

Showers Brighten Crop Prospects

The headline with Sunday's cotton story in this newspaper stated, "Rain Needed Now" and Mother Nature must have read the story. Monday and Tuesday morning showers all across the country brought welcome moisture to row crops that were beginning to hurt in the hot July sunshine.

One farmer said, "of course this isn't enough moisture to cut off irrigation wells but the water will run faster."

The showers were set off by a weak cold front that entered the area early Monday morning.

Almost all areas of the county received a half an inch and some areas received down pours that amounted to over two inches.

But Mrs. Herman King at Lone Star reported that the showers just about missed the King residence, where there was only a sprinkle Monday morning.

M.A. Ulmer said he received an inch of rain at his place two and a half miles west of Lockney, and an inch and three-quarters at another place four miles northwest of town Monday morning.

In downtown Lockney, the Jackson Tire Company gauge showed an inch Monday and a trace Tuesday morning. At the Co-op Elevator in the Sterley community, one inch was measured Monday morning.

Floydada received .7 Monday morning and .4 Tuesday morning.

One plus factor for all the hot and dry weather...it may have burned up a lot of mosquitoes and flies.

This brings the total rainfall to 15.09 for the year. This compares with nine inches this time last year.

CLEAN-UP-friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Aston help clean up the smoked interior of the Aston Home, result of lightning about 4 a.m. Monday. The refrigerator in the house caught fire during an electrical storm Monday morning, "smoking up" the place and burning a hole in the floor under the appliance. The residence is located about three miles north of Lockney on the Lone Star highway. Friends and neighbors who helped with clean-up chores included Mr. and Mrs. Randy Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Mosley, Mr. and Mrs. Belvred Jack, Mrs. Jody Baccus, C.L. Henderson, Jim Bert Bobbitt, Doyle Van Cleve, Joe Cunyus, Barton Cooper, Mrs. Wanda Henson, and Ray Aston. (Staff Photo)

Judge Receives Petition For Weather Modification Vote

The Floyd County Citizens for Natural Weather today filed with County Judge J.K. Holmes their request for an election under the Weather Modification Act. Accompanying their request was a petition signed by more than 600 qualified voters of the area.

The purpose of the election is to determine whether the voters approve of the issuance of a permit providing for weather modification including hail suppression in a major portion of Floyd County. All qualified voters in Floyd County may cast ballots with the exception of those voters living in the Baker, Goodnight, and Dougherty election precincts.

It is projected that the election will be held the fourth week of August.

It is the position of the Citizens for Natural Weather that hail suppression dissipates the clouds and prevents their natural course of developing rain in the area.

WASHINGTON, D.C.—At 10:00 o'clock, Tuesday morning, August 9, Congressman Omar Burleson will hold a press conference at the Windsor Hotel in Abilene, at which time he will announce his future political plans.

The new numbers are listed on the information page of the new directory.

The school trustees are seeking a replacement for John Peck, superintendent here for five years, who announced last week that he had accepted the position of assistant superintendent in charge of business affairs in the Plainview school system. Applications may be sent to the Office of the Superintendent, Box 428, Lockney, Texas 79241.

School Trustees To Meet August 8, 15

Next regular meeting of the Lockney Independent School District board of trustees will be at 8 p.m. Monday, August 8 in the board room at the superintendent's office. Some of the items scheduled for inclusion on the agenda are routine business matters and budget study.

On August 15, at 8 p.m., there will be another school board meeting, to which the public is invited. At that meeting, the school budget will be adopted, and the school tax rate will be set.

Other items of special interest will be considered.

WEIGH-IN...Longhorn head football coach Jim Warren weighs and measures sophomore griddier Randy Ford, during the first day of player activities at the Lockney field house Wednesday. Workouts will be from 8 to 10 a.m. and from 6 to 8 p.m. each day. WHEAT PRICES have hit a low price this year of $1.90 and many people will mark this down in their memory as happening under a Democrat president. It should be noted that our farmers are still operating under a Republican farm program.

It appears now that the Congress' approval of $2.91 on wheat will help some. This isn't nearly enough money for wheat, but it might save some of our wheat farmers. No doubt about it, the President, and the Congress are catering to the consumer vote instead of the farmer. It doesn't take much of a mathematician to see that the consumer has a larger vote, when there are only around five percent farmers left to vote.

CHESTER MITCHELL took the responsibility of many projects for the benefit of Floyd county. Just before he died, he had pretty well wrapped up an "Old Fiddler's Contest" for the county fair.

He had completed most of the leg work for the prize money, he had most of the details ready for the fair catalogue.

