DESPITE PROTESTS

U. S. To Continue Food To Germany

BERLIN, July 22 —UP—An American spokesman said Wednesday that plans to provide food for hungry East Germans will not be abandoned despite angry Soviet protests.

Soviet High Commissioner for East Germany Vladimir S. Semenov in a sharply worded note to U.S. high commissioner Dr. James B. Conant demanded that the food aid program be halted immediately.

The note was reported by the official East German news agency ADN.

At the same time reports from East Germany told of thousands of Soviet Zone residents massing in front of empty state-owned stores to demand that President Eisenhower's offer of $15 million worth of free food be accepted by the Communist bosses.

The West Berlin city government plans to start distribution of one million food packages next week. Semenov's note charged that the recent food aid given to East Berliners by West Berlin was an attempt to recruit "fascist agents" and demanded that "measures be taken immediately" to halt all future plans to distribute food.

An official American spokesman branded Semenov's charges "completely false and nonsensical."

"The charge that the food relief program carried out by the West Berlin borough of Kreuzberg was designed to recruit spies or agents is both completely false and nonsensical," he said. "It is also a fact that U.S. authorities were in no way connected with that program."

Mayor Willi Kressmann of Kreuzberg, acting on his own initiative, provided sorely-needed food at bargain prices to East Germans last week. This week, the American sector border borough distributed free supplies to Germans who defied threats of jail to cross the Iron Curtain.

West Berlin boroughes continued to feed hungry East Berlin neighbors despite Soviet protests and Communist police made no move to confiscate food brought across the East-West city border.

The American sector borough of Neukölln Wednesday distributed food parcels valued at $1.25 to persons over 70 years old in the East Berlin borough of Treptow. The packages contained chocolate, sausage, margarine, canned fish and condensed milk.

Controversy Rages Over 'Pauper Oath'

Only widely-scattered showers were forecast for the Southwest states Wednesday.

Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas announced that money from state funds would be made available to drouth-stricken ranchers and farmers. The announcement came after a special drouth conference of state leaders.

The money would provide feed and seed immediately to relieve distress, along with easing of credit.

Rhee Still Demands Reds Leave Korea

SEOUL, July 22 —UP—President Syngman Rhee warned Wednesday that Chinese Communists must get out of Korea within six months after armistice day or "we shall be at liberty to follow our own course of action."

Rhee, only obstacle in the way of an armistice that Gen. Mark W. Clark believes may be signed within seven days, made his threatening statement in reply to questions submitted by correspondents.

The 75-year-old South Korean president's statement followed a charge by his foreign minister, Pyun Yung Tae, that the United States had a repudiating promise made to Rhee on post-armistice matters.

Rhee insisted on time limit

Pyun intimated that Rhee, in his recent dealings with United States diplomats, had insisted on putting a definite time limit on a political conference's efforts to unify Korea and resolve the issue posed by the presence of a million Chinese Communists in Korea.

Rhee's statement was in direct contradiction to U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' version of the agreement reached in 15 days of negotiating between Rhee and the "special" truce envoy of President Eisenhower.

Dulles told a press conference Tuesday there was no time limit on Rhee's agreement to refrain from obstructing an armistice.

Rhee said the agreement was "conditional."

"If the United Nations does not consider our desire for survival, we cannot regard the understanding as binding on us," Rhee said.

Rhee said that South Korea is "still trying to co-operate" in an armistice.

"We have agreed to postpone our efforts while the United Nations undertakes, for a period of 90 days, in a political conference, to persuade Korea's aggressors (the Chinese Communists) to withdraw," Rhee said. "After that, if their efforts should fail, we shall be at liberty to follow our own course of action."

Girl Flees Red Poland

CHICAGO, July 22 —UP—A pretty American girl, who was forced to abandon her Communist parents to flee Red Poland, was finally home Wednesday after a nightmare trip behind the Iron Curtain that lasted four years.

Twenty relatives greeted dark haired, 19-year-old Arlene Migacz when she stepped from a plane at Midway Airport Tuesday.

"I'm all right in every way," she said happily.

The girl, a militant anti-Communist, was composed when she first greeted her sisters, Mrs. Eleanor Hanes, and Mrs. Sylvia Brandt. Then she broke down and sobbed.

"It's wonderful to be home, and Chicago is my home, and will be my home," Miss Migacz said. "I hope to stay here always."

Miss Migacz was innocent of her parents' secret Communist sympathies when they took her on a tour of Europe in 1949. The family spent happy days sightseeing in London, then embarked for Poland.

Miss Migacz, then only a child, thought little of the trip behind the Iron Curtain. But when they arrived her Polish-born parents told her they had come to stay and were prepared to give their allegiance to the Communist regime.

From then on the girl quarreled constantly. She finally stole money from them — "I had to" — and made her way to Warsaw.

There she found a job and began a long, frustrating series of appeals to the government for an exit visa.

Pampa Soldier On Death List

WASHINGTON, July 22 —UP—Seven Texans were listed Wednesday on the Defense Department's 861st casualty list of the Korean war.

Among those killed in action were: Sgt. Milo W. Bird, Pampa, and Pvt. Floyd Wright, Odessa.

Sgt. Bird was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Bird, who live on the Texas Company lease 10 miles south of Pampa. He was killed July 8, on his second tour of duty in Korea.

Wounded soldiers were Pvt. Jake L. Loftin, Rosenberg; Pfc. T. W. Moore Jr., Tulsa; Sfc. John T. Roberts Jr., Dallas, and Cpl. A. C. Thompson, Hearne Marine Pfc. Darrel D. Thompson, Tolar, also was wounded.

Indiana City Has Livestock Problem

BEVERLY SHORES, Ind., July 22 —UP—An angry woman Wednesday threatened to stock this resort community with pigs, goats and other animals unless a neighbor is forced to give up the horse he tethered under her window.

"I don't care if she puts elephants in the darn pen," the horse-lover snapped.

Mrs. Ruth Billerbeck already has installed a handsome Hampshire hog and built a neat white picket fence on Broadway, the town's main street.

"They probably think I'm kidding," she said. "Well they won't think so when I put in the goat and if that doesn't make them pass an ordinance maybe another pig and some chickens will."

The ruckus began when Mrs. Billerbeck protested to the board that Lady Jane, a registered five-gaited mare, of which the commissioner is mighty proud, was causing her tenants to move elsewhere. Lady Jane is tethered close to a Billerbeck apartment building.

"It was bad enough in the cool weather," Mrs. Billerbeck said. "But, my land, in this humidity that nag smells something awful."

When the village board refused to outlaw the keeping of horses of other livestock, Mrs. Billerbeck bought a $35 purebred Hampshire hog and built a neat white picket fence on Broadway, the town's main street.

"They probably think I'm kidding," she said. "Well they won't think so when I put in the goat and if that doesn't make them pass an ordinance maybe another pig and some chickens will."

Safecrackers Shot To Death By Officers

HOUSTON, July 22 —UP—Three suburban West University Place officers fired pistols and a saved-off shotgun at two safecrackers fled across a roof in pre-dawn darkness Wednesday and killed both men.

The dead men were identified as Edward Allen Martin, 32, and Earl Frederick Donovan, 25, of Houston, both ex-convicts.

Martin and Donovan were surprised as they blasted a safe in a supermarket in West University Place. They had dynamited open the safe and taken a small amount of cash and were working on another, which contained more than $11,000.

Although all three of the officers fired simultaneously as the safecrackers attempted to flee across the supermarket roof, both men were killed by blasts from a 12-gauge sawed-off shotgun in the hands of Capt. R. J. Bug.

West University Place Officer James O. Bryant discovered the safecrackers when he heard the sound of chiseling as he made a routine 3:30 a. m. check. He radioed for help.

Voting Date Aug. 14

Farmers To Vote On Wheat Quotas

All agriculture agents from nine counties in this sub-district of the Production and Marketing Administration were urged to cooperate with the PMA to inform wheat farmers and encourage participation in the national wheat quota referendum at a meeting today in the county courtroom.

H. H. Marshall, administrative officer of the state PMA office, College Station, explained to the group procedures to be followed.

All wheat producers with 15 or more acres to be planted for the 1954 crop will be asked to vote Aug. 14 for or against wheat marketing quotas.

Two-thirds or more of the nation's eligible farmers must approve the quotas before they can be put into effect. Marshall explained. The controlling legislation provides for this quota proclamation whenever the total supply of wheat available for the marketing year exceeds the "normal supply" by more than 20 per cent.

If the farmers' vote is yes, price support at 90 per cent of parity will be available for those who stay within their acreage allotment and penalties will apply on any wheat produced on acres in excess of the farm's allotment.

If the vote is no, price supports will drop to 50 per cent of parity for cooperators and non-cooperators who exceed their average allotments will not be entitled to price support even at the 50-per cent level.

Jury May Receive Damage Case Today

Attorneys in the $125,000 damage suit brought by E. E. Cockrell against Lawrence Blasberg were working on the charge to the jury this morning as testimony for both sides was virtually completed.

The suit arose out of an automobile wreck on U. S. Highway 66, west of McLean in October, 1949, when Don Rivers, a Wheeler County commissioner, was killed.

A string of witnesses was called to the stand Monday and Tuesday to testify on the collision, which also resulted in critically injuring Cockrell, L. J. See and Blasberg.

The case was expected to go to the jury late this morning or early this afternoon.

Another damage suit is scheduled to start this afternoon with the examination and selection of a jury.

The suit is being brought by Mrs. Mamie K. Bell against the Phillips Petroleum Co., as a result of a wreck last year in which her husband, Charles B. Bell, was killed when he and a Phillips Co. vehicle collided south of Pampa.

Popcorn Stand Stays

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 22 —UP—The Wyoming Supreme Court has ruled that John A. Nelson can continue to operate his popcorn stand in the same location at Riverton, Wyo.

The court rejected the complaint of T. E. Knight, who charged that the popcorn dispensary 150 feet from his movie theater was a fire hazard.

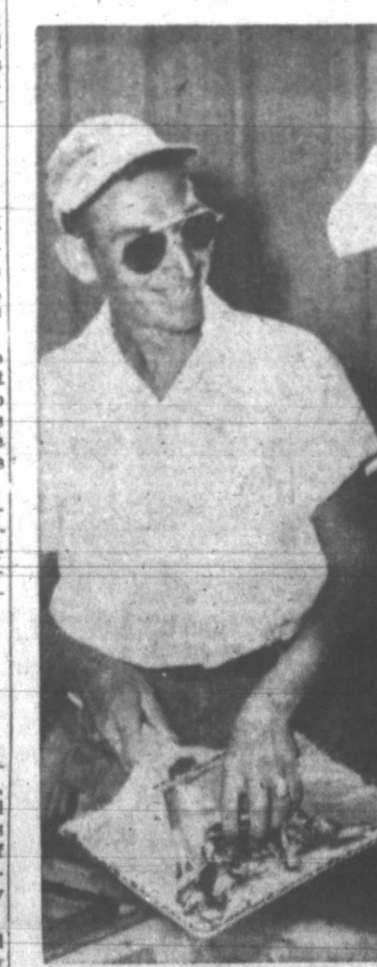

Merchants Asked To Get Tickets

Reminder cards asking merchants to send in orders for complimentary tickets to be given for this year's annual Top of Texas Rodeo, Aug. 4-8, are being mailed from rodeo headquarters today.

Mrs. William Ragsdale, rodeo association secretary, pointed out that only tickets used will have to be paid for by merchants. Bills will not be sent until after the rodeo and complimentary tickets are counted.

This is the second year for complimentary tickets to be made available. Merchants may mail reminder cards to the chamber of commerce office for orders, Mrs. Ragsdale stated.

Ike Backs Policies

WASHINGTON, July 22 —UP—President Eisenhower said Wednesday that if Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) or anyone else disagrees with his policies that is just too bad.

Mr. Eisenhower said at his news conference that his policies are based on firm conviction that they are right. Asked if he believed the Republican party could achieve greater discipline by cracking down on McCarthy, the President said he never deals in personalities.

But if anyone seeks fit to disagree with his policies, he said, that is just too bad.

McCarthy has in the past fought some administration appointments, notably that of Charles E. Bohlen as ambassador to Russia. Mr. Eisenhower went on to say that he believes his administration is making progress on a program that is in the best interests of 157 million Americans — although it is not moving along as fast as he had expected. He said varying opinions within the Republican party had to be reconciled.

On other subjects, he said:

1. Despite differences with both the North Korean enemies and our South Korean allies, he still hopes and is reasonably confident that an armistice can be signed soon.

2. The United States will make food available to the Soviet zone of Germany despite any objections from the Kremlin. He said the food sent as a humanitarian gesture, will be ready for the East Germans to come and get it.

3. He believes the $1.1 billion cut voted by the House Appropriations committee in foreign aid funds is too heavy on the basis of national security.

McCarthy Stands By Investigator

WASHINGTON, July 22 —UP—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy said Wednesday he is sticking by his chief investigator Roy M. Cohn until his critics "show me some specific reason" why he should not hold the job.

He brushed off as "generalities" the criticism leveled against Cohn by Sens. A. S. Mike Monroney (D-Okla.), Herbert H. Lehman (D-N.Y.), and others.

Cohn "has a tremendous record and those who have been criticizing him haven't been able to say anything (specific) against him," McCarthy insisted.

There have been no open demands for Cohn's scalp. But criticism of the former Justice Department prosecutor, now chief counsel of McCarthy's permanent investigating subcommittee, has been building up.

