GUARANTY BANK BILL REPORTED

BAKER'S MEASURE FAVORABLY REPORTED BY THE COMMITTEE.

DISCUSSION TO START

This Afternoon If Motion Prevails That the Measure Not Be Printed.

Texas News Service Special. Austin, Tex., Mar. 22.—The house committee on banks and banking at 1 o'clock today reported favorably the guaranty bill by Baker of Hood. A motion will be made this afternoon that the bill be not printed, as it was printed during the regular session and its discussion may begin in the house this afternoon.

Senators Discuss Health Board Bill. Texas News Service Special. Austin, Tex., Mar. 22.—The senate today accepted the invitation to visit Uvalde next Thursday.

The senators spent this morning discussing the health board bill, but by noon had only reached the sixth section. There will be some contest over approving the provision for members to accept transportation from railroads. The opposition is being led by Terrell of Bowie.

Bachelor's Honeymoon Great Comedy. In spite of much opposition in the way of amusements Saturday night, "A Bachelor's Honeymoon" drew a large and fashionable audience at the Wichita Theater, and to say they were enthusiastic is putting it mildly. The play is a very laughable comedy, full of original lines and situations. The company is better than the ordinary and probably pleased as well as anything seen at the Wichita since the opening, including the high priced plays. J. G. Anderson as Bachelor and Alice DeLane as Juno Joyce did very clever work and special mention should be made of Earl Wallace, the pretty little Grae sisters and Roy Churchill, who, by the way, has a magnificent voice and sang the New York success, "If I Had a Thousand Lives," in a delightful manner. Caroline Flournoy as "Minerva" was particularly good.

William Winter Loff as "Dr. Schwartz" made a hit. His dialect is perfect and the part one of the best in the piece. His work was somewhat marred at times by a listlessness and lack of expression, while at other times he showed himself capable of the best in the part. All in all, a highly pleased audience left the theater and Manager Bean is receiving compliments on all sides today.

Ex-Sheriff Pope Is Dead. Tulsa, Ok., Mar. 22.—John I. Pope, ex-sheriff of Jackson county, died this morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. E. Howard. He was 73 years old and was a Confederate Army captain under General Joe Shelby, and pursued Jesse James after the Blue Cut train robbery.

TAG DAY PROCEEDS WERE $242.60

The Ladies of the Civic League have the neat little sum of $242.60 in their treasury resulting from the sale of tags on last Saturday. The money will be used in caring for and improving the city park near St. Mary's academy and in furthering other civic work in which the good women are interested. Tag Day was a most gratifying success and more money was donated this year than last, when $183 was raised.

CLARK WILL SPEAK FOR MINORITY

By Associated Press. Washington, D. C., Mar. 22.—Both houses of Congress will assemble at noon today. Practically the only business to come before the senate will be the organization of committees.

Soon after the house convenes, the new tariff bill will be laid before it for discussion. Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee Payne will deliver the opening speech in support of the bill, and Champ Clark, leader of the minority party in the house, will follow in a speech in opposition to the measure, and is expected to make a vigorous attack upon many of its provisions.

BELIEVE WAURIKA EXTENSION WILL BE MADE SOON.

A special car of railroad officials was out over the line Wednesday. An unusual interest has been manifested in the north end of the Wichita Valley for some time. It is generally understood that work on the extension to Waurika will soon begin.—Byers Seachlight.

HAS RECORD FOR HOUSE BUILDING

J. B. Marlow has let the contract to Brown & Cranmer for the construction of twelve new houses, upon which work has already started. Nine of these houses are located in the Crescent Lake addition and three across the Fort Worth and Denver tracks. The contract calls for the completion of all these houses within forty days.

Mr. Marlow, since January, 1908, has probably built more new houses than any other man in the city of Wichita Falls, and when the twelve new houses mentioned are completed he will have built thirty-one houses within the eighteen months named.

IRRIGATION TO BE EXTENDED

BETWEEN 1500 AND 2000 ACRES TO BE ADDED TO THE IRRIGATION AREA.

WATER FROM BIG LAKE

Will Be Raised By Centrifugal Pump to Flood Fertile and Highly Productive Tract.

The Lake Wichita Irrigation Company is planning to add between 1500 and 2000 acres to the land under irrigation by that company.

The new land to be placed under irrigation lies immediately below the lake dam and comprises some of the most fertile and productive soil to be found anywhere in the State of Texas. The water for a portion of this acreage will be brought to the land by simple gravitation. The higher portion, however, will be watered through the use of a centrifugal pump. Engineer Thompson of the Wichita Falls Route, was out at the lake Saturday locating the site of the pumping plant.

It is planned to place the new acreage under irrigation in time for use on this season's crops.

GOHLKE RETURNS FROM TRIP IMBUE WITH EXCURSION IDEA

The Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce is being held up as an example in all of West Texas, said Secretary Gohlke on his return from attending a banquet of the Hereford Commercial club last Saturday. "We are getting a lot of good advertising out of it and the progress of the city is being talked about. Hereford raised an additional $1500 after the tourists were responded to, making their revenue between $4000 and $5000 for this year. They will employ a secretary at $150 per month and are now casting about for one."

