Phone system here to be upgraded

Colorado City will receive the latest in telephone digital switching as part of an agreement approved by the Texas Public Utility Commission and Southwestern Bell Telephone.

Southwestern Bell Telephone will install the switch as part of an accelerated program which will help boost the Texas economy and provide customer benefits worth more than $1.2 billion over the next four years.

A timetable for installing Colorado City's as well as 195 other switches statewide over the next four years is not yet available, according to Jim West, external affairs manager in Plainview.

"Telephone customers all across the state were the big winners," said West. "With this bold decisive action, the PUC has not only approved more than $1.2 billion in customer benefits, it has moved to put Texas at the forefront of telecommunications in the U.S."

"The negotiated settlement was a product of months of intense discussion among the PUC staff, Southwestern Bell and 23 separate intervening groups," said West. "This is an example of a broad base of diverse interests joining with the PUC and Southwestern Bell Telephone with a common goal to improve the telecommunication infrastructure of Texas."

The settlement includes the largest rate reduction and most ambitious modernization of the telecommunication network in Texas history.

Consumers will see the customer credits and rate reductions starting shortly, according to West. "And we will begin work immediately on the network modernization program."

Other highlights of the agreement include:

*A four-year cap on basic local telephone service rates.

*A one-time refund of approximately $8.75 for residence and $10 per access line for business customers.

*Reductions in Southwestern Bell's long distance, WATS and 800 service rates.

*Reduced access charges to long distance companies in Texas. The savings will flow through to customers.

*A four-year, accelerated program to bring digital technology to 196 communities now served by older, less versatile equipment.

*Eliminate party-line service and mileage charges for more than 400,000 rural customers residing outside "local calling areas." The upgraded service will not increase customers' monthly bills.

*Expanded optional toll-free calling to 32 cities around Austin, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio.

*Touch-tone rate reduction of 60 percent for residences and 33 percent for business customers at the end of four years.

*Residential service connection charge reductions from $160 to $38.35.

*A Lifeline program for eligible low-income customers.

"The telecommunications industry has changed dramatically since the Bell system was broken up, and our system of regulation has to keep pace with those changes," said West. "This settlement is worth roughly $1.2 billion in direct customer benefits over a four-year period."

"The agreement provides an incentive to build a telecommunication network that should attract new businesses and jobs to Texas without increasing telecommunication costs to the Texas ratepayers," said West.

Former resident safe following abduction

A former Colorado City resident was one of two women abducted during a robbery of an optical store Tuesday in Fort Worth.

Yvonne Molina, 22, and Cruz Torrez, 41, were blindfolded and put into separate cars shortly after they were abducted from Credit Optical at 6 p.m. Tuesday.

Some 31 hours later, Molina, niece of John Molina of Colorado City, was released by her abductors late Wednesday at a convenience store a few blocks from her North Side home.

John Molina was in Fort Worth Friday to be with his niece. John's wife, Mary Grace, said she had talked with her husband and he said Yvonne was badly beaten up, but had no broken bones. John had helped raised Yvonne, said Mary Grace Molina.

The other woman abucted was found slain, apparently by suffocation. Her nude body was discovered late Wednesday, shortly before Molina was released, in an abandoned storage building in far east Fort Worth.

Molina was taken to John Peter Smith Hospital, where she was treated for what police described as a "hysterical condition."

Despite her ordeal, Molina was able to provide investigators with detailed descriptions of two abductors and of her 31-hour captivity.

Family members said Molina remained frightened after her release because of threats her captors made.

Police will not speculate on why one victim was slain while Molina was returned uninjured to her own neighborhood.

The kidnappers and their captives apparently left the optical store in Molina's red 1985 Chevrolet Cavalier before splitting up and ordering one of the women into a second vehicle at another location. The missing car had not been recovered Thursday afternoon.

Police have said they have taken unspecified security measures to protect Molina from any further threats or harm.

Author releases third novel

Texas books next...

Sharon Gillenwater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Harlow of Colorado City, has announced the release of her third novel, Heather Moon. The historical romance was published by The Berkley Publishing Group as part of the December Charter/Diamond imprint.

