Present Farm Program Best Yet Available

Domestic Allotment Plan Is Bitterly Assailed; Plains Men Named As Officials

(By The Associated Press)

WACO, Oct. 26—Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.), member of the senate agricultural committee, today attacked the domestic allotment farm plan, charging its adoption would "set southern farmers back to their deplorable predicament of 1933."

In an address closing the Texas Agriculture association convention, he defended the AAA program as the best program for the American farmers that could be formulated at this time.

Best To Be Drafted

"The bill that is now the law, in my opinion and in the opinion of thousands of progressive and forward-seeing farmers over the nation, is the very best that could have been drafted at the time it was drafted," Ellender said. "And until you present us with something better, I am unwilling to ditch the present program."

Senator Ellender charged "big business" of the north had brought about the depressing conditions of southern farmers, and said "those who handle the cotton—not produce it—are the ones who favor the domestic allotment plan."

Surplus Major Problem

The major problem confronting congress now is surplus farm products, he said. "We must find new uses for cotton. And then we must set up some measure to insure at least parity prices for the farmer, whether it is through a processing tax or not, which is probably the most favorable."

Ellender said the AAA was set up to meet the demands of the nation as a whole, and could not be drafted to suit any particular locality or condition. "Amendments," he said, "were possible, so why sling away this good start for something that will set the farmers back to their deplorable condition of 1933?"

Law To Be Successful

Ellender called attention to wage-hour legislation, stating if industry and labor cooperate, the law would be successful. "And if industry does not cooperate and tries to find a loop hole to crawl through, congress is apt to pass legislation that would be more effective."

Resolutions passed included one endorsing the present AAA program but recommending certain changes, with a process tax included; one

Medical Cost Will Be Low

(By The Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 26.—Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the social security board, declared today the national medical care program proposed recently by a federal committee will cost only $10 or less per person yearly in new taxation.

Addressing the annual meeting of the American Public Health association he said the program, which will be presented for consideration at the next session of congress, provides for a gradual expansion of federal and state expenditures for health activities which would reach a total of $850,000,000 annually at the end of ten years.

This sum would be distributed, roughly at $200,000,000 for expansion of public health activities, $165,000,000 for maternal and child health work, $150,000,000 for building and maintaining new hospitals, and $335,000,000 for care of the medically needy who are too poor to afford it.

Madcap Heiress Declares That She Plans To Fight For Preservation Of Marriage

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Oct. 26 — Madcap Merry Fahrney decided today to fight for preservation of her marriage to husband No. 4 despite a court reversal of her divorce from mate No. 3.

The blonde heiress was placed on a marital merry-go-round when the appellate court voided a circuit court decree of last February which had severed the legal ties that bound her to Baron Arturo Berlingieri of Italy.

The ruling raised this question: Is she still the baroness or the wife of her current spouse, Count Oleg Cassini of Russia?

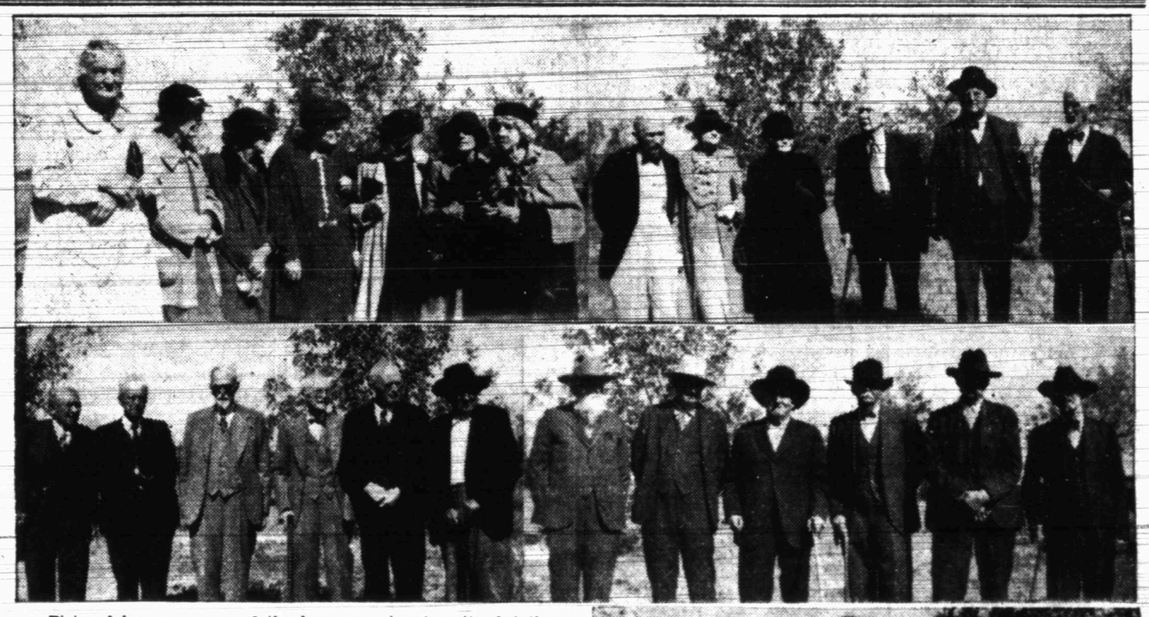

Her attorney, Frank Cantwell, came up with this answer:

"I talked to Merry over the telephone. She'll continue to live with her husband. She's coming here this week. I am filing a motion for a rehearing and, if necessary, will carry the case to the state supreme court. Pending a final decision her marriage to the count is still

Communist Charge Faces Candidates

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 — The house committee investigating un-American activities, undeterred by President Roosevelt's denunciation of its methods, received testimony today that three ranking Democratic candidates in the current California election campaign had communist connections.

Harper Knowles and Ray Nimmo, representing the radical research committee of the California American Legion, at the close of three days' testimony, made the accusation, naming:

Candidates Are Named

Culbert Olson, candidate for governor.

Ellis Patterson, candidate for lieutenant governor.

And Sheridan Downey, candidate for the senate.

President Roosevelt accused the committee last night of making "no effort to get at the truth" in connection with testimony accusing Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan of "treason" in his handling of the 1937 sit-down strikes. He also said the committee had "permitted itself to be used in a flagrantly unfair and un-American attempt to influence an election."

Wholly Misinformed

Chairman Dies (D-Tex.) replied today with an accusation that cabinet members had assisted in a "well-planned campaign of misrepresentation, ridicule and sarcasm," conducted "by those who hoped to discredit the investigation." He said the president was "wholly misinformed" and challenged him to submit the testimony regarding Murphy to a committee of lawyers who would pass upon its validity as evidence.

At intervals in today's testimony, Dies continued his hammering at Secretary Perkins and the labor department for postponing deportation proceedings against Harry Bridges, west coast director of the C. I. O., maritime union.

FDR Seeking Mighty Navy

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—President Roosevelt said today, on the eve of the annual observance of Navy day, that the nation's seapower must be adequate "to insure positive protection against any aggressor."

In an annual letter to the secretary of the navy, which assumed special significance in view of the administration's program to reinforce land, sea and air defenses, Mr. Roosevelt declared:

Must Be Ready

"The fleet must be ready."

The president noted that the celebration of Navy day tomorrow, when the fleet will hold open house for the public, coincides with the 80th anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt's birthday.

"It seems particularly fitting," the letter said, "to pay tribute to the vision and foresight of one who always urged:

M. H. Steadham Dies At Home Of Daughter Last Night

Girl Almost Scalped When Attacked By A Huge Polar Bear After Fall Into Cage

(By The Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Oct. 26—A 600-pound polar bear mauled and clawed pretty Julia Zemnick, 21-year-old federal art project worker, for 20 minutes today, leaving her in critical condition from loss of blood and deep lacerations over her body.

While sketching the animal from the top of a wall adjoining a 10-foot fence surrounding its Brookside zoo cage, Miss Zemnick lost her balance and fell screaming into the pit.

With a roar the white beast pounced on her and began to claw her body. She was rescued by quick thinking Curley Wilson, zoo superintendent, and two attendants who came to her aid with a long, sharp-pointed pole. While Wilson held off the bear with the pole, one attendant threw a lasso around one of the girl's legs and dragged her from the cage.

Hospital attendants said the victim was nearly scalped. They called for blood donors and said that removal of the left eye may be necessary.

Aged Residents Of Section Guests At Annual Banquet Conducted At Hale Center

By J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche Staff Writer

HALE CENTER, Oct. 26—Eighteen men and nine women, all of them beyond the three score and ten and 18 of them past the four score year mark, were guests here Wednesday afternoon of Hale Center business men at the ninth annual octogenarian banquet sponsored by the Hale Center Merchant's association.

Held at the Methodist church, with women of the church serving the meal, the pioneers of the South Plains ate, and recalled days of a generation or more ago.

J. H. Lutrick, who achieved the distinction of becoming an octogenarian this year, and who has farmed for 4 seasons on the same farm, almost stole the show from Congressman George Mahon of Colorado, the main speaker. Lutrick, who explained he had not had much formal education and was "not a speaker—I can't make a speech," talked so interestingly of his experiences in Hale county, that after the meeting the audience crowded around him to congratulate him on his talk.

Lutrick came from Henderson county, in East Texas, driving a wagon pulled by oxen, with his wife and children riding in an old hack. He settled near Clesbee, as "Hale City and Epworth did not agree."

The speaker recalled the then frontier section, the few people living here and commented at length on early day experiences.

Program Is Given

Before the serving began Rev. G. I. Brittain of Plainview gave the invocation. After the meal the Hale Center high school choral club sang four numbers, "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginny," "When You and I Were Young," "Silver Threads Among the Gold," and "The Little Brown Church." Webb Jenkins, instructor of music, directed the group.

Rev. W. R. Burnett, pastor, welcomed the guests of the group in a brief talk. He used as the basis of

Dictator Rule Is Criticised

Says United States Must Arm To Meet Any Application Of Force By Other Powers

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—President Roosevelt, in a virtually unprecedented condemnation of nations which suppress liberty, persecute Jews, and use threats of war to attain national ends, issued a warning tonight that the United States would protect the western hemisphere from interference from abroad.

Speaking by radio from the oval room of the White House in connection with the New York Herald Tribune's forum on current affairs, Mr. Roosevelt added:

Must Not Be Threat

"And we affirm our faith that, whatever choice of way of life a people makes, that choice must not threaten the world with the disaster of war.

"The impact of such a disaster cannot be confined. It releases a flood-tide of evil emotions fatal to civilized living. That statement applies not to the western hemisphere alone but to the whole of Europe and Asia and Africa and the islands of the seas."

He declared that until foreign nations give the United States something more than mere verbal assurances that they desire disarmament—until disarmament discussions are actually started — this country must arm "to meet with success any application of force against us."

Crisis Not Mentioned

Without mentioning directly the recent war crisis which led to the settlement of Munich, the president declared:

"It is becoming increasingly clear that peace by fear has no higher or more enduring quality than peace by the sword.

"There can be no peace if the reign of law is to be replaced by a recurrent sanctification of sheer force.

"There can be no peace if national policy adopts as a deliberate instrument the threat of war."

Freedom Is Necessary

Without mentioning the measures adopted against Jews by Germany and Italy, he said:

"There can be no peace if national policy adopts as a deliberate instrument the dispersion all over the world of millions of helpless and persecuted wanderers with no place to lay their heads."

And on the subject of liberty of

"Guys Who Said Life Begins At 40 Cockeyed Liars," Condemned Man Declares

(By The Associated Press)

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 26.—A 40-year-old convicted slayer who faces a firing squad at dawn Monday at his own request said today "I'm going out there and prove that those guys who said that life begins at 40 are cockeyed liars."

Less than two months ago John W. Deering observed the 40th anniversary of his birth. Most of those years had been spent in prisons and reform schools. Rather than go back he demanded—and received—the death penalty for the May 9 shooting of Oliver R. Meredith, jr., Salt Lake City businessman.

"Yes sir, that's a laugh," he said in an interview. "Those guys talk about life beginning at 40. Well, I'll prove they're liars, and maybe it's just as well at that."

Laughing, expounding his philosophy of life, the red-faced slayer observed he had everyone pretty well puzzled by his desire to die.

"Of course, I try not to think about it," he said. "No man, I don't care who he is or how tough, can face a thing like that casually. But I want it."

Deering believes he has nothing to lose by dying. He believes, so he says, there is no hereafter. He believes there is no God, "for how could a man with power to create the world permit it to get in the rotten shape it's in."

"Society has a bigger debt to pay than I have," he continued. "It's got to pay some time for its attitude toward the underprivileged youth. I have one theory I wish I could get across. That is that the chamber of commerce, department stores, and community chest money—if it's ever used for anything good—be used to give the poor kids an athletic field. There they could hold contests for the kids and the stores could furnish prizes.

"Then some kid who didn't win could say to himself, 'Well, I almost beat him that time,' and would go out and practice and try to improve himself. He'd stay away from the streets. That's how I started, getting in with the wrong fellows."

The blonde heiress was placed on a marital merry-go-round when the appellate court voided a circuit court decree of last February which had severed the legal ties that bound her to Baron Arturo Berlingieri of Italy.

The ruling raised this question: Is she still the baroness or the wife of her current spouse, Count Oleg Cassini of Russia?

Her attorney, Frank Cantwell, came up with this answer:

"I talked to Merry over the telephone. She'll continue to live with her husband. She's coming here this week. I am filing a motion for a rehearing and, if necessary, will carry the case to the state supreme court. Pending a final decision her marriage to the count is still

Communist Charge Faces Candidates

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 — The house committee investigating un-American activities, undeterred by President Roosevelt's denunciation of its methods, received testimony today that three ranking Democratic candidates in the current California election campaign had communist connections.

Harper Knowles and Ray Nimmo, representing the radical research committee of the California American Legion, at the close of three days' testimony, made the accusation, naming:

Candidates Are Named

Culbert Olson, candidate for governor.

Ellis Patterson, candidate for lieutenant governor.

And Sheridan Downey, candidate for the senate.

President Roosevelt accused the committee last night of making "no effort to get at the truth" in connection with testimony accusing Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan of "treason" in his handling of the 1937 sit-down strikes. He also said the committee had "permitted itself to be used in a flagrantly unfair and un-American attempt to influence an election."

Wholly Misinformed

Chairman Dies (D-Tex.) replied today with an accusation that cabinet members had assisted in a "well-planned campaign of misrepresentation, ridicule and sarcasm," conducted "by those who hoped to discredit the investigation." He said the president was "wholly misinformed" and challenged him to submit the testimony regarding Murphy to a committee of lawyers who would pass upon its validity as evidence.

At intervals in today's testimony, Dies continued his hammering at Secretary Perkins and the labor department for postponing deportation proceedings against Harry Bridges, west coast director of the C. I. O., maritime union.

FDR Seeking Mighty Navy

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—President Roosevelt said today, on the eve of the annual observance of Navy day, that the nation's seapower must be adequate "to insure positive protection against any aggressor."

In an annual letter to the secretary of the navy, which assumed special significance in view of the administration's program to reinforce land, sea and air defenses, Mr. Roosevelt declared:

Must Be Ready

"The fleet must be ready."

The president noted that the celebration of Navy day tomorrow, when the fleet will hold open house for the public, coincides with the 80th anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt's birthday.

"It seems particularly fitting," the letter said, "to pay tribute to the vision and foresight of one who always urged:

Girl Almost Scalped When Attacked By A Huge Polar Bear After Fall Into Cage

(By The Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Oct. 26—A 600-pound polar bear mauled and clawed pretty Julia Zemnick, 21-year-old federal art project worker, for 20 minutes today, leaving her in critical condition from loss of blood and deep lacerations over her body.

