ANOTHER CHAPTER IN STORY OF BONNIE AND CLYDE

Desperado Gunned Down By Ranger

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Sharpshooting Texas Ranger Tom Arnold shot Ted Walters to death today, writing another chapter in the story of Bonnie and Clyde and the notorious Hamilton brothers.

Arnold used a 30.06 rifle to kill Walters as the criminal held a shotgun to the head of one of three hostages.

The manhunt, reminiscent of the great searches of the 1930s for the Hamiltons and the Bonnie Park and Clyde Barrow team, began Wednesday night with an ineffectual shootout at Euless, between Fort Worth and Dallas.

Walters fled the shootout on foot.

The killing of Walters took place on Texas 114 near Grapevine, also between Dallas and Fort Worth. It was on Easter Sunday, April 1, 1934, that Bonnie and Clyde gunned down and killed two highway patrolmen near the same spot. The victims were E. B. Wheeler and H. D. Murphy, Department Public of Safety records show.

Walters had dropped out of sight since the 1930s when the Hamiltons and the Bonnie-Clyde team made national headlines with their running exploits.

J. Edgar Hoover in 1938 wrote in the FBI Bulletin, "The operations of Floyd Hamilton and Huron Ted Walters are similar to those of Bonnie Parker and Clyde Barrow. They are heavyily armed and have stated they will not surrender without a fight."

Euless Police Chief W. M. "Blackie" Sustaire said Walters went to the home of H. O. Houston in Bedford. Houston came to the door to find Walters holding a shotgun.

In the house were Mr. and Mrs. Houston and two daughters.

David Eudy of the Beford police then told this story:

"When we arrived, Mr. Houston's daughter came from across the street and said there was a man inside holding a rifle on her father. She said she had sneaked out of a window when the man got in and had run across the street and called us.

"We called for assistance but about that time he (Walters) came out of the garage with the family. He was holding a gun to Mr. Houston's head and forced us to drop our guns or he would kill him."

Eudy said Walters put the Houston family in a car and drove off. Police followed, finally surrounding and stopping the car.

"He had a shotgun to the man's head," said Eudy, "and we were trying to talk him into giving it up. He refused and kept threatening to kill that family."

Walters at that point had ordered the family out of the car and was standing with them.

At that time, said Eudy, Ranger Arnold picked Walters off with a 30.06 using a telescopic sight. Walters was shot four times and at least one shot hit him in the head. Police said Walters fired six times.

The Houstons were not injured.

Euless Chief Sustaire said Walters had been released from prison in May.

Sustaire said Walters was the last surviving member of the Hamilton gang except for Floyd Hamilton, who had been operating an air program for former convicts.

Walters had been in federal prison for more than 20 years, said the Dallas County Sheriff's Department. He had been in and out of Dallas several times since his release.

The manhunt began Wednesday night when Police Sgt. Bill Harvell stopped a car in Euless for a traffic violation about 10 p.m.

As Harvell approached the vehicle on foot, the man inside fired six times. The bullets missed Harvell but three struck his car.

Harvell shot back but missed. The man then dropped his pistol, grabbed a shotgun and fled into a wooded area, leaving a woman companion.

Pending against Walters were several armed robbery charges and one assault to murder charge, the Dallas Sheriff's Department spokesman said.

The Hamiltons and the Barrow-Parker pair were products of Dallas West Side. The other half of the Hamilton brothers team was Raymond.

The Hamiltons and Buck and Clyde Barrow became the core of a loose-knit organization called the "West Dallas Gang." The Hamiltons later teamed with Clyde and Bonnie on bank and payroll robberies.

At one time, Floyd and others in the Hamilton gang freed him from Eastham Prison Farm, killing a guard in the process.

Floyd Hamilton said today that the connection of Walters and Bonnie and Clyde was thin —that although the groups were related on some jobs, he did not know of Walters ever taking part in a Barrow-Parker escapade.

Bonnie and Clyde died May 23, 1934, in a hail of bullets near Sailes, La. Raymond Hamilton was executed in the state prison in Huntsville May 10, 1935.

SENATE PLAN

Redistricting Board Will Meet Friday

AUSTIN (AP) — Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes said today the Legislative Redistricting Board will meet Friday to vote on a reapportionment plan for the state Senate.

"There definitely will be a meeting tomorrow of the redistricting board," Barnes said. "We will vote on a Senate plan."

Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin, the board chairman, was not available at once for confirmation.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

A spokesman for the attorney general said he had not called a meeting for Friday, "but that doesn't mean there won't be one."

Barnes said he planned to spend "the entire weekend" on House redistricting, once Senate reapportionment is behind the board.

He reiterated he thinks the House should be cut into 150 individual districts — one for each state representative — in place of the present system of at-large representation of urban counties by several members.

State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert, who had been aligned in several reports with House Speaker Gus Mutscher in favoring multi-member districts, said he was undecided about the matter.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, the board's most outspoken advocate of individual districts, said he was undecided whether to force the issue by making a motion at Friday's meeting.

CONVINCED

"I'm more convinced than before that we do have a time problem," Armstrong said, adding that he wanted to discuss this with the board.

He said he had heard a single-member district plan had been drawn with the help of computers by a class at the University of Texas at Arlington, but "I am suspicious of computer plans, per se."

The redistricting board has only nine days to finish its work. Its 60-day life span, established by the Texas Constitution, expires Oct. 23.

Barnes said the Senate redistricting plan will have "a lot of changes" from the one approved by the Senate redistricting subcommittee in the closing days of the 1971 regular session.

Ballard Seeks Trial Change

Change of venue hearing in the murder trial of Whitmer Jean Ballard, 45, will be held in 42nd District Court, Midland, Friday at 10 a.m. with 118th District Judge R. W. Caton presiding.

Ballard is charged with murder with malice in connection with the Dec. 2 shotgun slaying of Steve Currie, 71, prominent Glasscock County rancher.

Ballard, in a petition prepared by his court-appointed attorney, Bobby Bearden of Midland, is requesting that the trial be moved to Upton County, whose 83rd and 112th Districts adjoin the 42nd District. Rankin is the county seat of Upton.

The request is being made because "There exist in Midland County so great a prejudice against him (Ballard) that he cannot obtain a fair and impartial trial of this cause in said county."

The petition cites front page coverage of the Orville Davis trial by the Midland Reporter-Telegram and extensive coverage by all Midland radio and television media as reason for prejudice against Ballard.

According to the petition, Davis was tried for the same offense alleged against Ballard; Davis received a conviction and a life sentence; and all evidence introduced against Davis was disclosed to the public by the news media; and such evidence is not admissable against Ballard because of the public knowledge of it by Midland County residents.

In selecting Upton County as a proposed site for the trial, Bearden said in the petition that Ballard is entitled under criminal code procedure to request that his case be transferred to an adjoining district, specifically Upton County.

Stay Away From Watchdog

WASHINGTON (AP) — Campaigning for a "friend-of-the-consumer" approach to governmental buyer protection, Rep. Don Fugua, D-Fla., is urging Congress to stay away from "a watchdog that would go out and bite some other agency."

Grinding today into a third day of argument over the Government Operations Committee's version of a consumer protection bill, the House arranged for a vote on the Fugua's plan. His proposal would give the new agency the status of adviser-handing out "a friendly warning" to other agencies — but without the power to enter federal proceedings as a legal party with the rights of "adversary advocate" of consumer interests.

Fugua's amendment was offered as a substitute to one of Ralph Nader's backers put forth adding more power to the agency as proposed in the bill under consideration.

Chile's Uncompensated Grabs Trigger Dilemma

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say Chile's uncompensated expropriation of two American copper firms has created Washington's most serious diplomatic dilemma in Latin America in several years.

The decision by Chile three days ago not to reimburse the Kennecott Copper Co. and Anaconda Co. has raised the prospect that low levels of U.S. aid to Chile may be reduced even further.

The State Department Wednesday denounced the expropriation without payment as "deeply disappointing and disturbing," but withheld any specific punitive action against the 11-month old Socialist government of President Salvador Allende.

U.S. officials advocating a soft approach toward Chile say punitive actions could produce a wave of sympathy for Chile, leaving the United States more harmed than Chile.

Supporters of a hard line argue that to do nothing could jeopardize U.S. investments in Latin America, exposing the United States as little more than a "paper tiger" and risking strong congressional opposition to the entire foreign-assistance program.

Chile has not received a U.S. bilateral loan for years but has several loan applications pending in Interamerican Development Bank where the United States wields considerable influence.

Tisdale Back With Federal Marshals

Benjamin Thomas Tisdale, 46, charged in connection with the Dec. 2 slaying of Glasscock County rancher Steve Currie, is back in the custody of federal authorities.

Federal marshal from Fort Worth took custody of Tisdale Wednesday afternoon to transfer him for disposition of federal charges.

Tisdale was brought to Howard County to be present in 118th District Court, Garden City, for a change of venue hearing in connection with his murder trial. District Judge Ralph Caton Friday ordered Tisdale's trial moved to 51st District Court in San Angelo. No trial date has been set.

Finicky Computer Goes Into Decline

A phenomena, known as a break-down, is being considered the cause of little accomplishment by the new city computer manager, City Manager Harry Nagel, reported today.

The computer manager, James Campbell, has been with the city for two weeks, and during that time has had nothing but trouble with the machine, according to city officials.

And the finicky machine, obviously doubtful of the concept of love at first sight, completely cut communications off with the new man in the most recent break-down.

"Compute maintenance crews worked all night Wednesday on the machine, and experts have been called in on the problem thought to be in the printer," Nagel said today.

The city manager also added that the city, for every day the computer is down, is deducting $65 from the monthly rental fee to IBM, which is approximately $1,500.

Already an expert, acclaimed as the best in Texas, from Fort Worth, has spent some time on the machine, and city officials think the IBM computer factory will have to be called into the work.

And, adding insult to injury, the computer manager was off to the Midland City Hall today, possibly feeling a little unwanted. After-all, the city payroll for the first weeks in October must get out, and maybe the computer there will not be so hard to get along with.

Scientist Plans To Spend Time Alone In Cave

HOUSTON (AP) — A French scientist plans to spend six months alone in a cave near Del Rio to study the effects of human isolation, the man's wife said here Wednesday.

Dr. Michel Siffre will enter Midnight Cave early next month and not emerge until next spring, his wife said in an announcement here.

Mrs. Siffre, who described her husband as a "human biologist", said he will arrive here next week to make final preparation for his long isolation.

Danny Peugh, Cindy Shaw Have Pig Show Champions

Danny Peugh and Cindy Shaw took the top two places with their pigs at the 26th annual Howard County Junior Market Pig Show Wednesday. (See picture Page 7-A)

Peugh won the Grand Champion award with his champion heavy weight Hampshire, weighing in at 243 pounds. Miss Shaw won the Reserve Champion award with her champion heavy weight Duroc, weighing in at 22s pounds. The showmanship award went to Carla Perry.

The show will continue today at 7:30 p.m. with the auction of the top barrows. Auctioneer Kenneth Bozeman, Lubbock, will handle the sale.

Judge of the pig show was Bobby Lee, vocational instructor at Wilson, and co-superintendents Ralph White, Coahoma, and Larry Shaw, Knott. The ring announcer was Fred Davis, Big Spring.

The champions of each class were: Duroc, Cindy Shaw, champion, 228 pounds; and Summer Shaw, reserve champion, 216. Hampshire, Danny Peugh, champion, 243 pounds; and Steve Foster, reserve champion, 205 pounds. Crossbred, Jim Early, champion, 234 pounds; and Summer Shaw, reserve champion, 202 pounds.

Class results were: Light weight crossbred, Summer Shaw, first; Guy James, second; Donna James, third; Dana Westbrook, fourth; Shannon Broyles, fifth; Randy Lowe, sixth; Roy Lee Metcalf, seventh and eighth.

Heavy weight crossbred: Jim Early, first; David Zant, second; Kenneth Smith, third; Guy James, fourth; Stacey Parker, fifth; Johnny Early, sixth; Donna James, seventh; and Nathan Zant, eighth.

Light weight Hampshires, Steve Foster, first; Patty Peugh, second; Johnny Early, third; Carla Perry, fourth and fifth; Donnie Buchanon, sixth; Shannon Boyles, seventh; Roger Coates, eighth; and Donnie Buchanan, ninth.

Heavy weight Hampshires, Donny Peugh, first; Dirk Perry, second; Carla Perry, third; Dirk Perry, fourth; Marta Prado, fifth; Dirk Perry, sixth; Elgie Bayes, seventh; Jim Early, eighth; and David Long, ninth.

WANTS TRAINED PROFESSIONALS

Sheriff Reluctant Ambulance Dispatcher

By LINDA CROSS

The hot potato of ambulance service for rural Howard County residents has been tossed into Sheriff A. N. Standard's lap.

Rural residents in need of emergency ambulance service are to call the sheriff's office — until some other plan is approved.

"I intend to make my office act as a central service. We will take the emergency calls and relay the message to the people equipped to handle the emergency. We will depend on what local resources are available, such as the hospitals, funeral homes, Webb AFB and any other agency equipped for ambulance service," said Standard.

Standard added that he wanted county residents to understand that unless there is absolutely no other alternative, his deputies will be sent only to investigate and to assist in the emergencies, not to handle any injured persons.

"I'm not in the ambulance business, nor did I ask for this obligation," said Sheriff Standard.

"I hope the commissioner's court will seek some other avenue for solving this. We're not equipped well enough with either men or apparatus to handle this thing," Standard told the commissioners.

"I don't want any ambulances or equipment of that type for my department. I want to get this matter into the hands of professionals equipped and trained in the business as soon as possible," added Standard.

Commissioners turned the matter over to the sheriff Wednesday afternoon during an emergency meeting called to discuss the ambulance problem. In that meeting, County Judge A. G. Mitchell intimated that the county would like to make some sort of ambulance service arrangement with the city.

"We would like to be big brother on this with the city," said Judge Mitchell. He said that had the city commissioners and City Manager Harry Nagel been able to attend the county's emergency meeting, some sort of arrangement might have been proposed.

Judge Mitchell and Commissioners Simon Terrazas, Jack Buchanan and Bill Bennett did not elaborate on the type of arrangement they were seeking, saying, "We will sit tight until we can meet with the city." Commissioner Bill Crooker did not attend the emergency meeting.

A breakfast meeting with city commissioners was suggested for Monday.

"I don't know how the sheriff intends to handle this," said Judge Mitchell. "He didn't tell us what he intended to do — he just said he would take care of it," Mitchell added. "He didn't ask for any equipment, he just said he would handle it."

Commissioner Bennett made the motion that the county find some other measure rather than a contract with L. A. Hiltbrunner to take care of rural ambulance calls.

"I think from his statements to the court that Hiltbrunner is not in any way interested in service to the county. We ought to just forget him and not ask for any more ambulance service, and no contract. He broke a contract once," Bennett charged.

"I think we should have been given more time on Hiltbrunner's request that we pay him $800 per month or he was going to stop service. He came in Monday and said he was not going to give service to the county any more. That was another short notice as far as I'm concerned," said Commissioner Buchanan.

Two weeks ago, Hiltbrunner, owner of Alert Ambulance Service, came before the commissioners court to request payment of $800 per month to reimburse him on money he said he was losing because he was unable to collect his fees on some ambulance runs outside the city limits.

Hiltbrunner said he would have to have an answer by Sept. 28 or 29 or he would have to take the unit used in county emergencies out of Howard County for use in his ambulance service in Memphis, Tenn. Buchanan, Terrazas and Judge Mitchell complained because Hiltbrunner gave the city commission 30 days to act upon a request for money and the county one week.

A contract offering other terms than the $800 per month was drawn up by County Attorney Bill Eyssen. Monday, Hiltbrunner refused to sign the contract because, he said, some of its terms were vague. He alleged that Judge Mitchell had derogatory statements about the type of service Hiltbrunner had been giving.

VIET VETERAN WHO LOST HIS JOB

Helps Form Union For Unemployed

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Arthur Hazard, a 29-year-old Vietnam veteran who last February lost his $150-a-week computer programmer job, has helped form a union for unemployed persons.

In weekly dealings with the state Department of Employment Security, he said he "found a lack of information on the whole workings of the Unemployment Security Act—things an unemployed person doesn't know."

Hazard said in an interview that the jobless need a united voice if they are going to get work or improved benefits, which is why he and others established the Unemployed Workers Union.

200 MEMBERS

The union counts about 200 members, but wants to sign up 28,000 persons, the number of unemployed Rhode Islanders.

The union, which charges no dues, operates on contributed funds out of a church-run community center. Just six weeks old, it has achieved what Hazard considers two major accomplishments:

—A U.S. District Court order allowing its members to distribute leaflets among workers waiting for benefits at the employment security office, describing the union's purpose and the rights of the jobless.

—A meeting with Gov. Frank Licht to press for additional unemployment benefits.

Mary C. Hackett, employment security director, said she welcomed the union but objected to the distribution of pamphlets at the department's office. The union challenged her ruling in federal court and won.

ASHAMED

Hazard points to the leaflets in explaining why the union was created.

"As individuals, unemployed workers have no power over the institutions, like DES, that control them," the leaflet says. "Unemployed workers have always in the past gone alone and ashamed to apply for benefits. They never shared their grievances with anyone. The unemployed worker did not know what all of his rights were."

In the meeting with Licht, Hazard said, "we got our point across, but we will have to wait to find out what the end result will be."

He said the governor made no promises.

