Former resident gets new execution date

Former Colorado City resident-Dorsey Lee Johnson-was sentenced to death by lethal injection by 132nd District Judge Gene Dulaney.

The sentencing took place in the District Courtroom in Snyder Wednesday morning.

The sentence is scheduled to be carried out on November 12, exactly seven years of the day Johnson was convicted of capital murder in the shooting death of 53-year old Jack Huddleston.

Huddleston, an Allsup's convenience store clerk, was shot in the back of the head in the robbery that netted Johnson and an accomplice $160 in cash and two cartons of cigarettes.

Scurry County District Attorney Ernie Armstrong gave the recommendation for the state, saying November 12 would provide Johnson and his defense 72 days to prepare any motions.

Johnson was represented by Robert Owen of the Texas Resources Center, a federally funded organization that funds counsel for death row inmates.

Owen said that despite his presence, Johnson was without counsel and that his organization was having difficulties finding lawyers for the large number of inmates on death row.

Because of the lack of a lawyer, Owen asked the court to allow 90 days for Johnson to be appointed a lawyer and 90 days for the lawyer to file a habeas corpus petition-a writ ordering a person in custody to be brought before a court.

Over the past seven years, Johnson's previous attorneys argued the case all the way to the Supreme Court on a now defunct Texas death penalty law that kept jurors from considering his youthfulness at the time he committed the crime.

Johnson was 19 at the time. His accomplice, Amanda Miles, was also 19 and she received life imprisonment for her participation in the murder and robbery.

Armstrong said Johnson could gain a stay of execution by challenging "some aspect of the case that hasn't been challenged." But Armstrong added that he believed Johnson eventually will be executed.

TU Electric can defer part of last month's electric bill

Due to unusually hot August weather, TU Electric announced Thursday a plan to offer residential customers some relief from high electric bills.

The plan will allow customers who may have difficulty paying the full amount to pay as little as half and the remainder with October's bill payment. Officials expect October's bill to be lower, and no interest will be charged on the deferred portion.

Snyder Manager Linda Edwards said the extremely hot weather has increased electricity use by some customers by well over 50% compared to last August.

In addition, TU implemented a rate increase, under bond and subject to refund, on August 3.

Information on how to take advantage of the deferred payment plan will be inserted in residential customers bills.

D.W.I.-YOU CANT AFFORD IT: DPS Troopers, Max Gunn (left) and Kenny Wadsworth stand by a sign drivers should be aware of this weekend. Gunn is new to this district having transferred from the panhandle.

DPS urges drivers to obey traffic laws on this holiday

Labor Day weekend is a sure sign of things to come.

Among them is the fact that another summer is about over. It also represents the last three-day weekend before cooler weather sets in for most of us and that is what concerns both local and state public safety officials.

The Texas Department of Public Safety anticipates a large number of Texas motorists will take advantage of this extra day off to make that last summer outing. This means Texas drivers will be sharing the roadways with more vehicles, more miles being driven than usual by drivers who are probably more fatigued than usual.

Even though DPS officials remain optimistic that this can be a safe Labor Day holiday, they also realize that people will die on the state's highways during this period. The tragic part, say DPS troopers, most of the accidents are caused by driver error and definitely are preventable.

This underlines the importance of obeying all traffic laws at all times-especially those involving drinking and driving.

Studies show that when a traffic law is violated regardless of how minor it seems at the time, property damage, injury and even death will many times be the result.

Mitchell County drivers should do their part in making this a safe holiday by remaining alert, adjusting your speed to match the existing road conditions, avoid the use of alcohol and use your seat belt-no matter how short the trip.

Old Col-Tex Refinery

Civil suits filed over site contamination

Four separate civil suits have been filed in the 32nd District Court here in Colorado City relating to pollution at the old Col-Tex Refinery site.

Two suits were filed against several former owners or operators of tracts on the property by Jimmy E. Ruth and Billie G. Ruth. Also, Royce McAnally and Sharon McAnally filed against the same defendants in two separate lawsuits.

