MRS. N. B. CURTIS HERE THE 4th

Mrs. Nannie Webb Curtis, spoke at the Court House last night under the auspices of the Woman's Democratic League.

Mr. J. C. McClure, of Abilene was announced throughout the week, as he could not fill his appointment, Mrs. Curtis came upon invitation.

Mrs. Curtis is President of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Texas, and has for twenty-five years been an earnest worker in the cause of prohibition, and has given her time and influence to this work without salary.

She is now speaking in the interest of the Woman's Democratic League and hopes to make this a permanent organization so that in the future when vital issues are at stake our women will be easily reached. She clearly realizes the opportunity that women of Texas have with the franchise to rid our state of some of its gravest vices and advocates that the women vote as clean a ticket as is possible at this election.

In the Governor's race she only promotes the interest of one above the other, in that he has and will submit what the people have asked for. She proved that she has no line up with any who are scheming and tricking for their own interests.

Mrs. Curtis, clearly defined the German propaganda and the hold it had on our industries at the beginning of the war. She emphasized the fact that we must have men at the head of our Government who are thorough Americans and who cannot be bought with a price.

Mr. Cunningham, of Abilene, spoke in the interest of Jim Ferguson. It was unknown to the committee until a very late hour that Mr. Cunningham was to speak here at this time, but arrangements were made for the speaking in debate form. Mrs. Curtis speaking first and following him also with a fifteen minute rejoinder. This cultured woman met all of Mr. Cunningham's arguments in a clear, honest and convincing manner. She is an orator, a gentlewoman and a patriot. She is the best informed, most sincere and earnest speaker that has ever addressed the people of Tahoka and Lynn County.

We wish to thank Mrs. Curtis through these columns for her address.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE.

Miss Lucy Calvin With- draws From Clerk's Race

Miss Lucy Calvin, the lady candidate for County and District Clerk, has withdrawn from the race, and wishes to thank her many friends through the columns of the News for their support just as though she had stayed in the race to the end. Miss Lucy is an accomplished young lady and many Lynn County voters will regret to learn that she has decided to withdraw, especially among the lady voters.

A. D. Shook, President of the Guaranty State Bank, and M. M. Herring, the congenial Abstractor, motored over to Lubbock Monday evening where they transacted business in connection with the Tahoka Oil and Gas Company.

Paul Draper left for Amarillo Wednesday.

Church Notes

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Our meeting last Sunday was one of interest to all present. There were a number of visiting brethren and sisters.

Bro. and sister Maxey and Bro. and sister Burdine, and Bro. Miller and Bro. Stewart from Graham Chappel.

Mr. Russell and family, sister Etta and daughter from Plainview.

Elder Maxey preached at 11 a.m., and Elder Liff Sanders, of Lubbock, at 4:30 p.m. Both sermons were good and the church was greatly strengthened by these noble men of God. There was one addition.

The bountiful supply of good things to eat seemed to be enjoyed by all.

It all goes to prove what can be done by a small band of brethren and sisters where peace and brotherly love prevails.

Announcements will be made later in regard to the meeting to be held this summer.

We are determined to do our duty as we see it, and as Bro. Sanders well said, "No man is any stronger than he delivered himself to be." We hope other churches will have fellowship with us in preaching the gospel in Lynn County. There are many open doors and places wanting meetings and some one should answer these calls. "How shall they preach except they be sent."

Faithfully,
R. T. HARRIS.

METHODIST CHURCH

The Laymen will have charge of the service at the Methodist Church next Sunday at the 11:00 o'clock hour, and a Presbyterian minister will hold services at the 9:00 o'clock hour.

On Sunday, the 14th the ladies will have charge of the 11:00 o'clock service. There will be no services at night.

Children's Day Exercises Highly Entertaining

The Children's Day Service at the Methodist Church last Sunday morning was highly entertaining throughout the program, and was witnessed by a large and appreciative audience. Every number on the program was well rendered and the leaders deserve much credit in the success of the service. Special mention, however, should be made of the Violin Solo rendered by Miss Bulah Dunn, which selection held her hearers entranced as the sweet strains of her violin wafted forth on the morning air, and all music lovers were given a rare treat.

In this issue of the News you will find the professional card of Drs. Callaway and Townes which came too late to appear in the Professional column, but will appear in the proper place next week. The News is glad to have these two distinguished gentlemen represented in our columns.

