French Occupation Of German Territory Accomplished Fact

DEVELOPMENTS IN RUHR OCCUPATION

(By International News Service.)

French troops invaded the German Ruhr, occupying Essen and adjacent territory without resistance. An 18 mile military line was established through the Ruhr with Essen as its center and Bruckhausen and Rattingen on the ends.

German goverment adoptd policy of passive resistance ordering local officials in Ruhr not to take orders from French.

Premier Poincare addressed the French chamber of deputies explaining and defending the Ruhr movement.

British cabinet met to debate the advisability of withdrawing British army from Rhine in emulation of United States.

American troops at Coblenz begin preparations to leave the Rhine.

Poland announces she would not aid France in the Ruhr.

Belgian reinforcements pouring into Aachen to support French military advance into Ruhr.

German coal deliveries pledged under Versailles treaty ceased when French entered Ruhr.

Official Washington Refrains Comment As Developments Anxiously Awaited

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—French occupation of German territory is an accomplished fact.

Official comment was denied tonight even understanding as to President Harding's motive in ordering the American troops home from the Rhine.

It was pointed out, however, recall of the troops apparently had unanimous approval in the United States. It also was admitted that their retirement from the Rhine would prevent possibility of embarrassing circumstances in connection with French operations in Germany.

There is no present plan of recalling Roland W. Boyden, American unofficial observer on the reparations commission. That course has not been considered, it was said at the state department.

Speculation as to what next is to be expected from the situation in Germany turned tonight to the effect expiration of the German moratorium on January 15 might have in the crisis.

Protest Received

Dr. Otto Wiedfeldt, the German ambassador late today presented to Secretary Hughes the formal protest of Grmany to occupation of the Ruhr by the French, but the text of the communication was not made public here.

Berlin dispatches, however, have indicated that Chancellor Cuno intends to refuse further reparations payment to France, Italy and Belgium on the grounds that they are "treaty breaking powers."

There was interest exhibited here in the exact meaning which underlay the chancellor's classification of the three powers. In some quarters, it was believed that this might be a forerunner of a German move to make separate arrangements with England for reparations payments, while denying the treaty right of the other three allies to collect. To what extent such a proposal would add to a situation already gravely complicated, it would be difficult to forecast.

U. S. Is Not Concerned

The American government would not be concerned with any reparations agreement except insofar as it might bear on the reimbursement of the United States by Germany for the costs of maintaining the American army on the Rhine.

It was reiterated that its course throughout had been and would continue to be dictated by the friendliest sentiments towards Frace as well as the other allied powers.

The impression given is that the Washington government sees no fruitful opportunity for helpfulness in Europe at present.

RICHEST INDUSTRIAL SECTION AFFECTED

By Associated Press

ESSEN, Jan. 11.—Germany's richest industrial section of the Ruhr district is in the hands of the French troops tonight. While the occupation has not actually spread all over the district, its leading city, Essen, is occupied and the 600,000 inhabitants of the municipality are now subject to the supervision of the soldiers with fixed bayonets and full field equipment.

The proclamation of General DeGoutte, in command of the French army, which is addressed to the residents of the city, says that the Franco-Belgian troops are being sent into the Ruhr to assist the allied engineer commission in obtaining the coal required from Germany on the reparations account. It announces that German social and other laws, including the eight hour day, will remain in force. The German officials are requested to continue their accustomed duties, and the press is advised that it will not be interferred with so long as it does not publish articles libelling the occupying armies.

By Associated Press.

OFFICIAL GERMANY TAKES NO ACTION

BERLIN, Jan. 11.—German official action so far as it concerns active or passive reprisals for the French advance into the Ruhr, awaits clarification of the situation there and the ability of the German government to arrive at an intelligent estimate of the political and physical character of the policies which France purposes to enforce in connection with her occupation.

The recall of Ambassador Mayer from Paris and Minister Landsberg from Belgium, does not indicate a breaking off of relations between Germany and France and Belgium, as the government has instructed the staffs of its missions in Paris and Brusels to remain at their posts.

FORMAL PROTEST IS RECEIVED

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Dr. Otto Wiedfeldt, the German ambassador, called at the state department late today and left there a formal protest against occupation of the Ruhr by France.

After reciting that the German government protested "against the oppression applied toward Germany in contradiction with the treaty (of Versailles) and international law," the communication declared the Berlin government did not intend to meet violence with violence, nor reply to the breach of the treaty with a withdrawal from the treaty."

FRENCH FORCES OCCUPY ESSEN

40,000 Troops Hold Rich Ruhr City

By Associated Press.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN THE RUHR, Jan. 11.—The French army is encircling the heart of the Ruhr valley, marching into Essen this morning in their new move for the occupation of additional German territory. French troops began patrolling the streets of Essen and the horizon blue sentries took positions at the entrance of the Great Krupp works.

French tanks command the Essen city halls quarter, and pickets of infantry hold the railroad station.

The advance from the Duesseldorf bridgehead was lead by armored cars. Two reserve divisions of infantry are being held in readiness.

At 10 o'clock General Boyer, the first French soldier to enter Essen, reached the city hall.

40,000 Troops Enter Essen

The column was fully equipped with machine guns; there was one battery of 75 millimeter guns for each division of infantry, with a few pieces of heavy artillery intermingling; the usual lorries with food and fodder and the rolling kitchens trailing their aroma of steaming soup.

The long columns, containing in all 40,000 men, presented a grim picture, as they wended their way along the Ruhr valley—a dark picture that was lighted by the glare of the blast furnace and rolling mills of the industrial district.

Not a single light showed from the windows of the houses lining the road, but here and there from behind the corners of uplifted curtains pale visages timorously peered only to be promptly withdrawn.

When the troops reached Ratingen, they met workmen on the way to their daily labor.

Swinging dinner pails which seemed to dangle lightly, the workmen directed never a glance at the marching soldiers, and the latter also ignored them. There seemed to be no hatred but neither was there any enthusiasm.

Bismarck's Statue Jeered At

Troops crossed the Ruhr river at Werden over a bridge adorned with statues of Bismarck, Von Moltke, and William I. Here the only touch of bitterness shown by French soldiers was shown, many jeering Germany's great men and shaking their fists at the statues.

Surprise and stupefaction were the dominant emotion shown by the inhabitnat as the French troops appeared on the outskirts of Essen. An elderly man, a veteran of 1870, weeping softly into a large red handkerchief summed up the situation as he said to the correspondent:

"We never thought they dared to do it."

CHRISTIANS TO BE SUBJECT TO TURK SERVICE

Military Exemption Is Refused At Peace Meet

By Associated Press.

LAUSANNE, Jan. 11.—There will be no exemption from military service for the Christian inhabitants of Turkey.

At the Near East conference today the allies yielded before the united and detrmintd opposition of the Turks and abandoned the project, especially affecting the Armenians, whereby all Christians would be relieved of the necessity of serving under the Turkish flag by paying an indemnity.

The Assyro-Chaldean delegation, disappointed at the failure of the conference to achieve results with the Turks concerning the establishment for them of an autonomous national home, declared tonight that they would appeal to Pope Pius to ask that all Christian nations unite in an appeal to Turkey to grant the Assyro-Chaldeans some sort of independence.

Harding Urges Women to Enter World Activity

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.— With the reading of a greeting from President Harding and an address by Secretary Davis, the three day industrial conference of women, held under the auspices of the woman's bureau today got under way.

More than 300 delegates from fifty or more industrial, social and civic organizations were in attendance.

The president, in his letter, encouraged women to participate more generally in public and social activities, while the secretary of labor stressed the importance of preventing the exploitation of wome in industry.

Little Progress On Debt Funding

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—American and British debt commissioners spent another two hours today discussing the whole subject of Great Britain's four billion dollar debt to the United States, but it was stated officially that the conversation had not yet progressed to the point of consideration of specific terms.

Chairman Mellon and other members of the American commission were represented, however, as feeling confident that an agreement would come out of the negotiations before January 20, the tentative date set for departure of the British for home.

Society Women Plan Lone Trip Across Sahara

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The society women, veterans of the first passage made by women unaccompanied across the Mojave desert in southern California, today sailed on the Providence for Alegiers, bound for the start of a new adventure—crossing of the Sahara desert alone.

The women were Mrs. Edna Perkins, wife of Dr. Roger Perkins of Cleveland, Ohio, and Mrs. Charlotte H. Jordan, wife of Edward S. Jordan, also of Cleveland.

Before attempting the expedition over the Sahara, the women plan to live for several months in tiny towns in the shelter of the Atlas mountains, on the border of the desert.

Henrietta Has Federal Farm Loan Bank Now

By BASCOM N. TIMMONS
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Henrietta, Clay county, was assured a national farm loan association tonight when the federal farm loan board announced it had authorized the issuance of a charter to such an association there.

F. L. Russell is to be president of the new organization, with Frank Bumling, secretary and treasurer. Farm loans to the extent of $22,300 have been authorized.

POULTRY SHOW DRAWS CROWD

Fine Birds Attract Attention

Hundreds of people attended the seventh annual show of the North Texas Poultry association which opened yesterday at 804 Ohio street where more than 1,500 birds of all varieties were entered. The birds came from all parts of the state and some from Oklahoma, being shipped from Fort Worth, Cleburne, Munday, Burkburnett, Seymour and many other poultry producing centers. Many fowls were entered by Wichita Falls poultry men.

Ducks, turkeys, bantams, large chickens of all varieties were on display at the show. The turkeys are some of the largest ever entered in a show in this county, and were the object of unusual attention.

Some of the varieties of chickens on display are: Ancenas, Spangle Round Heads, Buff Cochen Bantams, Jap Silkies, Rhode Island Reds, White Wyandottes, Buff Orpingtons, light and dark Barred Rocks, White Rhode Islands, Partridge Rock Islands, White Leghorns and Dark Brown Leghorns.

One of the prettiest displays was the group of Pap Silkies owned by a local man. These birds have white silky feathers and are one of the main attractions of the show.

Another beautiful group was the White Wyandottes owned by T. A. Reaves of Fort Worth. One of these birds won the prize loving cup, presented by the manufacturers and wholesale merchants of Wichita, last year, and if they win it this year the cup remains permanently in the hands of Mr. Reaves, as two consecutive wins guarantees the permanent possession These birds also won several first prizes at the Dallas state fair last year.

Some of the prizes will be awarded today, according to local officials, Walter Burton, poultry expert of Arlington, will act as judge.

Mexican Socialists Seek Reds' Release

By Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 11.—Unofficial reports here state that for some weeks socialists and bolshevik members of the Mexican congress joined by the radical syndicalists have been holding meetings and obtaining signatures to petitions demanding that the United States release socialists held at Leavenworth, Kans., on charges of neutrality law violations as well as other prisoners held under the espionage act.

Defense Closes Alibi Evidence

By Associated Press.

MARION, ILL., Jan. 11.—The defense in the Herrin riots trial today completed its chain of evidence designed to prove positive alibis for all of the five defendants and announced that it expected to rest its case after an effort to impeach the testimony given by several of the state's witnesses tomorrow.

Thirteen witnesses testified regarding the movements of Bert Grace and Peter Hillier the morning of June 22, when 20 non union workers from the Lester "strip" mine were slain.

SOLONS WILL HEAR MESSAGE OF NEFF TODAY

Governor To Outline Program Before Joint Session

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Jan 11.—Governor Neff will deliver his first message on his legislative program to the legislature at a joint session tomorrow morning, under action of the senate and house this afternoon when they adopted a joint resolution requesting the governor to appear. The resolution followed a brief message from the governor early today asking the privilege of speaking to a joint session.

The subject of the governor's address was not announced, but it is believed he will outline generally his legislative program and pay special attention to law enforcement proposals. He also has indicated that he will make some statement as to his recommendation on a constitutional convention.

Extra Session Certain

An extra session of the legislature was made certain when Senator Dudley, of El Paso, chairman of the senate finance committee announced that the committee would not consider appropriation measures during the regular session, except for emergencies. When the finance chairman announced this decision on the floor of the senate ,no objections were offered.

Important measures introduced into the senate today include the following:

By Murphy: Creating state minimum wage commission to fix salaries in various industries; Wood, adoption of Sheppard-Towner bill applying to Texas; Davis, constitutional amendment permitting legislature to publish state text books; Davis, establishment of state insurance department; Wood, concurrent resolution ordering inspection of state railroad. Senator Doyle's bill to prohibit divorces except for adultery was reported unfavorably this afternoon.

Appropriations Pass

The first acts of the present session to become laws were two appropriation bills, to defray the expenses of the present session. These were read the third time and placed on final passage in the house.

A bill, styling itself "the blue sky law of Texas," which seeks to regulate dealing in stocks, bonds and other securities when not handled by incorporated concerns, and providing for a "securities division of the state railroad commission" to supervise enforcement of the act was introduced in the house this morning by Representative Johnson of Stonewall.

Representative Wilmans, of Dallas, only woman member, introduced her first measure this afternoon. It would create a domestic relations court for Dallas county to handle divorce cases and cases involving the disposition of and provision for children of parents whose domestic difficulties have to be settled in court. The vast amount of cases of this nature arising in Dallas county justify and demand the creation of the court, Mrs. Wilmans said.

Lad Who Shot Dog Catcher Is Freed By Jury

By Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Jan. 11. —George Eichelberger and his 15 year old son, Phillip, were back at their Goose Creek home today, exonerated of a charge of murder filed against both of them following the fatal shooting of C. L. Rasor, Goose Creek dog catcher, last July. When the cases were called late yesterday the boy's case was turned over to the juvenile court. After the state completed its evidence in the case of the father, Judge C. W. Robinson instructed a verdict of not guilty. Later the boy was acquitted in juvenile court.

Evidence showed that he had shot Rasor while his father and Rasor were engaged in a scuffle which was brought about by an attempt to impound the Eichelberger dog.

Rail Labor Board Jurisdiction Over Wages Challenged

Pennsylvania Road Says Authority Was Exceeded in Setting Aside Agreements

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—In argument presented today in the supreme court, counsel for the Pennsylvania railroad system challenged the jurisdiction of the railroad labor board over wages of railway workers and their working conditions. The board, they contended, exceeded its authority in setting aside agreements negotiated between the company and its shop employes.

On the other hand the government argued that the board had not exceeded the powers conferred on it by the transportation act of 1920.

Blackburn Esterline, assistant to the solicitor general, asserted the board was a fact-finding body, nothing more than an arbitration tribunal dependent on the support of public opinion for the enforcement of its findings, and was not subject to suit.

F. D. McKenney, counsel for the Pennsylvania, contended that the board had "misconceived" the scope of its jurisdiction power and functions and had sought to extend its power beyong the proivsions of the transportation act.

The argument was heard in the appeal of the Pennsylvania to restrain the board from interfering with an election of employes' representatives from declaring contracts between the company and its employes void; and from publishing an opinion that the company had violated the labor board's findings.

FARMER BLOC IS ORGANIZED

Legislators Sponsor Needed Bills

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Jan. 11.—Farmers in the legislature organized tonight a permanent organization which they will call the "farm bloc" of the legislature, to promote measures containing farm and ranch interests. There were 50 members present, with represetatvs A. J. Durham of Sabinal as chairman, and Representative R. E. Sparkman of Italy, secretary. There will be no effort, he declared, "to use the organization except in farm legislation.

Big Demand For Cards Here Is Anticipated

Wichita Falls bootleggers have organized and have cards just as other organizations have, identifying the members, according to information obtained by Police Chief J. W. McCormick. The police chief said he has arrested a white man for bootlegging with one of the cards in his possession and the man told him all about the union.

