. Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nies left Friday to return to their home at Watertown, S. Dakota, after a visit with his brother, Fred Nies and family at Perryton and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Nies, Liberal, Kans.

SCRIPTURE BIBLE
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 28:6-8

Naomi, Woman Of Faith

Lesson for July 18, 1948

IF we are to understand Ruth, cherished heroine of the book bearing her name, we must know Naomi, her mother-in-law woman of faith in God and surpassing patience and sacrifice in service to her day and generation.

It is the Book of Ruth which we have for Sunday's lessons, with Psalms 28:6-9 as the devotional reading. The golden text, "Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God," Ruth 1:16.

IN SEARCH OF BREAD

ELIMELECH in Judah, where Elimelech and his wife, Naomi, and their sons, Mahlon and Chilion, dwelt, drove them to Moab, in search of bread. Elimelech died, and the sons married young women of Moab, Ruth and Orpah. And then the sons died. Naomi, feeling that she must no longer remain in Moab, announced her intention to return to her native land, and bade Ruth and Orpah farewell. In one brief decade Naomi had lost husband and sons, and now she longed for home.

"INTREAT ME NOT TO LEAVE THEE"

ORPHAH accepted Naomi's suggestion, and turned away to her own people; but not so with Ruth. She loved Naomi! She could not give her up. Naomi had done something for Ruth in those years of sorrow and loss.

"Intreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge. Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God. Where thou diest, I will die, and there will I be buried. The Lord do so to me, and more also, if I ought but death part thee and me."

With these sublime words, Ruth lashed herself to Naomi, and together they started on the long trek to Bethlehem.

WHEN FAITH CONQUERS

HERE we witness conquering faith—conquering faith in the hearts of Naomi and Ruth. And they come to Bethlehem. It was the harvest season, and Naomi directed Ruth to glean in the field of Boaz, a wealthy and generous-hearted citizen of Bethlehem. Faith in action! And the world loves the story of Ruth becoming the wife of Boaz, and thus the mother of Obed, the grandfather of David—the king in the ancestral line of Jesus Christ, the King of kings.

And Naomi, through her conquering faith, held in her arms the little baby, Obed, and dreamed of God's unfolding purposes to bless the world.

In this unsurpassed romance we witness faith in adversity, faith in association, faith in conduct, faith in claim, faith in confidence, and faith in a glorious climax.

WHEN FAITH CONQUERS

LIFE is always ennobled when faith conquers. It is easy to imagine how history might have missed this beautiful love story; had not Naomi been a woman of conquering faith. She might have given up and over to her great sorrow, and pined away in grief and defeat.

But Naomi followed the gleam. And her trust in God shed its gentle glow into the lonely heart of the Moabite widow, Ruth. Ruth clung unto Naomi. She could not do otherwise. "Truth is stranger than fiction."

And all history was enriched. It is ever so when faith conquers. Thus the poet states the case:

"God moves in mysterious ways,
His wonders to perform;
He plants his footsteps on the sea,
And rides upon the storm."

Faith

I cannot conceive that God could make such a species as the human merely to live and die on this earth. If I did not believe in a future state, I should believe in no God.
—John Adams.

Where there is no faith, there can be no endeavor.

Believe In Life

To believe in immortality is one thing, but it is first needful to believe in life.—Stevenson.

What is the highest secret of victory and peace? To will what God wills, and strike a league with destiny.—W. R. Alger.

Wish you had Wings? Why bother!

You've been there, we know — trapped in the crawling snarl of a sunny weekend's traffic — tangled in the huffing, puffing push of a city's busiest rush hour.

And more than once you've wished for wings — so you could duck all this, dodge the jostle, the push, the stress and strain.

Well, look about you, good sir, for the long, sleek new Buicks with the word "Dynaflo" on their taper-thru fenders.

They've got the answer — to easy, open-road flight and to the spot where traffic's densest and the driving tension greatest.

With Dynaflo, you just sit there, press the gas treadle — and steer!

At a crawling 5 mph, you roll as smoothly, easily, lightly as at a winging 45.

At every opening left by a stalling, laboring neighbor, you have instant-quick power-surge to let you take advantage of it.

Upgrades? A little pressure on the gas treadle handles them. Stop signs? Your foot brake stops you, holds you — till you can feed the gas and go.

You forget shifting entirely—in fact, no gears ever shift as you drive — yet the moment any bottleneck breaks, you move smoothly, swiftly up to boulevard speeds, pacing the pack.

Smoothly did we say? The word is hardly adequate. This velvety lift, this soaring swoop of power, this utter freedom from any break in your stride are things you need to experience to judge.

Why not try it out? Your dealer will do the best he can to arrange a trial — just as he'll take your order any time, whether or not you have a car to trade. See him — and you'll stop wishing for wings!

*Dynaflo Drive is optional at extra cost on Roadmaster models only.

What's different about
DYNAFLO DRIVE?

To an efficient new pump (left above), Buick engineers have added a true turbine (right) and an ingenious new super-charging assembly (in hand) which produces a torque-boasting action in starting and accelerating. The result is the first device on any American passenger car which employs liquid to fill the function of both the clutch and the usual low, second and high gears. The clutch pedal is eliminated and a simple control gives you manual selection of power ranges and direction.

