LIBRARY PROGRAM

The Howard County Library will welcome representatives of the South Plains Wildlife Rehab Center and their many friends today. In the past, the group has brought owls, golden eagles, hawks and possums in an entertaining and educational program aimed at children.

The program will get under way in the Howard County Library's Community Room, located in the facility's basement, at 4:30 p.m. and is expected to last approximately 45 minutes. The event is free to the public, although donations are certainly welcome and encouraged.

COMING SUNDAY

Making sure kids eat well when they go back to school needn't be difficult. With a little planning, you can get kids involved in choices about what to eat that are both good for them and a learning experience.

County looks to save on retirees' insurance premiums

By ROGER CLINE
Staff Writer

Changes to the Howard County retiree health insurance plan adopted by commissioners Wednesday should save the county more than $34,000 in premiums next year and mean only minor alterations in coverage.

Commissioners voted unanimously to fund the Silver Choice plan, a Medicaid supplement, for retirees who qualify instead of regular health insurance.

To qualify for the plan, retirees must be at least 65 years old and have Medicaid Parts A and B.

The only change in coverage under the Silver Choice plan will be in the area of prescription medication. Silver Choice offers an incentive for retirees to purchase generic prescriptions instead of more expensive name-brand medication.

Retirees younger than 65 would continue to receive county-funded health insurance.

"It really doesn't hurt them any, as long as they have Medicaid A and B, but right now the county is over-insuring people over 65, because they pay for the same things Medicaid covers," said County Clerk Donna Wright.

"That's the main idea behind it," County Judge Ben Lockhart agreed. "That's the way I understand it. There may be a few changes but basically it's the same."

Under the plan currently in place, Howard County would pay $421.36 per month for each of its 52 retirees next year, for a total of $21,910 per month or $262,929 annually.

Under the new scheme, the county will continue to pay the $421.36 for its 21 retirees under the age of 65 who don't qualify for

Forsan ISD trustees to work on budget

By LYNDEL MOODY

Staff Writer

FORSAN — More tweaking of the 2003-2004 budget tops the list things to consider for Forsan Independent School District trustees when they meet tonight.

"We looked at the preliminary budget in July but this meeting will be more in depth," said Fisd Superintendent Wayne Rotan.

ROTAN

Faced with a $275,000 loss in total revenue, the district is considering a projected $400,000 to $450,000 budget deficit, but Rotan estimates actual numbers will more likely round out to $300,000 to $350,000 at the end of the year.

"Luckily we have a healthy fund balance, thanks to the past superintendents and past board members," Rotan said.

If approved, this would be the second year trustees have adopted a deficit budget.

Two men narrowly escaped serious injury Wednesday afternoon on Highway 821, five miles east of Interstate 20. The driver of a white Ford, 24-year-old Joseph Abraham of Midland, was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way to a GMC pick up truck driven by 46-year-old Mank Hedges of Big Spring. Neither driver was seriously injured; both refused treatment at the scene.

"We liked the looks of those pre-med students better," she said. "But we were not looking for a husband. We were looking to become a doctor ourselves."

After a year of pre-med classes at the University of Texas at Austin, Sanders was accepted to the University of Texas School of Medicine in Galveston.

At Galveston, the strong-willed young woman decided she did like the looks of a certain medical student — Virgil Sanders, who hailed from Big Spring.

The couple were married on Sept. 9, 1942, the year she graduated from medical school.

After medical school, Dr. Nell headed to Baltimore, Md., to perform her residency at the Baltimore Eye, Ear & Throat Hospital.

Dr. Virgil worked two years as plant surgeon for Bethlehem Steel Co. in Baltimore during this time, then interned at Santa Rosa Hospital in San Antonio.

The couple came to Big Spring in 1945.

It was a memorable ride from Baltimore to Big Spring.

"We drove 35 miles an hour from Baltimore to Big Spring," she said. "We had a merry Oldsmobile. It was a second hand car. I think we paid $350. We didn't learn until the following spring where to turn the heater on. We froze to death from Baltimore to Big Spring."

Both Dr. Nell and Dr. Virgil worked for the Malone and Hogan group and in Stanton before opening the Medical Arts Hospital in 1949 with Dr. Virgil's brother, Dr. Preston Sanders.

For 30 years, the hospital served Big Spring residents until its transition into a clinic with both Drs. Sanders continuing to see patients.

"Dr. Virgil used to say we closed the clinic to get rid of a nurse," Sanders said. "She (Alice Haynes) was supposed to work for us at the hospital for three months. She worked there for 30 years."

Haynes served as the hospital's LVN school supervisor, a program started by Dr. Nell in 1952 and ended in 1968 after graduating 169 students.

Sanders said the real reason behind closing the hospital was the difficulty of recruiting qualified doctors that met the two physicians' standards.

