Heavy Voting Is Reported As Texans Troop To Polls

Roller Skating Donkey

Pinky, a roller skating donkey, is exceptional not only because he can skate but can jump over a hurdle while on skates. The pet of Chick Hoover, of Banning, Calif., shown putting Pinky through his paces, poses a problem—how to keep him in skates. Now full grown, Pinky is on his eighth set of skates, which are specially designed metal-half shoes into which the hooves fit. A strap around the fetlock fastens them on. Pinky is three years old and weighs 365 pounds.

City Balloting Draws Biggest Interest Here

Voters were turning out in relatively large numbers at noon today for the city election in which two commissioners will be chosen to fill expiring terms. But only 497 votes out of a possible 7,024 had been cast.

The voting at Central Fire Station was strongest, showing 210; Main Street fire station 160, Washington School 92, and North Side fire station 35.

Six candidates are asking for the two places. Tom South and Paul Kasch, whose terms expire, are candidates for re-election. New candidates are Boyce Hale, E. C. Smith, John Stanley, and Roy Watkins.

Howard County voters were manifesting only mild interest in the U.S. senatorial special election Tuesday morning.

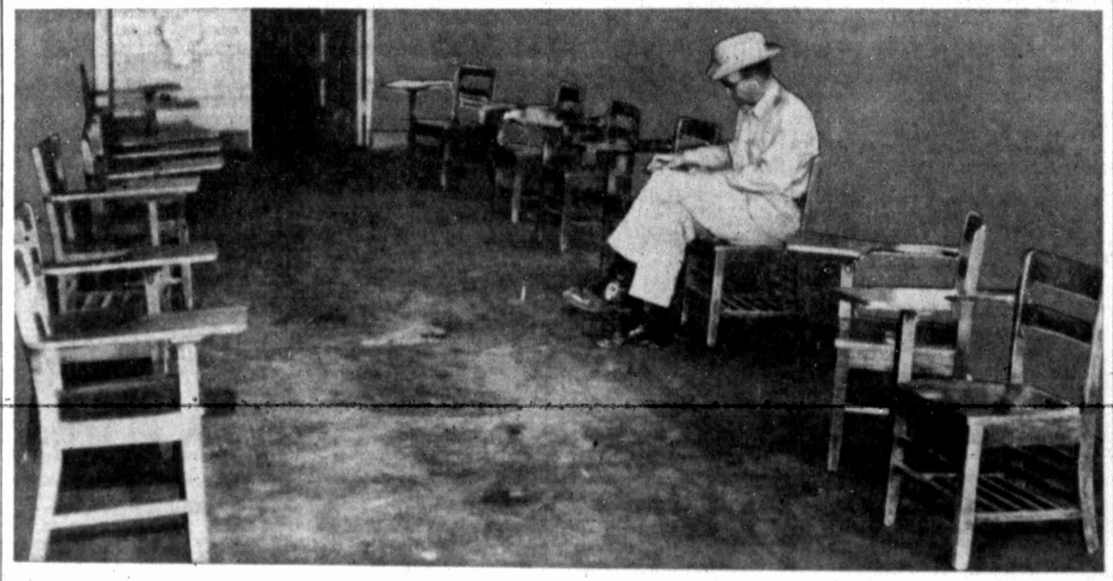

Spot check at some of the voting boxes indicated the forenoon had seen little voting activity. There was a possibility that increased activity might develop in the later hours of the day.

The four boxes where the city election was being conducted simultaneously with the senatorial vote seemed to be getting the heaviest play.

Main Street Fire Station (Precinct No. 3), for example, had polled 93 senatorial votes and 160 city ballots by noon.

At Precinct No. 15, in the Runnels Junior High School, where no city votes were being cast, only 45 ballots had been polled at the same hour.

The polls opened at 8 a.m. and will close at 7 p.m. Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, will tabulate returns at her office. She asked that election judges call in their returns as quickly as possible.

EMPTY SEATS IN THE POLLING PLACE
. . . but larger crowds were expected in the afternoon

New U.S. Senator To Be Named Today

DALLAS (AP) — Heavy voting was reported in a number of cities today as Texans turned out to choose a U.S. senator.

Because of the size of the field and the complexities of state politics, the voters probably will be selecting two men for a later runoff rather than electing one today.

Clear skies and mild temperatures prevailed over the state and heavy morning voting was reported at most boxes in a number of cities.

Austin voters, already stirred up by a city election last Saturday that brought a near-record turnout, returned briskly to the polls tolay for the special Senate election. A spot check on major boxes there showed a heavy start.

Fort Worth and Tarrant County voters turned out in heavy numbers with brisk business reported when the polls opened at 7 a.m. During the first hour and a half, ten of the largest boxes in the county all reported more than 100 votes cast. A turnout of 65,000 in the county and 35,000 in Fort Worth alone has been forecast.

ADDED IMPETUS

A city council race gave added impetus to voting at Corpus Christi where heavy turnouts were reported this morning.

At Houston voting in the various boxes ranged from light to heavy and an early morning check at San Antonio showed that balloting was running from moderate to brisk. Only at Beaumont was voting reported generally light.

A candidate in the special election must poll more than 50 per cent to be elected. Six leading candidates and 64 lesser known hopefuls in the race foreshadow a vote split which probably will keep any one from receiving a majority.

The election is to pick a senator to fill the seat vacated when Lyndon B. Johnson resigned to become vice president. An estimated 1.25 million will vote.

STRONGEST

Two conservatives, two moderates and two liberals are expected to pick up most of the ballots. The other candidates, attracted by the low $50 filing fee, are not considered serious threats.

Interim Sen. William A. Blakley, appointed by Gov. Price Daniel, and John G. Tower, lone Republican among the top six, campaigned as conservatives.

Tower, 35, a former college government professor, claims he is the only true conservative in the race. He polled 926,653 votes to 1,306,625 for Johnson in the November Senate election. Johnson ran for both the Senate and the vice presidency. Tower calls President Kennedy's New Frontier program "socialism."

Blakley, 62, is a wealthy Dallas businessman who says he is "the only conservative in the race who could win in a runoff." He advocates states rights and is opposed to "federal aid to education, socialized medicine, subsidizing foreign competition to the detriment of American working people, the foreign giveaway program."

FOREIGN POLICY

Texas Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, 48, one of the moderates, says if elected he would support Kennedy on foreign policy. He says he would oppose administration proposals for extension of the minimum wage, federal aid to education, and medical care for the aged through Social Security.

The other moderate, U.S. Rep. Jim Wright, 38, has urged a systematic annual payment on the national debt as one of the best ways to stabilize the dollar. "This would serve notice on the world that America respects its obligations and has a definite program for retiring its debts," he says.

Liberal Maury Maverick Jr., 40, calls himself a "Franklin D. Roosevelt-John Kennedy" Democrat. The only issue in the race, he says, is whether "you are for the Kennedy New Frontier or you are not, and I'm for it."

The other liberal is State Sen. Henry B. Gonzalez, the only Latin-American among the top six—which in Texas is an important factor because of the large Latin-American population.

Rayburn Lashes Birch 'Nostrums'

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., has warned that the "strange nostrums" of the John Birch Society "would destroy our freedom."

Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, called the society's founder, Robert Welch, a little Hitler, a Mussolini, a fake patriot and a slick demagogue.

As the far right anti-Communist group again came under fire from congressional critics Monday it also had a defender.

Rep. John H. Rousselot, R-Calif., in a statement, said he joined the society a few months ago "because I believe that in the main, the society is designed to oppose the Communist threat in a positive, legal and correct way."

He said he would welcome a congressional investigation of the society as soon as possible.

The society, founded in 1958, takes its name from a Baptist missionary who was killed by the Communists in China 10 days after the close of World War II.

Rayburn, speaking Monday in McKinney, Tex., said, "They're spreading this idea that a government can get by without levying taxes. That is no way to stay secure from those who would destroy us.

"The men who spread these strange nostrums would destroy our freedom. They go the length and breadth of our land claiming that we, in America, do not have freedom."

Man Burned In C-City Blast

COLORADO CITY (SC)—An explosion in the basement of the City Boot Shop on U.S. 80 at the east edge of Colorado City at 10:15 a.m. today sent H. G. Veal, 50, to the Root Memorial Hospital and caused extensive damage to the building.

Veal, according to his physician, suffered second degree burns on the face, hands, arms and chest. His condition is not serious and the physician said that he suffered no broken bones.

Early investigation indicated that the explosion originated in a water heater in the basement. Apparently Veal, who owned the masonry building and operated the boot shop, was in the basement at the time.

No fire followed the explosion.

Fire department, police and sheriff's officers were conducting an investigation into the cause of the explosion at noon.

Frogmen Dunk Young Pacifists

DUNOON, Scotland (AP)—U.S. Navy frogmen dunked antinuclear campaigners into the chilly waters of Holy Loch today during an attempt to clamber aboard the Polaris submarine Patrick Henry.

A small group of youthful pacifists paddled out shortly after dawn when the submarine came cruising in after a brief spell at sea.

Judge Carpenter Calls Jury Panels

Ed Carpenter, county judge, Tuesday supervised the drawing of two panels of 50 jurors each to serve in the county court at a civil docket starting next Tuesday.

He said that he would call the docket Monday at 1:30 p.m. and that the jurors would be asked to report Tuesday at 9 a.m.

Carpenter is preparing a lengthy docket of civil cases which are on file in his court. He is notifying all attorneys involved in these cases to be on hand Monday afternoon. Cases where no appearance is made, he said, will be dismissed on the court's own motion.

This is a part of his plan to eliminate old and no longer active cases on the county court civil docket.

Crucial Issues For Lamesa

LAMESA (SC) — Will Lamesa retain the city manager form of government? Will the city be divided into four election districts? Will the corporation judge be elective rather than appointive?

Who will be the two city commissioners elected for 2-year terms in event the present council-manager form of government is retained?

These are crucial questions to be decided today in what promises to be heavy balloting.

Both sides have campaigned extensively since late March, although there has been some work for more than two months.

Mayor Bowers Purcell is seeking re-election and Mack McLaughlin is his opponent. Teamed with Purcell is Clyde Branon, who is opposing John A. Flache, who is seeking re-election. Purcell is against the proposed council changes; Flache is backing the three proposals.

An election was called on the proposed changes in response to a petition bearing 650 signatures.

The initial issue is whether to replace the manager with a mayor who would be paid at least $6,000 a year, or 60 cents per capita. Councilmen, who now receive $10 a month, would get $100 a month.

Proposition two calls for redistricting the city into four areas, divided geographically by Avenue G and North Seventh Street, with elected councilmen from each area for two-year terms. All councilmen are presently elected at-large, with the mayor being named by the members.

The third item on the ballot provides for an elective, rather than appointive corporation court judge, for a two-year term.

Hoping For Honest Finder

Unless some honest person is the finder, Lenora Nix, 1703½ Lancaster, faces a lean month.

Mrs. Nix, who works at the Big Spring State Hospital, got her check last Friday but the bank was closed that day. Monday, she stopped in the post office to purchase some money orders en route to deposit the remaining $142 in the bank. Somehow the money—all in $20 bills except for two $1 bills wrapped around it, dropped out of her purse, probably in or near the post office.

Katanga Chief Backs Off From Ultimatum

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Katanga President Moishe Tshombe, thwarted in a move to seize the Elisabethville airport from U.N. forces, angrily called on his supporters today to get ready to fight the United Nations.

Two hours later he ordered them off, but knife-wielding Africans already were running amok on roads leading to the airport.

At midafternoon the strong man leader of secessionist Katanga Province ordered full mobilization and turned this capital city into an armed camp. He handed the U.N. forces an ultimatum to surrender the airport within two hours. Then, as tension mounted, Tshombe announced he and U.N. officials had reached an agreement to avert an explosion.

Even as this was announced, frenzied Africans were milling about uniformed Swedish U.N. soldiers, attacking them with stones and smashing their cars. Two Swedish drivers were rescued by white members of the Katanga army.

This evening 4,000 howling, stone-throwing Africans swept onto the airport and laid siege to the terminal building and control tower. Stones shattered windows. Some women airline passengers, caught in the terminal, screamed with fright.

Within the building was a company of Swedish U.N. soldiers under command of Col. Anders Kjellgren, U.N. commander for south Katanga.

Units of the Katanga army took up battle positions outside the terminal to protect the Swedish force.

MANY BELGIANS

That army, the most disciplined in the Congo, is commanded by Tshombe but many of its officers are Belgians retained by Tshombe. Belgium formerly ruled this country.

These were the events leading up to the Katanga crisis:

A platoon of 24 Katanga soldiers, led by a Belgian officer, tried to seize the airport before dawn. A dozen Swedish soldiers at the airport thwarted the attempt.

In a rage, Tshombe delivered his ultimatum and went direct to the capital's people. He told a screaming crowd of 10,000 that the Swedes must quit the airport within two hours or face attack by the capital's entire population.

"The Swedes may not leave the airport in two hours," he shouted. "If not, I will ask all of you, together with the police and Katanga army, to march on the airport. You will fight, you will shoot, you will recapture the airport."

AGREEMENT

But before the ultimatum was to take effect, Tshombe announced he had reached an agreement on control of the airport. He rescinded the ultimatum. U.N. officials said Tshombe had agreed that the airport should return to the joint control of Katanga authorities and the United Nations.

Mobs already were on the road to the airport.

Hemmed in by almost crazed Africans, who several times threatened with their knives, this correspondent watched attacks on two U.N. cars.

The crowd halted the cars and threatened the Swedes with their knives. Others scampered to the roadside to gather stones. They began to stone the Swedes in their cars and within minutes the windows were smashed on the two white vehicles. The occupants were bleeding.

RESCUED

Some whites with the Katanga army forced their way through the mob to rescue the two Swedes. They forced the bleeding men to sit up and drive through the crowd, while Katanga troops clambered on the hoods.

"Now we have made the U.N. prisoners," a soldier screamed to the mob.

A short way down the road a group of angry Africans attacked a white woman. Police went to her rescue, but not before she was hacked several times across the body.

Several thousand other Africans gathered around the deserted U.N. headquarters building in Elisabethville, chanting and screaming, while leaders exhorted them to tear the building down. Tshombe's forces earlier had cut off power and water to the building.

Through the afternoon much of the population of Elisabethville seemed to be in an ugly mood and ready to support Tshombe. They waved knives, clubs, iron staffs and rifles as they roared approval of Tshombe's anti-U.N. exhortations.

Tshombe, who had to force his way through a dense mass to reach his speaking platform, declared that from now on the people were to engage in "general sabotage" against all U.N. soldiers—"and I don't care how you do it."

He threatened severe sanctions against anyone, black or white, who cooperated with United Nations. These sanctions included up to five years imprisonment.

Before Tshombe spoke, a part of the vast crowd attempted to storm the U.N. headquarters and the nearby U.N. hospital.

Katanga police managed to hold them back and it was only the arrival of Tshombe that prevented them from attacking the U.N. buildings.

Lyndon, Malik Parley During Stay In Senegal

DAKAR, Senegal (AP) — U.S. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson conferred at length Monday night with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob Malik.

The two men, who talked with the help of interpreters and aides, refused later to say anything about what had been discussed. They talked at a reception given by Premier Mamadou Dia at the Justice Ministry.

Johnson and Malik are in Dakar as official representatives to Senegal's first independence day anniversary.

Malik was asked earlier if he planned to talk with Johnson and replied, "I suppose we'll bump into one another at one of these crowded receptions." However, at a presidential reception Monday the two apparently avoided one another, although at one point they were standing only a few feet apart.

President Leopold Senghor today praised French President Charles de Gaulle and warned the new nations of Africa not to fall into the error of attacking their former rulers.

"Remember that the colonizers of yesterday are the friends of tomorrow," Senghor told a vast crowd and nearly 100 foreign delegations assembled for the first anniversary of the West African nation's independence from France.

Asians Against African Break

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Asian and African members of the United Nations were split today over a call for a worldwide break with South Africa in reprisal for its racial laws.

Failing to reach a compromise despite hours of bargaining, African and Asian factions came forth with rival resolutions expected to trigger heated debate when the 99-nation special Political Committee resumes discussion today of South Africa's apartheid policy of strict segregation.

The 25 African members of the United Nations threw their unanimous support behind Ghana's call for sweeping sanctions that would sever all diplomatic and economic ties with the South African government, halt all postal and telegraph communications and close all ports and airfields to South African craft.

Jury Mulls Fate Of Finch, Carole

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A jury today pondered the fates of Dr. R. Bernard Finch and Carole Tregoff. For the two lovers, convicted as killers, the issue was life or death.

They were convicted last week of murdering Finch's socialite wife, Barbara Jean, 36.

The same jury sets their penalty. Its only choices are death in the gas chamber or life imprisonment. The defendants are treated separately.

Both were convicted of conspiracy to murder, a capital offense. Finch was convicted of first-degree murder, Miss Tregoff of second degree murder.

The doctor could get death or life imprisonment on either the conspiracy or first-degree counts; his sweetheart on the conspiracy count. Her second-degree conviction carried an automatic sentence of five years to life.

Superior court Judge David locked up overnight after they debated one hour and 58 minutes Monday.

The Los Angeles Examiner reported that, moments after the jury retired, a lip reader among spectators reported Carole said inaudibly to Finch: "No matter what happens, I love you."

The lip reader, unidentified, said Finch's reply was not caught.

Carole's lawyer, standing beside her at the time, said he did not hear her make any such statement.

In a sweltering courtroom, the state demanded death for both in payment for the fatal shooting on July 18, 1959, of Finch's beautiful estranged wife.

Luck, Sightseers Halt Gold Work

OLD GLORY, Tex. (AP)—Paul Harrelson says hard luck and too many sightseers forced him to stop work on a vein of gold he said he found near this West Texas town.

He said Monday crowds of sightseers drawn by news stories of his find kept employes from working and a sudden rise on the Brazos River washed out a dam at the location, and swept away two pumps.

"We changed all the locks on the gates today," he said. "We don't plan to reopen the operation for at least a month or until some of this publicity cools down."

Harrelson said a week ago he found the vein about one mile from the old Cortez silver mine. He said a sample of the ore assayed $138 gold per ton.

Penny's Symbol A Nostalgic Figure

A nostalgic American figure, whose origin was really English, has been selected as the symbol for the J. C. Penny Company 59th anniversary theme.

It is the cigar store Indian, target of pranksters, mischievious children and occasionally the law. Now virtually a museum piece, the wooden statues once were as much a part of a cigar store as tobacco. In fact, an operator once complained his stock only cost $40, whereas the Indian cost $50.

Researchers believe the first wooden Indian was displayed on the counter of an apothecary shop in London in 1617. Attired in a kilt of tobacco leaves, it symbolized the introduction of tobacco in England by Sir Walter Raleigh. It was in 1730 the first cigar store Indian appeared on Hancock Street in Boston, and this was a crude carving of Pocahontas. Half a century later the evolved character, a mild mannered chief, was carved for a store in Lancaster, Pa. His popularity grew until it peaked between 1850-90.

Artisans who carved figureheads for ships were the first producers of the wooden Indians. Later immigrant woodcarvers took it up as a trade, some becoming so adept that they commanded $150 per statue. The average was from $25 to $50. After the Civil War some were cast in iron, discouraging pranksters from moving the Indians.

Many factors contributed to the demise of the Indus Americanus Woodensis, the final blow being by the course, when widespread laws banned sidewalk obstructions or exhibits.

