For 1982...

More Fund Cuts Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is proposing $16 billion in further spending cuts for 1982 that include delaying cost-of-living increases in Social Security and other benefit programs and abolishing the departments of Education and Energy, government sources say.

The latest round of budget cuts were ordered by Reagan in response to new projections that the deficit for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 is ballooning beyond initial estimates. Reagan is expected to announce the package early next week.

Sources said the new cuts would revive an earlier proposal to defer the annual, automatic cost-of-living increase in monthly payments for Social Security benefits from July 1, 1982, until Oct. 1, 1982.

Automatic cost-of-living increases also would be delayed for such programs as food stamps, veterans benefits and civilian and military pensions, the sources said. The moves would save an estimated $5 billion in 1982.

Meanwhile, Reagan planned to meet today with his Cabinet to review proposals prepared by budget director David A. Stockman, Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said.

Speakes said each Cabinet member would be given "some details on the department-by-department budget cuts recommended by Stockman."

Stockman briefed Senate Republican leaders on the new budget-cutting proposals Wednesday night and spoke separately with House Republican leader Robert H. Michel of Illinois.

According to the sources, the new package also calls for:

—A phase-out of about 75,000 federal jobs over the next three years.

—A 10 percent across-the-board cut in non-defense, non-entitlement programs. Entitlements are programs that provide legally mandated benefits to individuals.

Last spring, the president proposed cutting Social Security benefits to save $3.8 billion in 1982, but the plan produced such a political backlash in Congress that Reagan never pushed for its passage.

Sources said Reagan now has decided to try anew to defer the annual cost-of-living increase, which would save $2.8 billion next year, because it appears to have the best political chances among the earlier Social Security proposals. In March, they noted, a Democratic-controlled House subcommittee approved a similar measure, but it has not reached the full House.

Congressional sources, meanwhile, say they have received indications from administration officials that the president may not veto moves in the House and Senate to trim military spending for 1982 by more than the $2 billion Reagan announced last weekend.

One source said abolishing the Energy and Education departments would not produce significant savings because their key operations would be transferred to other departments but would symbolize Reagan's resolve to reduce the federal bureaucracy. That would require congressional approval.

During last year's presidential campaign and following his inauguration, Reagan pledged to abolish the two departments, which were created by Congress at the request of former President Carter, but the formal proposals had not been expected to come this soon.

The Energy Department was established in 1977 and the Education Department in 1979.

Education Secretary T.H. Bell reportedly recommended to the White House last month that his department be transformed into a foundation.

The recommended new cuts would be in addition to $35.2 billion in reductions for 1982.

Immunity Was Ratified

ANDREWS AIR FORCE BASE, Md. (AP) — Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey says the former head of the Stategic Air Command ratified the immunity offer that prompted Air Force 2nd Lt. Christopher Cooke to reveal details about his contacts with the Soviets.

Bailey said Wednesday at Cooke's court-martial that retired Gen. Richard Ellis, SAC's former commander-in-chief, authorized the offer, which is a major point of dispute between the defense and the Air Force.

Cooke, former deputy commander of a Titan II missile crew, is charged with passing sensitive information to the Soviets and failing to tell superiors about his contacts with the Soviet Embassy.

Opposed To United Way

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of El Paso has asked Catholics and "all men and women of goodwill" not to contribute to the United Way because Planned Parenthood receives money from the non-profit organization.

Describing Planned Parenthood as "an abortion advocacy agency," Bishop Reymundo Pena said he had given United Way leaders a year to resolve the issue.

He said Wednesday he has withdrawn support for the fund-raising body after it refused to drop Planned Parenthood from its roster.

A coalition called El Pasoans for Life two months ago proposed a boycott against the United Way because of objections to Planned Parenthood. But Pena withheld his support for the group until Wednesday, the deadline he had given the United Way a year ago.

Black Priests Rally

CHICAGO (AP) — Black priests in the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago plan to hold a rally honoring their spiritual leader, Cardinal John Cody, who is under federal investigation for alleged misuse of $1 million in tax-exempt church money.

"We, the Black Catholic Clergy of Chicago, do not intend to stand by mute in the midst of the raging controversy...," the Rev. Dominic Carmon, leader of the group, said at a Wednesday news conference attended by 15 black priests.

The tribute will be at the 12,500-seat International Amphitheater on Friday morning. The group said it will present Cody with a plaque and honor him with music and speeches for his work over the years in the city's black community.

Utility Arrests Made

NORWALK, Conn. (AP) — A former bookkeeper got so mad at her high electric bills that she demanded to see the power company's books and what she found led to the arrests of three company commissioners on charges of stealing hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Chief State's Attorney Austin McGuigan said the three — and four other people charged in the case — engaged in "wholesale debauchery" of the South Norwalk Electric Works, a municipal power company.

"I had a feeling there was some hanky-panky, but I didn't think it would be anything like this," said the former bookkeeper, Dorothy Spielman, who now works in a bank as a supervisor.

The three commissioners, George Carrasquillo, Frances Autuore and Edward Ancrum, were arrested Wednesday and released on written promises to appear in court. A warrant was issued for former Commissioner John DeBlock.

Letter Increase Turned Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Rate Commission today turned down a request by the Postal Service to raise the cost of mailing a first-class letter from 18 cents to 20 cents.

The independent commission said it found no justification for the request. The current rate, the panel said, is "fair and equitable" and allows the Postal Service enough revenue to deliver the mail.

The Postal Service has contended, however, that it is losing money at the rate of half a billion dollars a year despite being allowed to raise the first-class rate from 15 cents to 18 cents in March.

The service had first asked the commission to approve a 20-cent rate in April 1980, but the commission responded by allowing only the 3-cent hike.

The commission had voted again in June to disapprove the 20-cent rate, but the Postal Sercice had asked for yet another reconsideration.

The Postal Service board of governors could now vote unilaterally to impose the 20-cent rate. Some observers, indeed, expect such a move, which would be unprecedented and sure to be challenged in court, when the board meets Sept. 22. Any attempt to bypass the independent commission would have to be by a unanimous vote of the bord.

At the June meeting of the Postal Service board, officials noted the annual deficit of about $500 million under the current rate and ordered reduced spending, including greatly curtailed building plans.

The Postal Service said then that it was continuing to lose the battle to break even because of increases in its costs, notably cost-of-living increases to its employees. Labor costs account for 86 percent of the service's total costs.

The 20-cent rate would bring in about $1 billion in additional revenue.

The commission said today that Postal Service financial reporting techniques and the board's decision to put into effect second- and third-class rates lower than the commission's February recommendations "largely account for the appearance of a deficit."

The 3-1 decision was made over the dissent of Commissioner James H. Duffy, who has disagreed with the majority in the other decisions.

Haig Says Sale To Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig suggested to Congress today that if it vetoes the sale of AWACS radar planes to Saudi Arabia "our security, the security of Israel and peace itself" might be endangered.

Haig told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the sale is key to the U. S. strategy in forging defense cooperation with countries from Turkey to Pakistan to deter Soviet threats.

Wages Hiked, Projects Approved By CRMWD

BIG SPRING—Salary and wage adjustments of approximately 12 percent on a weighted average for personnel in 1981 were voted Wednesday by directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

John L. Taylor, chairman of the personnel committee, estimated that this would add about $125,000 to the district's annual payroll. He said his committee felt the raises were necessary because of inflation and to keep rates competitive in the area labor market.

Authorization was granted for construction projects approximating $264,000. These include $195,000 for replacing three bolted 420,000-gallon steel tanks. One of the three tanks put up nearly 30 years ago when the system was first constructed collapsed last month at Morgan Creek station northwest of Big Spring. O. H. Ivie, general manager, said that two others of similar vintage at the Martin County station would necessitate rationing if either went out during the peak summer pumping season. An additional $4,000 was authorized for construction of pump station accumulators. The replacement of a frame structure supporting electric apparatus at Martin County station was approved for $10,000. Another $55,000 was voted for equipment, etc., which ultimately will lead to automation of the Martin County pump station, making virtually all the system automatically controlled from the Big Spring station.

