'Mail Order Romeo' Confesses Murders

A MODERN "BLUEBEARD," Harry Powers, alias Cornelius O. Pierson, who confessed he wooed Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher, well-to-do widow of Park Ridge, Ill., through his one-man matrimonial agency and then killed Mrs. Eicher and her three children, and another person is shown here chained to officers who arrested him at his home near Clarksburg, W. Va. He admitted the murders after workers digging

"MAIL ORDER ROMEO" ADMITS SLAYING FIVE PERSONS

(By The Associated Press)

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 31. — Convict road gangs today began digging through the debris littering an old well near the garage of death of Harry F. Powers, 42, seeking any more victims there may be besides the five he confessed he killed in his quest of the property of matrimony-seeking women.

They dug despite the smiling statement from Powers concerning the five that "that's all there are." Digging progressed because officials still held to the belief that more of the hundreds of women with whom Powers corresponded might have died by his hand in the bloody garage, and been buried nearby.

Confession Promised

Formal confession of the killings of Mrs. Asta Eicher and her three children all of Chicago, and of Mrs. Dorothea Lempke of Worcester, Mass., was promised by Powers today, with the possibility of arraignment to receive his plea later in the day. Alienists may examine him for the state also, a move designed by the prosecutor to offset any possible insanity plea by the defense.

In almost every state of the union, meanwhile, police officers and postal authorities sought women who had written to Powers in his guise of Cornelius O. Pierson, wealthy and home-seeking civil engineer.

Once yesterday Powers told his questioners he did not know how many persons he had killed. Later he insisted there were but five—

SOLONS WIRED FOR OPINION ON SESSION

LEGISLATORS NOT YET DECIDED ON PLAN TO FOLLOW

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Aug. 31—Governor R. S. Sterling today sent telegrams to all members of the legislature who had not answered his newspaper questionnaire asking them to promptly telegraph their attitude relative to a special session to enact cotton acreage control legislation.

Several members of the legislature had failed to reply to the governor's questionnaire. A majority of those who have submitted replies recommended a special session but several were undecided about the plan to be followed. Most of them were opposed to the "no-cotton" plan of Governor Huey P. Long of Louisiana but advocated cotton acreage control whereby acreage would be cut at least 50 per cent.

"I think 95 per cent of the more than 400,000 farmers of Texas demand a special session," Senator Pink L. Parrish of Lubbock this morning telegraphed Governor Ross Sterling in response to a telegram from the chief executive asking Senator Parrish's "attitude in reference to calling a session to consider cotton reduction acreage or Long's plan."

"My record in the senate," the Lubbock senator said in his reply to the governor, "in support of the Cunningham bill shows that I favor legislation for the farmers.

"Farmers of my district are waiting anxiously and expecting you to call the session," Senator Parrish concluded.

Answers Received

A box filled with answers of West Texas farmers was received by the governor today from Max Bentley, Abilene newspaper editor. The answers were being tabulated by the governor's secretaries for inclusion in the detailed analysis being made of the sentiment among Texas farmers.

MRS. PHOEBE OMLIE WINNER IN PLANE HANDICAP RACE

(By The Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Aug. 31.—Mrs. Phoebe Omlie, who has made a habit of leading "lady birds" in flying, today was judged winner of the women's division of the national sweepstake handicap derby.

Scorers, working all night to rush computive averages of 51 men and women who took a week to fly the 2,100 miles from Santa Monica, Calif., to Cleveland, gave the Memphis, Tenn., aviatrix a rating of 109.13 per cent, more than 10 points ahead of Mrs. Martie Bowman, Glendale, Calif., who rated 99.06 per cent.

May Win Sweeptake

The official checkers, Reg Burrows, Los Angeles, and Myron Griffin, Cleveland, added that Mrs. Omlie "is unofficially conceded the sweepstake prize also, from all indications, though ratings of all men contestants must be checked."

Mrs. Omlie, first of her sex to receive a transport pilot's license, was first across the finish line yesterday. She won the Dixie derby of last year's air races.

Two marines electrified the Sunday crowd with a mid-air collision and escaped by taking to their parachutes. They were Lieut. L. H. M. Sanderson, Shelton, Wash., and Lieut. W. O. Brice, Winnsboro, S. C., both of Fighting Squadron nine of Quantico, Va.

Their planes collided at 1,500 feet altitude as a nine-ship formation described a serpent dance in the skies.

Aged Man Attends Own 'Funeral' And Enjoys It

(By The Associated Press)

BENTON Ill., Aug. 31.—Stephen R. Patton, 80, went to his own "funeral" yesterday and enjoyed every minute of it.

Patton, who recently conceived the idea that it would be better to have his funeral sermon preached while he was still able to hear it, rather than wait until it was too late, listened to the Rev. John B. Maulding deal impartially with his life and works.

"I am told that our good brother, Patton, in his early days, was a very wicked man and lived a very wicked life," the pastor said. "But the beginning of an impelling conviction of his responsibility to God, resulted in his later conversion and his subsequent faith, which has been his support and anchor down unto this day."

He added that the "late departed" could now face eternity with serenity, because "the grace of regeneration removes the terror of death," to which Patton said, "amen."

The occasion of the funeral was Patton's birthday anniversary, and the services, attended by relatives and friends, were conducted at his home near Valier. Three other ministers assisted Mr. Maulding.

Many flowers were sent, and Patton said that when he does die he doesn't want any more. Neither does he want another funeral sermon.

ORDER TROOPS TO SHOOT AT OFFENDERS

WOLTERS IS FACED BY SECOND OUTBREAK OF INCENDIARISM

(By The Associated Press)

KILGORE, Aug. 31—A permanent military patrol was ordered today by Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters in the town of Kilgore as a result of a new outbreak of incendiarism.

Kilgore, a booming town in the center of the shutdown East Texas oil field, has been the scene of two incendiary disturbances since the establishment of marital law. The latest fires threatened two buildings, but were extinguished before appreciable damage was caused.

All Quiet Again

Kilgore's two churches were razed and six other buildings damaged Aug. 23 and 24, by a series of mysterious fires. Although civil and military authorities made a number of arrests in connection with the fires, no official move was made to prosecute.

At the time militiamen rushed into the city to aid in the protection of property, but were withdrawn when the disturbance seemed at an end.

Oily Rags Found

Yesterday fires broke out again, endangering a combination rooming house and morgue and a grain warehouse. Oily rags, such as have been found at all the buildings where arson was attempted, were under each of the buildings.

Gen. Wolters ordered guardsmen to "shoot to kill," if necessary, to prevent further incendiarism. Two suspects were arrested yesterday, but no action had been taken against them.

The woman had two wounds in the body, and the man had four wounds.

PROSECUTION FOR CAR THEFT TO BE MORE THAN $1000

CHICAGO, Aug. 31 (AP)—In order to prosecute a 17-year-old boy for the interstate transportation of a stolen automobile valued at $35, the United States government has already expended $300 and will have to put up $1,000 more if he is sent back to Lubbock, Tex., where he allegedly obtained the car, for trial there, it was revealed today.

Prosecutors are seeking the removal of Wayne Rogers, for violation of the Dyer act. The youth and his wife came here last June in an allegedly stolen car.

He was arrested Aug. 5. Since that time it has cost the government $12.75 to maintain him in the county jail, and $6 for three hearings before U. S. Commissioner Walker.

In addition, it has cost $190 to bring here and maintain the prosecuting witness, Woodrow Rampy, owner of the car.

And if Rogers is sent back to Texas, the railroad fare and meals for himself and deputy, and salary of the deputy, will amount to $400. In addition there are the uncalculated salaries of two assistant prosecutors and deputies and office expenses.

WEEK-END TOLL HIKED BY SHOOTINGS AND AUTO MISHAPS

(By The Associated Press)

A series of accidents and homicides were known to have taken the lives of nine persons in Texas during the week-end.

Three persons died in automobile crashes, two were shot to death, two drowned, one died of causes undetermined, and one was fatally injured by a motorcycle.

Kemp died in bed in his rooming house Saturday of unknown causes. Villalobas died of injuries received when a motorcycle he was riding overturned near Georgetown Saturday.

The Taggert youth was drowned in Money's lake near Greenville yesterday. Miss Bierwith was drowned in the Concho river near San Angelo Saturday.

HOOVER FACES BIG DEFICIT

VEXING PROBLEM SEEN IN BALANCING OF 1933 BUDGET

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—Announcement by Secretary Mellon of a billion dollar financing program for the September quarter brought President Hoover today face to face with the vexing problem of how to balance next year's budget.

It is a matter he must thresh out with Mr. Mellon and the Republican leaders of the house and senate before the opening of congress in December. It appears now to be very much a two-sided problem.

For Tax Revision

Mr Mellon, despite his resort at this time to another huge bond issue, is known to favor a revision of taxes to raise the necessary funds to meet a prospective billion dollar deficit next year. The fiscal year ending June 30 incurred a $903,000,000 deficit, largely met by a long term bond issue.

In the first two months of this fiscal year, the treasury shows a deficit of $387,000,000. Income taxes have continued downward this year, yielding $11,000,000 less than in this period a year ago. A drop of $13,000,000 in miscellaneous tax receipts has added to the administration's worries.

Next year is a campaign year, however, and on Capitol Hill the political leaders are holding up their hands against any immediate raise in taxes contending it is difficult to ask for votes after increasing the taxpayers' bills. Thus, Mr. Hoover is confronted by a none too easily solved situation.