The union wants Licht to call a special session of the General Assembly to extend unemployment benefits to 52 weeks from 39. They also want increased benefits for dependents of the jobless.

Put Final Touches On Bill To Control Wages, Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is putting final touches on a bill extending its authority to control wages, prices and rents until April 1973, and seeking new powers to limit interest rates and dividends.

The administration is expected to ask Congress for quick approval of the legislation, which also may add a new dimension to President Nixon's post-freeze controls — an emergency court of appeals to hear cases arising from his new economic program.

NEW COURT

The measure also may include authority for the Pay Board and the Price Commission, key boards in Nixon's Phase 2 program to subpoena records needed for investigations of wage-price cases.

The board and the commission will have power to develop wage-price standards and to approve individual pay and price increases.

The new court would speed up litigation that is sure to come after the freeze ends Nov. 13. Officials also said it would make the government's job of compliance easier—it could simply go to the new court with injunction requests to bar violations.

Nixon's power to control wages, prices and rents expires next April. The administration says it will seek authority to extend that power to interest and dividends "as a backstop." There are no plans to use the interest and dividend controls, it says.

PLEA FOR SUPPORT

But that was the administration's position earlier this year when it removed previous objections to the bill that provided Nixon with authority to impose the 90-day freeze Aug. 15.

As the administration moved to get its legislation in line, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally made a plea for bipartisan support of Nixon's new economic program, telling a group set up to promote Phase 2 that the fears of the "prophets of doom" are unjustified.

Connally said there are a number of critics of Nixon's Phase 2 plan but he said the criticism is largely based on the fact that the pay board and Price Commission have yet to develop permissible stndards.

Citizens for a New Prosperity, primarily a business-oriented group billing itself as nonpartisan, launched its program to promote Phase 2. It said it would try to spread support for the program through the media and through educational efforts in each state.

Juvenile Court Case Televised

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — The 17-year-old girl had been charged with being a runaway, being incorrigible, and shoplifting. As she pleaded with the judge to let her return home, television cameras recorded the hearing for broadcast later.

The departure from the normal court reluctance to disclose details of juvenile cases was authorized by Judge Michael Corrigan of Sedgwick County Juvenile Court as part of his quest for new methods to replace past efforts that he says have had very little deterrent effect.

"If we as juvenile judges, and juvenile courts, are going to have any effect in the future," he reasons, "it's time we direct our attention to methods that might change the attitudes of young people who might be in trouble."

NAME USED

Allowing the television cameras and microphones into his courtroom last month was the latest step in a program he began about a year ago to give the news media access, under certain restrictions, to material from his court. His search for new methods also includes a program to build up a corps of 250 volunteer probation counselors.

Names of juveniles are sometimes withheld in reporting cases from the court, but for the televised case the girl's name was used and cameras were allowed to show a front view of her.

Crews from KAKE-TV in Wichita filmed both the pretrial hearing and a later court session to determine disposition of her case. The material was then telecast during a Sunday night news program.

Corrigan granted the girl's request to return home with her mother, with the understanding that both mother and daughter would undergo counseling by a court-appointed psychiatrist.

PLAY TO CAMERAS

Corrigan says the regular presence of television cameras in the courtroom might tempt lawyers, the parties involved or judges themselves to "play to the cameras, and this would certainly compromise the judicial process."

But the 34-year-old father of three says favorable reaction to the televising of the girl's case has led him to consider some additional televised coverage, particularly in cases involving drugs, where he believes public awareness is critical.

"The public should be able to know the philosophy of the court and the methods used by the judge," he explains.

THE GREAT CRIPPLERS—III

Life-Saving Gains Being Made Against Cerebral Stroke

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Life-saving gains are being made against cerebral stroke, the often paralyzing brain disease that afflicts two million Americans and is a threat from infancy through old age.

But an Associated Press survey of efforts in the medical fight against stroke shows full progress depends on learning more about high blood pressure and solving the riddle of a sort of biological rust that can clog the body's arteries.

Cerebral stroke currently ranks behind only heart disease and cancer as the nation's most common cause of death.

BLOOD PRESSURE

Sometimes called apoplexy, strokes often are triggered by hypertension — high blood pressure — either by itself or as an insidious partner of arteriosclerosis, the so-called biological rust clogging the body's arterial pipelines.

Strokes stem from blockage, hemorrhaging, rupture or other abnormalities of blood vessels nourishing the brain. Blood clots are prominent villains.

Because the brain is command post for man's movements and mental processes, a stroke-damaged brain can cause paralysis, numbness of hands and face, weakness and difficulty in speaking.

Difficulty in thinking, impaired memory and mental disturbances are other possible results of stroke. It all depends on what area or areas of the brain are hit, and how badly.

Often preceding a full-blown stroke are headaches, difficulty in vision, dizziness and fainting spells. When it hits, a stroke can kill within minutes.

DEATH RATES DIP

The gains made against cerebral stroke are seen on a variety of fronts. Death rates are falling. Advances have been made in treating hypertension.

Steady but still rather slow progress has been recorded in detecting the first signs of an impending stroke. There's been progress also in surgical treatment of stroke victims.

No recent breakthroughs have been made in rehabilitating stroke patients, but tried-and-true methods are spreading to an increasing number of hospitals and clinics, according to the government's National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Stroke (NINDS).

MIDDLE-AGED

But strokes' high cost continues:

—Of the two million Americans estimated to be victims of the disease at any one time, one-third were wage earners when they were stricken.

—Of that total, almost 400,000 stroke victims outside of nursing homes and other institutions are suffering some degree of paralysis.

—The majority of stroke victims are middle-aged or elderly, but stroke can afflict the embryo within the mother's womb or young people.

Who is most likely to suffer a stroke?

The U.S. Public Health Service says the "person known to have a greater than average risk of stroke probably has one or more of these problems: Overweight, a diet high in fats, high blood pressure, tobacco smoking."

Additionally, the service says, he may have "atherosclerosis (a form of arteriosclerosis), heart disease, diabetes or other ailments" and may have had so-called little strokes, transient oxygen-depriving attacks.

Dr. Fletcher McDowell of Cornell University Medical Center in New York says a classic argument bolstering the theory that diets rich in animal fats and carbohydrates are a cause of atherosclerosis underlying a stroke derives from World War II.

DARING SURGERY

When most Europeans during the war were reduced to spartan diets, the incidence of coronary artery disease and stroke dropped sharply.

From 1955 through 1965, the most recent period for which full statistics are available, the U.S. stroke-mortality rate declined 11 per cent over-all and 20 per cent for the 45-to-65 age group that includes the most victims of the disease.

The drop is mainly attributed to improved treatment of patients who suffer little strokes and thereby are helped in time from having full-blown, often fatal strokes.

Treatment of little-stroke victims includes use of blood-thinning anticoagulant drugs to help prevent formation of clots and of new drugs designed to dissolve clots already formed.

The hunt now is under way for improved anticoagulants, clot dissolvers and drugs that allow brain blood vessels to open as widely as possible.

Gains have been made also in treating high blood pressure. Following development of antihypertension drugs, the death rate from hypertensive heart disease dropped almost 60 per cent between 1952 and 1968.

The implication is that these drugs, in curbing deaths from hypertension, helped prevent many deaths from cerebral stroke.

Treatment for stroke has advanced also in the surgical field. For many years, cerebro-vascular surgery was limited almost entirely to correcting flaws or road blocks in the larger external arteries feeding the brain, especially the carotid arteries in the neck.

But now surgeons are operating on relatively large arteries within the brain cavity itself and a few are pioneering with operations on tiny blood vessels of the brain.

But Dr. McDowell says all stroke victims are not candidates for such daring surgery, which must be limited to patients whose blood vessels defects are in a particular area.

NOBEL PRIZE WINNER — Dr. Earl W. Sutherland Jr., physiology professor at Vanderbilt University, and Mrs. Sutherland discuss his Nobel Prize with newsmen in Nashville. He won the Nobel Prize for medicine for his research in cyclic adenyl acid (AMP) a key element in controlling hormones. Sutherland, an avid fisherman, had just returned from a fishing trip. "That's where he gets a lot of his creative ideas," a fellow researcher said.

'Californians' Entertain Here

"The New Californians," a Christian musical group from the First Baptist Church of Lemon Grove, Calif., will be presented in an after-game fellowship Friday at 10:30 p.m. in College Baptist Church. The group appeared on the CBS "Newcomer" show last summer.

Comprised of 11 instrumentalists and vocalists, the New Californians will present a program of secular and religious music, plus some lighter works of contemporary pops composers, and will include passages from Otis Skillings' new musical, "Love."

The program is to start immediately following the Big Spring-Odessa Permian game. All youths and interested adults are invited to attend.

Sponsoring are the First Baptist, East Fourth Baptist, College Baptist and West Side Baptist churches, plus several local businessmen.

UNITED FUND GAINS $1,425

The United Fund gained $1,425 in collections Wednesday to bring the total raised in this year's fund drive to $28,291.

"We are gratified at the response we have had from Big Springers," said Morris Robertson, campaign chairman. "But we still have a long way to go before we reach our goal of $110,000. I urge everyone to give their full Fair Share to the United Fund."

Suspect Out Of Hospital

Feliz Madrid Dominguez, charged in connection with the Oct. 5 burglary of the 7-Eleven Store, at Eleventh Place and Johnson, was transferred to county jail Wednesday.

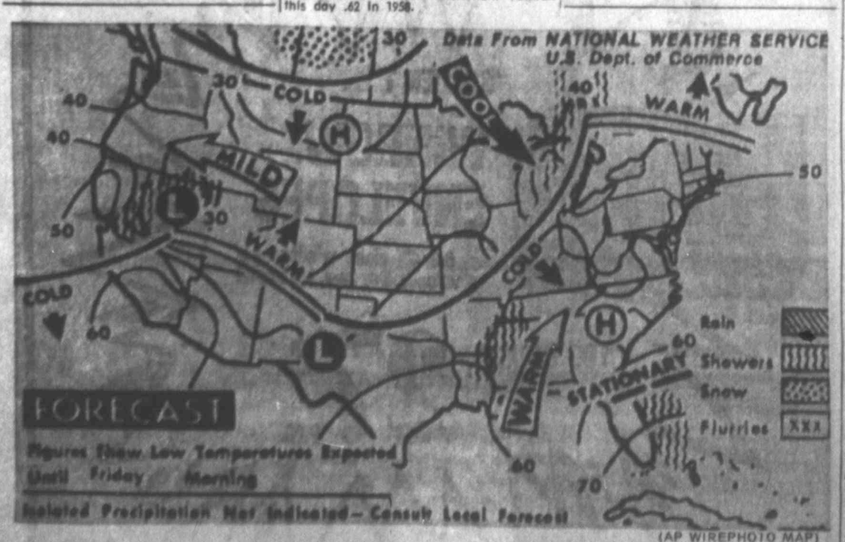

Bond was set at $5,000 by Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter, and Dominguez was released Wednesday, according to Howard County sheriff deputies.

Dominguez, 46, of 706 NW 10th, has been in the Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital since the night of the burglary. He was shot by the first officer to arrive at the scene, Sgt. John Scott.

Scott said that he fired at a figure emerging from the building after he called out a warning, and when he thought he saw the figure point something at him, he fired.

'Be-Bop-A-Lula' Rock Star Dies

NEWHALL, Calif. (AP) — Gene Vincent, 36, the duck-tailed rock star of the 1950s who was best known for his recording of "Be-Bop-A-Lula," died Tuesday at Inter-Valley Community Hospital. A hospital spokesman said the cause of death was not known.

Glasscock 4-H Students Get Achievement Awards

GARDEN CITY — Ronnie Halfmann and Karen Schwartz were named winners of the Gold Star awards at the annual Glasscock County Achievement Awards program Tuesday night in St. Lawrence Community Hall.

More than two score other 4-H club members were cited for outstanding work on their projects. More than 160 members and parents attended the event and shared in refreshments and fellowship.

Western music was furnished by Delmer Batla, 4-H leader, and his son, Mike, playing on guitars, while Mark Werst sang. Fiddle and guitar music was furnished by a quartet composed of Marck Schafer, 4-H leader, and Tom Castle, Arnold Loyd and Charlie Sanderson of Big Spring.

Ronnie, 16, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Halfmann, St. Lawrence. He has been in 4-H work for seven years, having projects on swine, sheep, steers (he showed champions in every division in the county show and had showmanship honors). He was cited for achievement in agricultural projects. Currently he is on the county council program committee and is feeding three steers and seven lambs for the coming shows.

Karen, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schwartz, St. Lawrence, and has been in 4-H work for nine years. Her projects include home management, improvement, foods, child care, community beautification, recreation, clothing and swine raising. She won county medals in all her major activities also in citizenship, and won district and state (second) honors in the food show.

Jody Schwartz, chairman o the county 4-H council presided, and club members reported on highlights of club activities during the year, including livestock by Ronnie Halfmann; judging and demonstrations by Chris Hirt; and 4-H camps and the council by Karen Schwartz. Mrs. Mildred Eiland, home demonstration agent, presented the awards to girls, and Oliver Werst, county agent, presented the boys' awards. Jeanie Werst, program committee chairman, staged musical and singing acts, and Dinell Hirt gave the closing ceremonial poem.

Winners included:

LENORAH (SC) — Elzia Eggleston, Kerens, died Saturday.

Mr. Eggleston has a number of relatives in this area, including his mother, Mrs. Bertha Eggleston, Lenorah; three sisters, Mrs. Jim Ringener, Lenorah, Mrs. Beatrice Hightower, Odessa, and Mrs. Conoll Wolker, Luther; and one brother, Billie Eggleston, Big Spring. Big Spring.

Mrs. Warren, Retired Teacher

Mrs. R.L. (Ena Mae) Warren, 64, died at 10:40 a.m. today in a local hospital.

Services are set for 10 a.m. Friday in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel, with the Rev. Leo Gee and the Rev. Kenneth Patrick, officiating.

Mrs. Warren was born April 6, 1907, in Howard County. She attended Howard County schools and received her B.A. degree from Hardin-Simmons University in 1925, graduating magna cum laude. She received her M.A. degree in 1952. She taught two years in Reeves County and three years in rural Howard County. She taught at Washington Elementary from 1945 to 1960. She was honored as teacher of the year in 1960. She was a member of the First Baptist Church.

Survivors include her husband of Big Spring; and two cousins, Vera Price, Anson, and Harvey Muns, Sweetwater.

Levi Keefer, Relatives Here

Levi Keefer, 43, Houston, died at 3:15 p.m. Wednesday in Houston after an illness of several months.

Mr. Keefer's mother, Mrs. W. B. Henry, and a brother, Jim Keefer, live in Big Spring. The family had lived in Big Spring in the past. Services were set for today at 1:30 p.m. at Heights Funeral Home in Houston.

Survivors include his wife, Jerry; five brothers, Jim Keefer, Big Spring, Robert Keefer, Cleveland, Roy Keefer, Monahans, and C. C. Keefer and L. D. Keefer both of Odessa.

Women Judges Two Of 6 Prospective Nominees

(AP WIREPHOTO)

WASHINGTON (AP) — A municipal-bond lawyer in Arkansas and a veteran woman judge in California are two of six prospective nominees for the Supreme Court undergoing American Bar Association investigation.

The two, Herschel Friday of Little Rock and Mildred Lillie of Los Angeles, may be in the lead for the vacancies at this point. The ABA is conducting the inquiry for the Justice Department.

The four other names forwarded to the ABA judiciary committee for preliminary checks are Judges Paul H. Roney and Charles Clark of the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans, Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-A. Va., and Judge Sylvia Bacon of the District of Columbia Superior Court.

NEXT WEEK

The ABA committee, headed by Lawrence E. Walsh, a New York lawyer, pobably will meet to make a final judgment of the candidates' qualifications early next week.

President Nixon will announce his choices later in the week. If the Senate gives its approval, the two new justices will take the seats vacated in September by Hugo L. Black and John M. Harlan.

At any time along the way, the administration could scale down the number of prospects. Similarly, the ABA committee, in making informal reports to Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, could suggest a candidate be dropped.

The White House confirmed late Wednesday a list has been sent to the ABA. The names of the six prospects were obtained from qualified legal sources outside the government.

WIDELY KNOWN

Friday, 49, is widely known in the South as a municipal-bond attorney and as a lawyer for school boards in desegregation cases. His most prominent assignment in this respect was representing the Little Rock board in a series of disputes in the 1950s that featured then-Gov. Orval Faubus. He is experienced also in labor law. Friday is a Democrat.

Mrs. Lillie, 56, has been a California state appeals court judge since 1958 and has 24 years of judicial experience. A native of Iowa and a Democrat, she began her legal career as a federal prosecutor. She could become the first woman justice.

Beaten, Stabbed Body Of Man Found In Woods

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — The beaten and stabbed body of a young man was found in a wooded area here today after a search prompted by the arrest of four teenagers in Arizona in the murdered man's car, Caddo Parish deputies said.

A spokesman said Frank Lobue Jr., 21, of Shreveport had apparently been beaten over the head and stabbed.

Arizona police quoted a 15-year-old girl Wednesday as saying two male companions escorted Lobue into the woods and returned with him after Lobue picked them up for a ride ten days ago.

Lobue was found tied up. He had been stabbed 13 times with a butcher knife, a Caddo Parish spokesman said.

The four young people arrested in Lobue's car were being held by authorities in Cochise County, Ariz., pending extradition to Louisiana on murder charges, the spokesman said.

