The Sutton County 4-H Club Center is completed and ready to be used by organizations, individuals and groups who desire to use it.

The 4-H Club is proud of the Center, which is probably the best equipped for all 4-H and youth activities in the area, and the thanks and appreciation of the 4-H Club is extended to all persons and organizations contributing to the center.

A special thanks goes to the Berger family who made possible the construction of the Center by giving the use of land for a parking area without cost to the 4-H Club so long as the land remains in the Berger family.

The Sonora Lions Club, the Sonora Chamber of Commerce, La Tarantella Dance Club, the Student Council of Sonora High School, many individuals and firms made cash contributions to the project which made possible the completion of the whole project at one time.

The City Commissioners and County Commissioners also contributed to the Center by furnishing equipment and men to help clean the parking area and haul material for the pouring of the floor and parking area Carl J. Cahill provided men and equipment at different times to help the project along. E. L. Harrell, county road engineer, was responsible for the clearing and improvements made on the parking area.

The Sonora Park Association is also to be thanked for providing the land for the original 4-H barn to be constructed on and for making it possible to pour the concrete floor in the 4-H Center by relinquishing their right to use it for horse stables.

A water cooler has been contributed to the Center by Joseph's Department Store. Gas stoves have been contributed by the Methodist Church, chairs have been loaned on a permanent basis by St. John's Episcopal Church and a piano has been loaned by R. S. Teaff.

Other equipment which would add to the uses of the building would be a cold drink machine, a nickelodeon, ping-pong tables, trampoline and other equipment of this type, such as the tetherball outfit given by Jack Mackey.

The greatest need at the present time, however, is some organization to sponsor community youth activities and to give supervision to the young people while they use the 4-H Center.

The total cost of all improvements made at the Center was about $12,000 of which about two-thirds has been paid. The Sutton County 4-H Parents Club has borrowed the additional money to complete the job.

It is hoped that the people of Sonora will find many uses for the 4-H building and that the money the community has invested in this project will prove a wise investment.

Rules Governing Use Of Center Formulated By Parents Club

The Sutton County 4-H Parents Club has drawn a set of rules and regulations governing use of the newly constructed 4-H Center. These rules read:

1. A calendar shall be set up and kept in the County Agent's office. All reservations of times and dates shall be entered thereon on a first come, first serve basis. All 4-H events shall be entered thereon when it is set up. The privilege of using the 4-H Club Center on a date previously set down on the calendar by any person, group or organization shall not be pre-empted by any other person, group or organization, including the 4-H Club, without obtaining the consent of such person, group or organization having such date reserved.
2. The Sonora Park Association shall have the privilege of using the 4-H Club Center without charge for meetings and dances and the two Saturday nights during the annual race meet shall be reserved or use by the Sonora Park Association and shall be reserved on the calendar of events for the Sonora Park Association.
3. Rental charges are tentatively set as follows:
A. $10.00 for youth groups and youth organizations. Youth groups for this purpose shall include those up to and through high school age and shall include all such youth groups whether public or private.
B. No charge for those meetings, etc. which are considered civic in nature and are for the benefit of the community.
C. $25.00 for private persons, groups and organizations. Fees shall be collected in advance before keys are delivered.
Fees shall be adjusted during cold weather to allow for the cost of heating if it is deemed necessary.

4. Those organizations which have contributed to the flooring of the 4-H Center shall be charged the regular fees as above set out or as they may hereafter be set; however, in lieu of payment of such fees, the amount of such fee shall be charged against the amount such organization contributed until the entire amount of the donation is charged off or is forgiven, at which time such organization shall be expected to pay in advance the regular fees.
5. Anyone using the building and/or premises shall be responsible for leaving the premises in a clean condition.
6. The 4-H Center shall only be rented or its use permitted to a responsible adult. The person to whom it is rented or its use permitted shall be regarded as the responsible party regarding any damage or non-compliance with these rules.
7. No gambling shall be permitted on the premises.
8. There shall be no sale of alcoholic beverages on the premises at any time nor shall any alcoholic beverages be permitted within the building at any function where persons not 21 years of age are allowed to attend nor shall any alcoholic beverages be permitted in the building at any public dances, meetings, etc. This rule is not intended to restrict private ADULT persons, groups or organizations except regarding to the sale thereof and as to persons not 21 years of age.
9. An inventory of all equipment shall be kept in the office of the County Agent. No equipment or furniture shall be removed without prior consent of the 4-H Club officers or the County Agent and then only after signing a receipt therefor. Upon return of such equipment or furniture, it shall be "checked in" before the receipt is returned to the responsible party.