Farm Home Razed By Flames Sunday

LORENZO, Aug. 31—(Special)—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed S. C. Simon's farm home and windmill about two miles west of here on state highway No. 24 late Sunday night. Loss on the house and contents was estimated at $2,500 or more.

Although fire fighters went to the farm with a Lorenzo fire truck, after Payton Powers of Lorenzo had turned in an alarm, lack of water prevented an attack on the blaze begun about 11:20 p. m. and became visible for several miles. Powers had passed the burning house en route to Lorenzo.

None was at the Simon home when the fire occurred.

Guardsmen Patrol Forests Of Idaho

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 31 (AP)—Charged by Governor C. Ben Ross with the duty of hunting out incendiarists accused of lighting fires to provide employment, 200 national guardsmen today patrolled the forests of central Idaho, where flames which have raged two weeks were believed to have been halted.

Branding incendiarism as a "vicious practice that some men have fallen into," the chief executive declared martial law in the area Saturday night after he had been informed men were starting blazes in the fire zone as well as at distant points.

Graf Zeppelin On Flight To Brazil

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Aug. 31. (AP)—The zeppelin works received a radio message from the Graf Zeppelin at 7 a. m. (12 midnight C. S. T.) today saying the dirigible passed over the Canary Islands at 1:20 A. M. C. M. T. Sunday) and was proceeding towards the Cape Verde Islands on her way to Brazil. The weather was fair and all on board were well.

The dirigible took off Saturday night with thirteen passengers on a non-stop flight to Pernambuco which Dr. Hugo Eckener expected to complete in about 73 hours.

There will be only a brief stop in Brazil and the Graf will start back for Germany.

LUBBOCK WOMAN FACES TRIAL ON ASSAULT TO MURDER COUNT

BROWNFIELD, Aug. 31.—(Special)—Defense counsel for Mrs. J. Hugh Walker, Lubbock woman charged with assault with intent to murder 19-year-old Beatrice Carr, also of Lubbock, asked for a continuance when the case was called in 106th district court before Judge Gordon B. McGuire this morning.

The prosecution, headed by District Attorney T. L. Price, announced itself for trial. Judge McGuire will announce his decision on the continuance request at 1 o'clock this afternoon. District Attorney Price said the case would not be continued sufficiently to prolong proceedings until the next term of court, however.

Freed On Bond

Mrs. Walker shot Miss Carr, an attractive brunet, with a German Leuger pistol as she sat in an automobile in front of a Brownfield hotel early the night of last January 26. Mrs. Walker was freed in bail of $7,500, first posted soon after the shooting and again after she was indicted.

Authorities did not indicate whether they expected her swarthy, black-haired husband, companion of Miss Carr when the shooting occurred, to appear in court. Officers attributed Mrs. Walker's act to jealousy as a result of her husband's attentions to the younger woman.

Only one shot was said to have been fired by Mrs. Walker, who was standing beside her automobile, in which she allegedly had followed a small coach occupied by Walker and Miss Carr. Walker also was arrested but subsequently

Goes To Picnic, Doesn't Have One

MUNDELEIN, Ill., Aug. 31 (AP)—Thomas Chissman a young man from Chicago, went to a picnic yesterday but he didn't have one.

It was the sheriff's annual picnic, sponsored by Sheriff Lester Tiffany of Lake county. Present were numerous deputy sheriffs, bailiffs, policement and constables, including Constable John Knox.

Knox said he felt a tug at his rear pocket. Turning he seized Chissman and recovered a wallet containing $200 and marched his prisoner to a platform, where Sheriff Tiffany was presiding.

"The idea!" said the sheriff. "Picking on a constable at a sheriff's picnic."

Then they took Chissman to jail.

VETERANS RENEW PAYMENT DEMAND

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 31 (AP)—A renewal of demands upon congress for full cash payment to veterans upon adjusted compensation certificates was advocated today by Paul C. Wolman of Baltimore, commander-in-chief of the veterans of foreign wars.

"In requesting cash payment of the balance due on these certificates," he told the thirty-second annual encampment of the organization here, "the veteran is merely asking for a liquidation of a government debt already acknowledged.

"It is a debt that, once paid, will give him the opportunity of immediate economic relief in a period of depression which strikes the veteran more than any class of individuals because of existing unemployment conditions."

Flood Death Toll Placed At 250,000

SHANGHAI, Aug. 31 (AP)—While authorities sought today to pierce the veil of uncertainty that cloaked the flood situation in northern Kiangsu province, another area placed its dead at 250,000 and its destitute homeless at 500,000.

The Wuhan district, comprising the cities of Hankow, Hanyang and Wuchang, in central China, although it still lay under from four to twenty feet of muddy, disease laden water, was able for the first time to tally its grim losses.

Officials announced that 163,000 houses either collapsed or were damaged beyond repair by the swirling flood waters of the Yangtse river. Half the population of the three cities, or 782,000 persons, were homeless and penniless. Many were half-starved and suffering from dysentery, cholera and other diseases.

Pond Creek Bridge Destroyed By Fire

ROSEBUD, Aug 31. (AP)—Fire destroyed the 900 foot long bridge over Pond Creek yesterday. Officers believed a burning cigaret thrown from a passing automobile ignited the bridge.

The fire was discovered by a motorist about 1 p. m. When fire fighting equipment arrived the fire was out of control.

Motorists traveling Highway 44 continued to cross the creek via a temporary structure two miles above the burned bridge. The loss was estimated at $12,000.

GANGSTERS OPEN RECKLESS FIRE ON CROWDED STREET; ONE GIRL WOUNDED

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. — Gangsters opened reckless fire again last night into streets crowded with children and adults, and wounded an 18 year old girl.

It was the third time in five weeks that gunmen, firing from a motorcar, had caused a bystander to fall wounded by gangster lead. Two small children died in the previous fusillades.

While the victim of last night's attack was being treated for a bullet wound in the thigh, police announced solution of the "slaughter house murder" of a week ago in which one of three men lined up against a wall and shot, was killed. The other two men are recovering from their wounds.

Miss Jennie Ballantiono was the girl wounded last night. The shots were intended for Joseph Santora who told police he had been threatened with assassination when he resisted extortionists. He is a longshoreman, and the father of 12 children.

Last week's murder was solved, police said, by the confession of one Barney (English) Wolfson, who, with six others, was captured by police who be-

SELF-GOVERNING PRISON COLONY WITH NO GUARDS OR BARS TRIED IN RUSSIA

(By The Associated Press)

MOSCOW, Aug. 31.—A self-governing prison colony without guards or bars, the inmates of which decide who shall be admitted and when they shall leave, is Soviet Russia's most striking experiment in advanced penology.

Located 15 miles from Moscow, the "ogpu commune" was established seven years ago by F. Zherzinsky, then head of the secret police for the reclamation of homeless waifs who roamed the streets of large cities by the thousands after the revolution, presenting a dangerous menace to life and property.

Its sphere has now been widened to accommodate juvenile incorrigibles in general from ages of 16 to 25. Robbery and thievery are the chief crimes represented. In the eyes of authorities these offenders are more likely than hardened criminals to respond to new methods of reformation.

Hard work and a generous measure of freedom and self-determination are the basic remedies prescribed for redemption of the 1,821 inhabitants of which 154 are women. There are no fixed terms of imprisonment. Inmates may apply for discharge at any time and the "general meeting," a governing body composed of all the inmates, determines the applicant's fitness for release.

DR. MYERS

Doctor Myers' Daily Column On Child Welfare

BY GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D. Head Division Parental Education Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

FARM CLUBS

To me come a great many letters from readers on the farm. An occasional farm boy or girl writes me. Having grown up on a farm having attended and taught a "district" school, I am keenly interested in my farm neighbors.

It was my privilege to serve as instructor on two succeeding winters before the Farmers' Week (Institute) at Ohio State university. Previous lecture engagements last winter forbade my accepting invitations to appear as an instructor at Farmers' Week at three state universities.

In addition to learning how to grow better pigs, corn and cattle, parents on the farm are also growing deeply interested in knowing how to rear healthier, happier children and to cultivate happier family life. I think I never spoke before a finer, more responsive group of parents than those who, at their own expense, had assembled for those programs. Never did I find parents who entered more heartily and intelligently into an open discussion of their parent-problems.

At the second institute before which I served, my work was chiefly with the 4-H Club leaders. I don't know how much these leaders learned from me. Surely I got a great deal from them. It was a great inspiration to hear the many wonderful things being done to develop personality in the teen-age children of the farm.

Some of the best principles of modern education are being put into practice by the 4-H clubs. Girls as well as boys are being motivated by definite group activities which add value and attractiveness to rural life. These youth find in this club wholesome social outlets of a high order, affording them all sorts of means for self-expression. Some rural communities there are where adolescent boys and girls are favored by educational opportunities which can well be envied by their city cousins. Working with and often through the rural high schools, the 4-H Club is bringing to the rural adolescent the advantages for developing intellectual and social personality they long had deserved, but been denied. With more advance in this direction our country youth will acquire a healthy appreciation and patriotism for their home communities and will find less lure in the city lights. Too long the rural boy and girl has heard about the opportunities of the city, and has not been helped to see the advantages all about him in the country.

Through the 4-H Club the adolescent finds a good outlet for self-expression. He finds something worthwhile to do and talk about. Things he has created and achieved become powerful centers of interest. About these things he unawares is likely to grow eloquent.