The land men of Hereford and Amarillo are bringing in many land buyers. They are mostly speculators but many are locating and tilling the soil about Hereford. Hereford has a beautiful country around it, but land values are considerably higher than in this section, and I have come back more convinced than ever in early deductions that there is nothing but rapid progress in front of Wichita Falls. I am also convinced, notwithstanding the contrary opinion of some of our local people, that a direct excursion to Wichita Falls would discount time in settling this section. The real estate men could afford to run an excursion into this country at great expense and be far ahead of the game. They are selling land in the Panhandle in chunks during the regular excursions and at higher prices than here.

"While at Stamford, a representative told me that he had lined up thirty prospectors in Illinois, but owing to having to make a side trip they would not get off at the changing place but continued to the end of their ticket. The sooner the excursion idea is worked the better, as someone before long will get in here and pluck the fruit from our local people, although it will be a boon for the country."

DEFENSE WILL PLEAD EMOTIONAL INSANITY.

By Associated Press. Jackson, Miss., Mar. 22.—The case of William Sorsby for the murder of Postoffice Inspector Fitzgerald at Clinton, Miss., was called for trial here today. The court was thronged with spectators. On the request of the defense the proceeding were postponed until 3 o'clock this afternoon. Over seventy-five witnesses have been summoned. It is the evident intention of the defense to enter a plea of emotional insanity.

HARRIMAN HEARING BEGINS IN ST. LOUIS.

By Associated Press. St. Louis, Mo., Mar. 22.—Hearings were begun this morning in the Federal court before a special examiner in the government's suit to declare the merger of the Union and Southern Pacific lines by E. H. Harriman a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

AUTREY MURDERED FOR FIFTY CENTS

ADDITIONAL DETAILS OF DOUBLE MURDER ON FORT WORTH & DENVER TRAIN.

ROBBER KILLED TWO MEN

Thump Blew Out Brains of Stranger, Threw Out His Body and Then Fatally Wounded Another.

Texas News Service Special. Fort Worth, Tex., Mar. 22.—That Floyd Autrey of Fort Worth was killed on a Fort Worth and Denver train near Clarendon for fifty cents, which he had admitted possessing, is the story of his cousin, Fred Garrett, who came here today. Garrett says that the murderer entered the car, asked Autrey and Garrett for money with which to tip the brakeman for a ride. Autrey said that he had a half a dollar. A minute later he was shot from the back by a stranger named Miller. Autrey says that Miller jumped from the car at Giles.

Texas News Service Special. Amarillo, Tex., Mar. 22.—That O. B. Miller, under arrest at Claude, participated in the train fight at Clarendon, resulting in the death of Floyd E. Autrey and one unidentified man, is the opinion of Sheriff Snyder, who returned here this morning after talking to Miller. The prisoner was identified by Brakeman Scully of the Fort Worth and Denver road, who had ejected him several times. That the dead man found at the Estelline bridge was also on the train is indicated by a blood-soaked coat found in the car, conforming to the man's other clothing.

The Amarillo Panhandle of Saturday publishes the following account of the tragedy:

Bespattered with blood two box cars arrived in Amarillo this forenoon from the south over the Fort Worth and Denver City railway, telling of a dual murder committed at an early hour this morning beyond Clarendon, at the hands of an unknown criminal, whose only excuse for bloodshed must have been the securing of small sums of money believed to have been possessed by his victims.

Just as the freight pulled into Giles a young man sprang from a box car and came running to the engine, shouting to the crew that his cousin, Floyd Autrey, had been shot and killed and he himself was wounded. Hastening to the car so lately abandoned by the almost frantic man, who proved to be Fred Garrett of Fort Worth, Autrey was found in dying condition with two bullet wounds in his body. The assailant was seen disappearing down the tracks in an opposite direction to that being taken by the train.

The train was in charge of Conductor Lyons of this city. C. E. Oakes Jr., also of Amarillo, was a member of the crew. Both of the gentlemen being present when the disclosures were made, inspected other empty box cars and found that another car, just one car removed from the one in which young Autrey was killed, a large pool of blood in the center of the floor, while evidence clearly proved the fact that a man, who evidently had been fairly well dressed, had been shot through the head. About on a line with the man's head are quantities of brain and some hair, telling plain that words could possibly do that today's tragedy was a double one.

A necktie of a late and fashionable pattern was found upon the floor of this second car, telling of the struggle that was waged before the assailant got his chance to send his victim into eternity through the use of a deadly weapon which he used with such telling effect.

This tragedy was enacted as the train whirled forward, the sound of its wheels and engine making impossible the help for which the doomed man doubtless called. The murderer then threw the body of his victim from the train as it was nearing Estelline, later to be found by a posse searching for the assassin.

The murderer then evidently climbed out of the bloody car, went to the second car below and found the cousins, Floyd Autrey and Fred Garrett. These young men being well dressed, he had no doubt thought that they had money and the second tragedy followed.

Fred Garrett excitedly detailed to the crew that while he and his cousin were in the car, the man entered. The stranger said:

"Have you fellows anything with which to fix the 'con'?" They assured him that they had a little money and would be glad to make his passage sure. He seemed to be pleased, according to the story of Garrett. In this state the journey was continued until the town of Giles was being neared, when the stranger whipped out his revolver and opened fire.

Garrett remained only long enough to see the writhing body of his cousin upon the floor of the car. He leaped but just as he did so and the engineer was applying the air to the train, a bullet caught him in the back. He made his way to the engine and made known the situation.