None grieved the passing too much, for children were given to borrowing the statues for their Indian wars. College boys found them a prime temptation for removal to dormitories. In Washington, D. C., one Indian had such a fierce visage that the law compelled the owner to saw off the gun barrel to keep from frightening ladies and children. Nobody seems to have defended this stolid character, and with his handful of cigars, he drifted into oblivion.

McMurry Band Plans Tour Of 10 West Texas Cities

ABILENE — McMurry College's Indian Band will visit 10 West Texas towns and cities when it makes its spring concert tour April 9-13.

Under the direction of Dr. Raymond T. Bynum, the 51-member band will play in two churches and eight high schools.

The tour will open with a program of sacred music in the First Methodist Church at Winters Sunday morning, April 9. An appearance is slated at the First Methodist Church in Ballinger that evening.

Monday the group will play at Central High School, San Angelo, in the morning, Robert Lee High School in the afternoon, and Colorado City High School in the evening.

Schedule for Tuesday calls for an afternoon program at Big Lake High School and an evening concert at Fort Stockton High School.

Wednesday performances include Monahans High School in the morning, Wink High School in the afternoon, and Permian High School of Odessa in the evening.

Secular repertoire for the five-day trip includes four marches, "Wings of Victory," "On the Mall," "My Hero" from "The Chocolate Soldier;" and "Stars and Stripes Forever"; and three overtures, "Euranthe" by Von Weber, "Finlandia" by Sibelius, and Introduction to Act III of "Lohengrin" by Wagner.

Among novelty numbers to be performed are a rhumba, "Latin American Tropicale"; a trombone trio featuring Jerry Dean, Lee South and Clifford Hutton in "Slide Kicks"; and "Little Brown Jug Goes To Town." The "Wetbacks," an instrumental group led by Dean, will play a group of Latin rhythm numbers.

Unusual instruments featured in the concerts are the Aida trumpets (long, slender horns) and a set of imported English handbells made in Holland.

THE UNDENIABLE

Non-Sectarian Worship

By T. H. Tarbet, preacher, Church of Christ, West Highway 80, P.O. Box 1383.

Continuing yesterday's lesson, we note another characteristic of a non-sectarian church:

3. No Christian should be excluded from the worship.

A Christian is excluded from the worship of a church where he is not permitted to do his whole duty. The Lord's Supper must be provided every first day of the week, or the church must be able to show each Christian that the Bible does not teach communion on the first day of the week, in spite of the example of Acts 20:7.

On the other hand, the well-read Christian is excluded from the services where he is required to participate in something which constitutes an addition to the Word of God (Rev. 22:18).

The church must either leave off instrumental music in connection with worship, or be able to show the individual where the Bible approves of its use in worship.

In short, if a church in any way adds-to or takes-from the Word, it of necessity excludes Christians from its worship and fellowship. That church is sectarian. (Adv.)

Senate Passes Bill Allowing 70-MPH Speed

AUSTIN (AP)—Motorists will be able to whiz along at 70 miles per hour on certain roads and slow pokes can be arrested if a bill passed Monday by the Senate becomes law.

The Senate continued work on a heavy stack of bills today while the House remained in recess.

Eight of the 25 present for Monday's 2½-hour session voted against final passage of the bill (SB20) by Sen. Preston Smith of Lubbock which contained a controversial amendment by Sen. Wardlow Lane of Center.

Opponents said as amended the bill would make an ineffective weapon in controlling speed and the result would be a veto by Gov. Price Daniel. Two bills permitting certain highways to be zoned faster than the present 60-m.p.h. limit have been vetoed in recent years.

AIR BASE

Also approved was a bill (SB403) by Sen. Martin Dies of Lufkin to let the state receive at no cost from the federal government an abandoned radar air base north of Lufkin and use it for mentally retarded school children.

Dies said after the bill is finally passed the children could be brought into the school within three months. The school would be operated from funds presently available. The bill includes no appropriation.

Dies also said addition of the school would not conflict with needs for another school in the Gulf Coast area.

One constitutional amendment and seven other bills were passed. Scheduled hearings of the State Affairs and Jurisprudence Committees were cancelled. At its next meeting Wednesday, the State Affairs Committee will consider a House-passed tax bill which would retire about half the state's anticipated deficit.

ZONE POWER

Smith's bill allows turnpike authorities, county commissioners and the State Highway Department to zone up or down from the present 60 m.p.h. speed limit.

A "prima facie" evidence rule is removed for an "absolute" speed law which makes it flatly illegal to drive faster than the posted speed. Under present law, it is not necessarily a violation to exceed the speed limit if a motorist and his lawyer can convince the court he was driving reasonably and prudently at the time.

Lane declared it is "the height of stupidity" under present law to allow 60 m.p.h. on twisting county roads and the same limit on six-lane expressways. He offered an amendment prohibiting court use of any evidence obtained by "lying in wait unobserved, hiding or in any manner concealing, in whole or in part, any equipment or the operation thereof."

Present law is somewhat similar to this but does not apply in cities under 10,000 population, where most instances of speed traps have been reported.

Sen. Abraham Kazen of Laredo contended the amendment wiped out radar and Lane admitted the language "will give you something to argue about in court."

NO RADAR

Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas said he thought the governor would veto the bill "the minute it hits his desk."

Sen. Crawford Martin of Hillsboro said he opposed the idea of permitting officers to arrest motorists who are driving slowly on a highway. Lane countered with the argument that he thought the purpose of "spending millions of dollars on the highways and for a patrol was for safety. The most dangerous speed on the highway is 35 m.p.h. You have four times as many accidents at 35 as at 65."

Senators approved a change (SJR12) in the constitutional "conflict of interest" provision to let state employes to serve as consultants or on advisory committees of other political subdivisions. Service on school boards was not included in Martin's amendment.

Las Vegas Hits Video Series

LAS VEGAS, Nev., (AP)—The Chamber of Commerce and other booster groups have threatened legal action to prevent the showing of two new television series using this gambling center as their setting.

"We're vigorously opposed to any television series showing Las Vegas in anything but a true light," Sam Boyd, chamber president, said Monday.

Boyd termed the script of the proposed "Las Vegas Beat" brutal. He sent a telegram of protest to the National Broadcasting Co. in New York.

Boyd said if the film is determined to be libelous, legal action would be taken to prevent its showing.

The same goes for Warner Bros., producers of a semi-documentary "Las Vegas File," Boyd said.

A spokesman for Goodman-Todson, producers of "Las Vegas Beat," said a group of Las Vegas promotion officials approved the series' first script.

"If such permission was given," Boyd said, "it was rescinded later with the understanding they would bring in the pilot film before they attempted to market it." He said the firm had not done this.

There was no immediate comment from Warner Bros.

Candidates Carry Race Down To Wire

By The Associated Press

Predictions for outright victory or at least a runoff berth came from nearly every major candidate in advance of Tuesday's U.S. Senate election in Texas.

Top contenders and a number of lesser known entries carried their campaigns right down to the wire.

The voting on a successor to Vice President Lyndon Johnson in the Senate shared interest with municipal elections in many cities and towns. Some of the local contests generated more heat than the race for senator.

The weather man cooperated by predicting clear to partly cloudy skies and mild temperatures throughout the state.

Veteran political observers clung to a rather general view that the king-sized ballot—listing 71 candidates—would make it impossible for any individual to command a majority vote. Instead, the big question was which two would advance into a runoff election.

There actually were only 64 still in the race. Six withdrew too late to be dropped from the ballot and a seventh, Springer Knoblauch of Corpus Christi, died March 30 of injuries suffered in an auto accident.

Handicappers stayed with predictions that the big elimination contest would draw two runoff rivals from among the so-called big six—Sen. William Blakley, Dallas financier serving by interim appointment; State Sen. Henry Gonzalez and former state Rep. Maury Maverick Jr., both of San Antonio; Republican John Tower of Wichita Falls, Atty. Gen. Will Wilson and U.S. Rep. Jim Wright of Fort Worth.

Blakley, in a closing speech piped to 26 television stations Monday night from Houston, was among those forecasting a personal victory. He said there had been "a tremendous swing to Blakley." The senator went back home to vote in Dallas and planned to watch election returns at his headquarters there.

TWO TONGUES

Gonzalez wound up with televised talks in both English and Spanish in San Antonio. He pledged himself to seek legislation designed to benefit unemployed men and women over 40 years old in particular, and said he is best qualified to help bolster U.S. relations with Latin America. After voting Tuesday, he drove to Austin for a Senate session and planned a return to San Antonio to hear voting results.

Maverick set out to shake hands of prospective voters in San Antonio again after casting his ballot. He forecast the election would send him into a runoff with Tower. "I am what I have always been—a Franklin Roosevelt-Ralph Yarborough-John Kennedy Democrat," Maverick said in a speech televised over the state Monday night. He headed for his Austin campaign office to await returns after casting his vote.

GREAT LEAD

"I predict there are enough dedicated workers and voters to assure me a great lead in Tuesday's election and to produce a final victory in a runoff election if one is necessary," Tower confidently asserted in a telecast Monday night from stations in Austin, Dallas, Houston, San Antonio, Temple, Waco and Wichita Falls. Tower planned to receive results of the voting at his home in Wichita Falls.

Wilson, who maintains legal residence in his home town of Dallas, wound up with televised appeals to Dallas and Fort Worth residents, declaring: "If political moderates throughout Texas make sure their voice is felt at the ballot box, I will have a substantial lead." The attorney general voted in Dallas and went back to Austin to wait for returns.

Wright, also concluding with a speech carried by TV stations over the state, pictured himself as a middle of the road candidate who could get results in Washington where his opponents couldn't. He also proposed a new tariff policy based on a scale that could adjust to allow for differences in wages of U.S. and foreign workers and level off harmful trade imbalances. Like his opponents, Wright returned home to vote and hear the results.

U.S. Urges Cuba To Cut Red Links

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has urged Fidel Castro's Cuban regime "to sever its links with the international Communist movement."

The statement, issued Monday, accused Castro of betraying the Cuban revolution and leading the Caribbean island into Communist bondage.

It was the Kennedy administration's toughest indictment of Castro so far.

The U.S. statement said it is the government's belief that "the Castro regime in Cuba offers a clear and present danger to the authentic and autonomous revolution of the Americas.

"What began as a movement to enlarge Cuban democracy and freedom has been perverted, in short, into a mechanism for the destruction of free institutions in Cuba, for the seizure by international communism of a base and bridgehead in the Americas, and for the disruption of the inter-American system."

The U.S. position—following in essence the lines drawn in the Eisenhower administration — was set forth in a 36-page pamphlet issued by the State Department.

Press officer Lincoln White said "because of the tremendous public interest of the United States in Cuba, this pamphlet for public consumption is a straight-forward presentation of the situation in Cuba."

The pamphlet is a summation of U.S. government allegations and reports presented as U.S.-Havana relations worsened.

Copies and Spanish-language texts were prepared for distribution throughout Latin America, to the Organization of American States, the International Organization of the 21 American republics, and for the United Nations.

The government-controlled radio in Cuba said the U.S. statement contained "the usual anti-Cuban refrains."

In picturing Cuba as a Communist beachhead in the Americas, the State Department document said Castro has increased the Cuban military force to 10 times the size of any Cuban army.

It quoted estimates of 250,000 and 400,000 for the number of Cubans in the armed forces—compared to one out of 50 in the Soviet Union and one in 60 in the United States.

"The present situation in Cuba, "said the pamphlet, "confronts the Western Hemisphere and the inter-American system with a grave and urgent challenge.

"The challenge results from the fact that the leaders of the revolutionary regime betrayed their own revolution.

"The people of Cuba remain our brothers. We acknowledge omissions and errors in our relationship to them.

"We call once again on the Castro regime to sever its links with the international Communist movement."

Clear Weather Prevails In State

By The Associated Press

Clear weather prevailed throughout Texas and warmer weather was in prospect Tuesday.

Forecasters said it would turn cooler again in all sections by Tuesday night or Wednesday.

The cool front billowed southward into the Gulf of Mexico and caused brisk north breezes over the northern two-thirds of Texas Monday. There was no rain anywhere in the state and none was predicted.

Weather Bureau observers looked for rising winds to whip dust into the air over parts of Southwest Texas late Tuesday.

Cuban Minimizes Anti-Kennedy Plot

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Cuban Ambassador Jose Antonio Portuondo said Monday reports of a plot by pro-Castro elements to kidnap President Kennedy's daughter Caroline "sound like the plot of a second-rate Hollywood movie."

"The whole thing is absurd," said Portuondo.

Midland Woman Dies In Accident

HASKELL, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Rufus Banks, about 50, of Midland, died Monday in a one-car accident 3 miles south of here in West Texas on U.S. 277. Sheriff G. T. Garrett said she was en route to Haskell, north of Abilene, to visit her parents.

Final Task Closes NCO School

Following graduation exercises for Class 61-9 Saturday, Webb's NCO Preparatory School staff pull up the sign to mark the school's end. The "last task" was performed by M.Sgt. Harold M. Kain, school director (right), and instructors Airman 2.C. Richard D. Gordon, (left) and kneeling, Airman 2.C. Keith A. Bayeas and Airman 3.C. Dennis L. Kornfehl. Eleven students received their certificates, making a total of 138 persons completing the three-week course in ten classes since the school opened in June, 1960. During its 10 months of operation the school became regarded by potential NCOs as the first step upward.

Spade Cooley Held After Wife Is Beaten To Death

TEHACHAPI, Calif. (AP)—The estranged wife of bandleader Spade Cooley was found beaten to death Monday night at the couple's luxurious ranch home, the sheriff's office reported.

A few hours later Sheriff Leroy Galyen said Cooley, the Western-style TV musician of the 1940s and 1950s, would be booked for investigation of murder.

Deputy John Howard said of the bandleader: "He's all shook up. That's all I can tell you."

His wife, Ella Mae Cooley, about 37, was taken to a hospital, where she was pronounced dead on arrival shortly after midnight.

Coroner Stanley Newman said she apparently had been dead about four or five hours.

Cooley, about 48, accompanied his wife to the hospital. Dr. Vincent Troy, who pronounced Mrs. Cooley dead, at first said Cooley was under sedation and unavailable for comment.

The sheriff's office later disclosed Cooley had been under almost continous questioning since he arrived at the hospital.

The sheriff's office said the body was found in a bedroom at their Water Wonderland Ranch, part of a $15-million real estate development near Rosamond, Calif., about 80 miles northeast of Los Angeles.

Cooley, in virtual retirement from show business in the last few years, has been active in real estate investment in this Southern California area.

Cooley sued his wife for divorce March 24. She formerly sang with his band. They have two children.

IN AMERICA'S BIGGEST, TOUGHEST 1961 ECONOMY CONTEST...

Which man drove Rambler?

In the most realistic test of all-around gasoline economy ever staged—the NASCAR sanctioned 1961 Pure Oil Economy Trials at Daytona—Rambler won three trophies, held by driver Les Viland in the photo above.

No other make won more than one award . . . most won none.

Unlike other runs that put a premium on feather-footed driving, the Pure Oil Economy Trials closely parallel your own everyday driving experience.

Every U.S.-built production car is eligible. None are arbitrarily barred, as in some runs. In 1961, 145 cars representing all 5 U.S. makers competed.

Rambler American Custom with overdrive beat them all to win the cherished Overall Winner Trophy and captured the Class 6 trophy in competition with Falcon, Corvair, Lark and Tempest 4. In fact, it took the first 6 places and 8 of the first 10.

And Ambassador V-8 by Rambler won its Class, swept the first 8 places and 9 of the first 10 spots.

With speeds up to 65, and averaging more than 40 M.P.H., the winning Rambler American made 14 complete stops, shifted through the gears 15 times while circling the 3.7 mile course, and still averaged 26.86 miles per gallon!

This is the second straight year Rambler won the Pure Oil Economy Trials.

Want more proof of Rambler value? Then see your Rambler dealer. You'll find top gas economy is just part of your savings. Rambler costs less to buy, is voted most trouble-free by owners, has top resale value.

Rambler dealers sell twice as many compact cars per dealer as most other dealer groups. So, you get a better deal . . . on the best of the compacts. Rambler—world standard of compact car excellence.

SEE YOUR RAMBLER DEALER—Drive the Recognized Economy King!

Air Force Band Gains Versatility

The United States Air Force Band, in a few years, has achieved versatility, an ability to resolve itself into a 100-piece marching band, a 90-piece symphony orchestra, an 85-piece symphonic band, a 55-piece concert tour band, a 25-voice glee club, (the "Singing Sergeants"), 5 dance bands, including the "Airmen of Note," the "Jumping Jacks", and many other instrumental and chamber groups.

Responsible for their adaptability is its commanding officer and conductor, Col. George Sallade Howard, chief of bands and music for the Air Force. He will conduct the concert tour band when it plays here April 14 at City Auditorium, under the auspices of the Big Spring Shriñe Club.

A native of Reamstown, Pa., Col. Howard is the recipient of five degrees. After graduating with honor from Ithaca College, Ithaca, N. Y., he attended Ohio Wesleyan University where he obtained his bachelor of arts degree. Both his bachelor of music and master of music degrees were received at the Chicago Conservatory of Music. He subsequently received his master of arts degree at New York University and then returned to the Chicago conservatory for his doctorate.

Col. Howard's musical career embraces every phase of that art—he has been, at various times, a player, soloist, composer, conductor and music educator. He began his career with the famed Patric Conway Band as a clarinetist and later soloist. He then entered the field of music education where he spent the next 20 years in various supervisory capacities. These include being instructor in clarinet and saxophone at Ithaca College, instructor of wind pedagogy and conducting at Ohio Wesleyan, director of music at Mansfield (Pa.) State Teachers College, director of music at Mooseheart, Ill., dean of the Ernest Williams School of Music in Brooklyn, and instructor at Montclair (N. J.) State Teachers College. At the time he entered the service, he was director of the band, orchestra and chorus school at Pennsylvania State College.

Col. Howard entered the Department of the Army in 1943 and served as executive officer for the Music Branch of the Special Services Division. He served overseas in Greenland, Iceland, and Newfoundland in the North Atlantic Command where he organized musical programs in the entertainment field. He then transferred to the Air Force in March, 1944, to become the commanding officer and conductor of the Air Force Band.

Under his direction, the band has made nine international tours.

Col. Howard has supervision of all of the Air Force bands that are now in operation in all parts of the world. This entails not only selecting their leaders, assignment of personnel, determining their physical locations, conducting career programs, and making periodic field inspections of these units, but also directing every phase of music in the Air Force.

33 Volunteers Attend Session

Coahoma, Colorado City and Big Spring were represented by potential Junior Volunteers at the Orientation Program held Monday morning at the Big Spring State Hospital.

There were 33 persons present, according to Dr. Preston Harrison, superintendent.

After an invocation by Rev. Donald Hungerford, sponsor of Junior Volunteers, Dr. Harrison welcomed all visitors and informed them of the need for volunteers.

Other speakers told about the mental illness problem, why it occurs, what is being done to solve it, the work of the various departments at the hospital and the part which volunteers can do in mental health work.

The guests were taken on a tour of the hospital for a first-hand look at hospital activities.

Rev. Hungerford, Mrs. Melvin Turner, and Mrs. Toots Mansfield, sponsor Junior Volunteer work. Any junior or senior high school student who is 16 years old or over may join the program.

