Open $1,200 Fund Drive to Finance County Free Fair

A fund drive for $1,200 to finance the Fourth annual Collingsworth County Free Fair was announced Tuesday, August 1, by Dr. Chas. B. Jones fair superintendent. The drive will get under way within the next few days.

Heading the fund campaign is Ben Hurst, who has announced chairmen for the various sections and workers who will assist them. An organization meeting will be held at the Chamber of Commerce building within a few days to work out campaign plans. Committee members will be notified of the date.

Richard Bailey is in charge of raising funds for the east side of the square, eighth and ninth streets, and the highway from Lucky Corner to King Kourts. Working with him will be John Holton and Henry Sullivan.

L. B. Bratten, chairman, and George Shadid will work the west side of the square; Fred Saied, chairman, and Billy Hatch, the north side; Mr. Hurst and Morris Sullivan the south side.

"We are going to contact everyone of the more than 150 business firms and offices in the county," Hurst declared. The bulk of the money collected will go directly for premiums in the agricultural and horticultural division, and in the youth project show division. The latter includes the livestock division and the sections for girls.

Dr. Jones said he expects several sections of the fair to be the best in its four-year history.

"I've never seen the outlooks for crops better, and we should have agricultural products, melons and fruits that are as good as any in the state.

Dr. Jones also urged clubs and organizations who plan to have floats in the Parade to begin preparing them.

"The Fair is only a month away," he reminded.

Airpark Pool Re-opened to Public

The Wellington swimming pool was reopened Saturday, July 29, after being cleaned and treated, and it is considered safe, Dr. Carter Holcomb, county health officer, announced.

The pool was closed earlier in the week after one of the life guards became ill with infectious hepatitis. The measure was purely one of precaution.

In addition to the pool, the area around it and the dressing rooms were treated.

"We want to thank the city and the people of the area for their co-operation," Dr. Holcomb said.

There have been no new cases of hepatitis and contrary to rumor, there has not been an epidemic, the health officer continued.

Rotary to Welcome District Governor

The Rotary Club of Wellington on Tuesday, August 8, will be host to L. E. Patterson, governor of the 573d district of Rotary International, who is making his annual official visit to each of the forty-three Rotary Clubs in northwest Texas. He will address the local club and confer with President Fred Saied, Secretary Billy Joe Throgmorton, and committee chairmen on Rotary administration and service activities.

Mr. Patterson is an independent petroleum geologist in Midland and is a member and past president of the Midland Rotary Club. He is president of the Morrison-Smith Lumber Company of Graham, Texas, and is a director of Cicero Smith Lumber Company. He was elected as a district governor of Rotary International for 1961-62 at Rotary's 52nd annual convention in Tokyo, Japan, last May. He is one of 269 district governors supervising the activities of more than 11,000 Rotary clubs which have a membership of 509,000 business and professional executives in 123 countries throughout the world.

Wherever Rotary clubs are located, President Saied asserted in discussing the governor's visit, their activities are similar to those of the Rotary Club of Wellington because they are based on the same general objectives — developing better understanding and fellowship among business and professional men, promoting community - betterment undertakings, raising the standards of business and professions, and fostering the advancement of understanding, good will and peace among all the peoples of the world.

Each year, this world-wide service organization continues to grow in numbers and in strength, President Saied added. During the past fiscal year, more than 300 new Rotary clubs were organized in 43 countries and four geographical regions were added to Rotary's membership roster: Gabon, Nigeria, Reunion and Somalia.

Visits Tuesday

Aberdeen, Texas, a Name to Lure Scottish Woman

Collingsworth's ghost town of Aberdeen Tuesday had a visitor from its mother city of Aberdeen, Scotland, Miss Jane McAllan, who in her travels will have visited most of the Aberdeens of the world.

She is probably the first Aberdonian to seek out the community here since titled Scotsmen of 70 years ago crossed mile after mile of grassland with dreams of a vast cattle empire.

Miss McAllan is living in Dallas at the present. Here her official host was the chamber of commerce, and she was the houseguest of Mrs. Temple Slay, whose parents came from Aberdeenshire. Joining her as hostesses were Mrs. Verrell Beeper, who formerly lived in Edinburg, and Mrs. Jim Light, who was born at Aberdeen and lived there until only a few years ago. Miss McAllan, a gracious woman with dry Scotch wit, and a quick smile, was guest speaker at the Rotary Club Luncheon.

Everywhere she has to answer the question, "How did you become interested in visiting all the Aberdeens?"

She explains that following her visit to the first Aberdeen, in South Africa, she wrote an article for the Aberdeen (Scotland) Evening Express, and followed with other items when she visited Aberdeen, South Dakota, and Aberdeen Saskatchiwan. In Winnipeg, papers with her articles reached her, and in a complimentary piece, one phrase of the columnist amazed her: "And Miss McAllan has told me that she intends to visit all the Aberdeens of the New World!"

"You have heard of Freedom of the Press, but this was being very free," she remarked. Nevertheless, it provided a motive for her visits.

She outlined these briefly for Rotarians.

"Aberdeen, South Africa, is a town of a little less than 5,000 in the sheep district of the Great Karoo, part of the African veldt," she explains. There she was welcomed by Mayor Wilke, who like most mayors on occasion appear in parades. But he rides not a horse, or even an elephant as might be expected, but an African lion.

