'Open House' for New Fulton Post Office Set for April 6

The public is invited to attend open house at the new Fulton Post Office at Cactus and Third Street starting at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 6.

Postmaster Lloyd H. Hover and his associates have been providing service in the new facility for several weeks and they extend a cordial welcome to everyone in the Rockport-Fulton-Lamar area to stop in and inspect the new building and its modern equipment.

The building, containing 1,856 square feet of floor space, was built by Ling Development Company of Brownsville. It is air conditioned and has 250 more post office boxes than the old Fulton Post Office.

Hover points out that the new post office boxes do not have a window to see through, thus minimizing the temptation of thieves to break in and steal checks.

"Also," Hover explains, "the customer uses a key to open his box, rather than being required to remember a combination which was necessary to open the old boxes. This makes it easier for older persons to open their boxes."

Hover said the old Fulton Post Office opened for business in the 1880s, served the public for some years and then was closed. It was re-opened in 1948, Hover said, and Mrs. Lorraine Jones was appointed postmaster, a position she held until 1973 when she retired and was succeeded by Hover.

Suspect Faces Murder Charge

Sheriff Bob Hewes said capital murder charges have been filed against William Alan Hayes who now is held in Aransas County Jail.

Acting County Attorney J.B. Law filed the capital murder charges against Hayes in the death of Lee Golibart, 69, who died March 11 at a Corpus Christi hospital of injuries received in a beating.

Officers said Golibart met Hayes at a local bar and invited him to his home where Hayes is alleged to have attacked him, beaten him and driven off in the Golibart automobile. Golibart later died of his injuries, Sheriff Hewes said.

Open Diabetic Center June 1

Camp Sweeney Diabetic Educational Training Center for diabetic boys and girls (6 through 16 years of age) will open for the 26th year of operation June 1st with three-three week sessions as follows: June 1 to June 21, June 22 to July 13 and July 14 to August 2.

Camp Sweeney is located 9 miles east and 1 mile north of Gainesville, Texas, on 338 acres of beautiful rolling timbered hills with three dormitories for boys and three for girls; a non-denominational chapel; a modern hospital; a 30 acre lake for boating, fishing and water skiing; a sanitary swimming pool, tennis courts, recreational pavilion, target range and 20 gentle saddle horses.

Under the supervision of a specialized medical staff, dietitian and counselors, these children are taught their proper diet with regulated exercise, how to take their own urine tests and give their own insulin injections. Of major importance, through this group association with other young diabetics, they realize they are not alone with their disorder and with proper knowledge and instruction they can learn how to live with their lifelong companion - diabetes.

Diabetes is hereditary, incurable and increasing yearly. It is the 5th killer of diseases and ranks 3rd as the cause of blindness. Medical authorities estimate one-fourth of the World's population carries the diabetic gene.

Camp Sweeney, operated and maintained by Southwestern Diabetic Foundation, Inc., is an organizational member of Texas United Community Services of Texas. If you know or hear of a diabetic child who needs our help please refer them to this office, or the local United Fund.

The Southwestern Diabetic Foundation, Inc. is a charitable, non-profit corporation located at 101 S. Culberson, Gainesville, Texas. If you would like to help financially carry on this humanitarian program, please write direct to the Foundation office. For application blanks, brochures, etc. write direct to James V. designed to increase citizens' awareness of the role they can play in the prevention of burglaries and larcenies in their communities. Since its inception in 1972, it has expanded throughout the nation and now has 1962 sheriffs and chiefs of police participating.

There is no cost to the local sheriff and chief of police because the program is funded by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the U.S. Department of Justice and coordinated by the National Sheriffs' Association.

Hewes quoted the FBI Uniform Crime Reports which indicate a burglary occurring every twelve seconds in the United States. He stressed that this crime can be measurably decreased through citizen awareness and involvement. By asking one's self such questions as, "Do I always lock my garage?", "Do I keep my house doors locked at all times?", and "Do I have an emergency (sheriff/police) number on or near my telephone?"

