TEXAS CATTLE RAISERS' ASSOCIATION CONVENTION FOR ALL OPENED TODAY

Thousands of Delegates and Visitors Present at First Session in Greenwall's Opera House

GUESTS GIVEN A HEARTY WELCOME

Report of Executive Committee Shows Every Department of the Organization to Be in Flourishing Condition

Greenwall's opera house was crowded this morning at 10 o'clock, but there were delayed arrivals, and President Turney did not hurry about calling the twenty-eighth annual convention to order.

The opera house had been decorated for the affair. It was hung in bunting of various colors, the posts being wrapped with the decorations, and the proscenium arch and proscenium boxes were beautifully decorated.

There were many ladies in the audience, and there was a goodly number of Fort Worth people present to give the glad hand and extend a welcome.

The address of the morning took up quite a lot of the time, and then the annual reports were made. The session was very interesting.

ED CROWLEY'S ADDRESS Mr. President, the Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas, Ladies and Gentlemen—I have learned from my experience that it is not good to make apologies or explanations when called upon to make an address to an assembly.

Mr. President, the Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas, Ladies and Gentlemen—I have learned from my experience that it is not good to make apologies or explanations when called upon to make an address to an assembly.

The live stock industry of the United States owes much to the state of Texas. Texas is today considered one of the best breeding grounds in the world, and will always hold such a position in my opinion.

In closing, I wish to say that the cattlemen of the state will always bear in mind that Fort Worth is the leading cattlemen's city, and in other cities of the state are trying to follow in its steps.

matter will be more fully attended to later on in the convention, at which time the packers and railroad people will be given a respectful hearing.

President Turney then referred to the injunction of a Chicago judge against the packers and said that if it be not true that a combination exists, why do not the packers ask for relief from the judge's order?

The Swift Company, he said, has made a profit of 13 per cent on an investment of $25,000,000, and this during the depression in times of depression like the present, but they have not done it.

Mr. Turney denounced the railroads for their ruling that attendants with cattle shipments were not permitted to ride home on a pass.

Mr. Turney deplored the fact that the interstate commerce commission was unable to force its rulings, and referred to the fact that the commission had said that the interstate rates were at least 25 per cent too high.

When he had concluded his remarks, Captain B. E. Padlock presented President Turney with a monster red rose bouquet, the offering of the ladies of the Wednesday Club.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE'S REPORT We, your executive committee, beg to make the following report, covering the transactions of this association for the year ending February 29, 1904, as per the secretary's report.

A DALLAS DELEGATION

Practically the whole population of the Implement City formed a volunteer party this morning for a forlorn hope attack and arriving in battle array with a goodly supply of Mauser buttons prepared to fight for the 1905 convention.

To their intense surprise, however, they realized the fact that those who refuse to see an obvious point hold a mighty strong position, and being received with open arms were soon swallowed up in the composite mass, and forgetting their mission gave themselves up to the enjoyment of the 1904 convention.

THE FAT STOCK SHOW

EXHIBIT IS THE BEST EVER DISPLAYED HERE

QUALITY AND NUMBER OF FINE ANIMALS THAT ARE DISPLAYED EXCITES ADMIRATION OF THE CROWDS AT THE STOCK YARDS—FIRST JUDGING OF EXHIBITS BEGUN THIS AFTERNOON

After the hurried preparations of yesterday and last night, and with the finishing touches put on this morning, the Fort Worth fat stock show began today at 2 o'clock.

Since early morning the crowd has been collecting, and at noon fully two hundred persons were watching the blooded animals as they received their last brushing and scrubbing before the opening.

Small boys hung on the pen fences and exclaimed in wonder at the size and proportions of the animals.

Stockmen, students, news boys, in fact persons of all stations of life, walked through the pens and spoke of the immense bulls as if they were kings instead of only fat cattle.

Now and then through the barn entrance ambled a mighty monarch of the range, sleepily nonchalant and dripping with water; for he had had his morning bath.

Among the shorthorn class, however, J. F. Hovenkamp's bunch was especially attractive, and in the Herefords the herd of B. C. Rhome and those of Mr. Ikard of Henrietta attracted a great deal of notice.

The Red Polls of W. R. Clifton of Waco were also much admired.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock the show was officially begun. Convenient seats have been constructed for the spectators, and the cattle will be judged and prizes awarded directly in front of these seats.

The breeders who have entered cattle for the show are as follows: DURNHAM G. F. Hovenkamp, Fort Worth—Class 10, Royal Gloster, No. 109,253; Baron Red, No. 180,055.

Class 12, Beauty Boy, senior yearling, and Scotch Cup, No. 190,202; Class 14, Victorious III, 215,771; Queen's Cup, No. 259,644.

Class 16, Queen of Gloster V, Class 18, Queen of Texas, Victoria II; Gipsy Queen; Lady Royal, Class 19, Lady Royal; Butterfly XII, Class 20, Victoria Ann III; Tenth Mysterious Lady, Class 21, Laurencia II; Miss Irving, Mr. Hovenkamp also has entries in classes 28, 29 and 30.

J. F. Greer & Co., Gregory Texas—Marcus Apkins, 2-year-old bull and prize winner at Chicago International show, Lad of All, bull calf under 12 months old and prize winner at Chicago; Bell Bigger, bull calf under 12 months and winner of first prize at San Antonio.

Also said herd, composed of four heifers and one bull. This herd took first prize at San Antonio last year.

E. E. Allie, Lexington, Okla.—Ravensworth, Vermont, 3-year-old bull, weight 2,500 pounds, bred by Leonard of Missouri; prize at Oklahoma City.

David Harold, Liberty Hill, Texas—Young Abe's Prize, 3-year-old bull, weight 2,400 pounds and winner of first prize here last year; reported Count Myse, 2-year-old, weight 1,906 pounds; Major Domo, age 1 year; Captain Jenks, age 1 year; calf herd, composed of four heifers and one bull, Major Domo being the bull.

Three of these heifers took prizes at San Antonio.

W. P. Stewart, Jacksboro, Texas—Faultless Preston, 1 year old, weight 820; Sweet Alice, 3 months old, weight 380 pounds.

D. H. Hoover, Davis, I. T.—One Durham unit, No. 172,138, weight 2,600 pounds; J. G. Short, Decatur, Texas—Lord Kettle, No. 214,782, 1 year old, weight 890 pounds; one 10-month-old heifer, weight 700 pounds.

PENNSYLVANIA FLOODS STILL DOING DAMAGE

Suffering at Middletown Is Intense and There Is Much Sickness Among Low-land Residents

SUSQUEHANNA AND DELAWARE RISING Many Gorges Are Reported and Dynamite Is Used to Open Channels

(By Associated Press.) HARRISBURG, Pa., March 8.—The situation in the flooded district is critical and the people are preparing for the worst.

The Y. M. C. A. building there has been transformed into a temporary hospital. There is much sickness among the residents of the low lands.

At the Middletown Iron Company they are blowing holes through the ice with dynamite in an endeavor to open a channel.

At Middletown the suffering is greater than in any portion of the flooded region. The Y. M. C. A. building there has been transformed into a temporary hospital.

There is much sickness among the residents of the low lands. The famous old Middletown ferry, which has stood many floods, was washed off its foundations last night.

DELAWARE SWOLLEN EASTON, Pa., March 8.—A telegram was received in Easton today from the headwaters of the Delaware, stating that the river is rising there and that the ice has broken and that a flood of unusual proportions is sure to follow.

Much damage was done up the Lehigh valley last night.

SUSQUEHANNA STILL RISING WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 8.—The water in the north branch of the Susquehanna river is twenty-eight feet above the low water mark, and it is still rising.

All the lowlands are under water and the towns on the west bank of the river are cut off. Railroads are completely cut off from communication.

Some anthracite mines in the vicinity are flooded.

There is a great ice gorge seven miles south of here, and the back water from it extends to Pittston, sixteen miles away. Another gorge is three miles north of Wilkesbarre, and it is also threatening serious damage.

GORGE AT LANCASTER, PA. LANCASTER, Pa., March 8.—Today a series of gorges from Washington Borough to Turkey Hill gave way, and the ice is moved down to Turkey Hill, where it is firmly gorged.

The lower section of Washington Borough is submerged, and the tracks of the Port Deposit railroad are under from two to six feet of water.

The gorge at Bainbridge, near Columbia, is unbroken, and the water is four feet deep on the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad.

AT SCHENECTADY, N. Y. Fear Expressed That Melting Ice Will Do Much Damage

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., March 8.—The higher temperature has let loose great quantities of water into the rivers, and the creeks flowing into the Mohawk. The ice is from twenty-six to thirty-two inches thick, so when it breaks great damage is feared.

The state authorities are dynamiting the ice two and a half miles above the city, to protect the Erie canal and local factories.

FLOOD AT READING IS RECEDING READING, Pa., March 8.—The flood in the Schuylkill river at this point and at North Reading spent its force by daylight today and the water is slowly receding.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND DON'T KNOW IT

TO PROVE WHAT SWAMP-ROOT, THE GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY, WILL DO FOR YOU, EVERY READER OF THE TELEGRAM MAY HAVE A SAMPLE BOTTLE SENT FREE BY MAIL.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, therefore, when through neglect or other causes, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root will set your whole system right, and the best proof of this is a trial.

Dear Sir: Oct. 15, 1903. "I had been suffering severely from kidney trouble. All symptoms were on hand; my former strength and power had left me; I could hardly drag myself along. Even my mental capacity was giving out, and often I wished to die. It was then I saw an advertisement of yours in a New York paper, but would not have paid any attention to it, had it not promised a sworn guarantee with every bottle of your medicine, asserting that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable, and does not contain any harmful drugs. I am seventy years and four months old, and with a good conscience I can recommend Swamp-Root to all sufferers from kidney troubles. Four members of my family have been using Swamp-Root for four different kidney diseases, with the same good results. "With many thanks to you, I remain, Very truly yours, ROBERT BERNER.

You may have a sample bottle of this famous kidney remedy, Swamp-Root, sent free by mail, postpaid, by EDITORIAL NOTE.—So successful is Swamp-Root in promptly curing even the most distressing cases of kidney, liver or bladder troubles, that to prove its wonderful merits, you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root is so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle. In sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure to say you read this generous offer in The Fort Worth Daily Telegram. The proprietors of this paper guarantee the genuineness of this offer.

The value of the cotton crop will surely amount to $600,000,000 next year, if nothing untoward happens and the increase keeps on at its present rate.

which you may test its virtues for such disorders as kidney, bladder and uric acid diseases, poor digestion, being obliged to pass your water frequently night and day, smarting or irritation in passing, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, headache, backache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, heart disturbance due to bad kidney trouble, skin eruptions from bad blood, neuralgia, rheumatism, diabetes, bloating, irritability, worn-out feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion, or Bright's disease.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling or has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is the great discovery of Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist. Hospitals use it with wonderful success in both slight and severe cases. Doctors recommend it to their patients and use it in their own families, because they recognize in Swamp-Root the greatest and most successful remedy.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is for sale at drug stores the world over in bottles of two sizes and two prices—fifty cents and one dollar. Remember the name, Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Personal injury suits amounting to $38,696,952 against the city of Chicago are now pending, mostly for damages arising from accidents caused by poor sidewalks.

Your committee takes great pleasure in inviting the attention of the members of this association to some facts in connection with this report as compared with former reports.
In our annual report submitted at El Paso, Texas, attention was called to the fact that no special effort had been made to increase the membership of the association, at the same time, requesting every member to strive to secure his law-abiding neighbors and friends to become members. To just the extent this appeal reached and impressed the membership in general, we are not able to state, but we do know, and it gives us great pleasure here to report, that the active working force of the association have almost to a man, responded to that appeal in a way which reflects credit upon them and must convince you that your employes have at least striven to further the interests of the association to the end that members of the association, both old and new may receive greater benefits for the money they pay into the association, and also a proportionate reduction in the expense of maintaining our inspectors and other employes.
By referring to the report herewith submitted, it will be seen that, notwithstanding the fact, we have been confronted with conditions more unfavorable to the cattle industry than for several years past, the association has enjoyed a good, substantial, healthy growth, and, as the figures stand today, we have a membership of 1,500, as against 1,330 as recorded in our last year's report, showing a net increase in membership of 170 members.
In this connection, we beg to call your attention to the very important fact that your committee have found it necessary to drop from the list of membership 202 names, otherwise the net gain would have been 372. Of the 202 names thus dropped from the roll of membership some were paid up voluntarily, whereas others have an honorable discharge from the books of the association, as well as from its membership. The majority of this number, however, were dropped for other reasons, which the committee deem amply sufficient for its action in the premises, delinquents forming the principal part of the list.
While this report shows a good healthy growth in membership and the affairs of the association in fairly good condition, your committee is not satisfied. We believe the field is ripe unto harvest and the laborers too few. Permit us therefore to urge every member of the association to actively co-operate with us and see to it that no good law-abiding citizen of your county or your acquaintance or acquaintance owns fifty head of cattle or more has been overlooked, but that the advantages a membership in this association offers has been fully presented and explained to them by application for their membership sent in. The benefits to be derived by the association from such action on your part, as well as to yourself individually, are apparent and need not here be dwelt upon.
The far-reaching effect and benefits resulting from the operation of this association are too many and too great for discussion here.
The effect of this association's influence cannot be estimated in dollars and cents by any figures at our command. Notwithstanding during the past year our inspectors have caught and saved to our members, 2,633 head of cattle, an increase over the previous year of 255 head. This much we have to present you in figures, and has nothing to do with the immense amount of property which the members of the association, the presence of its inspectors and the vigorous prosecution by its attorney have deterred thieves from molesting.
Before closing this report, the committee, in behalf of the association, desire to again extend thanks to the various sheriffs, rangers and other peace officers of the country who have in the past so cheerfully and willingly assisted us in the detection and apprehension of thieves and bringing them to justice.
We believe also that much credit is due our secretary and general manager, Captain John T. Lyle, his office force, the attorneys of the association and our army of inspectors for efficient and valuable services rendered during the past year and for which they and each of them have the thanks of the committee.

Mr. Wiley Hunt, Ennis, Texas, writes: We gave Drake's Pimento Wine to two children who were afflicted with bed wetting. Two bottles of Drake's Pimento Wine cured both. It is now a month since they took the last of the wine and no return of their trouble. I told a friend of mine that a child troubled same way what the wine did for our children. They got a bottle of Drake's Pimento Wine and in one week the child had no more trouble with bed wetting. The Drake Formis Company, Drake Building, Chicago, Ill. will send a trial bottle of Drake's Pimento Wine free and prepaid to any reader of this paper who wishes to test Drake's Pimento Wine without expense. THEFT CASES
The number of cases which were shown to be pending in which your association was interested at our last report was 61, at 25 different places. There are now on hand 56 cases pending at 25 different places, in Texas, Indian Territory, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas and Colorado.
Of the cases disposed of during the year there were 13 convictions, 7 acquittals, 3 hung juries, and 20 dismissals.
We had to attend the courts at practically all of the places where cases have been reported, sometimes twice during the year. It not infrequently happens that upon investigation it is found that the evidence will not support a conviction, necessitating a dismissal. One of the most prolific sources of escape to one charged with stealing cattle, is the failure of the owner to record his brand properly. We have urged from time to time that members of the association attend to this matter, and many have done so, but others have not. In law a person, firm or corporation can have but one brand in originally branding cattle, and this must be recorded, designating what Badly Shattered Nerves and Weak Heart. Too Nervous to Sleep or Rest.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine Cured Me.
A shattered nervous system nearly always leads to some affection of the heart, especially where the patient's heart is weak from hereditary or other causes. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is not only a great heart regulator, but it is a blood tonic which speeds corrects and regulates the heart's action, enriches the blood and improves the circulation. It will build you up just as it did Mr. Crawford whose letter follows, and greatly improve your general health.
'I have been so greatly benefited by Dr. Miles' Nervine and Heart Cure that I freely recommend them as the best remedies for the diseases they are recommended to cure. When I began taking these medicines I weighed scarcely 140 pounds, my nerves were badly shattered and my heart troubled me a great deal. I had pain in my left arm and shoulder, had difficulty in sleeping on my left side, had frequent smothering spells and my heart would flutter and palpitate. I could eat scarcely any kind of food without suffering great distress, and was so restless and nervous that I slept little night or day. Now I am as well as ever, my heart, my nerves are steady as a die, I sleep well, eat well and weigh 163 pounds. I am happy now and am trying to make back the money I spent for doctors who did me no good while I was ill.—T. R. CRAWFORD, Center, Texas.

kind of animals, if it is transferred it should be by bill of sale duly recorded and a notation made on the mark and brand record, if your members don't want their cattle stolen and they don't get out with it, then they should see to it that their brands are properly recorded.

With an increase in membership of your association from 1,300 members approximately, as reported by your secretary at the last annual meeting, to approximately 1,500 members at this time, it would naturally be expected that an increase in the number of prosecutions and number of cases in which indictments are found for the theft of cattle from the members of the association would follow; but as will be observed from the foregoing report, such has not been the case. Notwithstanding an increase in the membership of your association, therefore of its effectiveness and importance, there has been no increase in the number of prosecutions or in the number of cases in which persons are indicted for the larceny of cattle from the members of your association. We are pleased to report that in our opinion the stealing of cattle is greatly on the decline, and we attribute this, reasonably as we believe, in a large degree to the measures that have been taken by this association to prevent depredations. Happily its effect is now being felt. Since 1893 this association has almost doubled the number of its members, and if depredations existed today in the same extent as they did in 1893, you might naturally expect double the number of theft cases coming up for prosecution against parties charged with larceny of cattle belonging to your members. The record shows that there is not a greater number of cases pending now for the larceny of cattle of 1,500 members than there was in 1893 for approximately 750 members. This statement is sufficient to show the changes which have been brought about. The system of reporting cases to your association for prosecution and action is much better than it was in 1893, and therefore the difference in percentage of cases pending to the membership of the association would be still greater had the system of reporting cases been as good then as it is at the present time. While the total number of cases remain nearly the same, yet in 1896 there was one case to every 12 members, while today there is one case to every 25 members.