Floyd County will miss this leader. He was outstanding in agriculture, he took a keen interest in the future of underground water for the entire irrigated section of this State. He was a former member and president of the Board of Directors of High Plains Undergrnd Water Conservation District No. 1.

We remember him as a friend and fellow guitar-picker.

STATE COMPTROLLER Bob Bullock said Wednesday that mixed drink sales reported for the April-June quarter of 1977 totaled $134 million, nearly a 25 percent increase over the same period quarter a year ago.

Floyd County's tax revenue was $1,921.08 and the county's 15% remittance was $288.16.

THE TIME to take advantage of the future is today.

THE NEXT TIME someone tells you the price of advertising makes things cost more, consider this: Advertising more often reduces the cost of things we buy.

Take the case of electronic calculators. Ten years ago they were expensive little machines costing several hundred dollars each. They were bought mainly by scientists, engineers and accountants because of the expense.

Then one company discovered that volume savings would reduce the cost of making calculators up to 25 percent every time production doubles. If the first 100,000 units each cost $250, then the 200,000th unit would cost $188, the 400,000th unit would cost only $141.

By the time they got total production to 50 million units, the cost per unit would be down to $18.

We all know what happened. The company started advertising heavily. They created new markets with the ads. Sales boomed and so did production.

That increased production has created tens of thousands of new jobs in their industry. It has increased the productivity of almost every other industry by making complicated and time consuming math computations almost instantly available to every shop and office in the country. It has even simplified the once tedious task of balancing the family checkbook.

But most important, the increased sales and production caused by the advertising has made it possible for anyone to buy an electronic pocket calculator for under $10 today—a fraction of what is cost ten years ago.

So the next time someone tells you the price of advertising makes things cost more—set 'em straight.

MARYLAND HEIGHTS, Mo. (AP)—Debbie Owen was understandably upset when a man threw a stone through the window of the art supply store where she works, walked through the door, picked up a 17-inch statue of W.C. Fields and walked out.

She told police she was so frightened she "hardly even thought about" the fact that the thief was wearing nothing but a straw hat, sandals and a leather pouch around his waist.

IF WE DID all we are capable of doing, we would literally astound ourselves, Thomas A. Edison.

Floyd County Farmers Union is urging its members—and all farmers in the county—to mail one or more boxes of wheat or other small grain to the President, the Secretary of Agriculture, and the chairmen of the House and Senate Agriculture Committees to protest what they consider lack of concern for the financial plight of the farmer.

The Floyd County effort is part of a statewide push by Farmers Union, which is in turn part of a nationwide effort to "flood Washington with cheap commodities" as a protest against low farm commodity prices. The Floyd County farmers' organization is hoping that at least 100 small boxes of grain—more, they hope—will be mailed to Washington from Floyd County on August 8, the date set for mass mailing all over the state and nation.

The packages of grain are to be sent along with a message to the effect of this one suggested by the Farmers

Union:
Dear Mr. President (Sec. of Ag., Ag. Chairman, Etc.),

The prices we are getting for our crops are causing us to go broke. You have indicated that your concern is small and you certainly don't want Congress to pass supports which would help us. You're worried about inflation, but you're not worried about a whole segment of society and thousands of families going bankrupt.

So here's some wheat (example). Bake it. Eat it. Plant it. Do whatever you want to with it. But look at it good and use it wisely. It might be the last you see, because it will be the last we produce for a nation which doesn't want to pay for it.

WE WON'T GROW IT FOR PEANUTS!
Signed,

Briscoe County Not For Weather Modification!

In the heaviest voting in Briscoe County history, precincts one and three turned out to condemn cloud seeding by a vote of 430 to three, a margin of 143 to one.

Citizens for Natural Weather in Bailey, Swisher and Lamb counties have already turned in petitions calling similar elections in those counties and are waiting for dates to be set by commissioners' courts.

Castro, Parmer and Floyd county committees are continuing work to complete petitions which require signatures of at least 10% of the qualified voters in the areas affected by cloud seeding.

Lloyd Kurtz, treasurer for the district-wide Citizens for Natural Weather, said the first election in Briscoe County has created "even more fervent interest in the program to call elections on cloud seeding."

"This issue has been a severe problem throughout this area for seven years and people want to get this matter settled once and for all. There are many disadvantages to our people feeling so seriously about an issue like this for so long. I think it hurts our progress and the best way, the democratic way, to settle these differences is at the polls. We are pleased that the Water Development Board wants these elections and we hope to get all of them completed within the next month," Kurtz said.