BUICK alone has all these features

* DYNAFLO DRIVE * TAPER-THRU STYLING * RIGID TORQUE-TUBE
* FLEX-FIT OIL RINGS * ROAD-RITE BALANCE * QUADRIFLEX COIL SPRINGING
* SOUND-SORBER TOP LINING * VIBRA-SHIELDED RIDE * SAFETY-RIDE RIMS

It Means: Ban on Federal Employee Political Activity

ROBERT E. GEIGER

WASHINGTON — This being a year, the government is about 2,000,000 federal public employees not Signs posted in government buildings in Washington and throughout the nation are headed by the word "Warning" in big black letters. Underneath this word the signs say: "Political activity of federal employees prohibited by law" and "Political activity of certain employees of a state or local (city) agency prohibited." The United States Civil Service Commission is distributing these warnings and telling officials to post them conspicuously.

In a town like Washington, where politics are the vitamins of social life, this may sound like the pot calling the kettle black. The big shots can play politics but the little people can't. But there are good reasons for the "no politics" rules. They are written into the civil service regulations and are contained in a federal law, the Hatch Act. A proven violation is punishable by dismissal from the federal service.

One reason for the rule is to prevent the building up of a great political "machine" among federal employees and the hundreds of thousands of other persons employed by state or local authorities on projects sustained in whole or part by federal money. The 2,000,000 federal employees and their families alone represent 7,000,000 or more votes. If each was for the same candidate and persuaded only a friend or two concerning his vote, the total number of votes involved, or "influenced," might be over 10,000,000. This would have been a big chunk of the 48,000,000 votes cast in the 1944 Presidential election.

The law doesn't forbid employees to discuss elections and candidates privately with their families and friends. But it does forbid outright electioneering, like making a speech.

The danger of creating a formidable federal machine was apparent as long ago as 1801, when a presidential directive by President Thomas Jefferson forbade non-elected federal employees from engaging in politics. The civil service rules have contained a "no politics" clause since the commission was established in 1883. Briefly the rules are:

1. Civil service rules apply to all civil service employees in Washington and other cities. The great majority of federal workers, outside the military, come under them. 2. Most other government employees come under the Hatch Act. 3. Neither the law nor the civil service rules apply to the president, vice president, cabinet officers or other top officials who set government policies. Also exempt are the people of the law-making (congress) and law-interpreting (judges, etc.) branches of government. 4. The Hatch Act also covers employees of state or local agencies, like highway departments, that obtain all or part of their funds from the federal government. 5. In general, an employee can't serve in any official political capacity or make campaign speeches or solicit political funds. He can't run for political office if party politics are involved. 6. The employees are permitted to take part in local elections not run on a party basis. As an instance, one might be a candidate for a school board if none of the candidates was running as a member of a political party, and no party issues were raised. 7. The rules and the law do not forbid individuals from expressing a political opinion at a private gathering such as a bridge party.

Federal offenders are dealt with by the Civil Service Commission. If it is proved that an individual violated the civil service rules or the Hatch Act, the commission must discharge him. The commission is given no other choice. The commission also may decide about the guilt of a state or city employee, but it can't discharge him. It informs his boss of his guilt. If his boss doesn't fire him, the commission may cause a sum of money, equal to two years' pay for the individual found guilty, to be withheld from the federal money due the state or local agency.

Since the Hatch Act was approved in 1939 there have been 392 complaints against state and local employees and 1,218 against federal workers. There have been 117 federal employees discharged. Nineteen state or local employes have been ordered discharged. One of the stingers that really hurts is a ruling that the law even covers such events as the Jackson Day dinners, the annual Democratic pow-wows held in all parts of the country. One federal employee was prosecuted this year because he was selling tickets to a dinner.

Center Had Broken Neck 18 Months

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — J. B. Dean, stand-out center of the 1946 Colorado football team, has had a broken neck for about 18 months.

Dean stayed out of action last fall but spilt out for spring training this year. After a few workouts he complained of neck pains. Physicians discovered a break and said the injury was an old one.

Doctors will attempt to effect a fusion of the break this summer so Dean can play this fall.

Dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ike Sharpe Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lewis, Seattle, Wash., and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lewis.

WARSAW (AP) — The government controlled Radio Polskie plans to build its most powerful broadcasting station in Warsaw. The new station's mast is to be almost 1,000 feet high. Equipment for this station and another at Cieszyn, on the Polish-Czech border, is to come from Czechoslovakia and the United States.

Live to 100, Get a Reward

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — Any Swiss who this year lives to be 100 years old has got a little surprise coming from the federal government. The federal council has decided to award special honors, the exact nature of which was not given. The occasion is that Switzerland as a confederation becomes 100 years old this year.

Light on the Habit Problem

HASTINGS, Neb. (AP) — Habit cost a Hastings man the cigarette lighter which used to grace the dashboard of his car. Accustomed to lighting his cigarettes with matches, he put a cigarette in his mouth, plugged in the new car lighter, took it out, lit his cigarette, then absent-mindedly threw the lighter out the window—as he would a match. A roadside search failed to uncover the lighter.

Col. Thompson—Able Public Official

A well-deserved tribute was paid one of the state's most outstanding citizens when Col. Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, was honor guest at a dinner at River Crest Country Club Tuesday night.

The dinner, given by a group of Fort Worth business and professional men, was in recognition of 16 years of unselfish public service of an unusually high order which Colonel Thompson has rendered as a member of regulatory body which supervises both the oil and gas industry and all of the state's common carriers.