There will be a meeting of Volunteers at 4 p.m. Wednesday at the High School for planning an activity schedule for April.

Darland Seeks Attackers Of Elderly Woman

Bob Darland, county juvenile officer, has stepped up his efforts to identify the juvenile gang which beat up an old age pensioner last Tuesday night.

He went to the house where the woman lived and talked to her about the attack.

"She had certainly been given a beating," Darland said. "Although it's been a week since the attack, both her eyes are still black, most of her jaw is covered with bruises and her nose is discolored and swollen.

"She said she was coming home after dark last Tuesday night. As she neared her home, she said someone jumped her from the dark and struck her in the face knocking her down. A number of others jumped on her and began beating her.

"She could not recognize any of the attackers but she had some leads which may help me find them."

The woman is near 70 years old it was reported and lives alone in a small shack on the northwest side of town.

Neighbors came to the office of the county judge Monday and told of the attack on the woman. They said they had delayed reporting it until Monday because they were trying to identify her assilants.

Johnston Gets Webb Contract

D. D. Johnston, Big Spring, was awarded the $14,400 contract to paint the interior of three buildings and exterior of 32 buildings at Webb AFB, according to Floyd A. Henderson, procurement office.

The contract was awarded after competition by formal advertising with 14, of 23 firms invited, submitting bids for the project. The contract covers a five month period.

Dawson Society Mails Seals

LAMESA (SC)—More than 3,000 letters containing Easter Seals and a message from the Dawson County Crippled Children's Society were mailed recently to Lamesa and county residents.

The mail appeal is the first step in the month-long campaign to fight crippling conditions. Contributions provide the principal financial support for projects and services of the Dawson County Society for Crippled Children.

Luck, Sightseers Halt Gold Work

OLD GLORY, Tex. (AP)—Paul Harrelson says hard luck and too many sightseers forced him to stop work on a vein of gold he said he found near this West Texas town.

He said Monday crowds of sightseers drawn by news stories of his find kept employes from working and a sudden rise on the Brazos River washed out a dam at the location, and swept away two pumps.

"We changed all the locks on the gates today," he said. "We don't plan to reopen the operation for at least a month or until some of this publicity cools down."

Harrelson said a week ago he found the vein about one mile from the old Cortez silver mine. He said a sample of the ore assayed $138 gold per ton.

Penny's Symbol A Nostalgic Figure

A nostalgic American figure, whose origin was really English, has been selected as the symbol for the J. C. Penny Company 59th anniversary theme.

It is the cigar store Indian, target of pranksters, mischievious children and occasionally the law. Now virtually a museum piece, the wooden statues once were as much a part of a cigar store as tobacco. In fact, an operator once complained his stock only cost $40, whereas the Indian cost $50.

Researchers believe the first wooden Indian was displayed on the counter of an apothecary shop in London in 1617. Attired in a kilt of tobacco leaves, it symbolized the introduction of tobacco in England by Sir Walter Raleigh. It was in 1730 the first cigar store Indian appeared on Hancock Street in Boston, and this was a crude carving of Pocahontas. Half a century later the evolved character, a mild mannered chief, was carved for a store in Lancaster, Pa. His popularity grew until it peaked between 1850-90.

Artisans who carved figureheads for ships were the first producers of the wooden Indians. Later immigrant woodcarvers took it up as a trade, some becoming so adept that they commanded $150 per statue. The average was from $25 to $50. After the Civil War some were cast in iron, discouraging pranksters from moving the Indians.

Many factors contributed to the demise of the Indus Americanus Woodensis, the final blow being by the course when widespread laws banned sidewalk obstructions or exhibits.

None grieved the passing too much, for children were given to borrowing the statues for their Indian wars. College boys found them a prime temptation for removal to dormitories. In Washington, D. C., one Indian had such a fierce visage that the law compelled the owner to saw off the gun barrel to keep from frightening ladies and children. Nobody seems to have defended this stolid character, and with his handful of cigars, he drifted into oblivion.

McMurry Band Plans Tour Of 10 West Texas Cities

ABILENE — McMurry College's Indian Band will visit 10 West Texas towns and cities when it makes its spring concert tour April 9-13.

Under the direction of Dr. Raymond T. Bynum, the 51-member band will play in two churches and eight high schools.

The tour will open with a program of sacred music in the First Methodist Church at Winters Sunday morning, April 9. An appearance is slated at the First Methodist Church in Ballinger that evening.

Monday the group will play at Central High School, San Angelo, in the morning, Robert Lee High School in the afternoon, and Colorado City High School in the evening.

Schedule for Tuesday calls for an afternoon program at Big Lake High School and an evening concert at Fort Stockton High School.

Wednesday performances include Monahans High School in the morning, Wink High School in the afternoon, and Permian High School of Odessa in the evening.

Secular repertoire for the five-day trip includes four marches, "Wings of Victory," "On the Mall," "My Hero" from "The Chocolate Soldier;" and "Stars and Stripes Forever"; and three overtures, "Euranthe" by Von Weber, "Finlandia" by Sibelius, and Introduction to Act III of "Lohengrin" by Wagner.

Among novelty numbers to be performed are a rhumba, "Latin American Tropicale"; a trombone trio featuring Jerry Dean, Lee South and Clifford Hutton in "Slide Kicks"; and "Little Brown Jug Goes To Town." The "Wetbacks," an instrumental group led by Dean, will play a group of Latin rhythm numbers.

Unusual instruments featured in the concerts are the Aida trumpets (long, slender horns) and a set of imported English handbells made in Holland.

THE UNDENIABLE

Non-Sectarian Worship

By T. H. Tarbet, preacher, Church of Christ, West Highway 80, P.O. Box 1383.

Continuing yesterday's lesson, we note another characteristic of a non-sectarian church:

3. No Christian should be excluded from the worship.

A Christian is excluded from the worship of a church where he is not permitted to do his whole duty. The Lord's Supper must be provided every first day of the week, or the church must be able to show each Christian that the Bible does not teach communion on the first day of the week, in spite of the example of Acts 20:7.

On the other hand, the well-read Christian is excluded from the services where he is required to participate in something which constitutes an addition to the Word of God (Rev. 22:18).

The church must either leave off instrumental music in connection with worship, or be able to show the individual where the Bible approves of its use in worship.

In short, if a church in any way adds-to or takes-from the Word, it of necessity excludes Christians from its worship and fellowship. That church is sectarian. (Adv.)

Senate Passes Bill Allowing 70-MPH Speed

AUSTIN (AP)—Motorists will be able to whiz along at 70 miles per hour on certain roads and slow pokes can be arrested if a bill passed Monday by the Senate becomes law.

The Senate continued work on a heavy stack of bills today while the House remained in recess.

Eight of the 25 present for Monday's 2½-hour session voted against final passage of the bill (SB20) by Sen. Preston Smith of Lubbock which contained a controversial amendment by Sen. Wardlow Lane of Center.

Opponents said as amended the bill would make an ineffective weapon in controlling speed and the result would be a veto by Gov. Price Daniel. Two bills permitting certain highways to be zoned faster than the present 60-m.p.h. limit have been vetoed in recent years.

AIR BASE

Also approved was a bill (SB403) by Sen. Martin Dies of Lufkin to let the state receive at no cost from the federal government an abandoned radar air base north of Lufkin and use it for mentally retarded school children.

Dies said after the bill is finally passed the children could be brought into the school within three months. The school would be operated from funds presently available. The bill includes no appropriation.

Dies also said addition of the school would not conflict with needs for another school in the Gulf Coast area.

One constitutional amendment and seven other bills were passed. Scheduled hearings of the State Affairs and Jurisprudence Committees were cancelled. At its next meeting Wednesday, the State Affairs Committee will consider a House-passed tax bill which would retire about half the state's anticipated deficit.

ZONE POWER

Smith's bill allows turnpike authorities, county commissioners and the State Highway Department to zone up or down from the present 60 m.p.h. speed limit.

A "prima facie" evidence rule is removed for an "absolute" speed law which makes it flatly illegal to drive faster than the posted speed. Under present law, it is not necessarily a violation to exceed the speed limit if a motorist and his lawyer can convince the court he was driving reasonably and prudently at the time.

Lane declared it is "the height of stupidity" under present law to allow 60 m.p.h. on twisting county roads and the same limit on six-lane expressways. He offered an amendment prohibiting court use of any evidence obtained by "lying in wait unobserved, hiding or in any manner concealing, in whole or in part, any equipment or the operation thereof."

Present law is somewhat similar to this but does not apply in cities under 10,000 population, where most instances of speed traps have been reported.

Sen. Abraham Kazen of Laredo contended the amendment wiped out radar and Lane admitted the language "will give you something to argue about in court."

NO RADAR

Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas said he thought the governor would veto the bill "the minute it hits his desk."

Sen. Crawford Martin of Hillsboro said he opposed the idea of permitting officers to arrest motorists who are driving slowly on a highway. Lane countered with the argument that he thought the purpose of "spending millions of dollars on the highways and for a patrol was for safety. The most dangerous speed on the highway is 35 m.p.h. You have four times as many accidents at 35 as at 65."

Senators approved a change (SJR12) in the constitutional "conflict of interest" provision to let state employes to serve as consultants or on advisory committees of other political subdivisions. Service on school boards was not included in Martin's amendment.

Las Vegas Hits Video Series

LAS VEGAS, Nev., (AP)—The Chamber of Commerce and other booster groups have threatened legal action to prevent the showing of two new television series using this gambling center as their setting.

"We're vigorously opposed to any television series showing Las Vegas in anything but a true light," Sam Boyd, chamber president, said Monday.

Boyd termed the script of the proposed "Las Vegas Beat" brutal. He sent a telegram of protest to the National Broadcasting Co. in New York.

Boyd said if the film is determined to be libelous, legal action would be taken to prevent its showing.

The same goes for Warner Bros., producers of a semi-documentary "Las Vegas File," Boyd said.

A spokesman for Goodman-Todson, producers of "Las Vegas Beat," said a group of Las Vegas promotion officials approved the series' first script.

"If such permission was given," Boyd said, "it was rescinded later with the understanding they would bring in the pilot film before they attempted to market it." He said the firm had not done this.

There was no immediate comment from Warner Bros.

Candidates Carry Race Down To Wire

By The Associated Press

Predictions for outright victory or at least a runoff berth came from nearly every major candidate in advance of Tuesday's U.S. Senate election in Texas.

Top contenders and a number of lesser known entries carried their campaigns right down to the wire.

The voting on a successor to Vice President Lyndon Johnson in the Senate shared interest with municipal elections in many cities and towns. Some of the local contests generated more heat than the race for senator.

The weather man cooperated by predicting clear to partly cloudy skies and mild temperatures throughout the state.

Veteran political observers clung to a rather general view that the king-sized ballot—listing 71 candidates—would make it impossible for any individual to command a majority vote. Instead, the big question was which two would advance into a runoff election.

There actually were only 64 still in the race. Six withdrew too late to be dropped from the ballot and a seventh, Springer Knoblauch of Corpus Christi, died March 30 of injuries suffered in an auto accident.

Handicappers stayed with predictions that the big elimination contest would draw two runoff rivals from among the so-called big six—Sen. William Blakley, Dallas financier serving by interim appointment; State Sen. Henry Gonzalez and former state Rep. Maury Maverick Jr., both of San Antonio; Republican John Tower of Wichita Falls, Atty. Gen. Will Wilson and U.S. Rep. Jim Wright of Fort Worth.

Blakley, in a closing speech piped to 26 television stations Monday night from Houston, was among those forecasting a personal victory. He said there had been "a tremendous swing to Blakley." The senator went back home to vote in Dallas and planned to watch election returns at his headquarters there.

TWO TONGUES

Gonzalez wound up with televised talks in both English and Spanish in San Antonio. He pledged himself to seek legislation designed to benefit unemployed men and women over 40 years old in particular, and said he is best qualified to help bolster U.S. relations with Latin America. After voting Tuesday, he drove to Austin for a Senate session and planned a return to San Antonio to hear voting results.

Maverick set out to shake hands of prospective voters in San Antonio again after casting his ballot. He forecast the election would send him into a runoff with Tower. "I am what I have always been—a Franklin Roosevelt-Ralph Yarborough-John Kennedy Democrat," Maverick said in a speech televised over the state Monday night. He headed for his Austin campaign office to await returns after casting his vote.

GREAT LEAD

"I predict there are enough dedicated workers and voters to assure me a great lead in Tuesday's election and to produce a final victory in a runoff election if one is necessary," Tower confidently asserted in a telecast Monday night from stations in Austin, Dallas, Houston, San Antonio, Temple, Waco and Wichita Falls. Tower planned to receive results of the voting at his home in Wichita Falls.

Wilson, who maintains legal residence in his home town of Dallas, wound up with televised appeals to Dallas and Fort Worth residents, declaring: "If political moderates throughout Texas make sure their voice is felt at the ballot box, I will have a substantial lead." The attorney general voted in Dallas and went back to Austin to wait for returns.

Wright, also concluding with a speech carried by TV stations over the state, pictured himself as a middle of the road candidate who could get results in Washington where his opponents couldn't. He also proposed a new tariff policy based on a scale that could adjust to allow for differences in wages of U.S. and foreign workers and level off harmful trade imbalances. Like his opponents, Wright returned home to vote and hear the results.

U.S. Urges Cuba To Cut Red Links

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has urged Fidel Castro's Cuban regime "to sever its links with the international Communist movement."

The statement, issued Monday, accused Castro of betraying the Cuban revolution and leading the Caribbean island into Communist bondage.

It was the Kennedy administration's toughest indictment of Castro so far.

The U.S. statement said it is the government's belief that "the Castro regime in Cuba offers a clear and present danger to the authentic and autonomous revolution of the Americas.

"What began as a movement to enlarge Cuban democracy and freedom has been perverted, in short, into a mechanism for the destruction of free institutions in Cuba, for the seizure by international communism of a base and bridgehead in the Americas, and for the disruption of the inter-American system."

The U.S. position—following in essence the lines drawn in the Eisenhower administration — was set forth in a 36-page pamphlet issued by the State Department.

Press officer Lincoln White said "because of the tremendous public interest of the United States in Cuba, this pamphlet for public consumption is a straight-forward presentation of the situation in Cuba."

The pamphlet is a summation of U.S. government allegations and reports presented as U.S.-Havana relations worsened.

Copies and Spanish-language texts were prepared for distribution throughout Latin America, to the Organization of American States, the International Organization of the 21 American republics, and for the United Nations.

The government-controlled radio in Cuba said the U.S. statement contained "the usual anti-Cuban refrains."

In picturing Cuba as a Communist beachhead in the Americas, the State Department document said Castro has increased the Cuban military force to 10 times the size of any Cuban army.

It quoted estimates of 250,000 and 400,000 for the number of Cubans in the armed forces—compared to one out of 50 in the Soviet Union and one in 60 in the United States.

"The present situation in Cuba, "said the pamphlet, "confronts the Western Hemisphere and the inter-American system with a grave and urgent challenge.

"The challenge results from the fact that the leaders of the revolutionary regime betrayed their own revolution.

"The people of Cuba remain our brothers. We acknowledge omissions and errors in our relationship to them.

"We call once again on the Castro regime to sever its links with the international Communist movement."

Clear Weather Prevails In State

By The Associated Press

Clear weather prevailed throughout Texas and warmer weather was in prospect Tuesday.

Forecasters said it would turn cooler again in all sections by Tuesday night or Wednesday.

The cool front billowed southward into the Gulf of Mexico and caused brisk north breezes over the northern two-thirds of Texas Monday. There was no rain anywhere in the state and none was predicted.

Weather Bureau observers looked for rising winds to whip dust into the air over parts of Southwest Texas late Tuesday.

Cuban Minimizes Anti-Kennedy Plot

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Cuban Ambassador Jose Antonio Portuondo said Monday reports of a plot by pro-Castro elements to kidnap President Kennedy's daughter Caroline "sound like the plot of a second-rate Hollywood movie."

"The whole thing is absurd," said Portuondo.

Midland Woman Dies In Accident

HASKELL, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Rufus Banks, about 50, of Midland, died Monday in a one-car accident 3 miles south of here in West Texas on U.S. 277. Sheriff G. T. Garrett said she was en route to Haskell, north of Abilene, to visit her parents.

Final Task Closes NCO School

Following graduation exercises for Class 61-9 Saturday, Webb's NCO Preparatory School staff pull up the sign to mark the school's end. The "last task" was performed by M.Sgt. Harold M. Kain, school director (right), and instructors Airman 2.C. Richard D. Gordon, (left) and kneeling, Airman 2.C. Keith A. Bayeas and Airman 3.C. Dennis L. Kornfehl. Eleven students received their certificates, making a total of 138 persons completing the three-week course in ten classes since the school opened in June, 1960. During its 10 months of operation the school became regarded by potential NCOs as the first step upward.

Spade Cooley Held After Wife Is Beaten To Death

TEHACHAPI, Calif. (AP)—The estranged wife of bandleader Spade Cooley was found beaten to death Monday night at the couple's luxurious ranch home, the sheriff's office reported.

A few hours later Sheriff Leroy Galyen said Cooley, the Western-style TV musician of the 1940s and 1950s, would be booked for investigation of murder.

Deputy John Howard said of the bandleader: "He's all shook up. That's all I can tell you."

His wife, Ella Mae Cooley, about 37, was taken to a hospital, where she was pronounced dead on arrival shortly after midnight.

Coroner Stanley Newman said she apparently had been dead about four or five hours.

Cooley, about 48, accompanied his wife to the hospital. Dr. Vincent Troy, who pronounced Mrs. Cooley dead, at first said Cooley was under sedation and unavailable for comment.

The sheriff's office later disclosed Cooley had been under almost continous questioning since he arrived at the hospital.

The sheriff's office said the body was found in a bedroom at their Water Wonderland Ranch, part of a $15-million real estate development near Rosamond, Calif., about 80 miles northeast of Los Angeles.

Cooley, in virtual retirement from show business in the last few years, has been active in real estate investment in this Southern California area.

Cooley sued his wife for divorce March 24. She formerly sang with his band. They have two children.

Church Robbed

MATTOON, Ill. (AP) — The Easter collection of the First Presbyterian Church, estimated at more than $1,000 in cash and checks, was stolen Sunday night by burglars. Police said a safe in the church office was battered open.

IN AMERICA'S BIGGEST, TOUGHEST 1961 ECONOMY CONTEST...

Which man drove Rambler?

In the most realistic test of all-around gasoline economy ever staged—the NASCAR sanctioned 1961 Pure Oil Economy Trials at Daytona—Rambler won three trophies, held by driver Les Viland in the photo above.

No other make won more than one award . . . most won none.

Unlike other runs that put a premium on feather-footed driving, the Pure Oil Economy Trials closely parallel your own everyday driving experience.

Every U.S.-built production car is eligible. None are arbitrarily barred, as in some runs. In 1961, 145 cars representing all 5 U.S. makers competed.

Rambler American Custom with overdrive beat them all to win the cherished Overall Winner Trophy and captured the Class 6 trophy in competition with Falcon, Corvair, Lark and Tempest 4. In fact, it took the first 6 places and 8 of the first 10.

And Ambassador V-8 by Rambler won its Class, swept the first 8 places and 9 of the first 10 spots.

With speeds up to 65, and averaging more than 40 M.P.H., the winning Rambler American made 14 complete stops, shifted through the gears 15 times while circling the 3.7 mile course, and still averaged 26.86 miles per gallon!