FINDING JOBS IN JAILS

Unemployed Teachers

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — Thousands of teachers are suddenly finding themselves out of a job, but a newly formed organization will try to find them employment in less conventional areas, such as jails.

"Today there are no schools in 89 per cent of the city and county jails and I'd like to see what can be done about that," said Robert Dwan, who with a dozen friends has formed the Organization of Unemployed Teachers—OUT.

"At this point in time it has become a full-time job just to find a job," said Dwan, who holds a master's degree in drama but was unable to obtain employment in 75 school districts to which he applied last summer.

"The idea is that there are a few jobs available for an unemployed teacher if he tries hard enough to get them," Dwan said Wednesday in an interview. "But I see the real possibility as involvement in new ideas and beginning projects, such as developing schools in city and county jails."

Dwan has called a meeting for Monday night to discuss a number of employment ideas with the help of 20 experts in public and private education. He has invited the estimated 5,000 jobless teachers in the San Francisco Bay Area to attend.

"Up until two years ago—that was the turning point—there was a shortage of teachers," he says. "Then schools of education began turning out enough teachers to close the gap and the current projections are that from here on out there will be more qualified teachers than jobs," he said.

Linda Williams works with Nexus, a Menlo Park organization associated with and pursuing the same goals as OUT. She believes developing educational toys and games may be another answer to help jobless teacher.

"For example, most of the educational materials used in schools are developed in places very distant from the school, which means they are really not very good for any particular school," she said.

Books about plants could deal with plant life in the school's region, she explained.

"The organization is a place for new ideas and encouragement," Dwan says. "One fellow we've actually gotten a job, so we're sort of an employment agency too."

Crabs From Lavaca Bay Tainted With Mercury

AUSTIN (AP) — A large portion of the central part of Lavaca Bay has been reopened for oyster harvesting, but the State Health Department recommended Wednesday that blue crab taken from the bay should not be eaten until further notice.

The central part of the bay was closed because of mercury contamination.

"Laboratory analysis of samples of commercially processed and packed oysters and crab indicate that these products are below the federal Food and Drug Administration mercury guideline tolerance of .5 ppm (parts per million)," the state department said in a news release. "However, excessive mercury densities are still being found in some blue crab collected from Lacava Bay."

The release said that mercury sampling tests the past year and a half have shown "A steady and consistent reduction in mercury densities found in oysters taken from Lavaca Bay. The oyster has the ability to cleanse itself as the quality of the environment improves. There is some indication, however, that other marine animals do not have this same ability to the degree that the oyster has, which perhaps accounts for the fact that oysters may be of safe, edible quality and other marine animals in the same water may not be," the department said.

Pride People Plan Events

The Pride People of the Chamber of Commerce met Wednesday at the chamber and discussed the idea of a calendar of events for next year.

The group decided to have seasonal projects, including massive spring and fall cleanup drives.

"The city will pick-up trash that is put out during those two drives," said Harry Nagel, city manager. "But the commissioners will have to give special permission to do it more often.

"Two special drives are not the whole answer to the litter problem," he said, "But they do help. The citizen response to our present program is very good. Many of the people are cleaning up without being contacted by the city."

Nagel stressed that for the Pride People's programs to work there must be coordination among all of those involved.

A sub-committee was set up to plan the plant-a-tree program, slated to begin in December. Members are Mrs. Odell Womack, Mrs. Dale Smith and Johnnie Johanson.

The next meeting of the group is scheduled for Nov. 17.

Lamesans Hear Charter Revision

LAMESA — A public hearing on proposed amendments to the city charter will be held at 7:30 p.m. today in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Building here.

The Charter Review Commission, composed of four local men, Wendell Strahan, chairman, Ray Renner, Jerry Bell and Arthur Nolen, has proposed eight charter amendments.

A preliminary report of the suggested amendments was delivered by the committee Sept. 30. The commission was appointed last May by the Lamesa City Council.

Bit On Vague Side

The administration gained crossed-finger support from labor for its Phase II of the Nixon Freeze by promising that the Pay Board will have autonomy. In the same breath, it said the board would be advisory. The reluctance of labor to go along under such vague phrases is understandable.

Not only labor but every business executive charged with budget-making for the new year has problems. Nobody has been told what limits of inflation will be imposed. The new contracts were what Secretary of Treasury John B. Connally has called "catch-up" settlements. Labor leaders will argue for that definition and for implementation of the new contracts next month.

Labor's leaders want to know how much of the "catch-up" round will be allowed; how much leeway will pay adjustments be allowed. The leaders will be reluctant to be put in position of lobbying for continued freeze on new contracts. Some kind of line has to be drawn. Case-by-case examination may be necessary until a tolerable formula is found.

Mr. Nixon's nationwide TV Phase II announcement was a pep talk with no substance. Mr. Connally's "technical details" talk was a promise to work out the details. The Nov. 13 end of freeze needs much more clarity than that. Mr. Connally said the intent was to move back to the free market. He indicated that the Pay Board (and the complementary Price Board) would have to take case-by-case the pace-setting examples and make guidelines from them.

Labor wants a line defined. If contracts are scaled down "anti-inflation levels," somebody has to define that level.

Businesses caught with only a part of its new labor costs settled faces that same kind of problem. If some workers got raises before the freeze, where will others' wages be allowed to go? What will that do to prices?

The administration has one strong point in its favor: the public wants inflation controlled and the dollar's value better protected.

The organizational table for operating the Post-Freeze task force clearly puts John Connally in direct charge as chairman of the Cost of Living Council.

Where Next?

President Nixon is full of surprises these days.

He caught everyone looking the other way when he came out with his announcement of plans to visit Red China between now and next spring.

The other day he flitted to Anchorage, Alaska, to visit briefly with Emperor Hirohito and the empress on a stop in their journey to Europe. It was, if for nothing more than diplomatic courtesy and good will, an excellent gesture.

And now he has announced plans to visit Moscow next year. This probably will give the Committee of One Million, opposing Red China's entrance into the United Nations, apoplexy.

But it poses a deeper question — where else does this leave President Nixon to go before November, 1972? One of those moon-shot astronauts better not miss practice, or he may find a strange face in his place.

'HE GROWLS A LOT–I WONDER IF HE BITES?'

Takes Cooperation

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Phase two of President Nixon's economic program can be successful only if the boards and commissions are able to let special interest be superseded by the public interest. The insistence of the AFL-CIO leaders that they must have the final say over a labor board of which they are to comprise half the membership means a trend toward special interest rather than the public interest.

GOVERNMENT supervision of the economy in its current crisis with an uncurbed inflation and high unemployment can be made workable if the President chooses members for the pay board and for the price commission who recognize that their duty is to serve the public interest.

Sacrifices will have to be made if the requests for wage or price raises are too large to meet the requirements of the battle against inflation. Prominent labor leaders want the pay board to be "autonomous," which implies that authority must rest in them and that their acts should not be subject to review by the higher commission known as the cost of living council. Such a view, which has been urged by labor leaders who are actually contending that the government shall not have final say, means that arbitrary decisions still can be made, and that the government would be helpless to stop excesses in either wage or price increases.

NOBODY likes governmental supervision of our economy. There come times, however, when disputes have to be taken to the higher authority where a decision has to avoid favoring one side or the other and must be guided by the public interest.

Until the whole mechanism proposed by President Nixon has the support of management and labor, there will not be public confidence in the rulings of the commissions.

PRESIDENT NIXON has chosen government controls of wages and prices on a temporary basis not because he prefers the method but because it was the only one left to him. He needs the wholehearted support of labor and management to make the controls effective.

Unions do not readily give up their powers, but they have done so during World War I and World War II and the Korean War, when wages and prices were supervised by government boards. The tendency was to accept the government's decisions in the interest of harmony and progress. In each instance, the cause of labor and especially its right thereafter to carry on its usual negotiations with employers in peacetime were not harmed, and normal relationships were resumed. The same thing may be expected this time.

THERE CERTAINLY is an argument for not cutting wages already contracted for, and there must be consideration given to any decline in the purchasing power of the dollar which makes the cost of living higher. But, in a broad sense, the new wage and price boards being established by President Nixon must be able to "hold the line."

THE NEW BOARDS will have the chance to examine the books of companies, if necessary, to determine their financial condition. This kind of study has never been made in detail when negotiations for large wage increases or substantial price raises have been going on. Perhaps the facts now will be available enabling the boards to render fair decisions.

Nixon's Revenge

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — The one thing you have to admire about the United States Senate is the spirit of brotherhood and loyalty the members have for each other. When Sen. Robert Byrd's name came up as a possible Supreme Court nominee, even a liberal such as Sen. George McGovern found it an outstanding suggestion.

THE FACT that Byrd never even passed his bar exams or ever practiced law has not bothered too many senators. The Senate is a gentlemen's club and a gentleman never questions the qualifications of another gentleman.

One only has to walk through the halls of the Capitol to see how proud the senators are that one of their own has been suggested to sit on the highest court in the land.

"A stroke of genius," is what one senator called the Byrd trial balloon. "Since Byrd has no experience he will be able to judge cases on their merits instead of some stupid legal consideration. Besides, if he goes to the court I may get his place."

ANOTHER SENATOR said: "Nobody deserves the seat more than Bob. There should always be one place on the court for former members of the Ku Klux Klan."

A third senator denied that the issue of mediocrity would be raised if Byrd was truly Nixon's appointee. "It's one thing to call an appointee outside the Senate 'mediocre,' but we would never do that to one of our own. If we started that sort of thing, the public might get the idea that there are a lot of mediocre men in this body".

"DO YOU really think Byrd would be the best man for court?" I asked.

"It depends on what you mean by best. If you mean best in the sense that he would be the wisest, then the answer is obviously no — but if you mean best in the sense that no one would dare raise his qualifications as an issue, then the answer is yes. President Nixon is sick and tired of the American Bar Assn. and Congress and the law schools questioning his appointments. Naming Byrd could be his way of getting even with them."

"BUT ISN'T that a little tough on the country?"

"No, it's a good joke. Everyone says that President Nixon doesn't have a sense of humor. Well, the idea that he's considering Byrd proves that he does."

It was hard to find anyone in the Senate who would take issue with the thought of Byrd on the court.

"SOME PEOPLE may say Bob Byrd doesn't know much about the Constitution. Other people may say Bob Byrd doesn't have a sharp enough mind. Still others may say he has little sympathy for the underdog. But it should be remembered that there is nothing in the Constitution that says you have to know anything to be on the Supreme Court.

Future Trade Relations

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — "Our economies are made to order for each other," said Harold B. Scott, U.S. Assistant Secretary of Commerce, as he spoke in an interview of future U.S.-Canadian trade relations.

Each country has unique resources and abilities to offer the other, he said, adding that "If we sit down and talk we can plan a complementary relationship that will not antagonize each other."

Those relations now are somewhat strained as a result of the U.S. import surcharge of 10 per cent on goods from all foreign countries, Canada included. The U.S. market is Canada's largest.

Many Canadians, and some Americans also, feel that Canada should be exempt from the surcharge because the economies of the two nations are so inter-related. Scott disagrees.

Too many countries, he said, are building the U.S. market into their own economies. "We have too many houseguests," he said,and indicated there will be no exceptions.

Scott described the complementary plans for the U.S. and Canada as "sectoral agreements," and said one already exists in the automotive industry which permits duty-free entry into the United States of Canadian-made vehicles.

Many Canadians, in and out of government, fear that agreements involving the dominant American economy may be to Canada's disadvantage. Typically, they say Americans wish them to become hewers of wood and drawers of water, insinuating that Canada would be a mere supplier rather than a processor of natural resources for American cities, farms and factories.

Scott maintains that this need not be the case. "Instead of just sending us raw materials they could process them," he said, thus adding to the value before export and simultaneously developing Canadian industry and employment.

But Scott suggested also that rather than have Canada develop industries competitive with those existing in the United States, the two nations should plan a complementary relationship.

As an example of one cooperative plan, he asked: "Shouldn't they be supplying the Northeast with power?" The United States had the capital and Canada the water supplies to plan a mutually beneficial arrangement.

The K.S. goal in retaining the surcharge on most Canadian goods is not to seek a complete balance of trade with Canada, he said. That relationship now tilts in favor of Canada by $1.5 billion a year.

Hold Your Job

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Tired of your job?

Find it too boring? Too difficult? Too unrewarding?

Well, before you drop it for another one, better take a long look around. You might be jumping from the frying pan into the fire.

A lot of jobs that look plushy from a distance turn out to be frayed around the edges on closer inspection. They, too, can be too routine, too demanding, too adventurous or even too lonely.

How many of us, for example, would want to be elected pope or president of the United States, burdened with the awesome decisions of pomp and power such high offices require? Who even would want to be king or queen of England and have to spend his days cutting ribbons at such functions as the opening of the new gasworks at Chitterington-on-Thames?

Here are a few other types of jobs most of us might want to avoid:

Official stamp glue taster for the U.S. Post Office.

Brass polisher at the Pentagon. No overtime pay.

Cleanup man at the National Horse Show.

Stand-in for the wild animal trainer who sticks his head in the lion's mouth.

Cheerleader for the Vietnamese war.

Chief counter in a sardine factory.

Mirage inspector in the Sahara Desert.

Night watchman in northern Alaska during the winter season.

Clerk in the exchange department of any department store the day after Christmas.

Cloak buyer for the Ku Klux Klan.

Personnel director for the Mafia.

Bulb changer for the Northern Lights.

Window washer for the Empire State Building on a windy day.

Computer operator in charge of keeping the list of Democratic aspirants for the presidency up-to-date.

A wholesale turkey salesman the morning after Thanksgiving Day.

Ghostwriter for Milton Berle.

Talent agent for the stars in a wax museum.

Custard pie tester for a television comedy show.

Chef at a banquet honoring Dracula.

Yep, it's better to take a real good look around before changing jobs now. You may be lucky to have the one you've got.

Delicious Mystery

Around The Rim

Jean Fannin

I have a friend who spooks easily.

NOT TOO LONG ago he was given a jar of pickled peppers. As he got in his car something moved, and the jar made an ideal weapon. Unfortunately he missed his adversary (or maybe fortunately since it turned out to be nothing more mischievous-minded than a nosy black cat), and the jar crashed onto the steering wheel. The odor lingered more than a little while in the car.

Last year it was this same guy who tried to separate his rearview mirror from the windshield with a karate blow. A present, dangling from the mirror, made a sinister movement as he got into his car. It was dark. Crash!

I'M BEGINNING to understand how he feels.

Last week after self-righteously spending an industrious couple of hours of my day off at work, I found a present in my car. A large, obviously home-grown, yellow-meated watermelon.

Was intended as a) a pat on the back from the boss (thanks, awfully, sir, but I'd rather have money — oh, I can keep the seed. Gee thanks); b) a bribe (please see above note); or c) was intended to self-destruct, taking me with it? I drove home with great care. I promised myself that if the watermelon rolling around so merrily on the floor of my car decided to bust wide open, I would track the gift-giver to the ends of the earth to wreak my vengeance.

SAFELY HOME, I breathed a sigh of relief and began to worry about more serious perils than a floorboard full of busted watermelon.

Not knowing who my benefactor was, and therefore not being sure he was a benefactor, I carefully inspected the watermelon from all angles. I could detect no minute holes through which a deadly quantity of arsenic could have been injected. (Okay, so maybe I do go to the movies too much!)

COURAGEOUSLY, I closed my eyes and split the melon down the middle (taking a nick out of my thumb because I had closed my eyes). It didn't explode or anything. (I also read too many murder mysteries.)

Since obviously it wasn't an implement of death or destruction there was only one thing left to do.

The watermelon was delicious.

Shirley Fouls It

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — Now that Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D.-N.Y., is running for the presidential nomination as the self-appointed representative of both blacks and women, the situation in the Democratic Party is normal. In barracks language, it is all fouled up.

SOMETIMES the suspicion is strong that this is the way Democrats like it. They strive to be more interesting than the Republicans, and they almost always succeed. From Tom Dewey through Ike Eisenhower, Barry Goldwater and Richard Nixon, the GOP presidential nominee has been a shoo-in from the first rattle of sniper fire. Democrats, in contrast, make their tigers fight for the job.

The Democrats already were in trouble before Mrs. Chisholm announced she would run in at least four primaries. They had enough candidates to supply two campaigns. The Black Caucus was — and is — threatening to raise hell at Miami Beach. Former Sen. Gene McCarthy was mumbling about heading a third party.

NOW THERE is the peppery, intelligent Mrs. Chisholm, who is challenging both the Democratic Establishment and black male politicians. She says, "black male politicians are no different than white male politicians. They have the same" — obviously chauvinistic — "feeling about women in politics . . ." Mrs. Chisholm is not a wicked woman and, thank God, she is not one of those yowling, untidy women's lib types, but she seems to be bucking for a footnote in history as the Democrat who made the splintering of the party complete.

UNLESS THE breed was changed while I was having a sarsparilla at Mike's, neither white nor black leaders will step aside to let Mrs. Chisholm work her way with the party. They will pay lip service to her aims, but power is still the name of the game, and politicians yield power only when put to the rack.

KID YOURSELF not. The Democrats, as the Establishment, are not much more liberal than their Republican counterpart. They were never all that happy with Adlai Stevenson, and Gene McCarthy discovered the party's conservative core when he challenged its bosses. The populist Sen. Fred Harris is generally dismissed as a serious candidate. In the smoke-filled rooms, John Lindsay's ambitions are viewed with great suspicion.