In a weekend telecast, McCarthy charged that the anti-Cohn attacks were a "flagrant example of anti-Semitism." Cohn is a Jew.

The issue boiled over on the Senate floor Tuesday with McCarthy's squaring off against Lehman and Monroney in one of the sharpest exchanges heard in the Senate in recent years.

Lehman, a Jew himself, denounced McCarthy as a man "charged with high misdemeanor" who "has not even had the guts to answer" the charges "to the Senate and the American people."

Two Persons Die After Collision

LOS FRESNOS, Tex., July 22 —UP—Julian Garcia, 38, Bayview, Tex., died in a San Benito hospital of head and internal injuries Wednesday, the second victim of the crash of an automobile-railroad section crew car Tuesday night near Los Fresnos.

Joe G. Garcia, 58, Bayview, died earlier. The two men were among four workers on the Missouri Pacific section car when it collided with a car driven by Isaac Garcia, Pedro, 17, Port Isabel, Tex.

Cedro Longoria, 41, and Gregorio Garcia, 62, the two other railroad employees, were in good condition in Dolly Vinsant hospital at San Benito.

Wind And Hail Accompany .79-Inch Rain At Panhandle

Wind, hail and rain in the area late Tuesday wrought its heaviest toll in Panhandle where rain from .79 of an inch to an estimated three inches in some parts was accompanied by hail and wind of 91-100 miles per hour velocity.

Damages to trees, small buildings, porches and signs were estimated today, but city and county trucks were working to clear streets and highways where tree limbs had been blown. Lakes throughout the area were filled from the rain.

Thunderstorms and wind in the Pampa, White Deer and Miami area brought a light sprinkling of rain to White Deer and Miami, but no moisture to Pampa and no reported damage.

The thunderstorms followed a sultry day in Pampa with the maximum temperature at 97 degrees.

As a few clouds were beginning to form at 11 a.m. today, the mercury had climbed from a low early morning point of 69 degrees to 86.

If it comes from a hardware store we have H. Lewis Hardware.

Bishop Is Cleared Of Red Connection

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The House Un-American Activities Committee declared unanimously Wednesday that Methodist Bishop Gene Robinson is not affiliated with the Communist party.

But the investigators were sharply divided following Robinson's appearance at a marathon public session, on whether the 61-year-old minister had given — perhaps unwittingly — aid and comfort to communism through association with Red front organizations.

Republican members of the committee of the groups in question minuted generally were convinced that Robinson had lent his name to Communist fronts, while they Democrats colleagues in general defended the bishop saying he merely had exercised his rights as a citizen.

Soldier Convicted Of Taking Money On False Pretense

CAMDEN, N. J., July 22.—A Texas soldier on leave from duty in Germany, was convicted here of obtaining money under false pretenses from a VFW post at Berlin, N. J.

The soldier, William A. Howard, 27, of Texarkana, Tex., made a break from the courtroom of Judge Bartholomew A. Sheehan when the jurist's verdict was announced Tuesday. He was indicted and held by Anthony Axadot, 38, Blenheim, N. J., an undersheriff. Sheehan set Sept. 10 as the date for sentencing.

Howard was accused of obtaining $40 by fraud from a welfare fund of the Berlin VFW post. Prosecuting attorneys said the soldier denied the charge but admitted obtaining $40 from a Haddon Heights, N. J., post on June 6.

The sheriff's office said another false pretense warrant had been lodged against the soldier by veterans' post in Franklinville, N. J.

Howard is in this country on 60-day leave, authorities said.

Attorneys Explain Small Claims Court

The newly-established Small Claims Court is "like a patent medicine — good for minor aches and pains; but, for anything more serious, call a doctor."

That was Borger County Attorney Bob Marshall's comment on the new civil cases law which County Attorney Bill Waters explained to an estimated 60-70 persons Tuesday night in the county courtroom.

Describing Texas as a "debtor's paradise," Waters maintained that the new court system, to be presided over by justices of the peace, is an "attempt to enact legislation to make it feasible for the businessman to bring small civil cases into court and collect."

In all claims except for those concerning wages, labor and salary, the maximum amount to be considered in such a court will be $50, exclusive of costs. The exceptions will be up to $100, Waters said.

In Gray County there will be a Small Claims Court for each of the four justices of the peace court. If the amount is more than $50, the case may be appealed to county court.

Effective Aug. 28, the new court system is "a step in the right direction," the county attorney said, "but there'll be no real protection till you can garnish a man's wages, as in Oklahoma and New Mexico."

Speaking of an allied subject, Waters suggested to those present a meeting "within the next 30 days" on worthless checks and how to collect on them.

Others on hand at the get-together were State Rep. Guy Hazlett, Borger; Harold Sanderson, Miami, county attorney; D. R. Henry and J. C. Claburn, justices of the peace; and Ben Gaudin, spokesman for Pampa merchants.

Bishop Is Cleared Of Red Connection

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The House Un-American Activities Committee declared unanimously Wednesday that Methodist Bishop Gene Robinson is not affiliated with the Communist party.

But the investigators were sharply divided following Robinson's appearance at a marathon public session, on whether the 61-year-old minister had given — perhaps unwittingly — aid and comfort to communism through association with Red front organizations.

Republican members of the committee of the groups in question minuted generally were convinced that Robinson had lent his name to Communist fronts, while they Democrats colleagues in general defended the bishop saying he merely had exercised his rights as a citizen.

Supreme Court To Take Judge's Case

AUSTIN, July 22.—The Texas Supreme Court Wednesday accepted an unprecedented case seeking removal from office of 79th District Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin of Alice, and named District Judge D. B. Wood of Georgetown to hear testimony.

The case was filed by Shireman, Rogers, Parry and McLean, attorneys of Corpus Christi and 11 Rio Grande Valley attorneys.

The Supreme Court overruled a motion to dismiss the case.

However, the court struck down four of 12 "causes" cited against Laughlin in the suit brought by State Sen. William H. Shireman of Corpus Christi and 11 Rio Grande Valley attorneys.

Order Report by Oct. 1

The court ordered Wood to make a report by Oct. 1.

The case was filed by Shireman, Rogers, Parry and McLean, July 9 against the controversial South Texas judge, a supporter of political leader George Parr.

Shireman said the case was presented under an 1879 provision of the Texas Constitution which had never been used before.

The Supreme Court heard arguments in the case last Wednesday.

Street Topping Slated August 1

Pampa today has 26 blocks ready for topping, Russell Cartwright, superintendent of the street department reported and estimated approximately 15 more will be ready by Aug. 15.

Asphalt topping is to start around Aug. 1 and should be finished by Sept. 1, Cartwright added.

Strike Child Case

The court struck out a "cause" cited by Shireman alleging that Laughlin acted "summarily" in a child custody case, awarding custody of the child to the father.

In arguments before the Supreme Court last week, C. C. Small, Austin attorney representing Laughlin, described the charge as "trivial and insignificant."

The court also struck out a charge that Laughlin, "in violation of his oath of office," sold his law library to Jim Wells county for $2,185.70.

Tobin Rifles Held Today

BOSTON, Mass., July 22.—Funeral services were held Wednesday for Maurice J. Tobin, 52-year-old "boy wonder" of politics who died Sunday while reading a newspaper in bed.

Former President Harry S. Truman, in whose Cabinet Tobin served as secretary of labor, headed the honorary pallbearers who escorted the body into Holy Cross Cathedral for the solemn requiem high mass sung by Archbishop Richard J. Cushing.

Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York was among clergymen seated in the sanctuary of the cathedral. The honorary pallbearers also included Martin P. Durkin, Tobin's successor as secretary of labor and representative of President Eisenhower at the funeral.

Other city, state and national figures joined the funeral cortege that moved from the Tobin home in the Jamaica Plain section to the cathedral and then to Holyhood cemetery in nearby Brookline.

The Massachusetts National Guard furnished a color guard and firing squad for the Irish immigrant's son who rose to become mayor of Boston and governor of the state. Air National Guard planes roared over the cemetery in a final salute.

Mourners included many delegations from CIO and AFL unions who found Tobin a strong friend during his more than four years as secretary of labor.

Rapist Carried To Huntsville

The 19-year-old Yakima, Wash., youth who was convicted in Gray County district court of raping a 14-year-old Canadian High School girl is now in the Huntsville state penitentiary.

Sentenced to 12 years by District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich June 22, John Bordeaux was picked up Tuesday afternoon by Hemphill County Sheriff Clyde Ristley and taken to Amarillo where he was put aboard the wagon for prison, according to Sheriff Rufe Jordan.

The crime occurred April 19, according to trial testimony.

Manners Make Friends

One thing to remember when you're a house guest is not to wait until the last minute to get train, bus or airline schedules to find out what time of day you are going to leave. Remember, it may not matter much to you whether you leave at 7 a.m. or 7 p.m., but it may matter a lot to your host and hostess.

Next to knowing when a house guest is to arrive, the most important thing is knowing when the guest plans to leave.

Engagement Of Miss Barbara Keehn Is Told At Tea Given In Miami Home

MIAMI (Special) — Mrs. Annie Keehn of Miami announced the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Barbara, to Bailey Dodson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Dodson of Aspermont, and nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Dodson of Miami, at a tea given recently.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend,

After reading your column and seeing how much wonderful advice you have given others, I am writing to you for help.

My husband and I have become complete strangers. Why? My husband is in the service and has friends that do not believe in a happy marriage, therefore, influencing him to the greatest extent.

I am new here and have no friends here; however, I do work but am the only girl employed in the business. I merely point this out to show you I am lonely.

OUT LATE

My husband goes out with other service men four or five nights a week, returning home between 1:30 and 2 a.m. (To relieve my mind, I hold to the theory it is male companionship rather than female companionship he seeks, however, I may be wrong.)

I have spoken to him about this and have asked him to take me out, but the only answer I get is that it is no fun to go with me. I have also become quite angry with him for staying out so late, but he only replies, "Give me my liberty or give me death."

Dear Grace Friend, what advice can you give me? Remember, where there is happiness a person lives, but where there is no happiness a person merely exists.

How can I start living again?

Gratefully yours,
Mrs. T.

Lemon custard bread pudding is a wonderful dessert by itself. But topped with strawberry hard sauce it is superlative. This glamorous dessert idea originated with a thrifty homemaker as a means of using up leftover bread. It became her family's favorite dessert — and then a specialty for company meals. The pudding is nicely proportioned as to bread and custard mixture. Evaporated milk, only partially diluted, assures rich creaminess and smooth texture. Do plan the baking so that it comes to the table warm from the oven. Then the dollop of glistening pink and fruity hard sauce melts and blends perfectly with every luscious bite.

MATURE PARENT

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

A young doctor I know was permitted to be present at the birth of his first child.

His wife was given an anesthetic that dulled her pain, but left her semi-conscious. After one of her last intervals of struggle, she was startled to hear her whispering. He leaned over her anxiously. To his astonishment, he realized that her words were not for him, but for the baby who was cooperating with her to get himself born.

To her yet unborn son, his wife was whispering words of encouragement drawn from her secret expectations and hopes. Drowsily, she was saying, "It's nearly over, darling... don't be afraid, I'm here... let's try again so that we can really be together at last..."

But she could not keep his promise to be together with her baby after he entered the world. Nurses in sterile white seized him, wrapped him in sterile white and rushed him down a long corridor to a sterile white nursery far from the person with whom he had just shared the momentous and intimate experience of birth.

A fine article in this month's issue of Parents Magazine comes straight out and asks for a revision of hospital rules that separate mothers and their newborn. It tells us what leading psychiatrists think of this unnatural arrangement and its effects on the emotional flow between us and our baby in the early hours and days after birth.

Our passiveness in accepting such a silly regulation is something I have never understood. We'd never stand for such an interfering rule in any other human relationship. If anyone tried to tell us, for example, that we couldn't have a honeymoon after our wedding, we'd tell him to take his interference elsewhere.

That's because we recognize that honeymoons are emotionally sound institutions. When John married Mary, everyone recognizes their right to uninterrupted closeness so that together they can adjust to their changed relationship. Quite properly, Mary and John put aside friends, relatives and jobs to devote themselves to exploring new aspects and meanings in each other.

If their hotel manager rapped on their door the morning after their wedding to insist that they take separate rooms, can't you hear what they'd say? They'd want to know what the world was coming to.

Yet when Mary goes to the hospital to have her baby, nobody thinks of protesting separate rooms for her and her new child. And this is also a relationship that is equally needing of adjustment. If Mary is a modern mother who has decided against nursing her baby, she's lucky if she's permitted to touch his finger.

No wonder she has to begin to read books encouraging her to show confidence in her treatment of her baby — that anonymous, sterile bundle that pops in and out of her room every four hours like a poor little jack-in-the-box.

After a normal birth, a mother's overwhelming feeling is one of depthless peace. It comes to her by plan, not by accident. It has been created by her baby and should be shared with him. It has been given her for the purpose of gratitude to him and wonder at him.

As this feeling is needed to color all her future behavior toward him, it should not be wasted on idle chatter, admiration for somebody's roses or the new sweater set Aunt Jane has brought. It should be given to the baby who needs it to feel welcome.

Bouquets of garden flowers show up to better advantage on lamp tables if they are scaled to the size of the table and are completely lighted. If an opaque shade casts down the illumination so that only half the bouquet is lighted, the effect of the design is spoiled.