While sketching the animal from the top of a wall adjoining a 10-foot fence surrounding its Brookside zoo cage, Miss Zemnick lost her balance and fell screaming into the pit.

With a roar the white beast pounced on her and began to claw her body. She was rescued by quick thinking Curley Wilson, zoo superintendent, and two attendants who came to her aid with a long, sharp-pointed pole. While Wilson held off the bear with the pole, one attendant threw a lasso around one of the girl's legs and dragged her from the cage.

Hospital attendants said the victim was nearly scalped. They called for blood donors and said that removal of the left eye may be necessary.

Dictator Rule Is Criticised

Says United States Must Arm To Meet Any Application Of Force By Other Powers

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—President Roosevelt, in a virtually unprecedented condemnation of nations which suppress liberty, persecute Jews, and use threats of war to attain national ends, issued a warning tonight that the United States would protect the western hemisphere from interference from abroad.

Speaking by radio from the oval room of the White House in connection with the New York Herald Tribune's forum on current affairs, Mr. Roosevelt added:

Must Not Be Threat

"And we affirm our faith that, whatever choice of way of life a people makes, that choice must not threaten the world with the disaster of war.

"The impact of such a disaster cannot be confined. It releases a flood-tide of evil emotions fatal to civilized living. That statement applies not to the western hemisphere alone but to the whole of Europe and Asia and Africa and the islands of the seas."

He declared that until foreign nations give the United States something more than mere verbal assurances that they desire disarmament—until disarmament discussions are actually started — this country must arm "to meet with success any application of force against us."

Crisis Not Mentioned

Without mentioning directly the recent war crisis which led to the settlement of Munich, the president declared:

"It is becoming increasingly clear that peace by fear has no higher or more enduring quality than peace by the sword.

"There can be no peace if the reign of law is to be replaced by a recurrent sanctification of sheer force.

"There can be no peace if national policy adopts as a deliberate instrument the threat of war."

Freedom Is Necessary

Without mentioning the measures adopted against Jews by Germany and Italy, he said:

"There can be no peace if national policy adopts as a deliberate instrument the dispersion all over the world of millions of helpless and persecuted wanderers with no place to lay their heads."

And on the subject of liberty of

He announced if the "shooting schedule" left an open date for him Armistice day he would be here for the game and he deeply appreciated the invitations. The Associated Press message from Los Angeles said "he will go if he can possibly make it."

Aged Residents Of Section Guests At Annual Banquet Conducted At Hale Center

By J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche Staff Writer

HALE CENTER, Oct. 26—Eighteen men and nine women, all of them beyond the three score and ten and 18 of them past the four score year mark, were guests here Wednesday afternoon of Hale Center business men at the ninth annual octogenarian banquet sponsored by the Hale Center Merchant's association.

Held at the Methodist church, with women of the church serving the meal, the pioneers of the South Plains ate, and recalled days of a generation, or more ago.

J. H. Lutrick, who achieved the distinction of becoming an octogenarian this year, and who has farmed for 4" seasons on the same farm, almost stole the show from Congressman George Mahon of Colorado, the main speaker. Lutrick, who explained he had not had much formal education and was "not a speaker—I can't make a speech," talked so interestingly of his experiences in Hale county, that after the meeting the audience crowded around him to congratulate him on his talk.

Lutrick came from Henderson county, in East Texas, driving a wagon pulled by oxen, with his wife and children riding in an old hack. He settled near Clesbee, as "Hale City and Epworth did not agree."

The speaker recalled the then frontier section, the few people living here and commented at length on early day experiences.

Program Is Given

Before the serving began Rev. G. I. Brittain of Plainview gave the invocation. After the meal the Hale Center high school choral club sang four numbers, "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginny," "When You and I Were Young," "Silver Threads Among the Gold," and "The Little Brown Church." Webb Jenkins, instructor of music, directed the group.

Rev. W. R. Burnett, pastor, welcomed the guests of the group in a brief talk. He used as the basis of

"Guys Who Said Life Begins At 40 Cockeyed Liars," Condemned Man Declares

(By The Associated Press)

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 26.—A 40-year-old convicted slayer who faces a firing squad at dawn Monday at his own request said today "I'm going out there and prove that those guys who said that life begins at 40 are cockeyed liars."

Less than two months ago John W. Deering observed the 40th anniversary of his birth. Most of those years had been spent in prisons and reform schools. Rather than go back he demanded—and received—the death penalty for the May 9 shooting of Oliver R. Meredith, jr., Salt Lake City businessman.

"Yes sir, that's a laugh," he said in an interview. "Those guys talk about life beginning at 40. Well, I'll prove they're liars, and maybe it's just as well at that."

Laughing, expounding his philosophy of life, the red-faced slayer observed he had everyone pretty well puzzled by his desire to die.

"Of course, I try not to think about it," he said. "No man, I don't care who he is or how tough, can face a thing like that casually. But I want it."

Deering believes he has nothing to lose by dying. He believes, so he says, there is no hereafter. He believes there is no God, "for how could a man with power to create the world permit it to get in the rotten shape it's in."

"Society has a bigger debt to pay than I have," he continued. "It's got to pay some time for its attitude toward the underprivileged youth. I have one theory I wish I could get across. That is that the chamber of commerce, department stores, and community chest money—if it's ever used for anything good—be used to give the poor kids an athletic field. There they could hold contests for the kids and the stores could furnish prizes.

"Then some kid who didn't win could say to himself, 'Well, I almost beat him that time,' and would go out and practice and try to improve himself. He'd stay away from the streets. That's how I started, getting in with the wrong fellows."

Banker Calls On Government And Business For Cooperation In Economy Plan

Dangers Noted Here At Home

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 26 (AP)—Francis E. Frothingham, retiring president of the Investment Bankers' association, called upon government and business today to cooperate for a demonstration of successful operation of the national economy as a defense of the democratic form of government.

Addressing some 700 delegates to the association's 27th annual conference, the white-haired Bostonian warned that while the international strain in Europe has eased, the threat of war was not passed.

Sees Danger At Home

He saw danger at home in overcentralization of authority in Washington, and said the reason the investment houses were still not performing their normal function of raising billions of capital for business annually was continuing uncertainty bred of numerous and changing efforts of government to correct abuses.

The banking leader said while the purpose of the New Deal and the European dictatorships were entirely different, "the concern for us is lest the efforts here to eliminate abuses, to protect and give security to the under-privileged may not take the course of laws and regulations apparently desirable in themselves, so numerous, so intricate, so contradictory, so insinuating into all private affairs, as to bring free democratic processes to a standstill."

Two Fire Escapes Probably To Be Placed On Courthouse

Two fire escapes probably will be placed on the courthouse before the PWA will pay a $9,000 grant supplementing Lubbock county's money on the remodeling project. A delegation representative of the commissioners court left Wednesday for an interview with the Texas fire commissioner at 9 o'clock this morning.

In the group that left were Barrett Penney, T. L. Holt and Ben Mansker, commissioners, and O. R. Walker, architect, and Joe Y. Boyd, county auditor.

Commissioners had hoped, since the building is fireproof except for window and door facings, doors and furniture, that no necessity would be invoked for mounting escapes on walls, maintaining the escapes would mar appearance of the building and cost an amount not commensurate with value.

The group expects to return Thursday night.

Work Of Removing Fossilized Elephant Will Be Continued

Work toward removal of a fossilized elephant from a red clay creek bank near Spur will be continued throughout the winter, Dr. W. C. Holden, curator of the West Texas museum on Texas Technological college campus, said Wednesday.

Part of a leg has been removed. A party from Tech worked at the scene Sunday.

The Pleistocene age elephant apparently became trapped in a bog and died. The skeleton is in an upright position. Normal erosion of the soil resulted in exposure of part of the skeleton.

Porter Montgomery, museum assistant, placed plaster on the bones to protect them until further work could be done. The radius and ulna of a foreleg has been removed.

The animal is thought to have lived about 20,000 years ago.

"Busy" beavers have to keep busy. If not kept short by gnawing, the teeth would grow so long that the animals could not close their mouths.

Levelland Fair Starts Today

LEVELLAND, Oct. 26 (Special)—A record jubilee is planned in Hockley county for Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The second annual event is to be held in the association's own building, and additional space for women's exhibits and commercial exhibits has been provided.

R. D. McDonald, president of the fair association declared Wednesday he believed the jamboree would be by far the biggest event of its kind in the history of the county. Although farmers are busy with crop harvesting, they have shown more activity than in other years along this line.

In a dozen communities over the county, including Levelland, a committee of three and a chairman was named to work up a community booth or exhibit. It is believed every one will have a representative exhibit here.

Thursday will be for display and judging of sheep and cattle. Jersey and Shorthorn cattle are to be featured with Don F. Turner, Amherst, county agent of Lamb county, calling winners.

On Thursday also will be judging of community and agricultural exhibits, with Don L. Jones, superintendent of the Lubbock state experiment sub-station as judge.

Friday is swine, horse and mule day, with H. B. Horn, Plains, Yoakum county agent, as judge.

Saturda, is poultry day, with an exhibit in the Williams-Gentry building. Roy Hickman, Morton, Cochran county agent, as judge.

Special entertainment has been arranged, including a rodeo, dog races and a carnival.

Rodeo Strictly Amateur

Pete Daniels is in charge of the rodeo. It is to be a strictly amateur affair, with cowboys from the ranches of the county and adjoining counties participating. Local ranches will supply the wild cattle and the rodeo will be more in the nature of a real western feature than professional showing. Daniels is a rodeo promoter of ability and experience.

W. J. Robertson, compress manager here is promoting the dog races. Owner of one of the largest kennels in West Texas, Robertson has had wide experience in races of nation-wide importance. He has contacted many of the larger kennel owners of the section.

Carnival Is On Hand

A large carnival company has been here this week with its rides, shows, etc. It has done excellent business and will be a popular place for the youngsters to take on the entertainment.

Besides President McDonald, J. C. Peeler, Paul F. Lawlis, J. Russell Mitchell and F. A. Benbow are the general committee of directors.

Community chairmen include: H. B. Newton, Anton; J. F. Tomlinson, Center; Dudley Davis, Cobleland; J. M. Shirley, Clauene; A. D. Potts, Hodges; J. N. Murphrey, Levelland; A. G. Jungman, Pep; Tom F. Johnson, Pettit; O. E. Lucas, Ropesville; W. F. Brown, Smyer; G. M. Denton, Sundown; H. E. Collier, Whitharral.

On the general booth committee are, Howard Winn, chairman; Will Chastain, Levelland; C. R. Lehl, Smyer; Jungman of Pep; R. M. St. Clair, George Beakley and A. B. Roberts, Levelland.

Pilots Are Changed In Daring Action

LANCASTER, Calif., Oct. 26 (AP) — In two daring maneuvers, pilots were changed today in a light airplane attempting to establish a new endurance record of more than 136 hours in the air, non-stop.

Thomas H. Smith of Clarksburg, West Va., who took the plane up at 1:25 p. m. last Sunday, became ill from fumes, and his co-pilot, Clyde Schlieper of Long Beach, Calif., although ill himself, dropped a message to the ground crew, asking relief.

A parachute was attached to a rope dangling from the plane, and Schlieper hauled it in. At an altitude of 2,000 feet the groggy Smith went over the side of the plane and landed safely.

Harley Long, Long Beach test pilot, later relieved Smith. He leaped from a truck, from which refuelling operations are conducted, to a rope ladder Schlieper had lowered.

Overhauling Of Texas Primary Election Law Suggested By Supreme Court

Final Decision Being Proposed

AUSTIN, Oct. 26. (AP) — The supreme court recommended today overhauling Texas' primary election law.

Because of insufficient time between the second primary and the general election, the court said the law providing for contests of primary results was virtually inoperative.

It suggested decisions by district courts might be made final in contests for district, county, precinct and municipal offices, as they were at one time in the past. Now all election contests may be carried from the district court through the courts of civil appeals to the supreme court.

Dismissed As Moot

Often contests cannot be finally adjudicated and the suits are dismissed as moot.

The recommendation was in an opinion by Associate Justice Richard Critz in the case of W. E. Iles whom the court held was the Democratic nominee for county superintendent of public instruction in Sabine county, nominated by one vote.

Aeronautical Group To Be Formed Here

Steps toward organizing a National Aeronautical association chapter in Lubbock will be taken in an 8 o'clock meeting Sunday night in Hilton hotel, and Charles A. Rowe of Dallas, state head of the organization, will be here the following Thursday to perfect organization.

Clent Breedlove, manager of Municipal airport, said the NAA sponsors most of the record flights of the nation, including races, altitude attempts and the like.

The chapter will be signed Sunday night, dues paid and all made ready for Rowe's visit. Rowe will fly here in the plane he uses in association with his representing a major oil company.

Membership allows one to receive the official magazine, an identification card, lapel wings and special rates for airmen in numerous hotels of the country.

Organization here intends "more support of aviation," said Breedlove, who said membership is not limited to fliers and that "the more who attend the better for local aviation."

Plans For Press Clinic At Texas Tech Are Outlined

Cecil Horne, head professor of journalism of Texas Technological college, Joe B. Cowan, instructor in the department, and Mrs. Ross Ayers, journalism instructor at Senior High school, made plans for a meeting of the West Texas Scholastic Press clinic, Nov. 4-5, at the college.

Cowan said free tickets to the Tech-Loyola of the South football game Nov. 5 would be given to visiting journalism students and sponsors registered for the clinic meeting, through courtesy of the college athletic council.

Chas. A. Guy, editor of Avalanche-Journal publications, has accepted invitation to be principal speaker at the banquet the night of Nov. 4 in Hilton hotel.

General sessions will be conducted in the engineering building auditorium and group meetings in rooms at that building.

An exhibit of school newspapers and annuals is being planned.

New Voting Precinct To Take Place Of Two In Dawson

LAMESA, Oct. 26.—Beginning next Jan. 1 a new voting precinct takes the place of the old Pride and Lou districts in the northwestern part of the county.

Both precincts were consolidated, with the Methodist church in Welch the voting place.

The commissioners' court ordered formation of Precinct 20, to be at Shumake. Boundaries of justice precincts 1 and 2 were changed to put Shumake in precinct 1.

Hagin box was discontinued. Voters there will vote at Patricia.

Call 'Em Anything, They're Still Nuts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)— It is agreed that pecans are nuts.

There is no such unanimity of opinion, however, as to the pronunciation. Three variations cropped out in discussions here on the pecan shelling industry, which seeks exemption from wage-hour act terms.

They may be "peekahns" with the last syllable accented. "Pee cans" (as in tin cans), or "pee kahns," with each syllable distinctly accented.

President Roosevelt at his press conference used the third alternative. Most folk from southern pecan producing regions used the first choice, while others from Middle Atlantic states used the second.

Additional Seats Installed To Care For Revival Crowds

Additional seats have been installed to accommodate crowds attending the revival at the Church of God, 424 Avenue G, for which Rev. S. O. Whitman of Seattle is evangelist, according to announcement last night by Rev. R. M. Nolen, pastor.

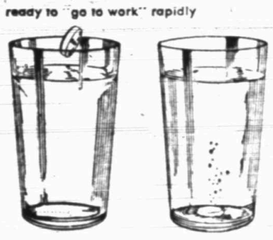

Although the revival is scheduled to close Sunday night, the pastor said, it may be prolonged another week. The evangelist's subject tonight will be, "Let Us Reason Together," and will be an inter-denominational sermon.

Special music by the choir, a quartet and stringed groups is presented at each service, the minister said.

