Storms Take 32 Lives Over Country

Sparks Fly At Council Meet

Paving Debate Becomes Heated; Plumbers in Charge of Monopoly of Business Here.

Arguments, disputes, denials and general hubub descended in full force on the city council Monday night and combined to furnish one of the stormiest sessions of recent months. Vocal battles between opposing factions on a paving issue and some bitter complaints against the city plumbing inspector provided most of the fire works.

Over two hours were consumed in disposing of these matters after which the municipal waters quieted down and routine business was attended to.

Carrigan Shoots First.

The sparks began to fly and Judge A. H. Carrigan and Attorney C. C. McDonald debated the necessity of paving the 1100 block on Austin street. Judge Carrigan appeared in his own behalf and was supported by half a dozen other property owners in the same district, while Mr. McDonald represented S. M. Hodges, another property owner to be affected by the paving.

Mr. McDonald assailed the proposition on grounds that it was not a public necessity, that it would impose an undue hardship on Mr. Hodges and that under the plan now outlined, it was not in conformity with paving ideas heretofore carried out.

Mr. Hodges later took the floor and in a lengthy address defended his actions in opposing the pavings. He submitted figures purporting to show how use of concrete would mean a saving to himself of over $200, with a similar saving to other property owners.

Judge Carrigan, J. A. Richolt, Albert Zundelowits and one or two others countered with charges that efforts had been made for years to securing the improvement of this particular block and that the cost was not prohibitive.

Finally the matter talked itself out and the representatives left with no definite agreement.

Plumbers took the center of the stage and lost no time in opening war on the manner in which plumbing regulations were enforced locally.

Charge Plumbing Monopoly.

Led by Attorney F. G. Swanson, they openly charged that the city plumbing inspector "was showing discrimination against certain plumbers as against others," that he was "incompetent" and that "a plumbing monopoly existed in Wichita Falls."

This dispute arose over the installation of plumbing in a new business building now going up in the city. Cy Elliott, the plumber installing the work, complained that his job had not been approved by the inspector after once having been passed and that he had suffered delay and financial loss as a result.

He was joined by C. A. Kaufman and several other plumbers, all of whom charged that discrimination had been shown in the enforcement of the laws.

Battle of the Artists.

F. M. Rugely, city engineer under whose direction the plumbing inspector works, talked back at the accusers with some heat and this led to a technical discussion in which "vents," "Y's," "traps" and other trade termss came up. Commissioner Shepherd tried to fathom things by providing plenty of blank paper and a pencil with which the plumbers were asked to illustrate their points. The council table was soon littered with various diagrams and charts, but it failed to appease the wrath of the craftsmen.

This matter also was disposed of without settlement, but the council promised action later on.

Included in the routine business attended to was a consideration of the general hospital audit and passing a resolution declaring the necessity of improving two blocks on Avenue F between Monroe and Giddings, which means that the stretch will probably be paved in the near future.

Architect Resigns

TOPEKA, KANSAS, March 12—Ray L. Gamble, state architect, has tendered his resignation to Governor Davis to take effect April 1. Mr. Gamble will open an architects office here.

THE WEATHER

Maximum temperature: 66 degrees at 4 p. m.

Hot Water Bottle Blamed for Girl High Temperature

CHICAGO, March 12.—A flesh colored hot water bottle was the secret of a hoax by which Miss Evelyn Lyons of Escanaba has been able to convince doctors for three weeks that she had a temperature of 114 degrees or higher, although she was apparently in good health, it was asserted tonight by Dr. Morris Fishbein, associate editor of the Journal of the American Medical association, who related the investigation he made of the case. The woman who once had been a nurse concealed this small hot water bottle in her bed and through pretending fits of coughing and hysteria managed to place the thermometer bulb on the bottle long enough for it to reach the desired point, where it remaines in medical thermometers until shaken down.

FOUR HELD IN SAFE ROBBERY

No Trace Found Of Gas Money

Developments in the investigation of the Municipal Gas company safe robbery Saturday night in which over $7,000 was stolen remained practically unchanged Monday. Five young men were under arrest Monday morning but one was released later in the day and no information of value was obtained from the other four.

These are still in custody awaiting further questioning by city and county officials.

Cling to Theory.

Officers cling steadfastly to their theory that the gas company safe was not opened by professional yeggs. The discovery of over $2,000 worth of stolen checks, removed from the safe along with the missing cash and later found in a trash pile a block from the gas office, has practically disproved the original bandit story.

Believe Money Found.

It is further believed that the money was hidden in the rubbish heap, found by the men now in custody and disposed of in some manner by them. Stories related by three small boys who first located the missing checks have led police to this conclusion.

It was intimated Monday that complaints might be filed against the quartet now held in jail, but at a late hour Monday night Sheriff Murphy, Night Chief Glenn and others on the case declared that no charges had been filed

Elaborate Filling Station Is Planned

An elaborate new filling station to be erected at Tenth and Bluff streets is in prospect, it was learned Monday night when J. E. Ward appeared before the city council and asked for a building permit. He intimated that the structure might cost in the neighborhood of $10,000.

Three Unmasked Men Hold Up Wichita Garage

WICHITA, KANSAS, March 12.—Three masked men held up Ford L. Wright's garage at 6 o'clock this this morning while night and day shifts were changing, and took a ford car, escaped with $500 and cac. They overlookked $120 in cash register

Freight Trains Held Up Here By Train Inspector

Freight trains were held up for several hours and several engines were sent to the shops for minor repairs following a visit Monday afternoon of a federal locomotive inspector to the local yards of the M. K. T. railway. Passenger service was not interferred with and all trains, both passenger and freight, will be running today on schedule, it is announced.

Outgoing freight trains were delayed for an hour or more while the inspection of engines took place, following which repairs were ordered on some of the locomotives. No serious defects were found in any of the engines and they will be back in commission today, it is said.

Rotarians Ready For Journey To Beaumont Soon

Plans have been perfected by local Rotarians for the trip to Beaumont where the annual conference of the Thirteenth district of Rotary will be held March 18-21. A delegation of about 30, headed by P. A. Rogers, president of the local club, will attend the conference and present an invitation to htold the 1924 conference in this city.

A special car has been chartered for the local delegation, which will leave Wichita Falls Sunday afternoon on the Denver for Fort Worth. From there the delegation will travel over the Santa Fe to Beaumont. The return trip will be made over the same route arriving here on Thursday of next week.

Chicago Bank Loss Placed at $200,000

CHICAGO, March 12.—Loss in the Logan Square Trust and Savings Bank crash that caused its president, Fred W. Popp, Sr., to kill himself, Will reach at least $200,000, according to an official announcement by one of the directors to day.

"The developements indicate," he declared, "that the loss will wipe out the entire capital stock."

Examination of the books was proceeding this afternoon.

Lucille Paving Almost Assured

Resolution declaring the necessity of improving five blocks on Lucile street between Brook and Grace was passed Monday night by the city council, practicnlly insuring the paving of this stretch. The petition for the paving was submitted by representatives of property owners along the route, who stated that 46 out of less than 65 landholders to be affected had requested the improvement.

The petition asks that brick paving be provided in place of bitulithic or concrete.

Consider Threat Of Walton to Veto Bill

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 12.—Legislators considered today the threat of Governor J. C. Walton to veto the institutional supply bill unless they enact his farmer labor program into law.

Some anti-administration legislators were inclined to believe the threat was a bluff and urged that no heed be taken of it. Representatives from counties where important state institutions are located denounced the governor.

Gov. Davis Active

TOPEKA, Kan., March 12.—Governor Jonathan M. Davis threw another bomb shell into the legislature today when he prepared a message to the house of representatives charging that State Treasurer E. T. Thompson, republican, had been guilty of gross irregularities in the conduct of his office.

House Proposes, Senate Disposes As Regular Session Nears End

By Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald,
Record News Staff.

AUSTIN, Texas, March 12.—As the Thirty-eighth is nearing its end, the man with the bludgeon is in evidence. Representative Wright Patman of Cass county, the author of the intangible tax bill, constructed a dragnet that caught everything coming and going in the intangible wealth field. He fought off all amendments, and when the house with a wild whoop of delight, passed his measure, the handsome and curly headed young gentleman from Cass felt that he was sitting on the top of the world.

Now the Patman measure is dead. It was slain in the senate and by the senate. When it was called up for consideration, its enemies were ferocious, just like tigers are when fed on raw meat. There was a motion made to disembowel the Patman creation. It happened. The vote was 18 to 8.

The gentleman from Cass tumbled from the top of the world to his seat in the lower house. A hard fighter and an excellent loser, Patman of Cass says he's coming back in 1924

BELLEVUE MAN SHOOTS THREE PERSONS DEAD

Wife Of Son, Her Baby and Farmer Are Victims

BELLEVUE, Texas, March 12.—B. L. Gulledge, 55, Mrs. Kate Gulledge, his daughter-in-law, and the latter's 20-months-old baby girl are dead and Harry Bud, father of Mrs. Gulledge, is seriously wounded as a result of a tragic shooting at the Budd home here Monday morning. Mr. Gulledge emptied a high power Winchester rifle at members of the family and was later found dead in his own home, four miles east of town.

Kills Daughter-in-Law.

The shooting took place about 8 o'clock in the morning and is said to have been prompted by domestic difficulties. Mr. Gulledge, a farmer, broke open a door at the Budd home, hurried to a room where his daughter-in-law was lying on a sick bed and fired two shots through her body.

The baby was being cared for by one of Mrs. Gulledge's older daughters and was torn from the girl's arms, hurled on the bed with its mother and shot to death. Harry Budd, father of the dead woman, and Ed Gulledge, her husband, fled in terror as the apparently crazed man ran amuck through the home. Mr. Budd leaped through an open window amid a hail of lead from the Gulledge rifle.

One bullet struck him in the left hip, inflicting a serious wound.

Ed Gulledge and his three daughters escaped from the house and fled without injury.

Find Dead Body.

Officers from Bowie and Henrietta were summoned and immediately took up a search for the slayer. He was followed to his home, four miles east of Bellevue, where his lifeless body was found with a bullet wound through the head. A note was found on a table, evidently written by Mr. Gulledge just before he ended his life, saying that "I meant to kill Harry Budd."

Relatives and friends of Mr. Gulledge are unable to explain his action aside from admitting that there had been friction between him and Mr. Budd for some time over oil leases.

Funeral for all three of the victims of the tragedy will be held Tuesday. Mr. Gulledge leaves a wife and several children as survivors.

Runner Wounded In Fight With Official

SAN ANTONIO, March 12.—One rum runner was wounded and another was captured in a gun fight with Customs Inspector Marcus Hines, eight miles south of Donno, Texas, on the Mexican border, according to words received today by Ed Cotulla, special deputy of the customs department here. The battle took place late Saturday night.

According to details received here the smugglers were crossing the border when Hines came upon them. They refused to halt and the inspector opened fire, which was returned. One of the smugglers was seen to fall from his horse, but was assisted in his escape by the other three. Hines captured one of the fleeing quartet just as he was fording the Rio Grande. He had three gallons of mescal in his possession.

Fox Film Company Wins Court Litigation

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The Fox Film Corporation of New York, won in the supreme court of the United States today its claim to sole right of a movie play dramatization of "Over the Hills to the Poorhouse" Frederick M. Knowles, Joseph Klein, Joseph Morris, Louis Baret, Corse Payton stock company and John Kaiser contested this claim.

Priest Still Missing

ST. LOUIS, March 12.—The mystery clouding the disappearance of Rev. John A. Vraniak, pastor of a Catholic church at Virden, Ills., deepened today as police and friends had traced without avail every possible clew as to his whereabouts.

Although the priest dropped from sight a week ago today, no word has been received from him nor any tangible clew found.

The fear that Father Vraniak has met with foul play continues to prevail

Child's Head Severed By Heavy Gale Mishap

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio, March 12 The head of James Baker, 3, son of Mrs. Julia Baker, was severed this afternoon when he was blown by a heavy gale under a traction car. The child was playing on the sidewalk when the high windstorm struck the city.

City Budget For Next Year Cut By Council

Operating expenses of the city for the coming fiscal year are to be approximately $75,000 less than those of the 12-month period just closing, it was revealed Monday night when Mayor Collier submitted budgets to the city council. The totals as set forth in the report show the municipal machinery is to function on $787,938.01, as against approximately $863,000 in the past year.

Practically every department is to be operated on less money.

The total income of the city for the ensuing period is to be as follows:

Taxes, $450,000; water department operation, $210,000; miscellaneous, including police court fines, permits, etc., $76,500; unappropriated balance from previous year, $51,438.91; total, $787,938.91.

Isadora Duncan Says U. S. Persecutions Put Her Near Death

PARIS, March 12.—Isadora Duncan, famous classical dancer, who, it was recently reported, will be barred from entrance to the United States because of her criticism of American institutions, is ill in her apartment today. She sent word to International News Service she feared she was dying.

"America's persecutions have killed me," she said. "They say that I can never become a citizen of the United States. Then if I die here I will have my ashes carried to America and scattered to the winds over that country. I will not say whether my dear husband (Serge Essenin) has returned to me. I can only say that our love is stronger than ever."

Denies Poisoning Her Third Husband

CHICAGO, March 12.—Mrs. Tillie Klimek today took the stand in court and in sharp foreign accents denied the state's charge that she poisoned her third husband to death. She emphatically denied testimony of state witnesses that she had trimmed a hat with crepe to have it ready when one of the husbands died.

Mrs. Klimek and her cousin, Mrs. Nellie Koulik, are charged with murdering their husbands, sweethearts and children by arsenic poisoning.

Mrs. Koulik is to be tried later.

The case of Mrs. Klimek is expected to go to the jury late today or tomorrow.

Wants $25,000,000 Spent on Navy

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Expenditure of $25,000,000 a year during the next five years for the army air service alone is vital to the safety of the United States, J. Mayhew Wainwright, retiring assistant secretary of war, declared today in his final report to Secretary Weeks.

Within two years, Wainwright asserted the air service will have on hand less than one half the number of aircraft necessary for normal peace time work and with the airplane industry virtually extinguished it would require a year to create the industry anew to produce materials sufficient to meet an emergency.