"I'm glad there was no parade while I was there," she added.

The idea of visiting Aberdeens dropped as she reached Canada, until she was half across the continent, in Winnipeg. A radio broadcast of the Aberdeen, South Dakota ball team called for a visit. The granite quarries nearby reminded her of her own Aberdeen, known around the world as "the granite city".

Aberdeen, near Saskatchiwan, proved to be a little town of 300 population.

She ate Christmas dinner at Aberdeen, Washington, in 1959. This is the setting for part of Nevel Schutes novel, "On the Beach."

Aberdeen, British Columbia, near Vancouver, she found to be two gas stations, one operated by a Chinese and the other by an Indian.

"Aberdeen, Montana, has a population that is nil. It is a roalroad loading point for cattle — Aberdeen Angus of course — that are shipped to the east," Miss McAllan remarked.

In Idaho, she found Aberdeen to be a potato shipping plant, and in California it was a filling station and trailer park.

In the deep South, there is Aberdeen, Mississippi.

"I saw my first cotton compress and there I ate my first black-eyed peas and my first southern cat fish," she said, "and now I'm here, for Aber-

Coach Wayne Martin, left, had four boys placed on the Pony League all-star team when that group went into area playoff recently. With Martin, from left, were Wayne Barton, Mike Wolf, Mickey Carter and Roger Weems. Other members of the all-stars came from Memphis and the three teams in Childress. Playing in Pampa, they lost both games to an all-star team composed of Borger and Pampa players.

Labor Snafu

From time to time we are under the impression that in the federal government operations one hand fails to see what the other hand is doing, but in a release received from the secretary of labor it appears the one hand does not know what it is doing.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said the great numbers of unemployed and out-of-school youth in city slums are "potentially the most dengerous social condition in America today." All this is in one breath, while at the same time they just recently sent out a memorandum that it is unlawful to hire any youth under 16, and if they are under 18 they aren't even allowed to oil a piece of equipment.

Picture hiring a sixteen-year-old boy to sit around and watch somebody work at the minimum wage of $1.00 per hour.

Yours truly, along with practically every other publisher in the business, started learning the trade at 10 years of age. We may be no shining examples but at least we were not considered juvenile delinquents during working hours.

I will always remember the story about my uncle who hated to hand-set type. Grandfather had a steadfast rule that each youngster in the family had to set a certain number of lines before they were permitted to take off for the swimming hole. Uncle usel to sneak off without turning in his day's quota so granddad solved the problem by tying him to the type case until the work was completed.

In looking back at the story we wonder what the labor department would have done to grandfather. Uncle turned out to be quite a respected citizen.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

Pope John XXIII says industry ought to take less profit and pay working people more money.

My capitalicious neighbor says his preacher recommends the same thing, and he thought the government telling him how to run his business was already giving him enough trouble.

Says he has had a 90-10 per cent partnership with the Lord for years, but one week business was bad and when he tried to take 10 per cent of his loss out of the plate that Sunday, the preacher made him put it back.

Maybe you have been noticing how the Supreme Court lately makes some of its most people-chousing decrees by a 5 to 4 vote.

My economical neighbor says why should we pay wages to nine justice-jousters when one swing-man is actually making most of the decisions?

Says, though, we could get our money's worth out of the whole crew by calling for unanimous verdicts to settle big national squabbles, same as it takes to put away a chicken thief.

Some are recommending that the new foreign aid program ought to put out "loans and grants without strings which humiliate or impair the freedom" of the helped.

My sensitive bum neighbor says this type of stringless generosity ought to be extended to domestic career debtors, too, so as to spare our feelings.

Says it would even be better for the stores that sell to him on credit, on account of when they tie him down with promises to pay, they may sort of think he might, which makes them suckers instead of philanthropists.

I note that government has got the food stamp plan working in a few places, and there is talk of after a while getting around to the undernurished in other localities.

My table-broke neighbor says these latter folks will just have to postpone their hunger, though, until the grocery bureau can get around to them.

Says as our national spending bee warms up, more taxbeat folks will be needing gimme groceries, and he hopes Uncle can bring himself to turn loose of same faster than he yields up refunds when he has over-grabbed on a man's taxes.

Reproachful neighbor who I guess got overlooked in the passing out of names, writes me that it takes a special breed to be all the time fault finding with the government.

But if it's ever decided to extinct this breed, we will be easy to cut out of the herd, on account of being pretty noisy and starchy.

Like the young man, Jack Kennedy, who did not wholeheatedly approve of the Eisenhower government, and never tried to keep it a secret that he was the party who said so.

My vocal yokel neighbor says most of our trouble with foreign peoples is that we are not talking about the same thing when using the same words.

Like our high-minded world fixers think about "land reform" as a plan to help poor people get some land of their own, but most foreigners think of it as a program to shoot all landowners.

And we think of "revolution" as working toward a new social order, whereas in many other countries this term means shooting anybody who has got something you want.

Walker Todd

Former Ag Teacher Gets High Award

AUSTIN — (Spl.) Walker P. Todd, Vocational Agriculture Teacher at Quanah High School since 1947, will receive the Distinguished Service Award of the Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association of Texas in Austin, August 9, according to Wilbert H. Meischen of Raymondville, President of the organization. Todd will receive the honor for his twenty-five years of service to Vocational Agriculture.