Mr. Thomas and wife of Tahoka, visited Ira Smith Sunday. Mr. Thomas is a druggist at Tahoka and O'Donnell and is a cousin of Mrs. Smith.—Lamesa Reporter.

A. J. Bryant, of fifteen miles southeast, returned from Lamesa Monday, where he transacted business matters.

J. F. CUNNINGHAM MAKES ADDRESS

Judge J. F. Cunningham, of Abilene, spoke at the Court House last night to several hundred people in the interest of the campaign of James Ferguson for Governor. Mr. Cunningham is a strong speaker, and the Ferguson supporters cheered his remarks frequently.

He made a strong denial of the various charges made against Mr. Ferguson, and in concluding his speech he declared his impeachment was not based on a single official act.

Mr. Cunningham came over by way of Post and returned to that city last night to take the late train for points south.

W. M. Shaw Moves to Abilene, Texas

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Shaw, who have resided in Tahoka the past six months, left Monday morning for their new home in Abilene, Texas. They went up to Lubbock and spent a few days there before going on to Abilene. Mr. Shaw disposed of his interest in the News and has secured a responsible position at Abilene with the City Water Works, as Civil Engineer.

Guy Shook has returned from Guymon, Oklahoma where he and his family have been making their home the past year. The News hopes this estimable family will decide to return to Tahoka for "keeps."

Uncle Jimmy Flemming this week sends the News to his son, Robert E. Flemming, Camp Travis, Texas. "Emmett" says its like getting a letter from home.

W. J. Crouch, candidate for Commissioner Precinct No. 3, is in town this week erecting a garage for W. T. Petty at his residence in North Tahoka.

Rev. L. L. F. Parker preached to a very large and appreciative audience out at the New Home School House Sunday night.

LYNN COUNTY WOMEN REGISTER

Miss Christine Swan won the distinction of being the first women in Lynn County to register on Wednesday, June 26th, in order to be granted the right to vote in the July primaries.

Quite a number of women registered on the first day, and many more are planning to do so soon. Remember you must register on or before the 12th of July if you wish to vote in the primary.

J. L. Nevill, of O'Donnell, is assisting the local manager, Paul Hamilton, at the McAdams Lumber yard invoicing this week.

Deputy Food Administrator, Joe Stokes, is transacting business over in New Mexico this week.

George Murfee, who is connected with a lumber company at Lubbock, is transacting business in Tahoka this week.

Miss Ollie Knight returned home Friday from a visit to Barstow and Eastland. She reports a very pleasant time.

Red Cross Notes

AN ALLEGORY

The mother of the American Red Cross sat dejectedly in her room when suddenly she was startled by a brisk knock at the door. In response to her invitation, there entered at once a cheerful, enervating compelling presence. "Who art thou my Son?" queried the mother? "I am the Spirit of the American boys in training and on the firing line and I've come these many miles to try to thank you for the wonderful service which you are giving us, but I'm amazed to find you so sad of countenance." "It seems to me that you should be the happiest being in the world, you, the mother of that great organization of mercy whose benign influence touches the whole civilized world, and whose blessed ministrations play such a vital and necessary part in this great war by saving thousands of lives and alleviating suffering everywhere." Then why so down cast mother? "My son, I fear I shall discourage you but since you have invited my confidence I shall unburden my heart to you. Away down in Tahoka, a wide-awake, enterprising town on the South Plains of Texas, I have a child known as the Lynn County Red Cross Chapter, who is in many ways a disappointment to me. She isn't acting up to the full measure of her responsibility and capacity for service. In this town there are women sufficient in number to keep the Red Cross rooms crowded every day. But alas, such is not the case. Often only two or three meet in the rooms at one time for work. There are numbers of women (God pity them,) who never so much as enter the work rooms at all. How can they withhold their service from their country in this her time of direst need and yet call themselves loyal American citizens! They regard with the veriest contempt the man who tries to evade the draft and the one who is pro-German in sympathy, failing to see that theirs is a parallel case with such a character; that they are proving to the world by their failure to take a part in the Red Cross and other places of war work that they are disloyal to their homes, their country and their God. Deep in their hearts they have aspirations they would love to consider great, yet they fail to realize that the opportunity for attaining unto true greatness lies at the door of all. Christ taught that true greatness consists of unselfish service to others. The Red Cross work, with the broadest scope of service to those who need it offers an unlimited field in which to achieve greatness. Oh, why can't they see it and take advantage of it. Surely they don't realize the enormity of their sin of inactivity at this time when the best efforts of all are needed to successfully prosecute this war. I'm made to exclaim with Robert Burns, "Oh would some power of the Giftee give us, to see ourselves as others see us." But my child, I must desist, I'm monopolizing the conversation and perhaps your time is limited. Now tell me about your thoughts and feelings. Don't you sometimes grow hot and weary and discouraged, and think all this fighting and suffering and death is not worth while?"