Officers at Giles were notified soon as possible, but before the true inwardness of the tragedy had been realized by the little town, the murderer had succeeded in putting a goodly distance between himself and those who sought to overtake him.

The posse found the body of the first victim cast out alongside the track near Estelline. The dead man has not been identified and is undoubtedly a stranger in this part of the country.

ADJOURNMENT IS PROBABLE SOON

SOLOS SURE AT GOVERNOR AND WILL IGNORE THE PLATFORM DEMANDS.

RESOLUTION TO ADJOURN

Will Be Introduced at Once and Only Appropriations Will Be Considered From Now On.

Texas News Service Special. Austin, Tex., Mar. 22.—The house members are preparing a bitter battle on Reedy's resolution rescinding the vote to permit Kennedy's formal resignation from being printed in the house journal. The resolution will likely come up late this afternoon and the lines of strength for and against the administration will be strongly defined.

With a sine die adjournment likely in a few days, despite the governor's demands unfulfilled, legislative observers look for a fierce clash between Governor Campbell and the law makers.

The letter circulated by the Commercial Secretaries, ridiculing the governor's demands and advising the members to act on appropriations, side-stepping the recommendations, appears to have found a responsive note in the capitol hall. It is predicted here that if a test of administration strength against the anti-administration forces is made, it will prove that the latter are in control.

The adjournment resolution will be introduced immediately and the special session brought to a close.

Practically none of the governor's demands have been acceded to. If the members force adjournment without enacting any of the special session laws, it will be up to the governor to submit the general appropriations, subject at once or recall the legislature for that purpose. The prevailing sentiment is one of bitter resentment to the governor's high handed tactics, and many members of the house assert that he will be made to feel his waning strength.

A FAMOUS LIBRARY.

Origin of the System of "Boning" For College Examinations.

Just before examination time college students begin to study at top speed. Usually they call that unwonted occupation "cramping," "grinding" or "boning." The first, of course, means literally stuffing knowledge into themselves. The second was suggested by the phrase about keeping one's nose to the grindstone. But how about "boning"? It was a grateful student who thus dubbed the process of absorbing information, for he named it after the "trot" or "pony" that he used.

It was the famous Bohn library of translations to which the English student resorted as an ever ready help in time of trouble. Henry George Bohn started his library in 1846 and began what afterward became a big business. For one thing, he began purchasing "remainders"—that is, the old plates of standard works and translations—and printing cheap editions from them. Bohn found the publishing of standard foreign works in English so profitable that he developed the business, and it used to pay to buy translations from poor hack A. B.'s who were glad enough to get a farthing or two for their knowledge.

Finally practically all the ancient classics and some modern ones were obtainable in the Bohn library, and so popular did they become among students who feared being plucked that Bohn's German was turned into English, and "boning" was henceforth recognized as digging into dead writers' works by means of the crafty publisher's translations.—New York Tribune.

VOODOOISM IN HAITI.

The Vexed Question of Human Sacrifice in the Worship.

That the hold which the voodoo worship has on the people of Haiti is stronger than the power of the church is shown by the fact that the day before the writer's inspection of a voodoo temple in the mountains, where he saw six gongkiki drums, a Roman Catholic priest had visited the district and made his ministrations conditional on the people destroying their instruments, but they refused. The government does not, as a rule, interfere with the practices of the cult on account of the political influence of its leaders.

The question whether human flesh is now eaten in connection with the voodoo ceremonies is a perplexing one, which it is impossible to answer with any degree of confidence. Local opinion is divided on the matter. Some assert that the practice is secretly in vogue; others categorically deny it. No one can be found to state that he has been an eyewitness of any such sacrifice. The conclusion which the writer came to is that there is no organized human sacrifice taking place as a part of the voodoo ceremonial, but that in ordinary life an occasional instance of cannibalism occurs—as murder cases occur in civilized countries—where the perpetrator, probably from a tribe of anthropophagi, becoming temporarily insane or highly excited, reverts to the aboriginal habit. It should be added that public opinion generally reprobates the act, and the educated Haitian is thoroughly ashamed of the dark stain which lies upon his country.—London Times.

A Pious Advertisement.

Moral mission of the most ingenious kind is evident in the following advertisement printed in the Pennsylvania Gazette for June 23, 1787. The author of this little masterpiece is supposed to be no other than Franklin himself. "D. F.," then, stands for Deborah Franklin:

"Taken out of a pew in the church some months since a Common Prayer Book bound in red, gilt and lettered D. F. on each cover. The person who took it is advised to open it and read the eighth commandment and afterward return it into the same pew again, upon which no further notice will be taken."

The Surprise.

"That's one of the biggest surprises I ever got," said the theater manager.

"How did you get it?"

"See that man over there? He came to my office and told me that we were having a lot of bully shows this season. Said last week's production was the best yet and that he'd sent all his friends to see it. Went on to say that his favorite actor was with this week's show and he'd break his neck to get here."

"Well, where does the surprise come in?"

"He left without asking for a pass."

—Cleveland Leader.

Why Papa Was Still.

"Harold," said his mother, "you were very restless in church this morning. Why couldn't you keep still, like your father?"