REVISE STOCK LAWS
There ought to be a complete revision of our stock laws. They were for the most part passed over 20 years ago; conditions have changed materially and the present laws are neither applicable nor enforced. This revision will not be had, however, unless some very active steps are taken, bills prepared and active efforts made to get the same introduced upon convening of the legislature and pressed to passage.

The mark and brand law should be amended so that one guilty of theft may not escape merely because the owner failed to record his brand. The present law oftentimes amounts to a license to steal where a brand is unrecorded or by mistake improperly recorded.

The inspection law should be entirely remodeled. The law should be so amended as to procure a perfect system of inspecting hides at local butcher shops, requiring daily reports of butchered cattle, so that the hide and carcass offered for sale may be in all cases identified. A law to prevent stealing of unbranded calves should be passed.

MATTER OF FREIGHT CHARGES
At your last annual meeting held at El Paso a resolution was passed authorizing the executive committee of your association to institute such proceedings as they might see fit to bring about such proper adjustment of freight rates, minimum weights, feed in transit privileges and the like, as should be just, fair and reasonable. To that end after the matter was thoroughly discussed by your executive committee, it was decided to present to the railroad commission of Texas, a petition asking for a reduction in the minimum weights per carload charged on beef cattle shipped within this state, and it was also decided to file with the interstate commerce commission a proceeding praying for an order against the railroads requiring them to cease and desist charging the present rates from Texas, Indian Territory, Oklahoma, and New Mexico points to the several markets in the north and east, and we directed our attorneys for your association to proceed in these matters.

Early last spring we filed with the railroad commission of Texas a petition setting forth what we considered to be sufficient reasons for reduction of minimum carload weights on beef cattle shipped within this state. The petition set forth at length the reasons which we deemed proper to present, and upon the filing of this petition the railroad commission of Texas were served with the same and the case was set down for hearing before the Texas commission at Austin, at which hearing we appeared and represented your association. The result was that the carload minimum weights on beef cattle were reduced as prayed for, to a basis of 22,000 pounds per 36-foot car. The former minimum weight being 23,000 pounds. This would effect a saving to the shippers of cattle of the lighter class, for those things within the beef cattle classification, or a little over 4 per cent.

In connection with your general manager after examining into the amount of freight charges fixed by the railroad commission of Texas so as to determine, if possible, whether the same were reasonable, and after comparison with freight charges made elsewhere, and taking into consideration all of the circumstances and conditions, we were all impressed with the belief that the present schedule of rates by the railway commission of Texas for the shipment of cattle was as nearly a reasonable and proper rate of freight as could be obtained under all of the surrounding circumstances and conditions. The present depressed condition of the business may warrant some reductions at this time, if so, there need be no fear that the railroad commission of Texas upon proper showing will adopt what is reasonable under all the circumstances both to the shippers and to the carriers.

MATTERS PERTAINING TO INTERSTATE SHIPMENTS OF LIVE STOCK

At the May, 1903 meeting of your executive committee the matter of taking action looking to the procurement of a reduction in the rates of freight on cattle shipped from Texas, Indian Territory, Oklahoma, New Mexico and other southwestern territory to northern and eastern markets and to northern ranges, was taken up and discussed, and a plan of action determined upon.

If upon a consideration of all the facts the rates of freight and other charges are unreasonable, as we believe them to be, there is no reason to expect that the interstate commerce commission will not so find; nor is there any reason to suppose that the courts will not support that finding.

THE DALLAS DELEGATION.

Headed by United States Attorney Atwell, the Dallas delegation succeeded in tearing themselves away from their reapers and binders for a short time and yesterday opened headquarters in the Worth hotel and at the same time opened their fight for the 1905 convention by opening a private barroom on the second floor.

In the lobby of the hotel they hung out the simple banner "Dallas Wants the 1905 Convention," unembellished by other appropriate mottoes that could well have appeared upon its escutcheon, as "Dallas, 1890-1905," encircling a cake of ice, or a moving machine and plough rampant atop a pile of fence wood. The buttons, too, of the delegation were modest, bearing simply the inscription "Dallas," but then they probably figured that one never makes a mistake by keeping still.

Judge Atwell, however, can give you a thousand reasons why they should have the convention, that is, if you don't hurry him too much. The first of these is that they can raise $10,000 for the affair. Then, too, the secretary of agriculture has promised to be there, and, crowning feature of all, the visitors will be given an opportunity to see a parade of bulls all dressed in fancy silks and satins to hide the beauty of their natural forms. In brief, as Judge Atwell says, "We'll entertain the cattlemen." Dallas, too, should in simple justice have the affair and their argument in support of this, that they eat more meat than any other Texas city, seems unanswerable, and on top of that, taking a backhand stroke at the Alamo City, they will tell you the meat is not dog meat, because they do not have tamales and that it is not poor cow meat, because they have no canning factories.

For the convention they will offer their opera house and it is said will even go so far as to have special scenery painted for the occasion, showing a mass of farming implements in hasty retreat to the wings, closely pursued by massive steers. It is also rumored, though none of the delegation will stand father for the report, that a large portion of the $10,000 is to be used in endeavoring to beat their city to the proper point.

In addition to Chairman Atwell, the

There was a cry in the streets. People rushed from their doors and strained their eyes on the struggling balloons fighting for life. Even the poor, panting sufferer in the sick room was forgotten while the family gazed breathless at this strange tragedy of the air. They went back to the sick room to tell of the terrible struggle for life they had just witnessed. It did not occur to them that under their very eyes a more terrible, more pathetic struggle was going on daily.

There can be nothing more pitiful than the struggle the consumptive makes against disease. The greatest help in this struggle is gained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures obstinate coughs, weak and bleeding lungs, emaciation, and other ailments which if neglected or unskillfully treated find a fatal termination in consumption.

"In 1890 one of my daughters was suffering in account of a severe cough, hectic fever, wasting of flesh and other symptoms of diseased lungs," writes Rev. Joseph H. Respertman of Barre, Vt. "I promptly gave her Dr. R. V. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with gratifying success, and she now enjoys excellent health. The being true, I hereby heartily endorse your medicine."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets assist the action of the "Discovery."

committee from the Dallas Commercial club, which is leading the fight to get the convention for that city, are: W. A. Shaw, Thomas Love, F. B. Jones and M. H. Thomas.

THE ST. LOUIS VISITORS
St. Louis headquarters were opened early yesterday at the Worth, and thirteen cattlemen, composing the delegation from that city, were seen so busy greeting their old friends and distributing their artistic badges that their room was one of the busiest spots in the whole city.

Of course, the St. Louis delegation want the convention to stay in Fort Worth. "I'll tell you one reason why we want the convention here," said F. W. Brown, who is in charge of the headquarters, "and that is because this city is always thoughtful enough to provide entertainment for the women as well as the cattlemen. The women of this city seem to take as much interest in the convention as the men, and as a result we can bring our wives and families with us without a fear that they will be obliged to sit in their rooms at the hotel, while we are busy." Such a tribute gains added weight from the fact that many of the delegation have brought their wives and daughters with them. Those composing the party are: C. T. Jones and wife, L. W. Krake and wife, O. H. Brown and wife, Al. Koescher, wife and daughter, F. H. Fields and wife, Jeff. Daniels and wife, W. C. Toots, W. A. Hanna, Albert Evans, William Doerer, William Stuart, F. W. Brown and Daniel Sprecher.

CATTLEMAN MAKES SUGGESTION.

In an interview today a well-known cattlemen said: "Twenty-seven years ago, under an old white oak tree in Young county, a lot of broad-minded, progressive cattlemen organized the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association. The purpose of that meeting was to furnish men to furnish weapons and give the place of meeting for each outfit. This part of the work was necessary at that time and it was all that was required, but the world moved and the cattleman's mantle fell upon men of smaller caliber. The association never added but one more beneficial move in the perpetuation of its organization. At Gainesville several years afterward, I remember, John N. Simpson who introduced a resolution that they assess themselves and employ inspectors or detectives to watch the trail and cut out stray cattle that were being driven out of the state of Texas. From that good hour until the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association has stood still. Its executive board has largely been run in a groove. The big cattle holders have frequently said if it was not run in their way they would take their toll tags and go home. Inasmuch as the association is so arranged that the convention can be a cut and dried convention at each recurring annual meeting, we get no new blood, no new thoughts and we go plodding along the same old rutted way. It is true that this year, after much prayerful thought, they concluded to invite gentlemen to read papers that might throw some little light on the cattle industry, but the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association has stood still. It is a good move in the right direction, and President W. W. Turner should receive a vote of thanks for suggesting it in this new departure. The association needs new blood and a few young men who have advanced ideas, and the interests of the cattle business should be kept in mind. The worst of it is that the large herds and it won't damage the small herds. Twenty-seven years is almost the life of the citizen, and in that time steam cars have come into the state, the land has been fenced, and has been based on the horse-horn has disappeared, the higher breeds of cattle have been introduced, and everything marks a change except the Texas Live Stock Association, which in twenty-five years has made but one advance move."

"A warm winter makes a fat graveyard." We are about ready for a warm winter.

A MODEL PROGRAM.

Stockmen are lavish in the praises of the beautiful official convention program, the work of M. S. Mooney of San Antonio. It is conceded the finest souvenir program ever gotten up for the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association, and cost $15,000. The book is printed on 90-lb. numbered paper and the cuts used are the finest of half-tones. It required 10,000 pounds of this paper to print 400 copies. These programs have been sent to every part of the country, and the biggest and gamiest steers that had been picked out for his exhibition thus escaping without a fall altogether, the time made in the roping and tying exhibitions was slow, a fact partially explainable because of the poor light, which condition, it is said, will be remedied before tonight's exhibition.

Of the cattle roped last night, Joe Gardner tied his in 50 1/2 seconds and Ellison Carroll his in 41 seconds. The exhibition of broncho busting, however, made up for the roping affairs, and together with Jim Hooker's exhibition of trick riding and riding of a wild steer were received with much applause. The first contest also centered in the throwing of a steer by Will Piggett, known as the "Dusky Demon," who used his teeth in the exhibition in a way to put to shame the arena scene in "Quo Vadis."

MATURE CATTLE AT HOME.

E. H. East, a cattleman of Nueces county, has advanced the idea of breeding, raising and maturing them on the Texas ranches, rather than ship them to the pastures of the Territories and Kansas. He says there will be no cattle go from his section of the state to pasture this year. There will be good grass in Nueces county this season.

MANY BADGES IN EVIDENCE.

A panorama of ever changing color is presented by the multi-colored badges of the various officers and delegations, every shade of the rainbow and every possible fantasy having been passed into service to form badges unique and artistic until the railroad officials are thinking seriously of making their employees again have their eyes tested when the week is done. Badges from Kansas City, St. Louis, Colorado, Missouri, Texas, the territories and every point in the world it seemed were to be found on every side while everywhere forming a stolid background was the "Stay With Us in 1905" of the Fort Worth cattlemen.

The Kansas City buttons were among the most artistic to be seen, presenting the letters K. C. on a blue and white enameled diamond, around the edge of which appeared "The Best Stock Market." These proved to be much in demand and within a few hours were to be seen on the lapel of every other coat. St. Louis, however, was not behind her sister city, and with both pocket mirrors and hand-some badges, she was very much in evidence. Upon both of these was a reproduction of the exchange building of the National Stock Yards, the badge being formed of this miniature pendant from a purple ribbon, while the pin for the St. Louis coat had the letters inscribed upon it.

Another Missouri city was in evidence with an unique badge, the St. Jo. delegation wearing a decoration consisting of a felt hat with tri-colored band, while to assure good luck in the deals they work a rabbit's left hind foot, shot on a grave at midnight, was attached to the brim of the hat. The delegation from this city although a small one was chucked full of life and a unit in sentiment for Fort Worth as the next convention city. John Emmert who headed the party, said: "Why where else should it be? Of course we want the convention to stay here. Fort Worth is a central point, most accessible, and the royal welcome and treatment we receive here naturally makes us loath to leave."

Others in the party, all of whom are from Fort Worth, are: Encircling Field Bohart, Edmund Pauls, Charles Pasche and Tony Runyan, Texas brand inspector at the St. Jo. yards.

The Fort Worth stock yards badge with its L-shaped on a button badge, an edging of the national colors was one that easily attracted the eye and though simple in execution was so appropriate as to soon prove a favorite among the cattlemen.

In its uniqueness the pipe badge of a local commission company seems to be the peer of the convention. On the badge is a lilliputian meercbaum with amber bit, while upon the ribbons of the badge is the moral: "This Is No Pipe Dream, We Sell 'Em High."

One of the neatest and most appropriate of the many badges was the convention badge showing a steer's head in an oxidized metal rim, the ribbon part of the badge being formed by a miniature silk flag. Encircling the steer's head is "28th Annual Convention, C. R. A. of T., Fort Worth, 1904."

Other badges much in evidence were the white enamelled members' badges, the badges of the officers resplendent in colors and refugent with sunbursts and golden tassels, while everywhere the buttons of the reception committee on their neat purple ribbon were the center of a crowd of laughing, talking cattlemen, received in truly royal fashion.

THE KANSAS CITY CROWD

One of the largest delegations from without the state is that from Kansas City, their party with W. H. Weeks as commander-in-chief, proving true representatives of the great stock city. Among the party which has opened headquarters at the Worth are: E. E. Richardson, Col. Inman, Charley McGowan, George R. Barst, Major Deals, Henry Stevens, Ike Pryor, W. H. Weeks, George Addison, N. Douthitt, A. L. Price, W. A. Combs, Walter Neff, William Britmore, Major Timmons, Harry Patterson, W. A. Stickney, Major Drum, Ebe. McClure, J. C. Boyd, W. W. Flato, Thomas Lee, Harry Clark, Louis Bearfoot, T. S. Hutton, George Robinson, J. D. Robertson and Frank Witherston.

SOME OF THE VISITORS

Fort Worth is truly proving the cattlemen's mecca and the pilgrims have changed the pagan custom, turning their faces south and made their pilgrimages. Among those who have thus made the southern pilgrimage is the original and only J. C. Leary of the Salt Lake stock yards, who being both a newspaper man and an inimitable story teller is to be found in the hotel corridors surrounded by an ever changing audience—changing as he starts upon a tale he has told them once before. Some of Leary's friends confidentially say that he made his trip from the north to be in closer proximity to the Mexican cow.

Another of the northern pilgrims noticed in the throng is J. N. Boardman of Helena, Mont., who is at the head of the Pioneer Cattle Company, reputed to be the largest in the world. From Denver comes Ed Reed of "test case" fame, J. E. De Riquelles and George Valentine, general manager of the Denver yards, while other representatives from the Colorado city, it is said, will arrive tonight.

W. W. MILLER HERE

W. W. Miller, assistant general freight agent of the Katy, is one of the late arrivals to swell the numbers of the Kansas City contingent. Mr. Miller says he could not resist the temptation to again come to Fort Worth and see the improvements which always greet him on a return to the city. Mr. Miller wore a Dallas button which was thrust upon him by one of the advance agents of the Implement City, but those who are close to him say that he, like the majority of the members, is only wearing the badge to avoid being discourteous, and who, when the voting time comes, will show their true heartfelt colors.

THE ROUGH RIDING

The first of the series of rough riding and cattle roping contests to be given at the Prospect Driving park during the convention was held last night, the crowd present though small in numbers, lacking nothing in enthusiasm and the throwing and tying of each steer was the signal for a series of yells that would have done credit to an equal number of Comanches.

Owing to the breaking of two ropes, no opportunity was afforded to judge of the fast work of the much heralded Clay McCord, the two biggest and gamiest steers that had been picked out for his exhibition thus escaping without a fall altogether, the time made in the roping and tying exhibitions was slow, a fact partially explainable because of the poor light, which condition, it is said, will be remedied before tonight's exhibition.

Of the cattle roped last night, Joe Gardner tied his in 50 1/2 seconds and Ellison Carroll his in 41 seconds. The exhibition of broncho busting, however, made up for the roping affairs, and together with Jim Hooker's exhibition of trick riding and riding of a wild steer were received with much applause. The first contest also centered in the throwing of a steer by Will Piggett, known as the "Dusky Demon," who used his teeth in the exhibition in a way to put to shame the arena scene in "Quo Vadis."

CONVENTION NOTES

It is a difficult thing to ascertain what sellers are holding their cattle at. There seems to be very little prospect of many sales being made during this convention, as buyers are not plentiful, and there is very little disposition shown on the part of cattlemen to sell at any price. One man said that he thought two would be offered at from $18 to $20.

One sale was made yesterday. The buyer was S. L. King, a speculator of Indiana, and the seller J. S. Stokes of Missouri. The deal included 1000 steers, which brought $22.50. The cattle were deboned, and will be shipped to feed lots in Indiana.