Ivie told the board that the proposed budget for 1982 will not be presented until late October or early November in order to obtain a more accurate estimate on power costs next year.

The water purchase contract with AMOCO, arrived at without operating experience, was adjusted from 420,000 down to 100,000 gallons a day. Another water sales contract is headed for the courts in keeping with previous instructions from the board. R. H. Moore Jr., legal counsel for the district, said a suit will be filed within a week to construe the contract with the SACROC secondary recovery unit in Scurry County. There is disagreement over the contract's requirements for delivery of fresh water to the SACROC unit.

The board endorsed passage of Constitutional Amendment No. 4, the Water Trust Fund, in the Nov. 3 election, and authorized the district to participate financially in efforts to repeal or modify Sec. 404, Public Law 92500 to redefine what constitutes navigable waters. This has been interpreted so broadly that it now includes dryland ponds.

Lee, Wilson and Reynolds, Big Spring CPA firm, was engaged to conduct the annual independent audit of the district's 1981 books. At a three-year premium charge of $2,228, a $3,000,000 liability policy protecting directors in the administration of their duties, was approved.

Sales Tax Rebates Far Ahead Of '80

Snyder's city sales tax rebates continue to run more than 28 percent higher than those of a year ago, which is about twice the average increase for the state, the state comptroller's office has announced.

The latest rebate check, which was issued Sept. 11, was for $42,034. This pushed Snyder's total for the year to $608,159, compared to $474,419 this time last year.

The state as a whole shows an increase of 14.7 percent, while Snyder's gain is 28.19 percent. Snyder also continues to lead area cities in its population bracket in retail sales tax rebates.

The rebates are issued by the state comptroller who collects the one percent city sales tax along with the state's four percent sales tax.

Figures for other area cities on the latest report, with this month's rebate and the total for the year, in order:

Levelland, $36,916 and $484,661; Sweetwater, $35,495 and $434,826; Pecos, $31,309 and $330,980; Monahans, $26,833 and $347,885; Lamesa, $26,630 and $324,063; Brownfield, $26,540 and $304,357; Andrews, $23,741 and $367,827.

Among cities in neighboring counties, Colorado City had $11,404 in the latest rebate and $139,784 for the year; Post got $7,334, making a total of $119,985 for the year, and Rotan got $1,929, making a total of $41,005 for the year. Neither Roscoe nor Roby got a rebate this time, but for the year so far, Roscoe has received a total of $23,913 and Roby $9,702.

Q.—Why can't the JV and other football games be played on the high school field where there is better seating and better lighting?

A.—That many games would ruin the turf on the high school field so that the varsity would have to play its games on the junior high field, says Supt. Bill J. Hood. Actually, that is the reason for maintaining and using two fields—to keep the turf in better shape.

The SDN Column

The Gordon Wood boner on ABC television got considerable attention here almost as soon as it happened. Although we heard in advance that Wood was going to appear on the program, we did not see the program, since our daily work schedule begins at an earlier hour than "Good Morning America." But we had calls about it within a short time after it happened.

Although Snyder teams have faced Wood's Brownwood team only twice that we recall, people around here know that he is far from the violent type in his training procedures.

In fact, we have heard that his workouts are downright "tame" compared to some of the more vigorous coaches. But somehow, his players seem to know what is expected of them when they turn the lights on come Friday night.

Anyway, people even remotely familiar with the Gordon Wood legend would have been skeptical of the film clip which the television network tried to pass off as one of Wood's practice sessions.

And they (ABC) picked a bad time of year for their foul-up. Wood ostensibly was invited to appear on the program to "defend" high school football, which he should be fully capable of doing. It was no accident that the National High School Coaches Association singled out Wood to represent the organization when ABC asked for someone to appear on the program. The association went to its top man, as any Texas high school football fan will tell you.

After the initial impact of the incredible incident began to wear off, what worried us was the fact that such a program had been planned by a major network even if it thought its supporting material was authentic. It worries us that so many seem to be obsessed these days with debunking heroes and legends. Too many appear to be forming a conclusion and then going all out to substantiate it by using any tactics that will serve their purpose, with little or no regard for ethics or fair play.

City officials here were not shocked the other day when the Texas Health Department called attention to the fact that the Snyder water treatment plant performs beyond its rated capacity during some peak demand periods in the summer time. They have discussed the program several times and have it down as a forthcoming project. However, they were somewhat surprised by the timetable of the correspondence from the health department. The letter of notice stated that the deficiency had been noted during an inspection July 8. The letter to the city was dated Sept. 14, more than two months later, yet they wanted a response by Oct. 1, just two weeks away, as if to say, "we'll take our time, but you hurry up."

Schools Short Of Substitutes

For some time, unemployment in Snyder has been virtually nil, and it has been reflected in efforts of busineeses and industries to fill various type of positions.

Now, the shortage has spread to a new front---the pool of substitute teachers for Snyder Public Schools.

School officials have announced that, due to a continued shortage of substitute teachers for the 1981-82 school year, Snyder Public Schools will lower the requirements for substitute teachers.

Requirements for a person to be placed on the substitute teacher list will be a high school diploma and at least 21 years of age.

Heretofore, local schools have required substitute teachers to have at least two years of college work.

The salary for non-degree substitute teachers is $30 per day, while substitute teachers with degrees receive $36 per day.

School officials said every effort woul be made to employ the best qualified persons available to substitute in classrooms.

Persons interested in substitute teaching should call the office of the assistant superintendent, administration-personnel, at 573-5401.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Treasurer Warren G. Harding said Wednesday that interest earning for the state from bank deposits have hit a historical high of more than $1 million a day.

Distribution Could Be Delayed...

Last Hughes' Heirs Claims Accepted

HOUSTON (AP) — A bitter five-year feud to determine the legitimate heirs of billionaire Howard Hughes has ended, but attorneys say distribution of the enormous fortune could be delayed for years by appeals and a spat between two states seeking to tax the estate.

Harris County Probate Judge Pat Gregory approved the last claims to the late tycoon's estate Wednesday when he awarded 9.5 percent of the fortune to two stepchildren of Hughes' paternal uncle Rupert.

The ruling marked an end to five years of litigation on the probate level, but about 500 distant relatives whose estate claims were denied have vowed to appeal and Texas and California also could delay distribution of the wealth — estimated at up to $2 billion when Hughes died — with a fight to determine which state can claim Hughes a resident for tax purposes.

"There are still several appeals and the tax suits. But we're now down to dealing with very specific, narrow issues," said attorney Wayne Fisher, who represents Rupert's two stepchildren. "When you think of what's left compared to the number of claims that have been ruled on, we've just taken one giant step."

Gregory earlier said 17 maternal relatives of Hughes were entitled to share the estate and a six-member jury decided that three paternal first cousins of the late tycoon also were legitimate heirs.

The judge's ruling Wednesday meant that all 22 Hughes relatives who signed a family settlement agreement just months after Hughes' death have been declared heirs to the fortune.

That agreement designates 25 percent of the estate will be donated to charity. The maternal heirs will split 21.5 percent of the remainder, and the five paternal first cousins will divide 28.5 percent.

Attorneys for 400 of the distant relatives whose claims were denied showed up at Wednesday's hearing to challenge the claims of Avis Hughes McIntrye of Montgomery, Ala., and her brother, the late Rush Hughes, but Gregory ruled they had no standing and did not allow them to argue their case.

Gregory ruled that although Rupert never formally adopted Mrs. McIntrye, 81, and her brother, they were entitled to share in his estate because Rupert gave them his name and provided for their care and education.

The judge ordered the series of hearings to determine the maternal and paternal heirs when he declared earlier that Hughes left no valid will or immediate survivors when he died April 5, 1976, aboard an emergency medical flight from Acapulco, Mexico, to Houston.

The maternal heirs were unchallenged in an August hearing, and a six-member jury upheld the claims of Rupert's three granddaughters on Sept. 4.

The next major battle comes later this year in the U.S. Supreme Court when California and Texas will debate which state has the right to collect hefty inheritance taxes. Both states have claimed Hughes as a resident.