Dr. Nell continued to practice medicine until her early 80s and Medical Arts Clinic finally closed in the mid-1990s.

Then in 1998, Dr. Virgil did something unforgivable, according to Dr. Nell. He died.

"I still haven't forgiven him," she said. "When I see him next, I'm going to shake my crooked finger at him."

"That is just to get everybody in a good, boisterous mood, get them up and moving, and thinking about the scholarships."

The display of school spirit also has an ulterior motive, she added.

"Getting them to remember their days at Aggieland by getting them up and singing the War Hymn and maybe doing a yell or two," she said. "Getting them remembering what they enjoyed about the school so much. That way maybe they'll spend a little bit more to send other kids down for that unique experience."

The event began at 5 p.m. with a cocktail hour to give those attending a chance to examine the goods up for auction. Yell practice and the auction itself follow at 6. The action this year will take place at the Big Spring Country Club.

The event isn't just limited to Aggies, though.

"We're encouraging everybody to come," she said. "Aggies aren't the only people we want there. We want everybody."

All proceeds from the auction will go to fund scholarships to Texas A&M for graduates from Howard County high schools and hopefully to endow a new permanent scholarship.

We have two endowed scholarships and we're working on a third one," Niklasch said. "We're still in the process of trying to get all the paperwork done. This year we're hoping to raise enough money to endow a fourth scholarship."

Up for auction this year are a trip to the PGA Masters golf practice in 2004; a basketball autographed by the 1992 Olympic "Dream Team" including Larry Bird, Earvin "Magic" Johnson, Michael Jordan, Karl Malone and others; and a football autographed by the most valuable players from the first 25 years of Super Bowls, including Joe Namath, Larry Csonka, Joe Montana, Franco Harris, Roger Staubach, Terry Bradshaw and Bart Starr. Also on the auction block are a framed and matted limited edition lithograph showing the Dallas Cowboys of the 1970s, hand signed by 35 Cowboy legends including Staubach, coach Tom Landry, team president Tex Schramm, Bob Lilly and Tony Dorsett; a Pittsburgh Steelers helmet signed by Bradshaw and Harris; and the book "Reaching for the Stars" by Troy Aikman and Staubach, signed by both authors.

Other autographs being auctioned include those of Pete Rose, Nolan Ryan and Tiger Woods; and Aggie greats John David Crow, Bucky Richardson, Leeland McElroy, Gregg "The Thrill" Hill and Dat Nguyen.

Autographed albums are also up for grabs, including the Eagles' "The Long Run," Chicago's "Chicago," Billy Joel's "Piano Man" and Reba McEntire's "Merry Christmas To You." Many other items are also available.

was calculated to have a $440,000 shortfall but the district is expected to finish the current fiscal year in the black.

"We managed to put a little back," Rotan noted.

Even though faced with declining funds, Forsan joins the rest of Howard County school systems by attempting to protect its employees from the effects of the state insurance pass-through loss.

"We made sure no employees are going to take home less money than last year," Rotan said. "All teachers got a step raise and other employees whose raise did not make up the $500 loss, we made up that money. I thank the board members for their honest work and I feel like they made a strong stand for the employees."

Before heading into the budget workshop, trustees will begin with a walk through of the Elbow Elementary campus at 6 p.m. The board meeting will follow immediately at the administration board room, 411 West Sixth in Forsan.

Also on the agenda, trustees will consider:

- Participating in Region 18 Education Service Center programs.

- Proposals on property, casualty insurance and fitness program equipment.

- Setting a date for public hearings on 2003-2004 budget and proposed tax rate.

- Adopting a proposed tax rate.

precincts, because it's not real feasible to spend $20,000 in equipment for a polling place that has 50 voters," she said. "We may have to look at some cuts like that. All that is actually mandated by the state is that you have to have one polling place in each commissioner's precinct. So we only have to have four. We have 20 now, so there's room for us to save some major money on those $3,000 machines."

Part of the bill will be paid by federal grants, she said.

"There are going to be some federal monies, but not near enough," she said. "They've given us a figure of about $100,000, but if we combine precincts, that cuts down on the amount of money they're going to give us."

Wright said she plans to try to get some of the machines to demonstrate during the 2004 elections.

"We want to get the word out that they're not scary," she said. "You go through and you punch your people. One of the federal requirements is that it has to give the person the opportunity to review their whole ballot in front of their face. It will show you everybody you voted for. It will ask you if you want to vote and if you say 'no,' you can go back and make changes. It won't let you vote for two people. You're vote isn't cast until you hit the 'vote' button saying that's exactly the way you want it to go."

The "Disabled Recording Electronic" devices, or DREs, will have headphones to accommodate blind voters, she added.

Learning the machines will probably cause some initial delays at polling places, she added.

"The problem we're going to have, especially in the first year, is that it's going to be slow because people aren't going to know how to use them."

