pondents and advertisers are re-

McCoy Voters Raise Limit School Taxes

$100.

The McCoy vote was canvassed

Rainfall Routs Talk of Drouth In Plains Area

Rain Sunday morning changed the routine of Floyd county people in a hurry.

Three-quarters of an inch to three inches of rainfall put moisture in the ground for every kind of farm operation and only those who had too much moisture in the ground had not hit their fields getting row crops planted or stubble land turned.

Practically an ideal rain gave Floydada 1.1 inches, and most other sections of the county two inches of water. Many young crops were already under way, and the seed houses all over the county since Monday have been rushed for storage feed seeds.

Center, Fairview, Campbell report about the same amount of moisture as at Floydada, but Harmony, Starkey, Allmon, Sand Hill, Barwise
Irick, Lone Star, Providence, Muncy
Lockney report more, as do Lakeview, Pleasant Hill and the area around Dougherty and south into Crosby and Motley counties. The Cedar report indicates a bit less rain than at Floydada, but for the most part enough to get crops up.
Areas below the caprock also had good rain and in some sections there the cotton is already booming as is true of portions of Lakeview and the Crosby area, and Mt. Blanco in Antelope county.

Operations were stopped, of course, in the several wheat fields of the county where harvest is not completed. Combines started up again yesterday in most of these fields.

The rain which routed the drouth came on a gulf wind early in the morning and fell gently, with heavy showers intermittently into the afternoon. The rain was general and good north, south and west of Floyd county, reports indicate. Harvest fall reports was in Swisher. At Tulsa four inches fell. Briscoe which had been very dry, had an inch to two inches and the area south from the Briscoe line to around South Plains had good rains.
At Plainview two inches is reported and on west to the New Mexico line.

For the first time this year the temperature topped 100 degrees on Tuesday afternoon with a hot 103 11 degrees hotter than on the day preceding or following. A temperature below 90 was registered two nights during the week.

Prediction that the July 4th attendance at the Floydada Service Men's celebration will run to 20,000 people who will hear General Wainwright was made here this week, and the attendance for July 3 will be commensurate, running into the thousands.

Estimation of the crowd is based on State Highway patrol estimates of the needed manpower to handle traffic and on the predictions of food handlers.

Says Big Crowd Coming

Representatives of the Greater United shows who will be here beginning Monday and for the week under the auspices of the American Legion, which is sponsoring the big event, including General Wainwright's address, is coming to a town the size of Floydada for the first time in its history. A big town carnival, the advance man said Tuesday the manager expects a tremendous crowd on the night of July 3 and on the Fourth of July that will tax the community to handle.

Food Places Multiplied

In addition to the regular commercial handlers of food several places for eating are being planned to help feed the multitude, and as much additional milk as at all possible is being engaged ahead.

Of the 20,000 people due here,
weather permitting, Gaines Davis, general manager of the big event for the Legion said he anticipates that one out of four will be an adult interested in having a program of the event as a memento and 5,000 programs are being printed for distribution during the two days.

Two Rodeo Programs

Nightly programs at the rodeo grounds, confidently anticipated four weeks ago, are now out of the picture said the rodeo management. It will be impossible to obtain needed equipment. Accordingly the rodeo events will be crowded into the two afternoons. Snaky cows and calves are ready for use during the rodeo.

Big Parade Certain

The parade under the handling of Harry Morckel will be the longest ever to travel Floydada streets, it is certain. Map of the route this parade will travel, so that the thousands may see without crowding on downtown blocks is being given general publicity by the committee.
More than 50 posts have been invited to have part in the parade and the activities, and scores of clubs and business institutions have indicated interest. The parade will head

Old Settlers Will Decide Fate of West Texas Old Settlers Assn At Ralls Meeting Monday, July 1

Do old settlers of West Texas want to reorganize and continue the West Texas Old Settlers Reunion, or do they think the reunion has served its day and want to disband? That is the question which Mr. W. H.
Hames, last elected president of the association, wants answered.
For this purpose he has called a meeting of all officers and directors elected in 1940, the last election held by the association, and other interested old timers. The meeting will be held Monday, July 1, at the city auditorium in Ralls, start-

Flag With History Will be in Fourth of July Parade

A Texas flag, the permanent property of McDermott post, American Legion, will be among the colors which travel the route of the Fourth of July morning parade in Floydada.