10. Youth groups and organizations shall be properly chaperoned at all times while using the premises. If found not to be at any time, an officer of the 4-H Club or the County Agent may immediately close the building. Public youth functions shall be chaperoned by a minimum of three adults, one of whom shall be a man.
11. Keys shall be kept by D. C. Langford, Mrs. Dorothy Baker, and Herbert Fields. Keys shall be returned to the party from whom obtained.
12. It is recommended to persons using the building that a responsible person be in the concession stand at all times; otherwise, the concession stand should remain locked.
13. Persons responsible for the building shall not permit fire hazards to be placed in the building.
14. There shall be posted at several locations about the Center a list of those rules deemed most important by the 4-H Parents Club. This list shall also contain a reminder of those things that should be checked by the person responsible for the center before leaving the premises.
15. Those persons, groups or organizations failing to comply with these rules shall not be permitted to use the Center again until reinstated by the 4-H Parents Club.
16. These rules may be amended from time to time as deemed advisable by the 4-H Parents Club.

Fisher Letter Summit Collapse Subject Of

WASH NEWS ... 84

By Congressman O. C. Fisher
THAT U-2 INCIDENT has served to throw fresh light on the world-wide network of Soviet espionage activities. Because domestic communists in all countries owe their first loyalty to the Soviet Union, the Kremlin has a built-in spy system. In addition, Soviet agent by the thousands operate out of Embassies and Red Consulates everywhere.

The West, on the other hand, cannot compete with the Muscovites in that field. The police state with its secrecy makes it extremely difficult for western intelligence to get through.

Yet, in this missile age, when perhaps the only defense against the IBMs is to destroy the launching sites, the necessity for knowledge about the location of such sites is self-evident. Hence, the risks that are taken.

Khrushchev showing outrage over the U-2 incident would be about like Frank Costello being outraged over a bingo game.

SPECULATION over what happened to Mr. K. in Paris continues. One line of thought, shared by many, is that when the Soviet leader went to Paris he thought there would be a summit conference. But after his arrival in France the word was flashed to him from the powerful Politburo in Moscow to keep away from it, turn his venom on the U.S. and Eisenhower. Others point out that things have not been going too smoothly between the Chinese Communists and the Moscow Reds and Peking, which has all along opposed the summit deal, turned the heat on Khrushchev and Co. to heed their demands following the U-2 crash. That may have helped the Soviet Bosses make up their minds to sabotage the meeting.

All seem to agree that even if there had never been a U-2 incident the summit conference was doomed to failure. The Soviets found themselves right up to the lick-log and were looking for an excuse to ditch the meeting without appearing to be at fault. The big break for the West came when Khrushchev blew his top, and made a mad, raving fool out of himself, with the whole world looking on.

Warden Warns

Keep Hands Off Wildlife Young

Leave the babes of the woods in the woods. That's the advice of Captain E. M. Sprott, director of law enforcement of the Game and Fish Commission.

During the spring season, when the young of wildlife come into the world, they are subject to many predators, not the least of them being persons who think the baby birds or animals are cute.