GIVES HEALTH, VIGOR AND TONE

Herbina is a boon for sufferers from anemia. By its use the blood is quickly regenerated and the color becomes normal. The drooping strength is revived. The languor is diminished. Health, vigor and tone predominate. New life and happy activity results. Mrs. Belle H. Shirel, Middleborough, Ill., writes: "I have been troubled with liver complaint and poor blood, and have found nothing to benefit me like Herbina. I hope never to be without it. I have wished that I had known of it in my husband's lifetime." 50c. Sold by H. T. Pangburn & Co.

Mont., and George Keelne, who also has large ranch interests in Montana, and a number of the more extensive cattle buyers are here, but they say they did not come to buy. Heretofore there have been large numbers of Northwestern buyers, but this year they are not in the market for cattle.

Correspondent James E. Poole, of one of the leading live stock papers, said, discussing the situation, that there would be fewer cattle going to the Northwest in the future; that the bulk of cattle from the Southwest would find their way to the Eastern feeders. One reason for this is that the Northwest ranges are playing out, accounted for by the invasion of the farmer into that country. Mr. Poole says that the heavy cattle raisers in Texas are spending hundreds of thousands of dollars for the purpose of breeding up their stock. When this has been done the bulk of stuff will go to the East rather than to the West, as has been the custom for many years.

LOSSES ARE LIGHT.
Robert Ellison, who has a ranch well stocked in the county of Collingsworth, has arrived in Fort Worth to attend the cattle convention. Mr. Ellison never over looks one of the annual coming together of the cowmen of Texas, for he always has a good time mixing and mingling with a brother "cow-puncher."

Mr. Ellison was seen by The Telegram and asked as to the conditions in his part of the state. He replied that up to date prospects were never better and cattle never passed through a winter in that portion of Texas looking healthier and better. It is true, he said, that Collingsworth county has had very little if any rain for months, still cattle are looking and doing well. He says that the recent storm did no damage in Collingsworth county, in fact, there was no sign of a storm there.

"Losses to stockmen in my part of the state have been practically nothing to speak of," said Mr. Ellison. "I have lost just two cows out of a total of 3500. This is doing well, considering the general conditions, no rains and very little signs of grass. I begin to think my cattle are living on scenery and atmosphere, but if they are they seem to be doing well on such airy diet. Losses, generally, have been lighter than for a long while in my part of the state. Other stockmen report very small losses of stock. If it does not soon rain I intend to remove my cattle to Kansas pastures and I know of several others who will do likewise. If we fail to get rain soon the situation is bound to grow serious, and cattlemen

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Life looks dark indeed when a woman feels that her strength is fading away and she has no hopes of ever being restored. Such was my feeling a few months ago when I was advised that my poor health was caused by prolapsus or falling of the womb. The words sounded like a knell to me, I felt that my sun had set; but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound came to me as an elixir of life; it restored the lost forces and built me up until my good health returned to me. For four months I took the medicine daily, and each dose added health and strength. I am so thankful for the help I obtained through its use."—Mrs. FLORENCE DANFORTH, 1007 Miles Ave., St. Joseph, Mich.—$5000 Forfeit. BAD JUDGMENT A CRIME

A few days ago in the federal court at Waco, Cashier Cooper of a national bank at McGregor was sentenced to five years imprisonment. He had allowed others to persuade him into business propositions which wrecked the bank. He pleaded guilty, and when the time for sentence came, Cullen F. Thomas, his attorney, asked leave to address the court. He said that Mr. Cooper might have been technically guilty of violation of law, but it was clear to him that if so he was drawn in by circumstances, without premeditation or desire to prejudice the interests or take advantage of any one; nothing criminal had been intended, in other words. The amounts of money withdrawn from the bank had been loans to persons who were speculating, and Cooper had not one scintilla of pecuniary interest in the gains of the persons so speculating. When the bank was tottering to its fall and everything looked dark and well-nigh hopeless, good money was sent after had in the hope of saving that which had been inadvertently risked. Cooper had brought the bank into existence, it was his joy and pride, as he had been far-reared and worked his way up, and the launching of this enterprise had been a realization of hopes desired and the result of long years of patient labor and effort; therefore when he realized that it was jeopardized he took chances to save it. He now came to enter a plea of guilty like a man and take his sentence. He stated that Cooper was not by instinct a criminal, and his past life had been that of a good and upright citizen; he had high ideals and poetic instincts, even amid the sordid cares of business, and had written "some beautiful and touching things, showing forth a nature rich in imagery and teeming with an inner realm of thought and expression. He asked that the lowest penalty be assessed, and assured the court that by good behavior, adherence to rules of integrity and uprightiness Cooper would be certain to have a commutation of his sentence, coming forth from his trial to take up anew the burden of life and prove that he could meet its responsibilities and overcome its temptations, walking along blameless and stainless paths. This story shows there are times when bad judgment is a crime. This young man of McLennan county goes from the barred window of the cashier's desk to the barred door of the prison cell, not because he has profited by speculations, not because he sought to appropriate to his own use money which belonged to others, but because he did not have the cashier's judgment where to place the funds entrusted to his care. It is a lesson which should be given thought by men in many lines of business, and if it teaches as it should, it will keep many out of trouble. There are rules in every line of business which men must obey. Many are careless of these rules, and the consequences are bad for them in every instance. Had Cashier Cooper followed

Life's Discontent

"I would glory in it." We were on a train and two were busy talking behind us, and, during an animated part of the conversation, I caught these five words: "I would glory in it." I will never know what it was the fellow passenger would glory in. I may never see that face or hear that voice again, for the speaker left the train at the next station. But the words remained and I heard them for miles, and today, amid the bustle of the street and the quiet seclusion of home, I hear them plainly—"I would glory in it." And behold the varied passions of life. Men have gloried in the field of pursuit and for long days and longer nights have planned to achieve success in business, to overtake their competitor and to overthrow him if necessary. They have achieved as they planned, have overtaken and sometimes overthrown their rival. But somehow or other the glory faded away and did not satisfy, and hunger again entered their lives. Men have dreamed of the glory of position and have struggled hard. They have said, "If I could but be congressman, senator, or even alderman, magistrate or master of my lodge." Then they secured the office they desired. But somehow or other the glory faded and did not satisfy, and hunger came again into their lives. And men have been inspired by the glory of the battlefield. But when the dead were buried, the wounded cared for and the smoke had cleared away; when the field was won and the huzzas died away, glory died too. And men have been inspired by the eye of a woman and have dared, have sacrificed and won, but with the handling of the moth the beauty goes, and somehow or other the glory fades and does not satisfy. And with fancy's eye I saw the whole world and its myriad of desires and passions. Here were artists glorying in their harmony of color. But I noticed that they often threw aside their palette and brush with a sigh. Here were musicians, ravishing amid chords, sharps and flats, majors and minors and I saw discontent even amid the music. And behold the world of actors and their ken. There was the frequent applause and the words of eulogy fresh from the pen of the critic. But the curtain fallen, the paint and grease removed, the make-up in the trunk, I see them even as you and I, and there in the quiet hour they who make the world laugh and forget care are visited by care themselves, and they who make the world forget its hunger are hungry themselves. Ah, yes, and presidents hunger, and steel kings and iron kings; they are all hungry for that which earth does not produce, hungry even as you and I. But there is a table somewhere that never gives out.

the rules under which the bank should have been conducted, he would not have to suffer, nor would his friends have lost their money. A man's judgment is good at times, but no man should put his judgment against the established rules of the business or the profession in which he is engaged, when there is a chance for the judgment to get him into trouble. These rules and customs have been figured out by men after years of experience, and they are the safer way. SUCCESS TO THE HORNET. Location of the Tyler Sun. And now in Editor Hendrick of the Vernon Hornet is to be congratulated on the success with which he has met in the publication of his paper. This week he reproduces exactly the first issue of the paper. The initial number was 8x10 inches in size and when folded made four very small pages. It contained seven advertisements and one political announcement. At the top was the motto, "Tall Oaks From Little Acorns Grow," the date of the paper being February 8, 1896. In his announcement Editor Hendrick said: In the year 1871, the Longview News, a three-column paper, 10 inches long, was issued in Gregg county, with James J. Hogg as editor and proprietor. In the same year Horace Clifton began the publication of the Tyler Sun. Its dimensions being 6x8 inches. And now in the year 1896, we, as we stand in front of our 7x11-inch job press and launch this the first number of The Vernon Hornet onto the sea of Journalism, think we can see through the shadowy mists of some capitol (cannot tell whether it is the one at Austin or Washington at this distance) and imagine that we can hear the call of a sovereign, though down-trodden people summoning us as the standard bearer of their crusade against oppression and tyranny, by gallies! The mere contemplation of the possibilities that lie out before the editor and proprietor of the Hornet at this hour causes our legs to vibrate like a tuning fork on the press pedals, and make our soul expand until we feel like a butter-milk pup. Whoop ha! Preserve this issue and keep it as a souvenir and show it to us when you come down to Austin to see the governor about a pardon for your boy. You will be able to rustle his excellency's foliage of formality by showing him this 'Acorn' from which he sprung, or it might be the open sesame to whole bags of Uncle Sam's garden seed or the great libraries of agricultural reports. M. T. PANGBURN & CO.'S UNUSUAL OFFER

"It isn't often that we have faith enough in the medicine put up by other people to be willing to offer to refund the money if it does not cure," said H. T. Pangburn & Co. to a Telegram man who dropped into their store, "but we are glad to sell Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia on that basis. The Dr. Howard Company, in order to get a quick introductory sale, authorizes us to sell their regular fifty-cent bottles at half-price, 25 cents, and, although we have sold a lot of it, and have guaranteed every package, not one has been brought back as unsatisfactory. "One great advantage of this specific," he continued, "is its small dose and convenient form. There are sixty doses in a vial that can be carried in the vest pocket or purse, and every one has more medicinal power than a big pill or tablet or a tumbler of mineral water. "We are still selling the specific at half-price, although we cannot tell how long we shall be able to do so, and any one who is subject to constipation, sick headache, dizziness, liver trouble, indigestion, or a general played-out condition, ought to take advantage of this chance. You can tell your readers that if they are not satisfied with the specific they can come right back to our store and we will cheerfully refund their money."

and this leap year sees it a seven-column fella regular newspaper size containing almost seventy times seven advertisements. He still carries the same motto at the head and the publication is an all-home print. There are many newspaper men in Texas who have watched the Hornet grow. We noticed that he started out as "E. Spratt Hendrick, Editor," and we saw him change from paring his name in the middle to using it "Early S. Hendrick, Editor. We have seen him get better all the time, and all have wished him well. He is not governor up to this time, but some day he might be.

The committee from Dallas which came over to entice the cattlemen to meet there next year ought to have bought the wine which was opened in Fort Worth instead of bringing it with them. If Dallas proposes to take from us that which is our pride, she ought to spend a little money here now and then.

President Roosevelt may allow the senate to reject Reed Smoot, but President Joseph Smith of the Mormon church is a man of the Rooseveltian strain. He is the father of eleven children in fourteen years. That is really not a bad record.

The lunatic men and the sure-thing markets are watched by the Fort Worth public and they will have little opportunity to fleece the victims.

The cattle raisers are here and Fort Worth is glad to have them. May their deliberations be pleasant and profitable.

Tonight—Andrew Robson in "Richard Carvel." Wednesday night—Andrew Robson in "Richard Carvel." Thursday night—"Sweet Clover."

"Florodora" will not live as long as other musical extravaganzas. Already the popularity of the production is on the wane, and it remains to be seen just how much longer "Tell Me Pretty Maiden" and "Under the Shade of the Palm" will carry it along. This campaign with "Ebbly" Graham and Isadora Rush in the leading roles is not a bad one by any means. The singers can sing and the actors can act. Miss Rush is as sweet as ever, and very attractive. She cannot dance but she has a graceful way of hopping about the stage which is attractive. Graham has always been entertaining, and is yet. The costuming of the production is good, and the scenery is very pretty.

ANDREW ROBSON IN "RICHARD CARVEL." Few attractions in a dramatic way that visit Fort Worth are more heartily welcomed than the distinguished young romantic actor, Andrew Robson, and the plays he presents. It therefore goes without saying Mr. Robson's forthcoming appearance as Richard Carvel, which is announced for tonight and tomorrow night at Greenwall's opera house, will bring to him the same overflowing house which greeted him on his previous visit, the delight of which audience still lingers as a bow of promise for an enjoyable repetition of the often pleasures.

"SWEET CLOVER" The entertainment to be offered at Greenwall's opera house Thursday matinee and night, March 10, will be the superb scenic production of the four-act comedy, "Sweet Clover." The atmosphere of the play moves from the city to the country, and both localities are faithfully represented with intelligent attention to realistic details. Some of the dialogue is almost in the nature of a short sermon, while other portions are deliciously droll in their quaintness and truth.

CLAY CLEMENT IN "THE NEW DOMINION"

Few actors or plays have made so good and lasting an impression as Mr. Clement, in his own work, entitled "The New Dominion." Nothing like this refined German baron has ever been placed on the stage before, both from the standpoint of the actor who portrays the character and the play which he conceived it. Mr. Clement has the utmost reason to feel proud of his work—it stands and will long stand as one of the neatest, cleanest cut and most fascinating piece of character work the stage of the last twenty years has produced. "The New Dominion" is a love story of the south land, by one who reverences the emotion. Mr. Clement and his capable company in "The New Dominion" will be the attraction at Greenwall's opera house Monday and Tuesday nights, March 14-15.

THE FOUR COHANS

George M. Cohan, of the Four Cohans, who are on their farewell tour as co-stars, announces that he will star next season in his latest and best musical comedy, "Little Johnny Jones," which he claims is his masterpiece and will be one of the most brilliant musical productions the stage has ever seen. Mr. Cohan will be supported by a company of eighty people and his starring tour commenced at the New York Theater. Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cohan will be in the cast with Mr. Cohan. They play here at Greenwall's opera house Wednesday and Thursday nights, March 16-17.

It will not be a hard task to find all those stockmen who are reported through the Fort Worth department of the News as favoring Dallas as the next meeting place.

TO SPEAK FOR THE PACKERS R. C. McManus of the Swift Packing Company, arrived in Fort Worth yesterday afternoon and will, through the invitation of the cattle association, deliver an address on the relations sustained between the packing companies and the stock raiser.

Mr. McManus was seen this morning by the Telegram and asked what the drift of his remarks would be. He was, however, in no position as yet to make a statement, but said that during the deliberations of the convention there might be matters brought up that would require explanation, and he came to Fort Worth more especially for this reason.

Mr. McManus said it was the desire of the packers to be better understood among the cattlemen of Texas, and he will endeavor to enlighten them when he delivers his address Thursday morning.

He said that the movement would be nothing more than guess work, and that it would all depend upon climatic conditions. If it rains at seasons there will be a great sufficient on the home ranges for stock.

AN ODD AFFILIATION

Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey were a very happy couple. There was but one thing to be desired—a mutual friend who would come in in the evening and chat with them. They had plenty of acquaintances, but no one to be intimate with. Mrs. Ramsey asked her husband to get one of his men friends to come and dine with them, but Dick Ramsey was a man of the world who knew when his matrimonial affairs were in good condition and preferred to let well enough alone.

One evening while the Ramseys were "out" Mrs. Ramsey was introduced to a widow with whom she fell desperately in love at first sight.

"Oh, Dick," she said, "I've met the loveliest woman in the world. She's taken the third house from us up the street. I'm going to call on her, and she's promised to come in often, play whist, pingpong, anything we like. We'll have a delightful winter!"

"That's very nice. Is dinner ready?" "Just like a man—no enthusiasm about anything except something to eat!" replied the wife, disappointed.

Mrs. Ramsey called on the widow, and within a week the widow returned her to come in to spend an evening. She made herself very agreeable, indeed she professed all the friendliness that could be desired. When she was ready to go home Mr. Ramsey escorted her.

The widow invited the Ramseys to make her an evening visit to play whist and had a gentleman in to make up the set. The gentleman was to play with Mrs. Ramsey, and he did. He tried hard to make himself agreeable to her, but Mrs. Ramsey didn't care for his attentions. However, when the widow took Mr. Ramsey off to her aviary to show him her birds the wife was obliged to content herself with the stranger.

The situation about Christmas time was this: The widow was very much with Mr. Ramsey. The affiliation between the three was the talk of the town. A relative of Mrs. Ramsey was bold enough to speak to her about the matter, and the wife declared that she was perfectly at ease as to the intimacy between her husband and the widow.

However, Mrs. Ramsey grew nervous, excitable, pale, and when alone had a troubled look on her face. The truth is, she hated the widow as bitterly as she had loved her. But the more she hated her the more she raved about her beauty, her wit, her humor or her many attractive ways.

No one dared speak against the widow in Mrs. Ramsey's presence, and whenever the husband and the mutual friend were most together the wife seemed most called upon to sound her rival's praises.

As for Dick Ramsey, he was one of those imperturbable, reticent fellows who keep their own counsel. He never spoke of the widow in company, leaving Mrs. Ramsey to sound sufficient praises for both. Seeing that his wife's health was becoming impaired, he proposed a sea trip to Cuba. Mrs. Ramsey yielded, then astonished her husband by inviting the widow to be of the party.

The widow accepted, suggesting that it would be pleasant to take along the gentleman who had played whist with them. But Mrs. Ramsey declined to invite him.

Mr. Ramsey, though surprised at this move of his wife, made no comment. However, during the voyage he managed matters so that Mrs. Ramsey was not left alone; the three were constantly together.

When the party returned, Mrs. Ramsey was no better. Indeed, she was worse. She declined to own that she was ill, and to speak to her on the subject of her health was as dangerous as to decry the rival in her presence.