Foster Trial Begins

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., March 12.—The trial of William Z. Foster, noted radical, under the Michigan syndicalism laws, was begun here today in Berrien county circuit court. Prospective jurors were questioned at length concerning radical literature which the state charges was sent to residents of the county.

Confesses to Murder

COLLINSVILLE, Ills., March 12. Surrendering to the police here today felix Sacknewic, 42 years old, confessed that he shot and killed Jose Poose, 52 years old, last night dismembered the body and threw it into Canteen creek, on the eastern edge of this town.

A sack containing the legs of the slain man was found in the creek today.

Jap Cabinet Promises Decision on Treaty

TOKIO, March 12.—The cabinet in session this afternoon promised an announcement of its position on China's demands for the abrogation of the treaty of 1915 which embodied the famous "12 demands" made upon China by Japan.

The attitude of Japan is semi-officially announced as a positive refusal and the cabinet's discussion is understood to revolve merely on a matter of wording of the refusal.

Charges Texas Lumberman Owes Her For Being His Companion

Miss Olga Ralph.

Who startled Texas the other day when she filed suit against John Henry Kirby, 63, millionaire Texas lumberman of Houston and leader of the southern tariff congress. She alleged that Kirby agreed to pay her $6,000 and a monthly salary of $500 to be his "companion and secretary" and that she changed her name to Kirby to be able to travel with him as his daughter. Kirby failed to pay the monthly salary, she claims, and so she sued.

Frisco Consolidation Bill Is Threatened

AUSTIN, March 12.—An effort to kill the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad consolidation bill developed in the senate this afternoon when the measure was called up for consideration. The move was made by Senator Fairchild of Lufkin, who talked in opposition to the measure for more than an hour and until the senate was automatically adjourned under a rule recently adopted by the senate. Unless the senate rule requiring bills to lay on the table for three days is suspended tomorrow, the measure will fail to pass since no measure can be placed on final passage in either branch until after tomorrow noon—24 hours before a final adjournment.

It had not been expected the consolidation bill would draw opposition as amended in the house with the provision prohibiting the consolidating lines from removing from Palestine the general office and shops of the I. G. N. lines.

Condition of Bishop Tuttle Not Alarming

ST. LOUIS, March 12.—No alarm was felt today over the condition of Bishop D. S. Tuttle, senior bishop in the Episcopal church, who was stricken several days ago with an attack of bronchial trouble. At his residence in this city it was reported he had passed a comfortable night and was resting easy.

House Asks Neff To Delay Extra Session a Month

AUSTIN, March 12.—Before adjourning tonight the house passed by vote of 58 to 51 the senate concurrent resolution calling upon Governor Neff to withhold his proclamation calling a special session for at least 30 days after the close of the regular session. The resolution early this afternoon was passed in the senate by vote of 18 to 6. It now goes to the chief executive for his consideration.

Fails in Effort To Escape Noose

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—There is no appeal for a convicted murderer outside of the court of original jurisdiction aside from an appeal to executive clemency, a decision of the supreme court in effect held today.

Ullah Mohammed, awaiting hanging at San Quentin, was reprieved at the last moment a few weeks ago when his attorney secured an injunction from Superior Court Judge Troutt preventing the hanging.

Bankers Who Put Begley in Prison Want "Missouri Rice King" Freed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 12.—Three years ago George Begley, Jr., was "rice king" of southeast of Missouri. Today he is a commissary clerk in the Missouri state penitentiary. From one of the wealthiest and most respected men in the southeast section of the state he fell to the position of prisoner in the state penitentiary. He lost all his worldly goods, lost even his wife, for a year ago she divorced him on the grounds that he was a convicted criminal, but he still retains that which made him one of the outstanding men of his portion of the state—his initiative and self-respect.

Prospered From First

Several years ago Begley conceived the idea of growing rice on the waste swamp lands of Southeast Missouri. People called him "crazy." But he persisted and at the age of 28 owned approximately 1,500 acres in rice and a 340 acre stock farm. His wealth was rated well into the hundreds of thousands. He continued to expand his holdings and to improve them. A bad year came and he lost money and finally in desperation he borrowed a large amount of money from a St. Louis bank on his personal note to which it was alleged he forged the indorsement of his mother-in-law and father. When it came due he was unable to pay and he was "sent up" for 10 years, charged with forgery. His property was all taken to pay his debt.

May Get New Chance

But Begley may have another chance, prison officials said today. His application for parole was up for consideration today before the state board of pardons and paroles. Hundreds of petitions have been filed with the board by citizens of Poplar Bluff, his former home, asking for clemency. Even bankers who are his creditors are here in his behalf, claiming if Begley is set free "we know he will pay us all."

SOUTH SUFFERS MOST WITH TWO TOWNS WRECKED

Huge Property Loss Reported From All Sections

CHICAGO, March 12.—Thirty-two deaths were caused by the storm which swept the country from the Rocky mountains to the Appalachian range Sunday night and early today. Scores were injured and the property damage is expected to run into the millions.

Snow and rain accompanied by a stiff wind which in some localities reached a velocity of 80 miles an hour, took lives, wrecked buildings and property and crippled transportation and communication systems.

Two Towns Wrecked.

The South suffered most, two towns in Tennessee being wrecked and 16 lives lost. Fifteen were reported killed at Pinson, Tenn., and one at Deanberg. Two relief trains, one with eight physicians and a second with 50 relief workers, were dispatched from Jackson to Pinson.

Nine deaths were caused by the storm in central Kentucky. Three persons were reported killed at Richmond when the wind lifted a small farm house with three adults and 10 children, carried it 50 yards and hurled it to the ground in splinters.

School Child Killed.

Two were killed at Bowling Green, three at South Union, and a 9-year-old-boy killed and five other children were injured at South Portsmouth, when the roof was blown from a high school building into the yard where the children were playing.

Other reported deaths include two at Chicago, one at Steubenville, O., one at Massilon, O., one at Greenwood, Miss., one at El Dorado, Ark., and one at Milwaukee.

Heavy Property Damage.

Heavy property damage accompanied the storm in all these places. In some sections the damage was estimated at $500,000 to $1,000,000, some towns were completely cut off from communication, while in some instances a single wire furnished the only means of communication. Damage to wire service was general throughout the central section of the country. Some industries were forced to suspend on account of lack of electric power.

Train service was generally crippled. In some instances where trains were reported lost and wire communication was not to be obtained, radio was used to report the whereabouts of the trains.

Involves "Dope Ring"

ALBANY, N. Y., March 12.—A Paterson, N. J., "dope ring" was linked today with the kidnaping of Leopold Minkin, 3-year-old son of City Court Judge Leopold Minkin, in a confession by Angelina Tavano, 19, who was arrested late Saturday afternoon in New Burgh, N. Y., with the boy.

Police are bending every effort to locate Joe Kenney, alleged dope peddler of Paterson, who is charged by the girl with being responsible for the kidnaping.

Perry Named Trustee Of Defunct Concern

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 12.—J. W. Perry was today unanimously elected trustee of the Houston Fible and company estate at a meeting of creditors of the defunct concern in federal court here.

As trustee, Mr. Perry will have charge of the distribution of $4,130,000 to 1,100 of the 1,400 creditors realized from sale of assets and securities of the company.

Tillman Co. Towns In Election Campaigns

WOMEN CONTEST AT FREDERICK

Burkburnett Personals

BURKBURNETT, March 12.—On Saturday afternoon the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Ellis was the scene of a happy gathering of children in honor of their son, John Ellis' eighth birthday.

The little folks played jolly games and had a merry time. The hostess was assisted in the merry making by Mrs. C. R. Sabatoni. Eskimo pie and the birthday cake was served while every child was favored with an Easter basket of candy and a big play ball to "take home and keep."

The guests were Christine Boase, Evelyn Montgomery, Mary Moody, Aurebelie Kirby, Thelma Joe Henderson, Freddie Dickson, Douglas Gant, Ted Harwell and Dennis Key.

Dr. and Mrs. O. T. Kimbrough and little daughter, Peggy Gene, left Sunday for a week or ten day stay among relatives in Greenville, Dallas and Fort Worth. The trip was made overland in their car.

St. Patrick's Party.

Next Saturday evening the young girls of the Loyal King's Daughters society, of the Central Christian church, will entertain with a St. Patrick's party at the home of Miss Harriett Roe, 616 College street at 8:00 o'clock.

Stitch and Chatter.

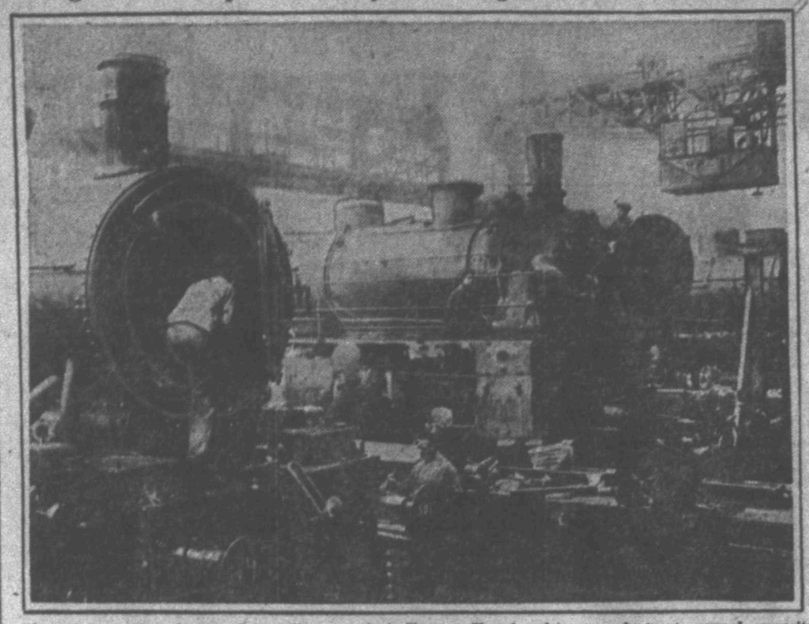

A number of important matters were discussed by the Stitch and Clatter club at their last meeting, which was held at the home of Mrs. Jess Griffin. The sweet pea was chosen as the club flower, and pink and green, as the club colors. Plans were also considered whereby funds could be raised and donated to the community building, or some other community cause.

The women plied busy needles as the plans were discussed informally, and the hours were spent in pleasant social exchange, which was concluded with a plate luncheon, served by the hostess.

The following members were in attendance: Mrs. Cowles, Mrs. Holman, Mrs. Reed, Mrs. Burgess, Mrs. Kimbrough, and the visitors were Mrs. Frank Ghormley, Mrs. Ed White, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Graham.

The next meeting of the Stitch and Clatter club will be March 16th, with Mrs. J. A. Reed, on the Humble Lease, as hostess.

Taking Essen Shops Was Easy, Running Them Proves Real Task

View of locomotive plant in famous Krupp works in Essen as French seek to run plant at normal capacity.

For many years French militarists and industrialists cast covetous eyes on the famous and gigantic Krupp works at Essen, Germany. When the occupation of the Ruhr was accomplished the French took possession of Essen. That was easy. But it has been another matter to make the famous plant produce equipment at normal capacity under direction of French experts. The work has been hampered by strikes and "passive resistance" by the workers.

House Proposes, Senate Disposes As Regular Session Nears Close

to put over an intangible tax measure and he hopes that the people will elect 31 senators who are favorable to the Cass county tax proposition.

Price Was Put Away.

And there is Representative Price, who is a neighbor of Representative Patman. His bill to tax vendor's lien notes never reached the senate. It was beheaded in the house. Voracious reformers who are members of the house declared that the principle of the thing was alright, but there was a vast difference between principle and practice. Representative Dinkle of Hunt jumped into statewide fame when he introduced his state income tax bill, but Dinkle never was given an opportunity to sit on the top of the world. That is the distinction enjoyed by Patman alone. Dinkle's bill was chloroformed first in order to give it a painless death and then its enemies strangled it. Slayers of the bill admitted that the principle of the thing was all right, but as the federal government was getting $75,000,000 a year out of the pockets of Texas in the shape of income tax money, it would not be wise at this time to bleed Mr. Common People either white or to death.

Representative Dinkle hopes to reinforce his state income tax bill at the special session and Representative Patman hopes to introduce a state tax income proposition that will take out of the pockets of the people just half what they pay every year to the federal government. If the Patman idea prevails what would the tax spenders do with thirty-five millions? This would be sufficient to support thirty-five additional penitentiaries and provide for yearly deficits.

Think of Sulphur.

Representative Melson put over a measure providing for a gross production tax on sulphur. Texas is one of the greatest of all sulphur producing countries. See what the senate did to the sulphur bill.

Tax on Crude.

Representative Roy C. Coffee put over his 3 per cent gross production tax on crude petroleum. His senatorial neighbors cut it to 2 per cent. Coffee and the house conferees swear that it will be 3 per cent or nothing. They have until this Tuesday to make up their minds. If the bill fails it will bob up again at the special session, and the Coffeeites say that they will make it 5 per cent instead of 3 per cent. There is said to be a gentleman's agreement in the pocket of the senator and this agreement carries the signatures of 15 senators and all pledged to vote for a 3 per cent tax on gross production of crude petroleum and no more.

Tax On Gasoline.

Representative Cowen's bill providing for a gasoline tax of one cent per gallon went over in a jiffy, and the senate amended the bill by making it two cents per gallon instead of one. This is a swell revenue raiser, and the owners of motor vehicles are going to pay the freight. There does not appear to be even mild opposition to the measure and it is looked upon as a settled taxation issue, almost ready for the governor unless Senator Davis sets it back to one cent.

Then there is the motor vehicle tax bill. It is a big revenue raiser and the state highways need the money. Its friends in the house and the senate say it is a cinch and that the governor is certain to sign it.

Speaking of Smith.

Representative Smith has a state inheritance tax bill, somewhere on the way. It has been patched and amended and recalled and reintroduced and if it gets by it will be a twentieth century legislative miracle. Its author says it will place $1,500,000 in the state treasury every year, and the governor is of the opinion that it would make a very respectable revenue raiser, and so it goes, with the house proposing and the senate disposing, three daily sessions and the end of the regular session coming at the hour of high noon, Wednesday, March 14.