Colonel Thompson became a member of the Railroad Commission in 1932 when he was appointed by Governor Sterling to fill the vacancy created when former Governor Neff resigned to accept the presidency of Baylor University. In the intervening years Colonel Thompson has done many things to earn the gratitude and lasting respect of the people of Texas, perhaps the most important of which has been his consistent and aggressive efforts toward conservation of our oil and gas resources.

The great East Texas oil field was just being developed when Colonel Thompson became a member of the commission. Chaos reigned in the area and it had been under martial law. Colonel Thompson moved in and took over control of oil production in the field the day the militia moved out. Through many months of bitter controversy he and his colleagues on the commission brought order out of chaos. Today the East Texas field, one of the greatest in the world, stands as a monument to Colonel Thompson's war on waste and his campaign for orderly production and pressure maintenance.

Experts originally estimated the field's potential at one billion barrels; it already has produced 2,600,000,000 barrels and is still going strong, yielding 316,000 barrels daily with practically no decline in bottom hole pressures. The conservation lessons learned in those trying days in East Texas since have been applied to each of the 104,000 wells in the more than 1,200 other oil fields in the state. What this conservation program has meant to Texas in the past, and will continue to mean in the future, is almost beyond calculation.

Colonel Thompson's conservation efforts have not been confined to Texas. He was one of the organizers and authors of the Interstate Oil Compact, now adhered to by 21 oil producing states. He is widely recognized as one of the best informed men in the nation on all phases of oil business, as was evidenced in 1937 when he was sent as President Roosevelt's personal representative to the World Petroleum Congress in Paris.

Texas, the largest oil producing state in the Union, is fortunate in having a man of Colonel Thompson's ability who is willing to devote his talents to public service at a decided financial disadvantage to himself. A lawyer by profession, he could make much more money in private practice, but he is happy in what he is doing and derives more satisfaction from public service than in mere money making.

Texas has an opportunity in the forthcoming Democratic primary to retain the services of this distinguished citizen for another six-year term. It is hardly conceivable that the voters would fail to take advantage of such an opportunity.—Ft. Worth Star-Telegram.

NELSON WINS TEXAS PGA TOURNEY—The old maestro of golf, Byron Nelson, holds the silver trophy he received for winning the 28th Texas PGA Open golf championship in El Paso, Tex. For shooting a 72-hole total of 278, Nelson was awarded $1,200 first money, plus $50 bonus for making the best second shot on the eighteenth green.

BABSON DISCUSSES FALL OUTLOOK

ROGER W. BABSON, Editor-in-Chief

NEW YORK CITY, July 9.—Business prospects for the second half of 1948 are now forecast as follows: Optimism, tempered by selectivity. The second half of 1948, I predict will be better than most businessmen expected and be almost as good as the fabulous first half.

I wish to stress strongly, however, that selectivity will become of over-increasing importance. Some industries, such as the cotton textiles, face the possibility of a sharp shake-out. Others, such as building, can expect record completions, but a slump in new contracts. Automobiles, steel, petroleum, electric power, food manufacturing, and mining may beat all previous records. Near-record crop turn-outs should stimulate the railroads and business in general; but tire makers, paper manufacturers, and cement producers may drag.

Automobile Outlook

The most magnificent performance for the last half will be by the passenger car builders. With labor, management and material suppliers now pulling together, I predict that the automobile output will be better than most expect due to: (1) A decline in truck demand; (2) A tapering off of the steel needs of other than auto makers; (3) A gradual expansion in productive capacity of the steel industry itself.

Petroleum, electric power, coal operators and food manufacturers will continue to provide a powerful support to the general level of business. Furthermore, those industries where a decline is expected are by no means candidates for a sharp slump, with the possible exception of cotton textiles.

What About Building?

Building construction to be completed may be sky-high compared with the first six months of 1948, but I am predicting that new building contracts will suffer more than their usual seasonal decline. Likewise, our railroads will be held at a high rate of operations until after the October crop peak—at which time I expect a more than seasonal recession in traffic.

There is a possibility that the textile industry will witness a sharp recession. The cotton surplus promises to cause uncertainty in the price of this important fiber. Such a situation may induce a suspension of buying during the transition from the old crop prices to the new fiber quotations. Hold off before stocking up with shirts, sheets or most cotton goods.

Miscellaneous Forecasts

Apparel and other merchandise buyers have been flocking here into New York City in unprecedented numbers.

WHAT IT MEANS: Hope for Better Standards

By ROBERT E. GEIGER

WASHINGTON — Several important labor leaders say one feature of the General Motors wage contract is the most important thing that has happened to labor in years. They refer to a provision allowing workers a 3¢ an hour wage increase, this year and again next year, to improve their standard of living.

The GM workers obtained a total increase of 11¢ an hour. Eight cents of this is to meet increased living costs. Theoretically the worker has to pay this out to meet the increased costs of the things he has to buy. It doesn't increase his standard of living. But the 3¢ an hour, theoretically, is extra "profit" for him on his labor, so that he and his family can enjoy more of the things they consider the good things of life or store up more savings for old age. For a 40-hour week this 3¢ totals $62.40 a year. One national labor organization official says of this:

"It is the first time we have gained recognition, by an important company, of managing good fall retail business. Actual buying, however, is not yet heavy.