Mrs. Chisholm is less than realistic when she retorts "baloney" to suggestions that her candidacy will so split the liberals that the convention could wind up nominating the most conservative candidate on the list.

THIS WOULD be Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington, whose conservatism actually is only relative, since he has always voted liberal on domestic issues. Mrs. Chisholm's statement was almost good enough to cause him to choose his Cabinet.

Mrs. Chisholm has said she could support any of four possible liberal nominees — McGovern, Harris, Lindsay or Indiana's Birch Bayh. Publicly, these men are grateful for her endorsement, but privately they could be cursing their luck. For, in the primaries, Mrs. Chisholm's shotgun endorsement could so disperse the liberal vote as to make it meaningless. This is why Sen. Edmund Muskie has staked a middle course.

What Others Say

For several years now, many politicians have been vying with one another to declare their devotion to the consumers' interests. All sorts of new laws have been passed, at federal and state levels, that supposedly are good for consumers.

Undoubtedly some of them are. But consumers may be excused for a bit of skepticism when politicians—often the same ones who stress concern for consumers — support import restrictions and various price-fixing schemes, all of which make consumers pay more for the things that they buy.

As Mr. Gannon reported in this newspaper recently, Pennsylvania is one of at least 14 states where the price of milk is fixed. Not only is it fixed; it is set at a point high enough to satisfy the smallest and least efficient dairies. The profits of the larger dairies are thus protected, and everyone has a little less incentive to become more efficient.

Americans will wonder whether this really is the age of the consumer.

My Answer

Billy Graham

Why is it so hard to do what is right and so easy to do what's wrong? N.H.

You have asked a question that goes to the heart of all of us. Strange, isn't it, that even innocent little children have to be taught to do right, but they do wrong instinctively.

The reason is the fact that the human race is infected with the disease of sin. There is quite a difference between what we ought to be and what we are; what we would like to be, and what we are. God has written his law in our hearts, and when we fail to obey his law, our conscience tells us we have sinned. Like built-in instruments in a plane, we can detect when we have displeased God, and in our natural state we have displeased Him, every day in thought, word and deed.

But through Christ, the law can be reversed, so that we find it easy to do right and hard to do wrong. Paul said: "For what the law could not do, in that it was weak through the flesh, God sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and for sin, condemned sin in the flesh; that the righteousness of the law be fulfilled in us." The answer to your question is to let Christ rule your life!

A Devotion For Today . . .

By thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned. —Matthew 12:37

PRAYER: Our Father, keep our minds and hearts receptive to Thy word that we may pass on acceptable, helpful words to others. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Pool-Liquor Combination May Be Available Soon

Pool tables in local lounges and bars may soon become reality in Big Spring, with the approval of the city commission Tuesday night to a petition presented in the city manager's report.

No formal action was taken on the petition, however, the city fathers agreed with Harry Nagel, city manager, that the city should take positive action on the request formulated by 30 local liquor-licensed establishment owners.

Nagel told the commission that the stigma once placed on the pool halls and alcohol combination is a thing of the past, and that the city ordinance regulating this issue should be amended.

"I can find some merit in the request of the establishment owners," Nagel said. The commission authorized the manager to draw up an ordinance overruling the current city law prohibiting the practice.

In other matters presented to the commission in the manager's report, Nagel cited recent vandalism cases in the city.

Over the weekend city police reported five different cases of vandalism to offices' and shops' plate glass windows. Approximately $750 worth of damage to the windows was done by vandals, who used a pellet gun to do the dirty work.

"If this continues to happen in the city, we will be forced, with the help of the local news media, to offer rewards to anyone giving information that would lead to the identity of the vandals," Nagel stated.

"We cannot tolorate this action in the city."

A reader for the city's Systems III computer was requested by Nagel in his report. The manager explained that the item is necessary to eliminate duplication of account numbers and will make the computer 99 per cent accurate in logging the accounts.

Rent on the device per month will be $30. Currently the city is paying approximately $1,500 per month on the computer.

"The savings in time marked by the device would certainly warrant the expense." Mayor Arnold Marshall said, as the commission concurred with the request.

In other business the commission:

—Approved a request for a certificate of occupancy by Lea Irene Risetter for the authorization to sell wine and beer at the Desert Sands Lounge, 6910 W. U.S. 80.

—Okayed a request for a certificate of occupancy by Deloris G. Gomez for the authorization to sell beer and wine at the Carlo3 Restaurant, 308 NW 3rd.

—Denied a claim for damages being submitted by Ysabel Luna, who was involved in an accident with a city vehicle Sept. 20.

—Approved a request for a street light at 1800 Mittle.

—Heard a report by commissioners Eddie Acri and Jack Watkins on a recent trip to the Texas Municipal League in Houston.

—Approved vouchers paid by the city through Oct. 12.

Telling Truth As He Knew It

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — The general who lost a star and his career because of My Lai said today Col. Oran K. Henderson was telling the truth as he knew it when he reported that only 20 civilians were killed in the 1968 assault on the South Vietnamese village.

"He was reporting to me what he honestly thought was the truth," Brig. Gen. Samuel W. Koster said as he arrived to testify against Henderson, the only officer put on trial on charges of concealing the incident.

Koster said he hopes "there will be further consideration" by the secretary of the Army of his own reduction in rank, but that he had not requested such action.

Koster, 51, was commander of the Americal Division, parent unit of Henderson's 11th Infantry Brigade, when a company in that brigade made its bloody sweep through the South Vietnamese village.

Like Henderson, Koster once was charged with dereliction of duty. But the charges were dismissed last January and four months later Koster was demoted from major general, in effect the death knell to his career.

Henderson is being tried on charges that he failed to conduct a proper investigation into reports of indiscriminate killings of civilians; that he failed to forward the allegations to higher command; and that he lied twice to a Pentagon inquiry.

Koster, born in West Liberty, Iowa, has held a number of important Army posts in his 29-year career, including that of commandant of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point.

Koster became a major general March 1, 1968—15 days before the My Lai operation—and was promoted to West Point three months later. But when charges were preferred against him, Koster resigned the post with an emotional lunch-time speech to the massed cadets.

The prosecution, at a recent out-of-court hearing, contended that this was the sequence of events in the period after My Lai:

—Acting on aviators' reports of wanton killing of unarmed and unresisting civilians at My Lai, Brig Gen. George H. Young, Koster's deputy, ordered Henderson to conduct an investigation.

Super-Mex Has To Be; Wife Is Too Expensive

Lee Trevino of El Paso plays supergolf because his wife is so expensive — or so he says in a Texas Star interview Sunday in the Big Spring Herald.

Other articles describe Port Arthur's spectacular CavOILcade, an old courthouse turned wax museum at Blanco, and jazz music as played by two of the best at San Antonio.

Not even a threat of hurricanes can stop the Port Arthur oil celebration, now showing for the 19th time, reports Bill Maddox, and 50,000 are expected for the spectacle.

Alan Hawes is a British man of action who has things buzzing at Blanco. He's the man who brought a monorail to HemisFair; now he's enamored of the Old West, as Weldon Hart reveals.

The Jim Cullums, Jr. and Sr., play traditional jazz with a Texas twist and discover that their kind of music has as much appeal as ever. Joan Hafernick presents an interview with these two music masters in the Star.

As to Trevino — old Super-Super-Mex comes through with a bushel of laughs in a story well told by Sam Blair. Watch out for Lee when he gets back into his best physical condition. His mental condition is superb.

Wanda J. Campbell answers some pertinent questions, Wick Fowler puts his needles into a light vein, and Mary Faulk Koock has a way with sandwiches — all for Sunday reading in the Texas Star.

HOST TEAM IN FRIDAY NIGHT SHOOTOUT — Coahoma's mighty Bulldogs will be at home Friday night to Stanton in a neighborhood brawl, the opening 5-AA contest of the season for both teams. Stanton alerted the Big Red that it can be tough by knocking off state-rated Seagraves last week. The Bulldogs, front row, from the left, are Fain Sherrill, Glen Washburn, Eddie Padron, James Teeler, Ben Herrera, Danny White and Tommy Arguello. Second row, Keith Pherigo, John Best, Dean Wood, Freddy Franklin, Steve Fraser, Troy Kerby, Lynn Ashley and Robin Headrick. Back row, Terry Meeks, Wendell Walker, Jeff Mitchel, Roland Beal, Donnie Buchanan, James Blair, Joe Elmore and Tim Tindol.

Duane Overcame Odds To Win Starting Berth

DALLAS (AP) — Last July you could have gotten a hundred to one odds Duane Thomas wouldn't be announced Wednesday, Oct. 12 as the starting halfback for the Dallas Cowboys against the New Orleans Saints.

Coach Tom Landry did the honors at his press conference.

With regular running back Calvin Hill out from two to three weeks with a leg injury, Landry said Thomas will start at halfback and added "his play was a bright spot Monday night. He has a good feel for the game and what his responsibility is."

Thomas was Dallas' leading rusher in a substitute role. The fact he even played at all in the 20-13 victory over the New York Giants is a tribute to Landry's patience.

Last July Thomas said, "Tom Landry is a plastic man, actually no man at all."

He said club president Tex Schramm "has been dishonest with me all along."

Thomas said, "I wouldn't mind being traded. I'm tired of being treated like a stupid animal and I think these people have been trying to crook me. They don't want to pay me what I deserve."

Thomas added, "The Cowboys never made it to the Super Bowl without me and they never will make it again unless I play for them."

Dallas tried to trade Thomas to New England which nixed the deal because Thomas refused to take a physical.

His return to the Dallas lineup couldn't come at a better time because of injuries. And he has clammed up. He refuses to talk to the local press.

Thomas is getting another chance the same way he crashed the lineup last year to become the National Football Conference offensive player of the year. Hill was injured and couldn't replace Thomas in the lineup because the rookie from West Texas was so sensational.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Ex-UT-Austin pitching great Burt Hooten will be eligible for Rookie of the Year honors in the National League next year because he didn't get into enough games the past season to negate his eligibility.

Burt should make a run at the honor. Hooten has a rare pitch identified as a knuckle-curve and he knows where it's going. He should be a big winner in the big show.

Rice University football coach, Bill Peterson, isn't awash in tears over the trials and frustrations his Owls have experienced this season.

"We've worked out a plan at Rice," Peterson told a gathering recently. "If we receive, we try to recover the fumble. If we kick off, we try to block the extra point."

Touching on the reputation Rice has for fielding intelligent players, Peterson remarked:

"I told one of our boys to try to punt out on the 50-yard line and he asked, 'Whose?'"

Another Peterson appetizer:

"We tried an end run in one of our games and got a delay-of-game penalty. We're not very fast."

* * * *

For some reason, Peterson's remarks remind me of the local quarterback who was directing a team down in the grades a few years ago.

His coach told him before one game never to take chances on a fourth down play, to always punt. The boy followed instructions to the letter, even the time he had worked his team down inside the opposition's 10.

* * * *

University Interscholastic League officials have been adamant in their stand that Class AAAA football teams complete their regular season's play in 10 consecutive weeks. Time was in the past when a club could look forward to as many as two 'off' weeks.

One hears now that the consecutive-game rule will be relaxed next year, allowing a squad the luxury of an idle Friday.

* * * *

Did you hear about that father who was telling his friends about the football potential of his young son.

"He's going to be good," the sire predicted. "Already, the kid has two bad knees."

* * * *

It takes years to teach football teams how to win. Once they develop the knack, they must be instilled with the feeling they can beat anybody. Only then do they reach the point they 'know' they can psyche the opposition.

The teams with the tradition for success keep on winning year after year. The losers never seem to emerge for very long periods from the pits of despair which they have dug for themselves. Even with mediocre talent, the teams with the winning background will lean back and get that necessary something for winning while the clubs boasting superior talent but a history of mediocrity have no such reservoir to tap.

* * * *

Those communities which would give promoters carte blanche privileges in building stadiums should look to the success achieved with far less money at Foxboro, Mass.

New Orleans officials asked for and got approval for $125 million to erect an enclosed stadium. The plant could bankrupt the community, since it likely will cost $200 million to pay it off.

In Detroit, the mayor and his people are talking in glowing terms of a domed stadium priced at $126 million. Pontiac, Mich., covets the Detroit Lions and wants to use a $41 million arena as a lure.

Total cost of Foxboro's stadium was $7.5 million and it was completed in less than a year. The Foxboro plant is plain vanilla — it doesn't have all the refinements promoters demand in a stadium today — but all 60,000 seats built there are good ones. Even from end zone pews, one gets a good view of what's going on down on the field.

Politicians get carried away while planning such structures. For that reason, there should be an auditor on every planning board, a fellow who knows the ultimate cost and the sacrifice a community must make before retiring the debt on such a building.

Lipon Pact As Manager Of Tribe To Be Ended

HOUSTON (AP) — Johnny Lipon says he will decide in a couple of days whether to take a job in the Cleveland Indians' organization.

The Indians announced Wednesday night that Lipon's contract as interim manager would not be renewed for the 1972 season. He replaced manager Alvin Dark midway through the season just ended.

Lipon said at his home here that Cleveland's president and general manager, Gabe Paul, told him Wednesday about the decision. He also confirmed that he had been offered another job in the organization.

"As of now I don't know," he said of the offer. "I want to sleep on it a couple of days."

Lipon took over as field boss of the Indians July 30. The Indians finished last in the American League's East Division this season with a 60-102 record. They posted 42 victories under Dark and were 18-41 thereafter.

Lipon, 48, became a coach of the Indians in 1968 after several years as a minor league manager in the system.

Earlier Wednesday, Paul denied a rumor that the Indians had been talking to Oakland manager Dick Williams about the Cleveland job. He did not say, however, that the Indians were not interested in the fiery skipper who led the A's to the American League West pennant.

The Indians reportedly have been turned down in their quest for a manager by Dave Bristol of the Milwaukee Brewers.

Ken Aspromonte, a former major league infielder and manager of a Cleveland farm club, also has been mentioned as standing in line for the Indians' managerial post.

STEER NOTES

Boys Ready, Says Hale Of Grid 11

Coach Clovis Hale predicted this morning the Big Spring Steers would hit the ground running against Odessa Permian here Friday night and never ease the pressure.

"We've had the best workouts we've had this season," Hale stated. "We're looking like the Steers used to look. We'll be ready.

"If we can just reduce our number of mistakes we'll make it interesting. I feel pretty good about our chances."

Hale said that Mike Adams would again start at quarterback for the locals.

"If he can't move the ball club, Alan Davis will go in," the coach stated.

Davis was at the controls last Friday against Midland High when Big Spring counted its only touchdown. Adams suffered damage to his teeth in the Midland game but sat out the latter part of the contest.

Hale also said he might start fleet Walter Jordan against Permian in efforts to loosen the Permian defense. Jordan was impressive in the last half against Midland.

Walter is the boy who was supposed to move to Georgia following the Abilene game. However, Hale indicated he might be available to play for several games.

"Walter was a boy almost without experience in football," Hale stated. "He has great potential. It's only a question of time until he becomes an outstanding runner."

The Steers could go with either Dick Conley and Arthur Trevino or Jordan and Trevino as running backs. Ricky Steen will not start but, no doubt, will see plenty of action.

* * *

Permian has been a terrific team at moving the football, especially on the ground. Led by junior quarterback David Shipman, the Panthers have gained three times as much yardage on the ground as has the opposition — 1,379 to 453.

Permian has tried 52 passes and completed 30 of them for 458 paces.

Shipman accounted for 225 yards personally on the ground against Abilene last week and would have had much more had not a series of penalties erased the advantage of many of his runs.

Collins Rice of the Panthers has netted 247 yards in 54 carries this year, Ricky Sutherland 211 in 46.

Joe Bizzell, an all-state player, is Permian's leading pass receiver, with 14 catches and 216 yards in gains.

Arfons Planning Race At Dallas

Art Arfons, a man long associated with jet-powered vehicles and land speed records, is going to trade all the excitement for a rocking chair.

The 45-year-old Arfons, who three times during a 17-year racing career set world speed records at Bonneville, has announced that he is retiring.

But not before one last race in which he is confident he can achieve one last goal.

Arfons final competitive runs will be made at Dallas International Motor Speedway during the Texas Open drag racing championships October 15-16-17.

Arfons will be seeking to become the first man ever to achieve the speed of 300 miles per hour on the quarter mile.

"I'm confident I can do it," said Arfons. "Especially since this will be the last time I'll be driving the car."

Extra Day Of Rest May Help McNally

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles find out today if the strategic move Manager Earl Weaver made with his pitching staff pays off.

Weaver bypassed Dave McNally, Baltimore's ace for the past four season, and started Pat Dobson in Wednesday night's game as Pittsburgh won 4-3.

The Baltimore Manager said he skipped McNally, the first game winner who normally would have started Wednesday, "because I wanted him to have four days rest.

"I just felt his fast ball would be better at this time of year with more rest. No one knows if it will be, but I get paid for trying that kind of stuff."

McNally, a 28-year-old lefthander, has a 3-1 record in World Series competition. He has won 87 games during the past four season, plus three in the American League Playoffs.

Outfielder Frank Robinson figured that in McNally and Jim Palmer, the second game winner, the Orioles should have an edge the rest of the way.

"It's just like starting over," Robinson said, "except that it's the best two-of-three now instead of four-of-seven."

For the second game in a row, the Orioles were throttled at the plate, getting only one hit off relievers Bruce Kison and Dave Giusti after the first three batters hit safely to launch a three-run opening inning off Luke Walker.

