Crop Production Loans For 1934 Assured

Signature Of President Is Given Friday

Roosevelt Says That In Giving Approval He Does So On Theory That It Is Proper To Taper Off On System

Total Is Slashed

Sum Of $40,000,000 Will Be Available For Certain Farmers Who Cannot Qualify For Other Federal Loans

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. — The $40,000,000 crop production loan bill was signed tonight by President Roosevelt, with the notation that it should be "considered as a tapering off loan and should be the last of its kind."

The government last year appropriated $100,000,000 for crop production loans and Mr. Roosevelt observed that this showed a "large loss to the government."

Taper Off On System

"In approving the bill providing $40,000,000 for emergency crop production loans for 1934," Mr. Roosevelt said, "I do so on the theory that it is proper to taper off the crop loan system rather than to cut it off abruptly. A useful purpose will be served by aiding certain farmers who cannot yet qualify for crop production loans from the newly established production credit associations. However, where farmers have security to offer this year, they should be required to obtain their loans from the associations which have been established to give farmers a permanent source of production credit."

A useful purpose would be served, the president said, by helping farmers who could not yet qualify for crop production loans from the new production credit association. He added, however, that in instances where farmers have security to offer this year, "they should be required to obtain loans from the association which has been established to give farmers a permanent sort of production credit."

Bill To Levy Heavy Tax On Chain Stores Of The State Engrossed Friday

Final Passage Blocked In House As Rule Is Not Suspended; Success Looks Slim

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 23. — The Texas house today engrossed but failed to finally pass a bill designed to aid independent merchants by levying a heavy occupation tax on chain stores.

Final passage was blocked when the rule requiring bills to be read on three separate days was not suspended by a margin of four votes.

Proponents of the tax resorted to parliamentary strategy to engross the bill by putting on the previous question, thus cutting off a flood of amendments and limiting debate.

Amendment Defeated

An amendment to tax gasoline filling stations and chain lumber yards was defeated.

Chances for final passage of the proposal were regarded as slim because of the short time remaining in the session. It cannot be brought up in the house before tomorrow and must go through a senate committee and receive floor action by Tuesday, when the session will end by constitutional limitation.

Representative J. F. Lindsey of Anson, author of the bill, vigorously condemned Representatives George Parkhouse of Dallas and J. C. Duvall of Fort Worth for their methods in opposition to the bill. Lindsey asserted a filibuster had been waged against it for three days.

Scale Of Levy

The bill would levy a tax of $3 on each store under single ownership. A tax of $5 per store would be levied on chains of from two to five; $10 each, five to ten; $15 each, 10 to 15; $20 each, 15 to 20; $50 each 20 to 25; $100 each, 25 to 50 and $300 each more than 50.

It was estimated there were 9,000 chain stores in Texas and 57,000 independently operated stores that would be subject to the tax.

Duval charged exemption of filling stations and chain lumber yards was discrimination.

"Why say that a monoply on filling stations is a virtue and that ownership of several retail stores is an evil?" Duvall asked.

Fear that the oil lobby would combine its effort to defeat the bill if it taxed filling stations was charged by Duvall as the reason for exempting them.

Gas Tax Bill Passed

A bill to exempt from payment of the four cents a gallon state gasoline tax, fuel used by municipalities, counties and independent and common school districts was passed by the senate and sent to the house.

The house engrossed a bill to

Rebidding For Air Contracts Being Planned

Another Hint Of Plans For A Return Of Air Mail To Private Industry Is Disclosed At Washington

President Deplores Deaths Of Five Fliers; Lack Of Proper Equipment Blamed By Chief Of Army Operations

(By The Associated Press)

ANOTHER hint of presidential plans for a return of the air mail to private industry was disclosed in Washington yesterday as the army flying corps thrust ahead its challenge to winter hazards in the nation's air mail lanes.

No details of the president's ideas were disclosed beyond a statement that he was drawing plans for a rebidding on air mail contracts with private industry. Previously the president had indicated the army's flying the mail was a temporary proposition.

Deaths Are Deplored

Mr. Roosevelt deplored the deaths of five aviators assigned to air mail duty who have crashed within the week, noting simultaniously that the army was carrying out the task allotted to it.

Brig. Gen. Oscar Westover, chief of army mail operations, said yesterday at Salt Lake City that lack of proper equipment and unfamiliarity with routes caused the deaths of army officers.

Maj. C. L. Tinker, commander of the army's western division at Oakland, Calif., declared flying the air mail was an almost impossible task for the army men because their training had been aimed in an entirely different direction.

Fliers Continue Task

Notwithstanding the five fatal crashes, a nonchallant corps of service fliers continued to perform allotted tasks as if nothing at all had happened. But, on and off the trail below the service fliers lay the wreckage of perhaps a dozen planes—evidence of the series of accidents that has marked army air corps flying since its men were

Local Officer Explains Why He Favored Commutation Of Sentence; Says He Felt He Deserved Consideration

Others Face Trial

Governor Ferguson States The Penalty Appeared Too Severe As State Had Failed To Try Others In Crime

LIFE or death for Paul Mitchell, whose sentence was commuted yesterday, was placed in the hands of Sheriff Tom Abel last December, the sheriff said.

James E. Ferguson, husband of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, told the Lubbock county officer that his recommendation would be accepted, Sheriff Abel explained.

Opposed Execution

"I sent a telegram saying I favored commutation," the officer said. Yesterday he explained why he opposed Mitchell's execution

The 24-year-old Amarillown, granted two stays from the chair, was given the death sentence by a 72nd district court jury for his part in an armed robbery in which Robert Tharp was slain here Oct. 15, 1932. The sheriff's investigation led to the arrest of Mitchell and two other men accused of the crime.

Called By Jim

"Jim Ferguson called me on the telephone the day before Mitchell got his first stay," the sheriff said. "He told me that they would commute Mitchell's sentence if I recommended it, and if I opposed commutation Mitchell would be executed.

Asked why he recommended clemency, Sheriff Abel replied:

Deserved Something

"Well, I felt he deserved something because he pleaded guilty and told all about it. When a man tells the truth it is, in my estimation, one of the biggest things in his favor.

"Any man is entitled to some consideration when he pleads guilty and asks the mercy of the court. Life (imprisonment) was all he ever asked for."

Any further executive clemency for Mitchell will be opposed by Abel, he said.

Wants Him Kept There

"I want them to keep him there," he declared. "I wouldn't sign anything to get him outside of the walls."

Governor Ferguson, the Associated Press said, was petitioned by

J. H. Dumas Is Convicted Of Horse Theft By Jury Which Also Rules He Is Habitual Criminal

Convicted of horse theft by a 72nd district court jury which also ruled he was a habitual criminal, J. H. Dumas yesterday afternoon received a life sentence.

Dumas was arrested by the sheriff's and constable's departments Feb. 14, less than 12 hours after theft of a horse from a farm seven and a half miles south of Lubbock. The grand jury returned an indictment against Dumas the same day.

Pleads Not Guilty

The accused man pleaded not guilty. The jurors found that he had been convicted of theft of a saddle and other articles and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary in Martin county in 1929. Tried in Lubbock county in 1930 for automobile theft, Dumas was given a 7-year term.

Another 72nd district court jury yesterday afternoon convicted Bud Hamlin of driving an automobile while intoxicated, suspended a one-year sentence given him, and restrained him from driving an automobile for one year.

The cases, tried before Judge Homer L. Pharr, were prosecuted by District Attorney Daniel A. Blair and Burton S. Burks, assistant district attorney.

Clemency For Barber John Richardson Has Been Asked

Clemency for B. L. (Barber John) Richardson, under 20-year sentence for murder in the slaying of F. V. (Leather Hat) Brown at Woodrow, has been asked.

Stanhope Henry, secretary of the board of pardons and paroles, has written District Attorney Daniel A. Blair for "the facts in the case."

The district attorney said last night he would oppose clemency for Richardson, who already has been released from the state penitentiary on a parole.

Teacher Takes The Stand In Slaying Trial

Question Of Whether Or Not Back Door Of The Wynekoop Basement Was Open To Play Important Role In Case

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Feb. 23—The question of whether or not the back door of the Wynekoop basement was open when the police arrived to investigate the slaying of Rheta Gardner Wynekoop played an important part today in the second trial of Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, accused of murdering her daughter-in-law.

Enid Hennessey, prim, middle-aged school teacher who was a boarder at the Wynekoop home, declared on cross-examination that a policeman had told her that the door was open. A previous witness, Police Sergeant Arthur R. March, testified that he made a check of the door within a few minutes after his arrival and found it locked.

Interest Aroused

Public interest in the murder case, which had resulted in a near riot when thousands of women stormed the courtroom door in an effort to gain admittance to the first trial, apparently had been again aroused, for seats were at a premium today.

"Did anyone tell you the back door was open when the police arrived?" Defense Attorney Milton Smith asked the teacher.

"A policeman asked me if I knew the back basement door was open," she answered. "I said I did not know it. He said it had been. The matter was mentioned at least twice during

Invisible Power Feared In Paris

Huge Offer Is Made By Government For Slayer's Arrest

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, Feb. 23.—A dread "invisible power" that cast an air of terror over the strange killing of Judge Albert Prince challenged Premier Doumergue's personal efforts today to unravel the deepening mystery of the Stavisky swindling case, of which Prince was said to have "known too much."

Spurred by an unprecedented government offer of a 100,000-franc (about $6,500) reward, investigators pushed an inquiry into the magistrate's death, which they frankly admitted was dead-locked in a maze of fantastic theories.

Capture Is Ordered

The prime minister ordered the capture, dead or alive, of Prince's slayer.