Summer resort business will be good generally. But, aside from that, free-and-easy spending is less. More liquor price wars, at retail, are said to be ahead, although I am not an authority on this business.

Motion picture industry sees cloudy weather ahead, partly because of television and also because of court orders to "divorce" producers from theatre ownership.

Men's clothing volume has been "off," although leading brand-name manufacturers have their output for fall well committed. Men's shoe industry is bad and you will soon see some interesting markdown sales.

Meat prices are unlikely to drop much. A big corn crop, however, should result in some shading-off of prices on meats, eggs and poultry. Better buy fish products and other canned goods now. This especially applies to canned peas, citrus fruits and other vegetables and fruits. Consult your grocer.

The oil industry, mindful of fuel oil shortages last winter, is moving toward voluntary allocations. Sufficient supplies next winter are probable, assuming Mideast-Palestine is not cut off and defense needs are normal. But better order your fuel—coal or oil—now.

Complaints by small businesses of difficulty in obtaining bank loans should lead Congress to provide some kind of relief, allowing tax exemption of corporate profits up to $25,000 and larger depreciation reserves.

ment's responsibility to share the fruits of productivity with labor and increase the working man's standard of living. This establishes a new beach head for labor in a battle we have fought a long time with management over this principle."

Labor leaders say the GM contract helps the worker but is far from the goal they want to reach for all American workers. They want to tie wages, company profits and the prices of goods together. To do this, companies would have to open their books to the unions or some "umpire" such as government agents.

Profits might go up because of price increases. Or profits might rise simply because there was more efficiency in industry, from new scientific developments, new machines, more efficient management or other reasons. In any event labor wants to share in these. It doesn't want wage scales tied rigidly only to the cost of living. If they are, wages will go up and down with living costs, without adding to the workers' standards of living, labor leaders say. They aren't very enthusiastic about this feature of the GM contract. A hint of new labor policies is contained in the official statement issued by the United Auto Workers (CIO) on the GM case. It said:

"The assumption that workers can expect no more than to remain on the economic treadmill, inching up 3¢ an hour per year while management and stockholders reap profits proportionately far in excess of that amount is unsound and unwise. This is the trickle-down theory of prosperity, slightly modified. The modification is extremely important, however, because in making it General Motors has accepted the principle that prices and profits are a matter of "this is progress."

Veterans NEWS

Chiltree county veterans served by county service center Tom Davis, whose office is in the courthouse annex. The daytime phone number is 36 and at night or in an emergency, the phone number 487. Veterans who need assistance in any way are urged to make use of the services provided by the county service center.

The Veterans Administration advised veterans that July 31 is the last day for reinstatement of National Service Life Insurance on a "comparative" basis.

Before August 1, an eligible veteran may reinstate any amount of term insurance—from $100 to $10,000 in multiples of $100—regardless of the length of time it has lapsed, and usually without a physical examination. He need only fill out a simple application form, in which he certifies that his health is as good as when the policy lapsed, and pay premiums for two months.

The privilege of reinstating on this basis will be available after July 31 only to veterans whose policies have been lapsed for less than three months. Where the period of lapse is three months or longer, the veteran will be required to take a physical examination and qualify as an insurable risk, VA said.

Veterans carrying National Service Life Insurance term policies will be able to renew them for an additional five years upon expiration of the present term period, under Public Law 755 passed by the last Congress. Term insurance taken out before January 1, 1946, carries a term of eight years from date of issue. Policies issued after that date are for a five year term.

The first NSLI policies were issued to men in service in October, 1940. Therefore, the first term periods would have begun to expire in October of this year. Those who renew their term insurance will pay a higher premium than their old rate because of increased age. Veterans may convert their term insurance to permanent types of insurance whenever they desire.

What Heidelberg doesn't have would make its news even if there wasn't a $1,500,000 track being built there.

Chartered in 1903, the community has a population today of only 2,950. Besides having no church, jail, drug store, dentist, doctor, undertaker, bank, or law office, the borough has a unique mail and freight system.

The post office uses the code name Loupex, from "Louisiana Purchase Expedition." Freight sent to Heidelberg must be addressed to Leedsdale and all express is addressed to nearby Carnegie.

About the only thing marked Heidelberg that enters the borough direct is the street car running from downtown Pittsburgh. The race track is principally the work of two Heidelberg men, David Wright and Henry Miller, veteran racing starter.

"When the track is completed," says Wright, "there will be seats for 26,000 persons, and parking space for at least 8,000 cars. The main track is a half mile oval. Inside this is a quarter mile oval in the center of which a football field will be laid out."

"We are hoping to have Ringling Brothers circus here next year if we can make the arrangements far enough in advance," adds Miller.

A sleepy little town is awakening and thinks perhaps the whirling of fast spinning wheels will eventually sound just like tinkling gold.

Mrs. W. L. Haskeew, Moreland, Okla., was a guest Sunday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. A. Zirkle and Mr. Zirkle, and her granddaughter, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Boerjack. Cites Trend In 'Holidays'

NEW YORK (AP)—The trend toward paid holidays for production workers "is evidently continuing," according to a survey of 100 union contracts by the National Industrial Conference Board.

In 78 of 100 contracts analyzed, pay is provided on holidays even though no work is performed. In the remaining 22 contracts time off on holidays without pay is specified.

