Labor Dept. Says Cost Of Living Rises By 0.3%

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cost of living climbed again in January, the second full month of Phase 2, but the rise was smaller than in December, the Labor Department announced today.

Consumer prices rose 0.1 per cent with increases for meats and new cars pushing up the over-all price level. After allowing for seasonal trends, the January bulge was 0.3 per cent, or equivalent to an inflation rate of 3.6 per cent.

Since the start of the wage-price freeze in August, the index has climbed at a rate of 2.6 per cent, and in the six months preceding that it rose at an annual rate of 4.1 per cent.

Though disappointing to those who hoped for a better Phase 2 performance in holding the price line, the increase was no surprise to White House economists. They said December's 0.4 per cent increase was expected, and added that the post-freeze bulge could get worse before it got better.

The rise of 0.3 per cent in the adjusted index was equivalent to nibbling another 3 cents out of each consumer's $10 bill. The increase carried the index to 123.2 per cent of the 1967 average, which means that it cost $12.32 for the average city housewife to buy the same assortment of foods, goods and services that cost $10 in 1967.

The rise in meat prices, which has touched off consumer protests in Washington and elsewhere, was reported as 1.5 per cent in January. The increase in new car prices was 1.6 per cent.

There were some decreases as well. Lower prices were reported for fresh vegetables, clothing, used cars and gasoline.

The food price index actually declined 0.2 per cent in January, after allowing for seasonal factors; it had risen

0.7 per cent in each of the two preceding months. The index for food purchased in grocery stores, which usually increases at this season, was unchanged in January. This was largely due to a sharp drop in the prices of eggs and fresh vegetables—both exempt from price control.

Prices of dairy products, fresh fruits, and processed fruits and vegetables increased, but the cost of restaurant meals and snacks went up 0.2 per cent.

The price index for non-food commodities declined 0.3 per cent. This was smaller than the usual drop in the season of white sales and post-holiday clearances. However, the January sales did reduce the prices of apparel and textile house furnishings.

Gasoline prices were lower in some areas and used car prices dropped for the third month in a row. The increase in new car prices—which usually decline in January—reflected increases approved by the Price Commission.

The prices of houses also rose: the cost of home ownership went up 0.6 per cent and rents rose by 0.2 per cent.

More than half the 0.5 per cent increase in the cost of services was caused by higher property taxes and auto registration fees, both of which are exempt from price control, together with increases in local transit fares in New York and some other cities.

The department's Bureau of Labor statistics announced also that average over-all weekly earnings dropped in January to $129.20, a decrease of $1.35 from December caused by a decline of seven-tenths of an hour of an average work week.

However, the spendable earnings of a married worker with three dependents rose by 62 cents in January to $115.61, because of federal tax-relief provisions which took effect in January. Compared with a year ago, spendable earnings of such workers were up by 6.9 per cent.

Nixon-Chou Meeting Shows Good Outlook

U.S., Chinese Leaders Hold 3rd Summit Talk

PEKING (AP)—Another four-hour session today between President Nixon and Chou Enlai left the impression that China is ready to reach some sort of friendly accommodation. So far as outsiders knew, the question of Vietnam was still dangling.

The friendliness of the Chinese, coupled with the fact that Chou agreed to hold this third conference at Nixon's guest house instead of the Great Hall of the People, lent strength to a look of progress.

For the second night in a row, Chou personally escorted the Nixons to a Chinese spectacular—an exhibition of gymnastics, table tennis and badminton at the 18,000-seat Capital Gymnasium. The previous night it was a ballet in the Great Hall of the People.

While the Chinese intent behind all this cordiality is hard to understand, one object undoubtedly is the Russians. It can hardly be lost on the leaders in the Kremlin that Nixon had a visit with Mao Tse-tung on the day of his arrival, and that the Peking press opened up Tuesday with smug play on the Nixon visit.

Chou offered today to allow U.S. correspondents to stay on for a look at China after Nixon departs next Monday.

Despite all this, no one expects that all aspects of cleavage between the two nations, built up over more than two decades, can vanish any time soon.

No word has come from behind the closed door of what Nixon and Chou have touched on in discussing the nature of future U.S.-Chinese relations. But all signs indicate that something positive will come from the first visit to China of any U.S. president.

When President and Mrs. Nixon and Chou arrived at the Capital Gymnasium there were a good many empty seats in the huge hall. But it was the largest number of Chinese as a group to see Nixon since his arrival Monday. Many school children were present. There were no introductory speeches before the skilled Chinese gymnastic teams began their two-hour exhibition.

With Chou between them and a woman interpreter just behind, the Nixons joined the crowd in enthusiastic applause for each athletic routine.

Absent tonight were China's two first ladies—Chiang Ching, Mao Tse-tung's wife, and Teng Ying-chao, Chou's wife. Both had attended the ballet performance given for the Nixons Tuesday night.

Nixon's meeting this afternoon with Chou was the third of their daily private talks and lasted a bit longer than their meeting Tuesday. Nixon said before he arrived that he expected these sessions to last two hours, and their extended length was taken as an indication that the two leaders were making a searching examination of a wide range of issues.

At the outset of the meeting today, Chou dropped what could be a hint that some U.S. newsmen may be allowed to stay on after Nixon leaves.

"If the press wants to see any more places, they can apply to the Department of Information," Chou remarked to the American reporters and photographers as he sat down with Nixon for their third private conference.

"You don't have much time here," the premier added.

Chou's remarks sent many of the 87 visiting journalists to the Information Department seeking permission to remain after Nixon leaves China next Monday. These newsmen interpreted Chou's reference to the seven-day limit on their visit and their three-city itinerary as a hint that his government might be prepared to let some of them stay on for a wider look.

The newsmen who heard the premier had no opportunity to question him about his remarks, and soon after they were ushered from the conference room.

Nixon's one-hour meeting with Chou Monday and their four-hour talk Tuesday had been held at the Great Hall of the People in downtown Peking. Today the President was the host at the Peking White House, the big government guest house in the western suburbs at which the President and Mrs. Nixon are staying.

Chou arrived promptly at 2 p.m., and the President greeted him with a hello in Chinese. After responding with a smile, Chou slipped out of his overcoat and, standing with the President for news pictures, asked the newsmen through an interpreter: "How are you all?"

The President cracked: "They're better than they deserve."

Once inside the conference room, Chou commented: "The press must have their time." He added that the photographers should take more pictures of the President than of him.