His sudden intervention in the affair gave it an added gravity, while Interior Minister Sarraut was credited with accepting the idea of some hidden force seeking to terrorize witnesses in the $40,000,000 pawnshop machinations of the late Serge Stavinsky.

Judge Prince's bound and mutilated body was found on a railroad track near Dijon Wednesday. A bloody knife lay near it. His briefcase had bene looted of papers he was to have used in testifying at an investigation of the financial scandal.

Police at first said he had been lured from Paris by a fake telegram

Mrs. Massie's attorney asked the court for a private trial, mandatory under Nevada law when requested by either party to a divorce action, and court bailiffs ordered an eager crowd from the court room.

Johnson said the state's relief fund was exhausted, but that he had no intention during his stay here of asking Hopkins for further funds until the state has sold more of its relief bonds. The Texan said they always had been wholly sound, but added the legislature now was attempting to make them more attractive to investors.

Blair Denies State Impeding Trials Of Paul Mitchell's Two Confederates

DISTRICT ATTORNEY DANIEL A. BLAIR, who directed prosecution of Paul Mitchell, last night declared that the state was "concerned" in the trial of two other persons implicated in the crime for which Mitchell received the death sentence.

In a prepared statement, the district attorney said:

"In view of the action taken by the governor in the case of Hugh Walker, Barber John Richardson, and others convicted in Lubbock county of late, I am by no means surprised at the action taken by the chief executive in the Mitchell case.

"According to the Associated Press article carried in the Evening Journal, the governor indicated in her proclamation that the state was not interested in prosecuting the other two implicated in the crime and gave that as one reason for commuting the sentence.

"The facts are that the crime was committed on Oct. 15, 1932,

LITTLE angles: The arguments I one hears: One man can give you proof that Lubbock will grow no more. The next can offer equally convincing reasons why it will be a city of 50,000 before long. . . . Or maybe the subject is war or politics or weather. . . .

That telephone service at Tech . . . Sandstorms: At least Mill McMillan and C. H. Park don't mind them as much as the rest of us, and perhaps it will be some consolation that after one standstorm in Amarillo the dust was something like an inch thick in buildings. . . . Father Schneider is authority for that. He remembers the way the Catholic college there was after the storm.

The youngster in a Tech club who "had rather have no story in the peper than a short one" . . . That darky, hired to help Mrs. Edgar Neal with her garden, who wanted to know if she had a "growing hand" with plants" . . . The women who win bridge prizes at their own parties—and haven't you sometimes wished you could?

That idea most of us nourish that any job is easier than the one we are doing. . . . The way some men smoke cigars, as though it were a task. . . . We've started plugging our windows to keep out sand when a rain is predicted. . . . You can tell 'em, usually, in interviews. The really big people are most charming and easiest to talk to. . . . To inspire a flow of memories, mention senior plays. You would be surprised at the number who played in them. . . .

Little girls are lucky now. They get to wear hair ribbons and braids are coming back. It's going to be good when there are distinctive ways of combing hair for young girls and women. They don't look alike, you know.

Those spring dresses. . . . It's that season, but don't they make you shiver?

However, you get the spirit. Winter clothes begin to look shabby.

These people who can't talk to you without crowding you under the desk. . . . Or perhaps you haven't worked in an office like this. . . . There ought to be a law making them keep their distance. . . .

It's a funny thing. You get bawled out for the things you didn't do and your actual mistakes go without comment or complaint. . . .

Strange how many people will sign a petition. . . . Wonder if they actually believe that way. . . . There's that thousand on Paul Mitchell's and you couldn't have goten three a year ago last October. . . .

Grandparents are proud of their children's children but they don't all spoil them. . . .

And among all these who discuss the weather we haven't heard a phophesy this winter. . . . Wonder why the private lives of movie actors make any difference to ordinary folk. . . . And the way women tell their secrets to beauty operators, doctors and nurses—even the hired help. . . .

Some people seem to have all the talent. . . . But half the time it isn't anything except industry. . . . Occasionally you discovered that someone does get a job because he does it better than anyone else instead of because his uncle owns a controlling intrest. . . . It's fun speculating on professions. Half the time the ones who look like preachers run restaurants or farms and the insignificant birds are revealed as powers-that-be. . . . You can't pick them by appearances. . . . That guilty look doesn't mean a thing. Plenty of us look guilty when a general accusation is made. . . .

Add to your list of people who read everything and remember, Mrs. Allie George. . . . These things people have always yearned to do. . . . secret ambitions, perhaps, but they are good laughing matter if people will confess with sincerity. . . . It's absurd but almost everyone harbors one that is so silly he hates to mention it.

Big Spring Youth On Way To Texarkana To Meet His Wife

FORT WORTH, Feb. 23. (AP)—Elza Johnson, 24, of Big Spring, was hitchhiking to Texarkana today to meet his 19-year-old bride, from whom he became separated in Abilene when the husband got off a truck on which they were riding.

Mrs. Johnson, discovering sometime later that her husband was not on the truck, continued to Texarkana. She felt it was useless to stop on the highway and wait for him.

Johnson yesterday asked police to aid in the search for his wife and did not learn until today that she was safe.

Gives the Laugh to Body Odor!

New Hardwater Way Ends It Instantly—Leaves No M. S. (Medicine Smell)

Science has made a new discovery about body odor. It is caused by stale perspiration curds, and requires deep-pore cleansing. It cannot be ended by ordinary soaps, because their sluggish lathers cannot reach into the pores and cleanse them. Instead the soap combines with the waste material and forms clogging curds!

Kirk's Coco Castile soap works in an entirely different way. No matter how hard the water, this 100% pure vegetable oil soap breaks instantly into a searching, bubbly lather. This bubbly lather cleans deep into the pores, actually removes the embedded stale perspiration curds—then rinses out completely, and in a flash. Thus it ends body odor at its source!

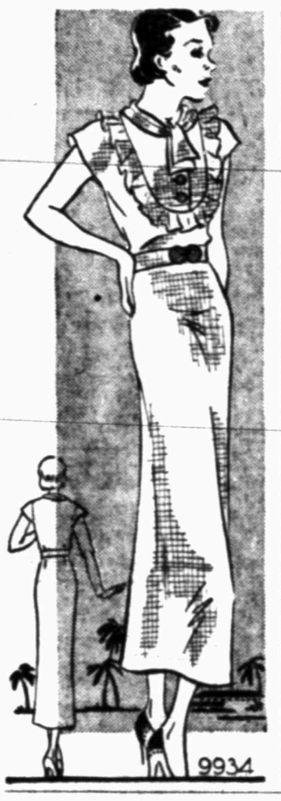

Delightful to use, Kirk's Coco Castile is entirely free from M. S. (medicine smell)—leaves your body as fresh and clean-smelling as a woodland breeze! A big generous cake, half again larger than the average toilet soap, it is now selling at the lowest price in history! Be sure to ask for Kirk's Castile by name—at your grocer's.

The Twelve Sent Forth

Text—Matthew 9:35-11:1

International Uniform Sunday School Lesson For Feb. 25

By Wm. E. Gilroy, D. D., Editor Of The Congregationalist

FROM those who heard the word of Jesus as he went about teaching and preaching in the cities and villages and who responded to his teaching, Jesus drew 12 into an inner circle of discipleship. Later he appointed others and sent them forth, two by two, proclaiming the message of repentance and the kingdom of God.

But throughout his brief ministry, until his death and resurrection, it is with the experiences of these 12 that we are concerned chiefly. We have no detailed picture of the means by which Jesus taught and trained them, but we have repeated indications that the human material was not molded altogether easily, and that even the greatest of teachers was not able always to make the truth clear and effective in the mind and heart of his pupils.

Concerning some of the 12 apostles we have very little knowledge, but others, particularly Peter, John, James, Thomas, and Judas, stand forth in the New Testament narrative in a distinctive way. They must have been men of unusual character to have been drawn to Jesus as they were.

MEN who were self-satisfied and conventionally minded would have been repelled rather than won by a teacher who uttered such new and strange truth. But the times were rife with the hope of an earthly kingdom, and there is much in the New Testament record to indicate that these men followed Jesus because they believed they were going to share in a great kingdom that he would establish on earth.

Even after they had witnessed the example of Jesus and listened to his teachings of unselfishness and love, they still were capable of quarreling about positions of preferment and who should be the greatest in the kingdom.

They were not moved with compassion for the multitude as their master was moved.

It is instructive that Jesus sent them forth to the work of preaching and ministering in his name even before they were instructed fully or in any sese perfect. The good work of the world has not all been done by perfect men.

The ministers of grace often are imperfect in some respect, and it is no judgment upon those who minister in the name of Christ that faults are found in them, though there is nothing in the Gospel that they preach to palliate or condone these faults.

Even the best of men learn slowly to discover and conquer their unworthy acts and tempers.

THE great thing about these 12 disciples is that their hearts were centered on right and that they had the courage and bearing of their convictions. Jesus chose them in spite of their faults because they had in them the very root of matter.

The Gospel that they had to preach to the people was the same gospel that they could preach to their own hearts—a gospel of repentance and of preparation for the kingdom of God, though they did not realize at the time, as they were later to learn that this kingdom was spiritual rather than material and temporal.

How patiently and effectually Jesus dealt with these disciples; how well he understood them and saved them from their own deepest faults, turning their very weaknesses and temptations to triumph; for the faults of these men were the faults of those who were intense in their convictions and allegiances.

Men needed courage for the work to which they were going, and Jesus inspired them with his own faith and fearlessness.

Men never went forth to a greater task, nor have men ever achieved as much from small beginnings as has come from the work of the 12 whom Jesus sent forth.

