JOHNSTON OUSTED AS INCOMPETENT

Strickland Indicted On Five Counts For Williams' Death

CLAY FARMER GOES TO JAIL WITHOUT BOND

Jury Considers Evidence Six Hours Before Adjourning

TRIAL SLATED IN MAY

Counts in Indictment Cover All Phases Of Several Stories

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, Texas, March 20 — A special grand jury late today indicted Paul R. Strickland, farmer, on five counts charging murder in connection with the death near here Monday of R. L. Williams, former nightwatchman of Bowie, Texas.

The grand jury, which convened here at 11:30 o'clock this morning under orders of District Judge Vincent Stine, returned the indictment at 5:30 p. m., and was forthwith dismissed subject to call.

Strickland Jailed

Bond was not set by the court, and Strickland was remanded to jail, where he will remain until the case is called for trial unless habeas corpus proceedings are instituted, according to County Attorney W. J. Glasgow, who represented the state at the investigation. The trial, Mr. Glasgow said, probably will not come up before the May term of court.

Strickland was charged with murder in a complaint filed Tuesday by the county attorney. This step followed the discovery of Williams' body in a pasture near the Strickland farm home five miles southeast of here late Monday night. Williams, a coroner's inquest developed, had been shot through the stomach, and the body gave indications that it had been dragged a considerable distance. The feet were tied together, and the clothes on the corpse were soiled, the investigation revealed.

Quarrel Recited

In one of several statements the county attorney said Strickland made was the assertion that Strickland and Williams had quarreled over a girl both had known 20 years ago in Denton county, and that a shooting followed. He also said, according to the county attorney, that Williams had taken his own life, but the coroner's inquest refuted this statement. Later Mr. Glasgow said, Strickland made the statement that Williams had been shot with a pistol, and this, too, was contradicted with another alleged statement from Strickland that the former nightwatchman had been shot with a Winchester.

Five Counts

The indictment returned today, Mr. Glasgow said, was framed into five component parts to cover all possible angles of the case. The first count, he said, alleges Strickland shot Williams with a pistol; the second, that the shooting was done with a gun; the third, that Williams had been dragged to death by an automobile; the fourth, that Williams had died from being dragged and shot with a pistol; and the fifth, that Williams had been dragged and shot with a gun.

Williams' body was forwarded by the local undertaking company at noon today to Bowie, and services were held there late this afternoon. Williams, about 40 years old, leaves his widow, a brother, who lives at Fort Worth, and eight children.

Lamar, Colo., Suspects Leave to Face Trial

KANSAS CITY, March 20. (AP)—Eli E. Mace and Charles C. Clinton, arrested here in connection with the robbery last May of the First National bank of Lamar, Colo., were started on their way to Colorado for trial today.

19 Killed In Head-On Smash Of Fast Trains

Speeding Locomotives Meet in Isolated Spot Near Toronto; Victims Mostly Farm Settlers

TORONTO, Ont., March 20. (UP)—The two fastest trains on the Canadian National railroad collided head-on at the out-of-the-way station of Dorcourt, Ont., a little Georgian bay town, today with a heavy loss of life.

Latest reports received at offices of the company said that 19 persons—15 passengers and four trainmen—had been killed. At least eight persons were injured and one man was reported missing.

Most of the passengers were settlers going to Western Canada to occupy a new strip of farm land that has been opened to settlement. There were men, women and children among the dead, the advices here said.

Unconfirmed reports — communications from the wreck center are greatly impeded—said that the passengers were burned to death when the colonist car on which they were riding overturned and burned.

JUNE BRIDE

Lindy and Anne to Wed In June—Place Undecided

MEXICO, March 20. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his fiancee, Miss Anne Morrow, expect to be married sometime in the month of June, it was stated upon the highest authority. The place of the ceremony has not yet been decided.

Anne Morrow will be a June bride, but she and Colonel Lindbergh have not yet decided whether the marriage shall be solemnized in Mexico City or in the United States. The colonel is expected to fly back to Mexico City at least once, and maybe twice, to visit his fiancee before June.

FATAL BATTLE IN SKYSCRAPER

Dallas Man Killed Over Former Stenographer

DALLAS, March 20. (AP)—G. M. Pierce and Andrew M. Blue fought today in a skyscraper office over a stenographer. Pierce shot Blue to death after he had been stabbed with a paper knife.

Blue walked into the ninth floor office of Pierce, state manager for an insurance company, and began drafting a statement obligating Pierce to break all relations with Miss Irma Tarrant, 21, until a week ago Pierce's stenographer. Further the 35-year-old insurance man would have to pay all debts of the girl.

Threat of Death

When Blue read this latter provision, Pierce, he told authorities in a statement later, said: "I can't sign that." Blue, 35, a stationary salesman, said with an oath, "You'll sign it or I'll kill you," Pierce asserted.

Then, the statement recited, the salesman grasped a paper knife and began slashing Pierce.

"I couldn't stand there and let him kill me," Pierce told the authorities. "I grabbed a pistol out of my desk and shot him twice."

Warnings Made

To what extent Blue was interested in Miss Tarrant was not learned. Pierce declared he didn't think Blue had known the girl more than a week. Blue, it developed, however, had taken her to her former home in Bullard, Texas, last Sunday.

Since Tuesday Blue had been conferring with Pierce, warning him to give up the woman. This provision, Pierce said, he was willing to accept, but he would not contract to pay all her obligations.

Pierce has two children. His wife joined him after the trouble.

Blue was unmarried and lived at a fraternity house. His father is the Rev. Henry B. Blue of Tuskoma, Tenn., and his brother the Rev. Willard Blue, pastor of the Blakemore Methodist church at Nashville, Tenn.

Eaker Asks Permission For Third Panama Trip

SAN ANTONIO, March 20. (AP)—Capt. Ira Eaker has asked the army air service for permission to make a third attempt to fly between Brownsville, Texas, and Panama from dawn to dusk, he revealed tonight. Eaker arrived here this afternoon from Brownsville, whence he had come from Tampico, Mexico, where his second dawn to dusk effort had ended in failure due to bad weather conditions.

OIL COMPANIES TO CONSERVE

WASHINGTON, March 20 (US)—Private oil companies have agreed to limit 1929 production to that of 1928, President Hoover was informed today. The details of this conservation program have not been made public.

Escaped Prisoner Goes Back to Leavenworth

KANSAS CITY, March 20. (AP)—Hays Van Gorder, who forged his way out of the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., today was returned to that institution from Kansas City by two guards.

When Van Gorder was searched at the county jail before departing for the federal prison a small handcuff key was found concealed in his clothing. The key would fit handcuffs used by United States marshals and the kind Van Gorder was wearing. Officials said they believed the forger had planned to free himself.

Bank Bandit Is Given Twenty-Year Sentence

MEXICO, Mo., March 20. (AP)—John Bruck, 21, of Kingston, N. Y., was sentenced to 40 years in the state penitentiary today on his plea of guilty to robbery of the First National Bank of Mexico of $34,000 last Jan. 2. Sentence was passed by Circuit Judge W. C. Hughes.

Bruck's companion in the robbery, Tom Dunn of Dallas, Texas, has pleaded "not guilty," and his case was set for trial tomorrow. Willie Hightower of Fort Worth, Texas, was killed in a gunfight which preceded the capture of Bruck and Dunn.

Trainmen Favor Strike In Fort Worth Ballot

FORT WORTH, March 20. (AP)—Partial returns of strike ballots from some 7,000 Texas & Pacific railway trainmen indicate that about 95 per cent of the employes favor striking, it was said in brotherhood circles here today. A large part of the ballots, however, it was reported, had not been returned.

The ballots were distributed after efforts of a federal mediator to settle difference between the company and employes had failed.

Fort Bliss Will Get New Officers' Quarters

WASHINGTON, March 20. (US)—Contract to construct 50 permanent sets of non-commissioned officers' quarters at Fort Bliss, El Paso, were awarded to the firm of Hayward & Netzel of that city, the war department announced today.

The new quarters will cost $238,475 and will be of the bungalow type with tile and brick veneer walls and mission tile roofs.

Decision on Seaman's Liberty Plea Delayed

HOUSTON, March 20. (AP)—J. C. Hutcheson, federal district judge, said today after hearing argument and testimony that he hoped to hand down a decision Monday on the application of John B. Fikes, seaman charged with murder, for a writ of habeas corpus.

The defense contended that the slaying of George A. Leonard, steward on the steamer Endicott, occurred while the ship was docked at LaHarve, France, virtually independent of the tides, and that United States courts did not have jurisdiction.

West Texas Rancher Claimed by Sudden Death

ABILENE, Texas, March 20. (INS)—Arthur Sears, 56, capitalist, ranchman and hotel owner, died suddenly at his home here today. He was active in the civic and industrial affairs of the city.

BATTLE SHOUT ON FOCH'S LIPS AS HE EXPIRES

'Allons'—Let's Go — Last Word of Gallant Military Commander

NATIONAL FUNERAL

France to Honor Memory Of Leader as Few Have Been Honored

PARIS, March 20. (UP)—Marshal Ferdinand Foch, victor in the greatest war of history, lay in state tonight in a plain blue uniform, as simple and as great in death as he had been in life.

Marshal Foch died shortly before 6 p. m. after years of illness from uraemia, complicated at the end by heart and lung disease.

France mourned as a child who had lost a father, and the world mourned with her. The mourning was tempered with reverent affection and bursting pride, and the most glorious funeral in the history of the republic was planned.

TRIBUTE TO CHIEF

Wichita Falls legionnaires paid last respects to Marshal Ferdinand Foch, generalissimo of the allied armies during the world war, who died Wednesday, at the regular meeting of the Pat Carrigan post Wednesday night.

In reverence to the commander, under whom some members of the post served in France, the meeting was closed with all present standing in one minute of silent prayer.

Previously, plans were announced for a membership drive. It was also announced that Paul V. McNutt, national commander, would speak at a mass meeting of ex-service men and other citizens here April 12.

End Comes Suddenly

The marshal's end, while expected, was sudden. He had been sitting in a chair by the window. His nurse ordered him back to bed.

"Allons," said Foch cheerfully. Then, as the nurse turned to pick the patient up, he heard a sharp cry. The marshal's head fell back and he was dead. It was instantaneous and painless.

At the moment of death, the great soldier had by chance uttered the battle cry of the poilus whom he led to victory—"allons"—"let us go"—which they shouted as they went over the top. It is the first word of the stirring battle hymn of the republic, "Allons Enfans de la Patrie."

Flags Near Body

Foch's wasted body was laid out at first in the well-worn and faded blue uniform of which he was fondest and which he often called "my work clothes." Later the uniform was changed to one of dark blue.

He was laid on the plain wooden bed, the hands crossed over the breast, clasping a small crucifix. It contained a tiny piece of the true cross. Above the bed, the intertwined flags of all the allies drooped in silken folds. In his last days, the marshal had loved to reach above his hand and caress them.

Tomorrow the government plans to have the body lie under the great dome of the Invalides, beside France's other great military genius whom Foch admired, Napoleon Bonaparte.

Funeral Saturday

The funeral probably will be Saturday. It will be a tremendous manifestation in which pomp and glory, the ambassadors of all nations and representatives of the great, will be mingled with the humble, tearful tribute of the poilus and the women of France.

Health Certificates for Use Under New Marriage License Law Received Here

Health certificate forms, to be used by prospective bridegrooms in accordance with the new marriage license laws, are already stacked up alongside the Wichita county license book, Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk, announced Wednesday. The law requiring a physician's certificate of health before a marriage license can be issued does not go into effect until June 2, but the clerk's office is already preparing for the new order of things. About 1,000 forms were included in the first order.

The big book which is to contain the blank affidavit forms to be filled out three days before a license is issued when the new law takes effect has been ordered from the printers, Miss Hall announced. The volume will contain about 500 pages.

June brides and bridegrooms must announce their matrimonial intentions three days before the day of the wedding, and the groom must furnish proof of health before the knot can be tied, according to the provisions of the law passed at the recent session of the state legislature.

Evicted Governor and Former Secretary

Henry S. Johnston was expelled as governor of Oklahoma Wednesday on charges of incompetency and corruption. Much of the evidence against Johnston was based on his employment of Mrs. Mamie Hammonds as confidential secretary, the former governor's foes contending that Mrs. Hammonds was the governor-in-fact. Johnston defended his relations with the woman secretary in his long tenure on the witness stand. Shortly before the trial opened in the senate Johnston broke with Mrs. Hammonds and later announced that if he was exonerated he would not employ her again.

A. ZUNDELOWITZ SERIOUSLY ILL

Pioneer Wichitan Reported In Critical Condition

Word has been received here of the critical illness of A. Zundelowitz, financier, philanthropist and pioneer of Wichita Falls, at the home of relatives in Santa Monica, Calif.

The aged capitalist, for whom the Zundelowitz Junior high school is named, is in a very weakened condition following an attack of pneumonia, according to a letter received here by Mr. and Mrs. Lester Jones.

Mr. Zundelowitz, who came to Wichita Falls almost 40 years ago, later retired from business and devoted himself to philanthropic interests, among them an active leadership in the Zundelowitz boys clubs. He left Wichita Falls for Santa Monica about five years ago.

American Citizen Is Executed by Mistake

McALLEN, Texas, March 20. (UP)—A tragic error which was said to have led to the execution of an American citizen by a firing squad of federal troops near Mier, across the border from here was reported today by the sheriff of Starr county.

The victim's name was Felix Gonzales. He was said to have been mistaken for a Mexican but the sheriff says he has established his American citizenship. Mexican officials made no statements about the reported execution and it could not be learned why Gonzales was killed.

American Shot Trying To Flee Juarez Jail

JUAREZ, Chihuhua, March 20. (AP)—W. W. Garner, 31, an American resident of El Paso, Texas, was shot in the heel and suffered fractures to one leg and both his arms when he jumped or fell from the wall of the Juarez jail last night. Garner, police said, was arrested for drunkenness and he was shot when he was found scaling the jail wall in an effort to escape.

Gay Spring Opens Officially With Today's Dawning

"... and the green grass growing all around, etc. Hoopla and What Ho! ..."

Toss away all restraint, everybody, and you'll be in the right spirit today—for today, remember, is the official beginning of spring.

"Trails, allay-opp, and all the rest. Pounce on your harps, poets; and oil up the old flivver, sheiks, for today is the beginning of the whoopee era."

And it only lasts three months.

Now the above explanation of spring is alright for you and me, meaning the average citizen, but these guys called "scientists" leave out the hoopla part of it and resolve the beginning and ending of spring into a bookwormish enunciation.

For you and me—to use the phrase again—when spring begins, vitality shakes hands with laughter and prances defiantly down the street; and when it ends, the dripping pocket handkerchief mops the perspiring brow once every second instead of once in a while.

But for the astute ones, spring begins "when the sun enters Aries, the first sign of the Zodiac, on or about March 21; and ends with the summer solstice, on or about June 22."

Now Aries, and the summer solstice, of course, can be better explained in this manner—

But who cares?

Spring is here because we feel it.

"... and the green grass growing all around, etc Hoopla and What Ho!"

Prisoner, Freed, Gets Lit On Jail Brew, He Says

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 20. (UP)—Fifteen minutes after his release from jail, where he had spent six months for drunkenness and vagrancy, Thomas MacGreagor, 65, was arrested today on a drunkenness charge. MacGreagor said he procured liquor in the jail before he left, explaining the inmates manufactured liquor by "splitting" shellac with water.

HOUSTON, March 20. (AP)—Capt. William Christi, 90, cotton factor, former city alderman and member of Hood's Texas brigade, died at his home here today. For 80 years he had been a resident and had played a prominent part in social, business and civic affairs.

REBELS START TWO ATTACKS

Mazatlan, Port City And Naco Are Objectives

MEXICO CITY, March 20. (UP) Gen. Jesus M. Aguirre, who conducted the rebellion in Vera Cruz and was forced to evacuate after federal forces arrived, has been captured at Agua Catille, Vera Cruz, according to a telegram received from Gen. Manuel M. Acosta.

He was captured this afternoon by Gen. Elidoro Hernandez and returned to General Hernandez's headquarters to await court martial, the telegram said.

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, March 20. (AP)—Attacks by rebels on two federal strongholds in western Mexico appeared in preparation or under way tonight. Information received here late today indicated an attack was being launched by Gen. F. R. Manso on Mazatlan, Sinaloa seaport town, held by Gen. Jaime Carrillo for the government. At the same time Gen. Fausto Topete, governor of Sonora, announced plans to proceed against Naco, Sonora, held by Gen. Cas Gonzales, tonight or tomorrow morning.

Previous knowledge that skirmishing was in progress near Mazatlan was confirmed in a message to General Topete from General Manso, recently sent south to take charge of rebel troops in that region, which said simply "I am attacking Mazatlan."

General Topete answered with congratulations and stated: "I will attack Naco tomorrow morning."

NACO FEDERALS PREPARE TO FIGHT

NACO, Sonora, Mexico, March 20. (AP)—Gen. Cas Gonzales took charge of Mexican federal forces here today while American troops, in business-like fashion, drew up artillery to positions along the border in what was generally interpreted as preparations for a clash between Mexican rebels and Indian forces formerly under the command of Gen. Augustino Olaches.

Convict Given Full Parole by Gov. Moody

AUSTIN, March 11. (INS)—Gov. Dan Moody today granted a full pardon to Andrew Behrens, convicted in San Saba county of assault with intent to kill. A 90-day furlough was given to Henry and Bowie Barber, negro brothers, under a 15-year sentence for the murder of another negro. Governor Moody is studying the recommendation of the pardon board for a full pardon in the case.

Mexican Accused of Slaying Mason Sheriff Places Blame on His Pal

MASON, Texas, March 20. (AP)—Antonio Chavez, an excited, gesticulating little Mexican from San Antonio, turned state's evidence today and accused his companion, Otilio Herrera, of the murder of A. T. Murray, Mason county sheriff and tax collector, near here Feb. 20.

Chavez, charged jointly with Herrera for the slaying, for which Herrera is being tried, spoke through an interpreter before a crowded court room. His testimony climaxed a day of state testimony, in which 36 witnesses, including several eye witnesses, told of events surrounding the slaying of the popular officer.

The state rested at 5:30 p. m. and the defense had introduced only one character witness when court adjourned.

Sheriff Murray was shot to death when he and Herrera struggled for possession of a pistol, Chavez said. After the shooting, the witness declared, Herrera fled in the automobile owned by the two Mexicans and left Chavez to shift for himself afoot.

Chavez said he and Herrera were

7TH GOVERNOR OF OKLAHOMA FOUND GUILTY

General Incompetency Basis of Ouster of Sooner Executive

NINE CHARGES DEAD

Johnston Exonerated On Most of Indictments By Legislature

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 20. (UP)—Henry S. Johnston, seventh governor of the state of Oklahoma, was ousted from office by the state senate today on impeachment charges of official incompetence and corruption.