Union bootleggers will not sell liquor to customers unless they have cards also, it is said. Chief McCormick expressed satisfaction over the card system used by bootleggers. "In the past" he said, "we have sometimes been in doubt about some of them under investigation. Now all we will have to do is to look for their cards."

Mayfield Confers On Orient Road

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Possible ways and means of keeping the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient railroad, now in receivership, in operation were considered today at informal conferences before interstate commerce commissioners. Chairman Meyer of the commission, Allison Mayfield, head of the Texas railroad commission, and representatives of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, and other southwestern trunk lines, participated. No results were announced after today's session, which were executive, except that discussions would be continued tomorrow.

German Wives Present Problem

By Associated Press.

COBLENZ, Jan. 11.—The more or less secret marriages to German girls of about 200 American soldiers of the 1,080 remaining here are giving the army authorities concern in connection with the order for the troops to return home.

Such marriages have not been sanctioned by the army and the question has arisen whether some of these German wives will be barred under the American immigration laws. Officers of the staff have taken this up with Washington and hope to arrange for the return of all the soldier's wives and families.

Noted Lawyer Dies

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—William H. Moore, 74, former associate of the late William B. Leeds, in "tin plate trust," and well-known corporation attorney, who figured in some of the biggest financial deals of a quarter of a century ago, died at his New York home tonight of heart failure.

Christopher Changes Plans

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Prince Christopher of Greece today announced that plans for the American trip which he and his american wife, Princess Anastasia, expected to make, would be modified as a result of the death of former King Constantine, Christopher's brother, in Palermo, Italy, today.

Prince Christopher declared that both he and his wife, formerly Mrs. William B. Leeds, widow of the tin plate king, were stunned by the news of his brother's death, first communicated to him by the Associated Press this morning.

Senate Increases Appropriations

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Senate insurgency against alleged slashing by the budget bureau of appropriations for the department of agriculture resulted today in adoption of amendments to the annual agricultural bill totalling $685,000. The senate appropriations committee's increases of $3,833,000 to the $69,000,000 house bill previously had been approved.

Wrong Valve Closed; City Is Without Gas

By Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 11.—This city was without gas tonight, following the eror of a workman, who closed the wrong valve late today. More than 20,000 consumers were affected.

The gas will not be turned into the mains until 8 o'clock tomorrow morning according to W. H. McKenzie, the general manager of the Wyandotte county gas company, local distributors.

Mr. McKenzie explained tonight that every meter owner must be notified before the gas can be turned on. Otherwise, he asserted, outlets of furnaces, stoves or other gas burning devices, which might have remainded open since the shutting off of the gas would present grave danger.

Peteet Heads Farm Marketing

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Jan. 11.—Walton Peteet secretary of the Texas farm bureau federation, chosen today to head the co-operative marketing department of the American farm bureau federation at Chicago, will assume his new duties on February 1, he said tonight.

Mr. Peteet will tender his resignation as secretary of the Texas organization at the annual convention here next week. No one has been mentioned as a possible successor to Mr. Peteet, according to officials.

SERVICE MEN IN LEGISLATURE AGAINST BILL

Measure Will Injure Legion, Declare Leaders

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Jan. 11.—Both the "former service men" group of the legislature and state officers of the American Legion will oppose introduction of a state bonus bill on behalf of world war veterans, it was declared tonight in a meeting when service members went into a permanent organization.

A state bonus measure now sponsored by the soldiers legislators would do injury to the American Legion, Wayne Davis, former state commander, declared. John C. Townes Jr., of Houston, commander of the Legion, also opposed the bonus, as did members of both house and senate present in the caucus.

Senator Edgar E. Witt of Waco was chosen chairman of the former soldier organization and George C. Purl of Dallas, secretary.

Scramble For Coins Blocks City Traffic

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 11.—Traffic was blocked in the heart of the business district this afternoon when a large crowd began scrambling for quarters, dimes and nickels which showered from the fourth floor of a downtown hotel. Police rushed to the room, and demanded that the four occupants cease their larges so traffic proceed. The men, who were registered from DuQuoin, Ill., said they had been discussing whether the St. Louisans were "out for the dough" and decided to settle their argument by a test method.

Indians to Go To Washington

By Associated Press.

SANTA FE, N. M., Jan. 11.—Raising $3,500 from county village treasuries to pay their expenses, 14 Pueblo Indians from nine of the 20 villages in New Mexico have left for Washington to appear on behalf of the 8,000 Pueblos in this state before the senate committee on public lands on Jan. 15, it was reported today.

In Washington Yesterday

Ira Nelson Morris, American minister to Sweden resigned.

The Kellogg-White radio control bill was reported by the house merchant marine committee.

The house approved the senate bill making possible the appointment of Major Crowder as ambassador to Cuba.

The Pennsylvania railroad, in argument before the supreme court, challenged the jurisdiction of the railroad labor board in adjustment of wages.

Dr. Otto Wiedfeldt, the German ambassador, formally presented to Secretary Hughes the protest of Germany against French occupation of the Ruhr.

The interstate commerce commission notified railroads it would investigate their recent expenditures for equipments, maintenance and their methods of supplying cars to shippers.

Announcing it had official information that a revolt had broken out in the Memel district, east Prussia, the Lithuanian legation denied reports that Lithuanian troops had entered the region.

Efforts of Senator Fernald, republican, Maine, to nullify the packer control act by denying appropriations for its enforcement precipitated a three hour debate in the senate on the question.

Hope that congress at the present session would provide effective relief for farmers was expressed by President Harding in a letter to a representative of the Frederick, Maryland, chamber of commerce.

Despite congressional agitation for the recall of Roland W. Boyden, unofficial American observer with the reparations commission, the administration was understood to believe he should continue in his present capacity.

Secretary Mellon, chairman of the American debt commission, was reported as having confidence the British debt question would reach an agreement before January 20.

President Harding in a letter read at the opening session of the women's industrial conference, declared changed status of women justified and necessitated their broader and more intimate participation in various public and social activities.

Occupation Will Ruin France Says Hun Iron Magnate

BY S. D. WEYER
International News Service Staff Correspondent.
(Copyright, 1923, by International News)

ESSEN, Jan. 11.—"Military occupation by France ends Germanys chances of resuming her place among the first class powers for decades and perhaps forever," declared August Thyssen, 80-year-old Ruhr iron magnate, in an exclusive statement to International News Service this afternoon. Herr Thyssen who ranks in power and wealth with the Krupps and Hugo Steinnes is known as the "grand old man of the Ruhr." He sat in his castle on the Essen-Dusseldorf road, overlooking the Rhine river as he spoke.

"I believe," continued the German industrialist, "that occupation will be the ruin of France. France is about to eat the bread whereof she will die."

"It is heart breking to see a life's work wantonly taken from our hands and thereby from the country and to sit by silently and in impotent rage."

The "German Carnegie" revealed that recently the United States steel corporation, through President James Farrell, proposed to renew the pre-war sales contract with the powerful Thyssen industrial group. Herr Thyssen said the proposition had to be rejected because France would have insisted upon equal privileges which would have meant eventual ruin of the German iron and steel industry.

"If we had refused to pay a single penny three or four years ago instead of following the stupid policy of former Chancellor Joseph Wirth, we would have saved more from the wreck than we are saving today," continued Herr Thyssen. "This occupation is the final act reducing us to France's economic vassal."

The old man's eyes blazed with wrath and he raised his clenched fists as he went on:

"But we will never sell out to France. France wants us to do the same in the Ruhr as in the Saar—buy up sixty per cent of all industry, leaving us forty per cent. But members of the coal syndicate—the Rheinisch-Westphalian coal syndicate—solemnly pledged themselves not to sell out to France. It will be the hardest job France ever tackled. We fooled them by dissolving the coal syndicate; we will fool them again."

"But it is little consolation over the dissolution of the coal syndicate because finally France will attain her object. She can starve out the steel men by refusing them coal. And so far we have paid in paper marks. Now it will be in francs. Where are we going to get the francs? That is a question."

Herr Thyssen began his steel and iron career 55 years ago with 8,000 borrowed marks. Today there are more than 65,000 workes on the payoll of the Thyssen works.

Morehouse Courthouse Used As Meeting Place By Klan

PARKER'S NAME ENTERS HEARING

Mer Rouge Men Tell Of Conditions

By Associated Press

BASTROP, La., Jan. 11.—Stories of a meeting of the Ku Klux Klan in the Morehouse parish court house, of a meeting of a select committee to pass on the question of a Mer Rouge citizen charged with "anti-klan" activities, and of instructions given to three Mer Rouge citizens to "leave town" contributed to the record today in the open investigation under way into hooded band activities in Morehouse and the kndnaping and slaying of Watt Daniel and Thos. Richard.

For the first time during the investigation, the name of Governor Jno. M. Parker was brought to the fore by a witness.

Parker Mentioned

"Isn't it true, that Captain Skipwith always became indignant when Governor Parker's name was mentioned?" was asked of R. L. Dade, mayor of Mer Rouge, who described himself as a former klansman.

Dade replied in the affirmative.

Captain Skipwith is exalted cyclops of the Morehouse klan organization.

Dade was testifying as to the meetings being held to "restore peace in Mer Rouge."

"Under the regalia of the klan had there not arisen a condition in the parish that is intolerable," Dade was asked.

"Yes sir."

"Isn't it a fact that the klan had superceded the constituted authorities?"

"Yes, in a great measure," said Dade.

Membership in the klan was given by Hugh Clark, Mer Rouge merchant, as between 300 and 400.

Woods Full of Ku Klux

"The woods was full of them," Clark said in describing the attendance at an initiation ceremony in a field some distance from the highway between Bastrop and Mer Rouge.

"Where were you the night of August 24?" was asked.

"Well, you know that's a funny thing," Clark replied.

"I have heard so many rumors that I decided to find out just where I was on the 24th. I asked a friend of mine and he recalled I was at a Masonic meeting on that date and I went to the secretary of the organization of which I am treasurer and he checked up and established that I was present. I then remembered what happened there. Some of the fellows who live in Collinston came in and told us of having brought back J. L. Daniel, and W. C. Andrews and "Tot" Davenport. They said they had been flogged by masked men.

Mrs. Clark on Stand.

Mrs. Clark preceded her husband on the witness stand. She testified she did not know her husband was a member of the Ku Klux Klan. Mrs. Clark called to verify a statement made by another witness that she had remarked "the next time the Ku Klux Klan got Richard he would not get off so light."

The court took a recess until tomorrow at ten o'clock after J. C. Nettles, who discovered the bodies of Daniel and Richard in Lake La Fourche, had testified briefly as to the roads leading to the lake.

BULLET PIERCES CAR OF WITNESS

(By International News Service)

MER ROUGE, LA., Jan. 11.—A mysterious bullet hole in the automobile of W. C. Andrews, one of the state's star witnesses in the "hooded mob" investigation gave rise to rumors of a new act of violence in a terrorist plot to prevent witnesses appearing at the hearing. The bullet apparently had been fired into the car either from long range or by defection

Andrews told newspaper men he had used the car to return here from Bastrop where he testified yesterday.

HOUSE REGRETS FRENCH ACTION

Complicates Problem Of Reparations

By United Press.

GALVESTON, Jan. 11.—The problem of central Europe will be complicated rather than solved by the occupation of the French in the Ruhr valley, in the opinion of Col. E. M. House, who during the war was President Wilson's "right hand" man and who represented the president in conducting negotiations with the powers of Europe and who was a participant in the Versailles treaty.

It is the belief of House that the present European situation would have a different angle had the United States entered into the league of nations and ratified the treaties that insured France against invasion by Germany.

"France is afraid of Germany," said Colonel House, "and has been for years and years. The German invasion of 1914 has made her doubly cautious and now that she has the upper hand she is reluctant to relinquish her advantage. France does not want Germany to become powerful again, but when she assumes that attitude she stands alone."

When questioned concerning the removal of American troops from Germany, House said:

"Unless America is going to take part in the rapartions problems. I think that the troops should be withdrawn from Europe altogether. The troops should have been withdrawn before the present crsis arose."

U. S. AGENTS TO ASSIST STATE

Investigate Crimes Of Past Year

BY WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

COURT HOUSE BASTROP, LA., Jan 11.—The United States government has joined forces with the state of Louisiana in a sweeping drive for "retroactive" restoration of constitutional government in Morehouse parish as a result of revelations made at the open hearing into the deaths of Thomas F. Richards and Watt Daniel, it was learned officially today by the International News Service.

This action, almost without precedent in American legal history will involve former investigation and prosecution of all crimes committed within the parish since the organization here of the ku klux klan. The decision to delve into other crimes then the slaying of Daniel and Richards by a "hooded mob" was brought about by evidence of repeated kidnappings, deportations, whippings, intimidations and acts of violence all of which are alleged to have gone unpunished by the appointed agencies of the law.

Question Klan Activity.

At the same time the investigation and prosecutions will include crimes upon which the ku klux klan is said to have passed judgement and sentence while it is charged to have usurped the functions of parish authorities.

The government's participation was assured through orders to department of justice agents to investigate every crime committed in the parish during the last year. The state will act through the attorney general by prosecuting all reported violations evidence of which is revealed by federal agents.

The drive will be felt by klansmen and anti-klansmen alike it was declared.

500,000 POPULATION IS HOUSTON'S GOAL

By Associated Press.

HOUSTON—City engineers estimate a population of 500,000 will spring up here at the end of 15 years, pointing to the city's expenditure for all forms of improvements in the last 12 months of more than twenty million dollars. Improvements in paving, sewers, bridges, water mains and the like, amounted to more than $1,000,000. A new public library and two branch libraries, an art museum, a city-county hospital, bank building, Methodist hospital and business enterprises are on the 1923 program.

MASONS TO ERECT $1,000,000 HOSPITAL

By Associated Press.

EL PASO.—Early this year, El Paso Masons are to begin the erection of a $1,000,000 hospital in this city. It will be on property they purchased last year, now valued at $130,000, and will adjoin the present hospital building. If present plans go through, a part of the new building will be taken over by the Shriners as a hospital for crippled children. The new building will have 300 beds.

Poor Pauline! Has Marital Troubles

(By Central Press)

LOS ANGELES—Once upon a time a popular song related in detail the perils of one Pauline; how the villain threw her in the sea; how he tied her to a tree; tossed her in a lions' den and a dozen other things.

The heroine of that touching bit of musical nonsense surely had enough troubles to keep any decent, respectable young lady busy, but at that she had nothing on Pauline Frederick, the statuesque movie beauty, and her marital troubles.

The only difference between the two is that in the song Pauline's came from an unusually persistent villain while the screen star's came from a variety of husbands who successively and speedily became obnoxious to the fair film goddess.

All of which is preliminary to the fact that Pauline Frederick has just stepped out from under the marriage bonds which she contracted only last June with one Dr. C. A. Rutherford, wealthy Seattle physician.

At the time of the wedding it was rather boldly announced that it was a love affair, pure and simple. Miss Frederick's press agents even went so far as to dwell upon the fact that the physician had known Miss Frederick from childhood. None of her other husbands had.

But the best laid plans of mice and press agents often fizzle and now comes the report, somewhat belated, but apparently authentic, that Pauline and Rutherford have separated, in fact that they have been separated for nearly four months.

Her friends even go so far as to say that they never even lived together as man and wife.—Strange, if reports of the "love affair," if the marriage itself was not a publicity scheme, say others.