"When we score three runs in the first inning," Robinson said, "we shouldn't get beat 4-3. There's no way this club should be held without another run for 8 1-3 innings."

Kison, a 21-year-old righthander, permitted only a second inning bloop double by Paul Blair during his 6 1-3 innings.

BETTING HANDLE SHOWS GAIN OPENING WEEK AT SUNLAND

SUNLAND PARK, N.M. — The new racing season at Sunland Park got off the ground in grand style over the weekend as the wagering soared well ahead of last year's comparable figures.

Saturday's opening-day crowd of 3,555 shoved $208,925 through the betting windows to establish an all-time record. The previous record for a Sunland opening-day program was set in 1969-70, when the wagering topped out at $185,729.

The opening program of the '70-71 season reached $160,108.

On Sunday, the strong momentum continued as a crowd of 3,613 turned out to wager $192,496. The second day of last year's campaign produced a handle of $156,105.

The first two days of the current meeting has propelled Sunland Park into a flying start since the handle shows a remarkable gain of $85,108 over the first two days of the '70-71 meeting.

A&M Cagers Open Season Against Wesleyan Five

COLLEGE STATION — Facing one of its toughest schedules in many years, the young Texas A&M basketball team opens preseason workouts Friday.

The roster shows only two seniors along with four junior lettermen, two junior college transfers and four sophomores. The schedule shows such cage powers as defending national champion UCLA, NIT regular St. John's, New Mexico, Creighton, Tulsa and Houston.

Coach Shelby Metcalf calls 1971-72 a rebuilding season but sees possibilities of an exciting year if the newcomers can blend with the veterans. Leading the returnees is 6-7 junior Jeff Overhouse who led the Aggies in scoring and rebounding in league play last year. Overhouse was Sophomore of the Year in the Southwest Conference and team MVP while posting the second highest soph point total in Aggie history.

Other lettermen are 6-8 senior Rick Duplantis, 6-4 senior Robert Threadgill, 6-3 junior Bob Gobin, 6-1 junior Charlie Jenkins, and 6-4 junior Wayne Howard.

The newcomers are 6-2 junior Mario Brown from Kennedy-King Junior College, Brad Pauley, 6-5 junior from Dawson (Mont.) Junior College, 6-6 soph Randy Knowles, 5-11 soph Bobby McKey, 6-3 soph Joe Arciniega, and 6-5 soph Mark Stewart.

The Aggies open the season Dec. 2 against Texas Wesleyan.

PIRATE ROOKIE ON TARGET
Bruce Kison credited with 4-3 win

Buccos Glow Anew After 4-3 Victory

PITTSBURGH (AP) — There was a brand new glow in the Pittsburgh Pirates for today's fifth World Series game against Baltimore and it was put there by a pair of rosy-cheeked youngsters who began the most important game of their lives kidding each other in the bullpen.

Bruce Kison pitched 6 1-3 innings of one-hit relief ball and Milt May, swinging for his buddy, stroked the pinch single that drove in the winning run as the Pirates trimmed the Orioles 4-3 Wednesday in the first World Series game ever played at night.

Their heroics tied the series at two victories apiece and set the stage for today's pivotal fifth game, with the Orioles sending first game winner Dave McNally against Pittsburgh's Nelson Briles.

It would be tough for the Birds and Bucs to match the dramatic show that the pulsating fourth game put on for a nationwide, prime time television audience estimated at between 55 and 60 million people.

And in the end, the issue was decided by two 21-year-old rookies who hang together just the way you might expect they would.

"He's my best friend on the club," said Kison, grinning at May. "We were both drafted together in 1968 and we played together in the rookie league."

They were a long way from those early professionals days when Kison marched out of the bullpen in the first inning Wednesday night. The Orioles had jumped Pirate starter Luke Walker for three quick runs and it was up to the slim youngster to see that things didn't get worse.

Only a few minutes before he went into the game, Kison was joking with May in the bullpen.

"He was trying to sing the Star Spangled Banner," smiled Kison, "and it was terrible. I sort of glared at him ... gave him a dirty look for the way he was singing."

After the National Anthem was over, Kison and May sat down next to each other, but it wasn't long before Kison was called away to the mound.

OUT OF JAM

He got the Pirates out of the horrendous first inning without further damage. Then Pittsburgh bounced off the deck with a pair of runs in the bottom of the first on doubles by Willie Stargell and Al Oliver—neither of whom produced much in the series up to that point.

Ump's Ruling Is Backed By Bucs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "The ball hit the line and was fair—seventy million people saw you blow that one," Pittsburgh Coach Don Leppert barked at umpire John Rice.

"Seventy million people saw me call it right," the paunchy Rice, a Pittsburgh native and American League umpire retorted. "I saw it all the way—it was foul by about two inches."

Although the call on a line shot by the Pirates' Roberto Clemente in the third inning did not affect the outcome of the game, won by Pittsburgh over Baltimore 4-3, it produced a lively controversy that lasted long after the first World Series night game ended.

The drive smashed into a concrete facing on which is printed the three-inch rightfield foul line.

The pro-Pittsburgh crowd of 51,378 roared a thunderous protest when umpire Rice ruled the ball was foul.

Instant replay on the television cameras of the National Broadcast Company apparently failed to show the exact spot on the ball's landing to everyone's satisfaction.

So the argument was carried into living rooms and bars across the country.

Members of the Pittsburgh pitching staff who were in the Pirate bullpen just below the spot that was the center of the dispute, said Rice was right.

"I had a clear view of it—the ball was foul by about six inches," said Bob Moose one of the Pittsburgh relief pitchers. "Sands (Charlie Sands, bullpen catcher) saw it, too. There was no doubt about it."

Dave Ricketts, another Pittsburgh coach, also backed up the umpire.

The incident could have been vital. At the time, with one out and Rich Hebner on base, the Pirates were behind 3-2. A home run would have put them ahead 4-3.

The confusion was compounded by the fact that the rightfield foul line in Three Rivers Stadium is an architectural monstrosity.

There are no foul poles, as in most parks, to cut down the guesswork in foul ball decisions, although there are screens in fair territory. The three-inch foul line is painted on a concrete facing which lies some 20 inches behind a 10-foot fence. Thus it is possible for a ball to fly over the fence in fair territory and hit the wall foul—as could have been the case here.

Ditmore Returns To Work Monday

FORSAN — Halfback James Ditmore, who has been out with a shoulder injury since the season began, has been told he could resume work in pads next Monday.

Freshman Landon Soles is also back with the Buffaloes, although his role in the game with Robert Lee last week was limited to punting.

Like Weather, Houston Plans Changing Often

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The Houston Oilers backfield could be compared with Texas weather—if you don't like it now, wait awhile, it'll surely change.

Head coach Ed Hughes has three starting quarterbacks and now he's juggling his running backs in an effort to shake some life into the Oilers' offense.

When the Oilers try once again for their first victory Sunday against Detroit, Hughes' starting backfield will include two and possibly three rookies, all making their first starts.

Hughes' quarterback-of-the-week is rookie Dan Pastorini, the club's No. 1 draft choice. Veteran Charley Johnson has started three times and rookie Lynn Dickey started once.

Hughes added another newcomer Wednesday when he announced that Canadian Football League refugee LeRoy Sledge had moved ahead of Joe Dawkins as the starting fullback.

A third rookie could be Ward Walsh, who has a chance to start at running back for the ailing Woody Campbell. Hughes said he would start either Walsh or third-year pro Mike Richardson if Campbell doesn't recover from a groin injury.

The Oiler ground game has been almost non-existent in four games. It has averaged slightly more than 53 yards rushing. In last Sunday's 22-13 loss to Washington, Sledge's 31 yards rushing was a big day by current standards.

"The defense has played several games well enough to win," Hughes said. "We're just making mistakes on offense. After looking at the films, you can see it's just a matter of a running back not hitting the hole or someone missing a block."

When the Oilers have moved this season, the pass has taken them. Yet Hughes isn't satisfied with that phase either.

"A few times our receivers have run together on their routes," Hughes said. "They did it because they were held up or didn't complete their routes. This is just a sign of immaturity on the part of the receivers."

Two other Oiler starters are questionable for the Detroit game. Linebacker George Webster and tackle Walt Suggs are recovering from knee injuries. Guard Ron Saul and Center Jerry Strum also are healing from injuries.

TWO GAMES HERE

Brahmas Tangle With Lamar 11

The ninth grade Brahmas and Runnels' eighth graders remain home for football games this evening while the ninth grade Toros and Goliad's Mavericks hit the road.

The Brahmas and the Yearlings will be at home on Blankenship Field to Snyder Lamar. The Yearlings play at 5:30 p.m. while the Brahmas take the field at 7:30 p.m.

Runnels is 1-3-1, having beaten Colorado City, 22-0, while tying Snyder Lamar, 0-0; and losing to Goliad, 8-6; Coahoma, 14-0; and Snyder Travis, 28-8.

The Brahmas defeated Lamar in a previous game at Snyder, 20-6. Over-all, they are 3-2, having won over Colorado City, 30-0; and San Angelo Edison, 45-6, in other starts.

Their defeats came at the hands of the Toros, 22-18, and Snyder Travis.

The Toros have captured two of five decisions, having humbled the Brahmas, 22-18; and Sweetwater, 30-0. Their defeats have been at the hands of Travis, 18-0; San Angelo Glenn, 6-0; and Snyder Lamar, 26-12.

Goliad goes into this evening's game with a 2-3 record. They've beaten Runnels, 8-6, and Snyder Travis, 6-0; and have lost to Coahoma, 8-6; Sweetwater, 24-0; and Snyder Lamar, 6-0. The defeats all came in a row.

Both the Sophomores and the junior varsity play Saturday. The Sophs (2-1-1) go to Odessa for a 2 p.m. contest with Odessa High's Sophs.

The JVs visit Odessa for a 7 p.m. engagement with Permian's JV.

The local JVs are 2-2, having beaten Andrews, 30-14; and Midland High, 26-14; while losing to Snyder, 15-12; and Abilene, 23-6.

International Cage Loop Is Foreseen By Kennedy

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — National Basketball Association Commissioner Walter Kennedy painted a rosy future for the NBA when he came here Wednesday to welcome the Houston Rockets to the NBA, including a prediction of an international pro league in the 1970s or 1980s.

"I don't know if I'll be the commissioner by then," Kennedy said. "But I'd at least like to plant the seed."

Kennedy said basketball now is the second most popular international sport behind soccer and is very popular in Europe.

"It took us a long time to figure out why," Kennedy said. "But it's because basketball is a team sport like soccer where you pass the ball around from one to another. They can understand that."

Kennedy said possible pro basketball franchises of the future could be in Madrid or Barcellona, Spain, Paris, France, Milan, Italy or even Greece.

"There is a great acceptance of basketball over there," Kennedy said. "They have leagues over there already and they draw great crowds."

Kennedy also said the proposed ABA-NBA merger could keep eight or 10 franchises from folding.

"We are aware of the fact if there is no merger, eight or ten teams may go out of business," Kennedy said. "The merger would stablize the economic aspects of the franchises. Now, a lot of money is being spent for untried talent. That gives an uneven distribution of payrolls."

"That doesn't mean there is going to be instability in the rest of the league if the merger doesn't go through," Kennedy said. "But it does mean about 150 players might be out of jobs."

Kennedy praised the new Rocket owners, pointing out a major factor in the success of a franchise is an aggressive ownership. "Of course, a winning team does help," he said.

Hancock, Olivarez Coyote Honorees

GAIL — Sophomore center Joe Hancock and defensive halfback Junior Olivarez have been named Borden County Players of the Week by the Big Spring Daily Herald, judged off their performances against Cotton Center last Friday.

The 146-pound Hancock was selected on the basis of his blocking when the Coyotes had the ball.

Olivarez intercepted one pass and broke up four others that might have gone for long gains.

Gail rolled over Cotton Center, 66-0.

Homecoming Set At Borden School

GAIL — The Borden County public schools will stage their annual Homecoming Oct. 22, coinciding with the district football game between Borden County and Sterling City.

A bon fire will be staged at 5 p.m., after which a chili dinner will be served in the school cafeteria. Cost of the chili will be 50 cents a bowl.

The kickoff will take place at 7:30 p.m. Borden County is the favorite to repeat at the district champion.

LEGAL NOTICE

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To: ROBERT PATRICK, Defendant, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to appear by filing a written answer to the Plaintiff's Petition at or before ten o'clock A.M. of the first Monday after the expiration of forty-two days from the date of the issuance of this citation, same being Monday the 8th day of November 1971, at or before ten o'clock A.M. before the Honorable District Court of Howard County, Texas, at the Court House of said County in Big Spring, Texas.

Said Plaintiff's Petition was filed in said court, on the 2nd day of April A.D. 1971, in this cause numbered 19,312 on the docket of said court, and styled, PAULINE PATRICK Plaintiff, vs. ROBERT PATRICK Defendant.

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to-wit: Plaintiff alleges legal marriage and residence in Howard County, six (6) months and State of Texas twelve (12) months next preceeding the filing thereof. Plaintiff alleges cruel and discord or conflict of personalities; that there are no children under eighteen (18) years of age born to or adopted by this marriage and none are expected; that there is no property to be adjudicated, and Plaintiff prays for divorce as is more fully shown by Plaintiff's Petition on file in this suit.

If this citation is not served within ninety days after the date of its issuance, it shall be returned unserved.

The officer executing this process shall promptly execute the same according to law, and make due return as the law directs.

Issued and given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Big Spring, Texas this the 20th day of September A.D. 1971.

Attest:
M. FERN COX, Clerk
District Court,
Howard County, Texas.
By JEANETTE NICHOLS, Deputy.

MRS. DIXIE HOSMER

Missionette Dinner Set

Evangel Temple Assembly of God, 2205 Goliad, Big Spring, will present their first "Missionette" Mother-Daughter banquet Friday, at 7 p.m.

The "Missionette" program is Evangel Temple's new "Stairway-to-the-Stars" organization for girls in the ages 6-15. Girls in this age group are invited to attend this banquet with their mothers.

Sponsored by Evangel Temple's Women's Missionary Council, the program is led by Mrs. Dixie Hosmer. Mrs. Hosmer is a teacher, with a background of experience in Missionette programs.

The banquet will feature Mrs. Deanna Calvin as speaker. The program for the evening will present the entire Missionette program for the information of those attending. This will include special projects by the girls.

Mothers and daughters are invited to attend this first Missionette girls banquet.

Sadat Leaves Moscow With Arms Promise

MOSCOW (AP) — President Anwar Sadat of Egypt has left Moscow with a Soviet promise of more military aid, but a joint communique was silent on the new U.S. Middle East proposals.

The communique, issued Wednesday after two days of talks between Sadat and the Kremlin leaders, again blamed Israel and the United States for the crisis in the Middle East.

It said, "The main factor behind the continued dangerous situation in the area is the aggressive policy of Israel, which has the all-round support of the United States."

The Russians said they would "further strengthen the military might of Egypt." This was seen as an indication that Moscow and Cairo believe the United States will ship more arms to Israel.

There was no indication of the types or quantities of arms Egypt would get.

The communique seemed to reflect Soviet and Egyptian disillusionment with Washington's attempt to arrange an interim agreement that would reopen the Suez Canal and withdraw Israeli troops from the canal bank to some line back in the Sinai Desert.

The U.S. proposal of six points for discussion was presented last week in the United Nations by Secretary of State William P. Rogers. It calls for negotiation of compromises on the distance the Israelis would withdraw, the size and character of the Egyptian forces that could cross the canal, a cease-fire and Israeli use of the canal.

'Grave' Task Purpose Of Preservation Society

By DAVE THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

OTTAWA (AP) — Dear Friend,

Pray for me
As you pass by;
As you are now
So once was I;
As I am now
So you will be;
Therefore prepare for death
And follow me.

That's the favorite epitaph of a man who has spent the last 18 years roaming Canada while recording the inscriptions on more than 500,000 tombstones in 2,000 cemeteries.

Wilson A. Stewart, a 53-year-old army pensioner, began studying the history of early graveyards when he joined a Kingston, Ont., Mormon church. Part of Mormon doctrine requires church members to respect and record the history of their ancestry and Stewart started tracing his friends' genealogies as a hobby.

It was not until 1869 that Ontario provincial law required the registration of grave sites and their occupants. So cemetery headstones provided the only historical source on family information before then.

As Stewart saw pioneer grave sites destroyed to make way for modern developments, he developed an ambition to form a society that would preserve these silent remains of historical heritage.

He formed the Limestone Cemetery and Genealogical Society and sold memberships to finance his works. For a $25 lifetime fee, members have access to all records collected.

Membership sales have moved slowly but during the years 1,200 people, some of them living in Europe, have joined.

The society is quartered in an Edmonton hotel where records are filed and relics stored. Among the prize possessions is a 3,500-year-old Egyptian mummy.

Occasionally Stewart loads the mummy along with a few unusual tombstones into an ancient bus and tours the country in an attempt to stimulate interest.

"It's not only my religious belief — it's also a moral belief that something needs to be done to preserve old graves."

Aside from their historical significance, Stewart says he believes the dead have an eternal right to their grave sites. He says it is the obligation of the living to maintain them.

Stewart has a long way to go before completing a full record of headstone inscriptions. Only two per cent of the 25 million markers in Canada have been transcribed.

But, as another of Mr. Wilson's favorite epitaphs says:
"He done what he could."

Okay, Seal It With A Kiss

BATH, N.C. (AP) — Billy Bosman says he found a seal or the seal found him as he cruised in a small boat in the Pamlico River, 50 miles from the open sea across Pamlico Sound.