The defendant in one of the suits is listed as El Paso Electric Company and the other suit lists the defendants as American Petrofina, Inc., Fina Oil and Chemical Co., Fina, Inc., Chevron U.S.A., Inc., Shell Pipeline Corporation, ASARCO, Inc., Colorado City Industrial Team, Inc., Renderbrook-Spade, Inc., Missouri Pacific Railroad Co., d.b.a. Union Pacific Railroad Company and Cosden Pipeline Co.

The Ruths' suit states in 1981 the plaintiffs moved a trailer house onto property owned, operated, or leased by the defendants. They attempted to have a water well drilled but the attempt was unsuccessful because the driller struck polluted water. The suit also states Mr. Ruth also began experiencing physical problems due to the pollution. Also, as a result of such pollution, the plaintiffs were forced to leave the property and relocate.

The suit alleges the pollution was caused by the existence of hazardous and toxic materials on or under the site of the refinery and resulted in personal injuries and damages to their personal and real property.

The suit also alleges the defendants engaged in "deceptive, misleading and fraudulent activities" in dealing with the property and failed to warn the Ruths of the dangerous condition and pollution of the property.

The McAnallys filed against the same defendants and listed the same accusations.

Their suit states they were attempting to build a lake on property they own near the site but the local contractor was forced to abandon the project when the contractor discovered a white substance mixed with the spring water to be used to fill the pond. Samples were taken from their land and they were advised to stop the project because pollution existed.

Their suit also states their property was worth $78,000 before the "creation of and continuation of the hazardous and toxic conditions on their property and because of the pollution, the property is worth substantially less and the depreciation is permanent."

Volleyball girls looking good in early season

by Cliff Vlasin

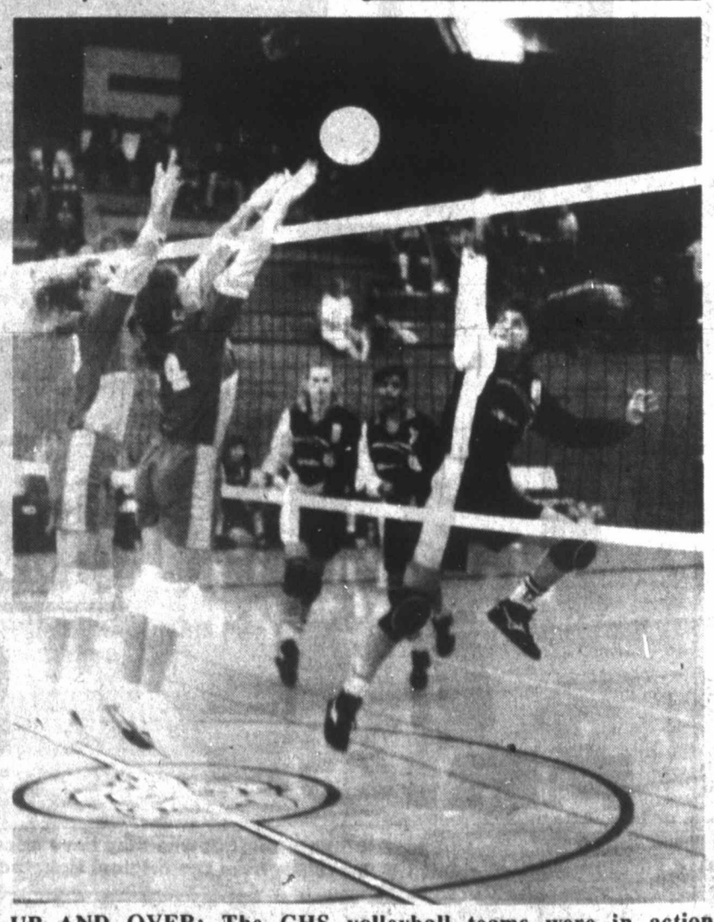

Although the crowd was rather sparse at Tuesday's Lady Wolf volleyball matchup with Albany, those in attendance got a look at a much improved and rapidly maturing team that is drawing high praise from second year coach Sharon Graves.

"We are much further along now than we were even at the end of the season last year, so that's a real credit to the girls," Graves said. "They worked extremely hard in the off season and I think that's why we're so much further ahead."

The Lady Wolves came up a little short against a powerful and experienced team of Lady Lions, but not before they had given hometown fans plenty of reason to cheer.

