With Our Boys In The Service

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This column will be devoted to news of the men and women in the service. If you have any news regarding them, we would appreciate getting it.)

Mr. and Mrs. D. Maney are so thankful to report a safe hearing from their son, Eldon H. Maney, asking about everyone and especially about his buddies who went through boot camp with him at San Diego. They were Carl Cook, Loyd Hall, Leroy Stinert and Loyd Scruggs. He said not to worry, Mothers, as everything was well and he was in good health—feeling fine. He also stated he was getting The Burk Star, which was great help to see so many friends and his school buddies in print. They also received a hearing from their older son, Odie Maney, who joined the Merchant Marines in August. He, too said not to worry for it was a thrill to him to know he was having a little part in carrying over the material and men it will take to down the Nazi and those dirty Japs. He saw the President's flag hit and go down. He almost looked like black when the men began to get out of the ship, but very were lost.

O. M. Cox, employe of the Star, received the following letter from his son, Jack, who was recently inducted into the army. The letter is full of optimism, and tells how most of the boys feel about the army:

Headquarters Co.
740th Tank (M). Bn.
Fort Knox, Ky.

Hello Pop:
Today is Sunday, nothing to do, restricted to Post, and now just writing some letters.

I hope you realize the importance of my being so fortunate in being in an outfit like this. It's a highly technical business and one who performs his duties and studies hard will certainly emerge from training with a high rating. Ratings in this branch commence at Corporal Technician 4th, which pays good money. If I make 110 score, or more on my I. Q., I may enter O.C.S. (Officers' Candidate School).

First part of the training will be 13 weeks of basic infantry training and after that comes school. I really like the army. I don't see in the first place why a person should try to dodge the draft. It's an honor to serve Uncle Sam on the home front as it is to do so on the battle front, but some go too far by asking for deferments, placing themselves in what might seem essential work, and some even to the extent of disabling themselves and lying to the examining doctor.

We are placed here in a squad, a platoon, a battalion, a division, and then the corps and actual army which is called a powerful battle unit. Our 4th squad consists of 10 men; there are 4 squads in a platoon, which is 40 men. Then, there are three platoons in a battalion which makes 120 men in a battalion. There are 5 companies which makes 600 men. We take our training in that order. Then an armored force consists of tanks, trucks, etc. When a part of this is united with an artillery unit, medical corps, etc., this forms a division. And several divisions finally make up a complete army, or fighting unit. All this is very interesting to me—so you see I like it.

There's a tank out in front of the barracks and it's an interesting thing. And just to look at this thing I don't see how in the devil they get so much metal to put that thick armor on it. It's very big, but yet it's only a medium tank. I do not see how they can build thousands of them. By the way, our corps colors are green and white.

Please write quick and if you have an extra clothes hangers, please send them. I'm still bumming—it's me again.

Pvt. James Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Sullivan, who reside west of town, left Monday for the station at Camp Young, Indio, Calif. He has been at home on a 10-day leave.

"T" Ration Card Application Due

Truck operators of Precinct 2, who hold ODT certificates of war necessity should mail or take their applications to Bob Tevis, chairman of the local board, for renewals and issuance of gasoline ratings.

Their present "T" coupons are valid only until March 31, according to Tevis.

In presenting an appeal for renewal, the truck operator, if an operator of only one truck, must present his Office of Defense Transportation Certificate of War Necessity. If he operates a fleet of trucks, the master ODT certificate and the tire inspection dates, which speedometer readings of each truck, must be given to the board. If all facts are given, and given before the expiration date, the truckers will be able to get early consideration from the fuel panel, Tevis said.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Northcott have received news that their son, Sgt. H. B. Northcott is somewhere overseas. The last news from Corporal R. H. Northcott was from Virginia. Private Jack M. Northcott is now stationed at Camp White, Oregon, and thinks he will like engineering school fine.

Pvt. Finis D. Taylor, who enlisted in the Marine Corps Jan. 11, 1943, has just completed his boot training at San Diego, Calif. Pvt. Lewis B. Morris, son of Mrs. I. H. Morris, has just completed an intensive 45-day course in maintenance and repair of peeps and jeeps, scout cars and trucks, and is a qualified automotive mechanic.

Matthew C. Tucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Tucker, was inducted into the U. S. Army March 4th. It is not as yet known to what Branch of the Service he will be assigned. Matthew graduated from the Burk Burnett High School in 1932 and holds the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Business Administration from the University of Texas. At the time of his induction he was Senior Accountant for the San Antonio Housing Authority. He and his wife have been residing in San Antonio since their marriage in October, 1941.

Word was received here Thursday from Woody Carter, former Manager of the United Gas Corp., that he has been accepted for the Navy and will report in San Diego, Calif., Wednesday, March 24th.

Corrections Cut Dry Lead to 60

Official Canvass To Be Made Friday

Wichita County voted to stay dry by a majority of 60 votes Saturday, according to a check of the county clerk's returns from election judges Tuesday.

County Clerk Ford Albritton had received reports on election returns from all 48 election judges. The total vote now shows the following:

For legalizing the sale of beer, 4,946; against legalizing the sale of beer, 5,006; total vote, 9,952.

Figures Reversed

It looked like the county had gone wet for a few minutes Tuesday morning. When the returns from box 27 at Burk Burnett were opened the report showed 143 ballots for legalizing the sale of beer and 51 votes against the measure. Immediately afterward, however, W. R. Hill, election judge of that box, arrived at the clerk's office to announce that he had reversed the figures.

Hill explained that his box had not been furnished tally sheets.