Incompatibility is given as the reason for the separation, but no mention of divorce plans has been made.

Dr. Rutherford is once more at his Seattle home, perhaps even caring for his patients. Miss Frederick, his wife and second cousin, is starring in an Al Woods production.

Her palatial home in Beverly Hills is being occupied by her aunt and uncle.

Fire Causes Loss Of Nearly $10,000

Fire originating in a servant house belonging to B. F. Johnson at 1413 Hayes street, completely destroyed that building, the garage and servant house of Wade H. Walker and the alley, the property of Hi Willis. The alley, the property of Hi Wilis. The total loss on the three houses was approximately $10,000 and was covered by insurance.

The house in which the blaze started had not been occupied for several weeks, Mr. Johnson stated, and as there had been no fire in or about the building recently so far as is known, the origin of the blaze can not be accounted for.

Irrigation Board Re-elects Officers

At a meeting of the directors of the Wichita county Water Improvement district No. 1 which was held Thursday, organization was perfected for the year and officers re-elected, headed by J. A. Kemp as president. Reports covering the activities of the past year were submitted.

RED REVOLT IS BARED AT PARIS

Move Against Capital Is Frustrated

By United Press.

PARIS, Jan. 11.—Communists plan for a Europe-wide revolution against capitalists were bared today when the police arrested six prominent "Red" leaders.

Flying squadrons of police, still seaching for five other communists agitators, unearthed documents that showed to the arrests, and probably broke up a well organized campaign to stir workers of Europe to revolt. The agitation against French occupation of the Ruhr, voiced at meeting ing the Rhineland, was to be used in the attempt, evidence shower.

Deputy Cachin, prominent communist, is wanted by the police and the chamber is asked to raise his parliamentary immunity so he can be arrested, Semard, secretary of the railroad mens syndicate is in hiding. Marrana, secretary of the communist federation; Coudeau of the telegraph and telephone workers syndicate: Mermousseau of the general confederation of labor, are in jail. Their homes were searched, as were the offices of l'Humanite, a communist daily, and many papers seized.

These showed that the revolution was to include workers of Germany, Belgium, Holland, Czecho Slovakia and France. Agitators honed to get the revolt under way coincident with strikes and possible trouble in the Ruhr.

BRITISH TROOPS STAY ON RHINE

Recall Would Create French Friction

By DAVID M. CHURCH
International News Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, Jan. 11.—The advisability of withdrawing the British army of occupation from the Rhine in emulation of the Americans, was discussed by the cabinet today with Premier Bonar Law presiding. Just before the cabinet met news was received from Paris that the French had entered the Ruhr, occupying the city of Essen.

There was division of opinion in the cabinet, some favoring withdrawal and others opposing it on the ground that it would be offensive to the French and threaten friction between the French and British delegations in the Near East conference at Lausanne.

It is understood that the cabinet won't not reach a definite decision at once, but would adopt a policy of "watchful waiting."

Modification Expected

There was belief that Premier Bonar Law expects to modify their Rhineland policy later. Persons close to the premier says he holds the opinion the French are going wrong and that later they will realize it.

British officials understand that after the Ruhr is completely occupied the French will again open the door for negotiations with the Germans, notably the German coal and iron magnates who have vast interests in the Rhineland. If an agreement is reached, the British believe the French would soon be withdrawn.

The opinion held in Berlin that France's object is to smash and disintegrate Germany, is not prevalent here.

FREDERICK IS AFTER BRIDGE

Appropriation Will Be Asked

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla, Jan. 11.—Both the Frederick Lions' club and the Frederick chamber of commerce will have representatives at the meeting of the state highway conference in Oklahoma City Jan. 16. E. L. Guyer county engineer, and Providence Mounts will go as delegates from the chamber of commerce and the committee from the Lions' club has not yet been named. One of the matters which this delegation, acting in conjunction, will present to the state conference, is the building of a bridge across Red river, south of Davidson. This committee will ask an appropriation from the state to defray the Oklahoma part of the expense.

At the Lions' club meeting held Tuesday a committee composed of F. E. Moss, Guy S. Weathers and E. N. Boutell was appointed to act with the oil and gas development committee of the chamber of commerce consisting of J. T. Godard E. J. Bosse, John H. Mounts, and M. B Jickens, in interviewing the Farmers union, in order to secure acreage near Frederick for the purpose of putting down an oil test well.

The Lions' club votes $25 to be added to the $50 appropriated by the chamber of commerce to be offered by the home demonstration agent as prizes for the best record made by county women's clubs.

FREDERICK WANTS BETTER TRAIN SERVICE

Greatly dissatisfied with the one-train a day service maintained by both the Wichita Falls and Northwestern railroad and the Frisco the directors of the chamber of commerce at their regular meeting Tuesday again requested the president of the body, E. N. Boutell, to take the matter up with the railroad officials, with the view of bettering the service. This move has additional backing in the Chickasha chamber of commerce and the Hucking hotel of Oklahoma City. The chamber of commerce hopes to have restored the night train out of Wichita Falls to Frederick, connecting here with the Frisco and on into Oklahoma City.

A Quarter Century Of Service

"If a man write a better book or preach a better sermon
or build a better mouse-trap
Tho he live in the depths of the forest
The world will beat a path to his door."

25 years ago a small druggist—in a small town—discovered a new way—an "external" way—to treat colds. So Vicks was born.

And for a quarter of a century, in ever increasing numbers, the world has beaten a path to its door.

Until today more than 17 million jars go out yearly to serve the people of this land.

Avoid Influenza—Grip—Pneumonia

Apply Vicks to help avoid infection.
Use Vicks at the first sign of an oncoming cold.

MOST medical authorities now agree that Colds, Grip, Influenza and Penumonia are all germ diseases—most commonly spread by breathing in the germs. If the system is in good shape—the membrane of the air passages in a healthy condition—these germs do not breed.

In fact the germs of all these diseases are frequently found in perfectly healthy persons. It is only when the bodily resistance is lowered—as by a cold for instance—that they are able to harm us.

Avoid Sneezers and Coughers

It is best to keep away from the sneezers and coughers in the street cars and public places, or if you must meet them, insert some Vicks in the nostrils before you start out. On returning home, melt a little Vicks in a tin cup or a spoon and inhale the vapors.

Opposed to Bacteria

The ingredients of Vicks are not only antiseptic, but rubefacient—that is, they summon the blood to the tissues where applied and this free blood circulation is nature's best method of repelling germ infection. Also Vicks spreads a protective film over the membrane and furthermore is opposed to the growth of bacteria. In short, we believe you have a much better chance to avoid infection by these numerous germs if you have Vicks in your nose.

Attack a Cold Immediately

When you feel a cold coming on, go right home. Take a laxative. Make some hot lemonade, then take a hot bath—as hot as you can stand. Stay in the tub 30 minutes, sipping slowly several glasses of the lemonade. If your head is stopped up, melt Vicks in a spoon or tin cup and inhale the vapors arising; also insert Vicks freely up the nostrils.

After your hot bath, get into bed, with a hot water bottle at your feet, and pile on blankets. After an hour's sweat, dry thoroughly with a rough towel, apply Vicks over throat and chest, rub in well until the skin is red, and then spread on thickly and cover with one or two thicknesses of hot flannel cloth. Get into bed again between dry sheets. Leave the bedclothing loose about the neck, like a funnel, so that the rising vapors may be freely inhaled. It as an obstinate cold, indeed, that will resist such treatment. If it does, call a physician.

Acts Two Ways at Once

Vicks is of benefit in cold troubles in two ways. 1st—It is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, thus helping to relieve the soreness, loosen the phlegm and make the breathing less difficult. 2nd—At the same time the ingredients, released as vapors, by the body heat, are taken with each breath directly into the congested, inflamed air passages.

A Vapor Lamp In Salve Form

Vicks is the discovery of Mr. L. Richardson, a North Carolina druggist. He realized that cold troubles were affections of the respiratory organs and that the only way to get medication direct to these parts was in the form of vapors. Mr. Richardson finally worked out the process for making Vicks, so made that the body heat releases the volatile ingredients in the form of vapors. Vicks really is "a vapor lamp in salve form."

The Ingredients of Vicks

Since the dawn of history mankind has been searching nature for remedies against cold troubles. The knowledge gained through a thousand years has come down to us today. Vicks contains the best known remedies for these troubles, some of them of great antiquity. Menthol, for instance, comes from Oil of Pepperment which was grown in Egypt three thousand years ago and whose virtues are described in the old Icelandic books of the 13th century.

The highest authority on drugs and their uses in the U. S. Dispensatory. We give below a few extracts from the Dispensatory on some of the ingredients in Vicks.

MENTHOL—"It is actively anti-bacterial. It is employed for its antiseptic and anaesthetic influence in coryza, pharyngitis and laryngitis."

CAMPHOR—"Has a peculiar and agreeable effect on the mucous membrane—relieves congestion and inflammation—is a powerful stimulant to the respiratory centers."

OIL OF EUCALYPTUS—"Germicidal, antiseptic and stimulant—largely used in chronic bronchitis and infections of the upper respiratory tract—its vapors are very efficient."

OIL OF THYME—"This drug is a powerful antiseptic with wonderful healing properties, especially in congestion and catarrhal conditions of the nose and throat."

OIL OF TURPENTINE—"Its vapors are an excellent remedy for, and highly beneficial in various forms of bronchial and lung trubles—has powerful healing, antiseptic properties."

Adopt the DIRECT treatment for all cold troubles

ABSORBED, like a liniment, and, at the same time, INHALED, as a vapor, Vicks reaches immediately the congested, inflamed air passages.

SANDFORD OF TENNESSEE

An exponent or expounder of the Wilson gospel of democracy is the New York Times and for this reason it must be a very truthful newspaper. The Times says editorially that President Harding has decided to appoint Federal Judge Edward Sanford of Tennessee to the Supreme Court bench to fill the vacancy that was caused by the retirement of Justice Whitney of New Jersey.

Furthermore that Sandford is the choice of Chief Justice William Howard Taft. Furthermore and somemore, The Times adds this comment:

"President Harding will make an admirable appointment, if as is expected, he follows the recommendation of Chief Justice Taft."

Judge Sanford is a native Tennessean. His parents were New Englanders. Those who know him say he is one of the greatest of southern lawyers, and that his ability and scholarship and courage are of the highest order. He was appointed to the federal bench in 1908 and is the close personal and political friend of the chief justice.

The death of former Justice Edward Douglas White of Louisiana left the south unrepresented in the court of last resort. President Harding named Pierce Buckley, a democrat, as the successor of Justice Day. Buckley came from the northwest. Taft recommended his appointment. Now Taft has recommended the appointment of Sanford.

It goes without saying that the president has a higher regard for the man who was president of the United States, who appointed a democrat and a confederate soldier chief justice of the supreme court of the United States and who finally became chief justice of that court himself.

President Harding has his faults. He makes mistakes. All men do. All men in office make mistakes. They are human. But President Harding hasn't made a single mistake in his selection of judges of the Court of Last Resort.

This is the verdict of the representative newspapers of America and the verdict of the foremost lawyers of America.

HOOVER AND FALL

Hon. Albert H. Fall of New Mexico retired from the department of the interior. President Harding tendered the port folio to Secretary Herbert Hoover of the department of commerce. Hoover declined it. Now official Washington says it will go to Senator Miles Poindexter of the state of Washington. Poindexter will give his seat to a democrat when a new congress assembles.

Fall is what is known as a reactionary. He does not believe in the conservation policies which were begun by Theodore Roosevelt and Gifford Pinchot. He believes in private ownership of land and water and all that the world contains. He is responsible for the leasing of the naval oil reserve to the titans of the petroleum industry.

Harding and Fall were cronies in the senate. Harding is for soucervation of the heritage of the people and the resources that the heritage contains. Harding is a conservative but not a reactionary. He knows the way the wind is blowing. He was given a reminder in the great gale of November of last year.

Miles Poindexter was defeated for the senate because he had voted to retain Newberry in his seat. He is a mild reactionary. It is possible for the people to make him move, and he had his lesson and his defeat.

This nation is never going back again to the good old days. The people have tasted blood and the direct primary gave them an opportunity to taste blood. Having once tasted it, they like it.

George Gordon Battle, a distinguished lawyer and democrat of New York, on his return from Europe declared that bankruptcy and revolution will come unless America saves the world. America saved the world a few short years ago and $11,000,000 advanced hasn't been funded to date.

Canada isn't creeping along. Canada is jumping along. Ten new steamships will carry the Canadian flag on the great lakes when the navigation season opens in the spring. Wet or dry?

Congressman Willie Upshaw of Georgia has introduced a bill making the purchase of liquor equally guilty with the persons who unlawfully offer it for sale. Why not? It should take two to commit crime. Isn't the buyer as guilty as the seller?

Former United States senator Truman H. Newberry has gone to Egypt where he will remain until late in the autumn. Democratic Arabs in Michigan broke his head when they elected a United States senator. It was the first time it had happened in seven years and may not happen again until some time in 1002. That is, unless Henry Ford elects himself to be a democrat and demands that he be honored with a nomination.

Standard Oil of Indiana enters a weeping denial to the charge that the company has merged with the Gulf Oil corporation. Pity the sorrows of the perspiring rich. A man earns a billion dollars by hard labor and then carries ones organine to take it away from him. Why shouldn't thrift be rewarded?

UNCOMMON SENSE

By JOHN BLAKE

MAKING NATURE AN ALLY

What we call nature is the world and the forces that occupy and surround it.

The universe is nature too, but of that despite all astronomers have tought, we know very little indeed.

Beyond the fact that it is filled with bodies like that of earth, composed of the same materials, and travelling on orbits through space, our knowledge, even of our own solar system, is nothing.

We cannot tell whether the lines on Mars our nearest neighbor, are made by living beings, or by nature. We are not even sure that our sister planets are inhabited at all.

But of nature, as we feel and see and hear it on this earth of ours, we fancy we know a great deal.

What we call science is knowledge of nature—knowledge that has been produced by study through thousands and thousands of years—since man first had an intelligence which was capable of study.

With this knowledge, which we think is very considerable, we sometimes talk of conquering nature.

We look forward to the time when the lightnings that still terrify the most intelligent will be completely in harness. when the hundred mile gale will blow in vain to retard the airplane or vessel on the surface of the sea, when the cyclone and even the earthquake may be put to work by men.

And when we boast of these things we speak vainly, and with no real knowledge, for in nature are forces which in an instant could smash this world into billions of fragments, and destroy every living thing thereon.

The best we can hope to do in our sojourn here, whether it is to be brief or extended, is to make an ally of nature—to learn enough about her so that she will assist us in the work that our winds want done.

This we do when we harness steam and electricity and water power. We do it when we gratify the child's first thirst for knowledge, by giving him an education.

We do it when we study the human body, and find how it will eliminate poisons and heal its own maladies, if we only can learn how to reconive the obstructions that our ignorance places in the path of health.

Nature is no longer man's complete master—always. But nature will never be conquered, for in nature, there shines the mighty mind which directed the universe and whose operations make the thoughtful men constantly aware of his actual insignificance.

TIMELY VIEWS

'WE SHOULD PREPARE YOUTH FOR PATH, NOT PATH FOR YOUTH."

"The institution of marriage as it now obtains is a failure," declares Ben B. Lindsey, famous jouvenile court judge. "If the youth of today were educated to the problems of married life and encouraged to marry young and have families, marriage would be more stable and lasting," he continued. Parents should learn that children do not take advice because they would lose too much of life if they did. If youth were to follow advice blindly there would be no progress. Confidence, loyalty and judgment should be taught. Nagging and 'don'ts' are the downfall of many. The mistake of modern social censorship is too much paternalism and trying to prepare the path for the youth when youth should be prepared for the path."