Thomas Lee Suttle Smiles As Federal Judge Gives Him A Term; Says He Wanted In A Federal Pen

FT. WORTH, Feb. 23. (AP)—Thomas Lee Suttle, who wrote glowing promises of fabulous riches for the Dr. Frederick A. Cook and S. E. J. Cox oil promotions, smiled when Federal Judge James C. Wilson sentenced him to three years in Leavenworth penitentiary.

His smile broadened when the court added a suspended sentence of five years on a second charge of postoffice burglary. Previously, he had objected when it was suggested that his plea of guilty might bring him only a year and a day in prison.

Had Surrendered

Moreover, he had surrendered himself voluntarily to the department of justice agents at Shreveport so that he might be returned here to face the charges.

The reason for his strange attitude toward the prospect of spending three years in a federal penitentiary was explained in his statement to the judge yesterday.

"I want to make it clear to the court's mind why I am pleading guilty to these charges," said the 36-year-old defendant. "I am guilty of the offenses. But also I am suffering from an advanced case of pulmonary tuberculosis, and a government institution is the only place available for me for treatment. I hope to build myself up physically there. Maybe that will change my mental attitude."

Horror Of Pen

He amplified later upon that explanation. Two years and three months of "doing time" at Huntsville had given him a horror of the Texas penitentiary. He said there was no hope of improvement of his physical condition there.

So when he was faced with the certainty of being sent back to the Texas penitentiary on pending state charges, in which he later was sentenced to six years, he robbed the postoffice at Meadow of $45. Nobody caught him, so he tried again. He broke into the Kennedale postoffice and got $2 and some pennies. He threw the pennies into the Trinity river.

After trial and sentence in three state courts he surrendered himself to federal authorities, hoping to be sent to a western penitentiary.

In the Huntsville penitentiary he worked in the prison hospital, doing everything, he said, except major operations. In his spare time he wrote poems, dashing off as many as 10 a day, he said. He sat down and reproduced one to prove it.

Ray Mowery Returns Here After Judging At Shows

Two good calf shows were held this week, one at Brady and the other at Mason, Ray C. Mowery, associate professor of animal husbandry at Texas Tech, said yesterday following his return here from the two towns where he judged the animals.

"At Brady there was an outstanding senior calf," Mr. Mowery said. "They had 34 calves, all of them mighty good.

"The 48 head at Mason were all of outstanding finish. All of the boys in the two shows are to be congratulated on the excellent work."

Mr. Mowery said he had hopes of getting a few head from these shows in the Lubbock show in March. At Mason most of the calves are to go to the Houston or Fort Worth show. There will be two car loads, he added.

First Entries In Annual Quilt Show Made On Friday

First entries of an annual Hodges Bros.-Avalanche-Journal Quilt show at Hodges Bros. store were made yesterday. Deadline on entries is Monday.

Through an error, an article Thursday stated persons winning prizes in previous shows would not be eligible to compete in this year's exhibition. They are eligible to enter quilts in this year's show but must not enter a quilt having been awarded a prize in the other shows.

Officials of the show expected a larger entry list for this year's show. Last year approximately 140 quilts were entered.

The display of quilts will be continued until March 10, winners of the various divisions to be announced on March 8.

Legislation To Apply NRA Codes In States Approved

AUSTIN, Feb. 23. (AP)—Legislation to apply NRA codes to intrastate commerce, and make such regulations enforceable by the state was approved today by the senate state affairs committee. By a six to five vote, the committee recommended passage of a bill by Senators Margie E. Neal of Carthage and Will M. Martin of Hillsboro, dealing with the subject. A similar bill is pending in the house.

Representatives of organized labor and laundry and cleaning industries urged passage of the bill, asserting it was needed to prevent a breakdown of the NRA program as applied to intrastate commerce.

It was attacked by the Texas Manufacturers association and by Lynch Davidson of Houston, former lieutenant governor, who termed it "a complete adbication of state sovereignty."

War Veteran Is To Be Returned To Oklahoma; Bodies Are To Be Sought

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 23. (AP)—County authorities said today they would return John A. Cane, the psycopath who reputedly had admitted killing and burying his wife and three children, from the Little Rock veterans' hospital to direct a search for the bodies here.

Draper Grigsby, assistant county attorney, said investigators were convinced Cane, despite his mental condition, told the truth. Mrs. Cane and the three small children vanished last June 6 and hospital attendants said, Cane has confessed he killed them with a shovel in a drunken frenzy early that month.

Cane's reputed confession said he buried the bodies on a hilltop near highway 32, within walking distance of Oklahoma City, but authorities asserted they believed he meant highway 62, the Shawnee road. As a telegraph lineman, Cane worked frequently along that road. There is no highway 32 near here.

Deputy sheriffs said they had learned the name of a Shawnee man from whom Cane borrowed a shovel last spring.

However, Grigsby said, Cane is unquestionably insane "and it is doubtful that we can convict him of murder. However, we want to get him back here to find the bodies."

Officers communicated with Mrs. Cane's uncle, G. A. Remington, who is head of the water improvement district at Wichita Falls, Tex. He is expected to come here tonight or tomorrow.

Tech Sweeps Mines Series; District Tournament Reaches Semi-Finals

Matadors Wind Up Games With 36-18 Victory

Peaceful Contest Marks Passing Of Tech's Cage Season With Miners; Alvin Crews Leads In Scoring

Texas Tech's Matadors jumped into an early lead last night and never relinquished it to take a 36 to 18 triumph over the Texas School of Mines cagers and sweep a two-game series with the Muckers.

Tech had no more than a light workout in the pokey and peaceful tilt of last evening, in contrast with the near-riot between players that enlivened the Thursday night game.

Under the eyes of two officials, the contest was closely called, and played with a certain hesitancy by the chief performers. Only Red Andrews, Mucker center, who covered Co-Captain Polk Robison like a linoleum all during the proceedings, was benned via the foul route for his over-diligence.

11 Points For Alvin

Alvin Crews, Matador co-captain, took the honors in the individual scoring race, which was not very hot, with eleven marks. Captain Walter Milner, forward, with five points, was the only Miner with more than one goal from scrimmage to his credit.

With Priddy, Alvin Crews,Robison and Weaver taking the heavy roles, the Matadors rang up 17 points in the first half, while the visitors were tabulating one field goal and a couple of foul line ringers.

Weaver, lumbering but effective, scored twice after dribbling through a broken field. Crews and Robison, also, scored two times, and Priddy looped a pretty one at twenty yards.

The Muckers mustered their offensive forces a little better in the last period. Leroy Crews and Priddy scored from the field. Milner counted one field goal, and then Weaver, of the Mines, took a pass intended for "Little" Crews and scored.

Tech Reserves Play

Alvin Crews began to find the basket at this stage, and Coach Morgan sent in the subs. Henry Loter for Tech, scored twice, and Cook, understudy for Alvin Crews, counted once from the floor.

Milner and Cox hit the basket, and then Alfonso Reys, the Muckers' Mexican center, fired the last gun of the game, a field goal from under the meshes.

Both outfits were weak last night on the foul line. Tech accounted for six ringers in 14 tries, and Mines was successful a half dozen times in a dozen attempts.

South Plains Golf League Members To Meet Tomorrow

President Bill McMillian has called a meeting of the South Plains Golf league for tomorrow at Hotel Lubbock here for the purpose of electing officers for the 1934 golf year and to adopt a schedule for the season.

The six members of last year may be joined this season by Tulia, McMillan said, and it has been rumored that Tahoka and Brownfield will combine forces and enter the league as one team.

Following the meeting, which is billed to start at 1:30 o'clock, visitors will be guests of the Meadowbrook Sunday afternoon.

VAN WIE ADVANCES

ORMOND BEACH, Calif., Feb. 23 (AP)—Hard earned 2 and 1 victory over Lucille Robinson of Des Moines, Ia., today sent Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, the national champion, into the finals of the South Atlantic women's golf tournament against Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City.

It took Mrs. Hill 18 holes to get a stroke advantage over Marian Miley of Lexington, Ky., whose play in Florida this winter has ranked her among the leading women golfers of the nation.

The Northern California Rugby union has initiated a movement seeking the restoration of Rugby football to the Olympic Games calendar.

Young Boys Of City Invited To Take Part In Auditorium Training School

Under the direction of Dorry Detton, popular pro wrestler, the Avalanche-Journal and Auditorium are sponsoring a free boxing and wrestling school for Lubbock boys.

The class will be held at the auditorium every Saturday morning between the hours of ten and twelve. Boys under fourteen or over ten will be admitted to the class.

Cooperating with Sled Allen, manager of the auditorium, the Avalanche-Journal publications have arranged the school to give local lads the advantage of a physical education training, and to keep them off the streets.

Detton, who formerly lived in Salt Lake City, Utah, now lives in Lubbock. He is the agile, acrobatic type of wrestler and is peculiarly fitted to teach physical education.

Lamesa Scores 156 Points In First 2 Games

Lubbock High Eliminated Last Night By Morton, Who Goes Into Semi-Final Round With Estacado This Morning

Led by grinning Jimmy Britt, all-state forward, Lamesa high school's Golden Tornado found the Olton high cagers almost defenseless, and took an amazing 100 to 26 victory over the Lamb county titlists, at the Lubbock high school gym.

Britt, who played less than half the game, never missed a shot from the field and took high scoring honors with 17 field goals, or 34 points.

Smith, Tornado guard, accounted for 22 points, and Red Gresham, Lamesa forward, made 13 marks from scrimmage. Dennis, forward of Olton, was the only man on his team able to do anything, and he took third place in the hot individual scoring race with 17 points.