Representative Jacks and a dozen others are responsible for the Jacks' bill. This bill provides that papers having $10,000 subject to execution are not required to give bond to such paper as a circulation of 5,000 or more. Papers having the required circulation, but not the required exemptions, must give bond according to circulation, in any amount ranging from $5,000 to $25,000.

Jacks' Bill.

This Jacks bill applies to all publications published daily or weekly. That would include church papers, farm papers, labor papers, industrial papers, school papers, and weekly or daily publications of all kinds, and the Jacks measure applies only to daily and weekly newspapers. It does not apply to semi-weekly, semi-monthly or monthly publications, nor to papers of any stated period of issue except daily or weekly.

"Therefore," remarked a critic of the bill, "A daily or weekly newspaper that wanted to carry on a slanderous campaign could inspire the publication of a semi-weekly, tri-weekly, monthly, or semi-monthly, and where would your proposed bill apply?

Speaking of the Jacks' measure, John A. Biggers said to the writer, "The present libel laws of Texas place all the burden of truth on the defendant and this bill would multiply the burden of truth in the matter of circulation in case of hostile attack. In all other matters, the burden of truth is on the plaintiff or complained party. Civil libel suits are 90 per cent blackmail and the criminal libel laws give any person sufficient revenge and protection. The criminal and civil libel laws now have the mouths of newspapers almost hermetically sealed."

Kemp Boulevard Residents Protest Altitude of Tracks

Property owners on Kemp Boulevard are to hold a meeting with representatives of the Wichita Falls Traction company tonight for the purpose of voicing protests against the altitude of street car tracts along the boulevard. The meeting will be held at 5:30 in the office of N. M. Clifford at the Security National bank.

The protest has been inspired by the fact that every rainy spell floods the front yards of Kemp Boulevard homes facing the street car tracks. It is claimed that the rails are laid on an elevation in the middle of the street, with the roadway on each side sloping down into the lawns along the route.

Navy in Drive To Build Up Its Morale

WASHINGTON, March 12—Nearly 7,000 deserters and discharges "without honor" from the United States navy in the last eight months, will lead to vigorious steps by the navy department to check an aparent breakdown of morale among the enlisted personnel, it was learned officially this afternoon.

'BIGGEST NOISE' IS KIWANIS CLUB

So Speaker Says At Ladies Night

"Kiwanis is an Indian word meaning the biggest noise up the creek" is the definition of Kiwanis given by Judge John C. Kay, who was the speaker at the annual ladies' night dinner of the local Kiwanis club held at the parish house of the Episcopal church Monday evening. The entire membership of the club and their ladies were in attendance at the dinner which was served by the Women's Guild. A delightful entertainment program was rendered and greatly enjoyed by those present.

"We Build" Is Motto

"We Build," the motto of the Kiwanis International, was the subject of Judge Kay's talk and the necessity of building a better government and a higher civilization through the building of character and manhood and the co-ordinated effort of the organizations that so build was stressed by the speaker.

"It is all right to build cities, but cities perish," said Judge Kay. "Good government is built but it is not perfect, nothing is perfect because we are imperfect, the scaffolding is never torn down and we are forever trying to improve and build better. To overcome this imperfection we are given character. An advancement in character means an advancement in civilization.

Should Begin At Home

"How can we build? By beginning at home. In Wichita Falls we have built a city too precious to waste on shiftless people, we must build manhood and character. That means we must have the united effort of the schools, churches, clubs and other character building institutions as well as the earnest effort of every individual. It all comes back to the individual. Me, I myself, must build and make the best citizen I know how. These things make for better government and higher civilization."

Mrs. Felix Collard was in charge of the entertainment program which was opened with a vocal solo by W. E. Young with Mrs. Collard at the piano.

Other features were: reading depicting the trials of a young housewife with her monthly bills, by Mrs. T. A. Hicks; an interpretive dance by Miss Leslie Davis, with Miss Inez Adrian at the piano two selections by an instrumental trio composed of Mrs. T. Bruce Greenwood, violin, Miss Annette Walsh, piano, and M. A. Ellis, cello.

Rain in Oklahoma Is Worth Millions

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 12.—Rain which fell over the week end was worth millions to wheat growers of the state, John A. Whitehurst, state president of the board of agriculture, said today.

Precipitation ranging from 1 to 2 inches in different sections fell over a period of 16 hours.

Former Justice Of the Peace At Wichita Is Dead

J. F. (Daddy) Maxwell, former justice of the peace and police officer, died at the family residence 1408 Fourteenth street, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. He was 68 years old and is survived by a wife, five children and two grandchildren. Funeral arrangements have not been completed, pending the arrival of a daughter from Kansas City.

"Daddy" Maxwell, as he was affectionately called by all who knew him, had been a resident of Wichita Falls for 21 years. He was a member of the police force stationed at the city hall for a number of years, later becoming desk sergeant. For over a year he was justice of the peace for precinct No. 2, and was well known to the citizens of the city and county.

The body is being held by the Merkle-Lunn undertaking establishment until funeral arrangements can be made.

W. W. CUMMINS

W. W. Cummins, 65, died Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at a local hospital. The body will be shipped by Merkle-Lunn Tuesday morning to Littlefield, Texas, for burial.

AVERY CARTER

Avery Carter, 57, died at the General hospital Monday morning at 7 o'clock. The body was shipped Monday afternoon by Merkle-Lunn undertaking establishment to his old home in Marion, N. C., for burial. His widow accompanied the body.

HIGHLAND HEIGHTS LEAGUE BEGIN CLEAN-UP

Plans for the clean-up campaign have been perfected by the Highland Heights Civic league and every housewife in this district which is bound by Avenue G to the city limts, to Indan Heights, Fairview, and east to Monroe, are requested to place their cans in the alleys and burn all trash that can be burned. Hauling of the cans will begin next week and men will haul them away to the dumping grounds. Any one seeing cans dumped on a vacant lot, are requested to call phone 5925, that the matter may be reported to the proper authorities.

The plant exchange will be held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Lee Downs on Grant street, and those having seeds or plants to exchange are asked to bring them.

SUZETTE PAULL HOSTESS AT BIRTHDAY PARTY

Little Miss Susette Paull, entertained a group of her friends at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Paull, 1816 Tenth street Saturday afternoon when she very fittingly celebrated her fifth birthday. The table was beautifully decorated in the pastel shades and motifs suggestive of the approach of Easter, and the birthday cake and refreshment plate also carried out the idea.

Games were enjoyed throughout the afternoon, and of special interest was the fish-pond where each small gueht drew out a pretty favor.

Mrs. Paull was assisted in entertaining the guests by Mrs. Harry McLaughlin. Those present were: John O'Neil, Jr., Hal Doran, Mary Moore, Brown, Roland Brown, Edith Brown, Oral Jones, Martha Morrison, Battye Lindsay, Dorothy Bennett, Rawlings Paull and Janet Sims.

CROW-STEWART NUPTIALS SOLEMNIZED

A wedding of interest to a large group of friends of both bride and groom was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of Rev. A. Alexander, when Miss Imogene Crow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Crow, became the bride of R. E. Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Stewart, the Rev. Alexander officiating

The bride wore an attractive poiret twill traveling gown of navy blue with accessories to harmonize.

Both young people are popular in this city, where the groom is connected with the Texhoma company.

After a short wedding tour, they will be at home here.

Sunday at the noon hour, a delicious wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride to the following relatives: Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Stewart, brother of the groom; and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Stewart, parents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Pace of Kemp City, sister of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hatton of Iowa Park, also a sister of the bride and Misses Cuba, Florence and Earliene Crow and Messrs. Ted and Elmer Crow, sisters and brothers of the bride.

An informal musical program was enjoyed during the afternoon.

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE.

The influences of today can not be regarded as either very good or very adverse. It, therefore, will be conducive to your general well-being if you endeavor to maintain an atmosphere of calm and serenity.

One of the great dangers to be avoided at all times by Pisces subjects is the caviling over trifles and the worrying over little details. You are very disposed to "strain at a gnat, and swallow a camel." There is nothing more infelictous, nothing which causes more unpleasantness to those around you and to yourself, than the natural disposition on your part to overlook the big things of life and to work yourself into a state of feverish anxiety over matters that do not amount to "a row of pins."

This does not mean to say that meticulous care should not be exercised by you in everything that you do, but it does mean that you should not attach more importance to the little things of life than to life itself.

In the home especially, and in the care of children, troubles are caused and dispositions soured by emphasizing the infinitesimal incidents of every day life. Children, up to a certain age, must necessarily come to the conclusion that the outstanding word in the English vocabulary is "DON'T," as, in the average home, the child hears this every minute of the day!

The benefit of a child's knowing what it should not do, can not be gainsaid, but in stressing to such a degree the little things that a child should not do, the urge to instruct it in the real things that it should do is overlooked.

The relations between husband and wife are often disturbed by too much fault finding, by too much criticism of little weaknesses, of slight shortcomings which could easily be overlooked if a broader view of life was taken.

Among those born today were:

In 1834, Charles Hallock, naturalist and author. In 1841, Joseph K. Emmet, actor.

Let Radio Plan Your Menus For the Week

If the tired business man wants to sit and listen in on his radio all evening just let him do it, for one broadcasting station has instituted a morning program for women only, particularly the busy housewife. Here is the daily schedule which includes everything from a Bible lesson for the busy mother who teaches Sunday school to the daily menu hint.

9:15 a. m. daily Bible lesson.

9:25 daily fashiongram.

10:00 musical program.

10:20 U. S. Weather reports.

10:40 Menu for luncheon, dinner and breakfast.

10:45 Daily tested recipe.

Just tune in some morning and listen to the WHN broadcasting station, Ridgewood, New York City.

To dry curtains—To do away with the clumsy curtain stretcher, when drying net curtains with no scallops, run rods in the top and bottom hems, hang the curtains at the window in the approved fashion and fasten the lower edge down under two nails driven under each end of the sill. Pull to the desired width and allow to dry.

Paraffin in the Kitchen—Keep a cup of shaved paraffin in an enamel cup on the back of the stove where it it ready to be melted at an instant's notice. When you are through with olive oils or flavoring extracts of any sort cork the bottles and dip the heads of the bottles into slightly cooled wax, in this way preserving the strength.

Turning Heavy Mattresses—Fasten loops made by doubling strong material to the corners of your heavy mattresses and you will find it possible to turn them without a struggle to take them out of doors for airing and brushing.

To Polish Furniture—Take two chamois skins; soak one in soapy and lukewarm water for several hours. Then take the same one and lukewarm water and a little Ivory soap and polish with the other chamois. It not only is a cheap polish but protects your furniture and the dust will not adhere to the furniture.

For the Kiddies—In corner of play room keep a large carton filled with empty baking powder and cocoa boxes, etc. On rainy days a very real looking store is soon set up which will amuse the children for hours.

A Day's Baking—Here is what an automatic electric oven in a large city cafeteria produces in the course of a day's work. Three hundred pies of eight varieties, 125 dozen rolls, sixteen assorted cakes, 20 dozen cookies, 20 dozen cup cakes, 50 Martha Washington pies and seven kinds of hot bread.

MRS. BUTLER'S TERRIBLE PAINS

Vanished After Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

W. Philadelphia, Pa. — "When I cleaned house last April I must have overlifted, for after that I had pains and aches all the time and was so discouraged I could hardly do my own housework, and I could not carry a basket of groceries from the store nor walk even four or five squares without getting terrible pains in my back and abdomen and lower limbs. I went to visit a friend in Mt. Holly, N. J., and she said, 'Mrs. Butler, why don't you take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' My husband said that if it did her so much good for the same trouble, I should try it. So I have taken it and it is doing me good. Whenever I feel heavy or bad, it puts me right on my feet again. I am able to do my work with pleasure and am getting strong and stout."—Mrs. CHARLES BUTLER, 1233 S. Hanson St., W. Philadelphia, Pa.

BRIDGE PROJECT SURVEY DROPPED

Oklahoma Fails To Co-Operate

Order rescinding their instructions to the county engineer to make a survey of the proposed free Red River bridge site near Burkburnett, was passed Monday by the county commissioners court when it was reported that no promise could be obtained as to when action would be taken by authorities in co-operating on the bridge matter.

For the time being, Wichita county will drop the proposition.

At its meeting last Monday, the commissioners were requested by chamber of commerce representatives to bear the expense of a survey and soundings at the proposed site. This was agreed to and orders to this effect issued to the county engineer. During the week, however, it was learned that such action was not being taken by Oklahoma.

With that in view, it was deemed advisable to postpone further action.

Your Heart and Home Problems Solved By Elizabeth Thompsun

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: Please tell me if it is permissable for the hostess to sit at the table when she is entertaining gentlemen at a stag party for her husband?

I would much prefer to wait on table and serve the courses when they are ready than to sit at the table, as I think men like to talk over things. We have no help.

ARDENT ADMIRER.

It would be permissible, but not necessary. I think you are right that the men would enjoy being alone.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I read in youryour column about the woman who signed her name "Particular Housekeeper," and thought that if she would want to put the little girl out in a country home perhaps she would let me try her. I live on a farm about five miles out of town. We are just a young couple and have no children. We both love children. Perhaps when the roads get a little better they might drive out to see us.

MRS. C. H.

I have not the address of "Particular Housekeeper," but if she sends it to me I will see that she receives your letter, offering assistance. Thank you so much for your interest.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: We are two young girls in our teens and we are in love with two young men, but our parents do not allow us to go out to parties, dances or theatres with our boy friends.

Please advise us what to do. Is it right that our parents should keep us in all the time and not let us have company with our boy friends? We sometimes go out with them but against the will of our parents.

Would it be wrong if we wrote to them occasionally?

PEG AND GEE.

You have not told definitely your ages. If you are in your early teens your parents are quite right in their stand. But if you are 18 or 19 they certainly ought to let you have young men friends.

Do not correspond against your parents' wishes unless you are of age.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am 17 years old and am in love with my sister's friend who is five years my senior. At times when my sister does not feel inclined to go out with him he takes me instead and often the three of us go together. He seems to have no preference. His attitude toward us causes rather ill-feeling between my sister and me, since we both care for him.

Last evening he took me to the theatre and asked me to kiss him good night. Before that I had tried to forget that I loved him but that kiss made me see how impossible it is to forget. I shall always love him. Which do you think should give him up.