This is the second straight year Rambler won the Pure Oil Economy Trials.

Want more proof of Rambler value? Then see your Rambler dealer. You'll find top gas economy is just part of your savings. Rambler costs less to buy, is voted most trouble-free by owners, has top resale value.

Rambler dealers sell twice as many compact cars per dealer as most other dealer groups. So, you get a better deal . . . on the best of the compacts. Rambler—world standard of compact car excellence.

SEE YOUR RAMBLER DEALER—Drive the Recognized Economy King!

Air Force Band Gains Versatility

The United States Air Force Band, in a few years, has achieved versatility, an ability to resolve itself into a 100-piece marching band, a 90-piece symphony orchestra, an 85-piece symphonic band, a 55-piece concert tour band, a 25-voice glee club, (the "Singing Sergeants"), 5 dance bands, including the "Airmen of Note," the "Jumping Jacks", and many other instrumental and chamber groups.

Responsible for their adaptability is its commanding officer and conductor, Col. George Sallade Howard, chief of bands and music for the Air Force. He will conduct the concert tour band when it plays here April 14 at City Auditorium, under the auspices of the Big Spring Shrine Club.

A native of Reamstown, Pa., Col. Howard is the recipient of five degrees. After graduating with honor from Ithaca College, Ithaca, N. Y., he attended Ohio Wesleyan University where he obtained his bachelor of arts degree. Both his bachelor of music and master of music degrees were received at the Chicago Conservatory of Music. He subsequently received his master of arts degree at New York University and then returned to the Chicago conservatory for his doctorate.

Col. Howard's musical career embraces every phase of that art—he has been, at various times, a player, soloist, composer, conductor and music educator. He began his career with the famed Patric Conway Band as a clarinetist and later soloist. He then entered the field of music education where he spent the next 20 years in various supervisory capacities. These include being instructor in clarinet and saxophone at Ithaca College, instructor of wind pedagogy and conducting at Ohio Wesleyan, director of music at Mansfield (Pa.) State Teachers College, director of music at Mooseheart, Ill., dean of the Ernest Williams School of Music in Brooklyn, and instructor at Montclair (N. J.) State Teachers College. At the time he entered the service, he was director of the band, orchestra and chorus school at Pennsylvania State College.

Col. Howard entered the Department of the Army in 1943 and served as executive officer for the Music Branch of the Special Services Division. He served overseas in Greenland, Iceland, and Newfoundland in the North Atlantic Command where he organized musical programs in the entertainment field. He then transferred to the Air Force in March, 1944, to become the commanding officer and conductor of the Air Force Band.

Under his direction, the band has made nine international tours.

Col. Howard has supervision of all of the Air Force bands that are now in operation in all parts of the world. This entails not only selecting their leaders, assignment of personnel, determining their physical locations, conducting career programs, and making periodic field inspections of these units, but also directing every phase of music in the Air Force.

33 Volunteers Attend Session

Coahoma, Colorado City and Big Spring were represented by potential Junior Volunteers at the Orientation Program held Monday morning at the Big Spring State Hospital.

There were 33 persons present, according to Dr. Preston Harrison, superintendent.

After an invocation by Rev. Donald Hungerford, sponsor of Junior Volunteers, Dr. Harrison welcomed all visitors and informed them of the need for volunteers.

Other speakers told about the mental illness problem, why it occurs, what is being done to solve it, the work of the various departments at the hospital and the part which volunteers can do in mental health work.

The guests were taken on a tour of the hospital for a first-hand look at hospital activities.

Rev. Hungerford, Mrs. Melvin Turner, and Mrs. Toots Mansfield, sponsor Junior Volunteer work. Any junior or senior high school student who is 16 years old or over may join the program.

There will be a meeting of Volunteers at 4 p.m. Wednesday at the High School for planning an activity schedule for April.

17 New Cases

LAMESA (SC)—District Clerk Robert E. L. Smith reported that his office received 17 new cases during March for disposition in 106th District Court here. As usual, divorce matters headed the list with seven, followed closely by personal injury and delinquent tax suits, each with four.

Dawson Births Hold Lead Over Deaths

LAMESA (SC) — More births were recorded in Dawson County during March than in any of previous 14 months, according to Peace Justice Arthur Standefer.

The official report showed 61 births, two more than the record set in September of last year. Ten deaths were also listed last month. For the first three months, there have been 142 births and 28 deaths.

To Committee

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy has named Howard Butt Jr. of Corpus Christi as one of 15 persons to serve on the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity. Butt is a lay minister and vice president of the H. E. B. Grocery Co.

Darland Seeks Attackers Of Elderly Woman

Bob Darland, county juvenile officer, has stepped up his efforts to identify the juvenile gang which beat up an old age pensioner last Tuesday night.

He went to the house where the woman lived and talked to her about the attack.

"She had certainly been given a beating," Darland said. "Although it's been a week since the attack, both her eyes are still black, most of her jaw is covered with bruises and her nose is discolored and swollen.

"She said she was coming home after dark last Tuesday night. As she neared her home, she said someone jumped her from the dark and struck her in the face knocking her down. A number of others jumped on her and began beating her.

"She could not recognize any of the attackers but she had some leads which may help me find them."

The woman is near 70 years old it was reported and lives alone in a small shack on the northwest side of town.

Neighbors came to the office of the county judge Monday and told of the attack on the woman. They said they had delayed reporting it until Monday because they were trying to identify her assilants.

Johnston Gets Webb Contract

D. D. Johnston, Big Spring, was awarded the $14,400 contract to paint the interior of three buildings and exterior of 32 buildings at Webb AFB, according to Floyd A. Henderson, procurement office.

The contract was awarded after competition by formal advertising with 14, of 23 firms invited, submitting bids for the project. The contract covers a five month period.

Dawson Society Mails Seals

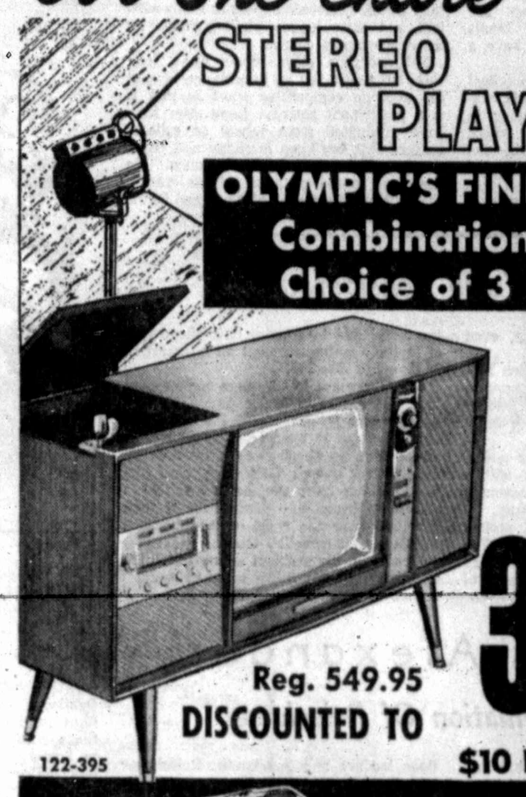

LAMESA (SC)—More than 3,000 letters containing Easter Seals and a message from the Dawson County Crippled Children's Society were mailed recently to Lamesa and county residents.

The mail appeal is the first step in the month-long campaign to fight crippling conditions. Contributions provide the principal financial support for projects and services of the Dawson County Society for Crippled Children.

A Devotional For Today

It is finished. (John 19:30.)
PRAYER: O God, for Jesus and His sacrifice of Himself, we rejoicingly thank Thee. For our sinful lives, we confess our shame. Pour out upon us Christ's redemptive power that we may be changed into His likeness and accomplish the work Thou wouldst have us do. In His name. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

They've Got A Point

Last week a couple of young ladies wrote a letter to the Herald suggesting that the community has been lax in providing adequate tennis courts.

Notwithstanding that the writers are tennis players and members of tennis teams, it occurs to us that they have a point.

The last check we had, the high school courts, located adjacent to the old stadium, were a long ways from being in good repair. The city park courts, where most of the playing has to be done due to court availability, are deteriorating and in urgent need of resurfacing.

In the past Cosden has had a couple of private courts, as did Big Spring Country Club before it was moved, taking those out of the picture.

So you can see that the number of tennis courts for a community of 31,000 is woefully small. There are almost as many softball and little league playing fields as there are tennis courts.

Not everyone plays tennis by a long shot, but tennis has an importance beyond the average competitive sport in that it is a participant activity. Long after they have graduated from school or college, players still can keep in shape and enjoy the recreation afforded by tennis. We commend to the city, the schools—yes to the college—the matter of more and better tennis courts.

Problem Worth Consideration

Progress is not without a price, even in the field of safety.

The current paving program, which happily is closing many gaps and otherwise making a great contribution to the beauty and utility of our city, is creating some problems at intersections.

Heretofore, when a traveller on a dirt cross road came to an intersection with a paved street, he unconsciously assumed the paved street had the right of way.

Now, with some of these dirt streets paved, the driver had the same feeling about paved roads—they are through streets. Of course, this is slightly wide of the truth, and to assume it to the extent of blythely sailing through an intersection is to invite disaster.

Here there are few through streets, and they are hardly officially designated but so accepted by reason of the stop and warning signs at intersecting streets. The safe policy is to play each intersection safe, just as though there were those who were lurking down the street awaiting a chance to barrel into you. Never assume that you have the right of way because this is a well travelled street.

Meantime, the problem is one which the traffic commission might begin to study.

AT LAST—AN OAR OF HIS OWN

Around The Rim

Introduction To A Catastrophe

The wind was blowing hard and it was raining so heavily that I could not see out of the window.

The small house trembled as the gale built up, and I remember watching a flood of water pour under the door and spread over the floor.

My father and mother were holding the door shut. A window in the kitchen blew in.

I was just a very small boy at the time and I did not know what was happening. I tried to look out of the window but all I could see was a gray mass.

FINALLY, THE WIND began to diminish. The rain continued but at a lessening pace. My mother began to mop out the water which had run under the door and poured in through the window. My dad replaced the window sash.

When the rain had stopped, I remember my dad took me by the hand and we went out in the yard. It was knee deep in debris. A torrent of water was pouring down the road. We waded through the mud to the general store.

As we entered the front door, what seemed to be an avalanche of water, broken glassware, cardboard packages and rubbish rushed toward me. As I grew accustomed to the dim light, I saw that the storekeeper and his clerk were sweeping the mass toward the front door.

THE SHELVES WERE nearly empty—the wind had vibrated the building until the merchandise had toppled to the floor. Pickles, catsup, jellies and other foods in glass containers had been spilled on the floor. Water, which had raced through the store from the rear, picked up the jumble of rubbish and the fragments of glass. Cardboard cartons of soda, salt and sugar had been dumped into the stream.

The next morning, I remember my dad hitched up the horse, and we drove out in the country to a farm house. Rather, we drove to where a farm house had been. Nothing remained but the foundation.

Strewn over the countryside were pieces of furniture, clothing and kitchenware. Turned end over end were farm implements and wagons.

UP A TREE AND, as I remember it, apparently not seriously damaged, was an old parlor organ.

The door to the dugout had been ripped from its frame and carried completely away.

Scattered here and there as far as I could see were dead chickens—most of which were almost as clean picked as though they had been dressed.

And I remember my dad and others who were there staring at the stump of a mesquite tree. A few inches down from the break I saw a broom straw. It had been imbedded deep in the mesquite tree.

And that was my first tornado.

The Confirmation Of Reischauer

WASHINGTON—If it turns out that Professor Edwin O. Reischauer doesn't do very well as Ambassador to Japan, the Foreign Relations Committee—and the Senate leadership of both parties—can start hanging their collective heads. This is why:

On Thursday, March 23, 1961, Foreign Relations met on a day when the Senate was not in session. This usually means that the committee hearings are sparsely attended, and the meeting of reference was no exception.

NO REPUBLICAN member attended the examination of Dr. Reischauer. No conservative Democrat attended. Behind the elevated, impressive horseshoe bar which is the committee table, sat three administration Democrats—Senators Fulbright (chairman), Mansfield majority floor leader) and Sparkman. Reischauer told them:

"I was never connected with the Institute of Pacific Relations in any way."

Fulbright: ". . .you were never a member of IPR?"

AGAIN, REISCHAUER denied membership, although somewhat by indirection. If members on the committee or committee staff had done their homework, they would have found a damaging contradiction to Reischauer's testimony—and he might have been given a chance to explain it. On pages 1147-8 of the Senate's 1951 hearings on IPR, there is a covering letter by William L. Holland, IPR's executive vice chairman, to which he appends a list of some members under discussion. Among the listings is this one:

"Edwin O. Reischauer: Member, American IPR, 1944-48; contributor to Eastern Survey, 1948; co-author of 'Next Step in Asia'."

THERE ARE SOME other matters on which the committee should have questioned Reischauer. He is the co-author of a book with John Fairbank, who is the foremost public advocate of recognizing Red China. Reischauer is also a close associate of John Carter Vincent, whom the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee identified on July 2, 1951, as "the principal fulcrum of IPR pressures and influence in the State Department." Vincent resigned from the State Department while under attack and is presently at the Center for International Studies, Harvard University, where Reischauer has been teaching Oriental languages.

NOBODY ASKED Reischauer what ideas and convictions he shared with these men. It was an unhappy omission. Reischauer might have had a perfectly satisfactory answer. But now the doubt lingers.

On the morning of last Tuesday, March 28th, Foreign Relations met to consider a number of nominations. That same afternoon, Majority Leader Mansfield rose for a routine motion.

Mansfield: "Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the consideration of nominations on the Executive Calendar."

THERE BEING NO objection, the clerk read nominations of appointees for the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Board, Department of Agriculture, Commodity Credit Corporation, Department of Interior and Department of State. The chief clerk read nine names for posts under the State Department, among them the name of Reischauer to be Ambassador to Japan:

Presiding officer: Without objection, the nomination is confirmed."

Thus, without debate, without a record vote, as part of a package, the Senators took an action of which they may repent at much greater length.

Let's Keep Our Eye On South Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fighting in Laos gets the headlines in the Kennedy administration's effort to end the Red push in Southeast Asia. But the much less noticed trouble next door in South Viet Nam is deep cause for concern.

There Communist guerrillas are rolling up assassinations in their terrorization of the countryside to undermine the American-backed government which is far from completely solid.

Of the two — Laos and South Viet Nam — the latter is more important in the American government's hope of stopping the Red rush. Laos has 2 million people, South Viet Nam has 10 million.

IF SOUTH VIET Nam goes, Laos should be a cinch for the Communists, peace or no peace.

Just five months ago, anti-Communist army officers revolted in South Viet Nam. They said they were fed up with the restrictions imposed on the people by the government of Ngo Dinh Diem in his fight against the Communist guerrillas.

Diem was thrown out but got back within 24 hours with the help of army forces loyal to him. Among other things, the revolutionists complained he had set up a family dictatorship.

The basic cause for the resentment at the time was Diêm's inability to cope with the guerrillas who terrorized peasants, killed local militia and officials. The population was caught between Communist terror and government reprisals.

DIEM PROMISED reforms but the Red guerrillas keep infiltrating.

For 80 years the French held Indochina as a colony, including Laos. In 1946 Ho Chi Minh, Communist leader in northern Indochina, frustrated by the French in his demands for freedom, led his forces against them.

In the eight-year war that followed the French forces suffered 172,000 casualties, including 45,000 killed. France pumped $5 billion into Indochina. The United States added about another $2 billion to help the French.

In the end the French caved in. At the Geneva conference of 1954—mainly between Britain, France, Russia and Red China—Indochina was split up.

The Communists held the biggest part, with 77,000 square miles and 12 million people — what is now North Viet Nam. Laos, off on the edge of Indochina, was split off and given independence.

THE ANTI-COMMUNIST government of Diem, who took over what was left, got South Viet Nam with its 50,000 square miles. For years he had his hands full trying to subdue the different South Vietnamese groups which opposed him.

After the truce, bit by bit, Communist guerrillas began to infiltrate from North Viet Nam.

Throughout their eight-year war the French got comparatively little help from the Vietnamese. French officers told American reporters they could count on only about 10 per cent of the population.

AT THE START of the Indochina war Larry Allen, an AP reporter, said: "In hundreds of thousands of mud-caked, straw thatched villages of Indochina there is little interest in either the war or demands for independence."

Hard Life Of Movie Usher

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks a movie usher gets tired of hearing:

"The pictures they show here are pretty lousy, but they have the best popcorn in town."

"So why should I stand in line when I bought my ticket awready?"

"Why can't I take my dog in with me? He doesn't chew gum or talk out loud, and he's smarter than most of the people in this audience."

"What time does the feature begin?"

"I stayed and seen this pitcher through twice, and I still don't understand what it's all about. Is it up for an Academy Award or something?"

"His uniform fits him like a glove—a baseball glove."

"If he was in the Navy and had all that gold braid, he'd be commanding at least three battleships and a carrier."

"Hey, General Custer, which way to the lounge?"

"There's two-bits in it for you, bud, if you slip my wife and me in at the head of the line."

"Gee, Melvin, I know you only took this job temporarily until Marlon Brando retires. But when do you think that will be?"

"Hi, Melvin, Joe and our two gal friends are waiting at the side exit. How about slipping 'em in for free?"

"This is the third time this month you have failed to pass inspection, Melvin. Unless you get that button sewed back on before the next performance, I'll have to ask you to turn in your uniform."

"Where's the manager? I put a dime in the candy machine for a chocolate bar—and what did I get back? Licorice!"

"So you call that a mystery picture, do you? The mystery to me is why they ever made it."

"The next time the U. S. Cavalry chases the Indians away, would you mind going down to my son—he's the little boy in the front row—and tell him that you're a policeman and if he doesn't go home now you'll have to put him in jail? I'll be waiting in the lounge."

"Now that we've seen the double feature, Essie, let's go to the lounge, get a cup of free coffee—and see if there's anything interesting on the TV set there. While we're here we might as well get our money's worth."

"Yes, Melvin does look nice in his uniform. But he'd look even better if he was on horseback."

"These are nice seats. Thanks, sonny, and here's a dime for yourself. Remember, don't spend it all on one girl."

When Nero Stole All The Greek Art

OLYMPIA, Greece.—If Nero had only confined himself to sadism and fiddling while Rome burned, the Greeks today might have a kinder word for him. But not only was he a notable cutthroat and pyromaniac, but an art thief beside whom Hermann Goering is a miserable amateur.

HERE, amid the placid and pastoral beauty in which the Olympic Games were held for eleven hundred years, Nero proceeded to steal any event in which he entered himself. Chariot racing and singing, for example. (Hercules was content with winning on the square.)

Even after he fell out of his chariot twice during the race, Nero still won. I figure races weren't as tough in Olympia as in "Ben Hur," or else Nero was racing either against himself or time. So singing isn't an athletic event? It was with Nero and he copped the cup.

IF HE HAD JUST let it go with lousing up the Olympic Games, the Greeks could have put up with him no matter how much they tut-tutted in private and looked down their collective noses at this Roman barbarian.

What the Greeks can't forgive are Nero's sticky fingers. Three thousand statues decorated the great streets and temples of Olympia. And when Nero bade a fond farewell to Olympia, he took 700 of them with him. He felt they would dress up Rome and his Golden House.