The award will be presented at an Awards Breakfast sponsored by the Association. The breakfast is a past of the state-wide conference of Vocational Agriculture Teachers, designed primarily to allow teachers to explore new trends in agriculture and participate in workshops. Education features of the four-day meeting will be under the direction of George Hurt, Director of Agricultural Education, Texas Education Agency. He will be assisted by J. A. Marshall, E. C. Weekley, E. L. Tiner and ten Area Supervisors, including J. B. Payne of Stephenville.

Todd taught school eleven years prior to qualifying to teach vocational agriculture at A & M College in 1936. He received the M. E. Degree at A & M College in 1943 and had previous work at Texas Tech, West Texas State and the University of Texas. During his extensive experience in the public schools of the state, Todd has taught at Thalia, Crowell, Seagraves and Wellington High Schools.

Todd is active in the professional organizations, serving seven years as a director of the Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association and served as Vice-President of the organization. He has the distinction of assisting with the organization of the Association. Todd has served the Association as a district membership chairman for several years and was recipient of the Association's Newspaper Award in 1960. He is an active member of the Texas State Teachers Association.

Under the supervision of Todd, fifty-nine young men received the Lone State Farmer Degree, seven have gone on to receive the nation's highest FFA honor, the American Farm Degree. Three of these young men were Area Star Farmers, one a Star Farmer of Texas and three have served as State FFA officers, and one a national officer. Judging and leadership teams have consistently won high honors in district, area and state competition. For this outstanding leadership, the Texas Association of FFA conferred its highest degree on Todd in 1940, and the national organization conferred the Honorary American Farmer Degree in 1959.

Todd is an active member of the Methodist Church, serving as a Stewart and Sunday School Teacher. A long-time Rotarian, holding the twenty year perfect attendance record and a past president of two Rotary Clubs. He is an active Mason and member of the Quanah Chamber of Commerce.

Approximately 1100 vocational agriculture teachers and friends are expected at the Austin conference.

New Social Security Laws Aid Widows

The new social security law means increased benefits to widows beginning with the checks received in early September, according to Hal Geldon Manager of the Amarillo District Office.

"There's nothing that they need do except wait for a check with the increase on it. For widows already receiving monthly insurance benefits, the increase is automatic," Geldon continued. "Our payment centers are already figuring the increase with the aid of electronic machines."

This increase will be received only by widows and widowers of retirement age. Younger widows, who get survivors benefits because they have young or disabled children in their care, receive a Mother's Benefit. The new law does not change the portion payable to that group. But it's a 10 per cent increase to those widows who are 62 years or older, Geldon said.

Morris Heads Area School

Paul J. Morris of Darrouzett, coach at Samnorwood a number of years ago, has been elected superintendent of the Mobeetie Schools.

He also formerly was superintendent and coach at Forreston near Dallas four years and Chandler, near Tyler, three. He was a high school principal and head basketball and B team football coach at Waxahachie.

Morris coached boys basketball 17 years, with 6 district championships and fourth place in the state meet of 1950. In 16 years, his girls teams have won five district championships.

Indiana Ceremony Unites Miss Sisk and Larry Kinnett on July 22nd

Miss Phyllis Jean Sisk, formerly of Wellington, became the bride of Larry Kinnett at one o'clock Saturday afternoon July 22, at First Methodist Church in Mooresville, Indiana.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Helen Sue Sisk of Camby, Indiana, and Robert Lee Sisk Sr., of Monrovia, Indiana. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Singley and Mrs. A. G. Sisk, and since leaving here she has returned a number of times to visit in their homes. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Kinnett, 3029 South Lyons Street, Indianapolis, Indiana.

The Rev. Floyd Cook, pastor of North Methodist Church, Indianapolis, performed the double ring ceremony.

Palms banked the altar, before which the vows were recited, and pink and white snapdragons and bells of Ireland in gold urns alternated with seven branched gold candelabras at each side.

Wedding music was by Mrs. Leland Jessup, organist, and A2/c Robert Lee Sisk Jr., brother of the bride, who was the vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white pane satin, of her own design. The bodice was made with a scoop neckline edged in scallops and cap sleeves. The skirt was designed with a full overskirt graduated from waltz length at the front to floor length in back. Her three-tiered waist length veil was held by a headpiece of mock orange blossoms, and she carried a cascade bouquet of baby orchids.

Miss Margaret Rose Sisk was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a dress of pink nylon organdy over white jacquard taffeta, made with a scoop neckline, baloon sleeves and full ballerina length skirt. Her shoulder-length half veil was of pink net held in place by a circlet of pink rosebuds. She carried a nosegay of pink rosebuds.

Winford Presley, Jr., of Indianapolis was the best man and ushers were Melvyn Dwane Lohn of Avon, Indiana.

Lighting the candles were John Sisk, the bride's brother and David Kinnett, nephew of the bridegroom. Karen Elaine Kritsch, of Indianapolis, niece of the bridegroom, was the flower girl.

The reception was held in the church parlor. Members of the wedding party were Miss Eileen Stewart and Miss Margaret Rose Sisk of Camby, and Mrs. John E. McHoffer of Mooresville.

As the couple left on their wedding trip to the Smokey Mountains, the bride wore a sheath dress of ivory imported Japanese silk. Her accessories were pink and white and her corsage was an orchid.