BOBBIE.

If either of you give up the young man, you ought to do it of course. In the first place it would have been much better if you had stayed out on the matter and not permitted yourself to take a lively interest in some one who meant a lot to your sister. Now that the thing has gone so far, however, the mater really rests in the choice of the young man himself. Do not try to rival your sister or to cheat her out of something that belongs to her. When the young man calls on her, leave the room and do no interfere with her pleasure. Also I would not advise you to go along when he takes her places.

RED PEPPERS STOP PAIN OF RHEUMATISM

When you are suffering with rheumatism so you can hardly get around just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known.

Nothing has such concentrating, penetrating heat as red peppers. Instant relief. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Frees the blood circulation, breaks up the congestion—and the old rheumatism torture is gone.

Rowels Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, costs little at any drug store. Get a jar at once. Use it for lumbago, neuritis, backache, stiff neck, sore muscles, cold in chest. Almost instant relief awayts you. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowels on each package.—Adv.

ACID IS CAUSE OF INDIGESTION

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid Is Cause of Indigestion

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation; then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases, which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus prompts a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of stomach sufferers with excellent results. —Adv.

Winds Conspire Against Bury Plan For Reception

BURKBURNETT, March 12—The heavy winds of Sunday entirely destroyed the work of the city park commission, when all the trees recently planted at the city park were blown down. They will be re-planted as soon as weather permits.

The trees were part of a large consignment brought here for planting, following a beautification campaign fostered by the chamber of commerce and the several organised clubs of the city. Others will be planted soon, in all parts of the city.

Auto Wrecked On Road Near Electra

ELECTRA, March 12.—A Ford car was badly wrecked about five miles east of this place yesterday when it was driven into the ditch as the driver stopped to avoid crossing the track of the eastbound train. No one was injured, and the driver, whose identity is not known, left the car at the roadside, minus both front wheels. It is thought that the car belongs to a local man.

Wife Would Not Support Him; Sues

BALTIMORE, March 1' —The usual order was reversed when Joe Vasalles, 33, asked a warrant charging his wife with desertion and nonsupport. "She left me with no one to help care for me," he protested. At loss to understand justice which relieves the wife of responsibility for domestic finances, the Lithuanian grumbled his way out when his plea was denied.

Ft. Worth Woman Well and Happy

Mrs. Kidd Restored to Health By Taking Stella Vitae Treatment

"Honestly, I felt that life was not worth living until I got hold of this Stella Vitae; now all is joy and happiness with me and I can't praise it enough for the good it has done me," said Mrs. A. C. Kidd, 930 S. Main street, Fort Worth, Texas.

"Up to the time I began taking Stella Vitae my periods were very irregular and I would sometimes go for a long time without their appearing. I suffered some from dull headaches and want of energy—just moped around with no ambition and took little interest in things.

"My condition preyed on my mind and made me nervous. People thought I was sensitive and high-strung, but it was my nerves. Why sometimes I would just break down and cry without any cause whatever except my nervouseness.

"I was told I needed a tonic and took several kinds that were recommended to me, but they didn't do me any good. Finally I heard about Stella Vitae being specially made for women's troubles, and decided to try it. I can truthfully say it has greatly benefited me in every way. My periods are regular, my nerves are steady as a die and I never suffer the least bit like I did before. I am glad to recommend Stella Vitae to any woman who may be suffering like I was, for I know it will do her good as it has me."

Note—Stella Vitae may be obtained from any druggist and is sold upon the positive guarantee that the purchase price will be refunded if it fails to bring relief.—Adv.

LADY ALICE'S TRIALS.

Former Congresslady Alice Robertson of Oklahoma has been sued for $10,000 damages for alleged defamation of character by Benjamin E. Cook, her former secretary. Former Congresslady Robertson in the years ago was making money as a cafe proprietor. She invaded the political arena and won a seat in congress in a district regarded as safe for the democratic party by a majority ranging from five to seven thousand.

Democrats were mad at Wilson, mad at the world, mad at the boll weevil, mad at the high taxes, mad because their whiskey had been shut off and they voted for Harding or did not vote at all.

Two years later they returned to the Donkey reservation, defeated Congresslady Robertson for re-election, and scalped every republican office holder in their district. Now the good woman must go back to her farm, which has been taken over by Johnson grass and weeds, her former secretary has sued her for slander, and the women politicians of the country dislike her because she had the nerve to vote against the Shepherd-Towner bill.

Politics is a costly game, unless the player happens to be hypocrite or a crook, and it is costly then for the reason that in time the people get on to the crook or the hypocrite and vote for a change.

This spinster wonder of Oklahoma is neither a crook nor a hypocrite; she is a very humane, very intelligent, and very level headed citizen of Oklahoma.

EVOLUTION OF HARDING

President Harding is for American representation in the world court for the settlement of disputes between nations and to insure the peace of the world. Senator Harding was an opponent of the Versailles treaty and the league of nations covenant as a world court or international tribunal for the settlement of internations disputes.

President Harding is an evolutionist and before the coming of the campaign of 1924 he may blossom as a champion of a league of nations, but not the league given to mankind by Woodrow Wilson with the hope that it would usher in an era of universal justice.

It is impossible for a man with a brain and a conscience to stand still.

DEFEATS FOR LAW

British by-elections are reverses for the Bonar Law government. Two of these elections were held last week. A labor candidate won in one district and a liberal candidate in another.

Harcourt Johnston was the winner of the Liberal Victory. He is a half brother of Jonathan and half John Bull, and nephew of Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania. Lloyd George went down in defeat, for the reason that the heavy Tories deserted the coalition or George government.

Notwithstanding this, the little Welshman is the ablest, the most resourceful, and the most courageous of all British statesmen or politicians. He began life a radical. He may come back and close his career as the radical chieftan of the British labor party. Lloyd George moves just as fast as the procession moves and he never looks behind.

UNCOMMON SENSE

By JOHN BLAKE

THE FAIR WEATHER SAILOR.

Twenty years ago a young man of ability and promise said to the writer:

"I have arranged my life so that it will be free from annoyance. When I find I am in unpleasant surroundings, I shall change them. It doesn't pay to be in hot water all the time I have found that out and I'm going to be immune from it thereafter.

This optimistic youth dropped out of sight shortly after he made this sage observation.

When the writer last heard of him, some three years ago, he was serving a time in a penitentiary. His surroundings were probably unpleasant, and full of annoyances, but he will have considerable trouble to change them.

All that was the matter with this lad was cowardice.

He would meet no responsibility, because it was hard to bear.

He would make no important decisions in any position, because he did not dare face the consequences of a wrong decision.

And his search for "the easiest way" landed him eventually into the hardest and most difficult way.

He lost one job after another because he would threaten to quit at the first disagreeable happening, and threatening to quit is always a perilous proceeding.

His ability got him new positions, but he never held them long.

And at last, so wedded was he to the idea that living without trouble was the true philosophy of life, that he went into a get-rich-quick scheme, sold some stock that was worthless to a man who didn't know it was worthless, and was tried and sent to jail as a swindler.

It is always the chap who tries to get away from annoyance, rather than meet it and dispose of it, who makes the hardest road for himself.

The fair weather sailor is happy as long as his kind of meteorological conditions last, but they never last very long.

Sooner or later he gets caught in a storm, and then, because he has had no experience with storms, he doesn't know how to handle his craft.

There are many hulks rotting on the beaches which have been navigated to their destruction by fair weather sailors.

And the penitentiaries and poor houses are filled with men who like this unfortunate friend of mine, thought that the easiest way to live was the best and safest.

HARVEY AND BALFOUR

Lord Balfour has answered Ambassador George Harvey. The noble lord says that from a strictly commercial viewpoint Ambassador Harvey's statement might be correct, but that he for one thinks less of the commercial view of the deal.

An artful dodger is Balfour. He first declared that the United States government refused to advance loans to certain European allies unless Great Britain guaranteed their payment. Ambassador Harvey entered a flat and abrupt denial to the Balfour statement.

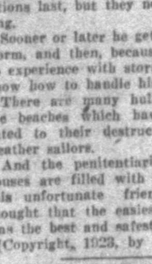

It was a financial transaction and from the financial commercial point of view Ambassador Harvey is eminently correct. The United States government loaned nine billion dollard to Great Britain and the other allies. This saved their face and their national existence.

Now, if Great Britain and the other European allies do not pay the debt the wealth producers of America must pay it. America never repudiates a debt or a pledge. Americans are not built that way.

WHO'S WHO

DR. HUBERT WORK.

Dr. Hubert Work, recently postmaster general and now secretary of the interior in the Harding cabinet, is a man of mystery to many interviewers and feature writers. They have been trying to find out for two years why a prosperous medico, stock raiser and proprietor of the Woodcraft hospital for neurological cases at Pueblo, Colorado would leave the scenes of thirty-six years of struggling in his profession to become a desk slave of the government in Washington.

HUBERT WORK

Here are the bare facts of his life as he gives them;

"Born 60 years ago on an Indiana farm, worked way through college the University of Michigan and then the medical school at Pennsylvania, worked summers on a farm and was graduated from medical school owing $2,000. Practiced medicine in Colorado, chiefly in Pueblo.

At first there was not another physician within forty miles and he made his trips in a buggy over terrible roads. He married Laura M. Arbuckle of Anderson, Indiana, in 1887 and for 25 years after practiced medicine in the west. He founded the Woodcraft hospital in 1896. He was made president of the Colorado Medical Society, and president of the state board of health for four years.

Work was a Colonel in the medical corps during the war, supervising medical features of the draft. He is a member of the American Legion, and was made president of the American Medical association in 1921.

Dr. Work is a large, gray haired man, somewhat stern and gruff. He has no liking for light reading and does not play golf. Work is his vocation and avocation. He is at his desk from 8 to 6 and takes no vacations.

More Truth Than Poetry

—By James J. Montague—

MISLEADING

It cheered us a lot when we read
That the Turks have amended their lives,
And have vowed they will never be wed
To any superfluous wives,
"If these people," said we, "can discard, overnight,
Polygamy's hideous fetter,
There is reason to think that Doc Coue is right;
The world's getting better and better."

But their motives we misunderstood—
These wily Mohammedan gents
Have not become suddenly good:
They simply have cut down expense!
For we find there is many a photoplay screen
In Constantinople today,
And the Janes in the Harem have all of them seen
How they dress on the Rue de la Paix!

Discarding the trousers they wore
When they sat in their darkened abodes,
They clamored for garments galore
Of the sort that in French are called modes.
Whenever a husband came home for a meal
He was met by a tearfuleyed touch,
Or stopped at the door by a fervent appeal
For frocks and soiree gowns and such.

So the Turk took the sensible course,
As any shrewd man would have done,
And went to the court to divorce
His bevy of spouses—save one.
The thing had a wonderful moral effect—
One has to admit it was clever;
It looked like reform, but we sort of suspect
That the rascal's as wicked as ever!

Masonic Official At Clarendon Dies

CLARENDON, March 12.—E. W. Bromley of this city died Thursday afternoon in Hot Springs, Ark., where he had gone two months previous for his health. The body, accompanied by his wife arrived Saturday night. He is survived by his wife, one daughter and three sons.

Mr. Bromley is among the oldest residents of this county, having been in partnership in the first drug store here with H. D. Ramsey, whose wife was buried here yesterday. Mr. Bromley was worshipful master of the local Masonic lodge, at the time of his death.

Sued After He Dies

LANCASTER, Pa., March 12.—A novel breach of promise suit was entered in court Monday against a dead man's estate. Miss Virgie Ream, Elizabethtown, sued for $5,000. The suit is brought against Hiram H. Nissely, administrator of Percival M. Brooks, Elizabethtown, who died last month. The plaintiff says he began calling on her 16 years ago and had at various times fixed a date for their marriage.

If George Washington really couldn't tell a lie, he probably got in bad every time his wife asked his opinion of a new hat.

How Many Varieties of Wheat Are There?

The total number of the different varieties of wheat is not known. Some authorities give it as about 1,400, others as over 4,000.

The department of agriculture says that the same variety of wheat, will in different parts of the country, be called by different names. Certain varieties of wheat, when planted in different parts of the country assume different characteristics and appear to be a separate variety. For instance spring wheat in one part of the country will be a winter wheat in another.

From the above you will see that we can not give you a definite answer to your question.

What Is Meant by a "Measuring Box" When Used in Connection With Irrigation?

Ordinarily this term is used to indicate a measuring device of some sort. There are many kinds of measuring devices; any of them may be called a "measuring box."

Where Did Cotton Originate?

According to some authorities various species of cotton are native to South America, the West Indies, Tropical Africa, and Southern Asia. Cotton has been grown and used from time immemorial and its actual place of origin is in dispute. However, no authorities that we know of state that cotton is native to any part of the United States. All cotton grown here was introduced from foreign countries.

TIMELY VIEWS

"WOMEN WHO RETAIN THEIR MAIDEN NAMES AFTER MARRIAGE ARE MISGUIDED"

Women who retain their maiden names after marriage are misguided, according to a letter sent by George W. Wickersham, former attorney general of the United States, to the Lucy Stone league, an organization composed of women who keep their own names.

The letter was in answer to a symposium conducted by Jane Grant, secretary of the league.

"I can hardly express with sufficient emphasis my opinion concerning the movement on the part of some women to retain their maiden names after marriage," Mr. Wikersham wrote "Fortunately, I was born in a generation whose women thought it a glory to take their husbands' names when they married.

"They thought this for two reasons: First, they looked up to the husband and their respect and admiration for him made them happy to be identified with him; secondly, they looked forward to having children as the greatest glory of life, and they desired to give their children the father's name and identify themselves with that name.

"The various disintegrating forces of modern times have had strange results. One of the strangest, it seems to me, is the movement on the part of some women, whom I deem misguided, to endeavor to ignore the facts of life and to promote the disintegration of the marriage state. That some of them are honest in the opinion that this is going to be a benefit to their sex may be conceded, but I am firmly persuaded that nothing more mistaken was ever advocated."

Now What Can He See About That To Be So Scared At?

"The Borough Treasurer"

By J. S. Fletcher

Author of "Scarhaven Keep," "The Rainer-Slade Amalgamation," Etc.

