Clapper Insists:

Unification Of Command Is Big Need

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
War Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Jan. 14. (By Wireless)—Judging from many conversations with Army and Navy officers, it seems to me there is a growing necessity for a unified command in the Pacific.

Traveling about this vast theater one quickly becomes conscious that we are fighting the war out here in two separate pieces. One war against Japan is being conducted by the Navy in the central Pacific, north of the equator, against island groups such as the Gilberts. The second war against Japan is being fought by the Army south of the equator and is marked especially by the campaigns in New Guinea, New Britain and other islands west of the Solomons. In between is Admiral Halsey's South Pacific command, which gives invaluable help to both of these two wars.

Two Separate Wars

As between General MacArthur in the Southwest Pacific and Admiral Halsey in the South Pacific, there is close co-operation. As between Admiral Halsey in the South Pacific and Admiral Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, with his main interest in the central Pacific, there is close collaboration. But as between the two extremes—Nimitz in the central Pacific and MacArthur in the Southwest Pacific—there is not the close co-operation that will be necessary as the Pacific war progresses. They are still running what amounts to two separate wars instead of being two co-ordinated jaws of the same pincers.

No Big Controversies

I AM not thinking in terms of any big personal controversies at all, and perhaps this question has not been of very much importance during the long period of preparation that is now drawing to a close. But from here on it will become increasingly necessary that every move in the Pacific be the result of a compact team as close-knit as the final phase of the western assault against Germany will be under General Eisenhower's command.

By checking the map you will see that we are pushing west and also north toward Japan. The push to the west by the Navy has taken the Gilberts. In its path, obviously, lie the Marshalls and the Carolines, with strongholds such as Truk. We are on the way west, as Tarawa indicated.

From the south, MacArthur is pushing up through New Guinea and New Britain. When New Britain is completely ours we will have broken through the outer shell and we will then be facing the real Japanese inner line, of which Truk is one of the strong corners.

Gradually Converging

These two campaigns are gradually converging and must be correlated intimately. It seems inevitable that it must all be one operation, but this is not so now. MacArthur and Nimitz are separated not only by many miles of water but also, and more importantly, by an organizational wall which is less easy to cross. Lines run from Australia up to our footholds on New Britain. But they don't cross to nearby Guadalcanal, because that is over in Halsey's South Pacific area and go up again to Guadalcanal.

In order to travel from one place to the other and eliminate the time-wasting doubling back to Australia, I happened to be able to jump straight across because of the coincidence of a special plane having been arranged for this irregular trip.

Nature Of Warfare

A REAL case for unifying the the command lies in the nature of the warfare out here, which interlocks air forces, ground forces, PT boats, heavy surface warships, submarines, in fact every kind of warfare, in combined operations, with the Army and Navy all mixed up in the same job.

High Army and Navy men feel strongly that all services should be united after the war in one department of national defense. Certainly the way this war has to be fought out here makes a consolidated command imperative as the two campaigns proceed. It seems also to be indicated that all arms might as well adopt one service uniform in the reorganization at the end of the war, and have the whole war machine as unified as an amphibious force must be.

AFL Protests Vinson, Byrnes Veto Powers

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 17. (AP)—The American Federation of Labor executive council, opening its winter meeting, voted today to protest to President Roosevelt against the wage veto power vested in Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson and War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes.

The council also decided to mobilize the influence of the AFL membership of more than 6,000,000 in support of federal subsidy money to keep down food prices, but indicated at the same time it considered a rollback of prices to September, 1942, levels almost hopeless of achievement.

President William Green said that labor generally feels that the WLB's Little Steel formula is "obsolete."

Nazis Report Heavy Attacks On 250-Mile Front In North

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Moscow announced tonight that one Red Army had driven to within seven miles of Novosokolniki, a rail junction 70 miles from the Latvian border, while Berlin said 250,000 Russians were attacking all along a 250-mile front below Leningrad.

In the sweep into old Poland another Army under Gen. Nikolai F. Vatutin was declared to have smashed to within 14 miles of the important rail city of Rovno with the capture of Tuchin on the northeast.

Rovno, 40 miles inside pre-war Poland, is an objective of troops attacking on the southern side of an 85-mile Russian bulge inside that territory. It is a junction on the Berdichev-Warshaw and Sarny-Lwow railways, and also is astride the hard-surfaced Kiev-Warsaw highway.

Methodical Slashing

On Sunday other Russian units had taken Kostopol, 19 miles above Rovno, in the methodical Soviet slashing of German-held communications throughout the eastern part of old Poland.

The broadcast-communique was one of the shortest issued in six months. The only other sector it mentioned was "north of Uman" in the lower Ukraine where other units directed by Vatutin have been fighting their way toward the Rumanian frontier.

Russian forces which on Sunday had cut the Novosokolniki-Leningrad railway at Nasva, 20 miles above Novosokolniki, widened their hold along that railway with the seizure of five additional localities in advances of two or more miles.

Kurova Captured

Kurova, seven miles northeast of Novosokolniki, was captured, Moscow said, as the Russians converged on their larger objective which is on the railway running westward below Lake Ilmen from Velikie-Luki to Riga, Latvian capital. Several weeks ago other Russian units under Gen. Ivan C. Bagramian had been reported only five miles from Novosokolniki in a drive northward from Nevel.

This was the only northern sector mentioned by Moscow, but the German high command gave a different picture. Berlin said the Russians were attacking north and northwest of Nevel, with fresh formations, north of Lake Ilmen, south of Leningrad, and south of Oranienbaum. The latter city is about 20 miles west of Leningrad, where the Russians hold a bridgehead about 15 miles wide and five miles deep on the south shore of the Gulf of Finland.

German broadcasts said the

Hundreds Die In San Juan Quake

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 17 (AP)—Rescue squads have recovered 900 bodies from quake-stricken San Juan and are still digging in the ruins of the city, it was officially announced tonight. Estimates of the total number of dead have ranged as high as 5,000.

The 5,000-figure was contained in a dispatch by the San Juan correspondent of the newspaper Critica.

Fresh reports also boosted the toll of the injured from about 5,000 to more than 13,000.

The government press bureau said it was too early for an accurate calculation of the material loss but estimated it would reach at least $75,000,000.

Huge Piles Of Debris

The task of removing the dead from the rubble and administering to the wounded went on amid hugh piles of debris which still blocked most streets in the once picturesque mountain city of 30,000. Rescue squads cremated scores of unidentified bodies at the orders of health authorities.

Another quake of short duration last night toppled some walls still left standing. Rain added to the discomfort of the survivors. The government announced additional doctors, nurses and medical supplies were arriving in a steady stream by plane and train. President Pedro Ramirez left for the quake zone after a cabinet meeting which drafted plans for relief in the stricken zone.

John McCormack III At His British Home

LONDON, Jan. 17. (AP) — The Irish tenor, John McCormack, 59, has been ill some months and his wife today told the Daily Sketch, "I don't think he will sing in public again."

"He had an acute attack of tonsilitis and the flu," the paper quoted Mrs. McCormack. "He is much better now but has decided to retire to enjoy life in the country."

The famous singer appeared in London in November, 1938, for his formal farewell to the concert stage.

Post-War Tax Ceiling Urged

Senator Would Set 25 Pct. Maximum

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP) — Senator Reynolds (D-NC) advocated a post-war tax ceiling of 25 per cent on individual earnings today as the Senate entered its second week's debate on a $2,275,600,000 revenue bill.

"It is absolutely impossible to do it now," he told the Senate, "but as soon as this war is over we've got to begin thinking about tax reduction."

The Senate's drive to pass the new tax measure stalled today behind a day-long fight which wound up in defeat for an attempt to abolish for the war's duration a tax of 10 cents a pound on the sale of yellow colored oleomargarine.

Dairy States Fire Up

Senator Maybank (D-SC) brought the repeal attempt into the tax debate and stirred an immediate outburst from dairy state senators who argued it was an effort to give oleomargarine equal standing with butter on the nation's dinner tables. Maybank's proposed repealer was defeated 55 to 23 on a roll call vote.

"This tax is not to raise revenue," declared Senator Shipstead (R-Minn). "It is a regulatory tax to prevent fraud and deception."

"Oleo can now be colored any color except yellow without paying the tax," shouted Senator La Follette (Prog-Wis). "But its manufacturers want it to look like butter and smell like butter. They'd like to make it taste like butter, too, if they could."

Meanwhile failure to iron out differences over proposed changes in the contract renegotiation law,

Slaton C.-C. Banquet Is Scheduled Tonight

SLATON, Jan. 17. (Special).—Slaton citizens, approximately 150 strong, will gather at the Slaton community clubhouse Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock for their annual Slaton Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development banquet.

Election of five new directors of the organization will be one of the highlights of the banquet which will be presided over by M. S. Kavanaugh, retiring president, as toastmaster. S. A. Peavy, retiring vice president, will issue the call to order after which the assembly will sing America and the invocation will be given by Rev. W. F. Ferguson. Introduction of guests will follow.

Report of Manager Briggs Robertson for the year will be sandwiched in between selected musical numbers.

Principal address of the evening will be given by Chas. Dean, former district attorney, of Plainview.

Retiring directors are: Dr. W. E. Payne, W. T. Cherry, W. L. Pearson, A. M. Jackson and Peavy.

Mrs. J. E. Eckert will have charge of serving the banquet. Tickets for the affair should be secured at the chamber of commerce offices by Tuesday noon.

Texas Solons In Arms Over Service Vote

Poll On Special Session Planned

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 17. — A telegraphic poll of members of the Texas legislature on how they feel about a special session to consider the soldier vote question will be undertaken tomorrow, Rep. J. Ed Winfree of Houston announced here today.

Winfree said between 15 and 20 legislators are in Austin and will meet in the Senate chamber tomorrow morning to start the poll.

"While we're going to try to reach all of them tomorrow," Winfree said, "we want them to let us know how they feel, even if they don't hear from us immediately."

Several See Need

Need for a special session on the soldier vote question has been expressed by a number of state legislators recently but Gov. Coke Stevenson has said he does not feel it would help the situation.

"I bitterly resent the governor's attitude," said Winfree who disclosed he had failed to alter Stevenson's decision in a conference before the governor left today for a series of public appearances in Dallas.

Winfree declared public opinion justified a session.

Based on a study of supreme court and criminal appeals court decisions, the governor said the poll tax is levided by the constitution on all persons between 21 and 60 and the legislature can-

Bradley Named Chief In Britain

Eisenhower Takes Over Invasion Job

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP) — With confident good humor, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower declared today he found the pre-invasion machinery rumbling briskly when he reached Britain, and disclosed that Lt.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley was senior American general heading the great and swiftly-moving numbers of U. S. ground troops in the United Kingdom.

Eisenhower, giving his first London press conference as supreme Allied commander in the west, went no further in defining Bradley's role, but disclosure of Bradley's presence was widely accepted as tantamount to announcement that the zero hour would find him commanding all American landing soldiers, just as Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery will

Troops Push Nearer Final Dash To Rome

New Commander Takes Up His Job

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADUARTERS, Algiers, Jan. 17.—American and French troops, smashing at the Nazis' Gustav line along a 30-mile front, reached the Rapido river and other points favorable for launching an attack on the key city of Cassino today as their new commander-in-chief, Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, declared that the Germans would be hit wherever and whenever the opportunity offers on the Mediterranean front.

Rome, itself, is the immediate objective of present Allied operations in Italy, Wilson said at his first press conference here, adding that he was "optimistic" that the Eteranl City would fall to the Allies before long. He said other attacks might be expected along the southern front anywhere from its western extremity, the Pyrnees, to its Balkan terminus, where the river Maritz flows into the sea.

Win And Finish Differ

The man who has been nicknamed "Jumbo" because of his size said that, given luck, the Allies might win the war this year —"but whether we'll finish it this year is another thing," he added. He drew the parallel of a boxer who has won a fight, but whose opponent still is on his feet.

"The Germans are already feeling the strain on the eastern front, and our object must be to

Allies Pound 8 Jap Ships

One Known Sunk And Seven Fired Or Badly Hammered

(By The Associated Press)

EIGHT Japanese cargo ships were hit by American bombers ranging from the mid-Pacific Marshall islands to the China Sea, Allied communiques reported last night and today.

Navy Catalinas from the Solomon islands sunk a 10,000-ton freighter and left two others in flames near Kavieng, New Ireland, graveyard for Nipponese warships and merchantmen.

Four were bombed and believed to have gone down in the Marshalls. A collier was sunk in the South China Sea. All three areas are favorite hunting grounds for American aircraft paring down Nippon's dwindling merchant fleet, perhaps the weakest part of her armor.

Nips Put Up Stiff Fight In Marshalls

By WILLIAM HIPPLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

PEARL HARBOR, Jan. 17. — Army and Navy bombers struck heavily at Japanese shipping in the Marshall islands Jan. 15 and 16, sinking one small cargo ship and damaging three others and stirring up the strongest enemy interception yet encountered over a single atoll since the central Pacific offensive started last November.

Headquarters of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced that 45 enemy fighter planes took up the fight over Maloelap on Saturday. Bombers of the American Seventh Army Air force made the attack at low altitude. One bomber was lost, but two enemy fighters were believed shot down. Two cargo ships were bombed and may have been sunk.

It was the first enemy interception encountered in the Marshalls since the Jan. 11 raid on Maloelap, when six fighters gave battle, of which two were damaged.

Total Now Is Seven

The small cargo ship was sunk at Likiep atoll Saturday by Navy search planes. Seven enemy ships now have been sunk in the Marshalls so far this month, two probably sunk and nine damaged.