The fact that more than three fourths of these recent agreements provide for paid holiday contracts with holiday provisions studied in 1942, the analysis notes. "At that time," it says "only a small number (approximately 15%) of the agreements analyzed contained provisions for holidays with pay."

Here's an Old Fossil

NOTTINGHAM, England (AP)—Fossil bones of a twenty-foot plesiosaur one hundred and fifty million years old have been uncovered in an eighteen-inch belt of blue limestone at Barnstone quarry, Nottinghamshire.

According to Dr. W. W. Black of Nottingham University's geology department, the head and tail are missing but the ten-foot spinal column with ribs attached, three main limb bones, and a number of smaller bones, are intact.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ondracek of Booker are happy to announce the adoption of a two and one-half year old daughter, Judy Kay. Mrs. Ondracek was Miss Deana Caldwell of Perryton prior to her marriage.

American Palefaces Can Watch Indians Work And Play at First Railroad Fair in Chicago

American palefaces who have never visited the Santa Fe Southwest and watched the well-known Indian tribes of that area at work and play will have the opportunity when the first railroad fair opens in Chicago, July 20.

In the Indian Village, now being constructed by the Santa Fe Railway, approximately 100 Indians of six different tribes will be living their normal mode of existence under the eyes of thousands of railroad fair visitors during the months of the exhibition, which commemorates 100 years of railroading in Chicago.

Among the six Indian tribes will be several families of the Navajo tribe, who will be seen doing silversmith work, weaving and sandpainting.

In appearance the Navajo is tall, rather slender, and extremely agile. Both sexes, almost from birth, are at home on the pony, of which they own large numbers, and the men are famous for their ability in running. At first meeting they are silent and seemingly unfriendly, but on closer acquaintance they are found to possess a great store of humor and a cheerful and happy disposition. They do not live in villages; their homes are the characteristic hogans located in all parts of the reservation.

Visitors to the Railroad Fair will realize that jewelry and ornamentation is deeply impressed in the personality of the Navajo. Navajo silversmiths are famous the world over, their jewelry having found its way all over the earth. Yet that art is a borrowed art, the Navajos acquiring it from itinerant Mexican silversmiths about the middle of the past century. They soon excelled and their handmade products in silver and turquoise are their proudest possessions—more treasured than money.

Visitors to the First Railroad Fair will have the opportunity to view some of the famous Navajo sandpaintings. Sandpainting is a phase of a Navajo ceremony in which the seer or Medicine Man consults his gods, asking the holy ones' guidance and inspiration in healing a sick member of the tribe, and then produces the sandpainting and applies its powers to the patient. The design of the particular sandpainting used is determined by the medicine man upon the advice he receives from his gods.

Early in the morning the medicine man appears in front of the hogan of the sick tribe member, performing the prescribed ritual to drive away evil spirits. All clothing, blankets and rugs are removed from the hogan and brought into the open to make room inside for the sandpainting. Nothing must interfere. Having cleared and swept the floor, a large quantity of natural colored sand is brought in and spread three to four inches deep over a space which covers almost the entire floor.

The medicine man alone carries in his mind the design of the sandpainting. Under his direction his helpers execute the painting, taking a small amount of colored sand in their hands, and feeding it out between the index and second finger, dropping a narrow or wider line wherever the medicine man directs, until the design is completed. The belief of the Navajos does not permit the sandpainting to remain overnight. To please the gods, the painting must be finished, its power ceremoniously applied to the patient, and all semblance of the painting destroyed before sunset.

Jumping Gls Baffle Monk

By IRENE SIMON

(AP Newsfeatures)

ETTAL, Germany — Bushy-browed Father Paul of the world famed Ettal Monastery says Americans "jump about like canaries in a cage."

The 71-year-old Benedictine monk ought to know. He has guided more than 60,000 Americans through the Bavarian monastery since April, 1945. He has learned his slang well. He calls all American soldiers "Gls."

"When the first Gls came to our monastery in 1945 they behaved like childish, but well-trained colts," he says. "They even jumped over the rope we had in front of our church altar."

"Since their women have shown up they've become more subdued. No one jumps over the rope anymore."

The way the Benedictine monk said it, you got the feeling he was almost sorry for the change. He finds the youthful Americans a welcome change from the more stolid and slow moving German youngsters who study at the monastery.

The black-robed priest guides touring parties of Americans and enjoys his job. "It's even more fun than teaching," Father Paul declares. "I gave that up three years ago. I had to, for I'm the best English-speaking monk here."

Father Paul always tells his American guests they're in too much of a hurry. He points to the beautifully painted church dome and the hand-carved marble figures. "I could spend two hours describing all this, but none of you could 'waste' so much time."

He likes American women "very much." "They have such serious and pious faces when sitting in my church. But they cling a little bit too much to their husbands, or whatever they are. When they sit in my pews and listen to my talk they not only hold one hand, but grasp both."

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Frass, Wichita, Kans., have spent the harvest season in this vicinity. They stayed in Liberal, but transacted business and renewed acquaintances in Perryton most of the time.