Material available to you from Hewes is free and is designed to make you aware of the ways you can help prevent burglaries in your neighborhood, how you can best cooperate with public safety officials to make your neighborhood safer, and outline steps you can take to make your home, car, and person safer. Displaying National Neighborhood Watch material on your home and automobile also serves as a warning that you are alert. This, in itself, acts as a deterrent.

The sheriff reminds that the National Neighborhood Watch program is a powerful prescription against crime. Like a prescription, it only begins to do good when it's in your possession. "Don't delay," he says. "Contact your Aransas County Sheriff's Department right now for your free participation kit. You'll sleep safer when you're a part of the National Neighborhood Watch Program."

CHARLES FAKE ON DEAN'S DISTINGUISHED LIST AT BAYLOR

Baylor University has recognized 630 students for academic achievement by naming them to its Dean's List and Dean's Distinguished List.

Dr. Herbert H. Reynolds, Baylor dean of faculties and executive vice president, announced the names of those Baylor students who distinguished themselves academically during the 1974 fall semester.

Reynolds said 236 students were named to the Dean's List and 394 to the Dean's Distinguished List. Of those named to the Dean's Distinguished List, 190 earned a 4.00 or straight A average.

Baylor's grading system is on a four-point scale. Four points per hour credit are given for an A, three for a B, two for a C and one for a D.

Grade point averages are derived by dividing the total number of points earned by the number of hours taken.

To be named to the Dean's List, one must be an undergraduate or post-graduate student who has earned a grade point of 3.6 to 3.79, while taking 15 credit hours during the semester.

Among those named to the Dean's Distinguished List are undergraduate or post-graduate students with a grade point average of 3.80 to 4.00 for 15 semester hours was David G. Fake, son of Rev. and Mrs. Charles Fake, with a 3.93 grade in chemistry.

BUILDING BETTER IN-LAW RELATIONSHIPS

College Station -- In-law relationships will strengthen when parents realize they need to relax the domination and control they exert over their children, Mrs. Ilene Miller, family life education specialist, contended this week.

"Marriage begins a new relationship for the couple and a change in relations with parents and other relatives," the specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A & M University System, said.

When families relate to the couple as individuals and young adults, they are acknowledging this change. This includes reducing criticism and giving advice sparingly. Well-intended help may be resented and considered a threat to the couple's new autonomy, she said.

"The couple needs the opportunity to be themselves—not what other expect them to be. Their strongest loyalties are to each other and family members would be wise not to take sides during an argument."

"Keeping secrets from one part of the husband-wife team and taking sides could likely be interpreted as interference by the couple," Mrs. Miller pointed out.

The specialist noted that one way in-laws can strengthen this new relationship with their children is to let the couple make their own decisions.

It's a good idea to encourage the couple to talk things over and decide for themselves, rather than offering unwanted advice, she said.

"How the couple spends their earnings, where they go on holidays, the type of life style they choose and other personal matters should be their own decisions," she reminded.

Check Your Tax Return, IRS Urges Area Taxpayers

Austin-Howard C. Longley, acting IRS district director for southern Texas, cautioned taxpayers about to file their 1974 federal income tax return to check it over carefully before mailing it to the Austin IRS Service Center.

Longley said that taxpayers who take those extra few minutes often find errors in arithmetic or other basic, but common, mistakes which must be corrected in processing and could delay the issuance of refund checks.

Taxpayers, he said, should make certain they have entered the correct social security number, used the correct figures from tax tables and schedules, attached all necessary documents, and have signed the return if they want a prompt refund.

Longley also urged taxpayers to attach the pre-addressed label in the space provided on the tax return they file with the IRS, to assure correct identification of the return.

Margie Lamb lost 25 3/4 pounds and 43 inches.

At age 42 Margie Lamb decided to do something about her figure problems. At age 43 she has them solved with the Pat Walker Method. She writes: "One year ago this time I was a hefty 152 pounds and at my age I had to make a decision to do something about my weight. So I went to Pat Walker's determined to lose weight... and I did! In just six short, enjoyable months I had gone from a size 14 to a size 8. I had tried other methods of reducing but Pat Walker's was the only one that worked for me. I wouldn't change my dress size or my appearance and happiness for anything."