Two attacks were made in daylight Sunday on Mili atoll by Army bombers. Two enemy bombers were shot down over the airfield in the first strike. The second, carried out "in considerable force," strafed ground installations heavily. One of our planes was lost.

Nuisance raids against American bases in the Gilbert islands, south of the Marshalls, were made by Japanese planes Saturday night. Makin was hit three times and Tarawa twice. One enemy plane was shot down over Makin. The announcement said there was no appreciable damage to our installations and casualties were light.

Four Hit At Kavieng And 18 Planes Down

By OLEN CLEMENTS

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Tuesday, Jan. 18—Bombs from Navy Catalina patrol planes sank a 10,000-ton Japanese vessel and set afire two other merchantmen of a six-ship enemy convoy caught off the Japanese base at Kavieng, New Ireland, Sunday night, Allied headquarters announced today.

The Allied planes, members of the South Pacific command Black Cats squadron, spotted the convoy of four cargo vessels and two warships, possibly cruisers, 45 miles off Kavieng.

Two Left Burning

Left burning were an 8,000-ton ship and another of 6,000 tons. Enemy escort craft put up stiff antiaircraft fire, but none of the Catalinas was hit. Both of the damaged ships were observed still burning when reconnaissance planes visited the scene Monday.

The Japanese have stepped up their air activity, communique reports indicated, and Allied fliers continued their blows on enemy bases at Rabaul, New Britain, and along the northeast coast of New Guinea.

An attack on the American invasion area at Saidor, on the New Guinea coast, cost the Japanese 17 fighters and one divebomber, with the probable loss of two more fighters, when the attack was intercepted by Allied P-40 fighters which suffered only minor loss, the communique said.

Heaviest Since Jan. 2

The attack, Sunday morning, was the heaviest the enemy had attempted against American Sixth Army troops who invaded Saidor

Moscow's Newest Charge On Britain Puzzling To U. S.

Report Is Carried Without Comment

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Jan. 17.—The Communist party organ, Pravda, today published a report which, although plainly labeled as a rumor from Cairo, amounted to an unofficial accusation that Britain was sounding out Germany on the possibility of a separate peace.

The 10-line dispatch, published at the top of Pravda's foreign news page under a Cairo dateline and credited to "a special correspondent of Pravda," said two British officials had met secretly with Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, with the "aim of finding out the conditions of a separate peace with the Germans."

Not Without Results

It said "it is understood the meeting did not remain without results"—a phase which carried to Russians the positive connotation that it had met at least a partial success.

Excited interest and surprise were stirred among Russians by the strange and disturbing story.

Allied quarters were incredulous. British officials said they could not understand either the report or the publication of it, and that they did not believe it.

("There is no truth to this story," said Lord Halifax, British ambassador in Washington, in an emphatic denial.

(British official quarters in London said they knew nothing whatever of the report. They reiterated that Britain would make no separate peace. A London spokesman expressed doubt such a story

Escaped Convicts Quickly Recaptured

HUNTSVILLE, Jan. 17. (AP) — Freedom was brief for two men who last night sawed their way out of a Wynne State Prison farm dormitory and were recaptured within a short time.

They were listed as Eugene Franklin Kilgore, 19, serving 25 years for robbery and embezzlement from El Paso county and Mabry Holland, 31, serving ten years for robbery by assault from Harris county.

British Brand It All Hokum

LONDON, Tuesday, Jan. 18 (AP) The British foreign office declared flatly last night that "there is no truth" to Pravda's British-German peace talk rumors and the London Daily Mail today bluntly called the report "an insult to the British people."

The Mail and other London morning newspapers expressed disappointment at publication by the Communist party organ of a Cairo report that German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and two British officials had discussed feelers for a separate peace.

Not a single afternoon paper carried the Moscow story but it was splashed on the front pages and most papers had editorials that minced no words.

"The newspaper Pravda must be remarkably ignorant of British national standards," the Daily Mail commented. "That is the only excuse we can find for it."

Eastman Asks Aid In Fight On Chisellers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (AP) — Black market chisellers are now dealing in railroad reservations, the Office of Defense transportation said today, thereby seriously interfering with distribution of tickets for essential travel.

Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director, advised the mayors of 104 U. S. cities that black market in railroad reservation is spreading, and asked them to help combat it by rigid enforcement of local laws against ticket speculation.

"Gouging of already harassed travelers," he called it.

Eastman said recent surveys indicate that some people are making advance reservations and then reselling them for sums ranging up to $50 in excess of face value on heavily traveled runs.

Some railroad employes have been working with the chisellers, Eastman said. In every instance where rail employes have been exposed as black market stooges, they have been dismissed, he added.

Coke Thanks Ohioan For "Twin Sisters"

DALLAS, Jan. 17. (AP) — Gov. Coke Stevenson, with his cowboy hat and his pipe in hand, paid a courtesy call on Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio shortly after the Texas governor arrived in Dallas tonight.

"We're grateful for the twin sisters Ohio sent us in our war for independence," Stevenson told Bricker.

"The twin sisters?" querried the puzzled Bricker. "Who were they?"

Stevenson explained that the twin sisters were a pair of cannon sent to the Texas Army in 1836 by citizens of Cincinnati.

"Oh," said Bricker, "that's a bit of Texas history I hadn't learned about. I have a twin sister and was trying to connect that with your statement."

Comes In Face Of Polish Squabble

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The United States government stepped gingerly but hopefully into the dispute between Russia and Poland today only to find itself buffeted by a new wave of misunderstanding between Moscow and London.

The latest upheaval in Russia's stormy relations with her European Allies was brought on by the publication in Moscow of "Cairo rumors" that two British officials had conferred with German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop on conditions of a separate peace.

Puzzled Officials Silent

American officials, frankly puzzled by the way in which the rumors were played up in Moscow, kept silent on this score, but British Ambassador Lord Halifax hastened to reassure the American public with this assertion:

"There is no truth to the story. People who believe it will believe anything."

Secretary of State Hull told a press conference that the good offices of the United States had been made available in the interest of restoring diplomatic relations between Russia and Poland.

Requested By Poles

This action was taken at the request of the Polish government, whose Ambassador Jan Ciechanowski, arranged to see Undersecretary of State Stettinius this afternoon.

The American response to the Polish request apparently did not go so far as the Poles had desired. Hull said that Ambassador W. Averell Harriman in Moscow had been told in a dispatch sent Saturday evening to inform the Soviet government of the willingness of this government to offer its facilities for opening discussions between the Russians and the Poles with a view to resuming official relations between them.

Three Found Dead Of Monoxide Poisoning

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 17. (AP)—Two brothers and a girl companion died of monoxide poisoning in a parked automobile some time between Friday night and early Sunday morning, Robert T. Bradford, Middlesex county district attorney, reported tonight after the autopsies.

The dead: James W. Keefe, 24, who was seated behind the wheel; his brother John, 17, whose body was found on the floor of the car, and Ruth Elizabeth Place, who was found on the rear seat.

Grace Saunders, still a patient at Cambridge City hospital, owes her life to the fact that the front seat window beside her was slightly ajar, Bradford said.

Police theorized that the four parked on a Lexington road with the car heater going.

Unrationed Sale Of Shoes Is Extended

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (AP) — Unrationed sales of certain types of women's shoes retailing for less than $3 a pair will be permitted through Feb. 5, the Office of Price administration announced today.

The point-free sales were originally scheduled to end at midnight, Jan. 29. The authorization does not include all shoe types selling at $3 or less. Only slow-moving stocks, chiefly novelty types, are affected.

Farm-Buying Of Meats Is Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (AP) — The Office of Price administration advanced the use of 120 red meat points today for on-the-farm purchase of rationed meats, notably pork.

While this will give consumers ample ration points for buying meats, OPA said it expected its order would encourage farmers to slaughter their hogs on the farm "thus cutting down the number of hogs coming into the congested markets."

The OPA action validated the red stamps in Book Four numbered "eight" and lettered "A" through "M" for immediate use in on-the-farm purchases of rationed meats.

For advance purchases of meats from farmers, the last 96 brown points remaining in Book Three also may be used, OPA said. The action gives 216 points to every consumer for such meat purchases.

Ration Not Increased

The price agency said that the advance use of stamps will not increase the individual meat ration allowed any consumer. It merely allows the consumer to buy fairly large amounts from farm slaughterer at one time, a practice common in some areas.

There has been considerable criticism recently from farm sources of the rationing system, with hogs piling up at terminal markets and several stockyards forced to declare an embargo on shipments of live hogs.

The number eight coupons in Book Four are each good for 10 points, regardless of the point value printed on them, the OPA said. In normal usage, these coupons would have been exchanged for the new ration tokens after Feb. 22.

Army's Frontline Medicos Retain Sense Of Balance

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WITH THE AEF IN ITALY, Jan. 13. (Delayed).—Between patients, the patter of a front line Army hospital collecting company is something to which to listen. Despite all the Grimness their work sets before them each night, despite the times they get kicked around by enemy shells, despite the depressing sights they have seen, somehow they seem to retain their sense of balance.

This is an outfit which has been overseas two years, whose record shows it to be one of the most efficient of the Fifth Army front.

But between patients they pop off about "Popcorn Town." In case you haven't heard, "Popcorn Town" is Schaller, Iowa, where they have a pop corn factory and lots of guys in the service.

Five of the guys are with this outfit, headed by Capt. Donald C. Deters, 35-year- old former Schaller doctor. The others are all first class privates, Harry Kitterman, Raymond Currie, Karl Schwab and Elmer Bennet.

The Schaller popcorn once sent a box of popcorn to the boys and it went over big. On popping night there was hardly enough to go round, so the captain wrote the factory to keep it up.

The factory did. Now the boys are sweating out their third batch of popcorn.

The other men in the outfit gladly help eat the popcorn, but in between shipments they razz the five guys about being from

Gypsy Smith, Once British Seaman, Leads Revival Here

FROM gypsy to seaman to the pulpit is a thumbnail description of the life of Gypsy Smith, jr., D. D., of Mystic, Conn., who is conducting a cooperative revival of the leading churches of Lubbock each day at 10 o'clock a. m. and at 7:30 p. m. in the First Baptist church auditorium. At Sunday evening services the 1500 seating capacity building was packed and three or four hundred people had to be turned away. To accommodate the large audiences desiring to hear Mr. Smith, the annex of the First Baptist church is being wired for sound from the speaking equipment in the main building.

Mr. Smith attributes his "success" in the evangelistic field to the fact that he does not resort to sensationalism. "I strive to appeal to a man's mind and reason. When his heart is touched then reason will take over," Mr. Smith said.

Gypsy Smith, jr., was born in northern England, son of an English mother and a full-blooded gypsy father. He received some of his education after grade school at an English public school known as Tettenall college. At the age of 15, the wanderlust strain of his gypsy forebears found an outlet when he was apprenticed to a sailingship firm for four years, sailing out of Liverpool on a ship carrying general cargo to all parts of the world. After receiving his masters license, he became junior

ARMY FIELD RATIONS

THE Army is just as much concerned as the mothers and wives at home that soldiers get enough food and that they get good food. It knows that it takes good food to put and keep an Army of young people—many still growing—in top physical condition and to build them up against deprivations they may have to endure under combat. The effect of food on the morale of an organization is well recognized by the Army and is always borne in mind as being of upmost importance.

It is expected that 2,700,000 soon will be overseas and to supply these soldiers on distant battle stations or in transit to the more than 65 areas abroad, with adequate, nutritious food, the Quartermaster corps has many new problems to solve. Troops are operating on all continents and in all types of climatic conditions from frigid Arctic wastes to blistering tropic deserts. Each area imposes a different problem, all of which are being met and solved.

Field rations are so designed that a soldier is assured of an appetizing, wholesome, nutritious meal at all times irrespective of any and all adverse conditions. They provide all the necessary calories, vitamins, carbohydrates and fats.

Field Ration K is the most widely used packaged ration in the Army. Originally developed for parachute troops, Field Ration K now may be furnished to all troops under combat conditions, for consumption either heated or cold. It's packaged in wax-dipped containers, includes breakfast, dinner and supper weighing a fraction more than two pounds, providing more than 3,300 calories. The packages are impervious to temperature, changes, vermin, moisture, cases and other food-deteriorating influences.

Breakfast consists of a can of ham and eggs or veal luncheon meat, soluble coffee and sugar. Dinner is a concentrated bouillon, a can of pork, luncheon meat or cheese. Supper is a can of sausage, a 2-ounce chocolate bar, sugar and lemon juice powder. In addition each meal includes concentrated biscuits, malted milk dextrose tablets for extra energy, chewing gum which tends to keep the mouth moist and cigarettes.

ENGLISH CHEER

A LETTER received here from Capt. Ralph Doughtie somewhere in England, tells an interesting story of a Christmas party the men of his command gave for the children of their neighborhood.

Six hundred eleven children were in attendance, ranging from five to nine years of age. About half of them were evacuees from the city, some were French and others Dutch.

Capt. Doughtie wrote, in part: "We had an orchestra, most of the players dressing like clowns and putting on quite a show. We showed movies of Mickey Mouse that all of the youngsters liked and some of the guests sang and gave acts. After the program, they lined up for ice cream and cake and later they went to see Santa Claus and each child received a gift from the tree. The gift sacks contained chocolate bars, packages of cookies, hard candy and apples. I know the kids had a great time and so did we."

Most of the goodies were made in the mess hall kitchen. They had planned to have vanilla ice cream but being unable to find the flavoring substituted chocolate. The men of the command gave up their sweets for two weeks so the children could have the treats. Some of the youngsters had not tasted ice cream for four years.

REQUESTS POEM

DEAR MARGARET: I read so many times in your column of requests and you almost always get the thing which is asked. I want that old poem, "The Tapestry Weavers." I had it several years ago and lost it. I hope you can send it to me and enclosing addressed envelope.