The answer was quick and emphatic. "No, a thousand times no. Of course there are times when sick and wounded, there come visions of home and dear ones and peaceful environments and perhaps for a while there is a hungry, homesick feeling. But then we begin to think of those things for which we are giving our lives; that if the march of those murderous, rapacious German hordes is not arrested in Europe, then these dear American homes of our mothers and wives and children will no longer be homes of comfort and freedom and love; when we look upon the huge sacrifice which the brave Allies have laid on liberty's altar; that sacrifice of millions of human lives, not only of men, but of pure women and helpless children, we thank God that we have a life to give for such a cause. We're trying to prove to the world that we are real descendants of our brave forefathers, who fought and bled because they refused to tolerate tyranny in any form, and who dying, left us a splendid heritage of truth and justice and honor. But my time is up. I must bid you goodbye, and my prayer for the women of Tahoka is that they may become thoroughly alive to a sense of what they owe the world today, that they may realize the supreme purpose of every heart should be the winning of this war; that they can do as noble a part in their respective sphere at home as we who are in the trenches. My message to them is that we believe in them and are depending on them. Don't fail us." Then the visitor vanished. But the Red Cross mother felt peculiarly comforted because of the visit, and said, "I believe the Tahoka women will yet prove they are REAL women."

SENATOR ODELL SPEAKS HERE

Senator Odell, of Fort Worth, delivered a stirring address to a large crowd of men and women in the District Court room at the Court House last Tuesday evening. He made an address that will compare favorably, in eloquence and logic, with any that has ever been delivered in Tahoka. Space and time forbids us giving the proper write-up of his address which it so rightly deserves, but we believe it was an epoch making address.

After dinner they attended the speaking at the Court House and then returned to the Dunn home to spend the remainder of the night dreaming of Hobby.

The Senate and its Action in Impeachment Proceedings

BY SENATOR W. L. DEAN

James E. Ferguson, former Governor of this State, and who was removed from that high office in impeachment proceedings, has virtually made the question of his guilt an issue between himself on the one hand and the Senate of Texas on the other.

As is already well known by you, I was presiding judge of the Senate while it sat as high court of impeachment for the trial of Ferguson on the charges preferred against him by the House of Representatives.

The Senate consisted of thirty-one members, all of whom took the oath prescribed by the Constitution, that they would impartially try Ferguson on said charges and a true verdict render according to the law and the evidence. I myself, took this oath, and looked into the faces of the witnesses when they testified, carefully considered all of the evidence, heard the argument of counsel, and voted to find him guilty on a number of charges because I believed then, and still believe, that he was shown by the evidence to be guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

Among the charges upon which Ferguson was convicted were the following:

(1) The Misapplication of $5,600.00 of Normal School funds to pay his own personal debt. On this charge the vote was twenty-seven for impeachment, four against.

(2) The withdrawal from banks which were paying interest thereon, of Normal School funds and the depositing of said funds in his own bank, the Temple State Bank, whereby he profited to the detriment of the State.

(3) That he caused a number of his appointees, heads of State Departments, in violation of law, to deposit State funds in his bank, the Temple State Bank, and that he derived profit therefrom by reason of the lending of the said money to the public by said bank when this money under the law was required to be deposited in the State Treasury.

(4) That he caused $250,000.00 of State funds, in violation of the law, to be deposited in the Temple State Bank instead of the State Treasury.

(5) That he received from unknown persons, in secret, $156,000.00 in currency at a time when the Legislature was in session and presumably to influence his action in certain official matters.

(6) That he collected funds, more than $2,000.00, belonging to the Adjutant General's Department, and deposited the same to the credit of his account as Governor, and thereafter used it to reimburse the Normal fund for the money which he had used to pay his personal note.