Earl Cosby, of Tulia CFNA, was encouraged that the Briscoe County voting "gave all our people more determination than ever to get this thing over with as soon as possible." Swisher County Commissioners are expected to set a date early

Judy Maggard, Clar Schacht Married Saturday In Plainview

A Caribbean cruise to the Bahamas is the wedding trip for Mr. and Mrs. Herman Clar Schacht who were married Saturday evening in Plainview.

Mrs. Schacht is the former Miss Judith Ann Maggard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L.H. Maggard of Plainview. Her husband is the son of Mrs. Fritz O. Schacht of Lockney and the late Mr. Schacht.

Officiating at the 7:30 double ring ceremony in the chapel of First Baptist Church in Plainview was Bill Webb, director of the Baptist Student Union at West Texas State University in Canyon.

Candlelight from a candelabra flanked by cathedral candelabras set the scene for the exchange of wedding promises. Focal point of the nuptial area was a kneeling bench holding a unity candle. Tropical foliage and gypsophila tied with mint green satin enhanced the candelabras and kneeling bench. Pews were marked with tropical foliage and white lace bows.

Ernie Maggard of Houston and Byron Schacht of Bryan, brothers of the bride and groom respectively, were ushers.

Mrs. Sarah Cameron of Canyon, sister of the groom, was a soloist. She was accompanied at the organ by her husband, David Cameron.

WEDDING PARTY

Miss Mary Bowles and Lewisville, maid of honor, and Miss Linda Mullin of Silverton, bridesmaid, were dressed in light spring green frocks of gabersheen. The floor-length dresses were topped with short jackets of flocked sheer featuring multi-colored daisies. White lace trimmed the jackets. Green picture hats completed their apparel. Each feminine attendant carried a bouquet of pastel field flowers and gyp-sophila tied with blue satin.

Best man was Jim Shafer of Tribune, Kansas, and Johnny Bradberry of Weatherford served as groomsmen.

Escorted to the altar area and given in marriage by her father, L.H. Maggard, the bride chose for her wedding a formal gown of candlelight chiffon. It was designed with a moulded bodice of re-embroidered alencon lace and English net. The mandarin neckline of the bodice front was adorned with tiny seed pearls. The long Juliet sleeves of the gown were trimmed with cuffs of matching lace and English net. The Empire-waistline fell into a full skirt with a full chapel train. An alencon lace half-cap held her double-tiered butterfly veil of candlelight bridal illusion edged in seed pearls. Atop a white Bible, the former Miss Maggard carried a cascade arrangement of green cymbidium orchids and ming fern.

Following bridal tradition, she used "something old" which was her great-grandmother's pin. "Something new" was gold earrings; "something borrowed" was the white Bible she carried with her bouquet; and "something blue" was a garter. In her shoe was a luck sixpence.

RECEPTION

The parlor of the church was scene of the wedding reception. Assistants at the refreshment table were the bride's sisters-in-law, Mrs. Ernest Maggard and Mrs. David Maggard, both of Houston; the groom's sister, Miss Margaret Schacht; his sister-in-law, Mrs. Byron Schacht of Bryan; Cheryl Crain of Amarillo and Lou Ella Scarbrough.

An oyster linen cloth covered the serving table. A candelabra arrangement of pastel flowers, gypsophila and ming fern shared the table with the wedding cake. Silver and crystal appointments ments completed the table decor.

Following the newlyweds' trip, they will be at home on Route M, Lockney. The groom is a farmer, and his bride is a teacher in Lockney Elementary School.

Mrs. Schacht is a graduate of Plainview High School and received a bachelor of science degree from West Texas State University. The groom is a graduate of Lockney High School, and earned both the B.S. and M.S. from Texas Tech University.

The bride has taught school in Silverton. Schacht taught school and farmed in Tribune, Kansas, before returning to Lockney.

REHEARSAL DINNER

A rehearsal dinner in K-Bob's Restaurant in Plainview feted the bride and groom.

West Texas IS Different For New Jersey Farm Girl

Linda Bush

By JIM DAVIS
PLAINVIEW REPORTER-NEWS
There's a new girl in the neighborhood...a yankee, no less...an aggie yankee.

And, if the West Texans she deals with envision the East as mostly big cities, big buildings and pavement, she's going to change some images.

A couple of weeks in West Texas has already changed some images for her.

She's Linda Bush. She's 24. And, Monday a week ago she went to work for the USDA Soil Conservation Service in Floydada.

Linda was born and raised in New Jersey, but if one were to listen to her recite her background without tagging it geographically, they might think she was born and raised in West Texas.