When the youth so trained become the parents of the next generation there will be many more opportunities for educational, social, and personality growth in rural children, many more means for cultivating in the adolescent boy and girl on the farm, self-realization, self-expression, self-development. Blessed are the fine men and women who have as volunteers led these clubs. We need more such leaders.

Lines Are Modified For Winter Frocks; Some Shorter

Left, dress in which both dull and shiny sides of crepe satin are used; center purple, cerise and beige silk flat crepe dress; right, black satin frock with pink satin insets.

By LUCY CLAIRE
Fashion Writer for Central Press

Although there will be no emphatic change in the silhouette for fall and winter, there are some minor changes that have been achieved gradually. Lines are much modified, and the contour is straighter than it was last season. Fullness is placed above the waistline. From yokes to deep armholes, the bloused development of the bodice, and the elaboration of sleeves, it would seem that every device is being employed to give a wider shoulder effect. While skirts for daytime wear will remain long, and some of the most authoritative houses are even making them longer than last spring, there is a strong trend toward shortening the Sunday night or cocktail frock.

One reason for this is the awkwardness of wearing the winter coat over the frock that reaches to the ankle. This length was all right for summer frocks worn with short jackets or no wrap at all, but when winter comes it puts a different construction on the skirt length. The so-called "long-short" skirt, which rises about eight inches from the floor, has been found a better length under the new coats, although they, too, have added length since last season. The narrower silhouette, the fullness above the waistline, and the new hats, all have their part in determining skirt lengths.

While skirt lines retain their present slim lines, and bodices widen their shoulder effect, there is no chance for shortening the hemline, else the silhouette would appear top heavy.

Satin In Limelight

Satin, as everyone knows, is quite in the limelight for formal afternoon wear. Contrast in both color and material is another strong feature. While black is now among the "also rans", it is not out of the picture. The black satin afternoon frock, sketched at the right, illustrates the use of black with contrasting color. It has pink satin insets in vestee and sleeves. An unusual skirt handling is shown in the one-sided tier effect. The opposite side hangs straight.

In the frock sketched at the left we have the contrast in material, or rather in its handling, for here both the dull and shiny surfaces of crepe satin are effectively used. The skirt is fashioned entirely of the crepe with the satin side up, while the bodice combines both dull and shiny surfaces. Insets and bow details are the only trim.

The most interesting contrast, however, is seen in the frock sketched at the center. This is of silk flat crepe in purple, cerise and creamy beige. The skirt and under sleeves are purple. Cerise forms he girdle, peplum-like skirt yoke effect and the deep cuff of the flowing sleeve. The bodice and upper sleeves are of the creamy beige. Slanting sections and seamings, and the unusual draped neckline, are interesting details. This is typically the Sunday night frock of length suitable for wear under the new fall coats.

Murray Ballenger, who has been attending the University of Kansas at Lawrence, Kans., this summer, is to return to his home here today to visit with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Ballenger, until the opening of the fall term of school. He will return to Lawrence for the winter. Mrs. Ballenger's sister, Mrs. E. M. Calder, and Mr. Calder, are to arrive this evening for a visit, also. They have been in Seattle, Wash., this summer.

SIMILARITY BETWEEN ROASTING COFFEE AND COOKING FOODS

"A Little at a Time" Is the Secret for Securing the Finest Flavor

Foods generally taste better when cooked in small quantities. For then the cook can mix her ingredients properly, also control the heat.

When coffee is roasted in small quantities, the same thing is true. But when coffee is roasted in bulk—as most coffees are—exact control is lost. Under-roasting and over-roasting very easily occur. This method being so unsatisfactory, caused Hills Bros. to look for some improvement—some way to roast their rare blend to uniform perfection. They experimented for years, and eventually invented and patented Controlled Roasting.

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . . a little at a time . . . so the fine, uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting—the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . a little at a time. Marvelous unvarying flavor results in every pound. For no berry is underdone nor overdone.

Hills Bros. Coffee is always fresh. It is packed in vacuum cans. Air which destroys the flavor of coffee is removed and kept out of these cans. Ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. Order Hills Bros. Coffee today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

LUBBOCK DEFEATS TAHOKA TO SWEEP TWO-GAME SERIES HERE

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY COLLIER PARRIS

AGAIN WE SAY that the Hubber management need look no further than the boundaries of the Plains to find the best semi-pro clubs against which to pit the Hubbers. A team coming from a greater distance is a drawing card in itself, but for real baseball the South Plains has a number of good teams. That Tahoka series should convince anyone.

The Hubbers won both games by the same score, 3 to 1, and the final game yesterday afternoon was one of those things that keep baseball going. Another little statement which has drawn no argument was borne out yesterday when big Herschel Galey proved again that he is the most valuable man on the club. Red Gaither's home run clout, for which he received a purse, was naturally outstanding, but Galey drove in two runs of the three and played his usual bang-up game behind the plate.

PHOOLISH PHANCIES AND PERSONAL PIFFLE: Jack Dempsey will make a million this winter and Estelle will come back to him in time to save Moxie Schmeling's heavyweight crown. . . . Lefty Bettes is the best first sacker the Hubbers have had all season. . . . and lately he has been hitting the ball. . . . Del Morgan seems to have shunted the Hubbers . . . his name is on the contract that brought the lights to Merrill Park. . . . A Panhandle league will be attempted again next summer . . . with results.

HUBBERS TAKE CONTESTS BY SAME SCORE

GAITHER'S HOME RUN UNTIES DEADLOCK IN THE SEVENTH

BY COLLIER PARRIS,
Journal Sports Editor

Red Gaither's home run on the first ball pitched in the last half of the seventh inning unknotted a 1-1 deadlock and started a stream of hits that resulted in a 3 to 1 victory and a series victory for the Lubbock Hubbers over the Tahoka Bulldogs yesterday afternoon at Merrill Park. Lubbock won the Saturday night game by the same score.

Back in the lineup after a week's absence due to a wrenched knee, the red-head of Lubbock's first string Hubber club attacked one of Lefty "Art Shires" Squires' curves and the pellet cleared the left field wall with feet to spare. There was the highest light of yesterday's game of high lights, one of the most classical contests of the season.

Marshall Gets Double

"Evo" Marshall, slugging outfielder, came up after Hambright had bounded out, Milliken to Larkin, following Gaither's clout and sent one to deep right for two bases. Big Herschel Galey, the steadiest catcher seen in these parts since baseball became a game, let a long one drop near the right field foul line that was good for a two-bagger and a tally that iced the old ball game.

Yesterday's was one of those affairs that strengthens the stuff in the baseball melting pot. The Bulldogs backed up Squires' good pitching with errorless support, handled a couple of double killings like big leaguers and pecked away at the offerings of Blackie Hoyle for enough hits to win an ordinary ball game. The Hubbers were on their toes, made the Bulldogs earn the one run they did get, and, save for one mistake that resulted in nothing serious, they looked like the Hubbers of the early part of the season, invincible and full of baseball spirit.

Squires Looks Good

Individual starring yesterday went for a highly entertaining athletic feature. For Tahoka, the pitching of Squires, interrupted only in the seventh inning by four hits, three of them for extra bases, was the outstanding feature. The playing of Mosely at second and Larkin at first merited anything but catcalls. Aside from pitching a seven-hit game and striking out seven batsmen, Squires caused four batsmen to hit to him, and he made ever chance count, once taking part in a neat double play.

Speaking of double plays, the one performed yesterday by Shorty France, Hubber shortstopper, and Galey was one of the sweetest known to the game. Robinette had doubled to start the fifth. Edwards drew a pass and Larkin laid his second one down to advance the runners. While Squires was batting, Galey caught Edwards off second and pegged to France, who ran the runner down singlehanded and while so running threw a neat one to Galey who had Robinette out at the plate by inches. France otherwise played his usual spectacular game, handling four hot chances, hitting twice.

Galey Is Star

Aside from Gaither's circuit blow, Galey was an outstanding hitter as well as fielder yesterday. First time up, he sent one to deep right to score Marshall, who had struck out but was safe on first when Catcher Wells let the third strike go by. Galey would have been credited with a double had he not tried to stretch it into a triple. A good throw from Robinette to Mosely and a peg from there to Milliken at third had Galey out. There was the tally that tied the count, however.

The Tahoka count came in the first when Edwards led off with a single to right. Larkin laid one on the altar and Squires got the first of his three singles. Wells was out to Gaither at first and Johnson singled to right to score Edwards. Squires tried to score on the play but Thompson's air and arm were right and Galey had him out at the plate with time to spare.

Marshall's starring hour came in the ninth inning when he reached high to catch Edwards' blow to left with his bare hand. A run would have resulted had he not sacked the ball. He retired the side a moment later by catching another long one hit by Squires.

Paul Derringer Leading Rookie

CARDINAL STAR MAY BE BEST PITCHER IN NATIONAL

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Travelling at his present clip big Paul Derringer of the St. Louis Cardinals will have little difficulty qualifying as the outstanding major league rookie of 1931. He might even, with a little luck, finish his first season as the leading pitcher of the National league.

When he shut out the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5 to 0, in the first game of a doubleheader yesterday, the former Rochester ace fixed his record for the year at 15 victories and six defeats. His winning average is topped by only one regular, Jess Haines, also of the Cardinals. Taking part in 29 games he has struck out 107 batters, including the 10 Pirates who took three futile swings yesterday.

Exceeds Expectations

Although he set a brilliant record with Rochester last year, the 215-pound Kentuckian scarcely was expected to prove one of the principal cogs of the Cardinals fine staff his first season in fast company. As matters stand he is likely to draw a starting assignment against the Athletics in one of the opening games of the word series.