(7) That though as Governor he took an oath of office to see that all laws were impartially enforced, he induced the Temple State Bank, in violation of the law, to make loans to him personally of sums of money aggregating more than the entire capital and surplus of said bank whereas the law limited such loans to one-fourth of the capital and surplus.

(8) That he remitted a $5,000.00 bail bond judgment against Wilbur P. Allen, Chairman of the University Board of Regents, to influence his official acts.

On most charges upon which Ferguson was convicted, the vote was overwhelming, and many voted against him, within my own knowledge, who had been his close personal and political friends, and who had supported him in both of his races for Governor. These voted against him because under their oaths, as a trial court, after hearing the evidence, they could not do otherwise.

In addition to the foregoing, I call your attention to the fact that the Constitution of this State definitely provides that the salary of the Governor shall be $4,000.00 per annum, and no more, together with the use of the Mansion and grounds. Ferguson confessed that he used more than $2,000.00 of the State's money a year in the purchase of groceries, gasoline and such things, for the use of himself and family, in excess of this $4,000.00, after the courts had specifically held this could not lawfully be done.

Again: The Constitution of this State, which was made by the people and not by the Legislature, lodges in the Senate of Texas the duty to try impeachment charges against the Governor, and the Constitution prescribes the penalty which shall follow the judgment of conviction in impeachment trials. Such judgment, prescribed by the Constitution, is removal from holding office, and this was the judgment rendered by the Senate of Texas upon the trial of James E. Ferguson; and under this he could not hold the office of Governor or any other office under this state if elected thereto. So it does seem to me that he is trifling with the Constitution and with the voters of Texas in urging his present candidacy.

In conclusion, I present to my friends the matter in this light; if any one of you of fair standing in the community where you live were called upon to sit as a juror upon the trial of a case wherein the defendant was charged with matters involving moral turpitude, as was so in the trial of Ferguson, and you were to take the oath to try the case and a true verdict render according to the law and the evidence, as I did in Ferguson's case, and after hearing all of the evidence you should upon your oath decide that the accused was guilty; I should not for one moment consider taking the word of the convicted defendant as of more weight than your sworn verdict of guilty. And that is identically the case you have here with me. Without partiality and under oath I heard this evidence and believed him guilty and so voted, and I do not believe that those who know me will feel justified, after thorough consideration, in taking the word of the convicted defendant in preference to the verdict of myself and others who felt constrained as a matter of duty, to vote as we did.

LLOYD GEORGE WANTS MEN TO REPLACE AMERICANS

London, June 28.—Intervening in the debate of the new military service act and speaking of the urgency of obtaining men for an emergency, Premier Lloyd George said yesterday it was true the Americans were coming and being brigaded with allies, but that it was on the distinct understanding that when men were obtained they should replace the Americans and enable the Americans to form their own divisions.

This was the honorable understanding upon which President Wilson was prepared to send over a large force to France, the premier continued, hence it was imperative "that we make a most drastic comb-out in order to maintain our strength and prestage at the vital moment.

Jones County Farmers Replant Cotton Crop

Abilene, Texas, July, 3.—The farmers in Jones County who have lost their cotton crops through the activity of the webworms are beginning to replant, reports reaching here say.

In many sections of the west the worms have eaten the cotton off even with the ground, destroying entire fields. The affected areas are limited.

A Half-Wit Mistreated

A crowd of men and boys of Clayton, New Mexico, recently went to the home of "Irish" Ellis, said to be a half-wit, and after smashing the windows and breaking in the door, dragged him from bed, put a halter around his neck and made him walk to town barebooted. Several shots were fired and in the melee, the victim received a severe scalp wound, before the officers broke up the "party."

The trouble originated over Ellis' appearing on the streets in a pair of white trousers and a blue shirt which, with his red hair, gave rise to considerable hilarity and jests on the part of many of the men and boys: The man finally turned on his tormentors and told them to take their "damned red, white and blue and go to hell," whereupon, a great cry of pro-German was raised by the crowd who followed him to his home, and were only prevented from further mistreating him by the timely arrival of the deputy sheriffs.

Historic Precedents

"Four thousand years ago Food Commissioner Joseph, in the land of Egypt, commandeered one-fifth of the wheat crop of Egypt each year for seven years and stored in the cities nearest the wheat fields. His drastic action at that time saved the world from starvation.