Demonstrators Arrested In Diablo Canyon Event

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — Deputies drew their batons sweeping aside demonstrators blockading the Diablo Canyon atomic power plant and arrests topped 800, but protesters said they would persevere until there is no one left to arrest.

Hundreds of demonstrators were gathered in the hills around the plant early today, preparing to lay siege to the plant for a third day, protest organizers said. But their ranks were thinned as many of their colleagues remained in jail and the others were released on the condition that they stay away from the blockade.

The first 200 protesters arrested were to be arraigned today on charges of trespassing and failure to disperse.

More than 1,000 people took part in the protest Wednesday and demonstrators succeeded in delaying 14 busloads of workers at the front gate of the facility for almost five hours Wednesday before being swept aside in a stepped-up show of force by deputies with batons drawn for the first time.

Activists clad in wetsuits penetrated the two-mile-long safety zone set up by the Coast Guard on the plant's coastal side, with six-man motorized rubber rafts leading a Coast Guard cutter on a chase for 10 miles through the Pacific Ocean at speeds up to 30 knots. Swimmers clambered ashore from the rafts and were arrested.

Six people, one a reporter, were arrested on shore after being chased into Avila Beach, a small port about 12 miles from the plant.

Members of the Abalone Alliance, the umbrella group organizing the protest, said they were encouraged by the two-day blockade attempt and would persevere until there was no one left to arrest. The protesters oppose nuclear power in general and claim the plant, halfway between San Francisco and Los Angeles, is unsafe because it lies just three miles from an offshore earthquake fault.

"It's going to continue as long as we can hold out....Every person committed to this blockade is going to be arrested and in jail before this is over," said Larry Goldberg of Humboldt County, Calif.

On Tuesday, 563 protesters were arrested and 244 were booked on Wednesday, according to Lt. Jerry Dooley of the San Luis Obispo County Sheriff's Department.

Robert Thornberry, manager of the $2.3 billion Pacific Gas & Electric facility 12 miles south of San Luis Obispo, said delaying the workers would not affect plans to load uranium and begin low-power testing scheduled to start if a federal license is issued as expected Monday.

"I commend the Abalone Alliance," Thornberry said, saying the group "has been non-violent and there has been no significant destruction of property." He said the only damage was caused by some 200 news reporters who used the roof of a storage building as a vantage point and broke roofing tiles.

Editor Says To Change Color

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — While economists fret over the size of the nation's money supply, the Farmers' Almanac is concerned about the color of the bills.

Departing from its customary role as a champion of tradition, the venerable publication wants to add pizazz to paper money by switching to a different color for each denomination.

"Colored money is happier money. It makes people feel better," almanac editor Ray Geiger said in an interview. "You'll be able to give it out more cheerfully, and, of course, more happily take it in."

Geiger said the United States is the only major country that prints all its bills in a single color. The almanac's 1982 edition, just off the presses, says a change would have practical benefits.

"It offers instant and positive identification of a bill's value to merchants, cashiers, bank tellers and other money handlers," the almanac says.

But a Treasury Department spokeswoman, who did not wish to be identified, said, "People are familiar with it the way it is. Also, people can lose faith if you start changing things around a lot."

The 165-year-old almanac, which has a circulation of just under 6 million copies, is distinct from the 188-year-old Old Farmers Almanac in New Hampshire.

Repairs Are Expensive

PEKING (AP) — China is spending the equivalent of $1.3 million for repairs in Peking's ancient Forbidden City, once the home of China's emperors, the official Xinhua news agency reported.

The areas slatted for renovation include the Duanmen, the first gate inside the city, a court yard behind it, and several buildings inside the complex, Xinhua said Thursday.

at wits end

by erma bombeck

I know a lot of people who are letting television reruns get through to them. Viewers who used to be docile and uncomplaining are now doing strange things.

One man in San Diego turned off Dan Rather saying he'd heard that news last April.

A woman I talked with at the supermarket said she turned her set off to read and still hears Laverne's and Shirley's voices.

And a man in a bar in St. Louis was charged with disorderly conduct when he threw a bottle into a set shouting, "When's the new season going to start? Dallas was in Texas last year!"

Other than singing along with the Mandrell Sisters, laughing before Mork gives the punch line, and beginning to hum Louis Rukeyser's theme song, I don't think the monotony has affected me one way or another.

After dinner the other night, I sat down to watch a rerun of "Barney Miller." My husband said, "Weren't you wearing that dress the last time you watched this segment of 'Barney Miller'?

"I think you're right," I said, "because I remember your saying the same thing the time before when I watched this segment. Come to think of it, you say it every time. And I'm getting sick of it!"

"You wanta talk sick," he said, "we had the same thing for dinner the night we watched this segment...pork chops, macaroni and cheese and applesauce."

"Can you think of something better to go with 'Barney Miller'?

"Why do I get the feeling the phone is going to ring right now and it's going to be your mother telling us to watch the movie on the other channel?"

"Because," I said, "she called us precisely at this time before during this segment and the same movie she likes is being repeated tonight on the other channel. There goes the phone. You want me to get it?"

"You did the last time," he sighed.

When I returned he said, "Did your mother tell you to change the channel?"

"It wasn't mother. It was a storm door salesman."

"Why didn't you tell me?" he demanded.

"The excitement would kill you."

A report from Southwest Regional was given by the State Executive Secretary-Treasurer Virginia Grove and Helen Mock, who attended the meeting in Albuquerque.

The finance committee presented the budget for 1981-82.

Plans were made by Zeta Lambda members to attend Area Conference of Delta Kappa Gamma in Colorado City on October 3.

Haygood Speaks To Stargazer Club

The Stargazers Extension Homemakers Club met September 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the coliseum annex for their regular monthly meeting.

Linda Haygood, Scurry County Extension Agent - Home Economics, presented the program on "Ways to Communicate." Have you ever stopped to think how you communicae with your mate, children, friends, neighbors, teachers, preacher, boss, etc? What is communication and how many ways are there to communicate?

The agent and members played a game using rectangles with words printed on them to see how one person communicated with another and how well the other received the communication.

Roll call was answered with: What I dislike most about sewing. The thought for the day: If you don't enjoy what you have, how could you enjoy more?

The Scurry County Fair was discussed and each member was encouraged to enter at least two items. Also plans were discussed for Christmas in October.

Minutes were read and the treasurer's report and council report were given.

If you are interested in extension work, there are several clubs you may join - either day or night. Our program covers family life, arts and crafts, health, hobbies, cooking, canning, and many other interesting topics. For more information call 573-5423.

Members present were Alta Bavousett, Gertie Wilson and Pauline Withers.

British troops captured Fort Niagara from the Americans in 1813 during the War of 1812. The fort had been built in 1687 by the French at the mouth of the Niagara River. It was captured by the British in 1759 and then turned over to the United States in 1796.

VEAL BREAST

We've given this reasonably priced cut of meat a stuffing whose flavor resembles pate.

¼ cup butter
1-3rd cup finely chopped onion
½ cup finely chopped celery
½ pound chicken livers, center membranes removed and finely knife-chopped
2 cups fresh bread crumbs
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
Salt and pepper to taste
Bone-in veal breast (about 3¼ pounds) with pocket
Paprika

In a 10-inch skillet in the hot butter, gently cook the onion and celery until the onion is wilted; add the liver and cook, stirring, until it loses its red color. Off heat, stir in the crumbs, poultry seasoning and salt and pepper. Stuff into veal pocket; close opening with skewers. Roast in a shallow pan, tightly covered with foil, in a 350-degree oven for 2½ hours. Remove foil, sprinkle with paprika; continue roasting, uncovered, until tender — about ½ hour longer. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Beta Sigma Phi To Hold Western Dance

Fifteen members were present at Beta Sigma Phi's regular meeting September 15 at the Martha Ann Woman's Club. President Wanda Early conducted the meeting and announced that the chapter has been asked to participate in the White Buffalo Days celebration in October. Mona Bryan, Barbara Hamlett, and Carol Kelly were asked to coordinate the sorority's efforts in the endeavor. The possibility of holding a breakfast on Wednesday morning, October 7, on the Snyder square at 7:30 was discussed and a final decision will be made soon.