"I don't know, mamma," replied the observant youngster, "unless it was 'cause I wasn't asleep."—Chicago News.

Her Query.

"Where is my husband's valet?"

asked Mrs. Sorer.

"He is fitting on Mr. Sorer's new boots, ma'am," the butler answered.

"And is my husband with him?" she inquired.—New York Press.

A Distinction.

SENDS BACK THAT BORROWED MONEY

Comanche, Ok., Mar. 20.—John B.
Campbell, absconding assistant cashier
of the First National Bank of Comanche, has returned $5,000 of the money
with which he escaped Tuesday night and, with it, in a letter written from Denver, Colorado, declares that the money was taken while he was under the influence of liquor and that,
since sobering, he is anxious to clear himself. The money was sent in two $3,000 drafts to the Waurika National bank, and returned to Comanche this morning. Campbell is still short $600, but says he will make this good shortly and the officers of the bank here have withdrawn their offer of reward.

Campbell selected a time when both president and cashier of the bank were in Fort Worth, Texas, and, fixing the time lock on the safe at twenty hours,
took the funds, all in gold currency,
and left on a midnight train. The bank could not be opened until noon the next day.

In his letter written from Denver
March 17 he declares himself very repentant, but states that he left Denver immediately, so no trace of him
can be found. President Wade Atkins, however, has no desire to push the pursuit and declares the affair is settled so far as they are concerned.

His friends are jubilant over the happy termination of the unfortunate affair and feel greatly relieved to know that he was possessed of the usual characteristic spirit to do the right thing. Campbell has borne an excellent reputation and his friends knew that he was drunk or he never would have committed such an unusual act.

He has a father, mother and brother in Comanche, and has always been prominent in the town. At the time of his flight, he was city treasurer of Comanche.

CLEAN-UP DAY PROCLAMATION.

Wichita Falls, Tex., Mar. 17, 1909.
I, T. B. Noble, Mayor of the City of Wichita Falls, at the request of many of the good citizens of the City of Wichita Falls, Texas, do hereby designate and set apart Tuesday, the 6th day of April, 1909, as cleaning up day,
and hereby request all the citizens of the city to cease from their usual occupations and close their places of business and devote the entire day to cleansing and beautifying our city. And I do hereby declare the said day a legal holiday.

T. B. NOBLE, Mayor.

The Texas Commercial Secretaries have done and are now doing a great work for the commercial advancement of Texas, but when that organization takes it upon itself to advise the legislature to adjourn before it carries out the demands of the democratic party, it places itself in the attitude of being a greater body than the democratic party. The people of Texas—and by that term is meant the democratic party—made a demand for certain laws, and it is the plain duty of the governor of the State to keep calling extra sessions of the legislature until these platform demands have been acted upon in one way or another. If the democratic party expects to remain in control of Texas, it cannot hope to do it by adopting a platform and riding into office on it, only to disregard the platform after it has the offices. In placing itself in the attitude of defying the will of the democratic party, the Commercial Secretaries' Association will only succeed in raising a big dust, and if the organization is not careful, this cloud of dust which it is kicking up is going to fly back into their own faces. There is nothing greater in Texas than the democratic party. It is the only hope of the State, and to turn the party down at the suggestion or dictation of any organized body would be foolishness. Let the legislature carry out the letter the platform demands, and then adjourn. But to adjourn before that is done would be a rank betrayal of a trust imposed by the party to which every member of the present legislature, with the exception of one, owes his election. It is all right for the Commercial Secretaries' Association to use its influence to prevent the enactment of any further laws, which, in the judgment of that organization, would be detrimental to the business interests of Texas, but when it places itself in opposition to the democratic party, one or the other must go down in defeat, and it is comparatively an easy matter to pick out the winner in such a contest.

From the looks of things at this distance, ex-Senator Thomas, who was fired out of the senate for "making charges which he could not prove," is going to be sent back to take his seat by a bigger majority than that by which he was elected in November. He had three opponents to start with, but now there is only one, and he meets with many such frosts as he received in Mount Pleasant and Titus county, there will be no excuse for him to remain in the contest. The people of that district seem determined to let the upper house of the Texas legislature know in a most emphatic manner they are capable of selecting their own representative.

Dr. C. C. Young's famous herd of Karakul sheep, of which the great papers of the East have had so much to say for the past two or three months, arrived by express on yesterday from the government quarantine station for livestock in New Jersey.

As has already been stated, these sheep were imported from Bokhara, Asia Minor, at a cost of something like $7,000, and the doctor has had a great deal of trouble with the United States government in getting them to pass quarantine inspection.

There are fifteen grown sheep in the herd and seven lambs. They do not differ with the American sheep except as to their caudal appendage, which is more like an elephant's ear than that of a sheep's tail.

This herd of sheep is on exhibition within an enclosure on Indiana avenue between Eighth and Ninth streets.

