Peron Returned to Power by New Political Upheaval in Argentina

Nationwide Strike Halts All Industry

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Nation-wide strike by 500,000 members of the General Confederation of Workers who supported Col. Juan Peron, former vice president, in a new surge to power, today brought nearly to a stop Argentina's industrial and commercial activity.

At the same time a high source said the Argentine high seas fleet had moved out of its base at Puerto Belgrano, 500 miles south of Buenos Aires.

Destination of the fleet was unknown, but Adm. Hector Vernengo Lima, a leader of the movement which ousted Peron on Oct. 9, was in turn thrown out of office yesterday in the political upheaval which saw Peron returned to a position of dominance.

Peron himself, after forcing the formation of a cabinet of his friends, hailed the strike as celebrating "a day of glory for the workers."

Thousands of idle workers took to the streets in Buenos Aires today and conducted demonstrations on Peron's behalf.

The railroad union said train traffic was completely stopped throughout the nation. Buenos Aires transportation facilities were described as "completely paralyzed."

Street cars, subways and buses said taxis were stopped in the capital. Only the smallest commercial shops were open.

Demonstrators last night attempted to storm the house of socialist leader Alfredo Palacios, he reported. They were turned back by his friends.

A police blockade extended two square blocks around the building of the pro-democratic newspaper Critica.

President Edelmiro Farrell tossed inside a "cabinet of notables" submitted by Juan Alvarez as attorney.

Electrical Power Workers on Strike

DETROIT, Oct. 18.—(AP)—CIO-organized electrical power workers began a strike in Michigan today but by mid-morning service was continuing in the affected area of 2,000,000 inhabitants and industrial centers.

Plants of the Consumers Power company were struck at 7 a. m. (CST) by the CIO's state utility workers council in a wage dispute, and 5,000 state troops were ordered to stand by along with Michigan's 400 state police.

Two hours after the start of the walkout the company reported that, except for brief interruptions, normal electrical power loads were being maintained throughout the area.

Operators of boilers and turbines of the big Milwaukee plant near Saginaw, which feeds power into the rich Saginaw valley, failed to report at their stations at the regular hour.

The power plant, however, was reported still operating, and C. M. Matson, superintendent, said he expected to continue operations "as best we can" with men still on duty.

Maintenance men at Battle Creek walked out at 7 a. m.

State police and state troops had been alerted by Governor Kelly when last minute efforts to avert a walkout apparently failed.

Don Mc Gowan, public relations representative of the company, said at Jackson at 8:20 a. m. that company said.

Half of War Fund Drive Quota Made

Contributions to the Community Chest and National War Fund quotas had jumped upward $6,000 since the last report today, but the desired goal of $35,655 had barely been half achieved.

Total contributions reported, Chairman Lieb Langston said today, is $18,038.36.

The schools to date have turned in $427.03, but the drives at the Junior and Senior high schools will be held today and tomorrow.

The Sam Houston school turned in a total of $213.23, and the Woodrow Wilson, $223.88.

Joe Key, chairman of the business district drive, said today that the Alpaco Construction company employees donated 100 percent, with each one pledging a day's pay.

"Many of the teams have not reported," Langston said.

"They are still at work and I urge all workers to finish as soon as possible in order to get the drive out of the way. It is suggested that two days' pay be given in all cases," he added.

Contributions thus far are credited as follows:

Business district, $1,400.
Advance gifts, $13,647.
Residential, $2,289.33.
Schools, $427.03.
Industrial, $273.25.
Outlying district, $275.

Texas Textile Mills Still in Operation

HILLSBORO, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Company officials of the Hillsboro and Itasca mills said today their plants were still in operation, more than 24 hours following a walkout of CIO union employees.

However the textile workers union of America maintained that the plants were out of operation.

Paul Schuler, regional director of the union, said that the employer of the mills have received telegrams from the Texas offices of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America backing their action.

No violence has been reported at either plant's picketing line.

Testimony Concluded In New Pearce Trial

Testimony in the second trial of Garland Pearce, charged with the murder of Leonard Brown last March, was concluded last night and District Judge W. R. Ewing was scheduled to charge the 12-man jury this morning.

Following Judge Ewing's charge, the defense council made up of E. T. (Dusty) Miller, Amarillo, and Aaron Sturgeon and B. S. Via of Pampa, and Prosecuting Attorney Walter Rogers, will be given a certain amount of time to present their arguments.

Pearce, a 25-year-old ex-sailor, was said to have shot and killed Brown, 48, following an alleged argument between the two men the night of March 16.

Brown, a taxi-driver for the Courtney Cab company, was said to have threatened to strike Pearce with an iron pipe. Pearce testified that he left the cab stand after the argument and was driven to his home by Carl Ragan, another taxi driver.

Pearce said that he got his father's pistol and returned to the taxi stand and told Brown to forget their argument and that he didn't want to have any trouble.

He further testified that Brown cursed him and threatened him again and started out the east door of the cab stand. Pearce testified that when Brown refused to stop, he shot him.

Pearce said that he had been told that Brown was carrying a gun in his coat.

The case was brought to trial in June but the jury was unable to reach a verdict and a new trial was set for September 3, by Judge Ewing.

However on that date, the defense asked for a continuance because several of their witnesses were not present. Judge Ewing granted the request and set the trial for October 13.

Leona McClendon Severely Injured In Fall From Car

Leona McClendon, 16, is in Worley hospital this morning suffering from a fractured skull and a severe concussion as the result of a fall from a car last night about 8:30.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. McClendon, 308 N. Banks, the girl was said to have playfully stepped out of a car driven by a 15-year-old Pampa soldier home on furlough as he was turning the car into Hazel street from east Brown.

Two other girls riding in the car said that the McClendon girl was in good spirits and it was evident that she was only intending to step out on the running board.

Chief of Police Louie Allen said, after questioning the other occupants of the car and also W. J. Wells, who witnessed the accident, that it was evident that the soldier driving the car was not at fault and no charges of any kind would be filed.

Wells drove to the police station immediately to report the accident and the soldier called a Duenkel-Carmichael ambulance from a nearby house.

Senate Committee Backs Tax Cutting

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The senate finance committee voted today to cut individual income taxes $2,085,000,000 a year and remove an estimated 12,000,000 low-income persons from the tax rolls.

The senators also agreed to repeal the excess profits tax on corporations next January 1, accounting for another slash of $2,558,000,000 in revenue.

Thus, before acting on proposed excise tax reductions and other odds and ends, the committee in a two-hour session reduced the prospective federal surplus on corporations by a total of $4,643,000,000.

With further action due later in the day, the senate group had made several significant changes in the pattern of the tax cutting legislation approved by the house last week.

The senate voted to reduce the effective rate of the excess profits tax from 85.5 percent to 60 percent next year but not to repeal it until 1947.

The senate committee refused to follow the lead of the house in voting to reduce the combined normal and surtax on corporations from 40 to 38 percent. In leaving the rate at 40, however, chairman George (D-Ga.) said there was "a distinct reservation" that preferential treatment for corporations with less than $100,000 business a year would come up for consideration later.

Daughter of Pampans Is Free of Guilt

Mrs. Imogene Dumas Stevens, 24-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Dumas, 1233 Garland street, was released from manslaughter charges in superior court at Bridgeport, Conn., this morning, according to the Associated Press.

When Mrs. Dumas was informed by telephone by The Pampa Daily News, she said quite enthusiastically "Oh, is that right?"

"I'm just tickled to death," she then exclaimed. Mr. Dumas, who is a member of the Pampa police force, was asleep at the time. He works on a night shift. Mrs. Dumas apparently awakened her husband shortly afterward, for he came to the News office to see the story in print.

His comment was "It is a lot of relief to us." Mrs. Dumas made a trip to Connecticut last June following the fracas in which Mrs. Stevens, the wife of Paratrooper Maj. G. Raisy Stevens, III, fatally shot a Norwalk, Conn., sailor.

"We felt all the time it would be that way," Mrs. Dumas said, discussing the results of the hearing today. "But," she added, "we did not know the case was to be brought up today." Her husband, she said, had planned to go to New England again when the trial got under way, if there was one.

"Mrs. Stevens' husband, who was recently made a director of paratrooper training at Fort Benning, Ga., returned from service in Europe after he was informed his wife was being held on the charge. She has been with her husband in Georgia for some time.

The AP dispatch today said Lorin W. Willis, Fairfield county state attorney, told the court he had been

Truman Fighting To Keep Federal Control of USES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—President Truman today faced a major fight, and a probable defeat in the house over his insistence that United States employment service offices be kept under federal control.

Even Mr. Truman's most ardent supporters conceded privately that they could not defeat an appropriations committee proposal to turn the USES over to the states as quickly as possible.

But they planned to make an issue over the proposal nonetheless. Prospects are for a showdown vote tomorrow.

A number of southern democrats who often in the past have joined with republicans in overruling White House wishes disclosed that they would support the appropriations committee amendment.

And republican leader John W. Martin of Massachusetts said he believed his forces would back it almost to a man.

The USES now is under jurisdiction of the labor department. It formerly was operated by the states in conjunction with the unemployment compensation program but was placed under federal control early in the war in an effort to route more manpower into war plants.

In recommending that the employment offices be returned to state control, the appropriations committee called for a $30,000,000 grant to the states to handle the job.

The senate already has voted to return the USES to the states, but the house sidetracked the proposal because it was part of a jobless aid bill objectionable to many house members.

Army, Navy Casualty Figures Are Down

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A decrease in navy figures brought the war casualty toll down again today to a combined total of 1,069,632 for the armed forces.

This was 521 under last week's count.

The army total, covering casualties reported to the war department through Oct. 14, is 922,682, an increase of 99 from the previous week. The navy total is 146,950, a drop of 620.

24 German Leaders Are Filed Against

By the Associated Press
BERLIN, Oct. 18.—The most sweeping indictment in history, charging a criminal conspiracy to war against the world, was filed today against 24 of Hitler's Nazi hierarchy and leaders of his army staff.

The 35,000-word indictment was presented to the first international war crimes court, as the initial step in the trial by which Allied prosecutors expect to send Goering, Hess, Jodl and their cohorts to their death.