Several county officials, including one member of the commissioners' court, indicated a recount of results from two boxes probably would be necessary to clarify the election returns. One of these is Hill's box, due to the fact that his official report shows that it went wet; the other is box 17, Baggett Grocery, in which the judge and other officials state the total listed as "For Prohibition" should have been "For Legalizing."

Above election figures are based upon correct figures as stated by Judges of the two boxes in question.

Box 17, at the Baggett Grocery, 2123 Broad, was reported partially Saturday night as 123 for and 95 against the proposed sale of beer. Complete returns brought to the county clerk's office Monday showed 182 for and 126 against. With these amendments, the total vote for beer sales was 4,947, the total against it 5,004.

Unofficial returns reveal that approximately 7,500 voters in Wichita Falls recorded a margin of about 500 votes in favor of restoring the sale of beer in this county.

The three other precincts in the county went dry, precinct 2 by 251 votes; precinct 3 by 313 votes; and precinct 4 by 43 votes.

Burkburnett Needs A Day Nursery

With so many mothers going into war defense work and other very essential jobs a growing need for a day nursery is becoming more and more needed in Burk Burnett. According to Mrs. C. B. Brooks, president of the Parent-Teacher Association and members of this organization are the first to take a step toward this accomplishment, but before they can make any definite arrangements they must know approximately how many working mothers that would be interested in supporting a move of this kind, also the number of children that they have of nursery age and the hour the mothers work.

This group is asking the co-operation of every citizen in Burk Burnett as well as working mothers to lend a helping hand toward this worth while project by leaving their names at The Star office.

Ray C. Morrow Begins Fourth Year As Pastor Calvary Baptist

Sunday March 21st, Ray C. Morrow will observe his third anniversary in the city of Burk Burnett as pastor of Calvary Baptist Church. He has chosen for his sermon subject for the morning service, "Ebenzer—Hitherto Hath the Lord Helped Us." And certainly that is the testimony of both the Pastor and the Church, for God has helped us and given us a miraculous growth in every way.

When Bro. Morrow came on the field three years ago, he found a people who were not lacking in faith and love for God, but who were as a sheep without a Shepherd and needing a leader to go before them in an aggressive fight against the devil. One word the pastor has tried to eliminate from the program of the Church in the past three years is the word average attendance of near one hundred per Sunday. Last year the average attendance was 89 counting bad weather Sundays and all. Somewhere near 200 souls have been reached for Christ, both by conversion and those taking membership in the Church other ways in the three years.

Church building and property improvements have amounted to about seven hundred dollars ($700.00) or more, and the Church is now free of all indebtedness—owing no man nothing save to love him. And the policy of the Church is, pay your own way without calling for any outside help. This, thanks be to God, we have been always able to do. We want to be able to say with Christ the Lord "we came not to be ministered unto, but to minister unto."

Calvary Baptist Church is very distinctly a missionary Church, and under the leadership of Bro. Morrow the Church has estab-

"can't." We feel that if it is God's will, then it can be done.

The Sunday School has grown from a small struggling group three years ago to a now live and wide awake organization with an lished a regular program of missionary work, both foreign and home missions—having given around two hundred and fifty dollars (250.00) for special mission work last year alone. Every month regularly a check is sent directly to some mission work outside our own local work here.

We boast in nothing that has been done, realizing that at our best we have failed in many ways, and passed up many golden opportunities. We want to profit by any past mistakes made, and want Calvary Baptist Church to be an Institution worthy of the highest respect of all the community and dedicated to be a blessing and help to all—radiating the light of the God of heaven, Who still sits on His throne despite all wars and commotions. Bro. Morrow has made many friends during his three years in the city, and certainly desires to make no enemies; but if preaching and standing for the truth makes enemies, then the most will have to be made of it.

The sermon subject for Sunday night will be, "The Day of His Wrath is Come, And Who Shall Be Able To Stand."

BURKBURNETT, THURSDAY, MARCH 18, 1943

Adult Delinquency

There can be no minimizing of the seriousness of juvenile delinquency. From one end of the land to the other come alarming reports of increasing numbers of children who have run afoul of the law because of lack of care and supervision resulting from the employment of parents in defense industries. But there can be no hope for any general improvement until something has been done about adult delinquency which has become a major problem in almost every community in the United States.

Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, the colorful executive of New York, recently read a letter over the radio which came from a thirteen-year old girl. She complained that she and her brothers and sisters often went hungry because their mother spent the food money on bingo games. Said the mayor to the little girl: "Just let me know where the bingo games are running. Take care of your little brothers and sisters and I'll do all I can to close those places. Just let me know where they are." We wish the mayor well!

The most serious crimes being committed in the United States are the product of adult delinquency. Most of the sex crimes are adult activities; the most serious thieving is adult work; the big steals are never juvenile. Let there be no diminishing of our efforts in behalf of children, but the great reforms are needed among the prodigal parents.

Start Saving

This country is face to face with the question of who rules the destinies of the American people. Have we a government of the people, by the people and for the people, or have we a government of powerful cliques, by groups and for vote control?

The United Mine Workers of America, through John L. Lewis, the president, has issued an ultimatum to induct into his union all supervisory officials of the nation's coal mines. There are some 60,000 of these men who occupy positions as mine foremen, assistant mine foremen, tipple foremen, etc. They run the mines under the supervision of the mine management. The official announcement ordering these men to join the union by March 31, also orders them to pay $10 initiation fee and $18 a year dues.

If the United Mine Workers and its officers can take over the management of coal mines in this manner and, in effect, oust the owners and run the mines as they choose, the same thing will shortly happen to all industry. It is frightening to think of an organization so powerful that it can calmly tell 60,000 individuals to join that organization, pay a $10 initiation fee and $1.50 a month—$1,680,000 the first year—or else. It is still more frightening to think that so far there is no government control sufficiently strong to protect an individual in his right to his job if he fails to join and pay dues as directed.

