McClures take Jessica home

By JANE MARLER DEES
Staff Writer

Two pink satin bows which deck the window frame of room #330 were all that remained of Jessica McClure Friday after her noon liberation from Midland Memorial Hospital.

The crowd cheered and the hospital president wept, as Jessica — in a heroine's parade of her own — was pulled down the hospital's front entrance wheelchair ramp in a green wagon by a pediatric nurse.

Clutching Winnie the Pooh and sporting a new satin baseball jacket from the Midland Police and Fire Departments and furry red booties, the pigtailed Jessica wore her 36-day-old celebrity status well.

She smiled and she cooed and waved at the 50 or so onlookers who'd come to bid her farewell. Faint scars were apparent on the front and back of her head.

A walking cast was on her right foot, but that didn't hinder Jessica from tottering to a waiting car.

As mother Reba "Cissy" McClure plucked her from the wagon and stood her up, the baby walked with a slight limp to the unmarked police car which would whisk her away — first to a relative's home, and then on to her parent's apartment, her friends and a normal life.

Once securely fastened into the backseat baby car seat, Jessica waved to the crowd with one hand while holding Pooh tightly in the other.

MMH President Ray Branson, overcome by tears as the toddler was driven away, told the crowd of media and caring citizens Friday "she meant an awful lot to us."

"I can assure you all this was an emotional event for all us," he said.

The president expressed his pride in the five-member physician team who transformed the little girl from a child "who came in looking like the dickens" to one who left "looking good."

"Doctors knew full well they could be susceptible to criticism if she lost her foot," Branson explained. "But they gave her superb care."

Jessica underwent six surgeries to minister the severe forehead and right foot wounds she received while trapped for 58 hours in the water well.

Ultimately, the child lost only her little toe to amputation hobbled only slightly Friday as she walked to the car.

Midland Police Det. Andy Glasscock chauffeured the family from the hospital to the unnamed relative's home.

Senator says forced budget cuts 'painful'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The budget cuts imposed on the federal government by the Gramm-Rudman law would force reductions, as one senator put it, as painful "as if somebody dropped a toaster in the bathtub."

At least three areas will feel the effects almost immediately: Medicare, guaranteed student loans and dairy price supports, according to the administration's Office of Management and Budget.

But the ax will fall more slowly with most of the $23 billion, across-the-board slashes. Officials at many federal agencies are putting off permanent reductions in anticipation of a reversal by Congress.

Lawmakers, in effect, have 10 days to change their minds on the Gramm-Rudman cuts by adopting the $76 billion, two-year deficit reduction package agreed to Friday by congressional leaders and President Reagan.

"We're not going to do anything because we still think they're going to come up with something," said Phil Keif, a spokesman for the Energy Department.

But congressional approval of the deficit-reduction pact that would supersede the Gramm-Rudman cuts is by no means certain. Some Republicans prefer the automatic budget cuts — 8.5 percent in domestic programs and 10.5 percent in military programs — to the $9 billion in taxes of the compromise pact.

Here are some of the most immediate effects of the automatic cuts ordered Friday by President Reagan.

— Medicare payments to hospitals are being reduced 2.3 percent after Friday. The law limits the annual reduction in Medicare, the federal health care insurance program for people aged 65 and older. It exempts Medicaid, the federal-state program for the needy.

— The Department of Agriculture's dairy price support program will drop by 8.5 percent. The price for milk is dropping from $11.10 per hundredweight to $10.20. Prices paid for cheese, butter and non-fat dry milk are dropping by the same margin.

Motion filed to have Fonseca's indictment dismissed

By PATRICK CRIMMINS
Staff Writer

Accused arms procurer Victor Fonseca could not have conspired to steal missile parts which did not exist, claimed a motion to dismiss the man's indictment filed by his attorney late Friday.

The motion also claims Midland County Sheriff Gary Painter engaged in "an unholy alliance with renegade, ex-U.S. government agents" to "formulate, plan and design a sham crime which by its very nature was impossible, both in law and in fact to commit."

The motion was filed in the Midland County district clerk's office about 4 p.m. Friday.

The agents referred to in the motion, reserve deputies Gary Howard and Ron Tucker, were principal figures in an elaborate five-month sting operation which culminated with Fonseca's Aug. 19 arrest.

Fonseca, a Portuguese national, was implicated in a plot to buy what he thought were stolen missile parts for Iranian Hawk missiles, according to investigators.

Instead of missile parts, he was arrested as he examined crates filled with gravel.

Fonseca was indicted Sept. 16 for conspiracy to commit theft. He remains jailed in lieu of $500,000 bond.

"In my opinion, under Texas law there exists a defense of impossibility," Fonseca attorney Jeff Hinkley said of the six-page motion. "I think by the very essence of the indictment, there is a conspiracy to commit theft of something that doesn't exist. I believe that a crime has been created, and I'm asking the court to take all of that into consideration."

Howard, a former U.S. Border Patrol agent, and Tucker, a former narcotics agent for the Department of Public Safety, have worked with federal agencies.

The roles of both in the sting figured prominently in the decision to file the motion, Hinkley said.

"I'm getting a feeling that these fellows are in the business of making money a certain way, and this was a way to make some money," the attorney said. "I believe they are the ones that put this whole thing together."

Midland County District Attorney Al Schorre and prosecutor Ralph Petty could not be reached for comment on the motion.

Painter, who was widely praised and criticized for the sting, said Hinkley's efforts were not surprising.

"I think it is a defense attorney's ploy," the sheriff said. "I certainly do object to some of the terminology. But I do understand that sometimes attorneys have to flower things up."

Hinkley said he hopes to schedule a hearing on the motion with 238th District Court Judge Vann Culp before Thanksgiving Day.

If Culp fails to dismiss the indictment, a trial could begin as soon as December. But negotiations for a possible plea agreement in the case are ongoing.

"Negotiations are going on. My problem is, of course, I'm not at all convinced the man is guilty of a crime," he said. "My main concern is to see the man back in Portugal with his family, and without a conviction."

Study to ascertain if aspirin can help 'cure' common cold

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of students will spend Thanksgiving hacking and sniffling in isolated motel rooms. It's all in the interest of science and the search for that most elusive of medical miracles — a cure for the common cold.

Twenty University of Virginia medical students will be paid $275 each to be given colds and then be tested for five days to see if a medicine can affect the course or severity of the infection.

The medicine being tested is aspirin. Common, ordinary, everyday aspirin. The Aspirin Foundation of America is footing the bill.

Dr. Judy Hsia, a George Washington University researcher who is helping to direct the study, said the goal of the $100,000 experiment is to determine if aspirin can trigger an effective natural immune response to the common cold.

She said aspirin has been shown in earlier studies to cause white blood cells to produce interferon, a natural and potent anti-virus agent. Two aspirin a day, she said, doubles or triples production of interferon.

To test how well this natural virus fighter works against ordinary colds, the 20 test subjects will all inhale controlled amounts of one of the rhinoviruses that causes colds.

"Most people will catch colds from the amount of virus they are given," Mrs. Hsia said.

Ten of the patients will receive daily two aspirin tablets, a total of 650 milligrams. The other 10 will receive placebos, or phony aspirin.

To assure that the patients are not exposed to any other virus, they will be housed alone in Charlottesville, Va., hotel rooms. Isolation will be so complete that food trays will be left outside the room doors instead of delivered with the usual formality, Mrs. Hsia said.

Texaco tells legislative panel it favors change in appeals rules

By STEVE LEVINE
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Although it no longer stands to gain from a special legislative committee in its $12 billion legal battle against the Pennzoil Co., Texaco Inc. told committee members Friday that it still favors changes in Texas appeals rules.

The Legislature created the Joint Special Committee on Security of Judgments during the spring, when it became obvious that the so-called "Texaco bailout bill" would not pass the Senate. Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, and Rep. Charles Evans, R-Hurst, who co-sponsored the bill, are chairing the committee.

The rule in question requires the losers of a lawsuit to post a bond equal to the judgment, plus interest, if they wish to appeal the decision. The bonds are intended to ensure the winner of the suit that the money will be there if they win on appeal.

In Texaco's case, it would have had to post a $12 billion bond to appeal a Houston jury's decision that it had illegally interfered with a proposed merger between Pennzoil and Getty Oil in 1984. Shortly after Texaco lost a U.S. Supreme Court decision over the constitutionality of the rule, it filed for protection under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy code.

The "bailout bill" would have set a $1 billion cap on appeals bonds and given the trial judge authority to consider the circumstances and adjust the amount of the bond.

Frank Miller, Texaco USA vice president for public and government affairs, sent a letter to the committee Friday saying Texas should adopt rule changes "which will insure that never again will a solvent individual or firm be forced into bankruptcy to exercise the constitutional right of appeal." Miller noted that any such change would effect neither the Texaco-Pennzoil case nor Texaco's bankruptcy proceedings.

A South Texas College of Law professor told the committee that recent rule changes handed down by the state Supreme Court would make the appeals bond process constitutional in her opinion.

Iraqi warplanes attack third salvage tug in gulf

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — Iraqi warplanes rocketed their third salvage tug in the current blitz of oil targets in Iranian coastal waters, Persian Gulf shipping executives said Friday.

They said Iranian sources reported one crewman killed and five wounded when the tug Salviva was struck Thursday by a missile presumably meant for a tanker.

It was one of three "large naval targets," usually meaning tankers, Iraq reported attacking that day.

Baghdad radio said Iraqi planes hit another such target Friday morning, raising to 21 the number of raids on ships Iraq has claimed since Nov. 9. Five have been confirmed by other sources — three on tugs and two on the same chartered tanker, Fortuneship L.

Iraq attacks tankers and oil installations trying to cut off the exports which pay Iran's war costs in the 7-year-old war with Iraq. The annual cost to each side is estimated at up to $11 billion.

British mine sweepers detonated four mines Thursday that were found off Qatar, and U.S. minesweepers reported finding two mines. Other British warships escorted a combined force of Belgian and Dutch mine sweepers into the waterway through the Strait of Hormuz.

In the Indian Ocean, U.S. Navy planes searched for an EA-6B Prowler that vanished Thursday with its four-man crew during a routine flight off the aircraft carrier Midway.

It would be the fifth aircraft lost since July, when the U.S. Navy began escorting Kuwaiti tankers sailing under the American flag. The others were two attack jets from the carrier Ranger and two helicopters inside the gulf, with a total of seven crew members killed.

Prowlers carry equipment to jam enemy radar, communications and weapons systems.

The 64,000-ton Midway, based at Yokosuka, Japan, arrived this week to replace the Ranger in the Arabian Sea. Its aircraft will fly cover for Navy convoys sailing to and from the gulf through the Strait of Hormuz, where Iran has coastal batteries of Chinese-made Silkworm antiship missiles.

Shipping executives quoted Iranian officials as saying an Iraqi Exocet missile destroyed the 530-ton Salviva off the central coast Thursday, killing one Filipino crew member and wounding five.

It was owned by the Singapore company Semco and was the sister vessel of the salvage tug Salvital, sunk Nov. 13. Four Filipino crewmen of the Salvital were killed and three wounded.

The Iranian tug Yousef was damaged Nov. 12, but no casualties were reported.

Salvage tugs assist oil tankers damaged by Iraqi raids, and missiles that hit them are presumably intended for the larger targets. Iraqi pilots fire the surface-hugging Exocets from up to 40 miles away.

Tankers owned or chartered by Iran shuttle oil from the big Kharg Island terminal in the northern gulf, which Iraqi planes bomb almost daily, to makeshift loading facilities in the safer waters of Hormuz, about 450 miles down the gulf.

An Iraqi communique reporting the Friday attack quoted a military spokesman as saying: "Our air force heroes are determined to destroy all sources of revenue that the enemy is using to finance the war."

Four sophisticated British minehunting vessels have been operating for two weeks in the central Persian Gulf.

That area has been considered high-risk for mines since U.S. helicopters caught an Iranian ship in the act of laying them Sept. 21 and attacked it. The Americans found nine mines on the deck and six in the water.

The combined Dutch-Belgian group of ships entered the gulf after finding nothing during a two-week sweep in the Gulf of Oman, where a U.S.-operated tanker was damaged by a mine last August in an the Fujairah anchorage.

They are the last members of a seven-nation force of mine hunters to arrive in the gulf.

On the first U.S.-escorted convoy in July, the reflagged tanker Bridgeton hit a mine near Farsi, an Iranian island about 140 miles south of Kuwait. The Pentagon said a U.S. mine sweeper found two mines in the area Thursday and Friday and destroyed them.

At Kuwait's request, the United States has given 11 Kuwaiti tankers American registration so the Navy can protect them from Iranian attack.

Iran accuses Kuwait of aiding Iraq in the war and began regular attacks last year on ships owned by or serving the sheikdom. The Iranians fired three missiles into the main Kuwaiti terminal-anchorage area in October, hitting two tankers and a major loading dock.

West German hostage may soon be freed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A Beirut newspaper said Friday that West German hostage Rudolf Cordes, kidnapped 11 months ago, may soon be freed.

The An-Nahar daily newspaper attributed its report to sources it did not identify. It said a mediator who was instrumental in winning the release of Alfred Schmidt, another West German hostage, now was in Beirut.

Cordes, 53, was kidnapped on Beirut's airport highway Jan. 17. Schmidt was kidnapped Jan. 20. He was freed Sept. 7.

According to the newspaper, Cordes might be released "within weeks or by the beginning of the new year."

An-Nahar identified the mediator as a Lebanese emigrant named Ali Hijazi. Hijazi denied any involvement, however.

"I am a businessman. I have nothing to do with politics. The report is totally baseless," he said in a statement broadcast by Beirut's Moslem-controlled radio stations.

The West German Embassy in Christian east Beirut refused comment.

An-Nahar said that in the previous 48 hours, Hijazi "conducted contacts" with Cordes' kidnappers and met with Abdul-Amir Kabalan, the highest ranking Shiite Moslem religious judge in Lebanon.

Kabalan is an influential member of the political bureau of the mainstream Shiite Amal militia of Justice Minister Nabih Berri. The militia was credited with the release last month of South Korean hostage Do Chae-sung.

Twenty-two foreigners, including eight Americans, are missing after being kidnapped in Lebanon. In addition, Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite is missing after he vanished in January while on a mission to negotiate the release of hostages. The longest-held hostage is Terry Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, kidnapped March 16, 1985.

Cordes, the Beirut manager for Hoechst AG, a big West German chemical company, was kidnapped shortly after he arrived in Beirut from Frankfurt.

Schmidt, 47, an engineer, was abducted from a west Beirut hotel.

A group calling itself Holy Warriors for Freedom claimed responsibility for both kidnappings. It offered to swap the hostages for Mohammed Ali Hamadi, a Lebanese Shiite arrested in Frankfurt in January and accused of trying to smuggle explosives.

Hamadi was wanted in the United States on charges of air piracy and murder in connection with the 1985 hijacking of a Trans World Airlines jetliner to Beirut. U.S. Navy diver Robert Stethem was killed by the hijackers.

The Bonn government denied U.S. requests to extradite Hamadi and said he would be tried in Germany.

An-Nahar's report came a day after the Beirut daily Al-Liwa quoted Western diplomatic sources as saying Cordes would be freed soon "in the same manner in which Schmidt was released."

Al-Liwa said efforts to win the release of American and French hostages were at a standstill, "except for a secret visit to West Germany by American Ambassador John Kelly."

Elizabeth McKune, spokeswoman for the U.S. Embassy in east Beirut's Aukar district, refused comment on the report.

Israeli army investigating conditions at West Bank prison

JERUSALEM (AP) — The army is investigating allegations that Palestinian inmates are beaten and abused at a prison camp in the occupied West Bank, a military source confirmed Friday.

A judicial commission that investigated methods of the Shin Bet secret service said last month that conditions at the al-Faraa camp should be examined. The army operates the camp 12 miles northwest of Nablus, but the Shin Bet interrogates detainees.

The military source, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the army was looking into conditions at al-Faraa, but would not elaborate.

Most inmates are minors accused of disturbing the peace or participating in anti-Israeli demonstrations, said Felicia Langer, a lawyer who represents many Palestinian security prisoners.

Ms. Langer said details of the investigation were revealed Wednesday during a Supreme Court hearing on complaints by three of her clients who said they were being abused at al-Faraa.

She said the military prosecutor told the court the army was evaluating conditions, and her clients agreed to drop their complaint pending the outcome.

Brig. Gen. Dudu Yahav, the army legal adviser in the West Bank of the Jordan River, is handling the investigation, Ms. Langer said.

The domestic Israeli news agency Itim said more investigators would be appointed. It said military prosecutors visited the camp Wednesday.

Al-Faraa was built as an army camp during the British mandate in Palestine and has been used since 1982 to interrogate Palestinians accused of security offenses.

About 800,000 Palestinians live in the West Bank, which Israel captured from Jordan in the 1967 Middle East war.

Human rights organizations and Palestinian prisoners have claimed detainees are systematically abused at al-Faraa.

Ms. Langer said the three clients who filed the Supreme Court complaint "were beaten on all parts of their bodies, especially the genitalia. They were hanged by their hands, they were kept outdoors at all hours."

Israeli officials have denied allegations of systematic abuse, but have acknowledged there may have been individual cases of mistreatment.

According to Ms. Langer, the camp is overcrowded and prisoners are forced to sleep on mattresses on the floor, often as many as 10 to a cell about 10 feet square.

Secretary first person to notice subway fire

LONDON (AP) — At about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, secretary Debbie Wren was riding up an escalator at King's Cross Station to catch her British Rail train home when she felt her feet getting hot.

Looking down, she saw a reddish glow under the wooden steps, smelled smoke, and shoved past people in front of her to find a subway attendant.

"Excuse me," she told him, "I think there's a fire on the escalator."

Ms. Wren, 19, was among the first to notice what within a short time would burn or choke 30 people to death in Britain's worst subway fire. Dozens of others were injured.

The cause of the blaze in the cavernous station, a combination railroad and subway center, was still unknown Friday, and many questions face the public inquiry the government has ordered.

Some witnesses have reported seeing a burning rag on the escalator. Other theories range from a dropped cigarette butt to arson, though that is largely discounted by experts at this stage.

At 7:36 p.m., an emergency call reached the fire brigade at Soho. The nearer brigade, at Euston, was busy with a minor fire at one of the hospitals that would later take many of the subway casualties.

Meanwhile, passengers getting off the Piccadilly and Victoria subway lines smelled smoke.

"It was unpleasant but not particularly thick at that point," businessman Andrew Holt, 32, recalled of alighting at King's Cross.

He said that as he approached the long escalator that would take him to the station's concourse level, he was waved onto it by a policeman.

"Halfway up the escalator you could feel the heat and at the top near the ticket collection area there was a lot of heat around and the smoke was becoming much thicker and denser," said Holt.

Another businessman, Andrew Lee, also was directed onto the escalator. "As I went up I could see an orange glow at the top and then a sheet of flame shot across in front of us. I turned and ran to the bottom."

He was lucky. Others, probably hemmed in by crowds, were lifted helplessly into the flames.

Judith Dingley, a radio producer, said she flung out her arms to stop people boarding the escalator. "People just glared and scowled at me as though I was out of my mind," she said.

At 7:46 p.m., as the first four fire engines arrived, a report to the Transport Police control room said at least four people were injured. Firemen bravely but recklessly rushed underground without breathing apparatus. One, 45-year-old Colin Townsley, died.

Trains were kept running in the hope that the powerful drafts they create would suck out the acrid smoke emitted by burning wood, rubber and plastic. But the drafts, which run in ahead of a train and out again in its wake, turned the warren of tunnels and passages into a vast ventilation system and may have fanned the fire.

Many people, realizing the escalator was a death trap, ran back down to the platforms. Mark Silver, a 21-year-old salesman, was on a platform and smelling smoke when a loudspeaker announcement said, "Don't panic, it's just a small litter fire." Then a train passed without stopping and people became panicky.

Learning of the fire, authorities had ordered trains not to stop.

Another train came in the opposite direction. "We rushed across. It slowed down but did not stop. People crowded towards it and banged on the windows as it went by," said Silver. He saw a woman jump onto the tracks and chase the train, pursued by police.

Silver then ran for the escalators, joining a roiling throng fighting its way upward.

"Flames were coming, just little flames, around the side of the escalator steps. The smoke got blacker. The air got hotter. It was a smell like rubber and litter burning. Then it got really hot. At the top of the escalator the fire was really going. The walls were sizzling. I heard a woman's voice from somewhere. It said 'Help, help, I can't make it!' "

"I saw this man and the back of his shoulders was smoldering," said stockbroker Frank Reardon. "People were pulling his shirt off and trying to smother the flames coming through his clothes. His skin was really red and he was shouting for help."

Then Reardon felt his own his hair burning, pulled his overcoat over his head and struggled up to safety.

By 8:15 p.m., 20 fire engines and nine ambulances were on the scene and 13 casualties were taken to the hospital.

Outside the station, ambulance worker Beverley Howes, 23, was waved by police to a girl screaming in agony. "She was burned from head to foot. We couldn't touch her because she was so hot." The medics poured cold water on her and her whole body blistered.

At 8:35, firefighters said the blaze was contained on the escalator but smoke remained a severe hazard. Twenty minutes later, eight people were evacuated, suffering from smoke inhalation. The first three deaths were reported by the hospital at 9 p.m. Fifteen minutes later, 200 firefighters with 30 fire engines were on the scene.

At 9:47, a group of people was found unconscious in a subway toilet, saved from death by the closed door.

At 10 p.m., when the death toll jumped to 28, the full horror became clear. "We are talking about a major tragedy," police superintendent David Fitzsimmons told reporters. "Many people are horribly burned."

The last flames were doused at 1:46 a.m. Late Thursday morning, the death toll, after being officially reported as high as 34, was finally set at 30.

Ex-Uganda minister arrested, faces treason, terrorismcharges

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Former Environment Minister David Lwanga, free on bail and facing terrorism charges, has been arrested and is being held at a military barracks near Kampala, his family said Friday.

The former minister in President Yoweri Museveni's coalition government was freed three months ago pending a trial date.

Family members said Lwanga was arrested Thursday at a roadblock 25 miles west of Kampala as he was driving from his farm to the city.

An army officer at Makindye Barracks confirmed Lwanga was being held there but refused to say why he was arrested.

Lwanga, a doctor in his 30s, was arrested last October with three other Cabinet ministers and charged with treason and terrorism. In February, the state withdrew the treason charges.

Chemical plant leaks toxic fumes

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — Toxic fumes leaked from a chemical plant in Hamburg at midmorning Friday, prompting about 100 people to seek medical help for eye and throat irritation, police said.

The leak released a cloud containing sulphur dioxide and hydrochloric acid, police said in a statement.

About 100 residents of Hamburg's Wilhelmsburg district were treated and released from a local hospital, police said.

Police used loudspeakers to warn residents to close their windows and stay indoors, and they sealed off the area around the plant. The alert was lifted two hours after the leak.

Lawmen investigate burglaries

From Staff Reports

Police Roundup

Midland County Sheriff's officers are investigating two burglaries, including one which netted burglars items valued at more than $1,700.

A channel selector for a satellite television dish valued at $750, a remote control for the dish valued at $600, and a videocassette recorder valued at $384 were stolen from a residence on County Road 140, near State Highway 349, according to reports.

The burglary occurred Friday between 9:30 a.m. and 2:45 p.m., reports said.

In other reports, cutting torches, tools and wrenches valued at $1,032 were stolen from a truck while it was parked at 604 CR 1296 South. The items were stolen between Tuesday and Friday, according to reports.