Upon returning the couple will live on Route 1, Camby, Indiana.

A 1961 graduate of Mooresville High School, the bride was a member of the Girls Glee Club, Chorus and band, and a staff member of the Campus Chrier. She also attended school in Pusan, Korea and Wellington.

NEWS LETTER from Congressman WALTER ROGERS

BUREAUCRACY BLOCKED

One attempt of bureaucracy to gain more power over the American people was effectively blocked on July 20th. A plan to reorganize the National Labor Relations Board was defeated by a vote of 231 yeas to 179 nays. This was a signal victory in several respects. First, it was a victory against the trend toward centralized government. Secondly, it was a victory against the use of executive powers to indirectly amend statutes. Third, it was a victory against the repeated attempts to vest judicial powers in Civil Service employees. It could also be documented as a victory over procedural complexities and complications which sometimes effectively confuse, whether so designed or not.

In order to vote against the proposed plan, it was necessary for the Member to vote yea. Here is the way it works. Under the Reorganization Act of 1949, the President submits to the Congress a reoganization plan setting forth the organization which he proposes. This plan is received by the Congress. If the Congress does not disapprove the plan within sixty days, it becomes effective. In other words, Reorganization Plan No. 5 of 1961, proposing to reorganize the National Labor Relations Board, would have become effective sixty days after May 24, 1961. So, you can see, we had a very narrow escape. The Resolution before the Congress is a Resolution to disapprove the plan submitted by the President. Hence, if you are against the plan, you are for the motion and if you are for the plan, you are against the motion. In other words, in order to vote no, I had to vote yes. Perhaps this complicated procedure will be of some help in answering the age-old questions of when is black white, or why are blackberries red when they are green.

This all results from the fact that the procedures under the Reorganization Act having to do with this type of plan actually reverse the lawmaking processes laid down in the Constitution. That is, it permits the Executive Branch of the government to write the law and gives Congress the limited power of veto. Under the Constitution, it was intended that the laws be written by the Congress with the veto power vested in the President.

This is a brief resume of the procedural complications involved. These, however, are minor as compared to the complications and complexities with which the rights, priviledges, powers, and immunities of the individual were ensnarled and entwined in the substance of Reorganization Plan No. 5. There has been a long, continuous, and strong effort by the boards and bureaus to gain more power. One Member of Congress summed this up by saying that a general never had a big enough army, a preacher never had a big enough congregation, and a bureaucrat never had enough power. This particular reorganization plan was advertised by its proponents as designed for the purpose of streamlining the procedural difficulties and getting quick results for parties having business before the NLRB, and they were sincere in their efforts. But, we must not lose sight of the fact that matters before the NLRB, like matters before other regulatory agencies, involve many more issues than the need for a quick decision. A man who might be hung is not too interested in a quick decision, especially one that could short-cut him out of some of his rights.

In my opinion, the basic strength of this government lies in the separation of powers as provided in the Constitution. That is, the three branches of the government — Legislative, Executive, and Judicial — each intended to be a safeguard against the others. It has been encroachments by one branch of the government into the powers of another which has caused many of our present-day problems. I have specifically in mind a number of actions by the Supreme Court in recent years. If Congress permits the Executive Branch of the government to follow such a practice, there would soon be no need for a Legislative Branch.

Reorganization Plan No. 5 appeared on its face to provide ample review of all proceedings. However, a close examination of the proposal, together with existing law, painted an entirely different picture. Had this proposal been adopted, it would have been possible for a Civil Service employee (not appointed by the President, not confirmed by the Senate, enjoying all of the benefits, rights, and protections in the Civil Service Act—including job protection — not answerable nor responsible to anyone other than the Board under which he was serving) to render a decision (involving the rights and privileges of a great number of people, involving millions of dollars, and affecting the lives of countless individuals) that would not be reviewed by the Board created to make these determinations, and a decision which the courts would be powerless to overturn. This seems to be a rather all-encompassing statement but it is, nevertheless, true.

The vesting of powers should always be weighed on the scales of what can be done by its improper use, rather than what might be done by its proper use.

Upturn in Texas Deaths

Texas deaths during 1960 showed the most substantial increase in 25 years according to provisional estimates compiled by the State Health Department's records and statistics section.

Deaths for 1960 were 7% above the 1959 figures with comparative death rates of 821.2 per 100,000 population for 1960; and 782.9 deaths per 100,000 for 1959.

Over two-thirds of the increase in Texas deaths occurred during the first three months of 1960. This was during the peak period of last year's influenza outbreak.

Health department statisticians point out that during the first three months last year, there were significant increases in the number of deaths from influenza, pneumonia, and heart diseases over the corresponding period during the previous year.

Because of the rapidly increasing number of elders in the State population, Texas authorities were not alarmed at the sharp rise in Texas deaths reflecting the overall trend for the entire United States during 1960, including the startling increases experienced during the early months.

Skip Breakfast, Gain Weight

It's a false idea that skipping breakfast is a good way to reduce. If anything, this highly injurious practice adds pounds. It works like this:

Skip breakfast and by noon you have lost your appetite or else are afraid to eat for fear of being groggy all afternoon. Then for supper you eat the food your body has been demanding all day. Now you go to bed and your supper is converted into fat rather than energy as would have been the case, had you eaten properly during the hours of greatest activity.