The vote was 35 to 9.

The ouster vote was taken on the charge of general incompetency. He was exonerated upon the other nine charges voted against him.

The suspended governor paid keen attention as each of the 44 senators rose to announce their votes. His face brightened perceptibly as the votes of his nine supporters were recorded. He appeared to be expecting the result, despite his statement of yesterday that he was confident of acquittal.

Mrs. Hammonds Present

Johnston was surrounded by his friends as court adjourned. He promised a statement to the press tonight regarding his future plans. Mrs. Johnston would not comment. Mrs. Hammonds was in the gallery during the balloting. She was not among those who shook hands with the governor.

W. J. Holloway, lieutenant governor, was sworn in as Johnston's successor after the court had completed its vote on the impeachment charges. Holloway had been acting governor since Johnston was suspended two months ago.

H. Tom Kight, political enemy of Johnston, made the closing plea for the suspended governor's conviction today. Kight was one of four legislative leaders styling themselves the "four horsemen" who started the movement for the abortive session of 1927.

Johnston had been suspended for nearly two months following the vote of impeachment against him by both houses of the Oklahoma legislature. The impeachment followed a political storm over Johnston's head which involved him and Mrs. Mamie Hammonds, his confidential secretary.

38-Day Trial

The trial before the senate body lasted 38 days, during which the governor spent seven days on the stand in defense of his administration.

Johnston's removal also marks the passing of Mrs. Hammonds, who, it was alleged, dominated the governor's office. This allegation first was made in the attempted impeachment session in December, 1927.

It caused the so-called "owe lamb" rebellion and led to the impeachment charges in Johnston's trial.

JOHNSTON OUT AS GOVERNOR

Oklahoma Executive Found Guilty by Senate

Johnston's suspension Jan. 21, now takes the chief executive's chair and will serve the incompleted term which expires in January, 1931.

Johnston, sitting at the counsel table, appeared unmoved when the removal vote was announced. Mrs. Johnston, sitting at his side, took the verdict in like manner.

Nine Charges Dropped

After the vote on the charge of incompetency was taken, the nine remaining charges were considered. He was exonerated of all the other charges against him.

Although impeachment agitation had been started against other of Oklahoma's seven governors, Johnston was the second one ever tried and the first to fight his battle to a conclusion.

Jack C. Walton was removed by the senate in 1923.

Ten charges of incompetency and corruption were made against Johnston, a vote on any one of which would have meant his removal.

Incompetency Charged

The chief counts were "general incompetency," based upon the alleged dominance of his office by Mrs. Hammonds, and his clemency acts, and "illegal issuance of deficiency certificates."

A charge of excessive use of power, founded on Johnston's breaking up of an incipient special session against him in January, 1928, by use of troops, was dropped.

Johnston's two years in office were filled with bitter political strife beginning almost from the day he opened his inaugural address with a prayer for divine guidance.

The factional fight was generally blamed on Johnston's refusal to dismiss Mrs. Hammonds, whom her enemies charged with "running the governor," dictating patronage and highway affairs.

Mrs. Hammonds took over her office as confidential secretary, a capacity Johnston especially created for her, almost simultaneously with his inauguration. Throughout the storms of protest, she remained at her post.

She and Johnston had met during their activities in state Democratic politics and likewise during their work with such fraterial orders as the Ku Klux Klan and Kamelias.

Johnston's platform upheld the klan, which order was reported to have withdrawn its support in the latter months of his administration after Johnston endorsed Alfred E. Smith for the presidency.

In the fall of the year he took office, a crisis developed and numerous house and senate members, led by the so-called "four horsemen of the house," chief opponents of the governor, met in an attempted special impeachment session.

Charges Quashed

After voting charges against him in a downtown hotel while clad in night gowns and pajamas, the house was "chased home," but the senate remained to quash the charges in an overnight switch.

A year of dissension and unrest followed. Johnston and Mrs. Hammonds were the center of the legislative revolt which was climaxed when the regular session started this January and the impeachment effected.

Johnston was indignant. He pleaded not guilty and named his accusers as "disappointed persecutors." Mrs. Hammonds resigned when his trial started.

Names of 18 Filed For Rural Trustees

The names of 18 candidates for election as trustees in the rural school districts of Wichita county on April 6 have been received in the office of the county judge, Burl Bryant, county superintendent, announced Wednesday afternoon. The candidates are submitted upon the petition of any five residents of each of the districts. All petitions must be in the hands of Judge John P. Marrs on or before March 26.

Bus Hearing to Open Here on Friday

Fifty Operators Are Expected at Banquet

A hearing before representatives of the state railroad commission on the proposed purchase by the Wichita Falls Bus company of the C. C. Wells bus line from Vernon to Amarillo has been set for 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, March 22, at the Kemp hotel, according to R. E. Dorsey of the Southern Bus company here.

Dispatches from Austin about two weeks ago announced the date and place of the hearing, and at the home of T. C. Wynne, head of the Wichita Falls Bus company, it was stated that the deal for the Vernon-Amarillo line had been completed, pending approval of the state authorities. The hearing will be conducted by Mark Marshall, director of the motor bus division of the state railroad commission, it was said.

A gathering of approximately 50 owners and operators of bus service in the territory between Fort Worth and Amarillo is expected at a banquet to be held Friday at 7 p. m. at the Kemp hotel for a "good will" meeting, Mr. Dorsey stated. Besides Mr. Marshall, who will discuss "Rules, Regulations, and the Value of Careful Driving," the meeting will be addressed by Guy Shields of Austin, president of the Texas Bus Owners' association; R. C. Bowen, of Fort Worth, president of the West Texas Coach company; J. C. Carrington, secretary-manager of the Texas Bus Owners' association, and a number of local business men. Invitations have been extended to L. L. Albritton, manager of the Wichita Falls Traction company; James W. Chatham Jr., traffic and industrial manager of the chamber of commerce; Mayor J. W. Akin, George D. Fairtrace, city manager, and others, for the banquet Friday night.

BATTLE SHOUT ON FOCH'S LIPS

Gallant War Leader Succumbs to Illness

who loved him. To the soldiers he was not only a leader but a father, and to France he was a saviour.

Paris throbbed tonight in the hold of an emotion not equaled since the soul-stirring days of the war. Gaiety ceased. Great throngs gathered silently in the Rue de Grenelle, where Foch's house stands, and in nearby streets. Many wept. Others prayed. The churches opened their doors to throngs who came to pray for the repose of the marshal's soul.

Highest Honors

Foch will be buried with all the honors, and more, accorded to a president of France who dies in office, as was done in the case of President Felix Faure.

Madame Foch will fix the time and place of burial. Unless Foch especially has stipulated in his will that he be buried at his family home at Tarbes, in the Pyrenees, or his favorite country retreat in Brittany, he will be laid either in the Pantheon alongside Victor Hugo, Voltaire and other immortals, or in the Invalides alongside Napoleon.

During the early evening, Foch's body lay in extreme simplicity. He was unadorned by any of his dozens of medals, with the exception of the ellow and green ribbon of the French military medal, granted to soldiers wounded in action or who displayed unusual valor.

Later the medals were pinned to the uniform. His marshal's baton was laid alongside him and the marshal's sash was placed across his breast. The faded uniform was replaced by one of dark blue, and his overcoat was folded across his feet.

The marshal's aides, Majors Rene L'Hopital and Charles Bugnet, with two nuns and a priest, kept vigil by the body. Madame Foch wanted to join them, but her two daughters insisted that she rest.

The presence of the priest, the Rev. Father Doncoeur, a Jesuit, was a dramatic reminder of the war. Father Doncoeur was one of Foch's closest war-time friends. He arrived this evening and would not be denied the privilege of sitting by the body. Father Doncoeur won undying fame as a regimental chaplain of foot-troops at the front. When the colonel was killed, the priest tore off his cassock and ran to the head of the troops, shouting them on. He captured the town of Maurepas and held it against a German counter-attack.

Only the nurse was in the room when the marshal died, so sudden was his end. Madame Foch was seated in a chair outside the bedroom, conversing with the wife of Gen. Pierre Desticker. Foch's two daughters, Madame Becourt and Madame Fournier were in the house, having been recalled to Paris several days ago when their father's condition became alarming. Foch's only son died for France in the war.

The doctors and a priest were summoned but they were too late. Extreme unction was administered, however, as is customary if a patient dies before the priest arrives.

Father L'Hande, Foch's confessor, told the United Press:

"Unfortunately I arrived too late. He was already dead when I reached his side. Marshal Foch did not suffer greatly, but he was completely worn out by his two months of struggle against the disease in his heart, lungs and kidneys.

"I gave him extreme unction 10 days ago and tried to cheer him, saying 'You know you're soon going to get better.' He waved weakly towards the sky and said: 'Heaven—that's where I am going.'

"Marshal Foch is now dressed in the uniform he loved best, not the fancy full-dress of a marshal but the worn clothes of which he was so fond.

"Ten days ago the marshal spoke to me of America, saying that he appreciated the sympathy of the Americans as manifested in hundreds of telegrams and letters arriving daily. One of his last gestures then was to wave towards the American flag hung over his head."

End Oily, Sallow Skin

A little Calonite powder sprinkled on a wet cloth and rubbed gently over the face each night ends shiny, oily skins—puts new life into sallow skin, and cleans the pores of all dust, dirt and prevents blackheads. It makes the skin feel refreshed and bright, so you will enjoy a good night's rest.—Adv.

PEOPLE ARE CRITICAL OF A PIMPLY FACE!

No longer do people pity a person with pimples or other displeasing skin blemishes. In fact they are apt to criticize and avoid such a person, because pimples are usually a sign of carelessness and neglect.

If you want to be admired for a clear, healthy complexion ask for Black and White Ointment and use it according to directions. It is pleasant to use, highly beneficial and scientifically safe.

For best results use Black and White Skin Soap with Black and White Ointment. All dealers sell them at small cost.

HOW TO FIGHT EXCESS FAT

There are hard ways, like starvation, but fewer and fewer employ them. There is a pleasant way, modern and scientific, which combats the cause. A vast number of people now use it. And the slender figures now seen everywhere are largely due to that.

That method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. And everybody, in almost every circle, sees the change. New beauty, new health, new vitality.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So users have no fear of harm. Learn the facts about Marmola, because of the good it has done. Ask your druggist—now—for a $1 box with the book. Then decide.

DRUGGISTS END MEETING HERE

Next Convention Goes To San Angelo

More than 300 representatives of the retail drug business in West Texas who opened the semi-annual convention of the West Texas Retail Druggists' association Tuesday afternoon adjourned at noon Wednesday as the West Texas Pharmaceutical association, the change in name having been adopted at the closing session just prior to adjournment.

San Angelo was selected as the meeting place for the next convention, which will be held next August.

The morning session Wednesday was featured by an address given by H. Barkley Jr., of the Western company, Chicago, on the subject of "Planned Selling." The speaker recommended for each retailer a more scientific analysis of the needs of his particular field of trade, the selection of well-advertised merchandise of high quality, and the application of accepted principles of advertising to the display of his stock.

Tom Roach of Oklahoma City, vice president of the National Association of Retail Druggists, addressed the meeting on the work of that organization, and outlined some of the objectives toward which efforts are now being made.

A talk on "Sales Force Efficiency" was given by R. W. Earnshaw of Ballinger. A pre-view of the golden jubilee convention of the Texas Pharmaceutical association to be held in Fort Worth in June, and incidents in the history of the organization since its inception 50 years ago, were given by Walter D. Adams of Forney, secretary. Knox Pittard of Anson, president of the association, had been scheduled to speak on this subject, but was prevented by illness from attending.

John B. Ray, president, of Abilene, presided at all business sessions of the convention which closed Wednesday.

Bullington to Present KGKO Power Claims

Orville Bullington, president of chamber of commerce, will probably represent radio station KGKO and the city of Wichita Falls when the local station's application for an increased power allocation comes up before a hearing before the federal commission at Washington on March 26, according to officials of the station.

The petition which has been in the hands of the federal authorities for some months asks that station KGKO be allowed to broadcast with a power of 1,000 watts, instead of the 250 watts now being used.

A KISS WILL OFTEN TELL YOU

Kissing your children you may learn things about their health the little ones cannot tell you.

Unpleasant breath or a feverish cheek should put you on your guard against illness. Don't worry and don't delay. Just give a dose of California Fig Syrup and, soon the bowels will move; all sour, upsetting elements will be cleared from the system and the child will be well and happy again. Nothing sweetens a sour, bilious stomach so safely; so promptly as California Fig Syrup. Even if you suspect measles or some other children's disease, give a dose of this trusted remedy first thing. The doctor will praise your forethought.

It is the finest laxative in the world for children, and the safest. Children love its delicious taste.

If you have a child who is troubled with constipation or subject to frequent bilious attacks and sick headache try California Fig Syrup tonight, it will save you further worry. Get a bottle of California Fig Syrup, today. All drug stores have it.

California Fig Syrup has been trusted by the World's mothers for over 30 years. That is why the word "California" should be emphasized when buying.—Adv.

traveling toward Mason when they were stopped by Murray, who was looking for persons who had stolen a handbag from a nearby town. While searching the automobile, Chavez said, Murray found some liquor and told the two men they would have to go to the court house with him. Murray stood on the running board, the witness said, while Herrera drove toward Mason.

Herrera suddenly turned down a lane, Chavez said, and when Murray reached for the steering wheel the automobile left the road and went into a fence.

Chavez said he jumped from the car and ran down the road. When a short distance away he heard a shot and turned to see Murray fall, he said. Herrera was standing directly over the officer with a pistol in his hand. Then Herrera jumped into the automobile and fled, Chavez declared.

D. Gibbs, former sheriff of Mason county, told of arresting Herrera the day after the shooting. He said Herrera took him to a point about eight miles from Mason where he had hidden two pistols, the sheriff's and his own, and three kegs of whisky.

J. E. Grimland, Sonora, finger print expert, testified that prints found on Sheriff's Murray's pistol were made by Herrera.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practic, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, billiousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispoeitions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

Many is the family today that makes it a rule always to have a bottle of this perfect preparation in the house. Keep it handy and observe these three simple rules of health; keep the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open.

Why not try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin today?—Adv.

TOMB OF DAVID MAY BE FOUND

Excavations May Discover Crypts of Kings

JERUSALEM, March 20. (UP)—The tombs of King David and those who came after him in the monarchy of Judah may soon be brought to light.

That is the belief of the Rev. C. B. Mortlock, who has come to Palestine to report on the progress of archaeological excavations on the site of the city of David.

Beneath the surface of the rock the excavators have found a series of five communicating chambers, Mortlock said. They are hewn out of the solid rock. The walls have been finely tooled to a smooth surface, and they are approached by a staircase cut with marvelous precision into the rock.

"They tally well with what is known of the royal tombs," Mortlock said. "The chambers have been used through successive ages, with the result that nothing remains but the relics of their last occupants, the Arabs."

There is considerable evidence, Mortlock said, to support the belief that they are the ante-chambers to the tomb of David.

Not only are they near the wall and the gate, as recorded in the Bible, and at the royal or citadel end of the city, but they answer to the description and allusions of Josephus.

In the "antiquities of the Jews" it is related how Herod rifled one of the chambers of the tomb and took away a great deal of money. "And yet," says Josephus, "neither of them came at the coffins of the kings themselves, for their bodies were buried under the earth so artfully that they did not appear even to those that entered the tomb."

In a later chapter he tells how Herod "had a great desire to make more diligent search and to go further in, even so far as the vary coffins of David and Solomon. But two of his bodyguards were slain by a flame tht burst out upon those that went in, as the report went, so he was terribly frightened, and went out and bluilt a propitiatory memorial in white stone at the mouth of the tomb at great expense, to mark the fright he had been in.

"A large stone platform at the mouth looks just the place to support such a monument," Mortlock added.

Death Toll in Tragic Stage Fire Now at Five

HAVANA, March 20. (AP)—Five young society women in Sagua la Grande have died from burns received while taking part in a tableau at a dancing club on Sunday night.

Seventeen girls were dressed in flimsy costumes, in the tableau. A small child carrying a lighted candle is reported to have brushed against one of the number, setting fire to her clothing. The flames quickly spread to the others and enveloped them before the startled spectators could go to their aid.

One of the young women died within a short time and four others died last night. The remaining 12 are in a serious condition.

IMMIGRATION ROW PREDICTED

Fight for Repeal of Origins Clause Seen

By KENNETH G. CRAWFORD

WASHINGTON, March 20. (UP)—A fight for repeal of the national origins clause of the immigration law will be waged at the special session of congress starting next month, leaders predicted today.

Since the enormous weight of President Hoover's influence will be on the side of those favoring repeal, they may be successful despite the combined efforts of powerful patriotic organizations working against it.

The clause, which provides for computation of immigration quotas on the basis of the theoretical national makeup of this country's population rather than the census figures of foreign countries, was passed by congress several years ago but its effectiveness has been postponed from year to year pending collection of the necessary population data.

Another postponing resolution was adopted by the house at the last session but Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, prevented concurrent action in the senate by a last-minute filibuster.

This left it up to Mr. Hoover to issue a proclamation declaring the national origins clause operative and Attorney General Mitchell has advised him that he cannot legally avoid this obligation despite his opposition to the system.

The proclamation must be issued on or before April 1, but the plan does not become effective until July 1. This allows ample time for opponents of the plan to make a fight for repeal of the clause before it becomes effective as congress is scheduled to meet on April 15.

The immigration controversy is expected to be one of the liveliest of the special session. On all other issues, the Republican majority will have its way almost unchallenged but sentiment appears fairly evenly divided on national origins.

Party politics are not involved. Most senators and representatives are guided by the organized national groups predominent in their constituences.

School and College News

Special staff pins recently ordered by the staff for the Wichitan, arrived Wednesday morning and were distributed to members of the staff.

Members of the Junior college senate held a brief meeting Tuesday night prior to the one-act play, "A Cabin Courtship," which was held in the college auditorium.

Dick Long, former president of the Junior College Senate, told members of the organization interesting facts he saw in the house of representatives during a recent visit.

The meeting was held at 7 o'clock instead of the usual 7:30 time of meeting, so that members of the organization could see "A Cabin Courtship," a three-act comedy which was held in the college auditorium on the same night.

U. S. PROPERTY IS ENDANGERED

Fear for American-Owned Mexican Holdings Held

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON, March 20. (UP)—Great damage to American-owned property in Mexico may result from military maneuvers there, in the opinion of persons familiar with past revolutionary disturbances.

Brig. Gen. George V. H. Mosely's departure for the New Mexican border and the dispatch of a small body of his troops from Fort Bliss to Columbus, N. M., suggested the possibility that rebel forces in the north may be driven back to the American border.

Similar situations have occurred in previous rebellions. In one instance, retreating rebels withdrew into the state of Chihuahua. Feeling that their cause was lost, the troops began to desert and drifted west in large detachments to the American Mormon community near Galena where much damage resulted from their depredations.