The Tornadoes had a wonderful evening of it. On the tip-off, Sturdivant, long pivot man, would bat the ball to Britt under the basket, and then Jimmy would score. That was all there to it.

The Lamesa reserves saw a lot of service. Myers, Britt's understudy, made six field goals and one foul line toss.

To Meet Plainview

The Lamesa-Olton game was one of four quarter-final contests played yesterday afternoon and last night as part of the District 2 interscholastic league tournament.

Going with Lamesa into the semi-final round this morning are Plainview, Morton and Estacado, who won quarter-final games over Meadow, Lubbock and Pettit respectively.

Yesterday's results.

FIRST ROUND

Plainview 55; Southland 28.
Ralls 23; Meadow 30.
Lamesa 56; Abernathy 18.
Olton 31; Dickens 29.
Estacado 2; Seagraves 0 (default)
Pettit 2; Muleshoe 0 (default).
Morton 26; Redwine 13.
Lubbock 25; Floydada 21.

SECOND ROUND

Estacado 33; Pettit 32.
Plainview 45; Meadow 30.
Lamesa 100; Olton 26.
Lubbock 23; Morton 31.

Plainview and Lamesa meet this morning at 9 o'clock in the first semi-final game, and one of the pre-tournament favorites will leave the running. By piling up 156 points in two games—they defeated Abernathy, 56 to 18, in a first round game—the Golden Tornadoes established themselves as prime favorites, and in the eyes of many critics all that remained of the tournament was the formality of playing semi-final contests.

In the only surprising upset of the day, the Ralls High Jackrabbits, who had been considered as favored to at least enter the quarter-final round, bowed to Meadow. Terry county champions, 30 to 22, in a first round battle.

Meadow, in a second round game played at Lubbock High just previous to the Lamesa-Olton game, lost to Plainview, 45 to 30, with Captain Mabry, the Dean boys and the Lowrys playing good basketball. Plainview defeated Southland in the first game of the tournament.

All but two teams showed up for the eliminations yesterday, and Athletic Director Dell Morgan expressed regret that Seagraves, invited to play in the tournament as champion of Gaines county, and Muleshoe, Bailey county titlist, failed to show up for scheduled games.

Estacado Goes Ahead

Estacado's Longhorns, who represent Lubbock county, won their first round battle without a struggle, being declared victor over Seagraves, 2 to 0, by forfeit. By the same route, Pettit, a hustling little ball club from Hockley county, won over Muleshoe.

Pettit and Estacado met in a quarter-final game that was crammed with action. The Lubbock county champion emerged victorious, 33 to 32, but they had to climb from behind a lead to beat out the hard-working Pettit lads. It constituted one of the minor surprises of the tournament.

Lubbock High came from behind in the closing minutes to eliminate Floydada in a first round game, 25 to 21, after trailing up until the final three minutes. The work of Jones at center brought Lubbock's scoring ahead, when the Westerner defense began to solve the Floydada attack.

But in the second round, Lubbock went down, beaten badly by a Morton team which had coasted to a first round victory over Redwine, Lynn county representative, earlier in the day.

Morton and Estacado meet this morning at 10 o'clock, immediately after the Plainview-Lamesa game.

Tonight at 8 o'clock will find the championship at stake when the winner of the Estacado-Morton team meets the victor of the Plainview-Lamesa battle.

Olton, who bowed to Lamesa when the Golden Tornadoes went on the scoring spree, figured in the only over-time game of the day when an extra period required before the Olton lads beat Dickens, 31 to 29, in a first round contest. The score was tied, 29-all, at the expiration of the regular playing period.

Gus Moreland To Battle Maguire In Semi-Finals

Dawson, Goldman In Lower Bracket As Joust Advances

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON, Feb. 23.—Willie Maguire, jr., of Houston today eliminated Edwin McClure of Shreveport one up in the quarter finals of the 20th annual Houston Country club invitation golf tourney and tomorrow will compete in the upper bracket of the 36-hole semi-finals with Gus Moreland of Dallas, who today vanquished Leland Hamman of Waco, one up.

In the lower bracket, the scintillating Johnny Dawson of Chicago victorious today, 6 and 5, over Bryan Winter of Oklahoma City, will match shots against David Goldman of Dallas, who triumphed over Ed White of Austin, 3 and 1.

Maguire proved himself a champion at heart today when he put over a rally to vanish McClure, who formerly held the Louisiana championship. Three down and with eight to play, MaGuire played steady golf against McClure's spotty shot making and went one up at the 35th. They halved the 36th and McGuire walked off the green the winner. Maguire shot 72-76—148 today. McClure shot 75 74—149.

Gus Overcomes Lead

Moreland was one down to Hamman through the first 18 holes, turned the 27th even, went one up at the 28th, and then had a 2 up and 3 to play advantage through the 33rd hole. He three-puted at the 34th to lose to Hamman's bogey four. He three-putted the 35th and lost to Hamman's par 5. They went into the 36th all square. Moreland hit a tremendous tee shot down the middle after Hamman had hooked his into the woods. Hamman's second hit a tree and failed to clear the woods. His third rolled into a trap. He was on in four and gave the hole to Moreland who had stuck his second stiff to the cup for a possible birdie three.

Johnny Dawson had little trouble beating Bryan Winter. Dawson shot a 75, four over, the first 18 holes to make the turn 2 up. He started the afternoon round three under par and was give up with 9 holes to play. He was one over par when the match ended.

Goldman Beats White

David Goldman gained a 5 up advantage over Ed White through the first 18 holes, held his lead through the 27th, then slipped to only 2 up when White tossed a flock of birdies at him. After the match was over, White played out the bye-holes and carded sub-par 69. But even this wasn't good enough to beat Goldman who shot a 70, one under, in the morning and was only one over on the afternoon round—or even par for the entire day.

Moreland and MaGuire tied for medalist last year in the Texas Golf Association state championship. In the playoff, MaGuire won with a 72 against Moreland's 76. Tomorrow will be their first meeting since that time. Dawson and Goldman have never met in a tournament match.

LAYTON WINS TITLE

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—Johnny Layton, Sedalia, Mo., veteran, stroked his way to the top of the billiard rankings tonight as, with a methodical display of shotmaking and brilliant defensive playing, he defeated the defending champion, Welker Cochran, of San Francisco, 50 to 23 to win the world's three cushion crown for the eleventh time in more than 30 years of competition.

MARSHALL BEATS TYLER

MARSHALL, Feb. 23 (AP) — The College of Marshall basketball team defeated Tyler Junior college, 65 to 17, in a game tonight which had no bearing on the district championship, which Tyler won by defeating Marshall last night.

FORT WORTH, Feb. 23 (AP) — Fred Tauby, outfielder and third baseman, and Earl Wolgamot, catcher, were signed by the Fort Worth Cats today. Tauby was turned over outright to the Cats by Beaumont, while Wolgamot was picked up as a free agent.

Leo Shea Gets Call To Work Title Contest

Managers Of Fighters Fail To Agree And Miami Commission Appoints Referee For Bout Next Wednesday Night

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23. (AP) — The Miami Boxing commission today chose Leo Shea, a heavyweight himself, to referee Primo Carnera's fifteen round heavyweight title defense against Tommy Loughran next Wednesday night as the warriors coasted close to the end of their serious training routine.

Shea, considered the best qualified of the three referees licensed by the commission, weighs 190 pounds, is six feet tall, and is over 40 years old. He was named unanimously by the commission after the managers of Carnera and Loughran failed to agree upon a choice themselves.

To Name Judges

The two judges who will act in conjunction with the referee will be chosen by the commission Monday. A list of eligible men has been turned over to each camp. From those suitable both to the champion and challanger two will be chosen. Their names will not be known, however, until the fighters step into the ring at Madison Square Garden's stadium Wednesday night.

The fight camp excitement of the day shifted to West Palm Beach where Loughran, who has been showing brilliantly in training against his lofty sparring partners, Jack Petifer, Ace Clark, and Ed Hogan, entertained the former heavyweight king, Gene Tunney.

He Likes Tommy

Tunney refused to pick a winner, but his sympathies appeared entirely with the man who stands out among heavyweights today as the boxing counterpart of the former marine. They once boxed an eight-round no decision bout in 1922.

Carnera had another good day on the big amusement pier at South Beach. He boxed seven rounds, two with Bucket Everett, three with Johnny Miller, and two more with Popper Stopper, a clowning negro, and he specialized in dropping short right hands over to the head after brushing aside his sparring partners' left jabs. He landed a few heavyweight right uppercuts on Stopper.

AMERICAN PROS WIN

BOSTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Bill Tilden teamed with Ellsworth Vines to defeat their French rivals, Henri Cochet and Martin Plaa, 12-14, 6-3, 6-4, tonight in the professional tennis doubles at Boston Garden. Previously the Americans made a clean sweep in the singles, Tilden defeated Plaa, 6-4, 7-5, 6-3, while Vines downed Cochet, 6-3, 6-4, 8-6.

Rogers Hornsby had not seen more than a half-dozen American league games in his life before taking over management of the St. Louis Browns last year.

Coach Clarence Spears of Wisconsin says Mal Elward, assistant to Noble Kizer at Purdue and a Notre Dame graduate, is the best line coach in football.

To Boss Dodgers

CASEY STENGEL

Stengel Given Brooklyn Job

Former Robin Star To Succeed Max Carey As Boss Of Balmy Boys; Little Ceremony Goes With Nomination

NEW YORK, Feb. 23. (AP)—Charles D. (Casey) Stengel, colorful exponent of the type of baseball that appeals to Flatbush fans, was engaged today to succeed the deposed Max Carey as manager of the Brooklyn baseball club. He signed a two-year contract at a reported salary of $10,000 a year.