Law Regulating Decency on Trains is Insufficient

It would seem that as fast as the righteous people acted in their wrath and put down a nuisance, another hobo would take its place. Rather, is made more manifest by the subjugation of others. A commendable law was passed to prohibit drinking intoxicants on passenger trains, and the travelling public will testify that it has been beneficial to a great extent. Now, however, another form of hoodlums has sprung into the limelight. If we take the following from the Rotan Advance as a sample:

"Monday night two young men between the ages of sixteen and twenty-two boarded the west-bound Central train at Hamlin, on which a modest, innocent little girl, a stranger to these young hoodlums, and a widow's daughter, was on her way to this city. These youngsters immediately upon entering the car began annoying her. They appropriated the seat by her side and began to get familiar. They used all sorts of insulting, disgusting proposals. If she had had a male relative near with as much grit as a jack rabbit, the young slinks would have gotten their breeches kicked off them. Unfortunately, however, there was not a real grown man on the train. The conductor allowed the disgusting business to go on until the boys reached their destination. There was no one on the train to take her part, consequently the young bucks persisted in offering her every form of nauseating insults. Remember, this was a young girl, barely in her teens—young, innocent and without worldly experience. Who knows the influence for bad this experience will be on the life of this tender girl? Suppose this had been your girl? Well, you would have gone on a still hunt with a shotgun loaded with nails; yet we sit meekly by and allow such stock to go on unmolested. Has it come to the point where we cannot send our girls alone a few miles without an armed guard? It is not always the case that the girl is blameless, but in this case she was not only not to blame, but helpless. There is a growing tendency among the men of the present day to disrespect women. A halt must be called sometime, somewhere, and when it is such curs as these will suffer."

WHIPPING POST REVIVED AT LAWTON.

Lawton, Ok., Mar. 22.—The historic whipping post, a relic of barbarism, some folks would term it, has been revived in Lawton by Chief of Police Heck Thomas in the punishment of a man named Lewis, convicted of publicly insulting small school girls.

Lewis had several times insulted the girls as they were passing the railway yards, and upon the occasion of his latest insult, he was captured by the police. Immediately afterward, and without offering defense, was convicted. Believing that no ordinary punishment under the law was adequate, Chief Thomas decreed that he should receive thirty-nine lashes from a wooden paddle, on the bare skin. Patrolman John Landzester acted as executioner of the order and, when the order was carried out, Lewis was given the suggestion by bystanders that, if found in the city the following day, he might be hanged. He left.

Solid Ripe Tomatoes

Most of the ordinary canned tomatoes that you buy are packed by machinery and as tomatoes after being peeled are very easily broken and mushed up, the machinery method of packing makes it almost impossible to deliver to you whole canned tomatoes.

That's why the packers of Monarch Tomatoes pack by hand, that is the girls who peel them place them in the cans by hand and the cooking is done by steam.

This leaves the tomatoes entirely whole.

Perfectly solid, but ripe tomatoes only are used and a variety that has a very pleasing flavor.

Every day women who have called previously and ordered, this brand of pineapples come and repeat the order.

No other pineapple can compare with this brand in quality.

Just as concord grapes are far superior to wild grapes because of the careful cultivation and care, so Hawaiian Pineapples through care and cultivation in a most perfect climate makes them very much superior to other brands.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

One Heart Makes Glad.

From the Dellagator.
It was an uncomfortable, windless
day. The sun shone through the mist of haze and heat, the road and roadside grass and bushes were gray with dust and the car was nearly filled with weary faced people. The previous car had jumped the track and some of us were anxious and cross, fearing that the delay meant missing the train at the junction.

Another stop, this time to take up two passengers at a crossroad, one of whom was a stout old lady, who said,
"Thanky, dear!" to the conductor,
who helped her on. Her hair was silver white, and her face was wrinkled, but, oh, the sweet beauty of it! She beamed on us, one and all, as if we were welcoming friends, and then settled happily in her seat.

"La, now! ain't this 'ere car nice, Lizzie? The last time we went from your house to visit Carrie we rode in a wagon! It is truly wonderful how things is improvin'! But, land sakes!
one can't hev ever' thing!"

Soon we halted at a switch and some one said:

"Oh, dear, another wait! And isn't it hot?"

"Prime weather for corn," answered the dear old grandma. "We've got a patch nigh onto an acre, with three plantin's in it, so we'll hev b'illin' corn clear up to frost! This sun and heat is wonderfu' sweetnin' to the ears! An' we've got melons, too."

Every one of us smiled and wished that she was our very own grandma
and that we could visit her in her up-country home, have a feast of that sweet corn and, better still, forget our world-frets and hurts in the presence of simplicity and overflowing loving kindness!

Cheese and Cheese Dishes.

Too little attention is paid to the food value of cheese. Meat may be omitted at a meal and if a cheese dish is substituted the food element will be about the same.

The food value of cheese is fully realized abroad. Among the hardy Swiss it is a staple food, second only to bread. Among the Italians and Germans cheese is used instead of meat.
While most wholesome, uncooked, it adds flavor and variety to many cooked dishes. In all high class Italian restaurants in this country and abroad a small dish of grated Parmesan cheese
is brought on with the soup, each adding the amount to suit his taste. Considered from an economical standpoint,
the use of cheese is to be highly recommended. It is especially rich in fats and proteins. The time and manner of ripening gives the different flavors
and textures to cheese.

Here are a few good ways of using cheese:

Cheese Timbales.—Place in timbale cups alternate layers of bread and American cheese a custard with a bit of onion and mustard added. Bake in a pan of hot water.

Cheese and Currant Salad.—One of the prettiest of salads is made by mixing cream cheese with finely chopped lettuce. Shape in balls, arrange on lettuce leaves and serve with French dressing and Bar le Duc currants.