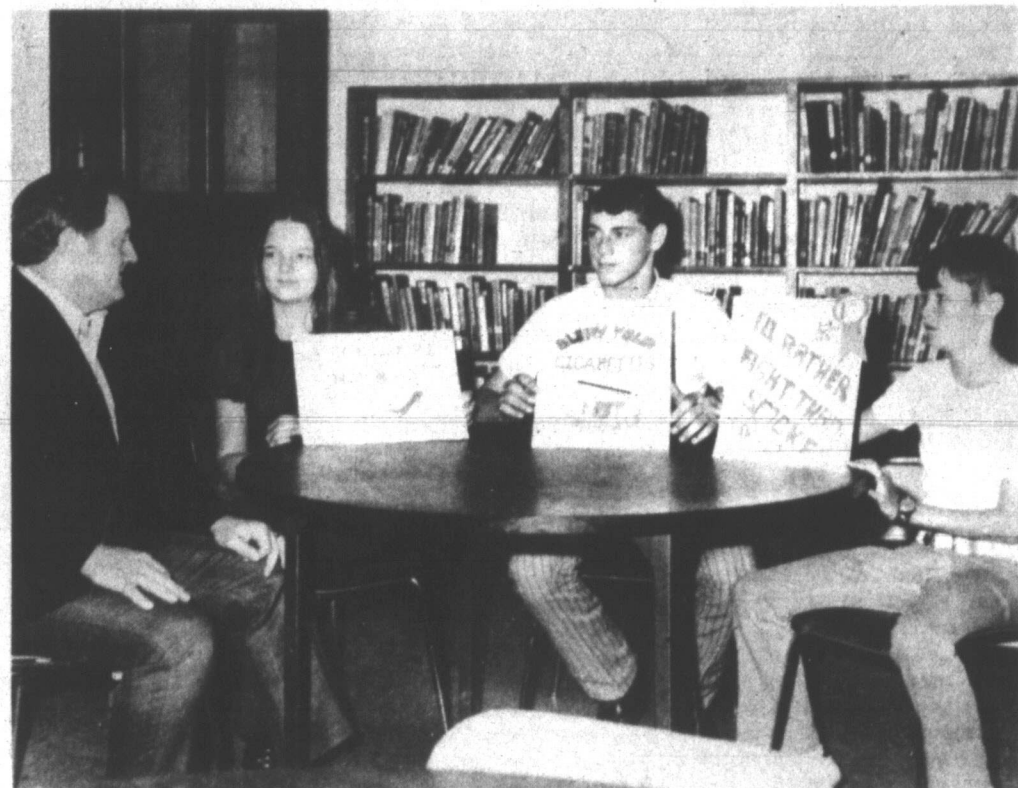

Nixon asked Chou if he thought the weather—snowy today—would permit him and his wife to visit the Great Wall, some distance outside Peking, on Thursday as planned. The premier assured him the weather would "turn fine."

Seated with Nixon at the conference table were Henry A. Kissinger, his adviser for national security affairs, and two of Kissinger's senior assistants.

U.S. Senate To Debate Proposal Banning Busing

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today heads into what is expected to be a bitter floor fight over proposals to ban busing of school children to achieve racial integration.

Under consideration is a $23-billion higher-education bill to which the House has tied a $1.5-billion school-desegregation fund asked by President Nixon.

The House tacked onto the $1.5-billion measure three antibusing amendments. Southern Democratic senators plan to use the same bill as the basis for their own proposals aimed at federal court-ordered busing.

But several of the strongest foes of court-ordered busing have said they do not believe any such legislative enactments will be effective.

They said the courts have ruled consistently that the equal-protection clause of the 14th Amendment overrides legislative bans on busing. Thus, they say, the only solution is a constitutional amendment.

The $23 billion would provide annual grants up to $1,400 to college students from low-income families, continuation of present work-study and loan programs for students, and increased institutional support to colleges and universities.

The Senate is considering the bill under an agreement which will bring a final vote a week from today. Two hours will be allowed on each of 35 amendments, many of which deal with busing.

Antibusing amendments were defeated when the Senate first considered its version of the $1.5-billion school-desegregation measure last April.

But the issue has become much hotter since then, particularly in view of the recent federal court order that school districts in two adjoining counties must be combined with schools in Richmond.

Russ Moon Ship Sends Rocks Back To Earth

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet moon ship Luna 20 scooped up rock samples from the rugged lunar highlands and started them back toward the earth today in a rocket. Tass announced.

The Soviet news agency said the spacecraft's landing stage remained on the moon but did not indicate what further tasks it might carry out.

Tass said the container holding the rock samples will separate from the rocket and parachute to earth in the Soviet Union on Friday. The agency did not say where the craft is expected to land. Soviet spacecraft are usually recovered in the steppes of Kazakhstan.

Tass announced Tuesday that Luna 20 had landed on a mountainous isthmus between the Sea of Fertility and the Sea of Crisis, a site it said was ideal for the study of the origin of the moon.

Today's announcement said the unmanned spaceship "has successfully carried out a program of operations on the moon."

Tass said Luna 20 relayed pictures of the lunar surface back to earth, a site for the taking of samples was chosen, and "operations to take the samples were started on a signal from the ground."

"A device for taking samples drilled lunar rock and took the samples," the report continued. "Because of the great strength of the rock, the drilling was done in several stages with intervals during which the drilling rig was stopped."

It added that the returning rocket was traveling on a course close to that planned for it.

Smith Seeks New Program For Food Aid

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Gov. Preston Smith said today he will ask a special legislative session to set up a statewide food stamp program for Texas poor folks. He said in a statement he wants the state-funded program in effect by Sept. 1.

Smith said after several meetings with county, city and local officials, he has concluded that a statewide food stamp program would be better than the current commodity program.

"The most efficient, economical, and nutritious program for our citizens would be a statewide and state-funded food stamp program," he said.

He said such a program would generate over $205 million of economic activity in cities and counties "while the economic stimulation from the commodity program is practically non-existent."

County Cancer Unit Plans April Crusade

Miss Harriet Henderson will head the 1972 Gray County Cancer Crusade, it was announced this morning at a meeting of the county Cancer Unit Board in Coronado Inn.

The local drive for funds will coincide with the national campaign during the month of April.

Dr. Williams F. Walsh Jr. will serve as assistant county crusade chairman.

The county unit has set a goal of 36 cents per capita and a March 22 meeting of the board was set as kick-off date for the April crusade.

Committee chairmen announced this morning included Mrs. Georgia Mack, publicity; Mrs. J.E. Gibson Jr. and Mrs. M.K. Griffith, records; and the Pampa Key Club, poster distribution. Other chairmen will be announced later.

Plans are underway for the annual open showing of two short films, "Time and Two Women" and "Breast Self-Examination." They will be presented free to the public.

Four City Bands Schedule Public Concert Tuesday

Four bands from the city schools will present an All-City Band Concert at Robert E. Lee Junior High School on Tuesday.

The concert, which will begin at 7:30 p.m., is free to the public. Harris Brinson, Pampa High School band director, announced.

The high school band and both junior high bands will perform. In addition the Cadet Band, composed of sixth grade students from the city elementary schools, will play.

The West Texas State University touring band will also perform at Lee at 8 p.m. on March 2.

Forbidden City As American Newsman Sees It

PEKING (AP)—One day in the life of a New China Hand: Well, what do you know, it's dawn and already the people of the People's Republic of China are on the rooftops and in the streets doing calisthenics.

The 6 a.m. news in Chinese mentions the names President Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai several times in a 15-minute broadcast that is immediately followed by an exercise program done by the numbers to revolutionary martial music.

Peking is up and doing by the time President Nixon leaves the government guest house for his morning meeting with the Chinese premier at the Great Hall of the People. The women sweeping the streets with their long brooms scarcely notice the U.S. President behind the dark drawn curtains of his red flag limousine, a massive black vehicle that looks like the love child of an aging Rolls-Royce and 1959 Buick Special.

In a country of 800 million you wonder where everybody is. The Chinese capital that Marco Polo seven centuries ago called the greatest city in the world lacks the teeming life of a modern Asian metropolis. Traffic along the broad boulevards is a whisper of bicycles and trolley buses and a few horn-bonking Shanghai-brand green sedans, which look like Checker cabs.

Peking is a city where you seldom see a television antenna, a flock of sparrows, a girl wearing make-up or a dress. Juke boxes are nonexistent, and pianos almost as rare since party Chairman Mao Tse-tung remodeled the musical scene and decided: "In our world the piano is not required."

Pig tails and top knots went out of style long ago. Girls wear their hair braided in two long locks or cut short in a no-nonsense mannish coiffure, and everywhere, even at the ballet, they effect the unisex boiler suit popularized by the chairman.

Sparrows bit the dust several years ago by the millions when the whole society was organized against vermin and pests. People spent days on rooftops and trees beating drums and screaming their lungs out until they dropped from exhaustion, only to have hordes of destructive caterpillars thrive in the absence of their natural enemy.

Aside from the tiled roof palaces of the Forbidden City and what's left of the old city wall, Peking is a drab city of massive neo-Stalinist office buildings and depressing factories, communes and apartment complexes. In leveling away luxury and upgrading the city's poverty to just about subsistence level, the Communist reformers in two decades have come up with an architectural style best described as institutional grim.