JESSICA

Beginning early on a Thursday morning — Oct. 15 — Glasscock had been instructed to maintain constant contact with the child via a lowered boom microphone attached to a headset he wore continuously throughout the ordeal.

Before Friday's noon departure, the trunk of the silver car had been loaded with toys, well-wish signs and a large box of Pampers diapers.

Branson said Jessica left the hospital with "a zero" balance.

"People came forth the Friday night she was brought in wanting to pay her hospital bills," Branson said.

The estimated $50,000 hospital bill was paid for with private donations, not from the monies contained in Jessica's trust fund at Midland's Texas Commerce Bank, the president said.

Physicians who cared for Jessica — a pediatrician, general practitioners and an orthopedic, vascular and plastic surgeon — donated their services, Branson said.

Jessica will undergo physical therapy to help her regain a normal walk, but Branson said no sessions have been scheduled yet.

Branson sported a new Mickey Mouse watch Friday that he said was a gift from perhaps his favorite hospital guest ever.

"Cissy and Jessica came in my office from time to time. One day, Cissy had bought a Mickey Mouse watch in the gift shop of the hospital.

"I made the mistake of telling her I wished I had one," Branson said.

Later that day, Cissy and Jessica came back into Branson's office. The toddler was carrying a package that time.

"Someone tried to take the package from her to look at it" Branson said.

And the statement the toddler has become famous for — "No!" — rang out, the hospital president said.

Jessica immediately pointed at Branson and proceeded to give him her present — the watch.

Branson, choked up, nodded in agreement when asked if his feelings for Jessica were the strongest he'd felt for a patient.

The McClures spoke to the crowd before they left and alluded to the happy Thanksgiving holiday they will have.

CUTS

Cash payments for other crops will also be reduced by 8.5 percent, but not unless the automatic cuts stand when the signup period rolls around for those programs.

— The origination fee for Guaranteed Student Loans made after Oct. 20 will increase on the average loan of $2,400 from $120 to $132. The interest rate subsidy to banks making the loans will be reduced by a quarter percent. Students, however, will see no change in the 8 percent limit on the interest they pay after graduation.

Cuts would not take effect in other education programs until the start of the 1988-89 academic year next fall.

If Congress rejects the compromise announced by Reagan on Friday and the Gramm-Rudman cuts are allowed to stand, more automatic belt-tightening will ripple through the government.

The cuts "may hit them about the same as if somebody dropped a toaster in a bathtub," Senate Budget Committee Chairman Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., warned in an earlier plea to avoid the Gramm-Rudman cuts.

Chiles and the staff of his committee offered a number of examples of Gramm-Rudman's ultimate impact:

— The Federal Aviation Administration would be unable to fill 1,100 new air traffic controller slots authorized by Congress earlier. The Department of Transportation officials said Friday that a new class of controllers would begin as scheduled on Dec. 4.

However, if the department is forced to absorb across-the-board reductions on an extended basis, "we would literally have a disaster on our hands," the acting transportation secretary, James Burnley, warned earlier this week.

— The U.S. Customs Service's helicopter program for intercepting drug smugglers could have to cut operations — recently expanded to seven days a week, 24 hours a day — down to five days a week, eight hours a day.

— Two-thirds of the 2,400 new positions authorized under the immigration bill that took effect this year would go unfilled.

— Reagan has exempted personnel accounts in the Pentagon budget, thus most of the burden falls on maintenance and weapons procurement accounts. Flying hours for Air Force, Marine and Navy flyers would be cut back to 1980 levels. Steaming time for Navy ships could be cut by 20 percent.

— Space shuttle operations and work on the manned space station would be checked, jeopardizing the goal of resuming shuttle launches in 1988.

— The Gramm-Rudman cuts could force major layoffs in State Department personnel and a hiring freeze and one-day-a-month furloughs for most FBI employees.

— The National Institutes of Health would be able to offer 3,300 fewer research grants.

— And, the cuts would result in the loss of thousands of new construction units for elderly and low income individuals.

Forum will review how media covered Jessica

From Staff Reports

A news media forum reviewing coverage of the rescue attempt of Jessica McClure is scheduled from 9-11 a.m. Tuesday at Midland College's Allison Fine Arts Building auditorium.

The public is invited to attend. "Coverage of the Baby Jessica Story: How Well Did the Mass Media Perform?" is the topic to be discussed by representatives of the Midland Reporter-Telegram, KMID-TV and KCRS Radio. Bob Templeton, Allison Professor of Journalism at Midland College, will moderate the forum.

"This obviously is one of the nation's top news stories of the year and one of the biggest local stories of all time," Templeton said. "For more than two days, news media provided words and pictures of the unfolding drama. State, national, and international news organizations congregated in Midland as the world watched and waited. This forum will allow representatives who were on the scene from beginning to end to assess their roles as well as the roles of outside media."

Templeton noted that a representative from each news medium was selected, since it would have been impossible to have a forum with all those who worked on the story participating.

At the conclusion of the forum, local news photographers involved in the coverage will present a one-hour discussion of their roles. This will be held in the photography department in the Allison Building.

COLD

The isolation ends next Saturday and will include Thanksgiving. Mrs. Hsia said the students probably will receive turkey dinners to observe the day. But some may already be sick with colds by then.

Mrs. Hsia said blood tests will be taken before, during and after the five-day experiment to determine the amount of interferon and other natural immunity cells produced by their bodies. The medical students used as the test subjects, she said, have been screened to assure that they have not been recently exposed to the virus used in the experiment.

Other data will be collected by symptom diaries kept by the students, a count of the tissues used and a measurement of the production of nasal mucous.

These help determine how bad a person's cold is," said Mrs. Hsia.

Data from the test will take about a month to analyze, but if the results are encouraging there may be more ambitious experiments later.

"Giving people rhinovirus that they inhaled is really just a model," said Mrs. Hsia. "What really counts is 'can the cold your kid picks up at a day care center be protected against?' If the data is encouraging, then we'll do a community-acquired cold study."

She said medical researchers don't know why aspirin triggers the production of interferon, noting, "We're still working on that."

But Mrs. Hsia said the study may give support for a legendary medical instruction.

"The old saw of 'take two aspirin and you'll feel better' may be exactly right," she said.

Stockbroker commits suicide

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — A prominent stockbroker fatally shot himself in the head, apparently over personal financial difficulties, investigators said Friday.

The body of Robert A. King, 54, was found Thursday afternoon on a grassy area next to a parking lot at the Port of Tacoma's World Trade Center. A .38-caliber revolver was located nearby, authorities said.

King was vice president and manager of the Northwest region of Dean Witter Reynolds Inc.

A suicide note found in King's car did not give specifics of his financial problems, other than that they involved his personal finances, said Pierce County Sheriff's Lt. Jeff Edmunds.

The note also did not say whether the problems were related to the recent turmoil in the stock market, he said.

"There was no specific information in the note about that. It was just that his own financial condition was what led him to suicide," Edmunds said.

There apparently were no witnesses to the shooting, which was away from offices and areas of foot traffic. A motorist discovered the body, police said.

King was a former president of the Downtown Tacoma Association, and in 1980 received the Distinguished Citizen Award from the Municipal League of Tacoma-Pierce County. He also was on the boards of directors of several Tacoma cultural organizations.

Don Williams, assistant manager of the Tacoma Dean Witter office, said he doubted the stock market's recent troubles had anything to do with King's death.

"He's been through a number of these markets. I just really don't know why" he committed suicide, Williams said.

"As far as I know, he had no problems either emotional, physical or financial," he said.

KTPX-TV will be put in receivership by bank

From Staff Reports

Midland television station KTPX-TV, Channel 9, will be put into receivership by a Canadian bank, the owner of the station announced Friday.

The station, formerly KMOM-TV, "was plagued with a history of marketing and technical problems," according to a statement released by station owner MSP Television of Midland-Odessa, Inc.

Efforts to reach KTPX General Manager John Marquiss Friday night were unsuccessful.

Channel 9 news anchor Rob Quirk said the announcement was apparently a result of a disagreement between the Toronto Dominion Bank of Canada and MSP. He did not elaborate.

According to the legal definition of receivership, a receiver, such as a bank, can be appointed for a business which is insolvent.

The station has performed well in the Permian Basin television market, according to the news release. The statement cited ratings surveys that indicated KTPX was leading Permian Basin stations in several time periods.

"KTPX's early news at 5 p.m. moved from an 11 share to a 31 share in just two years," said the statement.

Although the improvements have been major to the market, the station has lagged behind in advertising revenues due to the economy," the statement said.

DEATHS

Bertha Adcock

Adcock

Services for Bertha E. Adcock, 74, of Midland, were scheduled for 1 p.m. today at St. Luke's United Methodist Church with Dr. Jarrell Sharp, pastor, officiating. Burial was to follow at Resthaven Memorial Park under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home.

She died Friday morning after a lengthy illness.

She was born Jan. 9, 1913, in Brownwood. She was active in the Canyon Eastern Star, served on the Advisory Council for Rainbow Girls, and was active in Home Demonstration work in the Canyon area.

Her early life was spent in Brown County. She moved with her family to Breckenridge, and then to Canyon in 1929, where she lived on a ranch. She graduated from high school in Happy. She married Clarence Adcock March 28, 1937, and they farmed in the Happy area for many years until moving to Midland in 1973. She was a member of St. Luke's United Methodist Church.

Survivors include her husband; one daughter, Mrs. C.C. (Nancy) Dakil of Midland; three brothers, J.T. Sykes, Jr. of Amarillo, H.A. Sykes of Bowie and Ernest Sykes of Arizona; two sisters, Zora Head and Alma Conley, both of Dallas; four grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers were to be David Dakil, Kyle Rowland, George Farris Jr., Rex Rowland, and Raymond Howard.

Leo Thomas

Leo Thomas Turner, 79, of Stanton died Friday at his residence after a lengthy illness. Services will be 2 p.m. Sunday at the Stanton Church of Christ with Deral McWhorter, minister, officiating.

Burial will follow at Evergreen Cemetary in Stanton under the direction of Gilbreath Funeral Home.

He was born Nov. 20, 1908, in Stanton. He was a retired farmer and veteran of World War II. He was a member of the Stanton Church of Christ and Masonic Lodge No. 951 in Stanton.

He married Jennie Dorine Rogers May 29, 1936, in Glasscock County. She preceeded him in death Oct. 27, 1981.

Survivors include four sisters, Jessie Widner, Opal Hopson and Lula Black, all of Odessa, and Corene Barnwell of Stanton; three brothers, Alton Turner of Stanton, Jack Turner of Odessa and Willard Turner of Grand Fall; and several nieces and nephews.

Javier Diaz

Services for Javier Diaz were to be at 11 a.m. today at the Ellis Funeral Home Chapel.

Pallbearers were to include Pedro Diaz, Pedro Diaz Jr., Armondo Diaz, Renne Rios, Rocky Bease, and Mike Lolhrengu.

Would-be Rambos buying into war culture with a vengeance

By JODY COX
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS — Rambo and the subculture he represents are moving into the mainstream with a vengeance, redefining Americans' notions of war and peace, a sociologist and author says.

"It's clear that everyone needs adventure," said William Gibson, a Southern Methodist University sociology professor.

"Many people are not challenged by their job, they feel left out of politics and they are bored by their domestic life. They need a change."

The "paramilitary warrior" is the embodiment of what many people feel is lacking in their lives, said Gibson, who coined the term and is writing a book on it called "Return of the Warriors."

As much a political as a cultural development, the phenomenon is changing American attitudes toward war, Gibson said.

"The most serious danger is that it makes war acceptable and even desirable...a grand adventure," he said.

The paramilitary warrior can be traced to the U.S. defeat in Vietnam. Sylvester Stallone and others captured the essence in their movies, said Gibson, who earlier authored "The Perfect War: Technowar in Vietnam."

Assigned in one film to rescue American POWs still in Vietnam, Stallone's character John Rambo asks, "Do we get to win this time?"

The paramilitary warrior thinks the only way to overcome governmental interference is by working outside the bureaucracy, Gibson said.

"It's a paramilitary culture rather than militarism," he said. "Heroes, like Oliver North, work outside the hierarchy. It's the warrior as an individualist."

Paramilitary literature is hot. More than 40 action-adventure serials in printings of 60,000 to 100,000 copies each are available on bookstore shelves, Gibson said. Violent, erotic plots involve commandos killing Central Americans, Africans, Arabs, Vietnamese and even U.S. leftists, he said.

The paramilitary bible is 12-year-old Soldier of Fortune magazine, with a circulation of about 200,000 and a readership of half a million. Its stories are about Nicaraguan contras, African mercenaries and elite U.S. commando units, along with "consumer" reports detailing weapons testing, Gibson said.

Annual Soldier of Fortune conventions attract hundreds who attend seminars on combat techniques and admire weapons and battlefield accessories hawked by dozens of vendors.

Models greet convention-goers and sign posters depicting them in skimpy, torn camouflage fatigues holding Uzis, foot-long knives and grenades, he said.

"The guns, the knives, the camouflage clothing and all the rest are evidence of consumer culture — 'I can be a warrior if I buy the tools of a warrior,'" said Gibson, who has attended the last three conventions in researching his book.

The paramilitary warrior's activities usually are little more than a weekend hobby, Gibson said.

City dwellers flock to war game camps where, divided into teams, they "kill" each other with paint bullets. "It is both war and game," Gibson said. "It is killing, but it is death abstracted."

Other camps promise to mold soft-living office workers into guerrilla fighters trained for survival — in two weeks.

But the paramilitary mentality permeates much of the general culture, and it reaches down to children, he said.

War toy sales have increased 600 percent over the past five years to a billion-dollar industry. Ranging from waterguns designed to look like Uzi machine guns to the updated G.I. Joe commando, they now number 218 million.

"It's a paramilitary culture rather than militarism. Heroes, like Oliver North, work outside the hierarchy. It's the warrior as an individualist."

— William Gibson,
SMU sociology professor

Artist's dream in 'park art'

KALISPELL, Mont. (AP) — Painting national parks is becoming a lifestyle for Mark Ogle, a local artist who is increasingly finding public appreciation for doing what comes naturally.

He was notified recently that his winter scene of Old Faithful geyser in Yellowstone National Park was one of 33 paintings chosen to represent the region by the National Park Academy of Arts.

"My dream has always been to paint the parks," said Ogle, and a year ago he began by painting four scenes of Glacier National Park. When the originals and prints were well received, he began painting other nearby parks. Now he finds himself months behind because of the demand that he has created.

Ogle said he hadn't dared to hope it would work that well when he "plugged in a program" to make his work fit his lifestyle.

The entire family now goes on location to explore a national park. They bicycle along the roads and walk the trails. And when Ogle sets up his easel to do an artist's study of a scene, it's usually at a vantage point less frequented by tourists.

At work in his Kalispell studio, he's used to people stopping by to see what he has on the easel. But in the parks, he needs to concentrate on capturing the colors unique to each scene.

"Whenever I can, I paint outdoors," Ogle said. He takes photographs, too, but finds that film cannot do as well as his own eyes in recording the colors within the shadows and the overall effect that he terms the "color harmony" of a scene.

He has painted Glacier and Yellowstone, as well as Canadian parks, including Waterton in Alberta, and has done preliminary work on the Tetons in Wyoming. Next will come Grand Canyon, Yosemite and Mount McKinley.

"I love painting, and anything is fair game," Ogle said. "The process is so intense for a period of time when I am focused on something — whether a boat or a house or a landscape. It's exciting. My whole world is centered on learning to see."

For fledgling artists, "a little bit of encouragement goes a long way," he said, and certainly the public acceptance of his parks series has been strong encouragement for him.

"The acid test for me is that when I get up in the morning and want to get going, and when I fall asleep right away at night, I know I'm where I want to be."

Doctors' average yearly income up to $120,000

NATION

CHICAGO (AP) — The mean income of physicians rose 6.5 percent last year to almost $120,000 annually, far outstripping inflation, according the American Medical Association.

The increase greatly surpassed the 1986 advance in the Consumer Price Index, which rose just 1.1 percent, said an article in Friday's edition of American Medical News, the AMA's weekly newspaper.

Longer work hours caused more of the rise than fee increases, the article said, with more surgical procedures also contributing.

But consumer advocates called for more government controls, saying the jump is "scandalous" and physician overcharges for Medicare services are "outrageous."

Income increases among specialists varied widely, with radiologists enjoying the largest — a growth of 17 percent to an average of $168,000 — while family practice physicians saw a rise of only 3 percent to $80,300 annually.

Figures represented income before taxes but after all professional expenses, said the AMA's Socioeconomic Monitoring System Report for November, the source of the data.

Researchers for the AMA, the nation's largest organization of doctors, found mean physician income was $119,500 in 1986, a rise of 6.5 percent over 1985.

In comparison, the average earnings by American men rose 4.4 percent last year, to $25,256, and average earnings of American women went up 3.9 percent to $16,232, according to U.S. Census Bureau statistics cited.

The AMA said the average physician spent 52.2 hours a week caring for patients in 1986, up an hour from 1985, and performed an average of 3.5 surgical procedures weekly, up from an average of three procedures in 1985.

The mean fee for an office visit with an established patient rose by 3.5 percent to $30.10 in 1986, the lowest increase in 10 years, the article said.

But Dr. Sidney Wolfe, director of the 60,000-member Public Citizen Health Research Group in Washington, D.C., said his organization is beginning to see a public groundswell against high doctor incomes.

Letters indicate overcharges to Medicare patients, 80 percent of whose bills are paid by the federal government, have become widespread.

"It's outrageous that these doctors feel they need to overcharge," he said. "It's not like they're living on the brink of poverty..."

A recent analysis by Medical Economics magazine estimated that over the past three years, doctors' incomes have gone up 24.5 percent, compared with a 9.1 percent rise in overall inflation.

Wolfe said legislation has been introduced in 15 states that would force doctors to accept as full payment the levels of reimbursement the government determines are reasonable for Medicare treatment.

When doctors charge more, the patient must make up the difference.

Jan Schakowsky, executive director of the Illinois Council of Senior Citizens, said she finds it "scandalous" that doctors' incomes have gone up so much while "literally millions of people have no access to health care."

She noted that senior citizens face a 38.5 percent rise in January in premiums for doctors' fees under Medicare. The average senior citizen had annual income of only $8,000 in 1984, she said.

"Our constituents are paying more out of pocket than they were when Medicare was enacted in 1965," she said. "Doctors were opposed to Medicare at that time, but now they see it as a real gravy train."

Cubans will be allowed to immigrate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Cuba have revived an agreement to allow the repatriation of more than 2,500 Cubans who came to this country illegally aboard the 1980 Mariel boat lift, the State Department said Friday.

As part of the agreement, department spokesman Charles Redman said more than 20,000 Cubans in several different categories will be allowed to immigrate to the United States annually. Another official estimated the yearly immigration flow at 27,000.

The two countries had signed a wide-ranging immigration agreement in December 1984 but Cuba suspended it after five months. The suspension was based on the the establishment of Radio Marti, a Voice of America broadcast operation beamed to Cuba.

Cuba agreed to reinstate the suspended agreement during unannounced talks this week in Mexico City between the State Department deputy legal adviser Michael Kozak and Cuban Vice Foreign Minister Ricardo Alarcon.

Redman said the revival of the agreement will benefit thousands of persons in the United States and Cuba but he suggested that it will have minimal impact on the overall relationship between the two countries.

He said the United States "continues to have serious concern about Cuba's international behavior."

Another official, insisting on anonymity, said Cuba requested the Mexico City talks. He speculated that Cuba's interest in reviving the 1984 agreement may have been based on a desire to reduce the country's "surplus population" at a time when the island is undergoing economic difficulties.

The official added that there may have been a link between Cuba's interest in reviving the agreement and the signs of reduced U.S.-Soviet hostility, symbolized by the pending visit of Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev. The official suggested that Cuba may be interested in being in step with the favorable trend in superpower relations.

Miami Mayor Xavier Suarez praised the announcement, saying an orderly immigration process reduces the chance of another Mariel boat lift.

In July 1986, Washington and Havana unsuccessfully attempted to reinstate the 1984 agreement but the talks broke down in a dispute over radio broadcast rights.

At the time, the U.S. side rejected a Cuban proposal for several "clear channel" broadcast frequencies in the United States, claiming that it would have interfered with over 100 U.S. radio stations.

That issue was discussed at the Mexico City talks this week and Redman said the talks will continue. The two countries are attempting to agree on ground rules governing broadcasts from one country to another. One problem stems from technical interference due to congested airwaves between Florida and Cuba.

The Mariel boat lift issue has been a sore point in U.S.-Cuban relations for years. More than 125,000 Cubans came to the United States during the spring and summer of 1980. Of that total, 2,746 were deemed "excludable" under U.S. law because of mental illness or non-political crimes.

During the five-month period in late 1984 and early 1985 when Cuba the immigration agreement was in effect, 201 Cubans were returned to the island, leaving 2,545 still subject to repatriation, according to Redman.

Of these, about 1,400 are confined to the federal penitentiary in Atlanta and another 900 to 1,000 are in a holding area in Oakdale, La. The remainder are scattered in more than 80 jails across the country.

Redman gave no timetable for the return of the Mariel exiles, saying only that their repatriation would be carried out in a "phased and orderly" way.

Gary Leshaw, a legal aid attorney who specializes in the Cubans' case, says about 570 "excludables" have been approved for release into society.

"I don't know what is going to happen to them," he said. "A lot of these guys have families who are American citizens."

Redman said 20,000 Cubans would be allowed entry to the United States under a normal immigration quota. He said Cubans with "immediate relatives" in the United States have not been affected by the suspension of the 1984 agreement and will continue to be processed. Another official estimated that 3,000 Cubans in this category would receive U.S. visas annually.

Redman said 3,000 former Cuban political prisoners a year would be eligible to immigrate but another official said the figure was closer to 3,500.

Volunteers flock to solve mystery of cave swallows

CARLSBAD CAVERNS NATIONAL PARK, N.M. (AP) — Just before sundown on many nights, a flock of bird lovers ambushes cave swallows flying out of Carlsbad Caverns.

The volunteers are trying to figure out where the cave swallows go when they fly south for the winter. Of the 1,800 species of birds in North America, only the cave swallow's winter habitat remains a mystery.

The bird lovers unfurl a black net at an entrance to the caverns. Just as the trap is set, the first of about 4,000 swallows inhabiting the cave entrance return home from a day of gorging on insects. Some of the birds fly into the net, and the volunteers band them.

Carlsbad ornithologist Steve West and park employee Tom Bemis lead the crew of volunteers, who catch, weigh and band each bird before resetting the net.

"In August, the females feed on a bug that gives them a real strong strawberry odor," West said.

About 5,000 cave swallows have been banded in the past seven years. Information on the band is written in Spanish.

Scientists hope someday a resident of a country south of the United States will recover a bird and send researchers a clue to where the birds go for the winter.

Woman returns to lighthouse birthplace

LITTLE BREWSTER ISLAND, Mass. (AP) — Georgia Emerson wanted to make one last trip to her birthplace, North America's oldest lighthouse, before Boston Light is automated and functions without the aid of humans.

"With nobody there, no children, they're really going to be quiet, quiet like a cemetery," said Mrs. Emerson, who returned Saturday to the 271-year-old lighthouse on this island at the mouth of Boston Harbor.

She was the seventh of nine children born to lightkeeper Ralph Norwood and his wife, Josephine, and achieved some fame as a child when the novel "Storm Child," a fictitious account of her birth and life, was published in 1937.

But when filmmakers asked the 6-year-old to audition in Hollywood for a movie based on the book, she refused. A story in the old Boston Post said she cried, "I don't want to go to Hollywood. I want to go back to Boston Light."