That Everyone Who Takes Aspirin Should Study

Drop a Bayer Tablet in water—it starts to disintegrate in 2 seconds—hence is ready to "go to work" rapidly

This Quick Dissolving Property of Genuine Bayer Aspirin Explains Fast Relief

If you suffer with headaches or the pains of rheumatism or neuritis, keep the above picture about genuine Bayer Aspirin in your mind. Especially if quick relief is what you want.

For the way a Bayer Tablet works in the glass is the way it works when you take it. It starts to dissolve almost at once — hence is ready to "take hold" of the rheumatic pain or headache with astonishing speed. Relief often comes in a few minutes.

Always ask for "BAYER Aspirin" —never ask for "aspirin" alone.

Two New All-Steel Gins Are Operating At Cotton Center

HALE CENTER, Oct. 26.—Where one month ago lay ashes of one gin plant, and the skeleton framework of another, two new all-steel gins are operating today at Cotton Center, 14 miles southwest of Hale Center. One new plant, erected in less than four weeks, houses all 1939 gin machinery, and replaces the Co-op gin burned Sept. 19. This new concern turned out a bale on Oct. 18 after crews of men worked day and night erecting the plant and installing the machinery so no time could be lost in the new cotton season. The Co-op gin is managed by Lynn Young.

The other new structure is the Gill Starnes gin, also built to replace a plant lost by fire, last January. Starnes plant ginned its first bale on Oct. 16.

Cotton in the Cotton Center area will total about 2,000 bales, it is estimated.

Building Is Condemned After Lightning Strikes Nearby

PLAINS, Oct. 26.—When a bolt of lightning during a recent storm struck the ground in front of the Turner school, the building was so shaken that it had to be condemned. The structure was left leaning 4 inches out of line. It is being razed and will be rebuilt.

J. L. Cleveland lost nine head of registered cows during a recent storm.

PLAINVIEW, Oct. 26 — Mayor Tom Shelton announced that a contract between the city, the state highway department and the Panhandle & Santa Fe railroad for construction of a $110,000 overpass on East Fifth street, across railroad tracks, had been authorized.

Entire cost of the construction is to be borne by the railroad and the state highway department, with the city taking care of possible property damage to adjacent property.

It's WARD WEEK at MONTGOMERY WARD

The Woman's Angle

By Mary Louise Tinnin

IN A THREE-MINUTE telephone call, talking unhurriedly but without interruption from the other end, you can get about 350 words off your chest. Abraham Lincoln could have delivered his Gettysburg address (267 words) without paying for overtime. And think what Walter Winchell could spiel off before the last second was ticked.

V. M. I. EXES

"BROTHER RAT" showing at the Palace today will hold more than usual interest for at least two families in Lubbock. A. D. Brown, 2305 Fourteenth street, is a graduate of the Virginia Military Institute, setting for the plot, and the father of Mrs. John A. Winslow, wife of Lubbock's new Episcopal minister, is also a graduate and has taught there. The Brown children are anxious to see it and learn if their father has been telling them the truth all this time.

ON INTRODUCTIONS

OF ALL introductions, none is more irksome than the mistakes made of introducing women to men incorrectly. These occurrences prove embarrassing to the ones meeting, although the friend of each is often ignorant of the confusion he is causing. For instance you hear people say: "Mr. Brown, I'd like you to meet Miss Jones?" This is entirely incorrect.

In the first place, no matter what their respective ages, or whether either is married or single, the man is the one to be presented to the woman. Therefore, her name is mentioned first, not his.

Secondly, the phrase "I'd like to have you meet," etc. is regarded as provincial. The form approved by etiquette as correct everywhere under all circumstances, is as follows: "Miss Jones, may I present Mr. Brown" or "Miss Jones, this is Mr. Brown." The words "may I present" are implied, even when omitted.

THE "LADIES NIGHT"

THE FIFTY women who attended Coach Pete Cawthon's "Ladies Night" in the ballroom of Hotel Lubbock Tuesday learned why their husbands have been so interested in those "downtown coaches" meetings held by the Tech coaches the last year or so. What man, woman or child wouldn't enjoy an illustrated lecture on the fundamentals of football given by that inimitable-voiced P. W. Cawthon?

Pleased by the interest shown, the coach promised the gals there would be other talks when the present schedule thins out a bit. He was surprised at the intelligence of the questions asked and he told the women he believed they knew just about as much about the game as did their husbands.

Oh yes, Mr. Cawthon suggested the women keep their questions to themselves instead of embarrassing their escorts during a strategic point in a game. He and Mrs. Cawthon have never attended a game together and he said (in her presence) he didn't know how much she knows of the gridiron game but she does know enough to keep quiet. That's just a hint.

HALLOWEEN PARTIES

DECORATIONS for the Halloween table or buffet may be found in profusion at the dime or drug stores. We saw a table covered with a paper cloth carrying out the orange and black motif with a jack-o-lantern centerpiece set on leaves. The combination place cards and nut cups were filled with black and orange candies. Witches, black cats and other objects peculiar to the season were placed at intervals.

THE IRISH POTATO

TO OUR amazement, the expressman called around just now with a 25-lb. box of Irish potatoes, courtesy of the Bill Bailey company of Hazelton, Iowa. They're Kahnspotatoes and each one is wrapped in tissue paper just like oranges.

We have visions of baked, boiled, fried, potatoes, potatoes in salad and potato patties.

For no reason whatever, it is always being bruited around that potatoes are fattening. Did you know you can go without them for years and gain weight steadily? That ought to prove something or other. Besides its valuable mineral salts, the lowly tuber is famed for its satiety. One potato on your low calorie menu and you don't even brood about being on a diet.

Well, at least we've talked ourselves into helping the family eat our box.

Twelve-Month Program For Schools Discussed Here

Professional people directly interested in the 12-month cooperative program of homemaking and agriculture for Lubbock county schools met at Mexican Inn at 6:30 p. m. Monday. Purpose of the meeting was to acquaint each with the cooperative plan of the different schools in the county, thus affording an opportunity of putting over a better program through exchange of ideas.

Directly after dinner, a program in the form of reports of cooperative plans for the year from the various schools in the county were given. The reports were from Idalou, New Deal, Cooper, Slaton, Lubbock senior and junior high, Roosevelt and Frenship. Others present offered suggestions and comments.

Interested schools out of Lubbock county also sent representatives. Superintendents of schools, homemaking teachers, and agriculture teachers came from the following towns and communities: Crosbyton, Wolfforth, Whitharral, New Deal, Anton, Meadow, Roosevelt, New Home, McAdoo, Slaton, Cooper, Lubbock, Meadow, Idalou and Shallowater.

Special guests were Claude Hale, county superintendent-elect, Misses Vivian Johnson and Doris Buchanan, Messrs. Ray Chappelle and T. L. Leach, teacher trainers from Texas Technological college; O. T. Ryan and Miss Esther Sorensen, district vocational supervisors, and R. L. Thurman, agriculture graduate student.

SMARTNESS WITH COMFORT

Gloves designed and patented by Merry Hull

These gloves are made on a new principle—with panels that go over the finger-tips—so that you can wiggle all ten digits in complete comfort! Another example of this trend towards comfort in things women wear, is Modess. This sanitary napkin is made on a different principle, too. The filler in Modess is soft and fluffy—unlike napkins made of crepey, close-packed layers. That's why women everywhere say, "For comfort, there's nothing like Modess!"

A miracle of comfort!

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.

You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

Roosevelt Defense Of Murphy Creates New Factors For Political Speculation

Strong Backing For Governor

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—President Roosevelt's vigorous defense of Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan against charges of "treasonable" conduct in handling the 1937 sit-down strike crisis created new factors for political speculation.

The president was not content with laying those charges to "disgruntled" Republicans and attacking the house committee on un-American activities headed by Representative Martin Dies, Texas Democrat and a critic of many administration policies. Mr. Roosevelt's formal statement described the Murphy-Fitzgerald gubernatorial race in Michigan as "vitally important." And it associated the president directly with the procedure Murphy followed during the strike.

Received Daily Reports

"I received almost daily reports on the situation from the governor," the president's statement said.

Attention of political observers also was caught by the warmth with which the president described Murphy's success in meeting the situation "without loss of a single human life" as "a great achievement of a great American." A description of the Michigan governor as "a profoundly religious, able and law-abiding" official also was noted.

The completeness of the presidential endorsement revived speculation as to whether Murphy, in the event of his re-election, might not rate consideration among the possible 1940 Democratic presidential nominees who could find administration favor.

Throughout his Democratic primary campaigning, Mr. Roosevelt spoke neither in behalf of nor against any party colleague with the fervor he put into his statement endorsing Murphy's handling of the sit-down strike crisis.

New Engineering Instructor At Texas Tech Has Arrived

C. G. Decker of Jackson, Mich., has arrived to serve as instructor of civil engineering at Texas Technological college. The appointment was due to increased enrollment.

Decker received a bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan in 1932 and a master's degree there in 1933. He served as engineer with the Michigan st: highway department three years. The last year, he has been an engineer with the Commonwealth and Southern corporation, a utilities holding organization.

His father, A. J. Decker, is a professor of civil engineering at the University of Michigan.

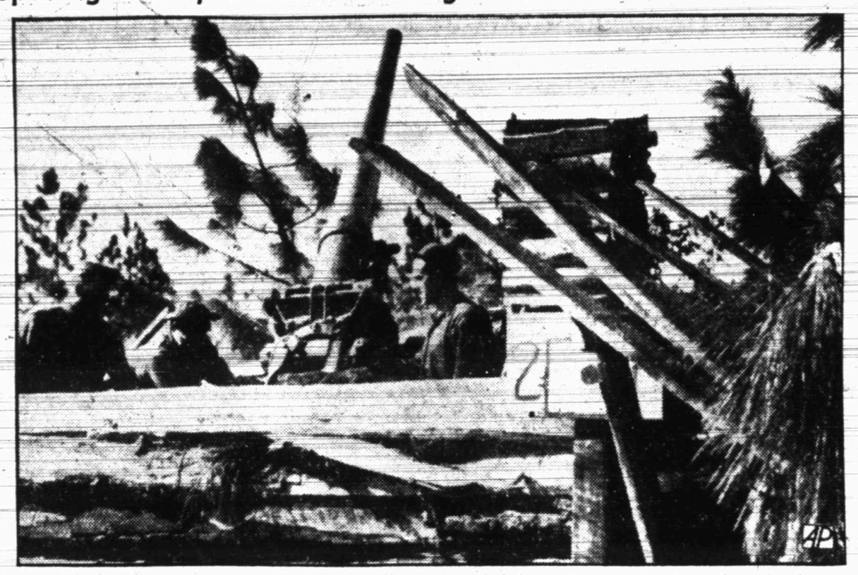

Decker was accompanied here by his wife and two children, Donald Garfield, who is entering Dupre school, and Deborah Joan, not yet of school age. They will live at 2202 Twenty-eighth street.

Construction Of Addition To Lamesa Hospital Is Started

LAMESA, Oct. 26.—Construction of an addition to the Loveless hospital here is underway. The wing is in the shape of an "L" and is on the south side of the present building.

The addition is 34x75 feet. It will contain eight rooms for patients, a living room and a dining room, with a nursery. An entrance for an ambulance has been included in the addition. Allen and Waller are the contractors.

Spotting 'Enemy' Planes From Log Cabin

Army anti-aircraft crews were on the alert as they attempted to spot "enemy" planes in extensive war games at Fort Bragg, N. C. Observers looked for planes coming in from the sea to attack the fort and gunners prepared to defend it, in this instance with a three-inch anti-aircraft gun, partially concealed in a hastily constructed log cabin.

Scholastics For Lubbock Hiked

District officials reported Wednesday the scholastic population of Lubbock independent school district had been set at 6,307.

The state scholastic apportionment of $22 per capita will be on that basis, information said further.

To Receive $138,754

That will mean, officials said, that the district will receive a total of approximately $138,754 from the state, an increase of approximately $14,984 over last year, when the $22 per capita also prevailed.

The report brought expected confirmation of a remarkable increase in the scholastic population within the year, as had been indicated when preliminary census figures were announced several weeks ago.

Last Year's Total 5,673

Final figures reveal that scholastic population has increased from 5,673 in 1937 to the present 6,307, a gain of 634, or slightly more than 11 per cent within the one year.

The report also discloses that the original tabulation of census as announced here proved amazingly accurate.

The census rolls as completed here and forwarded to the state education department in Austin listed 6,339 names—32 more than are contained in the final roll. The "margin of error" thus is shown to have been approximately one-half of one per cent and part of that margin cannot be classified as "error."

Among the names stricken from the rolls, it was explained, are a few of those whose ages were moved up by parents when the child originally entered school. By advancing the ages at that time, the necessity for paying tuition was escaped.

Rechecking of the new rolls in Austin, explanation continued, now discloses that such children have had the allotted number of years in school for which per capita could be paid.

The first state to go dry was Maine, in 1846.

WHY FALSE TEETH WEARERS HAVE Bad Breath

MILLIONS SUFFER WITHOUT KNOWING

You can't notice any odor from your plate or bridge—but others can! Dentists call this odor "denture breath" and it's serious. It comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum is almost invisible—but it can make your breath so bad that friends shudder. It can breed decay-bacteria that infect your other teeth, actually hurt your health and spoil your pleasure.

Ordinary brushing cannot get this scum off plate or bridge—can't protect you against "denture breath." But just try Polident! Polident not only cleans—it actually purifies plates and bridges without brushing. It gets every bit of scum, tarnish, stain and odor—dissolves it away and leaves your plate sweet and clean as new.

Your breath will be fresher, your mouth feel cleaner—and your plate last longer and look better. Polident is approved by dental authorities, Good Housekeeping and tens of thousands of users. Long-lasting can costs only 30¢ at any drug store.

POLIDENT
Cleans, Purifies Like Magic

Put plate or bridge in ½ glass of water. Add a little Polident powder. Leave in 10 to 15 minutes—rinse—and it's sweet and purified—ready to use!

How to pass friends and recognize people

In every 1939 Buick you get the skilled engineering and sturdy quality traditional to Buick—enriched by all the extra value which General Motors science and Buick workmanship can provide.

THERE you sit in a seat like an easy chair, comfortable as a puppy on his pillow.

The wheel in your hand has a fine and friendly feel—the treadle under your foot is a pressing invitation to travel.

Audience "Walks Out" On George Mahon At Hale Center; Students Had Fire Drill

(By Staff Correspondent)

HALE CENTER, Oct. 26—Congressman George Mahon this afternoon was somewhat surprised when his audience ran out on him. He felt lucky that he was not run over in the general exodus of Hale Center high school students from the building.

"The students understand the signals and they will assemble at once in the auditorium," Supt. Frank Andrews said as he sounded the bell for assembly. Mr. Mahon was invited to speak to students, after attending the octogenarian banquet.

Instead the pupils took the signal for a fire drill and marched orderly out of the building. Andrews had to reassemble them for the talk.

Congressman Mahon said afterwards that the students got along famously, once they discovered their error and he "had a great time" talking to them for a few minutes.

Girl Scout Leaders School Will Be Held In November

A training school for Girl Scout leaders and others interested, to be held here five days beginning November 28, was discussed at a meeting of the Local Girl Scout council Tuesday morning in the home of the commissioner, Mrs. Sam Newman. The school will be directed by Miss Katherine Park of the national staff in New York City.

The council is planning a recreation center for Lubbock Girl Scouts and will announce plans shortly.

Mrs. Newman reported on the national convention in Kansas City which she attended a few weeks ago.

Others present were Mesdames M. C. Overton, George Finberg, Marvin McLarty, W. B. Irvin, W. D. Wilson and H. F. Godeke, Grady West and Miss Doris Hopping. Mrs. West and Miss Hopping were introduced as new council members.