"Two thousand five hundred years ago Nebuchanezzar, King of Babylon, instructed that certain men whom he wished to have attached to his court be fed on king's food and wine to give them a well-nourished look. One of these men named Daniel, persuaded his caterer that himself and friends could be better nourished on pulse and water, and requested that he make a test covering a sufficient length of time; the others to be fed on king's food and wine. The test showed that those who lived on pulse (lentils) and water were better nourished than those fed on king's food (luxurie) and wine.

"Two thousand years ago Bible history records the miracle of feeding five thousand with a few barley loaves and fishes. The people were commanded to sit in rows of 50 to the row, and the servers passed before each and gave to everyone his portion, so that all were served. It was an instance where a little food went a long way, and the fragments that remained were gathered up so that no food was wasted."—Hotel Monthly.

HOW TO MEASURE MEAT RATION OF 2 POUNDS WEEKLY

Success of Equitable Meat Distribution Rests With Consumer; Plan Based on Patriotism and Voluntary Denial.

It is estimated that $50,000,000 would be required if the nation were successfully placed on a ration system for the handling of wheat flour, sugar and meat, nor would this amount cover the monthly operating expenses after the system were inaugurated. "For this reason," announces the Federal Food Administration for Texas, "we look to the individual for co-operation in observing the ration suggested and to the distributor to see that the quantities suggested are dispensed as nearly in the degree suggested as possible.

The placing of all manufacturers using sugar on a rationing basis has been achieved at a great expense to the Food Administration. Sugar used by manufacturers may only be procured through the possession of a certificate issued by the state headquarters and the quantity is based upon a definite schedule of allotments.

The distribution of wheat flour in Texas, now that the State has adopted a wheatless program, is handled alone in Victory bread, through licensed bakers. Homes and public eating places, until the wheatless program was adopted, were on six pounds per person of flour a month. While difficult to make this rationing complete, the distribution to the public through the wholesalers and the retailers nearly approximated that quantity when the sum total of wheat flour for Texas was divided by the sum total of the consuming public.

Bewilderment is now expressed by dispensers of meat, both in public eating places and at meat markets, as to how the individual is to be kept within his ration of two pounds of meat per week. Some have suggested a return to meatless days and meatless meals. The United States Food Administration, in announcing the new meat program, expressed an unwillingness to return to fixed meatless meals or days. It is hoped that the American public will conform their purchases, on patriotic and military grounds, to the two-pound ration of meat, just as the majority have done in the purchase of sugar and flour, and that in the general summation the amount of meat consumed nationally a month in the United States, when divided by the people consuming meat, will reflect the two-pound ration.

The many friends of Prof. Zorns are glad to have him back in in our city again, after having been out of town the past two weeks.

Germany will be defeated, there is no question about that, but the thing is to keep at the job, till it is finished. Don't relax in the matter of economizing and hooverizing every time the allies win a victory, believing it to be the beginning of the end. It may be, and we believe fully that the turning point is near, but we will have some fierce fighting yet—possibly the fiercest yet, and it behooves us as good, loyal citizens to keep up the fight at home, by the conservation of food and materials that are needed with which to win the war.

Forty-two players who put in four or five hours of their time every day during work hours, should remember that that does not put the boys over the top very fast. This is war time, and every fellow should be at work.

No matter whether you are within the draft age or not, if you are not doing all you can to help win the war, you are not 100 per cent American. Did we call your number?

PLAINS PROSPECTS LOOKS GOOD TO SWEETWATER MAN

Judge Harry R. Bondies returned last evening from Plainview where he had been for a few days on legal business. He tells that on his return trip he had occasion to stop for awhile in Lamesa and that he found that section in better condition from an agricultural viewpoint than the surrounding country. He says crops look especially nice in Dawson County and that he was informed by some of the citizens that some cotton would be made there even if they did not get much more rain. Mr. Bondies was highly pleased with the prospects in that section.—Sweetwater Reporter.

Items of Interest to Farmers Gathered From Various Sources

Spray to Control Potato Pests

Insects and diseases which annually cause serious damage to the potato crop are easily controlled by the free use of arsenical sprays. As a spray for the potato beetle and similar pests, arsenate of lead serves the same purpose as Paris green, is much cheaper, and also has the following advantages over it: (1) It contains less soluble arsenic; (2) it is less harmful to young growing plants, and when applied properly does not scorch them; (3) it adheres more strongly to the foliage; and (4) it is of greater value than other arsenical (except zinc arsenite) in that it leaves a white coating on the foliage, so that its presence can be determined readily after spraying.