Mrs. Emerson, who lives in Boothbay Harbor, Maine, was accompanied by her husband, her son and two sisters on her first visit here since the early 1970s. She said the visit saddened her. Her family's first home is gone. Coast Guard keepers, who replaced the Lighthouse Service in the nation's lighthouses, live in the family's second home.

The ocean has eroded the coastline, and a cannon that was on Little Brewster Island when Mrs. Emerson was a child is in a Connecticut museum.

A Coast Guard spokesman said Boston Light probably will be the last lighthouse in the nation to be automated. Mrs. Emerson said she talked Saturday with a Coast Guard official who told her it may not be automated at all.

"We hope it isn't, but we'll have to see what they do in the future," she said. "We have sown hopes that each trip isn't going to be our last."

Lawmakers who share house may be sitcom

By KIM I. MILLS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Politics makes strange bedfellows and four politicians sharing a Capitol Hill townhouse make a TV sitcom.

A script for a television situation-comedy was sold to a Hollywood producer by a congressman's wife who at first had a tough time even getting a look at where four housemates are living.

In real life, Democratic Reps. Charles E. Schumer of New York, Leon E. Panetta and George Miller of California and Marty Russo of Illinois use the townhouse during the week and go home to their families on weekends.

Janis Berman, wife of Rep. Howard L. Berman, D-Calif., learned about their living situation last spring while she was an intern for Washingtonian magazine and wanted to write about them.

She said that when she asked Schumer at a party if she could spend some time in the house with them for a story, "he said, 'Call me later, call me at the office.' You know how fast he talks."

But when she called his office, she said he had changed his mind. She then approached Panetta and Miller, who said it was OK with them, but Schumer was the holdout.

"They said, 'Gee, you know, Chuck feels really uncomfortable about it, he thinks it would look bad. It's embarrassing,'" she said. "Because they're doing it to save money, because none of them could afford to live by themselves."

Schumer said he wasn't embarrassed, just trying to preserve their privacy.

"We generally think our living together — our sharing a house — is not something there should be lots of articles about," he said.

Mrs. Berman agreed that "a certain etiquette" demanded that she respect their wishes, "and then I started thinking about it and I thought it was really funny."

The idea bloomed into a television script which she sold to Hollywood producer Jerry Weintraub. A television network is also interested, she said, declining to say which one.

The show is tentatively titled "Capitol Hill," and the household will differ from that of Schumer & Co. In the show, one congressman will be from California, another from New York, one from the Midwest and another from the South; one of the four will be black, one will be female.

Mrs. Berman, by the way, finally got a tour of the Capitol Hill townhouse, owned by Miller.

"Chuck let me in the house," she said. "He sleeps in the living room in a pullout sofa and Panetta sleeps in the living room in a double bed and then there are two bedrooms upstairs."

The decor is Early College Dorm, which she would like to duplicate for the TV show.

"It's all from someplace else, like when you move in from someplace else," she said. "Nothing matches."

Evidence found of jet engine damage

National Transportation Safety Board Chairman Jim Burnett said investigators were trying to determine if there was a link between the damage and "engine surging" heard on recordings of cockpit conversations.

DENVER (AP) — Investigators seeking clues to the crash of Continental Flight 1713 said Friday they had found signs of damage to one engine, but could not say for certain when it had occurred.

National Transportation Safety Board Chairman Jim Burnett said investigators were trying to determine if there was a link between the damage and "engine surging" heard on recordings of cockpit conversations.

"You can't make too much of this, although it's something we're looking at as significant," Burnett said.

Also under investigation is a condition known as wake turbulence vortex — an intense eddy of air that spins from the wings of large airplanes and in rare instances could be strong enough to flip another plane.

And investigators continued to look at the plane's de-icing procedure and the degree of experience of its crew.

The DC-9 crashed Sunday during takeoff for Boise, Idaho, killing 28 people.

At a press conference held by Continental on Friday, Rudy Kapustin, a consultant for the airline, said there were signs of damage to the plane's left engine, but he concurred with Burnett that the finding was far from conclusive. He said the damage could have been caused by dirt sucked into the engine after the crash.

Burnett said Thursday night that investigators analyzing the cockpit recording heard sounds which may indicate "a disturbance of air flow through the engine compressor."

In severe cases, he said, that can result in substantial engine damage.

Burnett said Friday it is not known yet when in the flight the engine began "burping." He said such "compressor stalls" can be caused by water, slush or air disturbance.

Kapustin said investigators will examine records of wind at Stapleton International Airport to determine how much of a role turbulence might have played in the crash.

Kapustin said the wake turbulence vortex remains in the air for several minutes after planes land and take off, and can be moved by air currents.

It would take an incredible fluke for a wake turbulence vortex to wash over Flight 1713, aviation experts have said, but a few crashes have been blamed on that factor, often created when two planes takeoff or land near each other.

NTSB officials said another jetliner landed on a parallel runway 1,600 feet away and 59 seconds before Flight 1713 attempted takeoff.

Investigators also continued to look into the allegations of some passengers that the plane's wings were covered with ice and snow at the time of takeoff.

Robert Linck, 60, of Green Pond, N.J., who survived the crash, told reporters Friday he saw ice and snow on the wings at the time of takeoff.

"I honestly believe that we had as much ice on our wings when we took off as we did before we were de-iced," he said.

But Burnett said other witnesses, including a pilot awaiting takeoff on a nearby plane, said the wings were clear.

Continental officials have said the plane was de-iced 23 minutes before takeoff.

Airline officials said the flight officers followed company policy by examining the wings for icing from the plane's cockpit. But the plane's manufacturer and at least two veteran pilots said crews need to go to passengers windows for a close look.

Continental spokesman Bruce Hicks on Friday again denied that the pilots' combined degree of experience may have been a problem, as suggested by some observers.

Most early evidence suggests copilot Lee Bruecher was flying the plane when it crashed. Bruecher had only 36½ hours as a jet airline pilot and had never flown the DC-9 in wintry conditions.

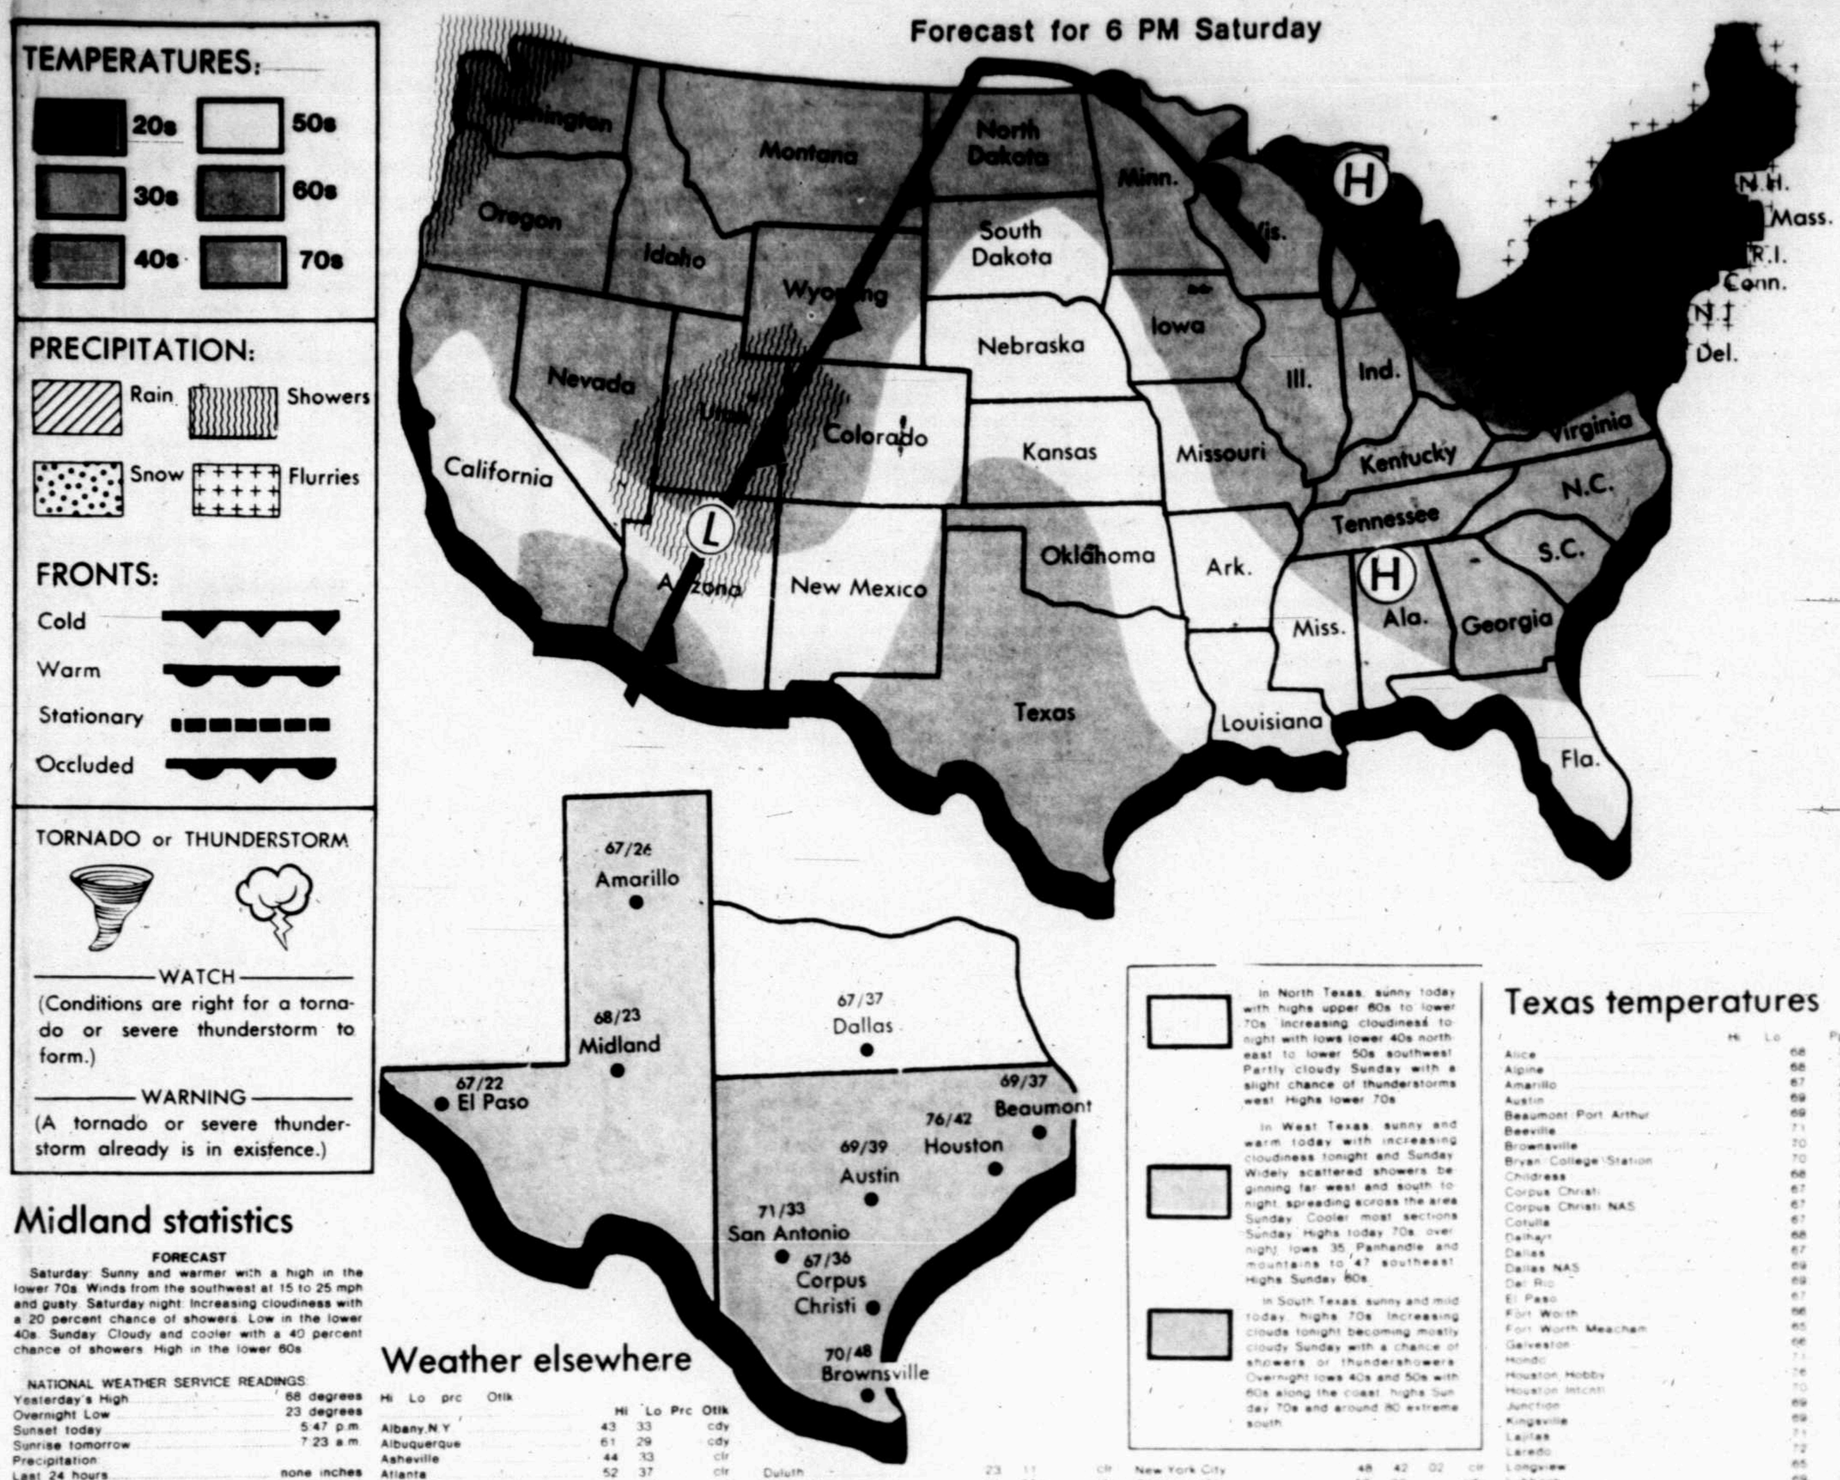
WEATHER SUMMARY



Temperatures to be pleasant

From Staff and Wire Reports

Temperatures will remain cool and pleasant in the Permian Basin through the weekend with a good chance of showers expected by Sunday, according to National Weather Service forecasters at Midland International Airport.

Today will be sunny and warmer with a high expected in the lower 70s. Winds will blow from the southwest 15-25 mph and gusty.

Tonight, increasing cloudiness is expected with a 20 percent chance of showers forecast for late and early morning hours. The low will be in the lower 40s.

Sunday will bring cooler temperatures, cloudy skies and a 40 percent chance of showers. The high will be in the lower 60s.

Friday's high of 68 was 15 degrees cooler than the record high for the date of 83, which was set in 1942. The record low of 25, set in 1975, was eight degrees cooler than Friday's low of 33.

STATE

High pressure continued over North and South Texas Friday as low pressure built over the west, and conditions throughout the state remained fair and mild.

High-level cloudiness along with a few patches of low clouds dotted the deep south and lower Valley, while clear skies prevailed over the rest of the state, the National Weather Service said.

The forecast calls for partly cloudy skies in the west and sunny skies in the north and south today. Cloudiness should begin increasing over the state Saturday night, and skies should be mostly cloudy statewide by Sunday.

NATION

Weather officials posted snow advisories for many northern states Friday as stormy blasts and dropping temperatures chilled the nation's northern tier.

Warnings of gale-force winds were posted over much of the Great Lakes region and along the central Atlantic Coast.

A snow warning was posted for the northeast portion of upper Michigan, where up to 18 inches of snow had already accumulated. Snow accumulation elsewhere ranged from 6 inches at Boulder Junction, Wis., to 2 to 3 inches over northern Ohio to 1 to 2 inches across northern Indiana.

By noon Friday, snow showers extended from Michigan across northern Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, western Pennsylvania and western New York. Rain showers reached from eastern New York across New England.

Texas, SMU, Texas A&M, TCU vie in Midland Invitational Swim

From Staff Reports

The University of Texas is trying to erase the memory and Southern Methodist University is trying to close the gap and tonight's four-team Midland Collegiate Invitational at Mabee Pool tonight provide some clues as to how things are going.

Texas and SMU are favored to battle it out head to head while Texas A&M and Texas Christian University, both improving, but with a long way to go, will be battling for third.

"What you'll have," predicts SMU Coach George McMillion, "is two dual meets."

Splashoff is at 7 p.m., marking the first time Midland has hosted a swimming meet involving SWC powers. It also marks the start of the weeklong City of Midland Swim Team 20th anniversary observance which will conclude next Saturday when swimmers and coaches return to relive past successes at the Holiday Inn Convention Center anniversary dinner.

For Texas, with a string of eight straight SWC titles, this still represents a comeback year. Last year, Texas fell out of the nation's NCAA's Top Three teams for the first team since 1980, the year Eddie Reese came to Texas from Auburn as swimming coach.

"I think this is the best team I've ever had," says Reese. That's saying a lot since the 1981 team won the national championship.

Even after SMU's four-point victory over Texas in the SWC Relays to open the 1986-1987 season, Coach McMillion predicts the Mustangs "Have a lot of catching up to do. Still we have an outside chance."

While Reese admits his Longhorns should win the SWC again, he figures tonight's meet is wide open, pointing out that SMU has the quality performers, "it's just that in the SWC meet, we have the edge in depth. In a meet like that, the team that wins is the one with the strong second and third swimmers."

For TCU Coach Fred Sybesma, the return to West Texas is a homecoming of sorts. He swam at Andrews High and coached at Monahans before going to TCU as coach.

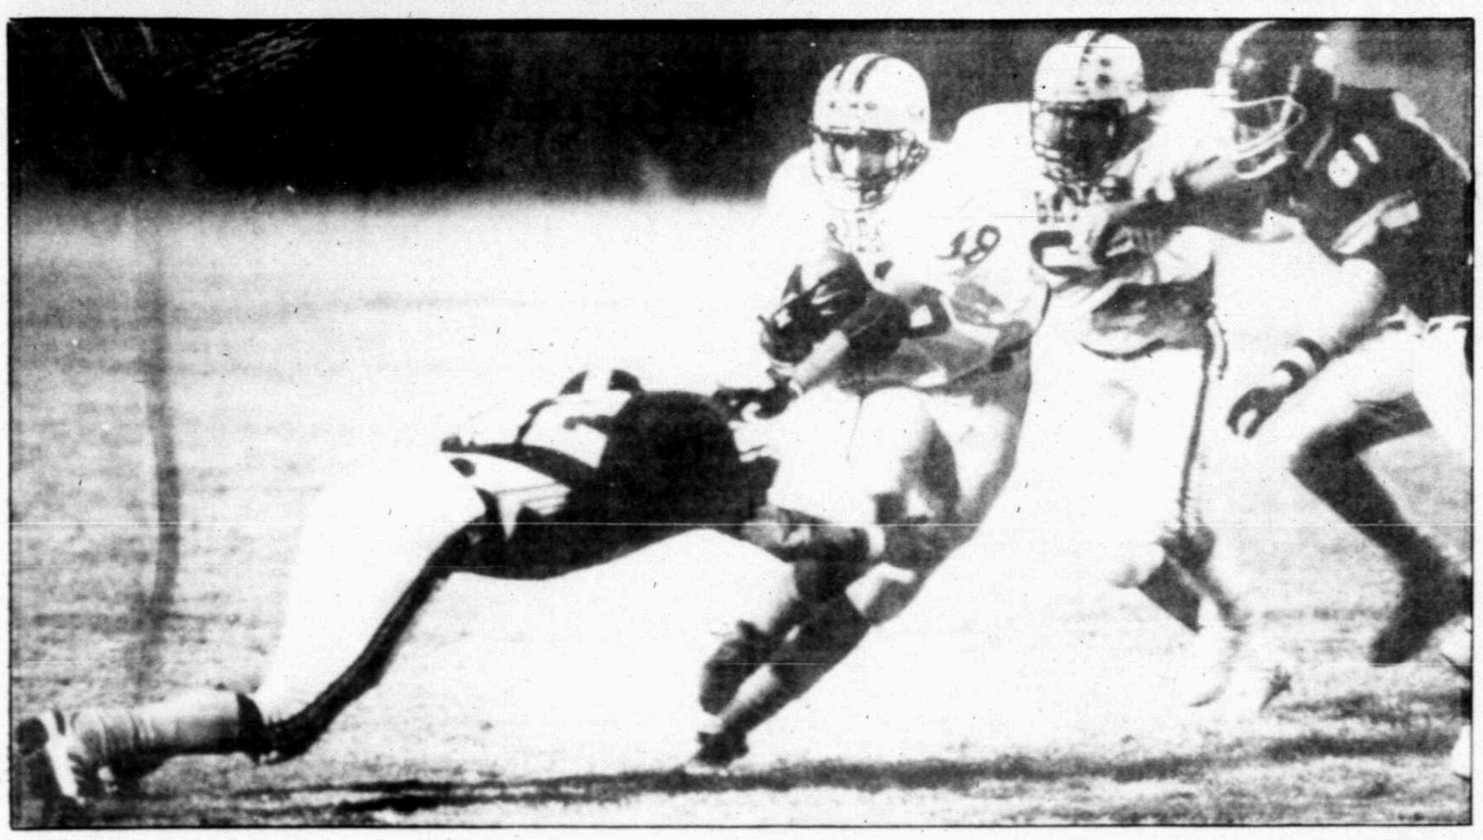
TCU added a full-time diving coach, which Sybesma feels will make a big difference in the development of the Frogs' program.

Texas A&M tied Texas Tech for fourth in last year's meet and looks to improve this year. The Aggies defeated TCU, 60-51, in a close dual match but lost to SMU, 91-29. In their dual meet with SMU, TCU kept it close.

McMillion is beginning his 17th season at SMU. His teams have won eight SWC titles and finished in the NCAA's Top 10 13 times.

Lee, Permian host 5A playoff games today

Rebels host Eastwood



Jerry Mennenga, Reporter-Telegram

Hamlin's Cruz Barrerra (42) tackles McCamey's Russell Haley (88) during action Friday night in Class 2A playoff game at Big Spring.

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

Midland Lee and Odessa Permian will try to take a step closer toward a monumental third quarterfinal playoff meeting at 2 p.m. today when the 10-0 Rebels host 8-3 El Paso Eastwood at Memorial Stadium and the 9-1 Panthers host 10-0-1 El Paso Andress at Ratliff Stadium in two area playoff games.

The winner of the Lee-Eastwood game will advance to the region round of the state playoffs against the winner of the Lewisville-Arlington contest at a site still to be determined while the Permian-Andress winner will take on the Haltom-Denton victor. If Lee and Permian can cross these two barriers, a third quarterfinal matchup between the two teams will be a reality.

Of course, Eastwood faces an extremely tough task today, having already lost to Lee during regular season play, 56-0. The only common opponent between Permian and Andress has been El Paso Coronado. Permian defeated Coronado 45-20 and Andress beat Coronado by a 35-7 margin. Both Lee and Permian carry the role of favorites today.

Arlington is a slight favorite over Lewisville while Denton is favored over Haltom. Both Arlington and Lewisville were district runnerups this year while Denton and Haltom were both district champions.