OTHER PEOPLE'S RULES OF THE ROAD SHOULD BE ADOPTED

"Say, Josh, I thought you and Molly Budd was goin' to make a match."

"Purty soon I noticed that she had started in. She and Tom was together most of the time, and Molly tole me that all was a-goin' fust rate."

"Lucy, she got poppin' mad with Tom and tole him he'd have to stop sparkin' Molly or she'd chuck him. This didn't do no good, for by this time Molly had him like a fly caught in a spider web."

"That's exactly what I tole Molly, but she explained to me that the affair had got badly mixed. She said that Lucy wouldn't believe her and, if she did, wouldn't forgive her for what she'd done."

"What was goin' on between you and Tom?" "Oh, Tom when he passed me used to look at me with a kind of a smirk, as much as to say, 'I've got your gal, and I looked at him as much as to say, 'Guess you'll find out somethin' bimeby.'"

"You see, lots of times when I wanted her to go ridin' with me or to take her to a dance or anything like that she'd say: 'Why didn't you speak about it sooner? I jist tole Tom I'd go with him! But I had lots of fun at dances when I see people lookin' at me like as if they pitied me, for they didn't know the game we was playin'."

"How did you manage it?" "I went to Tom and tole him that Molly had got mixed up in other people's affairs and she'd found it necessary to keep company with him awhile, but there was nothin' in it and if he was a sensible feller he'd drop her."

"So I did, but I didn't expect she'd plumb back on me for a little thing like that. I don't see how she could expect me to have her givin' up all her time to Tom forever."

"What do you mean by her goin' plumb back on you?" "Why, haven't you heered? She and Tom is a-goin' to be married next Thursday." ANTHONY DEANE.

Suggestion of Code Which Would Do Away With Much Inconvenience Now Experienced Because of Misunderstandings or Ignorance

In Western and Southwestern cities, especially where the rules of the road are most observed in the breach, and the disregard for public safety, comfort and time in this particular is most lamentable.

In Fort Worth, further than the ordinary custom of keeping to the right of a street or highway, no etiquette has ever been recognized and where the streets are necessarily crowded there is always a great deal of inconvenience in driving a vehicle on the thoroughfares crowded with traffic.

Now that the use of the automobile is gaining favor in this city, some steps should be taken regarding the customary rules of larger cities in connection with driving and automobilism on the same street.

"Drivers of automobiles should be required to stop their machines on signal from a driver of a horse or team by his holding up his right hand, which will be considered sufficient notice to the automobilist that the horse or horses driven are either fractious or afraid of automobiles."

Article I—Importance of Keeping to the Right—Passing, Turning, Crossing and Stopping. Sec. 1. Slowly moving vehicles shall keep to the right and as near the right-hand curb as possible, so as to leave room in the middle of the street for vehicles going at a greater speed.

Article II—Signals. Sec. 1. In slowing up or stopping, a signal shall always be given to those behind by raising the whip or hand vertically. Sec. 2. In turning, while in motion, or in starting to turn from a standstill, a signal shall be given by raising the whip or hand, indicating with it the direction in which the turn is to be made.

Article III—Right of Way. Sec. 1. On all the public streets or highways of the city all vehicles going in a northerly or southerly direction shall have the right of way over all vehicles going in an easterly or westerly direction.

Article IV—Speed. No vehicle shall proceed at any time at a greater speed than the law allows and is safe and proper under the conditions thereof. Sec. 1. The word "vehicle" includes equestrians and everything on wheels or runners, except street cars and baby carriages.

Article V—Definitions. Sec. 1. All avenues and streets with a parkway in the middle shall be considered as having but one roadway. Sec. 2. The word "vehicle" includes equestrians and everything on wheels or runners, except street cars and baby carriages.

Article VI—Right of Way. Sec. 1. On all the public streets or highways of the city all vehicles going in a northerly or southerly direction shall have the right of way over all vehicles going in an easterly or westerly direction.

Sec. 2. The officers and men of the Fire Department and Fire Patrol, with their fire apparatus of all kinds, when going to, on duty at or returning from a fire, and all ambulances, the officers and men and vehicles of the Police Department, United States mail wagons and all physicians who have a police permit, shall have the right of way in any street, and through any procession.

Sec. 3. Subject to the preceding section of this article, surface cars, running on tracks laid in the streets especially for their use, shall have the right of way along such tracks, between cross streets, over all other vehicles, and the driver of any vehicle, proceeding upon the track in front of a surface car, shall turn out immediately upon signal by the motorman or driver of the car.

Sec. 4. No vehicles shall so occupy any street as to interfere with or interrupt the passage of cars or other vehicles. Article IV—Speed. No vehicle shall proceed at any time at a greater speed than the law allows and is safe and proper under the conditions thereof.

OLD THINGS PASS AWAY

The Plains Country of Texas Has Made and Is Making Some Wonderful Strides in Development Along New Lines Which Promise Well.

The Hale Center Messenger of last week, in commenting on the changes that are taking place on the Plains, under the above caption, has the following to say about the country and about the changed opinions of the newspapers representing it. There were several papers mentioned, two only being used in this article to illustrate the general trend of the Messenger's experience. It says:

"During our thirteen years stopping on the plains there have been many notable changes in the aspect of the country. Its population has been shifted twice and another shift is well under way. We do not mean that none of the original settlers are here and that every shift has brought about an altogether new people; far from it. But the opinions and base of operations of the old settlers have so nearly changed that, practically, they are now settlers.

Most of the newspapers have also changed their opinions, especially in regard to farming being a success on the plains.

The Hereford Brand, whose name in itself suggests a stampered bunch of longhorned cattle being chased by a crew of half-breed Comanche cowpunchers through the Canadian breaks, has grown to be a regular farmers' guide. It acknowledges that conditions have changed, and of course being fully alive to the interests of its surroundings, it lays away the branding iron and takes hold of the plow and announces that the hope of the plains lies in the horny-handed sons of toil. We second your motion, Mr. Hereford Brand.

The Canyon City News has, to a great extent, injected the subject of farming and cotton growing into the space formerly filled by "The College Situation," and its ideal citizen has changed from a college president to the farmer with the sunburned nose and who says 'git' and 'thar,' and calls his wife 'Lizy.'

What the Messenger says is pretty nearly correct. While none of the plains newspapers have waged warfare against the ranchman, he has nevertheless been made to feel that if the country was really adapted to the needs of the farmer the unwritten law that that which will do the greatest number the greatest amount of good should prevail in this instance; hence the retreat of the ranchman has been of its own volition. In other words, the large cattleman feels that the present demand of the farmer is to meet the exigency of the times and when it comes to a show-down the cattlemen are just as capable of coping with changed conditions as any class of citizens we have ever known.

That the ranchmen out in this portion of the Panhandle are undergoing something of a new experience with regard to the land question, is an acknowledged fact among the initiated. That is, there are a number of them who believe that the demand for land in West and Northwest Texas is going to be so great for cotton raisers that they are preparing to cut up their ranches and place them on the market in small-sized tracts, and will go out of the "wholesale" cattle business. This is especially true south of here.

The spread of the boll weevil in the cotton growing districts of the state is causing thousands of cotton growers to turn to the West and Northwest as the coming cotton growing sections of the state.

No matter if the seasons are a little uncertain, it has been demonstrated that a pretty fair cotton crop can be grown almost any kind of year. In fact, it has been found that a cotton crop in several counties just south of Randall can be depended upon with just about as unvarying regularity as any other kind of a crop. Last year was far from being a seasonal year on the plains, and the cotton crop was cut short on that account, but enough was made just south of here

BLUE AND DISHEARTENED AND NOT WITHOUT VERY GOOD CAUSE

It All Resulted From Weak Kidneys and Torpid Liver

The Vast Importance of Those Organs If You Want to Feel Well

If your stomach, kidneys and liver don't do their work well, you will surely suffer. Inaction, or disease of those organs, clogs the whole system and makes bad blood and weak nerves. The complexion soon becomes pale or sallow, and dark lines appear under the eyes.

Other symptoms are sure to follow, such as bad taste in the mouth, gas in the stomach, loss of appetite, biliousness, constipation, sleeplessness, headache, palpitation, nervousness and exhaustion.

Everyone of these conditions leads to serious disease if not checked. Mr. John Moore Hale is one of the oldest Locomotive Engineers in the United States. He was born in Woburn, Mass., in 1843 and is at present residing at 230 W. 7th St., St. Paul, Minn. He says:

"I was taken with La Grippe and Sciatica. I had the best doctors, but without much relief. A friend of mine, who was also an engineer, recommended Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and I dropped the doctors and bought a bottle of Nervura. Before it was a little over half gone, I felt that I was on the mend, and I took three bottles and today I am a well man. I struck it."

"Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has made my burden lighter, by building up my run down system. The almost of greatest hindrance to me was kidney trouble which, as those who suffer from it know, absolutely unfits a man for business, especially if he is of a nervous temperament. Dr. Greene's Nervura has built me up so that I can safely pronounce it the superior of any proprietary medicine I ever used. I recommend it to all."

This remedy is the surest ever known. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is the discovery of Dr. Greene, of 101 Fifth Avenue, New York City, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted free, personally or by letter. Recommended and for sale by all druggists.

to make a very material difference in the condition of the people generally. The movement of cattle was limited last year, and the cat sold brought but little money. Had it not been for the money brought into the country through the sale of the cotton crop, the territory between here and the Texas and Pacific railway would have experienced a genuine case of hard times. The good prices brought by the staple more than compensated for the falling off in the yield, and the cotton growers in that portion of the Panhandle are the people who had money to spend during the fall and winter, and they are the people, too, who made business for the merchants and were able to pay for what they purchased.

The News is not particular about the vernacular of the farmer in the matter of choosing such words as "git," "thar" and the endearing name of "Lizy" for his wife, but it is a little cranky about wanting to hear him "holer," "Gee" and "Haw" to his mule when he reaches the end of the long cotton rows. And we are not over-particular whether he uses a twisted strand cotton rope for lines, but if the matter of choice in such things was left to us, we would prefer the man for cotton culture who uses cotton rope lines and cotton-checked gallsies. If you are an exporter of the raw material, you should use the manufactured article, all things being equal.—Canyon City News.

QUESTION OF SERVICE

Discussed From Standpoint of Railway Companies—With Intelligent Explanations for the Cause of the Recent Congestion.

Warren V. Galbreath, general live stock agent of the M., K. & T. railway, in conversation with a representative of this paper, discussed the question of service relative to the live stock interests in a manner that throws considerable light upon the subject from the standpoint of the railway companies. His explanation is the best that has been brought to our attention up to this time, and is probably the best argument advanced by the railroad companies.

"It is difficult for some people to realize the wonderful increase in railway business," said Mr. Galbreath. "So great has it been that the railway companies have not been able to keep pace with it in securing sufficient equipment to take care of the new business. In the Western cities the terminal facilities of all the roads have been inadequate, and they have not been able to enlarge these terminals to accommodate the rush, and hence there has been much congestion at these points."

"Again, last year was a very wet one, not only in Texas, but in the Territories, Missouri and Kansas. These rains softened the roadbeds, and the railway companies could not, with safety, run their trains over these tracks at an excessive speed without endangering lives and property, and they felt that it was better to send the live stock in to the market centers a little late, than to ditch trains by running at a dangerous speed."

"But the service in this section of the country is better now than it has been for many months past, and is improving rapidly. Our road has left no stone unturned to make it better, and this effort has not been without results."

"As soon as the railways can get the new equipment now under construction, and get it into service, I believe that the question of service will disappear."

Market Quotations

NORTH FORT WORTH, March 8.—A good liberal run of cattle for a Tuesday market were received today, and including 275 head of registered cattle for the fat stock show, the entire receipts figured close around 1,800 head. The bulk of the offering consisted of steers, with a liberal sprinkling of bulls and a fair supply of calves.

Beat fed steers, averaging 1,151 pounds, sold with a top of $3.45, with the bulk of sales on this class of stuff at $3.10 to $3.35. Good weight butcher steers of 1,000 pounds and better, at $2.90 to $3.10, and a few small bunches of light ordinary stuff at $2.10 to $2.75.

Although the proportionate supply of cows was light, buyers showed little or no preference for the stuff, and the run sold on a weak market, at a loss of 5c to 10c from Monday. One choice heavy 1,500-pound cow sold at $4, with a few sales of extra good quality stuff at $2.50 to $2.75, and a top of $2.40 for best bunches of fed cows, averaging 773 pounds.

Bulls made up for the shortage in cows and, in sympathy with the heavy supply of steers, sold 5c to 10c lower. Heavy bulls, weighing around 1,250 pounds, brought $2.50, with a top of $2.75 for one choice fed bull, weighing 1,520 pounds.

Calves were governed by the demand which, as a rule, was strong enough to command steady prices with Monday's close. Considering the unstable condition of the local market, a fairly liberal run of hogs were received today, and, with uncertain markets in the north, buyers were a little slow in an opening which was satisfactory to the sellers. Choice heavy hogs showed a little strength over Monday and sold at the opening at an advance of 5c to 10c, the best averaging 312 pounds, selling at $5.55. Medium weight packer hogs sold about steady, while the ordinary light stuff and pigs found a slow, dull market at a decline of 5c to 10c, making a loss for the week of 15c to 20c. Should the provision market make a few advances on the strength of the situation in the far east, local experts look for another substantial gain in hog values, but without some additional stimulus, they predict only a steady market at current quotations.

Leading hog buyers in the north are of the opinion that receipts of hogs will be comparatively light in numbers and weight for the next thirty to sixty days, but there are some buyers who argue that for the northern markets the cold weather and bad transportation have held hogs back, and that the hope of still higher prices has caused a good many farmers to keep in stock more hogs than the trade generally realizes.

The present price of hogs seems low, compared with a top of $7.50 a year ago, but even at the fat stock show, present prices are far above the average for a term of years.

C. Scharbauer of Midland, a brother of J. W. Scharbauer of this city, is here in attendance on the fat stock show and cattle men's convention. Mr. Scharbauer is one of the pioneer stockmen of Texas, and probably the first of the western ranchmen to take up fine stock raising on a large scale. Fifteen years ago he bought Snow & Smith, Hereford cows and bulls, and today he has over 1,000 head of fine registered Hereford cattle, besides a large range bunch of well-grade Herefords, a great many of them subject to registration. Mr. Scharbauer does not handle ordinary range cattle to any extent, but is heavily interested in the Scharbauer Cattle Company of Midland, Texas, and furnishes fine bulls for the breeding up of the range herds of this company. He has on exhibit at the fat stock show twenty-one head of registered Herefords, which are among the finest lots on exhibition. None of these cattle will be offered at the sale, but will be shipped back to the ranch in Mitchell county after the close of the show.

Considered the unstable condition of the local market, a fairly liberal run of hogs were received today, and, with uncertain markets in the north, buyers were a little slow in an opening which was satisfactory to the sellers. Choice heavy hogs showed a little strength over Monday and sold at the opening at an advance of 5c to 10c, the best averaging 312 pounds, selling at $5.55. Medium weight packer hogs sold about steady, while the ordinary light stuff and pigs found a slow, dull market

A THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
Necessity is the argument of tyrants, It is the creed of slaves.—William Pitt.

SILK SHIRT WAIST SUIT
Common errors will do much toward establishing a habit of speaking correctly. Those who speak elegant English do not say "he don't" for "he does not"; "I have come" for "I have come"; "I will lay down" for "I will lie down"; "he has laid down" for "he has lain down"; "I was laying down" for "I was lying down"; "one of the boys are sick" for "one of the boys is sick"; "he told she and I" for "he told her and me"; "when I was to home" for "when I was at home."
HOW MANY MEN KNOW?
How many men know that neckties should be brushed and pressed as well as clothes; that they should be put away in a drawer and not hung over the arms of the gas fixtures; that gloves should be smoothed out when they are removed; that boot trees are almost necessary to keep the boot in shape and that to be well shined, well brushed and clean means more to a man than to be clad in broadcloth and fine linen?
COUCHING AND KNOTS
No. 1 shows the "couching" stitch and is used as narrow braids are used. When making the "couching" stitch double the thread to the required thickness; but do not twist; fasten the number of threads at the upper end of your work and catch the stitch by a closely knotted loop through the material and over the threads, every so often down the cluster of threads, close together or far apart as desired.
French knots are ornamental and exceedingly smart used with various stitches. To be a success they must be carefully made. Never attempt to make the knots with a long thread; the needle will not carry a long thread without knotting and breaking. Thrust the needle through the goods, hold the thread from you, place the needle between you and the thread, holding it close to the point where the thread was drawn through, wind the thread about the needle toward yourself. The size of the knot depends upon the number of times the thread is twisted about the needle. When the thread is wrapped about the needle required number of times, draw the thread, slip the loops over toward the point of the needle and thrust the needle through the goods close to the point through which it was first drawn. Hold the loop of the twist firmly with the thumb and draw the thread down tightly. The knot will thus be made flat.

Pear and nut salad—Used canned pears left from yesterday's luncheon. Cut in cubes, add half as many chopped nuts and one cup chopped celery. Serve with boiled or mayonnaise dressing. The dressing should be quite sour. Serve on lettuce leaves.
Baked pork tenderloins—Split them nearly through, so that they will lie flat. Make a dressing of bread crumbs, melted butter, salt, cayenne, onion and little sage. Spread dressing on one-half tenderloin, turn the other half over it and sew all around. Bake, closely covered. Baste with stock or hot water and butter. Uncover for the last ten minutes to brown meat. Make a sauce or gravy in pan.
London shorbet—Make a syrup by boiling two cups sugar and two cups water ten minutes; add three-quarters cup orange juice, three tablespoons lemon juice, little grated lemon rind, one cup fruit syrup, pineapple, raspberry or strawberry, and one cup finely chopped candied fruit. Freeze to a mush. Add whites three eggs, beaten stiff, and continue freezing. Serve in glasses.