Margie Lamb

Letter to The Editor

Editor, The Pilot,

Yep, we need a new airport hangar like we need a new rooster in the hen house, if we were producing eating eggs.

Yep, the corporation executives need a cozy new hangar so they can pop in for a little fishing or have a game of olive dunking in their martinis. I have my doubts that many of them fly in here to conduct business with Rockport business men. I don't think it would be too hard on their well-worn credit cards to rent a car at the Corpus Christi Airport, when doing business elsewhere.

Yep, we should get out the crying towels and give three big sobs for these privileged people, who take off and land at Aransas County airport with their noisy jets, while John Citizen digs into the sugar bowl to pay more taxes for airport hangars.

Yep, I am an old foggy who settled here ten years ago, because I liked the peace and quiet of the area along with the item of no parking meters in Rockport, but these desirable qualities of peace and quiet are slowly deteriorating. I can stand the fly boys in their single engine planes and tolerate the noisier two engine jobs with propellers, but the jets really rattle my brain cells and shake me up. My friends tell me they have the same reactions.

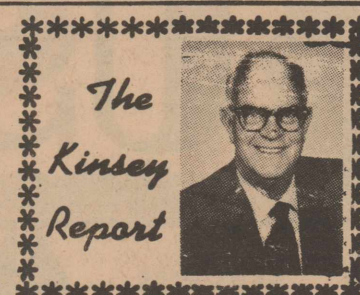

Yep, the county judge and county commissioners should increase their vitamin dosages to give them the energy to put forth their greatest effort in order to get that gold plated hangar finished, pronto.

D.A. Yandell

P.S. Maybe we should have a vote to see how many "yeps" we could get for more noise pollution.

It's great to be young and rugged and to like golf so much you will play even when the temperature is in the 40s, the wind is blowing and the chill factor makes the weather equivalent to 17 degrees.

I hasten to add that I'm not that rugged, but my son-in-law, Ken Herbort, of Kerrville is.

I took my clubs along last weekend when we went to Kerrville to spend the Easter weekend with Ken, our daughter Pam and grandsons Mike and Jay. I had intended to play Saturday with Ken and two of his friends at the Lady Bird Johnson Golf course near Fredericksburg.

But when that cold front arrived, it didn't take me long to decide that indoors was the place for me—not shivering on any golf course.

But Ken and his two buddies didn't let a little thing like cold weather keep them at home. They played, and when they got home they said they saw a total of five other guys on the course "just as nutty as we are."

Anyway, we had a great time and I promised Ken the next time we visited, it was bound to be warmer and he and I would get out and try to hit that little white pellet.

TAURUS--April 21 to May 20--The old saying "all work and no play" applies to you now in reverse. Stop playing so much and start working.

GEMINI--May 21 to June 20--Worry about the second impression as much as the first. If you lay it on too thick, you may find the sledding a little rough on the second encounter.

CANCER--June 21 to July 22--Better forget the idea that "what's mine is mine" and "what yours is mine." You must be tolerant of the needs and feelings of others.

LEO--July 23 to Aug. 22--Keep goals realistic. Before making a major change in your lifestyle, be certain the situation is one you can live and be happy with.

VIRGO--Aug. 23 to Sept. 22--Good planning carefully executed spells success in a new venture for you.

Fashion
Smart looking jogging suits are in the news. Of course, these may be used for other occasions, such as cycling or other casual affairs. Jackets are short, with elastic waistbands and some have eight inch zippers up from the bottom of the leg. This makes for easy pull-ons.

Some of the tennis clothes being seen have bare mid-ribs. But the majority have sleeveless bodices and short skirts.

Hats are seen on the beaches and on the courts.

by

It has been proven, time and time again, that the stocking of exotic species of wildlife should be left to trained biologists, and that they should consider such transplants only after long and thorough study on the effects this introduction will have on the native species. Even the introduction of domestic species of livestock into an area can have a drastic effect on wildlife.