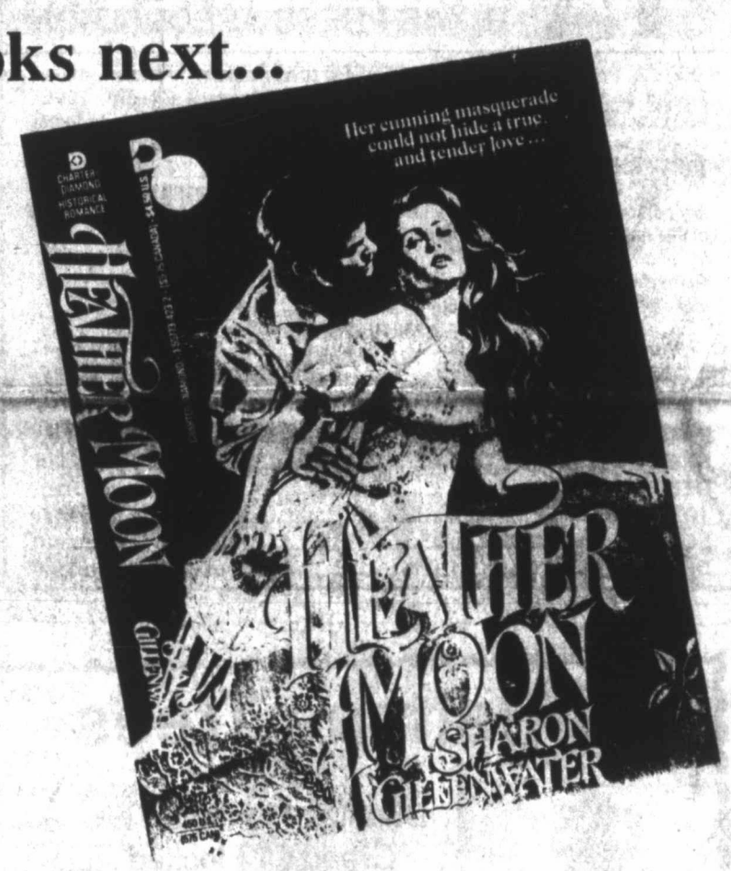

Gillenwater said the book should be available by the first week of December in the paperback department at Fuller Foods and possibly some of the local convenience stores.

"That's if everything goes as planned," she said. "There are so many steps in the distribution process that occasionally things go awry. Hopefully, stores in the surrounding towns will carry the book, too. If you don't see it, please ask about it. Some stores will order books for their customers. And if several people ask about it, they might even order extra copies.

Heather Moon is set in England and Scotland.

"I picked 1814 for the time frame of the book because Britain's war with Napoleon was winding down. Also, that winter the River Thames froze. The ice was so thick that ambitious vendors set up their stalls in the middle of the ice and held a Great Frost Faire. I wanted Kate and Colton to go to the fair since it was such a rare occurrence," said Gillenwater.

In the story, the heroine, Catriona Denley, leaves her home in Scotland, hoping to mend a bitter rift between her father and his family. Since her grandfather does not know her, she poses as a maid in his London home. Her charade brings her into close contact with his stepson, Colton Lydell, the Duke of Ryland.

Although the duke never dallies with the maids, he falls head over heels in love with Catriona from the instant she accidently lands in his lap. Catriona quickly learns that deception is a dangerous game. Because of her masquerade, she has found the love of her life, but may lose him when he learns her true identity.

The novel was recently given an "Excellent" rating by the Romantic Times magazine which reviews most romances on the market. According to reviewer Kathe Robin this "sweet, tender and light love story lifts your spirits like a cozy fire on a cold winter's night."

Gillenwater has just completed another novel for Berkley. Currently titled Legacy of Love, it is scheduled for publication in December, 1991. It is set in England in 1820.

"I'm finally starting on my Texas books," said Gillenwater. "Mitchell County has a rich heritage, but it's one that usually

Applicants number 42

As of Friday, 42 applications had been received for the position of city manager, said Colorado City Mayor Jim Baum.

All but one of the applicants are from out of town.