JUDGE LINDSEY

EASY TERMS FOR ALLIED WAR DEBTS ADVISED BY NICHOLS MURRAY BUTLER .

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, New York, asserted that the greatest silent struggle going on today for the possession of the mind of the new nations in central and eastern Europe.

"If that struggle for the mind is going to result in victory for those ideals and institutions in which we believe," he said in a recent address, "we have got to do something about it. That struggle is not going to win itself. Left alone the mark, selling at 8,000 to 10,000 for a dollar, will soon dispose of the dollar and the German text books, German theories, German ideals will take the place in the minds of these ardent and ambitious people who have longed for our ideals. That is my notion of a real political question, and it is in that kind of question I beg the American people and this organization to take the liveliest and most practical interest."

As a result of the war, said Dr. Butler, there are 600,000,000 persons who can not buy the food, clothing and luxuries they were able to purchase before 1914. Half of these must economize in their purchases and the other half, the majority of whom are in central and eastern Europe, "are living like animals in hovels and are dependent upon public and private charities."

"Three hundred million people," Dr. Butler said, "have heads and hands and hearts and nothing else. And this nation, with a supply of gold reserve which is so appalling that it staggers the imagination, a country which was relatively untouched by the war, complacently asks them 'to go to work.' So far as I am concerned, such a condition is shocking. I would treat the meanest beggar in the streets like that, to say nothing of innocent peoples who have been made to suffer in the same war in which we took so large a part.

"My answer is very brief. These peoples ought to be provided, by advancements from the well-to-do nations of the world who have free capital with those instruments that will enable them to go to work to make and save money and eventually to pay their debts. They need plows, farming instruments of all kinds, seed and clothing. It is not humanity; it is good business, for it would make them your customers and send them to work."

Asked what practical suggestions he would make, President Butler said an economic conference should be called, at which should be discussed purely economic questions and nothing else.

Referring to the allied war debts, Dr. Butler said:

"I would arrange that the debts be discharged, but over such a period as to make it take place without any embarrassment to any nation. I don't care how long it takes. It took us four years to win the war, but if we had lost, it would be 400 years to get back, and we should be willing to take some portion of the 400 years to get back. We are told that England will pay. Of course she will, but I am too good an American to want to give up my share and allow Great Britain to bear the entire burden."

NOTHING TO WORRY ABOUT

(French chefs have organized to copyright their creations, thereby advancing the price.)

We'd grant all gifted chefs the right
To profit by their brains;
Their every gustatory flight
Should go to swell their gains.
With words alone can authors fill
The covers of a book,
And he must have uncommon skill
Who seeks to be a cook.

Let vol-a-vent proclaim the fame
Of him who thought it up.
Let gourmets raptly speak his name
The while they gently sup.
We'll be content—will you and I—
Cuisine Francais to flout;
We know the copyright on pie
Has long ago run out.

Souffle and sauce and consomme,
On which the gilded live,
We know for us, no distant day,
Will be prohibitive.
But still on crispy buckwheat cakes
At breakfast we'll be fed,
And ham and eggs and hamburg steaks
Cannot be patented.

Though salads which in French appear
Upon the bill of fare
For us efstoons may be too dear,
We shall not know nor care.
We still shall feast, with little cash,
On food to be desired;
The copyright on cornedbeef hash
Has years ago expired.

EMPORIA, Kan., Jan. 11.—A telephone message from Quincy this afternoon said men who robbed the Virgil, Kans., state bank of $3,500 today, were surrounded by a posse near Toto.

The bandits shot and seriously wounded a man named Ditty, who was riding in the automobile they commandeered after the bandit car had broken down near Quincy.

POEMS THAT LIVE

O CAPTAIN! MY CAPTAIN!

A Dirge for Lincoln.

O Captain! My Captain! Our fearful trip is done,
The ship has weather'd every rack the prize we sought is won,
The port is near, the bells I hear, the people all exulting,
While follow eyes the steady keel, the vessel grim and daring;
But, O heart; heart! heart!
O the bleeding drops of red
Where on the deck my captain lies,
Fallen cold and dead.

O captain! My captain! rise up and hear the bells;
Rise up—for you the flag is flung—for you the bugle trills,
For you bouquets and ribbon'd wreaths—for you the shores a-crowding,
For you they call, the swaying mass, their eager faces turning;
Here, captain! dear father!
This arm beneath your head!
It is some dream that on the deck
You've fallen cold and dead.

My captain does not answer, his lips are pale and still,
My father does not feel my arm, he has no pulse nor will,
The ship is anchor'd safe and sound its voyage closed and done,
From fearful trip the victor ship comes in with object won;
Exult, O shores, and ring, O bells!
But I with mournful tread,
Walk the deck my captain lies,
Fallen cold and dead.

HAMBONE'S MEDITATIONS

By J. P. Alley

"The Lady of North Star"

By Ottwell Binns; Author of "A Mating in the Wilds"

"Sit down," Dick went on, "I want to express my gratitude to you that you should have left your home in mid-winter to come and look for me. Such solicitude is beyond what I had ex—"

"I was not looking for you," Joy broke in. "You were the last person I was expecting to meet!"

"Is that so?" The mockery had gone out of Bracknell's voice now, and there was a dangerous ring in it. The eyes in the haggard face were blazing, and to both the girls it was clear that he had much ado to keep himself in hand. "You dare to tell me that—me, your lawful husband? Perhaps you will tell me for whom you did leave your home then? Whom were you following and seeking on a winter trail?"

In the wild mood that was on him Dick Bracknell would be sure to put a false interpretation on any explanation that she might offer him. Realizing that she was silent, and he broke out again, wrathfully—

"You won't tell me? But I already know. My cousin Roger is the favored man, is he not? You start at that! Well, I will have Harrow Fell and you also. Now you are here, in your husband's house, where you have come of your own accord, and here you remain. Take off your furs!"

He took a step forward as if to enforce his order, and Joy shrank back against the rough logs of the shack. Bracknell laughed savagely, but the next moment there came an intervention.

"Stand back, Mr. Bracknell!"

The speaker was Miss La Farge, and as she stepped resolutely forward, holding a small but serviceable looking machine pistol in her hand, Dick stepped back and laughed to cover his discomfiture.

"A she-lynx—and with claws! Well, time is on my side. You will grow tired of standing there, and Joe will be back in a minute or two, then I shall know how to deal with you."

"No!" replied Miss La Farge. "Our men will be here in a few minutes. Then—"

A sharp cry of agony sounded somewhere outside, and as it reached them, the girl's speech suddenly froze.

The crash of a rifle came next, followed by a shout, and that in turn by a great stillness. The three people in the shack looked at one another helplessly.

An hour passed in silence and then Bracknell spoke horsely—

"Something must have happened, or the Indians would have been back before this. And your men—"

"No doubt they are waiting," said Joy.

"I am afraid not," answered her husband. "Something has occurred—what, we must find out!" He glanced at the window of skin parchment, then added, "We must cut that out. One of us must climb through and open the door—"

"Joy shall go!" said Miss La Farge firmly.

"Go through, Joy," asserted the sick man. "Have no fear," he said as she visibly hesitated, "I give you my word that this is no trap. Believe me, I am very anxious for the safety of all of us."

Joy glanced once at him. It was plain to her that he was sincere, and two seconds later she broke out the parchment and dropped down into the snow. A minute later the door swung open, and all three stood looking down the creek. No sound reached them. Everywhere was the appalling, inscrutable silence of the Northern wilderness.

"We must find out what has happened!" said Joy, looking at Bracknell.

"Yes," he said slowly, "but you must not go alone. I will go with you."

"But your cough—" Joy began, a tone of solicitude in her voice.

"My cough!" Dick Bracknell laughed bitterly. "That is nothing to what may lie before us, and in any case it is not safe for you to go alone."

Something in his voice and manner convinced her that he was not speaking idly, and that he had his own reasons for apprehension.

A few minutes walking brought them in sight of the main trail, and suddenly Joy gave a cry, and pointed ahead.

The body of George lay before them. An arrow had killed him.

"Where is his son Jim? Where are the dogs?" cried Babette. "Both have been here! See, here are the tracks, and there goes the trail northward!"

"What do you think has happened?" Joy asked.

"I can only guess," he said in a troubled voice. "I think the Indian who was with me is responsible for this. I—I am afraid he wanted your dogs and outfit, that we might get away from here! Once when my cousin Roger Bracknell came—"

"Your cousin Roger has been here?" Joy cried. "He is alive then?"

A jealous light came in his eyes.

"Yes," he replied. "He is alive! He came to my cabin by accident. He had broken his leg, and had lain in an Indian encampment for weeks. There he had heard news which had sent him hot foot on the trail of a man who was responsible for your father's death!"

"For my father's death?"

Dick repeated Roger's story.

"But who is the man?" asked Joy. "But who is the man?" asked Joy. "My cousin gave me no name, but believed that he knew him.

"Ah!" cried Joy.

"You also guess?"

"Yes!" she answered. "I guess—but no more than guess!"

"Yes!" she answered. "I guess—but no more than guess!"

"Who is the man?" asked Bracknell quickly.

"His name is Adrian Rayner! He is in the north now. I believe he is looking for Roger Bracknell."

"God in heaven!"

As they vainly sought Jim and the dogs, Dick told of Rayner's visit and his story.

When Joy told her story of Raynor's proposal of Geoffrey's death and of her now search for Roger.

"You seem very anxious about my cousin," broke in her husband.

"Oh, how can I help being?" cried Joy.

Dick Bracknell took a step forward and put a hand on her shoulder. She did not shrink.

"I think I understand," he said, "and I do not blame you. And I am sure that both you and Roger have played the game! Well, I'm crocked and—"

He broke off and laughed harshly. Then his haggard face grew suddenly convulsed with rage. "That—Rayner! If I could only meet him again I think I could die happy!"

They had entered the cabin but Babette remained outside that they might talk alone.

Joy looked at him, her heart wrung with pity. Suddenly the door flung open violently, and Miss La Farge rushed in, hastily barring the door behind her.

"Some one tried to kill me," she cried.

"I was walking down by the creek when an arrow struck a tree close by me and as I ran another passed through my coat!"

Dick ran to the door and throwing down the bar, opened it. As he did so something came swishing through the air and struck the door post. He knew what it was before he saw it, and cried out.

"Joe, you confounded fool—what"

The sharp carck of a rifle broke in on the words and a bullet cut the fur off his coat at the top of the shoulder. He turned quickly around, tumbled beckward into the cabin, kicking the door shut behind him. Joy dropped the bar in place.

"It is not Joe," broke in Bracknell with conviction. "He'd never do a thing like that to me. Besides, Joe had no gun with him. Our guns are there in the corner, and as we're run out of ammunition they are no use. It simply can't be Joe."

"Then, who can it be? And why should he want to do a thing like that?"

"There is one thing you have not thought of yet," said Babette.

"What is that?"

"Adrain Rayner! He is the one man who has cause to do such a thing. He is Joy's cousin, and Joy, as you know, is immensely wealthy. If she died up here—"

"Heaven! yes! As your next of kin Rayner and his father would step in if you died," exclaimed Dick.

When night came they had decided to make a dash for liberty. Bracknell put out his head and peered into the darkness. In the shadow of the trees on the other side of the creek he caught the glow of a fire and discerned three men sitting around it. At that sight he crept back, and, whispering to the two girls to be very careful, assisted them out of the narrow window. Then without pausing they stole quietly to the shadow of the woods.

"Sibou, there is some one coming up the trail!" As he spoke to his native companion, Coroporal Bracknell pointed down the river. The Indian nodded, and replied—

"Yes, one man and a dog team."

As the stranger's eyes fell on the officer, he gave a sudden cry of joy and relief and ran to him.

"You know me! I come from North Star. I Jim, Miss Gargrave's man!" Roger recognized him.

The Indian told of his father's death and of Joy's danger.

Hurrying to the rescue, Roger, Sibou and Jim found the cabin was empty and the camp deserted. Joe's body—he had been shot by an arrow—they discovered also.

"No! They were not there. There is no fire. But we will go and find out."

Carelssly, in hs assurance Sibou led the way across the creek, and to the front of the cabin. The door was closed, and he hammered on it with his rifle butt. There was no answer, and feeling for the latch string, he thrust a shoulder against the door. It did not yield.

"The door is barred," he said aloud. "But there is no one within, or if there they are dead."

"The windows!" ejaculated the corporal, and began to run round the cabin.

Reaching the window, and observing the empty framework, he felt for his matches, and then hoisting himself up, with head and shoulders inside the cabin, he struck a match and looked hastily round. The cabin was tmpty. With something like a groan of despair, he slipped to the ground and looked at Sibou.

"There is no one here," he said. "They are gone."

The Indian nodded and stared at the empty framework thoughtfully.

Then after a time he spoke.

"The men of the camp are gone; and those who were in the hut are gone—whither we know not; but those who were in the hut went out, not by the door, for the door is barred from within. How did they leave the cabin then?" he jerked his hand upwards towards the window. "This way! And wherefore? Because the men in the camp were watching."

Sibou returned from a reconnoitering trip.

"I am not sure," answered the Indian slowly. "Something strange has happened. There has been a meeting here for there are many footmarks, and there is a trail which goes up the river, and the trail of the ladies is not part of it."

"But where are they. They certainly came here!"

"So!" answered Sibou, "and they went from here since they are not to be found in this place. It is in my mind that they were carried—for there were dogs as well as men.

"In God's name hurry!" cried the corporal, his courage shaken by the thought of the new danger into which Joy Gargrave appeared to have fallen.

How Joy Kept the "Faith of the Trail" in tomorrow's installment.

The Mistakes of the Kaiser

By RENE VIVIANI

Premier of France When the War Broke Out

Copyright, 1922, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

As early as July 24, the day on which the ultimatum became known and was communicated to the foreign offices of the European nations, and even before the reply to it, the outlines of the plan began to appear; it was necessary to terrify the world. The German ambassadors called at the various foreign offices to which they were accredited, in order to announce that the situation was serious, softening the announcement in accordance with what was demaded by public opinion in the different countries. They even went further: "The conflict, is one between Austria and Serbia," they said, "and if any other nation wishes to mix up in it, such an intervention will have incalculable consequences."

This was the menacing message which Herr von Jagow caused to be transmitted to us in France through Herr von Schoen.

Let us go back for a moment. Today we know that, on July 5, 1914, the German emperor was so well aware that the conflict could not remain confined to Austria and Serbia that he took measures against the possible and natural preparations of Russia, which, he knew full well, would be rendered necessary by Austrian mobilization. He had realized, and realized clearly, what the character of the conflict was and that it was one which was bound to spread. Now on July 24, we were politely asked to remain silent, to wait, to observe and we were warned that war would be declared against us if we showed intentions of taking a hand in the interests of peace.

The message brought by Herr von Schoen to the French foreign office admits of no other interpretation.

Blind Alley for von Schoen

It did not take Herr von Schoen long to realize that he, a messenger unaware of the nature of the message which he brought, had walked into a blind alley.

"How can we be expected not to get mixed up in the conflict?" was the answer given him. "And how about yourselves? — will you get mixed up in it? Austria is your ally. Are you not going to advise her to show moderation?—are you going to let yourselves be dragged yer the precipice by her?"