Nacogdoches a Battleground

You could write a book about the battles that were fought for Nacogdoches. Also one about the armies and expeditions that captured this East Texas town.

Two expeditions bent on freeing this land from the Spanish were those of Magee-Gutierrez and Dr. James Long. Both were ill-fated excursions.

As a reminder of this stormy history, one of the oldest of the many historic homes still in Nacogdoches today is that of Adolphys Sterne, the Alcalde of the city when it was under Spanish rule.

Sam Houston once lived in this same house.

ON-JOB TRAINING

A civil service examinee passed his test as workhouse guard in Cincinnati, Ohio. His name was scratched later when officials discovered he was serving time in the workhouse —30 days for theft.

In 1960 there were only 13 days on which 15 or more persons died in Texas traffic, as compared with 23 such days in 1959.

Wellington Guardsmen Near End of Training

NORTH FORT HOOD — Nearing the end of their annual two summer training weeks, members of the Wellington National Guard unit will start closing up this camp for another year Friday.

They are due to arrive in Dumas Sunday. Except for a few men who will start home in the truck convoy Friday, the company will start their homeward journey Saturday night by bus.

Under the command of Capt. Willard R. Harral, Company D of the 1st Battle Group, 142nd Infantry, returned from the field Thursday after spending four days in the field training area. The company combines units from both Wellington and Shamrock.

During the second week of training, the Wellington "T Patchers" spent most of their time on the firing range. They fired the 30 Cal. Machine Gun, 3.5 Rocket Launcher, 105 MM Recoiless Rifle, 81 MM Mortar and other small arms. The men also took part in tactical problems during their field training this week.

"Our men have accomplished a great deal during our training period this summer and have taken full advantage of the opportunities offered on the ranges here to sharpen their soldiering abilities," Capt. Harral commented. "The men scored exceptionally well on the Army Training Tests they took the first week we were here."

The Wellington citizen-soldiers will spend the last two days in camp cleaning personal and company equipment and securing the main post here for another year.

"These last few days are really the hardest on the men," Capt. Harral added. "After spending four days in the field this week and four the week before, our equipment is in need of much cleaning. The men, however, are eager to get home and really pitch in and get the work done."

Green Card on Cotton is Meaningful

The little green card on a bale of cotton has special meaning to both cotton farmers and buyers. The reason—it can mean money in their pockets.

For the green card tells the farmer the grade and staple length of his cotton. At the same time, the buyer is sure of what he is getting, since he knows that the cotton inside the bale is the same quality stated on the card.

Green cards are symbolic of cotton graded under the Smith-Doxey Act. A sample, which must be taken from each side of the bale, is examined for grade and staple length. This information is placed on a card and returned to the grower.

The Smith-Doxey Act provides free classification and market news information for members of cotton improvement associations, whose primary purpose is the improvement of cotton.

Up-to-the-minute market news information is collected from cotton exchanges, merchants and producers and such organizations as the Spot Price Quotations Committee.

Applications for these services must be on file by August 1, according to Mr. Charles E. Cox, in charge of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's cotton marketing service at Altus, Oklahoma.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson returned home last of the week from a weeks vacation to Cheyenne, Wyoming, where they attended the Frontier's Day rodeo. Also there the same week were Mr. and Mrs. Chester Fires who also attended the rodeo. Both going and returning from Wyoming Mr. and Mrs. Anderson spent the night at Muleshoe Lodge in Colorado and visited Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Harwell.

Farm Bureau Contest

County Queens Go up in District and State

When Collingsworth county's Farm Bureau Queen is crowned August 19, she will be the eighth beauty to reign in the 9 years the contest has been sponsored here.

And she'll have quite a record to live up to. So far, Collingsworth has had one state winner, a state runner-up, two state contestants, three girls who won second in the district and one who was third. There has never been a girl from Collingsworth Farm Bureau who ranked lower than that.

Plans for the 1961 event were made Saturday, July 29, in a meeting of committee women.

Here are the former Collingsworth County Farm Bureau Queens:

1953 — the first Queen was Fayteen Peeples, who became the Texas Farm Bureau Queen and received an expense paid trip to the National Farm Bureau convention in Chicago. She did modeling in Dallas and also was an airline hostess before her marriage to A. R. Holman. They have a small daughter, who already is modeling, and an infant son.

1954 — Mary Jane Johnson is now Mrs. Robert K. Simons. She has two sons, Kyle, four and Rob, two. Mary Jane however, was a student in Texas Tech at the time and did not compete in the district event. She was replaced by Wanda Phipps, who placed second on that level. She is married to Raymond Daugherty and lives in Amarillo. She has a small son.

1955 and 1956 — Sherri Graham is the only girl tc have won the Collingsworth County Queen title twice. Now Mrs. Jerry Spencer, she lives in New York City. She was second in the district contest the first year and third the second year she competed.

1957 — Vada Bell won the district contest and participated in the state event. She is married to Farris Wood and has a small daughter. They live in Wellington.

1958 — Elouise Bowen is now Mrs. Lanny Lewis and also lives in Wellington. She is a secretary in the Mill Iron Ranch office here.

1959—Kaye Peeples not only won the county and district contests, but she was runner up in the state event. Kaye is a cousin of the county's first Queen, Fayteen Peeples. She is now Mrs. James Braziel of Quanah and has a small daughter.