The document charged mass murder and pillage, multiple crimes and atrocities against millions of persons and dozens of nations.

It was even more important in its broad aspects. It sought to establish in the pages of history a clear warning—that conspiracy to make war is a crime against humanity.

The German general staff and the high command of German armed forces were among six German organizations which the presiding judge of the austere opening session, Maj. Gen. I. T. Nikitchenko of Soviet Russia, said the prosecution would seek to convict next month when the accused war criminals go on trial in Nuremberg.

The indictment was filed by prosecutors of the United States, Russia, Great Britain and France with judges of those nations. The defendants will have 30 days to prepare defenses.

Of the politicians, militarists, industrialists, diplomats and other functionaries who participated in Hitler's supreme bid for world domination, all but Martin Bormann are in the Nuremberg prison.

Hitler himself was not indicted. There is no conclusive evidence that the master war criminal died in his capital last spring when the Russians conquered Berlin while American and British armies were massed in triumph on the Elbe 40 odd miles to the west. Bormann is believed at large.

General Nikitchenko stated for the court that prosecutors of the four nations, including Justice Robert H. Jackson of the United States, would seek to convict besides the German general staff and high command, the German cabinet, the SS or Schutzstaffel, the SD or secret service Sicherheitsdienst, the SA or Sturm Abteilung (Storm Troopers) and the leadership corps of the Nazi party.

British Lord Justice Lawrence will preside at the Nuremberg trials. Former Attorney General Francis Biddle will sit on the bench as United States judge.

All the 24 Germans named were indicted collectively for participation in a "common plan."

Government Is Relieved by Lewis' Move

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The government evidenced frank relief today at John L. Lewis's sudden move to end the critical soft coal strikes, leaving speculation over his motives to others.

Labor reconversion and solid fuels officials hopefully assumed that the 216,000 striking bituminous coal miners would return to work next Monday as directed by the united mine workers' president.

The strikes, which started September 21 and spread to six states, had threatened to bring reconversion to a grinding halt.

The threat to steel—and thence to autos and a score of basic industries—had been multiplying daily. There was little inclination on the part of the government to look behind Lewis's surprise halt order.

A UMW spokesman said the action "obviously" was taken "in the public interest."

Considerable speculation existed elsewhere, however.

Most labor sources expected that Lewis would renew his demand on the operators for unionization of the supervisory, clerical and technical employees—the issue in the strikes—when he reopens the contract next March 31.

Some of the discussions over the back-to-work order took this tack: 1. Lewis may have been convinced that the alternative to ending the strikes—calling out all 400,000 soft coal miners and possibly the 72,000 anthracite miners as well—would not be a smashing success. It's

For want of the key, American authorities waited two hours before a safety deposit box in the Mitsui Trust company to seize $30,000,000 worth of diamonds.

Full-time enrollment increased from 5,100 to 5,761, a gain of 12.5 per cent while part-time evening enrollment increased more than 14 per cent from 6,792 to 7,442.

The greatest increase was 91 per cent in the technological institute, followed by 67 per cent in the school of law. Not included in the total were about 700 students in the navy V-12 and ROTC programs. University officials said that a greater increase was prevented by a shortage of dormitories.

Students registered from every state in the union and many parts of the world, including India, Turkey, China, Mexico, Canada, Iceland, Norway, Czechoslovakia, France, England, and the nine South American countries. Also represented are the territories of Alaska, Hawaii and the Philippines.

USS Oconto, Manila (Delayed)—Billy J. Kuehl, Cox, USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Kuehl, 111 North Warren, was assigned to the USS Oconto, newly commissioned at Astoria, Ore., on completion of his preliminary training.

During the past year he has traveled nearly 40,000 miles on this ship and visited every major island group in the Pacific. He participated in amphibious landings at Bougainville, Lingayen gulf, Mindoro and Okinawa. His duties included the serving of liaison between ship's boats and troops invading.

Kuehl is entitled to wear the American theater ribbon, the Asiatic-Pacific ribbon with two bronze stars, and the Philippine liberation ribbon with one bronze star.

Recently his ship was among those in the initial transport group to reach Japan and was in Tokyo bay unloading American occupation troops while General MacArthur was making his first entry into the Japanese capital.

On leaving Japan, the ship carried over a thousand repatriates from Japanese prison camps to a redistribution center in Manila.

Kuehl was formerly employed by the C. M. Jeffries Co. for eight months. A brother, Richard, is with the army air corps now on Okinawa.

COMMENDED ON DISCHARGE
AMARILLO—Sgt. William J. Haley, Jr., whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Haley, Sr., reside at 801 N. Gray St., Pampa, was honorably discharged from the army air forces at the Amarillo AAF separation base on Oct. 15. He served as a weather observer in the AAF weather service and was last assigned to the 103d weather group, which has headquarters at Kelly field, Texas.

Upon his release from the weather service, Sgt. Haley received the commendation of Colonel Oscar A. Heinlein, commanding officer of the 103d weather group for "contributing to the outstanding achievements made by the AAF weather service throughout the world."

Sgt. Haley performed highly specialized work in the field of weather for which there was little individual glory. However, his work and that of other army weathermen played an important role in enabling the army air forces to achieve a splendid record during the war. By making possible accurate weather forecasts, a maximum number of successful missions with a minimum loss of personnel and equipment resulted.

Sgt. Haley saw overseas service in the Panama canal zone for 27 months. He was awarded the American defense medal, the American Theater ribbon, the GSM and the AAF Technician's badge.

Prior to his enlistment, Sgt. Haley was employed as an accordion instructor at the Tarpley Music store in Pampa.

PIN-WORMS At Last—A Real Treatment!

Anyone who has ever had Pin-Worms knows how tormenting and embarrassing this infection can be, and how hard it may be to deal with the creatures, once they get a foothold inside the body.

Today, thanks to a special, medically recognized drug (gentian violet), a highly effective treatment has been made possible. This drug is the vital ingredient in P.W., the Pin-Worm tablets developed in the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son. P.W. tablets are small and easy to take, and they act in a special way to remove Pin-Worms.

No witch-out for the warning signs that may mean Pin-Worms in your child or yourself—especially the aggravating rectal itch. And don't delay. Ask your druggist for JAYNE'S P.W. right away, and follow the directions. Satisfaction guaranteed, or your money back.

It's easy to remember: P.W. for Pin-Worms!

French brothers, Etienne and Joseph Montgolfier, invented the first successful hot air balloons.

Methods of the U. S. army in determining the fitness and aptitude of recruits for various tasks are a source of interest to industrial leaders confronted with the problem of fitting millions of men into post-war jobs, according to M. J. Julian, president of the Better Vision Institute.

The army paid special attention to the visual skills of recruits and attempted to fit eyes of each soldier to work for which they were best suited. Air pilots need eyes that not only see clearly, but also do not tire easily, have good muscle balance and can adjust themselves for night seeing. All men needing glasses were required to wear them and about one man out of every seven in the armed forces wore spectacles. So important is good vision considered by the army that enlisted men with the vision below certain standards are ineligible for commissions.

"In striving for production efficiency in the postwar period it is important that visual skills of workers be carefully studied," says Mr. Julian. "Of course, any worker with subnormal vision should take steps to tune up his eyes for better seeing. Eyes that tire easily because of uncorrected errors often result in inefficient and unhappy workers. Some jobs call for near seeing, others for distant seeing. In many machine operations good depth perception is essential for both productive efficiency and safety. There are fast-reacting eyes and others that respond more slowly.

"In the fight to maintain high standards of living in the postwar period through productive efficiency," concludes Mr. Julian, "it is important that visual skills of workers be used most effectively."

Family Letters Should Supplement To Supplement

Emergency messages to servicemen overseas will be forwarded by the Pampa Red Cross chapter in every instance in which Red Cross has facilities to transmit them, but families are urged to supplement the Red Cross messages with letters of their own. Mrs. F. M. Culbertson, home service chairman said today. For purposes of the servicemen's morale, the families' letters should contain additional and personal details that, because of crowded cables, cannot be included in the Red Cross emergency message.

Red Cross, it was explained, now is able to reach the greater number of men in the armed forces, except those assigned to ships and some mobile units of the navy and marine corps.

Emergency messages are those regarding death, serious illness, and urgent personal or family problems such as allowances, allotments, business affairs and paternity situations. Birth messages are considered as emergency messages when there are complications such as serious illness or death and when there are no commercial facilities for transmitting the message.

CRIME CLUES

Can You Identify This Case?

The victim of this inhuman murder was a beautiful debutante, a popular member of the "cave society" which frequented the speakeasies of the early 1930's. Young, lovely and lost, she was a typical product of the Prohibition Era, her life a continual round of gay, reckless parties in the fashionable Manhattan night spots. But a morning came when the young girl failed to return home and, despite police efforts, for more than a week her whereabouts were a mystery.

Finally the girl's body was found washed up on the sands of a Long Island beach. Still wearing its evening finery, the young body was a mass of cuts and bruises. Medical evidence showed that the girl had died of drowning, but had been terribly beaten at first. Her head had then been under water until death came.

The many friends of the murdered girl were questioned again and again but the inhuman killer was never found.

This unsolved murder, recreated by Nigel Bruce of Mutual's "Sherlock Holmes" was known as:

Men of Famed 'Timberwolf' Group Have More Night Work

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Terry Allen's famed night fighters of the 104th Timberwolf Division, many of whom are from Texas, have a new kind of night work to do.

They are training for peace, as they trained for war, by going to school. In Europe the Timberwolves readied themselves for spearheading five campaigns by intensive night training. Here at Camp San Luis Obispo many of the division's European combat veterans who two months ago were preparing for combat in the Pacific area now have settled down to the routine of classroom instruction and to adult high school work in preparation for separation from the army.

The Timberwolves who attend night classes do so at the San Luis Obispo high school. Classes are conducted in cooperation with the United States Armed Forces Institute and offer the army general educational development test. Instruction includes bookkeeping, business English, history, government, radio and electrical appliances, mathematics, engineering and motor mechanics. Instructors are enlisted men and officers who were school teachers in civilian life.

Medal of Honor Winner Charged

RICHMOND, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Staff Sgt. Macario Garcia, Congressional Medal of Honor winner, yesterday made bond of $500 here on charges of aggravated assault filed Sept. 24 by Mrs. Donna Andrews.