In other business, final plans for the Western Dance were discussed. The Eva Lynn Band will begin playing at 9 p.m. and will play until midnight. Tickets can be bought at $12.50 per couple from any Beta Sigma Phi member. Twila Polk announced that a couples party will be held in her home on September 26 for chapter members, husbands and guests. Gloria Myers, a member of the MAWC board of directors informed the chapter of the need for a new stove in the kitchen of the clubhouse, and Laura Greene passed around registration slips for the Area Beta Sigma Phi Convention which will be held in Midland October 2, 3, and 4. At the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs. Early thanked the membership committee for the lovely Friendship Luncheon held September 12.

DANCE TICKETS—Laura Greene (right) presents a ticket to the Beta Sigma Phi western dance to Carolyn House. Mrs. Greene is chairman of the event to be held Saturday, September 19, at the National Guard Armory from 9 p.m. until midnight. Tickets are $12.50 per couple. Mrs. House is ways and means chairman of Beta Sigma Phi.

Hostesses Mary Lou Scott and Laura Greene served refreshments before the evening's program. The hostess gift was won by Judy Smith.

Barbara Hamlet, the evening's program leader, spoke on the subject of child-rearing and prefaced her remarks by stating that the job of parenting is the one in which the least preparation is made before the job begins. Most people are not prepared for the responsibilities that come with the birth of a child, an she outlined the two things most crucial in nurturing a child. These things are self-concept and self-esteem. She explained that self-concept is the child's image of himself while self-esteem is how he feels about himself. She recommended two books, Self Esteem: The Key to a Complete Human Being by Harris Clemes and Reynold Bean, and How to Raise a Human Being by Lee Salk and Rita Kramer. She concluded the program by showing a film, "Johnny Lingo," which demonstrated the value of a healthy self-concept and self-esteem.

The next meeting of Beta Sigma Phi will be the Model Meeting on October 6. Hostesses will be the membership committee and Laura Greene will be the program leader.

North's four-diamond bid showed spade support, the ace of diamonds and a maximum or near maximum notrump with slam interest. It also denied the ace of clubs, but South was looking at that card.

In any event South decided that he would go past the game level and bid five clubs. North showed his ace of hearts and South closed the bidding at six spades.

West opened the 10 of trumps and it was up to South to plan the whole play. If everything went well he could draw trumps, run clubs with the suit breaking 3-3, take a heart finesse and make seven. But South wasn't living in a dream world. He decided to play for fairly normal breaks, to reserve all options and therefore he just couldn't afford to start by drawing three rounds of trumps.

South won the first trick with dummy's ace of trumps, played the queen of clubs and a club to his ace.

Then, he could afford another trump lead and played his king. Next came a low club. West had to follow. South ruffed in dummy, played ace and a small diamond to ruff back to his hand, drew the last trump and made his slam in spite of the heart finesse being off and clubs not breaking 3-3.

Note that South had given himself the best chance and had needed to do so.

Aid for a hiatal hernia

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — About a month ago I was informed that I have a hiatal hernia. The doctor didn't tell me anything regarding what I should do or what I should not do. He just said don't stand on your head. So I know just about nothing about what I should do. Could you at least steer me in the right direction? I am overweight but he didn't say anything about that either. I am very confused about what I should do. .

DEAR READER — Perhaps your doctor didn't suggest anything to you because you are not having any symptoms from your hiatal hernia. All of us have a hole in our diaphragm where the esophagus (food tube) passes into the abdomen to join the stomach.

When that hole becomes enlarged a small part of the stomach can slide or herniate intermittently into the chest cavity above the diaphragm. The hole stretches because of increased pressure inside the abdomen. In women this commonly occurs during pregnancy. Gas, fat or even fluid all make matters worse.

The symptoms that many people have are related to leakage of the acid-digestive juices and stomach contents backward into the lower esophagus. That is because the normal closure mechanism isn't working properly. That may or may not happen and some people have such an esophageal reflux without a hiatal hernia.

You'll get a more complete list of the things we recommend patients do if they have a hiatal hernia to prevent these symptoms from The Health Letter number 4-8, Hiatal Hernia, Esophageal Reflux, which I am sending you.

Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Yes, you should lose weight. That will eliminate fat that has accumulated inside your abdominal cavity and contributes to pushing your stomach through the hole in your diaphragm.

You should eat more frequent small meals (but avoid eating more calories). Don't lie down until at least an hour after eating to give your stomach a chance to start emptying. Don't wear anything tight around your middle — girdle or belts.

If you have symptoms you may need to prop your bed up. If you have no symptoms, perhaps just eliminating body fat will be enough for you.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been told that if one drinks a small glass of grapefruit juice after a meal the juice burns up the fats. That way it aids one in dieting. Is this true? Will this procedure cause any harm to the stomach?

DEAR READER — Completely false. There is nothing in any food or beverage you can eat or drink that burns up fat. Forget it. Fat is burned up by the metabolic process of your cells that use your enzymes and coenzymes to break down food. These same enzymes break down fat from body fat cells to release energy. So the bottom line is your body has to use the energy to burn up fat.

Grapefruit and grapefruit juice are good food. They do contain calories. The only advantage at all to using them, and whole grapefruit is better for this, is to consume them before a meal, not afterward, to fill your stomach and curb your appetite. The bulk in whole grapefruit like other sources of bulk may be helpful in that regard. No, neither juice nor the whole fruit will harm your stomach unless you have acid indigestion problems.

Delegation Arrives In Moscow...

Syria Opens Talks With Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — Syrian President Hafez Assad's defense minister opened talks in Moscow today seeking a closer military relationship with the Soviet Union to offset the growing U.S. military relationship with Assad's Israeli and Egyptian foes.

Maj. Gen. Mustafa Tlass, who is first deputy commander of the Syrian armed forces, met with Soviet Defense Minister Dmitri F. Ustinov, the armed forces newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda (Red Star) reported.

Arab sources said a large Syrian delegation arrived from Damascus Wednesday evening. A high-ranking official in the Syrian capital said Assad wanted to "counterbalance" the new Israeli-American "strategic partnership" which President Reagan and Prime Minister Menachem Begin announced after their meeting in Washington last week.

Assad said Wednesday that the United States put itself in "direct confrontation" with Arab nations.

"This agreement-transaction is aimed at consolidating the Israeli aggression, perpetuating Israeli occupation of our land and the continuation of the dispersal of the masses from Israel and from around Israel," he said in a speech in Libya.

Syria has depended on the Soviet Union for arms and technical advisers for years, and Assad signed a treaty of friendship and cooperation with President Leonid I. Brezhnev last October.

The treaty provided for cooperation to meet any threat to the peace or security of either nation and "development of cooperation in the military field." However, it does not commit the Soviet Union to send fighting forces to Syria, and it was believed unlikely that Assad could obtain such a commitment.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union kept up a war of words with Assad's chief Arab adversary, President Anwar Sadat of Egypt. A TV commentator said Sadat's charge that the Soviet Union fomented Moslem-Christian strife in Cairo to undermine the Egyptian president was a "groundless, laughable" attempt to shift the Egyptian public's attention from the Camp David treaty with Israel.

The commentary Wednesday was Moscow's first response to the Egyptian leader's expulsion order the day before to seven Soviet diplomats, including the ambassador, two Soviet journalists and an estimated 1,500 Soviet technical advisers.

Asserting that Sadat's real target was the "Islamic opposition," the commentator said the Egyptian president "has decided to transfer the pressure and wave of protests into a river of anti-Sovietism."

Sadat also closed the Soviet military liaison office in Cairo and the Egyptian counterpart in Moscow. Egypt's acting military attache, Lt. Col. Abdel Hamid Khalifa, said he and the nine members of his staff probably would leave today or Friday.

However, Sadat did not break diplomatic relations between the two countries, and each will keep a small diplomatic staff in the other's capital. The Egyptian Embassy in Moscow is headed by a charge d'affaires, the ambassador having never arrived following his appointment three years ago.

Credentials Are Accepted

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — The government has accepted the credentials of Brazilian-born Langhorne Anthony Motley as the new U.S. ambassador to Brazil, replacing outgoing envoy Robert Sayre.

