To Decide Punishment

HOUSTON (AP)-Death by injection or a second life sentence once again face convicted murderer Ignacio Cuevas today as the jury that declared him guilty of causing the death of a prison librarian decides his punishment.

Cuevas' conviction Tuesday by a six-man, six-woman jury was his second for causing the death of Julia Standley during a bloody, 1974 escape attempt from a state prison following an 11-day siege - the longest in U.S. penal history.

Floods Destroy Homes

By The Associated Press

Retreating floodwaters have left a trail of destruction in Southwest Texas where federal officials say a "tremendous number of homes" have been flooded by the murky spillage from swollen rivers.

The Neches River and Pine Island Bayou crested as predicted Tuesday and began to inch away from the 78,000 sandbags stacked in Jefferson and Hardin Counties.

More than 300 families still are isolated by water from Pine Island Bayou in the Lumberton area of Cook's Lake Road, but all sandbagging operations have been halted.

Red River Rampaging

By Associated Press Writer

The rampaging Red River, bolstered by new rains and even snow, climbed toward record heights as fatigued volunteers plugged leaky dikes and reinforced piled sandbags, eroding after eight days of severe flooding.

"The wear on the people is a little visible, but morale is up and we'll fight for two more days," said Jay Graba, assistant flood control coordinator at Grand Forks, N.D., where the Red was now expected to crest at 49.5 feet on Thursday or Friday. Flood stage is 28 feet.

In Mississippi, flood waters from the Pearl River slackened and officials predicted some of the 4,000 persons who fled Columbia, Miss., might start returning home Thursday.

The SDN Column

Tragedies such as the tornadoes which devastated portions of Vernon and Wichita Falls recently involve a lot of people directly and many, many more indirectly. And it is a nerve-racking way to end a honeymoon.

The Wichita Falls storm caused a lot of apprehension for a newly-wed couple, Mr. and Mrs. Don Blythe. Mrs. Blythe is Mrs. Bill J. Hood's sister. She is a counselor in Rider High School in Wichita Falls and she had married on Friday night, April 6, just prior to the April 10 storm. The couple flew to Acapulco for three days and they were on their way home when they heard of the storm. Mrs. Blythe described the situation in a letter to her sister:

"We flew back to the Dallas airport on Tuesday, the 10th, at 5:40 p.m.---as we got in the car and headed for Wichita Falls, we heard on a Dallas station that a tornado had hit Wichita Falls. All we could hear was that it had destroyed a large area, including K mart and Sikes Center Mall. Knowing this was right near our house, we were really scared .....It was an eerie feeling driving into a pitch-black city, seeing 18-wheelers overturned, destruction everywhere and not knowing whether kids and all were O. K. or what.....We did get home and discovered the tornado had missed us by one block."

Mrs. Blythe was especially relieved to find that her two sons were uninjured.

However, Mrs. Blythe said that several close friends lost their homes and cars, and four Rider High School students, "one of whom I had really worked with," were killed. Seventeen Rider teachers lost everything.

The Blythes were without telephone service for a week, and had no electricity for a couple of days.

The Rider High School building had heavy damage and a five-year-old junior high building in the same area was completely destroyed. They were trying to have school in part of the Rider building, but when it rained, they had to evacuate the building because it leaked.

Some of us don't know how fortunate we are.

Thursday Noon Deadline For Jail Suggestions

Thursday at noon is the deadline for entries in the contest sponsored by the Scurry County Historical Commission to collect suggestions for future use of the old county jail building.

Contest entries may be submitted at the Snyder Chamber of Commerce office.

A special committee of the historical committee is conducting a study to come up with recommendations for the future of the old jail building, which was vacated early this year when the new jail at 26th St. and Avenue M was put into use.

The committee has scheduled a meeting for Thursday afternoon at which time it will turn over the contest entries to judges and also confer with an architect on structural condition of the old jail building.

Two $50 Savings Bonds have been offered in the contest. One will go to the person in the 7th grade and below in school making the best suggestion, and the other will go to the person in the eighth grade and above (including all adults) making the best suggestion for use of the old jail building.

Many people toured the old jail Monday when it was open in connection with the History Appreciation Week observance, and contest entries were accepted on the spot. There is still time for more entries, however, Mickey Nunley, chairman of the committee emphasized. All of those turned in to the chamber office by noon Thursday will be eligible for prizes.

History Appreciation Week events continued last night when 6th grade choirs presented a program, "Six Flags Over Texas," in the Snyder High School Auditorium. Special historical tours for Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts were scheduled today.

State Budget Passes House

AUSTIN (AP)—After a last-minute skirmish over abortion, the House has passed a $20.3 billion two-year state budget bill that defies Gov. Bill Clements' hold-the-line demands.

An 87-51 vote, with all but 23 House Republicans voting "no," sent the bill to the Senate, where that chamber's version of the bill has yet to reach the floor.

Clements wants $1 billion left over for property tax relief but the House bill - not counting $269 million earmarked to avoid scheduled local school tax increases - leaves only $261 million for tax relief or other expenditures.

The governor said he hopes the final budget is lower than the House bill, which tops his spending recommendation by some $500 million.

Declares Schlesinger...