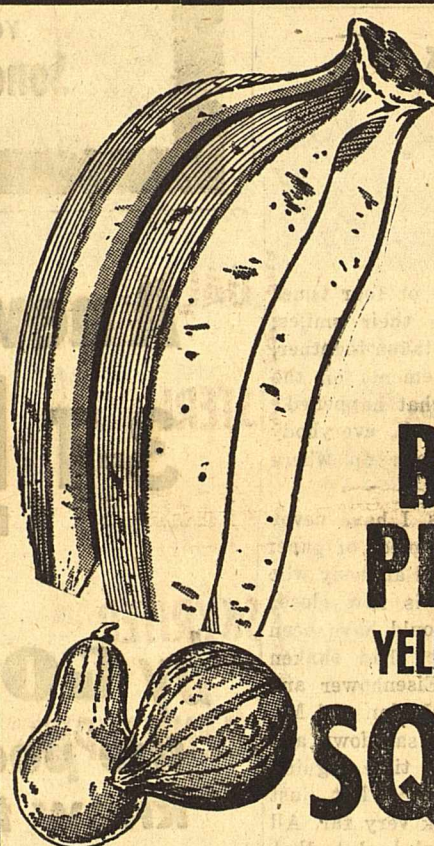

There is a tendency on the part of children to pick up baby rabbits or baby birds, but grown-ups have their weakness, too. It seems they just cannot pass a little fawn. They'll be driving down the road and spot a baby deer. Chances are that the mother is in hiding in nearby brush, but the fawn-napper doesn't realize this. He gathers up the small animal and takes it home with him.

Bottle fed, the little animal grows up and becomes the family pet, unless someone reports it to the warden beforehand. Then one day the family pet reverts to nature and injures someone. The game warden then is called to take the deer back to the wild.

"If you have reason to believe a mother deer has been killed, then notify the game warden," says Captain Sprott. "Don't try to raise these babies yourself. It is illegal and dangerous."

Devil's River Philosopher Admits Latest Summit Meeting Flopped But Asks Which One Succeeded

Editor's Note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitter-weed ranch on Devil's River sounds a little serious this week, but he'll get over it.

Dear editor:
One of my neighbors was feeling gloomy last week after the failure of the celebrated summit conference in Paris, the one that Khrushchev walked out on and wouldn't even shake hands with President Eisenhower at, which is not much of a secret weapon, if you ask me. I've known people who got mad at each other and wouldn't shake hands for years, sometimes they wouldn't even talk, although it's hard to imagine Khrushchev getting so mad he'd wind up in that condition.

But what I started out to talk about was the gloomy feeling my neighbor had.

I don't look at it that way. I mean, I've been reading about summit conferences for years, about how the fate of the world rested on the success of this one or that one, but what I'd like to ask is: has there ever been a successful one? Which one was it?

We've had lots of summit meetings that didn't bust up like this last one, where everybody shook hands three or four times a day, turned on their smiles, had their pictures taken together, signed some agreements on the dotted line, but what happened? As far as I can tell, everybody went home and took up where he left off.

What I mean is, I have never yet seen a signed piece of paper head off a war, and anybody who thinks the world is now closer to war than it would have been if Mr. Khrushchev had shaken hands with Mr. Eisenhower and they and Mr. MacMillan and Mr. De Gaulle had all sat down and had a jolly good time signing agreements right and left, just ain't thinking back very far. All he has to do is think back to that famous picture of Prime Minister Chamberlain stepping out of the plane on his return from Berlin and waving a piece of paper Hitler had signed guaranteeing peace in our time, just before the outbreak World War II. The failure of the summit meeting didn't bring the world closer to war. As best I can tell, the world has been fairly close to war ever since man first learned to throw a spear.

My neighbor ought to take heart. A summit meeting is sort of like a PTA meeting. It's important, but sometimes not as important as its participants imagine.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Mrs. Jack C. Shults

Carolyn McLauri Bride Of Jack Shults In Home Ceremonies Wednesday

Miss Carolyn McLauri, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee McLauri, became the bride of Jack C. Shults, son of Mrs. A. T. Shults, of Rising Star, Wednesday morning, June 1, at the home of her parents. The Rev. Alvin Loiry, pastor of the First Baptist Church, read the double ring service before a background of pink gladioli in floor baskets.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length dress of pale pink imported batiste designed with a molded bodice and shirred cap sleeves. An embroidered motif extended from the scooped neckline into the softly pleated skirt where it was caught at the hemline with a large flat bow. Her short white veil was attached to a half-hat of white grosgrain ribbon and her accessories were white. She wore a corsage of pink rosebuds.