The charges are the outgrowth of a disturbance in a local cafe after Garcia said he was refused service.

Mrs. Andrews, one of the owners of the cafe, said she was struck in the mouth during the disturbance. Garcia, a naturalized citizen of Mexican birth who now lives in Sugarland following a recent discharge from the army, was accompanied here by his attorney, John J. Herrera, and R. E. (Bob) Smith, chairman of the Texas good neighbor commission.

The disturbance occurred Sept. 10. In the argument and fight, a plate glass window was broken and Garcia was struck on the head with a baseball bat.

Garcia was awarded the Medal of Honor for killing 11 Germans, wiping out three gun emplacements, killing two snipers and refusing medical aid until his company had taken its objective.

School Bus Drivers' Institute Is Planned

Through the state department of education and the Gray county schools, a school bus drivers' institute will be held in the county court room here Saturday morning.

County Supt. Huelyn Laycock said that the institute will be open to about 40 school bus drivers in the county, who daily transport over 2,000 students to and from schools.

E. A. Kimmins, superintendent of schools at McLean, will speak on the bus drivers responsibility and the relation that should exist between drivers and students.

Following Kimmins' address, Highway Patrolman Preston Wynne will explain the school bus laws, accident facts in Texas and safe operation of vehicles.

H. M. Cone, local American Red Cross first aid representative, will demonstrate various methods of first aid after which Joe Shelton, superintendent of buses for the Pampa schools, will demonstrate on the care and service of school bus motors and bodies.

The program will be concluded with safety and first aid pictures and a general discussion.

Most Air Corps Vets Eligible for Release

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 18.—(AP)—All rated officers, including pilots, navigators, bombardiers and flight engineers who have 45 or more points as of Sept. 2 and have completed two years of active duty since Sept. 1, 1940, are now eligible for separation provided they do not elect to continue on active duty, it was announced at the central flying training command headquarters at Randolph field today.

Those who desire to leave the army will be relieved from active duty as rapidly as possible.

hard to get production workers to lose pay over their foremen-bosses' grievances. No pay increase for the miners was involved.

2. The mine leader has been showing increasing concern over public opinion, even though his actions do not always reflect it.

The immediate effect of Lewis' action on the agencies and departments most involved was:

1. The solid fuels administration lifted all its shipping restrictions in the seven mining districts where 1,010 mines had been closed down. SFA also totaled up the cost of the strikes since September 21 at 15,000,000 tons and figured the year's total deficit now at 26,000,000 tons.

2. Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, twice repulsed in his conciliation efforts in major stoppages in the oil and coal industries, named a committee to determine what's wrong with the U. S. conciliation service and find a way to build it up.

3. Agencies searching for a wage-price policy capable of reducing the number of strikes over pay looked carefully at three speeches of reconversion director John W. Snyder for a Kay. Snyder apparently dropped a broad hint that the Truman administration wants to permit slight wage increases while holding living costs pretty much at present levels.

Schwellenbach's committee to study the labor department's role in mediation and voluntary arbitration will be headed by Dr. Sumner H. Slichter of Harvard university and Arthur S. Meyer, chairman of the New York state mediation board. It will include industry and labor members.

general, threw out Alvarez himself, reinstated several members of his deposed cabinet, ousted Adm. Hector Verengo Lima, a leader of the Oct. 9 movement against Peron, as navy minister, and before a vast crowd hailed Peron as "a man who knows how to win your hearts."

The newspaper La Prensa said that shortly before midnight the gunboats Independencia and Rosario and the minesweeper Drummond of the Argentine navy fleet left the capital's port. It printed an unfounded report that Verengo Lima and other navy chiefs were aboard the Drummond.

Still a mystery was the status of Gen. Eduardo Avalos, who led the Campo de Mayo garrison movement which had forced Peron's resignation as vice president, war minister and labor minister. Avalos had taken the post of war minister, and Farrell's announcement listed no successor thus far. But Farrell promised a "complete" list of the new cabinet members later in the day.

In response to the general strike call issued by Peron's friends in the general confederation of labor, all trains out of Buenos Aires stopped running at one minute past midnight.

But not all unions supported the strike. The Buenos Aires labor council, which includes representatives of all unions in the capital, said the strike was "imposed by nazi elements in the labor ministry who, pistol in hand, are trying to paralyze the country to aid Col. Peron."

Two persons and six were injured in a crowd which attacked the offices of the newspaper Critica, outspoken critic of Peron and Farrell, during the night. Some employees of the newspaper said bombs and machineguns were used in the attack. The building was fired, but employees extinguished the flames. The office of the newspaper La Prensa also was attacked.

Peron told the hysterically cheering crowds massed in the plaza de Mayo that he would take a brief vacation in a southern province and then return to the capital to "fight shoulder to shoulder with the workers until I am exhausted."

Only a short time before Peron addressed the cheering throngs in the packed, torchlit square, Alvarez had submitted a list of five civilian notables for the cabinet. Farrell discarded them promptly, before they had time to take office.

Farrell also told the crowd the government had no intention of turning his powers over to the supreme court, as has been demanded by some civilian political groups.

War Crimes

ing in a common plan of conspiracy and individually for the parts they played in plunging the world into its bloodiest and costliest war.

The charges were made in four categories: conspiracy, crime against peace, war crime, and crime against humanity.

The bulk of the indictment is a recital of horrors.

The Nazis and their high command associates are blamed officially for the brutal slaughter of about 10,000,000 helpless persons, civilians and prisoners of war.

About 4,000,000 were slain at Auschwitz concentration camp alone, the indictment says, and another 1,500,000 in notorious Maidanek.

Of 9,500,000 Jews who came under Nazi domination in and out of Germany, the document asserts, 5,100,000 disappeared, "most of them deliberately put to death by nazi conspirators."

The Nazis and their associates are accused also of:

Of torturing civilians to obtain information.

Of putting civilians under "protective arrest" in the "most unhealthy and inhumane conditions."

Mass murders of defenseless people by gassing and shooting, of incredibly cruel "scientific" experiments on women.

Drawing the blood of children. Shooting hostages, ill-treating and murdering war prisoners and plundering or wiping out by wholesale destruction the cities and towns of lands they occupied.

"American prisoners, officers and men, were murdered in Normandy during the summer of 1944 and in the Ardennes in December, 1944," the official document declares. "American prisoners were starved, beaten and otherwise mistreated in numerous Stalags (prison camps), in Germany and in the occupied countries, particularly in 1943, 1944 and 1945."

The indictment furnished the basis for projected trial of German Nazi and military leaders by the Anglo-American-French-Soviet military tribunal at Nuremberg, Germany. It was drawn up by prosecutors of the four Allied nations, including Justice Robert H. Jackson for the United States. It was released simultaneously in the Allied capitals and in Germany.

The 24 men named as defendants were the highest in Adolf Hitler's Nazi government to be taken alive. Almost most of them the indictment makes four sweeping, general accusations: (1) Crimes against peace in starting the war, (2) War Crimes in violation of the accepted laws of war, (3) Crimes against humanity which includes the Jewish persecutions, and (4) Conspiring together to commit these crimes.

After these four general counts are laid down with details of supporting evidence, the names of the individuals are listed together with the specific counts on which each is to be tried.

Organizations indicted are Hitler's old reich cabinet, the German general staff and high command, the leadership corps of the Nazi party, the SS organization (a police and military outfit), the Gestapo (dread secret police), and the SA (a police and military training organization.)

Today's indictment traces the great Nazi conspiracy from the emergence of Hitler as a political leader in 1921, through his election as chancellor of the German republic in 1933 and his suppression of all opposition in Germany immediately thereafter.

Three aims are attributed to the Nazis:

1. To destroy the treaty of Versailles and its restrictions on German military power.

2. To regain German territories lost in World War I and other European territories occupied by "racist Germans" such as the Sudetenland, and

3. To acquire "living space" in Europe and elsewhere.

"In November, 1938 by orders of the chief of the Gestapo, anti-Jewish demonstrations all over Germany took place, the indictment reads. "Jewish property was destroyed, 30,000 Jews were arrested and sent to concentration camps and their property confiscated. Among other mass hills from Tokyo. The farmer, Kasahiro Halbara, said the silver was sent to him from Tokyo to save him from loss during American bombing.

Another $1,000,000 worth of silver was found a few days previously, cached in a underground room near a machine shop at Haratsuka about 100 miles from Tokyo.

Tokohiko Kagawa, a Japanese Christian leader, urged General MacArthur to divert part of the more than $250,000,000 in government valuables already seized to import food.

Kagawa said if part of the treasure could be used to pay for the importing of rice, salt, raw cotton and other scarce commodities, it would be the greatest thing for the happiness of the Japanese people.

Addressing MacArthur through a letter to the newspaper Mainichi Kagawa added:

"It goes without saying that the Japanese people will endeavor their best to faithfully carry out reparations but the suffering of war victims actually is greater than one imagines."

The fortune in diamonds, totaling 131,000 karats in weight, was found in the Mitsui Trust company vaults.

murders of Jews were the following:

"2,000 were shot in an anti-tank ditch at Mineralnye Vodi. 4,300 other Jews were shot in the same ditch. 60,000 Jews were shot at Kutzk. 32,000 Jews were shot at Sarny. 60,000 Jews were shot at Kiev and Dnepropetrovsk. Thousands of Jews were gassed weekly by means of gas-wagons which broke down from overwork.

"As the Germans retreated before the Soviet army they exterminated Jews rather than allow them to be liberated. Many concentration camps and ghettos were kept in which Jews were incarcerated and tortured, starved, subjected to merciless atrocities and finally exterminated. About 70,000 Jews were exterminated in Yugoslavia."

Fantastic forms of torture are set forth in the indictment:

"Bad treatment, pseudo-scientific experiments, sterilization of women at Auschwitz and at Ravensbruck, study of the evolution of cancer of the womb at Auschwitz, of typhus at Buchenwald, anatomical research at Natzweiler, heart injections at Buchenwald, bone grafting and muscular excisions at Ravensbruck, etc.) gas chambers, gas wagons and crematory ovens. x x x

"In the Ganyov camp 200,000 peaceful citizens were exterminated. The most refined methods of cruelty were employed in this extermination, such as disemboweling and freezing of human beings in tubs of water; mass shootings took place to the accompaniment of the music of an orchestra recruited from the persons interned."