Congress Cannot Block Decontrol

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger, in a heated exchange with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., declared today that congressional efforts to block President Carter's decision to decontrol domestic crude oil prices would be defeated.

"The chances of Congress passing an extension of controls is miniscule," Schlesinger said. "Frankly, in the Senate, the votes are not there."

Even if liberals seeking to stop Carter's decontrol plan did manage to find the votes, Schlesinger asserted, "there are not enough votes to defeat a filibuster" that might be led by supporters of decontrol and administration allies.

Schlesinger's comments came after Kennedy denounced Carter's decontrol decision as inflationary and his proposed windfall profits tax on oil companies as a "charade."

The clash occurred at a hearing by a House-Senate subcommittee, headed by Kennedy, on the U.S. economic impact of the president's recent initiative to raise oil prices.

About the same time, the House Commerce Committee voted 23-19 against Carter's request for standby authority to impose gasoline rationing. The committee action did not mean final defeat for the rationing plan, which will be subject to another vote on the House floor.

Schlesinger characterized as "the right policy to follow and a courageous act" Carter's decision to lift price controls on domestic oil beginning June 1 and to propose enactment of a 50 percent tax on oil industry profits stemming from decontrol.

But Kennedy charged that Carter's moves would send fuel prices soaring, especially in the Northeast, placing hardships on low-income families and aggravating inflation.

Industrial Team Training Is Set

First training session for a new Snyder industrial team has been scheduled for 4 p.m. Thursday in the Chamber of Commerce conference room.

The industrial team is being organized by the chamber and personnel from the Texas Electric Service Co. Area Development Dept. are assisting in the training sessions.

Carter Reports On Arms Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Carter, stepping up his campaign for public support, picked the American Newspaper Publishers Association today to make his latest progress report on U.S. arms negotiations with the Soviet Union.

The speech at the annual meeting in New York was billed by the White House as his "most comprehensive and extensive statement" on the long-anticipated treaty to limit U.S. and Soviet long-range bombers and intercontinental ballistic missiles.

But the treaty itself, which Carter said more than 18 months ago was near completion and which would be signed with Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev at a summit meeting, is still not wrapped up.

State Department officials said at least one more negotiating session would be held by Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin. A final announcement was not expected before early next week.

Meanwhile, Carter is trying to lay the groundwork for national acceptance of treaty terms. Other administration officials have been stumping the country as well - and drawing criticism from Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., an opponent of the treaty who questions the use of government funds for the campaign.

Ratification requires the approval of two-thirds of the Senate - 67 votes. Rounding them up will be a difficult task.

Carter clearly was hoping he could persuade publishers to back the accord and influence voters to ask their senators to do the same.

Hermleigh Slates Community Bazaar

HERMLEIGH -- Fun, food, and fellowship will be the fare for Saturday in Hermleigh as that community's spring bazaar is held.

The bazaar will feature an arts and crafts exhibit, a bake sale, and a garage sale, said organizers, and proceeds from it will be funneled into the community fund for local improvements.

The bazaar will be held in the Hermleigh School cafeteria, and all activities for it begin at 9 a.m.

Tickets will also be sold, and all proceeds "will go back into bettering our community," said Gradine Roemisch, who is in charge of the arts and crafts exhibit.

"We'll have aprons, tea towels, novelty items, throw pillows, stuffed toys, and just about any kind of handicraft," explained Mrs. Roemisch.

Joyce Fuqua, another organizer for the event, said the garage sale will include "antiques, dishes, and all kinds of household things."

"If it's raining, or if the sand's blowing, nobody has an excuse not to come because it's held indoors," said Mrs. Roemisch.

Bilingual Bill Rejected By Legislators

AUSTIN (AP)—Senators have refused to order an additional two years of bilingual instruction that the State Board of Education also has rejected.

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, says he will try to switch two votes and ask the Senate to reconsider his bill that failed Tuesday to get enough support to merit floor debate.

The sponsor needed 21 votes to bring up the bill, but senators voted 19-12.

big ozone paradox

For some time now, compounds of sulphur have been considered to be pollutants in the atmosphere. At least those which have been man-generaded have been a target for clean-air purists. We have never quite understood how people living around sources of sulphur from mineral springs have been able to survive if the amounts coming from coal-burning power plants is as dangerous as we have been led to believe.

We have thought that it might be interesting to check the health and death statistics of people living near a natural source of sulphur emission as compared to the same number of people living near a coal-burning electric power plant.

Not too long ago the EPA was forced to release a study it had sponsored wherein the idea that ozone as a prime pollutant was scotched. The study, made in the San Francisco area, revealed that ozone was greatest during the early morning hours not during man's greatest activities. And that ozone was being produced by plant life from the natural surroundings.

Strange as it may seem, the EPA did not ban the use of plants in homes and gardens. Nor did it ban grass, trees, shrubs and flowers in parks. But ozone content is still being used to designate the degree of pollution along with Carbin monoxide readings.

Now a federal agency researcher has poked another hole in the flimsy fabric of EPA's environmental "logic." Word from the Tennessee Valley Authority's world renowned fertilizer research facility reports that decreasing sulphur in the atmosphere is creating losses in crop yields.