"I've always lived on a farm," she says. She liked farm life and it interests her, so, she took it up as a profession.

Until they retired recently, her parents operated a farm in the midst of rural New Jersey.

The difference between there and here is mostly a matter of scale. Linda says her father's place was about 60-acres where he raised vegetables. 60-acres was a big farm as New Jersey farms go, Linda says.

Farming in the East just isn't the big business that it is in West Texas. It's more a sideline.

But, it is still rural America just as West Texas is rural America.

Linda says she attended grammar school in a four-room school in New Gretna, N.J., a town of about 800 people.

She says that when she came out to West Texas she was amazed at the size of the towns here. "The towns are bigger. At home towns are smaller...They're closer together but they're smaller."

She graduated from high school at a consolidated school—Southern Regional High School—which served an area that went 30 miles in all directions and, yet, was only a little over half the size of Plainview High.

Of course, West Texas is physically very different from what Linda Bush is accustomed to. "Where's the trees?" she says she asked first off.

"It's different," she says. "I like it. I like it more and more."

Linda says that having been raised on the farm agriculture interested her, so, after graduating from high school in 1971, she attended Murray State University in Murray, Ky. The school in far western Kentucky was a long way from home, but she chose it for its agriculture program (and "because I'd never been there").

She took a degree in agronomy in 1975.

"I wanted to use my degree," she says, so fresh out of college she joined the Peace Corps. For 10 months, she lived and worked in the Central American country of El Salvador.

She says she was among about 100 Peace Corps volunteers trying to bring some modern agricultural techniques to a tiny Pacific coast nation where farming is still primarily people and animal powered.

She says changes were being made... "You could see little things that had been left by other volunteers. It was nothing drastic. The people there are like people everywhere. It takes a long time."

She says she spent most of her time trying to teach the El Salvadorians to build silos to store grain sorghum. The practice there was to store the grain in holes in the ground lined with sheets of plastic.

After leaving Central America she applied to the USDA for a soil conservation job. When the job came through the agency said West Texas and she says she said, "Why not?" without knowing what she was getting herself into.

As West Texans tend to image the East as all city, she says, she imagined West Texas as all desert.

She says she was amazed to find so much of the Plains under cultivation.

Like most people who come to West Texas for the first time, too, Linda remarked on friendliness and warmth of the people here.

But she also noted that in the rural East you find the same kind of friendliness. There, she says, the people just don't live up to the reputation that Easterners have for coldness.

Linda says she went to New York City once and didn't particularly like it. "That's nuts city," she says.

She says she's amazed, too, by the life style here, particularly the big houses... "We just don't have houses like these."

At the same time she's found it nearly impossible to locate a place to live. An all-day search of Plainview produced a mobile home to rent. She's commuting to Floydada every day until she can find a place there.

Too, the availability of jobs in West Texas is equally new to her. "There just are no jobs up there. You don't see all kinds of jobs listed in the newspaper like you do here," she says.

West Texas is different for Linda Bush, but not different as she had expected it to be.

Linda is different from West Texas, but not different as a West Texan might expect a yankee to be.

AMERICAN HEROES

A hero of the American packaging industry is Robert Gair, the Father of the Folding Box.

A successful entrepreneur with an eye for innovation, he had been inspecting a printed seed package which was inadvertently slashed by a printing form when the revelation came to him. Why not create a die ruled for cutting and scoring a paperboard blank in one impression?

It worked, and the prototype of the machine-made folding carton was born.