And this brings up the pertinent question—Who is the government? What has become of the guarantee of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness, in our country?

Apparently, the first step to correct this iniquitous situation is for Congress to revise our laws, and control the rights of powerful organizations to coerce men at will. It is no attack on the labor union movement to make it subservient to government, and to protect the right of an individual in his job, against coercion from whatever source.

Who Is The Government?

There is no longer any way of loading the tax bill "on to the other fellow." It is now in the lap of every family in the land. Taxes come ahead of all family bills. The American family will have to learn to economize as never before.

A single person with an income of $100 a month will pay the Federal government approximately $175 in 1943, and this does not include any state income tax, property tax or excise taxes. A single person earning $15 a week, with no dependents, will pay some $56 Federal taxes, not counting other taxes.

We will have to go without a lot of things hereafter to accumulate tax money. As we scrimp to meet our tax obligations, we will take increasing interest in seeing that city, county, state and Federal governments also economize; that frills and furbelows in government are eliminated for the duration, and for a long period thereafter.

Congress could ease the situation for the taxpayer by passage of the Ruml, pay-as-you-go tax collection plan.

20 YEARS AGO—

The J. G. Hardin old home, which was recently donated to the city as a site for a city hospital, and which will be used as a city park temporarily, has been accepted by the city and the deed delivered. Mr. Hardin settled on this site nearly forty-four years ago, his first home being a dug-out, which he and his wife occupied for about three years. He then built a log cabin, which was replaced by the present building about 30 years ago.

On Monday afternoon a merry crowd of ladies of the Central Christian church gathered at the home of Mrs. Jas. Hodges to help celebrate the birthday of Mrs. Fred Boden and Mrs. Hodges, the joint hostesses of this occasion. Fortunately the day was bright, but the weather never discourages this happy bunch nor dims the joy of playing as well as working together.

Old-time breakdown games under the direction of Mesdames E. B. Grenell, W. R. Hill and W. H. Kirby kept the company in an uproar of laughter throughout the hours.

Collections by County Collector Guy Raley for the month of January 1923, amounted to $881,607.41, according to the report which is being forwarded to the state department. A balance was struck Tuesday morning and it was found to be correct to the penny.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Glad we ran into you, Judge. I was just tryin' to set Helen straight on this business about sugar. I wish you'd tell her what you told me last night down at lodge."

"Glad to, Jim. I told him, Helen, that there's not a single bit of truth to the rumor that the distillers use sugar in making whiskey. They make it exclusively from grain. Only bootleggers use sugar to make whiskey. I read an article in the paper just last week that goes to prove it. It told how a confessed bootlegger in a Federal court testified to the fact that another bootlegger, also on trial, had bought a million pounds of sugar a few years ago.

"As a matter of fact, Helen, no distiller is making whiskey today and hasn't for many months. All distillers are working night and day producing war alcohol for the government. And they make every drop of it exclusively from grain, too."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Nazi Counter Drive in Kharkov Area Wins Back Part of Russ Winter Gains; Wallace Warns of Future War Menace; Allies Tighten Ring on Rommel Armies

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

NORTH AFRICA:

Rommel Rages

Like a wild animal in a cage, Marshal Rommel had struck out at the British hemming in his 250,000 army in Tunisia. His principal offensive had been a heavy thrust at Gen. Bernard Montgomery's British Eighth army before the strategic Mareth line in Southern Tunisia.

But the wary Englishman had anticipated the German move and his artillery fire had repelled repeated Nazi attacks with "very heavy losses."

Rommel, a master of tank warfare, had attempted to break through the British lines with his heavy mechanized equipment, but when he was forced to withdraw wrecked German tanks were strewn over the battlefield.

In the north the British First army had regained the initiative and was pressing the enemy, while on the central front the American forces were moving steadily to hem the Germans.

DRAFT:

Plan to Save Farmers

Plans of the administration to take the pressure of the draft off the nation's shortage of farm labor apparently contemplate the induction of unmarried men over 38 or those in that age group without dependents. This, at least, was the interpretation of Washington observers concerning orders by the War Relocation Authority to the Selective Service to reclassify such men beginning May 1.

The manpower commission's action followed the announcement of a new plan for the deferment of essential farm labor. It came at a moment, too, when the congressional farm bloc had launched a drive to exempt the farm laborer from the draft.

Local draft boards were under orders hereafter to place no more men in Class 4-F and to reclassify out of it into 1-A all such men now deferred because of the military age limit. At the same time draft boards were ordered to begin reclassification immediately of all men over 38 who may become eligible for the class 2-C or 3-C because connected with farm work.

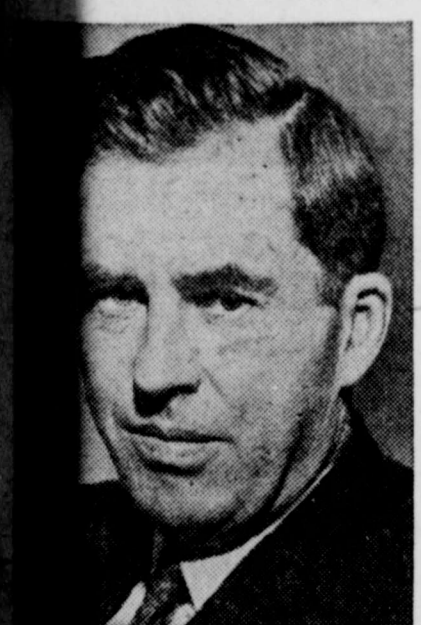

U.S.-RUSSIA:

Need More 'Trust'

Although the storm over Ambassador-Admiral William H. Standley's complaint concerning Russia's failure to inform its people fully about the great extent of American aid had subsided and future lend-lease shipments on an ever-bigger scale were assured, the need for greater mutual confidence between the two Allies continued.