"Why does socialism have to be so drab?" asks a pretty White House secretary. "You should have been here before the revolution," an old China hand advises her, "when the morgue truck made its rounds picking up the bodies of beggars who had died in the streets during the night."

Chairman Mao's poems and portraits are everywhere in billboard size, but James Reston of the New York Times might have trouble recognizing the city where he left his appendix last summer. The Antimperialist Hospital where he made like a porcupine for the acupuncture anesthetists has been renamed the Capital Hospital and a lot of the old antimperialist running dog in-ventive has been removed for the Nixon visit.

Off the main drags, out of view of the Nixon motorcades, some of the more vituperative signs have been only lightly white washed over.

Barnes Thinks He Can Take West Texas In '72 Election

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes says even dancing girls couldn't help his opponents for the Texas governorship overcome his conquest of West Texas by the Barnes special train.

"For the first time, I'm beginning to get the feeling that I will lead the pack throughout West Texas," the Democratic candidate said Tuesday after the first day of a 75-mile campaign trip from Amarillo to Houston.

It is the first such special campaign train in Texas since former Gov. John Connally, now U.S. treasury secretary, made a successful drive in 1962 from Texarkana to El Paso.

Today, Barnes scheduled stops in Comanche, Dublin, Stephenville, Granbury, Fort Worth, Cleburne, Meridian, and McGregor before arriving at Temple for an overnight stop.

"I feel much, much better about West Texas," Barnes said at the end of his first day's train journey. "We have felt all along our situation in the Panhandle was good but we were pessimistic about the results from Hale County south to Sweetwater—now we feel different after the crowds Tuesday."

Barnes staffers said the nine whistle stops Tuesday brought out more than 3,500 supporters to hear his brief speeches from the rear platform of a special train.

"If you could get dancing girls you couldn't get the more than 3,000 people we got in one day in any other way than this special train," said the obviously enthused Barnes.

Several times Tuesday afternoon as the "Barnes Special" neared his hometown area of Coleman and Brownwood, the 33-year-old campaigner shook his coat to speak in shirt sleeves under a warm winter sun.

Barnes and his carefully-organized campaign staff conferred with local political leaders at each stop, carrying them on to the next speaking site.

U.S. Supreme Court Hears Texas Welfare Fund Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas assistant attorney general told the Supreme Court Tuesday the Texas method of dealing out its welfare funds is of no concern to the courts.

The high court heard arguments in a suit attacking the proportionately lower aid stipends to families with dependent children then to other categories of welfare recipients.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Pat Bailey said no one, least of all the courts—should be concerned with the management of Texas welfare funds except the Texas legislature.

According to attorney Steve Cole, the Texas Legislature funneled more money to a welfare category which could deliver more white votes. Payment of higher benefits to the aged, the blind or the disabled than to families without fathers, in turn, discriminates against blacks and Mexican-Americans, Cole claimed.

At issue are the Texas regulations to provide 50 to 75 per cent of the minimum income needs of families under the aid to families with dependent children, while paying 95 to 100 per cent of the needs of the aged, the blind or the disabled.

"Because the father in these families is either dead or missing," Cole argued, "the state will only help them purchase 50 per cent of what the state says they need to survive."

The Texas requirements in effect, encourage welfare mothers to stay welfare mothers and makes it advantageous for their husbands to stay out of sight, he said.

Pampan Files Payment Suit

A suit to bring payment of insurance for loss of eyesight has been filed in the 31st District Court by Ray V. Rodgers, Jr., of Pampa, against the Order of United Commercial Travelers of America, of Ohio.

Rodgers alleges in the suit that the company had issued him a certificate of insurance promising to pay $5000 if he should sustain total loss of sight in both eyes by accidental means.

The suit claims that Rodgers sustained an injury on May 24, 1971, and within 90 days suffered a loss of sight in both eyes. He notified the company, which refused to pay.

Rodgers is seeking the $5000 plus lawyer's fees and a penalty, for a total of $7600.

Free Immunization Clinics For Pupils Set For Thursday

A free immunization clinic for school-aged children will be held from 10 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday in Carver Center. It has been announced by School Nurse Marge Penn.

The clinic is one in a series being held to help children meet the requirements of the new state law. Children who do not meet the requirements will not be admitted to school in the fall, Mrs. Penn stated.

Immunization will be given for diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, polio and both types of measles. The smallpox vaccination is optional, since it is no longer required, Miss Penn explained.

Mrs. Ruth Steger, Pampa school nurse, and Mrs. Johnny Sybert, Lefors school nurse, will be assisting Mrs. Penn. Volunteer aid is given by members of the Pampa Parent-Teacher Association and members of St. Vincent's Home and School Association.

Man Arraigned On Theft Charge

Billy Gene Haney, 43, 236 W. Craven, was arraigned Tuesday afternoon before Justice of the Peace Nat Lunsford on a charge of auto burglary. Bond was set at $1000.

According to the police report, Bill Ragsdale reported Monday afternoon that he had seen a person in his car in front of the Texas Employment Office. When he went to investigate, the person was gone and some of his stereo tapes were missing.

The reporting officer and Ragsdale discovered the suspect in a nearby alley. Haney allegedly had five stereo tapes and a pad lock stuffed under his shirt. He was arrested and placed in jail.

Haney was still in jail this morning in lieu of bond, and serving out an additional charge of intoxication.

Father Files Damage Suit For His Son

A personal injury suit seeking $1,000 in damages has been filed in the 31st District Court by Marvin Skinner, for his son Marvin, Jr., against Ronald Lawrence.

The suit claims Marvin sustained personal injuries causing physical and mental pain and anguish in an accident on Nov. 7, 1971. At that time the car in which Marvin was a passenger collided with a car driven by Lawrence.

Police To Sell Unclaimed Dogs

Thirteen dogs will be up for sale at a police auction at the city dog pound at 1:30 p.m. Friday.

Included are four Shepherds, an Airedale, one bird dog, one St. Bernard and a half dozen mongrels.

Owners may retrieve the dogs before the sale by bailing them out with a $2 fee plus $2 a day board and vaccination charge.

Unclaimed dogs not sold will be destroyed.

'Iroquois Captive' To Be Presented At PHS Thursday

The second in a series of Children's Theatre plays, being sponsored by the Pampa Fine Arts Association, will be presented at 4 p.m. Thursday in the Pampa High School auditorium.

Thursday's play, "Iroquois Captive," is based on a true story of a mother's search for her daughter, who has been captured by the Indians, during the days of Colonial America.

Season tickets which will cover this performance and the May production of "Heidi," may be purchased at the door for $1.25, according to Mrs. Jack Miller, ticket chairman. Single admissions will be 75 cents.

For those desiring a refund on season tickets purchased this Fall, Mrs. Miller explained a refund of 25 cents will be made upon presentation of the ticket at this performance. The production, "Aladdin and His Magic Lamp" was cancelled earlier in the season due to a snow storm.

Governor Smith Blasts Forced School Busing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith departs for Texas late today, leaving in the wake of his brief trip to Washington a blast at busing of school children to achieve racial balance.

Busing of schoolchildren for such a purpose, Smith declared, is an inconvenience which "is not and cannot be justified."

He called busing "just a waste of gasoline." The comments came at the midwinter meeting of the National Governors' Conference, and Smith's Austin office released what it said was his statement in Washington.

According to Smith, forced busing "to achieve an artificial balance or a numerical quota does not contribute to our common goal of quality education."

"Continuing the concept of our neighborhood schools, striving to achieve balanced housing distribution and seeking the enrichment of programs, facilities and instruction in deprived schools are all preferable alternatives to arbitrary busing for statistical purposes."