City Manager Brenda Hammond recently submitted her resignation effective Dec. 13.

Baum said the council will decide at its Dec. 11 meeting when to set the cut-off date for applications.

"On the 11th, I also would like to see the council set a special session to review all the applications with an eye toward personally contacting the outstanding candidates," said Baum.

Baum said the council will probably draw up a profile of what it wants in a city manager.

"Shortly after Christmas, we'll probably start notifying finalists that we would like to set up times for interviews," said Baum.

Baum said the applicants are from the West Texas, Metroplex, Hill Country and South Plains areas of Texas.

West said Southwestern Bell will be allowed to earn 12.06 percent return on investment (ROI). Half of all earnings from 12.06 percent to 14.5 percent ROI will be returned to customers. Earnings above 14.5 percent ROI will be returned to customers in full.

According to West, a number of states including California have adopted similar progressive regulatory approaches to telecommunications. "Now Texas can join other states in trying to attract the burgeoning number of companies which use advanced information networks."

"What's really exciting is the chance to bring the most advanced communication technology to parts of Texas where, without an incentive, the present rate of growth would not justify this kind of investment for years to come,' said West.

CHIEF LONE WOLF

When Colorado City's old telephone system burned in 1924, no tears were shed. Least ways, none of the citizens in town felt deprived. Good riddance, they thought. Now maybe Southwestern Bell would rebuild and install some decent facilities. But, Ma Bell fooled 'em. The telephone company, according to the Colorado Record, rebuilt with "an exchange duplicate of the old system which dated back to the early days of Colorado."

So, local customers suffered, but not in silence. The Chamber of Commerce badgered the Bell district office in Abilene, and the highly influential Colorado Lions Club blew off steam every chance members had.

Finally, in July of 1925, Bell Telephone decided there had to be a way to get Colorado City off their back. The solution? If those west Texas rednecks wanted better and newer service, they could darn well pay more for it. After three years of being hassled, the company offered a truce.

Paying a visit to Colorado City were P. K. Baker, of Dallas, assistant manager of Bell, along with M. P. Caldwell, Fort Worth, divisional superintendent, and N. H. Moore, Abilene, district manager. Quite an entourage and Colorado City business leaders were impressed.

Appearing before the local city council, Baker said, "The secretary of the chamber has been camping on our trail so closely in this matter that we have determined we must either put in the common battery exchange, as demanded by Colorado citizens, or else, get out of your city."

We are probably correct to assume the council members tried to keep the big city boys from seeing their grins. Mayor R. H. Looney urged Baker to continue.

"We do not believe the company would be justified in putting in the plant here now," Baker said as council members probably erased the smiles from their faces.

"But, the citizens are so persistent that we have decided to do so on condition that the city authorize a small increase in telephone rate charges," Baker added.

How "small" an increase, the council collectively wondered.

Well, say for business phones, how about a dollar...from the current $3.25 per month, to $4.25. (Isn't that about 25%?) What about residential phones? Well, that increase would only be from $4.25 per month, to $2.50 per month. Just a quarter, or the price of five cokes.

Someone on the council probably whispered to a colleague, "If you wanta see the show, you gotta pay the price." Baker could see the wheels turning. He assured the elected officials the new rates would be less than what other west Texas towns were currently paying.

"In the event the city sees fit to pass a resolution," Baker hastened to add, "we will go to work at once on the new plant."

Wait just a minute. What about the party lines. They weren't up to snuff, the council pointed out. And Colorado folks were also belly aching about someone always listenin' in to their conversations.

No problem, the phone company officials replied. The new service would include semi-party lines, which meant when one person was talking, another would not be able to listen, "as under the present system." (That probably pleased half the subscribers which meant the other half, who wouldn't be able to listen when they weren't talking on the telephone, were displeased).

One more question. What about our rural residents, out yonder in Mitchell County? They weren't happy with their service from Ma Bell either.

Baker and associates couldn't be too specific, but, rural patrons would receive "special attention in the future," they promised.