This need was stressed by Vice President Henry A. Wallace in a speech which coincidentally enough was delivered at the time Standley's statement was made public. Mr. Wallace had stressed the fact that a third world war might result unless the western democracies and Russia reach a satisfactory understanding.

"War will be probable in case we do not cross Russia," Wallace said.

VICE PRESIDENT WALLACE
... beware World War III.

"If a war would be inevitable if Russia should again embrace the communist idea of fomenting world revolution, or if British interests should again be sympathetic to anti-Allied activity in Germany and other countries."

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

CHICAGO: With an abundance of food and clothing, 5,605 fast-flying bombers were drafted in Chicago for the army, reducing the city's peace-time pigeon population by one-sixth. The war first drafted a big group of racing pigeons from the city a week ago. These traditional symbols of peace were reported in letters from Bataan to Britain, according to a report received here.

RUSSIA:

Nazis Uncoil

Three reasons were cited by military observers for the initial success of the sudden German counter-offensive west of Rostov and south of Kharkov which in its early stages had swept forward 100 miles and resulted in the capture of eight key cities in the Donetz basin which had been taken earlier by the Soviets in their great winter drive.

One reason was the use by the Nazis of 25 fresh divisions. Twelve of these had been rushed from western Europe and the others replenished after previous action. A second reason was the draining of troops from this southern sector by the Russians to supply momentum to their drive on Orel and Vyazma to the north. The third was the superiority of Axis supply lines and communications in the Donetz area.

The serious extent of these early German successes was evident in the fact that Russian official communiques had admitted the loss of the cities the Germans had claimed. Russ reports disclosed that the German move had actually started late in February.

The setback in the south had not prevented the Russians from continuing their drive on Vyazma. Red communiques had reported the capture of Tiomkino.

FOOD SUPPLY:

Nutrition Level Dips

That the food situation in the United States is rapidly bringing the American people down to the Canadian and British level of nutrition was the opinion voiced by Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard.

Mr. Wickard likewise disclosed that the amount of food available for civilians "is going to be something less than it is at the present time," in testimony before the senate appropriations committee.

Because of the increasing demand for proteins and fats—including meat, dairy products and some oil crops—from our military forces and our Allies, Mr. Wickard said the American people will probably have to live more on vegetable fats and proteins than they formerly did. "We have about reached the place now where we cannot expand our meat production any more," he said, "because we are not going to have enough of the basic element—feed—to support much more increase."

LABOR MANHUNT:

French Fight Nazis

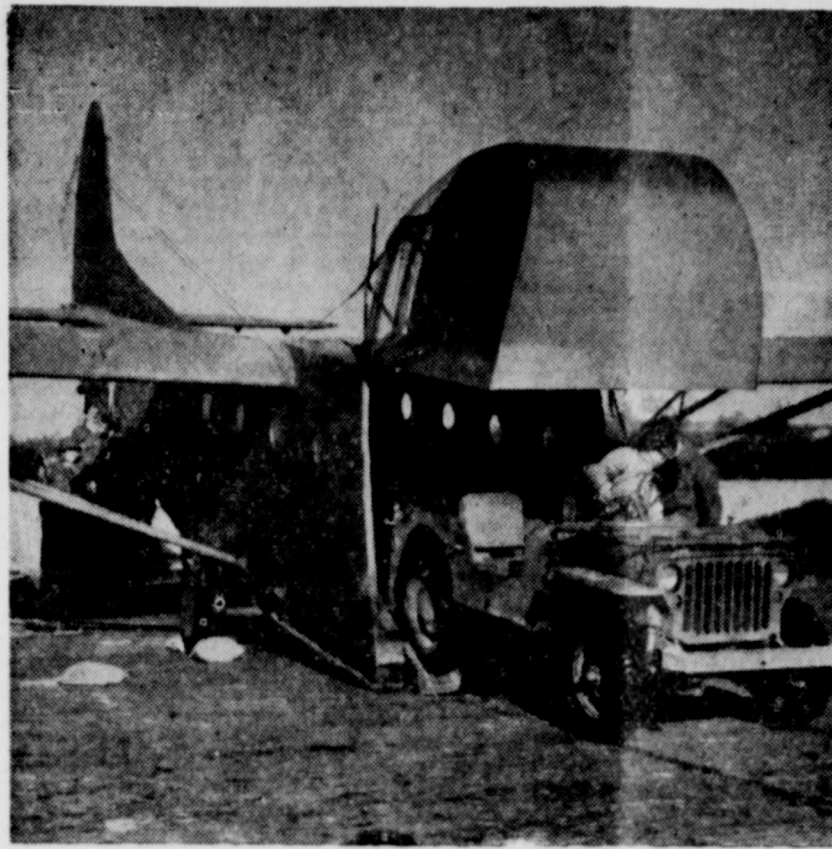

Adolf Hitler's desperate need for manpower had caused the Nazi to put more than usual pressure on the collaborative Laval regime for more French workers.

The German demand had been for 400,000 men. When Nazi soldiers abetted by the Vichy government set out to meet this goal, the trouble started.

Street fighting, guerrilla tactics and sabotage were the French Patriots' answer to this effort to bolster Germany's waning manpower resources. Reports received by the Fighting French in London indicated that in a single 72-hour uprising, more than 350 German soldiers had been killed.