The Mormon holdings are valued at almost $3,000,000. Nearby is the $2,000,000 ranch of William Randolph Hearst. In the northern states are many large American mining properties.

The movement to Columbus recalled the Villa raid on that city in 1916 and the subsequent punitive expedition into Mexico conducted by Gen. John J. Pershing, which failed in its effort to capture the Mexican bandit.

This movement today and Mosely's journey to Columbus may indicate a definite policy by the war and state departments regarding rebel attempts to obtain sanctuary on the American border if hard pressed by federal troops. Columbus is about 70 miles west of El Paso.

The state department made it known today that this government's policy of permitting the Mexican government to obtain war munitions here would not be changed because of bombing of Mexican cities by federal airplanes, with the accompanying possibility that Americans or other foreigners might be injured.

City Council P.-T. A. Meeting Held At Memorial Auditorium Wednesday

The Memorial auditorium was the scene Wednesday morning at 9:30 of the most interesting meeting of the year for the association, when the city council P.-T. A. was held there. Mrs. T. H. Lawson, president, opened the meeting with the Lord's Prayer.

After a lengthy discussion of ways to suppress bad literature on Wichita Falls news stands, the following committee was appointed to investigate means to this end: Mrs. Homer McGregor, chairman; Mesdames R. H. Graham, Walter Cline and R. P. Willis.

Mrs. C. R. Roberts, county council president, gave an appreciation of the cooperation the city P.-T. A.'s were giving her in the county work. Mrs. Solon Downing explained the county demonstration club work.

Officers Accepted

The nominating committee, composed of Mrs. Paul Barnett, chairman; Mesdames Walter Cline and J. L. Wade, submitted a slate of new officers which was accepted. New officers are: Mrs. R. P. Willis, president; Mrs. H. J. Strief, vice president; Mrs. O. H. Karr, recording secretary; Mrs. T. H. Lawson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. H. Murff, treasurer, and Mrs. H. R. Cloughley, publicity.

A motion was made and adopted to follow exactly the rules and regulations of the state and national hand book.

Mrs. Frank Creighton, district president, gave an outline of the program of the district convention to be held at Vernon, March 26, 27 and 28, and urged every president to have her quota of delegates on hand.

Bluebird Luncheon

Committees were appointed to make plans for the Bluebird luncheon to be given in the Zundelowitz cafeteria, May 1 at 1 o'clock, honoring the out-going and incoming officers of the various P.-T. A.'s, all standing committee chairmen and chairmen of City P.-T. A. council. For this occasion, Mrs. Harry ten Brink was named general chairman; Mrs. T. H. Lawson, tickets; program committee, Mrs. Fred Barron, chairman; Mrs. R. A. Lincoln; menu committee, Mrs. Z. Parks, chairman; Mrs. Mary Sutherland, Mesdames J. Z. Steinkonig, O. H. Karr and C. P. Warman; decorating committee, Mrs. W. T. Westmoreland, chairman; Mesdames C. A. Morris, Albert Owen, N. J. Newby, H. O. Newton and Paul Barnett.

A good report was given from presidents of each school. Mrs. Charles Crowell, president of Crockett P.-T. A., stated they had $432.60 in the treasury and they also observed father's night.

Mrs. W. T. Westmoreland, president of Benjamin Franklin, reported $207.48 made on their recent annual carnival. Sam Houston and Junior College gave outstanding reports.

Those attending the meeting were: Mesdames G. Galmiche, C. H. Mosly, C. B. Clement, R. D. Bone, H. Strief, Harry ten Brink, A. H. Owen, Charles Crowell, W. T. Westmoreland, Paul Barnett, R. H. Graham, O. H. Karr, W. L. Goodson, R. A. Lincoln, W. N. Ferrell, T. N. Muirhead, J. A. Gardner, J. C. Steinkoenig, J. T. O'Steen, Frank B. Creighton, J. Solon Downing, C. P. Warman, J. L. Ware, G. L. Gray, R. E. Phillips, W. D. Cline, Homer McGregor, G. S. Bays, S. A. Covington, W. Roberts, Francis E. Bone and Fred West.

Easter Motif Is Luncheon Feature For Hostess Day

Hostess day at the Woman's Forum was spring incarnate on Wednesday afternoon. There were approximately 130 guests at the tables in the main auditorium. The stage setting was suggestive of Easter morning, with a huge egg held upright by two bunnies as centerpiece, and baskets of flowers and cages of birds adding color and beauty. A curtain draped the center of the egg, and through this entrance a bevy of lovely girls and handsome matrons, styled for W. B. McClurkan & Co., wearing the lovely gowns exhibited to the appreciative audience. Music was given all through the luncheon hour.

An added feature of the entertainment was the program of dances given by the pupils of the Tucker School of Arts. These included doll dance, Fanny June Seay; French polka, Lois Merle Baubert; highland fling, Peggy June Shoop, and "Funny Melody," Faith Galmiche. The dances took turn about with the styling of the morning, afternoon, sport and evening frocks, and furnished a most interesting hour for the Forum members and their guests.

Huey Pre-School Circle to Meet

The Huey pre-school study circle will meet at the home of Mrs. C. W. Woodword Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Miss Sutherling will have charge of the meeting and will give an outline of the six lessons to be taken. This club was organized with a membership of 14 of the Huey P.-T. A. All mothers are welcome.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, March 20.—A Los Angeles woman divorced her husband, a golf loser, because the game made him grouchy and she couldn't live with a grouch.

Some poker players wives do that.

But you seldom hear of a woman divorcing a gambler who won heavily! That always seems to take some of the sin out of the game.

Matrimony, like golf and poker, has its bad losers. Women who love success, and because they didn't pick it out, blindfold, trot off and get a divorce.

Few women stop to consider that every man who becomes a great success in life, is aided and abetted by some woman, who followed his efforts with a brave heart and constant encouragement, even if she didn't know much about the business in hand.

A woman looks at her neighbor's husband and says: "Why aren't you like that man?"

Sometimes the right answer is: "Because you aren't like his wife."

Nine times out of 10, the man who will not stay at home is not comfortable there, physically or mentally.

He is not approved of, well fed, or physically comfortable.

No one has yet been able to make a gay society man out of a tired business body. Ever so many women have tried, only to find their men fretting, grouching, or kicking over the traces.

One man's protest was: "I don't like society. I like to eat with people I know."

Mme. Ganna Walska is all whooped up with joy because New York state now gives a married woman "legal recognition of a separated domicile."

This makes it much easier for women who would marry money. They can stay an ocean away, at which distance the ball and chain is practically noiseless.

It would be enlightening if they would state specifically at weddings, just what it is that women "love, honor and obey." Certainly it's not always the half with the spats and the lily-of-the-valley in its buttonhole.

But this is a very rainy day, and a glance at the day's news was depressing. So very many marital misdeameanors recorded that when I saw one golden wedding picture, I wondered what the age is, at which it is no longer considered advisable to go back and take a fresh start. Probably the age of discretion, if anyone ever arrives there.

'MEAL DIGGERS' INFEST ISLE

England Now Has Equal Of 'Gold Diggers'

By GERTRUDE LADY DECIES

LONDON, March 20. (US)—The ways of the modern girl surely are strange. England, which chided America for developing the "gold digger," has introduced the meal digger.

No one can ever see an American film here about a "gold digging flapper" without hearing the inevitable old lady in the next tow exclaim, "Thank heavens, English girls don't behave like that."

But, the old lady is all wrong. While it is virtually impossible to carry on "gold digging" over here—with all the giving of expensive gifts and skirting of scandal that the phrase implies—an English variety has arisen, more intensive than that in America, to which the name "meal digging" might well apply.

Many Out of Work

Girl who have been professional partners at night clubs have been enduring the distressing time. Hundreds have been thrown out of work by the closing down of many of the London night clubs. It was these girls who, seeing the closing down impending, began filling their address books with the names of their dancing partners. And the custom soon spread to girls of a far better class.

The meal digger resolutely takes up her address book and tries perhaps a dozen phone numbers until she finds a man who will listen to her plea that she is "so bored and lonely" all by herself. At a party, she works equally hard, rushes her acquaintance, and makes him name the evening when they meet—and when she will "work" him for a first-rate dinner and a dance, the expense of which will probably not be covered by less than $25.

They'll All Fall

It is amazing how few meals girls who are experts at this new art ever pay for. The essential qualities are a thick skin and a bit of persistence.

And the girls who used to accept "tips" in the night clubs are soon going to fall for the gifts that their gentlemen friends are bound to proffer. This, too, is destined to spread to girls who previously recognized the conventions. And then England, as America, will be infested by the gold digger, and the old lady in the movie theater will soon see her mistake.

Original Numbers Mark Program At Writers Luncheon

The writers department of the Woman's Forum held the regular monthly luncheon and program in the dining room of the Forum Wednesday at 12:30 o'clock. In the absence of the chairman, Mrs. H. F. Weldon, Mrs. E. C. de Montel, vice chairman, presided.

After the business meeting and the reading of the minutes of the February meeting, Miss Juanita Kinsey and Mrs. Curtis Atkinson gave the program.

Miss Kinsey introduced into an artistic original monolog three of her pupils, who gave poems, declamations and prose written by their teacher. Every number was well given and enthusiastically received.

Mrs. Curtis Atkinson gave a group of her own poems, showing remarkable versatility.

At the close of this program, Mrs. B. C. Nicholson conducted the monthly quis on the Forum magazine advertisements. Mrs. Henry C. Fulcher won first prize and Mrs. Claude Williamson second. Mangel donated the handsome prizes for the occasion.

JELLIES AND JAMS FROM THE STORE

Make the Whole Meal More Enjoyable

Jams, jellies and preserves are marvelous energy foods for children, athletes, and all physically active people. In addition to that, they make the whole meal more delicious. They are appetizing spreads for bread, accompaniments for meats, and tasteful additions to toast, muffins and hot breads.

Another good thing about jams, jellies and preserves, all grocers today carry them. These bought foods are delicious. Their purity can be depended on. They contain appetizing fruit acids, and beneficial minerals and vitamins.

Thousands of women and girls today are permanently injuring their health by dangerous weight reduction. All children should be a little overweight, if anything, as a protection against disease.

It is almost a rule of health that those foods that are made more delicious by sugar are the best for us to eat. Eat daily plenty of cereals, fruits, vegetables and milk, sweetened for perfect enjoyment. See that growing children eat enough regularly. Eat for nutrition and enjoyment. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute. —Adv.

WOMEN STILL KEPT GUESSING

So Best Way to Pick a Man Is Yet Unsolved

How to Hold a Husband's Love—Why Opposites Attract, but Likes Make the Happiest Marriages. Violent Temper Worst Risk in Matrimony.

Dear Miss Dix—I have been observing the home life of two couples of young married people who are friends of mine. They are about the same age, the men make about the same amount of money and they move in the same social circles. Mrs. A. demands and gets the best clothes, a car, an expensive apartment handsomely furnished. She gives parties they cannot afford and runs her husband into debt. Every night she makes him go to some place of entertainment, no matter how tired he is. She lies abed in the morning while her husband gets his own breakfast, and if she doesn't feel like getting dinner, he has to take her out to a restaurant. She berates him often in public for not making more money and mourns about the things she has to do without.

Mrs. B. is just as good looking as Mrs. A. She dresses nicely, but not extravagantly. She co-operates with her husband in trying to save so that he can get along in the world. He comes home to a cheerful atmosphere, a tidy wife, a good dinner, and if he doesn't feel like going out in the evening, Mrs. B. is satisfied just to be a fireside companion.

However, it seems to me that Mr. A. appreciates his wife far more than Mr. B. does his. Mr. A. seems to think that nothing is good enough for his wife and he is always breaking his neck to please her. Mr. B. is good to his wife, but takes her for granted.

I am about to marry and I want to know how to hold my man's love. Which way is the better? Shall I imitate Mrs. A.'s methods of Mrs. B.'s? PHYLLIS.

Answer—Well, Phyllis, you have asked me the most unsolvable conundrum in the world and the answer to which neither I, nor any other woman, has ever found out. Every since the first woman acquired a husband and had to deal with that strange, illogical and contradictory creature, every succeeding woman has spent her life trying to decide whether the best policy was to coddle him or treat him rough, and she still doesn't know. He still has her guessing, for sometimes one theory seems to work out and sometimes the other.

So perhaps it all depends upon the man, and you will have to study the particular member of the species that you get and adapt your campaign to the individual requirements in the case. There are men who are just natural-born slaves and who like being trampled upon by high-heeled slippers. They actually enjoy going shabby in order to dress their wives in silk attire, and get a kick out of her looking like a daily hint from Paris, even when they know the bill collector is hot on their trail. They are poor, weak, spiritless creatures who haven't enough manhood in them to resent their wives flouting them and looking with contempt upon them because they can't make more money, and they are thankful as a stray dog is for a home when their wives give them a kind word.

Undoubtedly, when a woman marries this sort of man, the meaner she treats him the more groveling he is before her, and the more he tries to placade her by showering attentions upon her and doing as she pleases, without ever considering his own comfort or pleasure. That is why it very often seems to women that the worse wife a woman is, the more her husband loves her.

Not all husbands have this meek and self-abnegating spirit, however. Not many men marry to get a boss or a tyrant, or a female Simon Legree who will lash them on and get every particle of work out of them, and who will never show them any unselfishness or consideration or appreciation.

Not many men stay in love long with wives who do not make comfortable homes for them, or who ruin them with their extravagance, or who drag them around to parties when they are dog-tired, or who bawl them out before people because they are not go-getters, or who are fretful and whining and complaining.

So I should say that if you want to keep your husband in love with you and eating out of your hand, the better way is to keep it filled with taffy and not vinegar. What the average man wants is a wife who will play the game 50-50 with him, who will make him a comfortable home, who will save his money, who will keep herself neat and attractive, and bright and interesting, and who will show him that she loves him and thinks him the best ever, and that she did a pretty good day's work when she got him.

After all, you have your own self-respect to consider. You have to be right with yourself and feel that, no matter what your husband does, you've turned out a good job as a wife and given him a square deal. You can't feel that way if you have been a Mrs. A.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Do you believe in the maxim that opposites attract, and that we should marry those who are entirely different from us in character and disposition, as well as physically. Unfortunately I had to leave school at an early age, but I have supplemented that by spending my spare time reading and studying. Lately I have met a girl who has all the virtues which would fit her to make a good wife, except that she has no interest in the things that interest me most. She never even reads the newspapers. We can't discuss a book, and we don't understand each other's jokes. Do you think such a marriage would turn out well? W. S.

Answer—Absolutely not. I think you would bore each other to death inside of three months. As soon as you quit asking each other "Oose sweetums is oo?" and "Are you sure you never loved anybody before, and would die of grief if anything should happen to me?" you would have nothing on earth to say to each other.

It is true that there is an attraction of opposites. That is nature's way of preserving a good general average and keeping the human race from becoming a race of giants and pygmies and morons and highbrows, but there is also a repulsion of opposites that makes people who have nothing in common with each other break down every barrier to get away from uncongenial companionship.

The happiest couples are those who, as somebody has said, marry themselves, and who have husbands and wives who think as they think, who live the things they like, who read the same books and hold the same views on everything from politics to pie. What we want in a life partner is some one who will agree with us and applaud us, not some one with whom we will be a continual scrap and argument.

Why, half the pleasure in being married is to have some one across the breakfast table to whom you can look up from your paper and say: "I see that Lindbergh is going to be married," or "Mrs. Hoover has a new dress," and who will catch all the points of your witticisms. You don't want to have to sit opposite a Dumb Dora all your life who will say: "Lindbergh? Is that the name of that new automobile with the wire wheels?" Or ask if it is Mrs. Hoover on Spruce street you are talking about.

If you have to diagram your jokes for your wife, you will go through life as lonesome as a stray dog. If you like to read, don't marry a woman who isn't a reading woman. She will badger the life out of you about wasting time and money on books.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Would a young man with a violent temper be a good matrimonial risk if he had no other fault? I. A. M. A.

Answer—I do not consider that any other fault that either a man or a woman can have makes them as bad a risk as a violent temper. It makes them unjust, unreasonable, cruel, almost impossible to live with. If you marry a high-tempered man, you will have to stand abuse and insult, and go in terror all your days of rousing the devil in him. Don't do it. No woman was ever happy with a violent-tempered husband.

'HAPPIEST MAN IN TOWN,' HE STATES

C. H. YATES

"I am the happiest man in town now. I am up and going at five-thirty every morning and feeling fine. I told my wife that Sargon was the first real, honest-to-goodness medicine I ever got hold of.

"I was lame and sore all through my back, and had rheumatic pains in both shoulders. I could hardly raise my arms and every joint felt like it was tied in a knot. In the mornings I felt like I just could not get up, and would take two or three hours of just 'dragging around' trying to get going.

"My appetite was away off and my food disagreed with me. I was nervous; could not sleep good and felt all fagged out. I got so bad off a few months ago that I was down in bed for four weeks. I spent lots of money trying to get well, but nothing did me much good. It took only a few bottles of Sargon to fix me up and now I feel great all over. My appetite and digestion are good again. Those rheumatic pains are all gone and do not keep me awake at night.

"I have suffered with constipation for twenty years and had to take a laxative every two or three nights, but I have never found anything that stimulated the liver and regulated the bowels like Sargon Soft Mass Pills.

"You can bank on me telling other people about the Sargon treatment. I have told a good many people already and will be glad to talk to anyone that comes to me."

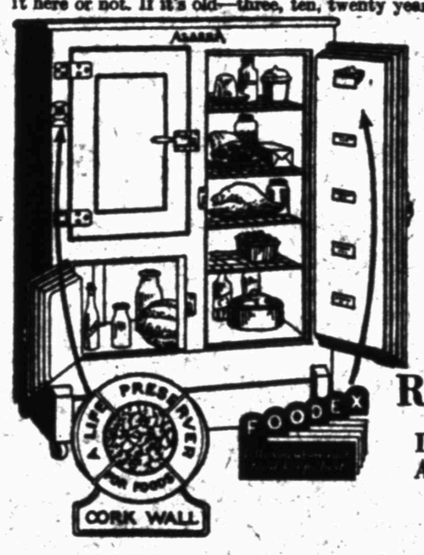

The above statement was made by C. H. Yates, of 1407 East Morphy street, Fort Worth. He has lived in that city for twenty years and is well known.

Sargon may be obtained in Wichita Falls from the Renfro Drug Co., Eighth and Scott streets, No. 1, main store, and Seventh and Indiana, No. 2; and in Electra from Lough's Drug store.—Adv.

Daily Editorial

ELIHU ROOT, erect and unseamed at 84, has safely arrived at Geneva, where he and associate hard-nut crackers are laboring to render international relations stress-and-strain-proof.