In setting the Pirates down yesterday, Derringer yielded only six scattered hits, while his teammates clomped on Remy Kremer and Bob Osborn for 14. Bill Hallahan made it unanimous for the day by beating the Buccaneers, 4 to 1 in the nightcap. Although he allowed seven hits, as many as his mates could get off Spencer and Wood, Hallahan balanced things by striking out 13.

While the two Card twirlers set a hot pace, the distinction of giving the day's outstanding performance went to Phil Collins of the Phillies, who allowed only one hit in beating the New York Giants, 3 to 0, in the second game of a doubleheader. The Giants captured the first game, 8 to 2, behind Carl Hubbell's tight pitching.

Split Twin Bill

Lefty Ed Brandt chalked up his 17th victory as the Boston Braves humbled the Brooklyn Robins, 3 to 2, in the first half of a twin bill. The Robins came from behind to beat Tom Zachary in the night cap, 4 to 3.

The Cincinnati Reds fell upon Pat Malone for four runs in the eighth inning to square their series with the Chicago Cubs, 4 to 3. Red Lucas had only one bad inning, also the eighth, in which the Cubs scored twice.

Twenty-two thousand Boston fans watched the Red Sox take a 14 to 4 plastering from the New York Yankees. Led by Lou Gehrig, who belted his 37th homerun, a double and two singles, the Yanks collected 21 hits off four Sox curvers. Ben Chapman contributed a brace of homeruns to the assault.

Senators Down Athletics

Using a second string battery, the Athletics caught one of their infrequent beatings from the Washington Senators, 5 to 1. Myer Manush and West led a fruitful attack on the veteran Eddie Rommel, while Alvin Crowder held the A's in check.

Goose Goslin smashed six hits, including a homer and two doubles, as the St. Louis Browns turned on the Cleveland Indians and swept a doubleheader, 8 to 3 and 6 to 3.

The Chicago White Sox committed eight errors and their four pitchers allowed 12 bases on balls, but they defeated Detroit, 10 to 8, in 12 innings.

JACK DEMPSEY IS READY TO TAKE ON ALL COMERS

SPOKANE, Wash. Aug. 31 (AP)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion, said in a radio interview last night that he was ready to take on all comers.

His manager put in the reservation "if terms are right," and said Dempsey probably would continue exhibition matches until the first of the year, "when he ought to be able to take the best of them—Max Schmeling."

Dempsey, after a workout here in preparation for four rounds of exercise tonight with Cyclone Thompson, Yakima, Wash., and possibly three others, said that after an exhibition in Salt Lake City, Sept. 14, he would go to the Champion gold mine at Midas, Nevada, for ten days of "mucking" to get in condition.

SCHAAF, CAMPOLO TO MEET TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP)—Ernie Schaaf and Victorio Campolo, a pair of hopeful heavyweights from Boston and Argentina respectively, will make another attempt to hold their 12 round battle at Ebbets field tonight.

The bout originally scheduled for last Wednesday, was postponed. Threatening weather was given as the cause of the postponement but there were reports that the absence of paying customers influenced the decision.

Since then, both battlers have done some extra training and a public quarrel between Schaaf and his mentor, Jack Sharkey, has been added to the ballyhoo. The Bostonian, who has slugged his way into prominence in recent months, remains a 2 to 1 favorite over the Argentine, whose fights often have been disappointing, despite Campolo's weight advantage of some 50 pounds.

Robert Ewalt, Island of Guernsey, recently celebrated his 100th birthday.

FREE-FOR-ALL STARTED FOR GOLF CROWN

WITH JONES OUT 141 PLAYERS IN FIGHT FOR THE THRONE

BY PAUL MICHELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Aug. 31 (AP)—The golf stampede of the year, perhaps of years, opened over the treacherous fairways of the Beverly Country club today as 141 wielders of wood and iron began their rush for the national amateur championship.

With Bobby Jones out of the picture, the last of his four major titles surrendered without a shot, the flight had the complexion of a wide open free-for-all with at least half the field possessing a fine chance to slip into the throne room of American amateur golf. Many veterans were back, but they were confronted with a large number of rising stars, many of whom never had to face the genius of a Jones.

Ex-Champs Return

A quartet of former champions has returned, while a fifth, Jesse Guilford of Boston, withdrew unexpectedly yesterday along with 11 others. The former kings of American amateur golf who were back on the firing line were Francis Ouimet, who won the title back in 1914 before the world of golf ever heard of a Jones; Charles "Chick" Evans, a two-time holder with victories in 1916 and '20; Max Marston, 1923, and Harrison "Jimmie" Johnston, who beat Jones out for the title in 1929 with a notable assistant from Johnny Goodman of Omaha, one of the numerous favorites in the battle opening day.

The sudden withdrawal of the Deforest brothers, John and Alaric, reduced the British threat considerably. Both John, who was a runner-up in this year's British amateur and a competitor at Merion last year, and Alaric decided at the last minute to give up the trip and their decisions were announced by the United States Golf association last night. Their withdrawals left the British hopes in the hands of Cyril Tolley and T. Phillip Perkins, two former British champions.

Two fire engines and hundreds of people dashed recently to a butcher shop in Glasgow, Scotland, from which black clouds were pouring, but all the commotion was caused by an overdone joint of beef which was smoking badly.

Texas Players Win In Louisiana Open

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 31. (AP)—Texas players carried home the men's titles in the Louisiana state open tennis championship tournament which closed here yesterday.

However, Miss Anna Koll, of New Orleans, southern champion, added the state title to her list by winning the women's singles championship. Miss Koll this season also has attached the Alabama and Tennessee singles titles.

John McDiarmid, Fort Worth, won the men's singles, defeating Doc Barr, Dallas, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4. Paired with Sterling Williams of Austin, McDiarmid defeated Barr and Sam Boren, Dallas, for the doubles title. The score was 6-3, 10-8, 10-8.

Williams defeated Boren, 6-1, 6-0, to win the junior championship. The junior doubles were won by Sterling and Milton Rudy of Shreveport, who defeated Abie Murov and Ed Robertson, Shreveport, 6-1,6-1.

DALLAS STEERS BREAK WIN STREAK OF SIX GAMES WHEN ROOKIES GIVE UP TOO MANY HITS TO SAN ANTONIO

BY WILLIAM A. (BILL) PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Yesterday saw the Dallas Steers break their six-game winning streak when they lost to the San Antonio Indians, 7 to 2. Manager Happ Morse gave a couple of his rookie hurlers a chance, but they spoiled things by allowing San Antonio too many hits and runs for Dallas' own good. Aiken, a right hander who had never witnesses a class A baseball game until he joined Dallas a week ago, opened for the Steers. He pitched shutout ball for four innings. He allowed only four hits and struck out three, but after allowing two runs in the fifth he was relieved by Mallett in the sixth who was in turn relieved by Whitehead, another rookie who worked in his first game for the Steers. Tom Estell, veteran spitball hurler, went the route for San Antonio, holding the Steers to seven hits.

Split Twin Bill

Houston and Fort Worth split a doubleheader. Leon Chagnon's eight-hit pitching beat the Buffaloes 2 to 1 in the initial go. Chagnon out-pitched George Washington Payne, second ranking pitcher in the league. Hanson stopped Fort Worth with six hits in the nightcap to beat the combined pitching efforts of Jinx Harris and Paul Gribble, 9 to 4.

Shreveport made the Galveston Buccaneers walk the plank for a double defeat. It required ten innings to annex the first game 5 to 4. Cy Cashion's home run gave Shreveport the second game, 2 to 1.

Beaumont swept a doubleheader from Wichita Falls. Luke Hamlin smothered the Spudders with six hits in the first game for a 4 to 0 decision. Buck Marrow allowed ten hits in the second game, but lusty hitting by his mates gave him an 8 to 4 victory over Lester White and Pressnell, Wichita Falls mound aces.

Barnhill Winner Of Tri-State Tourney

AMARILLO, Aug. 31 (AP)—Colman Barnhill, young pupil of Prof. D. A. Penick of the University of Texas, today possessed the tri-state tennis tournament title.

Barnhill slammed out a 6-3, 6-0, 6-4 victory over Joe Bill Bralley of Austin, defending champion to win the singles championship, yesterday.

Ed Lund and Walter Elder, Amarillo doubles team, copped the doubles championship by defeating White and Barnhill, Amarillo's number two doubles team, 3-6, 8-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Albert Upsher of Oklahoma City, won the singles title by virtue of his 6-4, 6-3, 6-0 win over Joe Key of Amarillo.

Vines Seeded First In Singles Tourney

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP)—John Hope Doeg, who came from California to win the national singles tennis championship last year, still holds the title but another and younger Californian, Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena has received the official nomination as his probable successor.

In the announcement of the proposed seeding for the championship, starting Saturday at Forest Hills, Vines is given the No. 1 position while Doeg is dropped to fifth place. Frank Shields, Davis cup player from New York, is placed second. Other seeded players in order are Sidney B. Wood, jr., New York; George M. Lott, jr., Philadelphia; Doeg; Clifford Sutter, New Orleans; John Van Ryn, Philadelphia; and Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex.

Frederick J. Perry, English star, heads the list of eight visiting players who are seeded on the foreign list.

Thought For Today

Behold, these are the ungodly, who prosper in the world; they increase in riches.—Psalms 73:12.

GREAT abundance of riches cannot of any man be both gathered and kept without sin.—Erasmus.