The flag was sent to Sgt. John C.
Colville in answer to his request to Governor Coke Stevenson for a Texas flag. At that time Sgt. Colville was training with Co. "G", 273rd Infantry, 69th Infantry division, at Camp Shelby, Mississippi.
The flag was carried to England by Lt. Chris Fox, of El Paso, Texas, where it was returned to Sgt. Colville. Lt. Fox was later killed in action near Giescheld, Germany.

The flag was first flown near Kreuzburg, Germany by Sgt. Colville and Lt. Albert Kotzebue, of Houston, Texas. The pole was a German pine, with a captured communication wire as a rope.

Travels Central Europe

From Kreuzburg, Germany the flag followed the route of the 69th division across the Rhine, and across Central Europe, to Trebsen, on the Mulde, the point of the farthest
American advance in this sector.
Here, the flag welcomed the Russians, who took up positions across the river.

The flag followed the withdrawal of American troops to Grotzsch, Germany, and from that town to the port of Bremerhaven.

The flag was last flown at camp
Top Hat, near Antwerp, Belgium where a group of Texans took temporary possession of a part of Belgium while awaiting shipment home.

The permanent home of this Texas Flag will be in the Legion Hall of McDermott Post No. 118, American Legion, of Floydada, Texas, to which it was given by Sgt. Colville.

Legion's Bull, Up at Auction Is Blue Blood

JSL Lone Wolf 5th, register number 4356157, hereford bull presented to McDermott post, American Legion, by Johnnie Lackey, was a September, 1944, calf, his sire Lone Wolf 3rd having been bred by C. C.
Poff and his dam, Sadie 20th, by J.
H. Wagley.

This is the story told by the registration papers that will go with the bull to the new owner when the animal is auctioned off here on the Fourth of July. What the bull brings when Col. W. H. Seale finishes the auction, will be added to the post's building fund.

The bull is being conditioned at the O. L. Stansell barn in southeast Floydada where he can be seen by prospective bidders. The pedigree which will go with the bull gives his breeding back for five generations.

WELL, IT DID RAIN

It sure can stay dry in West Texas as long as it wants to, with the north wind blowing from the southwest as the meteorologists tell us, and then it can rain in 15 minutes as the old-timers will tell you.

With the exception of a wee bit of territory, relatively speaking, the whole of this area has had a rain ample enough to get things started, speaking row crop wise, and to establish the fact to be well proven in a week or so, assuming no more rain for a short time, that the country really was dry—the most of it—and that the inch or two that fell sure made this apparent. The farmer will tell you what a job it is to get a crop started after a rain that just gives enough season to make things begin. A hard rain a few days later makes the job one to do over. If no rain and some wind then the ground dries out. If neither of these happen then it just stays dry too long and the little crop peeping out sits there and waits for more moisture. Oh, well, you could move, you know. But nobody has any intention of doing so. Man's own privilege to complain at his own country. Henry Waterson, the old Kentucky war horse, had a saying, "things have come to a hell of a pass when a man can't whip his own jackass." Well, grieve a bit if we want to, even as we smile that self-satisfied smile of the man who expects another good gentle rain in a few days to make things ideal again.

RAINEY HAS THE 'HUMP'

Knowing nothing whatsoever about the governor's campaign in Texas we'd just venture the claim that Mr. Rainey has the 'hump' on the boys, as the street saying once was about Camel cigarettes.

Mr. Rainey has promised everybody everything that any of them has dared to ask for even in their fanciest claims. The teachers, the old folks, the taxpayers and all. He is going to begin the old folks at $40, the teachers at $1,200 and he is going to take the taxes off the man who owns property. What else could you ask a man to do at least to get into the run-off. Mr. Rainey also recommends himself rather highly otherwise, and he has, indeed, made his mark in the world.

The other boys who aspire to be governor are going to have to think hard and fast. One--we do not recall which--has a fool idea that he would have expenses held down.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

(By Nellie Witt Spikes)

We have had a pretty fair rain. Well, perhaps not enough to make the moss grow on the north side of trees, but enough to make some hay for hen's nests. And it came in such a pleasing manner, passing on, no lightning or thunder. In fact it was a winter rain in the summer. Now magic will take place in the pastures and green grass will grow and be good on sore eyes. Farmers will hurry seed into the ground, weeds will sprout and the delayed crop of flies will buzz.