The key question in the Lee-Eastwood matchup is just how much difference can sophomore running back Eric Jack make? Jack was inserted into the Trooper lineup after the Lee game and has responded with 893 yards rushing in eight games. The 150-pounder could become a 1,000-yard rusher in nine games with 107 yards against Lee.

Eastwood also has 409 yards from Leo Duran and 336 yards from Mario Rodriquez. Quarterback Rocky Dailey has thrown for 913 yards and 10 TDs, but threw for only 80 yards in 26 attempts against Lee in the first meeting. Dailey will be looking for receivers Tyrone Davis (18 catches for 211 yards) and Brandon Bentley (12-102).

Both Lee and Eastwood were eliminated by Amarillo High last season in the playoffs with Lee losing 14-0 (bi-district) and Eastwood 31-10 (area).

Midland Lee fullback Waymon Goodley has a vested interest in this game. Goodley rushed for only 30 yards in limited action the first time the Troopers came to Midland in September. It was the only time this year Goodley has failed to break the 100-yard mark.

Permian's Shawn Crow is also closing in on District 4-5A history. Crow needs 205 yards today against Andress to become the league's all-time season rushing leader. Crow has 1,790 yards rushing in 10 games. Lee fullback Isaac Garnett, who now plays for Texas Tech, is the all-time leader with 1,994 yards in 16 games during the 1983 season. Crow has had over 530 yards rushing in his last two games alone.

Lee's Joe Woodard is in a touchdown duel with Crow. Both have scored 18 touchdowns this year.

Should Lee win today, Rebel fans better make some Thanksgiving travel plans. A Rebel victory will send Lee to the Fort Worth area next Saturday. The site of the game will not be known until all of the other area games involved are completed, but Lee will have to travel, regardless of the opponent. Ditto for Permian.

Badgers can't sing right area tune

By ERIC SCHURER
Sports Writer

BIG SPRING — The undefeated bubble burst for the McCamey Badgers Friday night.

Hamlin marched 63 yards in the final 5:42 for the go-ahead touchdown, sending McCamey to its only defeat and playoff elimination, 26-25, in the Class 2A area round. It was the third year in a row the Badgers made the playoffs, and second time in three years they've been eliminated by Hamlin.

The Pied Pipers, 9-3, advance to the regional game against the Abernathy-West Texas winner.

For McCamey, 10-1, the blow was sudden and heartbreaking. The Badgers had come all the way back from a 19-0 first half deficit to go in front, 22-19, late in the third period. In the final quarter, a short field goal gave McCamey a six-point, 25-19 edge and seeming victory.

Hamlin's final drive was a crusher.

"This was a great high school football game," Badger coach Buster Leaf said. "They reached back and took charge on that final drive. We just couldn't stop them."

But that final 63-yard march might not have happened.

Leading 22-19, McCamey faced a fourth-and-two from the three. Rather than go for the clinching touchdown, Leaf opted for the safe three-pointer and a six-point lead. It backfired.

"I was feeling real good about our defense at that point," Leaf explained. "We had stopped them the whole second half. We wanted to force them to go for the touchdown. I didn't think they could drive down and do it."

But the Pipers fooled 'em as quarterback Kyle Jeffrey finished off the drive with a 4-yard burst to the outside.

After watching helplessly as the Badgers reversed the momentum late in the first half and throughout the second half, Hamlin grabbed it back in the final minutes and wouldn't let go.

"It's nothing different than we've done all year," said first-year Hamlin coach Paul Phillips. "We won seven games in a row in district and five of them were won in the fourth quarter. I attribute a lot of that to the playoff tradition at Hamlin. These kids know what it means to win football games."

Owls offense runs into area roadblock

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

SAN ANGELO — Reagan County's high hopes for the 1987 football season came to a disappointing end Friday night as the Owl offensive machine self-destructed in a 7-0 Class 2A area loss here to the San Saba Armadillos.

It wasn't a lack of Reagan County opportunities that forced the end of the Owls' year, their third straight in post-season competition. Several times the Owls had a chance to bring the area title back to Big Lake only to see each opportunity end in a Reagan County mistake or great San Saba defensive stand.

"We obviously weren't ready to play a good football team tonight," said Owls' head coach Ronnie Reeger. "I think their kids were ready to play. They did a super job. They got the ball into the end zone when they needed to. We couldn't do that."

The Armadillos' lone score of the night was also set by a Reagan County mistake, or rather a pair of them, a fumble and a new-life penalty.

On the Owls' first possession of the third quarter, tailback James West lost the ball deep in Reagan County territory only to be recovered by San Saba's Brad Bowden on the RC 28.

Five plays later the Owls committed their second crucial mistake, this time an offsides call that cost defensive back Scott Lipsey an interception in the end zone.

The second chance was too much for the Owl defense to overcome as, two plays after the penalty, Armadillo running back Chris McBride powered his way into the end zone for the game's only touchdown. Ricky Carr kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead with 7:40 left in the quarter.

Lipsey, at quarterback on offense, never found his game, throwing two interceptions in the third quarter - he had four for the night. A fourth possession was destroyed by a pair of penalties on the same play for a 20-yard loss.

But, Lipsey and the Owls didn't give up. On their first possession of the fourth quarter, Lipsey and West led the Owls 54 yards to first and goal on the San Saba 10 only to misfire and have the drive stopped on fourth down. It was the second time Reagan County recorded a penetration and the second time San Saba defenders stood their ground.

Had the Owls scored, the choice fell on Reeger's shoulders: kick or go for two. The deciding factor in that decision was the tie-breaker system. Both teams had two penetrations but Reagan County led in first downs by six.

Jinx-haunted Huskers, Sooners clash for No. 1

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Top-ranked Nebraska and runnerup Oklahoma will be trying to snap a couple of jinxes when they meet Saturday in one of the most ballyhooed games in college football history.

Both have perfect records — Nebraska in nine games and Oklahoma in 10 — going into the 22nd meeting between the No. 1 and No. 2 teams in the 52-year history of the Associated Press poll.

Nebraska is a four-point favorite. But the Cornhuskers have dropped three in a row to Oklahoma and 31 of the last 42 meetings, including 11 of 15 since Barry Switzer and Tom Osborne became the head coaches in 1973.

"Our team feels that we've been beaten in ways we shouldn't have been beaten in the last few years," defensive end Broderick Thomas says. "We have a lot to prove, our whole team. We have a lot of pride. We're going to put our pride on the line.

"It's showtime. It'll be like an 18-wheeler and a car colliding."

OKLAHOMA, meanwhile, has been involved in four previous 1-2 shootouts and the Sooners dropped all four, including a memorable 35-31 see-saw loss to the Cornhuskers in 1971, a game voted the greatest of all time.

"I have been looking forward to this game since midseason," Oklahoma guard Mark Hutson says. "It has really been hard to get up for each week with this game always in the back of your mind. Our tempo and emotional level will be up this week, and we haven't had that in a while.

"We feel this game is for the national championship. I think winning in the fourth quarter last year gives us the confidence that we can go into Lincoln and win the game, regardless of our hardships or any negative game situations that may occur."

The hardships Hutson cited were the season-ending injuries to quarterback Jamelle Holieway and fullback Lydell Carr.

The Sooners trailed 17-10 last year with less than 1½ minutes left. But Holieway hit tight end Keith Jackson with a game-tying 17-yard touchdown pass and Tim Lashar kicked a 31-yard field goal with six seconds left.

Oklahoma is visiting Nebraska for the second year in a row to adjust the Big Eight schedule.

Familiar surroundings, however, have not always proved beneficial in this rivalry. Oklahoma is 16-13-2 at Lincoln's Memorial Stadium, where the Sooners have won six of the last eight. Nebraska is 4-5 in its last nine trips to Norman.

"We are going into this game with the perspective that we are going to win and that we are going to the Orange Bowl," Nebraska quarterback Steve Taylor says. "We respect Oklahoma. We know they've beaten us the past few years, but it's time for a change."

Says Switzer, hoping to continue Oklahoma's domination, "Nothing has changed," although he qualified that by adding, "We will play for the (Big Eight) championship and the Orange Bowl just like we always do."

The Sooners usually find a way to beat Nebraska with the clock running down and Switzer predicts that "whoever wins the fourth quarter will probably win the game. It has been that way for as long as I can remember."

Oklahoma and Nebraska have truly been the Big Eight's Big Two, winning or sharing 41 of the last 44 conference championships.

Beginning with the 1971 classic, this is the sixth time that one of the teams has come into the game ranked No. 1 (Nebraska holds the top spot for the third time in the last five years). The No. 1 team has a 3-2 record in the previous five meetings.

In addition, in the 21 previous matchups between the AP's No. 1 and No. 2 teams, No. 1 has a 14-5-2 lead, although No. 2 has won four of the last six, including Oklahoma's 28-16 loss to runnerup Miami last season.

That was the Sooners' last setback. They have won 19 consecutive games, longest in the nation, and 24 straight conference games. Nebraska has won 10 in a row since its 20-17 loss to Oklahoma a year ago.

Form usually means nothing when these titans collide. In the last 23 games, the team that scored first is only 12-11 while the winner has had to come from behind in 19 of the last 24 meetings.

Oklahoma rallied in the fourth quarter in 1966, 1967, 1972, 1976, 1980 and 1986, winning four of those games in the final minute.

Although the Sooners struggled offensively against Oklahoma State and Missouri the last two weeks, they still lead the nation in scoring with 46.2 points a game. Nebraska is second at 43.6.

In total offense, Nebraska leads at 524.6 yards a game and Oklahoma is second at 505.3. In rushing, Oklahoma is No. 1 at 29.8 yards and Nebraska No. 2 at 390.2.

But Oklahoma also leads the nation in scoring defense at 7.5 yards — Nebraska is tied for sixth at 12.1 — and total defense at 205.4 yards. Nebraska is eighth at 249.1. In rushing defense, Nebraska is second at 67.9 yards and Oklahoma ninth at 98.6. For good measure, Oklahoma is No. 1 in passing defense at 106.8 yards while Nebraska is only No. 50 at 181.2.

Alysheba shoots for Horse of Year today

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Equine stars get a chance to shine in this land of glitter Saturday when the $10 million Breeders Cup races are contested at Hollywood Park.

Alysheba, the Midland, Texas, horse owned by Dorothy and Pam Scharbauer, and Ferdinand, the 1987 and 1986 Kentucky Derby winners, respectively, will clash in the $3 million Classic, the richest of the seven races. A victory could make either Horse of the Year.

Skywalker, the 1986 Classic winner, who is recovered from injury and back from a season at stud, will defend his title and make the race a father-son battle.

Michael Whittingham trains Skywalker, and his 74-year-old Hall of Fame father, Charlie, trains Ferdinand.

Groovy will try to win the Sprint for his seventh victory in as many races this year and keep alive his chances for Horse of the Year.

Once again there will be a strong contingent of foreign-based runners, including Trempolino, winner of the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe in France.

Trempolino will race in the $2 million Turf, the race in which 1986 Arc winner Dancing Brave finished fourth in last year at Santa Anita.

Of course, a race gathering of the nature of the fourth annual Breeders Cup, which will televised by NBC from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. PST, has to be rich in human interest.

Charlie Whittingham will start a total of nine horses in five races in a bid for his first Breeders' Cup victory.

Bill Shoemaker, who has ridden more than 8,700 races but has never won a Breeders' Cup race, will ride Ferdinand and three other Whittingham horses.

Other famous jockeys on hand include Angel Cordero, Pat Day, Laffit Pincay, Freddie Head of France, Steve Cauthen, the transplanted Kentuckian who recently won his third British riding title, and Pat Eddery, the Irishman Cauthen beat, 197 victories to 195.

Trainer D. Wayne Lukas, who started a total of 22 horses in the first three Breeders' Cup and won four races, will saddle 14 more in four races Saturday.

Joseph M. Bollero, a 77-year-old trainer rom Alrington Heights, Ill., will challenge Lukas and Charlie Whittingham in the Distaff with Ms. Margi, his only Breeders' Cup horse.

Bollero rode the winner of the first race ever run at Arlington Park on Oct. 13, 1927. He got his first trainer's license in 1935 and counted Al Capone among his earliest clients.

Trainer Darrel Vienna will take at shot at a bunch of tough European campaigners in the mile when he saddles Air Display, Santella Mac and Short Sleeves.

This race cries for a storybook finish. The 41-year-old Vienna, who lives at Sierra Madre, Calif., won first place in a 1983 contest sponsored by the American Academy of Poets in New York. He also co-authored a script for an episode of the television series "Hill Stree Blues."

Juan Ciuro, a 62-year-old trainer, hopes Balquiria will get attention deserving of her talent when she races in the Juvenile Fillies, in which Lukas has five starters. Balquiria has won all eight of her starts, six in Puerto Rico and two in Florida.

Mohammed bin Rashid al Maktoum, one of four sons of the crown prince of Dubai; brother Fahd and Ahmed Salman, members of the Saudi Arabian ruling family and Greek shipping magnate Stavros Niarchos will be looking for wins as owners.

So will Vera C. Brunette, a retired elementary school teacher from Murrieta, Calif. She will challenge Groovy with Zany Tactics, a 6-year-old gelding, who has won half of 10 starts this year and set a world record of 1:06 4-5 for six furlongs March 8 at Turf Paradise in Phoenix.

Many of Saturday's competitors were high-priced yearlings.

Then there is Torellino Roma, a Junvenile Filly entrant, who has won four of six starts, all of them at Longacres in Washington.

The Washington-bred filly was bought as yearling for $4,000 by Paskey Dedominico, 76, of Monroe Wash., who is president of the Michigan Macaroni Co., which was sold in 1986 for $250 million.

The six-furlong Sprint will be the first race of the day, with a posttime of 11:17 a.m. PST. It will be followed by the one-mile Juvenile Fillies, the 1¼-mile Turf, the Mile, the one-mile Juvenile, the 1⅛-mile Turf and at 2:30 p.m. the 1¼-mile Classic.

Except for the Classic and the Turf, each race has a purse of $1 million.

Barkley's 22 sparks 76ers over Celtics

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Charles Barkley had 22 points and 14 rebounds as Philadelphia routed Boston 116-85 Friday night, the Celtics' worst NBA loss to the 76ers in 21 years.

The last time Boston lost by as many as 31 points to Philadelphia was Nov. 29, 1966, when the 76ers won 138-96.

The Celtics again played without leading scorer Larry Bird, who has tendinitis in both ankles and will also sit out Saturday night's game at New Jersey.

Bulls 94, Hawks 92

CHICAGO — Michael Jordan made two foul shots with 28 seconds left and finished with 33 points.

The Bulls, off to the best start in their history, won for the seventh time in eight games this season. The last two victories have been by two points.

Dominique Wilkins led Atlanta with 36 points in a game that seesawed through the fourth quarter.

Pistons 131, Warriors 108

PONTIAC, Mich. — Isiah Thomas and Vinnie Johnson led seven Pistons in double figures with 19 points each as Detroit handed Golden State its fifth consecutive defeat.

The Warriors' 1-8 start is their worst since moving to the West Coast for the 1962-63 season. They were led in scoring by Rod Higgins with 22 points and Chris Mullin with 18.

OWLS

"We'd have kicked the ball," said Reeger.

OFFENSIVELY, THE Owls outgained San Saba, but not by much. The Armadillos picked up 151 yards on the ground and 11 passing to Reagan County's 172 rushing and 31 passing.

Lipsey's troubles at quarterback - three completions and four interceptions from 15 attempts - was a big part of the problem.

"I know this is the worst I've played since I first started," said the senior quarterback, who gained his first start as a sophomore when quarterback Bobby Gunnells went down to injury.

"We just weren't on target tonight. Everything worked for awhile then we'd go to pieces," continued Lipsey. "They used the defense we worked on all week, they just played it better than we did."

West, who rushed for 80 yards on 18 carries, added, "We just didn't get the job done. We played our best game on defense. We held them. We just messed up one time."

Reeger agreed. "I thought we played good except that one drive. They didn't have a 30-yard drive any other time (except on the opening kickoff) in the ball game."

That opening drive for the Aramdillos died on the RC 17 when McBride fumbled and Lipsey recovered. The Owls recorded their penatration in the second quarter only to have West stopped on fourth-and four at the 17.

The victory improves San Saba's record to 10-2 and lifts the Aramdillos into the regional game against New Deal. Reagan County leaves the playoffs with a 9-2 record.

Purdue, I-State win in NIT play

Associated Press

Second-ranked Purdue, behind Todd Mitchell's 22 points, crushed Arkansas-Little Rock 102-88 Friday night in an opening-round game in the Big Apple NIT college basketball tournament.

Also advancing with first-round victories were No. 8 Georgia Tech, Iowa State and Seton Hall.

Georgia Tech had no problems with Alcorn State 114-71; Iowa State downed Texas 100-83 and Seton Hall defeated George Mason 85-63.

In late games, it was Weber State at New Mexico and Oral Roberts at UCLA.

The first round concludes Saturday with Virginia Tech at Middle Tennessee and Jacksonville at Florida.

At West Lafayette, Ind., Mitchell scored seven straight points late in the first half as the Boilermakers used a 9-1 spurt to take a 51-37 lead over the Trojans with 43 seconds left in the half. Purdue had four players in double figures, including senior guard Troy Lewis, who scored 18 points and pulled down a career-high 11 rebounds.

Forward James Dawn led the UALR with 27 points.

In Atlanta, Tom Hammonds and Brian Oliver each scored a career-high 29 points as Georgia Tech crushed Alcorn State to move into the second round. The Yellow Jackets were never pressed by the Braves, a longtime Southwestern Athletic Conference power coming off one of its worst seasons ever at 5-23.

Tech never trailed and held its biggest lead at 103-61 with just over five minutes remaining.

Hammonds sat out the final nine minutes after giving Tech an 89-55 lead. Oliver left with 6:24 to play after giving Tech a 100-61 advantage.

Ferrell added 20 points for Tech, while Roosevelt Tate led the Braves with 25 points, 19 in the second half.

In Ames, Iowa, Jeff Grayer scored 36 points and center LaFester Rhodes, making his first start, added a career-high 27 to lead Iowa State over Texas.

The Cyclones rattled the youthful Longhorns with a full-court press that led to numerous easy baskets. Texas, which has 10 sophomores and freshmen on its 13-man roster, turned the ball over 18 times in the first half and 31 times overall.

Travis Mays, Texas' lone returning starter, led the Longhorns with 27 points.

In Piscataway, N.J., forward Daryll Walker scored 20 points and Martin Salley added 18 as Seton Hall downed George Mason.

The victorious Pirates went on a 12-2 run after George Mason had closed to 56-50 with 11:45 remaining. Nick Katsikis scored five points and Walker added four to give the Pirates a 68-52 advantage with 6:35 left in the game.

Kenny Sanders and Earl Moore combined for George Mason's first 26 points. Moore finished with 24 points and Sanders 22.

The second round will be held Monday and Tuesday, with the survivors advancing to the semifinals and final at New York's Madison Square Garden next weekend.

Rose Bowl on line as Trojans, Bruins square off before full house

LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA has an opportunity to become the first team in the history of the Pacific-10 Conference to go through league play with a perfect record, but the Bruins will settle for a blemish if it comes down to it.

That's because a tie against Southern California will be just as good as a win as far as the Pac-10 race and a berth in the Rose Bowl are concerned.

The fifth-ranked Bruins face the Trojans for the 57th time Saturday, with the winner qualifying to meet Big Ten champion Michigan State at Pasadena on New Year's Day.

All 92,516 tickets at the Los Angeles Coliseum have been sold for the game, which will be televised nationally by ABC.

The Bruins have a 7-0 Pac-10 record and a 9-1 overall mark. UCLA's only loss was administered by top-ranked Nebraska.

The Trojans are 6-1 in the Pac-10 and 7-3 overall. Southern Cal has lost to No. 11 Michigan State, No. 7 Notre Dame and unranked Oregon.

The Bruins are 8½-point favorites.

Not surprisingly, UCLA Coach Terry Donahue said his team would go for a tie rather than risk losing because of the existing situation.

No team has gone through conference play with a perfect record since the Trojans in 1976, two years before Arizona and Arizona State joined the league, making the Pac-8 the Pac-10.

The game will be the 19th between the Bruins and Trojans in which the Rose Bowl berth has been at stake for both teams. Southern Cal holds a 12-5-1 advantage in those situations and has won the last seven such matchups, including 1978, the most recent occasion in which the winner automatically earned the Rose Bowl bid.

The Trojans lead the series 31-19-6, but the Bruins have won five of the seven games during the 1980s, including a 45-25 decision at the Rose Bowl last year.

Should the Trojans win, the teams would have identical Pac-10 records, but Southern Cal would be declared the champion because head-to-head competition is the first tie-breaker.

Third-ranked Miami, which will oppose the Big Eight champ in what the Orange Bowl hopes will be a national championship game, entertains Toledo on Saturday night. Fourth-ranked Florida State, which meets the Oklahoma-Nebraska loser in the Fiesta Bowl, is idle.

Sixth-ranked Syracuse, one of four teams with perfect records, plays host to West Virginia. The Orangemen won't know their Sugar Bowl opponent until Friday when No. 10 Auburn and No. 17 Alabama meet in Birmingham. Both are idle Saturday.

Notre Dame, the No. 7 team and headed for the Cotton Bowl, visits defending national champion Penn State, which dropped out of the Top Twenty this week. No. 16 Texas A&M, the Southwest Conference co-leader, is at Texas Christian while Texas plays host to Baylor.

No. 8 Clemson (Florida Citrus Bowl vs. Penn State) at No. 12 South Carolina (Gator Bowl vs. Alabama, Auburn or LSU) under the lights. Ninth-ranked LSU (Gator or Sugar Bowls) plays a night game at Tulane, with the Green Wave needing a respectable showing for a possible Independence Bowl bid.

Elsewhere in the Second Ten, No. 13 Oklahoma State (Sun Bowl vs. Southern Cal, unless the Trojans beat UCLA) entertains Iowa State. No. 14 Georgia (Liberty Bowl) is not scheduled. No. 15 Tennessee (Peach Bowl) is at Kentucky, Minnesota at No. 18 Iowa (Holiday Bowl), Kent State at No. 19 Pitt (Bluebonnet Bowl) and Purdue at No. 20 Indiana (Peach Bowl).

Other possible bowl teams in action include Virginia (All American) at North Carolina State, Wyoming (Holiday) at Texas-El Paso, Utah at Brigham Young (All American) and Air Force (Freedom) at Hawaii under the lights.

For the first time since 1967, neither Ohio State nor Michigan (Hall of Fame Bowl) is in the Top Twenty for their meeting in Ann Arbor. Ohio State's Earle Bruce is a lame duck coach, having been fired on Monday.

WHILE Syracuse is bidding for a perfect regular season, Don Nehlen needs one victory to become the winningest coach in West Virginia's history. Nehlen, 58-33-1, is tied with Art "Pappy" Lewis. The Mountaineers have won five of their last six games after a 1-3 start and their last three setbacks were by a total of 12 points.

"West Virginia is a very, very good football team," Syracuse Coach Dick MacPherson says. "The problems they had early were turnovers. Another early problem was the schedule. There were not Little Sisters of the Poor beating them. If we are the best in the East, then West Virginia is the second best."

Nehlen says that when Syracuse has the ball, "They give you more problems than anybody we've played in years. They blend power football, pro-style passing and option football all together. Their statistics are almost scary. Every time you look at their film, there goes another 50-yard bomb.

McCamey's Emmit Brown (11) runs ball as Hamlin's Langley Rister (63) hangs on during A Class 2A playoff game at Big Spring Friday night.