The city council voted unanimously to approve the rate hike, however it would not go into effect until the new telephone exchange was operational. On that warm July afternoon in 1925, no one knew how long that would be. Turns out it wasn't by the end of 1925. Nor anytime in 1926. Would you believe the spring of 1927?

District Manager N. H. Moore from Abilene returned to Colorado City in early 1926 to calm the troubled waters. Southwestern Bell was waiting on the manufacturer to ship the equipment to west Texas, he insisted. Besides, the company had made some improvements in the antiquated system, he said and there were fewer complaints now than there had been a year ago.

Besides, new cables were being strung throughout the town and that was causing a temporary interruption of service. Eventually, the company would report it had poured $70,000 into the local plant and when it was finished, the operation would take care of the needs of a town of 12,000 to 15,000 population.

At last, on March 25, 1927, an informal opening was observed at the local telephone office. (Service had already been switched from a magnetic system, to one that was battery operated).

"Colorado (City) will have one of the most up-to-date plants in this section of west Texas," boasted the Record.

We haven't reached the 12,000 to 15,000 population plateau yet. And occasionally, we still hear tell of someone listening in on party lines. But surely, we haven't been using the same equipment all this time.

Diabetes group offers tips for holiday meals

COLLEGE STATION -- Dieters gearing up for holiday gatherings may want to take a few tips from those with diabetes.

The American Diabetes Association estimates that more than 12 million people in the United States have diabetes, and half of them do not know it. More than 800,000 Texans are thought to have diabetes.

Weight control is something most diabetics are used to handling because it's crucial to their health. However, fighting the temptation of delicious treats can be a challenge to anyone when it comes to eating out.

"Just like the average dieter, many people with diabetes panic when they are served so-called forbidden foods," said Dr. Mary Kinney Bielamowicz, nutritionist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Parties, holidays and restaurant menus can ruin sincere efforts to follow a meal plan."

For diabetics, selecting appropriate foods that fit into their meal plans help prevent wide blood sugar swings, Bielamowicz said. For dieters, sticking to certain choices keeps them away from high-calorie foods.

"Nowadays, it's more acceptable to call the hostess or restaurant manager ahead of time to discuss the best way to prepare your food," she said. "A good idea is to make a dish using a diabetic or low-calorie cookbook and take it to help out the hostess." Also, snack before festivities to reduce hunger and the temptation to overeat.

If you are diabetic, check with your doctor before drinking alcoholic beverages to prevent drug reactions with insulin or hypoglycemic agents, Bielamowicz said.

"Oral hypoglycemia agents combined with alcohol can cause dramatic reaction -- nausea, vomiting, flushing, a quicker heart beat, and impaired speech.

"Alcohol lowers the blood sugar," she said. "If you take insulin, drinking on an empty stomach can lower your blood sugar enough to bring on severe hypoglycemia."

"With a little research and practice, eating away from home can be pleasant for everyone," Bielamowicz said. "Learn to substitute wisely, so occasionally you can enjoy special treats."

The following choices are better for diabetics than others:

*Appetizers--Low-calorie vegetables, clear broths, consomme, bouillon, dill pickles, tomato juice, fruit juice without sugar, fresh fruit.

*Meat, Fish, Poultry--Broiled, baked, roasted, or boiled meat, poultry, and fish or seafood. Trim all fat. Broiled food may be available on request only. Ask that gravy be served on the side or left off and remove any breading or coating.

*Eggs--Boiled, poached, scrambled or baked.

*Potatoes and Substitutes--Baked, mashed, steamed, boiled. Rice and noodles as a substitute for potatoes.

*Vegetables--Steamed, baked, boiled, stewed.

*Salads--Tossed vegetables, lettuce or tomato. Request dressing be served on the side or use vinegar or lemon juice. As far as the calorie content, count cottage cheese as part of your meat servings.

*Fruit--Fresh fruit, fruit salad, fruit juice without sugar.

*Breads--Whole wheat or enriched bread and toast, rolls, biscuits (watch size), unsalted or lightly salted crackers, muffins, popovers, English muffin, taco shell, hot dog bun, hamburger bun.

*Fats--Margarine, salad dressing, oil, unsalted nuts.