WTSU Band To Entertain On March 2

The West Texas State University Symphonic Band will perform at Robert E. Lee Junior High School at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 2.

The 80-piece ensemble directed by Dr. Gary Garner, professor of music, is on tour of 10 area high schools.

The program will include Grainger's "Irish Tune from County Derry," Jacob's "Concerto for Band," Nixon's "Centennial Fanfare March," and Barber's "Commando March."

Also programmed is Makris Bader's "Aegean Festival Overture," R. Russel Bennett's "Down to the Sea in Ships," Griffes-Thornton's "Poem" and Shaw's "Frippery No. 8."

The concert will be open to the public and there is no admission charge.

Houston Schools' Vandalism And Burglary Losses Increase Steadily

HOUSTON (AP) — Losses from vandalism and burglaries at Houston schools continue to increase and are approaching $500,000 a year.

School district officials have proposed night patrols and a central alarm and communications network.

Losses jumped from $351,000 in the 1969-70 school year to $389,000 last year—a 10 per cent increase. In the first three months of the current school year, losses totaled $97,461. That is double the previous rate of increase.

The district does not carry insurance to cover vandalism and burglary because, in the past, it was felt such insurance would cost more than the losses.

Linus Wright, school business manager, said in his opinion insurance would further encourage vandalism and burglaries. He believes money for insurance premiums would be better spent for preventive measures.

Scientist To Study How Unborn Babies Affected By Lack Of Oxygen

HOUSTON (AP) — A Russian-born scientist has been awarded a $60,000 grant to study how unborn babies are affected by lack of oxygen.

Dr. Donald Rappoport, head of the Division of Molecular Biology at the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston, received the award from the United Cerebral Palsy Research and Education Foundation.

Oxygen deprivation in unborn and newborn infants is a leading cause of cerebral palsy, a disorder that now affects at least 750,000 persons in the United States.

Rappoport said previous research has shown that lack of oxygen can occur at various stages of fetal development but especially during the onset of labor. His study will concentrate specifically on what happens during growth of the fetus and which drugs might be effective in preventing harmful damage due to anoxia or lack of oxygen.

"We will use both rats and guinea pigs in our work to allow comparisons of the experimental results...and eventually progress to using primates in order to decide which drugs would be helpful in humans," Rappoport said in an interview.

Big Thicket--A Snarl Of Varied Spirits

Editor's Note: Texas' Big Thicket in East Texas is one of the nation's wonders, yet it is disappearing. There are several proposals to save it. But what is the Big Thicket like? This series of three stories shows some of the many sides of the thicket.

By ROBERT HEARD
Associated Press Writer

The Big Thicket of Texas is a snarl of the nation's spirit as well as of vegetation.

Proposed as the site for a national park, it is crisscrossed with violent politics, greed, nature lovers and a subculture of rustics called "dog people," who will defend to their death their right to hunt here.

The thicket is in a three-million-acre basin in southeast Texas where eight ecological systems come together in nature's giant greenhouse, or, depending on your point of view, in a wasteland good only for timber.

Orchids and cactus growing side by side captivate admirers of botanical gardens.

Standing water and mud, mud everywhere, suggest to the more practical-minded a search for the plug to drain this place.

Lumber companies own "claim," say the dog people—most of this land.

This is home to the dog people, so named because they hunt with dogs. It is a passion, a way of life. They especially love to run deer with dogs.

The dog people hate the lumber companies and the private wardens they hire to keep dog people from hunting on lands leased to sportsmen's clubs in Houston and elsewhere.

Many of the dog people are squatters whose families have been in the Big Thicket a century or more. They say the lumber companies have no deed on record for most of the land the companies claim, and therefore the land is still in the public domain.

"That's just fantasy," says

Jack Giberson, chief clerk of the Texas General Land Office. "We know what lands we have. We keep pretty close tabs on it."

The chain of title may have been broken after the lands were patented (deeded) by the state, Giberson says, but they no longer are in the public domain. This would seem to give title to squatters for individual plots, but also it would give the timber interests title to the large tracts they claim by the same legal theory of adverse possession.

Also, the lumbermen acquire squatters' lands from time to time through quitclaim deeds. Champions of the dog people say this may be legal but that slick lumber lawyers take unfair advantage of ignorant backwoodsmen in these deals.

The dog people feel this gives them the moral right to hunt these lands, and the lumber companies be damned.

"I'm 46, and I haven't been caught yet," says Ernest Spell, a tall man with sharp eyes who runs a barbershop in Silsbee when he isn't hunting. Spell claims to be psychic. Some hint at suspicions he is a warlock.

Spell and others speak certain of the "killing" of Gene Barrington, 34-year-old dog people lawyer, during a race for Hardin County attorney in 1968.

Barrington beat the lumber companies in a fight to reopen county roads across their lands to the rivers and creeks. He wrote a pamphlet complaining of a tax rate 30 times higher for individuals than for lumber companies.

Spell says Barrington was found dead in a car wreck, neck broken from the rear, and face cut by windshield glass but unbleeding because he was already dead. Spell says a rubber band was found on the accelerator pedal.

The death was ruled accidental.

Another dog man, I. C. Eason, 47, with wrinkled, leathery face and all his upper front teeth missing, answers the question of where he hunts this way: "Anywhir I take a notion. It's not Kirby's (one of the lumber firms) 'cause they got no deed."

Eason says his 400 acres are "one part of the country that ain't gonna change. The guns on my rack say it won't change. They (a lumber company) told me I'd have to move. I told them it would be after a battle."

He has backed big city hunters off his land with his shotgun, "chucking them under the chin."

The Big Thicket is not an area like the Grand Canyon, where agreement on what should be preserved is easy.

Lumbermen realize some kind of national park probably is inevitable, and they support a 35,000-acre "string of pearls" concept, with several units separated from each other.

Three bills calling for a 100,000-acre park are pending in Congress. No action has been taken on any of these bills, and conservationists say more trees are cut every day Congress delays in appropriating money to buy the land.

Ollie Crawford of Jasper, chief spokesman for the lumber companies, says no cutting has taken place in the "string of pearls" since it was proposed as a park site by the National Park Service in 1967.

There have been occasional reports that timber has been cut there, but independent investigations have shown that if any trees were cut, it was not done by the big companies, previously published reports indicate.

"We're not completely hung up on that," Crawford said, but if more acreage is desired, lumber companies want payment not in money but in federally owned timber land farther north in East Texas.

The first thing you have to understand about the 100,000-acre park that conservationists want is that it is not a solid block of land.

It is a spiderweb laid over the 3 million acres, with the web running along water courses—the Neches River and its western tributaries: Pine Island Bayou, Little Pine Island Bayou, Black Creek, Village Creek, Cypress Creek, Turkey Creek, Hickory Creek, Rush Creek and Beech Creek, plus Menard Creek, which empties into the Trinity River.

These river bottoms contain the only virgin stands of timber left in the thicket. It is more profitable for the lumber companies to work in flatlands than to take heavy logging equipment down steep inclines into the river bottoms.

Forum Set To Discuss Drugs, VD

SUNRAY—An area-wide student health forum dealing with venereal disease, drug abuse and the health effects of smoking will be held at Sunray High School starting at 10 a.m. Saturday and adjourning at 2 p.m.

Representatives from school districts over the entire Panhandle are invited to attend, including representatives of student councils, school clubs, journalism groups and health teachers.

"H as in Heroin, H as in Hooked" will be presented by drug victims themselves, now working with the Damascus Christian Center in Amarillo, and dedicated to both rehabilitating the drug addict and telling young people the real effects of drug usage.

Adults and students will be grouped separately for the drug program. Members of the panel will alternate between the two groups. Rev. H. G. Marshall, himself a former drug addict, will lead the panel.