Gandhi's Influence

THOMAS CARLYLE would have been interested in Gandhi's recent denial that he has any intention of setting himself up as the unofficial ruler of India.

Carlyle, following his famous formula, would have remarked drily that Gandhi is the unofficial ruler of India whether he wants to be or not. He is by all odds the greatest man in the nation; and according to Carlyle, the greatest man in the nation always runs things, no matter who has the outward trappings of authority.

All of which serves once more to call attention to the strange position that Gandhi occupies in the modern world.

It isn't merely that this wizened, poverty-stricken little man can defy the majesty of the great British Empire. In itself that would be remarkable enough, but it would not necessarily make the man a sign and a portent to make a flippant generation stop and take thought.

Beyond that lies the fact that Gandhi is a living denial of nearly all of the things that this generation—in America as well as in England—prizes most highly.

In a world that worships wealth he clings to poverty. In a world that bows to brute force he personifies the tremendous, terrifying power of the helpless. In a world that lives by machinery he sticks to the simplicities of a handicraft era. In a world grown cautious and skeptical he exults in a deep mysticism.

And as a result—not in spite of these differences——he is, in truth, the unofficial ruler of India today, and the British empire parleys with him to learn whether it can keep India within the fold!

There is something exceedingly significant in this man's career. He puts our ideals in reverse—and proves stronger than we are. Will he, before he gets through, make some of us suspect uneasily that our ideals are somewhat in need of revision.

Steady Work

THE commonwealth attorney of Harlan county, Kentucky, where 30 men have been indicted for murder following disorders incident to unemployment in the coal fields, complains that the jobless miners ought to "refuse to listen to radical agitators who are seeking to destroy the government and Christianity."

This, of course, is true enough. Unfortunately, men who have no work and no money, and who see no prospect of getting either in the near future, often have the perversity to listen to radical agitators; and when they do the solemn wagging of official heads doesn't help matters much.

Steady jobs and good wages—these, in the long run, are the only effective counter-agents to radical propaganda. Get them, and radicalism dissolves overnight. Fail to get them and you are in for trouble just as surely as the Almighty created small, green and somewhat sour apples.

Youth's Paths

THE impulses that carry youth away sometimes are beyond the fathoming of grown-ups.

Those two California high school lads who turned bandits in order to buy books and finance a trip to a military training camp, and who wound up by killing a policeman, present a puzzle that seems almost insoluble.

They came from good families. They had been, until a few weeks before the final catastrophe, model high school students—well-behaved, studious, likable. Then, all of a sudden, for no reason that grown-ups can make out, they slipped over into disaster.

ARTHUR Brown, the local photographer, was taking a picture of a Lubbock man and his college-boy son the other day. "Perhaps it would make a better picture", Arthur suggested, "if the boy were to stand with his hand upon the father's shoulder."

"It might make a better picture", the old man agreed, "but it would be more natural if taken with his hand in my pocket!"

THIS is a day of big undertakings. No matter what line one chooses for investigation, the war cry seems to be 'bigger and better'. People everywhere seem willing and anxious to surpass all kinds of previous attainments.

In the financial world, for instance, American and French bankers have moved to help England "over the hump." The two groups together have furnished $400,000,000—yep, four hundred million dollars—to 'show their faith' in England's ability to 'carry on'.

People all over the South are talking about cotton and how much they'll plant next year, if they plant any at all.

If the Long plan is not adopted, it is likely that the biggest slash in cotton acreage in all history will be noted. Of course, if the Long plan is adopted by Southern states there will be practically no cotton at all planted for the 1932 season. That's another big undertaking.

WHEAT men, already looking to the future, have given their intentions to plant the fewest number of acres in the last 17 years. They, too, are going after the wheat debacle of 1931 in a big way.

No matter where you turn, whether it is in unemployment funds, the size of a new skyscraper or warship, the speed record between two points or the length of a non-stop flight, people are demanding the 'bigger and better yardstick'.

This is an age of big undertakings, big failures, big successes. Yet it is not an age of a few big men, towering over their fellows. The calibre of the average man has grown to the point where the big undertakings are accomplished by the many, rather than by the few.

"Whatever degree of prosperity the South enjoys, it owes to the Republican party", acting Secretary of the Navy Jahncke is reported as saying in a recent radio address.

Thank Heaven! We now have the blame definitely fixed!

The Plainsman just happened to remember that it has been five years since he has heard a recitation of "Gunga Din." You remember Din—the colored boy in the sun-back suit who gave the dirty water to the soldiers!

A RECENT agricultural survey, conducted over 12 states by the Santa Fe Railway company, includes, of course, a report on West Texas and South Plains cotton. To show us further what we 'might have done' had this been a good year from a price standpoint, the survey reports:

"Temperatures during August were ideal for the growth of cotton and the prospects on the South Plains are the best since 1926. Elsewhere, however, there are various shades of trouble. Hot winds, drouth and insect damage have caused heavy shedding and premature opening of bolls except in South Texas, where rain and weevils have cut the crop very short. Weevil and boll worm damage is heavy in the lower two-thirds of the state and increasing after recent showers. Root rot is doing considerable damage in Central Texas".

If we can deal for a minute in "ifs", what "if" cotton were bringing 20 cents on the South Plains this year! All of us certainly would have 'gone to the races' together—farmer, business men and all!

But one of these days a crackerjack crop and a crackerjack price are going to make connections—and when they do won't that be sumpin'!

"Not a bad place at all", he declared, "and very old-fashioned. In my bedroom, on the wall, was a text reading 'Lay me down in peace to sleep, for I know that I dwell in safety'".

"Yep", said the other. "There was a text like that in the country inn I staid in—and right underneath was the landlord's personal motto, reading 'The management will not hold itself responsible for jewelry or other valuables unless left at the office!'".

Construction, Recognized As Business Forecaster, Far Below 1928; Hope It Has Lost Potency As A Barometer

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The construction industry, largest in the United States except for agriculture, considers itself a faithful forecaster of general business conditions.

DUTCHER

Study of previous periods of depression and recovery show that this industry has always led the way toward recovery from six months to a year ahead of any general upturn and that declines in construction have uniformly been followed by general declines from nine months to a year later.

Contractors now, however, hope that construction has temporarily lost its potency as a barometer. They say the present volume of construction is about half what it was in 1928 before it began to decline and that the outlook for the near future is not encouraging. Even President Hoover's efforts to stimulate public works and the lead taken by the federal government have failed to prevent a great decline in volume of public and semi-public construction.

The industry gets its figures from the F. W. Dodge Corporation, whose surveys covering 37 states are used by the Department of Commerce and by The Constructor, organ of the Associated General Contractors of America. The Dodge organization surveys both contract awards and contemplated construction, looking six to nine months ahead on work a fluctuating percentage of which will be done.

The volume of contemplated work in the first seven months of 1930 was $5,889,000,000 and the volume of contemplated work reported in the first seven months of 1931 was $3,166,000,000. It is impossible to predict whether a greater or lesser percentage of this year's contemplated construction will actually be carried out.

Contract award statistics, however, are more certain and $2,092,000,000 in contract awards is reported for the first seven months of 1921 as compared with $3,006,000,000 for the first seven months of 1930. Last year, however, was comparatively dull and the peak year was 1928 with 4,028,000,000 for the first seven months. Contemplated work volume reported in those seven months of 1928 was set at $6,127,000,000, so that there has been a reduction of somewhere near 50 per cent in both classifications.

Public and semi-public construction contract awards dropped from about $1,710,000,000 for the first seven months of 1930 to $1,250,000,000 for the first seven months of 1931, according to the Dodge reports. Thanks to the federal building program, the amount awarded for public buildings rose from 76 millions to 86 millions. But the amount awarded for public works and utilities—including highways, bridges, lighting systems, railroads and sewer systems—dropped from 1147 millions to 838 millions, in spite of greatly enlarged federal highway appropriations and loans which proved only a drop in the bucket. Other declines for the same period were from 239 millions to 186 for educational buildings, 108 to 71 for hospitals and institutions, 64 to 35 for religious and memorial buildings, 75 to 61 for social and recreational establishments.

Meanwhile, the Portland Cement reports show that concrete surface pavement awards—for streets, alleys and highways—were 39 per cent ahead of 1930 on May 1, 18 per cent on June 1, only 11 per cent on July 1 and only four per cent on August 1. Congress increased the federal aid highway appropriation from $75,000,000 to $125,000,000 and appropriated $80,000,000 as an allocated loan to the states to be matched back against future highway appropriations.

The contractors say that the states, taking the federal money, consequently put everything into the contract award state during the first part of the year and that the total of street, alley and highway paving probably will be less this year than in 1930.

"The failure of municipalities to undertake street and alley paving work under the exceptionally favorable price conditions prevailing this year is nullifying the efforts of the federal government to increase employment through accelerating highway work," says a recent editorial in The Constructor. Such paving is largely bought and paid for by the order of abutting property holders, it is explained, and "when such property holders stop buying other commodities, thereby contributing to depressions, they likewise stop buying paving."

CHILD'S HEALTH IN SCHOOL

WHAT preparation should you provide for your child's health in school? What precautions should you take?

Dr. Clendening

School is the first step toward going out into the great world. And the great world, by common consent, is not a bed of roses. School has its dangers, as well as its glorious benefits. They cannot be ignored, but some of them can be prevented by science.