In the Ozarichi region of Bielorussia, the indictment says, the Germans set up three concentration camps without shelter and placed in them tens of thousands of persons. They then added people "from typhus hospitals intentionally for the purpose of infecting the other persons interned and for spreading the disease in territories from which the Germans were being driven by the red army."

Among dozens of other murder centers listed in Russia is mentioned the Crimea where "peaceful citizens were gathered on barges, taken out to sea and drowned, over 144,000 persons being exterminated in this manner."

"Along with adults," the indictment says, "the Nazi conspirators mercilessly destroyed even children. They killed them with their parents in groups and alone. They killed them in children's homes and hospitals, burying the living in the graves, throwing them into flames, stabbing them with bayonets, poisoning them, conducting experiments upon them, extracting their blood for the use of the German army, throwing them into prison and Gestapo torture chambers and concentration camps where the children died from hunger, torture and epidemic diseases."

deposited in the name of a Japanese government import and export control agency.

Many of the diamonds had been contributed by civilians who were old they were needed for industrial usage. Obviously the greater part of the diamonds never was used for that purpose. Possibly the gems were intended for use as trading material with Germany and other nations had the war continued.

Some of the gems probably were obtained abroad, as the same type of campaign for them was conducted by the Japanese overseas.

The same government control agency also has 33,000 karats of diamonds in vaults at Osaka, considerable gold and nearly 250 pounds of platinum in various parts of Tokyo.

The discovery came shortly after another fortune in diamonds, belonging to Japanese admirals, was found in a package hidden in a chicken coop atop a mountain 160 miles north of Tokyo.

The movement of the gold from the mint is part of a plan to gather all government precious metals in bank of Japan vaults in Tokyo and Osaka, pending instructions from Washington as to the disposition.

Soldiers of the First (dismounted) cavalry looked on as Japanese crews hauled the gold to the trucks.

Arnold's Condition

Reported as Good

S/Sgt. Clarence Arnold, 28, was reported to be in good condition today following a shooting affray here yesterday that resulted in his being seriously wounded.

Lincoln Ekern, former step-father of Arnold, is being held in county jail in connection with the shooting. Ekern will probably be arraigned before justice of the peace this afternoon.

The shooting was said to have occurred after an alleged argument between Arnold and Ekern as Arnold was preparing to return to his station in Albuquerque.

Witnesses said that Ekern drove up behind the Arnold car and both men got out and an argument ensued. Five shots were fired, two of them striking Arnold near the hip.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging headache, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Nationwide Survey Being Made On Postwar Public Construction

At the request of two congressional committees, the federal work agency has initiated a nationwide survey to find out how much postwar public works construction contemplated by state and local governments has actually reached the blue-print stage.

Announcement of the inauguration of the survey in Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, and Texas was made today by W. H. Sindt, acting division engineer of the Port Worth, Texas, office of the bureau of community facilities.

The study, undertaken at the request of the senate committee to study problems of American small business and the house committee on postwar economic policy and planning, is being made to determine the volume of state and local public works projects for which final plans have been or are being drawn, which could be placed under construction on short notice.

"Complete and authentic information on the volume and status of the public works 'shelf' is needed in connection with a number of problems now receiving consideration in the congress," Sindt said. He also pointed out that such information will be helpful in carrying out the advance planning program authorized by the congress under the war mobilization and reconversion act of 1944. Under that program the federal government may make non-interest bearing advances to non-federal public agencies for the preparation of plans for projects programmed for construction in the immediate postwar period.

"The federal work agency now has available through the bureau of community facilities and the public roads administration information on the extent of public works being done by state and local governments with federal funds advanced under the war mobilization and reconversion act advance planning program and in connection with the federal aid highway construction program," Sindt stated. "What is now needed is information on planning being carried on by state and local governments with their own funds," he continued.

The congressional committees have asked that this information be gathered on a continuing basis so that they may know at all times how much public works construction could be started when and if needed, as well as where and how fast it could be initiated.

The bureau of community facilities plans, insofar as possible, to contact all state agencies and local governmental units such as counties, cities, school districts, etc., to secure this information.

STRAIGHT AND NARROW

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 18.—(P)—Miss Emma Lou Hamilton took a cab to a local hospital where she was to assume her duties as a Red Cross Gray Lady. She paid her fare with what she thought was a $1 bill and hurried in.

Waiting through the hall a few minutes later she was confronted by the taxi driver.

"Lady, you gave me a $5 bill and didn't get your change. I had to hunt quite a bit to find you."

He then gave her five one dollar bills.

Considering this too much of a good thing, Miss Hamilton pointed out to him that she really desired to pay something for the ride.

Typical of postwar passenger and cargo planes, the Mars flying boat, capable of carrying cargo in excess of 35,000 pounds, can fly non-stop scheduled flights from America to Switzerland carrying 132 passengers.

Sight-Seers of 6th

Toured Pacific Area

By NEA Service
In World War I the Sixth infantry division was in so many engagements and made so many long marches about France that it was given the nickname "The Sight-Seeing Sixth."

The Sixth in this war upheld that reputation. Its six-pointed star shoulder patch was seen throughout the Pacific, from Hawaii to the far reaches of New Guinea.

The Sight-Seers had one of the toughest assignments in recapture of Luzon. They landed at Lingayen Gulf Jan. 9, 1945, and went straight to the hills in pursuit of the Japs. While most of the other invading divisions were working on fairly flat terrain, the Sixth was in the mountains attacking formidable Nip positions. In the first month of the campaign, the Sixth killed 5000 Japs, and during the fierce battle around Munoz knocked out 57 Jap medium and light tanks and destroyed a great number of artillery pieces.

The Sixth's first job was the defense of Oahu. In 1944 it set sail for Milne bay, New Guinea, and later moved to the Toem-Wadke area. In July the Sight-Seers went into action west of Toem and met and defeated the Japs in the bloody battle of Lone Tree Hill. With little rest, the Sixth moved again. This time the men landed at Sansapor on the Vogelkop peninsula in the Netherlands East Indies.

UPTON CLOSE:

Asiatics Want To Know Where U. S. Stands on Issue

There are two ways in which the white man can deal with Asia and her billion and a half natives: Either: (1) The white man must become a greater over-lord than before—hold supreme power and rule Asia with an iron hand—be prepared to retain mechanized standing armies in every Asiatic country, and in his every move and gesture show the Asiatics that the white man is master.

Or (2) the white man can recognize the Asiatic in each and every country as equal human beings who have a right to their philosophy of life, freedom of thought and development, and political independence, and develop their markets in a mutually beneficial and dignified manner, only as rapidly as their progress permits.

The era of imperialism in its various forms has reached the show-down stage; whether it is to be complete withdrawal of "pursuasive" force, or out-and-out subjugation. The Asiatics want no more of benevolent paternalism.

Even before the ink is dry on the documents confirming the surrender of Japan, we begin to get news of British troops landing in the Dutch East Indies, French Indo-China and elsewhere to put down native insurrections, civil war and riots, all in protest at the refusal of the previous rulers of those countries.

This means that the propaganda of "Asia for the Asiatics" is not dead. It has made a deep and indelible imprint. Japan failed because she chose to become the new overlord instead of the Asiatics' champion of freedom. Such is the hysteria caused by easy conquest. Nevertheless, just as Anti-Semitism did not die with Hitler in Europe; so the theme of "Asia for the Asiatics" is still aflame after the fall of Japan.

The Asiatics have learned one lesson from this war: that the white man is not impregnable. They have seen him beaten and driven out, even if temporarily. The Indo-Chinese cannot accept their French master after having seen France collapse in a few months under derelict leadership. Indians and Malays will not endure their British master who proved his insufficiency without their armed help and production. Neither will 66,000,000 natives of the Dutch East Indies stand to be ruled by a handful of Dutch foreigners.

The same can be said for the Chinese, Arabs, Egyptians and Syrians. They find no super-man in Europe. They see chaos, devastation, hunger and bankruptcy in the domains of the white man.

We have had the propaganda forced on us that the Asiatics have more use for the British and the French than they have for the Germans. This is absolutely false. To the Asiatics an Englishman looks like a German, and all Europeans are intruders. The last two wars in Europe are regarded as family convulsions. The Asiatics sit back and see the white man commit suicide without too much regret.

The news insurrections, riots and disturbances in various parts of the non-white world is not surprising. This is but the beginning, for the slumbering Asiatic giant has just awakened. Now, the billion and a half Asiatics want to know where we of the American continent stand.

WHERE DO WE STAND? The conduct of European nations is a matter of record and needs no explanation. But we have never made our position clear. Our leaders have talked of the "four freedoms" and "self-determination" for all peoples. They have used a whole dictionary of platitudes. Now the Asiatics demand to know if we meant what we said. If we accused Japan of a stolen empire, then do we now sanction the previous thefts of their countries by the British, French and Dutch? Did we resurrect France to re-install her as the over-lord of millions of North Africans and Indo-Chinese? Are we financing and preserving the British empire?

The Asiatics are asking these and other questions. We cannot sail on pretty slogans any longer. If we want to war to destroy "oppression and tyranny," a billion Asiatics want to know where oppression and tyranny begin and where do they end? We cannot exclude ourselves from partnership with Britain, France and Holland and claim to be above imperialism. We have been senior partners in the execution and financing of this war. Furthermore, we have great economic holdings all over the Asiatic countries and these cannot be ignored, neither are we fooling anybody about them.

When we sold Japan mountains of scrap iron and steel to bomb Chinese cities and murder women and children and called it appeasement of Japan, we may have believed it; but not the Chinese. The Indians do not believe we destroyed nazism because it was a greater evil than British imperialism. We cannot be imperialists behind the imperialists!

Our leaders did a lot of talking and the Asiatics have not forgotten. Now they want action and we had better make our position clear to them or Russia will, and it will be a different story than we want told. Remember Russia is more Asiatic than she is European, and she can easily intensify her championship of "Asia for the Asiatics."