Peevish Women.

Exchange.
Following are the set of rules suitable for adoption by women who are discontented with home duties, office
work and life in general:

1. We have no vacations. Vacations may in some instances be useful to very young girls far from home, in order that they may, if desired, renew family acquaintance. Vacations are mischievous.

2. The Holy Scripture says an account must be taken for every idle
word spoken; therefore, no pink teas, no mothers' meetings and no back fence gossip.

3. We have no pastime; we cut the kidding, make the children's clothes,
clean the cellar and take physical exercise cleaning out the garret twice a year. Early in the spring we rake the yard.

4. We have no pocket money. As we never go any place we never need to buy pretty dresses; so we live in wrappers kimonos. We sometimes save from 4 1/2 to 10 cents a week on the grocery bill. We give it to the church.

5. We are not modern Solomons,
but we think we are wise (?).

6. We chastise the children when they do wrong and when we suspect

they do wrong or contemplate it.

7. Office girls are warmly attached to their office duties and sincerely hostile to vacations, knowing they can't afford them.

8. Our love for our neighbor is sterilized, and we call a special session of lamentation when she locks up the house, sends her children to her mother, and spends housecleaning season at Palm Beach.

The Collarless Blouse.

The square Dutch neck—which does not sound very original—is, nevertheless, the newest neck idea for summer, is predicted as the popular feature in the ready-to-wear blouse. It is not a low-cut, but just escapes being high,
and its coolness may be its recommendation when the warm weather comes on apace.

It is a very becoming shape that may suffer from overpopularity, but yet may be saved by some of the most perfectly crocheted neckpieces of Irish lace
that are made in the square-cut yoke pattern. They are not a lace-edged collar, but are intended and used for incorporation in the handkerchief linen blouse that fastens at the back.

When the Irish lace is beyond reach,
an excellent substitute may be found in a mitered insertion of heavy cluny, antique or Maltese lace. Again, the square yoke of heavy linen, hand embrodered in English eyelet work, makes an effective Dutch neck for the blouse of handkerchief linen. This little model, with its square collarless finish about the throat, is the afternoon blouse, and will be welcomed by devotes of the low Paritan collar for morning wear.

Bronze Footwear.

By a natural mingling of the olive tones, the 'laurel' greens and Havana
browns, we arrive at a bronze color,
and it has hit at our footgear first.
Both shoes and stockings are offered in the most attractive glossy bronze.
The stockings are necessarily silk, to show the same lustre that the bronze kid holds.

There are pumps of a new and comfortable shape, and Oxford ties, both of them for street wear, and fastened with ribbon bows to match.

The lightblack has been promised bronze polish in the best shades for these new shoes. The stockings in this new color shade to either a green or a brown. Some of them are drop-stitch in weave, others are embroidered in colors to match, and still others are waiting for a monogram on the in-step, which, if allowable at all, must positively be so close a match as to be only a satisfaction to the wearer.

Metallic Fabrics.

The most fascinating counters in the shops these days are those where they sell the adorable new metallic chiffons and gauzes which have appeared this year. The introduction of metal into the costumes of the present makes the difference in the richness of their appearance, and as subdued magnificence is the cry of the day, the results are very satisfactory.

For spring clothes no one need have the slightest fear in buying these new materials, for their appearance upon any fairly dressy material is quite proper, even for daytime wear. Of course, no one would think of lavishing gold and silver upon any cotton material. This would be a breach of taste that we need not even consider in this enlightened age.

Summer Petticoats.

Last summer it was the custom to button to the under side of your lingerie petticoat a ruffle of silk. The idea was that the skirt itself could be quite washable, but that the ruffle,
the stiffening and the mainstay of the garment, could be detachable and could,
therefore, be worn for several weeks without a visit to the cleaner. This spring it so happens that the silk ruffle is decidedly out, that madame no longer goes rustling through life. On the contrary, her steps are stealthy and quiet. Do you remember that delightful piece of fiction where the young and handsome hero falls in love with the beautiful maiden because she enters the room softly, with no fanfare of rustling silk? That is exactly the ideal for this summer.

ANYTHING IN WOODWORK.

A Sick Girl's Heroic Deed Recognized at Washington.

This city is splendidly stocked with the finest variety of food, field and forest products. I must admit that the people are prone to them unexpectedly and especially but one of the most popular is the Jennie McCann, who was the United States champion to Washington, D. C. a gold medal awarded to her for having saved nine lives. Several years ago the German steamer General Schmitt was destroyed by fire, as were many of her passengers who were all drowned. Jennie McCann, then only thirteen years old and coming from typhoid fever, was lying on a bedstead near the stern of the ship, seeing the moving mass of flames she hurried to the shore and out into the water, where she rescued, one by one, nine different children who had jumped overboard. She had thrown over in the hope that drowning might be a less agonizing death than burning. I want to be the kind of job that a doctor or a whole college of doctors would have selected for me. I had had typhoid fever, but it was one that heated my blood and I was the only person at hand to do it, so she does not yet understand why such a fuss is made over her and why the leaders of both Houses of Congress thought it best for her to be present at the formal giving of the medal. As to the children who were rescued from the old ship, they have heard of heroic women, they think more likely of Jennie McCann than of Boudicca and La Leche and Florence Nightingale and Joan of Arc combined and their parents and friends are of the same opinion.