BUT THIS IS little more than half of it. At least as many statues made glorious the sacred hillsides of Delphi. And Nero pinched 500 of them.

All this I have on the sacred honor of guides. So what, I asked, became of those 1,200 purloined Greek statues? Alas, none reached Rome. All went to the bottom of the Mediterranean, either due to storms or bad seamanship. Nero was not destined to enjoy the biggest art heist in history.

If I have been fascinated for several days by the history and the trail of Nero's kleptomania, I have been equally enchanted by the soft beauty of the low, pine-clad hills that ring Olympia and the vast, tumbled ruins of this ancient sanctuary dedicated to meat and muscles.

AMID THE majestic ruins I seem to hear the keening of Avery Brundage, the last man alive who still believes in the purity of amateur athletics, exhorting even the tennis bums and the state-subsidized athletes from beyond the Iron Curtain to play it straight.

Even 2,500 years ago there was a restaurant on the Olympic site where athletes ate for free during the month of training preparatory to the games and during the games themselves.

DESPITE THE fact that the Emperor Theodosius was second only to Nero in the light-fingered class (Theodosius carried all Olympia's bronze statues off to Constantinople to melt down for weapons), the museum at Olympia is most rewarding. It contains not only Praxiteles' Hermes, but the fragments of a noble Victory, as well as the pediment figures from the great and ruined temple of Zeus that was once the center of Olympia. When they were found in the ruins, the Greeks, bless them, managed to latch onto 'em first.

Difficulties In World Communication

WASHINGTON—Coming as it does from friends and admirers, the criticism to which President Kennedy reacts most sensitively is that he has not given the American people enough of the truth about the world picture and America's strength or lack of it. He is maintaining the barriers of a closed society rather than trying to lower those barriers, so the accusation goes.

BUT HOW is it possible, he asked recently at the end of a long and trying day with the top-secret cables pouring across his desk, taking the Laos crisis as an example, to say very much publicly about such difficult and delicate negotiations? Would it not jeopardize the chances for a peaceful settlement?

A closer look at the diplomatic maneuvering that went on between one capital and another does show how tenuous and uncertain were the lines between a settlement—peace of a sort—and an enlargement of the conflict that would end no one knew where. They are still tenuous, still likely to be shattered without a moment's warning. Here are some of the diplomatic maneuvers indicating how all bases were touched in an effort to slow if not to halt the drift toward war.

ONE PROBLEM was communication—how to get across to Premier Khrushchev that this was a matter of the utmost gravity for the United States; that the prestige of this nation was directly involved. In his long Saturday afternoon talk with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, Secretary of State Dean Rusk tried to get it over. Gromyko was polite, affable even, but he showed no response, simply; as one of the conferees put it, playing the old phonograph record.

As luck would have it, the President's roving ambassador, W. Averell Harriman, was in New Delhi. A cable went to Harriman from the White House instructing him to ask Prime Minister Nehru point-blank to communicate the viewpoint to Khrushchev. At the same time Nehru would stress his own concern for reaching a peaceful settlement.

THIS WAS NOT easy since, as Harriman was well aware, Nehru has not forgotten that American policy makers not too many years ago informed him that being a neutral was immoral. Nevertheless, the approach was made, and after due consideration Nehru agreed to send a lengthy cable to Khrushchev.

At the same time Ambassador Adlai Stevenson was in touch with Gromyko at the United Nations. Out of that contact came Gromyko's request to see the President.

IN THE PRESIDENT'S oval office the Soviet Foreign Minister displayed a quite different mood from that in the vast Federal magnificence of Rusk's suite in the New State Department Building. He seemed ready to accept the President's solemn word that America's prestige was at issue, and that a further advance of the Communist-directed forces would certainly lead to intervention by the United States and the SEATO powers. The meeting with Prime Minister Macmillan in Key West was intended primarily to underscore this resolve.

But then came word from Moscow, both by way of New Delhi and from other sources, that any threat of the use of force would make it impossible to accept a cease-fire with a subsequent negotiation. This warning was immediately dispatched to the SEATO ministers meeting in Bangkok.

HERE, IT IS hardly necessary to add, is the most conspicuous unknown in the whole precarious equation. The belief, and with no really hard information to support it, is that the Chinese Communists and probably also the North Viet Namese have been pushing Moscow as hard as possible to go on with the war.

They may well be reminding Khrushchev of the statement in his January 6 speech promising support for "uprisings . . . directed against the corrupt reactionary regimes, against the colonialists." But that speech was part of the process of papering over the differences between Moscow and Peiping on the role of communism in the world. Their differences had been aired with bitter acrimony in a meeting of Cummunist bloc powers in Moscow last winter when the Chinese had argued that local wars could and should be pursued while the Russians insisted that a local war could lead to a general war and that, therefore, the gamble was too great to take.

THAT WAS precisely the question in Laos. And it is not hard to imagine how the doctrinaire dispute on the perils of little wars growing into big wars has been hotted up between the two Communist capitals, with the leadership of the Communist bloc at stake. Nor is there any reason to believe the argument has ended.

To Your Good Health

New 'Secrets' For Longevity Revealed

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Every year when we go south we meet a friend who seems to have arrested the aging process. He is a man 95 years old, of rather delicate structure. He does not weigh over 100 pounds and there is not an ounce of fat on him.

"He has blood pressure of 132-80. He looks and behaves like somebody not over 65. I saw him dance last year. He dresses neatly. This year he went on an extensive European trip.

"He takes 10 drops of — and claims this prevents hardening of the arteries. Please let me have your opinion.—O.H."

My best wishes to the spry old guy. And I'll give you my opinion, unexpurgated.

I think he's a man who has had the foresight to choose good ancestors, who has not allowed himself to get fat, who has probably lived an active, useful life, and who has not stewed or fretted over things that couldn't be helped.

At 70, 80 and 90, he has probably assumed (or kept) the attitude that life is interesting at any age, so long as you remain interested. On top of all that, he has been lucky.

As to the medicine he takes, it's an old and well-known drug, occasionally useful in a mild sort of way, and occasionally harmful in a moderate sort of way if used incorrectly and on somebody who happens to be sensitive to it.

From time to time people have been given this same drug over long periods of time without any indication that it prevented their arteries from hardening, their hair from turning gray or their arms from getting too short for their eyes when they looked at a phone book without their glasses.

Your friend is now 95. In five years newspaper reporters will be interviewing him and asking him the secret of living to 100.

We've had 100-year-olds say it was because they never smoked—or because they did. Because they got lots of exercise—or because they didn't. Because they never drank anything but corn likker, or because they never drank anything but water.

Your ebullient (fancy word for frisky) friend will doubtless tell 'em that he owes it all to taking 10 drops of his favorite medicine.

If we look hard enough, we'll doubtless someday fine somebody else who says he got to be 100 because he NEVER took any of that medicine.

Personally I don't expect to get to be 100 or anywhere near it. But if I do, and if some reporter hasn't thought up some new question instead of that "darnphool" one about, "To what do you attribute your great age?" I'm going to give him a new answer.

I'm going to say, "I haven't the slightest idea—except heredity, good luck, and living a good life."

"Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has what two doctors called an allergy. Once in two or three weeks his cheek and tongue on one side swell up overnight. During the day it subsides. It started last summer. There is no itch or pain. We thought you might have some experience with such a case.—N.I."

Now you have a third doctor who thinks it sounds like an allergy. Keep watch of what he eats—or what goes into his mouth for some other purpose—prior to one of those attacks. I gather they start at night. It could be something he nibbles some evenings. Nuts are a frequent offender. Or a mouthwash, or a toothpaste he occasionally uses, etc.

Unusual Punishment

DUNN, N. C. (AP) — William David Lee, 20, pleaded guilty to charges of drunken driving and Judge Woodrow Hill not only revoked his license but said Lee could not even ride in a motor vehicle for five years.

Judge Hill said if Lee wanted transportation he could use a horse and buggy or catch a train. Lee also was fined $100 and given a six-month suspended jail term.

Court records indicated Lee had been arrested four times for careless or reckless driving, once for speeding, once for public drunkenness and disorderly conduct and once for trespassing—all in a four year span.

Light On Voting

POMEROY, Ohio (AP)—Poll workers in a Meigs County precinct will remember the 1960 presidential election as the last one in which they had to count votes by kerosene lamp.

For as long as anyone could remember, an abandoned one-room school house was the voting place because of its central location. It had been used only twice-a-year as a polling place since 1926.

Now, a new township hall several miles to the north will be used.

One who doesn't mind leaving the electric light-less school building is Mrs. Orville Rhodes, presiding judge. It was her job to get the old building cleaned up for use at each election.

She says "AGLE" has no meaning in any language and adds:

"It is a good name for a political column."

Free Haircuts

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP)—The usual day off for members of Barbers Local 619 is Monday—but not always.

Everett Schell told a union meeting that "for two cents" he'd help start a program of cutting children's hair free at the school and hospital for retarded children in nearby Selah.

Someone offered the two cents.

Now, every sixth Monday, all 81 union members go to the institution to trim the hair of 200 children.

Pleasure, Profit From Expenditure Like This

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

Housewives are among the nation's biggest spenders—of calories.

Her daily tasks can cost her 4 to 7 calories per minute.

Meanwhile her desk-job husband is spending 1.5 to 2, the steel worker 3 to 4.

All this can have great bearing on a woman's calorie savings bank, and her figure.

For calories are like money. Put too much in the bank, and the account swells. Spend more—even a little more, every day—and the savings dwindle.

Just how much total energy or calories housewives spend varies far more than that of factory workers performing the same job in the factory, says Dr. Herman K. Hellerstein of Western Reserve University Medical School, Cleveland.

ADD IT UP

Much depends on the size of her house, how many children she tends or pursues, how many labor-saving appliances she enlists.

Dr. Hellerstein, an authority in measuring the energy costs of various jobs, cites these housekeeping spending figures:

Stripping and changing bed linens—5.5 calories per minute. Simply tidying beds—about 4. Cleaning windows—3.5 to 4. scrubbing floors on hands and knees—7

Putting washing through a mangle—up to 7. Carrying out and hanging up wash—4.5 to 5, and more if the wash is carried up steps. Washing lingerie by hand—3. Ironing—4.2 per minute.

Automatic machines cut the cost sharply.

Gardening—up to 5 or 6, particularly with digging and spading. Sitting and sewing—1.5 to 2.

Walking up and down stairs—4 to 6, with 1 or 2 more added in carrying a 20 to 30 pound child.

Walking to and from the shopping area costs 2.5 to 4, at a walking speed of 2 to 3 miles per hour. Lugging 15 to 20 pounds of groceries adds another calorie per minute.

Dressing and undressing costs 2.5 calories per minute, showering about 4.2, and vigorous showering, with more bending and movement, sends it up to 5 or 6.

ENERGY COSTS

"At the Work Classification Clinic of the Cleveland Area Heart Society, this awareness of the high energy cost of housewifery has influenced the vocational counselling of the woman with heart trouble," Dr. Hellerstein says.

"At times it has been easier for the cardiac woman to obtain a secretarial job to obtain sufficient funds to pay for someone else to fulfill the household chores."

"Many husbands convalescing from a heart attack have recognized the high energy cost of house work, particularly when they perform some of the household chores while their wives are enjoying the less energy consuming duties of clerk or secretary. Small wonder the husbands are happy to return to work, for this (and other) reasons!"

LAZY LIFE?

The picture of hard work of housewivery "does not apply to all housewives," Dr. Hellerstein stresses.

"The childless housewife who dwells in a small apartment with elevator, who does not do her own house cleaning, laundry or shopping, may expend her maximum energy walking to and from the refrigerator, telephone or television set, where she so often will accumulate rather than dissipate calores—of course to her own detriment."

Much needs to be done to simplify and take the drudgery out of housework, he adds, so housewives then can have more leisure time to spend as many or more calories in recreation.

NT Student Has Coffee

COAHOMA (SC)—A coffee honored Rosalie DeVaney, North Texas State freshman, and her roommate, Jo Dell Shelburne of Denton, at the home of Mrs. C. H. DeVaney of Coahoma Saturday.

Also honored were Mrs. Elvon DeVaney of Brownfield, and Mrs. Arlton DeVaney, both daughters-in-law of Mrs. DeVaney. Guests were friends and former classmates of the honorees.

Decorations followed an Easter theme with a white crocheted table cloth over yellow covering the table. White and yellow daisies and iris served as the centerpiece with silver appointments and a candelabrum completing the decorations.

Thirty-five guests attended. Out of town guests were Mrs. Fred Willis of Odessa; Mrs. Kelley Lawrence of Houston; Betty Gean Guthrie, Austin College; Judy Simpson, UCLA; Shirley Terry, University of Texas; and Gloria Coker, Texas Tech, all from Big Spring; Sharon Finley, Abilene, and Mrs. Mike Smoko of California.

Mrs. Hightower Is Bridge Club Hostess

GARDEN CITY (SC)—Mrs. Ray Hightower entertained the Afternoon Bridge Club recently in her home. Mrs. J. A. Bigby won high score and Mrs. Clyde Reynolds won second high. Mrs. Glen Riley and Mrs. Arlis Ratliff, a guest, won bingo prizes.

Mr. and Mrs. Joy Wilkerson entertained the Night Bridge Club recently in their home. Mr. and Mrs. Riley were high score winners and Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Terry placed second.

Midland, Dalhart Kin Visit Garden City

GARDEN CITY (SC)—Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy McCorquodale and Clay, and Mrs. Winston Pritchard and Dan, all of Dalhart, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Mitchell, recently. Mr. and Mrs. McCorquodale also visited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bigby.

Visiting the John Coxes over the Easter holidays were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mills and children of Midland and Donald Cox of Lamesa.

Silver Tea Slated

Members of the Junior Woman's Forum will serve tea at the Crippled Children's Center Sunday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock. The affair will be a benefit for the Society for Crippled Children and Adults, and the public is invited to call during the party hours.

CHANGE IN TIME NOTED

A change of meeting time has been announced by members of the John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge, who will gather at the lodge hall tonight at 8 o'clock.

The eight o'clock hour will be in effect during the spring and summer months, it was announced by Mrs. Irene Dempsey, noble grand.

Baptist WMS Has Near East Talk

Mrs. Forrest Gambill directed the program presented by the Evening Circle for the First Baptist WMS Royal Service program at the church Monday.

Information concerning Lebanon, Jordan, Arabia and Islam was presented by games and cards. Stories were read by Mrs. S. M. Windham, Mrs. Beulah Crabtree, and Wayne Gamble. A large map of the Near East, painted by Clinton Gambill, was used to illustrate.

Mrs. B. T. Faulkner called the meeting together with prayer, and Mrs. Gambill presented the dismissal prayer.

Bavarian Cream

Serve vanilla-flavored Bavarian Cream with orange slices and grated coconut and call it Ambrosia!

Cheesy Caution

Don't overheat a sauce made with natural cheddar cheese; too much heat may produce a curdled look or stringiness.

St. Mary's Guild

Mrs. Sam Cottrell served tea and cake to 15 members of St. Mary's Episcopal Guild Monday when they met at the parish house. Mrs. E. V. Spence presided and the devotion was given by Mrs. Sherman Goulding. Bible study was directed by Mrs. Ray Boren.

Easter Visitors

Mrs. J. T. Stone and children, Ricky, Johnny and Cindy of Houston were visitors with her mother, Mrs. W. B. Stump, 1410 Lexington, over the Easter holidays.

APRON TRIO

Cover-Up For Day's Work In Pattern

A charming display of aprons that cover a whole day's doings about the house, combining fashion smartness with down-to-earth practicality.

Style I-A pinafore apron for cool cover-up, features a comfortable elasticized waist and giant stand-out pockets. Slips into easily, refreshes quickly with just a wrap, hook and tie.

Style II- For the hostess at a backyard barbecue, a bright splash of protection, with each pocket patched in a different eye-catching color. Noteworthy are the straps, shaped to stay put at all times, and the ample spatter coverage extended 'round the sides.

Style III-This pretty tunic apron has tiers of pockets circling the flared skirt. Shaped bodice inserts cross the shoulders to form the back buttoning.

For this gay, easy-to-make apron trio, we suggest linen, denim, polished cotton, drip-dry cottons, and, for Styles I and III, lengthwise striped cottons.

From these corresponding body measurements select the one size best for you. Our sizing is comparable to ready-to-wear.

	Small		Medium		Large
Size	10	12	14	16	18	20

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Thinks Teen-Agers Grow Up Too Fast

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — "Girls today are trying to grow up too fast," singer Joanie Sommers told me in her dressing room at NBC before taping a variety show segment. "I think they will regret it when they get older. Our teens are such a small part of our lives that it's better to live them as normally and naturally as possible. It's ridiculous for a young girl to cake on all kinds of make-up, bleach or dye her hair and wear clothes designed for a woman.

"I wasn't allowed to wear lipstick until I was 14. I thought my parents were being unnecessarily strict with me, but I soon realized they knew what they were doing. Parents can't be too lenient or the children will take over and give the orders.

"Skin problems bother many teen-agers these days. Mostly it comes from not taking proper care of complexions. You can't go to bed with a dirty face and then be surprised when blemishes appear. I never go to sleep without being sure my skin is as clean as I can get it. I use a liquid cleanser that is less drying than soap and does an excellent job.

"Once a week," she continued. "I steam my face to get the pores open and flushed of all impurties. I do this by filling my wash bowl with boiling water and holding my head over the bowl to let the steam do the work. I cover my head and shoulders with a large towel to hold the steam in like the inside of a tent.

"It takes only a few minutes for the pores to open. Then I use the liquid cleanser to wash, rinse thoroughly with warm water and close my pores with cold water or an ice cube."

"I usually do this before my shampoo, and that way I don't ruin my hairdo. Which brings up another point. My hair is so fine that I practically live in curlers. But I think untidy hair can spoil your whole appearance.

"I've read that it's bad to get too dark a suntan. But I find if you give your face a nice tan you don't have to get color from make-up. When I can't get out in the sun, I use a lamp for a few minutes. But I keep my skin creamed so it won't dry out. I find, too," she concluded, "that the men I date prefer me suntanned to made-up."

COMPLEXION CARE

Now is the time for all teen-agers to care for their complexions. Don't wait until blackheads and blemishes take over. You can keep a beautiful skin if you learn to cleanse it properly. Leaflet M-55, "Ella Logan's Complexion Magic," is a must for every young girl who wants to retain a schoolgirl complexion. Your copy will be on its way when you send only 10 cents (ten cents) AND a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, Big Spring Herald.

Church Women Select Officers

Four women were chosen to fill offices at a meeting of the Women of the First Presbyterian Church Monday. Mrs. Roland Swarzenbach, vice president, presided and presented the devotion.

New officers are Mrs. Carl Hollingsworth, secretary; Mrs. Florence McNew, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Middleton, spiritual growth chairman; Mrs. H. W. Wright, stewardship chairman, and Mrs. J. D. Leonard, annuities and relief chairman.

Plans to honor the church's graduating high school seniors will be made by a committee headed by Mrs. A. A. Porter. Dorcas Circle will serve the Men's Fellowship dinner for April and the King's Daughters Circle will serve sandwiches and cookies to the young people.

Mrs. Elmer Boatler reported for the council of church women.

Brunch Will Be Rush Activity

A brunch for members of Mu Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, is planned for Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the Sands Restaurant. This will take the place of the usual preferential tea as part of the rush activities of the group.