Members of the Dodo club, hibernating about tropics and cowering at the reports of home weather, will please note that Mr. Root is none the worse for his mid-winter voyage or activities.

He sees no reason why any man, in full mental prime, should retire from affairs to a hot-house. Or pack up an unimpaired mind with camphor-ball attitudes.

His brain is still hitting on all cylinders. There are no squeaks in his frame; and America hasn't yet noticed any signs of wear in the transmission of his thought.

He's too busy scanning futures to mourn over mile-stones.

He retains vigor and vision, because constant service keeps his batteries charged and head-light bright.

The human body, like any other machine, corrodes and disintegrates in idleness. Rust is a much swifter destroyer than attrition.

Gladstone, bearing the burdens of empire to the end of his unfaltering career, thrust wit as fiercely, and parried counter-politics as shrewdly as in youth. He still molded history at four-score.

Voltaire strode in full genius and blossom to his nonogenarian goals.

The Wallop in the Jones Bill

YOU have probably heard the story going the rounds about two bootleggers who met on the street. "How about this Jones bill?" one bootlegger asked the other, so the story goes. "Why, hasn't Jones paid that bill yet," the second bootlegger is credited with replying.

Some bootleggers may be that ignorant of legislation but those who do know hardly regard the bill with such nonchalance.

The new federal law known as the Jones bill which provides that federal judges may impose a five year prison sentence for a violation of the liquor law has a powerful wallop in it and is causing those enguged in the illicit liquor traffic much concern here and elsewhere, according to reports in this newspaper.

The new law cannot be expected to stop the liquor traffic but even before any penalties are imposed it is causing some bootleggers to quit the business and others to be more careful to whom they sell.

It is a question as to whether too severe penalties do not often prevent convictions. In fact it has worked out this way in the enforcement of the Texas state prohibition law which provides penitentiary sentences for violation of the Dean law. Jurors have been unwilling to return convictions in many instances because of the severity of the penalty made mandatory. This has caused the legislature to amend the law reducing the penalties and this amendment is now on the governor's desk awaiting his approval or veto.

But the procedure in federal courts and the maximum and minimum of the penalties is different from that of the state courts. In the state courts the jury fixes the punishment, and heretofore under the Dean law there has been nothing short of a penitentiary sentence that could be imposed. In the federal court the judge fixes the penalty, and under the Jones law the maximum penalty is fixed at five years in the federal prison, and no change is made in the minimum penalty which may be a nominal fine.

If, under federal procedure, the jury assessed the penalty and the minimum was a prison sentence we could not expect federal jurors to do much different than they do in the state court; that is, fail to return convictions until the severer penalty was a hindrance rather than a help in the enforcement of prohobition.

It is in the retention of the low penalties while at the same time permitting the judge to assess a heavy maximum that there is terror to the bootlegger in the Jones bill. The judge can assess a light penalty or a heavy one as he thinks the case deserves. A good many bootleggers are evidently afraid that they may get their just deserts.

More Effective Measures Needed

REGARDLESS of the controversy over the overtime parking law the city of Wichita Falls ought to take more effective measures to stop the thieving and robbery that is going on in the residential districts of the city.

Thousands of dollars worth of property has bee nstolen from homes in the city in recent months and there is a feeling that the city is not giving much protection against such occurrences.

Even with the most effective measures these robberies would be hard to stop, but there is not much chance of their being even checked without some system of patrol, whether on horse, motorcycle or automobile.

And such a system of patrol cannot be inaugurated without the expenditure of additional money. Even the abolution of overtime parking ordinance would not permit enough men to be diverted to night patrol to do much good, even though it might help some.

What it seems to us is needed is a frank recognition of the situation and a willingness to expend the funds that may be necessary either to scare off the robbers or to catch them and place them where they belong.

231 Miles an Hour

TWO OR THREE DAYS after Major Segrave set a new auto speed record by traveling 231 miles an hour on the sands at Daytona beach, Lee Bible demonstrated the risks of that sort of "sport" by killing himself and a photographer when the car in which he tried to break Segrave's record went out of control.

It is hard not to believe that this sort of thing ought to be discontinued forever. Pleasure and commercial cars already can go as fast as anyone in his sense wishes. Surely the automotive engineers do not need these speed tests in their researches. They serve no good purpose, as far as the layman can see, and they inevitably cause frequent tragedies.

The powers in the automobile world would do well to call a halt.

LAMONT'S PROHIBITION ATTITUDE

Is Secretary of Commerce Lamont a wet? He has tendered his resignation as a director in the association against Prohibitions. This is a wet organization. Furthermore, Lamont has resigned about 30 important jobs to become Secretary of Commerce. He is a trained engineer, but he is a big pillar in the national chamber of commerce building, a banker of standing, a manufacturer of importance and the personal friend of the president. It appears that the Association against Prohibitions has lost one of its props.

$75 A YEAR FOR EACH RAT

Brenham announces that all rats in that region will be killed or forced to leave the country. To kill all rats is some job but one worthy of the serious consideration of all men. The rat is a nuisance anywhere the human family finds him. He requires approximately $75 per annum for his keep in consumption and waste, he spreads disease and is repulsive to look upon. All things considered, the rat is unworthy of the cost entailed and universal effort would rid the nation of his presence. Let everyone declare war on the rat family.

Where the "Boot" Pinches

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, March 20—As an example of the wide geographical range of visitors to the city, consider this lineup of registrations made in the Hotel McAlpin in one hour:

Randolph Stover, Fairbanks, Alaska; Sebastian Montre, of Switzerland; Rudolph Arikiev, Constantinople; M. J. Mi Segre, of Milan, and not to mention others from Dubuque, Iowa; Fon du Lac, Wis., and Albuquerque, N. M.

Other large hotels in New York, including the Hotel Pennsylvania, the Ritz, the Commodore and the Roosevelt, have guests from all parts of the earth. For that matter, so does the Miles hotel in Bleecker street, which has a maximum charge for rooms of 50 cents a day and caters to those who find themselves in a serious financial fix upon arriving in the city.

A rather unobtrusive inconspicuous looking man, was strolling through Broadway the other night. He was jostled about freely in the crowds and few paid attention to him. Others, more gaudily dressed, passed by and drew attention because of their compelling appearance, although they probably were nothing more than third-string actors out of jobs.

This man that received no attention, because, I suppose, there was nothing flamboyant about him, happened to be Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur. And Dr. Wilbur happens to be president of Leland Stanford university, as well as a member of President Hoover's cabinet.

At a musical recital in Town hall the other night I didn't succeed in noticing any famous patrons or exponents of classical music. The only ones I recognized were people of the literary world.

In one group were J. P. McEvoy, Wallace Irwin and Mrs. Brentanno, wife of the publisher. Sitting rather aloofly from everybody was Theodore Dreiser who, I understand, is a great lover of Bach. This was a Bach night and Dreiser seemed enraptured. His hair grows whiter each day.

Sunday night in Carnegie hall provides an example of the number of ardent music lovers in New York. Usually seats have to be placed on the stage to take care of the overflow. There is a smaller music hall, Steinway hall, which caters frequently to those who wish to make their debut as concert soloists. Young and hopeful students of the piano and the violin display their talents in this small hall and all their friends and relatives fill the place to cheer them on. It takes on some of the color of a debut into society. The big difference is, however, that while society is bound to accept the young plebe, the world of music does not necessarily pay attention to her. Not the social graces, but artistic achievement is her only hope of being accepted by the dictators of musical eminence.

Prof. John Erskine of Columbia university presents the spectacle of a man whose love for music is as great as his interest in literature. The author of "The Private Life of Helen of Troy," "Galahad" and other books which present the modern view of ancient heroes and heroines, is also known as a distinguished pianist.

When he lectures Professor Erskine usually passes up discussion of literature and gives his platform time to a consideration of music. And instead of reading excerpts from his manuscripts he plays pieces on the piano.

Percy Marks, the author, was in town the other day. He looks a great deal like Newton D. Baker, the secretary of war in Wilson's cabinet. Woodrow Faulkner, the cartoonist, is such a remarkable imitation of Wilson himself that theaters have offered to have him appear on the stage in playlets written about Wilsonian episodes.

Other resemblances: Grover Whalen, the police commissioner, looks like the well dressed movie villain; Otto Kahn looks something like Clarence Mackay, the Postal Telegraph head, only Mackay is a great deal taller and heavier than Kahn; Mayor Walker bears a faint resemblance to the late Mayor John Purroy Mitchel; Fourteenth street looks like the average main street in a medium-sized city.

The success magazines might consider Bennet Cerf as good material. He is now head of Random House, the publishing firm. Cerf started in life as a reporter. He made some success but not much money. Then he invaded Wall street and piled up a modest fortune.

With his fortune he went back to his first love: literature. But instead of writing he bought the Modern library from Horance Liveright, the publisher, and now he neither has to experience the poverty of his reportorial days nor the confining routine of Wall street.

TURKEY STILL FORGES AHEAD

Contract for Fourth New Brick Building Let

TURKEY, Texas, March 20.—The contract for the fourth brick building now under construction was let today by J. H. Young, to Claude Gipson, local contractor, for the erection of a 25 by 40 brick and tile building. The building is expected to be completed within the next 30 days and will be occupied by the May Battery company of Hollis, Okla.

Work started Saturday on Turkey's $30,000 sanitarium, on the corner of Second and Alexander street. This will be a two-story structure of 23 rooms so constructed that an additional unit of 23 rooms can be added when time demands.

Brick and material has been placed on the ground and work started on the $12,000 garage being built by J. A. and F. A. Johnson at the corner of Main and Evie streets, which will be occupied by W. A. Marshall, local Whippet dealer.

The Cypert building on main street is nearing completion and within the next week or 10 days will be ready for occupancy.

Plans are now being perfected for the erection of some three or four other brick business houses. Contracts will possibly be let within the next week or 10 days.

The building campaign and demand for business houses in Turkey continue to increase. Much new development is in line for the spring and summer. Prospects were never brighter at this time. The Rock Island locating surveyors have just recently surveyed their line through here and it is the opinion of those who are in position to know that Turkey is certain of this new railroad, making Turkey the distributing and concentrating point for this vast section.

Bumper Wheat Crop Is Forecast For Silverton

Special to The Record News.

SILVERTON, Texas, March 20.—The wheat crop in Briscoe county is looking very promising at this time. With a good season during the month of April, there will be a bumper yield made. More farmers used improved seed and prepared a much better seed bed for this crop than in previous years. They are beginning to see the value of improved farm practices along this line.

Seed bed preparation for row crops is well under way. Planting of feed and cotton will be under way by the last of April. Several car loads of improved farm machinery have been shipped in and placed among local farmers this winter which enables them to make much better preparation for this year's crops.

Mrs. Gene Buckner, dressed as a negro woman, gave a negro dialect reading. The musical entertainers were Joe Bush and Bill Childress, radio artists.

Burk Police Chief Recovers From Injuries

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, March 20.—Bill Garland, chief of police of Burkburnett, was returned to his home after remaining in the General hospital at Wichita Falls since early Sunday morning of last week. Mr. Garland was injured while attempting to halt Oklahoma bandits that were crossing the Red river bridge. He was thought to have been fatally injured at the time of the accident, but after being forwarded to the hospital it was found that no serious injuries had been received. He is improving rapidly at his home, and will probably be back on the job in a few days.

Burk Church Opening To Be Celebrated

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, March 20.—A grand celebration will be held for the opening services of the new Church of Christ building now under construction, according to Willis Kreager, pastor of the church. The various churches of the city will participate in the gathering. The new building is a well constructed model composed largely of brick. Brick work has been completed and interior construction is now being completed. An inspirational program will be obtained, although no definite plans have been made.

PRAISE FOR BRANCH'S DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Editor, The Record News—Thank you for the David Branch "Philosofy," as he calls it. In Monday's edition we missed it. But the one in this Tuesday morning Record News is much to the point of judging and condemning others.

If we who judge or speak evilly of another would stop a moment for a little self-examination and and ask, What in me is stirring up this animosity? (for that is what is being done; the other fellow is not being judged at all) he would discover he is committing a similar error to the one so harshly judged. "What thou seest is what thou beest" says the ancient philosopher. "And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?" asks the Master.

I heard a man of large affairs roundly berating prohibition, claiming (with a peculiar lack of logic), more liquor is sold, and as a consequence more crime is committed than ever before; and a lot of other lies and half-lies, about it. Of course this was not a Wichita Falls business man. His manner and language was so immoderate I questioned to myself, What makes him so vicious toward the enforcement of prohibition laws? What has he been doing and what is he now doing that his conscience tells is not right? Why does he resent the law? Shortly after that I heard enough to know it was not the prohibition laws he resented—it was his own questionable acts, and fear of Christian business ethics. His awakening sense of right was arguing the truer way. There is hope for that man.

David Branch's kindly philosophy often provokes self-examination and correction. If he sticks to the law and gospel, for they act as one, his philosophy will do much good.

ELIHU ROOT'S PLAN OPPOSED

World Court Reservation Displeases Senators

WASHINGTON, March 20. (UP)—The new reservation drafted by Elihu Root for American adherence to the world court will meet with opposition in the senate, it was learned today.

The reservation, designed to take the place of the senate's previous conditions to adherence which were rejected by several League of Nations members, was approved Monday by the league's commission of international jurists.

Dispatches from Geneva reported foreign diplomats confident the Root formula would be readily accepted by the senate, but senators remaining here for the recess between sessions were not all so confident. They were unwilling to be quoted, however, until they have had an opportunity to study the text of the Root reservation.

Opposition Feared

The opinion was privately expressed by some that Root's conditions will not be as satisfactory to the advocates of American isolation as the original senate reservations and that the new plan will encounter formidable opposition.

This opposition is expected to be led by Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee, who believes this country should keep out of the court unless its power of rendering advisory opinions is removed completely.

The entire question of American participation in the court concerns its advisory opinion power. The fifth of the original senate reservations provides the court shall not give an advisory opinion on any matter in which the United States has or claims an interest. The Root formula goes a step farther by specifying that the United States may withdraw from the court if it objects to consideration by the court of any question on which the body has been ordered by the league to prepare an advisory opinion.

The Root reservation must not only be ratified by the senate, but it must be approved by the league council and by every member of the league.

Procedure Disagreement

Senators are in disagreement over the procedure to be followed. Friends of the Root proposal hope to consider it at the special session starting next month, while opponents are prepared to fight for delay until the next regular session in December.

The administration's attitude toward the Root reservation is not yet known. Although it is argued Root probably received the state department's approval of his final draft before he agreed to the commission's action, senators in close touch with the department have not been informed that such approval was given. Root's first proposal was considerably changed before it was finally approved by the commission.

If President Hoover favors the Root reservation, it is generally believed it will be ratified eventually by the senate despite the anticipated opposition of Borah and his followers. Only a handful of senators voted against adherence on the basis of the original reservations. Hoover is regarded as friendly to the court.

Donley County Women Attend Demonstration

Special to The Record News.

CLARENDON, Texas, March 20.—Seventy-five women members of Donley County Women's clubs attended a demonstration given by Mrs. D. R. Barnes, clothing specialist of A. & M. college, at the woman's club room in the municipal building here. Mrs. Barnes took for her subject the "House Dress." She was assisted by Miss Minnie May Grubbs, local district agent, and Miss Harvey Thompson, county demonstrator for Donley county. Several new clubs have been organized by Miss Thompson in Donley county in the past month and are ready to start the work of the new year. More than 15 clubs are now in operation in the county and the new ones organized are expected to swell this number.

SUPERINTENDENT OF FERGUSON ICE CREAM PLANT TALKS

"I Have Gained Six Pounds in Weight and Think That Value Cannot Be Overestimated for Orgatone," Said Wichita Man.

"I sincerely think that you can't overestimate the value of Orgatone," said J. W. Shield, of 2213 Yale, Wichita Falls, Texas. For the past four years Mr. Shield has been the superintendent of the Ferguson Ice Cream plant, and is well known all through this section of Texas.

"For eight years I have suffered with digestion troubles. My stomache got so weak and out of order that there was very few things I could eat, and what I did seemed to do me more harm than good. Gas formed and I was continually belching up sour, undigested food. The gas pressure was so heavy on my heart, at times I couldn't take a deep breath. I had terrible headaches and was constipated, and was extremely nervous, and sometimes felt as if I would go distracted. I never got very much rest at night and was very restless.

"Since I began taking Orgatone, I have improved greatly. I have honestly gained six pounds in weight and am much stronger. I now eat anything I want, and am not bothered with my severe headaches. I'm not as nervous as I was, and that is saying a lot. The gas doesn't bother me as it did and my breathing is back to normal. My constipation has been relieved. I have recommended Orgatone to my friends and several have taken it on my recommendation and are getting satisfactory results. It is a good medicine."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other stimulating drugs and is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by the Allison's Drug store, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative. Out-of-town customers are being supplied promptly by mail upon receipt of price, one bottle $1.25 or six bottles for $6.25.—Adv.

Examining Your Doctor

Many who read this daily health column have been discouraged in their search for health because they have gone from one doctor to another without receiving permanent health. Many of the letters I receive from readers are filled with criticism of doctors. Many ask me to publish parts of these letters, but I do not have the space nor the inclination to do so, and my readers will continue to find this column filled with the best constructive advice I can give and with very little criticism of the methods or beliefs of other members of the healing art. Yes, I use the word "art" advisedly, for the treatment of disease cannot be called a science, as it is said that mathematics is the only exact science, although even now Einstein has almost convinced us that we have been wrong in the assumption.

Physicians are human and as such have more or less of that something which we call finite knowledge. Among the allopaths, homeopaths, osteopaths, chiropractors and naturopaths there are probably as many dishonest men as in any of the other professions, trades or vocations; also, just as many doctors who would make better plumbers, and also as many plumbers who would make better butchers.

The doctors of the different schools have essentially the same training in such subjects as physiology, anatomy, and the diagnosis of disease. They differ only as to their method of treatment. The wise doctor of any school knows that nature is the great physician, and that the best he can do is to teach the patient how to remove those things which are interfering with the healing power of nature. The allopath or homeopath may employ drugs for this purpose; the osteopath or chiropractor may attempt to assist nature by removing such interference in a mechanical way, and the naturopath principally through hydrotherapy and dietetics.

From my viewpoint, when the patient selects a physician he should do so with regard to the physician's skill, and his local reputation for results. Also another equally important point is that the physician, however greatly skilled in bringing about a temporary cure, should also have a definite philosophy about correct living so that the patient placing himself in this physician's hands will be further guided in his eating, exercising, thinking, etc., to insure a permanent and lasting cure.