OUR VIEWS

Let's all support Saturday night's A&M Club auction

How many Aggies does it take to fund a scholarship? It depends on how free they are with their purses and wallets come Saturday evening when the Howard County A&M Club Scholarship Auction gets under way at the Big Spring Country Club.

The annual rally raises funds to send local students to Texas A&M University. The group has two endowed scholarships and is working on a third. Organizers hope Saturday's event will allow them to be able to create a fourth.

There seems little question this weekend's event will be a success, since the Texas Aggies are renowned for not only their spirit, but their pride in Aggieland.

Of course, the event is open to anyone who would like to bid on the items, or anyone just interested in helping some students get a better education.

Items up for auction appeal to the sports fan — a trip to the PGA Master's practice in 2004, a basketball autographed by the 1992 Olympic "Dream Team," a signed book by Troy Aikman and Roger Staubach, autographed items by Terry Bradshaw, Tony Dorsett, Pete Rose, Nolan Ryan and Tiger Woods, and a lot more. There are also signed musical works by the Eagles, Chicago, Billy Joel and Reba McEntire. The list goes on and on.

A cocktail hour begins the night's entertainment at 5 p.m. The auction will begin at 6.

The auction always promises a good time, but more importantly, it helps young men and women get a better education. And that's certainly worth making a bid for.

YOUR VIEWS

TO THE EDITOR:

I seldom respond to anything in the paper, but I wanted to let you know that your editorial in Sunday's paper entitled "We've a need for spiritual revival" was right on the money. I totally agree with you.

My parents lived through the Depression and I was born into it. I remember being taught right from wrong, sometimes at the end of the razor strap. It wasn't child abuse then and I learned a whole more about values because of it.

Also, I wanted to thank you (or whoever is responsible) for bringing back Molly Ivins. Love her column. She is a hoot.

A SMALL PRAYER

Dear Lord, heal our souls, repair our dreams and set us upon solid ground.

How budgets get done - or not

Pontificating in his Capitol office, California Assembly Republican Leader Dave Cox succinctly assessed the budget situation.

"Speaking for the Republican side of the aisle, we believe that the government spends more than it takes in. Our friends on the other side of the aisle believe that we have a revenue problem."

Spending did rise hugely under Gov. Gray Davis (as did tax relief). In 1999, Davis signed a $79 billion budget (and decreased the auto-license fees as part of a budget agreement made during Gov. Pete Wilson's last year). Two years later, he signed a $100 billion budget. State spending rose 37 percent in four years. The dot-com tax revenue dried up, but dot-com-level spending remained.

If voters should learn anything from the state's record $38 billion budget shortfall, Cox believes, it should be, "One party rule doesn't work."

Alas, the GOP has failed to come across as the party with a serious solution. Tuesday afternoon, Senate Republicans voted on their own budget proposals. Senate GOP leader Jim Brulte patted the Rs on their collective back for not raising taxes. True, the GOP bill did target some egregious small-ticket boondoggles. But in the name of cutting spending, the GOP also tried to raise spending by restoring Democrat-proposed budget cuts in the over-protected Department of Corrections. The net "savings" added up to just $2.7 billion.

Bottom line: It wasn't a serious effort. They didn't even pass their own bill. None of the Senate's 25 Democrats voted for the measure. Worse, two of the Senate's 15 Repubs failed to support it.

Even some Democrats concede the GOP may win its quest to get a budget passed without a tax hike — that is, other than the $4 billion car-fee tax raised administratively by Team Davis in June.

Legislators have seen polls that show that voters oppose essentially any tax — unless it squeezes smokers or rich people.

But Gov. Gray Davis told me he anticipated a budget with "a new revenue source" to finance borrowing $10.7 billion to help balance the budget, the most banded-about source being a temporary half-cent sales tax.

After the Senate vote, Senate President Pro Tem John Burton spoke to me in favor of higher taxes. I mentioned the polls on taxes.

"So what?" Burton boomed.

"People would repeal the Bill of Rights if you put it on the ballot."

This is important because the buzz in the building says that only Brulte and Burton have the juice to cut a budget deal. Forget the Big Five budget negotiators: Say hello to the Big Two.

The Big Two are now $2 billion apart — and Brulte spokesman H. D. Palmer insisted, "I don't know how much clearer Republicans can possibly be in their statement that they're not going to support a budget predicated on a tax increase."

I called former Gov. Wilson to ask what he would do in similar circumstances. Indeed, Wilson found himself in similar circumstances — although Wilson is quick to point out that he inherited his $14 billion shortfall when he was elected governor in 1990.

To start, Wilson rejects the move to borrow $10.7 billion to balance the budget (an idea first proposed by Republicans, Davis noted). "Essentially what they're doing is violating the constitutional prohibition against deficit spending," Wilson explained.