Thank you.
Longtime Reader.

Paxton-Roberts Marry Thursday

Miss Mary Elinor Paxton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Paxton of Sweetwater, and Lt. Richard Owen Roberts, son of Mrs. Nan Roberts of Glendale, Calif., and the late Richard Roberts of of Lubbock, were married Thursday evening at the First Christian church in Sweetwater.

The bride enrolled in Texas State College for Women, Denton, after attending Tech college for two years. She was art editor of the Denton college yearbook and president of the Art club during her senior year. She has been working at Humble Oil company, Corpus Christi, since her graduation in 1943. Her father is widely known in West Texas, being a past district governor of Rotary international.

Lt. Roberts was graduated from Tech college in 1941 and soon after was commissioned in the Army Air forces. Later he transferred to the paratroopers and has held the rank of first lieutenant for a year. He is stationed at Camp Mackall, N. C.

The bride has been given a leave of absence until her husband is sent overseas.

"Starving" Gloria Is Sent Eating Money By GI's

LONDON, Jan. 17. (U.P.) — The Army newspaper Stars and Stripes expressed sympathy for New York heiress Gloria Vanderbilt Di Cicco today in a front page story that told how five "GI joes" had sent her $2.05 to keep the wolf from her door.

Under the headline "Gloria starving on $135,000 is sent two GI bucks for a feed—plus a nickel for coffee," the article related how five enlisted men of the U. S. 8th Air force collected and sent her $2.05 after reading about the glamour girl's court difficulties.

She allegedly had found trouble in living on her allotment of $135,000 by a New York surrogate court plus the army pay of her husband, Lt. Pat Di Cicco.

The GI philanthropists who came to her aid with a money order for $2.05 were: T/Sgt. Charles W. Haggerty, jr., of East Greenwich, R. I.; Sgt. Carmen Bordonary, of Syracuse, N. Y.; Cpl. Glenmore O. Larkings, jr., of St. Louis, Mo.; Cpl. L. V. Adams, jr., of Schnectady, N. Y., and T/Sgt. Henry L. Frankenburger, of Raton, N. M.

Lieut. Douglas Adams Awaits Reassignment

MIAMI Beach, Fla., Jan. 17. (AP) Hard-fighting southerners who helped drive Italy out of the war, taught the Germans a lesson or two about the "softness" of Americans, and some who struck back at the Japanese with bomb and bullet, are taking well-earned rests here today pending reassignment.

Among those at the Army Air Forces redistribution center No. 2 at Miami Beach are:

Lieut. Douglas S. Adams, Lubbock, Texas, age 28; B-26 bombardier; flew 40 bombing missions over north Africa, Sicily, Sardinia, Pantelleria and Italy; awarded Air medal with seven oak leaf clusters.

Negro residents of Lubbock Monday night were reminded by T. A. Amos, pastor of the Colored Methodist Episcopal church, of the January 31 deadline for payment of poll taxes and urged people of his race to pay them so that they may better discharge their obligation as citizens. "Your tax will be $1.75; help these people get some money in hand so that they can give some things we need down here," Amos said.

Credit Association Sets Annual Session

Tenth anniversary of the Lubbock Production Credit association will be celebrated at its annual stockholders meeting Wednesday in Lubbock hotel, it was announced Monday by Lee F. York, secretary-treasurer.

The meeting will open at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning in the hotel's east ballroom. Attendance of 250 men and women is expected, said York.

E. R. Davis of Acuff, president and director of the association, said the stockholders would hear reports on the progress and financial position of their association as well as elect a director.

During the past 10 years, 4,358 loans amounting to more than six million dollars have been made to finance farm and ranch operations in the nine South Plains counties served by the association, according to York. The official stated that the institution has a local capital structure of over $126,000.

Other directors of the association are Roy Fitzgerald of Plains, C. E. Hicks of Meadow, G. C. Keith of Whiteface and A. R. Riley of Levelland. Counties served are Lubbock, Crosby, Hockley, Cochran, Garza, Lynn, Terry, Yoakum and Gaines.

Scrap Is Aired By Committee

AUSTIN, Jan. 17 (AP)—Unexpectedly, a joint committee of the state legislature commissioned to recodify the school laws encountered today the controversy between the state board of education and Supt. L. A. Woods.

The controversy, brewing for months, culminated recently in the board's eliminating Woods from the vocational education program, an action supported as legal in an opinion by the attorney general.

Trimble Opens Question

The legislative committee had hardly met when T. M. Trimble, first assistant to Woods in the department of education, asked.

"Does the committee favor selection of a state superintendent by a vote of the people or is it one purpose of this recodification to have the superintendent appointed by a board?"

Karl Lovelady answered that the question had never entered his mind. "We wouldn't be in a position to talk about it now," he said. "If it is brought up in hearing we might take it into consideration."

Trimble then said he wanted "to work with the committee" but he would like to know "their thinking."

Open Minds On Subject

The other committee members said they had open minds on the subject, Rep. Newton W. McCann of Texarkana adding that he would oppose appointment of the state superintendent by a board.

Maco Stewart of Galveston, vice president of the state board, said he felt recodification was a most important undertaking but suggested the committee study the legal relationship between the board and superintendent as a separate subject.

Lovelady emphasized that the committee would not become involved in a controversy.

"The legislature gave us a mandate to recodify the school laws," Lovelady asserted. "I don't say there are going to be any changes."

Laws Now "Patchwork"

The committee, he continued, will undertake a complete rewriting because the laws are now a "patchwork."

Decided upon was a procedure under which five subjects would be handled separately, a week's hearing on each. The subjects were school plant and administration, bonds and taxation, laws applicable to higher education, school districts and consolidation, and textbooks.

The State Teachers association, the county superintendents and the Congress of Parents and Teachers were invited to assist the committee.

The hearings are scheduled to begin here Thursday. Laws applicable to higher education will be taken up first, Lovelady said.

Personals

Capt. Roger L. Mills returned to the West coast Monday after a 10-day leave which he spent with his wife and son, David, who have come to Lubbock from Fort Sill, Okla., to spend the winter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Wilson, 1733 Thirtieth street. The Wilsons recently moved to Lubbock from Wichita Falls.

LAAF Sub-Depot Is All-Out For Bonds

Employes of Lubbock Army Air field 60th Sub-depot are pitching in to back Uncle Sam to the limit as their share in the Fourth War loan drive.

The all-out effort to make the soldiers' word their Bond has resulted in 100 per cent participation in the January drive, for 10 per cent or more of payroll reservation, plus additional cash sales of bonds.

In addition, all officers of the sub-depot, of which Maj. Folsom Hayward is commander, have signed up individually for bonds.

During the Third War loan drive in September, employes of the sub-depot almost tipped the scales at 100 per cent, but this time, answering the call of their country at the beginning of what may be the most decisive year of the war, have gone over the top. During the last drive, the personnel bought over $12,000 worth of bonds, exclusive of payroll deduction. They expect to top that figure this time, also.

Safer laundering!

1. INFERIOR BLEACHES sometimes do this to cottons and linens because their action is uncontrolled.

2. PLAIN WASHING means too much rubbing to get things white. This also is very hard on fabrics.
3. WITH PUREX you can avoid both dangers. Used as directed, Purex whitens gently—with controlled action. Safer than inferior bleaches or extra rubbing. Linens last longer.

Demo Chiefs Plan Session, With Roosevelt In Saddle

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (U.P.) — The Democratic national committee meets here this week probably to elect a new chairman and to prepare for the 1944 campaign in which President Roosevelt now generally is regarded as an inevitable fourth term candidate.

There is little support here for reports that southern states would bolt a Roosevelt candidacy. But many persons do believe that Mr. Roosevelt is the only Democrat who would have a chance to carry such vital states as Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey.

Only One With Chance

Therefore, practical politicians hereabouts incline to the belief that Mr. Roosevelt is the only Democrat with a chance to win this year. The national committee meeting is likely to develop some fourth term enthusiasm and there is no hint that it will be discouraged from the White House. The committee's scheduled business is to select the time and place of the nominating convention. Chicago mid-July is expected to be the decision.

Further supporting the spreading belief that Mr. Roosevelt has decided to remain in the White House if he can is the similarity between political events now and in the winter of 1939-40. Then many of his closest associates including James A. Farley were insisting that he would not attempt to break the third term tradition.

Roosevelt Non-Commital

Then as now the president refused to say what his plans were. And then as now he permitted Democratic national convention delegates to be pledged to him. The New Hampshire Democratic organization last week nominated a slate of convention delegates committed to a fourth term. In 1939-40 when Paul V. McNutt, John N. Garner and others began to indulge their own presidential aspirations, they found every major maneuver blocked simply because party leaders in general were awaiting word from Mr. Roosevelt before risking a commitment elsewhere.

The leaders waited until after the Democratic national convention had assembled in Chicago with a majority of delegates pledged to the president for a third term. He then announced that he would release them and they promptly made him their candidate.

Expect Same Sequence

Political observers expect the sequence of events to be similar this year despite unquestionable bitter feeling within the party and the evidence in 1942 and 1943 elections that the New Deal-Democratic coalition created by Mr. Roosevelt in 1932 is in disrepair.

The national committee will assemble here Jan. 22 under the chairmanship of Frank C. Walker, the third man to hold that office under Mr. Roosevelt. James A. Farley, who performed the preconvention magic which led to Mr. Roosevelt's first nomination in 1932, remained to manage the spectacularly successful 1936 campaign in which the Democrats lost only two states, Maine and Vermont.

Farley resigned after the 1940 Democratic national convention because he objected to the breaking of the two-term presidential tradition.

He was succeeded by Edward J. Flynn, Democratic boss of the Bronx in New York City. Flynn managed the 1940 campaign and demanded as a reward appointment as ambassador to Mexico. Failing that, he accepted nomination to head our diplomatic mission to Australia.

Blocked By Senate

Flynn resigned the national committee chairmanship on Jan. 18, 1943 to accept the diplomatic job but had failed to reckon with the Senate where determination to refuse confirmation of the party chairman for foreign service was so evident that Mr. Roosevelt withdrew the nominatoin.

Mr. Roosevelt had lost his committee chairman under somewhat embarrassing circumstances and Walker—long a loyal and efficient administration trouble shooter — took the job temporarily. He wants to resign now and will do so Saturday unless Mr. Roosevelt insists that he remain. He is expected to be succeeded by Robert E. Hannegan, of St. Louis, who recently was named commissioner of internal revenue.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (AP) — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said today that she had canceled her scheduled appearance before the American Federation of Labor executive committee meeting in Miami, Fla., this week because of the scheduled arrival Wednesday of the President of Venezuela.

PRESIDENT'S $750,000,000 POSTWAR HIGHWAY NETWORK—The map above, prepared from one accompanying President's message, showes suggested 33,920-mile highway network he submitted to Congress. Designed to promote future economic welfare and defense, and help alleviate post-war employment problem, the chain would link 587 cities of 10,000 or more population and connect Mexican and Canadion borders. Estimated cost is $750,000,000, almost equally divided between urban and rural sections of the system.

Sisters Wanted Their Pekinese In Doghouse, Too

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 17. (U.P.) — Justice stopped today for a dog.

The sisters Mary and Evelyn Patterson, 60 and 53 respectively, were before U. S. Commissioner Charles H. Thompson on a removal hearing to take them to Minneapolis on a mail fraud charge.

They asked for a continuance, although indicating willingness to be removed. They explained that they wanted to see that their prized Pekinese dog — their constant companion between "hitches" on shoplifting and mail fraud charges—was assured of good care while they were away.

They already had given George Carpenter, a postal inspector, $600 to see that the dog received proper care. They told him they wanted the animal removed to a Chicago kennel, its home on similar occasions in the past.

Commissioner Thompson agreed that such a request was worthy of merit. He set the removal hearing for Jan. 28 and the preliminary here for Jan. 27.

Patman Flays War Goods Disposal Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (AP) — Chairman Patman (D-Tex) of the House small business committee said today that the government "is using the same haphazard methods" in the disposal of surplus war goods "which brought near chaos to our economic structure" after the last war.

He proposed to the banking committee enactment of his bill to give the Reconstruction Finance corporation control of the disposition and sale of all such property, with precautions against private speculators but with due regard for private enterprise.

Under Patman's bill, the RFC would appoint an advisory committee for each class of property which is to be sold or leased. These groups would advise on price, time, method and manner of disposing such property.

LABOR UNIONS

Editor, The Avalanche: In regard to these labor unions, there has been lots said about so-and-so being against labor. I want to state my opinion. There never was anyone against labor. Where the trouble comes is in labor leaders wanting to dominate the world. I think most all workers want to do what is right. The Good Man built this world with labor. Everything is built with labor and that means work and more work if the job is done. But the good people don't want a bunch of unbelievers of the Bible to tell them when to work, who to work and what to pay and stand at the gate with a club and knock someone in the head if he doesn't do just the way they say.

There has been more fussing and trouble since this labor union started than ever before in all times in regard to labor. Work and labor is the same thing. People made a living before this union ever started. They had less trouble and I feel sure they felt lots better because they didn't know anything about strikes, getting mad, cursing and fighting—just any way so they could get what they wanted. What laws have been made against these unions doesn't seem to be worth much if anything. It looks like these politicians are afraid to do anything against these unions, or say anything because they might lose some votes.