Sabatini stuns Navratilova, 6-4, 7-5

NEW YORK (AP) — As many expected, Martina Navratilova was beaten by a teen-age sensation at the Virginia Slims tennis championships. But her name wasn't Steffi Graf.

Graf's doubles partner, 17-year-old Gabriela Sabatini of Argentina, stunned second-seeded Navratilova 6-4, 7-5 Friday night in the quarterfinals of the $1 million tournament at Madison Square Garden.

The loss ended Navratilova's bid for a fifth straight Slims title and a much anticipated showdown with Graf, the top-ranked player in the world.

"Nothing was working right," Navratilova said. "Nothing was there. I don't know what is was. It might have just been nerves. Everything was off. She sort of shocked me."

No. 6 Sabatini had only beaten Navratilova once before in eight matches, in the semifinals of the 1987 Italian Open. But she said she entered the match with confidence.

"I knew I could win this match," Sabatini said. "Today everything worked perfectly. I think I played great today, one of the best matches I've ever played."

Sabatini will meet eighth-seeded Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria, who upset No. 4 Pam Shriver 6-2, 3-6, 7-5 earlier in the night.

In Saturday's other semifinal, top-seeded Steffi Graf of West Germany will play countrywoman Sylvia Hanika.

BADGERS

Rodney Douglas and Jeffrey keyed the Piper offense, Douglas running for 122 yards and Jeffrey scoring a pair of touchdowns. But it was mostly Douglas in the first half as Hamlin jumped all over the stunned Badgers.

On the first play from scrimmage, Douglas threw a 49-yard halfback option pass to John Locklin that sent McCamey reeling. It wasn't long before Jeffrey took it in for his first score.

The Pied Pipers' next possession ended in another TD, this one on a 16-yard Pat Davis run.

"We got shell-shocked there in a hurry," admitted Leaf. "It took us a quarter and a half to recover from that first play. They jumped on us 13-0 and we had hardly touched the ball."

It went to 19-0 before the Badgers recovered.

But when they decided to make it a ballgame, they did it in dramatic fashion. First a host of Badgers blocked a Michael Hernandez punt late in the second quarter, giving McCamey good field position for the first time.

Then it was Roman Zarate finding Clay Hejl for a lightning-quick 16-yard touchdown pass just before intermission.

In the third quarter, it was all Zarate and the Badgers. An 18-yard Zarate run at 4:06 in the third and a 1-yard Daniel Flores dive with :14 to go. Zarate finished the game with 106 yards rushing while Emmit Brown added 65 in less than one half of play.

"We changed our attitude about playing the game," Leaf said. "We blocked the punt and we were back in the ballgame. That carried over all the way into the fourth quarter, right up until that final drive."

It was that final drive that sent the Badgers home.

Don't Be Afraid

Detroit Red Wings' defenseman Rick Zombo and Washington Capitals winger Lou Franceshetti look as they might be comforting one another from flying puck. Actually, there's no "comforting" involved in struggle over space rights.

Scratchpad

EXAM FOR LIPPS— The Pittsburgh Steelers ordered a complete physical examination for WR Louis Lipps to try and clear up the mystery surrounding an injury that has sidelined him for more than a month. Lipps suffered a strained hamstring Oct. 19, the first day of post-strike practice, and hasn't practiced since.

MIAMI IN JEOPARDY— Miami could lose its new NBA franchise unless the number of lavatories in the sports arena is increased. The NBA informed the Miami Heat that the number of lavatories must be increased to 125 from 76, or the franchise could be withdrawn. The team is scheduled to begin competition a year from now in the arena, which is 65 percent complete...

DRUGS— A cocaine possession charge against San Diego Chargers DE Danny Walters is suspended pending his completion of a drug education program...

JURY AWARD— A Newark, N.J., jury awarded a former star athlete $6.4 million for a 1983 high school football injury that left him paralyzed. Frank Woodson Jr. received the award from a Superior Court jury here because of negligence on the part of his coach and an assistant coach. The coaches were said to have refused to let the boy wear a protective collar while playing for Irvington High School...

TV BLACKOUT— Nine Dallas clubs have been named in civil suits accusing them of illegally showing telecasts of blacked-out Dallas Cowboys games to bar patrons. The NFL filed the suit in federal court, asking $50,000 in damages from each of the clubs. An NFL attorney called the clubs flagrant violators because they televised the games after the league sent letters warning them that the showings violated federal copyright laws and broadcast regulations.

BIRD GOUNDED— Boston Celtics' Larry Bird will sit out the team's games tonight in New Jersey. Bird has "shown improvement" from tendinitis in the achilles tendons of both ankles and his return to the lineup basically is a day-to-day situation...

YSU takes zip out of Akron

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Youngstown State stopped Arkon four times from the 7-yard line in the final minute to preserve a snowy 10-6 college football victory over the Zips Friday night.

Akron quarterback Andy Kubik attempted four passes after the Zips drove to the 7, but was unable to score.

Both teams had trouble moving the ball due to driving snow, which made running and passing difficult for much of the second and third quarters.

Youngstown scored on its first possession of the game, driving 65 yards on six plays. Penguins quarterback Trenton Lykes connected with wide receiver Maury Bibent for two receptions on the opening drive, including a 24-yard touchdown pass.

OC ranked No. 1

From Staff Reports

ODESSA- Odessa College's Lady Wranglers, a national tournament representative two of the last three seasons, has been unanimously selected as the Western Junior College Athletic Conference favorite for this season.

Coach Ken Hefner's team received 60 of a possible 60 points nad six first place votes in the coaches' poll. Western Texas College was picked to finish second.

Midlander makes TIAA V-ball team

From Staff Reports

ALPINE- Celina Carrasco, Midland, and Dalia Castillo, Odessa, were named to the all-tournament and all-conference Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association volleyball team.

Sul Ross tied for second place in the TIAA with Tarleton State while Howard Payne took the title.

Carrasco, a hitter, also was named to the TIAA all-academic team. The junior in elementary education carries a 3.24 grade point average.

Aragon: Part Henry Armstrong, part Youngman

Murray

Art Aragon's big trouble as a prizefighter was, he never wanted to be Jack Dempsey, he wanted to be Jack Benny.

He never could resist a quip. Art was, as it happens, a pretty good fighter, but he'd rather be remembered for one-liners than one-rounders.

To hear him tell it, he never had an honest fight in his life. When he did, he got slaughtered. He says.

When the ref stepped in to stop his fight with Carmen Basilio, Art was not too far gone to protest: "Why? I had a no-hitter going!"

Later, in a locker room crowded with process servers, his wife's divorce lawyers and assorted creditors, Art was indignant. "They shouldn't of stopped it," he said. "The fight could have gone either way: He could have killed me or crippled me."

ONCE when Art was in the throes of a paternity suit and the court wanted a blood test, Art had a suggestion: "Just bring a bucket to my next fight," he recommended.

When a doctor took the stand to testify that Art couldn't possibly be the father, Art rose in his seat. "I want a second opinion," he said.

The girl in the case waited 18 years to bring suit. "I became a father and a grandfather the same day," said Art.

When Art went on trial in a farcical fight-fixing trial — for a fight that never came off — the prosecution witness testified that Art gave him $50 to take a dive in the third round, Art leaped to his feet. "That's a lie!" he shouted. "It was the fifth round!" Adds Art: "I got five years."

The verdict was reversed in the appellate court. "I called my lawyer, Paul Caruso," recollects Art, "and I told him, "Justice has triumphed!' and Caruso says, "Appeal at once!' "

ART NEVER got ranked higher than No. 5. He never got to be — never would let himself be — champion. Art wanted laughs, not titles. Even in the ring, he'd rather opponents laughed than bled.

Someone once said Art was like baseball's Wee Willie Keeler, a master at hitting 'em where they ain't. Someone else — me — once said, "If you throw a punch at him and miss, it ain't Aragon." He was as easy to hit as 23 in blackjack.

Most of his energies in the ring seemed to be devoted to hitching up his pants to keep them from falling off, although he admitted, when asked if they had ever fallen down, "Only when I went with them."

He was a million laughs, Aragon. Dempsey-Tunney was a million-dollar fight. Aragon's were million-laugh fights.

WHEN SOMEONE once asked him if there was something positive to be said about his fighting, Aragon thought a minute, then answered, "I never missed a punch in my life. Every one of them landed right on my chin."

When someone asked if he was a hard hitter, Aragon quipped, "I never found out."

Some fighters telegraph their punches. Aragon mailed his. "Fourth class," he adds. "I should have put "Please forward' on them or they'd come back "Not at this address.' "

When Art threw a punch, it was like dropping a note in a bottle at sea.

"And those were my good points," claims Aragon.

He fought for 16 years. He was the greatest drawing card in L.A. history. They called him Golden Boy, from the Clifford Odets play and movie of the same name. That was because he sold out every main event he was ever in.

He was the biggest draw, not the most popular. Art was 20 years ahead of his time. Even before Muhammad Ali, even before pro wrestling, Art wised up to the fact that villainy paid. The more people hated you, the more they would pay to see you get what was coming to you.

HE ALIENATED Chicanos by making it clear he was born in New Mexico, not Old — he was actually raised in Cincinnati by an aunt — and he alienated the rest of the population with the same degree of skill and will. Art was an equal opportunity offender. He offended people regardless of race, creed or color.

Not even his own profession escaped. Art offended boxing by pushing for its abolition. Every time a boxing fatality occurred, Aragon could be counted on to make every television panel examining — negatively — boxing's right to exist.

He took so many rights to the Adam's apple that his voice on the phone sounds like a cross between the Lindbergh kidnaper and a guy trying to talk under water.

WAS HE AS bad a fighter as he would have you believe? Well, he had 114 fights. He lost 19. He was knocked out in 3.

"One was stopped because I couldn't see and the other two because I couldn't move," explains Aragon. "One of them, they brought in the eye doctor. The others, they brought in the coroner."

Adds Art: "All my life I was scared I'd kill somebody — me."

He beat five world champions but never for a title.

The Golden Boy turned 60 last week. His bail bond business is flourishing — "I'll get you out if it takes 10 years," his cards promise.

It's an exciting business. Bail-jumpers are as hard to lay a glove on as any other of Art's opponents but Art has developed one hankering: "I'd like to be in the Boxing Hall of Fame," he complains.

He deserves to be. He won 95 fights. He had 12 one-round knockouts. "But I always came to!" protests Art. Actually, he won all of them. He had 61 knockouts.

He was part Henry Armstrong and part Henny Youngman. Lord Bryce said of Napoleon's career that it would be the funniest comedy of modern times if it weren't caked in human blood. So would Aragon's. Only, it's his blood.

He still thinks it's funny, the original only-when-I-laugh guy in prize ring history. He was a lot more fun than Sugar Ray Leonard or any other pug who takes himself too seriously.

TCU's Tony Jeffrey was declared ineligible Friday because of improper relations with an agent.

TCU's Tony Jeffrey declared ineligible

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Texas Christian senior running back Tony Jeffery was declared ineligible Friday to participate in his final collegiate football game because of improper relations with an agent, officials said.

TCU was presented new evidence on Thursday from an NCAA investigation that the record-setting back had improper relationships with an agent. Jeffery has admitted to wrongdoing.

"After weighing the information and evidence provided to us by the NCAA, along with Tony's admission to these allegations, we had no choice but to render him immediately ineligible," TCU Athletic Director Frank Windegger said.

He declined to elaborate on what the improper relationship was or identify the agent involved.

TCU squares off against Texas A&M Saturday in what would have been Jeffery's last collegiate game.

Two earlier NCAA investigations found no evidence of improper activities. NCAA investigators agreed at the time of those inquiries that there was no evidence Jeffery had violated the rules of the NCAA.

Jeffery, of Gladewater, Texas, had rushed for 1,353 yards, scoring 11 touchdowns in 10 games for the Horned Frogs this year. He raised his four-year career rushing total to 3,749 yards and had 34 career touchdowns.

In 1986, the NCAA announced penalties after head football coach Jim Wacker dismissed seven players when he discovered they were accepting illegal payments.

The Horned Frogs were placed on three years' probation and lost 35 scholarships over two years.

Six tie for Seniors lead

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — Former U.S. Open champion Orville Moody and five others shot 69 Friday to tie for the lead first-round lead at the $300,000 inaugural Gus Machado Senior Classic.

Lee Elder, Bill Johnston, Bob Charles, Pat Schwab and Bob Brue also were 2 under par on the seaside Key Biscayne Golf Course.

Trailing the six leaders by one stroke at 70 were Bruce Devlin, who helped design the course in 1972, Charles Owens, Larry Mowry and Walt Zembriski.

Eleven other players, including former NFL quarterback John Brodie and former Masters champion Tommy Aaron, were bunched within three shots of the leaders in the 54-hole event.

Rosario risks WBA lightweight title

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Edwin Rosario and Julio Cesar Chavez, two fighters in search of some recognition, meet tonight in a scheduled 12-round fight for Rosario's World Boxing Association lightweight title.

Chavez, undefeated in 54 fights, is a slight favorite to beat the hard-punching Rosario, who reportedly had to lose 13 pounds in two weeks to make the 135-pound division limit.

"Everyone will know after the fight who Julio Cesar Chavez is," said Chavez, the World Boxing Council superfeatherweight champion. "From Saturday on, everything will change."

Rosario will be making the second defense of the title he won Sept. 26, 1986, with a second-round knockout of Livingstone Bramble, a performance he thought would springboard him to prominence.

"People in my division that could have fought me for big paydays won't fight me," he complained. "If (Hector) Camacho or (Ray) Mancini had done what I did to Bramble, their road would have been a lot easier."

Rosario, 27-2 with 23 knockouts, has been fighting professionally since he was 16.

Rosario, who reportedly was up to 148 pounds two weeks ago, said it is Chavez who will have trouble with weight because he isn't used to fighting at 135 pounds.

Chavez, a Mexican who many consider the best technical fighter in the lighter weight divisions, said he had problems making the 130-pound weight for several years and considers the move into the lightweight ranks a natural progression.

"I'm happy now because I'm finally fighting at my true weight," said Chavez, who has 44 knockouts. "I hit stronger at this weight."

Baseball's owners tighten belts

NEW YORK (AP) — Belt-tightening by baseball owners cut the total major-league payroll by more than $12 million in 1987, according to documents prepared for the clubs.

Major-league players earned $295,791,862 this season, not including bonuses for postseason awards, down from the $308,013,156 they made in 1986.

Figures compiled by the Player Relations Committee and distributed to the major league teams show the New York Yankees had the highest payroll at $18,569,714, better than $4.2 million more than any other club.

Atlanta, which had the highest payroll in 1986 at $17.9 million, dropped to $14.4 million, which put the Braves in second place. The Los Angeles Dodgers were third at $14.3 million and the New York Mets fourth at $14.1 million.

The Seattle Mariners had the smallest payroll at $5.6 million, 30 percent of the Yankees' total. Texas was the second smallest at $6.3 million.

The World Series champion Minnesota Twins had the largest increase of any team, rising from $9.8 million to $13.3 million. Anticipating another rise, Minnesota already announced an increase in ticket prices for 1988.

Oakland and St. Louis also had large increases, each paying $2.3 million more in 1987 than in 1986.

The largest decrease was by the Chicago Cubs, who dropped from $16.9 million to $13.0 million after trading or releasing Ron Cey, Dennis Eckersley, Steve Trout and Gary Matthews.

Cincinnati dropped from $11.8 million to $8.5 million, Montreal dropped from $11.9 million to $8.9 million and Boston dropped from $16.0 million to $13.2 million.

Part of the decrease was due to teams releasing veterans, not exercising contract options and instead bringing up players from the minor leagues who earned close to the major league minimum of $62,500.

Owners also saved money by ignoring the free-agent market. An arbitrator ruled in September that the owners conspired not to sign free agents after the 1985 season and another arbitrator is hearing a grievance over the owner's actions last year.

The documents show that clubs saved a huge amount of money because of a provision the players agreed to in the final hours of the 1985 strike, increasing the minimum service for arbitration from two years to three.

In 1987, the first year the provision took effect, the average salary of players in that category dropped from $243,000 to $189,391.

"They thought I wanted the 100 percent salary cap, but what I really wanted was the extra year for arbitration," Barry Rona, head of the Player Relations Committee, said recently. "I had to hide that at the time, even from the owners. Now they're seeing how much money they saved."

The players agreed to the extra year for arbitration in exchange for the owners' dropping their demand for a 100 percent cap on arbitration salary increases and an average $32.6 million increase in the owners' yearly pension contribution.

Pittsburgh paid almost as much to players on its roster in 1987 as the Pirates did to players whose contracts were bought out. Pittsburgh's payroll for active players was $4,024,500. The Pirates paid $3,545,000 to players such as Steve Kemp, Jason Thompson, Sixto Lezcano and Johnnie LeMaster, all of whom were released.

The terminated players earned 46.8 percent of the Pirates' total payroll of $7,569,500.

Los Angeles paid $2.2 million in termination costs, Minnesota and Toronto $1.6 million each and the Yankees $1.5 million.

Zimmers gets 4th shot as pilot

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs named Don Zimmer manager, giving him his fourth shot as a major league manager and returning him to the team for which he played and coached.

Jim Frey, recently appointed director of baseball operations, completed the deal with his boyhood friend early today after keeping him sequestered in a hotel room since Wednesday night, Zimmer said.

"The point is, Jim Frey has got the biggest job he's ever had," Zimmer said at a Wrigley Field news conference. "I don't think Jim Frey would hire me if he didn't think I could do the job.

"I think this club has got to be picked up to where they're going to have fun just like I'm going to have fun," he said. "When I walk into Wrigley Field, I want to have fun and I want the players to have fun."

He recently had signed a two-year contract with the San Francisco Giants, the team that won the National League West title this year with Zimmer as third base coach.

Giants President and General Manager Al Rosen gave Frey permission to talk with Zimmer late Wednesday. Earlier in the week, Rosen had said he would permit Zimmer to leave the Giants if he were offered a managerial position, but not to make a lateral move.

"Don Zimmer has an image in baseball of being a dedicated, serious, baseball man," Frey said. "He has the respect of everybody because of his success as a major league manager and his background as a player and coach."

Tuesday, Frey had consulted with Stanton Cook and John Madigan, officials of the Tribune Co., which owns the Cubs, about naming Zimmer, the Chicago Sun-Times reported today.

Zimmer's hiring completes a rollercoaster year for the Cubs that started with great promise, but ended with the team in last place, and Manager Gene Michael and General Manager Dallas Green resigning in power struggles — Michael with Green and Green with Tribune Co. officials.

Baylor, Tech bid for bowls

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

SWC Football

Baylor and Texas Tech scramble for bowl scraps on Saturday while Texas Christian tries to redeem itself for one the worst losses in school history.

The Independence and Bluebonnet Bowls have their eyes on the Bears and the Red Raiders, who both play on the road.

Narrow losses to Texas and Texas Tech have knocked the Horned Frogs out of the bowl picture but they have a score to settle with Texas A&M.

A&M and Texas are headed for a Thanksgiving night showdown to decide the Southwest Conference's Cotton Bowl representative.

The 16th-ranked Aggies, who have won five games in a row, meet revenge-seeking TCU at noon (Raycom regional television) Saturday in Fort Worth.

The Longhorns host the Baylor Bears, who have never won under Coach Grant Teaff in Austin, at 1 p.m.

A&M and Texas are both 4-1 in SWC play and they could both lose and still meet in Kyle Field for the host team in the Cotton Bowl.

ARKANSAS is 5-2 and the only way the Razorbacks could get a ticket to Dallas on January 1 is if both A&M and Texas lose on Saturday then tie on Thanksgiving night. The Hogs lost to both Texas and A&M.

In the only other SWC game this weekend, Texas Tech can earn an Independence Bowl invitation with a victory over the Houston Cougars in the Astrodome in a 7 p.m. game.

Texas A&M has won 14 consecutive games against the Horned Frogs, including a 74-10 slaughter last year.

There's no love lost between A&M Coach Jackie Sherrill and TCU Coach Jim Wacker.

Wacker has accused Sherrill of running the score up on him.

"We have 15 seniors who want to erase memories of last year's game," Wacker said.

Sherrill said A&M won't let down even if it doesn't have to win.

"Our confidence is high right now," Sherrill said. "We need to maintain that through the Texas game. We can't allow ourselves to go flat."

Sherrill said his team is prepared for a hostile greeting.

"I really believe it will be our toughest game all year," Sherrill said. "TCU is a dangerous offensive team and Tony Jeffery is a tremendous running back with a talent for making things happen."

The Aggies were four-point favorites over the Frogs.

TEXAS WAS a 10-point pick over Baylor, which is 6-4 and still a possible Independence or Bluebonnet Bowl participant.

"Texas is obviously on top of their game and highly motivated," Teaff said. "Eric Metcalf has developed into one of the most exciting and dangerous players I've seen in the league in a long, long time. He is truly a great player."

Texas Tech Coach Spike Dykes has yet to enjoy a victory on the road with his Red Raiders. All six triumphs have come at home.

The Raiders and Cougars have two of the most potent offenses in the SWC.

"They scare you to death with their big play ability," Dykes said. "They are on a roll after beating Texas like they did (60-40). We'll have to be on our toes every play."

Arkansas is idle but has finished its conference campaign. The Hogs have non-conference games left against New Mexico and Hawaii.

They are expected to be in line for a possible Liberty Bowl bid on Saturday when invitations are issued.

Rebels face Plainview in 7 p.m. tipoff

From Staff Reports

Midland Lee's scheduled 8 p.m. basketball game today with Class 5A Plainview has been switched to a 7 p.m. Chaparral Center starting time.

The Lee junior varsity will play Plainview at 5 p.m., instead of at 6 p.m.

The Rebels of coach Paul Stueckler opened the basketball season Tuesday with a 60-56 come-from-behind victory over Lubbock Coronado. Coronado and Plainview are both District 3-5A members.

Damon Clay and Nickey Sanchez led Lee's scoring attack against Coronado with 12 points each.

It was the first game in Lee history in which the three-point shot was used and the Rebels canned five of them. Coronado hit one, so Lee's margin of victory came from three-point land.

Midland High is off today after a season opening 60-52 win over Brownfield on Tuesday. The Bulldogs will host powerful Hobbs, N.M., Tuesday at the MHS gym at 8 p.m. in a match that is always of keen interest to coach Jack Stephenson. The game will also be the home debut for the Bulldogs.

Hobbs is an annual power in New Mexico under legend Ralph Tasker. Midland High defeated Hobbs at the MHS gym last year in a major upset, but lost to Hobbs on the road.

Junior Greg Lewis led the Bulldogs with 20 points against Brownfield while Michael Ball added 18.

ESPN viewers face glut

NEW YORK (AP) — Sports television viewers will have a feast Saturday when the three commercial networks and ESPN offer a variety of outstanding events.

The highlight of the day, at least for football fans, may be the matchup of No. 1 Nebraska and No. 2 Oklahoma at 2:30 p.m. on CBS. But that's not the only big attraction of the weekend.

"There's never been a television bonanza as impactful as Saturday's," ABC's Donn Bernstein told USA Today. "It's dynamic."

The r of the schedule includes:

— 11 a.m.: No. 7 Notre Dame at Penn State, college football on CBS. Ohio State at Michigan, college football on ABC.

— 1 p.m. : Breeders' Cup horse racing on NBC. Telecast lasts until 6 p.m. and covers seven races.

— 1:30 p.m. : Tip-Off Classic college basketball game with No. 1 Syracuse against No. 3 North Carolina on ESPN.

— 2:30 p.m. : No. 5 UCLA at Southern California (with a Rose Bowl berth at stake) on ABC.