These are the days of setting our course, and Mr. Truman and his crewmen on the ship of state should know it. We must declare our course honestly or become hypocrites travelling under false colors. We must decide whether we want to help Britain, France and others hold Asia through force of arms, or grant the Asiatic countries equal independent status and deal with them on a mutual business basis. The era of half measures is not acceptable any longer and any white man's nation that wants to avoid the nastiest mess of this messed-up century better act accordingly.

Wheeler County Pioneers Celebrate Golden Wedding

SHAMROCK (Special)—Why, I sold beef to the surveyors who laid out that Rock Island railroad, and then to the workers that built it," declares Old Bell, Wheeler county pioneer.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell, who recently celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary, come to the county in 1895 and settled on a farm 12 miles northeast of Shamrock, where he raised cattle and did stock farming.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Bell were born in Arkansas, he near Fort Smith, and she near Pine Bluff. Bell came to Texas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bell, when he was 16 and settled at Chillicothe, where he met and married Miss Annie Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Duncan of that city.

In remarking about the days on the farm, Mrs. Bell said, "I have raised lots of chickens, and done most everything a farm woman could do."

After many years of farm life, Mr. Bell, who is a keen business man, was among the pioneers who struck it lucky, with "flowing gold."

In 1922 he and his family moved to the Rio Grande valley where he owned and operated an 80-acre citrus fruit farm. He built a magnificent home, which with its Spanish architecture and spaciousness set among palms and evergreens, might compare with the homes of our Hollywood stars.

"I enjoy growing citrus fruit more than anything I ever did," Mr. Bell commented, reminiscence of his days in the valley, "but we came back to most popular concoctions are a skull-cracking brandy that appears to have been distilled from Japanese pine-needle gasoline, and a dubious cocktail mixed with equal parts of cherry-flavoring, saccharine and some high-voltage ingredient that smells like mothballs soaked in vinegar and coconut juice.

When these two brews are indiscriminately mixed in the stomachs of Java's cosmopolitan night club set, brawls ensue which make this island's daytime struggles for independence from Dutch rule look like an ordinary lodge election.

There is only one war in the daytime—that's more or less between the natives and the Dutch. But at night! You can choose from half a dozen wars among as many nationalists. The wise man plays the role of bystander—but you have to be fast on your feet.

At present only two real nightclubs are open. The third, which catered largely to Japanese soldiers out of duty, had to turn itself into a

The remaining nightclubs are at Barbary coast level in quality; and at Stork Club level in price. They feature dim, colored lights, tinpan orchestras and both white and Eurasian "common" girls hired for their ability to drink customers under the table.

Their clientele consists of former Dutch internees, Eurasians, British soldiers and sailors and American merchant seamen, a few local tired businessmen and wealthy natives and a number of castaway German submarine crewmen. It is a highly explosive mixture.

FIRE HUNTING
EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 18.—(P)—Evanston firemen had to haul 15 tons of coal from a basement of an apartment building to the street before they could extinguish a small fire.

The blaze was in the middle and at the bottom of a bin filled with more than 60 tons of coal and before the firemen could reach it they had to move 15 tons. Only a few squirts of water were necessary to douse the fire.

Texas Veterans of World War II To Call Special Meet

CHICAGO, Oct. 18. — (AP) — The Texas delegation to the American Veterans of World War II first national convention planned today to call a special state meeting on labor problems confronting its members after the national body declined to go into the question.

The convention Saturday rejected a resolution by the Texas delegation stating that "no veteran shall be required to join any organization as a condition of employment." The convention then decided to defer consideration of all problems of labor and management pending further study and rejected consideration of a second resolution from the Texas delegation dealing with the problem.

J. H. Alexander, Dallas, a member of the national executive committee from Texas, filed a statement with the convention protesting the action.

"It is apparent that the AMVETS convention has been penetrated by extremely clever radical left wing labor union elements which have unconsciously influenced many of the weaker members, with the result that these radicals whose purpose it is to destroy the convention, have completely dominated the convention," his statement read.

Amarillo Captain Gets Bronze Star

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. — (AP) — Capt. Lee E. West of Amarillo, Texas, was one of eight army officers and enlisted men awarded medals for outstanding duty with the office of strategic services.

Brig. Gen. John Magruder, director of the strategic services unit, presented the men with the awards.

Captain West received the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service "while serving as commander of Kachin Banger units."

The Captain's citation read, "He displayed outstanding qualities of leadership, initiative and courage. Near Myittha, his unit maintained constant patrol, intelligence and ambush activities against the enemy. In the pro-Japanese area of Mansi, which was heavily patrolled by the Japanese, he exhibited his personal courage by making numerous trips to outposts located in the immediate vicinity of the Japanese units. In the Myitson area, West took command of a company that had become disorganized when its commander was wounded. Inspiring confidence in his men by his courage and sound judgment, he reorganized the unit to enable it to protect the British right flank against a strong Japanese force."

Cleaning Equipment, Declared Surplus, Is Listed for Sale

DALLAS, Oct. 18. — L. B. Glidden, manager of the Dallas agency of the reconstruction finance corporation, today announced the first national listing of laundry, pressing and dry cleaning equipment and machinery, declared surplus to the RFC, which will be offered for sale through the RFC's 31 regional agencies.

Most of the equipment listed in the offering has been used at military posts in this country and the classification of its condition ranges from fair to good with a few new units described as excellent.

Prospective purchasers, whose names are not already on the RFC's mailing lists, should apply to the RFC agency serving the territory in which their business is located. If an item is not in stock in that agency's inventory, orders for it may be filled from the inventories of other RFC agencies.

The RFC is the disposal agency designated by the surplus property administration for capital and producer's goods.

'Miniature Oil Field' Increases World's Usable Oil Resources

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 18. — An electrically-operated miniature oil field, which will save immense quantities of oil that otherwise would be lost beneath the earth's surface, was announced today by Gulf Oil corporation.

The new device will substantially increase the world's usable oil resources.

By an ingenious process, the miniature field foretells with considerable accuracy just what will happen in an oil producing area for periods up to 20 years in the future.

From such forecasts, oil production may be planned so as to force to the surface a greater percentage of the oil reserves hidden in the earth than was previously practical.

The "Electrolytic Model Oil Field," as the instrument is christened, was pioneered by scientists of Gulf Oil corporation's research laboratory at Harmerville, Pa.

Already in practical use, it is making possible greater oil production from existing fields, and contributing to the economy of oil production.

Healed by the ability of the "Electrolytic Model" to gauge exactly how water flooding or gas injection operations may be conducted without "blocking off" from the wells part of the oil reserve, so that it does not flow to the surface.

The accomplishment of the Gulf scientists, who developed the "Model" lies in the utilization of the flow of electric current so that it can measure and predict the flow of water, gas and oil within oil sands.

In the "Model," miniature wells—actually small tubes connected with an electrically sensitized mat—are set up in the same relation and at proportionate distances as in a given oil field.

Current through the mat, a picture mat, which represents the oil field. By recording the slow spread of this current through the mat, a picture is given of how water, gas or oil will spread beneath the field.

From this picture, these salient facts are learned: How much oil can be produced from the field, and consequently the most efficient plan for operations.

For instance, the flow pattern shown in the picture aids in determining the location and number of wells, the desirable rate of flow per well, and the amount of water and gas needed.

Procedures for coming years may thus be planned more exactly and will secure a greater oil yield than has heretofore been possible.

Previously water and gas injection plans were based primarily on estimated porosity and saturation of the sand, from which forecasts could not be as dependable.

Now however, when scientists temper data from the "Model" with their information on the geological structure of particular fields, final deductions show considerably improved accuracy.

The "Model," which can represent a field of up to 20 wells, is about the size of a home workbench. In analyzing larger fields, the area is divided and handled in sections.

To make a forecast of oil field history for the next score of years takes the "Model" not more than three hours.

7th Saw Ice of Atitu And Heat of Jungles

By NEA Service

The thermometer didn't mean a thing to the Seventh Infantry division when it came to killing Japs. It fought in the sub-zero cold of the Arctic and in the 125-degree heat under coconut trees.

In hunting down the enemy, from Atitu to the south Pacific, the men of the Hour-glass division earned themselves two major honors.

At Atitu the Seventh earned the distinction of recapturing the first American oil taken by the Japanese. And at Kwajalein in the Marshall Islands, the Seventh, with the Fourth Marines, won the first of ground held by the Japs prior to Pearl Harbor.

The Seventh started its battle against the Japs in May, 1943, when it hit the beaches of Atitu.

Early in 1944 the Seventh went ashore at Kwajalein, and six days later the Stars and Stripes flew over the atoll.

In the bloody battle for Leyte, the Hour-glass hit the beach on D-Day and soon found themselves opposed by one of the crack Jap divisions—the 16th, perpetrators of the infamous "Bataan Death March."

They eliminated the Nips. But the toughest fight for the Seventh started on Easter Sunday, 1945, when the Hour-glasses landed on Okinawa.

There they met everything the Japs could throw at them. One of the bloodiest battles of the war saw the Seventh assault hill 178 for six days before taking this anchor position in the enemy defense line.

The Erie canal was opened in 1825.

The next time the little woman chides you for misplacing something, remind her of Homer Moreland.

Mr. Moreland lost his house.

Mr. Moreland lives in Progresso. He contracted for a moving firm to transfer his home to Weslaco. It failed to arrive on time so he got in his car and went out to look for it.

He drove off the pavement and his car was promptly and firmly stuck in the mud. It had been raining heavily.

Well, he tried again next day. Still no house. Finally, in what must have been something bordering on desperation, Mr. Moreland hired an airplane.

From the air he soon spotted it. His house had bogged down in the mud, too.

Whit George of Italy, Texas, has been sort of upset. He didn't lose his house, but he's losing a lot of time.

When the government decided it was time to change from war time to standard time Mr. George obediently set his clock back an hour.

The thing has been running in reverse ever since, he complains. He explains that it positively refuses to go forward under the new order, and no one has been able to fix it.

Quite without meaning to do so, Miss Ethel Hillman of Dallas confuses visitors in the chamber of commerce.

The very efficient Miss Hillman will tell visitors that her boss, Mr. Ben Critz, is talking on the telephone, is in conference or maybe just reading a copy of True Detective.