The 43-year-old diplomat submitted his credentials Thursday.

Motley, a 10-year U.S. Air Force veteran, was born of American parents in Rio de Janeiro. President Joao Figueiredo recently stripped Motley of his Brazilian citizenship, which would have prevented him from serving as the U.S. ambassador here. The government described the move as a formality, since Motley had been raised as a U.S. citizen.

Investigation About To End

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The state Agriculture Department expects to wrap up its investigation of a Grayson County grain elevator bribery and theft scheme this week.

A former owner of the Gunter Farm and Ranch Center elevator, about 40 miles north of Dallas, is accused of selling the same truckload of wheat to the Saginaw farmers' cooperative more than once, costing the group as much as $250,000.

The former owner, Larry Leon Richardson, is free on bond on a charge of felony theft, Gunter police said.

Richardson is accused of bribing Olin Calvin Olson, a cooperative employee from Fort Worth, to rate inferior wheat shipments as superior.

Olson, 38, earlier this month pleaded guilty to felony theft. His probation for an unrelated burglary was revoked when he was arrested, and he has been sentenced to 10 years in prison.

The grain elevator's license probably will be revoked, said Bill Quicksall, head of the Agriculture Department's consumer services division.

"We're going to close it out," he said. "It will no longer be operated under that name."

Prosecutor Larry Moore said the Tarrant County district attorney's office will take the case to a grand jury for possible indictments against employees of the grain elevator and of the cooperative, FAR-MAR-CO.

Reagan's Plan MayBeFamiliar

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's decision to trim $13 billion from planned increases in military spending may have sounded familiar. It was proposed by the Democratic majority on the House Budget Committee last spring.

Faced with such a suggestion, Reagan said the money was "required to restore America's national security."

Now, though, the president is asking the House and the Senate to cut just that amount.

The president's chief spokesman, David R. Gergen, announced $13 billion would be cut from anticipated military spending increases over three years. The 1982 share was $2 billion, about 2 percent.

That, Reagan said, "is all that could be asked" of the Pentagon, which he said has been treated like "the poor relative."

The administration is scrambling to present a balanced budget.

Cuts will have to come from elsewhere.

There is talk about cutting the nutritional requirements of school lunches: four ounces of milk, instead of six, calling ketchup a vegetable and jelly a fruit.

The Reagan White House, abuzz since the president returned from his California vacation, offers a variety of images now that it has come back to life.

It tries to look tough cutting the budget. "Meatax," said Nevada Republican Paul Laxalt, Reagan's best friend in the Senate, as he was asked if the cuts will be made.

The wholesale slashing Reagan could accomplish with a sharpened implement would send a signal to Wall Street, most jittery about the president's resolve to reduce budget deficits.

But word that the president would not touch entitlement programs, which account for 56 percent of federal spending through Social Security, food stamps, unemployment and other social assistance programs, sends another signal — to jittery low- and middle-income constituents.

As budget-cutting fever swirled around the White House and Capitol Hill earlier this week, it became more and more difficult to determine just what programs Reagan would touch as he clung to his target of a 1982 budget deficit of $42.5 billion.

Within an hour or so on Monday, the official word about cutting entitlement programs — those for which spending is mandated by law — shifted 180 degrees. A day later, the original opposition to such cuts was restated, and in force, and the shift seemed to have been made for the sake of appearance.

Deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said Reagan had agreed to look into the entitlement cuts after his advisers met with Senate Republicans seeking such cuts.

It turns out Reagan, according to aides, had no interest in proposing such cuts in 1982. Rather, he did not want to be an impolite host. The senators were coming to visit in the morning and he did not want to appear to be turning a deaf ear to them before they presented their case.

Dedication Is Really Confab

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is turning the dedication of the Gerald R. Ford presidential museum into a three-way international conference on such issues as troublesome Canadian energy policies and Mexican support for leftist rebels in El Salvador.

Reagan planned to meet today with Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau after his arrival in Grand Rapids, Mich. Reagan was scheduled to follow that meeting with a conference with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo.

The three leaders, along with former French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing and Japanese Foreign Minister Sunao Sunoda, are gathering in Ford's hometown for the dedication Friday morning of the Ford museum.

White House aides took pains to play down the international aspects of the trip and to stress instead the amicable, ceremonial nature, despite the political strains that once marked Reagan's relations with Ford.

"It is important to remember the occasion of the visit to Grand Rapids is the opening of the museum," said one official. "The intention here is not to hold summit meetings of any type."

But the gathering offers an opportunity to deal, in a less-than-formal atmosphere, with a variety of topics in the U.S.-Canadian and U.S.-Mexican relationship.

The U.S. official, who asked not to be identified, said traditionally close U.S. ties with Canada were facing "very difficult, some would say intractable, problems."

"Our interest is in making progress," he said. "It just doesn't come as rapidly as some would like."

The official said that in addition to the Canadian energy policy, likely issues included Canadian concern over air pollution that originates in the United States and is carried north to Canada and the U.S.-Canadian pipeline being built to carry natural gas from Alaska to the lower 48 states.

Of Continental Shareholders...

TIA Asks Court To Force Meeting

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas International Airlines has asked a federal judge to order Continental Airlines to hold a special shareholders' meeting so TIA can add six members to its board of directors.

Texas International gained majority control of Continental last week.

The Houston-based airlinee asked a Nevada U.S. District Court judge Tuesday to enforce the airline's rights as majority holder by ordering Continental to call the meeting for Oct. 19 for a vote on increasing the number of directors from 13 to 19, which TIA hopes to fill with its candidates.

Spokesman John Carlson of Texas International said in a statement the court documents emphasized that "in seeking some representation on Continental's board of directors as of Oct. 19, Texas International is taking its first available opportunity to exercise the property rights it acquired almost seven months ago.

"Continental should not be permitted to further delay the exercise of these property rights," he added, "by failing to perform its clear legal duty to call the requested stockholder meeting."

Texas International, a unit of Texas Air Corp., first called for the special meeting when it lifted its Continental stake to more than 50 percent last week. The control came after months of opposition by Continental, whose employees also tried to block TIA's bid with an ill-fated bid to buy a controlling interest themselves.

Despite substantial holdings of Continental's stock for several months, Carlson noted that TIA was unable to pursue adding its candidates to Continental's board because of the time involved in gaining federal regulatory approval for its bid to control Continental.

Continental spokesman John Clayton said the airline "at this point has not scheduled" a special meeting. He said Continental had not seen the court filing in Nevada and therefore would not comment on it until it could study it.

The Civil Aeronautics Board earlier approved TIA's proposal to buy up to 67 percent of Continental. The CAB also ruled any shareholder meeting forced by TIA to exercise control over Continental cannot be held until President Reagan acts on the CAB approval of TIA's takeover bid.

Dear Abby

Mother Spoiling for Fight With 'Devoted' Grandma

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of an adorable 2-year-old I'll call "Karla." Ever since her birth, the relationship between my mother-in-law and me has deteriorated until I can barely tolerate her.

"Gamma" bought Karla's entire layette, furnished her room, and has clothed her from diapers to christening dress to snowsuits and swimsuits. Before I can save the money to buy something special for Karla, it is purchased, gift-wrapped and delivered! If I resist, I get the old "What are grandmothers for?" Every weekend Gamma calls and asks if she can baby-sit. When I let her come, she changes Karla's clothes every two hours, combs her hair a different way, and when Gamma leaves she is in near tears because she will miss "her" baby.

When Gamma is around, whatever Karla wants, Karla gets. Naturally, Karla loves having Gamma around.

All this makes me feel so inadequate and unneeded. When I complain to my husband, he refuses to "take sides." Next year he will graduate from college. (His mother is paying for his education, too.) He will have a degree, enabling him to relocate anywhere he wants to go. Do I have the right to give him an ultimatum — either we move at least 10 hours away from his mother, or I take Karla and move without him?

He is blind to the way his mother manipulates us. She has bought her way into our lives and I am sick of it! Please help me.