Bosman said he spotted the 150-pound animal in the water, and thinking it an otter, went closer.

The seal jumped in his boat and began drying itself on Bosman's shirt, said Bosman who took the seal home and fed it fish.

Then the animal stretched out in the sun to nap.

Bosman will not keep the seal penned, he said, so if it doesn't like his fish or the yard, it can go back to the nearby river.

Lubbock Treasure Hunters Find Ingots Bearing Cross

LAWTON, Okla. (AP) — Two Lubbock, Tex., treasure hunters say they have found metal ingots bearing cross and crown symbols and buried two feet deep in a cave in the Wichita Mountains.

The ingots have been shipped off for testing and analysis, but the Texans believe they may have discovered a buried treasure of silver or other precious metal.

The men are Bill Ferrell, 43, a service station operator, and Don Cagle, 25. both are members of the Lubbock Treasure Hunting Club.

FIT IN PALM

They said they dug up the ingots Friday in the rear end of a cave west of Meers. The metal bars are about an inch thick, small enough to fit in the palm of a man's hand, and weigh several pounds each.

Ferrell said he and his companion found some adobe-like molds also buried in the cave.

The metal bars could be from the early 1900s Wichitas prospecting era, or possibly could be of Mexican origin, said Steve Wilson, librarian at Museum of the Great Plains, and an authority on Wichitas mining history and treasure legends.

'NO COMMENT'

An examination by experts might reveal the origin of the symbols on the bars and reveal their age, type of metal and commercial value.

Ferrell showed two ingots to reporters. He said "no comment" when asked how many ingots he had found. He declined the offer of a Lawton metallurgist to test the ingots. He said he wanted to go no further in describing the site or discussing his find until he has looked into state and national antiquity regulations, had the metal assayed, negotiated with the land owner and consulted his lawyer.

He expressed fear that other treasure hunters might stampede to the site if they knew the location.

The ingots are dark in color but are of a rather soft material that shines brightly when scratched by a knife.

Ferrell said he made his discovery while using flashlight and a metal detector in a cave that has an entrance about six feet wide and seven feet high and that is 70 to 80 feet deep.

CRUDE CROSS

"I detected metal under the sand near the back of the cave," Ferrell said. He said he and Cagle used a small shovel and pick and a small icepick for probing, and discovered the metal bars about 24 inches under the cave's floor.

The symbol on the ingots is a crude cross, and a crown or half moon topped by several small dots or blobs of metal. All the symbols are of raised metal protruding above the level of the rest of the metal bars.

Ferrell said they "stumbled onto the cave" after climbing in the mountains about three hours. He said it was the first time he had hunted treasure in that area.

He said the many rumors and stories about treasure in the Wichitas had brought him here, and that he had investigated the stories for about two years.

The ingots are similar to metal bars turned out in Wichita Mountains smelters during the prospecting boom at the turn of the century.

LEGENDS OF LOOT

There were several prospecting settlements in the Wichitas, including Meers and another one at the present location of Lake Quanah Parker in the Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge. Many shafts were dug, and some copper, silver and even gold was reportedly found, but not in enough quality for commercial mining.

Legends of buried loot have always lured treasure hunters to the Wichita Mountains.

Some treasure hunters look for loot supposedly buried by the James Brothers. They frequented the Wichitas, and Frank James in his later years lived at Fletcher.

Ham It Up

Ham is one of few foods traditionally used for any meal. Ham and eggs at breakfast; cold ham sandwiches for lunch; and luscious baked ham at dinner time. There are many ways to prepare a ham. It is a meat for all seasons and for all meals. And it is a never-failing favorite of young and old alike.

CABANA BANANA STUFFED HAM PATTIES

2 eggs
½ cup milk
1 cup soft bread crumbs
2 tbsps. chopped green onions
2 cups ground cooked ham
1 banana, peeled and sliced
1 tbsp. salad oil
⅓ cup dairy sour cream
2 tbsps. pineapple juice
Nutmeg

Mix eggs with milk, bread crumbs and onions. Stir in ham. Form into eight patties (about 4½ to 5 inches in diameter). Arrange sliced bananas in center of four patties. Top with remaining four patties. Seal by pressing edges of patties together. Brown on both sides in large skillet with oil. Remove from skillet, and top with mixture of sour cream and pineapple juice. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Serves four.

SPICED APPLES, HAM ON ALMOND-RICE

2 12-oz. cans prepared spiced ham, chopped
1 tsp. cooking oil
¼ cup lemon juice
3¼ cups water
2 cups sliced onion
¼ tsp. cloves
¼ tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. salt
4 cups Washington apples, peeled and sliced
1½ tsps. curry powder
3 tbsps. sugar
1½ tbsps .corn starch
¾ cup orange juice
2 tsps. orange rind, grated
2 tbsps. vinegar
¾ cups Tokay grapes, seeded and split
6 cups hot buttered rice
½ cup toasted almonds

Brown ham in cooking oil in large skillet or pan. Add lemon juice, 2 cups water, onion, cloves, cinnamon and salt. Cover and cook until onion is clear, about 5 minutes. Add apple slices and ½ cup water, mix gently. Cover and cook slowly, about 3 minutes, then add curry powder and let simmer 5 to 10 minutes or until tender. In small saucepan, mix sugar and cornstarch, stir in orange juice and rind, and the remaining ¾ cup water. Cook until thick and clear, stirring constantly. Stir in vinegar and grapes. Combine with meat mixture. Mound rice, combined with almonds, on a serving dish or platter; pour meat mixture over rice. Serves 6.

HAM AND FRUIT SALAD

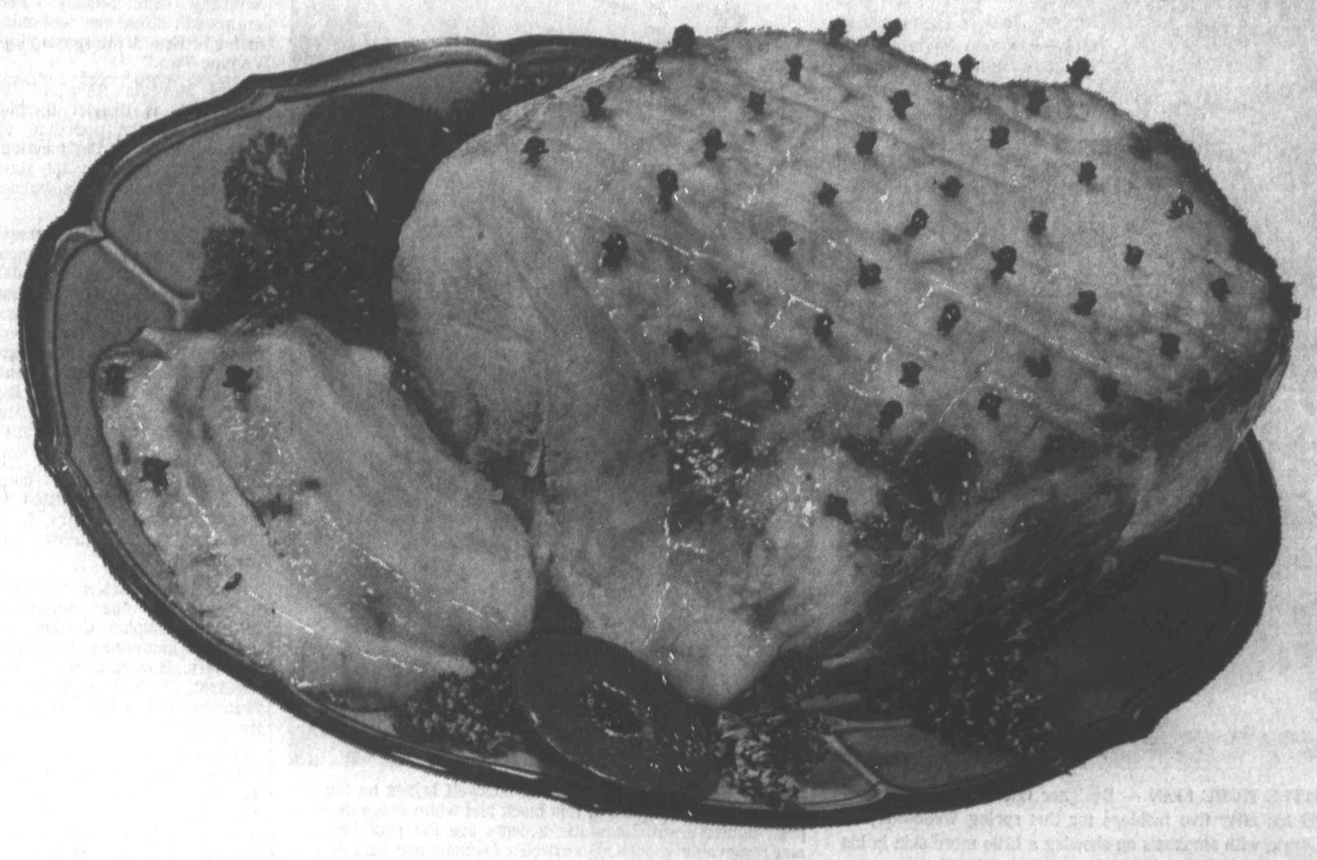

1 to 1¼ lbs. cooked smoked ham, cut in julienne strips about 1½ inches long
1 13¼-oz. can pineapple chunks
1 banana, sliced and peeled
1 avocado, peeled and sliced
½ medium-sized cantaloupe, cut in balls
Pineapple dressing

Drain pineapple chunks, reserving juice. Pour juice over sliced banana and avocado. Drain and reserve juice for dressing. Combine pineapple chunks, banana and avocado slices and cantaloupe balls, and turn into lettuce lined bowl. Cover and chill. Serve with pineapple dressing (shown below). Serves six.

PINEAPPLE DRESSING

½ cup sugar
1 tbsp. flour
1 egg, slightly beaten
¾ cup pineapple juice
¼ cup lemon juice

Combine sugar and flour and stir into egg. Cook slowly, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cool before serving. Yields 1½ cups.

THE FINISHING TOUCH

HOME FRIED SWEET POTATOES

4 medium sweet potatoes
¼ cup margarine
Salt
Pepper

Cook potatoes in boiling, salted water to cover. Cover and boil until tender. Peel and slice about ¼ inch thick. Melt margarine in skillet, add potatoes and cook slowly, turning to brown evenly. Sprinkle with salt and a little sugar if desired. Serves 4.

Ham Accompaniments

ONIONS PARMESAN

2 lbs. medium onions
Butter or margarine
½ cup shredded Parmesan cheese
2 tbsps. all-purpose flour
2 tsps. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
½ tsp. seasoned salt
¼ tsp. Worcestershire
1 cup light cream
Paprika

Cut onions into rings ¼-inch thick. In lightly buttered 10-inch skillet, place half of onions in three rows. Top with half of cheese, then rest of onions and rest of cheese. Mix flour, salt, pepper, seasoned salt, Worcestershire and cream until smooth; Pour over onions. Cook covered at 275 degrees for 40 to 50 minutes, or until tender-crisp. Dust with paprika. Serves 6.

ZUCCHINI WITH CORN

1½ lbs. small zucchini
1½ tsps. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 tsp. instant minced onion
½ 12-oz. can whole-kernel corn, drained

Scrub zucchini well. Cut off ends, but do not pare. Slice in half lengthwise; then cut into crosswise slices, diagnally, ¼-inch thick. Cook in 1 inch boiling water, in covered saucepan, about 5 minutes or until tender. Drain. Add salt, papper, instant minced onion and corn. Toss well. Serves 6.

PEANUTTY SWEET POTATOES

2 cups cooked mashed sweet potatoes
½ cup chopped raw peanuts
¼ cup honey
½ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. cloves (ground)
1 cup finely ground peanuts
¼ cup butter or margarine

Mix thoroughly the mashed sweet potatoes, chopped peanuts, honey, cinnamon and cloves. Place in small casserole dish (1 pint), sprinkle with finely ground peanuts and dot with butter. Bake at 400 degrees until peanuts are toasty brown. (about 30 minutes)

Hint: To chop peanuts for cooking or salads, roll the peanuts under a rolling pin until broken into coarse pieces. Do not crush finely, for you'll get more flavor and eating satisfaction from the larger pieces.

CONFETTI CREAM SAUCE

1 pint sour cream
1 tsp. seasoned salt
⅛ tsp. white pepper
1 tbsp. prepared mustard
3 tbsps. prepared horseradish
3 tbsps. finely chopped parsley
2 tbsps. finely chopped green onion
2 tbsps. finely chopped pimiento
1 (8¼ oz.) can sliced beets

Turn chilled sour cream into deep narrow bowl (small bowl of mixer is ideal). Add salt and pepper; beat at high speed until cream begins to thicken. Add mustard and horseradish; continue beating until fluffy and thick. Add parsley. To half of mixture, add green onion and pimiento. To remaining half, add well drained and finely chopped beets. Use as suggested below. Makes about 1 quart.

Uses:

1. As sauce for baked ham, corned pork or beef and roast pork or beef.
2. As sauce for hot cooked vegetables such as: boiled or baked potatoes, green beans, broccoli, beets, or a combination of vegetables such as small white onions and peas.

Note: You can make whole recipe using 1 pint Foremost Sour Cream or cut in half for family use. Can make ahead and keep in refrigerator. Sauce is soft and creamy, barely holds its shape (not like stiff whipped cream). The beet variation is lovely pink with bits of red beet peeking out.

A LITTLE MORE SKIN — Designer Oscar de la Renta revealed his after five fashions for this spring Wednesday in New York, with emphasis on showing a little more skin in his $250 to $600-priced couture line. This outfit features tiny ruffles on the halter with rows of ruffles on the skirt.

READY FOR EVENING — Mr. Blackwell brings on the romantic look for evening in this black and white crepe dechine print dinner gown. Dramatic accents are the pouf hemline and removable capelet. Blackwell's fashions are part of this week's California Fashion Creators' spring showing in Los Angeles.

'Time To Show Some Skin' Advises Oscar De La Renta

NEW YORK (AP) — Designer Oscar de la Renta says the big fashion news for after five this spring will be "nakedness."

"I think it's time we showed a little skin," declared the designer at the opening of his $250-to $600-priced couture line Wednesday.

He showed skin teasingly—a bareback on a dress with a large round collar, a small cape removed to show shoestring straps. Sometimes on the bodice small triangles edged with tiny ruffles served at the bustline and sometimes there was a halter look or a wrap-around-the-neck-strap. A few dresses had squared backs.

Legs, however, were hidden or just peeking through side slits. Hemlines just covered the knee for daytime and cocktail and were to the floor or just nine inches above the floor for evening.

Many of the more formal evening dresses were full enough to have been worn by Scarlet O'Hara and complete with rustling taffeta.

What he called picture dresses with wide necklines and sometimes long or three-quarter sleeves, had small rows of ruffles at the cuffs and hem.

The dress that brought gasps and applause from the audience that overflowed the Seventh Avenue showroom was a hot pink taffeta evening dress with rows of ruffles on a stole and ruffles wrapping around the skirt.

He also showed a series of Oriental inspired fashions with bright splashy prints, Ming colors, a Mandarin or manchu collar. Some belts were about 10 inches wide and sometimes closed with frogging.

For daytime the designer shied away from this season's popular blazer, showing it only a few times. Instead, he concentrated on a cardigan coat or jacket and a battle jacket. Frequently stand up collars from blouses poked over the collarless jackets. Nearly every outfit was belted at the natural waistline.

Colors were predominantly red, navy or beige and were in marked contrast to the bare evening dresses. One navy dress had a demure white collar and cuffs and tiny buttons down the front of a softly pleated skirt.

'ROUND TOWN

BY LUCILLE PICKLE

There is a lilac bush on our premises that won't give in to the fact that it is no longer summer . . . . it's still holding on to a few of its pretty blooms which look a little out of place what with autumn finery beginning to show.

Almost as perculiar is the combination of pine trees and cactus that are growing side by side on the Westover Road side of Park Hill Terrace Apartments. It may be nothing out of the ordinary to some people. However, I'm accustomed to living where the cactus grows and I'd always thought pine trees were for the mountains, East Texas and Arkansas.

However, a swing about the city shows me that a great many people have very beautiful trees that probably came from some mountainous area and are varieties of evergreens that look as pretty here as they do on a mountainside.

Some of the big ones that would make extra special Christmas trees include the one at the Washington Place home of MR. and MRS. MERLE STEWART and down the street at the LEE O. ROGERS place where they have used a number of evergreens to enclose a sort of outdoor living room. There is an enormous evergreen at the home of the ALFRED MOODYS on Tucson. On Cactus the VERNON SMITHS have several big trees that they have to trim back periodically, and the CARL STROMS at Westover and Pennsylvania have some beauties. MRS. SAM BLACKBURN has several pines and other out of the ordinary type trees that makes one wish for a green thumb such as she has, and ROY PHILLIPS down the street across from the Stroms has some lofty ones. Dallas Street in Edwards Heights has a number of tremendous evergreen trees beginning about the 500 block. At the JOHN DIBRELLS there is a giant of a tree that looks like it is waiting for Christmas to get decorated. Of course one would probably have to shoot the light strings up on a rocket to get to the topmost point . . . but think how colorful it would be and how happy the power use would make the electric company.