The spraying material will adhere better to the plants if the same weight of soap as of the arsenical is used in the mixture. Either rosen, fish-oil or laundry soap may be used preferably the former. Two or three spraying ordinarily will be sufficient for the spring of over-wintered beetles if applied before the eggs for the first brood are hatched, and about the same number for the second brood or generation. In the In the South one or two sprayings for the third generation, when it appears, also should be given.

A combined spraying of arsenate of lead and Boreux mixture is recommended as being effective not only for the control of the potato beetle but also for other insects and the diseases which attack the potato. Watch the young plants closely and spray with Bordeaux mixture and arsenate of lead as soon as the first evidence of the Colorado potato beetle or of flea-beetles is noted. Repeat this application every 10 to 14 days, to keep all of the new foliage protected. If no insects are present and the weather is dry, the intervals between spraying may be lengthened. As the late-blight season approaches, which in the North usually is after the middle of July, a protective spraying should be given and the weather watched more closely, for if continuous showers occur, with a mean temperature of 72 to 74 degrees F., spraying every 5 to 7 days will be necessary. A system for reporting the appearance and progress of late-blight should be organized in order that potato growers may be warned when to increase their efforts.

Write to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., for Farmers' Bulletin 868, "How to Increase the Potato Crop by Spraying."

State Department of Agriculture, Austin, Tex.—Much of the seed corn sold in Texas comes from the northern states and is often harvested before it is mature. Such corn, owing to its weak germinating qualities and to the fact that is not acclimated, is sure to produce small yields, and to disappoint the farmers who plant it next year.

It is better, if possible, to get seed corn from corn grown in Texas and from farmers who can give good references. It is better not to buy seed corn that has been shelled, because it cannot be tested for its germinating qualities, and for the further reason that the ears may not have been nubbled before they were shelled. It is better to buy the seed corn in the ear, even though it should cost twice as much than to buy it shelled. Test each ear as follows:

Construct a shallow box, say two or three inches deep and large enough to have two inches of square space for each ear to best tested. Fill this box nearly full of wet sand or moist soil, and lay over this soil a piece of white goods checked in two inch squares. Thus a box 2 feet square will have 144 checks, or test 144 ears. Number the squares and ears to correspond.

Take six grades of corn from different parts of each ear and place them in one of these checks. Number the checks and ear to correspond. Put another moist cloth over the entire square, set in a warm place and keep moist until grains have had time to sprout.

This is a simple experiment to show which ears will produce good young plants and which will produce weak plants, or fail altogether to germinate. The "Rag Doll" and other advocated testers will serve the purpose equally as well as this.

If the seed corn available is shelled, test some of it at all odds.

Milo, Kaffir, Feterita, Etc.

Get seed from some reliable grower who produced during the year, seed well matured and of strong vitality. If this cannot be done buy the headed stuff, and carefully examine each head and see that the spikelets are well filled and the head usually firm. The farmer should know that he cannot tell by looking at the head whether it is late or early, tall or dwarf, nor whether it is from the parent stalk or succors.

By all means guard against buying immature seed. He can acclimate or climatize good seed much quicker than he can breed up poor or immature seed. Again the difference in price will many times be in favor of the good seed in yielding power. If forced to buy thrashed seed, he is likely to get several kinds of grain, a large per cent broken in thrashing, and a large per cent of weak or immature seed. In this case the seed should be heavily fanned and afterwards floated.

This Department particularly urges our farmers to secure their planting seed as early as possible and before the seed has been milled, or sold for other purposes. Good seed are scarce and getting scarcer, high in price and getting higher. No time should be lost. Every institute should at once arrange for seed and list with Mr. E. W. Cole, Chief of the Bureau of Markets, the amount and kind they want and he will endeavor to find same for you. If any one has any good seed for sale, please list it with Mr. Cole, giving lowest price, and stating kind, amount and quality, and he will find a buyer for same. This Department especially urges the necessity of saving all good grain that will be suitable for planting. It is now apparent that all good seed will be needed. The demand is far greater than the supply. Make the lowest prices possible to aid your drouth stricken brothers.