The venereal disease program will deal with the epidemic rise of VD among teenagers. It will be presented by the Nursing Department of Amarillo College. Dr. William P. Hale of the American Cancer Society will present the program on smoking.

Sponsors of the forum are the Sunray Breathing Crusaders, an arm of the Top of Texas TB and Respiratory Disease Association's Christmas Seal Youth. The Crusaders will host a sandwich lunch without charge.

Program topics of the forum may be requested by representatives for presentation in their own communities.

Woman Reported To Have Killed Mother And Self

HOUSTON (AP) — A woman and her aged mother were found shot to death at a residence today.

Police found Mrs. Ann Marks, 53, dead in a bedroom with a bullet wound in the head. The body of her mother, Mrs. Josephine Brunero, about 80, was found a few feet away. She had been shot four or five times in the back. Both had been shot with a .38 caliber revolver, police said.

South Texas Bank Robbed By 3 Bandits

HOUSTON (AP) — Three gunmen robbed the South Texas Bank and a customer today and escaped with nearly $20,000.

The trio disarmed a security guard at the bank and forced him, the bank's 13 employees and four customers to lie on the floor while they rifled two teller's cages.

While the robbery was in progress, Charles Long, 36, manager of a restaurant, entered. One of the bandits took about $1,000 from Long and told him to "hit the floor."

As the bandits backed out of the bank one of them fired into the south wall. They ran out the front door and around the south side of the building, apparently to a getaway car.

Unemployment, Rising Prices To Be Major Election Issues

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany says unemployment and rising prices will be major issues in this year's election.

"I think the No. 1 issue in the minds of the voters is going to be the economic issue—jobs, prices," Meany told a news conference Monday at the close of the AFL-CIO Executive Council's winter meeting.

He said that while some presidential candidates were trying to make the Vietnam war and school busing major issues, most voters will consider economic issues first.

"We'll have to see what comes out of the President's peacemaking ventures in Moscow and Peking and whether or not they'll be an issue," said the labor chief, who is 77.

"According to all of the indications that we go by, unemployment is not going to come down and prices are not going to come down," Meany said. He cited business group predictions that prices will go up 4 per cent this year despite price controls.

Study Shows That No Disease Is Free From Viral Implication

EDITOR'S NOTE—More and more the suspicion is spreading among scientists that the virus is implicated in nearly all of man's diseases, from the common cold to cancer. The following second of two articles on the virus and the link with disease tells what is being done to combat the deadly enemy.

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Many scientists are beginning to look at a wide range of human disease from a new point of view: that the initial damage was done by a virus.

"This is a more popular way of looking at disease than just a few years ago," says Dr. Sol Spiegelman, a virus and breast cancer researcher at Columbia University.

Scientists have suspected a link between viruses and cancer, and now it's been suggested that even heart attacks and arteriosclerosis may be the result of early viral damage. Further, researchers are now looking for a possible viral role in diseases of the central nervous system, such as multiple sclerosis.

As a result of this explosion in virus research, and with virus diseases becoming more important as antibiotics cure bacterial illnesses, one leading cardiologist suggests that virology laboratories should be set up across the nation for doctors to use in their daily dealing with patients.

"In America today, we have good bacteriology," says Dr. George E. Burch of Tulane University. "We can isolate staph and strep, but there are very poor facilities for the study of viruses and the diseases due to viruses. We should establish, all over America, virology labs for doctors to make use of in their services to patients."

Burch, who has suggested the viral role in heart disease, also believes there should be more research in such areas as the relationship of bacterial and viral infections, suggesting that a strep infection might condition a person for a viral infection.

Further, he says, there should be a study of multiple infections, of several viruses acting at the same time and of their combined effect.

"I think there should be more work done on what the diseases are that viruses produce," Burch says. "Viruses are causing more trouble than we know about."

Virologist F. Kinsley Sanders of the Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research calls this new emphasis "viral ecology, looking at how viruses behave in nature."

One avenue of research is concerned with so-called "slow viruses," viruses that do not produce any effect until possibly years after the initial infection.

The common cold sore is caused by herpes simplex virus, for example, and "once you are infected, you carry it for the rest of your life," Sanders says. "The herpes is lurking there all the time, then it comes out, with exposure to sunlight or a nasty note from the bank."

Considering this sort of thing, Sanders says, it is not surprising that viruses would have subtle long-term effects.

Animal research on slow viruses is relatively recent, the National Multiple Sclerosis Society notes. It was only 15 years ago that a slow virus was implicated in a disease called visna, a central nervous system disease of Icelandic sheep. Later another virus was found to cause scrapie, another sheep central nervous system disease.

Symptoms of either disease do not show up until about five years after the animals have been infected.

Among the researchers looking for answers to the questions surrounding slow viruses is Dr. John Griffith, associate professor of pediatrics, neurology, at the Duke University School of Medicine in Durham, N.C. Some of the questions:

—Why doesn't the infection produce immediate signs of disease?

—Why are the cells that are affected apparently present only in certain parts of the nervous system, rather than all over?

—Why aren't cells quickly destroyed by the virus?

—How does the virus survive all this time without killing the cells it feeds on?

Griffith offers some possible answers:

1. A slow virus might produce a mild but persistent infection that affects only a small number of cells. Somehow the virus and the cells enclosing it coexist without damage. Then, after a period, the virus is stimulated by some unknown factor to replicate, to reproduce itself, rapidly, and it moves out of its resting place to invade many more cells of the central nervous system, producing disease.

2. Or, the virus invades the body, replicates, and moves from cell to cell. But, for some unknown biological reason, the replication is so slow that it may take months or years before enough cells are affected and enough virus has been produced for the symptoms of the disease to appear.

3. Or, the virus attacks neurons, nerve cells, which cannot regenerate themselves and are destroyed gradually. The result is expressed only at the ends of nerve fibers where impulses are passed from one cell to another. This derangement of the ability to pass on impulses results in the signs and symptoms of the disease.

"Perhaps," says the Multiple Sclerosis Society, "a single virus may be responsible, in one form or another, for a whole spectrum of human ailments."

One of the newest advances in virology could explain how slow viruses work.

Dr. Theodor O. Diener, a plant pathologist for the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Beltsville, Md., has discovered what he says is a "viroid," the smallest known agent that is infectious.

"This is the first agent of its kind," Diener said at the recent Gustav Stern Symposium on Perspectives in Virology in New York.

Diener, a Swiss-born scientist, says the viroid is the cause of a potato disease, spindle tuber disease. He has speculated that a viroid is a very primitive agent that has not developed the genetic sophistication to protect itself with a protein coat.

"Diener is convinced," the Agriculture Department said, "that many plant and animal diseases are probably caused by viroids. Methods developed by Diener now make it possible to isolate and identify such particles."

Conceivably, a viroid would provoke a very weak immune reaction in the body. This immune reaction is the body's natural defense mechanism against foreign invaders, accounting for the tendency of the body to reject a transplanted heart, for example.

The weak immune reaction could account for the ability of a slow virus or viroid to persist for long periods, for years, before acting. Therefore, viroids could be the agents responsible for human diseases believed to be caused by a virus, but for which scientists have been unable to isolate a virus.

One of these diseases, Diener said, could be multiple sclerosis, a neurological disease.

In the face of all this virus research and speculation, the possibility arises that no disease is free of viral implication. Presented with this speculation, Spiegelman, the Columbia virus expert, commented: "That's right."

Egypt's Sadat Declares War On Polygamy

CAIRO (AP) — President Anwar Sadat has declared war on polygamy at the risk of offending Moslem religious leaders and many a red-blooded Egyptian male.

This remnant of the harem age is at the core of a legal and public battle to revise marriage and divorce laws in effect almost since the prophet Mohammed introduced Islam nearly 14 centuries ago.

Eisha Rateb, minister of social affairs and Egypt's only woman cabinet member is the head of a task force committee formed by Sadat to reform the country's social status laws.