Swift and cruel were the reprisals taken for this insubordination. But the repressive measures only served to fan the flames of French hatred against the German conquerors.

Want a Jeep Fast? Use Glider

The air borne aviation engineers of the army air force give a demonstration of how they transport heavy pieces of mechanized equipment in the fastest possible time through the use of gliders and transport planes, at Westover Field, Mass. Here, with the nose of the glider hinged open, and a crew of four men raising the tail so that the nose will contact the ground, the jeep is driven into the fuselage for the flight.

Wounded Arabs Treated on Tunisian Front

Member of an Allied medical corps administers first aid to fallen Arabs wounded by German guns during a successful raid on German-Italian stronghold of De Seneid, Tunisia. Tanks and half-tracks predominated in the Allied attack.

Two Camera 'Shots' in New Guinea

Mme. Chiang 'Captures' New York

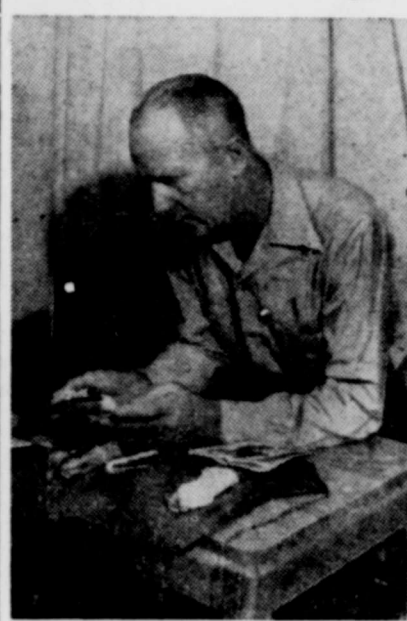

Adet Lien and Florence Chu "say it with flowers" as they greet Madame Chiang Kai-shek on her arrival to make a tour of New York city. Mayor and Mrs. LaGuardia extend the official welcome of the city to the distinguished guest. China's first lady, despite a recent illness, undertook a campaign of public appearance more strenuous than many a robust politician might be expected to endure.

Off to the Wars

Stephen T. Early, secretary to President Roosevelt, is here shown bidding a fatherly farewell to his son, Stephen Jr., who has reported to the army for service. The elder Early served as an officer in the first World war.

Kits for Castaways

Earl Roman, fishing editor of a Florida newspaper, is shown with two of the fishing kits designed as part of the equipment of the rubber rafts carried on military and naval planes. The small kit, worn like a vest, is intended for small rafts. The large one in the can be held in for larger rafts and lifeboats. Kits are for use to catch fish that would supply food for castaways. They were tested off the Florida keys.

Came Through O. K.

Technical Sgt. Alexander S. Bennett, of Fort Meade, Fla., stands on a barrel to study a piece of anti-aircraft gun metal which ripped the oil line of the motor of a Liberator bomber while the plane was bombing a target in Sicily from a base in Malta. Bennett, the plane's engineer, is talking to Staff Sgt. Frank J. Mickus, tail gunner, who hails from Chicago. They're on their Maltese airfield.

Christian Science Services Sunday

"Matter" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 21.

The Golden Text is: "It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing." (John 6:63). Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness?" (II Corinthians 6:14).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The three great virtues of Spirit, omnipotence, omniscience, Spirit possessing all power, filling all space constituting all science, contradict forever the belief that matter can be actual" (page 109).

THE CHURCH OF CHRIST Presents A Lesson On BIBLE BAPTISM

Concerning Bible baptism there are several things to enter in to make baptism scriptural and acceptable unto the heavenly Father. In this issue we want to notice a brief outline on this subject. If you are interested in what God wants us to know concerning this important subject please read the references that are given and study them prayerfully.

1. WHAT DOES BAPTISM REQUIRE? It requires WATER (Act. 8:36). It requires MUCH WATER (Jno. 4:2). It requires going TO THE WATER (Act. 8:36). It requires going INTO WATER (Act. 8:36) and the COMING OUT OF (same reference). There is a BAPTISM in Bible baptism. Rom. 6:4, "Therefore we are buried with Him BY BAPTISM into death..." It also requires a RESURRECTION (same reference). Bible baptism is the NEW BIRTH (Jno. 3:5). It requires the WASHING OF THE BODY (Heb. 10:22).

Now we ask, Does sprinkling or pouring require any of these? They require only one and that is the first one mentioned, WATER. Immersion requires all of them.

2. WHO SHOULD BE BAPTIZED? First we say those who BELIEVE (Act. 16:30-31 and Act. 18:27). Second we find that those who are capable of BELIEVING may be subjects of baptism (Mk. 16:16, Heb. 11:6). Third those who REPENT should be baptized (Act. 2:38). Fourth, those who CONFESS THEIR FAITH in Christ as God's Son (Act. 8:37, Rom. 10:9-10). Now we ask, does infant baptism (so-called) require any of these things mentioned? Not one single one. Therefore infants are not subjects of Bible baptism. They cannot hear, believe, nor repent; hence cannot be baptized.