Down 4-10 in the opening game, the Lady Wolves came clawing back to within one at 9-10. Then, when Albany seemed about to take command again, serving for the game at 14-10, the CHS girls simply would not let the ball hit the floor. A frantic point ended with

Lone Star Gas seeks agents

Lone Star Gas Company will expand its payment network on December 1 to make it more convenient for customers to pay their bills.

Colorado City, manager Patrick Parker said when local payment locations are finalized, no Lone Star office would accept over-the-courter payments.

"Customer service in Colorado City will not decrease," said Parker. "If anything, the service will increase."

"Our goal is to make bill-paying more convenient and there agents will have longer hours," said Parker.

At the present time, of the 550 cities and towns served by Lone Star Gas, only 85 currently have company-operated facilities that accept over-the-counter payments.

a side out to the Lady Wolves and Bethany Bridgford served six consecutive winning points for a 16-14 Colorado City win.

The fun was short-lived, however, as the Lady Lions spoiled the night with duplicate 15-5 wins to take the match.

Reflecting on the match, Graves felt she could definitely see improving confidence in her very young team. "They are gaining confidence," she said. "They had in their minds that we can beat this team-we're going to beat this team. But we have to give Albany credit; they just came out and played really well against us."

Fatigue might also have had a hand in the loss, considering the seven matches the Lady Wolves had played over the weekend when they placed fourth in a strong 12-team tournament at Wichita Falls.

"I'm sure they were physically, mentally, and emotionally tired," Graves said. "When you go through that many games, your emotions are up and down."

The tournament began with three games of "pool play" with the Lady Wolves being seeded second in their bracket after defeating Harrold and 5A Wichita Falls High School while losing to Holliday.

In the first game of bracket play, the Lady Wolves began to tire as serving woes plagued them in a 5-15, 10-15, loss to Knox City.

The girls recovered by Saturday morning, however rebounding with a 16-14, 15-7 win over Wichita Falls Notre Dame in a match that featured 13 service points by Jennifer Ornelas, four of those serves being aces.

That win matched the Lady Wolves up with Wichita Falls High once more, and the result was the same as the first matchup with CHS pounding out a 15-6, 15-8 victory thanks to some strong back row play and an improved service game.

They ended the tournament with a tough 15-17, 7-15 loss to Burkburnett in the Third Place game.

Graves felt the tournament was valuable experience for her team. "It had some good quality teams in all classifications from 1A to 5A," she said. "We beat Wichita Falls High School twice and they're in 5A, so I felt pretty good about that. I feel like we may not see, even in our district, as storng teams as we saw in that tournament," she added.

As the Lady Wolves now take a short break from their hectic early schedule, Graves is pleased with what she sees. "I feel like we've improved as far as being more aggressive at the net," she said. "Chrissy Crawford and Veronica Moreno are becoming more aggressive as far as hitting and blocking, and Tarsha Scott is helping out there as well."

Moreno drew praise for her effort, especially in the Albany match. "She's a smart player," Graves said of her senior team captain. "She's been working on when to dunk and when to hit and noticing the blockers. She outsmarted Albany quite a few times."

Graves is also pleased with the improved play of her "back line" players. "We have some girls-like (senior) Robin Walls is playing with us this year and she hasn't played since she was a sophomore. There's a lot being asked of her early even though she hasn't played. You can tell there are some girls that are a little bit behind, but they're working real hard to improve," she added.

"Last year, the girls were a lot younger. we had a lot of sophomores on the varsity, just a few juniors and one senior, but this year I feel like we can handle that pressure when we need to be handling it early."

The Lady Wolves will get a much-deserved rest now, not playing again until September 11 at The Pit against Water Valley.

We will elect officers and work out some plans for the coming basketball program. If you want the program to continue, then you will need to attend this meeting. There is a possibility that the program will not continue without your assistance. For more information, please call LuLu Boyd, 728-8393. If you are unable to attend this meeting, but willing to help, please call.

TWC adopts new standards for recycling

The Texas Water Commission today adopted new management standards for the recycling of used oil filters. Today's action culminates several months of public comment and industry input, including a public meeting in June. The rules fulfill the intent of Senate Bill 1340, the Omnibus Recycling Act, which was passed into law in 1991.