After prolonged negotiations with Democrats, who wanted borrowing instead of spending cuts, Wilson agreed to cut spending by $7 billion and raise taxes temporarily by the same amount.

When Republicans balked, Wilson made it clear they'd have to cut school funding — and take the heat for it — to prevail. And that's how he got the budget done.

Wilson told me he advised the newly elected Davis that "this Legislature requires a strong hand. They will be utterly irresponsible without the governor constraining them and will spend all the money they have and more, if you let them, so you can't let them."

Israel: the 'Wall' and the 'Messiah'

One of Washington's leading private power brokers, with intimate contacts inside the Bush administration, suggested a meaningful line for the president of the United States when he met the prime minister of Israel at the White House last Tuesday: "Mr. Sharon, tear down this wall!" In fact, President Bush did not come close.

A self-confident Prime Minister Ariel Sharon encountered no resistance from the president when he made clear he would continue building the "security fence" as a physical barrier between Palestinians and Israelis. Bush's passivity was underscored by a remarkable performance inside Israel at the same time by House Majority Leader Tom DeLay. The powerful Republican leader, addressing members of the Knesset, did not mention the "wall" in an unqualified call to arms for Israel.

This combination of events was profoundly depressing for those Republicans, in the administration and Congress, who have prayed that George W. Bush would capitalize on the overthrow of Saddam Hussein by insisting on a Middle East settlement including a Palestinian state. They feel that the president's intent is pure, but that he is overpowered by the combination of Sharon and DeLay.

Nobody can quite recall anything to match the four-day reception afforded DeLay in Israel. The former pest exterminator from Sugarland, Texas, has been derisively dubbed the "Messiah" by a Democratic political operative active in Jewish affairs for the past generation. Sharon delayed his eighth visit to Washington to confer with Bush for a private session with DeLay.

DeLay represents the unconditional support for Israel that once was limited in Congress to Jewish Democrats, who are far less influential than the born-again Christian. He is an important counterweight to Secretary of State Colin Powell, who has convinced Bush to lead in pursuing the "roadmap" for the Palestinian state essential to peace. Bush sincerely accepts this, but shares with DeLay his Christian beliefs and uncompromising commitment to the Jewish state.

The president, according to close associates, also is drawn to "Ariel," as he calls him. The rough-hewn style of the 75-year-old former general may offend some fellow statesmen, but Bush admires and likes him. In one-on-one sessions, the president finds it difficult to confront the prime minister.

Sharon's confidence in his relationship with both Bush and DeLay may convince him it is no longer necessary to continue the visits to Capitol Hill common to his previous stays in Washington. For the first time as prime minister, Sharon did not schedule a session with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee (where he could expect vigorous examination, from both sides of the aisle, about the wall).

Recent sessions with other players in the Mideast drama led the senators to regret that they could not question Sharon. Palestinian Prime Minister Mahmoud Abbas, in meeting with the Foreign Relations Committee, put the wall on the top of his worries — calling it a barrier to any meaningful peace.

The committee's encounter with Israeli Foreign Minister Silvan Shalom was not reassuring. Asked about the wall, Shalom told the senators it would not come down until the Palestinian Authority completely suppresses Hamas, Hezbollah and all other terrorist groups. That mandates what Abbas considers a bloody Palestinian civil war, which would be the antithesis of peace.

Last Tuesday's meeting in the White House duplicated past dialogues between Bush and Sharon — the president backing away from confrontation after spending time with the old Israeli warrior. Four days earlier while meeting with Abbas, Bush had promised to push Sharon about the wall. In their joint press conference in the Rose Garden, however, Sharon defied U.S. opposition to the wall, and Bush supported the prime minister's position by expressing the hope the barrier would become "irrelevant."

Speaking the next day at a Knesset reception hall, DeLay delivered an unequivocal endorsement of Israeli policy with assurances that Bush is no even-handed mediator. DeLay was condescending toward Abbas, asserting he "may be" the leader to get rid of Palestinian terrorists, adding, "peace is worth giving him a chance." Palestinian hard-liners seized on DeLay's comments, with longtime Yasser Arafat lieutenant Saeb Erekat calling them "despicable and satanic." It was not a good week for peace in the Middle East.

City crews work to fix water main

By LYNDEL MOODY
Staff Writer

A water main break has prompted the city of Big Spring to close a section of Main Street at the intersection of Fourth Street.

"We'll have it closed through Friday and maybe possibly through the weekend," said Rick Boiles, the city's distribution and collection superintendent. "We've got a temporary solution (for water supply) and are keeping everybody with water."

About 7 a.m. Wednesday, city crews responded to a report of water flowing up from an area on Main Street, said Jim Piper, distribution and collection supervisor.

Work crews were digging to get to the east-west, eight-inch water main on Main Street when the front wheel of a dump truck that was pulling into the area fell into an eight-foot by eight-foot sink hole, Piper said.