1960 — Betty Moseley of Quail is the reisgning Farm Bureau Queen. Betty also won the district event and participated in the state contest. She will be a senior in Quail high school this year.

Proof-of-age Required for First Graders

Most school districts require proof-of-age for children beginning school. The most convenient proof for most parents is a copy of the child's birth certificate.

Such copies are avaailable from local registrars, county clerks, or from the Texas State Department of Health's Records and Statistics Section.

Certified birth certificate copies may be obtained by sending one dollar ($1.00) to the Texas State Department of Health at 410 East Fifth Street in Austin.

Along with the dollar, the child's name, place and date of birth, and the parents' names should be included to speed the record search.

Thousands of birth certificates requests are processed each week in the Austin facility. However, during the late summer months the load increases substantially because of the many extra requests from parents with children beginning school.

The work load has been extra heavy this summer because of the pending raise in birth certificate copy rates from $1.00 to $1.50 effective September 1, 1961. Many Texans are trying to beat the deadline.

For this reason authorities recommend that parents make their requests early enough to insure delivery in time for school. Ordinarily, about a week is required including mailing time.

So mother should take a hint, and get those certificate requests mailed off early, in addition to the million-and-one other details she must attend to before school starts.

Nearly 300,000 children will be entering Texas schools for the first time this year.

Rev. Michael Preaches Sun.

Area Combine Crews Home From Harvest

During the last two or three weeks a large percent of the combine crews have come in from harvest. Most reports indicate that the wheat was not as good in northern Nebraska and South Dakota this year due to drouth conditions.

One of the first to come in was Melvin Seale who only took his combine as far as Dumas. Going with him were his son, Douglas Seale, Burl Lowe, J. C. Saunders and Glen Thomas.

Coming in last Thursday were Hezze Jones and his crew. He took two combines as far as Sidney, Neb. Boys going with him were Jerry Rainey, Phillip Simmons, Johnny Cummings and Loyd Hooper.

Ernest Maxwell took two combines as far as Sidney, Neb., also. His two sons went from here with him and they picked up other boys as they went north. They made it back to Wellington last Friday.

L. B. McNeil was another who came in Friday. He had two combines and went on into Colorado before turning back. His crew was made up of two of his sons, Dennis and Kenneth McNeil, James Fields and Ronnie Crownover.

The C. O. Caisons came in Monday night of this week. They had 6 combines and went as far north as Kimball, Neb. Boys going with them from here were Wayne Pippins and Lonnie Joe Whitten. They all attended the rodeo at Cheyenne, Wyoming, last week before starting home. As a reward for a good summers work Caison took the whole crew to Lugert Lake Tuesday for a little rest and relaxing.

Gene Martin came in about three weeks ago as his son, Boone Martin who was with him, had to be back in time to go to National Guard camp. They went on into Kansas, however, before coming back.

Rex Peeples came in over the week end from Alliance, Neb. He was with his brother Ray Peeples who went from Alliance on to South Dakota, but is expected home this week end.

Hardy Wright and his son, Lynn Wright, made it home last Friday. They had three combines and went as far as Pierre, South Dakota. Going from here with them were Donald Sessions, Eugene Brown, Jerry Williams, Buford Wheeler, Julius and Tommy Haralson.

Cecil Elbert got in Sunday night. His son, Jerry Elbert, has been with him and they went to Winner, South Dakota.

D. C. Lacy and his crew also came in Friday. They took six combines and cut as far as Pierre, S. D. Going with him were his two sons, Don and Denzil Lacy, Leo Russel, Kenneth Sweatt, Herman Childress, Charles Nevels, and Richard Carter.

Charles Cason Jr. has been home about a week. He had several combines and went to Flagpole, Neb. Names of his crew members are not available.

Elvis Crawley has been home about two weeks. He turned back at Selden, Kansas as he had several boys with him who had to attend National Guard camp. He took two combines this year and the boys going with him were Bobby Winton, Bruce Crosby, Roland Roberts and Freddie Watkins.

Herman Belew got home Friday with his four combines. He went as far as Kadoka, S. D. Boys going from here were Don Lockhart, Bill Smith and Rey Herrera.

Other Wellington combine crews who have not yet returned home are Ernest Nipper, Johnny Crawford, Arthur Belew and Olin Cook.

the time of her death, she was living at Coon Memorial Home, Dalhart.

Mrs. Elliott was born September 19, 1878, in Kansas. She had been a member of the Primitive Baptist Church since early in life and her membership was in the church here.

New Teachers

don Gatewood who taught at Marella, Ring and Salt Fork in the 1920's and early 1930's, leaving in 1933 to become superintendent at Lela. R. N. Gatewood was born here.

He has a bachelor's degree from West Texas State College, Canyon, and master's degree from Southwest Texas State College, San Marcos. He has had 7 years teaching experience, the last four at Pecos. He resigned at the end of the past school term to teach in a private school, but now feels he prefers the public school system. He also has taught at Colorado Springs.

He is married and has two daughters, one 7 and the other five. The family will move to Samnorwood Friday.

"We are pleased to add Mr. Gatewood to our faculty," Supt. Cunningham said. He pointed out that the high school faculty now includes two math majors, and two science majors, and every teacher is teaching in his field.