The decline in the use of manure and fertilizers containing sulphur would "already have resulted in serious soil sulphur deficiencies all across the country," J.C. Noggle, TVA soil chemist, said, "except that we began burning more fossil fuels about the same time when we deprived the soil of its sulphur fertilizers."

Now, that the EPA is insisting that all sulphur must be removed from smokestacks at coal-burning electric and other plants, it will be necessary to supply the sulphur directly applied to the soil.

Noggle estimated a 10 percent decline in the yields of cotton, corn and soybeans costing $306.8 million a year in the seven-state TVA Regional for those crops alone if farmers do not compensate for the sulphur depletion. He projected a need for 10 to 40 pounds of sulphur per acre on the farm lands as TVA is forced to remove the sulphur from its coal-fired boilers.

From Noggle's statements it would seem that emitted sulphur is widely dispersed and is not concentrated in the areas close to the plants. So the danger to people (if any) would be in the range of slight to infinitesimal. But the cost to the same people, as consumers of electricity, is tremendous.

As we review the antics of the regulatory agencies of government today, we are inclined to consider that our overgrown bureaucracy, with its regulations and controls, is the greatest threat to the health and well being of the people of this nation. Maybe we need a danger sign over the doors of all governmental buildings.

And, oh yes, we are still waiting for some bureaucrat, hopefully from the EPA, to explain how ozone is good (protecting us from the sun's rays) when supposedly destroyed by aerosol can propellants, but bad (and a major pollutant) when introduced into the atmosphere by man-generated processes.

fuel for thought

Some airlines are running short of fuel as a consequence of curtailed Mideast oil production, right?

The Arab countries are the world's leading oil producers for export, right?

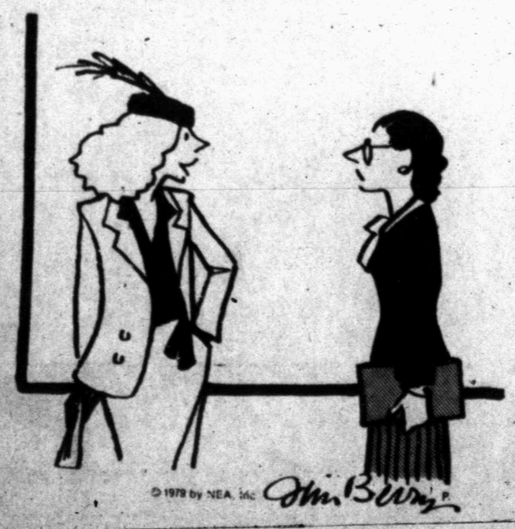

So an Arab airline, one would think, should be spared fuel problems.

Wrong. Alia, the Royal Jordanian Airline, is delaying inauguration of a scheduled new flight linking Amman and Houston because of fuel uncertainty.

Now Jordan itself is not a producer, but it has been in the forefront of the Arab solidarity movement with its big-time brothers during the Egyptian-Israeli treaty crisis.

The least it might expect would be that the blood of Arab brotherhood would prove thicker than oil, but apparently not.

the drinking age

There is no more flagrant affront to our school age sons and daughters than the practice of their parents putting an "X" on a movie.

Presumably that "X" says that until you become "X" age the movie is dirty.

Come now--if it's filth it's filth. It has nothing to do with how old or young you and I and they may happen to be.

Our discerning offspring readily recognize such hyprocrisy for what it is.

Now we come to the question of an arbitrary drinking age for young people.

Today's average teenager is taller, healthier, handsomer and smarter than the average of any preceding generation.

But his judgment has not matured at the same rate.

Physiologically and biologically 17 is older than it used to be but the maturing of juvenile "judgment" has not kept pace.

This we can demonstrate with teen-age divorce statistics, with narcotics-misuse statistics and with comparative automobile accident statistics.

That is why automobile accident insurance costs more for those under 21. Enough of them have demonstrated that their "judgment" does not yet match their driving skill.

Young people badgered politicians to lower the voting age in 1971 and thereafter demonstrated a singular disinterest in voting.

Many states promptly lowered the drinking age also.

But automobile accidents involving young drinking drivers escalated so rapidly that five states have now increased the legal drinking age and two others are about to.

Last March Chicago reraised the legal drinking age to 21 in response to increased accidents and increased drink-related vandalism.

Dr. Henry Betts of the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago presented to the city's aldermen convincing evidence that auto accidents involving teenagers had increased 33 percent since the drinking age was lowered.

To those who argue that our Army accepts teenagers, Dr. Betts responded, "They may or may not be good fighters; I don't know about that. But I've patched up enough broken bodies to know they are lousy drivers and drinkers."

Under the new law anybody selling booze to anybody under 21 can lose his liquor license.

Fourteen states never did lower the drinking age.

Fifteen states continue to allow 18-year-olds to buy liquor.

A comparison of accident statistics between the "wet" and "dry" states dramatically corroborates the cause-effect relationship.

One of the goofy inconsistencies which remains in most all states--affecting accidents involving drivers of all ages--is that laws are passed against drinking drivers.