No one was injured and the truck did not suffer any damage, Piper said.

"The guy (driver) felt like he was going through a little dip," Boiles said.

Crews rescued the truck by filling its bed with dirt to lever the front end upward and reversed the truck out of the hole.

Once the truck was removed, city workers found the sink hole was caused by another leaking eight-inch water main.

"The pipe was not on the map," said Boiles.

"We're going to start replacing the pipes tomorrow. We're going to reconfigure the pipes because the old configuration is not good."

Three or four businesses

City crews block off a section of Main Street at the corner of Fourth Street to replace two water main breaks Wednesday. The city expects to keep the area closed down until at least Friday. Three to four neighboring businesses were without water for about six hours Wednesday until crews found a temporary solution to the problem.

for six hours before crews found a temporary solution. "We've barricaded that area. The biggest inconvenience is there is no parking in front of the Ritz Theater or Wells Fargo," Boiles said.

Veterans plan protest at Bush's ranch

WACO (AP) — A group of veterans who don't want to see the Waco Veterans Affairs Hospital close have scheduled a noisy procession Crawford, which is near President Bush's ranch.

Rumbling motorcycles will lead the group from the Waco hospital to nearby Crawford the morning of Aug. 16, said Bill Mahon, chairman of the McLennan County Veterans Association.

"We hope that by being mobile we will wake up the president himself and more of the communities to this current issue," Mahon said.

Bush began a monthlong working vacation at his Crawford ranch earlier this month.

Waco residents learned Monday that its VA hospital may close so that resources can go to build hospitals in other areas. The draft proposal — which also suggests closing six other hospitals across the country — now is under study by a 15-member independent commission. The commission, known as CARES, for Capital Asset Realignment for Enhanced Services, will make its own recommendations to VA Secretary Anthony J. Principi at the end of the year.

The 71-year-old Waco hospital served more than 17,000 patients last year and employs 800 people. It has 250 inpatient beds.

RETIREEES

Silver Choice.

The Silver Choice plan breaks down premiums by age. For retirees 65 to 69, the county will pay $234 per month; for those 70 to 74, $281 per month; 75 to 79, $385 per month; and 80 and above, $414 per month.

The premiums for retirees 65 and older will cost the county $122,556 per year, while the premiums for those younger than 65 will cost $106,092, for a total of $228,648.

The only change in coverage under the Silver Choice plan will be in the area of prescription medication. Silver Choice offers an incentive for retirees to purchase generic prescriptions instead of more expensive name-brand medication.

Those covered under the plan would pay a $7 co-pay for each generic prescription filled, or 50 percent of the cost on name-brand drugs. Under the current plan, retirees pay the same for prescriptions as employees: A $5, $15 or $30 co-pay, depending on the medication.

The county's retiree insurance program is more generous than many around the state.

County Auditor Jackie Olson conducted a survey of similarly sized counties around the state, other West Texas counties and local entities.

Hale, Kleburg, Upshur, Waller, Washington and Wood counties have populations similar to that of Howard County. Hale County does not offer retiree health insurance. Kleburg County offers a plan, but pays half the premium for the retiree only, and then only when budget limitations allow. Upshur County does not offer a retiree insurance plan. Waller County pays $463.24 per retiree toward premiums, and retirees foot the entire bill in Washington and Wood counties.

Around the area, Midland County pays $194 toward health insurance premiums per retiree and the retiree pays the balance. Nolan County does not offer retiree health insurance. Scurry County pays $142.19 per retiree, and retirees foot the entire bill in Tom Green County.

Retirees from the city of Big Spring also pay their own premiums, as do Big Spring Independent School District retirees.

The state pays 100 percent of health insurance premiums for Howard College retirees.

Except at the center. "This kind of treatment, a kind that addresses the total need of the family, is scarce," Paul Harris, an addiction drug specialist for the University of Illinois at Chicago, said in a phone interview. "There are not enough services for the amount of people who need them, especially in urban areas and inner-city regions, and children get lost in the process."

Nothing about the center's brightly painted, well-furnished rooms hints at the problems it treats. Scores of children, grouped by age, are supervised and tutored by adults, fed meals and surrounded by a proliferation of books. The focus, clearly, is on children; the mothers are in the program for themselves and for their children.

"I wanted so much to get better. I wanted so much to get out of the lifestyle I was leading," said Hogan, 41. "I joined the program for myself, but I did it for my kids, too. After what they've been through, after dragging them around from place to place, they've needed stability. They found that at the center."

While mothers complete a four-phase program that lasts 16 to 18 months, their children play and study together, and therapy groups serve those with depression, hyperactivity and separation anxiety. When the mother and her children arrive at the center, they go separate ways, touching base during the day and at the end of the sessions. The mothers receive training, take parenting classes and get substance abuse education and physical health screenings. The center helps them find jobs when they graduate.