HOT WEATHER
means extra duty for your
ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR

Your electric refrigerator is working harder than ever these hot July days, protecting your perishables and providing you with extra quantities of ice cubes and frozen desserts. Help it serve you more economically... keep it operating at top efficiency... by following these timely suggestions:

- Defrost at least once a week. Frost acts as an insulator and makes your refrigerator work harder to keep foods cold.
- Don't waste ice cubes. If you use only part of a tray, refill the empty sections and return tray promptly to freezer.
- Use fast freezing sparingly. Keeping control at coldest setting for long periods increases running time and operating cost.
- After freezing desserts, turn control halfway back to normal to hold until served. Then return control to normal.
- Avoid frequent and lengthy door openings.
- Let hot dishes cool before putting them in your refrigerator.
- Check door gasket for tight seal. If it permits entry of warm air, have it repaired or replaced.
- Keep condenser clean. Dirt and dust interfere with its cooling efficiency and increase running of the motor.
- If your refrigerator is an open unit model, oil the motor according to manufacturer's directions.

How Parties Apportion Delegates

Newsfeatures

Republicans apportion their convention delegates as follows:

1. Each state automatically sends four delegates at large.
2. Each state having a Congressional Representative at large sends an additional two delegates at large.
3. Each state which went Republican in the 1944 Presidential election, or, failing that, subsequently, sends an additional three delegates at large.
4. Each congressional district which cast at least 1,000 votes for the Republican presidential nominee in 1944 or for the Republican nominee for Congress in 1946 sends one district delegate.
5. Each congressional district which cast at least 10,000 votes for the above (no. 4) sends one additional district delegate.
6. Alaska, Hawaii and the District of Columbia, each send three delegates at large.
7. If the last elected congressional delegate from Alaska or Hawaii is a Republican the territory sends an additional two delegates.
8. Puerto Rico sends two delegates, the Canal Zone and Virgin Islands none.

Each delegate is entitled to one vote in the convention. Democrats apportion their convention delegates as follows:

1. Two delegates for each congressional district.
2. Two delegates at large for each senator and two for each representative at-large.
3. Four additional at-large delegates from those states which went Democratic in the 1944 presidential election.
4. Six delegates each from Alaska, District of Columbia, Hawaii, Puerto Rico.
5. Two delegates each from the Virgin Islands and Canal Zone. Each of the above delegates has one convention vote.

But delegates as large may be doubled, at whim of states. If states choose to double their allotment of at-large delegates each such delegate has one-half a convention vote. Practically all states take advantage of this rule. It gives old party workers a trip and gets their name in the paper.

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Willis, Snyder, Tex., left Monday after a weekend visit with their son, Hood Willis, Mrs. Willis, Mary and Martha.

Jim Griffin is Out to Beat McDonald

Big Jim Griffin, candidate for state commissioner of agriculture, is carrying his straw-hat, shirt-sleeve campaign to every county in Texas. He has traveled 30,000 miles, made over 400 speeches.

"Only hard work will beat J. E. McDonald," he says, "and I'm the old plowboy who's used to the hardest kind of work. I figure McDonald never got up against an aggressive campaigner before. I've been stumping the state since December." Griffin consistently refuses to sling mud at his only opponent, the 67-year-old incumbent, J. E. McDonald, although McDonald is under a Federal indictment for lobbying and stands accused with manipulating commodity markets for his own personal gain.

Big Jim, a 210-pounder, six feet three inches tall, has a four-year college course in agriculture to back his statement that he's qualified for the post. He was farming at Mission, in the Valley, when he "got hot at some of the policies of the state agriculture commission" and decided to make the race. Mostly he concentrates his campaign on farmers — "I speak their language," Griffin's car is equipped with a loudspeaker. "Anywhere I can get as many as two men to stop and listen to me, I make a speech."

Griffin is a ruggedly handsome fellow, 30 years old with steady brown eyes. He grew up behind a plow, landed at Sam Houston State College with $2 in his pocket. He was 19 when he was graduated four years later. He taught school at Sugarland, then went to work for the U. S. Immigration Service. Following service in the armed forces, he went back to farming. He is married and has a son, Jim, Jr.

Contributions from farmers finance Griffin's campaign. When he gets a few dollars ahead, he buys a little time on a local radio station. Mostly, Griffin campaigns with a five-point program he would have the state agriculture commission adopt:

1. An honest, efficient administration.

2. An advisory council, composed of representatives from every segment of Texas agriculture.

3. A program of soil conservation.

4. Protection against introduction of plant diseases and insects.

5. Water conservation policy.

Turk Victory Will Amaze Turks More Than Anyone

By EDWIN B. GREENWALD

ISTANBUL — Turkey will be more surprised than anyone if any of its 75 competing athletes leave London with an Olympic championship.

After long delay, the Sports Federation decided to enter eight events.

Only in wrestling do the Turks find an even remote ray of hope. They won—and still hold—the European championship in freestyle wrestling at Stockholm in 1946 and some of the members of that team are going to London.

But they look with grave apprehension on the American wrestling team as well as Sweden, which Turkey barely nosed out during an international match here in April. Switzerland too, looms as a potent rival.

Turkey's only other possible chance of victory is soccer.

Other events entered are track, boxing, weight-lifting, riding, cycling and fencing.

The Turks are taking their own food, and are heavily loaded down with butter, cheese, meats, oils, vegetables and flour. The Turk is a heavy eater and he has heard a lot about scarcities in London.

Turkey, great lover of sports, has been using a long series of international matches as training for the Olympics. She took a bad beating last year from an American track and field team touring Europe, but recently soundly thrashed both Greece and Iran in an Eastern Mediterranean track and field competition.