Patients should be and usually are grateful for any relief given them through the skill of their physician, but the masses are slowly but surely coming to a knowledge that their physician should be a teacher of right living to prevent illness. These are the doctors of today who have the long waiting lists.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Liver and Pancreas

Question—V. E. T. asks: "Would a diseased pancreas cause disorder of the liver or a diseased liver cause a diseased pancreas? It seems that in my case both organs are affected, causing aching of the lower limbs, backache, can't lift heavy weights, a burning of the urine, very nervous, a sallow color, with sometimes boils and abscesses. A liver stimulant helps, but has to be taken regularly. The doctor says it will not do to drain the liver that often."

Answer—The liver and the pancreas do affect each other, but the use of a correct well balanced diet would doubtlessly adjust the trouble you have which apparently starts from overworking the liver through the use of too much food. Try cutting down your amount of food to a third, and for a time eliminate starches, sugars and fats.

Pepper and Horseradish

Question—R. F. B. asks: "Is pepper harmful to the system. Is horseradish a good vegetable to eat or is it harmful?"

Answer—I do not advise the use of pepper. Horseradish may be used to a limited amount with a protein meal but should not be used with starches because it stimulates too much hydrochloric acid in the stomach.

Heart Burg

Question—Mrs. McD. writes: "I am 59 years old and suffer almost continually from heart burn. Sometimes I have very serious attacks, with smothering; have had attacks of cramps in muscles of legs, usually at night, and it seems worse after a hard day's work. What would you suggest?"

Answer—You are probably suffering from indigestion due to faulty food combinations. The symptoms you describe may come from this excessive flatulence affecting your heart. Have your heart examined and if the trouble is there, write me again, giving me your full name and address and I will send you an article explaining how to help the heart through curing flatulence.

EVERYTHING BUT NERVE

NEW YORK.—Lawrence Green had all the requisites for a holdup, except nerve. He had owned a revolver and ammunition for four months, but they were useless as long as he couldn't bring himself to the point of commanding "hands up." So he turned the "hardware" over to Patrolman Kashufa, at the Tombs, and received in return a cup of coffee and sandwiches, to say nothing of an appointment with Magistrate Bushel for violation of the Sullivan law.

ESKIMOS STARVING

QUEBEC.—Plans are under way to feed some 200,000 half-starved Eskimos in that portion of Labrador which belongs to the province of Quebec. W. W. Cory, deputy minister of the interior for the federal government, recently appealed to Premier Taschereau, for food and supplies to aid in the work of relief. Poor fishing and hunting in the district is held responsible for the extreme distress of the Eskimos.

Two Black Crows

MORAN AND MACK

MORAN: Today's th' day, Big Boy.

MACK: Today's what day?

MORAN: Th' first day o' spring.

MACK: What's that?

MORAN: That's when everybody is happy.

MACK: Why?

MORAN: Because spring is here.

MACK: What! Again?

MORAN: This is th' first time it's been here this year.

MACK: What detained it?

MORAN: Th' birds is singing' an' th' grass is bloomin'.

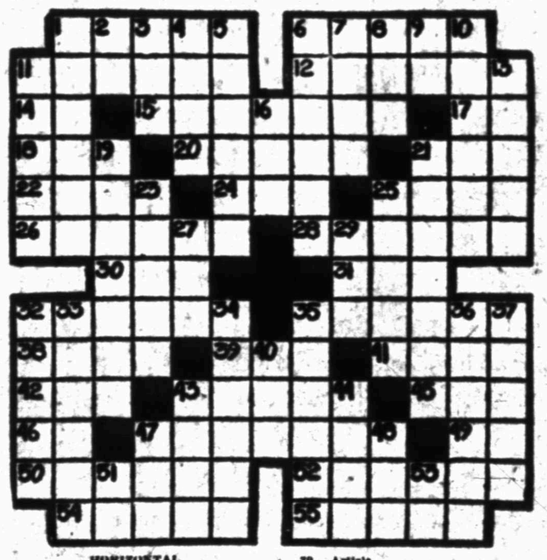

MACK: If I got to eat grass I don't want music with my meals.

MORAN: Boy, I feels like whistlin'.

MACK: So does a punctured tire.

Somehow, Egghead can't get Big Boy worked up over the advent of glorious spring. Big Boy has a thermometer on his back that says it is still winter.

SPUDDERS TURN ATTENTION TO GAMES WITH OKLAHOMA CITY

TULSA CONTEST IS RAINED OUT

Second Tilt at Abilene Is Halted by Downpour

The Spudders, that is, those who made the trek to Abilene, returned home early last night, with one victory over the Tulsa Oilers to their credit. Heavy rainfall yesterday prevented the second contest of the series and enabled the athletes whom Jim took with him to get back home early.

Two victories and one defeat in three tilts with class AA and A clubs is the very excellent record of the athletes to date. That includes the dividing of a two-game series with the St. Paul Saints here.

Wichita Falls tossers will work out today and tomorrow, with extensive batting drills to be featured, in preparation for exhibition clashes here Saturday and Sunday with the Oklahoma City Indians of the Western league.

The showing of the Spudders in beating the Tulsa club, champions of the Western league, was highly satisfactory. Rookies comprised practically the entire Wichita Falls team in the game at Abilene, except for Bob Snyder, catcher and Red Bennett, left fielder. Yet they played errorless ball in beating the Oilers, 5 to 2.

Dallas Clements continues to look good at bat, and the first baseman clouted a home run to drive home a teammate. Les White, the larruping pitcher, also smashed a circuit clout.

Les and Chick Galeria held the Oilers to seven hits.

Skipper Jim wants to win exhibition games. These contests cost nothing in the standings, of course. And he doesn't expect a player to over-exert himself. But he does like to win, as is the case with any good baseball man, and he is pointing his athletes to the series with Oklahoma City with the idea of winning both and breaking even at the worst.

Close Bouts On Boxing Program

Hall and Scott Win; Crowd Sees Interesting Card

Closely contested bouts with stirring action featuring the main scraps were seen by a pleased crowd last night at Alex Ross' weekly boxing show at the Palace theater. It was the largest crowd of the winter season and was well repaid by interesting bouts.

Cyclone Hall and Speedy Sparks, meeting in a return mill following victory of the latter in their first go, fought 10 rounds in the final bout. It was contested on near-even terms, with Hall having the shade. The Cyclone opened a cut under Speedy's eye in the seventh.

Howard Scott scored a decisive victory when he defeated Joe Hooks of Tulsa in 10 rounds of the other half of the double windup. Hooks kept trying all the way and though outfought forced Howard to his best to win.

Rudy Hodge and Tommy Scott stepped six fast rounds to a draw. They are lightweights. Jack Coker, light heavy, stopped Charles Russell in the third round.

Wood Forced Out Of Speedboat Race

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 20. (AP)—Gar Wood, veteran speed boat king, was forced out on the third lap of his first defending race against the British entry of Major H. O. D. Segrave this afternoon in the Biscayne bay regatta when the Miss America VII broke a steering quadrant. Wood was leading a half lap when he was eliminated.

Segrave completed the 12 mile sprint in the time of 11 minutes, 9.38 seconds. His average speed was 64.537 miles per hour.

City to Build Fence Around Garbage Dump

The entire area on which the city dump is situated will be fenced in for protection against scattering of trash by the wind and the wandering of stock over the dump grounds, George D. Fairtrace, city manager, said Wednesday.

About 40 acres of land, which includes a little more than four acres around the incineration plant which was recently acquired by the city, will be included in the land enclosed by the city.

They Will Decide Heavyweight Title Question

Here is the trio from which Madison Square garden expects to fill the heavyweight title throne vacated by Gene Tunney. Signing of Uzcudun by the garden paves smooth road for a pair of projected elimination battles at Yankee stadium. Sharkey is to meet Paulino June 27, the winner to go against Schmeling in September. Schmeling probably will meet Jimmy Maloney at Boston soon after he returns from Germany.

The SPORTLIGHT

By GRANTLAND RICE

(Copyright, 1929, New York Tribune Inc.; Trademark Registered, U. S. Patent Office)

Another James J. Possibility

Starting from James J. Corbett and James J. Jeffries, on through James J. Tunney, the name of James J. Braddock has a fine chance to hold its place in the fistic headlines of future days.

What chance has Braddock to reach the top? It depends largely on none other than James J. Braddock. He is game, cool, a good boxer and a good puncher. A lot of hard work can do the rest of it. He needs about ten more pounds, which he can get. He is as big as Tunney was at that age. What he also can use is a lot of hard work with his left hand, for it was only by long, hard work that Dempsey built his left into a trench mortar. Another detail that will help Braddock, or any other fighter, is greater speed. He might have a talk with Jim Corbett about this matter. Corbett worked up the best pair of legs the ring has ever known, but only after following a schedule that no fighter today would even touch. Hours at rope skipping, shadow boxing, quick starting, practice at jumping in and out, making a point of greater speed in everything he did. Twenty per cent more speed would make Braddock about 30 per cent more formidable. Fast transportation that can wheel your artillery into firing position is a big factor.

Braddock is a fine possibility. All he needs to keep climbing is the patience and capacity for correct and consistent development — day by day, not every now and then. Maybe he has the capacity. The next move is to apply it, just as Jim Corbett and Jack Dempsey did.

The Other Four

Just a few years ago there were four star possibilities for future heavyweight greatness. They were Jack Delaney, Paul Berlenbach, Jimmy Slattery and William L. Stribling.

Today three are out of the picture for good, and the fourth, Stribling, has barely more than a shadow of a chance, even though he is only 24.

Three of these at least had more physical qualifications than Gene Tunney knew at the start. If they had had the same capacity for work, the same determination to arrive at the top, possibly two of them today would be leading the rest of the field.

There may be no great amount of class to crowd out of the path, but certainly no heavyweight even today is going to wish himself to the top.

Not With McCarthy

A reader enters his belief that the greatest handicap the Cubs face this season is the fact that nearly everyone has picked them to win. "That is sure to lead to overconfidence and a lack of the old hustling," he adds.

Not with Joe McCarthy on the bench and Hornsby in the field. Outsiders may be taking a lot for granted, but McCarthy isn't. He is a driver as well as leader, and so is Hornsby. If the Cubs take a flop, it won't be because McCarthy let them get away with any indifferent effort.

For that matter, there are too many well matched clubs in the National league for any one to stand out with any notable margin to spare.

Giants, Pirates and Cardinals will never be far away. Neither will the Reds. Any one from this bunch may set the pace for a while, at least. The Reds were travelling at fast clip last spring when Red Lucas was injured, and that made more difference than most of the onlookers knew. Lucas is a big help, anywhere you use him, pitching, playing the outfield or driving in runs. There is almost no better all-around ball player in either league. He also can play the infield well enough, if an open gap calls for his work around second base.

"What are the main qualities that make a star golf player, such as young Horton Smith?" asks H. S.

First, a knack for the game. A natural aptitude in that direction that all stars need. Next, the correct way of hitting the ball, which means control of certain leading fundamentals, bringing about correct team play between arms and body.

It has been said there is no standardized form in golf—but there is.

You can see it in footwork, balance, unison of wrist action. They may grip differently and have different stances in addressing the ball, but the leading fundamentals remain about the same for all the top notch players. Another big factor is the proper mixture of concentration and determination, with a set of nerves that don't start jumping sideways under pressure.

Horton Smith seems to have all the needed combinations. He is one of the few young golfers who have come along with the ability to play consistently well. Many of them can turn on the flame for a round or two, or perhaps for a tournament. But Smith has kept the flame burning up various courses for or five months.

RAIN CHECKS TEXAS CLUBS

Steers and White Sox Halted in 4th of 3-3 Tie

DALLAS, March 20. (UP)—A downpour of rain curtailed what was developing into a great ball game between the Chicago White Sox and the Dallas Steers here this afternoon and the score at the end of the first half of the fourth inning, when the game was called off, was tied at 3 and 3.

Adkins and Berg worked for the Chicago club.

The rain also spoiled the afternoon for a large crowd of ladies attracted to the game by the first free gate offer of the training camp season.

PANTHERS IDLE; TO PLAY TODAY

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, March 20. (AP)—No game; rain. This sign was hung on the gate at the ball park at Weatherford today, and the Fort Worth Panthers trooped back to the resort city. The Cats will not lose their exhibition with the Oklahoma City Indians of the Western league. They will return to Weatherford Thursday for the contest.

OLD JUPE STOPS BUFFS, LONGHORNS

AUSTIN, March 20. (AP)—A baseball game between the Houston Buffs and Texas university was rained out today.

PAUL EASTERLING STARTS HIS WORK

BEAUMONT, March 20. (AP)—The Exporter regulars put the yannigans in their place today by blanking them 7 to 0 in six innings. Most of this work was done by Paul Easterling, who pounded one over the left field fence for four bases with three aboard.

PRATT PREPARES TO WIELD AXE

WACO, March 20. (AP)—Manager Del Pratt is preparing to use the axe on the Waco Cub squad. With the infield apparently taken care of by Windle, Battle, Ellis, Meliano and Vigara, and the outer gardens guarded by Rye, Sanguinett and Johnson, Skipper Pratt is preparing to release a flood of recruits.

San Antonio, Fort Worth Cage Teams in Finals

SAN ANTONIO, March 20. (AP)—San Antonio and Fort Worth are scheduled to meet for the third successive year in finals of the state amateur basket ball race, with the meeting of the Kelsay team of Fort Worth and the Elks of San Antonio here Friday and Saturday.

The Fort Worth team holds the North Texas championship while the locals represent South Texas.

Training Camp Chatter

SAN ANTONIO, March 20. (AP)—Judge K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, pulled out of San Antonio today for New Orleans to shake hands with Roger Peckinpaugh and the Cleveland Indians. He said he would return here on April 7.

Between showers the New York Giants had their daily workout and were to top this off with a game with the St. Mary's university Rattlers, but after 30 minutes of play there came a deluge that sent the crowd to cover while the Giants made a beeline for the clubhouse to call it a day, with the score 7 to 1 for the Giants.

BROWNS DEFEATED

LAKELAND, Fla., March 20. (AP)—The St. Louis Browns suffered their first defeat of the spring training season here today when they were nosed out by Columbus of the American association, 3 to 2.

Score:		R.	H.	E.
St Louis	020 000 000	2	6	1
Columbus	002 001 00x	3	6	0

Collins, Ogden and Ferrell, Manion; Jablonowski, Harris and Shinault, Dankratz.

MACKS WHALE REDS

ORLANDO, Fla., March 20. (AP)—The Philadelphia Americans resumed their exhibition series with Cincinnati today and defeated them, 7 to 5. Hassler, Athletic, got a double and a triple.

Score:		R.	H.	E.
Philadelphia	013 000 201	7	13	2
Cincinnati	302 000 000	5	12	0

Breckenridge, Walberg and Perkins; Donohue, Johnson, Kolp and Sukeforth.

PHILLIES TRIM ROBINS

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 20. (AP)—Making their 1929 debut in the grape fruit circuit here today, the Brooklyn Robins succeeded by a score of 6 to 5 as the Phillies broke loose in an eight-inning rally good for five runs.

Score:		R.	H.	E.
Philadelphia	000 100 050	6	8	4
Brooklyn	200 000 030	5	7	3

Sweetland, Dunham, Green and Davis, Susce; Clark, Moss, Koupal and Deberry, Henline.

INDIANS BEAT PELS

NEW ORLEANS, March 20. (UP)—The Cleveland Indians came from behind in the last two innings of their exhibition game with New Orleans today to defeat the Pelicans, 4 to 3. The Cleveland runs came in one at a time, in the third, fourth, eighth and ninth innings. Brown, Miller and Zinn worked the Cleveland mound and held the Pelicans to 10 hits.

CUBS WHALE TIGERS

LOS ANGELES, March 20. (UP)—The Chicago Cubs pounded two Detroit pitchers here today to score a 13 to 3 victory in the first game of their exhibition series.

Sorrell, who twirled for the Tigers for four innings, yielded 10 hits and nine runs. Carroll finished and was hit for four runs. Malone, who started on the mound for the Cubs, held Detroit scoreless until the fifth, when he was nicked for five hits and all three of the tiger runs. Root finished in a breeze.

DUGAN TO SIGN SOON

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 20. (UP)—Joe Dugan evidently has come to terms with the Boston Braves and is expected to sign his name to a contract at any time. He said today he would be covering third base for the Braves when the season opened. Plansky, Messner, Walker and Jones, recruits, were released to the Providence team of the Eastern league today.

RED SOX ARE IDLE

BRADENTON, Fla., March 20. (UP)—The Boston Red Sox had their first enforced rest of the season today when rain prevented the regular workout. Skull practice was conducted by Manager Carrigan, with emphasis laid on the mental attitude of the rookies.

ALEX NOT BADLY HURT

AVON PARK, Fla., March 20. (UP)—The injury Grover Cleveland Alexander sustained when struck on the elbow by a batted ball Tuesday is not as severe as was first feared. Manager Southworth of the St. Louis Cardinals announced today. The veteran hurler worked for 10 minutes in the regular practice and his arm, although sore, is improving.

PIRATES NIP SEALS

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates took a two-run lead in the second inning of today's exhibition game and were never headed, winning from the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast league, 4 to 1.

Garden Leases Polo Grounds

Paulino-Schmeling Winner To Fight Sharkey

NEW YORK, March 20. (AP)—President Carey of Madison Square garden today announced that the corporation had obtained an exclusive lease on the Polo grounds as well as the Yankee stadium for a series of outdoor boxing spectacles in 1929.

At the same time Carey disclosed heavyweight plans, now rapidly nearing completion, called for Paulino Uzcudun, the Spanish basque, to fight Max Schmeling, German sensation, June 27, the winner to be matched with Jack Sharkey on Sept. 26. Both matches are to take place in the stadium.

TASSI WINS ON FOUL

NEW YORK, March 19. (AP)—Nando Tassi of Italy won over George Courtney, the Oklahoma cowboy, on a foul in the third round of their 10-round bout at the Broadway arena tonight. The low blow came after about a minute of fighting in the third round.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROOKIES FLASH

Tulsa and San Antonio Kids Impress Mack and Mac

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK, March 20. (UP)—Unheralded recruits are commanding a great deal of attention at several of the southern training camps. A number of rookies who slipped silently into camp are threatening to win major league berths in their first year.

Connie Mack's best-looking youngster is Bill Breckenridge, a right-handed pitcher who wore the colors of Dartmouth college last year. Breckenridge wasn't even on the Athletics' roster when the club went south, but today Mack admitted he would think long and hard before cutting loose the college hurler.

"He looks like a big league hurler right now," Mack said. "It's still a bit early, but Bill has shown plenty of stuff every chance I've given him and he's certainly entitled to a thorough trial."

In his first two appearances on the mound Breckenridge held the Cardinals to one hit in three innings and the Reds to two hits in three innings. He is the son of a Tulsa, Okla., lawyer, and is himself studying for the bar. He is 22, weighs 180 and is six feet tall.

Another young pitcher who has come from the almost bottomless pit of organized baseball to within hailing distance of a major league berth is Silas Johnson, a 20-year-old right-hander from the Rock Island club in a class D league.