Hogan said she stopped working in 1992 — she had been a circulation assistant for the Hyattsville, Md., Library and a typist for the Maryland State Department of Agriculture — when Dante was born.

Work? "I was too busy getting high," Hogan said of the reason she went on welfare. Her grandmother, Clara, took care of her children. "I was high 24/7, you know, and there were times I was too busy to even worry about welfare money for my kids."

These days, her children are her life. She got all of them back by June 2002, and since then, they've lived together, in a two-bedroom apartment at the House of Ruth Reunited Families, a temporary home for mothers and their children.

"There are other women out there on welfare whose money first goes to the crackman on the street before it goes to their children. I know that. I was one of them," Hogan said as she recalled the road she traveled to the House of Ruth. The people there referred her to the center, where she found her way out of dependency, into her new job, and on to her hopes for a better life. That begins, she said, with a part-time position where she can help other mothers deal with a problem she knows best: addiction.

Hogan's problem was simply addiction. But some of the mothers, said the center's Sutton, have histories of abuse, and the children might have suffered both physically and emotionally from their mothers' addiction and the neglect it can lead to.

For all the mothers and their families, lack of transportation has always been a big hurdle, she said, so the center picks them up in the morning and drops them back at their houses in the afternoon. "You have no excuse to not come to the center," Hogan said. "They've taken care of everything."

And her children, she said, look forward to their time there.

Hogan said she has noticed the benefits of the program, particularly in Trevon, 7, who, she said, has attention deficit hyperactive disorder. "Trevon is learning to focus, he's getting along with others, his social skills have improved. He actually played volleyball with some kids last week," she said, smiling.

Tiana, 9, is losing her shyness, Hogan said, and Dante, 11, always the social butterfly, has made even more friends.

"My kids share something in common with the other kids at the center. They have, in some ways, the same experiences. They've bonded because of that," Hogan said.

Seeing their children helped motivate the mothers to stick with the substance abuse program, Edwards said, and Hogan acknowledged that it helped keep her in the program.

Last month she completed the center's program, and she will move into her first apartment, a three-bedroom unit in Montgomery County, next month. She has begun working part-time for Sacred Authority, the Rebecca Project's leadership network of mothers. She plans to go on to college — she has a GED — and hopes to become a certified addiction counselor.

"This is all new to me," she said. "But I am happy, my kids are happy. ... We're all starting a new life together."

Local junior high, high school dress codes revised

HERALD Staff Report

Big Spring secondary schools are taking a big flip-flop in the dress code, at least where one-type of footwear is of concern.

Beginning in with this school year, junior high and high school students will be allowed to wear flip-flops to class.

"There are so many styles of flip-flops that it is becoming hard to constantly enforce that rule," explained Mike Ritchey, Big Spring High School principal.

In another change to the dress code, male students are allowed to wear an untucked shirt as long as the shirt tail does not extend beyond first knuckle of the thumb when their hands are down by their sides.

If you're planning to take advantage of summer sales to stock up school clothes, you may want to take a quick review of the dress code.

Dresses and Skirts: Hemlines of dresses and skirts can not be worn higher than the width of a dollar bill from the top of the knee. The slit of the skirt cannot exceed the length of a dollar bill from the top of the knees. Dresses or tops with spaghetti straps are not permitted unless they are worn with a jacket over them.

Shorts: Shorts will be allowed as long as they reach the top of the knee in length and must be worn on the waist. Form-fitting shorts, such as spandex or bicycle pants are not acceptable. When wearing spandex underneath a skirt or pair of shorts, the outer garment will be the one measured in length. Jogging or nylon "wind" shorts are not acceptable.

Shirts: Crop tops, tube tops, halters, and strapless dresses are not acceptable. Transparent and/or see-through material is unacceptable. Any strap on the shoulders of a dress or blouse must be the width of a dollar bill. Any blouse, shirt, or top deemed by the administrators to be too low and/or revealing will be inappropriate for school. Students will be in violation of the school dress code and will be asked to change shirts before being allowed to return to the classroom. Sleeveless shirts are not permitted for males. Shirts or blouses must cover the entire torso at all times, even in movement. Shirts, jackets, or any clothing with decorations, patches, lettering advertisement, etc., that may be considered obscene or offensive are not to be worn at school. This includes garments or jewelry that refer to marijuana, tobacco, alcohol, sex, violence—and other topics deemed inappropriate by the administration. All shirts, including T-shirts and blouses, do not have to be tucked in unless the length of any part of the shirt exceeds the first knuckle of the thumb when hands are down by the sides.

Pants: Slacks, blue jeans, khakis, etc. must fit and must be worn on the waist. Overalls must be worn with both bib straps up and fastened.