The hiring of the sagacious, capricious Carey was accomplished without the usual ceremony attending such affairs. Stephen W. McKeever, the club's president, was at home suffering from grippe, and the team's general manager, J. A. Robert Quinn, was in bed with an attack of pleurisy. So the good-natured veteran of 24 years in the sport, unannounced and all alone, ambled into a roomful of sports writers and smilingly told them he'd signed up.

For the nonce he expects to work with the material on hand and tabled the suggestion of immediate trades. The only immediate change he has in mind is the elevation of Chick Frasier, who scouted for the club last year, to his own former post as coach. Stengel indicated that Otto Miller, former Brooklyn catcher and a coach under Carey, although to date unsigned, would be retained on his staff.

Frogs Defeat Texas Longhorns To Advance Step Nearer The Southwest Conference Flag; Late Rally Is Nipped

AUSTIN, Feb. 23. (AP)—Texas Christian university's Horned Frogs advanced a step nearer the Southwest conference basketball championship tonight with a 29 to 25 victory over the University of Texas. A last - minute rally by the Longhorns was cut short by the Frogs.

A crowd of 5,000 saw the Frogs eke out their ninth conference victory, which assured them no worse than a tie in the pennant chase.

Consistency in ringing free tosses netted them victory. Each team registered eight field shots.

Jack Gray, Texas junior forward, gained a six-point lead over Richard Allison, Frog forward, to take conference high-scoring honors. They were tied with 124 points at the start, but Gray made eight points and Allison two.

Benny Rundell, lanky Texas guard, smothered Allison, who made no field goals and only two free throws, both in the last half.

Gray was erratic and missed six free tosses, enough to have given the Longhorns the victory.

Texas was invincible in the first half, which was three-quarters gone before the Frogs sank one from the field. They were weakening at the half but held a two-point margin. Early in the second period, the Frogs grabbed the lead and hung to it tenaciously, although the steers came within two points of the conference leaders in the final two minutes, when their rally was cut short.

Spencer Abbott, manager of the Atlanta baseball club in the southern association, is emphatically opposed to players trying to add color to the game by clowning.

Jay Berwanger, sophomore flash back sensation of the University of Chicago's 1933 football team, is fair to star likewise in track and field. He broad jumped 23 feet in high school and also does the hurdles.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY...A COMMUNITY MOVEMENT.

Go To The Church Of Your Choice Sunday

I cannot too strongly emphasize my own sincere belief that every man and woman, every boy and every girl, should be definitely and actively associated in the church and in church work. I do, therefore, urge upon all of our people during this great drive for increased church attendance and increased church affiliation and association that we go to church and that we spend a reasonable part of our effort, our thinking, our influence in bringing Christian life and Christian conduct to the attention of all our people as the one great standard which must measure our own influence in helping to solve the difficult problems of the people of the world.

Trade War Threatens U. S.

TRADE wars, like those of violence, sometimes affect nations not directly involved in the controversy.

The present dispute between France and Great Britain, in which each is cutting down its purchases from the other, threatens to have this effect, with the United States being a victim.

One of the factors figuring as a cause in the Anglo-French commercial rift was the contention by Great Britain that France had given the United States cerain concessions which had not been granted Britain. The French came back with the assertion that these concessions did not represent special treatment accorded the United States but were in reurn for similar concessions made by the latter.

To support this argument, France is reported recently to have informed the United States that new concessions of a more substantial kind will have to be given her if her concessions to this country are to be continued. The present commercial agreement with the United States is effective only until April 1.

To refuse to make the desired concessions might cause the United States to lose important French trade, while to make them might place this country in the position of taking sides with France in its trade war with Britain. Neither result is desirable from the American standpoint.

SOIL THAT DISAPPEARS

Creation of the soil-erosion service in the Department of Interior and the formulation of a vast program for it do not necessarily tend to defeat the purposes of plans of the federal government for farm relief through crop reduction. The government will not reclaim erosive lands for cultivation.

Erosion is an ancient devourer of agricultural land, but its destructive power has only recently been realized. Denude a slope of its trees, burn away its brush and turn herds and flocks upon it to keep its grass eaten close to the turf and erosion within a few years will convert it into a barren, gullied land.

Knowing these facts the government is justifiably alarmed and concerned, but it could not spare the money at this time if it were not possibe to kill two birds with one stone. Land reclamation of any sort provides a high percentage of re-employment per dollar invested.

Perhaps the largest project the new federal service will undertake is the 15,000,000-acre undertaking in Arizona, New Mexico and Utah. The Navajo and Zuni reservations are in this area, which is another argument in favor of the scheme.

Out of this program will come millions of acres of valuable forests, new grazing areas and a paradise for sportsmen. And in the mean time the jobless will be given work and many unprofitable farms will be taken off the hands of struggling farmers and ranchers.

SILLY REPRISALS

Two or three years ago Washington and Paris were engaged in a tariff war, a war and both lost. Today they are at it again with another form of tax the battle ground.

France levies a tax on French branches of foreign corporations. If the branch on French soil does 10 per cent of the total business of the corporation, a tax is collected on 10 per cent of the total business irrespective of whether the French branch is operated at a profit or at a loss.

The house ways and means committee considers this unfair so proposes a penalty income tax upon American subsidiaries of foreign corporations whose governments discriminate against American branch establishments in matters of taxation. It is a reprisal levy and nothing more.

As in the tariff war neither nation will get any place by resorting to such tactics. The proper remedy lies in agreements designed to prevent or at least reduce double taxation of business incores. Had the French parliament acted upon the treaty of 1932 when congress did the present quarrel would have been averted.

When will governments learn that trade concessions cannot profitably be extorted through tariff discrimination and that tax reprisals do not force redress from a foreign power but fortify the foreign government in its determination to discriminate?

"We warn everybody not to poke their snouts into the Soviet potato patch," says Joseph Stalin. And he looked straight at Japan.

What a world. Hotel rates are made high enough to cover towel losses, so you don't get what you pay for if you don't steal any.

An embezzler of $132,000 in Indiana was fined $1 and costs. Justice out there certainly must be blind.

It may be cold in Little America, but there are no tax collectors there.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

GEORGE PEEK rather put the administration in a hole in the current effort to organize the new export-import bank.

When the President offered him the job of heading the agency, Peek came back with an answer he would take it only with a distinct understanding the bank be run as he personally directed.

The alternative was a veiled threat that Peek would take his case direct to the farmers.

The former head of Triple A has very decided views on how the bank should operate and what its objective should be.

He holds it should be run only to finance American exporters and open up foreign markets for American surpluses. He objects to the theory of Secretary of State Hull that the bank should underwrite Russian and other imports.

Finally, Peek is against any general lowering of the existing tariff. Where it is possible for American producers to get a foreign market, he would punch individual holes in the present tariff wall.

The administration doesn't underestimate Peek's strength with the farmers for a minute. They recall it was largely money from Peek's personal fortune which paid for the McNary-Haugen fight some years back.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has stated privately that Peek would be a very dangerous man stumping the hustings in opposition to an administration policy affecting the farmers.

COMPETITION: Now that prohibition is repealed and most everyone has started observing the law again, the various government intelligence services are getting all hot and bothered about each other's prowess.

Undercover rivalry between Department of Justice agents and Post Office Department Inspectors is full of splinters. On several of the recent crime cases that got national attention, the two agencies literally were spotting each other so each could take sole credit for the arrest.

Postal Inspectors claim Chief Hoover—not content with rounding up the kidnapers—is trying to steal all the glory regardless. They mention a recent Baltimore arrest where the post office boys laboriously tracked down their gang in a $100,000 mail robbery, only to have the justice agents step in and clamp the handcuffs on to answer a charge of stealing an automobile.

NOTES: Why was California missing when the roll of states was called in the senate on the question of holding MacCracken and Brittin in contempt? . . . Neither Johnson nor McAdoo voted and politicians are wondering. . . . An effort will be made to substitute a general sales tax for the tax bill now pending. . . . But the administration bill jammed through the house is scheduled to get by in the senate. . . . The Stock Exchange regulation bill is bumping the bumps and squirting out blunders at every jolt. . . . Any forgotten guy itching to put up a margin will have an opportunity to do so after all. . . . There's a law that imposes a $100,000 fine on any John Citizen who refuses to come back home at the call of a senate subpoena. . . . Tom Bragg and Ben Smith may soon be singing in Kangarooland "I Hear Thee Calling Me."

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

JESSE JONES'S double-tracking maneuver on New York Central refinancing goes to the roots of Washington-New York relations.

Not long ago Mr. Jones was suggesting that the RFC underwrite Central's whole $52,000,000 refunding issue—congress permitting—and take up any part of it the public didn't want. Local bankers thought the idea swell with one reservation—now become important—that it would pave the way to transferring all railroad (and perhaps other) financing from their hands to the government's for keeps.

But somehow the RFC head didn't mention the matter to congress. And now instead of Jones's two single-track proposals—the first that the bankers should do all the work and the second entirely a government affair—he offers a double-track arrangement. The RFC will shell out $20,000,000 IF the bankers will handle the rest. They will. They're privately working on the details already.

REASONS: There were four important reasons for the sudden shift.

1. Jones found he had bitten off too much to chew. The RFC could have handled New York Central—and its prominence gave it a special status—but the precedent was dangerous. Nearly every road in the country with a maturity in the next five years began expressing a beautiful faith that the RFC Santa Claus would fill their stockings too.