SMOTHERED IN MAINE

DEAR SMOTHERED: Don't issue any ultimatums unless you are prepared to leave your husband. Some firm ground rules must be established concerning the limits of what Gamma may and may not do, but you can't do it alone. This is a family affair that will require professional family counseling. Please get it. All of you! Your marriage depends on it.

DEAR ABBY: I am 12 years old. My grandfather died before I was born and my grandmother lived alone for 13 years. She got married again four years ago. Here is my problem. What shall I call her husband? Should I call him "Grandpa," or should I call him "Harold," which is his name?

I haven't been calling him anything so far because I'm not sure what to call him.

NOT SURE IN GEORGIA

DEAR NOT: Ask your grandmother's husband what he wants you to call him. Or ask your grandmother what she thinks he'd like to be called.

DEAR ABBY: Is there any help for a mother who shampoos and cuts her 30-year-old son's hair, and asks her women friends, all in their 50s, to take turns sitting on his patio so his neighbors will think there are "women" in his life?

This son of hers has never had a date in his life. She takes him on bus trips with her Farm Women's groups. He has no social life at all with people his age because his mother is always lining him up to chauffeur elderly, wealthy couples on trips to nearby points of interest.

He teaches school and is obedient to his mother, who keeps reminding him that she won't be around forever. Yes, he has a father, but he is spineless.

This young man is my nephew, a gentle, pleasant soul who is totally victimized by his neurotic mother. I have never interfered and do not intend to. I am just interested in knowing your thoughts.

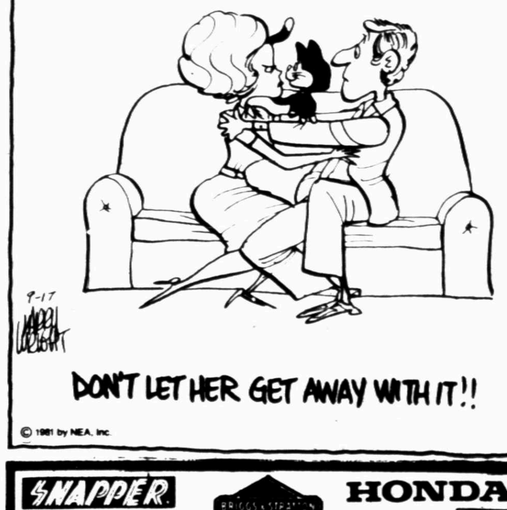

PUZZLED IN VERMONT

DEAR PUZZLED: My thoughts: The mother appears to be loving, well-intentioned, though somewhat overprotective. The son appears to be obedient and content with his life. And as long as they're happy, the only puzzle I see is why you want my thoughts.

Snyder To Try And Brake Powerful Andrews Friday

ANDREWS -- A pessimist would look at the task facing Snyder Fightin' Tigers here Friday and immediately begin to frown.

George Byerly is not a pessimist.

"We're both 0-0 as far as the second season goes and there's not any doubt in my mind we can win the district championship," said the Tigers' head coach. "We're not out of it until the district record says we're out of it, are we?"

But wouldn't it be better if Snyder could play someone else besides Andrews for its first district game of the 1981 season?

"Well," he grinned. "You can look down at the end of our schedule and there are some teams there you might rather play at a different time, too. Andrews has got a good team, but we've got to play them by our schedule. I think it (the schedule) treats everybody equally.

"The only thing I want to be able to say is that we whipped them or they whipped us. I don't want us to defeat ourselves," said the first-year coach, who has watched his Tigers come oh-so close but wind up empty-handed in two ballgames this year. "They're supposed to beat us. But that doesn't mean they're going to."

Snyder coaches are cautious about discussing their game plan for the contest, but impress that good execution both offensively and defensively is the key.

"We've got to play good technique," said Coach David Creswell. "We've got as good a personnel on the line as we could want. We've just got to get after folks and execute well. Our previous game conditions (wet fields) haven't helped us much, but we're working hard. The kids are working at it."

Andrews comes into the game leading the district in offensive yardage gained with a 432.5 average, and in points with a total of 73. Much of the offensive production is keyed around 6-1, 190-pound quarterback Keith Brooks, who has rushed for 348 yards and scored 44 points. Snyder coaches also respect Brook's passing, which has accounted for 75 yards and one touchdown.

"I think you've got to be able to stop Brooks, but Andrews has a lot of other things that can hurt you," said Byerly, who also pointed out tight end Jeff Ashabranner, wideback Darrell Ray, and halfback Brent Petross as standouts for the Mustangs.

But whether it's Brooks with the ball or Petross, Andrews' number one asset is speed.

"It's their strength, team quickness and speed, and that's our weakness," noted Byerly. "So we've got to have more people there (at the ball) than they do. It's going to be difficult to stop them and very hard to completely shut them out. The best thing we can do is to keep the ball out of their hands.

"I think we can move the ball against them. We've got to. We need to have some long drives like we did against Big Spring. Only we've got to score at the end of them."

There are a couple of changes to the Snyder defensive lineup this week. Brent Roemisch, out with a severly sprained wrist last Friday, will return as strong safety. Glen Parham will move to strong corner.

Offensively, Matt Davis (sprained ankle) will suit up, but is not listed as a starter this week - though he will probably see action. Barry Davis, who had been sidelined with reacurring headaches, had been released by doctors and will also suit up for the game.

Byerly also indicated that David Nicholson would be the listed starter at quarterback, but it is expected Brent Beck will also see some playing time.

Kickoff is 8 p.m. Tickets are $4 for adults and $2 for students at the gate.

Tigers In Upset, 20-17

By BILL McCLELLAN

Ahemmm. I'm sure everyone noticed that I picked the exact (EXACT) score of the Fort Stockton-Alpine game, 21-12.

Last week was 15 right, 5 wrong for .750. Season is 29 of 40 for .725. Here we go again.

Snyder 20, Andrews 18 -- Believe it today, you'll know it Friday night. The underestimated Tigers will blitz Andrews early and hang on to win.

Fort Stockton 14, Lake View 13 -- Fort Stockton leads early. Lake View almost comes back - but not quite.

Monahans 28, Lamesa 13 -- The Toradoes don't have upset power, whatever that is.

Pecos 21, Ector 14 -- Ector may not be as bad as everyone thought they would.

Ira 32, Loop 14 -- Ira makes up for last week's loss.

Hermleigh 28, Blackwell 22 -- Dawson or Wellman, Blackwell is not.

Wellman 37, Borden County 18 -- Can something be done about the Coyotes' schedule next year?

SMU 35, Grambling 20 -- Grambling will score points, but SMU is the offensive king in this one.

Arkansas 27, Northwestern 10 -- The young Razorbacks begin to pick up some steam.

Missouri 30, Rice 14 -- The only question is, will Missouri take the Owls for real?

Baylor 38, Louisiana Tech 7 -- No double upsets for the Bears.

New Mexico 27, Texas Tech 24 -- Just a hunch. I've already been told I'm wrong, so don't bother.

Texas 31, NTSU 17 -- Closer than expected because Texas knows SMU had no trouble with North Texas a week ago.

Texas A&M 14, Boston College 7 -- But don't bet on A&M - ever!

UTA 21, TCU 17 -- The Frogs are a better team than this but it won't show up until down the road.

Miami 22, Houston 21 -- A game to watch.

Michigan 24, Notre Dame 21 -- Being upset last week and playing in Ann Arbor this week is enough to make Michigan chew walls. The No. 1 team falls again this week.

Georgia 37, Clemson 14 -- Clemson is capable, but Georgia doesn't believe it.

THE PROS -- Pick the Oilers by 4 over Miami; the Colts by 3 over Denver; the Lions by 7 over injury-riddled Minnesota; and the Redskins by 5 over the Cardinals.

Harris Picks Andrews

Andrews, Fort Stockton, Monahans and Pecos are the favored teams according to the Harris Rating System this week as District 2-AAAA begins its race for the conference football crown.

Andrews, rated fourth in the state with 162 points, is a 15-point pick over No. 61 Snyder, while No. 21 Monahans is a 35-point nod over Lamesa, rated 138.

Pecos, No. 42, is only a single-point pick to get past No. 78 Odessa Ector, and No. 25 Fort Stockton is a 6-point favorite over No. 37 Lake View.