Then taverns are put out on highways where the only way to get to or home from one is in a car.

my turn

by jo ann nunley

Another time change is fast approaching. If you've found it hard to rise and shine lately, just wait. Sunday, the clocks move up one hour to give us one more hour of daylight.

If you hate to get up in the morning, it may be that you lead a more interesting life while asleep. Since we spend a third of our lives in a state of unconsciousness, scientists have explored this world. Their findings of our dream time are quite interesting.

The idea that some persons never dream is false. Studies indicate that dreaming is "an inherent part of normal sleep," an experience shared by everyone. But some persons seldom remember their dreams, no matter how colorful or how vivid. The easiest way to remember a dream is when you have been suddenly awakened. Unless written down, the dreams are soon forgotten.

Do you dream in color? Psychological studies show that those who dream in color find life exciting when they are awake and are vividly aware of everything that goes on around them.

You have perhaps watched a child or mate sleep when their eyelids moved giving the idea they were not totally in slumberland. Researchers have found that usually when people dream, their eyes may be seen moving rapidly under their eyelids as they "watch" the sequence of their dreams. The more action there is in the dream, the more rapid the eye movements. If little or no action is experienced, the eye movements may be almost unnoticed.

Sleepwalking, we're told, tends to run in families. Scientists report that sleepwalking seldom occurs during the dreaming phase of sleep and more often occurs in children than adults, and is aggravated by anxiety and worry. Unlike dreams, it is associated with temporary loss of memory. The victim usually has no memory of having walked in his or her sleep.

The belief that you will have a more interesting dream life if you go to bed thirsty is true according to studies at New York University. People who go to bed thirsty dream more and their dreams cover more subjects. They also have more dreams about food, and they wake up hungrier, with a bigger appetite for breakfast.

We are told dream time can be put to work to solve problems with a little practice and know how. We are supposed to dream four or five times each night or about 1½ hours, for the average person.

Robert Louis Stevenson got the plots for all of his great stories in his dreams. It is understood he formed the habit of using his dream state as a provider of ideas he was looking for.

Always, with the time change, there is a period of adjusting which definitely interferes with the sleep time for a while. I've got a pen and pad close to my bed just in case some constructive dreams occur. I'll be sure to jot them down before they're forgotten.

COLEBROOK, N.H. (NEA)—"I'm for Reagan," says one Republican housewife here. "But I don't think he can win, because of the age thing."

For a politician, such "soft support" - backers who embrace serious doubts about their favorite candidate - can be a harbinger of serious trouble at the polls.

Moreover, "the age thing" is only one of several problems confronting Ronald Wilson Reagan, the former California governor who twice previously (in 1968 and 1976) was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

The most popular analysis of Reagan's age handicap has been cited so often that it already has become part of the litany of the 1980 presidential campaign:

If Reagan is elected the country's next president, he would celebrate his 70th birthday less than three weeks after being sworn into office. If he served two full terms, he would leave the White House just before he turned 78 years old.

Related to age is another factor, less frequently mentioned by voters by perhaps even more damaging to Reagan's chances of winning next year's Republican presidential nomination.

In an era when politicians are "discovered" and then discarded at a rate almost as fast as show business celebrities, Reagan is already in danger of being perceived as "used goods" - a candidate who had two shots at the presidency but lost both and now ought to gracefully bow out in favor of younger and fresher faces.

There's also the problem of timing Reagan's entry into a presidential campaign that has started earlier than any other in modern times.

Although a host of other contenders for the GOP nomination have been regularly criss-crossing this state (site of the country's first presidential primary) and the rest of the nation, Reagan has maintained an unusually casual campaign schedule.

The frequency of his political speeches has increased in recent months, but his speaking schedule still is larded with appearances before trade associations of realtors, sales executives, builders, contractors and truck stop operators.

In addition, Reagan's schedule appears to be influenced more by where the lecture fees are this year than where the primary contests and precinct caucuses will be next year.

As a result, there are unmistakable signs of erosion of Reagan's strength, with party activists who formerly supported him now committing themselves to other conservative presidential candidates, notably Rep. Philip M. Crane of Illinois and John B. Connally.

Reagan's leading political aides claim he can afford to maintain a leisurely pace because most of his political apparatus from the 1976 campaign remains intact, while the other GOP aspirants must scramble to build new organizations.

The Reagan operatives also note that their candidate has been the winner in every state and national poll conducted in recent months to measure popular support for Republican contestants.

But that lead may be fragile at best because lesser-known competitors could quickly close the gap if they gain the mass media exposure necessary to increase their "name identification" among voters.

Finally, there's the financial lure of the lucrative fees Reagan receives for lectures, radio commentaries and syndicated newspaper columns - all which he would have to temporarily forsake when he actively enters the presidential race.

"That's not a significant problem," says one Reagan aide. "Although obviously it's a factor." But the time is rapidly approaching when Reagan must decide whether he'd rather be rich than president.

And even when he does join the fray, Reagan is in danger of being one of the first - and least expected - casualties of the 1980 presidential campaign.

The contract was terrible. Not enough can be said to condemn it. North's leap to seven diamonds was unwarranted. He had learned that South had three aces, but that by itself did not guarantee 13 tricks. Fortunately, South was able to find the only winning line of play.