2 eggs
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon gated lemon rind
1 1/2 cups evaporated milk (1 tall can)
1 cup boiling water
Nutmeg

Cut bread into about 1/2-inch cubes, or break into small pieces. Do not trim crusts unless they are too brown. There should be 2 cups cubed bread. Place bread cubes in buttered 8 by 8 by 2 inch baking dish. Beat eggs slightly with a fork. Blend in sugar, salt and lemon rind. Stir in milk, then water. Pour over bread. Sprinkle top with nutmeg. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until set, about 30 to 35 minutes. Serve warm with strawberry hard sauce. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Strawberry Hard Sauce
1/2 cup sliced strawberries, mashed
1/4 cup butter
1 1/4 cups unsifted confectioners sugar

Cream butter. Gradually add sugar and continue creaming until sugar and butter are well blended. Gradually add mashed strawberries and beat until light. Chill before serving. Makes sufficient sauce for 6 to 8 servings.

Coronation Marks Evening Fashions

By GALLE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — In a year that saw the Coronation of an English Queen, the very formal ball gown assumes an importance that it ordinarily could not have in the life of the average woman, for there is more tendency to big, dressy affairs.

The lives of American women have changed greatly in the last decade. There are many more women working than ever before. They have more money to spend, generally, but they are also busier. For these women (and many others), the short though dressy evening gown and the evening separates are exactly tailored to their needs.

Attending were Mrs. and Mrs. Nick Nicholson, Mr. and Mrs. Bob McBrayer, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nicholson, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Phillips, and Galen and Fern, Mrs. John Baird O'Keefe and Mike, Mrs. Hillman and Frances and Glenda, Ray and Mrs. Howard Lyons and Kay and Tommy, and Mr. and Mrs. Brian Evans.

mink, lace or jeweled embroidery. The short evening dress is full skirts (often pleated) and some cover for the shoulders. Sparkle touches are used for the bodice, sometimes sprinkled lightly over an entire skirt. The wide cut tank or V neckline appears most often in late-day dresses that can go on to evening parties or dinner.

Oilers Near 1st Division With 8-5 Win Over Gold Sox

2 Games Tonite In Homestand Finale

The Oilers will wind up their current homestand tonight by meeting the pesky Amarillo Gold Sox in a doubleheader at Oiler Park, starting at 7 p.m.

Rolando Rodriguez and Jake Henson have been chosen by Manager Porkey Pawelek to start on the mound for the Oilers in the twin-bill. Gold Sox manager Jim Matthews was undecided last night on his pitching choices. But Eddie Locke, the sensational Negro right-hander for the Golden Hose, is expected to hurl one of the games.

The Oilers grabbed the opening game of the three-game series last night with an 8-5 win behind the 6-11 pitcher of Sad Sam Williams who racked up his 19th win of the campaign. The Oiler win moved them to within 1½ games of the first division.

Both the Oilers and Gold Sox came up with some costly errors in last night's tilt but the Gold Sox possibly committed the most costly blunder. An error by Dub Graves at second base with two

Realignment May Be Discussed At Tomorrow's WT-NM Confab At Lubbock

THERE WILL BE SOME VITAL business taken up at tomorrow's meeting of the WT-NM League officials who will be gathering for the annual All-Star classic at Lubbock.

The main business at hand, of course, is deciding what to do with the Borger franchise. A group of Borger business men will meet with league heads in tomorrow's meeting at which time they'll present a plan of keeping the Gassers in Borger. It is our guess that Borger will finish this season but as to their future after this season, we don't wish to hazard a guess.

Another item that is likely to come up at tomorrow's meeting is realignment. It is believed that a realignment of the West Texas-New Mexico and Longhorn Leagues will be needed to save baseball in this section.

Jack Holden, sports editor for the Abilene Reporter-News, comes up with a pretty good suggestion for a realignment. His plan would put Abilene, Lubbock, Plainview, Amarillo and Pampa of the WT-NM and San Angelo, Midland and Odessa of the Longhorn into one league. This would put together a pretty compact league and it would be made up of strictly Texas teams. This would also be almost identical to the District 1-AAAA setup that involves the Pampa Harvesters.

Borger is the only city left out of this plan that is a member of 1-AAA. Replacing them in the pro baseball setup would be Plainview.

This would certainly cut out those long hops into New Mexico, especially Albuquerque. Under this

Celebration Set Monday Cowtown Plans Big Welcome For Ben

FORT WORTH, July 22—UP—Ben Hogan, the idol of the golfing world, will be given a chance to get in some much needed rest before his home town parade before his official "welcome home" civic celebration.

Although the mighty mite of the fairways is due in by plane Friday at 5:25 p.m., he will have until Monday to recuperate from the strenuous New York reception before tackling a similar round of activity here.

There will be a reception at Amon Carter Field when Hogan and his wife, Valerie, arrive Friday, but the "big doings" will not come until Monday when there will be a parade, a presentation of the key to the city and a testimonial dinner.

A Carswell Air Force Base band and honor guard headed by Carswell's commanding officer, Maj. Gen. John B. Montgomery, will be the official welcome for the Hogans at the airport.

From there they will be whisked to fashionable Western Hills hotel, where they will reside for about two weeks. The Hogans have sold their home here and are in the process of building another.

The Hogans will leave their hotel at 11 a. m. Monday and be taken downtown for a noon parade. It will be just a two-car affair, plus motorcycle escort, since officials felt there was no point in trying to take any of the attention away from the honoree.

The parade will end at noon at the steps to the city hall where Mayor Edgar Dean will present Hogan the key to the city. Hogan is expected to make a brief speech here, where most of the crowd will be gathered.

Following the city hall ceremony, the official party moves into the Crystal Ball Room of Hotel Texas for the testimonial dinner. Hogan, the testimonial dinner, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday. Tickets are being sold by the Chamber of Commerce at $2.50 each.

Well Ahead Of '52 Pace Roberts Wins 16th; Blanks Milwaukee

By CARL LUNDQUIST
NEW YORK, July 22—UP—Robin Roberts is going to have to be almost unbeatable from now on to equal his pace during the last half of 1952, but even if he doesn't, he could well wind up with 30 victories and win the most valuable player award he just missed a year ago.

Riflin pitched his 16th victory of the year Tuesday night and his fourth shutout when he blanked Milwaukee 10 to 0 in the first game of a doubleheader with seven hits. The Braves rebounded to take the second game 7 to 3 but it didn't dim the all-around luster of Roberts' latest job.

As usual, his control was superb. He walked only one batter and struck out six. Only three Braves reached second. In addition he drove in two runs, getting two singles, one a safe bunt.

Ahead of 1952
Roberts is well ahead of his 1952 pitching time table when he didn't win his 16th game until July 30. At his present pace he could make the magic 30-game level for the first time in the majors since Dizzy Dean won that number for the 1934 Cardinals.

However, Roberts pitched at an incredible pace during the last half of 1952, winning 17 games and losing only one after the All-Star game break.

In the second game, lefty, John Antonelli pitched seventh-inning ball for his ninth victory and catcher Walker Cooper drove in four runs with a double and homer. Ed Mathews hit his 29th homer for Milwaukee. Brooklyn's window-breakers took a full four-game lead over the Braves while Billy Cox drove in three runs in a 15 to 4 victory over the Cubs. Gil Hodges drove in four runs with a homer, triple and two singles, and Duke Snider, Pee-wee Reese and Bobby Morgan also hit homers while Billy Cox drove in three runs with three singles.

In other National League games, the Cardinals topped the Giants 10 to 6 as Stan Musial and Rip Repulski led an 11-hit assault with homer and Gerry Staley won his 13th game while Cincinnati topped Pittsburgh 7 to 2, as lefty Ken Raderfensberger scattered 10 hits and had a three-run homer.

In the American League, the Indians beat the Yankees at Cleveland for the first time this year, 8 to 3 to move back in to third place while Detroit edged Washington, 8 to 7, in a 10-inning battle. Chicago and Philadelphia at St. Louis were rained out.

The Indians pounded out 13 hits and Bob Lemon achieved his 13th victory by holding New York to seven. Al Rosen started Lemon off in front with a two-run homer, his 24th, and the Indians took the lead for good with two more in the fourth, one scoring on a squeeze bunt by Joe Ginsberg. Larry Doby's two-bagger and a two-run single by George Strickland accounted for three more in the fifth.

Don Lund doubled with two out in the 10th to bring home the tying run and win for Detroit. In triumph, Mickey Vernon's three-run homer sent the Nats ahead in the ninth and Matt Batts hit a pinch-homer for Detroit in the bottom of the inning to send the game into the extra frame. Washington scored a lone run on a single by Mel Hoderlein in the 10th before Lund broke it up.

Tuesday's Star: Robin Roberts of the Phillies, who pitched his fourth shutout and his 16th victory, 10 to 0 over Milwaukee, also giving two hits and driving in two runs. Milwaukee won the second game 7 to 3.

Hot Battle For 1st Division Spot In TL

The hot fight for Texas League first division berth centered around four teams Tuesday-Fort Worth and Tulsa trying to stay in and Houston and Oklahoma City trying to get in.

The Cats and the Oilers lost Monday night and the Oilers lost Tuesday night. The Oilers are now in a three game margin from third-place Fort Worth to sixth-place Oklahoma City.

League-leading Shreveport clipped Port Worth 3 to 2; Dallas remained one-half game behind the Oilers. Houston edged Tulsa 4 to 3; and Oklahoma City clipped San Antonio 4 to 3 in 10 innings.

How To Play Par Golf Make A Mental Picture Of Each Shot

Sixteenth of a series
By JULIUS BOROS
U.S. Open Champion

Using the driver, play the ball off the left heel.

Be sure the arms are in a comfortable and natural position. The club actually must resemble a hammer, considered as an extension of the arms.

Make certain the feet are properly placed, with equal weight distribution, and the toes pointed slightly outward to aid balance. Check the grip before assuming the stance.

Look down the fairway and make a mental picture of the shot. You have gripped the club but, have not noted it behind the ball.

After taking only a few practice swings, you will discover your stroke with this long club is more of a sweeping motion than was your hit-down-and-through arc with the iron. Due to the added loft of the medium iron, you actually were developing a down-and-through motion, even though concentrating on merely hitting the ball solidly, with the clubhead doing the work.

Also due to the added length, the driver drags along the ground on your backswing a little longer than it did with shorter-shafted medium irons.

Swing the driver as fast as you can and still maintain timing and rhythm. Speed adds distance to your shot, but don't sacrifice harmony in your pattern just to develop a fast swing.

Privet with a natural rhythm. Remember that this regulates the speed of the swing.

It is just as fatal to underswing as to overswing.

Not only will you keep the driver low to the ground, longer than you did the medium iron, but you will also take it back farther due to the added length. The driver should be practically parallel to the ground at the top of your backswing, whereas your medium iron was in more of an upright position.

The downswing is executed in much the same manner as with the medium iron. Owing to the difference in the loft of the club, the driver will hit the ball more squarely and pick it off the turf cleaner. The iron shot becomes more of a matter of pinching the ball in between the lofted club and the turf.

Sports Parade Sarazen Thrilled Over Ben Hogan's N. Y. Reception

By JACK CUDDY
NEW YORK, July 22—UP—Gene Sarazen, the last American golfer to get a New York ticker-tape parade before Ben Hogan, said Tuesday, "I was thrilled right down to my toes watching Ben's grand welcome home."

Stocky, sunbrowned Gene was thrilled by Tuesday's tremendous reception because "it showed not only the public's appreciation for one of the all-time great players but also its respect for the British title that he won."

The current generation has shown a tendency to ignore the British Open championship, he explained. Had it not been for this tendency, Hogan might have been able to compete both in our PGA championship and in the British Open. But his dates conflicted.

"I'm sure Ben would have added the PGA title to his sweep of the Masters, U. S. Open and British Open because he's at the peak of his game."

Sarazen, who received a ticker-tape parade in 1932 when he added the British title to his U. S. Open crown, has been in big-time tournament for 33 years. He hopes to continue as such "for several more years." He speaks with authority of "great" players, for he met the best. They included the four he rates tops: Hogan, Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, and Harry Vardon of England.

Which was the greatest?

"It would be wrong to say any one of them was the greatest," said the golfer-farmer of Germantown, N. Y. "Remember, there have been changes in equipment and conditions."

He thought for a moment and added, "But it's safe to say Hogan is outstanding because of the heights he reached despite tremendous handicaps. He won in senior years. And shortly after he resumed play, he had a nearly fatal accident that threatened to leave him crippled for life."

Leading Colts Sink Drillers, 15 To 7

League-leading San Angelo slashed out 17 hits and tallied all of its 15 runs in the first four innings to hand the sinking Artesia Drillers their third straight Longhorn League loss by a score of 15 to 7.

Runner-up Carlsbad kept pace with the Colts, staying only two and a half games behind, by rallying for two runs in the ninth inning to defeat Big Spring, 7 to 6.

In the other game Tuesday night, Rowell trimmed Odessa, 6 to 2. The game schedule is on tap for Wednesday night with Rowell at Odessa, Carlsbad at Big Spring, Artesia at San Angelo and Midland idle.

While his teammates were pounding out 17 hits, Mario Salda collected his 10th league victory for the San Angelo Colts. Artesia's Art Mulcahy supplied a little power with a home run blast in the second inning.