PARTY POSTPONED

A Halloween party scheduled for Saturday in the home of Mrs. Luther Green will not be given because of the illness in the Green home. The party was planned for East Side Home Demonstration club members.

Elevator In Courthouse To Be In Operation Thursday

Sampson Brothers, general contractors, said Wednesday the elevator in the courthouse would be in operation today. A rubber tile floor is to be laid, window glass facing on corridors put into place and doors hung. Plastering almost had been completed.

The contractors said the building in the past few months is "stronger than ever," work in the basement and after removal of the monumental staircase having supported beams constructed several years ago.

Three Officers Elected At Girl Scout Troop Meeting

The Ellwood Girl Scout troop met Wednesday afternoon at the American Legion home and elected the following officers:

Secretary, Becky Jean Graves; assistant secretary, Zola Mae Elliott, and scribe, Patti Hall.

It was announced that on Monday, Ellwood Troop Day of the local Girl Scout Week observance, a display of Ellwood troop crafts will be shown in a front window of Sears Roebuck store. It was also announced that the troop will have a float in the Armistice Day parade.

A Hallowe'en party was planned for Friday night. It will be given from 7:30 until 9 o'clock at 2115 Nineteenth street.

Judgments By Default For Plaintiff Given In Suits

Judgments by default for plaintiffs have been entered in federal court records here in the cases of Mrs. Samuel S. Rendleman, a widow, against Kansas City Life Insurance company, suits on insurance, according to Mrs. Olive Fluke, U. S. deputy district clerk.

Judgments were entered upon motions of attorneys for Mrs. Rendleman because no answers had been filed by defense attorneys in the time limit specified in new rules of procedure in federal court, it was explained.

The two actions were transferred from the district court in Hockley county and transcripts placed on file in the office of Mrs. Fluke Sept. 28. According to new procedure, defendants had five days in which to file an answer. Upon failure of the defense to answer, judgments were ordered entered.

Better Feeling In Oil Circles

By ALFRED WALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

TULSA, Oct. 26. (AP)—A distinct feeling of business encouragement was apparent today in the oil industry.

No one was willing to argue that any tangible improvement in prices or prospects had occurred but most company executives agreed that a better feeling, if only psychological, did exist.

Much of it reflected from last week's sessions of the Independent Petroleum association here and the suggestion of President Roosevelt to Col. E. O. Thompson, chairman of the interstate oil compact, that refining should be included in the terms of the compact.

Ills To Be Discussed

In this connection the attention of refiners and producers alike was focused today on a called meeting of the Western Petroleum Refiners association at Fort Worth where the ills of the refining division were to be discussed.

At least fifty companies, majors and independents alike, signified they would have representatives at the meeting.

It was not expected any definite action could come out of the meeting but it was agreed a good amount of preliminary discussion could lay a groundwork for future moves.

The attention of the industry seemed to have centered at last on the overproduction of refined products, a practice which most authorities said had undermined the markets of crude and refined oils.

Better Business Seen

Reports of a better outlook in business generally, particularly in the automobile industry, were received happily in oil circles. Some business forecasters already were talking about a big automobile year in 1939, with a subsequent stepping up in demand for gasoline.

The decision of the Texas railroad commission that Saturday and Sunday shut-downs of oil wells would be continued through November was received well by producers and refiners here.

Reaction was favorable to Col. Thompson's plea yesterday for "business statesmanship" among refiners and his suggestion to reduce refinery operations 15 per cent during the fall and winter months to allow withdrawals from tremendous gasoline stocks.

It was the consensus here that slowing up of refinery operations could be expected for the next few months.

Markets and prices remained unchanged in all divisions. It was reported the gasoline market in the midwest had not sagged following the crude price cuts two weeks ago.

Exploratory work continued at an even pace with a total of 523 wells completed in the United States during the week, just four more than the week before.

Wichita Falls Youth Anxious To Attend Tech; But He Is To Require Some Attention

A certain young man in Wichita Falls plans to attend Texas Technological college if he can find a suitable place of residence.

So he asked the chamber of commerce in a letter received Wednesday to assist.

He wants a place where adequate care can be provided for one who is underweight, suffers from digestive ills, has acne (pimples), hay fever and "other ailments." His condition, the letter explained, requires goat milk.

The chamber of commerce promised to do what it can.

Fugitive From State Prison Is Being Held At Dallas

DALLAS, Oct. 26. (AP) — Donald Wilson Sessions, fugitive from the state penitentiary, was in custody here today after admitting he falsely confessed to a crime at Big Lake, Tex., in order to escape from jail there. He escaped seven years ago.

He admitted, officers said, he was serving time at Huntsville when he "confessed" to a crime at Big Lake. He was taken there and escaped from Big Lake's jail in 1931.

His capture resulted from a beer tavern brawl, after which his fingerprints, sent to Austin, revealed his identity. He will be returned to Huntsville.

Ask Your Doctor If It Isn't Good Way. Read EVERY Word —

NEW YORK, N. Y.: A test conducted by a prominent N. Y. physician and a nationally known newspaper woman proved there is a harmless, effective way to lose fat, if you'll only STICK TO IT and give it a fair trial.

In 40 days, 25 women lost a total of 286 lbs. EVERY woman lost fat—the average loss per woman being 11½ lbs. The women—first of all ate sensibly. And for proper functioning they took a little daily dose of Kruschen Salts. If you have the slightest doubt about this Plan just ask your own doctor about its safety and merit.

And this is important to know:

Kruschen is not just one salt as some people may ignorantly believe. Rather, it's a blend of 6 active mineral salts (see on box) which, when dissolved in water, make a healthful mineral drink similar to the waters of famous European Spas where wealthy fat women have gone for years.

Here's the Kruschen Plan: Just take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in hot water every morning for better functioning. Go light on fatty foods and sweets—eat plentifully of lean meats, fresh fruits and green vegetables. Plan to do this faithfully for 28 days and see if you don't lose fat and feel healthier and younger. A jar costs but a few cents and makes 5 gallons of a most highly efficient mineral health water. At druggists everywhere.—Adv.

Westerners Have Strong Opposition For Friday Night Game At Tech Field

MILLER'S MUSINGS

By TOM MILLER

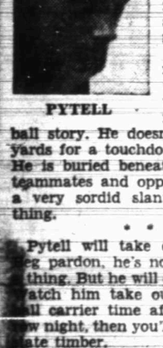

KERNEL BILL KERN and his Carnegie Tech football players did the gentlemanly thing Tuesday night by sending John Getchell a "let's forget it" telegram. They, no doubt, were deeply riled at Getchell's calling quarterback Friedlander it was third instead of fourth down in the Notre Dame game Saturday. Fears that the discrepancy would have been apparent to Friedlander since both the scoreboard and sideline box had the "red flag" up.

* * *

If the SPSCFP (Society for the Prevention of Subsidization of Football Players) doesn't think the Matador club is overstepping the bounds of reason, that gesture on its part in sending the Red Raiders to the Frog-Bear game at Fort Worth Saturday is commendable in every respect. It may provide the relaxation necessary to keep the Techsters headed in the winning direction.

* * *

SEASON opens soon on all-star selections (see column 8) and, while this corner has recognized the merits of Lubbock's captain, Jumbo Webster, there is one of those forgotten men about whom much can be said. In his own quiet way,

PYTELL

Joe Pytell has been dealing misery to opposing linemen from his guard position. Not too big, but fast enough to help run interference, Joe is an ideal team man.

A guard rarely gets more than a few words of praise in anyone's football story. He doesn't often run 98 yards for a touchdown or even two. He is buried beneath the cleats of teammates and opponents and gets a very sordid slant on the whole thing.

* * *

Pytell will take over from here. Beg pardon, he's not going to write a thing. But he will do lots of things. Watch him take out ahead of the ball carrier time after time tomorrow night, then you'll agree he is all-state timber.

* * *

Out in the neighboring towns of this section the boys of Class B football are in the midst of their annual scramble. Fortunately, the scourge of charges and countercharges of ineligibility that marred the District 5 race last year have been missing. Coach Bill Stevens did lose one player—they claim it's half the team down Levelland way—when Millard Bradley was declared too old to participate further. Bradley was one of the better passers of any class football in this section.

* * *

AT present it looks like Flomot and Lockney will fight it out in District 4. Neither has been defeated in conference play. The Spur Bulldogs can't be counted out of the picture after two triumphs in as many starts. A 57-to-0 shellacking of Turkey last week boosted Spur stock considerably.

District 5, which was divided into two sections this year, has a more scrambled picture. Littlefield and Olton in the northern half have the inside track, while nothing definite can be said of the lower half until Brownfield blasts the lid on title play. Slaton, of course, gets the nod until the Cubs show evidence of sumpin' superior.

Mrs. Akey, Mrs. Heilhecker Win Country Club Prizes

Mrs. Charles Akey and Mrs. Max Heilhecker were first prize winners in ladies day matches at Country Club Wednesday. Fourteen were present at the luncheon at which a new member, Mrs. A. G. Pinnell, was added to the club.

Ladies of Amarillo have been invited to Lubbock for next Wednesday's matches, the club here announced.

EAST LANSING, Mich. — Charley Bachman, Michigan State coach, has been wearing the same pair of shoes to football games for 10 years.

Storm-Tossed Bed Is Dream Is An Upper Berth

STEPHENVILLE, Oct. 26. (AP) A vivid dream from which he woke to find his room rumbling across the campus today brought a sprained ankle that may keep John Tarleton's stellar quarterback out of the game with Hillsboro Junior college Saturday.

James H. (Tid) Watkins of San Saba dreamed as he napped in the boys' barracks that a terrific storm was raging. Awakening, his sleep-mind noted his room was rocking and trees were whizzing by his window. With a shout he leaped from his upper berth.

Watkins then recalled the 20-year-old wooden barracks was being moved to make room for a new building.

Bulldogs Boast Well-Balanced, Fast Lineup

Coasting along at the top after beating some of the best teams in the Texas Interscholastic league, the Westerners Friday night will need all the wizardry Capt. Jumbo Webster and his helpmates can muster to turn back the challenge of the Plainview Bulldogs.

Tautening the leash with aspirations for their first victory in three years, the Bulldogs, far from country-style football players, come here with the material necessary to put trouble in the Westerners' hands and apprehension in the minds of Lubbock fans.

Two Lettermen In Backfield

Led by a couple of experienced ball toters, W. A. Graham and Winston Barry, the Plainview team boasts equal playing experience and lacks but one pound of matching the Westerner line in weight. Six lettermen are back.

Graham and Barry are only backfield lettermen from 1937. However, Quarterback Ray Schneider lacked only a few minutes last year for a spur and Douglas Coker, 160-pound fullback, did valuable chores on the B team last year.

That quartet embodies all the requisites of offensive maneuvers. Barry is an excellent punter, he, Graham and Schneider are fleet runners, while Coker is the pile-driving sort.

Ends Are Experienced

Lettermen fortify the wing positions. Lawson Kemp and Richard Sherley, weighing 150 and 135 pounds, respectively, handle end assignments. Kemp patroled left end when the Westerners beat the Bulldogs, 21 to 0, last year.

Two lightheavies, E. B. Mitchell and Clay Johnson, hold down tackle jobs. Neither lettered last year, but both got invaluable training on the B squad.

Wayne McClain, 150-pounder, put in full time at guard last year, and Raymond Hale, who scales 160 pounds, was deprived of a letter through an injury. They form a good guard team.

Needham Is Fine Center

No all-district eleven this year will be complete without the name of Miller Needham at the center position. Needham stacks together 170 pounds and is the spark behind the Bulldog defensive guns.

Plainview's forward wall averages 159 pounds. The backfield is somewhat lighter than the Westerner scoring corps, but probably is faster.

Wednesday afternoon Coach Weldon Chapman sent his squad through a rigorous session of dummy scrimmage. At full-mast the Westerners took it all in stride, probably realizing the proportions of their task Friday night.

Big Attendance Expected

High school officials expect a record-breaking crowd for scholastic competition to line the pews at Tech stadium. Advance sales have been encouraging. Tickets still are on sale at Mark Halsey No. 2 drug, Sam Rosenthal's Hub Clothiers, and Lubbock Hotel drug.

Approximately 600 fans are expected to follow the Bulldogs here late Friday afternoon. The Plainview High 60-piece band and blue-bedecked girls' cheering squad will help swell the number of rooters on the east side stands.

Yanks Send Hoag And Glenn To Browns For 2 Pitchers

NEW YORK, Oct. 26. (AP) — The champion Yankees made room today for their top two minor league farmhands, Clouting Charley Keller and Belting Buddy Rosar, in a straight-player swap with the St. Louis Browns.

They sent Myril (Little Feet) Hoag, one of the game's best throwing outfielders, and Catcher Joe Glenn, who hits a long ball, handles pitchers well, but is slow a-foot, to the Brownies. In return, they receive Oral Hildebrand, one of the Browns' steadier pitchers last season, and Colonel (Buster) Mills, late of the Boston Red Sox.

The details, however, are only more or less incidental to the fact that the move "cleans house" in the fly-chasing and back-stopping departments, thereby permitting the permanent importation of the Newark Bears youngsters who finished one-two in the 1938 International League batting race.

Sea Biscuit Jockey Is Sure War Admiral Will Lose

BALTIMORE, Oct. 26. (AP)—Jockey George Woolf, riding son of a riding family, believes Sea Biscuit will whip War Admiral when the two great thoroughbreds vie in a turf duel at Pimlico Nov. 1.

Little Georgia will be astride Charles S. Howard's Biscuit in his $15,000, mile-and-three-sixteenths race with Samuel Riddle's War Admiral at the Maryland Jockey club's plant next Tuesday, and here's how he figures the contest:

"Why, it's a pipe for the 'Biscuit. I have a lot of respect for War Admiral, but I know my horse, and we will be there in front when the time comes to judge the finish."

St. Mary's Gaels Pay Visit Today

* * *

For a city that is slightly off the beaten path, geographically, Lubbock gets a goodly share of trans-continental visitors—and this day is one of the days for visitors, starting with Senator Tom Connally and winding up with St. Mary's University football Gaels of San Francisco.

Senator Connally travels from Marlin, Texas, to Washington, which is by way of something on the order of trans-continental passages; the St. Mary's Gaels travel from San Francisco to New York, which is nothing less than cross-country.

Madigan Likes Lubbock

It is of the Gaels that we are primarily concerned here, while other editors take care of the Senators.

Coach Slip Madigan, who will be making his third appearance in Lubbock, is taking his St. Mary's footballers to New York to play the Fordhams on Nov. 5. The ball team is stopping off here for an hour or so late this afternoon for a workout. The workout will be staged at Texas Tech Stadium. Among Texas Tech's ambitions is a football game between the Red Raiders and the Red Gaels.

And so, "let's be nice to the St. Mary's team."

Tech Field will be turned over to the Gaels this afternoon, because the Red Raiders aren't working out any more this week.

The St. Mary's special train is due at the Lubbock Santa Fe station at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. In addition to the football squad of 35, there is a delegation of about 90 fans from San Francisco, and it is the aim of public spirited citizens in Lubbock to see that the visitors are entertained for the time they're here.

Sports Scribes Here

The chamber of commerce has arranged transportation to and from the football field for the gridders, and has lined up a number of private automobiles and owners to drive the accompanying fans over town and "show them Lubbock." There may be a need for a few more cars, however, and chamber of commerce officials have asked that all persons who can, please call the C of C offices sometime today and offer use of their cars.

In the party will be six metropolitan newspaper sports editors and writers, as follows; Pat Frayne, sports editor of the San Francisco Call-Bulletin; Prescott Sullivan, football editor of the San Francisco Examiner; Art Rosenbaum, football editor of the San Francisco Chronicle; Art Cohn, sports editor of the Oakland Tribune; Jack Rosenbaum, sports writer of the San Francisco Daily News, and Bud Tenney, football editor of the Oakland Post-Enquirer.