"But it is necessary to talk to St. Petersburg," answered the German ambassador.

"And you should talk to Vienna, since, on your own statement, the conflict cannot be localized."

"I have no instructions."

It was really too simple.

But here is a proof of the unequaled cynicism of the Germans. Herr von Schoen came four times to the French foreign office on the Quai d'Orsay. Why? To present for our approval a note having as its object that Germany and France, acting together, should intervene at St. Petersburg and preach moderation to Russia!

The underlying idea is evident: Germany was to say nothing at all to Vienna, unless urged so to do by Austria. And, as for us, the French, we were to have the consolation of advising moderation to St. Petersburg, where, as will be seen, such advice was not needed. Nor was that all! We were to give Russia this advice publicly, acting in combination with Germany, who thus appeared hand in hand with France as the guardian of peace and of the world. The result of such an intrigue—which only extreme naivete could have failed to preceive—was quite easy to see: Russia would appear deserving of reproach from Germany and France, and, hence, the burden of responsibility would be placed upon her. (We shall see shortly, through a dispatch from the kaiser and one from Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg, dated July 31, that this was indeed the plan.)

Part played by German Ambassadors

At the same time, in St. Petersburg, pressure was brought to bear upon Russia to keep her from entering into an international debate and the same threat about 'incalculable consequences" was made. In London, a more able German ambassador, in surroundings deemed to be less unfavorable to Germany, acted with more tact and would have done his country the service of enlightening the German government immediately as to the intentions of the British government, but Germany did not know enough to take advantage of this.

The part played by the German ambassadors moreover, completely reveals the premeditation of the German government's plan of action.

At Vienna, the German ambassador did not allow the loosening for an instant of the chain of servitude binding Austria to Germany, and fed the fire which was to devour the world, and he did this with all the more zeal since, having earlier desired to give some advance in favor of moderation to Austria, he had been snubbed by the German emperor (see the preceding chapter). At St. Petersburg, the task of Count Pourtales, who, unhappily for us, was of French blood (though, fortunately, it came from many generations back), was to frighten the Russian government, bring it to the verge of war, blind it with the flash of the murderous lightning. At London, Prince Lichnowsky, the German ambassador, might have devoted to the service of his country the fruit of many years' experience, the sympathies which he had won, even a certain measure of authority. But all he could do was to warn a government that was deaf and make signs to ministers of state who were blind. The German government caused to be attached to his embassy, disguised under some sort of diplomatic title, one Herr von Kulmann, whose duty was to keep a watch upon Prince Lichnowsky, and it was due to the secret reports of this man that the effect of the public notes of his chief was destroyed. Moreover, it will be shown that Prince Henry of Prussia, having misunderstood a conversation which he had had with King George, spurred on his country in the policy adopted by it at the moment of supreme crisis.

As for Herr von Schoen, he had received no positive instructions, at least up to July 31.

Local Quints Defeat Petrolia And Burkburnett Teams

JUNIOR COLLEGE HAS TOUGH TUSSLE

Coyotes Win Despite Their Crippled Condition

One of the largest crowds of the season last night at the Legion hall saw the two local teams win well-earned victories when the high school won over the Burkburnett quintet by the score of 36 to 13, and the Junior college won from the Petrolia five by the score of 37 to 25.

In the first game, the high school boys, playing with the odds against them, due to the crippled condition of the team, won from the Burk boys by hard playing. Two of the regular men were out of the game due to injuries but the new men replaced them to perfection. The game was never in doubt after the first few minutes, but the Burk five was fighting as hard when the final whistle blew as they were at the beginning of the game. Deems of the winners was the high point man of the game with five field goals to his credit. Tyson, acting as captain, put up a pretty defensive game. Coulter of the losers played a strong game at center.

In the last few minutes of play Coach Jones put an entirely new team in the field and the crowd was in an uproar through the rest of the game.

In the second game of the evening the Junior college boys had their hands full in defeating the Petrolia five. The Petrolia boys have improved wonderfully since their last appearance at the Legion hall and yielded no ground to the Collegians throughout the contest. At the end of the first half, the score stood 15 all and the collegians were only able to get a substantial lead in the last few minutes of play. Johnson and Ferguson of the winners were the outstanding players of the contest, the former with nine field goals to his credit and the latter with five.

First Game

High School	Position	Burkburnett
Deems	Forward	Buckner
Macknechney	Forward	Stanton
Baldwin	Center	Coulter
Cameron	Guard	Warren

Second Game

Junior College	Position	Petrolia
Johnson	Forward	Nolen
Ferguson	Forward	Roberson
Haney	Center	Hoffman
Pardo	Guard	Mabry
Skaggs	Guard	Noles

Substitutions: Smith, Bolin, Gebert, Cox. Field goals: Johnson 9, Ferguson 6, Haney 1, Skaggs 2, Nolen 4, Roberson 1, Hoffman 5, Noles 1.

Gun Club to Hold Special Shoot Today

A special shoot will be held this afternoon by the Wichita Falls Gun club, at which time improved trap load shells, recently put on the market by the U. S. Cartridge company will be tried out. C. M. Marshall, representing the cartridge company will be present and has donated two cases of the shells for the demonstration this afternoon.

Both the officers of the club and Mr. Marshall are anxious that a large number of members be present to take advantage of this opportunity to test the merits of the new shells before the opening of the club session. Shooting will begin at 3 o'clock.

Promoters Bid For Willard Test Bout

By GENE SARAZEN
World's Champion Golfer

Notice in this picture that the left knee and hip are just beginning to turn as the club approaches the apex of the swing. When my hands are brought back—say about as far as my right shoulder, when the backswing will have been completed—the left heel will have been raised slightly.

Notice that the left arm, as usual, is perfectly straight.

A straight left arm is the prime factor, or secret of a good golf swing.

The longer the line of the club the more effective is the swing.

Notice that the right knee, which was inclined toward the ball when I was addressing my shot, is now practically straight.

You brace yourself with your right leg, on the back swing.

When the swing reaches its greatest height the weight of the body is almost evenly balanced on both feet. Whatever balance there is should be on the right foot.

Note that the head is held fixedly in position.

CANDIDATES FOR HEAVY TITLE GANG UP

F. Johnson's Hopes Rests With Bill Brennan

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The heavyweight pot, simmering peacefully many months, is coming to a boil with much rapidity and a consequent escape of steam. Jess Willard is already in town, claiming 36 as his age and waist line; Jack Dempsey or his man, Kearns, is supposed to start east from Los Angeles in a matter of days; Luis Firpo is soon to head north from Argentine and tomorrow night Floyd Johnson and Billy Brennan will engage in a quasi elimination test which may mean everything or nothing.

It will be a big moment for Floyd. If he can knock Brennan round shouldered—and not a few of the captious insinuate that Bill is resigned to the martyr role—he will be esteemed a worthy candidate-in-waiting for a bout with the champion. If he fails to impress the public with his general worthiness, it will be a case of self-elimination.

In any case Johnson must win very convincingly if he cares to take part in the future proceedings. Brennan is no champion now and never will be. It can mean nothing or little to him to win tomorrow night for he cannot even hope to earn another bout with Dempsey. It is, however, Floyd Johnson's big chance.

Toole Expects Open Major-Minor Break

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Scrapping of the major-minor league agreement of 1921, involving possibly an open break in relations between the two factions, as a result of the decision of the majors to make all players hereafter released to minor league clubs subject to draft, was predicted today by John Conway Toole, president of the International league, in confirming an announcement that he had advised owners of his circuit not to accept contracts from the majors on that basis.

Majors Undaunted By Minors Attitude

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—John A. Heydler, president of the National league and John McGraw, manager and part owner of the New York Giants, were united today in declaring they were not worried about the attitude of Class AA leagues in declining to accept the new draft regulations.

Heydler stated that the measures had been forced by the minors themselves when at the Louisville meeting they went on record to the effect that they would not consider amendments to the major-minor agreements for another 12 months.

This, he said, constituted an affront to the major leagues.

Bowler Makes 17 Strikes In Row

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Seventeen straight strikes!

That's one of the things Jimmy Blouin, world's champion bowler, accomplished in defeating Joe Falcaron New York challenger, in the third block of their 40-game match now in progress.

Blouin also rolled one perfect game—a 300 score.

BEAUMONT BUYS NEW INFIELDER

Bill Huber Purchased From Toledo

By Associated Press.

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 11.—Sale of third baseman Bill Huber to the Beaumont club of the Texas league, was announced today by Roger Bresnahan, president of the Toledo club of the American association. The consideration was not made public.

Huber worked here a part of last year, coming under optional agreement from the Detroit American league club. He was released early in the season to Memphis.

From all indications, the club that represents Beaumont in the Texas league during the coming season is going to be a formidable contender from the start. The purchase of Huber is the second made by Bob Tarleton, business manager of the club during the week, George Kirkham having been acquired from the San Antonio Bears a few days ago.

Huber got his start in professional baseball with Italy in the old central Texas trolley league and made a creditable showing with Memphis last season.

TEXAS IS SECOND IN EXPORT TRADE

FORT WORTH.—Texas is second only to New York in export trade, according to J. M. Petrill, foreign trade secretary of the local chamber of commerce. New York is credited with 38.47 per cent of the nation's exports and Texas with 14.59 per cent. Louisiana comes third with 14.59 per cent.

THREE TEAMS IN BANS CIRCUIT FAVORED

Yanks, White Sox And Tigers Appear Contenders

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—There is a general inclination in baseball circles to consider rather lightly the New York Yankees as factors in the next pennant race.

Why?—Because no strength has been added to the club.

A team that has won two successive pennants should not be in need of reinforcements, when it is a fairly young club.

The Yankees are not an old team and while the club has not secured any more stars, the Huggins club ought to be stronger in 1923.

The pitcher's can't be any worse next year and the chances are that they will be improved.

Babe Ruth will be another person and when he is paying strict attention to business, he will be a great help to the club.

Bob Meusel, too, after being shown that he is a person of small importance on the team might work up some pep, the lack of which has prevented him from becoming a wonderful ball player.

With the Detroit Tigers and the Chicago White Sox in the race with them, the Yankees will have no runaway. The St. Louis Browns are dangerous and the Cleveland Indians are building.

The Tigers and the White Sox are the strongest contenders.

Cobb has gathered himself a great team. Del Pratt at second base and Rip Collins added to his pitching staff will mean much.

Much depends, however, on the recovery of Harry Heilman, the great batting outfielder, who broke his left shoulder late last season.

It was reported recently that the bone was not knitting properly and that physicians had told Heilman they were not sure that he would be able to swing a bat again.

Kid Gleason will have a sweet looking team of White Sox if Willie Kamm, the $100,000 third baseman of the Pacific coast league, delivers according to expectations.

Kamm or no Kamm, the Sox look fine as they are, but a sensational hitting and fielding infielder may be the difference between the pennant and the contender.

Kid Gleason deserves to be rated one of the greatest manager of the game. After the housecleaning of 1920 he had nothing left but a second baseman, a catcher and a pitcher that later deserted him.

In two years time he collected a team that isn't far removed from the championship class and might get in there next season.

In the same class with Gleason as a builder is the Hon. Sir Patrick Moran, of the Cincinatti Reds.

Pat had a pennant winner and a world's champion outfit in 1919, but the glory went to the heads of the boys and Pat, being of one-boss ideas, canned almost the whole team.

Of the 1919 champions only Daubert, Roush, Duncan, Wingo and Luque remain.

In three years, Moran has assembled a team that looks like the one that has to be beaten for the next National league pennant.

Despite the frequence with which his structures have crashed under the weight of mid-season burdens, Connie Mack is a builder himself and his Athletics are going to get there—not next season, but not so many after that.

Mack has started to spend money and he doesn't need much more to get a fighting first division team.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

By JACK KEENE.

When Mickey Walker decides to defend the welterweight championship he will be able to choose from a large and varied assortment of opponents. Every big city in the country where boxing flourishes has at least one candidate for welterweight honors.

New York leads both in number and quality. There are at least half a dozen good welters who call this city their home. The leaders are Dave Shade and Paul Doyle. Shade went to New York from the Pacific coast, but he now belongs to New York, having recently purchased an expensive home on Grand Concourse.

Boston has two candidates in Eddie Shevlin and Nat Segal. Shevlin is a strong, rugged youngster, who is improving steadily. Boston fans think it is only a question of time when the title will belong to him.

St. Paul, the home of so many crack fighters, has two good men in Jock Malone and Johnny Hillman. The latter has passed the crest of his career, but Malone is at the top of his form and figures to give Walker the time of his life.

Buffalo boasts of two good welters. They are Jack Perry and Frankie Schoell. Perry has had two shots at the title and he did not miss by much. Schoell is even more dangerous. He is so tought that Benny Leonard passed him up after making a match with him.

Philadelphia has Joe Jackson, a youngster who has shown signs of promise. Despite the large flock of boxers who make their home in Quakertown that city does not boast of a single champion, but the fans have hope that Jackson will break into the charmed circle.

Elizabeth has George Ward, one of the leading contenders. Ward and Walker were schoolboy rivals, and they are a well matched pair. The champion is more rugged and a slightly harder hitter, but Ward is a much better boxer. It is a toss up which will win when they start to exchange slams.

Scranton has the two Latzos, Pete and Steve. Both are of the rugged, slugging type. Omaha has Morris Schlnifer and Cowboy Padgett. These two are not well known in the east as yet, but judging from the way they are coming along they are going to cut some figure in the welterweight affairs.

Kansas City has Ray Long, a good man. Milwaukee has the two Mitchells, Ritchie and Pinkey. Ritchie evidently has shot his bolt, but Pinkey has plenty of good fighting in him. He is a smart boxer, although not very sturdily built.

Pittsburgh has Ray Pryell, an all around good man. Cincinnati has Billy Ryan, who is better than the average. Wilkes-Barre has Johnny Riley, whole Canton has Jimmy Jones, a very promising youngster. Portland boasts of Travie Davis. England also has a strong representative here in the person of Billy Wells.

Jack Britton may surprise those who think he is through by coming back strong. The former champion says that he can not sleep nights and that insomnia, which has troubled him for more than a year, was the cause of his recent downfall. That is as good an excuse as any other. Jack is likely to find a cure for his trouble at any time.

Zenzo Shimidzu and Ichiya Kumagao, Japanese Davis cup tennis stars, may visit Australia. The season is now on there, and it is planned to have the oriental stars play three matches, one in Sydney, Melbourne and Adelaide.

Body of Missing Woman Found In Bath Tub of House Raided

By United Press.

LONDON, Jan. 11.—London police today broke into the house of James Maltby, a tailor, to which they had laid seige for four days, lacking a search warrant, and found in a bath tub the body of Mrs. Alice Middleton, missing since August 15.

Maltby committed suicide by shooting homself as the police crashed in.

A mystery reminiscent of the notorious Dr. Crippen and his women victims was revealed.

Evidence was discovered showing that Mrs. Middleton had lived with the tailor since her disappearance. Hitherto no evidence had been found against Maltby, who had professed ignorance of her whereabouts.

The police had difficulty in obtaining a warrant to enter the house in Regants Park, North London, where the gruesome discovery was made.

The water supply of the house had been cut off. The tailor lived like a hermit for months, slinking out at night to buy canned goods and to carry in water in buckets.

A crowd of over a thousand gathered today as the police began to break their way in. The first officers rushed into the house and a shot rang out. Maltby wasn't dead when the police reached the room in which he had shot himself, but he died before a doctor could arrive.