Armando Gallart, who was on Big Spring roster earlier this week, spelled destruction for his former teammates Tuesday night as he dropped a pop fly into center field in the bottom of the ninth frame to allow the winning run to score for Carlsbad.

Sports Hold Lead With 5-3 Win Over Cats; Dallas Wins

By UNITED PRESS
Three big runs in the eighth inning was the magic combination for the pace-setting Shreveport Sports and their pressing rivals, the Dallas Eagles, as both marked up victories in Texas League play Tuesday night.

With the score knotted at 2 to 2 in the eighth frame, the Sports proceeded to push across three tallies and go on to defeat sinking Fort Worth, 5 to 3. Meanwhile, in Dallas, the second-place Eagles came from behind in their half of the eighth to overcome the Beaumont Exporters and hand them their fifth straight defeat, 6 to 4.

In other games Tuesday night, Dallas' Edgar Dean took over at second base Tuesday night and will play for the remainder of the road trip.

Toby Waggoner, coach of the New Deal basketball team, state girls champion, will be in charge of the clinic. Mrs. Velma Harrison Lampasas, is chairman of the organization, organized in Austin last April.

The clinic will include first aid demonstrations, sessions on health precautions for girls, and rules interpretation and strategy.

Lopez Insists Tribe Is Still In Pennant Race

CLEVELAND, July 22—UP—A still-optimistic Al Lopez spoke hopefully about "a new hot streak" Wednesday although the cold figures in the American League standings showed his Cleveland Indians 10 full games off the pace.

Lopez' enthusiasm stemmed from his team's 8 to 3 triumph over the league-leading Yankees Tuesday night but what cheered him most was the 13 hits his batters collected off three New York pitchers.

"That makes four straight over the Yankees," he reminded in the clubhouse. "Three in New York and one here."

"And Rosen is supplying the power we need. Now if a few of the others can get the idea ..."

"Don't write us out of it yet," were Lopez' final words. "We have a lot of ground to make up but don't forget, we have quite a bit of time to do it in, also."

Most experts agreed that Cleveland's only future lay, perhaps, in 1954, not Lopez.

"We're not through by a long shot," he insisted. "We're going to fight them every inch of the way. They may think we're out of the race, but we certainly don't feel that way."

Lopez' greatest praise was directed at sinkerball ace Bob Lemon, who gained his 13th victory by holding the Yankees to seven hits, and Al Rosen, who sent the Indians on their way to victory with his 4th home run with one man on in the first inning.

"Lemon pitched a whole of a ball game," said the Indian chief, "but that's nothing new with him. You can always count on Lem to win the important games. . . he sure did a fine job."

"And Rosen is supplying the power we need. Now if a few of the others can get the idea ..."

"Don't write us out of it yet," were Lopez' final words. "We have a lot of ground to make up but don't forget, we have quite a bit of time to do it in, also."

Pakistan Wheat Bill Opened Drive For Huge 'Give-Away'

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — President Eisenhower's request to Congress for authority to give Pakistan $75 million worth of surplus U.S. wheat for famine relief is just the beginning of what may become a multimillion-dollar give-away program of American farm products.

Now in preparation by the White House is what has become known as "the general bill" for disposal of all U.S. farm surpluses. It would give the President broad powers to dispose of these surpluses in any way that he chooses. This could be by relief shipments at home, by export sales at reduced prices or by outright gift.

For a time the draft of this proposed legislation was known as "the Benson bill." This name was taken from the fact that the White House had asked Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson to draw up such a bill.

But when Secretary Benson heard that his name was being tacked onto the idea, he protested violently. Remembering what had happened to former Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan's so-called "Brannan" plan, the new secretary hastened to decline any credit for the Eisenhower administration idea. Secretary Benson had to take this position for the simple reason that he has been a leader in trying to save the government money get it out of the farm business, and end federal handouts. This new idea, however, was nothing more than a disguised U.S. subsidy to American agriculture, and a give-away program to beat anything heard of since the days of Lend-Lease and UNRRA.

Global Extension.

So the Benson bill was rechristened the general bill. It is now being polished off by White House, Budget Bureau, Mutual Security Administration, Departments of State and Agriculture, before being submitted to Congress for approval.

In substance, this general bill is merely an extension of the Pakistan bill, on a global basis. It is also an extension of other proposals made by the American Farm Bureau Federation and the National Grange. Their aim has been to get rid of U.S. crop surpluses by dumping them abroad, so as to keep American farm prices high at home.

The Farm Bureau proposal is one-shot proposition. It would authorize the Commodity Credit Corporation to turn over to Mutual Security Administration up to $1 billion worth of U.S. crop surpluses. These surpluses would be sold abroad by MSA at market prices and paid for in foreign currencies. The foreign money would then be spent abroad to finance U.S. military and economic aid.

The Grange proposal is to establish a two-price system on American farm products. The lower price would be charged for export sales of the surpluses.

No matter how the Farm Bureau and Grange proposals are dressed up, they are nothing more than disguised farm subsidies. And no matter how the Pakistan relief or general bills may be justified, they are in essence handouts.

In spite of the fact that there was a change of administrations last January, the philosophy of the multimillion dollar give-away still prevails in Washington, as the solution to all foreign problems. This has caused something of a split within the Eisenhower administration. The Department of Agriculture under Secretary Benson and his Foreign Agriculture Service under Romeo E. Short, are opposed to the give-away. State Department and MSA are for it.

There is no question about Pakistan needing and deserving the aid. She has had two years of crop failures and famine. She has been a good friend and supporter of the United States in foreign affairs. She is a young and struggling country. She has just gone through a cabinet crisis over failure to solve food shortages.

Six months ago, when the Pakistan government first asked the U. S. for aid it was on the basis of a loan to buy wheat. Last year Pakistan was given a $15 million loan with which to buy U.S. wheat. She got other aid by barter from Russia, Japan and the British Commonwealth countries.

This year the request was again made for a wheat loan. Republican Speaker Joe Martin came out of a White House conference saying that a wheat loan for Pakistan had been agreed on. But when the formal request came out, it was for a gift.

Two years ago, India asked for a famine-relief wheat loan. President Truman asked Congress to give India two million tons. Congress balked, and authorized a $100 million wheat loan instead. The question now is whether the suit to convert the Pakistan and general bills into loans.

Youngster Keeping Pace With Brother

That Mullin family is at it again. This time Richard Mullin, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. (Moon) Mullin, 1136 S. Dwight, picked up a 19-inch snake in the fields near the new Lambr School, took it home and bottled it.

A month or so ago, his brother, Bill, 10, latched onto a coyote, had his picture taken with it and, matter of fact, is still trying to sell it.

Richard was quite casual about catching the newest acquisition for the Mullin household: "I picked it up by the tail, then by the head and carried it home where I stuck it in a bottle."

Sounds Too Realistic . . .
Mac Plans Magazine In Which Nothing Right Ever Happens

BY HENRY McLEMORE

To look at the news-stands you'd swear that if there were one thing this country didn't need it was another magazine, but I am seriously considering starting a new one.

I believe there is a real need for the type of magazine I have in mind and that it would be eagerly read by millions of average Americans. My magazine would be named "Cheer Up!" and it would be filled from cover to cover with stories and articles in which nothing ever happened exactly right.

Everything works as slick as a whistle in the periodicals now available to Americans. Things may look bad for a while, but two paragraphs from home John gets the gal he wants, the amateur photographer wins First Prize with his shot of a honess mothering three stray chicks, the young couple with only $1.35 in savings build themselves a dream home with scrap lumber and their bare hands, and the bow-legged gal who couldn't even get a pay in the senior play struggles on Broadway until she finally gets the lead in a Rodgers and Hammerstein hit.

These things happen, that's true, but they don't happen with the frequency the magazines would lead you to believe they do. No, sir. For most of us Americans life is a series of misses, near misses, snafus, disappointment, and problems that never get completely unsnarled.

The name "Cheer Up!" might sound misleading, but it isn't at all. Nothing could be more cheering, say, to a man who had gone broke manufacturing feather dusters than to read an article about a man who had been forced to share the crumbs with the pigeons at Trafalgar Square because he had sunk his all into a feather duster factory.

For every American who has bought an old barn or an 1821 farmhouse and who, for practically nothing, converted these antiques into charming homes, there are thousands who have bought the same sort of properties and wished paper a wall, lay linoleum, build thousands of other dandy, every-day happenings.

Be sure to get a copy of "Cheer Up!" when it hits the stands. It'll give you assurance that there are thousands upon thousands in the same boat with you.

There will be stories in which John does not get the Louise he wants and so he is never completely happy, and stories in which John does get the Louise he wants and Louise is never completely happy.

There will be articles about boys whose chests shrunk rather than developed after months of exercises with bar bells, features telling of uranium prospectors who got nothing for their troubles but broken ankles, stories of how it is impossible for most dog owners to train their pets, and articles dealing with disappointing gardens, hidden money that was burned up in a stove or swept away in a flood, how men and women lost money trying to cut their own hair, and

One of the first articles in my new magazine, if and when it gets started, will be one entitled: "He Broke His Neck Trying to be Handy Around the House," and will start something like this:

"This is the story of Joe Smith, ordinary American husband, a nd how he met his death trying to

Attorneys Explain Small Claims Court

The newly-established Small Claims Court is "like a patent medicine — good for minor aches and pains; but, for anything more serious, call a doctor."

That was Borger County Attorney Bob Marshall's comment on the new civil cases law which County Attorney Bill Waters explained to an estimated 60-70 persons Tuesday night in the county courtroom.

Describing Texas as a "debtor's paradise," Waters maintained that the new court system, to be presided over by justices of the peace, is an "attempt to enact legislation to make it feasible for the businessman to bring small civil cases into court and collect."

In all claims except for those concerning wages, labor and salary, the minimum amount to be considered in such a court will be $50, exclusive of costs. The exceptions will be up to $100, Waters said.

In Gray County there will be a Small Claims Court for each of the four justices of the peace court. If the amount is more than $20, the case may be appealed to county court.

Effective Aug. 26, the new court system is "a step in the right direction," the county attorney said, "but there'll be no real protection till you can garnish a man's wages, as in Oklahoma and New Mexico."

Speaking of an allied subject, Waters suggested to those present a meeting "within the next 30 days" on worthless checks and how to collect on them.

Others on hand at the get-together were State Rep. Guy Hazlett, Borger; Harold Sanders, Miami, county attorney; D. R. Henry and J. C. Claburn, justices of the peace; and Ben Ogden, spokesman for Pampa merchants.

The Democrats also noted that were not listed as subversive at the time Oxnam was associated with them.

Oxnam maintained throughout almost 10 hours of give-and-take with the committee Tuesday and Tuesday night that he is a vigorous opponent of the American way of life and a long-time foe of communism.

The motion to make clear the committee's conclusion that Oxnam has no Communist party ties was made by Rep. Donald L. Jackson (R-Calif.), who had charged Oxnam with serving "God on Sunday and the Communist front the rest of the week."

WASHINGTON, July 22 — UP — The House Un-American Activities committee declared unanimously Wednesday that Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam is not affiliated with the Communist party.

But the investigators were sharply divided, following Oxnam's appearance at a marathon public session, on whether the 61-year-old minister had given — perhaps unwittingly — aid and comfort to communism through association with Red front organizations.

Republican members of the committee of the groups in question generally were convinced that Oxnam had lent his name to Communist fronts, while their Democrat colleagues in general defended the bishop saying he merely had exercised his rights as a citizen.

Soldier Convicted Of Taking Money On False Pretense

CAMDEN, N. J., July 22 — UP — A Texas soldier on leave from duty in Germany, was convicted here of obtaining money under false pretenses from a VFW post at Berlin, N. J.

The soldier, William A. Howard, 27, of Texarkana, Tex., made a break from the courtroom of Judge Bartholomew A. Sheehan when the jurist's verdict was announced Tuesday. He was tackled and held by Anthony Asadel, 38, of Berlin, N. J., an undersheriff.

Sheehan set Sept. 10 as the date for sentencing.

Howard was accused of obtaining $40 by fraud from a welfare fund of the Berlin VFW post. Prosecuting attorneys said the soldier denied the charge but admitted obtaining $40 from a Haddon Heights, N. J., post on June 6.

The sheriff's office said another false pretense warrant had been lodged against the soldier by a veterans' post in Franklinville, N. J.

Howard is in this country on 60-day leave, authorities said.

Supreme Court To Take Judge's Case

AUSTIN, July 22 — UP — The Texas Supreme Court Wednesday accepted an unprecedented case seeking removal from office of 7th District Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin of Alice, and named District Judge D. B. Wood of Georgetown to hear testimony.

Wood, judge of the 26th Judicial District, was appointed to serve as master-in-chancery by the court.

The Supreme Court overruled a motion to dismiss the case.

However, the court struck down four of 12 "causes" cited against Laughlin in the suit brought by State Sen. William H. Shireman of Corpus Christi and 11 Rio Grande Valley attorneys.

Order Report by Oct. 1

The court ordered Wood to make a report by Oct. 1.

The case was filed by Shireman July 9 against the controversial South Texas judge, a supporter of political leader George Parr.

Shireman said the case was presented under an 1879 provision of the Texas Constitution which had never been used before.

The Supreme Court heard arguments in the case last Wednesday.

Strikes Child Case

The court struck out a "cause" cited by Shireman alleging that Laughlin acted "summarily" in a child custody case, awarding custody of the child to the father.