Where did the labor union start and what class of folks started it? Yes, this Communist party will have to make a big change from the route they were going before the war if we are going to have a lasting peace. Of course, we hope they will do this. I happened to get a chance to read a letter from the Communist party from the headquarters at Houston. The leaders stated they wanted all the people to vote for Roosevelt and do everything he stood for. And if they don't do this they are branded as Fascists—individuals who oppose its idea of facing complete control of industry by labor. These Communist labor leaders and also this whisky crowd will put out all kinds of bait to fool the good people. They talk very smart and boast big and loud. I listened to them different times on this roundtable discussion and ever now and then they would use the words "shut up or put up." I heard this whisky crowd used the same words which I never heard used by the good people. I used the word monster sometime back for these Communist union leaders. Some little man made out like I meant it for the man he voted for and he sure did go up in the air. I must have stepped on his toe too hard.

Lours truly,
C. R. Styles, Lubbock.

Stronger System Of Social Security Sought By Board

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (U.P.) — The Social Security board today urged Congress to provide a "stronger system" of social security, including expansion of coverage, new types of protection such as hospital and medical expenses, and federal unemployment insurance to replace the existing state systems.

In an annual report to Congress, Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer called for these five principal provisions under an expanded social security program:

1. Old-age survivors' insurance for more than 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 persons now excluded, such as farm and household workers, employes of public organizations and non-profit institutions, and self-employed persons.

Armed Forces Protection

2. Protection of social security rights of persons in the armed forces.

3. Insurance against total loss of income resulting from permanent or total disability.

4. Insurance to cover hospital and medical expenses.

5. Substitution of national unemployment insurance for the 51 separate state and territorial systems which "exclude millions of wage and salary earners."

The board said the "stronger system" would cost no more than 12 per cent of covered payrolls during the next decade and would "operate more simply and more economically," iron out present inequities, make protection available for all workers, and assure financial soundness.

Now Said Auspicious Time

The board said the time for building a new system was short but that the present was "singularly auspicious" for a start because taxable earnings were at a record high and higher insurance payments would not only lessen inflationary pressure but would build resources against post-war readjustments.

The report once again reflected the difference between the administration and Congress on the subject of social security taxes. The payroll tax on employes and employers was scheduled to have doubled last year but Congress, overriding administration protests, froze them at the one per cent level. A bill to retain the freeze for another year has already passed the Senate and is before the House.

The board said that job opportunities presented the public in the 1943 fiscal year showed that all the people "both men and women, the aged, the handicapped and the children—wish to maintain economic independence and will work to do so." It cited these facts for the past year:

Many Postpone Benefits

More than 600,000 persons past 65 postponed old-age and survivors' insurance benefits to continue working, "the bulk of them for the war effort."

Nearly 120,000 retired workers and survivors of insured workers on benefit rolls in June, 1943, were foregoing benefits because they worked in covered jobs.

Unemployment insurance payments in June 1943 were only about one-fifth of those in June, 1942.

During the fiscal year the number of families receiving aid to dependent children decreased one fourth.

"Even in the prosperous past fiscal year," the report said, about 1,300,000 persons drew compensation for an average of 10 weeks of unemployment.

Soldier, Remembering Tragedy, Offers Skin

EL PASO, Jan. 17. (U.P.) — Pfc. John Owen of Biggs field, whose daughter died from severe burns two years ago, today offered his skin to save Tony Miller, Houston boy who was burned last year.

"I know the grief that the boys' parents are going through," he said. "I went through the same uncertainty for 12 hours."

His child's clothing accidentally was set afire by a playmate.

A resident of Joplin, Mo., Owen came to Biggs field in June. He has a five-year-old son in Joplin.

Ordinary fruit jelly applied to the face is said to be a first class beauty preparation.

Here Are Views On Home Coming

By OLEN CLEMENTS
Associated Press Staff Writer

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Jan. 17 In this area, American males in the armed forces, almost to a man, want to go home. The women, mostly nurses, do not.

In knocking around the Pacific islands and Australia for the better part of the last two years I have heard many service men and women on that subject.

Men in uniform wax long, loud and eloquent. To them the continental United States represents everything they want in life—home, family anl friends. They picture everything back there as it was when they left—to go to war. That is the way they want it when they get back, too.

Have Seen Changes

The women, on the other hand, have for the most part left the states after the men and they have seen many of the changes that all-out war has wrought on the homeland. They know about rationing, about all of the boys being away.

Usually if you ask a service man if he is anxious to get back hame, he stares at you incredulously for a moment and blurts, "Are you kiddin'?"

To the same question, every nurse I have ever asked has answered: "I kind of like it out here," or "I'd just about as soon be out here for the duration."

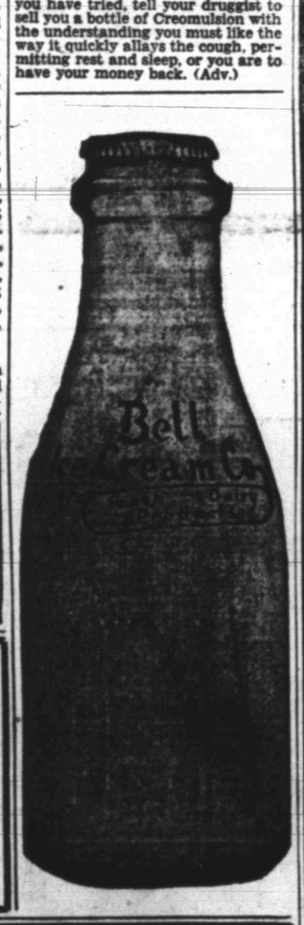

Boiled down, I suppose, the whole thing may be explained this way: The boys want to go home because that is where the girls are. And the girls want to stay here because that's where the boys are.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

Farm Paper Selects Martin And Karper As "Men Of The Year In Texas Agriculture"

W. P. Martin, Lubbock county farmer who developed Martin's Combine Maize, and R. E. Karper, member of the staff of the Texas Agricultural Experiment station for 28 years who now makes his home in Lubbock, were selected by the Progressive Farmer, Southern farm magazine, as "Men Of The Year In Texas Agriculture" in the January issue of the publication.

Martin was singled out for his development of the short stubby maize which proved so popular in this area in the past three years and solved the manpower problem through mechanical harvesting.

Significant Development

Karper's recognition came for his research work in grain sorghums and the development of Waxy Kafir and Waxy Milo in addition to the combine types.

"In making its 1942 'Man of the Year Award' for Texas, the Progressive Farmer is honoring not one but two men who are largely responsible for the most significant farm development of the year," the magazine article which carried pictures of the two men along with photographs of sample sorghum heads. "West Texas farmers no longer grow in quantity the old-fashioned grain sorghums which were often harvested by laborious hand heading. Within a few years, they have shifted almost exclusively to the new dwarf, machine-harvested sorghums that can be combined at the rate of 12 to 15 acres a day. Credit for the development of these labor-saving sorghums belongs in a large degree to two men—one a farmer, W. P. Martin, the other a research worker, R. E. Karper, agronomist in charge of sorghum investigation, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Effects Cropping System

"These improved grain sorghums are having a tremendous effect on the cropping system of the Plains country," the article continued. "Coming as they have at a time of extreme labor shortage, combine milos have saved the day for thousands of farmers. Farmers are finding these sorghums, which return $30 to $40 an acre as grain, a more profitable cash crop than cotton with its exacting demand for high-priced hand labor. For these reasons, many farmers have been influenced to plant grain on acres that ordinarily would grow cotton.

"In their work with grain sorghums, Karper and his associates have found that they lend themselves readily to modern breeding technique. Over the years many improved varieties and strains have been produced. Among those recently developed are Bonita, Early Hegari, Plainsman, Caprock, Waxy Kafir and Waxy Milo. Another recent accomplishment is a new, sweet-stemmed Sudan grass that is highly palatable and disease resistant, and has a glume color that enables one to readily distinguish its seed from those of Johnson grass.

Larger Yields Seen

"Karper believes that the sorghum breeding work is still in the initial stages and that the future will yield many other notable improvements in the crop. For one thing, hybrid sorghum seed that will give the farmer large increases in acre-yield, due to hybrid vigor, may be a matter of only a few years.

"Plant breeders are not able to reason on their honors," the article continued. "New problems are constantly popping up to test their breeding skill. As an illustration, after many years work in producing high yielding grain sorghums, the Texas Station found their work largely at naught when root rot swept the station and threatened the very existence of the milo crop in Texas. This was the same disease that influenced W. P. Martin to begin his notable work with Wheatland milo. But Karper and his associates soon came up with the root rot-resistant Texas milo, and in few short years practically every Texas farmer in the infested area had quit the old milo and had taken up the new variety.

"It is interesting to note that Martin took a sorghum that was already suitable for machine harvesting and made it useful to farmers by developing its root rot-resistance. On the other hand, Karper started with the root rot-resistance and bred high yielding dwarf type, straight-headed milos that would combine readily. As a result of this work, the Texas Station now has two combine-type varieties to offer Texas farmers—Plainsman for the Plains country and Caprock for Central and South Texas. Both are selections from a kafir-milo hybrid, taking their stout vesting, and resistance to root rot from their kafir parent. In the two varieties, Martin's Combine milo and the Plainsman—the Plains country now has two combine grain sorghum varieties that will work well together, since there is a difference in their maturity dates.

Karper Praises Associates

"In talking with Karper regarding his work with grain sorghums, he is quick to point out that he had valuable assistance from his associates on the staff of the Texas Station. Don Jones and Frank Gaines of the Lubbock station had a notable part in the development of the Plainsman variety, while J. R. Quinby and J. C. Stevens of the Chillicothe station are the two other Texas research workers mainly concerned with sorghum work. In fact, Karper and Quinby have been teaming up on grain sorghum research for a number of years. They are now working to make a combine type out of their recently developed waxy kafir, which has a promising future as a source of tapioca starch. Aside from his work with grain sorghums, Karper has many other outstanding accomplishments. To us, one of the most notable was his introduction of the Chinese elm, which has beautified West Texas and tempered its sometimes harsh winds.

"It sometimes seems that farm progress is distressingly slow," the magazine article said in conclusion. "But when Texas farmers really go for an idea, it spreads like wildfire. Years ago sudan swept the state; later, it was the trench silo; and still later—the root rot resistant Texas milo. Now the swing is to combine sorghums. In 1941, about 15 per cent of the Texas grain sorghum crop was planted to dwarf combine varieties; in 1942, about 40 per cent, while by 1943 the necessity for speed and economy in harvesting had boosted the increase to 80 per cent of the total. The Progressive Farmer is happy to make its 1943 award to the two men most responsible for this remarkable development—one of the most revolutionary and far reaching changes in West Texas agriculture in recent years."

SPAAF Boxers Set For Golden Gloves

Leather slinging took the sports spotlight at South Plains Army Air field late Monday afternoon as plans were announced for SPAAF boxers to participate in the annual District Golden Gloves tournament at Texas Tech's gym Feb. 3, 4 and 5.

Official sanction for AAF Training command personnel to participate in Golden Gloves tournaments has been received at the big glider pilot training center.

Capt. Nathan B. Eubank, athletic officer at the field, and S/Sgt. Bob Rings, trainer of the SPAAF boxers, announced that six men already were all set to make a bid for ring honors and that several other hopefuls were working out.

The AAF leather merchants already set for action include a heavyweight, two middleweights, a welterweight and two lightweights. Some have had enough experience to be called veterans, others are rank amateurs ready to step in and make their bid.

Sgt. Clyde Jones of Perryton, Texas, is the heavyweight prospect. Jones won the state TAAF title in Abilene in 1938 as a light heavy and added the All Service Southwestern title in 1941.

The two middleweights include Sgt. Kenneth Young of Jersey City, N. J., and Sgt. Ernie McGarrity, former all 'round Tennessee university athletic standout.

Pfc. Ardis Ward, a confident 147-pound welterweight, who looks impressive in workouts, hails from Salt Lake City, Utah. He won the Inter Mountain States lightweight AAU title in 1941, has had 50 fights, lost only eight of them. He is a full fledged welter now.

Pfc. Milton Papps will carry SPAAF's and New York City's colors into the tournament as a lightweight. His experience was gained in amateur clubs in Gotham, has two years experience back of him.

Sgt. Jack Dugan is the other lightweight contender, hails from Philadelphia where he fought about 40 amateur bouts, winning about 75 per cent of them.

"These are only the starters. We should have several other promising contenders," Sgt. Rings, former ranking middleweight, said as he sent the men through their training paces. Rings, who hails from Detroit, Mich., won the Michigan state Golden Gloves title two years in a row, was national runner-up in 1935, has 147 amateur and pro fights, is aiding the SPAAF team materially with his valuable experience.

Tickets will be printed this week, Morley Jennings, tournament director announced yesterday. Prices for the tournament will be 50 cents for general admission soldiers tickets, or the soldier can bring his "date" for the same price (total of one dollar for couple), civilian general admission tickets will be 75 cents and ringside seats for all fans are $1.10. These prices include tax.

Childress Cage Five Postpones Tilt Here

The scheduled appearance here tonight of the high flying Childress Army Air Field cage five in a battle at the Lubbock Army Air Field court has been postponed "for military reasons" it was announced late Monday evening by the public relations office at LAAF.

The word was received Monday at the local field from the Childress officials stating that army maneuvers made it impossible for the team to come here at this time. Another date for the game, sometime late in February, will be announced soon.

Hornsby To Fly Down For Mexican Conflab

FORT WORTH, Jan. 17. (AP) — Rogers Hornsby, general manager of the Fort Worth ball club, is scheduled to fly to Mexico City Wednesday for a conference with Mexican baseball officials about taking a job promoting baseball in Mexico.

Hornsby's meeting with Jorge Pasquel, owner of the Vera Cruz club, was arranged by a St. Louis sports writer.