Cawthon Urges Welcome

Texas Tech coaches, Pete Cawthon and Dutchy Smith, will not be "at home" to Coach Madigan and his Gaels, because Smith left yesterday for New Orleans to scout Loyola and Cawthon leaves today for Milwaukee to scout Marquette, but both men, before leaving, requested "Lubbock and Texas Tech to meet that train, give the St. Mary's trippers a big welcome, let 'em know we like for 'em to come this way, and help all we can to make their short visit a pleasurable one."

Coach Slip Madigan of the Gaels attended, and lectured at, the last Texas Tech coaching school. He brought his Gaels through Lubbock two years ago enroute to New York to play Fordham, and they worked out here. It's his third visit here, and he has stated that he likes Lubbock very much. A rousing reception on the part of Lubbock citizens and football fans this evening might make him like Lubbock even more—even to the extent of considering negotiations for a Texas Tech-St. Mary's game here within the next few years.

His Third Visit

SLIP MADIGAN . . . colorful coach of a colorful team, the St. Mary's Gaels, who work out at Texas Tech Stadium this evening shortly after 5:30 o'clock.

Future Of Cotton Bowl Game To Be Determined Today

DALLAS, Oct. 26. (AP)—Reorganization of the Cotton Bowl Athletic association, with official sanction of the annual New Year's day postseason classic by the Southwest conference as the objective, will be planned here tomorrow.

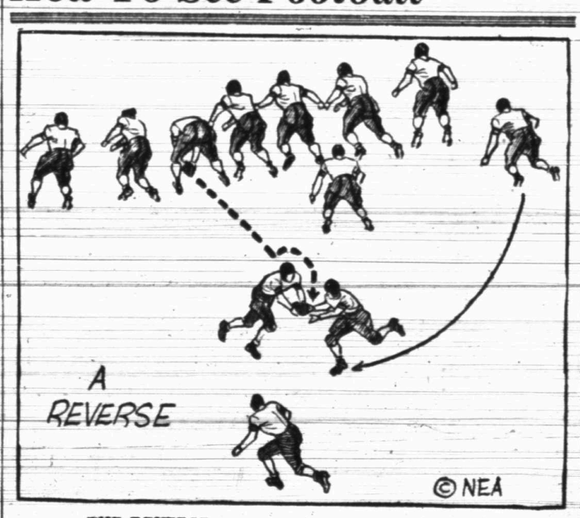

Directors, comprising representatives from the seven conference schools and a group of Dallas business leaders, will hear the requirements decided upon by the conference's faculty athletic committee and attempt to shape future plans about them.

Dan Rogers, Dallas banker, will preside.

NMMI POLOISTS PLAY

ROSWELL, N. M., Oct. 26.—The youthful New Mexico Military Institute riders, who average only 17 years of age, will meet the Oklahoma Military Academy quartet in a two-game series here Oct. 28 and 30.

How To See Football

THE REVERSE
By JERRY BRONDFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer

In this day of so-called razzle-dazzle football, keeping an eye on the ball isn't the easiest thing in the world for the spectator. It's difficult enough for the team on defense to ferret out the man with the pigskin.

One thing for the fan to remember is the play doesn't always wind up in the direction in which it starts. One of the trickier maneuvers in a running game is the reverse—single or double—and in rare cases, where a double wing is employed, a triple reverse may be pulled.

The simple, or single reverse, may go to either side of course, but one of the more popular examples is the weak side power reverse used so effectively by Pittsburgh.

The backs will line up with the strong side to the right. The ball will be snapped to one of the men close up, and then while one back will fake to the right, the right wing will come around, take the ball and sweep around left end, or off left tackle, with the guards pulling out to block.

In a double wing formation a play may start out in this manner, but when the right wing sweeps around to the left he may hand the ball to the left wing, who gets all the way back and around the right side again.

Double and triple reverses are daring maneuvers and everything hinges on drawing in the defensive ends far enough to be mous-trapped.

Schoolboys Put Hard Task On Honor Pickers

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Oct. 26.—Memories of Dick Miller and other illustrious stars who dashed to football glory as members of the 1937 all-state team hovered over Texas schoolboy gridirons today as the youngsters who manufacture touchdowns aimed at individual honors while driving with their mates toward district championships.

There were plenty who showed capabilities of Miller, Harold Fleming, et al, with the campaign roaring down the home stretch, each section pushing forward a flood of representatives that made those entailed with the task of doing the picking groan.

Blazing Bill Thompson of Amarillo and Walter (Jumbo) Webster, Lubbock's might men, were hailed in the Panhandle.

Wichita Falls had its Ben Collins, Vernon its Jack Judd, Sweetwater its Jake Webster and Breckenridge its Bill Ramsey among a host of potential all-staters in West Texas.

Sherman pointed to Leon Pelly, a kicking sensation; Highland Park to Dick Dwelle, and Hugh Mumnell, Masonic Home to Don Stephens and Gainesville to Bill McCollum as standouts in North Texas.

In East Texas they beat the drums for Melvin Jones of Tyler, Howard Corbett of Lufkin, Hardy Miller of Longview and others who could dodge through those piney woods without skinning the bark off a tree.

Temple pushed forward Tom Pickett and Waco listed Joel Bonner in the hurly-burly Central Texas race.

Crop Is Outstanding

In South Texas they gave you such stars as Billy Coleman of Kerrville and Milton Crain of Brackenridge.

And so on with such standouts as Sonny Crost of Sunset, Forest Lee of Gladewater and so many others the list would read like a city directory.

Possibly never before have there been so many outstanding backs in Interscholastic league football — and you even hear about the linemen, the boys who seldom make the headlines because they do the work that paves the way but do it amid a swirl of bodies where few on the sidelines can see.

For instance Graham has a lineman who certainly fits into the category of "running guard." He's Jug Bennett, who last week against Cisco went back long enough to take the ball three times. He made 80 yards and a touchdown and gave his team a 13-13 tie with the Oil Belt powers.

Yeah, It'll Be Tough

Waco has an outstanding center in Buddy Gatewood and Floppy Blackmon, who gave North Side (Fort Worth) great end play last season, is again the harness. Dallas critics sing the praises of A. D. Chester, a tackle on the Tech team.

Corpus Christi's fine team, rated strongest in South Texas, does not push forward any particular star. But the Bucs boast an average of 195 pounds for the starting team and claim none of the boys are exceptionally fat—just big. First downs against Corpus Christi's line are not as numerous as points scored against the club.

Yes, mates; it's going to be a tough job when you sit down with a pencil and paper and try to figure out who's going to wear the shoes of Dick Miller, Euel Wesson, et al, when the campaign is over around the first of the year.

Medwick And Mize Are Not For Sale

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 26. (AP)—Any major league clubs casting covetous eyes on Joe Medwick or Johnny Mize of the St. Louis Cardinals can look elsewhere for their pennant-making material.

Neither Medwick or Mize is for sale and, what's more, Sam Breadon, president of the Redbirds, said definitely today that he will not sell a single player who has a chance of helping the "Gas-less Gashouse Gang" regain its old glories in 1939.

"We are out to build a pennant winner," Breadon asserted. "There are no trades on the fire and we are prepared to use our sources of supply to produce what we need. In the past, we've sold our surplus, but there'll be none of that now.

That means the Cardinals, who have supplied virtually every National League team with star material from its farm system, now will bring the boys home to do or die for dear old St. Louis.

Breadon said he had not decided on a manager for next season, but the selection probably would be made before the December baseball meetings. Ray Blades, Burt Shotton, Burleigh Grimes and Jimmy Wilson are believed to be outstanding possibilities.

Remember Grange? So Does Yost As Michigan Preps For Illinois Renewal

By PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Illinois meets Michigan again Saturday and a 14-year-old nightmare rears itself before Fielding H. (Hurry Up) Yost. The old maestro of Wolverine football admits it. Never will he forget that afternoon in 1924 when Red Grange beat his great Michigan team with the most electrifying one-man show in all pigskin history.

Yost still talks of that day when Grange scored five touchdowns, four of them in the first 10 minutes of play. He still can't understand how it was humanly possible.

Here's The Story

A great football achievement is worth repeating. So we wired Mike Tobin, grand Boswell of Illinois football, for an official account of Grange's deeds that afternoon of October 18, 1924, when undefeated Michigan and Illinois officially dedicated Illinois Memorial stadium. Do you think you've seen a one-man football show? How about this one:

Grange scooped up the opening kickoff and ran 90 yards for a touchdown before the spectators were settled in their seats.

When the game was three minutes old, Grange raced 70 yards from scrimmage for touchdown number two.

Two minutes later: Grange swept the end of 57 yards and touchdown number three.

Again: Two minutes later, the red-head whistled around end for 43 yards and his fourth touchdown.

That's Not All

In 10 minutes, Grange had his hands on the ball six times, running for four touchdowns and gaining 265 yards—an average of 44 yards a try. Coach Bob Zuppke took him out before the first quarter ended. It took 45 minutes to play that first period because so much time was required for kick-offs.

Third quarter: Grange ran 13 yards for touchdown number five.

Fourth quarter: Grange threw a pass to Leonard for the 6th Illinois touchdown.

Michigan is supposed to beat Illinois Saturday. It's an ideal game for the conductors of pools because you never know what'll happen in that one, except . . . there'll never be another day like the one Grange had 14 years ago.

Raiders To Get 3-Day Holiday

First breathing spell since the season started will be observed by the Texas Tech varsity Red Raiders this week; there will be no more workouts for them until next Monday.

Head Coach Pete Cawthon made this announcement at yesterday's practice session. The mentor leaves today for Milwaukee to look over the Marquette gridders, who come here for Tech's Thanksgiving week game, and Line Coach Smith left yesterday for New Orleans to scout the Loyola team, which plays here in the next game, Nov. 5.

McKeever In Charge

Assistant Coach Ed McKeever was left in charge. He'll supervise the varsity athletic department, and get the squad lined up for Saturday's trip to Fort Worth where the Raiders will be guests of Lubbock business men at the Southwest conference game between Baylor and Texas Christian universities.

Yesterday's workout was devoted to absorption of three new plays, which the Raiders will attempt in the Loyola game, and to a long pass practice. The team never looked better in its passing game. Gene Barnett, Elmer Tarbox, Raymond Flusche, Dudley Akins, Woodrow Ramsey and Johnny Sims doing the heaving, the ends and other backs receiving. And out of more than 100 passes attempted, less than five were incomplete. It was a "scrimmage," too, with the defensive team having orders to bat down all passes possible. It will be something a bit new to see Tarbox and Flusche tossing passes. But they can do it.

It was undoubtedly one of the most pleasing workouts of the season, offensively.

The varsity squad, of 50 persons, leaves Lubbock early Saturday morning for Fort Worth. They'll take in the Baylor-TCU game that afternoon, spend the night, and start home at 7 o'clock Sunday morning.

Gallopin' Ghost

HAROLD "RED" GRANGE, who made football history for Illinois, did a lot of it when Michigan came to Illinois to dedicate a stadium. . . .

Watkins Bests Joe Kopecky

Joe Kopecky thought headgears were for the players of football.

But now he thinks the players of wrestling should wear them, too. At any rate Sailor Tex Watkins nearly bashed the South Texan's brains out in the ropes marking the corners of the Auditorium ring, and, as a result, won the main event last night.

The old Post cowboy hadn't a thing on Kopecky all night except a crab in the first fall that left Joe writhing in pain. They battled tooth and toenail—and hair—for 20 minutes before Watkins expertly rolled Kopecky over for the nod.

Watkins Evades Hold

An inverted crotch gained Kopecky the second fall after 1: minutes of milling. Both falls, and the last, were replete with rabbit punches, heart punches, and back hands.

Then in the final setto Watkins was tossed from the ring, barely evaded another back-breaking inverted crotch, and djd a little plain and fancy punishing on his own.

It was anyone's match until the Sailor wrapped his mitts and arms around Kopecky's neck and headed for the sidelines. Kopecky's skull got there first.

All Watkins had to do was fall on Kopecky and tie his legs in a funny knot to get the hand from Referee Ray Clements.

William, Sheik Draw

And speaking of Referee Clements—he and John Nemanic have changed jobs too often. In the semi-final bout, which Nemanic lost in 21 minutes to Walter Stratton, the Boston strong man was undecided which to wrestle—or whether to do the officiating.

Nemanic waylaid Clements, ditched him from the ring, and—rid of him — made merry on Stratton's body.

Scotty William and Sheik Mar Allah grappled to a lively draw in the curtain raiser.

Yankee Problem Up To National Circuit---Prexy

CHICAGO, Oct. 26. (AP)—The job of worrying over whether the New York Yankees are too strong for the good of baseball, believes President William Harridge of the American League, is one for the National League to handle.

"I suppose a lot of people think the Yanks may be too dominating an influence on the game," Harridge said today. Then he added with a laugh: "But I don't think we have anything to worry about, at least so far as the American League is concerned.

"We'll get ourselves balanced up. Boston is improving and Walter Briggs in Detroit isn't a man who will stand still with his already strong Tigers. Connie Mack at Philadelphia always has been a builder and will go places when he gets pitching."

Browns Are Weak Spot

The St. Louis Browns, Harridge said frankly, is the American League's "weak spot." He feels certain, however, that the men behind the Browns will never stop until they made that club a winning one.

"Our league always has felt that each club should stand on its merits, and there is no definite agreement among owners to help lower standing teams. But I'm sure all owners would give consideration to such teams as St. Louis."

Olton Prepares For Levelland Loboes

OLTON, Oct. 26. (Special)—The Olton Mustangs are preparing for the Levelland Loboes here Friday night Oct. 28. The Mustangs will have to beat a very strong team that will be rated as underdogs in this contest, due to comparative scores. Should Levelland be successful in this game, the North half of District 5-B could end in a two or even three way tie for the championship.

The local boys played their best game Friday night against the Ralls Jackrabbits. First downs, yardage, penalties and breaks were about even. Cordell Light, the stellar back for Ralls, made numerous long gains off tackle and around the ends. Two of these runs went for touchdowns, in the third and in the fourth quarters.

George Huggins, fullback and co-captain for Olton scored in the first quarter on a cut back, running about 65 yards. Again in the third quarter, after Light's touchdown, Huggins ran about 55 yards around right end.

In 1804 the Bible had been translated into 72 languages; today it has been translated into 835.

Japs Complete Occupation Of Hankow Area Without Slightest Resistance

Entire City Is Now In Ruins

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

HANKOW, Oct. 26—The Japanese completed occupation of the Hankow area late tonight without encountering the slightest resistance.

This was done to the accompaniment of sounds no more war-like than that of a few machineguns fired by incoming destroyers at an apparently imaginary and certainly unresponsive enemy on the Yangtze river bank opposite the city.

Warcraft Enter Harbor

Sharing the honor of taking the Chinese war-time capital, the first of a long line of warcraft of all types steamed into the harbor as infantry regiments halted opposite the Japanese consulate, which was a smouldering ruin.

As successive Japanese destroyers, gunboats and mine sweepers passed, the Italian steamer Marco Polo ceremoniously dipped her colors. Accompanying the destroyers were scores of airplanes and motorpowered flatboats which played a vital part in repeatedly successful Japanese landings on the Yangtze banks from Shanghai to Hankow—600 river miles.

Arrive In Numbers

By nightfall transports and supply ships had arrived in numbers.