When cattle are grazed in deer country it normally doesn't have any great effect on the deer found there, but when sheep or goats are moved in, a situation is created that can blow up in your face. Cattle are grazers, they eat grass and not much else as long as it is available - long grass, short grass, young grass, old grass - they'll eat it all.

Deer, on the other hand, are browsers. They eat brush, weeds, forbes, and vines and will usually only eat only the youngest, tenderest shoots of grass.

Sheep and goats, especially goats, eat almost exactly the same thing that deer eat. This can almost always cause a shortage of deer food, especially when there is a drouth that would make for rather slim pickings, even if there were no sheep or goats.

Other species of wildlife are affected by the introduction of sheep and goats. The larger predators, such as the mountain lion, coyote, and bobcat, don't do too much damage to cattle, so cattle ranchers are not too enthusiastic about predator control programs. On the other hand, the man who runs sheep and goats will not rest easy as long as there is even one of these predators left in his country.

Such species as the golden eagle suffer relentless persecution, even though they don't do all that much damage. This set of circumstances can set up a vicious cycle. When the predators are cut down the deer herd will increase. When the deer herd increases the competition for food increases, and when a food shortage occurs it is the deer that suffer.

The domestic animals can be fed, or, when the shortage becomes acute enough, they can even be moved off the range.

The overpopulation of deer which exists because of the lack of natural predation, however, can do nothing but stay on the range and starve. The result is deer die-offs such as we have grown used to in the Edward Plateau area. These die-offs are becoming more and more a part of the outdoor scene in Texas as we constantly increase our deer herds to take care of the ever-increasing number of hunters.

Sheep and goats can be detrimental to wildlife in another way, too. The parasites and diseases they carry can be controlled in domestic herds, but when you move them into pronghorn antelope country you might as well move the antelope out. They can't survive these parasites and diseases, and will soon be wiped out.

The destruction of desert bighorn sheep in Texas is credited to diseases introduced by domestic sheep, and although we are trying to re-establish this noble animal in remote areas of the Big Bend, it is a long, slow process with no guarantee of ultimate success.

Everything man does seems to have some impact on our wildlife. The only thing we can do is keep trying to find some compromise that will allow man to continue his "progress" and, at the same time, allow wildlife to live in the environment we create.

Nursing Home News Items

Aransas Pass Convalescent and Nursing Center news for March 24-30:

It seems to me that I find myself beginning my news for the last week as a wonderful one. Well that is just the way it is. The fine people and groups of this whole area make it so.

Monday morning at 10:30 Father Hamilton had mass for all who wished to attend.

Monday afternoon was Mr. Kiely's last time to come over and play the piano for our "sing song" hour. All of us and also those of the area who came out for this program are going to miss it.

If there is anyone who can and is willing to honor us in coming out to play the piano for us so we can have our weekly sing along, all of us would surely appreciate it.

Tuesday morning the First Assembly of God Church of Aransas Pass came out for their program. They honored each one having a birthday in March. At this time I would like to thank all of the ladies of the church and friends as well for the nice decorated coffee cans which they made up and gave each resident to put their food stuff in. This was quite a project and it is a good and worthy cause.

Tuesday afternoon the W.M.U. ladies of the First Baptist Church of Aransas Pass came out for their monthly "Birthday Party" and to play games. Each one observing a birthday in March was honored with a useful gift and refreshments of ice cream, cupcake, cookies and punch were served.

Wednesday morning our weekly paint class with Bonnie Fletcher instructing the class. For Easter, Bonnie made bunny litter bags for each one taking part and she let them paint them for themselves. "Thank you!"

Wednesday evening the LULACS came out for their game night. They also brought Easter favors for everyone.

Thursday morning the Pentecostal Church of Aransas Pass came out for their program.

The rest of Thursday, Friday and Saturday, our beautician, Lois Kinney, was very busy getting our ladies ready for Easter.

Friday evening the men of the Church of Christ of Aransas Pass came out to show films of the Bible.

Saturday, Holy Communion was administered to our Catholic residents.

We had a great number of our residents going out for passes on Easter.