West's opening lead took care of one of South's problems. He now could count 12 tricks: two spades, two hearts, seven diamonds, and one club. He realized the 13th trick would have to come from a squeeze. The best squeeze chance was one known as the Vienna coup, an intricate maneuver in which declarer cashes a high card to establish a lower-ranking card for the defense which they will be squeezed out of later.

His ace of hearts covered East's king at trick one. He cashed the ace king of spades (pitching two hearts from dummy) and now made the key play of the ace of clubs — the Vienna coup. He next ran off all the diamonds.

This brought him down to a two-card ending. Dummy held the queen of clubs and a small heart. It didn't matter what East held. South held the queen-seven of hearts and poor West held his head in his hands and groaned.

He had to discard down to one heart to keep the king of clubs and the lucky slam had come home. The Vienna coup had worked because West had been dealt four hearts and the king of clubs.

Beta Sigma Phi, a social, cultural, and service organization for women, plans the celebration of the 48th anniversary of its founding. The organization was founded in Abilene, Kan. in 1931 by Walter W. Ross. The anniversary will be observed by the local chapter, Texas Lambda Kappa, as well as chapters around the world.

The Founder's Day celebration in Snyder will be a banquet on Saturday night, April 28, at the Martha Ann Woman's Club. Husbands will be special guests of the members. Carolyn Greene, chairman of the banquet, will be master of ceremonies.

Other members taking part in the program are Carolyn Limmer, Carolyn Fortune, Kay Hickman, Bette League and Laura Greene. Mickey Baird has been chosen for the honor of presenting a special message from the sorority's international president, Bill Ross. She has received the message from the international office in Kansas City, Mo.

Awards will be presented to outstanding members and the chapter's Woman of the Year, presented annually to a non-member of Beta Sigma Phi.

Emily Collins will present a musical program.

Following the banquet, members and husbands will attend a patio party at the home of Mackey and Laura Greene, 2600 35th.

Liver Deserves Recognition

Liver is king when it comes to nutritive value of meats. What other meat cut supplies 10 day's worth of vitamin A in one 3½-ounce serving! One portion also satisfies for any member of the family the daily recommended allowance for iron, no necessary for healthy circulation, and one-half the recommended adult allowance of protein which is essential for repair of body tissues. It's an exceptional contributor of B vitamins, too.

Since adequate nutrition is so important for good health, liver's role as a menu entree should not be overlooked, according to National Livestock and Meat Board home economist Reba Staggs. Panfried liver and bacon with onions is a traditional recipe but to encourage new appetite interest, cut liver in strips and deep-fat fry, braise with vegetables or wrap around bundles of green beans to cook with a tasty sauce.

Braised Liver-Chuckwagon-Style

1½ pounds liver, sliced ½ inch thick
¼ cup flour
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
2 cups thinly sliced carrots
1 cup diced onion
1 medium-sized green pepper, diced
Salt and pepper
¼ cup water

Cut liver into serving-sized pieces. Combine flour, 1½ teaspoons salt, and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Dredge liver in seasoned flour and brown in lard or drippings. Arrange vegetables on browned liver. Season vegetables on browned liver. Season vegetables with salt and pepper. Add water. Cover tightly and cook slowly until liver is tender and vegetables are done, 30 to 35 minutes. 6 servings.

Liver Bundles with Green Beans

1½ pounds beef liver, sliced ⅛ to ¼ inch thick (6 slices)
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon celery salt
6 tablespoons sweet pickle relish, drained
1 can (16 oz.) whole green beans
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
¼ cup onion, finely chopped
1 cup cooked or canned tomatoes
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Flour for gravy

Combine flour, salt, pepper and celery salt. Dredge liver slices in seasoned flour. Place 1 tablespoon pickle relish on each slice. Drain green beans, reserving ¼ cup liquid. Top relish with 7 to 8 green beans. Roll as a jelly roll and fasten with wooden picks or tie with a string. Brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Combine reserved liquid, onion, tomatoes and Worcestershire sauce and add to liver. Cover tightly and cook 25 minutes or until done. Thicken cooking liquid with flour for gravy, if desired. 6 servings.

Women's Aglow To Meet At Union Center

The Women's Aglow Fellowship will meet Thursday, April 26, 7:30 p.m. at the Union Community Center.

Stanton is president of the Shallowater School Board. He also serves as general administrator for ROW work. The Stantons have three daughters, ages 17, 14, and 11.

Mrs. Stanton said, after receiving a personal healing in her own life, she had a desire to share with others about God's healing love.

She started television work in Lubbock in September, 1975, which now reaches into several states. Also, she is now on the CBN Satellite which covers most of the nation.

She stated that most of her time is now spent ministering in miracle services, seminars, Flame, Aglow and FGBMFI.

Women of all faiths are invited.

Burning Over Club Rejection

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc

DEAR ABBY: My husband has told me that he wants to be cremated. Then his last wish is to have his ashes scattered over the local country club where he was turned down for membership three times. (He never did make it, so he joined another club.)

I told him I thought he was foolish to want his ashes scattered over a club that wouldn't accept him as a member, but he insists that this is the way he wants it and nobody is going to talk him out of it.

What do you think of his idea?