Wraythwaite, who proves to be the man seen on the moor with Harborough at the time of the Kitely murder, appears and explains that Harborough, a relative, was secretly helping him to prove himself heir to an estate.

Carfax, Wraythwaite's solicitor, introduces two detectives who tell Brereton that Miss Pett has once been accused of strangling a girl in India, in the Thugs' manner and later had been housekeeper for a man who, having willed her his property, had died from an overdose of a drug.

Without Thought of Consequence.

Everything was very quiet in the house where Mallalieu lay wideawake and watchful. Mallalieu's nerves were set on edge, and it was with difficulty that he forced himself to lie still and listen.

Moreover, he was feeling the want of the drug which had soothed him into such sound slumber every night since he had been taken in charge by Miss Pett.

What were those two devils after, he wondered as he lay there in the darkness? No good—that was certain. He was in their power and had long since recognized them as an unscrupulous woman and a shifty man. They had nothing to do but hand him over to the police of they liked.

And yet on deeper reflection, he did not think that possible—for it was evident that aunt and nephew were after all they could get, and they would get nothing from the police authorities, while they might get a good deal from him.

But—what did they expect to get from him? He had been a little perplexed by their attitude when he asked them if they expected him to carry a lot of money on him—a fugitive.

Was it possible—the thought came to him like a thunderclap in the darkness—that they knew, or had some idea, of what he really had on him? That Miss Pett had drugged him every night he now felt sure—well, then, in that case how did he know that she hadn't entered his room and searched his belongings, and especially the precious waistcoast?

He put out a hand now and fingered the pile of garments which lay, neatly folded, within a few inches of his head. It was all right, now at any rate, and his hand drew back—to the revolver, separated from his cheek by no more than the thickness of the pillow.

The touch of that revolver made him begin speculating afresh. Supposing the charges had been drawn?—supposing he was defenseless, if a pinch came? He began to sweat with fear at the mere thought.

And just then came a sound.

It was a very small sound — so small that it might have been no more that that caused by the scratch of the tinest mouse. But in that intense silence it was easily heard—and with it came the faint glimmering of a light.

The light widened—there was a little further sound—and Mallalieu, peeping at things through his eyelashes became aware that the door was open, that a tall, spare figure was outlined between the bed and the light without.

And well behind the thin form of Miss Pett, he saw Christopher Pett's sharp face and the flint of his beady eyes.

Mallalieu let her advance halfway across the room on her stealthy path to the waistcoast. But silently as she came on with that cat-like tread, Mallalieu had just as silently drawn the revolver from beneath his pillow and turned its small muzzle on her.

It had a highly polished barrel, that revolver, and Miss Pett suddenly caught a tiny scintillation of light on it. She screamed.

And as she screamed, Mallalieu fired, and the scream died down to a queer choking sound . . . and he fired again . . . and where Christopher Pett's face had shown itself a second before there was nothing—save another choking sound and a fall in the entry where Christopher had stood and watched.

"Can't ha' get 'em both!" muttered Mallalieu.

He slowly lifted himself out of bed, lit his candle and went forward to where the woman lay. She had collapsed between the foot of the bed and the wall; her shoulders were propped against the wall and the grotesque turban hung loosely down on one shoulder.

And Mallalieu knew in that quick glance that she was dead. He crept onward to the door and looked at the other still figure, lying just as supinely in the passage that led to the living-room and began to dress with feverish haste—he must get out of that, and at once. The moors—the hills—anywhere. . . .

A sudden heavy knocking at the door at the back of the cottage set Mallalieu shaking. He started for the front—to hear knocking there, too. Then came voices demanding admittance, and loudly crying the dead woman's name.

He crept to a front window at that, and carefully drew a corner of the blind and looked out, and saw many men in the garden.

One of them had a lantern, and as its glare glanced about Mallalieu set eyes on Cotherstone.

* * *

Cotherstone walked out of the dock and the court and the town hall amidst a dead silence—which was felt and noticed by everybody but himself.

Then suddenly, from somewhere in the crowd, a sneering voice flung a contemptuous taunt across the staring faces.

"Well done, Cotherstone! — saved your own neck, anyway!"

There was a ripple of jeering laughter at that, and as Cotherstone turned angrily in the direction from whence the voice came, another, equally contemptuous, lifted itself from another corner of the crowd.

"King's evidence! Yah!—who'd believe Cotherstone? Liar!"

He flushed and walked away.

But the excitement that seized upon him in face of that public taunting died away in the silence of his own house. He showed no signs of anything unusual at supper, and when later he left, saying that he must go down to the office and fetch the accumulated correspondence, his manner was so ordinary that Bent, who was there, saw no reason why he should accompany him.

But Cotherstone had no intention of going to his office. He left his house with a fixed determination. He would know once and for all what Highmarket felt toward and about him.

So he went to the police-station, to the superintendent's private door.

"I want a bit of a straight talk with you," he told the officer. "You know me—we've been friends. I want you to tell me, straight, plain, truthful—what are Highmarket folk thinking and saying about me? Come!"

"Well," replied the superintendent, reluctantly, "if you must have it, the prevailing notion is that both you and Mr. Mallalieu had a hand in Kitely's death."

"And what do you think?" demanded Cotherstone.

The superintendent shifted uneasily.

"I've never been able to bring myself to think that either you or Mallalieu 'ud murder a man in cold blood, as Kitely was murdered," he said. "But—I've always felt this—you, or Mallalieu, or both of you, know more about the Kitely affair than you've ever told!"

Cotherstone leaned forward.

"I do!" he said significantly.

The superintendent laid down his pipe.

"Then for goodness sake, Mr. Cotherstone," he exclaimed, "for goodness sake, tell!"

"Listen!" said Cotherstone. "You remember the night of Kitely's murder?"

"Aye!" said the superintendent "Good reason to!"

"Let your mind go back to it, and to what you've since heard of it," said Cotherstone. "That night I wanted to get a word with Kitely. I went up the wood toward Kitely's cottage—and all of a sudden I came across him!—just where we found him afterward."

"Dead?" asked the superintendent.

"Only just," replied Cotherstone. "But he was dead—and I saw what had caused his death, for I struck a match to look at him. I saw that empty pocket-book lying by—I saw a scrap of folded newspaper too, and I picked it up and later put in a safe place.

"Well—I went on, up to the cottage. The door was open—I looked in. Yon woman, Miss Pett, was at the table by the lamp, turning over some papers—I saw Kitely's writing on some of 'em. I stepped softly in and tapped her on the arm, and she screamed and started back. I told her he was murdered. 'What're you doing with his papers there?' I says.

"'Papers!' she says. 'They're naught but old bills and things that he gave me to sort.' 'That's a lie!' I says, 'those aren't bills and I believe you know something about this, and I'm off for the police—to tell!'

"Then she pushed the door to behind her and folded her arms and looked at me. 'You tell a word,' she says, 'and I'll tell it all over the town that you and your partner's a couple of ex-convicts! I know your tale—Kitely'd no secrets from me. You hold your tongue, and I'll hold mine!' she says."

"So with that I walked out—and just as I was leaving the wood I heard a man coming alone. It was this woman's nephew—Pett the lawyer. Either he or the old woman killed Kitely!"

The superintendent jumped up.

"This woman's leaving the town tomorrow," he said. "I'm going up there with a couple of my best men."

"I'll come with you," said Cotherstone.

* * *

There were thin cracks of light in the living-room window of the Kitely cottage when the superintendent halted his companions outside the garden gate.

"You keep back, Mr. Cotherstone," he said. Hello! What's this?"

Men were coming up the wood behind them. One of them revealed himself as one of the superintendent's own officers.

"Mr. Brereton's here, sir, and some gentlemen from Norcaster," he said. "They want to see you particularly."

At that moment the revolver shots rang out from the cottage. The superintendent dashed forward and beat on the front door, while his man pounded at the back.

It was Mallalieu who at last flung the door open.

Every man there shrank back affrighted at the desperation on the cornered man's face.

But Mallalieu did not shrink. His hand was strangely steady as he singled out his old partner and shot him dead—and just as steady as he stepped back and turned the revolver on himself.

The Barrister's Fee.

Bent, when the worst was over sold his business, quietly married Lettie Cotherstone and took her away for a long residence abroad, before returning to settle down in London. Her father, in Lettie's opinion, had always been a deeply-wronged and much injured man, and it was his fate to have suffered by his life-long connection with that very wicked person, Mallalieu.

After Harborough's due acquittal Brereton, having discharged his task, had gone back to London. But ever since then he had kept up a regular correspondence with Avice, and knew all the details of the new life which had opened up for her and her father with the coming of Mr. Wraythwaite of Wraye.

Her letters were full of vivid descriptions of Wraye itself, and of the house in which she and Harborough—now appointed agent to his foster-brother's estate—had taken up their residence. She had a gift of description, and Brereton had gained a good notion of Wraye from her letters. It was evidently the sort of place in which a lover of open spaces, such as he knew Avice to be, could live an ideal life. Yet Brereton had traveled down from London on purpose to ask her to leave it.

Leaving his bag at the little station he walked up a winding road between groves of fir and pine toward the great grey house which he knew must be the place into which the man from Australia had so recently come under romantic circumstances. Passing through rose-trees he went to a stone porch and knocked—and was half-afraid lest Avice herself should open the door to him. Instead, came a strapping, redcheeked North-country lass. No—Miss Avice wasn't in; she was down the garden, at the far end.

Brereton hastened down the garden; turned a corner; they met unexpectedly. Equally unexpected, too, was the manner of their meeting.

For these two had been in love with each other from an early stage of their acquaintance, and it seemed only natural now that when at last they touched hands, hand should stay in hand.

And when two young people hold each other's hand, especially on a springtide evening, and under the most romantic circumstances and surroundings, lips are apt to say more than tongues—which is as much as to say that without further preface these two expressed all they had to say in their first kiss.

THE END.

Letters to The Editor

To the Editor:

My attention is called to an article appearing in your good paper under date of March 9th, regarding the good roads election which is set for March 20th., in which the paid correspondent for the agitators of good roads at Henrietta, Texas, makes the following statement:

"J. L. Huggins, wealthy ranchman who led the fight for the antis in the mandamus proceedings which were defeated, has left town until after the election and says he is not going to push the fight further."

I desire to correct the above statement, as I expect to be here until after the election, and I told no one that I was going to leave town until after the election and I told no one that I was out of the fight. The statement was made without foundation, and is wholly untrue.

Your correspondent makes the further suggestion that the wealthy men who are opposing the road or rather the designated zone, ride in their Cadillacs, while the poor men ride in Fords.

The public can judge as to the object of such statements when it is informed that the men who are fighting the proposed zone drive Fords—none fine cars—and the only man in this town who owns a Cadillac is a wealthy ranchman who is fighting for the proposed election, and all of his land is located outside of the proposed tax zone.

Your correspondent makes the general statement that I am fighting the good roads. This statement is true only as it applies to the effect the election for the proposed district would have on highway number five. The parties who mapped out this proposed district number two extended its district over highway number five in some places as far as six miles.

I live on highway number five, which is one of the most important highways in the state. Now this proposed district number two, which is south of highway number five, proposes to lap over and take in property belonging to highway number five for a distance of eight miles east of Henrietta. This property belonging to highway number five would be bonded to build highway number two, which would mean that the property belonging to highway number five—a part of which is mine—could not again be taxed for road purposes and we could never have good roads on this highway number five.

I am not opposed to good roads. I merely want the money put on the roads where it equitably belongs, and to show that I am in favor of good roads, at the same meeting of the commissioners' court that granted the petition for an election on highway number two, I presented a petition for a road district embracing property that rightfully belonged to highway number five, and the commissioners' court refused to consider it, but ordered the election to build the road on highway number two.

The above are the actual facts regarding this matter, and I trust that your fair sense of justice will inspire you to give this article in your good paper the same prominence that you gave the other article.

Thanking you in advance for your courtesy, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly,
J. L. Huggins.
Henrietta, Texas.

Firpo Knocks Out Brennan In the Twelfth

South American Wins In Spectacular Battle With Right to Head

NEW YORK, March 12.—Luis Angel Firpo, South American heavyweight, knocked out Bill Brennan of Chicago in the twelfth round of a sensational fifteen-round match tonight in Madison Square Garden. The finish came with dramatic suddenness when Firpo sent the Chicagoan down for the count of ten with a terrific right to the head.

Firpo earned his spurs as a contender for Jack Dempsey's title by unloosing a terrific attack in the final round after saving his opponent on points for a number of rounds. Making rights and lefts to Brennan's head, he drove Brennan about the ring until a right that landed behind the ear sent him to the canvass.

The victor was accorded a tremendous ovation.

TWO BIG SHOOTS BOOKED AT HOUSTON

Sunny South and Prairie Zone

HOUSTON, March 12—Two of the most important trap shooting events on the sport calendar of the nation for the coming year will take place in Houston April 11 to 18 when the Sunny South handicap and the Prairie Zone shoot will be staged at the Houston gun club trapfield at Bellaire.

Trapshooters from practically every state in the Union will come Houston for these events. As has been the custom in the past, such stars as Frank Troeh, Mark Arie, Chief Wheeler, Fred Etchins and many others come here for the Sunny South. The fact that the Prairie Zone shoot will be staged in connection with the Sunny South gives this event double importance.

Both shoots will be for registered targets which means that the trapshooters who come here will be out to break every target possible, especially since these targets are counted in compiling their average for the year. When a trapshooter averages 97 per cent for a season he doesn't miss many targets.

Many Expected.

To handle the great numbers expected, four traps will be used. This means that 20 gunners may be seen in action at one time. The traps to be used will be the latest models and will serve as a guarantee against faulty targets, a little detail that can make or mar a shot.

More than a carload of clay targets will be used during the eight days of the shoot. Enough shells to bombard Berlin for a day or so will be used.

Galveston Players Are in Training

CUERO, Texas, March 12—Fifteen members of the Galveston Sand Crabs who are spring training in Cuero, were cavorting about Frobese park Thursday, with more men expected toward the end of the week. The park grounds are in good shape and the weather has been ideal. Both Manager Pat Newman and Prexy N. E. Leopold are well pleased with the showing made to date.

The Sand Crabs have a home everywhere in Cuero, and everybody here is trying hard in every way to make their stay pleasant and beneficial to them.