Early Sunday morning the social director came out at breakfast time and gave each of our residents favors of little rabbits dressed in every kind of costume. These favors were made by a small group of ladies who call themselves "The Workbasket Club." These ladies put in many hours on this project and our people really were proud of their favors.

The director had breakfast with the residents and then at ten o'clock, church services were held by Rev. Al Bankert.

Sunday afternoon was left for visitors and friends to come out and spend some time with the residents.

I would like to thank the ladies of the First United Methodist Church of Aransas Pass for giving us a very nice portable stereo and album of the Mormon Tabernacle Choir.

Sunday morning after church, we played our religious albums for all to enjoy.

Thanks goes to the ladies of the First Baptist Church of Ingleside for the lap robes and knit houseslippers. We needed them.

A very special thanks to the First National Bank of Rockport for the matches and for the beautiful arrangement of spring flowers made of plastic that adorn the top of our piano. Thanks so very much.

Thanks to Mr. Hableutzel for all the pretty flowers he brings to us every day.

The residents of our home would like to thank Mr. Phillip Howard for the pretty potted lily he had placed on the altar of the First United Methodist Church in honor of all the residents. We will enjoy it for some time and then we will plant it on the grounds of the Nursing Center. Thank you, sir, we love you for your kindness and for the love you have for each one of us.

Last, but not least, we thank Judge Crawford for the potted lilies he brought to all of us.

LONDON--Mrs. Christine Woodley didn't pay much attention when workmen started digging a hole in the street outside her home four years ago. Mrs. Woodley said: "The workmen told me they were searching for a gully pipe which drains away water."

ACCENT ON HEALTH

J.E. PEAVY, M.D.
Commissioner of Health

You wouldn't normally think of animal bites in the sense of an epidemic, but considered in that light Texas is in the midst of a serious outbreak.

Last year, reports the State Health Department, 10,105 persons reported being bitten by an animal. Through its Bureau of Veterinary Public Health, an animal bite surveillance program is conducted in Texas. Those reports from local health authorities in 1974 covered an average human population of approximately 3.1 million persons per month.

Put in normal reporting terminology, the animal bite rate for 1974 was 330 per 100,000 population. This is an increase in bites of 30 per 100,000 population over the previous year when reports submitted monthly covered approximately 3.5 million persons.

These biting incidents turned up some interesting statistics.

For instance, of the 10,205 persons bitten, more than a third were less than 10 years of age and just over 60 per cent were less than 20 years of age. And, 60 percent of the victims were males.

Dogs were responsible for 83 percent of the bites and cats for almost 12 percent. Foxes, skunks and rodents contributed to the bite totals.

While the trauma of being bitten and the possible infection from the wounds is of great concern, the State Health Department has a strong interest in another aspect of animal bites -- rabies.

Of more than 8,400 dogs involved in biting episodes, just over one third were reported as vaccinated against rabies. Less than 10 percent of 1,204 cats involved in biting incidents were known to have been vaccinated against rabies.

This left more than 65 percent of the dogs and more than 90 percent of the cats involved in biting incidents with either no vaccinations or an unknown vaccination status.

And, it left the victims of bites with a big decision -- whether to take antirabies treatments.

These treatments were received by 1,140 persons last year, people who couldn't afford to take the chance of coming down with rabies.

The State Health Department Laboratories were called on to help make that decision in many instances during 1974. During that period, a total of 7,244 specimens were submitted to Health Department Laboratories for examinations.

Rabies was confirmed by laboratory tests in 396 animals in Texas last year. The rabies confirmation came in 13 different animal species. Included were 98 pet animals--89 dogs and nine cats. The bulk of rabid animals was in wildlife--256 cases.

Luckily, Texas hasn't had a documented human death due to natural exposure to rabies since 1962. During 1972, however, one human death was attributed to exposure to rabies virus in a laboratory.

The potential for rabies in animals is always present, since it is endemic in wildlife. You never know when it may cross over into the world of pets, especially in rural or semi-rural areas.

One publicized case of rabies appeared in January in Killeen and resulted in a nationwide rabies alert.