At a gateway leading into the former German concession of the civilian safety zone a Japanese infantry column halted while the Italian consul, British naval officers, and the zone organizer himself, Father Jacquinot, verbally explained the extent of the zone and obtained assurance from the Japanese commander that military action would not be planned there if no Chinese resistance materialized.

At first the Chinese populace and refugees ran for cover, but gradually curiosity overcame fear and the sidewalks and doorways were filled with the native population getting the first sight of their new masters.

Slogans Painted Over

Farther along the route of march Chinese were observed hurriedly painting over anti-Japanese slogans on walls.

Upon reaching the main road, the regiment broke up into smaller units which immediately began forcing their way into houses seeking billets.

Over the vigorous protest of the British commissioner, a Japanese naval landing party entered the customs house and took up billet there.

Wink High Star Receiving Hospital Treatment Here

One of the outstanding high school football teams of Texas this year is the Wink High school aggregation.

Coach of Wink High is Lacy "Stud" Turner, former star guard for the Texas Tech Red Raiders.

Backbone of the Wink team this season is the Ezell family of Wink, there being a trio of them on the team.

Star halfback is Dee Ezell.

So when Dee was injured last week in the Wink-Midland game, Coach Turner brought him to Lubbock, placed him in West Texas Hospital.

The injuries are not considered serious enough to prevent Ezell from returning to duty before the season is over, although at present the halfback is still remaining in the local hospital.

FROGS IN REHEARSAL

FORT WORTH, Oct. 26. (AP)—The TCU Frogs took their first real look at Baylor's formations and plays today.

Most of the work was on pass defense for the Purple high command has respect for the Bruin overhead game.

Connie Sparks, the 190 pound sophomore, will again start the game. Leg bruises which kept him out of the Marquette game have healed.

AGGIE TACKLES HURT

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 26. (AP) Two regular tackles were slightly injured in scrimmage today as the Texas Aggies brushed up their passing attack and defense.

Joe Boyd and George Branson were the victims of the bruising play. They were taken to a hospital for observation.

Guard Minnock showed up with an infected leg and may not be able to play against the Arkansas Razorbacks Saturday.

Youth Missing Three Weeks Sought Near Daingerfield

DAINGERFIELD, Oct. 26. (AP)—Sheriff Ben B. Garrett today led a party of 50 men through heavily wooded sections along the Morris-Titus county line in a search for Marvin Watkins, 20, missing three weeks.

Sheriff Garrett said he based fears of foul play on reports the youth's shoes and hat had been found and returned to his parents.

Indictments Are Returned By Cochran County Jury

(Special To The Avalanche)

MORTON, Oct. 26—A 72nd district court grand jury early tonight returned three indictments, two alleging violation of state laws forbidding production and possession of marijuana.

Named in the indictments charging violation of state narcotic laws were James Lopez, Mexican in charge of a commissary on the Maston farms in Cochran county and J. C. Harrison, manager of the farms, according to Burton S. Burks, district attorney who worked with the grand jury. H. J. Knox was foreman of the grand jury. Victor H. Lindsey, assistant district attorney, aided in investigations.

Each Has Four Counts

Each indictment contained four counts, charging possession of marijuana, growing and cultivation of marijuana, conspiracy to possess marijuana, and conspiracy to grow and cultivate the plant, Burks said.

The indictments resulted from investigations by the grand jury of complaints filed after raids about the middle of September by members of the Texas Liquor Control board, Texas Highway patrol and Cochran county sheriff's department, and Lindsey on the 7,000-acre farm in northwest Cochran county.

To Be Called For Trial

The two cases will be called for trial before Judge Daniel A. Blair, 72nd district court judge, next week, according to information from the district attorney's office.

A man not under arrest was charged by indictment with theft of an automobile.

An indictment charging forgery and passing was returned Tuesday and the defendant entered a plea of guilty and accepted a three-year sentence in the state penitentiary.

The grand jury had been impaneled by Judge Blair Monday at the opening of a two-weeks term here.

thought and expression, he said:

"There can be no peace if humble men and women are not free to think their own thoughts, to express their own feelings, to worship god."

Arms Are Deplored

Deploring armaments competition which "heighten the suspicions and fears and threaten the economic prosperity" of every nation, he called for the adoption of a "good neighbor" policy under which needed political changes "shall be made peacefully."

"That means deliberate avoidance of policies which arouse fear and distress. It means the self-restraint to refuse strident ambitions which are sure to breed insecurity and intolerance and thereby weaken the prospect of that economic and moral recovery the world so sadly needs."

The United States wants disarmament, he said, but will not disarm "while neighbor nations arm to the teeth."

Protect Our Own Rights

The United States, he declared, does not seek to impose its form of government on any other nation, "but we are determined to maintain and protect that way of life and that form of government for ourselves.

"And we are determined to use every endeavor in order that the western hemisphere may work out its own interrelated salvation in the light of its own interrelated experience."

In conclusion, he said:

"Let us work with greater unity for peace among the nations of the world, for restraint, for negotiation and for community of effort. Let us work for the same ideals within our own borders in our relations with each other, so that we may, if the test ever comes, have that unity of will with which alone a democracy can successfully meet its enemies."

MAN FOUND SHOT

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 26. (AP)—R. Hugh Porter, 54, president of the Fire Eye corporation, was found fatally shot today in a room at the rear of the plant. A .38 caliber revolver was found nearby.

Noted Promoter

plans to stage a national rodeo next summer in connection with the New York World's fair.

"Best Friend I Ever Had," Is Description By Lubbock Man

"Tex' Austin was the best friend I ever had," said M. D. Fanning, area secretary at the rodeo conducted here at the Panhandle-South Plains fair, on learning of the death Wednesday night of the famous rodeo promoter. He awaited information relative to funeral arrangements so that he might attend services.

"'Tex' was the man who took the rodeo business out of the cow lot and really put the stiff-fronted shirt on it," he said. "I was with him nine years and went with him to England in 1934 when he took Tex Austin's World Championship rodeo. I was his business manager.

Paid More In Prizes

"He paid more money in prizes in the 12 rodeos he produced than all other combined rodeos ever paid.

"Among his friends were kings, queens, dukes and earls, high political figures of this nation and even the boy with the pack saddle outfit," Fanning said.

Fanning, associated with a refining company here, recalled Austin went to New Mexico in 1912 and worked for the Blocker ranch out of Roswell. He also had a small ranch near Las Vegas and produced the first cowboy reunion there. In 1920 he conducted a rodeo at El Paso.

First Rodeo In Chicago

"In 1919 he put on the first rodeo in Chicago," Fanning said. "The event was the first show of any kind ever produced in the Grant Park—the filled-in part of Lake Michigan. The park now contains hundreds of acres. He also produced four performances in Soldier Field. His rodeo was the first in the old Madison Square Garden in New York, too.

"The Madison Square Garden production was sponsored by New York's elite, those registered in the Blue Book. There were as many full-dress suits in the galleries as in the boxes.

"He took the first rodeo to England in 1924 and it was produced in Wembley stadium under sponsorship of the British Empire exposition.

Taking No Cripples

"I first knew 'Tex' in 1923 and planned to go to England with him, but broke an ankle shortly before the party sailed. 'Tex' said he was 'taking no crips'.

"I went to work for him in 1925 and remained with him until 1934.

"Austin built a home on the Pecos river at Rowe, N. M., and later made it into a guest ranch. Among the prominent guests were Charles Lindbergh and his wife and many Europeans. The ranch later was sold."

Fanning said he believed Austin's suicide was a reaction to his recent ill health. "'Tex' had pneumonia at least five times in his life. He was as susceptible to it as most people are to common colds.

"I would have preferred to see him go any way other than by suicide," Fanning said. He made arrangements to leave immediately to attend funeral rites.

L. C. Crump Is Injured When Truck Falls At His Home

L. C. Crump of 1312 Nineteenth street suffered a slight fracture of the pelvis about 3:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon when a truck fell on him when he was working on it at his home.

The truck had been raised on a jack and was resting on blocks which gave way when Crump was under it. The running board of the truck struck his hips, fracturing the pelvis.

He was rushed to Lubbock sanitarium in a Rix ambulance and was released after receiving emergency treatment.

On the speaker's platform will be C. C. Crenshaw, Lubbock attorney who will introduce the speaker, Chas. A. Guy, editor of Avalanche-Journal publications, George Dupree, attorney, Sen. G. H. Nelson, Cong. George Mahon, Representative-nominate Alvin R. Allison, C. E. Maedgen, Lubbock banker, and members of the college executive committee: Dean James M. Gordon, W. T. Gaston, business manager, and Dr. Harry L. Kent, director of administrative research.

At noon Senator Connally will address a joint luncheon of Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions and ABC clubs. Attendance for Rotarians will "count" whether they attended their regular meeting this week—and despite whether they live in Lubbock or other places.

An informal reception will be conducted in Lubbock hotel after a session with an all-Lubbock cotton committee, made up of college and chamber of commerce members. From the college will be Earl Heard, head of the department of textile engineering, and Deans O. V. Adams of the division of engineering, A. B. Leidigh of the division of agriculture and R. C. Goodwin, head professor of physics and chemical engineering. The chamber committee will be composed of R. C. Hopping, Spencer A. Wells and George A. Simmons.

Public Is Invited

At the informal reception, the public at large is invited to meet the senator.

At 4:30 o'clock, in the women's lounge of the college, federated club women, Tech faculty women and the Lubbock branch of American Association of University Women will be hosts at a tea and another informal reception.

Dinner will be served in the men's dormitory lounge. Crenshaw, Dupree, Dean Gordon, Gaston, and Dr. Kent will be included among guests.

At 7:15 o'clock there will be a smoker in the men's dormitory lounge. Men faculty members of the college and dormitory residents will attend.

To Address Pythians

At a closed session of the Knights of Pythias, at 7:30 o'clock in the Hilton ballroom, the senator will make an address on fraternalism. Dr. G. H. Ater, grand inner guard of the fraternity, said approximately 200 persons would attend. Dr. Ater said representatives from lodges at Paducah, Childress, Abilene, San Angelo and Midland had been invited to attend.

In addition, several Knights from various South Plains towns are expected. Senator Connally is past grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias grand lodge of Texas, serving in 1914, and past supreme representative of the grand domain of Texas.

John Lee Smith of Throckmorton, district deputy supreme chancellor, has been invited to attend the Pythian meeting.

Brisk day?

Senator Connally is used to it.

Farmer Believes That It Is Important To Call Number Of Floor From Elevator

Maybe it isn't important to call floor numbers when entering an elevator, but one Lubbock county farmer is convinced of its importance.

Seeking the office of C. C. Jobson, county agricultural agent, the farmer appeared on the third floor of the federal building.

Entering the office of C. E. Luce, U. S. deputy marshal, the farmer visibly was puzzled.

"You sure have changed things around here," he said.

He looked at a miniature cell flanked by iron bars, stammered, and left to Luce the interpretation of his tongue-tied impasse.

Jobson's office is on the second floor—directly under that of Luce's.

No Verdict In The Death Of Former Tech Co-Ed Given

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26. (AP)—A coroner's jury failed to determine today whether the death last Saturday night of 22-year-old Claudia Huebler was homicidal or suicidal.

She died of a revolver bullet that Carol E. Weber, 30, a credit manager, said was self-inflicted while he sat on a divan with her.

Kay Saindow, a relative of Miss Huebler by marriage, testified the girl's parents both ended their own lives, the father, Joseph H. Huebler, a contractor, in Lubbock, Tex., and her mother, Mrs. Viola Kob in Venice, Calif.

Miss Edith Baker and Miss Jean Wilson, friends of Miss Huebler, said they had heard her threaten suicide several times.

For The Senator's Friends

THE Morning Avalanche joins in the welcome to neighbors of the South Plains who will visit Lubbock today to greet Senator Tom Connally, our honored guest for a day.

As an especial convenience to those outside Lubbock who may wish to see him, Senator Connally is to remain in his Hotel Lubbock suite from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m., according to the announcement of those preparing for his reception. The Senator chose this as an opportunity to greet old friends and meet new ones in preference to what might have been a more restful afternoon.

Obviously it might be inconvenient for those who would like to see Senator Connally to spend the entire day here. There is doubt too whether all who might wish to attend could be accommodated in the large ball room which will be scene of the luncheon in his honor. Nor, in view of the confusion which is an unavoidable part of such gatherings, will there be much opportunity for the personal touch in greetings.

The setting aside of a portion of the afternoon for that pleasurable purpose seems the ideal solution.

The Voice Of Experience

THE voice of experience spoke to Great Britain Wednesday when David Lloyd George, war time prime minister, warned that grave error had been made in submitting to Hitler demands at Munich.

Lloyd George is the last remaining of the greater statesmen who guided the destiny of nations in the great conflict. His command carried perhaps greater weight than that of any one individual on the allies' side. He was one of the "big three"—Clemenceau and Wilson being the others—who dictated the terms of the Versailles treaty.

Even granting that the treaty was one of the worst mistakes in the history of international relationships and that Lloyd George may be charged with a large share of responsibility for the mistake, the fact remains that he has been in position to judge the trend of world affairs as has no other man of his time. When considered also that the unhappy fate of the treaty must have played its part in shaping his judgment of world affairs today, it is inconceivable that his opinions and advice can or will be ignored.

The war-time premier charges that Britain humiliated herself to buy a temporary peace from the German mad dog. The fact is unquestioned Hitler got all he asked after Britain had come begging. It may be, of course, that the German dictator now will be satisfied. But that will be contrary both to world history and to human nature. Most world observers believe that Hitler will continue to demand and seize until stopped by some force over which he has no control.

Lloyd George warns also that if Britain merely has bought temporary peace, the war which finally does come will find the empire without friends. Common sense makes that appear a most logical probability. How can any nation, large or small, place any reliance in the promise of Great Britain after having been witness to what has happened in Czechoslovakia, Ethiopia and China?

The charge might be made, of course, that Lloyd George has become sour because of the fate of the Versailles instrument for which he was so largely responsible. Or it might be charged that the one-time premier, now 75 years of age, is in his dotage. But to those on the sidelines, his reasoning will appear sound and worthy of the grave consideration of the empire he has served so long.

The One-Minute Sermon

For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.

For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved.

He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he bath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God.

And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil.

For every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved.

But he that doeth truth cometh to the light, that his deeds may be made manifest, that they are wrought in God.—St. John 3; 16 through 21.

DETERMINED YOUNG WOMAN

"It's the principle of the thing," Venner was saying shrilly. "I did my part—I put up the original capital, and Geiss and the lot of you agreed that I wasn't to be troubled further. What do I care if a few foreigners die suddenly? I've never met them. I don't know them. But here, without consulting me, you arrange to murder a harmless lad under my very nose! It's a wonder to me it wasn't the death of me, and as it is I'm feeling very far from well—"

"For that I am sorry!" said Stahl, the hint of a sneer in his voice. "But to call the young man harmless—no, that is stupidity. Why do you think he came here, to your hotel, if not to spy on you? No, no, Monsieur Venner, he is not harmless! And for the rest of the argument, you supplied our capital, it is true, but I think you have been well repaid. A hundred per cent on the first outlay, and how much more since?"

"That's all right!" answered the old man testily. "I'm not complaining, but this lad's no spy. He's a nice lad, and I like him. His death isn't going to bring us in any profit, and I'm not standing for it. You hear what I say, Stahl, and you go back and tell the same thing to Geiss."

"And tell this to Monsieur Geiss, and that to Mopsieur Geiss!" retorted the Baron, and this time the sneer in his voice was very marked. "And why, pray, can you not send for Monsieur Geiss himself to give him your orders? It is because you are afraid of him—because you do not care to face him. But now I will tell you something, Monsieur Martinez Venner. This is our last coup—we are all agreed on that — and nothing must stand in the way of its success, neither your bad heart nor your hate for this Englishman. I have warned you, and now I go."