Reveal Stockholders

In denying that anybody connected with the New York Nationals owns stock in the Boston Braves, the new owning syndicate did make known that George Stallings and Walter Hapgood, now connected with the Rochester Internationals, own stock in the Braves. It also has been reported at various times that the owners of the Braves also have stock in the Rochester club.

WILL PLAY OFF PROTESTED GAME

Ineligibles To Battle Legion

Second half championship of the city basket ball league may be determined tonight or the fight for the decision may be prolonged when the Junior college Ineligibles and the American Legion tangle at 8 o'clock at Legion hall.

The game is the outgrowth of a protest which was ruled in favor of the Ineligibles. They were defeated by the legion during the season but claimed that ineligible players were used and the league board ordered the game played over.

Should the Ineligibles win tonight they will be in a tie with the Knights of Columbus team for the second half laurels and a game between these two entries will be matched. If the college boys lose the Knights take first place and play Collier and Landon, winners of the first half, for the championship.

BRITTON AIMS TO COME BACK

Ex-Champ Wants Some More

NEW YORK, March 12.—Old Man Britton, the former welterweight champion, hasn't had enough in 25 years and he is planning to come back.

Britton has been Mr. William J. Breslin, prominent business man of Yonkers, ever since November 1, last year, when young Mickey Walker of Jersey made him think he was through.

The former champion hasn't had a glove on until a few days ago, when he was kidded into a little exhibition in one of the big New York gymnasiums.

Jim Montgomery, who used to be one of Britton's favorite victims in the old days, was working out and he spotted the fastidious Britton in the attire of a clothing ad.

Then He Got Busy.

"You're back in them clothes for good, ain't yuh?—well, I'm still in the old togs. It gives me grief that you quit because I was waiting in line to tap you on the chin," he handed the ex-champ.

Britton put on the gloves for a little sport and he stopped Montgomery in the fourth round, after several good workouts, he asked Dan Morgan, his manager, to get him some business.

Scribes Are Strong For Exporter Rookie

BEAUMONT, March 12.—St Louis sport scribes are almost unlimited in the praises voiced declaring the merits and prospects of Jimmie Dunn, the recruit infielder signed by the Exporters upon recommendation of Pat Monohan.

It seems this youngster is the present sand-lot idol of the St. Louis fans. His accomplishments are in variety as well and he is a great favorite, having played a leading position with the Ben Millers who have copped three city championships in succession.

Dunn is returning to organized baseball after a stay with Sioux Falls in the Dakota league in 1921. Last season Dunn played independent baseball in St. Louis and his performances around the Keystone sack brought an honored title. He walloped the ball for a sweet average and proved a consistent defensive man.

Dates Are Named For State Horseshoe Meet

The first state horseshoe pitching tournament to be held in Texas will be staged in Houston on September 1, 2 and 3 of this year. A tentative program has been arranged providing for eight cash prizes, ranging from $30 to $150. The winner of this tournament will be the state champion for 1923, and in addition to the $150 cash prize will also be given a suitable championship medal. All bona fide residents of the State of Texas are eligible to enter the tournament. Full details of the tournament will be published later.

Hoppe Is Defeated

NEW YORK, March 12—Jake Schaefer, challenger, tonight defeated Willie Hoppe, champion, 500 points to 277 in the first block of their 1500 point match for the world's 18.2 balk line billiard title.

Salm's Talent Gets Under Sail For The Long Cruise of 1923

Atta' boy! Spin 'em and turn 'em! There they go! The 1923 Spudders' inaugural day of formal spring training is over, and, man, it was a sweet sight to look upon even if there were the rough spots and chipped edges that always appear at the beginning of a grind. It was the grand old national pastime in the making and just at this time of the year it's a sight for regal eyes.

A flock of little white pellets, as numerous as flies around a molasses jug in midsummer were flitting about Athletic park almost throughout the day. Some were landing in padded gloves with a resounding thud while others were smacking off seasoned hickory bats with a whack that would make your grandmother's blood tingle with joy.

Papa Boreas, foreman of Mother Nature's icicle plant, and Old Sol, himself, vied with each other to see who would hold sway. The combination didn't make the grandest day in the world for boiling out but it didn't stop things. The morning was nippy but the afternoon was better and the Salm entrants got off on the right foot in spite of the elements.

Grand Mixture.

There was a little bit of everything—throwing, hitting and pepper play—a jamborree of what any one might expect to see in a training camp.

Toward the close of the afternoon performance, Manager Salm manned the fungo gun and a session of infield work was under way. Several combinations took the field and went through the jubilee while goodly gatherings of anxious fans looked on and passed their opinions.

Bob Bescher did the George Sisler on first in absence of Ace Elliott and Sir Robert tickled himself and his audience with his peppery contortions.

Joe Klugman from Atlanta, was the first to take second base and he instantly created a mighty favorable impression among the grandstand judges. Joe is loose as a goose, eats up everything that comes his way and gets the ball away fast and accurately. He looked good.

Looked the Part.

Red Williams, labelled an outfielder, worked at short for a spell. Red looks the part of a performer, takes his cut at the plate and hits hard. Bob Howell showed off a steel arm at third which should be a "lulu" when he gets it harnessed down with a little more work.

Al White, renowned second sacker of the 1922 combination, hopped into the doings and showed off in his same old classy style. Whitney was digging 'em out of the dirt and wheeling them to the sacks and he brought down the house with a play near first that looked like two million dollars. Al had a lot of sport spanking line drives over short and through the box during hitting practice. They don't go for base hits now but they will later on.

Berger Shows Off.

Joe Berger tuned up at short and demonstrated that he has lost none of his old cunning. Joe will be there when they toot the horn. Buddie Tanner made his first appearance of the year and the skipper didn't have a great deal of luck trying to biff base hits past the third sack corner. "Kitch" was here, there and a little bit of everywhere enjoying himself to the limit.

Most of the pitchers took things rather easy but a few went in to pitch to the hitters for a short spell. The big boss took an instructing hand with some of the younger talent during this season on the rubber.

Upmore Starts Fast.

Big Ben Upmore, the hefty southpaw who had a trial last year, has acquired a windup and looked like he had been hurling all winter. He took a long stride off the rubber and steamed the agate in like the middle of July. "Lefty" Odom, one of Kitchens' proteges, looked good and it would not be surprising if he uncorks some stuff before things get very far. Eddie Mueller the second Dick Kerr from San Antonio, showed the fans a pretty delivery and a clever bearing for so little a chap.

With a lap or two about the orchard, the first day came to a close and everybody seemed well pleased with the results. There is much more to come and much more to be seen but well begun is somewhat done.

Sport Snap Shots

A trio of Australian boxers are coming to the U. S. The party is in charge of Jack Watson, assistant manager of Stadiums, Ltd. The boxers are Jamito, the Filipino lightweight; Billy Tingle bantam champion of Australia, and Digger Crozier, a featherweight. They intend to stop off at Manila for several matches before coming to this country.

Boxing in Australia is dying because of lack of talent. Ever since the death of Les Darcy interest in the sport has been fading steadily. No reform waves ever menace boxing in the island continent. The sport is sponsored by the government. The rudiments of the game are taught in the public schools and every effort is made to develope real fighters.

But boxing seems to thrive only where there is opposition. Despite the unusual opportunities offered the youth of Australia to acquire the art, no stars have appeared. Watching men who would be regarded as third and fourth raters in this country perform has finally disgusted the fans to such an extent that they will no longer patronize the shows.

Of late their has been a general exit. All the American boxers over there cleared out some months ago and now the native talent is leaving. What success the Australians will have in this country remains to be seen. Jamito is the only one of the trio known by reputation here.

For the last three years Jamito has been the greatest drawing card in the country. He met with nothing but success until he encountered Sam Mossberg, who defeated him in 20 rounds a few months ago. That offers a good line on Jamito's ability and also on the ability of the others, who are rated less highly.

SPUDDERS GROW INTO BIG SQUAD

Many New Players Report

Day by day, in every way, more players come, prepared to play.

No less than 11 ambitious tossers were added to the crew already in camp before yesterday's setting sun and there are but a half dozen more to come before the gates are locked.

Faithful Joe Berger, shortstop from the Wichita club of the Western league, was one of those to show in on the choo-choo, having found the roads between here and Rock Island, Ill., were not in shape for getting where he wanted to get.

Babe Ruth, returned from last season, came in with ambitions to play and play he did, any and everywhere he could find a place to frolic. Steve Mokan jumped into the landscape but he didn't get out into the baseball haberdashery.

Bischoff Brings One

"Smiley" Bischoff, the leading workman among the Texas league receivers was one of the late morning arrivals and brought with him a righthanded pitcher who answers to the name of Clarence Hoots and whom Bischoff stamps with the big O. K.

A quartette of boys who saw some service in the West Texas league last year were among those present when the bell tingled. Big Idaho Anderson and Lefty Upmore, a pair of pitchers, will be remembered by some fans for their former appearance here. Bob Howell, an infielder, and Red Williams, a fly chaser who got a free agency when his former club failed to place him on the reserve list, rounded out the new comers from West Texas.

Two New Faces

Two comparative strangers who mean business and show much promise are Bob Osborne, northpaw pitcher from the El Paso American Legion club and Hub Hollis, all-around star athlete from Austin college who is going after his service stripes in fast company.

The list of those who did not show up for the opening drill includes Ace Elliott, firstsacker, who was forwarded transportation last night; Pitchers Bill Fincher and Dave Hunter; Infielder Wayne Hall and Outfielders George Whiteman and Doc Silvan.

The United States is threatend with another invasion. The University of Hawaii, which during the last three years has sponsored the trips of three elevens from the mainland to the Islands, has decided to do a little traveling on its own hook. The Hawaii 11, which ranks next to Wakiki as one of the most popular attractions in the neighborhood of Honolulu, is coming to the mainland next fall to meet some of the teams in its own class There is a possibility that the Hawaians may travel as far east as New York.

One thing Kid Gleason figures Willie Kamm will do for the White Sox infield is to cover more ground about the hot corner in order to allow Ernie Johnson to move closer to second, where he can cut off many a hit that went throug there last season. With Collins on the other side, the infield will be pretty tight.

LOCAL TENNIS PLAYERS WIN HOTLY CONTESTED MATCHES FROM DALLAS

Powers Trims Barn in Singles and Powers and Haynes Take a Pretty Match from Barn and Quick.

DALLAS, March 12.—Playing spectacular tennis the greater part of the way, the Wichita Falls racquet wielders won two hardfought matches over the Dallas Lawn Tennis club here today.

One of the hardest matches of the year brought together Powers of the Coyotes and Barn of Dallas, the former winning by scores of 11-9; 6-0 and 7-5. Barn was overcome by the terrific drives and overhead smashes of his opponent. Barn, who ranks fifth in the Southwest, was off his game in the first set but came back strong and won the second easily. The drives and service of Powers were big features in winning the final set.

Repeat in Doubles

In the doubles, Powers and Haynes defeated Quick and Barn, 7-5 and 11-9, with the volleying and smashing of Haynes playing an important point in the victory. Quick, a protege of Barn, played beautiful tennis.

The matches were witnessed by a gallery of 500 enthusiastic tennis fans.

Hoppe Won't Retire

NEW YORK, March 12.—Willie Hoppe, who will defend his world's 18-2 balk line billiard championship in a match with Jake Schaefer Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, tonight denied reports that he intended to retire from the game if successful in retaining his crown.

"I have no intention of quitting the game, regardless of the outcome of the contest," the title holder declared.

Electra Track Stars Capture First Honors

ELECTRA, March 12.—Electra High School has won the first track meet attended this season. The four athletes, Lawton Thomas, Guy Thomas, Harvey Stanford, and Eland Stearns, who represented the school in the indoor track meet held in connection with the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show, Saturday, March 10, have returned home with first honors in the entire meet. In addition, Lawton Thomas won the gold medal in the 50-yard and the 220-yard dash, Stanford brought home two third place medals in the broad jump and the high jump, and the four boys won the first honors in a mile relay against 10 teams from all over the state. The total points won by the local boys totaled 19 1-2 against their nearest competitor, Forest High School, of Dallas, who ran second with 14 points. Seventeen schools participated in the meet. Thomas was the individual star with 11 points to his credit. Supt. P. M. Dinsmore accompanied the boys to Fort Worth.

The winning of the relay race gives a decidedly cheerful outlook for the coming track team, say the coaches. If the local boys can win the relay at the county, district, and state Interscholastic meets, with the additional points which Lawton Thomas and his equally speedy brother, Guy, can add up, will do much toward the state championship.

Cobb Feels That No Club in The American League Can Stop Tigers

AUGUSTA, GA. March 12.—Manager Ty Cobb of the Detroit Tigers expects to win the American league pennant this year regardless of the fact that the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Browns, who ran one-two in 1922, are just as strong as they were last season. Ty declined to express his belief as a prediction but he honestly feels there is no team in the American league that can stop him.

It is certainly true that not in a dozen years has a Detroit team started off with the promise of this year's outfit. Cobb can muster two complete baseball clubs and for every regular there is a substitute who can do almost as well as the man for whom he understudies. By contrast, the Tigers were so weak in substitutes last year they could not afford to take a regular outfielder out of the game. At least two fly chasers who can hit .300 will be sitting on the bench during the coming campaign and far as the rest of the machine is concerned, Cobb will hold four capable substitutes in readiness to fit in at any of the other positions.

Good Hill Staff.

The pitching staff of 1922 was so mediocre that every man who started the season as a regular was a second stringer by midseason. This year he has a staff of veterans, with a crew of promising youngsters who look like the goods.

All in all, the Tigers figure to be 50 per cent stronger than in 1922. Two teams, the Yanks and Browns, finished in front of Detroit on that occasion. Neither has been strengthened to any extent between season while Cobb has materially increased the power of his club.

NEWTOWN RAID DISCLOSES STILL

One Man Taken By Constable

BURKBURNETT, March 12.—In a raid on a shack in the northwest field, near Newtown, yesterday Constable H. L. White and deputies, K. E. Kinsner and Joe Blocker, captured a still and a quantity of mash. One man, the owner of the shack in which the still was discovered, was arrested. No charges have as yet been filed, but he is being held for investigation.