A reception for the wedding was held at the home of Mrs. A. T. Shults and close friends of the bride and groom. The bride and groom were accompanied by the bride's parents, the groom's parents, and several other guests. The reception was held in the evening and was a very successful one.

The Caverns Of Sonora - - - Their History, Description, Exploration

Atmosphere and Temperature
The atmosphere of Mayfield Cave appears to be suitable for supporting animal life. There may be a slight increase in the carbon dioxide content of the air since the cave was first entered, but such an increase is not noticeable. The relative humidity is 100 percent throughout the cave. The temperature remains steady at 72 degrees Fahrenheit throughout the year. On the weekend of March 12, 1958, Littlefield of the Dallas Speleological Society placed a recording thermograph in the present Register Room. During the 26 hours recorded, the temperature remained constant at 72 degrees Fahrenheit.

BIOLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS

Bats
From all indications, there has been only one bat colony in Mayfield Cave, which was there in the spring of 1956. At that time, Baker (personal communication) observed a small group of about 200 Myotis bats, with young, that had taken up a position over the ledge in the Pit Room. They, evidently, had been there for only a short time, as the accumulated guano beneath them was very slight. An interesting point was that while the speleologists were setting up their ladders on the other side of the pit, the bats became excited and began flying around. One of the young bats was dropped by its mother and remained on the floor of the cave during the cavers' ladder operations. Upon the explorers' return, Baker noticed that the young bat was gone, the mother having evidently picked it up while they were in the back of the cave. There are not other guano deposits in the cave, and it is seriously doubted that bats ever inhabited the cave in great numbers. As a general rule, bats will not inhabit a cave with an entrance so small as Mayfield.

The writer has observed a few isolated bats in the upper tunnel leading from the Pit Room to the entrance, but he has never seen a group of any size in the cave. A wire screen has been placed on the entrance gate so that bats will not get into the new part of the cave and ruin its beauty with guano deposits.

Other Mammals
One unsolved mystery has puzzled speleologists since the new part of the cave was entered. Throughout the cave numerous droppings of live raccoons, Procyon lotor, or ring-tailed cats, Bassariscus astutus, have been found. Bones of raccoons have also been found in the upper levels of the cave. They could not possibly have gotten there by coming through the entrance that is now known; so it is thought that there must be another entrance. Much time has been spent searching for this entrance both in the cave and on the surface, without avail.

Insects
Some invertebrates, the usual spiders, crickets, etc. inhabit

Mayfield Cave. "Cave Crickets" or "Camel Crickets", which are actually grasshoppers, belonging to the genus Ceuthophilus, are the most numerous of these insects. Some black beetles with a re-curved carapace, belonging to the family Tenebrionidae, have also been observed in the cave.

Recent biological investigations in the cave have revealed several interesting insects which were not known to inhabit the cave prior to 1959. One is a carabid beetle of the genus rhadine. This beetle lives only in caves, and it was described as a new species, rhadine babcocki, in 1959 by Thomas C. Barr, Jr. Another interesting find is a rare millipede of the genus cambala. This millipede also lives only in caves. Biologists suspect that other new species will be found when Mayfield Cave is more thoroughly investigated.