— 6:30 p.m. : No. 8 Clemson at No. 12 South Carolina, college football on ESPN.

Expert reveals hunting secrets

By RAY SASSER

EMORY, Texas (AP) — A pair of gadwalls, duped by Mike Hance's pleading call, worked over the semi-open pocket of water in the upper end of Lake Fork.

The ducks slid off to one side, no doubt seduced by the plaintive cries of real wood ducks coming from the heavy timber to the north. Like a barker at a state fair side show, Hance upped the ante, his raspy caller producing a series of urgent quacks that, translated to duck talk, must have meant something like, "Step right up, ladies and gents, see the tattoed hen!"

Those gadwalls couldn't stand it. They cupped up and dropped altitude quickly, parachuting down right between Hance's boat blind and the island where I was trying to take photographs.

I COULDN'T help but think of something Hance had said shortly after we met at a pre-determined spot long before sunrise — "somebody needs to teach a seminar on how to hunt ducks on public water and survive the experience."

One of the first things they would teach is never set up close to another hunter, much less across the decoys in easy shotgun range. I was certainly guilty of that.

Another thing they'd teach is always be equipped with certain essentials, like a hunting license and state and federal duck stamps. I had the first two, but the store where I bought all my hunting and fishing licenses and stamps just before mourning dove season was out of federal duck stamps at the time. I'd subsequently forgotten to get one.

That's why I was hunting with a Nikon instead of a Browning. I really didn't mind camera hunting any more than Hance minded passing up a shot at the gadwalls because I was in his line of fire.

Hance hunts ducks two or three times per week throughout the season, mostly on public water. Two years ago, he had an outstanding season, even for him, and bagged 260 ducks. If you think that's not good, you haven't hunted much on public reservoirs.

Hance, a Plano native, would be a pretty good instructor for that seminar on public duck hunting. But because he prefers to keep a low profile, I'll just pass along some of the things he has learned while earning a full professorship at the university of public waterfowling.

On opening morning, Hance and two companions shot a quick limit of ducks at Fork. Of the 400 or so vehicles parked around Hance's favorite boat ramp that morning, most of them representing duck hunters, I'd bet that less than 10 percent of the hunters had a good hunt.

The heavily wooded flat where Hance opened the season held an estimated 50,000 ducks. "Most of those guys never get off the open lake," Hance said of the hunters. "They don't have the boats to get back into the areas where the ducks like to go, or else they don't realize they can get a boat into those areas."

It's true that if outboard abuse was a crime, Hance would be doing life without parole. He uses and 18-horsepower Mercury to power a plain, aluminum battering ram into some ridiculously thick spots, perhaps more to escape other hunters than to find the game.

"I used to hunt mostly at Lake Lavon because it was so convenient," Hance said. "Now all the timber has fallen in Lavon and you can't hide from the crowds. That's one of the secrets to duck hunting on public lakes — getting away from the other hunters."

ANOTHER secret is staying mobile. "The ducks move around, and you've got to be able to go where they go," said Hance. "In a public lake, you never want to get married to a particular blind. The more options you have on where to hunt the better off you are."

Hunters who only know one spot may find it already occupied when they arrive 30 minutes before shooting time. Frustrated and unwilling to look for another place, they frequently set out their decoys too close, sometimes dangerously close to the original hunters.

The best thing that can happen in this scenario is that everyone has a lousy hunt. The worst think that can happen is that someone gets shot.

"I used to cuss guys and even get in fights over a prime hunting spot, but now I just cuss 'em and leave," said Hance.

He mostly hunts out of his boat, pulling it into trees when possible and using a camouflage screen to help hide the craft. If Hance sees ducks piling into a distant hole, it only takes him about 10 minuteds to pick up decoys and change spots.

Scotland leads in Cup Golf

KAPALUA, Hawaii (AP) — Sandy Lyle and Sam Torrance both birdied the final hole and gave Scotland a one-shot lead after Friday's third round of the 33rd World Cup of Golf.

Lyle and Torrance each had 71s in the occasional showers and Scotland finished three rounds at 425, seven strokes under par on the Kapalua Bay course.

Their last-hole heroics were necessary to overcome the spectacular individual performance of Ian Woosnam of Wales.

Woosnam, winner of five European tournaments this year, pitched in for an eagle-3 on the way to the best round of the tournament, a 7-under-par 65 that tied the course record and lifted Wales into second place at 426, a single shot back.

"We've got a chance to win it," said the 5-foot-4 Woosnam.

"If David (Llewellyn) can play well, shoot par tomorrow, I'll be going for 64 or 65."

The United States, a clear leader at the turn, drifted back to third at 428 after Ben Crenshaw encountered some severe putting problems on the back.

Crenshaw had a 69 and Payne Stewart shot 73.

"After that good start (birdies on three of the first four holes), 69 was just okay. I feel like I left a lot of shots out on the course today," Crenshaw said.

"We've got some ground to make up," he said, looking ahead to Saturday's final round of the chase for a $200,000 prize that goes to the winning two-man team.

Quail outlook excellent

By MARK McDONALD
Dallas Times Herald

DALLAS (AP) — Quail are so plentiful in Texas these days, game biologists and veteran hunters say only a series of early ice storms can keep bird hunters from enjoying a record harvest.

"It should be a super season," said Don Wilson of Austin, upland bird program leader for the Texas Parks and Wildlife department. "Our field counts in some areas fixed the quail population at an all-time high."

The Brush Country south of San Antonio and the Cross Timbers region between Fort Worth and Abilene should provide especially fast shooting, when quail become legal game Nov. 7 statewide.

"We can't walk down here without tripping over quail," said Larry Weishuhn, a consulting biologist based in Uvalde.

Al Wingo, who leased 100,000 acres for members of the Dallas-based Texas Independent Bird Hunters Association, agreed. "We could be in for our best year — ever," he said. "Cover and food looks good."

A census, taken by TP&W personnel who drove designated 20-mile routes, shows that the Brush Country and the Cross Timbers rank 1-2 for quail. Rolling Plains is the third best, followed by the Trans-Pecos, rich in scaled quail, the larger cousin to the bobwhite found elsewhere.

TP&W figures show 232,000 Texans shot an estimated 1.7 million birds last season. Wilson said last year's mild winter and ample rainfall last spring have made hunting so good only a cruel turn in the weather could keep the total harvest below last year. The daily bag limit is 16 quail, 48 in possession.

The top four areas look this way:

SOUTH TEXAS: Preseason bird counts were highest on record. Long-term average was 21 birds for 20-mile drive but the same trip revealed 39 quail this year. "Good nesting and a successful hatch in the spring of '86 gave us a good population," said Wilson. "The good carryover gave us lot of birds in the breeding population."

CROSS TIMBERS: Best count ever, 34 per 20-mile route. Until this year, the high count was 23 birds per route. Long-term average is 17 per route.

TRANS-PECOS: Here, the count was 24 birds per route, mostly scaled quail.

A key to quail habitat, Wilson said, is the availability of croton, often called goat weed, dove weed or prairie tea.

"It's good quail food because it is resistant to insects, and cattle won't graze it," he said. "When the seed fall to the ground, it is not attacked by fungus, it is durable and available all winter, it is 16 percent protein and high in fat. For quail, it is a high-energy food."

1787 Constitution Daybook

Associated Press

Wednesday, Nov. 21, 1787
PHILADELPHIA TODAY

After a rainy morning, the day was cold and damp.

The Pennsylvania Gazette reprinted "Federalist No. 3" by Publius who remarked that people direct their attention to securing internal peace as well as guarding against foreign enemies. The best safeguard for that security could be obtained through the adoption of the Constitution.

The Gazette reported that two-thirds of the delegates returned to the Pennsylvania Convention were Federalists, and hoped that the remainder of them would turn Federalist. They didn't.

CONFEDERATION TODAY

Joseph Jones, Virginia congressman, wrote to James Madison that the Virginia Assembly had not decided on bills of major importance. A key concern, however, was British debts. Assembly members suggested removing all impediments to collection so as to fulfill the Treaty of Paris. Others wanted to remove them only to create other installments, while some wished that nothing be changed until they could predict what would happen with the Constitution hammered out by the federal Convention in Philadelphia.

Jones couldn't determine exactly who were the Constitution's proponents and who were its enemies. When he heard people speak about it, he noticed their zeal, and remarked that more moderation was needed on their parts, so that a calm, clear-headed discussion of it could take place. Jones, however, questioned the changes that the Constitution represented. He felt that the executive and the legislature should be delineated more. He wanted also to see exterior matters left to Congress, with the individual states being entrusted with interior matters, even to the extent of regulating trade between nations. Without these revisions, Jones doubted whether he could fully accept the new form of government.

RATIFICATION TODAY

In the Pennsylvania Convention, 60 representatives assembled and elected a president. Frederick Augustus Muhlenberg received 30 votes. Though he failed to secure a majority, he nonetheless was "conducted to the chair."

In the press, popular opinion ran high against Rhode Island, the one state to boycott the federal Convention and the most likely not to ratify the new Constitution. The Pennsylvania Gazette published today a letter from a citizen of that state. "From the proceedings of our Legislature last week," the Rhode Islander began, "you may reasonably conclude that our rulers have not yet compleated their diabolical Schemes. How far they mean to carry their vile plans, time alone must make known." He then proceeded to predict a civil war if the Constitution were not adopted.

Philadelphia's anti-Federalist newspaper, Freeman's Journal, printed a defense of Rhode Island, claiming the abuse of that state "greatly unmerited." In the paper's opinion, Rhode Island's decision not to send delegates to the convention was "a happy one," as the new Constitution provided for "an elective monarchy, which is proverbially the worst government."

DELEGATES TODAY

Today, Alexander Hamilton sent a series of the "Federalist Papers" to Dr. Benjamin Rush, Pennsylvania ratifying convention member. Hamilton hoped that the various essays written by several anonymous writers would help to influence the Quaker contingent to favor the Constitution.

Nicholas Gilman wrote to John Langdon in New Hampshire urging him to attend the Confederation Congress, especially in light of the rumors that if Langdon attended he was to be named president of the Congress.

LOOKING BACK
Ratification in South Carolina

Though it was difficult to predict South Carolina's reception of the Constitution, several letters written in the newspapers showed favorable reaction. A South Carolina gentleman wrote, "There exists not a simple doubt but that in this state it will be adopted, as well as those of Georgia and North Carolina." Prior to the convention, South Carolina politician Robert Loundes almost singlehandedly challenged the federal Convention representatives, Charles Pinckney, Charles Cotesworth Pinckney, Pierce Butler, and John Rutledge, and opposition grew.

By May 12, when the convention was about to assemble, seven other states had ratified the Constitution. South Carolina was a key state since her delegates had taken a prominent part in the compromises between the North and the South.

Charles C. Pinckney addressed the fears of the delegates. He emphasized that the Constitution did not have the power to emancipate slaves. Indeed, they could now recover them from other states. The slave trade furthermore, would continue for 20 more years, enough to meet their labor needs. As the convention was drawing to a close, an effort was made to adjourn in order to gain time for the anticipated rejection by Virginia. This, however, prompted the opposite reaction. The delegates rejected that motion, and they ratified the Constitution on May 23, 1788, by a vote of 149-73.

A Cambridge, Mass., police office handcuffs a tent city resident Friday as police and MIT officials cleared more than 15 people who were living on school property in makeshift shelters.

MIT evicts homeless people living on school property

CAMBRIDGE, Mass (AP) — Ten people were arrested Friday as Massachusetts Institute of Technology police evicted about 15 homeless people who had lived in makeshift shelters on school property for the past month.

Seven tent city residents accepted the school's offer to stay in motel rooms for a few days, an MIT spokesman said. Others moved to a nearby shelter.

One of those arrested lived at the site; the other nine were supporters who arrived as the eviction was under way.

MIT officials have frequently warned tent city residents they would not be allowed to stay. The university decided to remove them because of bitter cold forecast for Friday night, said MIT spokesman Robert C. DiIorio.

"We think this is time to say, 'Folks, you have to move,'" DiIorio said.

Cambridge and MIT police went to the area Friday morning and warned those living in the camp they would be arrested if they did not immediately leave, and offered them rides to shelters, motels or other facilities, DiIorio said.

"They told us we had a two-minute warning to pack up our gear," said a homeless woman who identified herself only as Kim.

Nine of those arrested were charged with trespassing, including Evelyn Parks, who has said she was elected mayor of the tent city. The other person was charged with disorderly conduct and interfering with a police officer.

One MIT student, Steven Penn, was among the arrested, DiIorio said. All were to be arraigned on the misdemeanor charges in District Court.

Belongings collected by school officials at the site would be stored at MIT until they are claimed, the spokesman said.

The tent city residents, who numbered about 25 earlier this month, had hoped the school would let them stay or offer them adjacent vacant houses owned by the school as shelter. MIT officials maintained there were available beds in Cambridge shelters.

The residents set up camp on part of a 25-acre redevelopment site after a community group opposed to an MIT plan for mixed housing and commercial use held a block party at the site. Tents and shelters erected for the party were never taken down, and the homeless moved in.

Volkswagen will be closing U.S. plant

DETROIT (AP) — Volkswagen will close its only U.S. assembly plant before the end of 1988 and return all production of its Jetta and Golf models to West Germany, the automaker said Friday.

About 2,100 hourly workers and 400 salaried workers will lose their jobs when Volkswagen loses the assembly plant near New Stanton, Pa. Volkswagen has been running the plant at less than half its capacity for five years, said company spokesman Tom McDonald.

"It is not a departure from the U.S. market. It is strictly a utilization and financial decision. The plant cannot continue at less than half its capacity," McDonald said.

The plant produces about 120 Jetta sedans and 280 Golf subcompacts a day. McDonald said the plant will stop making Jettas in March, and an undetermined number of workers will be laid off then.

The plant will continue producing Golfs through the end of the model-year run. The 1988 model year ends Sept. 30, but Volkswagen hasn't decided when it will end production of 1988 models, McDonald said.

Industry analyst Chris Cedergren, of J.D. Power & Associates in Westlake Village, Calif., said the move fits Volkswagen's strategy of emphasizing German identity and engineering.

"It makes sense to concentrate on building those cars in West Germany. Volkswagen wants to position themselves as the low-priced alternative to high-priced German cars," Cedergren said.

"Building more of the product in West Germany substantiates that image," he said.

Volkswagen's total U.S. sales of imported and domestic cars have been off as much as 12 percent throughout 1987, McDonald said. So far in 1987, VW has sold 54,764 domestically produced Jettas and Golfs, down from 64,287 a year ago.

Cedergren said the decision was isolated and did not indicate a retrenchment by foreign companies' U.S. assembly plants, because Volkswagen's situation is different than that of Japanese auto companies.

Honda, Toyota, Nissan and Mazda all build cars in the United States. Honda has announced plans for a second U.S. auto plant which will make its first car in August 1989.

A Toyota plant under construction in Kentucky will be the nation's largest when it is finished. Several other Japanese makers are building plants in joint ventures with each other or with U.S. "Big Three" automakers.

United Auto Workers President Owen Bieber and Vice President Bill Casstevens, who leads the union's Volkswagen unit, criticized Friday's decision, saying it showed "a short-sighted, bottom-line mentality and betrays a loyal and productive U.S. workforce in Pennsylvania."

"The conclusion that can be drawn from the decision to shut down its Westmoreland assembly plant is that many of the vehicles VW expects to sell here will be sourced from their low-wage facilities in Brazil and Mexico," they said in a statement.

Volkswagen builds its new, low-priced Fox subcompact sedan in Brazil and exports it to the United States, but Volkswagen will not export other models made in Latin America to this country, McDonald said.

The union officials said Volkswagen's establishment as a domestic automaker has "once served as a beacon to other foreign-based vehicle builders that production here could be successfully achieved using a UAW workforce."

Volkswagen began construction of the Westmoreland plant in 1976 and began producing cars there on April 10, 1977.

The closing of the plant signals the final withdrawal from an ambitious U.S. production plan by Volkswagen, first foreign automaker to build an assembly plant in the United States.

In 1984, Volkswagen sold an assembly plant in Sterling Heights to Chrysler Corp. Volkswagen had nearly finished converting the former munitions factory into an auto plant when it decided to scrap the project, said Volkswagen spokesman Jay Amestoy.

Ethiopia plans on resettling 300,000 people

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Ethiopian official at the United Nations said Friday that his country planned to resettle 300,000 people this year as a means of improving food production.

Kassa Kebele, an Ethiopian ambassador assigned to the U.N. in Geneva, defended the concept of moving people from overpopulated highlands to low-lying areas.

"It becomes imperative then that in order to avoid disaster, people living on devastated areas must be moved to the low land where the soil is fertile and there is an abundance of water...," Kebele said at a news conference.

Ethiopia's Marxist regime was criticized by human rights organizations and the U.S. government for forcibly resettling people during the drought of 1984-1985.

Critics said the government of Mengistu Haile Mariam separated families and employed resettlement as a tactic in fighting separatist rebellions in the provinces of Eritrea and Tigre.

Kebele said "there were difficulties with the program" in the past, but he said about 600,000 peasants who have been moved have become self-sufficient in food.

Kebele also said the country's new constitution, which took effect on Feb. 1, is aimed at giving people more power at the local level. Western diplomats in Addis Ababa, the country's capital, have described the constitution as an effort by Mengistu to legitimize his authoritarian rule.

Plane Voyager displayed at Air and Space Museum

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carefully, very carefully, technicians brought the famed aircraft Voyager into the National Air and Space Museum on Friday and raised it to the ceiling, squeezing its 110-foot wingspan into a 105-foot space.

The Voyager is the first aircraft to fly around the world without landing or refueling, and it's being exhibited in the country's most popular museum just in time for the first anniversary of that nine-day feat, Dec. 14-23.

Pilots Dick Rutan and Jeana Yeager weren't there to see the Voyager hoisted to the museum's ceiling, but they will take part in anniversary ceremonies.

Voyager's wings, about as long as those of a Boeing 727 jetliner, were attached to the craft after its fuselage was wheeled in through the huge west doors of the museum.

The plane was raised to the ceiling without its winglets, small vertical fins at the tip of the wings, in order to fit into the 105-foot width of the gallery.

That was appropriate, somehow, since Voyager made its 25,012-mile trip without the winglets. The one on the right wing blew away on takeoff from Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., and Rutan and Ms. Yeager maneuvered to cause the damaged left one to tear away.

Even without the winglets, the span was too wide for the museum space and the plane is slanted, as if wheeling around a turn.

The exhibit is the first one visitors will see when the enter the museum from the Independence Avenue side.

Technicians had a little trouble squeezing the fuselage past other exhibits in the crowded museum, which draws 7.3 million visitors on the average each year. They used cherry pickers and a huge scissors jack to raise it.

Soliders hurt in chopper crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two U.S. soldiers were injured when their Army CH-47 Chinook helicopter crashed and burned Friday in Colombia, the Pentagon said.

The helicopter's pilot reported engine failure while it was returning to its base in Panama from a refueling mission.

The soldiers suffered first- and second-degree burns over about 30 percent of their bodies when the Chinook crashed near the Colombia city of Monteria, the Pentagon said. Names of the injured were being withheld pending notification of family.

Three other crew members were not injured. All were assigned to the 320th General Support Aviation Company, 210th combat aviation battalion, based at Fort Kobbs, Panama.

The injured soldiers were taken to a hospital in Monteria, and then later flown to a hospital in the Colombian capital of Bogota for the night. They will be flown to the Gorgas Army hospital in Panama today, officials said.

What does a wheat field have to do with the capital of Rhode Island? Everything!

In 1636 Roger Williams founded the town of Providence on land given him by friendly Narragansett Indians. He believed God had guided him to the spot. In naming his town he was expressing reverent gratitute for God's goodness.

A field of wheat awaiting harvest is always a vivid reminder of the providence of a loving Heavenly Father. Though man must labor to plant, cultivate and harvest the fruits of the earth, it is God who provided the continuing miracle of seed-time and harvest.

The same reverent gratitude which inspired our Puritan forefathers in New England inspires all Americans to express our faith through Thanksgiving.

Sunday Jeremiah 33:1-13
Monday Matthew 11:20-30
Tuesday Mark 6:30-44
Wednesday Luke 2:22-52
Thursday Romans 7:7-25
Friday 1 Corinthians 15:35-58
Saturday 2 Corinthians 2:1-17

LIFESCOPE

No One Understand You? Lifescope Says, "You Haven't Met The Right Person!"

O Lord, You have examined my heart and know everything about me. You know when I sit or stand. When far away You know my every thought. You chart the path ahead of me. Every moment, You know where I am. You know what I am going to say before I even say it. You both precede and follow me, and place Your hand of blessing on my head.

This is too glorious, too wonderful to believe! I can never be lost to your Spirit! I can never get away from my God! If I go up to heaven, You are there; if I go down to the place of the dead, You are there. If I ride the morning winds to the farthest oceans, even there Your hand will guide me, Your strength will support me. If I try to hide in the darkness, the night becomes light around me. For even darkness cannot hide from God; to You the night shines as bright as day.

You made all the delicate, inner parts of my body, and knit them together in my mother's womb. Thank You for making me so wonderfully complex! It is amazing to think about. Your workmanship is marvelous - and how well I know it. You were there while I was being formed in utter seclusion! You saw me before I was born and scheduled each day of my life before I began to breathe. Every day was recorded in Your Book!

How precious it is, Lord, to realize that You are thinking about me constantly! I can't even count how many times a day Your thoughts turn towards me. And when I waken in the morning, You are still thinking of me!

Search me, O God, and know my heart; test my thoughts. Point out anything You find in me that makes You sad, and lead me along the path of everlasting life.

God is kind and merciful, full of love. He is good to everyone, and His compassion is intertwined with everything He does. He is close to all who call on Him sincerely.

Surf band making waves for Jesus

RELIGION

HOUSTON (AP) — Move over, Annette Funicello.

Houston's own surf band, Surfside Witness, a female, Christian version of the Beach Boys, rides through today's waves of secularism on the surfboard of the Gospel.

The group is making its waves in the Bayou City, no less. And the sextet is finding that the plains-and-bayou region — though not a surfing mecca of California or Hawaii proportions — likes the musicians' breezy, informal combination of endless summer, sand and sincere Christianity.

The songs are sacred and surf-oriented, with such titles as "Surfin' With The Savior," "Surfer Girls," "California Christmas," "Bible Beach" (to music by Chuck Berry) and "Sunday School Dropout." The patter between numbers at their concerts, generally presented at churches, is soft-sell evangelical Christianity, with testimonies from the six earnest young women behind their microphones and guitars.

"I used to be sooo dumb and sooo judgmental of other people," lead singer Nan Salinas, 25, told listeners at a recent concert. "Jesus made me realize how ugly that was."

Instead of blunting the Gospel, the ever-popular, never-dying appeal of surf music seems to disarm people enough to listen to an old story.

"God uses the foolish things of the world to confound the wise," said Nan, who is also the group's songwriter. Originally intending to write standard rock'n'roll, all she could come up with was surf music.

"Well," she said, "the songs may be silly, but the message isn't silly. We've been well-received. I've never had anyone not liking us."

"Once we start talking, people realize we are learned in the Word," said Nan's sister, Elizabeth, 18, who plays the drums. "When they hear of a female Christian band, people think that's kind of ding-y."

AP Laserphoto

Another truth has surfaced as Surfside Witness has developed. Concerning musical styles, beach is harder than Bach, says Nancy, who defines surf music as a blending of harmonies with at least four parts, a melodic lead and a falsetto lead.