The man arrested refused to confess to ownership of the still, declaring that he knew nothing of its operation. He denied any connection with the affair.

NEW DEPUTY CONSTABLE

BURKBURNETT, March 12.—Joe Blocker received his commission as deputy constable here Saturday. Blocker is commissioned under Constable H. L. White, and will patrol the county roads as motorcycle officer. His commission carries with it authority in any part of the county.

R. M. A. CHECKS BAD CHECKS

BURKBURNETT, March 12.—The newly organized Retail Merchants association here is already beginning to make its presence felt here, according to local business men. The association has already served as the impelling force behind a number of debtors of local stores, and many long standing debts have been paid. Bad checks are also decreasing in number, it is announced, and many of those given in the paht have been paid up. Over 60 local business men hold membership in the organization.

MOVIE CASE WEDNEESDAY

BURKBURNETT, March 12.—The case of Ray Smith, local moving picture show operator, charged with violation of the Sunday closing laws, was set today by Justice of the Pence C. O. Walling, for trial in the court here, on Wednesday afternoon. Smith is one of several men who have faced similar charges, fines being assessed in all previous cases.

Martin Banquets His Sales Force

J. H. Martin, president of the Martin Printing company, entertained the sales force of the company with dinner at the Kemp hotel last night. Eight salesmen were in the body at the first of what is announced to be a monthly affair. Mr. Martin talked to the men, thanking them for their work. He expressed great enthusiasm for the future, both in printing and other lines of business.

Those present were: J. H. Martin, M. M. McFarland, Harry Buren, R. A. Ray, sales manager; F. W. Ramsey, D. L. Boyd and J. J. Pate.

South Electra Well Flows 390 Barrels

TEXHOMA HAS GOOD PRODUCER

Well Is Drilled But Few Feet in Sand

Swabbing 390 barrels in 16 hours and showing up as one of the best wells finished in the south Electra field recently, No. 3, lease E. Waggoner tract of the Texhoma Oil and Refining company was brought in Sunday night. The well is drilled but a few feet into the sand at 1,890 feet and will be completed in the next few days. It is in block 33, H. & T. C. R. R. survey.

SAND IN SUNSHINE

Sand picked up at 2,031 feet in the test on the Overall tract southwest of Sunshine hill will be tested out by the Texhoma Oil and Refining company. It is reported to be a good looking sand and from indications will make a producer. Five and three-sixteenths inch casing is being run and the sand is expected to be drilled sometime today.

FREEMAN-HAMPTON WELL.

A good 125 barrel producer has been brought in by the Wilson Drilling company in No. Kemp and Kempner in the Freeman-Hampton field. Tubing is being run and the well will be placed on the pump. It is in the sand at 1,564 feet.

WOODBURN WELL SHOWING AT 150

Direct Offset to Dr. Wallace Test

Showing up for a 150 barrel producer, No. 1, Kemp and Kempner of the Woodburn Oil corporation in the Freeman-Hampton field is being standardized before being completed. The well is in the sand at 1,725 feet. This is a direct offset to the south of the No. 1 well of Dr. Wallace on this tract. Location has been made for No. 2 on this lease by the Woodburn company and drilling will be started immediately.

ANOTHER WALLACE OFFSET

Staley and Stone are building a standard rig on No. 1 Kemp and Kempner, Freeman-Hampton field, preparatory to drilling in the 1,700 foot sand. This well directly offsets the Dr. Wallace producer to the west. Work will be started in the next few days on No. 2 on the Staley and Stone lease.

No. 2 Ferguson of J. I. Staley, et al, will be brought in today in the 1,500 foot sand. A star machine is being used to drill the sand and a good producer is anticipated.

Freeman-Hampton No. 7 in Ferguson Tract Looks Good

Freeman-Hampton Oil corporation will bring in No. 7, lease B. Ferguson tract today. The well is in the sand at 1,580 feet and looks like a good producer.

American Oil and Refining company is building a standard rig on No. 1 Ferguson before drilling a good looking sand at 1,752. This well is being watched with interest as it is on the eastern edge of the Freeman-Hampton pool and may prove a connecting link with this pool and the Texhoma producer on the Cetti tract to the east.

Ray, Shuman and Featherstone well on the Ferguson tract continues to flow and is rated the best completion yet made in the Freeman-Hampton field. It is putting 450 barrels of high grade oil into the tanks daily.

Gulf Production has set and cemented casing in two wells one the Ferguson tract in the Freeman-Hampton field. No. 5 is set at 1,756 and No. 6 at 1,757.

Extensive Drilling Campaign Is Expected in Clay County Soon

HENRIETTA, Texas, March 12.—Rig timbers and materials are being hauled out to the Gulf Production company's new location for well No. 3 on the Carl Worsham ranch in the east part of Clay county. This well will be located 3,650 feet north 25 degrees east of the No. 1 discovery well, and 660 feet each way from the southeast corner of section 38, Houston & Texas Central Railway company survey No. 38, abstract 925. Four deep tests are soon to be made on the Gulf Production company's Worsham block of acreage containing 2,775 acres.

Hold Extensive Acreage.

The Gulf has approximately 4,500 acres of land under lease in the vicinity of the Worsham producing well, practically all of which is in Clay county, and several tracts have been recently acquired in near proximity to the original well. Hence, it is expected that an extensive drilling campaign will result in order to hold the leases and determne the productive territory which is embraced in the entire block.

The J. I. Staley No. 1 well located on the C. K. McHam survey, two miles north of Ringgold, has been shut down for a few days on account of boiler trouble. C. L. Potts of the Frickreid Supply company, left here today via truck with a new boiler for the Staley well, which is to be placed on the ground tomorrow and drilling will be resumed Tuesday.

Rotary Cable Broken.

Walsh & Riddle have been shut down for two or three days on their well at Mabledean, W. J. Hawthorne tract, on account of a broken rotary cable. This has been replaced and the well is being cleaned out preparatory to taking a core of the sands found at the 2012 feet depth.

Campbell Oil company, T. E. & L. Co. survey 32117, J. H. Spivey ranch, 20 miles south of Henrietta, set 8 inch casing and drilling resumed at 1,650 feet.

Standardizing Well.

Nebraska-Texas Oil & Gas company, W. H. Myers ranch, C. Thompson survey, abstract 444, 14 miles south of Henrietta, shut down at 3,210 feet and standardizing.

B-M-A Oil company, block 133, Byers Bros. subdivision, E. F. Davidson tract, two miles west of Byers. Gas sand found at 2,225 feet and drill now penetrating a hard lime formation found just below the gas sands.

OKLAHOMA WILL CLAIM OIL TAX

Red River Leases To Be Like Others

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Oklahoma today notified Secretary of the Interior Work that it will claim, under the provisions of the general leasing act, the right to apply the state's tax of three per cent of gross production to the oil leases to be awarded by the secretary of the interior on property in the Red river bed. The state levies a tax of three per cent on oil production. The supreme court has held the south half of the river bed to be public domain but within the state of Oklahoma.

The regulations under the general leasing act provides that nothing in them shall prevent any state from levying taxes on the property or production involved in any lease made by the United States on property within the boundaries of the state. The Watson act authorizing the leasing of the Red river property provides that so far as applicable the terms of the general leasing act shall be followed in making these leases.

Senator Harreld, Congressmen Howard and Thomas and Assistant Attorney General R. E. Wood of Oklahoma, conferred with the secretary of the interior today and asked that special provisions be made in the leases to be made on Red river property, requiring the state production tax to be paid.

Film Shows Wed How To Be Happy

NEW YORK, March 1 .—Motion picture lessons on when to get married were shown Monday in court here before a crowded room of men and women with marital troubles of their own. Judge Edward Well suggested pictures could be shown every week and that probationers could be asked to come. The film illustrated advice to wives, recently made public by the Legail Aid society. The hero's marriage was wrecked by the failure of his wife to sympathize with him in his business problems, to take sufficient interest in home life and through difficulties caused by "too much mother-n-law."

The plane will be entered in the international gliding contests planned for Ormond-Daytona beach this year. The tourney is to be an international one. Several European stars have entered.

Red River Decree Entered by Court

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Decree of the supreme court making effective features of the several decisions in the Red river boundary dispute between Oklahoma and Texas was entered today. It accepted suggestion of the states that the physical marking of the boundary upon the ground be confined for the time being to the Big Bend area, adding that the commissioners should carry the line westward from the big bend to a southerly extension of the west line of range 16 miles west in Oklahoma.

The line will be marked also at such places where by erosion since 1821 the river has come to occupy a new channel.

Engineers Designated.

Arthur Kiddler and Arthur Stiles, engineers, were designated by the court to locate the south bank of the Red river as it existed in 1821, which under the court's decision, will be made the boundary between the two states. The court indicated that it would at the suggestion of any of the parties to the suit, decide whether the commissioners should mark the boundry line at other than the points indicated. The commissioners' court first will be directed to the big bend area and they were instructed by the court to report the location of all oil wells within 300 feet of the boundary line.

Subject to Approval.

The work of the commission will be subject to the approval of the court and the two states will be given 40 days in which to file any exceptions or rejections. The expenses will be borne equally by the United States and the two states. The decree announced that the line should be located on the south cut bank, at the mean level attained by the waters of the river when they reach and wash the bank without overflowing it. Where there is no well defined cut bank, but only a gradual incline from the waterbed of the river, the line, according to the order of the court, will be over such incline and conforming to the mean level of the waters at other places in that vicinity where they reach and wash the cut bank without overflowing it.

The people of Texas, the court declared, are entitled to reach the waters at all stages and to use them for beneficial purposes in common with the people of Oklahoma. The decree is in conformity with previous decisions awarding Burke Bet Island and Goat Island to the United States while the island in front of the line between Hardeman and Wilbarger counties, Texas, was awarded to that state.

Wheat Is Higher Despite Rain In Northern Section

CHICAGO, March 12.—Rain and snow likely to benefit the domestic winter crop led to price declines in the wheat market today during early dealings. The effect of values however, was more or less offset by the fact that Liverpool quotations showed a slight advance, the result of a falling off in the volume of world shipments. Trade was light and the market easily influenced. Opening prices which varied from the same as Saturday's finish to ⅜c lower, May $1.19 @¼ and $1.14@½, were followed by a general sag but then by a good rally.

Subsequently, word that western Kansas and western Oklahoma had failed to receive any moisture of consequence, led to an advance and so too did evidence of better demand from Europe. The close was firm, ½c to 1c net higher, May 1.20¼@⅜ and July $1.15¼.

Corn and oats were firm in the absence of any aggressive selling. After opening unchanged to ¼@⅜c higher May 74⅝@½c, corn scored slight gains all around.

In later dealings smallness of receipts was about counterbalanced by slowness of eastern demand. The close was steady, ⅜c to ¾c net highe, May at 75c.

Oats started unchanged to a shade higher, May 44⅛@45c, and held near to the initial range.

Despite weakness of hog values, provisions were upheld by the action of the corn market.

STOCKS RECOVER EARLIER LOSSES

Bulls Get Control After Midday

NEW YORK, March 12.—Opening prices in today's stock market were reactionary in response to the large volume of week-end selling, some of the liquidation apparently being due to disturbances in the occupied sections of Germany. United States steel advanced ¼ on announcement of an increase of 373,213 tons in unfilled orders, but the independent steels lost ground. Canadian Pacific Baldwin and some of the minor oils moved to higher ground but American Locomotives, American Woolen and the coppers were heavy.

In the first few minutes losses of ¾ of a point or more were established by New York Central, Chicago Northwestern, California Petroleum, Remington Typewriter and Sloss-Sheffield Steel, the last named dropping two points. Supporting orders soon made their appearance and prices again started upward. Gulf States steel cancelled its early loss and advanced a point while American Can, Pan-American B. Texas and Pacific, Louisville and Nashville, American Smelting and American Tobacco sold half to a point higher.

Although speculative interest appeared to be lagging, possibly because of the high money rates and the absence of any uniform movement among the representative shares the bulls managed to stage a demonstration in the equipment group after midday which carried American Locomotive up 3¼ points to 137¼, the highest figure of the year. The Market Street Railway preferred issues extended their sensational advances, the second preferred rising 15 ¼, the prior preferred 11¼ and the preferred 10¾ points.

WAIF, DAUGHTER WIFE, DIVORCE

Petition Discloses a Strange Romance

LOS ANGELES, March . —The wife whom Carlton Gardelle, internationally known sculptor, picked from a gutter in the Paris Latin quarter more than two decades ago has sued him for divorce.

In filing the petition Yvonne Gardelle related one of the most amazing romances ever recorded by the courts of Los Angeles.

The romance began the day that Gardelle, strolling through the quarter in search for a model for a baby figure, saw Yvonne playing with other French children in the street. Yvonne met his every requirement. He took her to his studio and immortalized her in sculpture now to be found in homes and museums throughout the world.

Made Her Daughter.

Eventually he adopted her and when he came to America she came as his daughter. Shortly after they had settled in a studio in New York Gardelle realized he was in love with his beautiful foster child.

This was a tragedy, for Yvonne had never been taught to believe he was anything but her real father.

Besides, she had fallen in love with a young American Roy Brooks, Gardelle learned this, and as the father that Yvonne believed him to be, was helpless to discourage it and plead his own case.

Upon Yvonne's request he reluctantly bestowed his blessing on her and Brooks. But Yvonne's marriage ended unhappily. She divorced Brooks in New Jersey a little more than a year after the wedding.

Weds Her at Last.

Another year passed before Gardelle dared reveal his love to Yvone, but when he told her everything from the rescue in the Paris gutter, she joyously consented to marry him.

Then, according to Yvonne, greed entered to disrupt their happiness. Deserting the life of art which had brought him fame, fortune and contentment Gardelle embarked in an ornamental tile business.

At the height of this commercial success, Yvonne said, Gardelle's feelings underwent a change. He began to be cruel to her.

Yvonne decided on divorce, she said when, after flinging her from the pedestal upon which she posed for his many beautiful figures of marble, he sent her into the homes he was commissioned to decorate, as a laborer to lay floor tiling.

COUNTY REPORTS ARE REJECTED

Commissioners Ask Specific Items

Reports of two county officials for the fiscal year ending December 1, 1922, were rejected by the county commissioners court Monday on the grounds that they were incomplete. Those turned back were submitted by County Attorney Fulton and former County Clerk W. T. Harris.