2. Prolonging the life of the RFC for 10 years—as would have been required—didn't fit too well with Washington ideas as inside New York understands them.

3. The government is quietly pushing plans to encourage private initiative to take over part of its burden. New York sees plenty of signs. The double-track program fits.

4. Word was privately passed to the banking interests involved that their aid with Central would be construed as a measure of sincere intent to cooperate with Washington. They saw the point. From now on the Washington and New York tracks will run more nearly parallel—with switching facilities.

CONVERSION: The chance of exchanging debenture 4's for convertible 6's is expected to lure many holders of the maturing issues into accepting new bonds in lieu of cash. As predicted in this column most refunding issues from now on will have the convertible feature.

But the informal remark that New York Central needs a fat traffic boom to cover the additional $600,000 to $1,000,000 annual interest.

OUTLOOK: Local experts see a bright outlook for business improvement. They argue that the slump last fall was due to over-buying and over-production in fear of a rapid price rise. This created surpluses which slowed the business tempo until they were worked off.

The current rise is much sounder. Production is keeping close step with consumption and no one is accumulating top-heavy inventories. Therefore the improvement is natural and should continue.

PRIVATE: There's just one reservation. Even New Deal opponents agree that government spending has speeded things enormously. The big question is—what happens when it tapers off? Vital momentum will be lost unless private industry takes up the slack.

New York insiders learn that Washington will take almost any step short of handing the country back to the rugged individualists to induce business to step out. That's one reason why talk of permanent reconstruction is soft-pedalled for the moment. If the wheels are moving fast enough to run through the summer without slackening all will be well.

The Upside Down Tree of Annaberg, Saxony, is a linden and is known as the Barbara Ullman Tree. A number of such trees still exist throughout Germany, planted by way of appealing to a supernatural course of evidence.

Married Flirts

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GYPSY MORRELL and TOM WEAVER are married the same day as LILA HOTALING and DEREK BLISS. Lila expects to live in luxury, but Gypsy intends to keep her job, teaching in a settlement house.

The first night Gypsy and Tom spend in their New York apartment VERA GRAY, an old friend of Tom's telephones. Tom asks her to luncheon to meet Gypsy, but Gypsy can't get away from work to go. After a hard day at school she rushes home to learn that Vera is coming to call on them. Vera arrives and the two girl's dislike each other on sight. Tom seems relieved when Vera leaves.

Weeks later Lila and Derek return from their honeymoon in Europe.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V

It was Lila's voice on the telephone, sweet, slightly fretful, as always. "It that you, Gypsy? We got back last week. I'm dying to see you."

Of course, Gypsy didn't take this literally. Lila was given to exaggeration.

"Do come for dinner next week," Lila urged. "How about Tuesday? Is Tuesday free?"

Gypsy, smiling to herself, said that Tuesday would be fine. Lila's air of supposing that Tom and she had a full calendar of engagements amused her. This was Saturday afternoon. Gypsy was glad she'd been at home when Lila called. Dinner at the Bliss's on Tuesday gave her something gay to look forward to. What with watching the budget, and seeing that the bills were paid, the young Weavers had little to spend on amusement.

Then she began to worry about her dress. She didn't want to look "bridey"—that was fatal—but the ivory dress she had worn on her wedding day was the only really formal frock she owned. She took it out, stared at it critically, and decided that, without sleeves it would do very nicely. She had made it so that the back might easily be cut down to a V, while the front was fashionably high, after that season's mode. Yes, with her last year's red slippers, it would do!

But when she routed out those slippers, they proved sadly disappointing. The last time she had danced in them, an irremediable grease stain had appeared from nowhere on the toe of the left one. Gypsy struggled, with cleaning fluid and chalk, to remove this. But all her efforts only made the spot more stubborn.

"They look awful!" She was ready to weep. It would be the grossest extravagance, she thought, to buy a new pair for Lila's diner party. Tom, dashing in just then, whistling gayly, found her on the floor of the bedroom, bottles, slippers and rags strewn about, her face woebegone.

"What's up?"

Gypsy sat back on her heels, pushing back her curly mop.

"Just these awful shoes."

"What's the matter with 'em, honey?"

She held out the offending object.

"This one's a mess. I simply can't wear it."

"Well, what's all the excitement? I didn't know we were going places."

"Lila's home. We're invited to dinner."

"Oh, that. Gosh!"

"You don't want to go?"

He grinned at her. "Of course, I do. Tell you what, we'll go out now and buy you a new pair."

She said accusingly: "Thomas Weaver, you know rent day comes next week. And your insurance."

He snapped his fingers. "Right you are. Well, what about those ivory dinguses you wore with the dress."

She struck at her forehead. "What a fool I am! I'd clean forgotten my wedding shoes. I can have them dyed."

She would have them dyed green, brilliant green, and wear the little string of jade-colored beads Father had given her on her last birthday.

Tom watched her smoking idly, as she rummaged through box and drawer, in search of the ivory slippers. She was conscious of his unwonted silence, and turned to look at him, surprising some new, troubled expression in his eyes.

"What's the matter, darling?" He squinted through the smoke.

"Nothing — only wish I could give you things. You weren't very bright to marry a poor man, Gypsy. You ought to have luxuries. You're so pretty and so young."

"Will you stop harping on that?"

He was serious, he said. It made him feel ashamed. A pair of scuffed and shabby dancing shoes, molded to the shape of Gypsy's small feet accused him.

"Darling, what do you think I want out of life?" Gypsy wanted to know, abandoning the search. "Just money and the things it buys? You ought to know better than that."

Tom said moodily that, of course, he did. But it wasn't much fun for her, he could see that. If she'd married Marko Broughton . . .

Gypsy laughed aloud. "As if I ever considered that!"

"Well, he did, anyhow," Tom tramped about the room now, seeming to big for the place. His shoulders were so broad, his legs so long, he made the little table and chair tremble.

"D'you suppose he'll be there Tuesday?" He frowned at her.

Gypsy said, lightly, "How should I know? He's Derek's boss."

"Blooming king of finance," growled Tom. "Thinks he's a buccaneer."

Gypsy couldn't help giggling at him—a little. Tom was not appeased. How funny that he should be, after all this time, and after being married to her for two months, still jealous of Marko Broughton!

She pretended not to notice, and went hunting her ivory slippers. They were nowhere to be found.

"I must have left them at home," she said. "Although it's funny, if I

Capitol Chatter

AUSTIN, Feb. 23. (AP)—Notwithstanding that the Texas senate passed a bill sponsored by Senator Margie E. Neal of Carthage, creating machinery for a Texas centennial in 1936, and appropriating $250,000 to meet preliminary expenses, indications are that favorable house action on the measure is unlikely.

Cullen F. Thomas of Dallas, a leader in the centennial movement, recently addressed the house appropriations committee in support of a similar bill. Thomas told the committee he thought a quarter of a million dollars was little enough to care for preliminary expenses of a celebration that would be in keeping with the glamorous past of the lone star state.

"If I thought that was all this legislature would authorize I'd quit right now," Thomas said, adding that the committee would be called on later for additional aid.

Despite Thomas's stirring address the house committee voted against appropriating any amount for the purpose, although there was considerable sentiment in favor of a small appropriation.

"There are 55 ayes and 62 cigar smokers in the house," Speaker Coke Stevenson remarked in announcing the vote on a proposal to levy a sales tax on cigars. The amendment lost by the ratio.

Establishment of a court of claims with officers in Austin to pass on claims against the state, is being advocated by Rep. Z. E. Coombes of Dallas, as a result of the unprecedented number of suits that have been authorized against the state.

During the regular session scores of resolutions were passed to grant individuals and corporations permission to sue the state. Most of the causes were for personal injuries sustained in the state's employ, particularly in the service of the highway department. Additional suits were authorized at the first special session and the stream has continued through this session.

When the attorney general's department complained it did not have funds to send assistants all over the state to defend the suits, Coombes suggested the court of claims as a less expensive procedure. A supreme court decision is expected shortly which may have the effect of automatically dismissing many of the suits.

"Small Savers" in Great Britain are said to have over $10,000,000,000 "put away."

THE SON OF TARZAN, No. 24

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

His first night in the jungle was one which the son of Tarzan held longest in his memory. No savage beasts menaced him; there was no sign of hideous barbarian.. But his conscience was harassed by the thought of his mother's suffering. Fear had thrust him into the jungle, a fugitive, and because of the murder by the ape he could never return to his parents to bring shame upon their honored name. Self-blame plunged him into deep misery.

Crouched close to the great ape in the crotch of a tree the boy had shivered through an almost sleepless night. With the rising sun his spirits rose. He would return to civilization by another way, avoiding the little trading place where even now the body of the stranger so mysteriously slain was being discovered. He shook Akut into wakefulness. "Come," he said, "I am cold and hungry. We must search for food out there."

He pointed to the open plain and slid to the ground. The ape looked carefully about first, sniffing the morning air. Then, satisfied that no danger lurked near, he descended slowly to the boys side. "Numa, and Sabor his mate, feast upon those who descend first and look afterward," said the old ape, giving the son of Tarzan his first lesson in jungle lore. Side by side they set off across the rough plain, running until the boy was warm.

Some eggs they found and these he sucked raw, as also he ate the roots and tubers which Akut unearthed. The ape contented himself with some rodents and worms he dug up. Beyond the plain across a low bluff they found a shallow water hole. A herd of zebra galloped away as they approached to drink. Akut now took the lead, the boy followed close upon its heels, his every sense alert, his nerves keyed to a high pitch of excitement. This was life!