In arguments before the Supreme Court last week, C. C. Small, Austin attorney representing Laughlin, described the charge as "trivial and insignificant."

The court also struck out a charge that Laughlin, "in violation of his oath of office," sold his law library to Jim Wells county for $2,185.70.

Worst Fire

Worst forest fire in American history is considered to be the Peshtigo fire in Wisconsin, October of 1871. Fire burned over 1,280,000 acres, homes, towns, and settlements were swept away by flames, and 1500 persons perished.

Automotive Hint

The thin-brained wire core from the inside of an old speedometer cable, with one of the solid ends cut off, makes an excellent tool for cleaning a radiator overflow pipe. Its flexibility permits it to be slipped easily into the pipe, and the sharp end cuts any scale or sludge.

Ripener

Ethylene gas is used to ripen fruits. The practice goes back to ancient China, where pears were ripened by burning incense. Thousands of years later, it was realized that it was the ethylene in the incense that caused the ripening.

Tobin Riles Held Today

BOSTON, Mass., July 22 — UP — Funeral services were held Wednesday for Maurice J. Tobin, 52-year-old "boy wonder" of politics who died Sunday while reading a newspaper in bed.

Former President Harry S. Truman, in whose Cabinet Tobin served as secretary of labor, headed the honorary pallbearers who escorted the body into Holy Cross Cathedral for the solemn requiem high mass sung by Archbishop Richard J. Cushing.

Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York was among clergymen seated in the sanctuary of the cathedral. The honorary pallbearers also included Martin P. Durkin, Tobin's successor as secretary of labor and representative of President Eisenhower at the funeral.

Other city, state and national figures joined the funeral cortege that moved from the Tobin home in the Jamaica Plain section to the cathedral and then to Holyhood cemetery in nearby Brookline.

The Massachusetts National Guard furnished a color guard and firing squad for the Irish immigrant's son who rose to become mayor of Boston and governor of the state. Air National Guard planes roared over the cemetery in a final salute.

Mourners included many delegations from CIO and AFL unions who found Tobin a strong friend during his more than four years as secretary of labor.

MATURE PARENT

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

A young doctor I know was permitted to be present at the birth of his first child.

His wife was given an anesthetic that dulled her pain, but left her semi-conscious. After one of her last intervals of struggle, she was startled to hear her husband whispering to her anxiously. To his astonishment, he realized that her words were not for him, but for the baby who was cooperating with her to get himself born.

To her yet unborn son, his wife was whispering words of encouragement drawn from her secret expectations and hopes. Drowsily, she was saying, "It's nearly over, darling . . . don't be afraid, I'm here . . . let's try again so that we can really be together at last . . ."

But she could not keep his promise to be together with her baby after he entered the world. Nurses in sterile white seized him, wrapped him in sterile white and rushed him down a long corridor to a sterile white nursery far from the person with whom he had just shared the momentous and intimate experience of birth.

Issue of Parents Magazine comes straight out and asks for a revision of hospital rules that separate mothers and their newborn. It tells us what leading psychiatrists think of this unnatural arrangement and its effect on the emotional flow between us and our baby in the early hours and days after birth.

Our passiveness in accepting such a silly regulation is something I have never understood. We'd never stand for such an interfering rule in any other human relationship. If anyone tried to tell us, for example, that we couldn't have a honeymoon after our wedding, we'd tell him to take his interference elsewhere.

That's because we recognize that honeymoons are emotionally sound institutions. When John marries Mary, everyone recognizes their right to uninterrupted closeness so that together they can adjust to their changed relationship. Quite properly, Mary and John put aside friends, relatives and jobs to devote themselves to exploring new aspects and meanings in each other.

If their hotel manager rapped on their door the morning after their wedding to insist that they take separate rooms, can't you hear what they'd say? They'd want to know what the world was coming to.

Yet when Mary goes to the hospital to have her baby, nobody thinks of protesting separate rooms for her and her new child. And there is also a relationship that is equally needing of adjustment. If Mary is a modern mother who has decided against nursing her baby, she's lucky if she's permitted to touch his finger.

No wonder she has to begin to read books encouraging her to show confidence in her treatment of her baby—that anonymous, sterile bundle that pops in and out of her room every four hours like a poor little jack-in-the-box.

After a normal birth, a mother's overwhelming feeling is one of depthless peace. It comes to her by plan, not by accident. It has been created by the baby and should be shared with him. It has been given her for the purpose of gratitude to him and wonder at him.

As this feeling is needed to color all her future behavior toward him, it should not be wasted on idle chatter, admiration for somebody's roses or the new sweater set Aunt Jane has brought. It should be given to the baby who needs it to feel welcome.

Bouquets of garden flowers show up to better advantage on lamp tables if they are scaled to the size of the table and are completely lighted. If an opaque shade cuts down the illumination so that only half the bouquet is lighted, the effect of the design is spoiled.

3 eggs
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 2/3 cups evaporated milk (1 tall can)
1 cup boiling water
Nutmeg

Cut bread into about 1/2 inch cubes, or break into small pieces. Do not trim crusts unless they are too brown. There should be 2 cups cubed bread. Place bread cubes in buttered 8 by 8 by 2 inch baking dish, or in 8-inch round baking dish. Beat eggs slightly with a fork. Blend in sugar, salt and lemon rind. Stir in milk, then water. Pour over bread. Sprinkle top with nutmeg. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until set about 30 to 35 minutes. Serve warm with strawberry hard sauce. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Strawberry Hard Sauce
1/2 cup sliced strawberries, mashed
1/4 cup butter
1 1/4 cups unsifted confectioners sugar

Cream butter. Gradually add sugar and continue creaming until sugar and butter are well blended. Gradually add mashed strawberries and beat until light. Chill before serving. Makes sufficient sauce for 6 to 8 servings.

Coronation Marks Evening Fashions

By GAILLE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — In a year that saw the Coronation of an English Queen, the very formal ball gown assumes an importance that it ordinarily could not have in the life of the average woman, for there is more tendency to big, dressy affairs.

The lives of American women have changed greatly in the last decade. There are many more women working than ever before. They have more money to spend, generally, but they are also busier. For these women (and many others), the short though dressy evening gown and the evening separates are exactly tailored to their needs.

This autumn, both the full, floor-length and the shorter length are shown. The sweeping gown is most often characterized by slim skirt as front and full skirt at back. Fabrics for the ball gown could not be more luxurious: gold cloth, silver cloth under white lace, jeweled brocade, black velvet, silk faille and satin, white peau de soie. Utter luxury appears in the miniskin bralette to fill in a neckline or in a collar faced with mink, lace or jeweled embroidery. The short evening dress gets full skirts (often pleated) and some cover for the shoulders. Sparkle touches are used for the bodice, sometimes sprinkled lightly over an entire skirt. The wide cut tank or V-neckline appears most often in late-day dresses that can go on to evening parties or dinner.

Manners Make Friends

One thing to remember when you're a house guest is not to wait until the last minute to get train, bus or airline schedule to find out what time of day you are going to leave. Remember it may not matter much to you whether you leave at 7 a.m. or 10 p.m., but it may matter a lot to your host and hostess.

Next to knowing when a house guest is to arrive, the most important thing is knowing when the guest plans to leave.

You can peel oranges and grapefruit more easily if you place them in boiling water for eight minutes first.

Engagement Of Miss Barbara Keehn Is Told At Tea Given In Miami Home

MIAMI (Special) — Mrs. Annie Keehn of Miami announced the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Barbara, to Bailey Dodson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Dodson of Aspermont, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Dodson of Miami, at a tea given recently.

The wedding is to take place on July 29 in the First Christian Church of Miami.

Nuptial plans were revealed at a tea given by Mrs. E. D. Duncan, sister of the bride-elect. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Duncan, Mrs. Annie Keehn, and Miss Barbara Keehn. Mrs. Clinton Hayes of Miami presided at the register.

The lace covered serving table was centered with an arrangement of blue tulle with tulle streamers announcing the names Barbara and Bailey, July 29, in gold letters. Refreshments of cake and punch also carried out the bride's chosen color scheme of blue and white. The cake was served by Mrs. O. R.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend,

After reading your column and seeing how much wonderful advice you have given others, I am writing to you for help.

My husband and I have become complete strangers. Why? My husband is in the service and has friends that do not believe in a happy marriage, therefore, influencing him to the greatest extent.

I am new here and have no friends here; however, I do work but am the only girl employed in the business. I merely point this out to show you I am lonely.

OUT LATE

My husband goes out with other service men four or five nights a week, returning home between 1:30 and 2 a.m. (To relieve my mind, I hold to the theory it is male companionship rather than female companionship he seeks, however, I may be wrong.)

I have spoken to him about this and have asked him to take me out, but the only answer I get is that it is no fun to go with me. I have also become quite angry with him for staying out so late, but he only replies, "Give me my liberty or give me death."

Dear Grace Friend, what advice can you give me? Remember, where there is happiness a person lives, but where there is no happiness a person merely exists.

How can I start living again?

Gratefully yours,

Mrs. T.

Lemon custard bread pudding is a wonderful dessert by itself. But topped with strawberry hard sauce it is superlative! This glamorous dessert idea originated with a thrifty homemaker as a means of using up leftover bread. It became her family's favorite dessert — and then a specialty for company meals. The pudding is nicely proportioned as to bread and custard mixture. Evaporated milk, only partially diluted, assures a rich creaminess and smooth texture. Do plan the baking so that it comes to the table warm from the oven. Then the dollop of glowingly pink and fruity hard sauce melts and blends perfectly with every luscious bite.

NAVY'S OLDEST SHIP MAY BE DOOMED—The Constitution, oldest ship in the U. S. Navy—about two months older than its sister ship, the USS Intrepid, lies rotting in the Charlestown, Mass., Navy Yard. The 78-year-old vessel fought in the War of 1812, Civil War, against the French privateers and the Tripoli pirates. It cost about $214,000 to build, but it is estimated that more than $4,500,000 would be needed to recondition it. A campaign is underway to raise money by public subscription to save the historic ship and return it to Baltimore, Md., its original home.

Expert Tells How To Raise Cash And Influence Bankers

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

WASHINGTON, July 22—UP—“I’ve always been interested in how to raise cash and influence bankers. Neither of these projects is too easy, but I bumped into a man (by appointment) who knows most of the answers.”

His name is Arthur Richland, an experienced lender himself. He is one of the few men in finance I ever knew who doesn't fuss about the bulls and bears of the market. To him a bull is a beast with a snout on grass in the pasture and a bear is an animal which snarls out the berries in the wood-lar.

A Great Book
Richland is down to his earth in his reasoning. Incidentally, I picked up a title of a book he has written called “How to Raise Cash and Influence Bankers,” in my first paragraph.

Houston Woman Floats To Sea

GALVESTON, July 21—UP—A 29-year-old Houston woman was resting in a Galveston hospital Tuesday, following a harrowing experience Monday.

Mrs. Fella Darling floated three and one-half miles into the Gulf of Mexico on an inner tube before being rescued by a Coast Guard boat.

Mrs. Darling had come to Galveston on an outing with the C.W. Apple family. She was swimming off the south jetty of the island while the Apple family fished. Suddenly, the wind started blowing hard and carried her to sea on the inner tube. She was rescued after Apple went for help. The Coast Guard sent a 45 and an 80-foot boat. An Ellington Air Force Base plane was also sent over the

Wires Got Crossed

LOVINGTON, N. M., July 22—UP—The General Telephone Co. of the Southwest promised subscribers here Wednesday it would have new equipment installed by next winter to keep their phone calls from being tangled up with radio programs.

Telephone users complained to the State Corporation Commission that their lines were picking up “every thing from Arthur Godfrey to soap opera.” Radio listeners objected that their favorite programs were being interrupted by telephone calls.

“He’s a business man, and he’ll find out anyhow,” Richland said. “One thing that a banker dislikes is a surprise: if you are in trouble and need money, give the man all of the facts. If he learns that you are that honest, he’ll help you if you can show that you can pay back.”

According to our expert, a banker decides on whether you can have a loan on a formula that works like this:
First he assembles all of the facts and checks them. Some folks who want to put the arm on a bank are inaccurate in their facts. However, unintentional.

“Then,” said Richland, “the lender must analyze each element in the situation as it bears on the borrower’s ability to pay. Then he adds up the ‘pro’ factors and subtracts the ‘cons.’ If the answer is okay, the loan is made.”

(That reminds me of a remark once made to me by Michael McDougal, a card detective. He said that “gamblers don’t gamble.”)

Our man’s advice to the borrower is that he examine himself and answer these questions:

“Can I repay the money as agreed, without hurting the purpose for which I am borrowing it?”
“Do I need a short term or long term loan? The long term loan means that my credit must be better than if I need a short one.”
But, above all, Richland advised, be honest with the man in the lending department, or like as not you will come out without what you want after.

Scout Executive To Aid Training

Vincent Hobbs, head of the Adobe District, will be on hand for the July 29-Aug. 4 session, according to Paul Beisenherg, council Scout executive.

“This will be my first experience with it,” Hobbs said today, adding that he will be aided by Max Hatfield, Dallas, deputy Scout executive for Region Nine (Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico).

Purpose of the get-together, Beisenherg said, is to go over “the techniques, procedures and policies developed over the years.”

It's Your Deal

By OSWALD JACOBY and ALFRED SHEINWOLD
Written for NEA Service

Anybody who likes the game of backgammon will also enjoy the game known as “the snake.” What’s more, if you play “the snake” a few times you’ll find that your management of the “back game” at backgammon is vastly improved.