There has not been a great deal of general public interest in the Olympics, probably because few expect any appreciable results. None of the competitors has had any Olympic experience and were chosen on the basis of merit displayed in international and local competition.

The trip to London is being financed by the government through the Supreme Council for Physical Education, a branch of the Ministry of Education.

Story of Father Dunne, Famous St. Priest, Portrayed by O'Brien

Courtroom Scenes Intensify Drama Of 'I, Jane Doe'

A powerful drama, made to order for those who appreciate the ironies of warfare, is "I, Jane Doe," starring Ruth Hussey, John Carroll and Vera Halston, which plays at the PerTex on Tues.-Thurs., July 13-15. The story is based on a Faith Baldwin magazine story, a depiction of an ill-starred love affair which began in Nazi-occupied France and reached its tragic aftermath in peacetime New York City.

The plot is concerned with a love triangle, but one which is absorbingly unique. It deals with a pathetic young victim of a one-sided love affair who is led to the shadow of Sing Sing's electric chair because she once trusted Steve Curtis. Handsome and debonair, Curtis is an American flier who bigamously marries Annette DuBois in spite of having a lovely wife back home. When Annette learns this, months after her "marriage," her reaction is to kill—and she murders Steve in his apartment.

An intensely dramatic courtroom trial follows at which Curtis' widow, a lawyer by profession, takes a startling stand. The two women in Curtis' life face each other in front of the judge and jury to give their testimony. The court scenes are among the best ever filmed—and are fraught with human interest.

Girl's Baseball (Not Softball) Loop, Thriving in Midwest, May Extend East

By ED CORRIGAN

NEWARK, N. J.—Baseball isn't what it used to be, says former Major League Manager Max Carey, now directing the All-American Girls Baseball League.

"In the midwest, where we have our teams," says Carey, "the girls are playing a brand of ball that would make your eyes pop out."

Carey stopped here to look over some promising female diamond talent. He runs the league with the help of such former baseball stars as Johnny Rawlings, Bill Wamby and Eddie Ainsmith (who caught Walter Johnson). Carey hopes to expand the league to the east, but his main purpose for the present junket is to line up some backers for clubs.

"In my tour of the country," says Carey, "I've watched girls from high school age to married women. In all of them, I look for the same requirements. They must be able to throw and run. They also must have batting coordination. The actual hitting, we can teach them."

Then the coaches take over. Carey claims the most difficult thing to teach the girls is how to slide. They seem to have a fear of it, he comments, but once they overcome it, there is no difficulty at all.

"And," says Carey, "the girls really can play ball. Connie Mack and Charlie Grimm, managers of the Athletics and the Cubs, respectively, both said they'd like to see one of our girls—Dorothy Schroeder of the Fort Wayne Daisies—play for them."

Carey, who is highly enthusiastic about this relatively new field of sports, says the girls play with all the regular rules of baseball in operation. There are two main deviations. The ball is slightly larger than regulation, and the distance between the bases is 72 feet instead of 90 feet.

At present there are 10 clubs in the loop, all run by civic and industrial leaders on a non-profit basis. They're located in Racine and Kenosha, Wis.; Fort Wayne and South Bend, Ind.; Muskegon and Grand Rapids, Mich.; and Peoria, Rockford, Springfield and Chicago, Ill.

Short Road from Flint to Lansing And Spartan Gridders Take It

(AP) Newsfeatures

FLINT, Mich.—It's 45 miles from Flint to East Lansing and Michigan State College and no one can say Flint's football players don't know (and use) the road.

No less than 12 of the preferred candidates for the Spartan varsity this fall, hail from Flint, including four men who shape up as certain regulars.

This quartet comprises George Guerre, halfback who was the Spartan's most valuable player in 1946, but whose ankle was fractured in the Kentucky defeat last fall; Lynn Chandross, long-legged two-year veteran at wingback; Pete Fusi, aggressive tackle, and Hank Minarik, an outstanding freshman end.

In addition, there are Rex Parsell, letterman flanker at MSC who was Minarik's running mate at Flint Central in 1943-44; Dewey Stevens, Flint Central tackle in 1945-46; Bill James, Central's all-state guard in 1946 and George Wallace of Flint Kearsley; Jim Creamer, huge freshman center, and three fine freshman backs—Jesse Thomas, all-state halfback in 1945 and state hurdling champion; Van Williams, another Central product, and Garth Frost, Northern all-state in 1946.

Coach Biggie Munn, who starred at Minnesota in undergraduate days, says he doesn't even remember Minneapolis ever having that many boys on a Minnesota team.

"And the funny thing," Biggie adds, "is that Flint gives us a man for every position, with one back left over."

But Biggie still isn't completely satisfied with the Flint relationship. "I wonder," he winks, "how Dominie Tomasi ever got to Michigan."

Tomasi, Michigan's captain-elect for 1948 and a standout prospect for All-American guard honors, will be playing his fourth varsity year for the Wolverines. His first was under Munn, when Biggie was still Michigan's line coach, before he went to Syracuse en route to Michigan State.

Portugal Has Colonial Labor Plan

LISBON (AP) — New plans for handling laborers from African tribes on the islands of St. Tome and Principe off the African coast are contained in a new governmental decree. Groups of families will be imported or the co-cocoa plantations.