laboring for philanthropy's sake. Fletcherism—that is, unvarying fast-chastity—is supported not by the fad class and ranked itself with practical financial and philanthropic enterprises, for the announcement is out that the Christian Endeavor Society, which has about two million members in the United States, is adopting it as a means of saving money for the Society's work. And family can save a dollar a week by adopting the Fletcher foods and eating them in the Fletcher manner, nearly a quarter of a million Christian Endeavor families have already promised to do so and about a million are yet to be heard from. But even a quarter of a million dollars per week amounts to nearly a million's a year, which is more than all the religious societies in the land seen in the course of a year, and if the remaining families take up Fletcherism—and if the established custom of the Society for all its members to pull together, the fund should exceed fifty millions a year. This would be enough to put a well-paid, high moral sleuth on to every common sinner in the United States, several on every monopolist, painted-money millionaire and half a dozen on every member of Congress. Saving money by cutting down table expenses is not a new idea; countless people have tried it yet never been able to show the cash that was saved, but the Endeavorers are clever enough to corral the dollars as fast as they are saved.

And quietly and confidently as if it might have been built in a day, and in order too, had the Romans been able to engage an American to show them how, this city which has been planning a new city within itself—one bigger and costlier than ancient Rome, quite as big as modern Rome, and far better and richer—Down in the southeast corner of Greater New York there are many square miles of islands and creeks and marshes and lagoons and overgrown lands and general desolation collectively known as Jamaica Bay. To present it isn't good for much but for fishing is or to develop a self without fear, that the remains may turn up to incur funeral expenses. A few rich squanderers assisted by a few common laborers could transform it quickly into a modern Venice without a trace of decay, but Venices are ill equipped to stand where the tide rises. A couple of birds twice a day and perhaps a few people when the tide is from the world's greatest seaport New York and the nation's sewer mills are planning to make Jamaica Bay a more popular seaport than New York proper, for it lies ten miles nearer the ocean than Manhattan and is better and more abundant fishing facilities. To do this they must dredge deep channels, dumping the earth on the low lying portions of the mainland shore and on the small barrier islands, some of which are to be connected and all, like the mainland, that to be unhealthful—washed so that ship may lie along a practical shoreline, perhaps directly at a wharfer or receiver's doorway, instead at the end of a pier from a quarter of a mile to ten miles distant from the car to be discharged or taken on. without chasing one another's tanks, as ships have a way of when crowded. The theory is the abundance and cheapness of sailing sites would attract manufacture more than five thousand of the great and small, have been dredged over into New Jersey, and lands more or less down bits of the island, and are needed for other purposes and would bring twenty to two hundred dollars an acre, could the factories be put out of the way. The cheap dock-facilities would attract hundreds of yachtsmen which now simply dare venture into New York, so prohibitive is one of the first changes. As to the other proposed, fifty millions might be made—made a contribution to part of old Florida, famous porters like Uncle Sam, Father Knickerbocker, Minnie Gulliver, later.

Waste Place.

Not of men in this city are savage-town on women's rights for they are that women have already required many rights, one of which is to

there never was a time in New York when a man had to think so much and hustle so hard to keep his place if any competent woman wants it. Such competition used to be laughed at, for employers of women clerks, etc., seemed to think road looks an evidence of business ability, but a man is never too old to cut his mental eyes teeth and many big boys peeks in on and other business houses are now being won by women solely on their merits. The professions themselves exempt from such competition, but the other day an unmarried woman only twenty seven years old, but fully diploma'd in ~~the~~ ~~charge~~ ~~of~~ ~~one~~ ~~of~~ ~~our~~ ~~great~~ ~~hospitals~~. Where next?

Museum Treasures known to few of the Projects.

One of the great disadvantages of living in New York is that a man's hat of town acquaintances may display more knowledge about the city than the resident himself. The latter feels sheepish about it, and resolves to shed his ignorance at the first opportunity—which never comes. I am being reminded of this by friends as far west

The mere annual additions to ~~the~~ ~~of~~ ~~these~~ ~~great~~ ~~collections~~ would make a ~~substantial~~ ~~water~~ ~~house~~ ~~for~~ ~~a~~ ~~city~~ ~~of~~ ~~moderate~~ ~~size~~; for example, the Museum of Art has acquired more than ten thousand new objects in the past two years and the Museum of Natural History has been equally active, setting up, among other things, some gigantic fossils that would make our local drunkards swear off forever could they be shut up with these matters for an hour. There is also a new bird collection, of American species only, which foreign naturalists say is unequalled in Europe for size, beauty and completeness, it is an exhaustive object lesson in American ornithology and all under one roof, although it cost more a hundred thousand and miles of travel, eight years of hard work, and more money than the sivers care to talk about. You may safely bet a thousand to one that no man you meet in the street with interest

AFTER DEATH.

Large Parts of the Body Retain Life For a Time.