New Materials Don't Sag, Bag

Baggy knees and sagging elbows are characteristic of some knit garments that have been worn for some time. But this may be a thing of the past with the introduction of a new elastic fiber. The new stretch fiber can be used in any way that existing spandex yarns are used but has an excellent recovery factor that eliminates the sag and bag commonly associated with stretch fabrics.

DEBRA BUCHANAN

State Fair Honoree

Debra Buchanan, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Buchanan of Gail Route, Big Spring, will attend the State Fair of Texas Honor Award Dinner, Statler-Hilton Hotel in Dallas on Friday.

Debra is one of 45 "outstanding rural youth of Texas" to be honored at the annual awards dinner for 4-H club members, Future Farmers and Future Homemakers.

Debra is now a freshman at Texas Tech University and is a graduate of Big Spring High School.

The awards are based on outstanding achievements in rural youth club activities and service of the youth to their communities.

TIME OUT FOR SWEETS — Moving into and remodeling a new home doesn't prevent Mrs. Johnny Shortes from baking her normal quota of pies for herself and family. Sweets are a "must" in the Shortes' menu, and pies are preferred. Mrs. Shortes keeps a supply of crusts baked and frozen, ready for use.

Home Improvements Worth Temporary Moving 'Blues'

By BARBARA LORD

Occasionally, when she was feeding a husband and five sons from a two-burner cooker, Mrs. Johnny Shortes wondered if the struggles of renovating a new home were worth the effort.

But the kitchen was the first room completed in the home, and the whole family enjoys it more now that they can count on sitting down to mom's good meals once again.

The Shortes' still have a lot of work to do in the home on 25th street (formerly the Bruce Frazier home), but improvements have been rapid on the run-down and badly vandalized house. They bought it Aug. 3.

"There were so many things to be done," said Mrs. Shortes, "that every little improvement we make is noticeable." The home is very livable now, with a decor that is elegant and comfortable even in its unfinished state.

Four of the Shortes' sons are in school, and coming home to a batch of cookies, pie or the sumptuous smell of chicken frying, makes them know the building is now home. Young David, 4, spends the day playing on the 12 acres of land that surround the house, while waiting for his brothers to get home. The other sons, and their grade in school, are John, 8th, Chris, 6th, Scott, 4th and David, 1st.

"The boys have hearty appetites," Mrs. Shortes said. "I tell people they like absolutely any kind of food as long as it's fried chicken and chocolate pie." Their first question when they come in the door is usually 'Mom, what did you make today?".

The day begins in the Shortes' home at 6:30 a.m. The boys as well as Mr. and Mrs. Shortes always eat a good breakfast because she said that's one meal she can count on the whole family being there. She also thinks it helps the boys in school if they start the day with a full stomach.

Regardless of what Mrs. Shortes serves for dinner, (and the family likes any kind of meat) she always has a dessert ready for after the meal, for an evening snack or both.

"We eat a lot of sweets," she said, "but I can't make the boys cut down when I'm the worst offender, and we've never had a weight problem." Mrs. Shortes enjoys kitchen creativity, but desserts take top billing. Usually she has several baked pie crusts frozen and ready for use when the mood strikes her. There's always something baked for snacks, and to put in the kid's lunch boxes.

Music is a common bond of the family. Mrs. Shortes taught piano lessons until the third boy was born, and Shortes teaches guitar. They have a family band which played during Starlight Specials and occasionally performs at the auditorium. The group produces a lot of music from a piano, guitars, drums and tamborines, and even the young boys stand up and strum on toy guitars.

"One of the first advantages I thought about when we looked at this house was that we wouldn't have to worry about our practicing bothering anybody out here," said Mrs. Shortes.

The sprawling twelve acres of land still provide exciting explorations for the boys and their parents. Mrs. Shortes said they often walk around and discover something they didn't know was there. The terraced landscaping provides many paths and passages that lead to gardens or a couple of smaller buildings on the premises.

Shortes is an electrical superintendent for the city, and his knowledge came in handy when repairing the house's system. Most of the plumbing was still in working condition, although Mrs. Shortes spent many an hour cleaning the fixtures.

The house has become a home now, and the Shortes' have fun making plans for the rooms. They have lots of space and lots of ideas for what to do with the space. Everyone has helped with the plans and work of remodeling.

The Shortes' are both native Big Springers. She is the daughter of Mrs. J.C. Spalding, 1009 E. 15th, and the late Mr. Spalding. Shortes is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. F.O. Shortes. The family attends the 14th and Main Church of Christ.

Mrs. Shortes likes to stay home most of the time, but enjoys it whenever people drop in for coffee. Whenever she finds a spare minute, she reads, saying the biggest treat for her is to get 15 minutes of quiet when she can sit and read.

Money Saver

A good way to save money: select quality according to the way you'll prepare and serve the food. For example, broken pieces of canned tomatoes can be used for casseroles instead of whole tomatoes.

Beans In Sauce Add Delicate Air To Side Dishes

This unique green bean recipe is compatible with ham or pork meals.

GREEN BEANS IN SOUR CREAM SAUCE

1-½ lbs. fresh green beans
3 tbsps. finely chopped onion
3 tbsps. butter or margarine
3 tbsps. flour
2 tbsps. chopped parsley
2 tbsps. fresh lemon juice
¾ cup dairy sour cream
Salt and pepper

Wash beans and cut as desired. Cook in small amount of boiling salted water until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain, reserving 1 cup liquid. Keep beans warm. Saute onion in melted butter 2 to 3 minutes. Blend in flour. Add parsley and reserved liquid. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add lemon juice and sour cream. Heat, but do not boil. Season with salt and pepper. Pour sauce over beans and serve with ham.

Milk Has Many Uses In Kitchen

There are many ways to use nonfat dry milk. Each manufacturer of instant nonfat dry milk suggests the amounts to get the best results. Follow package directions, when measured by spoon, cup or similar measures. Use dry or reliquified as indicated on the package. Keep it on the kitchen shelf and try it for cooking, baking, whipping and as a beverage.

RECOMMENDED RECIPES

½ cup buttermilk
1 tsp. baking soda
2 beaten eggs
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. vanilla

Mix margarine, cooking oil, cocoa and water in sauce pan, and bring to boil. Sift flour and sugar in large mixing bowl. Add hot liquid and beat. Combine baking soda with eggs and buttermilk, and add to previous mixture. Add cinnamon and vanilla. Put in greased and floured 9 by 13 inch pan and bake at 400 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes.

TEXAS HOT COCOA ICING
(For chocolate cake)

1 stick margarine
2 tbsps. cocoa
6 tbsps. milk or cream
1 box powdered sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
Pecans if desired

Bring margarine, cocoa and milk to boil. Add powdered sugar and vanilla, and beat until creamy. Add pecans (optional), and ice cake while still warm.

DREAM CAKE

½ cup powdered sugar
1 cup cake flour
½ tsp. salt
10 eggs, separated (room temperature)
1 tsp. cream of tartar
1 tsp. lemon extract
⅔ cup sugar
3 tbsps. orange juice

Sift powdered sugar, cake flour and salt together five times. Beat egg whites until foamy, and add cream of tartar. Continue to beat until stiff. In another bowl (or blender), beat egg yolks, lemon extract, sugar and orange juice until thick and lemon colored. Fold flour mixture and egg whites alternately into egg yolk mixture. Put batter in a nine-inch tube pan and bake at 350 degrees for 50 minutes, or until cake springs back when pressed lightly with finger. Invert pan and place over neck of a bottle to cool.

DREAM CAKE ICING

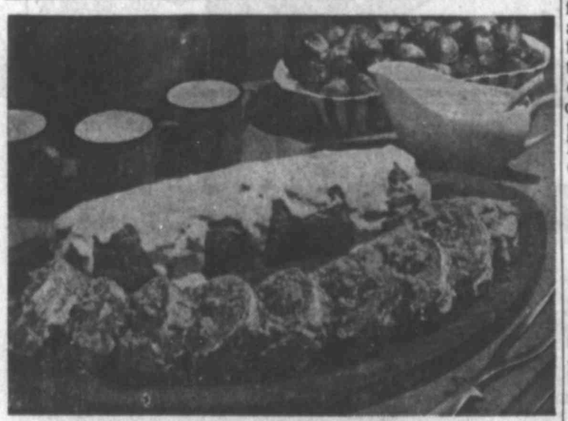

1 stick softened margarine

Ham 'N Yam Combo For Dinner Parties

Dinner for 12 needn't be either difficult to arrange or expensive to give. Here's an exciting dinner menu, for example, featuring good late-winter food buys, that's especially appropriate for a family clan gathering or for an informal company dinner.

The pretty pink, yellow, and white Saucy Ham 'n Yam Loaf that leads off the dinner is surprisingly easy to prepare. Simply pat a mixture of seasoned ground ham and pork and some canned condensed mushroom soup (for handling ease and juiciness) into a rectangle. Spread with a delectable yam and pecan filling, roll up like a pinwheel, and bake.

Sauce the loaf easily yet elegantly with the remaining mushroom soup heated with sour cream, nutmeg, and mustard or horseradish.

SAUCY HAM 'N 'YAM LOAF

2 cans (10½ oz. each) condensed cream of mushroom soup
2 lbs. ground ham
1 lb. ground pork
2 slices bread, torn into small pieces
⅔ cup finely chopped onion
2 eggs, slightly beaten
¼ tsp. pepper
4 cups mashed cooked yams or 2 cans (1-lb. each) mashed yams
2 cups chopped celery
1½ cups chopped pecans
1 tsp. nutmeg
⅔ cup cour cream
4 tsps. prepared mustard or 1 tbsp. horseradish

Combine ½ cup soup with ham, pork, bread, onion, eggs, and pepper. Mix thoroughly; divide in half. On wax paper, firmly shape each half into a 10 x 16-inch piece. Combine yams, celery, pecans and nutmeg; spread half on each piece meat within 1 inch of edges. Roll up, peeling off wax paper. Pat ends firmly to seal. Place, seam side down, in shallow baking dishes. Bake at 350 F. for 1½ hours or until done. Meanwhile, in saucepan, combine remaining soup, sour cream, and mustard. Heat; stir now and then. Serve with loaves. Makes 12 servings.

Nutritious Meal Easy To Fix

Noodles in sour cream makes a protein-rich main course. Cook 1 5-oz. package of fine noodles in boiling, salted water for 10 minutes. Drain well. Mix 1 cup each of cottage cheese, and 1 cup dairy sour cream, 1 medium onion, chopped, 1 tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce and ⅛ teaspoon each of salt and pepper. Add to noodles and stir well.

Spoon into buttered 6-cup casserole and sprinkle top with 3 tablespoons of grated Parmesan cheese. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven for 40 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Paraffin Test Gunned Down In Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — The paraffin test—one of the oldest scientific crime detection aids to determine if a suspect has fired a gun recently—has been abandoned by the Houston Police Department.

Houston police now are using a technique involving chemicals and ultraviolet rays. Police chemists consider the new test more reliable than the long-used paraffin method.

Linking suspects to weapons is a vital need to homicide detectives who often have no eyewitnesses to testify that a suspect fired a weapon.

Under the new system, the suspect's hands are sprayed with a chemical which makes microscopic metal particles on the skin visible under an ultraviolet light.

Floyd McDonald, chief chemist for the police crime laboratory here, said the technique has revealed that the imprint of a metal object remains visible for up to 24 hours after a person handles the object. He said the imprint of a gun, knife, metal rod or similar object can be identified easily.

Under the old paraffin test, melted paraffin was applied to a person's hands. The paraffin was removed after it hardened and then tested for nitrate particles, a by-product of burning gunpowder.

Although the test has been used here for at least four decades, McDonald said he has run recent checks on it and found it to be unreliable.

He said a positive reading can be caused by smoking or by traces of certain cosmetics, urine or other substances.

He said the new technique takes less time, is more reliable and has the additional advantage of showing distinct impressions of individual metal objects.

He said the chemical and ultraviolet light also gives different colorations for different types of metal. This gives police specific evidence of the type of gun or other metal objects a suspect has handled, he said.

Police have filed charges against at least 30 persons here using the chemical ultraviolet tests as evidence. None of the cases has been tried so far in court.

The Harris County Sheriff's Office also has ordered equipment to begin the tests of the chemical-ultraviolet method.

Klan Member Is Sentenced

HOUSTON (AP) — Jimmy Dale Hutto, 24, a member of the Ku Klux Klan, received a 5½-year sentence Tuesday for plotting to blow up radio stations in California.

A jury convicted him Sept. 3 of conspiring to destroy stations owned by the Pacifica Foundation in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Berkeley.

He still faces state charges growing out of the Oct. 6, 1970, dynamiting of the transmitter of the Pacifica station in Houston.

Hutto was convicted also of buying and possessing a gun in violation of federal law since he had been twice adjudged a mental defective in state courts.

U.S. District Court Judge James Noel placed Hutto on 4½ years probation after he completes his sentence. He said Hutto may not join any extremist groups while on probation and should avoid spending any time around newspapers, radio or television stations.

"I regard you as a man who is easily excited," Noel told him. "I don't want you tempted to be around places where you may not approve of what's going on."

Quits Driving At Age Of 105

BROKEN ARROW, Okla. (AP) — At the age of 105, William Newton Williams has quit driving and sold his car.

"I drove downtown a couple of months ago, turned the corner and jumped the curb," he said. "People were laughing at me. I drove on down the block and turned the corner where I again cut across the curbing.

"Both times the curbing shook the car and me, too.

"I told myself: 'This is your last drive into town. I see it won't do. You will kill yourself or somebody else.'"

"My eyes, hearing and coordination have failed me so I've decided to stay home," said Williams, a real estate man and one of the founders of Broken Arrow.

Peek-A-Boo, Governor May Be Looking At You

By JOHN WOODFIELD
Associated Press Writer

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The already tight security net surrounding Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel has taken yet another electronic step into 20th century surveillance.

Closed-circuit television cameras have been mounted atop various state office buildings to provide Mandel's State Police security detail with a panoramic view of the Governor's Mansion as well as the state parking lot some 100 yards away that doubles as a landing pad for Mandel's helicopter.

Just as on any other television set, State Police in their basement headquarters of the mansion can change channels to obtain just the right angle of the mansion parking lot they want to view.

A flip of a switch is all that is needed to bring a zoom lens into play for a closer look—a fact apparently unknown to spooning couples for which the lower end of the parking lot has always been a favorite trysting spot.

The new devices, installed at a cost of $65,000, also offer diversion for the governor, who has periodically telephoned some of his startled staff members to inform them what time they parked their cars and where.

An added attraction of the television network is a video tape device that permits State Police to tape anything they monitor.

This presumably could prove useful in gathering evidence should arrests be made or prosecutions begun, for example, against demonstrators around the mansion or State House who become unruly.

The television network outside the state complex augments a similar one recently installed in the State House itself, from which uniformed security guards can monitor the first and second floors and the tunnel leading between the State House and the Court of Appeals building.

A sophisticated security alarm system also has been established, including electric door locks and speaker systems to challenge those who wish entry to the State House after hours.

Eventually, the system will spread to cover the entire state office building complex.

Mandel's nine-man state police security detail under Capt. Mike Kaplow has gone through an extensive streamlining program since the governor took office. Part of it was a carryover from Secret Service methods used when former Gov. Spiro T. Agnew was running for vice president.

Big Asphalt Price-Fix Suit Filed

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Atty. Gen. Larry Derryberry filed a new asphalt price-fixing suit totaling an estimated $40 million against 12 oil companies on behalf of cities, counties and other subdivisions of state government.

The suit was filed in Oklahoma City U.S. District Court in the name of the Custer County Board of County Commissioners and J.D. Metcalfe, Inc., a Tulsa contracting firm. But Odie A. Nance, assistant attorney general, said it will be amended later to include all cities and counties in the state.

The suit seeks recovery of asphalt purchases from July 22, 1961, through Dec. 31, 1968.

The suit names as defendants the Wilshire Oil Co. of Texas; Mid-America Refining Co.; Apco Oil Corp.; Mobil Oil Corp.; Farmland Industries, Inc.; Sun Oil Co.; Kerr-McGee Corp.; American Petrofina Co. of Texas; American Oil Co.; Phillips Petroleum Co.; Skelly Oil Co. and Colorado Oil and Gas Corp.

Balloon Observer Recalls War Days As 'Sitting Duck'

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — High above the muddy, chewed-up, trench-laced and barbed wire-strewn World War I battlefields in France, Lt. John MacGilchrist surveyed the fighting as a balloon observer with the British Royal Flying Corps.

He viewed infantry assaults, artillery shellings and gas attacks from a perch up to 6,000 feet above ground. Scanning the German lines with field glasses, he relayed details of enemy positions and activities down a telephone line extended along the cable linking him to the ground.

Other times, he had a grandstand view of aerial dogfights between German and Allied aircraft which swirled at his balloon.

MacGilchrist, 78, recalls those days from his San Diego apartment, surrounded by paintings representative of his years as an architectural and engineering illustrator. He still paints seascapes along the Pacific coast.

But the etchings he made while an aerial observer remain his favorites. Often he did the first rough sketches while witnessing dogfights from his balloon.

"The Germans were too busy to worry about me then," MacGilchrist said. "But there were other occasions when they came after the bags."

Once German planes attacked a line of observation balloons. "It was turkey shoot," MacGilchrist remembers. "The sky from north to south was lined with smoke trails, balloons falling in flames, and their observers leaping out in their parachutes."

MacGilchrist says his balloon was not attacked on that occasion because, at 6,000 feet, it was 2,000 feet above the planes and "I guess they were low on gas because they didn't come up after me."