Take a backgammon board and don’t put your pieces on it. You have to bring all of your pieces into your opponent’s board and around. Your opponent starts with the regular backgammon setup.

Your object, naturally, is to make several points in your opponent’s inner board. If you can do so, you will have no trouble bringing all of your men in. Meanwhile, your points will block your opponent from bearing off. He will have to leave blots, you will hit him, and then you can begin to move a prime around the board. If you are especially good at making and breaking a six-point prime, locking your opponent behind it. For lack of anything else to do, he may have to leave further blots, and you may be able to hit several of them. The movement of your prime around the board gives the name of “the snake” to the game.

Your opponent must try to defeat you by making points on his inner board. The more points he can make, the fewer you can make. If he can restrict you to one or two points, you will have great trouble entering the board, and you will have only a small chance to hit him even if he is unlucky enough to leave a blot when he is bearing off.

It is so vital for your opponent to make points on his inner board and to prevent you from making points that he must take men from his six-point or from his eight-point to hit any blots that you leave in his inner board. If he can cover, he is still far ahead and he has the consolation of knowing that you would have made points if he had failed to hit you.

If the player who has the normal setup is skillful and aggressive, he has a big advantage. The game can be made equal by allowing the snake-player to start with one or more points already made in the opponent’s inner board. If the snake-player starts with two pieces on the one-point and two pieces on the two-point, he is probably still at a slight disadvantage.

If he is also given the three-point, he has an advantage. If he is given four points, he should win easily.

Two States Missing

PITTSBURGH, July 22—UP—Educators at Carnegie Institute of Technology apologized Wednesday for dropping two states from the union.

A passerby pointed out that an American flag flying in front of the Fine Arts Building had only 46 stars. A spokesman said the flag had been in use for two years and no one ever had reported the error.

“After all,” he said, “have you ever tried to count the stars in a waving flag?”

Frau Hilde Called Red Glamour Girl

By PHIL NEWSOM

United Press Foreign Analyst
Newest glamour girl of the international Communist set is Frau Hilde Benjamin, also known as “Red Hilde.”

She presides over what for some strange reason is called East Germany’s Ministry of Justice, and takes over the glamour girl title from Romania’s Ana Pauker who was not competing this year.

The bevy, lantern-jawed Ana, who turned in her own husband as partial proof of her right to be the Commie’s No. 1 girl, is in retirement. The living got too fat for Ana and she was beginning to get capitalistic ideas.

Ana was Romania’s foreign minister and deputy prime minister until she gathered the reward usually reserved for high Reds, meaning that someone faster on their feet than she reserved either a prison cell or a firing “squad” for her. The Western world isn’t sure which.

But now we have Hilde.

Hilde is female, wears her hair in a bun at the back of her head and has a weakness for Paris gowns. But right there and then any similarity with a cozy date for cocktails for two ends.

Hilde is the mannish type who in the United States would go in for a cause—CAUSE, that is, with capital letters.

She also is ambitious.

Hilde joined the Communist party in 1924 at the age of 22, just after graduating from law school.

Before the Nazis came to power her squeaky voice was one of a battery raised in defense of Communists in the courts of the Weimar Republic.

No one can say for sure when Hilde learned to hate. It may have been during Hitler’s rule when she and her Jewish husband went into hiding. The hiding did no good. Her husband was caught and died in a Nazi concentration camp. Hilde herself is not Jewish.

At any rate, it has been under Communist rule that she earned the nickname, “Red Hilde.”

The Lasting Tragedy

There has grown up in America a shadow government which, in many phases of our life, supersedes both our laws and established officials.

Certain unions, abetted in many instances through connivance and in others by rank cowardice on the part of employers, have succeeded in placing themselves above both our state and federal constitutions.

The spectacle of Harry Bridges' union forcing Hawaii to her economic knees too declaredly retort for the conviction of some of his hirelings for Communist conspiracy is an example in point.

The natural conclusion one would reach is that under such leadership it is nothing more than a real attempt to follow the Communist policy of destroying the economy of those nations not yet under domination of Communist Russia.

At other times the abuse of power by certain avicious labor leaders tends to bring the whole labor movement into disrepute.

There have been many tragic effects because of this philosophy of punishment and force but by far the worst has been our gradual loss of self government.

This will be the lasting tragedy of the New Deal. The wasted billions, the broken promises, and the impairment of initiative, conceivably, could be overcome. But not if self-government—freedom—is lost.

If we do not soon abolish this shadow government, freedom will be gone forever. In its place we will have the guild system which proved so tragic in England centuries ago.

For no people who failed to use their capacity for self-government were ever able to remain free.

Why? Because nature will not permit strength to remain where it is not used.

The fish in Mammoth Cave have become blind. The athlete who ceases to use his muscles becomes incapable of using them. In such situations nature has no delicacy in discarding that which is not used.

People learn to govern by governing; retain the ability to govern by using it; lose the ability to govern by not using it.

That is the law of nature and no man can overrule the plan.

The men who wrote our fundamental law were successful because they relied upon virtues proved by nature and experience.

They were not creators but discoverers; not founding fathers so much as finding fathers. Madison, Hamilton, Jefferson, and Marshall merely gave eternal truths a local habitation and a name.

If we want free public we need the organs that will keep it free. If we want something else we will follow our present path, adopt this new set of organs.

Following the dictates of nature, the founding fathers created our republic. Under it we rose to a pinnacle of prosperity never before known in this world.

If we do not abolish this shadow government we shall have something other than our republic.

No one desires to take away our people's right to organize if they desire. Nor should we follow a course which will make them organize if they choose not to.

Only as unions operate under the same moral principles and the same legal restraints as do all other groups of citizens can they continue to exist as free institutions. Only so long can their members be free.

Way To Cut Debt

A very sizable chunk of the national debt—approximately $27 billion—could be removed from the nation's back along with an annual interest cost of about $500 million if the government were to sell all its electric power projects.

The very suggestion of such a move may be abhorrent to the public power advocates. But the simple fact is that, as in the case of the Tennessee Valley authority, all taxpayers throughout the country are carrying the load for the benefit of those in the area who get cheap electric power rates due to government subsidies.

Quite naturally, all citizens would like to have exceptionally cheap power rates, but such rates shouldn't be provided for some at the expense of others. What's more, the size of our federal government has become so enormous that it is high time we eliminate non-essential and costly functions.

Even reduced to a minimum structure consistent with our needs, the government will continue to be big—and expensive. So, it's time to let private industry take over where it can operate more efficiently and where the government doesn't belong in the first place.

Animal Analogy

This brief but significant little item appeared on the editorial page of the Coatesville, Pennsylvania, Record: "Four zoo-reared timber wolves, members of a normally proud and resourceful species, were reduced to raiding garbage cans when released on a wooded island in Lake Superior recently. The security of life in the zoo apparently had deadened their initiative and they could no longer depend on their hunting instincts to provide food. Which should teach a moral: 'People, too, can be pampered and petted too much.'"

That is a telling commentary on the "cradle to the grave" security philosophy. What it always produces is the deadly security of the zoo or the jail.

Looking Ahead

By GEORGE S. BENSON
President Harding College
Searcy, Ark.

DISTURBING YOUR SLEEP

At a university in the Southwest recently I addressed the student body and faculty on the subject of our basic American principles and how they have worked to the advantage of everybody. In the address I emphasized the general lack of understanding of the infiltration tactics of Communists and their fellow travelers in all phases of our national life. The reaction of the student-body and faculty was exceptionally fine. We had a stimulating question and answer period. An unusually keen awareness of the Communist threat was evidenced.

On other occasions, however, I have listened to people who sought to minimize the importance of Communists and their work in our educational institutions. In fact, some declare there is no real evidence of such infiltration. The present investigations by the Internal Security committees of Congress are, they contend, wholly unnecessary. This is because not enough people are reading the reports of the Senate Internal Security Sub-committee investigating "Subversive Influence in the Educational Processes." They are available to any citizen.

Here are some excerpts of testimony given under oath: SENATOR (JAMES O.) EASTLAND: What is your judgement about the number of Communist teachers in the city schools in New York?

WILLIAM JANSEN (Superintendent of the New York City schools): We fired 73 (after investigations were made) and have eight under suspension. We have 180 more that we have under investigation (in elementary and high schools) . . . a few can exert an influence far beyond their numbers.

SENATOR EASTLAND: Doctor, does the Communist carry out his activities solely in the classroom?

DR. JANSEN: The Communist teacher can continually find things wrong with the United States and never find anything wrong with the Communist countries. Things of that kind can go on and unless you are present you can detect it. . . . They extend their activities far beyond the classroom.

FIRE SEVEN REDS

SENATOR (WILLIAM E.) JENNERS: (Do) the schools and colleges of the United States play a vital part in the world-wide struggle against communism and totalitarianism?

DR. H. D. GIDEONSE (President, Brooklyn College): (After testifying he had fired seven professors who had refused to tell the Senate Sub-committee whether they were Communists) I think the role of the schools and colleges is probably more important even in this cold war state on the verge of hot war than the Armed Forces themselves. The colleges, concerned as they are with the top-drawer of talent for the country, 2,500,000 in college right now—are obviously either consciously or unconsciously a very important part in clarifying national will and purpose. If this is a struggle, in the end, about ideas, then clarifying national ideas of self and what our purpose is, is vital. Then the Communists are right in making so much of trying to confuse the . . . clarity of national thinking by their infiltration (into the schools and colleges).

SENATOR (WILLIAM E.) SMITH: Doctor is it your feeling that the work of this committee has been worthwhile?

DR. GIDEONSE: Your committee has been . . . very helpful to us at Brooklyn College because you have helped us to remove some (Communist professors) whom we couldn't do anything about under the law. Now you have supplied the evidence that made it possible to do it. I think one of the reasons why there is such a flurry in some circles about the operation of this committee is that there is so little understanding of the nature of the job done. (End of Judiciary Sub-committee excerpts.)

The fellow travelers, who never join the Party but eagerly carry on its work, are 10 times more numerous than actual card-carrying Reds, according to J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director. The congressional records show that approximately 3,000 professors from 600 colleges have been affiliated more than 26,000 times with Communist fronts.

Not all these processors are fellow travelers, nor is the great body of American education contaminated with communism. However, a reading of the first seven transcripts of the Judiciary Sub-committee testimony will disturb the sleep of almost any American citizen. The committee is rendering a national service.

BID FOR A SMILE

My nine-year-old son, from the vantage point of a side seat on the crowded Texas bus, was enjoying the attention his brand-new green-topped cowboy boots were attracting when a long, lean cowboy came to stand beside us. He and I soon deep in talks of horses, rodeos and boots.

"I just bought my boy a whole cowboy outfit, the cowboy volunteered. He unwrapped a barrel and displayed the smallest cowboy boots imaginable, a tiny gaudy shirt and blue jeans. Turning to me he asked anxiously, 'Do you think they fit, ma'am?'"

"How old is your boy?" "Well . . . I hesitated, 'he won't be born for five months yet.'"

Father—Is your young man honorable in his intentions?"

Daughter—I think so. He asked me how much you make, how much I make, and whether you and mom are hard to live with.

Sentiment In Favor Of Bricker Measure Increases Strength

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Sentiment in favor of the Bricker constitutional amendment has been strengthened enormously by Senate approval of a law barring similar loans under protective devices, a law which the House has passed. Although the agreement for lapsed repayment of money owed by Germany to the United States government and to individual investors in that country's pre-war issues of securities, it was the first time that the treaty-making power has been invoked in this kind of transaction.

Although the agreement concerned disposition of debts totaling almost $4 billion, there were less than a handful of members on the floor during explanation of the complicated question. It is doubtful if more than a score of senators understood that, while bond-buying clients of the great New York banks were to receive 100 cents on the dollar, United States taxpayers would get back only 33 cents per dollar investment.

REPAYMENT OF ORIGINAL VALUE—These bonds, under the Senate-approved agreement, will be repaid at full original value in 20 years, with 5% per cent interest, which is double the rate the U.S. now has to pay on short-term issues. Significantly, it was pointed out in debate that Germany is now the most prosperous country in Europe, including England.

The Johnson inquiry disclosed such scandalous practices in connection with these private deals that a law barring similar loans was enacted. It was repealed early in World War II at the request of F.D.R., when British and French credit for purchasing weapons became exhausted.

The Bricker amendment declares that treaties negotiated by executive agreement shall not become the supreme law of the land, overriding federal, state and municipal legislation. While it might not have barred the German debt arrangement, which is a formal treaty, the Ohioan's proposal will benefit.

SENATE RATIFICATION was recommended by Secretary John Foster Dulles, former member of the New York firm of Sullivan and Cromwell, which is frequently characterized as the "Wall Street annex of the State Department."

FACTS INFLUENCING REPAYMENT TERMS The Eisenhower endorsement was based on the fact that approval was necessary to re-establish the Bonn government's private credit, to help the pro-West Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in the forthcoming elections and to strengthen Germany in the cold war. These considerations influenced many members otherwise critical of the repayment terms.

GERMAN ISSUE WORTHLESS OF '29 CRASH The German issues in this country to be paid off at 100 cents on the dollar were distributed by the leading banking houses in New York between 1924 and 1930. As the Hiram Johnson investigation of foreign loans revealed, the issuing houses forced these securities on branch members and dealers because of the tremendous profit involved.