Once it's all worked out, however, Surfside Witness has a sound all its own. They're not Amy Grant or Sandi Patti, (two well-known evangelical female Christian vocalists) but the women know their beach background. Old surf movies and television shows are stored at home on videocassettes. Their favorites are old Gidget reruns. They've memorized the winners of the old surf classic competitions and the names of great Hawaiian surfers.

The band was started by Nancy, Elizabeth and their sister Mona, 20, who have been singing since their California childhood. Their first venture into a recording studio was 12 years ago when their mother, Ann Salinas, recorded a solo gospel album in Fresno.

The Salinas children, eight of them in all, grew up in the Escondido Valley north of San Diego and dedicated their lives to Christ in their late teens. The family relocated to Houston, where Ann and her husband, Ernest Salinas, are pastors of the non-denominational West End Community Church just east of Memorial Park.

About four years ago, the sisters formed a surf band, chiefly because nothing like what they had in mind existed. Nan, who was trained at the Houston Conservatory of Music, was the chief songwriter. Three other members — Rebecca Steele, 19; Kim Littlejohn, 18; and Sara Colburn, 19 — have since joined. Kim is a student at a local college and the other five women work.

The result of their labors is more than a sanctified rendition of "Bikini Beach," "Pajama Party," or "Where the Boys Are." All of the performers are born-again Christians who use anecdotes from the youth culture during performances. They make jokes about rock groups such as Motley Crue, then offer to talk or pray with concertgoers.

But do they surf? The three sisters occasionally do, and Nancy's board is a fluorescent yellow with "Jesus Saves" painted on it in hot-pink lettering.

Southern Baptist Alliance to study alternative seminary

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Reacting to recent turmoil at Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, the moderate Southern Baptist Alliance has voted to study the possibility of starting a new Baptist seminary.

A task force will study the possibility of using professors now at Southeastern as the core faculty for the new seminary or divinity school.

The new institution would be based on the alliance's founding principles of inclusiveness for women and minorities and cooperation with other Christian faiths, the group's executive committee said Thursday.

"This could expand theological education for Baptists beyond anything we've ever done before...," said the Rev. Henry Crouch, alliance president. "I think the money is there. I think the leadership is there."

Crouch said he had already spoken with Thomas Hearn, president of Wake Forest University, about creating a divinity school on that campus.

He said discussions also have been held with officials at Mercer University in Macon, Ga., and the University of Richmond.

The vacant campus of Tift College in Forsyth, Ga., was mentioned as a temporary home for a "seminary in exile" should faculty and students agree to move from Southeastern to a new location.

Dr. Thomas K. Hearn Jr., the Wake Forest president, said Wednesday that it would be premature to discuss specifics but that there has been a great deal of conversation about an alternative to Southeastern.

"It is too early to predict whether the discussions might lead to concrete action at Wake Forest University," he said. "Much depends on what happens within the Southern Baptist denomination and at other institutions. A lot of water has got to flow under the bridge."

The Southeastern board of trustees came under the control of fundamentalists for the first time last month.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Church offers mid-week service of Thanksgiving

First Church of Christ, Scientist, 1001 W. Tennessee Ave., is offering a mid-week service of Thanksgiving to the community at 10:30 a.m. Thursday.

"Walk into the local Christian Science church this Thursday morning at 10:30 a.m., and you're likely to hear grateful accounts, thoughtfully shared, or modern-day healing," says a news release from the local church. "Visitors, who are welcome to join the local congregation at this special community Thanksgiving Service, will also discover that, to Christian Scientists, gratitude to God is best expressed in one's heart and life. And that spiritual healing is considered to be a natural part of God's blessings."

One part of the service will consist of readings from the Bible and the textbook of Christian Science, "Science and Health with Key to Scriptures," by church founder Mary Baker Eddy. The spontaneous sharing of accounts of healing and gratitude to God from the congregation make up the other.

The Lord's Prayer, silent prayer and hymns of praise are also an important part of this worship service.

This year, a keynote from the Bible is the refrain in Psalm 107: "Oh, that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!" expanding on this theme, the lesson-sermon explores the blessings that God gives, from the present possibility of Christian healing as Jesus Christ practiced it to the understanding of what it means to be a child of God.

Commenting on the sincerity with which we offer thanksgiving to God for such goodness, Ms. Eddy writes: "Gratitude is much more than a verbal expression of thanks. Action expresses more gratitude than speech."

Childcare will be provided during the hour service. The public is invited to attend.

Sisterhood receives award

ODESSA — The Temple Beth El Sisterhood was one of six recipients of the "Or Ami" or "Light of the People" award from the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods.

The award was given at the Federation's biennial convention in Chicago.

The "Or Ami" award is given for service to the community. In the case of Temple Beth El Sisterhood, it was given for "Camp Or Shemesh," a Hebrew language day camp. Held during the summer, the cam had 31 children attending, ages 3½ to 13.

The "Or Ami" award is the first national award received by the Temple Beth El sisterhood.

Foreign missionary visits

Foreign missionary Lonnie Doyle of Manaus, Brazil, will be the guest speaker at the 11 a.m. service Sunday at Alamo Heights Baptist Church, 1305 N. Midland Drive.

Doyle, who was born in Clinton, Miss., moved with his family to Anson when he was 9 years old. He is married to the former Janelle Hartwick of Anson.

After completing service in the U.S. Air Force, Doyle attended Hardin Simmons University and completed his education at Southwestern Theological Seminary, Fort Worth.

The Doyles were appointed Southern Baptist missionaries in Brazil in April of 1949. After attending a year of language study in Campinas, Brazil learning Portuguese, the language of Brazil, the Doyles began their missionary service along the Amazon River.

In 1953, they moved to Manaus, where Doyle became executive secretary of the Amazonas State Convention. He served in this capacity from 1954 to 1982. At this time, he became pastor of a church in an area near Manaus, called New City and served as Camp Director.

The Doyles are parents of five children. In February of 1988, their years of foreign missionary service will come to a close and they will retire to Tyler after 38 years of service in Brazil.

The Rev. J.E. Meeks, pastor of Alamo Heights, invites the public to hear Doyle speak.

Church greets missionary

The Rev. Warren Newberry, missionary to Malawi, will be ministering at Calvary Assembly of God church, 908 S. Johnston st., at 11 a.m. Sunday.

Newberry and his wife, Annette, are on furlough at this time.

"It will be a blessing to hear of their many victories on the mission field," says the Rev. Gayle Reeves, pastor of Calvary Assembly of God.

The public is invited to attend.

Children to aid needy

Tim and Kerri Marsh, leaders of the Junior Pathfinder Club for Seventh Day Adventist Youth, called the Trailblazers Club, will direct and help children make food baskets to be delivered to families who find themselves in unfortunate circumstances this Thanksgiving.

In addition, the Marshes are making plans for the Trailblazers Club which include crafts, caroling in nursing homes in December, specialty painting, presenting a puppet show, outings and visiting and singing in the homes of the elderly.

Other projects are being lined up for the spring and summer.

"The children enjoy doing these projects periodically throughout the year," states a news release from the Trailblazers Club. "It helps them to realize they have many reasons to be thankful. It also helps them develop a spirit of compassion and unselfishness."

The Trailblazers have chosen blue and gold as colors for their uniforms.

Residents elected to board

FORT WORTH — Four Midland residents were elected to major positions on Texas Baptist boards during the annual meeting of the 2.4 million-member Baptist General Convention of Texas, held in Forth Worth in November.

Elected to serve on the board of trustees for Baptist Memorials Geriatric Center, San Angelo, was Evelyn Linebery, a cattle rancher.

Jim Sellers, owner, Sellers Engineering, was elected to the board of trustees of Buckner Baptist Benevolences, Dallas.

David T. Leonard, president, Dave Leonard Construction Co., was elected to the board of trustees of the Texas Baptist Children's Home, Round Rock.

Gloria T. DuBose, a homemaker, was elected to the 193-member BGCT Executive Board.

The Executive Board, composed of pastors, church staff members and lay persons, conducts the business of the BGCT between annual sessions.

Institutions of the BGCT include eight universities, an academy, seven hospitals, four children's homes and four homes for the aging.

The work is supported by the more than 5,000 Texas Baptist churches and missions which will give about $59 million this year through the Cooperative Program for mission work at home and abroad.

Besides the institutions, the Convention helps support worldwide missions causes including 7,350 missionaries in the United States and more than 100 foreign nations.

Thanksgiving services on

Delores Chapter Order of Eastern Star No. 127 will have its annual pre-Thanksgiving services at 7 p.m. today at Antioch Baptist Church, 1400 Golf Course Road.

The male chorus of Goodwill Baptist Church as well as representatives from other local churches will entertain.

Worthy Patrom is J.D. Polk. Worthy Matron is Clara Garnett.

The public is invited to attend.

First birthday celebrated

Greenwood United Methodist Church will celebrate its first birthday Sunday with a covered dish dinner at noon, followed by birthday cake and decorations to mark the occasion in the church's life.

Greenwood UMC consituted as a church Nov. 23, 1986, at the Greenwood Elementary School Auditorium. On that day, 75 full members and 24 children united together to form the new church. Since that time, 104 full members and 45 children have been added, for a total of 179 full members and 69 children. The Charter Membership has been held open this first year and will be open through Sunday.

Greenwood UMC members also built their first building this year. The facility, located east of the city limits six miles on Highway 307, has added to the church's ministry. An addition to the current facility is planned, as well as two more buildings in the future.

Greenwood UMC offers an early service at 9 a.m., Sunday School at 10 a.m. and a late service at 11 a.m.

Friends of Greenwood UMC and all interested parties are invited to join in Sunday's celebration. Plates, utensils and drinks will be provided by the church.

Monks prepare wafers

The monks of Saint Anthony Friary in Shaker Heights, Ohio, are preparing thousands of free blessed Christmas wafers for distribution.

This European tradition is shared at holiday meals or displayed on the Christmas tree as a sign of family unity and peace and is supposed to bring blessings to the home.

Those interested in participating in this tradition are asked to send a self-addressed envelope to Blessed Christmas Wafers, P.O. Box 20359, Shaker Heights, Ohio 44102.

Jewish foods offered

ODESSA — Food-A-Rama '87, sponsored by the Temple Beth El Sisterhood, will offer a variety of homemade Jewish gourmet foods for sale.

Specialities such as cabbage rolls, cheese blintzes, kreplach and chicken soup with matzo balls will be available. In addition, an array of holiday desserts, including coffee cakes, cheese cakes, strudel and mandelbrot, will be offered.

Food-A-Rama is an annual food festival designed to acquaint the Midland-Odessa communities with ethnic foods. Everything can be ordered and ready for the freezer by calling 1-363-4111 or 1-366-3070 after 5 p.m.

'Garage Free' scheduled

Memorial Christian Church is sponsoring a "Garage Free" for needy and unemployed area residents from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. today.

The "Garage Free" includes clothing and small appliances, which are available at no charge. It will be held at Memorial Christian Church, 1001 Andrews Highway.

Anniversary celebrated

The First Church of Christ, Scientist, 1001 W. Tennessee Ave., is celebrating the anniversary of its church dedication with a special service at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Dedication of Christian Science churches is possible only when all indebtedness on the edifice is paid. This goal was reached in November 1970.

Interest in Christian Science was first showin in Midland in 1929, and services have been held continuously since that time. Services were first held in the homes, in the old COunty Library and then in the Scharbauer Hotel. The church built its first building at North C Street and Tennessee Avenue in 1949, and its present building in the same location in 1960.

The Reading Room of the Church, first located in the North C Street location, moved to a downtown location in the Allen Building and then to its present address in the Wall Towers East Building, 201 W. Wall Ave. The Reading room is open to the public Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to noon. At the Reading Room, the Bible, the writings of Mary Baker Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, and the publications of the Christian Science Publishing Society may be read, borrowed or purchased.

Church and Sunday School services are held simultaneously at 10:30 a.m. Sundays and Wednesday testimony meetings convene at 7:30 p.m.

Those interested in the progress and growth of Christian Science in Midland are invited to attend the anniversary celebration Sunday.

Catholicism's tax exempt status in jeopardy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A broad church coalition has asked the U.S. Supreme Court to throw out a contempt citation against the Roman Catholic Church for refusing to turn over extensive church documents to an abortion rights group.

The group, Abortion Rights Mobilization, seeks to get the tax exemption of American Catholicism revoked on grounds it engaged in political activity against abortion.

In a friend-of-court brief, the widely inclusive church coalition challenged the legal standing of the abortion rights group to attack the tax-exempt status of Catholicism.

A federal district judge last year found the church in contempt for refusing to turn over documents sought by the group.

Saragosa residents send excess donations to Palestine victims

SARAGOSA (AP) — Residents of this tornado-ravaged West Texas town said they received more donations than they could use — so they plan to send some to tornado victims in Palestine, Texas.

"We are going to send a surplus of the stuff we have here," Tony Gallego, head of the Saragosa Foundation, said Thursday. "It's just a matter of getting a truck."

Thirty people died when a tornado lashed Saragosa on May 22. Donations of money, clothing, furniture, cars and building materials poured in from all over the country. The foundation and county officials distributed the donations, but unused goods sit in a hangar in Pecos.

Gallego said the foundation plans to send several hundred boxes of goods to Palestine. That town, 108 miles southeast of Dallas and more than 550 miles east of Saragosa, was hit Sunday by a tornado that caused millions of dollars damage.

The same day, a swarm of tornadoes swirled through East and Central Texas and parts of Louisiana, killing at least 10 people.

"We have a surplus of clothes, blankets — just a mixture of stuff we have in a hangar in Pecos," said foundation member Braulia Natividad.

Gallego said Friday he has found a truck and driver, and was looking for someone to pay for on-the-road expenses. He said he would ask for that money during a town meeting Saturday.

"We're going to ask if anyone can give some money and maye the foundation can give some," he said.

Delivery would be Monday or Tuesday if expense money can be raised.

Gallego said five compartments in the Pecos hangar are filled with boxes containing clothes, blankets, sheets and other items. Of those, two compartments would be sent to Palestine.

The items would be given to the Red Cross, which plans to open a "store" where needy victims can receive free necessities, Gallego said.

Reagan declares disaster area counties struck by tornadoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan declared a major disaster Friday in Texas as a result of tornadoes and severe storms that struck last Sunday and Monday.

The action will permit the use of federal funds in relief and recovery efforts in Anderson and Cherokee counties, where the cities of Palestine and Jacksonville were hard-hit.

Ten people were killed and nearly 160 were injured when an estimated 30 tornadoes struck sites ranging from Northeast Texas to the Gulf Coast. At least 150 homes were destroyed in 24 counties Sunday and Monday, and scores of businesses were destroyed or damaged.

Julius W. Becton Jr., director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, who designated Anderson and Cherokee counties as eligible for assistance to individuals and business owners, said damage surveys in other Texas counties are continuing.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, said with the disaster designation, FEMA will set up an office in Palestine Monday to begin administrating five different aid programs.

Mobile homes will be moved into the devastated areas to provide temporary housing for up to 12 months under the FEMA program, and individual and family grants of up to $5,000 will be available.

Disaster unemployment relief will be offered, as will legal services and crisis counseling.

Long-term, low-interest disaster loans will be made available by the Small Business Administration to cover individuals, homeowners and small businesses.

Former homeless man helps out at HOBO holiday dinner

AUSTIN (AP) — For 30 years before he straightened out, Alton Dyer lived on the streets, where his only possessions were "the clothes on my back and a bottle in my hand."

Friday, during a Thanksgiving dinner for the homeless at the Capitol, Dyer put to work some of the savvy he learned on the streets to coax the transients into a more productive lifestyle.

"I believe there is some good in every person," said Dyer, 58, who credits his wife and God with helping turn him around six years ago.

"I see myself in them in so many ways. I always had an empty spot in my heart I was always trying to fill. I know these people are searching for something to fill their lives."

Sponsored by the HOBO Project — which stands for Helping Our Brother Out — the traditional Thanksgiving dinner was assembled. More than 50 businesses and hundreds of volunteers donated food, money and time to the feast.

Organizers said leftovers, if any, would be donated to the Capital Area Food Bank.

Marion Morris, a former transient who serves as a street minister, said dozens of turkeys were donated by churches, businesses and kindhearted schoolchildren; bakeries and catering services donated pies and other desserts; several downtown hotels cooked the feast, and one even threw in chefs to carve the Thanksgiving birds.

State Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, who has worked to ease the plight of the underprivileged, said people fortunate enough to have a home must realize homeless folks are everybody's problem.

"Frequently, we view their problems as someone else's concern," Farabee said.

STATE IN BRIEF

Woman, three children die in fire

DALLAS (AP) — An early-morning house fire Friday killed an elderly woman and her three great-grandchildren, but another child managed to escape the flames, authorities said.

The blaze that gutted several rooms in the one-story frame dwelling was apparently caused by children playing with fire, Dallas Fire Capt. J.E. Foster said.

He identified the dead as Leola Fair Talley, 83; Christopher Montgomery, 7; and Dorian and Michael Bluitt, both 2. All were pronounced dead at the scene of burns and smoke inhalation, he said.

"We feel like the cause was children playing with fire," said Foster. "W've been told there was a history of one of the children sticking paper and other objects into space heaters."

Michelle Montgomery, 9, escaped the fire, said Foster. The elderly woman apparently sent her for help, then tried to extinguish the flames and usher the other children to safety, he said.

The dwelling and contents sustained about $27,000 in damage in the fire, he said.

Democratic group to convene

AUSTIN (AP) — A new statewide organization, Texas Democratic Women, has scheduled a conference Dec. 5 to encourage women to participate in 1988 elections.

Democratic presidential candidates Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts and Albert Gore of Tennessee are scheduled to attend a luncheon forum. Other presidential candidates have been invited but have not yet accepted, according to a statement.

State Treasurer Ann Richards will deliver the keynote address.

"Unlike the Republican Party, Democratic Party rules state that women are to make up half of the delegates to the 1988 state and national conventions," said Dr. Jeanie Stanley, Kilgore. "This new group affirms the importance of women to the political process."

Attorney General Jim Mattox said the conference "is an opportune time for women to meet these candidates face-to-face, find out first hand where they stand on the issues and let them know that Democratic women are an integral part of our political process in Texas."

Mimes' stolen costumes found

HOUSTON (AP) — A mime troupe's stolen props and costumes were found by a mobile home operator, enabling the cancelled show to be rescheduled, officials said.

The costumes and props were in a rented truck stolen from outside a downtown hotel where the three-person ensemble Mummenschanz was staying before their scheduled Wednesday night performance. The theft caused the cancellation of the performance.

The truck was later found parked near a Houston interstate highway, but the costumes, kept in several trunks, were gone.

The owner of the mobile home park, Ann Anderson, called police after returning to her office Thursday night to find it burglarized. She said several several trunks left outside by a trash bin appeared to contain the group's costumes, and called police.

The troupe's three members, Eric Beatty, Tina Kronis and Michael Rock, use elaborate costumes to mimic mechanical constructions, animals, giant hands and other fanciful creations.

The Society for the Performing Arts, which sponsored the troupe's appearance, rescheduled the show for Dec. 1.

Three indicted on kidnap charges

BASTROP (AP) — Bastrop County grand jurors have indicted three people on charges of aggravated kidnapping in the September captivity of a woman who was found severely bruised at her home.

Named in the indictments were Kenneth Kutalek, 30, of Smithville; Pamela Hanson, 32, of Bastrop; and Brian Hopson, 22, of Paige.

The indictment charges the three with holding Margaret Herrlich, 25, captive in her home and in the trunk of a car for four days before being discovered Sept. 16. Ms. Hanson is Ms. Herrlich's former housemate.

Ms. Herrlich had lived in northeastern Bastrop County near McDade since July. When found, she had marks across her back as if she had been whipped, authorities said at the time.

The three people named in the indictment were jailed Thursday in the Bastrop County Jail in lieu of $40,000 bond.

SWT fraternity loses charter

SAN MARCOS (AP) — The Kappa Sigma chapter at Southwest Texas State University has lost its national fraternity affiliation after university officials suspended the group for hazing.

A three-member panel headed by Dean of Students John Garrison found Thursday that the fraternity had engaged in hazing this week when a pledge was found shirtless and wearing burlap underwear in 42-degree weather.

Kappa Sigma was suspended from SWT for three years. The fraternity has had a chapter at the school for 21 years.

"By this action we are demonstrating that we will not tolerate hazing in any form at Southwest Texas," said SWT President Robert Hardesty.

Mitchell Wilson, the fraternity's national director in Charlottesville, Va., said, "We have removed the chapter and we have done it in conjunction with the university's ruling."

Andy Briscoe switches to GOP

AUSTIN (AP) — Dallas businessman Andy Briscoe, an unsuccessful 1986 candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said Friday he is now a Republican.

Briscoe garnered 22 percent of the Democratic primary vote in losing to Mark White last year.

"The time has come when I must break my family traditional ties with the Democratic Party and step forward to join the Republican Party of Texas," Briscoe said.

He is a second cousin to former Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe, a Democrat.

Andy Briscoe declined to say whether he would seek public office as a Republican.

Ed Martin, executive director of the Texas Democratic Party, said losing Andy Briscoe was no loss at all.

Mattox warns about businesses

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General Jim Mattox and a state disaster official warned tornado victims Friday that unscrupulous business offers always follow disasters.

"One can't overemphasize that that if a deal sounds too good to be true, it probably is not true," Mattox said.

He said in 1983 his office sued five companies for price gouging after Hurricane Alicia hit the Gulf Coast and in 1984 11 plumbing companies were sued for price gouging after a hard freeze.

Houston police officers may be tested for AIDS

HOUSTON (AP) — Leaders of Houston's largest police labor group are arranging for members to be tested for AIDS, suggesting that city officials may try to dodge liability if an officer acquires the deadly virus.

Mark Clark, president of the Houston Police Officers Association, said police are a high-risk group due to job-related contact with diverse segments of the public. He said it is inevitable a police officer will one day contract the disease through work.

"We live in the real world and we realize that, sooner or later, that's going to happen," Clark said Thursday.

The association's board of directors approved the voluntary testing plan last month, and arrangements are being made with the Gulf Coast Regional Blood Center for the tests.

"It's one of those things, where if officers really think about it, they'll do it," Clark said. "I'm going to do it."

The association has been urging Police Chief Lee P. Brown to set policies covering officers who contract the disease through work, Clark said. The group has called for rubber gloves and special breathing devices for officers to use in resuscitating people.

Officers are fearful about contracting AIDS because their work occasionally brings them into contact with drug users and blood. Clark said if an officer takes the AIDS tests, it can help verify he or she was free of the disease at a certain time.

If the disease is then contracted through an on-duty incident, it will be easier to prove AIDS was not a pre-existing condition, Clark said.

Association lawyer Liz Sweet said that while the tests would not prove acquisition of the deadly virus was through work, it would provide a police officer falling victim to the disease a reference point.

City Attorney Jerry Smith said he hadn't heard of the police association's plans, and could not comment.

Boy's plea leads to arrest of man who killed father four years ago

ROWLETT (AP) — A 13-year-old's plea to police to find the killer of his father wound up in the arrest of a suspect.

But the man accused of murder was longtime friend of the family.

Tommy Brown Jr. said he was glad police arrested a man in the slaying of his father four years ago. But he's sorry the accused slayer was his godfather and his father's lifelong friend.

The investigation into the 1983 slaying of Tommy Brown Sr. was reopened in this Dallas suburb after the victim's son, a seventh-grader who now lives in Mesquite, pleaded for help.

"I had to do something with it," Lt. Grant Jack said Friday.

Mickey Leon Stone, 38, of Dallas, was arrested a week ago on a murder charge. He was released Wednesday from Lew Sterrett Justice Center after posting a $10,000 bond.