TECH FACULTY GONE TO RUINS! YAQUI INDIANS OF COURSE—

Investigating prehistoric things, to those who make it a hobby, is naturally of great interest. The average man finds solace and pleasure nearer at hand. His own fireside, his house slippers and a newspaper. What more to be desired?

WE HAVE A HOBBY, TOO. It's building modern new homes and making modern new ones out of the old. This we specialize in. To do these two things in the right way we must keep abreast of the times in architectural designs, just as a woman does in dress. We must have good mechanics to execute our ideas and last but not least, we must have good materials. They are all three here.

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 23. (AP) — Some strength appeared in the hog trade around the mid-western circuit today. Most markets reported prices strong to around 15 higher with demand active. Some unevenness has been noted on weights under 200 lbs. the past few days as government orders for these weights stepped in midweek. Estimated receipts of 32,900 were practically the same as last Friday and 8,000 over the corresponding day a year ago.

Most of the trade in steers was on a firm basis with some choice heavy steers quoted stronger. Other classes of cattle were not materially changed. Three loads of finished 1270 lb. and 1299 lb. beeves at Kansas City went at 6.00. No strictly choice lightweight steers were offered. Most fed steers and yearlings opened the week's trade weak to 25 or more lower, but part of this loss was regained especially on steers with weights and these are closing the week very little changed.

Most fed lambs sold on a strong to 15 higher basis today with instances of a 25 advance. A few choice wooled skins reached 10,000 at St. Louis on several occasions and bulk of the good to choice fed lambs range from 9.25@9.75. Very few feeding lambs were on sale.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Feb. 23. (AP)—Hogs 1,000; truck hogs steady to 5 higher; top 4.80; good 150-170 lb. averages 4.00@4.75; butcher pigs 2.00@2.75; packing sows 4.00 down or steady.

Cattle 900; calves 400; scattered sales various classes cattle about steady; hardly enough cattle to make a market; some desirable fed yearlings 4.25 to around 4.50; calf quality very plain, trade unchanged, weighty averages around 4.25 down.

Sheep 700; fat lambs and ewes steady; medium to good shorn fat lambs 6.50@7.00; good shorn fat ewes 4.50; wooled feeder lambs mostly 7.00; fleshy wooled feeder lambs 7.50.

Grains

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Feb. 23. (AP)—Slow demand continued today on the Fort Worth cash grain market.

Prices ranged as follows, basis car loads on track at Fort Worth freight paid to delivery point:

Delivered Texas Gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points: wheat, No. 1 hard 93@95. Barley No. 2 nominally 56@57; No. 3 nominally 55@56. Sorghums No. 2 milo per 100 lbs. nominally 1.15@1.17; No. 3 milo nominally 1.13@1.15; No. 2 kaffir nominally 96@97; No. 3 kaffir nominally 94@95.

Delivered Texas common points of group three: corn, No. 3 white 64 1-2@65; No. 2 yellow63@63 1-2. Oats No. 2 red 43 1-2@44 1-2; No. 3 red 42 1-2@43 1-2.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Feb. 23. (AP)—Late setbacks of securities carried the wheat market downward today, more than offsetting early gains.

Prospective further moisture relief for domestic wheat territory southwest and west that recently has been suffering from drought tended also to pull wheat values down. Relative slowness of European demand for wheat from Canada and from southern hemisphere countries acted as an additional weight on values.

Wheat closed unsteady, 1-8 to 3-8 under Wednesday's finish, corn at 1-8 to 3-8 advance, oats unchanged to 1-8 lower, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 22 cents.

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 23. (AP)—The well-known line of least resistance was downward in today's stock market. After narrow irregularity through the early dealings prices turned lower during the afternoon and finished around the bottom, the general range of losses being 1 to approximately 5 points.

Selling was in moderate volume, but with the matter of market regulation getting wide publicity it was apparent that many operators had withdrawn pending clarification of the outlook, and support for some issues was rather thin. Heaviness was well-distributed, thru aviation shares fared better than most other divisions. Sales totaled 2,296,238 shares.

Packing company equities weakened from the start, reflecting the department of agriculture's inquiry into alleged price-fixing. Armour of Illinois preferred and Wilson preferred yielded about 4 points each. Aircrafts were kept in fairly good spirits by reports that efforts would be made to give the mail flying back to the commercial companies.

Pre-holiday favorities in the lowlier quotation brackets acted less enthusiastically. Motors of this description may have been a bit disturbed by news of labor difficulties in one manufacturing and one accessory plant. The recently strong Studebaker backed up a point, but Packard resisted. Higher priced automotives failed to follow an early spurt by Chrysler which put that leader across 60 to a new high since 1929; it finished with a net loss of 2 and General Motors was down more than one.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 23. (AP)—Cotton was rather quiet today, an early upturn being followed by reactions with final prices one to four points net lower. Traders appeared to be awaiting more Washington developments.

The opening was firm owing to the prompt stoppage of the notices and rather better Liverpool cables than due. First trades here showed gains of 8 to 9 points and although prices eased 1 to 2 points after the start, prices soon rallied.

The market eased off a couple of points around noon and in the afternoon reacted farther owing lack of buying support and easier stocks. Prices made new lows for the day with May at 12.14, July at 12.28 and October at 12.45 down 15 to 16 points from the highs of the morning. There was a slight rally of 1 to 3 points at the end on covering. May closed at 12.16 down 1 point net, July at 12.29 down 4 points net, and October at 12.48, down 2 points net.

Port receipts 19,629, for week 81,507, for season 6,424,942, last season 7,315,368. Exports 26,763, for week 174,737, for season 5,379,873, last season 5,486,776. Port stock 3,484,784, last year 4,597,163. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Housten 116,087, last year 140,688. Spot sales at southern market 11,330, last year 12,288.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 23. (AP)—Cotton traders found no special stimulating factors in over holiday developments and a good part of today's business was attributed to the evening-up of March commitments incident to the issuance of first notices.

An early advance on covering and trade buying was followed by reactions under realizing or liquidation and after selling up to 12.33, May contracts declined to 12.17 and closed at 12.18. The final tone of the market was barely steady net 2 points higher to 1 point lower.

Initial prices are 7 to 14 points higher in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables which were followed by trade and commission house buying. March notices estimated at about 35,000 bales were reported in circulation, but there was evidently a good demand for the near month, and rumors that there might be competition for the cotton, appeared to bring in some covering.

March sold up to 12.14 and October to 12.63 or about 13 to 16 points net higher on the early demand, but the near month liquidation continued, and after holding fairly steady during the morning prices eased off later under realizing or liquidation promoted by the easier ruling of the stock market. March declined to 12.02 and October to 12.48 and closing prices were at or within a point of the lowest for the day.

Exports today 26,501 making 5,493,912 so far this season. Port receipts 13,595. U. S. port stocks 3,481,578.

the evening."

The defense attorney also brought out in his questioning of Miss Hennessey several other points which they considered important to their case. They were:

1. That Dr. Wynekoop was in the habit of keeping money in the drawer of her office desk.

2. That it was customary for Dr. Wynekoop to keep at least one light burning in the house at all times, whether or not there was anyone home. (A messenger boy and a neighbor testified at the first trial that they had seen a light burning in the Wynekoop home at 4 p. m., on November 21, the approximate time of the killing).

3. That on a night a month or so previous to the tragedy, Miss Hennessey had been awakened by an unusual disturbance somewhere in the building.

Baffled as to the real cause of death, however, scientists today sought traces of poison in the vital organs. Prince's closest friends, included Judge Dreyfus, head of the court of appeals, scoffed at suicide theories.

One Of Big Problems

Thus the Stavisky trail of blood, death, scandal, and near-revolution forced Doumergue to face Prince's death as one of the government's big problems.

That Stavisky dead is more dangerous than Stavisky alive was accepted as needing no proof.

The crime revived mention of high personages against whom Prince, an appeals court judge who was present when Stavisky was first arrested in 1926 on swindling charges, was said to have had damaging evidence.

Mitchell and Shaffer were apprehended by our officers, Shaffer turning state's evidence. It then became necessary to use Shaffer to convict Mitchell, as will be necessary in the trial of Doupe.

"Bill Doupe was not apprehended until July, 1933, nine months after he was accused of committing this crime. He had been chased from California and through many other states into Canada.

"Only one term of 72nd district court has passed since Doupe was caught. His case was set for trial during that term and a continuance was required because of the absence of a necessary state's witness.

"We are now having our second term of 72nd district court since Doupe was caught, his case is set, and the special venire has been drawn for March 5.

"These facts show that the state is 'concerned' in trying Bill Doupe. Clyde Shaffer being a necessary witness in the Doupe case must be tried after Doupe.

make it a misdemeanor for a state employe to contribute to a campaign fund of the department head employing him or her. It would apply also to county employes. The bill at first would have defined such contributions as bribery, punishable by imprisonment, but the offense was reduced to a misdemeanor by amendment. There was sufficient opposition to the bill to block suspension of the rules so it could be put on final passage.

An additional appropriation of $60,000 to defray expenses of the current special session of the legislature was approved by the senate. Senator T. J. An appropriation of $100,000 to pay salaries and expenses of this session was made the first day.

Plan To Beautify Places Of Interest On Highways Near Canyon Is Outlined

CANYON, Feb. 23. (Special)—A plan to beautify places of interest along the highways north and south of Canyon has been prepared by District Engineer W. J. Van London, and was shown here Monday.

President J. A. Hill and the board of regents of the West Texas State Teachers college have given authority to the highway department to beautify the lake on the college farm north of town, and to make a park. Mr. Van London has developed a plan of improvement which calls for drives, trees and other improvements, artistic in nature and attractive to tourists as well as to other people in this section of the state.