Some Penalties Out

Car Insurance Goes Up August First

Collingsworth county's car owners can look for an approximate 15 per cent increase in insurance rates, as of August 1, according to local insurance men.

This hike was ordered by the Texas Insurance Board and is effective on a state-wide basis. The percentage is much higher in some areas than here.

Comprehensive, collision and liability rates will all be increased, and the chief reason is largely due to miscalculations made when the rate structure was changed January 1, 1960. At that time it was estimated around 50 per cent of the state's drives would come in for an increase rather than a reduction. Actually, a much larger number of drivers were eligible for the lowest possible rate under the Safe Driving Insurance Plan, under which penalties were assessed for traffic violations and reductions were given those who qualified as "safe drivers".

Statistics prove this program brought a loss in premium revenue for agents and companies of approximately $28 million. With the present rate increase it is estimated the deficit will be erased and about $30,000,000 picked up annually.

But there are advantages in the new change. So far, minor traffic violations such as running stop signs have previously caused penalties, but this will no longer be the case.

Other minor infractions along this line to be dropped include accidents involving legally parked cars, an unattended auto, rear end collisions, collisions involving animals or fowls, and others.

More serious items are retained, such as DWI, reckless driving, failure to stop and render aid, negligent homicide or any other offense punishable as a felony under the motor vehicle law of the state.

Two Attend Fire Course

Police Chief Troy Marsh, who is also Fire Marshall and Arletus Needham, newly elected member of the Wellington Volunteer Fire Department, returned late last week from Texas A & M where they attended the short course held for firemen and fire marshals.

Needham took a course in basic fire fighting and Marsh took the course on arson investigation and human relations.

Attendance at these courses can mean a reduction of 4 per cent off the key rate on the city's fire insurance rate.

This firemen's course which is held each year is recognized as one of the best of its kind. Eleven hundred and fifty men were registered this year, coming from as far away as Saudia Arabia.

Aberdeen

deen, Texas."

Her own city, Aberdeen, Scotland, has a history that becomes dim in legend. Its recorded history goes back 800 years when it was first chartered by King David I of Scotland.

Miss McAllan explained the meaning of the name: "The prefix, Aber, in Anglo Saxon means "at the mouth of', and the city lies between the Dee and Don Rivers. The names were fused, and the town became Aberdeen."

It is a town of granite quarries and ship building. Many of Britian's fishing trawlers are built here. With a population of 138,500, it is a manufacturing center.

She plans to visit Aberdeen, Maryland, Aberdeen, Ohio, and Aberdeen, North Carolina, before she returns home.

In her home city, Miss McAllan was a cost accountant for a lumber and box manufacturer. She has worked in most of the cities where she has remained for a period of months.

In Montreal, she was a saleswoman and cashier; in Toronto, a payroll clerk in a Greek restaurant.

"Near there, I was assistant cook at a Pentacostal summer camp but that wasn't very successful," she laughs.

She reached Winnipeg at 10:45 one evening for three months visit, and at 10:45 next morning she was sitting at a desk, working while regular employees were on vacation.

In Vancouver she worked for the Canadian government and in San Diego she sold shoes.

At Dallas, Miss McAllan is a house mother at Baylor School of Nursing. Her next stop will be in Florida, and she plans to return to Scotland in 1963.

In Wellington, N. M. Higdon, on behalf of the Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce, presented her with a history of the Rocking Chaire Ranch, for which Aberdeen was the headquarters, and much informal history of the Ranch was given her by Mrs. Light, who knows of the earlier days of its history from her parents.

Rev. Hickey to SW Seminary

The Rev. Glenn Hickey is leaving Monday, August 7 for two weeks in Fort Worth, where he will work toward the completion of the thesis for his doctor of theology degree at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

The title of his thesis is "A Study of Escatology in the Gospel of John", and is a study of such things as death, the resurrection and final judgment as revealed in that gospel.

Rev. Hickey will be away from his church one Sunday, September 13, and for both services that day, Gary West will preach.

Rev. Kirk Jr. YAW Speaker

The Rev. R. L. Kirk Jr. of Gruver will be the principal speaker for Youth Activities Week at First Methodist Church, August 13 through 18, Bobby Sanford announced this week.

This event, first of its kind held here, is for all youth of all churches in the county, and for Methodist churches in the sub-district.

"It will include fun, fellowship and worship," Sanford said.

Services will be each evening at 7:30 p. m., and the theme for the week is "Dare We Be Christians?" The Rev. Mr. Kirk will give a different approach to this theme each night.

Final plans will be announced next week, Sanford said.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Crone of Sherman visited last week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Eron Forbis. They were on their way home after a vacation trip to the western states.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Posey were in Oklahoma City during the week end visiting with their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Posey and Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Long.

Old "Cigarette Band" Hoax Pops up Again

The old "cigarette band hoax" is popping up with renewed vigor around the country; as always, trapping many well-meaning people (often large employee or fraternal groups) into amassing piles of useless cellophane scrap from cigarette packs in the belief that it will somehow help a blind person get a seeing eye dog. It won't and never has, says the American Foundation for the Blind.

Further, any blind person qualified to use a guide dog can obtain one free if he lacks funds.

Blind Psychologist Holds Three Jobs

Dr. Herbert Greenberg, New Brunswick, N.J., social psychologist, holds two other jobs as an instructor at college, according to the American Foundation for the Blind.