Fuzzed visitors will look around, and not seeing Mr. Critz will become very suspicious of Miss Hillman.

But she does it with mirrors. She has an unobtrusive mirror on her desk, arranged at just the right angle to see what Mr. Critz is doing.

Christmas is still two months away but you wouldn't know it by reading the newspapers and magazines.

It'll be the first peacetime Christmas since Pearl Harbor and people are so excited over prospects of the happiest Yuletide in five years that such things as Halloween and Thanksgiving are in danger of being by-passed.

You don't read much about Halloween, although it's just around the corner. You don't read anything about Thanksgiving, which is next month.

But Christmas! In El Paso, they're already working on Christmas lighting. A special committee has been named to work up decorative schemes. Homes and lawns and city parks are going to be dressed up. The chamber of commerce alone is donating $3,500 worth of lights and decorations to spruce up the city.

Over in Longview they're giving page one space to the annual Christmas seal drive. It stars in November.

Advertisements already are emphasizing Christmas gifts. Lay-away plans, particularly, are emphasized. And, of course, gifts for the men still abroad.

The spirit is definitely contagious. What will the gifts be like this year?

Well, a Dallas merchant says we'll get just enough to make everybody mad. In other words, merchants are getting token shipments—just a handful of the things they order. And customers, snorting that the war is over, can't understand.

It will probably be the most expensive Christmas in years, too. Prices are climbing.

1500 Diesel Engines Are Placed for Sale

DALLAS, Oct. 18. — Approximately 1500 Guiberson radial diesel engines originally designed for aircraft use and manufactured during the war to power army tanks, have been declared surplus to the reconstruction finance corporation and are being offered for sale by competitive bid, L. B. Glidden, manager of the RFC Dallas Agency, said.

The engines are being offered for a 45-day period beginning October 1, and ending November 14. Bids are to be submitted directly to the Aircraft Division, RFC, Washington, D. C., and will be opened at noon November 15. A catalog listing these diesel engines can be obtained from the Aircraft Division, RFC, 2nd and D streets, N. W., Washington, D. C., and field offices. This list also gives the location where the engines may be inspected.

Two models of the Guibersons are available. One is rated at 250 horsepower, and the other model has a rating of 345 horsepower. Both models are air cooled by shrouded propeller and of the radial type.

The reconstruction finance corporation is the agency designated by the surplus property administration for the disposal of surplus aircraft components.

Officers Test New Perfection Parking Meter

HARTFORD, Conn. — Hartford's police department today issued a statement to the effect the motorist public took a definite liking to the new Perfection parking meter recently tested on the streets here by M. H. Rhodes, Inc., of this city, which for a number of years prior to the war was the leading producer of parking meters in the world.

Policemen charged with supervising the machines also reported a great deal of satisfaction on their own part with the new meter. This feeling was largely due to the trouble-free operations of the Perfection meter, its simplicity and easy visibility, it was said.

These developments in reference to the new Perfection meter, the first advanced model to reach the market since the war ended, were brought out at a conference attended by police personnel connected with the parking meter squad.

At the same time Lawrence E. Tompkins, sales manager for the company, said the new meter is winning acceptance "beyond all expectations."

In the short time it has been on the market, Mr. Tompkins expressed the belief sales of the new meter have outstripped those of any competitor company.

For instance, said Mr. Tompkins, the largest postwar contract for meters let to date, a sale to Miami, Fla., was given to M. H. Rhodes, Inc., in competition with other parking meter manufacturers.

Designated the Perfection model, because it is believed to be the most fool-proof mechanism of its kind devised to date, the new meter is reported to have aroused considerable interest among municipalities through the country, large numbers of which have requested the M. H. Rhodes company to arrange for demonstrations of the model before their officials.

By virtue of the engineering which went into developing the mechanism, the new meter is credited with the advantage of eliminating any possibility of the public losing parking time or a city losing parking revenues.

Rugged in its simplicity, the new Perfection meter has practically only one moving part—the coin lever at the back of the unit—which not only drops the coin into the box and sets the parking time, but also winds the time spring, thus doing away with run down, inoperative meters.

A novel dial, showing unelapsed parking time in unobstructed white and over-time parking in full red, enhances visibility 1000 per cent over

Atom Scientists Are Worried, Too

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — In discussions of the world control of atomic bombs, it is surprising that the opinions of the scientists who still are working on the bombs are being given so little attention.

Rep. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.) has laid out a report from a group of these scientists before his colleagues, but few so far have incorporated any of the conclusions of the laboratory men into their public arguments.

Except for occasional outbursts by some congressmen and other public officials who declare we should or shouldn't keep the bomb as a U. S.-British secret, congress seems willing to wait until the President lays the problem squarely before it.

Even then, there probably will be the old pointer-type meters. This factor results in faster turnover of parking space, a convenience to the motoring public and a greater revenue producer for a city.

By means of a number of ingenious devices, the new meter is considered to be tops in its field, and has merited the complete approval of the Hartford police officials.

some buck-passing between the legislative and executive branches.

"The scientists who created the atomic bomb," says Rep. Judd, "have spent sleepless nights on the question of what to do with their brain child."

And the scientists themselves reiterate this, pointing out that because of the secrecy surrounding its development they have been spending sleepless nights a good deal longer than those who only learned of its horrible force when the first bomb was dropped over Hiroshima.

The scientists (who have elected to remain anonymous in making their report) set forth their conclusions with direct laboratory logic. They state simply that the United States has four alternatives in control of the atomic bomb and then proceed to show what is wrong with each one.

(1) Disregard the atomic bomb altogether in our formation of foreign policy.

Arguments for this are simply that the atomic bomb will not in the long run change the basic nature of war or conquest and that eventually science will develop an adequate defense against them.

To this, the scientists say simply that any nation can find the secret for itself in two to five years; that the raw materials (especially uranium) are scattered all over the world; and that after a minimum number of bombs are constructed, bigger and better ones are just so much useless surplus.

quate defense against them.

To this, the scientists say unequivocally they can "offer no hope of a specific defense against the atomic bomb."

They point out also that neither moral sanctions nor fear of retaliation has ever kept a power from using any weapon on its march of conquest. (The latter did prevent use of gas in the late war, but for reasons that wouldn't apply to the atomic bomb.)

(2) Keep our secret; control raw materials and build bigger and better bombs.

Truman Asked To Settle Dispute

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(P)—President Truman has been requested to settle the 50-year-old dispute between the United States and Mexico over ownership of the Chamizal tract of land at El Paso, Texas.

Rep. R. Ewing Thomson (D-Tex.), representing the El Paso district, asked the President that the state department be called upon to resume discussions with the Mexican government so that the title may be settled.

The tract includes 83 blocks adjacent to the international bridge which crosses the Rio Grande at El Paso into Juarez, Mexico. Thomson said the estimated value of the property is $3,000,000.

Mexico contends that the area was formerly a part of that country but was cut off by a shift in the course of the international river some 50 years ago.

In Mexico City yesterday, Alfonso Alfores M., a member of the senate foreign relations committee, said Mexico always has abided by international arbitration decisions and other American nations should do likewise.

In the case of Chamizal, Flores said the disputed territory was awarded Mexico by a Canadian arbiters.

Survey Shows 85,249 Retail Stores In State of Texas

AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—Out of 85,249 retail stores in Texas, 4,910 are chain stores, and 79,453 are independent stores, according to a survey published by the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research, reports.

"Compared with retail stores in 1929, 77.8 per cent of all retail stores in Texas in 1939 were independent," Mrs. Lewis said. "Ten years before, 81.4 per cent were independent; 20.9 per cent of the total stores were chain in 1939, compared with 16.7 per cent in 1929; the remaining 1.3 per cent in 1939 were listed as other types, compared with 1.9 per cent for this classification in 1929."

The principal types of chain stores in Texas are department stores, drug products stores, lumber dealers, variety stores, shoe stores, cigar stores, accessory, tire and battery dealers, and family clothing stores.

"The highest percentage of sales by any one group of chain stores in Texas is -939 was 80.8 per cent by variety stores," Mrs. Lewis reported. "A total of 36.75 per cent of all stores of this type in Texas were chain stores. The second largest group of chain stores from the standpoint of sales was department stores, which accounted for 52.7 per cent of the total sales."

"The third largest group by total sales was represented by shoe stores, with 48.7 per cent of total sales for this type of stores."

Texas Retail Trade is a five-volume summary of retail trade in Texas over the past ten years, covering the census period of 1929 to 1939. Each volume deals with different trades, and the fifth is a summary of the statistical information.

Four Crash Gates To Escape Prison

HUNTSVILLE, Oct. 18.—(P)—Officers today were seeking four convicts who crashed a meat truck through the gates of Huntsville state prison and escaped in a hail of gunfire.

Highway blockades and patrols were set up immediately after the escape late yesterday. The blockades extended as far north as Corsicana, west to Austin and east to the Louisiana line.

Warden H. E. Moore said the convict driving the truck was wearing a metal shield and the three other men rode in the refrigerator compartment of the truck to protect themselves from bullets.

A guard shot the gasoline tank of the truck full of holes and the truck, empty of gasoline, was abandoned in the Huntsville city limits. The men then forced A. J. Beckham of Huntsville out of his sedan and headed for the Dallas-Huntsville highway.

The escapees were listed as Jack Hudspeth, 24, of Ardmore, Okla., serving five years for burglary from Anderson county; Roy Willford, 33, serving 15 years for robbery from Grayson county; Webster Mitchell of Matador, Texas, serving a life sentence for rape from Donley county; and Walter Vincent Valley, 25, of Ardmore, serving five years for burglary from Anderson and Cherokee counties.

Charges Connected With Strikes Dismissed

AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—(P)—Misdemeanor cases against three men charging they injured property of the lower Colorado river authority have been dismissed by justice of the peace, Mace Thurman.

A similar charge against another man is scheduled to be heard today before justice of the peace Frank McBeck.

Thurman dismissed the complaints yesterday on a motion for quash by Polk Shelton, attorney for the men charged. He pleaded the charges were vague and indefinite, and the state offered no contests.