Favorites Win Cage Victories At LAAF

Bruce Prior, star performer of the league leading 84th Air Base Squadron cage five, took almost personal charge of seeing that his team remained undefeated in the league play Monday night at the Lubbock Army Air Field court, and led them to to a 56 to 29 win over the third place Finance Department club.

Prior ran his season's scoring record in the league to a high 120 points in six games as the 84th hung up it's sixth straight league win. Prior accounted for 24 of these points, while Dixon accounted for 13 for runnerup honors and give the pair a total of 37 points between them.

The winners held a 32-to-11 lead at the halfway mark.

Outstanding players with the losers were McNelly and Wagner.

The second place 498th Squadron five kept pace with the leaders by turning in a 53-to-21 win over the Medical Detachment five with Sellers and Harris pacing the winners to the victory. Sellers retained his third place rating in the scoring race by dropping in 18 points while Harris accounted for 15 more. Foll paced the Medics with 10 points while Hanson and Starburck also turned in some good play. The winners held a 27-to-12 lead at the halftime.

The 495th Squadron cagers moved into undisputed third place in the race by romping to a 57-to-26 victory over the 1017 Guard Squadron five, handing the Guardsmen their seventh straight loss in a row. The winners piled up a 29-to-9 halftime lead, then coasted in with the win.

Elrod continued to hold the runnerup post in the scoring race by dropping in 17 points for a league total of 99 points while his team mate, Grieser dropped in 13 points to move into fourth place in the scoring race with 75 points.

Bowles and Janda were outstanding performers for the Guardsmen with Bowles pacing the scoring with seven points.

Grove, Weeks Lead Red Raiders Scoring

The Texas Tech Red Raiders will pin their hopes on three "hotshots" here Saturday night as the team plays host to the New Mexico University Lobos in a basketball game that will offer the only meeting here for the year of Border Conference cage teams.

Much of the hopes of the Red Raiders will ride on the shoulder of Don Grove, Nolan Weeks and Delbert Cooper, the first and last of these are New Mexico lads from Monument while Weeks hails from Fort Worth.

The race between Grove and Weeks for the scoring honors on the Red Raiders has been a close battle all season with Grove at present holding an advantage over Weeks with a 104 point total to 93 for the Texan. Both lads have accounted for 38 field goals, but Grove holds his edge in free throws.

Cooper has dropped in 20 field goals and four free tosses for 44 points to rank third in the scoring race.

New Mexico has lost only two games this season, dropping a one-point affair to Colorado in a wild battle that saw the Colorado five win on a final second field goal. The other was the season's opener with Kirtland Field.

The Lobos have since beaten Kritland Field twice, getting the second win Saturday night by a 46 to 39 margin. New Mexico is reported to have a number of stars with major basketball experience, and transplanted at New Mexico in the Naval training program.

Tickets for the game will go on sale Saturday morning at the Tech athletic office. Soldiers and their wives will be admitted for 25 cents each, general admission is 50 cents.

Point A Minute Army Five Face Engineers At Tech Gym Tonight

The South Plains Army Air Field's Winged Commandos, scorching the hardwood courts with a point-a-minute scoring average for the season, and the ever threatening Texas Tech Engineers Unit open the week's play in the Lubbock Basketball League at 7 o'clock tonight in the Texas Tech gym.

The game tonight promises to develop into a scoring duel between SPAAF's All-American, Leason McCloud from Colorado, and John Kline, another top notcher from Ohio University and the Engineer stars of Reinecke and Bailey, with the Techsans boasting of a third threat in Booth.

Reinecke, a product of Wooster Tech in Wooster, Mass., and Bailey from Southern California, have been the top aces of the Engineers all through the early season games, but in the league opener last week with Lubbock Army Air Field, Booth grabbed the league scoring lead and looms as a top ranking star of the loop.

The probable starters for the game will find SPAAF starting McCloud and Kline at forwards, Conley at center, with Edwards and Kalfain at guards. The Techsans listed a probable starting lineup of Lenahan and Bailey at forwards, Booth at center, with Reinecke and Kooi at guards.

Both clubs have some strong reserve strength to back up the starting fives, and both are reported to be in top shape for the battle tonight. This will be the third meeting between the two teams, and the rubber game of the series. It will be the first meeting of the teams in the league, and the opener for SPAAF while the Engineers lost their lone start by one point to LAAF last week.

In the two meetings, the Engineers won the first game early in the season by a 47 to 39 margin over the Fliers. Less than two weeks ago, the Winged Commandos evened the count with a 58 to 43 win.

League play will be continued Thursday at SPAAF with the Commandos playing hosts to the LAAF Fliers and again Saturday with the Engineers moving into LAAF for a chance to even the league series with the Fliers.

NAVY GETS SCHOOLBOY

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 17. (AP)—Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, veteran major league pitcher now with the Philedelphia Phillies, has been assigned to the Navy after passing his pre-induction physical examination here, it was announced today.

Mexico produces more silver than any other country in the world, exporting almost all its output.

Westerners Invade Lamesa For Double Bill Tonight

The Lubbock Westerners will invade Lamesa tonight for a cage double header with Volney Hill's Lamesa Golden Tornados with both the A and B team seeking to make it two in a row over the Hillmen.

Coach Dixie White said Monday night that he would start Cope and Crawford at forwards, Manderson at center, Moore and his B team starters will probably be Grimes, Price, Laxon, Walker and Lindsey.

The Westerner A team won a 50-32 victory over Lamesa in the first meeting of the two clubs here while Johnny Pearson brought a close 28-27 win for the B team with a field goal in the last 13 seconds of the ball game.

The Westerners are expecting plenty of trouble in repeating the double win enjoyed here, and with the Lamesa lads on their home court the game is expected to develop into a real battle.

Just what men Coach Hill will start had not been announced here, but his starters are expected to be much the same lineups as he used in the games in Lubbock.

The only other game on the schedule for the week for the Westerners is Friday night's battle here with the Plainview Bulldogs for the second game of the playoff for the Southhalf championship of District 1-AA.

The Westerners gained an early advantage in this series with a 25 to 15 victory over the Bulldogs last Friday at Plainview, and will face a team here Friday night that will be battling to even the count.

New Leaders Appear In Basketball Wars

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—Camp Grant and Iowa in the Midwest and Albright in the East moved to the top of the unbeaten college basketball list today following Depaul's surprise defeat by little Valparaiso of Indiana.

Valparaiso rudely ended Depaul's hopes of an unbeaten season by upsetting the Chicagoans, 65-57, ending the Demons' 13-game winning streak.

Camp Grant now has won 13 in a row. Iowa and Albright each boast seven straight.

Leading developments of a week which saw play restricted mostly to sectional contests, including the 15-12 victory Penn State scored over Pitt; Temple's five-game winning streak shattered by St. John's of Brooklyn; the two victories of the Norfolk, Va., Naval Training Station over the Norfolk Naval Air Station and Duke; Idaho's upset of Washington state; the two-game split between Rice and Arkansas; and Ohio State's two triumphs over Indiana.

SPAAF Squad Loop Cagers Play Tonight

The hot South Plains Army Air field squadron cage league competition swings into the spotlight again tonight at the SPAAF post recreation hall with two games involving three first division and one second division team.

The feature of the night's hardwood menu sends the high scoring 848th team against the Student Detachment five, in sixth place. The 848th boys currently are deadlocked with the 356th colored squadron for second place, each with three wins and one setback. The second game on tonight's card will find the fourth place Squadron I team tangling with the 356th squad.

When the shooting is over the standings may be somewhat different in the top division. The league's high scoring player, Sgt. William J. Besson of the 848th will get a chance to boost his total points which now stand at 46, 25 of them in one game.

Other scoring leaders also will have their eyes on the basket in an effort to lead their mates to victory and boost their own totals. Pvt. Cecil Cotton of Frankfort, Ky., star of the 356th squadron and among the high scorers will get a chance to boost his total.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 17. (AP)—The highest basketball score in many years was registered here Sunday in a game between two Catholic high school teams. Resurrection defeated Christ the King, 192 to 31.

PASSES PHYSICAL

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 17 (U.P.) — Fritzie Zivic, former welterweight champion, today passed his final draft examination here and was ready for "the biggest fight of my career."

Nelson Wins Victory Open

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17. (AP) —Shattering par for the fourth successive day, Byron Nelson of Toledo, Ohio, won the $10,000 San Francisco Victory Open golf tournament today with a 72-hole total of 275, to finish 13 strokes under par for the course.

The husky former Texas caddy, approaching the brilliant brand of golf that won him the National Open championship in 1939 and the Professional Golfers' association title in 1940, put together rounds of 68-69-70-68.

Nelson's sub-par dash from start to finish earned him top prize of $2,400 in war bonds. He teed off as the favorite and led at the end of each round. His feats along the way included an eagle 3 on the 469-yard 12th hole; his defections were limited to taking three putts on two greens, one on the 18th yesterday and one on the fifth today. He hit one bad tee shot during the 72 holes on the 13th today when he drove a ball out of bounds. Otherwise his golf was faultless, the championship kind.

Nelson's chief rival, Harold "Jug" McSpaden of Philadelphia, took second prize with a 72-hole total of 281—six shots behind the winner but still seven under par. McSpaden, who won the Los Angeles Open and $4,375 in war bonds a week ago, picked up $1,600 in bonds today.

He carded three 70's and finished with a 71 in the final round.

Lloyd Mangrum of Monterey Park, Calif., and Sam Byrd of Detroit finished in a tie for third place at 282. Mangrum, who dons a soldier's uniform tomorrow, chalked up a final round 71 and at the 14th hole today was deadlocked with McSpaden for second place. He flopped on the next two holes. Byrd, one time outfielder for the New York Yankees, ended up with a par 72 and he and Mangrum divided third and fourth places prizes, each winning $1,062.50.

Mangrum carded 69-72-71-71, Byrd 72-69-70-72.

George Fazio of Pine Valley, N. J., comparative newcomer to the charmed circle, toured the course in 70-72-73-73—288, even par.

Three tied at 289—Art Bell, San Francisco and Mark Fry of Oakland both former California Open champions, and John Bulla of Chicago.

OUR PLEDGE

I/E pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands; One Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

Spend, And Spend, And Tax!

VERY few people are qualified to have so much as an opinion as to what the real need may be for the 100-billion dollar budget the President has proposed for the fiscal year which begins next July 1.

But they can grasp, without too much difficulty, that it amounts to around $725 for every man, woman and child in the United States. They also can comprehend that the anticipated national debt of 258 billion dollars at the end of that year would equal $1,877 for every person in the nation.

Whether this might be extremely bad for the nation, few people can pretend to know. Certainly we do not. But the figures form the basis for interesting comparisons with others bearing on governmental costs in the past.

For example, the official government figures disclose that, not until the Civil war, did the total cost of the entire government ever run to as much as $100,000,000 in a single year. In 1860, this cost was only $63,000,000. In this connection, some may recall that, just the other day, Administrator Chester Bowles of the Office of Price Administration actually boasted that the operating cost of $155,000,000 for OPA this year represents "a remarkable record in economical operation." The operation of this one agency among the hundreds now included in the government cost nearly three times as much as the entire government during any year through 1860, and Mr. Bowles is proud of it. He may have cause for pride, at that.

Not until American entry in World War I did government expenditures run over a billion dollars in a single year. They reached a peak of 18 billions in 1919 dropped to six billion in 1920, to around five billion in 1921, and then held between three and four billions per year until generous Mr. Roosevelt went into office.

Then they started soaring until they reached a post-war peak of more than nine billions in 1939, approximately $70 per capita. Yet this was less than one-tenth of the expenditures proposed for the coming year. The cost per capita during the next year, as proposed, will be approximately 25 times as much as the $32 during the year before Mr. Roosevelt went into office. The prospective national debt will be approximately 14 times as much as the $135 per capita at the time he became President. It is more than six times as much as the $308 in 1939.

True, none of this has bearing on the need for the money Mr. Roosevelt has asked. But all the comparisons prove is, that among all the costs that the American citizen has had to assume, none has increased so enormously nor with such rapidity as the cost of government during the Franklin D. Roosevelt regin.

Contributing Americans

NEWSWEEK Magazine recently asked 70 students of public affairs this question: "Who, in your opinion, and the 10 Americans, in government, the Armed Forces or civil life, who have made the greatest contribution of leadership to the nation during the first two years of our formal participation in the war?"

The results were interesting and, perhaps, significant. Interesting is the fact that General Marshall, Army chief-of-staff, was named on more lists than was the President.

Perhaps significant was the fact that, among the first 24 names, only two have been closely identified with bureaucracy. Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production board, was placed seventh. Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, trailed along in 16th position. If any one on earth ever was drafted for a job that he doesn't want and would like to relinquish, it is Mr. Nelson. Mr. Ickes, whether he deserves it or not, typifies in much of the public mind all that is worst in bureaucracy.

Thus, it is apparent that one large segment of informed opinion doesn't think too much of the contribution bureaucrats have made, and are making, to the victory effort.

The "first 10" and the number of lists on which their names appeared, follow: General Marshall, 66; Mr. Roosevelt, 63; Secretary of State Hull, 48; Wendell Willkie, 47; General Eisenhower, 41; Bernard M. Baruch, 38; Henry J. Kaiser, 35; General MacArthur, 28; Mr. Nelson, 27; and Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the U. S. fleet, 23. The 'also rans" listed John L. Lewis with two votes, one with the notation, "substantially bad."

A fool may be depended upon to take a decided and pugnacious stand on any question. He never sits quietly on a neutral fence.