The reports were submitted, together with several others, in compliance with instructions given by the commissioners at their meeting a week ago Monday. These instructions decreed that reports of all county officers for 1922 be in the hands of the county auditor within one week's time.

Together with the order affecting the reports, it was instructed that checks for excess fees be returned at the same time. Several of these came in, included in the lot being one from Mr. Harris, former county clerk, for $2,046.34, County Attorney Fulton, $500.40, and Justice of the Peace B. V. Gwinn, $27.

New bonds were executed by each of the commissioners Monday, these to remain in effect for the year. Judge Sartin and Mrs. Alma Y. Miller, county clerk, also submitted bonds which were approved.

Owens Declared Out of Danger; Others Rest Easy

Reports from the hospital last night said that J. M. Owens, who fell 12 feet from a derrick in the oil fields near Electra Sunday afternoon, was semi-conscious and although suffering from painful bruises would recover. In the fall Mr. Owens, who lives at 810 Labar street, landed on his back on a pipe and it was at first thought the injury was serious and he was rushed to the General hospital in this city where an examination showed that no bones were broken. He will be forced to remain in the hospital for several days. He is an employee of Lee Wilson, local contractor.

T. M. Dodd and A. F. Martin were resting easily, although the latter was suffering from painful headaches. Todd suffered a fractured skull last week when he was working on the dam and a concrete mover struck his head. A. F. Martin was injured on the Burkburnett road last week when the motorcycle on which he was riding struck a calf.

Wichita County Voting Precincts Will Be Divided

Decision to redivide county precincts this year in order to comply with the law regulating elections, was reached Monday by the county commissioners. The division is to be made, it was pointed out, because of the fact that a number of voting precincts in the county contain nearly a thousand voters, whereas the law states that no single precinct shall have over 350 voters.

Redistricting of the county will be made by the commissioners during the August term of court and will become effective the first of next year.

It was further decided by the commissioners to provide individual voting booths at the next election to remedy a condition existing here for years. The statutes provide that individual booths shall be fuhnished every voter in an election, but heretofore this has not been done.

Collapsible booths will probably be constructed in such manner that they can be used permanently.

Mary Violet Jones Buried on Monday

Mary Violet, 9-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Jones, 411 Virginia street, was buried yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in the Riverside cemetery following her death Sunday night at 9:30 o'clock. Funeral services were held from the Walnut Baptist church with the Rev. William L. Nelson officiating.

H. V. Jones, the father of the little girl, is well known in Wichita Falls, having been employed by the Wichita Ice company for some time.

Order Obstructions To Road Removed

Second order was given by the county commissioners Monday for removal of obstructions on the county road from Iowa Park to the Electra-Beaver creek highway. The order was directed at John and J. T. Waggoner, owners of the property traversed by the roadway.

Nearly a year ago order was issued by the court directing the Waggoners to remove gates anh other obstructions on the road. This was never done, it was reported Monday, and the second order followed immediately after.

Mrs. Hamrick Takes Stand in Damage Suit Against Denver

Plaintiff rested at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon in the case of Mrs. C. V. Hamrick vs. The Fort Worth and Denver City railroad, a damage suit involving $30,000, now on trial before Judge P. A. Martin in the Eighty-ninth district court. Mrs. Hamrick, reclining on a stretcher, was carried into the court room Monday afternoon and testified in her own behalf.

In her petition the plaintiff alleges that as a result of having been struck by a baggage truck last October, she suffered permanent and painful injuries. The truck is said to have been set in motion when struck by a locomotive operated by the defendant company.

A case of similar natuhe was tried last week in which Bessie Lowe, plaintiff, sought damages from the railroad company. It was settled out of court.

235 Food Handlers Inspected in Month

Two hundred and thirty-five food establishments were inspected by the city health department in February, according to report made public Monday by Dr. A. H. Douglas, head of the department. Fourteen dairy inspections were made and 18 dairy cattle tested. A total of 101 pounds of food products were condemned, four pounds of which were candy and the remainder meats.

Collections for the month totalled $356.75.

Assistant Juvenile Officer Is Illegal, New Ruling Says

Appointment and maintenance of an assistant probation officer by the county of Wichita is illegal, according to a ruling received here Monday from the attorney general's office at Austin. The order came to County Auditor Walsh after an appointment of such an official had been authorized two weeks ago by the commissioners court.

CHARLIE ROAD PROJECT LOSES

Motion Fails To Get Second in Court

Charlies road paving project which has been before the county commissioners court on eseveral previous occasions was brought up again Monday and lost when no second could be obtained to a motion to proceed with grading and graveling the road. The matter has been hanging fire for weeks, with indications pointing to continued indecision.

The work involves a three-mile unimproved stretch of the Charlie road which now forms a gap from the Clay county line to the end of the improved road in Wichita county. Efforts have been made repeatedly in the past to induce the commissioners to appropriate funds for grading and gravelling this gap, but thus far the appropriation has never been allowed.

Monday afternoon the matter was brought up by Judge Sartin and after some discussion Commissioner Jackson moved that funds be allowed for the improvement. No second was forthcoming and the motion was lost.

The Core—No More

Following the unusual weather conditions Sunday, yesterday dawned bright and clear with a slight wind to mar what would otherwise have been a perfect day. The lowest temperature was recorded at 6 a. m. when the temperature dropped to 44 degrees, but by 4 p. m. it had risen to 66 degrees.

H. N. Roberts, traffic manager of the Wichita Falls and Southern, is on a business trip to Tulsa.

W. D. Cline is expected back today from a business trip to Louisiana. Mrs. Cline and children, Irma and Henry, returned Monday afternoon, leaving Mr. Cline in Dallas.

E. B. Melton, traveling passenger agent of the Santa Fe, with headquarters in Fort Worth, was a business visitor Monday.

Not a single case was tried Monday morning in the city police court session, bonds being forfeited in each of the nine cases docketed.

Jim Bell, negro, was arrested Monday by Chief Deputy Miller on a warrant from Oklahoma charging a statutory offense. The charge was preferred by a 9-year-old girl, stepdaughter of Bell.

F. H. Harris, 906 Fourth street, left Sunday for Memphis, Tenn., where he was called by the death of his mother.

T. T. McKinney, who is to direct the business girls play "The Cameo Girl," arrived in the city Monday.

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed Monday with U. S. Commissioner Lantz by Myer Harris and William Chast of Electra. Assets of $5,350 and liabilities of $14,936 were listed.

A new Ford touring car, completely wrecked, was found in a ditch on the Seymour road several miles from town Monday. The machine had evidently been driven off the road by someone unfamiliar with the place.

Statements carried in The Record News Sunday to the effect that Mrs. Bennie Ellis, who figured in a habeas corpus hearing over the possession of a 3-year-old child, had remarried after a separation from her husband were incorrect. Mrs. Ellis informed The Record News that she did not remarry after the first separation.

Human Story Is Portrayed in Big Film at Olympic

CALENDAR FOR WEEK
At Empress And Olympic

Empress—Today and Wednesday: Viola Dana in "June Madness" Also Lloyd Hamilton in "The Educator."

Thursday, Friday, and Saturday: Peter B. Kyne's "Kindred Of The Dust."

Olympic—Today, through Thursday: Marion Davies In "When Knighthood Was In Flower."

Friday and Saturday: Jaquline Logan and James Kirkwood in "Ebb Tide."

An extremely interesting picture opened yesterday at the Strand Theatre, "The little Church Around the Corner," a screen adaptation from Charles Blaney's play. It proved an engrossing drama able to hold the attention of the audience throughout.

This picture strikes an individualistic note, and it is sure to be liked by all, for it has a rich plot with plenty of action. Some of the scenes in it make you want to rise from your seat, as for instance, the mob scenes. Never before has a mob been handled so perfectly that you forget you are only seeing them on the celluloid; the people in it live so intensely that you want to get up and join them. There are also elaborate interiors of a magnificence unimagined, alternating with the dingy streets of a mining town during a severe strike.

David Graham is a young minister who leaves the little mining town of his birth to preach in a fine church. In the course of events he falls in love with Lelia Morton, daughter of the millionaire mine owner who refuses to better the condition of his mine workers. Things go from bad to worse; a strike is declared; David rushes to his people, in the endeavor to keep them from violence. Then comes the high point, the young minister's quandary between allegiance to his workers, and his love for the daughter of the mine owner who will not give in. Morton is mobbed at the hands of furious strikers, a miracle is performed and the young minister almost loses his life before the end smoothes things out.

Claire Windsor is featured in the part of Leila Morton, and was both lovely and charming; Kenneth Harlan was excellent as David Graham, the minister, and Hobart Bosworth, as Morton, left nothing to be desired. The same could be said about the rest of the cast: Walter Long, Alec Francis, Pauline Stark, George Cooper, Margaret Seddon, Winter Hall and Cyril Chadwick.

Taylor Is Charged With Possession Of Grain Alcohol

Charges of possessing and transporting alcohol were filed Monday morning with United States Commissioner Lantz against Roy Taylor, proprietor of the Westland hotel. Commissioner Lantz set bond of $750, which was perfected, and Mr. Taylor released. Two negro porters of the hotel, arrested with Mr. Taylor, were released on $500 bond in connection with the same case.

The charges grew out of the seizure last week of 24 gallons of alleged pure grain alcohol, located in a baggage warehouse after it had been traced from the hotel conducted by Mr. Taylor. The liquid was shipped in here from Chicago, officers said.

Bad Ignition In Auto Causes Fire And $1000 Damage

Fire thought to have started from a short circuit in the electrical system of an automobile caused between $1,000 and $1,200 damage at the home of H. B. Mullholland, 1105 Ninth street, at noon Monday. The garage in which the machine was parked was completely destroyed, the car was damaged and some loss was suffered by the residence.

The flames spread from the garage to the house itself, but not until all the furnishings, even down to the rugs, had been removed. Water damage will probably be as great as that caused by fire and smoke.

The place was owned by T. E. Dodson and is reported to be covered by insurance.

Jazz Band to Play By Radio Tonight

Broadcasting station WKAF, located at the W. S. Auto and Radio Supply Co., Tenth and Scott, will broadcast this Tuesday night at 7:30 to 8:15 a program by the "Waldorf Foot Warmers" jazz band of six pieces, conducted by Mr. Proctor of the Columbia Music Shop. Those without radio receiving sets may hear the program at the broadcasting station, it is announced.

The program: "Chicago," "I wish I Could Shimmy Like My Sister Kate," "Some of These Days," "My Buddy," "Carolina in the Morning," "Rose of the Rio Grande," "When the Leaves Come Tumbling Down," "All Muddled Up."

Electra Permitted To String Power Line to Its Lake

Permission was granted by the county commissioners Monday to the city of Electra to string high power electric wires from the city to Electra lake, the wires to be strung on poles along the ounty highway.

A representative appeared before the commissioners with information that $7,000 worth of new equipment was being installed at the lake grounds and that the additional power transportation facilities were needed.

MISSES HIS MAN ONLY BY HOURS

Canadian Official At Frederick

FREDERICK, Okla., March 12.—Having failed to bag his game by a very few hours, Walter Owen, an inspector of the British Columbia Provincial Police of Canada, was in Frederick Sunday night, coming here from Devol after having found that Edward J. Donahue, wanted in Vancouver for embezzling $80,000, had drifted toward the balmy Mexican clime. Owen said all plans had been perfected for the man's arrest but that he "wised up" to the plan and left the cage empty when the officers attempted to close the doors.

WOULD REGULATE BLACKS

FREDERICK, Okla. — Believing that "niggers" are all right in nigher-town but should be told which streets to take to and from the city, an anonymous letter writer has asked the sheriff's department to regulate the going of the blacks to certain streets in this city. The sheriff's office has passed the buck to the mayor and the mayor gives no indications of getting "all het up" over the matter.

PAY DAY FOR SOLDIERS

FREDERICK, Okla.—"Pay day, pay day—watcher goin' do with drunk soldier—?" But hist, there aren't any more drunk soldiers, but just the same the bugle will peal forth this rather unfamiliar call Tuesday night and the gallant lads of Company H. Machine Gunners, will accept the uncle's dollars for work done the last quarter of 1922.

WILL LET CONTRACTS

FREDERICK, Okla.—Contract for the construction of two reinforced concrete bridges and a spillway will be let by the board of county commissioners at their meeting Saturday. One bridge and the spillway will be placed one mile north of Hollister and the other bridge will be placed four miles north and nine miles east of Frederick.

FREDERICK GIRL DIES

FREDERICK, Okla. — Bertha Pace, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pace, 507 East Gladstone avenue, died Sunday morning of influenza after an illness of five weeks. The funeral was held from the Methodist church Monday afternoon, the Rev. C. C. Barnhardt officiating.

Neff's Appointees Considered Today

AUSTIN, March 12.—Senate will go into executive session tomorrow to pass finally on the remaining appointments of Goveror Neff, and also, to pass upon appointments of notaries. Several thousand notaries will be passed on. The governor's appointments of five members of the state text book commission and public weighers of Harris county remain to be acted upon.

New Garage Opens

CLARENDON, Tex., March 12.—Saturday was opening day of the new brick garage and filling station just opened by R. L. Bigger, a box of candy being given to each woman customer, and one quart of oil being given to each man who filled his car with gasoline.

Clarendon Gets Rain

CLARENDON, Texas, March 12.—A slow rain of three inches has fallen here since 8 o'clock Saturday night, making three and ninety-five-hundredths inches in the past two weeks.

This rain will help greatly at this time, making prospects better for the year.

Attempt to Pass Witt Bill Over Veto Withdrawn

AUSTIN, March 12.—An attempt to pass the Witt bill creating the Tenth court of civil appeals at Waco over the governor's veto, was withdrawn in the house this afternoon when it was discovered a quorum was not present, and also, that the measure lacked the necessary two-thirds to pass. Shires of Waco led the fight to put the measure over the governor's veto. He said another attempt will ba made to pass the bill when a quorum of the house is present. This Will necessarily be tonight or tomorrow.

The Witt bill was legally passed over the chief executive's veto in the senate this morning, by a vote of 19 to six. An attempt to reconsider the vote was tabled by the same vote.