They became worthless after the 1929 crash and the ascent of Hitler to power. Many small American holders threw them away or papered their walls with them.

Mrs. Smith—How much do you sell pork chops for?

Butcher—Sixty-five cents a pound, Mrs. Smith—Sixty-five? Why the butcher down the block sells them for fifty cents a pound.

Butcher—Then why didn't you say them from him?

Mrs. Smith—He was out of pork chops.

Butcher—Oh, I see, well when I'm out of them I sell them for forty cents a pound.

Customer—You're giving me a piece of bone.

Butcher—On the contrary, madam, you are paying for it.

Success Secrets

By ELMER WHEELER

Different lines of work require different personality factors for success, but the one personal quality needed for success is sheer enthusiasm.

Enthusiasm is a priceless quality to bring to any enterprise, says Stuart Reynolds, a very successful television producer and executive. "The type of business or job isn't as important as the personal enthusiasm with which one invests it," Reynolds declared. "No matter what you're trying to make or sell, you must get real excitement out of the idea to succeed."

In hiring applicants for the many different jobs under him, Reynolds is careful to select the people who obviously have a consuming enthusiasm for the job. In evaluating an applicant for a job he puts this quality above experience.

"Enthusiasm is sometimes the only real advantage that young people offer an employer," Reynolds concluded. "My tendency is to turn down even a man of considerable experience in the field if he seems to be a little superior and slightly bored with the whole idea."

Your attitude is important. Enthusiasm for your work will make you more valuable to yourself and your employer.

Like Harry Truman, President Eisenhower has much to hide from Sen. Joe McCarthy, in the mysterious realm of the Central Intelligence Administration. This is the fabulous and secretive cabal of amateur spies whose cost to the American people in both money and consequences are forbidden to know.

President Ike's chief of staff in the war and now his personal agent in the State Department under John Foster Dulles is Gen. George C. Marshall's advance knowledge that the Japanese fleet and bombers were advancing on Pearl Harbor until about eight hours had been wasted. Thereupon, to compound the worst failure of the kind in the history of warfare, Marshall sent the warning to Gen. Short and Adm. Kimmel in Hawaii by ordinary commercial cablegram which was as quick as a telegram or radio signal.

The congressional inquiries, devoted to the war was over, left charges that the warning was delayed by deliberate design to make sure that Roosevelt got his war. Bedell Smith's explanation was that he was a junior officer and went as far as he could under military regulations. He never has been called on for testimony under oath. It is unlikely that Eisenhower will make him available to the interests of mere historical truth. It is also unlikely that Smith's status was enough to justify pro-war clique in taking him into their circle. He could be relied on to act just as he did in unquestioning obedience to his training.

When Joe McCarthy began to poke around in the CIA, a furious resentment was aroused immediately, especially in the New York Herald Tribune. This paper's book department edited in a long period of book-burning by the negative process of ignoring or belittling, for political motives, books by authors who criticized the Roosevelt regime and exposed Communists. Its managing editor for a period of fateful years was Joe Barnes who was even then flagrant ally associated with notorious Communists. In one final, defiant fling, Barnes became co-editor of a little Red daily in New York called the Star, with one Bartley Crum, Mr. Crum professes to be a Catholic, but has admitted without reservation that he ran with the Communists. In approximately his own words to Alfred Kohlberg, a prominent New York anti-Communist, Crum said he had been guilty of conduct much worse than that which has been publicly attributed to him. The Herald Tribune wished Barnes well with his little Red paper when he started and commiserated him when he flopped.

As long as President Eisenhower and the propagandists of the Herald Tribune attack Sen. McCarthy on a phony charge that McCarthy suborned an attack on Protestantism, the world will have to wait for a grand fight against bigotry, however, contrary to the standard pro-Communist protest against assumptions of guilt without fair trial, they damned Dr. E. B. Matthews, the author of a documented expose of Communist activity by a few ministers and forced him to resign without the slightest evaluation of the facts.

Then, as McCarthy proceeded with his inquiry into the CIA, already under way when the mock holy war was raised, the cry went up that this slippery fellow was abandoning one sensational project to try another. The Herald Tribune sprang to the defense of William F. Buckley and gave him a gratuitous rating of "able," without any evidence to support this praise.

It soon developed that Bundy was a son-in-law of Dean Acheson and a member of his family circle. This leads to consideration of the facts that Acheson's hearty endorsement of Alger Hiss even after his conviction with a presumption of treason; that Acheson and Hiss were intimate and Hiss a protégé of Felix Frankfurter and that Frankfurter was the sponsor of an invisible personal political machine within the government.

Bundy has a brother, McGeorge Bundy, who wrote the war memoirs of Henry L. Stimson, who was planted in the job of secretary of War by Frankfurter. This fact was revealed belatedly in a magazine piece written for the usual mercenary motive of the New Dealer by the late Harold Ickes. This McGeorge Bundy wrote or "edited" in 1951, another book entitled "The Pattern of Responsibility," praising the Acheson foreign policy.

In a chapter on security and loyalty in the State Department, under the sub-head, "Acheson and Alger Hiss," McGeorge Bundy says it is relatively easy to show that McCarthy is a charlatan because "the honest student" must look with suspicion on anyone who brandishes a single statement as a proof that Acheson is a supporter of Communist spies. This refers to Acheson's refusal to "turn his back on Alger Hiss."

The truth is that McCarthy never has relied on this single statement, although A. A. Berle, a radical New Deal undersecretary of State, testified that Acheson and Hiss were members of a pro-Russian wing in the State Department. This Bundy is now a Harvard professor.

The father of the William Bundy, who gave $400 to the defense of Alger Hiss, and of McGeorge Bundy is Harvey H. Bundy. He calls himself a Republican, but he served as "special assistant to the secretary of War" from 1941 to 1945 when Frankfurter's man, Stimson, was secretary. He also served as secretary to the late materialistic cynic, Oliver Wendell Holmes, the 1914-15, a job to which Alger Hiss later succeeded. He reports that he put in a hitch as "traveling companion" in 1910-11, but he doesn't say to whom. It would appear to have been Holmes, the savant who put into loathsome prose, for the jaded cynics of the high-pitched New England materialism, the proposition that propagation of mankind was in no sense superior to other functions of the body.

Admitting the love and concern which these Friends show, and admitting further that we need some, perhaps many, saints like St. Francis of Assisi, who will do this, it nevertheless remains true that most people should not do it.

If this philosophy should prevail, the comparatively small amount of capital in the world would soon be dissipated and all people would be reduced to the level of bitter poverty existing now in the countries which have not accumulated capital.

What would be gained by reducing the standard of living in the West to that of the Far East? We should then be unable to help anyone. Enlarging the area of bitter want and suffering pulls down the few who have escaped from misery and does not help those who are in need.

What fast countries are especially more countries which are capitalist, more countries which are capitalist. The way to help all needy people is to encourage capital formation. Dissipation of capital is reversion towards savagery. Accumulation of capital means increasing well-being.

CREATIVE EFFORT Capital formation is not automatic. It requires saving, initiative and extraordinary effort. Much self-denial is required to save and to work hard with brain and muscles now and later. Men will not do these things unless inspired by the hope of reward. To call forth great creative effort most men must be assured of the right to enjoy the fruits of their sacrifice. In other words, they must be secure in the right to possess and enjoy private property.

Here we have, perhaps, the most important reason for the difference between living standards in the East and the West. In the West we have honored thrift and effort and have respected the man who succeeded in producing wealth. In the East, businessmen have been held in low esteem. If one came into the possession of wealth, he would usually think not of investing it in creative enterprise to produce more wealth but probably would put it into jewels where it remained sterile. Hence there was little increase in production. This difference in philosophy between stimulating effort and rewarding success in the West and looking down upon commercial enterprise in the East is perhaps the main explanation for the difference in living standards between the two regions.

CAPITAL EXHAUSTION In England where these statements were made, the country is already consuming its capital. The proceeds from death duties and taxes on wealthy people are rapidly decreasing. Here in the United States we are also probably living on capital. If one considers rising debt and continuing inflation, it is probably true that capital is not being accumulated fast enough to maintain our present industrial equipment. If this be true, we shall not long be able to continue exporting capital equipment to our friends in Europe and other parts of the world, and we shall soon need help ourselves. Since there will be none to send it, we and our friends will suffer alike.

It is most disheartening to hear fine Christian people plead for action which would increase the world's misery. If we would return to freedom, to hard work, economy, thrift and saving and so build up the amount of capital in the world, and give an example to all peoples everywhere of the importance of so doing, we would be making real progress towards conquering poverty and ushering in the day of general well-being in both East and West which all good people so earnestly desire.

We have just read the report of a distinguished British official emphasizing the great need for capital in India; we had studied the Colombo Plan and Point Four Plan as well as other reports all stressing the need for capital. Well Ahead Of '52 Pace Roberts Wins 16th; Blanks Milwaukee

By CARL LUNDQUIST NEW YORK, July 22.—UP—Robinson is going to have to be almost unbeatable from now on to equal his pace during the last half of 1952, but even if he doesn't, he could well wind up with 30 victories and win the most valuable player award he just missed a year ago.

Roberts is well ahead of his 1952 pitching time table when he didn't win his 16th game until July 30. At his present pace he could make the magic 30-game level for the first time in the majors since Dizzy Dean won that number for the 1934 Cardinals.

However, Roberts pitched at an incredible pace during the last half of 1952, winning 17 games and losing only one after the All-Star game break.

In the second game, lefty, John Antonelli pitched seven-hit ball for his ninth victory and catcher Walker Cooper drove in four runs with a double and homer. Ed Mathews hit his 29th homer for Milwaukee, a doubleheader with seven hits. The Braves rebounded to take the second game 7 to 3 but it didn't dim the all-around luster of Roberts' latest job.

As usual, his control was superb. He walked only one batter and struck out six. Only three Braves reached second. In addition he drove in two runs, getting two singles, one a safe run.

Sports Hold Lead With 5-3 Win Over Cats; Dallas Wins

By UNITED PRESS Three big runs in the eighth inning were the magic combination for the pace-setting Shreveport Sports and their preening rivals, the Dallas Eagles, as both marked up victories in Texas League play Tuesday night.

With the score knotted at 2 to 2 in the eighth frame, the Sports proceeded to push across three tallies and go on to defeat sinking Dallas, 5 to 3. Meanwhile, in Dallas, the second-place Eagles came from behind in their half of the eighth to overcome the Beaumont Exporters and hand them their fifth straight defeat, 6 to 4.

In other games Tuesday night, cellar-dwelling San Antonio erupted for five runs in the 11th inning to swamp Oklahoma City, 7 to 2, and Tulsa rode the strong arm of Ed Grendon to a 5 to 0 victory over Houston.

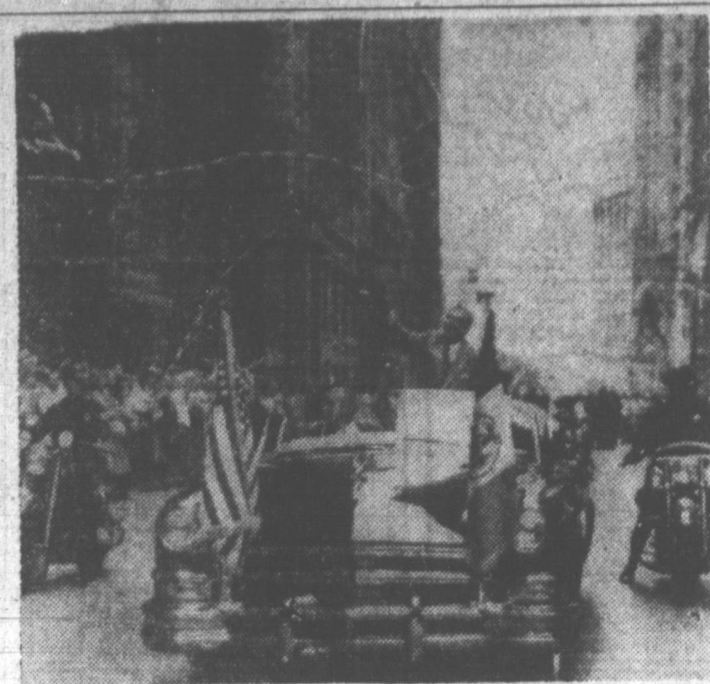

High Sooter allowed only seven hits, one a four-bagger by Danny Ozark in the eighth frame, as the Sports held out their half-game Texas League lead over Dallas. Shreveport scored twice in the opening frame and following Fort Worth's two-run uprising in the sixth, raced across the important tallies in the eighth to gain the victory. Starter Pete Wojey suffered the loss for the Cats, their third straight.

Don Fracchia of Beaumont and Wayne McLeland of Dallas were going after 14th victory Tuesday night, but neither of them got it. However, the Eagles' big eighth frame, during which three runs scored, laid the loss on Fracchia. Pete Mazar, third of four Eagles hurlers, got the win and Dallas' Ben Taylor hit the only home run of the game, a solo in the fourth.

Bill Greason and Irv Medlinge rocked around in a tight pitchers' duel for seven innings before they were relieved, with the score tied at 2 to 2. Greason's successor, Russ Bauers, held the Oklahoma City Indians scoreless after the seventh inning, but Al Olsen, third Indian hurler, was not so fortunate. Sal Antonio jumped on him for five runs in the 11th to hand him the defeat.