THE STIRRING SPOON
There isn't a housekeeper in the world who at some time in her life has not dropped her stirring spoon into boiling gravy and burned her fingers getting it out. This can be avoided by turning the end of the handle down in the shape of a hook, when it will catch over the edge of the pan and will not slip down into the gravy.

THE ZINC TABLE
Is there in your kitchen a corner where a three-cornered zinc table can be fitted? If not, perhaps there is a space between the stove and the kitchen table. A small zinc covered table will soon prove itself almost worth its weight in gold. Here note and kettles can be placed, for the black rings which they make can be washed off. The table can cool here, pies can sit here to cool. The zinc covered table is one of the most convenient of kitchen accessories.

TO CLEANSE A SPONGE
After a sponge is used for a short time in the bath or for cleansing, it becomes soiled and stiffened. The worst soiled sponge will become clean and sweet if soaked for a few moments in sweet milk.

TO MAKE FIGHT AGAINST ATTEMPT AT EXTRADITION

Maurice Levy and Wife Give Bond Today to Await the Arrival of Papers From Louisiana

WILL ASK GOVERNOR TO ALLOW HEARING

New Orleans Case Will Present Serious Legal Fight When Time Comes

Maurice Levy and wife, arrested yesterday by Detective Potts on request of the superintendent of police of New Orleans, gave bond in the sum of $500 each this morning to await the arrival of extradition papers, and then will commence a legal fight to prevent them being taken to New Orleans.

The story leading up to the time of the arrest is one of romance, of the false friend, of girlish innocence, and man's fidelity. Mrs. Levy was a young lady of New Iberia, La. She was engaged to marry Maurice Levy, a drummer for a jewelry house, who has a good position, and who has been making regular business trips to her home town. She was visiting in New Orleans in February, and young Levy called on her there. When time for his departure came, she, accompanied by a young lady friend from New Iberia, accompanied him to the depot. He introduced a supposed friend by the name of Marselles to the girls, and asked Marselles to accompany them back to the uncle of Mrs. Levy. After leaving the station, Mrs. Levy says that the friend of her fiance insulted her and she forced him to take her home at once. It appears that later he became involved with the other girl in very serious complications, which resulted in his arrest. The detectives came to Mrs. Levy and asked if she had been insulted. She stated that she had, and acting upon the idea that an insult meant something more serious than improper proposals, they took her to police headquarters to appear as a witness against the man under arrest. In the meantime the young lady had telephoned over long distance to her sweetheart, Mr. Levy, and he had taken the first train to be with her. As soon as he arrived there he married her, and the police, after notifying her to be in call as a witness, released her. That was February 29. They went from there to New Iberia, and then came into Texas. They have been here a week, visiting friends at 131 Broadway. They had their trunks sent here, and were enjoying a very pleasant honeymoon.

The telegram asking that the two be arrested stated that Mrs. Levy is wanted for violating article 880 of the Louisiana revised statutes, which is for refusing to testify in a criminal case, and Mr. Levy for article 881, which is for persuading a witness to leave the state. The local officers made the complaint of being fugitives, but there is no such offense in this state. Messrs. Scott & McLean her, the case and secured the release of the two on bonds of $500 each to await the arrival of extradition papers.

Mrs. Levy said to The Telegram: "I am not going back there at all. I do not want to testify in a criminal case, I was not injured by the man more than an insult, and I am out of it and will stay out of it. The man betrayed the confidence of my husband."

Mr. Levy said: "I may not be able to go into Louisiana for awhile, but I guess I can travel the balance of the country. I won't take my wife back to Louisiana unless I have to."

The attorneys in the case say they will exhaust every means known to law to stop the extradition. Governor Lanham is to be asked to allow a hearing before the case is decided by him. Then habeas corpus will be resorted to.

SANTA FE OFFICIALS HERE

A party of Santa Fe officials arrived here this morning in a special train of three coaches. The members of the party are Colonel L. J. Polk, second vice president; John E. Bailey, manager of the Galveston Wharf Company; Mr. Tague of Galveston; W. C. Nixon, general manager of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe; W. E. Symons, mechanical superintendent; Cleburne; F. G. Pettibone, general superintendent, and W. L. Sheldon, car accountant.

The party is taking in the convention today. Colonel Polk and party are en route north and will leave here tonight for Kansas City.

Mr. Nixon and Mr. Pettibone will remain in Fort Worth until tomorrow morning.

FROM WACO TO THURBER

Proposed Railroad is Being Discussed Today

WACO, Texas, March 8.—(Special.)—Big delegations are here today from towns in Bosque, Erath, Hamilton and Somervell counties, to further the arrangements for the railroad from Waco to Thurber, with two branch lines leading out from Meridian. It was announced that construction can begin within ninety days at Waco if the matter is settled satisfactorily. The meeting is in progress this afternoon with the business men.

The Southwestern Ice Manufacturers' Association opened a two days' session this morning.

PANIC ON STREET CAR

Prevented by Cool Heads--Many Were Frightened, None Hurt

Last night, about 11 o'clock, considerable excitement was caused in a North Side car as it climbed the grade back of the courthouse.

The controller or rheostat on the front of the car caught fire, due to a short circuit, and without warning burst into a terrific sputtering flame.

At the first outbreak the passengers were terror-stricken; women screamed, men pushed and shoved and one small boy in his fright attempted to jump through a window pane.

It looked for a moment as if there would be a panic, but a few cool-headed passengers yelled to the crowd to keep quiet and accidents were thus averted.

After trying to adjust the disabled controller and being unable to do so, the conductor told all passengers to take the next car. This they did, the women still nervous and clinging to their escorts, and the cattlemen joking about their narrow escape.

MISSISSIPPIANS DIE IN A DUEL

VAIDEN, Miss., March 8.—News has reached here that in a fight between Aaron Stewart and son on one side and W. W. Hill and two sons on the other, the Stewarts shot and killed W. W. Hill and his son John Hill and seriously wounded Hunter Hill. The weapons used were pistols. The difficulty arose in a dispute over a boundary line. The parties were neighbors living about twelve miles west of here.

Yes!

We are proud of them. Come and see them. We have a beautiful line of Spring Oxfords, just arrived.

WOMAN AND THE DOG

Chicago Club Member Makes Out a Strong Case

CHICAGO, March 8.—Mrs. Lawrence Hodgkinson, at the meeting of the Progressive Health Club, has declared the heart of the woman of wealth generally is more responsive to the whine of a dog than to the appeal of a girl who is homeless and penniless. Dr. Anna Holm said "the mother's criminal neglect in permitting her daughter to grow up in ignorance" was the first step toward suicide.

OHIO MOB WILL GO UNPUNISHED FOR LYNCHING

Great Crowds Visit Scene of Negro's Killing at Springfield, Ohio--No Disposition to Arrest Leaders

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, March 8.—Great crowds today visited the scene of last night's lynching of Richard Dickerson or Dixon, who killed Policeman Collis.

Hundreds came over the traction lines and others in vehicles attracted by news of the lynching. At the court house and the sheriff's residence which stand side by side, people gathered and discussed the tragedy. There apparently was no disposition to make an effort to discover the mob leaders.

While the lynching is deplored, the community is almost a unit in believing it taught the lawless element of the city a wholesome lesson. Mayor Charles J. Bowler did everything possible to prevent the lynching. Major T. Kirkpatrick called out companies B and E, Third Ohio Infantry, at 10:45 last night, but it was impossible to get the soldiers together. Judge D. Mower, of the common pleas court, is deeply chagrined over the action of the mob. He was making arrangements to call a special grand jury to try Dixon. It is not believed there will be any investigation into the action of the mob.

THE LYNCHING

At 11 o'clock last night the negro,

Richard Dixon, was taken from the jail and shot to death in the jail yard and the body was taken from there to the corner of Main street and Fountain avenue and hanged to a telegraph pole, where the mob spent the next half hour riddling the body with bullets from several hundred revolvers.

The mob forced an entrance to the jail by battering in the east doors with a railroad iron. At 10:30 the mob melted rapidly and it was the general opinion that no more attempts would be made to force an entrance. Small groups of men, however, could be seen in the shadows of the court house, two adjacent livery stables and several dwelling houses. At 10:45 the police were satisfied that there was nothing more to fear, and they with other officials and newspaper men passed freely in and out of the jail.

Dixon shot Policeman Collis Sunday morning in the former's room in the Jones hotel, and Collis died at noon yesterday. Collis had served twelve years on the force and was regarded as one of the most reliable and efficient men in the police department.

CATTLE RAISERS' ASSOCIATION OF TEXAS

The Cattle Raisers Association of Texas was organized February, 1877, at the town of Graham, Young County, Texas.

Col. C. L. Carter of Palo Pinto county was elected its first president, and was elected each succeeding year, except one, to the time of his death in July, 1888. The term which he did not serve he was nominated, but requested that he be allowed to retire from his office on account of age, and that it be filled by a younger and more active member. Col. C. C. Slaughter was elected to take his place in March, 1888, and served one year with honor to himself and satisfaction to the membership. At the annual meeting in 1886, Col. Carter was again chosen president by acclamation, without a dissenting voice, and was president when he died. Col. Carter was a pioneer cattle and frontiersman, having settled in Palo Pinto County in 1855, on the place where he died. He experienced many trials and troubles with hostile Indians; in addition to the heavy loss of property at the hands of the savages, he lost his oldest son, a bright and promising young man, just as he was growing into manhood, while on a cow hunt on his range. It was the good fortune of most of the older members of the Association to have known Col. Carter for many years prior to his death. They are all of the opinion "that no better man ever lived or died; that he possessed many, if not all of the qualities necessary to make a good man."

After the death of the lamented President Carter, Mr. A. P. Bush, Jr., of Colorado, Texas, was elected each year to fill the position of president up to March, 1899, which he filled with credit to himself and to the entire satisfaction of the members. At the annual meeting in March, 1899, Mr. Bush declined to be an applicant for the position of president, and nominated Mr. R. J. Kleberg, of Alice, Texas, as his successor. Mr. Kleberg was elected without opposition, the vote being unanimous.

At the annual meeting in March, 1900, R. J. Kleberg was re-elected to the office of president without opposition, and served the association two years, the limit under the present by-laws, with honor to himself and to the satisfaction of the members. At the annual meeting in March, 1901, Mr. Murdo Mackenzie was elected president without opposition and served the association two years, the limit prescribed by the by-law, with credit to himself, and his administration of the general manager of the association from 1884 to the time of his death, November 24, 1902, when J. W. Colston was chosen, by the executive committee, as assistant secretary, to fill out the unexpired term of Mr. Loving.

After a service of nearly twenty-six years as secretary of the association, and eighteen years as general manager, J. C. Loving expired November 24, 1902, at his home in Fort Worth. To him, more than any one man, is due the success of the association, and to his memory will be erected a monument by the association, as a token of appreciation of the man and his valuable services.

At the annual meeting in March, 1903, Captain John T. Lytle was elected secretary and general manager.

The association keeps cattle inspectors at the principal markets, shipping points on trails leading out of the state, also looks after the range depredations, and gives more and better protection to cattle growers than can be obtained from all other sources combined; has broken up more organized bands of thieves and sent more of them to the penitentiary than could have been done by any other power. This department of the association is under the management of an executive committee chosen at each annual meeting. For this year it is composed of W. W. Turney, ex-officio chairman; I. T. Pryor, Richard Walsh, A. C. Boyce, S. B. Burnett, J. D. Jackson, R. H. Harris, Dr. E. B. Frayser, D. B. Gardner, R. J. Kleberg, T. A. Coleman, R. D. Gage, M. C. Campbell, H. E. Crowley and Jno. T. Fort Worth Stock Yards

Few cattlemen who attend the convention in Fort Worth will return home without having paid at least a short visit to the stock yards and packing plants in North Fort Worth. It will therefore be of much interest to those contemplating this visit to learn something regarding the organization that has constructed and controls these yards.

The Fort Worth Stock Yards is a separate and distinct company from the packing houses. The business of the stock yards consists in getting stock to the Fort Worth market and caring for them until bought by the packers. Armour & Co., Swift & Co. and others buy the stock and do the slaughtering.

The Fort Worth Stock Yards Company was reorganized and capitalized some two years ago on a very extensive scale. The company's large stock most conveniently arranged by being divided into blocks and pens. The pens and alleys are paved with brick, and broad walks are built for the convenience of people around the yards. The hog department is very large and double decked, with yarding capacity of 10,000 daily. The sheep, horse and mule departments have no equals in this country.

All the supplies of material used in the construction of these buildings, consisting of brick, lumber, cement, etc., were purchased of Texas concerns, the different corporations even going so far as to pay a premium to home industries, which it is needless to say, entitles the packing house people to their good will for all time to come. The great brick fields of Thuber and Millisap were taxed to their utmost capacity, and the lumber mills worked night and day turning out the work. The buildings occupy about twenty-five acres of ground and there are no less than fifteen million bricks and twelve million feet of lumber in the completed plant. Several hundred car-loads of cement have gone into the structure, and train-loads of machinery for the operation of the plant by labor-saving devices have been put into the place. The brick, lumber, cement, and other material used in the construction are almost entirely products of Texas manufacture.

There are nearly a million square feet of floor space in the buildings. The first thing that will probably attract the visitor's notice is the large sign covering the west walls of the long row of refrigerator buildings. This sign is 400 feet long and 30 feet high. It is said to be the largest in the state.

The buildings are arranged in two long rows located on either side of a system of railroad tracks and joined together by a trussed roof extending the entire length of the buildings, so that the loading and unloading will be done under cover. From start to finish every detail of construction is in accordance with the latest and most approved designs.

In the first row of buildings are hotel corridors during the conventions of the future by the old-timers while the men of that day discuss the merits of his success—the hornless Texas steer.

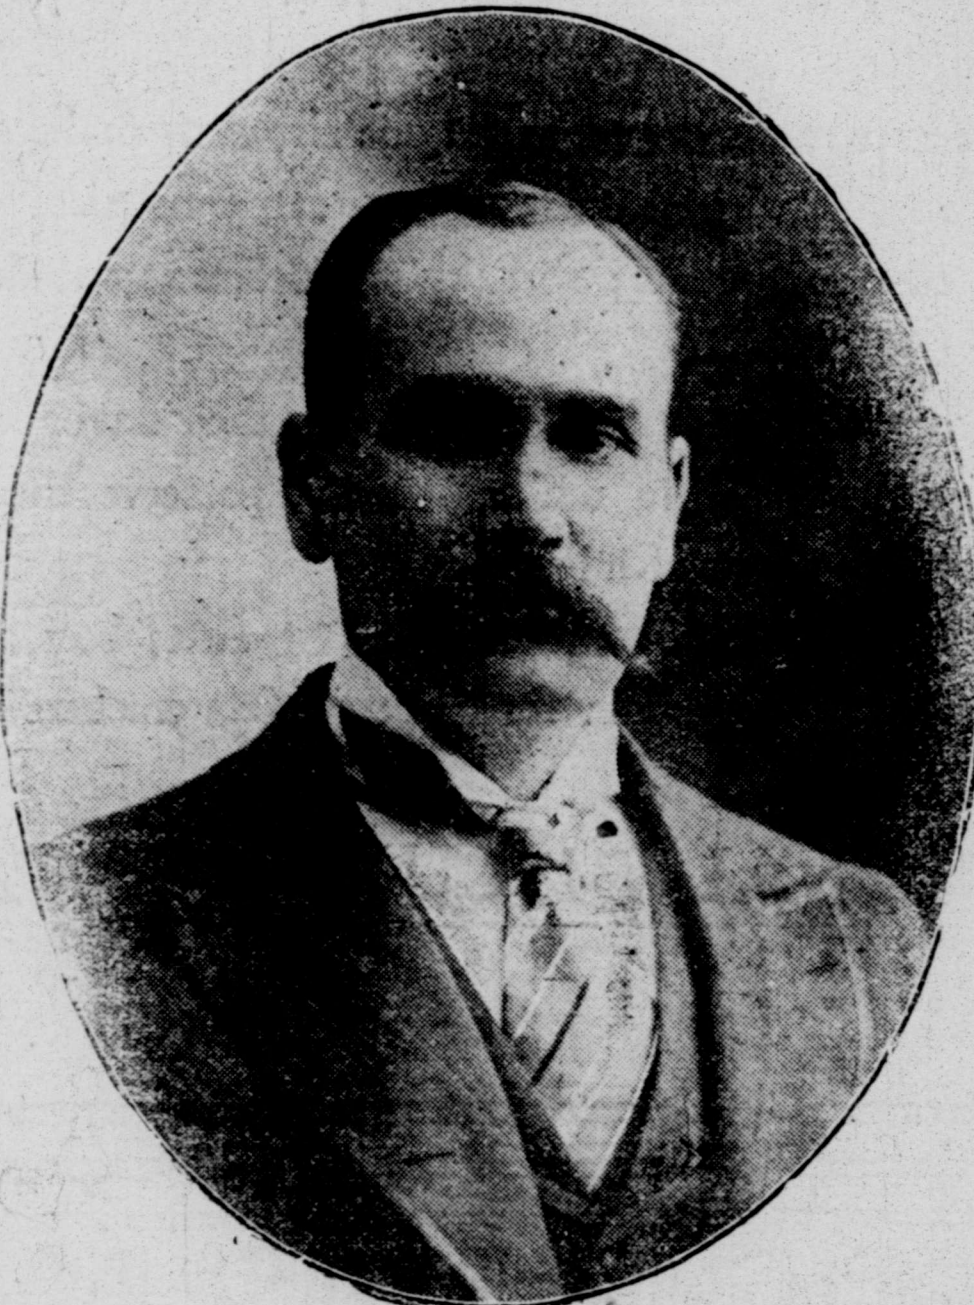

"That this will be the situation in the future is realized by many of the cattle raisers in the Panhandle and by none more than by W. M. Waddell of Odessa, the pioneer shipper of Texas feeding cattle to the corn belt."