It was believed that human remains were found in different parts of the house. The body of Mrs. Middleton lay in a bath tub.

COMMERCIAL CLUB TO HELP FARMERS

By Associated Press.

ODESSA.—The prosperity of the cotton farmer in this vicinity, according to officials of the Commercial club, has caused the club to make arrangements to secure the co-operation of lumber companies for the purpose of erecting homes and barns in this section, where no buildings now stand and which will be needed with the advent of new farmers. Thousands of acres are being placed in the club pool to be placed on the market on easy terms to farmers who settle here, they say.

WACO BOASTS MANY BEAUTIFUL PARKS

By Associated Press.

WACO.—This city's parks contain a total of 480 acres and of the 11 parks, Cameron park alone has 400 acres, according to the city park commission. The park was all the gift of the Cameron family and was named in honor of the late William Cameron, the founder of the extensive business bearing his name. It runs along from a point inside of the city limits the west bank of the Brazos river to the mouth of the Bosque river and up that stream quite a distance, taking in Lovers' leap and the cedar groves on the hills and in the valleys.

BIG JESS SHOWS HIS STUFF TO CRITICS

Dempsey Offered A Bout With Beckett

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Jess Willard here seeking a return match with Jack Dempsey for the heavyweight boxing title, today convinced a majority of critics who watched him go through a little gymnasium workout that, despite his 260 pounds, he is in good condition and able to get down to fighting trim again with the proper training.

Donning his ring togs, the former title holder exercised for about a half hour before an interested gathering.

The first intimation of financial terms Willard desires for a bout with Dempsey was made by Tom O'Rourke, Polo Grounds matchmaker, that Willard asked $50,000 with a percentage privilege for his share.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—An offer of 50,000 pounds, about $250,000 to meet Joe Beckett in London, June 4, was received today for Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight boxing champion by Dan McKetrick, his eastern manager, from George McDonald, English promoter, representing Captain Goolding, a British sportsman.

McKetrick said that Dempsey could meet Beckett and return to the United States in time to meet Jess Willard on July 4.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Promoter Tex Rickard today announced plans for several light-heavyweight bouts during the indoor season which will bring into action Harry Greb of Pittsburgh, the champion; Gene Tunney of New York, the former title holder, and Tom Gibbons of Saint Paul.

The first contest probably would be between Gibbons and Tunney and may take place about the middle of February.

U. S. ASSUMES WAITING POLICY

Spectator In Drama Being Enacted

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—For the time being at least, the United States settled back today in the role of an interested spectator in the great international drama being unfolded in the Ruhr valley—a drama whose end cannot be foreseen by President Harding and his chief advisers.

At both the white house and the state department it was made clear today that this government has gone to the uttermost limit in endeavoring to peacefully bring about an adjustment of the critical situation abroad and having failed, because of the stubborn insistence of France on a policy of force, nothing remains for the United States but to stand by and await developments.

"Only two lines of policy have been open to the United States in this critical situation," it was stated by a chief spokesman for the government. "One was that of dictating to the nations of Europe what they should do. Obviously, the United States could not and would not pursue such a policy.

"The other was a policy of trying to be helpful, of making remedial suggestions and proffering our good offices for amicable adjustment. That has been tried and it failed. The United States can do nothing more until we are asked to do something."

VERNON PLANS BIG BANQUET

Commerce Chamber Annual Event

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Jan. 11.—The commercial club of Vernon will have its annual banquet on Friday evening, of this week. Big preparations are being made for the occasion and 125 guests will attend. R. H. Nichols of Amarillo will be the principal speaker of the occasion. Mr. Nichols is a former Vernon citizen and his many friends will be glad to see him back and address them on this occasion. Mr. Nichols is editor of the Amarillo Daily Tribune.

J. V. Townsend, is secretary of the chamber of commerce and his work during the present year has met with satisfaction among the business men and those connected with the chamber of commerce work. He was elected for one year and the new directors will have the duty of electing the secretary for the new year.

Since Mr. Townsend's work has met with general approval he will very probably be re-elected to the same position if he cares to accept same, it is said.

The new directors were elected by ballot. All the members are mailed a list of the members and each member votes for twelve of the members for directors. The twelve who receive the highst number of votes are declared directors. The names of the new directors will be announced on the night of the banquet. The following are the directors:

W. N. Stokes, A. M. Bourland, Cy Long, J. H. Pendleton, L. K. Johnson, C. T. Smith, F. L. Massie, Joe Summer, Luther Webb, U. S. Davis, Mrs. W. H. Huggins and T. H. Shive.

Man Sentenced For Passing Bad Notes

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—Ivan Glavadanovic, was sentenced to four and a half years in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., in the United States district court after he had pleaded guilty today to participation in a conspiracy to pass more than $500,000 in spurious Bank of England notes in this country.

John Popovich is under errest in New York and Oscar Simon and a Count Orloff are held in Los Angeles, federal authorities announced, charged with being implicated with the same conspiracy.

Sub In Tow

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The submarine S-19, which sent out wireless calls of distress off Cape Hatteras last night was taken in tow today by the submarine tender Savannah, wireless messages picked up here said. With other submarines she left New London, Conn., last Sunday for Guantanamo, Cuba.

Five School Measures Before Texas Legislature Stressed By Club Women

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Jan. 11.—Efforts of the women's clubs and organizations in Texas on legislative matters will be concentrated on five measures and these measures supported in every possible way under plans completed by the joint legislative council of five of the large women's organizations of the state.

The measures which will be suppored by the council are: an emergency appropriation for the public schools of the state; a survey of the state penitentiary system; state assistance for work under Sheppard-Towner act; strengthening of the state prohibition laws, and an educational survey of Texas schools.

Regarding the educational survey, Mrs. A. M. McCullum, secretary of the joint legislative council, stated the measure on this proposition will call for investigation of the entire school system, including grade schools, by nn-interested parties. It is considered likely that the federal department of education may be called upon to supply national directors to make the survey. Such surveys under the direction of the national department have been carried on in a number of other states and with success, according to reports. The survey measure is not in opposition to the educational committee provided for by the last legislature, but an appropriation to enable the survey to be made will be asked for in the new measure.

Replies from the legislators in answer to questionaires sent out on the joint council measures indicate that all of the bills will be strongly supported, according to Secretary McCullum.

Somebody's Birthday

JANUARY 12, 1923

You have the artistic temperament if today is your birthday. This does not mean that you will necessarily create works of art, but it ascertains that whatever you do you will do in an artistic manner. You have the spirit of the true craftsman. You must do a thing the best way you know or not at all.

You are observant and critical. You notice all that goes on about you in detail, even though it may not concern you and later you can reproduce the entire event, because you remember it as a correlated whole as a picture. Life in general interests you because yo react to it intellectually and emotionally. You enjoy it and criticize it according to your ideals of what it might be.

You are rather solitary in nature. You have hosts of associates but very few friends to whom you make confidences. You are self-reliant and self-sufficient and you expect others to be the same. You have no desire to know their intimat lives and you expect them to respect yours.

You are neither affectionate nor demonstrative, but you have a profound sense of loyalty and respect for persons you admire. Your philosophy is one of solitary strength and isolation. You should go far with it and achieve great distinction.

Today is one of favorable omen for all transactions concerned with the acquisition of real or personal property, but not for the disposal of such things.

Your ensuing year will be prosperous and happy. You may change your business and also your place of residence. Consider well any propositions that are offered you and follow only your own counsels.

A child born today will be delicate in health, not extremely active in mind, rather solitary in disposition and extremely impressionable.

No Encouragement Given Bald Heads

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 10.—Bad news for the bald and near bald. Miss Mildred Trotter, assistant in the department of anatomy at Washington university who has been conducting experiments in hair growth, announced today that various mediums, commonly supposed to stimulate hair growth, including sunburn and wind, failed to disclose any influence. She added that faces of 1,600 women were examined and that 27 out of every 100 showed excessive growth of hair

CARRIGAN SCHOOL OPENED WITH PROGRAM

With appropriate talks and a program, the Pat Carrigan school was formally opened to the public Wednesday morning. The pupils and a number of the parents were assembled in the aditorium also member of the school board and visitors.

The exercises were opened by singing "Come Thou Almighty King," followed by Bible reading by Rev. Cook, pastor of the Evangelical church and prayer by Rev. Roselle of the southside Baptist church.

Judge Carrigan, who was announced to speak, was unavoidably absent, but Mrs .Carrigan brought a wonderful message, telling the pupils in never-to-be-forgotten words of her deceased son, Pat Carrigan's school days, of his life and his ready response to the call of duty.

Others talks were given by members of the school board, Mrs. M. M. Adickers, W. R. Ferguson, W .W. Brown, E. S. Goodner, also by Superintendent Lee Clark and Mrs. Begg president of the Parent-Teacher association.

Mrs. C. R. Smith gave a reading and the program was closed by sing ing "America."

Following the program, a short business session was held by the Parent-Teachers asociation at which a committee was appointed to take charge of the collecting and sale of old news papers and magazines.

It was also decided to purchase a victrola for the use of the school, on which Mrs. Carrigan very generously offered the first payment. An entertainment also is being planned for St. Vaentine's Day which wil probably be a moving picture show.

Miss Cumings reported the donation of a basket ball to the sixth grade boys and asked the Parent-Teachers association to complete the basket ball equipment. This they readily agreed to do. Several new members were reported.

BACHMAN-MARTIN NUPTIALS SOLEMNIZED

A beautiful, though simple, wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Martin, 2304 Seventh street Thursday at 1 o'clock, when their daughter, Ethel Mae, was married to Walter E. Bachman, the Rev. N. F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church officiating.

The home was attractively decorated for the occasion in cut flowers and pot plants, with the rainbow effect carried out in the arch over the double doorway between the living room and dining room, where the ceremony was solemnized. A huge bow of maline in the various pastel shades was used, from which white streamers extended to the flowers on either side.

Preceding the ceremony, Messrs. Paul Rutledge and Paul Pond played a violin duet for the pre-nuptial music, "I Love You Truly." They also played the wedding march for the entrance of the bride and groom and during the reading of the ceremony played softly "A Romance—Call Me Thine Own."

Only a few friends and relatives were present, and after the wedding the young people left for Dallas, where they will board the excursion train for Mexico City. Many entertainments are planned for the visitors who arrive on that train, and while there Mr. and Mrs. Bachman expect to enjoy a dance at the president's mansion, given in honor of the excursionists.

Both young people have lived here practically all their lives and are members of pioneer and prominent families. Both are graduates of the local high school and their romance dates back to their school days here. Later Mr. Bachman attend the State university, while the bride was a student at S. M. U. They were the recipients of many beautiful presents from local and school friends from the university cities.

They will be at home upon their return at 2304 Seventh street.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

BY DAISY DEAN

Mae Marsh "came back home" the other day when she signed a contract to play a leading part in D. W. Griffith's next production, "The White Rose." After an absence of six years the little freckled faced girl whom Griffith molded into fame in "The Birth of a Nation," returns to his direction again to resume her career.

Mae Marsh was the youngest of all the screen leading women to attain celebrity. When she was 15 she went to the Griffith studio with her older sister. She was busily engaged in turning up stones to watch the black bugs crawl out, when Griffith first saw the play of expression that has made her acting so popular. A year later she was known tarooghout the world as the little sister of the Cameron family in "The Birth of a Nation."

Miss Marsh has been absent from the screen for some time devoting herself to her husband, Mr. Arms, and her young son who is now of kindergarten age.

LUCKY ALLAN

Allan Dwan has left for Florida, where he will film several special exteriors in his new picture, "Glimpses of the Moon." Shortly after his return to New York he will leave for Lake Placid, to photograph some winter scenes. He will be accompanied by Bebe Daniels, Nita Naldi and the other principals of the cast. Mr. Dwan was the director of "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood."

OPPOSITE NORMA

Jack Mulhall has won a new distinction. This time he will be Norma Talmadge's leading man in the Schenck production of "Within the Law." In this capacity Mr. Mulhall succeeds Eugene O'Brien and Conway Tearle as Norma's lead.

JUNIOR TRAVEL CLUB ENJOYS STUDY

"Shelley" formed the subject of an interesting lesson for the Junior Travel club Wednesday afternoon at the library with Miss Emma Carter the leader. Mrs. Julian McFall read a paper on "Shelly's Life;" Mrs. Harold Rose, gave a reading, an interpretation of the poem, "The Ode to the West Winds;" Miss Johnnie Morgan discussed the poem, "Adonais;" Miss Emma Carter contrasted Sheily and Byron and Mrs. T. L. Brunson gave a discussion of the music of the poems "The Cloud" and "To a Skylark."

Three new members Mesdames R. L. Morgan W. C. Knight and G. R. Smith, were elected.

Those present included Mesdames O. T. Ailes, T. R. Brunson, F. T. Watson, E. T. Duff, J. J. Fennessy, C. C. Jones Jr., Harold Rose, J. M. McFall, E. W. Napier, I. R. Shelton, Wayne Somerville, Chester Wynne and Misses Emma Carter and Johnnie Morgan.

MRS. CARTER HOSTESS TO SOCIAL CLUB

Mrs. Roy I. Carter was hostess to the members of the Eclusive club at her home on Huff avenue Wednesday afternoon when "42" furnished the diversion. The living room and dining room was prettily decorated for the occasion in cut flowers and at the close of the games, Mrs. Noble Gray was presented with a hand embroidered apron for high score and Mrs. J. L. Fox was consoled for low with a pretty sweater hanger.

The hostess assisted by her sister, Mrs. Carmen Simpson, served a salad plate and tea with nosegays of violets tied with tulle to Mesdames J L. Fox, Lee Wilson, Joe McBee, Dave Shepherd, Fred Carter, W. L. Hawkins, B. F. Daniel, Noble Gray, T. H. Lawson, C. D. Shamburger, Ira G. Craig and Miss Simpson.

Oil Production Shows Daily Increase of 11,330 Barrels

LOSS IS SHOWN IN NORTH TEXAS

Output of Oklahoma And Kansas Drops

NE WYORK, Jan. 11.—The daily average gross crude oil production of the United States increased 11,300 barrels for the week ending Jan. 6, totalling 1,725,500 barrels, as compared with 1,741,200 for the preceding week, according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. The daily average production east of the Rocky mountains is 1,235,500 compared with 1,231,000, an increase of 6,300 barrels. California production was 515,000 compared with 510,000, an increase of 5,000 barrels.

Oklahoma Kansas showed a daily average gross production of 495,000 barrels, a decrease of 660 barrels; north Texas a decrease of 250; central Texas an increase of 1,050; north Louisiana a decrease of 450; and Arkansas an increase of 2,050 barrels. In Oklahoma production of the Osage nation was 124,600 against 126,700; Tonkawa 33,150 against 29,800; Lyons-Quinn 11,100 against 11,050, and the Bristow pool 58,600 barrels against 55,950 barrels; Haynesville, north Louisiana 42,300 against 42,150; Eldorado, Ark., 22,850 barrels against 22,900, and Smackover, Ark., 96,000 against 93,400 barrels. In the Gulf coast field Hull reported 33,500 and West Columbia 25,800 barrels against 26,500 barrels.

No changes were reported in crude oil prices for the major districts.

According to the institute, imports of petroleum (crude and refined oils) at the principal United States ports for the month of December totalled 8,579,871 barrels, a daily average of 276,770 barrels, compared with 8,267,544, a daily average of 275,564 for the month of November. Imports for the week ending January 5 totalled 2,227,069 barrels, a daily average of 318,152 barrels, compared with 1,853,255, a daily average of 264,751 barrels for the week ending Dec. 3.