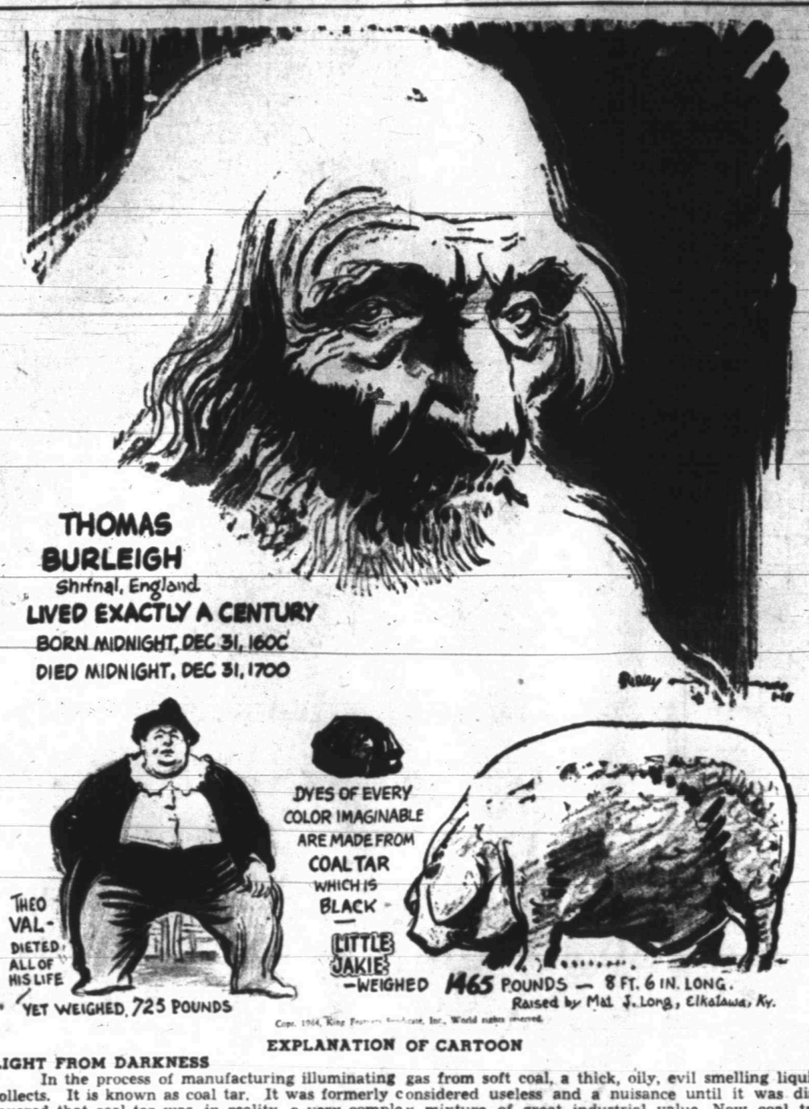

The One Minute Sermon

Repent ye therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out, when the times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord;

And he shall send Jesus Christ, which before war preached unto you;

Whom the heaven must receive until the times of restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began.—Acts 3; 19 through 21

EXPLANATION OF CARTOON

LIGHT FROM DARKNESS

In the process of manufacturing illuminating gas from soft coal, a thick, oily, evil smelling liquid collects. It is known as coal tar. It was formerly considered useless and a nuisance until it was discovered that coal tar was, in reality, a very complex mixture of great industrial value. Now coal tar is the starting material for many great and important industries. More than a thousand varieties of the most beautiful and brilliant dyestuffs are distilled from the evil looking black substance serving to impart all the colors of the rainbow to fabrics.

Gideon Planish

By SINCLAIR LEWIS
Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.
Copyright, 1943, Sinclair Lewis—

THE STORY: As an undergraduate in 1910 Gid Planish had wanted to save the world. As an English professor at Kinnikinick College in 1921, he is well-steemed but vaguely dissatisfied with his lot. He feels he is meant for better things. He also would like to be married.

VI

PROFESSOR GIDEON PLANISH was not satisfied with the workings of Providence, at the beginning of this college year of 1921-22. He was not satisfied with Teckla Schaum. Oh, she admired him in her shallow womanly way, but she did not understand the complications of a statesman's career.

She couldn't tell him how to jump from college to the Senate chamber without going through a lot of sticky handshaking. She actually thought he might go on teaching.

One of his most prickly grievances was that in this small college, with only thirty-one on the faculty, he had to take the huge required freshman class in Introductory Rhetoric and Composition. To process this knotty raw material of almost a hundred freshmen of every state of sex and unenlightenment was to pant and strain at an intellectual assembly line. Yet all that Teckla said about it was, "You ought to feel that it's a privilege to stir up all these young minds."

So it was with a shaky feeling of having been unjustly used that he began his first lecture to the class in Freshman Rhetoric.

"Young ladies and gentlemen, let us start this consortium, in which we are compelled to be associated for the next nine months, nine long months (he did get a smile on that line) by firmly understanding certain fundamental principles. Doubtless some of you are Shakespears, piping your native woodnotes wild, but for most of us, the magic art of Rhetroic is rules, rules, rules and yet more rules.

"I shall tell you, and I shall expect acute attention when I tell you, what the Masters have decided, in all such supreme mysteries as style, beauty, conciseness, aspirations toward the Divine, the correct ratio, in fiction, of analysis and narrative and description to dialog, scientific paragraphing, appeal to the nobler emotions such as love and patriotism, the accepted punctuation and gosh—"

The last word had not been said aloud.

He couldn't be sure that her name did begin with an A or B, the girl at the right end of the center section of the front row, for the ushers had not yet assorted the class alphibetically. Maybe she was sitting there so close to him because she wanted to listen to him. But whether she began with an A or a B or a C or a Z, she was his true love forever.

It was true that her shoulders, like his own, were menaced by plumpness, but her legs were sleek, her ankles fairly thin, and if her little paws, twisted together on the writing tablet of her chair as she listened to him, were not so delicate, they were white and sweet and shapely. And her face was as amusing as a monkey's, round and pert. She had wise and determined for a girl who couldn't be over nineteen, and her friendly lips, not tight nor thin, kept moving with excitement. Her highpride was her brown hair, shining like polished walnut and, unusual here and now, not bobbed but flauntingly feminine.

When all the others had gone, after only half a hundred fool questions about hours and assignments and at what sort of an establishment did one accomplish the abnormal feat of buying a book, he saw that she was still waiting, at one side of the room.

She came up to his platform-table. Who said her shoulders were too plump? Why, they were lustrous and soft for a man to lay his head—

"May I bother you a moment, Professor?"

"What is it?"

(These were, definitely, the first words between the celebrated Romeo and Juliet of Kinnikinick.)

"I want to see if you'll let me take Oral Interpretation of the Drama."

"That's an upper-class subject."

"I know. I just want to take it as an auditor, without credit."

"Isn't your schedule full?"

"I'll say!" She shuddered.

"Then why do you want to take it?"

"Oh, I think maybe I might be an actress and—"

"Yes?"

"And I'd like to have another class with you!"

She was delicately shameless.

"My dear young lady—" Then his flatulent academic tone changed into a boyish demand: "What's your name?"

"Peony Jackson. From Faribault, Minnesota. I was on the platform when you got off the train."

"Peony— Miss Jackson— you don't want to take that Oral Interpretation junk. It's a lot of stupid analysis."

"Well, I came here to get educated, didn't I?"

He felt a tiny chill. "Did you?"

"That's what they claim!"

"Don't give it a thought."

"I won't!" They laughed, like freshmen, or very aged professors.

"I betcha I learn enough here so's the court will let me get married."

"And who may this be that you are going to marry?" Very coldly.

"I haven't got the slightest idea."

Was it possible that she was looking at him with appraisal?

"Look, Miss Jackson—Peony. I've got the idea. Forget the Oral Interp. Did you know that it's part of my job to coach a play, four times a year?"

"Swell."

"We'll have try-out for the first one, "Poor Papa's Prize," in just a few days now."

"Swell."

"And will you read for it?"

"Sw— You mean, try and see if I can act one of the parts?"

"Professionally, we call it 'read for a part'."

"I'll be glad to." Her wristwatch, he noted, was rather expensive. "Gee, I got to be skipping along now."

"Don't go yet."

"I got a date."

"With some boy, I suppose!"

"Uh-huh."

He was writhing. He was sick. These blab-mouth freshmen boys! Not human yet!

"Well, look, Peony, I'd like to have more chance—I mean now, at the beginning of the year, when we're sort of making plans—I mean, for the year—and I'm very interested—I mean in your reaction to the different—you know, different styles and modes of instruction—and it's so interesting to get your reactions and—"

"Aw, Professor, you don't want any reactions from a problem child."

"Give me some, and see if I don't!"

"Swell!"

"Where are you living?"

"At Lambda House."

"Um! Well, look. I'll be in Postum's drug store at exactly 10 o'clock tonight, buying a soda. Suppose you happen to be there, and had a soda with me?"

"I thought the co-edibles weren't supposed to have dates with the faculty."

"They aren't. But if you just happened to be dropping in there to buy some talcum powder—"

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

ONE of the most disgusting sights of the now past holiday season was the deplorable waste of Christmas trees.

A week before Christmas, they were asking outrageous prices for them—wasn't it $1 a foot?

On Christmas Eve, they were trying to sell six-foot trees for a quarter in every community, and on Christmas Day, to be carted away by whoever wanted them.

In Washington 60,000 unsold trees were burned after Christmas, and in White Plains, N. Y., a dealer had a whole carload dumped at a railroad siding and left them there.

Wherever you look these days, there's waste, waste, waste.

Most of that waste is due to the absolute ignorance and inefficiency of petty government officials and employees.

You can't really blame anyone in particular.

It's just that the machine has become so cumbersome that no one knows any longer what the other fellow is doing.

One of the most pitiful phenomena in government today is the type of people in limited authority.

Little nincompoops, who never held a decent job, suddenly made heads of departments, given fancy titles, push buttons, secretaries, mahogany any furniture and fine rugs for their oil cloth-accustomed feet to walk on.

Government salaries are small—yes, for really good men and women.

But these little nobodies are earning more now than they ever have earned or ever will again.

* * *

SO they strut and pose and feel important and act impudent and bask in the short glory of a rooster who stands on top of a dung heap on a warm July morning, crowing his head off, attracting the hens, annoying the neighbors.

But the rooster's life is short.

Eventually he winds up in a stew pot or a frying pan.

Which is as it should be.

What else can you do with a rooster, who doesn't even know how to lay an egg?

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

WENDELL Willkie may be putting on an act — he is the histrionic sort — but he seems so sure of the Republican nomination that he has discussed the reform which he would inaugurate in choosing his cabinet if he were elected. To a few old friends in Wasihngton he expressed his dissatisfaction with the traditional method.

Most members of a President's official family, according to his theory, are picked for political or personal reasons. These considerations have influenced even our greatest Chief Executives, but Willkie naturally drew his proof from the personnel of the present establishment.

He pointed out that Henry Morgenthau, jr., erstwhile dairy farmer and state conservation commissioner, was not competent to speak or act for the financial community. A more glaring example of nonfitness, in the Hoosier's view, is "Miss Frances Perkins," who has no common bond or interest with the workers.

Even Cordell Hull, despite his prestige and achievements, had no special experience or qualifications for the post of Secretary of State. The appointment was a reward to the Tennessean for holding Southern dry delegates in line for FDR in 1923. Secretaries Henry Stimson and Frank Knox, who were adopted by Mr. Roosevelt a few weeks befire the Willkie blitzkrieg in Philadelphia, are two other instances.

The GOP's 1940 standard-bearer plans to scrap this system when and if he lives at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. He says he will name individuals who will really mean something to the groups they are supposed to represent — labor, finance, agriculture, business etc. Then he will hold them responsible for framing and executing policies satisfactory and helpful to their respective "constituents."

CONCEIT: Diaries found on captured and killed Germans reflect a disastrous state of enemy morale on the eastern front. The growing disillusionment resulting from their defeats and the High Command's military blunders offer some hope that the Swastika may soon face a crisis similar to that which topped the kaiser in 1918. It may explain Berlin's recent admissions that the war's outcome may be decided in the Ukraine.

The author of the following excerpts was a cultured and well-educated oberlieutenant who was fatally wounded along the Dnieper river. He was a Hitler worshiper originally, describing Der Fuehrer's early conquests in western Europe as a "splendid spring for the Fatherland." On his person the Soviet Intelligence officers discovered a notebook "to be sent unread to my wife." He writes as disparagingly of the leading Nazis as if he lived in a free country.

"The winter," he says in his threnody, "will be a very gloomy one for us. Now an over-hasty retreat will begin. What an end after such a triumph! We should have driven out our incompetent politicians long ago. We are paying for their folly and conceit. We conquered all of Europe, but success turned the Germans' heads; they became vain and supercilious. And our rulers lost their sense of proportion.

HURL: "In my opinion," continues the soldier-historian, "Hitler is a big personality, but he lacks depth and penetration. He is a dilettante in practically every sphere. Evidently he is a poor judge of character.

"Goering is, perhaps, the most popular of all. He is not a dogmatist but a man of common sense. But, he, too, is striding over corpses. As for Himmler's convictions and aims, they may be judged by his exterior. Goebbels is cunning but shallow —a backstairs politician, a representative of the third estate, a proletarianized Talleyrand.

"Funk does not look quite Aryan. He is grotesque and ugly. His frivolity and easy optimism are causes of our misfortunes. Ley in external appearance resembles Funk. Vain and egotistical. Ribbentrop is a gentilhomme comme il faut from the Third Reich; unmistakably bad education and breeding — a parvenu. And in the military field, too, there is not a single big figure with the exception of Rommel.

"If we were only strong enough to hurl the Americans into the Mediterranean and then start operations against England!"