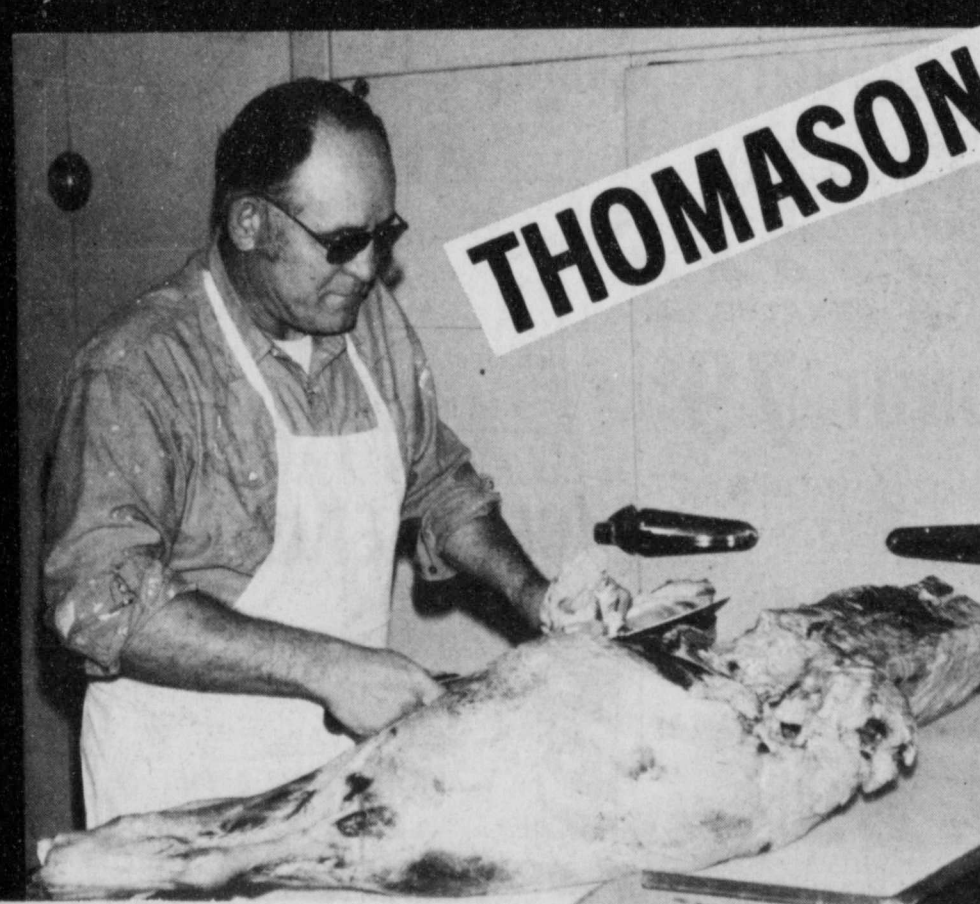

While Gair's badly-composed 1879 patent application was denied, he is said to have taken some comfort from a doorway sign that stated his claim to immortality: THE FATHER OF THE FOLDING BOX.

This article is adapted from a packaging history series created by the St. Regis Paper Company in an effort to rededicate our heritage and renew our pride in our country's achievements.

PhilCates Will Not Seek Re-Election

State Representative Phil Cates today officially announced his intention not to seek reelection. Cates is completing his fourth term as State Representative from the 66th Legislative District composed of Armstrong, Briscoe, Childress, Collingsworth, Donley, Floyd, Gray, Hall, Motley, and Wheeler Counties. "Landslide Cates", as he is referred to because of having won his first primary election by only two votes, expressed his heartfelt appreciation to those who enthusiastically supported him throughout the eight years that he will have served as state representative.

"The one person who deserves more credit than anyone else for these years of service," Cates explained, "is my gifted wife Nancy, who is the mother of our three-year-old son Andy and our nine-month-old son John David. Even now," Cates continued, "Nancy encourages me to run for reelection for the House seat or for another higher office. Many have expressed disappointment that I would choose to leave the position of service that I have held for four legislative terms, and for their trust and this high compliment that they have given me, I am very grateful."

"The decision is mine alone. There are simply more important tasks for me at this time. I must make certain that my family is in the kind of strong and healthy environment that I want for my sons. This we would do if we stayed in politics, but it would simply be much easier in the business field. Someday, I would hope to again hold this or other offices of the public trust."

"There are major important goals, issues, and needs for good services which I have left unfinished. In this regard, I would support the very best person seeking the position of state representative. I feel that this is my responsibility as a private citizen. I would never seek to name my successor, but rather to fulfill this responsibility by supporting the best possible person. I must mention my personal pleasure of having been associated with public servants like Max Sherman, Bob Simpson, and Bob Close along with the many responsible leaders within the district."

"Benjamin Franklin expressed my feelings best during the Constitutional debates when he said in essence that leaving public office will be considered by our best leaders as the higher honor than even having been originally elected to that position. In other words, it is exciting to be reelected and to serve, but it is even greater to return to walk equally as a private citizen with ones former constituents."

Quick Takes

An amazing 91% of all American homes have at least one living house plant, according to a survey by a New York market research company. . . . You can gain insight into a woman's personality by looking at her tube of lipstick, says Francois de Roussy de Sales, international director of advertising and public relations for a major cosmetic line. If a woman's tube of lipstick is worn down on one side, it shows she is casual, possibly over-relaxed. Lipstick worn to a point indicates a woman is tense and uptight. If the lipstick is rounded on the end, it belongs to a sensuous woman.