It is a "fur piece" back to fat old Bess clogging down the streets of Amarillo, but a visit with Mrs. Fannie Franklin and Mrs. Laura Lay, cousins of my mother who live in Amarillo, brought back the pleasant memory of driving round the growing town. On warm summer evenings, Mr. Lay hitched Bess to the shiny black buggy and "Aunt" Laura and I got in. He slapped the lines on the fat broad back once in a while but she did not mind this as much as she did a bothersome fly she kept switching her tail to knock off. Down Polk and up Taylor, back and fourth, looking at new homes and saying, "My how Amarillo is growing! And how the years have passed since old Bess made the rounds have proven that the town would grow and grow."

We had such a lovely visit this year in the home of the Nordykes, Mr. Spikes, Wilson and I. We just kept staying till it was time to eat and such a good meal it was. Nan and Trilla made the centerpiece of pansies and white larkspurs, Nan played a sweet tune on her violin. Trilla sat near me and they were like my own grandchildren. Lewis had his mind full of ranch histories and soon we shall read the vivid articles he writes of interesting people and places. We stayed too late to see the lily in the back yard but next year it will have two lillies on it and we shall go again.

It seems a little strange to go back to the house one was married in and left some 40 years ago. Last week we went to Hereford and found the house my people lived in. I did not go inside. Somehow it would have broken the charm the little house still has for me. The outside was almost the same and after we married we left on four wheels but they were not rubber tires like the four we rolled back on. The wheels churned then on a frozen snow covered ground, the sheet flopped in the cold January wind. My little trunk held the silver and linens, a box held my books and pictures. The future was ahead. The milestones rolled slowly by as the flat wheels pulled down towards Crosby County, the milestones of the years stretched ahead.

Now the steel bands of the wag-

That might be all right in practice as a governor but mighty bad policy for a man who wants to get the use of the governor's mansion for a couple of years rent free. It has not been done that way in the past 18 years.

BUSINESS STILL IN A RUSH

If you thought that business, retail and other kinds, was due to come to a standstill in this part of the Lord's vineyard following the completion of the major part of the wheat harvest, you thought wrong. It may have been the rain that has followed, or it may be the psychology of the masses, which had a fast pace set and just couldn't stop.

Anyway, business certainly is moving along with no let-up. When people have money and a prospect ahead they get going. It perhaps, as well as ever it did, exemplifies the old saying that the best spender in the world is the farmer who has it to spend.

on wheels have fallen off, their journeys have been made. The silens have worn and frayed, the pictures have faded and the books have been torn by my hands. I count many milestones behind. How many does the future hold. Quiet sabb? As the Mexican says.

For lack of time, we crowded what should have been several hours visit in the lovely farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Dunn of Crosbyton. Such an interesting collection of pictures! The one of carved mahogany from Cuba, the quaint one from England. Beautiful pictures, useful pictures, old and new. Mrs. Dunn loves them all. Mr. Dunn gathered us a sack of fine plums, which we have enjoyed. All over the place is flowers. Roses give their beauty and fragrance, sweet peas, larkspurs and so many kinds of pet plants in a flower pit of rock which Mrs. Dunn has made. In fact she is quite a rock mason, as walks and brooder house show.

Two pictures on a desk, one of a black haired young man, makes one think how handsome all the girls thought Will was when he came out from Kentucky to work on a ranch. The other a winsome young lady who looks very much like her mother. Gracious and hospitable are the members of this family and we look forward to being in their home again.

It must have been a large family. "How many were in your family?" one man asked another. "Well, I dunno, but ma had four syrup pitchers on the table at a time and never was a time that all four was a settin' down at the same time."

When I go to the garden early in the morning just as the sun is rising these words of lovely poem come to my mind.

Unfoldment By R. H. Greenville

Thread by thread the dawn is woven, Pearl and amber, silver, blue, Till the tapestry of morning Breaks upon the eager view.

Note by note a song is fashioned, Word by word a story told; Seed to shoot and leaf to blossom Is the pattern from of old.

Not in days are meadows fashioned, Nor in centuries are seas; Since all manifests creation Grows in stature by degrees.

So must I in faith unswerving Cultivate the inner man, Conscious of God's perfect plan, Day by day in joy unfolding.

Ask Trainees Be Taught Restraint

INDIANAPOLIS, Indiana. — The American Legion has served notice that if and when universal military training is adopted in the United States, teaching boys moral restraint must be given primary consideration.