Two Tests Started Close to Frederick

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Jan. 11.—With two test oil wells being drilled and a third in prospect, the oil fever is again "bubbling" mildly in Frederick and Tillman county. One test is being put down about six miles west of Grandfield and the other is located two miles east of Manitou. The third test is expected to be started near the old Quannah townsite, as the contracts for the drilling is said to have been let.

LEASES IN CLAY SELL RAPIDLY

12 Companies Buy On Scaling Ranch

HENRIETTA, Jan. 11.—Considerable interest has been shown here today in the oil potentialities of the land composing the Scaling ranch, 20 miles southwest of town and 12 companies have acquired leases in that territory, according to an announcement today. Among these companies are the Gulf, Sinclair, Oriental and Texas.

Meeting with a representative of the Meridian highway today, the Chamber of Commerce voted a sum of $54 as a subscription to the construction of a good road from Bellevue to the Wichita line through Henrietta.

Notes From Other Fields

A quarter of a mile north of production in the Tonkawa district Slick has found the top of a sand at 2,387 feet in his No. 3 Endicott in the northwest corner of the southwest of the southwest of 35-25-1w with a showing of oil. Operations in this field have been surprised by the Comar Oil company's No. 6 Carmichael in the northeast quarter of 3-24-1w missing all oil sands. It is down 2,500 feet and if nothing is found before 2,580 feet it will be shut down for orders.

The wildcat of E. B. George in the southeast quarter of 3-11-11 near Henryetta is now underreaming to the bottom of the hole at 2,510 feet. It flowed 128 barrels the last 24 hours and made 119 barrels the day before, so it is a real well.

Independent drilled one foot more in its No. 1 in 8-9-16 at Wetumka and is now spraying some oil along with the eight million gas.

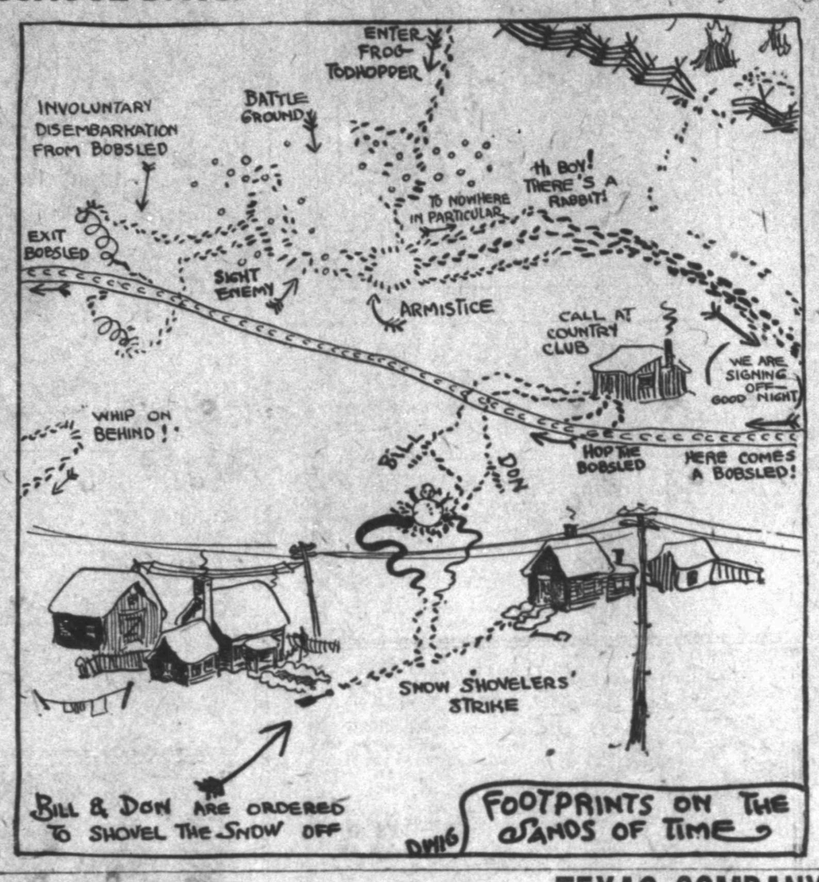

Sapulpa Refining and others are drilling at 2,965 feet in 15-27-5 northwest of the Burbank field and has not found the Burbank sand as yet. It was thought to be on top of the sand at a little over 2,900, but apparently was not.

Empire and others have made a location 900 feet east of the southeast corner of section 1-16-4e near the town of Kaw City.

Thirty-one new wells were started in the Okmulgee district in the first four days of the new year, according to a check of the district. New production in the district for the week ending Jan. 4 totaled 3,500 barrels.

Kingwood Oil company of Okmulgee Friday declared a cash dividend of 10 per cent on common stock payable January 10 to stockholders of record on January 5. The company has about $1,400,000 of common stock of $1 a share par value outstanding and the dividend will dispose of about $140,000, most of which will be paid to Okmulgee stockholders.

MUCH ACTIVITY AT CHICKASHA

Many Extensions Are Looked For

By Associated Press.

CHICKASHA, Jan. 9.—Operators in the Chickasha field are getting ready for additional wells and are preparing to resume work on the few where work slumped for the Christmas vacation. Which way the "play" will go after work is reopened in earnest, is problematical. Thus far, no particular area has had the majority of attention. It has been well mixed for the reason that up to this time the outlines of the field have not been defined. North, south, east and west of the discovery well, the operators have brought in producers. North and east of the field proper, Mummert completed a duster, but to offset this bad luck, Crump and Beard knocked over a gas well, about a half mile nearer the field than the dry hole.

Arrasmith-McBee Important

For the next week, the major attention in the field will be directed to the well of Arrasmith and McBee, on the Thomas farm in section 19-5n-7w. They are drilling at around 1,800 feet and are expected to pick up the oil sand at slightly below 1,900 on their second hole, having lost the first ones after an oil sand had been encountered.

The importance of the Arrasmith-McBee well was accentuated with the oil spray which the Atlantic well oil spray which the Atlantic well showed, as the Atlantic is located between the field proper and the Arrasmith-McBee well. If the operators in section 19 are successful this time incompleting the well, the "play" will doubtless go east toward the Harness district as the Arrasmith-McBee location is between the field and the harness area, being a little north of a direct line east and west. The Atlantic in section 25-5n-8w, has without question encountered an oil sand. The spray was strong enough to blacken the derrrick almost to the crown block. Whether they are just entering the oil sand, or have picked it up in an edge well, remains to be seen. Followers of both theories can be found.

Terminal Started For Pamico Region

By Associated Press.

TAMPICO, Mexico, Jan. 9.—Construction of flow lines, pump and booster stations and a river loading terminal, at an estimated cost of $1,000,000, has been started by the Mexican Seaboard Oil company to take care of production in the Panuco district.

Seventeen kilometers of ten-inch pipeline, able to handle 25,000 barrels daily production, will be laid, two field pump stations of 20,000 barrels capacity each and one booster station constructed, while a camp, steel storage of 66,500 barrel capacity and loading platforms and racks up.

The camp and terminal will be on the Panuco river in Hacienda Catalinae, where the Seaboard has two wells capable of producing 6,000 barrels daily, but closed in because of the lack of facilities to be built. It is in this hacienda and those adjacent that the International Petroleum company, the Mexican operating company, is centering its efforts.

In completing Poz No. 1, lot 35, Paciencias Aguacate (Panuco district) for an estimated daily production of 10,000 barrels at a depth of 2,080 feet, the Texas company obtained its first well of any considerable capacity in two years.

Oklahoma Oil

J. P. Bell and associates announce the sale of their No. 2 Helm strip of the Williamson subdivision in the northwest extension of the West Columbia field to the Butler Perryman interests of Houston for a consideration of $100,000, $20,000 cash and balance in oil. The No. 2 Helm strip is 88 feet wide and contains four and one-half acres. Two gushers have been completed on this narrow tract. Both wells sanded shortly after completion.

Sapulpa Refining company in the southeast corner of the northeast of the southwest of 15-27-5, has moved back to the boiler and is preparing to drill in, according to reports. This is a "mystery well," but it is commonly reported that the Burbank sand was found below 2,900 feet. It is two and a half miles northwest of nearest Burbank production.

In the Wetumka pool the Independent Oil & Gas company found the top of the sand at 3,405 feet, and is making 10,000,000 feet of gas and four feet in the sand. It extends the original pool to the south.

Prairie's well on the Redding farm in the southeast corner of the northwest of 5-9-10 is still cleaning out about 50 feet off the bottom of the hole. Sand was found at 3,420 feet.

In the Okemah pool the Independent Oil and Gas company in the northwest corner of the southeast of 2-10-9, has a hole full of water in the regular sand at 3,210 feet.

Ostot Development company, in 6-26-1w, southwest of Blackwell, is setting 6-inch casng on the sand at 3,500 feet. Sand was found at 3,511 feet and at four feet in the well sprayed a bailer and a half full of oil in 24 hours.

The Gypsy's No. 1 wildcat in the northeast corner of the southeast of 8-15-8, made 300 barrels in the last 24 hours, following the drilling out of the bridge after it was shot. Before being shot it made 39 barrels an hour. It extends the Hiram Wilson pool a quarter of a mile south.

In the Jasep pool, the well of the Jasey Oil company in the southeast of the northwest of 33-12-11 is swabbing 200 barrels.

Drilling below 2,100 feet, the Caldwell Petroleum company is reported to have a 100-barreler in its No. 1 Gilley in Burleson county, Texas, two miles east of Chriseman. This is Burleson county's first oil well.

The Rockdale Minerva shallow pool in Milam county produced a total of 93,000 barrels of oil in 1922, valued at $187,200. The completions totaled 92 producers, nine dry holes, most of the latter being shallow wildcat locations outside the proven belt. Eight gassers were drilled, one being a wildcat and outside the proven pool.

The third producing well in the Cromwell pool in Hughes county was drilled in today by the Indiahoma Refining company of Okmulgee in the southwest corner of northeast quarter of 5-9-10, reaching pay sand at 3,400 feet and at eight feet in the sand the well is flowing 15 barrels hourly on 350 barrels daily and still in the sand.

Independent Oil and Gas company in the northwest of northeast of 8-9-19 has a big gas flow on top of sand at 3,404 feet and is moving back the boiler to drill in. These wells are the farthest south production in the Okmulgee district.

The Sapulpa Refining company topped the sand at its Oliver Thompson well No. 1, in the south half of the southwest quarter of section 15-27-5, at 3,000 feet, it is reported, and is now pulling the casing preparatory to bringing in the well which now threatens to blow itself in. This extends the productive area of the Kaw City field two miles to the north and west and into Kay county. Inasmuch as the lands surrounding it are unrestricted increased activity is predicted

TEXAS COMPANY BEGINS ON TEXAS

Drilling Renewed At 243 Waggoner

The Texas company has again started drilling on Waggoner 243, South Electra, after having suspended operations last Sunday and are now at 1,686 feet, according to the drilling report given out yesterday, and has begun drilling on Waggoner No. 251. Reports of the tests of the company are:

Electra Pool

No. 234 Waggoner, drilling at 1,686 feet.

Million Spent To Obtain Producer

TAMPICO, Jan. 11.—Cia Cedoto Petrolo, Mexican subsidiary of the international petroleum of central Europe (German interests) has finally succeeded in completing a well for commercial production after a campaign of more than a year and an expenditure of more that $1,000,000. Vega, No. 1, lot 9, Palagna, the completion, is estimated as being good for 1,000 barrels daily from a depth of 2,305 feet. It is in a new section of the hacienda and two kilometers from the nearest production. Several other wells will be drilled in the immediate vicinity as soon as locations can be made and permits secured.

Now That's Rather Odd

PORT ARTHUR—J. D. Buckles, an employe of the Kansas City Southern railway, died here today as the result of being bitten by a rat.

LAUSANNE— Abdul Hamid, Egyptian wrestler, made an unsuccessful attempt to kill Mohmed Fami, the Egyptian delegate to the near east peace conference.

TAYLOR—Hess Lancaster, employe of the Taylor Press company was painfully injured when the automobile in which he was riding, was struck by a fire truck and Lancaster was thrown out and pinned between the car and a light post.

LUXOR, EGYPT—A handful of long human hair believed to be tresses of King Tutenkhamun's queen, was removed from the outer chamber of the monarch's tomb yesterday. The excavators expressed the opinion that the king died before his wife's decease and that she had the locks shorn from her head and deposited in the tomb with her husband's body. The hair was contained in an alabaster box. Two chariot wheels, heavily studded with brilliant gems, were also taken out.

STOCKS ENJOY UPWARD TREND

Bulls Bolster Many Special Shares

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11. — Stock prices continued their rise to higher ground in todays' market, which was featured by another series of bullish demonstrations in special shares. Speculators for the advance were encouraged by the further strength in foreign exchange, outimistic reports of domestic business conditions and the plentiful supply of call and time money at comparatively low rates.

Actual occupation of Essen by the French troops caused further selling of French bonds, but good buying support limited the losses to a point or less. Stock market traders were still inclined to look upon the foreign exchanges as the true barometer of European banking opinion on the reparations situation.

California Petroleum continued as one of the market features, reaching another new record top at 80⅜, but yielding at the close to 79⅞, where it represented a net gain of 3⅞ points on the day. Cosden also reached a new top on the movement at 55⅞, up nearly a point, buying being influenced by publication of statistics showing earnings of approximately $10 a share last year.

Nash Motors Fluctuate

Nash Motors furnished the widest fluctuation, selling between 106 and 111½, the high and closing price representing a net gain of 15½ points. Fisher Body was run up to 212½, but closed at 207½, or 6¼ on the day.

Baldwin and Studebaker were two of the most active shares on the big board, the former closing at 135 for a net gain of two points and the latter at 115¼ or 5¼ above Wednesday's final figure. United States Steel, common, closed half point higher and Crucible one, with the other independent steels showing only nominal changes. Mhxcrunnppu THTHTHH

Rails Depressed

Reports that the St. Paul railroad had sustained another deficit in 1922, although it was smaller than 1921, and speculative uncertaointy over the Delaware & Hudson railroad dividend had a restraining an ddepressing effect on trading in railroad shares.

Call money held at 4 per cent throughout the day. Time money continued to be noted at 4½ per cent bid and 4¾ per cent asked. The bulk of commercial paper was moved at 4½ per cent.

Demand sterling got up to 4.67¾ or nearly 2 cents above yesterday's close but eased off to 4.67¾ in later dealings. French francs held steady around 6.90, while the Belgian and Italian rates showed little change. Marks sold at .0095 cents. South American exchanges were slightly better. The Canadian dollar was at a discount of slightly less than half a cent.

War Scare Has Depressing Effect On Grain Market

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Uneasiness over trans-Atlantic war possibilities and as the domestic winter crop outlook led to a fresh upturn today in the price of wheat. The market closed firm, one to 1⅝ net higher, with May 1.20¾ to 1.20⅞ and July 1.13⅛ to 1.13¾. Corn gained ⅝ to ⅝c; oats ¼ to ½, and provisions 7 to 12c.

Corn and oats sympathized with the wheat advance. Provisions were strengthened by upturns in the hog market and in grain.

Haynes to Confer With Texas Drys

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Jan. 11.—Governor Neff tonight directed a message to federal prohibition commissioner R. A. Haynes, extending a special invitation to visit Austin while making his tour of the Texas district. The federal director is expected here January 27, and arrangements were made today for conferences between Governor Neff, Adjutant General Barton and Commissioner Haynes.