REFUTE: Both the cave dwellers and the civic-minded citizens of the nation's capital are indignant at newspaper and magazine articles which represent Washington as a combination of Sodom and Gomorrah. They insist that there is no more ungodly living here, proportionately, than there is —say—in Nashua, N. H., or Harlingen, Texas.

They souttered but remained decorously silent until Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt and a few more eminents caught up the refrain and gave it countrywide publicity. Now they are sponsoring propaganda designed to prove that the federal center is not riddled with slums, disease and poverty, lacking in public spirit and drinking itself to death in a world crisis.

Statistics refute the contention that the District of Columbia is merely a home for transient politicians. The 1930 census shows that 181,000, or 37 per cent of the population, were born here. The percentage rises to 62 if residents of adjoining Maryland and Virginia are included. This compares with 72 per cent of natives in Baltimore, 62 in Cincinnati, 59 in Boston and 44 in San Francisco.

The death rate among whites is 36 per 100,000, making Washington 12th among 36 large cities. In fatalities from tuberculosis it stands 36th in 42 communities.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Loman

THE reassembled Congress is in a dither at word coming to them about the attitude of the fighting men. And well it may be!

All signs indicate that soldiers and sailors are incensed by certain conditions in this country and are coming home with chips on their shoulders. Illustrations of their disapproval have been reported in this space before. But the original murmurs have now become articulate expressions of anger against union leaders, slackers and peanut politicians. Here are examples:

* * *

BITTERNESS: A famous war correspondent just flown to New York from Foggia explains, "I grant that the men are not getting the full story of recent walkout threats—only what the government flashes to them. Some of the fair-minded recognize that there are always two sides to every labor dispute. But the younger ones — especially those who have seen buddies blown to bits — would put a bullet into John L. Lewis if they had a chance."

A distinguished foreign news reporter who spent months with the boys in Britain, states, "They are getting tough and are now in the mood to tear things apart when they return."

A woman official, whose organization in Massachusetts handles personal problems for those on furlough, comments, "We shall have a few million alert and informed citizens with fire in their eyes. I have been talking with groups of officers and men from the South Pacific, Italy and England. What they tell of the way our troops received news of the coal strike bodes ill for the perpetrators when the fighters arrive home."

A journalist living in Arizona among invalided veterans, says, " . . . One kid was at Guadalcanal and Midway. You should hear him cuss the strikers. Others vow that, if they are ever ordered to guard a plant tied up by labor troubles, they will shoot the picket line."

The writer, whose duties bring him into almost daily contact with men from New Guinea, China, Naples and other battle zones, could fill a dozen columns with similar quotations. And, as letters from abroad testify, there has been a crescendo of bitterness since the railroad and steel wrangles.

On Being A REAL PERSON

BY DR. HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK

Ambition Is A Motive Power, Essential To All Leadership

Ambition Is A Motive 14 lite mt

AMBITION, the desire to overtake our fellows, delight in our own superiority, in having more and in being more than our fellows, such self-seated and potent, and their trail across history is sanguinary and pitless. Nevertheless, without ambition no one would amount to anything.

The man in whom the will-to-power has become ruthlessness, sadism and brutality is both personally sick and socially a menace, but so, too, is the person who so lacks it that he is a feeble, listless, debilitated good-for-nothing. Ambition is part of our normal native endowment. A child without self-assertiveness is ill; he is not all there; all worth-while achievement involves it. Said Admiral Peary about the North Pole: "For more than a score of years that point on the earth's surface had been the object of my every effort. To attain it my whole being, physical, mental, and moral, had been dedicated."

The emotional drive that leads us to assert ourselves is, in the end, worth what we make of it. If we let it be crushed out of us we become nonentities. If we misuse it we run to self-display, to cutting a figure in the world by hook or crook, to avarice, greed, tyranny. If we use it well, we become dynamic selves amounting to something, with dominant aims served with forceful self-commitment.

A MAN may be ambitious to conquer a neighboring chief and steal his wives, or he may be ambitious to make a neighborhood a more decent place in which to live. A boy may be ambitious to be the leading gangster in the city, or like young Henry Wadsworth Longfellow he may say, "I most eagerly aspire after future eminence in literature; my whole soul burns most ardently for it, and every earthly thought centers in it."

Self-assertiveness is ethically neutral; everything depends on what is done with it. Like hunting, it began as a primitive necessity. One had to hunt to live. But the hunting impulse now ranges over a wide field and the thrill of the hunt in astronomical observations, scientific laboratories, in seeking for social solutions and new ways of creating wealth, fascinates more people than its primitive forms ever did.

This drive to amount to something is the very stuff out of which worth-while personality is made. Saul of Tarsus before he became a Christian was a forceful assertive man, set on being somebody, and he has none the less so afterwards; but the redirection of this strong propulsion made his conversion one of the notable events in history.

WITHOUT the high use of this primary motive-power, leadership in any realm is impossible. As for wholeness of life and satisfaction in living, the wise channeling of this deep desire to amount to something is of primary importance.

Some try to inhibit the desire, praying, "Oh, to be nothing, nothing!" and unfortunately for themselves and others their prayer is answered. Some give the desire gangway and try by varied routes to become lords of creation, often with disastrous ethical and emotional results. Others re-define what "amounting to something" and "being somebody" mean—and so illustrate Jesus' saying, "He that is greatest amongst you shall be your servant." They redirect the course of their ambition so that emotional satisfaction, personal wholeness, and social usefulness are achieved.

TOMORROW: Self-regard should not be supressed.

Revolutionary Secret Aircraft Is Reported Developed By Ryan

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 17 (U.P.)—The Ryan Aeronautical Co., has developed a revolutionary secret aircraft that is "the hottest thing on wheels and wings," Lt. Raymond Deitzer, Naval bureau of aeronautics representative, said today.

Deitzer, confirming the announcement of the plane made in the company's magazine, "Flying Reporter," said "the sooner this job gets out and demonstrates its ability, the sooner the Far Eastern war will end."

He did not disclose whether the plane was a long-range fighter, medium heavy bomber, or an entirely new rocket type or jet-propelled craft.

The Ryan plant previously had concentrated on the production of trainers and small commercial planes. Claude T. Ryan, president, designed the "Spirit of St. Louis," used by Charles Lindbergh in his famous trans-Atlantic flight.

Ryan and other company officials refused to comment on the new plane.

"My lips are sealed with a zipper," Ryan said.

The sea is our richest source of animal proteins, vitamins and minerals which livestock must have to be healthy, productive and fast-growing.

STANTON'S 19% LAYING MASH
brings these vital elements straight from the sea and puts them to work in your poultry yard. This fine feed, milled right here in Lubbock, contains ManAmar and B-G Plus, blended with our local-grown grains into a feed especially adapted to the needs of West Texas feeders.

B-G PLUS
is a patented vacuum concentrated extract from fish. This new and potent product, resulting from ten years of ceaseless research and experiment, supplies extra trace minerals and vitamins in Stanton's 18% Laying Mash.

MANAMAR
in Stanton's 18% Laying Mash supplies the hard-to-get feeding essentials — fish proteins, food minerals and vitamins, including the important Vitamin B "Complex."
• • •
ManAmar and B-G Plus have been developed and are produced in the laboratories of Philip R. Park, famed livestock nutrition authority. These laboratories have approved the formula for Stanton's 18% Laying Mash. Let the records of users tell the rest of the story. Get all the facts today.

Negro Drops Gun, Is Wounded As He Alights From Bus

Passengers in a Nineteenth street and Avenue X bus were given a start when a gun went off in their midst around 2 o'clock Monday afternoon near the Nineteenth street and Avenue X intersection.

Wade Coleman, 44, a negro under a murder charge in Terry county, was the victim of his own gun. The sheriff's department said Coleman was shot in the leg just below the calf when the weapon fell from his clothing.

He was charged in county court with unlawfully carrying a pistol and early last night posted $500 bond, county officers said. His wound was described as minor.

Coleman's case was continued only yesterday until the April term of district court in Terry county.

Russian Front

Red Army was using 250,000 men on the long northern front, and one Berlin report acknowledged penetrations north of Nevel and southeast of Vitebsk.

DNB, the German news agency, also said the Russians attacking across the frozen northern tip of Lake Ilmen—between Novosokolniki and Leningrad—had forced a crossing of the long-contested Volkhov river at a point 16 miles north of the lake. Such a development would put the Russians close to the big German base of Novgorod.

Jean Paquis, radio commentator on the Axis-controlled Paris station, said "one thing is certain—in a few months the Russians will have achieved either complete victory or total defeat." The broadcast was recorded by Reuters.

STOCKS MAKE MODEST HEADWAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—Paris and assorted specialties continued to make modest headway in today's stock market but many leaders operated over a slightly uneven course.

Sale of a stock exchange seat for $48,-000 up $1,000, equalling last year's high and $30,000 above the 1943 low, was cheering to brokerage quarters.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was unchanged at 50.8.

Among a handful of favorites posting 1943-44 peaks were Farnsworth Television and American Bosch. Advances were retained by Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Illinois Central, Commercial Solvents, Texas Co., General Motors, International Nickel, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Eastman Kodak and Public Service of N. J.

Improved in the curb were Aluminum of America, American Cyanamic "B" Brown-Forman Distillers, Callite Tungsten and Colts aPtent Firearms.

not restrict or extend the right of suffrage. Further, he declared the constitution can be amended only at a regular session. The next regular session begins in January, 1945.

Court Opinions Cited

Those opposing the governor's view also have cited Supreme court opinions in their favor and point to the fact that the legislature soldiers, sailors and Marines.

In a telegram to the governor Senator Weaver Moore of Houston declared the Supreme court has held that certain classes of citizens may be exempted from poll tax receipts.

Said Rep. Earl Huddleston of Oglesby:

"I know that over half of the service men cannot vote under the present absentee balloting law. We could remedy this situation in a few days if the governor would call us. Not a single person that I know of would oppose this action. If we are not able to meet this situation in behalf of our men who are fighting for us we should resign from office and turn it over to those who will do what is right and what the citizens of Texas are demanding."

Others Express Views

Other members of the legislature who were in the capitol reiterated opinions that the legislature could and should be convened to release soldier poll tax payments.

Gypsy Smith Here

officer for the Cunard Steamship company traveling between Great Britain and this country.

Mr. Smith at 31, attending a series of services in his wife's church, was converted and felt the call to go into the ministry. He came to America as an immigrant and through the aid of friends, secured entrance to a theological seminary. After completing his studies there he was ordained in the northern Baptist convention. Since that time he has been engaged continuously in evangelistic work in both the United States and in Great Britain before the war.

His father who was originally termed "Gypsy" Smith, is now in America as an alien after having experienced fifteen blitzes in England. Although 84 years of age, he is still active in evangelistic work as a Presbyterian minister. The younger minister's brother, a Methodist minister, is engaged in evangelistic work in Arkansas.

Mr. Smith, probably due to his English descent, is conservative in his sermons. He never announces his sermon topic in advance, but prefers to deliver a sermon that will "suit" the particular audience in attendance. He writes his correspondence in long hand, smokes cigars and likes coffee. A prolific reader, he carries a suitcase with him in his travels that contains nothing but books. He firmly believes that "If American and Great Britain would unite in a common purpose after the war, no nation would dare attack them because of their combined strength." Mr. Smith further states; "Anyone who would spoil the friendship between these two Anglo-Saxon nations would be a traitor to the peace of the world."

The cooperative revival in Lubbock, which is presenting Mr. Smith, will continue two weeks, with cooperating churches dismissing all services except Sunday morning. At the Monday evening services 30 ministers were seated on the platform including ministers from Slaton, Abernathy and other cities.

"Popcorn Town."

They also talk about going home. "Haven't you heard?" said one. "We are never going home. They are going to keep us over here until after the war's over and then set up new anti-immigrant laws to keep us out."

"No," said another "you have got it all wrong. "They're keeping us around for the peace conference, when they'll really need hospitals."

They talk about their patients, some of whom are prisoners.

"Wonder if the folks back home would squawk if they knew about us giving that quart of blood plasma to that German today," said a corporal. "After all, that equals two quarts of blood."

"They shouldn't," says Capt. Merritt Auld of ankon, S. D., the outfit's other doctor. "After all, we hope the Germans will treat our wounded prisoners that way."

An ambulance pulls up outside.

The men go to work quickly, silently, the banter and grousing of a moment ago forgotten. They strip the clothing off wounds, prepare bandages, splints and plasma bottles with the deftness of long experience. Wtihout a spoken order, they care for the wounded as much as their limited facilities permit and then send them on back down the line for more attention. They are grimly efficiently, serious.

"I guess we are pretty lucky at that," said the corporal, as the last of the wounded was carried out.

Invasion Plans

head all the British.

It was strongly indicated outside the conference that the choice of the over-all American ground command had not been finally decided. But Bradley, who proved himself as commander of the Second corps in Tunisia and Sicily, has been in Britain many weeks, and seems a logical choice. Even if someone else is chosen for the post, the square-jawed infantryman seems a certain bet for command of an Army.

Choice of the American ground leader will complete the western invasion command in all important details.

Eisenhower went to Washington for a few days to see President Roosevelt and Gen. George C. Marshall and also had a brief reunion with his family in Kansas before coming here from his Mediterranean post. He likewise talked with Prime Minister Churchill enroute.

Praises Work Done

He paid tribute to naval, ari, supply, and other forces "for the work that has been done in advance of my coming," and praised American infantrymen who "are getting themselves ready and toughened for any job that lies ahead."

The supreme commander declared that "fundamentally, public opinion wins wars," and urged the frankest and fullest possible reporting of operations in the European theater.

"I take it you are just as anxious as I am to win this war and let it be done so we can all go fishing," he said.