CONSERVATION
Through the years many people have visited the old part of Mayfield Cave and their visits are much in evidence. In a small chamber in the bottom of the Pit Room there were once many beautiful formations. Now, in many places, only the broken stubs of former stalagmites and stalactites can be seen. Stalagmites up to eight inches in diameter have been broken off and supposedly carried out by some thoughtless person. Certain steps have been taken by the owner and members of the National Speleological Society in Texas to prevent such destruction from coming to the new part of the cave. Soon after the new section of the cave was discovered a locked iron gate was installed over the entrance to prevent vandals or others, who shouldn't be in the cave, from entering. The beauty, rarity and fragility of the cave's speleothems require that visits to the cave be held to a minimum. Too much traffic would destroy many of these formations. Mr. Mayfield has been most co-operative and it was through agreement with him that this policy was adopted. A new register was placed in the main passage of the cave a short distance from the entrance by the Conservation Committee of the Texas Regional Association of the NSS in the summer of 1957. The register is accompanied by a sign on which the constitution for cave conservation of the Texas Region is stated. The following quotation, taken from the register sign should be the creed of all spelunkers: "Take nothing but pictures! Leave nothing but footprints!"

SUMMARY
Mayfield Cave, one of the most beautiful and unusual of the caves in the United States, held a wonderful secret for many years. This secret was not known until 1955 when a group of organized speleologists took a chance and succeeded in finding wonders that had never before been witnessed by the human eye. The main attraction of this cave is its many beautiful formations. Most of these formations are just as they have been for thousands of years.

In conclusion the following quotation, taken from the register sign in the cave, is used to express the efforts of the National Speleological Society to further stress the conservation of our natural wonders:

"Let it never be said, and said to your shame, That all was beauty here, until you came."

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS
The writer is indebted to Mr. Stanley Mayfield for granting permission for many trips to the cave; to Mr. Jack Allen for generously giving information concerning the first exploration of the new section of the cave; to Mr. J. K. Baker who was of much assistance in the preparation of the biological report; to Dr. George W. Moore for advice on the geology report; to the Ardmore, Oklahoma Grotto, NSS, for their excellent map of the cave; to Mr. Scotty Moore for lending his photographs for use with this article; and to the members of the Ozona Grotto, NSS, and the Texas Regional Assn. NSS, for their unlimited assistance in many different ways.

"The Spirit Of The People" Theme Of National Soil Stewardship Week

1958 has been designated as Soil Stewardship Week over the nation. It is fitting that a week be set aside each year to remind all the people that soil is a precious gift from God and that it warrants their best in Christian Stewardship.

Ministers of all faiths are requested to devote a sermon to the close relationship between Christianity and wise Stewardship of the land.

The theme of Soil Stewardship Week is "The Spirit of the People." A booklet prepared by the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts presents some worthwhile thoughts on how the Spirit at work helps in destroying greed:

"The compulsion which drives some men to acquire for the sake of acquisition and to exploit for the sake of power or gain is a tragic and terrifying sickness. Throughout history, greed and self-aggrandizement have led nations and men down tortuous paths to rueful endings. We have had our share of greedy men, unfortunately, in our own country."

"There have been times, perhaps, when the decisions to exploit were unwittingly made. There were times when the land gest, quickest harvest of crops and trees appeared to possess an urgency surpassing all other considerations. In the earliest days of our nation, as the settlers moved westward, men had no way of knowing how vulnerable the soil could be. In times of war, with freedom at stake, the land was pushed hard. These can be explained away.

"Not so easily explained away are the actions of those who deliberately undertook the conquest of God's soil, with conscious and reckless disregard for the trail of ruined land, as they sought to amass fortunes from what had been the virgin countryside. These men are among the villains of our history, just as they are among the sinners of God's law."

"Opposed to this spirit of greed which scorns man and God alike in its ruthless pillage of the soil, a new spirit has arisen: the spirit of Soil Stewardship as represented by responsible people at work on the land. This new spirit, born of God, is countering and destroying the spirit of greed."

"What manner of man would continue a willful course of greed, refusing conservation and exploiting the soil, when on all sides his neighbors had accepted with justifiable pride their responsibilities as good and faithful stewards? In the sight of God-what deep repentance would he feel?

"The God-given urge to protect and build with the irreplaceable resources He has granted is gaining ground. It is an urge to be fostered and respected, for it is the antithesis of avarice and the most powerful enemy of greed on the land."