No witness for the state appeared. The men were arrested originally on complaints filed by Ranger Captain Fred Olsen. They grew out of investigations of power stoppage following the strike of LCRA workers Oct. 1.

DO UNIONS RAISE WAGE LEVELS?

(By Captain Harry H. Hoiles)

Although surveys indicate that a majority of the people in the United States do not believe unions have been run correctly a substantial number of those who believe this conscientiously believe that unions if run correctly could and do raise wage levels.

So, if unions do raise wage levels, an explanation of how they do it would seem in order.

The method which has been used for years in this and other countries is by use of the strike or threat of a strike to get an employer to agree to a blanket increase of a certain number of dollars or a certain percent for workers in various wage groups.

Thus they have by the use of force (physical force in that they have physically prevented any workers who may not agree with the strike from continuing to work) raised the dollar wage of the workers in a given company or industry.

Now the question comes up as to where this increased dollar income comes from. Many people believe that the increase comes from profits. Can that answer be correct? An analysis would indicate that it would be impossible for this increased dollar income to come from the profits of the concern.

If the increase thus brought about by force were to come from profits, would there not be a limit to such increases when all the profits would be eaten up? Yet our history would indicate that there is no such limit. That although wages in companies or industries have increased 10%, 20%, 30% or more yet those companies and industries either continue to make profits or go out of business.

Of course, if the companies have gone out of business in which cases the increases did come out of profits though naturally the increases as well as all income to the workers in those companies ceased when the companies and industries either continued to make profits or go out of business.

Furthermore, if it were possible for the dollar increases as forced by strikes to be eaten up? What would that mean? That would mean that in the future there would be less companies, less industries for the profits of today.

Since the dollar increases as forced by strikes to be eaten up? What would that mean? That would mean that in the future there would be less companies, less industries for the profits of today.

receive less than he produces. This is true when wages are raised by groups rather than by individuals. Lumping the workers together in groups as unions do rather than treating them individually actually destroys initiative, responsibility and production.

Proponents of unions also say, "with the higher wage of $240,000,000 per year in the above illustration the automotive workers will be able to buy more and thus create more demand for other products," which is true. Isn't it also true that with $240,000,000 less buying power for products other than automobiles the 4,000,000 consumers must buy less which would exactly neutralize the increase in buying power the automotive workers would have?

The answer is inescapable. Wages raised by strikes, by force or by negotiation when the negotiation is done by groups rather than by individuals are mere transfers of purchasing power from the consumers of products to the workers producing those products.

How then may wages as a whole be raised rather than merely transferred from one group of workers to another group of workers? The answer is, as they always have been.

Wages of individuals have always been raised by those individuals increasing their production and being rewarded accordingly. Of course, there is no system in which wages are exactly proportional to production excepting the piece work system. But when wages are paid on an hourly or weekly basis the amount produced is averaged in the mind of the employer and the employee and a bargain is concluded which is the highest bargain each can get. If either can make a better bargain with anyone else, he will do so. Thus the closest approximation it is humanly possible to make to paying wages in proportion to production is accomplished. If an employee under a free bargaining system such as this actually produces more than he is being paid by his employer and cannot get his present employer to pay him more, he will be able to find another employer who will pay him more. Note the use of the words "actually" produces more.

"free bargaining system." Naturally every worker believes he is not getting paid as much as he should, but the only true method for each worker to get all he produces is to sell his services to the highest bidder. The new bargaining system. Since we have unions, we do not have a free bargaining system as unions are monopolies and demand tributes for the right to work as well as tributes from the consumers of products while at the same time not allowing those consumers to offer their services to employers in free competition to those of the union monopoly. As a result, so long as we have unions we will have workers getting more than they produce (since if not a majority of the members of the union monopoly) while others get less than they produce (because they cannot compete with the monopoly of the union). However, many individuals can still receive more wages by increasing their production and bargains are concluded every day raising wages in this manner.

Wages of the workers as a whole are increased by better tools for these workers so they can increase their production. Better tools also mean more companies, more industries, more competition between companies for labor, thus higher wages.

Better tools are the reason for the increased production and increased wages of the workers in the United States in spite of the unions which have merely transferred dollars from large groups of consumers to smaller groups of workers, hampered production with strikes and have been very paying propositions for union leaders.

Question: Why did we win World War II? Answer: Because we had the best tools, the best factories resulting in the highest production. We out-produced the rest of the world because of our better and more tools and factories, not because of our unions. Other nations had unions too as strong or stronger than ours but they did not have as good or as many tools and factories as we had so we out-produced them and for the same reason our wages are higher than theirs.

The statement, "Wages of the workers as a whole would be higher now if we had not had unions for the past twenty years and will be higher in the future as soon as we get rid of unions," is made and supported by all the evidence of history and all the evidence of logic. Note the all. Those who consider only parts of the evidence may sincerely believe that unions raise wages but those who consider all the evidence must come to the conclusion that unions lower the wages of the workers as a whole by the amount the union leaders (non-producers) get, by the amount production is retarded by strikes, by the fact that some members of union monopolies get more than they produce while others get less and all consumers of the products put out by union monopolies get less than the free competitive value of these products and by the fact that initiative and production of individuals is discouraged when reward is not proportional to production as must be the case when there are monopolies.

The National Whirligig

By ALBERT LEMAN

CRITICAL-Secretary Byrnes at his conference with the senate foreign relations committee got new backing from his old colleagues for his stand against domination of the world by the three giant nations.

But certain members of this powerful group of legislators and other leaders on Capitol Hill are still critical of the way the council of foreign ministers was handled in London and of the state department's policies in South America and China.

Apparently the secretary himself is not yet satisfied that the latest shake-up in his department is enough. Insiders predict that several key ambassadors will be shifted unless plans are halted. Among those slated for new posts or for retirement are John G. Winant in London and W. Averell Harriman in Moscow.

Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley is in the U. S. A. and may not return to Chungking. The impression is being fostered in Washington that there is no connection between the shuffle and diplomatic stalemates. But foreign capitals are not likely to believe this.

TIMING—The moment may be appropriate for a general moving day. But some observers here think that the timing is poor.

Not in months have our foreign relations reached such a series of crises. Delicate economic negotiations are being conducted with Great Britain. The Soviet Union is afraid that we are promoting a "Stop Russia" blockade. The apple cart in South America has been upset again. Our position in China on Chiang Kai-shek and the communists has not yet been defined. In a couple of weeks France will have not only a new set of leaders but an entirely new system of government as the result of the constitutional election.

Correspondents who attended the London conference maintain that many of the troubles which came from secrecy and conflicting statements sub rosa by members of the delegation were based on the inexperienced of our representatives.

Now, if that transfer of ambassadors takes place, we not only will have a comparatively new broom at the head of the state department but a whole bundle of new brushes.

CLEANUP—The state department is staffed with earnest men who are trying to establish strong leadership of the United States in world affairs.

But even now—after the Stettinius reshuffle has vacated the old building—there is still a wide cleavage. Advocates of leftist and rightist policies have sharp differences backstage.

Many recent appointees are what are known as "practical boys" who call career diplomats the "striped trousers crowd." The newcomers prefer to surround themselves with "hardheaded businessmen" rather than take advice from old hands in statecraft, contending that the

PLANS BEING MADE FOR FACE-LIFTING

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — Plans are being made to give this city a badly needed face lifting to make it presentable to the thousands of tourists expected next year and to restore it as the nation's showplace.

Maintenance and repairs of the national shrines and memorials were drastically curtailed during the war. As a result the weather and pigeons have made eyecores out of otherwise beautiful buildings and monuments.

Some of the restoration has already begun.

For the first time since the war the White House now can literally be called a white house. It's getting a coat of dazzling white paint, the gardens are being replanted, and the fountains are turned on. One of the big mysteries of the White House gardens, however, is the disappearance of a shipment of tulip bulbs. They were supposed to have arrived weeks ago, a gift from the Netherlands government. Investigation has failed to locate them.

The Washington monument needs most attention. The 998-step stairway to the top is filthy. The memorial plaques and stones that line it are covered with dust and grime. It also needs a new elevator. The present elevator is perfectly safe but it only runs at half-speed. It can't get the increasing number of visitors to the top during the hours the monument is open.

atomic bomb and the economic age have relegated the "afternoon tea drinkers" to minor roles.

GREENNESS—The state department and its embassies abroad have been reorganized more times than has any other important bureau.

The feud between Cordell Hull and Sumner Welles did not end with the departure of the under secretary. Welles continues his attacks on the policies of his old department.

Notwithstanding his icy manner he has slowly won wide support. He still believes he can do a better job than Welles, but that any of his several successors.

Very few of the large team which went to San Francisco with Stettinius had experience at Versailles or contacts with the league of nations. Ignorance of past mistakes is said to have caused delays and several dangerous impasses. The greenness of our delegation is cited as the reason for admitting Argentina, thus encouraging the already suspicious Russians to be even more mistrustful of our aims.

Ambassador Harriman circulated hints that the Soviet Union sought to control the conference. This has since handicapped him in the discharge of his duties in Moscow.

WINANT—Maybe that indiscreet secretary of state despite the almost hysterical opposition of rabid new dealers. "How could an American cotton broker who also controlled almost all of the cotton industry in Brazil act impartially on South American questions?" they asked. But he has been so energetic, fair and wise that both conservatives and liberals now swear by him.

Perhaps after a shake-up the department will settle down to the long haul.

It is imperative that we act at once to provide clothing for the relief of men, women and children in war-ravaged countries.—President Truman.

There is no vice president of the United States as the present time, though you second hear so little of Mrs. Truman that you might almost think she was holding down that job.—Waterbury, Conn. Democrat.

DAY-BY-DAY COUNT ON WASHINGTON'S ACTIVITIES GIVEN

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON. — Changes in policy which may be described as evolutionary insofar as price and wage matters are concerned are under consideration by the administration.

It was inevitable that the government, which still retains control over the prices of many articles but has released most of its control over wages, should find itself in a contradictory if not unworkable position.

Until now the fear of inflation has been used to keep prices from breaking through their ceilings, but the demands of labor unions that they be permitted to retain their 30 percent increase and be paid for 40 hours' work what they got in wartime for 32 hours have served to dramatize the difficulty of maintaining price ceilings when wage costs are rising.