*Desserts--Fresh fruit, canned fruit without sugar. Sometimes, a scoop of ice cream (similar to the calorie content of one slice of bread and two servings of fat.)

*Beverages--Coffee, decaffeinated coffee, tea without sugar, sugar-free soft drinks, low-fat or skim milk.

Home Economic HAPPENINGS

By Dana Davenport
Mitchell County Extension Agent- HE

A 4-H food show is more than a cooking contest, as you would learn from 22 youth who recently participated in the Mitchell County 4-H food show held at Colorado High School Home Economics Department, November 3, 1990.

While the food was tasted, the contestants were tested. Each youth had to demonstrate what he or she knows about nutrition, meal planning, food buying, and meal service as well as food preparation.

This year in addition to the traditional four food categories which are Main Dish, Fruit and Vegetable, Bread and Cereal and Nutritious Snacks and Desserts a non food category, Most Appropriate Place setting was added. A new age group, the Clover Kids, which are those children who are not yet 4-H age, was also an addition to the 1990 County Food Show.

Those participants in the Clover Kids division all received a blue ribbon and were, Kamie Stubblefield, Autumn Smith, Millie Wadsworth, Megan Merrell and Jessica Chaney.

In the Intermediate d vision Melissa Williams took top honors in the Breads and Cereals categ ory and Brian Smith received the first place award in the Nutritious Snacks and Desserts category.

In the Junior Division Anjanette Morgan received first place in the Nutritious Snacks and Desserts category and Ashley Turner, Renea Lewis and Randi Redwine all received blue ribbons for their dishes. In the Breads and Cereals category Mica Merrell received the top award and others in that category receiving blue ribbons were Crystal Costabile, Amanda Costabile, Jana Redwine and Hayley Smith. Stacy Smith received first place in the Fruits and Vegetables category and Joshea Kemp received a blue ribbon. In the Main Dish category Bettina Bridgford came away with the first place honor and others in that category receiving blue ribbons were Angie Chaney, Jill Willingham and Payton Kemp.

The Most Appropriate Place Setting was a popular addition with stiff competition among the 11 entries. Hayley Smith managed to walk away with the honor of having the most Appropriate Place Setting for her Taco Bread. Her place setting included speckled tin dishes, and a bandana place mat.

Those receiving the first place awards in each category then demonstrated their culinary skills at the District 7 4-H Food Show on November 17, 1990. Youngsters from 17 counties across the district participated in the event which took place at Angelo State University's Houston Harte Center.

Stacy Smith received the second place award with her Pumpkin Curry Soup, and Bettina Bridgford received third place with Orange Glazed Chicken.

Others representing Mitchell County were Mica Merrell with Cinnamon Rolls and Anjanette Morgan with Spinach Dip.

The Food and Nutrition project is one of the most popular projects among 4-H members. Some 29,000 youth are enrolled in the 4-H Food and Nutrition project in Texas. The specific objectives of the Food and Nutrition project are to:

--Learn the importance of including foods from each of the basic food groups in the daily diet.
--Understand the principles of nutrition as they relate to health, physical fitness and appearance.
--Learn about the wide variety of foods which may be included in the diet.
--Understand the scientific principles of nutrition.
--Acquire and demonstrate skills in planning, purchasing, preparing and serving tasty, attractive and nutritious snacks and meals.

If you would like more information concerning the variety of projects offered through the Mitchell County 4-H program contact the Mitchell County Extension Office at 728-3111.

Thank you...

I thank each of you who supported me in my recent write in election attempt and also for your prayers and concerns for my welfare during my illness.

My thanks to each of you from the bottom of my heart.

News from...

Kristi Lee Manor

The month of November has come and gone. The residents of Kristi Lee Manor had a great turkey day. We would like to thank the ladies of Oak Street Baptist Church for the Thanksgiving fruit baskets. Our residents loved them.

The resident of the month for the month of November was James Christian. Residents celebrating their birthdays during the month were Alice Jackson, Ellen Piehl, Ethel Theriault and Concepion Gardea.