The chief danger of school is from contact with many other human beings. This is certain to lead to the spread of contagious diseases. The inevitable result of gathering many people together from different places is an epidemic. We learned that lesson in the great war. As soon as the camps began to fill with draft troops brought from far and near, and thrown together in intimate contact, we had hundreds of cases of measles, mumps, chicken pox, diphtheria—all of the children's diseases which seemed strange occurring in grownup soldiers.

Aside from having an attack, all the immunity we acquire to those diseases is contact immunity. Which means it is gained by rubbing against people, acquiring some of the germs they carry around with them and by killing off these germs creating our own immunity to them.

When the New York health authorities were testing out the school children with the Schick test to see which ones were immune and which susceptible to diphtheria, they found that in small private schools a very high percentage were susceptible. But in a large public school in a crowded tenement district, which would seem at first far less healthful, there was a comparatively low percentage of children susceptible.

This simply meant that the children going to private schools had not made enough contacts to gain immunity. They lived in a house or apartment where there was only one family, probably not more than two or three children. They played with only a few children at a time, in open spaces or large rooms. At school they had plenty of desk room and plenty of space between the desks. The children in the tenement district, on the contrary, were constantly in large groups. They lived in houses swarming with people, played in cramped quarters, sat on crowded stairways. Thus they swapped germs, taking into their bodies some dead or dying germs which, after being absorbed and dissolved, created a highgrade immunity to even severe subsequent infection.

It is an example of what a friend of mine calls the advantages of early poverty.

Another way to think of it is that most of these contagious diseases come in childhood. But if you brought up an individual to adult life in isolation from the rest of mankind and then sent him out into the world, he would come down with the childhood diseases in very short order.

So, while it has its dangers, school is a toughening preparation for life in more ways than one. It is possible, however, to prevent artificially some of the most serious dangers before the child enters school at all. The means to do this will be the subject of the other articles this week.

They're staging a 200-mile wheelborrow race up in Wisconsin. That would be interesting if it had any connection with that stuff that made Milwaukee famous.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The notion that hermits could stay hermits in the very midst of millions of people seems fantastic. And yet almost each year some hermit is discovered in mid-Manhattan, as much a recluse as any cave-dwelling old codger of the mountains. Frequently they are elderly men and women, slightly daft or deluded, who withdraw slowly from the great city and its crowds and finally become veritable self-made prisoners.

Just the other day, the case of an old woman came to light. She was living in a room in a Times Square hotel, and had turned completely recluse. Police finally managed to get her out.

About a year ago they discovered an old fellow in a hotel room just off Herald Square. He had been a former musician, and was almost penniless. He would appear in the streets and beg dimes. Then he would buy a bottle of milk and a loaf of bread, return to his room and eat. He would feed the pigeons with the crumbs.

When attention was called to his case, he was all but dead of malnutrition.

Marian Marsh, one of Hollywoods more recent discoveries, has been brought to New York by the publicity gents of her company to be introduced to the big city.

This means that for a few weeks she will be "seen everywhere"; teas will be staged in swank hotels and she will be swished around to the smart shops; she will appear at noon at those lunch places which attract the Broadwayites; blanket interviews with the New York press will be arranged and the days will pass in incredible confusion to a young newcomer.

When she is hurried back to make a picture, it will be concluded that New York has met and knows her.

I have watched a dozen such merry-go-rounds in the past few years.

And just the other night I was trying to recall the names of a few who had been lionized for a brief interval. But most of them escaped me. Few survived more than a few months of the Hollywood ups-and-downs.

The most charming upon arrival, it still seems to me, was Vilma Banky, with her quaint European accent.

But Miss Marsh appears to have an unusually good start. She was selected from a crowd and given the chance to play with John Barrymore in "Trilby." There are many more excellent roles awaiting her.

It was incidentally the first time Miss Marsh had been in New York since a mere baby. Her parents had come from the British West Indies and stopped over here.

Street scene—It was in Fifth Avenue at the side entrance of one of the fashionable shops. As usual, there was a doorman, in summer whites, his cap trimmed with gold braid and his coat trimmed with more gold braid.

An elderly woman, peddling bunches of violets, tried to solicit the customers as they came and went. Four times, I saw the doorman drive her away. Finally, in a fine rage, she turned upon him and shrieked. "It's the likes of you that's driving us poor folks to starve. I hopes there's a revolution and you're the first to be killed. And we'll be seeing to that."

"Get away with you," shouted the braided-one, who possibly makes $15 a week at his job.

A car had driven up and a fashionably dressed woman had been taking in the scene. She called back the violet peddler and bought three bunches.

She didn't tip the doorman!

EYE-SPECIALISTS CORRECT AN ERROR; LOCAL MAN WRITES ON GAS, PHONE, TAX RATES

Dear Plainsman: In your editorial column dated August 26, 1931, you made a statement that conveys an impression which we believe we did not intend. The statement, "here's a tip for people suffering with eye-trouble—particularly cataract; if you want to have your eyes taken care of, go to a reputable optometrist or optician for treatment and advice".

Optometrists do not treat diseases of the eyes—have never studied diseases of the eyes. They merely fit glasses. The optician does not deal with eyes, treatment or fitting of glasses. His field is to grind lenses prescribed by oculists and optometrists. We are certain that you have no intention of misinforming your public. We believe your column is, and should be instructive rather than deceptive. We appreciate an editorial condemning quackery in every form and commend you for that, but, never-theless you have mis-directed your reading public concerning the treatment of the diseased conditions of their eyes.

Respectfully submitted.
J. T. Hutchinson, president Lubbock Ophthalmological and Oto-Laryngological society.
R. T. Canon, secretary Lubbock Ophthalmological and Oto-Laryngological society.

(To the officials and members of this local society. The Plainsman says "beg pardon". What this column meant to portray in the original article, taken exception to, was this: people with eye trouble should go to reputable eye specialists—oculists, aurists, optometrists and whatnot—rather than permit traveling 'experts' to monkey with their optics.

The Plainsman regrets having erred, likewise regrets the fact that neither he nor two percent of the lay readers of his column ever heard of those two jawbreakers, "Opthalmological" and "Oto-Laryngological". All apology is hereby offered. No deception was intended.)

FOR THE PEOPLE

The article from "A Consumer" in August 27th issue of the The Journal is good so far as it goes, but the question and the answer to all of his reasoning is; what is to be done?, then do it. It is true that the time is ripe for the citizens of Lubbock to try and reduce the terrible and unjust expenditures placed upon us by such monopolies as the West Texas Gas company, the Bell Telephone System, and the School Tax.

The recent cut (?) announced by the gas company was not a reduction at all. It was only an instance of rubbing it in on people whom they feel cannot fight back. We, the citizens, are to blame, however for the condition. As soon as gas was available, everyone immediately began installing it; giving no thought or heed to the ownership of the company, its policy or price. It is a known fact, which history has proved time and again, that when any company, or individual, owns the control of an industry, they are going to bleed the people to the extent of their ability to secure money and pay them.

An instance of this is the Bell Telephone Company. Competition is the life of business. It is also what keeps the level of prices to where we poor people can pay them. When I lived in Portland Oregon, in 1922, at a time when prices were higher than now, there were four different telephone companies operating. The city had forced them to affiliate, and the service was excellent. The charge was $1.50 for residence, and $3.00 for business.

The gas company supplies its gas here for approximately fifteen cents. To give us a thirty cent rate they would be doubling their money. What other business in Lubbock besides the telephone company can show that quick a turn-over on its investment?

The third curse in Lubbock is the exorbitant amount of school taxes. They are now so high that no man can own property here, pay them, sustain up-keep, interest, and make a profit. But, regardless of conditions the steady outflow of money goes on.

The remedy for this untenable position is for the people to get behind the ideas of such people as The Plainsman who, about a year ago attempted to secure a reduction of gas rates. He was not supported. We poor people have a great faculty for doing everything we can to impoverish ourselves, and enrich big companies. Then when they hoard their money, as they have this year, we, the workers, enjoy such conditions as the present, when, in spite of our long hours and hard work at meager rates, we barely secure food for ourselves and babies.

There are two remedies for our present condition. One is for at least two companies to own each public utility. Our excellent light rate and service in Lubbock proves that. The other is for the city to own all public utilities, operating them for the good of the people, and not for profit.

MAX COLEMAN.
Lubbock.

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Tinies reached an open spot Scouty said, "I see a lot of en sitting on the ground. What they doing there?" "Why, they eating lunch, my son," replied Travel Man. "It's fun! It seems akes them hungrier, out in the air.

et's stroll around and watch w. I'm sure they won't object ou. Just gaze upon their con- s. My, what funny hats they ." And he was right! The hats straw. The widest brims they saw. And on their backs they bright shawls that kept off ly air.

was a custom in this town for the folks to just sit down and where'er they wanted to. Soon py shouted. "Gee, I think I a happy hunch. Let's go some e and buy some lunch and then down with all the rest. That e appeals to me."

o to a store they promptly went. Enough for quite a meal was spent. 'Twas wrapped in bags and then the bunch ran right back to the street. They picked a spot right by a pole. The Travel Man said, "Bless my soul, this is a very chummy stunt, with such good food to eat."

Then, after lunch they took a hike. "The open air is what I like," said Coppy, as they strolled along. The Travel Man then cried, "Here comes a little burro, boys. Don't scare him, now, with too much noise. If we all will be quiet he will walk right by our side."

The burro slowly came along. Said Coppy, "Gee, he must be strong. His back is loaded down with brush. It's heavy, too, no doubt. What is the brush for? Tell us, please." The Travel Man replied, "Don't tease, and I will gladly tell you what the whole affair is about." (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

DAILY MARKETS

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP)—Cotton opened steady today, 9 to 10 points lower in response to favorable weather reports and relatively easy Liverpool cables.