Other times, shrapnel from Allied guns caused his balloon to sag.

Four times he had to jump. His closest call is one he remembers well.

"The Germans usually attacked from above," he says.

"This time, an Albatross surprised me by coming from underneath. Bullets ripped through the basket. One hit my gauntlet. The bag exploded.

"I dropped out of the basket like a hot brick. My winchman hauled the burning basket into the wind to protect me from having it fall on my parachute, which was drifting in the opposite direction. Even so, burning debris floated by, leaving long trails of hot embers."

MacGilchrist was descending over a landscape criss-crossed with barbed wire.

"Luckily I drifted right in front of one of our batteries which was firing. The gunners came running out to fetch me to their lines. They cut up my silk parachute for souvenirs."

'MADISON AVENUE IS AFRAID OF THE DARK'

Nat King Cole's Widow Recalls Famed Husband's Life, Career

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Nat King Cole's records have sold an estimated 25 million copies and they're still selling, six and a half years after his death, at 44, from lung cancer.

His widow, Maria, with Louie Robinson, has written a book, just out, called "Nat King Cole, an Intimate Biography." She says, "I really wrote it for his fans. I hope some other people will enjoy it, too. His fans know about his music and what he recorded. But people ask me from time to time about him as a husband and father and what we did. I think we were the second most important thing in his life. I feel, rather proudly, that his career was the most important thing to him. I don't think he ever would have quit; he would have been like Bob Hope or Jack Benny.

"There are so few Americans that are worth talking about. He was a fine, great American. He represented this country well everywhere he went. I want the quality of the man known, the human side of him. His talent is known."

What fans may not have realized about Cole? Mrs. Cole says, "He was very easily hurt. He wanted the world to love him and be succeeded, but sometimes in a painful way.

"A few years before he died he was refused his own TV show. He was so hurt. He said, 'Madison Avenue is afraid of the dark.'

"I hated to see him hurt. He was so really a nice man. That hurt him and his tax problem and one other time when he played the Pladium and it was a bomb.

"That was 1950. They clapped but he didn't stir them. I don't know what it was. He was so upset. But every time he went back after that he was a complete smash.

"I think fans might not have known that he carried a grudge against Harry Belafonte to his grave. I think he was wrong about not getting over it, but he didn't." That arose, according to the book, when Belafonte tried to tell Cole his act wasn't presented right and he would write a new one for him.

Another thing fans may not have known is about Mrs. Cole. Reared in a family of culture and education and attending private school run by her forceful brillant aunt, she was accoustomed to being on top of things and speaking up. She looks gentle and has a charming manner, but also has the confidence to be firm about such things as how the King Cole Trio should divide money. She says, "The manager and I used to have it sometimes. People weren't used to a black woman raised like I was. They still aren't too used to it. I don't mind straightening them out. I think it is the only way. I have run into people who don't want blacks to be educated. They don't want the competition. I firmly believe environment is stronger than heredity."

Mrs. Cole chose Louie Robinson for the book because he had known Cole, having written several stories on the family for Ebony magazine. She talked into a tape recorder, then he wrote, then she made sure it sounded like her. She says, "I don't consider myself an author.

"The end of the book was painful to do. It is not easy to talk about someone you love having suffered. But the rest was delightful to recall." Two years ago Mrs Cole married Gary Devore, TV producer and script writer. She says, "When you remarry you don't go around talking about your former husband, even when he was Nat King Cole. So Louie and I would talk and it was a wonderful emotional outlet for me.

Mrs. Cole was a singer when she met her late husband. She had been one of three girl singers with the Ellington band and then gone into the Zanzibar where its owners, Joe Howard, thought he could build her into another Lena Horne. Marriage ended that idea. "I was so in love I didn't care. I have never been frustrated. It was different after he passed. I had to do something to keep busy and the first thing that came back to me was performing again."

"Mrs. Cole made a record album after her husband's death, put together an act but abandoned it and hosted a talk show on TV in Los Angeles for 15 months, until she got tired out. It was on a return as a guest host that she met her present husband.

She says, "I was born with a certain amount of independence. Not so much that I don't want companionship. I think love is the most important thing in the world, especially in a woman. It makes you soft, even if you're 85. That's why I put in the front of the book the words from 'Nature Boy,' The greatest thing you'll ever learn is just to love and be loved in return.' "

More Blacks, Latins Named

DALLAS (AP) — City of Dallas boards and commissions have almost doubled the number of Negroes and Mexican-Americans and women on their membership rosters as result of new appointments by the City Council.

Seventy-four of the 135 members named to 14 boards and commissions are reappointments; the remainder are new.

There are now 22 blacks (an increase of 10), nine Mexican-Americans and 23 women—an increase of eight.

Government Spies Monitor Sermons

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Two Methodist Church leaders in Rhodesia, Rev. Thomas Curtis and Rev. Michael Appleyard, say the government's security police pay African informers to attend church services and report back on any criticisms of the government by preachers.

Nutty Story

WATERTOWN, Wis. (AP) — Blanchard Evans couldn't figure out why his car seemed to be on fire and why the smoke smelled like roasted nuts.

Firefighters told him there actually was no fire, but his auto's exhaust pipe had been stuffed with nuts—possibly by a squirrel or chipmunk.

Ike Loved Abilene, Says Mamie

ABILIENE, Kan. (AP) — "Ike really loved this town," said Mamie Eisenhower.

"Whenever Ike was upset about anything or regardless of how things were going, he always felt comfortable coming back home here."

Those were among observations made by the 75-year-old former first lady as she chatted Wednesday with friends gathered for today's rededication ceremonies at the recently expanded Eisenhower Museum.

The ceremonies were to come on the 81st birthday anniversary of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who died in 1969 and was buried here.

"He wanted to come back home here for good when he died and I'm so glad we were able to carry out his wish," Mrs. Eisenhower said. "Whenever I come to Abilene now, I feel close to him again."

EASY-TO-READ DATES ON SAFEWAY BRAND FOODS HELP ASSURE FRESHNESS FOR YOU

Perishable foods (such as meats, eggs, dairy and bakery foods) sell so fast at Safeway they are on and off our shelves in a matter of hours. But we take no chances with freshness. Perishables which Safeway manufactures or processes carry dates to guide our store people. Here's how the date looks on a package of Safeway Brand cheese:

When the numbers "1-15-71" appeared on a cheese wrapper, our employees knew the package was not to be sold after January 15, 197 . Being positive no package remains on our shelves after the printed date assures you that Safeway foods you buy will remain fresh and good for many more days with proper home refrigeration.

EDUCATION AND GUIDANCE COUNSELOR — Bill Cook, Webb's new education and guidance counselor, discusses offerings at Howard County Junior College with the education office's noncommissioned officer, Sgt. Joe Williams.

New Guidance Counselor On Duty At Webb AFB

Air Training Command has received an additional authorization of 27 education counselors under Project Volunteer to help motivate Air Force people to take advantage of educational opportunities.

According to Air Training Command education officials, each base will receive at least one counselor. Minimum qualifications include a master's degree in guidance and counseling.

Webb's new guidance counselor is William B. (Bill) Cook, who will work out of the education services center to assist those who seek his services.

Cook came to Webb from employment as an administrator in the Northeast Independent School District in San Antonio. His degrees include the bachelor of arts from the University of Maryland and the master of education degree with specialization and cerification in the field of guidance and counseling from Trinity University in San Antonio. He has also done work toward a master's degree in business administration at St. Mary's University in San Antonio.

The new education counselor retired from the Army in October, 1963, after completing more than 21 years' service. Following a year's schooling to complete teacher certification, he taught and served as a counselor at the San Antonio schools where he later worked as an administrator.

"We will be here to provide educational opportunity to all the people at Webb," Cook said. "Almost everything today is geared to help men in the service advance to the limit of their capability. Additional education will help each of them during their careers in the service; it will be even more beneficial, perhaps, when they return to civilian life. As the title implies, we are here to offer a service, guidance and assistance."

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A perfect day to organize the details of your personal and business life so that you will be able to have things run more smoothly in the future than they have in the past. Also a good time to look at your wardrobe and make necessary improvements. Tone up your physical vitality.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Look for ways and means to become more proficient in your work. Take time to rest during the day. A treatment in the evening can help to restore vitality.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Tone up your appearance and then attend a social affair that will bring favors you want. Plan time for the hobby that appeals to you so much. Avoid one who opposes you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A good day to plan how to get conditions at home improved. Buy little gifts for kin and increase harmony at home. Avoid getting into a troublesome situation. Be wise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Keep those appointments you have been postponing. Don't forget to shop, which you have been also putting off. You can now clear up existing annoyances with allies.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make repairs around your home that are necessary. Show that you have good practical sense. A new budget that will improve your financial position is wise. Show that you have wisdom.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Do what you can to improve your health and you become more popular and efficient. Use that smile more and please others. Plan more time for congenials in the days ahead.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You want to get started on new plans but first you must get into the minute details which are a bit of a bore. You can obtain advice from expert if you are not sure about something.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) An ideal day to contact friends and discuss new plans and exchange ideas. A person you have just met should be cultivated now. Let this develop into a rewarding friendship.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) There are many details at work to be handled now that are of a routine nature so use time wisely. Get the assistance you need from a bigwig. Show that you have ability.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Obtain the information you need in planning a trip or expanding where your career is concerned. Gather the facts where a new project is concerned. Count the cost well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handle those obligations with pals to the best of your ability. Show that you are thoughtful of others. You can handle an emotional matter most intelligently now. Be more cheerful.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) You have to alter the agreements you have with associates if they are to work out well now. Do your utmost to reconcile with others and your life will be a happier one.

Dancer Faces Arson Charge

FORT WORTH (AP)—Robert Earl Dancer, 22, has been charged with arson in connection with a rash of fires at an east side apartment complex last week.

Investigators said Dancer had been evicted from the complex last Tuesday night. Four fires broke out there between 10 p.m. Wednesday and 5 a.m. Thursday.

The Meadowbrook Village Apartments have been the scene of 12 fires since mid-August, investigators reported. None caused heavy damage. There were no injuries.

'Fisherman' Author Encores Success

SUMMER OF THE RED WOLFE. By Morris L. West. Morrow. $6.95

The narrator of this novel — his name never is given — is a writer who has been living in Rome, and is fed up with the savagery and falsity of city life. So he accepts an old friend's invitation to live for a while in the Outer Hebrides of Scotland.

In this remote island world the narrator — the Scots call him "seannachie," meaning story-teller — soon meets two people who will play a major part in his life.

One is Dr. Kathleen McNeil, a local physician; the writer learns eventually that she is trying to recover her balance following a disastrous marriage.

The other is Ruarri Matheson, a red-bearded giant whom the scots call the Red Wolf. Born a bastard, he has developed a tremendous drive to become a leader in the islands. But perversely he has chosen to do it on the wrong side of the law — in such things as poaching, gill-netting and gun-running. He thinks of himself as a modern version of the Viking adventurers.

The two men become both friends and rivals, engaging in some outlandish physical feats and games of upmanship, with Kathleen as the center of their attentions.

"The Summer of the Red Wolf" is a moving tale, whose tension builds to a startling finish, a suitable encore to "Shoes of the Fisherman."

Luck Changed At State Fair

DALLAS (AP)—All of a sudden things are looking up for James Edward Rogers, 19, and his family.

Their luck changed Tuesday while he was at the State Fair of Texas, and the Dallas youth went home $4,000 richer.

"Our house burned down last month," he said, "and my mother and I and my five brothers and sisters are in the process of moving somewhere else. It was a pretty bad fire—everything we owned burned.

"That's why my mother woke me up this morning and told me she'd heard some clues on the radio about a man who would be giving away money at the State Fair. She thought maybe I should go out there and find him. We needed the money."

Pearline Rogers told him about the advertising promotion of a soap manufacturer. All James had to do was to identify a man from tips given by radio announcers, hand over the label off a dishwashing product and collect the money.

It may sound like one of those broadcast soap operas, but that's exactly what he did.

"I'm going to give most of the money to my mother," he said. "We're going to need it for the new house in Oak Cliff . . . but I think I'm going to use a little of it to buy myself a motorcycle."

1,206,973 New Yorkers On Welfare

NEW YORK (AP) — The city's welfare rolls rose by 10,560 persons in August, the first month to fully reflect the state's new policies to cut relief costs, the city Department of Social Services reported Tuesday.

The department said there were 1,206,973 New Yorkers on welfare, 15 per cent of the city's population.

The size of rolls had been leveling off in April-July. In May, the state reduced welfare grants by 10 per cent for all recipients except the aged, blind and disabled.

And since July, employable welfare recipients have had to go to state employment offices to pick up their checks and apply for work.

The biggest increase in August was in aid to dependent children, up 3,686 persons.

Dental Practice

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A Kansas dentist says the dental practice in which the patient is lying and the dentist is seated is growing in popularity.

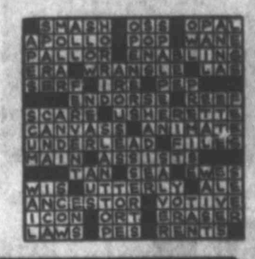

Dr. Glenn A. Thomas of Wichita told the American Dental Association convention that the new approach frees the dentist from the awkward position leaning over the patient and makes it easier for him to work. He said it also allows the dental assistant to perform some chores previously done by the dentist.

Bosom Buddies

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We work in a large office with a young woman who has a tremendously large bosom. Because of this she is terribly self-conscious and she always wears a coat. Even in 95-degree weather.

Can you suggest some way we can help her get rid of this complex? HER BOSOM BUDDIES

DEAR BUDDIES: If she is top-heavy to the point of being freakishly out of proportion, perhaps she should be told plastic surgeons can correct that condition. It may be easier for her to reduce the size of her bosom than to get rid of her complex.

DEAR ABBY: My sister, a widow for the past year and the mother of an 11-year-old son, has developed some rather strange habits lately.

I visited her last week (she has a three bedroom home in Staten Island) and I found her giving her son a bath. Not only that but she was clad in a skimpy pair of panties and a loose fitting bra.

The next day I noticed the only bed that had been slept in the night before was her twin bed. She said her son had been sleeping in her bedroom since her husband's death because she was "lonely," and because Staten Island is almost a "rural area" she is afraid to sleep in her bedroom alone. That may be, but why two of them in one twin bed?

I told her it was unnatural, and she denied anything unnatural was going on between her and her son.

I knew my sister always had some kooky ideas, but this is the kookiest. Shouldn't something be done about this? I am afraid she has gone completely off her rocker. WORRIED SISTER

DEAR WORRIED: She is more than "kooky." She is disturbed. Tell her doctor what you've written to me. Her son needs to be rescued, and fast.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for six years. We've both worked and saved in order to furnish a house the way we want it. We have no children and aren't planning on having any for at least two years.

We just put in wall-to-wall carpeting, and want to keep it nice for as long as possible. So we asked our friends and relatives to please leave their shoes outside the door. Almost everyone has gone along with our request, and the few who haven't didn't upset us much.

My husband is quite artistic and he wants to make a decorative sign to place beside our doorbell. It will read, "PLEASE LEAVE YOUR SHOES OUTSIDE."

Is this in poor taste? R AND K

DEAR R AND K: It's questionalbe taste, I wouldn't do it. I've been in Colorado in the winter and I still wouldn't do it.

Free Bike Rides

TORONTO (AP) — The city has provided free bicycle transportation for at least two of the two million people living in this area.

Mayor William Dennison decided that two bicycles presented to the city by a CBC television program would be left in the streets for public use.

"I've got great faith in the honesty of Toronto people," said the mayor.

About Platelets

Your Good Health

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: An infant born last month is said by the pediatrician to have a low count of "platelets." In all my 80 years this is the first time I have heard of platelets.

The child has the appearance of a perfect child in coloring and general behavior. He is being kept in the intensive-care section in hopes that the platelet count will build up to normal.

Can you enlighten us about platelets and what the lack of normal quantity portends? — H.C.H.

As is true with all sorts of topics, there are lots of things in health and medicine you may not hear about until you become directly involved with them.

To explain platelets, you know that when there is bleeding the blood automatically forms clots to stop the bleeding. This is done by certain types of particles in the blood stream — and one type of particle, the platelet, is the one that initiates this clotting action.

Insufficient platelets means slower clotting. An example of this is when there is trivial bleeding below the surface of the body. Ordinarily it would be stopped so quickly it wouldn't be noticed. But with a deficiency of platelets, there is a great seepage of blood, and a red or purplish spot appears, resembling a bruise. This deficiency is called thrombocytopenia. Platelets are also called thrombocytes.

Deficiency can occur because the bone marrow does not produce enough platelets. Alternatively, enough may be formed but an excessive number are being destroyed by the spleen.

In older children deficiency can follow an infection, or be related to allergy or drug sensitivity. There is also a hereditary or congenital form of thrombocytopenia — in which case other members of the family also have a platelet deficiency. This, however, is rare.

Apparently the infant you write about (a grandchild, perhaps?) has some unsual bleeding problem, or exhibited the "brusing" phenomenon, so a study was made of the blood, revealing the lack of enough platelets.

Platelets can be extracted from blood and given in the form of transfusions. In the case of the baby we're talking about today, I would assume that further studies will be made to determine whether the deficiency is caused by excessive destruction in the spleen.

If so, removal of the spleen, when the baby's condition warrants surgery, usually corrects the situation. After all, while the spleen is a useful organ, it is also one we can get along without. When the spleen is causing trouble, we are better off without it.