"Go and be damned to ye!" came the voice of Mr. Venner, and now it was trembling with passion. "But I tell you this—yes, and I would tell Geiss too if he were standing in front of me. I won't have it, and if you refuse to drop the thing I'll take measures!"

There was a sudden crash, as of a chair sharply overturned. It was obvious that the interview was breaking up, in more senses than one, and if I wanted to get clear away, I should have to shift rapidly. I clambered down from the table, made a hurried reconnaissance along the empty corridor, and sprinted down it to the safety of my own room, just as an opening door and the whir of the mounting lift told me that the Baron was taking his departure.

I watched him strut to his car, a fat, ludicrous, yellow balloon, and drive away; then slowly and thoughtfully I made my way out of the house and up the lane to where Hugo was waiting for me.

"My young friend," said he, when I had told my story, "we'll have no more of this. After lunch I'll drive you back to the hotel, you'll pack up your traps, pay your bill, and come home with me."

"You forget," I put in mildly, "that my host has definitely decided against having me killed off, and what more can a guest ask? Besides, in the last twelve hours I've learned the devil of a lot—where Venner hangs out, his relations with the rest of the gang — and who knows what another day will produce? I tell you what," I added magnanimously, "I'll sleep another night there and rejoin you tomorrow."

Feeling Of Revulsion

We drove on to the Carlton in a more peaceful frame of mind, but the sight that met our eyes as we strolled leisurely up the ramp, did nothing to add to our gaiety.

There was Ottilie Wills, slim, gay and graceful, sitting at a small corner table. And the man who sat opposite her, his expressionless pebble-like eyes fixed intently on her face, was Rene Geiss himself.

I have never experienced a stronger feeling of revulsion than at the sight of these two together, but the effect on Hugo was even more remarkable. He swore aloud, while I saw the dusky color rising to his temples. Then, without a word, he began to push his way through the tables.

"In two strides he was beside them. "Miss Wills," he said stiffly, "may I have a word with you—in private?"

She looked up quickly. "Why, Stern!" said she. "Surely this is an early appearance? I thought famous authors never awoke till tea-time?"

"Hugo, my dear one," Geiss said, but his voice was less affectionate than his words. "I am always so glad to see you, but just now a little less glad than at other times. Miss Wills and I are having a small private business talk."

"Business?" Hugo caught him up sharply, but the girl broke in.

"Why, yes!" she said. "Mr. Geiss has done me the honor to wish to make a sketch of me."

Hugo gripped the back of a chair but before the explosion came, I spoke hastily.

"I think that's a top-hole notion," I said heartily. "But as a matter of fact, Miss Wills, Mr. Stern has an urgent message for you, and I know Mr. Geiss will forgive us."

Ottilie Wills stood up, slowly and with a hint of uncertainty. "Is it as important as all that?"

I gripped her by the arm. "Woman," I whispered, "do you want to provoke a free fight in the most public place in Cannes?" and I led her firmly through the entrance to the bar.

She dropped into a chair and stared up coolly at the two of us. "Well," she demanded, ominously quiet, "and now may I hear your message and go back to my table?"

"That is not your table," said Hugo, still more quietly. "And this is my message. Miss Wills, you will not sit to Rene Geiss for your portrait—neither will you hold any more conversations with him in future."

"And why not?"

"Because," he retorted, "Rene Geiss, as you are already been told, is not safe or fit company for any girl, and Heaven knows we have enough to occupy our minds at the moment without trotting at the heels of rash and imprudent young women. Merciful heavens!" he added, in an uncontrollable burst of irritation. "How many times do you have to be told a thing before it enters your head? You were told that if you didn't keep out of this business, it might seriously endanger us all, and the first thing you do is to scrape acquaintances with your sister's murderer!"

She winced at that, and I saw the tears start to her eyes; but the voice in which she answered him was very far from tearful.

"You're sure you've quite finished?" she asked. "Because I'd certainly like to make a remark or two. You say I scraped acquaintances with Mr. Geiss. That's not true. Baron Stahl introduced us not half an hour back, and it's not my fault if he wants to do a picture of me. You know very well I'm doing it for a purpose. You say that if I don't keep out of this business, it may seriously endanger you all—but it seems to me that if I don't take a hand, it's my uncle's life that will be seriously endangered. You say this must be found out and that discovered, but what have you actually accomplished? Nothing! You're as far as ever from knowing when, where, and how they'll try to kill my uncle, and every day, every minute brings the danger a little nearer. It's five little days till the 30th. After that it'll be too late—he'll be dead, like poor Melanie, I tell you.

. . Hugo Stern, you may be a wonderful author, and your sister and your friends may think you're the brightest thing that ever happened, but your best isn't good enough for me!"

'No Quarrel Of Ours'

She broke off with an angry gasp that was almost a sob. Then suddenly she swung round on Hugo, black eyes blazing. "I know," she cried, "You're all set to tell me come more, and I'll take all you can give me—but first let me finish. You believe this man Geiss had my sister killed? You believe he's the head of the conspiracy to murder my uncle? Well, then, isn't he the one who will surely know what plans have been made?"

Hugo had got a grip on himself by now, though a quiver of the nostril told of fury in check.

"Miss Wills," he said, "I have always believed that no woman was capable of reasoned argument, and now I know it; but before we leave you, there are one or two observations that I should like to make. First, this is no quarrel of ours. The sudden death of an unknown American, as far as my friend and I are concerned, would certainly be no reason for us to endanger our own lives and liberty. Yet in spite of that we are doing what we can to help you protect your uncle. Only this morning a murderous attempt was made on my friend's life, while bathing. Only this morning, as I waited for him in the main road beside my car, Baron Stahl deliberately attempted to run me down."

"Hell!" I said, "you never told me that!" But before I could continue, the girl broke in.

"I'm so ashamed!" she said, very low. "I feel the lowest thing on earth, and yet—" She broke off suddenly. "Oh, there's Uncle!"

As I looked up, startled, I saw the tall, gray-clad figure of Virgoe Wills himself standing in the entrance to the bar.

"Ottilie!" he called, in a stentorian bellow. "Come out here this minute. I want you!"

"I'll have to go," she said. The next instant we were standing before the old man.

He was a fine-looking old fellow, still muscular, in spite of his age. His gnarled face was both wise and kindly, and his eyes, surveying us shrewdly through round - lensed spectacles, were the eyes of a man

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

WHEN Woodrow Wilson paraded up Fifth Avenue for preparedness, he waved a flag and proclaimed the need of a bigger and better navy. President Roosevelt's more modern preparations contemplate an economic peace and restoration touching almost every national problem from railroads to rutabagas.

The administration will, of course, bolster purely naval and military defenses, especially aircraft, but present day warfare requires the mobilization of every national resource. Thus the preparedness plan will be broadened to include expansion of public utility plants, federal assistance to key industries (loans, if necessary), a new approach to the problem of helping the railroads. Both with fresh financing and a more sympathetic attitude, the administration appears ready to reinforce weak spots in the economic, social, military establishment. It will be the key to 1938-1940 plans and probably to 1940 election strategy.

Industrialists and financiers summoned to Washington within the last month—the Baruchs, Carlisles, Harrimans—have noted a more temperate tone among even ardent New Dealers. Only a few days ago, for instance, Rep. Sam Rayburn, author of the "death sentence" law, and Philip H. Gadsden, spokesman for private utility interests, chatted like old cronies in the office of Louis Johnson, assistant Secretary of War. The men of war have become men of peace.

* * *

FACE: State department officials run their affairs quietly and discreetly behind their high latticed doors, but they can't squelch family differences over a trade agreement with Great Britain. It is suspected here that similar dissensions split the Chamberlain government.

Washington can have its pact tomorrow if it will relinquish demands for greater concessions, especially on low priced automobiles. One faction in the department insists that the more moderate arrangement would amount to a real victory for Mr. Hull, and that there should be no delay in signing. But another group, which numbers a majority of the tariff experts, contends it would be only a piece of paper if our more pressing demands were not granted by London.

Chamberlain's problem is political as well as economic. Having been humiliated by Hitler at Munich, by the Japanese around Hong Kong and by the Arabs in Palestine, he hesitates at an outright surrender to a friendly democracy. British industrialists, though they want neither military nor economic conflict anywhere, can't afford to lose markets at home and on the continent (Central Europe and the Balkans) at the same time. That's asking too much.

* * *

SHAPING: Wealthy Republican contributors have stubbornly refused to unzipper their pockets in protest against the apparent inability of the G. O. P.'s high command to capitalize recent breaks against the administration. While it's too late to change commanders now, they will demand John Hamilton's head unless the party registers startling gains on November 8.

The G. O. P.'s political panhandlers haven't reported these protests to the National Chairman for obvious reasons—everybody likes the Kansas redhead, personally—but they have told almost everybody else on the inside. The treasury's reddish state speaks a mouthful, however. Although Mr. Hamilton promised a campaign fund of $500,000 to the Congressional committee, he has turned over only about $280,000, and most of that was borrowed money.

Mr. Hamilton himself appears downcast these days, may quit before or at the regular winter meeting of the National committee. If he wins a vindication by capturing a fair number of Congressional places and governorships, he will be all the more willing to step out. Then will be staged the long delayed battle between the Hoover and Landon forces for control of the G. O. P. as it readies for the presidential campaign.

LIAISON: After five years in which state lines were almost forgotten at the capital and elsewhere—even in the Supreme court—President Roosevelt has inaugurated a movement for far-reaching decentralization. It has vast implications in almost every field.

Wage-Hour Administrator Andrews, at a series of quiet conferences during the last month, has exhorted state officials to enact "little wage hour laws." Social Security experts have just concluded talks at which the states were requested to liberalize and standardize their unemployment insurance systems. In negotiations for war-time mobilization of power F. D. R.'s committee—Johnson, Edison, Ickes, Corcoran, Douglas, Delano—have had to work through the state commissions involved.

Principal exponent of practical decentralization has a foot in each camp—federal and state—and friends on both sides. He is Frank Bane, who recently resigned as director of Social Security to become head of the Council of State Governments. Higher-ups hated to lose him here, but they urged him to accept his new post. They expect him to be more valuable in fostering closer relationships between the 48 laboratories and the experimental center at Washington.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

POLITICAL and financial circles are both hailing the prospective utility construction program as a big booster of employment and business activity. But insiders warn against undue optimism. The plans haven't even reached the blueprint stage as yet. Whether they ever get beyond pure conversation depends largely upon a factor that hasn't been publicly mentioned.

The National Power Defense committee, headed by Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson, has drawn up a comprehensive scheme for the expansion of power facilities on a national scale. The committee has analyzed the normal industrial consumption of electricity in manufacturing areas such as metropolitan New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Birmingham, etc., and then figured how much additional power would be required for the industrial needs of a wartime emergency in each area.

The heads of leading utility systems have been advised how much the production capacities of their respective companies should be increased to handle the estimated peak load under war conditions, and encouraged to expand to that capacity. The expansion would not be uniform all over the country, but would vary in different territories according to the spread between present output and potential maximum requirements.

* * *

KEY: Power chiefs have been outwardly responsive to the committee's overture. They are especially grateful for the Johnson-Manly group's attitude that the national defense power problem can be better solved by private utilities than by expansion of public owned power facilities. But a certain vital question must be answered before they actually start building.

That question is whether they will be allowed to include the projected new properties in their rate bases—i. e. to charge their present customers enough to earn a return on the added investment. The point is that, unless there is a war, it will be years before the extra generating capacity is needed or used. The utilities have no intention of going into hock to build idle and unproductive plants.

So state commissions that regulate utility rates—not Mr. Johnson or Mr. Manley or even Mr. Roosevelt—hold the key to the success or failure of the program. Commissions in states where the New Deal influence is strong are likely to give the companies under their jurisdiction a break on the rate base in order to help the plan along. In other states—notably in New England—the regulative agencies are apt to be hardboiled. Unless they cooperate as indicated, it's a safe bet that the ballyhooed wave of utility construction will remain a pretty pipe dream.

Texas Topics---By Howard Marshall

AUSTIN, Oct. 26. (AP)—According to the United States Department of Commerce, there are 52 cities in Texas possessing airports with municipal rating.

This statement is one of several interesting ones made by Elliott G. Flowers, research assistant in the Bureau of Municipal Research at the University of Texas, writing in Texas Municipalities, organ of the League of Texas Municipalities.

Other observations by Flowers, who has made a study of the airport problem in Texas, especially as related to municipalities, are:

Airports are not nuisances per se, but they may become such through the manner in which they are operated.

The average size of a group of municipal airports visited is 229 acres.

* * *

Some Are "Headaches"

Airports have proved themselves to be a financial headache to most cities. In 1936 only six in the United States showed a profit.

The federal government may be called upon to aid in construction and maintenance of airports on grounds airports may be classified with roads as aids to transportation.

Forty-nine per cent of the cities studied their airports, but only slightly more than one-half of this group maintain them, Flowers said. The remainder lease their fields.

Of those maintaining fields, 64 per cent lease them partially. Among purposes for which municipally owned airports are totally leased are to the federal government for various uses including an emergency landing field; to private operators, and, one, to a dusting company for a landing field.

* * *

THE average size of the fields maintained by the cities themselves is 231 acres and of those leased out, 221 acres, the average of those leased out having a tendency to lapse as the higher population brackets are reached.

"This is understandable as the larger cities are better able to maintain their fields," Flowers said. "The size of the fields maintained falls off in the group composed of cities of 50,000 to 100,000 population. This is somewhat surprising, and as a result it is recommended that cities in this classification enlarge their airports somewhat, especially so if they intend to keep pace with the development of the larger cities."

* * *

Houston's Case Unusual

It was noted that Houston's situation was unusual in that the municipal field there exceeds the statutory limit of 640 acres by 15 acres. The previous owners would sell the 655 acres or none, hence Houston was forced to exceed the limit.

"There is no harm done." Flowers commented, "but if any question is raised the problem can easily be solved by the city disposing of the excess acreage."

* * *

CONCERNING the headaches cities experience from wrestling with airport problems, Flowers referred to an address by Clifford W. Ham at an airport conference called by the United States Department of Commerce.

Ham compiled statistics showing that in the past when an airport was believed to be of a satisfactory size some airplane manufacturer would come forth with a new airplane of a revolutionary size requiring longer and more substantial runways.

To meet this situation Ham suggested that cities and manufacturers agree on overall limitations of airplanes and plot the airport's growth accordingly. An analogy was drawn with the development of the shipping, automotive and railroad industries.

"It may be that the anaplogy falls down in some particulars in so far as automobiles and trains are concerned since they travel only on man-made ways," Flowers said, "and the parallelism with the shipping industry might be considered somewhat out of line.

"But on the whole ships do not require man-made ways upon which to travel; the sea, comparatively speaking, is unlimited, the same thing being true of air. Airplanes and ships need only landing places.

"Admitting the truth of the arguments, it is believed that a happy medium might be reached where cities might allow for future increases in the size of planes and airplane manufacturers might also allow for the financial restrictions of the cities. When this medium is reached the cities may well be proud of their airports, both financially and civically."

TARZAN THE FEARLESS No. 64 — By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Swift and accurately Tarzan traveled the uncharted arboreal trail. Knowing well the vagaries of savage minds, he feared that, despite his warning, Kagundo might decide at any moment to hurl the two remaining prisoners into the belly of the devouring Tree-God.

Even as the ape-man raced toward the village, Kagundo was weighing that very problem. True, he feared the wrath of Tarzan, the Tree-Demon, but perhaps the sacrifice of the captives would work some magic to lessen the power of the demon and assure his capture.