Manager Jack Hendricks of the Cincinnati Reds is not certain but what Johnson is the best of his crop of youngsters. Johnson is unscored on in four trips to the mound.

Veltmann Seems Ready

Art Veltmann, a 23-year-old outfielder who was just the Giants' training camp bat boy at San Antonio, Texas, three years ago, is causing a broad grin to play over the furrowed face of John J. McGraw these days.

McGraw has been looking for a hard-hitting right-handed batter who can play the outfield for several seasons, and Veltmann seems to be the answer to McGraw's prayers. Welsh, Ott, Leach and Roush are all left-handed hitters.

George Susce, the 20-year-old husky who played with the University of Pittsburgh last year, is threatening to make the Philadelphia Phillies' catching staff. Susce broke in with a bang when he challenged Ed Rommel to a fight and actually swapped punches with Bing Miller in one of his first appearances behind the bat in the series between the two Philadelphia clubs.

Shaken Up Boston Nine May Go High as Sixth

(This is the first of a series of articles on the American league pennant race).

By BILL SLOCUM

BRADENTOWN, Fla., March 20. (US)—Consigning the Boston Red Sox to eighth place in the American league pennant hunt has been popular among the prophets of baseball for some years. And the Red Sox have been proving that in one instance at least the dopesters were correct. They have been quite consistent in closing the seasons according to the spring specifications.

Under the conditions it seems only fitting to expect them to do it again. And yet Bill Carrigan's team is one of those mystery combinations, likely to break out and confound the critics. Not so much, perhaps, as the 1926 Yankees, who hopped from seventh position to a pennant, but enough to leave one or two teams in their wake.

Carrigan has done more shaking up during the off-season than has any other manager in his league. He retained the valuable parts of his 1928 ensemble and picked up some experienced performers from majors and minors. He still has far to go before his Red Sox will command respect in the pennant-chasing fraternity, but it would require only a real good season by one of his pitchers to put his team as high as sixth. And more than one of the Carrigan curvers has shown enough promise in the past to make a brilliant showing without exciting any surprise.

Only 14 Holdovers

Of the 35 Red Sox at the Bradentown camp this spring, only 14 were performers at Fenway park last season. During the winter, Myer, Hoffman, Rogell, Rollings, Harriss, Bradley, Griffin, Settlemire and others were sent away. Carrigan retained Wally Gerber, who was his regular shortstop last season, but he is no longer classed as a regular.

Gerber is 37 years of age and must step aside after a long and brilliant career of shortstopping. And young blood is clamoring for recognition in the outfield, where aging legs are proving something of a handicap.

Buddy Myer was the outstanding player of the 1928 Red Sox and Carrigan sacrificed him with the idea of adding strength in three departments. Buddy brought two pitchers, two infielders and one outfielder to the Sox, and any one of the five would cause no surprise by flashing brilliantly. All have capabilities and four have major league experience.

Trade May "Make" Sox

This trade may "make" the Red Sox. Milton Gaston and Horace Lisenbee have been very capable pitchers and both are young enough to come back handsomely after their 1928 disappointments. Grant Gillis and Bob Reeves are young, fast and good hitters whose defensive play may improve enough to win regular places for them with the Sox.

Reeves is being counted on as the regular third baseman, replacing Myer. Bigelow, the outfielder obtained in the deal with Washington, was the leading hitter in the Southern association last season with a mark of .393. And this deal should help the Sox. Carrigan gave up a high-class player, but he got plenty in return, both as regards quality and quantity.

Billy Bayne, veteran southpaw, was obtained from Cleveland during the off-season. Alec Gaston, former Giant and Red Sox catcher, comes back from St. Paul for another try in the majors. Infielders Bob Barrett and Jerry Standaert, who have played with National league clubs, are back again, and Russell Scarritt, hard-hitting outfielder, was obtained in the Harriss-Rogell deal with St. Paul.

Another newcomer to Boston is Hal Rhyne, recently taken from the Mackmen on waivers. Rhyne was formerly withe the Pirates and last season he starred with the San Francisco club.

Pitching Looks Good

With this new material and the pick of his 1928 team, Carrigan hopes to get the winning blend. He has one great pitcher in Ed Morris, who rang up 19 victories last season for a last-place team, and he has four promising young pitchers in Ruffing, Russell, MacFayden and Simmons.

Phil Todt, classy fielder but light hitter, seems settled for first base and the long-hitting Bill Regan for second base. Barrett and Standaert will battle Reeves for third base with Gillis and Rhyne fighting for shortstop. Gerber seems slated for utility work.

In the outfield, Flagstead, Ken Williams and Taitt—the 1928 regulars—remain, but the first two are getting along in years. Jack Rothrock, all-around performer, is listed now as an outfielder, and he, with Bigelow and Scarritt, will battle the first named trio.

The Sox were the weakest hitting and run-making team in the league last year. Perhaps the new talent may be enough to change this condition.

East Texas Teachers Beat Mustangs in 9th

COMMERCE, Texas, March 20. (AP)—Bobby Gardner's double in the ninth with the bases loaded brought the East Texas Teachers from behind and gave them a 10 to 9 victory over Jerry Mann's Southern Methodist university nine here today. Gardner had clouted a homer.

Frank Diffey went the route for the Mustangs and was hit freely. Drye, catcher, was the leading slugger for the Ponies.

As soon as it touches the skin, the cooling and soothing medication of Tetterine Ointment quickly stops annoying itch, eczema, tetter, ringworm and rash. Down into the pores it goes, killing parasitic and germ infection, then healing eruptions, rash and unsightly pimples, thus giving permanent relief. No burning—no blistering—no nasty smell—just a nice, clean, pleasantly odored ointment. Used for 48 years. Guaranteed. Large box 60c at drug stores or from Shuptrine Co., Desk PA-7, Savannah, Ga.—(adv.)

Rookie Hurlers Show Class

Pipgras of Detroit, Hopkins of Washington and Walker of the Giants are among the first grade rookies shining in the training camps. Hopkins and Walker came from the American association and Pipgras, a brother of George Pipgras of the Yankees, came from the Pacific Coast league.

OUR SPUDDERS, including those who made the trek to Abilene to play the Tulsa Oilers, and the contingent which stayed home to work out at Athletic park, will start drills today pointing for several exhibition games to be played late this month. Five contests in nine days are scheduled for Galloway's galloopers, ere the practical jokers have their day.

The Oklahoma City Indians of the Western league will be adversaries of the Spudders Saturday and Sunday, and on Wednesday and Thursday a New York Giant team will provide the first glimpse of big leaguers in action here this year.

There will be no rest for the athletes following the Giant invasion, for the Tulsa Oilers return the Spudders' visit in a three-game series starting Friday.

GALLOWAY'S athletes have played excellent ball in the exhibition games to date. The flock of tilts still on the program are welcomed by Skipper Jim, as they will give the tossers a lot of work under actual fire, which is excellent conditioning for the veterans and fine trials for the youngsters.

Five contests are scheduled in April before the championship race gets under way the 17th. The Chicago White Sox pay their annual visit here April 5, 6 and 7, and the Fort Worth Cats will come over April 13 and 14 for a pair of games that will enable fans here to get a line on Jake Atz' club.

FORT WORTH enthusiasts look to the Panthers to finish high in the race this season. There seems to be a deal of ground for the enthusiasm over at Panther town, following the taking of two out of three from the White Sox by Uncle Jake's club.

Larry Cox, a hard-hitting outfielder; Pierce a kid shortstop, and Del Baker, veteran catcher, in particular have impressed the natives of Fort Worth. Incidentally, it seems that the Cats will have an excellent catching staff, with a blend of veteran and youth. George Rensa, a promising youngster and Baker probably will be the receivers retained.

Except for pitching the Cats look about set for the pennant campaign. This is different than in former seasons, particularly the last two, when Atz' mound corps were made up of veterans of known worth while the balance of his club was somewhat of an uncertainty. A new policy has been inaugurated by Atz, however, and youngsters will bear the brunt of the slab work.

McLarnin Works To Make Weight

NEW YORK, March 20. (UP)—Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver battler, who meets Ray Miller at Madison Square garden Friday night, is working hard in order to insure his appearance in the ring under the stipulated 140 pounds.

McLarnin, who is growing fast, has experienced more trouble than ever before in making the weight for his bout and plans to continue his training until the day of the fight instead of winding up tomorrow, as is customary.

Miller is not worried about weights. He is down to 132 now, and expects to weigh about that when he enters the ring.

PUGILISM NOW BIG BUSINESS

Carey, Tex's Successor, Is New Type Boxing Head

By FRANK GETTY

NEW YORK, March 20. (UP)—The prosperity and popularity of the profession of pugilism was attested when W. F. Carey was elected to and accepted the job of president of the Madison Square Garden corporation.

The introduction of a man of Carey's stamp into the fistic panorama marks the final step of boxing into the realm of big business.

Heretofore, there had been Tex Rickard and no others. Tex was a genius in the matter of fight promoting, and in no other respect. Sound business men marveled at him, but few really solid citizens tried to imitate him.

Carey Very Wealthy

It was certainly felt that while Rickard, in some mysterious manner, "got away with it," prize fighting was still only a short step removed from six-day bike riding, terrapin racing and three-card monte.

But this Bill Carey whom the directors of Madison Square garden have chosen, wisely, as their new president is very much of a business man. For one thing, he is many times a millionaire and he made the money himself.

Carey is a rough and ready sort of citizen, it is true, being able to mingle with the lowest grade of men he employs, and able to make them like him. He has built railroads in all parts of the world—Canada, China and Bolivia, to furnish three examples. He owns phosphate mines and airplane lines, and he is a power in Wall street.

Opposition for Garden

Yet Carey has accepted the presidency of Madison Square garden and will move his offices uptown and devote a good bit of his time to directing the promotion of prize fights.

At the moment, Madison Square garden stands at the crossroads. The big sports arena, with its multifold activities, holds a recognized leadership in its field. But others are pressing closely. Jack Dempsey has entered the field, flung down the gauntlet, and is itching to make things hot for the men with whom he so lately has been associated.

Humbert J. Fugazy, who vainly sought to rival Rickard during Tex' lifetime, is anxious to show up the late promoter's successors—if possible. Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit and other cities are clamoring for recognition in the fisticuff industry.

American Horse Ready For Famed British Race

LIVERPOOL, England, March 20. (AP)—Billy Barton, sturdy steeplechaster from the blue grass country of Kentucky, is just about ready for his second attempt to win the greatest of horse racing honors in Europe—the famed Grand National Aintree Friday afternoon.

The crack jumper of Howard Bruce, Baltimore sportsman, wound up training with a canter at the Wroughton quarters and will arrive here tomorrow for the test of Aintree's four and a half miles of treacherous hazards, cruel jumps, and baffling water.

Dempsey Joins Humbert Fugazy

Jack Indicates He Will Box As Well as Promote

By JACK LAWRENCE

NEW YORK, March 20. (US)—Jack Dempsey has definitely aligned himself with Humbert J. Fugazy and is prepared to give battle to the Madison Square Garden corporation and all its 600 millionaires. Dempsey has not only informed Fugazy that he will act as his matchmaker, but will fight for him next summer.

These facts were ascertained at the offices of the Metropolitan coliseum today and they were laid on the line by an official whose source of information could not be questioned.

They were partly corroborated by J. Humbert Fugazy himself and almost wholly substantiated by "Old King" Ed Cole, who is said to control the purse strings of six millionaires whose combined wealth matches the famous 600 enlisted under the banner of the late Tex Rickard.

Announcement on Friday will be that Jack Dempsey has been made matchmaker of the Metropolitan coliseum and that he will fight for that organization some time next summer, his opponent being the outstanding heavyweight contender—which is likely to be either Jack Sharkey or Max Schmeling, the sensational German.

TRAPPED!

"The Hall Mystery," playing over WLW Cincinnati, on March 21, at 8 Central, or 9 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, is another of the series of Polson Picturettes replete with thrills. In the scene above the hero and the detective are trapped by the "gang."

Nearly every motorist today knows what that "trapped" feeling is like, when he is delayed by an unexpected puncture. Sometimes a sudden flat at high speed means real danger to life and limb, but at best roadside tire changes are uncomfortable and costly.

Polson Super Tubes have eliminated most punctures for hundreds of thousands of motorists everywhere for more than ten years. Back of puncture sealing, and equally important is the fact that Polson Super Tubes pay for themselves in increased tire mileage and tube service life.

GREAT PANHANDLE FIELD RETAINS MAJORS' FAVOR DESPITE SLUMP

DISTRICT KEPT AT LOW EBB

Gas Industry One of Biggest in World

By PAUL S. HEDRICK
(Oil Editor, Tulsa World)
Written for The Record News

In spite of all the set-backs that it has received, due to flush production in Seminole, West Texas and other areas the Panhandle field of northwest Texas is still favorably regarded by many of the major oil companies as a field that will produce much oil when it is needed. Just when that need will come is beyond the answer of oil men today.

The Panhandle field suffered more from over-production than many other fields, and it will probably endure a lot more.

In 1928 the Panhandle field produced 24,594,382 barrels of oil, or roughly 67,381 barrels a day during that period. Had there been a market it is possible it could have yielded more.

1,384 Producers

When 1928 rolled around there were 1,384 producing wells in the plains field (consisting of Carson, Gray, Hutchinson, Moore, Potter and Wheeler counties) and the end of the year saw this number increase to 1,513.

Actually there were 407 wells drilled and completed, not including 26 locations staked and abandoned.

The ever-increasing markets for natural gas from the Panhandle caused 140 gas wells to be drilled, of which 33 were from major companies, that made 986,500,000 cubic feet open initial flow, and the 107 wells by independents made 1,765,500,000 cubic feet of open flow.

The plains area had 70 failures, the major operators having 28 of the total and independents 42.

Refineries, Pipelines

Refineries in the Panhandle ran exclusively on crude produced in the six counties. Their crude runs amounted to 5,495,778 barrels, while the four major pipelines moved out 18,923,834 barrels, and the Santa Fe, Rock Island and Denver railroads moved out 13,846 tank cars, each car averaging 200 barrels per car, or 2,769,200 barrels, and making a total movement from the field of 21,693,034 barries in the year.

The five major pipelines have a daily capacity of 108,000 barrels of oil, but in December, that only averaged 37,459 barrels, showing a lot of unused capacity.

The Gulf Pipe Line company and Magnolia Petroleum company have a joint 10-inch line from the town of Panhandle to Ranger, with a capacity of 30,000 barrels a day. They ran 10,373 barrels a day. Humble Pipe Line company's eight-inch line from Borger to Comyn, is capable of handling 30,000 barrels a day, but moved but 15,498 barrels a day. Prairie Pipe Line company's eight-inch line from Kings Mill to Ringling can move 24,000 barrels a day, but handled but 11,587 barrels a day, and the Texas Pipe Line company's eight-inch line has a capacity of 24,000 barrels a day to Electra but it did not run any oil in December. Reports say that it was being tested from LeFors to Electra.

New Gas Lines Planned

More gas pipe lines are contemplated for 1929 and succeeding years. The Cities Service Gas company has one 20-inch line from Pampa to Kansas City and averaged 50,000,000 feet.

West Texas Gas company has one 16-inch and one 14-inch line from the four corners to Midland, and averaged 10,000,000 feet.

Canadian River Gas company has a 20 and a 22-inch line from the four corners to Denver, Colo., and moved 30,000,000 feet.

North Texas Utilities (Upham) company has a 12 and 16-inch line, moving from Wheeler county to Wichita Falls, and averaged 18,000,000 feet.

Consolidated Gas and Utilities company has a 14-inch line from the Wheeler-Gray areas to Enid, and averaged 30,000,000 feet.

Panhandle Pipe Line company has an 8-inch line into Amarillo and averaged 8,000,000 feet, and a 12-inch line to the smelters and other plants that averaged 8,000,000 feet a day, or a total of 167,500,000 feet of gas a day during the last month of 1928.

40 Casinghead Plants

Although the gas in the Panhandle is lean, the casinghead gas gasoline is fairly certain, and 40 of the 46 plants in the area were operating. Three plants were shutdown and three were being dismantled. Hutchinson county had 22; Potter 1; Moore, 2; Carson, 8; Gray, 10, and Wheeler 3.

The gas throughout in December amounted to 687,625,000 cubic feet of gas, and the daily average recovery of natural gasoline was 442,094 gallons. The Panhandle gas has a gasoline content of .64 gallons per thousand cubic feet.

Plant of Phillips Petroleum company recovered 13,392,047 gallons in December, and that month the Phillips and Skelly plants delivered to the Humble Pipe Line company, which uses natural gasoline to keep the oil from congesting on its pipeline, a total of 5,036,328 gallons of natural gasoline.

The Panhandle has become the mecca for the carbon plants as a result of so much residue gas, and they treated 226,300,000 cubic feet of gas a day, recovering 271,596 pounds of carbon black a day, getting an average recovery of 1.2 pounds per thousand cubic feet of gas treated. The residue gas sells for .023 cents per thousand cubic feet. The 1928 output of carbon black amounted to 73,033,000 pounds, which together with a carry over from 1927 of 4,972,206 pounds, made a grand total of 78,005,206 pounds that was shipped out in 1928.

The Santa Fe moved out 1,401 cars, each car handling approximately 50,000 pounds, or 70,050,000 pounds.

A fairly accurate check indicated that the gasoline and other plants received 687,825,000 cubic feet of gas. Of this 112,500,000 feet was strip gas from the main gasoline plants and allowing a 10 per cent loss in the plants, a total of 505,542,500 cubic feet of gas went out of the plants for carbon plant treating.

The carbon plants burn each day around 226,300,000 cubic feet of gas, leaving 279,212,500 feet for other uses.

Four Refineries

The Panhandle did have five refineries, but since the first of the year the Amarillo Producing and Refining corporation has shutdown and is moving its plant into Southwest Texas. It was at Borger and had a capacity of 2,000 barrels a day, but averaged but 691 barrels a day during December.

MacMillan Petroleum Products company is also at Borger. It is a 5,500 barrel plant and ran 4,992 barrels a day.

Phillips Petroleum company operates the old Alamo plant at Borger. It is now a 10,000 barrel plant and averaged 6,726 barrels.

At Pampa the Pampa Refining company, a 3,500-barrel capacity outfit, ran 2,772 barrels a day.

At Amarillo the Texas company operates the old Amarillo refinery, a 6,000 barrel plant, and it averaged only 1,592 barrels a day. Thus the 27,000 barrel capacity was not fulfilled. December crude runs amounting to but 16,773 barrels a day.

Nine Firms Active

Nine companies accounted for most of the work in the Panhandle in 1928. The Phillips Petroleum company completed 36 oil wells for 3,640 barrels initial; five gas wells for 36,000,000 feet, and had five dry holes. Skelly Oil company brought in 10 oil wells for 3,535 barrels initial, one gas well for 70,000,000 feet and had no dry holes.