The talk of preventing deflation develops almost as frequently now in official discussions as the argument against inflation. The truth, of course, is that generalizations about the economic situation are proving more and more difficult to make and the prices of some materials needed to manufacture are not controlled, whereas finished products are kept at ceiling prices.

Never was there a more convincing demonstration of the need for overall planning and overall guidance of the whole economic system than in the present chaos. Government officials are beginning to realize it. Nobody wants permanent controls but it is apparent that the transition from wartime controls to complete freedom of action in certain phases of the economic situation has been too sudden and too drastic.

Another factor that is retarding the recovery of the economy is the public misunderstanding of the basic causes of the present wave of strikes. Those who do not believe in collective bargaining have joined in many instances by those who are inconvenienced by strikes. There is a tendency to demand that workers without trying to solve the underlying, fundamental grievances or to meet the fears of insecurity that dominate the minds of millions of workers.

This is a period of superficiality in which the public is misled by the headlines and the effort of different groups in the economic system to achieve an equilibrium and a level of security both as to profits and wages should be some extent on all the aspects of a contest in selfishness and greed.

The administration has erred in assuming that the major economic groups could reach an adjustment without help from the government or that strikes could be prevented from erupting by letting business after industry go through the painful process of readjustment by the old-fashioned devices of economic violence and struggle.

One way out, and it is only an expedient and of course will not last very long, is to allow prices to rise in order to compensate for wage increases that must be granted. There is talk of allowing a 15 percent wage increase to be absorbed in new prices, but requiring the profits of the producers or sellers to absorb a much smaller percentage of the 30 percent as has to be granted. This merely means that while the first 15 percent is taken care of, the remainder becomes an added expense to be met out of earnings.

In some instances this will be feasible. In others it will not be. The whole thing is an example of an attempt to carry water on both shoulders—to retain controls and relax them at the same time—though it is obvious an economic equilibrium or balanced economy will not be possible until the government can get all economic groups to accept and comply with certain fundamental principles rather than explicit regulations. For neither inflation nor deflation can be minutely controlled by government action in the use of the monetary instrument for more knowledge by the public of the vital factors and influences.

about $75,000 to do the basic job of restoring the Capital to normal.

TEMPORARY BUILDINGS

The largest blight is the hundreds of temporary buildings which almost fill the once-beautiful Mall and disfigure most of the parks. Some temporary buildings are left from the first World War.

It is up to each agency to tear down its temporary office buildings and restore the landscape. But office space is still one of the hardest things to get here. Federal works agency is trying to get money to build new permanent buildings. Congress is considering that appropriation now.

Some of the parks are being restored to their former beauty. All stalls and boxes can see one another and bow and whisper and the ladies can discuss their toilettes and jewels. It is very disconcerting until one becomes used to it.

The Colon was like a world in itself, and has been the scene of many strange incidents that can happen only to artists—most of them of the unfortunate Nijinsky against the creeping madness that tracked him down in the midst of his triumphs, to the tragic-comic incident that occurred in the first Bonetti season.

Whatever is needed, officials hope to have this town as epic and span as it is used to be. When the visitors and sightseers start arriving in droves next spring, they want them to be proud of their Capital City.

As it becomes increasingly evident that the "secret" of the atomic bomb lies principally in the ability to construct plants for its production, talk of what to do about it turns more and more and more on some method to prevent man from poisoning himself with the fruit of his own labors.

The Dublin, N. H., pronouncement by a group interested in world peace, that a federation of the world is the only answer, in a natural reaction. It is as though they said that man, driven by this new fear, must now decide to do at once what he has known for ages that he must do in the end. Alfred Tennyson, who predicted almost 100 years ago that, after the world's "airy navies" had rained a ghastly dew, there would be a new world, with a new world, was not the first to express this dream. It has been repeated so often as to become almost a truism. But it usually is considered something for the ultimate rather than the present.

The Dublin meeting presented an example itself, in a way, when Justice Owen Roberts and some of the other leaders felt unable to agree with the majority in its willingness to scrap the United Nations organization. The minority preferred to take the risk step by step, with an initial union of the United States with other nations which already have adopted liberty for individuals.

That apparently would mean, so far as major powers are concerned, the United States and Great Britain, and would be mere formalization of a union which already exists in practice.

The inevitable result of such a step now would be a return to pre-war attitudes by Russia, who felt herself forced into a pact with Germany when she decided, rightly or wrongly, that France and England were encouraging Hitler to move east instead of west. Russia's ideological war with capitalism is still a very real internal issue, regardless of how fuzzy the lines between her own system and capitalism have become. She has long felt herself surrounded and her almost certain reaction to any greater formalization of the present Anglo-American alignment would be to back up, drop co-operation, perhaps hoping for the best but preparing herself for any possible unfriendly manifestation.

Correct Food May Prevent Anemia

Anemia is a condition in which the number of red blood cells or their hemoglobin content or both are below normal levels. Such a condition may develop either through loss or destruction of these blood elements, or through failure of their formation.

Frequently this failure of formation is due to nutritional deficiency. Most cases of nutritional anemia are characterized by small cells of low hemoglobin content. In nutritional anemia the solution may be found in dietary reform. The production of normal blood cells is dependent directly or indirectly upon the dietary supply of at least some of the structural elements of the blood cells. As an example, iron has long been recognized as part of the hemoglobin of the red cell and must ultimately be derived from the diet.

Rabies Is More Prevalent in Winter Months

AUSTIN, Oct. 18—Contrary to popular belief, rabies is more prevalent in winter than in the so-called "dog-days" of summer.

In a statement released this week by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, it was disclosed that in the mid-winter month of February last year the state laboratory examined 312 animal brains for the presence of rabies, over thirty-seven percent of which tested positive, whereas in August only 155 brains were examined, thirty percent of which were positive.

"If all stray dogs were destroyed and all pets vaccinated for rabies, it would go far toward stamping out this justly feared fatal disease," Dr. Cox said.

The doctor stressed that dogs suspected of having rabies should not be killed immediately, but should instead be confined ten days for observation to see if the disease develops. If a dog sickens and dies during the observation period, the head should be packed in ice and sent to the state health department for examination. Freezing the brain or killing the dog prematurely, or in such a manner as to injure the brain may make correct laboratory finds uncertain, if not impossible.

Dr. Cox declared that after a dog is confined ten days and then killed, there is still ample time for a victim of his bite to be treated for rabies prevention, but he cautioned that if the disease is found to be present in the dog, the victim should then begin treatment without further delay.

Scalping Slated For Office of Indian Affairs

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—It's considered very likely here that the office of Indian affairs is in for a scalping when its 1946 budget comes up for consideration by congress. The reason is an odd one.

The office hasn't been lacking in critics, but they never were numerous enough to slow its steady expansion. That probably is all changed now and just because the discussion of raising congressional salaries has come so much to the fore.

When the congressional salary bug started biting on Capitol Hill and in several other places where reorganization of congress is considered vital to the progress of government, some one dug up the Indian bureau, as it used to be called, as the "horrible example" of what has happened to our government.

This first searcher out of vicious comparisons (no one remembers now who mentioned it first) pointed out that the combined salaries of congress are $5,350,000 (counting in the four delegates and resident commissioner) a year; while the Indian office, if it gets all it asks for, will have around $32,000,000 to keep itself next year.

Of course, this is just playing with figures because congress costs the people considerably more than the salaries of its members. Still, the fact that one little bureau stuck away in the department of interior says it needs six times as much as the total wage of congress is enough to raise eyebrows all over the place.

Some one, carrying the comparison a little further, found that the Indian office has more than 7,000 employees; is asking for about 300 more; and all of this to minister to something like 400,000 Indians.

No one knows exactly how many Indians there are in the United States. Internarrations are the wide range of economic status make it practically impossible to tabulate them accurately.

This means, say the figure tossers, that there is approximately one employee in the office for each 55 Indians in the country; while each member of the house of representatives has to minister to 300,000 or so persons and most of the senators number their constituents in millions.

Observers say that congressmen, a little nettled over the fact that they can't take the bit in their teeth and hike their wages, for fear of public opinion, are all set to buck the Indian office into the dust when it tries to climb into the saddle for a ride toward more money and more employees.

If the aviation industry has anything to say about it, one colorful phrase of flying that followed World War I will be missing this peace time. That is the barnstormers who flew all over the country and thrilled huge crowds at everything from county fairs to the big metropolitan air shows with sky feats of deriding-do.

The reason is simply that the barnstormers, being good showmen, did everything they could to convince their audiences that flying was a dangerous business, to be indulged in only by daredevils.

The civil air patrol, backed by most of the rest of aviation, is now out to convince the nation of just the opposite. Thus, the "air shows" and exhibitions from now on will emphasize the safety of flying and the ease with which any one can take to the skyways.

It is a far cry from our weapons of the American Revolution and the Civil War periods to the radar and atomic bombs that won this last war, but they hang together as triumphs of American ingenuity.—Paragould, Ark., Press.

I believe that returning veterans will be boosters of college athletics and morale builders rather than debunkers.—H. O. (Frita) Crisler, athletic director and head football coach, University of Michigan.

Market Briefs

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(AP)—John L. Lewis put props under a shaky stock market today when he called off the six-state coal strike considered one of the most serious threats to reconversion. Prices were uneven from the start but showed a midday announcement of the labor decree quickly changed the picture. Steels led the comeback, followed by rails, liquors, utilities, rubbers and gold mines. Gains, running to more than three points at the best, were reduced or cancelled on numerous cases at the close although plus signs had the better of the argument. Volume totaled 1,500,000 shares compared with 1,500,000 Tuesday.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up 1 of a point at 72.6, equalling the post high since March 17, 1937. Utilities touched a top since March 10, 1937.

At peaks for 1945 or longer were U. S. Steel, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber, Electric Power & Light, Schenley, National Distillers, South American Gold & Platinum and Curtiss-Wright "A". Commonwealth & Southern, coming out on deals as much as 15,000 shares, again was the live-line sprinter but finished unchanged at 17.

On offside were Sears Roebuck, Allied Chemical, Western Union, International Telephone, Kennecott and U. S. Gypsum. Bonds were spotty.