TODAY AND TOMORROW
BY RALF HARDESTER
Feature Editor TV GUIDE MAGAZINE

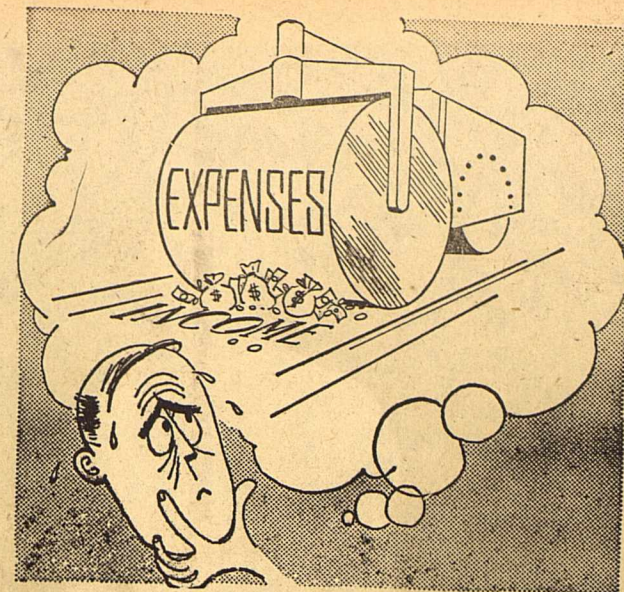

ABC HAS SCORED A MAJOR coup in signing a two-year deal with Gillette for sponsorship of 26 NCAA football games, a schedule of major league baseball games and weekly boxing matches to air Saturday nights.

Playhouse 90's "Face of a Hero" (Jack Lemmon, Rip Torn) is headed for a Broadway version, with Torn repeating his original TV role. Tuesday Weld and Agnes Moorehead team up in a Millionaire episode. Dennis (Gunsmoke) Weaver has been signed to appear in an Alfred Hitchcock Presents episode, "Insomnia"—without his trademark, the limp. The Deputy, with Henry Fonda and Allen Case, has been renewed for 1960-1961. Jim (Maverick) Garner, laid off by Warner Brothers because of the writers' strike, considers that his seven-year contract (with six years still to go) with the studio has been terminated and that he is free to accept all other offers. Warner's disagrees. Case may wind up in court.

BRITISH VIEWERS ARE TO GET full coverage of our Presidential campaign. England's Granada TV network plans to tape three specials in this country covering the campaigns, conventions and election night for presentation in England. Simone ("Room at the Top") Signoret makes her United States TV debut in a G.E. Theater episode, "Night of Revenge," co-starring Lee (M Squad) Marvin. Executive producer Quinn (The Untouchables) Martin has left Desilu to produce a series of his own, The Woman in the Case, in which three actresses will star on a rotating basis. ABC's new Bugs Bunny show and Rifleman are scheduled to take over the Tuesday night at 7:30 hour next fall. Sugarfoot and Bronco, now alternating in that spot, will move to the same hour on Fridays. NBC, already looking ahead to the 1961-62 season, is blueprinting an hour-long adventure series in color located in the Caribbean.

WHAT IS PROBABLY TV'S FIRST adult Western musical is planned for Rawhide next season. Titled "Incident of the Pitch-Wagon," it's the story of Stephen Foster's youthful meanderings through the West. The producers hope to sign John Raitt, Howard Keel or Gordon MacRae for the lead. The Arthur Murphys trying to line up Jack Benny, the Marx brothers and Burns and Allen for "roasting" sessions. A la the recent Bob Hope salutes. Noted composer Igor Stravinsky and choreographer George Balanchine have been commissioned by CBS to turn out an original ballet as a 1960-61 special. Stravinsky is writing a suite to be based on the Biblical story of Noah, which will be danced by the New York City Ballet company under Balanchine's direction. Guestward Ho, new situation comedy, is scheduled to replace John Gunther's High Road on Saturday nights.