BETTER HALF

DEAR HALF: Permission is required to scatter one's ashes on private property, so tell your persistent husband that he probably won't have any better luck crashing that club after he makes an ash of himself than before.

DEAR ABBY: The letter about the 8-year-old girl who wanted a bra even though she didn't have anything to put in it reminded me of the following anecdote:

I was shopping in a large department store with my 12-year-old daughter and my 76-year-old grandmother whom we call Bubby.

My daughter dragged me over to look at some bras, although she didn't need one yet.

Bubby wanted to know what we were looking at, so my daughter told her she wanted a training bra.

Bubby asked, "What are you training your breasts to do?"

Without blinking an eye, her great-granddaughter replied "To grow!" Bubby bought her the bra, thus closing a gap that spanned four generations!

NEWSDAY READER

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I will be going on our vacation soon. After much persuasion, we agreed to let our two sons, 17 and 19, stay home and "bach it."

We just learned they're planning to invite about 10 couples to a party at our house while we're gone.

We firmly told them that they could have the party only if an aunt and uncle chaperoned it. The boys didn't like that idea, and suggested instead that a newly-married couple of their acquaintance be the chaperones. (This couple is about the age of our elder son.) My husband promptly vetoed that suggestion. We then gave the boys a choice of postponing the party until we return, have the party before we go, or having the aunt and uncle chaperone it. Well, their noses have been out of joint ever since.

Abby, my husband and I have looked forward to a well-earned vacation. We would not feel at ease unless we were reasonably certain that everything was all right at home. Do you think we are being fair in our demands?

MOM AND POP

DEAR M AND P.: Yes. And hooray for you and for all other parents who insist on having a clean-cut understanding of what their children may and may not do in their absence.

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212

One Award At WTC Omitted

The inadvertent omission of a line in a story about Western Texas College awards, which appeared in the April 20 issue of The Snyder Daily news, resulted in one of the awards being left out of the story and one student being credited with the wrong award.

Larry Neves of Snyder received the award as outstanding student in engineering technology, and Mark Cantrell of Lubbock received the award as outstanding golf and grounds student.

Four Mishaps Reported Here

Four traffic accidents have been investigated by city police officers.

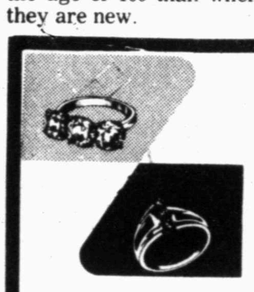

The latest occurred shortly before 8 a.m. today at the Food Basket at the intersection of Highway 84 and Huffman Ave. The convenience store building was struck, officers said, by a 1973 Chevrolet pickup truck driven by Buddy Scott Walden of Roby.

Damage to the building was estimated to be in excess of $800. The accident was caused, officers speculated, when the vehicle's accelerator pedal became stuck.

Yesterday, the first mishap was in the 4200 block of College Ave. It was reported about noon and involved a 1975 Ford driven by Susan Eileen Grosshans and a 1972 Oldsmobile driven by Walter Banks.

The 1800 block of College Ave. was the site of a two-vehicle collision at 3:35 p.m. Involved in it were a 1975 Ford driven by Ruby Patterson Reese and a 1972 Chevrolet driven by Pamela Phillips Altman.

The 4400 block of College Ave. was the scene of a collision at 7:25 p.m. At that location, reports show, a 1967 Chevrolet driven by Terry G. Row was in collision with a 1968 Volkswagen driven by Judy T. Rannefeld.

Substituting a good habit

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been a runner for over four-and-a-half years and have run over 18,000 miles. I ran the Boston marathon twice.

I have a callous which builds up on the ball of my right foot and becomes hard and often burns. I cut it down and use the sanding method. Can you recommend something to use on it?

I also have heard that runners will live 10 to 15 years longer. Once I was a near alcoholic but when I started running, I quit alcohol. Do you think the alcohol is out of my system by now? Anyway, I feel great from a 15-mile workout and I hope I run until I'm six feet under.

DEAR READER — Congratulations on kicking a bad habit and developing a good one. If everyone could make such important changes in life style, we'd have a lot less medical problems in our society.

Certainly you have no residuals of alcohol in your system at this time. Unfortunately, alcohol is a tissue toxin and some of the liver damage that it causes may persist. It's like any other tissue that injures and heals, it may cause scar tissue in the healing process. However, if you're doing as well as your letter suggests, I would suspect that you have little if any residual damage.

Now about that callous on your foot. That means that the ball of your right foot is bearing more weight than the rest of the foot. I suggest that you see an orthopedic specialist and let him fit your foot with a pad or insert that decreases the weight in that area.

A callous on the bottom of the foot is just like a callous on the hand. It's because of work rubbing and irritating that area. If you wear gloves on your hands, you're less likely to develop callouses on your palms. If you adequately protect an area that's responding in this way on the bottom of the foot, you'll have less problem from the callous.

Finally, about runners living longer. Many of them do. One of the reasons is because many of them are lean. The amount of exercise they do helps prevent obesity. That, in turn, decreases problems of fatty-cholesterol buildup in the bloodstream and it helps to prevent high blood pressure. These are important factors in preventing heart attacks and strokes. Also most of the runners I know don't smoke. That's important, too.