The plans were announced at a meeting of the chapter Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Ray Pipes, when 11 were present.

As part of a program on the enjoyment of music, each member revealed her favorite type of musical selections. Mrs. Doyle Bynum was leader for the evening.

The next regular meeting is slated for April 17, at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Melvin Witter, 1714 Yale.

Home From Hospital

Sherry Lynn Dickson has returned from Dallas, where she was a surgical patient in Scottish Rite Hospital. The nine-year-old girl is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Dickson, 3218 Auburn.

Russells To Return To San Francisco

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Earl Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ed Russell and Michael Wayne Russell, all of San Francisco, Calif. will return to their homes Wednesday after visiting several days with relatives.

Mrs. Charles Russell came to visit her father, Arthur Pachall, who is recuperating from a heart attack at Howard County Foundation Hospital. They also visited Mrs. Pachall, 315 Princeton, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Miller Russell, 509 Union.

The Clarence Russells and Michael visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Adams, 806 Bell, and the Miller Russells.

Weaver Is Speaker For ABWA Meet

"Woman's Rights According to the Law" was the subject of a discussion by R. H. Weaver when he spoke for members of the Scenic Chapter, American Business Women's Association, Monday evening at the Settles Hotel.

Weaver read some of the laws applying to the rights of married women in buying and disposing of property.

Installed as a new member was Mrs. E. W. York; a nominating committee was named, composed of Mrs. Ara Cunningham, Mrs. L. C. Waits and Mrs. Nathan Dietz.

Selection of the recipient of the club's nursing scholarship was made; she is Velma Ware, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ware, 1310 W. 4th. Miss Ware is now taking nurses training in Shannon Hospital in San Angelo.

Hendersons Visit Parents Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Henderson and children of Denton were here visiting their parents over the Easter holidays. Mrs. Henderson arrived Thursday and was joined by her husband Saturday.

Parents of Mrs. Henderson are Mr. and Mrs. D. M. McEvers, 508 Johnson, and his parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ed Henderson, 200 Mobile.

The Hendersons are students at North Texas State College.

New Meeting Place

The 1946 Hyperion Club announces a change of meeting place for Wednesday's meeting. Members will gather at 2 p.m. with Mrs. Don Newsom, 416 Dallas, to hear a talk by Bo Bowen, public health nurse, on Public Health Safety.

Sunsuit

An effective sunsuit for a little boy or girl from 2 to 4 years. No. 547 contains cutting pattern and directions; also, hot iron transfers of bears, elephants, deer and kittens.

Send 25 cents in coins for this pattern to MARTHA MADISON, Big Spring Herald, Box 1490, New York 1, N. Y. Add 10 cents for each pattern for first class mailing.

Travellers Found Japan Among Friendliest Nations

(Second in a series)

Wade Simpson and Terry Stanley can thank their stars for foresight which impelled them to get dysentery medicine and a supply of sea-sick pills. They needed the former almost everywhere they went on their round-the-world junket; they desperately needed the latter when they ran into a typhoon a few days out of Hawaii on their journey to Japan.

When the warning came to batten down the hatches, they took pills and then marvelled at the wild scenes that followed.

"Waves rose as high as the ship," said Terry. "It was the most exciting and frightening thing you ever saw."

While they were aboard their ship earlier to Hawaii, they met Norio Watanabe, an exchange student and an English teacher in Japan. This opened the doors to an adventurous time in Japan.

NEARLY FROZE

Accustomed to the even climate in Hawaii, when they stepped off the boat at Yokahama, they almost froze. They began combing the shops and desperately, if awkwardly, began pointing until they succeeded in buying some long-handled underwear and two heavy sweaters. These became as much a part of their lives as their knapsacks.

They got in touch with Norio who introduced them to a cultured lady, Mrs. Yasu Kudo (san). When they knocked on the door of her home and saw the door slide back, to their surprise Mrs. Kudo-san was kneeling on the steps of the room, just like the paintings they had seen. She was a remarkable woman, the widow of a former advisor to the Emperor. She had given a son in the war, but she harbored no bitterness and went out of the way to instruct the two visitors in the customs of Japan.

PEACEFUL HOMES

One of the first things Terry and Wade learned was "to take off our boots when we entered a house." They learned also to duck on pain of getting a knot on their foreheads.

In contrast to the mad hustle and bustle of traffic and moving about (the street cars and subways even have professional shovers and bumpers to pack people into trains and cars to keep the crowd moving), the homes were the acme of neatness and tranquility.

As time neared for bed, big cushions were put on the floor. Then they went to the bath, an upright cylindrical affair which had a heater in one end and the water column in the other.

TINY TUBS

Here they dipped enough water to raise a lather, then enough to rinse, and finally got in the teeming water to relax and get thoroughly warm. ("You think we didn't have a time trying to fit into the tubs, because the Japanese are small people.") Then they got out and hurried to worm down into the cushions, for there is no heat in the Japanese home.

They found Japan to be a man's paradise, that is if complete authority means that. When the husband and father enters his home, he is king and the women are completely subservient; when he walks out the door he is without restraint and whatever he does, good or bad, is accepted without question or comment.

"The women are so attentive that they anticipate your every wish and wait on you hand and foot," said Terry. "Gee, when it came time to go to bed we were afraid they would undress us."

A THING OF THE PAST

The Giesha girls, they learned, are almost a thing of the past and are confined to exclusive clubs maintained by the rich.

A rising social institution is the coffee house, and one they frequented had five stories in it. In contrast to fantastically low prices of other items (they roomed, boarded, ate and travelled on about $30 a month), coffee costs 54-55 cents for a demitasse, and a cup is consumed over a period of 2 to 3 hours while perhaps several orchestras perform in rotation, playing everything from native Japanese, Hawaiian to western music. In the elaborate 5-story coffee house, the orchestra was on an elevator platform in the center of a huge well from top to bottom, and the elevator paused to allow the orchestra to play on each level.

They made frequent trips, one 600 miles to the south end of the island as far as Nagasaki and Osaka. On the almost sacred mount of Kamakura, they saw the Big Buddha and Shintō Shrines and witnessed the New Year's pilgrimage which seem to them to produce a multitude of millions.

EMPEROR REVERED

Once they got to see the Emperor and Empress and were amazed to see people stand hours on end to swoon at a dispassionate wave of the hand from the Son of Heaven.

Besides the gay New Year's celebrations, Japan has come up with a Christmas purely as a mercantile promotion.

"They don't have the remotest idea about the meaning of Christmas," said Wade. "But they buy gifts right and left."

Once while they were having dinner with friends, the cutlery and chinaware began to dance on the table. They looked up startled and their host explained smilingly: "Earthquake." Before it was over, they failed to see the humor. Four more tremors gave them all the quaking they wanted.

THEY LIKE US

Never did they bring up the matter of the war, but occasionally the Japanese did, and they spoke without rancor and were apologetic for the demonstrations the Communists organized against former President Eisenhower. They appeared to hold no hate for Hiroshima and Nagasaki; on the contrary, they found the Japanese to be among the most friendly people they visited.

One sporting goods dealer who was responsible for obtaining the next Olympics for Japan loved to rib them good naturedly about Japan defeating the U. S. in hockey.

"When you consider how many of them make it their life's ambition to come to the United States to study," said Terry, "you realize how much they admire us and it gives you a new appreciation of what it means to be an American."

(Next—They learn you can smell some places before you see them.)

C-City Voters To Name Four Councilmen

COLORADO CITY (SC)—Voters were making their choices here today for four seats on the city council, picking from a field of seven candidates.

Councilmen whose terms expire include Ira Uttz, A. W. Hubbard, Lawrence Ruddick, and Sam Majors Jr. Both Uttz and Majors are candidates for re-election. Ruddick and Hubbard did not enter the race.

Uttz, 51, is owner of Colorado Tire and Supply and has been in Colorado City since June, 1947. Majors, 39, is a partner in Sam L. Majors Jewelry and is a native of Colorado City.

New candidates to the council race include Robert Aycock Jr., Ed Owen, Carl G. Harkins, Martin Weaver and Bob Carver.

Aycock, 43, is a partner in the Colorado City Machine Shop and a native of Colorado City.

Owen, 67, was formerly a division superintendent of the Shell Pipe Line. Now retired, he is a real estate appraiser and he is a registered professional engineer.

Harkins, 47, is a lab technician at the Col-Tex Refinery. He has been employed by Col-Tex for 24 years.

Weaver, 35, is the administrator of the Root Memorial Hospital and came to Colorado City in 1954. He is the president of the Kiwanis Club and head of Boy Scouting in Mitchell County.

Carver, 36, is the owner of the White's Auto Store in Colorado City and has lived here two years.

Spence Cites Cooperative Efforts To Solve Pollution

Cooperative efforts give promise of controlling pollution of ground and surface water supplies in this area, E. V. Spence, general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, told Desk and Derrick Club members Monday.

Twenty-two members were on hand for the monthly meeting in the reception room of the Petroleum Building. Spence discussed the development of municipal water supplies as affected by pollution coincidental with production of oil.

Mrs. George Thorburn, president and Mrs. Pat Porter were named delegates to the regional D&D meeting in Farmington, N. M., on May 12-14. Mrs. Bill Oeckel received the attendance prize.

Pollution of the tributaries of the upper Colorado River is of prime importance to municipalities in this area, the CRMWD manager said, because this 200-square mile territory under study is the last substantial source of both ground and surface waters.

In the Sharon Ridge and Coleman Ranch fields in southern Scurry and Northern Mitchell counties, there are appoximately 122 operators with 1,500 wells from 1,700-2,400 feet deep, he said. Production ranges from one to 300 barrels per well per day, and with this comes an aggregate of some 7,500 barrels of brine, some of it seven times as salty as sea water.

Spence projected colored slides of examples of present disposal methods, almost altogether by surface pits. Some of these trickle into streambeds, some percolate into them, he said studies had proven.

Operators in the fields were working on the problem as well as the district, he said, and as a result of the cooperative effort, there is reason to expect an injection depth will be established soon. This is important because reinjecting the salt water can only create other problems unless it is at a depth where it will not migrate into fresh water strata, he said.

Credit Course Opens With 76 Attending

The Retail Credit Course being offered in Big Spring this week got under way Monday night with 76 persons present.

Sessions are held at 7 p.m. each night in the public conference room of the Texas Electric Service Co. offices.

Lowry M. Carpenter, retail credit specialist at the University of Texas, is giving instruction in various phases of credit and last night spoke about opening accounts profitably and reducing credit risks.

Mrs. Ruth Apple, local Credit Bureau manager, said more persons are expected to attend tonight's session. Carpenter will discuss "completing credit applications and taking up collection letters."

A certificate of completion will be issued to all persons attending all three sessions. The course is being conducted by Distributive Education, Division of Extension, at the University.

To aid instruction, Carpenter uses charts and similar visual aids and those attending receive sample credit forms and letters.

At a luncheon today, Carpenter met with the public affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce and with Webb AFB representatives to discuss credit and service personnel.

Mrs. Apple said that since the course has been received with excellent response, a course may be offered next year in public relations and sales work.

Testimony Begins In Damage Suit Against Pioneer

Testimony was being heard in the trial of a damage suit brought by M. G. Bissey against the Pioneer Natural Gas Co. in 118th District Court Tuesday.

The jury was empanelled and first witnesses were questioned Monday afternoon. The case is the first to be called for trial on the current civil docket before Judge Ralph Caton.

Bissey and his wife, Vivian, are suing the gas company for $510,000 for damages allegedly suffered on Jan. 6, 1960. Bissey and his wife, according to their petition, were in Guy's Cafe in the 3100 Block on West U.S. 80 on that date. She went to the cafe rest room, the petition relates. An explosion occurred and she was painfully burned.

The original suit, filed by Bissey on July 19, asked for $203,000. On Dec. 27, he filed an amended petition asking $510,000.

The plaintiff alleges that gas leakage precipitated the blast in which Mrs. Bissey was injured.

Minor Injuries, Heavy Car Damage In Collision

A major collision, occurring at 606 Baylor at 5 p.m. Monday, resulted in minor injuries to occupants of one car, and major damage to the vehicles involved.

Four persons were taken to hospitals by River ambulance where they were treated for minor injuries and released.

Diana Harris, 16, of Dallas, driver of a small foreign car, was taken to the Webb AFB hospital where she was treated for a small scalp cut and released.

Three other girls all passengers in the car, were taken to the Howard County Hospital Foundation, where one was treated for minor abrasions and released. The other two were not injured. They were Pat Wiley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover L. Wiley, who live in Cedar Ridge; Pat McBride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. N. McBride, 608 Baylor; and Annette Lebkowsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Lebkowsky, 1607 Kentucky Way.

Driver of the station wagon involved was Alvie Lee Harrison, 1804 Young, a city fireman. The vehicle belonged to Neal's Transfer Co., for whom he is an employe. Damage to the station wagon was estimated at $300, and to the small car, $1,200.

Five other minor accidents were investigated by police Monday. Locations and drivers involved were: 208 Gregg, Jimmie Norman, 1601 Avion, and Velda Dickins, 609 Circle; 206 NE. 4th, Woodrow Price, Snyder, and Juanita Adams, 1600 Donley; 200 E. 3rd, Kirk Faulkner, 431 Westover Road, and a parked car owned by J. B. Harrison; 1007 E. 16th, Jesse Gerald Gilbert, 1002 E. 16th, and Carl Hardin Tippie; 4th and Gregg, Blake Oliver Bledsoe, 500 Nolan, and Kenneth David Wilson, Snyder.

May Award Contract

Contract for the first stage of the water and sewer line extensions under the Master Plan expansion program for Big Spring will probably be awarded at a special meeting of the city commission tonight at 6 o'clock in the police building. The Clyde Yarbrough Construction Co., Odessa, was low bidder on the projects with a bid of $551,862.15.

The commission and the consulting engineers, Forrest & Cotton of Dallas, asked for a week to study the bids received at the regular meeting March 28. The engineers have reported their approval of the bids and the construction company to City Manager A. K. Steinheimer and Mayor Lee O. Rogers.

"They have found the Clyde Yarbrough Co. to have excellent financial rating and reputation for work performed, "Steinheimer said Tuesday morning. "He has three complete units, of crews and machinery, for the work and will doubtless move all three to the work after he gets started. He has said that he can get started about the 17th of April."

Steinheimer and City Secretary C. R. McClenny said the general obligation bond money, amounting to $250,000, had been received. The bonds were bought by The First National Bank of Dallas. All or a part of this money will be invested on a schedule to return as much interest as possible until it is needed, Steinheimer said.

Jaycees To Elect Officers

Jaycees will move their next week's meeting back to the evening for election of officers.

The session will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Wagon Wheel Restaurant.

Nominees for president are James Cape and Daryle Hohertz; for vice president, Ronnie McMillan; second vice president, Bobby McDonald and Bill Lucas; secretary - treasurer, Lovell Kuykendall and Larry Shortes.

Director nominees are Walter Wheat, Larry Shortes, Capt. C. A. Smith, Jimmy Taylor, Jim Solomon, Bill Mancil and Bob Bluhm.

P-TA To See Pupil's Artwork

Creative arts by pupils from the first grade through the sixth grade at Marcy School will be shown this evening at the meeting of the P-TA.

Included in the art exhibit will be examples of the children's work in pastels, water colors and charcoal. The session, which will begin at 7:30 p.m., will include the election of officers and a film, "Your Child's Intelligence."

Executive Meet Set Thursday

An executive meeting of the Volunteer Service Council has been announced for 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Big Spring State Hospital, according to D. M. McKinney, chairman.

At the meeting in the office of Dr. Preston Harrison, superintendent of the hospital, the executive committee will discuss projects for the next few months. These will include an amplifier and recorder system, occupational therapy equipment and recreation area improvements.

Jones Arrests Webb Suspect

The strong-arm robbery of Delmar Hartin, a Garland man who was visiting in Big Spring over the weekend, was solved Monday afternoon when Detective Sgt. Jack Jones arrested a man at Webb AFB. The man was identified by Hartin, who accompanied Jones to the base.

Hartin picked up the hitchhiker Sunday night and carried him to the south part of the city. The man pulled a knife, forced Hartin to drive off on a side road where he was relieved of his billfold, wrist watch, and ring. Then Hartin was forced to drive back to town where the man got out of the car at the Ritz Theatre.

Jones said a man, fitting the description of the knife-wielder, went to the Greyhound bus station and took a cab to the base.

The suspect confessed to the robbery and produced $9 in currency, all he had left of the $17 taken from Hartin. He also told Detective Jones that he had told a friend what he had done and gave him the wrist watch and ring.

"The friend said he had put the items in a beer can and dumped the can in a trash barrel," Jones said. "We hunted in trash until we hit the bottom but found nothing. It looks like the $9 will be all we will recover."

The suspect was charged with robbery by assault and held in the city jail.

Mrs. Cauble Dies Today

Mr. Anne N. Cauble, 89, died this morning at her residence, 401 Benton, after a six-year illness.

She was born Nov. 29, 1871 and moved to Big Spring in 1899 from Johnson County. She married James N. Cauble Nov. 13, 1890 in Bosque County. Mr. Cauble died June 22, 1949.

Mrs. Cauble was a member of the Church of Christ at 1401 Main.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Survivors are five daughters, Mrs. L. E. Crenshaw, Mrs. J. H. Coots, Mrs. Dee Foster and Mrs. Lester Anderson, all of Big Spring, and Mrs. Claude Cook, Austin; 16 grandchildren, 33 great-grandchildren and 11 great-great-grandchildren.

Judge Caton Calls Grand Jury Back For 2nd Session

An order recalling the grand jury to 118th District Court next Monday has been signed by Judge Ralph Caton.

The grand jury will be asked to act on the accumulated cases which have been filed since its first session some weeks ago.

The current court term—called the "long term" — continues through the first Monday in June and it is customary at this season to recall the grand jury for a second session.

Gil Jones, district attorney, has not as yet drawn up the list of cases he proposes to lay before the grand jury.

The order instructs the jurors to report to the court at 9 a.m., April 10.

The grand jury includes:

Clifton L. Cook, foreman; M. M. Mancill, T. Willard Neal, George Oldham, Worth Peeler, F. D. Rogers, Harold Hendin, Horace Reagan, James Kenneth Huff, Sherman Smith, Carl Coleman and Truman Jones.

OIL REPORT

Mitchell Reports Pool Completions

Mitchell County gained two field completions and in Dawson and Glasscock counties, two new locations were filed.

R. S. Anderson and Manor Oil Co. completed No. 1-B Ellett in the Turner-Gregory (Clear Fork) field in Mitchell County for 55 barrels on initial pumping potential.

The other Mitchell County producer was Fortune Producing Co. No. 1 A. C. Mills which pumped 26 barrels of oil on initial potential in the Sharon Ridge (1,700) field.

Santiago Oil and Gas No. 1 D. B. Kieger was filed a site for 9,500 feet in the Ackerly, Northwest (Dean) field in Dawson County.

In Glasscock County, Sohio Petroleum Co. No. 321 Spraberry Driver Unit is set to be plugged back. The old well is in the Spraberry Trend.

Crockett

Cosden No. 2 Miller is drilling below 8,596 feet in lime. The prospector is 990 feet from the north and 660 feet from the west lines of section 2-0, TCRR survey.