Speaking of the situation yesterday, Mr. Waddell said: "The only hope of the cattlemen in the Panhandle is to meet the demand for hornless cattle by starting in at once and dehorning the spring calves. This present situation is in line with 50 per cent this year if the present conditions continue. The solution and the only solution is to meet the situation by dehorning the cattle, and as this can not be done after the animals are grown without setting them back we must dehorn the calves, and we must do it right away."

And thus it comes that another sentimentality is forced to give way to the practical demands of trade and the successor of the longhorn is succeeded in his turn.

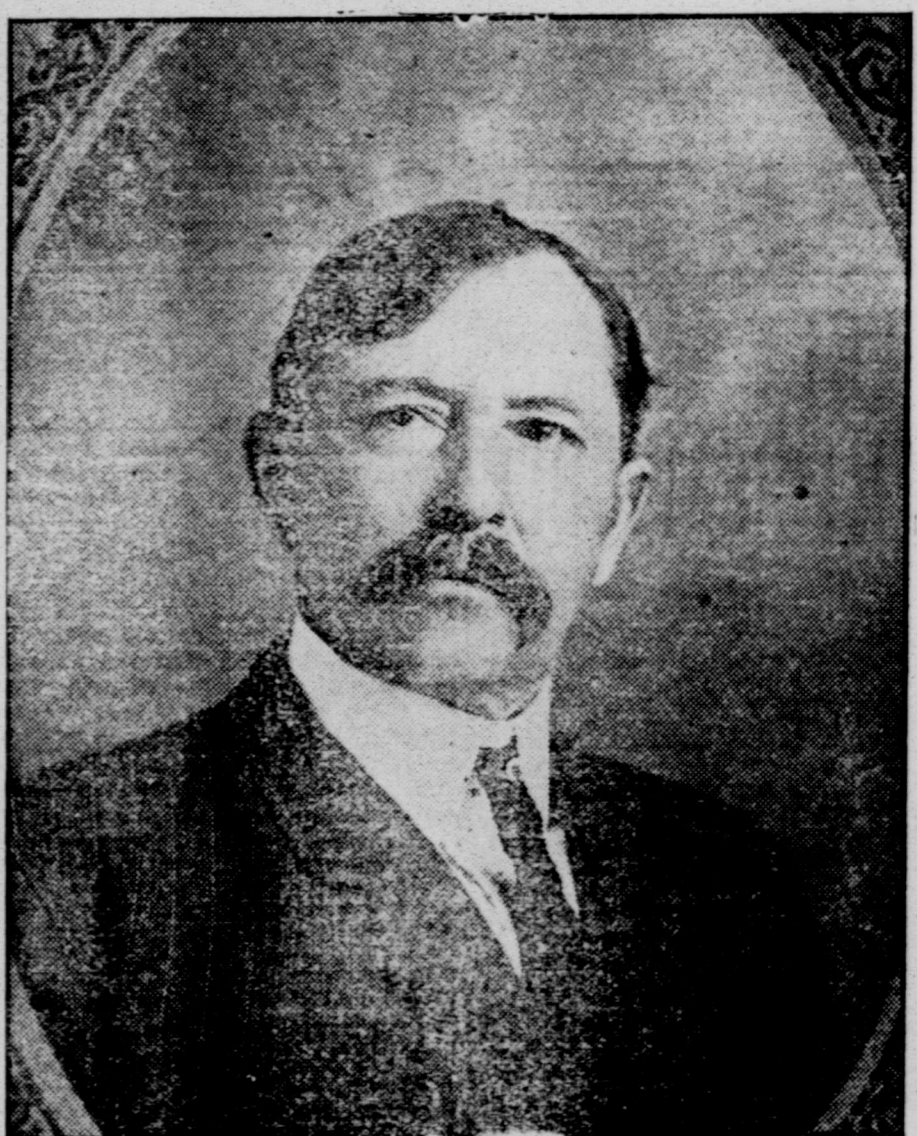

"The king is dead. Long live the king."

unanimously endorsed by the association. At the annual meeting in March, 1903, Mr. W. W. Turney was elected president without opposition.

Mr. J. D. Smith was the first vice-president, holding the position for one term. Messrs. J. B. Mathews and J. R. Stephens were the two vice-presidents selected at the second convention. Mr. Stephens was chosen each year for a number of years thereafter, till he would no longer serve, and was then selected an honorary member for life. The other vice-presidents have been Messrs. C. C. Slaughter, J. M. Lindsay, Jno. F. Evans, W. S. Ward, A. P. Bush, Jr., J. W. Butler, Murdo Mackenzie, Dr. J. B. Taylor, S. B. Burnett, R. J. Kleberg, A. G. Boyce, L. F. Wilson, W. W. Turney, John T. Lytle, I. T. Pryor and Richard Walsh—the last two being the present incumbents.

J. C. Loving of Jack county was elected secretary at the organization of the association, and was re-elected each succeeding year to the time of his death. In 1879 he was elected treasurer, and filled both positions to March, 1893, when E. B. Harrold was elected treasurer, which position he held until March, 1900, when S. B. WAXAHACHIE SCHOOL BONDS

(Special).—At the monthly meeting of the county commissioners' court held yesterday afternoon an order was passed authorizing the investment of $18,000 of the county's permanent school fund in Waxahachie school house building bonds. The series of bonds issued by the city for a new school building amount to $24,000, and it is believed the county will take the remaining $6,000 some time during the summer. This action of the commissioners practically assures the building of a new school house before the next school term. The plans and specifications were prepared several months ago, but on account of a failure to dispose of the bonds the work on the building has been greatly delayed. The building will be a three-story structure constructed of brick.

While the commissioners were in session they ordered an election for school district No. 2 to determine whether a special school tax shall be levied. The election will be held Saturday, April 2.

pens have been removed to new quarters, and every facility for handling stock in the best and most approved style is being used by the Fort Worth Stock Yards Company, which is indisputably at the head of the great cattle interests of Fort Worth, by right of its age and magnitude.

The stock yards property covers 500 acres of land, all of which is given up to tracks, chutes, alleys and pens for the accommodation of growing trade. Every pen in the yards is supplied with pure water and has perfect drainage. There are separate chutes for loading cars of stock at one time, and employment is given to one hundred yardmen and laborers. The cattle department has a capacity of 10,000 head per day, and is the vast quantities of lumber needed by these institutions. All told, there were used twenty million brick and eighteen million feet of lumber.

The Live Stock Exchange building is built after the "Alamo Mission" style, and is about 250 feet square, with large galleries all around. It contains fifty offices, including the large bank and administration offices. The building is lighted by electricity, and contains a dining room, barber shop, baths, telegraph and railroad offices and a bank.

The following gentlemen are the officers of the Fort Worth Stock Yards Company: J. Ogden Armour, president; Edward F. Swift, vice president; W. B. King, manager; O. W. Matthews, secretary and treasurer.

The Packing Industry

The old saying, "a penny saved is a penny earned," explains in a large measure the growth of the modern packing business. Everything has value, and nations and individuals are rewarded in proportion to the best use they make of the material resources with which they are surrounded and the talents with which they are endowed.

In no line of enterprise has greater attention been paid to the best utilization of all portions of the raw material handled than in the slaughtering of meat animals by Armour & Company. Large plants, employing thousands of skilled laborers under the direction of chemical experts, are saving and making of value hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of products not used for food and which under the old plan of small killing by local butchers was absolutely thrown away.

The utilization of all this formerly wasted material can only be accomplished where stock is killed in large numbers, as the plants for taking care of such products are very expensive and beyond the reach of the local butcher, as he does not have material enough to keep them going. This fact, coupled with the development of refrigeration, has had much to do with the creation of large cattle markets in the Mississippi Valley section of the country, and has been of vast benefit not only to the stock grower, but to the world, as thousands of people are employed in the manufacture of these by-products which would not be so if the killing of cattle was conducted by small butchers in the various towns. The large packer pays more for cattle than the small butcher, who throws away this material, and at the same time the consumer of meat all over the country pays less for them than under the old plan, while the stockman can feed as many cattle as he desires, knowing that he can ship them any day in the year to any of these large markets and obtain a prompt sale and quick returns. This puts the live stock business on a sound basis and all interests are benefited.

It is impossible to fully realize the magnitude of the industry here represented without detailed knowledge of its plant, scope and equipment. A complete story of the packing industry would make very interesting and mit of a very comprehensive sketch of the perfect organization by which the business of Armour & Company permeates every corner of the commercial world.

The new Armour & Company packing plant stands on an elevation above the Trinity river bottoms two miles north of Fort Worth in the city of North Fort Worth, which is reached from the city of Fort Worth by electric cars of the North Texas Traction Company. The ground is rolling and easily drained, making the location exceptionally desirable.

located the oil house, hog killing and cutting, sheep killing and half departments. The second row of buildings include the ice making, refrigerator storage for carcass and cut meats, dry salt cellars, sweet pickle cellars, freezing room, ham house, sausage making room, smoke-house, produce and egg storage, poultry department, packing and shipping and wholesale market departments. The fertilizer storage is in a separate building.

It is said to be the best equipped packing plant in the world, embodying the most modern and economical ideas. Profiting by over 30 years experience in the packing business, this plant has been erected with the view of turning out products of the best quality at the lowest possible cost. To this end it will be noted that the buildings are arranged so as to avoid unnecessary labor in handling. It is also the first plant to adopt the new and radical departure from the old methods of tanking and rendering fat from the killing and cutting departments. By this new process the entire rendering and drying is performed in closed receptacles and no objectionable odors are created, which usually prove so obnoxious to residents in the vicinity of packing houses. This is the most pronounced change made in packing-house methods in the last decade.

A list of the products turned out by Armour & Company include the well-known brand of "Star Hams and Bacon," "Shield Lard Brand," one hundred varieties of canned meats, fresh meats, mince meat, extract of beef, toilet and laundry soaps, glue, poultry food, silver churn butterine, curled hair and sand paper.

Visitors will be welcomed at the plant from 9 to 12 and 1:30 to 4 o'clock.

DEMAND IS FOR CATTLE WHICH HAVE NO HORNS

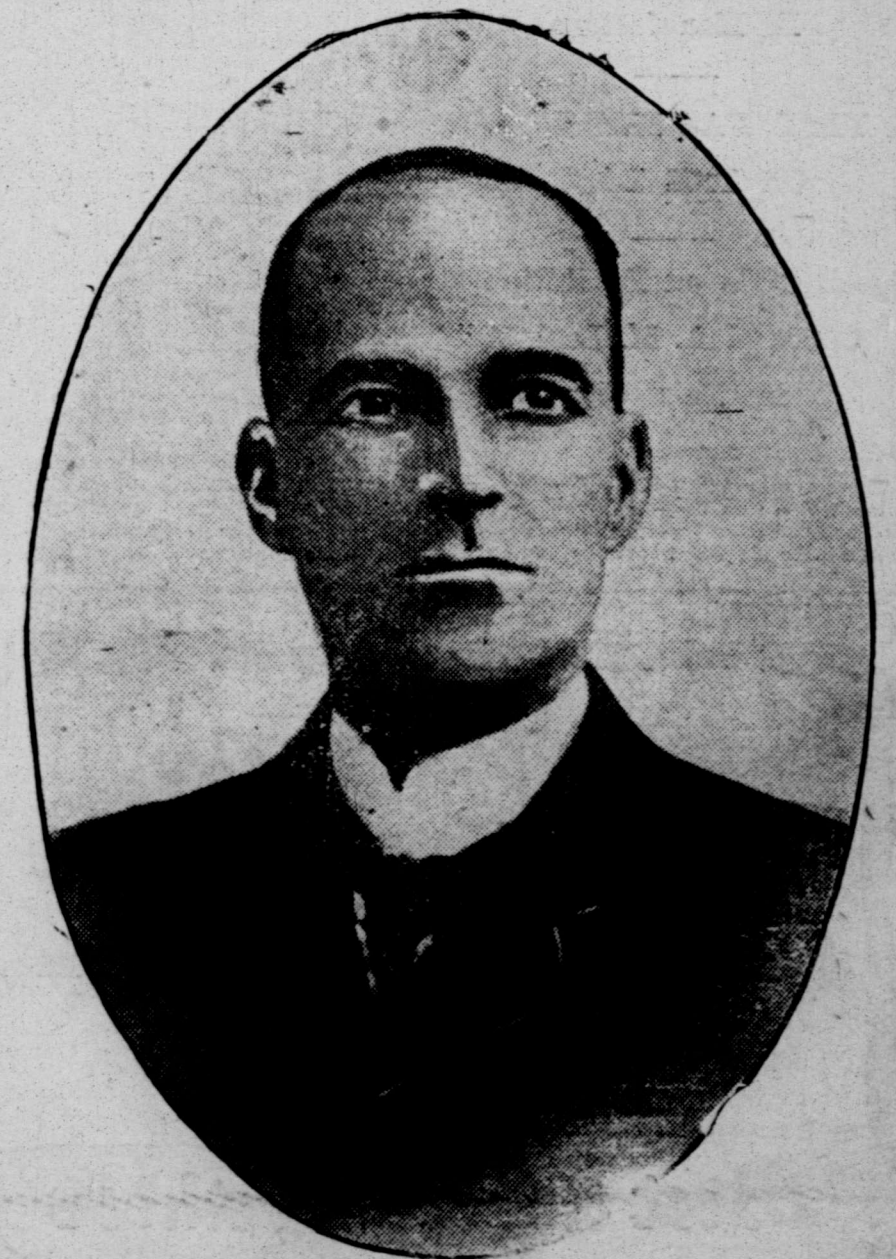

The long-horned Texas steer, famous alike in romance and live stock history, has gone and the short-horned steer, now the pride of the Texas cattlemen, is about to give way to the demands of the market and following in the wake of his long-horned predecessor, become a thing of the past, to be talked over in

HILL COUNTY REPUBLICANS

HILLSBORO, Texas, March 4.—(Special).—There is a merry republican row on in this county. It started Saturday when a primary convention was held in one of the jury rooms at the court house by Lyon sympathizers. It is claimed by those not friendly to Lyon, or rather who favored Hawley or Green for national committeeman, that the Lyon republicans took snap judgment on them and held the convention in a clandestine way purposely to prevent them from being present and from having a voice in the matter. The result will be that a county mass convention will be held which will send a contesting delegation going up to the state convention. The opponents of Lyon claim that they represent the largest body of republicans in the county and that they will not tamely submit to such proceedings.

You Say You Know

Uneeda Biscuit

But, Do You?

What are they? Soda Crackers. How do they differ from ordinary crackers?

First—In the making. Second—In the keeping!

They are made as no other soda crackers were ever made before, as no one else can make soda crackers—

Of the best material the world affords; in the most modern bakeries science can construct; under the cleanest conditions care can devise.

When they come from the oven they are so crisp and tender; so flaky and delicious; so delicate in substance and flavor, that they must be treated as a precious thing—and they are!

To preserve their goodness; to protect them from strange hands; to retain their flavor for your enjoyment, they are sealed in beautiful air tight packages, from which you serve them, and in which you can preserve them from one meal to another.

And the price of all this quality is only 5 cents—think of it!

Now that we have told our story, if you would really know Uneeda Biscuit, buy a package. After that you will never again deprive your family of such a luxury or waste your money for ordinary soda crackers in a common paper bag.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

THIS MACHINE WILL DESTROY BOLL WEEVILS

Man From Washington County
Brings an Invention to Fort Worth to Arrange for Its Manufacture

A TEST WAS MADE
ON THE LAST CROP

Specimen Is on Exhibition at Office of A. M. Lockett in This City

There is on exhibition in this city a machine which has been invented by J. B. McClusky of Brenham, which is designed to exterminate the boll weevil. It is now being shown at the office of A. M. Lockett of the Southwestern Oil Company, and a proposition is on foot to have it manufactured in this city.

Mr. McClusky's machine consists of two pans four and one-half feet in length attached to running gear. There is a space of a half inch between the two pans. The whole is covered with canvas on the order of the wagon sheets which formed the old-fashioned prairie schooner. The front of the covering is open, and the rear can be closed to make an aperture just large enough for the bush of the cotton plant to clear. The entire machine weighs ninety pounds and is drawn by one horse.

The plan is to draw the machine along the cotton row so that the stalk will pass between the two pans. There are vibrators attached which disturb the stalks, and shake off the weevils and the punctured squares.

There was a test made with the machine on a farm in Washington county, at the beginning of last season. The cotton was then six or eight inches high. On six rows, each 132 steps long, the pans collected forty-six weevils.

A test was made later when cotton was fifteen or twenty inches high. It caught 250 weevils in three hours, and one-half bushel of punctured squares.