These rules, which address the generation, collection, transportation, storage, processing and final disposition of used oil filters, are designed to protect the environment and provide guidelines for the emerging oil filter recycling industry. The rules take effect twenty days after publication in the Texas Register.

It currently is illegal for commercial generators to dispose of used oil filters in landfills in Texas counties with populations of 200,000 or more, and in counties located east of I-35, I-35W and I-37 with populations of 100,000 or more. By December 1, 1993, it will be illegal for commercial generators to dispose of used oil filters in all Texas landfills. On April 1, 1994, the law band disposal into municipal landfills of used oil filters generated by individuals who change their own oil.

Main elements of the recycling rules include:

*Removal of all free-flowing oil from used filters.

*Proper transportation of used filters, including labeling of containers of used filters, cleanup of any spills during transport and delivery of filters to a registered used oil filter processor or end-user.

*Proper storage of filters in non-leaking, covered containers. For storage of more than three 55-gallon drums, the standards require secondary containment in case of spills.

*Processing of used oil filters in preparation for the recycling of its components, including used oil and steel.

*A provision for a system of documentation to track the transfer of used oil filters through the recycling process. This tracking mechanism is designed to discourage illegal dumping and is subject to future modification.

The regulations are aimed at halting the flow of an estimated 50 million used oil filters buried annually in Texas landfills. The dumping of these used filters fill precious landfill space, threaten water supplies and waste scrap metal.

To lessen the impact on small businesses, the new rules also provide an exclusion from the more stringent storage requirements for persons storing less than three 55-gallon drums of filters. However, these small businesses are still required by the new rules to properly dispose of their used oil filters.

The mission of the Texas Water commission is to protect human health and the environment. It is the primary agency in Texas responsible for the prevention, control and abatement of water pollution and for the regulation of solid and hazardous waste.

Crystal Lyons speak Sept. 6 in Big Spring

Crystal Lyons will be the featured speaker of the September meeting of the Big Spring Outreach Aglow on Monday, September 6, 1993 at the La Posada Restaurant.

Crystal was raised in the Ozark Mountains of Southern Missouri. She was saved at the age of 8 and received the baptism in the Holy Ghost at age 24. Along with a hunger for the Word of God and a desire to be used of God came the ability to write songs.

In 1986, God used something totally unorthodox to thrust Crystal into rodeo ministry. She began riding bulls and bucking horses in the Professional Women's Rodeo Association. That year she was Rookie of the year on both bulls and barebacks. In 1991 she stopped riding the rough stock. She does still get on one occasionally for fun.

Ray a (PRCA bullrider) and Crystal with their two sons, Tyger Tuff and Colt Wrangler travel full time ministering wherever God leads. They hold Cowboy Church Services at rodeos, barrel racing futurities, buckouts, ropings, etc. Crystal also does concerts at rodeos as pre-rodeo entertainment and midway through the rodeo where God has opened doors to minister to the entire rodeo audience. God is awesome!

A Mexican buffet dinner begins at 6:30 p.m. at a cost of $5.75 per person. The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. and is open to all denominations and the public is invited to attend. For more information, call Kay Bancroft at 267-1282.

1993 PROPERTY TAX RATES IN COLORADO ISD

THIS NOTICE CONCERNS 1993 PROPERTY TAX RATES FOR COLORADO ISD. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the school district used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the school district can set before it must hold a rollback election. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes and state funds by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Fire Marshal warns businesses of phony technicians

The State Fire Marshal's Office warns Texas businesses to verify the credentials of any technician who services fire protection equipment. This equipment includes fire extinguishers and automatic fire suppression systems.

The warning was issued following reports from Austin, Houston and Dallas that a man posing as a fire protection service technician had defrauded several businesses. The person is not an employee of a licensed fire protection company and is not licensed by the state as required.

"If your business is approached by a fire protection service technician, ask to see his or her license, which is easily identified by the large state seal emblem printed on the front," said State Fire Marshal Ernest A. Emerson. "If the person cannot produce the license, contact your local law enforcement department or the State Fire Marshal's Office. Business owners and employees should also be suspicious of anyone requiring cash payment for services."