Co-operation between federal and state prohibition forces will be the subject of the conferences between the state officials and the national commissioner, it was stated. Already Frank Cole, acting prohibition director of Texas, has held conferences with state officers regarding the work. Sherman A. Cuneo, special representative of commissioner Haynes, arrived in Austin today to arrange for the commissioner's visit here, and conferred with state authorities.

I. C. C. Investigates Rail Expenses

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Notice was served on railroads of the country today by the interstate commerce commission that it intended to proceed immediately to an investigation of their expenditures during recent months on maintenance of equipment and the methods they have followed in providing freight car service for shippers.

It is desirable to know whether expenditures of the carriers for maintenance of equipment have been reasonable, the commission's order today declared, and to keep informed as to the manner and method in which the business of such carriers is conducted with special reference to the furnishing of care service. The commission will, therefore, seek to determine the facts which it desires at hearings to be held at times and places which it will announce later.

The machinists' union charged in the informal petition filed with the commission several days ago that railroads generally had made extravagant expenditures duting and since the strike, in an andeavor to break up union organization in the shops.

Program Will Be Presented Tonight

"Fewer laws and stricter enforcement," was advocated by Police Commissioner Fitts, speaking at the Rotary club luncheon Thursday. In discussing some phases of the safety campaign now being conducted by the club, Commissioner Fitts gave it as his opinion that the existing speed limits should be raised to 15 miles in the busines ditrict and 22 to 25 mile in the residence section.

A varied program was presented, other speakers being Miss Amelia Bingham of the "Circle" company, Dr. Pattillo and Mrs. Walter Robertson. Hubert Harrison was chairman for the day.

Steel Nearly All Laid On New Line

Laying of steel on the Wichita Falls and Oklohoman extension to Waurika lacks but four miles of being completed to Waurika, work being halted pending the completion of the grade. Service over the line is expected to begin within thirty days.

GRAND JURY INVESTIGATES

Toussaint Continues At Large

With Henry John Toussaint, confessed and convicted slayer of his father, still at large since his sensational escape from the county jail late Wednesday night, officers are scouring Wichita county in an attempt to apprehend him before he is able to make good his escape.

Officers of the police and sheriff's departments are watching every possible outlet of the city and are confident that Toussaint has not slipped through the net that was placed around the city soon after his escape. All railroads and roads have been carefully guarded and it is not thought possible for him to leave Wichita Falls without detection.

Several persons residing in the western part of town, stated Thursday that an airplane passed over the city at about 11 o'clock, more than an hour after Toussaint escaped. It is said that the plane passed directly over the city, headed north at a fast rate of speed. One man, who stated that as he was putting his car in the garage at his home at 2300 Ninth street, an airplane passed over, flying so low that he was able to distinctly see three men in it. He said that the plane was flying north at a height of about 150 feet, and rising as if it was leaving the ground at the beginning of a flight. Officers, however, are inclined to place little credence to the belief that the plane carried Toussaint from the city, since no one was found who saw the plane except in flight. Airmen at Call field station told Sheriff Pat Murphy that no plane from that field was in the air Wednesday night, and that none was observed by them. It is thought that the plane was a passing craft bound north, and that it made no landing here.

From the fact that a service car driver, who talked to a man who bore a resemblance to Toussaint, said the man had a large roll of bills and seemed to possess a great deal of cash Wednesday, officers believe that he was given outside aid in the escape, and that he was given money after he left the jail. The jailer said that Toussaint had little money when in the cell, and such a large roll could hardly be hidden there. However, within a very few minutes after the escape, he showed a quantity of money that would more than pay transportation and all incidentals in a trip out of the United States.

It is also believed that he was helped to escape by one or several men who arranged all details of the escape, long before the actual getaway. The real mystery of the case is the origin of the key that opened the four doors to freedom within a few minutes after the jailer had safely locked all doors and inspected the cells.

The theory that Toussaint made a key for himself is given little credence, as it would be practically impossible for a man inside the cell to make one without the assistance of some accomplice or at least a form of the key.

The fact that Toussaint wrote a friend some time ago making the statement that he was leaving, and that his departure would be sensational, is thought by officers, to prove that the key has been in his possession at least several weeks, and that the delivery was premeditated and planned by several persons, to take place at this time. At the time of the letter the friend thought that the man meant to leave the jail through suicide, and called at the jail to beg him not to take his own life. It is said that Toussaint laughed at the idea of self-inflicted death, refusing, however to tell his plans.

Several prisoners in the county jail were before the grand jury yesterday. It is said the body is making a thorough investigation of the escape.

Club Members To Attend Big Dinner

Wichita Falls luncheon clubs members who are members of the chamber of commerce will practically all attend the annual meeting Jan. 16, it became known yesterday. According to announcement made at chamber of commerce headquarters not only did 100 out of the 105 Rotarians present at the weekly luncheon pledge themselves to attend, but other club members also are going to attend in large numbers.

It was said yesterday that word had come from Newcastle that E. P. Harvey, president of the chamber of commerce in that place, will be here for the dinner.

College Students Must Register

Hugh Porter, head of the Junior college, said yesterday he requests all new pupils who wish to begin work in that institution to come to his office in the high school building either today or tomorrow and register for the coming year. The pupils are requested to register at the earliest opportunity so as to allow the instructors to plan the schedule for the coming term, which starts Monday morning.

What Do You Want to Know About Irrigation? Ask The Record News

With the Wichita valley irrigation project nearing completion and with thousands of acres of heretofore semi-arid land to be put under irrigation for people to settle and build homes upon, there are thousands of people who want to know all about irrigation. The Record News realizing the situation and knowing people would not like to venture their all in a proposition of which they know nothing, has asked A. M. McPherson, one of the foremost engineers of irrigation projects in this section of the country, to answer your irrigation questions.

Address your questions to "Irrigation Editor, Record News, Wichita published in the Record News.

Should a Regular Weather Bureau Station Be Established Here?

We are greatly in favor of such a move. A city of the importance of Wichita Falls should have had a weather bureau station long ago. A weather bureau station here would keep accurate records of the rainfall, would keep a record of the velocity and direction of the winds and the directions from which our prevailing winds come at the various seasons of the year record temperature changes, dates of the first and last frosts of the growing season, and would no doubt be of great help in giving more accurate forecasts of the weather changes than we now have.

A weather bureau station would no doubt compile and put in useable shape the data on rainfall and other weather conditions that has been gathered here in the past. We understand that private observers hae been for many years keeping weather data here.

Now that it is hoped that irrigation will make this region into a highly cultivated section, a regular forecasting station located in this city would be of great benefit to the future farmers. In many years it might save to these farmers a great deal more than it would cost over a long period of time.

You can just imagine what it would mean to the farmers raising early spring truck or berries for the northern markets to be caught without warning by a late spring frost.

If these farmers could have only a few hours' notice of a cold wave, they could, by turning the water on their truck gardens and berry patches, prevent any damage except from a severe freeze.

Turning water on a crop to prevent damage from frost is a common practice in western irrigated areas.

We recommend to the Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and University clubs that this is a movement that they might well give attention to. It would be a real credit to the club putting it over and will serve a most useful purpose to the community now and in the future.

How Much Higher Is Iowa Park Than Wichita Falls?

The down town portion of Wichita Falls is about 951 feet above sea level and the western portion of Iowa Park is about 1,015, a difference of 64 feet. However some portions of Iowa Park are higher than the elevation given, and some portions of Wichita Falls are almost 80 feet higher than the down town section.

GREAT BASSO IN ROBIN HOOD

Hoffman Has Long Training

Few, if any, names have been so prominently connected with the music world as that of Hoffman. For generations back this name stands prominently to the fore in the great lyric achievements of the age.

Howard Hoffman, the elongated basso of the Robin Hood Opera company, inherits his musical genius from a long line of ancestors covering over a century and a half. The name of Hoffman on a musical offering means much to the educated music lover of today. Mr. Hoffman, after completing his studies at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, where he entered the exclusive fraternity of "Beta Theta Pi," continued his studies under the great tutorship of Gedowsky and later studied with Witherspoon. He is American born of humble parentage in the little village of New Bremen, Ohio, not far from the home of our president. Yet young Hoffman by intrepid and never tiring efforts, has mastered twenty-one operas, and sings in five languages and has not yet reached his thirty-second year.

To hear Hoffman sing "It Takes Nine Tailors to Make a Man," "The Old Cross Bow," and "The Armory am I," is indeed one of the outstanding features of this great and beloved opera. At the termination of Mr. Hoffman's contract with Miss Valentine, he enters upon arrangements with the International Artists association, whereby he will be sent around the world in concert offerings. To hear Hoffman is the crowning event of a charming evening spent in the atmosphere of the master DeKoven.

Mr. Hoffman is a university graduate and enjoys membership in the exclusive fraternity "Beta Theta Pi."

Young County Man Remanded to Jail

O. C. Ratliff of Young county was remanded to jail without bail yesterday when Judge H. R. Wilson of the 30th district court refused to grant him bond after hearing Habeas Corpus proceedings instituted by his attorney. Ratliff is charged with robbery with fire arms.

It is alleged that he robbed J. F. Lenan, cafe owner, of $27. Accompanied by a deputy sheriff Ratliff and his attorney came to Wichita Falls yesterday by automobile for the hearing.

Term Reports Issued Today

Hugh Porter, high school principal announced yesterday that the term reports will be given to the high school students at 1 p. m. today. Mr. Porter urges all the students to be at the building and to go immediately to their roll rooms so the reports can be given out without any delay. He further said the new term will begin Monday morning at 9 o'clock and asks that all high school pupils to assemble in their old roll rooms in order to be classified for the coming term.

Church Event Is Marked Success

Floral Heights Methodist church was well filled last night for the annual entertainment given by P. R. Cox, chairman of the board of stewards of the church.

Professor and Mrs. R. J. Kennedy of Greenville gave several numbers both vocal and instrumental. In addition to some duets by the couple Professor Kennedy gave a solo which was heartily appreciated by the audience. The music was written by Mrs. Kennedy's father, Dr. F. M. Lehman of Pasedona, Cal.

One of the features of the evening which met with applause was the reading by Professor Forman of Fort Worth. He read from selection by Sydney Porter known to the world as O. Henry.

Billy Whiskers

By Francis Montgomery.

When Billy was harnessed to the cart the boys drove over to Johnnie's and put the lawn mower in behind.

While they were doing this Miss Chatterbox rubbed herself against the wheels of the cart and purred to Billy:

"So you, a fine looking goat, have been traded off for a pair of smelly little goats, have you?"

"What do you mean?"

"Why, didn't you know that Master Bobbie got so disgusted with your behavior at the fair that he has traded you off for Paul's goats, and you are to go other there to live?"

"He has, has he? So he only values me as highly as that pair of measley goats, you say? Well watch me! I'll be so good and trot so fast he'll want me back, but by that time Paul will have become so attached to me that he would not sell me for any price. Just you watch!"

"I will, purred Chatterbox. "I hope you will come over and call on us once in a wshile, and tell us how you like it over there."

"All right, I will. And you must come over and see me, and tell me all the news, and how they like the new goats. You see you can get away better than I can because you are allowed to run, while in all probability I shall be tied in a stable. Then, too, you often come over that way to see your mother, and it is only a step to where Paul lives from there."

"That is so. Very well, then, I promise to come over and tell you all the news."

By this time the boys had the lawn mower in the back of the cart, and Paul was sitting up in front holding the lines and ready to start.

And to the surprise of Bobbie and Johnnie, Billy started up at a slight touch of the whip. Paul gave him and run down the lane and through the gate as straight as a string, never even trying to be mean in any way.

"Did you ever!" said Bobbie. "Just look how nice he goes for Paul. If he had gone that way for me I never would have sold him."

"That is all right, but just you wait," said Johnnie.

And Miss Chatterbox purred after him, "Just you wait!"

(Tomorrow you'll hear about the race the boys had with their goats.)

NEW CAR LINE ON AVENUE G

Franchise Is Granted By Council

Following a lengthy and somewhat stormy series of meetings by the city council, in session over the proposed street car line for the Southland addition, it was decided Thursday night to build the line along avenue G. Construction will begin Friday morning, with the Traction company hurrying work in order to complete the line as soon as possible.

The main debate over the proposed line came up over the fact that although everybody appeared to want a car line, each wanted it on another street. The Traction company agreed to build either on Avenue G or Avenue H, leaving the final decision for the city council. Then the trouble started, with a committee from each street in attendance upon the council, protesting.

Several meetings were necessary before the final decision. At one time a vote was held, with the majority in favor of Avenue H, but later the vote was retaken, with the majority favoring the construction of the line on avenue G. The action was taken over the protest of several representatives of the citizens who lived on the avenue. Each admitted that the line was necessary, but protested that it should be built on another street.

The line which will be constructed at once, is a loop through the addition, serving an entirely new territory and a great number of people.

Famous Tenor Has Silver Fox Farm Among Mountains

Henry Burr, famous tenor, derives much pleasure at his ranch in the Adirondack mountains, where he is a breeder of Silver Black foxes.

Mr. Burr has made a life study of singing, and has probably had his voice recorded more times than any other singer, but it is about cattle and chickens and police dogs and farming in general, and about breeding silver black foxes in particular that he is always ready to talk.

He is the leader of the eight famous Victor artists who will give a popular program of music, mirth and melody at the Palace theatre on Monday evening, January 15th. The other members of the concert party are Billy Murray, tenor-comedian; Albert Campbell, tenor; John Meyer, baritone; Frank Croxton, basso; Monroe Silver, the "Cohen" story teller; Rudy Wiedoeft, saxophonist; Frank Banta, pianist; the Sterling Trio and the Peerless Quartet. McConnell Bros., local Victor representatives, are sponsors of the affair, and a delightful musical evening is assured.

SULPHUR SAFE TO HEAL SKIN

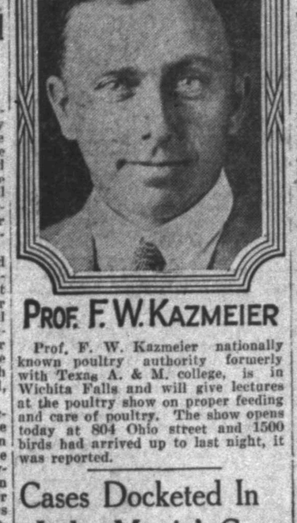

Broken Out Skin and Itching Eczema Helped Over Night

For unsightly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on face, neck, arms or body, you do not have to wait for relief from torture or embarrassment, declares a noted skin specialist. Apply a little Mentho-Suphur and improvement shows next day.

Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it healing begins. Only those who have had unsighly skin troubles can know the delight this Mentho-Sulphur brings. Even fiery, itching eczema is dried right up.

Get a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.—Adv.

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys, as You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoon in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jade Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Adv

M. K. & T. TO GET ENGINES

Will Resume Pre-War Basis

A statement was made yesterday by the local officials of the Missouri Kansas and Texas railroad that 55 new locomotives are being put in use on the Katy lines this mouth. According to H. G. Smith, general freight and passenger agent, the addition of the new engines will greatly increase the efficiency of the system, both in passenger and freight service.

In adition to the 55 entirely new locomotives that will be put into service soon, a great number of used engines which are being overhauled, will be in service again, and the M. K. & T. will be in a position to handle all traffic in pre-war style, said Mr. Smith. The new engines are all of the most modern type, and built especially for the traffic of the Katy line.