Seed Cotton for 1918

Owing to the very high price of cotton seed this season many Texas farmers, especially renters will sell off their cotton seed to the lowest basis, keeping barely enough to plant next year's crop, and thus make it very difficult to find seed for a second planting in case of a failure to get a stand at first planting. Again, owing to the scarcity of cattle feed the tendency will be to feed some of the saved seed this winter to cattle and thus further reduce the supply of planting seed for next year.

Seed for planting next year's crop will be high and difficult to get, especially if one waits till planting time to buy his seed. Better buy now and from some reliable breeder or farmer of good standing who has made a specialty of improving his seed cotton.

Keep all seed for next year's crop stored in a dry place and secure from possible foraging of all live stock. Be sure to save enough for replanting should it be necessary; if not necessary, there will be a ready sale for all surplus seed.

Before the time for harvesting next fall's crop this Department will prepare and distribute a leaflet suggesting methods for selecting, breeding, etc., of the cotton plant for increased yields and fiber qualities, thus insuring larger yields and a higher price per acre.

Tireology

Tires for automobiles, motorcycles and bicycles afford a most convincing argument in favor of standard or trademarked-advertised merchandise as compared with the non-standard sort.

Tires present a big problem in the way of expense and trouble to car owners; one on which they should inform themselves thoroughly.

Primarily the manufacture of high quality rubber tires is necessarily a most skillful and painstaking operation. Only the very best rubber, fabrics, chemicals, etc., can be used, and labor and machine efficiency employed must also be of the very highest quality.

Even under these conditions, tires imperfect in one way or another will slip through—until they come under the eagle-eye of the factory inspector—whose sole duty is to see that every tire leaving the factory under the manufacturer's name or trade name is perfect in every detail. He is the watchful guardian and protector of his employer's good reputation, and of the pocket of every buyer of a tire bearing his name or trademark.

Faulty tires of every description are culled, factory identification marks are removed and they are sold—under no guarantee whatever—as seconds. They are admittedly imperfect, faulty, unworthy of the name and guarantee of their maker.

Are such tires, even at the reduced prices asked for them, as cheap in the long run as those found perfect under most rigid inspection and backed by the reputation and guarantee of the manufacturer?

SOLDIER FINDS BROTHER AMONG DEAD

With The American Army in France, July 1.—One of the most pathetic incidents of the war so far as America is concerned occurred in a little cemetery to the rear of the Picardy front recently when an American soldier, acting as a pallbearer at the funeral of several American, discovered his own brother, Joseph Ash, among the dead.

The brothers, members of different companies, had met only the day before at the front. Joseph remained there and mortally wounded, dying soon afterward. His brother was ordered to the rear lines with a party of wood choppers.

The wood choppers were working near the cemetery at the time of the funeral and the chaplain asked them to be pallbearers. In the midst of the service the chaplain read the name of Joseph Ash. The brother, who stood with bared head in the small group of soldier mourners, reeled forward, his eyes filled with tears, and exclaimed: "My brother, oh, my brother."

The chaplain, not understanding, stepped up and placed his arm around the young man's shoulder, saying: "We are all brothers, my boy."

The soldier looked at the coffin and shook his head. "The Germans will pay for your blood," he said, and then it was that the chaplain and the others around his understood and led him away.

SEVERAL DON'TS FOR GOOD AMERICAN CITIZENS

Here's a set of war don'ts from the pen of one of the Vigilantes: "Don't sit down and wish the war was over."

"Don't be discouraged. Faith is not a sentiment, but an act of will. "Don't wish you were serving in some different line from that you are in. You are needed where you are."

"Don't critic unless your criticism is constructive and will help."

"Don't listen to what ex-President Taft calls 'whispering traitors.'"

"Don't grumble at being asked to do something you have never done before. Fall into line."

"Don't forget that we are fighting for Right, and therefore must win. Insert in your morning prayer the immortal words, "They Shall Not Pass." "

Avoiding those "don'ts" and carrying out their positive suggestions ought to keep any sincere patriot busy. They'll lead him or her to the thrift stamp window, and the Red Cross workrooms; they'll make the scarcity of wheat products on the family table a source of pride and pleasure. And best of all, they'll help to maintain the fine spirit of courage and determination and high purpose that already animates our men in the army and navy, as well as most of the folks back home.

Labor and material are essential to victory; use both sparingly.