Dr. Greenberg recently made news by stating that the sighted too often treat blind people with the same kind of undesirable prejudice that is sometimes practiced against other minority groups.

Teasels Set by Blind Worker

William Dwyer is one of the world's few teasel setters. He works at a felt company in Rensselaer, N.Y.

Teasels are small, rough cones that are attached to big drums to rough up cloth and prepare it for printing machines.

Dwyer, who is blind, checks daily on 10,000 of these teasels, which are set on two big drums, with his fingertips, according to the American Foundation for the Blind.

Hints on Protein Supplement Given

College Station—Feeds which supply low cost protein and low cost energy are matters of real concern to beef producers. Grain is considered the cheapest energy source, and protein supplements should be chosen on the basis of their protein content and cost. U. D. Thompson, extension animal husbandman, says that anyone considering the purchase of a supplemental protein feed for beef cattle should note the price per 100 pounds, the percentage of crude protein supplied by the oil seed protein meals, percentage of equivalent protein from non-protein nitrogen, and the crude fat and fibre content. The higher fiber content feeds should be cheaper than others.

Determine cost of crude protein on a per pound basis, says Thompson. Divide price per cwt. by per cent protein: as cottonseed meal 41% @ $3.50 per cwt.; then $3.50 divided by 41 is $.085 per pound. Urea 262% equivalent protein @ $5.50 per cwt.; $5.50 divided by 262 equals $.021 per pound.

Other factors should also be considered when choosing a supplement. Mixtures containing ingredients which limit consumption have the advantage of saving labor and distributing herd consumption more evenly. Mixtures of salt and cottonseed meal have had extensive use for this type of feeding, but Thompson warns that water must be readily available when excessive amount of salt are consumed.

The amount and quality of roughness fed may also influence selection of a supplement. More feed is needed where forage is limited, thus a feed supplement which includes both protein meal and grain may be more useful than a straight protein supplement. The possibility of vitamin deficiency also has a bearing on the choice of feed supplements.

No one has yet found a supplement that fills all needs and is economical to all beef producers. Thompson says that individual feeders must decide what supplement to feed in their particular operation. He concludes by suggesting a conference with the county agent before deciding on any one feed supplement.

For Safety

B&PW in National Awards Program

Business and Professional Women's Club, of Wellington has submitted its project for consideration in the 1961 Carol Lane Awards for Traffic Safety.

The Carol Lane Awards is a national program honoring the contribution of individual women and women's clubs to traffic safety in the community or state. It is administered by the National Safety Council through a grant of Shell Oil Company, and is named for Shell's women's travel director.

Judging for the Carol Lane awards will be completed August 19. Prominent women leaders in traffic safety and other community work will serve as judges.

Winners of the 1961 Carol Lane Awards will be announced during the National Safety Congress in Chicago, October 17-21. The top winners will be guests of Shell Oil there during the Congress and will be presented with their awards at a luncheon given in their honor.

Awards are given for projects in three categories: rural areas and towns up to 25,000 in population; towns of 25,000 or more; and an entire state. Top award in each category is a $1,000 Saving Bond and a sculpture symbolizing "woman's protective instinct". Second place awards are $500 in bonds and bas-relief plaques of the statue. Third place winners each receive $250 in bonds and the plaques.

Tractors Give Farming Power

College Station. — Tractors have proven to be the greatest single factor in the mechanization of the American farm. Through the use of these machines, farmers have been able to greatly increase their production while reducing operating costs.

Realizing the opportunities offered by these machines, the American farmer is constantly increasing his tractor inventory. During the 14-year period from 1945 to 1959, the number of tractors on American farms increased by 2.7 million. The largest percentage increase was in small tractors with less than 9 belt h.p. and drawbar capacity for one 12-inch plow.

Texas farmers, like those of the rest of the United States, are also increasing their tractor inventory., W. L. Ulich, extension agricultural engineer says. He discloses that 1959 census figures showed 277,975 tractors on Texas farms. This survey also indicated that about 34% of the Texas tractors used LPG, 9% diesel, and 57% gasoline for fuel.

The current trend in Texas tractor use, says Ulich, is toward diesel. About one-third of all tractors now being sold to Texans are diesel, and this trend will probably continue so long as the price differentiation of fuels remains as it is today. One of the reasons for this trend is simple economics —diesels are cheaper to operate than gasoline tractors when used year-round.

A farm tractor represents a sizeable investment and it is not a cure-all for inefficient production. Ulich warns that before buying any tractor, the farmer should carefully evaluate his needs and then select the proper type tractor to suit these needs.

Niles Rejects Coaching Post

Clifford Niles, elected recently to the coaching staff of Wellington high school, has notified the board he will not accept the position, Supt. J. L. Harper said Monday, July 31. No reason was given, the superintendent said.

Mr. and Mrs. Niles, who formerly taught here have been in the Brownfield schools since leaving Wellington 7 years ago.

Dr. and Mrs. Chas. B. Jones left July 8 for a two weeks vacation in Mexico City. They were joined at Laredo by their son Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Jones III and family from Lubbock and her mother, Mrs. Bess Lehman of Kerville. From Laredo they went by train to Mexico City where they spent ten days sight seeing. On their return trip home Mrs. Jones stopped at Midland for a weeks visit with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Gillis.