The acre of ground on which the machine worked, yielded 1,000 pounds of seed cotton. The other land on the same farm, where the machine did not work, yielded 350 pounds to the acre.

Mr. McClusky believes he has solved the problem. While the machine may not get all the weevils, it will get enough of them, if energetically worked, to make inroads upon the propagation of the pest. The test made in Washington county shows what was done on one acre out of a crop. He believes that had he worked the entire crop as he did the one acre, he would have had better results per acre. Mr. McClusky showed the machine to the Texas boll weevil commission. It was then late in the season, and an agreement was had with the commission that a test of the machine would be officially made some time this spring. Mr. McClusky desired to start the crop year with it, rather than to go into the matter late in the season.

Mr. McClusky estimates that the machine can be manufactured at a cost of $25 retail, and this will enable the renters as well as the land owners to possess it.

GROUND BROKEN FOR BUILDING BY REYNOLDS

Store and Office Structure to Be Erected at the Corner of Eighth and Houston Streets on Once

Ground was broken yesterday morning at Eighth and Houston streets for the erection of the Reynolds store and office building, which will greet the cattlemen at that site upon their return to this city next year.

It has not yet been definitely decided as to how many stories high the building will be, the increasing demand for good offices in this section of the city having led to the decision to all a greater number of floors than was at first intended.

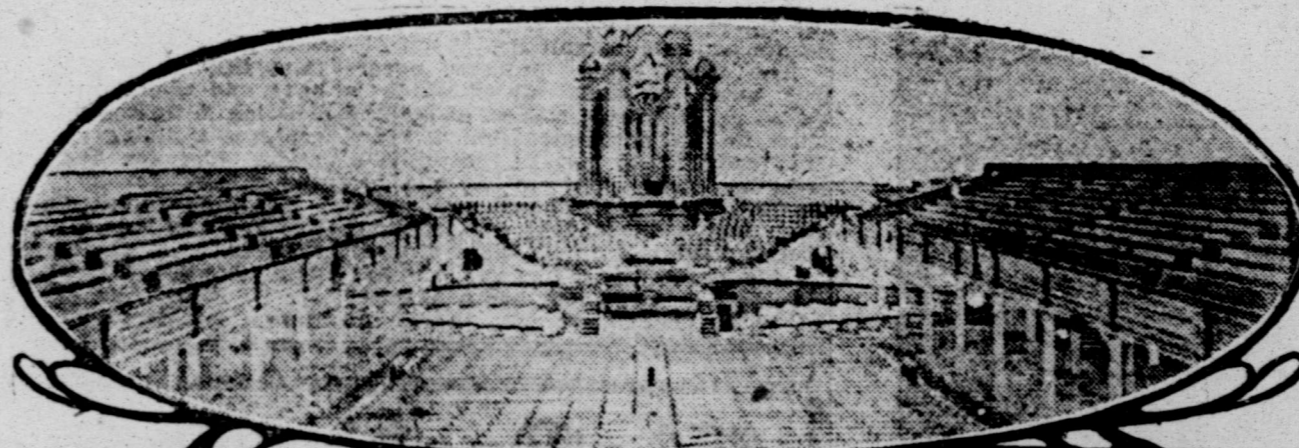

The foundations, excavations for which are now being made, will cover a space of fifty by 95 feet and the building which is being designed by W. R. Sanguinet of this city will be built of light gray pressed brick with terra cotta trimmings. The new building will be of steel construction and fire-proof throughout.

FARM WORK IN ELLIS COUNTY
WAXAHACHIE, Texas, March 8.—(Special.)—P. R. Thompson, who owns a large plantation near Astoria in this county, was in the city yesterday and said he had planted 400 acres in corn and would put in several hundred acres of cotton. He stated that farm work was well advanced in his part of the county.

Several bales of cotton were brought to Waxahachie and sold yesterday. The price ranged from 11 to 12½ cents per pound, the offering being what is known as the burr cotton.

An authority on the subject declares that many cases of defective eyesight are caused by wearing tight collars, which interfere with the circulation of blood to the head.

MORMON CHURCH HAS MOST PERFECT ORGANIZATION IN THE ENTIRE WORLD

1.—The interior of the great Mormon Temple at Salt Lake City.
2.—The exterior.

JULIUS C. BURROWS,
Chairman of the Senatorial Investigating Committee.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 8.—(Special.)—The Mormon church is stronger today than it ever was.

If it were not, President Joseph Smith never would have dared to state openly that he was practicing polygamy in defiance of state and national laws.

No church in the world is growing so fast.

Its missionaries are to be found in every community in the United States, and missions have been established in nearly every foreign country. All sorts and conditions of men are sought, and over them all the church reigns supreme.

The keynote of the Mormon faith is co-operation. Each member pays to the church one-tenth of his "income," and these "tithes" are turned in religiously.

The denomination was founded in 1830 by Jos. Smith, of Sharon, Vt. The government of the church is a hierarchy, consisting of two orders of priesthood.

The Order of Melchizedek is presided over by a president and two counselors. It includes the "twelve apostles," "the seventies," the patriarch, the high priests and the elders.

The Aaronic order is an inferior one, made up of bishops, priests, teachers and deacons.

The duties of the Aaronic order are largely secular. The territory of the church is divided and subdivided into districts. This makes easier the collection of tithes and the government of the faithful. The bishops preside over districts and direct the work of the teachers.

There is a teacher for every two blocks in the city and for so many square miles in the country. They keep tab on the members, collect tithes and direct the temporal as well as spiritual affairs of their charges.

The teachers meet every month in each ward of district, report on conditions, and explain the doing of each man or woman under them.

The bishops listen to these reports and report in turn at a conference of bishops to the council of the apostles.

Is it any wonder then that a church with such a perfect organization can control a state and name every official, from governor to constable?

The co-operative principle is carried into the business affairs of the Mormons. Besides being president of the church, Smith is president of a dozen of the biggest commercial organizations in the state, including the Zion Co-operative Mercantile Co., Zion Savings Bank and Trust Co., State Bank of Utah, Consolidated Wagon and Machine Co., Utah Sugar Co., Utah Light and Power Co., Inland Crystal Salt Co., and many others.

As the church is supported by "tithes," it is necessary that the members succeed financially, and the church sees to it that they do.

When the church exercises such absolute control over its members in business and religion, it will be seen how readily it can control them politically.

There are nearly five hundred Christian churches in Japan and over one thousand missionaries.

CAPT. RICHARD WAINWRIGHT U.S. NAVY

NEWARK ENTERPRISE ARCH

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.—(Special)—They have a feeling at the navy department that with Capt. Richard Wainwright at San Domingo, the interests of the United States in that quarter are in the hands of one of the best officers in the service.

He has the look of a parson, the voice of a commander and the bearing of a warrior.

Wainwright was executive officer, being second in command to Capt. Sigsbee, when the battleship Maine was blown up in Havana harbor. He begged the department for a command that would take him to the front and enable him to get some degree of revenge on the Spaniards.

He engaged two Spanish torpedo boat destroyers and poured into them a hail of shells that made it impossible for the Dons to stand by their guns. To Wainwright, with the little Gloucester, belongs the credit for the sinking of those destroyers.

After the Spanish war Wainwright was made the commanding officer at the Annapolis naval academy. The appointment was made, not only because of his ordinary qualification for the position, but that an officer of his type might be at the academy as an example for the midshipmen.

Wainwright is now in command of the Newark. He has been instructing some of the presidents of San Domingo as to the rights of American citizens down there. Those who know Wainwright well, would recommend to the presidents that when they get word from him they give it heed.

which have now been completed have been going on.

When the allied army went to the relief of the legations at Peking during the Boxer uprising the Japanese surprised all the other officers in the column by the completeness of their information regarding the country. Their maps are still the marvel of every officer who saw them. They possessed large maps showing in detail the character of the country. These maps were divided into small sections and for each section there was a large map, which was the section magnified. These maps not only showed the rivers and hills, but the ridges and gullies. In fact every topographical feature of the land, however small, and in addition every field, every grove of trees, every cluster of huts, was plainly marked. So complete were these maps that in almost every case fences were marked and the kind of grain grown in the fields was designated. They were without doubt the most marvelous maps ever carried into the field by any army.

I spoke to a Japanese engineer officer the other day about the surprise expressed by American army officers. He laughed and said: "If those maps surprised them, they should see our military maps of Korea. Our engineers have been at work there for ten years and it safe to say that there is not a tree in Korea that has not been mapped a half dozen times."

There is an example of the way the Japanese have prepared for the war. There is not a branch of the service that has not done its work as thoroughly.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 10, 1904. To the Masonic Fraternities of Texas. Bright's Disease and Diabetes are now positively curable. The recoveries run into the thousands and include not only many of our best citizens but the very highest degree Masons (several of the thirty-third degree), Knights Templars, Shriner, etc.

A sense of duty and love of their fellow moved a number of these to give us permission to use their names in order that the world may know of the genuineness of this discovery. Among them are such men as ex-Surveyor General Theo. Reichert, N. W. Spaulding (now deceased) late president Spaulding Saw Co., and United States sub-treasurer, and A. G. Deardorff. M. D. General Reichert recovered himself after twelve years of suffering with Diabetes, N. W. Spaulding's daughter recovered from Bright's Disease after he had spent thousands of dollars and years of time and believed her death inevitable. Dr. Deardorff had several patients recover—extreme cases of both Bright's Disease and Diabetes, one of them being an old school physician.

In the interest of humanity these gentlemen have permitted us to take their affidavits to be given to anxious inquirers. Sincerely, JOHN J. FULTON CO. 409 Washington St., San Francisco. MARVELOUS NOBILITY OF THE MIKADO'S MEN

(By Will H. Brill, Special Commissioner and War Correspondent of the Newspaper Enterprise Association in the Far East.)

(Special to The Telegram.) TOKIO, Japan, February 18.—The Japanese army is the wonder of the military world. For centuries Japan has been a warrior nation, but it is only within the past twenty years that the warlike nature of the people has been curbed and systematized. A quarter of a century ago the Japanese army consisted of a horde of barbarians, who fought with great swords and spears and bows and arrows and carried great banners which were designed to frighten the enemy. Today the army is as well drilled and as well equipped as any army in Europe. It has been trained by European army drill masters and many of its officers have been educated in European and American military schools.

The world first realized that the island empire had become a military power when the war with China took place and when Japanese troops led the march to the relief of the legations at Peking, during the Boxer uprising. Then expert observers were compelled to admit the superiority of the Japanese soldiers in many ways.

Perhaps the first point of superiority in the Japanese army is its mobility. This is due in a great measure to the men themselves, independent of their military training. The Japanese is a very hardy race. For centuries his ancestors have been hard-working men and women. Although small in stature from a western standpoint, the average being about five feet three or four inches, they are wonderfully strong and capable of going through an enormous amount of hard work without fatigue. Their ability to push over the ground in forced marches is marvelous.

I have just seen an example of it. A company of infantry passed me on the street, going on a rapid dog trot. My staid man and to be used to keep up with them at all and within a very few minutes he was hopelessly left. Twenty minutes later we met the same detachment coming back. They stopped before their barracks and not a man of the 250 was breathing faster than he would have done had he been sitting still for an hour. Yet inquiry from the officers elicited the information that these men, in heavy marching order, with knapsacks, blankets and guns and all equipment, had covered four miles at double time without a halt, a feat that few men, let alone a whole company in any European army could accomplish, and this was not an isolated case. Every company, probably every soldier, in the Japanese army can do the same thing and more.

European military experts have held that the lack of cavalry in the Japanese army would seriously hinder them in the field. There is only a small amount of cavalry in the army, and it is very much below the European standard. There are few horses in Japan and the Japanese are not good horsemen. The horses of the island are small and very vicious and, while they have good staying qualities, they make very poor cavalry mounts.

A feature which helps toward the mobility of the army is the simple ration required by the soldiers. The Japanese eat very little, and on forced marches a handful of rice and a cup of tea will do these wonderful little fighting machines as well as three square meals. Of course, the army ration includes much more than this, and American beef and other foodstuffs are now being added to the ration, but for forced marches the commissariat can be far the simplest of any modern army.

Another feature that makes the Japanese an unusually good soldier is his obedience. For hundreds of years the lower classes, of which the rank and file of the army is largely made up, have been taught to look up to and obey their superiors, the classes from which the officers are chosen. This inborn respect makes the discipline of the army almost perfect.

While it is entirely a sentimental reason, the great and universal patriotism of the Japanese people adds greatly to the value of the Japanese as soldiers. They are fatalists and therefore worry little about the chances of losing their lives. They love their country and their flag and to fight and die for them is the greatest glory attainable at the home of one island another Japanese lady, who is childless, said to me seriously: "What a fortunate woman she is, that she has four sons to fight for our country." That is a spirit that wins battles and will never suffer defeat.

While H. Brill, Special Commissioner and War Correspondent of the Newspaper Enterprise Association in the Far East.) TOKIO, Japan, Feb. 18.—One does not realize until he comes to Japan and sees the warlike preparations in the streets of the capital what mammoth preparations Japan has been making for the inevitable conflict with Russia which has now come. For more than twenty years Japan has known that sooner or later war with Russia must come, and every day since the close of the war with China, nearly ten years ago, every effort of the government has been turned towards getting ready for this war. That Japan is perfectly prepared for the war is beyond doubt. Her storehouses are crowded with munitions of war and with food and clothing for her army and her navy. Every possible arrangement has been made and not the slightest point has been over-

We will let him tell it: "Two years ago during a political campaign, I caught cold after being overworked, which irritated my throat and I was finally compelled to stop as I could not speak aloud. In my extremity a friend advised me to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I took two doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when I found the next morning the inflammation had largely subsided. I took several doses that day, kept right on talking through the campaign, and I think this medicine that I won my seat in the Council, for had I not been able to continue my meetings, I would no doubt have been unable to secure sufficient votes. Since that time I have praised this medicine to dozens of my friends. My wife has also used it and we find it a valuable household remedy."

stampede among the democratic members of congress to get into the Alton B. Parker band wagon. In fact the indications point to his nomination being an assured fact long before the democratic national convention to be held in St. Louis. From present indications that convention will merely ratify Parker's nomination. Little has been heard during the past ten days about the presidential aspirations of Senator Arthur P. Gorman of Maryland. His boom seems to have "died aborning." But it was not reasonable to suppose that the democratic party would nominate as its standard bearer in the next campaign a man who was only able to return to the United States senate as a result of the enactment of legislation disfranchising a large percentage of the negroes, and a considerable percentage of the white vote, of his state. In order to carry several of the doubtful middle western states it is necessary that the democrats should poll a fair percentage of the negro vote. Should Gorman be nominated the negro vote in Indiana, Illinois, Nebraska, Kansas and other western states would be cast solidly for the republican nominee. And in order to win the democrats must carry at least two of these states. The William B. Hearst boom, which seemed to be reaching large proportions three weeks ago, and which was encouraged by William Jennings Bryan, has been punctured, and while there are occasional delegates declaring for him throughout the country it is evident that his following will be comparatively insignificant. The candidacy of William B. Hearst has been looked upon by the older members of the party as in the nature of a joke. They have never considered it seriously. Hearst's only claim to recognition comes from his newspaper connections; his record during the last eight years as champion of organized labor, and the further fact that if nominated he could himself practically provide his campaign fund. This latter suggestion is, of course, important, though it is a well known fact that the democrats nominate Judge Parker rather than Wall street alone will provide amply the sinews of war for the campaign. But the conservative men in the democratic party well realize that Mr. Hearst cannot under the circumstances poll the full democratic vote throughout the country. He is universally regarded as the protégé of William J. Bryan. The "peerless leader" of former days is openly, vigorously and enthusiastically arguing Hearst's nomination. This is probably Hearst's greatest weakness, for it is already apparent that the delegates to the next national convention intend to eliminate Mr. Bryan as a factor in that convention. Parker has already secured pledges from the leaders of the Northern New York democracy that they will support him in the convention. The only obstacle in the way of his nomination lies in the attitude of Tammany. Leader Murphy is still advocating the nomination of Grover Cleveland, though it is believed that he will within a few days abandon the former president and fall into line with the wishes of the majority of the members of his party in the state. Advocates of Mr. Parker's nomination are now in consultation daily with Mr. Murphy and if the Tammany leader comes out, as it is expected he will, in an open declaration for Judge Parker it will practically end the controversy. Hearst, his only opponent at the present time, will withdraw from the race whenever it becomes apparent that he cannot secure at least a respectable portion of the delegates from his own state.

WANT MATTERS ADJUSTED

For the first time in the twenty-eight years' existence of the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association, packing house conditions have been injected into the meeting. This was done yesterday in the address of the president of the association, W. W. Turney, but not, according to the cowman's opinion, without just cause. The charge is made that there has been an unlawful combination of packers to control the prices of cattle on the hoof, and the president yesterday detailed the complaints of the stockmen in unheated terms.

Mr. Turney stated that the complaint coupled with the fact that the railroads have turned a deaf ear to the ruling of the interstate commerce commission that the common carriers of the commerce of the country were promulgating freight rates 25 per cent higher than they should, has placed the cattlemen in a position that demands action in the interest of self-protection. Therefore, he says that the present convention will take steps empowering the calling of a meeting of representatives of the different cattle associations west of the Mississippi river to be held very soon at some central point at which these injustices as complained of may be thoroughly discussed and some satisfactory action taken in the premises.

It was stated by President Turney that this meeting will take action calling on congress to pass such laws as will regulate freight rates and the proper movement of live stock which is now too long-delayed while in transit. He says live stock shipments are now considered too much as dead freight. When the railroads provide proper transportation for live stock, conditions will be greatly improved, said President Turney.