Recent government statistics show that the rate of polygamy among the population doubled in the 1960s rising from 3.7 per cent in 1960 to 7.5 per cent in 1969.

There are now 21,396 recorded cases of polygamy in Egypt involving two wives, and 1,024 cases involving more than two wives. A man is theoretically entitled, under Islamic and existing Egyptian laws, to four wives.

The other issue is man's right to divorce his wife simply by uttering the words: "Go woman, you are divorced."

Mrs. Rateb, apparently aware of the indignation that the choice of a woman to head the committee must have aroused, began by tackling the easiest of the two issues, divorce.

The recommendations were rather modest, stipulating only that divorces must be carried out in court and that any man exercising his right of divorce on his own be fined, although the divorce would be legal just the same.

A BAND IS BANNED
CHRISTCHURCH, England (AP)—A war veterans' organization in Hampshire called off a scheduled charity dance after a musicians' union protested about the offer of a band to play at the ball for nothing. The veterans' group had hoped to raise about $400 from the dance. But the union insisted that paid-up union members should be hired for the job instead.

Charges dropped, but he still pays

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Five years ago, when he was a senior in high school, my brother Billy was arrested in a police raid on a house where a group of kids were smoking marijuana and using LSD. Billy wasn't using any, but the police took everybody in and booked them. Only two of the kids were convicted, and charges were dropped against the rest, including my brother.

Billy graduated from college last June with very good grades, but he can't get a job because all the forms he has had to fill out specifically ask if he's ever been arrested, and when he has put down "Yes," and why, he was passed over. Once he didn't put down yes, was hired, and a month later they let him go because they found out he had been arrested that one time.

Billy is so disgusted he doesn't know what to do. He went to a lawyer to see if that one arrest could be wiped off his record, and the lawyer told him that in this state they couldn't do it. He said that all he could do was write the legislators to try to get the law changed.

Isn't it cruel for something like this to happen to a nice kid? The law presumes you to be innocent until found guilty, but everyone thinks if someone is arrested he's a poor risk for employment, and since there are about 10 people for every job these days, they'll hire the one who hasn't been in any kind of trouble. Don't you think this is unfair? And have you any advice for Billy?

BILLY'S SISTER

DEAR SISTER: If Billy was only "booked" and not charged after the drug raid, was not a user or in possession of drugs, it is certainly unfair to use such a "record" against him.

But fair, or unfair, when illegal drugs appear on the scene, I would advise any individual to promptly leave the scene.

DEAR ABBY: My heart beat a little faster when I read that letter in your column from the divorced woman who was still in love with a wonderful Marine she hadn't seen since 1944.

You told her to try to locate him, and if he was also single and felt the same way about her, maybe they could pick up where they left off. That was good advice.

I hope she finds him. And I hope he's single, and I hope they get together again.

Would you believe I found my wonderful gal again after a silence of 50 years? Sign me, LUCKY IN ELGIN, ILL.

DEAR LUCKY: Thanks for your encouraging testimony. It's only "too late" for those who think it is.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please help settle an argument between my husband and me?

We were invited to dinner at the home of some new friends, and after dinner it was suggested that we play cards, which we did.

After the game started our hostess brought a book to the table and proceeded to read while playing cards. Most of the time she was so absorbed in the book she nearly forgot about the card game.

After we got home, my husband said she was the rudest woman he had ever met, that she might just as well have told us to go home the way she read that book in our faces all evening. He also said if they ever invite us back he will refuse to go.

Abby, I agree, she wasn't very polite, but I can understand how she could have started a book and become so fascinated with it she could hardly wait to get back to it, so I really don't hold it against her.

Do you agree with my husband that we shouldn't go back there again? I really like this woman.

OUTPLAYED IN DETROIT

DEAR OUTPLAYED: If you "like" her, see her on your own time. I agree with your husband.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Food Fads And Facts Explained To HD Club

The Progressive Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. G. B. Hogan, 914 S. Somerville, with Mrs. Hogan leading the business session.

Members were reminded they are to serve March 6, at the Junior Livestock Show, with each person to bring two pies. The hostess gift was won by Mrs. E. P. Templin.

The program, "Food Fads and Facts," was presented by Miss Jimmie Lou Waincott, county HD agent.

Miss Waincott told the women that it is not easy to choose reliable books on nutrition, recommending several ones.

She recommended that a home economist, physician, dietitian or qualified nutritionist be contacted for reliable information. She warned the women of food fads and nutritional "quackery" which, she said, can be "deceiving, dangerous, exaggerated and expensive."

Following the program, Miss Waincott gave the women a "food fads quiz."

Refreshments of pie and coffee were served during the social period.

Next meeting will be at 1:30 p.m. March 7, with Mrs. Tom Price, 1221 W. 18th.

Attending were Mmes. E. A. Revard, E. P. Templin, Tom Price, E. L. Trumm, E. C. Golden, D. A. Rife, Betty King, and G. B. Hogan.

Women, Aged Discussed By HD Club

The Worthwhile Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. Mina Benham, with Mrs. Ray Robertson in charge.

Mrs. J. E. Beard gave the program on women in the news. She told the group that many women are running for office this year. She urged them to study the candidates and their platforms, and "get out and vote."

Mrs. O. G. Smith told the story of Mr. and Mrs. Frank DeDominices, an 83-year-old couple, and pointed out what the aged could do to help the aged. She stated that a number of people 70 years old and over "get out of the rocking chair and start living." She urged the women to begin now to live an active life.

Mrs. Kathryn Wood was welcomed as a guest. Thirteen members attended.

'Mao's Thoughts' Are On U.S. Aid

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The author was a member of the U.S. military mission to Yenan, the Communist Chinese headquarters, during World War II and came to know Mao Tse-tung, Chou En-lai and other Chinese leaders)

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Twenty-seven years ago Mao Tse-tung told a member of our group—the U.S. military mission in Yenan—that China's greatest need was economic development, that China's own living standards were so low they could not be further depressed to provide the needed capital, that China therefore required foreign capital, and that the United States was the only country fully able to supply that capital.

There are China experts who hold that analysis by Mao is no longer true. They say Mao was so burned by the Russian experience that he will not again trust foreign aid. The Soviets, having invested heavily in assisting China, used this Chinese dependence in an attempt to force Mao to bend his own international interests and warp his own economic development to Russian benefit.

This writer disagrees. Almost everyone is familiar with the Mao thesis that power grows out of the barrel of a gun. What few know is that Mao is convinced that power—including military power—grows out of economic development.

What worries the Chinese is the growing economic power of Japan, Russia, the United States—and the lagging economic power of China. Mao has an ambition for China, that it take its place in the world's councils, and that it aid those countries in Africa, Asia and Latin America which it wishes to influence. This requires wealth.

Mao has seen that countries such as West Germany and Japan by concentrating on economic power, have become his aims. Thus he turned to the Russians whom he personally hated and feared. Despite growing quarrels with Moscow, Mao persisted in his attempts to secure more Russian aid even while he saw greater Soviet pressures developing.

It was, finally, the Russians who cut off the aid, not Mao who refused it. The Russians cancelled because Mao would not knuckle under.

China, like the Soviet Union, needs capital investment, and wants it free of ideological pressures. The United States is the only country able at this attached, and American-backed World Bank assistance.

It seems clear that Mao would very greatly like to have a succession of U.S. and other foreign technologists come and give advice for the improvement of Chinese industry, agricultural, medicine and communications.

It is equally clear that Mao wants to be able to send a considerable number of his scientist, engineers and other technicians to the United States for study.

This writer, when he was in Yenan, found almost every top Chinese official he met to be keenly interested in new foreign technological ideas in all fields, and this in the middle of guerrilla war.