Right-hander Ed Grendon spaced seven hits well and brought in two runs himself as Tulsa blanked Houston, 5 to 0. Starter Jack Carey, although he was relieved in the second by Jim Atchey, received the loss for the Buffs.

Celebration Set Monday Cowtown Plans Big Welcome For Ben

FORT WORTH, July 22.—UP—Bantam Ben Hogan, the idol of the golfing world, will be given a chance to get in some much needed rest before his home town profers its official "welcome home" civic celebration.

Although the mighty mite of the fairways is due in by plane Friday at 5:25 p.m., he will have until Monday to recuperate from the strenuous New York reception before facing a similar round of activity here.

There will be a reception at Amon Carter Field when Hogan and his wife, Valerie, arrive Friday, but the "big doings" will not come until Monday when there will be a parade, a presentation of the key to the city and a testimonial dinner.

A Carswell Air Force Base band and honor guard headed by Carswell's commanding officer, Maj. Gen. John B. Montgomery, will be the official welcome for the Hogans at the airport.

From there they will be whisked to fashionable Western Hills hotel, where they will reside for about two weeks. The Hogans have sold their home here and are in the process of building another.

The Hogans will leave their hotel at 11 a. m. Monday and be taken downtown for a noontime parade. It will be just a two-car affair, plus motorcycle escort, since officials felt there was no point in trying to take any of the attention away from the honorees.

The parade will end at noon at the steps to the city hall where Mayor Edgar Deen will present Hogan the key to the city. Hogan is expected to make a brief speech here, where most of the crowd will be gathered.

Following the city hall ceremony, the official party moves into the Crystal Ball Room of Hotel Texas for the testimonial dinner expected to lure some 600 Hogan enthusiasts. The Hogans are being sold by the Chamber of Commerce at $2.50 each.

Red Schoendienst NEW YORK, July 22.—UP—Al Schoendienst of the Cardinals, the major leagues' leading batter, was sent home to St. Louis Wednesday to recuperate from a 10-stitch cut in the second inning Tuesday night's Cards-Giants game.

The star second baseman was struck on the head by a ball thrown by Al Dark of the Giants as he was running out a single to short right field in the second inning. The blow felled Schoendienst and opened a deep cut over his left eye.

Schoendienst will miss the last five games of the Cards' current eastern swing. He is currently battling a fever.

Manager Ed Stanky took over at second base Tuesday night and will play for the remainder of the road trip.

Lubbock To Host Girls Cage Clinic

LUBBOCK, Tex., July 22.—UP—Lubbock will be host to the first annual coaching clinic of the High School Girls Basketball League of Texas, beginning Thursday and ending Saturday.

Toby Waggoner, coach of the New Deal basketball team, state girls champion, will be in charge of the clinic. Mrs. Velma Harrison Lampasas, is chairman of the organization, organized in Austin last April.

The clinic will include first aid demonstrations, sessions on health precautions for girls, and rules interpretation and strategy.

In other games Tuesday night, Dallas' greatest praise was directed at sinkerball ace Bob Lemon, who gained his 13th victory by holding the Yankees to seven hits, and Al Rosen, who sent the Indians on their way to victory with his 4th home run with one man on in the first inning.

"Lemon pitched a whale of a ball game," said the Indian chief, "but that's nothing new with him. You can always count on Lem to win the important games. . . he sure did a fine job."

"And Rosen is supplying the power we need. Now if a few of the others can get the idea. . . 'Don't write us out of it yet.'"

Even though the Indians moved into third place by two percentage points over the rain-soaked Red Sox Tuesday night's triumph was only their third in the last 10 games.

Realignment May Be Discussed At Tomorrow's WT-NM Confab At Lubbock

THERE WILL BE SOME VITAL business taken up at tomorrow's meeting of the WT-NM League officials who will be gathering for the annual All-Star classic at Lubbock.

The main business at hand, of course, is deciding what to do with the Borger franchise. A group of Borger business men will meet with league heads in tomorrow's meeting at which time they'll present a plan of keeping the Gasers in Borger. It is our guess that Borger will finish this season but as to their future after this season, we don't wish to hazard a guess.

Another item that is likely to come up at tomorrow's meeting is realignment. It is believed that a realignment of the West Texas-New Mexico and Longhorn leagues will be needed to save baseball in this section.

Jack Holden, sports editor for the Abilene Reporter-News, comes up with a pretty good suggestion on a realignment. His plan would put Abilene, Lubbock, Plainview, Amarillo and Midland and Odessa of the Longhorn into one league. This would put together a pretty compact league and it would be made up of strictly Texas teams.

This would also be almost identical to the District 1-AAAA setup which involves the Pampa Harvesters.

Borger is the only city left out of this plan that is a member of 1-A. Replacing them in the pro baseball setup would be Plainview.

This would certainly cut out those long hops into New Mexico, especially Albuquerque. Under this plan, second who couldn't come up with the ball and Krewell scored the tying run. Williams scored the lead run on a wild pitch and Teme's boosted the Oiler lead by hitting a line drive over the left field wall for three more runs, giving the Oilers an 8-4 lead. Tierney walked the next two Oiler batters and then removed in favor of Jack Venable who blanked the Oilers the remainder of the game.

The Gold Sox completed night's scoring in the eighth with an unearned run. John Gorkis got to third on another miscue and scored on Venable's single.

Oilers Near 1st Division With 8-5 Win Over Gold Sox

2 Games Tonite In Homestand Finale

The Oilers will wind up their current homestand tonight by meeting the pesky Amarillo Gold Sox in a doubleheader at Oiler Park, starting at 7 p.m.

Rolando Rodriguez and Jake Henson have been chosen by Manager Porky Pawelek to start on the mound for the Oilers in the twin-bill. Gold Sox manager Jim Matthews was undecided last night on his pitching choices. But Eddie Locke, the sensational Negro right-hander for the Golden Hose, is expected to hurl one of the games.

The Oilers grabbed the opening game of the three-game series last night with an 8-5 win behind the 6-hit pitching of Sam Sam Williams who racked up his 19th win of the campaign. The Oiler win moved them to within 1 1/2 games of the first division.

Both the Oilers and Gold Sox came up with some costly errors in last night's tilt but the Gold Sox possibly committed the most costly blunder. An error by Dub Graves at second base with two away in the sixth inning set off a 5-run Oiler rally that proved to be the difference of the game.

Only four of the 13 runs scored in the game were earned, two by each team.

The Gold Sox got only three solid blows off Williams, the other three hits being scratch bingles. Two of the hits were too-hot-to-handle infield blows and another was a bloop triple to right which Quincy Barbee attempted a shoe-string catch and the ball got by him for a three-baser. That was the only extra base blow by the usually heavy hitting Gold Soxers.

Starting and losing pitcher Don Tierney had control trouble through out his tenure on the mound, issuing eight free passes. Quincy Barbee drew four of the free tickets. Barbee walked the first four times up.

It was the first time this season that the Oilers have beaten Tierney. The Gold Sox jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning. After the first two Gold Soxers were retired, Johnny Bruza walked, manager Jim Matthews singled and Eddie Locke tripled them both home.

The Oilers got the two runs back in their portion of the first without the aid of a baserun. Lead-off man Ben Felder walked and went to second. Doug Lewis' groundout. Teme's followed with a sharp grounder to shortstop Bill Whitte who elected to try and nab Felder going into third but he threw wild and Felder scored. Teme's, after taking second on the error, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Deck Wold's deep fly to center.

The Gold Sox moved ahead once again in the fifth with another two-run inning. The two runs were unearned. After Tierney was a groundout victim, Charley Neal singled and raced to third when Whitte's grounder got through Lewis at first. Whitte stopping at second. Bruza singled to left to score Neal and Whitte scored when the ball got by Krewell.

The Oilers got one run back in the bottom of the fifth when Felder singled, took second when Barbee walked and scored on George Lambrinos' single to right.

Then the bottom fell out for the Gold Sox in the bottom of the sixth. Krewell started the 5-run rally with a single after one was away. Molberg fanned for the second out and then Tierney walked Williams at hit Felder with a pitched ball to load the bases. Lewis is hit a grounder to Graves at second who couldn't come up with the ball and Krewell scored the tying run. Williams scored the lead run on a wild pitch and Teme's boosted the Oiler lead by hitting a line drive over the left field wall for three more runs, giving the Oilers an 8-4 lead. Tierney walked the next two Oiler batters and then removed in favor of Jack Venable who blanked the Oilers the remainder of the game.

The Gold Sox completed night's scoring in the eighth with an unearned run. John Gorkis got to third on another miscue and scored on Venable's single.

Pakistan Wheat Bill Opened Drive For Huge 'Give-Away'

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — President Eisenhower's request to Congress for authority to give Pakistan $75 million worth of surplus U.S. wheat for famine relief is just the beginning of what may become a multibillion-dollar give-away program of American farm products.

Now in preparation by the White House is what has become known as "the general bill" for disposal of all U.S. farm surpluses. It would give the President broad powers to dispose of these surpluses in any way that he chooses. This could be by relief shipments at home, by export sales at reduced prices or by outright gift.

For a time the draft of this proposed legislation was known as "the Benson bill." This name was taken from the fact that the White House had asked Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson to draw up such a bill.

But when Secretary Benson heard that his name was being tacked onto the idea, he protested violently. Remembering what had happened to former Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan's so-called "Brannan" plan, the new secretary hastened to decline any credit for orize the Commodity Credit Corporation to turn over to Mutual Security Administration up to $1 billion worth of U.S. crop surpluses. These surpluses would be sold abroad by MSA at market prices and paid for in foreign currencies. The foreign money would then be spent abroad to finance U.S. military and economic aid.

The Grange proposal is to establish a two-price system on American farm products. The lower price would be charged for export sales of the surpluses.

No matter how the Farm Bureau and Grange proposals are dressed up, they are nothing more than disguised farm subsidies. And no general bills may be justified, they are in essence handouts.

In spite of the fact that there was a change of administrations last January, the philosophy of the multimillion dollar give-away still prevails in Washington, as the solution to all foreign problems.

So the Benson bill was rechristened the general bill. It is now being polished off by White House, Budget Bureau, Mutual Security Administration, Departments of State and Agriculture, before being submitted to Congress for approval.

In substance, this general bill is merely an extension of the Pakistan bill, on a global basis. It is also an extension of other proposals made by the American Farm Bureau Federation and the National Grange. Their aim has been to get rid of U.S. crop surpluses by dumping them abroad, so as to keep American farm prices high at home.

The Farm Bureau proposal is a one-shot proposition. It would authorize the government first asked the U. S. for aid it was on the basis of a loan to buy wheat. Last year Pakistan was given a $15 million loan with which to buy U.S. wheat. She got other aid by barter from Russia, Japan and the British Commonwealth countries.

This year the request was again made for a wheat loan. Republican Speaker Joe Martin came out of a White House conference saying that a wheat loan for Pakistan had been agreed on. But when the formal request came out, it was for a gift.

Two years ago, India asked for a famine-relief wheat loan. President Truman asked Congress to give India two million tons. Congress balked, and authorized a $190 million wheat loan instead.

The question now is whether the suit to convert the Pakistan and general bills into loans.

Youngster Keeping Pace With Brother

That Mullin family is at it again. This time Richard Mullin, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. (Moon) Mullin, 1136 S. Dwight, picked up a 19-inch snake in the fields near the new Lamar School, took it home and bottled it.

A month or so ago, his brother, Bill, 10, latched onto a coyote, had his picture taken with it and, matter of fact, is still trying to sell it.

Richard was quite casual about catching the newest acquisition for the Mullin household: "I picked it up by the tail, then by the head and carried it home where I stuck it in a bottle."

Mac Plans Magazine In Which Nothing Right Ever Happens

BY HENRY McLEMORE

To look at the news-stands you'd swear that if there were one thing this country didn't need it was another magazine, but I am seriously considering starting a new one.

I believe there is a real need for the type of magazine I have in mind and that it would be eagerly read by millions of average Americans. My magazine would be named "Cheer Up!" and it would be filled from cover to cover with stories and articles in which nothing ever happened exactly right.

Everything works as slick as a whistle in the periodicals now available to Americans. Things may look bad for a while, but two paragraphs from home John gets the gal he wants, the amateur photographer wins First Prize with his shot of a lioness mothering three stray chicks, the young couple with only $1.35 in savings build themselves a dream home with scrap lumber and their bare hands, and the bow-legged gal who couldn't even get a part in the senior play struggles on Broadway until she finally gets the lead in a Rodgers and Hammerstein hit.

These things happen, that's true, but they don't happen with the frequency the magazines would lead you to believe they do. No, sir. For most of us Americans life is a series of misses, near misses, snafus, disappointment, and problems that never get completely unsnarled.

The name "Cheer Up!" might sound misleading, but it isn't at all. Nothing could be more cheering, say, to a man who had gone broke manufacturing feather dusters than to read an article about a man who had been forced to share the crumbs with the pigeons at Trafalgar Square because he had sunk his all into a feather duster factory.

For every American who has bought an old barn or an 1821 farmhouse and who, for practically nothing, converted these antiquities into charming homes, there are thousands who have bought the same sort of properties and wished paper a wall, lay linoleum, build thousands of other dandy, every-day happenings.

Be sure to get a copy of "Cheer Up!" when it hits the stands. It'll give you assurance that there are thousands upon thousands in the same boat with you.