3. WHY BE BAPTIZED? Christ was baptized to fulfill righteousness (Matt. 3:15). We are to be baptized TO BE SAVED (Mk. 16:16). It is FOR THE REMISSION OF SINS (Act. 2:38). A gospel preacher addressed Paul and said, "... arise and be baptized, and WASH AWAY THY SINS..." (Act. 22:16). We are to be baptized to get INTO CHRIST (Rom. 6:3, Gal. 3:27). Baptism SAVES US (1 Pet. 3:21). Most people do not believe that it saves us but that is what Peter said. Christ is our Saviour but He requires a condition, BAPTISM. People forget that there are conditions as well as agents in the salvation of the souls of men. Notice the things that have to do with our salvation. 1. AGENTS: God (Jno. 1:14), Christ (Matt. 1:21), The Holy Spirit (1 Pet. 1:11) and a gospel preacher (Rom. 10:14-15). 2. MEANS: Grace (Eph. 2:8), Blood (Matt. 26:28), Gospel (Rom. 1:14-15) and preaching (1 Cor. 1:21). 3. CONDITIONS: Faith (Jno. 20:30-31), Repentance (Lk. 13:3), Confession (Matt. 10:32-33), and Baptism (1 Pet. 3:21 and all above scripture used in the subject of baptism).

Thanks for the interest you are taking in the investigation of God's Will toward us. Continue to study your Bibles. It is the only Book in which you may find what God wants you to know. "If I tell you the truth am I become your enemy?" You are welcome to our services at the church of Christ, 400 Austin Warner Minister.

FEAR NO GESTAPO!

No one, not even the Nazis themselves, are safe from the night-dwelling, punishing Gestapo. A knock at the door in the night, tramping feet in the house—a woman's scream—these are the nightly signals of another "arrest."

So here is the Adams family, let us say, quietly spending an evening at home somewhere in the United States—comfortable, happy, safe. Then... someone taps at the door...

No quick, stealthy hand turns off the radio, nobody screams, and there are no harsh commands. Instead, one of the children opens the door—to a smiling neighbor, dropping in for a chat...

If this is the kind of America we love and want to preserve, let it never be forgotten that somewhere in the world today are powerful forces of evil that seek to destroy forever this kind of neighborly spirit. American boys are fighting, dying, to destroy that evil, to preserve the freedom of privacy—and initiative, speech and religion, and the many other sacred traditions of liberty that now are ours.

Tonight, as you return from work to your family, think how fortunate you are to be an American. Living in this country, to be and be happy, secure in your own little "castle"—your home. Fear no Gestapo—this is America!

W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: Arriving simultaneously at the King Cole Ranch, Ann Lee and Cole Cody discovered Old Early Bill Cole had made two identical wills, one leaving all his money and the Ranch to Ann; and the other giving the same money and property to Cole. Rance Waldron, established at the Ranch since Old Bill's death, and posing as his nephew, questioned the sanity of Old Bill and the legality of the two wills. It was nearly noon when they returned to Ranch headquarters. That evening they all retired early, that is all except Aunt Jenifer, who stole out under a large oak tree and watched Rance Waldron help a strange lurching man out of the house. Now continue with the story.

A voice, not Rance Waldron's, was speaking, and it was rough and querulous and came near being threatening.

"... and so, there you let me rot all day, damn you. I might die! I might die yet for all the doctoring I'm getting. By God, Rance, I've got a notion and a good notion—"

"You'd better keep your mouth shut, Tom, old man, before you talk yourself into more trouble than you can ever crawl out of."

There spoke Rance Waldron, and his voice was arrogant, contemptuous, revealing a man very sure of himself.

"Get it into your head, Rance, that things have changed plenty! You had me down good and plenty, didn't you? You could have wagged your finger and sent me to the pen, couldn't you?" He laughed chucklingly. "Not any more, kid! I've thought it over from all angles, Rance. You won't do any squealing on me because at the end you've let your foot slip; you'd be squealing on yourself the same as on me. What I've did you paid me for. The other job, with me getting shot up, you and me did together. And I can prove it!"

There was a breathless stillness there in the cabin. Then Rance Waldron spoke again, and there was a marked change in his tone. All the challenge and threat, all the masterfulness and contempt had gone out of it.

"You are right, Tom. We have gone into this thing together, and we had better see it through together."

"What about it?" demanded Cody, about as amiable as most men rudely awakened from a deep sleep all for the sake of a mere trifle. "What affair is it of mine? Of yours, either?"

"Part of it is this: Rance Waldron has had this man hid in the house behind a locked door all day; that's a mystery, young man, and I don't like mysteries. Then it's shady, their sneaking out of the house this time of night, speaking in whispers. And someone shot Early Bill a few days ago; and in case there was no will, Rance Waldron would have inherited ranch, cash, and everything. Another thing; the stage was held up yesterday by someone who knew that Bucktooth Jenkins was bringing ten thousand dollars in cash to Early Bill Cole. And you fired a few shots at the robbers and thought you hit one of them. And the man with Waldron limped so bad that he could hardly walk. Is that an earful, or just child's chatter?"

"Which way did they ride?" asked Cody, grown brisk now.

"Straight north, along the creek on this side."

"You'd better get to bed, Aunt Jenifer. It's dawning on me that you're a pretty wonderful woman, but you can't keep going day and night."

"You bet I'll go to my room, Bill Cole Cody, and lock my door. Darn it, I'm scared. And you come back as soon as you can; I'll hear you, and I'll creep out into the living room to make sure it is you. Now poke along."

He hurried down to the ranch buildings for a word with Cal Roundtree, and a horse.

Cal, awakened and apprised of the situation, was out of the door still buttoning his overalls and drawing his belt about his lean middle. Cole Cody was ahead of him at the stable; they saddled swiftly and took the trail Aunt Jenifer had specified, north along the creek.

"If they want to hide they can make themselves hard to find in this country," said Cal Roundtree. "I know the most likely place to look for them, since they must have thought that no one had seen their getaway, and so no one would be following them so soon. Likely they'll get under a roof tonight, anyhow, and maybe poke on tomorrow night."

As they rode, Cole Cody told Cal in detail Aunt Jenifer's information, her suspicions and surmises.