The witch-doctor grunted and rubbed his chin, he sighed and mumbled; such were the outward signs of his worried speculations. At last his bloodlust won. He clapped his hands together and shouted: "Bring forth the prisoners. They shall feed our holy god!"

The announcement threw the villagers into fanatic frenzy. To their degraded spirits the sacrifice was a pleasing, exciting drama. To the prison hut the warriors rushed, and dragged forth Bob and Dr. Brooks. "Death!" they shouted; "death to the captives!"

THE LUBBOCK LIVESTOCK COMMISSION CO.
At 1510 Ave. B
HORSE AND MULE AUCTION SALE EACH THURSDAY
CATTLE SALE EVERY WEDNESDAY!
Our market is really opening up here—sales the past two weeks have been very encouraging. Apparently they are also opening up further east as many new buyers are now showing up. This is very encouraging to the consigners of this territory, as most of the stock for the eastern trade is bought here.
This coming Thursday's sale, especially, looks like a mighty good bet for your horses and mules. We are advertising the sale to right at 500 buyers and stressing the fact that, included in the stock to be offered, will be one full carload of young mares and colts which WILL POSITIVELY BE SOLD, HALTERS OFF! This will bring a lot of buyers and get the sale off to a good, hot, start—and should raise the general price level on all stock offered.
For the cattle sale Wednesday, we are expecting a heavy demand, with plenty of buyer competition—especially on stockers, light calves, and light bulls.

Aged Residents Attend Banquet

his talk the Twenty-third psalm. "The older we grow, our faith has come to be more firmly grounded," he said. The psalm, he pointed out, was written as David grew older and was a summation of his experiences.

Vet Tells Of Trip

R. W. (Uncle Bob) Lemond, Confederate veteran who attended the recent diamond jubilee of Confederate and Union former soldiers at Gettysburg in July, briefly described his experiences. He said he had always desired to meet some of his former foes and when he received the invitation he made plans to attend.

With the leaders of both sides gone, only a few of the rank and file were left, he said. The leaders had always been against a reunion; with them out of the way, the privates could arrange a meeting. "We had no more ill feeling for them than you have," he added. After arrival in Gettysburg, Uncle Bob said, his son had him put in a hospital, because of his physical condition, so he did not get to see as much as he wanted to of the battlefield.

Congressman Mahon said the experience was for him, "something new," he having never attended such a gathering. "We often are prone to disregard the loved ones around us," he pointed out. "We pay homage today to those old timers who have meant so much to us," he added.

Nothing Wrong With World

"There is nothing wrong with this old world—except with the people who live here," Mahon pointed out. His recent trip to China, where he had a chance to see how the people of other lands lived, was briefly commented on, to show how much better American living is than that in other nations.

Rev. Mr. Brittain was called on for a brief talk. "Some of us are not old—but we have lived a long time," he said. Growing old requires patience and "patience is a grace," he commented.

Dr. J. A. Longmire, 78, resident of the territory for a quarter of a century, reviewed the changes here since he first came to this section. "We ran out the prairie dogs and the wolves and we built a town where they used to have a town." Mrs. Mary Ross, 78, declared "I have never dreaded old age," adding "one can get a great deal of satisfaction in looking back over a busy life."

Others Are Called On

A number of others were called on by Dr. S. J. Underwood, toastmaster but most of them declined to speak much other than to express their appreciation of being invited and able to attend.

Col. T. J. Tilson, Plainview, a former member of the state legislature, recalled some of his experiences in southeastern Virginia, where he lived prior to the Civil war. He and William Franklin Elkins, 91, came from the same general area. Colonel Tilson recalled pre-war experiences with negroes.

Mrs. W. B. Nicholson was in charge of the memorial for those who have passed on. The list included, A. R. Ritchey, W. M. Mullican, J. W. Sears, R. M. Babb, R. G. Browne, G. D. Allen, J. A. Wheeler, T. D. Weddington, J. W. Smiley, Mrs. Smiley, D. A. Burham, Mrs. R. J. Walls, Mrs. S. E. Sears, Mrs. Mary Norfleet and Mrs. Sarah Neely. At the close one verse of "Close to Thee" was sung.

Some Unable To Attend

Several guests were unable to attend, because of their physical condition.

Octogenarians present were, R. W. Lemond and W. F. Elkins, 91; T. J. Tilson and S. A. Bird, 90; Mrs. Nancy Taylor, 88; J. F. Sageser, 87; Dr. M. J. Shaw of Plainview, and Dudley Wardlow, 86; H. N. Ritchey, Dr. Brittain, J. M. Caudle, M. P. Routzahn and S. S. Howard, 83; Mrs. Nancy Bell, 82; J. D. McMenhamy, 82; Mrs. Josephine Robinson, 81 and J. H. Lutrick and Mrs. Lena Lemond, 80.

Others included, Mrs. Mary E. Ross, Dr. R. J. Longmire, T. R. Galt, W. B. Jones, and Mrs. S. A. Bird, 78; Mrs. H. N. Ritchey, Mrs. Susan F. Petty, 77; J. Frank Norfleet, 76 and Mrs. Ella McWhorter and Mrs. McMennamy, 70.

Drastic Drop In The Market Price Of Pecans Forecast

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26. (AP)—A drastic drop in the market prices of pecans was forecast today by J. Seligman, president of the National Pecan Shellers association, unless that industry was exempted from terms of the wage-hour law.

He predicted the current price of about seven cents a pound for unshelled seedling or wild pecans would drop to 3 and 1-2 or 4 cents.

The decline would follow, he said, if the main channel through which the crop was disposed—the pecan shelling industry — remained shut down.

He estimated 50,000 workers were thrown out of employment when operators, unable to pay the 25 cent hourly minimum wage required under the law, closed their plants Monday.

PEP GIVEN MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP)—A rush to buy low priced shares—much of the action took place in the few minutes before the final gong—put pep in a drooping stock market today.

Of the day's total turnover of 1,702,180 shares, approximately 22 per cent was accounted for by seven stocks selling for less than $10 a share. Packard alone ran to 179,200 shares and Commonwealth and Southern to 93,700.

This rush for the low priced issues left most of them fractions ahead and tended to obscure a downtrend in a majority of the usual leaders. These were under pressure most of the day for losses of fractions to around 3 points, cut down only moderately at the finish. Steels led the recession. Coppers, mail orders and many industrials were under water all day.

Aircrafts were exceptions to the general decline in higher priced equities with persistent buying in evidence throughout.

Share losers of fractions to 2 points or so, despite late comebacks in many cases, included: U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Westinghouse, American Can, Union Carbide, Johns Manville, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Anaconda, Air Reduction, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania and Standard Oil of N. J.

Low priced issues in demand included Engineers Public Service, United Corp., Columbia Gas, Radio, United Airlines, International Paper (the preferred was also active and higher) and Studebaker.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP)—Cotton was narrowly irregular today in quiet trading. December, which eased from 8.80@8.45, closed at 8.84, with final quotations 1 point net higher to 4 points lower.

The market opened 3 points higher to 1 point lower with the effects of steady Liverpool cables partly offset by liquidation and hedge selling. Trade price fixing caused Dec. to rally to a new high for the current movement early in the day but a little more liquidation appeared. Wall street selling developed while late months were again under moderate pressure. Strength of the spot cotton situation influenced December primarily. Quiet conditions were reported in the spot cotton and textile markets.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

Proof Of Market Success Is Shown In Report Here

Report Wednesday of officials of the Western Wholesale Clothing Market association which sponsored the 17th semi-annual market last week showed it "went into the red"—proof of its success.

The loss wasn't much, according to the financial report which still is subject to minor revision. The exact amount was $21.95, the receipts having been $568 and the expenditures $589.95.

The reason why the loss indicates success?

Officials explained that the test of the market is the number of retailers from West Texas and Eastern New Mexico to deal with jobbers from distant wholesaling and style centers. The visiting retailers were entertained without cost to them at a dinner dance and floor show. The added cost this year was the unexpectedly large attendance at the dinner.

Most of the revenue of the market association, a non-profit organization without paid personnel of any kind, comes from the fixed charges which are assessed upon wholesale exhibitors. This year there were 77, the maximum number for whom accommodations could be provided in the exhibit space reserved.

New Saga Of Sea Told After Victory Over Fire

Ship To Dock Late Friday

NEW YORK, Oct. 26. (AP)—The S. S. Deutschland's victory over fire—a new saga of the sea—was told today by officers and passengers as the German liner steamed toward New York.

After directing an eight and one-half hour fight to extinguish a below decks blaze which was discovered last night while the vessel was 200 miles off Cape Race, Nfld., Capt. Karl Steincke set his engine room telegraph at "full speed."

To Dock Friday

He reported he would dock at his Hudson river pier at 7 p. m. Friday, about 10 hours late.

None of the 591 passengers or 392 members of the crew was injured in the desperate fight.

"There was no panic," Captain Steincke told the Associated Press by radio telephone.

The stories of passengers bore him out, although for three hours, until the flames were brought under control, the Deutschland sent out a series of SOS messages which stopped radio traffic along the seaboard and started seven vessels at full steam to her aid.

Thanks Are Given

Two of them, the S. S. American Traveler and the Norwegian whaler Europe, arrived at her side just as the last flame was smothered. Given the Deutschland's thanks, they went on their way.

Captain Steincke said: "The fire was in number 2 hold where we were carrying a general cargo. I don't know yet how the fire started."

Three hours after the battle started, Captain Steincke radioed to the Associated Press: "Fire under control." But it was five and one-half hours more before it was completely out.

Electric Sub-Station Being Constructed At Littlefield

LITTLEFIELD, Oct. 26—Construction of an electric sub-station for the Texas New Mexico Utilities Co., here, to handle power for the Lamb County Rural Electric cooperative is underway.

It is located west of town about a mile, near the cemetery.

Staking of high lines has been started by A. D. Payne, assistant project engineer. O. K. Woodul is project superintendent.

There are approximately 530 signers for service, it was said.

Rio de Janeiro is nearer to Boston than to New York.

Shaw Barks Back At The Irish Judge Who Declared That He Wore Appalling Clothes

LONDON, Oct. 26 — George Bernard Shaw barked back today at the Irish judge who thinks he wears "appalling" clothes.

"It won't do me any harm," said Shaw. "People do not see my clothes. They read my books. But I presume my tailors will take action against him. It is obviously an actionable statement."

When a tailor from near Killarney, Ireland, produced commendation by Shaw as evidence of his skill in court a judge yesterday interposed: "I've noticed that Mr. Shaw wears the most appalling clothes."

Shaw said today he wears an "ordinary country gentleman's coat and breeches."

FFA And Homemakers Club At Roosevelt To Hold Program

The Roosevelt Rural High school chapters of the Future Farmers of America and the Home-makers club are sponsoring an amateur program to be held in the school auditorium Nov. 4.

Proceeds from the entertainment will be placed in a fund for taking the members of the two organizations to Yellowstone National park early next summer, according to announcement by Roy M. Monk, vocational agricultural teacher and FFA advisor.

C. H. Hutto will be master of ceremonies and will be in charge of the presentation. Cash prizes will be awarded winners.

Roosevelt school authorities announced the entries in the contest must be amateurs.

"We will adhere strictly to that rule," Monk said. Winners will be determined by applause.

Wife Of Rector Of Famous Church Claimed By Death

LITCHFIELD, Conn., Oct. 26. (AP)—Mrs. Mary Ray, wife of the Rev. Dr. Randolph Ray, rector of the church of the Transfiguration, better known as the Little Church Around the Corner, New York City, died at their country home today.

Dr. Ray was dean of the St. Matthew's cathedral, Dallas, Texas, from 1918 to 1923.

Installed on a Curtiss pursuit plane, tandem-mounted propellers which revolve in opposite directions are being experimented with by the Army Air Corps.

Angelo Beauty Chosen Queen

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 28. (Special)—Miss Helen Schneemann, San Angelo beauty, has been picked to be queen of the Texas A. and M. college rodeo on Friday, according to announcement made by H. W. Mills, Sterling City, president of the Saddle and Sirloin club, and king of the rodeo. Shows will be held at 2:30 and 8 o'clock.

The rodeo, an annual event at the college, is staged by the Saddle and Sirloin club, student organization at the college, composed of students studying animal husbandry. Proceeds of the show are used to defray the expenses of the Aggie stock judging team to the International Livestock show in Chicago, Ill.

Several New Stunts

The bill this year will have several new stunts for the performers, all of whom are students of the college. The Mexican ribbon roping contest probably tops them all for novelty. A ribbon is tied tightly to the tail of a Brahma steer and the animal turned out of the chute. The idea being for a two-man team to rope the steer and remove the ribbon. The animal must not be thrown but held by one team member while the other tries to unknot the ribbon. Time is the element in the contest.

Broncs, and mean ones at that, have been borrowed from the state prison system at Huntsville. Brahma steers, regular rodeo stock, has been obtained from Yeager Bros., ranch at Iola. With such a lineup of stock, the show promises to produce plenty of thrills and spills.

First Services In New Hale Center Church Set Nov. 6

HALE CENTER, Oct. 26.—First services in Hale Center's new Methodist church, built partly from lumber out of the old structure, built 20 years ago, will be held Sunday, Nov. 6, the Rev. W. R. Burnett, pastor, said this week. A dedication program is planned, with guest speakers. Only the old church annex remains of the original structure, the auditorium having been razed and rebuilt.

Formerly, seats faced north in the old auditorium. They are turned west, now. Where entrances were on the southeast and southwest corners, the church now has an east front with one entrance there.

The interior will be of a special wall-board, painted a light color. Sunday school class rooms will be arranged more conveniently under the new plans, says Burnett.

Talk On Mystifying Ways Unconsciousness Creeps Over Body Given To Scientists

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 26. (AP)—One of Brown university's famous "iron men" football players of a decade ago reported to the National Academy of Science today on the mystifying ways in which unconsciousness seeps through a body.

He is Albert C. Cornsweet, Brown's fullback, now a doctor of psychology at the University of North Carolina here. He is the youngest scientist to address the present meeting of the academy.

Develops Just Opposite

Medical theory, he told the academy, has held that unconsciousness begins in the brain of human beings. But, he said, in white rats it develops just the opposite way, near the tail and creeps toward the head.

The head is the last part to lose its sensitivity to touch and the eyes close only after the rest of the body is soundly asleep and unresponsive even to pinching.

Dr. Cornsweet reported that the unconsciousness comes on in the tail region with three kinds of anesthetics, ether, cyclopropane and nitrous oxide. When the rodents wake up, their heads begin to move and show signs of returning feeling before their hind quarters.

Reduction in Electric Rates For Abernathy Is Planned

ALL YOUR CURIOSITY satisfied by Your Mileage Merchant...Ask him exactly how you're sure of fast winter starting and extreme oil economy by changing now to WINTER OIL-PLATING

Is OIL-PLATING just a different name? ...No. OIL-PLATING is what Conoco Germ Processed oil does! The out-and-out difference is this: OIL-PLATING will stay firmly attached—plated—clear to the topmost point in your engine, while any plain mineral oil drains clear down the crankcase at every stop.

Exactly where is your gain? Well, in starting up again—next day or next month—the coldest OIL-PLATED engine is always oiled in advance...pre-lubricated before any oil down in the crankcase could ever stir. OIL-PLATING thus keeps every engine part constantly slippy. The starter speeds...the battery lives and so does the engine, free of fierce starting friction.

But is there any oil saving? Why?... Because less engine wear puts more miles between quarts. And OIL-PLATING itself never passes out during the use of Germ Processed oil. Only the Germ Process, patented, creates OIL-PLATING, the sensible reason for you to switch to Your Mileage Merchant today.