The cattlemen of Texas are not in the best humor over these alleged irregularities and judging from the sentiment which crept out in the meeting yesterday, there will be something done before the present year closes. It is peculiarly fitting that if a contest is to be made from any quarter, it should come from the Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas, as it is the largest organization of the kind in the world. The Texas cattlemen are better posted on the subject than any other cattlemen because the Texas cattlemen must come in touch with all conditions. The man in the northwest does not meet the contentions which are presented to the Texas producer, while on the other hand the Texas producer meets the contentions of the northwest in many ways.

There is no doubt that a feeling exists among the cattlemen which is to be brought out and which will back up strong action. It has been in the mind a long time, but it has been kept back. Now there appears to be a pressure from within which is bringing out that sentiment and President Turney has been the spokesman. What this will result in no one can tell, but there is no doubt the cattle raisers wield a great influence in this country, and if they will be persistent in this as they have been in other things, they will change affairs to suit them, if those affairs are not now right.

IMPORTANCE OF FORT WORTH

Fort Worth has an importance which is not possessed by any other city in the southwest, and it is because of that importance that Fort Worth desires to have the people of the state visit here, and especially the cattle people.

Even before the stock yards and the packing houses were of the proportions which now obtain, the live stock men of the state made this city headquarters. The commission men had their offices here, the live stock agents were located here, and the cattlemen were coming and going all the time. There are cattlemen in this state who remember when there was but a trail where huge office buildings now stand, and they have come here year after year since that time, and have grown to be a part of this city. The site of Fort Worth is the gateway between the commercial east and the live stock west. The live stock west has nothing in common with the commercial east, except that the west produces the commodity which the east must have in its

The IDLER'S NOTE BOOK

Maybe you've already heard it, and maybe it's one of the punishments in this world that you still have coming to you. At any rate, the first time you hear it you'll recognize it by the description, whether its whistled, planned or hummed, for it's like nothing else you ever heard before and something you never want to hear again, it's "Bedella." It was rather long in getting here. New York was in its throes away last fall, before Tammany got in power. Since McClellan was elected, "Bedella" has moved West, and yet they say New York has nothing for which it can thank a Tammany administration. The New York papers printed a touching first-page story last December about a beautiful young lady (they're always beautiful in first-page stories), who, jilted in love and tired of life, threw herself in front of a cable car while humming "Bedella," and the story wound up with a pathetic little description of a white-capped nurse, a hard-hearted doctor and the other properties of an hospital scene, dissolved in tears while the aforementioned beautiful young lady passed away, humming the plaintive air. I believe that one of the reporters, who was arrested some weeks afterward for stealing a pall of beer, confessed that the facts of the story were that the young lady was standing on the curb singing "Bedella" at the top of her voice when the street car deliriously jumped the track and ran over her. But no matter. New York doesn't suffer any more. It is one of the penalties of being an American, this being compelled to endure successive "popular songs" or "crises." I have lived through most of them since "Grandfather's Clock," which was sung a long time ago with great effect by young men who had "cowlicks," flap-open collars and billowy trousers that waved like Freedom's flag in every summer breeze. Further along in the onward march of the years came "Down Went McGinty," "Little Annie Rooney," "Two Little Girls in Blue," "After the Ball" and a score of others, half or wholly forgotten. Since then the songs have come at the rate of from two to four a year, and each one worse than the preceding. And yet, I probably never considered that some day, maybe forty or fifty years in the future, you will sit dozing by the chimney place (or maybe they won't have any then), and as your favorite granddaughter thrums the then-latest popular air of the day, you'll plaintively ask, "Dearie, won't you play me some of the good, old-fashioned tunes I used to love, such as 'A Hot Time in the Old Town,' or 'Hawthorne,' or even 'Bedella'?" And the chances are if she doesn't, you'll sadly wag your head and say, "The tunes they have nowadays haven't any music in 'em. I wonder why it is?" THE IDLER.

CONDITIONS IN NEW MEXICO

E. B. Carver of Henrietta, one of the most genial and popular of the cattlemen thronging the city, is being looked to as an authority upon the conditions in New Mexico, having just returned from a three weeks' trip through that territory. Cattle there, he reports as being in exceptionally fine condition after the winter season and says that even the cows with calves do not have a lean and lanky look, but appear fit to slaughter. The mild weather of the winter, he says, have left the cattle in better condition than ever before in that section.

SMALLPOX IN ELLIS COUNTY

WAXAHACHE, Texas, March 8.—(Special.)—Smallpox has again made its appearance in Ellis county. Thompson's farm near Astoria in the southern part of Ellis county. The county health officer has taken charge of all the cases and has established a quarantine of the premises.

taining life. The stock man does not assimilate with other lines of business. He has no kindred among the grocer, the butcher, and the dry goods man. Beyond a bare exchange of commodities as necessities demand, they meet as ships that pass in the night. But the live stock man has something in common with the railroad man, the commission man, the stock yards man and the packer. Here are all of these and they are nowhere else in the state.

This city first became a railroad center. Gradually the various lines of road seeking business in new territory came to this city, and from a small village it was made something more substantial. Today it has the railroad business of the state, and its terminal facilities are not equaled by any city in this section of the country. Then came the packers. This had always been the logical place for such enterprises. A small institution did business for a time, and it managed to hold on year after year, succeeded inevitably, however, by the great packing houses of the millionaires who have gone into every locality where there was business. It was the logical location, because of its peculiar situation, upon the border of the thickly settled commercial east on the one hand and the sparsely settled, cattle grazing country on the other. The packers saw this location, they saw there were railway lines enough to entertain them in a business proposition, and here they have come. The stockman saw it as the natural location, and utilized it, and the stockman being the producer of the live product which the packer must have, the packer came to him.

The commission man was here all the time. He came with the cow man, and from the time the first commission man has been a yearling in the business here, there has been an annual increase in his number. None of these seek new pastures east of this city, none have been rebranded with the mark of a neighboring city, but all have remained here because naturally this is the place where they belong. Fort Worth's importance in this way is manifold. The business of the cow man is concentrated. He can confer with the railroads which must transport his stock, he can confer with the commission man who must help him through the season, and he must see the packer who is to take it from him when the killing season arrives. Fort Worth has appreciated the presence and the friendship of the stockman and will continue to do so. In every way he has found this city his friend, whether it be to help along friendly legislation or to oppose that which was unfavorable; whether it has been to give him the glad hand when he comes in happiness and business bustle, or to sympathize with him when he has cares of life which trouble him sorely. Fort Worth watches for the rain with just as much anxiety as the stockman who looks over his prairie of drying grass, and Fort Worth rejoices when the product advances in price and gives the producer that value which he so richly deserves. Fort Worth gives no moral influence to him in all things, and assists him often before he asks for the helping hand.

Possibly the suggestion may be made that Fort Worth deserves no credit for this. That is not the question. Does all

The Idea Has Never Occurred

If a healthy laboring man will eat two pounds of solid food—of meat, bread, vegetables and fruit—these two pounds if brought together in one heap would fill to overflowing the largest size dinner pail, and yet there are hundreds of grown-up men and women to whom the idea has never occurred, that if this mass is retained in the body day by day disease and premature death is an inevitable result. Food taken into the body must pass out of the body.

DR. PRICE'S WHEAT FLAKE CELERY FOOD

if eaten daily, strengthens the bowels, one of the great outlets of the body, enabling them to perform their function with regularity. Served hot or cold.

T. T. McDONALD, C. T. A. Resolution of Sympathy. The following resolution was passed by the Mulkey Memorial Sunday school on last Sunday:

To the Superintendent of the Mulkey Memorial Sunday School: We, your committee appointed to draft suitable resolutions of sympathy for the Missouri Avenue Sunday school, in view of the loss of their building by fire, report as follows:

Whereas, We, the members of the Mulkey Memorial Sunday school, feel deeply grieved at the great loss that has come to our sister Sunday school of Missouri Avenue church in the loss of their splendid church building; therefore, be it Resolved, by Mulkey Memorial Sunday School, That we hereby tender

INSURANCE MEN TALK INCREASE IN FIRE RATES

Risks Located in Congested Metropolitan Districts Are to Be Forced to Pay a Higher Fee for Protection

There is a very fair prospect of fire insurance rates going up, particularly in this case on property in congested metropolitan districts, where the risk of large conflagration is hazardous.

The great losses sustained by the insurance companies in both Baltimore and Rochester and other larger cities have thoroughly aroused the underwriters in regard to the conflagration danger of important business centers throughout the country and a committee of twenty has been appointed by the executive committee of the national board of underwriters to discuss the whole subject of business risks. This committee, it is learned in Fort Worth, has evolved a statement which has been addressed to all members of the national board embodying nearly all the insurance companies of importance in the United States.

The committee recommends that at the meeting of the board to be held next May that the entire subject be gone over thoroughly, because it is one of vital interest to the country, that a sub-committee be at once appointed to define the boundaries of the congested districts of the cities having a population of 100,000 and over, and by expert opinion shall determine the relative danger of conflagrations in these districts by reason of defective fire departments, what a supply of or building construction, that this sub-committee shall fix for recommendation to the various rating associations a schedule for the business risks. The fire insurance rates in such congested districts, and that a schedule be prepared by this same committee applicable to all congested business districts, making uniform changes for area, height of buildings, as well as for vertical openings through floors and roofs, open stairways, lack of standard fire shutters, electrical equipment and tenants in excess of two, etc. The committee has no power to make its rates binding, but as stated, the increases will be recommended to the rating association, and will undoubtedly be applied at once.

The local agents have received practically no information on this subject but will, no doubt, in the course of a few days.

AMENDMENTS TO BE VOTED ON AT NEXT ELECTION

Measures That Will Come Before Texas Voters in November—Irrigation, Good Roads, and Provision for Veterans

AUSTIN, Texas, March 9.—(Special.)—At the general election in November next the voters of Texas will decide the fate of three amendments to the constitution of the state.

First—The improvement of rivers, creeks and streams to prevent overflows, and to permit the navigation, or irrigation therefrom, or in aid of such purposes.

Second—The construction and maintenance of pools, lakes, reservoirs, canals and waterways for the purpose of irrigation, drainage or navigation or in aid of such purposes.

Third—The construction, maintenance and operation of macadamized, graded or paved roads and turnpikes, or in aid thereof.

By the terms of this amendment, if ratified by the people, for the issuance of bonds by municipalities or counties, or subdivisions of counties to make such improvements.

THE SECOND

The second amendment is to article 3, section 51, which provides for an increase in the amount to be paid Confederate soldiers and sailors from $250,000 to $500,000 per year, and that $8 per month shall be the limit allowed any one veteran; also to establish a home, the appropriation for the maintenance of which shall not exceed $100,000 per year.

THE THIRD

The third amendment is to section 16, so as to provide for the incorporation of companies with banking and discounting privileges. Of the numerous joint resolutions introduced during the regular session of the twenty-eighth legislature, proposing to amend the state constitution the foregoing were the only ones to successfully run the legislature gauntlet.

A BILLION DOLLAR COIN

At the World's Fair it is proposed to give a material demonstration of a billion dollars by having one coin made in exact proportion of our current gold coin, and accepting our $2 gold piece as a unit of measurement, it will weigh about 22 tons. It would have the distinction of being the largest coin in the world. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has long had the distinction of being the best medicine in the world to cure sick headache, heartburn, sour stomach, poor appetite, insomnia, indigestion, dyspepsia, liver troubles, la grippe, colds or malaria. Its wonderful reputation has been well earned, for during its 50 years' experience it has always given the greatest satisfaction. It is well worthy of a trial by every sick man or woman. Your druggist will supply you with the genuine.

The Indian banyan tree has at times sheltered as many as 7,500 men—so it is said.

BY VERNIE LAWSON.

(Respectfully Dedicated to the Twenty-eighth Annual Convention of the Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas.)

Well, it seems to be decided that the Range has got to go.
The Cattlemen are sayin' this, and, well they orter know.
So there'll be no more big Roundups nor a follerin' uv the Trail.
Over miles and miles uv Prairie, where the hungry Coyotes wall.
And there'll be no more uv campin' on the great wide Level Plains.
Where the Stars are whisperin' to you and the Dreamy Silence reigns.
No more Wanderin's up and down them for they say the Progress Plow Needs the Acres for the Millions that's a pushin' Westward Now.

For the Cowboy's days are over, but We ain't the ones to rail.
So we'll get our Plunder ready and prepare to hit the Trail.
For we'd all be lost I'm certain in a pasture Plowed and Mowed,
For we've been too used to Freedom on the Rangos Nature grewed,
And where now the Southwind comes a coaxin' perfume from the rose,
Where the Mesquite bends its branches and the yellow Daisy grows,
There will be the sound of Reapers swellin' to the summer sky.
The hoarse song of the field hands and a mother's lullabye.

There's to be no more uv Singin' with the Joy that's in your Breast,
There's to be no more uv Laughter floatin' outwards to the West.
There's to be no more uv Evenin's spent in jestin' by the Fire,
Where Each One just seemed a tryin' for to be the biggest liar.
And there'll be no more uv Listenin' to the North Wind moanin' round.
The corners uv the Ranch House that was clingin' to the Ground.
No more Dreamin' by the Firelight where old faces love to come,
Where their Eyes keep talkin' to you though their lips are always Dumb.

Now I reckon you've a notion that I'm talkin' sorter odd,
But we loved the boundless Prairies that seemed leadin' us to God.
And I wonder if the People that's a comin' on today,
Will remember how the Cowboy went ahead and blazed the way.
Course we can't help kinder thinkin' that we've played a Losin' Hand,
But I guess the comin' Tenderfoot won't hardly understand.
It was Ours to rough it maybe, and to go ahead and lead,
So the Critters comin' after wouldn't get scared and Stampede.

There's to be no more uv Livin' way out here long side uv God,
For the Feller with the Hoe is coming on to claim the Sod.
Soon the Cotton will be growin' on this great, green, grassy Sea,
Where the Waves a comin' to you sets your pen to Poetry.
Where old Nature sings uv Somethin' sweeter than you ever knowed,
And you dream of Childhood's posies and the places where they Grewed.
Where there's just a Sea of blossoms stretchin' out before your Eyes,
And a depthless Blue is hangin' in the turquoise-tinted Skies.

But now that Things are ready and our work has all been done,
We'll turn our faces Westward to the settin' uv the Sun.
For the Papers are a sayin' that the big Ranch days are gone,
So the Cowboy and his Broncho will be movin' further on.
But I tell you its a breakin' of our hearts to say goodbye,
To the Texas Plains and flowers, to the dreamy Texas sky.
And I wonder what we'll do, we Mavericks of human kind,
When the Range has all been taken and there ain't no more to find.

Where the Wild wind laughed and called you goin' up the Lonesome Trails,
And the White Clouds in the distance looked like Ships with Silver Sails.
Where you half forgot the Cattle that was pokin' on ahead,
And you let a Daydream get you and just follered where they Led.
Where we broke the buckin' Broncho and lassoed the maddened Steer,
Where we trailed the wily Buffalo and chased the fleeing Deer.
Where we rode the winding Circle in a sort uv aimless way,
Or went gallopin' together up the Range on Brandin' Day.

But some day the folks that's comin', though they think us odd and strange,
Will drain their brimmin' glasses to the boys that rode the Range.
Of course I know they've heard a heap about our reckless ways,
And they've kinder got to thinkin' that a Cowboy never prays.
They have never heard about the little bit uv us that's good,
For the bad side's always foremost and they've never understood.
We ain't had no boiled shirt Preachers tellin' how you'd got to change,
But there ain't no need uv preachin' to the boys that ride the Range.

Holdin' thousands of Wild Cattle in a herd without a fear, Ropin, Throwin, Ridin', Brandin' on the freedom fraught Frontier.
Where we slept upon our Sougans after hours uv ridin' hard,
With our saddle for a pillar and our broncho for a Guard.
Where you looked off to the Eastward where the horizon dropped down,
And you knew the Dusk was stealin' through the byways of the Town.
When old Memory came slippin' up behind and Roped your Heart,
And you somehow had a feelin' that you'd missed the Sweetest Part.

They are made out uv the metal that don't have to have a guide,
For to walk the narrow pathway leadin' to the Great Divide.
We ain't had no costly Steeples pointin' out the way to go,
But I low we didn't need them for the Boys all seemed to know.
For we've heard the same old Story that your mothers told to you,
I know we're sorter rough, but then we all had Mothers too.
And when the World's a throbbin' to old Gabriel's trumpet's sound,
And the folks begin to gather from the Rangos all around—

When you thought uv other Years and felt yourself a sort uv Wreck,
And you kinder longed to feel a Woman's arms around your Neck.
You can get along without Her when the day is full of Swing,
And you're livin' in the saddle and the hours are on the Wine,
But you're mighty sure to want Her when the gloomy shadows fall,
For there's nothin' like a Woman clingin' to you after all.
But there'll be no more uv Ridin' with the Breezes to your Broad,
Wakin' somethin' vague within you that your heart had never guessed.

When the ones the church has Branded marches up to answer, "Here!"
With the poor dejected Mavericks a-bringin' up the Rear,
When the Human Herd is waitin' up there in the great Corral,
Where the good you've done will find you, and they say the bad as well,
When you have to face the Judges that will know where you belong,
Where there ain't no buyin' over and you'll have to own your Wrong,
Why I can't help sorter thinkin', though I know I orten to,
That Old Peter will say softly, "PASS THE TEXAS COWBOYS THROUGH."