"Every effort should be made to build up the moral fibers of boys and to give them military training," said the national executive committee of the American Legion declared in a resolution addressed to the President of the United States and to the Secretaries of War and Navy at the end that they will return to civilian life benefited by their experience in uniform."

The NEC urged training programs include instruction on "physical hygiene, prevention of social diseases, and development of conscience and moral restraint."

It recommended that the authorities in formulating this phase of the training program be required to "call in for counsel and advice leaders of representative religious denominations and of educational institutions."

DECENT CHANCE FOR BABIES

Discussing the importance to rural people of organized preventative services in medicine, Frederick D. Mott, senior surgeon of the U. S. Public Health Service, and chief medical officer of the Farm Security Administration, said recently:

"Despite remarkable progress since the turn of the century, rural America has largely lost its advantageous position relative to urban health. Its disadvantage today is chiefly with respect to those conditions which can be influenced directly by modern health educational and preventive services. Thus the death rates of rural infants, pre-school children and youth 15 years of age and over were higher in 1940 than those residents of large cities. While cities of 100,000 or more had an infant mortality rate of 34.3 in 1942, the rate was 43.3 in rural places and 44.6 in semi-rural towns. The rural maternity mortality rate in 1941 was almost one-third higher than the big city rate.

"The significance of a decent chance for life and good health for rural babies and mothers is far-reaching. The rural birth rate exceeds the urban by a wide margin. In urban places of 10,000 population 10 adults are raising 7 children; on farms 10 adults are raising 14 children. Over half of all the children in the Nation are from the rural communities. If it were not for the constant flow to the cities, the urban population would decline about 24 percent in a generation. It is clear that if tomorrow's urban citizens are to have the opportunity to build sound bodies and alert minds in infancy and childhood, the benefits of scientific health care must be extended to the country, as well as to the city."

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cyfert and family who have been making their home on route 2, Lockney left Thursday for Springville, Arizona, where Mr. Cyfert will work in the log wood.

Saw Lots of Folks, Had Big Time, Says Jackie Gene Brock

Jackie Gene Brock home Saturday from the National 4-H Club encampment at Washington, D. C., had a lot of fun, met a lot of people and saw a great deal of the interesting things at the national capital, he said Monday.

Congressman Mahon and other officials were very nice to the club boys who had a chance to see many of the interesting things they otherwise would have missed. One of the interesting things about the trip was a visit to the department of agriculture experimental farm at Beltsville, Maryland. Another thing that made the trip more interesting was the fact that the Texas delegation made the trip in a station wagon, traveled by day only and thus saw the country through which they passed.

May Spread Trench Through Lack of Health Practices

AUSTIN.—Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health officer, has released some interesting information concerning Vincent's angina which was commonly called "trench mouth" during World War I.

Dr. Cox states that Vincent's angina is a specific infection producing inflammatory condition of the mucous membranes, more commonly those of the mouth, and the disease is spread by indirect as well as direct contact.

"Because of the readiness with which this disease is transmitted, it has been occasionally found in epidemic form among school children and other groups," Dr. Cox states. "Vincent's angina assumed epidemic proportions in the front line trenches in 1914-1918 and it was during this period that the disease became generally known as trench mouth."

Although trench mouth is now worldwide in distribution, reasonable application of preventative measures which are merely those in line with approved personal health practices will be found a sufficient defense against this infection.

According to the State Health officer the most common cases of Vincent's angina are neglected mouths, broken teeth fillings, and other types of oral irritation. Daily hygiene, plus the periodic visit to the dentist can be relied upon as reasonable buffers against this infection. However, persons who are very careful regarding oral hygiene can acquire this disease by using infected drinking cups and eating utensils and other personal articles; also by kissing, though healthy gums and mucous membranes have a much superior resistance to the infection than does an unclean mouth.

The measure also provides for the total disability for five years of one year; provided for those in line of duty at the date of application for the insurance and inclusion of a retroactive permanent disability without extra premium in policies issued between 1940 and September 2, 1945.

Side Lights From Washington

(By George Mahon)

It would, of course, be incorrect to assume that primary elections in all states will be held this year on July 27, the date set for the Texas primary. The fact is that as of the date this is being written, June 22, primary elections have already been held in 18 states, involving a total of 213 seats in Congress. A total of four members of Congress have been defeated in the primary elections held thus far.