The only upset last week was Lake View's 32-0 over Stamford, which the poll had forecast as a 4-point favorite. All of the other decisions were accurate as to winner, though the point-spreads differed greatly in some cases.

Snyder Teams Try Mustangs Tonight

Snyder High School duels Andrews in football and volleyball action tonight, both at home and on the road.

The lone varsity match on tap is a District 2-AAAA battle between the conference leading Tigers and the Andrews Mustangs, to be played at 7:30 p.m. in Andrews. The varsity tilt will be preceded by a freshman match at 5 p.m. and a junior varsity match at 6:30 - all at Andrews.

Also at Andrews tonight will be a grid game between Snyder and Andrews freshmen. Game time is 5:30.

Here at Snyder, the local junior varsity plays a host role as the Mustangs invade Travis Field at 7 o'clock.

Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students at all the games.

Sugar Ray Stops Hearns

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Fighting half-blind and trailing on all three judges' cards, Sugar Ray Leonard reached into his reservoir of boxing know-how for the knockout of Thomas Hearns that made him the undisputed welterweight champion of the world.

"I brought this up from the bottom of my heart," said Leonard after Wednesday night's 14th-round victory. "There were many people around the world who didn't want me to win, who wanted me to lose. I had to do this for Ray Leonard."

Leonard's left eye had been damaged in his training camp when a sparring partner's elbow bruised it. Hearns knew about the injury and beat a steady tatoo on Leonard's eye, swelling it closed.

Hearns, who had been rocked early by Leonard and was rolling on the ropes in the sixth round, seemed to get his second wind around the 10th. When he heard the fans in the capacity crowd of 24,382 who packed the temporary stadium outside Caesars Palace chanting his name, he responded with a brilliant rally that seemed to turn the fight around.

Not only was Hearns throwing bombs, but plenty of them were landing. The fight, which seemed to be going his way, was suddenly moving away from Leonard. Hearns, almost out of the war earlier, was back in business and launching rockets.

"I definitely knew I was ahead," Hearns said.

The judges agreed. Going into the 13th round all three had Hearns in front. It was 116-112 on Judge Duane Ford's card. Judge Chuck Minker had it 117-111 and Judge Lou Tabat had it 117-112.

In Round 13, Leonard turned into a tiger. He tore into Hearns, bullying his opponent into the ropes. Twice, Hearns was driven through the strands. The first time, Referee Davey Pearl ruled no knockdown. The second time, however, there was no question about it. Hearns had hit the ring apron for the mandatory eight count. When the bell rang, Hearns was rocky and Leonard in charge once more.

Once again in the 14th he tore after Hearns, blasting away with haymakers. Hearns, still groggy from the going-over he had absorbed in the 13th, rolled on the ropes again. Leonard swarmed in after him, much like a lion stalking a wounded prey. At 1:45 of the round, Referee Pearl stepped in and stopped the bout. Leonard had won the only way he could - by a knockout.

The victory gave Leonard the World Boxing Association welterweight crown to go with his World Boxing Council title. He also owns the WBA junior middleweight title.

It was the first loss in 33 professional bouts for Hearns, a clear disappointment in this showdown he had sought for so long.

In the 1978 Texas Open, Ron Streck played the final two rounds in 63 and 62, the best two closing rounds in PGA history.

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

Some Economists Disagree...

Urge Return To Nat'l Gold Standard

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mainstream analysts may sputter or laugh, but a small and increasingly influential group of conservative economists is pressing for a return to a national gold standard.

It's the best way, they say, to stop inflation's erosion of the dollar.

Heavy gold coins wearing out your pants pockets? A bag of yellow dust to pay your mortgage? Don't snort too soon. Some of these economists are the folks who brought you President Reagan's big three-year tax-rate cut — another idea once widely scorned.

With the Reagan economic plan ready to go into effect Oct. 1, some of the president's most ardent "supply-side" supporters are now arguing that a gold-based monetary system is absolutely essential to bring down the inflation and high interest rates that are stifling the economy.

The new U.S. Gold Commission, which meets Friday, contains enough skeptics to ensure that its final report will be no full-scale recommendation for the gold standard. But it could conceivably go part way. And the "gold bugs" are assured of getting more public attention.

Their theory has it that U.S. economic problems are largely due to the Federal Reserve Board's inability or unwillingness to control the supply of currency and credit, or to investors' unwillingness to believe that the Federal Reserve and the administration will keep trying to do the same, no matter what.

When the money supply grows too quickly — with money printed to finance the burgeoning national debt, for example — inflation must result, they contend.

So take the reins out of the Fed's hands, they say. Set a specific dollar price for an ounce of gold and agree to redeem anyone's dollars for a specific amount of the shiny metal. And require the government to keep enough gold to support the paper dollars and coins in circulation.

That way, they say, the money supply could not expand any quicker than the supply of gold — which has grown at an annual rate of about 2 percent over the years.

The plan is simple, although the commission will discuss quite a few variations, including how direct the link should be and whether a paper dollar could be supported by less than a dollar's worth of gold.

A number of economists say the gold bugs may have a point. But it's a point accompanied by a lot of problems.

A few of the pitfalls, as spelled out by critics:

—A direct gold standard can fight inflation but can also hamper recovery from a recession when it might be necessary to boost the money supply to ignite investment. It was during the Depression that the United States, for all practical purposes, went off gold.

—A big portion of the world's current mining of gold is in South Africa and the Soviet Union. Either nation could cause considerable mischief to the U.S. economy by suddenly halting gold sales or by using it to buy up dollars.

—America's balance-of-payments deficit in oil last year was just over $79 billion. What if the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries decided to demand gold in payment?

Other, more technical, problems concern set pricing of gold — too high a price would fuel inflation, too low a price would depress business. The world market price, currently about $460 an ounce, would not necessarily be a controlling factor.

Backers of a new gold standard say the technical problems can be solved by fine-tuning and that foreign powers simply wouldn't have the clout some people fear.

And they say people wouldn't really carry gold coins to buy cheeseburgers for lunch and bus rides home. More likely, few people would want to bother with gold if they knew their dollars were strongly supported.

The commission is supposed to have its recommendations in by next month, but it will probably ask for and receive an extension.

The 17-member group appears to be dominated by gold foes, including three Federal Reserve governors whose now-critical money supply duties would be greatly diminished by a new and direct link between gold and the dollar.

And meetings may well continue to be directed by Treasury Undersecretary Beryl Sprinkel, standing in for Treasury Secretary Donald Regan. Sprinkel has had few kind words for the idea of returning to a gold standard.

On the other hand, nonmember David Stockman, the president's influential budget director, has supported the general idea of a "monetary standard." And other outside supporters include economist Arthur Laffer and Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., the prime architect and a main popularizer of the "supply-side" idea that tax cuts can pay for themselves by encouraging investment, an idea Reagan embraces.

A big question is where the president comes down on this new issue. He's said a lot of vaguely supportive things, such as when he was asked recently about one enthusiast's prediction that a return to the gold standard could lower interest rates from the 17-20 percent range to 3 percent.

"I'm old enough to remember when they were (at 3 percent) and we were on a gold standard," he answered.

But he has also said he will wait for the commission's recommendations before making up his mind.

Conditions Not Good In Chinese POW Facilities

PEKING (AP) — Liu Qing huddled in his tiny cell, rigid with cold, his 35-year-old body shriveled and covered with bruises. He closed his eyes against the glaring lights and tried to shut out the ravings of other inmates in solitary confinement.

One thing, he said, kept him from madness: "I want the people to know the truth."

In the West, Liu would be known as a political prisoner. In China, he is called a counter-revolutionary.

With the help of friends, he was able to smuggle an account of his experiences out of a labor reform camp. The Associated Press obtained a copy of it.

The 200-page manuscript, titled "A Dispirited Recollection and Observations — I lodge my complaint before the court of society," provides a rare glimpse into the shadowy world of Chinese prisons and labor camps for dissidents.

It is a report of abusive interrogators who proclaim the law doesn't matter, of torture and of back-breaking labor.

Liu says he wants the story told because "I am just a weak person. I have no way to bring my voice to society and get support and sympathy."