A roadside dealer in both strays and unwanted dogs sold a puppy from her station wagon to a Killeen family. The puppy had been given to the dealer by some young men in a sports car.

The new pet soon became hostile, biting a small child and was diagnosed in the animal.

As a result, a search was begun for the first owners of the puppy in case other dogs in the litter became ill. They were never found.

But, 35 animals sold during the time the puppy had been in custody of the animal dealer were located, sacrificed and tested for rabies with negative results. A pickup of stray dogs in Killeen resulted in 300 animals being taken off the streets. Most were returned to their owners, said local health authorities. No more rabies was found.

However, eight people were given the series of antirabies treatments. And, the little girl who was the original bite victim still is under observation after receiving extended treatments.

What could have been a tragedy appears to be having a happy ending.

Hazards Of The Garden

The home gardening season is now in full swing throughout Texas. Millions are back at the annual battle with crab grass and insects in the perennial effort to add a touch of natural color and beauty to our Texas scenery.

The Texas Medical Association recommends gardening as a good means of exercise and therapy for almost everyone. But doctors warn that gardening entails some hazards of safety and health, most of which can be avoided.

Yard accidents occur more frequently to amateurs and younger gardeners than to experts or adults. Gardeners who are aware of the potential dangers are less likely to get hurt.

*If you have done nothing more strenuous than sit by the fire most of the winter, by all means take it easy for the first few weekends of gardening. Give your muscles a chance to regain strength gradually, rather than trying to do too much the first day out.

*Gardening sometimes brings cuts and scratches from twigs, thorns, and sharp tools. First aid usually consists of washing the scratch with soap and water and applying an adhesive bandage. Let it bleed a little to wash away impurities. Deeper cuts, of course, require medical attention.

*Learn how to recognize poisonous vines and shrubs, so you can avoid them, or root them out.

*Power tools, particularly lawn mowers, are standard equipment for the modern home gardener. Be sure to study the instructions regarding safe usage. If in doubt, check with a mechanic on potential hazards of power tools.

*Insect sprays and powders, plus poisons that kill weeds are useful in garden maintenance, but these also have inherent hazards if improperly or carelessly stored or used. Once again, read the directions, especially the warnings.

*Bees, wasps, and spiders are out for the spring season too. Occasionally one of them might sting you. For the majority of us, a sting is painful and causes swelling, but isn't serious. If you are one of those individuals with an allergy to insect stings, ask your doctor about the desensitizing injections.

*Select garden tools with care. Use the right tool for the job at hand, and keep tools in good condition, clean and sharp. Dull tools are unsafe. Broken tools are dangerous. Rusty tools are difficult to use. Store tools in a safe place. Lying on the ground or piled carelessly in a corner, tools can cause accidents.

Consumer Food News

College Station -- Beef prices are edging downward, and supplies remain large, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt said this week.

"Lower grade beef accounts for the supply increase, but this in no way implies a decrease in nutritive value -- difference is in the marbling or specks of fat within the lean, and size of cuts," the consumer marketing information specialist explained.

Consumers can look for best values on chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef, round steaks and liver, according to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A & M University System, specialist.

"Fryer chicken supplies are adequate for demand, and some stores have them at special prices.

"Also, eggs and cheese offer big protein for little money.

At vegetable counters, potatoes have reasonable prices, along with cabbage, carrots, dry yellow onions, celery, turnips, rutabagas and cooking greens, and "clip-top" turnips and rutabagas are available at attractive prices, Mrs. Clyatt said.

Fruit buys at economical levels are grapefruit, oranges, bananas, apples, pineapple, pears and strawberries.

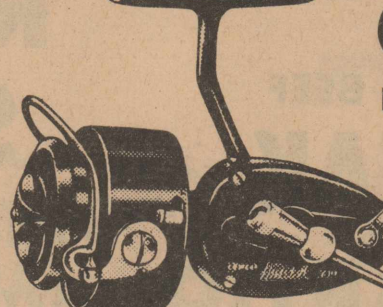

CONSUMER WATCH-WORDS: Buy extra fryer chickens now for the freezer when you find a real bargain -- prices will go higher this summer.