Allied Liberator heavy bombers and Mitchell mediums poured 87 tons of bombs on Japanese defensive positions at Arawe peninsula, on the southwest coast of New Britain, inland from where American invasion troops are installed. The attack was against the enemy east of Amalus plantation.

Other Allied air blows were made in the Uligan supply area, on the New Guinea coast, where three out of 30 Japanese interceptors were shot down and one Allied plane lost; at Bogadjim, south of the enemy base at Madang, and on barges in the Sio area, where the Japanese are evacuating troops to escape the advancing Australians.

Heavy Allied bombers struck at Rabaul, enemy base on the northeastern tip of New Britain, Friday night, hard after a heavy daytime bombing of the base. The attackers downed one Japanese Zero fighter.

Negroes Ruled Due Bus Service

Colored children living in the Lubbock Independent school district are entitled to the same facilities for transportation to and from school as are white children, the attorney general's department Monday advised the state department of education in response to an inquiry from A. C. Jackson, school district business manager here, the Associated Press reported last night from Austin.

Jackson, question here, said he requested an opinion two weeks ago after he had been asked by two people about transportation for colored children.

Two Families Involved

Jackson ventured that only two negro families in which there are children of school age live in the rural areas encompassed by the local district. He stated that private transportation is now being furnished for "possibly four" negro children to local colored schools.

The official said this was the first term, so far as he could recall, that negroes had sought transportation service from the Lubbock district.

Texas law forbids mixed transportation of white and negro children, he said. It would be unfeasible, if not impossible, under war conditions ,to put a vehicle in operation just for the transportation of a handful of students, Jackson stated.

He said the matter probably would be taken up at the next meeting of the board of trustees.

O'Daniel Losses Plea

Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex) made an unsuccessful attempt to put into the revenue bill a requirement which would have forced the federal government to pay the state poll taxes of men and women in the armed forces.

"There's been a lot of talk about soldier voting," O'Daniel said. "I though it would be a good idea to find out just how anxious the United States senators are for these soldiers to vote."

"It's up to the states which have this burden to heal themselves," countered Senator Tobey (R-NH). "States shouldn't ask the federal government to pay for weaknesses in their own systems."

O'Daniel's amendment was defeated overwhelmingly on a voice vote.

had passed the British censorship at Cairo.

(There was no hint as to the identity of the Britons reported engaged in the negotiations. A Bern dispatch said the Ankara radio had quoted Pravda as saying "two former British statesmen" had met Ribbentrop.)

Here's The Dispatch

The Pravda dispatch in its entirety was as follows :

"Cairo, Jan. 12. (By Special Correspondent to Pravda)—According to information from reliable Greek and Yugoslav sources, a secret meeting took place recently in one of the seacoast cities of the Pyrenees peninsula between two English officials and von Ribbentrop.

"The meeting had the aim of finding out the conditions of a separate peace with the Germans. It is understood the meeting did not remain without results."

Pravda made no comment, nor did Soviet officials.

Although this story was printed in the official organ of the Communist party, it did not bear the weight of a dispatch of the official news agency, Tass. The newspaper itself was careful to label it as a "rumor."

Pfc. Raymond A. Fanning, U. S. Marine corps, son of Mrs. Ola M. Fanning, of Olton, was among a list of casualties in the naval forces announced last night by the Navy department. Fanning was listed as wounded, but extent of his wounds was not announced.

A 37-year-old Lubbock county married man, given the cold shoulder by his sister-in-law whom he reportedly had been courting, Monday allegedly tried to force her at gun point to accompany him on a downstate trip. His brother-in-law appeared on the scene and gave the luger lugging Lothario the "licking of his life," officers related. He paid a ten-dollar fine and costs on a disturbance complaint.

A 32-year-old Seminole man, who is suspected of having sold his draft cards, was charged Monday in federal court with failure to possess registration and classification cards. He was held Monday night under $1,000 bond. The man is "always losing his draft cards," it was explained.

Meat left cooking on the stove was left too long and gave off billows of smoke which resulted in a run of firemen to 1922 Avenue Q at 6:30 o'clock Monday night. Firemen said family members had stepped outside and when they returned they found the house full of smoke. In another run firemen stopped a grass fire on the Meadowbrook golf course about 7:30 p. m. but not until a strip descried as being 1,500 yards long and 50 yards wide had been scorched.

A 36-year-old Lubbock man got a little too much to drink early Monday morning and tried to jump the gun on the Army—and pulled sheriff's deputy Raymond Land and County Jailer Austin Yeats out of comfortable beds at 3 a. m. After he had been detained by guards who found his car parked near a fence skirting South Plains Army Air field, the drunk said he was due for early induction but that he had decided to join Sunday morning. Land and Yeats took him to jail and later Monday morning he paid a drunkeness fine—still a civilian.

Fighting In Italy

tighten up that strain so that when the weakest link snaps the collapse of the whole fabric will be rapid and thorough," General Wilson said. "The enemy has made an iron ring all around him, but it's not the same in strength everywhere."

Another great river battle appeared to be shaping up as American forces consolidated their positions on newly-captured Mt. Trocchio, just east of Cassino, and sent their forward elements to the very banks of the Rapido.

French Near Village

French troops fighting through the mountains reached a point less than 1,000 yards from the village of Sant'elia, roughly three miles northeast of Cassino.

The exact point at which American troops finally reached the Rapido was not announced, but it was possible they thrust down the northern slope of Mt. Trocchio which they captured Saturday.

Flying Fortresses of the 15th U. S. Air force based in southern Italy struck a heavy blow Sunday at a Nazi fighter plane plant at Klagenfurt, Austria, 150 miles southwest of Vienna, leaving the factory wreathed in smoke and flames.

Other Fortresses pounded a Nazi airdrome at Villaorba, and Liberators smashel at the Osoppo airdromes in northern Italy and the Yugoslav Adriatic harbor of Zara. The Liberators shot down nine Nazi planes over Osoppo. In all, 18 enemy craft were destroyed in yesterday's operations for a loss of five Allied planes.

Eighth's Activity Limited

Snow and rain swept the mountains of Italy, and action on the Eighth Army front was limited to a short advance by Canadian troops and artillery exchanges.

While General Wilson in his talk with Allied correspondents naturally gave no indication where an additional thrust at the Germans from the south might come, he mentioned southern France as the possible point of such an attack should the opportunity for going in there arise.

He said there at one time had been a possibility of the war's extending into Spain, but said that possibility now had receded.

Rolling Up Of Baltic Flank Believed Started In North

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

A new Russian break-through to cut the Leningrad-Odessa railroad north of Novosokolniki shapes up as the opening of the battle of the Baltic flank in the east even before the crisis is reached on the Black Sea wing of the front.

Russian forces astride the Novosokolniki-Dno link of the railroad stand within less than 100 miles of Pskov. That is the vital supply and escape corridor south of Lake Peipus for all German forces on the Leningrad-Lake Ilmen-Lovat river front.

SIMPSON

The site of the new operation, which Berlin estimates is backed by at least 1,000,000 fresh Russian troops, suggests that an attempt to roll up the Nazi Baltic wing from the south has started. The new break-through came south of the tremendous marshes of the Lovat which have guarded the Nazi defense line for 125 miles from Velikie Luki to Staraya Russa.

Logical Main Objective

The Poskov gateway seems the logical main objective of the Russian drive. Through it run all transportation feeders for the whole Nazi Baltic flank except the round-about Revel-Leningrad railroad and a highway via Narva.

A serious Russian threat to Pskov must force hasty Nazi retirement from Leningrad, the Volkov front below it, and from the Lake Ilmen-Staraya Russa sector. German evacuation of all northwestern Russia to match the retreat from the Ukraine and White Russia to the south may be impending.

While the scope and direction of the Russian attack has not yet fully developed, there are indications that mark it as the start of the long expected major winter offensive in the north for which the Russians are known to have been preparing for months.

The Nazis in the Baltic theater have relied heavily on the marshes of the Lovat to protect their south wing. In the Russian break-through to cut the Novosokolniki-Leningrad railroad, a beginning has been made on the job of turning the Lovat marshes from the south. A further Russian penetration westward at that point to cut the Nevel-Ustrov-Pskov railroad also would double the threat—and it lies less than 35 miles away.

Foundation Urged For Full Study Of Chronic Nephritis

DALLAS, Jan. 17. (AP)—Billy Meers, four-year-old victim of chronic nephritis, had his third blood plasma transfusion in as many days today and the attending physician said his condition was satisfactory as could be expected.

Dr. Charles B. Shuey said he believed regular use of plasma will be able to control a definitely increased abdominal swelling. Although the child's case is not considered curable, the physician has stated he believes Billy's life can be prolonged indefinitely by the use of blood plasma.

Mrs. Charles Meers, mother of the boy, said special containers have been sent by the Baylor University hospital blood bank to Chanute Field, Ill., where 200 of the personnel have volunteered blood. This blood will be flown to Dallas by Flying Fortress and processed into plasma at Baylor hospital.

Dr. Shuey revealed that a Rockford, Ill., man whom he declined to name but identified as being connected with the iron and steel industry, had expressed a desire to contribute any sort of aid in connection with the case. The physician said he had written the man, suggesting that hundreds of chronic nephritis victims throughout the country might be helped more by added research in connection with the disease than by anything else.

Dr. Shuey, who is a member of the faculty at the Southwestern Medical foundation here, declared that it would be a fine thing if a research fund for chronic nephritis and related illnesses could be set up at Southwestern as a result of the nationwide interest displayed in the Billy Meers case.

"I got some talcum powder"

"Are you going to be there or are you not?"

"Maybe so. We'll see. G'bye!"

He was at Postum's drug store at 9:56.

Miss Peony Jackson wiggled in at 9.59. Without looking at him she went to the cosmetics counter and said, "Have you a small box of rice powder?" She was even fresher and softer and more miraculously special than he had remembered.

As she turned around, he said, "Oh, good evening, Miss Jackson."

She said, "Oh, good evening, Professor."

"Can I buy you a soda?"

"A soda?"

"Why, yes."

"Oh, a soda, I'm afraid it's very late, Professor."

"No, do sit down and have a soda. Or a sundae. I want to ask your opinion about—weekly themes."

"Well—" Her voice was plain, but as she sat down her eyes seduced him.

J. I. Kilpatrick Rites Pending

Funeral services for James I. Kilpatrick, 53, who died Monday morning after a stroke of paralysis, are pending word from two sons in Maryland, according to Rix Funeral home where the body lies.

Death came suddenly about 8 o'clock to Kilpatrick, one of Lubbock's most active civic leaders during his almost 19 years' residence here as a civil lawyer, professor, church leader and clubman.

Kilpatrick, who had played golf Sunday afternoon and had attended church Sunday night and apparently was in the best of health, was rushed to West Texas hospital where he was pronounced dead.

Known to be modest and unassuming, yet possessing the abilities of a "good mixer," Kilpatrick was popular among members of his profession, his students at Texas Technological college, where he was a part-time professor in business law, among his fellow-churchmen, with his service club mates and with his golfing cronies at Lubbock Country club.

Worked With Y. M. C. A.

One of his major activities had been with the Young Men's Christian association at Texas Tech, an organization he helped found back in 1925.

He was a member of the board of vestrymen of St. Paul's Episcopal church, was a Mason and had 18 degrees in Scottish Rite work, having gone the York route during his time.

Kilpatrick had served as president of the Lubbock Rotary club, was a former president of the Lubbock County Bar association and a former director of the Texas State Bar association. He was also a member of the American Bar association, and of the American Judicature society, an organization devoted to research and furtherance of the bar as a profession in the maintenance of its ideals and ethics.

Moved Here In 1925

Since he moved to Lubbock in 1925, Kilpatrick had been an active member of Allen Bros. post, American legion.

He could be found playing golf at Lubbock Country club regularly with a group of cronies.

Kilpatrick was born in Cleburne, Johnson county, Sept. 21, 1890, one of seven children of Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Kilpatrick, sr.

In the spring of 1916, Kilpatrick graduated from the University of Texas law school. He rose to the rank of second lieutenant in the Air Corps before World War I ended. He enlisted in the aviation branch of the U. S. Army signal corps, now known as the Air Corps.

Resigned Commission

Resigning his commission in January, 1919, Kilpatrick returned to his old home and became an attorney at law.

He married his sweetheart of university days, Miss Mabel Bentley of Buda on November 26, 1919, who survives. Also surviving are three sons, Cpl. James I Kilpatrick, III, of the Army in Aberdeen, Md.; David Kilpatrick, a student in the Navy in Maryland and Thomas Kilpatrick, a student of Lubbock High school, and a brother, Robert Kilpatrick, Cleburne, Tex., attorney.

After practicing law at Cleburne two years, he moved to Fort Worth where he spent a year, returning to Cleburne to join his younger brother, R. A. Kilpatrick, in the firm of Kilpatrick and Kilpatrick. That partnership continued until August, 1925, when the senior member of the firm moved to Lubbock.

Kilpatrick came to Lubbock in August, 1925, and two months later joined the late Roscoe Wilson and Jack M. Randal in the firm of Wilson and Randal which became Wilson, Randal and Kilpatrick. Mr. Wilson died in February, 1936, and the firm name continued for several years but is now Randal and Kilpatrick.

If Peter Pain makes your child "all achey" with Colds... Rub in BEN-GAY...Quick!

Amazingly FAST relief—and here's why:

● Science, for many years, has depended on two pain-relieving agents—methyl salicylate and menthol. Every doctor knows these two precious ingredients. And . . . Ben-Gay contains up to 2½ times as much of both than five other widely offered rub-ins. Actual laboratory tests prove this. So insist on the genuine Ben-Gay next time Peter Pain strikes!