"Within this judicial system there is no way to discuss things reasonably," he writes. "I want the people to know the truth. Thus social forces will be mobilized to stop unlawful acts."

Liu, a mechanic by trade, says he was not imprisoned because he was editor of the mildly critical, unofficial magazine "April 5th Forum," nor for committing a violent crime. His offense was publishing a transcript of a public trial. For that he was sentenced to three years in prison — called a labor reform camp — without a trial and without being officially charged.

Liu in October 1979 arranged the tape recording of the "public" trial of dissident Wei Jingsheng, attended by a hand-picked audience, and then sold transcripts of the tapes.

Several friends selling the transcripts at Peking's now-defunct Democracy Wall were arrested Nov. 11. Liu went to the Public Security Bureau to demand their release. He was arrested and questioned for hours about who made the tapes and why.

Center Has 10th Anniversary

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 10th anniversay of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts was marked with a new production of composer Leonard Bernstein's "Mass," which opened the center a decade ago.

Bernstein received a lengthy ovation Saturday night after the new production opened and said later its theme of peace is as relevant today as it was in 1971.

He said the work for 250 singers, players and dancers was written at a time of national turmoil over the Vietnam War. "I was afraid it would be dated, but it's not," Bernstein said.

"Mass" is being performed 22 times during the anniversary celebration and will be broadcast live next Saturday to more than 200 public television stations across the country.

Bangladesh has the highest population density of any country in the world with 521 persons per square mile, according to the United Nations Demographic Yearbook.

Search For Rabid Fox

A fox the sheriff's department believes was "very possibly rabid," was seen at the Chevron office on Lamesa Hwy hitting against a glass door and attempting to chew on it. The sheriff's department has asked that anyone seeing a sick fox notify them.

"People out there might want to protect their animals," Buzz Woolsey, deputy, cautioned.

Charges Filed

Felony charges of driving while intoxicated have been filed against Frank Martinez in District Court here. Martinez had a previous conviction of DWI.

Man Held In Child's Death

AUSTIN—A 32-year-old man is being held here in lieu of $50,000 bond on a charge of injury to a child. Officers said Rickey Wayne Jones is a suspect in a possible child abuse case in the death of 22-month-old Melodie Clayton who died Tuesday in Brackenridge Hospital.

Austin police said the child was brought to the hospital Aug. 27 for treatment of a head injury and bruises.

Graveside funeral services were set for 2 p. m. today at the Snyder Cemetery. She is survived by her father, Tommy Clayton of Snyder; her mother, Teresa Clayton of Austin; her paternal grandmother, Edna Clayton of Snyder; and her maternal grandmother, Edna Gillham of Snyder.

Cat Buried With Honors

GEORGETOWN, Texas (AP) — A cat called "Sgt. Ralph," who was a police mascot and wore a miniature police badge around his neck, has succumbed to feline leukemia.

"He just wandered in one day and volunteered on his own," said Police Chief Travis Thomas. "His first assignment was to clean the rats out of City Hall, and he patrolled the downtown area at night and took care of all the tomcats."

Sgt. Ralph was buried in front of the police station. "We drilled a hole through the sidewalk and put him in," said Thomas.

He added that police made up a memorial plaque, which will be installed on the sidewalk or on the wall of the station.

The plaque says: "Sgt. Ralph, Famous Police Cat, Dedicated Service 1976-81. Rest In Peace."

Deputy Clerk Pruitt Hurt

Deputy District Clerk Elois Pruitt was admitted to Cogdell Memorial Hospital for observation this morning after suffering a fall at the courthouse.

Witnesses said Mrs. Pruitt was standing on a stool getting a file from a cabinet when the cabinet started to fall forward and Ms. Pruitt jumped back and fell, hitting her head on the floor.

She was taken by Scurry County EMS to the hospital where x-rays did not indicate any broken bones, it was reported. The incident occurred shortly before 9 a.m.

Leonardo da Vinci kept his notes secret by writing them backwards and reading them in a mirror.

Diet Center's New Vitamin & Mineral Formula

Diet Center has searched a long time for a nutritional supplement formula that would best fit the physiological needs of its people. The formula that is now offered as a nutritional insurance VITAMIN & MINERAL FORMULA is based on the recommendation of Dr. Roger J. Williams, one of the leading authorities on nutrition in the world. He is quoted "Nutritional insurance cannot be perfect, but if it is to be used, it should be as comprehensive as is feasible."

The VITAMIN & MINERAL FORMULA supplies continual nutrition, leaving out no contingencies for those who need vitamin & mineral insurance.

VITAMIN & MINERAL FORMULA

"Especially formulated with vitamins & minerals to be used on a daily basis by those who need nutritional insurance."

Diet Center's VITAMIN & MINERAL FORMULA is the very finest on the market today. Our laboratories use only the highest quality control methods with the latest pharmaceutical equipment offered today. Every counselor can and should be proud to offer Diet Center's latest addition to our fine line of products.

WHY A MULTI VITAMIN & MINERAL TABLET?

In introducing a complete formula of vitamins and minerals, it is important to realize that the product is an essential food substance that we all require. It is not possible to sustain life without these certain accessory food factors.

Vitamins are organic substances which the body requires for its metabolism and cannot make for itself. It is the metabolic activity of each living cell in our body which requires continuous nourishment. Each of us needs vitamins for life, growth, strength and energy, just as they need one another to carry out their never ending functions.

Certain minerals or essential inorganic elements are necessary for biological functions and without them, life does not exist at a healthy level. By the same token, the ranges of most minerals, which can be tolerated and still maintain a balance in the body, are relatively enormous. The body maintains a marvelous mechanism for maintaining homeostasis (a condition of balance) of most of its mineral composition. These mechanisms are located in the intestinal tract and in the kidney.

The small intestine absorbs, rejects and excretes in its juices. The kidney both excretes excess vitamin & minerals in the blood and retains when blood contents are low. As an example, if we swallow more sodium than the body needs, the large intestine absorbs less; and the kidney excretes the excess in the blood.

Unfortunately, the body has a relatively poor mechanism for maintaining vitamins or organic substances. Many of the vitamins are water soluble, meaning that excess amounts taken above our immediate needs are generally excreted in the urine. Others are fat soluble and are stored in the body.

In evaluating the need for proper nourishment and supplemental nutrition, it is important to consider

(1) the nutritional daily diet consumed,

(2) the digestion of the food intake and

(3) the absorption of each of the nutritional factors. The biochemical activity of digestion varies substantially among individuals.

Persons of the same physical structure may vary substantially in their chemical processes, as each individual has a distinctive food environment of his own.

Hinshaw Has Tips On Care Of Lawns During Winter Season

For years, people have been going to Hershel Hinshaw for advice on how to best keep their lawns and gardens. And Hershel is happy to give that advice individually on a one-to-one basis. However, since there are certain times of the year that are much more suited to chemical applications than others, Hershel presents these tips on winterizers and herbicides.

The early fall is the time to apply winterizer to your lawn. Ferti-lome Winterizer helps to build vigorous root systems during the winter on all types of lawn grass. A sack covers up to 5,000 sq. ft. The winterizer aids in increasing winter hardiness in grasses. It may also be used on trees, shrubs, ornamentals and evergreens.

There are three times a year to prevent certain weeds from germinating by putting down a pre-emergence herbacide.

1. In the early fall: This application would prevent about 34 different kinds of weeds from germinating including winter rye.
2. About January First to February: This application should prevent early spring weeds that will begin to germinate in February and March. (such as dandelions, careless weeds, plaintain, clover, foxtail, henbit, etc.)
3. About March 15th: This is the time to use a pre-emergence herbicide to prevent late germinating weeds such as crabgrass, grassburrs, Johnson grass seed, etc. (These late germinating weeds begin germinating when the ground begins to warm up.)

Hershel reminds you that the effectiveness of a pre-emergence herbicide is about 60 days, and that they should be used only on Bermuda grass and St. Augustine.

Whatever your lawn and gardening needs are, Hershel Hinshaw can help you. Drop by 2804 College for a visit - you'll be glad you did.