Accessories: Hair should be kept neat, clean and reasonably styled. No Mohawks, spikes, "dreads", or oddly shaved hair-dos are allowed. Hair color must be of a natural color (no purple, green, blue, bright red, etc.) Head coverings of any type are not appropriate for the school setting. Knit caps are seasonal and are not to be worn indoors. Belts must fit appropriately. Any extra length of the belt must be tucked into the belt loops or the pants.

Proper undergarments should be worn. No facial hair is allowed (mustache, beard, goatee, etc.). Sideburns must not exceed the bottom of the earlobe. Pajamas and/or house shoes (slippers) are not allowed. Chains and spike jewelry are both unacceptable. Visibly pierced body parts, other than the ears, are not allowed. Boys' ear adornments are acceptable as long as they do not dangle from the earlobe. There will be no "gouging" of the earlobes. Colored bandanas are not allowed on any part of the body unless approved by an administrator.

Shoes: All footwear needs to fit appropriately so the student can move about safely in the classrooms, hallways and stairwells. Therefore, tennis shoes, dress shoes, boots and sandals—including flip-flops—are acceptable.

Conduct on the bus:

- Remain seated while the bus is moving until the bus has halted and the door opens.

McLeod takes third in WT Junior Tour event

By TOMMY WELLS
Sports Editor

Jon McLeod is getting a new name on the West Texas golf tour: It's simply "Big Jon."

McLeod turned in another big-time performance earlier this week when he nailed down third at the West Texas Junior Tour Championships in Fort Stockton. The Big Spring standout fired a 152 over the two-day event and finished just three strokes off the winning pace.

The 13-year-old standout helped set the pace in the first round. Using a solid putting game, McLeod penciled in a 75 over the first 18 holes and went into the final round trailing Brownwood's Zac Browder and Spring Branch's Cam Sconiers by a single stroke.

McLeod wasn't able to keep pace with Browder in the finale, however. Browder hammered out a 75 on the final day to win the overall crown.

Sconiers and McLeod both posted rounds of 77 over the final 18.

McLeod wasn't the only Crossroads standout making waves at the event. In all five area golfers participated in the tournament.

Garden City's Marcus Cook finished fourth in the 7-11 boys' division. Cook blistered the course over the backside with a 36 and rallied to an 81 overall.

Robert Lee's Logan Philley won the 7-11 age bracket with a 78. Sonora's Garrett Smith and Monahan's Rex Rose finished second and third, respectively.

Coahoma's Jake Owens

finished 10th in the division. He turned in rounds of 50 and 41 and finished at 91.

Big Spring's Tommy Billaba garnered 10th place honors in the 14-15 boys' division with a 168. Billaba recovered from a tough opening round to finish in the Top 10. After shooting an 89 over the first 18, he rallied to post a 79 on the final day.

Rachel Gee finished sixth in the girls' 15-18 division with a 180.

Blalock rallies Texas past NY

NEW YORK (AP) — Questions have been raised about the New York Yankees' bullpen all season.

Some may have been answered Wednesday, but others remained a mystery.

Closer Mariano Rivera threw away a bunt to set up Hank Blalock's two-run, pinch-hit single in the ninth inning as the Texas Rangers rallied for a 5-4 win over the Yankees on Wednesday night.

New York swapped right-handed relievers with the Seattle Mariners earlier in the day, reacquiring Jeff Nelson for Armando Benítez.

"We've won with him before," Yankees manager Joe Torre said of Nelson. "So there's a lot of questions already answered."

Nelson arrived at Yankee Stadium during the game, but was not in uniform.

The Rangers had been 0-59 this season when trailing after eight innings, but they came back against Rivera, who has blown three of his last five save opportunities.

"He's just had a bad week, he's human," New York shortstop Derek Jeter said.

"He's just in a slump," Torre added.

Blalock's single scored pinch-runner Laynce Nix and Sadler.

"This kind of game happens in baseball," Rivera said. "Tonight, I lost on an error. That was the game."

Kobe's next court date set

EAGLE, Colo. (AP) — NBA superstar Kobe Bryant made his first court appearance on a sexual assault charge at a seven-minute hearing that created a media frenzy in this quiet mountain town.

Attorneys for the 24-year-old Bryant waived his right to be formally advised of the felony assault charge, sparing the Los Angeles Lakers guard even more time in the courtroom jammed with reporters.

Eagle County Judge Frederick Gannett set an Oct. 9 preliminary hearing to determine whether the closely watched case will go to trial.

Bryant said he had consensual sex with his accuser, a 19-year-old college student who worked at the front desk of the Lodge & Spa at Cordillera in nearby Edwards, but is innocent of assault.

BUFFALO BRAINTRUST

New Forsan head coach Tommy Thompson talks with his players during the morning workout with his players Wednesday afternoon. Thompson, a longtime assistant at Forsan, replaces Steve Park as the Buffaloes' head coach this season. Forsan's preseason scrimmage slate begins Aug. 16 in Grape Creek.