To the unscientific citizen it is something of a surprise to learn that large parts of the body are alive and useful after the phenomenon popularly known as death has taken place. Few of us suspect, for example, that our kidneys and hearts after we have died ourselves can in most cases be resuscitated and that if by some surgical miracle they could be transplanted into another body they would quickly resume their functions. This, however, is a well demonstrated medical fact. The human heart has been removed from the body more than thirty hours after death and made to beat again. Dr. Carrel himself has taken the heart from one dog and inserted it in the neck of another, connecting the aorta with the carotid artery of the new heart and the vena cava with its jugular vein. In a few moments the live dog had two hearts rhythmically beating, one recording a pulse of eighty-eight and the other a hundred.

Science has yet framed no precise definition of death. The human body teems and quivers with life, only a small part of which becomes a part of individual consciousness. The healthy man hardly realizes the numerous and complex activities of his internal organs. The alimentary canal is the abiding place of millions of micro organisms, the activities of which only occasionally influence our daily life. Bodily tissue everywhere is constantly breaking down and constantly building up, and yet it is only in the last few years that even science has begun to understand the beautiful chemical reactions involved in the process.—McClure's Magazine.

THE COOK'S INJURY.

Painful to Her and to the Dinner Guests as Well.

There was company at dinner, and the platter in front of the host contained a fine roast of beef. He drew the sharp carving knife across the ringing steel a few times, just because that is a way carvers have, drove the fork deep into the steaming beef, described a scalping knife flourish in the air and gracefully began operations.

Two nice and tender slices clear across the roast had resulted, and he was turning off the third when the blade struck a skewer, made a sliding upward motion and came out at the top, with a result that the proposed slice looked like a frost bitten leaf curled up by the sun.

He could not say intense things in the presence of his guests, but he froze his wife with a look, made a grim joke about the indigestibility of roasted hard wood, inquired whether the butcher also ran a woodyard, dug the skewer out viciously and ordered little Willie, who had made several attempts to tell something, to keep still or leave the table. His evident temper led to an embarrassing silence, and Willie saw an opening that he could not resist.

"Cook has burned her nose orful," he announced.

"Too bad," said the father, whose good humor was coming back. "How did she do it?"

"Trying ter pull them skewers out with her teeth."—London Tit-Bits.

Gringo Songs in '49.

In the gringo days, the days of old, the days of gold, the days of '49, amusements and recreation in California could only be found in the mining towns when a strolling singer made an appearance in some saloon, the admission fee paid by frequent visits to the bar. The words were set to well known ballad tunes, and if the singer "caught on" he or she was rewarded by small nuggets thrown on the improvised table stage. As the old record says, they were "sung with great applause," to which was added the landlord's warning call, "Come, come, gents, don't let the barkeeper go to sleep."—"Out West."

He Swung Her No More.

It was at a suburban dance, and the room was crowded, so much so that it was difficult to get round in the waltz without bumping into other couples every few moments. A young man grew tired of it at last and thought he would suggest sitting out the rest of the dance; so, blurring out the first words that came into his head, he said to his partner:

"I say, there isn't room to swing a cat round here. Let's sit it out!"—London Answers.

What "Borough" Signifies.

The word "burgh" in Saxon stood for "castle," hence towns anciently erected in the vicinity of castles for their protection had this name conferred upon them, and the soldiers who garrisoned these were called burghers, so the inhabitants of these towns received the same name. These also being formed into a community, the constitution formed for their regular government was denominated the borough laws.

The Something.

Young Man (nervously).—There's something about—er—your daughter I—Crusty Pa—Yes, there is. I had noticed it myself. It comes every night about 8 o'clock and doesn't get away until about 11. One of these nights I'm going to peek it into the street and see what it is made of.—Boston Courier.

The Mystified Father.

"Your son," said the schoolteacher, "is very backward in his studies."
"That's funny," mused the father. "At home, in conversation with me, he seems to know it all."—Philadelphia North American.

Really Baked Beans

are greater food value than beefsteak. Experts say Baked Beans have more good health-giving, flesh-building qualities than any kind of meat—which we all eat too much. But they must really be Baked Beans—no the par-boiled kind that has probably caused you to think no beans are good unless home-baked.

The reason why

Heinz Baked Beans

have that delicious home-made flavor is because they are really oven-baked in dry heat—(see the labels) the home way, and come to you fresh in the Heinz Improved Tin, which brings all their natural meaty goodness to your table without the trouble of cooking them yourself. They are guaranteed to please you and handy to have when you need a quick substantial lunch—because always ready to serve. Try them. If you don't like HEINZ BAKED BEANS, we'll give your money back.

Always come to us for things like this.

The Trade Cigar and Napoleon

If Napoleon had been a cigar maker he would have missed Waterloo and exile, but he would also have missed a greatness and glory that will live as long as English, French or any other tongue is a living or dead language. This is no historical essay, but a reminder that we are wont to claim the "TRADE CIGAR" the Napoleon among cigars.

The "Trade Cigar" Made by JOHN ROBERTSON

cigar maker, who for more than nine years has been in continuous business on one street, in fact the second oldest firm on Ohio Avenue, goes to prove, if naught else, that we are "stayers" and "doers" too. Our friends have told us we were too partial to the great Corsican, have in conversation and in advertisement alluded to him too much. But, if you can't be great yourself, the next best thing is to be the associate of great men. To be mediocre is the privilege of all men, to be great is the ability of few. It is easy to grow five feet, difficult to grow seven. Miss reading of Waterloo, miss smoking the "TRADE CIGAR" and you've lost the best and who is so great a loser as he who misses the best.