Cal led the way, and the darkness did not matter to him; moreover, his horse soon discovered where he was going and thereafter needed no touch on the reins. They kept close to the creek for a mile, and though they rode swiftly they heard no sound of hoofbeats ahead. Then Cal swung to the right where a small tributary brook came tumbling down, and presently they passed into the mouth of a steep-walled ravine. It was about a half hour after entering the ravine that Cal Roundtree called softly over his shoulder.

"We've run 'em down, pardner. There's a log cabin up there at the head of the canyon where an old prospector used to hang out; nobody's been in it for three-four years, but there's a light there now."

They rode slowly, keeping their horses in the deep grass at the sides of the trail so that all hoofbeats were muffled. Thus they drew within a hundred yards of the log cabin. There Cal Roundtree gave a signal to stop, and both dismounted. They led their horses a score of paces into the thick timber fringing the creek, and removed their spurs to hang them on their saddle horns. Then walking in silence, lifting their boot feet as does a cat in wet grass, they drew near the cabin.

you cinch the shooting of Early Bill on Tom Gough?"

"You don't see a man wearing a new hat every day, Cody. Early Bill, before he checked in his chips, told Doc Joe and the Judge how he had whanged away at the hombre that potted him; how he had shot the feller's hat off. He said, 'Watch out for a man with a hat with a hole in it, or a man without any hat at all, or a man with a brand new hat.' Now climb on your pony and let's travel."

And at the ranch house, while Cal Roundtree and Cole Cody were giving their attention to Waldron and Tom Gough, Aunt Jenifer was busying herself in her own fashion. She scurried post-haste to her own room, closed the door and was going to lock it when she discovered there was no key in the lock. She hurried to Ann's room adjoining. The door was closed but unlocked; no key there either.

But she thought, that Waldron man's door is locked. He's got a key. There ought to be others somewhere. So, carrying her lamp, she went prowling through the house, key-hunting. She looked at all locks in passants, she opened all drawers in tables and dressers, she ran her fingers along cupboard shelves. She came to a closed closet and opened it to peer inside, and, of all places, found a key in the lock within the closet.

She tried it in her own lock; it fitted and she shot the bolt home. She locked herself in and went to Ann's door, the farther one opening upon the corridor. It fitted there, too. Another hmf! It seemed as though all the locks in the house were the same. And right then the inspiration and the temptation assailed her to try her key on still another door. If it worked on these locks, why not on Rance Waldron's?

She scurried to that door through which Waldron had passed so many times, always locking it behind him.

And the key fitted the lock, and the door opened! She was thrilled with a sense of adventure and was also just a mite frightened.

She entered a bedroom that was in considerable disorder. She glanced at the bed itself with its covers dragging on the floor; then around the room until her eyes came to a full stop at a table on which there were some papers and a couple of penciled account books. She flipped over pages: Cattle bought and sold; numbers in the various herds, cost and sales prices; that sort of thing for the most part. Among the scattered papers was a new letter signed by Andy Jenkins. It said:

"Dear Bill, I done my job all right, better than you speckulated what I mean is I got the whole ten thousand and am bringing it with me only I am staying a day with my relations and will ketch the stage next day.

Yours truly,
Andy Jenkins."

"So that's it," Aunt Jenifer mumbled to herself. "That Waldron devil found this letter and got busy, him and the man he's been hiding in here all day. No wonder he wanted to get rid of us."

She crumpled the tell-tale letter in her hand and hurried into the other room and tried the door leading to the outside; again the key fitted. She closed the door again and began taking stock of this second room's contents. There was a splotch on the floor; a rug had evidently been drawn to cover it, then its edge turned over by a careless foot as the two men departed. And that spot looked to Aunt Jenifer like a blood smear. So she leaped to the same conclusion that had offered itself to Cody and Roundtree.

On the next step she was already decided. She would unlock the outside door again, leave it unlocked, but closed, make her retreat through Waldron's room, slip out of his door that led into the corridor, lock that door and carry her key off with her. Then when he came home and found his outer door unlocked he would have something to think about; when he missed the Jenkins letter which he had been too great a fool to destroy or hide, he'd have still more matter for thought.

But there wouldn't be the vaguest hint to make him think that this had been an inside job. And even though for one reason or another he did get the idea that Aunt Jenifer had had something to do with it, he couldn't really be convinced—and he'd be mighty careful about speaking of it to her, for fear of tipping his hand. And watch her play innocent tomorrow!

Now she wanted to hurry faster than ever, for she kept telling herself that she was in a den of murderers. Yet she kept telling herself also that now was her one and only chance to make a thorough search in these two rooms.

Well, she had done all she could now, and had better scamper for her own quarters.

So she did as she had planned, unlocked the outer door, removed the key and turned to retrace her steps through Rance Waldron's door.

And then she stiffened and almost dropped her lamp. Distinctly she heard rapidly oncoming footsteps outside.

THIS cover was a twofold conservation measure in the most literal sense. Its purpose was not to cover shabby upholstery but to protect handsome damask from everyday wear and tear, in a household where there were children. The substantial striped cotton material chosen harmonizes perfectly with the rather elegant lines of the chair frame.

If you have an especially difficult chair to cover, you will save time by fitting a muslin pattern first. Then you can snip until it fits perfectly around arms and other supports and, if you make a mistake in the pattern just stitch a patch over it and start over again. Before removing the pattern from the chair, plan the openings so that they will lap neatly and be sure they are long

Down in the front a little fellow leaped to his feet.

"Who makes dat motion dat Ah'm a low-down, sneaking mis'rab'le chicken thief?" he cried, glaring round the room.

A huge scar faced Negro arose.

"Ah makes da motion," he said, menacingly.