The Texas company had 29 oil wells making 15,730 barrels initial; nine gas wells making 384,500,000 feet of gas, and 15 dry holes.

Empire Gas and Fuel company had eight oil wells for 657 barrels initial; 14 gas wells for 335,500,000 feet, and no dry holes.

Prairie Oil and Gas company had 10 oil wells, which did 2,365 barrels first day; two gas wells for 72,000,000 feet and two failures.

Shell Petroleum corporation had two oil wells for 520 barrels first day and one failure; Midwest Exploration company found three oil wells for 2,045 barrels initial, and Magnolia Petroleum company had nine oil wells doing 776 barrels first day, and two gas wells that made 4,220,000 feet and one failure.

Gulf Production company had an initial output of 6,525 barrels from its 14 oil wells, and its one gasser made 48,000,000 feet. It also had one dry hole.

NEWS of the FIELD

TEXAS COMPANY-GRAY

The Texas company No. 1 Williams, located in the A. C. H. & B. survey, block 1, Gray county, is flowing at the rate of 560 barrels per day from the pay 2675 feet. The well, which is in the Lefors district of the county, was completed in April, 1928, as a gas well from the sand at 2592 feet with a flow of 59,000,000 feet daily and was recently deepened to the oil sand or granite wash.

NORTH OF THE CAREY

The Prairie Oil and Gas company No. 1 J. T. Richardson located in block 3, B. B. B. & C. R. R. survey, south Archer county, succeeded in shutting off the water from the oil sand at 1181-89 feet and is showing the earmarks of a 40-barrel producer.

DALLAS VISITOR

D. A. Reid, representing the General Electric company, is here from the Dallas headquarters.

BARDSTREET COMPANY

Bradstreet company No. 1 W. T. Waggoner, located 2130 feet west, 150 feet north of the southeast corner of section 42, M. E. & P. R. R. survey in Wilbarger county is moving in tools to drill in at 2304 feet.

Dallas Gasoline Prices Slashed

DALLAS, March 20. (AP)—Gasoline was lower in price here today than in months as the result of a cut in price at filling stations of major companies from 20 to 17 cents a gallon.

The Gulf Refining company started the cutting this morning. The Magnolia Petroleum company and the Texas company immediately followed suit.

By noon, Cities Service, Simms and Oriental had posted the new price and practically every station in the city had adopted the new price.

Confirmation was lacking to a report in oil circles that the cut was the first gun by major companies in a war on price-cutting independents.

Geologists Open Meet At Fort Worth Today

FORT WORTH, March 20. (INS)—The advance guard of the nation's army of oil men was arriving here today for the convention of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, which opens here tomorrow. More than 1,500 delegates are expected to attend.

Special trains will be run from Oklahoma City, Ponca City, Okla., Wichita, Kan., and Houston. Most of the delegates from the Pacific coast are here.

President R. S. McFarland, of the Twin States Oil company, of Tulsa, Okla., will call the convention to order.

Oklahoma City Wells Preparing to Complete

Special to The Record News

TULSA, Okla., March 20.—Although only one producing well in the Oklahoma City area, some five or six wells are standardizing and are getting ready to test out in the upper sands. Various showings for oil and gas has been cored throughout Toukawa and Layton series.

MID-WESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, March 20. (AP) (U. S. D. A.)—Moderate activity prevailed around the 11-market circuit on most killing classes of cattle, medium weight and heavy steers proving the exception. Light weight steers, yearlings and she stock ruled unevenly steady to 25c higher. Demand for steers scaling 1,100 pounds and above was narrow and packers obtained further price concessions at some markets. Eastern dressed beef markets were in a sluggish condition with prices weak to lower. Choice mixed steers and heifers in the Chicago market topped at $14.50 while medium weight steers at the same market realized $14.25. Country demand remained broad for replacement stock with values working higher. Four loads of choice 785 pound white faced stockers at Kansas City cleared at $13.25. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 35,300, an increase of 4,000 over a week ago and about the same as the corresponding day last year.

Hogs were unevenly steady to 25c lower with closing trade active, some points reporting part of the early decline regained. The day's extreme top of $11.75 was paid at Chicago. Total offerings were around 108,900 as compared with 84,767 last Wednesday and 117,791 the same day a year ago.

The sheep supply approximated 65,700, an increase of 21,300 over a week ago and 7,500 heavier than a year ago. Fat lambs in Chicago were steady to slightly lower while at most river markets an uneven decline of 15@50c was effected. A few choice fed lambs in Chicago reached $17.60 and native springers at Kansas City brought $19.25 firm prices were maintained on the limited showing of aged stock.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, March 20. (AP)—Advances on a bullish view of the ginning figures and the weekly report of the weather bureau were followed by reactions in cotton today. After selling up to 21.22 in the early trading on rather an active and general demand, May declined to 20.82, or back to yesterday's closing figures, but stiffened up again in the late trading and closed at 20.92. The general market closed steady at net advances of 8 to 12 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 17 to 24 points and sold 37 to 40 points above yesterday's closing quotations during the early trading on covering or rebuying by recent sellers and a broadening of commission house demand. This apparently was influenced by the census report, placing total ginnings from the crop of 1928 at 14,269,313 running bales, counting round as half, or 14,450,007 equivalent 500-pound bales.

These figures were rather lower than recently discussed and their publication evidently removed uncertainty which previously had held some buying in check.

March sold up to 21.28, and the new October contract to 20.50. But these prices seemed to bring in more southern selling and after the first rush of demand had been supplied the market turned easier under realizing or a renewal of old long liquidation.

Trading, which was active at the start, tapered off as prices turned downward, but the market worked gradually lower. Near months sold back to yesterday's closing quotations, while October declined to 20.19, or 31 points from the early high level. Offerings tapered off in the last half hour and there were rallies on renewed covering accompanied by reports that the trade had helped to absorb the earlier offerings. Last prices were about 4 to 10 points up from the lowest.

Selling on the early advance was attributed partly to a feeling that bullish features in the weekly report were no worse than expected and that the ginning figures were so close to the government's December estimate they justified no particular change in statistical calculations.

Exports today, 11,768, making 6,694,098 this season. Port receipts, 16,506. United States port stocks, 1,819,388.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, March 20. (AP)—Active trading and broad price fluctuations featured the cotton market today with an early advance of over $2 a bale meeting extensive realizing for a reaction. The early improvement was due to a bullish construction placed on the census bureau's final ginnings figure, but July contracts after advancing to 20.60 sold off rapidly to 20.17, but rallied in final trading and closed at 20.30, or 14 points net up. The general market closed very steady at a net advance of 11 to 17 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 21 to 27 points. The final ginnings of the 1928 crop, given as 14,269,313 running bales, was construed as bullish by the trade and prices continued to advance after the start on covering and fresh buying until May sold at 20.52, July 20.60 and October 20.38, or 42 to 44 points net up. This improvement represented a gain of over $2 a bale from yesterday's close.

The usual profit-taking followed the bulge and it was augmented later by speculative and ring selling on the theory that a reaction was due from the sharp advance. Reports of beneficial rains in sections of Texas aided the subsequent decline which forced prices to new lows for the day in afternoon trading. May traded off to 20.11, July 20.17 and October 20.02, or 36 to 43 points below the highs.

Renewed covering towards the end coupled with trade buying caused the market to rally about 50 cents a bale from the lows and final prices showed net gains of 14 to 17 points, with May closing at 20.25 and October 20.13.

Oil Shares Jump Into Lead Of Stock Market Due to Lower Yield

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, March 20. (US)—Oils and coppers featured by reason of strength in an otherwise irregular market today, in which recently favored industrials dropped further under influence of continued tight money.

Decline of 40,000 barrels in crude oil production last week, however, kept the oil shares moving forward despite the irregularity elsewhere. Coppers were helped by further advance in price of the metal.

Advance Rumely with a gain of 10 points stood out among industrials where losses of from 1 to 4 points were the rule. Sinclair was the most active of the oils climbing 2 points, while Houston gained 7⅞. Standard of California 4⅝ while others moved up from 1 to over 2 points. Anaconda closed 5⅜ higher, and Chile gained an equal amount.

Call money advanced from a renewal of 9 to 10 per cent while the turnover increased to near the 5,000,000 share level.

Advance in the money rate to 10 per cent was expected and it seems likely that similar performance in the money market will be witnessed tomorrow. Call rates will not make much difference, however, as traders' attention will be centered mainly on the meeting of the reserve bank directors after the close. No change in the rediscount rate is generally forecast and while the "guesses" are not as emphatic as they were a week ago, an advance in the rate would prove quite a shock. There is every reason to expect increase in loans of $50,000,000 or more, but in the event of the rediscount rate being left unchanged such an increase should not prove much of an influence.

If the cables tell of no change in the Bank of England rate tomorrow it will strengthen the belief that the rediscount rate will be held at 5 per cent so that the bulls in the oils and specialties will continue their operations.

Advance Rumely was the individual feature of the afternoon. Its further flight to a new high was credited to operations of interests who expect to show up at the coming annual meeting with control and to effect a change in the management.

Steel again disappointed although the mid-weekly reviews of conditions in the trade were the best received in many months. They told of capacity production and indications of further advance in price of major products.

There was continued quiet absorption of motors by those who cooperate with insiders and therefore are in best position to know of conditions of the corporations. They predict a record breaking first half year and an extra dividend this summer.

The oils came into their own but traders kept their fingers crossed as the petroleum shares have disappointed more than any other group. They start under a handicap due to the disturbed money situation but if the leaders of the industry go through with their stabilization of production as they seem prepared to do it will mean that the oils now are in similar position to that of the coppers about two years ago.

Standard of California and Sinclair stand out among the independent shares due to special group operations. The Cutten group remains heavily interested in Sinclair and it is expected that it will go in with other independents should the improvement in the oil industry proceed as now indicated.

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, March 20. (AP)—Cattle—Receipts of limited volume were again posted for today's trade at Fort Worth. The run brought in four cars of slaughter steers, about eight cars of slaughter yearlings, a few loads of stock yearlings and the remaining cattle supplies consisted largely of mixed butcher classes. The small supply of calves received, about 300 head, consisted largely of weighty averages.

Trade in available supplies of slaughter cattle was featured by a fairly active demand for all classes at firm rates. Carlot sales of slaughter steers reported at $10.00 to $11.60. The latter price paid for one load of good fed steers in medium weights. Carlots sales of fat yearlings up to $13.00, this price paid for one load of choice grades avearaging around 625 pounds. Other carlot sales of slaughter yearlings reported at $12.50, $12.75 and on down. The better grades of fat cows very scarce, as on most days recently and business above the $8.00 level was limited to a few sales of small lots and sorts. Package lots of good to choice fat cows reported up to $9.00, while most of the butcher cows around $7.00 to $7.50. Low cutters usually at $5.25 to $5.50. No bulls of consequence included in the day's receipts and prices applicable to this class remained nominal.

A strong demand existed for the better grades of stock yearlings at full steady prices. One load choice stock steer yearlings sold at $12.50 and plainer grades sold on down to $10.00 and less.

Slaughter calves were wanted at prices a quarter to half dollar higher and the short supply made a good early clearance at these advances. One load good heavy slaughter calves brought $12.00 and a few other sales at $11.50 and down to $10.50 and less. Cull calves and "fannies" sold mostly around $8.00 to $8.50 and a few under the $8.00 level.

An unusually large run of hogs arrived for today's trade. Quality was less attractive than on most days recently and the better grades of rail butchers relatively scarce. Rail hogs uneven, selling around 10 to 20c lower and truck hogs showed declines of fully a quarter. Best carlot butchers sold up to $10.75 and a few loads of 180-240 pound rail hogs sold at $10.50 to $10.75. Most of the desirable 175-250 pound truck hogs sold at $9.85 to $10.00; packing sows weak to a quarter lower, mostly at $8.25 to $9.25. Good feeder pigs sold at $8.00 to $8.75, appeared strong to 50c higher.

Sheep and lambs sold at prices that were mostly steady. Shorn fat lambs sold at $14.50 and $14.75. Several decks of wooled feeder lambs sold at $14.25 and $14.50.

CHICAGO, March 20. (AP)—Hogs—Receipts 23,000; 15 to 25c lower; packing sows $10.35@10.90; pigs, medium to choice 90 to 130 pounds $9.25@11.15.

Cattle—Receipts 8,000; calves 2,500; firm on light yearlings; slaughter steers, good and choice 1,300 to 1,500 pounds $12.50@14.25; 1,100 to 1,300 pounds $12.50@14.50; fed yearlings, good and choice 750 to 950 pounds $12.25@15.00; cows, good and chice $9.25@11.25; vealers (milk-fed), good and choice, $13.50@17.00; stocker and feeder steers, good and choice (all weights) $12@13.00.

Sheep—Receipts 10,000; steady; lambs, good and choice, 92 pounds down, $16.40@17.75; ewes, medium to choice, 150 pounds down, $8.50@11.00.

FORT WORTH, Texas, March 20.—Hogs—Receipts 3,800; rail hogs uneven, around 10 to 20c lower; truck hogs fully 25c lower; rail top $10.75; truck top $10; few loads good rail butchers unsold; bulk 180 to 240-pound rail hogs, $10.50@10.75; bulk desirable 175 to 250-pound truck hogs, $9.75@10.00; packing sows weak to quarter lower, mostly $8.25@9.25; pigs strong to 50c higher; good feeder pigs, $8@8.75.

Cattle—Receipts 2,300; general trade in slaughter steers, yearlings and short supplies; other classes slaughter cattle about steady; carlot sales slaughter steers, $10, $11@11.60; latter price for one load good fed steers. Carlot top fat yearlings, $13. Other carlot sales, $12.75, $12.50 and less; better grades fat cows very scarce, small lots up to $9; butcher grades around $7@7.50; low cutters, $5.25@5.50; bulls very scarce; stock yearlings, strong and active.

Sheep—Receipts 3,300; market mostly steady, shorn fat lambs, $14.50@14.75; several decks wooled feeder lambs, $14.25@14.50.

KANSAS CITY, March 20. (AP)—Hogs—Receipts 11,000; steady to 15c lower; top $11.35 on 190 to 215 pounds; packing sows $9@10.25.

Cattle—Receipts 6,500; calves 800; steady with strength on light yearlings and she stock; slaughter steers, good and choice 1,300 to 1,500 pounds $12@13.75; 1,100 to 1,300 pounds $12.25@14.25; 950 to 1,100 pounds $12.25@14.50; fed yearlings, good-choice 750 to 950 pounds $12.50@14.75; cows, good and choice $9@10.75; vealers (milk-fed) medium to choice $11@17.00; stocker and feeder steers, good and choice (all weights) $11.75@13.85.

Sheep—Receipts 9,000; clipped lambs and sheep steady; lambs, good and choice, (92 pounds down), $15.50@16.65; ewes, medium to choice, (150 pounds down), $8@10.25.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, March 20. (AP)—Wheat scored advances in price today at the last, notwithstanding that earlier the market had undergone a sharp setback. Indications were that the larger holdings of wheat had not been dislodged by the breaks in values. Crop news early was bearish, but later more two-sided.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous at a shade to ⅜@½c net gain. Corn finished ½c to ⅝c down, oats unchanged to ⅝c off, and provisions unchanged to 12c decline.

After many standing orders to let go of wheat future deliveries had been executed today for holders who wished to stop losses at various set limits, the pit became relatively bare of offerings. Speculative sellers quickly turned to the buying side of the market, and here was also a good deal of new purchasing, together with reinstatement of lines for previous owners. Meanwhile, talk was current that Argentine exports of wheat had fallen off somewhat, and that pressure of domestic wheat also was considerably diminished.

Helping to promote the late upward swing of the wheat market were Kansas advices that any high winds during the next 10 days would be likely to prove very destructive to wheat.

Traders attention in the first part of the day was chiefly focused on assertions widely circulated that for the most part winter-killing of wheat southwest has been or normal extent only. There also were advices that throughout central Illinois the wheat crop outlook left nothing to be desired, with fields greening up completely and no indication of winter-killing even where land was low.

Corn developed less rallying power than wheat, although there was a marked improvement in corn shipping demand here, with purchases amounting to more than 300,000 bushels, the largest day's total for some time past.

Provisions reflected lower quotations on hogs.

SHARP ADVANCE IN POULTRY

Prices Here Move Upward On New York Reports

An advance in prices on poultry posted in New York Tuesday was followed by increases of from one to five cents per pound in quotations by local buyers Wednesday.

Heavy hens advanced to 24 cents, lighter ones to 21, while broilers moved up from 25 to 30 cents per pound. No. 1 turkeys also were given a two cent raise, 20 cents being offered Wednesday.

The comparative shortage of marketable poultry was attributed locally to the fact that brooding season is now on, and the principal attention of farmers and poultry raisers is being given to setting of eggs and care of baby chicks.

Further advances in the prices on beef cattle and hogs during the last few days were reported by the Wichita Packing company. Choice baby beef, selected from well fed herds of calves ranging from six to 12 months, is ranging from $12 to $15 on foot, it was stated. Two carloads of selected stock was purchased by this firm last week from the Hapgood herds at Henrietta, and one car this week from Carl Williamson, on the Iowa Park road, it was reported.

The Wichita Falls territory is still supplying more than a sufficient number of hogs for the local kill, with prices ranging from $8 to $11. Carload lots assembled here are shipped every month to markets elsewhere, it was said.

An abundance of eggs was reported by the Wichita Poultry and Egg company, with surplus supplies from large poultry ranches above incubator requirements beginning to come in.

Reno C.-C. Gives Vanderbilt Sour Rebuke for Writing Up Divorcees

NEW YORK, March 20. (US)—Protesting that the scenes and conditions pictured in Cornelius Vanderbilt's recent book "Reno" were untrue and an insult to the community of that name in Nevada, the directors of the Reno Chamber of Commerce sent him the following telegram:

"Now and then there comes to any community an individual with professions of esteem and fairness who violates hospitality and fouls his own nest. In view of the eagerness with which you adopted Reno as your permanent abiding place, we are more than disappointed with your recently published volume 'Reno.' The exaggerated picture that you have drawn could not have been gained through your associations in the home and with the people of this city. It could only have been seen with all its uncleanliness, the rough glasses that were colored elsewhere or with eyes unfitted to the better things of life.

"With all due respect to your literary talent as displayed in the editorial management of tabloids and your ability to capitalize a great family name for the sale of your brochures and books, we must express our contempt for the departure in the realm of fiction—contempt that a man who has enjoyed the homes and the hospitality of Reno has taken its friendliness and wholesomeness, to which you dedicate the book, and has returned the debt with shame and insult."

Llano Pecan Grower Tends 1,500 Trees

LLANO, Texas, March 20. (AP)—The case of Julius C. Seaholm may be cited as an example of the way in which the idea of growing pecans in commercial quantities is gaining a foothold in West Texas.