The experience in Yenan and the quarter-century since, following Chinese technical literature, make it abundantly clear that what-ever they may think of the United States ideologically, Mao and his top advisers admire American science and technology above that in any other country.

Mao is devoted to technological improvement. He has gone about as far and as fast as he can with local resources. He has used to the hilt those Chinese technicians—nuclear physicists, rocket experts, agriculturists, engineers, and miscellaneous scientists—trained in the United States, Europe and Japan.

China, like the Soviet Union, needs capital investment, and wants it free of ideological pressures. The United States is the only country able at this time to contribute the huge sums China requires.

powerful without major arms on the Russian-U.S. scale. Likewise, only those countries which have concentrated on economic power have been able to afford the arms necessary to become superpowers in today's world.

But Mao did not learn that lesson from West Germany, Japan and the United States. He held those same beliefs 27 years ago in the caves of Yenan.

Mao knew from the beginning that China could not singlehandedly accomplish economic development at a pace rapid enough to match time to contribute the huge sums China requires.

This is not to say that Mao is ready for private U.S. investment. At one time, when China was much weaker, Mao said he wanted such private capital, and did not fear American ideology.

Today, this may no longer be so, although Mao may, like the Russians, be quite anxious to have joint ventures, strongly regulated, for the development of resources.

What Mao would most probably prefer today, however, is U.S. loans and grants-in-aid with no strings

Television And Radio

NEW YORK (AP)—The familiar Hans Christian Andersen tale, "The Emperor's New Clothes," received a new and ornate production by ABC Monday night. There was animation, trick camera effects, special musical material, an enlargement of the story and, best of all, Danny Kaye narrating, clowning and singing.

The old story about the vain emperor being conned into believing his clothes were invisible to himself while he walked around naked was reworked into an intricate tale of intrigue with a wicked court jester, a beautiful princess and all sorts of gags to delight the young viewer. The animation was especially interesting—three dimensional, puppet-like figures that were moved around freely.

The story was neatly spun out, but more of Kaye would have made it more delightful. He opened and closed the show, and in between he was the voice of a long-nosed puppet that was his caricature.

With Danny's talent for children's stories, he could have played all the parts, sung all the songs and wound up with a TV classic.

NBC's two-hour "World Premiere" feature was a pilot program for a series called "Probe." It was an attempt—in concept and certainly in the character of the hero—to outpoint James Bond and to take up in TV where "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." left off.

People In The News

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Svetlana Peters, daughter of Joseph Stalin, says she dislikes communal living and that's the reason she and her husband have moved into a house.

"That's why I left Russia," Mrs. Peters said Monday of communal living. "And that's why I split away from the Taliesin Fellowship."

She and husband, William Wesley Peters, had been living at Taliesin West, where he is chief architect for the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation.

"I believe in private property," Mrs. Peters said. "They live a communal life at the foundation. They share their incomes, their food, their living. Everyone works, including the children."

Mrs. Peters, 45, and mother of a 9-month-old daughter, said she had tried to fit into the communal living pattern, working in the kitchen and dining room. "I didn't like it, so my husband and I talked it over and we decided to buy our own house," she said. "So we bought this house."

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Cornelia Wallace, 33-year-old wife of Gov. George C. Wallace, has been hospitalized with a kidney infection which is expected to keep her off the campaign trail for a short time.

PARIS (AP)—Astronaut James Lovell has been awarded the Great Medal of the Aeroclub of France.

The award, received by Lovell on Monday, has gone to such aviation pioneers as the Wright brothers, Charles Lindbergh and the first American moon landing crew.

The Pampa Harvesters ended their season with a sour note as the Borger Bulldogs slide past on over time ice 73 to 70 last night in Borger.

The Borger team kept the pressure on the Pampa squad all evening long as they opened the game with control of the tip-off and never really cooled off all evening long.

The home team bested the Harvesters in the first quarter of play hitting the net for 18 points while the Harvesters trailed by one, 18 to 17. At times the team looked real strong in its passing attack and at other times it looked like a coaches nightmare. The pressure filled battle built into a scoring exchange in the second quarter as the Harvesters ended the half deadlocked in a 38 to 38 tie.

Mike Edgar, the leagues leading scorer, pulled his biggest hat trick of the season by scoring 32 points in Pampa's losing efforts. Edgar's previous high had come ironically enough in last years clash with Borger when he scored 31 points.

The whole team played hard and gave a full effort but playing hard and good effort doesn't help when the ball doesn't pass through the nets.

The third quarter the Bulldogs teamed up with the precision of the Harlem Globetrotters in their passing and shooting as they outscored Pampa by a 12 point margin. McPherson's charges had 10 points with Borger scoring 22 and the host team led starting the final period of play 60 to 48.

Pampa had desire and it showed in the fourth and final period of regulation play as they bounced out to drill 20 points compared to Borger's 8 to end the game at 68 all. Borger fans started to rush as a Bulldog shot entered the hoop just as the final buzzer sounded. The officials called the shot no-good and the game went into an overtime.

The overtime proved to be the Harvesters downfall as neither team scored until the final minute and a half when Borger pulled into a 70 to 68 lead. Edgar coupled with passing from his teammates tied the score on an easy lay-up when Borger went down court to make the score 72 to 70 with 30 seconds on the clock.

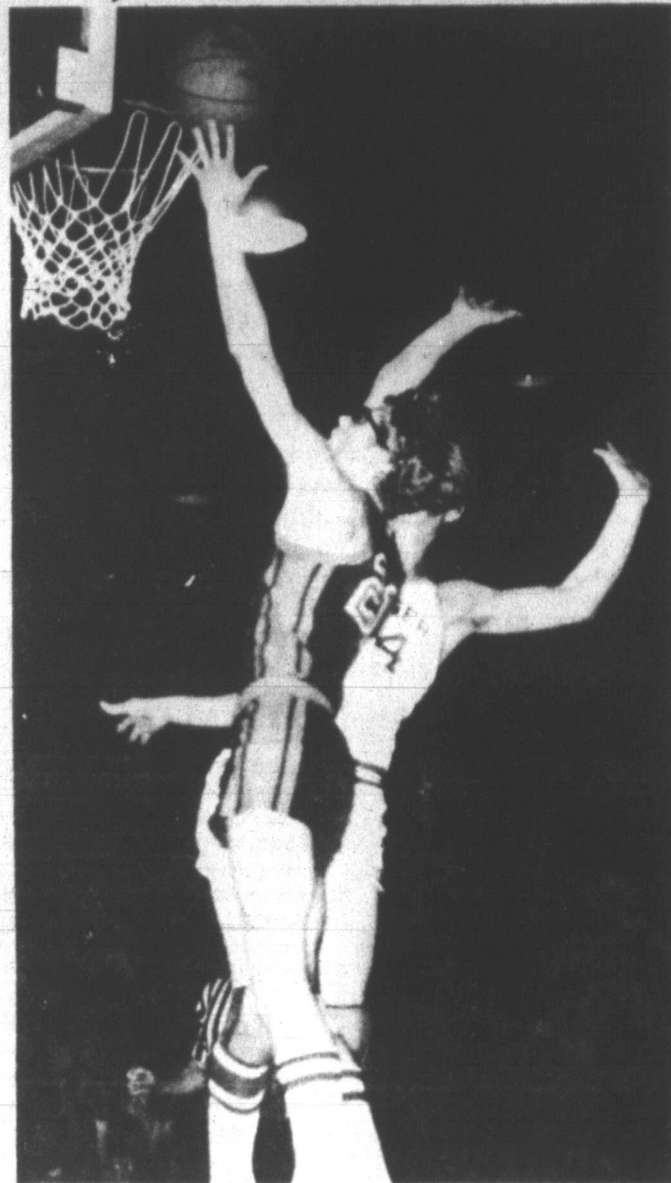

Four missed field goal attempts by the Harvesters and a foul gave the Borger team a three point lead with six seconds on the clock.