So, as a group most runners do live quite a bit longer than their sedentary counterparts who are overweight, underexercised and often have other undesirable aspects to their life style. That doesn't mean everyone who runs will live 10 or 15 years longer than other people.

Because of your interest in running, and the effort you've made, I'm sending you The Health Letter number 4-2, Jogging, Exertion, Sudden Death, to give you a better balanced idea of the relationship of running and health. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Every once in awhile you hear about some prominent public figure who drops dead while running. But you seldom hear any emphasis on the point that someone died in bed. If you spend a large part of your time running, you increase your chances of something happening to you while you're running.

Spurs Just Confident

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-Although it would appear they have every reason to be a bit overconfident, San Antonio Coach Doug Moe and captain James Silas say the Spurs won't be too cocky Thursday night when they try to wrap up their playoff series with Philadelphia.

The Central Division-champion Spurs trimmed the 76ers 115-112 Sunday in Philadelphia and hold a commanding 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven, Eastern Conference semifinal series.

Thursday night's game will also be before a cozy, sellout home crowd intoxicated with Fiesta Week. And possibly looming on the horizon in the Eastern Conference finals are the Spurs old rivals, the Washington Bullets.

The Spurs, who have lost 10 consecutive ABA and NBA playoff series since winning their first one as the Dallas Chaparrals in 1968, won the Central Division last year, got overconfident and stumbled in the first round of the playoffs against the Bullets.

WTC Students Honored At Athletic Banquet

Some 79 students were recognized at the annual Western Texas College Athletic Banquet, held last night in the college Student Center.

Athletes involved in rodeo, judo, golf and basketball, as well as the WTC cheerleaders, were introduced to the audience.

Special awards were given to Dwight Williams as the men's Outstanding Basketball Player; Joe Mendoza, as the men's Taking The Charge player; Liz Hooper as the women's Most Take Charge basketball player; and Katie Fisher as the women's Most Improved basketball athlete.

Other special recognition - and a standing ovation - went to Nodia Vaughn, who among other credits, was named to the second team All-America this year.

Judo Coach Dr. Shell Hillis also recognized, assistant coach Alton Sutter as WTC's top judoist of the year, and Virginia Whitson was honored as the Outstanding WTC Supporter.

Top awards in rodeo and golf, which have not concluded their season campaigns, were not given.

Participating in the banquet were coaches Joe Cushing, Nolan Richardson, Dr. Hillis, Bob O'Day and Van Rigby. Cheerleader sponsor Mickey Baird introduced the cheerleaders.

Master of Ceremonies was Dr. Jim Tully. Dean Cochran provided the invocation, and Kenneth Levens the benediction.

Lemanczyk Hands Texas One Hitter

ARLINGTON (AP)—Don't ask Toronto righthander Dave Lemanczyk about 1978.

"I don't give a (bleep) about last year," said the 28-year-old Lemanczyk. "I should never be judged in a season on what I did the season before."

Lemanczyk, who was 4-14 and had an earned-run average of 6.24 last season, one-hit the Texas Rangers in a 2-0 Toronto victory Tuesday night.

It was Lemanczyk's first win since July 29, 1978, and was the first one-hitter in the history of the Toronto franchise.

Serving a diet of 80 percent fast balls to the left-handed-loaded Texas lineup, Lemanczyk baffled every Ranger except Pat Putnam, who sliced a single to left field in the third inning.

"It was the biggest mistake I made," said Lemanczyk. "It was a fast ball over the plate."

Among Lemanczyk's victims was Al Oliver, who had hit safely in all 13 Ranger games before Tuesday night.

It was only his second start of the year. He limited Chicago to six hits on April 16, but was involved in no decision.

Lemanczyk sprained his ankle during the 1978 he wants to forget, after a 13-16 season in 1977.

Former Ranger Roy Howell's run-scoring double in the fifth inning was the only backing Lemanczyk needed.

Snyder Defeats Cubs, 9-5

Tigers Outlast Brownfield

BROWNFIELD—Coach Albert Lewis' Snyder Tigers opened round two of District 3-3A play the same way they began the first round - with an important victory over the Brownfield Cubs.

The Tigers shelled Cub pitcher Roy Lee Tealer for 11 hits here yesterday, six RBI and nine runs in defeating Brownfield 9-5.

The victory gives Snyder a 5-2 loop record, 1-0 in round one. The Tigers will resume action Friday, hosting the Lamesa Tors at Moffett Field, 4 p.m.

Yesterday's game marked the reutrn of pitcher Sid Everton and outfielder Bryan Vincent. Ricky Gambol, who was unable to play in the last contest because of a scratched eye contact, was also back in the lineup.

Everton hurled for six innings, allowing six hits and a pair of runs. He gave up one hit - a Tealer triple - before finding trouble in the sixth inning.

In all, the Cats utilized three pitchers as the fiesty Cubs came to life late in the game. Everton, Mike Hicks and Mitch Mackey gave up nine hits, four RBI and the five runs.