Previously, single men have been recruited, but they have found conditions so strange that they often could not do good work. It is believed that the tribal groups can be housed in their own villages where their surroundings will be familiar. Tribal chiefs will be made overseers. Later an agricultural school for the tribesmen is planned.

Seven Ways to Save Fuel on Farm Listed by State Extension Service

COLLEGE STATION—Fuel conservation can be started right on the farm and the farm tractor is one of the first vehicles to watch when it comes to saving fuel.

Texas tractor owners own close to 180,000 tractors, and from these it is estimated that nearly 18 million gallons of gasoline are wasted each year in the Lone Star State alone.

Not only will the conservation of fuel keep more dollars in the farmers' pockets, but it will also lighten the fuel shortage that is expected this fall, says W. L. Ulich, assistant extension agricultural engineer of Texas A. & M. College.

Ulich says there are at least seven good ways to save gasoline, and here they are:

1. Don't let the motor idle when the tractor is not in use, such as when hooking on equipment or visiting with the neighbors.

2. Prepare all farm petroleum storage possible in advance and see that the drums are in good repair. If you need more storage, get new drums ready beforehand.

3. Look into the future and see how much you will need and when. Then tell the tank wagon salesman well in advance.

4. Make one trip to town do for many. Keep on hand a supply of spark plugs, fan belts, tools, gaskets and so on.

5. Haul full loads whenever possible.

6. Tune up the tractor during slack periods when it is not needed in the field. Adjust the carburetor.

7. Put equipment in the field in the best possible condition, and by doing so, you will prevent costly breakdowns when in use.

Here is another 7-step program the farmer will probably find to good advantage, says Ulich.

Modern druggists use a product called manna, but it is not believed to be the same products as that mentioned in the Bible.

A BUILT-IN PORCH that can be left open or screened in summer and glass-enclosed in winter, is a feature of this small home with "big house" appeal. The porch opens from living room, kitchen and one of three bedrooms. This is Plan 618-B by the Small Home Plan Service, Shaw & Reneker, architects, Box 2821, Woodlawn Station, Birmingham 6, Ala. It covers an area of 1266 square feet. The architect suggests an exterior of frame, brick veneer, or concrete blocks with a roof of composition shingles. Heat is supplied by two floor furnaces. No basement is required.

Authors Ruth and Durocher Fail to Agree on 1938 Spat

NEW YORK—Babe Ruth and Leo Durocher disagree over a disagreement.

One of several spats between Ruth, baseball's idol, and Durocher, its "bad boy," occurred in 1938 when Ruth came out of retirement to coach the Brooklyn Dodgers. Durocher was captain of the team under Manager Burleigh Grimes.

Both Babe and Leo have written autobiographies recently and their descriptions of the 1938 incident vary considerably.

Ruth's version, as might be expected, is much shorter than the long-winded Leo's. It makes no mention of fistcuffs, just loud talk. Durocher, in "The Dodgers and Me," has the Brooklyn manager and Ruth scuffling in the clubhouse—and Ruth emerging with a mouse under his eye.

As background for the story, in "The Babe Ruth Story," the homer hero says Larry MacPhail, then Dodger boss, "offered and paid me $15,000."

Durocher disagrees. He says Ruth asked $25,000 and settled for $15,000 after he and MacPhail had "argued back and forth."

"I was a fifth wheel and I knew it," the Babe says, "but I tried not to let it bother me." Then he tells the story of the scrap in this paragraph:

As for Leo and myself, we didn't get along nearly as well as we had when I was a big shot on the Yanks. One day he loudly accused me of missing a signal and I just as loudly told him he was nuts. We had trouble speaking after that and when it was announced after the 1938 season that Leo had been named manager, I knew I wouldn't return to the Dodgers.

Enter Leo with his version of the 1938 events:

The Dodgers were doing badly when, one day, MacPhail stunned Leo with this terse statement:

"How do you think Babe Ruth would go on this club?" Durocher's first reaction was to the Babe as a player.

"I couldn't have been more surprised," relates the author-manager, "if he had asked me about exhuming Abner Doubleday. Everybody knew Ruth was through." But MacPhail made it clear he wanted Ruth as a coach and asked "Don't you think he would get the fans in here?"

Leo says he admitted Ruth would draw even "if he was carried in by rickshaw." So the Babe was hired.

The night the contract was signed in MacPhail's apartment, according to Leo, the Babe drew Durocher into another room and vowed:

"I'll be boss around here before too long."

Durocher says he didn't like that because he was loyal to Grimes and besides if Burleigh was to be replaced Leo wanted the job. "I thought we were going to have a scrap right then and there," says Leo, "but it blew over." This next one didn't.

During a game, Durocher and Harry Lavagetto worked a private hit-and-run play to score a winning run. A reporter asked if Ruth had fished the hit-and-run signal. Durocher said no. The writer then wrote that Ruth was about as useful as a wooden Indian as a coach. Ruth was bitter about that.

Next day, Ruth said, "Durocher, I've wanted to slap you down for a long time." Some words about the story in the paper. Then, says Durocher, "I saw my seat; we tangled. It was over in a moment, as things usually are, but the tie left a mark under Ruth's eye. He says he was questioned about the incident by the press. Leo denied the scrap, and says, 'the whole thing was forgotten.'"

If we don't have it, we can't get it for you. Stewart Printing