For responding to our request for wall decorations, thank you Sug Bynum. They were greatly appreciated. We are still in need of items to decorate with, for example: baby crib mobiles (musical and non-musical), potted plants, or any kind of framed pictures to brighten Clark or Sharon Dockrey at 728-5274.

We would like to invite the family and friends of our residents as well as the entire community to our Open House to view Christmas decorations and to our Christmas Dance, December 7 from 7-9 p.m. Come join the fun at Kristi Lee Manor.

up the rooms. Thank you to Pizza Hut and Mac-Michael's for treating our residents on their coffee outings.

Annual pecan show scheduled

The 15th Annual Mitchell County Pecan Show has been scheduled for Dec. 5, County Extension Agent Bryan Limmer announced.

The show, sponsored by the Horticulture Committee of the County Extension Program Council, Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce, City National Bank and First National, will be held at the C.C. Thompson Room of City National Bank.

All pecans entered must have been grown in 1990. Nuts must have been grown by the person showing them. Growers are limited to one entry of each improved or papershell variety. If only one entry is entered in any class, the entry will be judged with "other varieties". There is no limit on the number of seedling or native pecans. All entries become the property of the Mitchell County Pecan Show and they will be given to a charitable organization.

Limmer said that each entry must consist of 43 nuts and they will be displayed on a paper plate during the show.

Entries will be taken between 8 a.m.-noon on Dec. 5 and the judging will be at 3 p.m. the same day in the C.C. Thompson Room. Anybody is welcome to help process the pecans the day of the show. Pecans may also be left at either the County Extension office in the courthouse annex or at the Chamber of Commerce office anytime before the show. Entries must be marked with the owner's name, address and variety of pecan.

Any alterations of pecan show shells by marking, filing or polishing will disqualify that entry. However, exhibitors are encouraged to remove all traces of husks and foreign matter from the shells.

The first three places in each variety will receive ribbons. The champions and reserve champions in the three divisions will be awarded pecan wood plaques and rosettes, respectively.

Best of show and reserve best of show each will receive banners.

Classes will be judged on size, color, appearance, shell thickness, cracking quality, kernel quality, attractiveness and other factors, said Limmer.

TU recycling helps needy

DALLAS - Some of TU Electric's waste paper is being recycled into energy payments for the needy, the company announced in a 1990 report on its Energy Aid program.

Energy Aid, which has provided essential energy services for people in need since 1983, has helped more than 57,000 families with over $4.1 million since it began.

Almost one-half million dollars has been contributed this year alone by TU Electric customers who have kept the program successful by adding a dollar or more - specified for Energy Aid -- to their monthly electric bills. Through October, more than 8,600 families had been helped in 1990.

Almost $9,000 has been raised through the company's paper recycling program and donated to Energy Aid this year.

TU Electric is providing more information and Energy Aid contribution cards in December bills for customers who wish to become contributors. Participation is voluntary, and customers can specify any tax-deductible monthly contribution of one dollar or more.

People experiencing temporary financial hardships due to illness or other unexpected circumstances apply for help through the social agencies that administer the program in communities throughout TU Electric's service area. The program generally provides one-time payments to qualifying applicants. Energy Aid funds can be used for any essential energy services and are not restricted to payments for electricity.

Included with the company's December bills is a note thanking the customers who have made the Energy Aid program successful and reminding other customers that their help is needed. Further information also is available from TU Electric offices.

Carriker receives honor from group

AUSTIN - On Wednesday, Nov. 14, the Texas Transit Association presented its Legislator of the Year award to Senator Steve Carriker (D-Roby). The award is given to legislators who have shown outstanding support for public transportation in Texas. Carriker marshalled efforts in the Senate to increase funding for rural and small city public transportation systems.

The award was presented to Carriker by TTA president Anthony Kouneski. "Senator Carriker went beyond the call of duty to help the transit providers with a critical piece of legislation in the Senate last session. His efforts are greatly appreciated," Kouneski said.

The Texas Transit Association is an organization of 52 members consisting of small city systems such as Abilene Transit System in Abilene, rural systems such as Texoma Area Paratransit System located in the Sherman/Denison area, and the Metropolitan Transit Authorities, such as DART in Dallas.