Dawson

Amerada No. 1 Dunlop has bottomed at 11,705 feet and is preparing to run 5½ inch casing to an unreported depth to test an unidentified zone. The site is 657 feet from the north and 644 feet from the east lines of section 22-36-5n, T&P survey.

Forest No. 1 Hatch is making hole in lime and shale below 10,830 feet. The wildcat is C SW SE, section 4-2, D. L. Cunningham survey.

Texas National No. 1 Barron is digging below 6,892 feet in sandy lime. The venture is 467 feet from the south and west lines of section 76-M, EL&RR survey.

Santiago Oil & Gas No. 1 D. B. Kieger is projected 9,500 feet in the Ackerly, Northwest (Dean) field. The site is C SE NW, section 3-34-3n, T&P survey, on a 160 acre lease a half mile northwest of Ackerly.

Eddy

Cosden No. 1-H Federal has bottomed at 1,925 feet and is running logs. This offset to the discovery well in the recently opened Yates Field is 330 feet from the north and 660 feet from the east lines of section 26-19-S-30-E.

Garza

Threeway No. 1 Connell is still waiting on potential. This wildcat is C NE SW SW, section 130-5, H&GN survey.

Glasscock

Shell No. 1 Chriesman is preparing to acidize an unidentified zone between 10,979-11,058 feet. Drillsite is C SE SE, section 12-36-5s, T&P survey.

Stillwagon No. 1 Currie is drilling below 5,756 feet. The project is CSE NW, section 24-34-3s, T&P survey.

Sohio Petroleum Co. No. 321 Spraberry Driver Unit is an old well in the Spraberry Trend scheduled to be plugged back to 7,400 feet. The well is C NE SE section 47-37-4s, T&P survey, on a 59.416 acre lease 35 miles southeast of Midland.

Martin

Great Western No. 1 Shoemaker washed perforations in the Lower Spraberry between 8,380-90 feet with 500 gallons of mud-acid and fractured with 10,000 gallons of oil and 20,000 pounds of sand. The operator will perforate the upper zone of the Spraberry also. Location is C NE SW, section 40-37-1n, T&P survey.

Mitchell

R. S. Anderson and Manor Oil Co. No. 1-B Ellett was completed in the Turner - Gregory (Clear Fork) field for 55 barrels of 26 gravity oil with 17 per cent water on initial pumping potential. The gas-oil ratio was nil. From an elevation of 2,159 feet, the well was drilled to 2,797 feet and 4½ inch casing was set at 2,797 feet. The pay was topped at 2,517 feet and perforations were at 2,517, 2,522, 2,573, 2,579 and 2,585 feet. The oiler is C NE NE NE, section 25-29-1n, T&P survey, on a 120 acre lease six miles northwest of Westbrook.

Fortune Producing Co. No. 1 A. C. Mills pumped oil in the Sharon Ridge (1,700) field for an initial potential of 26 barrels with one per cent water after being acidized with 3,000 gallons. It bottomed at 1,655 feet and 5½ inch casing was set at that depth. Pay was topped at 1,562 feet and the operator perforated at 1,562-626 feet. The gas-oil ratio was nil. Location is 330 feet from the north and 2,022 feet from the east lines of C. H. McGinnis survey, nine miles northwest of Colorado City.

Motorists Line Up For Tags

Motorists who had waited too long to get their 1961 car plates were on hand in sufficient numbers to keep the tax office deputies busy all day Monday.

The day's sales of tags to delinquent drivers totalled $4,786.

Tuesday saw additional belated applicants seeking plates and it was anticipated that others will be drifting in throughout the next few days.

Meantime, the highway patrol and other enforcement agencies are picking up cars with out-of-date plates and the owners are having to pay fines and costs for the oversight.

Indicative of the demand for tags on Friday and Saturday of last week—the final two days before the tag deadline—was the report of the assessor's office that Friday's business was $29,457.17 and that of Saturday $34,568.89.

Kiwanis Club Books Flag Film

A film titled "Stars & Stripes on Review" has been booked for two weeks by the boys and girls committee of the Big Spring Kiwanis Club.

The film, which explains flag etiquette and offers accurate information on how to honor the national emblem, is available for showing at civic clubs and other groups.

Any organization which would like to screen the film is asked to contact either the Rev. Ward Jackson or Floyd Parsons.

It was pointed out that the film can be kept in Big Spring for only two weeks.

Autopsy Ordered

HOUSTON (AP) — An autopsy was ordered after officers reported the death of French seaman Joseph Laniel, 35, as the freighter SS Martain docked here Monday. Third Mate Guy Dubois said Laniel fell 25 feet into the hold March 2 while the vessel was at sea and hit his head on a ladder.

DEAR ABBY

You Can't Put A Price On It!

DEAR ABBY: Would you please put in the paper about what it would cost a man to hire a woman to clean his 8-room house every day, to cook for him and five children, to do all their laundry, to be there every minute to care for the children, to stay up nights when they are sick, to can 300 quarts of vegetables and fruits, and to sew all the clothes the children wear?

WOULD LIKE TO KNOW

DEAR WOULD: No one woman could be hired to do all the above - mentioned chores. (The Fair Labor Standards Act wouldn't permit it.) But a lot of women do it for their keep, a kind word and a tender touch. (The unluckier ones do it for nothing.)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of four married children and am "Nana" to ten adorable grandchildren.

My problem is that all four of my children fight over me. I have my own apartment, but they are constantly after me to give it up and come to live with them.

I spent the Christmas holidays with my eldest daughter, and I had to steal away in the night so the children wouldn't see me leave. They cried for days when they discovered I had gone. It's that way with the other grandchildren, too. Should I keep my own apartment or give it up and take turns living with my children? I am 58 and widowed.

IN DEMAND

DEAR IN: Are you bragging or complaining? Keep your own apartment and continue to enjoy the status of the sought-after-guest. Distance lends enchantment.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Will you print my letter as encouragement to women to remain true to their husbands even though they are strongly attracted to someone else? Our marriage lost its sparkle, and just when our differences seemed insurmountable, a tall, dark, charming man walked into my life. He was everything my husband was not. Refined, exciting and talented. We seemed made for each other.

Knowing that two families were involved (he was married), and our reputations were at stake, I put up the struggle of my life. I told no one, fighting this feeling alone. I leaned on my God. His strength was sufficient, for I won, Abby. After two months of a debilitating struggle, I was able to tear this man's face out of my heart. I now think of him as a wonderful friend, but not for me.

My life is sometimes dull—but my conscience is clear. My promise to love, honor and cherish my husband until death do us part remains unbroken.

GARDEN TALK

Now Is The Time To Care For Many Shrubs

By BRUCE FRAZIER

This is the time of year for flowering shrubs to be at their most beautiful stages and perhaps that is the reason I have had so many questions as to how to best care for these plants at this time of year.

In general these flowering shrubs put out blooms before the leaves and this is the beginning of their season. It is a little late to prune them, but feeding and watering are helpful now that the growing season has begun.

There seems to be a good deal of interest in both organic and chemical plant foods. Both are helpful and each has its place. It would be wise to add leaf mold or any type of organic material to the soil around the roots of flowering plants, fruit trees or shrubs. One thing to remember is that the materials should be well rotted.

Rotting organic materials tend to take up nitrogen to break down the plant materials, and they also produce a heat; so the more thoroughly decayed, the better they are for plants. Peat moss is well decayed and can be added as it comes from the bag with little danger of any damage.

Besides organic material, chemical plant foods are helpful. There are many different shrubs and there are fertilizer requirements for them, but one that needs attention is the pyracantha. These plants tend to be chlorotic, (yellow) and they need acid to correct this condition. Peat moss worked around the roots helps, or well rotted compost will help. Our water and soil tend to be alkaline and watering sometimes aggravates the yellowing.

The flowering almonds sometimes behave like the pyracanthas, and they also respond to organic matter or to copperas or the various organic iron plant foods. Sometimes we apply sulphur to the soil to attempt to acidize it and it does help a little, though the sulphur is slow to break down into acids.

The best way is to plant shrubs which require acid soils in places where there is as little caliche or lime as possible. Another pointer is on the use of phosphate fertilizers. This element in chemical plant foods helps the plants set fruit and brings out the natural colors in the blooms. So if you want to feed plants at this time of the year, use both organic and chemical plant foods if it is convenient. The growth they make now will be the basis of next year's flowers and shade.

Police Break Burglary Ring

HOUSTON (AP)—Police report 4 arrests in 3 cities have broken up a ring which specialized in burglaries of plush homes in 18 cities.

The four have been charged with transporting stolen goods in interstate commerce. They were arrested in Los Angeles, Dallas and Houston. The first arrest was made Feb. 14. The fourth man was arrested Monday night.

One of the four is Betty Lou Ward, 19, of Houston, a pretty dancer. She was arrested in Dallas March 4.

Thomas Fesenmyer, 32, was arrested in Los Angeles March 5. Howard Kellys, an East St. Louis Negro, was arrested here Feb. 14 and sent to St. Louis, where he was wanted for transporting forged securities.

Gerald Cooper, 32, of Houston was arrested here Monday night.

Los Angeles detectives said they recovered about $200,000 in furs and jewelry when Fesenmyer was arrested.

Police here said the ring is suspected of burglaries in Tyler, Dallas and Houston.

A federal warrant for the arrests was issued by U.S. Commissioner Billy Costa here March 22 in the Feb. 7 burglary of a Houston home. Jewels worth $22,000 were taken.

Abilenian Indicted In Wife's Death

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Grand jurors indicted Jack Walker, 45, Monday for murder with malice in the shooting of his wife Marjorie, 41.

Women who worked in an office at a bank told police Mrs. Walker died at her desk last Friday after being shot five times in the back by her estranged husband.

Mrs. Walker and Walker were married in 1951. Two years later they were divorced. Walker moved to Abilene and after they remarried in 1955 Mrs. Walker came here.

The couple had two children, Bill, 11, and Marie, 11.

Dr. Marvin Baker Elected President At South Plains

Announcement of the election of Dr. Marvin L. Baker as president of South Plains College in Levelland was made during the weekend.

Dr. Baker, former faculty member of Howard County Junior College and later assistant to the president before taking a post in Florida last summer, is to assume his duties on June 1.

He was selected from a list of more than 20 applicants for the post being vacated by Dr. Thomas M. Spencer, president of the two-year college since it was founded in 1957. Dr. Spencer has been named president of the new San Jacinto Junior College near Houston.

Dr. Baker was awarded a three-year contract at $13,500 per annum and will be furnished a residence on the campus.

A native of Avery, Dr. Baker came here as an instructor when HCJC was opened in the atuumn of 1946 and taught. He later instructed in Southwest Texas Junior College at Uvalde and then returned to the University of Texas to complete his work on his doctorate. He rejoined the HCJC faculty in 1955 as director of adult education and of the evening school. Later, he became administrative assistant to Dr. W. A. Hunt, president.

Here he was active in civic affairs, served as head of the Kiwanis Club, and took part in Boy Scouts and other youth work. Last year he was selected to establish a junior college administration division for Florida State University at Tallahassee. Dr. Baker was here last week and plans to visit again in about two weeks when en route to Levelland, to make preliminary arrangements for assuming the presidency.

Postal Receipts Edging Ahead

Postal receipts in the Big Spring Post Office are just barely keeping even with 1960, according to E. C. Boatler, postmaster.

March receipts were $33,719.14 which was just $434.46 ahead of March, 1960.

For the first three months of the current year, however, the post office is $434.65 over the first three months of 1960. Total January, February, March receipts this year are $90,811.72 as compared with $90,246.37 for the same three months in 1960.

6-Pack For Baby

WINCHESTER, Ky. (AP) — When new mothers leave Clark County Hospital, they get a "six-pack" for the baby. The set of nursing bottles contains enough formula for the infant's first day —a gift of the hospital.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Sports dialogue:

FRANK BOLLING, Milwaukee infielder:

"I've been for so long with a team that never knew how it felt to battle for a pennant that I can't help but wonder how the pressure of a pennant fight will affect me. I don't think it will bother my play, but I really won't know until I'm in the middle of it. At Detroit, we had a number of great players but something was missing. It's hard to put your finger on it. I can't say we had no desire. We all wanted to win. But maybe we didn't want it hard enough. I'm in a much better frame of mind this season. It's a good feeling to be on a club that's always battling for a pennant. I hope it rubs off on me."

FRANK BOLLING

NORM VAN BROCKLIN, coach of the Minneapolis Vikings:

"The Chicago Bears don't play defense. Instead they tackle, rip, and pull your uniform off. They've been getting away with it for years."

* * *

ROBIN ROBERTS, Philadelphia hurler, on his propensity for throwing the home-run ball:

"I always had to throw hard. I had only one speed and I never was very wild. So the hitters got to know that if anything I threw didn't have anything on it, they'd stand there and comb it. Maybe I'd throw 120 times a game. Well, I couldn't always get the ball fast enough to make 'em fly or pop up. When I didn't, they'd hit it out of the lot. But up until the last two or three years, most of the homers were single-run shots that didn't mean a game."

* * * *

BILLY PEARSON, the former jockey, when asked why his former wife was asking so much in the way of a property settlement:

"She's a lovely Mexican girl who always figured the U.S. stole California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas from her personally. And she wants me to give it all back to her. It's really John Wayne's fault. He had to go make another picture after my wife had forgotten the Alamo. I hear she's asked for a restraining order to keep me out of San Diego County. Now why would she want to do a thing like that? She could demolish me with one hand tied behind her back, even if I was only kidding when I used to say that she was captain of the Olympic wrestling team in Mexico."

* * * *

MANUEL ALFARO, manager of boxer Benny Paret, discussing Paret's training methods before his losing fight with Emile Griffith in Miami Beach Saturday night.

"Sure, his sparring partners found him easy to hit. We don't like for him to do it that way but he says it helps him get ready for a fight. His defense doesn't worry me. He trains one way and fights another. When we were in New York, some bookies came around and watched him train before the Frederico Thompson fight, and they ran out very fast and bet on Thompson. You know how that one came out—Paret in 15."

* * * *

BOB STEVENS, San Francisco sports writer:

"The Giants smuggled their losing ways across the border today and proved their two-state consistency by doing in California what they've done with great regularity in Arizona—getting beat."

* * * *

MIKE McCORMICK, San Francisco pitcher:

"Pitching in Candlestick Park isn't difficult. All you have to do is make sure it's across the plate and then out from there. You can't walk anybody, either, or you're in trouble right away. The runner steals and now he's on third because I must have seen 50 bad throws to second base last season. Then there's the error which makes it an unearned run."

* * * *

MICKLE MANTLE, New York outfielder:

"Everybody is asking about our change in managers. A ball player does what he's told. Casey must have told us pretty good because he was mighty successful. Sure, I'll miss the Old Man. Except for my minor league experience, which didn't amount to much, all I know I've learned under Stengel. But Ralph Houk is a good man. He knows the game and he knows men. I think he'll do all right."

Award Winners With Speaker

Cagers Must Make Major Effort, Reminds Gibson

Athletes who decide to play basketball must be prepared to make a major and sustained effort, must face up to responsibility and must come to realize what influence they have with other students, Gene Gibson told members of the Big Spring High School HCJC cage teams at the Evening Lions' Club cage banquet held in the Student Union Building at HCJC here Tuesday night.

Gibson is the assistant basketball mentor at Texas College in Lubbock.

No team achieves success without effort and a determination to master the game in practice, Gibson stated.

Players who wear the uniform of a school have the solemn responsibility of giving that school a good name, Gibson added, and by their deeds and actions create influence, especially with younger boys who hope some day to emulate them on the basketball court.

Gibson also reviewed the season Texas Tech had. The Raiders were picked sixth and seventh in preseason polls but finished on top with an 11-3 record.

"We were lucky," Gibson remarked, "but every successful team needs luck."

The Raiders have much of their team returning next year and Gibson said he was told recently that the opposition could be expected to fight harder next year than they did this season.

"If they do," he quipped, "it will be illegal."

Gibson paid tribute to the all-around championship class of the Cincinnati Bearcats, who vanquished the Raiders in the first round of the playoffs and who went on to win the NCAA championships.

Six player awards, four of them to HCJC boys, were made during the program.

Kenneth Clearman of the Hawks received the HCJC Most Valuable Player trophy, presented by radio station KBST. Bob Lewis of that station was on hand to make the presentation.

Bill Edwards of the local college received the Sportsmanship award. The prize for the most improved HCJC freshman player went to Elvis Spradling while Charles Knotts received a trophy as the improved sophomore among the sophomores.

High school trophies went to Ross Reagan, awarded the Sportsmanship cup; and Ronnie Hamby, recognized as the boy who made the greatest contribution to the team effort.

Ted Phillips, owner of the Phillips Tire Company, provided the two sportsmanship awards while the Anderson Sporting Goods Company made possible the prize to Hamby.

C. O. Hitt, chaplain at the local Veterans Administration Hospital, presided as the master of ceremonies. W. L. (Squeaky) Thompson is president of the Evening Lions' Club.

Delnor Poss, the high school coach introduced his players, who, in turn, introduced their dates. The same procedure was used in introducing coach Buddy Travis of HCJC and his players.

Jimmy Marcus and Oakie Hagood were other coaches present for the banquet. An estimated 150 persons attended the party.

IBM Machine Aid To Brain Trust

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — Sometime next August the Chicago Cubs will be playing the Milwaukee Braves and a member of the Cub college of coaches will have the task of making out a batting order to face the great Warren Spahn.

"Who will it be in left field," wonders the Cub coach, "Richie Ashburn or Billy Williams?"

He presses a button and presto, out pops a card stating, "You'd better use this guy instead of so-and-so."

The Cubs, as everybody in the sports world should know by now, do not have a manager. They have nine coaches and an IBM machine. There have been jokes about rotating the coaches with most of them getting a crack at running the team.

But there's nothing funny about the use of the IBM machine which should result into one of the deepest penetrations into the vast valley of baseball statistics.

Every time a Cub batter hits the ball, the result will be logged. For example, say the Cubs are playing the Braves, Spahn is pitching, and Ashburn is the batter.

The master sheet is made out with the data, where the game is played, whether it is at night or day and so on.

On a three-and-two count, Ashburn walks his first time at bat. The walk is recorded in one column and another column shows he has reached base. The next time up, Ashburn hits the first pitch for a double, sending home a runner from second base.

In the various columns, Ashburn is credited with a hit, a two-base hit, two total bases, having reached base, an opportunity to drive in a run, a run-batted-in and a line drive.

Line drives, pop flies and ground balls all have their respective columns. The third time Ashburn grounds out and the fourth time up he grounds into a double play.

All this not only gives a coach a complete line on what Ashburn does against Spahn, but it also compiles what Ashburn does against left-handers in games at home and in games played during the day.

It's a monumental task since tabs are kept on every Cub who bats in a game and against the various pitchers used.

But under this system, there should no longer be guesswork involved, especially in sending in a pinch batter. A manager—or coach—doesn't have to rely on memory in thinking, "I believe Ed Bouchee got a double off Lew Burdette earlier in the season but I can't remember what George Altman has done against Burdette."

He'll press a button and presto: Bouchee is 4-for-11 against Burdette with three of the hits in four tries in day games at Wrigley Field. Altman is 2-for-9 facing Burdette and 2-for-5 in night games at Milwaukee.

Since this hypothetical game is being played in sunny Wrigley Field, Bouchee will get the call unless the coach figures Altman is overdue to get a hit against Burdette at Chicago in the daytime.