Jack said the family was surprised at the arrest of Stone. The investigator said he believes the slaying of Brown was drug-related, but he declined to discuss further details.

"He's my godfather," Tommy said of Stone, who had been his father's friend since elementary school. "I feel happy that they got someone in there, but I'm not glad that it was him. I liked him a little bit.

The boy said his father's slaying "really bothered me for a long time" but he said he did nothing about it until he read an article about unsolved murders, which included his father, in a July edition of the Dallas Times Herald.

Woman aided by neighbors not living 'happily ever after'

AP Laserphoto

Troy Kilby poses with her daughter, Shana, 4, in front of their home in Bradford, Maine, recently. A year ago, Ms. Kilby and her three children were living in a makeshift plastic shack, but neighbors and strangers rallied to build her a new home on the 11 acres of land she purchased with a $500 down payment from a welfare check.

By GEORGE ESPER
AP Special Correspondent

BRADFORD, Maine (AP) — A year ago, Troy Kilby and her three children were living hand-to-mouth in a shack she had hammered together and covered with sheets of plastic. It stood on land she'd bought by squeezing a $500 down payment from a welfare check.

Seeing how she was trying to make it on her own but feeling the northern Maine winter coming, neighbors and strangers rallied to build her a new home and barn. Business people and ministers joined in. Passamaquoddy Indians donated concrete for the foundation.

It was a fairy tale come true, except the heroine didn't live happily ever after.

The reality is that this year has been bittersweet for Troy Kilby — with the loss of her job and rifts, which she calls misunderstandings, with some neighbors.

Still, those setbacks don't change one fact. "We got something now," Ms. Kilby says.

Ms. Kilby bought 11 acres of land in July 1986 for $11,500, with $500 down and a monthly payment of $137. She built the shack in half a day, stretching plastic sheets and white nylon parachute cloth over a frame of cedar poles. One wall of the old shack, its tattered plastic flapping in the wind, still stands next to the new home.

To Ms. Kilby, the shack was only temporary. She had already dug the foundation for a two-story frame house she'd planned to build pretty much by herself, since she has construction experience. But steady summer rains pushed her schedule back, and cold weather came early last year.

When a story about her plight appeared in the Bangor Daily News, volunteers, many of them people from miles away whom she had never met before, built her the place of her own that she'd always wanted but never could afford.

On Nov. 12, 1986, about a month after the volunteers went to work, she moved in with her son, Benet, 9, and two daughters, Jaimi, 7, and Shauna, 4.

Still, even while this rural town of 1,000 was opening its heart, a chill was setting in.

Some neighbors complained the 26-year-old divorcee was ungrateful. Some called her haughty. Some said she neglected her children and the cows and pigs she'd been given.

"I don't have one good word for her or the whole thing," said Curtis Goodridge, a neighbor who took her to court on complaints she let her cows run loose, and into his garden.

"All stories aren't 'Fairy Princess,'" said Anne Bossi, a consultant for Heifer Project International, a non-profit organization that provides livestock to the poor. The project gave Ms. Kilby three cows, but one died and the project demanded the other two back, saying she wasn't feeding them properly. "This happens to be a story that is turning sour at the moment."

"I got into an awful lot of trouble over this place," said Ms. Kilby, who offered a reply to virtually every complaint, starting with the stress that led to what she called a mini-breakdown on the day the volunteers finished her house.

Not used to having people around, she said, she collapsed in tears, and some people may have mistaken her withdrawal for ingratitude.

As for her children, she said they are well-cared for, bathed every other day, sometimes every day, even though she doesn't have running water.

In mid-October, after working only four months, Ms. Kilby lost her $7-an-hour job installing reinforcement rods on construction projects, for absenteeism. She said she had to be in court half a dozen times to answer Goodridge's three complaints. Two were dismissed, and she paid a $35 fine in the third.

She said she had installed an electric fence to confine the cows and pigs, but heavy snows pulled it loose and grounded the low voltage current. It was repaired this summer.

Recently, she started working at a farm 20 miles away, milking cows for $25 per six-hour shift. She hopes to obtain a town grant to drill a well and get running water. The house needs work, including installation of wallboards, light fixtures and additional insulation. The outside shingled walls needs painting, and the barn has no roof.

Divorced at age 22, with three kids, Ms. Kirby has struggled, but she had a goal.

"I did my best to get off of welfare. Before I worked, they (neighbors) complained because I was doing all this on welfare," she said. "And then when I did work and earned my own money and did what I could do with the money and the time that I had, they don't seem satisfied with that either...I wanted a place of my own, and this is the only way I could afford it."

Ms. Kilby, who studied veterinary science at the University of Maine at Orono in the 1981-82 school year, denied accusations that she had mistreated the Heifer Project cows. One animal died of natural causes, the Heifer Project took another one back and it asked her to return the third.

Survivor campaigns for memorial at Sobibor

By JOHN DANISZEWSKI

SOBIBOR, Poland (AP) — Thomas Blatt, now a Californian, spent six months of his life in a Nazi death camp at Sobibor and now is campaigning to have it preserved as a memorial to Jewish resistance.

Blatt is spearheading a money-raising drive to protect Sobibor from what he fears will be its deterioration into oblivion. He wants it saved as the site of the only successful uprising by Jewish inmates against Nazi guards during World War II.

The story of the uprising was made into the television movie "Escape from Sobibor" and shown to U.S. audiences last April 12.

On Oct. 14, 1943, 10 Nazis and 13 Ukrainian guards were killed and more than 300 prisoners escaped. The Nazis responded by closing the camp, dismantling it piece by piece and planting the grounds with pine trees.

Today a towering statue and a mound of victims' ashes stand among the trees at Sobibor, near the Soviet border in eastern Poland. But the camp is not enclosed, local people wander over the grounds and some in the past have dug there looking for gold the camp's inmates were rumored to have buried.

Children from a kindergarten play on the same ground where 45 years ago Jews were unloaded from boxcars, unaware that they were about to be marched to their deaths by gassing in the "showers."

Blatt, 60, of Santa Barbara, Calif., returns to the camp every year to check on its condition and said he regularly finds human bones as he walks through the tall grass and weeds.

"I've practically cleaned up one quarter of the place myself, picking up the bones, burying them," he said.

There is no museum and few historical markers. Blatt said he is infuriated by the main tablet, on the two-lane asphalt road that runs by the camp, because it lists Soviet prisoners of war first among the camp's victims.

Sobibor was built solely to exterminate Jews and historians say more than 250,000 died there from April 1942 to October 1943.

What ended the killings was a carefully planned, courageously executed escape plot by the camp's Jewish slave laborers. Prisoners lured most of the Nazi officers to their deaths, killing them one by one with knives and axes in separate parts of the camp within a short period of time.

Blatt was portrayed in the movie shown on CBS television as the teenager Toivi. He served as a consultant to the filmmakers.

He said during a recent trip to Poland that he has worked his whole life to make the story of Sobibor known, and the movie was his crowning achievement.

Now he wants the camp preserved as a monument to those who died there and as a warning to future generations.

"If this is accomplished, then I can rest in peace," he said.

A native of Izbica, Poland, about 40 miles from Sobibor, Blatt was 16 when he was sent to the camp April 27, 1943, along with his family. His father, mother and younger brother were put to death in the gas chambers hours after they arrived.

For reasons that even today he does not understand, Blatt was spared and allowed to become one of the camp's labor force, which helped prepare the victims for the "showers" and dispose of their remains and their belongings.

After the escape, Blatt said, he was shot in the neck by a farmer he had paid to hide him. Feigning death, he slipped away and survived until the end of the war and emigrated to the United States in the 1950s.

Only an estimated 50 of Sobibor's 320 escapees lived to see the Allied victory in 1945. About two dozen are still alive.

"If there is a God, I hope he will forgive me that I survived," Blatt said. "Because I survived, it is my duty to do something."

Blatt has founded the Holocaust Sites Preservation Committee to call attention to what it considers unsatisfactory conditions at Sobibor and several other former death camp sites.

This past August, Blatt and other representatives of the committee met with Kazimierz Kakol, the top Polish official in charge of investigating Nazi war crimes and maintaining memorials.

"Basically, we got everything we hoped for," Blatt said.

He explained that Kakol agreed to change the plaque to list the victims as Jews, to erect a fence around the grounds to separate it from all buildings built after the war, including the kindergarten and a Roman Catholic chapel, and guarantee that the camp receives better care.

Kakol said he hoped to transform the kindergarten into a museum and that Blatt's group could help by providing modern audio-visual equipment.

Rhoda Weiss, secretary of the Holocaust Sites Preservation Committee, said the group would begin raising money for the project.

She said she hoped the improvements would be finished in time for a rededication of the camp in April, when Poland and Jewish groups plan to mark the 45th anniversary of the ill-fated Warsaw Ghetto uprising against the Nazis.

News of that uprising helped inspire the Sobibor revolt.

Man rounds up snakes for a living

EL PORVENIR, Bolivia (AP) — Vesty Pakos pinned down the writhing joporojobobo snake as it wriggled through the grass, then lifted its head to expose inch-long fangs ripe with poison.

"This one is very dangerous," he observed calmly. "It could kill you in minutes."

Encounters with deadly serpents is all in a day's work for Pakos, 47, who gave up the big city life to become a kind of "Snake Dundee" of Bolivia's semitropical lowlands.

Hired to work on a project funded by the Organization of American States, he spends his days hunting down poisonous snakes and extracting venom so that antidotes can be developed.

Born in Linz, Austria, to a Yugoslavian mother and a Hungarian father, Pakos emigrated at the age of 4 to the Bolivian capital city of La Paz, where he quickly developed an infatuation for snakes.

Ambition took him to Washington D.C. as an adult. There he labored as a car mechanic for most of the 1970s before a dissatisfaction with urban life drove him back to the wilder land of his childhood.

"I hate civilization. That's why I left the U.S.," he said in an interview. "Washington is too much of a rat race."

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1987

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Travel is high on your list of plans. Prominent people are impressed by the way your mind works. You may decide to change jobs. Your personal finances should be in much better shape by your next birthday. Happiness grows when someone special joins your household. Try to be less emotional at work. A calm, realistic attitude works wonders!

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: tennis greats Billie Jean King and Boris Becker, actress Geraldine Page, actor Robert Vaughn, director Arthur Hiller, composer Hoagy Carmichael, comedian Rodney Dangerfield, French President Charles DeGaulle, actress Jamie Lee Curtis.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Love notes sent today will be warmly welcomed. Your popularity grows. Money is available for entertaining or shopping. Be careful not to go overboard. Inspiration comes wrapped in a small package.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A dream could come true. Reach out to recover something that was lost. You will need all your powers of persuasion to patch up a lovers' quarrel. Humor rescues you from a tight spot.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Take care of a financial matter, then spend the day at play. Trust your first impressions. You may need to approach romance in a different way. Travel reunites you with an old friend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be positive when dealing with children and they will respond in the same way. Find constructive outlets for any anger you may feel. Be respectful, not condescending with parents. They love you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A good friend needs your help. Your relationship will survive whatever happens today. Partners bring stability into your life. Complete what you started yesterday. Others are depending on you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Make peace with your partner early in the day and everyone will be happier. Diplomacy will help smooth over your differences. Keep spending within limits even when on vacation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A quarrel could get the day off to a bad start. A friend or family member will help you pick up the pieces and rectify a mistake. Show your appreciation in a meaningful way.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Spend a quiet morning at home with mate. Family obligations will dominate the afternoon. A reunion could be part of the picture. The road to romance could be bumpy for singles. Hang on!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A good day to rest up for the busy week ahead. Walking with your favorite canine is one way to meet new people. Beware of someone who says one thing and means another.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): An older family member has greater influence than you realized. Your personal relationships improve when you use diplomacy. Gather family together to find a compromise. Make concessions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Romance will require considerable tact now. A friend may inquire about a secret you would rather not share. A trip to visit friends could prove more expensive than anticipated. Take extra cash.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Help a youngster by doing more listening than talking. Professional help may be necessary. Teach children the importance of taking responsibility for their actions. Reward good behavior.

All cancer removed from O'Neill; No treatment needed, doctors say

BOSTON (AP) — Pathology tests on former House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill revealed that his bowel surgery was successful in removing all cancer and no futher treatment will be necessary, it was announced Friday.

His tumor did not involve the lymph nodes or extend through the full thickness of the rectal muscle, Dr. Richard E. Wilson, chief of surgical oncology at Brigham and Women's Hospital, said in a statement.

"Therefore, no consideration will be necessary for chemotherapy or radiation therapy," Wilson said. "The path reports confirm that the prognosis is excellent."

O'Neill, who underwent surgery Wednesday, is to be moved today from the intensive care unit to a private room, Ms. Gakidis said. It is not known how long he will be hospitalized.

O'Neill, 74, should be able to get out of his hospital bed today and walk, she said. Doctors removed a golfball-sized tumor from his rectum and performed a permanent colostomy, which provides an artificial route for defecation.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — U2 lead singer Bono won't be charged with spray-painting a fountain during a surprise free concert last week, the district attorney says.

Arlo Smith said there was no malicious intent on the part of Bono when he wrote "Rock 'n' Roll Stop the Traffic" during the performance that drew 20,000 fans on two hours' notice.

The graffiti has been cleaned and the rock singer has apologized, Smith said Thursday. "Given these facts, we would decline to charge anybody, under the same circumstances."

In a letter made public by Smith, Bono wrote, "I would also hope that the real street artists of San Francisco will not suffer because of a scrawler like me."

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Because activist Abbie Hoffman has more homes than "a flea on a collie," he should not be allowed to cast the tie-breaking vote in a suburban election, attorneys argued in court.

Hoffman

Attorney Edward Connelly said Thursday that Hoffman had failed to establish residence in New Hope before the Nov. 3 borough council election.

"He often boasted he slept down the river and he slept in other states. The law intends that you have a fixed residence and that is not the case of Mr. Hoffman," Connelly said.

Hoffman is seeking to have his absentee ballot counted by the Bucks County Board of Elections in a race between Democrat Geraldine Delevick and Republican Jacob Fell.

If U.S. District Judge James McGirr Kelly rules against Hoffman, a coin toss will decide the winner.

Hoffman moved to the area to lobby against the controversial Point Pleasant pumping station, which will divert 95 million gallons of water a day from the Delaware River.

The Board of Elections invalidated his ballot on the grounds he hadn't established residency. Hoffman appealed, claiming the board made the move because of his opposition to Point Pleasant.

"Mr. Hoffman had more places to stay than a flea on a collie," said Connelly, who represents Fell.

RENTON, Wash. (AP) — Hailey Nance read 118 books over the summer and won the right to sit in the principal's chair for a day, and the next thing she knew, she had moved into a chair next to Johnny Carson on the "Tonight Show."

After an initial attack of stage fright Thursday night, Hailey came back to spend the last minute of the show with Carson. She said that as principal for a day, she ordered free ice cream for students and checked for mice in the school boilerroom, normally off-limits.

"Tonight Show" talent coordinator Darcy Hettrich read about the 8-year-old in a newspaper, and invited Hailey to the NBC studios in Burbank, Calif., to tape Thursday night's segment.

Hailey had said in a telephone interview from California that she wasn't nervous, but took along a teddy bear named Carol for moral support.

Second route for pipeline recommended

AUSTIN (AP) — The federal Bureau of Land Management has recommended a route other than the one originally proposed for the Texas extension of the All American Pipeline Project, which would transport 300,000 barrels of oil per day from McCamey across the Edwards Plateau to near Galveston Bay.

Sen. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, said he was relieved that the battle to keep the 480-mile pipeline project away from the Edwards Aquifer appears to be over.

The bureau said its preference among four alternatives is the one which runs south of San Angelo and Brownwood and, near Waco, drops southeast through Fort Bend County to the Galveston area.

It said the preferred alternative is not final but a decision will be announced 30 days after the supplemental environmental impact statement is published.

The bureau said the original proposed route would cross 404 miles of sensitive aquifers, compared with 332 miles crossed by the northern alternative. Any oil spill reaching the Edwards Plateau or Edwards Balcones Fault Zone aquifers "would be difficult if not impossible to clean up."

The bureau said along the northern route it would be much easier to clean up spills into rivers than a comparable spill into a limestone aquifer such as the Edwards.

It also said the Edwards Balcones Fault Zone Aquifer would not be crossed if the pipeline followed the northern route.

"Although the northern alternative would create (environmental) impacts, its effects in large measure can be mitigated," said the bureau report.

The All American Pipeline Project is designed to transport oil from the Santa Barbara Channel and San Joaquin Valley in California to West Texas. All but 20 miles of the 1,233-mile segment to McCamey has been completed.

Senate confirms superintendent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Senate on Friday unanimously confirmed former Dallas school Superintendent Linus Wright as the new undersecretary of education.

The confirmation, on a voice vote without discussion, elevated Wright to the second-ranking position in the Department of Education. While awaiting confirmation, Wright had been serving as a consultant to the department.

"I would like to express my appreciation to the president for having nominated me and to the Senate for having confirmed me," Wright said in a statement. "I am ready to work with Secretary (William) Bennett to improve the quality of life in this country through education. I consider it a privilege to have the opportunity to serve my country in this way."

Confirmation had been assured, and Wright was not even asked to appear before the Senate Committee on Labor and Human Resources, which recommended him for the post earlier this month.

Soviet Ambassador Y.K. Nazarkin, the chief chemical weapons negotiator for the Soviet Union, right, shakes hands with a chemical plant operator outside of the Chemical Agents Munitions Disposal System facility at the Toole Army Depot Friday. The Soviets are visiting the deopot to learn about weapons disposal.

Negotiators disagree over treaty prospects

TOOLE ARMY DEPOT, Utah (AP) — A Soviet ambassador said Friday his tour of the Army's chemical weapons disposal plant here created greater confidence between the superpowers and improved prospects for an international treaty eliminating chemical arsenals.

But Yuri Nazarkin, the chief Soviet negotiator for chemical weapons at the Geneva arms talks, and U.S. Ambassador Max Friedersdorf sharply disagreed over the prospects for a treaty and clashed over U.S. plans to begin production of a new chemical weapon next month.

"Perhaps our view is more optimistic," Nazarkin said at a news conference after the two-day tour by the six-member Soviet delegation. "However, the differences might be due to intent."

Nazarkin has called for a May deadline for reaching an international chemical weapons reduction treaty. The third session of the Conference on Disarmament in Geneva is scheduled to begin in May.

However, Friedersdorf said the Reagan administration did not "measure American security by the calendar."

"If a treaty is realistic and we can verify it" the U.S. will sign it, he said. "If we bring home a treaty that's a turkey and can't be verified, it's going to go down the tubes."

Nazarkin said the Soviet Union is building a weapons disposal plant — similar to the Chemical Agent Munition Disposal System here — at Chapaevsk, near Kuyvyshev in the eastern Soviet Union U.S.S.R. on the Volga River.

He said the Soviet Union also is willing to exchange detailed information on its stockpile with the United States.

But Friedersdorf said the United States provided such information a year ago, including maps of American storage sites, photographs of depots and a list of weapons in the arsenal. He said the Soviet Union has dragged its feet in reciprocating.

Nazarkin said the new U.S. chemical weapons program — which is scheduled to produce the first 155mm "binary" artillery projectile on Dec. 17 — would slow momentum toward a treaty because it indicates America is not willing to eliminate its arsenal.

A binary weapon combines two harmless chemicals in separate chambers that form a deadly nerve agent only after it is fired, and is thus considered safer than current chemical arms.

Nazarkin said the Soviet Union stopped production of chemical weapons early this year "because we saw a real possibility of concluding a treaty."

But Friedersdorf sharply retorted, "With all due respect, Mr. Ambassador, if I wasn't a cynic I'd say your sincerity started because we decided to produce (binary weapons)."

He said the United States would halt its production of new weapons only when a verifiable treaty banning all such arsenals was concluded.

Earlier, during the tour of the plant 50 miles southwest of Salt Lake City, the Soviet visitors were told constant on-site monitoring would be required to verify any arms reduction treaty.

The visit, arranged by the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, included an inspection of weapons from the U.S. chemical arsenal.

The depot's disposal system is a pilot program to test methods of destroying the nation's stockpile of obsolete chemical weaponry. The Army plans to build at least two chemical weapons disposal plants to meet a 1994 congressional deadline to eliminate the U.S. arsenel.

A.M. Ivanov of the Soviet delegation asked what the role of on-site Soviet inspectors would be.

Russ Aldredge, a control room operator, said Soviet inspectors could operate the control room's closed-circuit television system, which monitors the disposal process, and check the calibration of computer equipment that tracks the number and kinds of munitions destroyed.

While being briefed on two devices used to monitor the incineration of chemical weapons, Ivanov complained that the demonstration involved a simulated agent rather than the real thing.

Ivanov said without using real agent, the Soviets could not be sure how the system really works.

But Brig. Gen. David Nydam, director of the disposal program, said accurate comparisons could be made between the simulant and results produced by live agent. He said an actual agent was not used because the plant is undergoing tests.

The system has destroyed 38,000 obsolete missiles, shells and bombs containing nerve and mustard agent since beginning operation in 1979, the Army says.

But the plant was shut Jan. 28, when a small quantity of nerve agent leaked from the incinerator. No injuries were reported, but the Army closed the plant pending inspection and management review Nydam said the plant would resume operations next year.

Betty Ford undergoes heart bypass surgery

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Former first lady Betty Ford underwent a quadruple coronary artery bypass Friday and the 7½-hour operation was described as a success, her spokeswoman said.

Mrs. Ford, 69, also had surgery on her right carotid artery during the operation that started at 5:30 a.m. and ended about 1 p.m. at Eisenhower Medical Center, said Ann Cullen.

"She came through with flying colors," Ms. Cullen said, and Mrs. Ford is expected to be home by Thanksgiving.

The operation was done by Dr. Jack Sternlieb and a nine-member team from the Heart Institute of the Desert.

"Dr. Sternlieb has indicated that all aspects of the surgery went extremely well. Prognosis is excellent," Ms. Cullen said.

Former President Gerald R. Ford "was extremely pleased at how well everything went," she said.

Coronary artery bypass surgery is done when blood vessels leading to the heart have become blocked or diseased, creating the potential for a stroke or heart attack.

Healthy pieces of blood vessel are taken from other parts of the body and used to shunt blood around the blockages.

Mrs. Ford's surgery involved bypassing four arteries.

"The surgeon says because of the severity of the surgery, it was not elective, but there was no emergency," Ms. Cullen said. "She didn't have a heart attack or severe chest pains."

Earlier this week, Ms. Cullen had said the surgery was elective.

The former first lady underwent surgery on her left carotid artery at the medical center on July 24 and was released July 29. Carotid arteries are among the principal blood vessels in the body, carrying blood to the two sides of the head and neck.

Ms. Cullen said she was unsure if Friday's surgery and the previous one were related, but added, "I assume they are. It's all the same sort of blockage."

Ford and two of Mrs. Ford's children, Susan Ford Vance and Steve Ford, visited shortly after surgery was over and another son, Jack, was to arrive later in the evening. Another son, Mike, spoke with his mother but won't be visiting, Ms. Cullen said.

Mrs. Ford was expected to remain in the cardiac surgery unit until Monday.

INTRODUCING THE SAAB 9000. A REAL CAR FOR THE PRICE OF A MERCEDES 190E.

For about the same money you'd have to pay out for a so-called "Baby Mercedes," you can have a full-grown Saab 9000.

Standard features of the Saab 9000 include Saab's turbocharged 16-valve engine, a completely new Automatic Climate Control system, and something that the 190E can't even offer as an option: room for five adults to travel in real comfort.

Come and see one for yourself soon.