Texans look to improve stout defense

HOUSTON (AP) — The expansion Texans, saddled with a rookie-laden offense that misfired more often than not, needed their veteran defense to come through last season.

Vic Fangio's unit responded with several strong games, producing two Pro Bowlers while ranking 16th in yardage yielded. This season, it returns 10 starters who already are immersed in his 3-4 scheme.

"I think our defense last year did well, but I think there's a lot of room for improvement," said cornerback Aaron Glenn, who along with defensive end Gary Walker reached the Pro Bowl. "There's no reason we shouldn't be better than 16th."

Glenn rejects a statistical fact that made the Texans' ranking more impressive than it sounds. Because the offense was near the bottom in time of possession with an average of 28:06 per game, Texans defenders were on the field more than their counterparts on 27 teams.

Houston

Of the top 20 defenses, only Carolina's and Washington's came on teams whose offenses held the ball less than 30 minutes a game. Dallas, with the 18th-ranked defense, was the only unit on the list whose offense had worse time of possession than the Texans.

That was last year, though, and 10 returning starters feel like they're light years ahead of where they were last training camp, when an expansion fog sometimes settled over the practice field.

"You don't hear as much screaming," outside linebacker Kaileb Wong said. "That's one of the biggest things this year. You don't hear a lot of extra chatter."

Fangio said his three-lineman scheme, used by only a handful of clubs in a league dominated by four-man lines, was completely iristalled by the end of last season. With everyone back except linebacker Jeff Posey, who signed with Buffalo, he can concentrate more on fine-tuning this camp.

"It's easy to tinker with it with those 10 of 11 guys," Fangio said. "We're trying to find the right outside linebacker to fill the void left by Posey, and right now (Charlie) Clemons, (Antwan) Peek, (Patrick) Chukwurah and (Erik) Flowers are all competing for that job. We need to find a player there who can fit in and not be our weak link."

One thing the defense thus far has refused to do is get down on their offensive counterparts, who ranked dead last in yardage last season. In fact cornerback Marcus Coleman takes the opposite angle.

"The more we do our jobs, the more opportunities the offense gets to score points," he said.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

BY JOYCE JILLSON
Lovely Venus and dreamy Neptune conspire to rev up our romantic engines. It's fun to buy into the greeting-card version of love and not so far from true either. If you're normally cynical, today catches you off guard. There's no time like this afternoon to make a play for your object of affection. Finances are a source of potential flare-ups.

Joyce Jillson

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Family members require a little extra tender loving care. Lavish them with praise, and give them help with projects and chores around the house. You don't really want the emotional consequences of not helping.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Extra money comes in for your project. Aren't you glad you stuck with it now? A budding romance needs a little extra nourishment. Evening plans come together just when you are about to settle in for the night.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Pack lightly because you're on the go all day today. Colleagues want your presence and opinions at important business meetings. Your choice of outfit has a big impact on others' opinions.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). There's a money deal to be made. Don't cut yourself out of it in a show of modesty. Generous tendencies today could win you anything from a romantic partner for life to a credit card that's over-limit.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Humor is an essential tool today. Your light conversation skills put others in better moods, and they're grateful for the change of perspective. Give it up for a competitor who is doing well. Your generous spirit is rewarded.

TOMORROW'S BIRTHDAY (August 8). You are seriously driven this year, so make your primary ambition something you'll have fun pursuing. New offers in the next four weeks are worth considering, even if your life will be turned upside down by accepting them. Money comes from new employment and creative projects initiated in September. Plan family get-togethers for December. Your lucky numbers are: 14, 22, 7, 15 and 38.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Your food and mood are directly linked, so eat balanced meals even if they're on the subway or sitting at your desk. If you get a craving, indulge it pronto. This evening, everyone seems to be talking about babies.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). No need to concentrate on your current confines because the more creative you get, the more money you end up with in the long term. Some of you will overhear a humdinger of a secret! It's hard to keep this one to yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). It's easy to let family time slip through the cracks of your schedule. Set up a regular routine for spending time with children or family members. Tonight, the best ideas come to you in the peace and quiet of your own home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). A fresh, new face piques your curiosity. Take your great idea to a group that can really make something out of it. Astrological tip: We are all made of the same energy as the stars. Recent coincidences were no coincidence.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). A love triangle develops right under your nose, and you're the one holding all the cards. Your decision produces powerful emotions. Get ready for a flood of feelings! Fun involves a Scorpio or Cancer.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Listen very carefully this morning. If you don't pay attention, you'll end up in a doozy of a misunderstanding. At work, the posturing of a supervisor is just that. Don't tirades to heart; see them more as theatrical entertainment.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Karma works! Good deeds from the past come back your way this morning. Don't say "yes" to a friend just because you feel like you ought to. Being honest serves you better than being democratic.