Snyder opened the scoring in the third inning when Richard Crayton walked, Mackey singled and Everton drove Crayton in with a double. Three more runs, ignited by a Trussell Thane walk a David Lee (three for four) single, and hits by Vincent and Crayton, brought the Tiger total to four after four innings.

Everton singled again in the fifth and Scott Crenwelge knocked a sacrifice ball to advance the runner (Wes Partain running for Everton). Both Tiger players scored on Tealer errors. Lee added another hit in the inning.

For insurance, Snyder came up with three final runs in the seventh. Kyle Short, Pete Willis and Lee all singled, and Mark Davis slammed a double to account for the action.

Brownfield scored on a passed ball after Tealer's triple in the fourth inning. The Cubs added one more run in the sixth - as Ricky Romero walked and Tealer, Martinez and Gibson rapped consecutive singles.

Three more Cubs scored under the final two Tiger batters before Mackey fanned House to retire the side and end the game. Tim Murphy and Raul Romero each singled to begin the Brownfield attack, and after two outs, Ricky Romero got on a fielder's choice and Tealer, Martinez and Gibson slapped consecutive singles again, before House struck out.

The vareity of pitching talent interjected into the game was a calculated one, according to Coach Lewis, and a practice he'll use in the future.

"Sid was getting tired and so we put in Mike against the two righthanders, took him out and put Mackey up against a couple of lefthanders," Lewis noted. "It didn't work out all that well, but we'll go with that more and more. We've got the talent, so we're going to use it."

Credit Tealer for not allowing the strategy to work as well as hoped. The Cub batter went three for four on the day, and was instrumental in igniting the late Brownfield rally.

"Mitch threw a good pitch to him (Tealer), but he was red hot that day. I think he could have hit anything," commented Lewis.

The game left Brownfield 0-1 for the second round and 3-4 in loop play to date. Lamesa, 2-4, will open its second half stint in Snyder Thursday. Lamesa will be going into the game with back-to-back victories.

Bengals Begin Region Golf Tournament Today

ODESSA—A handful of Snyder and Lamesa High School athletes were to join six other teams to begin search of a regional golf title here today.

The two-day, 36-hole, Region I boy's tournament was to have begun this morning.

In addition to Snyder and Lamesa from District 3-3A, others include Fort Stockton and Andrews from 2-3A, and two schools each from 1-3A and 4-3A.

Lamesa won the 3-3A championship by one stroke over the Tigers in the final loop match played last weekend.

The probable team members for Snyder today were Lance McMillan and Randy Chambers, both all-district selections, and Mike Wolf, Randy Wolf and Kip Wadleigh.

Bobby Knox of Brownfield, the district medalist, will also compete in the tournament.

Tee-off time was 9 a.m.

Committee Favors Football Playoff

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)-A committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association reportedly has voted in favor of establishing an annual national collegiate football championship.

Arkansas Athletic Director Frank Broyles, a member of the NCAA's Extra Events Committee, was quoted by the Colorado Springs Sun in a copyright story today as saying the eight-member committee voted unanimously Tuesday to endorse a football playoff beginning at the conclusion of the 1980 season.

The plan reportedly calls for two semifinal games and a championship contest, all to be held afer the regular post season bowl games. The four finalists would be chosen after the bowl games by a selection committee, and the title game would be played on the weekend prior to the National Football League's Super Bowl.

SHS Choir Begins Spring Tour Thursday

The Snyder High School Choir, under direction of Bill Lyon, will begin its annual spring tour Thursday.

This year's tour will take the choir to Austin, San Antonio and Corpus Christi. The choir raised funds for the tour during a fall sales campaign in which members sold candles. Darrell Collins received a $50 award for selling the most candles in the campaign. The choir raised $4,500 in the sale of the decorative candles.

In Austin, the choir will sing in the rotunda of the capitol at noon Thursday. Later in the day, they will sing in the historic San Fernando Cathedral in San Antonio and Thursday night the choir members will take in the Fiesta activities in San Antonio.

On Friday, the choir will travel on to Corpus Christi where they sing at Moody High School. The Buccaneer Days fireworks and parade will take place Friday evening.

Saturday's activities will include a day at Padre Island where they will make use of facilities in the solar dome at their motel at the bay.

The choir is scheduled to arrive back in Snyder at 5 p.m. Sunday.

RECEIVES $50 BILL--Darrell Collins, Snyder High Choir member, receives a $50 bill as his award for selling the most decorative candles in the choir's fall fund-raising campaign. Making the presentation is Philip Ware of Clyde, zone manager of Henco, Inc., who coordinated the campaign. The choir raised $4,500 in the campaign to finance its spring tour, which begins tomorrow. Bill Lyon, director of the choir, expressed appreciation to all who participated in the drive.

Roofer Falls In Tar Vat

GALVESTON (AP)—A roofer died Monday after falling head-first into a large vat of 550-degree melted tar.

Fred L. Walker Jr., 22, of Galveston, was pronounced dead at a hospital emergency room half an hour after the accident.

"That was the most horrible accident I've ever seen," said Patrolmen Joe Maffei, a nine-year police veteran.

Maffei said Walker fell about 15 feet while working on the roof of a new clubhouse at the Galveston Yacht Basin. He said Walker was covered with tar from his head to his knees.