The selling was not active or general and was said to include very little hedging by the south, but demand was limited and prices worked off to 7.21 for December and 7.52 for March contracts, or about 18 to 20 points net lower. The market was quiet and barely steady within a point or two of these figures at the end of the first half hour. The early weather map showed very little rain in the south which was considered favorable for the greater part of the belt.

Liverpool cables were several points lower than expected on the New York close of Saturday, the decline there being attributed to hedging and liquidation. Houses with Liverpool and continental connections were credited with selling some cotton here during the early trading.

The market worked lower later in the morning under further liquidation or reselling by recent buyers who appeared to be influenced by the weather news and the easier showing of the earlier stock market. Trade interests were credited with buying on scale down orders, but the declines extended to 7.20 for December and 7.51 for March or about 19 to 21 points net lower. At midday the market was quiet and about steady but prices were within 2 or three points of the lowest.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 31 (AP) — Cotton had an easy opening today as Liverpool cables were lower than due. First trades here showed losses of 4 to 5 points, and the market continued to ease off after the start owing to liquidations by recent buyers and the absence of the active short covering which has recently prevailed.

October traded down to 7.03 and December to 7.23, or 14 to 15 points below Saturday's close. There still continued to be little hedge selling owing to the backwardness of the crop movement.

Near the end of the first hour the market was steady and one to two points up from the lows.

The market ruled rather quiet all morning, and prices eased off slowly owing to lack of support either from short covering or trade buying and probably influenced also by an easier stock market. October traded down to 7.00. December to 7.22 and January to 7.33, or 15 to 17 points below yesterday's close.

Near mid-session the market was steady and one to two points above the lows.

Trading appeared to be influenced by expectaton of a number of private crop estimates which are expected to confirm the recent government estimate.

NEW ORLEANS OPEN

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 31 (AP) — Cotton futures opened steady: Oct. 7.12; Dec. 7.34; Jan. 7.43-bid; March 7.61; May 7.80; July 7.95.

NEW YORK OPEN

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Aug. 31. (AP)—Wheat was dull at the opening today and prices generally sagged fractionally in sympathy with weakness at Liverpool. Trade was of small volume, consisting mainly of scattered sales from Chicago speculators. Corn was sold in moderate quantities.

Wheat started unevenly 1-2 cent lower to 1-4 higher and showed little disposition to rally. Corn opened steady to 1-4 down and held around these figures.

MRS. WALKER

Approached Car

Prior to the shooting, witnesses said, Mrs. Walker approached her husband's car and was greeted by Miss Carr. When the younger woman told Mrs. Walker she wanted to talk to her, witnesses said, the married woman declared:

"I don't want to hear anything you have to say."

She allegedly fired immediately, the bullet striking the seated victim immediately below the right breast, angling downward, and emerging from the right side. Physicians then conceded Miss Carr only a bare chance of recovery. Mrs. Walker was indicted by a Terry county grand jury early in February.

Johnson Condition Reported Improved

The condition of J. Lee Johnson, jr., of Fort Worth, injured when an automobile in which he was riding turned over late Saturday night on state highway No. 7 about two miles north of Slaton, was described as improved by attendants at West Texas hospital this morning.

Mrs. Johnson arrived here Sunday night from Fort Worth to be with her husband, who suffered a skull fracture and was cut about the head and face. T. M. Worthington, formerly of Lubbock and now of Dallas, was driving the automobile. He received minor bruises and a cut on the nose.

A police report indicated the machine driven by Worthington overturned after striking a light sedan which had been parked so two young men could repair a punctured tire. The police report identified one of the young men as Alton Sneed. Identity of two girls reported to have suffered shock, presumably as occupants of the sedan when it was hit, was not designated. The girls were not believed hurt seriously. The sedan, owned by Sneed or his family, was damaged considerably, police said.

Little Theater To Hold Meeting Here

Meeting to elect new officers and directors for the coming season, directors of the Lubbock Little Theater are to gather in a short meeting in the offices of the West Texas Gas company Tuesday night, according to an anouncement by W. O. Daniels, president. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock.

"We want all persons interested in Little Theater work to be present," Mr. Daniels said in explaining that the meeting was not confined to directors and members alone.

A Knox county farmer harvested nine thousand bushels of wheat on three hundred acres this season.

To Be 'Model' Wife

It was while Miss Margot Webb, above, 22-year-old Philadelphia girl, was clerking in an Atlantic City store that she won a beauty contest and finally a position as model in the Paris salon of Jean Patou, a famous couturier. Now according to word received here she is to wed Count Alain de la Falaise below, member of a prominent French family.

GANGSTERS

alleged them in a Brooklyn apartment after being tipped off by a dance hall hostess, jealous of one of the men's affections.

Wolfson, police said, confessed he and three others lined Anthony Ferrara, Murray Leonardi and Angelo Curmano against a wall in the Brooklyn "slaughter house" district and shot them down. Ferrara was killed.

Wolfson explained that Ferrara had been killed because he opposed a gang merger under which Wolfson's power would have been doubled.

SHOOTINGS

were not expected to recover from their wounds. They were treated at a Center hospital.

The shooting resulted from an argument yesterday at a church near Halbert, between the Tatum and Adams families, who were neighbors.

Officers learned that Jodie Adams had accused Ralph Tatum of cutting an automobile tire. After a heated argument, the shooting occurred. Pistols were used.

Several members of the Tatum and Adams families who witnessed the shooting escaped injury. It was estimated that over 50 shots were fired.

Stockstill Shows Improvement Today

Improvement was reported late this morning in the condition of J. A. Stockstill, 26, who suffered a fracture of the lower spinal column in an automobile collision Saturday night in the 500-block of Seventeenth street.

W. A. Daniel, also of Lubbock, was riding with Stockstill when the automobile and a bakery company's delivery truck collided. Daniel was dismissed from a hospital after being treated for a fractured left arm and a lacerated hand. The driver of the delivery truck was reported not hurt.

Stockstill was semi-conscious when received at West Texas hospital.

Lindberghs Assume Role Of Sightseers

TOKYO, Aug. 31 (AP)—The most brilliant midsummer affair of its kind here in many years—a dinner given by Premier Wakatsuki—tonight ended the ambitious round of official ceremonies in honor of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

At its conclusion the Lindberghs assumed the role of sightseers, which will keep them busy for several days and take them to points outside Tokyo.

Eaton And McClain At Dairy Meeting

D. F. Eaton and R. N. McClain, Lubbock county farm agent and assistant agent, respectively, were to attend a livestock grading demonstration from 10:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. today at a ranch owned by W. K. Dickinson, sr., of Lubbock, 11 miles west of Tatum, N. M.

The even is the fourth such exhibition in Lea county, N. M. Dickinson and several other Lubbock residents also expected to attend it.

CAPT. WHITE DIES

AUSTIN, Aug. 31 —Captain R. Emmet White, 80, former mayor of Austin, former county judge and former sheriff of Travis county, died at his home in Cedar Valley early today. He was the father of Coley White, present sheriff of Travis county.

CHARGES FACE WOLFFARTH

MAN ARRESTED AFTER CHASE SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Charges of burglary and theft of tools have been filed against Dwight Wolffarth in Justice of the Peace H. K. Porter's court as a result of Wolffarth's arrest Saturday afternoon after a chase in which a deputy sheriff and several other persons participated in the business district.

Wolffarth's arrest followed an attempt by Joe Lynch, operator of a bicycle shop on Thirteenth street, to buy some tools from Wolffarth at the later's home.

An electric drill and other equipment had been stolen from the bicycle shop Friday night, entrance being by a rear window.

Lynch suspected Wolffarth, tried to buy some tools from him, and after the offer to buy some equipment, the two entered the repairman's automobile. When the car arrived at the courthouse, Wolffarth evidently realized he virtually was trapped, and he left the machine.

County officers said they found about $500 worth of automobile and electric accessories at Wolffarth's home. The suspect admitted stealing from the bicycle shop and one other place, the sheriff's department reported. The charges are burglary of the bicycle shop and theft of a bench vise, threading set, reamers, and a garage tool owned by Cap Moore, deputy constable.

MORE VICTIMS

those whose bodies already have been recovered.

Details of the killings came from him little by little, while at the scene four miles from here gangs dug amid throngs of curious and souvenir hunters who almost destroyed the death garage in chipping fragments from it.

Killed With Hammer

He brought the two women and three children to the lonely garage building "about August 1," he said, kept them a while in the dark, airless cubicles of concrete and hollow tile he had constructed secretly in the cellar and then brought them into the light and air above only to die at rope's end and by hammer blows, and suffer crude, clandestine burial.

Harry Eicher, 12, saw his mother killed, Powers said, "but in the middle of it he let out an awful scream. He was afraid the neighbors would hear it so I picked up a hammer and let him have it."

Discovery of his victims, and telling of his confession, seemingly affected Powers little once he had broken and revealed his secret. He ate well, played poker with other prisoners in the county jail, using matches for chips.

At intervals he talked of himself.