Driveways are to be bordered with stone, hundreds of trees planted along the creek, damsite and the drives. Plans call for the inclusion of the old T-Anchor log house, historic landmark located on the college farm. This is the oldest house in this section, having been erected in 1878 and served as headquarters for the T-Anchor ranch when this ranch comprised the larger part of four counties that have since been carved out of the territory.

Plans for developing the Tierra Blanca holdings south of Canyon are along the same lines, but not so extensive. The grounds will be cleaned up, trees planted and the channel of the creek changed to avoid washouts.

Trees are now being planted in other parts of the county along the highway following the highway development and beautification program recently inaugurated in Texas.

Couple Honored

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ashton, above, of Abernathy, were honored recently at a party given in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. Ashton is a retired farmer. The couple has seven children and 11 grandchildren, all of them present at the affair.

Mitchell Case

more than 1,000 Lubbock county citizens, including five of the jurors who wrote the verdict, to commute the penalty to life imprisonment.

She said the death penalty appeared too severe for Mitchell since the state apparently was "not concerned enough to try those other two guilty parties." She declared that two confederates, who furnished an automobile and pistol used in the crime, had not been tried.

Trial Date Set

Trial of William E. (Bill) Doupe, a former Canadian army aviator, for robbery with firearms, as a confederate of Mitchell, has been set for the week of March 5 in 72nd district court here. District Attorney Daniel A. Blair, who opposed clemency for Mitchell, said a special venire of 100 men had been summoned for the trial.

Mitchell was arrested in Kingsville, Jan. 29, 1933, and Doupe at International Falls, Minn., late in July, 1933, after Clyde Shaffer, a confederate, had made a confession at Amarillo. Doupe's trial has been continued once, because a witness was missing.

Trial of Shaffer has not been set, because he is to be a state's witness in Doupe's trial, as he was in Mitchell's case.

"Our intentions are now to try him (Shaffer)", Burton S. Burks, assistant district attorney said.

Air Contracts

notified they were going to carry the mail.

Three fliers en route to air mail stations were killed February 16; two hurtled to their death Thursday and two others were hurt in crashes that day.

Lieut. Norman Burnett of Graham, Tex., was forced to take to his parachute near Fremont, O., early yesterday while on the way to Chicago from Cleveland for a load of mail. His left leg was broken when it struck the side of the plummeting ship.

Equipment Failures

Some of the accidents have been attributed to equipment failures pending complete investigations.

At Chicago late yesterday Col. Horace M. Hickam, commandant of army air mail operations in the central United States zone, said preparations were being made to call reserve army fliers into active duty flying the air mail.

War department officials in Washington yesterday pointed to the fact that only one pilot has been killed while actually carrying the mails. They said 148 planes had been flying nearly 41,000 miles daily in the worst weather in years over a large section of the country. Therefore there was no reason for discouragement, it was reasoned, and the mishaps were not regarded as extraordinary.

End Of Fortnight

Today marks the end of a fortnight since President Roosevelt announced commercial air mail contracts had been cancelled, and that the army would take over the job. Service fliers actually picked up the load at midnight, February 19, a scant four days ago.

Since the announcement came from the White House, the major air transport companies serving the east have begun to feel the pinch of poverty, occasioned by cancellation of their contracts.

The young women were treated at Lubbock sanitarium and dismissed. Davidson remained in the sanitarium. Frank Cook, other occupant of the car, was uninjured.

Death Asked For Defendant As Case Goes To Trial Jury

FORT WORTH, Feb. 23. (AP)—The murder case of W. D. May, first of the Handley triple slaying defendants to face trial, went to a criminal district court jury at 4 p. m. today after the jurors heard opposing views of attorneys as to whether the case deserved a death penalty verdict.

"This is not an electric chair case. It doesn't even approach that," Arthur Leemoore, chief defense counsel, declared in his closing argument.

"No other verdict would be commensurate with this crime," answered District Attorney Jesse Martin, who closed for the state.

Prosecutors Prepare To Ask Grand Jury To Indict John Lacy; Has Served Term In North Dakota Pen

CHICAGO, Feb. 23. (AP) — New chapters in the criminal career of John Lacy were uncovered today as they prepared to ask the grand jury to indict him for kidnaping conspiracy.

Morose after learning his partner in the bungled kidnap attempt, Charles W. Mayo of Birmingham, Ala., had committed suicide in a cell, Lacy was said to have given information which led authorities to suspect him of bank robbery.

Deserted Family

Five years ago, Prosecutor Mal Coghlan said, Lacy deserted his wife and two children in Tinley Park, southwest of Chicago. Following that, he served a term in the North Dakota state prison for forgery.

Coghlan said he believed Lacy returned to Tinley Park a year ago and participated in a bank robbery.

The prosecutor said he believed Lacy had never lived in Davenport, Ia., the home of E. P. Adler, newspaper publisher whom Mayo and Lacy selected as their first kidnap victim.

Plot Frustrated

A bizarre plot to carry Adler out of the Morrison hotel here in a huge trunk was frustrated when Adler put up a fight and frightened away the would-be abductors.

Lacy used the name of Norman Wyman during his residence in Tinley Park, Coghlan said.

"We believe Lacy is a member of a prominent family in Fort Worth, Tex.," Coghlan said. "His only request to authorities is that his family be kept in ignorance of the present case. We have agreed to that.",

Was Given Parole

Lacy, or Wyman, is 34 years old. He was paroled after serving nine months of a one to five year sentence in state prison at Bismarck, N. D. He was sent there from Valley City, N. D., on a sentence for forgery.

Police Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's office said he was convinced Lacy had nothing to do with a recent rumored attempt to kidnap Jay (Ding) Darling, Des Moines cartoonist.

He said Lacy was a bigamist having remarried since deserting his first wife.

did. Mother didn't find them before this."

They did not intend to go out to Blue Hills on the morrow, so she telephoned the house. No, Mrs. Morell had not seen the wedding slippers. They seemed to be irretrievably lost.

This was in the nature of a catastrophe for Gypsy. She came back into the living room, where Tom was sitting at the gate-legged table, with all his papers and figures spread out before him, and sat down without saying a word.

Tom pushed back the welter of work and ran his fingers through his hair. "Find 'em, honey?"

She shook her head.

"Well, look, why don't you run over before the shops close and get a pair now. You may not have time Monday . . . "

Gypsy said, stubbornly, that she'd wear the red ones. She did not add what she thought in her heart, they looked simply dreadful and Lila would be sure to notice. She put on a cheerful face and went out to get supper. But the thought ragged her, as she boiled and skinned shrimps for salad and cut up handfuls of crisp white celery, and mixed mayonnaise. This time last year she would have rushed out, quite carelessly, to buy new sandals. She had spent a great deal of her salary on her young and pretty person. But now—well, it was not fair to Tom. And there were so many things they needed for the house. No, the red slippers would just have to do. And if Marko were there—well, it couldn't be helped, that was all!

Just the same, when she rushed home from work Tuesday evening to bathe and dress her heart rather sank as she stared at the slippers. Her dress was all right. She had worked on it last night. It looked quite in the mode. Trust Gypsy for that. But not even her clever fingers could transform scuffed and soiled dancing shoes into the semblance of new ones. Thank goodness her little black velvet wrap with the white fur ("cat" the twins called it) still looked nice!

She sang in the tub. It was exciting, going to a party. It was fun. She sat wrapped in her blue negligee, as Tom's key grated in the lock.

"I'm running the tub for you, darling!" She stuck the shoes out of sight, under a chair. Better not put them on until the last minute. She just wouldn't think about them until she had to.

He came down the hall and leaned against the doorframe, regarding her. "Gosh, you look pretty!"

The mirror gave back the reflection of a curly-haired girl with wide, soft, eager eyes. Tom came to her and kissed her swiftly.

"Let me see those shoes."

She hunted them out and gave them into his hands. He turned them over curiously.

"Too bad you have to wear them."

Gypsy shrugged. She was a good actress. "Oh, I don't mind. Honestly."

Marko had said, long ago, she remembered: you'll be sorry if you marry a poor man. You like luxury. Well, she'd show him.

Tom was looking at her in a curiously bantering way. "You don't have to, darling," he told her. He was holding something out to her. A box wrapped in green paper. Gypsy unwrapped it. Little gilt sandals lay within. Her size.

"Tom, you shouldn't have . . . !" There was the insurance. There was the rent. There were these insane, lovely little shoes with the maker's name, an expensive one, stamped inside.

"You're not going to wear shabby shoes," said Tom, "as long as I can get the other kind for you." She knew he was thinking of Marko.

Trained Animals Will Appear In City When Legion Circus Is Held In March

Trained dogs, an educated pony, and a bucking mule are among animals that will appear in an indoor circus at the Auditorium, March 1-6 inclusive. It will be under American Legion auspices.

In Belle Wheeler's troupe trained dogs and ponies work together. Tricks of the dogs include many the average circus fan would not anticipate advance information indicates. Side-twisting somersaults, for example.

Sparkles, star of Capt. Fred Burns' military group of ponies, has a bachelor of arts "degree" from the University of Wisconsin at Madison. Sparkies was so honored when the Eastern States circus — also billed here as the American Legion Indoor circus—was in Madison last summer. The pony "with a college education" without prodding, answers oral questions, his agents say.

A bucking mule, described as "stubborn and wily," is another of the animals in the ring-show. Many try to ride it; few succeed. Dynamite Maud is the long-eared performer.

Roy McKinney, chairman of a Legion post committee on ticket sales, Friday said organization of sales would be completed and distribution of the pasteboards in full swing soon.

The circus has 18 professional acts, many from major circuses. A free dance will follow each performance.