Seaholm, who lives one and a half miles west of Llano, has 75 acres of five-year-old pecan trees on his farm. He estimates his pecan rochard at 1,500 trees.

BRUNETTES IN FAVOR AT T.C.U.

Boys There Do Not Prefer Blondes, Quiz Reveals

FORT WORTH, March 20. (AP)—Gentlemen no longer prefer blondes. At least they do not at Texas Christian university, where students answering a questionnaire on "What Characteristics T. C. U. Students Desire of Their Future Mates," voted nearly two to one in favor of brunets.

The typical husband wanted by girls, according to the survey, is a young man, tall and slender, with black, curly hair.

The typical wife desired by boys is an attractive girl, of average height, having blue or brown eyes, and with dark or red hair.

Eighty-five per cent of both boys and girls demanded that their future mates have college educations. Fifty-five per cent wanted "home-loving" mates.

Of the girls, 65 per cent preferred marriage to a profession or career, 20 per cent were noncommital, and 15 per cent expressed a preference for single blessedness and a career of their own.

One student commented on the uselessness of making such a survey. "Love is blind," this one wrote, "and when one falls in love it makes no difference about physical or social characteristics."

"Petting" was condemned as undesirable in a future mate by 95 per cent of the students.

CRIMM DENIES MONKEY TALK

Grandpap Was Scotch-Irish, Says Evangelist

Declaring that he believed man was a finished product and began functioning immediately after God breathed into his nostrils, Rev. B. B. Crimm, cowboy evangelist, Wednesday night focused his attention upon the evolutionist, when he preached to a large crowd in the tabernacle at Twenty-second and Yale.

"There were three separate acts of creation, the vegetable and animal kingdoms and man," Crimm declared. "Why don't some of the scientists who are trying to find the missing link between man and animal try to find the missing one between the vegetable and animal kingdom.

"The potato is just as much kin to an opossum as man is to animal. I never did believe my grandpa was a monkey. He was a Scotch-Irishman and there's a lot of difference."

The inevitable result of sin is death and unless a person dies by faith in Christ he will die without faith in hell forever, Crimm said.

Capt. Z. H. Parker of the Salvation Army led the congregation in prayer.

On Thursday night Rev. Mr. Crimm will preach on "God's Remedy for Sin."

Cottage prayer meetings will be held at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the following homes: Mrs. Joe Hall, 1503 McGregor; Mrs. J. T. Baggett, 2217 Holliday; Mrs. Martin Holt, 1505 Twenty-fifth; Mrs. R. L. Stanberry, 2110 Yale; Mrs. J. J. Bozman, 2212 Harvard; Mrs. W. M. Smith, 1321 Thirty-fifth; Mrs. J. S. Cannon, 2114 Mississippi; Mrs. Ernest Smith, 1411 Seventeenth.

Allison Tells Lions of Tour In Canal Zone

A review of a recent tour of Cuba and the Panama canal zone was given by J. H. Allison before the Lions club in the regular weekly meeting held Wednesday noon at the Y. W. C. A.

Descriptions of the changing scenery during various stages of the trip, together with brief discussions of the industries, social customs and landmarks, comprised a travelogue with which the speaker gave his hearers a realistic impression of the countries visited.

An unusually effective police system, highly developed educational facilities, and an excellent system of sanitation in Cuba are due largely, Mr. Allison stated, to the supervision of the United States.

Members of the Lions club were urged by Judge R. O. Kenley to join the Wichita Falls Zoological society, and Dr. B. C. Schulkey of Electra asked that the members of the Lions club in that city also be invited to join the new organization.

A report on a campaign for $3,500 with which to establish a monkey island at the municipal zoo was made by Fred Reaser. Plans for an inter-city meeting at Vernon Friday night were announced by W. E. Wilson.

Rehearsal Shows Gorgeous Settings Of 'Drama of Life'

The gorgeous settings, variegated and brilliant costumes, impressive lighting effects, classic dancing and descriptive pantomime which will be offered in the presentation of "The Drama of Life," were assembled in the dress rehearsal held Wednesday night, and presaged a highly successful performance at the Memorial auditorium on Friday night.

Assisted by Mrs. J. S. Pitman, casting director; Miss Elizabeth Howell, Mrs. James Bowen and Baldwin Montgomery, Miss Genevieve Gilbert has given the 300 or more members of the cast an unusual degree of preparation for a smooth enactment of the story which she herself prepared for dramatization. Besides the excellent individual numbers, exquisite group and ensemble effects have been attained in unfolding the story of humanity.

Ensemble singing, combining the Women's Choral club, directed by Mrs. Luella B. Thompson and Dr. L. D. Parnell's mixed chorus, will offer the best voices in the city in several musical numbers.

SICKNESS LEFT HER VERY WEAK

Virginia Lady Says She Did Not Begin to Pick Up Until She Had Taken Cardui.

Bristol, Va.—"I suffered a very severe illness which left me very weak," writes Mrs. Emma Hall, of 824 Maple Street, this city. "My strength did not come back as it should have.

"Someone told me of Cardui, so I began taking it. I began picking up and my strength returned.

"I realized Cardui was a good medicine, so several years later when my health was in a critical condition, I took Cardui again.

"I was nervous and I would suffer with hot flashes often. I would be so weak I would have to go to bed.

"I suffered constantly with a pain in my side. My health was in a terrible condition. I was not able to do my housework at all.

"So I began taking Cardui and took it while this condition lasted, and improved a great deal. It helped me through this critical time, and I have praised it to my friends because it did me so much good."

Thousands of other women have reported good results from the use of Cardui after weakening illness.

Announcement has been made by Charles Morehead, manager of the Olympic theater, of the engagement of the Fred Hurley Players for an indefinite period beginning Sunday, March 24.

The new company, which closes an engagement in Amarillo this week, was said by Mr. Morehead to be more highly recommended than any talent appearing at the Olympic during the last two years. The Fred Hurley players number 18, it was stated, and carry an unusually attractive equipment for stage sets and an elaborate costume wardrobe.

Hazel Chamberlain is announced as the prima donna of the company, which is making its first trip through the south, according to Mr. Morehead. The performances of the Fred Hurley Players were said to compare favorably with high-class road shows. The opening performance will be given Sunday afternoon.

Auditorium at Forum Crowded To Capacity to Hear Halliburton

Probably the largest crowd of the season filled the Woman's Forum Wednesday evening to hear Richard Halliburton, the young author and lecturer. Every available seat of the auditorium was filled and the audience overflowed into foyer and corridors. There were numerous parties from nearby towns.

Mrs. Ben G. Oneal made a short speech of introduction and the ruddy, virile young man launched at once into a speech that held his audience to the last word.

His stories, he said, were not meant for the self-satisfied home-staying body, but for those upon whom moonlight still has a demoralizing effect. He could not imagine a person who at some time did not wish to jump the traces and run away. He told the story of how as a boy, he diligently studied his geography with it safely hidden inside a large book of mathematics and how his teacher thought he would some day be a wonderful mathematician. But he became an incorrigible wanderer. How he doffed cap and gown and donned overalls and started to visit the places of his dreams and how he made them one by one, was the story told the audience here.

Court Reverses 5-Year Term Given Burrier

The court of criminal appeals Wednesday reversed and remanded the case of J. W. Burrier, sentenced to five years in the penitentiary for the murder of J. V. McDaniel, filling station operator, in Archer county on May 5, 1927. The reversal was based on the admission of improper testimony by the state, according to the court's ruling.

Burrier was convicted in Archer county on a charge that he shot McDaniel in the course of an attempted holdup of a filling station halfway between Wichita Falls and Archer City. The testimony of eyewitnesses who identified Burrier was contradicted by a score of witnesses brought by the defense in an attempt to prove an alibi for the accused man.

Two Women Held In Boyd Robberies

FORT WORTH, March 20. (INS)—Two women have been arrested in connection with the looting of business houses and the post-office at Boyd, Wise county, it was learned today. The women were arrested here.

Officers believe their arrest will aid in the solution of a number of robberies over Northwest Texas, they said. Clothing found at the residence where the women were arrested was identified as that taken from a store at Rhome several weeks ago. Three men are under arrest in the case.

Harris to Speak At Church Night Service

Henry Camp Harris of the National Security Life Insurance company will speak in the First Christian church Thursday night at 7 o'clock. Mr. Harris will talk on "Salesmanship for Christ." George Taylor, KGKO soloist, will give several numbers with voice and guitar.

Dr. Floyd Allan Bash, pastor, announced that the church night supper and program tonight will be the last before Easter. The supper is served at 6:30.

STIMSON REACHES FRISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20. (INS)—En route to Washington to assume the post of secretary of state in President Herbert Hoover's cabinet, Henry L. Stimson arrived here today on the liner President Pierce.

TAX SUIT GOES TO JURY TODAY

Testimony Completed In Claim for $13,406 Fees

Testimony in the suit of M. L. Tittle, asking $13,406.01 from the county for commissions on delinquent taxes collected between December, 1919, and December, 1922, was completed before Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court Wednesday afternoon. The case is expected to go to the jury before noon Thursday.

Mr. Tittle, on the stand in support of his claim, told the jury that he had turned a 5 per cent commission on delinquent tax collections into the county treasury with the understanding that it would be returned to him if the law repealing the commission should ever be knocked out.

Witnesses called Wednesday included J. P. Jones, former county judge; Lee Prescott, former commissioner; John Davenport, former county attorney, and W. K. Niles, assistant auditor during the years involved.

Miss Lucilee Campbell, commissioners court reporter, was called for the defense, testifying that she had entered no order. H. H. Haynes, commissioner from precinct No. 4, was also called to the stand.

The most fun offered the public for a dime, is a wavy automobile track, known as the ocean wave. Wichita now has one four miles out Henrietta road. Drive out and try, it once. A pleasant surprise awaits you.—Adv.

T.-O. OFFICERS MEET AT ALTUS

Woman Warden and Dallas Prosecutor to Talk

Special to The Record News

ALTUS, Okla., March 20.—With the semi-annual Peace Officers Association of Northern Texas and Southwestern Oklahoma scheduled to convene Thursday morning in the city auditorium for a two-day session, the vanguard of the delegates arrived Wednesday afternoon and night.

Two of the largest delegations of the district will arrive Thursday from Dallas and Oklahoma City.

Mrs. George Waters, warden of the state reformatory at Granite, has notified the local committee that she will attend the convention and will appear on the program Thursday night. William McCraw, Dallas district attorney, will also be a speaker.

Former plans for a banquet proposed for Thursday night have been eliminated.

With registration to start at 10 a. m. Thursday, the convention will be convened at 10:30 a. m. by Dock Dudley of Gainesville, Texas, president of the association.

Introduction of new members and appointment of committees will complete the morning session of business.

Sheriff E. T. Smith of Hollis will lead a general discussion of association matters Thursday afternoon, followed by a talk concerning automobile thefts by S. C. Kennedy of Dalls, head of the association bureau of automobile thefts.

Additional plans for the Thursday night meeting are not yet complete

Negroes Arrested, Clothing Seized

Solution of several robberies and burglaries may result from the arrest of two Negroes and the confiscation of several hundred dollars worth of clothing Wednesday afternoon by W. P. Belcher and Ellis Summers, city officers.

The two negroes were arrested after an investigation of several hours by the two officers in a residence on Mill street. They had a large quantity of expensive clothing, valued at more than $500.

County Calls $26,000 Issue of Road Bonds

In a brief special session held Wednesday afternoon, the Wichita county commissioners court voted to buy back $26,000 worth of special road district No. 1 bonds. The bonds are to be bought by H. H. Haynes, commissioner of precinct No. 4, and are part of a general program inaugurated to save interest. More than $200,000 in county bonds have already been ordered bought, the court finding it more economical to buy its own bonds than to leave the money at interest in the county depository.

Stomach Troubles Stopped Right Now

Antiseptic Remedy Gets Down to the Seat of the Cause

There is a remedy that has brought thousands of sufferers from stomach trouble back to health. That remedy is Gordon's, an internal antiseptic that goes right to the seat of the trouble by stopping fermentation (souring of food matter.) Fermentation is the greatest obstacle to overcoming indigestion and kindred ills.

One dose of Gordon's will convince you of its efficiency in cases of indigestion, dyspepsia, excess acid, gas, bloating, heartburn, sour stomach, that "tired feeling," sick headache and nervousness, when caused by faulty digestion.

Get a bottle of this famous remedy from your druggist today. Costs less than three cents a dose.

Junior College Students Select Favorites in Annual Election

Robert Murrell, freshman, was awarded the distinction of most popular boy in the Wichita Falls Junior college when the popularity contest that was sponsored by the college annual, the Wai-Kun was brought to a close Wednesday. Balloting for the popularity phase of the contest took place throughout the first part of the week, while the contest for the most beautiful girl was conducted during the past week, with Bonnie Holmgren chosen.

Complete results of the contest follow: Most popular boy, Robert Murrell, 47 votes; Ameel Kouri, 15; Jim Tom Barton, 15, Edwin Luecke, 9; Arvil Davis, 8; Curtis (Lefty) Watson, 8; James Harvey, 7; Jack Jamison, 6; and Thomas Hutcheson, 6.

Virginia Belle Walker was chosen as the most representative girl during the same balloting, and received a majority of 73 votes. Other candidates for the place were Lonets Smith with 18 ballots, Lela Belle Jenkins, 11; Pansy Mills, 7; Kathryn Keller, 7; and Alice Hartman, 6.

Jim Tom Barton, sophomore, won first place in the contest for the most representative boy, with the ballots totaling 76, the highest number of votes cast for any one of the candidates in the popularity contest. Mack Thomas came second with 24 votes and Robert Murrell with 11, while the following students were tied for fourth place in the event with four votes cast for each: Oliver Fudge, Wilbur Kent, Alexander Cameron, Curtis Cook, Bill Duncan, Ameel Kouri, and Seldon Hale.

Optimists Hear Plea for 'Children Who Haven't Had Chance'; Officers Named

Reclamation of boys and girls "who haven't had a chance" through a greater display of friendly interest and sympathetic encouragement was urged by Grover C. Wood, state boys' work secretary of the Y. M. C. A., in an address before the Optimists club Wednesday noon at the Kemp hotel.

The attitude shown by the average adult citizen toward the boy and girl on the street contributes materially to the character development taking place in those future citizens, the speaker said.

The speaker was introduced by Rev. Patrick Henry, pastor of the Highland Heights Christian church.

Officers for the next year were nominated by a committee composed of Dr. Price Lowry, chairman, Grover Monroe and Solon Featherston. The nominees, upon whom a vote will be taken at the first meeting in April follow:

President, Tom Glass and Dr. Geo. Singleton; first vice president, Rev. Patrick Henry and Herbert Gray; second vice president, M. B. Whatley and Julius Engleman; third vice president, Max T. Junker and A. C. Estes; fourth vice president, Roy B. Gaston and Herbert Hausler; secretary, Ira Brown and Jerry Vinson; treasurer, Alvah Conner and F. L. Randel; sergeant at arms, Jack Dempsey and Fred Weeks; song leader, Joel McGregor and Dr. C. R. Lanphere; chaplain, Rev. Alvin White; piano, Lorene Tucker and Loran Taylor; directors, elect three, Ewing Claggett, E. G. Guy, Ralph Hyer, J. D. Morgan, Richard Gregg and J. V. Allred.

Another program feature were vocal solos by Miss Lois Franklin to an accompaniment played by Miss Eleanor Pitman. Miss Lorene Tucker played the accompaniment for the club singsong.

L. E. Stone was chairman of the program committee, and J. Will Gray presided in the absence of J. V. Allred, president of the club.

U. S. Court Officials To Arrive This Week

E. Crippen, assistant United States district attorney for the northern district of Texas, is expected in Wichita Falls Thursday or Friday in preparation for the opening of the March term of federal court here Monday. Mr. Crippen will file the prohibition complaints which have been made on information since the last term of court, according to Miss Jessie Cowan, United States district clerk here. Mrs. Sarah E. Meneses, assistant district attorney, is also expected in the city before the end of the week, but no announcement of her plans has been received.

DISTURBED SLEEP IS NATURE'S SIGNAL "DANGER AHEAD"

Mrs. G. W. Bushong, Bloomington, Ill. Says, "Come or write to 1012 S. East St., and I will tell you my full experience with Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula). Often was disturbed 20 times a night." It acts on bladder as epsom salts do on bowels. Drives out foreign deposits and lessens excessive acidity. This relieves the irritation that causes getting up nights. The tablets cost 3c each at all drug stores. Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio, or locally at Allison's Drug Store.—Adv.

'Cowboy' Crimm to Give Chief Address At Rotary Club

B. B. "Cowboy" Crimm, evangelist now engaged in a revival campaign at a tabernacle in the Sibley-Taylor addition, will be "turned loose on the Rotary club" in the weekly meeting of that organization Thursday noon at the Kemp hotel, according to R. E. Shepherd, program chairman.

A singsong led by Mr. Shepherd will precede Mr. Crimm's portion of the program, it was stated.

Burglary Charges Filed Against Trio

Charges of burglary were filed against D. M. Barker, Mozelle Barker and J. T. Stout Wednesday afternoon by Mike Anglin and George Anderson, assistant district attorneys.

The three men, who were arrested early Wednesday by Arthur Haigwood, patrolman for the George H. Hodgins Merchants' Police service, are alleged to have broken into an oil well tool house near Murphy's Corner Tuesday night and escaped with copper wire, and numerous brass and aluminum fixtures.

BUILDING PERMITS

Two building permits totaling $280 were issued by the city engineering department Wednesday. One of the permits for $130 was issued to L. S. Miller for repairs on a residence at 102 Tulsa street, while the other was issued to W. C. Krauss for a $125 addition to a house at 1721 Lucile avenue. W. H. Allen was named as contractor for the latter job.

Four Million Turkeys, "Our National Fowl," were consumed in the United States last year.
Four Million, Five Hundred Thousand Automobiles, of the total production, were consumed by individual purchasers last year in the United States.
Knowing the value as we do, of "Turkeys for Food," and Dodge Brothers Cars for transportation, we are surprised that more Turkeys were not consumed and that at least Four Million of these automobiles were not Dodge Brothers cars.

Here's Feed for Chicks!
WALK in and let's talk over what to give your chicks to keep them alive and growing. Let us show you a way to raise your chicks to early maturity at a lower cost per chick.
Chicks need cod-liver oil to protect them against leg weakness. They need buttermilk, alfalfa leaf meal, granulated meat, bone meal, wheat germ and other ingredients to make bone, flesh and feathers.
We have all of these ingredients carefully chosen, tested, balanced, uniformly mixed and ready to feed. Purina Chick Startena is the name of the feed. You'll know it by the checkerboard on the bag. The new feeding discoveries that come to you in this year's Startena will give 15 to 20 per cent greater growth than ever before. More than 2,500 hatcheries say, "Feed Startena." So do we. How many bags do you need?