The earliest primary was held on April 9 in the state of Illinois. Primaries were held in Massachusetts and Michigan this week. On Monday the primary will be held in Maryland, Mississippi and Oklahoma hold their primaries on July 2.

Yesterday afternoon the House passed the War Department appropriation bill. This bill was written by the eight-man committee of which I am a member. We devoted six weeks to the job of conducting the hearings, writing the bill and passing it through the House. It required a printed volume of 1183 pages to record the testimony of the witnesses.

The bill involved more money than any bill presented to Congress this year, and we felt that six weeks of work was not too long a time to devote to such important matters as were involved in deciding how much money should be spent for national defense by the War Department during the next twelve months.

In my remarks in the House of Representatives, I discussed in some detail the program of research and development, particularly with respect to aviation. I said:

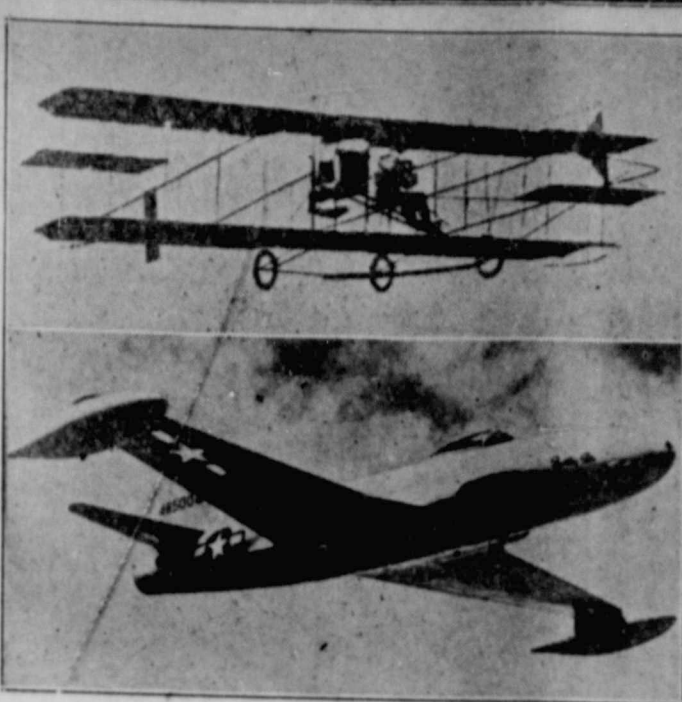

"If this committee has its way, you will find that our Nation, which is already out in front in the field of aviation, will go forward, ahead of the parade, in order that we may be more secure in the future, and that no nation will dare challenge us at some future time. While we talk of money, airplanes, weapons, and research and development, we realize that military might alone cannot insure the peace and security of this Nation and the world."

This is the fourth major bill which I have helped write in Committee and pass through the House this year.

The Hobbs Anti-Racketeering bill, which passed the House months ago, was finally approved last night by the Senate. It now goes to the White House. The measure prohibits violence and threats of violence in industry-labor controversies involving interstate commerce.

The present law permits a United States national debt of 300 billion dollars. The House did a significant thing this week in passing legislation reducing the authorized national debt to 275 billion dollars. This is the first time that the federal government has taken such a step in a number of years.

HUDSON VALLEY SEES ANOTHER HISTORIC FLIGHT—The Army Air Forces P-80 Shooting Star, powered by an 1-40 G-E jet motor, will retrace the aerial route blazed along the Hudson River Valley by Glenn H. Curtiss 36 years ago. The flight was scheduled for the afternoon of June 21 at the opening of the General Electric Company's air research demonstration. Curtiss in his little biplane (above) made the trip from Albany to New York City in two hours and 51 minutes. His average speed was slightly over 50 miles an hour.

The Shooting Star (below), piloted by an AAF officer, covers the same distance in approximately 15 minutes. The pilot of the new jet plane is from above the City Hall in New York up the valley to the State House at Albany and thence in a two-minute dash to the Schenectady County Air Port. Flight operations of advanced types of AAF, Navy and civilian planes begin this national demonstration. There was much fanfare in Curtiss' pioneering achievement in 1910. He won the $10,000 prize offered by Joseph Pulitzer for the flight from Albany to New York under 24 hours and comparison was made between his flying time and the historic voyages of Henrik Hudson and Robert Fulton over the same route. Hudson's time in his sailing vessel the "Half Moon" in 1609 was five days, while Fulton's run in the steamboat "Clermont" in 1807 was 32 hours.