Licensing Investigation Director Al Ramirez explained that both the companies and the individuals who service fire extinguishers and automatic fire suppression systems, such as those on kitchen range hoods, must be licensed by the Texas Commission on Fire Protection. All fire protection company employees are required to carry their licenses while working.

"According to reports on the alleged fraud cases, a man will enter the place of business and look over the service tag on an extinguisher in the business," Ramirez said. "He will then say that he is with that company and that he is there to do the annual inspection. After acting as if he is checking the fire extinguishers, he will demand cash payment. He provides a handwritten receipt on a generic invoice or sales order form."

The person suspected in the reported incidents is described as a white male, between 5-feet, 5-inches and 5-feet, 10-inches tall, and weighing approximately 170 pounds. He is described as clean shaven with black or dark brown hair, clean-cut and professional.

State Fire Marshal Ernest A. Emerson also requested that anyone with additional information on the person described contact the Austin office, (512) 326-1700, or the nearest regional office: Regional 1, Austin (512) 458-8097; Region 2, Lufkin (409) 634-4665; Region 3, Duncanville, (214) 296-0766; Region 4, Lubbock (806) 792-0886; Region 5, Corpus Christi, (512) 855-3782; Region 6, Tyler; (903) 509-0330; or Region 7, Conroe (409) 756-0210.

TWC recommends steps to reduce lead exposure in water

Although monitoring of public water supply systems by the Texas Water Commission for excessive levels of lead and copper has revealed few problems, the commission is providing advice about how to reduce exposure to those metals.

About two percent of the water systems that have been monitored have lead or copper levels that exceed the action levels established by the U.S. environmental Protection Agency. The EPA action level for lead is 15 parts per billion and the level for copper is 1,300 parts per billion. All 41 of the water systems in Texas that serve at least 50,000 persons apiece have undergone two six-month monitoring periods.

The EPA requires that all public drinking water systems undergo two six-month rounds of monitoring for lead and copper. Those systems found to have optimum corrosion control, either because of naturally occurring alkalinity which inhibits corrosion of lead-based plumbing components, or through adjustments to the pH and/or alkalinity of the water, or through the addition of corrosion inhibitors, then must monitor for lead and copper annually.

Operators of systems with excessive levels of lead and copper must conduct corrosion control studies and those systems will be monitored more frequently.

The schedule for implementation of the federally-mandated Lead and Copper Monitoring Program will continue for several years until approximately 5,500 systems have been checked. The federal schedule called for monitoring to begin January 1, 1992 for systems serving more than 50,000 customers; July 1, 1992 for systems serving 3,301 to 50,000 customers and July 1, 1993 for systems serving fewer than 3,300 customers.

Because of staff limitations and the large number of systems serving fewer than 50,000 customers, monitoring of some systems serving 10,001 to 50,000 customers began monitoring July 1, 1992 as called for in the federal schedule. Systems service between 3,301 and 10,000 customers began monitoring January 1, 1993, six months later than specified in the federal schedule.

Systems serving 1,001 to 3,300 began monitoring July 1, 1993 as specified in the federal schedule. Systems serving between 501 and 1,000 customers will begin monitoring in January 1, 1994, six months later than the federal schedule. Systems serving fewer than 500 customers will begin monitoring July 1, 1994, a year later than specified in the federal schedule.

So far, results indicate that the generally alkaline and non-corrosive nature of most Texas water supplies probably account for the low lead and copper levels found in most systems. Nonetheless, because lead usually enters drinking water as a result of corrosion of lead-containing materials in household plumbing or distribution systems, there are measures that can reduce exposure even in systems where lead is present.

The TWC recommends the following steps to reduce exposure to lead if lead pipe or lead solder is present in plumbing:

*Refrain from consuming water that has been in contact with home plumbing for more than six hours by "flushing" the cold water faucet until the water runs noticeably colder, about 15-30 seconds.

*Never cook with or drink water from the hot water tap because hot water can dissolve lead more quickly than cold water. This is especially important to remember when making baby formula and food, or juices from concentrate for young children because children and infants are more susceptible to the effects of lead than are adults. Developing fetuses also also very susceptible, so pregnant women should take extra care to minimize lead exposure.