Of course, Milwaukee Manager Charley Dressen will probably yank Burdette at this stage of the game in favor of a relief pitcher. But the Cub coach doesn't have to worry, he'll just press another button.

Masters Course A Test Of Power, Says Smith

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—As golf's brightest stars tuned up today for the silver jubilee Masters Tournament, the meet's very first champion said the stories Augusta National course now is a test of power rather than finesse.

Horton Smith, the aging, meticulous putter who won the inaugural show in 1934 and again triumphed in 1936, readied for Thursday's start of his 25th consecutive Masters. He sadly commented that the Augusta National "just isn't treacherous now."

"It still is a tremendous golf course," said Smith of the par 36-36—72 layout cradled in some 6,000 yards of horticultural splendor. "But within the past five years somehow it has called for more power than trickery."

The lush, verdant fairways and well-matted greens make it tough for the shorter hitter and the calculating putter.

"Those boys who boom the ball don't have to worry too much about bunkers and traps, while the roll isn't there to bring the shorter hitters up closer," said Smith. "On the green, where you sometimes had to figure a big break on your putt, now it's a matter of distance rather than direction."

Billy Casper, former U.S. Open champion and a ranking Masters' contender this year, also thinks the once-treacherous speed of Augusta's greens is gone to some degree.

"They are so well-matted now, they probably never will be as fast as they once were," said Casper, whose 3-under-par 67 practice round Monday indicated he'll be pressing to improve his fourth-place Masters' finish last year with 287.

Two other players also seeking their first Masters' title, Chick Harbert and Dick Chapman, fired 69s, as most of the big guns in the expected field of more than 90 hand-picked entries tested the wind-swept course under leaden skies.

Defending champion Arnold Palmer, aiming for an unprecedented second successive Masters' title and his third in four years, came in with "a 71 or something like that."

Ken Venturi, who finished a stroke behind Palmer's winning 282 last year, also shot a 71, while 73s were carded by Ben Hogan, two-time Masters winner and holder of the meet record of 274 (1953); power-hitting Mike Souchak, and Jay Hebert.

Steers Open 1961 Conference Play

Roy Baird takes his Big Spring Steers to San Angelo today to open their 1961 District 2-AAAA baseball season. The two contingents take the field at 4 p.m.

Baird will probably send either Bowman Roberts or Roy New to the mound. Johnny Elam, the San Angelo mentor, can pitch either with Lefty Dave Dorris, Jim Aufderheide, Ronnie Stephens or Minton White.

Big Spring takes a 6-7 won-lost record onto the field. San Angelo has won eight of 12 starts and has outscored the opposition, 75-28.

In other leauge contests, Midland—the pre-season favorite to cop the crown—visits Abilene while the two Odessa entries, Permian and Odessa High, play each other.

San Angelo ranked almost as high as Midland did in the pre-season balloting among the coaches. Each team received 21 points in the voting. However, three of the coaches saw Midland finishing at the top whereas only two of them forecast a title sweep for San Angelo.

After winning ten straight games, Midland lost two contests to Snyder last Friday, 6-5 and 8-3.

Odessa Permian won 11 of 14 assignments, Odessa High ten of 13 and Abilene 12 of 17.

Probably starters for Big Spring today will find Jerry Tucker behind the plate, Charles Boadle at first base, Coy Mitchell at second, Ronnie Suggs or David Maberry at shortstop, Jerry Dunlap at third, Jack Irons in left field, Rickey Wisener or Tommy Young in center and Alf Cobb in right.

Dorris has won four straight games this season and ten over a period of two years, without a loss. Dexter Pate could conceivably get the call for Big Spring today, although he's been favoring an injury. New has a 2-2 won-lost record while Pate is 1-1.

San Angelo has 11 lettermen back from last season and has shown strength in defense.

Roy Franklin, a Negro senior, does the catching for the Cats. His bat has proved devastating to Big Spring the last couple of years.

Robin Hurt But Sharp

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Robin Roberts, puffed ear and all, has taken another big stride toward the Philadelphia Phillies' opening day assignment that used to be his by habit.

The veteran pitcher, 34, who has had only one winning season in the last four after ranking for years as the National League's top right-hander, pushed his string of scoreless exhibition innings to 23 1-3 Monday. Then a drive off his right ear sent him to the showers sooner than Manager Gene Mauch had intended.

Roberts pitched 6 1-3 scoreless innings in the Phils' 3-2, 16-inning victory over the New York Yankees then wobbled off the field at St. Petersburg, Fla., when a one-hop smash off the bat of the Yanks' Clete Boyer struck him on the ear.

The 13-year Phils' vet is undergoing treatment at a Clearwater, Fla., hospital to guard against a "cauliflower ear" but the injury isn't considered serious and he is expected to go as scheduled against the Pirates in an exhibition at Wichita on Friday.

Barring further complications, that'll tune the 6-2, 200-pound Roberts for the Phils' opener at Los Angeles a week from tonight at the Coliseum.

Robby, who has won 233 games in the big leagues but shows only a 54-69 record for the last four seasons, wasn't too disturbed by the injury.

"It was the first time I've ever been hit with a ball above the waist," he said. "I thought it was more serious at first, but I guess it was just fright."

Back-to-back doubles by Tony Taylor and Johnny Callison broke up the game against the Yanks in the feature of a Monday exhibition program that also saw Roberts' former teammate, Curt Simmons, pitch St. Louis to a 4-3 victory over Chicago's White Sox; Pittsburgh whip Cincinnati 7-5-2; the new Los Angeles Angels crush San Francisco 12-8; Washington edge Baltimore 2-1 in 13 innings; Minnesota wallop Detroit 11-4 and Cleveland outlast Boston 10-9.

Simmons, who helped Roberts and Jim Konstanty pitch the Philie Whiz Kids to their startling NL pennant in 1950, allowed but two runs and six hits in eight innings for the Cardinals. St. Louis scored all its runs in the sixth, three on Joe Cunningham's bases-loaded triple.

Bob Friend used homers by Del Rice, Steve Bilko and Faye Throneberry to whip Juan Marichal and the Giants. Marichal, Giants' rookie ace last year, was blasted for seven runs and 11 hits in five innings. Felipe Alou homered twice for San Francisco.

Catcher Frank Zupo's bad throw on Marty Keough's bunt enabled Jim Mahoney to score from second with the 13th inning run that beat the Orioles. Rookie Joe McClain, looming bigger every day in the Senators' plans, worked nine innings and allowed one run and several hits.

The ex-Senators—the Minnesota Twins—rode their home run power over Detroit, accounting for 10 of their 11 runs on two circuit shots by Harmon Killebrew and one apiece by Don Mincher, Dan Dobbek and Elmer Valo. Chuck Stobbs kept the Tigers under control with a yield of just three hits in seven innings.

Boston's injury list, already including outfielders Jackie Jensen and Carl Yastrzemski, added All-Star third baseman Frank Malzone, who sprained an ankle sliding into second base. He'll probably be sidelined a few days.

COACHES MEET WITH PARENTS

Parents of Big Spring High School athletes are being asked to meet with coaches for an orientation program in the High School Cafeteria this evening, starting at 7:30 p.m.

The Quarterback Club will serve the gathering coffee and cake.

Coach Emmett McKenzie will strive to familiarize the parents with the aims and ambitions of the staff and to answer questions put to him.

He said he hoped for 100 per cent attendance on the part of the parents.

Local Men Share Awards In Rifle Matches Here

The next in the series of high-power rifle matches is planned by the Western Sportsman Club here for early June.

The one staged here the past Sunday was declared a success by Dr. Cal Guilliams, president of the club, although it co-incided with a holiday. Dr. Guilliams also stated that the matches are open to any shooter in the world.

Contestants visiting here from other areas expressed satisfaction with the facilities at the Big Spring National Match range. The following awards were made:

Trophy match winner—William Wolf, Roswell, N. M.

Expert rifleman, civilian—Dr. Cal Guilliams, Big Spring.

Expert rifleman, service—R. Robath, Albuquerque, N. M.

Sharpshooter, service—Lt. J. Harper Webb AFB.

Sharpshooter, civilian — C. Gumm, Odessa.

Marksman, service—O. Wilson, Roswell, N. M.

Marksman, civilian — V. W. Kemper, Big Spring.

Unclassified, service—R. Meeglee, Albuquerque, N. M.

Unclassified, civilian—C. Posey, Odessa.

Golf medal team winners included William Wolf, Roswell, and Dr. Cal Guilliams, Big Spring.

Charles Neefe, Big Spring, was the NRA supervisor in charge of the match.

Duran And Draper Clash April 11

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Frankie Duran, Austin bantamweight, will meet Tommy Draper of Oklahoma City in the feature bout of a boxing show here April 11.

Duran is unbeaten in three San Antonio appearances. Draper claims the bantamweight title of Oklahoma.

Annual Cage Meet Starts Thursday

The annual YMCA Independent Basketball Tournament starts in the HCJC Gym here Thursday night and continues through Saturday. E. C. Smith is co-sponsor of the six-team meet.

Thursday night's play will send E. C. Smith Construction against Ray Crook's Cosden team at 7:45 p.m. and the Jayhawkers against Manuel's of Odessa at 9:15 p.m.

Nabors Paint and Wallace's Studio, another Odessa team, drew first round byes and do not play until Friday evening. Wallace's Studios recently won tournament championships at both Odessa and Midland and must rank with the favorites here.

Nabors plays the winner in the Smith-Cosden game at 9:15 p.m. Thursday. Wallace's Studios oppose the survivor in the Jayhawker-Manuel' engagement at 7:45 p.m. Friday.

Delnor Poss, the former HSU great who is coach of the Big Spring Steers, has been playing with the Wallace's Studios club but will perform for E. C. Smith's here.

Trophies will be awarded to the first, second and third place teams here, as well as to the consolation winner. Three games are on tap Saturday, by the way, with the consolation finals set for 6:30 p.m., the third place engagement at 8 o'clock and the title bout at 9:15.

Eight teams had entered the meet but two of them later dropped out. One was a Sterling City entry and the other a local quintet.

In addition to the team awards, five all-tournament trophies will be presented, along with a sportsmanship cup.

Admission prices have been pegged at 50 and 25 cents.

WAUGH LOSES AT HAMILTON

HAMILTON AFB, Calif. (AP) — Chuck Waugh from Webb Air Force Base at Big Spring, Tex., lost a decision to Jim Richardson of Japan's Fuchu Air Force Base Monday night. They met in a 132-pound match during the first round of the Air Force Worldwide Boxing Tournament.

THE HERALD SIMPLY "SPOILED THEM"!

This is an unsolicited, but nonetheless welcome letter from a former Big Spring resident now living in another West Texas city

"We thought we could do without it, but found we couldn't make a go of it"

Mr. Merchant:

When people have a "love affair" like this with their newspaper, then you can be sure that they are followers of, and believers in, Herald advertising. This is the kind of patron you're looking for. You get them into your store through Herald advertising.

Our thanks to Mrs. Mc, and we just hope that we can keep on "spoiling" her family—as well as all the other 10,000-plus families reading The Herald.

Degree Conferred In Lodge Meeting

The Degree of Friendship was conferred on J. W. McDonald and James L. Unger at the Monday meeting of the Mullin Odd Fellow Lodge No. 372. Vandoyle Murphree was elected to membership by initiation.

The commission of District Deputy Grand Master Herbert N. Overby, Stanton Lodge No. 19, was read to the group; also the appointment of Gordon Gross as the Lodge Deputy.

Albert Gilliland, lodge representative, gave a report on the trip to Grand Lodge held recently in San Antonio. Announcement was made of the change in meeting hour. During the spring and summer months, the session will begin at 8 p.m.

Nineteen members were on hand.

LEGAL NOTICE

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

TO: W. W. WEST; the unknown spouses of the said W. W. WEST; the unknown heirs of the unknown spouses of the said W. W. West, Deceased; the unknown heirs of the said W. W. WEST, deceased, and of their unknown spouses, deceased; the legal heirs and legal representatives of the unknown heirs of the said W. W. WEST, deceased, and of their unknown spouses, deceased; the unknown assigns and devisees, if any, of each of the descendants above named; all persons claiming any title or interest in said land adverse to Plaintiff's interest in Lot No. FIVE (5), Block No. THREE (3), COLE AND STRAYHORN ADDITION, an Addition to the City of Big Spring, Howard County, Texas, DEFENDANTS GREETING:

You are hereby commanded to appear by filing a written answer to the Plaintiff's Petition at or before 10 o'clock A.M. of the first Monday of the expiration of Forty-Two (42) days from the date of the issuance of this Citation, same being 22nd day of May, 1961, at or before 10:00 o'clock A.M. before the Honorable District Court of Howard County, Texas, at the Courthouse of said County in Big Spring, Texas.

Said Plaintiff's Petition was filed in said Court on the 31st day of March, 1961, in this Cause No. 12,956 on the docket of said Court, and styled C. W. PEURIFOY VS. W. W. WEST, ET AL, Defendants.

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to-wit:

Plaintiff is suing in Trespass To Try Title for the title and possession of the following described tract of land: to-wit: Lot No. FIVE (5), in Block No. THREE (3), COLE & STRAYHORN ADDITION, an Addition to the City of Big Spring, Howard County, Texas.

Plaintiff is further alleging that he holds the title and possession of the above described land and premises under and by virtue of the Five (5) year statute of limitations of the State of Texas, which he is affirmatively pleading and seeking to recover said land under allegations of peaceable, continuous and adverse possession of said land for a period of Five (5) consecutive years claiming same under deed duly registered, and paying all taxes thereon as same became due during such period.

Plaintiff further alleges that he holds the title to the above described tract of land under the Ten (10) year statute of limitations of the State of Texas, which he is affirmatively pleading and seeking under allegations of peaceable, continuous and adverse possession of said land for Ten (10) years using and enjoying the same, to recover the title and possession of said land from Defendants.

If this citation is not served within Ninety (90) days after the date of this issuance, it shall be returned unserved.

The officer executing this process shall promptly execute the same according to law, and make due return as the law directs.

ISSUED and given under my hand and the seal of said Court, at office in Big Spring, Texas on this 3rd day of April, A. D., 1961.

Building Holds Steady Climb

LAMESA (SC) — Construction rocketed in Lamesa during March for the second time this year as 27 new home permits were authorized along with other building. This boosted the 31-day figure to $425,400.

The March hiked the first quarter total to nearly half of the entire 1960 figure of $1,812,535. The March total, according to City Secretary Jack N. Goodloe, was the highest monthly figure recorded since May of 1959.

So far this year 54 new homes, eight commercial buildings and many remodeling permits have been granted. Eight permits to Dunham Construction in the First Northridge subdivision were granted last month at an estimated cost of $10,750 each.

Stomach Distress And Nervousness Gone After Spinal Adjustments

By HALVARD T HANSEN, D.C.

A few weeks ago a young businessman finally came to the Hansen Chiropractic Clinic after reading our articles for several weeks. He had hesitated because of fear and prejudice. Unable to bear up any longer under his pains, or to receive help from any of his previous treatments, he came to our clinic for an examination and spinal analysis to see if we could do anything for him.

Two years of stomach trouble, such as heartburn, gas, bloating, frequent abdominal pains with acute stomach cramps that bent him over and sometimes cut off his breath, daily nauseating spells that left him feeling faint, extremely nervous, "keyed-up," constantly tired and exhaustion were only part of his bag of sorrows.

We found impingements causing interferences in his central nervous system that were creating chaos inside his body. Nerve-wave interruptions invariably and naturally disrupt the organic functions and painful symptoms result.

Under our corrective spinal adjustments he recovered less than one month. He is still under our care, now undergoing complete correction of an old spinal injury sustained years ago that was primarily responsible for all his trouble. Completely free of stomach pain for over three weeks now, he comes in all smiles and gratefully recommends chiropractic care to all stomach sufferers. He has one sorrow left — the memory of those long, painful years that could have been avoided. He contends that because the truth about chiropractic does not appear in the regular news columns, people continue to suffer for years that might otherwise have had immediate relief. No. 2741.

You, too, have read these articles for a long time. While the success we had in this case is not a blanket guarantee for everyone, our method might succeed as it has with hundreds of others. Why not personally investigate our health service at the Hansen Chiropractic Clinic as this happy patient did. You have nothing to lose except your ill health.

CAPT. CARLTON BUTLER

Capt. Butler To Direct Services

Senior Capt. Carlton Butler, divisional evangelist for the Salvation Army, will come from Dallas to direct an evangelistic campaign here April 14-23, Capt James Jay has announced.

"For Christ—To Witness and Win" is the theme of the 1960-61 campaign.

Capt. Butler was formerly a minister of the Church of the Nazarene and was commissioned an officer in the Salvation Army in 1942. Since then, he has commanded Corps in Aiken S. C., Brunswick, Ga., Harlan, Ky., and Galveston.

He has been an evangelist for divisions in Virginia and southern West Virginia and has been Texas Divisional Evangelist since August, 1959.

Capt. Butler spent three years in military service with the U. S. Army at Fort Benning, Ga. He was married to the former Sallie Mae Cass in 1937 and they have three boys and two girls.

Tent meetings at West 5th and San Antonio streets will be held each evening at 7:30 and twice on Sundays, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. They are open to the public.

Ruler's Brother Plans Wedding

COUPEVILLE, Wash. (AP) — Thubten Norbu, 36, brother of the Dalai Lama of Tibet, and a 16-year-old Tibetan girl have obtained a marriage license, county records showed Monday.

The girl, Kunchok Sakyapa, and her parents are among a group of Tibetans helping with a University of Washington project to record Tibet's language and history.

Norbu has been writing and lecturing in this country since the Dalai Lama fled to India when Tibet was invaded by Chinese Communists.

CINEMA COMMENT

By Bob Smith

"One Hundred and One Dalmatians" is pure Disney. Which means you may thoroughly enjoy yourself, or needn't bother with it. Most people either like Disney's products or can't stand them.

Disney here takes an old and very common phenomenon—the barking of dogs at night—and parleys it into a humorous comment (from the dog's viewpoint) on the human race.

The story follows the kidnaping of a group of spotted Dalmatian puppies, whose hides are then destined for the fur coat market, and the military-like canine operations which result in tracking of the thieves and freeing of the pups.

This is Disney in the older fashion—plenty of gentle laughs but without any of the blood and gore that have marked some of his recent enterprises. Not that we have anything against a bit of gore occasionally in our entertainment, but it is refreshing to see a car go off a cliff with no more serious results to the occupants than a ruffled dignity.

Strangler May Stay In Custody

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The strangler of four women whose bodies were found buried in his patio 18 years ago is nearing the end of his prison sentence but he will not go free.

Dr. Carlos Pavon Abreu said a recent checkup showed Gregorio Cardenas Hernandez is still a dangerous mental case and should not be released. He will remain in prison or will be moved to a mental home.

Nuns Claim Cuba In Terror Drive

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)— Thirteen Roman Catholic nuns arriving from Cuba Monday said the Fidel Castro regime has subjected the island's clergy to constant insults and threats, the newspaper Prensa Libre reported.

The newspaper quoted the nuns in an interview as saying Castro recently prepared a decree ordering expulsion of religious orders from Cuba but that he has not signed out of fear it might touch off a general revolt.

The nuns, from Havana's Good Shepherd convent, claim about 20,000 Russians and Czechs control Castro's army, the paper said.