"Mister Chayman," said Sam, quickly, "Ah seconds dat motion."

OUR LORD'S INTERCESSORY PRAYER

LESSON TEXT—John 17:1-8, 28-29.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Holy Father, keep through thine own name those whom thou hast given me, that they may be one, as we are."—John 17:11.

There are some times and places so sacred that one is instinctively hushed into reverent devotion. When Christ prayed in holy intercession (as recorded in John 17) on the night before His suffering His disciples must have been lifted into the very presence of the Eternal One. It was a holy experience.

He prayed for Himself, but even more did He pray for His believing followers. To know that someone is praying for us is indeed an anchor in a time of storm, a strong help in the hour of conflict or of service for Christ.

But to know that the Master prayed for you and me—that is enough to send us, like the disciples of old, out to face an unbelieving world in His conquering name. He prayed for Himself—and He prayed for me!

I. He Prayed for Himself (vv. 1-8). He looked up and said: "Father," and then He was ready to pray. So close was He to God that there was just this simple recognition of their communion. In Christ are we not as close as He?

What did Jesus ask for Himself? At first thought it seems a little unusual that He asked

1. For Recognition of His Divine Glory (vv. 1-5).

Why would He who had just given the disciples an example of and an admonition to humility desire to have His glory manifested? Be sure it was not a matter of selfish pride. He had finished His work (for He counted redemption as complete throughout His prayer), and now the glory which He laid down when He came to earth (Phil. 2:6-8) was to be resumed.

He wants man to see Him now not only as the compassionate Son of man, but the glorious Son of God, able to save. It is right that the glory of Christ should be magnified and recognized by the whole creation. He is worthy!

2. For the Manifestation of His Grace (vv. 6-8).

The Father had given Christ the heart devotion of those who believed in Him. Note that their faith rested on the name of God (v. 6), and upon His Word which had come to them and to us through Christ.

He recognized their position and standing in Him and established it before God and man. He then prayed for them (read vv. 9-17) that they might be kept in an evil world as a testimony to the grace and power of God in the human heart.

This leads to His intercession for all believers.

II. He Prayed for All Believers (vv. 18-22).

Christians are not simply the avowed adherents to a particular form of belief, they are "sent" ones. As the Father sent Him into the world, "even so send I them into the world," said Christ.

Christ has gone to be with the Father, but He has left those who believe in Him as His witnesses, His representatives. For this they need holiness. He prayed:

1. For Their Consecration (vv. 18, 19).

For their sakes He consecrated Himself. Surely if He needed it, we do far more. It is not only His will for us, but His prayer. How wonderfully that prayer was answered we see as we look back over the intervening 19 centuries, from His immediate disciples on through the martyrs, the missionary pioneers of all ages, the faithful preachers and teachers of the gospel, yes and "livers" of the gospel too. He knew. He prayed, God answered. Are you in that blessed host of consecrated believers?

2. For Their Unity and Glory (vv. 20-23).

There is a refreshing simplicity about the Christian faith which is utterly different from all the complications which man has prepared and superimposed upon it. Essentially it is a matter of God having sent His Son into the world to be the Redeemer of men. He and the Father are one, and He and His followers are one, and so we are all one. We who today believe are included (read vv. 20-23).

This is an inward unity of the Spirit, not an outward union of organizations. The answer to our difficulty is not the dissolution of denominations (although there do seem to be far too many subdivisions, too), but the uniting of all groups in a oneness of love and devotion to Christ, and a united emphasis on the gospel.

There is something more here. This unity puts Christ's followers into the place where His glory may be revealed in and upon them. It is His prayer that we should behold in our Saviour the glory which God had given Him because He loved Him before the foundation of the world.

Also available are gas bombs, hand grenades, also many other types of fighting equipment. This Company is equipped for battle action at a moments notice. An alarm system is used to summons all members. These men are available for all disturbances in the State. The Texas Defense Guard replaces the National Guard who were inducted into the regular army.

This Company has a complete mobilization plan approved by the State. This plan makes it possible to completely mobilize this company including tents, bedding, cooking equipment, food, trucks medical care, water, sanitary, all types of fighting equipment, guns, machine guns, ammunition, gas bombs, hand grenades, gas masks—everything as an independent unit ready to move off in one hours time. Field desks take care of all clerical, mess sergeants take care of the meals, supply sergeant takes care of all supplies.

Burkburnett should be proud of this company as these men are putting lots of time and hard work to do their part in this war. This Company was sponsored by local clubs over two years ago. The officers and men have done well to keep this Company up to standard and today is one of the best in the State. Local clubs who helped sponsor this Company should set a day aside to help these officers and men in a recruiting campaign or for entertainment. These men receive no pay, nor do the officers who drill three nights a week, including one night in Wichita Falls at the Bn. Officers' Unit.

The Battalion consists of Major E. W. NAPIER, Commanding and 33 Officers, 300 Enlisted Men. Officers from Burkburnett are Capt. W. H. McLean, Lt. M. C. Tucker and Lt. S. E. Marchand, Capt. P. H. Carpenter Hdq.

Some Tuesday night when you and your family are not doing much-go down to their barracks at the Burkburnett Gin, and watch those boys drill. You will be surprised to see how they are getting along and what they are doing to prepare themselves for any emergency that may arise for your protection. Their ages range from 16 to 65. Many of the boys who are now in the regular army who were members of this Company very highly recommend anyone to join the Guards. They have profited a lot and all of them have received promotions by the training in this Company. There are a few vacancies left. They will be glad to talk with you on joining them. Ages are from 16 to 65. They will clothe you and put shoes on you without a stamp—and that's something.