A quick turnover, inbound and Borger had upset the mighty Pampa Harvesters in their only win of the second half of district play. Pampa finished the season with a 24 and seven season while the winners had an 18 and 13 overall season mark.

The Pampa squad will be losing its big men due to graduation including league leading scorers Richard Bunton, Donnie Cain, Mike Edgar, Marsh Gamblin, and Gary Haynes.

Palo Duro wrapped up the district 3-AAAA crown last night in the Amarillo Civic Center with a 57 to 53 victory over the Amarillo Sandies. Tascosa slaughtered the Caprock Longhorns 61 to 50 to round out district action.

Palo Duro will be meeting the winner of the Plainview-Lubbock Monterey game in Bi-District contention.

HANGING UP TWO POINTS—Gary Haynes (21) lifts off for two more Harvester points as the Bulldogs upset the defending 3-AAAA Champions in the Borger Civic Auditorium Tuesday night. Pampa finished the season with a second place finish in district 3-AAAA.

Basketball News Is Court Action

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"We can't get up for the little ones," sighed Maryland Coach Charles "Lefty" Driesell.

Fortunately, Lefty's 12th-ranked Terrapins got up after the intermission Tuesday night, outscored Richmond 10-2 in the opening four minutes of the second half and rolled to a 76-61 victory over the Spiders.

But collegiate basketball's biggest news of the day occurred not on the court but in one—in Minneapolis' U.S. District Court, to be precise—where Judge Earl Larson ruled that, unless the Big Ten Conference upholds the suspensions of Corky Taylor and Ron Behagen, the two Minnesota basketball players will be reinstated on the team.

The players were suspended by Minnesota and the Big Ten for their part in a brawl-marred game Jan. 25 between the Gophers and Ohio State.

Minnesota lifted the suspension three games later but the Big Ten maintained it and will conduct a hearing Thursday to decide the players' future.

"I hope we can get a fair hearing and get a chance to play again," said Behagen, who, along with Taylor, rejoined the Gophers Tuesday in practice for Saturday's key conference clash with Michigan. "Corky and I have been hurt," Behagen said, "but the team has been hurt more."

Richmond led 30-33 at the half before the host Terps, en route to their 19th victory in 22 games, went on their 10-2 tear, sparked by sophomore Tom McMillen, who scored 19 of his game-high 25 points in the second half.

Roger Hatcher scored 19 to lead the Spiders, 6-16.

In Tuesday night's other major action, Wisconsin rallied to whip Purdue 66-60 and Indiana raced away from Illinois 90-71 in Big Ten play. Southern Methodist ripped Texas Tech 87-73 and Texas A&M outlasted Baylor 101-95 in overtime in Southwest Conference play, and in a slowdown affair, Virginia Military edged William & Mary 37-35 in overtime.

Wisconsin blew a five-point halftime lead before Leon Howard, the Badgers' leading scorer with 16 points, sank two crucial field goals and a pair of free throws in the closing minutes to cool off the Boilermakers.

Indiana, with Jobie Wright scoring 26 points and John Ritter 23, posted its fifth straight Big Ten triumph, putting away Illinois in the opening minutes by streaking to a 21-9 lead.

SMU's Ruben Triplett led all scorers with 28 points, 14 of them at the free throw line, where the Mustangs hit 33 of 45 attempts to trip Tech.

Texas A&M, remaining in a tie atop the SWC with SMU, stalled its way to victory in the overtime against Baylor with Jeff Overhouse topping the Aggies with 22 points.

And VMI's Keydets, winning for the first time in 11 Southern Conference games, beat the Indians on a field goal with 1:28 to play by Bob Frank, the game's leading scorer with 12 points.

NBA Roundup

By Associated Press

Dick Motta, coach of the National Basketball Association's Chicago Bulls, takes great pleasure in the kind of shellacking his team handed Philadelphia Tuesday night when they wrecked the 76ers 119-88.

He figures everytime the Bulls beat the 76ers, it makes them a little more even for some of the things Philadelphia used to do to his club.

"I'd rather beat Philadelphia than any other team in the league," said Motta. "I remember when they used to beat us by 35 and 40 points and Jack Ramsay (Philadelphia's coach) used to get great delight from it."

Elsewhere in the NBA Tuesday, Boston downed Phoenix 114-103. New York took Portland 122-105. Buffalo edged Baltimore 99-98. Detroit squeezed by Los Angeles 135-134 in overtime and Golden State topped Seattle 120-104.

The Bulls raced to a 20-7 lead and coasted past Philadelphia with Bob Love tossing in 34 points to lead the attack. Motta stayed with his regulars and the lead bulged to 38 points before he went to his reserves.

"I didn't take my regulars out because I want to get the team used to working hard and not sloughing off with a comfortable lead," Motta said.

Seattle cut a 15-point Golden State lead to one at 66-65 in the third quarter before Cazzie Russell, finishing with 26 points, woke up the Warriors for the victory. Len Wilkens of the SuperSonics equalled Russell's output.

No Place Like Home For SMU's Mustangs

By Associated Press

"Be it ever so humble" and all that jazz, home was really sweet to the Southern Methodist Mustangs today.

The Mustangs roundly defeated Texas Tech's Red Raiders 87-73 Tuesday night at Moody Coliseum in a battle involving two of the three teams which were tied for the Southwest Conference basketball lead prior to the contest.

In other action, Texas slipped past Arkansas 92-86. Texas Christian raced by Rice 75-68 and Texas A&M beat Baylor 101-95.

"It was a big win for us after two losses," said a relieved SMU coach Bob Prewitt.

Not long ago, the Methodists were the envy of the conference with a two-game lead over the rest of the pack. Then a disastrous road trip cost them the two losses to which Prewitt referred. "I thought our overall hustle was a big factor," he said of the victory, which left SMU in a two-way tie for first place with Texas A&M with three league games remaining.

Nit without credit was the Mustangs performance at the charity line, which provided 33 of their 87 points. Ruben Triplett hit 14 free throws and was the game's leading scorer with 28, while Tech's record-breaking point machine, Greg Lowery, sputtered to 11 points on a poor shooting night from the field.

"We couldn't keep a drive going—we'd start rolling and they would stop us," lamented Tech coach Gerald Myers.

Meanwhile, A&M was stumbling past Baylor in Waco in overtime. The high man for the Aggies was Jeff Overhouse with 22, while Baylor's Tom Stanton netted 27.

Shockers Drop To Bullpups

The Pampa Shockers fell to the Borger Bullpups 71 to 64 last night in Borger's Civic Auditorium in a trailing basketball game. The Bullpups had the Shockers down 12 to one in the first quarter before the team started to jell and pull up to a first period tally of 20 to 11 in favor of Borger.

The catch-up game kept the edge for Borger but the young Pampans closed the gap to within four points at the half as Borger led 33 to 29. The third period of play kept Borger alive as they edged further into the lead with a six-point margin ending the playing period 49 to 43.

The final period of play found the Bullpups ahead all the way as the Shockers kept having difficulty hitting the basket.

A.J. Brewer led the Shockers in their scoring efforts with 19 points and Rick Beasley had 12. According to Shocker coach Ronnie Hearne, "Both Beasley and Brewer played one of their best games of the season. We ended our season with a winning record of 15 victories and 10 losses."

The Thrashers, Pampa's C-team, was the only victorious team of the evening from Pampa as they defeat Borger's sophomores 53 to 51 after trailing by four points at the half.

The Borger team led the first quarter with a 14 to 13 margin and had their four-point 29 to 25 lead at the half. Coming out in the third period of play the Thrashers backed Gary Davis as he scored 18 points for the evening.

The fourth period of play had Randy Cain ending the game with 9 points and the Pampa Sophomores winning 53 to 51.