Conservation District News

J. R. Hurst of Aiken became a new cooperator of the Floyd County Soil Conservation district this week.

His conservation plan includes a planting of a grass legume mixture for pasture and erosion control, a planting of alfalfa on an area of thin land to improve the fertility and a newly designed irrigation system which the District will help him lay out.

Leslie Ferguson, a district cooperator of the north Lockney community, states that he recently harvested ninety four bushels of oats per acre from a volunteer crop which was over seeded with alfalfa last fall.

The District received applications for assistance from the following farmers during the past week: John L. West, J. D. Billington, E. J. Golden, J. B. Robertson and Clarence Goins.

A call meeting of the District supervisors was held Tuesday morning, June 25. Supervisors present were W. F. Ferguson, W. H. Nelson and J. R. Belt. The regular order of business was taken up and conservation plans were approved for the farms of J. V. Greer, J. R. Hurst, Lonnie H. Scott, J. W. Mathis and P. F. Bertrand.

L. A. Williams, a district cooperator of the Harmony community, who recently harvested seed from four acres of weeping love grass states that he has reclaimed about one fourth of the seed and from that amount got ninety pounds of pure seed. He has mowed and watered the four acre field and has hopes of getting another seed crop this year.

The District is contacting various sources of grass and legume seed so that they will be equipped to furnish cooperators with this information so that they may secure their seed for fall planting before the limited supply becomes exhausted.

Why 71 Floydada People Are Waiting For Telephones

THE REASON IS that it has not been possible to manufacture and install additional equipment fast enough to keep up with the biggest demand for telephones in Floydada's history—despite the most active construction program we've ever undertaken.

On V-J Day, 59 people in Floydada were on the telephone waiting list—a backlog equal to nearly four years of pre-war growth.

Since then, we have gained 100 telephones in Floydada. We have installed seven times as many telephones since V-J Day as we did in an average year between 1935 and 1940.

Yet, today, 71 people here still do not have service. Many of them are people who were waiting on V-J Day.

ONE BIG REASON for this is the vast number of new applications. Many of them are from returning servicemen who, as heads of families, are entitled to preference, as also are people whose service qualifies as essential to the health, welfare, and security of the community. As lines and equipment become available in a central office, all other applications are filled in the order in which they are received.

WE ARE HARD AT WORK on an expansion program to enlarge the telephone system here, to put in the switchboards, the cables, the wire, and all the other things needed to make service available to those who want it. The job is so big that it takes time.

In the meantime, we are doing everything possible to s-t-r-e-t-c-h the telephone system here to serve the maximum number of people. We are limiting new residence connections to party lines... we are loading the system beyond the capacity for which it was engineered... and are resorting to emergency, temporary measures, wherever possible, to install additional telephone equipment ahead of schedule.

Much as we'd like to, we can't tell most people waiting for service just when it will be possible to connect their telephones.

But of this you can be sure—

WE ARE HARD AT WORK. We are doing everything we can to furnish telephone service—at the earliest possible moment—to all who are waiting. If there is anything we can do to make our progress faster, we shall do it.

"Lives Whose Influence Still Lives"

MEMORIALS are more than mere blocks of marble. They are personal chapters in the history of our day, and constitute living inlays in the mosaic of the world.

Memorials do more than commemorate. They keep alive the ideas that rise eternal from the lives that have lived, and whose influence still lives.

That is why great care should be taken in the selection of a memorial design. Remember that it is not a mark alone, but a symbol as well. The ideal memorial is one that symbolizes the character of the one it commemorates.

There are memorials that the first thing you say when you see them, is that it is just the kind of memorial that is suitable for that individual. That is what you think about Lincoln when you see the Lincoln Memorial at Washington. No other man in America would fit the Lincoln Memorial. It is Lincoln.

In selecting a memorial, first—select a design of beauty and grace, with due regard to the name it is to bear. Second—secure a material that is beautiful and suitable, one that will keep alive its beauty through the years. Such a material is Georgia Crystalline Marble the same material of which the magnificent figure of Lincoln is carved.

Come in and look over our line and talk over your needs with us.