Rundolph Valentino was his idol, he said, his hobbies crime—"scientific crime" and sex psychology. His letters, police said, revealed him as a self-assigned student of women. Meanwhile he was professionally a roustabout salesman. Of his early life he would say nothing, beyond that he was born in Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Years ago he began dallying with matrimonial agencies, "for fun," he said. More recently he became "Cornelius O. Pierson,"' civil engineer blocked by professional duties from social contacts, yet longing meanwhile for a woman to share his wealth, his farms in the midwest, his "beautiful ten room house, completely furnished." In that way he met Mrs. Eicher, seeking to extricate herself from pressing debt while seemingly well-to-do herself. Similarly he met Mrs. Lempke, in recent years a resident of Worcester, though in the past a resident of St. Paul, Minn.

East Texas oil field. It expected to issue the order late today, to be effective tomorrow.

Governor R. S. Sterling was expected to confer with the commission as soon as the order was issued, to determine how it would be enforced. It was generally believed the governor would substitute the commission order for his original martial law proclamation August 17 which closed all wells in the field. The result would be to permit reopening of wells in the field and Texas cavalrymen would remain to assist in enforcing the new proration order.

Attorneys believed expected court attacks by oil companies upon the new commission order then would have no effect, martial law superceding civil law in the military area.

The new order was expected to follow closely the terms of the order issued for the field last June, which provided for an allowable of 250,000 barrels daily, with special exceptions which increased the total to approximately 270,000 barrels. The allowable was distributed on an acreage basis of 20 acres to a unit. The old order was generally disregarded, production immediately prior to the shutdown being estimated at between 750,000 and 1,400,000 barrels daily.

Chevrolet Sales Meeting Tonight

Chevrolet automobile salesmen and dealers of the South Plains—probably 40 or 50 of them—will assemble at the Hilton hotel here at 8 o'clock tonight for a district sales meeting.

K. M. Chase, zone sales manager, of Amarillo, called the meeting.

FLASHES OF LIFE

As Brought Over Associated Press Wires Today

(By The Associated Press)

Opinions Differ

NEW YORK — Fannie Hurst believes Americans have something to learn from Scandinavians but it isn't about the enhancement of feminine charms. "Their women hold too solemnly to their own conceptions of dress," she said on returning from abroad. "They are good, healthy, staunch, uncosmeticked women, who do not care so much about looks. Fortunately or unfortunately, I belong to a civilization which believes in aiding and abetting nature."

Modes Change

BERLIN—Die Neue Fraulein ist schlank. Modern German girls, because of athletics and outdoor life, are slender in contrast to the generously upholstered figures of their mothers and grandmothers. Many of them are devotees of the sun tan fad and present well-browned features where one once saw apple red cheeks.

Hunts Bad Weather

WASHINGTON—The cruiser Pensacola has been ordered to sea to find some dirty weather. Navy engineers are anxious to test newly installed anti-rolling tanks and directed the cruiser to go out and find itself a storm somewhere this side of Europe.

Added Inducement

LONG BRANCH, N. J.—"Shipwreck" Kelly, flagpole setter, has an added inducement to stay on his present perch. A constable is waiting at the foot of the pole to execute a judgment for $75 as soon as Shipwreck comes down.

Free Marriages

TULSA, Okla.—The low price of crude oil is of benefit to matrimonially inclined swains and maidens of Tulsa county. Two justices of the peace have offered to perform marriages gratis until the price of oil reaches a dollar.

FARMERS SEEK LEGISLATION

STERLING WIRED OF ACTION TAKEN AT FLOYD MEETING

FLOYDADA, Aug. 31.—Floyd county cotton farmers, following a meeting of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association in Floydada Saturday night, went on record favoring some sort of immediate legislative action relative to curtailing cotton production. They wired Governor Sterling to this effect. There were about 75 at the meeting and discussion on legislation was participated in by eight or ten.

M. S. Hudson, of Hale Center, who is a director of the cotton association, said he had never seen such bountiful crops or such dire need for immediate help to rescue the cotton farmer from a deplorable condition.

"You're sitting on top of the world with crops," he said, "and if you could get what you should for them, you would not be here tonight because you would be satisfied with conditions. The American farmer is forced down as far as he can stand. His back is against the wall and he is faced with the necessity of either gaining complete control of his own business or of turning loose of it altogether and let the other interests take it all."

Charles M. Davis, district manager of the association with headquarters at Lubbock, explained in detail the various services offered the member for handling his cotton.

"The Texas Cotton Cooperative association," he said, "is one of the big businesses of the state. You are a stockholder in one of the largest corporations in Texas. It is worth over a million dollars in acknowledged assets." He said the association handled 615,000 bales last season and expected to get a million bales this year.

COTTON ATTITUDE

have been poured into the governor's office in the last few days.

Nothing was forthcoming from the governor as to when he would reach a decision on the special session.

EYES OF COTTON WORLD ON TEXAS

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 31 (AP)—The whole world is turning its eyes on Texas "where the whole cotton farming industry can be saved or wrecked," Governor Huey P. Long of Louisiana declared today after he had received many telegrams on the cotton situation over the week-end.

The governor said he would not be able to go on a speaking tour as he had hoped, but that the telegrams he was receiving were 99 per cent for the cotton ban plan as outlined in the bill enacted by the Louisiana legislature at a special session last week.

Quick Action Urged

"With practically every farmer in the south clamoring for the law as proposed at the cotton conference held in New Orleans, the whole world turns its eyes to Texas, where the whole cotton farming industry can be saved or wrecked within the next few weeks," the governor said. "There must be immediate action or no action. The cotton farmer will get the benefit of 15 to 20 cent cotton if there is no cotton planting allowed for 1932, but action must be quick, since the crop will have passed from his hands.

"Practically all the farmers' meetings throughout the south have almost unanimously gone on record to outlaw all cotton planting for 1932. The Louisiana legislature has unannimously passed the law and I have signed it. Only the speculators and some of the politicians fail to fall in line. All these programs seeking help from Washington do not interfere with our plan to stop the planting next year. Everyone should get in line now and pull for one plan that suits the farmers, and still carry on whatever fight they wish for United States relief.

"It would be a crime against the farmers of the south if this cotton legislation is not adopted by the states where the relief is needed."

PREFER THE "COOLER"

PITTSBURGH—Helen Killian and Mildred Bender were arrested on one of the recent hot days for shoplifting. Taken before Detective Inspector Boyd, they were met with the question: "How would you like to think it over in a cell?" "Fine," spoke up Mildred. "It's awful hot outside and cells ought to be nice and cool."

SUCH CRUELTY!

CINCINNATI—Ross W. Davis, applying in Domestic Court for divorce, charged his wife with extreme cruelty. He charged that his wife once broke down a door he had locked himself behind for protection. After beating down the door, she beat him, Davis says. On four separate occasions, he alleged, he was cut when his wife struck him and broke his eyeglasses.

THE CIRCUS IS COMING TO TOWN; AL G. BARNES SHOWS HERE, ON SEPT. 11

The circus is coming to town!

Early Friday, September 11, three special trains of the Al G. Barnes circus will roll into the yards here and start unloading and immediately following the old circus lot will be abuzz with activity as preparations get under way for the day's performances.

Tents Cover 12 Acres

Twenty-two tents covering twelve acres of ground will begin to rise in the air and soon the circus will be ready.

Traveling with the great organization are 1,080 employes in addition to 108 advance men.

Earl De Glopper, advance man, arrived today and began preparations for the show's coming.

The famous Al G. Barnes menagerie, declared to be the finest and most complete traveling zoo in the world, is a part of the show. Many new, rare and costly specimens of the wild animal kingdom have been gathered from all parts of the globe. Tapirs, gnues, Vlaak Varks, lions, tigers, camels, dromedaries, zebras, leopards, panthers, yaks, amus, jaguars, elands, seals and three herds of elephants are but a part of the traveling university of natural history.

The wonder spectacle of all time, "Persia," and the Pageant of Pekin, is used this season as a prelude to the circus proper. An immense theatre would be naught compared with the five rings that give play to this supreme epic of all dramatic expression. More than 1,000 men, women, horses, camels and elephants take part in this pantomime of enchantment. Upwards of $70,000 was expended on wardrobe. The mighty audiences which daily greet the magnificent production are among the largest that have ever been drawn together in the history of the amusement world.

Stars from eighteen foreign countries, respective champions in their line, participate in the gigantic display of arenic numbers. The trained wild animal displays are headed by Miss Babel Stark, Johnny Myers and Capt. Terrell Jacobs. In massive steel girted arenas will be seen performing lions, tigers, jaguars, and pumas, all subjugated by master trainers.

Co-Op Head Against Cotton Prohibition

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 31 (AP)—U. Benton Blalock, of Raleigh president of the American Cotton Cooperative association, says "any plan to absolutely prohibit the planting of cotton in the south next year is unwise."

If it could be put into practice, he said, it "would be playing entirely too much into the hands of the other cotton producing countries."

"The cotton cooperatives favor limiting production in 1932, but not prohibiting it entirely," Blalock said.

Huge Sunflower To Be Shown At Fair

A huge sunflower measuring over 12 inches across the pistil, and about 20 inches in diameter when measurement is made from petal extremities, was brought into town Saturday by W. E. Graham, jr., who said the flower was grown in the garden of W. A. Wood two miles west of Morton. The stalk supporting the huge bowl was between six and seven feet in height, it was said.

"This flower measures nearly 63 inches in circumference at the outer rim of the petals and I don't believe Ripley himself has seen one any bigger," Mr. Graham said. "At least I never have seen another as big and I came from the country where lots of them grow."

The plant is being given to the fair association for exhibit during the South Plains fair. The seed of the plant is used for chickens feed by farmers on the Plains who cultivate it, Mr. Graham said.
